CALL MOUNTED POLICE TO STOP CALGARY RIOT

Four Men Arrested; Two Mounted Police Suffer Injuries

ATTEMPT MOLEST RELIEF WORKERS

Picks, Shovels and Police Batons Swung in Fight Before Rout Rioters

EDMONTON, April 25 (CP).—A mounted squadron under the personal command of Commissioner H. M. Newson, will leave Edmonton tonight for Calgary, to strengthen the police force of that city, in its efforts to control unemployed strikers who rioted today.

CALGARY, April 25 (CP).—Aid from the Alberta government was sought tonight by Calgary's mayor when he requested 100 Royal Canadian Mounted policemen be stationed here in case of a repetition of today's riot by unemployed men and women.

Four men were in jail tonight, charged with assaulting police officers, two of them were injured in today's melee. Those arrested were Andrew Csulak, 32; Karl Sandstrom, 32; Charles Rudsky, 30, and J. Lukashuk, 35.

The two police officers injured were Constable Rod Williamson, shoulder injury, and Constable J. McRae, head injuries.

Mayor Andy Davison, determined to see the "lives and property of law-abiding citizens are properly protected," phoned Premier J. E. Brownlee and asked for the 100 R.C.M.P. officers. He believed this would be a wise step as long as the strike of married unemployed men, in protest against lower summer relief allowances, continued.

Today the first real trouble of

WYNNDEL PLANS NEW WAREHOUSE

CRESTON, B. C., April 25—To take care of apple packing and shipping, which is assuming considerable proportions at Wynndel, and which will greatly expand now that irrigation is available, the Cooperative Fruit Growers association at that point are preparing plans and will shortly call for tenders for the erection of a new warehouse to accommodate apple handling. At the annual meeting of the association last week the importance of the apple feature was emphasized in the passing of a resolution to enlarge the association executive to nine members in order to give the orchardist more adequate representation.

A considerable reduction has been made the past three weeks in Creston's estimated apple holdover, which was placed at 1900 boxes at the first of the month. At the rate this fruit is moving this month the surplus by May 1 will not be any too large to meet local demands.

B.C. Delegation Makes Progress on Relief

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP).—Delegations from British Columbia and New Brunswick continued today to discuss with Hon. W. A. Gordon, minister of labor, questions relating to relief administration in these two widely separated districts.

Hon. R. W. Bruhn, minister of public works, headed a group from British Columbia. It is understood progress was made in dealing with the involved subject of relief administration in British Columbia, whose premier recently advised the federal government that after March 31 last the province would be unable to pay any of its share in direct relief.

FIRE DESTROYS SMITHERS HOTEL

SMITHERS, B.C., April 25.—At 1 o'clock this morning fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Smithers hotel. The estimated damage is $12,000, partly covered by insurance. Excellent work by the volunteer fire-fighters using the village chemical engine and water buckets prevented the fire spreading to nearby buildings.

The hotel was built in 1922. John McKenzie was the proprietor.

MARY ELLEN SMITH STILL UNCONSCIOUS

VANCOUVER, April 24 (CP).—Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith was still in an unconscious condition early this evening. Her condition has changed little since she was admitted to General hospital on Saturday, suffering from cerebral hemorrhage. If there has been any change, she is "a little weaker."

OILS HIGHER IN HEAVY BUYING

Wheat Down Two Cents But Recessions Other Issues Small

Reaction from a week of rising prices set in on Canadian markets Tuesday, but the picture was not without its bright spots.

Wheat at Winnipeg closed two cents a bushel lower and stocks affected by the dragginess in Wall street showed a long row of net losses on the Toronto and Montreal exchange boards.

On the Toronto Standard mining exchange, however, oil shares advanced in heavy buying. On the Toronto stock exchange issues losing ground, holding steady and gaining in price were evenly divided.

RECESSIONS SMALL

On all markets the recessions that occurred were not big enough to make any appreciable change from the high levels reached over the booming period. Another cheerful factor was the falling off in volume of sales as stocks trended downward.

The Canadian dollar, after wavering for some time at its high level against the United States dollar, eased off a cent in New York to 87. And the British pound was a couple of cents down at $3.86.

The biggest reverse of the day on Canadian markets was the downturn in wheat futures at Winnipeg. Wheat opened around a cent and a half lower and despite sporadic rallies extended their losses at the close, quotations of 57⅞ for May, 59 for July and 61⅛ for October futures being 2 to 2¼ cents lower than Monday. Continued lack of export demand, the easing tendency of the British pound on foreign exchange and heavy profit-taking all took their toll.

On the Standard mining exchange buying developed briskly among the oils and Olga, closing at 44, 6 cents higher, reached 50 at one stage—almost double its price Monday.

MAY CLOSE COAST SCHOOLS A MONTH

VANCOUVER, April 25 (CP).—Closing of the Vancouver school system for a month, at least, appears inevitable, in view of the action of the school board in reducing the estimates an additional $250,000.

To make the reduction the trustees have curtailed and eliminated services, and according to a statement today, will be forced to close the schools for a period. Well-informed opinion states that the system will have to shut down for a month, probably during the fall term.

Net estimates, following the $250,000 reduction, is $2,951,847. Original estimate tabled February 15 was $3,201,847.

RADIO COMMISSION SAYS "HANDS OFF"

TORONTO, April 25 (CP). — "We'll be all right if politicians will only leave us alone," Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the Canadian radio commission, told an interviewer today while visiting the city.

Asked about complaints in some quarters concerning the commission's activities, Mr. Charlesworth said, "We can't afford to be guided by Toronto and Montreal opinion alone."

FACES TRIAL FOR ATTEMPTING DUEL

LOS ANGELES, April 25 (AP).—Under the old California code prohibiting gentlemen from having recourse to the "field of honor," W. B. Blake, 60-year-old inventor, was held for trial today after a hearing on a charge of attempting to fight a duel.

BRITAIN AND UNITED STATES REACH UNDERSTANDING ON THE QUESTION OF WAR DEBTS

Debts Conversations to Continue in London and in Washington After MacDonald's Leave; Feeling of Elation on Outcome

EVIDENCE SEEN THAT U. S. MAY TRY TO BREAK DISARMAMENT DEADLOCK

Such a Move Would Go Far to Answer Demands of French for Security; Roosevelt Thought to Have Touched on French Debt

WASHINGTON, April 25. (AP).—Calmly and in a spirit of friendship, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and President Franklin Roosevelt today discussed thoroughly the vexatious problem of Great Britain's war debt to the United States and then announced that "the basis of a clear understanding of the situation," had been reached.

A statement issued jointly tonight by the heads of the two nations said the debt conversations would continue in London and in Washington after Mr. MacDonald's departure, and emphasized the day's discussion was to be reached as "only preliminary exploration."

Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt made ready for a continuance of his talks with Edouard Herriot, emisarry of France, with a growing possibility that the road to disarmament may be smoothed by an anti-war consultative pact in which the United States would join.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, interested primarily in Canadian-American trade, wheat acreage curtailment and silver production, will see Mr. Roosevelt tomorrow.

FEELING OF ELATION

In both British and American quarters there was a feeling of elation tonight at the outcome of the negotiations and an evident view that their success has been even greater than that hoped for.

In summarizing their study of the debt problem, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. McDonald said:

"During the day the prime minister and the president have discussed the problems of the debt of the British government to the United States government. Both have faced the realities and the obligations and both believe that as a result there is laid the basis of a clearer understanding of the situation affecting the two nations.

NO PLAN UNDER WAY

"It would be wholly misleading to intimate that any plan or any settlement is under way. It is the simple truth that thus far only preliminary explorations of many different routes have been commenced. The point to be emphasized is that with the most friendly spirit progress is being made. After the prime minister's departure these conversations can well continue in London and Washington."

Significance was attached to the fact the debt discussions came at the end of the Roosevelt-MacDonald

TO BUY C.N.R. RADIO PLANTS

Resolution Has Stormy Session in House; Price Is $60,000

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP)—Radio again was the spark to the political gunpowder of the house of commons today. It took two hours to pass a government resolution authorizing the purchase by the Canadian radio broadcasting commission of the radio plant of the Canadian National railways, Stations at Vancouver, Ottawa and Moncton, N.C., and studios at Halifax and Montreal were involved. The price was $60,000.

Climaxing the long debate was the charge by Ross Gray, Lib., Lambton West, that Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the radio commission, had made "political speeches" in Montreal and Toronto.

The Ontario member suggested "a curb on the indiscreet verbosity" of the radio chairman. J. F. Pouliot, Lib., Temiscoufata, suggested Mr. Charlesworth be "fixed" like an impolite small boy.

ACT WITHIN SCOPE

Speeches made by the chairman had not been brought to his attention, said Hon. Alfred Duranleau, "but if the statute under which the radio commission was set up, gives me power to intervene, I will do it. I know my duties and I will perform them to the full—within the scope of the act."

Liberal members led a general onslaught against the resolution although they passed it without division. They said it would place the Canadian Pacific railway in an advantageous position over the Canadian National to have the latter road's radio plant handed over to the national commission.

On the other hand, Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways, said the C.N.R. was glad to get rid of the plant it having cost $441,000 to operate in 1932. He considered it a good buy and a good sale.

The sale would mean a reduction of about $85,000 per year in Canadian National expenses. One of the biggest blunders the Canadian National had made was to install receiving sets on trains, added Mr. Manion.

JACKIE, SKIPPY, GO A-ROVING BUT TURN UP SAFELY

Skippy, Jackie Wallach's black spaniel, accompanied his three-year-old master when the latter went a-roving from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jock Wallach near the Mountain Station on Tuesday forenoon, and when Eddie Ludlow, express messenger, found the pair on the city wharf just before noon, Skippy was keeping the kiddie back from the edge, though he himself had been in the water at some stage, as his curly coat was wet on the underside.

Mr. Ludlow turned Jackie over to Chief of Police Alex Stewart, Skippy of course accompanying, and the chief, after figuring out the identity of the kiddie, started up toward the government liquor store, only to run into the dad coming down from his work there to report the case. A minute later the street car was taking dad and son home, Skippy, his duty over, missing the ride by attaching himself to Grand-dad A. Wallach whom he spotted on Baker street, receiving the happy news after having himself engaged in the search.

ATTORNEY TO GO FOR C. C. JULIAN

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 25 (AP). —C. A. Cargill, former attorney for C. C. Julian, Canadian born fugitive oil promoter, and one of the sureties of his forfeited $25,000 bond, said today he would sail for Shanghai about May 5 to return Julian to the United States.

Julian, who is a native of Morris, Man., and claims Canadian citizenry, was reported living in the British colony at Shanghai. A state charge of embezzlement, and extraditable offence, was filed several weeks ago, and this is Cargill's chief hope for returning the promoter.

B.C.F.G. Association Brushes Aside Resolution to Go Into Bankruptcy

KELOWNA, B.C., April 25 (CP).—Although spring has really come to the Okanagan valley with peaches, apricots and cherries blooming, about 150 fruit growers took time off today to ensure the continuance of the British Columbia Fruit Growers association. Resignations of executive, directors and officers were accepted at the extraordinary general meeting here, the resolution to go into bankruptcy was brushed aside, and a reorganization committee named to make a thorough investigation into all matters connected with the association and its finances; to make any further canvass necessary for members; to engage a permanent secretary; to make a report and recommendations at the earliest possible date; to call an extraordinary general meetings for discussion and action on the recommendations as soon as possible and to carry on the business of the association until the proposed reorganization is carried into effect.

Three business men were named to act with five growers on this reorganization committee. They are: D. Godfrey Isaacs, Oyama; W. E. Haskin, Penticton; Stephen Freeman, Lavington; Jock Stirling, Kelowna; Robert Cheynem, Kelowna, representing the growers, and D. K. Gordon, Kelowna; Joseph Childs and W. S. Harris, Vernon, the business men.

A lengthy list of recommendations were referred to the reorganization committee, mostly having to do with the internal working of the association.

A resolution was carried tendering full support to the 1933 cartel in its efforts to line up growers and shippers.

A complete report of the canvass for new members was not possible because many of the records had not been turned in to the secretary.

PUBLIC WORKS MEN GO BACK AFTER MAKING DUE AMENDS

At a full meeting of the civic public works committee at the city hall Tuesday forenoon, with Mayor S. H. Smythe in the chair, the three public works employees who were laid off Friday on instructions of Mayor Smythe, following an incident over a blast in Gyro park, were heard, reprimanded, told that city employees must treat members of the public with respect, and finally reinstated on giving satisfactory assurances.

The three men, who were relief workers, were William Mandy, powderman, Antony Gallicano, and Pete Fuchak.

APOLOGIZE TO MORRIS

In the case of Gallicano, a condition was that he should make an apology to Charles Morris, who lives at the head of Silica street, on the borders of Gyro park, and who made the complaint which led directly to the suspension of the three men, and indirectly to the suspension, since revoked, after amends, of City Engineer Boyd C. Affleck.

In the course of the afternoon Mr. Morris reported to Mayor Smythe that both Gallicano and Fuchak had called on him and suitably apologized.

It is stated that Mandy is a powderman of extensive experience and holds a provincial licence. Fuchak was the boss powderman on the Corra Linn power development.

BRITISH TAXES TO BE LIGHTER BY $65,000,000

Past Year Closed With a Deficit of $32,000,000 in Budget

CUT BEER TAX PENNY A PINT

Budgets for Surplus of $5,680,000; No Cut in Income Tax Rates

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 25 (CP cable) — The British taxpayer faces another financial year with a tightened belt.

There was obvious disappointment in the packed house of commons as Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in a two-hour speech today presented the British budget and dismissed the suggested cuts in the income tax rates.

The only income tax concession the chancellor made was to return to the old system of payment in equal instalments in January and July. Since Chancellor Snowden's famous economy budget of 1931 the taxpayer has had to meet three-quarters of his payment in January.

RAYS OF LIGHT

But the chancellor cast some rays of light through the gloom. The house breathed easier as they learned the budget changes mean an estimated net reduction in taxation of £14,433,000 ($63,500,000 with the pound at $4.40 in Canada.)

And the members cheered as Mr. Chamberlain announced a cut of a penny a pint in the beer tax. In a full year it means a loss of £14,-900,000 ($65,560,000). It was the chief concession of the day. There are minor concessions and various duty increases, chief of which is imposition of a tax of a penny a gallon on imported heavy oils, estimated to yield £2,000,000.

BANK ROBBERS GET $34,078.26

GLOBE, Ariz., April 25 (AP)—Two men, with sub-machine guns and pistols in their hands and their faces covered with green grease, robbed the Valley bank of $34,078.26 today. At nightfall officers had picked up no trace of them.

Working on the theory the robbers were still in Globe, Sheriff Charles R. Byrne, stationed deputies along all roads leading out of the city.

POLICE TO ISSUE LIQUOR PERMITS

VICTORIA, April 25 (CP)—Officers of the provincial police in 24 centers, chiefly where there are no liquor vendor's stores, will be authorized to issue the new 25-cent general purpose permits of the liquor control board, it was announced today by W. F. Kennedy, commissioner of the board. This is to aid distribution of the new permits, all local arrangements to this end having been taxed by the rush of applications. In addition police motor launches will carry the permits, on their cruises about isolated coast points.

Among the places provincial police will have powers of issuance are Salmon, Corbin, Natal and Wardner.

BABY TRUNDLER CAUSES SCARE

NEW YORK, April 25 (CP)—A five-year-old girl who "likes to wheel baby carriages" caused a two-hour kidnap scare in the Bronx today. The baby carriage Evelyn Pressaus chose to wheel today happened to have 15-month-old Margaret Toth in it at the time.

All police cars and patrolmen in the Bronx were given a general alarm to watch for the kidnappers. They found Evelyn Pressaus 10 block away, gaily wheeling the carriage with the baby still asleep in it.

ALLOW APPEAL OF McTAVISH BROTHERS

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP).—The appeal of McTavish Brothers, Limited, Vancouver, in their case against J. F. Langer and Alamo Gold Mines, Limited, was today allowed by supreme court of Canada. Court of appeal for British Columbia had set aside a judgment of Mr. Justice Fisher.

"SHANDYGAFF" DREAMS FADE IN MONTREAL

WINNIPEG, April 25 (CP)—Refreshing dreams of quaffing "shandygaff" in Manitoba beer parlors faded from the minds of visitors in the gallery of the legislature tonight as the house turned down a measure to legalize the selling of soft drinks in the parlors.

CRESTON FROST DAMAGE BAD

Strawberries, Shrubbery, Cherries Suffer; Some Plowed In

CRESTON, B. C., April 25—The long-awaited warmer weather put in its appearance on Friday, and with a continuance of the heat it will not be long before a fairly definite estimate can be made of the frost damage to berry plants, orchard trees, flowers, shrubs, etc., all of which appear to have suffered considerable by the seven above zero touch early in October, and the mid-December week of from 15 to 30 below zero climatic conditions that obtained while the ground was absolutely bare. The damage to strawberries is likely to be severe. J. Zachodnik, a Canyon district grower, has just ploughed up three acres of his as the number that may have survived was altogether too small to pay any attention to. It is feared Bing cherries have suffered severely, but other varieties may have escaped. Peaches and apricots, of course, will be badly hit, and those who have commenced gardening operations state that rose bushes and other shrubs have wintered very badly.

CRESTON-NELSON LIBERALS STIRRING

Plan Nominating Convention Early in May

CRESTON, B. C., April 25—Creston Liberal association was in executive session on Friday night, at which it was decided to ask President J. F. Guimond of the Creston-Nelson association to summon a meeting of the new riding association at once to fix a date and make other arrangements for a nominating convention. If the date suggested by the local meeting is agreed to, this preliminary meeting will be held before the week is out, and before the middle of May the nominating convention should make its appearance. Up to the present the Conservatives have been inactive but now Col. Fred Lister is back from the session a move to amalgamate the two associations of the fromer Creston and Nelson ridings is looked for. While the Bowser non political party has quite a number of sympathizers none of them is making a move to even get together to talk the situation over. And the same can be said of the Farmers' Unity League, the friends of which are quite numerous at rural points.

POLICE ARREST TWO FIREARMS BROKERS

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Two "brokers" accused of dealing in firearms which they rented out to criminals for "short notice jobs" were captured today by police. Detectives who made the arrests seized two revolvers which they said the prisoners had bought for $8 each and rented out for "any kind of a job" at $20 each.

They gave their names as Herman Gordon, 31, and Abraham Katz, 29, both of Brooklyn.

IMPLEMENT TARIFF RAISES PROTEST

OTTAWA, April 25 (CP)—Budget proposals to make permanent the present existing low tariff rates on complete parts for repairs to farm implements or machinery raised a storm in the house of commons tonight

OTTAWA TRADE TREATIES DO NOT BLOCK WAY

Bennett Sees Great Possibilities for Pacts of Mutual Benefit

SAYS CANADA OFF GOLD SINCE 1929

States Canada Will Favor Steps to Increase Price of Silver

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 25 (CP)—Great possibilities present themselves for a trade agreement between Canada and the United States, which would be of reciprocal benefit to the two countries, and at the same time would not in any way clash with the imperial conference trade treaties signed in Ottawa last summer. This view was expessed by Premier R. B. Bennett in press interviews here today.

The prime minister met a large group of Washington and visiting newspapermen and women in the Canadian legation this afternoon. The first question launched was whether the Ottawa conference agreements would interfere with reaching a trade agreement between Canada and the United States. He replied he did not think the Ottawa agreements would in any way affect the potential possibilities for a mutually advantageous agreement between the two neighboring countries.

DOMINION OFF GOLD

Another question much stressed in the United States, particularly since the country went off the gold standard, was whether Canada was on or off the gold basis. The prime minister made it clear that the Dominion was off gold.

Mr. Bennett went further. He said that technically Canada had not been on the gold standard since 1929. Although he did not go into the matter it seems that before the death of Hon. James Robb, then minister of finance, it was necessary by means of an arrangement with the banks to guard the Dominion's gold supply against demands that Canadian notes are redeemed in

BRITISH BAN IS EFFECTIVE

Became Active Against Russian Imports at 5 p.m. Tuesday

LONDON, April 25 (AP)—An embargo against 80 per cent of Russian imports invoked a week ago in protest to the trial in Moscow of six British technicians on charges of sabotage, became effective at 5 p.m. today at the closing of the British customs office. Vessels bringing commodities on the prohibited list were obliged to get their clearance papers passed through the customs before the closing hour.

Those who failed to do so will not be permitted to unload the banned products.

British officials said the complete ban imposed by the Soviet government on British goods and vessels became effective today.

Fast Freight Train Wrecked by Broken Brake Beam

A broken brake beam, which scraped along the right-of-way sending out a shower of sparks, was responsible for derailment of a fast C.N.R. freight train as it roared through Oakville, Ont., at a speed of 40 miles an hour, early April 1. Ten cars were derailed, some of them being completely wrecked. For 200 yards the roadbed was torn up. Although the conductor and brakeman were riding in the caboose, neither was injured. Photograph, above, shows the wreckage.

DR. KING GORDON TELLS OF CONDITION HE FOUND IN VISIT TO THE SOVIET

Pictures Communists as Zealots With Puritan Ideals

OTTAWA, April 25—"As we think of the chaotic world of capitalism, Russia stands as a challenge we cannot afford to disregard," said Dr. King Gordon (son of "Ralph Connor") in a lecture at the People's Forum here, from which hundreds were turned away.

Prof. Gordon travelled in Russia last summer—was impressed by the struggle to bring a backward people to new standards of health, welfare and culture—was disappointed with many conditions. "The Red College professors invited our criticism, sadly admitted that there were many jobs that would have to wait."

Asked an unusual number of questions, Dr. Gordon replied frankly: "That is my view."

"Does Russia pay interest on borrowed money or issue its own notes" asked an interlocutor. "I think they were raising a loan while I was there," answered Dr. Gordon. "But I do not know what it was about."

According to the Moscow Daily News, the Soviet state is paying 10 per cent on its bonds, which are redeemable on demand. But how present a demand to the Soviet government, if you are sure of a job? The average Canadian investor is sometimes promised more than 10 per cent; but often gets nothing. State capitalism, as they have it in Russia, would for him be too good to be true. Now he hands his money to promoters and managers, and though some of the corporations his money is supposed to be invested in, earned last year, in the midst of depression 28 per cent or more in actual investment he got little or nothing.

Dr. Gordon pictured the Communists as zealots, fanatics with puritan ideals of morality. He referred to Russia as an adventure in state socialism—not as an experiment—but as creating a condition representing the next stage of evolution of western countries.

But his picture suggested Mark Twain's Yankees, equipped with the technical knowledge of Ford and Edison era appearing among Cromwell's puritans. Harnessing the puritan virtues to modern technique would have produced an industrial revolution somewhat comparable to that which has taken place in Soviet Russia.

But with a difference: The use of the modern political state to push things along. Only the embryo of the modern political state had appeared in Cromwell's time. Whatever the future of Russia, state capitalism there is evidently an improvement on private capitalism.

So Dr. Gordon's observations should be of interest. As to the presence of capitalist papers that the Soviet system was breaking up the home, Dr. Gordon said:

"On the contrary, the whole educational system emphasized the relations of the individual in society. A woman who had lived in Russia for sometime told him she intended to remain in Russia because she was guaranteed a home, security, and has the knowledge that no matter what happened to her, her son would have an equal opportunity for an education and a chance in life. He thought that family ties were as great in Russia as in any other country.

"Thousands of young people in Russia for the first time have an opportunity to make something of their life," the speaker said in answer to the objection that the system tended to mechanize the individual. He told of conditions in the factories and among the general public, coming to the conclusion that the people had many more opportunities than they ever had before to enjoy the better things of life and to develop their personalities.

That members of the Red army were a very common sight he admitted. Undoubtedly there was still a great war-fear in Russia. But the army was one of the subtlest educational forces in the country. The fact that 15 per cent of the population could maintain Communism over the large peasant class was due to the enforced military service, during which the peasant absorbed the ideas and ideals of the system. The object of the Red army was as much educational as militaristic.

CHURCHES NOT NEEDED

Another question which was often asked, the speaker said, was: How can we have anything to do with a country which is atheistic? He told of watching the crowd before the tomb of Lenin and said that he knew he had come in contact with the new "religion" of Russia. The people seemed to feel that Lenin's great mind was still functioning through their consciousness, his ideas being worked out in their deeds. The people could still worship but the churches were disappearing; not because of religious repression, but because they were no longer needed. The Russians had three objections to religion. 1. —They attacked the orthodox church because it was hand in glove with the Czarist regime. 2.—They thought that religion was merely a substitute for science. 3.—Religion, to them, would always be identified with the property class. Religion, he believed, was dying out in Russia, because it belonged to the old order, which was disappearing.

Simple Remedy for Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief
No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition

If you are a victim of Stomach Trouble—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive prescription that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia which any good druggist can supply, should quickly convince you that 90 per cent. of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia.

Fruit on the buffet gives a hospitable touch. Use a wide-mouthed basket and heap it high with grapefruit, oranges, apples, grapes, tangerines, and fill in the chinks with nuts. Or the same fruit and nut combination might be put effectively into an oval wooden chopping bowl.

GRANITE MOUNTAIN FIRE NEARLY OUT

Favored by a calm night, the bush fire on Granite mountain, opposite Nelson, on which 25 city relief men were working Monday afternoon under Forest Ranger George Schupe, was nearly out Tuesday morning, and a city crew of 10 men under J. R. Holland as foreman carried on the fight during the day.

In the forenoon a little wind spread some of the remnants of the fire into a patch of green timber, but in the course of the day most of the spot fires remaining had been smothered.

Consider Commission of Three for B.C.

VICTORIA, April 25 (CP).—Cabinet consideration was given today to the choice of the personnel of a royal commission to investigate revenue resources of British Columbia municipalities. While no definite selection has yet been made, the government is understood to have relinquished the original idea of a single commissioner, and is now considering appointment of possibly a three-man body, with wider representation than at first proposed.

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP) —General Motors Corp. today reported net earnings for the first quarter of 1933 applicable to the common stock, of $4,575,077, equivalent to 11 cents a share in the like period of 1932, earnings per common share were 17 cents.

MAKING A ROSE BED

In order to make a good bed for roses where the soil is not naturally deep and where there is poor drainage, first remove the good soil from the surface, then remove the lower soil so that about two feet in depth of soil is removed altogether. Then, if the soil needs drainage, lay three-inch tile on the bottom with sufficient fall to carry the surplus water away, having, of course, some outlet for it. If this tile draining is not practicable, some gravel or small stones below the two feet of soil will help the drainage. Put good surface soil, preferably with some clay in it, on the bottom, spread a heavy coat of rotted manure on it, and dig it in. Then put back the surface soil which had been removed from the bed, or better soil if it is poor, and again dig manure into it. This, says Dr. Macoun, the Dominion horticulturist, should make a good bed for roses.

Tolmie to Complete Plans and Tour B.C.

VICTORIA, April 25 (CP)—Premier Tolmie is expected to announce within the next two weeks completion of his plans for the present reorganization of his cabinet, and to follow this by a tour of the province at the earliest possible moment. From remarks the premier let fall today it would appear also that he will make a direct appeal to the district and local associations of the Conservative party throughout the province, urging them to support a union ministry at the next election.

Retirement of three cabinet ministers is known to be only part of the immediate program that is to be made for carrying on the work of the departments of agriculture and lands, under their own minister until May 31. It is unofficially believed the department of agriculture will be taken in charge either by the premier himself or else by the minister of finance. Disposition of the department of lands is less certain, that it will be continued as a separate branch of the service is beyond question, possibly in conjunction with at least one other portfolio.

FIND CLOTHES OF STEWART ASHLEY

Were Weighted Down in the Water Near Where Body Was Found

VICTORIA, April 25 (CP).—Finding of a gymnasium sweater and pants, handkerchief and a tweed cap this afternoon, weighted down in the water by a heavy rock not six feet from where the body of Stewart Ashley, young Vancouver school teacher was found Sunday afternoon, has added to the mystery of the young man's death, and some authorities here are inclined to the belief that he may have taken his own life, notwithstanding the mysterious aspects of the case.

Dr. J. P. Vance, Vancouver criminologist, who came here to aid the police in solving Ashley's death, returned to his home tonight to analyze the contents of the dead man's stomach for traces of poison.

Ashley disappeared from his Vancouver home on the night of April 13, and his disappearance was followed by receipt by his father of a ransom note demanding $5000 under threat of death. This note police state, was written on paper similar to that used by the Y.M.C.A. but the heading had been cut off.

Ashley was last seen leaving the Y.M.C.A. in Vancouver, on the night of his disappearance.

Bowser Promises a New Irrigation Deal

Scores Finance Drift in Talk at Kelowna

KELOWNA, B.C., April 25.—Into the stronghold of Hon. J. W. Jones, minister of finance, W. J. Bowser, K.C., carried his weight for non-party government tonight with a fierce attack on the government's "disastrous financial drift" and to nearly 800 Okanagan people who depend on the fruit industry for a living he pledged himself to a new deal in irrigation charges throughout this valley of debt-laden orchards. A round table conference with the fruit growers to reduce their water debts to a figure which they can pay.

It was Mr. Bowser's irrigation statement that the audience listened most intently. To him it was unthinkable that the Okanagan valley should be allowed to lapse back into a land of cattle ranges as in the old days in place of the present leagues of orchards. It was the duty of the government to assist the fruit industry to maintain itself, but there would be no more royal commissioners like those who had investigated the irrigation situation before.

"We will meet representatives of of your irrigationists around the table," he said, "you will tell us your financial position and we will say how far we can go towards assisting you a fair deal all around. There must be finality. You must know what the future is going to be for you." As for marketing, Mr. Bowser suggested that if the fruit men admired the new marketing laws of Britain, they should seek similar federal enactments here through their members of parliament.

Pledges Liberals to Create Work

REVELSTOKE, B. C., April 25 — Speaking to a capacity audience here tonight, Dr. W. H. Sutherland, M. L. A., Revelstoke, and former minister of public works, declared that the Liberal party, when elected at the approaching election would create work at fair wages, look after settlers, do away with road camps, leave road machinery in the barn and give road employment in the summer which would enable workers and farmers to live the winter without government assistance.

"The relief camps were unnecessary and if I ever have the honor to dominate the department of public works again they will last about 10 minutes," he said.

DEPARTMENT OF MUNICIPALITIES

Such Is Suggestion of Grand Forks Editor

That the situation permitted to develop between the Provincial Government and Municipalities of B. C. has reached a stage calling for the creation of a Department of Municipal Affairs, is becoming daily more apparent, says T. A. Love in a leading editorial in the Grand Forks Gazette. The editorial in part continues:—

Only by establishment of such a Department—if not exclusively, then as part of some other governmental portfolio—will the tangle, into which relations between provincial and municipal authorities have been permitted to drift, be cleared up.

So far as the municipalities are concerned present conditions have become intolerable. We suspect that they are also unsatisfactory for the provincial authorities. But it was the provincial administration, more particularly the present government, which was mostly instrumental in bringing about existing conditions.

The day is past when it is possible for the Tolmie administration to undo its handiwork. Therefore our appeal for the bringing about of a better order of things—some action that will introduce a little sanity into the situation—must be made to the Government that will take charge at Victoria when the present administration topples over the precipice for which it is heading.

With the practical certainty confronting us that there will be a change of Government at Victoria, with the absolute certainty that there is to be an election, the time seems ripe for the introduction of the municipal problem —a problem that affects more people than any other problem confronting the electorate today, because it affects everybody.

As a consequence of the utter lack of common sense that has marked our progressive march towards ruin, practically every town and municipality in British Columbia is just now struggling with estimates in the hope that, some way or somehow, they may be able to keep out of the hands of the receiver. This is largely because, year after year, the government, rather than work out some policy requiring the exercise of brains and initiative, has been able to think of nothing better than foist additional burdens upon the municipalities, such as half the cost for social services, mental hospitals, Tranquille sanitorium, etc., while at the same time depriving the municipalities of sources of revenue hitherto enjoyed by them, such as liquor profits, license grants and pari-mutuel grants, all of which have been reduced, and in addition to this there have been heavy cuts in the grants for education.

On top of this the municipalities have been compelled to assume steadily increasing burdens of relief costs.

So great has the stress of the municipalities become that Mayor Wells Gray of New Westminster, secretary of the Union of B. C. Municipalities and a prominent member of the Legislature, affirms that 20 municipalities or cities will be in the hands of receivers before the end of the year unless some relief is found for them.

We are not disposed to argue that everything that has been done could have been avoided, but we do feel that if British Columbia had had a department of municipal affairs in this crisis it would have understood the difficulties and problems of the municipalities because it would have been more intimately in touch with them and it would have been possible for such a department to avoid some of the troubles that have now arisen.

It is even more clear that if a department of municipalities is created in the future it will be able to readjust the difficulties that have developed, either through the giving back to the municipalities, a fair share of the former grants of which they have been robbed, and by enabling legislation, of some of their former taxing powers or by granting to them powers of raising taxation from sources where it will least be felt—from those who have the goods of this world to such a degree that they can spare something more than at present without serious hurt to themselves.

Then a departement of municipal affairs would not likely be unjust to municipalities in the way that ministers, actuated by a determination to get more revenues, have been unjust to them.

Throughout the campaign which will produce a new Government for this province there will be general recognition of the fact that the situation created as between the provincial government and the Municipalities will have to be dealt with in some concrete way. The new government, whatever its complexion may be, can be expected to insist that the municipalities must stand upon their own feet, but it will surely not continue to follow the crass policy of the present administration which has cut off their feet and still expects them to walk.

Creation of a Department of Municipal Affairs would not mean an additional department, but quite the reverse. The Government as at present constituted consists of:

The Premier, who is Minister of Railways.
Department of Finance.
Department of Attorney General.
Department of Public Works.
Department of Education.
Department of Agriculture.
Department of Lands.
Department of Mines and Labor.
Provincial Secretary.
Minister Without Portfolio.
The Kidd Commission recommended cutting this list down to six Ministers, as follows:
Premier and President of Council.
Minister of Finance.
Attorney General.
Minister of Public Works.
Minister of Social Services.
Minister of Natural Resources.

There could be a Minister of Municipalities and Social Services, or Minister of Natural Resources and Municipalities. There might even be a Minister of Agriculture and Municipalities in view of the fact that a good many of our Municipalities have agriculture as their basic industry.

Precedent for the establishment of a Department of Municipal Affairs for B. C., can be found in several provinces. Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Quebec each have a department wholly devoted to municipal affairs. Ontario has a Bureau of Municipal Affairs under a director also Ontario Railway and Municipal Board with very wide powers controlling railways, telephone systems, etc. Manitoba has a Municipal Commissioner with a deputy. In B. C. we have an Inspector of Municipalities who inspects finances in a casual way and approves the issue of debentures after the necessary bylaws have been passed by the taxpayers of municipalities. It is true that in Alberta, Saskatechewan and Quebec where there are departments of municipal affairs there are many more municipalities than in B. C., which after all is only an argument in favor of the idea that such a department in B. C. could be hooked up with another department.

PLACER LECTURE DRAWS CROWD

O'Grady and Cartmel Demonstrate at Cranbrook

CRANBROOK, B.C., April 25—A crowded house greeted the demonstration of placer mining given in the council chambers by District Mining Engineer O'Grady and John Cartmel, government agent, Nelson, on Friday evening.

Mr. O'Grady gave a history of what has been done in the various gold fields of the East Kootenay, particularly of the Fort Steele and Palmer districts. The best known district of the East Kootenay is the Wild Horse valley above Fort Steele where many millions were taken out during and following the rush of '67.

Mr. Cartmel, one-time prospector, and familiar with the various fields and methods used, gave a demonstration of the handling of a pan and the rocker and sluice-box method of extracting gold. Hydraulic and dredge work were illustrated by means of slides. Practical instruction to those intending to hunt for gold was given and maps and printed circulars were distributed. The speakers are sent out by the minister of mines and are sponsored locally by the local board of trade whose president, F. H. Dezall, acted as chairman and introduced the speakers.

ASK ARMY TO BE JOB FINDER

Scheme for Paid Official Fails as Funds Not Donated

At a meeting of the general committee on launching a work-finding movement in Nelson, made up of delegations from the board of trade, service clubs, and city representatives, held Monday evening at the board of trade rooms, it was found that the scheme worked out last week, to have an office and paid secretary, had not been well received by the organizations asked to contribute to its maintenance.

It was agreed that the movement could not proceed on that line with any hope of success, and that it would be necessary to make any effort attempted in a way that would not call for funds.

In the end, it was decided that the Salvation Army was the most available agency to handle this work under the circumstances, and that those able to furnish work, or wanting a handy man for a few hours, should call up the Salvation Army. Capt. A. Cartmell consented to carry on with this service.

Chairman C. D. Blackwood presided over the meeting.

Alberta's Position Good, Says Brownlee

EDMONTON, April 25 (CP) — Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta has written to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett stating Alberta's financial relations with the Dominion government are on a safe and reasonable basis. The latter is in reply to Mr. Bennett's joint notice to the four western provinces.

So far as Alberta is concerned Mr. Brownlee points out in his reply, adequate steps have already been taken to meet the situation. Expenditure and estimates have been drastically cut and the deficit for the coming year, if any, will, in all probability be well within the safety limit suggested by the prime minister.

Fire Damage to Country Home

Decision by the provincial government to wipe out the grant of $400,000 for fighting forest fires was forced by financial necessity. But this should not mean that when a fire breaks out and threatens to destroy not only timber but residential or farm property that the forest branch should be prohibited by entire lack of funds from hiring men to fight the blaze and get it under control.

As matters stand, the forest department officials are hogtied. They cannot spend a cent even to save a group of ranch houses and buildings, if threatened. Some provision should be made in the interests of public safety.

Goodwill

The meeting at Washington of the representatives of the nations recalls the well-known phrase, "each one according to his needs." In the case of the nations the phrase must be "each one according to its requirements." For the circumstances of the nations are such that instead of generalization there must be specification. Each case must be considered and dealt with on an individual basis.

For instance, the Imperial pact negotiated and established at the Ottawa Conference stands and cannot be altered except by common consent. The Prime Minister of Great Britain cannot enter into agreements which will cover the whole of the Empire.

That is why as Canadians we attach more importance to the meeting between Premier Bennett and President Roosevelt, when specific offers will be submitted by Canada and corresponding suggestions may be anticipated from the President. Neither in the case of Canada nor in the case of the United States need blanket reductions of tariffs be expected. The election pledges of the President preclude any such possibility, while the position of the Premier is equally specific.

But there are some commodities produced in both countries which under agreement might, as the Victoria Colonist points out, be exchanged to mutual advantage. We expect that the principle thus acknowledged is of general application also, and that whatever is accomplished will be accomplished by direct individual negotiation rather than general discussion.

Then there is another factor which has materially affected of late the relations between Canada and the United States. That is the abstract element known as goodwill. When the people of nations associate together in trade they also associate together in a social sense. Embargoes on business affect travel as well as trade. Railways with international connections have been built for the purpose of stimulating travel as well as trade, and bridges have been constructed and tunnels dug for the purpose of facilitating travel. The same principle applies to steamship lines which have been established with agencies in all ports on both sides of the line. Recreation of the old spirit of international goodwill would have a material affect in dissipating the depression and promoting prosperity.

J. de Bruyn of Brussels University.

INJECTION TREATMENT FOR VARICOSE VEINS

A middle-aged business man was being examined for insurance. He passed the usual tests but as he had some enlarged varicose veins with the scar of an ulcer on one leg he was advised to remove a tight garter he was wearing on the affected leg. The physician advised him to exercise as usual which would pump the blood upwards toward the heart, but to keep the leg raised when he was at his desk.

Another ulcer appeared however and as he could not afford the time to lay up with it for an operation he was persuaded to have the veins leading to and from the ulcer injected, as once a varicose ulcer appears, there is always a tendency for another ulcer to form on the slightest blow or injury of any kind. He had a complete recovery and though four years have passed, and there has been no ulcer or varicose veins appear.

By the injection method the patient goes about his usual work losing no time except the few minutes he is in the doctor's office receiving the injection. This may mean three or four trips in all which is vastly different from the ten to twenty days that were formerly spent in hospital when operation was the usual method of curing varicose ulcers.

In addition to the injection of the veins an elastic or similar bandage is applied immediately which supports the circulation of the blood in the leg. This bandage is worn all the time—day and night—until the ulcer heals. Ordinary clean guaze is placed over the ulcer before appying the bandage.

Will varicose ulcers occur again in a patient who has had one cured by this method?

Sometimes ulcers will occur again but not any oftener than by the old method of removing the veins by the knife, strapping up the ulcer in a cast, long rest in bed, or the various other methods that have been used in the past.

Besides, the injection method is very clean, there being no ointments or greasy dressing which make the individual always aware of his affliction.

The injection method of treating varicose veins, varicose ulcers and internal hemorhoids or piles has proven itself of wonderful help to suffering humanity.

Frederick Niven Presents a Scottish Picture

Every time that a new book comes from the pen of Frederick Niven, I lay aside every other volume besetting me, and read what this long, lean Scotch-Canadian has to say. Several years ago he published "Wild Honey," a story of vagabond life in British Columbia. I found it almost as amusing as "Huckleberry Finn." Nine years ago I read a new American edition of his "Justice of the Peace," the scenes of which are laid in Glasgow, Mr. Niven's native city. I was so impressed by the structural power, charcter portrayal, and distinction of style revealed in that novel, that, in reviewing it, I expressed hope that some day its author, transplanted from Scotland to British Columbia, would produce the often-talked of and long expected great Canadian novel. Mr. Niven compromised by writing his humorous tale of vagabondia, "Wild Honey," but he has not yet found the moment ripe for the creation of a full-length novel which will set forth the mingled romance and realism of life in the Canadian West. But I still hope that the day is drawing near when he will bend his energy and genius to the performance of this duty.

Before I say anything about his new story, "Mrs. Marry" (Collins, London and Toronto), I wish to give my readers my recollections of my first glimpse of Frederick Niven. It was a fine autumn day at a stampede in the Windermere Valley, B. C. He and Mrs. Niven were attending an interesting event, the opening of a building erected under the joint auspices of the Hudson's Bay company and the Canadian Pacific railway. This was the replica of the fort erected by David Thomson, the explorer of the Kootenay country, on the western shore of Lake Windermere.

GLIMPSE OF NIVEN

I was introduced to Mr. Niven the day after the ceremonial opening of the new fort. At the time we were watching some Indian horse races and steer-throwing. I found the author of "The Justice of the Peace," a very friendly soul. He was tall, awkward-looking and far from handsome, a Scotch model of Abraham Lincoln, without the chin whisker, but plus heavy eye-glasses. He wore his clothes "cynically loose," and smoked infinite tobacco, "altogether as I noted at the time, "a quiet, observant person who could make friends with any kind of human being and at the same time rob him of his local color and soul stuff for fiction uses."

I did not know then, but found out later what a variegated career this Scot, who had chosen the environs of Nelson, B. C., for his home (he still lives there), had already made for himself. As it is like a page out of a novel, I quote this semi-humorous account of life from a letter written by Mr. Niven in 1922:

BORN IN CHILE

"I was born 44 years ago in Valparaiso, Chile. I was nominally educated at Hutcheson's Grammar school, Glasgow, after a voyage around the Horn in a sailing ship, that I recall with more delight than any of the classrooms. Then as for what I know of art students; I was at the Glasgow School of Art almost every evening of every term for two years. I came west in my 'teens, and went back to Scotland and wrote about a dozen sketches of western life which were taken at first offer by the Glasgow Weekly Herald. Pall Mall Magazine saw one of them and asked for a story, and in the excitement I wrote a poor one, which came back. So I put the excitement away, and later they had one or two. Then I went into journalism in Scotland as all sorts of things on a big newspaper affair, as assistant story editor, special article writer, and so forth. I used to write some serials on staff, and once, writing in the same room with my chief, who was similarly employed, I laid down my pen. "Finished?" he asked. I told him I was almost finished, just thinking out the curtain; and rather thought I would have it at the moment when there was a flash of steel. He groaned and said he thought he wanted more than I could. We were writing for the same paper and so could not have two flashes of steel curtains. We tossed for it, and I won, and then magnanimously surrendered the flash of steel to him, and he came round to my side of the table and looked at my last paragraphs and thought he really did need it more, and helped me to another curtain.

DESCENDS UPON LONDON

"Then I went to London to edit a paper of the same sort, but better, and in my spare time to write essays and poems which appeared in "Nation" and Daily News," and to write a novel . . . I left Fleet street and went down to Devon over Hartland Head. Then I got married and told my wife about British Columbia so that we both got so that we had to go and look at it. Where the money came from I forget. I know that after we returned to London I once went out with her to see if an article I had sent out to some paper had appeared, and on the way to the news stand said: "Oh by the way, have you got a penny?" I think it was on the sale of some serial rights we came to the west. And then we looked forward to selling another and getting back again. Now I think we will make the west our home and visit the other way when we sell a serial. But it does not seem so urgently necessary to get to London as it seems necessary over there to see the long grey rolls of the foothills and raise the Rockies, and without any silly tosh, smell them. Sage and balsam are great.

"SEWED-MUSLIN MAKER"

"My grandfather was William Waterston Niven, printer in Glasgow along with his father, and later head librarian of the Glasgow public library. I took a spell of that too, loving catalogues as well as books; had two years of it in Glasgow. Before going in for journalism I dipped into the second-hand book life in Edinburgh. At Irvine, the old town that I picture in 'A Tale That Is Told,' my other grandfather was a Baptist minister. My father was a sewed-muslin manufacturer in Glasgow, but later went to Valspar-also. My mother was born in Calcutta, for her father had gone out to India in connection with the Baptist Missionary Society to set up a printing press at Serampore. Print seems to have been in the family on both sides.

"I should have said that at the school of art in Glasgow I learned a tremendous lot from the chief there who, if he was not a great artist, was a great teacher, Frances H. Newberry. 'I am not here to put art into you,' he used to say 'but to bring it out if it is there to be brought out.' But he is in 'Justice of the Peace.' My period was the period just after Lavery and Guthrie, and Harrington Mann, and Walton had ceased to be students and were our idols. I have here a photograph of Harrington Mann on my mantlepiece—souvenir of the ecstatic interest in the visible world of these years, and I feel just the same boy still."

ADMIRABLE MRS. BARRY

We gather from this tabloid autobiography that Mr. Niven was brought up in Glasgow, had family knowledge of the manufacturing business of that city, studied in the art school there, explored the second-hand book stores, and after an odyssey across the seas, recorded his observations and adventures in a series of newspaper articles, then took a long course in newspaperdom, and finally became a full-fledged purveyor of fiction, a professional author.

Now in his new story "Mrs. Barry" Mr. Niven has drawn heavily upon his memories of Glasgow. It is so life-like a narrative that I am inclined to think that the author has incorporated many of his own boyhood experiences. There is nothing exciting in this small-sized novel, but it is packed with the kind of writing that made "Rab and His Friends" and "Margaret Ogilvy" so popular years ago. I cannot imagine any Scotch woman who has ever known the pinch of poverty not "greeting" over this portrait of a Glasgow widow reduced by the force of circumstances to a monotonous and worried life as keeper of a boarding house.

Her hard struggle to make ends meet, to pay the rates, to send her only boy, Neil, to school, and to keep a cheerful outlook upon life, although wracked by pain which ultimately killed her, constitutes the simple plot of this story. It is full of pathos, but nothing is overdone. Mrs. Barry was no whiner; she tried to pay her way, and got some happiness out of the daily round because of her motherlove and her interest in all sorts and conditions of people.

This story of auld Glasgow is not flooded with talk in broad Scots, but to make it true to life it was imperative to make some of the characters speak their own tongue. And whenever Mr. Niven bows to this necessity, he knows all the tricks and turns of the dialect. Let me give a brief example. One day little Neil Barry ran to open the door. "The light of the stairs was lit and there stood a girl hardly older than Neil. She wore but a tattered coat and an old skirt (or it may have been an old petticoat for skirt) and her feet were bare. She grinned at him gaily.

"'Hullo!' she said. 'Ast her does she want the baikie emptied?'

"'It's Maisie, mummy, to see if you want the baikie emptied.'

"'Yes. Come in, Maisie, and get it.'

"'Aw, ma feet are a' glaur. Wait or I dicht them on the mat.'

EMPTYING THE BAIKIE

"Neil watched her curiously as she brushed her feet to and fro on the mat.

"'Don't the bristles hurt you?' he asked.

"'Naw! Ah'm used tae't.'

"The fee for emptying the baikie, or small dust-bin, down in the enclosed ash-pit in the back-green (which was really back mud these days, no bleaching-green at all) was one penny. Many people emptied their buckets themselves, but some did not.

"'And you can sweep the stairs and wash them for me if you like, Maisie,' said Mrs. Barry.

"Fourpence for that! That was fivepence in sight. So Maisie's eyes danced and her smile broadened."

What will endear this story to Scotch readers is its abundance of local color. Those who hail from Glasgow, city of shipyards, will be pleased, for instance, to hear of a class now put out of business by the alarm clock. Mr. Niven refers to those districts "where the clapper-up would be going his rounds clapping—knocking—on doors or windows for a small weekly sum paid by those whose doors and windows he chapped upon. A policeman or two, here and there, for a weekly private honorarium, would be doing the same thing. But the professional chapper-up was soon to be out of work with alarm clocks becoming cheap A few—those who lived close to the yards—were content to be wakened by the parish church bell (a sort of chapper-up de luxe) at 5:30. They leapt from bed and cringed into their clothes at its first clashes." Mr. Omara was one of Mrs. Barry's lodgers. The lodger in the front room was a Mr. Stewart, first mate of a ship that was being refitted. The reader gets to know both these lodgers very well and likes them, too.

CRAIG'S REGULAR FEE

But the character in this book next to Mrs. Barry and Neil, that will be voted the most interesting is Dr. Alexander Craig. He was called "the poor man's doctor," for he never charged more than a shilling a visit. His fee was low but he nearly always collected it before he left the patient's house. Here is a picture of this rough-hewn but kind-hearted man who seemed to Mrs. Barry as one out of an earlier generation. "He wore a tall hat of the kind called stove-pipe, one without any flare, and a surcoat that had once been black but was dark green with age. He wore an old-fashioned black stock—not one of the modern sort occasionally affected by the young. The sight of him took Mrs. Barry's thoughts beyond Gladstone to Palmerston. His eyes were unusual, and were at once kindly, keen, piercing."

Dr. Craig always tasted the medicine he mixed for his patient "That'll be a shilling if you have it," he always said on leaving, but he usually added the saving clause. "If ye haven't, it can lie over." Dr. Craig's visit to the Barry home when Neil was down with bronchitis and later his kind treatment of her when she was in sore distress make up two of the most heart-grippins incidents in a story which held my interest from beginning to end; indeed I wish it had been a-longer I am not surprised that he has received the honor of being recommended by the Book Society of Great Britain. MILTON C. WORK

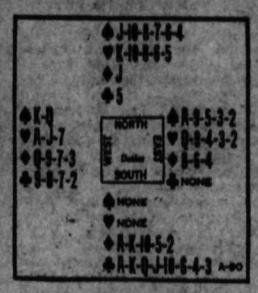
HOW TO HANDLE A FREAK



The above hand was held in a duplicate game in Denver, Colorado. Both the bidding and play were most unusual. Every South started with a bid of six Clubs which seemed to be sound with this very remarkable hand. Of course, the six was not assured but was highly probable and with a blank holding in both majors, it was important to shut out an adverse major bid if possible. The only argument against the original bid of six was that it would not be apt to be doubled whereas approaching it along more moderate lines might produce a double of x and a probable fulfillment of the contract. But the hand, opened with an original forcing bid, must reach the same declaration, barring the possibility that East and West getting together may bid a major slam.

There is no advantage in having South show his Diamonds which North might prefer and the hand nevertheless be worth more at Clubs. The one danger of the bid was that North might raise to a Grand Slam on some such holding as the two major Aces which in this hand probably would be valueless. But, considering all the pros and cons, six Clubs seems to be the best original bid.

In the play some Wests led the King of Spades and some a Club. As it happened, South could fulfill his contract regardless of the original lead, but in view of the bidding the trump lead would not sacrifice a trump honor in the partner's hand, which is the great objection to the original lead of a singleton trump. When a Spade was led it was obvious that South could ruff, lead the Ace of Diamonds and then a small Diamond, ruffing the second in the North hand. After putting South in with another ruff, Declarer could exhaust the adverse trumps and continue the Diamond suit, losing only one Diamond trick and make his contract; but with the Club opening which shuts out the North ruff, South had to play the hand more cleverly and some Souths failed to fulfill their contracts.

If South exhausted the Clubs and then went at the Diamonds hammer-and-tongs fashion, leading first Ace and then King, he lost two Diamond tricks; but, after exhausting the adverse Clubs, if he led a small Diamond toward dummy's singleton Jack, he made his contract regardless of whether West played the Queen of Diamonds on the first trick or not.

Nelson citizens have been keyed up to a high pitch by the incidents of the past few days. No one will be satisfied until the most rigid investigation possible has been made into the causes of the two conflagrations that have resulted in cutting off of light and power and in the complete destruction of the tramway system.

STATION L-O-V-E

By CRAIG CARROLL

INSTALLMENT THIRTY-ONE

Elton Day, frantic, stouting, faced her down the length of the table. But suddenly he was caught by strong hands, by Dick Mason's strong hands; he was jerked back into his chair. And, remorselessly, loudly, with no one to stop her, Judy went on.

"I didn't know anything about the trick. I really thought I deserved the job. But I didn't. And the man who cheated for me put the blame on another man, on a man who sits in this room right now. And that man thought I was to blame when he lost his job, and he hasn't forgiven me, he never will. All right. I deserve to lose him. I didn't play fair. But I'm playing fair now. I'm leaving. I'm through. Nobody will ever hear me on the air again. And good-by. Good-by to all of you!"

Suddenly she ran headlong from the room. She heard people shouting after her, she heard Dick Mason's voice calling, "Judy! Judy! Judy!"

She did not stop. She found a taxicab at the hotel steps, she was inside, she said breathlessly, "Drive as fast as you can! There's somebody following me! Somebody I've got to get away from! Drive!"

The car swung sharply into the street, down to Wabash, up Wabash, roaring in and out around elevated track standards. It turned again on Randolph, going east; shot into the alley that leads north, cut back to the street, cut out through another alley. Then they were crossing the river, speeding north, turning on Grand, speeding north again. Judy looked back. Cars, many cars, but no car following. She didn't know, she couldn't know, that Dick Mason had stopped, had caught Elton in his strong hands, held him against the wall—ignoring Jenks, ignoring peace-makers, saying coldly, "So it was you? So you did that?"

She didn't know, not then, at least, that Elton squirmed suddenly, straightened suddenly, said calmly, quietly: "Yes, it was I. But don't bother. I'll always be here. You can do what you want to me when you get back. But go after Judy, now. Don't let her go! She's yours! Find her! Hurry!"

And she didn't know that Dick Mason heard those strange, quiet words, and that suddenly he let go of Day, suddenly he ran through the crowd, found his car, raced after her.

Too late. Much too late.

Judy came home. She saw no one. She rapped quickly at Elsie's door. There was no answer. She hurried into her own room, caught up dresses, shoes, her makeup box, whatever she could find without hunting in closets or boxes; stuffed everything into her bag, closed it somehow, turned to run from the room.

Then, for the first time, she saw a scrubby little envelope on her dressing table, marked "Judy, important" in big, sprawling letters. She tore it open. There was only a note. Only this much:

"Judy: Billy and I have gone to Crown Point. I'll be Mrs. Billy Townsend before you know it. You better follow suit. Marriage is a grand idea, even if old fashioned. You bet. Love. ELSIE."

Billy! Elsie! And she'd been sorry for Elsie, she had pitied Elsie, with her big hands and her capable, too-capable shoulders, and her unhandsome, muggy face. And now Elsie was being married. At this moment, perhaps. Being married to funny little Billy who was as unhandsome as Elsie, and as honest and as devoted.

And they'd be happy. They'd have a little apartment, and they wouldn't worry, life wouldn't frighten them, things would go according to the rule, and they would laugh a great deal, and put money in the bank, and join a savings club, and be happy, be happy, be happy always, together, the two who had seemed so pathetic only a little while before.

And she? And Judy Allison? Oh! She saw herself in the long mirror. A girl who'd always believed, secretly, that she was prettier than most girls; as most girls do believe. A girl who had been flattered, breathless, at the devotion of two men who said, each in his own way, "I love you." And now—Oh! No time to think! No time to remember!

She counted the money in her purse. She had just cashed her check. She had put nothing in the bank. Almost $200 left.

Go home? Go back and have her father say, "I wish you'd made good, Judy, I was counting on you." Go back and have her mother be kind, terribly, pathetically kind to the daughter who couldn't stand on her own feet? Go back and have the neighbors whisper when she wasn't around? Go back to Hiawatha, where everything would always be the same as it always had been, and Judy Allison would be the girl who came home from Chicago because she couldn't stand up for herself?

No! No! She said it loudly, talking to herself, talking to the girl in the mirror. And again, no!

Then she ran down the steps, tugging at her heavy suitcase. "Miss Allison! Miss Allison! Telephone! Miss Allison, somebody's calling you!" Mrs. Malone called after her. But Judy did not hear. She was back in the taxicab, she was asking breathlessly: "Which train leaves for New York first? Hurry!"

The diver looked at his watch. "Ya can get a train in just 15 minutes. If we can make it."

"We've got to make it, driver! We've got to!"

"All right. We will!"

The taxicab roared away from the curb. Judy looked straight ahead. She wouldn't see that house any more, the house that had become home. She wouldn't meet the landlady any more, wouldn't hear her half-questions, her hopeful, sly suggestions. She wouldn't see anything more of what had been Chicago to her. Never.

Perhaps one less stop light between the loop and the place where Judy lived might have changed many things for Dick Mason. But the stop light was there, and the talkative, angry policeman. And so Dick Mason's car came to the curb just as the taxicab that carried Judy Allison away from him turned the corner three blocks away. And by the time Dick Mason had found the landlady, had blurted out his demand, "Where's Judy?" and heard in answer, "She's gone. Mr. Mason," by that time Judy Allison was in the station buying a ticket, paying a breath-taking amount of money for it, hurrying up the steps with a red-cap tugging her suitcase.

She got on the train just as the conductor signaled, just as people kissed and drew away and dabbed handkerchiefs at tears they wanted to hide. So many people saying good-bye. So many people who would meet again, in a week, a month. But there was no one to say good-bye to Judy.

Typhoid Fever Is Dr. Simmonds' Theme

Nelson Pathologist Author of Technical Article

Dr. E. G. Simmonds, M.R.C.S. (Eng.), L.R.C.P. (Lond.), pathologist at the Kootenay Lake General hospital, is the author of an article in the last issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, which has attracted a great deal of attention among medical men and pathologists. It is entitled "Unusual Clues to the Diagnosis of Typhoid Fever."

The article is a highly technical one. Its trend is illustrated by the introductory paragraphs:

"As is well known, typhoid fever, like many other diseases, does not always 'play the game'; it cheats us, in that it does not always show the complete set of signs and symptoms which, the text-books assure us, a well-bred case should show; it camouflages itself so as to ape the similitude of other diseases.

"The differential diagnosis between acute military tuberculosis, acute bacterial endocarditis and typhoid fever, to mention only a few instances, is stressed in most text-books on medicine and is well known to students; and yet, in actual practice, there are cases of typhoid fever which baffle the diagnostic acumen of the very elect."

Dr. Simmonds then proceeds to give the results of a large number of pathological tests which he has made in the past several years, and illustrating the success he has attained in isolating and identifying typhoid germs.

10-CENT EGGS IN CRESTON BEING PUT DOWN FOR WINTER

CRESTON, B. C., April 25.—Creston and district housewives are very busy putting down what looks like the biggest-ever supply of water glass eggs. For the past two weeks eggs have been retailing at 10 cents a dozen, and prospects are for low prices for at least another two months, hence the preserving activity. Ten cent eggs have not been known in Creston for more than 20 years.

MINING MEN WATCH SILVER

VANCOUVER, April 24 (CP)—Mining men are watching the silver market as never before, according to J. D. Galloway, M.E., provincial mineralogist, who arrived from Victoria today on business connected with the Security Frauds act.

"It will take only a price of 45 or 50 cents per ounce to start considerable activity in the silver camps of the province," Mr. Galloway said. "Slocan, Alice Arm and Beaverdell camps would soon feel the influence of 45-cent silver," he added. "Leasers would become particularly active in these areas.

"In camps where silver is a by-product of other ores, and where zinc and lead predominate, a general rise in price of all these metals would be necessary before the larger companies would be affected.

FINANCE LISTS CALM ON WALL

U. S. Dollar Steadier and U. S. Bonds Are Firmer

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—United States financial markets calmed considerably today as quotations receded from the advanced positions taken during the inflation furore.

United States dollar exchange was steadier and United States government bonds were firmer. These two interesting developments, taken in conjunction with the more conservative action of equities and staples, suggested markets might be taken a second look at prospects for credit or currency expansion, especially since an administration spokesman had said "prudence and caution" would govern use of the extraordinary powers which would be given President Roosevelt under pending legislation.

Stocks had a heavy opening, then rallied and finally settled down to a backing and filling that kept the trend very confused. Final prices were mostly a point or two lower, with few exceptions.

U.S. Steel's directors fulfilled Wall street's expectations by declaring another 60 cent dividend on the preferred stock, though the first quarter deficit exceeded the record-breaking losses of the previous quarter by a very small margin.

The oil industry's troubles were brought sharply to the fore by fresh price reductions on East Texas Crude, It was reported these cuts by larger companies were aimed at the troublesome practices which President Holmes of Texas Corp., called "racketeering activities," but whatever the purpose, the effect on earnings is unfavorable.

Copper metal was firmer in the domestic market. Anaconda, the largest producer, announced its sales so far this month had been the largest in about two years. However, current price levels are still unprofitable.

BUTTER, EGGS AND CHEESE ARE OFF

MONTREAL, April 25 (CP).—The range of butter, eggs and cheese prices was decreased by ½c on the Montreal dairy and produce market today.

No. 1 regraded butter in cariots or less was generally quoted 20c to 20½c a pound. Receipts dropped considerably, totalling only 388 boxes as against 2441 for the same day last week.

The egg market was quoted 17c for extras, 15c for firsts and 13c a dozen for seconds for graded shipments in cariots or less. Offerings continued to gain, 2931 cases arriving.

WHEAT DECLINES OVER TWO CENTS

Moves on News That France Is Balking

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP)—Rapid loss of effervescence developed in the grain market today and Washington reports that France was balking received more notice from traders than inflation did.

Subsiding of inflation fever became increasingly a factor, with resultant price tumbles totalling at the last 2½ cents a bushel for wheat. The majority of professional traders watched what they called a natural reaction from the recent sharp advance.

Wheat closed weak at the day's bottom figure, 1⅞ to 2¼ cents under yesterday's finish, corn 1 to 1½ down, oats ⅞ to 1 off, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents decline.

Downturns in securities, cotton and silver and in British exchange preceded the opening of grain markets and did much to unsettle confidence, especially as to wheat.

CANADIAN DOLLAR DECLINES A CENT

Suspension of Gold Redemption Is Cause

NEW YORK, April 25 (CP).—Canadian funds slumped 1c on the New York foreign exchange market today after announcement the Dominion had suspended redemption of Canadian notes in gold. The dollar closed at 87c, gradually sliding from an open of 87½c. The close represented a premium of 15 per cent as against Canadian currency. The pound sterling eased 1½c to a cable rate of $3.86.

Chief influence in today's market appeared to be the consensus among traders that the United States dollar would eventually be devaluated to a certain discount and remain there for some time.

Sterling opened at $3.85, its lowest figure of the day, advanced until mid-afternoon, when it touched its peak of $3.86½ and then eased slightly at the end of operations.

DOMESTIC STOCKS ROLL UP GAINS

TORONTO, April 25 (CP).—While interlisted stocks followed Wall street to lower levels today domestic stocks were much less pessimistic and rolled up sufficient gains to give the market a moderately firm appearance.

Volume bulked much above the average, standing at 39,000 shares.

The list opened lower under Wall street influence, but early losses were recorded in full. A gradual sinking spell for the leaders however developed in the afternoon. Chief interest centred in base metals and oil stocks, profit-taking in these shares giving the market an unbroken row of losses at the close.

International Nickel closed at 14.55, off 45c. Smelters closed 1¼ off at 85. Brazilian, C.P.R. and Ford "A" closed down ¼ to ½.

All leading oil shares finished lower by a half point or more. B.A. took the lead today with a trade of close to 3000 shares.

Improved outlook for commodity prices gave foods a firm appearance.

OILS ARE HIGHER

Base Metals and Golds Are Heavy

VANCOUVER, April 25 (CP).—Oil stocks continued their advance today on the Vancouver stock exchange. C. & E. gained 4c at .44, a new high for the year; Amalgamated 2¾ at .06 and Home Oil 3c at .50, also a new high. Okalta Com. closed at .06½, Mayland at .25, Merland at .15 and United Oil .05¾, all up 1c. Other oil shares made fractional gains.

The base metal and gold were heavy. Bralorne lost 20c at 4.00, Cariboo Gold 11c at 2.14 and Reno Gold 7 at 1.02. Porter Idaho lost 2¼ at .09½, Noble Five 1¼ at .11½ and Bridge River ¾c at .12½. Big Missouri at .16 and Whitewater at .09¼ were each down ½c.

FLOUR OFF TEN CENTS

MONTREAL, April 25 (CP). — Prices of spring wheat flour which were advanced 20c per barrel yesterday, decreased 10c per barrel today on the local cash grain market, following the reaction in wheat prices. At the new prices, firsts patents sell for $4.80, seconds patents, $4.20 and bakers' patents $4.10.

GROSS REVENUES OF C. N. DECLINE

MONTREAL, April 25 (CP)—Gross revenues of the all-inclusive Canadian National railways system for the week ending April 21, 1933, were $2,524,778 as compared with $3,093,669 for the corresponding period of 1932, a decrease of $568,891, according to an official statement.

SHARP REACTION AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, April 25 (CP).—Reaction to the sharp advance during the past week when inflation plans occupied traders' minds, set in on the Montreal stock exchange today. Prices receded, but not before minor recovery movements had floundered on the rocks as selling waves pounded prices under.

The general decline on the New York market and on the Winnipeg and Chicago grain pits swept Montreal quotations lower. Although losses outnumbered gains more than two to one, they were mainly of a fractional nature and very small in comparison to the upturns scored in the past week of trading.

Although the trend was in the opposite direction of the past few days, base metals led the market in activity.

NICKEL DOWN

International Nickel finished the day down 45c at $14.50, while Consolidated Smelters lost 2¼ points at $84 after touching $87½. Hollinger dipped 25c at $8.75.

The drop in wheat prices forced agricultural implement and milling issues lower. Cockshutt Plow and Massey-Harris both lost small fractions while Ogilvie Flour Mills preferred sunk to a new low at $112 where it was down three points.

Brazilian Traction and Canadian Pacific railway were both off ⅝. Traction at 9¾ and C.P.R. at 12¾.

WHEAT SUFFERS SHARP REVERSES

WINNIPEG, April 25 (CP).—Wheat futures suffered their first major reverse in a week of upsurging prices on the Winnipeg grain market today. Bullish enthusiasm dampened by lack of export, values were swept back more than 2c as profit-takers cashed in on their gains of the past two days. And as values receded the speculative support also declined.

Attempts at rallies were unsuccessful and prices at the close were 2c to 2¼c down, May future at 57⅜c, July 59c to 59½c and October 61¼c. Though trading moved briskly, volume of transactions was sharply curtailed from recent days. The market was comparatively quiet.

"Bulls" received a check when speculators paid heed to continued lack of export and lost no time in unloading their holdings.

Mines Untroubled by Profit-Taking

TORONTO, April 25 (AP).—The process of converting paper profits into cash proceeded quietly without greatly disturbing the Standard mining market today. Losses were limited to 50c in the big gold leaders.

Most of the base metal and silver stocks moved within a narrow range except Nickel and Noranda, which had a swing of about a dollar each and finished 45c down in the case of Nickel and 5c for Noranda. Leading gold shares moved up and down to about the same extent. A feature of the session was a sizeable boom in the oil shares. Volume was 300,000 under Monday's turnover.

Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves turned over in heavy volume and both dropped 10c, the former to 4.40 and the latter to 4.80. Lake Shore and Dome closed down 50c each, Hollinger 25 and Bralorne 20, while Pioneer gained 5 to 7.75. The majority fo the cheaper gold stocks were clipped in practically the same proportion.

Buying was heavy in the oil group. Oiga traded 79,000 shares and moved up to 50, about double the price at which it sold yesterday. The close at 44 was up 6 for the day.

CALGARY STOCK LIST CLIMBS

CALGARY, April 25 (CP)—More than doubling the volume of yesterday, trading on the Calgary stock exchange today climbed to the highest point in more than a year. Total shares traded during the session was 45,000.

BOND MARKET HOLDS ITS OWN

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—The bond market held its own today in the face of some substantial profit-taking which unsettled a number of the recently buoyant speculative leaders.

With the appearance of irregularities, trading volume dropped appreciably. Sales totalled $14,122,000, par value, compared with $18,338,000 yesterday.

Higher Duty Valuation For Fresh Vegetables

OTTAWA, April 25—Imports into Canada of green onions and shallots, radishes and spinach, from May 1 to Nov. 30, will be assessed for duty on an advanced valuation, due to the exchange situation.

It is announced by the Department of National Revenue that the value for duty purposes of these vegetables has been fixed by the Minister at the following advances on the true invoice value if in Canadian funds: green onions and shallots, 4 cents a pound; radishes, 5 cents a pound; spinach 1¼ cents a pound.

FREE FOR ALL

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—Wrathy New York Yankees today shut out the Washington Senators 16-0 after police reserves were called to quell a free-for-all fight, started by players and taken up by fans, which temporarily halted the game in the fourth inning.

Three fans were arrested by officers putting down the near-riot. Lou Gehrig hit his fouth homer, Lazzeri hit another and Russell Van Atta held Washington to five hits.

The bad blood existed between the two clubs since the Bill Dickey-Carl Reynolds incident of 1932, broke out again after Lou Gehrig had singled to center and Ben Chapman to right, sending Gehrig to third. Tony Lazzeri forced out Chapman, Cronin and Myer, with Gehrig scoring.

Chapman, whom Myer claimed spiked him yesterday, slid into second, spikes up, knocked Myer down. The second-sacker kicked at Chapman, who scrambled to his feet. They swung fists toe-to-toe as umpires raced toward them and players poured from the dugouts. Amid the howling of belligerent fans, Myer and Chapman were separated and expelled from the game.

SOCKS WHITEHILL

Players milled around the field for five minutes before play was resumed. Then, as Chapman started for the showers, by way of the Washington dugout, Earl Whitehill, Senator hurler, passed some remark about the fight. Chapman let fly a right which closed Whitehill's eye, and followed his lead with his left.

Again the players swarmed from the dugouts, and this time fans leaped from the stands, intent upon mobbing the Yankee left fielder. A police riot squad arrived in time to clear the field before greater damage was done.

Van Atta, besides hurling himself a ball game, batted 1000 in his four trips to the plate, drove in one run and scored twice.

CLEVELAND BEATS ST. LOUIS

CLEVELAND, April 25 (AP) — Catcher Frankie Pytlak, starting his first game of the season for the Indians, picked out the seventh inning to make his first hit—a home run—and give Cleveland a 4-1 victory over St. Louis today.

Pytlak's long drive brought two runners in and broke up a pitching duel between Bumps Hadley and Clint Brown.

"Jimmie" Gordon Gets Hole-in-One

Freight Agent Reaches Fame in Before Breakfast Play

James Gordon, district freight agent for the Canadian Pacific railway, Nelson, has entered the famed portals known only to golfers and golfing fans. He has joined the "Hole-in-One club." Probably one way to get there is early to bed and early to rise for Mr. Gordon donned his golf togs before breakfast on Tuesday morning and accompanied Elmer Horton to the local course for some early season play. They reached the eighth hole and teed away. They walked up to the green, Mr. Horton found his ball and asked Mr. Gordon where his had landed. Mr. Gordon remarked that it was in the cup. They investigated and there it was. It was the first hole in one of the year and before the course is officially open. Mr. Gordon now is entitled to numerous bottles of ginger ale, shaving cream, tooth paste and other honors that go to those of fame in the golfing world.

CARDS RALLY AROUND HORNSBY TO WIN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 25. (AP)—Inspired by presence of Rogers Hornsby, their former manager, at second base after an absence of six years, the St. Louis Cardinals won the final game of the series from the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 10-3. It was the third victory in three starts for Bill Hallahan, southpaw.

Hornsby, who has been bothered by a heel injury which was slow to heal, showed fairly good speed. The rajah got one hit, a single in the fifth with the bases filled. Hornsby started a double play in the first.

It was Bottomley's third home run of the season and it scored Lucas and Morrissey ahead of him. The trio of runs came in the fifth and gave the Reds the lead.

HOOP FINALS HERE TONIGHT

Rep Team Takes on the Trail Sheiks for West Kootenay Honors

Well-tuned after two consecutive workouts, Nelson's senior basketeers make a bid for the West Kootenay championship tonight, taking on the highly touted Trail Sheiks at the junior high school. The winning team travels to Kimberley to meet the East Kootenay champions for the Kootenay title and the Blaylock cup.

Managers Alex. Ringrose and Fritz Farenholtz, after putting their charges through their paces, are confident that Trail will have no easy time of it.

The turnout of fans recently has been anything but encouraging, and the officials are expecting a strong moral backing for tonight's affair.

The local's will line up the same as last Friday, when they romped home to an easy win over the Trail Diakonias, 24-14. The lineup includes Allan McLean, Archie Bishop, Art Langill and Don Lucas, guards; Clarence McDougall, Bob Kirby, Steve Smith, Tommy Harrison and Bert Clark, forwards. Lucas may also appear on the forward line.

Trail Sheiks will floor the following team: Harry Rothery, A. Gripich, Carl Baillie, C. Bradbury, W. Milburn, J. Burrows, K. Chandler and K. Sammons.

The Sheiks won the city league in the smelter city this year after one of the hardest fought series in the organization's history. Many boys are known here for their part in other sports.

The Nelsonians and the Junior High will stage a preliminary before the big game.

Sports Await the Allotment of Field

CRESTON, B. C., April 25—Baseball and softball activities are held up temporarily pending the drafting of a schedule of playing evenings for the different baseball and softball organizations that are wanting to use the Exhibition park for practices and league games. Three softball teams are already in sight and there will be not less than two baseball squads. During the fall the Lamont lot on Canyon street was ploughed up by its owner thus robbing the softball talent of a playing field that was available for the past two years.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Payne and family have moved from town and are now occupying their new residence on their ranch just north of town.

Miss Alice Carr, who is with the telephone central at Fernie, is on a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Carr.

There have been no cases of sheep scab in Canada for four years.

GILL HEADS SOFTBALLERS

Expect Boom for Game; Five Teams Entered Already

Men's softball will be one of the many summer sports to enjoy the boom this spring caused by the financial stress which has left many with plenty of spare time for recreation. At the annual meeting held Tuesday night, representatives of five teams announced their willingness to join the league. As the entry does not close until the end of the month, more teams will probably sign up.

WOULD PUT JUDGE RUTHERFORD ON AIR

A demand that the clergy of Canada withdraw all objections to the public broadcast of lectures by Judge Rutherford, and that the radio commission permit the same to be broadcast for the instruction of the people, was a resolution passed in Nelson recently by followers of Judge Rutherford when A. H. McMillan was the speaker.

The resolution declares that Judge Rutherford is a known authority on bible prophecy and that the clergy of Canada had used its influence to prevent the radio stations broadcasting his lectures. The resolution also contains a challenge to Canada to meet Judge Rutherford in public debate to show wherein his prophecy is wrong.

MORE ABOUT DEBT TALK

talks, presumably after preliminary understandings had been reached for action on other pressing problems at the coming world economic conference, particularly on monetary reforms by which Mr. Roosevelt hopes the United States and Britain may return to the gold standard and currencies be stabilized on a world-wide scale.

DISARMAMENT DEADLOCK

At the state department new evidence was seen that the United States may undertake to break the disarmament deadlock at Geneva by agreeing to consult with other signatories in event of a violation of the Kellogg-Briand pact of Paris, in which virtually all the civilized nations of the world took a solemn pledge not to resort to war.

Such a move would go far toward answering French demands for "security"—tangible assurance of her safety against attack—without which she has consistently refused to reduce her armed forces.

In this connection, the president is believed to have given M. Herriot to understand that nothing would contribute so much to a recementing of Franco-American relations as payment by the French of their $19,261,432 war debt interest instalment due last December 15.

POSTPONE PAYMENTS

Rather than allow rancor over war debts to ruin the chances of progress toward economic restoration at the London conference two months hence, President Roosevelt, it is felt, might recommend to congress that the payments due June 15 be postponed until after the London conclave.

From semi-official sources in Paris came the word today that the government will seek parliamentary approval for payment of the defaulted sum if the United States will postpone the June payment until after the London conference.

France's payment due June 15 is twice as large as the defaulted sum, the amounts being $40,738,568, against $19,261,432.

BEARING ON DEBTS

The theory behind the postponement would be that the agreements to be reached at London on a multitude of monetary and economic questions intimately affecting the pocketbooks of nations would inevitably have a bearing upon the debts and the capacity of the debtor nations to pay. If the London conference results in an improvement of prices, a revival of commerce and downward revision of tariffs, the ability of the debtor nations to meet their payments would be measurably increased.

As for Great Britain, it was apparent today that the conferences between Prime Minister MacDonald and the American president have resulted in a full appreciation of each others' views on a variety of topics, including war debts.

BRITAIN EXPECTS TO BE INCLUDED

If a postponement of the June 15 instalments is granted, Britain is expected to be included as the Roosevelt administration appreciates her action in meeting the December 15 payment in gold when her request for relief was refused.

Also operating to ease the British situation is a provision in the pending United States currency inflation bill under which $100,000,000 of war debt payments due this year would be accepted in silver. As British India has quantities of silver derived from melting its coinage to go on the gold standard and owes London some $31,000,000 on its assumed share of the war debt, this would permit a sizeable payment without any burden on the British taxpayer.

MORE ABOUT TAXES

The budget also cuts the imports on arrears of death duties and on company capital, increases taxation of heavy motor vehicles, raises the duties on imported matches and mechanical lighters and British sparkling wines, and continues for another four years the duty on imported hops.

Including all these changes the chancellor estimated he will have a surplus of £1,291,000 ($5,680,000).

His figures are:

Estimated expenditures	£697,486,000
Estimated revenue	698,777,000
Estimated surplus	1,291,000

But the chancellor balances his budget by suspending the sinking fund payments for which £1,723,900 was alloted last year. Nor is any provision made for either war debt payments to the United States, to whom the next instalment is due June 15, or war debt and reparations receipts from the United Kingdom's debtors. This follows the course adopted in the last budget and the chancellor commented it was obviously impossible to consider any present war debt figures as final.

SOUND FINANCE

Mr. Chamberlain stuck to the canons of "sound finance."

"If we were to reverse our policy just at the moment when other governments are trying to follow our example," Mr. Chamberlain declared, "we should stultify ourselves in the eyes of the world."

Mr. Chamberlain was frank that the revenue year which closed March 31 was disappointing. The last budget had estimated a surplus of £800,000, yet the year closed with a deficit of $32,678,000. But if allowance were made for the war debt payment to the United States last December, of £28,900,000, and for the £14,600,000 which had been applied to net debt redemption, "we had during the past year a surplus of current revenue over current expenditure of approximately £11,250,000," an announcement which evoked appreciative cheers. Last year's deficit will be met by borrowing.

But the outcome of the past year, Mr. Chamberlain told the house, "may well afford us more solid satisfaction than some of the surpluses earned with so little effort in earlier and more prosperous years."

He chacterized the past year as one of substantial financial achievement which was the necessary preliminary for revival of activity, and declared there was no justification for any pessimism at the financial prospects of the country.

Will Tag in Aid Journey to Trail

A special train has been chartered by the Nelson festival committee to transport school children to Trail for participation in the Kootenay musical festival May 4, and to finance the trip a tag day will be held Saturday. The festival commences April 4, and ends April 6, the first day being devoted to children's events.

The value of music as a humanizing influence cannot be denied and the committee hopes that everyone will do his best to assist those who are trying to give something to the rising generation. It is hoped that many of those interested will avail themselves of the inexpensive rates that will be provided and support the festival by their presence in Trail.

gold. Since then technically Canada has been off gold.

At present the export of gold is forbidden, except under licence, for purposes to meet a public need. Paper money is not redeemable in gold except in special and rare situations.

WHEAT A PROBLEM

Reduction in wheat acreage was another problem on which the correspondents questioned the premier. Mr. Bennett said Canada appreciated the huge carry-over of wheat each crop year was a real obstacle which prevented world prices approaching what the commodity was worth. There had been some discussion as to methods of reducing the carry-over. The associations of wheat growers had given consideration to it but no definite action had been taken. It was a matter for the prairie provinces to handle.

The silver question was also brought up. Mr. Bennett explained that he had not been informed as to the progress made by the conferences between Britain and the United States on that question. Obviously, since Canada was an important producer of silver, any steps to increase prices would be regarded with favor.

FROM TROPICS TO ARCTIC

Barley is the hardiest of cereal plants. The cultivation of this crop is distributed from the desert's fringe to the edge of the Arctic. It matures more quickly than wheat, rye or oats, thus permitting its growth during the short sub-arctic summer or the short rainy season of semi-tropical lands. It ripens 150 miles beyond the Arctic circle; and it is an important crop in areas such as northeastern Africa, where wheat cannot survive, says Prof. M. C. Grant of Manitoba, in the Empire marketing board's survey of barley. Even at an elevation of 10,000 feet, with a summer temperature of 52 degrees, where frosts are frequent, barley is grown.

TRAIL HOUSES AND LOTS—Insurance. Notary. J. D. Anderson. (6252)

OATS FOR POULTRY

Many poultry keepers do not give oats its proper place in the ration to their fowls. This, probably, is due to the fact that much of the oats placed on the market is not well filled and when offered to the poultry is not eagerly eaten. Oats have a fibrous hull, and it is probably largely on that account that the birds take more readily to wheat or corn. However, when oats are of a good quality, they are an excellent feed as has been demonstrated by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, and as soon as the flock becomes accustomed to oats they will eat this feed greedily.

HAIRLESS PIGS AND IODINE

Goitre in calves and lambs and hairlessness in pigs are prevalent in districts where there is a deficiency of iodine in the soil. In such districts the use of potassium iodide in the form of iodized salt is advised by the Dominion department of agriculture. Commercial iodized salt can be procured, or, if it is desired to mix it at home, the procedure is simple. Spread out 100 pounds of dry common salt evenly on a clean floor, and after dissolving two ounces of potasium iodide in sufficient water, sprinkle the liquid evenly over the salt. A good rule in feeding salt to swine is to feed one-half pound per pig per month, varying this according to the size and age of the pigs.

ELECTRIC "CHAIR" IN STOCK YARD

Humane Slaughter Method Is Tried Out in France

PARIS—Fifty years after its first use in the United States, France is ready to employ electrocution, although the nation continues to the 150-year-old guillotine.

Primarily as a humane measure, electrocution is being tried in the stockyards here. To this use there are also economic advantages which owners of abattoirs are grasping.

The leader in the movement for killing stock by electricity is Dr. Foveau de Courmelles, a veterinarian and president of the French Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He has devised an electric chair for cows, pigs and sheep, after a series of visits to stockyards in the United States, the Argentine and elsewhere.

Dr. Courmelles' machine for animal electrocution follows in principle that of the electric chair. The animal is led into a special pen, or cell, and an electrode attached to head and leg. Experiments under auspices of the Pathological society have convinced him that electrocution is instantaneous and more humane than other methods.

There is the added advantage, he has pointed out, of cleanliness.

the strike period occurred, when strikers attacked men refusing to heed the strike call and determined to work out their relief grants as required by the city.

Before the main outbreak, trouble occurred at Victoria park relief kitchen, when Charles Rudsky was alleged to have thrown a knife and fork at a police officer. Police quelled this minor affair quickly after arresting Rudsky and J. Lukashuk.

Shortly after 1500 men and women marched to the Mission Hill Suburb. Forming at the bottom of the hill, they swarmed upward, overpowering 30 policemen guarding 70 relief workers, employed on road-work. A real free-for-all followed, picks and shovels, police batons and fists swinging in all directions as women among the rioters fled, screaming.

CRACK HEADS

The roadworkers, in some instances took to cover, but others stood shoulder to shoulder, cracking the attackers' heads and holding them at bay until police ranks reformed for another charge.

Constable Williamson suffered an injured shoulder from a flying shovel and Constable McCrae's head was badly gashed as the struggle waged. The bluecoates, however, put more weight behind their batons, finally driving the attackers down the hill, some of them with bleeding scalps.

After 15 minutes, quiet was restored and tonight no untoward incidents were reported among unemployed ranks.

CALL MOUNTED

BILLION PEOPLE ATTEND CINEMAS

LONDON, April 25 (CP)— About 960,000,000 admissions to get miving picture theatres in the United Kingdom last year at a total expenditure of $215,000,000, is taken as a good indication that the modern commercial cinema is a vastly more important enterprise than many critics thereof may credit. The sum of $215,000,000 spent on cinemas includes $35,000,000 in taxes. The average price per admission was about nine pence.

The figures quoted were given at a meeting of the Royal Empire Society by Simon Rowson, a director in one of the big British picture corporations. In the course of his address Mr. Rowson said:

"There were signs of the beginnings of an export trade in British films to the markets of the Empire and to other English-speaking countries. London was again becoming the film market of the world. Reports of every new picture screened in London were communicated to expectant buyers wherever the English language was spoken."

WET AND DRY YEARS IN THE WEST

A study of the meteorological records for 46 years at Medicine Hat, which is the central point of the short grass plains, or so-called dry area, indicates that the driest year on record was 1886, and 1927 the wettest. Dry years occurred previous to 1900 and have happened periodically ever since. Information already obtained by the Dominion range experimental station at Manyberries, Alta., where investigations have been planned to study the effect of climatic changes from year to year, shows the absolute necessity of making provision for dry years by controlled grazing and the development of a permanent water supply.

CALGARY MAN IN ALIMONY CASE

VICTORIA, April 24 (CP).—John George MacKay of Calgary came to Victoria last week to visit his son and daughter and found himself lodged in jail by Sheriff Goggin as Victoria's first alimony prisoner in a long time.

On a capias taken out by F. C. Elliot, counsel for Mrs. Hannah MacKay, his wife, Mr. MacKay was taken into custody by deputy sheriffs as he stepped from an automobile to enter the home of his son here. Since then he has been locked up in the Victoria jail, part of which for the purpose has been set aside as an alimony jail.

Today Mr. MacKay was brought before Mr. Justice Murphy of the supreme court for the hearing of the case. His wife claims alimony at $75 a month since 1924, which amounts now to $7800.

C. J. O'Halloran occupied today presenting his case for the freeing of Mr. MacKay. He read to court the sworn statement of Mr. MacKay that the action of Mrs. MacKay was "purely vindictive and one of revenge."
