ASSELSTINE TELLS TRAIL BOARD GREAT NEED TODAY FOR PEOPLE TO STAND UPON THEIR OWN FEET

TRAIL, B. C. July 7.—"It has been a revelation to me to see what is going on here," declared Hon. W. J. Asselstine, minister of mines, speaking to the Trail board of trade at a supper meeting in his honor at the Masonic temple tonight.

"This is not only a bright spot in British Columbia but a bright spot in the North American continent. You have a splendid relationship between employer and employee. As long as I am in the department I shall endeavor to bring about that fine relationship between employer and employee elsewhere."

"My reception here has exceeded anything I expected," he said. "I have thoroughly enjoyed being among you. You are all doing things. I want to assure the industry that I shall carry out my day's work as when I was directly associated with it."

As Mr. Blaylock said to me today, it is not so much the paying of taxes, it's what we are doing with the money. We have a fast growing province. Education requires more money. There is the unemployed problem. There is a fact in Vancouver endeavoring to shoulder the government with a greater load than it can carry.

"It is impossible for any government to assure every man a job. It is the individual effort which makes the wheels go around. There has been no achievement unless an individual or a group of individuals has gone out and done things for which they have been severely criticized. When you are faced with a problem, if you think hard enough you will always find some way out."

"We haven't enough individual effort. People must learn to stand on their own feet. While it is true men can't get jobs like they used to, no one ever got a job by sitting down and saying 'it can't be done.'"

"There is a great lack of doing something to help yourself. The government is not going to be ruled by a group of agitators in Vancouver and although I am only one of nine, as long as I have breath in my body I am not going to permit it."

As it was an acknowledged fact that mines working at present would close down, some in the near future and some in the more distant future, his greatest endeavor was to foster development of mines that would take their place, and the searching out of new ones.

"While many feel that the $55,000 appropriation for roads and trails is for the improvement of roads to mines in operation, I do not look at it in that light. We should move along lines of finding new mines, building roads and trails to new projects."

There are mines today that would be operating if transportation to them could be provided so equipment could be taken in.

TRADE, INDUSTRY
In forming the meeting that trade and industry was another of his portfolios, for which there was an appropriation of $217,000, Mr. Asselstine stated that "it and when we find we can do something to help trade and industry, we will ask for a greater appropriation."

The minister of mines was accompanied by Dr. J. F. Walker, deputy minister.

S. G. Blaylock, vice-president and general manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting company, was in the chair and introduced the speaker.

Mr. Asselstine is to meet mining men of the Nelson district this afternoon in Nelson and tonight will be guest of honor at a banquet jointly sponsored by the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia and the Nelson board of trade.

INDIGENTS

The offer was reported back by the contact committee to 40 delegates of the union gathered here, as the outcome of a conference which drew to a sharp climax in the morning, when the delegation interviewed the cabinet as a whole. Municipal delegates said the offer would be accepted.

Negotiations turned on federal-provincial relief policies which on March 1 last turned numbers of relief recipients back to the municipalities on the ground that they had become unemployable, and should be treated as civic indigents. The cash difference placed back on municipal shoulders by the edict was placed by the cities as $750,000 per annum.

While relief lists were unsegregated, cities paid 20 per cent and the government 80 per cent of direct relief. The ratio in respect to indigents now transferred will be 60-40, the municipalities still paying the larger share.

YMIR ROAD

able all the money available would be that spent on relief work, but possibly by fall it might be possible to get some money some place to do some work on the Ymir road." The government planned to place a four-wheel-drive truck at Nelson and to use it largely for winter plowing on the road south. A number of the corners would be cut off during the season to facilitate operation of the truck.

"He pleads poverty," Mr. Barnes said of the minister, "and it is little use raising a dust or criticizing." The minister said he was criticized at the coast for expenditure in the interior, and in the interior for expenditure at the coast. "He was willing to do all and everything he could but simply didn't have the money."

Legislation Bar Sale Sport Fish Being Prepared

Legislation to prohibit the sale of sport fish caught by angling in non-tidal waters is being prepared by the B. C. game commission for presentation to the B. C. legislature at its next session, stated F. R. Butler of Vancouver, game commissioner, in a letter presented to the council of the Nelson board of trade at its luncheon meeting at the Hume Thursday.

The board recently protested against the sale of sport fish caught in Kootenay lake.

ESLING TAKES UP

OTTAWA, July 7.—The Nelson board of trade protest against the selling of game fish taken from Kootenay lake was taken up with the fisheries department by W. K. Esling, M. P. for Kootenay West, who was informed that, after trout are legally caught, they become property within the province and as such come within provincial jurisdiction.

Under the Fisheries act the Dominion can prevent exporting of fish, and the British Columbia fisheries regulations adopted under that act have for many years prohibited the sale of trout in the province for export therefrom.

The whole question was recently the subject of correspondence with the provincial authorities, who took over the administration of the sport fisheries of the non-tidal waters of the province at the beginning of the year. If it is the desire to make illegal trafficking in trout within the province the authority of provincial legislation would be needed.

RESOLUTIONS

This convention notes with deep satisfaction the leadership given by the Conservative party in parliament in support of the cooperative movement in Canada, and urges that this movement be fostered and assisted, in conjunction with adult education, in the interests of the workers and primary producers of this Dominion.

NATIONAL FUEL POLICY

Whereas in line with the declared attitude of the party in relation to the establishment of a national fuel policy, the Conservative government extended to the coal industry of this Dominion support and assistance of a nature and extent that has resulted in rescuing that industry from an extremely critical position and has insured to the mine-workers a greater measure of security in employment;

Be it resolved, that this convention urges a continuation of that support and assistance and such additional measures as will be adequate to the needs of the coal industry, as a great national asset, and of the workers engaged therein.

FISHING INDUSTRY

Recognizing the great importance of the fisheries in the industrial life of this Dominion; observing with the deepest concern the depressed condition of this industry; and realizing the urgent need of assistance for those engaged in this industry as primary producers;

This convention declares that the fisheries of Canada should have cooperation and public aid equal at least in extent, character and effectiveness to that given any other natural products industry in this Dominion.

NATURAL RESOURCES

The natural resources resolution carried at the national Conservative convention today without vote or dissent. It reads as follows:

Whereas the natural resources of Canada are the common heritage of the people of this Dominion;

And whereas it is in the interest of the people of Canada that natural resources be developed and used in the most economical and profitable manner possible;

1. Therefore be it resolved, that the national Conservative party pledges itself to a policy of conservation and the most advantageous use of our natural resources by assisting the scientific development of those resources and that, with this end in view, it will, when elected, promote the use of our natural resources and encourage and extend industries based upon them and employment thereon;

2. The national Conservative party will at no time and under no circumstances subject the mineral industry to discriminatory taxation;

3. The national Conservative party will, by all just and practical means, cooperate in every possible manner with those engaged in our mining industry, to the best advantage of Canada;

4. That as gold has a fixed price, the gold mining industry can be expanded by lowering the cost of production, thus permitting the recovery of gold from low grade ore bodies. Therefore, every tax impost which can possibly be removed from gold mining be removed by statute, to the end that by such expansion a large number of workmen may be employed; huge amounts of additional supplies will be purchased and very large sums of new money may be recovered which would otherwise be lost.

Rube's Giants Trim Beavers Trail Loop

TRAIL, B.C., July 7.—When Rube's Giants walloped Beavers 14-6 in game of the city bantam baseball league at Butler park last night, it meant that each of the three clubs in the loop had won a victory. Despite this, Beavers have played three games, Giants two and Cubs one, thus leaving leading the standing in percentage, with Giants second.

The diminutive Joey Monaldi, who has chirped a good game behind the plate with his high-pitched voice for the past two seasons, and who has been learning how to throw from his coach, Rube Demore, went on the mound last night to whiff 18 batters, and allow only four hits.

Eleanor Young and Mrs. Gross to Meet Today in Feature Net Match

KELOWNA, B.C., July 7 (CP)—Jimmy (Bugs) Bardsley, fleet footed Vancouver athlete, smashed out a 6-4, 7-5 victory over young Colin Milne of Vancouver today to reach the final round of the interior British Columbia tennis tournament.

Bardsley's opponent for the tournament championship will be either Russ Hawes, the provincial junior champion, or Tommy Berto, another Vancouver player. Hawes and Berto are scheduled to play their semi-final match tomorrow.

Two Vancouver girls battled it out for a final berth in the women's division today with Caroline Deacon eliminating Susie Milne 6-0, 6-3 in a match that was harder fought than the scores indicate.

FEATURE MATCH

The feature match in the women's title-hunt is yet to be played, however. Tomorrow, Eleanor Young, the Canadian champion, is to meet Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross of Berkeley, Calif., a former Dominion doubles title-holder, in a semi-final match.

Russ Hawes hit the peak of his smashing game today in defeating A. O. Jones, ranking Winnipeg player, 6-2, 7-5 in a quarter-final match. Hawes was leading 5-0 in the second set, but Jones rallied to win the next game and force the set into overtime before the junior title-holder was able to win.

The final rounds of the men's and women's doubles in the tournament have been reached. In the men's Hawes and Milne will play two Winnipeg players, Richards and

The judicial committee also reserved judgment on the question of costs in the press and credit regulation appeals.

In declining to rule on press and credit regulation bills, the judicial committee allowed the judgments of the supreme court holding them unconstitutional to stand. Judgment on the bank bill will be handed down later in the term.

Although counsel representing the Canadian newspapers requested an authoritative decision on the points raised as to respective authority over the press of the Dominion parliament and provincial legislatures, their lordships decided there was no effective bill before the court.

SOCIAL CREDIT ACT REPEALED

Both the press bill and the credit regulation act depended for their operation on the appointment of a chairman of the Alberta Social Credit board, who is non-existent, the Alberta Social Credit act having been repealed.

Lord Macmillan, asked why the privy council should be called upon to pronounce whether, if such a piece of legislation were in existence, it would be valid, and Lord Maughan, the lord chancellor, disposed of the matter by declaring "it would be contrary to practice for their lordships to express any opinion on His Majesty on a subject which no longer is practical in any sense at all."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO MEET MONTEBELLO

Advice that the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce would be held at Montebello, Que., shortly, was received by the council of the Nelson board of trade Thursday.

MORE ABOUT DR. MANION

The election culminated a three-day convention in which the party organization was revamped, the name changed from "Liberal-Conservative" to "National Conservative" and a series of resolutions embodying party policy adopted.

Only two ballots were required to give Dr. Manion a majority over the other four candidates: Murdoch MacPherson of Regina, Joseph Harris, Denton Massey, and Hon. J. Earl Lawson, all of Toronto.

His chief opposition came from Mr. MacPherson who entered the race at the last minute and on the first ballot rolled up a total of 475 votes, to Dr. Manion's 726.

On the second ballot the low man, Mr. Lawson, with 105 votes, dropped out and the two leaders both increased their strength at the expense of the other two.

BOTH GAIN

Dr. Manion's total rose to 830, more than half the total and ample to elect him. Mr. MacPherson's vote rose to 648 and Mr. Harris and Mr. Massey, who polled 131 and 128 respectively, on the first ballot were tied with 49 each on the second.

Dr. Manion won the leadership by a greater margin than did Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett at the 1927 Winnipeg convention, although the total vote was practically the same. On the first ballot at Winnipeg Mr. Bennett had 594 votes against 345 for Hon. Hugh Guthrie, his closest rival. On the second he polled 780 and won.

One other difference was that at Winnipeg all five losing candidates lost votes to Mr. Bennett on the second ballot, while here today Dr. Manion and Mr. MacPherson shared in the votes changed on the second count and both increased their strength.

The Mackenzie King government, he declared, was "on the skids." It was "a do-nothing government." Prime Minister Mackenzie King could not do anything to save his administration. It was headed for defeat just as surely as Conservatives were in 1935.

Dr. Manion himself was a victim of that defeat for he lost his seat for Fort William to a Liberal candidate. Today, however, he was assured of a chance to reenter the house when Mrs. George Black, one of the two women in the house of commons, announced she would resign her seat for the Yukon in his favor and ask Prime Minister King to give the new leader an acclamation.

Dr. Manion thanked Mrs. Black for her generosity but did not indicate immediately whether he would offer himself for election in the Yukon or in one of the two seats now vacant, London and Waterloo South, or await an opportunity to contest his former constituency of Fort William.

The new leader is 56 years old, just one year younger than Mr. Bennett was when he assumed the mantle at "Winnipeg" in 1927. Former leader was not present at the election of his successor today. While Mr. Bennett had served in federal cabinets only for brief periods when he became leader, Dr. Manion has five years service as minister of railways and canals under Mr. Bennett behind him when he takes the position which will make him prime minister of Canada, when and if, his party wins a majority in the house. He also was minister of soldiers' civil reestablishment and postmaster-general under Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen for brief periods.

Dr. Manion is the second Catholic to lead the Conservative party since Confederation and the first veteran of the great war made leader of any party.

Back in 1892 Sir John Thompson, a Catholic became leader of the Conservative party and prime minister. He died in 1894 before he was called upon to lead the party to the polls.

But for a few incidents the closing day of the convention was harmonious. Mr. MacPherson congratulated the new leader, moved that his election be made unanimous and pledged himself to serve the party. These sentiments were echoed by Mr. Harris, Mr. Massey and Mr. Lawson.

Delegates stood at Dr. Manion's request to pledge their service to the party under his leadership.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, who broke with Mr. Bennett in 1935, fought the Conservatives at the 1935 election as leader of the Reconstruction party and returned to the fold last week, was present and voted on the leadership.

HERRIDGE CRITICAL

A vote also was cast by W. D. Herridge, former minister to Washington and Mr. Bennett's brother-in-law, who provided one of the incidents of the day when he described the new policy as "a lot of junk," and offered monetary reform as an alternative.

The Herridge proposal was defeated on a standing vote with no debate beyond his own speech. He said policies being adopted failed to meet the needs of the people and were an insult to the intelligence of the convention.

Dr. Manion came within 57 votes of getting a majority on the first ballot taken today in the National Conservative convention leadership polling. Hon. J. Earl Lawson was low man and dropped from the race for the second ballot. The vote was: Manion 726, Murdoch MacPherson 475, Joseph Harris 131, Denton Massey 128, Lawson 105.

Dr. Manion was just short a win on the first ballot. As 1565 votes were cast he needed 783 to win. The second vote was taken at once.

Airmail Is Missing Plane, Lethbridge, Owing to Schedule

That airmail east from Nelson did not arrive in Lethbridge by train until three hours and minutes after the mail plane left, and that no change of schedule was likely, was reported to the Nelson board of trade council at its luncheon at the Hume Thursday.

W. G. C. Lanskail, secretary, reported investigation revealed the foregoing after E. W. Widdowson complained letters travelling by train were arriving at Saskatoon on the same day as, or a day before, airmail letters.

SMYTH of Dungeniv, Ireland, exchanged nuptial vows. Stands and chairs, and a large number of friends and guests formed the background for the ceremony, at which Rev. F. G. St. Dennis officiated. The petite bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, A. B. Clark, was becomingly attired in a royal blue satin frock, with lace jacket and tone. In her hair she wore a halo of gardenias and lily-of-the-valley, and her bridal bouquet was of Talsman roses. Miss Betty Clark, niece of the bride, was gowned in an embroidered net frock of fondant pink over a matching garment which was trimmed with blue. In her hair was a single gardenia and she carried American beauty roses. George Bruce supported the groom and Archie McCall was usher. The senior choir, under the direction of Mrs. St. Dennis, was in attendance with H. E. Bruce presiding at the organ. During the signing of the register, Mrs. John Allison sang "O Promise Me". A reception followed at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark, Tamarac avenue, where Mrs. Clark assisted in receiving. The bride's table was centred with a four tier wedding cake embedded in pink tulle, while multi-colored sweet peas were artistically employed as the floral decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Smyth left by bus for Nelson and Kaslo on their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a grey tulle, matching shoes and white hat and accessories. Her carriage was of roses. ## Smart to Be Pale . . . Lightly-Tanned Skin Favoured For Girl Past Sub-Deb Stage

By JULIET SHELBY

THIS YEAR it is smart to be pale in summer. The trend is really a boon to those of you who have gotten out of the sub-deb class. The fervent sunbathing that has been the vogue for so many years is all right for youngsters, but it is apt to play havoc with a more mature skin.

If you want to skip all but the faintest blush, you must watch it very carefully every time you go out in the sun. And don't let one of those overcast days at the beach fool you. They are the worst of all because the sun is shining through a cloud, and that is the time when unsuspecting souls get their most horrid cases of sunburn.

Before you go outdoors in the daytime be sure to smooth a generous amount of anti-sunburn cream over all your exposed skin areas. Don't settle for one coat of your cream or lotion but carry along a supply and put it on whenever you think it necessary, and don't expose yourself to the direct rays of the sun at any time if you have an umbrella or on the porch of a cabana when you go to the beach can possibly help it. Sit under an umbrella and wear long sleeves, a hat and golfing gloves when you are on the course.

SUN GLASSES ARE NECESSARY. Sun glasses are a real necessity. They will not only protect your eyes from the glare and keep them from getting red and sore, but they will be a grand protection

When you are in town for a day's shopping you naturally won't want to use your anti-sunburn cream. The best thing to do in that case is to use a good cream foundation under your makeup, and you can use a liquid powder over it if your skin is particularly sensitive. If you are using a liquid powder, apply a much darker face powder than you would ordinarily use.

Encourage Them . . . Children Can Be Taught To Speak Kindly of Others

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

You and I are attracted to the person who habitually is enthusiastic about the good traits, achievements and possessions of others, who is liberal with honest compliments. I think it was J. Titcomb Holland who said, "There is not a head so high nor a neck so stiff that will not stoop to pluck the flowers of praise in its pathway." I know a young woman who from childhood always has bubbled over with genuine enthusiasm for her friends. I recall her as a child of 10, as a girl of 18. Often in my home, she has said pleasant things to the girls concerning a new dress, or hat, or some achievement of theirs, and she was a great favorite among them. She seems to have no envy in her soul. They say her mother is like that.

Now we parents wish we knew how to cultivate this lovely trait in our children; even in ourselves, for that's the hardest job.

Mother Nature seems to be against us. To further the worthwhileness of another of our set is, not the business thing to do. An ever-remembering urge in all of us is self-promotion; and most of the mean things we say and do, the slighting remarks, the "dirty digs," the "damning with faint praise," and so on, are ways we have (which we employ without knowing it) to exalt ourselves through debasing others.

CHILDREN NOT SUBTLE. Young children two or three years of age are less subtle and more blunt. "I have a nicer dress than yours." "I can ride my wagon better than you can." "That's nothing; I can draw better than that." Such we have heard repeatedly.

Nevertheless, even a young child will occasionally say a nice thing to another child his age or about him or his possessions. Then is the time for us to compliment him. Let us celebrate successes of this sort. I wish teachers and nursery school teachers would remind children often of this lovely trait, and help make each child want to cultivate it, in order to make others happier and himself more likable, and, therefore, happier, too.

The rarest opportunity to further this good trait in our children is by creating a family atmosphere where habitually we practise saying honest kind things about others, especially in their absence, and often talk joyfully over the lovely traits and achievements of others.

FIESTA

By OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER 32. The furniture trucks were unloaded and the various things placed during the following days. Decorators were on the scene, too. Color schemes had to be changed in a few instances. Lighting had to be made and made over to meet Bill's megalomaniacal criticisms, backed always by Ellen Dale.

"Say, you aren't making a peep," he jabbed at her once. "This is your house, missy. I only work here. Why in thunder don't you do some of the bossing yourself?"

"I hired you to boss," she replied, simply. "I don't know how Buckshot Brown muttered to his cronies, Juan Salazar. 'It takes more brains to hire brains than to use yore own brains.'"

"No sabe nada," said old Juan, shaking his head. Gringos were strange people, he had long since learned.

They were done with the work eventually, and was a perfect job, so thoroughly beautiful was it. Bill had planned well, furnished tastefully. After the cleaning was done, he led Ellen outside and they came through the front door and re-inspected the whole thing. "O-oo-o-oh, love-lee!" was all Ellen could say.

"This is la sala de vivir," Bill explained. "That means 'the room for living.' Parlor. Drawing room. Living room. Whatever. Anyhow the main room."

It was very large. In one corner was Ellen's Indian fireplace, circular and arched. In a diagonally opposite corner was another fireplace, without the rocks. The floor was dark green cement. The ceiling was beamed with great rough timbers which Bill had caused to be removed from an old abandoned mine in the Whatstone mountains. Smoked, then stained with mahogany, they literally reeked with age and interest and rugged beauty.

Finger and hand prints of plasterers could be seen on the wall, a bizarre pattern.

A four-foot charm string was made of gourds, peppers, fruits, buds, seeds, var-colored and hung on a platted rawhide thong. A his part. Something seems to be the matter with his morals, or he wouldn't lie to his best girl and try to deceive her. Don't worry about the suicide threat. He won't take his life—not that type of person. He may cry, of course; that is easy.

But if you want him, darling, why marry him, if he continues to go with you. He may change. The boy is in love, although you do not say if he is your age—19—or older.

A reader is the mother of a 17-year-old girl who "never thinks of boy friends. Her books keep her busy." She thinks it is plenty old enough for a girl to begin to have boy friends and to entertain her chums in her home. I agree with her that in a family where the father is ill and the whole family has to work to get the bare necessities of life, and the whole family should realize it and try to work together to make home pleasant, giving up their own wishes for the present. "Circumstances alter cases," of course, but the average girl in her teens is safer if her parents agree to let her have friends of her own age and to bring them home for her parents to meet. No little girl that age should be allowed to go wherever she pleases and stay out all hours, even when her parents know where she is. But a happy, companionable family life includes outsiders; friends of all the members of the household—in the home.

Temperament . . . Physician Shows How People Vary Reactions Differ

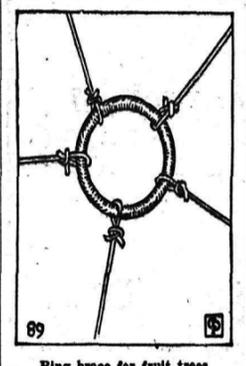

By LOGAN GLENDENING, M. D.

If a doctor could say to a person, "Oh! You are by nature a right-angled triangle, but the trouble is the square of your hypotenuse is not quite equal to the square of your other two sides. Now, all I am going to do is stretch your hypotenuse slightly and you will be all right—why, then the practice of medicine would be very different and a far less interesting thing than it is.

But it is not so and there is such a thing as "diathesis" or "idiosyncrasy," or temperament, among men. The old physicians called them "humors"—and a man was phlegmatic or sanguine or bilious or melancholic.

Ring Brace Supports Fruit Trees

Too bountiful a crop of fruit will often cause a fruit tree to split at the crotch. This is an ever-present danger during a wind storm when the tree is heavily laden. Sometimes limbs of a tree bearing an extra heavy amount of fruit are propped up with planks or timbers to prevent breaking where the limb joins the trunk. Less unsightly and more efficient than the use of planks or timbers for bracing a fruit tree is the ring brace shown in this garden-graph. This can be used effectively where three or more limbs need bracing.

The ring is placed midway between the branches, and heavy wire is run from each branch to the ring, as illustrated. Where the wire goes around the branch it should be run through a section of rubber hose so the wire will not cut the bark.

Mrs. Pitts, Nelson, Says Social Work For New Canadians Important

By ELIZABETH BAILEY PRICE
Canadian Press Correspondent

VANCOUVER July 7 (CP)—"Her dress may be shabby, her hat old fashioned, but she will always be welcome at Women's Institute meetings," said Mrs. H. H. Pitts, Nelson, reporting for the Nelson, Kootenay and Arrow Lake districts at the Women's Institute convention here today.

"It is the kindly honest heart that beats beneath that shabby gown that counts. Neither does it matter to what church or political party she belongs. Our aim is to make life fuller and happier for all women. We need cooperation of native and new Canadians in the service of our motto 'For Home and Country.'"

Mrs. Pitts considered the social work for new Canadians and provision of wholesome entertainment for young people the most important achievement of her district. "Many junior institutes are being formed," she said, "W. I. members are teaching 'teen age girls to sew and cook' in one community, a group of young Doukhobor girls were taught Canadian cooking and Canadian girls learned to make some Doukhobor dishes. A young Chinese nurse taught another group to make "chow mein."

"Almost every girl wants to get married" said the speaker. "Young men appreciate girls who can keep house properly and make real homes. Our baby clinics, open to all young mothers, are becoming more popular every day. Our dental clinics are doing grand work. We hope to open more school clinics shortly."

Mrs. Pitts has organized 12 new institutes in her district, all "live wires." The first conference in seven years was held at Nelson this year, 29 out of 33 institutes being represented.

Mrs. M. A. Bryant, Courtenay, provincial convener of the committee on public health and child welfare gave the Nelson, Kootenay and Arrow Lake districts prominent place in her report of the work of her department.

Outstanding "nationally" is the eye service financed by the Mary E. Davidson Memorial fund, administered by a committee headed by Mrs. H. H. Pitts. It has provided for 78 eye examinations. Purchase of 53 pairs of glasses and three operations on children's eyes. More than a thousand dollars is still to be expended on those in the Kootenay district, needing and not being able to finance eye treatment.

Two hundred and seventeen babies have been examined at the Nelson "Well Baby" clinic. Ymir, Trail and Salmo have sponsored similar clinics. Thrums sent a Doukhobor girl to the Queen Alexander sanatorium at Victoria for treatment. Creston, Arrow Park, Wynndel and Nakusp have furnished and maintain private wards in hospitals. Creston has supplied a surgical boot for a crippled boy and sent a child to the deaf and blind institute in Victoria. Needles, Fauquier have had the school children "toxoid" for diphtheria. Ymir started a dental clinic, where 80 children were treated.

Hints for Housewives

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT—Molded Salad with Gelatin Mayonnaise. Creamed Potatoes. Green peas. Pineapple and Jelly Upside Down Cakes. Coffee.

Molded salads are nice to serve for the main dish at dinner in warm weather. They do not seem as heavy as ordinary meat dishes, and can easily be carried on the picnic or served on porch or in sunroom. This molded salad is also excellent for the buffet supper.

TODAY'S RECIPES. MOLDED SALAD WITH GELATIN MAYONNAISE—One to two cups diced chicken, one-half cup diced celery, two hard cooked eggs, diced; one-quarter cup minced pimento, 2 cups chicken broth (freed of fat), two tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup cold water, one tablespoon plain gelatin, one-half teaspoon salt. Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes, then add to the broth that has been heated to the boiling point. Add the salt and lemon juice. When the mixture has cooled slightly combine with the other ingredients and pour into a mold that has first been rinsed with cold water. Leftover meats may be used to advantage in this type of salad. Ham, veal, or salmon is also good. If no stock is available use canned bouillon or beef broth. Serves six to eight. After the molded salad is firm, turn out on serving plate and frost over with gelatin mayonnaise made by adding one teaspoon gelatin softened in two tablespoons cold water, and dissolved over hot water, to one cup mayonnaise. Chill slightly and as it thickens smooth it over the molded loaf.

PINEAPPLE AND JELLY UPSIDE-DOWN CAKES—Eight large slices of canned pineapple, four tablespoons soft butter, one cup brown sugar, currant jelly. Cut each slice of pineapple crosswise into two thin slices, using a very sharp knife. Grease large muffin pans liberally with butter. Sprinkle bottoms and sides of pans with brown sugar. Fit in a ring of the pineapple around the sides. Drop a teaspoon of jelly in bottom of each. Fill centres with just enough cake batter to reach to top of pineapple, using your favorite white or "plain" cake recipe. Bake in quick oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes or until cake springs back when touched with finger. Serve hot with hard sauce, or cold with whipped cream.

KEEPING SPICES

Full-bodied spices are necessary for good flavoring results. Many housewives do not realize that the fragrance of spices—evaporates in time, just as the aroma of perfume does, and that the household seasoners may be totally useless for imparting flavor if they have grown stale or if they have been left standing for long periods with the after holes open.

To test spices for further usefulness, hold the open container near the nose and inhale deeply. If the characteristic odor of the spice is immediately apparent, it is in good condition and will save the foods to which it is added. If it lacks a rich aroma or is weak to the smell, the spice should be replaced with a fresh quantity.

Ground spices lose their bouquet sooner than the whole spices because the process of grinding breaks up the cells and makes the escape of the volatile oils easy to accomplish, especially when the ground product is exposed to the air. For this reason ground spices, particularly, should always be kept in airtight containers, with all sifter holes and slits tightly closed. A check up on the spice supply should be made at least every six months, for dead spices cannot perform any useful service.

TASTY HINT. A pinch of nutmeg added to cream sauce, and stirred in thoroughly, is excellent with fresh asparagus.

"Daring" Gowns reale Comment At Night Court

ONDON, July 7 (CP).—Ten Canadian women will be presented the fourth court of the season at King's palace tonight when they will receive alone, the queen in mourning for her mother. The Canadians include Miss Beate Hodgson of West Vancouver. There was a good deal of gossip about the gowns worn at night's court and it was predicted the Lord Chamberlain would "take steps" to halt any tendency towards the low necklines and daring bodice effects displayed by several of the presentees.

The Daily Mail's women commentator mentioned three gowns in particular which "appeared to break away from tradition." She said: "One, whose dress was so designed that it resembled a beach costume with brassiere and skirt created many comments, while another whose dress was cut exceedingly low in back also attracted attention."

The third, she said, had a 16th century square neckline cut lower "than any seen at court since Victorian days when women wore off-the-shoulder necklines."

Happy Days at Koolaree

By ERNEST BALL and BERT AULD

HAPPY DAY NO. 6—
When the braves awoke early Monday morning they were greeted by a drizzle of rain, and the Venetian blinds (canvas walls of the cabins) were quickly lowered. The weatherman was very tickle, however, and by the time breakfast was over Old Sol was peeping out of the clouds.

Your scribe found out this morning that when the lacrosse game is being played it is best to keep away. The game is played in the best Indian style, and the spectators have as much excitement as the players themselves. In the first quarter the braves just begin to warm up, and by the second quarter the "war-whoop" comes fast and furious. By the time the last quarter comes everyone is on the warpath, and the scoring of a goal by a player is the signal for a furious fray to commence, involving the players, referees, the spectators, and what have you.

TALL TIMBER
James (Snoozala-Tarzan of the apes) Hall, after climbing a birch tree for his pants and a willow for his shirt, came down saying unheeded things; and, to show he eats his spinach, he tossed John Walton's bed out of the back door.

CODIFYING SOFTBALL
Another source of eternal argument at the camp is the softball rules. Immediately a softball game is played the argument commences, and the rules are discussed, concussed, recused and cussed. Chief Frizzy has given the braves a lecture on not arguing, but the other day at the big chief-little chief game he was arguing as much as anyone. A book of rules is being drawn up so he will not have any chance to argue.

Two beds fell on Bob Beattie today, they are said to be undamaged. This afternoon the braves were divided into chain gangs. I wonder where Chief Frizzy disappeared to. Practically the whole camp co-operated in throwing Eger Jensen in the lake this morning. You should have heard the splash. Oh boy!

MANHANDLING JOSEPH
On Sunday evening at campfire the Pawnees tribe produced a play from the Bible, as is the camp custom.

Miss Muriel Robson, Hall street left yesterday for Cranbrook and district.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnston to buy cherries; but as the cherries were green, some of the boys didn't buy any. Those that did are suffering the consequences. When Freddy offered to relieve Jack Underwear, (Underwood, to you) with a dose of castor oil, Jack immediately forgot his stomach ache.

APOLLO ON A PILE
As several cameras toddled along with their owners, many candid shots were made. Stuart Macintosh was so busy smiling in the face of the camera as he walked along the wharf that he nearly walked into the deep blue sea. Doug Gray posed on the top of some of the wharf piles. Who did he think he was, Apollo, or Mercury? We all admired the belly-clip he took.

Does Freddy need glasses, or is he just absent-minded? Last night he woke up, looked at his clock, and thought it said nearly 2 o'clock. He rushed over to the Haida cabin and aroused Bob Beattie, whose turn it was to meet the train. They were both making a dash to the track when Freddy glanced at his watch, and to his amazement found that it was only 12 o'clock. Was Beattie ever mad—boy! Oh boy!

As tomorrow is visitors' day, an ambitious program has been prepared and the visitors will be entertained in a variety of ways.

Variety of Activities Shown in Reports of Women's Institutes

VANCOUVER, July 7 (CP)—Mrs. J. L. White of Victoria, first vice-president, told the annual convention of Women's Institutes of British Columbia here today of the work of the 34 institutes, with an approximate membership of 864, raised $8500, majority of which was expended for community betterments, Mrs. White said.

Royal Oak, South Saanich, Brentwood have united in improving high school grounds. Quathliski interested the war veterans in cleaning up the cemetery and purchased a new gate for it.

Queen Alexandra solarium receives much assistance in the form of cash donations, egg fruit and vegetable showers, and linen.

Handicraft work is a major activity, Victoria having just completed a hand weaving exhibition. Lake Hill, Brentwood, Esquimalt, South Saanich, Pender Island, Parksville have held quilting bees and sponsored handicraft classes.

Interest in fall fairs is active—Parksville, Qualicum, Langford, Luxton and Happy Valley have cooperated with the fall fair at Colwood. Pender Island joins with the Farmers' Institute in assisting the local fair. Luxton and Happy Valley sponsored a "trot and seed fair."

Craigflower, the "baby institute", has organized first aid classes and Spomenos members are taking a course in home nursing. Ganges, Pender Island, Shirley, Quathliski and Langford have supported dental, baby and pre-school clinics.

Parksville has organized a class to learn chesemaking. Royal Oak has taken a lead in the community in adult education classes the latest venture being a course in public speaking.

Lake Hill and Cedar members are compiling histories of their communities.

In discussion following Mrs. White's report Mrs. Mead Robins, Royal Oak, told of one young man who benefited so much from public speaking classes that he had entered the ministry.

Mrs. V. S. McLachlan, Victoria, W. I. superintendent, said that W. I. members did not avail themselves enough of government night classes in adult education, which covered a wide range of practical subjects. Mrs. Ann Hartnell of Peace River said Women's Institutes attended classes in cooking and sewing on Saturday afternoons as many mothers did not like being away from home at night.

FIRST CANADIAN OIL WELL

On Dominion Day a plaque was unveiled at Oil Springs by Prof. Fred Landon, representing the historical sites and monuments board, to commemorate the first strike of oil in that district. This is following the policy of the board to mark the historical spots of Canada.

The first oil well on this continent was drilled at Oil City, Penn., in 1859 and this was the beginning of a great oil boom in that state. Evidences of oil had been reported for some time in Lambton county, Ont., and oil workers from Pennsylvania decided to try their luck in Canada. One of the pioneer drillers was the late J. H. Johnston. His son, Arthur B. Johnston, of London, has written from records of his father, a pamphlet giving recollections of the early operations at Oil Springs.

He states that the first well, known as the Shaw well, came in on January 16, 1862. It was located on Lot 18, Concession 2, Enniskillen Township, which later became the site of the village of Oil Springs. The Shaw well proved a gusher and threw oil higher than the tree tops. After many attempts to shut it in had failed, Mr. Johnston's father finally succeeded.

The oil was so deep that escaped, that it flowed down a neighboring creek to the St. Clair river. Mr. Johnston gives an interesting account of the various wells and the boom days in Oil Springs. Mr. Johnston says that it was the surface water which largely ruined the Oil Springs fields.

The glory of Oil Springs has faded, but the historical monuments board is commemorating those pioneer days for posterity.

here is no education like adversity.—Beaconsfield.

REINDER HUSBANDRY

About 1933 Canada bought something more than 2000 reindeer in Alaska and had them herded across the Arctic mountains to the territory adjacent to the mouth of the Mackenzie river. They were to furnish food and occupation to the Eskimos. They were delivered in 1935, the number arriving being 2870.

Since then they have thrived. They adapted themselves to the new climate and feeding grounds easily and the herd has increased. At a roundup during the past winter it was found the herd numbered 4000 and late reports indicate that the natural increase this spring will amount to nearly 2000 calves.

A number of Eskimos have been employed herding and learning reindeer husbandry. They have acquired some skill and it is now felt that the time has arrived for an extension of the industry and for placing part of it more directly into the hands of the Eskimos themselves.

And so this year plans call for taking 800 head from the main herd and turning them over to several Eskimo families under a white supervisor. They would be moved gradually eastward in the direction of the Coppermine river and, presumably, still later over the whole of the Arctic regions.

The intention is to set up the Eskimos as reindeer farmers thus ensuring a continuous food supply without greatly interfering with their nomadic habits for reindeer herds can travel easily in the north. However, it should tend towards stability and the creating of permanent residence. Moreover reindeer products should bring revenue on a larger scale than the seal and polar bear hunting of the past.

Great men rejoice in adversity just as brave soldiers triumph in war.—Seneca.

EVOLUTION OF THE BEAN

The devotee of the traditional Saturday night baked-bean supper may at times be perplexed by the smallness of the modern product and wonder what ever became of the old-fashioned navy bean that used to decorate his plate. In the explanation lies the story of how American farm life has been revolutionized and one of the reasons why many an individual farmer has found it much more difficult to make a living.

The old-fashioned white beans that did so well in the gravelly soils of such states as New York and Michigan succumbed to plant pests. But the Michigan agricultural experiment station developed a pea bean in 1913 which proved resistant to attacks, and this has now taken over practically the entire commercial market, while another and larger resistant type, called Great Northern, produced mainly in Idaho, has become popular for home cooking.

If one should drive down the famous El Camino Real, from San Francisco to Los Angeles, he would pass miles of farm lands in the Salinas River Valley—a land which was once a desert, but which is now carpeted with green, each irrigated field bordered by waving eucalyptus trees. There is not a farmhouse in sight. Every one of the fields grows beans and they are owned by corporations or wealthy individuals who live in great cities miles away. Permanent employees are few. Cheap seasonal labor harvests the crop, which is marketed at a low cost through a single channel. Thus mass production methods permit California beans to undersell those from nearer fields in eastern markets. Like wheat growing, bean production has become big business.

As you are old and reverend, you should be wise.—Plutarch.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Some of the language I hear on the phone is most uncalled for—and so are some of the numbers.

In Nelson By-Paths

One thinks of the spider clan as ferocious and conquering. Not often would it occur to the average man that there might be spiders that could be preyed upon instead of doing the preying.

Now, I do not know the kind of spider in the story I am about to relate, and neither do I know anything about the beetle in the case, beyond the fact that this spider had a large and pulpy body of a mouse color, while the beetle was a long thin gentleman with a red waistcoat. The waistcoat became visible whenever the beetle found it necessary to raise its wing-cases.

INSECT MASTERS
SPIDER
One afternoon some weeks ago, in early May I would say, as the new grass was barely starting, I was coming down the concrete sidewalk at the upper end of Baker street, and happened to note almost under my feet something being pulled along. Everyone has seen an ant dragging along some insect, headed presumably for the ant hill, or other community home of its species, and sometimes one pauses to watch the ant overcome obstructions while dragging along its carcass or its captive. When I noted that it was a spider being dragged, and by some insect that would not appear to be at all a match for it, as the spider was bulky, I paused two or three minutes to see if the thin beetle was merely pulling its captive—for the spider was clearly alive, though acting paralyzed—out of the line of traffic, or was taking it somewhere.

In a minute or two the insect had hustled its prize diagonally across the six-foot width of concrete, into the dried grass at the edge, and here I watched very closely, to see whether that was the destination. But it wasn't. The thin beetle pulled and pushed the big-bodied captive to the bare sloping earth bank, broken by an occasional tuft of grass, and then went down with it, sometimes rolling down with it, and once or twice apparently letting it fall down a steep place, and afterward recovering it.

TAKES BEETLE TO CRACK
About three feet down the bank, the beetle seemed to lose interest in the spider, but quitted back and forth over the surface. Then it hitched on to the spider again, and this time started to haul it up hill in a diagonal direction. After a while, its objective appeared—a crack in the soil, with which it was evidently fully familiar. When it got up to the crack, it dropped hold of the spider, and disappeared in the crack, which it investigated sub-terranously.

Then it came out, and hauled the spider right up to the line. The spider was too large to be taken underground at any point in sight, but when I left it looked to me as if the beetle were pressing the earth back and were trying to widen the crack at a favorable point, so as to be able to take the spider down out of sight.

This was as far as my investigation went. The next time I visited the crack in the bank, I could not see the spider; on the other hand, the crack was not much larger. I had an impulse to open the crack, but did not do so.

WAS PURPOSE STORAGE?
What occurred to me was that the beetle might be a predatory one, and wanted to keep a stock of food on hand for a time.

Another possibility that occurred to me was that the beetle might be parasitic, and wanted to store food for a grub that would emerge from an egg laid in the spider's body. All this of course is conjecture, and utterly unscientific. But the circumstances certainly indicated the beetle was taking the spider's carcass, apparently a living one (for at times the creature seemed to have a slight power of movement) to a pre-determined place, for a pre-determined purpose. The spiders are not the only possessors of venom, though they generally paralyze other creatures instead of themselves being paralyzed.

Whatever the explanation, clearly there was a reversal of the roles one ordinarily would expect to see between a spider and an insect that by comparison was slightly built.

Questions? ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers is open to any reader of the Nelson Daily News. In no case will the name of the person asking the question be published.

R.M., Nelson—How fast can a man paddle a canoe, and how fast can two men paddle?

A man paddling a canoe at a good rate may be able to paddle at about three miles an hour; two men at about four miles an hour.

C.G.F., Trail—Can you tell me what the principal acid in tomatoes is?

While there are other acids present in small amounts, the principal one is citric acid.

A.F.G., Nelson—Can you explain why our flowers never seem to live long in our house while other people seem to be able to keep them much longer?

Any one of the following may be the cause: Hot or cold draughts of air; a stuffy room; smoke or fumes such as those from coal or gas; insufficient watering; too many flowers in one vase; stems not cut daily; or leaving in warm room over night.

H.D.B., Rossland—Please tell me when and by whom the saxophone was invented?

It was invented by Adolphe Sax about 1840 and officially introduced into the French Army bands in 1845. It was first used in an orchestra in 1844 by M. Kastner in "Le Dernier Roi de Juda".

T.M., Creston—What is the quotation about fathers burying their sons in time of war?

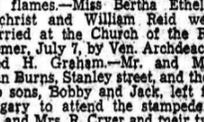

"In peace the sons bury their fathers, but in the war the fathers bury their sons," is a saying attributed by Herodotus to Croesus, King of Lydia, after he had been conquered.

F.B., Trail—Why do some colors in fabrics fade more quickly than others?

It is a common fallacy that green, lavender, or some other color is less fast than blue or pink. Fastness depends on the chemical composition of the dye used, not on the color. Dye-stuffs are grouped into various classes according to their composition, and the dyes in some classes are more fast than those in others.

A dye that is one of the poorest of its class may have been used on one of the fabrics, while the other may have been dyed with one of the best. Green, lavender, or any other color is just as fast as another if similar dyes are used.

HOLDING UP OPTIONAL REFUSAL TO part with your ace on the opening trick is not profitable in the long run if you do it every time as a matter of principle. There are times when it is better to use the big fellow at the first opportunity, especially if that involves the killing of some lower honor. On many occasions this promotes a lesser card of your own hand or dummy into the position of a certain trick taker, whereas a hold-up would limit you to one trick in the suit.

TRAIL BEATEN BY 59 RUNS IN COAST JUBILEE CRICKET

Victoria Beat Calgary and Burrards Beat Okanagan

VANCOUVER, July 7 (CP)—After having the game apparently in its keeping, Calgary's last six wickets tumbled against Victoria in the fourth game of the Vancouver Golden Jubilee Cricket festival today and were beaten by a margin of 20 runs in totals of 166 to 146.

Sensational batting by Hill Henry, who hit 123 in 55 minutes, including 6 sixes and 17 fours for Burrards, enabled his side to beat Okanagan by a wide margin, this being the first victory of the mainland league team in the tournament. In two successive overs Hendy hit 56 runs, three sixes and three fours in one over, and three sixes and two fours in the next. Okanagan scored 183, and Burrards 294 for 6 wickets.

Vancouver beat Trail by 59 runs in the remaining game, scoring 126 and then dismissing the smelter town eleven for 67.

When Trail got rid of Vancouver for 126 they looked to have a chance of winning, but their batsmen were all at sea against the bowling of Ed Ball, Eddie Rush and Rex Turner, only two men making double figures. Norman Pearson batted very well for Vancouver for top score of 43. Taking a second innings Vancouver made 113 for one wicket and then declared, Norman Pearson making 45 (run out) and Rex Turner 47 not out. Left with an hour to bat Trail again collapsed and had lost nine wickets for 85 runs when time was called. Geoff Robinson batted very attractively for 22. Pete Henson scored 6 second-innings wickets for 35 runs, while Eddie Rush held four splendid catches.

CUBS OPEN LONG SPELL AT HOME

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—Chicago Cubs, who once were "hot" at home but of late have suffered outbreaks of cold shills in their own ballpark, open a long home stand tomorrow which likely will make or break their National league pennant chances.

Cincinnati Reds call at Wrigley Field to open a 19-game home stay for the Chicagoans.

Back in 1935 the Cubs won the pennant with a 21-game winning streak, and a large majority of those victories came at Wrigley Field. This year, while playing better than .600 ball on the road, the Cubs, during the first half of the season, weren't even a .500 club at home, winning 15 and losing 16.

"We're certain to start clicking soon in our own park," said Grimm, "and once we get started we'll be hard to stop. Don't count us out of the race yet."

Scores Close as Final 36 Holes In British Open to Be on Today

SANDWICH, England, July 7 (AP)—Bill Cox, Jack Bussan and Dick Burton led the field at the halfway mark of the British open championship tonight, but the three Ryder cup players pace-setting 140s were only eight shots ahead of the worst player in the field going into tomorrow's final 36 holes.

With 37 scoring 148 or better to qualify, every man in the field had at least an outside chance of winning.

Bussan and Burton both clipped a stroke off the Royal St. George's course par of 70 to earn their place at the top along with Cox, who put together two par 70s for his 36-hole total.

A stroke behind at 141 were Bert Gadd and Jim Adams, who scored 70 and 71, respectively, in the second round. Reginald A. Whitcombe held the 142 all by himself, a stroke ahead of a little known player, R. G. French.

Rain Gives Gloomy Outlook On Eve of 3rd Test Cricket Match

MANCHESTER, England, July 7 (CP Cable)—Heavy rain today provided a gloomy outlook for opening of the third cricket test match between Australia and England at Old Trafford tomorrow. Instant on breaking the dead-end look resulting from drawn contests in the first two matches of the five-game international series the players were prevented from going to the nets for practice.

Intermittent showers during the past few days developed into a steady downpour during the night. The natural wicket at the big Lancashire ground will be at its softest tomorrow. Conforming to the rules, the wicket was covered at noon, and police will guard the little stretch of turf throughout the night.

Arrangements had been made to accommodate a crowd of 40,000, but unless the weather improves this figure will be reduced. Three changes are likely in England's team. Leslie Ames, veteran Kent wicketkeeper, is definitely out of the game. In the second test at Lord's he fractured a finger, and his place behind the stumps will be taken by P. A. Gibb, 25-year-old Cambridge university and Yorkshire amateur.

FARNES AND WELLARD DROPPED

Kenneth Farnes and Arthur Wellard, fast bowlers, have been dropped, and their places will probably be taken by Morris Nichols, Essex, and T. F. Smalles, Yorkshire. Nichols is a seasoned test player, but the Yorkshireman is new to international competition. Against the Australians a few days ago he was the chief factor in their collapse in the match with Yorkshire, taking 10 wickets for 137 runs. Rain was responsible for the contest being drawn.

Since the Anglo-Australian tests started in 1876, the Antipodeans have been victorious 36 times, two more than England. Thirty-one of the matches have been drawn.

CANDIDATES

Teams will be chosen from the following players:
 England—W. R. Hammond, Barnett and Goddard; Gloucestershire, P. A. Gibb, Verity, Hutton and Smalles; Yorkshire, Edrich and Compton; Middlesex; Wright, Kent; Pevner, Lancashire; Nichols, Essex; Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire.
 Australia—D. G. Bradman, S. J. McCabe, W. A. Brown, C. L. Badcock, A. G. Chipperfield, J. H. Finckley, E. A. Barnett, A. J. Hassett, E. J. McCormick, W. J. O'Reilly, Fleetwood-Smith, F. Ward, M. G. Waite, E. S. White, C. W. Walker, S. Barnes.

Crack Crew Rows Shell 43 Miles When No Funds To Ship If Home

TORONTO, July 7 (CP)—Without money to ship a newly-purchased shell from Hamilton, Ontario, four University of Toronto youths rowed the shell home—43 miles over Lake Ontario. They arrived today, covering the distance in exactly seven hours and 10 minutes.

Dave Soper, university rowing coach, purchased the second-hand shell yesterday from the Hamilton Leanders club. Ted Noakes, Wes Hicks, George Peters and Keith Duckworth left Hamilton at 5 p.m. yesterday and arrived at the Port Rowing club here after three stops—at Bronte, Oakville and Port Credit.

Soper said the boys had tried a practice spin in the shell at Hamilton shortly before they left on their trip.

Soper regards the four as his crack crew and added: "I'm pinning all my hopes on them in the Canadian Henley in the last week of July."

the British Columbia regiment, Vancouver, scored a total of 32 to win the Parkhurst trophy for rapid fire shooting. Lance-Corporal F. S. Ross of the Garrison Rifle association finished second with a total of 31.

Last year's grand aggregate champion, Lieutenant A. S. Campbell of the Vancouver Seaforths, took his first title of this year's meet by scoring 33 to nose out Lieutenant-Colonel H. F. G. Letson of the Vancouver Rifle association for the R.C.M.P. trophy. Lt. Colonel Letson was but a scant point behind with 32 markers.

BLAIR RIFLE RANGE, North Vancouver, B. C., July 7 (CP)—Captain W. E. Tapley of the Victoria Canadian Scottish, a veteran of many British Columbia Rifle Championship campaigns, called on all his old cunning at the Blair range today to score a 100 out of a possible 105, under very bad range conditions, to carry off top honors in the first stage of the Lieutenant-Governors match, the blue ribbon event of the entire meet.

Capt. Tapley overcame swifching mirage and dazzling light to score 33 at 200 yards, 34 at 500 yards and finished under pressure with a handy 33 at 600 yards for his century. A step behind with 89's came the Esquimalt garrison sharpshooters, Q.M.S. W. B. Mackay and Private H. Thornburn.

Thornburn started out, like a house on fire with a pair of 34's but bogged down at 600 yards and could only post a 31. Mackay was steady with 34 at 200 yards, 33 at 500 yards and 32 at 600 yards.

In the 98 bracket were H. C. Ely of the Rocky Mountain Rangers of Kamloops, Sgt. A. H. Caplin of the Vancouver regiment, C. M. S. Len Willoughby of the Vancouver Seaforths, Corporal G. S. Carr of the Royal Canadian Ordinance Corps of Vancouver and Private J. E. Hutchings of the Victoria Canadian Scottish.

BAN ON WIVES IRKS BRADMAN

Rule Prevents Spouse From Visiting Aussie Cricketer

LONDON, July 7 (CP Cable)—The Australian Cricket Board of Control's insistence on its rule forbidding touring cricketers contact with relatives while abroad is reported to have brought Don Bradman into conflict with that organization.

The board refused the Australian captain's application to have the rule waived to enable Mrs. Bradman to visit him in England. It is understood Bradman, the world's greatest batsman, has threatened to refuse to participate in future tours unless the "no wives" rule is revoked.

MANY "DON'TS" AND "MUSTS"

Australian touring cricketers are required to subscribe to a prodigious list of "don'ts" and "musts" when signing contracts, but the ban on wives and relatives has caused considerable discussion.

Neither Bradman nor his wife have made any public comment on the matter but Australian newspapers are headlining stories dealing with the rift.

The Sydney Sun links the decision with a similar ban put on tennis players some years ago by the Australian Lawn Tennis association. At that time Harry Hopman and Mrs. Hopman were not allowed to stay at the same hotel while in New York.

GASOLINES ARE NOT ALL ALIKE

New formula for Esso and 3-Star
 PROTECTED BY CANADIAN PATENT
 No. 357976

DISSOLVES GUM, FIGHTS CARBON... GIVES EXTRA POWER AND MILEAGE...

To receive a patent from the Canadian Government, a gasoline formula must have new, useful and improved characteristics. The improved Esso and 3-Star do offer a decided advance in efficient motor operation. Both now contain a new solvent which promptly dissolves the gum and other similar materials formed when your engine consumes gasoline and oil. The formation of hard, sticky deposits on your valves and piston rings that rob your engine of power is definitely checked.

These two leading brands of gasoline are now more efficient than ever. No one can duplicate the formula of Esso or 3-Star. No other gasoline can duplicate the performance of these improved motor fuels.

3-STAR This famous gasoline has long been recognized by motorists as a regular-priced gasoline of exceptional quality. Now it contains the patented, gum-absorbing solvent. It means more power, a cleaner engine than ever.

FIESTA

Mexico. Bill had picked it up in a second-hand store in Nogales, Sonora, for a few pesos, the proprietor not realizing its value. Beside the bring a hung a Mexican guitar strung and ready for whomever could play it. (Later it developed that Pablo Rivera could.)

Head-high lamps made of cactus wood stood in the room, one near a coffee table that was a small-scale replica of the two-wheeled Mexican cart or carreta outside.

One chair was of wrought iron; another was a barrel from which a quarter segment had been removed and which had been carved by hand; two others were woven of willow boughs and one rocker had a great ram skin covering it to make it snugly and warm.

One big wall space bore a six-foot carnival poster, lithographed by Parrilla of Seville, it depicted a senorita whose brilliant crimson lips so caught the light as to seem alive in the dark blues and grays of her body and background. A similar poster, by the same distinguished Spanish artist, showed a couple dancing and was done also in striking color arrangement. Bill had found the lithographs in a curio shop in Los Angeles' Mexican quarter.

"They grow on you," said Ellen. "They come to life as you watch them. They set a tone for the whole room."

The living room table had been cut with an adz or similar tool from heavy timbers, its top and massive legs then dressed down and stained to give it a rich mahogany color which miraculously did not show dust. For a centerpiece, Ellen placed there a huge pottery bowl, of solid rust-to-orange hue like a setting sun, and in it arranged no blossoms but an armful of ironwood boughs. Their delicate lacy foliage and thorns, plus their color which was of green olives, made a harmony which was almost breathtaking.

"It is such a beautiful home!" Ellen murmured it reverently, standing with Bill again at the entranceway. "A beautiful home."

"Does it approximate what you wanted?" he asked softly. "You had a dream home. But you never told me much about it."

"I never pictured it very closely, Bill. I just wanted a place that was lovely, and romantic. Where, perhaps, happiness would be invited to live. You understand?"

"Yes. And are you going to name it now?"

"I hadn't thought! Let's do it!"

"You'll have to do it, miss! Not me. I only work her."

"It's such a beautiful home, I don't—" she halted, giving it thought.

"Why don't you name it, so then?" Bill demanded.

"Beautiful home" in Spanish. "Sure. Casa Hermosa, in Spanish."

"Bill, you're a darling!"

"Sure. Been telling people that for years," he spoke laconically, grinning.

"No you really are! I mean, it is. The name. Casa Hermosa. It's euphonious, and it means something. You ought to be a builder, Bill!"

"I'm going to be a cowman, and I'm starting Thursday, since you mention the matter. Here are writing checks on your bank account, young lady. Thursday about noon, a thousand head of darned good stock will be driven into the Gap over yonder. There's yours. Right then you start being a cowgirl whether you like it or not."

"They're various kinds. Here-ferds mostly, but some Shorthorns,
