CIVIC JOY HAILS WATERWAYS TREATY

FOOT ON STOMACH, ANOTHER ON THROAT FAILS TO "FAZE", BRUTAL "3RD DEGREE"

ELEVEN POLICE OFFICERS FACE SERIOUS CASES

Are Suspended Following Inquiry Into Prisoner's Death

CHARGED DRAGGED MEN BY THE HAIR

Handcuffed to Chairs, Beaten by Hose, Kicked and Dragged

NEW YORK, July 18.—Eleven Long Island policemen were suspended tonight at the conclusion of an enquiry into the death of Hyman Stark, alleged victim of a brutal "third degree."

The 11 suspended had been picked out of a lineup by three men arrested with Stark. They said the officers handcuffed them to chairs, beat them with rubber hose, kicked them, and dragged them about by the hair.

Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink, who presided over the John Doe hearing to fix the responsibility for Stark's death, announced he would render a decision tomorrow morning.

The 11 men suspended included four who had been ordered held incommunicado as material witnesses earlier in the day. Two others were Deputy Chief Frank Tappen, who was in charge of the detectives last Friday when Stark died, and Detective Joseph Hizenski, son of the woman Stark and his companions were alleged to have beaten in a robbery.

An implication that Deputy Chief Tappen might have been responsible for Stark's death was given tonight by Martin W. Littlejohn Jr., assistant district attorney. He testified that Tappen approached him at headquarters late Friday afternoon, mopped his brow and remarked:

"He's the toughest I've ever seen. I put one foot on his stomach and one on his throat and rocked back and forth, and it didn't faze him."

HIS LADY LIKED PRETTY THINGS

So Janitor Helped Himself to Jeweler's Stock in Seattle

SEATTLE, July 18—A jewelry store janitor and his girl friend, who, he said "liked pretty things," were held in the county jail tonight charged with theft of approximately $4000 worth of jewelry from Weisfield and Goldberg, jewelers.

The janitor, J. W. Houser, was quoted by detectives as admitting the thefts and saying the woman, Miss Dorothy Leclair and her friend, Miss Vera Biachi, who also was said to have received some of the loot, knew his gifts were stolen and urged him on.

Detectives quoted Houser as saying he stole the jewelry because Miss Leclair "liked pretty things" and he could not afford to buy them for her out of his salary.

Establishes New World's Record

KAYE DON'S MISS ENGLAND III.

LOCH LOMOND, Scotland, July 18 (AP).—Kaye Don today drove his new Miss England III. over the silvery waters of storied Loch Lomond at the record speed of 119.81 miles an hour to return again to Great Britain the world speed standard on sea.

Twice he drove his powerful boat over the measured mile course, breaking the world mark on both occasions. On the first try, made just at dawn, he averaged 117.43 miles per hour. Not satisfied with that, he made another run in midmorning to hang up his new average and for the first time in the history of man travel at faster than two miles a minute over water. On his second trial he attained a speed of 120.5 miles per hour on the run with the wind.

"I just kept her full out, and she responded like the glorious lady she is," Don told enthusiastic admirers as he came ashore after his record run.

The boat was altered on Don's orders after her poor trials at Lake Gardone, Italy, to make her faster, and her performance pleased him immensely.

Don's mark broke the old record of Gar Wood, 117.26, by more than eight miles an hour, and, experts said, put it beyond reach for some time, although Wood is now experimenting with a new Miss America in the hope of defeating Don in the Harmsworth Trophy race at Detroit this fall.

B. C. SEEKING FIFTY THOUSAND FROM RELIEF FOR USE ON LAND

Would Have Dominion Bear Half; Would Aid Municipalities

VICTORIA, July 18 (CP)—Acting through Premier Tolmie at Ottawa, British Columbia has made formal application to the Dominion for the provision of an advance of $50,000 out of relief funds for land settlement purposes, on a basis in which the Dominion and province would each bear half of the cost.

If the application is granted, the provincial government will immediately summon the committee of citizens which considered the land settlement proposals in detail some weeks ago, and make a start toward placing a limited number of families on the land in the unorganized territories, where they would be enabled to contribute toward the cost of their upkeep.

As at present arranged, the plan has no reference to the municipalities but these centers could apply later to participate in the scheme if it is undertaken.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., July 18.—Out of the misfortune that struck Mrs. Mary A. McInnes, Carnarvon street, when her home was practically destroyed by fire early Saturday morning, she had one stroke of luck. When she was awakened from her sleep as the flames started to sweep in her bedroom window, she forgot $75 in bills placed under her pillow. It was thought that the money was destroyed in the flames, but a search since of the ruins revealed the money, water-soaked and somewhat scorched, lying between the pillow and mattress.

SURPRISE BAIL FREES CURTIS

Lindbergh Case Hoaxer Admitted $10,000 Bail, Secret Hearing

FLEMINGTON, N. J., July 18—Released on bail, John Hughes Curtis, Lindbergh case hoaxer, was free of his jail cell tonight for the first time since his arrest in May. He was believed on his way to his home in Norfolk, Va.

The bulky ship builder, who was sentenced last Monday to a year in prison and a $1000 fine for hindering capture of the Lindbergh baby kidnappers, was elated at his sudden freedom. He was admitted to bail of $10,000 after a secret hearing before Judge Adam B. Robbins, who sat at the trial and passed sentence.

The bail move was a surprise to Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck Jr., who said earlier he thought Curtis had decided not to appeal his case, since a week had passed since the sentence without any action.

Imperial Conference Delegates Officially Welcomed, Quebec

THOUSANDS CHEER EMPRESS' ARRIVAL

Stanley Baldwin and 'Jim' Thomas Receive Warm Welcomes

QUEBEC, July 18—Every steamer whistle in the harbor screamed a welcome tonight at the docking of the Empress of Britain, bearing delegates to the imperial economic conference.

A crescendo of sound greeted the big white diner as it swept into view from the fog-laden distances behind the Isle of Orleans.

Official greetings to the delegates were made by Dominion, provincial and municipal officials. As soon as the gangplank was lowered the official party went on board, meeting representatives of of the delegation from Great Britain, Northern Ireland, India, Southern Rhodesia and South Africa.

Included in the official party were Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec, Hon. C. H. Cahan, Hon Alfred Duranleau and Hon. Arthur Sauve, of the Dominion government; Sir William Clark, British high commissioner in Canada, and Mayor Lavigueur of Quebec.

CHEERS RING OUT

Thousands of people lined the historic cliff behind the dock, waving handkerchiefs, shouting, cheering and otherwise sounding a royal welcome. And almost 175 years ago, at almost exactly the same spot, another group of Englishmen, unwelcomed that time, climbed the same cliff to plant the British flag on Canadian soil. The Empress docked at Wolfe's cove.

Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation, sounded the keynote spirit of the conference when he said, "We have come here to work and cooperate, to bring about an agreement with our fellow delegates," and he added prayerfully, "May your and our hopes be amply fulfilled."

Hon. N. C. Havenga, South African minister of finance, brought greetings to Canada from the people of the southern union. Sir Atul Chatterjee, head of the Indian delegation, brought a touch of picturesqueness to the short proceedings but he was no less sincere in expressing his hopes for the success of the empire gathering. Premier H. W. Moffatt, of Southern Rhodesia, echoed similar hopes.

For an hour or more after the liner docked, hundreds of people thronged the pier to catch a glimpse of the delegates. Stanley Baldwin was cheered as he stepped down the gangplank. So was "Jim" Thomas—to give him his official title, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas.

DE VALERA BILL IS READ TWICE

No Division in Senate When Tariff Measure Read

DUBLIN, July 18 (CP cable).—Without a division, the senate of the Irish Free State tonight passed the second reading of the measure empowering the Republican government to impose duties of any amount on British products, and rejected a motion to take up the remaining stages of the bill tonight. The bill was introduced by the government as an answer to the British duties on Free State goods in effect since July 15.

As a money bill, the measure could not possibly be blocked by the senate, but President Eamon De Valera rose to its defence in the debate tonight. The Free State constitution permits a minister to speak in either house.

"I have gone out of my way to meet the British," declared Mr. De Valera. "I have done everything possible except surrender the rights of the Irish people, and I am not going any further." He desired to avoid suffering in Great Britain as well as Ireland, but he declined to continue paying the "enormous tribute" of 5,000,000 pounds a year.

U.S. LAKE PORTS GREET SIGNING WITH REVELRY

Stimson and Herridge Sign Pact to Open Midwest to Sea

GOVERNMENTS MUST RATIFY THE TREATY

History Made at Washington; Hoover and Bennett Pleased

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP).—The St. Lawrence river treaty, sought for more than a decade to open the great midwest with a seaway from the Great Lakes to the ocean, was signed today by the United States and Canada.

Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, signed for the United States, and Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to Washington, for the Dominion. There were no speeches, no morning coats, no formalities of any sort as the instrument was executed in the sun-bathed diplomatic reception room of the state department at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The agreement must be ratified by the Canadian parliament and the United States congress before becoming effective. Both parliament and congress also must appropriate funds for construction of much of the 27-foot-deep waterway from the St. Lawrence river to the lakes.

BENNETT, HOOVER PLEASED

As the treaty was signed, statements were issued by Premier R. B. Bennett and President Hoover, and the latter hailed the accomplishment of the promise he had made to the people of the midwest in his campaign for election.

The channel to be built, he said, "will admit practically 90 per cent of ocean shipping of the world to our lake cities of New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota."

It Ottawa, Premier Bennett said the action fulfils his pledge made in Winnipeg, in June, 1930.

In Duluth, Minn., with Superior, Wis., the largest United States port to be linked with the Atlantic by the development, the news was announced by blowing of factory whistles and preparations for a great civic demonstration.

The project will cost the two nations $543,000,000, an amount almost equally divided. In addition to opening the interior to navigation, it will yield approximately 2,200,000 horsepower of electric energy.

LOS ANGELES, July 18—The romance of Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, and Guy Edward Hudson, came to an end today when she signed a divorce complaint.

Referring to her life with Hudson, whom she married a year ago in a moonlight ceremony on the banks of a lake in Washington state, Mrs. Kennedy said he owed $4200. His demands for money, she said, had ruined her bank roll—"old sock," she called it.

Hudson, she continued, was just a "ragabond lover," and when "the old sock began to unravel 'what a man' began to travel."

BELIEVE SIR HENRY THORNTON WILL RESIGN C. N. R. POST SHORTLY

OTTAWA, July 18.—The Citizen in a newspage story says today: "There is reason to believe that Sir Henry Thornton's connection with the Canadian National will not be of long duration.

"It was stated recently in the Citizen that the situation as affecting himself and arising out of the parliamentary inquiry had been considered by the cabinet.

"Today a report came from Montreal that Sir Henry had resigned on Saturday. This turns out to be incorrect, but there is considerable to indicate that such a development is looked for in official quarters."

EMPIRE CAN SET EXAMPLE FOR WHOLE WORLD, STATES BALDWIN

RT. HON. STANLEY BALDWIN

QUEBEC, July 18 — Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation ,sees in the Ottawa conference a double opportunity. In a statement issued as the Empress of Britain arrived in Quebec tonight, Mr. Baldwin spoke first of the opportunity at Ottawa to make trade agreements and thus promote the well-being of every unit of the empire. That was a cause which, for its own sake, lay close to all hearts. But there was also another opportunity. "We believe," Mr. Baldwin said, "that by the methods we adopt we can set an example to the whole world in breaking down obstacles to commerce, in aiding a revival of agriculture, industry and trade and so bring peoples safely through the tragic depression of recent times."

Mr. Baldwin said.

"I am glad to have this opportunity of expressing on behalf of the United Kingdom delegation, our pleasure at arriving in Canada on our way to what we hope and believe will be one of the most momentous gatherings in the history of the British Empire.

DOCTORS GIVE ROTARY PUBLIC HEALTH SCHEME

Dr. F. M. Auld Suggests That New Health Officer be a Pathologist

ADVOCATE UNITING THREE SERVICES

Dr. Gussin Says Necessities in Laboratory Would Cost $1500

Now is the time for all public organizations to co-operate to provide an efficient and modern health service in Nelson and vicinity was the belief voiced in a thoroughly outlined address to the members of the Nelson Rotary club Monday by Dr. F. M. Auld. Dr. J. P. Gussin also spoke briefly on the merits of a pathological laboratory and the reasons why Nelson should at least have the necessary equipment to carry on investigations into the causes and symptoms in cases of communicable dieases breaking out in the city.

Dr. Auld expressed the belief that the next medical health officer in Nelson, who will be appointed in the near future to succeed the late Dr. Arthur, who had handled the office of city and schools medical health officer in Nelson since the death of his wife, Dr. Isabel Arthur in 1926, will necessarily need to be both a bacteriologist and a pathologist. In his estimation the city would be fortunate if it were able to secure a man for less than $3000 a year.

FORMERLY COST $2000 YEARLY

For the past 10 years it has cost the united forces of the city of Nelson and the Nelson school board approximately $2000 yearly besides an additional $700 or more that the provincial government has paid for medical health work done in the Nelson district every year.

WOULD COMBINE SERVICES

According to a plan mapped out at a recent meeting of the members of the Nelson medical profession, should the city have a pathological laboratory, similar to those in Kamloops and Kelowna, installed in the Kootenay Lake General hospital at an estimated cost of not more than $1500 it would be wise to approach the provincial health authorities with a view to having the district allowance included in the Nelson health officer's salary. This would provide the district with an instant efficient service at all times and enable the city to engage an officer highly skilled in the department of pathology.

ONE-THIRD OF FORMER ESTIMATE

"Do we want such a laboratory?" ask Dr. Auld. He pointed out that a few years ago when an estimate of $5000 was given as the lowest figure possible the proposed pathological laboratory was favorable from every angle excepting financial, but that monies totalling over the necessary sum of the new estimate were voted toward the laboratory by the council, district towns and organizations in Nelson and the surrounding district and he believed that most of the money could still be raised.

TO SUPERVISE LABORATORY

Then should this equipment for pathological research work be installed, he believed that the new medical health officer should be put in charge and be required to make tests of water, milk and other foods in the laboratory frequently.

WILL HAVE OTHER SERVICES

Besides being superintendent of the laboratory, the new appointee would assume the duties formerly done by Dr. Arthur in the schools and that of city health officer, as well as assume the duties which are now being filled by Dr. H. H. McKenzie, as district provincial health officer, providing permission is granted by the government. The proposed new health officer would have no private practice. Dr. Auld pointed out that a private practioneer was not by any means the best man for a position as medical health officer. First because of his divided interests, his responsibilities would conflict. Besides the public health officials of today belonged to a highly specialized department of knowledge in medicine and must spend time and study on bacteriology and pathology; the position required one whose time would be wholly spent on this work. However, he said finances were the most important question to be considered.

ASSISTANT REQUIRED

Besides the medical health officer at a possible salary of $3000, there would also be necessary a trained nurse who would act as an assistant to the health officer generally, although the majoritiy of her duties would be at the schools were she would endeavor to carry on the supervision of the children as Dr. Arthur has for year.

GUSSIN OUTLINES WORK

Following Dr. Auld's address, Dr. J. P. Gussin outlined the various types of work carried on in these laboratories, dealing with the epidemics, and other disorders. Dr. Gussin pointed out that a laboratory consisting of the bare necessities could be equipped for a sum in the neighborhood of $1200 to $1500 and that as time went on this equipment could be added to until the laboratory was completely standardized. "Today we are forced to take samples in cases where a communicable disease may be taking hold and ship them to the coast. Before we have any definite return, the patient may die and the disease may spread," he stated. "But if we had a laboratory of our own, we would be enabled to deal with any such epidemic immediately." When questioned as to whether such a laboratory would have any revenue of its own, Dr. Gussin, pointed out that although it would not have any great turnover, some revenue might be reaped from private tests and from the provincial department of health in provincial test cases.

Following his talk on laboratory work, Dr. Gussin answered several questions for the Rotary membership, as also did Dr. Auld.

C. W. Tyler congratulated both the doctors on the wonderful way in which they rounded out their topics.

Other speakers at the meeting were H. H. Hinitt, who gave reports on work and assistance rendered at the Guide and Scout encampment this summer. Alderman R. W. Dawson spoke briefly on developments for the entertainment of the Consolidated picnickers here on July 23.

STATISTICS SHOW A GENERAL RISE IN MINING STOCKS FOR THE WEEK

OTTAWA, July 18 (CP). — The weighted index number of 20 mining stocks computed by the Dominion bureau of statistics on the basis 1926 equals 100, was 54.5 for the week ending July 14, as compared with 52.8 for the previous week.

Eleven gold stocks rose from 55.1 to 56.4, four gold-copper stocks from 50.7 to 54.1, and five silver and miscellaneous stocks from 18.5 to 19.

Among the gold stocks the weekly average prices behaved as follows: Coniarum mounted from 30c to 36c, Dome from $10.91 to $11.10, Hollinger from $4.99 to $5.14, Kirkland Lake from $17.40 to $17.50, Premier from 43c to 48c, Sylvanite from 55c to 57c, Teck-Hughes from $4.10 to $4.34, and Wright-Hargreaves from $2.70 to $2.74.

Average weekly prices were higher for all of the gold-copper stocks. Amulet rose from 8c to 11c, Hudson's Bay from $1.71 to $1.80, Noranda from $14.61 to $15.47, and Sherritt-Gordon from 28c to 36c.

In the silver and miscellaneous stocks, Mining Corporation mounted from $1.07 to $1.11, and Nipissing from 64c to 67c.

IT'S THE HEAT

Aren't statistics wonderful- A writer on the Baltimore Sun has been making a list of the 36,627 men and 3134 women arrested during the last six years in New York for fighting or brawling, and he has tallied them up with the weather reports.

When the weather is cool, that is averaging below 65, the angry passions do not rise. At least not so high. But when the thermometer climbs to 80-85 two-thirds more men and twice as many women were gathered in by the police. Then when the mercury climbs still further peace once more descends. It's just too hot to tell the more irritating of neighbors what one thinks of him or her, let alone attempt reprisals.

There's another thing, if an isolated hot day appears in spring, then the number of fights is twice as many as on a like day in summer.

The moral of this appears to be to keep cool if you would keep your temper. Take to the basement and argue it out with yourself. The method may fail to provide some satisfactions. But it also is innocent of a morning after.—Manitoba Free Press.

TOMLIE MEETS THE OTTAWA CABINET

OTTAWA, July 18 (CP).—Premier S. F. Tolmie of British Columbia conferred with members of the government at a meeting of cabinet council today. "British Columbia matters were discussed, but there is no announcement to make tonight," it was officially stated after the meeting.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY WORK TO SPREAD OVER A SEVEN YEAR PERIOD BEGINNING THE SPRING

Canada Wins Contention for Two Stages of Development

CANADIAN MATERIAL FOR CANADIAN WORK

Canada Will Own Own River Works; Pact Provisions Many

OTTAWA, July 18 (CP)—With the new capital cost to Canada envisaged at less than $40,000,000, the St. Lawrence waterway treaty was signed at Washington today. Work will spread over a seven-year period from early next year to 1940.

The new capital expenditure by the Dominion is estimated at $38,071,000; but this figure may be decreased by $4,233,000 if the necessity for a guard lock in the Beauharnois canal is eliminated.

The net outlay of $38,000,000 is the total payment Canada will have to make after being paid an approximate amount of $67,080,000 by Ontario and allowed $128,000,000 by the United States for the new Welland ship canal and other works.

Canada has won her contention for a two-stage development. The treaty, which deals with the international section of the St. Lawrence, disclose that dams will be located at Crysler and Barnhart islands. A 27-foot channel is to be built to allow ocean vessels to proceed to the head of the Great Lakes.

A "St. Lawrence international rapids section commission"—composed of five Canadians and five Americans—will construct the works in the international rapids section. Power-house superstructures, machinery and equipment required for the development of power such as Ontario proposes to build will be outside the authority of the commission.

HUGE POWER DEVELOPMENT

In the generation of 1,100,000 horse-power which it will obtain in the international section, Ontario will spend $15,306,000 at the Crysler island plant and $21,625,000 at Barnhart island.

Canadian engineers, Canadian workmen and Canadian material alone will be employed in respect to the river works lying on the Canadian side of the boundary. Upon completion, all river works on the Canadian side of the International boundary will be owned, maintained and controlled by Canada.

Total net cost to the United States will be $243,661,000. This amount is made up of $65,100,000 for channel deepening and other necessary works in the upper lakes section and $175,561,000 in the international rapids section.

In announcing the signing of the treaty, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett issued a strong statement in support of the agreement.

PROTECTS NAVIGATION

Canada's right to one-half of the total flow available for ower purposes estimated at 2,200,000 horse power in the international section is explicitly provided. Protection of navigation in the St. Lawrence river in Montreal harbor and in the channel below is made the cardinal feature which must govern the regulation of flow out of Lake Ontario and through the international section of the St. Lawrence during and after the construction of the power-navigation works.

Canada under the treaty, may proceed at any time and without reference to the United States, with the development of an all-Canadian waterway. This right is set out in a provision that either country, wholly within its own territory, may contract alternative canal and channel facilities for navigation along the entire Great Lakes and connecting waters, and including the St. Lawrence river to the point where it enter Quebec.

CONTROL PROVIDED

Regulation and control of the diversion through the Chicago drainage canal is provided. Abstraction of water from the Great Lakes system through the Chicago sanitary canal is tied down to the limits established by the 1930 decree of the United States supreme court. This decree provides that the abstraction shall be reduced by December 31, 1938, to an amount not exceeding an annual average of 1500 cubic feet per second in addition to the domestic pumpage of the city of Chicago.

The limit can only be increased as an emergency measure aproved as such by the United States supreme court, and the United States government and concurred in by Canada.

Your Children

BY Olive Roberts Barton

"He will never amount to a hill of beans. Twenty now and just lies around and thinks the world owes him a living."

That is what the relatives and family friends say.

His parents vary it a little. Aloud they say nothing. To themselves they admit: "We are disapointed in Bill Now after all these years of sacrifice on our part to give him everything he wants, he fails to see that he must do something for himself—or try to repay us in some way. We thought the boy was made of different material."

And Bill, suddenly thrust into man's estate, is critisizing himself more than any of them, that is, if his bewildered mind can concentrate enough on anything to give a name to the effort.

Here we shall have to make a hypothesis—and suppose that times are normal and the young man just stepping out of college can "just step" into a job.

Because "Bill" belongs to all times and ages, to good times and bad. We are taking it for granted that there are half a dozen jobs he could step into were he so inclined. Not positions were he could work six hours a day at a big mahogany desk and cash a salary check each month for three or five hundred dollars—but average "jobs" where he would have to rise at seven, put in eight or ten hours a day at hard work and get two tens and a five in an envelope on Saturday night.

"Good night!" That wouldn't keep him in cigarets! No, he "doesn't mind work," but there's a difference. He's been studying and preparing for big things."

KEYED ON BIG IDEAS

The old story of stepping from mountain top to mountain top, from money-come-easy life at school to money-come-easy life thereafter!

Bill has big ideas because he was brought up on big ideas.

How was he to know that every indulgence his parents made possible was matched by some very great sacrifice of their own? Nothing had ever been too good for him from the time he got his first bicycle to the day he stepped into his snappy little roadster given to him for a commencement present.

He had been "conditioned" to be a prince—only princes as a rule are not so indulged. His whole life had been filled with nice big easy things. He had never been warned that there was a day of hard work ahead, real work with little pay. He had been led to believe that the world would hand him a big fat purse on his own account some day after he graduated just because he was he.

The 1932 Bills may not have any such illusions. They know times. The tragedy of our unemployed boys is legion.

It is disheartening state of affairs, too, but sometimes I think it is a good thing in one way. The past three years have been "conditioning" them to a new order of affairs and it may be as well. To take any "job" and be thankfull for it, no matter what it is or how little it pays, is a wholesome attitude toward life. It is cruel to any young person to arouse him to an attitude of expectancy that cannot be fulfilled.

We are experts at being cruel to children through the medium of mistaken kindness. It only makes life tougher later on.

A LAZY AFTERNOON

Rocking chairs aren't permitted on baseball diamonds, but there was a time when Heinie Groh could have used one, with a good book thrown in. Heinie once played through a 15-inning game at third base for Cincinnati without getting a single fielding chance.

The late Charles A. Comiskey, who owned the Chicago White Sox, was the first playing manager to pilot his team to the world championship. He was on first base for the old St. Louis Browns when they took four straight from Chicago in 1886.

Strange Plane Successful Experiment

QUEER LOOKING PLANE WHICH REALLY FLIES

After two years spent in experimenting, Ben Brown, Lawrence, Kansas, inventor, built this queer-looking plane which violates all the conventionalities of construction, but which really flies. The controls are overhead, the propeller is in the back, and the 95-horsepower motor is back of the pilot seat in the center of the fuselage.

Makes Five-Mile Drop Through Space

CRACK FRENCH AIRMAN MAKES DARING LEAP

Rene Machenaud, crack French airman, pictured saying farewell to a friend before he went up in the airplane he deserted when five miles in the air. Machenaud is shown wearing the special apparatus necessary for his long drop through space. The altitude from which he leaped gives him the world's record. EXPERTS STUDY LONELY ISLAND

Scientific Party Prepare for Expedition to Tristan da Cunha Shortly

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 18 (CP)—Lonely Tristan da Cunha, rarely visited except by the yearly warship or a passing whaler, has suddenly become of scientific importance, says a writer in the Manchester Guardian. It is being visited by 40 Brazilian experts who propose to make a long stay. Their researches will be mainly meteorological, but this wind-swept, extinct volcano, rising to a height of 8000 feet, possesses many features of scientific interest.

The inhabitants are hardly less interesting to anthropologists. They are descendants of Corporal Glass and four other soldiers who remained behind when the British garrison was withdrawn 100 years ago and were subsequently joined by two shipwrecked sailors and a whaler's cook. Wives were brought to them from St. Helena.

The present islanders, who number 163, were pronounced "remarkably healthy" by some surgeons and dentists sent to them by the Cape of Good Hope government last January. They are very daring navigators, and, in their home-made canvas boats, they sometimes capture sealions and even whales. Their chief recreations are reading, gardening, church-going, and collecting seabirds' eggs. They are virtually a communist community presided over by their Anglican chaplain, Rev. A. G. Partridge, who lately came to England for a brief holiday, which he has curtailed in order to return to his little flock with the Brazilian expedition.

The tour is officially geological and mineralogical, but is, incidentally, taking in many points of interest. The members have just attended the stampede in Calgary. They came via the beautiful Glacier national park. The trip started from Chapell Hill, N. C. The four large busses and the cook car, in which the members travelled, left Saturday morning for Spokane, en route to Los Angeles, where the students will see the Olympic games, before returning to their homes in North Carolina. A nurse, a doctor, and a colored cook accompany the expedition.

POOLEY DENIES ANY DISSENSION IN THE CABINET, VICTORIA

VICTORIA, July 18 (CP).—Asked regarding rumored dissension in the provincial cabinet, Hon. R. H. Pooley, attorney-general and acting premier, stated today that if he paid attention to all the rumors he read about, there would be little time for any departmental business. He knew absolutely nothing of the slightest dissension in the cabinet; all he knew was that every member of the executive was working mightily to meet the unemployment situation that presented itself, and who hoped for satisfactory results from Premier Tolmie's visit to the federal capital.

JOHN DE MUTH, ROSSLAND AND BOUNDARY MINE AND RAILROAD PIONEER, PASSES AT PRINCETON

PRINCETON, B. C., July 18.—John Frederick De Muth, aged 71, veteran mine superintendent, railroader and mill owner, died suddenly on Saturday. He had recently returned from Vancouver, where he had been under the special care of his son, Dr. Otto De Muth. A stomach hemorrhage proved fatal.

Mr. De Muth was born in Germany, and before coming to British Columbia, spent some years in the United States.

In the busy days of the Rossland camp he was mine superintendent, and later was superintendent of the B. C. & Grand Forks railway at Grand Forks.

Soon afterward he opened a sawmill in order to supply 100,000 feet of ties for construction of the Kettle Valley railway, his plant being at Melfort, 35 miles east of Princeton. When the contract had been filled he had the mill on his hands, and by force of circumstances entered the lumber business. This plant was destroyed by fire, allegedly incendiary, during the war.

He then built a mill 28 miles from Penticton, at Aitamont; in 1918. In 1922 he moved the equipment to Belfort, five miles east of Princeton, where the operation provided work for 20 to 30 men.

Fire destroyed this mill on July 1 last year, with a loss of $20,000. Mr. De Muth rebuilt it, but his health failed, and the plant has been idle.

Mr. De Muth, former Rosslanders now in Trail recalled yesterday, had charge of the White Bear mine in the early days at Rossland. It was owned by a small independent company and produced valuable ore. Later it was taken over by the Consolidated.

A son, Otto, studied medicine, and is now at Vancouver. It is understood he has achieved considerable success in surgery.

200-POUND DEAD STURGEON TAKEN

Jack Tindale and Bill Muir Haul Fish From the River

SOUTH SLOCAN, B. C., July 18—A 200-pound dead sturgeon, killed probably when it went over the falls above South Slocan, was hauled from the pool Monday noon by Jack Tindale, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tindale.

The boy saw the fish come over the rapids and secured it to the chain of his boat. In an attempt to get it into his boat he drifted down to Shoreacres. With the help of Bill Muir and after much trouble he finally got back to the pool and was further helped by J. D. Yeatman to drag the fish ashore. It was 8 feet 4 inches long and over 200 pounds in weight. The largest sturgeon caught in that vicinity was 8 feet 7 inches long and weighed 185 pounds.

The gross tonnage of the U. S. in 1930 was 13,946,846; Great Britain leading with 20,438,444.

INGBALD HELSKOG FINED FOR DRIVING TO COMMON DANGER

A. T. MacAULEY DEAD, VICTORIA

Pioneer Mining Man Well Known in Kootenay; Worked at Rossland

VICTORIA, July 18—A well-known prospector and mining man of British Columbia died at the Jubilee hospital yesterday evening in the person of Alexander Taylor MacAulay, aged 72 years. Mr. MacAulay was born in Baddeck, Cape Breton, on February 3, 1851, and came to Victoria in 1893. For a time he engaged in sealing and then went to Rossland, B. C. He spent a few years prospecting and mining in several parts of the Kootenay. He returned to Vancouver Island and was in charge of the development of the June Group copper claims for the Copper Mountain Mining and Development company for some years. He also had charge of the work on the Rupert mine at Rupert Arm, Quatsino sound, for the Canadian-American Mining and Exploration company, of Vancouver.

After work had been suspended on the Rupert mine, he went to Jarbridge, Nevada, where for several years he was superintendent of the Golden Queen group and the Legitimate mine for the Jarbridge Nevada Mining and Development company, of Tacoma Wash. He also had charge of the mining operations on a copper property at East Sooke for the Ladysmith Mining & Smelting company, about 12 years ago. Mr. MacAulay retired from active mining a few years ago, and since then had lived in Victoria.

SYNOPSIS

Lynn Harding, young and pretty clerk in the Sea Coast Bank & Trust company loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the bank's vice-presidents. They cannot marry on Tom's salary so Lyn plans to hold her position. She learns however, that the bank does not want married women. She seeks the aid of David Dwight, prominent lawyer, whom she met through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Dwight had been Sarah's sweetheart years before but gave her up to marry wealth. David, attracted by Lynn, offers her a position, but due to Tom's objection Lynn rejects it. Later, Tom informs Lynn he has an opportunity to become rich by taking advantage of secret information relative to the bank's merger and buying stock.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Of course Tom didn't have much—but he'd borrow, mortgage his future; there were ways and means; he could borrow upon the principal of the small legacy which would come to him eventually, and Bob was going to borrow all he could, too; they'd pool their interests. It meant, by autumn, perhaps a big profit. What did Lynn think of it? he asked exultantly.

She replied slowly, "I think it's dishonest."

"What!" he stopped mid-stride. "You're crazy."

"No, I'm not. You've learned this—you couldn't help learning it, in your position—and it's supposed to be secret. Like a trust, almost. You've talked it over with Bob Rawlson. With me. Little by little it wil get out, reach the ears of the market manipulators. You've no right to cash in on your knowledge, even in a small way," she told him. "It isn't honest, and it isn't loyal."

"But it is honest. And as to loyalty——"

"How is it honest?" she demanded.

"It's perfectly legitimate business," he protested. "You can't tell me that Gunboat and the others don't expect to realize on it."

"They are officers of the bank," she said, " and directors. That's different. You're just an employee. No Tom, you've no right to do it."

"You mean to tell me I have no right to buy a few shares of the bank stock at the present low?" he asked her. "Why they are always urging me to buy the stock. You know that."

"Of course I know it. You're at liberty to buy the stock. The few shares you can afford to buy outright won't make any difference one way or another, and certainly would not put you or anyone else on Easy street, no matter how high the stock goes after the merger. But you're planning something else. You know you are. What is it?"

He said sullenly: "Rawlson thinks if we get the right people we can borrow all we want to."

"You mean you can sell your information?" she said. "And you consider that loyal, I suppose and honest!"

"Well, why not?"

She got to her feet. She was small and defiant, facing him. "If you do this I will never speak to you again."

He said, "But Lynn!" He tossed his hands out in front of him in a gesture of hopelessness. "But I was going to do it for you. So that we could get married, so that we needn't wait."

"I was willing to wait," she told him hotly. "I care enough for you for that. But I won't marry you on the proceeds of any breach of loyalty to the bank."

"I don't owe the bank a thing," he said stubbornly. "What has it ever done for me?"

"It's given you a decent job," she told him. "And kept a roof over your head and fed and clothed you. I don't care what a person's job is, if it does that it deserves loyalty. Mr. Norton expects it of you. Your position with him carries with it certain obligations. Can't you see that you are bound to know a lot more than the people in the outside office, and you're bound to keep it confidential? That's your job. Confidential secretary. I don't think that you'd ever listen to or be influenced by people like that—like Bob Rawlson."

"You never liked him," he accused her absurdly.

"No, I never have, and my hunch was right!"

He sat down wearily in the nearest chair. "Gee, Lynn, I never thought you'd look at it this way. I just said yes to Bob because it looked all right to me, It is all right," he argued suddenly. "That's the way fortune's are made. It's perfectly legimate, Lynn. Can't you see it that way?"

"No," she told him, stubbornly, "I can't. You haven't any right to use this information to further your own ends; and if you go into some scheme Bob Rawlson has cooked up you'll find yourself in a lot deeper than you bargained for. The few shares you two could buy on your own would be nothing. He's got more than that up his sleeve."

"It didn't sound that way when he talked about," confessed Tom. "Look here, did you mean what you said, that you wouldn't speak to me again if——?"

"I meant it," she said, unhappily.

"All right." He rose, hands stuck in his pockets.

"Tom!" She ran to him, put her arms about him, looked up into his gloomy face. "Tom. You mean that too. That you won't?"

"I suppose so. Lord, I hate to let Bob down. What a piker he'll take me for!"

He cares more for what that shifty-eyed person thinks than what I think, thought Lynn furiously.

He didn't, of course. What she didn't realize was that at 23, no man wishes to be accused of allowing a woman to bind him by a promise of caution.

"MIND YOUR KNITTING" — FOR BROTHER AND SISTER

* * * * * * * * * * * *

Summer Sweaters for Children Are Easily Made

These "brother and sister" sweaters are almost identical. The only difference lies in the placing of the buttons. The sweaters are lightweight enough for summer wear, and take to water like a duck. The directions follow.

Material Required: Knitting worsted, 6 balls; celluloid crochet hook No. 4.

10 stitches (5 patterns)—2 inches; 9 rows (4½ patterns)—2 inches.

Body: Chain 65 for lower edge of back, 1 single crochet in third stitch from hook, 1 double crochet in same stitch, * skip 1 stitch, 1 single crochet and 1 double crochet in next stitch; repeat from * to end (32 patterns in row); chain 1 and turn at end of every row. Second row: *skip the first double crochet, 1 single crochet and 1 double crochet in next single crochet; repeat from * to end of row. Repeat 2nd row continuously until piece measures 11½ inches (or desired length at underarm).

Work to within 2 patterns of end of next row, 1 single crochet in next single crochet, chain 1, turn, skip the first single crochet, 1 single crochet and 1 double crochet in single crochet of next pattern (2 whole patterns in all decreased at this end); work to within 2 patterns of other end, 1 single crochet in next single crochet, chain 1, turn, skip the first single crochet, 1 single crochet and 1 double crochet in single crochet of next pattern (thus eliminating 2 patterns also at this end); work to within 1 pattern of end of preceding row, 1 single crochet in next single crochet, chain 1, turn, skip the first single crochet, 1 single crochet and 1 double crochet in single crochet of next pattern; work to within 1 pattern of end of row, 1 single crochet in next single crochet, chain 1, turn, skip the first single crochet, 1 single crochet and 1 double crochet in single crochet of next pattern; work to end of row.

Work even on the 26 patterns now in row for 4 inches (about 18 rows). Next row work over the first 8 patterns only, turn and make 5 more short rows, ending last row at armhole. Work back to neck, increase there by making 1 single crochet and 1 double crochet in turning chain, chain 1, turn, * Work 3 rows even, then 1 row, increasing both at armhole and at neck; repeat from * 3 times. Work 5 rows even, then increase at neck only. There will now be 18 patterns in row; work even until front is as long as back at underarm (count rows); fasten off. Leave 10 patterns for back of neck and work other front to correspond.

Sleeves: Work 23 patterns around armhole, chain 1 and turn; work even until there are 16 rows (8 patterns) on sleeves; decrease 1 patern at each end; 16 rows even, decrease 1 pattern at each end; work even until sleeve measures 10½ inches (or desired length before cuff); end last row on wrong side. Turn, 1 single crochet in each stitch (38 stitches), chain 1, turn and work back and forth in single crochet until there are 10 rows on cuffs; fasten off. Sew up sleeves and underarm seams.

Border: Beginning on right side at underarm seam, make 1 single crochet in each stitch on lower edge, 3 single crochet in corner stitch, 1 single crochet in each row on front edge, 20 stitches across back of neck, continue down other front, 3 single crochet in corner stitch, 1 single crochet in each stitch on lower edge to beginning of row; join with a slip stitch, chain 1 and turn at end of every row; work 2 more rows, increasing at corners enough to keep border flat; next row make 4 buttonholes on front border (right for girl, left for boy) as follows: Counting from lower counter, work over 8 stitches, * chain 3, skip 3 stitches, 1 single crochet in each of the next 10 stitches; repeat from * until there are 4 butonholes; in next row work 3 single crochet over chain 3, taking up 2 threads of chain stitches. Work a 6th row of border, increasing as before at corners.

Note: An asterisk (*) indicates that the direction immediately following are to be repeated the given number of times, in addition to the original. Thus "repeat from * 3 times" means to make pattern 4 times in all. "Even" means that a row is to be worked without either increase or decrease.

From "The Automatic Petter", Deliver Him!

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A young man has written me a letter airing a grievance which would make an excellent plot for a comic opera. Listen! He objects to being petted by girls who happen to be motoring with him!

He goes on to say he's no Saint Anthony, but when he pets he likes to choose the pettee, and he objects to being "mauled" by young ladies in whom he has no interest whatever.

Against this frustration of his constitutional right to "the pursuit of happiness' he thinks the seven ladies in congress should protect him.

"Why do not these women legislators introduce a bill to protect young men who are at the mercy of ruthless girl petters? It wouldn't be chivalrous for a congressman to offer such a bill, but if a congresswoman should offer it, every man in her district, if not a nit-wit or a crooner, would vote for her. Her seat would be indefinitely assured."

Then he begins to confide. He has a girl back home for whom he wishes to reserve his petting. He says he's a one-girl man; at least, one girl at a time. In the city of his adoption he has a car, which is part of his business equipment. He is often asked to taxi various young ladies as an accommodation to his friends, and sometimes he goes of his own volition to parties, and finds himself on the back seat with one of these "automatic petters."

He says the car is hardly under way before —plump!—down on his shoulder comes a head, often with the force of a cocoanut or a baseball bat; and that from now on, the defence of the affronted and indignant female—ear-boxing—is going into reverse. Any girl who starts petting when he "doesn't choose to pet" may expect this retaliation.

He concludes by saying "doubtless you'll think I'm either an ass or an Adonis, but I'm neither; just a plain man who'd like to have his rights and privileges respected."

What do you say, girls; are you "ruthless petters?" And have other young men had similar experiences?

CONSIDER THE FLEA

It's Really Easy to Get Rid of Most Common of Household Pests

One of the most annoying of all common insects is the lowly flea. He moves about on the skin, biting as he goes.

Few serious cases are reported from flea bites, and most of them are infections which had their beginning with an insignificant looking irritation, but fleas can be and are a nuisance wherever they occur in quantities.

And that nuisance is one that no home owner need endure. Fleas can be completely eliminated if the proper steps are taken.

In fighting fleas, it must be remembered that their principal breeding places are on soil or in dust containing vegetable or animal matter. Moisture must be present and the breeding place is nearly always one protected from the sun and rain.

Usual breeding places are damp spots under porches, in barns, and hen houses.

These breeding places can be made non-producers so far as fleas are concerned by spraying them frequently with creosote oil. Ground in which baby fleas usually develop should be thoroughly sprinkled with salt and then given a generous wetting down.

If these steps are carefully followed, the breeding of fleas will virtually stop.

As for the fleas you already have, you face still another problem. They are usually brought into the house by pet animals and so you must remove the fleas from these animals. Washing in a creosote solution will usually accomplish this purpose, and by following this step with a thorough bath with soap and water, the desired result is nearly always obtained.

For houses already infested with fleas, the problem is not so simple. Application of gasoline to the floors after the rugs have been removed, followed by a scrubbing of all floors, will usually kill them. Sometimes this process must be used a second time in order to get al the fleas.

Fortunately, plague, the principal disease carried by fleas, has been eliminated in the United States.

Flea bites, if painful, should be treated with a weak solution of menthol or camphor.

And you should remember in bathing the household pets that a cat's skin is very tender and that the creosote solution for him must be very weak.

Much has been said and written about the remarkable jumping power of the ordinary flea. Authoritative tests show that his maximum is 13 inches horizontally and about half that distance vertically. That means that a flea can't come jumping in the window after you have eliminated his brothers and sisters in the manner recommended in this article.

Ruth Chatterton to Change Mates

Now it's Ruth Chatterton, one of the screen's most popular stars, who's to have a new husband. George Brent, who was engaged as Miss Chatterton's leading man six months ago in "the Rich Are Always With Us," has announced he and Miss Chatterton will be married as soon as she and Ralph Forbes are divorced, probably in August. Forbes is in Reno now to seek the decree on the grounds of "incompatibility." Mis Chatterton and Brent are pictured above.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

Miss W.Z.: "Can you give me a reliable chocolate fudge recipe?"

Answer: Good Chocolate Fudge—Into a fairly large frying pan put 2 tablespoons of butter, 2 cups of granulated sugar, 2 squares or ounces of bitter cake-chocolate (shaved), a dash of salt, and ½ cup of cold, sweet milk. Let heat and begin to boil, as you stir it (to make sure the sugar is melted). Then let it cook without stirring for above 5 minutes, or longer. Test it often, and when a hard ball will form instantly when a little of the hot mixture is dripped into a cupful of cold water, take the frying pan off the range, add to it 1 teaspoon of vanilla, and beat about 2 minutes, or until it becomes a thick mass and clings to sides and bottom of pan. Scrape it quickly into a shallow buttered pan, measuring less than 6x8 inches (or not more, as the candy would be too thin). When almost cool, mark in squares with a silver knife dipped into butter. Let become cold before taking from pan.

Mrs. B.B.: "How is a panama hat cleansed?"

Answer: To Cleanse a Panama Hat—Slightly dampen cornmeal and apply this meal to the hat with a stiff brush. Shake off the excess, dry in the sun and then brush. Another method is to rub in fuller's earth with a piece of velveteen, allow this powder to remain on the hat for several days, then brush it off.

Group of Girls: "What can a philanthropically inclined group of girls do, who banded together to sew for charity, tired of it, and now wish to continue meeting but still do something useful?"

Answer—Make colorful scrap books out of cambric in various colors (pages doubled and buttonholed in worsted around edges), then, when you have a number of these picture books, take them to the nearest hospital and give them to the children in a ward. It is surprising how many bright pictures one can clip from magazine advertisements, covers, etc., to paste in scrap books of this sort.

Tomorrow—Mincemeats.

MISSIONARY GROUP AT CRANBROOK IS THIRTY YEARS OLD

CRANBROOK, B. C., July 18—The Women's Missionary society of Knox church, held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. A. A. McKinnon on Wednesday. The Late William Waldie

Kootenay has lost a good citizen in the death of William Waldie. From the time that Mr. Waldie first reached this district, he has been almost continually engaged in efforts to develop the industries of the country.

His success in the operation of the Queen mine is well known. When the Queen was sold a less vigorous type of man might well have decided to retire, but Mr. Waldie continued to devote his capital and his energies to industry.

He was responsible for the development and the operation of the lumber company at Castlegar and the auxiliary operations in the woods, a business in which he cheerfully faced and overcame difficulties which might have daunted a less spirited man.

The late Mr. Waldie came of that strong and virile Ontario stock which has never in the history of Canada been afraid to face difficulties.

Generous to a degree, Mr. Waldie, during the many years that he has resided in this district, whole-heartedly gave his support to worthy community enterprises. For example, but for Mr. Waldie the Nelson Y.M.C.A. would have had to go under very much earlier than it ultimately did.

He was the type of man that no community can afford to lose.

International Debts

Important in its effect toward stabilizing world financial conditions and paving the way for a return to a normal situation, as was the decision arrived at at Lausanne, it is not less important than its natural consequence of the announcement by the United States that it will be willing to head representations on the question of war debts from the European debtor nations.

Under the reparations agreement reached at Lausanne, Germany's amount of reparations payable to the allied nations is cut to less than $750,000,000. This was approximately a 90% reduction, or, to put the matter in another way, Germany has only to pay approximately 10 per cent of the amount which was due under the Young plan. Washington, perhaps as a matter of domestic political necessity, and partly perhaps as a matter of sound business procedure, makes it very clear that it is not promising any reductions in the amounts which it will accept from the debtor nations, the chief of which are Great Britain and France, though Great Britain and France have in turn huge sums of money owed to them by smaller nations which took part in the war on the allied side.

It is stated that the debtor nations will propose to the United States a reduction in war debts on the same basis as the reduction in German reparations. Such a proportionate reduction is logical. Nothing, of course, can be done by the United States until after the elections in November. The Democratic party platform contains a plank which demands full payment of the international war debt to the United States. The Republicans, in their expression of policy, do not go anything like as far. If they do not leave the door open for settlement, they at least leave it slightly ajar. It is pretty generally recognized, however, that President Hoover is in favour of some form of settlement which would bring to a final conclusion national and international conditions which have been created by the overwhelming burden of war debts. The allied nations are unable to buy goods from the United States that were normally bought, because they already owe the United States so much money.

Thus the export trade of the United States is being kept at a minimum, and will be continued to be kept at a minimum until the war debt situation is straightened out.

The large banking interests of the United States have also come to the view-point that the United States should go a long way in the direction of cancellation of war debts.

It has been suggested that Washington would cheerfully wink at repudiation of their indebtedness by the debtor nations. This would be for domestic political reasons, as it would be much easier for the statesmen at Washington to face the American people with the announcement that they were unable to collect from Europe because Europe had repudiated its obligations than to have to argue with the electorate the merits of the question. This is especially the case with the middle west, which has never had a very deep understanding of international questions.

New Money From Prairies

The Prairie Provinces, and particularly southern Alberta, have this year such excellent crops that even though the price of wheat may be low, the total volume of new money which will be put in circulation as a result the harvest will be enormous.

Southern Alberta has a 40 bushel to the acre crop, and weather conditions have been so favorable that there is every expectation that it will be harvested on this basis.

A 40 bushel crop at present wheat prices is just as good as a 20 bushel crop at double the price per bushel.

In addition to this the farmers have the advantage of having carried out their cultivation and seeding operations proportionately cheaply as compared with normal times. Their harvesting operations will also be economically conducted.

A college president says that modern girls are far more clever than their mothers were. In fact, some are so clever that they are able to keep their wedding plans a secret so long that when the boys find them out, it is too late.

What are the housewives of Nelson doing these days? Why ask that question? Yesterday I made a call on a friend of mine and he was out so I chatted with the good lady. What do you think she was doing? Well, just pitting cherries. I relieved her of some of the work by eating a couple handfuls. She had just finished hulling strawberries. Yes these are the days when the housewives do their canning. But we in the Kootenays should not grumble. We can almost pick the fruit from our back doors while many a person in other sections of this fair land has never seen a cherry tree or strawberry plant.

Which reminds me of a bride who recently visited Nelson on her honeymoon. She was a prairie lass. She could not get over seeing fruit grow on trees and mountains filled with forests. Bright Lights

BY G. S. REES

Hardly a journey of discovery this, for Baker street after sun-down is very familiar even to the most persistent stay-at-homer. A cheery spot, with window lights and night signs flashing and fixed-illuminating the thoroughfare, flanked by regularly patterned light standards and cross-street colored lamps. To stand high up at its eastern limit after dark and to look down on our main street is rather like keeping watch from a ship's look-out.

Not always were gleaming lights in evidence, for in the early days of the old-timers, Baker street at night was unlit except for dim reflections from stores or saloons.

"PUT THAT LIGHT OUT!"

For what is usually termed pitch darkness, one recalls the North Sea and English channel coastal towns of Britain during the war. Not a glimmer of a light anywhere; a darkness that could be felt. The lighting of a match on the seafront was equivalent to losing the war. While the home fires were kept burning brightly, the people walked in a great darkness after sunset.

Dark enough too in the battle zones, where men becames careless till whizbangs gave reminder. "Ole Bill" was always lighting his pipe at inopportune moments.

All large cities have their "Great White Ways," but how tawdry they look when old Sol steal quickly above horizon line, before grey night has hardly had time to make a get-away.

One supposes that the Great White Way in New York on Broadway leads in brightness. New York, which is one of those great centres of population defined as a place where millions of people are lonesome together.

The Mazda Belt of Broadway, one of the great cross-roads of the world, is a vast strident jostling sign-board, with pictorial advertisements working on a twenty-four hour shift. It is the carnival spirit, fantastically commercialized, a tonic light bath, charging one with alternating current.

On a clear night, the stars are quite out-dazzled by the furnace glares of advertizing in the sky.

THE SCOTSMAN'S CINEMA

It is called the Great White Way because alorg its hectic length, there are so many dark skinned establishments, Turkish bathhouses, Chinese chop suey joints, Mexican chili palaces, and Russian tea-shops!

The skysigns gibber in patterns of garish discord, crude and flamboyant, pulsing with an impossible wattage. "Petrol Perfection," "Uncle Bill's Liniment," "Eat at Boole's", "Say Flick," "Bring up your baby on Bran", all shriek in one's eyes with a blinding glamor, with a fierce determination to imprint the great news on the sales-consciousness of a million humans.

If only some of them would stand still! But they quarrel with each other chase one another around the skirts of buildings, endeavoring to outflash each other, merging into one heady bedazzlement that leaves one with little desire either to enjoy the proffered dinner at Boole's, to lubricate your machine with perfection, to apply Bill's linament to any portion of your anatomy, or even to utter the mystifying "Flick"!

After sunset, the cubed masses of Manhattan's skyscrapers take on a misty dynamic quality from the indirect illumination that falls on their huge buttresses; the spectacle is entrancing, with myriad lights shining through the windows; there are wells of shadow between the towering masses, and above them soar veils of golden haze.

STOP-GO—OR STOP-GO

One remembers kindly the red and green signals alternately clicking and winking their watchfulness through the blue dusk, when the lights begin to shine in thousands from starry windows in titanic towers.

Robert Bridges, a one time Poet Laureate, writes of New York after dark. "You will see far above you, even at a dizzy height, the softly illuminated heads of shadowy towers elfin domes and cupolas, glowing with concealed lights, like little temples thrust into the sky. It is a city transfigured, a city that seems by sheer brutal energy to have stripped off everything earthly, and by sheer naked strength to have risen to the heights of spiritual vision—a sight that suspends the breath." One must agree that all the beauty and power of man that ever was is massed upon Manhattan's rock; Babel and Babylon, minaret and mosque, tower and tunnel, where people scamper like rats rather than walk like men, pyramid and pinnacle, with heights that seem only safe for eagles. From these heights, the city is dramatized into a living symphony; all, lower buildings merge into the mighty panorama of the skycrapers towering above them; the bridges of the East River are pulsating rhythms swinging from shore to shore; beneath them, the river flows eternally. Aloft, the voice of the city speaks a thousand tongues, roaring traffic, shrieking steam whistles, a mighty drone of sound. Something to suit every mood.

But I seem to be wandering away rather from the Bright Lights, and as the hour is now passing late, it seems appropriate to heed the soldier's call to slumber—"Lights Out".

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

HOLDING YOUR BREATH

One of the tests for those wishing to enter air service, is holding the breath.

After taking a long breath, the candidate holds it as long as possible, and with the ordinary healthy man this is about 45 seconds and with a woman about 40 seconds. You have perhaps seen a professional swimmer in vaudeville stay under water a number of minutes which shows what actually can be done by training.

Another test is to blow the air all out of your lungs, and see how long it takes before you have to take in a breath. This takes 25 seconds in a normal man and about 20 seconds in a normal woman.

However you would be surprised to know you can increase the length of time you can hold your breath, or do without breathing in some air, by exercise and training.

Opera singers have so trained their lungs or breathing apparatus that they can hold their breath two or three times as long when they first began singing.

Even the average individual can soon learn to hold his breath for a minute or more, by brisk walking daily, or slow jogging.

It is this slow jogging or road work as it is called by boxers, football players, and other athletes that develops the strong heart and the strong lungs needed in athletic contests.

Physicians are now making use of this simple test of holding the breath, in estimating the condition of the heart and blood pressure and also in severe cases of thyroid trouble or goitre.

In all these conditions the length of time the breath can be held is less than in normal individuals. The physician thus makes a test and then advises certain treatment, rest in some cases, less food in others, omitting certain acid food in others. After some weeks the patient reports again, or the physician visits the home, and another breath-holding test is made.

In severe cases of goitre where operation is necessary, the physician can, by making these tests from time to time, finally get the patient into such a condition that the operation may be considered. He knows that the heart, blood vessels, circulation of the blood, and oxygen intake by the lungs are all so improved that it will be safe to operate.

It is certainly a simple but effective test.

Youth (indignantly): "What! A quarter an hour in this chair? Why, confound it, the usual charge is only ten cents."

Beach Collector: "P'raps so, but there's some gents over there willing to pay 50 cents an hour to sit in that chair."—London Opinion.

TWO WAYS TO PLAY A HAND

Frequently Declarer's hands which, before the dummy is exposed, seem destined to produce big results do not appear so promising after Declarer has seen his whole 26 cards. Some players of the above South hand found the dummy anything but useful—as might have been anticipated from the bidding and the absence of Hearts from the South hand.

The bidding at most tables was: South three Spades, West pass; North four Hearts, East pass; South four Spades. One or two Souths ventured five Spades because North's bidding seemed to guarantee that West would open a minor suit up to one of South's Kings, which was what happened, but North was not induced to make a slam call.

West led a Diamond which was won by East's Ace, and East, to shut out at least one ruff by North, then led his singleton Spade. Naturally South did not think of finessing, but won the trick and at most tables tried a bit of squeezing by leading six more rounds of trumps. Next Declarer cashed the King of Diamonds, but eventually he had to lead a Club up to the winners which most of the Easts had kept together, and so made only three odd.

Notwithstanding the inevitability of this result (as it seemed to most of the Declarers) there was a way to make dummy useful and capture eleven tricks. This play, which was brought off at a small percentage of the tables, seems remarkably simple when it is described. South led the winning King of Diamonds to trick 3 and dummy ruffed. Then dummy led the Ace of Hearts and gave Southa Club discard. Next dummy led a Club which, with East holding the Ace, made South's King good. Thus, in the end, the Club Ace proved to be the second and last of East-West's winning cards.

Intercity Junior Ball Series Now Tied; More Games

To the editor of The Nelson Daily News:

Sir—In the July 10 issue of the Sunday Province there is an article under a Trail heading which reads: "The Trail junior baseball team recently declared West Kootenay champions, are willing to extend the three game series to a best three out of five game series, so as to prove their superiority over the Nelson team. Although there is a strong rivalry between these two clubs both have always shown good sportmanship at all times. But the above mentioned article will give those that do not know the true facts an entirely wrong impression of the true situation, and lead them to think that the Nelson team cannot take defeat in a sporting way, and that all the good sports are in Trail. I have always advocated a best three out of five game series as being the only way to declare any superiority between any two teams, and that a short series is of no use, and all my correspondence with the Trail club has been to that effect. At the suggestion of the Trail club it was decided to play a two game exhibition series as a starter, and they broke even on these games and showed the teams to be evenly matched. It was then decided to go ahead with the championship games, and as nothing was said by the Trail club as to the length of the series we concluded that the five game series was satisfactory to them. Trail won this game and much to our surprise on reading the paper the next morning we saw that the Trail club were declared champions. In conversation with Trail officials since that time they stated that their only reason in wishing to shorten the series was from a financial standpoint. I have stated earlier in this letter the first two games were only exhibition affairs and it was only through an error that the Trail club were declared champions after the first title game. In the paper issued the previous week it declared the Trail club as champions, but as no correction was made in following issues I would very much appreciate it if you would publish this letter. Last Sunday the Nelson club visited Trail, and before the game started it was agreed that the series was best three out of five games Nelson then defeated the Trail team and tied up the series with one win each, making at least two more games necessary, and it is hoped that baseball fans in both cities will support the junior teams to their fullest extent, as both teams have found buying equipment and travelling expenses serious items, especially as it is no unusual thing to break three bats in one game as well as losing balls, etc.

"CANADIAN" WRITES ABOUT DOUKHOBORS

To the editor of The Nelson Daily News—

Sir—In submitting a few thoughts on the Doukhobor question I wish to preface my remarks by saying that I have no particular sympathy for the Doukhobors. I am viewing interests, honor, and good name of Canada well in the foreground. It is not mandlin sympathy for an erring and misguided people that leads me to say that already we have made a humiliating confession of failure in our handling of this problem and that along the course we are pursuing lies deeper humiliation and greater failure.

We ought not to forget that, with every opportunity to learn the fact, we practically invited the Doukhobors to make their home in Canada and that we practically assured them of more considerate treatment that they had known in Russia. Our action was a silent rebuke to Russian tactlessness and a loud boast that we knew how to handle a people whose only short-coming was that of being misunderstood by their rulers.

The jailing of 935 members of the Sons of Freedom has been accomplished with neatness and despatch that Russian bureaucrats, even in the palmy days of Czar Nicholas might have envied.

We have confessed that our verdict of 1899 was in error; that our judgement of Russian was wrong, and that we cannot handle these people as well as we once boasted we could. Like the Russians we have failed to understand these people. This failure and confession of failure are both humiliating.

There is one salient feature of the Doukhobor character that seems to have escaped the notice of the Attorney General and others, responsible for the present situation.

Born with the Doukhobor and engrained into every fibre of his being is an infinite capacity for enduring persecution and an irresistible impulse toward martyrdom.

The threat of three years' imprisonment was hurled against him as idly as a spear against a stone wall. It roused elements latent within him which the Doukhobor himself had no power to resist. The threats of the police, the menace of a three terms in prison were to the Doukhobor a call to martyrdom which his soul had no power to resist. He answered the call as inevitably as the soldier answers the call to battle. And if Russian history can cast any light on our pathway the spirit of the Doukhobor will be more inclined toward martyrdom after having served out his three year sentence. We will have only deepened the spiritual forces within him that make him a difficult problem.

This impulse toward martyrdom, this capacity to endure persecution should not have escaped the keen eyes of our Attorney-General. It seems he fondly dreamed that threats would be effective. I doubt if even now he knows better. He and the police resemble the little boy whose excuse for the shooting was that he didn't know the gun was loaded.

The tragedy of the whole situation is that our police and attorney-generals seem likewise born with a fixed idea on which no amount of experience can make the slightest impression, namely,—that if the stick they carry is big enough and the blow they strike hard enough they can overcome any opposition.

Will they ever learn that there are spiritual forces over which neither law nor the threat of law can exercise any control? Will they ever know that wherever law has measured itself against religious conviction it has known only humiliation and defeat.

FREITAS GETS DOUBLE PLAY WITHOUT ASSIST

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—In winning their third straight by taking the opening game of the series with St. Louis today, the Athletics also administered the eighth straight defeat suffered by the Browns. The score was 8 to 1, lifting the Mackmen back into second place over the Cleveland Indians.

Tony Freitas was credited with the victory, his sixth in succession. He made a most unusual unassisted double play in the fifth inning with men on second and third and one out while the Athletics were leading 1-0.

HOW IT WAS DONE

Fielding Schulte's sharp grounder to the box, Freitas ran over the third base line, trapping Levy and touching him out. Turning like a flash, he ran toward Pitcher Blaeholder, who was well off second. Bluffing that he was going to make a throw, Freitas kept running toward Blaeholder and finally made a lunge and tagged him out.

In doing so he tripped over Blaeholder's foot and received a gash in his right ankle that put him out of the game. The cut required three stitches and will keep him off the mound for some days.

Cochrane accounted for three runs in the eighth by hitting his 13th home run of the year with two on base.

Berg Outfought at First But Makes Comeback; Crowd Booes Decision

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BOWL, NEW YORK, July 18.—Jackie "Kid" Berg, tireless little Briton with the heart of a bulldog in the hide of a lightweight, fought his way back into the center of the fistic stage tonight by pounding out a 15-round decision over Kid Chocolate, one of the flashiest of the little fellows, before an enthralled crowd of 20,000.

Battered down by Tony Canzoneri, beaten by Sammy Fuller, and almost hammered out of shape by Billy Petrolle, the courageous little Englishman struggled back among the top-notchers of his class with an endless forward charge that overshadowed, in the eyes of one judge and Referee Johnny McAvoy, the cleaner hitting, sharper punching of the slender negro they call the Cuban bonbon.

For the first five rounds the sleek little negro, a grand boxer and rifle puncher, met Berg's charges with two-fisted thrusts that threatened to douse the Whitechapel whirlwind in the resin. He whaled Berg's head with rights, cutting both his eyebrows, and he leathered his body with terrific two-fisted volleys that left Berg gasping for breath and badly hurt.

BERG COMES BACK

But he could not put the game little Briton down, could scarcely dent the magnificent tide of stamina and courage that welled up in him, and as the fight wore on it was Berg, and not the fierce punching negro, who took the upper hand.

Gradually Berg found his way into Chocolate's ribs, and some of the flash died out of the Cuban firefly. He fought in spurts from then on, while Berg never faltered, and at the end it was Chocolate who was desperately striving to keep up with the stream of leather the black-thatched Briton flung into his sides, his speed gone, forced to meet Jackie at his own game.

In the 13th round Chocolate flared up with a withering fire that rocked Berg's head, sent him staggering from one side of the ring to the other, and left him ready for the one finishing blow the Cuban "keed" could not muster.

As it was, a vast majority of the ringside critics thought that Chocolate had reversed the decision Berg scored over him in 12 rounds in their first match two years ago. The crowd booed the decison heartly.

"STRIKE TWO, YOU'RE OUT!" IS NEW PLAN

In their efforts to speed up play in the major leagues, directors of the American and National Leagues might do well to study the results of recent experiments conducted by Hugo Bezedek, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, present director of athletics at Penn State College in three of the games played by Penn State teams.

One game with Dickinson College was played in which only two strikes and three balls were permitted each batter. Another increased play to 10 innings and the number of outs to four per inning, while limiting the batter to three balls and two strikes. And still a third limited play to seven innings, with four outs per inning and the usual number of four balls and three strikes per batter.

Is Only British Columbian to Win in Men's Clay Court Play

VANCOUVER, July 18 (CP).—Visiting players got off to a flying start as the British Columbia clay courts tennis championships got under way today at the Jericho Tennis club. Cyril Robbs of Portland advanced at the expense of Perry Swartz, California junior, 6-3, 6-3, while Don Budge of Oakland accounted for Graham Verley, former Canadian boys' champion 6-0, 6-3. Harry Goldman, junior player from San Francisco, beat H. Gaetz of Vancouver, 6-3, 6-2, and Fred Shimura of San Francisco, Pacific coast Japanese titleholder, downed B. E. Rhodes, former leading northwest star, 6-3, 6-2.

James Kinney of San Francisco was one visiting casualty, bowing before Jack Brawn, former British Columbia junior champion 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

Gracyn Wheeler, favorite to lift the women's singles crown, was given a hard first-set tussle by Phyllis White, diminutive Vancouverite. She dropped the first three games but opened up then to take the next five and finally the set 6-4. The second set also went to Miss Wheeler, 6-1.

Theo Smith, another California contender, won easily from Susie Milne of Vancouver. Henry Prusoff of Seattle, defending champion, John Murio of San Francisco and Dorothea Swartz, San Francisco, all strong favorites, did not play.

JAPANESE ZEAL

Japan will send the largest foreign representation to the Olympic games, 200 athletes. Japan subscribed $150,000 to defray the expenses of its team, and had no trouble raising the scratch.

Japan's zeal is better understood when it is explained that the United States Olympic committee has been digging for months in the effort to raise $350,000 to finance 400 athletes.

And, by the way, apparently Japanese athletes live more cheaply than the American variety.

THOMAS, THE ENIGMA

How much good Al Thomas, bought from the White Sox, will do the Senators is a hard one to answer. Thomas has been a chronic sufferer from a lame arm, which, by the way, habitually got better toward the end of the season whereupon Tommy would pitch superbly against the Cubs in the city series. Maybe Mr. Thomas has only been spoofing around the last few years. And maybe not.

IT'S A HOT LEAGUE

The Cincinnati nine's plunge from third place to the cellar shows clearly what a tight race the National League is having. Cincinnati dropped 10 in a row to the Pirates, Cardinals, Giants and Phils, but at the end of the streak still were only eight games out of first place.

In the American League there is approximately that margin between the first and second place clubs.

Incidentally, five of those 10 straight defeats the Reds suffered were by a margin of one run.

DUSTING 'EM OFF

The bad blood between the Cubs and Dodgers really arose from the alleged craving of Cub pitchers to "dust off" rooklyn batsmen. It started last season.

The Cubs piled up a 12-0 lead against Dazzy Vance. Charley Root, Cub pitcher, finding time heavy on his hands, entertained himself by heaving the ball at the Dodger batsmen for the fun of seeing them dodge.

Pat Malone was charged with the same tactics in a recent series. He dusted off Lopez so well that the Brooklyn catcher took a base on balls. And Jakie May, who relieved Malone a short time later, hit Mickey Finn with his first pitched ball.

"It's just like being in the Argonne," was Lefty O'Doul's comment.

Manitoba Soccer Team Eliminates Regina Champions

Manitoba took the first game Saturday by the score of 2 to 0 and the round 3 to 1.

JADICK TAKES TEN ROUND GO

Outpoints Canzoneri in Slug-Fest for Welter Title

PHILADELPHIA, July 18—Johnny Jadick of Philadelphia retained his world's junior welterweight crown tonight by winning a 10-round decision over Tony Canzoneri, light weight champion, in a slug fest at the Phillies' ball park. The crowd booed the decision and threw cushions into the ring.

Canzoneri, whose lightweight title was not at stake, made a strong bid to regain the junior welter crown which he lost to Jadick six months ago, but a stinging left jab continually thwarted him.

Tony did plenty of stiff punching, however, and several times Jadick was staggered with right hand punches to the jaw and body. Canzoneri was fighting at a weight disadvantage of two and one-quarter pounds, scaling 133 to Jadick's 135¼.

Alberta Champions Eliminated in Connaught Cup Play

VANCOUVER, July 18 (CP)—Winning the round against Edmonton Canadian Legion, Alberta champions, by virtue of a 3-1 win tonight, North Shore United qualified to meet Manitoba Telephones in the western final of the Dominion soccer championship series. North Shore won the round 4-2, the first game Saturday resulting in a 1-1 tie. The British Columbia representatives will leave for Winnipeg on Wednesday and are scheduled to play the first game there on Saturday afternoon.

The North Shores were full value for their victory tonight, being decidedly the better team in the first half, and superior in the last 20 minutes. Edmonton came to life early in the second period and after equalizing North Shores' first half goal, looked like making a real fight of it, but they flattered to deceive, and after United had regained the lead the visitors wilted badly.

The North Shores attack was not brilliant, but it managed to get all-important goals.

ROWING RIPPLES

Friday next, is the evening set for one of the Rowing club's intended series of outings. A large turnout of members, both boys and girls is looked forward to over 14 canoes are expected to participate. The place has not been set up to the present, but the canoes will most likely "follow the leader" from the club float. Don Lucas has been named chairman of the transportation committee and F. Graham chairman of entertainment. The lady members will superintend the dispensing of refreshments.

• • •

Don Lucas and Jack Meeks have met their match. On Saturday "Deb" undertook to go out in No. 3 seat, along with Hector McKenzie who rows bow. The best rowing form the boys had was put to test, not only for the first four miles, but all the rest of the way, coming in, Jimmy Kinahan, life guard at Lakeside park, timed the stroke at 30 to the minute. This is considered good speed for the long row that was run with but a single slight break at the ferry for a "breather." "Deb" not only kept up with his younger colleagues, but seemed to finish stronger than any of them. It is interesting to note that the average age on the stroke side of the boat is 21½ years, while that of the bow side is 47 years, the wonderful physical condition of "Deb" for his age speaks very well of the benefits derived from rowing.

• • •

Appreciation of the entire club is directed to the efforts of "Dad" McKenzie in his splendid work on the shell four. No other craftsman could possibly have put as much heart and soul into the work, shells are very delicate bit of handiwork and only the best of work can be utilized on them.

An open challenge for doubles issued by Reg Welsman, stroke, and Jack Meek, bow, has been accepted by two crews: Hector McKenzie, stroke, Don Lucas, bow, was the first to take up the challenge, Allan Smythe, stroke, George Campion, bow, following soon afterward. One or two other crews are expecting to work into form to make the affair a little more interesting. No date has been set at present for the races, which are expected to be in two or three heats.

• • •

So far the new Ayling oars have not been used by any of the crews, there was a bit of difficulty in getting them to fit into the oarlocks, this will be remedied very shortly. The girls are showing up to very good form these days, and are taking out the boats by themselves. It has also been discovered that it is a very old-fashioned idea that the weaker sex were unable to take out their own boats from the racks, in fact quite a number of the girls are showing more activity and enthusiasm and rowing ability than some of the first year boys. A letter was received from the Kelowna Rowing club inquiring about the possibility of sending a ladies' crew for the annual regatta, but it is rather regrettable that the local club consider it scarcely feasible to send over a local representation, as the Kelowna ladies' crew is well known to be a very formidable aggregation, having rowed together for a number of years. Next year should see a very strong ladies' crew representing the home club.

• • •

Holidays have lessened the numbers of the active oarsmen and ladies, but during the coming week most of the absentees are expected back and will be on the lake again, more enthused than ever. "Scotty" Love is at present picking cherries for Mr. Ross, and was visited Sunday by a delegation of club members, they were royally entertained by Mr. Ross who showed the visitors some of his most interesting Indian curios.

LUCKY LOMBARDI

Husky Tom Lombardi of Syracuse University, captain-elect in football and stroke oar of the varsity crew, carries a four-leaf clover with him into every race he rows.

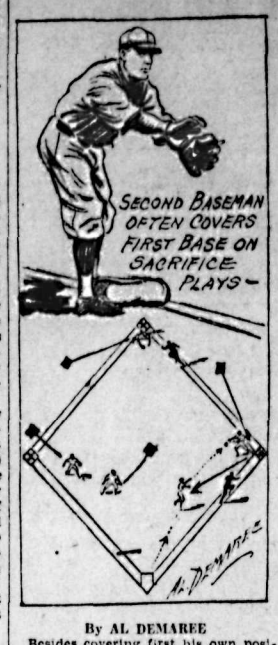
Big League BASEBALL Covering First



By AL DEMAREE

Besides covering first his own position, a second baseman must often cover first to receive the ball from the first baseman on a sacrifice bunt. The pitcher must cover the third base line and the first baseman must guard the first base line. Someone must cover first for the putout and that is where the second baseman comes in. This is particularly true when both first and second bases are occupied and the pitcher is trying to force the batter to bunt the ball towards third base. The third baseman naturally hugs third to receive the ball from the pitcher. If the batter "crosses" the pitcher and thirdsacker by bunting towards first, the first baseman must be there to field the ball.

The duties of the keystone infielder are various and manifold. There are catches of foul balls to be made on the right field foul line and there is a sort of "No Man's Land" in center field which if not played by the second baseman, will not be played at all.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet on the 'Art of Pitching' which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

STOCK POISONING PLANTS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

By G. L. LANDON, District Agriculturist, Grand Forks, B. C.

Plants which are poisonous to livestock are comparatively widely distributed in most sections of the province. It is impossible to estimate the losses in livestock through eating poisonous plants as in any cases the losses are ascribed to other causes, and in other cases the losses are not reported to the proper authorities in time to make the necessary investigations. Recently reports that cattle were dying in one section of the Boundary district were investigated by the writer and Dr. J. D. Paxton, Dominion Veterinary Inspector. The investigation revealed that the cows were being poisoned by eating "Timber" milk vetch (Astralagus campestris). The losses had been occurring for several years but fortunately had apparently been confined to a small area.

The fact that this plant is poisonous to livestock has been known for several years and was thoroughly investigated by Dr. E. A. Bruce, Health of Animals Branch, Experimental Farm, Saanichton, B. C. He states—"The affection is characterized by incoordination, difficult respiration accompanied by wheezing, whistling or roaring, and loss of voice in cattle and sheep, in which animals it is commonest in lactating females. Horses are also affected, the most prominent symptom being roaring of an expiratory type. The disease is referred to as timber trouble timber grass poisoning, jack pine fever, husky, Kamloops cattle disease, knocking disease, timber paralysis, and roaring disease, these names applying to cattle and sheep In horse it is known as,—mountain fever roaring disease, Clinton horse, and timber paralysis."

TIMBER MILK VETCH

According to Dr. Bruce the disease develops when the stock are ranging in the Arid Transition zone to which Astralagus campestris belongs. This zone lies between an altitude of approximately 2000 feet and 4200 feet, but may run a little further up or down.

"The timber milk vetch is one of the most conspicuous plants on the affected range, growing both in and out of the timber. It is from 8, to 16 inches high and grows in rounded tufts, the taller specimens being found in the moister locations. It is a pretty fragile vetch, with fine grass-like stems, small narrow leaflets, and little, scanty, pea-like pinkish-mauve blossoms, which grow comparatively far apart in long slender racemes. The colour of the flowers varies considerably, some specimens being almost white and others bluish, the majority however, are pinkish-mauve. It is difficult to describe a plant adequately in simple language, but it is hoped that the foregoing will suffice."

"Cases of poisoning correspond with the period in which the plant is apparently suitable for food. On the lower levels this may occur as early as the latter part of May, but the majority of cases occur during the last half of June and through July, further trouble occurring until towards the latter part of August, by which time the plant has finished seeding and dried up. After drying up the plant is often eaten and apparently without harm. It is eaten to a certain extent at all times but heavy consumption is closely related to shortage of other forage. There is no evidence to show that animals develop a special craving for the plant."

As mentioned previously the disease affects the nervous system and is characterized by inco-ordination and in other cases by difficult respiration; in many cases they are both combined. Dr. Bruce recommends removing the animals from the plant and putting them on a course of nerve tonics, such as nux vomica.

In addition to Astralagus campestris there are other poisonous plant affecting livestock in the province. The common brake or bracken fern fed dry in hay to horses will cause heavy losses. Common field horsetail (Equisetaceae arvense) fed in hay to horses will cause sickness and death. Death Camas (Zygadenus venenosus) is very poisonous to sheep and may poison horses and cattle. The false hellebore or Indian poke (Veratium viride) is known to be more or less poisonous but is seldom touched by stock. Feeding of cultivated buchwheat will cause poisoning under certain condition. To produce poisoning by buckwheat three factors are essential; they are the feeding of buckwheat, an uncoloured skin, and sunshine; if any one of the three are lacking poisoning does no; occur. Two species of Larkspur, the tall leafy species and the low Larkspurs are poisonous to horses and especially cattle, causing trouble in the interior of the province. Lupines especially the Silvery Lupine are poisonous to stock under certain conditions. The water-hemlock (Cicuta), poison hemlock (Conium maculatum) and creeping cut leafed water parsnip (Berula erecta) are all poisonous to livestock.

All the above mentioned plants are poisonous to livestock under certain conditions, some being much more toxic than others. Where losses in livestock are occurring, farmers and stockmen are urged to immediately notify their local District Agriculturist or veterinarian in order that the matter can be investigated to determine the cause. Where suspicious plants are found send them in for identification as this will often prevent serious losses. Many of these plants are poisonous only at certain seasons and it is simply a matter of keeping stock off the affected areas until the danger period is past.

FOOD ISSUES UP, TORONTO

Nickel Rises But Slips Under Heavy Trading; Steels Strong

TORONTO, July 18.—Prices on the Toronto stock exchange today reflected the decline which set in at New York in the late trading. Sentiment here continued bullish, and the list was moderately active, with total sales standing at 8056 shares.

International Nickel was again the board's most active issue, with a turnover of 2605 shares. Continued accumulation ran up the price to 14, but it slipped back to close without net change at 6¼.

Walker's preferred was second in volume of sales, with 1293 shares, and held unchanged. Canadian Pacific was up ½ to 12¾, while other utilities to appear were irregular. Bell was up ⅛, Brazilian at 10 was off ⅛, and Consumers' Gas was unchanged at 155.

Strong spots included some of the steel and construction issues. Foods were firm to higher, and oils unchanged to lower. Bank and loan company stocks were again strong, those appearing closing from unchanged to 5 points higher.

In the oil section, B. A. and Pete were unchanged, while Imperial was off ⅛. Of food issues to appear, Canadian Canners common was up ¼ to 3, the convertible gaining ¼ to 4.

TOP GRADES IN DEMAND, WINNIPEG

Wheat Prices Relatively Steady; No Actual Sales Reported

WINNIPEG, July 18 (CP).—Unfavorable crop reports from Europe and set continued lack of demand in export fields to hold wheat prices relatively steady on Winnipeg's grain market today. At the close of a quiet narrow-range session, wheat prices were ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher. The usual opening flurry over, trading was dull and uninteresting for the rest of the session. Operations were of a local character, with some seaboard interest appearing in the early stages.

July delivery ended at 33, ⅛c below yesterday's close, while December rose an equal fraction to 37⅝. October finished unchanged to 36⅛. No actual sales of Canadian wheat were reported, though some queries were received over the week-end. The report of last week's world shipments, released today, showed a 20,000-bushed decrease from the previous week.

Demand for top grades was the outstanding feature of the cash grains. Spreads on higher grades closed the session fractionally better with lower quality wheat unchanged. Offerings remained light.

Coarse grains futures presented a lifeless appearance, with prices easier under lack of interest.

SEPTEMBER WHEAT OFF

Wheat Prices Maintain Low Record in the Chicago Pit

CHICAGO, July 18.—Wheat today duplicated its all time low price record, 44¼ for July contracts, and outdid previous bottom quotations this season for September contracts.

All deliveries of oats and the distant futures of rye went likewise below the season's previous minimum quotations. Unusual slackness of either speculative or export demand for wheat was the chief apparent market influence.

After fluctuating nervously within limits of only ⅝c a bushel, a range seldom equalled for narrowness, wheat closed irregular, at ¼ decline to ⅛ advance, compared with Saturday's finish; corn ½ to 1⅜ down; oats ⅜ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7c.

Notwithstanding that there was much in the day's developments which ordinarily would encourage buying demand for wheat, it proved impossible for the time being to stimulate any large volume of business. Reluctance to purchase continued despite reports from Chicago crop observers that 6,000,000 acres of Canadian spring wheat in southern Saskatchewan were deteriorating as a result of hot, dry weather and a dearth of subsoil moisture. It also vainly pointed out that the United States visible wheat supply had increased only 1,882,00 bushels compared to a gain of 7,198,000 bushels a year ago.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, July 18.—The trend of the egg market was quiet today. The situation in the west was slightly easier at the week-end, with some minor reductions in prices.

TORONTO—Sales of graded Ontario shipments are being made to wholesalers at extras 18, firsts 17, seconds 13½ to 14. Wholesale prices to retail stores are extras 21 to 23, firsts 19 to 20, seconds 16.

MONTREAL—The market continues quiet, and sales of graded shipments on spot are being made at extras 20, firsts 16½, seconds 14. For local ungraded shipments dealers are quoting producers and country shippers extras 19-20, firsts 16-17, seconds 13-14.

WINNIPEG—Paying prices to producers and country shippers here are unchanged at extras 14, firsts 12, seconds 8. Wholesale selling prices are being cut, however, under pressure to move stocks as a result of some accumulations. The recent closing down of egg breaking plants for the season and the slower demand for carlots from the east are contributing to the unsettled situation throughout western Canada.

PREMIER MINE STILL ACTIVE

No Chance of Property Closing, Manager Tells Bruhn

VICTORIA, July 18 (CP).—Hon. R. W. Bruhn, minister of public works, returned today from an inspection trip which took him as far as the MacKenzie district. Mr. Bruhn visited Stewart, the Skeena, Omineca and Prince George districts en route.

While in the Stewart district, the minister visited the Premier mine, and reports the property producing gold much cheaper than formerly, owing to improved methods of extraction. Dale Pitt, general manager, told him there was no chance of the Premier mine closing down. The Premier still produces 50 per cent of the entire gold output of the province.

Mr. Bruhn heard very little of politics while on his trip. He stated that the settlers were too busy making both ends meet to think about elections. The optimism of the Cariboo astonished him. That was no country for pessimists, he stated.

Much was expected from the Imperial economic conference by the settlers of the northern districts, he stated.

FERNIE, B. C., July 18—The Imperial Oil company will improve their oil and gas storage buildings in Fernie. Their representative states that they will spend $14,00 on these improvements. They intend having a 50,000 gallon gas storage tank and a warehouse capable of holding at least five car loads of oil and grease. The warehouse will have electric driven pumps for economically handling the oil and gas.

U.S. TREASURY ISSUES ACTIVE

NEW YORK, July 18.—Strength of United States treasury issues was the encouraging feature of today's somewhat dull and timid bond market.

It was the slowest session in the past two weeks, sales totalling only $8,808,000, par value. Moderate advances slightly outnumbered the declines, and the average for 60 corporate loans showed a net gain of one-tenth of a point.

Advances of more than a point were recorded by treasury 3's, 3½'s and 3¾'s of 1941-43, while the other 3's were up nearly a point. The Liberties and treasury 4's were less buoyant, but all held moderate gains.

German government 5½'s and 7's suffered a relapse. Both of the government issues were off nearly 2 points each.

Other foreign obligations were irregular. The Australians were under pressure, but most of the Argentines showed gains of 2 or more points.

Domestic loans followed a quiet and narrow range. The railroads indicated firmness at one time, but later sagged moderately. Averages for the industrials and utilities were slightly better, but there were no outstanding gains or losses.

PIONEER WORKER DIES ON BIRTHDAY AT AGE, 101 YEARS

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 18.—David St. Eloi, old-time Quebec lumberman, is dead here on his 101st birthday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Campbell.

The centenarian had been in failing health for several weeks, but his strong constitution, built up by years in the Quebec lumber camps, battled gamely for life.

Born July 17, 1831, near Ottawa, Mr. St. Eloi lived the typical life of pioneers in the 19th century. He had resided in the west for 23 years.

RAILS ARE OFF ON WALL STREET

Utilities Return Largest Loss in Dull Day at New York

NEW YORK, July 18.—Although relieved of worries over congress, the stock market found it hard to be cheerful today, and sagged slowly through a listless session.

Several leading shares lost a point or more net, declines being well distributed among major classifications. Rails yielded their recent inclination to rally against the handicap of traffic shrinkage and to discount possible approval of the eastern consolidation plan by the interstate commerce commission. Santa Fe and Norfolk & Western were down 2 points, and Union Pacific 1½.

Utilities, on the average, returned the largest loss. Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and American Telephone were down the better part of 2 points.

Dupont's second quarter statement, published in the last market hour, uncovered considerable selling in that stock, which broke more than 3 points, duplicating its old low.

U. S. Steel common was fairly steady, but Allied Chemical, American Can, Union Carbide, Auburn, Case, and several tobaccos dropped 1 to 2. Homestake Mining and a few inactives, notably Detroit Edison and some preferreds, fought off the general downward trend. Transactions reached the small total of $13,220 shares.

RENO EASIER ON COAST MARKET

Price Changes Generally Irregular; Precious Meals Active

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 18 (CP).—Price changes were irregular in a fairly active session on the Vancouver stock exchange today. Active issues of the mines roup, notably precious metals, dominated the day's trading. At the close losses outnumbered gains 4 to 5. Several of the oils showed considerable activity, closing on the firm side.

Pioneer, after a week of steady gains, fell into its old fluctuating ways, and declined 12c to 3.60 in light trading today. Reno also was softer, easing 1 to 38. Georgia River at 2¼ was off a fraction, while Grandview at 2 lost ½. Premier went contrary to the general trend in the mines section, advancing ½ to 39½ after selling up to a peak of 51 for the movement. Noble Five was fractionally firmer at 2½.

In the oils, Mercury, with a turnover of 4000 shares, led the way, closing up ⅜ at 6, while Crow's Nest at 2¼ gained a fraction. Mayland at 6½ eased ½.

Coast Breweries showed considerable strength, selling up to 7 and closing unchanged at 6.

International Nickel was an active leader. Its price held steady around 6¼ for the better part of the session, but receded to 6⅛ during the last few minutes of trading, where it was off ¼. Buying of Nickel was understood to be from New York.

Montreal Power and Canadian Pacific were both fairly active. Power closed at 31, up ⅛, and C.P.R. at 12⅝, ⅛ higher. Brazilian at 10 and Shawinigan at 13 were both unchanged.

Other changes included: B. C. Power "A", p ¾ at 20; B. C. Power "B", up ⅛ at 4⅛; National Breweries, off ⅛ at 13⅞; National Steel Car, also off ⅛ at 7¾; Consolidated Smelters, off ½ at 49½; Power Corporation, off 1 at 9.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol at 1¾, Massey-Harris at 4, Sherwin Williams at 8, Dryden Paper at 1, Howard Smith at 2, and Fraser at 30c were all unchanged.

In the banks, Royal Bank of Canada lost 2 points to 145.

In the bond section, $500 of Victory 1933 changed hands at $101, and Montreal power debentures sold at 39¼, up ¼.

Oil Prosecutions Dropped at Calgary

Government Satisfied Conservation Practised; Spooners Appeal Case

CALGARY, Alta., July 18 (CP).—Prosecution of four oil companies, charged with disregarding orders of the Alberta gas conservation board in Turner valley, was dropped when the case came up in police court today. The companies had been liable to heavy fines for refusing to accede to the demand to close in their gas wells during conservation tests.

The companies were: Okalta Oils, New McDougall-Segur Oil company, Structure Oil and Gas company and Spooner Oils, Ltd.

Instructions to drop the charge were given by the attorney general's department in Edmonton. The crown declared the government was satisfied all the companies were adhering to conservation orders at present.

Spooner Oils, however, are continuing their appeal against the Alberta supreme court decision dismissing their application for a permanent injunction against the conservation board to restrain it from enforcing its orders in Turner valley.

Navy's New Air Giant Turns Up Its Nose

The U. S. navy's mammoth new airship, the U.S.S. Macon, entered the final stages of construction at the Goodyear-Zeppelin dock in Akron, Ohio, when its 75-foot bow was lifted into place with elaborate ceremonies. The larger photo above depicts the scene as Miss Susan Myrick, left, of Macon, Ga., blew a whistle to start cranes hoisting the airship's nose into place. Resembling its sister ship, the U.S.S. Akron, in shape and equipment, the Macon is a 6,500,000-cubic foot craft designed for a speed of 80 miles an hour.

COUNCIL HEARS HEALTH PLANS

Drs. Auld and Gussin Present Medical Views on Health Service

Outlining in brief, possible plans for medical health services as drawn up by the doctors of Nelson at a recent meeting, Drs. F. M. Auld and J. P. Gussin, representing the medical group, waited on the city council Monday night.

The time was now particularly opportune for making advantageous change, Dr. Auld stated, and in advancing the two main service plans of the doctors, he remarked that it was given by them not only because of their desire to see the amelioration of public health but also in their interests as private citizens.

The first plan, Dr. Auld termed the ideal way. It entailed the appointment of a nurse and a medical man with a cost of approximately $4000 a year, and involved the installing of a laboratory, the cost price of which had been placed at $5000 over a year ago.

ALTERNATE PLAN

Should finances not permit then the alternative plan was suggested, namely a trained nurse and technician to look after school studies and spend some time at a small laboratory which would be provided. She would work under a local doctor, or doctors, who could either be appointed until an improved system were installed, or if wished the doctors could take charge in rotating order. This plan would involve an outlay of about $1000 for a start, on the laboratory.

The council will meet later to go into the matter thoroughly. It was suggested that the doctors give some concrete information as to what was essential for a start, and the cost, and a list of necessaries that would need to be added at a later date to make the laboratory complete and adequate.

VISITORS ARE BANQUETED BY C. M. & S. STAFF

Trail Glee Party Entertain Visitors From U.S. and Canada

TRAIL, B. C., July 18—The staff of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company tonight tendered a banquet to the Canadian and American party of metallurgical engineers who spent the day going through the Consolidated plants here.

Scott Turner, director of the United States bureau of mines and president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, was welcomed by S. G. Blaylock, vice-president and general manager of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company, who was in the chair.

MAKE PRESENTATION

A presentation was made to Mr. Turner on behalf of the Consolidated staff by George E. Murray of a small replica in precious metal of one of Trail's tallest smoke stacks.

The outstanding thought at the meeting was that it was a pity that the United States and Canada could not get together and cooperate internationally in an effort to foster world peace, just as they did in the mining and metallurgical field.

PROPOSES TOAST

Dr. John Allen, president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Mettallurgy, proposed the toast to Mr. Turner.

Mr. Turner said that he had visited the various mining areas of the United States and that he had to come to Trail to see for himself where was located the forefront of the mining industry of the world. The Consolidated company was carrying on in the face of the depression and looking after its people which was more than was being done by the mining industries of most parts of the world.

Hon. W. A. McKenzie, minister of mines of British Columbia, stated that the total of the gold mined in the first six months of 1932 had shown an increase of 25 per cent over the same period in 1931. The first half of the year was the small half and he stated that he would not like to predict the increase by the end of the year.

Among the other speakers were R. T. Banks, secretary of the Columbia division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers; Stanley Easton of Kellogg, Idaho, general manager of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining & Smelting company; Harry Goetz, representing the Spokane chamber of commerce; W. M. Archibald, vice-president in charge of mines for the Consolidated; H. B. Parson, secretary of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers; Frank Smith, superintendent of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining & Smelting company, and H. Mortimer Lamb, secretary of the western branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

ENTERTAINED BY GLEE PARTY

The gathering was entertained by solo selections by the C. M. & S. Gley party. Bangor Jones, baritone soloist, also rendered solo selections for the visitors.

Tuesday morning, the visitors will be shown through the Consolidated's plant at Tadanac.

KASLO, SPOKANE, NELSON ENTRIES

Regatta Events Will Start and Finish at Lakeside Park

In the annual regatta of the Kootenay Launch club which will be staged in Nelson on Saturday next in conjunction with the monster picnic of the Consolidated employees from Trail a special feature will be the class B and C and open races for outboard motors.

Owing to an error in printing this event has been classed as inboard boats in the poster that has been distributed through the city. This event, as in past regattas, has been a favorite, and already the club has entries from several centers including Kaslo, Sandpoint, Coeur d'Alene, Spokane and Nelson.

It was announced yesterday that entrants in these classes will include F. S. Rouleau of Kaslo who is bringing a number of boats with him; Joe Pedicord of Spokane, also bringing a number of boats and speed stars including C. Johnson, E. Johnson, Andy Jacoy, W. B. Earlscourt and Fred Lenzi.

The regatta will be staged from Lakeside Park instead of the city wharf in the past. In other words the picnickers will be able to see the start and finish of all races from the park front.

A rather feature event will be the 20-mile open race for the championship of Kootenay Lake and the Patenaude shield. There will also be a 10-mile open race for inboard motors for boats with a speed of not more than 40 miles per hour and not less than 25 miles per hour. Entries for the events close at 10 a. m. on the day of the regatta and the races are scheduled to start at 1.30 p. m.

TRAIL PICNIC PLANS BRIGHT

Smeltermen's Committee Active on Bigger and Better Outings

TRAIL, B. C., July 18—An enthusiastic general meeting of the Smeltermen's committee was held in the Memorial hall tonight with plans being formulated for a bigger and better picnic than ever.

Suggestions were made for the transportation of women and children from Tadanac to the city on the return trip. It was announced the last chance for free transportation would be from 6.30 to 9.30 Tuesday evening at the employment office.

Additions were made to the various committees, now all being active and in good shape.

Candy peanuts, ice cream and pop will be given to every child; a bottle of milk to every baby; and tea, coffee, cugar and canned milk to adults.

The prizes will be more attarctive this year than last.

Both the Trail City band and the Maple Leaf band will accompany the picnickers to Nelson.
