RYDE, Isle of Wight, Sept. 8.—flying bridegroom on a silver omet of a seaplane, hurtled to ictory for Great Britain in the ace for the Schneider trophy yesterday, establishing a new averge speed for the 218-mile course f 328.63 miles an hour, which is ust a bare fraction under five nd one-half miles a minute. This s an improvement of 49 miles an our over the speed record by hich Great Britain won the last chneider trophy race at the Libo, Venice, two years ago.

The victorious British pilot was Flying Officer H. R. D. Waghorn, Royal Air Force pilot, and a bridegroom of two months. He is the nly married man among the six aring British and Italian high opped pilots who risked their ecks for the sake of science and speed supremacy in the seven circuits of the course, marked out ver the solent, between England nd the Isle of Wright.

CHERLY IS FASTEST

Another British flyer, R. L. R. Atchrly, in a machine identical to Wagrn's, captured another world's speed cord for Great Britain, the race when surpasseed the fastest time ever wn by man anywhere, shooting rough the air on two of his laps th a mark of 332.49 miles an hour. Atcherly was disqualified for failing pass outside a pylon marking one the course points, but his world's cord will stand.

Dal Molin, only Italian to finish, n second place. He averaged 284.2 les an hour. Lieutenant Darcy ies, averaged 282.11 miles an hour. Although the race was an Anglo-alian duel for air honors, it was ally a contest against time. The Allans, after the tragic accident hich resulted in the death of one their leading aces, Captain Notta vo weeks ago, announced they would through the race as a supporting esture.

Great anxiety was felt among the fficials on the Ryde pier head when he Italian plane disappeared from iew flying at high speed.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8—The possibility that one of the four bandits who held up and robbed the Dominion Coal company's pay car here yesterday, and escaped with $9600 in cash, may have been struck by one of the bullets fired by a special constable appeared certain today. The car used by the bandits was found by police. Kamsack People Urge that Peter Verigin Be Deported Paraders Given Jail Term

KAMSACK, Sask., Sept. 8—Urging deportation of Peter Verigin, head of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, citizens of Kamsack have sent telegrams to Hon. Robert Forke, minister of immigration. This action was taken Saturday, following the battle at the bridge near here when the marching Doukhobors were repulsed by R. C. M. P. officers and citizens.

Four of those who participated in the parade have been sentenced to serve six months in Regina jail with hard labor. They appeared in court Saturday charged with creating a disturbance, while another is held under arrest in the local hospital where he is a patient suffering from a fractured skull.

According to information obtained at Verigin where the Doukhobors met, Peter Verigin has sent a telegram to his followers instructing those participating in the parade be expelled from the brotherhood.

Plane Wreckage Contains the Burned Bodies of Eight People; Crashed Into Side of Mountain

Air Transport Ship Burned in Explosion After the Crash Is Thought

SURVEYOR'S CAMP, ON THE SLOPES OF MOUNT TAYLOR, New Mexico, Sept. 8.—The first ground party to reach the burned wreckage of the trans-continental air transport monoplane City of San Francisco returned at 12:50 p.m. today with a definite knowledge that the seven men and one woman aboard the air liner were killed when the ship collapsed on the mountain last Sunday and their bodies burned in an explosion which followed.

But through an opening, which once had been a window, a wrist watch on the arm of one of the pilots was visible. It was scorched but it disclosed that the hands had stopped at 11:01 o'clock. The hour indicated as believed to have been the hour of the crash. The last was sighted shortly before going over Grants, N. M., a few miles from the base of this 10,000 foot peak.

WAS AN EXPLOSION

There was evidence on the ground about the plane of an explosion. Sand and leaves were scattered about. Several trees nearby had been seared and some partly burned. The fire, however, had no chance to spread at the time of the crash.

It was plain to the members of the party that Lieutenant George Rice, the Western Air Express pilot who for the first time sighted the wreckage reported yesterday, the plane had been driven into the hill.

THE DEAD

Although they could not be identified today the bodies were those of:

Amaza B. McGaffey, wealthy lumber man of Albuquerque.

William Livermore, shipping man of Boston.

M. M. Campbell, paper concern salesman of Cincinnati.

William Henry Beers, New York, golf magazine editor.

T. A. T. Employees—J. B. Stowe, chief pilot of Colvis, Edwin A. Dittel, co-pilot of New Braunfiells, Texas.

Mynard Canfield, New York Courier.

There was not a piece of the all metal plane with the exception of doors and windows left intact after the crash through the trees.

As the ship dropped to the ground it buried its nose and the landing gear two feet in the rocky soil, gasoline from its tanks becoming ignited. An explosion followed, throwing burning gasoline over the passengers and crew, on their bodies, experts with the party believed.

The bodies were brought into Grant, New Mexico, late tonight.

The attempt on Tuesday will be over a three kilometer (slightly less than two miles) course. Squadron Leader A. H. Orelabar, who did not race yesterday, was expected to make the first attempt with the same seasplane in which Flying Officer Waghorn yesterday won the race.

GRAND FORKS TO VOTE ON BEER ISSUE

Electors Vote on Beer Parlor Question on Thursday Next In City Only

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Sept. 6.—The electors of the Grand Forks polling division will go to the polls next Thursday, Sept. 12, for the purpose of again expressing their opinion as to whether or not Grand Forks shall have beer parlors. When the original referendum on beer parlors was taken Grand Forks voted against the measure. Three years ago another referendum was taken and Grand Forks again opposed the principle, though Cascade, Midway and Rock Creek that had voted in favor were given beer licenses. This time the vote is to be taken in the Grand Forks division only, and those behind the movement are quite confident the measure wil carry this time.

ENCAMPED DOUKHOBORS ARE QUIET

Have Given No Trouble Since Ejection Friday, Attend Trials Here

Sons of Freedom fanatics, ejected from the city last Friday by the citizens of Nelson at the call of the city police, have remained quietly encamped at their site just inside the city limits on the Nelson Trail highwhy, according to police officials here. They have shown not the slightest signs of being in a dangerous mood and have given police sentries stationed at the camp no trouble. Their experience of Friday afternoon has taught them a lesson, think the city police and little trouble is anticipated for the next few days at least.

Numbers of the Doukhobors have been attending the trials here of their "brothers" now in progress at the court house here. On Saturday they came to the trial and returned to their camp without attempting to parade in the city streets. They were escorted to and from the court-house by police officials.

Yesterday afternoon a large party of Doukhobors, relatives of those sentenced to Oakalla, gathered in front of the provincial jail. Many were allowed to enter and bid farewell to those going to the coast. There were no untoward disturbances.

GAS TAX IN B C MAY BE INCREASED

Proposal Being Considered in Victoria Is Five Cent Tax

TO CONSIDER IT WHEN HOUSE MEETS

Declared to be Essential to Meet Road Building Requirements

VICTORIA, Sept. 8—Demand for a five cent tax on every gallon of gasoline sold in British Columbia is crystallizing here into a definite plan which will be considered when the legislature meets early in 1930. With bers of the cabinet this proposal may strong support from influential membe containe in the next budget. In any case it will be submitted to the Conservative caucus for discussion as soon as the houses assembles.

Those behind a five cent gas tax declares it is essential to meet the road building requirements of British Columbia. The present three cent tax combined with the government share of the motor vehicles tax, is adequate they hold, to cover construction of roads urgently required in all parts of the province. With a five cent tax it would be possible to launch a programme of road building greater than any attempted before in Western Canada. The enlarged tax of course would be ear marked entirely for road work and would be used to pay interest and sinking fund charges on long term loans.

The present three cent tax was officially estimated in the last budget to produce $950,000 in the present fiscal year, but probably will exceed $1,000,000. In the last fiscal year it produced $914,000 and the year previous to that $788,000. It is growing at the rate of about $100,000 a year.

Altogether this year out of gasoline tax and motor vehicle licenses the province should have $2,500,000 to carry its road loans.

*The outstanding loans require $1,*916,320 to carry them, so that in the current year there will be margin to the good of $633,600.

Many Wish to Make Trip to Churchill

OTTAWA, Sept. 8—The lure of the north is strong in the hearts of Canadians. Any one doubting this should see the correspondence pouring in on the department of railways and canals asking to be allowed to go to Churchill. The flood of requests started when a news item announced that it might be possible that trains would be running into that port by the end of the month.

It is rather embarrassing to the department because at present the only buildings at Churchill are those to house the men engaged on the dredging and the railway construction. The only food supplies there are those belonging to the government.

Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of railways, announced today that his de*partment was preparing a statement* which will be published soon, explaining the whole situation there.

Business Men See the Mighty Peace District

EDMONTON, Sept. 8.—After having stood at the junction of the mighty Peace river and the Smoky river, having seen wheat in profusion growing in a district as far north as Hudson bay or the northerly portion of Labrador, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce party last night returned from their pilgrimage to the Peace river district, thoroughly convinced the productivity and possibility of that great country.

Not that the group saw the whole territory. They reached a point some 15 miles north of the Peace river and informed that they could go another 400 miles north to Vermillion before they would reach the northern limit of the grain country.

60,000 SETTLERS

Sixty thousand settlers and townspeople living in a district estimated by the government of Alberta to contain 47,000,000 acres of arable land, such in brief is the Peace river district. Much of the land is awaiting clearance and judging by the fact that of the 60,000 present living there, half moved in during the past four years much of it will be cleared in the near future.

Speeches given in the visitors' honor told that under the soil was still more wealth. Seventeen tests of coal in the district had shown it to be three per cent better than the best Pennsylvania Anthracite, Charles W. *Fredericks, Grande Prairie newspaper*man, told the delegation. A flame ten feet high burning over a gas well at Peace river bore testimony to the natural gas available. There was power equal to that produced at Niagra Falls available at Hudson's Hope, 200 miles north of the town of Peace River, he said. The greatest spruce stand in Canada was located in the district.

Signs on Government Highways to Come Down at Once

VICTORIA, Sept. 8—Government engineers throughout the province are ordered to remove all signs on government highways within the next three weeks.

Magistrate Cartmel Sends Doukobors to Oakalla

SENTENCES THEM, BATCHES OF FIVE

In Bucking Canadian Laws Are Bucking Heads on Stone Walls

Six months imprisonment with hard labor in Oakalla prison at the coast, was the sentence imposed on 104 Doukhobors of the Sons of Freedom element, late Saturday afternoon by Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel, at the conclusion of the prosecutions, lasting three days, arising out of the nude demonstration at South Slocan, August 29. Of the 104 convicted and sentenced 54 were men and 50 were women.

Of the 128 charged, 119 were brought to trial, and of those 15 were discharged—14 women and one man. Of the nine not brought to trial, seven girls and one youth in their teens were handed over by the court to the superintendent of neglected children, under the Infants act, to be brought up and given schooling. The charge against Alex Makasell who is over 80, and is sick, was withdrawn.

The sentence imposes the maximum imprisonment that the Criminal Code permits for the crime of indecent exposure, but does not impose the fine of $50 that may go with the imprisonment.

IN 21 LOTS

After adjournment of the court on conclusion of the prosecutions, the sitting was later resumed in camera, the convicted prisoners being brought in in batches of five, each group closely guarded by three officers. Groups were coming and going between court-house and jail across the lawn, one entering the court-room from the north corridor as that just sentenced left by the library, while others were en route in one direction or another. The escorting back and forth of the convicted men and women was watched by long lines of sympathizers from the encampment on Granite road, from whose faces the smiles had gone.

Twenty-one separate groups in turn faced Magistrate Cartmel, who addressed each group, his remarks being briefer and briefer as time passed. After each group was sentenced, usually some spokesman would answer, issuing a new defiance, and declaring those for whom he spoke "would do it again" as soon as they got out. Some asked the privilege of parting with their families before being removed to Oakalla, the magistrate in those cases replying that that matter lay entirely with the jail authorities.

The only groups to hear remarks at all extended from the magistrate was the first ones up.

FIRST GROUP LECTURED

"For the reason that I can only have five of you before me at a time, I can't tell you all I want to," he said to the first row of five men, through Interpreter Max Baskin. "But it is no use telling you anything anyway, as I am convinced my words will fall on deaf ears.

"While you have been guilty of several offenses, only one charge has been laid against you. A very serious one could have been that of resisting police.

"You may have no sense of shame, and the conduct you have been guilty

Forty Doukhobor Women Convicted on Last Day and Thirteen are Freed

Several Who Might Have Been Freed Convict Selves in Anxiety to Deny Testimony of Police

All local court records were broken Saturday when 53 Doukhobor women received individual trials in provincial police court, and 40 of them were convicted on the charge of indecent exposure, arising from the Sons of Freedom nude demonstration at South Slocan, August 29. The remaining 13 were discharged, some for lack of evidence, and some through being given the benefit of the doubt. This was the third and last day of the trials, before Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel, prosecuted by R. S. Lennie, K. C., of ancouver, special prosecutor representing the attorney-general, and E. G. Matthews, his assistant.

CLOSE TO FOUR MINUTES

The morning session opened at 10:30 and ended at 12:45, and the afternoon session extended from 2:15 to 3:35. The 53 cases were therefore disposed of in a period of 230 minutes elapsed time, or at the rate of 4 1-3 minutes per case. This was made possible by the large proportion of accused who did not dispute the evidence of the police after it was given, and by a considerable number of cases which were dismissed without the accused being called on, due to the police not having the needed evidence. On the other hand, several cases were hard fought, resulting in the police having to call corroborative witnesses.

Far more convictions were obtained than the crown looked for, as many of the accused women, after hearing Inspector Forbes Cruickshank swear, "I did not see her undressed," and "I cannot produce any officer who saw her undressed," broke in to vehemently declare the inspector was lying, and that she was completely naked. These accused were self-convicted, for if they had kept quiet a few moments, they would have heard themselves discharged, as were a considerable number. One woman was given her discharge and then made her angry rejoinder to the insinuation of the police that she was not nude; but it was too late for the court to take account of it, and she spent the rest of the day in the audience, a free woman.

POLITE CANONS

"It isn't polite to ask a lady's age," commented Annie Popoff, first called, the 68 year-old woman whom the Sons of Freedom sent out with Alex Makaself, a still older man, to parade nude on the forenoon of the riot day to affront the authorities. "Yes, I was naked," she said to Staff-Srgt. Gammon's testimony.

Dora Planadian was the first of those discharged for lack of sufficient eivdence. All Inspector Cruickshank could say was that she was among those present, and she volunteered that "I did undress down to the waist," but it was not enough to convict her.

"I was naked," said Tania Kudrin, agreeing with Sergt. Gammon. "I'll do it again," she avowed. Her age she gave as 19.

FEELS OVERLOOKED

"I was there. Why didn't he look at me?" challenged white-haired Nellie Swetlichnoff, irritated that Inspector Cruickshank couldn't swear he saw her. "We don't want her to incriminate herself," said Magistrate Cartmel, and he discharged her before she could supply the facts that the police couldn't bring out.

Annie Soloveeff got off for a similar lack of vision on the part of the inspector, who merely "saw her."

"I didn't kill anybody," contended Wasuna Barisankoff. The inspector "saw her often," but no more, and she was discharged, whereupon she indignantly announced that she was naked.

"What will I do?" exclaimed Magistrate Cartmel, temporary in pozzlement.

"You have already discharged her," reminded Mr. Lennie, and the old lady was left to enjoy her freedom.

Annie Houloff got off because the police, as related Inspector Cruickshank, didn't sufficiently see her.

"I didn't steal anything; I took off nounced, before the police testified. my own cloths," Donnia Borgia an-Special Constable Layton Miles found he couldn't identify her, but Constable John White supplied the omission. "I didn't see him," she said of the six-foot officer, "but I was naked."

Stenia Verigin, after hearing Constable W. H. Davidson, admitted "I had my clothes off."

Leese Stoochnoff insisted she was not "undressed on the road," Sergt. Gammon to the contrary notwithstanding. Between the sergeant's testimony and her evasiveness she was convicted, after which she confessed: "I don't know where he saw me. It was the first time I undressed."

"Yes, I was naked," said Polly Stoochnoff, confirming Special Constable George Harlow's evidence.

Sergt. Alex Stewart saw Dora Sookaraeff "but not nude." "I was naked," she hastened to correct him, thus heading off her discharge.

TESTIMONY FALLS SHORT

"I was undressed from head to waist," declared Tania Stralaeff, when Inspector Cruickshank testified he didn't see her undressed. Her voluntary evidence did not go far enough, however, to convict her.

Alleged by Special Constable Harlow to have been nude, Malasha Holoboff confirmed, "Yes, I was naked when they were licking us."

Seen by Inspector Cruickshank but not in an unlawful ensemble, Tania Holoboff kept quiet in the box and was discharged.

"He doesn't say right," contended Anastia Bloodhoff, when Inspector Cruickshank testified he saw her clothed.

"I guess we'll have to take her word for it," commented Magistrate Cartmel, finding her guilty.

Agreeing with Sergt. Gammon, Annie Holoboff said, "Yes I was naked."

Mary Slepoff said the same with reference to Sergt. Stewarts testimony regarding her.

AMAZON TO GET WISH

"I dont want to go to hospital any more," complained huge Anastasia Perepeikin, her arm in a sling.

"She won't have to," said the magistrate, having in mind that she previously agreed with Inspector Cruickshank that she was naked.

"Why didnt you ask me how I got a broken hand?" queried the Amazon, who is credited with having borne an active part in the South Slocan proceedings.

Martha Chernenkoff admitted Constable Harlow was right when he said she was nude.

"Did he see me when I was dressed up and they were licking us?" asked Annie Borgia, with reference to Sergt. Gammon's report of her as nude, which she admitted was accurate.

HAD HEART ATTACK

"I got scared and my heart is weak," explained Donnia Hlookoff, who sent to the hospital. Inspector Cruickshank failed to remember her, and she was discharged.

"I was naked. They made us undress," argued Mary Evdokomoff, after hearing Inspector Cruickshank say he saw her at South Slocan fully clothed. "They took from us our clothes and we gave them our under clothes," she explained, repeating the familiar logic. Though admitting she was "undressed from head to waist," Anastia Evdokomoff was discharged. Inspector Cruickshank remembering nothing of her except that she was present.

"If he saw me, it is the truth. If he didn't see me naked, it is a lie," asserted Demania Hooliaeff, by way of comment on Canstable Harlow's estatement that he saw her when she didn't have any clothes on.

"You should have tried what happened on Sunday, when you were strangling us!" she exclaimed.

"I suppose she is dead, like the other one," commented the magistrate, with obvious reference to the contention of Dora Perihoudoff, who claimed Friday that the police had killed her.

"Those few whispered words made me flush with pleasure."

"'—the most beautiful hands, yet she does all her own work—'

"As I looked up from pouring tea, I realized with a thrill they were talking about me! I felt such a happy glow of pride . . . for my hands USED to be my despair!

"Now I find it easy to have soft, pretty hands, in spite of dishes to do three times a day. I discovered that by using Lux for all my dishwashing, my hands never became rough or red or chapped-looking. With Lux, they were even WHITER and softer after washing dishes than before!"

The instant, magical suds are SOOTHING to even the most sensitive skin.* Lux is made by a marvelous special process—made whiter and thinner and purer than anything else. There is no trace of harmful alkali in Lux, nothing to dry up, to coarsen the skin, as there is in ordinary soaps—whether flakes, chips or cakes.

And Lux costs so LITTLE! In one of the big packages there is enough Lux for 6 weeks' dishes! So little to pay for beautiful hands!

NELSON MAN TAKES BRIDE, NEW DENVER

Miss Elsie Jewitt and Norman P. Richardson United in Pretty Ceremony

NEW DENVER, B. C. Sept. 8—One of the prettiest and most interesting weddings to take place in New Denver was solemnized in the United Church on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 7th, when Rev. J. Herdman united in marriage Elsie Lily, only dughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jewitt, of New Denver and Norman Percival Richardson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Richardson, formerly of Nelson, and now of Victoria.

Not for many has the United Church worn so charming a bridal decoration as on this wedding, which was the artistic work of the United Church Ladies Aid. The ceremony was performed under a trellised arch interwoven with the seasons flowers and ferns.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, made an exquisite picture in her wedding gown of white bride's satin made with tight bodice and long sleeves, the skirt in circular effect and falling in soft folds to the uneven hemline to ankle length and finished on one side with a soft bow knot with a beautiful brilliant ornament, and wearing a rope of pearls, her veil of embroidered silk net was becomingly arranged in cap shape and at each side were clusters of orange blossoms, her exquisite bouquet of Ophelia roses, white carnations and maiden hair fern completed the bridal toilette.

MATRON OF HONOR

Mrs. T. E. Levasseur of Nelson, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, beautifully attired in an imported sleeviess gown of silk lace, of a golden shade, and made on the uneven hemlines, short front with the side lengthening to points and rounding off to a longer length in the back and a beautiful ornament finishing the waistline. Her hat, a french model, in same shade with soft lacy brim and giving the extreme long line in the back is caught off the face with a jeweled ornament. She also carried an exquisite bouquet of pale pink roses and sweet peas, interwoven with mauve larkspur and maiden hair fern.

The groom was supported by the brides brother, J. Jewitt of Trail, and the ushers were William Gunn and Lionel Sells.

The service was rully choral. Mrs. Hambly presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register beautifully rendered Loves Confidence."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where a large number of friends assembled to offer their felicitations to the young couple, who were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Jewitt, motner of the bride, smartly gowned in rose beige silk flat crepe with beige hat and wearing a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The home was tastefully decorated in tones of pink and white with an arch in one corner of the drawing room where the bridal party received. After which a dainty wedding breakfast was served. A handsome three tier cake centering the brides table embedded in white tulle, while silver vases with roses and sweet peas and streamers completed the table scheme.

Serviteurs close friends of the bride, were Mrs. J. Hoogerwerf, Miss B. Stoddart, Miss E. Clever, Miss R. Zadra, Miss P. Campbell, Miss N. Aylwin.

HONELMOON AT COAST CITIES

Immediately following the reception the happy couple left for a honeymoon to be spent visiting the coast cities and Spokane. The bride wore a silk travel dress of beige with madera wine trimming, hat and shoes to match, with a beautiful fur trim-residence in their newly completed med coat of the new tobacco brown On their return they will take up bungalow on second street, Fairview, Nelson.

NO REASON NELSON TAXPAYERS SHOULD PAY THE BILL

It is to be hoped that the city authorities will be able to avoid arresting many of the Sons of Freedom.

To put them in jail would cost the city $1 a day per head.

With any substantial number of Doukhobors this cost would amount to a large sum and would mean either an increase in taxation or less civic work. One hundred Doukhobors in jail for 90 days would cost $900.

It is for the province to make the arrests as the problem arises from outside and not inside the city.

The provincial authorities have done well in the arrest of 128 of the Sons of Freedom who have been on trial during the past thre days, and if further arrests have to be made the expense of proceedings and of keeping them in jail after sentence should not fall on the Nelson taxpayers.

When the Sons of Freedom make a raid on Nelson and form an illegal assembly, dangerous to traffic, they are in much the position of a man who invades another's house.

If our houses were invaded by individuals we would unhesitatingly throw them out.

The position of this community is similar when the fanatics invade the community.

They should be kept out of Nelson and dealt with outside by the provincial government, to whose territory they belong.

Whether the province could induce the Dominion government to accept the responsibility which morally belongs to it and get the Dominion to take over the guardianship of the fanatics as it has taken over the guardianship of the Indians is a matter worth investigation.

A strong brief proving the moral responsibility of the Dominion government, which brought the Doukhobors to this country, could be prepared.

That Body of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

THE WASHWOMAN OF THE BLOOD

As you know the washwoman in the home or at the laundry endeavors to get the clothes as clean as possible and to the degree that she gets them cleaned, we classify her as good, fair, or poor.

Now as mentioned before, the washwoman of the body, that washes your blood clean, is the liver, and so your liver can be classified as good, fair or poor.

One of the expressions that you hear frequently is "sluggish liver". This means that the individual has a liver that is a little "slow" with its work, so that the blood does not get washed of its "impurities" as rapidly as it should.

This would be called a "fair" liver.

One of the natural impurities that is in the blood due to the work the cells are doing all the time, is lactic acid.

If the liver is doing its work properly it will not allow the amount of lactic acid in the blood to get too high. If it allows the lactic acid or other impurities to increase too much it would be classed as only a "fair" or even "poor" liver.

A poor liver is where it is doing such poor work that it becomes inflamed as also does its appendage the gall bladder, and so the skin becomes jaundiced and often gall stones are found in the gall bladder.

Now where there are no symptoms of jaundice, no pain from gall stones, no colic, and yet your doctor suspects that the liver is to blame for your "tiredness" or lack of ambition, he can now make a very simple test and find out if the liver is really doing its work.

A specimen of blood is withdrawn from the vein in the forearm in the morning before breakfast and after half an hour's rest.

Into the same vein of the other forearm a solution of lactic acid is injected, taking about one minute of time to get all into the vein. Specimens of blood are then withdrawn from the other arm immediately after the injection is completed, and after intervals of five and fifteen minutes. The amount of lactic in these specimens is then learned.

If the liver is doing its work properly it immediately withdraws from the blood the small amount of lactic acid that was injected and so the amount of lactic acid in the blood is really unchanged.

However you are not likely to need this or other liver test if you keep your liver active by bending exercises or deep breathing execises.

Overeating of rich foods, fat particularly, interferes with the liver's ability to keep your blood pure.

Chocolate Marshmallow Cookies: Cream one-half cup of butter with one cup of granulated sugar and add one unseparated egg. Warm one-half cup of sweet milk and in it dissolve, then add this to the first mixture. Sift two cups of pastry flour with two and one-half teaspoons of baking powder and a pinch of salt and stir this into the batter also. Chill before rolling out on a floured board thinly and shaping with cookie cutter. Put together with the following, after baking for 12 minutes in a moderate oven. Filling: Melt one-half pound of marshmallows over boiling water. Meantime boil one cup of sugar with two tablespoons of water until it threads, then fold this hot sirup into one stiffly whipped egg white, add the melted marshmallows and flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla; beat until stiff, then use between two baked cookies. Mrs. F. F.

Tomato Mincemeat: Chop one peck of green tomatoes finely then scald and drain before adding five pounds of sugar (either brown or white), two pounds of large seedless raisins, one cup of finely chopped suet, one cup of vinegar, one tablespoon of salt, two tablespoons of ground allspice and one tablespoon each of ground cinnamon and nutmeg. ook all together for 40 minutes stirring often to prevent burning. Sweeten to taste and add a bottle of Maraschino cherries for color if desired. Miss W.

GUARDS MEET TRAIL

What the Press Is Saying

A TRIUMPH FOR SMUTS

Although the election was disappointing and no doubt painfully surprising for the South African Party, General Smuts and his devoted followers accomplished a great deal more than their opponents pretended to think they would be able to achieve Towards the end of the campaign General Hertzog formed a habit of proclaiming that the South African Party was dead. The fact that alhtough nine of its members were returned unopposed, it polled many thousands of votes more than the Nationalists, in spite of obtaining a smaller representation and nothwithstanding the large Nationalist majorities in the Free States, proves that it is very much alive. The measure of success attained by the S.A.P. is almost entirely due to the energy and inspiration of General Smuts. He fought the battle virtually single-handed, and the bitterness of defeat must be alleviated to some extent by the certain knowledge that he stands today at the head of a non-racial party more solidly and loyally attached to him than ever before

PROSPERITY IN MARITIMES

In the Maritimes there is every indication of improvement in general prosperity and business activity. Revenue from all sources for Nova Scotia, New Bunswick, and Prince Edward Island was $97,443,077 higher in 1928 than in 1924. This increase of 31 per cent. is no mean achievement and is indictive from these three advances expected from these three provinces during the next half decade. in sympathy with improving conditions in Central and Western Canada.

Smaller in area and population than their sister provinces to the west, the Maritimes are at the same time rich in natural resources and capable of an intensive expansion in development. Proximity to the most important of the world's four greatest fishing areas, year-round open harbors, abundant and highly productive agricultural lands, extensive, unexploited timber resources, huge deposits of bituminous coal, largest known beds of gypsum in Canada, a giant steel industry, potential gold and base metal wealth, manufacturers—all these are valuable assets of the thrifty Maritime people and ensure progressive economic growth in the Atlantic coast provinces for many years to come.

Increase in inter-Empire and world trade with Canada is going to have a tremendous influence on shipping from Maritime ports. Geographically the three provinces are more favorably than adversely situated, although their apparent isolation from Central Canada had long been felt to have been the cause of all Maritime ills. Halifax with its magnificent, year-round harbor is closer to European, South American and South African ports of trade than are the great Atlantic shipping centres of the United States. The ideal location of the three provinces along world sealanes to the ports of five continents cannot be over-emphasized in weighing the destiny of the Maritimes as increasingly important economic parts of the rapidly developing Canadian country.

Improved conditions in the Maritimes also apply to Newfoundland where major mining and pulp and paper developments are adding to the importance of the island's fisheries.—Eastern Miner.

If you like a good finish for your car, stall it on a railroad crossing.

Some idea of the amount of prospecting being done in Manitoba and northern Saskatchewan may be obtained from the number of claims staked and recorded during the past year. In 1923 there were 7335 mineral claims recorded in the Pas mining district, 1400 in the Cold Lake district and 2118 in the Winnipeg district. There are at present over 20,000 mineral claims recorded in Mani-

Wheat Situation at Present Likely Manoeuvre for Post

OTTAWA, Sept. 8—Those government officials in Ottawa, long experienced in the wheat trade in western Canada, view the present situation, when there is almost a deadlock between the Canadian sellers on the one hand and the British buyers on the other, as something of a maneuver for position. The official decline to forecast what the outcome will be, they say the men represented on both sides of the Atlantic will, for obvious reasons, not disclose their plans. There is no deep plot, they contend, just shrewd sellers meeting shrewd buyers with a world grain position that gives wide range for speculation.

Spooner to Drill Two New Wells in Immediate Future

Drilling Resumed on Eastcrest No. 1; Model to Produce Soon

CALGARY, Sept. 7 (By Hugh W. Robertson, Ltd., leased wire)—Spooner Oil announced last night that two more wells will be drilled immediatey and production wil be taken from Spooner No. 2 for the time being. Contract for the new wells has been let to Geo. Snyder and the crew is rigging derrick No. 3. Location of No. 4 will be chosen soon. No. 2 is down 5,990 feet and 920 feet in the lime. It is reported to be producing about 60 barrels of crude naptha daily and officials believe it capable of about 75 barrels.

Eastcrest No. 2 was drilling at 1750 feet last night with the bit 150 feet in the Dakotas. Drilling resumes today at No. 1 which has been standing cemented at 4234 feet for several days.

Model, south of Turner Basin No. 1 was drilling at 5260 feet. It expects production from Dalhousie sands soon. Crude oil seeped thru fractures for some time. This has been cased off.

Merland, in the extreme south end of Turner Valley was drilling at 2600 feet. It is still in the lower Bentons. Daketas are expected soon. It is logging well and believed to be structurally higher than other wells in the central field.

Sterling Pacific No. 1 well should be nearing lime in a month. The drill reached approximately 3600 feet and is logging true to Turner Valley formations. A heavy duty rotary drill is being used by Imperial Oil Co. Officials of both companies are silent however. The C. & E. and Home merger cropped up once more, according to gossip.

Directors decided to abandon Warner Oil well and start a fresh hole immediately.

PRICES BULLISH IN STOCK MART

Utilities and Specialties Bid Up; Case Threshing Jumps 32 Points

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—The stock market ended the most turbulent week since early August, Saturday, with speculative enthusiasm still at a high pitch. Week-end profit taking came into the market in some volume before the close of the two-hour session, but the market displayed a firm undertone, and net gains more than offset a long list of net losses at the close.

Some of the utilities and specialties were bid up rapidly. Simmons was a high flyer, selling up 17 points to 175, a gain of 100 points over its low price of the year. Standar Gas and Electric and American Water Works again rose to a new high ground.

Philadelphia Company jumped 10 points to a new top. American Power and Light and American Foreign Power did likewise, but reacted before the close.

Case Threshing soared 32 points to a new high at 392, and American Bosch, American Rolling mill, Du Pont, Union Tank Car, Weston Electrical instrument and Worthington Pump were among others to reach record levels with substantial gains.

Radio which lurched forward about 11 points in a huge turnover yesterday, fell back 3½ points in realizing. General Motors was again heavily traded but failed to make headway. Loose Wiles Biscuit, which shot up 13 points yesterday, fell back 4. General Electric, Otis Elevator, United States Steel, St. Louis Southwestern and Stone & Webster were among prominent issues to lose about 3 to 5 points.

SOMETHING IN WIND FOR THE BIG MISSOURI?

Work Goes Ahead on Slocan Rambler and Utica Properties

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8 (By Hugh W. Robertson Ltd., leased wire)—Seymour Placer Gold Mine will be on a production basis about September 25th says A. W. Seymour, President. The flume and pipeline are almost completed and the huge monitors are in position. A start is being made on sluice boxes. Average values taken over 6½ miles ran 35 cents a cubic yard. The property is in Trinity county Cal. President J. T. Gregory and Secy. F. D. Oakley of Big Missouri accompanied by A. Archibald, General Manager of the Mining Division, Consolidated M. & S. Co., are visiting Missouri Monarch, the former's bg property in Nevada. Something is in the wind for Big Missouri.

At Slocan Rambler a raise is being driven in order to prepare for mining the ore shoot opened up. During the driving operations another shoot was tapped which adds greatly to mining possibilities of the new ground.

Steady development is reported at Utica in the Slocan county from which high values in silver and lead were recovered in the upper workings. The new low level tunnel is estimated to be within 200 feet from the downward extension of the vein system. Good news should eminate soon.

Nuggets of almost solid gold were picked up at the Lorne Mine a few days ago after rigging a shot in the face of one of the veins being opened at the new level. Quarts lumps with raw gold sticking out in chunks.

Bome weighing two ounces, were gotten. The miner's eyes opened. He had never seen anything like it and had been mining his entire life, had tapped an exceedingly rick ore shoot on a turn. Such spectacular values do not occur along the full length of the veins nor do they in any mine, but assaying revealed average values of $20 per ton. There are estimated to be 100,000 tons of such stuff on the King vein alone. There are 14 known major veins on the property which covers more than three miles of the bridge vein alone. There are 14 known major veins on the property which covers more than three miles of the Bridge River Gold belt.

T. J. Sullivan of Chicago, Vice President of Stewart-Warner Corpn. returned from a visit to Lorne. He had seen these particular specimens and examined the vein from which they were taken. He said he was exceedingly pleased with developments. He is a big shareholder in Lorne Gold Mines Ltd.

Intersection of a replacement ore zinc is anticipated within 20 feet at Kootenay Florence. Exploratory work in the south area has opened up two sell mineralized veins with good ore showings. Geological conditions led engineer to believe such an ore zinc is close by.

JOHNSTON WINS U. S. A. GOLF; BEATS WILLING

Takes Title Formerly Held by Bobby Jones; Crowd Favors New Holder

PEEBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 8—The United States amateur golfing championship yesterday shifted from Atlanta to St. Paul, when Jimmy Johnston, beat the battling dentist of the Pacific northwest, Dr. Oscar F. Willing, 4 up and 3 to play, in the final match of the first tournament ever held this side of the Rockies.

Johnston, competing in the title round for the first time succeeded to the championship relinquished by Bobby Jones.

The 33 year old St. Paul investment broker whose boyish manner seemed to catch the fancy of the crowd, rallied after a bad start to overhaul and beat the veteran Dr. Willing in a match that was marred by erratic play and by an attitude of distinct hostility towards the loser gallery.

GOLF BRAND BAD

Except for the gallant fighting spirit manifested by both contestants, right up to the finish stroke on the 33rd green, where Johnston got the half to clinch the issue, the brand of golf was not up to championship standard.

At the 18th, the partisan spirits in the gallery groaned as Willing's approach shot, apparently headed for a trap, just cleared the hazard and made the green. It was on this hole that Johnston made the most magnificent shot of the entire match. He has just cut Willing's lead from three to one hole by taking the 16th and 17th in succession but it looked dubious when Jimmy pulled his brassie over the bank and down to the edge of the ocean. The surf lapped around his ankles as he took his stance but he clouted the ball to within six yards of the green, just short of a trap.

Had Johnston been able to sink at least half a dozen short putts ranging from four to eight feet, he would have won the match long before the 33rd.

Both finished the first round in even eighty, eight over par to show the extent of their poor scoring, but Johnston, redeemed an erratic outward 43 by coming back in 37, only one over par. Willing was out in 41, coming back in 39.

'The Foolish Virgin'

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Tired today, aren't you, Pam?"

"I must be, I feel so—blank."

"This is distressing you, isn't it?"

They were talking like strangers.

"Perhaps if he took me in his arms, made love to me," the girl thought bewilderedly, "it might seem all natural and right again!" But instantly she knew that she did not want that, and her mind recommenced its distressed churning, milling, twisting. Perhaps, she said to herself, it was only the courtship that was thrilling and irrational and perfect; engagements were definite, human relationships, and all human relationships had their flaws. Poor Maisie—she had had fuss enough with the Billings' stuffy old relatives today, and with the Bishop, who wanted her to be married in her own old church!

"You aren't listening to me!" Chester said, smiling.

She roused herself with a start "I think I'm half asleep."

"I'll go away and let you get some rest," he said fondly. "I'll come for you at seven."

"Oh, but Chester, I ought to go back to the ranch tonight.'

"That's nonsense," he said. "Did you telephone?"

"No, I didn't. Because I really ought to go back!"

Suddenly she was alive again. She wanted, with every straining fibre of her being, to go back to Molino. She must go back. Everything else faded into insignificance. It was heavenly to feel even these pangs of homesickness.

"But aren't we all half-dated with Carol?"

"Yes, I know we were. But I don't suppose Sue Rose will go now?"

"No, I don't suppose she will. And I know you and I won't. Because I'm taking you somewhere to dinner, all by ourselves!"

This was too swift. She drew back her chair, shook her head.

"Oh, Chester, no. Not so soon I couldn't—knowing that she is all broken up about it."

"I know how you feel," he said. "And I agree with you. But this is an exceptional case, Pam. You'll be off to the ranch in a day or two, anyway, and then—unless I can slip away down there occasionally, which I do not much enjoy—we'll have nothing at all. You see, I hate these people. I loathe that grining, lazy-voiced Englishman who thinks he's so damn superior, and Jessy says the old lady is nothing but a mischief-maker — says she's stirred up enough mud—or says she will—to ruin the town!"

Pamela was staring at him, her head up, her cheeks scarlet.

"You don't mean Colonel Charteris and Mrs. Chard?" she interrupted him to demand, aghast.

"Yes, my dear! Don't look so shocked!' Chester said, amused at her excitement.

"But—but, Chester, you don't know them! Why, they're darlings," the girl said, hurt and amazed. "They've been simply angels to me—my heart would have broken if it hadn't been for them—I'm devoted to the colonel—"

Chester came over to a hassock at her knee and sat there, mirth in his eyes, his fine hands holding her own.

"No, you aren't, my dear," he said, unimpressed. "You were down and out when you went there, you slaved yourself to death for them, and they're grateful. But it's over. I'd be glad, myself, if you never had to go back there again. But since you do, don't be in any rush, Let 'em wait for you I told Sue Rose." Chester continued, "that I wanted to talk to her mother tomorrow morning. I told her frankly that you and I had been deeply in love, and that we had thought separation," he smiled, "would cure us, and that it simply hadn't—that's all. I told her that there wouldn't be anything sudden or sensational about it, but that in these marvellous days—God! what days they have been! —we'd found out the truth."

It's romantic, of course, but it is not true," Pamela heard herself, to her own amazement, saying disagreeably.

Chester looked at her quickly, and she saw his jaw stiffen a little.

"How do you mean not true, you bad girl?" he asked lightly.

"I mean that you and I needn't have separated—as a matter of fact we didn't, until I felt that you—didn't care," she said steadily, yet with difficulty. "Not that we really can tell people the truth!" she added, after a moment. She felt as cold, as remote, as a drifting glacier.

He dropped her hands, his faintly frowning forehead a little puzled.

"I didn't expect this from the girl who was half ready to run away with me last night," he said reproachfully.

"No, and I didn't expect it, either!" she answered. Suddenly she got to her feet and walked to the window again. "I don't know what's the matter with me!" she whispered, as if to herself.

"I think you're tired, and I think it's my fault for tiring you," Chester said, following her.

"No no, it's not your fault, Chester: it's entirely mine!" she answered, with an effect of feverishness, of breathlessness, that made him frown bewilderedly again. "You must forgive me—I'm sorry." She turned about, trying to laugh, distressed, two spots of color burning in her cheeks. She put her hands on his shoulders. "I just don't feel—that way, any more," she said. "It's all dead—inside me here. I like you—I even like the thought of marrying somebody, and starting life in one of those flats in State street—but it's all over—the real thing, the excitement."

Chester, looking down at her, regarded her in stupefaction for perhaps a long minute.

"What do you mean?" he said then, expressionlessly.

Woman Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sarnia, Ont.—"I am willing to answer letters from other women, to tell them the wonderful good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me. I cannot be thankful enough for the benefits I received during the Change of Life. I do housework and my troubles made me unfit to work. A friend advised me to try the Vegetable Compound. I felt great relief at once, began to regain my appetite, and my nerves got better. I will recommend your medicine to all with troubles like I had."—MRS. JOHN BENSON, 162 N. Nakusp Institute Celebrates Its 20th Anniversary

GLENBANK, NAKUSP, B. C., Sept. 8.—One of the outstanding events of the week was the banquet given in the Small Hall by the Nakusp Women's Institute to celebrate its 20th anniversary and entertaining as their guests the members of the Burton and East and West Arrow Park Institutes. The banquet tables were beautifully arrange din the Institute color scheme of white, green and gold. Covers were laid for 100 members and visitors.

Mrs. G. H. Gardiner, president, gave her address of welcome, stating that it gave her pleasure to preside at this 20th anniversary celebration, she herself being one of the first members. Mrs. Carruthers, secretary, read the minutes of the first meeting.

Mrs. Laura Rose, through the department of agriculture, was sent in to organize a Women's Institute during November 1909, and the first meeting was arranged to be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Abbey. Officers elected at that meeting were: Mrs. Bell, president; Mrs. J. H. Stevenson, vice-president; and Miss B. Abriel, secretary-treasurer. Members were: Mrs. Carruthers, Mrs. R. Abeey, Mrs. J. A. Stobo, Mrs. H. Rushton, Mrs. F. Heyes, Mrs. W. Herridge.

The secretary asked the old members who were present to stand as the roll was called, Mrs. J. H. Stevenson, Mrs. W .Carruthers and Mrs. W. Herridge responding. Some of the members have left the district while others had been called to "The Great Beyond".

Mrs. A. E. Fowler read a resume of the work accomplished.

Mrs. Keffer, president of Burton Women's Institute spoke on behalf of the Burton members and Miss Greelna on behalf of Arrow Park.

Mrs. J. Gregg in her own jocular way suggested that the Women's Institute have a strict ritual to follow and a goat to ride on being received into membership.

Mrs. J. Parent, Sr., read a telegram from Mrs. E. D. Barrow, past president, expressing regret at not being able to be present on this occasion, also a letter from Mrs. Quance, one of the past presidents, and also a valuable member. Letters also from Mrs. R. Mills, of Nelson and Mrs. L. McDougal, of Vancouver, were mentioned.

The beautiful three-tier birthday cake was lighted with 20 candles and while these were burning, "Auld Lang Syne" was sung.

The quilt donated by Miss Beckett and being raffled could not be completed as at first intended at the above affair on account of tickets not being all in from outside points.

An invitation from Burton W. I. presented by Mrs. Keffer to the members of Nakusp to attend afternoon tea at Burton Wednesday next was accepted with thanks.

THE CAPITOL THEATRE

Presenting

'THE DESERT SONG'

REMEMBER.....years and years ago.....the very first time you went to a movie? . . Remember the thrills of "The Great Train Robbery?".....the one reel romances of Vitagraph days? . .Remember, too, the incongruity of it all at first? . .Of lovers' lips moving soundlessly . . of Bill Hart's pistols flashing pantomine in the backroom of a frontier bar?

Remember....later...."Birth of a Nation," and the first large orchestra following the shifting shadows racing through the first Griffith epic? Still later came the day of the mighty organ.....great and versatile instrument, which projected every mood of the silver screen into the hearts of the audience. The illusion was complete.....almost.

TONIGHT at The CAPITOL the Stage comes to the Screen and with it, the silent drama passes forever. And it is fitting that the feature of our first All-Talking program will be the picture that has captured Canada's hearts: "The Desert Song."

Your heart will tingle with this brilliant rendition of throbbing melodies—sonorous granduer of the mighty chorus of 132 singers—116 exotic dancers and orchestra of 109 players.

Two performances. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. Regular admission prices: Adults, 50c; Children, 25c.

40 DOUKHOBOR WOMEN GUILTY; 13 ARE FREED

don't want to talk to you any more," protested Polly Efonoff to Magistrate Cartmel. As this was not very complete answer to Special Constables Miles' statement that he saw her nude, she was found guilty.

"Yes, I was naked," said Hanna Planadin, after Special Constable Harry Hughes had said as much.

"And proud of it," commented Magistrate Cartmel.

"If he didn't say it, I'd say it myself," she continued. "I tell the truth."

"You're more truthful than good looking," admitted the magistrate.

Mary Perepelkin agreed with Sergt. Stewart. "It's true. I was naked," she said.

"True," was the comment of Fanny Relkoff on the testimony of Sergt. Gammon that he observed her nude.

NUDE ON A TRUCK

Vehement claims of Annie Pozinikoff that she was not naked but was only striped to the waist did not shake the police witnesses, Special Constables Miles and Harlow. She would not concede that Constables Miles was right when he said he saw he entirely naked, and Magistrate Cartmel asked for corroboration. Constable Harlow left the matter in no doubt, statin she was standing up in the center of the truck absolutely nude and "doing a lot of agitating," so that she was fixed definitely in his memory.

"Like some of the other agitators, she is trying to wiggle out of it," commented the magistrate.

When Sergt. Stewart said he saw Mary Souchoveeff on a truck partly nude, the lady insisted that "When I was on the road I was half-naked." The picture was completed, however, by Special Caonstable Harlow, who explained he saw her nude at South Slocan, and that he made her put on her clothes when on the truck.

"I was undressed to the waist," the contention of Polly Samorodin, caused the calling of a second crown witness, but didn't get her off. The testimony of both Special Constable Hughes and Harlow was that she was completely nude.

In the afternoon Anna Samorodin, firstcalled, was discharged, Inspector Cruickshank testifying he had no officer who could give effective evidence against her.

THE GOD'S DAUGHTER

"The daughter of the Gods," otherwise Doch Borgia, said "It is the truth," when Sergt. Gammon said he saw her nude on the highway.

"Yes, I was naked further up, when they were licking us, but not on the road," was the admission of Vesuina Salakin, who agreed with Sergt Gammon in the main particular but wanted it plain it was not on the highway.

The statement of Inspector Cruickshank that "I counidn't say she was nude," didn't please Perania Astafooroff. I came to Nelson naked," she declared. "I don't consider your court at all. Why dont you sue yourself? You tried to push us with motorcars."

SITTING PRETTY

"When I was sitting on the truck I was pretty nearly dressed", contended Anastia Nevakshanoff, who wouldn't meet squarely the statement of Special Constable Harlow, who was her companion on the trip, that he had seen her nude.

"If he saw me, it is all right," she conceded, "but when I was on the truck I was pretty nearly dressed," she claimed by way of mitigation.

Sticking to her contention that, though she was undressed to the waist she "had a skirt on," Dora Fomenoff, after a hard fight, found herself freed, being given the benefit of the doubt. Inspector Cruickshank saw her beside the highway but in lawful attire. Special Constable Harlow saw her standing sidewise on a Special Constable HughesETAO 4555 truck putting on a skirt. Segrt Stewart and Special Constable Hughes, though present, did not remember her particularly, and Interpreter Baskin, who " took a kid from her to take care of," could not throw any light on her degree of undress. So she won her fight.

OFFICERS SHOWN UP

"It isn't true, I was not naked in South Slocan. On the road I was naked. I was undressing myself on the road." So, while Tania Podovilnekoff disagreed, as she thought, with Sergt. Gammon, she did not help herself much.

Kooftinoff there but " didn't see her Inspector Cruickshank saw Anna undressed." She showed him up, however, by declaring, "I was naked."

Milly Shlekoff, unknown to either Inspector Cruickshank or his force, was discharged.

"Blest be God and all His neighbors," Anna Pereverazeff ceremoniously greeted her compatriots in the audience. She was equally polite to Sergt. Gammon, agreeing, "Yes, I was all naked."

Ascertaining from her that she was 24, the magistrate noted, "Old enough to know better."

ALWAYS NAKED

"It is not true," objected Mary Hlookoff to Inspector Cruickshank's statement that he only saw her dressed. "I was naked," she declared. When Magistrate Cartmel protested that that didn't prove that the inspector was not truthful, she clinched her point with, "I was always naked. Your trial is no good," was her further comment.

"I'll have to take her word as to her state," conceded the magistrate, making her "Guilty."

When Sergt. Gammon said he saw Anastia Antevaeff "exposing her person to the public," the accused set up the defence that "I was half-naked over there." When the officer further testified that he "saw her stripped." "All right, I'll be naked," she conceded.

"She'll have to be, for I agree with the sergeant," announced the magistrate.

KNOWS HERSELF

Anastia Reiben, Sergt. Gammon testified, was nude. Asked the usual question, as to whether he was positive this was the same person he saw at South Slocan, he said there were two young girls together who looked much alike, and both were nude, as he remembered this one.

"I was naked," commented Anastia. "I don't know the other one, but I know myself. I was naked."

While Anna Terasoff contended she was "naked from the waist up," and shook her head violently to Special Constable Harlow's indentification of her as having been seen by him entirely nude beside the truck, the officer's testimony, given very positively, impressed the magistrate as reliable.

Pointing out that wherever sworn evidence of a convincing character was not obtained, he invariably gave the accused the benefit of the doubt, he said in this case of conflict he was unable to doubt the officer, and so found her guilty.

SKIRT PLAYS PART

"I was undressed from head to waist," militantly declared Millie Starlaeff, when Inspector Cruickshank said he didn't see her undressed.

It was stated that Constable W. H. Davidson, who had been called out from court on an emergency case, had recognized the accused, but how much he would be able to say was not known. While this was under discussion, with the probability looming that Millie would be freed, as she would have been anyway, if she hadn't answered the inspector, she settled the matter explaining further.

"I took off my skirt too, but they made me put it on," she supplemented.

Mary Nazaroff, remembered by the inspector as "clothed," would not have it that way. "I was undressed for the upper half of my body," she insisted. "I had only my lowered under-garment on."

This saved her, however, and she was liberated.

Honorable scars of an old combat gave away Martha Swetlisheff. "I am not guilty of anything. I didn't kill anybody, but I was licked half to death Sunday and nearly run over by a motor-cyole," she declared.

While she claimed, "I wasn't all naked; I was half-naked," both Special Constable Hughes and Special Constable Vernon MacCarter plainly remembered her in an essentially nude state, having particularly noticed her from marks she bore on arm and leg, but which were old. "I had something on," she insisted, when Special Constable MacCarter reported her getting into one of the trucks nude. This something, this officer reported, was " a kind of under-garment.

"Those marks were made Sunday," was her answer to this indentification. "Your suit is not true."

TRIPLY NAKED

Inspector Cruickshank informed the court he never saw Fannie Popoff nude, but she corrected him. "No, I was naked I was naked all. I was all naked," she put it in various ways.

"She wasn't asked to say that, but since she volunteers it, I find her guilty," stated Magistrate Cartmel.

"It is the truth," said Dora Popoff, when Special Constable testified he saw her entirely nude.

She wanted to "say a few words," but the magistrate ruled that there was not time for it. "That was the only word I want to hear," referring to her comment on the constable's evidence.

MAXIMUM TERM IMPOSED ON 104 SONS OF FREEDOM

of may not appear disgraceful in your eyes, but it is regarded in all civilized countries as disgraceful, and there is a law against it, and all civilized countries are behind that law. In Canada the penalty for the offence you have committed may be a fine of $50, or six months imprisonment, or both.

OUT OF MISCHIEF FO RTIME

"I feel, an deverybody feels, that it is time you people had a lesson. There would be no sense in imposing a fine. But to punish you in the way you can feel, and to keep you out of mischief for a time, the sentence of the court is that you be sent to Oakalla prison for a term of six month, with hard labor."

Asked about leave-taking, the magistrate said:

"It is too bad if you are parted from your wives and children, but the police warned you of what would happen, and even coaxed you not to commit the offence. But we know there are agitators among you, and you ignorant people are their dupes. That is the reason yu are being leniantly dealt with.?'

With the secnd party of men before him, Magistrate Cartmel said to Interpreter Baskin:

A FAIR TRIAL

"Tell them they have had a fair trial. No one has been convicted without evidence, and even though it was certain the women were naked, they were given the benefit of the doubt wherever there could be one.

"Now those who have been convicted have to receive punishment. The offence of which they have been guilty is not tolerated in any civilized community. It is no good for them to tell us our laws are wrong, for all civilized countries have similar laws.

"While they are being punished, we will treat them well. We have nothing against the Doukhobors, but have a decided objection to law-breakers. They will receive the full term imposed by the act, for this offence, six months, with hard labor, but not the fine, which, if they had property with which to pay it, would probabiy only work a hardship on their families.

"In defying our laws, the laws of the whole country, these few people are butting their heads against a stone wall, and we think the stone wall will last longer than their heads. We think their procedure disgraceful, and indulged in simply to show defiance of the Canadian law.

"I hope when they get out they will be decent law abiding citizens."

"We owe obedience to nobody but God," declared a leader in this group, afterwards announcing while being taken from the box, "In six months we will do the same thing again."

"If they don't like this country and its laws, I don't know any country where they could go and do what they have been trying to do here," Magistrate Cartmel told the third batch, through the interpreter.

"They should consider their families before they wantonly break the laws.

"If, when they come out of prison, they repeat their offence, they will probably find the feeling of Canadians has crystallized, and that they won't get off so easily again."

One man interrupted.

"He's not satisfied with your trial," reported Interpreter Baskin.

Magistrate Cartmel: "I'm wasting my breath."

"I feel it is a waste of time to explain matters to you," said the magistrate to the fourth batch. In bucking our laws, which are the same kind of laws as in all civilized countries, you are bucking against a stone wall.

"If it was not that we realize you have been led into this by others, you would be dealt with much more seriously, and if you offend again, you certainly will be."

To the fifth lot Magistrate Cartmel said:

"You have all been properly tried and have been convicted of a very serious and disgusting offence. You were tried separately and fairly, and if there was any doubt, you were given the benefit, some of the women, especially, being let off on this ground.

"You are going to be punished for your offence. I feel I am wasting my breath discussing this with you. If I could reason with you I would talk for hours if necessary, but you are not amendable to reason. But nevertheless ableness cannot be tolerated when it results in law-breaking. There is no other country in the world where you could do what you have tried to do here, unless you went miles into the wilderness, and then it would be no offehce because no one would see you.

"Though you were fully warned, you resisted the police, you intimidated citizens, you blocked the highway, you refused to disperse, and you committed the offence that could not be overlooked and brought punishment on your own heads.

"I hope when you get out you will show changed minds, but if you do not, I imagine you will find the determination of Canadians to compel respect for the law from you has hardened."

It took well over an hour to finish the sentences.
