BRITISH CABINET DEBATES SITUATION

Chinese Prepare Capitulation of Japanese Ultimatum

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28—J. F. Brenan, British consul-general, today advised Britishers living outside the international settlement to be prepared to enter the settlement quickly in event of an emergency.

United States Consul-General E. S. Cunningham issued a similar warning after unidentified persons hurled a bomb against the Japanese consulate.

No damage was done by the bomb except for a few shattered windows, but Japanese authorities said a hat picked up in the streets bore the insignia of a Chinese Anti-Japanese society.

Five hundred national Japanese marines were landed from the cruiser Yubari, which arrived today, along with 12 additional Japanese destroyers. The marines took up quarters in the school buildings in the heart of the Japanese community.

After the bombing of the Japanese consulate, which followed upon a Japanese ultimatum for the suppression of anti-Japanese agitators and boycotters, municipal police combed the neighborhood, but failed to find any suspect.

TRAIN GUNS ON CITY

The Japanese consulate was placed under a heavy police guard and 37 Japanese ships of war had their guns trained on the city from the harbor.

With threatened Japanese occupation of the city feared imminent the American and British consuls-general issued their warnings to get foreigners within areas subject to foreign protection.

The Reuters (British) news agency correspondent said the municipal council of the international settlement had decided to declare a "state of emergency." British Brig. General George Fleming would com-

AWARDED DAMAGES

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27—Damages totalling $1900 were awarded by a supreme court jury, this afternoon, to Mrs. Louise Conners, West Eighth avenue, against Casper Grohregen, of Granville street, by whose automobile Mrs. Conners was knocked down at Pacific and Granville, Oct. 13, while she was running for a street car.

SCORE OF HOUSES AND LUMBER BURN

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 27—Fire, raging through thousands of feet of stacked lumber, today wiped out two lumber manufacturing plants and damaged nearly a score of houses before being brought under control.

Seven persons, five of them firemen, were injured or burned during the blaze. No estimate of the damage was obtained.

Scientific Trip Into Antarctic Contemplated

VICTORIA, Jan. 27 (CP)—A voyage into the antarctic of a scientific expedition late in the year, of which he will be a member, is in contemplation, Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer, said here today. The expedition, the famous Australian stated, will seek to solve the geographic mysteries of the south polar continent. One of the main objectives will be to investigate the possible existence of sea level between the Weddell and Ross seas.

Sir Hubert gave no further details of the proposed expedition, and did not state who would head the party or under whose auspices the investigations would be carried out.

MINERS STRIKE OVER WORK DISTRIBUTION

COLEMAN, Alta., Jan. 27—Dispute with the management of the International Coal and Coke company, Ltd., over the distribution of work today led to a strike of the miners here.

COUNCIL FAILS TO RECONCILE VARYING VIEWS

GENEVA, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The council of the league of nations labored today to produce a declaration of policy in the Sino-Japanese conflict, but failed to reconcile the conflicting views of its members.

The deliberations were held in private and only 13 members of the council attended, the Chinese and Japanese delegates being excluded. They will be resumed tomorrow behind closed doors.

LALONDE GIRL NO CONNECTION OF THE LASSANDRAS

Was About Same Age as Young Woman Suggested as Her Mother

"Tom Uphill, M.P.P. for Fernie, says there is nothing whatever to the Kelowna conjecture that Genevieve Nolan or Lalonde, the police operative murdered at Kelowna, has a family connection with the Florence Lassandra who was executed with Picarello for the murder of an Alberta officer at Coleman shortly after the war," stated Baggageman T. A. Wallace of Cranbrook last night, after the arrival of the Kootenay Express.

Mr. Wallace said that the suggestion that the murdered girl was a daughter of Florence Lassandra was particularly far-fetched, as her age was but little different from the age that Florence Lassandra would have been had she lived.

"In any case," Mr. Wallace said, "we are assured that there is no family connection, and this suggestion, emanating from Kelowna, can only cause pain to the aged parents of Florence Lassandra, who are respected residents of Fernie."

RECENT UPRISING IN SALVADOR WAS AIMED, OFFICIALS

Five of the Eight Killed Died at Hands of Communists

SAN SALVADOR, Jan. 27 (AP)—City officials were the targets in the recent uprising in Salvador attributed to Communists, it was learned today, and five were slain among eight known to have been killed by the rebels.

Communist leaders were said in private quarters to have instructed their followers to shoot the same four officials in each town—the mayor, municipal secretary, commandant and local telegraph operator.

All four were killed at Colon and the mayor of Juayua was assassinated, as well as a former mayor. Two other men were slain at Colon and the wife of one was wounded.

Dwellings were robbed and burned in Juaya. The rebels remained only a few hours in Sonzacate, Izalco, Nuhuizalco, Tabuco and other places, before they were chased off by federal troops, who turned machine guns on them. The rebel bands dwindled off into various villages, but finally were beaten and dispersed.

"Transportation for Life," Sentence Given Bengali School Girls

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Wearing red sarees and with their hair adorned with lotus flowers, Miss Santi Ghose and Miss Sunity Chowdri, Bengal school girls, were sentenced to "transportation for life" today for the murder of Magistrate C. C. B. Stevens last month.

As it is no longer the policy of the government to send prisoners outside of India, it is believed the two girls would be exiled to some province out of Bengal where they could be held in restraint.

When the terms of their sentence were translated to them they seemed indifferent.

BRONSON HEADS FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

MONTREAL, Jan. 27—Frederick E. Bronson, of Ottawa, was elected president of the Canadian Forestry association at the 32nd annual meeting of the organization held here today. He succeeds R. O. Sweezey retiring president. Robson Black, also of Ottawa, was chosen as vice-president, retaining at the same time his position of general manager of the association.

EXPECT SOUTH AFRICA TO QUIT GOLD REGIME

General Belief Government Will Suspend Present Standard

INTERESTS OF UNION SOUGHT

Business Men Acting as if Departure Already Taken

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Jan. 27 (C P cable)—Tomorrow's proceedings in the legislative assembly of the Union of South Africa will be of momentous importance to the future of the union, for there is a general belief the government will announce suspension of the gold standard.

At the opening of parliament today, Prime Minister J. B. Hertzog gave notice of a motion for appointment of a select committee to inquire to what extent the maintenance of the gold standard is in the interests of the union, and "whether and to what extent departure from the gold standard would affect the interests and welfare of the country."

Business men today were already acting on the assumption that South Africa will depart from the gold standard. Even if the motion does not mean abandoning the standard, the prime minister's action has caused such reaction that it will be infinitely more difficult for the union to remain on the gold standard, it is asserted.

In some quarters opposed to the government is charged the prime minister is endeavoring to escape from an awkward financial situation by throwing the onus on parliament.

The government declared, when Britain suspended the gold standard last September, that the Union of South Africa would maintain it. Last month the government imposed an exchange "anti-dumping" duty to counteract the effect of trade of the unfavorable foreign exchange rates as against South African money.

General Jan Christian Smuts, leader of the opposition, has been strongly urging abandonment of the gold standard.

Death of 11 Miners Due to "Firedamp"

CARDIFF, Wales, Jan. 27.—The deaths of 11 miners from an explosion in the Llwynpia colliery in the Rhondonna valley Monday night were officially attributed today to "firedamp" rather than burns.

Two of the dead were rescue workers who attempted to force their way through the deadly carbon monoxide gasses to save their comrades. The ventilation of the mine has been restored and the workings have been inspected. The exact cause of the disaster has not been determined.

British Cruiser Quarantined for Spinal Meningitis

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, Jan. 27 (CP)—The British cruiser York lay in quarantine off this harbor today with a case of spinal meningitis in the crew.

The patient was taken off and placed in a hospital ashore, and this morning a consignment of serum arrived by airplane from Porto Rico. The York will discontinue her scheduled cruise, returning to England on February 1.

Heart Attack Takes Railway Conductor

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 27.—Just a few minutes before he was due to take charge of the Fraser Valley local which leaves the terminal at 5:15 p. m., Edward George Harris, 53, veteran Canadian Pacific railway conductor, dropped dead at the C. P. R. station here this afternoon.

Cause of death was not stated by Dr. S. Bonnell who was called, but it is believed due to a heart attack.

TOUZEAU DIES AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 27—Peter Mahy Touzeau, aged 54, of Smeiln drive, a resident of Vancouver for 45 years, died in General hospital on Tuesday. The deceased was a native of England.

DUFF REPORT NOT EXPECTED FOR SOME TIME

OTTAWA, Jan. 27. — The Duff commission, investigating Canada's railway problem, is not expected to make a report to the government before the end of March or early in April. The commission has concluded its travelling hearings of evidence and representations. One more meeting in Ottawa will be held February 15. Almost a ton of documents must be reviewed before its report can be written.

PRESENT YOUTH WILL SUCCEED BELIEF, PRINCE

Speaks to Large Gathering of Boys and Girls at Meeting

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Depression and apathy are the devil's own, the Prince of Wales told 10,000 boys and girls in Albert hall today at a meeting arranged by the National Council for Social Service.

"They're not English," he cried. "Away with them!" and the roof rang with cheers.

"Emerson said a good many years ago that the Englishman is the one who stands firmest in his shoes," said the prince, "and I know this is true of the rising generation of today.

"So far as I am concerned, many paths in life are closed to me. Much that I would like to do I cannot, but I have tried to bring the people of the empire closer together. I have had my failures, I know, but in these years with few precedents to guide us, to have had no failures is to have attempted nothing.

"There is a danger that some people are getting too used to the present critical situation," he said. "It's no use waiting for that doubtful thing of a good time coming. We have got to fight, and here I pin my faith to the younger generation, to keep England a bulwark for the cause of men, to keep our great heritage to trust for those who come after.

Authorities Hold Men for Carrying Spurious Cheques

SEATTLE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Immigration officials revealed today that Chester L. Buchanan, alias Stark, was being held in the county jail at Bellingham after a package of spurious "certified" cheques on Canadian banks had been found on him.

The cheques are made out in amounts from $50 to $500, they said.

Inspector B. E. Gowen said that Buchanan was deported to Canada a few months ago after serving a term for forgery in the state prison at Walla Walla.

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—Possibility that one or more persons might be held responsible and punished for the collapse of a wall of the Vatican library, which took five lives, was seen today when Pope Pius ordered a second investigation.

WOOD IS PLEASED BUT NOT SATISFIED WITH NEW WORLD SPEED BOAT RECORD

Will Make Another Try to Boost Mileage in Few Days; Is Confident He Can Do It; Boat Jumps on Return Trip

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 27. (AP)—Gar Wood shot his Miss America IX. along Indian Creek course to a new 110.785-mile-an-hour world's speedboat record today to reclaim supremacy of the water for America.

Wood's speed was a scant half mile better than the record of 110.223 miles an hour set at Lake Garda, Italy, last July by Kaye Don in taking the speedboat record to England.

GAR WOOD

(By GAR WOOD)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 27. (AP)—"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" is an old saying, but I believe it tonight. For the world's speed crown is tottering on my head with a margin of only half a mile an hour keeping it in pace. It isn't enough to give me a peaceful feeling.

Of course I am delighted that we are able to send Miss America IX. over the nautical mile straightaway over Indian Creek at a speed of 110.785 miles an hour, just enough to beat the British record of 110.223 miles an hour.

But I am not satisfied. So within a few days we will try again to set a newer and faster record. I feel confident that we will be able to increase the speed at least one mile per hour.

It is necessary to run one nautical mile in either direction of the course and average the speed of the two runs to determine a record. On our first run this morning, which was south and against the elements, we travelled 111.08 miles an hour. According to all experiences we should have been at least half a mile an hour faster on the northbound trip, when the elements should have favored us. Instead we were slower. Our speed was 110.49 miles an hour.

BOAT JUMPY

The southbound run was negotiated without any difficulty but on the northbound run the boat was as jumpy as a bucking broncho. Orlin Johnson, my riding mechanic, was nearly thrown from the boat several times. Several times the boat jumped its length.

This was caused, we believe, because the bow of the boat did not settle on a level with the water while we were running at high speed. It is the same as a warped board, although in the boat it is the matter of a fraction of an inch.

Tonight we are laying weights on the bow of the boat to bend it back into shape. Then we will run again. And I am hopeful that the average will be above the 111-mile-an-hour mark.

Orlin Johnson and I each have a stop-watch at our side in the boat, and we time each run. Today we timed ourselves riding faster than the electrical timing device which recorded the run. But the timing device is more accurate than we are. Maybe it just seemed faster to us.

DEFEAT BEER PLEBISCITE

LANGLEY PRAIRIE, B. C., Jan. 27—Voters of Langley Prairie went to the polls today and defeated a plebiscite for the sale of beer by the glass by a majority of 36. The vote, when counting had finished tonigat, was: For beer by the glass, 98; against, 134.

FAVOR CONSTRUCTION OF BATTLE CRUISER

PARIS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The naval affairs committee of the chamber of deputies, by a vote of 16 to two, went on record today as favoring the immediate construction of a 26,000 ton battle cruiser as the French answer to Germany's "pocket battleships."

MEN DISAPPEAR IN ROWBOAT OFF VANCOUVER WHARF

Police Are Endeavoring to Unravel Mystery; Occupants in Distress

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 27.—Complete disappearance of two persons seen in a rowboat off Dundarave wharf, west Vancouver, at 2:30 p. m. today, has created a mystery which police are endeavoring to unravel.

The people were seen to be in distress by West Vancouver residents and authorities were notified of their plight.

Police patrol boat under command of H. Whelan, at once set out for the north shore, but after several hours of searching failed to discover any traces of them.

At the time, Officer Whelan stated, there was a strong sourn west tide running. It is feared that the boat may have been carried out to the center of the channel and swamped in the rough seas.

Schoolboys in Vancouver "Swipe" Cans; Turns Out to Be Alcohol; Use It in School; Leads to Man's Arrest

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 27.—When small boys turned "hijackers" recently and made off with 50 gallons of high-grade alcohol which they used in laboratory tests at their school, they started a train of events which led to the arrest of Gaston Candacle on a charge of having illicit liquor in his possession.

While viewing a rockslide in the Great Northern railway cut near Grandview highway they found a man sitting whittling beside a pile of bright new oil cans. The man drove them away in such a manner as to arouse their resentment, and when he left his place for a short time they swooped down and carried off the cans and hid them. They didn't know what to do with their plunder, but two of the more ingenious of their number found that the liquid in the tins made an ideal fuel for toy steam engines.

Older brothers took some of the fluid to school and used it in laboratory tests, where it was found to be high-grade alcohol.

Police ultimately came into the case, and with the cooperation of the boys Candacle was arrested. He appeared in court, and was remanded to January 28.

Reduce Expenditures

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 27.—No request for educational facilities which will require further expenditures will be granted by the provincial government. In addition to this, many existing services will be reduced.

This reply was given to the executive of the Saskatchewan School Trustees' association when it met the members of the provincial government today.

SALVAGE VESSELS RETURN TO PORTS AS SEA IS ROUGH

Hope for Rescue of Trapped Men Is Lost; British Admiralty Sends Deep Sea Rescue Vessel to Place Where Submarine Believed Fouled

SISTER SHIP SEARCHES UNDER SEA BUT FAILS TO GET ANY RESPONSE

Belief Is That Explosion Occurred or Submarine Settled on Bottom Upside Down Preventing Escape of Men Through Escape Tubes

PORTLAND, England, Jan. 27. (CP)—The hours of hope—already a very slender hope—for saving the lives of the submarine's crew had dwindled at night until only 10 hours remained of the 48, which was the normal limit in which breathing was at all likely within the sunken craft.

Six destroyers rolled in a strong swell, with their signal lights flashing to and fro in the darkness, around the red flag that marked the position where the M-2 was supposed to have foundered. Salvaging ships, unable to work in the dark, and too unwieldy to anchor in the open sea, went to Portland harbor for the night, prepared to return at daybreak.

An urgent request was sent to the Portsmouth dockyards for an observation chamber from which divers might search the sea bed safely. This is an improved sort of diving bell with glass windows through which a diver can scan a radius of about 20 yards with the help of powerful electric lights. It can be lowered even in a comparatively rough sea.

SAYS SEARCH WRONG

LONDON, Jan. 28. (AP)—Search for the missing British submarine M-2 was being made in the wrong place, nearly six miles from where it disappeared, Captain Howard of the steamer Tynesider told the Gravelines correspondent of the Daily Mail today.

Captain Howard said he saw a submarine submerge stern first and had no doubt that it was the M-2 as he clearly read the mark "M."

Her head was rising out of the water and before the Tynesider could approach she sank rather suddenly.

He had never seen a submarine dive and therefore did not pay much attention he said, as he supposed it was all right.

"But the position the admiralty gave is not a good one," he said.

"When I saw the M-2, she was approximately 8 miles northwest by north from Portland bill and 2 1-2 miles from shore. I am afraid they are searching in the wrong place."

The Mail calculated the position he gave as six miles away from the center of the search.

PORTLAND, England, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Somewhere on the bottom of Dead Man's bay the submarine M-2 lay tonight with 62 men—or their bodies—inside.

THREE NAVAL MEN MAY ESCAPE CIVIL COURT, RECOGNIZED

Men May Be Transferred to Naval Authorities Says Counsel

HONOLULU, Jan. 27 (AP)—Possibility that the second degree murder indictment returned against Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three navy men for the lynching of an accused woman attacker may permit the naval men to escape trial in civil court was officially recognized here tonight.

Barry S. Ulrich, special counsel appointed to aid in the prosecution of the four, said transfer of the three navy men to naval authorities for trial "had been discussed" but that no move had been made as yet either by naval authorities or civil officials.

No indication whether civil or naval authorities, or both, had discussed the case was given by Ulrich.

MAGISTRATE TO PROBE SHOOTING DEATH IN NORTH

Victim Allegedly Shot by Youth After Forcing Entry and Attacking

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Jan. 27.—(CP)—Armed with the powers of both magistrate and coroner, District Magistrate S. C. Young left here tonight for the northern hamlet of Tashota to investigate the death of James Rowlandson, 28, and to hold a preliminary hearing of whatever charge may be laid against Horace Cashaback, 16, held in connection with the affair.

Details reaching here this morning indicated Rowlandson died after he had been shot in the leg last night. The shooting occurred in a store owned by Cashaback's family, and it is alleged Rowlandson forced an entry and attacked the youth, who then fired on him with a revolver.

Tashota is on the north of Lake Nipigon. The magistrate will not reach the village until tomorrow night.

WAR VETERAN DIES AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27—Alfred Harry Lock, aged 66, of Eton street, for 25 years a letter carrier for Vancouver post office, died Tuesday night in Shaughnessy Military hospital following a year's illness.

The deceased saw active service in the Egyptian campaign, the South African war and the great war. He was a native of London and came to Vancouver 29 years ago. He retired from postal service four years ago.

REVISION WORK OF INDIAN ROUND TABLE TO BEGIN

Three Committees Will Investigate Various Matters

BOMBAY, Jan. 27. (CP and AP cables)—Three committees of the Indian round table conference, here from London, were expected to begin their work of investigation tomorrow.

The first committee, headed by the Marquis of Lothian, will investigate and advise on a revision of the franchise and possible redistribution of constituencies. The second, of which Lord Eustace Percy is chairman, will put to test of detailed budgetary figures the recommendations of the federal finance subcommittee of the conference in London. The third, headed by J. C. Davison, M.P., will examine specific financial problems connected with individual states.

Meanwhile, today two dozen commercial organizations agreed to suspend all business for a week in protest against the continued work of the committees without the participation of Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, who is in jail at Poona.

TRINITY LOSES CAGE GAME BY NARROW MARGIN

Trinity lost by a single point one of the closest games they have so far played this season, to the Vandals' basketball squad on the high school floor last night.

Both teams ewre incomplete and minus some of their good players, and men were taken in from other teams. Nevertheless both teams were evenly matched and it was a see-saw game all the way through.

All players were fairly evenly matched as to playing ability which seems rather unusual to the Vandals.

The Trinity team played an unusually fast game with the aid of Charlie MacLean of the N. A. C. team.

At the final whistle the score stood at 21-20 with the Trinity team on the short end.

The line-ups were:

Trinity—Allan, Webster (3), Muraro (7), Jeffrey (6), MacLean (4).

Vandals—Stewart (5), Kirby (7), A. MacLean (3), McQuaig (4), McLeod (2).

Referee—Joe Wallach.

The organization included the Bombay Bullion Exchange, the Cotton Brokers' association, and various groups of gold, silver and seed merchants.

The country was calm after disturbances yesterday in which two persons were killed and a number injured.

VALUABLE WORK OF THE FEDERATED WOMEN'S INSTITUTES OF CANADA IS STRESSED IN REPORT OF MRS. PITTS

President of Nelson Branch Traces Development of Organization

At the annual meeting of the Nelson Women's institute recently, Mrs. Pitts, president of the local branch, gave a resume of the work being done by the organization throughout Canada.

The report stated "There was no country in the world having such a well organized system to promote the making of better homes, particularly in the rural district, as has Canada.

"This is done by the various provincial departments of agriculture which provide short courses in home economics, home nursing, sewing, needlework, basketry, millinery, arts and crafts and so forth, through the Women's institutes of the Maritime provinces, Ontario, Quebec, Alberta, and British Columbia, and the home makers clubs of Saskatchewan.

"These are groups of women, who irrespective of race, creed or politics gather together in their different communities, apply to the, provincial departments of agriculture for a constitution, and form themselves into one of these organizations to work for 'home and country'. This is their motto.

PURELY CANADIAN

"This is a purely Canadian organization of which I am truly proud. The first Women's institute was brought into being in 1897 in a little village called Stoney Battle Creek, Wentworth, Ontario. The founder of this organization was Mrs. Adelaid Hoodless, the daughter ter of a pioneer Ontario farm family. Mrs. Hoodless was responsible in placing before the people in her community the idea of an organization with its objctive, the making of better homes and child welfare. The first Women's institute was the result.

"This great movement became so popular throughout the whole Dominion of Canada that it spread like wildfire from coast to coast.

"The first organization was called 'Women's department of the Farmer's institute. At the next meeting however, the name was changed to Women's institute.

"This splendid work deveioped from this one small group of women in an isolated place, to the present enrolment of almost 100,000 members, enjoyed by the organization in Canada, known as the Federated Women's institutes of Canada.

GOES TO ENGLAND

"We had the honor of taking this Canadian organization over to the old land. This was done by Mrs. Alfred Watts of Victoria in 1915. I am more proud that she went from our own fair province of British Columbia to promote such a movement at a time when British women were organizing to help win the war.

"The idea spread rapidly through England. The women banded themselves together in institutes, studied home economics adn food preservation, started cooperative enterprises such as jam factories and launderies, and purchased labor saving devices for community use. They organized committees for minding children and carrying on homes while all who could filled the places of the men overseas. They provided wholesome amusements for lonely women whose menfolk were fighting in the trenches. Queen Mary became so interested that she was elected president of the Sandringham institute and has been a very active worker ever since.

4695 BRANCHES

"Today there are 4695 branches in England. It is submitted that no other modern movement has had such a far-reaching affect on village, city or rural life. The Canadian motto 'for home and country', is the name given to the British women's paper which has a circulation of 62,596.

"Although organized primarily to better home conditions the scope of work is widened adn carried on through the activities of six committees, namely public health, child welfare, education and better schools, Canadianization, agriculture, home economics and legislation.

"The Women's institute is always working to raise the stndard of health in the home. This is done by making a study of the proper methods of feeding, clothing and housing their little families.

Papers given on proper food for children, sanitation in the homes, control of infectious diseases, and so forth, all help in furthering the work of the organization. Ontario owes its medical inspection in rural schools to the Women's institutes. The doctor, in the school, was followed by the school nurses, who visited the homes and pointed out physical defects of the children to the parents, giving the mothers instructions how to take care of their little ones.

"The Women's institutes arranged hot lunches for the country children who were obliged to remain main in school during dinner hour. Operations for crippled children were also financed. Ever since the first branch was organized the Women's institute programs consisted of papers dealing with proper food for children followed by discussions, papers on art, on children in health and disease, chick culture and so forth All these subjects show that even in the early days the work of the institute was blazing trails along the lines of child welfare and public health.

ALL SHOULD DO PART

"Each one of us should be ready to do her part to promote and stimulate this wonderful organization of ours. We distribute literature on the care and feeding of children, letters to expectant mothers, which have been a boon to women who are not within reach of a doctor, also data on home-canning and other topics pertaining to home management.

"Soon the United States took up the idea, calling their organization the Home bureau. The movement has spread far in that country. We have institutes in Belgium, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Italy, Australia and many other countries.

"Another popular subject for study and discussion has been that of keeping the baby well. This paved the way to the baby clinic. The home nursing and first aid courses have been of inestimable value. Institutes have been working for hospitals in the Peace River country where this need is literally a matter of life or death. The Fairview Women's institute has purchased and equipped a small hospital with a capable and qualified nurse in charge.

"Women throughout the Dominion have been taught the cold pack method of canning fruits, vegetables and meats, while the most up-to-date methods of bread making, and butter making have been demonstrated by experts.

"Education and better schools is another aim of the Women's institute. They have provided school playground equipment and agitated for supervised playgrounds.

"Through the Canadian council of immigration, Women's institutes have been able to follow up special cases, especially those of young girls who come out to this country as domestic helpers. There begins the work of Canadianization and the teaching of Canadian ideals and principles, not only in the foreign-born but in the British and native-born. This is done by stressing our national holidays, teaching our national songs, community singing and the study of British and Canadian history and tradition. The institute is a medium through which country, village, town, city and province are united into a mighty national force.

"Is it any wonder that Canada and Canadians are proud of this great non-sectarian, non-partisan organization, which, with its many links, stretches from sea to sea, fervent in its service for 'home and country?'"

Strange Package Frightened Postal Authorities

BARBER CAUSES SCARE IN ITALY

Post-office officials had a good scare and then a good laugh at their own fears January 12 in Naples when a suspicious-looking package marked "medals," and addressed to the king, came through the mails from New Jersey. They feared a bomb, but opened the package and found an American 50-cent piece dated 1832 with a note from Modestino De Rosa, Newark, N. J., giving it to the king. Modestino, left, and his son, Theodore, are shown in their barber shop at Newark, January 12, when the result became known.

LITTLE NELL IS SHOWN ON SLIDES TO 260 KIDDIES

Brigadier George Smith Tells of Fatal Excuses for Putting Off

Stereopticon views of the death of Little Nell, from Charles Dickens' "Old Curiosity Shop", were shown to 260 children at the Salvation Army citadel Wednesday afternoon, by Brigadier George Smith of Winnipeg, in connection with his week's campaign in Nelson for conversion of souls.

A large audience greeted the brigadier in the evening when he spoke on "The Devil's Excuses," these being the excuses used by those who postponed attending to their souls' welfare.

STOOD UP TO BULLY

"It's all right for me to become a Christian tonight, but what about the gang tomorrow?" was the hazard at which many hesitated, the brigadier said. He said there were bullies who took pleasure in manhandling Christians who, because they were Christians, were expected to offer no resistance. In his own young days as a Christian, the speaker stated, when he was molested by a fellow factory-worker, who thought he would not defend himself, he stood the molestation for a time, and then, telling the bully that he could fight just as well as before he became a Christian, invited him to go outside to settle their little matter. This ended the trouble.

Where the individual hesitating on the verge of conversion feared he "could not keep it up," the brigadier said the salvation that saved also sustained.

One of the most disastrous of excuses was that, "Oh, there's lots of time." "There is not lots of time," the speaker asserted. He told how, over a period of many years, he had made repeated tests with audiences, up to 1000 people, and while many would raise their hands when asked to signify their conversion before the age of 20, and some would answer in the 20s, there was never more than half a dozen when it came to those who had been converted after the age of 30. "There is not lots of time," he declared emphatically, and told of many individuals within his own experience who, after leaving the matter undecided, suddenly were called before their Maker.

JOYS THAT WRECK

"Don't pin your faith to the joys of the world," the veteran Salvationist cautioned, pointing to many of his youthful friends who had had greater material advantages than he, and who chose the worldly path, several of them proceeding to drunkards' graves, while one took his own life. "Sin will leave you a wreck on the shores of time," he warned.

There were also those who mocked God, who made light of the invitation to turn from sin and receive salvation, even who actually made sport of the matter. It was a dreadful thing to make mock of God, he said, and mentioned some who had indulged in this by way of sport, only to suffer some evil fate before long.

THE DANGER LINE

Brigadier Smith told of when he was a young man in London, he saw from the deck of a boat a boy wading in the edge of the Thames, seeing how close he could go to danger without being caught, while his little brother on the bank implored him to stop. Finally he took a fatal step, went out of sight, and rescue efforts failed.

This typified the attitude of many people, who tried to see how long they could carry on in the Devil's way before changing. But the Devil was better posted on the danger place than they were, and many of them were taken without opportunity to make the decision they had said could wait.

Captain A. Cartmell, commanding the local corps, was in the chair.

KIMBERLEY LIFTS THE POINTS CUP AFTER THE 'SPIEL

J. J. O'Neill Sets New Record by Scoring 37; Runners-Up Local Also

KIMBERLEY, B. C., Jan. 27.—Kimberley and Chapman Camp curlers have added the Points competition to their string of victories in the 37th annual bonspiel of the B. C. Curling association, held at Kimberley last week. In this competition, now completed, J. J. O'Neil of Kimberley takes first honors with a score of 37 points, the highest score on record for this competition, the previous record of 36 points being set by R. Anderson of Rossland in 1926.

J. D. Burnyeat of Kimberley was second, with 29 points. G. C. Saunders of Kimberley and Gerald Dunkerley and L. Abel, both of Chapman, were tied with 25 points, sharing the third, fourth and fifth places amongst them.

The consolation and all-comers playdowns will be held as club competitions for the combined Kimberley and Chapman clubs.

DESTROYERS WILL CONTINUE CRUISE

San Salvador Government Feels Strong Enough to Handle Situation

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—(CP) — The Canadian destroyers Skeena and Vancouver., standing by at Alcajita, El Salvador, for the protection of foreign lives and property, will be able to resume their interrupted cruise within the next few hous, it was believed here tonight.

Arrival in Salvadorean waters of the U. S. cruiser Rochester will place the United States forces in a sufficiently strong position to enable the Canadian warships to leave. Advices received at the Salvadorean legation today announced that the government had declined with thanks the offer of the United States commander to land marines. This had been done, Charge d'Affaires Don Roberto D. Melendez told the Canadian Press, because the government felt itself strong enough not only to preserve the lives and property of its own citizens, but also to protect foreigners.

Senor Mendez insisted the disorders which broke out on Saturday could not be described as a general Communist uprising. The trouble had been fomented, he said, by Communist organizations in various towns. There had been no disturbance in the capital, San Salvador.

LEGION WHIST HUGE SUCCESS

China Winning Table at Whist; Capacity Crowd Attends Entertainment

Again the Canadian legion scored a brilliant success when it held a delightful whist drive followed by a lively dance which packed the legion rooms to the doors on Wednesday evening. Each whist and dance is proving more popular than the last.

China, spurning up to date facts, was the winning table, at which Mrs. W. A. Gow, H. H. Crease and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Worthington were playing. Twenty-seven tables played during the evening, after three had to be turned away owing to lack of accommodation. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the cards, after which the spirited crowd wound up the entertainment with a peppy dance.

Responsible for the success were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gow, Mrs. H. H. Currie, Mrs. Jack Worthington, Mrs. H H Leslie and E Y. Brake, the committee in charge.

Mrs. W. A. Gow was master of ceremonies for the evening.

ACCEPTS TASK OF MAKING TAX LAWS MORE INTELLIGIBLE

LONDON, Jan. 27. (CP cable)—Lord MacMillan, distinguished jurist, and a man of more than ordinary talents in the economic sphere, has accepted the chairmanship of a committee appointed by the chancellor of the exchequer to "codify the law relating to income tax with the special aim of making the law as intelligible to the taxpayer as the nature of the legislation admits."

The appointment of the committee, in other words, constitutes a frank confession by the treasury of the truly formidable task that confronts the British taxpayer in compiling his taxable assessment.

C.N.R. CHARGED WITH MISMANAGEMENT

REGINA, Jan. 27. — Charges of gross mismanagement and extravagance in the Canadian National Railways, were laid by Dr. W. D. Cowan, M.P., tonight.

Dr. Cowan was one of three speakers at a meeting of the Arthur Meighen club. The others to address the gathering were Premier J. T. M. Anderson and F. W. Turnbull, K.C., M.P.

ABANDON HOPE FOR MEMBERS OF SUB CREW

desperate efforts tonight to reach two objects lying on the floor of the bay, but thus far were unable to reach bottom.

Meanwhile, the admiralty reported cable mine sweepers had located the objects, one or the other believed to be the submarine.

A number of extra divers tonight were drafted for the H.M.S. Tedworth, which is equipped with special decompression chambers and the latest equipment for deep-sea diving, and she was ordered to proceed from Devonport to Portland.

The rescue flotilla was concentrated to the west of Portland Bill, famous headland, around which sweep some of the most treacherous tides and currents in the seven seas. The flotilla was commanded by Admiral C. J. C. Little, the admiral in charge of submarines.

NO RESPONSE

The M-2's sister ship cruised here and there under the water sounding the clicking device with which submarines communicate with each other when submerged, but there never was the slightest sound which might have been an attempt to answer.

On the surface 80 trawlers and sea-going tugs swept the deep channel with drags.

This evening one of the salvage officers said he had just about given up hope that any of the men would be brought up alive, but he added that much depended upon whether the M-2 had been damaged and filled with water. If her hull is whole, he said, there might be enough air to keep the men alive for a few hours more.

Over in France an admiralty office man was waiting for the captain of a coasting steamer to come in. It was reported the captain had seen the M-2 go down stern first while she was exercising alone in the Channel.

WIVES GIVE UP HOPE

Here in Portland the wives of the crew just about gave up hope when they received telegrams from the skipper of the Dolphin, mother ship of the M-2, saying he was afraid the submarine crew was lost.

They had waited for hours in the fog and rain, crowding the waterfront to watch the salvage vessels, but when night fell they went back to their homes.

MAYBE AN EXPLOSION

The M-2 was supposed to be a good diver, and she carried a small seaplane. Her communication devices were the last word, and it seemed ominous that with this equipment she was unable to signal to the surface craft.

Naval officials were at a loss to explain what happened to the M-2.

Something may have gone wrong with her machinery and the boat settled to the bottom for repairs. It was reasoned, however, that if the men were still alive there would have been signals.

There may have been an explosion or the vessel may have struck some submerged object, but in such circumstances there are usually telltale bubbles of oil on the surface.

If the men were alive, presumably one or more of them would have used the escape apparatus by means of which a man is shoved through a hatch and shot to the surface.

But perhaps the boat struck a submerged object and turned over, in which case the hatches would be jammed shut, though it still would be possible to signal.

Commission Recommends All Possible Economy

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Jan. 27.—(CP cable)—Every possible reduction in government expenditure is recommended by the economy commission, which issued its conclusions today.

Prime Minister G. W. Forbes declared the outlook for the coming financial year was even more difficult than for the fiscal year now drawing to a close. It was essential that every single item of expenditure be reviewed in the light of the commission's recommendations. Further drastic economies would be necessary, he emphasized.

LONDOS WINS BEFORE LARGE CROWD

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 27 (AP)—The largest crowd ever to watch an indoor sport event in Cleveland, 11,000 persons, tonight saw Jim Londos, claimant to the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, throw Gina Garibaldi in a match called as a titular affair.

Londos downed Garibaldi in 38:31 with his aeroplane spin and body slam.

RAILWAY EXTENSION IS COMPLETED

NORTH BAY, Ont., Jan. 27.—Construction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway extension to James bay has been almost completed, and train service to Moosonee, Ontario's most northerly port, will be inaugurated immediately, it was learned today. A weekly service will be established for the winter, but in the spring this will be enlarged.

BANKERS BEAT DRUGGISTS IN PUCK CONTEST

Whitfield Scores for Bankers; Pitts Stars for Druggists

In a dazzling exhibition of footwork and stick handling the bankers left the Druggists on the small end of at 4-2 score in their hockey game Wednesday night. The footwork was especially noticeable since the players most of the time found their heads and feet reversed. J. Whitfield was high scorer for the Bankers, making two counters against the opposing goalie.

Herb Pitts opened the scoring in the first minute of play by poking a fast one past Les Fielding, in goal for the Bankers. The Druggists were not able to score again until the last period, when Stout knocked in a rebound.

The game was a riot of laughs for the few spectators that were present. Both teams were going all out at the first of the game and goal tenders were kept busy. McNab of the Bankers was by far the most spectacular player in the game. He started by making a wild rush for the Druggist's goal and stayed at that end until referee Neff finally coaxed him back to his own territory.

George Fleury demonstrated several poses in which his feet were not always on the ice and Smythe and McNab were forced to sit down in a corner and talk things over.

The bank boys kept the puck in the other's end most of the game and would have scored more goals but for the goal tending displayed by J. Edmondson.

The teams were:

Druggists—Edmondson, goal; Pitts, Campion, defence; Fleury, Perrier, Jones, Minton, Matthews, and Stout, forwards.

Bankers—Fielding, goal; Whitfield (2), Beattie,(1) defence; Knight, McNab, Shaw, Smythe, Warner, Gilroy (1), and Robertson, forwards.

OGDEN CAR SHOPS CLOSE FOR TIME

CALGARY, Jan. 27.—Canadian Pacific Railway car shops at Ogden closed down tonight until February 4. Between 800 and 900 men are affected. No reason was given for the shutdown except work on hand was insufficient to warrant keeping the shops open.

Two Men Are Ejected From Convention

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 27. (AP)—Disorder and confusion arose today in the afternoon session of the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America when John Hindmarsh of Riverton, Ill., was forcibly ejected from Tomlinson hall.

Henry Schuster, a delegate from Scranton, Pa., also was pushed out of the auditorium, and there were several minor rows and arguments. After about 10 minutes the chairman succeededin restoring order.

Support Is Given Wheat Quota Bill

LONDON, Jan. 28. (Thursday)—(CP cable)—The Daily Telegraph today said it understood Sir John Gilmour, minister of agriculture, had reached sufficient measure of agreement with interests concerned to order commencement of work on a draft of the proposed wheat quota bill.

The bill, the newspaper said, is expected to provide for compulsory purchase by wheat users of not less than 15 per cent of their total requirement from British growers.

CIVIL SERVICE MEMBERS BARRED FROM CHIEF JUSTICESHIPS

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 27 (CP cable)—A victory for the unofficial members was registered in the Indian legislative assembly today when a resolution for the elimination of members of the Indian civil service from holding chief justiceships in the Indian high courts was carried by 46 votes to 40.

The resolution was put forward by Sir Hari Singh Gour, who is a distinguished barrister and vice-president of the Indian branch of the Empire Parliamentary association.

WILL ADVOCATE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE VENUE

VICTORIA, Jan. 27—When D. B. Plunkett, M. P., arrives at Ottawa for which place he left tonight to attend the forthcoming session of parliament he will lay before the ministry the suggestion that the venue of the imperial conference be changed to Victoria.

It is known that Victoria would be favored for the conference by New Zealand.

SISSON SENTENCED AT NAKUSP TO ONE MONTH IN PRISON

On a charge of obtaining money from the forest branch by false pretences Alfred Sisson was convicted at Nakusp Tuesday by C. S. Leary, J. P., and sentenced to one month's imprisonment in the provincial jail at Nelson. The money showed to have been wrongfully obtained amounted to $25.50.

Sission was brought to Nelson Wednesday night by Constable R. H. MacIntosh of Nakusp.

PROBE ACTIVITIES WILL BE WITHHELD

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (CP)—Pending the outcome on the trial of Leo Bouchard, former chief examiner of the civil service commission on fraud charges, the government will make no announcement on the general question of conducting an investigation into the activities of the commission, it was learned today. A general probe was forecast yesterday in court by George F. Henderson, K. C., Bouchard's counsel.

SIEGEL GAINS CLOSE DECISION

Get All You Pay For

Buy in Nelson

No need to go beyond the gateways of Nelson to do your buying. The merchants here are better equipped to serve you than those elsewhere. They are interested in your personal welfare. Their stocks are complete. Their service quicker and more efficient. They do not hazard their reputations by selling you old, deteriorated or cheap goods, for that same reputation is their only promise for your future patronage. By patronizing them, therefore, you "GET ALL YOU PAY FOR."

In addition to this, buying in Nelson affords you countless other advantages which you lose if you buy out of town. For instance, you keep a string on every dollar you spend. Whether you spend it with the grocer, the butcher, the clothier, the doctor—anywhere in town—it's true just the same. For every one of these pays taxes—contributes to civic improvement which you also will enjoy. And eventually the Nelson dollar comes back to you—whether it be for merchandise or in the form of wages. Plus this—the extent of Nelson's development, its progress and prosperity is as great as the interest and support manifested and extended by Nelson and district residents. It will advance to new heights of achievement and acclaim as this interest and support is strengthened. You, as an individual unit of a whole population, owe to Nelson a definite obligation. That obligation is to give to Nelson in proportion to the benefits you derive from it.

Fill your obligation by trading at home. The money that you spend here will remain here. It will, in part, support the local schools, the churches, municipal enterprise, government and improvement. It will in other innumerable ways aid this community and so fulfil your moral obligations.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

INSTALMENT TWO

"How about her letters? They would settle the matter of the name, at least," the guest suggested.

"She hasn't had any, yet."

"I wonder if I could make out the names. I'm rather good at reading scrawls. Do you mind letting me look at the register?"

Robinson produced the book, turning back two pages with a smile.

As he talked he ran a finger down the short list of entries, but his companion, whose interest seemed deeper now, found the name they wanted before the clerk did.

"Here it is," the guest exclaimed, adding absently, "That's odd," as he "Memory may come back at any minute, you know, as suddenly as it left," he again reminded her.

"Can you make out the town?" The clerk was beginning to think there might be more in this than appeared on the surface. The guest's face took on its most matter-of-fact expression, and he glanced at his watch as if abruptly reminded of the flight of time. "It seems to be Nilport," he indifferently suggested; "one of those small towns one never hears of unless one lives in them."

The young man strolled away into the writing-room. It was empty except for the girl, so he wasted no time but went directly to her and seated himself in a chair beside hers.

"Good afternoon, Miss Parsons," he began.

She drew a quick breath.

"Is that it?"

"No, but that's what they call you here at the hotel."

She looked confused and puzzled. "It doesn't mean anything to me," she bleakly admitted, "but what makes you think it isn't right?"

"Because I happen to know a little French."

As she waited uncomprehendingly, he took a card from the desk rack, wrote a line on it, and laid it before her.

"Your signature on the register isn't very legible," he explained, "and the hotel people interpreted your name as Parsons. But this what it looked like. Does that mean anything?"

She shook her head.

"Evidently you know French; don't you?"

"I think I do. I'm not very sure about what I know and what I don't know."

"Then let me write it more clearly as I interpre it. Does THIS mean anything?" He wrote another card and she read it in a low voice.

"'Miss Eve Personne, Nulle part.' . . . 'Miss Eve Nobody, Nowhere'" she slowly translated, and looked at him with a whitening face. "What does it mean?"

There was a not of actual hysteria in her voice and he quieted her with a quiet gesture.

"Don't be frightned," he begged. "We're getting our explanation, but "We've got to do some guess work. It may mean that you were rather desperate when you came here. Perhaps you were afraid of a nervous breakdown and felt it coming; perhaps you were hiding from some one; anyway, you certainly registered in a way that gave no clue to who you are."

"Then we're just where we were!" she cried out. "WHAT shall I do?"

He found his card-case and taking a card from it, laid the bit of pasteboard beside the two already on the desk before her.

"First of all, remember that this little episode won't last long. Then remember that I'm here to see you through," he said comfortably. "I am your friend and brother for the time if you will have me." It was hard to see that look of terror in her eyes. "Memory may come back any minute, you know, as suddenly as it left," he again reminded her.

To steady her he pushed his card directly under her eyes and went on talking.

"'Eric Hamilton, The University Club'," he read aloud, and added the pencilled word "Chicago" to the address. She gathered up the three cards without comment and dropped them into her hand-bag.

"Evidently I have a room in this hotel,' she said. 'Perhaps when I go to it I shall find some papers or other clues in my luggage."

He looked at his watch and casually added that he had a suggestion to make. He had been thinking hard.

"It's quarter to six," he said. "Suppose we dine here together at seven. You must eat something you know, to keep up your strength. Then if you haven't found any more clues in your room, I shall ask you to let me look up the best psychiatrist in town and have him come here this evening."

As she began to protest he raised his hand.

"Just hear me through," he begged. "I know a little about such cases, and my theory is that you will be all right in a day or two, or in a few days at the most. I mean to stand by till you are. But I want to find a reliable man, and have him see you, and give him all the facts we know and show him my own credentials, so that he'll let me act as your counselor and friend. If you insist, we will wait till morning to send for him. If you seriously object to a doctor, we won't have one. I am not going to risk losing, by officiousness, any confidence you may have in me. But I've simply GOT to tell you what I think we ought to do, and then let you make your own decisions. You see that, don't you? I wouldnt be worthy of your trust in me if I didn't do it."

She drew a deep sigh that was half a groan.

"It's amazingly kind of you to take all this trouble. I wonder if I've ever had an attack like this before. Somehow I feel that I haven't. I know you are being a Good Samaritan. And" she slowly admitted, "I suppose you are right about sending for the specialist.'

Mr. R. Stephen Carrick, who dropped in at eight o'clock with the casual air of one making an evening call, was as human as he was distinguished. He listened patiently to Hamilton's preliminary recital, asked a few leading questions, and made a thorough examination of his patient in a manner that was not too impressive. He left Miss Parsons very much encouraged—they had decided to adopt the hotel's name for her—but when he found himself alone with Hamilton in the hotel writing-room his manner was less care-free.

"It's a case one can't safely make any predictions about," he confessed. "If we knew what had caused the condition, or what the patients previous life has been, we could do some guessing; and one man's guess would be about as good as another's

THE INVALID'S TRAY

With five and ten cent stores so full of lovely china, today, there is no excuse for even the woman with a very lean pocketbook to complain that she can't afford bright and dainty things for the invalid's tray. Nothing so tempts a sick or convalescent person's appetite as attractively served nourishment. A bright yellow tray decked with blue china, or with yellow china on a lavendar tray-cloth, will cheer the invalid surprisingly. Colored glassware, too, adds to the appearance of the sick-room tray. And when we have such an array of funny new salt and pepper shakers to choose from—animals, birds, people, etcetera—surely we will not use the prosaic old shakers on the troy?

Flowers, too, add greaty to the sick person's meal tray. If you cannot afford fresh cut flowers, why not resort to artificial blooms? Or why not buy one of the small inexpensive animals such as an elephant, cat or dog, which has a small green plant growing in its hollowed-out back—and place this on the invalid's tray? The jaunty little animal will always bring a laugh—and the person who can laugh although ill, is generally on the way to recovery.

I know of a young gihl whose mother is bedridden, and who racked her brains, this past Christmas, for some way to brighten up the sick room. She did this as a Yuletide surprse for the invalid: She hung bright yellow Bedford scrim overdrapes (side curtains and short valances) over the white marquisette curtains at the windows. (As the room got only a small amount of sunshine during the day, these overdrapes give the effect of sunlight all the day through). Then she not only outfitted the meal tray as I have above suggested, but also turned a window-sill near her mother's bed into a veritable little garden — with English ivy, snake plant, a small Japanese "garden" (consisting of tiny red bridge, small plants, etcetera), and a bright red bowl containing a cactus.

The Beauty Box

by Helen Follett

When a chin first shows signs of living a double life, that's the time to get after it. Coax it to stay in a state of single blessedness by annointing every night with a heavy kneading cream, picking up the flesh between thumb and first finger, rolling the tissues firmly. The idea is to knock dead the little fat cells that are collecting. Treatment is supplemented by laying over the chin and throat good sized towel that has been wrung out of ice cold water. Let it remain until the flesh is glowing, then repeat. Laving with witch hazel or any good astringent is the final flourish.

Delay in toddling to the dentist's chair adds to pain, expense and worry. Inspection of the teeth every six months, together with a scouring away of tartar and plugging up of small cavities wards off conditions that might prove troublesome. When cleaning the teeth, sweep the bristles of the brush between them. Work away from the gums with a rolling motion of the brush. Never fail on the bedtime brushing. That's when teeth need it most.

Careless shampooing has a deplorable effect upon naturally curly hair. It leaves upon the shafts a deposit of soap scum which interferes with the absorption of moisture that sends curly hair into pretty spirals. Melted soap is more easily removed from lather made by dirceling the bar of soap over the tresslocks. Natural waves enjoy a steaming at the end of the shampoo sessions they hate cold water.

Take deep lungfulls of fresh air loading up the red blood corpuscles with oxygen and imparting color to to the complexion. They aid the digestive organs, help along the work of the various avenues of elimination. Cold water brightens skin, so does moist cold air. Cosmetics serve a useful purpose; they cleanse and freshen the skin; but hygienic habits are the foundation and substance of good looks.

Select a hairbrush with bristles placed in groups. It gets to the scalp, frictions it, and is easily kept clean.

"School Days"

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 17 years old, and I like a boy very much who is also 17. My two chums tell me they think he likes me, because he looks at me all the time in the class room. Now comes the problem, this past week I have caught him looking at one of my chums in history class and it hurts me very much. When I catch him looking at her, some instinct tells me she realizes the significance of his glances. She can be hurt very easily, but so can I. Shall I wait and see how things turn out, or say something to her? RICKEY.

My dear child, if a cat may look at a king, surely a boy can look at another girl in history class. And even if you were married to him, you couldn't expect to control his glances. Be a good little sport and take it for granted that he's going to look at, talk to, and dance with other girls. Don't think of saying anything to your girl chum—isn't there some other boy in the history class who's not hard to lock at?

Is She Too Young?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 17 and about two months ago, I met a boy called Vim. We went to parties and to dances together and always had a good time. But my parents don't like this a bit because they think I'm too young, but I don't think so. What do you think? DOT.

When a girl is only 17 and lives under her parents' roof, I'm afraid she must be guided by their wishes in the matter of having boy friends and making dates.

Next year, when you're 18, surely they'll begin to let you go about with boys—and if they don't, I'll promise to sympathize then.

Sent for Her Old Beau

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping "steady" company for over a year. Recently my fiance had a call from his old girl friend (who is married,) asking to come down to her house because her baby was sick. He went down there and it seems he is going there continually. He comes to se me late every night—do you suppose he goes there first? Should I stop seeing him and go out with others? He says he plans to marry me and has given me a diamond ring. Please advise me what to do. I am 18 years old, rather nice looking, dress well, dance and am muscial. You see I can get along without him, although I do care a great deal for him. PUZZLED.

Where was this young woman's husband that she had to send to a former friend when her baby was taken sick? The situation looks queer to me; ask him what it all means, and if he says he still visits her, I'd hesitate before marrying him.

Some women seem bereft of consciences, other women's husbands or fiances mean nothing in their young lives. Watch your step, my dear girl, don't walk into that sort of situation with your eyes open.

STARTS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 1

"SYSTEM" MAKES NO DIFFERENCE

EVERYBODY CAN PARTICIPATE

A New Type of Contest

In this Contest you will participate under identically the same conditions that confront you at the playing table. This is the first time such a Contest has ever been used in newspapers, magazines or books. In every hand North will be Dummy, South will be Declarer. Adverse hands will NOT be shown, the bidding will be announced. Thus you compete with exactly the same information with the same inferences as though playing a regular match.

CHALLENGE

Your Family and Your Friends

Each day beginning Monday, February 1, Mr. Work will present three Bridge Hands which he has created especially for this Contest. Each is designed to illustrate some basic principle of Bridge, the mastery of which will make you a better player. About each hand Mr. Work will ask three penetrating questions. Then, beginning Monday, February 8, Mr. Work will tell the correct answers and the reasons. Check your answers with his. See how many you can answer correctly.

New Denver Institute Changes Meeting Date

NEW DENVER, B. C., Jan. 27.—The annual meeting of the Women's institute was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. Cliffe. The president, Mrs. J. Herdman, was in the chair. The resolution of the provincial institutes enacting the Othos Scott endowment trust was read and approved. The idea of having a hard times dance came up for discussion, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements and submit them to the executive board. As the membership is increasing, it was decided to hold the meetings in the future in the Legion rooms, instead of in the homes. In order to accommodate the Sandon members, it was decided to hold the meetings on Thursdays hereafter, instead of Wednesdays as formerly. The business being completed, the retiring president, Mrs. Levy, gave a brief resume of the year's work, and the secretary read the financial report, which showed a bank balance of $17. After the meeting adjourned, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. Cliffe and Mrs. H. Pendry.

Social Events of Trail City

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 27—St. Francis Xavier church was the setting for a pretty wedding Sunday at noon when Annie, youngest daughter of Mrs. Frances Ferro, Rossland avenue, was united in marriage to Peter Bernava of Trail. Mr. Bernava's parents reside in Italy. Rev. Leo A. Hobson performed the ceremony.

The bride was a charming picture in her bridal dress of white lace, reaching in gracefully flowing lines to the ground. She wore a heavily embroidered veil of silk net held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms and pearls. White shoes and hose completed her costume, and she carried a bouquet of carnations and yellow chrysanthemums.

Two bridesmaids, Miss Louise Mattiazzi and Miss Fannie Bunn, attended. Miss Mattiazzi chose a modish gown of yellow lace with white hat and accessories. Miss Bunn was attired in an ensemble in blue flat crepe with short jaquette. Her dress was fashioned on the new long flowing lines and she wore a blue hat to correspond.

Both the bridesmaids carried bouquets composed of yellow, white and pink flowers and fern.

The groom was supported by A. Cantarutti and Joseph Volpatti.

Immediately after the supper relatives and close friends were received by the mother of the bride at her home. A delicious supper was served. Living rooms and tables were tastefully arranged with flowers. A three tier wedding cake was a beautiful table centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernava are taking up residence in Trail.

See Democratic Victory

A Democrat, probably Roosevelt or Baker, will be the next occupant of the White House, according to 300 out of a total of 582 daily newspaper editors representing 47 states and the District of Columbia, in a survey made by Publishers' Service Magazine. This return of 582 answers is the result of a questionnaire sent to all daily newspapers in the United States, a total of approximately 1835.

In definite statements made confidentially to Publishers' Service, only 143 out of the total of 582 daily newspaper editors predicted Republican victory, while 139 declined to venture an opinion. On the other hand, 300 newspapers definitely predicted the election of a Democratic president.

The survey represents a true cross-section of the feeling of newspaper editors through the United States. Embraced in the survey are the votes and exclusive editorial opinions of the largest metropolitan daily newspapers as well as the smallest country dailies.

Outstanding in the surprising elements brought out by the survey are these facts:

1—That, whereas 205 of the 582 newspapers will definitely support the Republican nominee, only 143 of the 582 newspapers believe that a Republican candidate can be elected.

2—That, whereas the Democratic candidate is assured of the support of only 179, of the 582 newspapers, 300 of the 582 newspapers believe the Democratic candidate will be elected.

3—The strength of Newton D. Baker, and the favor in which he is held by newspapers. A total of 132 newspapers favor Baker for Democratic nominee, a total of only 22 less votes than Roosevelt received.

President Hoover's status in editorial opinion is exceedingly interesting.

Many newspapers believe he is the weakest man the Republican party can nominate. This view is generally based less on his record in office than on the fact that being at the helm of the nation's affairs, he must be made the scapegoat. Some consider that he lacks the personal appeal necessary to attract the requisite number of votes.

A large portion of opinion sympathizes with the president. Even newspapers that are most bitterly opposed to him and to the Republican party feel he is being forced to shoulder the blame for conditions over which no one man or government can fairly be held responsible.

On the other hand, some editors think that the gathering opposition to President Hoover will eventually react in his favor. As one editor says, the president is fast becoming a martyr in the eyes of the public. Martyrdom, apparently, might make him victorious in November.

The survey clearly reveals one other important fact. In the opinion of editors, the south, which the Republicans split wide open in 1928, will once again become the solid south. No matter who is the nominee of the Republican party, there seems little likelihood that the south will again depart from its traditional allegiance to the Democratic party.

Judging by the opinions of American newspapers quoted by the Publishers' Magazine, the United States voters have reached the decision, so often fatal to governments, that "it is time for a change".

Check and Counter-Check

A cynic might say that France and Germany miss no chance of checking each other. What one proposes the other opposes with a regularity that deadlocks the whole settlement process. France having suggested an extension of the Hoover moratorium for a year, Germany promptly responds that it cannot accept that stay of proceedings and wants an immediate decision on the reparations question.

The serious feature of this development is that Germany has reason on its side. If Berlin were only blocking a French proposal for the sake of doing so, it could be coerced. But a moratorium does not pay a bill. It only postpones the day of payment, and leaves the debtor at the end of the moratorium farther in debt than when it was declared. Germany says it cannot pay the present amount of the reparations claims; the amount would be greater a year hence, by the accumulated interest, if the moratorium were extended.

When a debt is so large as to be unpayable, it is the debtor, not the creditor, who controls the situation. By simply throwing up his hands and ceasing to try to pay he can bring matters to a head, and the creditor can get only what he can take by force. When the two parties are nations, and not individuals, this means occupation, and probably war with all its uncertainties.

Germany's debts are unpayable in amount, and the country has apparently made up its mind to cease trying to pay them. There appear to be two alternatives for the creditor nations. They make a settlement, now, cutting down the claims and amount that Germany can pay and is willing to make an effort to pay, or they may refuse to make such a settlement, exasperate the already rebellious debtor by further delay, and take chances on getting nothing in the end.

Even a wail from the Valley of Humiliation is to be preferred to one from the other Vallee.

A college president deplores a lack of chivalry these days. Innumerable men, he says, think nothing of remaining bonneted while they are in the elevator with ladies. He suggests that we go back to the courtliness of 300 years ago.

It doesn't follow that we are more uncouth than our ancestors. They never had to trouble about whether to go hatless or not in elevators, because they never had any. The trouble is we have no ruling on this point. Thousands of unhappy men have cut the Gordian knot by going without hats entirely.

VARICOSE VEINS

All over the world the new injection treatment for removing varicose veins is being extensively used. There must be records now of over 100,000 cases as 50,000 cases were recorded two years ago.

The fact that the patient does not have to go into the hospital, no anaesthetic necessary, no loss of time from his occupation with all that this means in expense and anxiety, has naturally made this operation very popular.

This treatment has now been used for some years so the question is often asked as to whether the results are really satisfactory.

As with other methods of treatment there are naturally some disappointments, some failures, and occasionally an accident occurs.

I have spoken before about the results obtained in Great Britain, Canada, and the United States, Germany and France. The results obtained in Copenhagen by Dr. S. Hansen are now at hand.

Dr. Hansen records 331 cases in which much improvement is noted in about 95 per cent. Of this number there were 59 cases of ulcer of the leg accompanying the varicose veins and 86 per cent of these patients were improved. Examination after one to three years showed improvement in about 76 per cent. It must be remembered that under the former method of cutting out the veins with the knife there were many failures despite the fact that the patient went into the hospital, was under an anaesthetic, and remained in the hospital 10 days to three weeks.

The lesson of course is that the injection method has now proven itself the best way of removing varicose veins in the majority of cases.

This same method has likewise proved its worth in the treatment of piles or haemorrhoids, which, after all, are only varicose veins.

The fact that there are occasional failures must be admitted, just as there were and are many failures by the old or knife method.

However the fact that surgeons, who have been using the knife, now do most of these cases by the injection method would tend to show that it must give quicker and better results aside from the expense and loss of time by the operative treatment in the hospital.

What Do You Think?

J. T. Bealby Replies to Mr. Harris and to "Westerner's" Remarks

To the editor of
The Nelson Daily News:

Sir: The edge of such small degree of argument as is contained in Mr. Harris' letter of Thursday last was already blunted before ever Mr. Harris wrote. In a series of articles which your admirable paper did we the honor to print in September of last year under the heading the "Present position of the business depression"—please, Mr. Harris, note the first word of that title—I gathered a much large assemblage of facts and covered a much wider range of deduction from them in severe condemnation of the present economic system, than anything Mr. Harris himself has printed. The two of us are probably in closer agreement than Mr. Harris suspects.

Mr. Harris still continues to ask, is thrift unchristian? and declares that Jesus did not teach thrift. I ask why should Jesus teach thrift in a region like Palestine, where the necessaries of life could be obtained at a minimum of effort, where the economic and social conditions of life were altogether different from what they are today, and where moreover the Jews had a reverence and tender care for old people. Thrift was not called for in Palestine in that age. Isolated passages detached from the context, and disassociated from the material circumstances of time and place prove nothing, or anything. I have before me a string of passages from Shakespeare's plays which taken by themselves go to prove that the automobile existed in Shakespeare's day and that even the most famous maker of automobiles was known to him. All the same as I read the New Testament, I learn that Jesus disapproved of waste and therefore by inference approved of the opposite of waste, namely thrift, and more than then, that Jesus personally practiced thrift. But in countries which have a severer climate than Palestine and in which modern industrial conditions obtain, and where consequently the task of earning one's living is more difficult and more precarious, thrift is an especially valuable bulwark for the otherwise defenceless. Under those conditions thrift brings into play by those who practice it two virtues that are preeminently Christian ,namely self-denial and consideration for one's neighbors, in that when old age, sickness, or adversity comes, those who have saved do not throw the duty of maintaining them upon their neighbors. An official report just to hand tells us that the people of Great Britain have accumulated savings to the total of £2,000,000,000 (two billion sterling). Most of this total is in small sums and is owned by working men and women and by people in small circumstances. Surely that counterbalances a multitude of sins charged to the industrial regime despite its grievous maladjustments.

Mr. Harris' badinage demands no comment. Badinage is neither fact nor argument and it is with fact and argument alone that I am concerned.

The letter of Westerner of the same date hardly calls for remark, except with regard to Russia. He asks can anyone doubt that Russia today is not better off than it was under the czarist regime? Certainly in some respects the Russians seem to be better off under Soviet rule than they were under the czars. For one thing they are all being given an education, though a narrow and distorting education. But on the other hand in certain equally important particulars they are unquestionably worse off. Under the czars it was the peasantry only who were serfs, but they were emancipated in 1861. Under Soviet rule the entire population, peasants, artizans, professional and all other classes are virtual serfs in that they are not allowed to work where and how they like and many of them are compelled to do work for which they are physically and mentally unfitted. The penalty for disobedience is death by starvation, because food rations are refused to them, and they can get food no other way. Indeed the food that the docile and obedient are able to obtain consists of cabbage soup, black bread, cucumbers, a meagre ration of potatoes, and meat (nearly always horseflesh) about once a month.

When Lenin established his new social order in Russia, he proclaimed that it was an attempt to put into practice the theories of Karl Marx, who by general agreement is the most important of the thinkers and writers about Socialism.

If I remember rightly Marxism is taught in all the Russian schools, and Lenin and Karl Marx are honored above all other mortals by all subjects of the Soviet despotism.

Under the czars the peasants enjoyed a certain measure of self-government in their mirs or village councils; these have been destroyed by the Soviet. Also Russians generally enjoy freedom of religious worship, this too the Soviet have destroyed. Moreover all Russians enjoyed a certain measure of freedom of thought, which, if any Russian tried to repeat or practice today he would at once disappear in the death-cellars of the secret police.

I do not ask Westerner to accept my word for these facts. I refer him to an article in the Saturday Evening Post of December 26, 1931, entitled "Forced Idleness" and written by Jack P. Morrissey, an American foreman mechanic, an energetic, capable, intelligent, hard-headed, common-sense man, who writes from direct personal observation. What he tells us there agrees closely with some other ten or a dozen articles I have read made by other impartial and trustworthy observers—American, Canadian, British and Scandinavian. Some of whom translate of the official Soviet organs Pravada and Izvestia and all of whom speak from personal observation. Another eyewitness, one Ivan Rodin, a Russian-born, who worked seven years in Russia first on a community farm and afterward as interpreter in the oil fields, says (San Francisco Chronicle of December 26, 1931) "Russia seemed a terrible place—a regular prison camp. There was no freedom—Russia is like a big army camp. You stand in line for rations of food, rations of clothes. You have to get permission to buy. There isn't enough of anything. About all a Russian can get to eat is borsch (vegetable soup) and black bread. Whole families are herded together in one room. It is true there is plenty of work for everybody, but there is not much else," and so forth.

If Westerner doubts any analysis of Socialism and point-blank denies the accuracy of the History of Socialism by Thomas Nirkup, though Nirkup himself was a Socialist, and it is upon him that my work was principally based. I would suggest that he, Westerner, study the subject in any history of it he pleases, say books by Karl Marx, Schaffle, Laveleye, Wm. Graham, John Rae, Ensor and there are others, or turn up the names I mentioned in any good encyclopaedia, such as the Britannica, Chambers, Harmsworth, Meyer, Brockhaus, La Grande, Encyclopedie, Nordisk Familjebog. Any one or all of these would convince him that it is he, and not I, who fails to grasp the historic meaning of Socialism. As I remarked in the opening passages of my first article, Socialistic systems are often in disagreement with one another and even in flat contradition. I did not profess to deal with any except major forms of the phenomenon. It may readily be that my remarks do not cover Westerner's peculiar form of Socialism. But I believe that he was careful to give no definition of what he does understand by the word. As I began to study this subject quite 50 years ago, possibly I might be able to point out the affiliations of Westerner's system and show reasons why it might or might not be reasonably expected to succeed.

Busy Housewife Asks About Transients, Reveals Complaints

To the editor of
The Nelson Daily News:

Sir—I would be glad if you could find space to print this letter in your columns.

As a citizen of Nelson I have had plenty of unemployed at my doors during the last few months. Some men ask for money, which, they say they need to buy a mid-day meal (none being served at the soup kitchen, 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. being the only two meals served.

Some want to split wood or clear snow, one finds it hard to turn these men away without something but when the Community Welfare depot was opened, it was understood that the housewives would not be troubled with transients of any kind.

The men complain of the food at the soup kitchen, all they get is soup, soup, just mulligan soup, and that is served for breakfast and supper—both meals are the same, week in and week out.

If the government is running the soup kitchen here, why aren't the men there treated the same as those who were fortunate enough to be left in the relief camps? We hear they are getting good meals and have the necessary pouridge and bacon for breakfast.

The safe mood day after day at every meal is neither good for man or beast. Live and let live should be the government's slogan.

Cannot someone alter this and so prevent the men coming so repeatedly for food, sandwiches or tea they are craving for some good tea or coffe, the latter which is served at the soup kitchen being almost undrinkable, it is so warmed over.

Have considered writing a letter many times to The Nelson Daily News, and as I live down town, the men come to my house so much and all seem to tell the same story. Maybe something more could be done for them, it is hard to be sleeping on the bare floor and some haven't even a blanket.

Auction and Contract Bridge

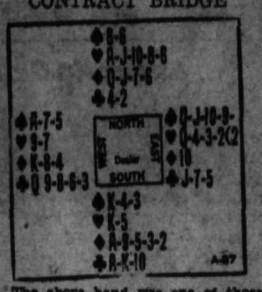
MILTON C. WORK

CONTRACT BRIDGE



The above hand was one of those which attracted considerable attention at the Asbury Park tournament last summer. It was played in the "mixed-team-of-four" game. At almost all the tables South played a three No Trump contract.

Most of Souths started with a bid of one or two No Trump and followed North's Heart overcall with three No Trumps. A few Souths placed North in an embarrassing position by starting with a bid of one Diamond; but even when North supported the Diamonds instead of bidding a Heart, South switched to No Trump on the second round.

However, it is the play that is especially interesting. West led his fourth best Club and South took East's Jack with his Ace. Some Souths then very foolishly led the King of Hearts and followed with a Heart finesse in dummy. This cost Declarer his game as East killed the finesse and either led a Club which established West's Clubs, or a Spade which produced even more disastrous results.

THE CORRECT PLAY

Declarer's propery play at trick 2 was a small Heart from South won with dummy's Ace, and then the Queen of Diamonds from dummy, and a finesse. Of course West would win North's Diamond Queen, but if he led a Club it would be up to South's tenace and Declarer would take three Clubs, four Diamonds and two Hearts; if he led a Spade, South's King would be made a game-winner.

Many of the West players at trick 4 erred by leading a Spade or a Club, but those who played correctly led back the Diamond. South then wins four Diamonds and the King of Hearts and watches West's discards with care. If he blanks the Ace of Spades South will lead a Spade, but if he keeps the Ace of Spades guarded South puts him in with a third round of Clubs and the Spade comes up to his hand. Nothing that the adversaries can do will save game if South plays it correctly.

Mr. Cyril Hepburn, of Philadelphia, was one of the Souths who was congratulated upon his perfect playing of this difficult hand.

Editor's note: Beginning next Monday, this newspaper will print an intensely interesting Home Bridge Contest, prepared by Mr. Work. Watch for announcements in this paper. Challenge your friends and your family to compete with you. Contest starts Monday, February 1.

BATTALINO-MILLER TITLE MATCH IS RULED NO CONTEST BY THE REFEREE

Former Tells Crowd He Is Weakened by Efforts to Make Weight

FANS BOO AS BOXERS STALL

Battalino Floored Twice; Ticket Holders Get Money Back

CINCINNATI, Jan. 27. (AP)—The 10-round fight between Bat Battalino, erstwhile champion of the featherweights, and Freddie Miller, Cincinnati southpaw, was declared for contest in the third round when Battalino went down under what referee Lou Bauman declared to be a "light blow."

Miller came out of his corner in the third and sent Bat down for a short count with a right to the chin. Bauman ordered him to get up and continue. When Battalino got to his feet, Miller sent him down again and Bauman stopped the fight at the direction of the Cincinnati boxing commission.

The commission announced all persons holding tickets would get their money back.

Battalino was shorn of recognition by the national boxing commission as featherweight champion today when he weighed in over the 126-pound limit for the bout, billed as for the championship. Since he weighed 129¾, however, the commission ruled the fight could be held, and Miller declared champion if he won.

The crowd of hardly more than 2000 booed the fighters throughout when the first two rounds saw little or no action.

Bauman, after declaring the milling no contest turned his back to the fighters and walked from the ring. Miller and Battalino went to their corners but were sent back by their seconds and began sparring around the ring again.

Miller vigorously claimed the title and had to be taken from the ring by his seconds. Battalino told the crowd he was weakened by his efforts to make the weight.

Battalino was down approximately 5 seconds, the second time, but Bauman did not count, finally lifting the former champion to his feet and telling him to "fight."

Battalino, however, offered Miller no defense and Bauman walked from the ring.

WOLVES ROMP TO BASKETBALL WIN OVER RUGBY CLUB

Fast but sure seemed to be the motto of the Wolves basketball boys when they romped to 43-14 over the N.A.C. squad at the high school last night.

Richardson's shooting was excellent and he netted 12 perfect baskets for the Wolves although he was seriously hampered by the close attention given to him by Lucas, who was ready to check him no matter where he stopped to shoot.

In places the game was rough and Referee Duff Stewart was forced to call several fouls, but no one collected four fouls against him.

The lineups:

Wolves: Jeffs (6), Fahrenholtz (2), Horswill (8), Richardson (24), Lee (2), Wallach (1).

N.A.C.: G. Wallach (2), W. Vance (4), Lucas (3), C. MacLean (4).

LADIES REP TEAM TO BE PICKED BY OFFICIALS ONLY

Resignation of Ken Rees Not Accepted; New Series of Practices in Order

In future teams will be picked by officials of the Ladies' association was the decision after much discussion at the special meeting of the managers and representatives of the Ladies' Basketball association held on Tuesday at the city hall.

The decision was reached after considering a protest concerning the game on Friday night, played by a rep team, in which, it is alleged, certain members of another association had taken a hand in the picking of the rep team without a request.

The resignation of Ken Rees, veteran basketeer and coach of Nelson, arising from this game would not be accepted by the meeting. It is not yet known whether Rees will continue as a member after this week.

Games listed for this week include two this evening at the junior high beginning at 10 minutes past eight. Junior high will play the Midgets in the first and the reorganized Nelsonians will be seen in action against the high school in the second tilt.

"POSSIBLE FOR REP TEAM"

As chosen by the association the possibilities for the new rep team are Mary Lawson and Janet Gillispie of the Nightingales, Lettie Fleet, Isabel Oughtred and Margery Coffey of the High Girls, Lillian Fleet, Doreen Dunnett of the Nelsonians and Arla Saare and Marian Burnett of the Midgets.

This team will commence a series of earnest practices under a competent coach beginning on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The above members are asked to be punctual and regular in their attendance at these practices in the interest of the rep team and ladies' basketball in Nelson.

FIELDS AFTER WELTERWEIGHT CROWN AGAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (AP) — Lou Brouillard, a sturdy French-Canadian youngster of Worcester, Mass., will defend his world's welterweight championship tomorrow night against a former holder of the crown, Jackie Fields, who believes he can win it back.

The champion rules an 8 to 5 favorite to retain his honors. Brouillard, in risking his title for the first time, will battle Fields 10 rounds or less, in the Chicago stadium. The contest, supported by bouts involving the light-heavyweight championship tournament, figures to attract 12,000 spectators with receipts around $35,000.

Brouillard, only 5 feet, 5 inches tall, is a natural welterweight, and expects to scale 145 pounds tomorrow afternoon. Fields, who has not made the 147-pound notch since he lost the title to Young Jack Thompson two years ago, says he will make 146 without difficulty.

Blairmore Miners Beat Corbin 1-0

CORBIN, B. C., Jan. 27.—Blairmore Miners took the advantage on their home ice when Corbin journeyed to the Pass town for a return game on Friday night, to win 1-0.

Clean play was witnessed all through the game, with no penalties awarded.

Vangoteenoven of Blairmore scored the only counter of the game with eight minutes to go in the third period, making the score Blairmore 1, Corbin 0.

D. Kemp acted as referee.

ICE CHAMPIONS PRACTICE

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Champions of the ice sped about the new $32,000 indoor arena here today in preparation for the third winter Olympics February 4-13, while rain and then snow fell outside.

Fancy and speed skating champions practiced first, and then withdrew from the ice in favor of Olympic hockey teams now here.

ELKS WIN HOOP GAME 41-25 FROM SHIEKS AT TRAIL

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 27—Elks beat the Shiek. 41 to 25 in a senior B basketball contest here tonight.

It was the finest game seen here in years, as far as fast and clean play was concerned, until near the end when the Elks, leading 35-25, started a series of stall plays that were introduced to them in their recent Okanagan trip. The Shieks walked off the floor in disgust.

In the intermediate section Trail Times defeated the Wood Butchers 19-14, and in the ladies' division, Cardinals beat the Shamrocks, 20-10.

WARDNER LOSES TO COAL CREEK BY SCORE 4-3

COAL CREEK, B. C., Jan. 27.—In a hockey game which was played at the Coal Creek rink on Sunday, Coal Creek defeated Wardner 4-3, 30 minutes overtime being played. The large crowd of spectators was in no way disappointed. Both teams played fine hockey all the way. Pirie, in goal for the locals, made some fine saves but G. Thomson caught the puck and made a solo rush, putting it past Pirie to make one goal for Wardner. Ferguson, assisted from McNay, put the puck past Sinclair to make the score even. The first period ended 1-1.

The second period opened with smart combination and both teams were striving for a goal. Finally Wardner scored again, F. Moore assisted from J. Moore. Coal Creek then forced the play but still failed to score.

The third period opened with a rush, finally W. McKenzie scoring again for Wardner on a solo rush, making the score 3-1.

Coal Creek then forced the play in which J. Millburn, sturdy defence man, scored and a few minutes later W. Chester scored on a pass from F. Atherton, to tie the score.

Three overtime periods were played before Coal Creek scored the winning goal on a beautiful play in which L. Atkinson scored. Wardner withdrew their goaltender, playing six forwards, but all was in vain, leaving Coal Creek the winners, 4-3.

The teams were:

Coal Creek—Goal, W. Pirie; defence, L. Atkinson, J. Millburn; forwards, W. Chester, G. Simpson, F. Johnstone; subs, F. Ferguson, F. Atherton, D. McNay.

Wardner—Goal, M. Sinclair; defence, H. Thomson, F. Moore; forwards, G. Thomson, W. Sinclair, W. McKenzie; subs, R. Thomson, A. Storie, O. Hellman, J. Moore.

Referee—A. Branch, Jr.

Slocan City Beats New Denver Hockey Team 7-6, Fast Game

NEW DENVER, B. C., Jan. 27.—A large crowd motored to Slocan City on Friday evening to see the league hockey game between the home team and Slocan City. It was a splendid game from start to finish, both sides playing a hard game, the resulting score being 7-6 in favor of Slocan City. Those attending all proclaimed it the fastest game of the season. After the hockey match the visitors enjoyed dancing till the wee sma' hours.

The Silverton junior hockey team paid New Denver a visit on Wednesday evening and played a game with our junior team. It was a good game, and the home team won by a score of 6-5. After the junior game the girls' team played against some of the older men. The girls had the edge on the men all through the game, the resulting score being 2-1 in favor of the girls. As some of the men had scarcely ever had skates on before, and the referee put them on the fence if they fell down, the game proved to be a scream from start to finish.

Trail Curling Results

'BATTLING' DOZIER GIVEN UNPOPULAR BOXING DECISION

Fights Uphill Battle; Vancouver Featherweight Wins

SEATTLE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Fighting an uphill battle after bouncing on the canvas for a three-count in the first round, Raymond "Battling" Dozier, San Francisco negro, scored an unpopular decision over Sammy Santos, Manila, in a six-round boxing bout here tonight. Dozier weighed 143 pounds and Santos 142.

Tony Portillo, Seattle welterweight and Del King, Spokane, fought a bloody six-round draw. Portillo worked on King's mid-section while the Spokane lad shot hard punches to the head and they finished all even.

Chris McArdle, Vancouver, British Columbia, featherweight, whipped Joe Calder, Manila, for the second time in two weeks in six rounds. It was a whirlwind battle with McArdle scoring two knockdowns in the first round.

"Red" Tingley, Bellingham heavyweight, won the decision over Frank Sawyer, Vancouver, British Columbia, in six rounds.

BLACKHAWKS WIN OVERTIME GAME

Gottselig Leads Teammates to Victory at Expense of Falcons

CHICAGO, Jan. 27—Johnny Gottselig returned to the National Hockey league wars after a fortnight's absence tonight to lead Chicago's Blackhawks to a 2 to 1 overtime victory over the Detroit Falcons. The triumph gave the Hawks a four-point lead over Detroit for second place.

Gottselig tallied both Hawk scores in a comeback drive, slipping the first one through in the third period on a pass from Lola Couture. His second and winning goal came in the overtime period on assists from Couture and Vic Ripley.

LINEUP

Detroit: Connell; Novie, Young; Goodfellow; Kilrea, Aurie. Subs: Smith, Lewis, Cox, Carson, Cooper, Emms, Sorrell.

Chicago: Gardiner; Fraham, Abel; Cook; Holmes, March. Subs: Ripley, Thompson, Couture, Lowrey, Wentworth, Boucher, Ingram, Shea, Gottselig.

Officials: Smeaton and Cameron.

TITLE VACATION CAUSES DISPUTE, IN BOXING RANKS

President of National Association Would Veto Schmeling's Claim

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Strife haas developed within the ranks of the National Boxing association over the proposal of John L. Clinnin, president, of Chicago, that Schmeling's claim to the world's heavyweight title be vacated.

Thomas E. Donohue, state athletic commissioner, and chairman of the championship committee of the N. B. A., leads the opposition to this action. Clinnin, in a circular letter to the 39 states and affiliated boxing bodies who hold memberships in the N. B. A., asks that the title be vacated because Schmeling has not defended his championship within six months after winning it, as required by N. B. A. rules.

Donohue, former president of the National boxing body and a strong supporter of Clinnin in the past, wired to each his belief that the championship committee should handle such matters as vacating titits, expressed his opinion that Schmeling, who signed to fight Sharkey, deserved an extension of title until next June before he was forced into a title defence or his championship was vacated.

Today the Connecticut man announced that he had received letters or telegrams from no fewer than 16 of the member bodies of the National boxing association, lining up with him and taking issue with Clinnin in this Schmeling controversy.

NELSON RINK AT FORKS WINS TWO OF 'SPIEL DRAWS

Wins First Two Matches in Hodge's and Mayor's Cup Competitions

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Jan. 27—Late last night the one Nelson rink at the bonspiel being held in Grand Forks this week, had won its matches in the first rounds of two competitions, and started at midnight to play in a third.

The first round of the Hodge's cup event the Nelson rink beat that of E. C. Henniger 10-5, and in the Mayor's cup chalked up a 16-7 victory over Ben Norris' rink.

No report on play in the first round of the Grand Forks' cup was available early this morning.

NORDELL BEATS LARGE FIELD IN 1000-YARD RACE

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 27 (AP)—Frank Nordell, middle distance star of New York university, defeated a large field tonight in the 1000-yard handicap run, one of the features of the indoor meet of the Newark Athletic club.

Starting at scratch, 30 yards behind most of his 42 rivals, Nordell passed the field shortly past the half-way mark, finishing 10 yards ahead of Ed. Brown, unattached, who was second. Ray Conger, holder of the national A. A. U. championship at the distance, finished 12th. He started with Nordell.

CANADIAN RUGBY PLAYERS DEFEAT JAPAN BY 41-5

NARA, Japan, Jan. 27. (CP cable)—A relentless forward line and machine-like backfield carried the Canadian English rugby team to its third straight victory today by a 41 to 5 victory over Kyoto Imperial university. The game was played on the Hanazono field near Osaka.

Constantly on top of the ball, the forwards crossed the Kyoto line four times. They sent the ball from the scrums to the backfield with precision, and the rear lines carried down the field in brilliant passing exhibitions to score seven times. Of the 11 tries, four were converted.

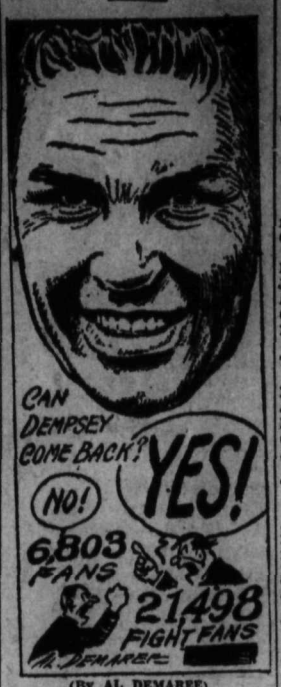
Fans Think Jack Has His Punch



(By AL DEMAREE)

I recently put up to the fight fans themselves, the question of whether Jack Dempsey could come back or not and here is the result. Over 20,000 fans voted "Yes" and assured me of their unwavering faith in the old "Manassa Mauler." Over 6000 voted "No" to the question. The voting was about three and a half to one in favor of the old boy making another try at the title.

Many of the fans think that Jack would have an excellent chance against either Schmeling or Carnera, but were not so sure of his chance against Mickey Walker.

In their opinion Max and Primo are made to order for Dempsey but that smaller men always gave him trouble. They still remember the Tommy Gibbons fight.

Well, the fans have spoken and came out almost four to one for Jack's comeback. Now it's up to the old boy himself.

WILL REORGANIZE NELSON AMATEUR ATHLETIC BODY

Nelson Amateur Athletic association, organized some years ago, will be reorganized at a meeting tonight The association was originally formed to foster all sports in Nelson. For the past few months the body has been more or less dormant.

At tonight's meeting it is hoped to put the body back on its feet and thus help sport in Nelson.

Knights of Pythias Beat High School in Close Basket Game

NAKUSP, B. C., Jan. 27.—In a repeat game of the league series the Knights of Pythias defeated the High school by two points.

The first half of the game was rather ordinary, the play going decisively to the Knights. The score at half time was 13-7 in favor of the K. P.'s.

The second half, however, was something to bt remembered. Long shots were popular on both sides and the accuracy was uncanny. The high school boys brought their score up to a respectable point but never gained a lead. The score at full time was 31-29 in the Knights' favor.

Nakusp High School Girls Win Basket Go

NAKUSP, B. C., Jan. 27.—An exhibition bastketball game between Brouse girls' team and Nakusp High school girls Saturday, resulted in a win for Nakusp.

A second game between the Athletes and Knights of Pythias was won by the Athletes.

Dancing occupied the remainder of the evening. Volunteer music was supplied by Mrs. J. Parent, jr., Miss Kathleen Fowler, A. Carlson and C. Picard.

Refreshments were served to the visiting team by the Brouse ladies.

Ski-Jumping Test, Yet to Be Settled

Revelstoke, B. C., Jan. 27 (CP)—Date and details of the proposed ski jumping competition between Nels Nelsen of Revelstoke, ex-world's champion, and Alf. Engen, present holder of the title, have not yet been settled. Nelsen is at present out of town, and until his return in a day or two, definite details will not be available.

Engen has suggested the event be held at Salt Lake City, Feb. 21, or at Revelstoke, Feb. 28 or 29.

NAKUSP SKI JUMPERS PLEASED WITH THE NELSON TOURNEY

NAKUSP, B. C., Jan. 27.—R. Blythe and F. Benton returned Monday from Nelson where they have been attending the Nelson High School Ski tournament. Both boys took active part in the jumping and R. Blythe was awarded a handsome medal for taking third place in class B. Although the boys were somewhat handicapped owing to the difference between the jumps, they reported a good time. They also expressed appreciation of the hospitality shown them by the Nelson club.

MRS. ROBINSON IS PRESIDENT OF INSTITUTE

Wynndel Bodies Name Officers; 32 Members Are Enrolled

WYNNDEL, B. C. Jan. 27.—The first regular meeting of the Wynndel Women's institute was held January 21, with the new president, Mrs. Robinson in the chair. The following officers and committees were electde: President, Mrs. C. Robinson; vice-president, Mrs. O. Davedge; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. Martell; directors, Mrs. E. Uri, Mrs. A. Hackett, Miss F. Wood; legislation, Mrs. Robinson; public health and child welfare, Mrs. A. E. Touson, Mrs. C Hindly, Mrs. A. Hackett; community betterment, Mrs. M. Hagen, Mrs. V. Johnson, Mrs. R. Dakin; publicity, Miss D. Fayette; education and better schools, Mrs. C. Wigen, Mrs. O. Ogilvie; home industries, Mrs. J. Wittman, Mrs. A. Joy, Mrs. H. Packman; institute work and method, Mrs. E. Wall, Miss L. Benedetti; ways and means, Mrs. T. Watson, Mrs. M. Hagen, Mrs. E. Uri; auditors, Mrs. J. G. Abbott, Mrs. O. Davidge.

After the meeting adjourned Mrs. O. Davidge read an interesting paper on "turkey raising."

While 1931 was a successful year considering the depression, judging from the line-up of new officers and the fact that over 35 new members have been enrolled, 1932 should be a banner year.

COD LIVER OIL AIDS CHICKEN FLOCKS, WINTER

In northern latitudes where the winter nights are long and where storm and frost keep hens indoors the farmer who wants to keep egg production up to size and volume, and the breeder who wants good healthy chicks and lots of them, must keep a regular and adequate supply of sunlight available to his poultry flock. Cod liver oil, as is now more generally known, is one of the best mediums through which an adequate supply of vitamin "D," the sunshine vitamin, can be maintained.

Summarizing special studies in respect to the value of cod liver oil for poultry R. M. Hopper, B.S.A., assistant superintendent of the Federal experimental farm at Brandon, Manitoba, states:

Where birds are closely housed during winter and obtain very little direct sunshine, the use of cod liver oil is recommended as an addition to the regular poultry ration.

The value of cod liver oil in the ration for poultry depends on its vitamin D content, and only reliable tested brands should be purchased.

The use of cod liver oil is shown to have increased egg production by approximately four eggs per bird per month.

Hatchability of eggs was increased by 15 per cent by the use of cod liver oil.

The death rate of the chicks hatched was reduced by 10 per cent by feeding cod liver oil to the breeding stock.

Cod liver oil may be fed daily in the moist mash or it may be mixed in the dry mash that is kept before the birds continuously.

Mixing cod liver oil with a flaky meal like bran and then mixing the oil-laden bran with the remainder of the meals will insure an even distribution of oil.

Cod liver oil tends to become rancid and unpalatable if left exposed to sunshine or heat. Large quantities of a mixture of meal and oil should not be kept on hand during the warm weather."

TORONTO MINING LIST SLUGGISH

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP)—Leaders moved in narrow range in a sluggish session today on the Standard Stock and Mining exchange. Reactionary price trend prevailed due largely to heavy trading in a few specialized penny issues sales volume reached a total of 253,000 shares. Trading brought action into 78 issues of which 32 declined in price, 19 made minor gains and 27 closed unchanged.

Lake Shore featured the session and with a turnover of 1685 shares closed up 15 cents to $26.90. Other stocks in the gold section were dull. Dome lost 20 cents to $9.75.

The current issue of the cold storage news letter issued by the Dominion dairy and cold storage branch, contains a special item of interest to Canadian agriculture. It says: "About 500 new cars are being built at the present time by Canadian railways; these cars will be especially equipped for the carriage of meat and other perishable commodities. For meat they are equipped with brine tanks, and the novel feature is that a 'refrigimeter' enables the outside temperature to be read without opening the doors."

WINNIPEG WHEAT TONE IMPROVES

Fractional Gains Made Near End of Session When Support Steps in

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27 (CP)—Climbing steadily upward during the latter part of the session, wheat prices overcame early setbacks on the grain market here today to close ⅛ higher to ¼ lower for the day. Moderate support in the later stages of the market halted the downward trend, fractional gains being recorded at the high point of the session.

May delivery scored a ⅛-cent gain unchanged at 63. October future, however, did not regain all of its to close at 61¾ while July finished early loss, leaving off ⅛ lower at 64½. Trading was moderately active.

Export trade continued stagnant. No European demand for Canadian wheat appeared. Reports were current that Italy, Germany and France would be in the market for North American grain shortly but in the meantime Argentine wheat has cornered that market.

Cash grain trading continued dull and, except for fractional gains in higher grades, spreads closed generally unchanged. Coarse grain trading was featureless, prices following wheat.

Prices Drift Lower on Toronto Exchange; Uneventful Trading

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP)—Prices drifted downward today on the Toronto stock exchange in uneventful trading, contrasting with New York where a selling wave dominated the market till near the close. Revelation of the deficit of United States Steel for the past year, rather than the cut in the dividend to 50 cents, was held responsible for the selling. Turnover was again light with 6098 shares traded. Of the 30 issues called, five were higher against 16 which were off and 16 unchanged.

Brazilian Traction at 15 was up ⅛, C. P. R. was unchanged at 17½ and Union Gas lost ⅝ to close at 4¼. Canadian Car and Foundry lost ⅛ to 15⅝, Page Hersey at 62 was unchanged and Steel of Canada common was off a point to close at a new low of 20.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE NOTES SLIGHT LOSSES

MONTREAL, Jan. 27 (CP)—A number of minor losses, totalling six, gave the Montreal stock exchange a slightly lower tone today. Trading remained at the low level of volume experienced for some days. Fractional losses were shown by such popular issues as Canadian Pacific, Canadian Cement and Steel of Canada. The only advance on the market was a 20 cent gain in St. Lawrence Corp. to $1.

All through the day business was dull and very little in the way of price fluctuations occurred. Changes included Canadian Pacific, down ⅜ at 17; Canada Cement, off ⅛ at 6¼; Canadian Car off ¼ at 6¾; Canadian Industrial Alcohol "B" off 25 cents at 50 cents; Steel of Canada, off ⅛ at 20; Winnipeg Electric, off ½ at 6½. International Nickel, Brazilian Traction, Massey-Harris and Montreal Power sold unchanged.

Sales totalled 3515 shares.

The bond market saw sales of $2450 and no price changes.

Sterling closed at $3.9869 and United States funds at a premium of 15 3-16 per cent.

IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE HAS EXCELLENT YEAR

Cash Incomes From Premiums and Interest Amounts to $13,920,000

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—Despite adverse conditions the Imperial Life report shows that substantial progress has been made by the company in 1931.

Assurances sold have been well maintained, and the business on the company's books stands at over $301,000,000. Cash income from premiums and interest was $13,920,000, which is an increase over the previous year. Disbursements to policyholders and annuitants during the year were over $7,600,000, of which death claims were only $2,236,000.

The company's assets were increased during 1931 by over $3,000,000 and now stand at well over $66,000,000. They are invested in first mortgages on real estate 24.4 per cent, bonds and debentures 47 per cent, loans to policyholders 21.9 per cent, stocks 3.9 per cent, mostly in preferred and bank stocks. The rate of interest for 1931 was 5.82 per cent.

FAVOUR APPLES IN BASKETS

The current issue of the Economic Annalistt supplies some interesting information as to poular preference in the purchase of apples by consumers in Montreal and Toronto. Figures secured as the result of a special questionaire show that the six quart basket leads in popular preference, with aproximately 40 per cent of the early and 29 per cent of the later varities being sold in this form of container. The 11 quart basket proved a close second but whether the popularity of the bushel basket is due to grower enterprise and practise or to purchasers' preference is a debatable point. While the basket leads in popularity in Toronto markets most of the purchasers reported in Montreal favor the "measure" pecks or gallons, while the purchase by the pound is a predominate preference of French Canadian housewives.

When asked why they did not buy more apples 41.2 pere cent of the replies stated that apples were too expensive. Only 3.9 per cent gave lack of storage facitlities as the reason, and an equal number stated poor quality. Only six out of 655 replies compained of poor grading or marketing methods.

USING CANADIAN FERTILIZERS HELPS CANADIAN INDUSTRY

In calling attention to the fact that depreciated currency has raised the price of imported fertilizers, George H. Clark, Dominion seed commissioner, points out that during the past two years the facilities for the manufacture of fertilizer in Canada have been materially extended. As a matter of fact, during that period four new plants for manufacture of superphosphate have been established, and these have a combined capacity sufficient to more than supply the entire domestic demand. Being located regionally these plants are prepared to serve Canadian farmers in all parts of the Dominion. "By purchasing Canadian-made superphosphate Canadians are helping not only this new industry but also our domestic sulphuric acid industry, as 80 per cent by weight of sulphuric acid must be used with the phosphate rock in the manufacture of superphosphate," Mr. Clark observes.

Stewart-Abate Gold Mines has called an annual meeting of shareholders to be held in Toronto on January 20. The company owns a gold prospect east of Matheson, Ont., about two miles west of the Croesus mine.

BANK DEBITS ARE DOWN COMPARED WITH YEAR 1930

OTTAWA, Jan. 27. (CP)—Financial transfers in the form of bank debts showed a decline of 15.7 per cent in 1931 as compared with the preceding year, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. The total for the Dominion was $31,586,000,000, compared with $37,491,000,000 in 1931. The decline reflected a reduction in business operations as well as deflation in commodity and security prices.

British Columbia led the decline in debits with a 22.2 per cent drop, Quebec was second, showing a decline of 19.7 per cent, and the prairie provinces with 17.1 per cent. Ontario showed a decrease of 11.1 per cent, while the Maritime provinces had the smallest decline, with 7.9 per cent.

Appeal Is Made to Keep Canadian Youth in Country

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27—An appeal to industry to encourage the use of Canadian materials and to stop the flow of the best brains among the youth of Canada to foreign countries was made by Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the national research council of Canada, addressing the Canadian Construction association annual convention here today.

More than 70 delegates from points as far east as Saint John, N. B., and about 200 delegates from British Columbia centers heard Dr. Tory's appeal for support for the youth of the nation engaged in scientific research.

MONTREAL CURB VOLUME HEAVIER

MONTREAL, Jan. 27—Trading on the Montreal curb market was in heavier volume today, but without important changes among the more active group. Manitoba Power, making its first appearance in some months, was an exception, selling at 6½, off 13½. International Petroleum lost 1¼ at 11 and Hiram Walker eased ½ at three. Imperial Oil held steady, while Home Oil gained two cents at 42 cents.

Among the mines, Moss held steady at 38½ cents while Siscoe again eased a cent at 56 cents.

World's Champion Egg Layer Is Dead

SASKATOON, Sask., Jan. 27—Her record of production standing at 694 eggs—laid in her brief existence of four years—Lady Victorine, world's champion hen, lies dead in one of the poultry houses at the University of Saskatchewan. An autopsy by the veterinary department revealed a ruptured blood vessel as the cause of her demise.

During her pullet year Lady Victorine eclipsed all previous records by laying 358 eggs in 365 days, and moreover, the eggs were remarkable in size, coming from such a prolific bird. In her second year she laid 210 eggs, in the third 111, and this year she managed to leave 15 in the trapnest.

CHICAGO GRAINS ON UPTURN AGAIN

Rumors That Argentina Might Abolish the "Figar Precio" Causes Rallies

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (By John F. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Spurred by indications that Argentina would abolish her strange "figar precio," and that transpacific war tension was increasing, grain values made brisk rallies today.

The "figar precio" is an Argentine trading method by which the price to be paid to a grain grower will be fixed an indefinite time after the delivery of grain, sometimes eight months after. With this method in vogue, a handful of large firms virtually monopolize Argentina's grain export business, and the Argentine farmer receives for his wheat as little as about 25 cents a bushel.

Rallying 1¾ cents from an early low point, Chicago wheat futures closed firm at the day's top level, ⅛ to ⅛ above yesterday's finish, corn ⅛ to ⅜ advanced, oats ½ off to ¼ up, and provisions two to 15 cents down.

At first, the wheat market here was bearishly affected by downturns of securities in New York and by reports of heavy pressure of Argentina wheat offerings at Liverpool. A sudden recovery in Liverpool wheat quotations, however, led to a quick reversal of the price trend in Chicago and was accompanied by word that the Argentina government had taken control of the Buenos Aires and Rosario grain exchanges.

Dividend Reduction Influences Market U.S. Steel Shares

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The stock market shied at United States Steel's dividend reduction and large 1931 deficit today, although selling was in moderate volume.

Steel shares were weak, which had a depressing effect on industrials generally, but the rails still hoping that the wage negotiations would soon terminate in the acceptance of a cut, steadied. Regular dividend declarations of 50c and $2.25, respectively, by Pennsylvania Railroad and Delaware & Hudson, was a supporting influence. The average net loss by 90 miscellaneous stocks was $1.80.

What They Want to Know—Always

It isn't always what you want to say about your product that makes the best advertisement. It is always what the public wants to know.

* * *

"Does it work?" they ask. "In what way is it an improvement over older products? Do I need it? Will it add to my comfort, pleasure, convenience? Can I afford it? How long will it serve me? Must I pay outright for it, or can I secure terms? Will someone instal it for me—test it—see that it is in proper running order—show me how to use it? Is it a better thing than someone else's that looks so much like it, claims to work as well, to last as long?"

There are many things that a purchaser might want to know before he makes his purchase.

FLEET ADVISES HAVING TECHNICAL COMMITTEE ON GETTING INDUSTRIES

Says in Annual Electrical Report That Power Plant Needs Diversified Load; New Industries Would Give It

ALSO RECOMMENDS BUILDING NEW TRANSMISSION LINE THIS YEAR

City Electrical Engineer Reports on Year's Activities; New Distribution Carried Further; North Shore

Setting up of a technical and scientific committee to study the question of securing new industries for Neson and thereby providing a "diversified load for the city's power plant," is recommended by W. D. Fleet, city electrical engineer, in his annual report, now before the 1932 city council.

Mr. Fleet recommends the construction of a new transmission line between the power plant at Bonnington and the city for 1932, pointing out that the old line has completed its life, and that any increase of load for the present capacity would result in a decreased voltage and loss of revenue. Along with the new transmission line he asks for a new bank of transformers, to bring the electrical utility up to 100 per cent efficiency. In his annual report, Mr. Fleet says:

EXTEND NEW DISTRIBUTION

"Electric light department—Continuing the policy of 1930 in the improvement of the distribution system and street lighting, a large territory of the city was rewired and new street lamps installed by a small crew of linemen. While the area covered was almost as great as that of 1930, the material and load involved was much smaller, as most of the area was comparatively thin. The same conditions were found to exist as experienced in 1930—all material taken down was unfit for further use and had to be scrapped—this applied to poles and all overhead material.

"Series circuits for street lighting and single phase 2300-volt, and three wire 110-220 volt circuits for house supply were installed on the following streets: Anderson, Behnson, First, Second, Third, Gordon Road, Elwyn, High, north end of Park, Latimer, Hoover, Observatory and Robson. On Neson avenue the poles were reset, a three-phase 2300-volt, 110-220 volt three-wire and series circuits erected; the small series lamps were substituted for the larger lamps; also those on Behnson and Front street. New service wires leading to houses were installed as the old had outgrown their usefulness, the change eliminating excessive voltage drop and giving a standard voltage to the consumer.

"Several outlying districts of the city, that had not yet been taken care of under the new distribution system, and the consumers of which were complaining of low voltage, were taken care of, heavier copper was installed, and transformers erected at more strategical positions.

"The city was put to considerable expense by having to build three special crossings over the C.P.R. tracks in order to give more clearance to the new C.P.R. telegraph line that was built last summer. These crossings were at the foot of Stanley street, at the rear of the city hall and at Procter.

METER SERVICE

"During the year 410 service meters were temporarily taken out of service and tested by the government for accuracy, and placed into service again.

"Altogether 849 meters were connected, 710 meters were disconnected and 139 new services were added, exceeding that of 1930 by 54 per cent increase.

"The total number of meters handled during the year, both connected and disconnected, was 2379. This represents a lot of detail work by the staff. In detail, 70 1000-watt tank heater was connected; 31 1000-watt tank heaters disconnected; two 2000-watt tank heaters connected; two 2000-watt tank heaters disconnected and three 5000-watt tank heaters were connected, making a total increase for the year equivalent to 59 1000-watt heaters, or an increase of 37 per cent over and above that of 1930.

"Some 14 new ranges were connected, or a decrease of 33 1-3 per cent from that of 1930; and 224 electrical wiring permits were issued during the year.

BONUS PLAN FAILED

"Early in the summer I submitted a report to the council suggesting that the city undertake the selling of electric ranges on installment payment plan, in order to make it easier for those who would instal electric ranges but who could not afford to pay cash in full. The outcome of it was that a meeting was called by the electrical contractors of the city, who signed an agreement agreeing to not charge more than $40 for the installation of a range, and the city to bonus them to the extent of $10 for every range sold and installed, this arrangement to be tried for six months. The time has now expired, and during the period only seven ranges were sold, or exactly half the number prior to the agreement. The experiment has been very unsatisfactory. No good results along these lines can be expected unless the contractors can arrange to sell on payment plan.

"During the year 333 h.p. load was connected and 418 h.p. disconnected, or a decrease of 85 h.p. Some 97½ h.p. was permanently disconnected by the concern going into liquidation; in the usual course of events there would have been an increase of 12½ h.p. connected load. A considerable amount of the power load is seasonal; there fore, the amounts shown as connected and disconnected are made up principally of the seasonal customers.

"The peak load carried on the power plant was 2100 k.w., which is the highest load carried in any year, exceeding any by 100 k.w.

"The highest k.w. hour consumption for any month in any year was produced in December, 1931, 895,500 k.w. hours. The total k.w.h. for the year was 8,537,000 k.w.h. or 6.4 per cent over that of 1930.

"Might I suggest that a greater effort be made to build up a more diversified load than what is now being carried. Every effort should be made, if the city want to make the most out of its valuable asset, the power plant, to induce manufacturers to locate in Nelson. Advertising in itself is good but does not reach far enough. The whole question should be dealt with by a scientific technical group of men, as a committee, similar to that of Toronto city. Nelson wants a larger payroll than now existing, and the only way to accompish that is by the introduction of small industries.

POWER PLANT GOOD SHAPE

"Your power plant is in excellent condition. During the summer a new concrete floor was laid in No. 2 wheel pit, all the wheel pits were kalsomined; the power house, floor and walls, and all machines were painted. The whole plant has a neat tidy appearance.

"I would suggest that for 1932 the superintendent's house be painted outside and decorated inside—also the staff house.

"A new bridge over the forebay approaching the power house shoud be built, as the present one is not safe for any heavy loads.

NEW TRANSMISSION NEEDED

"Approximately three miles of the transmission line was stubbed in order to reinforce the old poles. This is purely a temporary measure. As I stated in my report in 1930, the line would last about tow years, one of the governing factors would be the capacity of the line. This is about reached, and I would suggest that a new line be built next summer, while the price of copper and material is at its loewst. Any sudden increase in load, which is quite possible, would give a perceptible drop in voltage allover the city, and a consequent drop in revenue.

"In the event of building a new line, in order to complete the program, a new bank of transformers should be ordered, of sufficient capacity to equal that of the new unit installed in the power plant. This would bring your electrical utilities up to 100 per cent efficiency.

"During the year not a single interruption occurred to the city power supply due to trees falling across the line, thereby showing the advisability of having a proper width of right-of-way and keeping it clear of brush. In the early spring the burning of the brush was completed. This was started in the late fall of 1930, but due to heavy snow the work had to be abandoned.

SUB-STATION

"It was found necessary, in order to eliminate the dust nuisance, to paint the sub-station floor and a five-foot wainscoting on the walls—also the planting of a lawn, adjacent to the sub-station entrance. All of the equipment is in A1 condition.

"As I have already mentioned, a new bank of transformers should be installed to replace the old bank, of sufficient capacity to take care of the whole load, and which could be paralleled with the new bank installed in 1929. There is a heavy core loss in the old transformers, and a consequent poor regulation.

NORTH SHORE LINE

"Considerable work was done throughout the year in boosting up the voltage on groups of customers by stringing heavier wire and rearranging the positions of transformers on the north shore transmission line. Numerous complaints are registered by consumers on account of low voltage. These have always been attended to wherever possible, but before satisfactory service can be given at least $10,000 will have to be spent on the rearranging of the distribution system.

"Several interruptions to the service occurred throughout the year by trees falling across the line. This will be always a source of trouble and expense until the trees are cut back from the line.

"A marked improvement was made on the line in the latter part of the year, by having to move the line back to a new location along a distance of 12 miles, to meet the requirements of the government in the location of their new road. Some 3½ miles of line were moved at different points. It was necessary to clear the right-of-way of trees to make room for the new position of the line, and permission was granted by the different owners of properties to cut a right-of-way 2[illegible] feet back from the line. I wish to thank the different owners for their kind co-operation in allowing these concessions.

"This section of the line is much improved, a lot of the sharp curves have been eliminated and the line made comparatively safe from tree trouble. This work was carried on until the government road crews stopped work, but will be continued as soon as the road work starts again.

STREET RAILWAY OVERHAULED

"Continuing the policy of 1930 in the betterment of the street railway, extensive repairs were made to the track, and equipment, and new regulations introduced with a view to the safety and convenience of the public.

"That section of track between Baker street and Hall Mines road, on Stanley street, was completely overhauled, ties were renewed, new flexible bonds on joints were installed, the track re-aligned, and new ballast used.

"The section of track between Stanley street and Kootenay street, on Hall Mines road, was repaired and ballast used to bring the grade up sufficiently to allow motor cars to cross the track, giving access to the houses on the south side of the track.

"That section between Kootenay street and Stanley street, on Observatory, was completely overhauled, track brought up to grade, new ties used and ballasted.

"Along Innes street and part of Cedar street new ties were placed where necessary. And safety switches on Cedar street were completely overhauled and made safe.

"That section between Chatham and Anderson streets, on Oak street, was completely overhauled; the track brought up to grade, new ties used where necessary, and sufficient ballast used that motor cars might use the track section if necessary.

"The track on Nelson aveune was thoroughly gone over, all rail joints were rebored, and heavier bolts used, and all soft joints brought up to line. New bonds were used where necessary.

"The street railway feeders were extended out for 4½ blocks, as far as the loop, and three new booster feeders, both to rail and trolley, were installed. The switches on Front street, near Hendryx street, were repaired and lined up, and new ties used at this point.

RADIO PRECAUTIONS

"Every precaution was taken to eliminate radio interference from street railway operating.

"New uniforms were purchased for the motormen and conductors.

"The three street cars were painted both inside and out, with two coats of paint on the outside.

"New pedestal cash boxes were installed in the three cars, making it more convenient for the passengers in depositing fare, and also permitting the conductors to scrutinize the fares more readily than was possible with the old hand cash box.

"I have not atempted to show any financial comparisons as the financial statement of the city is not yet completed, but in conclusion I am pleased to inform you that the light and power department is in a sound operating condition, and with the improvements suggested above your electrical utilities will be able to cope with any future business at a very profitable margin."

RULING PASSION MUST BE PROBED SAYS MISSIONER

Canon Cooper Points Out the Necessity of Absolution From Sin

"Constant expectancy," stated Canon Wilberforce Cooper of St. James' church, Vancouver, speaking last night at St. Saviour's church, was the best means of preparing oneself for communion. The communicant should attend with real regularity and would soon find himself looking forward to the next communion. The humblest and most natural thing in the communicant's life should be brought to the altar.

Everyone had a ruling passion, Canon Cooper continued. Regretably, love of self was the ruling force in the lives of most people. In contrast, Christ's ruling passion was to do the work of God despite all costs to himself. Such should be the clarion call heeded by all would-be Christians. At all costs we should make sure our ruling passions were in keeping without Christian callings, he stated.

Weaving his address from the pulpit, around the parable of the prodigal son and his return to the fold, Canon Cooper pointed out that the story stood as a symbol to all humanity. Like the sinful son who had repented and returned to his father's house, so also, might the person, who had sinned against God, confess and return to His fold.

SORROW A MATTER OF THE WILL

The speaker was emphatic that sorrow for sin was a matter of the will and never should he who had sinned allow himself to slip unto the choatic state of sorrow in remorse. Instead, he should suffer "Godly sorrow," with his motive, love of all that was good, not love of self. Humans had been equipped, by God, with the power to be better persons but this power is so often sacrificed to worldly things.

Paradise could be regained through penitence, the missioner assured. Full confession from the soul was the road back. The soul's life could never be healthy until such a confession of sin had been made. This should not be left to the death-bed, for in life there was nothing certain that there would be a death-bed. A mission was really conducted to help people see the need of not leaving their confessions too late.

It was the duty of every person to search deep within themselves that they might rise from active penitence to go out and do right.

INSTITUTE REPORT AT NEW DENVER IS MARKED, SUCCESS

Membership Increases; Finances a Little in Background

NEW DENVER, B. C., Jan. 27.—The annual report of the New Denver Women's institute, given by the president, Mrs. A. L. Levy, was as follows:

"The year commenced brilliantly with a whist drive and raffle in aid of the crippled children. In the hands of a splendid committee and assisted by C. F. Nelson, this affair was one of the pleasantest we have had, and brought in nearly $90 of which $50 was sent to the Othea Scott fund.

"We started the year off with 'quotations' in response to the roll call. Early in the year we made a small contribution to the Salvation Army for Grace hospital in Vancouver. Demonstrations have been given on Roman cut-work by Mrs. Dowden and crocheted afghans by Mrs. O. V. White. We have had papers on "Growing of Sweet Peas," "Public Health,' by Mrs. Sanderson, "Salesman of Death', read by the secretary, and a very interesting talk on the geology of our locality by Mrs. C. B. White

"Mrs. Appleton came in from Victoria and gave a public address on the work of the solarium. Amongst resolutions endorsed was one asking for a pathological laboratory in Nelson, one for the establishment of a Home Crafts' fund, and one for dealing with the enquiry of freight rates. Entertainment for one pleasant afternoon was furnished by the exhibition of antiques, cherished heirlooms brought by members. We subscribed for the League of Nations magazine, "Interdependence", with a view to studying articles at meetings. Arrangements were made for members and their friends to collect discarded woolens and have them rewoven into comforters and blankets. In the summer we put a bounty on gophers and offered prizes to the boys collecting the largest number. We also made application for a pruning class to be held in the spring.

"Through a committee of the institute meeting with the commissioners, the community Christmas tree was started and carried to a successful conclusion by the general public. Our June meeting was in Sandon at the home of Mrs. C. McLanders, where the business meeting was followed by a very attractive musical program. In July we were the guests of Mrs. Dowden at the Almo mill. All enjoyed the wonderful drive up and the perfect summer afternoon in Mr. Cunningham's garden.

"The regular August meeting was held in the park at Bigelow bay—no hostess and no tea—and was voted a great success and worth repeating. In September a joint meeting of the two branches was held at Silverton to hear Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan and Mrs. Pitts, returning from the conference at Edgewood. A crowded meeting concluded with a short program and banquet

"Early in August we held a picnic in Bigelow bay which went off very well though the attendance was not large. The Nakusp branch were hostess to all the district branches in October and several cars full went over from here and were royally entertained. If not a very active year, it has been a very happy one and we can look back on some useful work. Though raising funds has been put in the background, we have kept up our membership and increased it considerably.

EMPIRE FOODS ARE ADVOCATED AT EXHIBITION

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP)—Strongly endorsing the suggestion made by the women's committee of the fellowship of the British Empire exhibition that only empire food products be used through the empire on Empire day, the national executive committee of Imperial order, Daughters of the Empire, today issued a statement pledging itself to do its share in making "this marvelous idea in empire trade" a wide success.

Hopes To Become Star Terror

PLANS ATTEMPT TO RIVAL LON CHANEY

James M. Force, an insurance salesman in St. Louis, Mo., has convinced 30 of his friends that he has the making of a movie villain and hopes to become a successor of the late Lon Chaney. The 30 friends have contracted to pay him $5 to $50 each month for the next three years, while he attempts to "crash" Hollywood studios. If he succeeds, half of his earnings as a star or featured player will be paid the backers for 10 years. In No. 1 Mr. Force is shown in his Chaneyesque makeup with which he hopes to crash into the films. Mr. Force is shown in No. 2 as he appears when selling insurance.

Friday Last Day Make Assessment Protests in Trail

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 27—Protests of 932 assessments must be filed at the city offices this week. Friday is the last day for entering protests.

James Fairweather, who revised Trail's assessment roll and placed it on a unit-foot basis, has returned to the city and is now at the city hall. He is examining assessment protests with a view to making recommendations to the court of revision when it meets February 8.

NELS NELSEN IS LEADER AT JUMP CONTEST, TRAIL

Makes 160 Foot Leap; Engen Taking It Easy With Three Broken Ribs

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 27—Trail today saw champion ski jumping with Nels Nelsen, holder of the world's official record, leading a quintet of brilliant jumpers. Members of the Trail-Rossland Ski club, going over the big jump for the first time, made some fine marks.

Nelsen led the field with a jump of 160 feet. Paul Pietro, Italian jumper, was second with 146 feet and Melville McKenzie, the Flying Scotchman, third with 145 feet.

Tommy Tapping made 139 feet. E. Engen, who broke three ribs at Penticton, attempted only one jump and reached 114 feet.

Among the local jumpers T. Nora jumped 137 feet, Sig Bye, 128 feet, N. Lill Engen, 128, O. Skoghlin, 90 feet, and H. Borthun, president of the Trail-Rossland club, 130 feet.

Attendance at the performance was good, about 500 to 600 attending. Another exhibition will be given here Saturday.

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Sino-Japanese controversy at Shanghai received the serious consideration of the British government today following a conversation between Secretary of State Stimson and Sir Ronald C. Lindsay, British ambassador at Washington.

CHINESE SOLDIERS PLUNDER

HARBIN, Manchuria, Jan. 27 (AP)—Eighteen persons were dead and 14 missing tonight after a day of terror in which Chinese soldiers plundered the homes of wealthy Japanese citizens, dragged Koreans off busses and killed them, and wrecked Japanese buildings.

The marauders attacked the Japanese hospital in Funchialien and cut off electric light wires, plunging the town into darkness. One section of the mob wrecked a Japanese newspaper.

The foreign consuls, including the American and British, held a meeting to determine what could be done

The dead included 16 Koreans and two Japanese, one of the latter being an army officer. The Rengo (Japanese) news agency correspondent said four Japanese and 10 Koreans were missing and the Chinese soldiers had abducted a number of Japanese and Korean women.

PLUNDERERS ROAM CITY

Plunderers wandered through the city at will, centering their attacks on the houses of Japanese and Koreans outside the Japanese quarters.

Martial law was declared by the local authorities. The Rengo correspondent said the situation was "worse than hell."

SHANGHAI, China, Jan. 28—(Thursday) (By Morris J. Harris, Associated Press staff correspondent) (AP)—The Chinese authorities of Shanghai prepared the way today for capitulation to the Japanese ultimatum that they suppress anti-Japanese agitators, and boycotters.

Japan now has 24 ships of war in the Whangpo river, off the city.

Chinese forces said the municipal government had ordered the bureau of public safety to close and local branch of the National Salvation society, one of the leaders in the boycott movement.

This decision was reached after new formal demands were made by Japan. Kuramatsu Murai, Japanese consul-general, handed another note to Mayor Wu Teh-Chen yesterday, giving him until 6 p.m. tonight to comply with the suppression order of the Tokyo government.

PREPARE TO TAKE OVER DEFENCES

While the negotiations were going on 2400 British and United States marines prepared to take over the defences of the international settlement and about 10,000 Chinese troops took up stations.

Eugene Chen, who recently resigned as China's foreign minister, declared the Japanese policy toward China eventually would mean war between Japan and the United States. Tokyo, he said, was determined to master the Pacific, and to achieve that aim conflict with the United States was inevitable.

First, he asserted, Japan looks to unconditional annexation of Manchuria from which she can dominate the entire Asiatic mainland, and then to the conquest of Australia.

MAY DEMAND BREAK UP OF SOCIETIES

TOKYO, Jan. 27 (AP)—Japan's policy in the Shanghai crisis may be extended to a demand that anti-Japanese societies, held largely responsible for the damaging boycott on Japanese goods, must be broken up throughout China.

An authoritative spokesman revealed that whether this blanket move is made apparently depends on the outcome of the Shanghai controversy.

An economic blockade of Shanghai harbor has been under consideration as one method of forcing Shanghai authorities to break up the anti-Japanese societies there, it was said at the foreign office, but that scheme has been held in reserve for use only in case of an organized attack by Chinese regular troops on the Japanese sailors and marines now stationed there.
