ays Powers Seek Parity in Wrong Way

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 14—The world is approaching the problem f disarmament from the wrong direc- ion in attempting to reach the solu- ion through naval parity, Count Giov- anni Elia, of Rome, Italian naval ex- ert and inventor of a depth bomb, told members of Politics today.

Parity of factories producing arma- ments is the essential factor to be con- sidered, he declared. "The idea of es- tablishing an absolute naval parity s unattainable, I am convinced, for even if the fleets of Great Britain and the United States should be made absolutely equal there would still re- main the vastly superior industrial power and the unassailable geographical position of the United States.

Lord Horne Dies; Was War Leader

LONDON, Aug. 14—Lord Horne of Stirkoke, famous commander of the British first army in France in 1916, at the battle of the Somme, died sud- denly this afternoon, while shooting on the moors of his estate, Stirkoke, Kath- ness, Scotland.

The dispatches from the Stirkoke did not give the cause of his death. He was 66 years old and had held many high commands in the British army where he was celebrated espec- ially as an artillery commander.

King George Is Ordered Back to the Sea Side

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The Daily News said this morning that King George's doctors had advised him to return to the seaside at Bognor for further re- cuperation instead of going to Sand- ringham, His Majesty's favorite country estate. The court, encouraged by the improvement in the king's health since his second operation, had planned to go shortly to Sandringham.

WOULD FORGET CANADA; BUILD OWN WATERWAY

Such is Suggestion of Colonel Carrington to Hoover; Sug- gests Hudson Route

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—Col. Edward Carrington, president of the Great Lakes-Hudson waterways association, which is working for an all-American ship route between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic, wrote President Hoov- er yesterday advising him to abandon his attempt to reach an agreement with Canada on the proposal to build a Canadian-American route and to de- vote his efforts to constructing a route via the Mohawk and Hudson valleys and the Hudson river.

"Canada will insist that she be com- pensated for the diversioin of the wat- ters of Lake Michigan by Chicago," Col. Carrington held. "She will insist on the lowering of our tariffs on agr- cultural and other products, she will insist on receiving credit for the cost of constructing the Welland canal and other canals related to the St. Lawr- ence project which she has built with- in her own territory. She will further insist on receiving five-sixths of all hydro-electric power that may be de- veloped along the proposed St. Lawr- ence waterways, while at the same time demanding that we pay one-half the cost of the development.

"We have reached an impasse. The time has arrived when conversation should cease and the work of con- structing our alternative route by way of the Mohawk and Hudson valleys and the Hudson river should begin.

Spectators, Press Excluded From Pantages Hearing

LOS ANGELES, August 14—A de- fence motion to exclude all spec- tators and newspaper men from the preliminary hearing of statutory charges against Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, was granted by the court today as the session began.

Two women caught in a milling crowd attempting to gain entry to the court room where the Pantages hearing was being held, fainted, but were revived quickly. A crowd of about 500 tried to obtain seats, but only fifty spectators were allowed and deputy Sheriffs were called out to disperse the throng. The ones who gained admission later were excluded.

Before Pantages and Miss Eunice Pringle, 17 year old, his accuser, ap- peared in the court room, they were brought together in court chambers. The girl fainted when she saw Pan- tages but was revived.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Irene Pringle, was questioned first and Miss Pringle followed her on the stand. She apparently was weak and dazed and collapsed again after several perfunctory questions and a recess was offered.

Toronto Investigates Alleged Brutality by Police Force

TORONTO, August 14—Investigation is being conducted by Chief Constable D. C. Draper into reports that members of the Toronto police force, on foot, and mounted, beat citizens with their batons and riding whips in their efforts to disperse a crowd at Queen's park, where it had been previously announced the Toronto branch of the Communists league of Canada would hold a meeting in protest of the police commissions orders prohibiting the use of the parks for communist meetings.

If any member of the force is found to have disobeyed police orders and resorted to violence, he will be sent before the board of police commis- sioners to be dealt with, said Chief Draper. Only one complaint by a citizen alleging ill treatment has been received, he said.

PEDICORD IS SWAMPED IN FIRST START

Patenaude Shield Comes Back to Nelson After Year in Spokane

OUTBOARD EVENTS WON BY SPOKANE

Hundreds See Other Races at Annual Regatta; Tiny Outboards Speed

Running well ahead of one of the fastest entries ever seen racing here L. F. Gilbert of Nelson waltzed his launch Ladybird in to the fin- ishing line ahead of three other contestants to win the Patenaude shield emblematic of the champ- ionship of Kootenay Lake in the feature event of yestereday's an- nual regatta. Speeding around the course buoys at a tremendous clip between 60 and 65 miles per hour, Ladybird held her lead estab- lished at the start for the entire distance, coming in at the finish of the 20-miles of flying water almost a quarter of a lap ahead og Peddy Boy. III, owned by J. Pedicord of Spokane, who won the shield last year. Although Peddy Boy was second craft all the way she hugged Ladybird's tail closely and at times had hundreds of spec- tators gasping with excitement as she slipped up within a length of her heavy rival, her engines drown- ed by the Ladybird's powerful roar.

MARTIN SECOND

But it was only for occasional moments, for each time Lady- bird opened her roaring throttles wider and surged heavily away from her lighter and slaintier pursuer. It was however observed by all that it was the very lightness of Peddy Boy that served to hold her so close in on the Ladybird's wake for her speed was obviously not up to that of the winner, but she was able to make up for lost time by edging close in around the buoys while Ladybird sloughed wide. Twelve rushing laps of a mile and three quarters each and the race was over having taken exactly 18 minutes an five seconds for the winner to cross the line.

W. K. Riege of Spokane and M. Marquis of Nelson were the other two entrants in the race. Martin finished gamely nearly two laps behind the two leaders but snort- ing along in good style in spite of the fact that she was greatly outclassed as far as speed was con- cerned. Her owner gayly waved to the watching crowds as he went past going through the expressive pantomime of slapping his engine box with a paddle as he would a weary horse. Riegel's sic'm II withdrew at the end of the seventh lap.

THE FALSE START

A false start at the beginning of the race entangled Ladybird and Peddy Boy in what looked like a foul on Ladybird's part. After some discussion, however, the judges upheld Ladybird and a fresh start and incidentally far fairer start was made.

Facts of the alleged foul were as follows: Ladybird approaches starting line close in on barge. Peddy Boy also comes up slightly behind Ladybird and between Ladybird and float. Ladybird crosess starting line, opens throttle with a roar, and makes quick swerve inwards towards the barge, immediately turning back onto original straight course. Quick swerve however deluges Peddy Boy which has just crossed starting line. Peddy Boy is swamped and unable to continue race. Peddy Boy and one of judges claim foul. Over-ruled a nd fresh start made.

NEW YORK, August 14—The New York Times tomorrow will say that the Bank of England has made an arrangement with the Federal Bank of New York, whereby a credit of about $250,000,000 can be established with- in 24 hours.

Invocation of this credit could be made as a final recourse in the con- troversy between the British and French governments over division of German indemity payments, the times will say.

COLUMBUS, O., August 14—A ver- dict of guilty, carrying with it death in the electric chair as the penalty, was returned against Dr. James H. Snook, confessed slayer of his young mistress, Theora Hix, 28 minutes after the jury of 11 men and one woman received his case this afternoon.

E. O. Ricketts, one of the members of defence counsel, announced im- mediately that a motion for a new trail will be filed within the required three days.

SAYS BRITAIN AND U. S. HEAD FOR COLLISION

George Young, British Labor- ite, Says Sea Power Ques- tion Will Cause Trouble

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., August 14 —The United States and Great Brit- ain are "heading for a collision" on the question of sea power unless they come to agreement on the real mean- ing of sea rights, George Young, Labor member of the British par- liament, said today before the arms limitation committee of the insti- tute of politics.

"Two fundamentally different at- titudes mark the policies of two na- tions," Young declared. "It is to com- mand of the seas that we British owe our national existence, our col- onial empire and our daily bread, it is to freedom of the seas that you Americans owe your national inde- pendence."

To say that a collision over this issue is 'unthinkable' is equivalent to saying that we do not think. This question of sea power has already caused a war between us in the 18th century, another in the 19th and nearly caused one in the 20th cen- tury during the Great War.

"Since the Great War, I am aghast at realizing how far and how fast the United States and British ships of state have come athwart each others course and are today heading for a collision."

As a solution of the problem, he advocated two things: Renunciation by the British of command of the sea, in respect to the right to declare a private blockade against a private enemy, Renunciation by Americans of freedom of the seas in respect to the right to supply sinews of war to a public enemy.

"At the same time," he declared, "We must have an agreement on general parity of naval armaments from which we can proceed to re- duce sea power to sea police. If we do not reach some agreement before the washington treaty expires in 1931, and we again become free to build any vessels we please, inevitably the United States will assume command of the seas for the preservation of peace, just as the United Kingdom did a century ago."

Policy of Canada for Canadians Is Bennett Plea, North

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Aug. 14.—In the divisional point and prospective railway terminal of Prince George dis- trict Hon. R. B. Bennett here tonight returned to his policy of the develop- ment of Canada for Canadians.

Adopt a policy of Canada for Can- adians and we will repatriate the hun- dreds of thousands of our expatriated citizens who have gone to the United States, the Conservative chieftain urged.

"Our national problems will be solv- ed, your Pacific Great Eastern and other railway problems will vanish," he said.

Touching upon the tariff increases proposed in the Smoot Holley bill now before the United States senate, Mr. Bennett quoted a speech, by Pre- mier King in this connection at the last session of parliament, that Can- da must not "provoke" the American republic. "Are we to do nothing because it might provoke somebody," the op- position leader questioned. "The Unit- ed States did not care about provok- ing us."

Fire Situation at Coast Is Improved

VANCOUVER, August 14—Although several fresh outbreaks of forest and brush fires were reported today from Vancouver island and the lower main- land of British Columbia, conditions generally are considered less hazar- dous, than earlier in the week ac- cording to forestry official tonight.

In the Fraser valley a fire at Sur- rey destroyed a house and fire fight- ers are protecting other houses in the vicinity. Near Pemberton on the Pacific Great Eastern Railroad a gang of men are battling a large fire in acres of wooded land.

The fires around Haney and Mis- sion City are no longer menacing it is reported.

GRAF STARTS HER VOYAGE ROUND WORLD

Giant Air Liner Carries 20 Passengers and Crew Totalling 40

GOOD WEATHER FOR ZEP'S START

Most Perilous of Any At- tempted Voyage; Expect Take 120 Hours

FREDERICHSHAFEN, Aug. 14—The iar liner Graf Zeppelin left her home port at 4:34 a. m. today (10:34 p. m. E. S. time Wednesday) for Tokio, the second stop on her epoch-making flight around the world.

A perilous flight of 6000 to 7000 miles to the land of the rising sun, faced the dirigible, much of it over territory unmapped and unexplored.

With 20 passengers and a crew of 40 aboard, Dr. Hugo Eckener, veteran of four crossings of the Atlantic ocean, entered upon his longest and most hazardous voyage.

The commander of the globe-circling Graf estimated the flight would take 120 hours under the most favorable circumstances. The Graf's greatest test previously was 111 hours on her first trans-Atlantic voyage.

TOKIO ON MONDAY

The Zeppelin will be in Tokio, bar- ring accidents, on Monday night at the very earliest, after crossing Euro- pean Prussia, over some of the wildest territory existing on the earth, the steppes of Siberia.

Dr. Eckener's immediate course lay northeast of Friedrichshafen to Berlin, Danzig and Moscow. Everything in the latter part of the course will de- pend on the weather the Zeppelin en- counters.

SPECTATORS CHEER

Thousands of spectators cheered the great dirigible as it rose rapidly into the moon-lit sky, despite its heavy cargo, starting only four minutes after scheduled time. After cruising over Freidrichshafen the Graf turned north- east toward Berlin. The morning was almost windless and the sky clear.

Dr. Eckener admitted that the Tokio flight was the most perilous long dis- tance journey the Zeppelin had yet attempted. He estimated that the Graf should be able to keep moving for 150 hours in an emergency. At an average speed of 60 miles an hour, through the trip of 7000 miles, it would bring the Graf to Tokio with at least 30 hours running time to spare.

In case of unfavorable weather, Dr. Eckener has just this margin of 30 hours to count on.

Thousands had collected at the gates and hundreds of automobiles were parked nearby to see the departure of the Graf.

FINANCE BIG STICKER NOW AT THE HAGUE

Where to Find Money to Satis- fy British Claims is the Big Problem

THE HAGUE, Aug. 14.—The problem of where to get the money to satisfy the claims of Great Britain at the re- parations conference is now the chief question before the delegations today. The barometer of the conference went down somewhat today as the sessions of the financial committee were again adjourned until Saturday. From now till then the whole time will be de- voted to informal intimate conversa- tions which all the delegates agree form the only means by which a set- tlement can be reached on the Young plan.

No one as yet has found the $12,500.- 000 a year necessary to satisfy the Brit- ish claim. One suggestion was that the amount the United States sacrificed in Paris on what is due it for the cost of occupation in the Rineland might be handed over to the British. However, that sum already has entered into the general distribution to be made and amounts to only $1,000,000 a year, or about one fifth of one per cent of the total and duties.

The small balance of reparations left over in the Young plan after the big slices were apportioned to the prin- cipal powers and which has been re- served for the smaller creditors, has also met with scrutiny by those seek- ing a solution.

Burning Lights Under Water Aid Police in Dragging Operations

Dragging Operations Suspended After Dark Owing to Dangerous Current; Injured Man Murmurs "They Hit Us"

TIRE FLOATING IN EDDY GIVES POLICE LOCATION OF THE AUTO

Driver of Car From Indiana; Man Believed in Car Is From District Having Been Picked Up by Tourist; Drag This Morning

When an Indiana car driven by S. Peftescot, hurtled from the road about 50 feet from the southern entrance to the Tag- hum bridge yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock, it crashed over a butment, down 30 feet to rocks beneath, where it rolled into the swift current of the river, carrying with it two men, one of whom was unidentified.

Miracuously Peftescot got clear of the car and swam ashore. He was found a few minutes later by motorists, staggering south along the road from the bridge, semi-conscious, on his feet. He was badly cut and bruised about the face.

"THEY HIT US"

He was rushed to the hospital in Nelson by C. W. Pitt and W. Bates of Rossland who, when they picked him up on the road, at once inquired where his car was and if anyone was with him. In a dazed voice the man mumbled that "everything is all right."

As the car neared the hospital the injured man suddenly recovered consciousness with a start and said, "they hit us, damn them."

Before he went out again he told Bates that there was an- other man in the car with him.

The Rossland man at once informed the police who rushed to the scene of the accident. No trace of th car was to be seen in the swiftly moving waters so they sized up the situation by following the tracks of the car.

At a point about 60 feet from the entrance to the bridge there was a collection of splintered glass on the side of the road. Here the tire tracks led down into the ditch toward the left of the bridge. Evidently the car was travelling at a speed great enough to keep it upright while along a course that was on almost a 45 degree angle.

Cement butments running out from the entrance of the bridge toward the roadside evidently pre- sented no very great difficulty for the tracks led over this to a point on the rocks about 30 feet below here the car must have hit, judg- ing from the amount of glass that was strewn about on the rocks.

In striking with a rolling motion the car must have rolled right down the bank into the water, where it was caught by the current and carried under the bridge to the other side, carrying with it the unidentified man.

It has been fairly well established that this man is a district man and that he had been picked up and was riding into Nelson with Peftescot when the accident occurred.

It is not known at just what point in the disastrous ride that the driver cleared himself though evidently it was after the car hit the water for when he was picked up on the road he was wet from head to foot.

Grappling irons were sent for and while awaiting their arrival several men procured a boat and ropes and let the boat out on the rapids from the bridge. While this search went on a tire floated into an eddy just east of the bridge so that the conclusion was

Soldier Settlement Taxes to Be Talked Over at the Capital

REGINA, August 14—Representing the Western Union of rural munici- palities, a delegation will be sent to Ottawa sometime in October, to wait upon the federal government for the purpose of securing some definite settlement with regard to payment of taxes by the Dominion government on lands owned by the soldierd's settlement board.

The decision for such action was decided upon at a meeting of repre- sentatives of the union held in the Hotel Saskatchewan today. The meet- ing was called at the instance of J. J. McurGran, secretary of the Saskat- chewan association of rural munici- palities, and secretary of the West- ern Union.

TOURISTS ARE GIVEN GREATER FREEDOM, CANADA

Travellers' Permit Gives Non-Residents Use of Car, Health and Pleasure

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 14—Collectors of national revenue have been vested with an authority previously held exclusively by the officials at Ottawa, whereby the local collectors may now authorize the use for health or pleasure of automobiles brought into Canada under Travellers' Vehicle Permits.

It also is provided in the order issued by the Commissioner of customers to the collectors that Travellers' Vehicle Permits may now be issued without bond or deposit,—an important concession, as a charge of $10.00 was usually made by the customs brokers providing the bond formerly required.

Under the Travellers' Vehicle Permit a non-resident of Canada is permitted to use his motor vehicle in reaching his destination in Canada, even though entering Canada for business purposes. The non-resident may now, in addition, use his motor car after reaching his destination, for purposes of health and pleasure, but is still precluded from using the car for strictly business purposes.

The Department of National Revenue has ruled that driving between points in Canada, attending meetings or conferences or examining properties or industrial plants are not considered to be violations of the privilege of a Travellers' Vesicle Permit, properly endorsed by the local collector of customs, but such privileges do not include the right to transport goods, or carry passengers, between points in Canada for purposes of gain or hire, nor the use of the vehicle for any purpose by any person other than the permit holder, or by persons who are using the vehicle for selling goods or insurance or engaging in commercial pursuits in competition with residents of Canada.

There is an important distinction between permits for Toursts' Automobles and permits for Travellers, Vehicles. The Tourist's Permit is good for a period of 60 days, renewable for further period of 30 days without bond or deposit. The Travellers' Vehicle Permit is good only for 30 days under the regulations at present in effect.

President of Fernie Rotary Club Returns

FERNIE, B. C., Aug. 14.—At the Rotary lunch this week President Roger Pepper occupied the chair for the first time since the school holidays began. Mr. Pepper has been spending his vacation at Victoria, being employed part of the time with work in connecton with the Educational Department of the Province.

He thanked Vice-President Harry Douglas for his efficient management of the club during his absence. He entertained the club with a variety of choice gleanings gathered during his holiday trip.

Beck Sannderson having just returned from an auto trip to Yellowstone park was asked to relate his salient impressions of the park. He spoke af the geysers, mentioning "Old Faithful" which he termed the tourist geyser, because it performed on a regular schedule for tourists accomodation.

The beauty of Nature's rock painting caught his eye in the volcanic area.

The bear feeding also interested him, observed at close quarters. How the black and brown bears trouped to the regular feeding ground at the prescribed evening hour, only to beat it for the bush when Mr. grizzly put in an appearance, and how when "Mama" grizzly arrived with the family the "daddy" bear pulled out in haste acknowledging her the queen bear boss of the park.

The Trail club wrote that its attention had been drawn by Miss Townsend to a little girl who was going blind and who was living in the Fernie Dstrict. Tom Beck, chairman of the committee on crippled children was instructed to investigate and find out what could be done to help the case.

Kalispell Rotary Club sent an invitation for a joint meeting of Fernie, Cranbrook and Kalispell to be held at Kalispell on the evenng of August 26.

This invitation was accepted by the Fernie Club, and a committee instructed to arrange for cars.

Dr. McKenzie Asks Installation Clinical Laboratory, Nelson

Hospital Board Will Give Consideration; Vitally Important to Community

Dr. H. H. McKenzie appeared at the hospital board Tuesday night and presented for the consideration of the board the suggestion that a clinical labratory would materially aid citizens and doctor of Nelson and district.

He stated that such labratories had been established in the nerve centers of other districts and at present local doctors must send certain cultures of bacteria to the coast for analyes. Such delays he informed the board might easily in some cases prove fatal.

GOVERMENT TO ASSIST

He continued that the government would assist in a project of this kind and that Trail had communicated with the Victoria asking that such a labratory be installed there. There reply was that Nelson was the most logical center for such an institution if it was the desire of those concerned.

Alderman McKenize informed the board that it was usually the custom to employ a trained technecian to take charge of such a labratory and that the filling of such a porition would prove neither difficult nor exceedingly expensive.

He felt, purely from the standpoint of an individual, that such a labratory was the vital necessity to the district.

In regards to the housing of such a labratory the doctor pointed several possibilites in the hospital building itself that would fill the bill at very little expense.

A committee was appointed from the board to look into the matter directly and Dr. McKenzie was asked to present any more data that he might have at the next monthly meeting.

Ernie Leveque was first to be fined under the Traffic Bylaw Amendment bylaw.

It cost him $1 for failing to stop at street stop sign, and another $1 for making a U turn at an intersection. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

Being the first cases under the new regulations, the fines were light and no costs were collected.

NEW TYPE OF HIGHWAY FOR ROSSLAND ROAD

Tenders Called For; To Take Out Switch Backs on the Paterson Road

TRAIL, B. C., August 14.—A new departure in permanent paving in the interior of British Columbia wil mark the new construction of the Rossland-Trail highway it was announced this morning by James H. Schofield, M. P. P., this morning following the visit yesterday of Hon. N. S. Lougheed, provincial minister of public works and P. Philip, deputy minister.

Instead of the nine feet strip of concrete paving as previously announced the two miles of road from Rossland city limits toward Trail will have two three feet strips of concrete one on either side and in the center between the strips there will be 12 feet of crushed rock with aspaltic mulch. The entire 18 feet of roadway will be paved to a depth of eight inches.

PREVENT SKIDDING.

On the outside of the concrete portions of the road, on either side, there will be laid crushed rock, with the object of lesening the possibility of skidding.

This type of construction has been decided upon after much study of the question, according to Mr. Schofield. It has been used with signal success in West Vancouver and at several points in the state of Washington and other states. The change in type of construction is stated to have been the reason for the delay in getting the work started.

Considerable widening and straightening will be undertaken before the paving is laid.

Tenders are being called immediately for the work and it is expected it will be under way before long.

Mr. Schofield also annuonced this morning that work had been started on the diversion of the Rossland-Patterson road. This diverson will do away with the major switchbacks on this stretch. Two or three months will be required in which to complete the work.

PACIFIC PORTS LEADERS IN THE WHEAT TRADNG

B. C. Ports Ship 26 Per Cent of Canada's Total Crop; Cut Into U. S. Trade

VANCOUVER, Aug. 14—Vancouver and allied Pacific coast ports lead Canada in export of Canadian wheat, according to totals furnished by the Vancouver merchants exchange today and computed from official figures compiled by the board of grain commissioners.

Vancouver, New Westminster, Prince Rupert and Victoria shipped a total of 97,000,000 bushels in the 1928-29 season or 26 per cent of the total Canadian export, while Montreal, Quebec, Halifax and other Atlantic ports combined exported accounted for 92,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

From these figures it is deduced that Vancouver is not cutting in on the trade of Montreal, but is shipping at the expense of United States Atlantic ports, which shipped 67 per cent of the total in 1921-22 and have since declined to 46 per cent.

The merchants' exchange figures do not take into consideration grains other than wheat and shipments of United States wheat through Canadian ports are omitted.

PREPARE ROCK IN WINTER FOR B. C. ROAD WORK

Such is Plan Devised by Minister According to Trail Member

TRAIL, B. C., August 14.—Provided arrangements can be made in the time available the department of public works of British Columbia will launch out next winter on a new policy in connection with road maintenance and construction. Announcement to this efect was made this morning by J. H. Schofield, M. P. P., following the visit yesterday of Hon. N. S. Lougheed, provincial minister of public works, and P. Philip, deputy minister.

It is understood that rock crushers will be placed at strategetic points throughout the province. Forces of men will be kept busy throughout the winter months at operating the crushers and distributing the rock along the sides of the roads. Immediately upon the advent of spring gangs of men wil be put to work at distributing and grading the rock.

In this way it is felt that quicker and much more effective action will be obained in the spring, and much of the heavy damage which is done to the roads at that season will be obviated.

The new policy is partly the result of the recent trip of Mr. Lougheed to Great Britain and other European countries. Mr. Schofield states that Mr. Lougheed spent some two months studying road construction in Great Britain and on the continent, during which time he was acompanied by several of Europe's most eminent road engineers.

Announcement was also made that roads throughout the district would be kept open in winter as far as it was found to be practical.

DEVELOPING THE LAKE AS A TOURIST ATTRACTION

Yesterday's regetta marked a still further improvement over that of last year and indicates the extent to which this event can be developed and the number of visitors from the outside can be attracted to attend as competitors or spectators.

The lake under present day conditions has even greater possibilities than in the old days when launches were used instead of cars. While cars have replaced launches almost entirely for local joyriding purposes, cars bring in thousands of tourists, many of whom would delight in a launch or boat ride on the lake if facilities were easily obtainable.

It wil take time to devleop these facilities, but it will de done. When that occures the lake will pay a direct profit to concerns which develop its opportunities and an indirect profit to everyone in the district through the increased number of people it will attract as visitors.

UNIFORM MAKING OF ROADS

Hon. N. S. Lougheed, minister of public works, has established a sound policy by his decision that in future the marking of roads shall be done by the public works department, thus ensuring uniform marking and also that it should be done properly.

Up to this time the putting up of road signs has usually been left to private enterprise, most of the work having been done by automobile associations. They have done good work, but on acount of changes in routes, straightening out of corners and other circumstances it is impossible for such organizations to keep their work up to date.

All curves of anything approaching an acute angle should be marked with danger signs; there should be warnings of steep grades as in the case of Taghum hill and there should always be warning of the proximity of a sideroad, from which some reckless driver may shoot too rapidly on to the main highway.

BRITISH STUDENTS TOUR IN EAST

Three Cambridge students snapped in Toronto just as they were starting out for Winnipeg in their ancient little car "Florence," sold to them by Lady Eaton, their hostess, at a nominal sum. The car, which has been carrying ice Muskoka of recent years, once belonged to the late Sir John Eaton's private garage. Of 1917 vintage, it will carry the boys to their destination, the home of Ralph Connor, an uncle of Bob Reid, who appears in he centre of the group. Eric Wiseman is on the left and Kenneth Mayall on the right, enjoying a smoke.

Cheese Fritters: Mix together one cup of cooked white rice, one-half pound of grated or chopped mild American cheese, one-fourth cup of cold, sweet milk, one-fourth teaspoon of salt and one-half teaspoon of onion juice (to obtain this put an onion through the food grinder and catch the juice). Beat one egg and stir it into the other ingredients, then drop by spoonfuls into a greased frying pan and when brown on the under side, turn. Serve very hot

Chili Con Carne: Into a saucepan over the fire put one pint of canned tomatoes, two teaspoons of salt, two and one-half cups of water, one sliced, peeled onion, one cup of ground raw beans. Let the mixture cook 40 minutes, or till the meat is done through, then serve, hot, turned over triangles of toart.

Corn Stuffed Peppers: Cut the tops from green sweet peppers: and remove seeds. Place six peppers in water to cover, and cook over direct flame for ten minutes, then drain and stuff the par-boiled peppers with the following mixture: In a saucepan melt two tablespoons of butter and in this fat cook two peeled and minced raw onions till light brown color, then add two tablespoons of flour and rub to a smooth paste before stirring in one-half cup of sweet milk. When thickened, add one-half teaspoon of salt, a pinch of mustard, the beaten yolk of one egg and beef and two cups of canned red kidney one cup of either canned corn or kernels shaved from a cooked ear of corn. Stuff the six peppers cups with this mixture, sprinkle buttered crumbs on top and stand the peppers close together in a small pan which has a half inch of hot water in the bottom. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven, at 425 degrees F., and serve at once. If preferred, a strip of raw bacon may be laid across the top of the stuffed peppers instead of using buttered crumbs.

PICK TEN BEST PLAYS OF YEAR TO PASS TIME

Is Entertaining Sport According to New York Herald-Tribune Man

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—"Probably the most harmless and certainly the most futile parlor game extant is picking the ten best plays of the year," writes Richard Watts, Jr., in the New York Herald Tribune. "Anyway, it is a reasonably entertaing sport and in addition, it provides possibilities for indulging in amusing variations, such as selecting the ten worst dramas.

"This timourous observer's current idea of the ten new plays that provid the greatest satisfaction of the ded him, in one way or another, with parted season. is: 'Journey's End,' 'Street Scene,' 'The Sacred Flame,' 'Gods of Lighning,' "Gypsy Mashinal,' Serene Blandish,' 'Wings over Europe,' Dynamo," and, with apologies to almost every one in the world 'Gentlemen of the Press.' It is only fair to say that this recorder had a certain minor collaborating interest in the last named play and thre fore may be a triffle prejudiced.

"As a sort of tip-off on my lack of my commercial judgment, it may as well be confessed that the following list of the dramas that seemed to me most overrated contained a fair higher percentage of successes. The group consists of: 'Holiday,' 'Bird in Hand,' 'The Front Page,' 'Little Accidident,' ' The Marriage Bed,' Mima,' 'Jealousy,' 'Man's Estate,' 'Harlem' and 'Congai,'. They certainly were the worst plays of the year, but it did seem to me that they received far more than their merited share of cash and admiration.

"Now to get down to the business of explaining the selection of the first list. 'Journey's End' and Street Scene,' of course, need no defense. The former is, as any primary follower of the drama knows, the only great war play since 'What Price Glory,' and if less robust, it is more touching than its predecessor, 'Street Scene,' it is an axiom of the theater to repeat offers the finest amagamation of realism poetry that the drama has yet brought to bear the average New York existence. After this we grow more controversial and less elementary.

"'The Sacred Flame' was a searching and bitingly poignant tragedy about the less Oedipus-like aspects of mother love, beautifully written and expertly acted. 'Gods of the Lightning' was, of coursce, that brilliant and gallantly partisan defense of Sacco and Venzetti; an exceptionally startling example of the drama as controversy. 'Gypsy' provided an honest and courageous portrait of the inconstant girl who longed for the gift of loyalty. 'Mashinal' cocbined naturalism with the less fantastic methods of the dying expression in a stalwart moving and literate work which provided a sort of lyric explanation of example of fantastic, half-mad (though not quite mad enough) high comedy; 'Wing over Europe' was an excellent melodrama about ideas, marred by an over-written couclusion, and 'Dynamo,' though a confused, hysterical and often embarrasingly juvenile O'Niell sermon, had sections of enormous power and import. The rest will have to be silence.

"Then there is the group of disappointments. 'Holiday' struck me as a meretricious and suprisingly unwitty comedy in which even the leading lady was midcast, though the part was written for her.

"'Mima's' was a dramatic tedium partially concealed in a remarkable mechanical production. 'Jealousy' was a trick play in which the methods employed to conceal the stunt of having only two actors finally became too obvious for comfort."

What the Press Is Saying

THE TIPPING HABIT

The objection to the tipping system, raised in England by a Labor member of Parliament resuscitates once more a much debated question. It is possible that rules may be adopted to banish the custom from the sacred precincts of the dining room at Westminister. It is doubtful if tipping can be generally abolished elsewhere.

There will always be those who are ready to pay for serviec with a gratuity And where some tip and others do not, it will be those who do who get the service. Among those who tip, the expenditure will be regarded as an integral part of the cost of travel.

Whether the abolition of tipping would be entirely beneficial to the traveller is open to question. The attendant who looks to tips for a large part of his income has a constant incentive to assiluity. Without that incentive, the traveller might find the standard of service on a lower level.

Much of the opposition to tipping no doubt, has its origin in a want of knowledge of how, when and where to tip. If tipping is to remain, travel bureaus might do well to give intending travellers a course of instruction in this knotty subject. It would smooth out many difficulties.

That Body of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

KEEPING YOUNG

It is the desire of most of the human race to try and keep young. Even if folks can't keep young they like to "look" young, anyway.

Therefore many men and women are undergoing operations to "lift" the skin of the face, to have wrinkles removed, and are taking drugs to make the eyes luminous, the skin soft and clear, and the figure more slender and youthful.

Now what keeps you alive?

Two things.

The first is food. Every tissue in your body needs food brought to it by the blood. This food ensbles each cell to do its particular work in your body, whether it is muscle, nerve, one, fibrous, or other cell.

As it uses the food chemical action takes place creating heat for the body which is absolutely essential to life. Food then must be eaten to sustain life.

However when the cell does its work there is a waste or poison that is created from that work.

This must be removed from the body, if the body it to do its work properly.

Life will not go on without food, but it will go on even if these poisonous wastes are not completely removed.

That is you can live for a long time even with a certain amount of waste matter in the tissues of the body.

Perhaps a better word would be "exist" rather than live.

ou will remember that Dr. Alexis Carrel has been keeping cells alive for a number of years by giving them nourishment and then washing out any acumulated poison remaining in the cells from the use of the food by the cells.

In other words then, to keep the cells alive and in good condition he finds it just as necessary to wash them out as to nourish them with food.

And that is the idea our research men now have about this matter of getting old.

If instead of undergoing operations, and taking drugs, thought is given to the diet, a well mixed diet sufficient to year needs, no more nor less, and by the use of these foods and daily exercise—if only for ten or fifteen minutes—the wastes are washed away from the tissues then you will keep young longer than by any artificial methods.

"If it hadn't been for Eagle Brand Condensed Milk she would have died . . .

she was born last July and weighed 8 lbs. She was always fretful and whining and restless and seemed to be getting thinner every day. I took her to the doctor and he told me the baby was dying. She was three months old and weighed 6¾ lbs. He told me to wean her and put her on Eagle Brand Milk. We gave her just what you would give a new born baby and kept increasing it. She is now 7 months old, has two teeth, weighs 18 lbs. and is the picture of health and is as good as gold. Eagle Brand has been a blessing."

300 Chinese Riot; Several Shot By Police

WELLINGTON, N. Z., August 14—In the house of representatives today, Premier Sir Joseph Ward said the outbreak in Apis, Samoa, on Monday was caused by Chinese coolies on strike marching to the Chinese commissioner's office to interview the commissioner. Afterward they pretended to disperse but suddenly returned and attacked the office.

Two white and several native policemen were unable to restrain the coolies, Sir Joseph said, and a serious riot developed.

The police whose lives were in great danger, were obliged to fire on the rioters. The strike among the coolies, he added, was due to difference among rival tongs.

Fourteen coolies were injured by bullets and batons in the riot and a number of policemen were hurt by stones thrown by the rioters. Samoa has been in a disturbed condition for several years. The agitation of the Samoan home rule league against the mandate New Zealand holds over the island from the league of nations has been aggravated by labor troubles.

LADYBIRD IS VICTOR IN BIG MOTORBOAT RACE

parts of the crowd, apparently aimed at the owner of the Ladybird.

Mr. Gilbert explaining the accident which swamped the Peddy Boy, shouted to the crowd and to the judges that he had not meant to swerve by his boat. He apologized and stated his steering wheel had for the moment slipped from his hand.

A. A. Perrier one of the judges approaching in another launch stated, "the barber is disqualified that's all there is to it."

In the meantime Peddy Boy was down the course being bailed out. The crowd was clamoring for a race. It looked as if there might not be one. There were some additional boos. Then Peddy Boy started up and came up to the judges. There was an interchange of remarks between the contestants and Mr. Peddicord announced that although crippled he would make a race of it and so the race was on.

RACING OUTBOARDS

Of course the big novelty of the day were the racy little outboards which glanced over the choppy lake like crickets their powerful motors shattering the air with their swift staccato roar. Eleven of them were entered in the three classes for outboards, eight from across the line, three from Kootenay Lake points. Owing to lack of time, all outboard events were run in two heats instead of three, as was originally planned. A set number of points were given for the place gained by each boat in both heats, that with the highest aggregate total winning the event. The course consisted of two laps in each race.

A fresh wind blowing up the lake put some of the lighter outboards at a considerable disadvantage as the lake was kept in a continual short chop which tossed them about enough to seriously hamper them.

RED PEPPER WINS

In the first heat of class C. Red Pepper, owned by T. Helphrey of Spokane, raced home merrily, leading a field of five boats by a good magin. The real excitement was provided by Bee, owned by G. Grenkau of Sandpoint, Idaho, and Marianne, owned by O. M. Peck of Spokane. These two tiny speeders passed and repassed each other during the race until Bee won by two lengths, drawing ahead on the last lap. Marianne was third.

Latter in the afternoon, Red Pepper copped the second heat of class C as easily as she did the first, giving her the event. Marianne and Bee repeated their fight of the first heat and this time Marianne was successful in coming in ahead of Bee. This tied Bee and Marianne for second place in the class.

W. F. Sleep, of Coeur d'Alene, with his Mystery II and L. Rickard of Spokane with Holley Mason were the other entrants in class C.

Class B outboards which have a smaller piston displacement than those of class C, raced next. In the first heat of this event, Gordon Bowker of Mirror Lake, with his fast stepping Ella Poppin, which was of his own construction, came in an easy first over Holley Mason, which was second and Miss F. Rouleau of Kaslo piloting Tootle--Too. T. MacDonald of Nelson did not finish.

The second and last heat of this class, resulted in the same three boats placing again in the same order giving the even to the Mirror Lake boat.

Taking second place in the first heat and first place in the second heat, Marianne of Spokane took the honors in the open outboard event. Marianne was followed by Red Pepper and Bee. Mystery II was the fourth in the field. Red Pepper came in first in the first heat of this event but a stalled engine after a splendid start held her down to third place in the second heat.

Several false starts and a thrilling spill on the part of M. L. Bruce, lumberman of Sandpoint, were the features of the open outboards heats. Mr. Bruce after having his engine die at the start of the race, was proceeding slowly down the lake when the bow of his craft reared up in the air like an unruly broncho, and catching the wind on its bottom, filled from the stern and capsied. Mr. Brice sitting cross-leged on the upturned bottom of his craft was towed across the lake by a friendly launch, while the amused spectators cheered.

ROWING EVENTS

However much the outboards were hampered by the wind the events staged by the Nelson Rowing Club were up against an even stiffer proposition. Both singles and fours found it heartbreaking business rowing a mile down wind in the waves. In spite of this the junior lap streak singlists, R. Symth and S. Alibone, put up a creditable exhibition. It was a long struggle in which two rowers kept within two lengths of each other for the entire distance. Symth tightened up on the last spurt and shot ahead to win by three lengths.

The fours teams, lead by H. McKenie's crew was badly disorganied however, when one of the large inboard launches passed too close while warming up and caused the shell to ship quantities of water. Rees' crew forged steadily ahead to take the race easily.

A. H. Green, G. Horstead, J. G. Bunyan, J. . Carter A. A. Perrier A. Douglas and G. Fleury were in charge of affairs.

RIVERSIDE WILL NEED BIG CAPITAL THINKS IDAHO MAN

Arthur Ide Examines it for the Omo Mines Corporation, Operating

DRIVING TUNNEL FOR DEPTH OF 250 FEET

Drafting of Crews for Fire Fighting Hampers Operation

That the Riverside property in the Duncan country under operation of by the Omo Mines corporation of Spokane, apparently has a large body of ore, whose dimensions will only be known through deep work, is the opinion of Arthur Ide, of Burke, Idaho, who went up to make an inspection of the property last week for the company.

Mr. Ide spent two days on the Riverside, which is situated on McGuire creek, Sand which is reached by the new government trail from Howser lake and the connecting trail built by the company. He came down from the Lardeau yesterday, and left Nelson for Spokane by stage yesterday afternoon.

ORE FOR OVER MILE

Ore is exposed on a great number of open cuts made at regular intervals across the ore bearing ledge of over a mile in length, and in seven tunnels that tap it at shalloow depth at different points.

In the opinion of Mr. Ide, who went to look at it was a practical miner, a large aperation, calling for considerable capital, will be required to properly develop and exploit the showings, which expose ore and quartz mixed. The ore, as appraised by Mr. Ide, is from one to four feet wide.

A deep tunnel, which will cut the ledge at 250 feet below the outcrop has just been started by Mr. Sorenson, recently placed in charge of the work, and has now gone 30 feet.

Operation has recently been hampered by the River side crew being drafted for fire fighting in the Duncan, and when a new crew was obtained the forest branch proposed to call them out also, but eventually allowed the mine to work, Mr. Ide was informed.

Ten Members of Royal Commission on Liquor Named

LONDON, August 14—Ten of the 20 members of the new royal commission on the liquor licensing laws of England and Wales have already been selected. The enquiries by the commission, which was promised by the Labor government on its assumption of office, may last three years and possibly will take it to Canada and the United States.

The personnel of the commission as so far announced, is composed equally of "alcoholic" and "non-alcoholic" elements.

HYANNIS, Mass., August 14—Mounting tarrff barriers and naval rivalry with Great Britian are evidences in the United States of narrow nationalism, which is the most serious menace to world peace in this century, Dr. C. J. Hayes, of Columbia university, told the institutes of world unity in session here today.

Other indications of this, he said, were the United States' refusal to join the league of nations, the United States attitude toward the world court, immigration restrictions and intolerance toward minorities.

Wheat Market Has Some Lively Jumps

CHICAGO, August 14—Lively jumps in wheat prices today accompanied reports that frost is menacing what drought has left of the wheat crop of Canada. Decided drops in the amount of rural marketings of wheat in the United States swung the wheat market upward and so likewise did a big increase of flour trade, as well as notably higher prices for corn.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 2 3-8 cents a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1 1-8 to ¼ cent up, oats 3-4 to 1 1-8 cents advance and provisions unchanged to a raise of ten cents.

Mining Chatter From the East

An engineer's sehvice of brokers reports that diamond drilling on the new ore body at Amulet has again intersected high-grade over 50 feet east of Hole No. 117, which was the first to start to yield news and start the big parade marketwise. It is said the thickness is equal to any previous. Now they're saying the new ore can possibly add another $10,000,000 to the mine's already known ore, though many have been the voices heard that feature diamond drilling is often well discounted.

The Newbec situation on the 250-foot level has not particularly changed, but the outlook is becoming brighter, says a field man in discussing the drive along the contact zone. Diamond drilling cut high-grade copper at the second level, practically equal to that opened up over 17½-foot width on the 125-foot level, and therein lays optimism for coming news.

HOLLINGER'S market move again is understood as based on the expected announcement coming from the Premier in a few days about the railway line into Kamiskotia. The Government will build the road if maintained at cost, but is almost certain not to build it if a heavy loss is likely to be sustained—not for Holly or any other.

THE OILS

There is known to be a big important merger of TURNER VALLEY WELLS now in process of formation Imperial Oil Co. is connected with several operations. An oil man estimates that in seperated operations a group of wells in close circle have an expenditure of close to $2,000,000 to meet Under one big operation the expenditure on equipment could be cut drastically.

ROYALITE OIL, the major operation of the whole Alberta field, has 80 per cent of its control with Imperial. It has been said that Royalite owes the latter between $2,000,000,000 and $2,500,000, and it is possible the recent increased capital of 100,000 shares being offeredе at $30 per share is to pay off that debt and leave a surplus of over $500,000 in Royalite treasury so that is can stand alone.

Several companies are uniquely mixed. Royalite has two subsidaries in Dalhousie and Mayland. Foothill has subsidary in Southwest Petrolenm, while the mid-west subsidiary is involved inlitigation and not operating. In addition Imprelal Oil has a large intrest in companies being developed

ONTARIO COAL FIND IS LARGE

Government Making Extensive Survey; Is of Same Variety as Drumheller Coal

OTTAWA, August 14—The Ottawa Journal in a newspaper story says today:

"Investigation by the Ontario government of reported coal deposits on the Abibit rives in the Black Smith Rapids area, north of Cochrane, has revealed that the discovery is an important one and that further developments are justified, the Journal is informed.

"Tests have indicoted that there are extensive deposits of soft lignite of almost as high grade as that which is being mined profitanly in the Drumheller fields of Alberta. This is the first coal discovery of any consequence in thme province and continued exploration promises to yield intresting results.

"Toward the end of June the Ontario government sent geologists and a drilling crew into the area to investigate reports from prospectors."

Cost of Living in States Increases One-Tenth Per Cent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—The cost of living has increased only one-tenth of one per cent in the last year, as reflected in figures compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which show that the average in June was 70.2 per cent higher than it was in 1913.

While practical stability is shown for the year from June, 1928, to June 1929, as a whole, figures for the second half disclose decrease of six-tenths of one per cent.

In 26 of 32 cities living costs decreased an average of less than one per cent from December, 1928, to June 1929, while for the year ending on the latter date living costs increased to about the same extent in 21 of the same 32 cities.

The average decreased 21.4 per cent from June, 1920, to June, 1929.

Cooperative Plan to Market Wheat, Suggested, France

Has Backing of Important Radical Party; Authorities Think it Good

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Farm aid through a vast plan of cooperative wheat marketing is a solution that has been offered in parliament by Henery Queuille, former Minister of Agriculture. The scheme has the backing of the important radical party and farm and industrial authorities think it has a good chance of success, with the modifications necessary to get such measures through a parliment.

The French idea is proposed in opposition to suggestions of government monopolies, price-fixing and export or import licenses, coupled with arbitrary increases and decreases in customs.

Under this scheme wheat growers would form an association which would erect warehouses, store the wheat, sell a twelfth of the crop monthly and make advances to the farmers on warehouse certificates. All farmers, therefore, would get the average price throughout the year and the marketing bureau, as well as the farmer, would not be tempted to speculate on prices.

Since the entire crop of usually more than a quater of a million bushels would be under the control of one selling agency, prices would be well stabilized. As France needs some hard foreign wheat to mix withe her own, the marketing authority would have the right to export wheat and the right to import a like amount duty free.

An investment of $24,000,000 for warehouses is contemplated. The funds might be furnished by the existing governmental agricultural credit fund.

Strong steady influences on prices would be the various federal purchasing agents who buy for the army, navy and many public institutions.

Some Excellent Wheat Yields in Alberta Points

WINNIPEG, August 14—A number of European immigrants who came to Canada with dreams of wealth, will have their dreams fifilled, according to N. M. Ostryick, of the Dominion Colonization Company at Edmonton, who declared here today that excellent wheat yields are reported in different parts of Alberta, where the immigrants have taken farms.

At Federdoah, 30 miles north of Edmonton, farmers are reaping from 35 to 50 bushels per acre off new broken land. At Roycroft in the Peace river country, where Mr. Ostryiuk has a 400 acre farm, the yield is 40 bushels. Leduc, Alta., reports that the yield in that district will be from 40 to 50 bushels per acre.

All these yields are being obtained by new settlers who had arrived last fall and seeded land broken in the spring.

McCall Corporation in the first half of 1929 earned a net profit of $1,288,247 after reserves and other charges, against $930,122 in the 1928 period.

Old Source of Gold Is Again Uncovered, B. C.

Lost Head of Lightning Creek Is Discovered by Lady Prospector

QUESNEL, B. C. Aug. 14—Years ago the old timers of the Cariboo gold rush were laughed at when they told of the existence of a rich gold-bearing channel near Stanley, close to the famous Williams creek area, where half a century ago close to $50,000 in gold was obtained.

The old timers were told that the creek had had yielded the last of its valuable deposits, and that further prospecting was not worth while. Now however, the famous channel, known as the lost lead of Lightning creek, has been discovered, and by a woman, Mrs. Gertrude Murphy, the only prospector of her sex in the Cariboo country.

J. F. Williams, who is working on the Lost Chance claim, below Stanley, accompanied C. D. Murphy, husband of the woman prospector, to Eagle or Housman creek, three miles above where Mrs. Murphy has been hydrauliсking for three seasons. There, in a huge pit gouged out by Mrs. Murphy's monitor, Williams was amazed to find the exposed rim of the ancient channel. The exposed bedrock at this point was unfavorable, being smooth and slippery, but there is no question, he says, that the gutter, once it is reached, will prove very rich.

No gold has ever been found on Lightning creek above the mouth of Housman creek, where the pay was lost. Numerous shafts have been sunk during the past 50 years to determine the channel above that point, but without success. Below the mouth of Housman creek for some little distance there had been little or no pay, proving, Williams says, that the gold recovered at the mouth of Housman creek was brought down from the old channel.

It has long been the claim of old-time miners that some day a high lead of Lightning, which is the second richest gold-bearing stream in the Cariboo, would be discovered. W. Housman, known locally as the "Duke of York", talked of it to all who would listen, for upwards of 50 years, seeking capital to bottom his shaft and thereby prove his contention.

Williams believes Mrs. Murphy's find is a lucky one. "Once proven definitely, it will mean a lot for placer mining in the Cariboo," he declared.

Lightning creek, near Stanley, has yielded approximately $900 a lineal foot for about two miles of its length.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston stockholders will vote August 23 on splitting the shares on a four-for-one basis.

GOLFERS START QUALIFYING ON SATURDAY, HERE

Match Committee Draws Up Regulations for Medal Round Labor Day Golf

At a meeting of the match committee of the Nelson Golf and Country club on Monday night, arrangements were drawn up for playing off the qualifying rounds for the annual open contest for the Leith and Gosnell cups scheduled for August 31, September 1 and 2. Competition for these cups has in past years been perhaps the keenest among both men and ladies of any of the regular tourneys during the year mainly because there is usually a large entry from points throughout the district.

Medal rounds will be played by the men and women between August 17 and August 30 inclusive. Entrants may play their rounds any time within these dates provided they notify a partner that they are playing a medal round. The partner must then sign the score card. No entrant may play another round proceding his qualifying round on the same day.

The stretch of two weeks will allow players from other points plenty of time to qualify.

Division into flights for Leith cup competition will be as follows: 16 men having lowest medal score taken-place in chamionship flight. The eight losers in the first round of this flight automatically form the first flight. Second and third flights will contain eight men each, placed according to their medal scores.

Division into flights for Gosnell cup competition will be arranged in the same manner except that the champlonship flight will contain the first eight ladies turning in the lowest qualifying score.

Leath cup was won last year by T. Wilson, while the Gosnell cup was lifted by Miss Marion Blackwood, both of Nelson.

A consolation mixed foursome tournament will be played on Labor day for those eliminated earlier in the tourney.

Match committee consists of C. W. Appleyard, W. M. Whimster and L. V. Rogers.

Strange Case Burleigh Grimes Is Now Explained

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The strange case of Burleigh Grimes, now pitching the greatest ball of his long career for the Pittsburgh Pirates, after being traded by the Robins and Giants for unexplained reasons, may be traced back to his youth as a major leaguer.

Burleigh, after a period of seasoning in the south, broke into the big show with the Pirates late in 1916, remaining with the Bucs in 1917 before being traded to Brooklyn. In less than two seasons with the Pirates, Grimes won five and lost 19 games.

It has taken a long time for Burleigh to begin "getting out of the red", so far as his record as Pirate goes, but once started he has made a rapid job of it.

In a season and a half, he has won more than 40 games as against only some 15 defeats.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., August 14—To Alberta goes a tennis championship of the maritimes. Fred Parker and F. V. Stewart of Calgary, who recently captured the doubles title of Nova Scotia, added the maritime title to their laurels today by defeating the champions of New Brunswick.

Storming the net repeatedly, Stewart and Parker defeated J. H. Kating and Lloyd Drummie, Saint John, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. Drummie, especially with his hard smashes forced the westerners to brilliant tennis.

Nova Scotia made a clean sweep of the play-off series, losing only one set in five matches. Prince Edward Island did not enter the maritime finals this year.

Old Cubs Hid from Chance in Lockers

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

There has been a great deal of publicity given the Hack Wilson-Donohue-Kolp flare-up in Chicago, but in the old days of baseball, fights were the rule rather than the exception.

Players fought each other, the umpires, and spectators in the stands. It was a favorite trick of the ball players to step on the ump's toes with their spikes, and occasionally they got hit in the face with his mask for their trouble. Mike Donlin was always stepping on umpires' toes.

Many a time the players of Frank Chance's great old Cub machine rushed into the locker room and locked themselves in their lockers, where he couldn't get at them, until Frank's rage cooled down. When he caught a man, he usually gave him a good trimming.

The funniest fight I ever saw was between Chief Myers and Art Fletcher. It was like some of these professional pugilistic encounters. Players held both of them, and not a blow was struck, although Chief kept yelling, "Let me at 'im!" and Art bellowed just as lustily, "Let 'im come!"

Twenty years ago today, Ed. Reulbach of the Chicago Cubs pitched and won his 12th straight victory.

ENGINEERS FROM STATES EXAMINE KOOTENAY RIVER

Davenport and Paulsen of the Geological Survey View Area

DATA BEARS UPON THE GRANITE DAM

Province and Dominion Both Consent; Now Goes to Commission

An examination of the Kootenay river from the American viewpoint, in connection with the storage dam at Granite which the West Kootenay Power & Light company desires to build, was made last week by engineers of the United States geological survey. The engineers were R. W. Deavenport, of Washington, D.C., who has jurisdiction from the Lake of the Woods west, and C. G. Paulsen, district engineer, located at Boise, Idaho.

They were accompanied over the area examined by Gordon Beeston, representing C. E. Webb, of Vancouver, district engineer of the Dominion water-powers branch, and W. E. Keyt, representing P. E. Doncaster, resident engineer of Dominion public works. On behalf of the West Kootenay Power & Light company they were accompanied by W. J. Tindale, hydraulic engineer, and F. G. Chapman, superintendent of construction.

TWO DAY TOUR

Two days were spent in the examination, which covered the Kootenay river from Queens Bay to Castlegar, and the Columbia river from Castlegar to Trail. The Americans also saw the newly operating No. 3 plant, at South Slocan, and made a tour of the reduction works at Trail of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, whose requirements are pressing the power company, which is its subsidiary, to this move, to increase the winter flow of the Kootenay river so that the company's three plants thereon keep their output unimpaired in the winter.

It is understood that the provincial water comptroller Major J. C. MacDonald, has granted the province's permit for the undertaking, following the hearing in Nelson a couple of months ago.

It is said that the Dominion government has also consented, on behalf of the public works, interior, and Indian departments, which are severally interested on account of navigation, water-powers, and the Creston Indian reserve.

COMMISSION NEXT

The next step rests with the international joint commission, which has jurisdiction over boundary waters. The state of Idaho at present is formally protesting that the proposal to store the water of Kootenay lake for the last six feet of fall to the low water mark may injuriously affect the Idaho reclamation projects on Kootenay Flats, and the United States state department is handling the matted for the Americans.

War Department Has the Soldiers' Rattles Taken Away, States

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—The United States Army has taken away the soldiers' rattles.

It has been found that these accessories of the soldier's life, used in war time for the unplayful purpose of warning against gas attacks, sounded too much like the "rat-a-tat" of machine gun fire. So today the war department, on the recommendation of the chiefs of the infantry and chemical warfare service, eliminated them from the field equipment.

A claxon type horn will be employed hereafter for spreading alarms, notifying the soldiers to don their gas masks.

BUFFALO SCORES WIN IN POLO

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—Buffalo's undefeated Polo team scored another victory today by defeating Winnipeg 20 to 10, at Woodbine park, in the second game of the tournament now in progress. While Winnipeg had an eight goal handicap the game was more interesting than the score indicates.

CHINA CREEK FIRE

Fire swept through the brush above China creek hill through the night. No estimate of its area, or whether statement as to whether it was under control or not, could be obtained today.

Cars coming through had to keep a sharp watch for rolling stones and burning logs.

A pall of smoke continues to overhang Trail and the surrounding district.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 14—After many days of heroic battle, forest rangers and volunteers today had complete control of the forest fire situation in all Manitoba districts. Many of the volunteers were able to return to their homes for the first time in many days, while others maintained watch on the fire lines, assisting the regular forestry rangers.

Fires were still burning in several districts, but all were in check and no danger threatened settlements or valuable timber lands.

Aerial patrols continued during the day, pilots have displayed a valiant part in the long fight against the fire menace, affording wonderful assistance to ground forces in all threatened area.

Ten Channel Swimmers Are In Training

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 14.—Ten prospective Channel swimmers, eight women and two men, have been in training at this take-off cape for several weeks and there has not been ten lines in the French newspapers about their activities.

Five years ago the appearance of one lone Channel aspirant swimmer was good for at least a column.

Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, billed as the American professional long distance champion, plans to swim from Gris-Nez to Dover and back again. Whatever the outcome of her efforts Mrs. Huddleston, if her record may be taken as a criterion, is certain to spend more hours in the water than any of other nine contestants.

The Zittenfeld twins, American girls, aged 15 the Misses Ivy Hawke, Joan Brunton, Molly Parker and Connie Gilhead of England; Mademoiselle Estelle Delanney of France, are the other members of the "weaker sex" vowing to swim the Channel.

Doctor Schiffe of Germany and Ishak Helmy, the giant Egytian, who crossed last year after innumerable unsuccessful attempts, complete the swimming colony. Helmy says he has acquired the Gris-Nez habit. "It is such a relief from Cairo in August," he said, looking all chilled in 90 degrees farenheit.

'The Foolish Virgin'

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

In the early morning, when opal light was beginning to creep in through the drowsing garden and over the silent patio, she loved to lie there, in her small, narrow iron bed, under the plain coverlet that her slim long body raised into a white hill—lie there with Chester's letters under her pillow, and her arms locked under her head, and her thoughts roving idly over the day ahead, and on and on into the future.

Her first days in the hacienda had been wretched; she had had this same cot in a corner of Mrs. Chard's room, and had shared not only the old woman's apartment, but her bureau, her smoky lamp, and her washstand, pitcher, and basin as well.

But on the third day after her arrival electric lights from insulated wires crudely concealed by wooden cleats—for there was no use trying to pierce the solid adobe of the walls—had bloomed suddenly all over the hacienda, and on the eleventh day Pamela and Gregory, in excusable excitement, had kneeled to wash the tightly pasted label from a new bathtub, and had established soap and towels, racks and mirrors in the enormous bedroom that had been sacrificed for the much-needed bathroom.

Mrs. Chard's trunks, at first eternally bumping Pamela's elbows and catching at her ankles, were emptied at last; one troublesome task after another was relegated to the past, and presently Pamela could take possession of this little chamber and fit it up as suited herself.

She had a blue rug on the floor, one chair, one chest, and the narrow bed. A magnolia looked in upon her from the garen side, and sometimes gulls came up from the patio at dawn and walked busily about on her window-sills, jerking their little bodies like pigeons in the sunlight.

At seven she could always hear a stir beginning down at the cabins, the cowboys laughing, the women's shrill voices, dogs, and the lowing of cattle. And Pamela would touch Chester's letters, and dream, and stare at the creamy-white ceiling and the plain walls, her soul at peace.

"Dear Pemela—"That was the way they all began. They were not love letters, exactly. But their words, although much younger and cruder somehow than Chester's speech, curiously brought the vision of him before her—his handsome mouth, his fine figure in white flannels, his sleek black hair. Chester!

It seems queer not seeing you—there is not much doing—there is no fun like last year—will you ever forget Rodeo Week? You and I never will forget it, will we? Every time I go into the Arms I think about you. Four days after we got back from the camping tour my uncle sent me to S. F. for two nights—I wrote you that. I saw two fellows I used to know in coll. and we went to shows every night. Hope everything goes well in darkest Africa—it must seem queer to you to be out there, the old lady sounds like a character all right. I meant to come down Sunday, but don't know whether you want callers or not, please be sure to write me, and tell me if I could take you off for a show or something if I came. Maisie told me to write that nothing was half as much fun without you.

This was the gist of them all, with slight variations. But each had its own personal note, too. There was one in which Maisie was quoted again, this time as saying that she supposed Gregory Char was in love with Pamela by this time, to which Chester added "but we know better than that, don't we, Pam?" There was another thhat had a "darling," casually included, and a third that said

I meant every word I ever said to you, and I am working hard, and hope for a break soon.

Best of all was the very first, although even in her own heart Pamewould not admit that. She read it and reread it, until the paper was limp and rubbed with handling, and she kept hoping that one of the others, the next, or the one after that, would say something as thrilling.

You seem to me still too beautiful and too sweet for any man to win, Pam, and I'll make you so happy some day that you'll forget all this last winter—when you've been worrying so.

That hadn't come until she had been five terrible days at the rancho; it had marked the beginning of better times.

Everything had bettered; not suddenly, not sensationally—even now Pamela could not feel that any one thing in her life was quite righter, was quite what it should be—but at least everything was not wholly wrong, nowadays.

M'ma was still at Mrs. Pettys's, and Mrs. Pettys's was unchanged. The change had been in M'ma. Or perhaps it was not a change; perhaps M'ma had always had within her a capacity for boarding-house existence.

Not that M'ma was happy in words; her occasional letters were gentle little jeremiads still. But Pamela had gone into town with Gregory one day nad had an hour with M'ma. And M'ma was undeniably content. She would talk of nothing but affairs at Mrs. Pettys's; they interested her—they seemed worth while to her.

Of Pamela's friends she knew nothing. She had not returned Mrs. Broome's call she had seen nobody. Pamela had known on this occasion, that Chester was in San Francisco. She had tried to telephone Maisie, but tory chat with Sue Rose.

Maisie had not been at home; finally Pamela had had a rather unsatisfac-

WORK OF BISHOP NOT COMPLETE AFTER 37 YEARS

Bishop Says Still Indian Tribes in Yukon; Will be an Evangelist

VANCOUVER, B .C., Aug. 14—Bishop I. O. Stringer of the Yukon has already spent 37 eventful years in the northern wilderness of Canada, but he regards his work as not nearly completed.

"My present problem," Bishop Stringer said recently, "is threefold. In the first place there are yet Indian tribes to be evangelized—Sticks, Chilcots and Thlinkets. Then the half-breeds and the poor whites and the isolated miners need more ministrations. In Dawson I have a hostel where the half-breed children can be housed under Christian care while attending the government school. I have secured part of the old hospital, built in the days of Dawson's prosperity and disused now that the gold rush population has shrunk. It needs extending, for the work must go on. Missionaries are required in the Ross river and Mayo mining districts, too.

It was in 1882 that Bishop Stringer made his first journey down the MacKenzie River and began his labors, first at Fort MacPherson and then for six years at Herschel Island, perhaps the most northerly point of the British Empire.

In those days the Eskimo had an evil reputation, but as a missionary Mr. Stringer went among them, living their life in thier snow huts, and their evangelization has gone on with such blessing that along 500 miles of that Artic coast every native is a convert of the Anglican missions.

Then came a change. After two years of missionary work in Whitehorse in the great Yukon valley, Mr. Stringer was appointed to succeed Bishop Bompas in the see then called Selkirk and now, omre intelligibly, Yukon. In 1905 the great Klondyke rush had spent its force, gold mining was passing from the scramble of individuals into the hands of companies, and the great white population had begun to shrink. With some flickering revivals it has gone on declining as mines were worked out and no new mining areas were discovered, unail now there are only a few thousand white men left in the whole of the diocese, four times as large as England. There remain the half-breeds, the Indians, the poor whites, and in the northern part of the diocese the Eskimo.

The journeys which the visitation of the various stations involves are enormous. To get to the southernmost of them from Dawson the bishop must travel 500 miles up the Yukon river. To get to Fort MacPherson the shortest way is to get up the smaller streams, then though the defiles of the Rockies, where there is no trail for a hundred miles, but a string of bogs between hills. "I have walked it several times," says the bishop. "My wife walked it two years ago."

Valued Books Lost in Belgium During War Are Replaced

Valued at More than Million Dollars; Destroyed by Germans

BRUSSELS, Aug. 14.—When the Louvain Library was destroyed by fire in August 1914 during the German occupation, it contained some 350,000 volumes including 1500 incunabula and several hundred manuscipts from the 12 and 13 centuries, valued more than a million dollars. Today it has been completely restored and in some respects is richer than before.

By virtue of the Versailles Treaty, the Germans promised to restore the Library's contents and since the armistice they have restored a total of 300,000 volumes inclusive of 600 incunabula and 300 manuscripts including one of the 11th century.

A further 350,000 volumes have been assembled by private contributions from Great Britain, the United States, France, Canada, Poland, Holland, Sweden, Czechoslovakia and China.

The British contribution, with 55,000 volumes, is by far the most important, the nxt numerous being that of France with 33,000 volumes.

The Japanese contributions alone are worth two million yen and include a Buddic manuscript on parchment from the ninth century.

The American contribution includes the curious collection of Miss Minn of Boston which is constituted entirely of books relating to death.

Miss Minn, aged 85, had since her childhood bought all books dealing with death and one-half of this collection she offered the Louvain Library. One of these death books is a splendid prayer book of Henry III, King of France and Poland

As for Germany's contributions the were gathered by means of a credit for four million gold marks opened by the German Government in behalf of a committee established at Leipzig to the effect of buying up all available books that were asked for by the Louvain Library University, who had sent in a list of 30,000 volumes that were to be found on the library stacks before the war.

Most of these 30,000 volumes were gathered from 37 German private libraries, it being understood that Germany would have to provide for these only insofar as they were unduplicated in the German libraries.

Thus the Louvain Library has emerged from the ordeal richer than it was ever before, the United States having provided for a library building which is the most up-to-date in Europe, and Germany together with the allied and neutral coutries having filled the stacks with an almost unique collection of rare books and manuscripts.

Exercise for Eyes Advocated by Specialist

WINNIPEG, Aug. 14.—Exercise for the eyes was advocated by Dr. Charles Sheard, chief of biophysical optics at the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., in an interview here recently. The doctor said "setting-up exercises" in the morning would benefit the eyes as much as they do the body "eye-rolling" being specially recommended—that is, rolling eyes sideways and upward.

Dr. Sheard said: "The eyes are as lazy as any part of the body and need exercise. Like other parts, also, they can adapt themselves to the need of the modern world." He said the "movies" were not injurious to the eyes. The motor car, though, brings with it a strain on the eyes which was not known in the old days of the horse. "Driving a car is a continual strain on the eye," the doctor said, "but people are less taut driving now than they used to be, and there is no appreciable harm done. The short-sighted driver is often safer than the man who takes long chances.'

Egg little larger than a robbin's egg "crown and perfectly formed was laid recently by a Plymouth Rock hen belonging to Bruce Moore, Crowland.

MAKE PROGRESS ON THE HIGHWAY IN THE SLOCAN

Captain Fitzsimmons, M. P. P. for Kalso-Slocan Discusses Road Construction

Good progress is being made on the new highway between Silverton and Slocan City, stated Capt. J. Fitzsimmons, M. P. P. for Kaslo-Slocan riding, who was in Nelson yesterday.

This new highway will complete the road which was constructed from Slocan City north a couple of years or so ago and will do away with a very bad grade which at present handicaps traffic to and from the Slocan.

The new road is about 60 per cent completed, said the Kaslo-Slocan member, and he expects it will be ready for traffic within a couple of months.

Good progress is also being made on the new cut-off at Three Forks which will improve the road between New Denver and Sandon.

Capt. Fitzsimmons expects the Box Lake-Roseberry road will be finished early next year.

Work is commencing on the Syringa Creek-Deer Park road.

FRED LARGE IS GIVEN A CIVIC WELCOME HOME

British Columbia High School Champions Greeted by Many at Cranbrook

PAYS TRIBUTE TO A. WALLACH, NELSON

Mayor Lauds Boy Who Won 100-Yard and 220-Yard Events at Vancouver

CRANBROOK, B. C. Aug. 14.—Arriving on Monday from his recent triumphs on the track at the high school races staged at the Vancouver Exhibition, Fred Large was greeted by the honking of Cranbrook's auto horns, and by the mayor, the local member of parliment, presidents of organizations, the bugle band and a large crowd of citizens. At once a procession was formed headed by the band and Mayor T. M. Roberts and F. M. MacPherson, M. P. P. whereby the returned champion was escorted to the post office corner where a civic reception was held.

first address congratulated Fred on his

F. M. MacPherson, in making the achievement, telling him of the pride of his townspeople who had not been disappointed in their high hopes of him.

Mayor T. M. Roberts next in a few well chosen words expressed the pride and satisfaction of the citizens of Cranbrook in having the British Columbia champion among her high school students. He then presented the guest of honor with a handsome white gold watch, with chain from the city.

PERCY WILLIAMS STUNT

George Moir, secretary of the Cranbrook Amature Athletic association and father of athletics in Cranbrook then told the assemblage that Fred Large had done for Cranbrook in high school races exactly what Percy Williams had done for Vancouver in the open events at the Olymics—returned with two trophies: the 100 and 220 yard championships.

Mr. Moir also paid tribute to Fred's 'gang' who were grouped about him giving them due credit for their part in his sucess. All of them, he said, had been up just after six morning after morning training with Fred. Those alluded to were Bill Taylor, Dick Large, Stanley Moffat, Jack Atchison, Joe Little, Roy Clark and S. M. Argue. Most of these have a few track trophies of their own and their generosity in giving their time is, Mr. Moir stated, appreciated by all citizens as well as Fred.

Mr. Moir concluded with the presentation of a handsome bouquet, which Fred in turn presented to his mother who was brought into the group in order that A. C. Nelson might obtain a photograph in commeration of the event. Beside Fred, his mother and the above mentioned assistants, the group contained Mayor Roberts, F. M. MacPherson, M. P. P. Mr. Clark of the Y. M. C. A. and Mr. Moir.

Fred came back with the same sized hat in which he went away. There isn't an ounce of swank in his makeup. He was a universal favourite in the city before he became a champion and for that reason rejoicing in his success is genuine and general.

For each of the two races in which he was a winner Fred brought back a gold medal. With these went a suit of clothes. For the winning of second place in the open races at the Caledonian sports on the following day he received a handsome cake basket, a nice addition to the handsome shelf of trophies already possessed by him.

THANKS Mr. WALLACH

Interviewed on his recent triumphs, Fred paid special tribute to the kindness of A. Wallach of Nelson, who acted as his trainer and advisor in the absence of any such person from Cranbrook. He stated that the entrants in the various events were hositably treated by the exhibition managers, being tendered a banquet on the grounds and given freedom of the midway.

The tumult and the shouting over, Fred is going right back into training for he is off to the Caledonian games at Trail on August 21 and possibly to Banff at a later date.

An invitation has been extended to Fred by the Rotary club to be present at luncheon on Tuesday and tell 'em all about it.

Lady of 58 Years Showing Money to Be Made in Wheat

Is Farming in Kansas; Is Called the "Wheat Queen" of That State

SUBLETE, Kan., August 14.—A middle-aged woman of 58 is proving that there's money to be made in wheat farming, with or without farm "relief."

They call Mrs. Ida Watkins the "Wheat queen" of Kansas primarily because her farm illustrates an application of big business methods to agriculture. She has adapted metropolitan factory methods to her 4,500 acres near here to earn that title.

A cattle queen of Oklahoma before she came to Kansas to raise golden fields of grain on a large scale, Mrs. Watkins, a widow, will see her 20 years of farming climaxed this year by the largest crop she has harvested.

And this woman who is showing the way to the wheat farmers of the west is no white collared executive. She directs the work of her farm, aided by the lessons her years of experience have taught her and when the harvest comes, she personally supervises the great task.

She is systematic and business like in the management of the farm. She keeps accounts of all operations. Only the most modern farm equipment is used. She pays her employees for the time they are hired, rain or shine. Tractors work day and night.

Her business shrewdness has been demonstrated more than once to her financial advantage. Last year she had 2500 acres in wheat and when 50,000 bushels were harvested, she decided she wouldn't sell any of it for less than $1 a bushel. She waited and with profit.

When her husband died in 1902, she was left with a ranch with 1650 head of cattle. Assuming charge, she operated the ranch for eight years profitably before she was lured to Kansas by the prospect of great profits in wheat. She bought some land for $3500 and in the first year harvested a crop which brought her $8-800. The acreage was increased to 280 in 1923 and in four years she sold $28,000 worth of wheat from that tract.

This year she expects to harvest 75,000 bushels.

Mrs. Watkins' farm is a show place during the harvest season. She employs scores of men who work in three shifts of eight hours each to complete the gathering of grain in a minimum time.

Mrs. Watkins has her own philosophy about farming and it contains no cry for farm relief. To the contrary, she avers there is no more profitable business in the midwest than farming, and believes that wheat farmers will find relief in cooperating in growing and marketing their crop.

"Hard work, mixed with common sense, never starved to death on a on a Kansas farm," she oftentimes said, and a study of her own profits indicates the basis for her statement.

"They call me the wheat queen," she muses. "Well, if I'm queen of anything, I'm queen of hard work."

Pedicord Claims Delibera tely Fouled; Gilbert Declares Boat Swerve Accident

"I feel certain that I was deliberately fouled by the Ladybird, at the start of the 20-mile race this afternoon," was the statement of Joe Pedicord last night.

"I'm not sore about losing the race," he continued, "but I think that it was hardly a fair deal after having personally persuaded the Spokane outboard men to come up for the regatta."

THE START

According to Mr. Pedicord the three boats were approaching the starting line with Gilbert's boat, the Ladybird between Peddy Boy and Mr. Reigel's boat Sic'em II, and slightly in advance On crossing the starting line he had the impression from the display of flags that the start was a false one and that they were to turn and come down to the start with the fourth boat ha had been left far in the rear.

As the Ladybird crossed the starting line about half a length in advance of his own craft Peddy Boy the big craft roared as the throttle was suddenly advanced.

LOOKS IN TIME

Similtaneously with the roar Mr. Pedicord glanced sideways to see the other craft bearing down upon him from the left side, as if to crowd him into the barge, about 4 feet distant In that split second he chocked his motor and swung in the left side of the hull far forfard, and being half foundered by the gallons of water that were thrown into both the engine and the pilot cockpits0. "For a moment"', siad Mr. Pedicord, "I was totally blinded by the spray that poured into mb yboat as if from a fire hose."

When the spray cleared away the Ladybird was well on her way down the first side of the lap leaving the Peddy Boy with a supttering motor suffering from a wet ignition system.

Mr. Pedicord explained that the dual motors in his boat were equipped with two magnetos which were badly soaked by the deluge.

After limping down the course about a quarter of a mile the Peddy Boy pulled into the bay and after considerable bailing and wiping the motors were cooped into half hearted response that during the whole course of the race never aproached their usual power and speed.

ONLY 1800 R. P. M.

Mr. Pedicord pointed aut that these motors normally were capable of 3000 revolutions per minute and that the highest that was attained during the race was 2200 with the average being in the neighborhood of 1800 R. P. M. This sudden drop was due to the fact that one of the magnetos that was more thoroughly soaked than the other was not carrying its ignition load and was cutting in and out of the normal system of the cylinders.

GILBERT'S VERSION IMPOSSIBLE

Turning to Mr. Gilbert's version of the unfortuate circumstance Mr. Pedicord was emphatic in his statement that it was impossible for a speeding boat to deviate from a straight course due to the fact that the terrific backwash from the propellor holds the rudder in a neutral position To illustrate this Mr. Pedicord stated that after he had taken a turn in the course he took his hands off the wheel and let tht boat straigten out on its course.

Ladybird was named as the pacemaker for the start and as such should have held the pole position instead of between the two other boats, was Mr. Pedicord's contention.

In regards to the suddenly applied power swinging the boat he admitted that in the case of the V shaped hull such as that of the Ladybird there might be a tendency for the boat course so suddenly.

but in no case would it change its to lean in one direction or the other

"I think that there is every possibility that I'll be back for the regatta next year" concluded Mr. Pedicord, "and I just want the Nelson folks to have my version of what appeared to be an unfortunate accident..

Following yesterday's incident at the start of the 20-mile race of Kootenay Lake, both Joe Pedicord of Spokane and L. F. Gilbert of Nelson made statements to Daily News reporters.

Their version on the affair which temporarily crippled the Peddy Boy of Spokane are given in the adjoining columns.

I think that the suggestions that I 'deliberately fouled Peddy Boy III at the start of yesterday's race is grossly unfair stated L. Gilbert last night in explaining the alleged foul which occurred during the annual race the Patenaude shield yesterday. 'I had spent most of my time and money for a great part of this summer to put my boat in shape for the big race. I was out to try to bring back the shield that I lost for Nelon last year I did it. And now I hear talk about a foul and am even booed by Nelson people only a few of whom actually have known how the acident(for it was an accident) took place.

This booing cut me to the quick and I was feeling hurt enough to throw up the whole thing and refuse to race But it struck me that ie was more or less my duty to do my best to bring back the Patenaude shield from across the line.

EPLAINS CASE

Mr. Gilbert went on to explain how the accident took place. "My engine is tremendously powerful a twin six and is considerably too owerful for the size and weight of the hull. You can see then when the throttle is thrown wide open with a sudden splurge at the start of a race, all this extra power being apiled with tremendous force within a second's time —why it becomes almost impossible to keep on a straight course until it is well away."

This was what happened at the start of yesterday's race, according to Mr. Gilbert. The Ladybird approached the starting mark at a slow speed being pace maker, with Peddy Boy following slightly behind. Peddy Boy was between Ladybird and the float and both boats were fairly close in towards the barge.

"Holding my throttle in one hand and my steering wheel in the other I crossed the starting mark with Peddy Boy just behind me and threw my throttle wide open. At that moment I looked back thinking that possibly Peddy Boy was in too close to the barge. At the same instant I involuntarily loosened my grip on the steering wheel. With my engine opening up like that and my looking back towards Peddy Boy, my boat gave a quick swerve to the right. I got her right back onto her course again and was a good way up the course before I realized that my wash had swamped the Peddy Boy.

"As soon as I saw this I came back and apologized to the judges and Mr. Pedicord. I was met with booes.

"Anyway, when you stop to think it over logically, wouldn't I be a plain fool to deliberately foul anybody right in front of the judges at a spot like that where the accident happened I couldn't possibly have been closer to them," concluded Mr. Gilbert.

UNKNOWN MAN IS DROWNED IN AUTO AT TAGHUM

drawn that the car must be in a hole no great distance from the shore but in such rapidly moving water that nothing could be done without the aid of the grappling irons.

LIGHTS ARE BURNING

Grappling operations proceeded and with the falling of dusk two beams of light were seen piercing the boiling water from almost the exact point that it was expected that the car would be found, As the darkness prevailed these two weird ribbons of light directed the operations until complete night made the dragging of the boiling river too dangerous a proposition. This work will be resumed at daylight this morning.

The broken glass at the point where the car first left the road presented a problem that was not explained until it was reported that a large roadster had been seen at the top of Taghum hill while three occupants were endeavoring to straighten out what appeared to be a crumpled fender. It is thought that this roadster may have forced the fatal car off the road into the river and then proceeded on its way without stopping.

All points through the district have been notified by the provincial police to be on the lookout for such a car as has been described.

Intimations that something was amiss around the district first came about 6 o'clock when the siren of the provincial police motorcycle officer sounded throughout the city as the officer made emergency trips in connection with the accident.

Rumors floated throughout the city and district and were not quieted until The Daily News was able to get authentic news on the tragedy.

Fifteen Head of Pedigreed Cattle for the Kootenay

VICTORIA, August 14.—The arrangements entered into between the government of British Columbia and the Empire marketing board of Great Britain whereby these two bodies will join in a 50-50 basis in paying the transportation charges on pure bred stock being imported into this province, is bringing forth results. Not only have 23 head of Ayshre cattle been received at the University farm, but tomorrow it is expected that 45 head additional will be leaving for this province.

Of these latter 15 are going to the Kootenays and 30 to the Okanagan where they will be incrporated into the herds in these districts. These are likewise Ayrshires coming from the good breeding herds of pure bred stock in Scotland. They are all pedigreed animals.

Portable School Is En Route to Labrador Point

Will Be Erected at Nairn; Esquimoux to be Taught the English Language Now

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 14.—A knock down schoolhouse for Eskimos is en route to Labrador with the expedition of Com. Donald B. MacMillan.

The school will be erected at Nairn, with the proviso that the Eskimo be taught English rather than phonetic Eskimo. Thus educated, Commander MacMillan believes, they will be better equipped for contact with the outside world.

Not only the commander expects Eskimos to invade warmer climates, but he believes that as the years roll by the summer season will take an increasing throng of visitors and traders to Labrador. After the children learn English he expects that books can be distributed among their families.

The school building will serve as a community house, and is the first of five that the explorer purposes to construct. Plans call for the second at Hopedale next year.

The education of the Eskimo has been in charge of Moravian missionaries in Northern Labrador 165 years. They prepared a Bible and a few books in a phonetic language.

The children who attend at Nairn now travel 130 miles, and about 40 students are accomodated. They sleep on a floor, in sleeping bags, and subsist at an expense of about 50 cents a day.

Accompanying MacMillan this year are Prof. S. C. Palmer, botanist and geologist of Swarthmore college, and Prof. W. C. Kenndall of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries. Palmer will study a glacier reckoned at 275,000 years old and make trips into the interior. Kendall will study salmon, trout and other fish.

Byproducts of B. C. Forests Talked Before Liquor Men

VICTORIA, August 14—Occasion was taken of the presence in Victoria today of representatives of the various liquor control boards of the four western provinces to bring forward in an informal way the question of corporation in the manner of assisting in the disposal of certain byproducts of the British Columbia orchards. Sanford Evans, commissioner, appointed by the provincial government to study the phroblem of the fruit situation in the Okanogan met the officials of the control boards.

Detective Story Leads Man to an Extortion Charge

VANCOUVER, Aug. 14—When Ralph Haney appeared in court charged for attempting to extort $1000 from the Vancouver Lumber company by threatening to burn their mill unless the money was left under a bridge, his lawyer asserted that the accused was the victim of a detective yarn.

He read a magazine story and was then dared by three companions to duplicate it. A dummy parcel trapped him while detectives watched.
