MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP).—A treatment for cancer, in which malignant cells are said to be digested by a method resembling the natural digestive processes of the human body, is described today in the Canadian Medical association journal by Hendry C. Connell, M.D., of Kingston, Ont.

The journal, official organ of the Canadian association, prints also a column editorial stating that Connell's work "cannot be lightly passed by."

STANDS FOR LAW, ORDER, NOT REPEAL

Liberal Vote Is a Vote for Self-Admitted Radical Leader

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP).—Surprise was expressed by Prime Minister Bennett here tonight, that Liberal Leader Mackenzie King had stated that if elected he would repeal section 98 of the criminal code. "I say now what I have told questioners elsewhere, we will not repeal section 98, but will put the entire forces of the government and state behind the maintenance of law and order.

LANSBURY SAYS HE MAY RESIGN

Pacifist Says Post Is Intolerable With Talk of Sanctions

BRIGHTON, England, Oct. 1 (AP)—The question of sanctions against Premier Mussolini in the event of an Italo-Ethiopian war today led to violent controversy between national leaders in the first session of Labor party convention.

A bitter debate was climaxed by George Lansbury's reaffirmation of his offer to quit as the party leader in the house of commons. He called his position "intolerable."

Although the vote to be taken tomorrow is expected to show the party overwhelmingly in favor of using sanctions against Italy, if necessary, Lansbury may not be required to quit, despite his expressed pacifist convictions.

Ethiopia Brings in Its War Machines by Way of British Somaliland; Troops March

Italians Order Consulates Evacuated; Officers Are Stranded by Rising Waters; Mobilization Order Ready

(Copyright 1935, by The Havas News Agency)

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 1 (CP Havas).—The gravity of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis was emphasized by a series of developments in the Ethiopian capital today: They included:

1. Sixteen Italian submarines were reported deployed in the Red Sea, presumably prepared to intercept war munitions cargoes destined for this country.

2. Important shipments of rifles, cartridges and gas masks were understood to be on their way here from Japan or the United States, by way of Berbera, British Somaliland.

3. General Abarra Kassa, son of Ras Kassa, powerful chieftain in command of Ethiopian troops in Gondar province, was reported to have taken command of 20,000 picked warriors centered around Salale, north of Addis Ababa. He was said to have begun a forced march to join his father near the Eritrean frontier.

4. More than 1000 Addis Ababa merchants, natives of the grassy plain region southeast of here, left the city tonight to return to the area of their origin as fear of imminent air attack spread.

Nagadras Wadajoali, chief of the defence post of Aduwa, who recently was called here by Emperor Haile Selassie, returned to his command tonight with instructions said to be of the highest importance, but not revealed.

Monster Air Demonstration Is France's Aim; Italy Terms British Fleet Activities "the Most Incredible Aggression"

(Copyright 1935 by the Havas News Agency)

PARIS, Oct. 1 (CP-Havas).—Extraordinary diplomatic exchanges over the Italo-Ethiopian crisis developed here today, in another development the French air ministry announced that war games would be held above Lorraine, Champagne and the Seine tomorrow and Thursday.

Diplomats of France, Great Britain and Italy were engaged in the talks. France and Britain were authoritatively reported to be discussing mutual aid in case of European aggression. The extent of reciprocal assistance involved was not revealed by the officials engaged in the conversations.

The scheduled air manoeuvres were explained as having "the single aim of studying liaison between light defence planes and the general wartime security service station below."

WAR TALK SENDS WHEAT HIGHER

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP).—Excited gossip that war would break out in East Africa within a week created a bull market in wheat today, with prices soaring almost 4 cents a bushel.

The rumor was not confirmed, but the gossip resulted in broad speculative buying in late trading that rushed futures prices well above the dollar level. December wheat touched $1.02⅞, a new high for the season for that delivery.

Women Divided on Pool Question in Sanction Order

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP)—Opinion was divided at a meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom today on the question of whether Canadians would pool their national resources with the rest of the world so each country would get a fair share, if the league of nations decided to concentrate on economic rather than military sanctions to avoid international conflicts.

"VIVA ETHIOPIA" WRONG CRY IN VENICE

PARIS, Oct. 1 (AP) — Jimmy Donahue, ushered out of Italy for cheering Ethiopia in Venice, said today he would like to square things with the Mussolini government.

The 19-year-old scion of the Woolworth family, in his Paris hotel, expressed regret for the impulse which led him to erupt with a "viva tEhiopia" that startled the ears of a group of young Fascists below his Venice window.

"I want to go back to Italy," he said. "I hope they won't bar me permanently. I've never been mixed up in serious trouble and I want to talk to our family lawyer and see if he can't straighten it out. I don't see why the Italians made a fuse about it."

Britain Will Not Be Lone Hand; France Decides Friday

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

LONDON, Oct. 1 (CP Cable).—A high authority at Whitehall tonight, discussing communications between the British and French governments, told the Canadian Press: "Our representatives have gone the limit wherein they feel they can rely on British and imperial opinion being behind them."

It was confirmed that Great Britain had questioned the French government regarding its attitude if an isolated attack were made on Britain. France's attitude was not made known. It was believed it would be determined at a cabinet meeting in Paris Friday.

No collective discussion has taken place with the United States Germany concerning their attitude in the event of an Italo-Ethiopian war, the Canadian Press learned. Authorities were reluc-

Ray of Hope in World Conditions

But Chamberlain Is Opposed to Steps Toward Immediate Stabilization

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, is opposing steps toward immediate stabilization of currencies, said today he saw a ray of hope in world economic conditions.

"The shrinkage of international trade, which has been such an unhappy feature of the last few years, cannot be attributed to any one cause," he said. "Many things have beeen at work, monetary, economic, political financial and even psychological.

13-Year-Old Girl Is Found Wounded in Box-Car

TRURO, N.S., Oct. 1 (CP)—Thirteen-year-old Madeline MacKenzie of Gunningsville, N.B., received anti-tetanus injections today as a precautionary measure after being found in a railway boxcar with a pickaxe wound in one leg.

The girl was found here early yesterday on arrival of a freight she had boarded Sunday night near Moncton. She told authorities she had come here to look for work, disregarding the open wound in her left ankle, crudely daubed with iodine and unbandaged.

CORAL TEARING HOLES IN SHIP

Heavy Seas May Spell Doom of Cruise Ship on Coral Reef

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 1 (CP Cable)—Battered by more than 1½ days of pounding on a coral reef, the luxury liner Rotterdam with 276 men still aboard was feared tonight to be ready to fall victim to the first stiff wind that might whip up the Caribbean sea around the Morant Cays.

With only a gentle swell running, the easy lift and fall already had opened up holes in the big cruise boat's hull, and Kingston nautical men returning from her side today said she would be in "grave danger" should roughened seas slam her more heavily against the sharp coral.

The 24,149-ton craft, flagship of the Holland-American line, was leaking in four compartments, and Captain J. Van Duiken had sent ashore every one of his 450 passengers and 250 of his crew. They were landed here today, the passengers a cheerful group of holiday-makers who looked on the wreck as more a lark than anything else. The Kingston salvage ship Killerig was straining to haul her off the ledge, with no success; the freighter Midas, called 500 miles from Curacao, was expected to take off all but the Rotterdam's mechanical staff tonight and reach here with them tomorrow.

MOTHER FAINTS AND SMOTHERS ONE OF TWINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (CP)—Mrs. Ruth Prybock, 21, subject to fainting spells since her twins were born four months ago, was going to bath the boys, James and John, today when a spell seized her.

After about 15 minutes on the floor her consciousness flickered back. But she felt something beneath her. Horrified she sprang up.

A physician called by neighbors who heard her screams found James dead and treated Mrs. Prybock for hysteria.

BENNETT CABINET TO MEET THURSDAY

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP). — Arrangements are being made for a meeting of the cabinet Thursday.

Premier Bennett was in his office today before going to Montreal, but no council meeting was summoned.

Thursday's meeting may be the last before the election. Some appointments pending include those to the economic council. The prime minister is ex-officio chairman of the council and Dr. R. H. Coats secretary but the other members have not yet been named, nor has the staff. Appointments are also pending to the Dominion trade and industry commission staff.

It is expected that members of the economic council will be officials already in the civil service. The names of Dr. W. C. Clark, deputy minister of finance; Dr. O. W. Skelton, under secretary for external affairs; Major General A. G. L. McNaughton, president of the national research council, have been forecast.

Premier Bennett announced that the railway problem, housing and slum clearance and the fuel supply questions would be referred to the economic council for investigation.

The civil service commission is selecting key men for the staff of the employment and social insurance commission. It may be completed this week.

MESSENGER BOY FINDS AND RETURNS CHECK FOR $39,000; REWARD 10 CENTS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP).—For returning a $39,000 bank cheque he had found, Woody Robinson, 18-year-old messenger boy, received a dime reward.

As the youth was crossing the street on an errand he noticed a slip of paper covered with tire marks. Picking it up, he saw it was a Mississippi Valley Trust company cheque for $39,000, endorsed "David E. Woods, 12 Garrswold Park."

Woody took it to the telegraphic transfer desk in the bank. An attendant there found at a nearby teller's window the man who had been carrying the cheque to the bank to deposit it.

"The man seemed awfully happy to get the cheque back," Woody said. "He dug down in his pocket and pulled out a nickel, then told me he thought it was worth more than that and handed me a dime. I hardly knew what to say."

Woods declined to comment.

BURIAL OF WOMAN SHOT BY DEPUTY IS HELD UP AS CROWD THREATENS MARCH

SCOTCH PLAINS, N.J., Oct. 1 (AP)—Relatives and sympathizers of the Crempa family gathered today at the farm house where Mrs. Sophie Crempa, 41, was shot and killed by deputy sheriffs last Thursday, and threatened to march on the Union county jail to demand the release of John Crempa and his son. The march did not take place, however.

Inside the house the body of Mrs. Crempa lay ready for burial, but the funeral was again postponed because father and son were still prisoners. The son doesn't know yet that his mother is dead.

Vice Chancellor Henry Kays, who held the Crempas in contempt of court because the father disobeyed a chancery court order, restraining him from damaging the high tension wires of the Public Service Electric & Gas company, had no objection to releasing the two on bail. Neither of the defendants, however, was able to raise bail.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Remley, who allegedly killed Mrs. Crempa, was released in $5000 bail on a manslaughter charge, pending grand jury action next week.

Nelson is one of the centers granted an advance poll by the Dominion Elections act, such polls being restricted to commercial and railway centers, and the proclamation of Returning Officer C. B. Garland for holding of an advanced poll here has already been publicly posted. It will be the only advanced poll in Kootenay West.

The poll will be conducted by George Horstead as deputy returning officer, at 516 Stanley street, and will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. on October 10, 11 and 12, the three week-days immediately preceding the general polling day, Monday, October 14.

MAMMOTH HAS GOOD SHOWING MILL AND VEIN

Lead Concentrate Is 175 Ounces Silver 60 p.c. Lead

Both satisfactory recoveries in the first month's milling, and important widening of the ore body by the summer's underground work, sum up the situation at the Mammoth mine, Silverton, which the Western Exploration company, Limited, is now bringing into production.

The modern mill, built on the lake shore just before the collapse of the metal market, was started up about July 1, and the company's report for the month shows 100 tons of ore put through, which produced over 17 tons of concentrates, consisting of 7.37 tons of lead concentrates, and 9.835 tons of zinc concentrates.

Average content of the lead concentrate per ton is 175 ounces of silver, 60 per cent lead, and 8 per cent zinc, and this is being shipped to the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company at Trail. The zinc concentrate, which runs 12 ounces of silver and 53 per cent zinc, will be stored.

GREAT ORE BODY

In recent development the feature has been the widening of the ore body on the deep levels run off th R. A. Grimes raise made in the former operation when the ore was being proved at depth and the property equipped with tram and mill.

On No. 5, which is 225 feet below No. 4, there is now 30 feet of ore good enough to ship crude, but which of course will be milled; on No. 6, another 225 feet down, the width is 40 feet, and No. 7, again the same interval, shows 35 to 40 feet of the same ore. Altogether, the depth from the top ore to the bottom ore proved in the Mammoth is 1100 feet.

Drifting is now being done the full width of the ore, preparatory to full width mining in the immediate future.

TELLS OF CLYDE AT ROSSLAND

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 1—"Down the River Clyde" was the topic of Rev. C. H. Daly's address at St. Andrew's United church Sunday evening.

Touching on the sturdy character of the Scottish people as a whole and the wonderful history they can claim as a nation, Rev. Mr. Daly told of four outstanding monuments along the banks of the Clyde, to four who have left everlasting impressions upon Scotland.

The first was to "Hightland Mary" the immortal sweetheart of Robert Burns; next to Robert Bruce, the great imancipator; St. Patrick, who though claimed as the patron saint of the Emerald Isle, was of Scottish birth, and the fourth to Bell who built the first steamship in Scotland. And from whom Robert Fulton is believed to have derived many of his ideas.

Two anthems were sung by the choir, the solo parts being taken by Mrs. James Porter and Louis Freeman, and a duet in the other being sung by A. H. Freeman and Mrs. Edgar Jamieson.

A. Waltham Cross woman fell dead while throwing confetti on a newly-married couple.

BISHOP SPEAKS AT ROSSLAND

Lauds "Father Pat" as Observe 25th Anniversary

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 1— A wealth of brightly colored autumn flowers and an abundance of fruits and vegetables formed the decorations of the Church of St. George the Martyr, Father Pat Memorial, Sunday, the services combining the festival of harvest thanksgiving with the 25th anniversary of the erection of the present church building. The special speaker was Rt. Rev. Walter Adams, Bishop of Kootenay.

Speaking from the text "Ye Also as Lively Stones", Bishop Adams told his listeners that as stones must be smoothed and polished before they were fit to be used in a beautiful building, so human lives must be polished through pain suffering, sorrow and sacrifice, before they can take their place in the temple not built with hands. Each life has its own place in the great eternal plan, each has its own work to do, and if he does not do it, then it must remain forever undone, and the structure be weakened just that much.

The stones in an earthly building are put together with mortar; human lives, as they combine to build the heavenly structure, are bound together by love.

LAUDS "FATHER PAT"

Speaking of the occasion marking the anniversary of the present building, the bishop paid tribute to Rev. Henry Irwin, first rector of the parish, known to everyone as "Father Pat". Carrying on high ideals emphasized in the life of "Father Pat" was Rev. Mr. Simpson, rector when the church was built, now arch-deacon Simpson of Western Australia. The speaker called on his hearers to reconsecrate their lives so as to be worthy of the church's traditions, and to carry on her work. There was good attendance at all services.

Some still living in Rossland recall the arrival of Rev. Henry Irwin in January, 1896. Rev. Mr. Irwin, who had been carrying on missionary work near New Westminister, held his first service in the Rossland Opera house on February 2, 1896.

Through his persistent efforts the first Anglican church building in Rossland was erected on Kootenay avenue, the building now being owned and occupied by Mrs. E. C. Young.

In 1902 "Father Pat" died in Montreal, while en route to the old country for a holiday. Bearing in mind his great love for suffering humanity, the citizens of Rossland, irrespective of creed, "passed the hat" and bought an up-to-date ambulance to contribute to the comfort of the miners whom he had served so faithfully, with the balance of the money raised they built a memorial fountain with provisions for quenching the thirst of humans, horses and dogs, the little four footed creatures being dear to him also.

October 8, 1908, work was begun on the present church building which was dedicated to St. George the Martyr, patron saint of England, and as a memorial to "Father Pat." The building was opened for worship on January 20, 1910, the preacher on that occasion being Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham of Nelson.

An urn of the Bronze Age, believed to be 4000 years old, has been found near Cleethorpes, in it were the cremated remains of a woman and four children.

UNEMPLOYMENT WILL INCREASE BAKEWELL IDEA

South Slocan Tickled as Herridge Goes to Hansard

From South Slocan and nearby points 185 people gathered Monday evening in the South Slocan hall to hear H. W. Herridge, C.C.F. candidate for Kootenay West, and E. Bakewell, M.P.P. for Mackenzie in the British Columbia legislature.

In a short talk Mr. Bakewell, speaking not only from statistical records, but also from his own experience in the pulp and paper industry, showed how unemployment had steadily increased, and must continue to increase because of technological improvement in machinery. This condition could not be remedied under capitalism because the drive for profits would cause further technological improvement in machines, with a resultant displacement of human labor. Under the C.C.F., he claimed, the improvement would continue, but the benefits would be used to bring the standard of living of the people to a level never before known.

ANSWERS MacDONALD

Mr. Herridge on his arrival had been informed that a Liberal speaker, D. MacDonald of Trail, had questioned some of his references to some Liberal members of the federal house and their attitude toward the unemployment situation. Mr. Herridge had asserted those members wished to do away with labor saving machinery and, his statement having been challenged, Mr. Herridge, to prove his contention, read extracts from Hansard, to the great delight of his audience.

Amid rounds of applause, the C.C.F. candidate made a slashing attack on the policies of the old parties, and argued the utter impossibility of improvement under capitalism, or as he said it should be called, planned poverty. He then dealt with the possibility in a democratic manner of relating socialized major industry to a socialized financial system so that all could enjoy in the fullest measure the rewards of the efforts of their labors. The changes advocated by the Co-operative Commonwealth federation could be brought about in a constitutional way, and there would be no infringement upon racial or religious minority rights.

In closing, the speaker stated that the old parties were defending the past, whilst the C.C.F. was building for the future, and he made an earnest appeal for support for the only people's movements in West Kootenay.

The South Slocan C.C.F. club then entertained those present with several numbers, and closed the evening with a dance.

Too Much Iron Heel Says King

REGINA, Oct. 12 (CP).—All reform measures inaugurated by the Bennett government were designed for political purposes and not to serve the people, Liberal Leader Mackenzie King said here tonight. Had Mr. Bennett been sincere in his reforms he would have brought them in before the last session of parliament and would have tested their legal validity.

These measures were all hastily patched up to meet the exigencies of the election campaign. Mr. Bennett did not even trouble himself to use the measures to the full after they were passed. One of them provided for a public prosecutor who had not yet been appointed. It was reported he would be appointed in a few days, only a week before the election. The public prosecutor, he remarked, "would not have time to take his coat off."

"We have had altogether too much of the iron heel in our domestic and foreign affairs. This country has been almost terrorized in the last five years," said the Liberal leader.

In foreign affairs the government had sought to blast its way. The loss of the Japanese market for Canadian goods was one of the results of blasting. A Liberal party would pursue a policy of cooperation and concilation in dealing with other nations and in dealing with unemployment and other domestic problems a human policy which would have regard to the feeling and personalities of the people.

DIXIE SUFFERED STORM DAMAGE BEFORE WRECK

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Officers of the Morgan liner Dixie testified today that weather reports and storm damaged navigation equipment were factors in the ship's going aground September 2 off the Florida coast in a Caribbean hurricane.

Fine Weather Delays Rugby

Trail Juniors Turning Out Though

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 1—Junior rugger enthusiasts are turning out in regular fashion under Coach W. O. (Windy) Williams, about 18 eligible juniors being at practice Tuesday evening. Windy has eight more boys lined up, but all are not able to be present at all practices owing to shift work.

Rugby has been somewhat handicapped this season owing to the prolonged fine weather which has allowed baseball and soccer to continue and Butler park will not be available to rugby players on a week-end until October 20.

Mr. Williams and his assistant, Lyle Jestley are not off work until 5 o'clock and it is dark before any earnest practice can be done at the park during the week. However, to offset this condition, to some extent, the rink will be used for signal practices.

McLean Outlines Lib Mines Policy

Tells New Denver and Silverton of Plan to Aid Unemployed

NEW DENVER, B.C., Oct. 1.—D. D. McLean, Liberal candidate in Kootenay West, campaigned in Silverton and New Denver tonight, in the heart of the Silvery Slocan, where he dealt principally with the enunciated mining policy of Mackenzie King, Liberal chieftain, which would be put into effect in Canada when his party is returned to power on October 14. Backing to the hilt the mine proposals of Mr. King to aid the mining industry, Mr. McLean emphasized that it would be a practical and most helpful measure in solving the unemployment problem especially in the mining districts.

"Remember," he declared, "for every man working underground three men and women become directly employed."

Mr. McLean outlined the Liberal mining policy. It urged a Dominion and cooperative effort in placing the potential mining wealth of Canada before foreign capital, particularly in London, pointing to millions of pounds annually now moving from London to South Africa and Australia for gold mining purposes. He declared he was behind Mr. King's idea for an immediate conference of the provinces and Dominion with a view to establishment of a uniform and low rate mine taxation in the provinces and Dominion for a fixed period of four or five years. He felt the step would be a valuable inducement to capital and greatly encourage development of new properties, particularly marginal properties which would otherwise remain undeveloped. Mr. King had declared also in favor of removal of the duty on mining equipment. "I consider Mr. King's declaration very important to British Columbia and all provinces which have mining potentialities," said Mr. McLean, urging support at the polls as a supporter of Mr. King and his mining policy.

MILLER PLANS MAT PROGRAM

Wrestlers Will Show Plenty of Action at Trail

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 1.—Two Gun" Bob Miller has lined up another wrestling card for Tuesday, October 8, and will himself appear on the card. Miller has no mean repute, being former undefeated middleweight champion of the Pacific coast. Miller, who is referred to by coast papers as the most sensational wrestler ever to appear on the Pacific coast, has won falls over both the middleweight and lightweight champions of the world. In Portland he had one fall on the world champion when he missed a flying tackle and hit a rung post knocking himself out. He holds decisions over the world's champion, LeRoy McGurk of Oklahoma, and has drawn over 10,000 people to his matches in Vancouver, where he has always been popular with the fans.

Miller had planned to meet Fred Maracci, Australian light heavyweight wrestler but at a late hour on Tuesday night he learned by long distance from Portland that Maracci was indisposed with a boil on his knee. Miller immediately got in touch with Ben Sherman in San Francisco in an endeavor to line him up for the main bout. Sherman is middleweight champion for the British empire.

In the other half main event, Jimmy Lamb of Chicago will meet Leo Burke of San Francisco. In his first appearance here Lamb made a big hit with the fans. His clean, forceful style, coupled with plenty of speed, pleased the fans greatly. In Burke he is meeting a rough, tough grappler. Burke has Maracci and Parelli backed "off the map" when it comes to rough tactics. He has been barred in half a dozen American cities and the few people in Trail who have seen him in Spokane and on the coast expect to see sparks fly in this match.

The opening bout will be between Joker Tonelli and Curley Butorac of Rossland.

SAN FRANCISCO PLANS WORLD'S FAIR FOR 1938

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1 (AP).—The vision of a $38,000,000 world's fair literally rising from beneath San Francisco bay by 1938 was a long step nearer realization today, with federal funds for preliminary work approved.

An international commercial airport for both land and sea planes on the 400-acre site to be raised above the water for the fair was the permanent aim of the project for which the federal aid was granted.

Terminal facilities for transcontinental planes and for big sky liners from Russia, the orient, Australia and South and Central America were contemplated in the general plans, officials said.

WEATHER FORECASTS PREDICT MONTH OF JANUARY TO BE COLDER 'N' AUGUST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Weather bureau officials are wearing the pained expression usual at this time of the year when barnyard and backyard prophets begin their annual forecasts about the kind of winter ahead.

Most federal experts say reliable meteorologists will hesitate long and often before even thinking about a long range forecast. They contend it really can't be done with certainty.

However, the harassed officials conceded today:

"It would be pretty safe to say that January will be colder than August in the northern hemisphere.

"The only thing that can be said with a fair degree of certainty is that it will be colder than normal in some parts of the country and warmer than normal in others."

Officials said there has been a definite upward trend in general temperature in the past 25 years.

Trail Rotary Hears Disirict Governor

Claims Club Service Is Embryo of Success of Club

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 1—"You can't tell us much about Trail in regard to community work," stated Stanley Long, governor of district No. 1 when he addressed the Rotary club here Tuesday. "They (Trail Rotarians) always have an international reputation in that regard."

Mr. Long expressed the opinion that there was not little lack in Rotary education. As you all know, he said, Paul Harris established Rotary in Chicago 35 years ago. The speaker said he lived in Chicago at that time and was cognizant of the unfriendly feeling prevalent then. The three original principles of the club were friendship, selectivity and reciprocity in business. Mr. Long felt that the friendship in Rotary meant a friendship in which the boyish spirit could be let loose and one could be the same as others. In other words, he said, it is a friendship in which the bridle could be taken off and the colt roam at will.

In regard to selectivity, he pointed to other organizations which had followed Rotary adopting the same policy and had been successful by such.

The reciprocity of business scheme proved wrong in principle and practice, he said. Rotary proceeded for several years after being founded and spread to the Pacific coast, 16 clubs being formed. In the northwest, he said, some took up this principle seriously and much time was spent discussing the philosophy of Rotary. From time immemorial the men of the professional field had been looked up to in the northwest, Mr. Long said, while tradesmen and business men were not so looked up to. At last an idea was hatched that if Rotary could take in every vocation and make as an objective "service to others," Rotary could do benefit to others, the speaker said. This idea was presented to the convention in Portland in 1911 and was adopted. "Rotary was established in Chicago 35 years ago, but was organized in Portland in 1911," he asserted.

CLUB SERVICE IMPORTANT

Speaking of the four main channels through which Rotary works, club service, community service, vocational service and international service, Mr. Long considered club service the embryo of all others. He compared it to an athlete who cannot succeed unless he is in fine physical condition. Likewise, he said, a club must be in a healthy state, organized, coordinated and carried forward to succeed.

Vocational service, was the heart of the movement, he contended. He said that 75 codes had been worked out, established and used by Rotarians in the states, long before the NRA came into being.

RAPID GROWTH

With regard to international service, the speaker said Rotary, outside of the Christian church had made most rapid international growth. Rotary is not only established but organized throughout the world, he said. Growth outside of Canada and United States is six times as great, he declared. He told of how Rotary linked nations of Europe that were at logger heads and had been for centuries.

As for the future of Rotary, Mr. Long told of words by Will Durant who is the greatest anylist and philosopher of the United States. Mr. Durant said that dreamers do not solve the solutions but that it was the active men of affairs who had to solve them after they were prophesied. Mr. Long considered it was well for Rotary to keep its eyes on the stars and feet on the ground and to do its part toward the solution of the great problems with which it is faced. Trail was a small but important part of British Columbia as British Columbia was of an empire, he said, and a small club should consider itself a part of a great organization and in doing its part should feel it was aiding toward the success of the great organization.

Solos, "The Little Silver Ring" and "Love Me Forever" were rendered by Ivy Holt Winn, former resident of Trail now in California, who is visiting in the city.

Operatic Society Plans for Drive

At the annual meeting of the Nelson Operatic society held in the Women's Institute rooms on Victoria street Tuesday night, plans were made for a membership drive. Members present spent the evening plotting out the drive and in discussing other matters for preliminary organization. George A. Brown acted as chairman and Miss S. C. McClure as secretary.

Lacrosse Teams Have Close Game

The Nelson senior lacrosse team was given the best workout of the season Tuesday by the Fairview team, in an exhibiton battle at the skating rink and, with play close and on one keeping tabs on the score, it was impossible to tell later just who had won. Stan Dunbrack, senior coach, states his team is in fine fettle for the second half of the league which should get underway when Trail's team gets back from the coast. Two junior teams put up a peppy battle in another game on the same card Tuesday night.

ASK DEATH FOR ARSON PENALTY

10 Persons Died in a Fire Allegedly Set in Tenement

CHICAGO, Oct. (AP) — Prosecutors declared tonight they would seek a death penalty for two prisoners who allegedly started a tenement fire—fatal to 10 persons—six of them children—to collect $3000 insurance.

Assistant State's Attorney Marshal Kearney prepared to go before the grand jury asking murder indictments against Joseph Vitale, 45, proprietor of a grocery in the burned building, and Joseph Di Chiari, 31, whom Vitale reportedly confessed he hired for a promised $100 as the "torch."

Police said Vitale, his nephew, also Joseph Vitale, and a brother-in-law, Sam Jocopelli, all named Di Chiari as the actual incendiary. Kearney said Di Chiari had made "damaging admission" after being confronted with others' story.

With a shrug, officers said, Vitale declared he had wanted Di Chiari to start only a small blaze in the building in which 20 persons were sleeping Sunday night. Pressed for money, his story, according to police, was that he consulted his nephew, a tavern keeper, who proposed the fire and told him Di Chiari was "your man" for the job.

Sunday afternoon the arsonist carried 15 gallons of gasoline into the basement. The fire was touched off that night. The flames trapped the sleeping tenants. Six members of Frank Cappola's family including the father and five children lost their lives. The other victims were Joseph Grasso and a 16-year-old daughter and Mrs. Rose Angelsano and her daughter.

The game has been set for 2 o'clock through cooperation of the Trail Football association which has postponed a game with Nelson for a week to give the boys the grounds.

More Money for Wages-Stevens

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Oct. 1 (CP) —Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction party leader, addressing a Grey North audience here declared he would start the wheels of constructive activity moving in Canada with the aid of increased note issue.

In explaining the basis on which this would be accomplished he said Canada holds gold to the approximate value of $90,000,000. Under the international definition of sound currency Canada is entitled to issue notes to four times the value of that gold. Also, year after year, there is mined and sent out of Canada new gold. A part of this might be retained in the Dominion as a basis for further note issue.

"It is suggested I propose to turn on the printing presses and issue unlimited notes," he said. "I have never said anything of the kind."

But Canada's idle men "who were beaten into subjection at Regina" could be put to work at fair wages, by issuing notes on a perfectly legal basis.

"The biggest one is to stay home and mind your own business," the short, stoop-shouldered woman said.

FARM MORTGAGE DEBT DECREASES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—U. S. agriculture department records today disclosed a decrease of more than $1,200,000,000 in farm mortgage debt since 1930.

This decrease was attributed by bureau of agricultural economics statisticians to both a liquidation of debts by farmers and—to a large degree—to foreclosures by the lending agencies.

In addition, bureau statisticians reported there has been a heavy shift of agricultural loans during the past 12 months from life insurance companies to federal land banks.

LEAGUE WORRIES ON ITS BIRTHDAY

GENEVA, Oct. 1 (AP) — The league of nations observed the 11th anniversary today of its protocol for the pacific settlement of international disputes—and listened anxiously for the possible outbreak of war in Africa.

The protocol outlines various methods by which a dispute between two states may be throttled by league action before it reaches a militant stage.

What worried league statesmen, however, was the possibility of an Italo-Ethiopian clash — already looked upon as almost inevitable—developing into something far worse than a war between two states.

Coast Strike Is Termed National

Mr. Justice Davis Is Presiding in the Waterfront Case

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1 (CP)—Vancouver longshore representatives today concluded a two-week presentation of evidence before Mr. Justice H. H. Davis, commissioner inquiring into the British Columbia waterfront situation. Counsel for the shipping federation of British Columbia started presentation of the employers' side.

Mr. Justice Davis intimated that he might give his findings before leaving for Ottawa at the end of the enquiry.

"I no longer regard this dispute as a local one but rather as one of national importance," the commissioner said. "Before I make my recommendations to the federal government, if I do, I wish to gain figures on the amount of shipping which is done in this port."

C.C.F. Leader Hits at Company Towns

SUDBURY, Ont., Oct. 1 (CP).—The orthodox Liberal cry of "Laissez Faire," "hands off business," may have been applicable in the pioneer days, but it was now out of date, J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, said at a political meeting here tonight. Equally wrong was the Tory doctrine of protection, because it was not the living standards of the people but the big interests whom the Conservative policies protected. The textile industry in Montreal was the most highly protected in the country, yet it paid the lowest wages.

With regard to the railway problem, his party was "absolutely opposed" to Sir Edward Beatty's scheme of amalgamation. If there was any amalgamation, it must come under public and not private ownership.

Answering questions, Mr. Woodsworth believed the senate should be abolished. He did not think there should be unrestricted immigration.

"Not one more man should be brought in to complicate an already complicated situation," he said.

The C.C.F. leader had severe criticism for "company towns" owned and operated by corporations, largely American owned. In one "company town" in Northern Manitoba the work superintendent had insisted on knowing what he was going to speak about before a meeting would be permitted.

"Imagine that," said Mr. Woodsworth. "American interests dictating in a British town what we should say. It is our intention to change all that."

The governor threatened a special session of the legislature to consider impeachment unless Carr, within the deadline, files an answer to the governor's interrogatory asking whether the secretary of state had any connection with an asserted $3000 "shake-down" of wholesale drug firm.

HALL MORTGAGE OF WINDERMERE LEGION BURNED

Commander C. Powles Presides at the Dinner

INVERMERE, B.C. — Saturday, September 28, Commander Copley Powles, R.N., presided at a dinner party given by the Lake Windermere branch of the Canadian Legion to celebrate the burning of a mortgage which has been on their picture and dance hall for three years. The dinner was attended by all the honorary officers, including Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, Rev. F. Stanford, Mr. Cleland, Mr. Chisholm, W. Weir and A. E. Fisher.

The president delivered a short address, welcoming the guests, and outlining the business of the evening, after which he called on A. Ashworth, chairman of committee, to give an account of the circumstances which had led up to the present celebration.

He told how the purchase money was raised by a few members one evening, who by their action definitely committed the branch to the project. To the empty wooden shell, the legion gradually added a hardwood dance floor, lined the place throughout with fire resisting material, built on a large stage complete with kitchen, lavatories and dressing rooms, which is now one of the best in the interior of British Columbia. Later on they fitted out the hall for the showing of pictures, and leased it for that purpose. Now after three years, having been helped by the honorary officers and especially by the ladies, the legion once again stands free of debt, possessing an up to date hall, which will be of increasing value to the community.

Commander Powles then set alight the mortgage by an ingenious contrivance, and it was slowly consumed in sight of all those present.

Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, and Rev. F. Stanford, replying on behalf of the guests, stressed the value of the local branch of the legion, and assured them that they had the good will and respect of the whole community. This was gratifying to the president, officers and members of the legion, and showed what may be achieved by a small body of determined men, pulling together, with the help of the people among whom they live.

The remainder of the evening was occupied with an excellent concert, under the guidance of the vice-president, W. H. Seaton.

JAIL POPULATION NOW 22 AT NELSON

The Nelson provincial jail population is now at the low point for the present year to date, 22. At one time the jail housed 78 prisoners. This was when Railway act cases were being dealt with.

Woman Broadcaster for Police

MRS. PEARLE R. HOOKS

Mrs. Pearle R. Hooks of Shreveport, La., is believed to be the only woman police broadcaster in America. From 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, she broadcasts crime reports over a short wave station in Shreveport.

Mrs. Hooks also serves in the dual capacity of telephone operator. Several patrolmen tried out for the post held by her, but Mrs. Hooks was voted to have the clearest voice.

She learned her radio technique from W. K. Henderson, who formerly operated a station at Shreveport. She was his personal secretary for 23 years.

NO DEMAND FROM JOBLESS FOR DRESS SUITS

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 1 (CP). —One instance of supply exceeding demand is in evidence at the clothing department of the welfare office here where they are several full dress suits, one frock coat and several dark blue coats with plenty of braid, going begging. To date, relief recipients do not seem to take to full dress suits for daily wearing apparel.

NELSON MAN'S BROTHER DIES

A. A. McNeill Lived Here Prior to 1902

STETTLER, Alta., Oct. 1.— The death occurred in Stettler municipal hospital Friday, September 13 of Angus Alexander McNeill, one of the old timers of the south Erskine district, following an illness of inflammation of the gall bladder, says the Stetter Independent.

Mr. McNeill was born on April 7, 1877, at Prince Edward Island and was 58 years of age at the time of his passing.

He came west at the age of 21 years and settled at Vancouver and Nelson, B.C., prior to his moving to the Erskine district in 1902, where he went on a homestead.

Mr. McNeill was married to Miss Christina Stewart in Calgary in the year 1908.

He was a councillor on the old Local Improvement council in the Erskine district and has always been active in school affairs, being a trustee on the school board off and on for the past twenty-five years. He has also been an active member of the U.F.A. since its inauguration.

Mr. McNeill has been a successful farmer and was highly respected by all who knew him.

Surviving are his widow, two sons, Carl and Stewart, and one daughter Mae (Mrs. Jake Anton, of Calgary); two brothers, Rod of Nelson, B.C., and William of Wood Island, Prince Edward Island and three sisters, Mrs. James Campbell of Oakland, California; Mrs. M. McPherson of Melrose Highlands, Massachusetts, and Mrs. Margaret McNeill of Little Sands, Prince Edward Island.

He is also mourned by a host of friends who are sincere in extending their sympathies to Mrs. McNeill and family in their great loss.

The funeral service was held from the Odd Fellows' hall in Erskine Tuesday afternoon, September 17 and was widely attended by old timers and friends of the family throughout the district.

Rev. J. G. Goddard of Stettler, officiated.

Today's Recipes

Boiled Dinner — Four pounds corned beef, water, six to eight new potatoes, four carrots, one small head cabbage. Cover meat with cold water, bring to boiling point. Boil five minutes, remove scum and simmer until tender, about three hours, forty-five minutes before serving pour some of the liquid into another pot and boil potatoes and carrots in this until tender. Remove potatoes and carrots and add shredded cabbage and boil quickly for five minutes. Drain. Serve meat and vegetables on large platter together.

Apple Pudding—One and three-fourths cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, eight apples, three eggs, one cup sugar, four tablespoons water, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla. Put brown sugar in greased baking dish and dot with butter. Place apples on top and cover with batter made of remaining ingredients. Bake 45 minutes in moderate oven and serve before the caramel substance gets hard and sticky. Serve with cream.

Tomato Soup—Fourteen quarts tomatoes, 14 stalks celery, 14 sprigs parsley, seven large onions, 10 bay leaves, 10 whole cloves, 14 tablespoons flour, one-half cup salt, five tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon paprika. Cut vegetables and cook together with bay leaves and cloves until tender. Force through a strainer. Boil 10 minutes. Blend a small amount with flour mixed with salt and sugar, stirring until a perfectly smoth mixture is formed. Return to tomato mixture and cook, stirring constantly 10 minutes. Turn into hot sterile jars, filling them to overflowing. Seal at once. This makes from 10 to 12 pints.

Shaping Cookies

When making cookies, instead of rolling them out in the usual way, make the dough into small balls, place on cookie sheet, then press down with the cup of a ricer dipped in sugar. This makes the cookies pretty and is easily and quickly done.

WEST KOOTENAY AND A REHABILITATED PRAIRIE

Generally speaking, the prairie provinces are the market for West Kootenay's exportable surplus of either primary or manufactured products, metals alone excepted.

Year in and year out the Kootenay lumber industry's principal market is the prairie, though in times of expansion the American market offers an outlet to certain grades.

Kootenay fruit, while developing a valuable export market in Great Britain, must get its main distribution on the prairie.

Manufactured products of this district, such as Nelson jam, or Nelson veneer, find the most important part of their consumption on the prairie.

Chemical fertilizers produced at Warfield, though sold heavily in the Orient, contemplate a prairie market, which is already beginning to be realized.

If there is a demand for pole-lines on the prairie, what section particularly benefits? What other than West Kootenay, the center of Canada's pole industry?

Accordingly, West Kootenay has the most intimate interest in anything that brings prosperity to the prairie provinces, for prosperity means buying power.

That is the view that W. K. Esling, West Kootenay's member at Ottawa, has always taken.

Therefore it was with deliberate judgment that he has backed to the limit the various moves of the Bennett government designed to set the prairie farmer on his feet.

Is it nothing to West Kootenay that the government's taking over of the wheat has put an estimated $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 into the prairie producer's hands that he would not have had if the government had not stepped in, and had not pegged the price?

Is it nothing that Britain is taking five or six times as much Canadian bacon under the Ottawa agreements as previously, the prairie benefitting by many millions of dollars annually by this one item?

There is the matter of agricultural loans, by which thousands of prairie farmers have been able to make productive developments.

Also the matter of the farmers rescued from bankruptcy, by the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement act.

These are apart from the Natural Products Marketing act, which benefits the prairie producers as much as those anywhere.

It will be agreed that Mr. Esling was acting wisely for West Kootenay in backing the government's moves for rehabilitation of West Kootenay's principal market territory.

ARM—AND THE MAN!

One of the eeriest and strangest murder cases in modern criminal court at Sydney, Australia, ruled that the arm of a dead man does not constitute a corpus delicti.

A man named Smith went fishing in the ocean with a man named Brady, and was not seen afterward. There were suspicions of foul play, but nothing could be proved.

Then someone caught a shark. The shark disgorged a human arm. On the arm were certain tattoo marks. Smith's relatives looked at them and said they were identical with marks Smith had on his arm. The police declared that Brady had killed Smith and tossed him overboard and that a shark had eaten the corpse.

All this makes up one of those far-fetched and rather creepy plots that detective story writers are so fond of. The only thing wrong with it is the conclusion. The court held that this identification was not sufficient to prove Smith dead—so Brady was released.

MAY REVOLUTIONIZE MEN'S CLOTHES

According to the Manchester correspondent of the London Times there are more unlikely things than that the man asking to see something smart in summer suitings next year will be asked, "How do you like this double-breasted model in rayon?" The male sex, long in uncomfortable thraldom to conventional fashion, has from time to time been promised revolutionary measures that would result in comfort such as women have known for a number of years. But so far it has been a series of false dawns. This time, however, hope is backed by the fact that English professional buyers, believing that the day of heavy woolens for underwear or for suits is over, are placing orders for comparatively lightweight suits for the winter trade as well as for almost flimsy fabrics for next summer.

At the Textile Institute conference held in Yorkshire this year one of the best informed speakers declared that within a short time men will be clad in suits made wholly of artificial silk. Far from being a fantastic dream, such suits have already been made for experimental purposes. It is said that they can scarcely be distinguished from the Bradford worsted article, the fabric having none of the bright lustre popularly associated with rayon. The latter point is a highly important one in view of the masculine self-consciousness which balks at any startling innovation of a sartorial nature. Greater comfort is all very well but formal appearances must be maintained—on the go-in, at least.

A magazine writer recently declared that the effectiveness of the League of Nations would be greatly increased were each delegate to indulge in an hour's gardening each day. Without being entirely facetious it might be added that the beneficial effect would be heightened were they, after their energetic association with the soil, to enter coolly and light-heartedly on their deliberations clad in the proposed new styles in men's clothes. The garb of the average diplomat must be anything contributory to unheated thought on a sultry summer afternoon.

Well, well, well!

I had to pinch myself around noon yesterday when I had been out of bed about five minutes. You see, I received a phone call from Inspector John Macdonald of the provincial police that my body, "half naked and badly decomposed" had been seen floating near the ferry landing. Sergeant Barber and Constable Monte Locke had investigated and found my body had disappeared. At least I believed they inferred I was in bad shape.

Being somewhat sleepy, or probably half awake, I thanked the policeman for his information and tumbled back into bed. There I began to think, and it was then that I pinched myself to see if I were really alive.

I pondered and pondered, wondering how I could be drowned and still be alive and in the process of donning my clothing. The mystery deepened. Surely, I said to myself, someone had planted a dummy in the lake and labeled it "J.B.C." I know I have been half dead for some time but I did not know I was badly decomposed. In fact I thought someone was pulling a fast one on me.

• • •

I was rather leary of going near the provincial police office to check up, for fear they would "lay me out" and call an undertaker. After all why go to a morgue before it is absolutely necessary? I figured I would land there if the police believed me to be in the shape I was reported to be in. So I let the day take its course and kept my ears and eyes opened.

Ha, as all good little detectives find sooner or later, I solved the mystery without the aid of the provincial police or our own city police. In this newspaper office we have a chap named H. H. Currie who is a swimming addict. Currie rarely misses a day, if the weather is good. So it seems yesterday morning he went for his usual swim at Lakeside park. Now he is a good floater. I have even seen pictures of him floating on the lake with a lit cigar in his mouth. Had he been smoking a cigar while floating about the ferry landing yesterday morning there would have been no false reports. There would have been no rushing of police officers and there would have been no phone call to get me out of bed before I had my regular eight hours of shut-eye. But anyway there was Currie floating about the ferry landing. He admits to me he just closed his eyes and floated about as a ferry passed by. Later he was looking for lake plants when accosted by the two police officers who were looking for a body. Currie hadn't seen any body and he admitted he had been around the vicinity for some time. So there the mystery is solved. Maybe I heard wrongly when Inspector Macdonald telephoned me, but for a time I thought I was really dead when it was really my fellow newspaper worker, H. H. Currie—and by heck he is still alive—for he is running a typewriter at my elbow—and he is fully clothed—and I can see no signs of decomposition.

And in closing the episode I wish to thank the police officers for taking a little time off and condescending to rescue a newspaper man from the lake, even if he is drowned, half naked and in no fit shape to be handled easily.

FAIR AMARYLLIS IS HARDY BULB

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Garden Expert

Most everyone is acquainted with the lovely amaryllis which are grown indoors in pots, but not so with the hardy amaryllis.

This bulb should be planted in our gardens in September. In March, broad leaves appear and last until late May, when they disappear; and in August a stalk appears with clusters of lavender flowers. The blooms are perfectly lovely, and one of our unusual flowers for the garden.

This bulb is often listed in catalogues as Tycoris halli. Once planted, these bulbs can be left undisturbed for years. They are safest in cold climates planted in a warm, sheltered position, and protected in winter with a mulch of straw.

MAGAZINE'S REPORTING CRITICIZED

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

An eminent publication publishes a letter from Eye Surgeon Langdon, of Philadelphia, protesting against an article on "Cortin for Glaucoma."

"I have a great many people afflicted with glaucoma under my care, and you have no idea the harm such an article does. The effect of cortin, as distinguished from adrenalin, is not definitely known at the present time. The hopes of the public are unjustifiably raised, and one who practices ophthalmology has seen cases where an emotional storm has brought on an acute attack of glaucoma with complete loss of vision."

Responds the magazine: "Many medical men have been conditioned to believe that their doings and thinking enjoy a sacred immunity from the ordinary processes of human surlosity. Well does this periodical know the problem of reporting scientific news, but its RESPONSIBILITY TOWARD SCIENCE (the caps are mine) differs no whit from its responsibility toward news of other human affairs.

"In this case, Dr. Langdon's quarrel is not with this periodical, but with Dr. Josephson, whose report on cortin in a reputable publication we accurately reported."

Wet is the magazine on this issue, and correct is Eye Surgeon Langdon, in our opinion, and well do we know, too, the problem of reporting scientific news. That an immature and clinically unconfirmed report appears in one publication, reputable it may be, but those readers are supposed to be conditioned to evaluate the difference between experimental suggestions and proved research problems, does not relieve the editor of a journal of wide and very general circulation of responsibility of selection and anticipation of just such criticism as Dr. Langdon advances.

DISTRESSING TO CORRESPONDENTS

Distressing to a few of my own correspondents also was this same periodical's report of the International Neurological congress in London. Raynaud's disease and its treatment occupied much of this discussion. This treatment is used by one whom the publication call "Mayo Clinic's handsome senior brain surgeon, Dr. Alfred Washington Adson." (All the brain doctors that week were handsome save only unadjectived Dr. George Elgie Brown—how are you, George?) Raynaud's disease consists of a change in the color, temperature and vitality of the fingers or toes (rarely nose or ears), probably due to changes in the muscular tone of the artieries. Mild cases are like chilblains and may never get worse. What distressed my correspondents was the summary: "He believes that the real trouble lies somewhere in the brain of the neurotic young woman who develop Raynaud's disease."

Since one of my correspondents has written half a dozen successful books, she wonders just what is the matter with her brain.

Cringed, I suspect, handsome Dr. Adson as he read the report.

Sensational rather than responsible is our verdict on the attitude of the periodical's medical editor toward his public.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

SLAM ATTEMPTS INVOLVE RISKS

Almost without exception bidding slams, either small or grand, involve risks. As long as risks are in proportion to possible gains nobody should find fault. It is a part of the game. When one partner holds a powerful suit and the other partner has all aces and unusual support for the long suit, the question arises whether 6-no trumps or 7-odd at the suit is the better call. It is easy to be a myope under such circumstances. Honors held are not the vital score sought. The point to consider is the difference in score between a small slam and a grand slam, when it is axiomatic that a long suit almost invariably will win one more trick than can be made with a powerful no trump hand. On the other hand the partner having several tenaces ordinarily should become the declarer, so that the lead may come up t othose tenaces, rather than go through them. Such matters have to be carefully weighed when deciding long suit and no trumps.

The other evening I made an opening bid of 1-no trump, sitting South. My partner, J. W. Weston, is noted for ability to squeeze the last possible trick from his cards, whether playing offensively or defensively. He overcalled with the strong bid of 3-hearts. East bid 3-spades. We alone were vulnerable. Doubless my spades were good for two tricks. With three added aces and partner's bid showing established hearts worth at least six tricks, I felt perfectly safe in going 3-no trumps. My partner could be depended upon to bid further, provided he held added tricks in side suits. The hands are shown below.

	♠ 7 4 ♥ K Q J 10 7 5 ♦ K J 6 ♣ K 8
♠ 8 ♥ 6 4 3 ♦ 9 5 4 3 ♣ Q 7 5 4 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ K Q 9 8 6 5 2 ♥ None ♦ Q 10 7 2 ♣ 8 6
	♠ A J 10 ♥ A 9 8 2 ♦ A 8 ♣ A J 10 9

North bid 4-hearts, showing slam probabilities at hearts. His first bid had told the whole story about his hearts. Not wanting the opening lead of spades to go through my hand at a higher call than 6-odd, I bid 6-no trumps. An opening lead of spades insured a small slam. 2 spade tricks, 6 hearts, 2 diamonds and 2 clubs, without a finesse.

Nobody could blame West for leading her own best suit—clubs—after my display of spade strength. my 9 won the opening lead. There were in sight 1 spade, 6 heart, 2 diamond and 3 club tricks, or 12 certain tricks. In case the diamond finesse of dummy's J held there was a grand slam. I took the finesse and lost, but spread my cards for balance. As the cards lay a grand slam could have been made at hearts but the call would have been risky.

EATS 240 GREEN APPLES AND THEN SAYS HE IS HUNGRY

Tony De Laurentis, who had just eaten 240 green cooking apples in an hour and 56 minutes, emerged from the window of his Hatboro barber shop and announced he was hungry, reports the Philadelphia Record, speaking quite seriously.

He dined lightly but happily on three pounds of spaghetti, a steak, some sausage, a generous salad with plenty of olive oil, two bottles of beer, a quart of red wine, a half glass of whiskey, and strolled back to his barber shop finishing his second cigar.

The apple-eating feat was accomplished in observance of a similar achievement a year ago, when Tony, as handsome a 180-pounder as ever shaved the back of your neck, ate 130 green apples in an hour and 34 minutes. That achievement brought Tony world-wide fame.

Tony arose at 7 a.m. and departed for his only form of exercise, an automobile ride. An arduous climb to the back seat of a motor car, and a trip over the hills prepared him for a somewhat skimpy breakfast of six soft-boiled eggs and a rasher of bacon and ham. No coffee. Tony considers coffee a devil's brew.

At 9 a.m. Tony drank a pint of whiskey, and washed it down with 10 ounces of olive oil. The whiskey, he says, gives him the appetite, and olive oil prevents him from getting drunk.

Precisely at 10 a.m. Tony stepped into the shop window, before which several hundred persons were gathered.

While Tony's tonsorial assistant and a friend peeled and quartered the apples as fast as they could, Tony gobbled them down. At 10 a.m. he weighed 179 pounds, and at 11:56 he tipped the scales at 201 pounds.

BARON OF FLEET STREET

From the Toronto Globe

A Scottish cobbler's son started in life as a cobbler's apprentice. He lived to control the largest group of Liberal newspapers in London. He lived to control Liberal politicians and policies. He lived to explode, in Reynold's Weekly and Lloyd George's interest, the war-time bombshell that wrecked Mr. Asquith's premiership. He lived to be promoted from House of Commons to House of Peers by a grateful Prime Minister Lloyd George. He lived to buy the great house of Borgue, the village where he was born, and to make his estate a model to the nobility of Dumfries and Galloway. But he did not live to see Home Rule for Scotland. That one among his life's ambitions was denied to James Henry Dalziel, Lord Dalziel of Kirkcaldy.

One of the last of "the Barons of Fleet Street," Lord Dalziel, died recently in England. His contemporates among that astounding company of British newspaper peers who leaped from obscurity to power and fortune in the early years of this century were Lord Northcliffe, Lord Riddell, and the Berrys of the Telegraph. Of them all none had a career more striking in its achievements and its contrasts than had Lord Dalziel. The story of his life as proudly retold in a recent issue of the Dumfries and Galloway Standard, reads like an improved Scottish version of the nineteenth century's favorite fairy tale. Say, rather, it would read so if the Scottish cobler's son had seen Home Rule established in Scotland before he died, and was brought home to be buried in Borgue churchyard.

Yet, quite apart from the merits of Home Rule for Scotland, it may have been as well that Lord Dalziel of Kirkcaldy came short of complete fulfilment of his life's ambitions. Humility is a virtue that even successful Scots should learn to practice before they die.

BY THE GOLDEN GATE

By GERALD B. REES

Part III

In further conversation with a native son of San Franscisco, I enquired his reactions to the current disputations centering around Northern Africa where a twentieth century Alexander proposes to cross the Rubicon, and with diabolical instruments of modern warfare forcibly convert the black brotherhood of Ethiopia, half naked and armed with spears and rifles dug up from the Crimea, to the glorious benefits of a white man's civilization. "No, Sir-ee," remarked the Californian, "The thing for these United States to do is to stay strictly out of European quarrels. African oil must not be mixed up with American blood." With this I agreed, but remembered that the U.S.A. were cheerfully making large sales to Italy, under cover of a benevolent neutrality, not actually of munitions, but of steel billets for bullets and shell cases, and machine tools, cotton and copper. America's emotional manifestations must not interfere with its commercial aspirations! They do not seem to mix any more than the oil and blood. Odd how little comparative space Pacific coast papers are devoting to the European imbroglios. One leading morning paper had less than one column all told on the Abyssinian hot-spot. This would not please Benito's publicity department: Il Duce, one thinks, is a stubborn illusionist with too much iron in his system: too much spinach. He should relax and eat cornflakes, or else he will finish up in a Duce of a mess. For every inch this modern Scipio Africanus advances across the sands of Ethiopia, Italy will retreat a mile in power and prestige, and all the territorial gains of a belligerent acquistiveness will not be worth cries of even one Italian Rachel weeping for her slaughtered bambino. The south wind may now be blowing softly for Mussolini, but what when the wind changes to the east, as it inevitably will!

Mussolini once fought a war to end war, but now he is apparently starting a war to start war. He is aiming at a billet for every bullet with a cold blooded propagandized preparation that is not the least horrifying aspect. As I write these lines, British and Italian warships are steaming within each other's sight: with the tarpaulins off their gun turrets.

But let us get back to the bright lights. Bright lights is right, for Market Street, the "main stem" of San Francisco is framed in a liquid glow of advertising signs, and the sky above reflects a pink glow that makes one think of a forest fire away up in British Columbia. San Francisco harbor, probably the largest in the world, provokes a nostalgia for what lies beyond the horizon line of the Golden Gate where sea meets sky. It stirs memories of the Isles of the Blest, far away across the South Pacific. It is long years since I heard the periodic mellow thunder of the breakers on the barrier reefs of the Islands— the growing murmur of sound, the last of the swell against the last of the coral—the momentary hush, except for the whisper of the ripples along the beach, then again the distant booming afar off, growing louder . . . the white line of the surf, the deep water lagoons, green blue paling to the white of coral sands . . . Sail straight through the Golden Gate of the Poppy State, and one will reach the magic isles of fairy seas forlorn. But my anchorage holds, and I turn my back on the open sea, grateful for its momentary memories of the yesteryears.

"STICK-EM-UP"

San Francisco seems a reasonably safe place in which to wander around. No holdups. No rattle of submachine guns or barking of automatics. Very few policemen are visible, but those on duty are well armed. Still, there are bandits on the loose, as in a city a short distance to the south, three robbers with pistols and sub-machine gun held up a savings bank yesterday and got away with over $5000 in currency. Not bad pay for a morning's work.

I did not even meet Public Enemy Number One; in fact, no one seemed to know who is currently entitled to the honor. Passing the mid-channel island of Alcatraz on a harbor tour, I thought of Al Capone buried there in a gloomy stone cell of the penal establishment that has the reputation of being the strictest House of Correction on the North American continent. Does he still think his kind of game was worth his kind of candle, or has its unrighteousness been extinguished in the silence and solitude of the Island Fortress? One hopes that even at Alcatraz, the gaining ascendency of man's humanitarian ideals over his primitive cruelty prevails in the treatment accorded to the convicted unruly members of society.

The promises in certain quarters that prosperity would flow from the return of liquor to the U.S.A. have proved of the pie-crust variety, as anyone in a reasonable state of sanity might have foretold. The repudiation of Prohibition has led to the general re-establishment of the Bartenders' Union, which is now in a flourishing condition, with all back dues paid up, and a 100 per cent membership. Drinking is no longer an adventure as in the days of Prohibition. For this reason, repeal to many is named a failure, seeing that the purchase and consumption of liquor is as commonplace as buying a newspaper, and just as easy. The beer parlors interfere greatly with the operation of the cash register bells in the Talkies. The one time Sahara is no longer a battleground for bootleggers, and there are plenty of oases in San Francisco that need no camel journeys. America has become distinctly "booze-conscious", and is spraying its tonsils with percentage alcohol in generous quantities in surroundings worthy of emperors, with the best architects designing the new type of saloon in hardwoods, mosaics and mural paintings. The nation has adopted a blandly paternalistic attitude towards liquor, has elevated its use once again into a social fashion, an excuses its shortcomings in the name of liberty of the subject. Every provision, if San Francisco is typical, has been made so that Americans can easily drink their way back to prosperity! Just at present, however, there is a public debt of twenty-eight billions of dollars, equivalent to a 45 per cent income tax.

"BROTHER—SPARE A DIME"

Despite the terrific unemployment, which the New Deal has practically failed to reduce, there is, in the Bay city at least, very little panhandling, and this writer noted very few blanketed hoboes along the railway tracks. Only once was he "touched" during a brief stay. The panhandler then asked only for three cents and offered to carry his bag for two blocks! Said he had two cents and with another three could get some breakfast! His ingenious method of approach on the "eats" question won for him something more substantial than a cup of coffee and a doughnut.

THE EPICURE

Fill the bowl with rosy wine,
Around our temples roses twine,
And let us cheerfully awhile,
Like the wine and roses, smile.
Crowned with roses, we contemn
Gyges' wealthy diadem.

Today is ours, what do we fear?
Today is ours: we have it here!
Let's treat it kindly, that it may
Wish, at least, with us to stay.
Let's banish business, banish sorrow,
To the gods belongs tomorrow.

The Romance Racket

MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

On her twenty-fourth birthday Carol Kennedy, coming into a vast fortune, suddenly announces to her relatives that she is giving up her old home in Connecticut, where she has lived as an orphan to move to New York to find happiness and freedom. Among those attending Carol's birthday party are her cousin, Kathy Prentice, and her fiance, Dr. Owen Craig, whom she is marrying for social prestige. Unattractive Carol, who knows nothing of parties, pretty clothes and beaux, secretly admires Owen. Carol astounds her old nurse when she tells her of her plan.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

Chapter 4

Nanny was speechless. This wildness in Carol made her sad with sympathy. She watched Carol draw her hair back from her face, run a finger down her straight nose and trace the heavy black brows until the hand began to tremble and the eyes fill up with tears.

"Oh, Nanny," she sobbed, "What's going to become of me? Am I really so unattractive?"

"No, my girl," Nanny said loyally, "You've got something other girls haven't got. You've got brains and when they were traipsing around wasting their time at dances and the like, you were away at college learning things."

"But look at my cousin, Kathy . . . she's got everything."

"Oh, her!" That was what Nanny thought of the glamorous Kathy. "You could have had everything she's got. Her mother wanted you to go to all her parties."

"And a fine sight I'd make in my clothes. I know . . . Don't remind me I've the best shoemaker and tailor. Best! Best old-fashioned stuff I've ever seen . . .oh, tonight, Nanny, Kathy had on a red crepe dress. It fitted like a glove and it had a train and no back. . . ."

"No back! That's shameless!" Nanny's voice told you what she thought of Kathy's wanton dress.

"And she had her hair slicked back and two big rhinestone stars in it. She had blue on her eyelids and a strap and a toe for a slipper. That's what I want and what I'm going to have!"

"What you're going to have is a little sleep. You'll feel better tomorrow," said Nanny, turning back the bedclothes.

"You bet I will," Carol promised between closed teeth as Nanny pulled the velvet dress over her head.

"And, listen, Nanny, I want you to give this slip away tomorrow. I'm going to get myself a lot of lacy, chiffon things. I may even buy some black ones." Turning her back to Nanny she slipped off the glove silk bloomers and tossed them over the wall light fixture.

"That goes for them, too!"

"Right out of your senses, that's what you are," Nanny muttererd.

"No. I'm just coming to them." Carol wrapped a nondescript bathrobe about her and faced Nanny with what she thought was a pose of languid nonchalance and demanded:

"You don't know where there's a cigaret in the house, do you?"

"Cigarets! Black underwear! If your mother could hear you! Poor child, you are sick, that's what's the matter with you. I'm going to get you some spirits of ammonia."

"Never mind that. I'm sleepy now, darling, and I'll need my sleep because I must be up at 6:30 tomorrow morning."

"Whatever for?" Nanny asked direfully.

"I'm driving into New York."

"All right, Carol. I might as well go along. I've some things I must do in the stores."

"You're not coming with me, Nanny. I'm going alone. I'm looking for trouble and somehow you don't invite trouble.

Carol was awake when the dawn came. Awake and trembling with eagerness and excitement. Life was a glorious play yet to be written, cast and scenically set. And Carol Kennedy was going to play its star role.

Lying back in the great carved walnut bed in which she had been born, the girl, dreaming vague happy pictures of the mild excitement provided by her limited imagination, little realized the shadings of drama which were to color her life.

What should she do first? Should she buy clothes? Should she find an apartment? There were so many things to do, so many things to be done at once! The apartment, after all should be . . .

Carol's pleasant reverie came to an end with Nanny's entrance. If Nanny hoped that Carol's madness of the night before was ended, her hopes were dashed with Carol's greeting:

"God morning, Nanny. If, by any odd chance I have any frivolous clothes to wear to New York, will you find them, please, because I want to get going in an hour!"

The lumbering old-fashioned limousine was crossing the bridge over the Harlem river at 137th street when Robbins turned to Carol: "Where will you be going, Miss Carol?"

"I don't know exactly, Robbins. What would you do if you were looking for an apartment?"

Robbins made a gesture of thinking; he scratched his head. "Well, now, I think I'd go back to my own neighborhood and ask the neighbors where there might be some place."

"That won't work, Robbins, because you see I've never lived in New York."

Surprise almost choked Robbins. "Is it for you, Miss Carol?"

"It is," she said with a touch of asperity in her voice. "Let's go and look over the East Side in the Fifties."

But the East Fifties availed her nothing. Carol didn't want a big apartment because she didn't want servants. She didn't want a hole in the wall either. She thought she might find what she wanted in Greenwich village but unfamiliar odors assailing her nose and darkness where light should have been soon depressed her in that neighborhood and she decided that her method of finding a home was all wrong. It was time to consult the newspapers.

Over her egg Benedicte at the Plaza, she studied the classified ads on partments. Her questing eye fell with surprise and delight on a boxed ad at the head of a column.

Bronson and Goodhue, Real Estate. And discreetly in the corners: Isobel Bronson, Apartments (and in the other) Mary Goodhue, Country Homes.

Good old Mary and Isobel. Their last year at Vassar, with Carol, they'd planned to go into the real estate business. Of course, they'd have just the thing for her and it would be such fun seeing them after four years.

She called for her check and was folding the change neatly in her bill-fold when her Cousin Kathy, wrapped in smart caracul, the tiniest of hats hiding one eye, hailed her:

'Hi, Carol! What are you doing in town today, darling?" She dropped muff, gloves and bags on the table, and before giving Carol a chance to answer, continued:

"I hated to walk out on your birthday party last night, Carol, but we had to go. Oh, it's all so tiresome, Carol. I wish I led a nice, regulated life like yours. Mine is an endless round of meetings, luncheons, stupid parties and hardly any time for shopping. I suppose that's what you're in town for?"

"No," said the new Carol, "I'm . . . as a matter of fact I'm in town for a cocktail party myself today." Then hurriedly changing the subject, she said, "You looked lovely last night."

"Did you like that red rag?" Kathy asked. "I picked it up for a song at . . ."

Carol waited breathlessly for the name of the shop but Kathy glanced at her watch. "Heavens, my lamb, that Victory ball committee meeting started hours ago. See you soon . . ." her voice drifted off in a wake of perfume.

Well! Carol had told her first lie and discovered it gave her an air of prepossession. I don't know when I've enjoyed anything so much as telling Kathy I was going to a party, she thought.

A few minutes later she stood in the outer office of Bronson and Goodhue. She was writing a note on one of her visiting cards when a door opened and with a whoop Isobel Bronson descended on her.

"Carol, dar-ling! Where have you been for the last four years? Oh, M-a-r-y! Come see who's here. The gal who got us through college."

There were so many things for the three of them to say. Inquiries about each other's lives. Sympathy for Carol. Do you remeber this and do you remember that?

Mary begged Carol to wait for her since she had to keep an appointment but Isobel had other plans:

"I'm going to take you to a party, Carol. Jean Stewart is having a mob in to celebrate the opening of her show and I want you to come along."

"I really came to talk business with you, Isobel."

"We can talk business later," Isobel was busy putting away filing cards.

"And besides," Carol offered in a small voice, "I'm not dressed for a party."

Isobel was well aware of the quality and cost of the tweed suit, the crepe de chine blouse and English shoes the other girl wore. She thought she had never seen anything more unattractive before in her life but aloud she said:

"You can wear anything to a cocktail party in New York but if you'd really like to get in on something I've just discovered, I'll take you around the corner to my pet shop where they do up sweaters and hats that'll knock your eye out. You'll love it."

And Carol did. She adored the soft yellow Angora sweater with its high neckline. She viewed herself in the dashing dark brown swagger hat pulled low over one eye and found herself paying $18 for a pair of brown suede gauntlet gloves with enormous cuffs.

Isobel surveyed her critically and felt proud of her work. "Here, a dash of my lipstick . . . now look!"

Look? She wanted to stare at herself. But she picked up her new gloves and followed Isobel to the waiting taxi. Isobel chattered:

"Jeannie is a darling but exceedingly dumb. You can be dumb if you're pretty enough. I always say . . ." She changed the subject quickly; Carol was brilliant and plain—"Tell me, darling what you've been doing."

Carol's impulse was to answer, Nothing," but she remembered how well she'd gotten over with her white lie to Kathy so she smiled knowingly, shrugged her shoulders and said, "I'll tell you later, Isobel; tell me more about yourself."

"Poor Isobel! Her life's filled with nothing but work and quite a lot of falling in and out of love. My new one is just the sort you'd like, Carol. He's strong and silent and chemical. I mean he's a scientist. He'll be here but you leave him alone."

BOUCHER TO RUN LONDON'S TEAM

Succeeds Nighbor; He Was With St. Louis Eagles Outfit

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 1 (CP)—Acceptance of the managership of the London Tecumsehs was wired President John Anderson of the local International Hockey league club today by George Boucher, last year's pilot of the St. Louis Eagles of the National league.

President Anderson also announced that the meeting scheduled for Pittsburgh Friday had been shifted here, according to advices from the league president, John Chick.

Boucher was offered the London job some weeks ago but requested time to think the offer over since the future of the Eagles was not settled.

Boucher succeeds Frank Nighbor, a team mate for many years on the famous Ottawa Senators.

DEMPSEY'S CAFE TAKE $15,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Broadway dirge of hard times, moaned low along the "main stem" since 1929, has lifted to a big-money melody as cheerful as a master of ceremony's ballyhoo.

The little places that used to get along on six assorted customers have blossomed into a circuit of the most lavish entertainment emporiums seen here in longer than a chorus girl's memory.

Cover charges, stupendous floor shows, high-priced stars, and big-name orchestras are back again.

Business? "Forty per cent better," said one night club proprietor; "75 per cent better," said another. A third said he couldn't believe it, but it's 300 per cent better.

That restaurateur extraordinary, Mr. Jack Dempsey, waved his arms and grinned.

"Look, we opened last February 17," he said. "We have grossed $700,000, took in $15,000 the night of the Louis-Baer fight, and have had to put in three additions. Business? It's a knockout."

Broadway is back—and back with a wallop.

The Arabian horse was imported into America before the Revolutionary war.

What's He Want?

Well it's Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers. Probably wants to beat the Cubs in the world series.

Cubs With Warneke on Mound Are Favored Take Opening Game of World Series From Detroit; Million Dollar Series Forecast

Tigers Have Been Quoted as Favorites to Win the Series; Tough Series "to Dope"; Lon Warneke Hot; Rowe Dislikes Cold

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

DETROIT, Oct. 1 (AP).—The world series, shaking off the chilling effects of an unwelcome blast of football weather, opens tomorrow in full panoply. It brings together Detroit Tigers, two-time American league champions, and Chicago Cubs, stretch-sensations of the National league pennant race, in an uproar of old-time rivalry.

Navin field likely will be packed to its capacity of 48,700, a new high for the park, when the two lanky sharp-shooters from Arkansas, Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe of the Tigers and Lonnie Warneke of the Cubs, unwrap their good right arms for a pitching duel.

With warmer, more seasonable weather promised for the opening day, it looked like a certain sell-out.

MILLION-DOLLAR SERIES

It will be a $1,000,000 series if only five games are played, taking into account the fact that $100,000 for broadcasting rights will be added to the gate receipts. A six or seven-game battle, which isn't at all unlikely, will mean an all-time financial record. The previous mark of $1,207,000 was set by the Yankees and Cardinals in 1926 in seven games.

The Cubs ruled favorites in the betting tonight to take the opening game, not only because they are rated the "hotter club" but because of the acknowledged prowess of Warneke. The Tigers have been slight favorites to capture the series, among wagering men, but a rush of Chicago money indicated a possible switch.

A majority of baseball writers, after watching the two clubs go through their final practice paces between showers today, indicated a preference for Chicago's chances. But it's a tough series to "dope."

DEPEND ON WARNEKE

Chicago's hopes are hinged largely upon the long right arm of Warneke, just as the Tigers place supreme confidence in the sharpshooting ability of Rowe. Warneke enters the championship test with a record unmatched by any other pitcher in baseball over the last month. Lonnie has captured his last seven games, most of them under pressure and against the best the opposition could offer. Rowe's control has been erratic and the Schoolboy doesn't do his best in cool weather.

Manager Charley Grimm, the banjo-playing pilot of the National league champions will pitch the veteran Charley Root in the second game, probably against Tommy Bridges, slim curve-ball artist of the Tigers. Big Bill Lee, freshman right-hander, will draw the third-game assignment at Wrigley field, likely against Detroit's Elden Auker, submarine-ball right-hander.

Warneke will be shot right back into action for the fourth game and he will be ready again for the seventh game, in Detroit, if the series goes to the limit.

Grimm's pitching program does not include a starting assignment for Larry French, his southpaw star. French will be kept primed for relief work, if and when necessary, the manager declared.

Cochrane's pitching strategy took similar shape as Mickey indicated he would rely mainly upon Rowe, Bridges and Auker, his crack right-handers, for starting duty. The veteran right-hander, Al Crowder, will be in reserve, along with the southpaw relief pitcher, "Chief" Elon Hogsett.

HERE'S THE WAY THE TEAMS WILL STACK UP

DETROIT, Oct. 1 (AP)—Here are the probable lineups for the opening game of the world series tomorrow:

Herman 2b	Cochrane c

Hartnett c	Greenberg 1b
Demaree rf	Goslin lf
Cavarretta 1b	Fox rf
Hack 3b	Rogell ss
Jurges ss	Owen 3b
Warneke p	Rowe p

Umpires — George Moriarty (A) plate, Ernest Quigley (N) first base, Bill McGowan (A) second base, Dolly Stark (N) third base.

SCALPERS ASK $60 PER SEAT AT DETROIT; UMPS DECIDE ON RULES

Cub Hurlers Believe Greenberg Easy; Like Short Field

DETROIT, Oct. 1 (AP)—There's nothing "slow" about the big Arkansas "trains" who will meet in the opener of the world series tomorrow. Lonnie Warneke and Schoolboy Rowe, both from Arkansas, are two of the best speedball pitchers in the game.

The "Schoolboy" can't be taunted into a fit of anger by the razzing Cubs unless they get something new. Last year St. Louis Cardinals drove Rowe to distraction by shouting: "How'm I doin', Edna." Edna then was the "Schoolboy's" sweetheart awaiting the march to the altar. Now, she is Mrs. Rowe. She won't attend the opener. She'll be minding the baby.

Scalpers had a field day in Detroit today until the buyers struck. When the scalpers demanded as high as $60 a ticket for tomorrow's opener, the buyers went on a strike. The public ticket sale here opens at 9 a.m. tomorrow. Long lines of fans waited the opener.

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis took the four series umpires along with him to Navin field today to study ground rules. It was decided that any ball that caromed off the fence was a ball in play; that a ball that stuck in the screen in short left field was a double, and that any ball that caromed off the sign board in right and into the seats was a double. The commissioner also asked the umpires to exercise the utmost leniency with players in disputes. He doesn't want a repetition of last year's argument which resulted in Joe Medwick being ejected from the final game.

"He can't hit a high one past the infield," they agreed.

The Cubs liked the close-in left field bleachers, only 301 feet from the plate.

"How long has this been going on?" asked Catcher Gabby Hartnett, a deadly left-field hitter.

DUCKS WISE BIRDS!

LA RIVIERE, Man., Oct. 1 (CP)—Disgruntled duck hunters gazed wistfully toward "Sanctuary slough" here tonight, their shotguns useless in their hands. For all the ducks hereabouts, estimated at 20,000, have forsaken the surrounding lakes and taken refuge in a small area declared a sanctuary two years ago.

Plan English Grid Game In Trail City

Tom Fraser Formerly of Coast to Give a Talk Wednesday

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 1—The English version of the oval ball game is coming to life in Trail after the apparent demise of Canadian rugby of senior calibre. A group of enthusiasts, led by Tom Fraser, former fullback for North Shore All Blacks at the coast and member of the British Columbia rep team to invade California last winter, have already held one practice and are going ahead with arrangements to place the game on a firm footing here.

Many former coast players have already signified their intention to participate in their favorite sport once more and those in charge are making efforts to interest former Canadian rugby juniors who are now without a full game of any sort as a result of the non-formation of a senior Canuck team this year and last.

To initiate any newcomers interested in the game, Mr. Fraser is planning a short chalk-talk on the principles of the game in Memorial hall Wednesday night starting at 7 p.m. The more important rules and a brief description of the play will be outlined so that novices will have an idea of the game when they turn out next Saturday afternoon on the Tadanac cricket grounds for a workout.

Even strong supporters of the Canadian grid game are turning to English rugby now since they have no way of enjoying their own game. Among them is Jack Salter who was prominent in the grid game at Toronto. Former coast English players include W. O. (Windy) Williams, Miller Mason, and a number of others.

Reg Roome, who played scrum half for the University of Toronto, has expressed the hope that Nelson will get busy and organize a team so that a little competition can be enjoyed.

Over 20 have agreed to turn out next Saturday.

Smugglers, it seems, were sometimes poets. In an old den at Leighon-Sea, beside some broken rumkegs, was found recently a leather-bound volume of Latin verses, dated 1630.

Convicts Plan an Underworld Baseball Series

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Oklahoma penitentiary Outlaws—featuring a second baseman who has stolen 23 bases this season—challenged the Texas penitentiary nine tonight to an "underworld series" for the southwest prison baseball championship.

The Outlaws have met some of the best semi-pro teams in Oklahoma, winning 19 and losing 13 games.

Marion Daniels, the second baseman who has stolen all those bases this season, has hit .416 in 32 games.

COWBOY FOOTBALLER

RALEIGH, N.C., (CP).—"Hunk" Anderson, coaching at North Carolina State College, has a bona fide cowboy on his football squad, Everett Robinson, who hails from Wallace, Ida., and says he has "rode the range." The cowboy was a freshman at Notre Dame and went along with Anderson when he left his alma mater.

ORILLIA IS IN BOXLA FINALS

Swamp Elmwood 23-8 to Earn Trip West for Mann Cup

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1 (CP).—Orillia's champion Terriers advanced to the 1935 Canadian lacrosse finals against the Pacific coast's Richmond Farmers with a sweeping 23-8 victory over the Elmwood Patricians here tonight.

The 1934 Dominion titlists had things their own way for most of the bruising sudden-death semi-final. They boxed the Pats in their territory for most of the game, seldom giving them a chance to break away.

The experienced Mann cup holders overwhelmed the young and ambitious Pats from the start. Only in the last quarter did the Pats put up a stern battle. The Terriers scored 15 goals in the first three periods, against Elmwood's five. In the final stanza, the Pats held down the easterners' scoring to eight counters, while they ran in another three tallies themselves to make the final score read: Orilla 23; Elmwood 8.

Lanky "Toar" Munro, though not high-scoring man, was the standout for Orillia. From his defence position he started play after play and repeatedly stopped the Pats' rushes single-handed.

Seldom did the Dominion champions miss any passes and their shooting was deadly. The Pats, on the other hand, were loose in their passing and failed to capitalize on several chances. Tommy Cooper was easily Elmwood's best player.

Hammond Ousted From Garden Post

Griffis Succeeds Him; Patrick Still Boss of Hockey Outfit

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The struggle of the "embattled colonels" for control of New York's great sports arena, Madison Square Garden, apparently reached its final round today as Col. John S. Hammond lost his position as chairman of the board of directors.

He was replaced by Stanton Griffis, a partner in the brokerage firm of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., as the Garden's new board of directors, chosen last Friday after a prolonged proxy battle between Hammond and Col. John R. Kilpatrick, president, met for the first time.

Kilpatrick was again named president of the corporation and of its subsidiary, New York Rangers, professional hockey club, as had been anticipated. The latter position was formerly held by Hammond.

It was said by officials following the meeting that no change in policies was contemplated and that important personnel of the organization would be unchanged "for the time being."

James Johnstone, Garden matchmaker, will continue his duties, and Lester Patrick manager of the hockey team, who was renamed a vice-president at the meeting, will remain in his managerial position.

NO CUB PITCHER HAS EVER WON A WORLD SERIES BUT THEY HAVE AN EDGE OVER COCHRANE'S HURLERS

Streak of 21 Hurlers in Win Steak of 21

This is the third and final of a series analyzing the strength of the world series rivals).

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 30 (AP)—Chicago Cubs, one of the youngest pennant winning teams in baseball history with an age average of but 26 years, haven't a pitcher who ever won a world series games but they figure to hold an edge over Mickey Cochrane's moundsmen.

Up until Sept. 4, before the Cubs hurlers touched off the great winning streak that won the flag, the Tiger pitchers, who then had eased up on their superb rush, stacked up as the better mound staff. But the comparative finishes have been great contrasts.

The work of Charlie Grimm's pitchers in the 21-game winning streak has been so sensational that starting hurlers were able to go the full route in 18 out of 21 engagements. Over the spectacular streak only 24 pitchers were employed, holding the opposition to 48 runs, an average of 2.28 runs a contest.

CUBS "BIG FOUR"

With a staff as "hot" as that, you can't deny the Cubs 'big four." Lon Warneke, Charlie Root, Bill Lee and Larry French a margin over the Tiger "big four', Schoolboy Rowe, Elden Auker, Tom Bridges and Alvin Crowder.

Comparing the stars:

Warneke and Auker: Warneke, a cool workman with a lightning fast ball, is the chief reliance of the Cub staff and a hard man to beat. Auker delivers a tricky underhand ball. There isn't a pitcher like him in the National league. Both had earned run average of 3.51 in the season just closed.

Root and Bridges: Tommy may be Cochrane's best bet. When he's right with his great curve, he's invincible. Root may be soup for Hank Greenberg's home run bat, but he's a smart, fast ball pitcher. Root's earned run average for the season is 3.78 to Bridges' 4.86.

Lee and Rowe: Rowe, flashing his 1934 form again, has the edge if he stays "hot." He has everything when right. Lee throws a low, fast ball and is one of the fastest improving pitchers in baseball, a six foot three giant with a world of speed, the percentage pitching champion of the National league with 20 victories, six defeats and an earned run average of 3.60 compared to 19, 13, and 3.65 for Rowe.

Ottawa's Quinn

Frank Quinn, an outside wing, who can tackle and receive forward passes, is again with Ottawa Rough Riders this season. Quinn has been with the Ottawa club before, and is considered a valuable bulwark.

GOLF

BY ALEX MORRISON

There is nothing more exasperating than to take two or more shots to get out of trouble. You don't mind being in a bunker if you get out on your first try.

The added strokes are invariably caused by mistakes that can easily be avoided. A common mistake is that of edging forward with the feet until the ball is opposite the right foot. This makes you strike the ball a descending blow. If the ball gets off the ground or out of the sand at all, it doesn't fly high enough to clear all trouble, with the result that you have to take another whack at it.

If you would make a habit of playing these shots with the ball off your left foot, you'd have little or no trouble raising it to clear all obstacles. The forward position of the ball makes it easier for you to get under it and strike it with an open clubface. Watch your stance in the rough and in sand.

DICKERING ON FOR BIG BOUT

$50,000 Separates the Schmeling-Louis Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, and Mike Jacobs, promoter of the Joe Louis-Max Baer fight, were only $50,000 apart today in their effort to come to an agreement which would match the former champion with the Detroit sensation here next June.

Schmeling cabled his American manager, Joe Jacobs, that he would come to the United States for a match with Louis for $250,000 with the privilege of 35 per cent of the gate and $5000 training expenses. Mike Jacobs countered with an offer of $200,000 and $5000 training expenses, but refused to consent to the 35 per cent.

Both Mike and Joe left tonight for Detroit to confer with financial interests regarding the holding of the match in the motor city.

LONDON, (CP).—On account of his health, C. F. Walters, Worcestershire captain and England cricketer, has resigned as secretary of Worcestershire. He has intimated he does not wish to be considered for the captaincy next year but hopes to be able to play frequently for the county.

—WORLD SERIES— SNAPSHOTS

By BILL BRAUCHER

HENRY GREENBERG

The Tigers' first baseman is the greatest Jewish player baseball ever has known . . . Henry (Hank) Greenberg . . . only two in the history of the game can be compared with the six-foot four-inch star of the Tigers — Johnny Kling, former catcher for the Cubs, and Buddy Myer, present second baseman of the Senators.

Greenberg

For years without success, John McGraw sought a Jewish star for the Giants . . . oddly Greenberg was born and raised in the Bronx . . . and was snatched away from both New York teams by Jean Dubuc, Tiger scout.

Greenberg's punch and boundless energy and ambition were strong factors in Tiger success last year, Hank's first full year in a Detroit uniform . . . with 201 hits he ran his teammate, Charley Gehringer, a close second in the hit column. Charley leading the league in total safeties with 214.

The tall tower of the Tigers hasn't yet reached his peak . . . he is only 24 years old, his birthday, January, 1911 . . . he was graduated by James Monroe high in New York and enrolled in New York university, but did not stay there long before being scouted by the Detroit club.

He was sent to Hartford in 1930 and finished the season with Raleigh . . . the next year he played with Evansville in the Three-Eye . . . there followed a season at Beaumont where he hit 39 homers and made the acquaintance of Dizzy Dean, now ace of the Cards.

Before the last world series Dean boasted he would stand Greenberg on his ear . . . and he just about did . . . Dean struck Hank out five times during the series, three times in the last game . . . but for all that Hank is leading the league this year with runs batted in, hitting close to the top . . . Hank did hit one of Dizzy's shoots for a home run in the first game of the series.

ELON HOGSETT

Because he appears mostly in relief roles, Chief Hogsett, southpaw of the Tigers, is not over-emphasized in the typed word . . . but he showed during the last world series that he is effective in the pinches, and that's what a relief pitcher is supposed to be.

Hogsett

The Chief was called upon for relief duty in the first, third and seventh games against the Cardinals. In first game he pitched three and a third scoreless innings . . . in the third game he hurled four innings without allowing a run after Bridges had been slugged out of the box . . . in the last game he was one of the half dozen Detroit pitchers who failed to stop the rampant Cardinals.

This year he has been doing heap big first-rate, first-aid duty . . . he has a screeching fast ball with a hop on it imparted by a sweeping side-arm motion . . . lack of control has been his weakness, but he has improved with age.

The Chief is not in the chicken class . . . he was born at Brownell, Kas., November 2, 1903 part Cherokee Indian, partly of English descent . . . he was married seven years ago to Mabel Edith Wilson, of his home town.

The tall tribesman's full name is Elon Chester Hogsett . . . after high school days in Brownell, he joined up with Cushing of the Southwest league . . . he spent five years in the minors before going to Detroit . . . four years ago Detroit sent him to Toronto with a lame arm . . . but he came back the following year and won 11 games for the Tigers.

When the Chief was with Montreal, six years ago, the Iroquois took him into their tribe, christening him Ranantasse, which means "strong arm."

MAN TO WATCH

DETROIT, (CP).—Ervin (Pete) Fox, Detroit outfielder, estabished a world series record in 1934 by banging out six doubles against the Cardinals. . . . And Manager Mickey Cochrane set a new mark by using six pitchers in one game, the final.

DOMESTIC BUSINESS PICKING UP IN U.S. FOREIGN TRADE IS DOWN

Smallest Balance in 40 Years Forecast for the Year

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Despite the quickening pace of domestic business activity reported from many quarters, semi-official estimates today forecast that United States foreign trade for 1935 would show the smallest favorable balance in 40 years.

At the same time, the commerce department issued figures for August, showing little net change from the preceding month, but revealing a deep drop in Russian purchases of United States commodities.

Notwithstanding the trade agreement with Russia signed in July, under which the Soviet guaranteed to buy $30,000,000 worth of United States goods annually, exports fell from $5,520,000 in July to $826,000 in August. A slash in Soviet purchases of cotton and machinery accounted for the difference.

The chamber of Commerce of the United States issues coincidently an analysis of recent foreign trade which asserted that manufactured articles were displacing farm products as the foremost articles of export.

$27 MILLIONS TO GOOD

With four months of 1935 still to run, the year's exports exceeded imports by a scant $27,000,000. A better showing was predicted for the rest of the year by officials who maintain a sharp watch of such statistics. At most, they said, the last four months will not increase the favorable balance by more than $70,000,000.

Thus a maximum of less than $100,000,000 was estimated for the year. Not since 1895 has the excess of exports or imports fallen below that figure. The last unfavorable balance of trade was in 1893. Last year's favorable balance was $778,000,000; in 1933 it was $225,080,000, and in 1932 $288,000,000, while imports aggregated $1,341,000,000. For the same period of 1934 exports added up to exactly the same figure as this year, but imports were $31,000,000 less, or $1,110,000,000.

STERLING LOWEST SINCE MAY 16

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (CP)—The sterling rate dropped to the lowest level since May 16 in the foreign exchange markets today. Easiness prevailed all day, and the pound closed at 4.90¾, its low for the day, for a loss of ⅝ cent.

The Canadian dollar was quoted at a discount of 1 5-16 per cent as against 1 7-32 per cent yesterday. The French franc closed unchanged at 6.59 cents.

PRICES PUSHED UP AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1 (CP)—Grains pushed up vigorously on the Winnipeg grain exchange today, aided by the support of export sale of 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in continuing their recovery from last week's drastic declines.

Wheat prices closed 1⅞ to 1½ cents above Monday's close, with October at 92¾, November 93⅜, December 93¾ to 93¾ and May 97 to 97⅛ cents. At Liverpool and Chicago prices closed respectively, 1⅝d to 3⅝ cents higher.

Shippers' offers were dearer, Liverpool reported today, with good demand for Canadian wheat still apparent. Fair-sized quantities of high-grade wheat were sold for shipment from Vancouver.

Trading continued dull in the cash-grain section, with lightness of offerings restricting sales. Spreads on most lower grades of wheat eased sharply. In quiet trading, coarse grains prices moved higher with wheat.

Mines Irregular as Volume Down

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP)—The mining section of the Toronto exchange opened the new month with irregular price movements and volume down.

The recent advance for Bralorne was extended by 25 cents to 5.25. Pioneer gained 5 cents, McIntyre ⅝ and Wright-Hargreaves lost 35. McKenzie pushed up 8 cents to 1.08 and closed at the top.

Falconbridge gained 20 cents to 4.25. Silvers were slow with Eldorado off 2 cents and Castle 1. Oil shares were quiet and steady.

WALL STREET IS LOWER

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—A last minute flurry of selling in the rails brought liquidation into the other groups in the stock market today and the list finished with net losses of fractions to a point or more.

Up to just before the close, the general market had made headway uphill for fair gains under the leadership of the motors and specialties, some of which bumped through to new highs for the year.

Brokers said the sell-off in the rails was the result of a somewhat discouraged feeling about the outlook for this section.

The ever present spectacle of various roads failing by a wide margin to earn fixed charges was emphasized, observers said, by further Wall street reflection over the financial problems confronting the New Haven, in spite of the steadiness of the road's shares today as October 1 interest obligations were met. The shares had broken sharply the previous session.

Industrials Hold

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP)—Late in today's session of the Toronto industrial share market prices began to fall in with the last-minute sell-off on the New York market but the turn came too late to erase the balance of the day's gains.

Distillers-Seagrams at 25¼ lost ¾ net while Walkers gained ¼. Brewers & Distillers dropped 5 cents.

Oils stocks stood up well. Nickel took the count for a small loss but Consolidated Smelters finished ¾ up at 171. Ford A held a gain of ⅛ and C. P. R. and Brazilian were off ⅛ each.

Canada Packers hit 4¾ to a new high at 72 on comparatively small turnover.

POUND OFF; U. S. DOLLAR HIGHER

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP)—Irregularity marked trading today on Montreal foreign exchanges. The pound sterling lost 3-16 of a cent at $4.96 15-16 while the United States dollar rose 1-16 of 1 per cent to 15-16 per cent premium and the franc .01 of a cent to 6.68 cents.

SMELTERS DOWN

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP)—A decline in outside markets communicated itself to the Montreal stock exchange today.

Associated Breweries jumped ¾ to 10 and small gains were shown by Brazilian Traction, Canadian Celanese, and Canadian General Electric preferred. International Power and Paper preferred rose 2¾ points to 17 and Western Grocers advanced 2 points to 45.

Broadest decline in the paper group was shown by Canada Northern Power, with a loss of ⅞ at 20½.

Consolidated Smelters eased ½ at 170.

Expect Heavier Apple Movement

One Full Car Shipped to Date; Six Mixed, From Nelson

To date apple shipments from the district through the Associated Growers at Nelson have been fairly light, but this week should see a big pickup when export shipments start.

Since the first of September six mixed cars of apples, crabapples, pears, plums and prunes have moved and recently a straight car of Wealthies was shipped through the Associated Growers.

Cox Oranges and McIntosh are the next varieties scheduled to be moved.

CHICAGO WHEAT SOARS 4 CENTS

War Expectation Is Cause; Above $1 Bushel

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—A war market developed in wheat today, and prices whirled upward almost 4 cents a bushel.

General speculative buying came from reports current that in various quarters war in East Africa was expected within a week. Evidence of broadening of domestic demand for flour acted as an additional stimulus.

Wheat closed buoyant 2⅜ to 3⅜ higher, December 102¾ to 102⅞, corn 1 to 1½ up, December 58⅞ to 59, oats ⅛ to ½ advanced, and provisions 17 to 25 off.

Right at the outset, wheat prices showed a pronounced upward trend, and bounded above $1 a bushel both for December and May delivery here. Strained political conditions in Europe, together with alarm over drought in Argentina, were mainly responsible.

RAILS UNSETTLE BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—A sudden wave of selling in rails unsettled the bond market during the final hour today.

New Haven ended 2 points lower to ½ higher.

Foreign bonds were fairly steady.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS POINT-OF-SHOPPING ADVERTISING!

It is a rare person or family who can go for long without buying something. Pantry, bathroom, wardrobe and household needs must be supplied daily.

With few exceptions they are satisfied at the retail store.

Since the newspaper is the primary advertising medium of the retailer, the newspaper reader turns consciously to its advertising columns—ready to buy.

MORE ABOUT BENNETT TALKS

ple have maintained law and order in the face of the greatest provocation offered by men who go about preaching Communism.

"When I hear appeals to passion and prejudice to belittle the institutions of your country, I know we are on the highway to ruin. We must get beyond that. It sounds good but it leads to disaster."

Mr. Bennett expressed satisfaction that when existing Canadian bonds matured or become callable the people would be glad to refund them at lower interest rates. In any event there had never been and never would be any hint of repudiation.

MILLION FOR MINING

Liberal Leader Mackenzie King's references in Vancouver to his party's plan for mining development, Mr. Bennett said, indicated Mr. King's lack of knowledge of what had transpired in recent months. The government had appropriated $1,000,000 and sent out an army of young men throughout Canada prospecting Canadian mineral resources and mapping out possibilities for development.

He desired not to be partisan but he considered the manner in which his opponents dismissed the existance of a depression to make political argument, was "nothing less than an insult to the people of this country."

Accusing opposition speakers of decrying their own country in the course of campaign speeches, Mr. Bennett was sorry politics led Canadians to "belittle their own countrymen whose courage and vision have enabled Canada to maintain her place in the world during the most critical years of her existence." Platform arguments had been advanced by his opponents on trade, "based upon untrue statements," he said.

MUST BE U.S. MARKETS

When campaign posters urged voters to support Liberals and restore the markets lost by Bennett and Stevens, the prime minister said, they must be referring to the market lost in Canada by United States.

Under a Liberal government Canada had lost the United States market. The government of that day had feared to impose retaliatory tariffs "lest we provoke them." But the Conservative government had lost no time in raising tariffs against United States goods, "and we have no apology to make for it."

The Liberal government had secured an agreement with France that Canadian wheat would always enjoy the minimum tariff. "But France increased the minimum tariff five times in one year and it reached $1.60 a bushel. That's the Liberal way.

"We did it differently with France," Mr. Bennett said. "We made an agreement and we told France that if they made it any more difficult for Canada to get wheat into France we would make it equally difficult for them to get their wines into Canada. They said that was fair enough. But Liberals say we should not bargain."

WILL BROADEN TRADE

The Empire trade agreements negotiated in 1932 had brought increased prosperity and assured markets in the greatest consuming country in the world. "And they prattle about us losing markets." From Montreal domestic export had increased from $115,500,000 in 1932 to $134,300,000 in 1935, and in the same period exports to Empire countries increased 50 per cent, Mr. Bennett said, as a result of the Ottawa agreements.

His government would go on negotiating trade agreements and broadening trade wherever possible, Mr. Bennett said. "But I will prefer no country over Canada, nor give any country an advantage over the workers of our own. We are endeavoring to make an agreement with United States, but any bargain reached will not be at the expense of any Canadian. Nor is there any need. There are many commodities we can exchange to mutual advantage."

In championing the cause of Japan in the dispute between that country and Canada over trade restrictions, the prime minister said Liberal Leader Mackenzie King had prevented any further negotiations. Japan, assured of Liberal sympathy, would go no further until after the election, hoping for a Liberal victory, he declared.

HURTING COUNTRY

In England, United States and Canada there was more money than ever before, Mr. Bennett said, but lack of confidence in commercial ventures at this time prevented negotiations of loans.

"Yet we have people going around the country preaching the doctrine of hate, envy and all uncharitableness, further lessening the confidence of the people in this country.

"You can't build a great nation that way. The rich have the same rights as the poor. When I hear appeals to passion and prejudice, attempts to belittle the institutions of your country, I know we are on the highway to ruin."

Mentioning the women who knitted beside the guillotine during the French Revolution and the days of Lenin, Mr. Bennett declared: "We must go beyond all that. We must frown upon those who would destroy the institutions built up by patient toil of a great people."

Speaking of the central bank, Mr. Bennett said the Reconstruction leader had announced his intention of "using the printing press for the purposes of the central bank."

He was not certain where Mr. King stood on monetary matters but said that on the coast a few nights ago "Mr. King stood up and with his hands on his heart declared that, far down in my heart I am a radical. I don't know what he meant but a Liberal vote will be a vote for a leader who declares himself to be a radical."

MORE ABOUT BRITAIN-FRANCE

The games will bring into action the elaborate system of air attack defences extending from Paris eastward to the German border. "Attacking" bombers will take off from Metz and Nancy toward Pantoise and Beauvais, to the west and northwest of Paris.

Conferences took place here today among Premier Laval, British Ambassador Sir George Clerk and Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerutti. Following these meetings, Laval called the cabinet into session for Friday afternoon.

It was understood that the British minister for league affairs, Anthony Eden, would stop in Paris tomorrow en route from London to Geneva Meanwhile the French ambassador to Great Britain, Charles Corbin, called at the foreign office in London under instructions from his government for an important conference.

ROME, Oct. 1 (AP).—The newspaper La Tribuna, referring to the strengthening of the British Mediterranean fleet, said today: "Everyone knows what to call such a monstrous absurdity—The most incredible aggression.'"

Italian officials said they doubted if the League of Nations would vote unanimously for military sanctions should hostilities break out between Italy and Ethiopia. An authoritative person contended: "Britain on her own account has anticipated the program measures of the league."

(A Reuters London dispatch from Addis Ababa said 16 Italian submarines were reported stationed in the Red Sea and in event of war would try to intercept munitions and other war supplies which might be shipped to Ethiopia from other countries.)

"MENACING THREAT"

Italian quarters called Ethiopia's impending mobilization a "menacing threat" of war and said there had been no Italian advance across Ethiopia's border.

They asserted the danger of a sudden outbreak of war would come from Ethiopia, not this country.

Newspapers resumed their bitter attitude toward Great Britain, following a lull when tension appeared eased because of the exchange of mutual assurances.

Il Tevere published a cartoon called "Suezide" showing "John Bull" sitting between the closing gates of the Suez canal.

Officials claimed their scouts in East Africa had detected the presence of strong Ethiopian troops in areas near Italy's frontiers, supposedly evacuated.

MORE ABOUT CANCER TESTS

with his digestive fluid in May, June, July and August, this year.

TWO AT WORK

Two have returned to work apparently well. Four died. The pain of nine others is less. In a number of cases the cancerous growths appear smaller.

In about one-third of the cases little change is apparent.

Dr. Connell describes his digestive fluid briefly. It is a protein product. He does not go into the history of other fluids, somewhat though not exactly similarly obtained, that have been used to treat cancer.

This medical history is to the effect that any foreign substance, proteins included, when injected into the human body, is apt to produce temporary results, like less pain, shrinkage of the cancer and better apparent health for a time.

"It is altogether too soon," Dr Connell states, "to assess the ultimate value of the method. Weeks to months must elapse before we can determine if the cancer masses continue to show shrinkage and absorption till their complete disappearance may occur."

DIGESTS ONLY CANCER CELLS

Dr. Connell belives his cancer digestive stuff is an enzyme. The digestive enzyme best known to the public is pepsin. There are many other enzymes known and still more unknown but suspected to exist.

This cancer enzyme is one of the unknowns. Dr. Connell tells why he thinks it is an enzyme, why, if he is right, it ought to digest only cancer cells, and how he makes it.

He is an eye specialist. In studying cataract of the eye he observed that enzymes would dissolve, or digest, the proteins of the cataract and cause the cataract to disappear. But they also dissolved the other, healthy proteins of the eye.

He had an idea that bacteria could be caused to manufacture an enzyme that would dissolve only cataract. He tried it and reported, in a widely publicized medical paper, that it worked.

From that came the idea of making a digestive fluid that would dissolve cancer, and cancer alone.

HIS REASONING

In his laboratory he put some bacteria named B. histolyticus on some cancer tissue taken from a woman's breast. Only the proteins in this tissue were given to the germs. They destroyed—broke down—the proteins completely.

In this breakdown there was nothing new. The histolyticus germs belong to a large class of bacteria all of which destroy proteins, and hence are called "proteolytic micro-organism."

Many of the world's bad smells from decaying substances are produced by this breakdown trick of the proteolytic germs.

Dr. Connell — remembering the cataract—reasoned that his germs in order to break down the cancer protein would have to manufacture an enzyme to aid the disolution.

He reasoned, too, that this enzyme would be "specific," or that it would be able to digest only cancer protein. He had to assume, too, that the cancer protein is different from that of healthy flesh.

Both lines of reasoning received some verification when he took the liquid left by the bacteria after their cancer protein meal. There was something in this liquid that dissolved cancer cells, in glass dishes in the laboratory, faster than ordinary.

The next step was to find out whether this liquid could be made sterile and safe to inject into the human body. This step was made and Dr. Connell's article stated that the cancer digestive fluid has proven itself harmless—except to cancers.

TO PROBE DEATH

YORKTON, Sask., Oct. 1 (CP).—Royal Canadian Mounted police and the Saskatchewan attorney-general's department tonight pressed investigation into the death of Peter Serelo, 65, Bedfordale district farmer who died last Thursday. A year ago reports were that Serelo was in serious condition at his home but his wife would not allow police or medical men on the premises. Finally when police did see Serelo his lower lip appeared to have been bitten off. He refused to say anything to police at the time.

HUDSON, Ont., Oct. 1 (CP)—Pakwash lake, the lake of death 140 miles from here, claimed its 40th victim during the week-end, it is learned here. William Smith, 19, fell from a scow and was drowned.

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP)—In a series of eight robberies, most of which were committed in the central district of the city, false key experts and second-storey men succeeded in getting away with loot totalling approximately $2500 today.

MORE ABOUT BRITISH BELIEF

tant to discuss what was at present a hypothetical circumstance.

British diplomatic circles have slight hope that warfare in Ethiopia will be entirely averted. The prospect of immediate and spectacular success in collective action also is remote, it was reliably learned.

NO LONE BRITISH ACTION

However, the government believes the machinery of the League of Nations will prove effective in bringing hostilities to an end. In any event, Britain is resolved never to embark on isolated action. Official circles feel this country has played its full part and some regret was evidenced that some other countries apparently had not acted as decisively.

Hope was expressed that France would be satisfied with the statement of Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, in his letter of the French ambassador, Charles Corbin. It declared Britain stood for collective action against unprovoked acts of aggression. The foreign office and the cabinet believe that public opinion is against detailed commitments regarding hypothetical conditions.

Britain made clear her concern over Italian policy in East Africa when the Walwal incident first upset Italo-Ethiopian relations, the Canadian Press was told authoritatively. Italian propaganda asserted that no such representations were made until Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs, went to Rome at the end of June.

FANTASTIC STORIES

Since last December, the foreign office repeatedly made known to Italian officials that Britain regarded Italy's Anti-Ethiopian stand with apprehension as endangering the whole collective system of Europe.

It was explained that Sir Samuel Hoare's recent mesage to Mussolini was largely due to the appearance of fantastic stories in Italy to the effect that Great Britain "intended to destroy the Italian navy." (The message said the concentration of British warships in the Mediterranean was due to the violent Anti-British campaign waged by Italian newspapers).

The league covenant makes no provision covering the indeterminate period between an act of aggression and the time the league decides upon collective action, the government found. Sub-clause three of article XVI of the covenant provides that all members of the league will stand together in the event of an isolated attack upon one of them, when once collective action is decided upon.

Some smaller powers sought to know if one of them was chosen for an isolated attack whether all league members would stand together. The British government would answer in the affirmative, though admitting the question was not covered specifically in the covenant.

Sir Samuel and Premier Laval of France discussed this point, the Canadian Press learned. It was understood Laval adopted a similar view.

Britain has no intention of allowing the idea of better world distribution of raw materials, to which Sir Samuel referred at Geneva, to be shelved. This is regarded as one of the urgent problems to be taken into account in the next few years.

British key ministers conferred today on the Ethiopian situation. Anthony Eden arrived from Geneva and went direct from Croydon airport to Number 10 Downing street, where he conferred with Prime Minister Baldwin and Sir Samuel.

He is expected to communicate events of the last five weeks at Geneva to his cabinet colleagues at a meeting tomorrow.

A visit to the foreign office by Charles Corbin, the French ambassador, was not clarified.

MORE ABOUT ETHIOPIA ARMS

ORDER CONSULATES EVACUATED

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 1 (AP). — Increasing tension between Italy and Ethiopia led the Italian minister here, Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, to order today the five Italian consulates in Aduwa and Harar provinces evacuated.

Some 200 other Italian consular agents in the interior are trying to reach Addis Ababa, the sudan of Eritrea. They are forced to travel by horse or mule and, because of the boggy roads, are making slow progress.

Floods have marooned four of the agents from Debra Markos on the right bank of the river Nile at Dejen, a week's journey from this capital. Ferries are unable to cross the stream.

CALL TO ARMS SOON

Foreigners, convinced that a general Ethiopian mobilization is imminent, expressed belief that Emperor Haile Selassie would call it this week-end. Such an action, said the Italian minister, would be only a formality. He asserted that all Ethiopian able-bodied men long since have been called to arms.

A mobilization order already is in the hands of all provisional governors and commanders, ready to be posted the instant the emperor gives the command.

POLICEMEN HAVE PICTURES TAKEN
