Jail Kimberley Man After Log Worker Is Shot Down

BULLETS FATAL FOR M. HARMIS; BALL IS HELD

Jealousy Is Believed Behind Shooting at Flagstone

PRELIMINARY IS STARTED, FERNIE

Harmis Is Believed to Have Been Friendly With Ball's Wife

FERNIE, B.C., May 9—Mike Harmis is dead from bullet wounds and James Everett Ball of Kimberley is in the Fernie gaol as the alleged slayer.

The body of Harmis is in the undertaking parlor here and a post mortem is being performed by Dr. Kelman.

The tragedy took place shortly before noon on Wednesday at Western Pine lumber camp, about six miles southeast of Dorr.

According to eye witnesses Ball appeared in the woods about three miles from the camp where Harmis and two others were loading logs on a truck and declared he was going to shoot Harmis.

BALL FIRES

The three took to their heels and Ball fired, the shot taking effect in Harmis' back. Harmis turned off into the woods and made a circuit back to the road about three-quarters of a mile farther on with Ball in pursuit.

The other two in the truck started back to the camp and came in sight of Harmis and Ball a

Bonus Bill Clash Certain Next Week

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP).—An apparently inevitable head-on collision between congress and the White House over the $2,000,000,000 new money bonus bill tonight found both camps arming themselves to the teeth.

Calling in his financial advisers, President Roosevelt prepared to veto the inflationary Patman bill, even though he has not yet received it from congress.

Patman bill leaders frankly feared for time. After private senate polls indicated a veto would be sustained, possibly by as many as five or six votes, they locked the measure up until next week.

No Organic Disease, Just Needed Rest, Says Expert

LONDON, May 9 (CP Cable).—A medical report on the condition of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, made public today, said he had no organic disease, and that all he needed was a period of rest.

The premier took advantage of his visit to London for the royal jubilee to consult a heart specialist. He suffered a slight heart ailment in March.

Mr. Bennett had an audience with the king today. He also attended the meeting of empire premiers and ministers at which the international situation was discussed.

The Canadian premier will sail for Montreal from Liverpool Friday aboard the Duchess of York.

CREATE WORK FOR MEN ON RELIEF

But It Depends Upon Developments Along Financial Lines

VANCOUVER, May 9 (CP).—Some 500 young men would be placed in forest protection work and placer mining this summer by the British Columbia government and it was hoped to create work for married men now on relief, Premier T. D. Pattullo said in a public address tonight. He declared, however, that there must be a different alignment as between the Dominion and provinces in order that economic problems might be solved.

The provincial government expected, in any event, to carry out several million dollars worth of

THEY DIDN'T GET MEDALS

So They Kick to the Government, But in Vain

OTTAWA, May 9 (CP)—Letters of protest have been swamping the government for the last two or three days from Canadians left off the list of 10,000 medals distributed at the silver jubilee of the king. Each expressed indignation that he or she did not receive a medal while somebody else did.

"You can never convince me this country does not want titles,' one of the cabinet ministers said, pointing to the protests he had received. At the same time, he made it clear that no member of the government or any Conservative member had made any recommendations.

The basis of the list was established by the king himself and the government merely acted in a clerk's role. The king listed about 75 categories which he wanted represented on the list. He said, for instance, he wanted to give so many medals to ex-soldiers who had rehabilitated themselves successfully in civil life and the Canadian legion supplied the names. The medical association selected other names and nurses and teachers' organizations. The list was representative, not personal.

Board of Trade Accepts Bid of Tariff Body for Witness

Adopts Report of Gas Committee for a Triple Quiz

Adopting without amendment Thursday the report of the special committee on gasoline prices which found that the profits made by the retailers here were reasonable, which report was laid before the council and published three weeks ago, the Nelson board of trade thereby accepted the committee's recommendations to ask the "government commission" to investigate three matters, (1) freight charges, (2) customs and excise duties, and (3) rebates to dealers.

At the time the board of trade entered on its gasoline inquiry, at the instance of W. K. Esling, M.P., the idea was to see whether there were Kootenay facts to be placed before the royal commission on coal and petroleum, a provincial body to which the Dominion authorities had referred Mr. Esling.

Since then, however, the tariff board has advertised hearings on many phases of the automotive industry and Ottawa wires Tuesday brought information that in connection with Nelson complaints filed by Mr. Esling, the Nelson board was being invited to send a

CANADIANS ON NORTH FLIGHT?

NEW YORK, May 9 (CP).—Reports that two noted aviators of Canada, H. Hollick-Kenyon and J. H. Lymburner, would join the Wilkins-Ellsworth Antarctic expedition scheduled to leave here in October, were heard tonight.

Hollick-Kenyon, of Winnipeg, was understood to be in New York, while Lymburner, another flyer who has carved a name for himself by exploits in Canada, was reported en route to the city.

A projected non-stop flight of 2900 miles across Antarctica is a part of the plans of the expedition headed by Sir Hubert Wilkins and Lincoln Ellsworth.

"PASS-A-BUCK" IDEA EXPLODES IN SPRINGFIELD; BUYERS ARE SCARCE

Early Birds Got the Profits; Late Ones Hold the Sack

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 9 —(AP)—Sad-faced men and woman walked around in a daze tonight in Springfield, seeking vainly for someone to buy their chain letters.

Springfield's "pass-a-buck" development of the original "send-a-dime" idea was back-firing. Those who got in early reaped some profit; others apparently were left waiting for returns.

West Kootenay Will Nominate

W. K. Esling Certain to Be Convention's Choice

Conservatives of West Kootenay are discussing plans for a nominating convention to select a candidate for the forthcoming Dominion election.

So far no date has been set, but this matter is likely to be dealt with soon after the conclusion of the session at Ottawa.

It is taken as a foregone conclusion that there will be only one candidate for the nomination, W. K. Esling, the present member. Mr. Esling has stated that he will accept.

U.B.C. DEGREES ARE PRESENTED

318 Graduates Paid Honors by the Premier, Others

VANCOUVER, May 9 (CP).—The first two decades in the life of the University of British Columbia were concluded today by the pageantry of the twentieth annual congregation before Premier T. D. Pattullo and other leaders of the province as Chancellor R. E. McKechnie handed degrees in three faculties to 318 graduates.

An impressive prize and scholarship list, representing outstanding academic achievements, was announced during the ceremony and the various medals and awards were presented.

The chancellor also conferred the fifteenth honorary degree of doctor of laws and letters (LL.D.), the recipient being J. P. Babcock, chairman of the international fisheries commission on the north Pacific and former deputy minister of fisheries for British Columbia. The honor was in recognition of his internationally known work in fish conservation and control.

Premier Pattullo briefly traced the history of the university, spoke highly of its work and prophesied changes in the political and economic worlds into which the graduates are entering.

ROBERT HERD, FACING CHARGES AT CORBIN, IDENTIFIED BY OFFICERS

Officer Identifies Him as the Man Who Carried Rocks and Struck Him

CORBIN, B.C., May 9 (CP) — Robert Herd, accused of striking Constable W. F. W. Wolfenden of the Vancouver detachment of British Columbia police during a clash between police and striking miners here April 17, was identified by Wolfenden today as his assailant.

Trial of Herd and 16 others arrested following the April 17 disturbance continued today. The men are variously charged with assault, interfering with police officers and vagrancy.

Constable Irvine testified he had seen Herd standing in a belligerent attitude, with a rock in each hand, threatening Wolfenden.

Herd stated in defence that he left the crowd as the disturbance began and climbed up an adjacent hill to help a woman he heard moaning there. Clarence Petrie and T. D. Sanderson, witnesses, corroborated this testimony.

Herd was also accused of assaulting Constable Armison and the latter identified the accused as having been in the crowd of strikers, throwing rocks. He alleged he was struck by one of these rocks and he arrested Herd.

DUMP DUTY PUTS B.C. GAS HIGHER

Vancouver Man Who Tried to Import It Hits a Snag

VANCOUVER, May 9 (CP).—One reason why not much of Seattle's cheap gasoline is imported for the benefit of Vancouver car owners was described to Mr. Justice M. A. MacDonald at today's sitting on the fuel inquiry.

Frank Walsh, who operates his own service station on East Hastings street, buying at 26 cents and selling at 30 cents, heard about the possibilities of direct importation.

He went into all the figures, freight, customs, sales tax—every conceivable factor and found he could get his gasoline from Seattle laid down at his Vancouver station for 6 or 7 cents a gallon less than he was paying.

"Why did you not go ahead?" he was asked.

"Because the customs department told me they would put on whatever dump duty was necessary to bring my cost up."

British Aircraft Builders Advised by Governm't Not Take Foreign Orders

Will Speed Up Plane Building; Educate Whole Nation

LONDON, May 9 (CP Cable)—Drafting plans which may call for doubling the home strength of the Royal Air force at a cost of $120,000,000 over and above the increased air estimated already brought down, the air ministry today advised British aircraft manufacturers not to accept foreign orders without consulting the ministry.

While the ministry was warning manufacturers of the likelihood of a considerable demand on their facilities by the government it was forecast that compulsory air raid drill may soon be a feature of the life of the country. It is understood a country-wide scheme is in preparation for making the population of the United Kingdom "air-raid-minded" as part of the comprehensive plans for protection of the civil population.

REDS BLAMED FOR STRIKE AT THE PIONEER; CLAIM CONDITIONS GOOD

Sloan Says Everything Done to Make the Men and Their Families Comfortable; Will Not Pay Dollar Raise as Demanded

VANCOUVER, May 9 (CP)—David Sloan, managing director of Pioneer Gold Mines of British Columbia, Ltd., today blamed "red agitators" for the strike of more than 600 miners in the Bridge River district. The men are demanding increased wages and better living and working conditions.

Mr. Sloan returned from Goldbridge last night to confer with company officials and Austin C. Taylor, president of Braiorne mines, Ltd., which is also affected by the strike.

"We told the men that if they could point out one camp in Canada which offered better working conditions than we do, we would meet them," Mr. Sloan declared. "The strike was organized by red agitators."

Mr. Sloan stated that while the nominal wage scale of $4 to $5 per day prevailed at the Pioneer mine, many men received bonuses running well over $2 per day per man. He said hospital, tennis courts and other amenities and necessities for social welfare had been instituted to make the camp comfortable for the men.

He said the Pioneer company had offered a substantial wage increase, while declining the $1 per day raise, but the offer was refused.

New Army Tank of United States Can Go 70 Miles Per Hour Over Highways

40 Miles Per Hour Overland; Lengthening List of Deadly Defence Devices Evolved in Secret Across the Line

(By Cecil B. Dickson, Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP) — With rapid-fire navy guns, a new high-speed army tank and more powerful explosives to the forefront, the nation's military forces are reported to have evolved, in secret, a lengthening list of deadly defence devices.

Guarded jealously from public scrutiny, the new inventions reportedly were nearer perfection as the result of costly post-war experiments.

Officials were reticent even to name some of the weapons and scientific devices now being developed. But a survey listed some of these new assurances against foreign invasion:

THE ARMY

The Army—Still unphotographed seven and 15-ton tanks with improved armor protection, greater gun power and a speed range of 70 miles an hour over highways and 40 miles overland;

Fast light combat cars equipped with sponge rubber tires, turrets, .50 calibre machine guns and one pounder;

A pack Howitzer which, though it weighs only 2700 pounds and can be carried by six mules, is claimed by experts to shoot as far as the famous French 75 mm gun of the World War;

Semi-automatic rifles for doughboys with three times the firing speed of the standard springfield rifle.

THE NAVY

The Navy—Five and six-inch rapid fire guns with greater ranges and armor-piercing, more than 250 of which are being manufactured at the naval gun factory here;

Greater fuel efficiency for boosting the striking cruising radius; ammunition which throws projectiles further and makes torpedoes more deadly;

New chemical warfare defenses; diving bells for rescuing crews of sunken submarines; sound detectors for locating enemy submarines, surface vessels and aircraft; stronger and lighter armor; gyro control for range finders.

AIR SERVICE

Air Service—Faster and more powerful armed planes; larger machine guns firing more penetrating bullets; more destructive bombs; new anti-aircraft guns with director fire control; greater efficiency in power dive bombing; development of gigantic flight formations; protection against radio interference; arresting gears for aircraft carriers.

KING GEORGE

vious occasions during the celebration of the royal silver jubilee, not all the pomp and panoply could hide notes of genuine personal affection.

While the popular enthusiasm continues unabated, tomorrow will provide a lull in the state ceremonies. On Saturday, providing the weather is fine, Their Majesties will make the first of four projected drives through sectors of London, while the King's sons make jubilee visits to Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

PRINCE TO CARDIFF

The Prince of Wales will leave for Cardiff, the Duke of York for Edinburgh and the Duke of Gloucester for Belfast.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada will sail tomorrow for home on board the Duchess of York, departing from Liverpool.

Thanksgiving services will be held in all churches on Sunday and there will be a state ball at Buckingham palace on Tuesday.

The Empire prime ministers had their final gathering with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and members of the British cabinet today. Some however are remaining over for some time, particularly Prime Minister J. A. Lyons of Australia and Prime Minister G. W. Forbes of New Zealand, who have important trade negotiations to conclude.

KING TALKS OF EQUALITY

Their Majesties today were enthroned on a dais in the vast, gray stone Westminster hall, about them grouped many members of the royal family, while in the hall were members of the house of commons and house of lords, Indian princes, the Empire representatives and the English judiciary.

"The mother of parliaments and her children, grown to full estate, stand now upon equal terms in common allegiance to the crown," His Majesty remarked after thanking the spokesmen of the lords and commons for their loyal addresses.

"The unity of the British Empire is no longer expressed by the supremacy of the time-honored parliament that sits here at Westminster. The crown is the historic symbol that unites this great family of nations and races scattered over every quarter of the earth."

PRIDE AND THANKFULNESS

He spoke with "pride and thankfulness" of the fact the British parliamentary system had survived the shocks that in recent years have destroyed other Empires and other liberties. The ancient constitution, ever adaptable to change, had met and satisfied new democratic demands at home and over the seas.

He had a word for those who lost their lives in the Great War and for those who still live on, wounded or blinded, "that we might continue to enjoy the blessings of life." He spoke of the hardships that followed the great conflict, and expressed his admiration "for the great-heartedness of my people for steadfast fortitude and the unbending will to overcome which they have ever shown in their anxieties.

"I sympathize deeply with those who have endured the burden and the sadness of unemployment," he went on. "It is a source of comfort to me to feel that from these times of trial there has grown up throughout our community a stronger feeling of fellowship of one with another."

And his voice faltered, and there was a suspicion of tears in the Queen's eyes as well as his own, as he concluded: "I have been blessed in all my work in having beside me my dear wife, of whom you have spoken so kindly. I give thanks to Almighty God who thus far has sustained me and my people, and I pray that we may continue to pursue the cause of freedom and progress in a spirit of peace, tolerance and understandings."

representative to Calgary or Vancouver to testify.

Acting on direct word from Ottawa, the board Thursday named Chairman C. F. McHardy of the special gasoline committee to testify at Vancouver before the tariff board. Reasons for the spreads in car prices as between Canada and the United States are one of the phases that Mr. McHardy has taken up in personal representations. Expenses of the witness will be paid by the Dominion.

While the committee's report was before the board Adolph Browne, a member of the committee, read a letter on the Calgary price situation received by Smedley's garage from Irving's garage, Ltd., and handed to him by H. B. Gore. Among other things the manager wrote:

"We buy three-star from the Imperial at 29½ cents and sell at 32½ cents, but if we bought all Imperial gas we would get it all one cent cheaper per gallon. We presume the same would apply to all the other major companies. As to us being able to operate on three cent turnover, we have no choice in the matter as the retail price is set by the big companies—that is, on their products. It is not that we can—we have to."

The writer discussed Turner Valley gasoline, concluding that its effect was to reduce the sales of the high grade but not to reduce the price, and mentioned a new Turner Valley gas lately introduced for which there was a great demand and on which five cents gross could be made.

Mr. Gore read a letter from Hudson Motors, giving the view of the automotive industry as represented by the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, on the tariff board investigation, and showing that the industry itself asked for the inquiry. Mr. Gore referred to the large number of automobile parts that had to be bought by the manufacturers, and suggested that this might have a bearing on the car price question.

W. V. GRAVES WED AT POINT

Bride Is Violet Eileen, Daughter of Mrs. D. Heddle

WILLOW POINT, B.C., May 9—A wedding of interest was solemnized in St. Andrew's-by-the-Lake, Willow Point, May 7 at 2:30 p.m., when Violet Eileen, daughter of Mrs. D. Heddle and the late Walter Palmer of Manitoba, became the wife of Wilfred Vivian Graves son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Graves, Silver King road, Nelson.

The bride was charming in a gown of white crepe with overtunic of embroidered net from her mother's wedding gown. The tulle veil was held with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red carnations.

She entered the church on the arm of her brother Gordon to the strains of the wedding march "Lohengrin," played by Mrs. N. Denny. Miss Audrey Heddle, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Walter Palmer best man.

The church was tastefully decorated with masses of daffodils and spring greenery.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride when some 50 friends and relatives gathered to wish Mr. and Mrs. Graves health and happiness. J. J. Campbell proposed the health of the bride.

Besides a shower of kitchen necessities many lovely gifts were received.

The couple left to spend a short honeymoon in Spokane and will reside in Trail.

organized industries as oil refineries, textiles and furniture.

The granting of Dominion conciliation boards to municipal workers regardless of any objection made by the municipal council concerned was urged in a resolution adopted. The congress also went on record as requesting the attention of the Dominion government be drawn to the miserable conditions prevailing in certain industries and the government be asked to introduce remedial legislation.

Railway problems were considered by the congress in three resolutions adopted. One expressed the congress' determined opposition to any form of railway amalgamation, unification or cooperation.

MacDonald definitely set May 22 as the date for the long-awaited parliamentary debate on imperial defence. This debate has been postponed several times. The new date is expected to allow of a week's time for reflection on Chancellor Adolf Hitler's important statement on German foreign policy, scheduled about May 15.

Details of the expansion program for the Royal Air force, announced when Prime Minister MacDonald affirmed the British intention to maintain parity with the rapidly-evolving new German air force, may be expected during the parliament debate, it was understood. The forecast is that 600 fighting planes will be added within two years. Previous augmented programs had called for building the force up to 1080 planes.

The air ministry's communication to aircraft and engine manufacturers advised them provisionally of considerable demands in connection with the Royal Air force. They were asked to accelerate completion of contracts they already hold so they may be in a position to tender for any new requirements, and to inform the air ministry of any new foreign or civil orders they propose before they commit themselves to them.

A sub-committee of the cabinet is working on the air force plans while a special expert committee has for some weeks now been studying the question of air protection for the civil population.

TWO FOLD IDEA

The basis of the civil protection plan is two-fold, it was learned. First, it is felt night camouflage can be made much more efficient if civilians are properly drilled; and second, the greatest importance is attached to the psychological effect of air raids on the population, therefore measures must be taken to accustom the people to the necessary precautions and to inculcate the requisite degree of popular mass discipline.

The civilian scheme will be entirely directed by government departments working through the municipal authorities.

It is gathered that less importance is attached to the provision of underground shelters, than to mass rehearsals of compulsory air raid drills.

CHAIN LETTERS

day from society matron to bootblack subsided because almost everybody had a letter to sell, thus draining the buyer market dry.

FEW CUSTOMERS

Ten chain letter "factories" yesterday were swamped with customers. Today there were less than five and they waited on stragglers.

One of the scores of notaries who helped certify that the chains were "cheater proof" advanced a bit of inside information when assured of anonymity.

"Quite a lot of people managed, by pushing their letters, to get their investment back," he said. "Quite a few realized from $10 to $15. But thousands were left holding the bag."

A $5 chain, dubbed "the pot of gold club," and a $3 chain, advertised as "the cream of the crop," were glorified developments here on the original dime plan.

The main point was to get on a list, starting at the bottom, give the money to the person heading it, cross out that name and pass the list along to two others. The theory was that each purchaser's name ultimately climbed to the payoff position. Springfield's variation of it was to authenticate the lists before notary publics and work from person to person in the big brackets instead of through the mails.

CORBIN ASSOCIATION REFUSED TO HAVE INVESTIGATION AS A. BELL PANY SHUT MINE SUGGESTED; COM

Deputy Minister of Labor Releases Correspondence

In an official statement issued from Victoria, Adam Bell, deputy minister of labor, who investigated the Corbin situation following the strike which culminated in a riot there April 17, points out that the Corbin Miners' association refused his offer for a board investigation, and declared that the only obstacle confronting the association was the drawing up of a new agreement. Failure to reach an agreement resulted in the closing of the mine, and in submitting his report Mr. Bell makes public correspondence between the various parties concerned. He also quotes from the publication of the Dominion Department of Labor entitled "Labor Organization in Canada, 1931."

Mr. Bell's report is as follows:

Victoria, B. C., May 7—"On April 30th, I submitted, jointly, to the Corbin collieries and to the Corbin Miners' association, certain proposals which, in the light of all the circumstances, constituted what I considered a most practical means towards an effective and permanent settlement.

"My proposals were based upon four main considerations:

1st—That they follow the regular line of procedure in accordance with the laws of Canada.

2nd—That the most effective method would be provided to investigate and dispose of the causes of the present trouble, and thus make possible a more permanent settlement and a better agreement.

3rd—That the means of conciliation and investigation would be carried on under a properly constituted board under the Industrial Disputes act, upon which board, both sides would have equal representation, with a neutral chairman, and that the police would be withdrawn while negotiations were proceeding, during which time, the company would be able to keep operating to the extent that its orders would allow.

4th—That I desired to save all that could possible be saved out of the existing situation.

"Inasmuch as my proposals, mentioned above, were made public, I consider that the replies I have received should be given equal publicity. Therefore, for the information of the public, I quote the following:

CORBIN MINERS REPLY

Corbin Miners' Association,
Corbin, B. C.
May 4th, 1935

Mr. Adam Bell,
Deputy Minister of Labour,
Corbin, B. C.

Dear Mr. Bell:

In answer to your letter dated April 30th, dealing with the present situation in Corbin, also your proposed suggestion of submitting our grievances to a board of conciliation,

Your letter was brought up and discussed and the decision arrived at was that our original grievances do not warrant such a board as advised by you. Of course you will understand, that little better than two months after the strike was called, our agreement expired, which adds another obstacle in arriving to a settlement.

It has been the wish of this organization for some considerable time to have a thorough investigation by those interested from Spokane office, we are certain that if this was done a satisfactory agreement would be arrived at to both parties.

I might state that the only obstacle now confronting the association is the drawing up of a new agreement. Hoping this fully explains the situation, we remain,

Yours very truly,
Corbin Miners' Association,
"John Press' Secretary.

SPOKANE LETTERS

Corbin Collieries Limited.
Spokane, Washington,
May 4th, 1935.

Mr. Adam Bell,
Deputy Minister of Labor,
Victoria, B. C.,

Dear Sir:

Receipt is acknowledge of copy of your letter of April 30th addressed to Mr. E. L. Warburton, our colliery manager.

"The contents of your letter have been given careful consideration by our company. With particular reference to the written undertaking requested from the company by you, we wish to advise our willingness to make immediate application for a board of conciliation under the Industrial Disputes act and to be governed by the findings of said board, in accordance with the Dominion statutes.

We are also willing to comply generally with your further requirements as to operation of No. 3 mine and new development work, insofar as the volume of business and circumstances will permit.

In the employment of any new men, in addition to salaried officials in the employ of the company prior to January 20, 1935, it will show no discrimination against former employees now on strike.

Yours truly,
"A. M. ALLEN"
Secretary-Treasurer

Adam Bell, Esq.,
Deputy Minister of Labour,
Victoria, B.C.

CLOSE MINE

Dear Sir,

Further to our letter of the 4th inst., we now understand that the Corbin Miners' Association has refused to accepted a Board of Conciliation and Investigation under the Industrial Disputes act, as recommended by you.

After giving consideration to all the facts of the case, we have decided that the best course to pursue is to discontinue operations, which we are proceeding to do forthwith.

Yours truly,
Corbin Collieries Limited
"SHERWOOD LETT"
Director.

"As the Corbin Miners' association is a local unit of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada, I thing it is only right, in the public interest, that the following quotation should be known:

"The Mine Workers' Union of Canada, affiliated with the Workers' Unity league, Constitution, Article 28:

"The executive board shall endeavor, as far as possible, to promote the securing of the single district agreement, and through the propagation of the principle, abolish the custom of local agreements.

No agreements must be contracted that provide for the intervention of the Provincial or Federal Departments of Labour in the capacity of an arbitrator or conciliator."

"Further, I would quote from publication of the Dominion Department of Labour entitled "Labour Organization in Canada, 1931," page 164:

"WORKERS' UNITY LEAGUE OF CANADA

The Canadian section of the Red International of Labour Unions is the Workers' Unity League of Canada, which was on December 2, 1931, declared illegal in a Saskatchewan court, has as its purpose, as published in the draft constitution which appeared in The Worker for June 28, 1930, the following:—

To organize the Canadian workers into powerful revolutionary industrial unions, created on the axis of the widest rank and file control; to fight for the defence and improvement of the conditions of the working class, mobilizing and organizing Canadian workers for the final overthrow of capitalism and for the establishment of a Revolutionary Workers' government. Towards this end, the Workers' Unity League of Canada lays down the following organizational structure:

It shall be the task of the W.U.L. to initiate aggressive campaigns of organization in every field of industry, where no organization obtains. The organizations of the unorganized must be the main and central task of the Workers' Unity League of Canada.

In all campaigns unemployed workers must be organized and their activities linked up with the general activities of the revolutionary working class struggle. The unemployed workers must become an integral part of the revolutionary working class movement.

The Workers' Unity League of Canada shall organize left wing oppositional groups in the reformist unions; these oppositional groups must be regarded as the nuclei of industrial unions within the frame work of the craft and patriotic unions, and every effort shall be made to win the membership of the reformist unions for the revolutionary industrial unions."

The foregoing is by no means intended as casting reflection or taint upon all the residents of Corbin, because I honestly believe many of them to be unfortunate and unwitting victims of influence of whose true import is not understood.

Signed, ADAM BELL.

Yakima a City of Bearded Men

Yakima, Wash., has a different fad.

It is a whisker fad, according to J. O. Patenaude, just back from the apple center.

Mr. Patenaude said he thought it odd that his taxi-driver, though young, should be sporting a beard. He thought it odd that the hotel clerk should be sporting one of a different cut. In the morning when he went down for breakfast he saw beards of all sizes and shapes on men of all ages. He began to wonder. Then he found out.

Yakima is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary and to boost the event the men folk decided to wear beards until May 27. There are beards of every sort and description, stated Mr. Patenaude, who added that the women folk are not the least bit pleased, either.

Yakima, like the Kootenays, is having a backward spring, reports Mr. Patenaude.

The Romans zoned their cities to keep industries out of central areas, and to limit height of buildings.

BACK PENTICTON IN ASKING HOPE-PRINCETON LINK

Board of Trade Also Suggests Remission to Convention

PARK RESOLUTION GOES TO COUNCIL

Graham and Hinton Are Selected Delegates

Support asked by the Penticton board of trade for a lengthy resolution addressed to Dominion and provincial members for that area, urging completion of the Hope-Princeton link in the southern trans-provincial highway, was granted by the Nelson board of trade Thursday, which unanimously endorsed the resolution, which, among other matters, discussed Dominion relief policy, provincial public works equipment and highway promises. The resolution alleged that the link was now going ahead more slowly than at any time in the past, and stated that another 50 miles would complete it.

It was also asserted that it would shorten the route between the interior and the coast by 150 miles.

A reminder from J. R. Hunter, secretary-treasurer of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia, that the Pentieton board was a member of that organization and could best serve its purpose by sending the resolution to the coming convention here, resulted in a rider being added, to advise the Penticton board to submit it for the convention's endorsement.

PARK PROPOSAL

A second Penticton resolution, urging the Dominion authorities to establish a national park in that territory, was referred to the council for examination.

Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham and R. W. Hinton were appointed the board's elected delegates to the Associated Boards convention here early in June, each of the constituent boards being entitled to a delegation of three, headed ex-officio by its president. C. H. Hamilton was named alternate.

President W. B. Bamford stated the board had received a book from the Inland Empire Business Progress bureau, which he would remit to a committee consisting of C. F. McHardy, H. M. Whimster and J. R. Hunter for study and report.

C. E. Doctor was elected without ballot to membership. Mr. Doctor and Harry Sprott and S. C. Latornell, recently elected, were all introduced and welcomed with applause.

Visitors introduced were P. D. McLaren and W. C. Gordon, both of Vancouver, and George Taylor of East Kootenay.

BALL MEETING IS POSTPONED

Baseball Officials Are Favorable to Salmo and Ymir Entry

The intermediate baseball league meeting called for Wednesday evening was postponed due to the absence of Pete Kapak in Rossland. Officials are favorable to the idea of admitting Ymir into the league. Salmo is also reported to be figuring on entering but no application has been made yet.

Ioanin, president of the league, stated Thursday night, that in all likelihood the officials of the league would make a trip out to Ymir and Salmo within a few days to see whether these clubs would be able to play Wednesday games in Nelson.

As both Ymir and Salmo have signed up a number of star players from elsewhere, some fast games are expected should these clubs be admitted.

Lake Level Passes Six-Foot Elevation

YMIR CONSOLIDATED FIRE HELD TO OLD PART OF MILL BUILDING

Quick action in summoning 90 men from the Ymir and Goodenough properties of the Ymir Consolidated Gold mines, enabled a fire that broke out about midnight Wednesday in the old cyanide building that is being reconstructed to house a modern mill, at the Wild Horse camp, near Ymir, to be limited to the old portion, their efforts with water being supplemented by dynamiting of the central section to keep the flames from spreading.

The loss was mainly in large timbers that were being salvaged from the wrecked building, which snow the past winter caused to cave, and in tools lost.

Outside the timber loss suffered, the fire, Manager O. D. Frith suggested when seen here Thursday afternoon, really has aided rather than retard the alteration program.

YOKOHAMA MAID IS PRESENTED BY FAIRVIEW Y. P.

Comic Operetta Is Well Received in City

COSTUMES ARE MOST PLEASING

Miss Fleet, Ted Baker and L. Hamilton Excell

"Yokohama Maid," a Japanese comic operetta in two acts by Arthur A. Penn, was presented by the Fairview Young People in the junior high school auditorium Thursday night under the direction of J. Burgess and D. Cretney, the presentation being well received by a fairly large audience.

The operetta is centered around the ambitions of Fateddo, the somewhat plump but highly ambitious and ignorant mayor of Kyboshō, who seeks to interpret the will of Sing-a-Song's father, so that he can marry her and appropriate the substantial inheritance. The costumes and scenery are Japanese, giving a beautiful oriental setting to the entire production. In each act the setting is one of spring and romance fills the air.

L. HAMILTON AND MISS FLEET EXCEL

The part of Fateddo is well-taken by L. Hamilton, and he sends Sing-a-Song, Miss E. Fleet, to America "where they know it all" for the express purpose of learning everything. When she returns and becomes his wife she will then be the most talked of woman in Japan and he expects to be correspondingly great by reflection.

However, while in the process of learning everything, Sing-a-Song falls in love with Harry Courtcase, which part is taken by Ted Baker. They are married and when they return, in keeping with the provisions of the will, Sing-a-Song, being married, cannot marry Fateddo, although she coyly states she is willing.

Sing-a-Song is charming throughout, and plays her part with feeling and appreciation. She was given fine applause in her solo numbers. Fateddo, in his ignorant and blustering way, provides much humor, often at his own expense, and his decision to marry Tung-Waga when he finds he cannot have Sing-a-Song, provides real entertainment.

DELIGHTS WITH SOLOS

Ted Baker, who took the part of Takasi, the herald, and later the part of Harry Courtcase, delighted the audience in his vocal solos. W. Triggs, as Knogudi, the mayor's secretary, takes the part of a somewhat pessimistic dreamer, and his resignation at the end compares favorably with Fateddo's when he consents to marry Kissimee. Miss E. Massey takes the part of Kissimee very well, and Miss E. Thain as Tung-Waga is also good. Jack Burgess as Morion Tu, the policeman, and also Ah No, a Chinese laundryman, appeared to advantage in each. Miss L. Fleet and Miss K. Massey, who are American tourists, complete the cast.

Those included in the chorus were Miss V. Matheson, Miss P. Davies, Miss L. Wharron, Miss L. McDonald, Miss C. Wesley, Miss N. Marapodi, Miss C. Nichols, Miss R. Rixen, Miss H. Marapodi, Miss P. Habegarde, Miss E. McDonald, Miss K. Kaye, Miss M. Feeney, Miss M. Jarvis, Miss E. Massey, Miss L. Milburn, Miss M. Thompson, Miss J. Kaye, R. Burgess and B. Andrew.

The music was provided by Mrs. J. Burgess, pianist; J. Worthington, violin; R. E. Stratton, cello; R. A. Dyke, clarinet; Jack Annable, drums.

Miss Melisse Thompson, Mrs. S. Haydon, Mrs. F. A. Baker were the costume committee; D. A. Acton and Mrs. E. J. Shardelow had charge of the wigs; John Rogers, scenery.

The operetta will be presented at the junior high school auditorium again tonight.

RED SOX TAKE SURPRISE WIN

Whittle Down Lead of Stars in Final Inning

After losing a 12-4 lead assumed in the first four innings, a plucky Red Sox ladies' softball team pushed four runs over the plate in the last of the ninth inning to win a surprising 19-18 victory over the Toronto Star nine, in one of the closest games played locally.

The Red Sox were quick to take advantage of wildness on the part of Jean Hopkins, the Stars' starting pitcher, and assumed an 11-4 lead. With two down in the third inning, Hazel Spiers, who made such a showing Tuesday, was sent in as relief pitcher. She fanned the first batter to face her and retired the side.

For the next five innings, Hazel held the Red Sox to five runs, while her teammates, led by Alice Dunn, who hit two homers and a triple, ran wild on the bases to assume the lead. But with two down in the final inning the Red Sox were able to squeeze the winning run across the plate.

INFIELD ERRATIC

During the six and a third inning she was on the mound, Hazel Spiers fanned 13 batters and walked six. Dorothy Waterer and Elaine Beeston were both missing from the Stars infield, making several changes necessary. The infield work was erratic. Elaine Beeston will be on second base for the next game.

Although hit freely, Rosa Stewart pitched a good game and fielded her position exceptionally well. Mary McDougall's work at second base was outstanding for the winners, and Alvina Arlt also played well at first.

Besides making five hits for a total of 13 bases, Alice Dunn also provided the fielding highlights of the game with her two sensational catches in center field.

SUMMARY

Home runs, Alice Dunn, 2; Berna Kline 2; Hazel Spiers and Carmella Ded Puppo; three-base hits, Alice Dunn, Barbara Kingzett, Jean Paterson; two base hit, Rosa Stewart, Hazel Spiers; struck out by Jean Hopkins, 3; by Hazel Spiers, 13; by Rosa Stewart, 4; bases on balls off Jean Hopkins, 5; off Hazel Spiers 6; off Rosa Stewart, 0.

Creston's Jubilee Celebration Sets New Mark; Parade Nearly Mile Long

Kate Payne Is Crowned as Jubilee Queen; May Pole Dances a Feature; Baseball Game and Sports Held; Dance Closes

CRESTON, B.C., May 9—Favored with quite ideal weather, and with a real holiday spirit prevailing, Creston's observance of the King's silver jubilee produced a day of outdoor activities, largely of a nature to entertain the children, never before equalled in this section.

Proceedings commenced at 10:30 a.m., with the parade, headed by the Brass band and followed by the smartly decorated float carrying the queen of the popularity contest, her four ladies in waiting and the two flower girls. Then came the Legion and ex-service men, followed by the children from the various schools of the district. Behind these were those in fancy and comic costumes and the decorated bicycles. Then came the floats, the decorated cars and then the autos, accounting for a parade that was almost a mile long.

The procession wended its way to Exhibition park where the queen was crowned with ceremonies befitting the occasion, and then adjournment was taken till early afternoon when activities were resumed with a closely contested baseball game in which the intermediates bested their old time rivals, the Athletics, by a 6-5 score. Then there were a great variety of races for the children of all ages. Then came the prettily executed maypole dance by a dozen girls under the direction of Mrs. W. Fraser, to appropriate music by the band.

More races for the children were then in order, until about 4:30 when the barbecue, in charge of Matt York, attracted the attention of young and old alike, with free servings of this specially roasted beef for the children, and quite a heavy demand at 25 cents per helping from the grownups, who also received a generous bread and potato sandwich along with the equally generous helping of roast beef.

At night the biggest crowd ever seen in Park pavilion participated in the dance. In addition to the other features provided for the children each and every one of them was given a toy balloon, and about 800 ice cream cones were distributed free.

The result of the contest for jubilee queen was announced at the theater Saturday evening by Secretary H. A. Powell, as follows:

Kate Payne, Canadian Legion and auxiliary, 733.

Doris Ferguson, K.P. and Sisters 725.

June Browell, Canyon school board, 462.

Mary Abbott, Cecil Moore's basketball team, 340.

Minnie Huscroft, Huscroft-Lister school boards, 190.

The total vote cast was 2468. From the start of the campaign it was evident the two former would fight it out for first place. June Browell, Mary Abbott and Minnie Huscroft did well and polled an almost solid vote in their respective districts but had little opportunity for active campaigning in the village. The official count took place at the town hall.

In addition to the votes three cash prizes were awarded lucky ticket holders.

COLORFUL SCENE

The parade made a colorful scene as it passed down Canyon street, led by the band and members of the Canadian Legion in their new blue Glengarry caps, followed by the big float carrying the jubilee queen and her attendants. About 700 school children were in the march. Decorated bicycles were also in evidence, as well as floats entered by Boy Scouts, Creston Co-op store, Ed Lewis, Dynamiters basketball team, and decorated cars. The longest auto parade ever seen in Creston followed the queen's float to the park, where the crowning ceremony took place.

The queen, Kate Payne, was lavishly gowned for the occasion, as were also her four ladies in waiting, Doris Ferguson, June Browell, Mary Abbott and Minnie Huscroft, and the flower girls, Evelyn Kelly and Irene Moore. Colonel Mallandaine made the opening address and the crowing and presentation of coronation gifts was made by Reeve F. H. Jackson. The queen received a beautiful pendant and bracelet and her attendants each received pendants. The flower girls were remembered with silver bracelets.

After a closely contested baseball game between the Athletics and intermediates the maypole dance was featured and caused much enthusiasm and excitement as the event was a new one here. Twelve girls, who took part, were prettily attired in white and red and created a real picture as they danced to the music of the town band. The girls were suitably remembered and Mrs. W. Fraser, who was responsible for this much appreciated event, was presented with a bouquet of lilies and snapdragon. The girls taking part were Hazel Beam, Ina Chappell, Margaret Donaldson, Marguerite Grant, Thelma Lowther, Ethel Morrow, Irene and Jean Pridham, Goldie Walker, Charlotte Wilks, Glenna Fowlie and Ethel McLaren.

The outstanding feature of the afternoon was the barbecue under the management of Matt York. A 400-pound carcass of beef was roasted over a Dutch oven with the aid of a windlass to make sure it was "done to a turn," as the director assured. It was served in generous helpings with bread and roasted potatoes. This unique event was officially opened with the serving of the initial carving to Miss Belle Robinson, and one of Creston's early day residents, W. H. Crawford, disposing of the second helping. About 600 plates were served, the master of ceremonies being assisted by Charlie Sutcliffe, Frank Celli, Herb Christie and R. B. Robinson. Th. Boy Scouts were the serviteurs.

The celebration was brought to a close with a dance in the evening at Park pavilion. This was officially opened by the queen and her attendants. The royal party was ushered into the ballroom, Reeve F. H. Jackson escorting Miss Kate Payne, queen; J. B. Holder accompanying Miss Ferguson, A. Cobus with Miss Browell, H. A. Powell with Miss Abbott, and W. V. Jackson, chairman of the celebration committee, with Miss Huscroft.

The attendance was very large and the affair much enjoyed, the Pythian Sisters having charge of the refreshments.

For the hostess who likes to serve something different the latest is pickled cobs of corn, not longer than two inches, and pickled at a very early stage in the corn's development, so that even the cob is tender enough and is eaten. The new little toothpicks of colored celluloid are used to hold them.

"Stripes" says Dame Fashion, and striped they are, the gay and exciting new dresses that have just arrived at GODFREY'S LTD. Dashing and sporty, with buttons and pockets, with belts and collars and newest sleeves, these breezy young dresses for short or tall or fat or thin are the gowns of the moment. Seersucker and crepe in shirtwaist styles, as well as dainty printed silks that are fashioned in frocks of softness and flattery are the very thing to slip into your in-between seasons wardrobe, all for the very reasonable price of $8.95. And this firm, you know, pays mailing charges for out-of-town customers.

Hats that are new are of cellophane. Some braided in different tints of one color are lined with the deepest shade of matching taffeta. Others are merely cut and stitched flat about the brim and folded in the crown. There are toques and berets and floppy brims, but the prettiest are those that have scalloped edges and are turned up in the front like a flower.

A gift of "Pyrex" kitchen wear for a present on Mother's Day is the sort of gift that makes this day an "occasion." The tempting and delicious food that can be prepared with little or no trouble has an air of festivity at meal time if it is served in a Pyrex dish. The Pyrex special that is holding feminine attention at the WOOD, VALLANCE HARDWARE COMPANY shares honors with nobody when it comes to pleasing the lady of the house. There are little dishes and big dishes, casseroles and pie-plates and ramekins, and what member of the family will not succumb to golden brown baking. If you are wise, you'll send one of these gifts to Mother from the family, on Mother's Day.

Just like her fashionable young daughter, Mother loves to feel that her crowning glory is all waved and shining, or that her skin and hands can bear the closest inspection of her friends. So when you are looking around for that specially nice gift for her this weekend, phone MILADY'S BEAUTY PARLOR and make an appointment for her permanent wave, or facial. She'll love it!

And so, until next week, Adieu.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Sindell, wore a salmon silk ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of narcissi and fern. The groom was supported by John Niven. The wedding march was played by Miss Margaret Graham. During the signing of the register Mrs. S. C. Couch sang "I Love You Truly." Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served at the home of the bride's parents when about 40 immediate friends and relatives were present. The serviteurs were Miss Sayde Smith, Miss Mona Stubbs, Miss Ruth Sindell, Miss Helen Stubbs and Miss Ruby King. The guests invited were Mr. and Mrs. T. Crosbie, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. M'Pherson Outlines History Public Works Department in Talk at Fernie

FERNIE, B.C., May 9.— The contrast between the difficulties encountered by Simon Fraser in crossing the province by canoe and making long, and difficult portages, and the demands of the average traveller of today for modern highways was presented by Hon. Frank MacPherson, minister of public works, to the Rotary club Monday. Mr. MacPherson outlined the development of the activities of the public works department from the early days to the present.

Little interest was shown in the development of the province except at the coast, he said, until the discovery of gold in the Cariboo in 1857. This discovery created a demand for a road to the gold fields. In 1862 a party of Royal engineers from the old country started the Cariboo road. It took three or four years to build and some of the original cribbing is still in service.

The next development came when the gold operations died down and the settlers began to move to new fields. New communities were started and roads became necessary to open the interior.

In 1908 the public works department, was separated and a public works minister was appointed. The new department spent $700,000 the first year and $4,000,000 in 1912. With the outbreak of the war, expenditures were reduced and in 1918 the works budget was $900,000.

Mr. MacPherson then took up the advent of the automobile in 1902. He stated that in 1902-03 receipts from license fees were $26. This increased to $775 in 1907 and $5000 in 1917. Increased use of automobiles created a demand for better highways. This demand the public works department has endeavored to meet although British Columbia has a population of only 2-3 of 1 per cent of that of a similar area in Europe including the British Isles.

In discussing the frequent demand that more money from license fees be expended on the roads, the minister stated that after the municipalities' share had been paid out of the receipts from licenses and gas taxes the balance was $500,000 short of meeting sinking fund, interest and maintenance requirements. This difference, he said, had to be met from consolidated revenues.

Mr. MacPherson stated that work became available.

The frozen salad recipe may be modified to suit. You can use fresh vegetables that you have on hand with the tomato. Or you can use the same recipe and, instead of freezing the ingredients, you can mold them in gelatine.

Today's Recipes

Pancakes—Two eggs, separated and well beaten; two cups milk, two cups flour sifted with one teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt and two teaspoons baking powder; one tablespoon of melted butter. Beat the egg yolks, add milk and keep on beating, then gradually add dry ingredients, then melted butter, and lastly fold in the stiffly-beaten whites.

Frozen Tomato Salad—One and one-half cups canned tomatoes, one and one-half tablespoons sugar, one-half teaspoon onion juice, one-half cup salad dressing, two tablespoons chopped celery, one-fourth cup chopped cucumber. Cook the tomatoes, sugar (salt and pepper to taste) and onion juice for five minutes. Rub through sieve, cool and add to remaining ingredients. Freeze stirring twice. Serves six.

Angel Ginger Bread—One-half cup sugar, one-fourth cup shortening, one-fourth cup molasses, one cup flour, one teaspoon soda, one egg, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup boiling water, pinch salt. Mix sugar, shortening and molasses, add egg slightly beaten, then flour mixed with soda and salt. Add vanilla and ginger. Add boiling water last. Bake 30 to 40 minutes in moderate oven 350 degrees. This may be served with whipped cream or a spoonful of jelly.

Celery Curls

To make celery curls, cut inner stalks into three or four-inch lengths. With a sharp knife cut each piece down into thin strips, stopping when within an inch of the end. Drop into ice water. Strips will curl up as they become chilled.

A slice of raw potato is said to remove every trace of mud stains.

PUNCTUALITY

A classic story in university cirlcles concerns a certain energetic professor (he is still teaching) who dislikes being late or missing a lecture under any circumstances. One late winter morning he was taking his usual short cut across the ice-covered Red River when he fell through, close to the bank.

Thoroughly soaked, he dragged himself out. Anyone with a care to his health would have gone home and changed his clothes. The dauntless professor, however, continued to the university. He had time only before the bell rang to don his gown. Standing behind the desk as he faced his class, he lectured for the entire period while the water dripped from his clothes and formed pools on the floor.

The story is recalled by a letter in the London Times from a former Eton College student. It tells of how floods which covered the college grounds in November, 1894, made Hugh Macnaghten late, to the great joy of Eton scholars who considered such an event impossible.

Macnaghten was one of the famous masters at the great English school. "It was soon common knowledge," writes the former Etonian, "that, finding some six inches of water outside the house in Weston's Yard, where he then lived, he had been forced to climb along the leads and beat a passage through Miss Lloyd's bedroom in Savile House. It took some time for her to evacuate the room and allow him to come through the window.

"Hugh Macnaghten disliked unpunctuality; and it may be of interest to add that at 5 o'clock school on the previous evening, when a well-known member of Donaldson's House arrived some 10 minutes late, he asked rather testily, '——, why are you so late?' Even Hugh Macnaghten's anger was turned aside by the soft answer, 'I'm sorry, sir. I missed the last punt.' "

Joyous, rollicking stories these, in retrospect. But such is the desire of some persons for punctuality and an unblemished record. Being on time is a habit that many others beside traditionally absent-minded professors might well cultivate.

JOHN BULL DRINKING LESS

In 1920 Great Britain's drink bill was the substantial one of $2,000,000,000. Last year, according to figures published in the London Times, it was $1,145,000,000. In 14 years there was a drop of more than $800,000,000.

Old John Bull, quite clearly, is drinking a lot less. Whether he has taken to new forms of relaxation, or of amusement, or is just tightening his belt in the matter of drink as in other things, the fact remains that the old "public house" is rapidly dying out, has become, in some centers, almost non-existent.

Perhaps the real reason is found in public education, in a campaign for temperance. The British, slow to go to extremes, have never troubled with prohibition, but they have built up a system of control and regulation, have made drinking more supervised and more respectable. This, with a steady pressure of temperance propaganda, with the propaganda resting upon national efficiency rather than upon morals, appears to be making headway. It is the typical British way of doing things—and of doing them successfully.

FOR PUBLIC SAFETY

A recent proposal, emanating from Toronto, eventually may make an appeal to those whose duty it is to guard public safety.

The proposal is directed at the careless motorist, and those drivers who have been convicted of serious traffic violations are to bear the brunt of their negligence by being compelled to have their automobile or truck branded with a red sign.

Apparently the idea is that such a sign would "hit the pride" of the reckless driver as well as make him a visible warning to other drivers to keep as clear as is possible from the motorist who neither guards his own life nor that of his neighbor.

Attention has been called to the fact that the Chinese and New Englanders—of the earlier days — adopted means of marking the criminal who after conviction was obliged to appear publicly. The Chinese forced the guilty to wear a wooden collar upon which the type of crime committed was inscribed: the New Englanders by substituting scarlet letters in place of imprisonment.

Perhaps the punishment should be carried to the point of putting a red marker on both car and driver!

A WAR YARN

Reference to the late war brings to mind an article I saw in the Legionary. It concerns two Canadians who escaped from the Tower of London during the war.

The battalion was on Salisbury plain, scheduled to go to France in a few days. In their No. 3 company were a couple of lads who'd divided their soldiering into three parts, to wit:

1. In the clink.
2. Going to the clink.
3. Coming out of the clink.

They'd applied to their commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. David Watson, for a pass to London; and had been turned down flat. That, however, didn't freeze them a bit. They just went.

In Trafalgar square they were picked up by the M.P.s and, such was their aristocratic status, they were escorted to the Tower of London — about the only place big enough to accommodate delinquent Canadians in those days.

A reserve battalion of the guards was then in garrison at the Tower, and the sergeant-of-the-guard found himself intensely interested in these Canucks. They were the first of the species he'd ever run into at close quarters.

For themselves, the Canadians were quite at home. They liked the Tower. After all, there's a lot of "ton" in being a prisoner in a snappy housegow like that. They made themselves useful to the guard, washed out their mess-tins, fetched water, cleaned their rifles, and generally acted like real pals.

But alas! For the perfidy of our scoundrelly pals. That night—a Saturday—"visiting rounds" made his call, driving up in a swell car. The guard turned out; everything was found in order; the guard turned in, but—the obliging Canadians had disappeared.

There was an immediate alarm, an immediate search. But nothing happened. The birds had just flown the coop, and that was all there was to it.

On the Monday morning, the newsboys from London drove up to the plain in the trucks and fanned all through the camps.

"Pipers—Mawnin' Pipers! Two C'nydians escype from the Ta'hr av Lundun. Mawnin' Pypers!"

The arrival of the two heroes, back to the 2nd battalion, synchronized with that of the newsboys. But their own sergeant-of-the-guard was less sympathetic than the guardsmen.

"Where you guys bin?" he demanded sourly.

"In London, sergeant."

"Oh, yuh have, have yuh. Okay, get in there—an' stay till you're called."

And so, the doughty champions of freedom once more found themselves in the regimental bastille.

It's sad to relate that instead of being profoundly shocked at the misdemeanor of their erring comrades, the men of the 2nd battalion glowed with pride. Sad—but true. They were actually tickled pink. But, it's reassuring to note that the commanding officer, sternly jealous of his battalion's honor and good name, did not see it that way.

The culprits were hauled up to orderly room, as it was proper for such abandoned scoundrels. They were told to give their story, which they did. And I am happy to say that Colonel Watson, after having sternly admonished them, told them he'd take very severe measures if they ever escaped from the Tower of London again.

POPPIES

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Garden Expert

Many annual plants resent having their roots disturbed. The seeds of these plants should be planted where they are to grow in the garden.

Of course, if one is anxious to have an early bloom efect, then the seeds may be planted in seed frames indoors and planted out when still very small, or they may be transplanted into tiny flower pots, a plant in each pot. Later these pots may be transplanted out of doors, but one must be careful to get the seedlings and soil out of the flower pot intact. The plant should be moistened first, as this tends to prevent the soil from cracking and crumbling. When digging the hole in the flower bed to receive the potted plant, be sure it is big enough so you will not break the ball of earth about the plant in squeezing it into the hole. When placing the soil about the ball of earth, do not press the soil too firmly or you may break it apart by so doing.

Nearly al the poppies resent transplanting. Boltonia, Calendula, Candytuft, Clarkia, Larkspur, Love-in-a-mist, Annual Lupines, Mignonette, Phlox Drummondi, Sweet Sulton and Salpiglosis are others which prefer being left undisturbed.

The amateur who has not the time to spend on specimen plants of dahlias can grow these giant blossoms from seed without much trouble.

The white coat is the big hit of the summer season, and angora is the most popular material, since it is lightweight in character and summery in appearance.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

AFRICAN COLLEGES

To be gowned; or not to be gowned! That is the question vexing the undergraduates in Capetown today. Objection to the use of the gown has reached the length of challenging the disciplinary authority of the University.

It is not only at Groot Schuur that this hostility to the usages of other countries is shown. University life in Johannesburg is characterised by a slackness and disregard of appearances among the young men that is only redeemed by the spruceness of the girls who are competing with them in every branch of the professions.

The gown is decidedly unpopular in Johannesburg. Not only is it not done during term but men will go into the examination room in veritable ratcatcher's apparel and finding even their easy sporting attire to restrictive, they will proceed to divest themselves of coat, waistcoat (if they wear one) collar and tie, and in their remaining trousers, socks, shirt and shoes get down to the arduous business of evading the examiner's snares.

Any imported habit not of his own selection is irksome to the young man of the Dominion and his determination to find self-expression in some form or another is often worthy of a better cause, as he does not seem to realize that his sole source of inspiration is the screen, and the screen of the United States at that.—African Press.

PLAGUE IN AFRICA

Plague is on outskirts of Bloemfontein. It appears to be taking the pneumonic form and death infariably ensues within 24 hours.

At Dealsville the disease is reported to have appeared among the scholars attending the local school and several cases are said to be serious.

Notwithstanding the fact that the farmers of the Modder area have exerted themselves to the utmost to exterminate the rodents, the veld appears to be terribly infested with them.

As the wet season is drawing to a close and the dry conditions of the autumn and winter are imminent, fears are expressed that the transfer of the plague,carrying flea which infests the rodents may be transferred to the human with a greater facility than is at present the case.

The position of the Free State today is more ominous than it has ever been and while it is hoped that the period of greatest infection among rodents has now been reached, there is no positive ground for thinking that the incidence of greatest infection is little understood especially where there are so many varieties of potential hosts and carriers. —African Press

"Teacher of Teachers"

A POOR NO TRUMP

Only North and South were vulnerable. Three and one-half quick tricks obligated an opening bid of some sort. Two 4-card suits, one of them biddable, offered a better diamond bid than 1 no trump. Two-suiters and semi-two-suiters, such as West held, usually do not afford good defence against no trumps, and he felt obliged to overcall the opening bid. Of course, the remaining two players were justified in strongly bidding.

Bidding went: South, 1 no trump; West, 2 spades; North, 3 diamonds; West, 4 spades, which South doubled.

North felt that his suit was too long to open with hopes of winning many tricks, so he led his top club. Really that made things harder for the declarer than if a diamond had been led. Dummy's king won the trick, but there was no possibility of going game if dummy had to lose a club trick which must be lost in each other suit. Dummy must be allowed a club discard on declarer's hearts for game. East and West held one of the three types of hands requiring a discard to be provided for before touching trumps.

Dummy's 10 of hearts was led. When South did not cover it rode and North's queen took the trick. Another club was led. Dummy's ace took the trick. The 9 of hearts was led and won the trick. South played the 7 and North the 4. Unless South was false-carding his partner held the missing 6 and he held the bare king. It appeared time to pull trumps.

The 2 of spades was led. The queen covered. The ace was played, picking up North's singleton jack and leaving South with the king alone. It would have been too expensive to lead trumps at that juncture, as South would then have won a club trick and defeated the contract. The declarer led off his ace of hearts. All folowed suit, and the king dropped, leaving declarer's jack good. He led it and on it discarded dummy's last club. West had played the hand well. South ruffed and led his king of diamonds, picking up the third defensive trick for his side. South led his ace, but the declarer trumped the trick, and dummy's discard of a losing club on declarer's long heart enabled dummy to ruff the last club held by the declarer.

The way a declarer handles his trumps (pulling them, allowing dummy to ruff losers or cross-ruffing) is usually the best index of his playing ability.

PROSPECTIVE MOTHER SHOULD BE INFORMED

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"The entire program of what we may designate as the new public health movement is focussed about the child."

So wrote one of its foremost advocates a few years ago. Certainly it should be so. In spite of the fact that a great many people are worrying about the prolongation of life by annual health examinations and so-called prevention of heart disease, our duty is to the young and vigorous, those who are carrying on the work of the world.

The hopes of mankind for a future race, more virile, less susceptible to infection, better developed, and better balanced to meet both the pleasures and strains of life, depend in great measure upon the circumstances of the earliest formative years of childhood. But even to a greater degree, they depend upon the circumstances which surround the child before birth.

And much of this depends upon the intelligence and the education of the prospective mother during the period before the child is born. This is not to say that she must know so much that she can feel independent of the attending physician. But that instead of blindly folowing instructions, disregarding them because she does not understand their importance, she will cooperate with some knowledge of what it is all about. This should include the prospective father, as a matter of fact, so that all three—mother, father and physician—will try to help each other and work together in mutual confidence and understanding.

The prospective mother will know about the details of diet, exercise, sleep, rest and strain as they apply to her. She will know what she should call to the physician's attention. She will be reassured by knowledge, not frightened. She will be delivered from the harassing, terrifying false beliefs and superstitions that are constantly thrust before her by ill-advised thoughtless relations and friends of her own sex.

Most of the things that the prospective mother hears about the general situation are lies.

This, in spite of the fact that they may be told to her by otherwise kindhearted and supposedly friendly old ladies who have a great air of authority. What prospective father has not come home from work to find his wife dissolved in tears after one of the recitals from Eve's comforters?

The movies are about as guilty as anybody. If the League for Decency has completed its work, there might be room for a league for preventing the showing on the screen of the prospective father being summoned post haste to the hospital to find his pale wife being carried through the halls on a cart to the operating room for an emergency. Why should that always have to happen to harassed young married couples in the movies? Do the movies want to scare the wits out of the poor young things in the audience, for whom going to the movies is about the only diversion there is? Couldn't they ever show one of the ninety and nine cases where everything is perfectly normal, and as a mother of five said to me the other day, it's about as much effort as a strenuous game of tennis?

It is to that idea that the series this week is dedicated.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE

The folowing is inspired by the approach of Hospital Day in Nelson on Sunday, May 12.

Florence Nightingale was born at Florence, Italy, on May 12th, 1820, of English parentage.

Her home life was rich in possibilities of social pleasures and might have seemed to promise every happiness, but Miss Nightingale, as she passed from childhood to womanhood, came to form other plans. During the early years of her life she lived in some sort, the life of a caged bird, the cage, however, was pleasantly gilded, but she chose not to accept a restricted life within the conventional lines. She always pictured their substantial home at Embley as a hospital and how she would place the beds.

Florence Nightingale, whether Saint or not, was certainly conscious of "A Call", but there was nothing in her descent or inheritance which encouraged her parents to allow it to become readily effectual. Because she was a woman, her life was one long struggle for liberation from circumstances. Her life, her examples, have been potent factors in opening new avenues for women in the modern world.

Thousands of women, in consequence of Florence Nightingale's career, are born free, but it was at a great price and after long and weary struggles that she herself attained such freedom. Moved by a great wave of pity she forsook the pleasures of a fashionable life for the horror of the Crimean War, going about the Hospital of Scutari with a lamp; scattering flowers of comfort and ministration.

The deeper significance of her work in the Crimean War was as Administrator and Reformer, rather than as Angel. Queen Victoria, with a touch of humor, hit off the truth about Miss Nightingale's services in the Crimea, in concise words—"Such a clear head, I wish we had her in the War Office."

The influence of Miss Nightingale's service in the Crimea was great. She may be accounted, if not founder, yet the promoter of Female Nursing in War and the Red Cross Societies throughout the world are the direct outcome of her labors in the Crimea.

She retired at the close of the War into private life and lived henceforth in the seclusion of an invalid's room, a seclusion varied only by good deeds to hospitals and nurses.

From the sick room in the West end of London, she played a large part in reforming the sanitary administration of the British Army, in reconstructing hospitals throughout the world, and in founding the modern art of nursing. Closely allied with her work of reform, were her religious beliefs. She was a passionate religious thinker and believed intensely in a personal God and in personal religion. Union with God meant cooperation with Him towards human perfectibility.

The last thirty-eight years of Miss Nightingale's life were less full of new activities. The germinent seeds had all been sown, but these later years were full of interest, given mostly to literary work. She found opportunity, however, to start an important experiment in Rural Hygience and her ideal of the nursing vocation stands out clearly from the famous "Nurses' Battle" during this same period.

Then came the end. Florence Nightingale died at the age of 90, having lived for 53 years the life of an invalid. To the time of labor there succeeds in every life, says Ruskin—"The time of death which in happy lives is very short, but always a time." In the case of Miss Nightingale, the time was long. She lived many years after the power to labor was gone.

Her work was done "by force of simple goodness." Florence Nightingale has been given a place among the saints in the popular calendars of many nations. Her character was stronger, more spacious, more lovable, than that of the Lady with the Lamp.

ASPIRATION

I go to prove my soul!
I see my way as birds their trackless way.
I shall arrive—what time, what circuit first,
I ask not, but unless God sends his hail
Or blinding fire-balls, sleet or stifling snow,
In some time, His good time, I shall arrive
He guides me and the bird
In His good time.

"Big League" BASEBALL

By AL DEMAREE
Former Pitcher, N.Y. Giants

A runner was on first, when the batsman hit a grounder to the second baseman who was playing almost half way between second base and third base. The second baseman threw to the first baseman, who while standing on the base, touched the base-runner who had not made any attempt to go to seco i despite the oncoming runner who had just hit the ball. Many of the spectators, and even the first baseman, who was comparatively new, assumed that a double play had occurred and were astounded when the umpire called the base-runner safe who had held his base, the runner to first being the only one to be called out.

To obtain a double play the procedure should have been as follows: The first baseman should have stepped off the base to receive the ball. Then he should have touched the runner, no matter where he stood, on the base or off, the first baseman still keeping his feet away from the base. That being done, the first baseman by touching the base before the batter arrived would have completed a double play.

The Old Scout says—Louis Sockalexis, famous Indian player, performed in the majors only one season—with the Cleveland Nationals in 1897.

The Old Scout asks—Has a 23 inning game ever been played in the major leagues? Answer tomorrow.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet called "Art of Batting" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed envelope.

BLANTON LOSES TO HUBBELL

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP).—Carl Hubbell and New York Giants today put an abrupt halt to the winning streak of the sensational Darrel (Cy) Blanton, rookie pitching ace of Pittsburgh Pirates and precocious aspirant for King Carl's screwball title. The final score was 3-1.

Blanton, unbeaten in four previous starts and with two shutouts to his credit, was the victim of his own wildness as well as poor support. Cy struck out six, running his total to 36, but issued five passes and yielded eight hits.

Ontario Players Expected to Show Form

Phil Farley and Jack Nash on Overseas Golf Team

Following is the ninth of a Canadian Press series of 12 sketches on Canadian tennis and golf players who will compete in British and Scottish tournaments this season.

TORONTO, May 9 (CP)— Ontario's two most promising young golfers, Phil Farley of Toronto and Jack Nash of London, may be the ones to really stir things up when the Royal Canadian golf association's nine men invade the British amateur this month. They're young and experienced.

Only at the last minute, a few hours before the team sailed, was Nash added to the team. That made four players from Ontario, Sandy Somerville of London and Fred Hoblitzel of Toronto being the others, but Nash's record was so nearly as good as that of Farley that the golfing fraternity cheered his selection.

Nash has been to England before. He accompanied Somerville, then United States amateur champion, in 1933 and he went just as far in the British event as Sandy did. Both won their first four matches and then went out. It was rare experience for young Jack.

In addition he captured the prized St. George's vase at Sandwich durin the trip, defeating some of the best amateurs in England as warm-up for the main event. A former Ontario amateur title-holder, Nash is regarded as one of the most consistent shotmakers in the country.

The 23-year old Farley, who opened his competitive career only six years ago, has an even better record in home tournaments. He learned to play golf under Tommy Cairns, professional at Cedarbrook club here. When he started to shoot with the leading players he immediately became a sensation.

He won the Ontario junior championship in 1930 and the following year captured the Ontario amateur for the first time. He repeated in 1934. He turned in the low score among all amateurs in the 1931 Canadian open and repeated this performance last summer.

Farley has made only one attempt at the United States amateur crown and failed to get far in match play. But in the regional qualifying tests last year he scored 140 for the 36-hole medal test—the lowest turned in by any qualifier in Canada or the United States.

Canzoneri and Ambers Tonight

Tony Has Chance to Win the Title Again

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP).—Admittedly past his prime, Tony Canzoneri, one of the greatest of the lightweights, still can make history in his division tomorrow night battling young Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N.Y., 15 rounds for the class championship in Madison Square Garden's final show of the indoor boxing season.

Not since Jack McAuliffe set himself up as lightweight champion half a century ago, starting a line that continued on through such ring heroes as Battling Nelson, Joe Gans, Kid Lavigne, Freddy Welsh, Willie Ritchie and Benny Leonard, has a titleholder ever regained his crown once he lost it.

Still young in years but old in the ring with 125 fights behind him, Canzoneri first won the lightweight title from Al Singer on a one-round knockout in September, 1930, and held it until Barney Ross beat him in Chicago in June 1933.

Wealthy now, a gentleman farmer most of the time on his pleasant acres up near Marlboro, N.Y., Tony has nothing much left to seek from the ring except the final ho..or of becoming the first man in the history of the division to regain his throne. He got the chance through the abdication of Barney Ross.

Ambers today was quoted a 9 to 5 favorite, with the prospect the Garden would get close to its 19,000 capacity tomorrow night with gate receipts up around $50,000.

Golf Facts

NOT THEORIES!

BY ALEX J. MORRISON

I just had a round with Sidney Levinson of Great Neck, Long Island. I would say that he stands about five feet, possibly a shade less.

He has played less than five years. He can smack wood shots well enough to keep up with any of the pros. His drives were never less than 240 yards straight down the middle. It was a pleasure to see him perform, for I've always maintained that size means little if you have the right swing.

Levinson stands quite erect and takes a full windup of body and arms. His wrists are free to bend with the action of club and arms, with the result that he is able to whip the club down with the speed of a pro.

His short game is excellent so that he always gets around in the middle seventies with a good chance of being down close to seventy. Good golf requires skill, not strength.

SOFT DRINK SALES HEAVY

Consumption of soft drinks through the district has showed an almost phenomenal growth during the past week or so and fairly substantial shipments have been made. This week the first whole car of soft drinks to leave the city is to be shipped by the McDonald Jam company to Cranbrook.

Hammond Takes Over the Arrows

Soldiers Advocate Coming to Nelson

D. S. Markland, soldiers advocate, will be in Nelson May 15, 17, 18 and 20 to advise on pensions claims of ex-servicemen. During his stay in Nelson he will be at the Canadian Legion and ex-servicemen will be able to get in touch with him there.

SURFACE GOING GOOD

NEW YORK, (CP)—Hal Surface, young Kansas City tennis player who reached the finals in the Canadian singles championships last season in Toronto, has shoved his head above water in United States major tournaments. The blond collegian has beaten some of the better players in winter and spring tournaments and rapidly is winning a reputation.

LONDON (CP)—The British Amateur Swimming association has put a ban on the "butterfly" method of breast-stroke swimming, although Olympic rules permit the above-water recovery. It is believed unlikely that many English swimmers will concentrate on the breast-stroke for the 1936 Olympics as a result of the new ruling.

HOCKEY COACH ELOPES WITH $3

Bums Meals and Cash, and Then Takes Leave

More and better hockey coaches is what Nelson needs. The local hockey pond was traversed by a ripple over the week-end, but after borrowing $3 and bumming several meals, the ripple washed over the bank and disappeared.

Last Saturday a fellow presented himself to Con Cummins and said he was a hockey coach. To prove his assertion he handed Con a string of references that showed beyond doubt he could train and coach anything, tigers, hockey players and fleas included. (He was concentrating on hockey players in this case.) He had played for the New York Americans, he said, and was most assuredly worth his weight in gold. He also said that a former well-known star would be in Nelson on Monday and would vouch for him.

Con told him who the executive members of the local hockey association were and the "coach" got busy. He phoned one place and told the party who answered that it was an official of the local hockey association speaking, and told him a fellow would call shortly and asked him to lend this fellow $1. He explained that the person who would call was a hockey coach and was temporarily embarrassed financially. The coach presented himself and toted away a dollar. The next night he tried the same stunt on another person and departed with $2. In the meantime he had obtained several meals by telling a local restaurant proprietor that the official would fix things up after the holidays.

Tuesday, the official found he had two people after him for money and when a search was instituted for the coach, it was found that he had silently folded his tent and stolen away, taking his credentials with him. The former puck star was in Nelson, too, but no one thought of approaching him.

The official will undoubtedly want to see the next coach himself.

Max Baer Is Hit by Blank Wadding

Boxing Champ Suffers Burns in Broadcast Studio Rehearsal

ASBURY PARK, N.J., May 9 (AP).—Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, suffered a painful but not severe burn here today when a blank cartridge pistol was discharged near him while he was rehearsing a sketch for broadcasting.

Baer was treated at hospital with Peg la Centra, also in the sketch, who was burned on the face. Miss la Centra then returned to New York and Baer to his Long Branch camp.

The fighter had just completed his first outdoor workout in preparation for his forthcoming championship bout with James J. Braddock and had gone to an hotel to rehearse his program.

Shots and sirens are used for sound effects in the detective serial in which he is the principal. Baer, accompanied by Jerry Casale, former New Jersey fight promoter, was jokingly complaining that the shots fired by the sound effect man were not loud enough. Casale, who serves as a guard at Baer's Long Branch home, drew his gun, loaded with blanks, and was showing it to Baer when it exploded.

Wadding struck the fighter over the heart and the fire penetrated his clothing. The champion declared he had not been hurt badly.

Batting Leaders

By the Associated Press

Lou Finney of the Athletics blasted his way into the Bix Six yesterday with the day's outstanding hitting feat, four blows in five times at bat. That gave him a .389 ayerage for third place and shoved Jack Hayes right out of the sextet. Mel Ott of the Giants also won a place in the big six, ousting Burgess Whitehead as he hit once in two official times up to hoist his mark to .365. Arky Vaughan, the leader, and only remaining .400 hitter, hit two out of four to add three points to his average.

Miss Pirie, whose home will be in London, hopes to swim for Canada at the 1936 Olympic games.

Vines Predicts British Victory

PASADENA, Calif., May 9 (AP) —Henry Ellsworth Vines jr., home from a professional tennis tour, took a squint at the Davis cup picture today and decided the United States team would have a tough time getting past Australia in its quest for the international trophy held by England.

"The United States team," said Vines, former world's singles champion, "has just about an even chance to defeat the Australians and should it do this, the prospects of it beating the British are exceedingly remote."

Vines doesn't give the team from "down under" any the better of it should it beat the Yankees and meet the defenders.

FIVE TRY AGAIN IN PREAKNESS

Omaha Will Also Be in There at the Start

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, May 9 (AP)—Apparently not satisfied that Omaha is the better horse following his decisive victory in the Kentucky derby, five three-year-olds, each of which finished back of William Woodward's chestnut flash at Churchill Downs, will be given another chance Saturday when they face the son of Gallant Fox in the $25,000 preakness at Pimlico.

Warren Wright's Nellie Flag, the strapping filly which disappointed her followers in the derby, heads the quintet that include E. R. Bradley's Boxthorn, Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Psychic Bid, Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Commonwealth and Mrs. W. S. Kilmer's Sun Fairplay.

There also is a chance that Whiskolo, which carried the silks of Mrs. F. C. Mars' Milky Way farm to third place in the derby, may be among the dozen or more entries when they are announced tomorrow.

Omaha was expected to rule the even money choice. If successful he will be the fourth horse in history to win both the derby and preakness.

Chapter 51

"And I have something else nice for you." Consuelo was aware that Stewart was talking. "That musical movie for Maramour—I've induced them to make it on the west coast. The day the show closes we're going to California. All the trees you want, and the sun and the grass and the ocean and three whole weeks that will be just our own before you start work."

"Oh, my darling!" She bent her head against his hands. "You know then how I am aching inside. California! Trees! And sunshine!" A lump rose in her throat.

"For three whole weeks you can be a gypsy again, Consuelo. Anything you want we will do."

Through blurred eyes she looked up.

"Stewart, forgive me for all the mean things I've said to you. Forgive me, my darling, for all of the hateful things I've done. I didn't know that life would ever offer me that again. Three whole weeks to be a gypsy! Oh, praise be, praise be!"

"There's something else I want to offer you, Consuelo. I've been blind before. Will you marry me?"

"Now you are fooling!" She stared at him.

"I'm dead in earnest. Marry me, gypsy girl."

She still stared.

"You can go on with our career. Dance, until you're tired. Take your fill of fame until you say, enough. Then quit and you and I will be free as the wind and travel and play and not have a care in the world. There's nothing my money can't buy for you, my dear, and I've got much, too much of it. Say you will, Consuelo."

Silence between them.

"I have no will!" It was less than a whisper.

"Then you are mine!"

He kissed her lips, but there was no response.

She turned from him to the dressing table and pinned back the shroud of her hair. Mechanically she rubbed the grease paint onto her face; put on rouge; shaded the eyelids, already shaded; patted on powder; drew the line of her lips; began the beading of eyelashes already too long and too black. I must not think of all of this, she told herself. She put on her costume and strapped the dainty-high-heeled slippers. She remembered how she had once wanted high-heeled slippers. Why, if she had those slippers she would be better than the gorgios. She would be so happy if she had them. Well, now she had the slippers. Marry me—She combed her hair and put in the high fan-backed comb. She added earrings. This new contract. California. Marriage. She picked up the black fan that was no blacker than her hair. Three weeks to be a gypsy!

"Stunning, my dear! You're the best-looking woman on Broadway." He took his hat and stick. "I'm going to the club for a rubber or so of bridge. I'll be back at curtain time." He kissed her fingers. "Good luck!" He left.

Good luck, Be a gypsy again.

The girl turned in front of the mirror and viewed the back of her gown. Straightened a ruffle and smoothed the folds of the wide skirt. Next season — the marble palace waiting. She had danced in a wedding skirt—dirty, torn, but she had danced in it and had forgotten the blue marks on her throat. She brushed a speck of powder from her shoe; opened the large Spanish fan and waved it before her. Signed up. Another year of this! She closed the fan. Stamped her heels. One had broken once. Marry me, gypsy girl—

The call boy came.

She left the dressing room. Noticed the star on the door as she closed it. The star that had been too heavy to stay on her blouse. On the door down the hall there were five prong holes where once she had stuck the star. Louise L'Ville, headliner of the Follies. She moved down the steps. The Gypsy Consuelo, greatest dancer of— She gave the fan to "props" to be used in the encore.

No end to all of this—

"You look ravishing!" Her partner. "You should have been a Spaniard. Our girls in Madrid are not as pretty as you."

Three weeks to be a gypsy. Three weeks to live.

The chorus trooped off. The music of the tango started. Her partner took her hand. In one wild whirl she was on the stage and he was standing beside her. Ovation out front. Spotlight. She was in his arms. They were dancing. I have reserved your marble palace for you, gypsy girl.

"Consuelo, you are dead," her partner whispered into her ear. "Come alive, I can't do this alone!"

The music reached her. Her thoughts stopped. Her partner's hands were warm upon her body. She caught a flashing glimpse of faces out front. She threw back her head and laughed. Three weeks to live! Three weeks to live! Now she was dancing!

"Superb, gypsy, we will bring down the house tonight!"

They danced on, now slowly, seductively. Magic of the tango!

"Goldberg has signed me for next season to dance with you. Isn't that a break?" he said.

Isn't that a break? Isn't that a break?

She was laughing again. Her head was dizzy. Her feet were light as thistledown. She had never danced better than tonight.

The wedding date was set. It would be a small, unpretentious wedding. Douglas would be best man. There would be no bridesmaids. The anouncement would be kept from the press as long as possible. The Little Church Around the Corner would be the place. The honeymoon would be to California when the show closed, with a real honeymoon later perhaps.

To make the California trip possible it was necessary now to work in the mornings to fulfill the contracts Consuelo had signed for advertising purposes. The days passed, so full there was scarcely an end or a beginning to them. Willowby returned, but she did not have time to go to his studio. He promised to hold off the public showing of the special picture the Dummy had painted until she had seen it first. She made an appointment, but was forced to break it. Later, when she was not so busy. She was going to be a bride, but he must not tell. Congratulations on that. No mention of the gypsy camp. No mention of anything.

She did not see Doug. Theirs had always been a spasmodic companionship. He called her on the telephone and told her he was a guardian of a Pekingese and an old lady and was utterly desolate and heart broken. Stewart said he was still working in the office "when the lazy cuss gets down in time before it closes—" so the story of the Peke and the old lady were fables.

She remembered the time they had played Nobody, but that was long ago when the snow was on the ground. Now there was grass in the park and the trees had fresh little silver leaves unfurled. The fountains were laughing and sparkling and denying the fact that winter had frozen them stiff. The birds had returned with new songs they had learned in the south and were making love to the hardy New Yorkers who had stayed in town for the winter. Already there was talk of finding soft bits for nests and how many eggs they could conveniently plan for.

Spring had come in earnest. There was a warm lush in the air that spoke of the arrival of summer not too distant. The feeling of expectancy that spring brings had settled into a persistent call. Men were already talking about fishing rods and which was the best kind to tackle. Women were buying new hats and the marriage license bureau was working overtime.

Huge Costume Parade, Sports Day Mark Jubilee Celebration, Nakusp

Many Win Prizes With Splendid Costumes; Baseball Won by Nakusp; Three Are Given King's Jubilee Medals

NAKUSP, B. C., May 9—A well organized Jubilee program commencer in Nakusp Monday at one o'clock when the school children of the district saluted the flag and led in the singing of the National Anthem.

The children's fancy dress parade which followed was perhaps the most interesting event of the day. An out rider rode first, then came the royal carriage, the "King and the Queen," and a cortege of brilliatnly gowned courtiers— Britannia and Canada," "The silver dollar" soldiers and sailors, "Miss 1910", the quintuplets accompanied by "the nurse and Dr. Dafoe," pioneers of 25 pears ago, Indians, Turks and even "Mickie Mouse".

The judges were greatly taxed in deciding the various awards.

Prizes for the best decorated dolls carriage went to Joy Oxenham, Jean Battershall and Mavis Barlow, and for the boys' vehicle to Freddie Barlow and Bibbie Dolman. The best patriotic costume award was won by Eileen Leary as "The Silver Dollar", Clara and Margaret Salstrom as "Britannia" and "Canada" and Melvin La Rue as the boy soldier.

The character impersorations were particularly good. Vera Butlin and Nellie Humphris as "Pioneers" took first prize and a close second was taken by Kathleen and Gordon Sutherland as the nurse and Dr. Dafoe in charge of the quintuplets. A third prize was won by Billie Rushton as "Felin". Prizes for the best decorated bicycle went to Earl Motherwell, Mary Rushton and Grant Spiller.

Nakusp— Harris, Jo..a., Hiltz, Howarth, Jones, White, Campe, Benton, Picard, Moyoh.

Burton— Marshall, McCormack, Hubert, Harding, Kelly, Chiles and Johnson.

The crowning event of the day was the dance in the Legion hall in the evening. It was well attended.

During an intermission R. Islip presented three jubilee medals. The recipients were Miss J. Yurick, matron of the Arrow Lakes hospital, Dr. H. F. Tyreman and C. S. Leary, M.L.A. Appreciative replies were made and three rousing cheers were given for his majesty, Ging George V.

The opportunity was also taken to present the cup donated by the Legion association to the star basketball team of the season. A. J. Harrison made the presentation and the cup was received by R. White, the captain of the Trojans, who made suitable response.

The day's events were under the supervision of the Nakusp Recreation association and the Nakusp Women's institute.

The institute committee consisted of Mrs. C. Howarth, Mrs. W. Carruthers, Mrs. F. Rushton, Mrs. J. Dolman, Mrs. E. C. Johnson, Mrs. H. Thurgood.

Recreation committee—C. Howarth, B. Parkinson, G. C. Martin, T. Steenhoff and C. Howarth Jr.

CHURCH SERVICE

A simple but impressive jubilee service was conducted in the opera house Sunday when the schools and churches of the community united in thanksgiving for the protection afforded to his majesty the King during the 25 years of his reign.

The order of the service was as follows:

Hymn, "All People That on Earth Do Dwell."

Biddings pronounced by Canon Thompson.

"God Save the King."

Thanksgiving and prayer for the King and royal family.

Hymn, "Lord of Heaven and Earth and Ocean."

LITTLE SELLING AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, May 9 (CP).—Despite impending heavy wheat shipments from the Argentine and small Canadian exports this week, traders showed little eagerness to sell on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Firmness at Chicago and Liverpool exerted some influence on the trade, and wheat prices closed a dull session ¼ to ⅛ cent higher, May at 87 and July 88½ cents, after holding steady throughout.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were small.

Argentina, it was forecast, would clear 5,500,000 bushels of wheat this week, the heaviest week's exports since January. The estimate had little effect marketwise either here or at Liverpool, where prices closed ⅜d higher. Chicago was up ⅝ cent. Cash and coarse grains trading was slow.

CHICAGO HIGHER

CHICAGO, May 9 (AP).—Indications of scarcity of hard wheat both at Kansas City and Minneapolis did much today to bring about higher prices in the wheat market here.

A premium of more than 5 cents over Chicago May delivery of wheat was reached by Kansas City May as compared with around 2½ cents premium earlier in the week.

Wheat closed firm, ¼ to ⅝ above yesterday's finish, July 96 to 96⅛; corn ¼ to ¾ up, July 82⅛ to 82¼; oats ⅛ to ⅞ advanced.

SPECULATIVE BONDS GAIN

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP).—Loans of so-called speculative categories found more friends in today's bond market while low-yield issues, generally, were unable to register any progress.

International Telephone 4½s were up 2¾ points at 67¾ and the 5s jumped 3 points to 61¾. Foreign obligations were easier.

Can U. S. Avoid Inflation?

Babson Suggests Three Ways to Curb Spending

(By ROGER W. BABSON)

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 10—Editors long ago found that every favorable letter they received was offset by 10 kicks. This has been true of my own mail during the past decade. For instance, only a handful of readers commended my opposition to the Towsend Pension plan while literally hundreds sent me letters of harsh criticism. Hence, I have been astounded by the number of letters approving my recent budget article. And the interesting point about these letters is that the majority have come from humble people. Editors with whom I have talked recently have had the same reaction. The nation is becoming alarmed!

NOT UNFRIENDLY TO ADMINISTRATION

I am neither a politician nor a partisan. Politically, I am an independent; economically, a conservative; and socially, a progressive liberal. In writing both this and my previous article on the budget, I state definitely that I am not opposed, nor am I unfriendly, to the administration. As I have continually stated, I believe in the goal of President Roosevelt and his cabinet. The president has always been interested in helping the underdog. His present efforts are not now assumed for political purposes as many Republicans would try to make us believe.

In writing this article I am simply giving readers the unbiased opinion of a statistician. I feel so strongly that public hand-outs are leading us into terrible trouble that I believe it is my civic duty to point out the dangers in this policy. Your Congressman probably calls the spend-our-way-to-prosperity program a great experiment—a national war on depression. But it is not an experiment! It has been tried in every nation and in every age. And in all history it has had but one ending: The ruin of government credit, the destruction of currency, inflation, starvation, revolution and chaos!

TRUER TODAY THAN TWO YEARS AGO

In President Roosevelt's opening address to Congress more than two years ago he said: "For three long years the Federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy. For the fiscal year 1931, the deficit was $462,000,000. For the fiscal year 1932 it was $2,472,000,000. For the fiscal year 1933 it will probably exceed $1,200,000,000— I point out to the Congress the profound effect of this upon our national economy— Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States rests the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of our agriculture products, and the availability of employment— Too often in recent history liberal government has been wrecked on the rocks of loose fiscal policy. We must avoid this danger."

This statement is truer now than the day it was delivered. Since that time the public deficit has increased $7,000,000,000 and is increasing at the rate of $250,000,000 per month. We have rolled up the largest public debt in war or peacetime. But big as the present deficit is and high as present taxes are, they do not worry me too much. It is acquiring the spending "habit" which bothers me. Most readers who have written me recently feel that this is the biggest danger about the spending program. One or two drinks are not dangerous. Put no drunkard ever started out to be a drunkard.

HOW SPENDING CAN BE CHECKED

Readers feel that those who benefit from this program may develop such a powerful political machine that they can roll up appropriations like a snowball year after year. Readers can remember the bitter fights put up by selfish interests against both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt when they dried to cut federal expenses in line with the drop in tax income. Why will it be any easier to curtail these enormous emergency expenditures? So to prevent the building up of gigantic political machines, I suggest temporarily taking the vote away from those receiving relief and their immediate families. This would be based on the same principle that prohibits the residents of Washington, D.C. from voting.

Now, the next step is to eliminate competition between public and private employment. The number receiving relief has increased more than fifty per cent in the past year. On the other hand, business according to the Babsonchart while still 21 per cent below normal is only two per cent below last May and factory employment is actually higher. To prevent the relief rolls from being padded, I make another

Fires on Island

VICTORIA, May 9 (CP). — The first weekly fire report of the season reached the B.C. forest branch today. It showed a total of 25 fires, half of which were on Vancouver Island and elsewhere in the Vancouver forest district. Light hazard at Kamloops and Nelson, freedom from fire in northern ridings, and slight hazard in southern areas were reported. Slash burning at Kapoor, attended by high winds, caused some concern yesterday.

NELSON PROPOSES A WIDER FOREST PROTECTION LAW TO COMING MEET

Would Have Scenic Values Covered; Urges a Continuation of Hard Surfacing; to Uphold Contractual Honor

Four subjects will be brought before the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia by the Nelson board of trade, those of forest protection policy, highway policy with respect to hard surfacing, integrity of governmental obligations, and barring of untended cattle from the highways in the interests of safety.

Resolutions framed by the standing resolutions committee of the board with respect to the first three of these subjects were adopted at Thursday's monthly luncheon, while the fourth came up on the initiative of C. F. McHardy.

The forest resolution, inspired by last summer's fire scourge, including the fire on the face of Granite mountain, asked enlargement of provincial policy to embrace all forest fires, not merely those in commercial timber.

Mr. McHardy wished it made more emphatic, as he asserted that fires in crown granted timber were not the government's responsibility under the law, no matter what revenue the government had collected on it.

A. H. Noakes of Balfour, who represents the Farmers institutes, suggested the main point should be to ask for more funds for fire protection, as the forest service was limited by the funds allowed it.

BROADER FOREST POLICY

After discussion by E. C. Wragge, Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham, and H. M. Whimster, the board accepted the resolution as drawn, leaving any desired changes to be made at the convention. Its terms are as follows:

"Whereas many forest fires in southern British Columbia destroy timber and vegetation of scenic value, and water sheds which are becoming of increasing importance, and in some cases seriously endanger other property; and

"Whereas it is understood that the policy of the forest branch of the department of lands prohibits expenditures on the fighting of fires which are not destroying or threatening to destroy timber of commercial value; and

"Whereas the failure to enforce the provisions of the Forest act in regard to the disposal of slash produced in lumbering operations has resulted in the creation of serious fire hazards in many places;

"Therefore be it resolved that the government of British Columbia be urged to make provision for fighting any harmful forest fire to which reasonable access can be had; and

"Be it further resolved that the said forest branch be urged to enforce the provisions of the Forest act relating to the disposal of slash produced in lumbering operations."

FOR HARD SURFACING

Approval of Hon. F. M. MacPherson's policy of hard surfacing, and a request for more of it, were voiced in the following resolution which was adopted without debate:

"Whereas there are only approximately 20 miles of hard-surfaced highway in the interior of southern British Columbia; and

"Whereas by reason of climatic and soil conditions the main highways of the interior of southern British Columbia will not stand up under heavy traffic without hard surfacing.

"Therefore be it resolved that the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia go on record as expressing their satisfaction with the government's policy of hard surfacing the main highways; and

"Be it further resolved that the government be urged to proceed with as little as possible to hard surface those portions of the southern trans-provincial highway which are in proper condition for hard surfacing."

NO TOLERATION OF REPUDIATION

The resolution declaring that any repudiation of contractual obligations obligations by governments would be nationally injurious and must not be permitted was framed by the resolutions committee on instructions given by the council at its last meeting, and was adopted as follows:

"Whereas on the 8th day of April, A.D. 1935, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce published a statement (a copy of which is attached to this resolution) relating to the repudiation or threatened repudiation of contracts by governing bodies; and

"Whereas it is believed that the maintenance of Canadian credit is of vital importance and that nothing should be done by federal, provincial or municipal governments to impair it;

"Therefore be it resoluted that the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia strongly endorse the said statement and the principles upon which it is based."

CHAMBER'S STATEMENT

The Chamber of Commerce statement was as follows:

"Arising out of the proposed legislation before the Ontario government, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, representing business interests throughout the nine provinces of the Dominion, is gravely concerned at the danger to Canadian credit of any threatened repudiation of governmental contracts, agreements or bonded indebtedness.

"Nothing is more essential to the preservation of our national character and to the future welfare of every class of citizen in the country than the maintenance of the sanctity of contracts.

"Apart from the normal considerations which are preeminently important, our whole economic structure is based on confidence and credit. Loss of confidence arising from any repudiation of contracts would inevitably increase business uncertainty and adversely affect employment and recovery.

"Candada also has many foreign obligations, and our credit abroad depends upon our integrity as a nation. Impairment of credit will undoubtedly result in the refusal of the financial centers of the world to purchase new securities from Canada, and to renew those falling due, except upon onerous terms, thus adding heavily to our present financial burdens.

"Any apparent profit or gain which may result from violations of contracts must inevitably be counterbalanced manyfold by our loss of business and by increasing the price we will have to pay for British and foreign capital necessary to Canada's future development.

"It is imperative that contractual obligations should not be prejudiced by any action contrary to the highest ideals of business and national life."

KEEP STOCK OFF ROADS

On Mr. McHardy's suggestion, which was seconded by Mr. Noakes, who declared live stock on the road was a menace to life and property, and that he had vainly tried for years to get the West Kootenay Central Farmers institute to move in this direction, the board asked for reaffirmation of a former resolution that asked the provincial government to constitute arterial highways pound areas.

J. A. Irving recalled C. D. Blackwood's suggestion that the government be asked to require cows to carry tail-lights at night, and R. W. Hinton advised looking up the old resolution first, to be sure of its terms, but the proposal went through as made.

LAUNCH CLUB PROSPERING

Following expressions of appreciation for bringing the club through a financially successful year, members of the Kootenay Launch club voted its 1934 officers back to office for another term, with but one change.

J. C. Forbes is again commodore. Dr. Ray Shaw captain and George Horstead mate and secretary-treasurer. Jack Smith, Tony Bell and D. A. Acton were chosen governors. Mr. Acton replacing L. S. Gilbert on the list.

The financial statement showed receipts of $1876.88 and a bank balance of $632.02. Assets over liabilities amounted to $4496.18.

Auditor H. E. Dill in discussing the statement pointed out that the walks had been placed in excellent shape and despite heavy expenditures the club had ended up the year within $11 of the previous year's balance.

Considerable attention was given to delinquent members and arrangements were made for the collection of back debts and for the taking over of boat houses in lieu of payment.

More Alliances Loom in Europe

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 9 (AP)—A few more strands seemed likely to be woven into the network of European alliances as representatives of the Balkan pact states arrived here today for conferences starting tomorrow.

It was indicated the entire Balkan peninsula was more favorably disposed toward an understanding with Russia, with Czechoslovakia and Rumania leading the way to possible rapprochement.

Rearmament of Bulgaria, Hungary and Austria as well as possibilities of restoration of the Hapsburgs to the Austrian throne are expected to be among the important subjects discussed.

To Cross Pacific in 45-Foot Yacht

VANCOUVER, May 9 (CP)—Captain E. P. Green, retired commander of Canadian Pacific steamships transpacific liners, left Hong Kong April 16 in his 45-foot yacht, Romance, on a voyage to Vancouver, officers of R.M.S. Empress of Canada reported here today.

Captain Green, accompanied only by his 18-year-old son, planned to sail across the China sea to Yokohama, then direct to Vancouver by a route 100 miles south of the regular steamer route. The yacht, a sailing craft with auxiliary power, is luxuriously finished and has accommodations for four passengers.

The venturesome couple expect to arrive here early in June and will be joined by Mrs. Green and their daughter. They then plan a world cruise on the yacht.

work, but the extent of the program would depend upon financial developments.

75 PER CENT FROM OUTSIDE B.C.

Seventy-five per cent of the men in relief camps in British Columbia were from other parts of Canada, said the premier. "It does not seem fair that the many thousands who have come to British Columbia from other provinces only recently, should be put to work, while permanent residents of British Columbia are out of work, and this situation we hope to remedy.

"We in Canada stand on the brink hesitating to take action, notwithstanding that fact that we have the man-power and the natural resources, and it is only a question of bringing the two together.

CANNOT FUNCTION

"The provinces can not properly function under present conditions, nor can the municipalities.

"Sources of revenue must be allocated to the province to carry on in self-respecting fashion within its own jurisdictions. There must at the same time be equalization of freight rates and tariff adjustment, or provision made for the equivalent of the disparity under which we labor.

"Trade with the world generally must be stimulated, particularly in some lines with our neighbors, the United States."

The premier believed revision of the British North America act would occur shortly after the general election, "and our government proposes to insist that this shall take place."

In regard to relief camps, Mr. Pattullo felt sure it was a general opinion that they were devastating to morale and deteriorating to character.

"For many months," he added, "constant agitation has been in progress in this province and influences subversive of constitutional government have been spreading dissatisfaction.

"That abuses exist under the capitalistic system as at present functioning is true," he said of agitation for a socialistic state, "but there is no system which can be devised that is not capitalistic, including socialism." Further, no socialistic state could exist except by force.

COMBAT UNREST

"It is time that all level-headed people should assert themselves to combat the unrest now existing. The recent strike at Corbin has resulted in announcement that the mine will shut down completely and 120 families will be thrown out of work.

"At this moment a strike exists in the Bridge River country. I hope this strike may be settled by arbitration, but the fact that the strike has occurred is an indication of the prevalence of unrest in the country."

In regard to his own "work and wages" program, every statement he ever made about it was predicated upon the use of the national credit, "in which is involved our own," the premier said. He referred to his proposal that $200,000,000 a year be spent during the depression and declared British Columbia's share, say, of $15,000,000, would absorb practically all employable now out of work.

His government did not intend to be pushed into wild schemes that would end in disaster, but on the other hand it was not going to sit down for fear of making a mistake.

Budget Balancing Is Spencer Theme

SASKATOON, May 9 (CP)—Attempts to balance a national budget in times of economic stress may unbalance the budgets of nearly all the people of the country and may thus be more detrimental than operating the state on borrowed money, Henry E. Spencer, U.F.A. member of the house of commons for Battle River, declared today in an address before the Canadian club.

Mr. Spencer said he believed there was a tendency to place too much emphasis on a favorable trade balance.

short distance ahead. They stated Harmis was down on his knees as though weakened and that Ball fired two more shots, one of which took effect in the head and apparently was the one that caused death.

Ball is reported to have returned to the camp and asked that the police be notified. Officers from Fernie and Cranbrook went to the camp and arrested Ball. He is said to have stated that he intended to kill himself as well but changed his mind.

Coroner Duthie of Fernie went to the camp and viewed the body before it was moved. An inquest has been ordered.

According to reports Ball was angered at the refusal of his wife to return to live with him in Kimberley. She and their children were staying with her brother. Ball seems to have thought that Harmis was in some way responsible for her refusal to return home.

Sergeant Fairbain of Cranbrook and Corporal Wymann of Fernie went back to the scene of the shooting Thursday to continue their investigation.

Ball came up for preliminary hearing Thursday morning and was remanded for eight days.
