NO WAR BEFORE DEC. 4 WARNS LEAGUE

LEAGUE AIR PATROL MAY BE FORMED

Britain "Must Re-Arm" Says Churchill; Warns World to Keep an Eye Upon Germany

Close Cooperation Between Great Britain and France Is Necessary; Warns Mussolini of Running Into African Trap

BRITAIN AGAIN ASSURES FRANCE SHE IS BEHIND COVENANT IN ANY CRISIS

(Copyright 1935, by The Havas News Agency).

LONDON, Sept. 26 (CP-Havas).—Full assurance Great Britain will continue her backing of the league of nations covenant in any crisis was given France today, authoritative sources said tonight.

A letter answering a French question based on anxiety over the security of Austria was presented to Charles Corbin, French ambassador, by Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent under-secretary of the foreign office.

This assurance was understood to have been promised to Premier Laval of France by Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, when the two conferred at Geneva. Following that meeting, Premier Laval made a strong speech supporting the British stand behind the league covenant in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

BRITAIN MUST REARM

Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, in the double-barrelled warning today cautioned Premier Mussolini to weigh the risks of sticking his head in a trap in Africa and advised the world to keep an eye on rearming Germany.

"We must put our defences in good order," Mr. Churchill told the City Carlton club. "We must rearm."

Boy, Who Poisoned Aunt and Uncle, to Plead Guilty

BODIES FISHED FROM WATER IN AN AUTOMOBILE

"I'll Stand Up and Take My Medicine" He Tells Police

POISONED COFFEE TO GET LEGACY

Junior College Lad Worried About the Trouble He Made

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26 (AP)—Leroy Drake, frail, sad-faced junior college student who confessed that he poisoned his aunt and uncle, placed their bodies in an automobile and sent it hurtling into the ocean before dawn last Friday at Wilmington, today told police, they said, that he would "stand up and take my medicine, and plead guilty in court."

Police Detective Frank Condaffer said the 19-year-old youth declared he didn't know what the law would do to him, "but no matter what it is, I'll take my medicine."

The bodies of the youth's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinhuer, were recovered early today, 35 feet below the surface of the harbor near the Grace Lines pier. Condaffer said Drake took officers to the harbor and told divers where to look for the bodies.

MISS PHYLLIS CHURCH ONE OF LAST PASSENGERS LEAVE STRICKEN STEAMER

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP).—Miss Phyllis M. Church of Vancouver, formerly of Nelson, B.C., one of the passengers on board S.S. Dixie which grounded on a reef off the coast of Florida and was held there at the mercy of the wind and sea for three days, has returned home appearing none the worse for her experience.

Miss Church left here in August and booked passage on the S.S. Dixie in the east for New Orleans.

"For a considerable time the passengers, including myself, did not realize what had really happened," she said. "We were told the ship had struck a sandbar and was in no immediate danger.

"I do not think many knew the danger we were in until early the next morning. The crew was exceptionally calm and their quiet efficiency prevented disorder among passengers.

"When the Dixie ran aground nearly everyone was gathered in the sunroom. As she struck, tables and chairs toppled to the floor, and a short time later all windows were smashed."

Miss Church said little sleep was had by anyone that night but "catnaps" were obtained the next day. She was one of the last passengers to leave the ship. She was taken to Miami and then by special train to New York.

CANDIDATES TO BE NOMINATED ON MONDAY NEXT

260 Candidates Have Filed Papers in 76 Ridings

Advance Is in Ridings Covering a Great Territory

By the Candian Press

After weeks of preliminary sparring, next Monday will mark the official call to mid-ring in 76 of Canada's 245 federal arenas. Political heavyweights who answer the bell, in many cases, will find an opponent in every corner.

Multiplication of party groups has already turned the contest into a battle royal across the country; and so it is in most of these outlying or unusually extensive constituencies where nominations are held a fortnight ahead of election day instead of the orthodox week.

The extra seven days are designed to give the candidates a chance to Tecle Hawariate, the Ethiopian delegate to the council of the League of Nations, pictured outside the league building recently. When Hawariate got up to make a speech anent the Italo-Ethiopian situation, the two Italian delegates promptly left their seats and the council room. They explained this by saying that Italy did not recognize Ethiopia's right to a seat in the council.

Ethiopian Problem Is for Italy to Decide Is Reply of Officials of Mussolini

Italy Has Been "Very Patient" and "Freedom of Action" Is Watchword; League Seeks Further Peace Effort

By WADE WERNER
(Associated Press Foreign Staff).

GENEVA, Sept. 26 (AP).—The council of the league of nations solemnly warned Italy and Ethiopia today against war.

At the same time it constituted itself a committee to draft a report with recommendations for settlement of the East African conflict and to consider if "anything further can be done to safeguard peace."

Should either country start hostilities before Dec. 4, the league indirectly warned, it will be considered to have committed an act of war against all league members. This would automatically call for punitive steps.

By JOHN EVANS
(Associated Press Foreign Staff).

COOL RECEPTION IN ROME

ROME, Sept. 26 (AP).—The league of nations' proposal for a three-months truce between Italy and Ethiopia got a cool reception in Rome tonight and "freedom of action" was the official watchword.

A government spokesman reiterated the Ethiopian problem is for Italy, not the league, to solve. Italy has "been very patient" while the league council sought a solution, he said, but he rejected the idea that Italy, by "listening" to Geneva, in any way has surrendered what she considers her right to act as she sees fit.

FRENCH TROOPS FOR ETHIOPIA

Will Guard Railway; Similar Request of Italians Denied

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 26 (AP).—Ethiopia gave France permission today to send 180 French white troops into this country to guard the railroad from Addis Ababa to Djibouti, French Somaliland, Ethiopia's only rail outlet to the sea.

Emperor Haile Selassie at first indicated he would deny the French request but reconsidered when the French insisted.

A similar request made by Italy had been denied. Government officials argued that Italy, if it were a belligerent, would not need such protection, as there would be a complete evacuation of Italians.

FOUR CONVICTED OF RIOTING

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Three men and one woman were convicted today by an assize court jury of charges of rioting in connection with a clash between striking longshoremen and their sympathizers and police at Ballantyne pier June 18.

Two of the accused, Tony Morelli and Mrs. Alice Turner, were acquitted on a second charge of being members of an unlawful assembly but Jack Hughes and Alex McLeod were convicted on both counts.

All four were remanded to the end of the assizes for sentence.

Ratepayer Will Press Baby Bond Suit, Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—G. H. L. Smith, ratepayer who brought suit against the city of Vancouver questioning the validity of the city's $1,500,000 "baby bond" issue, stated today he intends to press his suit despite the British Columbia government's promise to approve the city's authority to carry out the issue.

Vancouver Fight Beat Baer Match

So Declares Premier When Questioned on Joe's Win

CALGARY, Sept. 26 (CP)—Premier Bennett, who was in Calgary last night en route from Vancouver to Saskatoon, had some comment to make on the Louis-Baer fight. Asked what he thought of it, he said:

"I just had one of my own in Vancouver that beat it all to pieces."

He was not worried by the fact the Social Credit party had nominated a candidate to run against him in West Calgary.

"It's the privilege of anyone to run who wants to and why should I have anything to say about it?" was his comment.

33 SAILORS ARE UNDER ARREST

Desertion Charge Is Filed Against Men at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Thirty-three deckhands and firemen of the Wairuna of the Union Steamship company of New Zealand were arrested aboard the vessel today by city police and charged with desertion. They will appear in police court tomorrow.

The arrests were made on warrants sworn out by the master of the vessel after the men had refused to provide steam either to unload the ship's cargo or to return to sea.

A spokesman for the men said they refused to aid in unloading the cargo because Vancouver was classified as an unfair port owing to the longshore strike. One of their number was taken to hospital here shortly after the ship arrived and the crew refused to take the ship out shorthanded, the spokesman said.

MAN IS DROWNED

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Arthur Ellingsen, 45, was drowned today when he fell overboard from the British Columbia bridge & Dredge company's dredge Georgia off the mouth of the north arm of the Fraser river. The body was not recovered.

GUILTY OF SHOPLIFTING

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Jean Stone, who pleaded guilty to shop-lifting and contributing to juvenile delinquency, was sentenced in police corut today to one month in jail but the warrant of commitment was withheld on condition she leave the city.

HANDCUFFED MAN FOOLS OFFICERS

Assaults Officers, Steals Car, Escapes and Then Gives Himself Up

RICHVALE, Ont., Sept. 26 (CP)—Handcuffs proved no obstacle to William Stunden who appeared in magistrate's court today on charges of assault, resisting an officer and theft of an automobile—for all three offences were committed while his hands were manacled.

Arrested last night while allegedly intoxicated, Stunden was in Constable George Deferarri's automobile when he suddenly attacked the police officer, pulled out the ignition keys, leaped out of the car, stole another auto and then led the police on a 70-mile-an-hour chase through Toronto streets.

Although he was able to evade the officers as he dodged through traffic at break-neck speed, the accused gave himself up early today when he returned to Richvale, 16 miles north of Toronto.

Verigin Through With Community

Such Is His Story in Saskatoon; Claims Private Citizen

PETER VERIGIN

SASKATOON, Sept. 26 (CP)—Peter Verigin, for 10 years president of the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood of Doukhobors in Canada, stated here last night he had severed all connection with the community. Verigin said he stood now as a private Canadian citizen. He had no intention of leaving the country, he added.

Mr. Verigin, who has been virtual ruler of the sect in Canada since the death of his father in a British Columbia railway accident, said he had tendered his resignation about six months ago. He would not disclose any reason for his action. He is now on his way to Montreal.

P. J. Shukin of Brilliant, vice-president of the Community, refused to make any comment on the reported resignation of Peter Verigin.

Aberhart Denies Conservatives Are Backing Credit Men

EDMONTON, Sept. 26 (CP) — Premier William Aberhart today denied an assertion made here last night by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, that Conservatives were financing Social Credit candidates in Alberta.

"I do not believe that any Social Credit candidate in Alberta is being financed by Conservatives," he said. "While I am not in close touch with the work of the federal Social Credit organizations, I am fairly able to say that the statement they are financed by Conservatives is not true."

ITALIAN-LEAGUE DEADLOCK WILL COME IN A PERIOD OF TEN DAYS

Resignation and Push Into Africa British Expectation

By CHARLES P. NUTTER
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP).—The deadlock between Premier Mussolini and the League of Nations must come within the next 10 days, it was predicted in some official quarters today, the break coming with Italy's resignation from the league and the simultaneous push of its armies into Ethiopia.

Despite the League of Nations' actions in placing the Italo-Ethiopian deliberations under article XV of the league covenant, official Britain saw no hope that Il Duce would hold his East African legions in check until December.

Article XV calls for council recommendations. Should article XV

HARRY K. THAW SERIOUSLY ILL

QUEBEC, Sept. 26 (CP)—Harry K. Thaw was rushed to hotel Dieu hospital here today critically ill with double pneumonia. He was taken off the liner Empress of Britain following his arrival from Europe.

Thaw, famous New York night life figure three decades ago, who shot and killed Stanford White, New York architect, in a Manhattan restaurant 29 years ago, was given an even chance to recover.

B. C. MAY HELP PAY COSTS OF COAST RIOTS

VICTORIA, Sept. 26 (CP)—Premier Pattullo indicated today the British Columbia government would give some measure of assistance to Vancouver in paying for extra police costs incurred because of the strike riots and disturbed labor conditions in that city.

Following the visit of a Vancouver delegation asking for assistance, the premier said:

"We certainly will have to give some kind of favorable consideration to Vancouver's request.

"What happened there was no more the fault of the civil administration than it was of this government. As a matter of fact this is more fairly chargeable to the federal government."

The specific amount of money sought by Vancouver was not mentioned. It is understood Vancouver incurred extra expenses on policing running into $50,000 or $60,000.

Tweedsmuir Will Arrive Oct. 24

OTTAWA, Sept. 26 (CP)—Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir, with members of their family and staff are expected to arrive at Quebec about noon Thursday, October 24. Lord Tweedsmuir will be sworn in as governor-general of Canada in the legislative council chamber at Quebec the same afternoon, it was announced by Sir George Perley today.

Body, Shot Through Heart, Is Found

VICTORIA, Sept. 26 (CP)—The body of a man shot through the heart and tentatively identified as Thomas Carruthers of Vancouver has been washed ashore on the north shore of South Pender island in the Gulf of Georgia. Police are investigating the possibility he was murdered.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Thomas Carruthers, formerly employed as bookkeeper at the Yale hotel here, left the hotel about a month ago and has not been seen since. Little was known of him at the hotel.

WHEAT SURPLUS WILL BE SHORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (CP)—The world wheat surplus this year will be the smallest in 13 years, the United States department of agriculture estimated today. The wheat supply will be about 330,000,000 bushels less than in 1934-35, due to short crops in Argentina, Australia and the United States.

LOUIS-BAER FIGHT STARTS A SCHOOL RACE WAR; POLICE CALLED HALT ROWS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 26 (AP)—Extra police details escorted negro night school students to and from classes in Cincinnati's west end tonight.

The escorts were assigned following a day of outbreaks between white and negro students of Oyler junior high school. Negro children sent scurrying home under showers of sticks and stones blamed passions aroused at the outcome of the Joe Louis-Max Baer fight in New York.

School and police officials agreed that white youths ranging from the late 'teens to early 20s swooped down on negro children going to and from school. A negro high school boy was beaten severely. Late in the day adults of both races began to gather. Two men and 14 boys were arrested for flaunting police orders to move on.

CHILDREN FIGHT BACK

Turmoil centered about Oyler school in the west end, across the Eighth street viaduct from the downtown section. Around the school the community is white for the most part. Across the viaduct is the principal negro sector of the city. Approximately 100 negro children attend the school.

The negro children fought back

MOTHER ALLOWS OPERATION UPON HER DAUGHTER; FIND APPENDIX RUPTURED

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 26 (AP)—A stubborn mother listened to pleas of police, physicians and parish priests today and allowed her 15-year-old daughter, desperately ill and in danger of death, to go to a hospital for an appendicitis operation.

The girl's appendix already had ruptured. The operation took 20 minutes and later her condition was described as "satisfactory." Physicians declined to say more, except that the outcome would not be definitely known for at least 48 hours.

The girl, Margaret Kerston, was stricken last night. Dr. William McCormich, the family physician, advised an immediate operation. Mrs. Anna Kerston, Margaret's distraught mother, refused and kept away ambulance, doctors and visitors throughout the night.

Mother and daughter, it was learned, had been afraid of operations since the death of Mrs. Kerston's mother following one six years ago.

MR. AND MRS. A. P. GARRETT OF KASLO MARRIED FOR 50 YEARS

Children, Grand Children and the Great Grand Children Gather for Celebration; Came to Kaslo in 1918

KASLO, B.C. — The A avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Garrett was the scene of a happy gathering Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Garrett celebrated their golden wedding.

It was 50 years ago, Sept. 22, 1885 that Miss Geneva Way and Andrew P. Garrett of Tartio, Missouri, were married in that town. After a few years residence in Tartio they moved to South Dakota and in 1903 they came to Canada making their home in Ferguson, B.C. until 1918 when they came to Kaslo, where they have since resided.

Nine children were born to the couple, six of them being present at the wedding anniversary. There are 20 grand-children, 14 of whom were also present, as were five of the great-grandchildren.

Mrs. O. W. Lampert of San Francisco, Cal., and Mrs. H. Mann of Rapid City, South Dakota, sisters of Mrs. Garrett, were also among the relatives gathered for the occasion.

A number of visitors called Sunday to extend their congratulations to the couple, while others learning of the significance of the day to Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, called early in the week.

Mr. Garrett for many years followed mining in this and surrounding districts, but has now retired from active work though still interested in the mining game.

Mrs. Garrett, always a kindly and friendly neighbor, has interested herself in many of the city's good works, though owing to indifferent health at times, has not been able to take active part in these affairs during the past few years.

So far as is known Mrs. Lampert and Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Garrett's sisters, are the only now living persons who witnessed the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett 50 years ago.

GOLD PIECES AS GIFTS

Among the many gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Garrett were an American $5 gold piece minted in the year of their marriage, 1885, presented by Mrs. Lampert and an American $2.50 gold piece minted from gold taken from the 'Holy Terror' mine in South Dakota, near where Mr. and Mrs. Garrett made their home for a time, presented by Mrs. Mann.

The presence of such a large gathering of relatives, especially the children, grand and great-grandchildren made the day a particularly happy one for Mr. and Mrs. Garrett.

During the day a varied array of delicious refreshments were served to the visitors, all of whom signed a specially arranged guest book.

The interior of the home was a veritable fairy land with beautiful seasonable flowers which, in many cases were expressions of admiration and good will of their many friends. The entire community as well as hosts of outside friends joined heartily in the wish that Mr. and Mrs. Garrett may have more years of happiness, health and good fortune together.

Among relatives signing the guest book were Mrs. Garrett's sisters, Mrs. Helen Mann of Rapid City, South Dakota; Mrs. Mary Lampert, of San Francisco, Cal.; sons of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett with their families, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Garrett and children, Douglas, Irene, Billy, Dorothy and Buddie; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Garrett and Floyd W. Garrett; the dughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Agnes Hughes, Ray J. Hughes of Ainsworth; Mrs. C. J. White and her husband of Kaslo, and Mrs. Nellie Harty of Spokane, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were accompanied by their daughters and their grand-children, Mrs. Marion Norberg, Arnold, Jerry and Ray of Ainsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Short and Willmary (Billie) also of Ainsworth, Mrs. Evelyn Ling and June of Vancouver and Ernest (Rusty) Short of Ainsworth. Mrs. Harty was accompanied by two daughters, the Misses Nellie and Merle Harty and three sons, Lyle, Floyd and Raymond and the latter's wife.

Others signing the guest list were Mrs. Hugh Gillis, Mrs. Charles Lundberg, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Price and son Billie, Miss A. L. Hodges, Mrs. John Paterson, Mrs. W. D. MacDonald, Mrs. Mary White, W. L. Billings, S. A. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. MacPhee, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hewat and Miss Elizabeth Giegerich of Kaslo, Rev. Father Cheevers, priest of the Kaslo-Slocan Catholic churches, Fred Bureau of Ainsworth and Miss E. Johnson of Vancouver.

St. Francis Xavier church, the altar decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums and asters, was the scene this morning of a beautiful autumn wedding when Rev. Leo Hobson married Phyllis Lucia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Risoleto to Pietro Bertuzzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bertuzzi. Miss Flora Risoleo, sister of the bride, was the attendant, Ermes Bertol supporting the groom. Irene Larose was a dainty flower girl and Raymond Larose, ring-bearer. Organ accompaniment was played by Miss Kathleen Haley. Given in marriage by her brother, Giovanni Risoleo, the bride was exquisitely gowned in white satin featuring lines of simplicity and molded to the figure. The bodice, which was form fitting, was graced by a cowl neckline and by full sleeves, shirred to points at the wrists. Small diamante buttons decorated the cuffs and the waistline was marked by a sash knotted at the back. The skirt, which was softly flared toward the hemline featured a short train. An embroidered silk net veil was shaped to the head in cap fashion, the lace cap being trimmed with orange blossom. Lillies of the valley, Talisman roses and maidenhair fern comprised the shower bouquet which was tied with a large bow of white tulle. White satin sandals, white hosiery and gloves completed the ensemble. Yellow organdy fashioned the chic dress, of floor length, which was worn by the bridesmaid. A three-tiered cape collar ornamented the bodice, the skirt being trimmed from knee to hemline with frills of self material. A pastel green sash was tied softly at the waistline. Accessories were entone and the bouquet carried was of pale pink carnations and mauve sweet peas. Flora Risole wore an ankle length dress of mauve organdy with bonnet to match and she carried a basket of sweet peas. Raymond Lerose's suit of black velvet was worn with a white satin blouse. At the home of the best man a wedding reception was held following the ceremony, Mrs. Bruno Lerose and Mrs. Joseph Lerose, aunts of the bride, assisting in receiving. A beautiful Italian cutwork cloth covered the bride's table which was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. White Chrysanthemums in silver holders were complementary appointments. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. Thomas Jenkin and Mrs. A. Lenarduzzi, Assisting in serving were Mrs. A. Bertuzzi, Mrs. A. Zanier, Mrs. Tony Bertuzzi and Miss Sarah Lerose. For travelling the bride wore a swagger suit of brown flecked tweed coat and blending skirt with matching accessories. After a holiday spent at Spokane and Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Bertuzzi will return to the city to take up residence.

Creston Couples Wed at Bonners

CRESTON, B.C.—From Bonners Ferry comes word of two marriage ceremonies in that town Saturday that are of special interest here. At the first, Judge Schlette united in wedlock Mae Dishman and Clifford Gennow. The witnesses were H. M. MacNamara and Tom Martin. In the second, the contracting parties were Miss Agnes Biecum and Hans Jensen, whose witnesses were Miss Opal Biecum and Arthur E. Hurry. Both couples are to make their home at Creston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith of Bellvue, Alta., are here visiting Mrs. H. Campbell, who has just returned from calling on friends at Coleman, Alta.

Mrs. Sam Scott, who was with friends at Vulcan and Champion, Alta., has arrived home.

This has been "get-away" week for students at the higher seats of education, Tom Crawford Jr. is away to Toronto, where he is taking his third year in arts at the big Ontario university on an exchange scholarship which he won at Alberta university, Edmonton, last term. Harold MacLaren is at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver where he is taking senior matriculation work. Creston has one student at the provincial normal school Victoria, in Iris Tayor, who left for the capital earlier in the month.

Prior to leaving to commence her second year at Macdonald college, Montreal, Miss Kathleen Bundy was guest of honor at a bridge tendered by her grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Dow. Bridge was the feature, with three tables in play and high score prize going to Miss Ruth Hare, and consolation honors to Miss Jean Henderson. Lunch was served at the close of card play.

Creston has just said adieu to one of its prominent business men in the departure of George H. Kelly, for nine years owner of the drug business known as Creston Drug & Book Store, for New Westminster, where he and Mrs. Kelly and children are at present in residence. The Kellys were active in local musical circles, with Mrs. Kelly taking charge of the musical features of Presbyterian church services. Mr. Kelly was active in sports and all lines of community work, and both will be very much missed. J. A. Barbour, formerly of Bellvue, Alta., has acquired the store business as well as the Kelly residence, Mrs. Barbour joining him here a few days ago.

Mrs. Fenton Smith has returned to Kimberley after a two weeks' visit to friends here.

Rev. Andrew H. Walker reports officiating at the marriage of Miss Ida Rylan of Camp Lister and Fred Kapols of Kimberley, the event taking place at Trinity United church manse here in the presence of Miss Elsie Stieb of Camp Lister and Joe Pieruscha of Kimberley, in which town the newlyweds are to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Mitchell and two sons, George and Alexander, are visiting friends at valley points, guests of Mrs. Mitchell's father, W. G. Littlejohn.

Mrs. Frank Putnam, Mrs. A. R. Lynn, Mrs. R. Stevens and C. B. Twigg, district agriculturist, were at Wynndel where they took full charge of the judging of the 1935 fall fair staged by the Women's Institute.

W. Mackie of Boswell has been making two trips daily from Boswell, bringing in the Gravenstein apples from that point, which are going out through Creston Cooperative Fruit Exchange. The haul will be completed this week.

HERRIDGE TELLS ROSSLAND THE AIMS OF C.C.F.

Attacks Systems of the Conservatives and Liberals

ROSSLAND, B.C., Sept. 26—An attentive audience gathered in K. P. hall, Tuesday to listen to H. W. Herridge of Nakusp, C.C.F. candidate for Kootenay West and Rev. E. W. McKay, C.C.F. candidate for Yale. Leo Nimsick was chairman.

Mr. Herridge remarking that this was the 97th meeting he had addressed since his nomination, said that whether he was successful or not, he would always remember with pleasure the contacts he had made with the people throughout the district. Canada was facing her greatest crisis, said the speaker, and a great deal depended upon how the individual voter marked his ballot October 14. He had known W. K. Esling and D. D. McLean for a number of years, and had a high regard for each of them personally. He was decidedly opposed, however, to the system for which they stood, and would do all in his power to defeat them.

Dealing first with the Conservatives, he compared unemployment in 1930 and 1934, and quoted other figures in an effort to show that tourist traffic had declined from 309,000 to 140,000, though admitting that this was largely due to conditions in the republic to the south; value of wheat shipped to England had declined from $139,000,000 to $75,000,000, this of course reflecting world conditions. There were 10,000,000 pounds of surplus butter in Canada, yet 1,500,000 pounds were imported from New Zealand. This was just a "sample of crazy things being done under the present system," he said. Touching on the prospect of war in Europe he said that the C.C.F. stand was "Not a man is to leave Canada." Bennett was offering an obsolete remedy for unemployment. His refusal to change the Franchise act had the effect of disfranchising about 10,000 in the camps. The Marketing act contained the germs of some good legislation, but only if it was administered under a socialized state. The present system of grading made it impossible for a fruit farmer to ship more than 80 per cent of his crop.

"PLANNED CAPITALISM"

Mr. Bennett was submitting as good a plan as could be devised under capitalistic rule, but capitalism could not be planned and he cited conditions in Germany and Italy.

Mackenzie King on the other hand had an academic mind, he dealt with generalities, without clinching an argument. No two Liberal speakers had the same arguments to present and Mr. Herridge quoted from Ian Mackenzie (who can talk longer and say less than any politician in western Canada), John P. Howden, St. Boniface, who held that machinery should not be allowed to displace hand labor, Henri Bourassa, and "Gerry" McGeer whose idea of balancing the budget, was "just to remove from the budget such items as would prevent it balancing." Hon. H. H. Stevens was merely managing a wing of the Conservative party for Mr. Bennett, and as a member of the latter's cabinet, was responsible for the misgovernment of the past five years, the speaker said.

Sketching briefly the report of the price spreads commission, Mr. Herridge said the Canadian people have learned to "produce" socially, "now we must learn how to 'own' socially." In his opinion the C.C.F. manifesto was the first charter of freedom of the Canadian people. The first step when the C.C.F. came into power would be to introduce a planned economy, which is merely a decision on a national scale to plan production and distribution.

Next in order would be the taking over of the banks and issuing of internal money to be used for all transactions within Canada. Obligations outside of Canada could be taken care of through Canada's huge gold holdings.

The C.C.F. stood for the remodeling of the constitution. Canada was the largest dominion in the Empire and yet it was the only one which had to refer to Westminster when it wished to remodel its constitution. The senate must be abolished.

The speaker, though saying he did not think the C.C.F., as a party, could be elected, called on his hearers to vote that ticket if they were dissatisfied with conditions as they were at present.

Rev. E. W. McKay, candidate for Yale, congratulated Rossland on the progress it had made since his last visit here 15 years ago. He belonged to the C.C.F. because he believed it to be the only movement in Canada today which planned a square deal for everybody. He realized that in Trail and Rossland there were certain influences at work which made it unwise for the working man to wear a C.C.F. button, or say "out loud" that they were going to vote C.C.F., but he was glad there were some who had the courage to voice their convictions even at personal sacrifice.

It was time the "working people learned that banks, mounted police and the military were their servants and should take orders from them." Canada belongs to the Canadian people and they should wake up and claim their heritage.

The speaker gave the names of those members at Ottawa who were allied with the C.C.F. He admired Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett very much personally, but thought Mr. Bennett a very lonely man, since all the measures he proposed for the general well-being, were squashed by his cabinet and the members of the Conservative party in the house of commons. As for the Liberals, well, "you could take your choice and have the brand of Liberalism you preferred." There was the Mackenzie King kind, that "was going to remove many features of the Marketing act," while on the other hand, Charlie Oliver, Liberal candidate in the Okanagan, stated he would "go into the Liberal caucus and 'swing it so the dumping duties would be retained." There was the Hepburn variety, the McGeer variety, the Taschereau system, some "37 varieties" in all.

Quoting the 14 planks of the C.C.F. platform, the speaker said the party stood for bringing in these reforms by legislation if possible, but if "clubs were necessary, then clubs will be used."

A collection was taken.

King Talks of Trade, Progress

No Amalgamation of Rails He Tells Jasper Crowd

JASPER, Alta., Sept. 26 (CP)—Bound for Victoria where he will start his British Columbia campaign with a meeting Friday night, Liberal leader Mackenzie King rode through the Rocky mountains today. He left Edmonton early in the morning and as the train stopped at Edson and Jasper got off to meet crowds of supporters.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Liberal candidate in Jasper-Edson, accompanied Mr. King this far.

At Jasper, centre of a mountain tourist resort, Mr. King made an impromptu speech. He declared he was opposed to amalgamation of the railways but Mr. Bennett had released the Conservative party from any obligations not to amalgamate. "We want no amalgamation of railways," said Mr. King. "We don't want any more monopolies in this country than we can help."

Under his government from 1921 to 1930 the railways had prospered because trade was allowed to move freely. They would prosper again under a Liberal government with policies of freer trade. But the Bennett government by shutting goods out of Canada with a prohibitive tariff had brought about declining exports and decreasing internal trade. All this meant a drying of railway business.

Ferry Traffic Up for August

632 More Passengers Use Main Lake Ferry

Ferry traffic in the Kootenays for August, on the whole, was well above that of the same month of 1934, provincial public works statistics reveal.

While the Nelson ferry carried fewer cars and passengers, there was a big increase in the number of trucks carried. The Castlegar ferry showed an increase all down the line and transported over 3300 more passengers than for the same period of 1934.

The Kootenay lake ferry operating between Fraser's landing and Kuskanook, carried 60 more autos and 632 more passengers.

CRANBROOK SYMPHONY PATRONS NAME REV. J. F. BELL AS HEAD

Mr. Raven, Orchestra Conductor, Believes It Will Be Self-Supporting This Year

CRANBROOK, B. C.—The board of patrons of the Cranbrook symphony orchestra held its first meeting of the fall season Monday with W. F. Attridge, last year's president in the chair. C. V. Edwards, acted as secretary.

A letter from Mrs. J. D. Brackett, secretary of the board, stating that she was unable to carry on the work and containing the resignations of herself and Mr. Brackett was read. High praise of Mrs. Brackett's efficient handling of the office the previous year was expressed by a number of the members and the letter was accepted with regret.

The president stated that Mr Raven, former conductor of the orchestra, had returned from the coast and was ready to commence rehearsals, also that a meeting of the orchestra had been held and certain preliminary arrangements made.

The offices were then declared vacant and Mr. Attridge consented to act as chairman during the election. Though strongly pressed to retain the presidency, he declined. Offices elected for the coming year were: Honorary presidents: Mrs. J. M. MacPherson of Victoria and Dr. F. W. Green; president, Reverend J. F Bell; vice-president; J. P. Fink, secretary-treasurer, W. F. Attridge members of the board, Mrs. C. V. Edwards, Mrs. W. F. Green, Mrs. W. A. Fergie, C. V. Edwards and E. W. Slodin. New members added were Mrs. Hogarth Miss Woodland, Mrs. H. A. McKowan and A. Graham.

Mr. Raven addressed the meeting, telling of his plans for the season and giving it as his opinion that the symphony orchestra should be self supporting. The general opinion was that the town afforded insufficient support for its musicians and a drive for funds to meet general expenses was planned to be carried on much as last year.

The matter of attendance of the orchestra at the Blairmore festival in October was discussed but no decision was made. A request from the committee in charge of the coming teachers convention that the orchestra furnish music for an open meeting to be held in the auditorium in October was referred to Mr. Raven who gladly consented to arrange for whatever numbers required.

C. V. Edwards and W. Raven were appointed a committee to arrange for quarters

Britain or Vatican Could Halt Attack, Says Diplomat

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 26.—Signor Mussolini talks peace but sends troops to Africa. Mr. Eden rushes from conference to conference making frantic, almost desperate efforts to prevent the outbreak of war, but the British government takes no chances and is concentrating men, ships and equipment in close proximity to the danger-zone.

It is most difficult to find out what dispositions Great Britain has taken to safeguard the empire's interest at a very vulnerable spot. Off-hand assurances that no movements of British troops have lately taken place in the Red Sea zones, are ridiculous on the face of it; England never neglects to take precautions when any disturbance, whatever its nature, occurs in proximity to the Suez Canal.

England simply cannot afford to deal lightly with any question affecting countries or regions bordering on the empire's highway to India. British troops have been steadily moving south both in Arabia and in the Soudan since the Italo-Ethiopian dispute became acute. The garrison at Aden, right opposite Djibouti, the only port through which Ethiopia has access to the Red Sea, has been strengthened. The garrison of Amman, capital of Transjordania has moved farther south to Maan, where it occupies part of a view to accommodate no less than fifty thousand men.

Then there is the navy. An Italian flotilla lies in the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb. But there are also six British cruisers, nine torpedo boats and several other small craft. England takes no chances. At every turn the Duce is visibly reminded that whatever he does is watched and that it is within the power of Britain to prevent him from carrying out his aggressive designs against Ethiopia.

BRITAIN AND VATICAN

"There are two powers who only need to say 'No' and there will be no war in Africa," a European diplomat said to me to-day. "The one is England and the other is the Vatican. If England notified Mussolini that an attack on Abyssinia would be followed by British intervention, Mussolini would not go on with his preparations. If the Roman Pontiff declared himself openly against the rape of Abyssinia and called upon the Catholics of Italy to down arms, refuse to fight, there would be an end to the war right now and not only to this war but to every war."

"But that would be interference by one state in the affairs of another," I objected. "For the Vatican is internationally considered a sovereign power, completely independent of Italy."

"Even so," replied the diplomat, "the Pope also has a spiritual status, apart from his political quality as head of a state. He commands the spiritual allegiance of millions of human beings. If he said that this war is unjust, it would make a tremendous impression."

LONDON IS KEY

"Perhaps, perhaps," mused the ambassador, "but think of the moral side, think of the effect such a move by Rome would have upon public opinion throughout the world."

"What are you saying?" I exclaimed. "The church would be denounced as the enemy of national sentiments everywhere. There would be more, there would be persecution and perhaps worse. Look what is going on in Germany. The church would get into hot water everywhere and would be called revolutionary. We are talking about impossibilities. But England that is a different matter. Will Great Britain intervene?"

"Yes, Great Britain plays the decisive role, London has the final say in the matter," replied my interlocutor.

"What matter?"

"What is to become of Abyssinia!"

"Well, what is to become of Abyssinia?" I asked.

"It will be under the League of Nations. But not this league," came the reply.

NEW LEAGUE.

MANDATE

"Not this league," I queried in surprise. "If not this league which league do you mean?"

"I mean the League of Nations as reformed according to the ideas of Mussolini," he came back. "Three great powers running Europe to the exclusion of all the little state, who are not to have a say in major international questions. That's Mussolini's League. It's on the way. Ethiopia will make it. Italy will administer Ethiopia on behalf of"

"That League!" I finished.

"No," corrected the diplomat, "on her own behalf. "As England administers Palestine and Tanganyka in the name of Geneva but in her own interests."

COAL ASHES FOR SCALDS

A sure cure for scalds is an application of coal ashes. Sift ashes in a fine sifter, such as a flour sifter and place in a box. Be sure that there are no wood ashes in it as they contain lye. If a fire is started with wood in the morning but after that nothing but coal is used for the remainder of the day, the top ashes would be from the coal only and are quite safe to use.

LARGE CROWD AT McLEAN MEETING AT SOUTH SLOCAN

Liberal Candidate Makes Plea for Election

Carrying on his speaking itinerary in West Kootenay riding, D. D. McLean, Liberal candidate, spoke at South Slocan on Thursday night before a large audience, and urged support in the coming election so that the Liberal party might be returned to "do the greatest good for the greatest number of people." He was supported by Donald McDonald of Trail. Alex. McDonald was chairman. Following the meeting the Women's association under convenership of Mrs. O. W. Humphry served a light lunch.

Mr. McLean made his appeal for support on the grounds Mackenzie King would be returned as leader in the next parliament and that Mr McLean as a Liberal supporter, by having access to the party caucus would be able to do more for his constituency than either Mr. Herridge of the C.C.F. or W. K. Esling of the Conservative party, who if elected would be in opposition.

He dealt with the innumerable promises made in 1930 by the present premier, R. B. Bennett. These promises had not been carried out Among other things Mr. Bennett promised to abolish unemployment. He would end it.

"In normal times, there are about 100,000 unemployed in Canada. When the Conservative government took office, in 1930, there were 117,000 unemployed, which was very little larger than the average of normal times. In June 1931, after the special tariff measures of the Bennett government had become effective, there were 471,668 unemployed and in May of 1932, there were 725,000 unemployed. Five hundred thousand are still unemployed after five full years of Conservative administration; 250,000 heads of families with dependents are out of work; 250,000 young men and women cannot get jobs. This will illustrate that the Conservative or Tory policies, not even with Billy Ealing, can ameliorate unemployment, and I feel certain that Mr. Herridge of the C.C.F., has no permanent solution to offer to put everybody in the unemployed ranks to work," he said.

HIGH TARIFFS AN INJURY

Mr. McLean deplored the high tariffs in existence in the Dominion. Farmers especially were sufferers. The British preference instead of helping the farmer, only added to his burden by the fact that farm implement costs had been increased. Taxes had been raised under the Conservative regime and W. K. Esling had not stood up to oppose this burden imposed upon the people. Under the Bennett administration, supported by Mr. Esling, sales tax had been increased, thereby increasing living costs to the consumers and working people. An excise tax of 3 per cent placed on all imported goods except from Great Britain had increased prices on staple commodities. Postage and tax on cheques had been raised. Cosmetics and toilet preparations were mentioned as samples of articles that cost more through a special excise tax of 5 per cent.

Auto tubes and tires were other commodities that were higher in price through Bennett taxation.

Canada was poorer under the Bennett government.

External trade fell by 50 per cent; wages were cut everywhere; railway revenues and total wages paid by the railways fell by 50 per cent, and 60,000 fewer workers were employed; the building industry fell to the lowest level of activity on record; the budget showed huge deficits every years from 1931 to 1935 totalling $689,000,000.

The speaker spoke of the prosperous times under the former Mackenzie King government when:

External trade was higher than ever before; wages steadily increased; work was plentiful; railways were prosperous, paid more out in wages and employed more workers than at any other time; the building industry reached its highest peak of activity; the budget showed a surplus each year from 1924 to 1930 totalling $228,000,000; tariffs were lowered; taxes were reduced; young people had greater opportunities than ever before.

C. C. F. PROGRAM INDEFENITE

He referred to the efforts of the C. C. F. to get into power but their efforts were futile. There would not be enough C. C. F. members if all were elected to form a government. They had broached some ideas that were worthwhile but in the main their platform was beyond control.

He urged a Liberal vote on October 14 so that West Kootenay would be in line with the party that would be swept in power.

CUT THIS OUT

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoon four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial. ***

British Educationists Given a Surprise Reception at the Hume

Big Administrative Men Find Themselves the Joint Guests of Teachers, School Board, Board of Trade; Brief Addresses

Summarizing the views of the party of touring British educationalists, at a reception given in the visitors' honor at the Hume Thursday evening, G. T. Hankin, staff-inspector representing the English board of education stated their feeling roughly was that the world was changing rapidly, and it was the business of educationalists to see that these changes were recognized by education.

Mr. Hankin was one of several speakers of British educational administration, on behalf of the party which, without any forewarning, found itself on arrival of the coast train, the joint guests of the Nelson Teachers association, the school board, and the board of trade.

SEE CITY BY NIGHT

Instead of the 10-mile constitutional that most of the party of 13 were planning, the visitors found themselves persuaded into cars, and driven about the city for half an hour or more, to Lakeside park, Gyro park, junior high school, auditorium, and one or two other sections, at Gyro park enjoying a look down over the business section from the bastion.

Then the visitors were delivered at the Hume, for the reception, which was held in the lounge. Teachers, school trustees, and board of trade members, with the visitors, made up a company of probably 70 or 80, with E. A. Mann, vice-president of the board of trade, taking the chair.

Mayor J. P. Morgan welcomed the visitors as representatives of the Old Country with cordiality, noting with especial pleasure that they included a couple of Welshmen, and regretting that at night there was nothing to show them but the lights.

DAWSON GIVES MESSAGE

On behalf of the school board Chairman E. P. Dawson regretted the visitors could not see the school staffs in action, but hoped that Nelson would benefit by the contact. Expressing Nelson's pride in its schools, he said the city had always been trying to keep them in the vanguard in the province. While trying to operate economically, the board did not wish the children's education to suffer, and he could say that the city council, which had to find the finances, recognized this also and gave its cooperation. He expressed the hope that the visitors were taking away a good impression of the province, which was endeavoring to lead in education.

"When you return to the Old Country, we hope you will convey the loyalty and the respect we bear to it. The Old Country is still the standard for us in education," Mr. Dawson concluded.

Chairman Mann, hazarding the conjecture that perhaps there was too much education, doctors and lawyers being turned out who would make excellent carpenters and plumbers, and suggesting that while it was the function of teachers to teach all who were brought to them, the function of educators probably was to separate those who should be educated from those who should not be, next called on Miss Bessie Mackenzie, president of the Nelson Teachers association.

TEACHERS WELCOME

In welcoming the visitors, Miss Mackenzie said the teachers would have liked them to stay long enough to examine Nelson's schools at their work, even if it meant three or four days. Remarking on the probability that all the visitors had ties that called them back to the Old Country, she advanced the theory that this was in the mind of the man who drew up the itinerary, and that they were brought to Nelson at night purposely so that they would not fall a prey to its lure and be obliged to break their ties.

Miss Constance Ogsdon, exchange teacher from Scotland on the staff of the junior high school, in welcoming the distinguished educationists said in her short stay here she had already found the educational system of British Columbia very progressive, and suggested that if Scotland should adopt a policy of resting on its oars, it would soon find itself left behind. She suggested the visiting educationists would find the tour opening their eyes as to Canadian progress, of which one characteristic was the adaptability of Canadians, the average girl having a great variety of outdoor accomplishments. This characteristic she felt the visitors would note.

CONDUCTOR EXPLAINS

First of the visitors to speak was Major Fred J. Ney, vice-president and honorary organizer of the Overseas Education league, who, after taking several thousand Canadian teachers on European tours, in the course of years, is conducting his first educational party from the old country to Canada.

Expressing the party's delight to be at Nelson, even for such a short time, Major Ney did not wish Nelson to feel that they were "hopping through." Actually they had had to cut a day off their coast itinerary, against the wishes of their hosts there, to be able to come through this way. Hearing the exchange teacher, Miss Ogsdon, reminded him that this system was inaugurated on Canada's initiative in 1913. Major Ney also noted that the party was quite widely representative, mentioning the education officer for London, E. M. Rich, for illustration. Mr. Rich, other visitors mentioned subsequently in conversation, has over 20,000 teachers under his control. Major Ney then retired in favor of the men he has invited to reply for the party.

Mr. Hankin, the first of these, after mentioning what he had already learned about Nelson, including the fact that it was not bankrupt, said it was a charming change to find an attitude of expansion and development. They had heard enough of the depression before they started their tour.

HANKIN LOOKS FORWARD

In reference to being greeted at the train here by a gentleman who told him education was costing too much, and to the sentiment expressed by the chairman, that the children were getting too much education, Mr. Hankin said his view would be that children might get the wrong kind of education, but they could not get too much education. Recalling two views of education, one, that it was what was given in the schools, and the other, that it was what one learned throughout life, he raised the question of how far the adolescent of today was getting the right education for the world into which he was going.

"Some of us were educated in the 19th century. We are now in the 20th century. Some of our children will live in the 21st century. They should not receive a 19th century education,' said Mr. Hankin, 'but one that will fit them for what is ahead of them."

This was a time of change. If he were to sum up the general sentiment of the party, he would say their feeling rougnly was that the world was changing rapidly, and it was the business of educationists to see that recognition was given in eduction to these changing conditions.

In addition to enjoying their tour immensely, the members of the party were learning a great deal from it, Mr. Hankin concluded.

WELSHMAN SPEAKS

Y. J. Rees, director of education for Swansea, Wales, who followed, said in addition to the delight of meeting so many Nelson citizens, was the pleasing surprise he got in finding somebody—Mayor Morgan—inquiring for a Welshman. There were always people inquiring for the Scotchmen and Irishmen, but the Welshmen and the Englishmen were not sought out.

After complimenting Nelson on its modernity, and on the foresight of its pioneers which had laid the basis of its present position, Mr. Rees said the remarks of the chairman proved once more that all over the world the sponsors of education had to contend with the same type of chairman of the board of trade, always interested in finance. They look at education through one set of spectacles, we through another," he summarized.

SALTER COMPLIMENTS NELSON

Chairman Mann then extended a general invitation for any of the visitors to speak, and E. Salter Davies, C.B.E., director of education for Kent, spoke in response. He said Nelson would live in his memory under three heads: first, the unexpected kindness and hospitality extended to the party here; second, its brightness, both of its streets and of the minds of its people; third, that though here only for a few minutes, he had seen something of Nelson's zeal for education.

Like Mr. Hankin, he could not agree that children could have too much education; he also agreed with Mr. Hankin that they could get the wrong kind.

In England they often heard misquoted in connection with education the religious injunction, misrepresented to be: "Be content in the state of life to which God has called you." But who was to say what was the state of life to which God had called a particular child, in a day and a country of free democracy, he demanded.

When the chairman referred to a child getting too much education, he no doubt had the same thing in mind as the visiting party, that he should have education adapted to his needs.

Chairman Mann then announced to the visitors that a copy of the booklet, "Nelson and the Kootenays," would be given to each one, and the formal program ended with "God Save the King."

The teachers then took charge of the function, serving tea and sandwiches in the silver room.

Members of the party, all of whom were big administrative officers, controlling finance as well as supervising teachers, were: S. T. Hankin, staff-inspector representing English board of education; D. D. Anderson, inspector of schools representing the Scottish department of education; William D. Coubins, director of education, Londonderry and Limvady, representing northern Ireland; Y. J. Rees, director of education for Swansea; W. A. Hepburn, director of education for Ayrshire; Dr. J. E. Smart, director of education for Acton (London); W. A. Brockington, director of education for Leicestershire; F. H. Toyne, education officer for Brighton; E. M. Rich, education officer for London; E. Salter Davies, C.B.E., director of education for Kent; Thomas B. Tilley, director of education for Durham; J. A. Peart, director of education for Winchester; Fred J. Ney, vice-president and honorary organizer Overseas Education league.

At the train were representatives of the board of trade, Associated Boards, school board, and the school principals.

Woman Killed by Sheriff's Men

SCOTCH PLAINS, N. J. Sept. 26 (AP)—Deputy sheriffs charged with the task of arresting John Crempa, militant farmer foe of New Jersey's largest utilities company, for contempt of court, shot and killed Crempa's wife, Sophie, at the family's home today.

The 40-year-old woman fell with fatal bullet wounds on the front porch of the small farmhouse. Deputy Sheriff Edward Carolan, heading the officers, said the Crempas, including their daughter, Camille, 21, fired the first shots after being driven out of their house by tear gas bombs.

Crempa, 43, surrendered when he saw his wife fall. He was hit in the left knee and a finger by bullets, was placed under arrest and taken to hospital. The daughter also was arrested.

Today's fatal battle was the climax to a four-year tued between Crempa and the Public Service Electric & Gas company. The trouble began when the farmer refused to accept a condemnation award of $800 for a power line right-of-wray across a section of his property. They failed to reach a nagreement but the power line was built. Since then, the company has alleged, Crempa has repeatedly hampered service by short circuiting the line.

William Marler Is Dead at Coast

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—William de M. Marler, 49, prominent Vancouver business man and brother to Sir H. M. Marler, Canadian minister to Japan, died today in St. Paul's hospital.

MOONEY WITNESS CLAIMS HE AND MOONEY FRAMED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26 (AP).—Warren K. Billings added his voice today to the cry that he and Tom Mooney were "framed" by a private detective for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

Testifying in Mooney's habeas corpus hearing, the little Folsom life termer said Martin Swanson, special agent for a public utility, had approached him four days prior to the explosion and asked him to appear against Mooney in connection with the bombing of a power line involved in labor trouble.

Billings said he refused and Swanson became angry.

Last Big Golf Tourney Starts on the Week-End

Golfing reaches a climax at Nelson this week-end and next week-end, when the last big program of the season, featuring the club championship play for the Appleyard-Lowe cup and the Ruth Armstrong rose bowl, will be staged.

At the time of the year when the beautiful Nelson Golf & Country club links are a riot of autumn colors, greens are in fine shape, and there is a tang in the air that invites close competition, this wind-up event is always a popular one.

This year, with four outstanding new-comers in the field, Danny Stack, R. Watson, P. I. Cameron and D. Clarke, and with senior members shooting a better game than in several seasons, the men's tournament promises to provide even keener battles than in the past three or four years.

Only four ladies have signed on the dotted line to compete for the Ruth Armstrong rose bowl.

Qualifying play has been progressing in the past week and scores have been turned in as follows: Danny Stack, 70; B. Townshend, 71; B. Watson and I. Cameron, 76; Dr. T. H. Bourque, 78; T. W. Wilson, 80; C. W. Appleyard, 82; A. Baird, 84; L. McPhail, 86; L. S. Bradley and C. H. Stark, 88; John Fraser, 89; J. G. Bunyan, W. Blane and A. Lambert, 90; D. Clarke and F. G. Schroeder, 91; R. E. Horton, 93; R. L. McBride and R. Pollard, 94; B. L. Marley, 96; B. Lambert, 98; G. W. Davis, 102.

DRAWS MADE

Play starts over the week-end. First and second rounds will be completed this week-end with the finals set for the following week-end.

Draws have been made as follows in the men's championship flight:

1 p.m.—D. Stack vs. L. A. McPhail.
1:05—Dr. T. H. Bourque vs. A. Baird.
1:10—L. S. Bradley vs. C. H. Stark
1:15—J. G. Bunyan vs. P. I. Cameron.
1:20—R. Watson vs. C. W. Appleyard.
1:25—D. Clarke vs. A. Lambert.
1:30—W. Blane vs. T. R. Wilson.
1:35—J. Fraser vs. B. Townsend.

Second flight, men's:

1:40—B. Lambert vs. B. W. Marley.
1:45—F. G. Schroeder vs. R. Pollard.
1:50—R. L. McBride vs. R. E. Horton.
1:55—C. H. Hamilton vs. G. W. Davis.

Ladies' championship flight:

12:45—Mrs. James O'Shea vs. Mrs. L. S. Bradley.
12:50—Mrs. B. Townshend vs. Mrs. G. S. Godfrey.

Sidewalks Are Frost-Coated

The fall season has been well established at Nelson with cold, frosty nights, clear afternoons and a riot of colors in the hills.

When the mercury dipped to 31 degrees Wednesday night and to a low point again Thursday night, sidewalks and house-tops were painted white with frost. So far as is known there has been no serious damage by the frost. Thursday the mercury varied between 31 and 66 degrees.

POLES MOVING FROM NELSON

Eleven Cars Go, Four Rolling; Line Up Log Contracts

Pole shipments during the past four weeks have been exceptionally heavy for the Schaefer-Hitchcock Pole company. Some 11 cars have rolled from the Fairview yards to the company's distributing points at Newbrighton, Minn., and Priest River, Idaho, and four more are being loaded.

At present the Nelson firm is lining up log contracts for next season's run at the Fairview mill. A few logs are being unloaded at the mill but this is just a clean-up of 1934-35 contracts.

Austin Carter, manager of the Hudson's Bay company store at Nelson, has received word of his promotion to be supervisor of all company stores in the interior of the province. He will leave Nelson in two weeks to reside at Kamloops.

Mr. Carter came to Nelson from Saskatoon three years ago and during that time he has been an active member of the Nelson Gyro club and the Nelson Curling club. He is a member of the Gyro executive at present.

Junior Football Team to Travel

TRAIL, B.C., Sept. 26—Trail representative sports teams are going places and doing things these days. Trail soccer team visited Kimberley recently and copped the East and West Kootenay soccer title. Trail lacrosse team left for Vancouver to play Richmond for the British Columbia title and Friday Trail's junior soccer squad will leave for the East Kootenay to see if they can repeat the accomplishment of the senior aggregation.

The Trail youths will leave Friday and play in Fernie Saturday. If successful there, they will proceed to Kimberley and contest the representative team of that city on the following Sunday.

Those making the trip from which the team will be chosen are L. Evans goal, K. Adcock, P. Thatcher, S. Dembicki, J. Kendall, J. Miller, W. Savage, R. Groom, W. Strachan, L. Cook, G. Bruce, W. Groon and J. Deans.

R. W. Savage and Bob Laurie, president and secretary of the Trail Football association, and Manager Jim Strachan will also make the trip.

Flashes From the Wires

A tropical hurricane blew up the Caribbean sea toward Yucatan, Mexico, Thursday night while Cuba kept a weather eye upon it.

The Mexican national observatory said the hurricane, whose intensity increased during the day, at noon was 230 miles east of Cape Gracia a Dios, Nicaragua.

WINNIPEG MAN VISITS SCOUTS

F. W. Thompson of Winnipeg, Manitoba provincial Boy Scout commissioner, Thursday night inspected some 30 Nelson Scouts and entertained them with lantern slides showing camp scenes around Winnipeg and scenes of out-door activities at Victoria and other points. The pictures were accompanied by an interesting talk given by the commissioner.

Prior to his visit three boys, Barney Prestley, Bill Hamson and Ernie Doctor, were invested as members.

TRUCK RUNS ON REAR WHEELS

Upends With 7-Ton Machine for Rink; No Damage

A portion of the ice plant for Nelson's new skating and curling rink landed unceremoniously in the ditch on Lake street Thursday afternoon. The ice company workers were taking the last piece of machinery from the box car in the yards to the skating rink plant room. It was a seven-ton brine cooling tank, cylinder affair, about three feet through. Inside the 16-foot tank are 200 pipes each two inches in diameter. The tank was loaded onto a truck in charge of Noel Harrop and was being conveyed into the recreation grounds, when going up the rather steep grade, the heavy cylinder over-balanced the truck. To keep the truck in balance nine or ten men were perched on the front end.

However, when the front wheels got up the incline the weight of the tank suddenly shifted and the front wheels of the truck suddenly took to the air. The truck started backwards and the men piled off. Mr. Harrop, at the wheel, had no control over the steering of the heavily loaded machine, but by presence of mind he refrained from braking the machine until the right moment when he halted the truck on a small incline at the edge of the street. Nothing was damaged but the truck stood on its back wheels with the front wheels about four feet in the air until arrival of a wrecker which assisted in getting it back on all four wheels.

The brine tank was successfully negotiated into the grounds later. This is the last piece of the ice-making apparatus to reach the city and work will proceed immediately on installation, cement footings and foundations having been already poured.

30 Boys Line Up for Rugby, Trail

TRAIL, B.C., Sept. 26—There was a favorable turnout to the first junior rugby practice of the season when 30 boys, including last year's junior team, went through light training under Coach W. O. Williams at Butler park Thursday evening.

After wading over the material it was found that 17 were eligible juniors and Mr. Williams figured it might be possible to go ahead and train a strictly junior team. Last year the Trail juniors numbered 22 and about 12 or 14 are still eligible to play junior this year.

Requests Refund for Rail Ticket Bought in 1914

EDMONTON, Sept. 26 (CP)—A man in Los Angeles is seeking $11.25 refund on a railway ticket he purchased in Edmonton 21 years ago. "I didn't use it, how about a refund," he wrote to the local agent of the Canadian National railways. His request, along with the ticket, has been forwarded to Winnipeg for judgment.

FUNERAL OF THOMAS ABRIEL AT NAKUSP IS IMPRESSIVE; NELSON CLERGY, CHOIR IN ATTENDANCE

Stores and Schools Close for Two Hours in Respect to Prominent Worker; Came to Nakusp in Year 1892

NAKUSP, B.C.—A large gathering attended the impressive funeral services Monday at the Lady of Lourdes Catholic church for Thomas Abriel, who died Friday in his 69th year. Rev. Father J. C. McKenzie of Nelson paid tribute to the memory of one of the town's most highly respected citizens and spoke beautifully of the life hereafter. Rev. Mr. McKenzie was assisted by Father Hobson of Trail. Father Cheevers of Nelson and Altar Boy Ross Chiles of Burton.

Members of the Nelson Catholic choir assisted with the music.

Interment was in the Catholic cemetery, Nakusp.

Pallbearers were J. Parent, G. Keys, R. Islip, G. H. Gardner, C. Turner and R. McWhirter.

The places of business and the schools of Nakusp were closed for two hours Monday morning, testimony of the esteem in which Mr. Abriel has been held.

Thomas Abriel was born at Pope's Harbour, N.S., in 1869. He came to Nakusp in 1892 and was always prominent in the activities of the town.

Mr. Abriel opened a real estate office here in the early days and also operated the Nakusp Trading company for a number of years. He was a notary public and justice of the peace.

For years Mr. Abriel was a trustee on the Nakusp school board. He worked unceasingly as a member of the Arrow Lakes hospital board. He was interested in the activities of the Farmers institute, the board of trade and the Agricultural and Industrial association.

Mr. Abriel was a prominent Conservative and for several years was president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers association.

The chief mourners were two adopted sons, David Fulkco and Richard Blyth, and a niece, Mrs. D. Fulkco.

Prisoner Breaks Jail, Penticton

John Hyzka Was Due to Serve Term at Nelson

Thought to have sawn his way out, John Hyzka, who was to have started a 23-month term in the Nelson provincial jail for the theft of property at Penticton and Tadanac last month, made good his escape from the Penticton lock-up about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday. News of his escape reached Nelson late Wednesday.

John Hyzka pleaded guilty at Nelson recently to having taken part in the robbery of James Buchanan's home at Tadanac and was sentenced to a year in the provincial jail. Later he was taken to Penticton to face a similar charge and was sentenced to 23 months in jail, terms to run concurrently.

SOCIAL CREDIT IN KOOTENAY

Plan to Nominate a Candidate on Saturday

CRANBROOK, B.C. — A public meeting on Social Credit was held in the K. P. hall Tuesday, when speakers were E. W. Sjodkin of Cranbrook and C. R. Laing of Calgary. T. Alton was chairman for the evening. He is travelling with Mr. Laing and arranging meetings in different parts of this riding. The speakers explained the principals of Social Credit, and how this system would solve British Columbia's paradox of poverty in the midst of plenty." They told that Social Credit was "a glorious possibility and not merely a fantasy of the mind."

Following the public gathering a meeting was held to form a Social Credit group here. There were 15 members signed up. Officers elected were E. W. Sjodin, president; A. Rider, vice-president; W. J. Wilson, secretary-treasurer. They appointed eight members to attend the nominating convention to be held in Cranbrook on Saturday, September 28, these were W. Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. Parkins, E. Whiteford, A. Rider, Mr. and Mrs. Sjodin, D. Stone.

This group is to be called Cranbrook Social Credit Group, No. 1.

Mr. Sjodin and Mr. Laing left Wednesday for Kimberley, and will speak in Creston, Fernie, and the Columbia district. Social Credit will contest a seat in the coming election.

British Children Arrive at Coast

27 Boys, 14 Girls Are Quick in Making Friends

DUNCAN, B.C., Sept. 26 (CP)—Twenty-seven boys and 14 girls from the British Isles, ranging in age from 8 to 12 years, have made themselves right at home on the Prince of Wales Fairbridge farm school near here following their arrival yesterday.

"I am amazed at the vigor they displayed and their mental alertness after the long journey," Major H. Cuthbert Holmes, member of the school committee, stated today.

"They trooped out of the busses on their arrival and romped about the farm grounds to their heart's content. They jumped into the farm wagons and made friends with the horses. Joyfully they surveyed the countryside and displayed the keenest interest in the trim new cottages which have been built for them to occupy. It is good to see the children so happy."

DISTRICT LADIES ENTERTAINED BY NAKUSP WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

NAKUSP, B.C.—Saturday afternoon in the Small hall the Nakusp Women's institute entertained the sister institutes on the Arrow Lakes, namely Edgewood, Needles, Burton, Arrow Park and East Arrow Park.

At 2:30 the affair started with a program of interesting items. Mrs. C. Howarth president of the Nakusp society, gave the address of welcome. She paid tribute to the memory of T. Abriel, one of the town's most prominent citizens who died suddenly Friday. She asked that the guests stand for one minute of silence.

Mrs. Howarth continued with the thought of the part played by women in public affairs, mentioned particularly the Ethiopian situation. She urged that all the women present take a definite stand against war. The forthcoming election was also referred to and each woman was asked to consider well before casting a vote.

A vocal solo was rendered beautifully by Mrs. G. D. Stibbs and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Parkyn of Burton favored with a vocal duet. Two items much appreciated were a recitation by young Miss Stella Horrey and a pianoforte solo by young Miss Bernice Jordan.

W. B. Allan sang "Good-bye" and W. Vinall played "The Lost Chord" as a trombone solo.

Mrs. A. J. Grigg gave a splendid reading, which was her own composition and Rev. C. Addyman gave an amusing monologue in the Yorkshire dialect.

Musical numbers by Mrs. G. P. Horsley and Mrs. C. Howarth were well presented and G. H. Gardner jr. rendered a pianoforte solo. Mrs. H. Kershaw gave a comic reading.

Following the program a banquet was served. Covers were laid for some 100 guests. Autumn flowers tastefully arranged decorated the tables.

The presidents from the various institutes present, in turn thanked the Nakusp ladies for the entertainment.

MENUS, RECIPES and HINTS

Menu Hint

Baked Hash With Eggs
Squash, Buttered
Apple-Celery Salad
Banana Pudding Tea

Let us use baked hash as the main dish of the dinner today. We have some scraps of meat left over and some cooked potato, and so, with some fresh eggs, we'll be economical.

Today's Recipes

Baked Hash—To each cup of chopped ham andd two cups chopped potato, one tablespoon melted butter, a tablespoon cream and a dash of pepper. Pack into a well-buttered baking dish and bake 30 minutes. Make as many depressions as desired on top. In each depression drop an egg. Sprinkle egg with salt and pepper and return dish to oven for egg to set.

Banana Pudding—Six small bananas, one tablespoon butter, juice of one lemon, one cup boiling water, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon red cinnamon drops (if desired) Peel bananas and cut first crosswise and then lengthwise. Place in a greased baking dish, and pour over it the lemon juice, sugar and water, and cinnamon drops. Cover and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees until the bananas are tender—about 20 to 30 minutes. The cover may be removed during the last few minutes, and more sugar added so that the bananas will brown slightly. This may be used in place of a vegetable. If a dessert, serve with cream.

Ripe Tomato Jam

Two pounds tomatoes, two pounds sugar (four and one-half cups), two lemons, two cups water. Cut peeled tomatoes in pieces, cover with sugar and stand while cooking the whole lemons in the water. When tender chop fine, discarding only seeds. Add to the tomato and simmer until the jam will set when a little is put on a cold plate. Stir constantly to prevent scorching.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND THE EMPIRE AGREEMENTS

"They make for the expansion of business, the development of our natural resources, the development of manufacturing industries, and the expansion of trade. Anything along these lines creates business and labor."

In the foregoing terms, W. K. Esling, M. P. for Kootenay West, presented in parliament in November, 1932, the argument for ratification of the Ottawa agreements between Canada and the other Empire countries, for reciprocal preferences and reciprocal trade.

Showing that British Columbia produced 49 per cent of Canada's output of lumber, 50 per cent of the fish, 98 per cent of the lead, and 90 per cent of the zinc, which articles of schedule "C" were then under discussion, the items of copper, fruits, apples, poultry, and farm products having been previously disposed of, Mr. Esling found it hard to believe what was the fact, that the Liberal, Labor and Independent members for British Columbia had with one voice voted against the agreements. Their action was despite the fact that three of the Liberals were lumbermen and two others had constituencies with huge lumber interests, while two others, including the Labor member, were supposed to be interested mainly in matters affecting labor and the standard of living.

It was difficult for Mr. Esling to believe the evidence of his senses at that time, as to the reception being given by the opposition delegation from British Columbia to the Bennett government's deal with the Empire countries for new markets for Canadian products, there being most important special reasons for British Columbia to be interested, and interested above any other of the provinces.

However, there were British Columbia representatives to back this great departure for reciprocal Empire trade, and to carry by their votes the ratification that brought it into force, with results of outstanding benefit to British Columbia.

In this instance, he has done in all other matters, Mr. Esling correctly interpreted the wishes of the electors of Kootenay West.

A WARNING

Punch, the famous English comic journal, has a striking cartoon which represents ex-Kaiser Wilhelm warning Mussolini as follows:

"Think twice before you defy world opinion. I tried it once and found it didn't pay."

If Mussolini continues on his present course and defies public opinion as Punch says, he will find in the end he will be the sufferer. If he persists in his invasion of Ethiopia, if he is resolved to commit international brigandage, there will be a reaction against Italy which even if it does not lead immediately to war will have serious consequences. Mussolini is playing with fire and the man most likely to be burned is himself.

The Kaiser and the Junkers in 1914 felt more secure than does Mussolini today. They had no doubt of their success and could not imagine that four years later the Kaiser would be an exile. World sentiment today is more sensitive than in 1914. There is a stronger feeling against brute force as a means of settling international problems. There is a deep undercurrent of protest among all nations against the raid of an almost helpless people. Racial feeling is stronger than ever before. Yellow and black races are becoming self-conscious. Mussolini may start something that in the end will drive Italy out of Africa entirely.

He had best listen to the warning of the Kaiser as expressed by Punch.

SPEEDING UP WAR

The infantryman who plodded twenty miles a day, laden with pack and rifle, seventeen years ago, will read reports from Pine Camp, N.Y., and wonder at the changes time has wrought.

The stories tell of the movement of an entire division of infantry, field artillery, engineers, medical detachments and signal corps at a speed which at times reached thirty miles an hour.

Radio patrols eliminated the possibility of surprise flank attacks. Mechanized cavalry constituted the advance guard, while one of the outstanding features of the day was the work of a signal company, which laid eight miles of telephone wire in twenty-five minutes.

Science has given speed to war and it is doubtful if the world will again witness the warfare of position which so largely distinguished the World War and in which millions of men remained entrenched in the earth for weeks and months at a time.

However, it is no more pleasant to anticipate a swiftly moving war, one distinguished by the whirring of motors, than it is to contemplate one marked by the plodding of hob-nailed heels on the hard highways and through the mud.

All achieve finally the same objectives—a shambles of torn and bleeding bodies, devastation and misery for years to come.

AN AMUSING HAND

Last evening I encountered quite an interesting hand, with a problem concerning the best way to play it for game, both doubled and vulnerable.

Bidding went: South 1 club, West 1 no trump, probably showing two stops to my longer biddable suit; North 2 diamonds, South 2 hearts, West 2 spades, not vulnerable; North 4 hearts, sensing that probably I never would bid for game if he said only 3 hearts; West, doubled.

The opening lead was the 5 of spades, Dummy's lone 10 and East's Q covered. It was an excellent opportunity to false-card with my Ace, as if East held the K, and I won with my higher spade honor.

Probably West held about everything missing, and I played the hand that way. The ace of hearts was led. I felt that if I played the Q that West would win with the K, lead off the third trump and probably cause me ultimately to lead a diamond, thus putting me down one trick. I led a low heart, as if I had made a dreadful four-card heart bid, lacking the Q. Of course I was suspected, but West was too cautious to risk putting up her K with the possibility of catching her partner's lone Q. Dummy's 10 held the trick.

I led back a club, finessed and lost to the Q, just as I had expected West was smart enough to take her Ace of clubs, before leading another spade. When I was in my K of spades I ran off my seventh, eighth and ninth tricks in clubs, discarding dummy's useless diamonds. West would not ruff with the K, having no sound return lead. That said plainly enough that West held the missing K of diamonds, and I had the means of forcing West to lead diamonds for almost a sure game.

At the tenth trick a low heart was led, forcing West to win with the K. The last three cards held by each player were as shown below. West was end-played.

If West led her good spade, dummy would ruff and declarer would let go a diamond, insuring game. If West led either K or J of diamonds the three last tricks must go to the declaring side and give game, doubled. Doubtless the hand might have gone game in other ways, the way honors were held, but the way it was played made West feel as if it was the fault of not winning the second heart trick.

HUMAN LIFE

Sad is our youth, for it is ever going,
Crumbling away beneath our very feet;
Sad is our life, for onward it is flowing;
In current unperceived because so fleet;
Sad are our hopes for they were sweet in sowing,
But tares, self-sown, have overtopped the wheat;
Sad are our joys, for they were sweet in blowing;
And still, O still, their dying breath is sweet;
And sweet is youth, although it hath bereft us
Of that which made our childhood sweeter still;
And sweet our life's decline, for it hath left us
A nearer Good to cure an older ill;
And sweet are all things, when we learn to prize them
Not for their sake, but His who grants them or denies them.

GLANDS EXAMINED IF STUDENT GOES WRONG

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

In the old days when a fellow beaned his uncle on the head with an ax, or drained the baby's milk bottle, it was put down to a sort of general misunderstanding of what things were all about, and not having got the fifth and sixth commandments quite straight in his head.

Now we examine his glands.

The endocrine glands.

I have been reading an article on "Endocrinology and the Problem College Student," by Dr. Harry J. Benjamin. The idea, of course, is that when a student displays some irregularity of conduct or inability to succeed in class work, he is turned over to the specialist, who examines his ductless glands.

"An important group of students to which special attention has been paid are those in whom a discrepancy exists between the results of their intelligence tests and the results of their school work. Occasionally a definite thyroid or pituitary, or combined deficiency of both glands was revealed. In several cases treatment tending to augment the work of these glands and improve their function had a striking result, improving the quality of the patient's work in college. Naturally the suggestion that it goes with such treatment may play a large part in the result; but frequent changes in physical manifestations of glandular function constitutes evidence that an actual endocrine change has been accomplished."

INDUSTRY ADOPTS IDEA

Industrial organizations have had the same idea presented to them. For instance, one of the railroads has a consulting endocrinologist, and, according to the report, has provided something not only to preserve the health of their employees, but also to preserve and increase their individual efficiency.

Dr. Benjamin is conservative in his evaluation of results, our present knowledge being what it is, and properly so, it all looks very nice on paper, but I don't know.

Not that I doubt the influence of the ductless glands on life, but I doubt whether we know enough about them yet to make such fine-hair discriminations. Certainly our ability to correct their disordered actions is far too small to found a new social structure on.

It sounds fine to read that a "definite thyroid or pituitary or combined deficiency was revealed," but only those who have tried to establish a diagnosis in frank and well-marked cases know how hard that is.

It's too bad, for it's a beautiful idea. If we could find out the reason for mental and character maladjustment on the basis of glands, and had means to correct them, thing what we could do to this ugly old world.

Annual endocrinologic examination of congress might really solve the problem.

Heaven knows how we could influence literature. Only for the better, I should think. "Who is engaged at the present moment in preserving notes on the internal secretions of Einstein? Who is investigating the endocrine glands of Paul Vatery?" asks Andre Maurois. Well, there is a diabetic society in London largely made up of literary men—H. G. Wells and Hugh Walpole belong to it I understand, and diabetes is an endocrine disease. Is literature lack of insulin? Do we not read that Shakespeare's "sugared sonnets" circulated among his private friends?

Summer Invocation

O gentle, gentle summer rain,
Let not the silver lily pine,
The drooping lily pine in vain
To feel that dewy touch of thine,
To drink thy freshness once again,
O gentle, gentle summer rain!

In heat the landscape quivering lies;
The cattle pant beneath the tree;
Through parching air and purple skies
The earth looks up, in vain, for thee;
For thee, for thee, it looks in vain
O gentle, gentle summer rain.

Come thou, and brim the meadow streams,
And soften all the hills with mist,
O falling dew! from burning dreams
By thee shall herb and flower be kissed,
And earth shall bless thee yet again,
O gentle, gentle summer rain.

Miniature Daffodils Are Beautiful

Miniature daffodils of many varieties lend themselves to plantings in rock gardens and compact borders

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Garden Expert

The miniature daffodils used in the rock garden give us something very beautiful to look forward to for next spring. These small bulbs should be planted this month, and there are several varieties to choose from, some yellow, some white.

These bulbs seem to thrive and multiply among the rocks, as most of them have come to us from mountainous regions.

Bulbocodium conspicucus, often called the Hoop Petticoat narcissus, is a lovely, golden yellow flower and only grows to about six inches. Glitter, another fine type, is a deeper yellow, having a red edge about the cup. This variety grows a few inches taller.

The pearl is a double narcissus which is sweetly perfumed. An old white is Triandrus albus, often called Angel's tear. The flowers are bell shaped, pointing downwards.

There are many other named varieties on the market, but any one will be interesting to start with. These bulbs should not be planted where manure is mixed in the soil. Most all varieties prefer a sandy loam, which is well drained and where they may have partial shade.

SCOUTING A SUBSTITUTE DISCIPLINE

HE CHALLENGES SOCIAL CREDIT AND THE C.C.F.

Editor, Nelson Daily News:

Sir—The Social Credit and the C.C.F. are both imputed with the common desire of substituting something, that will take the place of Capitalism, the arch destroyer of human liberty. In this respect they are both more advanced than any other of the political parties.

Unfortunately neither have yet discovered the proper method for this solution. But, when they do, mankind will enter into a social organism, such as that discovered by Edward Ballamey in his dreams, "Looking Backward."

The excusable error, which both have made is that the Social Credit for its solution draws on created wealth, as a basis for credit, and the C.C.F. bases its reform on distribution or confiscation of created wealth; both of which do not confirm with natures laws, and causes undue disturbances.

Permit me, in all humbleness, to inform both Social Credit and C.C.F. that unless they can establish control over nation's unspent energy, and make use of the intrinsic value of the wealth which those unspent energies produce, as a medium of exchange, their efforts will only be rewarded with a partly temporarily relief of our economic ailments.

I have wrestled with the solution for a perfected exchange system for over 55 years, as, at the age of 25, I discovered the inefficiancy and moral unjustice in our present monetary system. And it is only during the last 10 years, that I have been able to discover a substitute for our monetary system that will correct all the evils, that mankind has inherited from our present monetary system.

If you are interested you will find the framework, for such an exchange system, published in the "Nelson Daily News" of July 13, 1935, under the heading "Energy Medium of Exchange."

May I draw your attention to an article in the "Vancouver Sun" under date of August 31, 1935, by William Ward, and specially note in columns 5 and 6 of said article, "the Nations Wealth," (assets and liability of Canada).

The first that meets your eyes is "Man Power" (which translated means unspent energy). Of this there is a round number of one hundred and twenty-seven thousand millions, and below the total debts of our Dominion, less than twelve thousand millions. Deduct these 12 thousand millions from our 127 thousand millions—the wealth of our man power—and we still have 114 thousand millions to the good, with a clean sheet from debts. Does this look as if we could not pay our debts? No! No! No!

But I will tell you what it does prove: Our record proves, that the more wealth, in men and mechanical power (energy), we possess. The better equipped we are to go in debt, under our present monetary system, which has proved to usurp three-quarters of all the wealth created by man and mechanical energy.

Nothing short of outlawing our present monetary system and substituting for it an energy medium of exchange system, based on nations' unspent men and mechanical energies, will save our civilization.

Leave those in possession of wealth, with their wealth frozen, and when they want to make use of it from a liquid assets account for their own use and comfort, the rest of nations' subjects will reap as much good from their wealth put into circulation as they themselves.

You men of learning! Dispel the hypnotic influence that our present monetary system wields over your brains, and save the common people from its tyranny over them!

The wealthy as well as the poor will be thousand times more happy and content.

O. J. WIGEN

BY THE GOLDEN GATE

By GERALD S. REES

Part II

On a round-the-city sightseeing car, the megaphone wielder at the bow-end has stupefied us with statistics of the famous city by the Golden Gate—his home-town. Millions have flowed from his lips, but he has as many millions in reserve Passing one world famous university, he announces that it has an endowment of forty million dollars, and spends every penny of its revenue. What price high-priced education! I thought of interrupting him with the statement that we have provincial governments in Canada that if they had forty million dollars for a golden background, would not only spend every penny of the income but be about forty million dollars in the "red". The megaphonist rattled off details of the University of California with its million dollar stadium—or was it ten million?—It seems as if a gate of a quarter of a million for the big football matches is not unusual, I do not know whether he meant people or dollars.

After he had finished, I silently framed up my own little "spiel" and the prologue went something like this—"Ladeez and Gennemum—This famous university on your left, the home of snake dances and cheer-leaders, contains within its horrific stupendousness, on certain days of the year, hundreds of thousands of red-blooded he-men and she-women, who play this mild and gentle pastime of murderous football vicariously with their lungs and throats, instead of with arms and legs, as super-super athletes in football togs chase up and down the grid-iron, making bone-crushing tackles in "column of lumps", fighting and falling for dear old Alma Mater. . . ."

I have only seen one of these big football games in America, but I'm telling you it is a battle royal from start to finish, and almost anything goes except mayhem or murder. The spectators may not sport the "old school tie" of the English public school, but boy-o-boy, how they root for their own colors.

Our kinsmen in the States call the wonder state of California, "Cal" for short, but they will not stand for the abbreviation of San Francisco to 'Frisco. They bridle at anyone who reverts to the title of the Forty-Niners, so remember this when you come up to see San Francisco some time. Also, that historically, the bay city never had an earthquake in 1906. It had a wallop-ing fire that put the skids under the streets, but any jittery expression of Mother Earth on that occasion is not officially recognized by the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the Morticians' Union, or the Worshipful Company of Beauticians.

At the present moment, San Francisco is enthusiastically bridge conscious. High above the shining landlocked waters of the bay, the spinning wheels are running laying a gossamer web of steel wire from which will be hung, towards the end of the year, part of the roadway constituting the longest bridge structure in the world. And this is only one of them. Another is being built further up the Golden Gate—it too will probably be the longest in the world!

One conversational resident, a friendly old chap, informed me in the best star-spangled manner, almost gleefully, that enough wire will be used in the cables to girdle the globe eight complete times, though why anyone would wish to tangle this old world in an eight-times lasso just now is beyond me, seeing that it is in such a seemingly hopeless tangle already, and most of the tangle caused by a barbed wire complex. He added that enough steel would be used to load a freight train twenty miles long, but did not offer to show me the locomotive that could pull it, or the chief train despatcher who would have to nurse it over the road. I think he also remarked that the umpteen millions rivets used, if laid end to end, would reach from old Jerusalem to the New Jerusalem. I agreed with him it would be "some" bridge. I invited my American friend—"You must come up and see our Auditorium sumetime!"

If all the steel rods being used in it were framed up into a cage, it would be the biggest bird-cage in the world. But what use would that be? The concrete to be used would make a solid shaft twenty feet square and two miles high (I must get Johnnie Burns to check this over for me)—"We expect to have it completed before the snow flies, though the actual date of its completion is cached away in the archives of the city hall, and can only be verified by calculating the length of an interior passage-way in the interior of the Great Pyramid of Gizeh. Anyway, it will be ready when your bridges are, and many years before our election bridge is built across Kootenay lake."

San Francisco is planning a World Fair in 1938 to celebrate their orgy of bridge building; they want to make the Century of Progress Fair in Chicago look like another small town carnival.

The bay city has heard of the neat profit of the Chicago fair, and the millions which clinked through the cash registers of the hotels, restaurants and stores, and think that what was good enough for dear old Chi., is somewhat near right for the Golden city of the Last Best West. One expects that they will be running excursion trips from Honolulu, Japan, and Manilla, to say nothing of week-end tourists tours from Mexico, Panama and South America, but whether the populace east of the Rockies will travel westward two or three thousand miles to California is another question.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

EMPEROR DEEMED SAFE

An ardent Tokyo nationalist, happening to enter a Japanese Baptist church in which Christmas service was being held, heard the word "save" used in the prayers for the Emperor.

He objected, and the preacher excused himself on the ground that he was quoting the Seikokwai prayer book. The patriot accused the Seikokwai to the local police. They sent on the complaint to metropolitan headquarters, which sent it to the Home Office, which requested the church to change the wording because "save" applied to his Majesty was "fuonto," improper, or "wukei," disrespectful.—From The London Times.

THE DEVIL'S MANSION

COPYRIGHT — REX JARDIN

(CONCLUSION)

He waited while Blair clambered down into the boat, and then swung the small boat around and headed toward the yacht, at full speed.

The waters were dark beneath them . . . ahead was the slender outline of the Wanderer.

"She's goin' out, I'm sure . . . we gotta hurry!"

A slight spray was hitting Blair's face, and the salt water stung his eyes, as the boat, low in the water, plowed swiftly toward the vessel.

Charlie was right. The Wanderer was getting up steam. When the launch neared her, the two men could hear the engines turning.

"Better turn off the power," Blair warned. "They might hear us . . . we can row to her."

"They can't hear nothin'. The engines is turnin'." However, Charlie did turn off the power, and they floated to the side of the Wanderer. Blair blessed the dark . . . otherwise the launch might be seen.

"How can we make it up the side?" Blair whispered softly to Charlie.

"Leave it to me, and hand me that rope!"

Blair obeyed and Charlie, curling the end into a lariat, with a mighty swing of his arm, threw the line. A soft thud, and Blair saw it around a rail post. Charlie made it fast to the launch. Then light as a cat the youth climbed the rope. Blair waited until he was up, before he started.

It was harder climbing for the older man. He had not tried to shinny up a rope since his boyhood.

However, he made it slowly, and when on the rail, let himself gently to the deck.

"The gal's stateroom is 'A' on the port side. 'B' is right next to it. You'd better go ahead. I'm gettin' scared."

Blair took his revolver out of his pocket and held it tightly in his hand, then stepped ahead on his tiptoes. When he had walked to the prow, he looked back for Charlie. He had not heard the boy coming after him. Yes, there he was, at his elbow. . . .

"A" . . . the letter danced in front of his eyes when he saw it, shiny brass against a white door. Janet was in there! Janet!

Blair's heart leaped, when he turned again to Charlie. "Is there another entrance?"

"Yeh, one from the saloon, and one from stateroom 'B'."

Putting his hand on the brass knob, Blair found the door to stateroom "A" from the deck locked.

"Better try the saloon."

Charlie led the way there. The saloon was dark. Taking Blair by the hand, he drew him through the room, and before Blair knew it, his hand was touching cold metal! A doorknob! This, too, would not turn. It must be locked from the inside!

"Hell! We're sailin'!" he heard Charlie hiss behind him. True, the yacht was moving.

The window on the deck! This might be open! Blair, half stumbling over a chair turned to leave. It was getting lighter. The dawn was breaking. He could see dimly the objects in the saloon.

In a few moments the two were on deck again . . . and Blair was standing under the window of stateroom "A". It was open a crack.

Unfastening the shutters, he peered into the stateroom. Someone was lying on the bed . . . Janet! It must be Janet!

If he could get her out and down the rope while the yacht was moving slowly . . . they could get into the launch and be away . . . but if the yacht were to speed up!

He lurched against the window. The Wanderer was speeding up!

"Janet!" he called softly, so softly he hardly heard his own voice. "Janet!"

The figure on the bed rose. Janet was looking toward the window, her eyes opened wide, staring at him.

"It's I . . . Blair!" Pushing open the window, he leaped into the stateroom and Janet was in his arms, her face pressed close to his.

He was kissing her lips, her eyes, her hair. . . .

"I've a launch outside . . . it may be dangerous . . . but we can try it. . . ."

"Who's there?" a voice demanded. Blair, his arms still around Janet, looked around. The voice seemed at his side.

Janet covered her face and started to moan.

"Who's there?" came the question again.

Blair looked bewildered at Janet. Where was the voice coming from? Her eyes met his, and then moved to the door which was just a few feet from where they were standing. The door evidently led into stateroom "B".

Gently taking his arms from the girl, Blair's fingers tightened around his revolver, and tiptoeing to the door, he flung it open and stepped in.

There was a scream and then silence. . . .

The light switch was near the door. So snapping it on, Blair looked at the thing on the floor . . . the thing that had screamed and then fallen at his feet.

Recoiling a little, he knelt for a moment. A man? Heavens!

Maurice Boisevain. . . . was this he? The love child of Morelle Boisevain, the child of Morelle and Maurice Creel?

The head of a man, yes. A head bristling with red hair like Morelle Boisevain's, except more vivid, more brilliant . . . hair such as Blair had never seen before. Coarse, almost like bristles. . . .

A head as big as his own . . . the features were not badly formed, except that the face seemed evil, horrible, the mouth twisted, the lips bluish in hue.

A face that might have been handsome if it had not carried so much hate, so much vengeance in its expression.

But the body. . . . .

It could not be more than two and a half feet in height; strongly built regardless of the stature. The limbs were wiry but muscular. The small hands were clinched, the muscles of the arms knotted.

The body was clad in a red velvet robe, a robe that might have fitted a small child. Green slippers were on the feet.

He put his hand on the wrist of the dwarf at his feet.

Maurice had fallen when he had come in . . . screamed and fallen. He might have fainted.

But no, there was no pulse, nothing to indicate the man was alive, although the green eyes were open.

Hesitating a moment, Blair closed the eyes. Maurice was dead. Probably of fright, he thought. He who had been so fearless in the dark. . . .

Glancing around the room, Blair noticed a well-bound leather box, with straps for carrying. In the side were two small apertures. Perhaps this was the way Maurice had entered the boat . . . unseen by the crew. As luggage.

Perhaps this was the way he had traveled, afraid that anyone would see him. . . .

Closing the door behind him, Rodman was in stateroom "A".

"He's dead, Janet. He must have died of heart failure, when I came in."

The girl clung to Blair and put shaking arms around his neck, "Darling, it was so terrible . . . " she kept murmuring.

"We'll go now. I'll call the captain and tell him to stop." Blair gently put Janet on the bed, and reached for the phone. Yes, O'Malley was willing to stop. Glad to, if the fiend in stateroom "B" was dead, as Mr. Rodman said.

"I never really saw him in there . . . Maurice I mean," Janet was saying. "He told me I would never see him. . . . Twice I saw his face in Miss Boisevain's crystal . . . even that was terrible. . . ."

"He's dead, Janet, darling, don't worry any more. . . ."

"But, Blair, he fitted into a leather box! I nearly died when I got into the car at Miss Boisevain's, the car that took us to Vancouver, I thought I was alone at first, until I heard him talk, and discovered he was in the box. . . . I broke a string of diamonds he gave me, and threw them out. It was the only thing I could think of. Did you find them?"

"Yes, that's how I finally came here."

"And Blair, at the hotel he used to come into my room at night, after dark and talk to me. He could see better in the dark he said than in the light. But, I, I could not see him. . . .

"Here on the ship, he spent hours at night with me, sitting on that stool . . ." and she pointed to a small footstool on the floor . . . "telling me how much he loved me. He made Captain O'Malley marry us . . . in here, Maurice was in the next room, but he could throw his voice any place. That's what used to frighten me the most, because at first I thought he was right beside me. Then I realized he was not, that he only had the power of throwing his voice. . . . He used to tell me he loved me because he could not mould my mind to his.

"You see he gave me all the orders, and then was near so he could hear me repeat them. I don't know what he would have done if I tried to escape, or disobey him. . . ."

"He's dead, dear, and the Wanderer has stopped. Shall we go?"

"Yes! But what she we do with his things? His money? He has a trunk full of it. And all the jewels he gave me? Every night when he came in, I would find on the bed the next morning some jewel, a ring, a necklace, something."

"Rightfully they would be yours, wouldn't they?"

"No! Let's take them to Nita. . . . she's stood for so much from him."

While Janet was gathering her things, Blair looked around the stateroom. It was luxuriously furnished, but the mirrors, there were many of them, were all opaque.

"Maurice painted them with something the first night I heard him," Janet said. "He did the same thing at the hotel in Vancouver."

There was a little silence and Janet began again. "Blair, one night he read to me . . . some poems of Shelley's . . . in the hotel. It was as dark as pitch in the room. Another time he acted out a whole play for me . . . here. If I had not been so frightened I would have marveled at it. . . ."

TRAIL JUNIORS PLAY KIMBERLEY

Clash for Kootenay Title Sunday

KIMBERLEY, B.C. — Trail juniors will meet the McDougall football team at Kimberley Sunday, Sept. 29 in the second annual game for the championship of the Kootenays. The kick-off is scheduled for 3 p.m. at Lindsay park.

McDougall club won the fixture last season by four goals to one, after a good game, and is looking forward to repeating Sunday. A dance will be held at McDougall hall Saturday night for the visiting team.

The club may play the Fernie juniors at Fernie the following Sunday. This will bring another season to a close, the team being unfortunate in not being able to get as many fixtures as last year, through lack of teams of their calibre, intermediates.

The gym classes are to start Saturday, Sept. 28 when another large enrolment is anticipated. With basketball already organized and badminton ready to call a meeting, the winter session is all ready for commencement. The schedule is effective from Oct. 1 until May 1, 1936.

ORILLIA TAKES BOXLA CROWN

ORILLIA, Ont., Sept. 26 (CP).—Orillia Terriers tonight won the eastern Canada lacrosse championship, defeating Verdun, Quebec champions, 13-4, in the second straight game of the series. The Terriers, holders of the Canadian title in 1934, won the first game in Montreal, 19-6, and will now move west to continue defence of their title.

LOS ANGELES IS IN WIN COLUMN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26 (AP).—Los Angeles defeated San Francisco's Seals 4-3 today in the third game of the championship playoff series to determine the 1935 Pacific Coast league baseball pennant winner.

Beaten the first two contests, the Angels came back to outhit their local rivals in a contest featured by the individual stick work of Gene Lillard and Joe di Maggio, leading home run hitters of the league.

BRADDOCK SAYS HE'LL TAKE JOE

Has Good Left Hand and a Right Cross Would Hurt Him

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (AP)—James J. Braddock, world's heavyweight champion, says Joe Louis can be licked.

"And," he blurted, "I think I am the guy to do it."

Braddock, arriving in Chicago today to referee a wrestling match, was a little heated over remarks hailing the brown bomber as the "unofficial" champion.

"I am ready for Louis," he said, "and hope to get him for my next fight in June. How will I fight him? I cannot outline my campaign for you today, but I'll say this: I will keep on top of him all the time. I have a good left hand and I think I can nail him with a good right cross when he is open. And Louis is wide open for a good right."

"What about Maxie's crack that Louis never will get a shot at the title," Braddock was asked.

"Say for me that Max doesn't know what he is talking about."

MAX SCARED TO DEATH

Braddock, who fought his way from the relief rolls to win the world's championship from Baer three months ago, said Baer was scared to death when he crawled into the ring to face the Detroit bomber Tuesday night.

"That goes for Carnera and Levinsky, too. They were all scared to death. They looked like they were tied to a horse. That doesn't go for me, though.

"Louis hasn't met any opposition yet. Baer tried to fight me but he didn't try to fight Louis. Max Schmeling will cause Louis a lot of trouble with his left hand if they ever get together."

"Hey Champ," yelled one of his admirers, "I understand Louis says he doesn't expect any trouble from you?"

"Nobody expects any trouble from me until they get it," Braddock replied, "and Louis will get it. He leaves himself wide open for a right, nobody has hit him yet, and you can't tell whether he can take it or not. They'll find out all about that when he gets in there with me."

DEWSBURY WINS

LONDON, Sept. 26 (CP cable).—Featherstone failed on its own ground in a second round Yorkshire Rugby cup game today, being defeated 12-2 by Dewsbury.

Jews Invited to German Olympics

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP).—The German Olympic committee today informed Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, United States members of the international Olympic committee, that Jews would be invited to join the Nazi team.

40 OR MORE IN B.C. GOLF

Danny Stack Unable to Compete This Season

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Forty or more of British Columbia's finest golfers will tee off tomorrow morning at the Quilchena course in search of the provincial open crown won last year in Victoria by Don Sutherland of Vancouver. Seventy-two holes of medal play will decide the championship.

Sutherland, the champion, will be paired with E. Walls of Vancouver for the first round. Phil Taylor, favored Victoria professional and former champion, is paired with George Thomas, Vancouver, and Jimmy Todd, prominent capital city amateur, is paired with Fred Wood, Vancouver and peace portal professional. Fred Clunk, Victoria, and R. Dickinson, Vancouver, will go around together.

Jimmy McLarnin, former welterweight champion, is paired with Harry Winder, university pro. In addition to Sutherland, other leading Vancouver threats are Dunc Sutherland and Dave Black, among the pros, and Ken Black, Stan Leonard, Ted Charlton and Benny Colk among the amateurs.

Post entries will be accepted on the tee and, although several leading players of the province were missing, it was possible they would yet enter.

Danny Stack of Nelson, champion of the interior golfers and former member of the Manitoba Willingdon cup team who was to have been a contender, is unable to take part this year but hopes to enter the tournament next year. Stack had planned on making the trip but when he went east this summer he was forced to cancel it.

Doreen Jane Is Favored Horse

Quoted at 100 to 8 to Win Cesarewitch on October 8

LONDON, Sept. 26 (CP cable).—Sir Abe Bailey's Doreen Jane was quoted at 100 to 8 in today's call-over for the Cesarewitch stakes, to be run October 16.

Other odds: Lucky Patch, Shining Cloud, 100 to 7; Tommaok, Hoplite, 18 to 1; Chrysler 20 to 1; Woodstock and Bunkawi 33 to 1.

For the Cambridgeshire stakes on October 30, Lady Raifli's Finalist was quoted at 100 to 6. Other odds: Highlander 20 to 1; Negundo 35 to 1; Law Court, Wychwood about 28 to 1; Knighted, Badruddin, Almond Hill, British Quota 33 to 1; Pepino 45 to 1; O'Grady 50 to 1.

Trail's Soccer Team Is Coming

Coast Stars Are on Nelson's Lineup for Sunday

When the Trail senior soccer team invades Nelson on Sunday to play the local team in the second game of a best out of five game series for the West Kootenay title, at least six players on the Nelson team will be making their first local appearance. The game is scheduled to start promptly at 2:30 p.m., and judging from the performance put up by the locals in their first game of the season against Trail in the Smelter City last Sunday, the locals should give Trail all they can handle.

Bob Patterson, George Kulai, Lyman Carter, Bert Hendricks, Bill Bates and Gee Stanley are all former coast players who have made a name for themselves with some of the strongest clubs in Vancouver. New Westminster and on the Island. Stanley was formerly a star center forward with the famed Chinese Students club; Kulai and Carter have both played with teams competing in Dominion championship finals; Bates, Hendricks and Patterson are all well known to coast fans.

More interest is being taken in the coming game than in any previous soccer game played in Nelson in many years.

DEATH FIGHT OF GRIZZLY CAUGHT FOR THE MOVIES

EDMONTON, Sept. 26 (CP). — Eight feet of enraged grizzly bear reared on its hind legs and clawing the air savagely in front of a motion picture camera made a real-life drama sufficient to pale any scene faked in Hollywood, a party of five big game hunters from the United States related today on their arrival here from the Grande Prairie district.

While Dr. A. V. Denman, Mankato, Minn., fired lead into the grizzly which the hunters found devouring the carcass of a caribou they had shot, P. A. Prisbrow, president of the National Bank of Mankato, ground away faithfully with his camera to get a complete "close-up" of the brute's death fight.

The hunters spent 21 days in the mountains 135 miles south of Grande Prairie.

By BILL BRAUCHER

TOMMY BRIDGES

It would be hard to decide who throws the best curve in the majors . . . but the sharp-breaking out-drop tossed by Tommy Bridges of the Tigers is as good as any, according to hitters who have missed it.

Bridges

In point of games won, Bridges has been running neck-and-neck with Schoolboy Rowe, his teammate . . . recent figures showed them with 18 victories apiece. Bridges came to the Tigers in 1930, three years before Rowe came striding out of the west.

In the world series last year, Bridges started the third game, and was rudely slammed out of the box by the Gashouse Gang in the fifth inning . . . but two days later he came back to gain revenge, winning from the Cards by a score of 3 to 1, the lone tally being a home run poled into the pavilion by Catcher DeLancey . . . in the last game Tommy was one of a thin red line of Detroit pitching heroes that took it on the chin as the Cards romped 11 to 0.

Last year was Bridge's best season since coming up in 1930 . . . he won 22 games . . . during each of the two previous years he had won 14 . . . one of the disappointments of his career came in the season of 1932 . . . pitching against the Senators, Bridges had only one man to retire in the ninth for a no-hit game . . . Manager Walter Johnson sent Dave Harris to pinch hit, . . . Harris spoiled the record with a single on the first ball pitched.

Scout Billy Doyle of the Tigers discovered Bridges when Tommy was pitching for the University of Tennessee team and signed him to a Wheeling contract in 1929 . . . from Wheeling he went to Evansville, thence to the Tigers.

Bridges, whose full name is Thomas Davis Bridges, was born in Gordonsville, Tenn., Dec. 2, 1906, and married a home town girl, Carolyn Davis Jelliscorse, in 1930 . . . the home address still is Gordonsville.

DIZZY DEAN WILL ATTEMPT STOP CUB ADVANCE; PAUL ALSO ON JOB

Bill Lee and Root Will Hurl for Cubs in Double Bill

By PAUL MICKELSON

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26 (AP).—Rainfall, as steady as the march of the carefree Chicago Cubs, washed out Charlie Grimm's plans to clinch the National league pennant today and gave the four down and four to go St. Louis Cardinals a merciful rest for a double header rally tomorrow.

The final hopes of the world's champions will be the Dean brothers in tomorrow's twin bill, starting at 11:45 a.m., M.S.T. Given the "amazing" record of four days' rest, Dizzy will fire all he's got in a desperate attempt to snap the Cub 19-game winning streak in the opener. If he succeeds, brother Paul, at his own request, will pitch the second. Should the great Dizzy fail, it will be all over.

"General" Bill Lee, giant right-hander whom the Cubs purchased from the Cardinal farm at Columbus two years ago for $35,000, will oppose Dizzy in a mound duel that promises to be as exciting as the victorious 1-0 battle of Lonnie Warneke over brother Paul yesterday. Following Lee will be the veteran Charlie Root, whose revived right arm has been one big season for the sensational pennant drive of the Grimm men.

Dizzy, somewhat tamed but nevertheless cock sure, said he would stop the mad Cub rush and win his twenty-ninth in the first game.

"Yah, they're good, those Cubs," said Diz, "but ol' Diz will stop them."

THIRD LANARK TAKES ON DONS; CELTIC TO CLASH WITH HEARTS

GLASGOW, Sept. 26 (CP cable)—For the past couple of weeks the impression has grown in Scottish soccer circles that this isn't Glasgow Rangers' year. In recent seasons the team whose roster is studded with noted international players, has practically made the first division of the Scottish soccer league a one-team show.

Things have been different in this campaign and today finds the Ibrox Park eleven in third place, three points behind the pace-making Aberdeen club.

In the battle for leadership last Saturday between Celtic and Rangers, the Celts emerged on the top side of a 2-1 score. During the week, however, Aberdeen straddled Celtic with a 3-0 decision over Hamilton Academicals.

This week-end finds Third Lanark in the unenviable position of entertaining the fast-stepping Dons.

CELTIC AND HEARTS

Celtic plays before a home-town crowd Saturday against Hearts.

Rangers travel to Motherwell and the champions will fight hard not to let their supporters down again.

One of the most improved teams in Scotland this year is Edinburgh City, the door mat of the second division during the 1934-35 season. Edinburgh meets Raith Rovers on the latter's ground Saturday.

A good fight is going on for top honors. St. Mirren leads the parade with Falkirk and Morton dickering for the runner-up position, one point behind.

All three teams are playing at home. The Paisley side meets Cowdenbeath, Falkirk is visited by East Stirling and East Fife journeys to Morton.

Huddersfield, Sunderland and Manchester City Expect Wins

LONDON, Sept. 26 (CP cable)—Playing at the top of their form, Huddersfield Town, Sunderland and Manchester City, leaders in the English Football league, are not expected to lose ground as a result of next Saturday's games.

Bolton Wanderers visit Huddersfield but since their promotion to the premier division at the end of last season have performed indifferently and are hardly likely to succeed. Sunderland is fancied to win from Chelsea at Stamford Bridge despite the pensioners' recent improvement. Manchester City has never played better than at present and it will take Portsmouth all its time to keep down the score at Maine Road.

H. Davis is playing his 100th consecutive game for Sunderland, which means that he has not missed a match for two and a half years.

Fourth place Middlesbrough is at home to Everton. The home team is one of the fastest and most forceful attacking sides in the league and in view of this the Lancashire club is making changes in its defence. Britton and Thompson, wing halves who have held their places for several seasons, are being dropped in favor of Mercer and Archer.

Several changes are being made in the Liverpool side to play West Bromwich Albion and while the decline of Arsenal is the talk of the day, the Gunners are still a good team and can be depended upon to put up a stern battle at S' ke.

LEADERSHIP AT STAKE

Leading the second division by a point over Manchester United and Southampton, Leicester City may be forced to surrender its advanage at Blackpool. The Seasiders are on the fourth rung of the league ladder and put up a great game before their own supporters. Southampton and Manchester United meet on the former's ground and a bitter struggle is in prospect.

As a result of mid-week games five teams with 10 points each are tied for leadership of the third division, southern section. They are Coventry City, Bournemouth, Reading, Torquay United and Crystal Palace. Torquay and the Palace have played eight games and the others one less. It is on the cards that Reading and Crystal Palace will forge to the front Saturday. Both teams play at home.

Tranmere Rovers, out in front in the northern section, visit Mansfield Town at the week-end are favored to capture the points.

Rain Washes Out Cards Vs. Cubs Go

(By the Associated Press)

The torrid National league pennant race remained in status quo today as rain washed out the second of the crucial Cubs-Cards series.

The washout failed to help the trailing Cardinals, however, as they still must win all the four remaining games to tie the rampaging Bruins for the title.

Even if one of the remaining contests is not played, it will mean that the Cubs take the pennant as they would hold a four-game margin over the world champions on the losing side.

Here is how they stand:

DETROIT SEEKS LOUIS BATTLE

Jacobs Considers the Auto City for the Schmeling Go

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP). — Busy Mike Jacobs, already in the midst of planning a European and South American tour for Joe Louis, halted long enough today to consider a proposition that would shift the site of the proposed Louis-Max Schmeling match next June to Detroit, home town of the chocolate soldier.

Representatives of the Ford Motor company, unsuccessful bidders for Tuesday's duel, saw Jacobs again today with the result he will leave Sunday night for Detroit for conferences Monday and Tuesday.

The Ford interests offered Jacobs a guarantee of $125,000 for the Baer-Louis fight, which he turned down.

"I think Louis and Schmeling would draw better than $1,500,000 in Detroit, and there's also a possibility that Chicago, where Louis will make his future home, will get the match," Jacobs said.

GOLF BY ALEX MORRISON

It's possible to make a good swing and still miss a shot in the fairway. The lie of the ball can upset all your calculations to hit clean.

The ground immediately under the ball may be rough or hold a stone so that your clubhead is deflected just before it strikes the ball. On the other hand the ball may be resting in loose dirt which lets your clubface twist instead of remaining straight. All in all, the bite you seek as your clubhead lands on the ball may or may not come off according to the lie.

In hot weather many fairways have stretches where the grass is very short. These hard lies wreck many a shot. It would be nice if every lie found the ball resting on soft turf of uniform height, but it's part of the game to play the ball as you find it.

Don't blame your swing for every miss. Just watch the lie carefully and guage the landing of your clubhead accordingly.

Softballers May Play on Sunday

With the short evenings making it impossible to play any games after work, local fans are requesting that the B.C. Telephone and Hume hotel men's softball clubs, play on Saturday or Sunday morning to settle their differences. In the first two games each team scored a victory, and the third game was not played out when darkness caused the game to be halted in the last half of the ninth, with the score reading 13-13.

B.C. Telephone supporters are claiming that the game should have reverted back to the last even inning which would give the Telephone nine the odd game on the series, but B.C. Telephone players declare as they are confident that they can their readiness to play another game, take the Hume players into camp.

Batting Leaders

(By the Associated Press)

Belting out four hits, including a homer, in five times at bat, Buddy Myer closed in on Joe Vosmik today in the battle for the American league slugging championship. The only ay slugging championship. The only member of baseball's big six in action, Myer sent his average up three points to .345, six back of the Cleveland outfielder.

SINGLE MEN WIN AT NATAL

NATAL, B.C.—Before a fair crowd an exhibition game of baseball was played between the Natal Married Men and the Natal Single Men at the Natal ball park Sunday, Sept. 22, resulting in a well earned 18-8 win for the Single Men. The winners played snappy ball behind the hurling of T. Krall, who allowed but seven hits in the seven innings that he performed before being relieved.

The Married Men did not give their pitcher, L. Krall, the support that was expected as many of the 20 hits that rang off the Single Men's bats should have been caught. Regardless, he struck out 16 of the Single Men to 10 by his opponent, T. Krall.

Both teams displayed snappy ball at times throughout the game but errors proved costly.

A. Androlick led the Single Men in batting getting five hits in six times up, collecting two triples and two doubles. The game was umpired by H. Porter and M. White. This win marked the first for the Single Men over the Married Men in several years in the annual challenge game. Due to the lack of baseball games this year it has been suggested that these teams play a best three out of five games for the Natal-Michel Baseball championship.

Lineups were:

Natal Single Men—J. Krall c, T. Krall p, H. Eberts 1b, A. Androlick 2b, J. Katrichak 1l, J. Letasky 3b, W. Rothel lf, P. Chala cf, P. Zoratti rf, J. Halko.

Yanks Win Only American Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—Making the most of their seven blows while Johnny Murphy was keeping the Senators' 10 hits well scattered, the New York Yankees turned back Washington 4-2 for their seventh straight victory in the only game played in the major leagues today.

Joe Glenn drove in the Yanks' first pair of runs in the first inning, connecting with a single with the bases full. In the second Ben Chapman came through with a double with the sacks again loaded to drive in the other two tallies.

Buddy Myer was the only Senator that caused Murphy any trouble as the former Fordham university star hung up his 10th victory. The veteran Washington infielder drove out four hits, one a home run in the seventh with Mihalic on base to score the Senators' only runs.

The victory gave the Yankees the season's series 15 games to seven.

Spokane Man May Construct Big Customs Ore Concentrator for Boundary and Washington Mines

GRAND FORKS, B.C., Sept. 26.—Plans are rapidly maturing for the construction here of a large customs ore concentrating plant to mill ore from several mines of the Boundary district, and from mines at Danville and Republic, Wash.

Possibilities of central milling plant at Grand Forks for handling ore of this mining area have frequently been canvassed, but urgency for action at the present time has arisen through the recent action of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company in drastically limiting the amount of ore which they will accept because of certain mineral content. The Yankee Boy, Number Seven and Republic mines have been specially affected.

Guy Riegel of Spokane, who has spent some $35,000 in recent months developing the Yankee Boy, has been in town for several days going into the matter of the customs concentrator with engineers and discussing contracts with probable shippers. From present outlook there appears to be ample assurance of ore to justify a plant of at least 100 tons daily capacity.

With the Yankee Boy continuing to show up encouragingly as a mine of considerable gold possibilities, Mr. Riegel first had under consideration construction of a milling plant for this property alone, but was approached to build it larger so as to handle ore from other properties as well. It is understood that he has been given tentative assurance of substantial shipments from Republic, possibly up to 100 to 200 tons daily, and the Morning Star at Danville, Wash., will have 100 tons ore more available weekly, while the Number Seven mine will have an output of around 200 tons weekly.

Mr. Riegel has looked over a probable location at the western edge of the city, available to both Great Northern and Canadian Pacific, and is now going into the matter of power rates. He expected his engineers would have information complete in about a month's time.

Yankee Boy has shipped about 20 cars of ore to date which has run about $75 to the ton in gold. Owing to restrictions of Trail smelter it became necessary to reduce the force at the mine from 28 to 7 men.

Yankee Boy is located about a mile west of town; Morning Star is about six miles distant; Republic, 36 miles away, and Boundary Falls 35 miles distant.

In half an hour, Janet and Blair were in the big launch which belonged to the Wanderer, Janet's luggage and Maurice's belongings beside them. Charlie was in the small boat, waving to them happily.

"Maurice told me, Blair, that before he met me he hated everyone, even his mother, for he blamed her for all his troubles, although he did not tell me what they were. He said he did not know then what love meant. And that, through me, he would be regenerated. . . ."

Blair interposed:

"Captain O'Malley is going to take him out to sea and bury him, Janet. It's best, I think. And we're not going to lose any time getting back to New York!"

"Are you quite sure he's dead, Blair?" Janet asked as she snuggled up to him.

"Quite. Shall we be married here in Seattle now . . . as soon as we land?"

"Why . . . I guess so."

Blair kissed her upturned lips, and patted her golden hair.

CORN SOARS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (AP)—Possibilities of big damage by frost tonight to the United States corn crop swept the corn market suddenly upward today almost 2 cents a bushel.

Official forecasts indicated peril of frost tonight in seven states with the killing variety looked for on a broad scale. Double danger was feared, the corn crop as a whole being later this season than usual, and in addition a widespread killing frost now would be much earlier than is generally the case.

Corn closed strong, ⅞ to 1⅞ higher, December 59¾ to 59¾, wheat ⅝ off to ¼ up, December 98⅛ to 98⅛, oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, and provisions 17 to 32 cents down.

WINNIPEG SLIPS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 26 (CP)—Dollar wheat, seen for but a moment last week, appeared farther away than ever after today's session of the Winnipeg grain exchange. Wheat prices continued their decline, closing 1⅛ to 1 cent lower.

Support offered by the sale for export of an estimated 750,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, including purchases by United States millers, was insufficient to absorb heavy hedging sales. October closed at 89¾, December 90⅝ and May 94⅛ cents.

"Spreading" between Winnipeg and Chicago, involving the selling of futures here against purchases in the United States market, was a further burden on the market and values at the close were at or near the day's lowest levels. Trading was active throughout.

Montreal Heavy

MONTREAL, Sept. 26 (CP)—A half-hearted attempt to stage a recovery was halted during early dealings on the Montreal stock exchange today when a heavy tone spread to the entire list.

Consolidated Mining & Smelting closed 168, off 3 points. Nickel was ⅛ lower at 30⅛.

A sudden flash of buying near the final bell sent Montreal Power up ¾ of a point to 31½ after remaining stagnant during most of the session. B.C. Power B was off ¾ at 3¼.

Canadian Celanese preferred advanced 2 points to 119 while Dominion Textile picked up 1½ points at 61½.

Bryson, Hardware Merchant, Is Dead

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Sept. 26 (CP)—Charles Bates Bryson, 53, prominent hardware merchant and resident of New Westminster nearly 50 years, died last night after a long illness. He was a member of Royal City lacrosse teams many years ago when Pat Feeney, the Rennies, Turnbulls and Giffords were approaching their prime.

Canadian Dollar Is Higher

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (CP)—The Canadian dollar was higher, sterling and the French franc lower, in the foreign exchange markets today.

The Dominion dollar reduced its discount from 1¼ to 1⅛ per cent. The pound was off a full cent at $4.91 while the franc, closing at 6.59⅛ cents, showed a loss of .00⅝ of a cent.

TO LINK CANADA, IRELAND BY AIR

LONDON, Sept. 26 (CP-Havas)—Plans for a transatlantic air service linking Canada and northern Ireland were announced here today.

An Irish corporation has obtained an option on a site near Lough Foyle, Northern Ireland, which has been approved by the British air ministry and is considered ideal for a seaplane base.

Sydney, N.S., is considered suitable for the western terminus.

Sir Basil McFarland, northern Ireland industrialist, has been named by the Londonderry harbor board as chairman of a committee formed to collaborate with the Irish corporation.

C. H. Clendining, chairman of the corporation, will sail for Canada on the Empress of Britain a week from Saturday to discuss the plans with Canadian government officials.

In an interview today he said all indications pointed to a regular transatlantic air service in the near future.

INDUSTRIALS OFF

TORONTO, Sept. 26 (CP)—Nearing the month end when accounts have to be squared, industrial stocks were offered in a slow buying market today on the Toronto exchange and a shading of prices resulted.

Nickel sold down to 30 and later recovered all but ⅛ of the loss. Smelters recovered a 2-point decline. Liquors and oils recorded moderate recessions.

Canadian General Electric preferred at 57¼ was off ¾. Steel of Canada common and Canadian Car & Foundry preferred weakened ½ to ¾ each. Improvement stocks were off ¼ to ⅜.

Ford A and C.P.R. weakened ⅛ to ¼ each. Utilities were neglected.

SILVER OUTPUT HIGHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—World production of silver in August was 17,414,000 fine ounces compared with 17,284,000 ounces in July, according to American bureau of metal statistics.

Canadian production in August was 1,703,000 ounces against 1,156,000 in July and that of the United States 3,170,000 ounces in August against 3,520,000 in July.

Output in Mexico was estimated at 6,000,000 ounces compared with 6,454,000 in the preceding month.

VANCOUVER PAYS $50 FOR CANARIES

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—The city of Vancouver has approved payment of $50 damages to Mrs. J. Porter for the loss of 11 canaries asphyxiated by a tear gas bomb June 18 during a clash between striking longshoremen and police. A number of rioters were reported to have sought refuge in her house and police endeavored to dislodge them with gas bombs.

Wage Restorations, Storm Damage Increased Taxes, Jump Expenses of B.C. Power Corp. Report Says

Murrin Warns Rates and Charges for Services Will Have to Be Considered if More Serious Tax Additions

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Increase in operating expenses of British Columbia Power Corporation, Ltd., in the year ending June 30 over the previous year was due to partial restoration of wage reductions, heavy damage caused by storms in the Fraser Valley in January and increased taxation charges, President W. G. Murrin of Vancouver stated at the seventh annual meeting today.

The expenses in 1935 published previously, totalled $8,539,513 compared with $8,408,473 the previous year. Net revenue was $4,190,577 compared with $4,217,201.

Mr. Murring stated the company's total tax payments represent more than 25 per cent of the next revenue before providing for bond interest and fixed dividend payments and the increase in taxation this year over last amounted to $237,075.

"I need hardly mention that such a large increase is an extremely heavy burden to carry and, while it is realized that the costs of government have to be provided by means of taxation, which as far as this company is concerned can only come out of general revenue, any further serious additions to the present total taxation will have to be considered in relation to the present scale of rate and charges for the various services furnished to the public," the president declared.

Mr. Murrin was reelected president with A. T. Goward, Victoria, and E. H. Adams, Vancouver, vice-presidents. Mr. Adams was named treasurer and E. Rogers, Vancouver, secretary. Austin C. Taylor of Vancouver was added to the board of directors.

BONDS ARE DULL

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—The bond market, as a whole, evinced little disposition today to move out of a narrow range.

Mobile & Birmingham Prior lien 5s lost 4 points at 81.

In the foreign section United Kingdom 4s were off ⅛ at 109⅝ and Rome 6½s dropped 1 to 49.

Half Action Under the Marketing Act

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—The action started by the British Columbia government against the M. & M. Fruit company of Vernon, B.C., under the Natural Products Marketing act was halted in supreme court today when the company consented to a perpetual injunction restraining it from shipping vegetables other than through the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency, Ltd.

Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson was informed the company had been reappointed as a subagency of the organization set up by the British Columbia interior vegetable marketing board.

A charge of shipping without a licence was dismissed against the M. & M. company in Vernon police court recently after its licence had been cancelled.

N.Y. LOWER

By FRANK MacMILLEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP) — Profit-takers had a slight edge on the bull forces today and pushed the general market down a little.

Measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, shares closed 0.1 of a point lower at 49.4. Transactions of 1,084,900 shares compared with 1,101,340 on Wednesday.

In the absence of any outstanding depressant or stimulus, analysts explained the market's action in terms of selling on technical grounds, lessened nervous irritability over the foreign situation and continued hardening of domestic business confidence.

The fact that a number of the sharpest declines occurred on a small volume of sales was interpreted by technicians as a sign of underlying market health. Among issues which were off a point or more on limited offerings were American Can at 140¼ and International Harvester at 55⅝.

The rise of 20.2 per cent in bank clearings for the week ended yesterday over the preceding week was seen as evidence of a quicker pace of trade.

TO BUY UP THE BUTTER SURPLUS

OTTAWA, Sept. 26 (CP) — The butter export marketing board has named nine firms in Montreal to dispose of part of the large Canadian butter surplus it was announced by the board today. The object is to remove the surplus without breaking the Canadian domestic prices down to world market levels.

The firms will buy butter at the present domestic market price level of 23 cents a pound delivered in Montreal. This butter will be exported and sold at world prices. The loss including operating costs, freight and lower world prices will be 1½ cents a pound and the government will reimburse the agencies to that extent.

PLAN AIR PATROL

GENEVA, Sept. 26—The council of the league by an unanimous vote, from which the Italian delegates refrained, decided to proceed under article XV of the covenant. It ruled that this article was in operation as from Sept. 4.

One suggestion for a further safeguard for peace was made in informal discussion in league lobbies. It was to send a league air patrol to Ethiopia which could act as "the eyes of the covenant" along the frontier of the African kingdom.

Marcel Griaule, French expert on Ethiopia whose report on conditions there was published as a league document, told the Associated Press he planned to submit a comprehensive proposal for such an aerial patrol to a council committee tomorrow.

(The council will proceed under article XV of the covenant, which provides that the council shall try to settle disputes. If it is unsuccessful, it will make a report. Article XVI warns that if a league member resorts to war in disregard of article XII, XIII or XV, it has committed an act of war against all members.

FRANCE BACKS COVENANT

"The first paragraph of article XII asserts: "The members of the league agree that if there should arise between them any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, they will submit the matter either to arbitration or to inquiry by the council, and they agree in no case to resort to war until three months after award by the arbitrators or the report by the council.)

Deep significance was attached to a brief speech by Premier Laval of France in which he said France would support application of the league covenant in "its letter and spirit."

The Italian delegation marched down the steps and out of the building in a body after drinking a toast.

Thus they continued a policy of not participating in discussions when the Ethiopian representatives are present. By refraining from voting, Italy also contends she thus maintains freedom of action.

WANT TO SEE PROPOSALS

ROME, Sept. 26—Since Premier Mussolini may answer the league's proposal in his own graphic words after a cabinet meeting Saturday, officials avoided any emphatic rejection of the truce idea.

They said they would like to see the report of the league council before replying, but by referring to Italy's often expressed position they let it be understood they did not see a possibility of Mussolini's promising to defer his Ethiopian expedition until Dec. 4.

IL DUCE HAVING CABINET SPLIT

Some Members Work on Compromise Idea Says French Press

PARIS, Sept. 26 (AP).—A prediction that the League of Nations could not avoid application of sanctions against Italy in case she attacks Ethiopia was made tonight by French officials.

They expressed belief the league council would make the aggressor nation in the looming conflict liable to sanctions for an indefinite period.

Rumors of dissension in the Italian cabinet over the Ethiopian campaign were spread by Leftist French newspapers. (Similar reports were vigorously denied yesterday by officials in Rome.)

The newspaper L'Oeuvre published a dispatch saying Luigi Federonzi, president of the Italian senate, had made "a courageous criticism of Il Duce's policy" at a cabinet meeting in Rome Tuesday.

The newspaper Republique asserted: "The former Italian ambassador to Paris, Count Arlo Storza, now in exile, is close to Dino Grandi, the Italian ambassador to London, and it is no one's secret that Grandi is manoeuvring to obtain a compromise."

Churchill Warns

"If the league of nations were able to prevent this colonial war without broadening it into a general war, that would be an immeasurable gain to the safety of all countries. Nothing can be more important to European peace than close cooperation of Great Britain and France in maintaining the reality and authority of the league.

"The day will come when Italy may well be grateful to an old friend like Great Britain for the desire to keep her out of what might be a deadly trap.

"There are some powers in Europe which would be quite glad to see Italy get into a thoroughly compromised and dependent position. We are not one of them."

Discussing the German situation, the former cabinet member said:

"We are living in times of a deep and growing anxiety. Germany is arming on a gigantic scale and at unexampled speed.

"The rearmament of Nazi Germany must appear to anyone with a sense of proportion as the greatest and grimmest fact in the world today."

CURSE HANGS OVER THIEF WHO GOT OPALS

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—A curse hangs over an unwitting burglar in Vancouver today unless he was born in October. Opals stolen from the home of Mrs. E. B. Beevers bring continual misfortune to their possessor, she states, unless, like her, they were born in October. To those born in the autumn month, the opals are a lucky omen, Mrs. Beevers says.

Mr. Justice Lucas Is Laid at Rest

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Funeral services for Mr. Justice Frederick G. T. Lucas of the British Columbia supreme court bench, who died Tuesday, were held today under the auspices of Western Gate Lodge No. 46, A.F. & A.M., with interment in the family plot at Mountain view cemetery.

ADVOCATES THE VILLIERS PLAN

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Sept. 26 (CP)—The Villiers national coal policy, which would divide Canada into three market zones, was advocated here today by Jesse Gouge, pioneer Drumheller valley coal operator, at a hearing of the Alberta coal commission.

Mr. Gouge told Sir Montague Barlaw, English business expert heading the commission, that, under the policy, imoprters of coal would be licenced by the Dominion government and free importation would be permitted into the central zone, Ontario, but would limit eastern and western areas.

Youth Confesses

identified the bodies as they were brought up, and confessed to putting poison in their coffee last Thursday, causing their quick death.

FIND POISON ON SPOON

As authorities pressed their investigation of the shocking crime to ascertain the motive, they found two teaspoons reeking with the acrid odor of poison in an alley near the Steinhuer residence. Stuffed behind a radio they discovered two wills executed by the 60-year-old Steinhuer and his wife, 10 years his junior.

Both wills provided that in the event of the death of the other, Drake, whom they reared almost from infancy, was to receive one-third in the deceased's estate. In the event of death to both, Drake was to receive all their money and property.

The Steinhuer's property could not immediately be ascertained, but bank records disclosed that Drake, after the murders, forged his uncle's name to a $272 check from a $1700 savings account which he had transferred to a checking account under his own name.

WAS TO END WORRY

Drake told police, they said, that his motive for the double slaying was to "end the worry of my uncle and aunt over the mess I got myself into." He said he was arrested for stealing an automobile in Long Beach. This, he said, caused his aunt to have a nervous breakdown.

"I put the poison in the coffee last Thursday night at supper time. My uncle took a little sip of his coffee. He said it tasted kinda funny and made his stomach hurt. He went into the front room and sat down and then asked me to bring him a glass of water. While I was doing that my aunt drank nearly all her coffee and died instantly, sitting there at the table.

"It took my uncle longer to die because he didn't drink so much."

Drake, who said he hadn't missed his Sunday school class in five years, said he had given his aunt "so many heartaches I thought that to poison her would be the best way to right the wrongs," but that "now I'm afraid it wasn't."

visit with the folks on the borders of their ridings between official nomination and polling, and to make sure the ballot boxes and ballots are sent to remote points in time. These are not sent out until after nomination day.

260 IN FIELD

This year roughly 260 aspirants have filed papers for the 75 "advance" nominations, comparing with 170 who stood for election in the same or corresponding territory in 1930. Three newly-established constituencies appear — Chapleau in Quebec; Rosthern in Saskatchewan; and Jasper-Edson in Alberta. Several have been redistributed.

Two party chieftains head the list of big-time warriors who go into action officially September 30. Both Liberal Leader Mackenzie King, standing in Prince Albert, and Hon H. H. Stevens, head of the Reconstruction party, named in Kootenay East, have been in the middle of the verbal warfare for weeks, however.

Others who will get the returning officers' imprimatur ahead of the main body include Hon. W. A. Gordon, Temiskaming; Hon. R. J. Manion, Fort William; Hon. J. L. Bowman, speaker of hte commons, Dauphin; Hon. Robert Weir, Melfort; and Hon. Grote Stirling, Yale.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell in Melville; and Hon. Charles Stewart in Jasper-Edson are prominent Liberals to be nominated Monday, while Hon. T. A. Crerar marks his return to politics in Churchill.

Constituencies in British Columbia which will enjoy the advance nominations are: Cariboo, Comox-Alberni, Kamloops, Kootenay West, Kootenay East, Skeena, Vancouver North, Yale and Yukon.

when they were set upon. Police cars rushed to the scene, and alarmed parents gathered. The police urged negro children to go home and stay there until Monday.

At lunch time George Riggs, 11, was chased back by white boys. Police found him and two other negro boys cowering in a classroom, and took them home.

Six white youths, police later reported, caught Robert Coleman, negro high school student. He was bleeding from nose and mouth from blows he took before a white man went to his aid and sent his attackers running.

C. W. Handman, assistant superintendent of schools, said he was at a loss to fix responsibility for the trouble, although John M. Downer, principal, asserted his school children were not at fault.

SYNOD PRAISES LEAGUE EFFORT

Urge Canada to Back League Action in the Dispute

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Strong disapproval of the "provocative attitude of Italy" and admiration for the "human and Christian efforts of the league of nations" to maintain peace in the world are expressed in a resolution adopted today by the British Columbia synod of the Church of England in Canada.

The resolution also urged the Canadian government to assure the British government of its loyalty to the league covenant and its determination to aid in defense of justice and right. It calls on members to continue "instant in prayer that the foundations of a lasting peace between nations of the world may be strengthened."

Most Rev. A. U. de Pencier presided. Bishops present were Rt. Rev. C. S. Schofield and Rt. Rev. Dr. Sexton, Bishop Coadjutor, Victoria; Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix, D.D., Prince Rupert; Rt. Rev. W. Adams, D.D., Vernon; and Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells, Kamloops. There were four clergy and four lay delegates from each diocese.

In the absence of Rev. F. H. Graham of Nelson, secretary of the synod, Rev. John Leigh was elected secretary.

Protect Worker Aim of Stevens

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., Sept. 26 (CP)—In a sentence Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction party leader, tonight summed up his attitude on the tariff. "I would be glad to extend to an industry reasonable protection provided that protection is passed on to the workers in the form of decent living wages."

The tariff reference of the Reconstruction party leader came near the close of a speech, his second today. In the afternoon he had spoken at Cobourg.

Mr. Stevens laid down the principle "business must serve the people." And he added "what some regard as the rankest heresy—banks must be servants of commerce."

His quarrel with great institutions was that they employed methods which hurt the people. Once again he cited activities of the great packing institutions which, he claimed, strangled competition and fixed prices.

and its accompanying recommendations be disregarded by a member nation — such as the advance of Italy's troops before December 4—article XVI—describing such disregard as an act of war—is automatically invoked.

Other foreign office officials clung to the hope that Mussolini will finally be overawed by the gravity of this East Africa adventure and make some olive-branched gesture to the league at the last minute.

"Today's development is one of the most important ever taken by the league," it was declared in an authoritative quarter. "The British government regards the action without surprise or fright."

INITIATION RULES MADE FOR THE U. B. C.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26 (CP)—Initiation regulations will be rigidly enforced at the University of British Columbia this year. Snake parades and the traditional "frosh" bonfire have been forbidden. Insignia for freshmen will be small green hats, name placards and green nail polish for both men and women. Freshettes will not be permitted to wear make-up during the two-weeks initiation period and the men must wear their socks outside their trouser legs.
