FIND THE RIFLE OF DEAD HUNTER

NANAIMO, B.C., Feb. 9 (CP).—The finding of the rifle belonging to Bernard (Bennie) Sands, lost hunter, lying alongside a log at the side of a trail clears up all suspicion of foul play, according to Game Warden Frank Greenfield, who headed the search party. Laverne Booth came across the weapon 40 yards from where the body was found. It was lying alongside a log with magazine empty and on safety.

One policeman was gravely injured and 36 other police were hurt. Upwards of 1000 rioters were injured, 22 of them seriously, some of whom were struck by bullets. Eight hundred were arrested as bands of shouting men ran through the district, smashing windows and looting stores.

The working-class district near the Place de la Republique—a mile square in area—was thrown into an uproar.

The churches of St. Joseph and St. Ambroise were set afire,

JOE DYCK, 11-YEAR-OLD, SUFFERS A BROKEN BACK AND FRACTURE OF THE SKULL WHEN RUN OVER BY AN AUTO

Rushed to Hospital by Terrance Rosling Driver of Car on Fairview Street

Appearing from nowhere suddenly in front of the car of Terence Rosling, as the latter was driving on the upper section of Nelson avenue bound for the ferry, at 6.40 Friday evening, 11-year-old Joe Dyck, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dyck of Delbruck street, was knocked down by the fender, passed over by the car, and picked up a few moments later by Mr. Rosling and his companion, Thomas Johnstone, conscious, but with a fractured skull and a broken back.

With plenty of time in which to catch the ferry, Mr. Rosling was rolling along slowly when the boy suddenly appeared a couple of feet in front of the car. Application of the brakes was too late to save the boy, who was stretched on the roadway 15 feet behind the car when it stopped.

Messrs. Rosling and Johnstone rushed to Kootenay Lake General hospital with the injured lad. Dr. R. B. Shaw, his family doctor, being at the time in the hospital, and taking charge of him. Though confused, the boy was fully conscious. In spite of the boy's spinal injury there was no evidence of paralysis. The boy, however, is in a very serious condition.

He is one of eight children.

Where the boy came from when he suddenly showed up in front of the car no one as yet knows.

The accident happened about halfway between the High street fill and the Hume school.

Heinous Crime Says Judge Passing Sentence

SIOUX FALLS, S.D., Feb. 9 (CP)—Gordon Alcorn, young Canadian partner of Verne Sankey, today was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Sankey and Alcorn several years ago comprised a Canadian National railways engine crew, operating out of Melville, Sask. Sankey, who went into bootlegging and later into the "snatch racket," was the train engineer, and persuaded his assistant to join him when he decided on a crime career.

A life sentence for Alcorn followed the suicide of Sankey in his prison cell last night wrote an end to the criminal careers of the principles in the $50,000 ransom kidnapping of Charles Boettcher, 2nd, wealthy Denver broker.

Pale and plainly nervous, the 27-year-old kidnapper stood with bowed head as the indictment was read by District Attorney Olaf Hidem.

"Guilty," he said clearly when asked as to his plea.

"The facts and circumstances in this case," said Judge A. Lee Wyman, "call for no extended comment on the part of the court. It is sufficient to say that the facts disclose one of the most inexcusable, dastardly and heinous crimes known.

Society demands that you be given the maximum penalty.

"I hereby sentence you to Leavenworth prison to serve the full term of your natural life."

ADDRESS VOTE PROBABLE ON TUESDAY NEXT

Western M.P.'s Have Day of Attack on the Government

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP)—The house of commons cleared the way today for a vote next week, probably Tuesday, in the address debate, first major test for the government this session. A succession of western opposition members took the floor today, attacking the administration from many angles but receiving no reply from the Conservatives.

A. W. Neill, Independent member for Comox-Alberni, demanded imposition of dumping duties against imported coal, especially from Wales. Thousands of tons were being shipped to British Columbia which had mines of its own but could not compete against United Kingdom subvention and cheap marine rates.

He believed if eastern manufacturers were encountering foreign competition in their products, the government would lose no time in applying the extra duties.

HEENAN ON INSURANCE

A former Liberal minister of labor, Hon. Peter Heenan, told the house the Liberals would institute an unemployment insurance scheme when placed in office "and that won't be long now." At the same time he expressed the opinion the government might launch a similar scheme "five minutes before the election to catch a few votes."

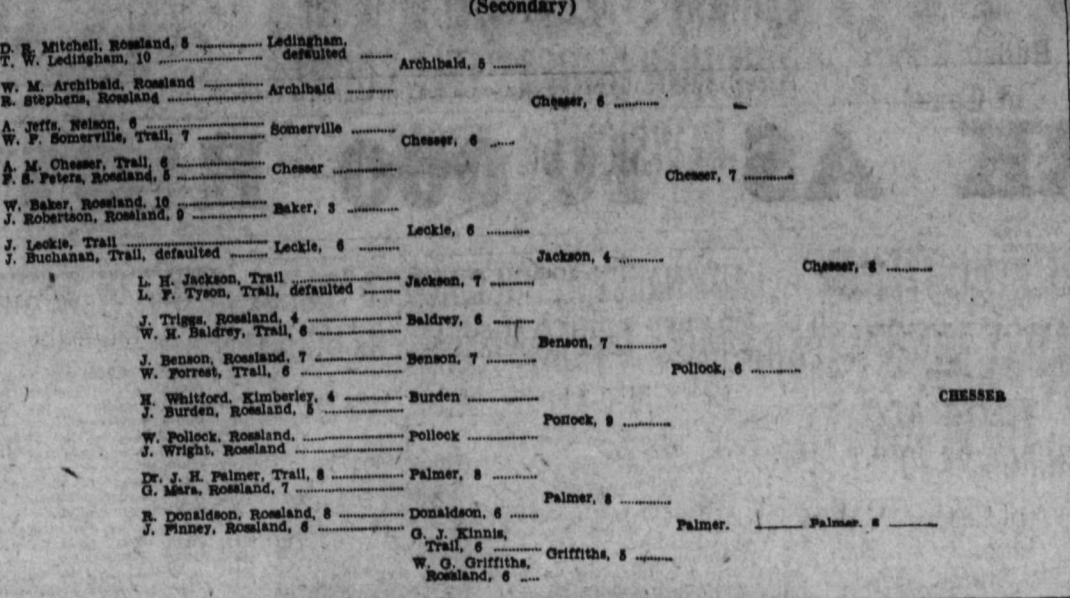
Another opposition member from the prairies, Dr. Thomas Donnelly, Liberal of Willow Bunch, attacked the Winnipeg grain executive activities of John I. McFarland. He demanded a parliamentary inquiry into the activities of the head of the Canadian wheat pools who, he claimed, was gambling with the credit of the country.

For six hours the government was under attack by succeeding opposition members. Angus MacInnis, Lab., Vancouver South, after telling of the success of the C.C.F. campaign in British Columbia elections, took the federal government to task for guaranteeing a $60,000,000 loan for the Canadian Pacific railway. He asked if the government had enquired first what the company had done with the profits of $133,000,000 it made in three years.

Led by Dr. Donnelly, prairie members disputed statements by Premier R. B. Bennett that Canadian agricultural prices were higher than in the United States. The Willow Bunch member quoted long lists of prices to show American farmers received higher prices than Canadian. Included in the list were cattle, sheep, hogs, wheat and other grains, butter, poultry, eggs and potatoes.

TRAIL CUP

(Secondary)



CORPORAL M'KAY SKIPS MARA RINK TO KIMBERLEY CUP WIN

Somerville Defeated in Nip and Tuck Go on Extra End

ROSSLAND, B.C., Feb. 9.—Making up for bad weather and tough curling conditions the annual B. C. Curling association spiel was brought to a brilliant conclusion in a secondary event tonight, the Kimberley cup.

Corporal W. McKay, skipping for G. Mara, led his Rossland quartet to victory over the W. P. Somerville rink of Trail in far the most brilliant and most exciting event in the four days of curling. The game was decided on an extra end.

The Somerville rink curled a beautiful game, but could not hold out against Mara's fine draws and McKay's well-played shots which kicked their shot rocks out time and time again. Several times McKay took out two and three rocks to lay shot himself. The largest crowd of the four days witnessed the game and kept up a steady march from one end of the rink to the other with the curlers.

It was a tough contest to lose and the young Trail rink stuck to it to the last rock.

By ends the account of the game is as follows:

First end—Skips started out with four rocks in the house, two rocks were lying just outside the fours. McKay moved one out. Somerville put another in its place. McKay missed to give the Somerville rink two points.

Second end—Mara put two rocks into the house, one a shot rock. Somerville threw weak to put on guard. Mara moved the guard. Somerville touched the guard rock, but the shot rocks were well guarded. McKay failed to kick it out on his last shot and Somerville took another point.

Third end—Skips started with only one rock in the house, a Mara rock. Mara drew another into the house. Somerville missed and went through. McKay was short, but his rink took two points.

Fourth end—When the skips started Somerville had two well guarded rocks in the house. McKay was short on his first rock and Somerville put another in. McKay knocked two out and came in for shot. This was one of the several brilliant throws made by the Mara skip and it gave his rink a point to tie up the score, three-all.

Fifth end—Mara, playing third, put in a nice shot rock on the front line. One rock was in the house. Somerville hit the guard. McKay knocked guard to the back line. Somerville hit one and Mara took the end.

Sixth end—Somerville, third, made a nice draw to the button. When the skips came in, Mara had one for shot and Somerville three. McKay's rock kicked one out. Somerville came in with a wobbler to take out the other one. McKay hit guard rock and Somerville was short giving Mara another end.

Seventh end—Somerville lead put two nice stones on the sixes, Mara drew nicely twice, both being shot rocks. Somerville's third made a nice shot to cut them out. When skips curled Somerville had five rocks in the house to Mara's one. McKay came down with a fast wobbler and knocked Somerville's shot rock out. Somerville hit guard rock and Mara's rink took the end. It was great curling on both sides despite the holes in the ice.

Eighth end—When skips came in one rock lay for Somerville on the outside rink. McKay hit guard. Somerville put on guard. McKay was wide and went through. Somerville tried to draw another but was short, Somerville took a point.

Ninth end—Skips started with a Somerville rink well guarded in the house and McKay knocked his guard in for second shot. Somerville knocked it out leaving one in for his rink. McKay was wide and went through to give the opposition a point. Somerville was leading 6-5.

Tenth end—Somerville skip went through on his first shot on a hard bit of luck, just shaving through. McKay was short. Somerville's beautiful shot raised two of his own rocks in for shot. McKay knocked one out and came in for shot, giving Mara a point which tied the game up again, necessitating another end.

Eleventh end—Somerville lead put two nice rocks into the house. Somerville had two in the house, one shot, and Mara, one when the skips started. Somerville just cleared the hog. McKay was narrow and went through. Somerville wobbled his rock and went through. McKay cleared out Somerville's shot rock to give Mara two points and the game.

LEVINSKY IS BOUT VICTOR

Drags Out Disputed Decision in Poor Display

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—King Levinsky, porky Chicago heavyweight, managed to drag out a disputed 10-round decesion over Charlie Massera, 22-year-old coal miner from East Monongahela, tonight, but he added nothing to the campaign the garden is waging on his behalf to build him to heavyweight title challenging status.

In the opinion of another slender crowd of 3,500, and the experts about the ringside, Massera, a comparative unknown, whipped the Chicago kingfish decisively in what was the first step in a buildup designed to send Levinsky against Primo Carnera for the world title here in June.

One of judges, Jim Buckley, voted for Levinsky, however, while the other Joe Angello, cast his vote for Massera. Referee Gunboat Smith then broke the deadlock in favor of the kingfish while the crowd roared and booed.

TRAIL RINK HAS BOOSTER NIGHT

TRAIL, B. C., Feb. 9 — Friday night was booster night at the Trail skating rink, with the Maple Leafs bands under the direction of Tito Allega in attendance. As an added attraction $60 in prizes were distributed to lucky ticket holders. A large turnout of skaters and fans were in attendance.

The band was composed of 35 members. While playing for skating is new to the organization they made a splendid impression on the crowd, and all expressed the hope the rink officials will have the band in attendance at regular intervals in the future. Little Helen Jane Merry drew the winning tickets from a box.

nounce agitation and place "the interest of France and the republic above all else."

10,000 IN CROWD

Seven persons were hurt in the first clash. While officers' ranks were being reinforced the crowd also gained new members, until it was estimated to number 10,000, and surged through the Belleville and Menilmontant sections.

A police sergeant was brought to a hotel first-aid station with a serious bullet wound in his head.

The demonstration, intended as a prelude to a general strike Monday against Fascism, turned into running gun battles. Communists chanted the Internationale as they ran and fought. Many police fell under the hail of bullets or were set upon and furiously kicked.

Windows in police stations were smashed.

The police stopped mass movements of the rioters by erecting barricades.

Prefect Sibour said police, although worn out by the weeks' disorders, which have already cost 15 lives, were "still without pity" toward "hoodlums whose depredations cause such demonstrations."

Thousands of police massed upon the disturbed area in the northeast section of the city and used their guns freely. Property damage was superficial.

Doumergue had brought together a group of political enemies pledged to restore order, and while the "truce" was being reached 30,000 soldiers and police stood ready to avert further violence like that of Tuesday and Wednesday nights which cost 14 lives, including two who died today from injuries received during the 48 hours of terror.

After presenting his 19 ministers to President Lebrun, the new premier faced the immediate tasks of coping with threats of the general strike today.

Included in Doumergue's government on a basis of equality as "elder statesmen" are the political archenemies Edouard Herriot and Andre Tardieu, both former premiers, who were named ministers of state without portfolios.

That four of the cabinet men are not members of parliament—an unusual development in French politics—testified to Doumergue's desire for a representative government that would forget politics in the great job of struggling with labor troubles, economic ills, an unbalanced budget, and charges of corruption that grew out of the $440,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop bond scandal and gave rise to the anti-government demonstrations.

The 71-year-old Doumergue, who left the peace of his southern country home to enter again the political arena, himself sounded the rallying call to his appointees at a meeting in the foreign office.

"From the premier to the last of the ministers," he declared, "everyone will do his duty!"

Only the Communists and Socialists headed by Deputy Leon Blum were omitted from the roster. In complexion the cabinet is advanced Liberal or slightly Leftist.

The French Federation of Labor called upon its members and affiliates in electric, railroad, postal, gas, water and other service branches to stop work Monday in protest against the government's handling of the riots and "Fascism."

Representatives of 800,000 civil servants and school teachers announced that they, too, would strike against pay cuts.

Doumergue achieved some measure of success when he exacted a promise from the labor federation that Monday's strike would be peaceful.

velt had not given his approval to any particular measure—in fact, had not seen the Fletcher bill—and was leaving the gratification of his request for such legislation entirely to congress.

The Fletcher bill, prepared largely by Ferdinand Pecora, banking committee counsel in the Wall street inquiry, would require that all stock exchanges and all issues of securities be registered with the commission, with voluminous information as to financial condition, sales and earnings furnished in regular reports, some of them as frequent as once a month.

Brokers, dealers and specialists would be required to stick to the activities connected with those posts and the dissemination of misleading information would be stiffly penalized. Regulation of short sales would rest entirely with the commission. For any violation a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment and a $25,000 fine would be fixed.

A measure to carry out the second part of Mr. Roosevelt's request, regulation of commodity markets, has been prepared by experts in the agriculture department, and action at this session is expected.

In his message the president asked restriction of speculative operations be made a question of "national policy," and this Fletcher sought to do in the preamble of the bill, which contained a declaration that "transactions in securities are affected with a national public interest."

The bill proper began with a requirement that all stock exchanges be registered with the federal trade commission, with use of the mails or other means of interstate communication forbidden under penalty for the transaction of business upon unregistered exchanges.

Next came the significant requirement that no purchase of securities shall be covered by more than 40 per cent of credit, meaning a minimum margin of 60 per cent must be deposited. The commission would be given authority to increase the margin minimum "as may be deemed appropriate."

Several manipulative practices disclosed in the banking committee's extensive investigation were prohibited specifically these included:

Any "fictitious" transaction whereby the ownership of a block of stock bought or sold is not actually changed.

"Wash sales," or the practice of one individual selling to another by agreement in an effort to support or depress prices. Pool operations.

Circulation of misleading information, with provision for the victim of such activity to bring civil suit.

Cornering the "floating supply" of any stock.

As for short sales, subject to much debate in recent years, the commission was given authority to prescribe all rules and regulations for their conduct. Stop loss orders also were made subject to the commission's regulations.

The bill contained provisions requiring brokers, dealers and specialists to confine themselves to the activities of such posts.

ROSSLAND AND TRAIL SECURE THREE APIECE

Kimberley Takes the Fourth Major Spiel Prize

ROSSLAND, B.C., Feb. 9—At the conclusion of the annual B.C. Curling association bonspiel today Rossland curlers had won three of seven major cup events. The golden city rinks carried off the Grand Challenge, the Nelson and Kimberley cups. Trail curlers also carried off three, the Rossland, Trail and Grand aggregate events. Kimberley's only rink in the spiel took the Cammell Laird.

Play in the final events today proved interesting and were keenly contested despite the fact that the weather was again against the curlers. Hacks were slippery and a deep groove in front of them prevented the competitors getting the rocks away accurately.

The spiel was complete with the exception of the points and Wood-Vallance consolation events. The points competition will be played in the various cities represented and the consolation will be played by Trail and Rossland curlers at Rossland as soon as the weather permit. The event will probably be followed by a bean feed.

factor; distribution and regulation were more important. The consumer determined the price, in his opinion.

Compulsion was an essential feature of a stabilization scheme, witness said in answer to a question of his lordship. Chambers agreed that a small minority of independent shippers could disrupt the scheme.

The pool committee, which is really another way of describing the Okanagan stabilization board, was not profit making, but was a regulatory body, said witness.

The Associated Growers of B. C., Ltd., was a central organization through which 28 local cooperative packing organizations, controlled by growers, operated, said Mr. Chambers, it controlled between 40 and 45 per cent of the B. C. apple crop.

The stabilization board recognized that it was essential all main line shippers were included in the organization; and the defendant firm was one of these, said witness.

It was a deplorable situation for growers when paid only 40 cents a box, barely enough to meet the cost of production, according to chambers. Their condition, he believed, could very materially be improved by stabilization arrangements.

The total investment in interior B. C. orchards was about $40,000,000, he said. Growers had between three-quarters of a million and a million invested in packing house equipment.

Cross-examination of James Andrew Grant, provincial market commissioner, Victoria, was concluded. The Kootenays, he said, would have got a lot more for there apples if they had come into the pool. Stabilisation, in his opinion, would not have affected the price to the consumer to any appreciable extent, not more than 5 or 10 cents on a 42 box.

Questioned by Mr. Norris, with whom E. D. McTaggart appears, about marketing conditions in 1932, Mr. Grant described that season as a "free for all year," without market control and prices going so low that transportation companies wanted carrying charges paid in advance.

He knew of some growers who lost 27 cents a box.

The same condition maintained in 1933 until the stabilization board was organized, according to Mr. Grant, and early last October the price was fixed by the pool at 90 cents, for McIntosh Reds. Then prairie jobbers, he said, got all the apples they could from shippers not in the pool at prices 10 to 15 cents less with the consequence that the board had to lower its price to meet that competition as well as bulk shipments sent from Ontario to Winnipeg.

Without organization, the market commissioner maintained, the consumer pays more in the main.

NO MORE COUGHING, SLEEPLESS NIGHTS FOR MR. HARRY ALLAN
BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE certainly makes short work of these stubborn old hang-on coughs and colds, that no other cough remedy will budge, according to Mr. H. A. Allan, of Sarnia, Ontario.
Mr. Allan says: "For years I suffered every Fall and Winter with a terrible cough and chest cold. I have had many sleepless nights and coughed until tears ran, and my stomach ached. I tried many different cough mixtures, but got very little relief. I started again with the same old cough about October first—but after a few doses of BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE my cough was gone."
Millions of your fellow Canadians will say, "Sure, that's right. It did the same for me." If you have a cough, cold, 'flu or bronchitis, just try BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE. It acts like a flash—a single sip proves it. Play safe. Refuse substitutes. Buckley's is sold everywhere.

VERNON STREET A SECONDARY ONE NOW OWNERS TELL COURT OF REVISION ON ASSESSMENT

Say Motor Traffic Diverted, Businesses Move Away; Demand Assessment Be Lowered in Whole Area

NINE VERNON PROPERTIES ARE CONCERNED IN APPEAL LIST

McHardy of Medical Arts Urges Whole City Be Reassessed; Court Reserves Vernon Action

Drive of Vernon street business houses against the civic assessment as applied in their cases was the outstanding feature of sessions of the civic court of revision Thursday, which lasted the entire day. Receiving of representation was completed at the day sessions, and the court, composed of the city fathers, held an evening session to deal with the balance of the applications, and to make arrangements for securing data necessary before the points raised respecting Vernon street are settled.

Mayor S. H. Smythe was elected chairman of the court, of which the other members at the day sessions were Alderman Ross Fleming, T. J. Scanlan, W. B. Bamford, and T. W. Slader, and City Clerk W. E. Wasson, the assessor was appointed clerk. Most of the day a large audience of parties in interest followed the proceedings.

C. H. Hamilton was more or less the spearhead of the Vernon attack, as he appeared for four different clients. Other aspects were presented by Frank Murphy, H. B. Gore, William Irvine, Mrs. E. Godwin, and Joshua Marsden. No decisions involving Vernon street land were taken, the court reserving all Vernon appeals on land for consideration together.

ALLEGE TRAFFIC DIVERSION

The main point that was emphasized by most of the Vernon street appellants was that there had been a substantial diversion of motor and tourist traffic from Vernon to Baker street by reason of the Baker-Cedar improvement of a couple of years ago, which depreciated land and rental values below what they were previously.

Mr. Hamilton based part of his argument also on the contention that the assessment bore very little relation to market value. He quoted figures of transfers in several blocks of Vernon street of the last few years, all of them far below the present assessment. In this connection he pointed out that lots 23 and 24, of the Capitol Motors corner, assessed at $6750, had been bought in 1925 for $1750, while lots 21 and 24, the inside lots on which the Capitol Motors garage stands, now assessed at $2650, were bought in 1924 for $1200.

This brought the answer from Assessor Wasson that in 1929 the Capitol Motors was capitalized at $50,000, and that the declared value given in G. W. Pease's transfer to the company at the land registry was $12,650, practically the present assessment. Including stock, Mr. Pease's interest amounted to $26,000, Mr. Wasson asserted.

It was Mr. Hamilton's contention that his figures, which were of cash sales, should have more weight than figures of Mr. Pease's sales to himself, which was what the deal used by Mr. Wasson amounted to, Mr. Pease having the largest interest in the company that acquired his business.

Mr. Hamilton's general arguments were used first in connection with the appeal of the Ritz block and other Jackson Radcliffe property on the north side of Vernon, but the Capitol Motors more or less occupied the center of the picture.

His other clients were the New Grand hotel and the Hume hotel, on behalf of whom he pleaded the deterioration arising from the traffic diversion.

In the case of the New Grand, Mr. Wasson pointed out that $2000 was spent last year to enlarge the beer parlor, apparently because the old one would not accomodate the traffic. On this point Mr. Hamilton demurred that the beer parlor patrons were not chiefly from either hotel patrons or the tourists.

SHIP COMPETITION

Prominent in the case for the Hume was that Proprietor George Benwell bought the lot adjoining the hotel for only $600 a few years ago, that the site had deteriorated not only by the diversion of traffic to Baker, both by the Baker improvement and the suspension of steamboat service but also by the opposition of A. D. Pochin whom the council permitted to operate a steamer as a floating hotel. It was claimed that the Hume was assessed excessively as compared with the Hipperson block, which was also a block distant from the Ward-Baker corner.

It was Mr. Wasson's contention in these and other cases that he did not claim that the assessment today represented today's sale value, but that the assessment was equitable between section and section and between property and property.

In connection with the Capitol Motors appeal, there was a general laugh when Mr. Wasson said he also wished to make an appeal, having discovered that in assessing that property he had never assigned any value to the foundations of the old Grand Central hotel, which had served the company the cost of new ones.

NOW SECONDARY STREET

The first Vernon appeal was argued by Manager Frank Murphy on behalf of the Imperial Oil company, respecting the southwest corner of Vernon and Hall streets. The lots, which the company had acquired for motor purposes, were now worthless for that purpose on account of the traffic diversion, he contented, holding that Vernon had become a secondary street.

Mr. Murphy also asked for reduction of assessment on the company's plant on the C.P.R. flat, contending that there had been a depreciation. Mr. Wasson gave figures of adjacent properties to show there was no inequality.

William Irvine appeared for two Vernon street clients.

On behalf of Mrs. Annie Johnson, he argued that the Klondyke hotel was greatly deteriorated, was now only used as a private residence, and might have to be closed down altogether.

He also claimed that the assessment on the Occidental hotel was excessive, and that the value of the land arose solely from the building.

In replying, Mr. Wasson said if one of A. D. Emory's residence lots was worth $750, then a corner lot a block west was certainly worth $100 more.

GORE CLAIMS DEPRESSION

H. B. Gore admitted that the improvements on the Smedley Garage property, owned by W. H. Smedley and himself, were fairly assessed, but put up a vigorous argument on the site. He claimed that the motor tourist had almost vanished from Vernon street. Admitting Mr. Wasson's point that before the Bake-Cedar improvement a goodly proportion of eastbound cars reached Vernon by way of Hall and Hendryx, he said that where Vernon used to come in strong was with the westbound cars, which now all took Baker. He said he understood that 10 years ago there were three garages and one filling station on Vernon and two garages in the Baker area, while now Baker had 10. He predicted, however, that Vernon values would come back in another 10 years, when Baker would have no more accommodation.

Mrs. Godwin made out a case for reduction of her improvements at the corner of Vernon and Hendryx, showing that some of the buildings had gone, Mr. Wasson conceding the need for adjustment.

MARSDEN LOSES RENTALS

The last Vernon appellant was Joshua Marsden, whose appeal on the Macdonald block was filed too late, but who was heard because if any general readjustment should be made on Vernon all Vernon property would be affected. The property, now assessed for $10,000, Mr. Marsden stated he bought for $8000, when it returned $220 a month in rentals, which in 1933 fell to $1296 for the year. He claimed that 11 businesses had moved off Vernon in the course of the years.

While Mr. Marsden was going into detail of rentals, taxes, water and light rates, and $4000 which he had expended on impovements, members of the court were busy with their pencils, and Alderman Scanlan presently announced that Mr. Marsden had received $24,000 gross revenue in his first 10 years ownership. Deducting $700 a year for imposts of all kinds, and the $4000 spent for betterments or repairs, he still had $13,000 net, which was pretty good for his original investment.

Mayor Smythe said even Mr. Marsden's present returns were better than the bank would give him.

BAKER BLOCKS

J. R. Hunter, who appealed for the Nelson Hardware company, stated he fully realized that the city must have tax revenue, and all he had ever asked was that the assessment be equitable. After carful examination, he stated he had become convinced that the lots on Baker street in the middle of the 400 block bore too much of the weight, and that the assessment dropped too sharply toward the two ends. He said he had no complaint to make of the valuation assigned to the Nelson Hardware block.

Mr. Hunter also appealed on behalf of Kootenay lidge, I.O.O.F., on the Odd-Fellows block, contending that $15,000 would be a fair value on the building ,on which $4000 would have to be spent on repairs eventually. He said the lodge would gladly sell the building for $10,000.

"Could you replace it for $20,000?" asked Mayor Smythe.

The court reserved both these appeals for later consideration.

MEDICAL ARTS

C. F. McHardy, in arguing the case of Progress Buildings, Limited, for a reduction of the Medical Arts building assessment, argued for a new assessment all through, and urged that the city should get in an expert to reassess everything, as anomalies and inequalities had crept in.

He argued that the Griffin block site was just as valuable and could carry just as remunerative a building as the Medical Arts site, at a smaller construction cost. He held that the two corners were equal in value, and should each be $15,000, in contrast with the value of $26,500 placed on the Medical Arts site.

The Medical Arts building, he said, was built at a peak price.

Asked if it was built for $100,000, the assessed figure, Mr. McHardy admitted to Mr. Wasson, it cost $117,000, but said at present costs, $75,000 would be a fair value.

SELOUS SITE

W. S. King on behalf of Naomi V. Hamlyn, of England, niece of the late Harold Selous, asked for a reduction on the Selous property at the corner of Victoria and Stanley streets, the improvements he claimed being deteriorated, while the site was also out of line.

Mr. Wasson showed that the site was assessed no higher than that of the Strathcona hotel, across the street.

It was suggested by Mr. King that the city could acquire the site for an auditorium, construction of which would be cheapened by the fact that no excavation would be needed.

T. E. Levasseur asked for a reduction on the building of the Swift Canadian company, stating the building was frame, except for a a plant at the rear, was 35 years old, and greatly deteriorated.

Mr. Wasson asked the court to reserve action on this appeal and suggested sending a competent man to inspect it, as he was not prepared to say what its condition now was.

BRIDE-ELECT IS GUEST OF HONOR

Shower for Miss Ellen Hansen at Grand Forks

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Feb. 9—Complimenting Miss Ellen Hansen whose marriage to Chester Bouthron takes place next week, Mrs. A. Benson was hostess at a delightful miscellaneous shower Tuesday. The rooms were tastily decorated with cut flowers. Mrs. C. Hansen gave two vocal solos to the strains of "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden". Little Betty Hanson wheeled into the room a daintly arranged little buggy containing the gifts, which were suitably acknowledged by Miss Hansen. Those present were Mrs. J. Lawrence, Mrs. C. NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Directors of Chrysler corporation today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis.

WINNIPEG PIT PRICES DOWN

Follows the Chicago Trend; the Cash List Slow

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9 (CP)—Export sales of Canadian wheat failed to reflect in operations on the Winnipeg grain exchange today and prices were depressed by fresh downturns at Chicago. Closing quotations were ¼ to ⅛ cent lower.

May wheat finished 68⅝, July at 69¾ cents.

Trading was rather sluggish. Export interests were credited with scattered buying orders, while Chicago traders were noticeably on the selling side.

Between 400,000 and 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat was reported sold for foreign shipment, but its influence on trading was small. Threat of rain over the United States southwest was a bearish influence at Chicago.

Prices in the southern pit ruled one to 1⅛ cents lower, while Liverpool wheat ended unchanged to ⅛ cent up. Compared with a year ago Australian and Argentine shipments for the week were down about 5,500,000 bushels.

Cash markets were slow, and coarse grain values tended slightly easier.

STOCKS FLOP AT NEW YORK

By JOHN E. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Stocks went down today as traders anticipated the regulatory legislation prepared for them at Washington.

Freight loadings in the week ended February 3 reached a total of 564,098 cars, up 16.7 per cent from the 1933 week.

Stocks showed general declines, though some of the larger losses were in shares which had enjoyed the strongest markets during the recent boom. U.S. Smelting, Case, Allied Chemical and Union Pacific were down four to five before finding new buyers. Air crafts again found heavy weather, while rails and leading industrials finished with numerous losses of one to around three.

Chrysler, which earned $2.78 a share last year against a deficit of 1932, yielded more than a point.

A SOLUTION FOR THE MILKMAN

Approximately 32 dairies are delivering milk in Nelson, many of them without licenses.

Apart from the danger to public health of sale of milk by uninspected dairies—a danger which we now know to be very great as shown by the tests made by the medical health officer of milk from some inspected dairies—the whole situation is uneconomic and wasteful. It is absurd that 30 to 40 milk wagons should be moving up and down the same streets when probably one fourth of the number would do the work.

A logical solution of the situation would be the establishment of a central pasteurization plant, which would handle milk from all the various dairies, excepting from one dairy selling certified raw milk. We now have two pasteurization plants in the city, and with a third there would be ample capacity to handle the milk for pasteurization and plenty of competition to ensure good service at fair prices to the public. There need be no increase in present milk prices, excepting for certified milk which commands a higher price on account of the heavy cost of producing it under conditions which make it certain the milk is safe for human consumption.

Dairymen in Nelson and its environs would do well to give consideration to a solution along these lines. Until the milk situation is cleaned up, the purity of the supply will be constantly under suspicion, and there will be danger of further outbreaks of disease. Under such circumstances the dairyman whose milk is not beyond suspicion is bound to be in hot-water. Further than this, until the situation is cleaned up, consumption of milk is certain to be less than it should be, which injures the whole dairying industry in this district.

It should not be difficult for the dairymen affected to get together for their own good and for the good of the public. In the long run in addition to protecting the public health they would make a better net profit than under the present unbusinesslike and wasteful system.

Sea shanties, sung by the sailors aboard the old-time sailing vessels, will be an important part of the program to be broadcast by John Goss and his London Singers over the Canadian radio commission national network Sunday, at 7 o'clock, Nelson time.

These famous vocal artists and purveyors of quaint English music, including rounds, catches and canzons, folk songs and shanties, will broadcast for the commission during their visit to Toronto in connection with their annual tour of the United States and Canada, where, after four years they are nearly as well known as they have been in Europe for the past 10 years.

Between You and Me.

ANY COMPLAINTS?

I don't know how this place voted,
but it doesn't matter at all.
I am going to write Mr. Putnam, for something only quite small.
There's a lot of husky men around here, they can fix it up in a day
The only thing that's worrying them is will they get any pay?
This tale of woe it has to do with the telephone poles and line
They are leaning north, south, east and west and might come down any time.
The line has got so very loose, we can touch it with our knees
And could also use it for lynchings, but we seldom hold any of these.
It would make a dandy clothes line,
but then you cannot tell,
The current might get mixed with the shirts and you wouldn't hear so well.
So please, Mr. Putnam, on our graves
we don't want a scroll,
Here lies Mr. so and so, he was killed by a telephone pole.
—"D. TEES".

The captain of a famous British golf club has just insured himself against holing in one. Another man has insured himself against seeing a ghost.

These are two of a number of strange insurances recently taken out, according to an official of a London insurance company.

"The golfer," he explains, "is a 'crack' player who says that if he did hole out in one during a game, he would be expected to stand his fellow members a champagne supper costing at least $250. The usual custom for such a feat is, of course, 'drinks round' for all in the club at the time.

When the great day arrived and the maid opened the door to the Duchess and the latter inquired if Mrs.—was at home, the maid answered: "Yes, ma'am she is, and may the Lord make us truly thankful for what we are about to receive."

Dr. Dewitt C. Croissant, head of the English department of George Washington and an advocate of simplified spelling, blames William the Conquerer and another William, Caxton, the first English printer, who imported Dutch printers, for what he terms "our silly spelling." The Dutchmen put the h in "ghost" and o-u-g-h in "through" he said.

He saw no reason why "beauty" is more beautiful than "duty", and in general he felt that as a result of complexity and confusion English spelling is approaching the Chinese ideographic system—in many schools, he said, pupils don't study the alphabet and learn words as pictures.

LOVERS' LANE

By Kathleen Norris

SYNOPSIS

Squidgett, a little California town was detested by Dina and Mont—the former a dishwashing drudge in her aunt's boarding house, and Mont desirous of getting a "Break" as an artist. Dina and Mont elope in his old car and reach San Francisco, where they are married. Dina has $500 which was left to her by a relative. She fires Mont with belief that anything can be accomplished if one has the "will to believe." She even washes dishes in a restraurant while waiting for her money. After the arrival of the $5(, she and Mont fit up a little apartment adjoining the studio of Perry Hickson, an artist who is married to Sonia, an actress. Mont is accepted by the studio crowd as a possible genius. Sonia bewitches Mont. Dina determines to get Mont back. She finds a sympathizer in Elliot Lampson, rich, cultured, but a cripple because of an automobile accident. Dina attends a studio party at Mont's request. Sonia again demonstrates her power over Mont. Mont admits that he is infatuated with Sonia.

INSTALMENT TWENTY

Again Dina trembled, and again she dared not speak.

"She makes you feel as if nothing else counted," Mont began and stopped short.

"Than what?" Dina asked, after awhile.

"Than her," he said. "She makes you wonder, always, you know, no matter where you are, or what you're doing, wonder about her. I'm always——" He passed his hand feverishly over his forehead. "I'm always wondering about her!" he muttered, youthfully.

"You mean you're in, in love with her, Mont?"

"I wish I'd never seen her; I used to wish I'd never seen her," he confessed, finding his words with difficulty, scowling as he spoke. "It makes you unhappy, Mont?"

"Oh, my God!" he said. "She isn't—exactly—like you and Mab think, Dina," he presently explained painfully. "She doesn't see things—well, the way you do, I guess. She'll like somebody and she wants them to like her, wants them to make love to her, and it doesn't make much difference what they ought to do, she doesn't think so much about that——"

"For instance," he pursued, as Dina continued to regard him without a flicker of change in her expression and made no attempt to speak, "For instance, she'll want me to come down town with her, to a first-night, or a rehearsal, and if I say no that I can't, she'll say, 'Does Dina object?'

"Then I say no, not that exactly, and she'll smile and say, 'Then what harm is there in your going down town with me now and then?'

"Well," Dina commented, after thought, "is there?"

Mont laughed, unhappily.

"Now tonight," he began in an altered tone, a tone not quite ingenuous. Dina felt the muscles of her soul contract in fear. "Tonight," Mont said, "she wanted me to come in for the end of a rehearsal at the Columbia at about ten, and then take her on to a Press Club Party. Perry's going to be there later, and he'll bring her home. Oh, of course," he added, in a brisk sensible tone, "there's no harm in that, and I don't know why I fuss about it! It's just——" he said wretchedly, "it's just that she's so sure of herself!"

He was walking about the room now. She took the vacated chair, and watched him. She knew, in her sick heart, that he had been fighting the thought of Sonia, the longing for Sonia, all evening; that the battle was not won.

"My God!" Mont exclaimed, running his long brown hand through his hair. "What is there in it for me? What does she want of me? I couldn't keep her in flowers! I don't talk her kind of talk, I don't know what it's all about——

Suddenly he fell upon Dina's deserted accounts, scattered about the table. He seized the pencil.

"Well, come on, old lady! Let's see where we stand," he said, feverishly.

"Old lady!" He had not called her that for weeks. Dina's happy heart suffocated her as she took the seat opposite him.

"We have——"

"Thirty-four dollars and ten cents, Mont. Thirty in the bank, and that," she indicated a heap of silver and notes. "And whatever you have."

"I'm broke," he confessed, "I have about fifteen cents. And on Monday we'll owe Perry sixty-five, eh? Well then, look here! I've got to stop monkeying around here doing nothing, we've got to get going! We'll get out of here, we can sublet if Perry makes any fuss."

Not in all the weeks since that summer night on the boarding-house steps had she seen him like this, so definite, so determined, so hopeful.

"Dina, I've got to take some of this!"

"Take all you want."

He put a dollar in his pocket.

"Well, here, call it!" he said joyfully, slapping down the coin on the table.

This had been a happy custom a few months ago. It was to decide which one of them should first get ready for bed, take possession of the washroom.

"Heads!" Dina said.

It was a head. With a little nod and a little laugh she gathered up her books and pencil and ink bottle, and carried them to their own place on a long shelf that ran across the back of the studio. When she came back Mont was standing at the black window looking down at the wintry black night and the cold lights on the water front and the bay.

Dina went to stand beside him.

"You stand by me, Mont!" she said. "And I'll take care of you."

"None of these people get anywhere," he said evidently thinking aloud. "Look at them all, fourflushers! Even Sorta — she's got to get a good part, and get it darned quick, if she doesn't want to find herself out in the rain."

Dina cried for sheer joy when she was alone in the washroom, washed her face and laughed at herself, and found tears in her eyes again.

Presently she heard him calling, went to the door in her red cotton wrapper.

Mont was standing at the window where she had left him—something in his manner chilled her a little; she did not know why.

"Listen, would you feel badly if I took a turn around the block—I want some air!"

Her heart froze slowly. She looked at him.

"I've not been out all day," he said.

Dina continued to regard him, stricken. Mont laughed.

"Don't look that way! I'll be back in five minutes."

He came over to her, laughing, a little contemptuous, inaccessible once more.

"You don't mind, Dina?"

"Oh, how can I mind?" she said, on her hoarse, pathetic note.

"I'll be right back! I only want a breath of air."

He went away without another word, without a backward glance. She had seen that his face was very red.

Dina stood perfectly still in the washroom doorway for a long, long time. And that night he did not come home at all.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

MIND AND BODY

No one can find fault with those who treat the mind in order to help the body. Whether this treatment be given by a mental specialist, a Christian Science leader, a minister or priest, there is no question but that great help can be given to a nerve wracked mind, which in turn takes away the tension from the body and the body organs so that they begin to do their work properly—the heart to beat more slowly, the lungs to breathe more deeply, the stomach to churn the food and manufacture the stomach digestive juice, the liver and gall bladder to become less sluggish, the small intestine to absorb the food, and the large intestine to move the wastes slowly downward and out of the body.

Thus the helpful influence of these various methods by acting on the brain, the various glands—thyroid, adrenal, and others—and on the organs and tissues themselves, is now universally acknowledged.

However, while the mind influences the body for health or ill health, it must not be forgooten that the body itself influences the mind for good mental health or bad mental health.

Thus a youngster with infected teeth or tonsils, with poor eyepoor hearing, with a tendency to frequent colds can be ... in his home and school life that his very character and disposition can be changed for the worse.

John Dewey tells us "The necessity of insuring the health of all young people as the fountain on which to build other qualities and abilities, and the hopelessness of trying to build where the body is weak, ill nourished, or uncontrolled, is now so well recognized that is has become commonplace. Health is as important from the social point of view as from the individual, so that attention to it is doubly necessary to a successful community."

One of the saddening things in University work is to see the ambitious, brainy young fellows who, sometimes because they are working their way through, or in other cases because they give no thought to their weak underdeveloped bodies, become so exhausted before the session ends that they are forced to give up their course.

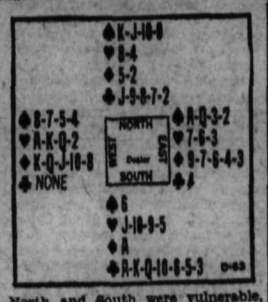
Just as long as the spirit of man must live or be housed in the human body, just so long must that body be kept at its best if the spirit is not to be hampered or interfered with in its work.

Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

AN UNUSUAL END PLAY

End plays are reached by an infinite variety of developments and probably one of the strangest I have ever seen is given in the hand that follows:



North and South were vulnerable, and the bidding opened with a call of one Club by South. West overcalled with one Diamond (a double probably would have been more advisable) North raised his partner's Clubs, and East helped the Diamonds. South, with an eight trick hand, jumped five Damonds.

In the play, North led a Club, West ruffed and led a trump which was won by South. South now led the Jack of Hearts, won by West, and North's last trump was drawn. The Declarer, with one trick lost and no Diamond or Heart losers, felt the best chance to make game was to take three Spade tricks, which it was probable he could capture if the Spade finesse won. Consequently, a Spade was led from West, and after North played the Nine, East finessed the Queen. When it held the trick, Declarer felt that the game was assured and led the Ace of Spades, only to be disappointed when South discarded a Club and North was left with two good Spades. The best chance now seemed to be that the adverse Hearts would break evenly, in which case West's Deuce would become a thirteener and East could discard a losing Spade. A second and third round of Hearts were led and to the Declarer's disappointment, the natural 4-2 division of that suit showed up, and all hopes of establishing a thirteenth Heart vanished. However, the Declarer was a resourceful player, and at this stage of the contract when many would have led a Heart, ruffed it and then lost two Spades, the Declarer saw a play which would absolutely assure game. South was out of Spades and Diamonds, so a fourth Heart was led from the West hand and East discarded a Spade instead of making the natural ruffing play. That placed South in the lead with nothing but Clubs left in his hand. Of course, West ruffed the Club, East discarded a second Spade, and East was then in position to ruff the two remaining Spades in the West hand and, consequently, the Declarer made game in Diamonds in spite of the unfortunate division of the two major suits.

REPLIES TO RELIEF CAMP MATTERS BY MEANS VERSE

To the Editor:
Sir:
Twenty cents, their clothes and board every day.
This is the rate of wages we pay
To men who give eight hours honest toil—
No wonder their blood is beginning to boil.

I drew a dollar ten for four long years
To make safe for democracy
This country which I call my home,
And what has she done for me?

You will say, this is all a thing of the past
The victory has been won,
I entirely disagree with you there,
The war has just begun.

The war to make more equal
Each man's estate in life,
So that every man may have a home,
Employment, and a wife.

You will say, well every man for himself
Let the strongest survive.
But we have no opportunity to prove
Whether we're dead or alive.

Economic as they are practiced
Is a theory of the past.
This world has long been bankrupt
And this condition cannot last.

It is the same with all these old theories
So let us conscientiously review
Them from their old foundations
And with fresh ideas renew.

So let us insist that this be done
The benefits will be immense
And the key to this new era is,
Just plain common sense.

There will then be no such thing as relief camps
And twenty cents a day,
But every man will have a job
For which he will draw good pay.

THE LOST YEARS

If you would waken memories
O winds that lightly pass,
Then bring the scent of violets,
That nestle in green grass,
Or would you strike long silent chords
The magic that you hold,
Must be the breath of cowslip fields,
Bright with their living gold.

If you would waken memories,
O sun that circles high,
Bring fragrance of wild hyacinths,
Blue as a fallen sky;
Or perfume of the pink wild rose,
In hedgerows, when the morn
Is dewy sweet in English Junes,
With blossom and with thorn.

If you would waken memories,
O patter of the rain,
Bring wafts from honeysuckle blooms,
Festooning hedge and lane;
Or from the rolling purple downs,
Crushed, where lone wanderers climb,
Fling far upon the ocean breeze
Your pungent smell of thyme.

If you would waken memories,
O slow meandering streams,
Bring odors of plumed meadow-sweet,
As languorous as dreams,
Or would you open long closed doors
To realms where memories cling,
Fragrance shall be your Sesame,
Soul of eternal Spring.

CHAIRMAN OF TRAIL BOARD GIVES NEW TRUSTEES INSIDE DOPE ON THE YEAR'S WORK

TRAIL, B. C., Feb. 9—In addressing the new members on the Trail-Tadanac school board, Chairman H. J. Palmer, stated:

"In offering my congratulations to the two new members of this board, I wish to say a few words about our past and present policies. In so doing I am not insinuating that you are to fall in line. On the contrary, we expect new ideas with new blood, and constructive criticisms are always welcome.

"But you will appreciate the fact that any permanent structure calls for carefully prepared plans. Snap decisions are seldom satisfactory.

"When the municipality of Tadanac was incorporated, an agreement was reached whereby Tadanac and the City of Trail became a consolidated school district, Tadanac to pay 51.8 per cent and the City of Trail 48.2 per cent of the school costs. I mention this because you will find that you will be approached at different times by persons who have pet ideas that they wish to see incorporated in our school policy, and who will advance the argument that Trail need not worry about school costs, as Tadanac pays half. But remember, when this agreement was reached, there were hard headed business men sitting on each side of the table, who felt that this was 'for value received' and it should be our aim to conduct our school business in such a manner that both sides will continue to feel it was a good business deal.

PAYS TRIBUTE

"In this respect I wish to pay great tribute to the former trustees from Tadanac, who while demanding efficiency, have always insisted on economy. In a consolidated school district such as ours, there are six trustees, and the chairman has a vote. In case of a tie vote, the matter is referred to the minister of education, who casts the deciding vote. We have for ten years now, been able to conduct our own business, without asking the minister to exercise his authority; and I trust we always shall be able to do so.

"During the last election I was surprised to learn that many people believe school trustees set the same pay as alderman; still others have the idea that we get five dollars per meeting, and that is why we hold so many extra meetings. If you are one of these you are due for a disappointment, for while you will experience a deal of pleasure i nbeing able to accomplish something for the good of the community you will also experience a good deal of grief. But you will also learn to like it. We have saved ourselves a lot of grief that, we once had by getting our business in shape so that much of it is done automatically. For instance: fire insurance was once a source of trouble. We had about 48 different policies, and they had a habit of falling due between meetings, so that we had to hold a special meeting to deal with them. Now our insurance is well looked after by one man, who divides it among the different insurance men, and by so doing we have about $7000 more protection, and an annual saving of about $350; and no trouble to the board. At one time the property committee looked after all repair work in every detail. Now we pay part time salary to the assistant city engineer who attends to all repair and construction work for schools. This is a very satisfactory arrangement. Our buildings are always in a good state of repair and a plan has been worked out whereby each school gets a coat of paint and kalsomine every four years. The principle idea back of these plans is to get fixed charges for each year as nearly the same as possible.

"Teachers' salaries, once the cause of much worry and controversy, are now fixed by schedule, based on the 'cost of living' index figured for the 12 months preceeding March 31 of each year.

"At one time our schools were the happy hunting grounds for book agents, insurance men, novelty peddlers, ticket sellers and such like. Now no agent can 'canvass in our schools or on school grounds without permission of the board, which by the way is never given.

"There is one branch of your work which you will find calls for very careful consideration where you must not allow sympathies or prejudice to get the better of your good judgment. That is the engaging of teachers. It does not, and never has, since I have been on this board, made any difference to this board, the creed, race or politics of a teacher. All we want to know is can they teach and get the results? Justice to the pupils and taxpayers demands that we get the best teachers obtainable. Some people think we can place weak and inexperienced teachers in grades two, three, or four, without doing any damage. But remember, a chain is no stronger than its weakest link. For instance here is what can and will happen. Pupils having had inexperienced teachers for three successive years in the grades come to grade five, 'the key grade,' without proper ground work. Then they fail and start repeating, and a repeater is costly to the taxpayer. Pupils in public school cost about $57 per pupil, per year and high school pupils about $100 per year. So you can readily see the real necessity for the best teachers in all grades. You no doubt have heard a great deal of talk about hiring local girls, and all things being equal, the local girl is given the preference every time. But remember, a local girl is confronted with a very difficult task. 'A prophet has no honor in his own country' and it would appear sometimes as though jealousy is created in some people through a local girl's success, which reacts in some pupils' conduct toward that teacher, making it very difficult for her.

MORE ON

GAIN CONFIDENCE

"It is much better for a local inexperienced teacher to get adequate experience outside. This makes a definite break between their associations with the pupils, as a pupil and as a teacher. They also gain self-confidence and self reliance and learn to stand on their own feet which is essential. We have a motion on our minute books which permits us to take on only one inexperienced teacher in two years, but we have disregarded this in the past four or five years so that practically all teachers engaged during that time—except male teachers—have been local girls, most of whom are making good; especially those without outside experience. But there is a limit to the number of inexperienced teachers we can use and I would impress this board that we have reached the limit; and I believe the people realize this for I would point out that before the last election, we placed two teachers on our staff from outside points, and yet the people endorsed the policy of the board and by a nice majority. Therefore I believe the people expect us to see that we get the best possible when engaging teachers.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

"We are in a position to do this as Trail has become a most desirable place in which to live. Their salaries are assured and they have no worry about schools being closed. Therefore, I repeat we are not true to ourselves, our pupils or our ratepayers if we are satisfied with anything but the best. Some people will say it is not fair that man should spend money educating his girl to be a teacher, then find she is unable to obtain a position. But would you find fault with the mining industry for instance if you should educate your boy to be a mining engineer and he be unable to find a position? The whole situation is controlled by the law of supply and demand and ability and in many cases, parents would not spend money educating their children to be teachers, if they would consult the school principals and take their advice.

"Last year, due to the depression and conditions in general and being notified by the department that our central school was overstaffed, and realising the necessity for strict economy, we believed it necessary to discontinue those subjects not including in the curriculum. Accordingly manual training and home economics were discontinued. As a board we advanced several plans to save these classes but as these plans did not meet the approval of the inspectors, we found it necessary to drop them.

"Right now things in general look much brighter and I hope our minister of education will find ways and means of including these subjects in the curriculum so they can be taught the same as any other subject and with less lost motion in our classrooms than before. I would like to see all organized bodies who are interested in schools and welfare work bring pressure to bear on our government with this end in view.

"These remarks have been made to acquaint you with the past history and the past policies of the board, and not to dictate to you what your policies should be. I trust this board will continue to be a body working for the greatest good to the greatest number and that you will learn to like your work as we older members like it.

Nakusp Libs Discuss a New Constitution

NAKUSP, B.C., Feb. 9.—The Nakusp Liberal association met in Leary's hall with the usual good attendance, when very important matters such as relief, the passing of a new constitution were thoroughly discussed. President Rushton, who had that day attended as one of a local committee a meeting held for the purpose of discussing relief matters with J. T. Gawthrop, Dominion relief investigator, and J. W. Smiley, inspector for the Kootenay, gave a report, in brief, as to their findings. In very few cases an investigation might have been timely, but it was held that it would have been much wiser to have kept matters as they stood for at least two months, instead of making serious changes in mid-winter, when it was thought that seasonable occupations would have automatically reduced the long list of names now receiving relief. Confidence in C. S. Leary, M.L.A., was expressed en bloc by the meeting but regretted the fact that he would not be able to attend the district executive convention to be held in New Denver, Thursday.

Miss Margaret Jestley of Trail is the guest of Miss Norma Granger for a few days.

One of the most interesting social events for some time, was held on Sunday evening when T. Abriel entertained a number of friends at a banquet, held in honor of the coming of age of his ward, Richard Blythe, one of the towns most popular boys. The hall was prettily decorated with pink and white streamers, while the tables were graced with daffodils. Mr. Abriel proposed the toast to "Dick" while A. B. S. Stanley proposed one to the host. Other speeches, all conveying the good wishes of the speaker to their host and guest of honor were given by C. Howarth, W. B. Allen, C. Turner, J. Hakeman, George Dodds, Rev. A. Pound, J. Bailey, Mrs. G. Grigg, Mrs. Islip, and Frank Benton. A beautiful birthday cake was cut by Mr. Blythe. The guests were as follows: Mr. Abriel, R. Blythe, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fulcho, Ramon Thompson, Captain Fitzsimmons, W. J. Pratt, Mrs. Moffatt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Parent, Mr. and Mrs. J. Grigg, J. Grigg Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. R. Islip and Miss M. Islip, Mr. and Mrs. A. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. C. Turner, and C. Turner Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Jordan, Rev. and Mrs. Pound, Mr. and Mrs. J. Norris, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. W. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Hakeman, Mr. and Mrs. Howarth, Mr. and Mrs. W. Allen, Mrs. F. Benton and Frank Benton, George Dodds, Miss J. Yurick and Miss Alice Parent.

A very beautiful service was held in the United church on Sunday evening when the C.G.I.T. girls, under the able leadership of Mrs. E. W. Bill took charge. The various girls gave out the numbers of the hymns, and took up the collection, while Kathleen Stevenson read the lessons, Marjorie Pound gave a short talk on the aims of the C.G.I.T. and Rosa Bailey played the organ. Rev. A. Pound gave an appropriate address, dwelling on the aims of the C.G.I.T. and quoted as a wonderful example the girlhood days of Katherine Montfort, who later became the wife of General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army.

The ladies of St. Mark's guild held a special meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. R. Islip, the president, to make arrangements for a valentine tea, to be held in the vicarage next Wednesday. After the meeting the members' husbands joined them and all were entertained by Mrs. Islip, who later served dainty refreshments. Mrs. Jordan Williams, an old member of the guild, was present.

A meeting of the Nakusp fire brigade was held in the fire hall on Tuesday evening to make plans for the dance. E. Parkinson occupied the chair.

NEW DENVER AND TRAIL GIRLS TO PLAY PUCK GAME

TRAIL, B. C., Feb. 9—Arrangements have been completed for a girls game following West Kootenay junior hockey game at Trail between Rossland and Trail. The New Denver team will meet the Trail team.

CLERY AND WHITEHOUSE MAKE BEST LOCAL SCORE IN BRIDGE

Scores as determined by local committee of World Bridge Olympic tournament held in Nelson, Feb. 1, 1934. Par being a possible 16 points for both North-South and East-West players. Each pair is graded on each deal on the basis of one par point for perfect bidding and play. Thus, if a hand is bid and played perfectly by both pairs each will receive one par point, but if both pairs bid and play badly each will receive a zero. Under this arrangement it is quite possible for a pair to be given tricks by an opposing pair and still 1 receive a poor par score.

The evening's high score by North-South players was made by Mrs. R. L. McBride and Mrs. J. A. Gibson with 11 points. This score by North-South is tied by John Cartmen and L. A. McPhail, making two teams of local North-South winners.

The East-West winners being W. V. P. Clery and F. C. Whitehouse with 13 points their closest East-West competitor being Mrs. F. F. Payne and Mrs. H. Lakes also E. C. Wragge and C. B. Garland, each of whom received 11 points.

Scores at each table, naming North-South players first, were as follows

Table 1—John Cartmel and L. A. McPhail 11 points; John Bunyan and Mrs. J. G. Bunyan, 10 points.

Table 2—J. A. Ferguson and Harold Lakes 8; P. H. Sheffield and E. P. Dawson 8.

Table 3—Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Grubbe 8; E. C. Wragge and C. B. Garland 11.

"SID" NORMAN MINE EDITOR FOR THE SUN

Sidney Norman, well-known mining writer, has been appointed mining editor of the Vancouver Sun and will leave Toronto within the next two weeks to assume his new duties which will cover an intensive effort to bring before Canadians and the world in general the great mining possibilities of the west coast. The appointment was made by Robert J. Cromie, the proprietor of the Sun, during his visit here to address the Empire club. Mr. Norman's experiences began in the Slocan district of British Columbia in the early 90's, and since that time he has visited most of the important mining districts on the continent south of the Arctics. He was at one time mining editor of the Los Angeles Times and later editor of the Los Angeles Mining Review and Mining Truth, of Spokane, the latter of which he founded in 1916. For some time he was also editor of Canadian Mining World in Toronto. His knowledge of British Columbia mining areas is extensive and he will take to his new post an acquaintance among men of all classes in the industry such as few mining journalists enjoy.

GRAINS TAKE DOWN SWING

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—Downswings of values predominated in grain markets today influenced by likelihood that drought districts would receive moisture relief tonight and because of stock market unsettlement.

Wheat and other cereals gave evidence also of disturbing effects from proposed legislation measures which would tighten restrictions on grain exchange dealings.

Wheat closed near bottom prices, ¾-1¼ off, corn ⅝-1⅛ down, oats at ⅜ to 1 cent decline, provisions varying 5 cents lower to 7 cents up that Bremer believes numbered 10 or 12, which collected $200,000 ransom before his release Wednesday night at Rochester, Minn.

The clues they had to work on:

Bremer's ability to identify two of the gang; the two who beat him 15 or 20 times about the head and face until blood blinded his eyes when they stopped his automobile January 17.

His memory of the wallpaper design on the room in which he was held prisoner 22 days.

22 DAYS IMPRISONMENT

Meagre details of the ransom payment trip made through Fairmont, Minn., on a lonely road Tuesday night by Walter Magee, wealthy contractor friend and intermediary, and the strange car the gang placed at his disposal for the trip.

Magee's trip and payment of the ransom ended Bremer's 22-day imprisonment; ultimately it left him blindfolded and weak on a dark Rochester street where he walked in circles for a while to accustom himself once more to locomotion so he would not stagger.

By EDWARD G. BREMER

ST. PAUL, Feb. 9 (AP)—I left the boy at school I think about 8:20 a.m., the morning of January 17 and I drove to the corner of Goodrich and Lexington avenue but stopped for the arterial highway. As I stopped, the left door of the car was opened and a right arm was extended through the door with a gun pointed toward me. A gruff voice said 'don't move or I'll kill you.'

STRUCK OVER HEAD

I quickly put the car in low gear to cross the street and looked up and saw a car squarely in front of my car. I had placed my left foot through the door. By this time the man who had opened the left door apparently had got inside my car.

He began striking me over the head and must have hit me 15 or 20 times. I tried to get out the right door and bumped into something there and it apparently was another man who also struck me over the head. My eyes became filled with blood and I was dazed. They pushed my head under the dash board.

GOGGLES ON EYES

Finally, I don't know when, they pulled my leg into the car and we started out. We drove a while, but it must have been 10 or 15 minutes later that they stopped the machine. They put goggles over my eyes and told me to get out. They then placed me in another machine.

I was placed in the back part of another car and I was told to lie down. They asked me who I would like to have as contact man and I mentioned Walter Magee.

SIGNED NOTES

I was told to sign some notes but I don't know whether they were signed at that stop or a later stop. The car started and we proceeded to drive, I don't know how many hours.

At this stop there was undoubtedly another car accompanying us. We again started to drive and we drove until it must have been dark. They later told me I could sit on the seat because no one could see me after dark. We again stopped and this time the car left us. When the car returned we drove several hours more and there was another stop. Here I was taken out of the car and led some distance, where we went downstairs. I sat on a chair. They then examined my head and washed off the cuts as best they could. When they took off the bandages it was dark.

BANDAGED AGAIN

I washed my hands and face in the dark as best I could and then I again was bandaged up and put to bed.

Undoubtedly it was the next morning that they put me back on the chair and served me with breakfast. I sat on that chair until I imagine it was time to go to bed and I was put to bed.

That routine in the house continued all the time I was there.

I was told that unless I behaved as well as I should I would be chained to the bed. I consequently acceded to everything.

After several days one of the boys suggested that my bandages be taken off while I was sitting in the chair in the corner, provided I would not turn my head.

BANDAGES REMOVED

If I did they told me they would replace the bandages and they would be put on for good. The following morning my bandages were removed.

Some days eats were hard to get. I was allowed to sit until I could not sit any longer and then placed in bed.

The morning they told me arrangements were made for my release. They took me outside, placed me in the bottom of a car surrounded by gasoline cans and drove constantly except for one stop until it was dark. At this stop they took the cans out. They left two attendants with me and said they were going to find out whether or not the money was marked.

After a while they returned and I was told it was all right. We were nearing Rochester, they told me.

WALKED IN CIRCLES

Then they said: "We will put you off on a dark street in Rochester. You are to get out of the car, count up to 15 very slowly before you remove the bandages and go to the Rochester bus depot and take the 9:40 bus to St. Paul.

You are to get to your house without anyone seeing you so that there will be absolutely nothing in the morning paper."

I got out of the kidnappers' car, counted 15, and removed the bandages. I walked around in circles first and then tried to walk straight so no one would become suspicious by seeing me stagger.

TOOK A TRAIN

At the bus depot I was told there was no bus to St. Paul that night. A lady in the depot said she thought I could take a train to Owatonna and get a bus there.

She called a taxi and I went to the depot where I bought a ticket to Owatonna. I got into a seat, pulled my hat over my eyes and pulled my hat over my eyes and arose when they called Owatonna.

At Owatonna I got into the bus. I asked the driver to stop after he passed Wabasha street bridge. Near the courthouse I got out and luckily no one saw me. I then walked up Seventh street and went into the side entrance to the house.

SKI EXHIBITION ON TAP SUNDAY

Foot of Snow on Hill; Will Take Double Jump if Conditions Right

Nelson ski fans will have their first and probably last chance to see local jumpers in action this season on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Nelson club will hold an exhibition at their jump on the Ymir road. The jump is about a mile out the road and is easily accessible. However, everyone is warned to bring his rubbers as there is a foot of snow on the hill.

Yesterday some ing jumps were made and tomorrow afternoon the jumpers hope to lengthen them. If conditions are right, Roy and Danny McKay will try a double jump, in which two jumpers come over the takeoff at the same time.

Spectators are assured of lots of action because the jumpers have to fall to stop, and although this is hard on the skiers, it furnishes plenty of thrills.

A collection will be taken to enable the Nelson club to send representatives to the British Columbia championships at Trail on February 17 and 18 and to Kimberley on February 24 and 25.

WHITFORD OF KIMBERLEY WINS KIMBERLEY CUP SECOND TIME

Beats the Kinnis Rink of Trail on the Last End

ROSSLAND, B.C., Feb. 9—H. Whitford's rink again carried back to Kimberley the Cammell Laird trophy which was won by a Kimberley rink last year. The secondary event in the British Columbia spiel just completed here was played off in the afternoon, Whitford beating the J. Kinnis rink of Trail on the last end. Whitford's rink was the only rink representing the Kimberley club.

In the morning the Kimberley quartet beat F. S. Peters to enter the final playdowns. Previous to that they had beaten the W. P. Somerville rink of Trail and the J. Burden rink of Rossland and won by default in the first bracket.

The final game was won in the last end when Skip Kinnis, who had led ably upheld his part in the play, was unable to get to one Kimberley rock.

By ends play was as follows:

First end—Rochon, skipping for Whitford, went in for shot rock on the last throw to win.

Second end—Kinnis won, pushing in guard rock. Half of the stones either went through the house or were hogged on this end, soft ice making curling almost impossible.

Third end—Kinnis won the end for his rink laying on. Rochon missed taking it out by inches.

Fourth end—Blank end.

Fifth end—Whitford rink took the end.

Sixth end—Rochon took out his own rock to leave that of Skip Kinnis to drop a point to the Trail rink.

Seventh end—Kinnis' third put in a stone and guard held it for a point.

Eighth end—Rochon put one into the house and Kinnis raised in another to give Whitford the end and tie up the score.

Ninth end—Five rocks were played in the house, two of them on the button. Whitford had two to count.

Tenth end—Whitford won when Kinnis was unable to clear rock, well guarded.

DR. WALLEY SPEAKS AT YOUNG PEOPLES

Dr. G. A. C. Walley was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Young People's association on Thursday when he spoke on "A Glimpse at the Progress of Mankind." He traced the economic progress of man from his earliest stages up to civilization as we know it today. After the talk, Dr. Walley invited questions and the subject was discussed by the members.

Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed later.

Those on the committee included Jack Burgess, Cliff Smith, Sid Rowling, Miss Inez Mills and Miss Helen Pochin.

POWELL RIVER, B.C., Feb. 9 (CP)—George Johnston, 50, well-known resident of Powell River and district, was instantly killed yesterday when struck by a tree he had been falling at his Westview home.

POPPY GROWERS LOSE APPEALS

VICTORIA, Feb. 9 (CP)—Ditto Beru and Sohan Singh, the Hindu opium poppy growers of Saanich, were ordered to jail to serve their six months' sentence when Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson of the supreme court today threw out on technical grounds the appeal on a stated case from the decision of Magistrate George Jay brought by Stuart Henderson, their counsel.

The three Hindus were seized by Royal Canadian Mounted police narcotic squad, officers. It was charged that the fields of opium poppies they have been growing for years in Saanich together with the tea which the Hindu community brews from them as a daily beverage, constitutes an infraction of the federal anti-narcotic law.

Mr. Henderson said that he would move at once to get the three Hindus out on a habeas corpus application.

MINES WEAKER

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—The mining section of the Toronto stock exchange turned moderately weak.

PAPER, BITS OF METAL EVIDENCE

Inspector Vance Works Up Interesting Case in Jewel Robbery

VANCOUVER, Feb. 9 (CP)—Grains of dust, bits of metal and scraps of paper gave evidence against Patsy Gentile, William W. Bell, alias Williams, and Vernon Campbell at their preliminary hearing today on a charge of breaking into the jewelry store of B. Lineham, Granville street, on January 20 and looting the safe of $2000 worth of jewelry.

Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance of the police bureau of science declared on the witness stand that he found of the clothing of the accused men grains of clay similar to that used in the fireproofing of the looted safe, bits of metal of the structure as that used in the safe construction and bits of paper similar to that found in the store.

Slinn pleaded guilty on Fooruary 2 and is awaiting sentence.

ROSSLAND MINERS AND RED WINGS PLAY IN NELSON TONIGHT AT 9:30

The Rossland Miners will play the Nelson Red Wings here tonight at 9:30 sharp. A survey of the ice late Friday night assured the management that it would be in fair shape. The game was scheduled for Friday night but arrangements were made with Rossland to postpone it a night.

Nelson will trot out the following team: McKay in the net, Thompson and Wade on defence, Culley, Annable and Fairburn on the one string and O'Genski, Hicks and Gillett on the other.

It is some time now since Nelson fans have seen a game here. So far this year Nelson has had the upper hand on Rossland but the Miners intend to show their heels tonight.

CHESSER RINK OF TRAIL WINS TRAIL CUP—PALMER FINALIST

Pollock Rink and the Jackson Rink Eliminated

ROSSLAND, B.C., Feb. 9—A. M. Chesser, Trail skip, and his rink brought the Trail cup to Trail today winning in the finals of the secondary event of the British Columbia spiel against Dr. J. H. Palmer, also of Trail.

The Chesser rink beat the Jackson rink of Trail and the Pollock rink of Rossland earlier in the day.

The Dr. J. H. Palmer's rink beat W. Griffith's Rossland rink to enter the finals.

The Chesser rink won on the last rock thrown by Mr. Chesser. He raised one into the house to give his rink an 8-6 victory. Chesser was four up on the fifth, but the lead was cut down two on the eighth after the seventh had been a draw, Palmer's rink placing one right on the button. Palmer took the ninth to tie up the game and with five stones in the house and with one rock less to clear he threw through the house. Chesser played with a horseshoe attached to his belt.

Austria Is Winner of Consolation; Canada Plays Today

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 9 (CP cable).—Austria defeated Great Britain 2-1 this afternoon to win the Consolation cup in connection with the world's amateur hockey championship tournament here.

Championship semi-finals will be played tomorrow and the Canadian entry, Saskatoon Quakers, Allan cup finalist of last season, will meet either Switzerland or Czechoslovakia. Quakers and the United States team are favorites to battle in the final on Sunday.

The International Ice Hockey federation at its meeting today approved a British proposal that forward passing be permitted in the attacking zone, and another suggestion that a penalty be attached to kicking the puck in the attacking zone.

The meeting decided next year's championships would be held in Switzerland.
