Japan Sends New Troops to War

English Society Girl Seeks Thrill

FLIES FROM LONDON TO CAPE TOWN

Peggy Salaman, 18-year-old English society girl, has successfully completed a London to Cape Town flight. She said she was tired of everyday life at home. The flight took a little over five days, and once she and her co-pilot were forced down in the African jungle. Here she is in her holiday clothes.

Churchill Takes the Lead In Attempt to Speed Up Protection

Stresses Present No Time to Inquire Into Principle

LONDON, Nov. 11 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press staff writer)—Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Conservative chancellor of the exchequer, today made a declaration favoring protective tariffs, before the house of commons, while Conservative members of the national government cheered loudly.

Mr. Churchill urged that the present was no time for inquiries into the principles of free trade or protection. They had been discussed for a hundred years, he said, and argued that every member elected to the new house held a mandate from his constituency, the majority of which mandates, he thought, was for protection.

"My mandate was headed overwhelmingly in favor of a definite abandonment of free trade and a substantial scientific experiment in general tariffs. I believe a very large majority of the house would feel fully authorized by their constituents to come to a decision on that move. The country expects it," he declared. "The world expects it and a parliament, is assembled which, in its life-time, will assuredly enforce it. . . . We don't expect the government to present us with reports. We expect them to present us with legislation."

Mr. Churchill continued that the country could not afford to remain uncertain about its fiscal policy. A country might prosper under protection and it might prosper under free trade, but it could not prosper standing in no man's land. "I have been a free-trader all my life," he declared, "but have been forced during recent years to abandon that system."

Mr. Churchill's speech, delivered before a crowded house, aroused a great deal of comment in lobbies later. Declarations in favor of action on the protection issue are regarded widely as heralding a definite move to speed the pace in that direction, with Mr. Churchill prossibly at the head of the movement.

SILVER BOOM IS PUNCTURED

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—The speculative boom in silver was punctured today. Some bills on the metal left the puncture would soon be repaired, but traders generally turned somewhat hesitatant, pending a clearer outlook.

Silver bullion for immediate delivery tumbled 1⅞ cents to a price of 35⅝ cents, losing a substantial portion of the six per cent advance of the past week.

Trading in silver futures slackened in the national metal exchange, and prices were off ½ to ¾ of a cent at the close, or somewhat above the day's lowest levels. Transactions totalled 4,775,000 ounces, or 3,400,000 less than yesterday's.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (CP)—The Canadian dollar closed unchanged 90¼ cents on local foreign exchanges today, and the pound sterling ended the day 2 cents net lower at $3.78 for cable transfers.

PREMIER BENNETT MAY CROSS OCEAN

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (CP)—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett may leave this week for Europe for his first holiday in three years. Premier Bennett may sail early Saturday morning on the Acquitania from New York. The liner proceeds to Cherbourg and Southampton.

Most of the crew abandoned the vessel, and the steamers Empress of Asia and Derfflinger were standing by. Several British warships were speeding to the grounded vessel's assistance.

Is the Way Bruhn Interprets Ottawa Statement

NOBODY TO STARVE IN B.C. IN WINTER

Men in B.C. Camps Reduced From 11,000 to 7000 Already

VICTORIA, Nov. 11—Advices received by the provincial government today from Hon. R. W. Bruhn intimated that the interpretation of the federal authorities for the authorization of further work in British Columbia to a reasonable extent was that these projects should not exceed $500,000 a month for four months or a total of $2,000,000.

Members of the provincial government were not prepared to comment on this situation today stating that it was not yet known whether the additional authorization applied to the total costs of relief for the next four months, or what share of this cost would be borne by the federal government. The return of Hon. R. W. Bruhn is awaited to make this point clear.

HAVE APPROVED SUM

Meanwhile it was announced through Hon. J. W. Jones that the federal authorities had definitely approved of $3,250,000 of the British Columbia relief program, not including $2,536,713 authorized for municipal work. In addition British Columbia has been assured that its costs on direct relief will be matched by Ottawa, to the limit of real necessity, and no persons need go hungry this winter by reason of personal distress. Ottawa is also prepared to help this province finance its relief measures, by advances on account of its share of works already done, and through a loan if necessary.

Concrete action was reported by Mr. Jones in the reduction of men in British Columbia camps from a peak of close on 11,000 to 7000 now

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 11—Trapped on a railroad trestle by approaching trains, a 10-year-old boy was struck and killed and two other youths were drowned today when they leaped into the River Rouge.

"Gamma" Rays Come From Heart of Atom

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—A "surprising discovery" about the source of the "gamma" or health rays of radium was described here last night by Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner.

The rays emanate from the heart of matter instead of from its outer shell as hitherto believed.

This "heart" is the mysterious nucleus, or center, of an atom. Dr. Compton told how recent discoveries here and aboard are tearing away the veil of electrical forces which hitherto have cloaked this nucleus.

The result seems to be that man stands on the threshold of a new work of discovery.

Rinfret May Battle Houde for Mayoral Honors in Montreal

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 11.—(Wednesday)— "Hon. Fernand Rinfret versus Camillien Houde?

"The possibility of the former secretary of state tossing his hat into Montreal's political arena next April and battling with Mayor Houde for mayoralty is great, tempered by what will transpire within the next few days," the Montreal Gazette says this morning.

"At the caucus of Liberals at Ottawa November 23, Mr. Rinfret will discuss with the party's leaders the advisability of his entering Montreal's municipal ring. If there are no serious objections to his doing so—and it is hardly possible that there will be any—then Mr. Rinfret will be in the fight.", the paper says.

JOHN HOLMES IS BURIED AT TRAIL

TRAIL, B. C., Nov. 11—Burial services were held for John Holmes at St. Andrews church today with Rev. L. A. Morrant officiating.

Tolmie to Re-submit His Proposals for Development of Empire Trade

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 11. (CP)—Premier S. F. Tolmie will re-submit to the British government the proposals that he made in 1929 at the request of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas for a development of inter-Empire trade. The changes that have taken place since that time in the sentiment of Great Britain toward protection, and the demand of the nation for a new economic arrangement, coupled with the announcement that the minister for the dominions will shortly start on a tour of investigation of Empire trade, Premier Tolmie believes justify him in seeking further consideration of the suggestions he made two years ago.

While his memorandum to the British government realt primarily with the development of trade between British Columbia and the United Kingdom, it was pointed out that such a policy as suggested was applicable to the whole of the Empire.

"It is my intention," said Premier Tolmie, "to write to Mr. Thomas and respectfully call his attention to the memorandum, and request that it be given further consideration in the light of the developments that have taken place since it was first submitted."

WESTERN CANADA HONORS SOLDIER DEAD IN FRANCE

Quiet, Whole-Hearted Ceremonies Take Place All Over Country

WINNIPEG, Nov. 11 (CP)—Western Canada observed Remembrance Day today quietly, whole-heartedly. Thirteen years after signing of the armistice, thousands of citizens, from Winnipeg west to Victoria, in large cities and small towns, paid tribute to memory of the war dead.

Business was completely suspended in Regina, Saskatoon and Calgary; many stores in other cities were closed, though some remained open for business. No move had been taken tonight to prosecute non-observers by the Saskatchewan or British Columbia governments. Both governments made it plain a few days ago closing of stores could be compulsory on Remembrance Day.

ALL OBSERVE SILENCE

At 11 o'clock this morning all four western provinces joined in two minutes of silence the interval in many cases occurring during solemn memorial services at cenotaphs. Lieutenant-Governor H. E. Munroe of Saskatchewan delivered a Remembrance Day message to thousands of Regina citizens, including hundreds of war veterans.

Calgary's returned men joined with 6000 men, women and children in a service at the city's cenotaph in Memorial park. The parade to the park was the longest in the history of Calgary. The address of tribute was delivered by Rt. Rev. L. Ralph Sherman, bishop of Calgary.

Veterans and thousands of citizens attended memorial services at Vancouver and Victoria. At sea, all ships out of Vancouver stilled their engines at 11 o'clock for two minutes, while officers and crews stood silently at attention.

Grandi Tells Fellow Shipmates Armistice Should Be Inspiring

S.S. CONTE GRANDE, Nov. 11—Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, who first proposed the one-year armaments truce, to which 40 nations have adhered, under the auspices of the League of Nations, today sailed for another truce in the discords among the world's people.

This Armistice Day, he said, in a brief speech to the crew and third cabn passengers—most of them Italians—should inspire all countries to unite their strength in the cause of peace and prosperity.

President Hoover, whom he is on the way to see, he described as a man has given the world "faith" to conquer its troubles.

It was a double celebration for the Italians—the anniversary of the allied armistice and the birthday of King Victor Emanuel. Italy celebrated its Armistice Day last week in commemoration of the end of hostilities with Austria.

Italian Steamship Lines Are Merged

ROME, Nov. 11.—(AP)—A double steamship merger involving all the principal Italian lines and designed to coordinate sailings and permit a wider range of activities was officially announced today.

The three big lines operating between Italy and America—The Lloyd Sabaudo, Navigazione Generale Italiana and Cosulich— are joined in one company called "Italia" and lines operating in the Mediterranean are merged under the Lloyd Triestino banner.

Armaments Root of War, Says Borden

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (CP)—The menace of armaments is the very root of war and by war mankind has been martyred, said Sir Robert Borden, Canada's war-time prime minister, in a Remembrance Day message here tonight. More than ever the menace of armaments oppressed the world today, he asserted.

VICTORIA SEA SCOUT RESCUES DROWNING GIRL

John Kirkendale Saves Chinese Girl Then Disappears in Crowd

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 11.—While a multitude of people paid tribute to the illustrious dead at the cenotaph this morning, a Sea Scout performed an illustrious act of heroism, unseen by the thousands but observed by a few, who were able to sound the praises of this boy hero, John Kirkendale, who rescued a young Chinese girl from the waters of the inner harbor.

Violet Chong, aged 12, accompanied by her sisters, had visited Parliament square to listen to the memorial service. As the crowd was dispersing she expressed the wish to see the fishing boats in the harbor from the causeway float. Her sisters, however, insisted that she return home, but she managed to become separated from them and wandered down to the float.

On the float, also gazing out over the harbor, were two young members of the Navy league, an elderly man, and a woman with her small son.

WAS FIRST TO NOTICE

John Kirkendale was the first to notice what had happened. Violet had stepped on to a sloping part of the float, slipped, and plunged into the water. The rubber boots she wore quickly filled with water and dragged her down.

The Kirkendale boy jumped into a nearby boat, snatched at some floats, and paddled the craft to where the girl was struggling to keep afloat, and dragged her into the boat. Willing hands helped to transfer the frightened child from the boat to the float.

A woman intended to ask the boy his name, but he fled up the steps. His identity, however, was discovered through the other Sea Scout.

Aged War Veteran Dies While He Is Honoring Comrades

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 11.—Armistice day spelt death for this city's oldest war veteran. He died while singing a hymn in memory of his comrades who fell in the Great War.

S. H. Franklin, 73, veteran of the Great War and the South African war, while attending the public service here, has last call and succumbed to a heart attack.

The old veteran marched behind his comrades to the cenotaph. He seemed in good health. Shortly before 11 o'clock he was seen to fall. A nearby lady removed her coat and covered him. He was rushed to the hospital, but died on the way.

An inquest will not be necessary. Mr. Franklin is survived by one son and two daughters, all resident of this city. He had resided in Qu'Appelle eight years and in this city for 15.

Italian Diplomatic Post in the U.S. Is Blasted by Dynamite

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—Police ascribed the dynamiting of the Italian vice-consulate here early today to internal politics in Italy, but were without a clue to the perpetrators tonight.

The vice-consul, Fortunato Tiscar, and his wife, had narrow escapes from death.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiscar, both in their seventies, were asleep when the explosion occurred. They were not seriously injurd.

Windows in practically very home in the block were shattered by the blast. Police estimate that at least 25 sticks of dynamite were placed on the front porch of the building.

Trouble in Orient Does Not Disturb Pacific Shipping

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Recent disturbances in Manchuria have not disturbed normal trans-Pacific passenger freight traffic of this coast, executives of the Dollar and N. Y. K. Lines, said today.

Raw silk cargoes will be docked at Pacific coast ports by twenty-two ships during December, the Silk association of America announced today. Eleven ships will dock here, five at Seattle, three at Vancouver and three at Los Angeles.

AXE MURDERER KILLS HIS OWN SMALL CHILD

Becomes Violently Insane During Girl's Visit at Prison

KILLED WIFE AND MOTHER-IN-LAW

Used Hammer to Beat Life Out of Innocent 13-Year-Old

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Nov. 11—George Bamford, who 13 years ago killed his wife and his mother-in-law with an axe, became violently insane today while being visited at the state farm by his 13-year-old daughter, Irene, and beat the child so badly that she died within a few hours.

Accompanied by her uncle, Frank G. Bamford of Methuen, and other relatives, the girl sat chatting with her father in a visiting room of the department for criminally insane, when her parent suggested they call upon Superintendent William T. Hanson. As they walked through a corridor, Bamforth dragged the child into a closet and attacked her with a hammer.

Her screams brought Frank Glasakas, an attendant, who overpowered Bamforth, but the girl's skull has been fractured by four crushing blows. She was taken to the Brockton hospital and died soon after her arrival. Meanwhile, Bamforth, raving mad, was placed in a straightjacket, in a padded cell.

ROBERTSON SEES BRIGHTER DAYS FOR CANADIANS

Federal Minister of Labor thinks Worst of Depression Is Past

TORONTO, Nov. 11 (CP)—The worst of the depression is now past, according to Senator Gideon Robertson, Dominion minister of labor, who spoke here today at an Armistice Day memorial service in the city council chamber. He based his belief on the definite improvement in agricultural market conditions during the past few weeks.

Supporting his contention, he outlined the change in outlook in western Canada during the past 30 days. There were signs of improvement in industry, in transportation and in mining, he declared. Canada was meeting her tasks and responsibilities just as manfully today as she did in "the great war years," he said.

Two Lose Lives in Gas Fumes, Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 11. (CP)—Gas fumes took the lives of a man and a woman in a rooming house here. The bodies were found today when the odor of escaping gas was detected by the landlady, Mrs. Conny A. Brown.

The woman is Mrs. Gertrude McGillivery, 42, of Toronto. The man is believed to be John Allen. The couple had been dead for some time, and it is believed they were asphyxiated during the night.

According to the landlady's story, the man came to the house last Saturday, and rented a room. He told her he would return Monday with his luggage, but did not arrive until yesterday, she said. No one knew when Mrs. McGillivery entered the building.

DRY WEATHER IN U. S. IS KILLING WINTER GRAINS

Damage in Half of Winter Wheat Belt Is Serious; South Is Bad

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11. —(AP)—Persistent lack of fall rain has gripped southern and southwestern states in another drought that is killing winter grains, drying streams and feeding forest fires. Damage to winter wheat in the western half of the wheat belt, especially west Kansas, has become serious.

The weather bureau said today the condition of wheat there is "poor to very poor, with little growth and not much up."

"Moisture," the bureau added, "is also needed in Oklahoma, while in Texas progress and condition of grains are poor, except where rain fell last month."

This damage, topping a 12 per cent reduction in farmers' intentions to plant this fall, has been an important factor in the recent rise in wheat prices of 20 cents a bushel above the season's lows. Private estimates place the acreage curtailment in the southwest at between 18 and 22 per cent.

The southern drought centers in Georgia and South Carolina. It was intensified last week by a complete absence of rain. Pastures have dried up and stock water is low from Maryland and Kentucky southward.

LITTLE PROGRESS TOWARD PEACE IS CURRIE'S MESSAGE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 11.—(By the Canadian Press)—Armistice Day 1931, 13 years after the war "which was to end war", found little real progress towards the goal of peace, General Sir Arthur Currie, commander-in-chief of the Canadian corps in France, declared in a speech on disarmament here tonight.

Hope that had sustained the combatants during the dark days of the war, that their suffering would ensure that their children and their children's children would never have to undergo a similar horible experience, had been shattered. "The prospects of permanent peace are no more assured today than they were in 1918," he stated.

LEGION REUNION PAINTS GAY SIDE OF ANNIVERSARY

Approximately 400 Members and Ladies Enjoy Evenings Festivites

PRESIDENT HOLLAND ACTS TOASTMASTER

Mayor Morgan and Archdeacon Graham Speak; Evening of Dancing

It was the gay side of the Armistice that was exemplified Wednesday night, when the Canadian Legion concluded the observance of Nelson's first Remembrance day with its annual reunion and banquet, for members and their ladies and a few official guests. Approximately 350 were present at the banquet, but the number of revellers was increased too 400 fairly early in the evening.

Handling of the banquet required both halls, over 300 persons sitting at the tables that filled the main hall, while the overflow was accommodated in the small hall. Patriotic decoration adorned the walls and a spirit of gaiety and revel prevailed, the orchestra in the gallery played gay airs, while the white uniformed waitresses of Mrs. E. Edgington, the Legion's official caterer, served the tables.

President Joe Holland was toastmaster, at the head table with him being guests and members of the executive and their ladies. As usual a silent toast to the comrades sleeping under the sod in distant lands preceded the meal.

When the toast list was reached, the toast to "The King" was duly honored, with the siging of the national anthem in rousing fashion.

MESSAGES OF GREETING

A telegram of greetings from Victoria, from D. O. Thomas, late auditor of the branch and one of the first presidents of the old G.W.V.A., read by President Holland, evoked applause. "D. O." sent "Greetings to all comrades and friends."

A letter of regret at inability to be present and conveying warm greetings, from Brigadier- General V W. Odlum, formerly of Nelson, and comander of the 11th brigade, which embraced both the 54th and 102nd battalions, was similarly welcomed. Only inability to leave Vancouver in the present critical times prevented General Odlum from accepting the branch's invitation to help it celebrate the first Remembrance Day.

LAST DEBT CLEARED

John Teague, chairman of the finance committee, reported that the Legion now did not owe a five-cent piece, the $3000 obligation at the bank for the structural improvements made early in the year being retired since the present committee took office. He did not suggest that the committee had done this, a full share of credit being due to Secretary-Manager George Paton. It was hoped in the future to set a proportion of revenue as a sinking fund against extraordinary demands that might arise. This report was the signal for enthusiastic cheers.

MAYOR FELICITATES

Mayor J. P. Morgan, who was pleased to be "at this splendid gathering and banquet," said after hearing of nothing but the depression for months, it was pleasing to hear that the Legion was one institution that didn't owe anything. To look around the hall, one would not think there was any depression in Nelson.

He declared it to be a pleasure to be among those he knew and respected

The mayor was given a warm reception

Ven Archdeacon Fred H. Graham, described by President Holland as "our champion for Armistice Day," evoked laughter with his remark that for three-quarters of an hour he had been assiduously creating a private sinking fund, and had been having a good time.

ARCHDEACON PROUD MAN

He asserted he was a proud man indeed this night, for, for the greater part of the 13 years since the Armistice, he had contended in season and out of season, and by every channel and organization open to him, that the only possible day on which to keep Armistice was November 11. (Loud splause.)

The first people he approached were the representatives of the organized return men, and next he approached the I.O.D.E. and through those two excellent organizations the idea spread, until after 13 years for the first time a holiday set apart because it was "Armistice Day" was being celebrated.

And the next thing was to guard this holiday. It was a case of holding what had been won, on the old British principle of "What we have we'll hold." "Let us see," he admonished, "that this day, signified for the event it commemorates, is never forgotten, but is perpetuated to carry its lesson to our children and to our children's children."

DISARMAMENT PETITION

The archdeacon said he wished to emphasize one other thing. He said he was a convinced and ardent supporter of the League of Nations and he was convinced that in spite the League of Nations had done more in its life so far to avert war of all the criticisms levelled at it, than could possibly have been anticipated.

At the present time the League of Nations, though organizations in each country, was circulating a petition for disarmament by mutual agreement, which was the only way disarmament could be accomplished, with the aim that "our children" would not face a burden of armaments piling up till of themselves they nearly caused war.

He said a copy of this petition for use of members of the Legion had been left with "your very capable secretary," and he urged the members to sign it.

President Holland thanked the archdeacon on behalf of the Legion for his splendid support on the question of Armistice Day, and expressed the hope that he would be present at many future reunions of the Legion.

PRESIDENT GIVES WELCOME

The final speaker was President Holland himself, who briefly welcomed the members and guests, and thanked the members for the great turn-out at the public commemoration and at devotional exercises at St. Saviour's.

What happened, the comrades who had gone before must never be forgotten.

Turning to the current affairs of the Legion, he asked the membership to remember that the Legion was "their club," and that it was there for them to make use of.

Also if they had any problems to be taken up, the Legion had a very capable secretary who would be happy to assist them. The office of the Legion, he suggested, was the place to bring them up, and not Baker street.

He was loudly applauded.

HALL CLEARED

This concluded the toasts, and during a half hour's intermission, with scores of men assisting the catering staff, the hall was cleared for dancing.

The dancing lasted for the rest of the evening, not concluding till after 1 a.m.

Miss Tina Thomson gave some pleasing specialty dances — the "Sword Dance" and the "Highland Fling," or which Piper Ernie Welch played, and a tap-dance for which the orchestra played.

W. A. Gow and others divided the duties of master-of-ceremonies.

Throughout the evening L. Pickard, W. M. Wood and Alex. McKinnon had charge of the door.

All arangements for the reunion were in charge of the entertainment committee, under Chairman W. A. Gow, in cooperation with the executive. This included the attractive decorations, which embraced one beautiful and suggestive grouping, beneath the draped portrait of the King being the golden motto, "Memories," on a black background, the group being completed by the date, "November 11," beneath.

LEDINGHAM AND McDOUGALL LAND TWO BIG SALMON

AINSWORTH, B. C., Nov. 11. — Taking advantage of a 21 pound salmon and another one of 18 pounds, when the finny dwellers attached themselves to the ends of their lines, W. Ledingham and C. F. McDougall of Nelson proceeded to land their piscatory prizes. These were the largest catches made around here for some time. Mr. Ledingham caught the 21 pounder. R. Bell also of Nelson was with Mr. Ledingham and Mr. McDougall at the time.

The fish were sent to Nelson tonight by mail stage.

War Invades Peace Atmosphere of World As 13th Armistice Day Becomes History

Commemorating the end of the world's most colossal armed conflict, the 18th Armistice day passed into history in an atmosphere inflamed by armed fighting and lulled by words of peace.

Tokyo—Emperor Hirohito ordered a fresh brigade of troops to replace detachments from Korea, and four destroyers sent to Manchuria, where a struggle already has cost the lives of 1197 Chinese and Japanese soldiers.

London—While the King watched from the windows of Whitehall, the Prince of Wales laid a wreath at the foot of the cenotaph in obeisance of Britain's war dead. A prevailing cold wind kept King George indoors.

HOOVER WARNS WORLD

Washington — Armistice services were observed and President Hoover in an address warned that peace was not assured 13 years after the close of the Great War, and that it could not be maintained by resolution and injunction alone. A wreath from the Canadian minister, Hon. W. D. Herridge, was placed at the foot of the Canadian cross in Arlington cemetery.

Geneva—League of Nations officials looked hopefully toward the next meeting of the council on Monday for a solution to the Manchurian dispute.

Paris — President Doumer, whose four sons were sacrificed to the war, placed his token of homage on the tomb of the unknown soldier of France at the arch of triumph. General Gouraud, one-armed military governor of the city, rekindled the flame at the tomb and buglers sounded "Taps".

NON-OBSERVANCE

Berlin — Germany dedicated the day to anathema of what she regards as the "war-guilt lie" in the Versailles treaty. Vienna did likewise, and the Balkan capitals ranged with the central powers in the war were without official observance.

Moscow — Deep in her five-year plan, Russia had spent her patriotism in marking the 13th birthday of the October revolution, and had no time for Armistice.

Half-way across the Atlantic—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi said it was a day "twice dear to the hearts of Italians." Down in Buenos Aires Allied flags swung in the breeze, and at Rio de Janeiro Brazilian sailors stood at attention for two minutes.

Nanking—A mob of some 3000 men and women students paraded the streets of the Chinese capital demanding that war be declared on Japan and economic relations be severed. Martial law was in effect in Shanghai and Hankow, and a virtual state of siege existed in Tientsin.

TWO MILLIONS WILL BE SPENT ON B.C. RELIEF

in these places, transients, it was stated, would be put to work where necessary on the transcanadian highway. Married men it is assumed, will be cared for by the municipalities, and single men by the province. Insofar as British Columbia is concerned these proposals, it is forseen, will mean the sifting of the basis of relief from work to direct relief, with little fresh work likley to be authorized or undertaken.

LITTLE MORE WORK

"The situation," said Mr. Jones, "is that the federal government has approved of provincial works totalling $3,250,000 and of municipal works of $2,536,713 and has agreed to pay its share of any direct relief that is found necessary. We are also prepared to pay our share of all necessary direct relief. Therefore nobody in British Columbia should go hungry this winter. It is doubtful, however, that the province will finance much more work. On the matter of work we must await the return of Mr. Bruhn," Mr. Jones concluded.

Remembrance Night Is Marked by the First Snow Here

Remembrance Day was marked by the first snowfall of the season in Nelson, the snow starting shortly before midnight, with a west wind.

The snow fell steadily, melting away on the pavements, but turning white any wooden sidewalks or anything of wood.

Monday morning there were flurries of snow up the hill, but only of a momentary character, and not enough to whiten anything.

DIARY REVEALS YOUTH'S FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

Skeleton and a Wolf-Gnawn Rifle Fill in the Cold Facts of Tragedy in Far North

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 11. —A tragic story of an 18-year-old English schoolboy, who sought adventure and experience, only to find solitary and creeping death in Canada's far northwest, is unfolded in the fragmentary entries found in the diary of John Noel Patch Bennett, whose bleached skeleton was found in the wastes of the Pine Pass district, 150 miles west of Grand Prairie.

Bennett left a well-to-do home in Coventry, England, where he would have inherited a substantial fortune on attaining his majority, in the determination to carve out a career for himself. He aspired to enter the British diplomatic service, and his trek into the northwest, unaccompanied, was for the purpose of gaining a first-hand insight into one of the great hinterlands of the empire.

His skeleton, a wolf-gnawed rifle, a pack-sack, a few shreds of clothing, and his diary were found recently by Kelly Sunderman, veteran Hythe, Alta., guide, who had sought the missing youth for seven months.

The diary, which has been sent to Bennett's relatives in England, tells a tragic story of one who utterly lacking in knowledge of woodcraft, pitted his strength and courage against the rigors of winter in the northern wilds, and lost.

On October 27, last, the youth wrote that his journey appeared a hopeless one, but that he was "carrying on," although the rain had soaked his bedding and he had been unable to dry it before the freeze-up which followed.

On October 29, his horse fell in the river, and he partially dried his bedding at a nearby cabin. On October, 30, drifting before a cold wind, he wandered aimlessly, the trail having been obscure by a fall of snow.

On November 1, Bennett wrote that his journey seemed hopeless, but that he still relied on Providence to see him through. He was still undaunted on November 2, when he lost his horse, axe and gun, and, after a 24-hour search, succeeded in recovering them. Two days later he found that he was heading in the wrong direction, and was forced to retrace his steps.

He had now exhausted his horse's food supplies, and on November 5, he records, the animal collapsed from exhaustion, and it was only by the use of every ounce of his own waning strength that he was able to raise the animal to its feet again.

For the next 48 hours, the youth wandered, without sleep or shelter, through a downpour of chilling rain, which froze almost as it fell. On November 8 he lost his axe, on which he depended for cutting firewood; and on November 9 he was forced to camp wet and fireless, his matches being too wet to light and his blankets soaked.

On November 10, still without fire for either heat or cooking, he shot a wild duck, and ate it raw. His other food supplies had dwindled by now to a tin of beans and a small supply of flour.

On November 11 he lost his rifle, and spent considerable time in seeking it, but finally succeeded. Just before dusk, reduced to a diet of raw flour, he reluctantly decided to abandon his horse, and to return to an unoccupied cabin, in which he had spent one recent night. He left a note on the horse's bridle, stating his plight, giving directions as to the course he had taken, and asking for aid.

The State of Connecticut has just passed a bill requiring garage men to secure written permission of the owner for automobile repairs costing more than $50.

CLOSING OF RELIEF WORK CENSURES AS RIDICULOUS EXCUSE

Independent Party at Silverton Demands Action in Letter to Minister

With families and single men at a point where they have no money and with the storekeepers demand cash, the Silverton Independent Labor party held a meeting Saturday, November 7, and compiled a letter asking the minister of public works for immediate action in relief camps or as a second resort to be given the dole.

"At a well attended meeting of the Independent Labor party held in Silverton on Saturday, Nov. 7, the present serious condition of the working class in the Slocan district was thoroughly discussed.

"We consider that the excuse offered for the sudden closing of relief work was ridiculous. If there has been abuse of the present system and those who did not need relief were obtaining it, the whole matter could be examined into while the work was in progress and those sponging on the public fund. Surely you have plenty of officials to make such an investigation, in fact the meeting considered that a whole lot of officials now drawing good pay could be dispensed with or paid relief wages.

"By this shut down you have lost valuable time in November, when the weather conditions have been favorable for working, both from the working man's point of view and also from that of the general public whose money will not get as good results in December and January.

"The storekeepers now demand cash and a great many single men and families are right up against it.

"We demand action and satisfaction. Either the relief camps must be reopened promptly or many here must be given the dole. We expect a reply by Wednesday evening."

DE RIVERA'S SON IS RELEASED

MADRID, Nov. 11. (AP)—Juan Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the late dictator, was released tonight after he had been held for investigation of charges of anti-Republican activity.

Reports that his arrest resulted from a Monarchist plot were exaggerated, Angel Calarza, director of public safety, said. Calarza also denied that the arrest had any connection with "anti-Republican activities" of Commander Francisco Rosales and Andres de la Marisa, a priest of the Madrid cathedral, both of whom were still in jail.

Hampton Moore was elected mayor of Philadelphia.

ROSSLAND PAYS TRIBUTE TO ALL DEAD SOLDIERS

Father A. K. McIntyre, V. G. Makes Plea for Continuation of Peace

ROSSLAND, B. C., Nov. 11.—"As long as this memorial shaft stands here in Rossland, the people of this city will not lack inspiration for doing noble deeds and leading self-sacrificing lives," declared Rev. Father A. K. McIntyre, V.G., at the memorial service of the Canadian Legion held around the monument erected in honor of Rossland's fallen heroes.

The speaker went on to say that it was not enough to pay tribute to the dead: we should honor the living by still working and planning for peace, that never again should self-sacrifices of life and resources be necessary to save our nation or any other nation from destruction.

Mayor W. A. Turner, himself a member of the Legion, spoke in similar vein.

Members of the Rossland branch of the Canadian Legion and the pupils of the high school and MacLean school marched in a body to attend the services, which were held at 6 o'clock.

Wreaths from these bodies, in addition to private tokens, were placed on the monument.

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Sir John Simon, new foreign secretary, is going to Paris next Monday for the League of Nations meeting concerning Manchuria and it was announced that U. S. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes will observe the proceedings for the United States.

LOOK FOR DEFINITE PLAN

In London the opinion is that the issue will be brought down to earth at this session and some sort of definite plan for dealing with the situation in Manchuria may be evolved.

One way out, it is suggested here, would be for the League to appoint an international investigating commission whose work in the far east would require several months during which the belligerents might cool off and the dispute might be settled by peaceful negotiations.

Failing this, an alternative would be an attempt to force Japanese obedience to the League's dictates, but no authoritative commentator would say he thought the League was likely to adopt such a course.

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Japanese troops were reported advancing north of Taitsihar, "possibly with the intention of preventing Soviet interference" in the trouble between China and Japan, Gen. Mah Chan-Shan is quoted as saying in a Daily Mail dispatch from Harbin.

MISS GRAY GETS SICK LEAVE FOR THREE MONTHS

Miss Leslie Will Be in Charge of Hospital; Get Temporary Instructor

DELAY DIETITIAN TO HOLD SURVEY

House Committee Created; Board to Report to Membership on Progress

Action on many matters of first importance was taken by the board of directors of Kootenay Lake General hospital Tuesday night, the bulk of them arising out of the monthly report of the superintendent, Miss K. Ethel Gray, whose place at the board's table was taken for the evening by Miss M. J. Leslie, assistant superintendent, in Miss Gray's absence through illness.

The board granted three months leave of absence to Miss Gray, whose illness, Dr. D. W. McKay informed the board, was attributed by her doctor solely to her unremitting work for the institution since she took charge in the summer. It is understood she will go to the Mayo institute at Rochester, Minn., for treatment, and it is considered likely a couple of months will restore her to full health.

TEMPORARY DISPOSITION

During Miss Gray's absence Miss Leslie will be acting superintendent, and Miss V. E. Eidt, senior supervisor, will be acting assistant superintendent. To fill the temporary gap in the teaching staff of the nurses training school, an instructor will be ngagd at $75 a month and board to fill in during Miss Gray's absence. This instructor will be secured through Miss Randall, provincial supervisor of nurses. All these arrangements were in accordance with the recommendations in Miss Gray's monthly report.

At the board session a month ago Miss Gray was asked whether she would be willing to have her staff of supervisors reduced by one in order to have a dietitian, and she expressed a willingness if the dietitian could be secured in no other way. Her report Tuesday night, however, stated that on mature reflection she could not concent to a reduction in the supervising staff. At the same time she adhered to her recommendation for a dietitian.

DOCTOR URGES MOVE

Dr. McKay, as medical superintendent for the quarter, was asked his views as to the need for a dietitian, and he declared such a member of the staff absolutely essential, first in the interest of the patients, next as a link between the doctors and the kitchen and for the benefit of the nurses in training, and lastly in the internal economy of the hospital, it usually turning out that the waste saved by a hospital dietitian was more than equal to her salary.

Every member of the board without exception declared in favor of the principle of having a dietitian if the board could stand the expense, but some directors urged first making an investigation to see if the money could be found.

It was eventually decided, practically unanimously, to defer the question of a dietitian one month, while a committee should make a survey of possible avenues of saving.

President C. F. McHardy appointed John Cartmel and H. M. Whimster as this committee.

COMMITTEE CHANGES

Another recommendation of the superintendent was for the monthly visiting committee of two members to be converted into a house committee holding office for six months. This also was approved, and A. D. Emory, Mrs. L. M. Varner and John Cartmel were appointed by President McHardy as the first house committee.

The board also approved another of the suggestions, which was for a member of the Women's auxiliary to serve on the educational committee. This will come before the auxiliary at its session later this week. Mrs. J. T. Andrews reported that the committee had come to the conclusion that it would be well to have one of the doctors also serve on it, but that Miss Gray had not yet reported whether she had obtained one to serve.

TO LOOK INTO PRESSURE PLAN

J. A. Smith, one of the board, submitted a plan worked out by D. Johnson, a Vancouver engineer, for installing a steam pressure auxiliary at the hospital, at a cost of $1300 provided a local boiler available at $300 was used.

A committee composed of J. A. Irving, R. D. Barnes and G. A. Brown was appointed to go into this matter and report at the next meeting.

In the course of the session Dr. McKay declared that never in Nelson's history had the doctors been so pleased with the hospital staff, patients being received as sick, and given efficient and considerate treatment. When their patients left the hospital they invariably praised it.

Mrs. J. T. Andrews, at another stage, declared that the spirit of the "girls" was splendid, and that the pupil nurses were never before so keen, and so full of spirit for their work.

TO REPORT TO MEMBERS

Six months having elapsed since the annual meeting, at which for the first time the Kootenay Lake General Hospital association had a very large general membership of citizens, it was decided to convoke a general meeting of the association, together with the newly formed Women's auxiliary, to hear reports on the work of the past half year.

Those present were President C. F. McHardy, J. A. Irving, A. D. Emory, Mrs. J. T. Andrews, George Johnstone, Alderman J. B. Gray, Mrs. L. M. Varner, H. M. Whimster, R. D. Barnes, G. A. Brown, J. A. Smith, John Cartmel, Mayor J. P. Morgan, Dr. D. W. McKay, Miss M. J. Leslie, and Secretary J. C. Forbes.

NELSON'S INITIAL REMEBRANCE DAY NOTABLY OBSERVED

Public Excerises at War Memorial Participated in by Community

EX-SERVICEMEN MAKE RECORD WITH PARADE

Three Bands Take Part in Cremonial; Mayor Speaks; Wreaths Deposited

Nelson's community observance Wednesday of Canada's first official Remembrance Day, on the thirteenth anniversay of the Armistice that ended the Great War, was notable both for the complete cessation of business in conformity with the spirit of the act creating the new national holiday, and for the wide and general participation of organizations and of the general public in the public exercises of the day, held at the war memorial at the hour of the taking effects of the Armistice.

The ex-servicemen, governmental authorities, patriotic organizations, and schools were all in attendance, as well as the public at large, at the community service paying honor to the memory of the fallen. A cloudless sky and brilliant sunshine was the setting for one of the largest functions of the kind since Nelson has been commemorating the Armistice anniversary.

ORGANIZATIONS TAKING PART

Owing without doubt to the fact of the day being a holiday, the ex-service men's parade was the largest on record, even exceeding that of the Armistice Day when the war memorial was unveiled, and 110 members of Nelson branch of the Canadian Legion and unaffiliated ex-service men marched in column of fours from the Canadian Legion, via Kootenay, Baker, Josephine, and Vernon, to the war memorial, led by the Canadian Legion Bugle band and the Kootenay Kilities Pipe band, Joe Holland, president of the Legion, being in command. In addition of course were the ex-servicemen in the three bands.

Ex-servicemen were drawn up in fours facing the memorial, while the Bugle band took station to the east of it on the central boulevard, with the city council next and then the city band, while the Kilties took station on the west of it. Facing the war memorial from the rear, on the north roadway, were the school children, the Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs, and the Girl Guides and Brownies. Kokanee chapter, I. O. D. E., and other organizations were on the south sidewalk. the general public extented for nearly a block along the north and south sidewalks and the roadway unoccupied by the organizaolons.

Three verses of the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," led by the city band, opened the exercises, just before 11o'clock.

THE REQUIEMS

The at 11 the fire siren on Baker street sounded, announcing the Armistice hour, and during the two minutes it sounded all heads were bowed in silent tribute to the fallen, the ex-servicemen standing at attention uncovered.

Following this, the bugles and drums of the Bugle band sounded the "Last Post," and after this requiem was concluded, the Kilties took up the story, rendering Lord Lavat's "Lament."

Invocation by Rev. W. C. Mawhinney followed.

Mayor J. P. Morgan then spoke briefly on the significance of the occasion.

MAYOR MORGAN SPEAKS

"Veterans and citizens of Canada—Just a few remarks on why we are gathered here, "he said.

"I wish to thank the citizens for turning out so splendidly on this anniversary of the Armistice that ended the Great War, in honor to the men who gave their lives to make it possible for us to enjoy the freedom that we have today.

"This is the first time that the anniversary of the Armistice has been proclaimed a separate national holiday, to be observed by the people of Canada, and I am very pleased that this day has been set apart in this way for this purpose.

"I think we should train the coming generation to keep this day as a Remembrance Day, and I feel it is the duty of all citizens to cooperate to see that this anniversary is kept perpetually in remembrance of those who gave their lives for their country in the Great War whose victorious ending we now comemorate."

The bugles then sounded the "Long Reveille," the call to awake.

WREATHS DEPOSITED

Depositing of wreaths was then in order. President Joe Holland deposited the wreath for the legion. Mrs. William Waldie, second vice-president, and Mrs. W. S. King, regent, deposited that of Kokanee chapter, I. O. D. E. Rose City chapter, Order of Eastern Star, was represented by a cross deposited by Mrs. M. H. Maloney, matron, and Mrs. H. E. Dill, associate matron. Secretary R. G. Joy acted for the Sons of England in this affectionate task, and Mrs. Arthur Smith, president, and Mrs. T. J. January, vice-president, for the Daughters of England. There were also, then and later, a number of family mementoes.

During this function G. K. Ashby and a file of veterans went down to the city hall and hung a wreath beneath the tablet to the late Major Percy Rigby.

"God Save the King," led by the City band, brought the memorial exercises to a conclusion.

The legion parade was then reformed with the Kilties and the Buble band leading, and proceeded through the be-flagged streets to St. Saviour's pro-cathedral for the church service of the day.

Bandmaster Fred Hartwig led the Bugle band, Walter Fyfe was in command of the Kilties, and Alderman Ross Fleming was acting bandmaster of the City band.

SYNOPSIS

Lovely Fanchon Meredith is wanted by the San Francisco police in connection with a murder committed by her sweetheart, "Tony". Fanchon did not know he was a gunman. She escapes by airplane under the name of "Smith." Aboard is Evelyn Howard whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii. Evelyn is going to New York to live with her aunt, the wealthy Mrs. Carstairs, whom she never saw. The plane crashes and Fanchon is the only survivor. To get away from Tony and the past, she goes to the Carstairs home as "Evelyn." A strong bond of affection grows between Mrs. Carstairs and her "niece." Collin Carstairs is at first antagonistic because of his "cousin's" Hawaiian escapades and her self-righteous attitude when his mother offered aid, but Fanchon's sincerity overcomes his objections. They fall in love. After a happy summer at Southampton, Fanchon makes her debut in New York. Collin, though realizing their relationship is a barrier, cannot resist professing his love. Fanchon cannot acknowledge hers without revealing her identity. A few days later, a threatening note comes from Tony. She visits him and repulses his advances. Tony informs Fanchon that Evelyn is alive but has lost her memory. He threatens to expose Fanchon unless she introduces him to Mrs. Carstairs as "Cesare Gilli."

CHAPTER XXI

She said scornfully:

"Your word against mine? You have no proof. Or if you have, it is the sort of proof which would place you, yourself, in the hands of the police."

"I think," he told her, with a certain deadly courtesy, "that you don't mean that. Or haven't thought ahead. For word of her niece, Mrs. Carstairs might be quite willing to keep my presence in New York from San Francisco headquarters."

Fanchon said, fighting for time,

"But Evelyn—out there—in an institution!"

"She isn't out there," he told her gently, "she is here with me. I was permitted to bring her here. She is perfectly harmless. I have a woman to take care of her. A perfectly responsible woman. As her—fiance, of course, I had every right to look after her. She is well treated. It would not rest easy on your conscience, would it, if she were—less well treated.

"Tony—"

"Listen, Fanchon," he went on, as she grew cold and sick all over, "listen! If you will do as I ask—and what I ask of you is simplicity itself, I will say nothing. You may go on being Evelyn Howard for the rest of time as far as I am concerned. This girl upstairs, with the child's mind, shall not suffer. If it becomes expedient for me to change the manner of my living and my household, I will put her in some home where she will be well cared for the rest of her life. No danger from her; for you. Of course," he went on, "if they should decide to operate . ."

"What do you mean?" asked Fanchon frantically.

"There is just a chance of her regaining her memory and her wits. A very faint chance. There is something at the base of the brain, an abscess, I understand. In all events, some pressure. It is a dangerous operation, and when I first saw her her general health was not good, her physical condition. It was out of the question to operate then. 'Build her health up,' they told me. They also told me that the best brain specialist, the best brain surgeon, was in this part of the country. I have not consulted him. Perhaps I never shall."

Fanchon said, slowly:

"You must, I must."

"Not so fast. . It is one chance in a thousand. She might, she is very likely to, die under the operation. Better play the game my way. Let me send in Cesare Gilli's card to you. I ask nothing more."

"But what is your game?" she demanded, desolately.

"Of that," he smiled, "I am not so sure. But I am sure that unless you comply—would you care to see Evelyn?" he asked suddenly. "Of course, strangers upset her . . and it will be something of a shock to you. ."

She said, desparately:

"No . . no . . not that!" Then, pulling herself together, she thought, I must. I must go through with it. Part, I suppose, of my punishment. She said, aloud: "Yes, Tony . ."

He looked at her and his dark eyes flickered. He shrugged and said:

"No, I have changed my mind. Another time, perhaps."

She rose to her feet. It was growing late. She must get back as soon as possible.

"Have you decided?" he asked her.

There was no way out. She said, faintly:

"Very well."

There was a dark flash of triumph in the eyes holding her own. He said:

"Thank you." And bowed, with a stilted, formal courtesy.

"When?" she asked, dimly.

"Let me see. I must," he looked down at his lounge suit, well cut and dark in color but a little worn, "I must prepare myself to do justice to your unexpected invitation. Shall we say, the day after tomorrow? If you are not at home," he added quickly, "I shall come again."

He took her to the door, opened it, leaned against it and watched her down the steps. When she had walked away from the house, he laughed shortly and turned indoors again.

Fanchon picked up a taxi at the corner. She directed the driver to take her to New York and to leave her at a corner some blocks below the apartment house. She walked the rest of the way and fear and self-disgust walked with her. One of the worst moments in her life was when, a few minutes later, she had to reply to Mrs. Carstairs' affectionate greeting, had to hear from Collin, pacing the living room with his hands in his pockets, that he thought she'd never come home, and had she bought out the shops? She hadn't, she told them, remembering, bought anything at all.

Jennie Carstairs and Collin washed her that night with some anxiety. She looked tired. She had used rouge, an unusual camouflage for her. Her gaiety was forced, over a bridge table later, and her laughter. What, they wondered, had happened to her? Jennie, however, had her own heartsick solution, for it would not be long now before Collin would be sailing, for England, on the first stage of his journey to the Far East. Jennie thought, unhappily, she does care for him; I was, after all, misled.

Two days later, when Jennie Carstairs came home from an afternoon spent in arguing with the other members of a certain charity committee and came home tired, thinking of a quiet talk with her son and her niece, thinking of tea and relaxation, she was met at the door by Jamsson with the information that Miss Evelyn had a caller and that Mr. Collin had not yet returned to the apartment.

On her way to her bedroom, Jennie glanced into the drawing room, fancying that perhaps Evelyn was entertaining one of the girls she knew or one of the ubiquitous young men. To her astonishment, she saw her deep in a low-voiced conversation with a man who was perfectly strange to Jennie. A dark young man, very Latin in appearance, very graceful, very well dressed, who stood over by the window and held a cigarette loosely in his fingers. Jennie moved away, but Fanchon looked up and saw her.

"Aunt Jennie," she said, and Mrs. Carstairs noticed her painful flush.

The stranger moved away from the window.

Jennie Carstairs came into the room. She had a magnificent silver fox fur over one arm. She had pearls at her throat and in her ears. All this the young man noticed. The Carstairs jewels were rather famous. Some of them Jennie rarely wore as they adorned a safe deposit vault instead.

Fanchon rose.

"Aunt Jennie, may I present my old friend, Mr. Cesare Gilli?" she said, quietly, but her heart was leaden within her.—Copyright 1931 by Faith Baldwin.

CRAYON DECORATION

Wise women start making their Christmas presents in summertime, but many of us have only just turned our thoughts to this necessary work. Shall we use colorful envelope linings to cover ash trays, boxes and scrap baskets, pasting these on to the article and then using a transparent lacquer for a glazed finish? Or shall we try to make a doiley or runner for between meals on a dining room table or on a living room or hall table, decorating this ecru linen or cotton material with the popular crayon designs? In case you decide upon the latter sort of fancy-work, here are a few hints regarding it:

In handling crayons, use even strokes from edge to edge of the part on which you are working, having the material thumb-tacked to a board to hold it taut and smooth. Work well up against the edges of the design, resting the hand which holds the crayon on the doubled fist of the other hand. Avoid making a variety of strokes in filling in spaces, as that will give a ragged, unfinished look to the work. Also be sure to make the color deeper and stronger than you desire the finished work to be, for the following setting process takes some of the color out: When crayon work is finished, but before the outlining has been added, lay the goods face down between two pages of white blotting paper and press the top piece with a hot iron—that is, an iron only just hot enough to go through the waxy surface of the crayon design. You will find that the lower blotter will absorb this excess wax from the crayon work, leaving the color in the material. I would advise you to experiment on a sample of the goods before going ahead on the runner or doiley itself.

Tomorrow—Hearty Puddings.

Pepps Debutantes Make Dull Wives

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 11.—If collegiate students take the advice of Dr. Donald A. Laird, phychogist, they will pick the "dull debunste" instead of the "peppy party girl." On the eve of house parities, said Dr. Laird, addressing members of his classes, the "vivacious, peppy alert type of girl" is likely to make an unusually attractive party guest, but is likely, on the other hand, to be a poor life partner.

"The vivacious personality type," he said, "is associated with, if not due to, unusual activity of the thyroid gland, and in five or ten years after house party there are good chances that this gland, after excessive functioning, may become disordered, where upon the formerly vivacious house party companion may be changed into an entirely different type that is sluggish, slow and uninteresting.

The Beauty Box

by Helen Follett

Combs and brushes must be kept clean if the hair is to carry a gloss and the scalp is to be clean and healthy. Wash them with a hand brush and some ordinary scrubbing substance, rinse with warm water, dip in a weak solution of lysol, place in the sunlight to dry. No use keeping the hair shampooed, if combs and brushes are in an untidy condition.

In the feminine facescape beaming lamps are the central and dominating feature. "She has nice eyes" tells a tender story. Color and shape don't contribute as much as expression, and expression is a gal's own lookout. No use for a woman to chase beauty rainbows if her soul orbs have a hard, mean look, if they send forth messages of bitter feeling, snap with jealousy or anger. Gentle, smiling eyes win hearts; cold eyes freeze 'em.

Never should make-up be applied to the complexion unless the skin has been freshly washed or cleansed with oil. The rouge compact and the powder pad grind dust into the pores, blackheads form, there's a chance of acquiring pimples. Make-up should be removed with cream, the skin surface bathed with soap and warm water. Two rinsings should follow, first a warm one, then a cold. The final flourish is the tapping in of cold cream with a patter or the finger tips.

Only a pretty woman can display ears. They must be extra nice ears at that. The organ of hearing is a strictly utilitarian mechanism, contributing not at all to the sum total of pulchritude. If they show, they should be powdered carefully, touched lightly with rouge. Young persons with outstanding ears can flatten them to the head by strapping down with adhesive tape at night.

Bran is a good medium for softening hard water. Put it in muslin bags. Throw a bag in the bathtub, add several inches of hot water, let stand for five minutes, then fill the tub. Bran exudes a starchy substance that acts pleasantly on the skin, imparting softness of surface, acting as a protective agent against chapping.

Guard against the habit of chewing on one side of the mouth, which forms a half circle line from nostril to lip end by pulling facial muscles to one side.

Celery should lie for an hour in ice water before serving so as to insure its being crisp, white and firm.

Has Family Obligations

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man 26 years old, and graduated from a technical institution three years ago. My sister who is now 21 put me through college, even breaking her engagement with a man she was much in love, to do this for me. It was understood at the time that I should pay back the money she advanced, though there never was any written agreement to that effect. I am now in lovew ith a girl and would like to marry her, though this debt to my sister is on my conscience. Her health is not good and the doctor advises a winter in the south, as her lungs seem to be affected. What do you think of this? MARTIN B.

There is such a thing as a gentleman's agreement, my dear Martin B., even though the covenant is unrecorded. It would be very selfish of you to leave your sister in the lurch at the present time when her health is in danger. I hope you'll do the right thing, and I hope your fiancee will advise to up to do it.

Hints on a Church Wedding

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My daughter is to be married this month. I believe she comes up the aisle on my arm, but what bothers me is the train to her wedding gown which, from the talk I hear dropped at meals, is growing in length daily. How do I get around this, it wouldn't be right to step over it, would it? The groom is equally terrified by the growing elaboration of this wedding which started out so simply. Do let two distracted men have a few hints.

TERRIFIED FATHER

Now ,father, the wedding day belongs to the bride, and please don't put any crimps or restrictions on what the bride—and her mother—want to have in the way of ceremony on this important occasion. Weddings are like houses we build ourselves; they begin simply but cost more and become more elaborate than we planned for at the start.

The ushers head the wedding process, two and two; bridesmaids follqw, two and two; then the matron of honor, then the bride on her father's arm. The groom waits for her with his best man at the chancel steps. When the clergyman says: "Who gives this woman in marriage?", then is the time for you to walk gracefully around the bride's train—never, never think of stepping over it!

He Didn't Explain

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have tried to get my mother to advise me, but the only advice I get is, "stop being silly" or "forget him." It seems I am not profiting by such advice. So Miss Fairfax, I hope you will help me. Heaven knows I need it.

Last year at business college I met the one and only man for me. For a while things went fine. He seemed very much interested in me. I never told him I cared or ever gave him reason to think I love him. But he told me, and proved in many ways, he loved me.

I never knew why he stopped speaking to me toward the end of the school term, or why he left without saying goodbye. All summer I've missed him and waited for school to open. He hasn't returned and I haven't seen or heard from him. I'm 17 years old, and for awhile I tried to push that feeling out by saying I was too young. Please Miss Fairfax, don't tell me to forget him, because I never will be able to.

SCHOOL GIRL

I'm not very strong for these girls and boys who go off, decline to speak, or explain what it's all about. Of course, there is always "somebody" who may have made trouble. But it seems to me that the person who will stop speaking without giving the former friend his "day in court"—in other words, a chance to explain—isn't worthy of much consideration. If there has been some such misunderstanding, you might write this boy a note and tell him you'd like to know the reasons for this queer behavior. If there's no answer or no satisfactory explanation — you know what you should do, though you tell me not to suggest it. Blot him out from your mind, and thank goodness you're young enough to be happy.

CHICKEN SHORTCAKE FOR SMALL PARTY

Chicken shortcake is not a new idea but it is good enough to be repeated once in awhile. Try it for a small luncheon party or bridge.

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 medium can cream of celery soup, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 3 sliced hard cooked eggs, 1½ cups diced cooked chicken.

Melt butter, add flour and cook until smooth, add celery soup and cook, stirring constantly until a creamy mixture forms. Season with salt and pepper. Add hard cooked eggs and diced chicken. Serve between halves and on top of hot biscuits. Garnish with ripe olives and slices of cooked egg.

CRANBROOK HAS ARMISTICE DAY SUNDAY SERVICE

Veterans Parade to the Presbyterian Church on Sunday

CRANBROOK, B. C., Nov. 11.—Cranbrook members of the Canadian Legion, headed by the Cranbrook bugle band paraded from the Legion building to the Presbyternian church on Sunday evening for Armistice Day services, which were appropriately observed. Special anthems for the occasion were "Yet Gates, "Lift up Your Heads on High", "Faith of Our Fathers", "Living Still" and Kipling's "Recessional".

Rev. J. C. McLean-Bell, chose 'The Price We Paid', discussing the loss of youth and leadership and the shattering of ideals occasioned by the Great War, and looking forward to the day when the nations of the earth would settle their differences without resort to the killing of their citizens. At the close of the discourse the last post was sounded by A. J. Gibbs and the national anthem was sung.

In the Anglican church a wreath was placed on the memorial tablet and the anthem, "Who Are These Arayed in White?" was sung. Rev. Thomas Scott of Creston was the speaker at both morning and evening services.

Special music suitable to the occasion were was rendered by the United church choir and the pastor, W. F. Hardy, brought out in his discourse the fact that Christianity was the only hope of destroying the war mind. A wreath was placed on the church's roll of honored dead.

Rev. Mr. Milton, pastor of the Fernie Baptist church, who had charge of the services in the Cranbrook Baptist church, during the absence of Rev. C. O. Black in Fernie, conducted the morning services in the armistice vein.

In the Roman Catholic church a special memorial service was conducted by Father Maddon and a wreath laid on the memorial tablet of the fallen from the congregation. The usual united service in the auditorium following the evening service was not held this year, each congregation conducting its own service.

"WHAT MEAN YE BY THAT SERVICE" IS ARMISTICE TEXT

Archdeacon Graham Tells of Victory of Faith at St. Saviour's Church

"What mean ye by that service," was the text of Archdeacon Fred H. Graham for the church service of Remembrance Day at St. Saviour's pro-cathedral. Wednesday morning, when the Canadian legion members ex-service men, the Kokanee chapter of I. O. D. E., and several groups of Girl Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Cubs attended the social.

An age would come, averred Archdeacon Graham, when the tide of time had left Armistice day in the remote past, and people would question the meaning of the remembrance service. Why was it observed, they would ask? What did it signify? Was there worthy import in it?

A day had passed that Christians still remember. And in remembering new strength was found, pride was checked, and discouragement gave way to renewed faith.

A TIME TO PRAISE

Armistice Day was a little pause in the flux of time when people remembered those million men who laid down their lives because they saw that there was something more necessary than life—something less to be feared than death. They heard the call and were ready to serve it as true and justified. They were but ordinary men, young and middle-aged, with much before them counted good, as mortals value. Yet they followed the path of sacrifice in the marvellous light of faith and honor was given them. Their faith was strong.

There was only one victory, concluded Archdeacon Graham, and that the victory of faith. It was a victory of Christian faith as shown by father, brother and son, by mother, sister and daughter, as they went forward saying, "I believe."

Kipling's "Recessinal" and "God Save the King" were sung.

The collection taken was given to the Canadian legion relief fund.

The passage should be cleared for traffic sooner than was expected according to William Ramsay, district engineer. First estimation stated four or five days would be needed but the road is not damaged as much as was first surmised.

Commercial Egg Production

The agricultural experiment station, Corvallis, Oregon, has recently compiled the results of a three year economic study of poultry raising in that state which will be of interest to Canadian poultrymen, particularly those in British Columbia.

The study dealt with: (1) the cost of producing commercial eggs in Oregon, (2) the factors influencing costs, and (3) the adjustment in the operation and the integral organization of the poultry enterprise and the poultry farm.

The cost and efficiency figures taken covered three successive years, 1926, 1927 and 1928, and included 441 representative commercial egg farms. Cost of production data for 271,337 hens, producing 3,864,163 dozen of eggs were obtained.

The capital investment was relatively small—$4.56 per hen made up as follows:—

	Per hen	Per cent
Poultry stock itself	$1.49	or 33
Laying house	1.38	or 30
Land	.62	or 14
Brooder and range houses	.29	or 6
Auto, machinery, fencing, etc.	.78	or 17
	$4.56	or 100

Over the three year period the net annual cost of production was $4.09 per hen or 28.7 cents per dozen. The two major items of costs were for feed and labor.

Feed—$2.67 per hen or 18.7 cents per dozen—54 per cent.

Labor—92 cents per hen or 6.5 cents per dozen—19 per cent.

On the individual farms there was a very wide variation in cost of production.

Of the best 81 flocks the overage cost of producing eggs was 22.6 cents per dozen.

The next best 132 flocks the average cost of producing eggs was 24.9 cents per dozen.

The next best 132 flocks the average cost of producing eggs was 33.0 cents per dozen.

Of the poorest 81 flocks the average cost of producing eggs was 37.4 cents per dozen.

The low cost of better producing farms were consistently below the average cost, varying little from year to year indicating good hens and an efficient system; while the high-cost of poorer producing farms varied widely in cost from year to year indicating a poorer quality of hens and lack of an efficient system.

The gross annual income per hen was $4.96 of which $4.14 was the value of the eggs produced. Eighty-four flocks, or 19 per cent of all the flocks, obtained an annual profit of $1.16 per hen or 27 per cent above the cost of production. Their return to the owner for his labor was $1.92 per hen and for labor and capital invested $2.14 per hen.

Eightly flocks, or 18 per cent of all the flocks, had an annual loss of $1.34 per hen; 220 or half of all the flocks obtained an average annual profit of 63 cents per hen, or 14 per cent above the cost of production. Their return to the owner for his labor was $1.43 per hen and for labor and capital invested $1.65 per hen. The other 221 flocks did not return sufficient income to meet the total cost of production.

The average annual yield of the 271,337 hens over the three-year period was 171 eggs per hen; 168 flocks, or 8 per cent of all the flocks, had an average annual yield of 196 eggs per hen. At the average price received for the eggs it required a yield of 170 eggs per hen to pay the total cost of production, and 110 eggs per hen to pay the bare cash cost of production.

Of the whole 271,337 birds 60 per cent were pullets, 30 per cent yearling hens, and 10 per cent old hens a very successful division.

Decline in Diphtheria Mortality

The incidence and the case-fatality of diphtheria have been declining phanomenally in all countries of the world since toxin-antitoxin and toxoid have become available for the prevention of the disease. In the United States the deathrate has declined about 58 per cent over the past 10 years. In Sweden the reduction was 88 per cent, and in Switzerland 67 per cent between 1920-1921 and 1928-1929. In Spain the diptheria toll has been reduced 59 per cent and in northern Ireland recently the mortality was exactly one-half of that prevailing 10 years ago. Germany England and Wales, the Irish Free State, Holland and Scotland all show substantial, and, it is hoped, lasting benefit from the preventive work made possible by the extensive application of the new sera.

The distinguished record of suppression of one of the most ancient foes of childhood was accomplished by immunization, supplemented by anti-toxin treatment, of a lamentably small proportion of the world's children needing these treatments. How soon would diphtheria be banished from the earth, if the systematic and successful efforts of public health officers could be extended to include susceptible children everywhere? How many communities are there where the diphtheria deathrate has shown no marked tendency toward decline? Analysis will probably show that in these there has been failure to use funds and facilities readily available for the protection of children.

"Between You and Me"

By "J.B.C."

Yesterday we celebrated the Armistice. Today we celebrate the anniversary of this column. For one year we have carried on faithfully, with some help, and attempted to give the people of Nelson and district some thing new in the line of pastime and entertainment.

* * *

Day in and day out we have racked our brains—have spied on local citizens—have written about them—have told things that possibly should not have appeared in print—have carried on—have taken abuse—but nevertheless, despite all handicaps, have tried to make this column interesting.

* * *

Armistice Day, between you and me, is not a day to go out and tell about the activities of our friends. It might be too readable.

* * *

And so, like the boys who did their stuff for King George during the dark dreary days of the war, your correspondent has joined them in celebrating the first annversary of the birth of the column known as "Seen and Heard About Nelson," latterly changed to "Between You and Me."

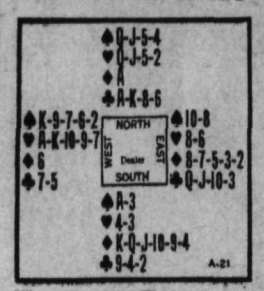
Between you and me—who won the war?

Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

KILL THE RE-ENTRY



When the above hand was played in a single table game of Contract, South bid one Diamond, West, One Heart, and North Three No Trumps. North's count of 17 with two stoppers in the adverse suit and in each of the two unnamed suits, plus the Ace of South's suit, gave him more than enough for this bid; but with an adverse Heart bid, a Slam was not to be considered.

If the hand were being played at Auction, South would bid One Diamond, West One Heart, North One No Trump; South might rebid his Diamonds, but North would insist on his No Trump.

East, in response to his partner's bid, led the Eight of Hearts; West ducked, hoping that North had only three Hearts and that another Heart lead would enable him to run his suit. Of course Declarer lost no time in taking home his game. He played the Ace of Diamonds, then the Queen of Spades. With a Heart stopper still in his hand, he could afford to risk the Spade finesse. West won with the Spade King, took in his Ace and King of Hearts, and then Declarer had a show-down for the remaining tricks. He would have suffered the same inconsequential losses (three tricks) had he refused the Spade finesse, playing the Ace at once and running the Diamonds Do you see how perfect defense by West would have saved the day?

THE CORRECT PLAY

West does not need much intuition to know that Declarer's game is easy if dummy's Diamonds run; he does need a bit of intuition, however, to realize that his own singleton Diamond and North's indication of strength in every suit but Diamonds make it probable that East has at least as many Diamonds as North. If North holds the Ace and another Diamond, of course West is helpless; but if North lacks the Ace of Diamonds (or holds it singleton) West probably can save game.

West should win the first Heart trick and lead the King of Spades, removing dummy's only entry before dummy's suit is established or unblocked. If dummy's Ace is held up, West merely leads another Spade. Dummy's best lead then is a Heart. West plays low, holding Declarer to three Spades, two Clubs, a Diamond and a Heart, setting the contract two tricks.

(7) South one No Trump, West two Spades, North and East pass. South double and West pass. Should North pass or take-out the double?

Answer: North should bid, the double is informative.

(8) South, one No Trump, West two Spades, North double, West pass. Should South pass or take-out the double?

Answer: South should pass. North's double has been made after South has bid.

Railway, Bus, Airplane Will Find Own Niche Says Official

As taken from "I Am Only a Railroad Man," in Liberty magazine.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, in a recent issue of the Liberty magazine, answers the criticisms of American railroads as given by Theodore Dreiser, the novelist. Mr. Dreiser's article appeared earlier and was printed in brief form in The Nelson Daily News. Coming as it does during the bus and railway argument in the city, the articles have been timely. Mr. Willard says in part:

* * *

"I have spent 50 years of my life in the railroad business. Mr. Dreiser seems to think that his young technicians could manage a railroad better than I. Evidently, from his point of view, experience means little or nothing.

"The men in charge of our railroad systems know their business because most of them started from the bottom. Atterbury, though a college graduate, climbed the ladder step by step from the lowest rung. When Pershing wanted the best railroad man in America to run his railroads in France, he did not ask for a young technician. He sent for Atterbury. He could have drafted every young technician in the country. He preferred the experienced vice-president of the Pennsylvania.

The former head of the New York Central, A. H. Smith, began his distinguished career as a water carrier. When he died the directors did not pick a young technician for his successor. They picked Patrick Crowley, who had started as a messenger boy.

"The railway army (I am still quoting Aishton) numbers approximately 1,800,000 men. Like our national army, he says, each system must have its headquarters staff. 'The railways, like the army, have what is known as the combatant staff. These are the men in the transportation, the mechanical, the maintenance, and the engineering divisions; the fellows who do the fighting. But outside of these forces and paid directly by the railroads is a vast army of approximately 2,000,000 men in the service of supply . . . They are the men mining coal, producing lumber, manufacturing steel, building equipment, and in all the other various manufacturing interests supplying material to keep these railroads running.'

"The coordination of this vast transportation machine and the keeping of its various parts in step with one another are no tasks for desk-chair technicians.

"When Soviet Russia wanted to find out about railroads, they did not go to the young technicians, but to an experienced foreman in our shop, I refer to C. A. Gill. Before Mr. Gill became chief consulting engineer to the Russian railroads he was, at various stages, apprentice, mechanic, general foreman, master mechanic and superintendent of motive power on the Baltimore & Ohio.

"Our railroad system may seem "antiquated" to Mr. Dreiser; but representatives of all nations, including a dozen commissions from Russia, have been over to study it.

"Congress, always critical of them, admitted when it passed the new Transportation act that our railroad system is the best in existence. It is not a perfect system—but is there anything perfect in this world? Yet Mr. Dreiser says that our railroad service is 'backward'. The automobile, he tells us, improved while the railroad stood still. The present speed of automobiles became possible only when we learned from the ancients the secret of making good roads and when modern science mastered the mystery of internal combustion! But who tells Mr. Dreiser that the railroads stand still? We have plenty of locomotives that can make 90 to 100 miles an hour—if they will stay on the tracks. We prefer safety to speed.

EASIER SPEED

"Mr. Dreiser forgets that it is easier to speed up an automobile than a train, because the automobile operates as an individual unit, whereas the train operates as a collective unit. He also forgets the toll wrung from us for the swiftness of the automobile. Automobiles kill one person every 21 minutes in the United States. In 1930, 30,500 people were slain by automobiles (not including 1695 automobilists killed at grade crossings). The casualties due to railroad accidents in 1930 (including 1695 automobilists who were mostly the victims of their own carelessness) total 5841—passengers, 50; employees, 935; trespassers, 2304; non-trespassers, 2192. In other words the automobiles killed five or six times as many people as the railroads. Are the American people willing to pay in human lives for an increase in speed?

"The only perfectly safe train is the train that stands still. If it runs fast enough, it will go off the track sooner or later. Somewhere between those extremes there is a reasonable speed. We may accelerate it here and there, but we cannot safely increase it considerably without enormous financial outlays. Some railroads in Europe run faster than ours. But to run faster they must have straight lines. Europe's railroads were built after the country had reached a definite stage of development. Our railways were built in anticipation of future development. Sometimes we guessed right, sometimes we guessed wrong. We did not build straight strategic lines like the Europeans. We cannot increase the speed of the American railroads materially until we straighten our lines and until we separate all grade crossings.

"Do you know what that means?

COSTS LARGE

"The separation of grade crossings alone would cost more money than all the railroads of the United States. Are the American people willing to foot the bill? Will they pay twice as much as they are paying now for transportation? Moreover, Europeans are disciplined. In Germany a man walking on a railroad track is subject to a fine. In this country everybody walks on the tracks. It will be necessary to wean our people of this habit before we can safely speed up our railroads.

"Mr. Dreiser says that American trains are 'uncomfortable'. Has he never heard of air-cooled trains, rubberized trucks, and other inventions? The railroads constantly strive to make travel more pleasant. The B. & O. has two trains running between New York and Washington in which all the windows are tightly closed so as to shut out noises, dust and cinders. We supply artificial fresh air. We warm it in winter, we cool it in summer. If the atmosphere outside is 100 degrees, it is 75 or 80 within the train. We can maintain any temperature we like, but experience has shown that a difference of more than 15 degrees between the artificial and the natural temperature is not conducive to comfort. As far as I know, these are the only two trains of their kind in the world. There is no extra charge for taking them.

NEW DOUBLE SEAT

"Seats in railroad trains were often uncomfortable, because they had to be made in such a way as to face in either direction. However, a few years ago we invented a double seat that is as comfortable as a Morris chair, and we are introducing it as fast as conditions permit. Some people thought that busses had an advantage over the railroad cars because they ran on rubber. We rubberized several cars completely to eliminate the metallic vibration. This device was perfected by some of our men. We also experimented with roller bearings, to which Mr. Dreiser refers so feelingly, in 1899, but found them at that time unreliable for our purpose. A train must run on schedule. It cannot stop every now and then, like a motor car, for new tires or roller bearings. We are now trying several different devices. When at last we determine the most suitable one, we shall probably make greater use of it. Other roads have other improvements. All are seeking new ways to improve their service. It is true that our railroads, like our cities, have not succeeded completely in the warfare against needless noise. But we are paying a great deal of attention to these problems.

"Mr. Dreiser complains that he cannot stick his head or his hands out of the window, and he blames the railroads because 'they have placed other structures too close to allow for safety'. If Mr. Dreiser cannot stick out his arm or his head, it is not due to anything that is part of the railroad plant. But some obstacle that has no business to be there might hit Mr. Dreiser. That would be unfortunate. It is for that reason that we keep the windows closed and don't encourage passengers to put their arms and heads out of them.

THE SLEEPER

Mr. Dreiser does not like our sleepers. He prefers the European system. And he does not like our upper berths. The Pullman car, I admit, has its limitations. Nevertheless, I have slept very comfortably in an upper berth. If Mr. Dreiser wants a room all by himself with a real bed, he can have it—if he is willing to pay the price. Every Pullman car carries such rooms. Mr. Dreiser complains because he cannot see the landscape from his upper berth. He would like to have a window. We could not put in another window without weakening the structure of the car. We are handicapped by the laws of matter and by an agreement among the railroads establishing specific standards and clearances. Every car must be so constructed that it can be transferred from one system to another.

Mr. Dreiser complains because we are 'slow' in introducing electrification. Why must electrification be universally accepted? Electricity was used first some 40 years ago by the B. & O. in a long tunnel running through the residential section of Baltimore, to avoid smoke and cinders. Electrification is desirable in such instances. It is both desirable and economical in some densely populated territory. It is not economical everywhere. If it can be shown that electrification will make railroading more efficient and more economical, I should be willing to recommend its application. But until then I do not want to impose upon the public the burden of increased fares!

"Mr. Dreiser points to the superior advantage of the motor truck for certain purposes. I don't deny that in many instances motor trucks are superior to railroads. But there are certain functions in which railroads cannot be surpassed. One of our big engines pulls 5000 tons of coal in one train. It would take 1000 men and 1000 trucks to pull that same load. Every branch of transportation has its own function. In time the motor truck, the airplane, and the railroad will each find its own niche in a perfect system of cooperation. Until that time there will undoubtedly be struggling for mastery, confusion, and competition.

It is not true that it takes eight days for a parcel to go from New York to Oregon. Four or five days are sufficient unless some accident intervenes. The railroads are not responsible for the monopoly of the express service. Mr. McAdoo consolidated all express companies during the war. After that the railroads created an express company ownjointly by all of them.

"Mr. Dreiser says that the railroads 'four or five years ago' received $98,000,000 in mail pay by the government, and that the figure was increased to $150,000,000 in 1929. From this he infers that the railroads are greedy. Mr. Dreiser asks us to 'dig deep' for the facts. But he himself does not dig very deeply! His statement is reasonably correct so far as the figures go. But he fails to note the essential fact that the $150,000,000 paid in 1929 included approximately $37,585,000 earned in former years for carrying railroads were underpaid! Finally the the mails. For 10 or 15 years the interstate commerce commission, after a full hearing, increased their compensation; it was decided that we had carried the mail at less than a fair rate. The amount actually received in 1930 was $111,889,000.

THE SURPLUS

"Mr. Dreiser speaks in an offhand way of the 'billion-dollar surplus' which we have every year. I do not know where this surplus is. Congress decided that the railroads are entitled to earn 5¾ per cent on the value of their property devoted to transportation purposes. At present the return is not 5¾ per cent but only 3 per cent. Capital, too, must have its wages. It receives, in many instances, especially at present, little enough. Would Mr. Dreiser deprive you or himself of a return on the investment which had been made in good faith? Would he jeopardize the insurance companies and the savings banks which have invested our savings, yours and mine, in railroad securities?

"If I tried to correct all the misstatements in Mr. Dreiser's article I would have to write a book. It is true than many of us are directors not only in our own companies but in others. There is nothing sinister in this. I am not only president of the B. & O., but I am a director in a hundred diverse companies that make up our system. Some of these are paper companies, some represent lines merged with ours. Mr. Dreiser affirms that the railroads are run for the benefit of a few individuals, a few estates, and a few banks. He offers no proof to make good his charge.

"He speaks of 'graft,' 'greed,' and 'fat profits' for a few. I presume, as this statement is general, that Mr. Dreiser includes me. Again he does not offer one iota of proof for his accusation. Let me say this to you: If anyone can adduce conclusive evidence of graft or dishonesty on the part of any officer or employee of the B. & O., this employee will be dismissed, even if it be the president, myself. I can speak only for the B. & O., but I believe that, barring isolated exceptions, what I say holds true of all roads.

NOVEMBER SKIES

Than those November skies
Is no sky lovelier. The clouds are deep;
Into their grey of subtle spies
Of color creep,
Changing that high austerity to delight,
Till even the leaden interfolds are bright,
And where the cloud breaks, faint far asure peer,
Ere a thin flushing cloud again
Shuts up that loveliness or shares,
The huge great clouds move slowly gently as
Reluctant the quick sun should shine in vain,
Holding in bright caprice their rain,
And when of colors none
Nor rose nor amber, nor the scarce late green
Is truly seen—
In all the myriad grey,
In silver height and dusky deep, remain
The loveliest,
Faint purple flushes of the unvanquished sun.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

NERVE CUTTING FOR SEVERE RHEUMATISM OR ARTHRITIS

A most interesting case of rheumatism or arthritis has just been written up for the medical profession by the patient himself, Dr. J. R. Moore of Jerome, Arizona.

The arthritis (inflammation of the joints) began in the first joint of the index or first finger, in 1926, resembling the usual baseball finger. Several other fingers later become involved thus definitely proving that it was arthritis.

Early in 1927, infected teeth and tonsils were removed with very little benefit, and a few months later the toes of the right foot became affected.

All sorts of treatment—vaccines, hot baths—with a little benefit, was carried on during 1928 and 1929 In 1930 both feet and hands became swollen, the feet were cold and clammy, dark in color, and bathed in a cold perspiration. X-ray pictures showed that changes were taking place in the bones. Walking and standing were so painful that very little of either was attempted.

At this stage Dr. Moore says he might almost have been classed as a wheel chair case.

It was then decided that as every other treatment had been tried that cutting of some of the nerves supplying the feet and legs should be done.

Dr. Moore says: "Immediately on coming out from under the anaesthetic I noted the following conditions. The legs and feet were warm and dry. The pain had practically disappeared and it was possible to move the feet, toes and knees without discomfort. The swelling had largely disappeared and the skin was of a more natural color and normal appearance. At the end of two weeks when allowed out of bed it was possible to walk for a distance of two or three blocks in comparative comfort, and it is now possible to walk half a mile or more."

Six months after the operation the hands became swollen, painful and clammy, and it was decided to cut the nerves supplying the hands. Again recovery was prompt and the same relief obtained as after the first operation.

Now this operation is not necessary in the ordinary cases of arthritis, as usually the removal of teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, the washing out of the large intestine (colonic irrigation), the use of vaccines, baths, and electrical treatment will give results. But when everything else fails this operation of nerve cutting by a skillful surgeon should be considered.

Injuries and Fights Hold Up Game in Wild Last 15 Minutes of Play

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 11.—Sweeping aside the threat of Calgary Altomah-Tigers after one of the most bruising gridiron struggles ever witnessed in Saskatchewan, Regina Roughriders clinched their sixth successive western senior rugby championship on Wednesday afternoon when they vanquished their foes from the foothills by a 26-2 score before 3000 fans.

Not as brilliant as they were last Saturday when they eliminated Winnipeg St. John's, but still a great rugby machine, the Roughriders had to fight to the last ditch to send the Altomahs down to defeat. Four touchdowns, a field goal and three converts were scored by Al Ritchie's rampant crew of warriors, while the best Calgary could do was to rouge Angie Mitchell, quarterback, on two occasions.

MANY INJURIES

Injuries made the game a long-drawn out affair, and near the end several free-for-all fights broke out to enliven proceedings. Greg Crasick, Jack Campbell and Fred Goodman, three Regina stalwarts, were rendered hors de combat, while Calgary's star kicker, Bob Hall, was carried off the field in the first quarter. When the final whistle blew the teams were playing with only 10 men each.

In the absence of Hall, Harrison did the booting for the Altomahs, and completely shaded Curt Shave, the Regina punter. Shave's average boots only went for 28 yards, while Harrison made 40 yards.

It was in line plunging that the Roughriders had the big edge. Led by Eddie James, the Reginans made yards 22 times, while Calgary only completed the distance six times.

For an alleged bunch of cripples, the Altomahs put up a great battle, and tackled hard and true. Had they been able to break down the Regina line a different story might have been told.

REGINA'S BALL

A few minutes after the start, Calgary made the mistake of interfering with the man on one of Shave's forward passes and the incident led to Regina's first touchdown. Roughriders were awarded the ball on the Calgary 30-yard line, and from there they plunged steadily until Grassick cantered over the line for a touchdown, which was converted by Grubb. Altomahs came back with a long kick by Harrison which resulted in Mitchell being rouged.

A faulty pass by Johnston, Altomah backfielder, gave the Reginans an opportunity to put the game on ice in the second quarter, and they made no mistake about it. In possession of the ball on his own 20-yard line, Johnston attempted a faulty lateral pass, but Busch leaped high in the air, speared the pigskin and easily crossed the line, Grubb again converting. Another kick by Harrison which saw Mitchell rouged brought the count to 12-2 at the breather.

Practically the whole third quarter was played around the Calgary 25-yard line, and only a succession of penalties and misplays prevented a score until Albert Urness plunged 15 yards through the middle for Regina's third touch, which was unconverted.

LAST PERIOD WILD

In a wild last minute display, during which time fights, injuries and stoppages of play were numerous, Curt Shave, Regina backfielder, came into his own with a field goal and a touchdown, Mitchell converting the latter to make the final read 26-2.

Regina—Ends, Busch and Warner; middles, Thompson and Urness; insides, Clark and Patrick; snap, Campbell; quarter, Mitchell; halves, James, Goodman, Grubb and Shave; subs, Barber, Grassick, Gilhooly, McNeil, Beatty, Auld, Garuik and Treynor.

Calgary—Ends, Gibson and McDowall; middles, Holmes and Gerlitz; insides, Ferguson and Christie; snap, McDonald; quarter, Pittus halves, Wares, Hall, Harrison and McKinnon; subs, Scott, Hides, Johnson, McConnell and Ell.

MANITOBA U. IS WINNER OF THE ALBERTA GAME

Bill Tomlinson, Captain of the Manitobans, Gives Great Exhibition

EDMONTON, Nov. 11—Giving the finest one-man exhibition shown this year on an Edmonton field football field, Bill Tomlinson, triple-threat Manitoba captain, kicked, crashed, and hurdled over the green and gold clad Albertans to win a 12 to 2 victory on the university grid Saturday afternoon.

The Alberta varsity team, captained by Bill Hall aided by the fleet-footed Mickey Timothy, did their best, but the lighter Alberta line was battered to pieces by the burly Manitobans, and the last quarter was a walk-over for Manitoba.

Until the last quarter the speedy Alberta team had held a two to nothing advantage, but toward the close of the game Manitoba piled up two touchdowns which Captain Tomlinson converted.

Tomlinson scored the first touch, and Warren Miller, Manitoba quarter, gathered in the second score, when he intercepted a wild pass made by Captain Hall of the Albertans as he was tackled after receiving a kick, and raced across the whitewashed line.

Manitoba showed a distinct weakness however, in forward passing, failing to complete one out of half a dozen attempts.

MOOSE JAW JUNIORS WIN WESTERN TITLE

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Nov. 11—(CP)—Moose Jaw's young Maroons became junior rugby champions of the west today for the second time in three years. In a sudden-death final here, Maroons defeated Calgary Altomahs, Alberta titleholders, 11 to 0. Two years ago Moose Jaw was beaten in the Canadian junior final by St. Thomas, eastern Canada winners.

Inspector R. L. Cadiz of the R. C. M. P. at Regina, has been transferred to Winnipeg.

Suppke Spins a Baseball Yarn

"Years ago when 'Crazy' Schmidt, the old Cleveland pitcher was playing semi-pro ball he pitched a game near Champaign," says Bob Zuppke.

"After the umpire had announced the batteries, Schmidt walked in front of the grandstand, took off his hat and bowed and said: Ladies and Gentlemens, the great Schmidt will pitch and the umpire as usual will slightly favor the home team.'"

Which makes me think of Knute Rockne's story of the referee who blew his whistle so often that he woke up one morning and found four dogs in his bed.

WHEELERS BEAT McGILL IN GAME FOR CHARITY, 22-17

MOLSON'S STADIUM, Montreal, Que., Nov. 11—A last-minute touchdown broke a tied score to give Montreal Winged Wheelers, Interprovincial Football champions, a 22 to 17 victory over McGill university seniors in a charity football game here this afternoon. It was a wide open game with the forward pass the chief threat for both sides. Both teams played wide-open football for the benefit of spectators and there were plenty of touchdowns.

The collegians were in the lead twice, only to have the robust Wheelers surge forward and pass them. McGill could not withstand the famed fourth-quarter offensive of the Wheelers and saw their lead crumple and vanish beneath a touchdown and a kicked point.

McGill used the forward pass to greater advantage today than the Wheelers. The collegians put up a masterly display of football to hold the big four champions as they did. They fought fiercely for their points and twice snatched the lead.

WHAT! RUGBY AGAIN

Frantic telephone calls from Vancouver to Trail and Nelson during the past week have informed interior Canadian rugby officials that the Meralomas "B" team from the coast want a two game series up here in the sticks. Apparently they want the game soon—and in the worst possible way.

* * *

And though the Nelson and Trail boys hung up their rugby boots over three weeks ago they are rarin' to do battle with the coast lads. However, there is one feature that always puts the crimp in games with teams from long distances. Nelson support is usually too weak for officials to think seriously of trying to raise two or three hundred dollars guarantee.

Over in Trail the boys are a bit more fortunate for they have several hundred dollars in the treasury and can practically cover the guarantee asked by the Meralomas, immediately, without depending on gate receipts. However, the coast squad wants to play one day in Trail and the next day in Nelson, probably on a week from Next Saturday or Sunday. As everyone knows, a game in Nelson on Sunday when admission cannot be charged, is dynamite for gate receipts. So if the proposed fixture is pulled off here there has to be something more in the air than goodwill—that won't pay guarantees. Cold hard cash is specified.

* * *

Nelson at the very least would have to raise $150 before the coast squad puts a foot on the local field. It was fairly obvious at the last Nelson-Trail game played here this fall that Nelson is beginning to like Canadian rugby. In fact they wanted the schedule prolonged.

* * *

FLASH

Wednesday, 11 p.m.—Meralomas won't be here, it has been decided tonight by Nelson rugby officials. They ruled that the lateness of the season and the size of the guarantee were prohibitive. Too bad.

B. C. TENNIS

T. O. "Ossie" Ryall of the Jericho Tennis club at Vancouver has been picked as No. 1 player for British Columbia. This is the third successive year that the bespectacled Ryall has given the other boys the slip and edged into top place.

* * *

But he's not so far ahead of Jack Brawn, a former Nelson boy who isn't much more than a boy, who has been crowding him pretty close for the last few seasons. Ryall treats his younger opponent with a great deal respect when they play against each other, usually in the last bracket. Brawn lacks the experience of the No. 1 player, but he's a good No. 2. By the way, Nelson can claim some tennis glory of her own for not only did this city produce B. C's. No. 2 player but also Canada's No. 1, Dr. Jack Wright—even though Trail does claim honor on the latter gentlemen's account.

MICKEY WALKER AND JACK SHARKEY AWAIT PLANS OF MAXIE SCHMELING

Heavyweight Champion to Be in America in Three Weeks Seeking Fight

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP)—Plans for heavyweight campaigns both indoors and out were pigeon-holed for the moment today, waiting the arrival here tomorrow of Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, with word of the heavyweight champion's future intentions.

Jacobs has been in Germany for several months with Max Schmeling. Schmeling is due here in three weeks.

Some sort of decision is expected soon after Jacob's arrival on the proposition that he defend his title against Mickey Walker in Los Angeles this winter. Both Walker and Jack Sharkey, who expects to battle either Schmeling or Jack Dempsey next summer, have withdrawn from the heavyweight lists temporarily while awaiting definite news of the champion's plans.

STATE LAW INTERFERES

The most serious drawback to a California fight this winter is understood to be a state law there limiting championship matches to 10 rounds, although 12-round no-decision bouts are permitted. Schmeling in the past has insisted on 15-round title matches. The heavyweight champion has never participated in a no-decision affair.

If Schmeling decides against a winter bout in California and against a match with Sharkey in June, thereby forcing both Walker and the Boston sailor back into circulation, Madison Square Garden plans to match the winner of the Tommy Loughran-Paulino Uzcudun match here Friday against either Walker or Sharkey on the annual Christmas fund card in the Garden December 11.

If this fails to work out a lightweight championship match may be made for that date, between Tony Canzonera and Bat Battalino, featherweight titleholder. Canzoneri must defend his crown first against Kid Chocolate, spectacular Cuban negro, in the Garden November 20.

KENNEDY AGAIN HEADS WESTERN CANADA RUGBY

New Rules Would Prohibit Hurdling the Line Feet First

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 11—W. A. Kennedy of Winnipeg, one of Manitoba's leading rugby boosters, is president of the Western Canada union for the 1932 season. He was unanimously elected to succeed Dr. E. A. McCusker of Regina at the annual meeting of the grid body held here today.

Outstanding in the suggested amendments to the constitution which will be submitted to the C. R. U. are the following:

That the rule covering "no score can be made from kickoff," be clarified with the words "unless the ball stays on fair ground or is touched by a player."

That hurdling the line feet first be prohibited.

That 20 players may play in W. C. R. F. U. and W. C. I.R. F. U. games (it was formerly 18).

That the referee may penalize by loss of yardage as well as time penalty for rough play.

That a player not properly numbered be penalized.

Silver Takes a Drop of 1 7-8 Cents, but Bulls Look for Upward Trend to Continue

Silver Brokers Feel That Speculation Needs Cautious Treatment

NEW YORK, Nov. 11, (AP)—The speculative boom in silver was punctured today.

Some bulls on the metal felt the puncture would soon be repaired, but traders generally turned somewhat hesitant, pending a clearer outlook.

Silver bullion for immediate delivery tumbled 1¾ cents to a price of 35½ cents, losing a substantial portion of the 6-cent advance of the past week.

Trading in silver futures slackened as the National metal exchange, and prices were off ½ to ¾ of a cent at the close, or somewhat above the day's lowest levels. Transactions totalled 4,775,000 ounces, or $3,400,000 less than yesterday's.

Several silver brokers felt that the fever of speculation called for somewhat more cautious treatment. While a margin requirement of only $500 has been required for a 5,000-ounce transaction, several of the brokers raised their minimum requirement, some to $700, and others as high as $1000.

Financial quarters interested in silver were hopeful the metal might be gradually restored to its more normal levels, possibly around 50 cents an ounce or above.

GIFTS OF EDISON NOW IN HANDS OF MONTREALER

Were Possessions of the Late Mrs. Hayter Reed, Who Never Lost Faith

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 11. (CP)—Some treasured possessions, gifts of the late Thomas Alva Edison to a young Canadian girl, are now in the hands of her second husband Hayter Reed of this city. Among them are two personal letters from the inventor himself, in his firm and characteristic hand, and one of his original talking machines manufactured for sale.

The late Mrs. Hayter Reed, whose first husband was Grosvenor P. Lowrey, associate and friend of Edison, was Miss Armour, the Canadian girl referred to. Known and loved by a host of Montrealers and noted for her talented work in interior decoration in many hotels operated by the Canadian Pacific railway, of which Mr. Reed was an official, she paid many visits to the Edison laboratories at Menlo park.

Grosvenor P. Lowery; Mrs. Reed's first husband, lawyers and friend of Edison, became so enthusiastic about the young inventor's phenomenal genius that he was able to inspire the great financiers of the time with his own faith to such an extent that they were willing to finance his researches into incandescent lighting.

The unusually large investment required brought this company, the Edison Electric Light company, much amused or interested comment from other big industries of the day. But Mr. Lowrey's faith in Edison and his associates' trust in his judgment were fully justified. A year later, less just three days, on October 21, 1879, the first fully successful Edison lamp was made.

Throughout these days, the late Mrs. Reed, (then Miss Armour) continued to pay visits to Edison, "the wizard of Menlo park." Edison at one time laughingly proposed "taking her into partnership." It was no mean tribute to her intelligence when William Meadowcroft, the inventor's right-hand man, wrote to Miss Armour: "I never heard him (Edison) refer to any woman a second time, but he has been asking all about you."

These letters of Edison's addressed to Miss Armour are now in the possession of Hayter Reed, her second husband, who also treasures one of the pioneer phonographs turned out by the inventor, which still functions. They are no less valued by Mr. Lowrey's son, John D. Lowrey of this city, and by his stepbrother, Gordon Reed.

With the passing of the great inventor and of Mrs. Reed the phonograph and letters will perpetuate the belief in Edison by a Canadian girl and her husband at a time when all othes but his immediate associates predicted failure for his enterprises.

There are between 50 and 60 living species of deer found the world over, except in Australasia and South Africa.

Small Electric Systems Pass Into Control of Strong Companies

HLIFAX, N. S., Nov. 11.—(CP)—For several years the systems of distributing electric light and power in Nova Scotia have been undergoing changes as hydro developments have replaced steam generating plants and control of territorial rights has shifted. Small companies have passed into control of big concerns and Mr. Average Man did not take his nose out of the newspaper because his reading lamp was glowing the same as ever and his monthly bill had not increased. The prospect was that the bill would decrease because new developments and additional consumers had tended to lower rates.

The Avon River Power company had sprung up in Windsor and gradually secured control of half a dozen small companies in different parts of the province, including Aylesford, South Berwick, Waterville and Cambridge, Morristown, Grafton. Nova Scotia Light and Power company, controlled by Royal Securities, secured controlling interest in a group including Oxford, Edison, Chester, Barrington and Sackville companies. That was interesting, as was an argument between Barrington Electric over the right to Scotia Electric over the right to serve a certain section of Yarmouth county. It was interesting, too, when Nova Scotia Light and Power secured control of the Avon River Power company.

But when a proposal to merge the interests of companies was put forward Mr. Average Man sat up to take notice. Recently the Nova Scotia Light and Power company put before the public utilities commission an application for approval of a merger of their company and the Avon River company, which would involve as well the Oxford Electric, Springhill Electric, Dartmouth Gas and Electric and Sackville River Electric.

Hearing of the application opened on Tuesday, November 4, and continued that day and the next, when it was adjourned until December 2 to give the city of Halifax time to investigate the proposal. There was a strong array of legal talent and argument galore. J. McG. Stewart, K.C., and C. B. Smith, K.C., represented the company, while F. F. Mathers, K.C., deputy attorney general, was solicitor for the utilities commission. L. A. Lovat, K.C., and F. H. Bell, K.C., represented the city of Halifax, and while they are waiting for the hearing to be resumed they will have an expert probing the affairs of the companies involved and the possibility of the merger affecting light and power rates in the city, where a reduction had been expected.

Order Changes Weights on Basket Vegetables

An important modification in the weights of vegetables sold in six and eleven quart baskets has been brought into efect throughout Canada by order of the minister of agriculture.

The root vegetables act provides for the sale of vegetables, other than those commonly known as green vegetables, by the measured bushel is standard weight or the the measured bushel or part of a buahel is o fstandard weight or correct proportionate equivalent.

It has been found in practices that the weights prescribed by the act for six and 11 quart baskets of potatoes, onions, beets, carrots, turnips, parsnips and artichokes could be secured only by heaping up the basket with the vegetable concerned, the weights in the act having been figured on the basis of proportionate volume.

The new weights for these containers as fixed by ministerial order promulgated in the Canada Gazette in the usual way are:

Vegetable	6-quart Basket	11-quart Basket
Potatoes	10 lbs.	18 lbs.
Onions, Beets, Carrots, and Turnips	9	16
Parsnips	7	10½
Artichokes	10	17½

These weights are found to conform more consistently with the true weights of these vegetables when packed in accordance with standard practice in the basket containers named.

Selling Agreement Between the Silver Producers, Coming

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—New York Times says an international selling agreement among the major silver producers of the world is definitely in prospect as a result of recommendations made by a committee of experts of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Informal conferences to that end have already begun, says the Times, and representatives of the most important silver interests in the United States and Europe will be invited shortly to meet in New York or London to study the committee's suggested stabilization program.

Patrick E. Crowley Retires From Head of N. Y. C. Railroad

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Patrick E. Crowley, who started his railroad career in 1878 as a telegraph operator, has resigned as president of the New York Central railroad. He will be succeeded by Frederick E. Williamson, now president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern Railway company, will, it is reported, succeed Williams as president of the Chicago, Burlington.

WARNS AGAINST TOO EARLY OPTIMISM

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP)—William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber company, told a conference of sales representatives that he believes 1932 will be "a wonderful year for business," "let us not be fooled," he added. "Good times may not be started yet in spite of the fact that wheat is going up. I am inclined to believe good times will not be definitely established in the tire business until July, although they may come as early as May."

NEW YORK LIST IS LACKING IN MUCH ACTIVITY

Steels Fail to Find Inspiration; Rail Stocks Fairly Strong

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Lacking an incentive to do otherwise, stocks eased slowly today.

Considerable activity appeared in rail stocks during the morning when New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio and Chesapeake Corporation, among others, rallied, but the general market refused to respond to this bait and the advance petered out. Several rails closed a point lower.

Steels failed to find inspiration from the "Iron Age" report of the third successive weekly increase in operations. Doubtless the industry's firmer tone has been discounted as a market factor.

Final stock prices were again moderately above the lows, although the market was too indolent to support much of a late rally. U. S. Steel closed at 71, off 1⅛, after touching 70⅝.

AMERICAN CAN OFF

American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of New Jersey and National Biscuit, were off from ¾ to slightly more than a point. Western Union broke to a new minimum and finished 2¼ lower. Metal shares seemed disconcerted by the decline in silver and the prolonged production curtailment negotiations. U. S. Alcohol, National Distillers and American Commercial Alcohol rallied. The turnover was only 1,901,597 shares.

Reduction in the Austrian national bank rate was a favorable symptom, indicating more satisfactory conditions in that country, whose difficulties last summer preceded the troubles of Germany and England. Foreign exchanges generally eased against the dollar, sterling closing 2⅛ cents lower at $3.75 for cables. The Japanese yen, however, firmed to 49.15, against parity of 49.8.

The bond market staged a narrow irregular decline as activity shrank. Sales on the stock exchange amounted to $6,025,000, compared with $13,500,000 Tuesday.

New Grades for Turnips Issued by Government

An important amendment to government grades for Rutabagas, or table turnips, has been brought into effect by order of the minister of agriculture promulgated in the current issue of the Canada Gazette.

The experiences of the past season showed that while an important step in the right direction had been made in the grading of table turnips, the grades should be modified so as better to suit market demand. Only one quality of turnip Canada No. 1, is recognized in grading and this is classified by size to meet market preference. For example, the Philadelphia market, which imports large supplies from Canadian growers, shows a marked preference for a turnip of good quality sizing from two inches to four inches in diameter, while the New England market prefers a medium sized turnip, from four to six inches in diameter.

A careful survey of the whole situation established the facts on which the modification of grades was made, and the changes were submitted to and enthusiastically approved by growing, shipping and marketing interests before being put into effect.

Perhaps the most important change is in the introduction of the term "shapely." As applied to turnips it means a turnip which is one and one-half times as long as its diameter. In determining this feature individual measurements of many thousands of turnips from representative fields were made.

Each of the four table turnip grades have the same specifications for quality; they must be firm, shapely, and properly trimmed, practically free from damage caused by pithiness, freezing, water core, soft rot, worms, grubs, growth cracks or mechanical means. Otherwise the diameter determines the grades, which are: Canada No. 1 Small, two to four-inch diameter; Canada No. 1 Small Medium, three and one-half to five-inch diameter; Canada No. 1 Medium, four to six-inch diameter; and Canada No. 1 Large, not less than four-inch in diameter.

NICKEL HAS A HALF MILLION IN NET PROFIT

Over Three-Month Period: Equal to One Cent a Share on Common Stock

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 11, (CP)—A net profit of $648,970.25, equivalent to 1 cent per share on the common stock after payment of the regular dividend on the preferred, has been reported by the International Nickel Company of Canada for the three months period ending September 30, 1931.

For the nine months of 1931 ending September 30, earnings of 17½ cents per common share after preferred dividends are reported. In paying dividends of 15 cents quarterly in the first half of the year and 10 cents for the third quarter, a total of 40 cents, the company was obliged to draw heavily on surplus account, which now stands at $18,881,825.25, as compared with about $20,000,000 at the beginning of the year. The directors are scheduled to meet in New York next Monday to consider the matter of a dividend for the succeeding quarter.

The quarterly statement shows inventories at $21,250,826 against $21,-069,000 at the end of 1930. Accounts and bills receivable stand at $4,-779,706, down $1,376,587 from the end of last year, and cash and demand time loans at $3,149,747, down from $9,284,367 on December 31, 1930. Current liabilities stand at $5,545,414, against $7,142,893 at the end of last year.

Net operating income shows a sharp drop from the last quarter, the figures being $1,694,811 for the period ending September 30, against $2,810,499 for the quarter ending June 30 last.

Canada's Best Known Badminton Player Is Jumped by Association

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 11.—(By the anadian Press)—Jack Purcell, Canada's best known badminton player, has been disqualified from participating in any competition held by the Canadian Badminton association, according to a letter addressed by W. M. Stewart, president of the association, to Walter Gilhooly, sports editor of the Ottawa Journal.

Purcell, Dominion singles champion in 1928-'29-'30, has written articles on the game for newspapers and has, it is contended, promoted the equipment of a sports-goods store dealing in badminton goods.

G. W. Aikman, of Toronto, has been automatically suspended from participating in association matches through his apointment as sporting secretary of the Carlton club of Toronto. Aikman is a former Canadian singles champion and has swept Quebec province courts consistently for the past four years.

Purcell has been notified by the association of his disqualification and has been requested for a statement which has not yet been received. President Stewart amplifying his letter stated that it was the intention of those in charge of the game to keep it amateur both in fact and spirit.

LOSES HIS PANTS WHEN TACKLED, BUT KEEPS RIGHT ON

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 11.—Vancouver "Reps" defeated University of B. C. 11-6 in a stubbornly fought McKechnie cup English rugby encounter here today. The collegians proved a big surprise, and fought the more experienced all-stars at every turn.

The half time score was 8-6 for the victors. One of the features was the scoring of a try by Roxborough, of "Reps", after he had lost his pants when a tackler grabbed him near the line. He kept going in his white "undies", and the try proved the winner.

NELSON SENIOR BOYS WIN 45-17 OVER ROSSLAND

Nelson Starts Slow But Snappy Passing and Teamwork Marks Close

A snappy exhibition of passing and excellent teamwork was handed out by the Rossland and Nelson senior boy's teams at the high school gym last night, Nelson winning with a score of 45-17.

A record crowd attended this game, the final of a two game program, and were well pleased with the brand of basketball displayed.

Rossland started fast, immediately settling down to a combination game, whereas Nelson appeared to find the floor strange. Unable to keep the pace set by Rossland, players of the Nelson squad checked hard and went on a defensive game. The locals shot consistently but every shot was wide when in the vicinity of the hoop.

Nelson led at half time, the score 15-10. During this first half Nelson used signals throughout whereas Rossland resorted to rapid movements at crucial moments.

Seemingly finding themselves, Nelson but the basket for point after point in a rush attack led by Bill Lee who combined well with Verne Vance. During the remainder of the period both teams fought for a substantial lead. Richardson, Lee and Vance, at this time, were scoring practically every shot and soon ran up an overwhelming lead. Back checking and trick passing were featured throughout the remainder of the game in which Nelson easily displayed its superiority over the Rosslanders.

Although the pace was terrific during the whole game both teams made their plays cleans and fast, there being practically no evidence of personal fouls, deliberate or otherwise.

McNaughton and Hendrickson starred for Rossland. These two players were the mainstays of the team, and were given fine support by the remainder of their squad.

LeVerne Vance, G. Richardson and W. Lee divided the honors for the Nelson clubbers.

The teams: Nelson Reps.—S. Martin 2; G. Richardson 6; W. Lee 11; G. Wallach 6; H. Farenholtz 6; L. Vance 12; D. McQuaig 2.

Rossland Reps.—I. Hendrickson 7; D. M. McNaughton 3; H. LeFevre 2; M. Purcello 5; W. Purcello, G. Gilmour, A. Woods.

TRAIL CARDINALS WIN BASKETBALL FROM CITY GIRLS

Mary Lawson, Isabel Oughtred Shine; Trail Girls Win 32-14

Trail Cardinals, girls' team from the smelter city, swooped down upon the Nelson girls' rep team and won with a score of 32-14, when these teams met for the first time this season at the high school last night.

The "Cards" opened up with a barrage of shots on the Nelson basket with the result that Rose Severn netted two classy field shots. Nelson seemed bewildered and listlessly backchecked until they became more organized.

Jean Brown replaced Doris Hoefer for Trail. A technical foul was called on Nelson but Trail failed to count. In a melee Mary Lawson of Nelson fouled Rene Balfour who scored prettily. Fast play ensued, Peggy Morrice netting a long shot, immediately followed by fast dribbling of Rene Balfour. Francis Mawdsley scored on the play. Each team was checking hard and playing better than at the start but well-intended shots by Doreen Dunett continually missed the hoop. Accurate passes, fast dribbling and Peggy Morrice completely disorganized the local team. The half-time found Trail still in the lead, the score 15-3.

Nelson came back with a bang and Mary Lawson found the basket for two points. Jean Massey substituted for Doreen Dunnett who was hindered by an injury to her hand, staging a terrific attack on the Cardinals, now on the defensive Nelson combined well, Babe Rhodes scoring on the play. At this stage of the game noticeable roughness caused several fouls. Trail took time out.

With but two seconds of the quarter left, Mary Lawson scored on a snappy play which looked as if Nelson had settled down to business.

ON DEFENSIVE

The Cardinals were forced to assume the defense when the locals pressed hard to reverse the score in their favor. Trail met their crucial moments well and intercepted several passes which were the downfall of the Nelson girls. Babe Rhodes scored when Rene Balfour charged her after dribbling the length of the floor. Towards the end of the game play became fast and ragged and although the Nelson players had possession of the ball more often than did Trail, their shooting was unfinished and unlucky.

The Cardinals had the decided edge throughout the game, at all times demonstrating their ability to organize and break away as a team, rather than individually, towards their opponents basket.

Rene Balfour, long experienced player, guided the "Cards" to their victory and Florence Mawdsley thrilled the crowd with an uncanny accuracy in shooting.

W Lee handled the game expertly.

The teams: Cardinals—F. Mawdsley (8); D. Hoefer (4); P. Morrice (6); R. Severn (6); J. Brown (2); Rene Balfour (6).

Nelson Girls—J. Massey (1); I. Oughtred (2); B. Rhodes (3); M. Lawson (6); L Fleet, D. Dunnett (2); W. Bebbington.

N. H. L. HOCKEY OPENS TONIGHT

Montreal, Detroit and Toronto to See the Opening Games of Season

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP)—Whir of steel skate on glass-like ice and thump of wooden stick on rubber puck in Montreal, Detroit and Toronto tomorrow night will herald the start of another National Hockey league campaign.

Hockey has taken its place in the major league sports picture as the fastest and probably the most thrilling of all winter sports.

In the three opening contests Canadiens will meet the new York Rangers at Montreal, Toronto Maple Leafs will entertain the Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Falcons wil play host to the other New York entry, the Star Spangled Americans. Boston and the Montreal Maroons open the season Saturday night in Montreal.

A close race is forecast with practically every team strengthened by the addition of members of the Ottawa and Philadelphia teams, which suspenced play this year because of financial difficulties.

Opening dates at home for the other teams will be November 15—Detroit at New York with the Rangers, and New York Americans at Chicago; Nov. 17—New York Rangers at New York Americans; and Detroit at Boston.
