R. A. F. RIDES SQUALLS; NAZI RAIDS EASE

One Brief Night Attack Over City Quickly Broken Up

Terrific Gunfire Keeps Planes at Outskirts and No Heavy Bombing Reported; Scotland Suffers Raid; Buildings Fall

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 30 (Monday)—(CP Cable)—London's ground defences unleashed their fiercest barrage of the war as Nazi bombers droned over the city during the 23rd successive night-long raid and early today dropped bombs in the central part.

The anti-aircraft barrage effectively screened most of the capital from heavy damage. Only an occasional plane broke through the wall of shells and dropped bombs. Between these attacks there were long periods of quiet.

High explosives and incendiary bombs, including at least one oil bomb, fell in the central area during a lightning attack after midnight. It started a fierce fire that lit up windows in surround blocks. Firemen soon doused the flames, however, after confining them to the one building.

Concussion from blasts ripped through London's deserted streets, carrying storms of shattered glass. Night workers who still were on duty dived under tables, so violently were buildings shaken.

After this one brief attack on Central London the raiders spent the remainder of the night over the metropolis' outer area — kept at bay by the barking anti-aircraft.

Reports from various London districts indicated there was no heavy bombing. Two bombs crashed in a roadway in a Southwestern suburb striking a gas main, but there were no casualties. As a result of the terrific barrage the Germans were driven from the metropolis and attacked towns and villages on the outskirts.

The Nazi raiders were active in other parts of Britain, bombs falling in several places in Southeast Scotland. Tenement houses were damaged and a number of casualties occurred. One old man died of shock. Shops and offices in a Merseyside town were attacked. Bombers also circled the Midlands in a nuisance raid.

In the earlier part of the night one fire was caused by an incendiary bomb but it was quickly extinguished. It appeared to have been caused by a bull's-eye hit on a gas main in a Southwestern suburb.

The raiders resumed their attack on London — for the 23rd consecutive night — after one of the quietest days in aerial warfare in recent weeks.

Apparently still smarting under the beating the Royal Air Force gave them Friday when 133 planes were shot down, the Nazis sent over only a few planes during Sunday. London had two brief alerts but there were few casualties and little damage was reported anywhere in England.

Three enemy bombers were destroyed early Sunday morning, one fouling a balloon cable and crashing into the sea. Fighters downed a second and the third fell to anti-aircraft gunners. During the day four more were downed.

Lone raiders took part in the hit-and-run daylight attacks. Six workmen were killed and six persons seriously injured when an East Anglican coast town was bombed. A workman was killed also when a raid took place on a Southeast coast town.

High explosives were dropped in a Southeast town in the evening demolishing shops, damaging a police station and blowing in the windows of a church and numerous houses.

Military observers said if the Nazis had succeeded in obtaining mastery in the air last Friday there might have been an invasion during the weekend.

These sources said the failure not only forced the Germans to return to the use of single raiders but also may have smashed plans to cross the reasonably smooth Channel under a veil of mist and fog.

Naval circles were reported by the Reuters News Agency Naval Correspondent as being aware that "German preparations are continuing steadily at the French Channel ports" and as believing that an invasion attempt still is a possibility.

Unusually heavy anti-aircraft fire sent clusters of German bombers scampering back to their bases Saturday night and early Sunday in one of the quietest of London's 22 successive dusk-to-dawn air raids.

Many Londoners had left the metropolis for the weekend, seeking to make up for sleep lost during the week in nearby towns and hamlets. For miles around all hotels were reported "full up."

But Londoners who stayed behind were able to get more sleep than usual, as the raiders came over sporadically. Anti-aircraft fire diminished as the night progressed.

Forestry Corps Also to Fight

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP)—While the primary function of the newly-organized Canadian Forestry Corps is the cutting of timber and construction and demolition work, it will be ready to take on the enemy at close range if occasion arises.

A statement from the Department of National Defence Saturday said the "Corps is distinctly a combatant unit, equipped and trained to take its place in any military operation to which it might be called."

Except for two or three of the authorized 20 companies the Corps now is fully recruited and undergoing advanced training in a central camp under its Commander, Brig.-Gen. J. B. White, D.S.O., of Montreal.

Gen. White has been engaged in the forest industry all his life and was director of timber operations in France during the last war.

Late Flashes

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP Cable).—The commander, officers and a number of the crew of the British submarine Shark, reported lost by the Admiralty July 15, are believed to be prisoners of war in Norway.

The parents of Lt.-Cmdr. P. N. Buckley, Commander of the Shark, said they received two letters from him saying he was receiving treatment for wounds in a Norwegian hospital.

FLIER DROWNS IN FALL FROM PLANE

HALIFAX, Sept. 29 (CP).—Lac. D. J. Theobald of Lethbridge, Alta., was drowned on Saturday when he fell from the wing of a Royal Canadian Air Force seaplane which had made a forced landing in Annapolis Basin.

Three other occupants of the plane were unhurt when the machine was compelled to land in the basin of Fort Anne, N. S., through engine trouble.

Lac. Theobald walked out on the wing after the landing and apparently slipped on a patch of oil.

Thousands Moved From Raid Area

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP).—Eleven thousand mothers and children were moved from London to the comparative safety of the countryside during the weekend.

The record exodus in two days raised the number moved since the start of the aerial bombings on the capital to between 75,000 and 100,000.

Most of the women and children were from the poorer districts of the East End where blocks of houses have been wrecked, leaving thousands homeless.

Through intermittent air raids they were taken out of the bombed areas to London railway stations.

Arrangements are being made for many more thousands who are expected to leave daily in the next few weeks.

Gibraltar Is for Spain Says Gayda

ROME, Sept. 29 (AP). — "Restoration" of Gibraltar to Spain is in the Axis' plan for the rearrangement of Europe and Africa, the Fascist editorial spokesman, Virginio Gayda, announced today.

"New talks" in Berlin prove that Spain figures in the "immediate scheme of things," claimed Gayda, who specifically indicated for the first time that Spain, which heretofore has been regarded as only a sympathetic friend like Japan, is now to be considered an active partner in the new Axis lineup.

However, he avoided saying in so many words that Spain will enter the war.

The declaration that Spain is to be rewarded by "acquisition" of the "Rock" which Britain has held for 236 years was made by Gayda as Foreign Minister Ciano started for home after conferences in Berlin with Hitler and Gen. Franco's No. 1 aide, Ramon Serrano Suner.

"Gibraltar is . . . Spanish territory which Spain is redeeming for herself in the new European order," said Gayda.

Training Schools Turnover Large

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (C.P.)—Training schools in Ontario and Quebec are turning out large numbers of men to increase the administration staff of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, the Royal Canadian Air Force disclosed tonight.

An R.C.A.F. statement said personnel of the Empire plan now exceeds 20,000 officers and men. Ultimately, twice this number will be used.

It reported the largest single group of men to have been provided by the technical training school at St. Thomas, Ont.—1428 skilled mechanics and craftsmen of various kinds. The St. Thomas school is turning out 150 more staff men each week.

The statement said the accounting and equipment school at Trenton, Ont., has trained 41 equipment officers, 634 equipment assistants, 60 accounting officers and 300 accounting clerks, and 171 additional men are trained each six weeks.

The school of administration at Trenton has trained 202 administrative officers, and turns out 40 more a month. The Central Flying School there has trained 157 flying instructors, and graduates 70 more every six weeks.

The Trenton Air Armament School has trained 392 armorers and armament officers, and its present output is 48 every three weeks.

YOUTHS FAIL TO SHOW UP FOR EXAMINATIONS

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Sept. 29 (CP)—A considerable number of New Brunswick youths have failed to respond to notices under the National Resources Mobilization Act for them to appear before doctors for medical examination, the registrar at the Provincial Registry Office for compulsory military training said tonight.

Penalties provided in the act, said the Registrar, are "quite severe and it is hoped that any one who has delayed in attending a physician will take immediate steps to prevent proceedings being taken as provided under the act."

British, Americans Confer, Keep Watch on Japan

Japanese troops enter French Indo-China

British strengthen Hong Kong defenses

Singapore is strongest British base in Far East

Anglo-American-Japanese trouble center

Sending by the United States of expert naval observers to Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India has emphasized increasing collaboration of British and American authorities in the Far East. Japanese and U. S. relations are becoming more strained as Japan invades French Indo-China to attack the Chinese on a new front. The invasion came in the face of Secretary of State Cordell Hull's warnings to Japan against disturbing the "status quo" in the Orient. Australia is concerned with the extent of the aid the U. S. navy would give her if attacked by Japan, and there is talk of the American navy's obtaining use of the British base at Singapore, which is the strongest in the Far East.

Halifax Seeks Explanation of Reports 5 Tortured, Rumania

Author Cooper Hangs Himself

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP) — Courtney Ryley Cooper, 53, author and "circus fan no. 1", hanged himself in a closet of a mid-town hotel room Saturday.

Mrs. Cooper could advance no reason for his suicide but told police he had been morose over alleged snubs he had received in Washington when he sought to inform officials of German activities he said he discovered in Mexico.

Cooper's recognition as the leading circus fan in the United States came from many years' association with the "Big Top" and from his many writings on the subject. Born in Kansas City, Mo., and educated in the public schools there, he ran away at an early age to become a circus clown.

Most of Cooper's books and magazine stories concerned two subjects—the circus or crime. Among them were "Memories of Buffalo Bills", with Mrs. Cody; "Circus Day", "Annie Oakley, Woman at Arms".

Among his vast writings were "The Plainsman", "Weary River" and "Wild Cargo".

Urge Representation of Australians in Empire War Council

SYDNEY, Sept. 29 (CP.-Cable).—Australian representation in an Empire War Council in London was demanded today by the military and other Press commentators in discussion of the Dakar incident and the new Italian-German-Japanese pact.

These commentators argued the War Council should be allowed to decide on Empire policy particularly in the conduct of the Middle East campaign.

The Australian Imperial Force has been stationed in Egypt and spokesmen argued it is up to Australia to see her soldiers are used to best advantage.

Although the Government of Prime Minister Menzies, consistent in support of British war policy, has remained silent on the question, A. G. Cameron leader of the Pro-Government Country Party publicly suggested formation of an Empire War Cabinet, asserting: "We were driven to that in the last war and it looks as if we'll be driven to it in this war."

118 Children Land

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT Sept. 29 (CP). — Officials of the Council for Overseas Children announced today that 118 British children arrived here last night and will entrain for New York tomorrow morning.

The children brought over here by the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, came out as private passengers and were not evacuated under the British Goverment's scheme.

Canadian, 4 Britons of Oil Company Jailed

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP Cable).—Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax today demanded explanations from Rumanian authorities of reports that a Canadian mining engineer and four Britons had been detained in a Bucharest jail and ill-treated.

The name of the Canadian was given here as Tracey, but no further identification was possible. Tracey had an assistant named Anderson, also arrested, but it is not known whether he is a Canadian.

(A Toronto dispatch said the Canadian might have been Capt. John Tracey, a native of Chatham, Ont., who went to Rumania at the head of an engineering party to report on British-owned oil fields. Ottawa dispatches said the Department of External Affairs had cabled the Canadian High Commissioner in London for further information concerning Treacy or Tracey.

(Bucharest dispatches said Sunday that the Canadians and the Britons were charged with plotting to adulterate gasoline consigned to Germany).

Official sources in London said Mrs. Tracey, who was arrested also, had not been ill-treated, as far as they could find out.

According to these sources the men, employed in the Romano-Americano Oil Company, were arrested on charges of sabotage and had been beaten brutally in jail. One of the men, it was understood, had had his arms pulled from their sockets.

Lord Halifax voiced his protest to the Rumanian Charge d'Affaires, Radu Florescu, and called for an explanation of the arrests.

The British Consul in Bucharest was allowed to see the men only after long delays, it was stated. He was not allowed to question them, but he reported that they could only speak in whispers and were unable to furnish a coherent account of their treatment.

The men were alleged to have signed "confessions" after extended torture. The arrests were made by pro-Nazi Iron Guard and some observers in London were led to believe the incident was the result of German provocation.

Liner Survivors Land in Britain

A NORTHERN BRITISH PORT, Sept. 29 (CP Cable).—Survivors of the 3802-ton Donaldson liner Sulairia, torpedoed Sept. 23 by a U-boat, were landed on the weekend.

One of the crew, J. Curran, of Sligo, Eire, was killed outright. The other survivors were picked up by a British warship after drifting in lifeboats for 24 hours.

Nearly all of the crew were Scottish.

TRAIL COUPLE TAKES OUT LICENCE TO WED

WALLACE, Idaho, Sept. 29 (CP).—A marriage licence was issued to Michael O'Donoughy and Margaret Kirby, both of Trail, B. C.

87 Survivors of Torpedoing Safe

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 29 (CP.-Cable) — A little tramp steamer came into port Saturday with 87 survivors from two ships sunk in the Atlantic by German torpedoes.

The seamen said the lost ships were the British freighters Blairangus and Elm-bank.

Sailors from one of the vessels told how the German submarine that sank their ship had shelled its lifeboats after it was abandoned. The captain was killed by gunfire.

He was the only casualty of that ship, but five men on the second vessel were killed when the torpedo struck. Six others were injured, one so badly he died just before the rescue ship entered harbor.

The captain of this ship said one torpedo hit it, smashing into the crew's quarters. No one on the vessel saw the submarine.

The ship stayed afloat long enough to give the survivors plenty of time to get off safely, he said. They took to the boats at two o'clock in the morning, and drifted for eight hours before the rescue vessel appeared.

Russia Knew of Axis Alliance

MOSCOW, Sept. 30 (Monday)—(AP).—The Soviet News Agency Tass, quoting an editorial in the newspaper Pravda today, said that Russia was informed in advance of the triple Axis alliance and that it "does not represent anything particularly unexpected for the Soviet Union."

Pravda, Communist party organ, in the first editorial reaction to the pact among Germany, Italy and Japan, said "this doubtlessly means a further aggravation of the war and expansion of its realm."

"The pact does not represent anything particularly unexpected for the Soviet Union both because it constitutes in effect the embodiment of relations already formed between Germany, Italy and Japan on the one hand and England and the United States on the other hand, and because the Soviet Government had been informed by the German Government about the impending conclusion of the tri-partite pact before it was published."

Four Canadians of Royal Air Force Die

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP Cable).—Four Canadians were included in the Royal Air Force's 47th casualty list, issued tonight, which contained 337 names of which 23 were killed in action and 102 were missing.

The Canadians were:

PO. K. M. Sclanders of Saint John, N. B., killed in action;

PO George R. Holyoke of Fredericton, N. B., killed in active service;

PO. A. C. Denison of Vernon, B. C., missing;

PO. J. Benzie of Winnipeg, missing and believed killed in action.

Power Stations at Berlin Are Blasted; Munitions Fired

Naval Base, Warship-Building Berths Hit and Big Fires Seen; German-Held Areas Raided 216 Times

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (Monday) (AP).—An air raid early today broke the sleep of Berliners, but no planes were heard over the city. Defence batteries remained silent.

The all clear signal sounded an hour and 50 minutes after the first alarm.

LONDON, Sept. 30 (Monday) (CP Cable).—Through a dark, squally night people on the British side of the Channel early today saw distant flashes of bursting bombs and anti-aircraft fire — sign that Royal Air Force bombers had ventured forth despite the bad weather to renew their pounding of trans-Channel ports.

The raid extended for many miles and the flashes and anti-aircraft fire seemed to be particularly heavy in the Boulogne region.

The British Broadcasting Corporation, summarizing such raids, said last night that the German-held portion of the continent has been hammered no less than 216 times during the last three months.

The B.B.C. breakdown of raids said that German ports were attacked 77 times, French 76, Belgian 37 and Netherlands 26. Boulogne, German-held French port was attacked 24 times; Ostend, Belgium, 22 times and Calais, France, 20 times.

The newst raid on the continental bases came after R.A.F. long-distance bombers flew 600 miles through thick weather during the weekend to bomb Berlin power stations, the so-called invasion ports of France, and left a munitions work at Hanau, near Frankfort an "inferno of flames", the Air Ministry said.

Some of Germany's most vital railway centres and airdromes were attacked, an Air Ministry statement said, and severe damage was inflicted on the Wilhelmshaven naval base.

Lorient and its warship-building berths on the South Brittany coast of France were singled out for the second time for special attack after Friday night's extension of anti-invasion blows to that place were reported to have left fires visible for 80 miles.

Le Havre, Fecamp, Boulogne, Calais and Dunkerque also were heavily bombed, as were "big Bertha" emplacements at Cap Gris Nez.

The West power station in Berlin and the main transformer and switching station at Friedrichsfelde were bombed by high explosive and incendiary missiles which burst close to their targets, the Air Ministry news service said.

The large munition factory at Hanau, which produces metal alloys for airplanes, torpedo and submarine parts, and bronze bearings for variable pitch propellors was bombed for nearly four hours in a series of high-level and shallow-dive attacks.

Great explosions and fires from direct hits on the factory buildings by the vanguard of the raiders led their squadron mates to the targets which were repeatedly straddled with "sticks" of high explosives.

One large rectangular building, its roof caved in from previous blasts, was reported enveloped in billowing flames, and great clouds of smoke from other fires in the same area towered thousands of feet into the air, pilots said.

"The place was a blazing inferno," related one of the last pilots to leave the scene.

The rear gunner of another bomber reported he had seen the reflection of the fire in the sky when he was 80 miles away on his homeward course.

FREIGHTER SINKS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 29 (AP). — The freighter Alice Tebb sank 100 miles Northeast of Jacksonville in the Atlantic Saturday, Coast Guard Divisional Headquarters announced.

The 20-man crew of the Tebb, a 2426 ton wooden steamer, was taken aboard the steamer Samuel Q. Brown before the Tebb sank, radio messages from the Brown said.

ITALIAN TRUCK CONVOY BOMBED

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 29 (AP).—A night attack on an Italian truck convoy, 15 miles West of Bardia, Libya, and the bombing of Italian positions at Fort Maddalena were announced today in a Royal Air Force bulletin.

A salvo of bombs fell a few yards from the leading trucks in the desert attack near Bardia, the announcement said. Mechanical transport concentrations Southwest of Sidi Barrani, Egypt, also were bombed Saturday night.

It was announced Saturday that bombers had attacked military objectives in the Giarabub area of Libya, scoring many direct hits.

Giarabub, near the Egyptian frontier, is about 200 miles inland from the Mediterranean coast. British pilots singled out the Italian fort there and also attacked a motor-ized concentration 25 miles North.

Many fires and explosions followed the attack on the stationary transports.

One Italian plane that rose to attack the British was shot down, and the R. A. F. lost one plane.

British headquarters disclosed a number of French soldiers who came here to continue the war after France collapsed were serving in the Western desert against the Italians. There also is a "large French reserve" in Egypt ready to take the field when training is completed.

Says Madagascar Refused De Gaulle

VICHY, France, Sept. 29 (AP).—The Governor-General of French Madagascar, off the East coast of Africa, informed the Petain Government today he has been ordered to align the colony with the "Free France" movement of Gen. Charles De Gaulle or Britain would cut the island off by blockade.

The report from the Governor-General, Leon Cayla, was enclosed by the Colonial Ministry.

Governor Cayla assured the Vichy Government, a communique stated, that he had refused the British demands.

He added that no signs of threatened action had yet been observed.

(Madagascar lies in the Indian Ocean and is separated from the Southeast coast of Africa by the Mozambique Channel. It has a coast line of more than 3000 miles and a population of roughly 4,000,000 including the people of Mayotte and Comoro Islands.

(Madagascar and its island dependencies were declared a French colony August 6, 1896).

Bomber Fund Is Boosted $125 by Three New Gifts

One individual's check for $25, contributed by "R.H.J." and two $50 checks representing group contributions — one from the Forest Branch staff and the other from Nelson Daily News employees — made up the $125.

Said "R.H.J." in a letter accompanying his check: "Hoping the fund is not held up till a plane can be bought, as the need is now, and not a year hence."

SOLDIERS' VOTE FAVORS LABOR TO THIN AUSTRALIA GOV'T. MAJORITY

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Sept. 29 (CP Cable). — The vote of Australia's soldiers overseas has swung the pendulum in Australia's recent election to the side of Labor, and narrowed the majority of Prime Minister Menzies to two, perhaps three, in the House of Representatives.

Eight seats still are doubtful and Labor needs five of these to deprive the Government of a working majority. Observers concede Labor the chance of winning four of the doubtful seats and a 50-50 chance to obtain the fifth.

Greatest surprise in the weekend count of the soldiers' vote was the election of Labor Leader John Curtin.

Mr. Menzies is expected to renew his invitation to Labor to join in a coalition but though some Labor members favor acceptance, the majority still seem opposed.

In view of the close vote the Australian press today demanded formation of a National Government in order to push the Australian war effort. Before the election the Country Party and the United Australian had formed a Government coalition which Labor refused to join.

Observers predict on the basis of present returns that the Government will have 35 or 36 seats, Labor 34 or 35 and Independents three.

Combines Take Trophy by Whipping Sheep Creek in Fight-Filled Final

SALMO, B. C., Sept. 29 — The final game of the lacrosse series was played in Salmo Rink Friday night with the Second Relief-Salmo Combines winning the Sheep Creek Dairy Trophy from the last year's winner, the Sheep Creek Bombers, 12-7.

Guy Cawley of the Combines, led the players in points by scoring four goals and two assists. Nick John, his teammate, collected two goals and three assists.

FEENEY, BAD BOY

B. Feeney of the Bombers, was the bad boy of the game, spending 12 minutes in the cooler. In the first period Phillip and Feeney were given five minutes each for fighting. Near the end of the third period Feeney was again in a fight, this time with Bohan, but it ended in a free-for-all with most of the spectators in on it.

Keith Younger was given a five minute penalty for accidentally cutting John above the eye with his stick.

Three Squadrons of R.C.A.F. Men Ready for Nazis

OTTAWA, (CP). — An all-Canadian air force establishment of two squadrons will probably be attached to Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's army corps. This is expected to happen when the corps becomes the "Canadian Corps"—probably in a few months when the 2nd Division completes its training and joins the 1st Division.

Canadian airmen have already gained laurels in the battle of Britain, but many of them as members of the Royal Air Force. While one squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force battles the enemy over London skies, two others stand ready for action in support of the Canadian land forces when and if the Germans land on British soil or the Canadians move out to fight on continental battlefields.

The three R.C.A.F. squadrons went overseas as units complete with all categories of trained personnel and took aircraft and equipment with them. Two are army co-operation squadrons, one to be attached to each Division and the third is a fighter outfit, commanded by Squadron Leader Ernest McNab of Regina. These men have already made headlines with their success against the Nazi raiders.

Canadians in the R. A. F. are for the most part men who went overseas before the war, many of them working their way across in cattle boats and taking other means of getting into what was then the expected fight.

Squadron Leader Douglas Bader, D.S.O., who lost both legs in a crackup before the war, is the English chief of an "all-Canadian" squadron of the R. A. F. which includes a large number of lads from Canada.

The first R. C. A. F. squadron to reach Britain was the army co-operation unit under command of Squadron Leader Wilbur Van Vleit of Winnipeg. They went overseas in February to serve with the 1st Division.

These army co-operation squadrons and a fighter squadron consist of something in the neighborhood of 400 men each and for the cooperation work squadron strength ranges upwards from 15 planes.

The army co-operation squadrons are the eyes of the ground forces. They scout out the enemy territory and advise the ground forces and in addition may be used for bomb work or ground strafing.

Ordinarily one air force army co-operation squadron is assigned to assist an army division on active service.

Canada's second army co-operation squadron and the fighter squadron moved across at the time of the German push through the Low Countries. This army cooperation squadron is under the command of Squadron Leader William Clements of North Devon, N.B., and is expected to serve with the 2nd Canadian Division now completing its training overseas.

Canadian air operations overseas are under the general supervision of Air Commodore L. F. Stevenson, formerly of Regina, who recently succeeded Air Commodore G. V. Walsh as air officer commanding overseas headquarters of the R.C.A.F. Air Commodore Stevenson in turn reports to Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, Chief of Air Staff, in Ottawa.

Food Difficult to Obtain in Paris

By ROBERT OKIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Sept. 25 (Via Berlin, delayed) (AP). — A true picture of Paris under German occupation in 1940 would have as one of its main panels a view of a food queue and one of a ration card.

Frenchmen say that never since the famine of 1870 has it been so difficult to obtain food in Paris.

This one-time capital of good food has felt in its stomach the lack of transportation and the shattering of its economy.

When butter and oil disappeared French cooks were baffled. They might have been able to get something to cook, but they did not know how to cook it.

Other staples such as cheese, eggs, and coffee, disappeared, and rice, spaghetti, milk, chocolate and salt were scarce.

The food-card system was conceded by most people to be fair but, like so many French measures, it tends to be complicated.

Lines form for everything now. Hundreds fall in before coffee bars to get breakfast. Stores selling chocolate bars always have a huge audience on the days they are permitted to open. Crowds of people swinging tin pails or clutching empty bottles means somewhere ahead is either a dairy or a wine shop.

The lines always are three or four persons thick.

Restaurants thus far have managed to get sufficient food and those who eat out have been lucky, but new restrictions go into effect for them next month.

On the four days a week it may be sold, French pastry seems plentiful. One famous pastry and chocolate shop (Sherrys) sells ice cream and one can even get ice cream sodas and sundaes.

Lobsters, oysters and shell fish arrive almost daily and vintage wines can be bought either at stores or restaurants.

Ordinary "vin rouge," however, which French homes buy by the liter (about a quart) for a few francs has become difficult to get.

Potatoes also are hard to get.

Food rules which came in during the war — beef only four days a week, two days without meat, three days without pastry, ice cream or liquor—still are in force.

Maritimes Form Lecture Theme

Nelsonites of Maritime Province nativity or extraction were prominent in the audience that greeted J. M. Humphrey's travelogue on the Maritimes, at the Canadian Legion Saturday night.

The colored pictures thrown on the screen by Mr. Humphrey, who manipulated the slides as he lectured, showed the beautiful landscapes and seascapes that characterize all three Maritime Provinces, the wealth of apple bloom in the Annapolis Valley, the tidal bore of the Penobscot River in New Brunswick, the exquisite colors of the maple woods in the autumn, the reversing falls of the Kennebeccasis, the yachts that like white clouds fleck many sheets of water in the Maritimes—including the tidal waters of Prince Edward Island—and beaches, gardens, institutions of learning, and historic monuments galore.

Mr. Humphrey, after the evening was spent with the Maritimes, rounded off his lecture with a few pictures from the Eastern and Central Provinces, and some of the majestic British Columbia scenery.

F. A. Jewett, on behalf of the Nelson Maritime Club, under whose auspices the lecture was given, acted as chairman and introduced the lecturer.

Two Fined $5 for Failing to Drill

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 29 (CP). —Two members of the Non-Permanent Active Militia were fined $5 each in court Saturday for failing to attend drill.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP). — Fining of two members of the Non-Permanent Active Militia $5 for not attending scheduled drill is in line with militia regulations it was said tonight at National Defence Headquarters.

Where enlisted men of the N. P. A. M. absent themselves without leave from drills, regulations provide for court action and the imposition of a fine of $5 for each offence, it was said.

MINERS LAID OFF AT MICHEL MINES

NATAL, B. C. — After working steady time for a year the Michel mines went on slack time two weeks ago when 107 men were layed off. In the meantime the number was swelled when one shift off the tipple was also layed off. The majority of the men had been employed in the A. Seam mine which went on one shift. The lay-off was worked on the seniority basis with the men last hired being the first to go.

Radio Program Calls for Aid to Red Cross

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP).—Hollywood's brightest stars joined Prime Minister King and the Dionne quintuplets tonight in an inspiring radio program staged for the Red Cross emergency appeal for $5,000,000 to aid British air raid victims.

British and Canadian motion picture actors drew on the works of English writers from Shakespeare, down through Kipling to Noel Coward to emphasize England's indomitable spirit in her present plight.

Don Clark Wins Golf Championship; Mrs. Andrews Takes Handicap Trophy

Don Clark is men's champion of the Nelson Golf and Country Club. Mrs. Rea Andrews is winner of the Blanche Pollard Trophy, ladies' handicap tournament prize.

Both rose to these positions over the weekend by virtue of respective triumphs in finals of the men's Club Championship tournament and in the ladies' Blanche Pollard Trophy handicap tournament.

Cutting loose "coming home" on the last nine, Clark overtook his finalist opponent S. A. Maddocks and won the deciding match two and one. Maddocks opened fire early in the game and as a result held a three hole lead at the ninth. Clark, however, proceeded to win the tenth and twelfth to cut the lead to one. On the thirteenth Clark's tee shot squared the match when he just missed a hole in one. With the match square, Clark took the fourteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth to win two and one. It was one of the closest matches of the tourney.

Maddocks won his way to the final Wednesday by eking out a win on the eighteenth green over semi-finalist Elmer Carrothers.

WINS ON NINETEENTH

Mrs. Andrews won her trophy on the nineteenth. Making good use of her handicap strokes, she carried a lead over Mrs. B. Townshend throughout the final until the eighteenth hole, when her opponent squared the match. They went on to the nineteenth, and Mrs. Andrews won.

During the week Mrs. J. B. Stark defeated Mrs. A. H. Allan to take the final of the handicap first flight.

Mrs. A. Lapointe, Pioneer Nelson Resident, Passes

Mrs. Georgina Lapointe, who with her pioneer husband, Adolph Lapointe, first saw Nelson as a small mining camp in 1895, and this District in 1892, died at her home at 818 Vernon Street Sunday. Her death followed a long illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Lapointe February 10 marked their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Married to the pioneer hotelman and brick-builder, Adolph Lapointe, in St. Helens, Que., in 1885, Mrs. Lapointe with her husband resided in Idaho, at Phillipsburg, Mont., Spokane and Montesano, Wash., before coming to this district. It was in 1892 that Mr. Lapointe was brought into the area to make bricks for the Pilot Bay Smelter. Following a near three-year residence there, Mr. and Mrs. Lapointe moved to Nelson, where Mr. Lapointe erected and operated the Grand Central Hotel and later a boarding house before they went to Vancouver to operate the Ottawa Hotel. After 18 months there and three and a half years in Kamloops they returned to Nelson and Mr. Lapointe purchased the Queen's Hotel, of which he is proprietor now. They have resided here continuously for 33 years.

Mrs. Lapointe was born in St. Helena, Que., which was also her husband's birthplace. She was a member of the Church of Mary Immaculate and prior to her illness was actively associated with the Altar Society. She was 77 years of age at the time of her death.

Five children were born to the pioneer couple, the first dying when but an infant in Idaho, and a daughter, Mrs. W. M. Mills of Missoula, Mont., about four years ago.

Her husband, aged 84; two sons, George and Arthur; and a daughter Mrs. Bruno Bourgeois, all of Nelson, survive.

Dakar Retreat Draws Criticism

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP Cable).—The Allied retreat from Dakar drew blistering comment from the Sunday papers, whose criticism exceeded in length and violence the critical editorials of the Daily Press after the expedition was abandoned.

Papers varying from the staid Sunday Times to the tabloid Sunday Pictorial demanded an explanation and investigation.

Editor John Gordon of the Sunday Express wrote:

"The tragedy of it is not the loss of Dakar, which doesn't matter a great deal, or even the momentary loss of prestige in Africa, but the shock of discovering that just when we thought we had eliminated all those quainter ideas of warmaking which nearly destroyed us in the first year, we have them all on parade again as fresh and lively as ever."

In a column-long editorial the Pictorial declared:

"Dakar has entertained the world to yet another display of that imbecilic, blistering muddling which has damned every foreign campaign to which we have so far set our hand. In the days of Mr. Chamberlain the defeat of Dakar would have evoked profound resentment. . . . It is Parliament duty to probe this escapade. And it will be Mr. Churchill's duty to remove the responsible men."

Vernon Organizes for Hockey Season

VERNON, B. C., Sept. 29 (CP).—With a new executive at the controls, Vernon Hockey Club, last year's Coy Cup winners, plan a Winter campaign in the North Okanagan League which they hope will lead again to the intermediate trophy.

The new executive consists of W. H. Hayward, President; G. W. Griffiths, Secretary, and T. E. Yuill, J. G. Strother, Fred Smith, Bill Nelson and Alderman David Howrie executive members.

Most of last year's Coy Cup team is intact and plans are being made to fill whatever vacancies there are on the lineup. Chief need is for defencemen.

Suggest China Should Be Aided

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP). — The Foreign Policy Association said today the prolonged struggle with China had "deprived Japan of the economic margin necessary to cover a large-scale conflict with a third power."

This opinion was expressed in a report written by T. A. Bisson of the staff of the Private Research Organization.

The military and economic resources of Japan, the report said, are "heavily mortgaged for the campaign in China, in which roughly one million troops, a considerable proportion of its shipping, and much of its air force are engaged."

The report said China is "the major ally, the first line of defence, of the Western powers in Asia" and added:

"Successful defence of their positions in that region may well turn on the ability of these powers to find means of extending effective assistance to China."

Carlson Tops In Medal Sweep Golf

After a layoff during the Fall tournament season, the popular weekly medal sweep came back to the Nelson Golf and Country Club Sunday, Carl Carlson captured first prize, carding a 67-4—63 net, three under par; while second prizes went to William Blane and Walter Duckworth, who tied with net 64's. Blane's score was 79-15—64 and Duckworth's 71-7—64.

Club guests over the weekend included Norman Chapman, C. C. Nevison, O. H. Gernaey, Gordon Livingston, W. G. Quast and E. Jandrell, Vancouver; H. Barnes, Miss M. F. Smith, Victoria; D. Henderson, Kelowna; J. Tier, New Denver; T. S. Hurst, Queen's Bay; and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Anderson, Trail.

Kimberley, Trail May Lose Men to Pro Hockey Ranks

Kimberley and Trail Senior Hockey Clubs both face possible loss of two men to the pro ranks this year, but in each case the loss may be narrowed down or even wiped out.

Trail's Joe Benoit, who had his tryout with Montreal Canadiens last year and was regarded as a likely prospect, is away to training camp again. Morris Duffy, newly recruited by Trail from Yorkton Terriers, with whom he burned up scorer's sheets last season, has left for the New York Americans' school at Port Arthur.

Chicago Black Hawks are reaching out for Davy McKay, the sensational Alberta Varsity defenceman who replaced Harry Brown at Edmonton last season while Harry was in the East for army training. McKay, regarded as the most-likely-to-succeed amateur in Alberta last season, went to Kimberley early in the year and the Dynamiters have been almost praying for him to stay with them this Winter. Dynamiters also have a former Yorkton Terrier lad, Frank (Sully) Sullivan, who has been beckoned by Cleveland Indians but who is not completely enthusiastic about going.

Among Kimberley recruits is "Curly" Hunt, last year with Gonzaga. Nelson has two new men on hand and a third en route—the club hopes.

Diplomats Given Air Power View

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP).—The United States paraded hundreds of warplanes before foreign diplomats Saturday in a demonstration which President Roosevelt explained was "just a gratifying flexing of the kind of fighting muscle democracy can and does produce."

The unheralded and impressive display of airpower came by coincidence or otherwise, close on the heels of the German-Italian-Japanese pact—interpreted by many as aimed at United States.

The representatives of these and other powers had been invited to attend ceremonies in connection with a cornerstone laying at the new $13,000,000 Washington airport—told only that Mr. Roosevelt would make an address and that some transport planes would land.

But they had no more than settled into their seats when from all directions came roaring flights of army and navy warplanes—trim pursuit ships and huge bombers, circling and wheeling. Altogether, officials said, there were 240 army planes and 168 navy and marine craft.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy.

U.S. Must Redouble Aid to Britain If Totalitarians' Plans to Be Defeated

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (CP)—"The United States has time, still, to block the plans of the totalitarian combine," says the New York Post in an editorial yesterday commenting on the German-Italian-Japanese alliance.

The Post names "three imperative steps that should be taken at once:

"We should redouble our efforts to aid the British with the essential supplies they must have, first to halt and later to hurl back the Nazi hordes in Europe. We urge the President and Congress, if congressional action be necessary, to make available larger deliveries of munitions, tanks, guns, and, above all, planes.

"We must increase our aid to China so that the Chinese will be able to make an even more effective resistance to the Japanese attack. If need be, Congress should appropriate additional funds to the export-import bank so that this agency can extend new loans to the Chinese people.

"We call upon President Roosevelt to take immediate steps to break off all trade relations with Japan. Not one more shipload of goods of any kind should sail from our shores or be admitted from those of such a potential enemy. Japan must be deprived of the means to obtain weapons with which to destroy."

"Germany, Italy and Japan, even if they dared, cannot strike against the Americas now, the Post says. "So long as the British Empire stands . . . so long as the British Fleet controls the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, the totalitarian armies cannot hope to attack."

"There was a time when it became apparent that our civilization in these United States could not survive half slave and half free. That time has come in the world. We must act, firmly, freely and promptly for freedom lest it be too late."

Germans Claim Success in Air

BERLIN, Sept. 29 (AP) — The text of the German High Command communique Saturday:

"The Air Force's raids carried out Friday with strength were directed primarily against port facilities, docks, factories, power plants, and gas works in London and Southern England as well as troop camps. The port of London and Bristol were especially heavily bombarded.

"Extended blazes and heavy explosions indicated success everywhere. In Central England we succeeded in hitting disastrously an armament plant with the heaviest calibre bombs. Long-range batteries again took Dover under fire, damaging three armed merchant ships anchored in the harbor.

"Later it was observed that two of the ships sank. Battle planes attacked a strongly protected convoy off North Ireland and sank a 5000-ton merchant vessel by a square hit.

"Strong nocturnal retaliatory attacks were concentrated on war-essential objectives in London and Liverpool. In the course of Sept. 27 numerous hectic airfights developed in which 101 British planes were downed. Thirty eight of our own planes are missing.

"Minesweepers attacked a British submarine with depth charges. The vessel's destruction was probable."

"EAST INDIES WILL NEVER ACCEPT FOREIGN POWER LEADERSHIP"

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Netherlands Colonial Press declared yesterday that these islands never will accept the leadership of any foreign power. Air Station at Dartmouth, N. S., Group Capt. Cowley will proceed to Regina as Air Officer Commanding No. 4 Training Command.

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP Cable) — Award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to three Canadian members of the Royal Air Force who have been helping keep Hitler's invasion forces on the other side of the channel and the North Sea was announced yesterday by the Air Ministry.

Acting Sqdn-Ldr. John Fulton of Kamloops, B. C., P. O., Clare Arthur Hovendon Connor of Toronto, and P.O. Wilfred John (Mike) Lewis were named officially as the latest Canadian additions to the prized air force honors list.

Lewis, from Welcome, Ont., and Connor received their awards for attacks on Antwerp while Fulton won his as the result of a raid on Brussels.

KAMLOOPS, B. C., Sept. 27 (CP) — Acting Sqdn. Ldr. John Fulton of the Royal Air Force, awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for gallantry during bombing operations, comes from a distinguished British Columbia family.

His mother is the daughter of the late Hon. Alexander E. B. Davie of Victoria and his father was the late F. J. Fulton, K. C., member of Parliament for Yale-Cariboo during the Unionist Government of the first Great War and before that a member of the Provincial Legislature for nine years.

French Villagers Sheltered Canadian

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—Rev. Mr. Mackie and family were leaving the Federation headquarters in Geneva via France when the French capitulated.

He said an "ominous" silence settled on the French village after the German occupation. There were no newspapers, telephones, telgraph or radio, no trains and no gasoline for cars.

"It seemed as if we were in an unreal world, distinct from the one we had known until that time, but the whole of France was the same and, to a large degree, is the same now."

Mr. Mackie said he and his family finally escaped from France through Spain and Portugal. He is here to continue the work of the Federation.

To Ask Restriction of Japanese Business

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29 (CP)—Alderman Halford Wilson said yesterday he will ask the City Council Monday to seek at the forthcoming session of the Provincial Legislature power to restrict to a fixed percentage the number of Japanese in any trade or business in Vancouver.

Similar applications in the past have been unsuccessful. Alderman Wilson expressed the belief a new attempt for such legislation was warranted by the signature of the Tokyo-Rome-Berlin pact.

He will also suggest to City Council Monday they ask the Federal Government to place "Japanese corner store merchants and their Canadian customers" under surveillance of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

Indo-China Post Bombed by a Plane

HANOI, French Indo-China, Sept. 29 (AP).—Authorities of French Indo-China asserted yesterday that a Thai (Siamese) plane machine-gunned a native constabulary post 45 miles within the Indo-China frontier yesterday morning.

Military Recruits Find Experience in Army Camps Is a "Bit of All Right"

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—Militia camp is like golf— a sure developer of the cuss-word vocabulary but great stuff just the same.

About 100,000 young men tasted army life in non-permanent active militia camps across Canada this Summer and next month the first draft of 30,000 21-year-olds start a month's camp experience under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

The militia lads learned fast (1) to drill acceptably with and without rifles; (2) to cuss the corporals who dish out fatigue duties—under your breath boys, always under your breath; (3) to wash dishes, wash pans, peel potatoes, scrub carrots; (4) to admire the military technique generally.

They returned home with a working knowledge of housekeeping, care-taking, kitchen mechanics, trench-digging, bayoneting, rifle-shooting, field manoeuvres, scouting and camouflage, first-aid treatment, measures to combat poison gases, anti-aircraft fire and anti-tank fire.

They found the food generally good. Not many have since sworn off beef stew because the Army makes a good stew. Tent life suited most of them. The word from all camps is that the grumblers were those who performed rather indifferently on the parade ground.

Some of them learned to throw a salute a captain might envy. They all know every commissioned officer must be saluted and that, while he doesn't rate a salute, the sergeant-major is addressed as "sir" whereas the sergeant is just called sergeant.

Most of the 100,000 militia recruits didn't know a palliasse from a kitchen detail three weeks before they went into camp. The civilian may be interested to know that a palliasse is a straw-filled mattress. It's rolled out on the tent floor and slept on. The Army sees to it that you are tired enough to enjoy the sleep.

The boys were up before dawn—at 6 a.m., in Summer and 6:30 in early Fall. They wielded razors in the semi-darkness and were all washed and fed and had tents in order before 8.30. Then they went to work on the parade grounds until 4:30. The twice-a-week drill on their return home seemed easy by comparison.

It was a stimulating experience in every way. Hundreds of the lads were at Camp Niagara, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., from Sept. 9 to 21 have already forgiven the corporal and have expressed willingness to enlist on call with the Canadian Active Service Force.

NO KITCHEN FATIGUE DUTY

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP). — Working on the kitchen fatigue helping the cook to prepare meals and wash dishes, will be removed for men called up for compulsory militia training under the Mobilization Act it was stated at Defence headquarters yesterday.

When the first 30,000 men go to training centres on Oct. 9, permanent staffs will be in readiness to look after the kitchen duties.

"We are anxious that the men concentrate on military training during the 30 days they are at the training centres," a Defence officer stated.

Man Takes Rap In Jilting Game

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

After we had been going together for five years my girl left town. We corresponded regularly for a while and I visited her as often as possible. Finally our dates were not as they used to be. It was my fault no doubt but anyhow I gradually faded out of the picture. She wrote me a letter and told me she realized we had drifted apart but added that if I ever had that old feeling for her to let her know. Since then she has found somebody else and she is spreading the news around among our friends that she gave me the air. This is pretty hard to take when it's so far from the truth. Up to now I have managed to keep my mouth shut but am getting to the end of my gallantry. What is a man supposed to do when a girl takes such an unfair advantage of him?

A.M.D.

Answer:

Under such circumstances a man is supposed to be gallant to the bitter end, give nothing away, grin and bear the embarrassment, if any. Not because his ex-girl deserves it but because it puts him in a good position before his public. Traditionally a man takes the rap in the jilting game and if he refuses to take the rap, other men are contemptuous of him and girls are wary of him. So while it is poor sportsmanship on the girl's part to put him in this unfair position it is expedient for him to stay where she put him.

Here, incidentally, is one of the rare instances where the girl has an apparent advantage over the man. Yet ironically enough even when the girl claims she gave the air to the boy friend and when he by his silence gives consent to the tale, the real truth, like murder, generally outs; for a girl whose heart and pride are hurt usually squeals and gives it away.

More irony: A man courts a girl and loses her and in time everybody forgets it. But let a poor girl lose a fiance by the jilting route and as long as she lives—even down to old age—there's somebody to tell you about her disappointment. In view of all this, why should a man hesitate to hold his tongue when his ex-girl says she gave him the air?

Home Life in the Army and Navy

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

To the many youths who are entering the army and navy, let me say a few words.

I know something about the experiences you will have, for I served in the U. S. Army during the first World War. For most of you it will be a very different life from that to which you have been accustomed. Yet your home training will reveal itself continually.

The first thing that you will observe is that you must learn obedience. Some things you must do, or ont do. At times you will resent the authority over you and will resist it. This will be foolish as you will soon discover. It will make you unhappy and get you into a heap of trouble.

GOOD ADVICE

I shall never forget the advice Prof. A. T. Poffenberger, eminent psychologist who already had been in uniform about a month, gave me as he walked with me from the railway station to the barracks. Said he, "You are in the army now, Garry, try to fit into the machine and make the most of it. Forget your personal pride. Learn to be a good soldier."

Many were the times when I recalled that good advice, especially when some officer with very little formal education but considerable military wisdom and skill lorded it over me. Though I still suffered occasionally, I was able to take it most of the time.

There will be times when a sergeant or commissioned officer will appear to be brutal to you. He may go out of his way to remind you of his authority. But if you always remember that you can do nothing about it but adapt yourself and make the most of it, you easily can reserve your inner pride and self-respect while still proving obedient. Remember it is the institution you are obeying and honoring rather than the person.

BORN BOSSES

It might help you as it helped me, to observe at times how very funny some people bossing us around can be. See that you are different when you become an officer!

Once you get the hang of things and learn the alphabet of drill and military courtesy and customs, it will grow easier and easier. Then you will have abundant time to dream pleasant daydreams.

Whether in the army or navy, you will have good opportunity to read and study, to improve your education. Doing so and learning well the skills of being a good soldier or sailor your chances for promotion will be good. Many a youth has worked himself up from the ranks and become a high grade officer. A certain colonel I know and admire, I knew when he was in high school. Only an average student there, he kept plodding day after day, week after week, month after month at correspondence available to him, rising through his own persistent application.

Write home regularly. Resolve not to gamble but to save your money and to spend it wisely. Stick to the good habits and ideals you learned from your father and mother. Hold to your religion. Through them you can win a vast deal of satisfaction. In the army or navy you will meet many men of fine character. Cultivate their friendship. Keep striving and climbing, my young friend, and good luck.

Hints for Housewives

By BETSY NEWMAN

TODAY'S MEN

Pot Roast of Beef
Boiled or Mashed Potatoes
Cream Cauliflower
Celery, Carrot Sticks, Olives
Pumpkin or Squash Pie Cheese
Coffee
Mints

Five pounds of rump, round or chuck beef, one onion, sliced, two tablespoons flour, two teaspoons salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, two cups boiling water. Flour to dredge meat, cloves, whole black peppers.

Ask the butcher to give you a piece of suet if he does not do it voluntarily, which most of them do. Try out (which means fry) suet in heavy kettle, and when there is enough fat to brown meat in, put meat in fact, after wiping with damp cloth and covering (dredging) with flour. Brown all over in suet fat, with onion, add a little hot water, 1 teaspoon salt, some pepper, ground and whole, and stick a few cloves into the meat. You can add a bay leaf too if you like the flavor.

Cook slowly until meat is very tender, three or four hours, adding more hot water if it boils out. You can use tomato juice instead of water if you prefer the flavor. Turn meat occasionally while it is cooking. When meat is done, take it out and keep hot. Take kettle from fire, pour off all fat in the pan except about two tablespoons, to which add the two tablespoons flour, mix smooth and add two cups water.

Taste to be sure it is seasoned enough. Seasoning is the next most important thing to smoothness in making gravy. Remember that, you who are new to cooking. Don't send tasteless gravy to the table. Pot roast is delicious hot or sliced cold.

SQUASH PIE

One and one-half cups, strained squash, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, one cup boiling milk, one teaspoon cinnamon, one egg.

Prepare pie crust and line pie pan. Prepare squash and pour boiling milk over it, stirring smooth, then add slightly beaten egg, the sugar, salt and cinnamon.

Pour into crust and put into 400 degrees oven for 10 minutes, then lower heat to 350 and continue baking until custard is firm, about 40 minutes all together. This is a good recipe for pumpkin pie too.

PUMPKIN PIE

One and one-half cups strained pumpkin or one-half can pumpkin, one-half cup sugar, two eggs, one tablespoon cornstarch, onehalf teaspoon cinnamon, onequarter teaspoon allspice, one-quarter teaspoon cloves, onehalf cup milk.

Beat eggs and mix with pumpkin, then add sugar, cornstarch and spices, and last the milk. Put into unbaked pie shell and bake accordingly to directions given for squash pie.

Liquid Stockings Solve the Problem

OTTAWA. (CP).—War has deprived women of many color choices in silk stockings as more and more of the fabric has been diverted from milady's limbs to war industries, but Canadian women probably haven't noticed it.

According to one Ottawa buyer, where 25 to 30 shades were put on the market by each silk stocking firm in Canada a year ago each now has a standard range of about 12 or 15 colors. However, since each firm chooses its own color range, enough tints still are provided to satisfy the demands of Canadian women.

Harder hit was the British woman, whose total choice of 160 tints was reduced to a standard 10 shortly after the war began as more and more silk went into the manufacture of balloons, parachutes and munitions.

The price of stockings has varied little in Canada because of the war, but in England it has risen more than half and people are encouraged to buy every sort of substitute.

Liquid stockings, first introduced by theatre stars, have helped solve the problem. Half the women of London were buying their stockings in bottles and painting them on with a brush this Summer. A good "paint job", rainproof but easily washed off with soap and water, looked like sheer chiffon and defied recognition.

Facial Neuralgia Is Most Painful

We will consider a unique form of neuralgia, nearly as common as sciatica or shoulder neuralgia, that which affects the facial nerve. It is more severe and painful than any of the others with the possible exception of shingles. It affects the middleaged and seems to be connected with hardening of the arteries, possibly in the thalamus of the central nervous system.

A nerve can pain either from stimulation or injury at its tip or from irritation of its central origin deep in the nervous system. An injury of the visual centre in the brain will cause flashes of light. An injury of the nerve centre for sensation in the face will cause pain in the face.

ABOUT SHINGLES

The neuralgia of shingles is of this central character, and certainly facial neuralgia, which often causes exsruciating toothache with the result that these people often lose many perfectly good teeth with no alleviation of the pain.

Many remedies have been suggested for facial neuralgia. As a last resort, when the pain becomes too exhausing, the Gasserian ganglion can be removed by surgery. This results in cure in practically all cases, but it should be reserved until other methods have been tried. The condition often subsides and goes away for years spontaneously without reference to treatment.

A valuable method of treatment is the use of trichloethylene gas. We must add "when it works" because this is not always the case. Its value was discovered by accident—in airplane factories it was used to dissolve the shellac that goes on the wings and body, and workers in these factories often got a temporary numbness of the face. When this observation was applied to facial neuralgia, it was found that inhalation of the gas relieved the pain. It must be used cautiously, under a physician's care, trying it out as a trial at first. If it works, the patient may be promised complete and grateful relief.

LOOK FOR TROUBLE

Facial neuralgia is dependent on many general bodily conditions and and a complete examination of blood nutrition, blood pressure and teeth is in order. But especially with teeth it is possible to be too thorough and the caution to the effect that real disease should be present before removal is advised is again repeated.

We are all familiar with that dreadful rite — "spring house cleaning." Then not only the obvious dust is removed, but forays into obscure bureau drawers and long undisturbed nooks is instituted. It's all right to do this to the body, but not to the extent of tearing up the floors in the attic or uncover a purely theoretical rat's nest.

SERIAL STORY . . . By RUPERT GRAYSON

Before the Blitzkrieg

Read This First:

Returning from a nerve-wracking assignment, Gun Cotton, famous Scotland Yard agent, goes to Sleichtner's Egyptian Ray-Baths, where he becomes interested in a mysterious stranger named Pullinger, who is wearing a tattooed Egyptian symbol. Pullinger is met by a beautiful flame-haired girl at the swimming pool in the baths. Gun calls another agent, Coffin, Prescott, to trail Pullinger.

CHAPTER EIGHT

As Prescott mingled with the passersby outside, Gun noticed, not without admiration, how he seemed to completely lose his identity among other people. An entirely inconspicuous figure, nobody even would glance at him twice, or remember afterward that they had seen him. An exceedingly useful trait on the part of a shadower.

Gun drank his coffee and stood up. The waiter bustled over and glanced at "Coffin" Prescott's untouched cup.

"Your frien' not thirsty after all, eh?"

"That," Gun replied, "is not a matter that I have known you long enough to discuss."

He paid and went unhurriedly out. Outside he stood for a moment looking about him. Prescott and the man he was trailing had, of course, disappeared.

Gun hailed a crawling taxi, and drove to Whitehall. But there he found that X was engaged for about three-quarters of an hour and could see no one. Gun left a message that he would be back, and went out again to kill time.

Meanwhile Prescott was following his quarry, and in the beginning found it a decidely tiring business. But he was used to it.

They passed along the street, Pullinger on one side of it, and Prescott on the other. On the corner Pullinger paused and glanced at his wrist watch. Then he turned up the street that ran at right angles, and now his pace was a mere saunter.

"Got an appointment, and he's a bit early for it!" was Prescott's inward comment.

He crossed the road and got on the same side as his quarry, increasing the distance between them by pausing to examine a shop window.

But as the man in front approached a corner, Prescott quickened his pace. He had known men to saunter around corners and then disappear completely, before this. Never lose sight of your man.

At the corner Pullinger paused and turned around to look back along the street. Prescott turned into the porch of a shop, which was also the entrance to a block of offices. He did this naturally rather than suddenly, so that Pullinger failed to notice him. Shadowing is much a matter of timing.

It looked rather as though the fellow suspected he might be followed, and was making sure he wasn't, Prescott decided.

While with one eye he read the names of the various firms in residence, displayed in neat white-on-black on the walls, Prescott watched with the other the reflection of the man he was following in an opposite shop window. When the new non-reflector windows came into general use the task of the shadower would become a great deal more difficult.

The attitude of Pullinger was that of a careless lounger, killing time. But Prescott sensed that he was raking the street keenly with his eyes, and making a mental note of all the people he saw there. Then he turned again and, still unhurriedly, disappeared around the corner.

Prescott emerged from his shelter and, walking briskly, went straight across the street into which the other had turned. As he went he kept his eyes on it, and saw that Pullinger did not turn around and, consequently, could not have seen him. But, on the other side, he seemed to change his mind, and turned down the same street, but on the opposite pavement to the man he was following.

He saw Pullinger look at his watch again and then quicken his pace. He turned into Shaftesbury avenue, with Prescott still tight on his heels.

"Making for Soho, for a dollar!" said Prescott to himself, as they crossed St. Giles' Circus.

He was right. His quarry led him along New Compton Street, then left, right and left. Prescott still was on the opposite side of the street, but as Pullinger dre wlevel with a public house he also crossed the road, paused to look at the name of the pub and then recrossed and entered the saloon.

Prescott crossed also, and strolled past the doors of the saloon. As they opened to let someone out, he saw that the place was fairly crowded inside. So, without further hesitation, he entered. Inside he behaved in his usual manner, for which he had a flair. It is doubtful if a single person in that bar noticed him at all—even the barmaid who served him with his bitter would have forgotten him a moment after.

But he observed much.

Pullinger was talking to a girl. An interesting looking girl, Prescott decided. She had flame-colored hair, and the creamy complexion that so often goes with that color, when it is natural, frank blue eyes, and a generous mouth. Good figure, and held herself well. Costume, good and probably expensive. Good legs in fine silk hose, and well shod.

Prescott, who liked to classify people into types, and mentally label them and tuck them away in pigeonholes, found some difficulty in placing her exactly.

She certainly was not the type of girl one usually encountered in Soho pubs—in fact, she was hardly the sort of girl you would look for in a pub anywhere—although, of course, all sorts used them today. She might be an actress or a mannequin. Didn't look like the ordinary type of business girl—a secretary, or anything of that sort. And yet she might be one.

Unobstrusively Prescott shifted his position and edged around a little behind them as they stood by the bar, to try and hear their conversation.

"Well," he heard he girl say, "we'd better go along and see to it, right now!"

An educated, cultured voice with very clear diction. Prescott inclined more strongly to the actress theory, and felt all the better for being able to do so.

The two finished their drinks, and moved toward the outer door. Prescott's quick eyes had already noted an inner one, which led to the lavatory, via a passage into which other bars led.

He made for this, and finally he emerged from the door of the private bar adjoining, just as a taxi drew up to the curb where the two were standing, not a couple of yards away from him.

He heard the man give the driver his directions:

"Brixton Road. Stop at the corner of Angel Road!" He spoke almost perfect English, but so carefully as to suggest a foreigner.

"Angel Road?" queried the driver, "That's by the White Horse, isn't it?"

The man hesitated and looked inquiringly at the girl. Evidently he did not know the geography of the Brixton Road, but he anticipated that she would.

"Just past it," she said briefly.

They got in and drove off, without a glance in the direction of Prescott. A bit of luck, bearing their destination like that—saved a lot of trouble.

Prescott walked quickly along the street, surveying the empty taxis he encountered with a critical eye. At last he saw one he wanted and hailed it.

"Corner of Angel Road," he directed, "and double fare if you break all records!"

"Sez you," the driver said, who was a youngish man. "You just watch me splinter 'em!"

They started off, and Prescott noticed the manoeuvres of his driver with approval. He had both speed and cunning, and saved a lot of yards with the use of sidestreets. Half way along the Kennington Road, Prescott, who had a memory for such things, saw the number of a taxi ahead of them, he leaned well back in his own as it passed it.

Women Take Home Nursing Courses; Commissioner Stresses Great Value

OTTAWA. (CP). — Fully 800,000 Canadian men and women are qualified first aiders holding St. John Ambulance certificates and higher awards, said the Commandery Commissioner, Col. A. E. Snell at national headquarters, Ottawa, in a survey of the year's work.

In the past year 50,929 persons have qualified for first aid and home nursing awards, an increase of 20,536 over the corresponding period of the previous year.

War has brought changes and given an impetus to the Ambulance Association's activities. Eight thousand more women have taken home nursing courses than last year.

Personnel of the Air Raid Precaution units which have been operating in the Maritime Provinces since the beginning of the war hold certificates for the special courses given by the Association. A similar organization, the Civilian Defence Committee, which has been set up more recently in other Provinces stipulates the same qualifications.

"Not that we are expecting air raids or poison gas attacks, although we give a certain amount of information upon the latter subject," said Col. Snell. "But sabotage of all kinds, the blowing up of bridges or railways or factories are not such remote possibilities even here in wartime and we want to have competently trained people in every community who could offer immediate aid."

A survey of the work shows that on the whole more men than women avail themselves to the St. John Association services. Many factories, mining companies, the railways and telephone companies now insist that their men be qualified and pay the fees from their training.

URGES GENERAL TRAINING

Col. Snell contended that every man and woman in Canada should be trained. Soldiers are being taught and the Commissioner pointed out its value to a man in the services.

"If he knows how to stop hemorrhage, how to give artificial respiration and get air into the lungs of a comrade who has been knocked out and has a mouthful of mud, he will probably save his life before a doctor could get to him," he said.

More than 25,000 people in Canada were cared for during the last year by first aiders whose services are entirely voluntary.

Those who belong to the "Brigade" which includes all who upon qualification, buy their own black and white uniforms and will submit to a measure of discipline and being called upon for public service at any time, have increased in the past year from 2773 to 3330. The total is expected to reach 3500 by the end of the year.

Restraint . . .

Accent Eye Lure by Clever Makeup

By DONNA GRACE

Restraint is the word to keep in mind when applying all makeup and should be remembered by every girl when it comes to eye makeup. Eye shadow means just a shadow, not a definite dark painting of the lids. Mascara can be alluring when well done, but will ruin the whole chic if daubed on carelessly.

Stage and screen stars may set the styles in beauty, but they are professional and may effect fads and styles unsuitable for others—such as the chalk-white powdered skin with vivid contrasts of black and carmine. Even these beauties no longer wear such extremes away from the studios. They do, however, know the art of putting on all makeup in the most flattering way.

They may wear the artifical lashes but every hair is in line and curled upward. There must be no overlapping or matting together. Natural lashes are combed and brushed so they have that clean, exquisite perfection that really accents beauty.

Few girls apply their mascara well. This we believe is due to haste. If one cannot give plenty of time to the operation, it should not be done at all. A good light is necessary, then before the application, brush well with a clean brush.

Have another brush for the mascara and be sure it is not wet. The wet dripping brush may be pressed against a tissue to remove most of the moisture, then stroked over the mascara. Brush from the roots to the tip.

When the lashes are dry, they may be drawn upward with the curlers. Some girls make a practice of pressing them back over the lid. This leaves a faint suggestion of shadow and trains the hair to grow in the curled-up way. Apply the pressure with well scrubbed fingertips.

When lashes are long and dark and eyes a bit large, omit shadow. Medium-sized eyes and the rather small ones need the shadow accent. Begin all shadow at the rim of the lid and blend up toward the outside corners.

Creston Students Win High School Diplomas, Letters

CRESTON, B. C. — There was a full attendance of students and many of the parents at the auditorium Friday for the graduation exercises of Creston Valley United School District High School. The evening was in charge of Robert Weir, the new President of the Student Council, assisted by Kenneth Hester, retiring President.

H. A. Powell, Chairman of the School Board, presented the High School scholarship to Kenneth Hester who, in addition to winning the local honor, was also at the head of the list of all B. C. Grade 12 students taking the midsummer Departmental examinations in the Kootenays. He was also amongst those who got their letter for athletic activities.

Frank Putnam, M.L.A., was guest speaker and made a practical plea to the students to take full advantage of the splendid facilities afforded by Creston High School. He stressed the part of each individual student in the effort to win the war and pointed out that the pupils could lend a helping hand in the purchase of War Savings Certificates. Mr. Putnam presented graduation certificates to the following:

Grade 12 to second year university — James Bourdon, Bill Craig, Sid Davidge, Donald Fowlie, Egon Holim, Margaret Huscroft, Agnes Muir, Ruby Palmer, Sid Wigen, Sid Argyle, Stanley Hendren.

Letters were presented to members of the boys' and girls' basketball squads. The former won the Commercial League championship, and the latter the East Kootenay High School League honors. Similarly remembered were 26 athletes who were to the fore at the local track meet, and the Kootenay-Boundary meet at Trail, at which Creston won the grand aggregate for the third year in succession. Badminton titlists were likewise honored, along with Mary Partington, Edward Davis and Bob Weir, who won the High School honors at the East Kootenay drama festival at Cranbrook in April.

With Miss Prisk at the piano and Miss Helen Moore, music supervisor directing, the girls choir of 40 voices rendered five selections and won long applause with their final number, "There Will Always Be an England." Joan Langston was well received in a vocal solo.

In handing out awards an ovation was given the names of Bill Craig, Edward Davis, Sid Davidge and Bill Weir, all 1939-40 students who have joined up for overseas service. The affair concluded with a dance.

Rossland Pupils Hear Folk Lore From McKelvie

ROSSLAND, B. C., Sept. 29 — B. A. McKelvie, of Victoria, well known newspaperman and author, and now giving his time to speaking tours, addressed students of the Rossland High School in the High School Auditorium Friday afternoon.

Mr. McKelvie addressed his audience on the subject of "Fairy Tales of B. C." These "fairy tales" refer to the numerous legends associated in old stories of British Columbia's Indian inhabitants. The speaker illustrated his lecture with a collection of Indian souvenirs, and explained the value of folk lore surrounding these souvenirs and tales.

Principal Wesley McKenzie and William Turner, President of the student body, thanked the speaker for his interesting address, and also the Rossland Canadian Club, which body was responsible for bringing Mr. McKelvie to Rossland. It had been planned to have his address the Rossland Canadian Club on Friday afternoon, but as that organization found it impossible to assemble at that time, Mr. McKelvie spoke at the High School instead.

Christian Science Theme Is Reality

The Christian Science Churches all over the world had for the subject of their Lesson-Sermon on Sunday "Reality."

The Golden Text was, "Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom" (Luke 12: 32).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea. And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God" (Rev. 21: 1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian-Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Revelator was on our plane of existence, while yet beholding what the eye cannot see, — that which is invisible to the uninspired thought. This testimony of Holy Writ sustains the fact in Science, that the heavens and earth to one human consciousness, that consciousness which God bestows, are spiritual, while to another, the unillumined human mind, the vision is material. This shows unmistakably that what the human mind terms matter and spirit indicates states and stages of consciousness."

BOMB HITS GARDEN AGAIN IN NEW WAR

DOVER, England, Sept. 29 (CP) —The little garden that caught the first enemy bomb ever dropped in England—on Christmas Eve, 1914—has caught another.

The 1914 bomb, a 10-pounder thrown over the side of a German plane which had no bomb rack, blew the gardener out of a tree he was pruning, but he wasn't hurt.

The latest one fell within a few yards of the same post, but caused no casualties and no damage.

Pennoyer Finds a Black Widow in Trail Garage

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 29—Frank Pennoyer, 3069 Daniel Street, captured a Black Widow spider Friday morning, discovering it crawling across the ceiling of a garage across from his home when he went to get his car out.

Mr. Pennoyer, who has captured several in the past few years, took the spider in a bottle to The Trail Times office, for two reasons, that it was a special size, and also because he wanted a general warning to be published, as these spiders are often found in places where children are playing.

Stripes Are Starred

By ALICE ALDEN

The rustle of taffeta whispers through the sartorial symphony again this Autumn. In fact, taffeta is getting to be a hardy perennial for it appears each year if not each season. Stripes are smart too, and some of the newest evening models are of taffeta striped in delightful color combinations.

Just right for a late Summer gala or for early Autumn festive nights is this exquisite frock modeled by Dana Dale. The fabric is a rich taffeta in a delicate shade of watermelon pink, striped in black and ombres it is styled with an intricate use of stripes in the bodice which is long waisted and which meets the skirt at two points. The skirt is very full.

Trail Girl Guide Body Gets Credit of Dominion Grant

TRAIL, B.C., Sept. 29—An annual grant to the Provincial Girl Guide headquarters, from the Dominion Government has been secured through a motion of the Trail Girl Guide Association, reported Mrs J. F. Millican, Secretary, presenting her report at the annual meeting of the Association, held at the Trail Memorial Hall recently.

REPORT ON CAMPS

Mrs. A. D. Turnbull, Chairman of the Camp Committee, reported that two Guide camps, and one Brownie holiday had been held at Camp Rory, Paterson, during the Summer. Mrs. Ian Humphries, Miss Marion Willis, and Mrs. J. G. Calder, were in charge of the camps, and Mrs. Charles Tupper, nurse, Miss E. Alton, cook, and Mrs. W. E. Page who acted as nurse for the Brownies without remuneration, were members of the camp staff.

Three boxes of wool were brought, and the girls knitted squares for a blanket, which was donated to the Red Cross for refugees, and two craft work, under the supervision of girls also knitted sweaters.

All camps did considerable handicraft work, under the supervision of Mrs. R. G. Anderson and Mrs. P. F. McIntyre, who spent one day in each camp.

Several children were able to attend camp through the efforts of the Second Trail and Annable Guides, which lightened the burden on the Association, which paid $31 as part of the fees for two Guides, two Junior leaders and four Brownies. The total daily cost per girl was about 68 cents.

Total camp expenditures were $634.08, including $240.71 for groceries; $70 for meat; $62.17 for milk; $70 cook's salary; and $40 nurse's salary.

REDUCE PROPERTY DEBT

It was decided to apply $100 on the Association's debt and it was noted that in two years all but $100 of the original $1100, which included $500 for camp property and $800 for the camp swimming pool, had been cleared off.

Volunteers to build the roof on the new recreation hall at the Patterson camp were requested. The fireplace is now completed.

Mrs. George Hamson, Mrs. J. W. Dougan, Mrs. R. J. G. Richards, and Mrs. M. R. F. McLennan were thanked for their work as members of the camp committee.

APPOINTMENTS

Committee appointments included Mrs. F. Matthews, Mrs. L. G. Mowat, and Mrs. Harrison, badges; Mrs. A. E. Allison, publicity; Mrs. J. F. Millican, Mrs. J. B. Bilker, Mrs. C. G. Cumming, Mrs. A. D. Turnbull, Mrs. J. W. Dougan, Mrs. M. Gordon, and Mrs. C. A. H. Wright, camp; Mrs. F. Matthews and Mrs. C. A. H. Wright, transportation; Mrs. R. H. Lowe, Mrs. J. F. Millican and Mrs. F. Matthews, constitution.

The resignation of Mrs. F. S. Willis, as President; and Mrs. G. J. Roots, as Commissioner, were accepted with regret. Mrs. Roots has left Trail.

A new Guide company had been formed at Tadanac, and a Brownie pack in East Trail, and a Ranger company is being organized under the leadership of Mrs. E. R. Humphries.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND HIS INDEPENDENTS

While the political campaign now being waged in the United States is the Americans' own affair, Canadians cannot help seeing over the border, and occasionally there are developments in which outsiders can be interested legitimately.

One of the political movements has been the defection from the Roosevelt standard of anti-third term Democrats, and the organization throughout that country, with the exception of the South, of Democrats for Wilkie Clubs.

As an offset to this broad movement, the third-termers have started an Independents for Roosevelt organization, whose officers were received by the President at the White House, and their pledges of support accepted with due ceremony.

The chief point of interest about this Independent organization is the composition of the executive. Its head is Mayor Laguardia of New York, who, though calling himself Republican, has been a Roosevelt supporter in both the last presidential elections. One of the vice-presidents are Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior in the present Roosevelt cabinet, the President's chief spokesman; and Thomas Corcoran, an Assistant Attorney-General or something of the kind, the famous "Tommy Corcoran" of the "inner cabinet", who for eight years has been credited with being the actual writer of most of the legislation emanating from the White House. Corcoran resigned his Government office early in the week, this making him of course "independent."

These stalwart "Independents" from President Roosevelt's own personal circle will probably have a little difficulty in appearing as other than plain Roosevelt camp-followers. In the cases of Messrs. Ickes and Corcoran, the job of camouflage would seem to be impossible.

SOME DAY PROVIDENCE MAY REBEL

Mr. Burns, Provincial Member for Rossland-Trail, in announcing construction of a hard surface sidewalk, with protective railing, from the ferry landing up along the dense-travelled Trans-Provincial Highway expresses wonderment that no one has been killed there.

It is a wonder that no pedestrian has been a traffic victim in that section, and Providence can be given the sole credit.

Providence also has been the sole guardian of pedestrians on the section of the Trans-Provincial Highway entering Nelson from the West, particularly the straight portion within the City from the City limits to the Gas Works, the equivalent of two or three blocks.

No one can blame the school children for walking on the paved street, when otherwise they would have to drag themselves over rough ground and through dense weeds.

This matter has been presented to many of Nelson's City Councils.

The excuse for inaction was always the obstacle offered by the Doukhobor warehouse site, which apparently projected. One council did have a path made for a short distance from the gas works, ending, however, at the first oil site. It was quickly overgrown.

Considering the volume of pedestrian traffic over that section, known as Government Road, the City should have a sidewalk of some kind along there. The City itself, through its Gas Works, is one of the well-to-do property-owners on that continuous stretch of warehouse sites, all doing business, and the business firms concerned would doubtless agree to a concrete sidewalk if confronted with the matter.

It is remarkable that Nelson has escaped tragedy or serious accident on that stretch.

There is such a thing as asking too much of Providence.

PROTECT THE FLOWERS

Flowers add much to the attractiveness of Nelson, whether in the city's parks, in the innumerable flower gardens, or, in some instances, on the boulevards.

The School Board is now working on the objective of bringing the various school grounds in line, and at present the grounds of Central school, which have been built up on the North side, facing Carbonate street, are being planted with thousands of flowering plants.

If unmolested, that side will become next year a hanging garden.

There is an "if" there.

Already the work has been molested. The 200 plants set out the first day were torn up that night and scattered about by somebody who did not have the cooperating spirit.

The work is proceeding and if there is no further molestation, the object sought will be achieved.

But it is apparent that there is an opportunity for parents to inculcate ideas of civic pride and of service, in their children at the impressionable age.

The beautiful things of Nelson are "ours" to take pride in, "ours" to protect. The more children there are who are taught right ideals, the greater deterrent their influence will be on those whose impulse is destructive, and the less there will be of vandalism.

Every Nelson child should feel, "These flower beds are ours. We don't want them injured. We want to enjoy them. We want the people to notice them. We are going to protect them."

This may be an impossibly high ideal, but it is worth aiming at.

"He takes it like a lamb, now we give him his medicine in a tankard." —Humorist.

Rumania Will Probably Not Miss King Carol but Continue on With Its Old Routine of Feudal Squabbles

Unfortunately history isn't a business. It can't write things off, recapitalize and start over on a new basis of tangible assets. This particular Muse is the poorest housekeeper of the lot. She doesn't like to throw anything away—even a hangnail monarchy which is nothing more than make-believe.

We were thinking of King Carol's model T 30 years ago. It was upholstered entirely in red plush, and it had gold crests and royal insignia worked in everywhere with a tassel of some kind of doo-dad tickling the king's neck or obscuring his view, whichever way he looked. No matter where today is going, if anywhere, yesterday is always riding in the rumble seat, and usually doing a lot of back-seat driving.

Carol and Lupescu move on to Switzerland. Rumania probably will not miss them much, as it picks up its old routine of essentially feudal or medieval squabbles, conspiracies and hit and run wars, like all the rest of the Balkans.

One trouble with Rumania was that it had lions twice as big as any other lions anywhere. That got them to feeling heraldic and every once in a while they would start taking in too much territory and somebody would run them through the wringer. Trying to live up to those lions really might have had something to do with their lack of any quiet home life.

The Romans gave the Rumanians a good drubbing. Rumania, or what is left of it today, used to comprise the Roman provinces of Dacia and Moresia. The country was quite thoroughly Latinized, as its language shows today, but was essentially unchanged. The Hittites led the league in those days, and meagre historical accounts indicate the Rumanians were usually on the short end of the fighting but always came back for more.

As a nation, Rumania is only 62 years old. It was in 1878 that Montenegro, Serbia and Rumania were collectively recognized by the great powers of Europe. During the nineteenth century the Balkans provided Graustarkian diversion for the rest of the world but the trouble was that it wasn't merely good theatre.

On the Eastern threshold of Europe they were wired into high-voltage continental power politics and no good ever came from their picturesque feudal hangover. Everything might have been all right had it not been for that coveted Danubian waterway, the route to India and quite a lot of loot which interested neighboring predatory powers. Add to these complications an ancient racial and linguistic stew — mountaineers with hair in their ears light-trigger fingers, stimulating goat milk diet and a yen for fighting Turks, Bulgars, Sumerians and Hittites—and you have something that even the League of Nations had to duck.

When the world of today moved in, here and there, it didn't help much. As Rumania's vast oil riches were opened up, the boys in the back room got the loot, and the peasants kept right on making shoes out of burlap and straw and eating curds and whey. Carol and Lupescu rooted out picturesque old hoses around the palace to make a gaudy royal demesne out of all proportion to their rating in monarchial circles. All of which probably is as it was in the days of the Hittites.

CONTRACT . . . By Shepard Barclay

SHUTTING OUT AN HONOR

MANY a contract is beaten because some low honor takes a trick for the defenders, a trick which could have been saved by more careful play. There is sometimes best way to play each combination of cards, in order to produce the greatest possible likelihood of success with it, and the players who have studied them do not lose many tricks in their manipulation. The expert knows a lot of such combinations intimately. Whenever they arrive, they are recognized as old friends. The average player has not the time to learn them all, but he can master certain underlying principles which will help him with a large number of combinations.

Basic factors operate with such combinations as the spade suits shown below, if the declarer is striving to take all of the tricks, granting plenty of entries into both his own hand and dummy:

| | Declarer | Dummy |
|---|---|---|
| 1. | ♠A K 10 6 | ♠Q 9 5 4 |
| 2. | ♠A K 10 6 | ♠Q 5 4 2 |
| 3. | ♠A K 6 5 | ♠Q 10 5 4 |
| 4. | ♠A K Q 10 | ♠6 5 4 2 |
| 5. | ♠A K 10 8 | ♠Q 9 7 6 |

We have all seen otherwise fair players misplay such simple combinations. The usual mistake is to finesse the 9 or 10 on the first or second round, and lose to a singleton or doubleton J. For protection against a singleton, a first trick should be taken with a high honor with every one of those combinations, one of those in declarer's own hand, because that still leaves him another high one and his original finessing position. With No. 4, a second high one also should be taken in that hand.

With No. 1, a second high trick should be taken in one hand or the other, depending on which defender the declarer thinks is more likely to have the J, as that protects him against a doubleton J before finessing. With No. 2 the second trick should be taken in dummy, preserving finessing chances the only way the finesse can be taken. For similar reasons, with No. 3, the second trick should be taken in declarer's hand.

With No. 5, after the first high trick, declarer should lead his 10, as some hapless player, who has heard about "covering an honor with an honor" may foolishly put a well-guarded J on it and thus prevent a guess. If the J is not played, take the Q and then lead the 9; if the next defender decides to cover, your guessing is over.

R. A., Nelson—How warm can milk be without losing any of its raw qualities?

Milk can be heated to approximately 145 degrees Fahrenheit without losing any of its raw qualities.

A. C. R., Wynndel—Would you please print a recipe for making apple juice?

Although there are several methods of preparing sterile sweet apple juice, most of these are too cumbersome or too expensive for use in the home. The following simple method is suggested for home use where only a few dozen bottles may be desired and no special equipment is available. This method does not give extreme clarity but it does retain the pleasing flavor and health-giving properties of the juice.

Strain the sweet juice. Fill clean beer bottles with juice until they are brimming full.

Place a wash boiler containing 3½ to 4 inches of warm water and a slatted wooden false bottom, on the stove. Fill the boiler with the full beer bottles. If they are stood close together the boiler should hold 28 to 30 bottles. If the proper amount of water has been used it should reach half way up the necks of the bottles.

Allow the water in the boiler to heat until it just starts to boil. This is evidenced by the upward movement of the water and the bubbles of steam that reach the surface and burst. Be sure this stage is reached, then move the boiler back to the cooler part of the stove and commence capping the bottles. If a thermometer is available, a test at the centre of a bottle should show a temperature of 180 degrees F. It is wise to use an aluminum spotted cap. These caps are the ordinary crown cap with a circular disc of aluminum on the cork. This aluminum is much easier to sterilize than plain cork. They are available from the Brewers & Bottlers Supply Company Ltd., Mainland Street, Vancouver, B. C.

In the process of capping, it is wise to lay a few layers of newspaper on the base of the capper to avoid cracking the hot bottles on the cold metal. It is also a good plan to lay newspapers on the table where the hot bottles are to be laid. Lay all bottles on their sides after capping to sterilize the neck of the bottle and the cap.

Other clear fruit juices can be handled similarly to apple.

U. S. Will Continue t Give Aid to Britai

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29 (CP) — Sumner Welles, United States Undersecretary of State, yesterday reasserted the intention of his Government to "render all material support and assistance" in the form of supplies and munitions to Britain and her Dominions "in what we hope will be their successful defence against armed aggression."

In a foreign policy pronouncement considered especially significant because of Friday's formal alliance of Japan with Germany and Italy, Welles warned the United States faces as grave a danger as any in its history and said the Government was preparing "for any eventualities."

The address was prepared for delivery to the Foreign Affairs Council here.

It served as a response to the Tokyo-Rome-Berlin pact, interpreted in world capitals as a move to curb American aid to Britain.

Welles praised the heroism of the British people "in defending successfully their homes and their liberties" and added:

"It is the policy of your Government, as approved by the Congress of the United States, and, I believe, by the overwhelming majority of the American people, to render all material support and assistance, through the furnishing of supplies and munitions to the British Government and to the Governments of the British Dominions in what we hope will be their successful defence against armed aggression."

Setting forth "the requirements of the United States" in the Orient, Welles declared there is no problem in the Far East "which could not be peacefully solved through negotiation."

Japan's assault on French Indo-China he condemned as a threat to "the integrity of the French colony" contrary to promises of the Japanese Government to respect the status quo in that area.

"In essence," Welles declared, "the primary requirements of the United States in the Far East may be thus simply set forth:

"Complete respect by all pow for the legitimate rights of United States and of its nation as stipulated by existing trea or as provided by the genera accepted tenets of international l

"Equality of opportunity for trade of all nations.

"And finally, respect for th international agreements or trea concerning the Far East to wh the United States is a party, though with the expressed und standing that the United States always willing to consider peaceful negotiation of such mo fications or changes in these agr ments or treaties as may in the ju ment of the signatories be con ered necessary in light of chan conditions."

The Japanese Government, ho ever, he said, "had declared that intends to create a 'new order Asia'."

"In this endeavor," the Under retary said, "it has relied upon instrumentality of armed force, a it has made it very clear that intends that it alone shall dec to what extent the historic intere of the United States and the tre rights of American citizens in Far East are to be observed."

He declared that "many hundr of incidents have occurred," which American rights had b violated.

Reviewing the "tragic history the international relations of past seven years," Welles said "Tha is just one bright picture of co structive achievement that stan out." That, he said, was the dev opment of close relations among 21 American republics.

In discussing United States' poli in the Far East, Welles said it "no way differed from the polic of this country in relation to oth regions of the world."

"From time to time the natio directly interested in the Far E have entered into treaties and int national agreements which ha created a network of common i terests, as well as common respo sibilities and obligations."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)— Dr. John E. Gordon, of the Harvard Medical School, yesterday described the health of London's war-stricken millions as "amazingly, surprisingly good" despite frequent bombings, loss of sleep, and the crowding into bomb shelters.

"England has a very efficient public health service," said Dr. Gordon, who has just returned from there by plane.

Dr. Gordon expects to go abroad again in about 30 days with plans for a 100-bed model hospital and laboratory to be established with American funds in Southwest England for study and treatment of communicable diseases under wartime conditions. He will be head of the hospital which will be sponsored by Harvard and the American Red Cross.

Driver Is Colonel's "Guardian Angel"

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP Cable)— German raiders were droning overhead as Lt.-Col. W. G. Stillman of Edmonton was driving here.

Glancing up through the windshield at the menacing silhouettes, his driver, Pte. W. A. "Alex" Waugh of Woodstock, Ont., said, "I think we should pull up for a minute, sir."

The Colonel agreed and the driver sidled into the curb, the car had been standing only a few seconds when a bomb ripped up the road 100 yards ahead. There was no doubt that the car would have been in the area of destruction, if, as Waugh put it, "my guardian angel hadn't told me to whoa."

Col. Stillman said: "The lad is right. He must be my guardian angel."

ootenay Hockey League Cool Toward Velykochy Proposal for Second Trail enior Entry in Fast District Loop

pokane Definitely Out; League to Operate With Three Teams; Giegerich of Kimberley Is President

With Mike Welykochy's plan for a second senior hockey team at Trail withdrawn by the author himself after opposing argument by the other league clubs, and with Spokane's Gonzaga University team out of the running, the Kootenay Hockey League—one of the fastest in Canada—returns this season to the three-team basis which marked it during a long reign on the Western hockey throne. The 1940-41 league will consist of Trail Smoke Eaters, Kimberley Dynamiters and Nelson Maple Leafs.

The League will be officered by: J. R. Giegerich, Kimberley, President; G. W. Wheatley, Trail, First Vice-President; Dr. N. E. Morrison, Nelson, Second Vice-President; and Secretary to be appointed by the new President. Executive Committee members are Stephen Matolich and O. H. Nelson, Trail; James Buchanan and W. E. Leaman, Kimberley; H. M. Whimster and W. Young, Nelson. The League Secretary and a representative to be named by each club will comprise the Schedule Committee.

Honorary officers are: S. G. Blaylock, Trail; William Lindsay, Kimberley; C. S. Montgomery, Rossland; and Mayor N. C. Stibbs, Nelson.

HOME GAMES

A schedule giving Trail and Nelson 10 home games each, and Kimberley eight home games, is to be drawn. Kimberley will make three trips to the West Kootenay Clubs, and a fourth trip if a tight race for leadership should make it necessary; while Trail and Nelson will each make two trips to Kimberley, playing two games on each trip.

These were high points of the annual meeting of the Kootenay Hockey League at the Savoy Hotel, Nelson, Sunday afternoon. Attending the meeting were M. A. Thomas, James R. Buchanan, Ernest Basso and George Felker, Kimberley; O. H. Nelson, Stephen Matovich and W. Welykochy, Trail; H. M. Whimster, W. M. Young and Dr. N. E. Morrison, Nelson; A. W. McDonald, Trail, B. C. A. H. A., President; A. Aitken, Nelson, B. C. A. H. A. Secretary; and T. R. Wilson, Nelson League Secretary.

Dr. Morrison presided.

Another highspot of discussion was the question by H. M. Whimster of Nelson as to how clubs would be affected by compulsory military training for young men. Lacking definite information, the League decided this was a question best left in the hands of the individual clubs to handle as necessity arose.

Official notification that there would be no Spokane entry was given in a letter from Denny Edge, Gonzaga's Coach last year, in which he passed on the information that in the opinion of E. K. Barnes there was not room for two teams in Spokane. Since the Inland Empire city was to re-enter pro ranks, the amateurs were being dropped.

The League instructed its Secretary to write Rev. Father Corkery, Director of Athletics at Gonzaga, expressing regret that the University found it impossible to continue.

Welykochy's plan, as he described it to the meeting, was a visit to Prairie cities and line up a team. Jobs would be found for players but they would have to finance themselves until they began to collect gate receipts. This would not be impossible, he believed, since nearly all the players would have the necessary equipment to start, with the exception of two or three sticks.

TOUGH ENOUGH FOR ONE

O. H. Nelson, Trail Smoke Eaters President, objected to a second Trail team. He declared the Smoke Eaters had difficulty in financing now with the field to themselves. His objection was indorsed by H. M. Whimster, Nelson Maple Leafs President, and M. A. Thomas, Kimberley Dynamiters' Past President.

A. W. McDonald, B. C. A. H. A. President, dug into experience in Kootenay hockey dating from 1919 to declare he believed a second competing Trail Club was beyond reasonable expectation of financial success. He also declared it would be impossible to obtain adequate practice time for two teams at the Trail rink, in view of all the community activities using the ice.

Mr. Whimster's suggestion that since League clubs were providing the entertainment, they should at least share in any commercial returns from radio broadcasting of games, resulted in the appointment of a committee headed by Mr. Whimster and including the Presidents of the other two clubs, W. L. Clark of Kimberley and Mr. Nelson of Trail, to marshal data for an argument. It was felt the clubs would have to work through the rink managers, rather than approaching the broadcasting companies directly.

ATTENDANCE MAY BE DOWN

Attendance possibilities for the coming Winter were discussed briefly. Boxla receipts were down during the past Summer, it was pointed out. It was possible general "tightening up", due to many demands being made upon individuals by various war efforts, might affect attendance.

Votes of thanks were tendered League officers, the Press; Past President N. J. Lowes, now in Regina; and T. R. Wilson, retiring Secretary.

Mr. McDonald called attention to the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association annual meeting at Vernon November 9 and urged attendance of delegates from each club. He pointed out that Kimberley and Nelson would be permitted to import six players this year, while Trail was held to four. Trail had agreed to this as "the best thing for the league," recalling it had received backing from other clubs for a similar move a few years ago.

Reserves May Be Reds' Mainstay as Injuries Show

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29 (AP).—The hopes of Cincinnati Reds for victory over Detroit Tigers in the World Series were wrapped in adhesive tape today.

On the last day of the season when the rest of the Reds were getting up a pre-series sweat against Pittsburgh Pirates, Catcher Ernie Lombardi could only limp around on the sidelines and Second Baseman Lonnie Frey wasn't in uniform.

Whether either will play in the first game next Wednesday, or any game, against the Tigers is in doubt. Lombardi has a sprained right ankle and Frey a broken toe.

Manager Bill McKechnie was non-committal.

"We can't do anything but wait," he said. "We'll use Lombardi if we can. Otherwise it will have to be (Jim) Wilson. I made Frey stay away today to keep him off his foot. We'll have to wait and see about him, too."

Frey's toe was broken when the lid fell off a water cooler in the dugout Friday.

These developments cast new importance on the Reds' reserves. Wilson, catcher and manager of the Philadelphia Phillies before joining Cincinnati's coaching staff, is one of the smartest backstops in the business. But he is 40 years old and can't hit with Lombardi. He returned to the active list after Willard Hershberger committed suicide.

Crosley Field is sold out except for the 4500 bleacher seats that will go on sale the day of the game and a few hundred standing-room tickets that will be sold at reserved seat prices. Scalpers were reported getting $50 a set for tickets—one ticket for each of three games.

DiMaggio, Garms Batting Kings

NEW YORK Sept. 29 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio of New York Yankees and Debs Garms of Pittsburgh Pirates today were crowned unofficial batting leaders of their respective leagues.

DiMaggio, capturing the American League title for the second successive season, ended up with a .350 mark, 30 points below his winning percentage of last year.

Garms, in taking the National League honors with a .355 average, did not reach the 400-at-bat minimum formerly believed required for the leadership, but was assured the title by the National League office. His mark was six points higher than Johnny Mize's 1939 average.

Home-run production was higher than last year—Mize leading both leagues with 43. Hank Greenberg's September spurt ousted Jimmie Foxx, the pacesetter since May, and won the league honors with 41. Foxx, incidentally, hit the 500th homer of his career. He thus has more than any other active big leaguer.

Mize, besides taking home run laurels, drove in the most runs, 136; while Greenberg led his league with 150.

Trail Indians Take Another to Lead Series

TRAIL, B.C., Sept. 29—Don McIntyre saved the day once more for the Trail Indians, Sunday afternoon, when he got under a hot offering off Bogstie in the ninth and sent a grounder sizzling between first and second base, which was not captured until Rico Martin had a safe lead from third to bring in the Indian's second run, and end the third game of the West Kootenay Men's Senior Baseball finals between the Trail Indians and the Trail Cardinals, 2-1. The Indians have now won two, and the Cardinals, one.

It was McIntyre's homer, last Sunday, which drove in two men, to break a one-all tie and boost the Indian count to 4-1, which was added to by Joe Benoit's homer.

History repeated itself in another point of Sunday's game, when the flying finish was also recorded in the home team's last inning, with two batters retired. The game looked a cinch for the Cards, when Benoit, third batter, grabbed the hickory, but the one-run lead, established by the Cardinals in the fifth, was threatened by an error by Anselmo, who muffed his catch on Benoit's strike, and Benoit scrammed to make first while the catcher was recovering the ball from the back net.

Rico Martin faced Bogstie, and beat him to an offering for a safety, advancing Benoit to second, and Benoit came in on the run on a beautiful base hit which Petrunia sunk into right field, tying the score 1-1.

McIntyre stepped forward, and faced the prospect of two down, Martin on third, also advanced by Petrunia's grounder, and the Indian catcher on first, took it in his stride and connected with Bogstie's throw.

Catcher's errors seemed fatal, Sunday. Anselmo's error on Benoit which led to disaster for the Cards, was matched by Petrunia's error in the fifth, which allowed the Cards to get their original lead. Lawn, who brought in the count, climbed on first on fielder's choice, while Harrison was put out at second. He made second on Andy Bilesky's hit, and romped home in high when Petrunia made an overthrow to check his steal to third.

BLUE BOMBERS WALLOP RIDERS

REGINA, Sept. 29 (CP). — A smashing first-half attack netted Winnipeg Blue Bombers three touchdowns on Saturday and carried them to a 20-11 victory over Regina Roughriders in a free-scoring game that thrilled a crowd of 2500.

The victory lifted Bombers into a tie with Calgary for the Western Interprovincial Football Union lead and left the 'Riders with little hope of reaching the playoffs.

Bombers looked like the team that won the Dominion championship last year as they crashed through the Regina defence early in the game, but they were loose defensively and Roughriders picked up two touchdowns, the first major scores they have made in five games this season. Both teams tightened up after half-time and there was no further scoring although Regina threatened repeatedly. Tour Springstein missed two shots at field goals and the 'Riders were turned back at the Winnipeg five-yard line late in the game.

Stukus Has Row With Hayman

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—Dissatisfied with a shift to a blocking-back position, Bill Stukus, Toronto Argonauts' outstanding quarterback, confirmed tonight that he had decided not to play this season—unless he got his old job back.

Selected all-Canadian quarterback last season, Stukus has been with Argonauts five years during which the Scullers won two Dominion championships. He is a brilliant passer and one of the best safety men in the East.

Reticent to talk about his split with Coach Lew Hayman, Stukus would say only that he got no satisfaction in the blocking position and that Hayman had refused his request to let him call signals again. Saturday Hayman said: "There is nothing definite but as far as I know Bill Stukus will not play this Fall."

Stukus was not in uniform when Balmy Beach beat Argos 12-3 for the Toronto City championship Saturday.

No Big Upsets In U.S. Football

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—The 1940 United States football season opened Saturday, but a few of the game's old-time powers were left at the post, although there were no major upsets.

Tulane was crushed by Frank Lehy's powerful Boston College Eagles 27-7 before 42,000. Washington found Minnesota more than they could handle and went down 19-14. George Franck, running 98 yards for a touchdown, sparked the Gophers who never trailed.

Pitt, lacking the powerful squad that used to go to the football wars, was routed by Ohio State 20-7. It was Pitt's first opening game defeat since 1932.

Duke rolled over Virginia Military 23-0 for its initial Conference victory.

In the Southwest, Texas routed Colorado, Rocky Mountain Big Seven champions, 36-7; Texas Aggies, last year's No. 1 national ranking team, crushed Texas Arts and Industries, 26-0.

Tennessee, unbeaten until its Rose Bowl test with Southern California last season, opened up against Mercer and rolled up a 40-0 count.

Terrific Tommy Harmon led Michigan, this year's "Big Nine" favorite, to a 41-0 victory over California at Berkeley, Calif. Tommy ran back the opening kickoff 94 yards for a touchdown and followed with runs of 72 and 86 yards and kicked all three points to give Michigan a 21-0 lead at half time. In the second half he scored his team's fifth touchdown and converted, and then passed to Nelson for the sixth.

Detroit Admits Pitching Worries in World Series

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29 (AP). — Detroit Tigers are up against a serious pitching problem in the World Series, Manager Del Baker admits.

In the series opener at Cincinnati Wednesday, the Tigers are likely to run into the same sort of a puzzler they faced Friday in their American League clincher with the Cleveland Indians.

Baker met that hurdle by calling in his veterans, the "nine old men," to pass on Rookie Floyd Giebell as the man for the job. This saved the hour for Detroit, but Giebell isn't eligible for the series.

Buck Newsom and Schoolboy Rowe will start the first two games at Cincinnati, although Baker isn't sure in which order. Then Tommy Bridges is an obvious choice for the first game in Detroit next Friday, but after that—

"You're away ahead of me," said Baker Saturday. "I'll just have to pull somebody out of a hat.

"I don't figure to use a lefthander against the Reds, at least not as a starter," he said. This eliminated Harold Newhouser and Archie McKain.

The restriction against portsiders is a natural one because Cincinnati has only three lefthand batters in its lineup.

Eligible righthanders include Paul (Dizzy) Trout, whose nickname tells why he isn't rated highly for the stern assignment of the series; Al Benton, a relief performer, and Fred Hutchinson, John Gorsica and Clay Smith, all freshmen with no experience.

The best guess on which of this group will be chosen is Gorsica, a fast baller with considerable promise.

First Flotilla U. S. Destroyers Slide Into British Port

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABOARD A BRITISH DESTROYER AT A UNITED KINGDOM PORT, Sept. 27 - (Delayed) (CP-Cable) — The first flotilla of American destroyers transferred to Britain arrived at this warbustling port yesterday after completing safely the 2500-mile voyage from an East coast Canadian port and coming through an apparent submarine attack unscathed during the last night on the Atlantic.

Manned by British crews, the grey ships in the flotilla, vanguard of the fleet being taken over by the Royal Navy, knifed down the harbor to anchorage and took their places in the war zone less than a month after completion of the historical deal in which the United States obtained defence facilities in exchange for 50 destroyers.

Six of the 50 destroyers were commissioned in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Without official welcome or fanfare, the flotilla slid quietly into this port in the grey mist. No whistles shrieked, no flags dipped. They arrived as secretly as they left Canada and later will be moved to another British port for minor alterations before going into service.

The over-age American destroyers, built 20 years ago, were not built for ocean crossings but they stood up splendidly to the Atlantic pounding.

I made the crossing aboard a flotilla leader formerly with the Atlantic squadron of the United States Navy. It was the first time during the present war that a newspaperman had made such a lengthy voyage on a British warship.

The commander, a naval veteran, who led the flotilla said the voyage proved that the ships will be of great use to the Royal Navy, particularly on convoy duty.

PRAISES AMERICANS

"The weather has been reasonably good and the ships behaved remarkably well," he said. "The Americans gave us a very good turnover and did it in a magnificently friendly spirit.

"I was much impressed by their standard of efficiency. Practically all the Americans who transferred the ships to us in a Canadian port said they would like to have come with us and I would have been very pleased to have such a fine body of men.

"While in the Canadian port I was also very much impressed by the feelings Canadians have towards the war spirit in which they are carrying out their war effort."

A favorable engineering opinion came from an engineer officer who found the engines operated efficiently once the British engine room hands became accustomed to them.

The voyage of the first flotilla was in the nature of a test operation to determine the navigational and fuel problems for ferrying the remaining destroyers overseas. These fighting ships were ready to tackle anything.

Their schemes were worked out in advance.

The destroyers left the Canadian port on a crisp morning. Just outside the harbor they passed a flotilla of sister craft coming into port to be transferred to British and Canadian naval officers. The incoming Americans were still flying the stars and stripes and the British tars who lined the rails of the outgoing ship whooped a naval salute.

FIRST TWO DAYS STORM

The first two days at sea were the toughest test for the little ships. Huge seas pounded the vessels and they plunged and bobbed about like a cowhand on a Western steer. At times the flotilla leader rolled to a 40-degree angle. To me—never at sea before—it was an abrupt introduction to naval life. Then the storm blew itself out and the remainder of the voyage the ocean was comparatively calm.

The destroyers sliced along at a steady rate. At times life aboard was as placid as on a pleasure cruise on a Muskoka Lake.

Composite crews were aboard the ships. Five seamen on each destroyer were from Newfoundland, most of them having served in the Royal Navy since start of the war.

Others were veteran British bluejackets who had been through several naval actions and talked of fighting in Norway and the Channel ports.

Many were survivors of British ships sunk by the enemy and they were full of fight to hit back at the Nazis.

From the bobbing, wind-swept bridge of the flotilla leader, the commander calmly directed the destroyer fleet through the open Atlantic and into the war zone with its perils. He scarcely left the bridge.

Practice manoeuvres were held in mid-ocean and put into use in dead earnest when the flotilla entered the submarine danger region. Gun crews manned the four-inch guns throughout the voyage. All torpedo tubes were loaded for action. Depth charges were ready and anti-aircraft guns tilted toward the sky to blast at any enemy planes which appeared.

The crews rushed to action several times in practice. Gunnery drill was held daily. One afternoon ack-ack guns were tested on this ship.

The destroyers zig-zagged their secret course day and night, keeping in various formations, all of which made a compact fighting fleet.

Even though the primary purpose of the voyage was to get the flotilla to the United Kingdom, an enemy would have been attacked if seen. Some officers were a bit disappointed when a midnight submarine menace proved to be not serious.

Completely blacked out at night the ships glided through the darkness like grey ghosts. It was one of the world's most haunting sights to stand on the heaving bridge at midnight with dark clouds scudding past the moon and watch the shadow of destroyers to port and starboard ghosting through the black seas, leaving a thin ribbon of foam.

At dawn they were always there. It was a navigation mystery to this writer how one or more did not lose contact some foggy or stormy night.

They are British warships now. But everywhere about the compact vessels is evidence of their American origin. Everyone aboard slept under white blankets marked "U. S. Navy." Dishes, cutlery and ammunition were all American.

MENACED BY WHALES

LONDON, Sept. 28 (CP-Cable)—A troublesome school of whales was flopping about the flotilla of Britain's American destroyers which arrived yesterday.

It caused one captain with a sense of humor to flash this message to the flotilla commander:

"We are menaced by whales."

Laughing heartily the commander sent this message back:

"Gash, get our your harpoon."

More Boys Born to Longlived Parents

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29 (AP) — More and sounder male children—an extra margin of potential soldiers—are born to parents who live the longest, an age-sex ration study showed today.

"Long-lived" parents produce more male than female children, Dr. Philip S. Lawrence reported in "human biology." These parents are constitutionally sounder and apparently more fertile.

His statistical study showed long-lived mothers had more influence on this higher male ration than long-lived fathers and the higher sex ration was transmitted in some degree to children of the second generation.

In a previous study, Dr. Raymond Pearl had concluded that long-lived persons are "not only the fittest part of the human race, but as a group transmit to their progeny a definite superiority in this respect."

It is additional proof of the medical adage that to live long, you should "choose" long-lived parents, particularly long-lived mothers.

Dr. Lawrence, biologist of the School of Hygiene and Public Health, John Hopkins University, headed by Dr. Pearl, studied family history records of 2225 grandparents who had 11,289 children and 31,535 grandchildren.

Relatively short-lived parents — those dying under 70—produced 48.5 per cent male children. Those living past 70 had about 52 per cent boys.

Normally Dr. Lawrence said, about 51 to 52 per cent of all births are males. Due to higher mortality among boys however, the number of boys and girls soon becomes about equal.

Canada Continues Relations With Govt. at Vichy

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP)—Moved by a desire to keep in friendly touch with the people of France, Canada is maintaining official relations with the Vichy Government through the French Legation here headed by Rene Ristelhueber.

Officials here said yesterday the situation was unchanged despite recent actions by the Vichy Government in bombing Gibraltar and that the future would be entirely dependent on developments which they hesitated to forecast.

A nation-wide organization prepared to help the Free French forces under Gen. Charles de Gaulle has been set up in Canada but pending granting of a charter by the Federal Government is not taking positive action, it was learned yesterday from Henri Gauthier, Ottawa representative of the organization.

After the organization was formed, it offered its assistance to Gen. Charles de Gaulle and he replied, suggesting that, if possible money be raised among French citizens for the purchase of tanks and other articles of war equipment for the Free French forces.

In the same letter Gen. de Gaulle said the organization should "at all costs keep within the laws of Canada," Gauthier said yesterday.

...r Minister Power Hard Driving Worker; Loves Joke in Relaxation

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

...his office at Royal Canadian ...Force headquarters Hon. ...ries Gavan Power, Minister for ...is a grim-visaged, dead-in-earn... ...administrator of a tremendous ...undertaking.

...ut in his moments of relaxation ...ubby" Power is a jovial com... ...ion a mirth-provoking after... ...er speaker and a master of re... ...ee in political debate.

...e was made Minister of National ...nce for Air when the new de... ...tment was created by act of ...liament last May.

...wo months later he was sworn ...as Associate Minister of Na... ...al Defence for air." But nearly ...rybody calls him "Chubby" and ...does not seem to mind, even ...n it comes from an absent... ...ded correspondent at a formal ...ss conference.

...he name "Chubby" was applied ...him when he was a small, well... ...nded boy at Sillery, a Quebec ...urb where he was born Jan. 18. ...

...stayed with him through his ...ege days when he was a star ...key and football player, through ...service overseas which brought ...the military cross and crippling ...unds, and throughout his long ...itical career.

...ow, nearing his 52nd birthday, ...or Power is of medium height, ...ll-built and jaunty in his bear... ...active in his movements. His ...k, dark hair is graying, as is ...crisp moustache. He is some... ...at swarthy and wears horned-...med glasses at his desk. He ...ngs these in his hand when in ...versation or debate.

...he Powers have been prominent ...ber dealers in Quebec for three ...erations. His great-grandparents ...both sides of his family came ...from Ireland near the end of ...18th century. Charles Gavan ...ned for legal practice and has ...roled to that profession what ...e he has had to spare in 23 years' ...stant membership in the House ...Commons.

When he became Air Minister, Major Power declared at once that he would have to learn from the ground up. He put in long hours at it and soon produced results. He is head of the $650,000,000 commonwealth air training scheme launched last Fall and designed to turn out great numbers of air personnel for the forces of Great Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Germany's crushing defeat of the Low Countries and France forced a halt in British plane deliveries for the scheme and looked for a time as though it would be wrecked before it got well underway.

"We're going to get those machines somewhere, and we are going to get this plan working in half the time (three years) originally planned," Major Power declared. Recently he was able to announce virtual attainment of these objectives.

Major Power always felt a dislike for the so-called "brass hats" and frequently said so publicly. When he went into the Defence Department he felt a little apprehension on that score. But he found the "brass hats," as he had pictured them, in the air force and he has been happy in his associations with a great number of officers he has had to work with.

On Sept. 26, 1916, after a brilliant career of service in France, Major Power was severely wounded. He was being helped by a comrade to reach a dressing station near Regina Trench on the Somme, when a German stretcher bearer, lost on the oddly changing field of battle, encountered the two Canadians and decided to give first aid. A bursting shell killed the German and the other Canadian, and Major Power received further wounds.

After a year in hospital he returned to Canada unfit for further service, in September, 1917.

Three months later he was elected to the House of Commons as Liberal member for Quebec South and he has represented the same riding ever since. His father, William Power, had represented the same district from 1901 to 1917, thus setting up a father-and-son combination of continuous representation probably unequalled in any other riding.

Major Power is fluently bi-lingual. He is a hard-hitting political debater and an authority on election legislation.

A newspaper writer said of Major Power, in 1933, that he was "the owner of as pleasant and friendly a voice as ever cast aspersions upon the honesty, wisdom and good manners of a Tory minister."

He has been a minister himself since October, 1935, when he was sworn in as Minister of Pensions and National Health. He liked this portfolio because it gave him a chance to deal with war veterans. For years he had been active in connection with pension legislation.

As Minister he won the respect of his former comrades in arms by his fearless advocacy of their rights, and his candid advice to themselves when he believed they were asking too much.

He was Postmaster-General for several months last Winter but creation of an air ministry was already rumored and observers in Ottawa rightly guessed that he would be its head.

Major Power is a little drawn and haggard these days because his job calls for long and arduous toil. But his eyes still twinkle merrily when he has time to tell a new story and hear one in exchange.

Wall St. Buying Starts at Close

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP).—Selected stocks got back on their feet in Saturday's market although the majority showed little inclination for a fast rallying sprint.

The list was a bit ragged until the final hour when buying in steels, rails and an assortment of specialties brightened the picture considerably.

Speculative forces, brokers said, still were confused by international affairs, particularly the latest complications in the Far East indicating a widening of the rift between Japan and the United States.

Scattered preferred stocks came to life for fair-sized advances. Among these were McKesson & Robbins, Certain-Teed, Budd Mfg., and Willys Overland.

Govt. to Announce Evacuation Scheme

LONDON, Sept. 29 (CP.-Cable)—An official announcement on the future of the Government's Overseas Evacuation scheme may be expected early next week, it was learned yesterday.

The Cabinet is known to have been studying the scheme since the torpedoing of the City of Benares but there has been no indication of their decision. The Children's Overseas Reception Board, however, is still accepting applications and as far as it is concerned the scheme is continuing.

FORMER RUMANIAN LEADERS ARRESTED

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 29 (AP).—Fourteen leaders of former King Carol's regime were placed under house arrest by the government yesterday.

Guards were placed on the homes of the 14 former leaders "to prevent violence," an official communique added, accusing the men of "lurking clandestinely."

The list was headed by Gen. Gheorghe Argesanu, who was Premier a few days after the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu Dec. 21, 1939.

To Prosecute Shirkers in Militia Training

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 29 (CP).—Members of the Non-Permanent Active Militia units of this area who failed to live up to their enlistment orders and missed twice-weekly drills will be prosecuted under the Militia Act, Lt.-Col. William Griesinger, Area Commandant, warned yesterday.

Contending that "certain members of the N. P. A. M. in this district" are apparently of the opinion that their training was completed when they spent 15 days in camp, Col. Griesinger drew attention to military orders compelling all men to serve 30 days' training.

SAYS IMPERIAL WAR POLICY IS NEEDED NOW

SYDNEY, Sept. 29 (CP-Reuters). A. G. Cameron, member of the Australian War Cabinet, in a statement yesterday on the three-way Axis pact, said it throws open the whole question of international relations.

He declared it is becoming increasingly clear that an imperial war policy is needed for the Empire.

"We were driven to that in the last war and it looks as if we will be driven to it in this war," Mr. Cameron added.

GREAT U. S. DAM NEARLY FINISHED

COULEE DAM, Wash., (CP). — Grand Coulee Dam is high-balling toward completion, U. S. Bureau of Reclamation authorities report that 96 per cent of its ultimate 10,500,000 cubic yards of concrete is in place. And but 200,000 yards (mostly in slower-curing special mixes) remain to be placed by Consolidated Builders, Inc., principal contractor, to finish the mammoth structure in March, 1942.

Winnipeg Wheat Continues Climb

WINNIPEG, Sept. 29 (CP). — Strong prices at Chicago brought buyers into the wheat pit on Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday and wheat futures prices continued their climb from pegged levels. Closing quotations were 1¼ — 1⅝ higher, with October at 71¼, December 73¼ and May 77⅛ cents a bushel.

The upturn in Winnipeg prices was believed to have been stimulated by the firm tone of the Chicago market where prices were nearly two cents higher. Both domestic and United States mills made purchases in the wheat pit where offerings were scarce.

Trade in the coarse grain pit reflected the strong tone of the wheat pit. Hedging pressure was light and offerings scarce. Shippers and mills took supplies of barley, mills purchased oats and crushers showed interest in flax.

East Kootenay Power Net Earnings Show Gain $2991, August

MONTREAL, Sept. 29 (CP). — Increase of $2991 was reported today by East Kootenay Power Company Ltd., in August net earnings of $36,973, compared with $33,982 in the corresponding period of 1939.

Net earnings for the five months ended Aug. 31 amounted to $170,391, an increase of $21,295 over net earnings of $148,906 in the corresponding period of last year.

Base Metals Slide on Montreal Market

MONTREAL, Sept. 29 (CP).—The stock market displayed a mixed trend in quiet late trade yesterday.

Base metals were on the downside as sizeable fractional declines were charged against Noranda and Nickel. Utilities also were easier as broken lots of Bell Telephone and Shawinigan backed fractionally.

BELLA COOLA DOCTOR GOES TO TRANQUILLE

BELLA COOLA, B. C., Sept. 29 (CP) — Authorities of the Bella Coola Hospital announced yesterday the resignation from the permanent staff of Medical Superintendent J. D. Galbraith, who has served in that capacity for four years.

Dr. Galbraith is accepting a position at the Provincial Government Tuberculosis Sanitorium at Tranquille, effective Oct. 1. No new appointment for the Bella Coola Hospital has yet been announced.

Citrus Advertising Fund Is Expanded; It Moves the Fruit

Convinced that advertising has been an effective means of moving the pack of citrus fruit to market, directors of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange have voted an increase of two cents per packed box on lemons and navel oranges during the 1940-41 season, according to Russell Z. Eller, Advertising Manager for Sunkist.

"Present crop estimates indicate an advertising appropriation of about $2,225,000 for the new year, beginning with November," said Eller.

"The additional two cents a box on navel oranges represents the same advertising assessment which has been in effect on oranges during the Summer Valencia season. The increase in the lemon assessment is from 10 to 12 cents a box.

"The larger assessment will make it possible to expand and intensify Sunkist advertising and merchandising for both oranges and lemons to the end that greater consumer demand may be built up for increasing crops, and conditions in the California citrus industry may be improved."

Chicago Wheat Up Over Two Cents

CHICAGO, Sept. 29 (AP).—Wheat futures shot up more than two cents a bushel Saturday, December to a new top for the past three months and May to a new high for the season, as the market absorbed buying attributed partly to consuming interests.

Strengthening spot market wheat prices, reflecting efforts to buy milling requirements in the face of diminishing supplies not under government loans, stimulated some of the pit activity.

No. 1 hard wheat sold around 84 cents, about 3 cents over the Government loan rate for No. 2 and the best premium so far this season.

Business Endorses United War Drive

OTTAWA (CP)— Business men have endorsed the plan for a united war charities drive to be held annually and now being studied by the voluntary services branch of the National War Services department. This is shown in a dominion-wide survey made by the Better Business Bureau of Canada.

Dr. W. E. Stapleford of Victoria College, University of Toronto, is new director of voluntary services under War Services Minister J. G. Gardiner, has been in conference with the different main organizations concerned with charitable work and before long a decision on united drives will be announced.

S. L. Dion, manager of the Ottawa and Hull branch of the Bette Business Bureau, said that in letters and conversation with business men, boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in all parts of the country, their bureau had learned that war charities appeals had reached a point where they were seriously interfering with time and business.

"All the business men whom we have been in contact show perfect willingness to contribute to the utmost," said Mr. Dixon. "They will gladly add up what they give for a year and give it in a lump sum, but the constant interruptions and waste of time is not only annoying but uneconomical."
