Swedish Prince Gives Up Royalty When Weds Pretty German Commoner in London

LONDON, March 8 (AP).—A romance like a fairy tail of fiction came true today with the wedding at noon of Sigvard, prince of Sweden, Duke of Uppland and grandson of the Swedish king, to the beautiful Fraulein Erika Patzek, 22-year-old daughter of a Berlin industrialist.

In taking his commoner bride at a registry office in the heart of busy London, the 26-year-old prince—like Lennart, his cousin — abandoned his princely rights for a romantic union with the German actress.

Rhodes Defends Plan; King Unopposed at the Present

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP).—The determination of the government to protect the proposed central bank from the influence of political expediency on the one hand, and private influence for selfish profit on the other, was voiced by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, speaking in the house of commons today on second reading of the Bank of Canada act.

Mr. Rhodes vigorously opposed an amendment moved by G. G. Coote (U.F.A.-Macleod), which would have the effect of altering the act so that the bank would be wholly government owned and controlled.

The Coote amendment was subsequently ruled out of order and the debate, was still in progress when the 11 o'clock adjournment was reached. It will be resumed tomorrow by J. W. Woodsworth (Lab.-Winnipeg North Centre).

In the first place Mr. Rhodes wished to disabuse the minds of those who seemed to believe that it was proposed to place the central bank on a basis of "unbridled" private ownership.

It was proposed that the capital would come from private sources but numerous safeguards would be erected to prevent the unrestricted private ownership which was assumed in some sections of the press.

Mr. Rhodes quoted from several

Maggot Farm Is Suggested as New Alberta Industry

EDMONTON, March 8 (CP).—Edmonton may proudly boast of a new industry—a maggot farm—if members of the Fairview United Farm Women of Alberta have their request granted.

They have passed a resolution urging the Alberta government to establish one in the capital city because of the maggots' curative effects when used in certain types of blood poisoning or cases of chronic bone infection. B. C. ELECTRIC CASE AIRED AT CAPITAL

VICTORIA, March 8—The private bills committee today heard arguments for and against Vancouver's private bill which would give the mainland city the right to grant franchises to companies other than the B. C. Electric to operate bus lines.

J. B. Williams, city solicitor of Vancouver, asserted that the railway company, which had a monopoly of transportation, had refused to grant adequate service to certain parts of the municipality.

Alderman J. J. McRae told the committee the city council did not want to be unfair towards capital. The bill would give them power to deal effectively with the transportation company.

Alderman Thomas Wilkinson said the proposed amendment was a protest against what the citizens and council considered an injustice.

Nitro-Glycerine Is Sent Vance Who Has Solved Recent Mysteries

VANCOUVER, March 8 (CP)—Vancouver police tonight followed faint clues in an effort to locate the sender of a parcel received through the mail by Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, chief of police bureau of science.

The innocent-appearing parcel contained a high-explosive bomb and police believe it constituted an underworld attempt to end the life of the man whose scientific evidence has brought conviction of many criminals in recent months.

Numerous threats have been made during the past month against the analyst. Three times a mysterious voice has come to Vance over the telephone telling him to "lay off." Each time the calls were traced to public pay stations in different parts of the city.

The bomb was wrapped in brown paper and tied with string. It looked innocent enough and Vance put one finger under the cord to break it. He hesitated. His name and address were printed in vaguely familiar characters.

The assailant then shot and killed himself.

Wilkinson of Vancouver Would Have the Government Share in Some Mine Profits

Some Mines Have Same Potential Value as Those in Ontario; Government Pays Out Money for Roads and Trails; Prospector Gets Little Out of It

VICTORIA, March 8 (CP).—The government should participate in some of the profits of mines, said Robert Wilkinson (Lib.-Vancouver-Point Grey) in the house this afternoon. Some British Columbia mines had the same potential value as those in the Cobalt area of Ontario. Companies here were organized with share capital running from one to three million. The province maintained trails and roads and furnished reports by resident engineers and should receive from 5 to 10 per cent of the capital stock as its share.

While the prospector located the claim, oftentimes grubstaked, he seldom shared in the wealth it produced. Under the Companies act the vendor got from 300,000 to 350,000 shares when the enterprise was incorporated and the public bought the rest.

Mr. Wilkinson did not offer any suggestion as to what the government should do with its share of each mining company, whether its stock should be held in escrow or sold on the open market.

State Assistance for B.C. Mines Urge of McPherson

Mines Will Eventually Pay Off Debts of Province Says Boundary Member

VICTORIA, March 8 (CP)—State assistance to promote mining activity through a regularly organized system, using the present machinery of the mines department, will be recommended to the government by the mining committee of the legislature, it was decided today.

"I feel the mines of British Columbia are going to pay our debts if they are ever going to be paid," declared Dugald McPherson, Grand Forks-Greenwood, the chairman.

The proposal came to the committee from the Grand Forks board of trade and is designated as a means of taking men off relief and putting them to work at something in which they will have an interest.

"Seventy-five per cent of the money now spent on relief work is thrown away because the men have no real incentive to use any more energy than they have to," said Mr. McPherson.

PROSPECTORS UNDER ACT

W. J. Asseltine, Atlin, proposed prospectors come under the workmen's compensation act and this will be recommended to the government with the suggestion that either part of the licence fees be set aside for the purpose or the fee raised to meet the charge.

Tribute to the fine type of men who take up prospecting was paid by members of the committee. R. R. Burns, Rossland-Trail, described them as "heroes of the industrial world" who were forced sometimes to accept charity in hospitals when they were injured in the hills.

E. E. Winch, Burnaby, submitted a brief asking for amendments to the mining act to make conditions safer in metalliferous mines by providing for inspection by a committee of the men.

The committee also endorsed his suggestion listed as injuries under the compensation act.

DUGALD MacPHERSON

Autoist Did Not See Train That Caused Death

MISSION CITY, B. C., March 8 (CP)—At the inquest here on the death of Miss K. A. R. Appleby, evidence tended to show that Miss Appleby did not observe the approach of the train as it and her car were just about to meet at the crossing. She almost cleared the train but was caught and thrown 70 to 80 feet into the grass at the foot of the embankment.

She was seen by the fireman, but up to the moment almost, of impact he thought she would stop, as a driver of another car 200 feet behind her did.

The jury found no blame attached to anyone, but were strongly of the opinion that the crossings in the district (both C.N.R. and C.P.R.) should be made safer for the travelling public.

Suggests Government Establish the Smaller Mines With Concentrators to Relieve the Cost of Ore Shipping

VICTORIA, March 8 (CP).—Proposals for the establishment by the government of low cost concentrator plants at some of the smaller mining camps in British Columbia will be laid before the mining committee of the legislature when that body meets next Monday morning.

The establishment of these plants, it was mentioned, would relieve the small operators of the cost of shipping ore direct to the smelters.

W. J. Asseltine, member for Atlin, intimated he would introduce the matter to the mining committee with full details. The cost of the plant, he said, would not be more than $10,000 or $12,000.

NO NEW TAXES FOR ALBERTA

Base Tax or Filing Fee Is Cut Out by Budget

EDMONTON, March 8 (CP)—The elimination of the $3 base tax or filing fee under the provincial income tax, with the deficiency to be offset by an increased tax on the higher levels, was announced by Hon. R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer, in his budget report to the provincial legislature this afternoon. No new taxes will be imposed this year.

Carrying out its policy of economy, the estimated expenditures show a decrease of $22,400, as compared with the 1933-34 fiscal year and, the government, after providing for debt is budgeting for a deficit of $524,101.

Mr. Reid announced a cash deficit of $1,994,991 for the nine months ending December 31, 1933, as against $1,395,483 in the corresponding period of 1932. There was no doubt that the deficit for this fiscal year would be substantial, he said. The cash deficit, he added, included $547,000 paid for debt retirement, a provision not made by the other western provinces.

For unemployment relief there is $1,466,130 provided in the budget, with $259,687 for farm relief.

There had been a falling off in revenues during the past year. Mr. Reid said, but, starting with January, a favorable change had been noted with increasing receipts.

Galaxy of Pianists in Concert Series

Nelson Men's Glee Club Sponsoring Fine Musical Programs

Manager Frederic Shipman, under whose direction the Hollywood concert series is being presented is the recipient of numerous letters of appreciation from leading pianists and piano teachers of the west for including in this series three of the west's outstanding pianists. The series will be presented here under the auspices of the Nelson Men's Glee club.

They are Marguerite Bitter, who will be remembered for her brilliant solo work with that popular operetta, "The Cat and the Fiddle," appearing with Mary Teitsworth, soprano; Raymond McFeeters, well-known through his numerous concert tours with Kathryn Meisle, Grace Wood Jess, Carol Taylor and other artists, appearing with Leslie Brigham, singing-actor; and Margaretha Lohmann, who had the distinction of being engaged as soloist under Molinari, for the closing concert of the Hollywood Bowl season last summer; who appears with Kurt Reher, cellist.

The first concert is March 12.

Trail From Day To Day

BY A. R. J.

"The tide rises, the tide falls." And carefully its changes are watched by the mariner.

Hockey comes and goes and the fan is deeply interested in its games until the last match is o'er. That is, usually. But this season the last two games—in which Kimberley participated—were only watched by the "died-in-the-wool" fans who couldn't stay away from a game no matter what teams were in combat.

When Kimberley played Trail in the last league game in Trail, fans were assured of the best of hockey in the playoff series.

Trail lost to the Dynamiters and then local fans anticipated some interesting hockey between them and the Quakers. But the potentates of amateur hockey stepped in and prevented Moore, Brown, Redding and McGillivray from playing against the coast champions.

And when with the disorganized team that Kimberley was able to muster did what they did on the first night against Vancouver, it was all over but the shouting.

Kootenaians had strong hopes of Kimberley having a chance at the Allan cup this season with their organized aggregation but now there is little chance of them getting far. Monday night they play in Calgary a former intermediate team, the Luscar Indians. The Dynamiters will go home first to get a few clean shirts and socks before continuing on their eastward journey.

The Trail Juvenile league was terminated on the same night the Vancouver Quakers' doom was assured and quite a number of spectators of the senior battle remained to see what the youngsters had to offer.

Probably the rink felt somewhat relieved of the uproar that had reverberated against its roof all season for in the last period of the juvenile game the huge structure shook itself and heavy snow slid off its roof.

The Rink Rats, who won the juvenile title will soon have to find another hovel to spend their spare time.

Even the curling will soon be over and the great structure will close its portals for another year.

But there is some talk of putting on benefit games for some of the veteran hockey players and even Sam Irvin's Silver Seven are anxious to strut their stuff.

ROSSLAND, March 8.—Rossland L.O.L. No. 1706 and some of their friends were the guests of Golden City Lodge No. 786, L.O.B.A., at a pleasantly appointed social evening, Tuesday. Mrs. William Buick, worthy mistress, welcomed the guests and then asked R. H. Mason to act as chairman for the evening. The program included accordian solo by Hulme Pollock, accompanied by Mrs. Pollock on the piano; a song by Harry Dawson with guitar accompaniment; songs by Mrs. Robert Richardson; songs by R. H. Mason; songs by William Buick; and piano selections by James Boyd. Some community singing was also indulged in and then the company sat down to a delicious supper after which a couple of hour's dancing was enjoyed.

In the reign of the daughter of Gustavus Adolphus the Great, 1644, the Postoch Inrikes Tidning was founded in Sweden. It served as the official gazette of the government.

INDIGESTION, GAS

IF you're troubled with distress from stomach-gas and your blood needs enriching, there's nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Read what Mr. J. Stairs of 692 Toronto St., Winnipeg, Man., said: "I had quite a bit of indigestion, belched gas frequently, had no appetite and felt generally miserable. I felt tired all the while—had no energy. My system was sluggish and I didn't feel right at all. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery drove away the stomach distress in short order and made me feel fit again."

here and there with Lilly Anne

A fascinating column for young and old, containing all the latest news of delightful surprises the shopping world has in store for you. . . . Fashions and food, art and amusement, all the hundred and one things you want to know about before it is too late, are seen and described. . . . . Ask Lilly Anne about it. . . . She'll do her best for you.

Bluebirds and blue skies are reflected in the amazing variety of blues that are to be worn this spring. Everything from dark, rich navy blue with white accessories to palest of baby blue with touches of hyacinth pink will give all other colours a big run. A happy sort of colour for youth, and distinctly flattering to white haired ladies, there's a shade of blue for everyone. It's the loviest color in the spring pageant. . . . . .

Oh! Oh! The SPRINGTIME REVUE date has been changed to April the 27th and 28th. All of your friends will be in this annual event. And what a show!

The Easter picture is incomplete for men without a new hat. Not only featherweight, but feathery in tone, the plumage of game birds is the color theme in head-gear. Grouse and quail supply the grey and tan, the heron inspires the new grey-blue, and you'll see some "ducky" greens. How will you have your brim? They are homburg, semi-homburg, snap and trooper lines. You can depend upon EMORY'S to present a wide choice for the discriminating chap who likes to look his best-dressed self. So, if you're game, drop in and try one on. . . . .

If you are a washed out blonde or a red-head who just can't achieve that clear, dazzling look, you can be sure your eyebrows and lashes do not do you justice. At MILADY'S BEAUTY PARLORS, experts know the art of tinting these inconspicuous bits of hair safely and correctly to match your coloring. It will do wonders for your expression, and absolutely defies the closest scrutiny of your dearest enemy. If you are a dim star, male or female, why not become a glowing planet? . . . . .

Sunny days! Clean-up days! It reminds us of wall paper and paint and the art of MURPHY BROTHERS. . . . .

Not all ideas as to the outstanding features of spring footwear are the same, but all must have smartness of style and the trim neatness of service, as well as the day-in and day-out look of comfort. 1934 shoes must measure up to high standards—and at ANDREW'S—they do! . .

Frocks! All the loveliest new fabrics and patterns are included in the smart showing at the D. & C. ART SHOPPE. Frocks for every occasion. . . . . .

Lamps even, are going feminine in a big way. The all-white lamp, continues its popularity upstairs and down. Some of the new designs are bonnet-shaped, with a brim and band of corded silk, and a bouquet of white silk flowers on one side. This adorning of lamps, cushions, foot-stools, etc., has become very much in vogue. Gives the room a sort of frenchy look. .

Spring fever is a good excuse to throw your old utensils in the ash can. You need a tonic and the best in the world for a woman is new pots and pans. You won't be able to help showing off your kitchen when it's all shined up with the new green enamel ware with chromium tops that is on display in the WOOD VALLANCE HARDWARE COMPANY. It's priced right—the same as Vancouver prices—and it's just rarin' to get busy. You'll fall for everything from the coffee pot to the double boiler, and if it falls for you—it's triple enamel and chip proof. . . . . .

Scrumptious! describes the delicious cooking at ST. PAUL'S BAKE SALE in the Star Grocery on Saturday morning—the best recipes of the best cooks in town!

Suit fashions come swinging along on the spring breezes in the freshest of colors and gayest of styles. New movement everywhere, in the cut of the collars and lines of the coat, the cuffs, the belts and the pleats. And nothing in all the bright array of four and five-piece ensembles is more striking than the "Lansea" brambles and "Knit-to-Fit" wools that MEAGHER'S are showing this week. This zestful collection of flattering models cleverly captures the spirit of the season. In one of these, you don your devil-may-care smile and go out for a good time.

Roses and radishes, pansies and peas! Fresh vegetables at the STAR GROCERY! Magic words that conjure up the flavour of delicious springtime feasts. Long, thick pink-stemmed rhubarb, luscious beets, rosy radishes, creamy, crisp lettuce, golden carrots, and rich, green spinach. Every morsel a bit of sun-filled ambrosia. .

I have heard that the tailored evening mode will be worn without stockings. It's rather hard on the hosiery manufacturers who are trying to turn out cobweb silk hose that look as if you were barelegged anyway. These new suits will be of taffeta, crepe, organdy, muslin, or any of the summer fabrics, and will be very swish for formal or informal spring and summer dances. . .

And so, until next week, Adieu.

Lilly Anne

"Here and there with Lilly Anne" appears each week in Friday's issue of The Nelson Daily News. . . . . .

BOX FACTORY AT CRESTON AT FULL CAPACITY

20 Work on Variety of Products for Packing

BEDDING BOXES, TIN TOPS, CUPS

New Equipment and a Sprinkler Are Installed

CRESTON, March 8.—Three hundred thousand feet of spruce, practically all of which is coming in from Glenlily, will be required for the make of veneer to be used in the manufacture of bedding baskets, tin tops, berry cups, etc., at the Charles O. Rodgers box-factory, which is now operating to capacity, giving employment to 20 hands.

After the 16-foot logs have been resawn to the desired length and have been steamed they are ready to go on the lathe, which will handle logs up to 29 inches in diameter. In addition to the man in charge two helpers are also required to handle the lathe, which cuts the veneer to a thinness of one-thirty-second of an inch, and scores it ready for shaping when it reaches the cup-making machines.

From the lathe it is handled in convenient length by a feeder who puts it through a clipper which cuts it to the width and shape desired for fruit cup, tin top or basket. From the clipper it is handled by three sorters who remove the poor stuff, sort out the dry material, and bundle up the strips that are too green into bundles of about 300 pieces and this is taken into a dry kiln where it remains for as long as ten days before being ready for manufacture, while the dry is put into use immediately. In the making and sorting room is also the clipper which cuts and crimps the tin strips used on the tin tops.

From the dry kiln the veneer is taken to the second floor of the plant where a battery of eight machines completes the make of the bedding baskets and berry cups, and a battery of seven machines takes care of the make of the tin tops. From the machines the completed product is put into crates of about 500 each, and are then ready for shipment. The first carload went out the latter part of February and contained about 115,000 bedding baskets and tin tops, with the latter much in the majority. The shipment went to a Calgary wholesale fruit house, with the bedding baskets destined to be sold out for use in greenhouses.

Up till about four years ago the make of veneer was unknown at Creston, the supply for the berry cups being shipped in, while tin-tops were not handled at the Rodgers' plant. In the make of the latter ten tons of tin will be used this season. This is shipped in direct from the mill in England in sheets of 16 by 20 inches, with 112 sheets to the box.

Improved service was provided at the box making plant the past season with the installation and operation of a unitized top machine. Operated by one man and two girl helpers the machine, toward the end of the season, was turning out 5500 tops in one piece ready to nail onto the apple box.

The entire Rodgers sawmill, veneer plant and box factory has this year been safeguarded against fire by the installation of an automatic sprinkler system serving the entire plant. It is what is known as a "dry" system. The water supply comes from a 30,000 gallon tank which is erected 70 feet in the air from which leads a six-inch main. There is about 3300 feet of pipe to cover the premises with over 400 sprinkler heads, which are placed seven feet apart. When a heat of 165 degrees is reached the sprinkler head opens, thus releasing the air pressure which holds the water in check, and the water at once starts circulating through the pipes in front of a pressure of 105 pounds. With the opening of the first sprinkler head a gong automatically sounds the fire alarm. The system has cost a considerable amount to instal but provides a great saving in insurance. Daily inspection is insisted upon to make sure the water pressure stands not lower than the required 105 pounds.

With the West Kootenay power now available the steam heated veneer plant and factory is operated by electric power throughout, with a battery of three motors of 5, 15 and 3 horsepower respectively.

Along with the veneer plant the sawmill is operating as steadily as log supply will permit. These are coming in from Boulder Creek as well as from local operations, and are mostly pine. Last year the mill had an output of 1,150,000 feet, most of which was used in box and crate making.

The 1933 output at the box factory was: apple boxes, 200,000; pear boxes, 20,000; 4-basket crates, 16,000; plum and prune crates, 8000; strawberry crates, 10,000; tin tops, 261,000; bedding baskets, 90,000.

200 Present at the Hutchison Funeral

KIMBERLEY, March 8—Monday afternoon the friends and relatives of Andrew Herbert Hutchison gathered to the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church to pay their last respects to his memory. The service was in the hands of Rev. James Cuddiford and the Knights of Pythias. About 200 people were crowded into the church, many standing. The flowers were many and very lovely. The grief stricken widow was with her oldest son Robert, 14, the two small children at home. Mr. Cuddiford gave the reading, prayers and a short sermon. The text: "Wherefore comfort one another with these words" The thought: "The destiny of the departed." The Greeks considered death the end of all. The ancient Egyptians were so afraid that they embalmed the body to prevent the loss of the soul. The pagan nations feared and dreaded death. Even to the ancient Jews death was a calamity. But Christ brought a new idea. He called it rest, sleep. And after he had gone through this experience and through the ressurrection his followers believed. For them the sting of death was gone forever. They met death unflinchingly, in the arena and at the hands of their enemies for to them there was no more death, only a sleep in the sure hope of the resurrection. And this is the Christian attitude today. Our loved ones are not dead, they sleep.

"Sleep on beloved, sleep and take thy rest,
Lay down they head upon thy Saviour's breast;
We love thee well but Jesus loves thee best.
Good night, good night, good night.

The Knights of Pythias held their impressive service in the church because of the heavy snowstorm. One hymn was sung, "Nearer my God to Thee."

CITY WED

By FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER 1

Bill Lancaster drove a nail into the pastel-tinted wall of the new apartment, gave it an extra tap for good measure, hit his thumb, made a trenchant remark and sat down on the top of the kitchen step-ladder to nurse his wound and think things over.

Nevis, her slim throat and dark head emerging from the perky rosy ruffles of a sublimated bungalow apron, giggled and then sneezed. She was dusting books. Packing cases yawned, gaping, on the living-room floor. Bill said, severely: "Nice sympathetic girl, you are!"

It was a Joseph Pennell, a New York skyline, and had been given to them for a wedding gift some three months earlier.

Nevis, on tiptoe, presented him with the required wall decoration. She commented: "Isn't it lovely? Every time I look at it I get a big kick. To think that we once thought it would be about all we'd ever see of New York, except for theater trips once a year when we felt rich."

"Oh-huh," responded Bill, abstractedly. He slipped the picture wire over the nail. He asked: "How's that?"

Nevis stepped back and cocked her head. "A bit crooked. Straighten it, Bill . . . it has a sort of list to port." She added: "I can't help thinking it's desecration to drive nails. Perhaps we should have hung 'em all from the mouldings."

"This is easier."

Bill stepped down from the ladder and, an arm slipped about Nevis' slim shoulders, surveyed his work.

"Some love nest," he remarked with deep satisfaction.

"Bill!"

"That's what your Aunt Carrie called it when she sent us the check to help with 'essentials'," he reminded her. "Hey, wait a minute! Stand by!"

He released her and took two strides across the floor and set a record to whirring electrically in the new phonograph, the first that came to hand. "Golly," said Bill, "it's the Maine Stein Song and me but recently catapulted through the gates of dear old Yale." He stopped the disc and, hunting discovered a plaintive tune to which, once it was revolving melodiously, he waltzed Nevis about the bare floor.

"Dancing with tears in my eyes," sang Bill in a clear baritone, "I am —like hell!"

The record ran to its close. Laughing, Nevis struggled to be free. "Bill, let me go. Do you realize it's four o'clock? And that crowd coming in for the house warming . . . at nine?"

"Leave 'em come. We can put some of them to work." He flung her, and himself, on the stately overstuffed couch which Aunt Carrie's check had purchased. They sat there laughing weakly, for no good reason. Nevis laid her cheek against Bill's shoulder. She said: "Ain't we got fun?" and he kissed her soundly.

A big lad, Bill Lancaster, graduated, if not cum laude, then at least creditably, from Yale university the previous June. Big, with a shock of very blond hair and a set of very white teeth displayed against the background of a permanently tanned face in a most engaging grin. His eyes were an extraordinary blue. Nevis called him "Attila, the Hun," affectionately.

She had known him all her short life, allowing for his one year and eight months seniority. They had grown up together in a small manufacturing town in Pennsylvania. A rather pretty town, with red brick main streets, very slippery under rain, and the residential section straggling up and down hill, all wide lawns and old trees. A town settled by those thrifty, cleanly people known, erroneously, as the Pennsylvania-Dutch. A town in which all the wives of the leading business men did their own work and drove expensive cars. A town with a Four Hundred, a Country Club and the best golf course within a hundred miles.

Nevis Hammond and Bill Lancaster, born to the comparative purple of their surroundings, had gone to grammar school and high school together. Now, they were married—had been, for three months—and were getting their apartment settled in the last place in which they had ever expected to live together—New York.

The menage consisted of a living-room, large enough; a bedroom, which would have been large enough had not Bill bulked so very big and masculine in it; a glorified kitchenette, mechanical apparati all complete, and a tiled bath with shower attachments. This, with a couple of fair sized clothes closets and a tiny square foyer, comprised the rented floor space for which they paid, to Nevis, a stupendous sum, one that would have covered a two-storey house, an acre of ground and a garage at home.

The situation was on the East Side, the river development. They could have seen the river by stretching their necks and ruining their eyesight, had the apartment been nearer the sky. But it was on the third floor. Rents were higher, appropriately, as you mounted upward, or vice versa. "Well," remarked Bill philosophically on the day they had signed the lease, "anyway, if the elevator breaks down we won't have as far to walk as the people who have views. What's a view compared with your health?"

Nevis had found the apartment through the good offices of Fluff Waterford, sister of Sam Burton, who had been Bill's roommate at the university and who had been instrumental in bringing Bill and Nevis to New York. It had been taken for granted for years that Bill was to go into the business of manufacturing lead pipe with his father and his uncle, at home. All arranged that he and Nevis would live with his father in the big house on the hill until they could find a "cute little place" somewhere. But, long before graduation, Sam had argued hotly against such a plan, far into the night, smoking furious pipes and dishevelling his red hair with frantic hands.

"That's a hell of a note, digging yourself in, in a hick town. You'll never get anywhere! Oh, I know you'll inherit the business some day and have what is known as an income. What of it? Meantime you'll get a paunch and a bald spot. What's the sense of burying yourself alive? New York's the only place that matters. You can make good here, Bill. You've got a swell reputation and a lot of friends. My old man will take you in, quick as a shot. You could sell Eskimo pies to the Eskimos. Why not bonds to the bloated rich? You'll pick up market tips; you'll make plenty on the side. Be your age and think it over."

Bill had. So had Nevis. Being a woman, she was more cautious, less anxious to be uprooted, but he had persuaded her. He could persuade anyone to almost anything. That was due to his charm and to his integral sincerity. When Bill Lancaster believed anything he believed it so hard that you had to believe with him even against your better judgment.

So, after a short honeymoon at Hot Springs, here they were. They'd been living at a hotel for a couple of weeks, while Fluff and Nevis hunted flats and Bill broke into the bond game through the simple method of pointing a couple of clubs and being toted to lunch by Sam and interviewing Sam's dynamic father.

"So you think you can make good with us? All right, prove it! Drawing account against commission, to start."

Not that Bill worried much about money. He had, against a rainy day, his mother's little legacy. And there had been enough presents and checks to furnish the flat. Of course the honeymoon at Hot Springs hadn't been handed to them, gratis, on a silver platter, and living in New York hotels isn't exactly free. But in a couple of days he'd sell enough bonds to more than put back what he had abstracted from the principal of the legacy. He should worry. He rarely did, which was one of his most marked characteristics. . .

Kaslo Debating Club Enjoys Life Sketches

Value of Debating Pointed Out at Meeting; Pick Topic

KASLO, March 8—Owing to very inclement weather the attendance at the bi-monthly meeting of the Kaslo Literary and Debating society was not as well attended as usual, only 14 members being present. The president reported that at recent meeting of the executive committee, it was decided that the program for the next meeting should be in the form of a debate. This met with the approval of the members. The topic chosen was "Resolved, that military intervention is justifiable". The teams chosen were T. H. Robson, captain, with S. J. Mayses and Wilfred Rudkin for the affirmative and E. C. Cherry, captain, with Mrs. Cherry and H. R. Abey for the negative.

The president stressed the value of debating as tending to give self-confidence and the ability to speak in public, with assurance and conviction from knowledge gained through careful research.

The program for the evening followed with Mrs. J. R. Tinkess giving two readings, the first description of a Chinese dinner as served in China, the second a sketch of the life and work of Joseph Conrad as written by Mrs. Conrad. Page Robinson gave a selection on Universities by George Bernard Shaw. Wilfred Rudkin gave a short resume of the life and works of the poet Keats. Samuel Coleridge and Edgar Allen Poe were chosen by the president who pointed out the similarity of the lives of these two men.

T. H. Robson gave a talk on biography, stating that this was a valuable subject for study. He read excerpts from the biographies of Napoleon and Abraham Lincoln.

H. Giegerich gave the reading "I Like Depression," and the viewpoint of a Mr. Frisch, a Russian, on the effect in his country of the recently concluded pact with the United States, as a second reading.

Each item proved to be interesting and enlightening with bits of humor to lighten any apparent heaviness in the topic chosen.

MACHINERY HITS BACK

The worm has turned. Ever since the depression, inventive science and the development of machinhave been blamed for a large part of the ills of world. Science has succeeded in speeding up machinery and hence production to such an extent that consumption has lagged behind. Machinery, almost man in character, has thrown millions out of jobs. It was on this theory that technocracy became such a furor a year ago.

However, the scientists have evidently grown weary of being made responsible for all the troubles of the world. Under the auspices of the American Institute of Physics and the New York Electrical Society, two of the scientific world's leading representatives in the United States, struck back last week. They were Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and chairman of President Roosevelt's advisory board of science, and Dr. R. A. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology and Nobel prize-winner. They vigorously took up the cudgels for science.

They claimed that science, instead of throwing men out of work, made jobs. Dr. Compton pointed out that the inventions that made the automobile possible were responsible for the direct employment in production and operation of 2,409,349 persons, without counting those employed in contributing industries such as steel, rubber, glass and textiles, as compared with the roll of 970,000 persons who were engaged in 1900 in the production of horse-drawn vehicles and in their operation and care. The airplane industry, he observed, gives employment to 50,000 persons; more than 1,000,000 are employed in the electrical industry; 94,000 in the radio industry and broadcasting, and hundreds of others in other industries that science has made.

Dr. Compton emphasized that "the idea that science takes away jobs, or in general is at the root of our economic and social ills, is contrary to fact, is based on ignorance or misconception, is vicious in its possible social consequences, and yet has taken an insidious hold on the minds of many people."

These industries, he said, "cater to new human desire, increase the per capita productiveness of men so as, first, to permit of an increasing population which is not limited by starvation and misery and, second, to reduce the hours necessary for men to labor to produce their necessities, and in this way to give them their opportunity to appreciate and experience some of the bettter opportunities of living which formerly were available only to those of wealth or of politically-favored position."

Between You and Me

by J. B. C.

A RECITATION

If music be the food of love, play on
But it is Christmas day in the work house, so daddy don't be long.

He ran into rangerous Dan McGrew
Under the spreading chestnut tree
Who said East is East and West is West,
So neither a borrower nor lender be
Then up spake brave Horatius, the captain of the guard
As the boy stood on the buring deck
He didn't lose a card.
But friends, Romans, countrymen lend me your ears
Because, we are seven, and Gunga Din's drunk all the beers,
At last he stood on the bridge at midnight, on the road to Mandalay
It looked like springtime in the rockies after a perfect day;
So drink to me only with thine eyes, in this land of hope and glory.
Then Nero cremated Sam McGee, and this is the end of the story.
"D. TEES".

'Shun!—
Spring is in the air again,
As sure as sure can be—
For many are bitten by the flame
And have turned to poetry.

The balance of this space today
Is filled from out the mail,
So Mr. Printer, just take them away,
These verses on big scale.
—J.B.C.

May I introduce a chef from Boswell:

Dear J.B.C.:
Can you tell me if you please
Who is this chap you call D. Tees?
He surely writes a lot of "guff"
It makes me sick to read the stuff.

And when he talks of boiling suet
And then suggests that we should chew it,
At 3 o'clock, for afternoon tea
He's surely daft as daft can be.

If he insists on being a poet
He'll surely be queer and don't I know it.
Tell him to stick to his baccy and gin
And leave writing and cooking to them "as kin." —A CHEF

THE SONG OF THE SHEBAS

The snow is off the mountains
The grass is coming fast,
The crows are croaking
And winter's gone at last.
The birds they are birding,
The cats are on the prowl,
Spring is in the air and
It's my night to howl, wahoopee.

And this, dear readers, is from Ottawa:

Dear Editor—I tap these modest keys
To put in words a maiden's modest prayer.
I dwell in Ottawa, a city where
Stenographers like me are thick as peas;
But, oh, the swains! We try so hard to please,
Yet waste our sweetness on the desert air;
Romance flies shrieking from an office chair!
Toward you west I turn on bended knees
Seeking the tall he-man meant for me.
I'm freshly in my twenties, full of life
And good to look at, soft and warm to touch,
Some lonely bachelor these lines may see
And through them soon acquire a loving wife—
Kind Editor, I thank you very much.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TWO METHODS OF PREVENTING MIGRAINE—ONE-SIDED HEADACHE

Some time ago I suggested that when the cause of migraine—one-sided headache—was discovered I believed that a sluggish liver or gall bladder would be found to be a big factor. In fact many physicians before my time have held the same opinion.

Now the cause of migraine has not yet been discovered, but as so many cases are of the "billious" type, an analysis of 60 cases (40 of them billious) has been made by Dr. C. T. Hunt, London.

Investigation by draining the gall bladder, or by the use of a dye showing outline of bladder under x-ray showed evidence of gall bladder or liver disorder in 17 of 27 selected cases.

A higher proportion of migraine patients as a whole show evidence of gall bladder disorder than normal individuals.

Evidence of a "stoppage" in the gall bladder was found in seven of the 27.

However, Dr. Hunt states that local gall bladder disease, or a disturbance of any kind in the gall bladder is not a cause of migraine but the liver and gall bladder condition may be caused by numerous attacks of migraine, or of some condition of the liver or other part of the body.

Thus we find some physicians blaming the liver and gall bladder as causing migraine and others believing that migraine disturbs the working of the liver and gall bladder.

However, Dr. Hunt records the results of treatment by bile salt preparations by mouth in 22 selected patients, 19 of whom were improved, and suggests that some liver trouble may be the cause of migraine in certain cases; this idea is supported by the result of the bile salt treatment.

A new method of treatment which was found helpful was the cause of the juice or extract of the adrenal glands—epinephrine or adrenalin. The usual dose of 10 minims (drops) of the 1 to 1000 solution given by the hypodermic syringe under the skin prevented the attack from getting started. In some cases 15 to 20 minims injected very slowly was used with great success.

These points—the use of bile salts in the "billous" type of migraine, and the use of epinephrine or adrenalin by hypodermic injection—give us something more with which to fight that distressing ailment—migraine.

INVISIBLE STAR-LIGHT

Star-light that cannot be seen by the eyes brings to earth some of the most important information that the astronomer can use in puzzling out the way in which the universe is put together, says Science Service.

If we could go outside the earth's air and see the night sky with most inhuman eyes, sensitive only to the ultra-violet or to the infrared, the constellations would change their aspects and stars we now call "faint" would burst into brilliance. The most intense radiations of very hot blue stars are in the ultra-violet, wavelengths too short to be seen, Dr. Paul W. Merrill of the Carnegie Institution's Mt. Vernon observatory asserts, and the most intense light of the cool, red stars is in the infrared, wavelengths too long to be seen. Ozone in the atmosphere annihilates most of the ultra-violet, while oxygen and water vapor mutilate the infrared.

The first observations of invisible star-light were made in 1876 by Sir William Huggins, who photographed ultra-violet radiations down to the limit set by the atmosphere.

PARK RANGER HELPED RAISE YOUNG SWANS

How a Yellowstone national park ranger sacrificed sleep, recreation, even meals so that a brood of young trumpeter swans might "get a break" has been told, somewhat belatedly, now that his charges have grown up and flown away to their winter feeding grounds.

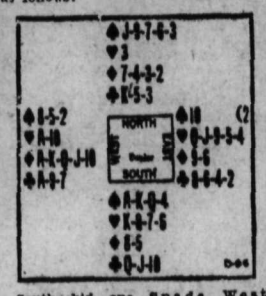
Last summer a pair of the rare and beautiful trumpeter swans nested in a lake near his bailiwick. Swans had built nests in the park before, but always some predatory animal or other got the eggs or the helpless cygnets soon after hatching. This time the ranger vowed he would see them through. For the first few days he stood guard over the young in the nest practically day and night. Any bird, beast or fish that approached with a carnivorous look in its eye was promptly and vehemently driven away. Later, he was able to relax his vigilance somewhat. With his assistance, the swan pair was able to rear five of their six offspring to maturity.

Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

A SUCCESSFUL FINESSE THAT FAILED

Many Bridge stories are told concerning situations where a finesse would seem to be advisable, but, due to the risk of losing, should be refused. It is indeed rare for a Declarer to be sure that a finesse will win and nevertheless decline to take it. Such a case occurred in a hand played recently in a prominent club. The cards were distributed as follows:



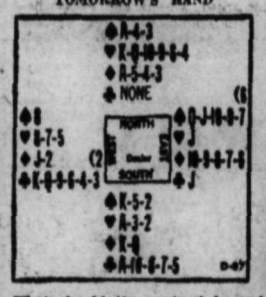
South bid one Spade, West doubled, North tried to preempt by calling four Spades and East, feeling sure that West was strong in Hearts, risked a bid of five Hearts. This was doubled by South and passed by West and North.

The play opened with two Spade leads by South, the second being ruffed by East. East then led a small Heart and finessed the Ten. The finesse winning, the Ace of Hearts was led, and Declarer was much chagrined when North refused. Closed hand was put in with a second Spade ruff and led the Nine of Hearts which South won with the King. South continued the Spade suit and East ruffed. His trumps exhausted, East led the Nine of Diamonds and continued the suit until South ruffed the third round. After that South led a Club, West won and cashed his remaining Diamonds, but the adversaries had already taken one Spade and two Hearts, defeating the contract.

South could have defeated the Declarer more decisively by shifting to a Club when he won with the King of trumps, but that would have been dangerous as the location of the King of Clubs was not marked and the Spade lead would defeat the contract.

The point in the play is that when the adversary continued the Spade, Declarer after ruffing threw his game away when he took the Heart finesse, although, due to the double, it was a practically certain winner. The play should have been: Trick 3 won with the Ace of Hearts, trick 4 the Ten of Hearts led from dummy and covered with East's Jack. If South permitted the Jack to win, either the Queen or Nine of Hearts would follow. It would not matter what South led when he won his Heart, eleven tricks for Declarer would have been assured, his only losses being one Spade and the King of Hearts.

TOMORROW'S HAND



What should the contract be and how many tricks should Declarer take?

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

HOW MUCH IS TEN BILLION

President Roosevelt's budget requirements totalling $10,000,000,000, stump the imagination. The average American cannot visualize a million dollars, let alone a billion or ten billion. What is ten billion dollars?

If reckoned in silver dollars it would pave Broadway—100 feet wide and 16 miles long from the Battery to the city line—from curb to curb in a mass of shiny silver more than two inches thick.

If it were possible to pile ten billion silver dollars on one another the stack would extend 17,500 miles into space, about 2,000 times as high as any airplane has ever flown.

The silver mass would weigh 294,117 tons—enough to present every man, woman and child in the United States with about five pounds of it.

It would require 10,631 freight cars, each carrying 100,000 pounds, to move it.

When one reckons in paper currency the picture is even more fantastic.

Ten billion one-dollar bills would extend four times the distance from the earth to the moon, about 950,000 miles. An equal sum in ten-dollar bills would wrap almost four times around the earth at the equator.

The Lincoln highway is 3,384 miles in length and averages 30 feet wide from New York to San Francisco. If dollar bills were paving blocks, the president's budget fugure would pave it more than twice over.

The billions slated for the administration's recovery program mean more than $31,000 to be dispersed each minute over a six-month period.

Even the politicians are puzzled to know how so much can be spent so swiftly.

As for the average income-tax payer, all he needs to know is that his contribution, if the country were called upon to produce such a sum, would be 300 pounds of silver or four pounds of gold.—New York Herald Tribune.

LEADERS MEET ON SATURDAY

Aston vs Gunners and Ports vs Derby in League Games

LONDON, March 8 (CP)—Aston Villa, contenders for the English cup, get another great workout Saturday when they clash with Arsenal in a first division, English soccer league fixture. The Villans eliminated the Gunners, league champions, from the cup and the match at Highbury should be full of fire works.

Arsenal are tied with Huddersfield for leadership of the first division, but took another trimming today at Leicester, losing 4-1 to the cup semi-finalists.

Portsmouth, another team left in the cup, clash with the strong Derby County eleven, now second in the league, and Leicester City will be engaged with Everton. Manchester City, who meet the Villa in the cup semi-final have an easy fixture with Sheffield United.

Many clubs have players injured and will be unable to select lineups before Saturday. Gillingham of the southern section of the third division are unluckiest, having 12 professionals out of action—both goalies, three back and the centre-half, and six forwards.

Thompson is returning to centre-forward for Blackburn after being out with a splintered leg bone for four months. Mitchell of Chelsea is on the hospital list and Yardley of Millwall will be replaced by Alexander.

Huddersfield Town go to West Bromwich Albion and should win, which will put the town on top of the heap if Aston Villa repeat their victory over the Gunners.

OXFORD TO TRY A NIGHT TEST

Will Take Advantage of the Flood Tide Before Oar Classic

LONDON, March 8 (CP cable).—A full-course trial at night, first in the century's history of the classic boat race between Oxford and Cambridge is likely for the Oxford crew on Saturday. The dark blues want the advantage of a flood tide for their last trial before the race takes place March 17.

Oxford spurted for one minute during their first outing today, at 10 strokes in the first quarter, 18½ in the half and 35 in the full minute.

Cambridge practiced starts, getting six strokes in the first nine seconds and then making 15½ strokes in less than half a minute.

NO, NO, GIANTS ARE NOT FOR SALE

Rumors Spiked by Management; No Extraordinary Offer Refused

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP).—Regardless of rumors that have flown thick and fast since the death of John J. McGraw, New York Giants are not for sale, never have been on the market and will not be unless some extraordinary, unrefusable offer comes along.

Rumors that the Giants had been sold have for years been a regular feature of the baseball calendar. There have been tales of former Mayor Jimmy Walker dickering for control, George M. Cohan of Broadway, syndicates of various kinds, and this year C. V. Whitney and even the former heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney, have been mentioned as possible purchasers of the world championship property.

Carroll to Officiate in the Senior Finals, "Curley" in Juniors

VANCOUVER, March 8 (CP)—Referees will accompany British Columbia senior and junior hockey teams this week-end when they invade Alberta for first round games in the Dominion playdowns, Art Jefferd, president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey association, announced tonight.

Carrol Kendall, Trail, will accompany Kimberley Dynamiters to Calgary for the senior series March 12 and 14. "Curley" Wheatley, Trail, will officiate in the junior opener at Edmonton March 10 between Trail and Edmonton Athletic club. The second game will be at Trail March 17.

EDMONTON JUNIORS, OPPONENT OF TRAIL IN ALBERTA-B. C. SERIES, IS A FAST OUTFIT; GOALIE ONE OF BEST

EDMONTON, March 8 (CP).—Although not quite an all-star team, Edmonton Athletic club juniors are considered the best bet Edmonton has had in the last 10 years to bring home the Memorial cup. They won the Alberta title in a three-game series with Calgary Jimmies and play the first of a two-game total-goals series in the interprovincial playoffs against Trail juniors, British Columbia titlists here Saturday.

The team has two fast-skating forward lines with brilliant combination plays. The defence players are hefty, averaging about 175 pounds, Fred Laystzke, in goal, is considered one of the best prospects raised here in several years.

On the first string line are Morey Rimstad at centre, Bill Carse on right wing and Mac Colville on left. Neil Colville is the pivotman on the second firing line. He was leading goal-scorer by a wide margin, in the city league this year. Flanking him are Walter (Fats) Rimstad and Andy Maloney.

Bill Gauf and Gordon Watt make a strong barrier in front of Laystzke. Both hand out stiff, but clean, body checks.

Coaching the team is Don Carrigan, a brother of Gene Carrigan of the International league. Don was leading scorer in the old Coast league a few years ago.

STRATHCONA RINK, WINNIPEG, TAKES MACDONALD BRIER WITH SEVEN WINS

FINAL STANDING IN MACDONALD BRIER

GRANITE CLUB, Toronto, March 8 (CP)—Final standing in play for the Macdonald trophy and the Canadian curling championship:

	W	L
Manitoba	7	2
Ontario	5	2
New Brunswick	4	3
Saskatchewan	4	3
Alberta	3	4
Quebec	2	5
Northern Ontario	2	5
Nova Scotia	1	6

Extra End Needed to Beat Ontario; Maritimes Lose in Last Day's Play

TORONTO, March 8 (CP)—Leo Johnson's rink of young men from the Strathcona club of Winnipeg won curling's highest award in Canada today on the strength of a rousing six-end and an equally rousing display of sharpshooting that was up to the highest standard of western sniping. It marked the sixth time in seven years the Macdonald Brier trophy has been won by Manitoba.

Led by the 29-year-old Johnson, who started on the baseball sandlots before he took to curling, the Manitobans completed a sweeping triumph in the annual interprovincial competition here by defeating Ontario 9-8 in an extra-end deciding game. They won seven straight games without a defeat.

CLOSE AFFAIR

But it was a close thing this afternoon when young Leo and his "kids" hooked up with Ontario's challengers, skippered by Gordon Campbell, three years younger than Johnson. The Campbell rink, representing Hamilton Thistles, had lost only one game.

By winning, they could have forced a playoff with Manitoba for the trophy.

COULD HAVE TIED

New Brunswick could have finished in a tie with Ontario for second place by winning this afternoon, but the Crocker rink was well-beaten by Saskatchewan, dropping into a deadlock for third place with their conquerors, skipped by Charley Anderson of Saskatoon. The Anderson rink won by 17-5.

All three western rinks finished at top speed, Alberta and Saskatchewan both winning their two matches today. Anderson downed northern Saskatchewan in the morning, 10-7. Alberta, early victims in their attempt to retain the trophy won last year by Cliff Manahan of Edmonton, eked out a 11-10 win over Nova Scotia and, in the afternoon, downed Quebec by the same score.

Motherwell Meets the Celtic Crew

Rangers vs Hearts, and St. Johnstone Goes to Kilmarnock

GLASGOW, March 8 (CP cable)—None of the four elevens left in the chase for the Scottish soccer cup clash in league matches on Saturday but some of them will get a stiff test in preparation for the cup semi-finals a week hence.

Motherwell, for instance, take on Celtic, the cup-holders who have been eliminated from the cup chase. Rangers, the league champions, meet Hearts and St. Johnstone travel to Kilmarnock. The only cup team playing at home is St. Mirren, who entertain Hibernians.

Motherwell still hold a three point lead over Rangers in the first division so the outcome of Saturday's matches will not affect the leadership.

Arbroath, new leaders of the second division—by a slim point over Dunfermline—take on Albion Rovers.

ALL BROWNS IN LINE

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—The last of the St. Louis Browns signed today, completing the roster for the 1934 season. First baseman Jack Burns signed here and worked out with the squad, as Art Scharein, young third baseman, came to terms in St. Louis.

ORSATTI TALKS TERMS

STAINBACK INJURES ANKLE

SANTA SATALINA ISLAN, Calif.—George "Tuk" Stainback, rookie outfielder purchased by Chicago Cubs for $75,000 from Los Angeles of the coast league, suffered a slight ankle fracture in training today. Stainback has been showing excellent form in practice and Manager Grimm was seriously considering him for a regular berth in the outfield.

Maroons Earn Tie With Rangers and Hold Chance to Get Into Playoffs

MONTREAL, March 8 (CP).—A division of points resulting from their 2-2 tie with New York Rangers here tonight kept Montreal Maroons in the hunt for the third play-off berth in the Canadian section of the National Hockey league as New York Americans lost to Canadiens at New York.

Maroons lost their first-period lead and saw Rangers go one goal out in front, but a determined attack tied up the score again before the second period was over and the third and overtime periods were scoreless.

Robinson and Ward scored for Maroons and F. Cook and Somers caged for Rangers. Somers has just returned to the lineup after a long absence due to an early season injury.

Canadiens Cinch Playoff Place by 3-2 Victory Over the N.Y. Amerks

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP).—Montreal Canadiens cinched a place in the National hockey play-offs and virtually wiped out the few remaining hopes held by New York Americans as they fought their way to a 3-2 victory over Amerks tonight in their last clash of the season.

Wildor Larochelle, speedy right winger, who was moved up recently to team with Howie Morenz and Aurel Joliat on the Canadiens' first line, accounted for the three goals. Conn and Doran scored for Amerks.

Black Hawks Blanked by Detroiters

CHICAGO, March 8 (AP).—Detroit's high-powered Red Wings did everything but take a strangle hold on first place in the National Hockey league's American division tonight by conquering Chicago Black Hawks 3-0.

Wings scored in the first period with Carson in the penalty box. Herbie Lewis and Larry Aurie swept behind a Hawk power play, with the former scoring. Ebbie Goodfellow accounted for the other goals.

The victory increased Detroit's margin over New York Rangers to eight points.

Senators Beat Leafs by 3-1 Score

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP).—Ottawa Senators chalked up their second victory of the season over Toronto Maple Leafs here tonight as they concluded activities between the two teams for the year with a 3-1 triumph. A third period attack that brought two goals, helped the Senators to hand the Queen City club another setback. Boll scored for Toronto and Watnie and Voss for Ottawa.

Hoop Games Tonight

SKIERS PLAN FINAL OUTING

It may be spring but Nelson ski enthusiasts are planning to take advantage of the last fall of snow and hike to the golf links on Sunday for a final day's fun before putting their "boards" away for the summer. The snow has not melted to any great extent on the links and it will be softer to fall in than it has been on other trips.

All those interested in the hike are requested to meet at Dill's at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

GUNNERS GO DOWN 4 TO 1

LONDON, March 8 (CP cable)—Leicester City boosted their stock in the English cup today by walloping Arsenal, English Soccer league leaders, into a 4-1 defeat at Leicester in a league match.

Stoke City defeated West Bromwich 4-1 in another first division encounter.

TRAVIS JACKSON MAKES COMEBACK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 8 (AP)—The highly dramatic prospect that the youthful hero of New York Giants' 1933 championship dash, Blondy Ryan, will have to yield the regular shortstop job this season to the sensational come-back of Travis Jackson, team captain, has the training camp aggs and drew from Manager Bill Terry today the first definite statement on the subject.

"I won't bind myself to any hard and fast decision," declared the resourceful boss of the world champions, "but right now Jackson has the shortstop job and I don't see how he can be kept out of there, barring another accident to his knees."

KIMBERLEY IS REFUSED GAME

Playoffs Definitely in Calgary; Luscar Was Willing

WINNIPEG, March 8 (CP)—Existing playoff arrangements for the Allan cup senior hockey playdowns between Alberta and British Columbia will not be altered, as the coast province champions, Kimberley Dynamiters, requested, E. A. Gilroy, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey association, said tonight.

Kimberley and Luscar Indians, Alberta champions, will play a two game total-goal series at Calgary March 12 and 14, he said, as arranged.

Kimberley had sought to have one game at home, offering Luscar a straight guarantee.

Gilroy pointed out poor ice had necessitated shifting of the British Columbia final games from Kimberley to Trail.

Previous to Gilroy's announcement, the Luscar management had announced from Calgary that the Indians were prepared to play wherever ordered.

Cambridge Boxers Trounce Oxford

CAMBRIDGE, England, March 8 (CP cable).—Cambridge tonight defeated Oxford five events to two in an inter-university assault-at-arms, winning the heavyweight, middleweight, featherweight and bantam events while the Oxonians annexed the lightweight and light-heavyweight titles.

TREND IS UP AT NEW YORK

Montgomery Ward Is Up; the Motors Improve

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Stocks had a last hour rally today which converted earlier irregularity into general net gains of fractions to more than two points. U.S. government bonds again strengthened as several commodities, including cotton, improved.

The market's late recovery coincided with intimations from Washington sources the United States exchange control bill, as now drafted would be changed before it gets congressional sanction.

Sales totalled 1,716,980 shares.

International Nickel accompanied by reports of foreign buying, closed more than two points higher Montgomery Ward, also moved up a couple of points. Commercial credit was another favorite, while American Telephone, helped by a good January earnings statement, moved among the leaders.

Motor issues improved.

1934 WILL SEE NEW GOLD MINES

High Price of Gold Will Show Effect Increasingly across Canada

Because of continued high price for gold there may be quite an increase in gold produced in 1934 and 1935. It has not particularly shown itself in statistics as yet but the increase in prospecting and development activities will now increasingly be found in new producers.

In 1934 alone the following gold producers will be added in Canada, it is confidently expected:

OARD DECIDES OT TO PURSUE ELIEF INQUIRY

Would Have to Ask Ottawa for the Figures

IKER OUTLINES HIS PLAN AGAIN

Would Pay Men Upon Yardage; Vote Is Adverse

Faced with the knowledge that e Dominion relief camp costs for e West Kootenay group could be tained only by permission of the tawa headquarters of the depart- nt of national defence, the board trade Thursday, while sympathiz- with the good intent behind e move, decided not to proceed rther with the inquiry authorized the council a week ago on the oposal of W. J. E. Biker.

The information as to procedure me in a letter from Brigadier H. Matthews at Calgary to Secretary G. Morey, the officer commanding ilitary district No. 13 writing:

SITS WELCOME

"I have received a letter over the bewritten signature of 'W. J. E. ker, chairman of special committee,' ted March 1, making certain re- ests for information concerning e administration of the department national defence relief camps in e West Kootenay district of Brit- Columbia.

"While I am only too pleased to nt permission for a delegation your board to visit these camps any time, I regret I cannot sup- the statistical information you for unless instructed to do so headquarters of the department national defence at Ottawa.

"A copy of the correspondence is ng forwarded to Ottawa, and to Coates, superintending engineer the West Kootenay group of mps in Nelson."

In originally bringing the pro- sal for an inquiry before the ard of trade council, Mr. Biker ted he had made some inquiries an individual, but that to get ficial information it was necessary at a public body take the matter . As he outlined the matter, the tire matter of relief, Dominion ovincial and municipal, was in e scope of the proposed probe, hose objective would be to as- rtain what return the public as obtaining for its outlay, and ether feasible improvements could suggested.

NTON PUTS IT TO BOARD

President R. W. Hinton reported to e board that the council had thorized a committee of three, consist of Mr. Biker, R. D. rnes, and a third member to be osen by them, but that Mr. Barnes d asked to be excused, and as a nsequence the committee so far nsisted only of its chairman, . Biker, who had done whatever d been accomplished to date. He d it was now up to the board to her approve the action of the ncil, and make the necessary ad- ions to the committee so it ld carry on, or withdraw from matter. He foresaw one prac- l difficulty the department ld have, in arriving at average es, inasmuch as the capital out- on buildings and plant would unduly heavy at this stage in portion to the work done, in parison with what would be the if they were averaged over the le period of operation and inst the completed work.

. M. Whimster, without offering comment, moved that the in- ry be dropped altogether, and A. wns seconded the motion.

ER URGES ACTION

n asking the board to give the ter further consideration before drawing, Mr. Biker went over points he had placed originally re the council, asserting that events of last week showed e was unrest in the camps, and the system was satisfactory her to the men nor the tax- ers, the cost of governmental f of all kinds last year being ,000,000, for which very little re- n was obtained. "While few of may be aware of it, I have had a good deal of experience in handling men, and at one time was in charge of 450 men," he remarked.

"Excuse me, were those men on relief?" asked J. A. Irving, and Mr. Biker admitted they were "not exactly on relief."

Arguing that the present system was pouring money into a sump that would "engulf us," Mr. Biker next criticized it from the humanitarian angle, and referred to the thousands of boys and girls in the homes of transient laborers, whose parents were trying to keep them from going to the camps, "We are going to make a bunch of spineless individuals by this system," declared Mr. Biker, "and we sit in smug complacency and let George do it." A creeping paralysis was setting in, and there was precisely the same set-up in aCnada today as there was in France before the French revolution, which produced the watchwords of "Liberty, Equality and Fraternity."

It was Mr. Biker's contention that the present system was lacking in constructive policy, and also in vision for the future and in consideration for the human elements, and that without costing one cent more, a better system that would be productive in results could be instituted.

Mr. Biker said his plan would be to let each man carve out his own destiny. He would have the work done on the station principle, and pay the men weekly on their measured yardage, the men earning from $1.50 to $2 a day according to their industry. The camps would be run for the men and the daily food allowance would be increased from the present 24 cents to 40 cents. The men would run their own show, and retain their manhood and self-respect.

"I claim we would save over the present arrangements, and would have a thumping big balance of work accomplished to the good," he said.

Opposing the proposal to drop the investigation, E. A. Mann said it would be only courtesy to ask Mr. Biker to get two other members to act with him in carrying on, president having adhered to the position he had taken before the council that he did not wish to name members for such arduous duties as the inquiry would involve. He definitely moved this.

W. M. Cunliffe opposed this as setting a very dangerous precedent, pointing out that one member could always find others who thought with him, and that the board's responsibility was involved.

As to the merits of the proposed inquiry, Mr. Cunliffe said the situation had been very well explained by Mr. Biker, but while the board had every sympathy with those who were victims of circumstances, it was difficult to see how it could be useful in the matter, and there were elected representatives to deal with the problems involved.

I. G. Nelson seconded Mr. Mann's amendment, and the issue went to a division. The amendment was lost, and then the board carried the original motion, which was, to proceed no further with the inquiry.

B.C. CHAMPS ON WAY EAST

Two championship hockey teams passed through Nelson tonight when the Kimberley Dynamiters senior champions of British Columbia an the Trail juniors, provincial junior title-holders, entrained for the east after a short layover in Nelson between trains.

The Dynamiters who have been in Trail since February 26, will meet the Luscar Indians on Monday, March 12. The game is scheduled for Calgary ice.

Carrol Kendall, of Trail has been chosen by the Kimberley club as one of the referees.

The Trail juniors under the leadership of their coach and manager, Scotty Ross, meet the Edmonton A.C. in Edmonton on Saturday night, in the first game of a two-game total-goal series. Curley Wheatley will accompany the team in the capacity of referee.

Before leaving Trail the juniors went through a snappy practice at the Trail arena, along with the Dynamiters.

The juniors showed fine form and many of the Kimberley players remarked that the Trail boys would give Edmonton plenty of trouble.

Sammy Martin on defence, along with Art Forest and Chuck Dabner showed up exceptionally well.

The following players will make the trip: Art Forrest, "Chuck" Dabner, Adam Brown, "Speed" Ponak, Tom Doherty, Jim Kendall, Scotty Balfour, Walter Dembeck, Sammy Martin, Allan Hood, Walter Weir and Sette Smith.

Nisbet, sitting in chambers, has granted an order for re-sealing letters probate issued by the district court of Lethbridge, Alta., respecting the estate of William Beamish Barnett, whose executor, Thomas McNabb Barnett of Lethbridge, gave the Royal Trust a power of attorney to act for him in connection with the portion of the estate in this province.

WILLIAM INNES SOUGHT TRAIL

TRAIL, B.C., March 8—Inquiries are being made in Trail, Nelson and Rossland for William Innes or Morgan, whose father died today. The funeral will take place at Banff Sunday.

Chief of Police John Laurie today received a telegram from D. Ritchie, chief constable at Calgary, asking him to locate Innes, who was supposed to have been heard from last February 26 from Trail. No trace of him has been found here since February 22, but it is thought he may have gone to Nelson or Rossland and the police at these cities have been asked to cooperate in inquiring for him.

Rossland and Trail to Play Puck Series

Inter-City Title at Stake; Nelson Players in Rossland

ROSSLAND, B.C., March 8—While West Kootenay league hockey is a thing of the past in Trail and Rossland for this season considerable interest is being taken in the coming post-season series to be played between the Rossland Miners and the Trail Smoke Eaters. The series will be a benefit game for Al Keating a former West Kootenay star, who has been bed-ridden for a number of years. With a cup in prospect for the intercity title it is hoped to make the series an annual affair.

Bill McKay, who was considered by many to be the leading goalie in the West Kootenay league this season and Gerry Thompson, who also played with the Nelson Red Wings during the past season, are now residents of Rossland and will be wearing the red and white colors of the Miners in the series.

A NATIONAL CONTROL COUNCIL TO CURB MASS BUYING, UNFAIR PRACTICES OTTAWA PROPOSAL

Would Supervise All Industries With Trading Codes

TORONTO EXAMPLE "RETAIL SLAVERY"

Style Pirating and Other Methods Are Discussed

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP)—A national control council to curb mass buying by chain and department stores and unfair, unethical business practices was proposed today to the Stevens committee of the house of commons by George Hougham of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Retail Merchants' association.

After describing big-buying organizations as a social menace to Canada as a whole, the Toronto official suggested a federally-controlled council to supervise industries generally. With each industry would be a board, again supervised by the Dominion in the interest of the consumer, to establish fair-trading codes and enforce wage and hour regulations.

Despite popular opinion, Canada was heading toward industrial control, said Mr. Hougham, adding, "We have passed from the state when we could say 'we will do it this way or that way and we don't care about the consequences to anybody else.'"

All day the committee, established to investigate general labor conditions and business practices, heard a severe castigation of mass buying and mass advertising by chain and department stores. A picture of misery and destruction left in the wake of big-buying organizations was painted by Mr. Hougham and Warren Cook of Toronto, president of the Canadian Association of Garment Manufacturers.

DRIVE FOR SALES INJURIOUS

The two witnesses, in their many-sided indictment of chain and department stores agreed on the following highlights:

Legitimate manufacturers have been driven to the wall and small retailers put out of business by the eternal drive for sales and more sales by the big organizations.

Misleading and tricky large-scale advertising has been placed in newspapers, the big stores attempting "by sheer weight of propaganda, to overreach and submerge their competitors."

Department stores have included one or two suits by reputable manufacturers in a sale, together with a hundred or more sweat-shop suits. In the advertising, Harris tweeds, for instance, would be featured but only the shoddy suits would be in the store racks. The reputation of many high-quality manufacturers has been lowered as a result.

MAIL ORDER "RACKETEERS"

As to mail order houses, Mr. Cook called them "mail order racketeers" and suggested the catalogue of a Regina firm be placed before officials of the postoffice department to be examined under the regulation which forbids the mail of fraudulent proposals.

Two Toronto department stores advertised tailored suits at $16.50 with the result it had been estimated the wages of 10,000 people had been cut. Clothing manufacturers were forced to meet the competition of the suits, which in one instance had been made in a Montreal sweatshop.

"RETAIL SLAVERY"

Toronto was the "worst example of retail slavery" within Mr. Hougham's knowledge. In the general merchandising column, 28 out of 208 stores did all but $2,000,000 of the $144,000,000 annual turnover.

Chain and department stores often advertised goods below cost prices, leading to a general lowering of prices. Mr. Hougham listed the following as recent examples: Sardines, evaporated milk, vegetables, sugar, jam, salmon, butter, coffee and breakfast foods.

PAID TO SELL OWN GOODS

As an example of the power of chain stores, Mr. Hougham said a chain organization charged a breakfast food manufacturer $2000 before they would buy his goods. Then they assessed him a share of advertising costs and demanded a quantity discount.

It was claimed by Mr. Hougham that 300 Ontario and Maritime shoe retailers established a cooperative buying organization to secure the same discounts as department stores on rubbers.

This they secured for a year, but then Canadian manufacturers, he said, cut out the discount and it was his opinion this was done through pressure from big-buying organizations. The names of the manufacturers will be given the committee.

ADD 55 PER CENT

A survey of United States department stores, Mr. Hougham said, showed that 25 per cent of the best-managed added 55 per cent to cost prices before adding their usual profits. The others added 68 per cent. He had no figures for Canadian stores.

When Mr. Hougham presented chain store advertising listing sirloin beef and prime ribs at 8 cents a pound, he gave his opinion to Hon. H. H. Stevens that packing plants made possible these below-cost prices by offering large stocks of meat which they had not been able to move through their regular channels. This had the tendency to force down meat and live cattle prices.

PIRATING STYLES

Department stores, said Mr. Cook, regularly pirated the models and styles of Canadian garment manufacturers. They sometimes held the samples a week, sending them to their own factories to be copied. When the manufacturer called, his models were returned and he was told there were no orders. A few days later copies of his styles would be displayed in the store.

During the discussion, Chairman Stevens intimated that investigators for the committee had been probing the books of Toronto department stores for the past week and would be brought before the committee later.

Witnesses tomorrow are: C. C. Faulkner of Winnipeg and W. J. McQuarrie, Saskatoon, representing provincial retail merchant associations.

Trail Girl Knocked Down by Motor Car

TRAIL, B.C., March 8—Lidia Zuccolo, daughter of Frank Zuccolo, between 5 and 6 years of age, was struck by an auto driven by W. E. Watson, in front of her home on Glover road at about 4:30 p.m. Thursday afternoon.

The little girl had come out of her house and crossed the road to the opposite side of the sidewalk, there being no sidewalk on the south side of the street on which her home is situated. It was when she darted across the street in front of the car that she was struck. Mr. Watson swerved to left to avoid hitting her but she was knocked down just as the car was brought to a stop.

On examination by Dr. W. Leonard it was found that the girl had received no serious injury, there being only a few scratches.

CARTER HOLDS GAS-CAR NOT A TRADE BUILDER

Gives Board Figures; Proposal Before Committee

Failing to get the freight and transportation committee of the board of trade together when called, to go into a suggestion of some of the merchants for a Canadian Pacific daytime gas-car service between Trail and Procter, Chairman Austin Carter did some delving into the transportation situation by himself, and gave resuts to the board Thursday in a preliminary report, at the request of President R. W. Hinton. One week ago the council referred the proposal to this committee.

The report, which was verbal, gave such a comprehensive analysis of existing railway and bus services, that many members of the board were convinced forthwith of the soundness of Mr. Carter's personal conclusion, that an additional daylight service would merely mean more transportation competition without material increase in the volume of visiting shoppers, and were prepared for the proposal to be dropped without further examination, but membership by the narrowest possible majority decided otherwise, and the committee will be called upon to study it fully from all angles, and present a regular report on it.

Mr. Carter said he assumed the idea of the proposed gas-car service probably originated with merchants who counted on the possibility of getting more business from Trail residents. He admitted that the present train service—two trains each way between Trail and Castlegar, connecting with the through trains—did not conduce to shopping in Nelson, as an over-night stop here was required, and the passengers carried between Trail and Castlegar averaged six and a half per train.

But he argued that the three busses each way between Nelson and Trail afforded Trail residents ample shopping time in Nelson, the two daytime busses being in fact advertised as shoppers busses. He understood from Manager John Learmonth that it was proposed to have a fourth bus put on this run this season.

Kaslo also had a shoppers bus, while Slocan valley shoppers were served by a private line. The one section that did not have a daytime service into Nelson, Mr. Carter stated, was the Procter-Harrop section, which in winter, while the lake ferry was on the two-run schedule, did not have a through passenger connection, though freight busses could be utilized.

An analysis of the bus passenger traffic between Trail and Nelson, Mr. aCrter said, showed three passengers leaving Trail on the average trip, with passengers being picked up from Castlegar on, and a full load by the time Nelson was reached. On Saturday mornings a supplementary bus was sent out to Shoreacres to handle the traffic.

From Castlegar the movement of bus shoppers was toward Nelson rather than Trail, although the fare to Nelson was $1.10, and that to Trail only 90 cents. From the territory this side of Castlegar a very large percentage of the residents shopped in Nelson. It was found that when the roads were good bus traffic was reduced one-third, the difference being accounted for by shoppers driving their own cars.

Taking the district as a whole, Mr. Carter said the bus lines carried the passenger traffic, and he doubted the expediency of a proposal that would only change the traffic from one carrier to another without increasing the volume. He personally felt that the request for a gas-car should be pressed at some future time rather than at present.

W. J. Meagher, one of the merchants who had suggested the gas-car move, said his contention was that Nelson, which was the largest shopping center of the district, was not getting as many shoppers from Trail as it would get with better transportation facilities. Many shoppers, he contended, did not like busses, especially in winter, but would take trains. The bus schedules were all right, he conceded, if lived up to. For two years, he said the facilities between Trail, Nelson and Procter had been inadequate, and he felt the board should do something toward getting a better service.

W. R. Grubbe asked if it would be feasible for the Canadian Pacific to try out a gas-car, if it had one available.

Division Superintendent W. Manson said as a matter of fact the company did not have a spare one at present.

J. A. McDonald expressed the opinion that the Nelson merchants were pretty well looked after by the transportation companies, and moved that no further action be taken on the gas-car proposal.

On a divided vote, however, the board decided to regard Mr. Carter's report as only an interim one, and to let the proposal go before the committee in the usual way.

CUT INTEREST IS CHALLENGE

Saskatchewan Budget Down; Expenditures Cut 40 p.c.

REGINA, March 8 (CP).—A definite challenge to the Canadian chamber of commerce to direct its attention towards the lowering of intetest rates on funded debts, federal, provincial and municipal, was thrown by Hon. M. A. MacPherson, K.C., provincial treasurer in his budget speech delivered in the Saskatchewan legislature tonight.

It came at the conclusion of a complete review of provincial financing which showed a reduction of nearly 40 per cent in the controllable expenditures since the fiscal year 1930-31, or a slash of some $3,000,000.

In addition, Mr. MacPherson pointed to a saving of $1,560,000 effected in the expenditures of the past fiscal year from the total of $16,978,713 voted by the legislature.

GREAT SAVING

Directing his attention to the Canadian chamber of commerce which recently sponsored the tour of Sir Henry Drayton in the interests of reduced governmental expenditures Mr. MacPherson said:

"If you analyze the debts of the various provinces of Canada, if you determine those bearing above 3½ per cent, then you will realize that if a refunding took place on a 3½ per cent basis, the saving would be over $16,000,000 per annum. The saving to this province, could such be arranged on a 3½ per cent basis, would be $1,517,345, or, on a basis of 4 per cent, $97,000. Without bonds held internally, not externally, to the degree they are, it is necessary that there should be wholehearted co-operation among all government bodies concerned."

All pyaments in respect to sinking funds had been met, Mr. MacPherson stated, adding, "I have indicated what the rate on bonded indebtedness actually is. The main purchasers of Canadian bonds today are the life insurance companies.

"When one remembers that in this province alone over $400,000,000 is carried on the lives of our people it is realized—how absolutely essential it is that there should not be default, for default would affect, in a very personal way, the great majority of our own people."

AIR CHALLENGE

three big service estimates, those for the army, had been made public, showing an increase of $8,250,000 over last year. Total defence estimates are increased by $23,000,000 although, owing to civil service reductions, the budget expenditure for the coming year will drop by about $6,000,000, so far as can be estimated.

Both Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, and Sir Philip Sassoon, under-secretary for air, who introduced the air estimates in the commons, were emphatic that Britain would no longer be satisfied with an inferior position in air armaments.

FIRM RESOLVE

Speaking almost curtly, unusual for him, Mr. Baldwin told the house that if equality in the air cannot be obtained by international negotiation then any British government "and the National government more than any other, will see to it that the air strength and air power of this country shall no longer be in a position of inferiority to any within striking distance of our shores."

The statement, backing up earlier declarations by Sir Philip, who listed a large number of countries as rapidly expanding their air forces, was received with enthusiastic cheers.

FOUR MORE SQUADRONS

The air estimates under debate, to which Captain Jim and Amy Mollison were keen listeners, provide for an increase of four squadrons of fighting aircraft. As Sir Philip pointed out, the British government feels it is impossible in the light of developments in other countries to defer any longer completion of the moderate air force program first drawn up in 1923.

The naval estimates to be debated next week provide for an increase of about 2000 in personnel and for continuance of a steady replacement program in all classes except of course capital ships, which remain static under a building holiday until 1936.

Today's army estimates, which will also come up for debate next week, provide for an increase in personnel of about 800, due to revision at defended ports, bringing the total to 149,500 officers and men. This total is still 3800 below establishment the Empire over.

The increase of $8,250,000 in the army vote over last year will chiefly be expended in modernization of coastal and other defences, continuation of the mechanization program, building up of reserve stores and improvement of barrack accommodation.

The total army estimate is $198,000,000, out of a total land, sea and air estimate of $567,555,000.

An accompanying memorandum said a tank brigade of four battalions would be formed within the existing resources of the Royal Tank corps. Manoeuvres on a larger scale will be held this year. It was also noted that the general moral, educational and physical educational standards were never higher than they are at present.

In the air debate preliminary to the full discussion of Britain's defence forces later on Sir Philip pointed out that for 15 years Britain had followed a policy of studious moderation in air armaments. But far from accepting British disarmament proposals other nations had increased their air forces until they far outnumbered those of Britain, now ranked about fifth.

He instanced the United States, Russia, Japan and other countries as expanding air armaments and read a Red army order which said the Russian army was energetically working towards its great task—"to overtake and surpass the capitalist countries most advanced in aviation."

BANK DEBATE

authorities on finance and banking in opposition to a publicly-owned central bank. He added that many of these authorities were frequently quoted by members of the U.F.A.-Progressive group in the house.

POLITICAL PRESSURE

He proposed, said the minister, to give a number of the more important objections to a publicly-owned central bank. The first "inescapable danger" was that of political pressure, he said. As the royal commission had stated, it was vital that even the fear of political pressure should be removed.

"He could best illustrate what he meant by referring to the year or two when the world was having that "wild monetary jamboree." Admittedly it would have been the duty of a central bank at that time to restrict and curb such reckless operations as then went on to the full exent of its power. Perhaps some time there would be a government which was prepared to put the public interest before political success, but that time was certainly not now, governments were human.

Supposing that at a time of that kind a central bank was in existence and a government was going to the country in three or four months. The government would certainly heed political considerations, and there was grave danger that the central bank, if publicly-owned, would be inflicted in its attitude and duty.

SECTIONAL INFLENCE

Again, there was serious danger that a publicly-owned central bank would be subject to sectional influence. Such influence might even be expected in the house of commons itself where a government, with a narrow majority, might be threatened with loss of power if it did not use the central bank in such a way as to satisfy a certain section of the membership.

In the publicly-owned bank there was the danger of lack of continuity of policy. Governments changed and banking policy might be subjected to change with governments.

PATRONAGE

Another serious danger was that of patronage in the appointment of officials to a publicly-owned institution. He had already received enough letters to fill a bushel basket from people who wanted positions in the proposed bank of Canada. The writers had been informed their applications would be laid before the management of the bank when it came into existence.

The incompatability of the government as a borrower and the government as a director and controller of credit, was another objection to the publicly-owned institution.

W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, today told the house his party would not obstruct progress of the government bill to incorporate the bank of Canada.

"It is not our intention to propose lengthy amendments which would have the effect of dividing the house and provoke lengthy debate," the opposite leader said.

"When second reading of the bill is passed, we understand that it is to be referred at once to the select standing committee on banking and commerce where full discussion may be held on each and all of its provisions; also that when the bill is re-introduced in committee of the whole, and upon third reading, we shall be free to propose any amendments which we may regard as appropriate and necessary," he continued.

The official opposition believed that the provisions of the present bill, as drafted, "do not go far enough to secure these ends and that as the bill now stands there is a possibility of private interests exercising the control which, under a measure of the kind, should be secured to the state."

bundle of notes threatening his life, one of which was printed in characters almost identical with those on the paper-wrapped box.

Further investigation revealed a small, damp stain on one side of the package. The inspector carefully tore the stained paper away. He touched a match to it and it flared up like a gunpowder flash.

Vance took the parcel to a tank of water to give it the soaking which usually removes the effectiveness of high explosives. Again he hesitated.

Then he carefully cut the binding strings and removed the paper. Inside was a small handkerchief box containing a wad of cotton soaked in nitro-glycerine.

Fuses and detonators were attached to the explosive in such a manner that, if the wrapping strings had been roughly jerked or broken, the bomb would have exploded. A chemically treated "lead" would also have exploded the bomb had it been placed in water.

SHAW BUILDING SPEED LAUNCH

To Be Powered by a Big Airplane Engine

While it is a little early to expect much, Nelson launch owners are gradually getting into the swing along with other outdoor sportsmen and their crafts are receiving the seasonal overhauling.

This year at least two boats will be added to the lake city fleet. Dr. R. C. Shaw, well known Nelson sportsman, is to launch a new speedboat this spring. The hull, of v-bottom construction, is being assembled by local builders. It will be powered by a 100-horse power Curtis airplane engine and will be capable of 48 miles an hour.

"Tony" Bell is another Nelsonite who will sport a new boat. Mr. Bell's craft will be more of the pleasure type and will be powered by a medium-speed engine.

L. S. Gilbert was down looking over the Lady Bird Thursday afternoon. He plans to make several slight alterations to the big 12-cylinder speed launch including the installation of a seat up in front. Mr. Gilbert states the launch club members are planning on an active season. A number of them are planning to take in the Kaslo regatta again this year. The Kaslo club now boasts international affiliations and some exciting races are expected. Gilbert planned to take out his boat on New Years but it was too cold.

education, declaring it was the unalterable duty of the house as a whole to improve the general standard of education and help the working people in this way.

He urged a wider mapping of mineral resources of the province.

REVIVE INDUSTRY

Turning a business man's ideas on the economic life of B.C., Stanley S. McKeen, Vancouver-Point Grey Liberal, told the house what he thought should be done to revive industry.

Whether the province operated under capitalism, Socialism or Fascism, it was a very plain fact that only by securing a market for the largest portion of its products could it hope to keep its people at work.

For this reason he advocated the formation of a provincial department of trade and commerce to work hand in hand with the Ottawa department, and also proposed that the government do something in the way of scientific research in industry.

The cure for unemployment will be found in a revamped monetary system of the world, with all debts refunded at lower rates of interest, Robert Wilkinson, Liberal, Vancouver-Point Grey, said.

While some members advocated greater exports, Mr. Wilkinson though the first problem to be tackled was the care of those at home suffering privations. Until such time as the world monetary system was recast, the provincial government should utilize every available resource to ameliorate the distress prevalent among 100,000 British Columbians.

Mr. Wilkinson believed principles of the C.C.F. might govern at some future date, but Socialism at present was dangerous and not needed here.

Many lines of business in Vancouver, Mr. Wilkinson stated had joined in an endeavor to have legislation enacted that would prevent unfair competition, at the same time giving fair wages under fair working conditions. He endorsed NRA codes for B.C.

The speaker advocated re-surfacing the roads through the province. Motorists contributed one-fifth of the entire revenue in gasoline and motor licence taxes and were entitled to better roads.

jury deliberations. Shortly after 6 o'clock he was aroused by sheriff's officers and led to the prisoner's dock in the assize court.

The foreman of the jury, who had led the 11 jurors back into court twice after the charge was made by Mr. Justice Hugh E. Dose shortly before noon, pronounced the words "not guilty."

IS EXPRESSIONLESS

The prisoner at the bar, a 32-year-old labor champion, heard the words with the same impassive expression he had maintained throughout the four-day trial.

There was no comment from the bench; none from E. J. McMurray, K.C., who came from Winnipeg to defend the accused in the name of "free speech," nor from Peter White, K.C., who attacked the "malignity" behind Smith's alleged utterances.

A free man again, the Defence league secretary walked unescorted from the court. Out in the hallway he was met by smiling defence counsel among whom was Leo Gallagher, prominent Los Angeles barrister who represented Marinus Van der Lubbe in the reichstag fire trial in Berlin last year. He acted in an advisory capacity for Smith.

The jury had acquitted him on a charge laid by two Toronto detectives, members of the police department "red squad" who attended a meeting in Hygeia hall last month and claimed to have taken a verbatim report of an address by Smith.

It was at that meeting that Smith allegedly blamed Prime Minister Bennett for the "attempted murder" of Tim Buck in Kingston penitentiary as "shot after shot were fired at him through the bars of his cell."

Listening to the evidence were Smith's wife and auburn-haired daughter. Throughout the trial they occupied the front bench of the court room, directly behind the prisoner's box, watching as intently as the middle-aged accused, the lengthy proceedings.

Foord From South Africa Loses to British Peterson

LONDON, March 8 (CP cable).—Jack Peterson, British heavyweight, who lost his crown last year to Len Harvey, recent conqueror of Larry Gains, Toronto negro who held the British Empire title, continued his comeback campaign tonight by beating the South African, Ben Frood.

Peterson hammered the South African for 13 rounds of their 15-round bout before the referee stepped in and ended hostilities.

Peterson weighed 179 and Frood 197.
