LONDON DAMAGE HIGH, BUT 33 PLANES FALL

Waves of Bombers Smash at Germans

FLEET DELIVERS POWERFUL BLOW UPON AXIS PORT

Bengasi Shelled; Two Ships Destroyed in Action

DOWN 7 PLANES

By ROBERT BUNNELLE

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—Britain's Mediterranean squadrons, on the loose again, have delivered another powerful blow against Italian North Africa and escaped unscathed from a mass assault by Axis bombing and torpedo planes, the Admiralty announced Saturday.

This action took place last Thursday, the Admiralty said, beginning in the early morning hours when units of the Fleet stole up to the Libyan coast and shelled the important Axis port of Bengasi, in an action similar to the April 22 naval and air assault on Tripoli.

Berlin said Sunday night that the fleet renewed its shelling of Bengasi during the weekend but claimed that two cruisers and three destroyers carrying out the action were driven off by dive-bombers. No announcement concerning this action has been made so far by the Admiralty.

The announcement said two Axis supply ships approaching Bengasi harbor were intercepted. One, a 4000-ton merchantman, was sunk and the other, an ammunition ship of between 5000 and 6000 tons, was blown to bits. Additional hits were reported on ships in the harbor.

Later Thursday, the Admiralty announced, the Mediterranean fleet weathered without damage an Axis air assault which began in the afternoon and continued into the night.

In contrast to an Italian boast that warships and three merchantmen were hit and 16 escorting British fighter planes were destroyed, the Admiralty gave this as the true score:

Seven Axis planes downed for certain, five badly damaged and others hit; two British fighters lost and the crew of one saved—and not a single British ship hit.

Labor Victor in New South Wales

SYDNEY, May 11 (CP.-Cable)—A large swing-over in the New South Wales vote Saturday gave Labor a solid victory which some observers said may have repercussions affecting the Federal Government of Prime Minister Menzies.

They recalled that it was the New South Wales Labor vote which almost defeated the Menzies Government in the last Federal election. Prime Minister Alexander Mair and his United Australian Party government, now ousted from office in New South Wales, had been in power since 1939.

With returns incomplete, the Labor rites, formerly the State opposition under the leadership of W. J. McKell, took at least 53 seats of 89. Before the election Labor held 46 seats, the Government 55. In the government party, Prime Minister Mair headed the United Australia Party with M. F. Brunxner, Deputy Premier and Transport Minister, leader of the Country Party. Both were returned, although four Cabinet Ministers were defeated.

Netherlands Airmen Get Chance to Hit at Nazis; Anniversary Observed

LONDON, May 11 (CP).—Exemplars of the continuing fight for Netherlands and Belgian independence, airmen of the Royal Netherlands Navy in United States made planes raided German-held airdromes in Europe for the first time Saturday in a grim observance of the first anniversary of the Nazi invasion which overran the Low Countries.

Heartened by the news, exiles from the Low Countries in London participated in ceremonies of reconsecration to the struggle.

The fliers, outfitted with Hudson (Lockheed) planes presented by Netherlands people overseas, attacked the German air bases and wharves at Kirstiansand and Manual on Norway's South coast, raining explosive and incendiary bombs throughout most of Friday night and Saturday morning.

Previously they had served as skipping guards while perfecting their training. Whether the raiders flew over their German-occupied homeland was not disclosed, but one of the squadron leaders declared with feeling:

"We've been waiting for a chance like this. It was fine to take part in striking a real blow at the enemy."

Backed up by the British Coastal Air Command, the bombers smashed at the airdrome runways and set large hangar fires, the Air Ministry news service reported.

Here in London, Netherlands exiles gathered at the ruins of a bombed church. As they sang their National Anthem, the Netherlands flag was raised to full-staff, its horizontal bars of red, white and blue whipping in the breeze.

"Hitler may run to the West and rush to the South and fly to the East and march to the North," declared Premier Pieter S. Gerbrandy. "We know that gaining victories is not winning a war. . . The enemy knows it too. . . He is cut off from vital raw materials. . . He knows his preparedness has reached its zenith, while America is just getting into stride."

In a broadcast speech, Queen Wilhelmina expressed confidence in a final victory and asserted that among Netherlanders everything there is a conviction that "our resistance must be absolute."

Hamburg Heavily Blasted for Third Time; Bremen Hit; Seven Nazi Raiders Downed Over Britain

LONDON, May 12 (Monday) (CP).—Hamburg, heavily blasted by the Royal Air Force on Thursday and Saturday nights, again was attacked last night by British bombers, it was reported authoritatively today.

Bremen and other targets in Northwest Germany also were attacked.

On the home front, meanwhile, the Government announced seven German aircraft were shot down during "very widespread" raids on Britain. Damage nowhere was heavy it was said.

BERLIN, May 12 (Monday) (AP).—Several waves of British bombers attacked coastal cities of Northern Germany last night, authorized Germans admitted today. They reported the raiders dropped explosives and incendiary bombs and claimed damage had been done to several residential sections.

LONDON, May 11 (CP).—Britain sent an armada of 100 bombers into Germany's skies last night and early today to pound Hamburg int the second massive and destructive raid within a week on the German port. Small units struck at Berlin and Nazi-held cities on the continent.

The Air Ministry announced, and the Germans acknowledged, that widespread destruction and raging fires were left in already badly-battered Hamburg, which with Bremen was the target Thursday night of the biggest mass of R. A. F. planes ever assembled for a single night's attack.

New devastation was churned up among the port's much-bombed shipyards and industrial plants, the Air Ministry's account said.

In an unusual admission, Berlin said that in addition to fires and destruction there were many casualties. In Thursday's raid they acknowledged at least 94 casualties and 35 missing.

The Air Ministry news service said the British bombers again used their new heavy bombs.

Telling of the attack on Berlin, the news service said on the way back from the German capital, a bomber engaged two Messerschmitt fighters firing cannon and machine guns.

The bomber dived and shook off the Germans for a moment, the rear gunner held his fire until the Nazis closed in again and then let them have it, with one Messerschmitt crashing and the other turning away.

"It was not only a night of formidable bombing," said the news service, "but also of marked success against many fighters which the enemy put up to help their ground defences. Four enemy aircraft are known to have been destroyed, and at least two others severely damaged by our bombers."

Coupled with the major attack upon Hamburg, the Air Ministry said that other R. A. F. and Coastal Command formations raided the ports of Bremen, Emden and Rotterdam, Holland; supply ships, docks and oil facilities at La Pallice, France; and shipping off the Netherlands and Danish coasts. A German naval vessel and two supply ships were hit.

At La Pallice, on the Southern French coast near La Rochelle, docks, oil stores and a refinery were set blazing and much damage was done to buildings along the docks.

Planes of the R. A. F. and Coastal Command carrying out these operations downed at least four German craft and scored other "probables" the Air Ministry said.

Loss of seven R. A. F. bombers was announced by the Ministry.

Describing Saturday night's attacks on German shipping, the Air Ministry said medium bombers "swept hundreds of miles of the North Sea" in search of targets.

One pilot related that he sighted two German naval vessels off the Frisian Islands and attacked one of them.

See Defeat for Anti-Convoy Vote

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP).—Some backers of the Tobey anti-convoy resolution conceded today that it faces almost certain defeat in the Senate and undertook to dissuade the author, Senator Charles Tobey (Rep.-N.H.) from pressing it to a vote.

With informal polls indicating that supporters could muster less than 40 votes for the proposal, Senator Gerald Nye, North Dakota Republican and leading isolationist, told reporters he was "afraid it hasn't a chance."

Nye said he thought President Roosevelt "would take its defeat as a signal to go ahead with convoys."

Meanwhile, Senator Harry Byrd (Dem.-Va.) told reporters the Government should make public figures on the dollar value of United States supplies forwarded under the provisions of the Lease-Lend Bill that have been sunk en route to Britain.

IMPORTANT IRAQ OIL STATION IS IN BRITISH HANDS

Armored Cars Take It Over After Air Attack

MOSUL OILFIELDS HEAVILY BOMBED

By ERIC BIGIO
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, May 11 (AP).—British armored cars occupied Fort Rutba, an important and hotly-contested station on the Mosul oil line to the Mediterranean, after a bomb attack by a single British plane, it was announced tonight.

The announcement said the whole Rutba area now is under British control.

Besides its importance to the oil pipe line, Rutba is an air and highway junction of routes connecting Palestine, Syria and Baghdad.

The Royal Air Force carried the war against the pro-Axis Iraqi to the Northern oil fields with a heavy raid on Mosul, communicating centre of the Tigris River, 230 miles Northwest of Baghdad, the Air Command announced today.

Twelve direct hits were scored on airdrome buildings and a transport park at Mosul.

At Basra at the head of the Persian Gulf, and at Habbaniyah airdrome, 60 miles West of Baghdad, quiet prevails.

Reports reaching Cairo said the pro-Axis Leader, Rashid Ali Al Gailani, attempting to gain Moslem support had been rebuffed both by Saudi Arabia and Iran (Persia).

King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia was said to have informed the Iraq Premier that he was unable to offer any assistance or protection.

These same advices said Rashid Ali sent a personal envoy to Teheran only to be told that Iran "completely disapproved" of his revolt.

On the North African front, the R. A. F. again was active, reporting new raids on Derna airdrome, Ain El Gazala and Jedabaya, all in Libya and important Axis bases. At the latter R.A.F. pilots bombed big German troops carriers and at Ain El Gazala a Messerschmitt was destroyed while attempting to take off. Other planes on the ground were machine-gunned.

At Tobruk, 80 miles West of the Egyptian frontier, the British Command said an advance patrol surprised and broke up an Italian unit digging trenches near the outer perimeter of the port's defences.

On Saturday British authorities announced that Lt.-Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, former commander of British forces in Greece and in Egypt, had taken over command of Imperial forces in trans-Jordan and Palestine.

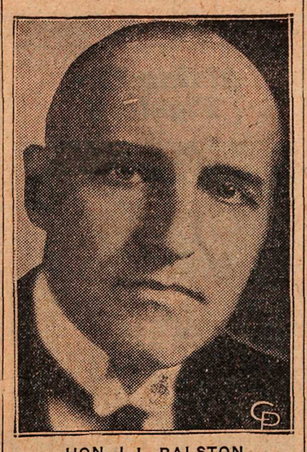
RALSTON ISSUES CALL FOR 32,000 MEN IN 2 MONTHS

To Build Up Armored Units; Replace Units of 4th Division

REINFORCE OTHERS



HON. J. L. RALSTON

OTTAWA, May 11 (CP) — Defence Minister Ralston tonight issued a call to the young men of Canada to join the active army. He said 32,000 are needed in the next two months.

"Tonight I open Canada's first recruiting campaign," he said in a radio address. "This is a call for men for the army.

"I will get right down to business. We need about 32,000 men in the next two months."

The Minister said the men were needed to bring the armored division up to strength, to replace units of the 4th Division which had been transferred to the armored division and to reinforce units of the 3rd Division and others. He said the Government now was asking for the reinforcements which would normally be required over the next two months.

A month ago, Col. Ralston said, he had said Canada would need probably 6000 men a month to provide replacements and keep up the strength of units. But the plans had to be changed. Yugoslavia and Greece had fallen.

"Hitler now threatens the Middle East and Suez," Col. Ralston said. "Equipment which could ill be spared has been lost. The shipping situation has grown more serious. That is all in a short month."

Col. Ralston said most of the men were needed for artillery, armored formations, engineer units, ordinance and other technical services. Only about 10 per cent of the 32,000 were wanted for the infantry.

In a mechanized war men were needed to operate machines. This did not mean that recruits need have mechanical training although that was desirable.

"We now can take green men and train them in our army trade schools," said the Minister.

He appealed to Canadian citizens generally, to veterans of the First Great War and to employers to help along the campaign. He asked employers to so adjust their staffs that men could enlist but said the Government had no wish to interfere with industrial production.

If a key man in an industry enlisted arrangements would be made whereby his employer could go before a board, and if the man concerned were willing, obtain leave for him to carry on at his job.

Some persons, he said, asked whether the Canadian Corps in England was performing the greatest possible service by being there.

"Let me assure you," he said. "They are there because the United Kingdom Government wants them there and we have concurred; and more than that, the United Kingdom Government wants us to increase our forces there and we agreed following our recent conferences in England.

The Minister said there was no shortage of manpower in sight in Canada. Women could be used to replace men in factories and even in certain capacities in the Army.

"I am assured we can have the men needed for the navy, the army and the air force and still carry on our essential industrial program," he declared.

The Minister called on "the fit, the strong and the young" to join the army because the young men already in the army needed comrades and companions to share their task.

"Canada needs men for the army and needs them now," he said, "and Canada has never called to the brave and the true in vain."

Opening his speech the Minister said last year the army secured 40,000 men in a few months without a formal recruiting campaign.

SENATOR TAYLOR OF COAST FOUND DEAD BY TRACKS

Publisher Is Believed to Have Fallen From Train

WINDOW BROKEN

WINTER Sask., May 11 (CP).—Police investigators were "quite satisfied" tonight the body of an elderly man, found today along the railway tracks near Vera, Sask., is that of Senator J. D. Taylor, 77, of New Westminster, B. C.

WINTER, Sask., May 11 (CP).—The body of an elderly man, believed to be that of Senator J. D. Taylor, 77, publisher of the New Westminster British Columbian, a daily newspaper, was found today along the side of railway tracks near this Northwestern Saskatchewan town.

Senator Taylor was occupying a sleeping car compartment aboard the Eastbound Canadian National Railways "Continental Limited" and was bound for Ottawa. When the train reached Saskatoon early today the compartment was found to be empty with the window glass broken. Subsequent search along the line between Edmonton and Saskatoon led to discovery of the body clad in night clothes. Identification was not established definitely today.

The Senator left Vancouver Friday to attend the Parliamentary session at Ottawa. As the train was leaving Biggar, Sask., 75 miles East of Winter, today a railway employee noticed the broken window.

Instructions were telegraphed to Saskatoon to investigate when the train reached there and it was found the broken window was in Senator Taylor's compartment. His clothes and other effects were in the compartment, but the Senator was missing. There was no indication of violence.

Section men along the main line were notified immediately and within a short time the body was found near Winter.

Born at River Abenaqui Mills, County of Dorchester, Que., Senator Taylor began his newspaperman's career with the Ottawa Citizen. After reporting for Montreal and Ottawa papers and outlining activities of Parliament from the Parliamentary press gallery from 1886 to 1892 he moved to British Columbia to continue his career with the Victoria Colonist. While in Ottawa he published the Canadian Militia Gazette.

In 1900 he took charge of the British Columbian and was the Managing Director.

Senator Taylor was appointed to the Senate in 1917 after service in the House of Commons as a Conservative member of Parliament. He was elected to the House of Commons for New Westminster constituency in 1908 and reelected in 1911.

Senator Taylor is survived by two daughters, Dorothy Gladys and Mary Lillian. His wife and son, Cecil, died some time ago.

Parliament, Abbey and Big Ben Hit; Raiders Hit Hard

Night Fighters Bring Down 29 While Guns Down Four; Westminster Hall's Roof, of Wide Fame, Is Pierced

By PAT USSHER—Canadina Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 11 (CP).—The House of Parliament and Westminster Abbey, Big Ben, whose chimes have sounded Empire unity to millions, and Westminster Hall were hit during Saturday night's terrific air raid on London, it was announced today.

In the light of a full moon the Nazi raiders swept across the heart of the capital, dropping thousands of explosives and incendiary bombs.

They smashed the debating chamber of the House of Commons—symbol of Britain's Democratic Government—into ruins. It will have to be rebuilt before it can be used again.

They pierced what many consider the most magnificent roof in the world — that of Westminster Hall, with its soaring arches and sweeping oak beams—and damaged the hall's interior.

They opened Westminster Abbey, historic shrine of England, to the sky.

They blackened and scarred the familiar face of Big Ben, and the apparatus which broadcasts its chimes to the world was put out of action temporarily. But it continued to chime the hours and its clockwork was unharmed. They set fire to a section of the British Museum.

But night fighters, carrying out their most successful counter-attack to date, bagged 29 of the raiders while anti-aircraft downed another four.

This record bag for a single night was estimated to have accounted for 10 per cent of the invading air fleet.

During the first 11 days of May Germany has lost 124 night bombers compared to 90 night bombers for all of April.

Altogether 161 German planes have been destroyed since May 1, it was estimated today. This number was made up of the 124 night bombers and 37 Nazi fighters.

In the House of Lords Capt. E. L. H. Elliott, Resident Superintendent, was killed at his post while assisting in fire fighting. Others killed included two members of the police war reserves and one custodian.

Bombs also smashed the roof of the famous Members' Lobby, already hit in previous raids and which had been shored up by elaborate scaffolding. Doors were torn off and windows smashed.

Westminster Hall, construction of which was started by William Rufus in 1097, is believed to be the largest hall in the world with a roof unsupported by pillars. It is 238 feet long, 60 feet wide and 90 feet high.

Westminster Abbey was open to the sky, and the roof over the Lantern, the low square at the centre of the building, had fallen in.

The Lantern, the absolute centre of the Abbey, is where the platform and coronation chair are set for the crowning of the Kings and Queens of England.

The Deanery of Westminster Abbey, one of the most perfect mediaeval houses in England, was destroyed and the Dean and his wife were left with nothing but the clothing they were wearing.

The Cloisters were flooded but otherwise undamaged.

Part of the debris of the Dean's house fell on Cloister Garth, historic square of turf in the middle of the Cloisters. The roof of the Lantern was destroyed by an incendiary bomb, the timbers all burned and fallen on the floor of the crossing, the central space where the transept and the choir of the Abbey intersect.

The Abbey pulpit was badly damaged, and much damage was done by water streaming down from the roof. The most historic parts of the Abbey were undamaged. The Eastern part, where the Royal tombs are situated, is intact.

"Most of the architecturally important parts of the Abbey buildings survived and the fabric is intact," said Alan Russel, architect to Westminster School.

Most of the British Museum's buildings' treasures had been removed to safety months ago and the damage was comparatively light.

The Government said "reports show the number of casualties is high and that considerable damage has been done."

Five hospitals were struck by bombs — one of them filled with children. Blasted were several A. R. P. centres, a hotel, a street market and a movie theatre, a Salvation Army centre and several churches.

Navy Action to Mean War; Delay Need Says Hoover

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP). — Herbert Hoover said tonight that the United States will be at war "the moment our navy is put into action," and, pleading for time to prepare, advocated a policy of delay.

The former President declared that the United States is unprepared for war from a military or industrial standpoint and asserted that, beyond a general determination to defend the Western Hemisphere and popular condemnation o aggressor nations, "we are a divided people."

"It is now proposed that we should put the American Navy into action," Hoover said in a broadcast address. "That is a straightforward, undesirable proposal which boldly makes clear the meaning of words like convoy or patrols.

"That is joining in this war, once and for all. From here the steps are automatic. Our navy must attack German submarines, ships and planes if it is to be of any use. To make it effective then we must expand naval and air bases abroad. We must equip these bases with expeditionary forces. And that is war for long years to come."

Hoover gave as his solution a course of action which he said would keep the United States out of actual conflict thereby enabling the country to give Great Britain "every tool that will really aid her regardless of our own preparedness."

"There are risks in this course," he said, "but it is the least perilous road we can now take."

Oldest Mother Is Honored Mother's Day at Tabernacle

A tribute to mothers was paid by the congregation of the Bethel Tabernacle Sunday, Mother's Day, at both morning and evening services.

Representing all the mothers, Mrs. Emily Greenway, age 86, the oldest mother of the congregation, was seated in a flower-decked chair, and presented with a lovely bouquet. As parents of the largest family in attendance, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Kraft were also honored and presented with a bouquet. Children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Kraft, 10 in all, attended.

Appropriate songs marked both the services, while at the evening services Mrs. C. A. C. Story delivered a stirring message basing her remarks on the story of the "Mother of Moses". "The Key to Victory" was the subject of Rev. C. A. C. Story's morning sermon.

Frank Dyke led the songs of the morning service. A quartette of Mrs. Alvin Peterson, Mrs. Albert Wilbur, Frank Dyke and Mr. Story sang "Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me". The evening singing was led by Mr. Story; a Swedish duet was rendered by Mrs. Olive King and Mrs. Bonderuk; and a quartette by Miss Elsie Riddock, Mrs. Wilbur, Mr. Dyke and Mr. Story.

Nelson Tobacco Fund Orders to Date Total $50

Nelson district residents sending tobacco to men overseas through the B.C. Department of Trade and Industry Fund have so far purchased $50.50 of tobacco and cigarettes. This is the total forwarded to Victoria to date by the Nelson Women's Auxiliary to the Active Service Forces, the auxiliary having undertaken to collect orders left with Nelson stores and to send them to the Department, which in turn sends them overseas. The orders are filled from bulk supplies at the office of W. A. McAdam, B.C. Government representative in London.

Orders to this total were reported to the Auxiliary at its meeting.

Mrs. A. D. Oliver, Secretary, reported the receipt of four cash gifts to assist in supplying comforts to men on active service. They were: Dokkies, $5.11; Gelinas Bowling Club, $13.15; Eagles, $38.90; and Joy makers Club, $61.75. A vote of thanks to each was passed.

The Auxiliary authorized ordering $50 worth of wool for knitting into socks, sweaters and so on.

It was decided to send parcels of socks to men in Canada who appear likely to go overseas shortly, and an appeal was made for relatives of these men to give their addresses to the Auxiliary for checking against lists at present held.

Koolaree Camps Being Organized

The lure of the camp fire and of the great out-of-door will again this Summer season call out many youngsters and young people to Camp Koolaree on the West Arm. The West Kootenay Religious Education Council has almost completed arrangements for the five 10-day camps, and is calling for early registration of campers.

Skilled camp directors have been named for the senior boys, junior boys, intermediate girls and senior girls camps. A director will be appointed later for the young people. In addition to qualified directors at each camp, the camp staff will include a nurse, experienced in first aid and life saving, a sports director and experienced group leaders.

Fred Robins of Trail will direct both the senior and junior boys camps, Miss Gertrude Patmore of Cranbrook the senior girls, and Miss Ameia Hanna of Nelsn the intermediate girls.

CAMPS OPEN JUNE 27

The first camp, the senior boys, will open June 27 and close July 7, while the junior boys camp will be from July 7 to July 17, the young people from July 17 to July 28, the intermediate girls from July 29 to August 8, and the senior girls from August 8 to August 18. While no definite arrangements have been made for a Student Christian Movement camp provision has been made for an additional camp on the schedule.

Registration must be in at least seven days before each camp, but an appeal has been made for early registration this year to facilitate improving the organization for the individual camps.

Canadian Soldier Helps With Family Broadcast, Overseas

LONDON (CP)—Everyday life of a London family while enemy bombers rained destruction on th ecapital forms the theme of a broadcast series in which a Canadian soldier plays a prominent role.

"Front Line Family" is the name of the series, broadcast by the BBC to the Dominion and other parts of the Empire six nights a week.

Private John McLaren of (676 Thurlow St.) Vancouver, plays the role of a Canadian airman in the serial and also acts as announcer. He meets the family, described as the "British family Robinson" at a canteen and later is billeted on them.

McLaren has been granted three months' leave for work on the program with the BBC.

Two 16-Pounders Among Kamloops Trout Caught Main Lake at Weekend

Big Kamloops Trout were pitting themselves against the fishermen Saturday and Sunday on the Main Lake, and several good fish were brought to Nelson.

Conditions on the lake were ideal for boating, following Friday's weather change, but some Nelson fishermen commented that the weather was almost "too fine". Both days were calm and clear, and the weekend saw a great concourse of launches, outboards and rowboats on the waters of the Outlet. The parking areas at Balfour were packed Sunday with cars from Nelson and Trail, and of course there were many Nelson craft on hand for the second weekend in May, usually the big weekend of the season in numbers caught.

Two unidentified Trail fishermen left Nelson by bus Sunday afternoon, each with a large sack of fish. One of them said his top fish was a 16-pounder.

There were rumors brought in from Procter of an 18-pounder, but fish actually reported here did not go beyond 16 pounds, as compared with top weights of 20 1-8 and 21½ pounds for the previous weekend. The best catch reported was by C. W. Appleyard and W. J. Hipperson, who were up Friday, Mr. Appleyard getting a 16-pounder, while Mr. Hipperson got a 10-pound Kamloops and an eight-pound Dolly Varden. They were weighed in Nelson ,and so were not eligible for the Gyro Trout Derby.

William Brown of Third Street, Nelson, got a straight 10-pounder at Queens Bay Saturday. His son Albert was with him.

Another Queens Bay fish was taken by Red Wassick of Nelson Saturday, an eight-pounder. Bruno Salo, his partner, got 1½-pound trout.

Saturday also saw Ray White of Nelson take in a 9-pound 7-ounce fish in the Outlet, as well as a couple of small ones.

Of these last three big fish, Mr. Brown's was the only one eligible for and entered in the Derby.

Ian Currie of Nelson, who got the 20-pound 2-ounce fish of the first weekend, boated an 11-pound 10-ounce one early Sunday morning off Gray Creek, and also had a four-pound Dolly Varden from Kootenay Bay. He and the McMordie brothers, Bill and Bob, were up for two days, and camped at Pilot Bay, where Bobbie picked up a one-pounder.

Presumably big fish were striking in their usual manner all over Kootenay Lake, but the results will not be known until the various weighing stations report.

Czech Pilot Flies Bomber on Schedule

LONDON, (CP). — A Czechoslovak pilot who has made many flights over Berlin as captain of a Royal Air Force bombers was a civil pilot before the war and he causes some amusement to his colleagues by his refusal to recognize any change in his flying duties now that he is delivering bombs instead of peacetime loads.

When his destination is Berlin he sets a course for that city, and flies without paying the slightest attention to searchlights, "flak" or other opposition. He was known as a good timekeeper when a civil pilot. His one thought now appears to be to keep to schedule, deliver the goods and return.

The other members of the crew are regarded almost in the light of passengers by this pilot. His job is to carry them to the target area and back again—with some assistance from the navigator, bomb aimer and air gunner. The second pilot often finds too little to do. If he offers to take over the controls the captain usually waves him away with the word "pump".

The other night a squadron leader decided to take part in a flight acting as second pilot. But when he endeavored to take the controls he met with no better success than the regular second pilot. "Pump"; commanded the captain, "pump."

Old Time Bath Is On Salvage Pile

An old time bathtub, frowned upon so far as the modern bathroom is concerned but rich in copper for salvage, has been added to the collection of salvage now in the hands of the Nelson Junior Chamber of Commerce. Resting in the tub is a launch propeller sans water.

Sorting and preparing the scrap for sale is continuing, with every bag that comes in a new adventure for those handling it. The scope and variety of materials handed in appear limitless.

Letters From "The Front"

Describes Threading Way Through Blazing London; Dance to Gunfire

Further illustration of the unquenchable spirit of the British people is contained in the following letter received by Mrs. Robert Vyse of Nelson, from Miss Marporie Faker of Whetstone, Middlesex, England, who is a stenographer at the Bank of England, London, the letter being written in January during the intensive bombing:

YOUNG VYSE MISSES FUN

Dear Mrs. Vyse:

I am writing to you again because, if all goes well, I will send Freddie's photographs off this weekend; the shipping losses have fallen considerably of late, and I really feel that they will be as safe on the high seas as they are in my home near London.

Freddie has certainly missed some "fun and games," being down at Brighton, I think, since the last "fire raid," as we now call it.

Jerry has certainly tried to wipe London off the map—well, it certainly is a mess. After I had added the postscript to my last letter, at the bank, we had to get home; but how? Our coach did not fetch us, there were no trains and no busses, a few tubes managed to get through but the queue was ¼ mile long and six deep, so six of my friends and I, despairing of a taxi, decided to walk. We tried Moorgate, but it was still burning and close, so I led them through all the back streets, but when we got to Tabernacle Street we had to go along it as all the others were on fire as well. I never dreamed I should have to lead six girls through a street with blazing buildings on either side, one that was no more than a narrow alley. The poor firemen spoke to us as we passed, we wished each other luck, one does that nowadays! Our eyes, like theirs, were streaming, for we had worked all day in an atmosphere of smoke and falling ash, but somehow, seeing them so cheery after long hours firefighting gave us a strange thrill and made us realize that, ghastly as that raid had been, there was something grand brought out by it.

BOMBED OUT BUSINESSMEN RESUME

When we got to Old Street, that had closed too, so I hailed a lorry, luckily he was going our way, so we clambored in, most undiginified, but somehow it was fun. Some soldiers followed suit, and we were brought almost home, more lucky than some. Next day things were more normal—it is miraculous how the world goes on — streets and streets of buildings finished in that raid alone. Several of my friends lost their businesses, but they grin and start up somewhere else. When men of 50 or over do that, I think they deserve our admiration; don't you?

We had two bad raids last weekend. Nearly all of the few buildings left round St. Paul's after the fire raid were hit last weekend, but still St. Paul's stands, dignified, proud, yet very benign, and I assure you it does our hearts good. For half a mile around it there is desolation, ruin after ruin, yet that dome still stands, and the sun glints on the golden cross as though it says, "The end will come, and you will stand then as I stand now, unbeaten; there will still be beauty, kindness and peace."

They say, even now, it will take 30 years to repair the damage done in London. It will give England time to think and plan so that this will not happen again. That was said after the last war, wasn't it? But even the young are saying it now. After the last one, people were mad with gaiety and only thought of chasing pleasure. I do not think that will happen again. I think even dear, slow old England has learned her lesson, and after this war she will be more graceful and dignified as she used to be, more tolerant and understanding of foreigners, and of her own needy people.

LAUGH WHEN CHARGE MISFIRES

I write to you a lot about England I'm afraid, but she's rather on our minds at the moment, and after all, you are from England, and your son is here now. Last week they were dynamiting the unsafe buildings in the city. Crowds gathered to watch, including a Polish officer. One of the charges did not explode and the R.E.S. and people laughed. The Pole turned to a businessman in amazement: "Your beautiful city lies around you in ruins, each night more of it is laid waste, and how you laugh! No wonder no one can understand the English!" Poor man. One day they'll learn that all British people hide their real feelings.

SUBWAY COLLAPSED

I think the wirst "crump" was outside the Mansion House last Saturday night, when the whole subway collapsed. That was grim—the hole is a good 150 feet across, no joke! We had 11 just behind us that night, just as a crowd had arrived to whisk me off to a dance in the country. We went, with guns blazing away all round us. It was amazing. I never dreamed I'd have the courage to go to a dance through gun fire with enemy planes coming over in waves. It's strange what you get used to. One bomber swooped down and I thought it was the end, and it was somehow quite disinterested though, having heard of our hectic time in the papers, poor Fred rang up all the way from Brighton to see if he was needed at my funeral, and found us with no more than colds, which are causing Londoners much more annoyance than bombs.

He is coming to London on a course this weekend. He will be surprised to see what has happened in his absence. Expect he will spend the weekend here. He is trying to phone tonight; he says he has written to you about the course; it is what he wanted.

Sunday: It is quite late now. I have seen Alfred, in fact he has just left and is on his way back to billets. It is freezing again, but we warmed him up before he went. I hope he will not get too cold; he does not like the wet English climate. He is very fit and well, and looks forward to this course. . . . The guns are starting, but he will go under ground, so will be safe.

I do hope all is well in Nelson, you and the whole family are well. You know, I seem to know you quite well now. Freddie always passes on to me what news he thinks will interest me, so B.C. does not seem as strange as it used to be.

Why Use A "Sissy" Laxative?

Chronic constipation has to do with the colon or large intestine. Unless the large bowel is thoroughly emptied from time to time you become a victim of chronic constipation and poisoning of the system which may result in colitis or other serious disease.

Mild or "sissy" laxatives merely cause a movement of the bowels without effecting a thorough cleaning out of the colon or large bowel. For this reason you are misled into thinking that you are doing all you can to overcome a constipated and poisoned condition of the system.

Those who know Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills appreciate the value of a real medicine which not only effects a thorough cleansing of the colon or large bowel but also arouses the liver and kidneys to activity in filtering poisons from the blood.

Once you have proven the merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you will never return to the use of "sissy" laxatives. Keep regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills once or twice a week.

Allied Shipping Losses Heavy During Last Year

LONDON, May 11 (CP). — British, ben Allies and the neutrals lost 1098 ships aggregating 4,734,407 tons in the year since the Nazi invasion of the Low Countries, new Admiralty statistics showed Saturday.

The Admiralty figures presented these totals:

For 12 months:

British ships lost—719.

From the start of the war to the end of April, according to Admiralty figures, British, Allied and neutral ships losses number 1442 and total 5,961,044 tons.

Broken down, these figures show 885 of the ships were British, totalling 3,810,541 tons, and 558 were Allied and neutral vessels totalling 2,150,503 tons.

The figure for the 12 months ending April 30 of 4,734,407 tons compares with the total of 5,639,000 sunk in 1917, the top year of Imperial Germany's U-boat campaign.

In the first four months of 1941, the Admiralty communique showed the total of British, Allied and neutral merchant marine losses were 368 ships, an aggregate of 1,617,359 tons.

On the other side of the ledger, the communique declared the Axis had lost 2,912,000 tons of shipping since the war began, of which 600,000 tons were lost in the past six weeks.

In connection with the statement on mercantile losses during April, an Admiralty press notice gave the following list of monthly losses, revised to the present, on a calendar month basis since May, 1940:

"The Germans have claimed to have sunk during the month of April 1,144,995 tons and the Italians 74,000 tons, making a total of 1,281,-995 tons, or more than 2½ times the actual losses.

"Fresh Fields" to Be Presented Here by Little Theatre

"Fresh Fields," a gorgeous comedy, will be presented by the Nelson Little Theatre next Friday at the Capitol Theatre under the auspices of Kokanee Chapter, I.O.D.E.

The scene of the play is London. Two sisters inherit a Belgravian mansion with all its luxurious effects, but without the income necessary for its upkeep. One sister, Lady Mary Crabbe, a widow, is an energetic and business-like person; the other, Lady Lilian Bedworthy, a languishing, posing and affected creature. Lady Mary's husband, a Mr. Crabbe, had paid a visit to Australia, and while there had made the acquaintance of a warm-hearted inn-keeping family of the name of Pidgeon.

In due course, Mrs. Pidgeon, her daughter, Una, and her brother Tom Larcomb, armed with the credentials supplied by the deceased Mr. Crabbe, call on the two ladies, with the result that the Pidgeons take up their abode with the aristocratic sisters as paying guests. Mrs. Pidgeon, a blatant person, and now very rich, at first dreadfully offends Lady Strawholme, a third and actually wealthy grand dame, by producing her check book when it is proposed that her daughter, Una, should be brought out by the insulted society magnate.

However, these things straighten out astonishingly well within a couple of months. Una, who had been a gauche, clumsy girl, makes a success at Court when presented by Lady Strawholme, and finally pairs off with Lady Mary's son, Tim, who had at first detested her. Also, the very downright Tom Larcomb makes violent love to the not unresponsive Lady Lilian, and actually sweeps her off her feet. Lady Mary and Mrs. Pidgeon, left to their own devices, plan to go round the world together.

Four Directors Elected at Creston Co-Operative Fruit Exchange Meet

CRESTON, B. C. — One of the most largely attended and liveliest annual meetings Creston Cooperative Fruit Exchange has had in years was the 1941 shareholders' meet at Trinity United Church Hall Monday night, with President John Hall in charge.

Mr. Hall briefly reviewed the year's operations, calling attention to the difficult marketing situation. Notwithstanding the marketing reverses Mr. Hall expressed the hope that final payments to growers may not be too long delayed and prices not so low as was at one time expected.

The balance sheet was presented and explained by Robert Cheyne, C. A., of Kelowna, the Exchange auditor, which was adopted after some discussion. The bright side to the financial statement was the announcement that the operations of the year make possible a very substantial packing rebate largely due to increased revenue from cold storage. There is also a profit on gas and oil sales which will permit of a rebate on gas purchases. These rebates are eight cents per box on McIntosh Red and later apples. Four cents per box on Wealthies and pears, and three cents per gallon on gas purchases.

The operating statement showed that slightly more produce was handled in 1940 than in 1939. Figures for the two years as follows: Apples, 1939, 125,408 boxes; 1940, 132,647 boxes. Pears, 1939, 10,358 boxes; 1940, 10,461 boxes. Crabapples, 1939, 2269 boxes; 1940, 3064 boxes. Berries, cherries, currants, prunes, etc., 1939, 11,624 packages; 1940, 14,260 packages.

Four Directors were elected. H. A. Dodd and James Compton, whose terms had expired, are replaced by Percy Boffey and Col. Fred Lister. E. E. Cartwright and L. T. Leveque who had tendered their resignations, were reelected to succeed themselves, and these along with John Hall J. M. Craigie and Hilton Young comprise the Board of Management for 1941-42.

Little Rills Make the Mighty River

Confronted by modern warfare, Canadians are being forced to think in terms of millions and bilions of dollars. We must fight with planes and tanks and ships and guns, the cost of which makes even the last war seem comparatively inexpensive.

Many of us wonder where all these huge sums are coming from.

In times such as these, we are apt to overlook some homely truths. We forget that the Great Lakes are fed by thousands of tiny rivulets that trickle into larger streams and rivers. We fail to recall that in most cases the man who is successful financially learned early the necessity to work harder in the first place and then watch his expenditure of nickels and dimes. We are prone to overlook the fact that fine homes and good automobiles had their beginning in extra effort and the careful management of nickels and dimes. With her population limited, Canada is utterly dependent upon each and eery wage earner in the country in the task of financing our war to a victorious end. Without the money which trickles from the pocket books of the humblest citizens, there can be no great flood of money into the public treasury.

The general rule which guides the individual to financial security calls for two definite undertakings by the individual. He must be willing to pay the physical price, in the form of hard work, and he must takes steps to leave a margin between his total income and his total expenditure.

And since the country is so dependent upon each and every wage earner time, that two-edged rule becomes much more important.

Let's do some simple arithmetic. Assume that there are approximately three and one-half million wage-earners in Canada. If each one of these pared off a nickel here and a dime there from his ordinary everyday expenditure, to make up a total of just $1 a week, the total savings for all Canada would amount to upwards of $200,000,000 a year. That's one side of it. If at the same time, the Government, the employers, the labor unions and the general public made it possible for each of those three and one-half million wage-earners to work an extra four hours a week at an average rate of 50 cents per hour, and they made the proceeds available for paying their share of taxes, the citizens of Canada would have another $600,000,000 for this purpose.

In other words, the combination of the saving of a few dimes each week and four hours' extra work during that week would supply more than three-quarters of a billion dollars for war purposes, over and above what the country has now.

If it were possible to bring about such a new situation in Canada, we would be able to take even such a drastic budget as Mr. Ilsley brought down a few days ago with comparative ease.

Today's Horoscope

If you who have birthdays today commit no rash act or make changes during the next year, it should prove a time of gain, pleasure and many surprises. You should trust your own intuitions during this time. The child born today will be remarkably intuitive, and should always follow his or her own intuitions in preference to the advice of others. In this way such a person will avoid loss and worry.

V. D., Nelson—To put things away in a hope chest, such as crocheted bed spreads, sheets and table cloths, etc., what one must do so that they won't get that reddish color? Some say wrap them in white tissue paper and some say blue paper. Is there any other better way? Must I wash them before putting away; if so, should I starch and iron them?

When putting away delicate white materials or linens in the hope chest, wrap in blue tissue paper or a well blued cloth. This will prevent them from turning yellow. In the case of new things being put away for some time, do not wash them if it is not absolutely necessary, as they will keep much better with the dressing in them, even if mussed from handling in the making. If the linen becomes slightly discolored from being stored, they may be whitened by adding to the washing water a little pipe clay dissolved in cold water.

CANADA'S WEAK-KNEED MILITARY POLICY

The crisis deepends and not a word comes from Ottawa about the raising of further divisions for service in the war. Nothing could have been a feebler excuse than that given by Mr. Ralston when he said that "voluntary enlistment for overseas was stopped last Fall" because of lack of ships to take the troops overseas. Mr. Ralston knows perfectly well that men enlisted in this country remain in training here for anywhere from eight months to a year before they are dispatched overseas. The lack of ships had nothing whatever to do with the Government's decision to "suspend" voluntary enlistment. It is true that last Fall reinforcements were being sent by Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand to the Mediterranean area and many ships were needed for that purpose. It is still more true today that heavier reinforcements still are being dispatched to that battle front, and yet, while that is happening, Mr. Mackenzie King is able to tell Parliament that a big Canadian contingent has landed in England. This all occurs at a time when there are fewer ships available than last Fall, owing to the intensification of the destruction of tonnage in the Battle of the Atlantic.

Mr. Ralston has, in very truth and in very deed, proved himself weak-kneed in his administration of the Department of National Defence. In extenuation of his policy of beating about the bush, so well exemplified in his public utterances, it is possible that he is held in check by the junta of Cabinet Ministers that seems to decree the in-between policy of war effort. To think that at this stage, when the Battle of the Atlantic is reaching new heights, when Germany's campaign in the Balkans has proved so conclusively the overwhelming oods she can bring to bear in the field, in man-power, in mechanical strength and in aerial superiority in numbers. Mr. Ralston is contemplating "a limited recruiting campaign" to secure 30,00 men to reinforce existing units seems a travesty of what this war means. If Canada is ever to realize that she is engaged in what the enemy has determined to be total war, the policy she must follow is "all out" conscription. That realization is as yet far from penetrating the consciousness of the party politicians at Ottawa. The ostrich-like complacency that prevails in Canada's capital is tragically reminiscent of the attitude of the small nations of Europe, which, one after the other, are falling into the maw of the aggressor.—Victoria Colonist.

HIS CHOICE OF NAME

A new variant on the old joke about changing names has just come out of Norway. It seems that a man with a Norwegian name roughly equivalent to "Vidkun Broadbuttucks" went to the magistrate in his home town to petition for a new name, shortly after the puppet-fuehrer, Vidkun Quisling, had made a speech in the town.

"Yes, yes, Mr. Broadbuttocks," said the official, "I can understand that you want to make a change. Now what do you have in mind for a better name?"

"Well, I think I would like to be called Peter Broadbuttocks."

MODEST BOOSTER

Tourist: "My, what a beautiful sunset this is!"

Native: "Yeah, not bad for a small place like this, is it?" — Wall Street Journal.

The subservient behavior of our diplomats in their relations with the British Foreign Office is like nothing else in the world unless it is the behavior of a freshman in a girl's college with a crush on a divinity in the senior class. We fawn and flutter and curry favor with gifts. Our conduct is lacking in dignity and self-respect.

Long before this war began we had every right to demand not only bases on the islands, but the islands themselves, in exchange for the unpaid debts. We did not demand and the attitude of our State Department being what it was and is, of course the British did not offer the islands to us.

We do not start the wars and after all these years of adulation it is not surprising that we are expected to finish them and pay for them.

—Chicago Tribune.

Universal Work Is Policy of Harris

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Sir—Dorothy Thompson, both by her radio addresses and as a columnist, has achieved a unique position on this continent. I congratulate the Daily News on its giving her address which stated the 10 points of her political faith, almost an entire column of its front page, May 7.

It is on article six of this political creed that I intend to comment briefly, as it is far too seldom that the necessity for work—useful, constructive work—is stressed by any of our leaders. I qoute this section:

"Work is essential to the development of every person alive—physical work, mental work and spiritual activity. To close or fail to develop opportunities for work as long as there are things to be done that the human mind can envisage, is a social crime, and a crime against the individual person. All measthe nation and Earth are ill provided for are ures to decrease production when parts of irrational and evil."

It is in this spirit that we, who advocate conscription for peace, approach our problems. Every Canadian ought to try to do something really useful. Usefulness is a prime necessity of health and happiness. It is the very foundation of social justice. The useless citizen is dishonest, even if he or she happens to have a million dollars. Giving or lending your money, however lavishly performed, can be no substitute for personal effort.

One of the tradegies of the present war is that no voice can effectively reach the great masses of the German, Italian or Russian peoples. They all laugh at anything that our leaders say or write, however eloquent and convincing these men may seem to ourselves. They ridicule our democracy and declare that it is a shabby old plutocracy which has solved no great human problems. Unfortunately they are right.

But we can and must do far better. We can declare that we will no longer tolerate uselessness in Canada; that from now on, every Canadian will have to try to do "his bit", either in peace or war. Such a declaration by the Canadian Parliament would do more to bring about a just and lasting Peace than many army corps. We could enforce the duty to serve, without violence. All that we should have to do would be to deny to those who obstinately refused to cooperate with Canada, the right to use our public roads or railroads —we would let the slackers walk. Neither would we allow them to use our telegraphs, telephones or postal service. Why should they?

Look at Canadian farming after repeated doctoring by alternate Liberal and Conservative experts! From end to end of Canada the farmers are in desperate plight. No young Canadians venture to go farming; millions would gladly prefer to go to war. Great streams of excellent produce has gone from Canadian farms for well over 50 years, as I can testify. Meagre little dribbles of goods and services come back from our cities to the farms. Crowds of persons, especially in our larger cities, contrive to snatch the produce from the producers and workers and give nothing of value in exchange.

I am a typical Canadian farmer—a broken down old man, working a broken-down horse, with broken harness, busted harrows, and a worn-out plough. No wonder that Goebels finds it easy to make fun of America, where we have had the folly to put Liberty before Duty!

Get busy Canadians and do "your bit", and stop doing your brother Canadians.

Words of Wisdom

Good qualities are the substantial riches of the mind; but it is good breeding that sets them off to advantage.—Locke.

Etiquette Hints

If you are a young woman going to a strange city to take a job, it is wise to make your temporary headquarters at the Y. W. C. A. or a woman's hotel until you find a permanent place of residence.

Dishonor the Price

Walter Lippman, New York Commentator:

"The price of admission to Germany's new order is first dishonor which robs a people of its self-respect, then disunion and finally the systematic destruction of the nation itself."

Experience

Experience is the thing that puts carats into a man's character. Men need it and it kneads men. Each showdown makes something show up. There is elation in every revelation. Experience wants a man to keep pounding away, instead of idly propounding a way. We must expose ourselves to life and not pose before it. Life cannot be explained—it must be taken on faith with hope in its charity. One cannot stimulate assimilation. It is all a matter of what you can go through and what can go through you. Experience licks a man until he clicks. It keeps hitting a man on the head until he hits things on the head. Experiences dent us and rent us. They are full of ruses and bruises. They lead people into blind alleys to open their eyes. They knock them off pedestals and turn them into pedestrians. They take the hot air out of a man and substitute it with a warm atmosphere. They make a man stand for something and prevent him from leaning against everything. Experience never lets up on a man who has let down. It puts pebbles in his shoes and rocks in his path, until he can bowl over boulders. Experience likes to make a man game for the game. It never lets a cowardly player get to first base on bawls. Experience expects a man to boldly connect with whatever is hurled his way—that will make him hit this sphere or any other with the victorious impact of his identity!

SHELTERS HAVE "SWEEPS"

Novel ideas for sweepstakes have been devised by air-raid shelter parties in London. All proceeds above the prize money go to the Government airplane fund. One plan is a nightly prize to the holder of the ticket with the number nearest the time at which the morning "All Clear" is sounded. A South London firm runs a sweepstake on the number of German planes shot down during the week.

Pioneer Kootenay Man, W. K. Brown Dies at Creston

CRESTON, B. C.,May 11—Resident of historic Fort Garry, now Winnipeg, in the early seventies pioneer farmer in Manitoba at the height of the Riel Rebellion in 1885 and an oldtime resident of West Kootenay since 1897, William Ketchan Brown died at Creston Valley Hospital late Friday evening, in his 87th year.

He was born in Hastings County Ont., in 1854, son of a Methodist pastor and early in the 70's moved to Fort Garry with his parents. In 1885 he went on his own at land operations at High Bluff, Man.

In 1897 Mr. Brown moved West and for four years was at Kaslo and the Lardeau and Slocan districts coming to Creston in 1901 to work at his trade of blacksmith with the oldtime Bigelow & Miller sawmill operators.

Two years later he purchased and developed a 10-acre orchard tract along with operating a blacksmith shop in the village. In 1922 he sold the ranch to the late A. P. Skalen and moved into the village operating his shop until some 10 years ago.

He married Mrs. Milligan of Dothen, Georgia, in 1909, at Nelson and she survives him. A son, William, by a previous marriage was drowned off the tug Hercules in Kootenay Lake in 1910, and another son, Nelson, was an early casualty in the First Great War.

He was prominently identified with the Farmers Institute in its early history, and was active in many community efforts.

Start Training Children to Be Good Parents

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D

As we parents bring up our children well, we not only make of them good citizens in the home and community, and agreeable companions to live with in our family, but we also bring them up to become good wives and husbands good mothers and fathers.

Please allow me to give a concrete example concerning a young father.

Phil grew up in a home where he was wanted, loved and understood. He learned in his early years the alphabet of citizenship, respect for the right of others and regard for authority. He got some spankings in his early years though not many, by parents who planned and agreed upon the few things he would not be allowed to do without getting immediate punishment. Though he learned early to obey, he rarely was commanded. Also he learned to cooperate, for, excepting the few routines, he was not commanded to do things during his early years and seldom later. He was requested and allowed to choose in regard to these requests. When he was requested he really was requested and not commanded in disguise.

CHILDHOOD TRAINING

Since his parents were human like all other parents, they were not perfect but they tried hard to do their best and won the growing lad's esteem, companionship and cooperation. As far as possible they treated him as a sacred personality answering all his questions as well as they were able, listening attentively to what he had to say, never laughing at his queries and remarks. They read to him daily from the time he was about 18 months of age.

The father spent considerable time with the boy and helped in his physical care even during his infancy. The father also shared in the household cares and when the lad was old enough to help he also shared the chores. Playmates came to his home and the child was allowed to engage in the rough and tumble of the neighborhood.

That lad is a father now. His wife and he aim to work and plan together for good guidance of their own children, as his parents had done for him.

Phil helps his wife with the household chores. Since the first baby was a year of age, Phil has bathed her and put her to bed. While he tends her now he talks to her and has been reading to her daily for many months. Phil evinces beautiful insight and understanding of this two year old and seems to enjoy every minute with her.

While the second baby was being expected Phil took on still more of the care of the house and the tot. As soon as there were two, he proved an artist at reducing and preventing jealousy in the older one.

He has an appreciative wife. Both are skillful parents and they are boon companions. Phil has a full-time job. The time he spends helping in this lovely little family is leisure time, recreation as a rule, for he has a right philosophy and a series of good family habits, attitudes and ideals he acquired in his earlier years.

Fine young parents like these reassure me that by taking thought and practicing good skills at parenthood it is possible to see good results in succeeding generations.

Reducing Hips and Waistline

By ALICE WADE ROBINSON

Probably the most popular feminine conception of economy is to spend a trifle more than the budget allows for a frock "because it is an advanced style and will be every bit as good next year." Well, how about your favorite last year's frock?

If it has a "funny fit" perhaps your figure has changed. You may require a whole size larger — in places, at least—and without having put on a pound of weight.

A measurement gain is most conspicuous at the waist and hipline. The waistline settles and thickens and the hips may spread just from sitting eight hours a day.

Keeping your figure is largely a matter of muscle tone. Oddly enough, well-toned muscle weighs more than flabby tissue, but it is compact and takes up little space whereas the flabby tissue is bulky and shapeless. If you condition your waistline muscles and the large gluteus maximus on the back of the hip, you can trim your measurements without counting calories.

Outdoor play is the most enjoyable exercise you can take. The exhilaration that accompanies it imparts additional tone to the muscles. Moreover, the fun and excitement gives you a "lift"—you feel like holding yourself erect, and your figure looks slimmer.

But for day-in, day-out exercise, you cant beat a set of streamliners. In 10 to 15 minutes, you can get a workout for every lazy muscle and you can concentrate on your wayward measurements so successfully that you can see an improvement within two short weeks.

Let's begin on that waistline. Stand on your knees on the floor, knees about 12 feet apart, with arms out at sides, shoulder level. First, pull slim through the middle. Then keeping the arms straight and the hips to line, dip to the left and try to touch fingers to floor. Straighten up, and dip to the right. Keep that up for 10 counts, then flop down and relax for a minute.

Now for the hipline. Stand up in a doorway, with hands grasping the door frame at either side. Swing first one leg, then the other, up in front and out at back. Work up a good rhythm, up and back, for 50 counts before transferring the action to the other leg. Of course, the hip muscles are supposed to do the work.

Tree Planted at Nelson Hospital Is Tribute to Sir Frederick Banting

Box of Insulin Is Buried Amid Its Roots

"May it ever keep green the memory of a great scientists and a great Canadian."

With these words Dr. L. E. Borden senior Nelson doctor, dedicated a tree planted in the grounds of Kootenay Lake General Hospital Sunday in memory of Sir Frederick Banting, discoverer of insulin, who lost his life in an airplane crash in Newfoundland while en route to Britain in the course of his scientific work. The ceremony was a highlight of Hospital Day program at the hospital.

The tree, presented by J. E. Bedford, President of the Nelson Garden Club, was an Ontario maple, so chosen because Sir Frederick was born in Ontario. Beneath it was buried a small box of insulin, Sir Frederick's great gift to humanity.

After Dr. Borden had dedicated the tree and shovelled the first earth about its roots, the planting was completed by Mayor N. C. Stibbs; Dr. F. M. Auld, Past President of the B. C. Medical Association; Dr. G. R. Barrett, newest member of the medical profession in Nelson; Dr. F. P. Sparks, Director of the Hospital Laboratory, and Health Officer; H. M. Whimster, President of the Hospital Society; and P. C. Richards, a Director of the Hospital Society.

HOSPITAL DAY BABY

Dr. Borden, recalling that Hospital Day and Mother's Day were being celebrated jointly in Nelson stated that an hour before the tree-planting ceremony a young woman on the third floor of the hospital had received the greatest gift on earth—a baby. It was a boy and "unfortunately it can't be called Florence Nightingale," the doctor commented.

Hospital Day, Dr. Borden said, marked Florence Nightingale's birthday. This great nurse had not only performed heroic service for soldiers, but had also accomplished a great deal in improving hospital administration.

Part of the Hospital Day observance was to open the doors of the hospitals in order that the public might inspect them and know what they were doing. Visitors to Kootenay Lake General Hospital would see one of the most modern institutions in any city of Nelson's size, declared Dr. Borden, but it needed more money and more improvement to keep pace with scientific advances.

BOON TO SUFFERING

Hospitals mean a great deal during war, he continued, and suffering humanity owed much to such discoveries as insulin and sulfanilimide with its derivatives. The latter was already in extensive effective use in war zones.

From time immemorial it had been a custom to plant trees in memory of heroes. It was fitting, he felt, that a tree should be planted in memory of Sir Frederick Banting, for he had given his life to his country in war service.

Mayor Stibbs spoke of the debt of appreciation owed to hospitals generally, and hoped for the day when they would be available to everyone without thought of cost.

Mr. Whimster directed the ceremony.

EVELESS EDEN

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

In no time at all he was scrambling over the schoolhouse roof with the mountain boy, and trying to catch the hang of the song Jed was singing. Eve busied herself inside, sweeping and cleaning. Then when she saw it was already past noon, she went out to the car and got the lunch basket. She spread a cloth out under a group of dogwood trees, and then called to Joel.

"Lunch is ready!" she said. "Come on, let's eat. You, too, Jed; there's enough for three. Mother probably counted you in when she made the sandwiches and boiled the eggs."

They took an hour off from working on the roof, and the three of them sat in the cool of the dogwoods' shade. Joel, leaning against a tree trunk, felt a delightful sense of well-being. It was fun being there with Eve and Jed.

Back to work at one o'clock, they finished all that was to be done by a little after four.

Joel and Jed made their final trip from the schoolhouse roof to the ground.

"Any other jobs, lady?" Joel asked.

"No, Joel," said Eve. "And thanks so much for helping." She glanced at her watch. "We'd better be starting for your place and my car," she said. "I don't want to be too late driving down the mountain, since my ankle is still slightly wobbly."

"Can we drop you any place, Jed?" Joel inquired of the mountain man.

"Ef you'll jest let me off at the brook," Jed said, "hit'll git me home a mite quicker. Maw'll want me to help the gals git supper ready."

They all got into the car.

"Ill be up to see the twins one day soon," Eve told Jed, when he got out a bit later. "Give your mother my love."

"Yas'm, I'll do that," said Jed. "Maw's shore mighty fond of you, Miss Eve.'

He darted off through the thick woods.

Joel and Eve drove on.

Bill was sitting on the porch smoking his pipe when they arrived at the cabin.

"Well!" he said. "You two certainly did make a day of it!"

"And a wonderful day of it," said Joel. "I see you've got Eve's car all shined up."

"Yes,' said Bill, "and a couple of blisters to show for it." He held up one of his hands.

"Oh, I'm sorry," Eve said. "But you were sweet, Bill, to give the old bus such a magnificent treatment. It looks like a shining chariot." She looked from Bill to Joel, smiling. "I'm beginning to wonder how I ever got along without you two."

"And I'm beginning to wonder," said Bill, "how I ever stood this old mountain before you came. . . . Two Adams to one Eve is going to give you plenty of occupation," he added. "I'm going to count on you for a lot of information to use in my mountain yarn."

"I'll help you all I can," Eve said. "But right now I must be getting back to The Gap." She got out of Joel's car and went over to her own. Joel and Bill went with her.

"I never realized before," said Joel, "that my author cousin was so good at manual labor." He grinned at Bill. "How about doing a little work on the kitchen stove? It's also in need of shining up."

Bill did not reply. He took Eve's arm just as Joel was about to take it, and said: "Careful!" He helped her into the car. "Don't hurt yourself again."

Gossip, Manners . . .

Principle Versus Social Etiquette

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Won't you do a piece on principle versus social etiquette? For instance, I know a woman who would look down on a guest that got hold of the wrong fork yet she invites guests to her home and indulges in such gossip that the guests feel ashamed to be present at her table. There are a lot of women who think a sin against etiquette is really unforgivable yet they turn around and commit sins against priniciple that are far blacker to a thoughtful person.

A READER

Answer:

Well, gentle reader, there are two classes of people who place special accent on correct etiquette: those who were to the manor born and learned correct manners and proper procedure as they learned their ABC's; and some of those who weren't to the manor born and are anxious to conceal the fact by observing all the rules and regulations they have got out of books. In the latter class the sticklers for the right forks and spoons and the abhorers of the knife are to be pitied, not censured. Think of the misery they endure, always fearful.

As for the woman that doesn't enjoy a bit of gossip, frankly, I've never seen her, though we all know plenty of paragons who don't pass it on. Once upon a time I knew an estimable old lady who was quite deaf. She used to cup her hand to her ear (she also wore a hearing device) and say with avidity. "Well, what do you know? I don't repeat gossip but I certainly do enjoy hearing it."

Of course there's gossip and gossip and she wasn't talking about the scurrilous sort that takes a person's reputation and drags it through the mire. She was bidding for chit-chat: what Mrs. B. said about Mrs. A's party, who was there and why. How Mrs. D. got along with her new daughter-in-law and what the daughter-in-law thought of her husband's family.

Human nature is queer. Or is it woman's nature that's queer? We women pride ourselves on a particular virtue and if our friends don't exhibit that virtue to the same extent as ourselves, we are critical of them. It never occurs to us that the virtues our friends possess in greater degree than we are quite as important and that our friends look at us and bemoan the fact that we aren't as good as they. In other words, the average woman has a slight taint of self-righteous Pharisaism in her make-up.

Of course slavish devotion to so-called etiquette makes a person ridiculous in the eyes of honest-to-goodness people. No doubt some people are so anxious to make the social grade that they lose sight of everything in the mad rush to entertain and be entertained and if they think scurrilous gossip speeds them on their course, they indulge, regardless of principle.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Letters unsuitable for publication will be answered personally provided they contain stamped, self-addressed envelopes. All names are held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, in care of this newspaper.

"Fallen Man" Is Theme in Church

The Christian Science Churches had for the subject of their Lesson-Sermon on Sunday "Adam and Fallen Man."

The Golden text was: "If by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ" (Romans 5: 17).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became living soul" (Genesis 2:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Does Spirit enter dust, and lose therein the divine nature and omnipotence? Does Mind, God, enter matter to become there a mortal sinner, animated by the breath of God? In this narrative, the validity of matter is opposed, not the validity of Spirit or Spirit's creations. Man reflects God; mankind represents the Adamic race, and is a human, not a divine, creation."

MOLDED CHICKEN SALAD

Two cups cooked chicken; ¼ cup olives; ½ cup olives; ½ cup celery; ½ cup cucumber; ¼ cup pimento; ½ cup blanched almonds; 1½ tablespoons plain gelatin; ¼ cup cold water; 1¼ cups mayonnaise; 1¼ cups whipped cream.

Cut chicken meat into ½ or ¾ inch pieces, do not mince. Chop olives, ripe or green, chop celery and cucumber, but not too fine. Chop pimento and shred almonds (salted almonds may be used or you may substitute other nuts.) Combine ingredients and toss lightly together. Add gelatin to cold water and let stand 5 minutes; dissolve by holding over hot water. Stir 1 or 2 tablespoons of the mayonnaise into the gelatin gradually, mixing it in well, then add the entire amount to the mayonnaise, stirring it in thoroughly. Whip cream and fold into mayonnaise mixture, then fold in chicken and vegetables.

Turn into 1 large mold or 8 or 10 small ones which have been rinsed in cold water, and chill until firm. When ready to serve, loosen from molds by holding for a second in hot water. Transfer to plate lined with lettuce and watercress, and put additional mayonanise on top. Wedge shaped pieces of tomato may be used to garnish. Serves 6 to 8.

STRAWBERRY PARFAIT

One and one-half cups crushed strawberries; 1 cup sugar; ¼ cup water; 2 egg whites; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1½ cups whipping cream.

Prepare strawberries and set in refrigerator to chill until needed. Make syrup of sugar and water, boiling to the short thread stage, 235 degrees F. Remove from heat while you quickly beat the egg whites stiff, add salt to them, then pour in hot syrup in steady stream, beating in as added. When all has been added, continue beating with spoon until mixture is cool. Fold in crushed berries, set aside and whip cream to thick, custard consistency and fold it in last. Pour into refrigerator freezing drawers and freeze. When serving you may put a spoonful of additional crushed and sweetened berries in the bottom of the parfait glasses, add parfait and top with a dash of whipped cream and a perfect strawberry.

BUTTERFLY CUP CAKES

Two cups sifted cake flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; ¼ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon ginger; 1½ teaspoons cinnamon; ½ cup butter; 1 cup sugar; 2 eggs, well beaten; 3 tablespoons molasses; 7 tablespoons cold coffee.

Add baking powder, salt and spices to sifted flour and sift together 3 times. Cream butter until soft, then add sugar gradually and cream until light. Blend in the eggs, then molasses; gradually add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with coffee, stirring until smooth after each addition.

Pour into greased muffin tins and bake in 375 degree F. oven for 20 minutes. Bakes 15 to 20 cakes.

When cakes are cool slice off top crust of each and cut top in half. Spread very thick layer of molasses frosting on each cake, then insert the two pieces of crust at an angle like butterfly's wings. Maraschino cherries or canned mandarin oranges may be placed in centre of each for garnish.

MOLASSES FROSTING

Two egg whites; 1½ cups sugar; 4 tablespoons water; ½ teaspoon vanilla; 1 tablespoon molasses; ⅛ teaspoon cream tartar.

Put all but vanilla in saucepan on low heat. Beat constantly with rotary beater until mixture will hold a peak—about 10 minutes. Remove from heat, add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread.

A Button-Front Dirndl Style

9713

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9713

A "just right" style for Summer is the dirndl dress—most provocative and youthful of fashions! Here it is—in a really delightful Marian Martin interpretation, Pattern 9713. Make up this frock quickly in one of the splashy new South American or Mexican prints; wear it for mornings in town or all day in the country. That buttoned closing down the front gives smart lines and lets you slip into the frock easily. An all-around band shows off your lithe, handspan waist, with easy fullness in the front-panelled skirt below. Use a merry touch of ric-rac or crisp ruffling around the square neckline and the bands of the brief puffed sleeves. The clear, concise dressmaking Chart simplifies every step.

Pattern 9713 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 4 yards 35 inch fabric and 1⅝ yards ric-rac.

Send twenty cents for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to The Daily News, Pattern Department, Nelson. Pattern will be sent to your home within 10 days.

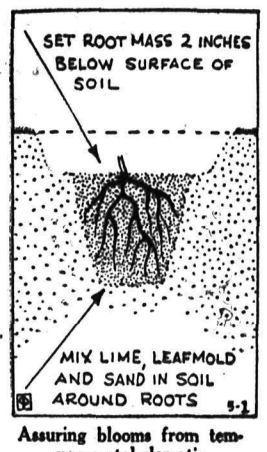
Clematis Roots Like the Shade

The clematis is one of the most beautiful of flowering vines. By giving it a little special attention, they will repay in an abundance of blooms. One preference is to have their roots in the shade and their heads in the sun.



Assuring blooms from temperamental clematis

Clematis suffers from drought, therefore, as illustrated, plant the crown or root mass two inches below the soil level. If the location is at all dry, then plant three inches deep. The ideal soil is cool and moist yet well-drained. An ample supply of lime, leafmold and sand should be deeply mixed with the soil before planting.

To keep the vines growing happily, keep the soil rich by an annual mulch of manure each Fall. In the Spring sprinkle a handful of lime about the soil. The clematis is essential a plant of calcareous soil.

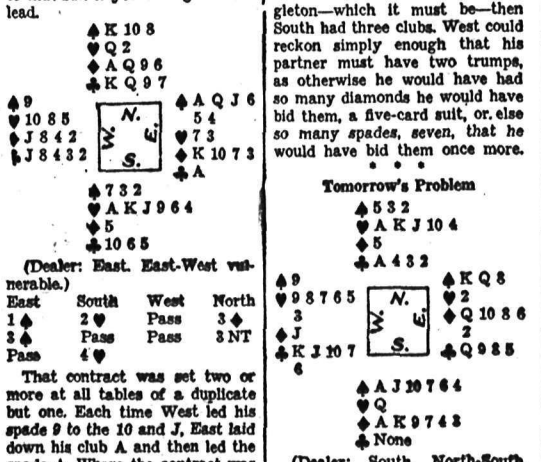
Cryptoquotes are quotations of famous persons written in cipher. A substitute character has replaced the original letter. For instance, an "R" may substitute for the original "E" throughout the entire cryptoquote, or a "BB" may replace an "LL". Find the key and follow through to the solution.

CONTRACT . . . By Shepard Barclay

ALMOST A CONVENTION

MANY A SEQUENCE of plays amounts practically to a fixed convention. Their meaning is so clear-cut that it would be inexcusable to misunderstand. Yet they are fumbled upon occasion by players who consider themselves very fair performers. One such sequence comes when the partner of the opening leader against a suit game wins the first trick, lays down the ace of another suit and then either switches back to the original suit or opens, the third side suit. It should be clear that his second ace was probably a singleton and he wants to ruff the second round of that suit if you ever get in the lead.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦
3 ♠	Pass	Pass	3 NT
Pass	4 ♥

That contract was set two or more at all tables of a duplicate but one. Each time West led his spade 9 to the 10 and J, East laid down his club A and then led the spade A. Where the contract was set only one, the next spade was ruffed by West, who failed to read the reason for the club A play and returned a diamond.

Where the contract was set two, West, after ruffing the third spade, returned a club, so that East got a ruff. There must have been some pretty lazy card readers in the West seats, for only one of them saw how to beat the contract three tricks. That fellow did not even let this partner's spade A win the third trick, but trumped it with his heart 5. He then offered East a first ruff of clubs, and when the third spade was led to him for his own second ruff, he led another round of clubs and East got his second ruff with the heart 7.

All that a West player had to do, in order to see what was the best line of defense, was to count the club suit. If the A was a singleton—which it must be—then South had three clubs. West could reckon simply enough that his partner must have two trumps, as otherwise he would have had so many diamonds he would have bid them, a five-card suit, or, else so many spades, seven, that he would have bid them once more.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If East doubles South's 6-Spades, how should the declarer take advantage of that information to make his contract?

Daily Province Modern Kitchen Here Tomorrow

Two Day Nelson Visit Will Feature Only Travelling Kitchen in Canada

MRS. MARGARET HENDERSON

"Madame, can you cook?"

What man would be brash enough to ask his bride-to-be such a question? Yet much marital happiness is founded upon the rock of culinary efficiency, as many a wife who is long on charm and short on cooking has discovered to her sorrow.

What man does not secretly admire his wife's skill in the art of food preparation? To him, this is an art sanctified by an air of complete mystery—an exclusively feminine domain from which emerges the secrets of her rare skill to charm and delight him. Although he may not express it, practical soul, he knows, that here is one of life's realities, closely linked with the health and well-being of his family.

Happily, most women can cook, and all may learn. But to cook excellently, economically, efficiently—here is a field for every woman as fascinating as it is useful.

YEARS DEVOTED TO KITCHEN LORE

The Vancouver Province Cooking School is designed to assist in providing such knowledge. Mrs. Margaret Henderson, expert in charge, has devoted many years of her life exclusively to kitchen lore. She has experimented with, tested and proven many types and methods of cooking. She has worried over and solved numberless kitchen puzzlers. With all the advantages of a modern kitchen at her hands, she has carried theory into practice and passed on the benefits resulting to thousands of British Columbia women in all parts of the Province.

To receive and answer over 2000 telephoned questions every month; attract 1500 visitors monthly to the huge modern kitchen in the Province building; to draw an average of 1800 letters every month from all parts of the Province—this is no small accomplishment. But the Province Modern Kitchen continues to grow, and now five telephones are necessary to answer the calls that come pouring in incessantly for this department alone. There can be no doubt that its service fills a much-felt want in the daily lives of British Columbia women.

At the Nelson sessions, local women will learn simpler and more attractive ways of producing the ordinary foods. New and smart ideas for company entertaining will be demonstrated and discussed. Main dishes will be considered as well as the making of pastry, baking of cakes and small cookies and the preparation of salads and desserts. In addition to meal-planning, the selection of recipes most suitable for the occasion and the consideration of foods that blend and contain the proper values are subjects included.

Part of the demonstration will be concerned with wartime economy dishes, and Mrs. Henderson will have much to say on this important subject.

At the conclusion of each class, all food prepared during the session will be drawn for. Especially appreciated by women, these examples of fine cooking are always much prized and in the past the winners have invariably been the envy of the group.

Gross receipts will go to Kokanee Chapter I.O.D.E., under whose auspices the school is being held.

As in previous years the Cooking School is brought to Nelson through the valuable assistance and cooperation of the Nelson Electric Co., General Electric dealers.

FRESH HAM

While nothing can surpass the deliciousness of the new, tender, cured hams distributed by national meat packers, a fresh ham is tasty, too. Fresh hams weigh about 8 to 12 pounds.

★ Mrs. Margaret Henderson, famous Western Canadian home economist, demonstrates the preparation of one of her specialty dishes, assisted by Miss Ruth Hamlin.

Popular Travelling School Is Now on Annual Tour

She Will Direct Cooking School

MRS. MARGARET HENDERSON

When the Vancouver Province Modern Kitchen holds its annual classes in Nelson Tuesday and Wednesday, Mrs. Margaret Henderson, well-known Canadian cooking authority, will be in charge.

Known to thousands of British Columbia housewives through her platform and radio work, Mrs. Henderson has probably answered more questions on kitchen problems than any other woman in Canada.

"Patience, more than any other quality, is the prime need in my work," states Mrs. Henderson. Yet in the work of building up the Province Modern Kitchen she has displayed many other attainments equally valuable. An absorbing interest in her work and an ability to see problems through the eyes of the average housewife are perhaps the real reasons behind her unique record of success.

In conducting the classes, Mrs. Hendersno demonstrates each operation in simple, understandable form and accompanies it by clear and lucid explanation that enables the audience to follow her easily and intelligently. At any point in the proceedings she invites questions from the audience.

This year will mark her sixth annual tour with the Modern Kitchen. As in the past, she will be assisted by Miss Ruth Hamlin, dietitian.

Pork Provides Many Cuts

PORK SHOULDER

A fresh shoulder of pork is not only inexpensive but flavorsome if properly roasted. You can roast it unboned, boned or stuffed, or boned and rolled. A roast from the upper part of the shoulder is known as a Boston Butt. A roast from the lower portion of the shoulder, resembling a small fresh ham in appearance, is called a picnic shoulder.

PORK TENDERLOINS

While many butchers prefer to leave the tenderloin in a loin roast, it is sometimes stripped out and sold separately. The long, tapering, meaty tenderloin lies beneath the backbone, weighs about ½ to ¾ pound., well flavored. One tenderloin is enough for two or three persons.

SPARERIBS

Don't forget fresh spareribs— the ends of ribs removed from the bacon strip. Though spareribs have very little lean meat, they are tantalizingly good. Because they are mostly bone, it is well to allow about ½ pound per person.

CROWN ROAST OF PORK

The next time you are planning a company dinner or a special feast, order a crown of pork. To make a crown, the butcher uses the rib section of two loins— each with about the same number of chops. The chop bones are trimmed as for French chops. The backbone is trimmed off too. Then the two sections are bent to a half circle with the ribs outside. Fastened together, they form a circular crown with the rib bones projecting upward. The meat that is ground provides the makings of a delicious meat loaf or meat cakes for a later meal.

ROAST BEEF TENDERLOIN WITH MUSHROOM GRAVY

3 or 4 lbs. beef tenderloin
4 tablespoons beef drippings
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups meat broth or water
½ lb. fresh or 1 tin mushrooms
Salt and pepper

If tenderloin is not larded at the market, lay bacon slices across the top during roasting. Place tenderloin on a rack in an open roasting pan. Season with salt and pepper and lay bacon over the top unless larded. Roast in a slow oven, 325 F for 45 minutes to 1 hour, or until done. Remove tenderloin to hot platter. Combine beef drippings and flour and brown. Add Worcestershire sauce and the meat broth gradually. Cook until thickened. Add the mushrooms and serve roast beef tenderloin.

BOILED BEEF WITH HORSERADISH CREAM

4 pounds beef plate
1 cup whipping cream
¾ tablespoon horseradish
1 teaspoon sugar
Salt and pepper.

Cover beef plate with hot water and cook slowly until tender, two or three hours. Keep temperature below the boiling point—at a simmering temperature. Whip cream stiff, fold in the horseradish, sugar and salt, serve with boiled beef.

SAVORY MEAT LOAF

2 pounds beef
1 pound fresh pork
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 small chopped onion
2 cups cracker crumbs
½ cup milk
½ cup tomato catsup
1 teaspoon spicy meat sauce
6 slices salt pork or bacon
½ cup hot water

Grind meat, add salt, dash of pepper, eggs, slightly beaten, and onion. Then add milk, catsup and meat sauce, blending well. Add sufficient cracker crumbs to form a loaf that molds easily.

Place the loaf in a roasting pan and lay the salt pork across the top. Roast in a hot oven at 400 F. for 30 minutes then reduce heat to 350 F. Bake an hour or until meat is done, basting frequently with ½ cup hot water.

Make a sauce to serve over the loaf with the liquid that is in the roasting pan.

TOMATO MEAT LOAF

2 pounds fresh minced beef
1 egg
1 medium onion, minced finely
1 chopped green pepper
1 cup of crumbled bread crumbs
½ can tomato soup.
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix meat with beaten egg, add onion, pepper, seasoning, bread crumbs and mix into a loaf by adding ½ can tomato soup. Mould into a suitable shape (makes loaf about 4x4x9 inches) and place in baking pan. Mix remaining ½ can tomato soup with cup hot water, pour over loaf and bake in moderate oven (350 F) for 1¼ hours basting frequently.

PORK LOIN

You can buy a loin roast of almost any weight, depending upon the number of chops it has. A roast cut from the ham end or centre of the loin has a portion of the tenderloin and so is especially meaty. A roast cut from the shoulder end of the roast contains no tenderloin and is less meaty. Boned, cured loins are sold as Canadian bacon.

CORNED BEEF PATTIES

2 cups cooked corned beef, chopped
2 cups cooked potatoes
1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper chopped
Salt and pepper
½ cup milk
3 tablespoons bacon drippings
Tomato sauce

Mix corned beef and potatoes, add chopped peppers and onions. Season if needed with salt and pepper. Wet with milk. Mold into patties and brown in bacon drippings. Serve with tomato sauce.

HAMBURGER STEAKS WITH A MUSHROOM SAUCE

2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons fat
1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon marjoram
2 tablespoons tomato catsup, left-over gravy or milk
Mushroom sauce.

Combine ingredients, make into little patties. Brown on both sides in hot fat, pour over mushroom sauce, simmer for 5 minutes. Serve piping hot.

The Province Cooking School

By MARGARET HENDERSON
Director, Vancouver Daily Province Modern Kitchen

Once again on April 14 the Vancouver Daily Province Modern Kitchen left Vancouver on its sixth annual tour through the entire Province of British Columbia, to share with the women of our Province at least a part of the varied activities carried on in our own department in Vancouver.

Since the Vancouver Daily Province Modern Kitchen is the only one of its kind in Canada it has been and still continues to be, the centre of attraction to many hundreds of people who visit Vancouver from all parts of Canada, as well as thousands of women who attend our classes and call personally for information and advice on any subjects pertaining to household service.

Thousands of telephone calls are answered throughout the entire year and an average of 50 letters a day are received and answered from points all over British Columbia.

Since "Service" is the slogan in the Daily Province Modern Kitchen, all of these letters are answered promptly the day they arrive, carrying with them the correct information requested.

Our Department is entirely equipped with the most modern electric applainces and altogether radiates a very bright and happy atmosphere. This is where all recipes are thoroughly tested and tried before being published.

In connection with our Kitchen is a large air-conditioned auditorium, where classes are held weekly, and a well appointed lounge, comfortably equipped for the benefit of women who call to browse through our library. Here they may find answers to many problems pertaining to anything from interior decorating to information regarding formal and informal occasions and menus for each.

Our Pattern Department is also a special feature of this Department. Our Modern Kitchen also maintains a weekly food broadcast given every Tuesday morning at 10:15 a.m. over CJOR, answering queries sent in during the week, as well as submitting special food recipes.

All of this is a complimentary service maintained by the Vancouver Daily Province and now we are here to share this service with you. We trust you will enjoy our visit with you as much as we enjoy being here.

We have not come to impress you with the idea that we hope to teach the women of Nelson how to cook. This is not our purpose because we already know they are very accomplished in the art of cooking.

We know this because we have many very wonderful letters from Nelson, often submitting practical and very appetizing recipes which we more than appreciate and enjoy using.

We shall try to leave with you as many practical tips and as much valuable information as time permits and we sincerely trust that we too may leave Nelson feeling we have gained much in cooking knowledge through our visit with you; so come along to our classes and bring your problems with you so that we may all have a very pleasant time exchanging ideas.

We are thrilled indeed that our classes are being held under the auspices of Kokanee Chapter I.O.D.E. and we are more than pleased to share our efforts for this very worthy cause.

At this time may we extend to you a personal invitation to visit us when you are in Vancouver? We shall be very glad to see you. In our office you will be welcomed by Miss Lois Boomer of Nelson. We feel fortunate in having Lois on our staff, and perhaps this would be a good time to say "Greetings" to you all from Lois.

May we say "Thank you" for the marvellous hospitality and cooperation we have received from the citizens of Nelson during our visit here, and we trust that we shall continue to hold the old friends and make many new ones.

Cooking School Brings Many New Recipes to Nelson and District Women

When You Are Hostess

The art of entertaining is one which necessitates observance of certain basic rules in service of food, and requires planning of arrangements beforehand so that all things run smoothly. For formal occasions the hostess has a definite plan to follow, for informal parties she has considerably more leeway in both menus and serving.

SETTING THE TABLE

An all-over cloth of white or pastel-colored damask or a lace cloth is considered correct for a formal dinner. Either of these along with white or colored doily services are correct for informal luncheons or dinners.

Napkins folded in squares or rectangles are placed at the left of each place setting, as near as possible to the silver without touching it, or on the service plate. The open corner of the napkin should be at the lower right.

All silver is placed one inch from edge of table in straight line. Forks, with exception of cocktail forks, go to the left of the plate. Knives go to the right, cutting edge toward plate with the exception of the small bread and butter spreader, and the spoons go to the extreme right of the knives. The cocktail fork is placed either horizontally above the service plate, parallel to the edge of the table, or at the extreme right of the spoons. The bread and butter spreader is placed horizontally on the bread and butter plate, parallel to edge of the table.

Each piece of silver is placed in order of its use, beginning from the outside, with the exception of the spoons, which are always to the right of the dinner or luncheon knife. The salad fork may be either to the left or right of the dinner fork, depending on whether the salad is to be served as a separate course or with the main course of the menu.

In placing other articles on the table, never forget to observe order and balance. Avoid crowding. Dishes of food should be placed with pleasing arrangement, and the necessary serving fork or spoon beside each of them.

FORMAL TABLE SERVICE

All food is served from the left and removed from the left with the exception of water, tea and coffee, which are served at, and removed from, the right.

The guest of honor is seated to the right of the host, and the person next honored to the right of the hostess. If the host is not present, guest of honor is seated to the right of hostess. Other guests are arranged with thought of their enjoyment of persons seated on either side of them.

Either the hostess or guest of honor is served first and then the service continues from that point to the right around the table to avoid confusion. The custom of serving the honor guest first is growing, and many hostesses now insist on giving the guest of honor this additional compliment.

If a maid serves any of the courses the food should be served from the left of the person.

Just before the dessert course is served, the table is cleared of everything except the table centrepiece.

Coffee may be served with the main course as well as the dessert course at informal luncheons and dinners. At formal dinners it is served last, either at the dinner tabel or in the living room. In the latter case, it is served in demi-tasse cups.

Alice Gillett May Catch for the Aces

Isabel Donovan, red-headed third baseman for the Aces, said Sunday that her team planned to secure the services of Alice Gillett to catch. Alice, who has been in retirement the past two years, made the Nelson all-star team with regularity during her softball career as an outfielder and catcher. She was particularly noted for her hitting ability.

The Aces have procured Carl Locatelli, senior baseballer, as coach, an they have had a number of workouts in preparation for their Nelson Ladies' Softball League opener on the 19th against C.Y.O.

Arsenal, Preston North End Draw In Soccer Final

LONDON, May 11 (CP Cable)—Arsenal and Preston North End played a 1-1 draw in the football league war cup final at Wembley Stadium before a crowd of 60,000 Saturday. The match will be replayed May 24 somewhere in the provinces.

All the scoring was done in the first half. McLaren scored for Preston North End soon after the start and Denis Compton drove in the equalizer six minutes before the interval. No overtime was played.

The game opened at a fast pace and Arsenal was awarded a penalty shot three minutes after the start. Fairbrother, the Preston goalkeeper, flung himself full length on the ground to save brilliantly from Compton.

A few minutes later Preston took the lead, McLaren driving a 45-foot shot past Goalkeeper Marks after trapping a pass from Finney. Preston kept up the pressure but Arsenal settled down and forced Fairbrother to make three spectacular saves before Compton scored the tying goal.

Both goalers were tested with hard shots in the second half but the teams played strongly on defence.

West Ham United won the cup last year.

RANGERS COME FROM BEHIND TO TIE HEARTS 1-1

GLASGOW, May 11 (CP Cable)—Rangers were forced to come from behind to tie Hearts 1-1 in the Scottish football cup final played at Hampden Park before a crowd of 70,000 Saturday. The teams will meet again on the same grounds next Saturday.

Walker put the Hearts ahead eight minutes before half time during a mix-up in the Rangers' defence, but the league champions evened the score after eight minutes of the second half when Marshal counted.

The play was fast and exciting throughout, especially in the closing minutes when Rangers went all out for a winning goal. A brilliant defence enabled Hearts to end the game on even terms.

Dodgers Hurled to Win by Higbe Against Phillies

Cards Beat Pirates to End 3-Game Losing Streak

PHILADELPHIA, May 11 (AP)—Walter Kirby Higbe, the fast ball right-hander the Phillies sold for $100,000 last Winter, returned to Shibe Park today and pitched the first-place Brooklyn Dodgers to a 6-5 National League victory over his former teammates.

One big inning—the fourth—gave the Dodgers all their runs on five hits, including a homer. The Phils, paced by Nick Etten's homer and double, made only six hits to Brooklyn's 15.

PITTSBURGH, May 11 (AP) — Ira Hutchinson turned in a gaudy relief pitching chore today and guided St. Louis Carinals to a 7-4 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates.

Cards Have More Pitchers Way Up

HOUSTON, Tex., May 11 (AP)—Manager Bill Southworth of the rampaging St. Louis Cardinals is having trouble turning loose players — especially pitchers — in order to meet the National League limit.

He has so many sensational rookie twirlers — including several from Houston — he's talking to himself.

Well, Billy doesn't know the half of it.

If the Cardinals wanted to reach down to their farm club here they could bring up another flock of youngsters who are sending the Buffs along at a merry clip on top of the Texas League.

For instance, Freddie Martin, Howard Pollet and Ted Wilks, have each won four straight. John Pintar has won three, while losing one.

Pollet, valued by President Fred Ankenman at $51,000, tied the league record for shutouts with three straight this season. The 19-year-old southpaw already held the consecutive game winning record, set last year at 13. This year he already has one no-hit, no-run game to his credit.

All four may be with the Cardinals next season, giving Southworth another headache when pruning time comes.

Whirlaway Easily Wins Preakness Five Lengths Ahead of King Cole

By MASON BRUNSON
Associated Press Sport Writer

BALTIMORE, May 11 (AP). — The "Triple crown" — goal of every three-year-old thoroughbred in this unpredictable racing business — appeared tonight to be Whirlaway's for the taking.

Whirlaway, the runnin'est colt to put heart and hoof into a race since War Armiral walked away with the Kentucky derby, the Preakness and Belmont stakes in 1937, appeared to be a "shoo-in" to become the fifth winner of the most coveted crown in the American turf.

Warren Wright's stretch-running colt loped home Saturday in the Preakness with no more effort than it took him to win the derby.

Trainer Ben Jones, who refused to give up on Whirlaway through an in-and-outer Winter campaign, accorded jockey Eddie Arcaro and the horse all the credit for winning the Preakness. But everybody who knew the time and patience and trouble that he expended in teaching Whirlaway not to run wide on the turns and to save his amazing speed for the stretch credited Ben with having accomplished the outstanding training job of the year.

If Ben sends Whirlaway on to win the Belmont, Whirlaway will join Sir Barton, Gallant Fox, Omaha and War Admiral in the Hall of Fame reserved for equine immortals that swept the "big three" races of their division and ruled supreme among American three-year-olds.

Whirlaway finished Saturday five lengths ahead of Ogden Phipps' King Cole with Our Boots third. Our Boots saved show honors by a neck from Porter's Cap.

He ran on a track rated only "good" after hours of rain Friday, a factor considered all the better for the mud-running stars such as Porter's Cap and Our Boots.

Whirlaway came from dead last, some eight lengths back at one time, right through the pack, to win the 1 1-16 mile run in 1:58 4-5.

Eight lengths back of the fourth horse came the rank outsider, Kansas, in fifth place, followed by Dispose, who forced King Cole in the early running; curious coin, who tired near the finish, and Ocean Blue, who never showed any speed after the jam on the first turn.

For his victory, Whirlaway picked up $49,463 to bring his earnings for the year to $117,416.

He paid only $4.03 for $2.

Ned Harris' Mistake Costs Game for Detroit

ST. LOUIS, May 11 (AP). — The American League leading Cleveland Indians won the first game of a doubleheader from the Browns 7-5 and were sailing along smoothly toward a twin victory today when trouble started.

The Brownies got tough in the ninth inning to send the nightcap into extra innings and finally won 6-5 with one out in the 10th. A triple by Johnny Lucadello and a single by Alan Strange pasted up the finish sign just before dark.

While making their first triumph in three starts against the Yanks a lusty one, every socker except Bobby Doerr hit safely.

CHICAGO, May 11 (AP). — A rookie outfielder's mistake gave the Chicago White Sox a 2-1 victory over Detroit Tigers, today, the decisive play coming in the last half of the ninth inning.

Ned Harris, outfielder who replaced Hank Greenberg, caught Billy Knickerbocker's foul fly and Mike Tresh scored from third after the catch with the vital run. Tresh had doubled, and advanced to third on Ted Lyons' sacrifice.

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP).—Philadelphia Athletics won a 10-inning battle from the Senators today, 10-8, to make it two straight over Washington.

Buddy Lewis was the hero and the goat of the game. He put the Senators within winning distance with a triple in the ninth inning, scoring two runs, then scored the tying run himself. But in the 10th he booted Dean's easy roller, allowing Sam Chapman to score the winning run.

England's Leading Jockey Breaks Leg

LONDON, May 11 (CP Cable).—Gordon Richards, England's champion jockey, fractured a leg before the start of a race at Salisbury.

As his mount was moving toward the starting gate a horse lashed out, its hooves striking Richards' left leg. The jockey was removed to a nursing home and was reported resting easily.

The injury prevented Richards riding the King's smart two-year-old Myrobella colt in the Cranbourne Stakes. With a substitute jockey up, the Myrobella colt raced to easy victory to bring His Majesty his third winner of the season.

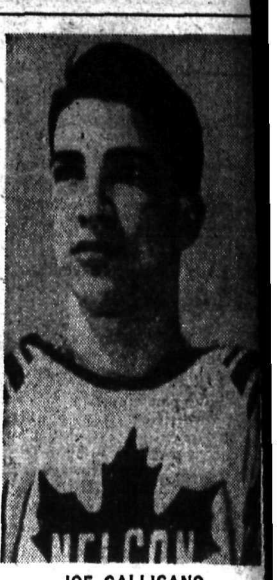
Joe Gallicano to Play Lacrosse for Nelson This Season; Is the Answer to Maple Leafs' Need for Centrema

Local Youth Makes Third of 'Bellies to Come

Everything's just rosy around the Nelson senior lacrosse front these days, and the Maple Leafs are figuring nothing's going to stop them this Summer. At least it's not going to be anything like the unfortunate situation last year when the Leafs floundered around the League's lowest depths much of the season.

The latest thing to please the Nelson crew is the decision of Joe Gallicano, a local youth who had a great rookie season with the Salmonbellies at the Coast last year, to remain at his job at Sheep Creek and at the same time play for the Leafs. He's studying for his Air Force examinations, and he's liable to be around all Summer before he's called. At any rate he'll play for the Leafs as long as he can.



JOE GALLICANO

The lanky Joe has provided an unexpected and a highly welcome solution to the Leafs' centreman troubles. He will alternate with Reginald (Bing) Miller, thus filling the vacancy left with the retirement of Jack Bishop as a player to devote all his time to coaching.

Jack realizes that a Playing Coach seldom pans out. With all due credit to Jock Walmsley as a player, Jock had his team going its best lick when he was guiding the Leafs' destinies from the bench. For another thing, Bishop has been bothered with an injury bugaboo for the past few seasons, and he's afraid of aggravating his injury. However, he will of course be available to serve in a pinch.

THIRD SALMONBELLY

"By the time Scuby gets up here, we might as well move the Salmonbellies' franchise to Nelson," Jack Reid, President of the Nelson team, says. Bill Scuby has been the regular netminder of the Salmonbellies since the great Pete Anthony threw in the towel, and he is expected to arrive in about a week's time. Scuby will be the third of last year's Salmonbellies to come to Nelson, Bert Bryant, their most valuable player, having arrived here a week or so ago.

When the Leafs' last recruit, a young fellow named Airth who played for the B. C. Junior All Stars last Fall against the East, comes up from Vancouver, Nelson will be all set. Airth is a defence man, and will give the team lots of strength in that department. Although they will miss Harold Mayo now in the army, the Leafs aren't lacking anything in the way of forwards.

With Return of Cherrington, Infield for Nelson Seniors May Be All Set

Jim Is Counted on to Fill Vacancy at First Base

Coach Lefty Mydansky put the Nelson Senior baseball team through its best workout of the training season Sunday afternoon for over two hours, and he seemed to finally get the infield solution in sight.

Veteran Jim Cherrington, who used to play outfield a few years ago after coming to Nelson from Creston, played a bangup game of first base for the City Softball Champion Savoy Hotel nine last Summer, and Sunday he made his return to baseball. He seems to have the inside track for the initial sack assignment.

Four other men are prominent contenders for the other three infield spots. Tommy McInnes and Jakie Mann are trying out at the hot corner. McInnes' grand playing last year will undoubtedly win him a regular berth, and Jakie, better known to Nelson fans for his hockey playing, is showing spectacular form at third. Carl Locatelli, last year's regular shortstop, is practically a cinch to retain his position. The other candidate is Don Porteous, who worked out at second base Sunday. Porteous is showing plenty of power at the plate, and if McInnes or Mann is moved to the keystone sack, room will probably be made for Don in the outfield.

Jack Carpenter, already in perfect condition, is ready to go places on the mound this season. Bothered by a bad back last year after joining the Nelsonites in mid-season, Jack states that he feels great now, and is confident of a good Summer. Since last year's Coach, Ray Humble, is now at Kimberley, the remainder of the hurling duties will be shouldered by Lefty Mydansky, who led the West Kootenay League pitching records in 1940. Veteran Steve Smith, Tommy McInnes and Steve Scott can be used in the pinch.

Gordon Richardson is back for his umpteenth season behind the bat for the Nelson crew. He made his annual announcement last Fall that he was through, but Con Cummins succeeded in persuading "Fat" to stay in there.

"We don't dare think of that time when Fat finally does decide to retire permanently," was the way Steve Smith put it, as he watched the big catcher slam out a number of long hits.

Among other players turning out are Walt Gillett, Austin Brennan, Sid Ball, Bob Proulx and a few Juniors, of whom Ernie Wilson looks particularly promising.

No definite announcement has yet been made as to when the League will get under way, but it is hoped by Nelson officials to open the schedule here next Sunday with the champion Trail Indians as opposition. Trail Cardinals are losing three or four players from last season, and they will be given an extra week in which to get their team in shape.

Nanaimo Is to Be Without Lacrosse

NANAIMO, B. C., May 11 (CP).—A plan to bring Mainland box lacrosse teams here for a series of games this season blew up when local executives failed to secure a 60-40 split on rental basis of the new arena for eight tentatively scheduled Intercity League games. The arena offered a 50-50 split.

Archie Holland, President of the B.C.L.A., turned down a request of Bob Humphrey, representative of the Nanaimo and District Association, to allow the game scheduled for May 24 to stand rather than disarrange Empire Day celebrations. Holland said that unless the Nanaimo body sanctioned playing of all eight games in Nanaimo arena they could definitely consider the May 24 game cancelled.

Arena officials, when advised of Holland's edict, said they were fully prepared to stay with their original 50-50 offer and would now make other arrangements for a substitute attraction in the arena.

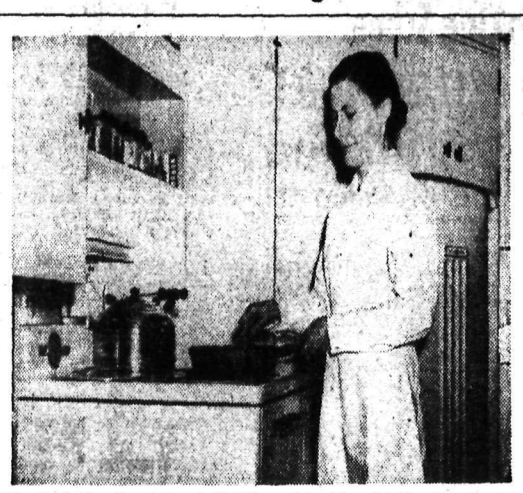
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika

Split and bone fish, place on well-...uttered sheet or ovenproof platter. ...ook 20 minutes in hot oven (400 ...egrees F.). Combine other ingredi...nts. Spread over fish and continue ...aking until fish is done.

CANNED SALMON

Fish should be canned as soon ...s possible after catching.

Draw fish, then slowly pour on ...ot water, being careful not to ...reak the skin, which would cause ... loss of oil and fat. Scrape gently ...ntil skin is white and clean. Wipe ...ry, cut into large pieces (leaving ...n backbone), salt as if for table use, ...ack dry into clean jars and add 1 ...easpoon of butter or olive oil. Put ...n tops quite tightly and process ...either in water bath for four hours ...counting time from when water ...egins to boil); or in 250 F. oven for 5 hours. Be sure to process for full length of time.



Miss Ruth Hamlin, (above) dietitian who will assist Mrs. Henderson during the Cooking School.

BAKED STUFFED FISH

For the best results oily fish such as salmon or mackerel should be baked in their own fat; they do not require to be basted as their skin stretches and will keep its own shape without cracking or falling into pieces. It has been found when cooking the dry-meated fish such as cod, haddock, etc., that the skin splits in baking and spoils the appearance of the fish. To avoid this we put about three gashes across the back and insert fat pork or bacon, and keep the fish well basted. All fish should be rubbed with salt inside. Stuff the cavity with any good stuffing and sew securely. Brush the fish over with an oily pastry brush. Place in a very hot oven for 15 minutes or until it begins to brown and then allow about 10 minutes to the pound up to 4 pounds, and then allow 5 minutes for each additional pound.

STUFFING FOR BAKED FISH

3 cups finely-grated bread crumbs
1 medium onion, grated
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons poultry dressing
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons finely-chopped parsley
1 tablespoon finely-chopped green pepper (optional)
½ cup grated raw carrot or 1 cup finely chopped mushrooms
3 strips crisp bacon, chopped
2 tablespoons soft butter

Combine all ingredients lastly add soft butter, blend well.

SHRIMP SOUFFLE

2 cups hot milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon finely-grated onion
¾ cup finely-cut celery
1 tablespoon finely cut green pepper
1 tablespoon finely-chopped parsley
½ pound shrimp

Mix together cornstarch and seasonings and add to well-beaten eggs, beating until smooth. Add this to the hot milk. Cook in upper part of double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened. Add butter and beat well. Then add the remaining ingredients, stirring well and allow to heat through. Pour mixture into a well-greased casserole. Cover with buttered bread crumbs or slightly crushed cornflakes and sprinkle in grated cheese. Bake at 375 F. for 20 minutes. Serve in the dish in which it is cooked.

CHICKEN HALIBUT

1½ pounds halibut
¼ cup melted butter
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon scraped onion
1 green pepper

Remove the skin from the fish and cut the flesh into narrow strips about one inch wide. Roll these, jelly-roll fashion, into a flat patty and fasten each with a toothpick. You can fasten several smaller pieces together to make the patties if the fish doesn't all come out in pieces of the right length.

Add the salt, lemon juice and scraped onion to the melted butter then dip each fillet into this.

Arrange them in a shallow pan and sprinkle lightly with flour. Put a thin slice of green pepper on each fillet and bake in a hot oven, 425 F. about 20 minutes. If there is any of the melted butter left, pour this over and around the fish while it is cooking.

STEAMED FILLET OF SOLE

Cut fillets into serving portions, allowing about three to the pound. Line the bottom and sides of a steamer closely with parchment paper, placing the fillets in the bottom one layer deep. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and lemon juice and dots of butter over the top. Pull the paper together and twist it over the top to keep in the juices, and place over a pot of boiling water. Steam for 12 to 15 minutes, according to the thickness of the fillets.

SALMON SALAD DE LUXE

2 cups canned or cooked salmon
1 cup cooked cold peas
1 cup sliced celery
Tomato sections
Sliced cucumbers
Asparagus tips
Mayonnaise

Remove skin and bones from the salmon and break into pieces. Mix lightly with cold cooked peas and celery which have been chilled and moistened with French dressing. Put lettuce or in a salad bowl and garnish with sections of tomatoes, sliced cucumbers and asparagus tips. Serve with mayonnaise, or Russian dressing.

To make Russian dressing, use one cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, ½ teaspoon paprika.

CRABMEAT SALAD

Mix equal quantities of canned crabmeat and celery. Add enough mayonnaise or salad dressing to hold ingredients together. Serve in nests of crisp lettuce. Garnish with capers and sliced hard-cooked eggs.

CREAMY RELISH

Combine ½ cup nice apple-sauce, well drained with ⅛ cup prepared horseradish, and fold in ½ cup of whipped cream. Serve with ham, pork, tongue, corned beef or other kinds of meat.

Miss Hilda Conkey Weds L. Fogleburg at Creston Ceremony

CRESTON, B. C. — A wedding of interest at Kimberley as well as Creston was quietly solemnized at St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, Creston Wednesday afternoon when the pastor, Rev. W. J. Forbes Robertson united in marriage Miss Hilda Christine Conkey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Conkey, with Lloyd Clarence Fogleburg of Kimberley. Just the immediate friends of the contracting parties were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. W. Campbell of Kimberley assisted the groom and bride.

The bride's costume was of serenade blue sheer with white accessories, and corsage of pink rosebuds. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents and late in the afternoon the newlyweds left on a wedding trip to Sinclair Canyon and Banff, after which they will make their home in Kimberley.

Friends of the bride entertained her at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Roebuck, Monday evening, at which she was remembered with many useful gifts.

Miss M. Johnston of Cranbrook Becomes Bride of S. Swift

CRANBROOK, B.C.—The marriage of Mary Stephen (Molly) Johnston to Sidney A. Swift, son of Mrs. F. D. Swift and the late Dr. T. A. Swift, of Vancouver, took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Johnston Thursday afternoon. Rev. Callum Thompson officiated and the couple entered to the wedding march, played by T. S. Beynon. The couple stood under an arch which was decorated with white lilac and white bells and the rooms were decorated with white and purple lilac, white snapdragon and white carnations. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a royal and light blue redingote with matching two-toned slippers and a light-blue pansey covered hat with royal blue vealing. The bridesmaid, Miss Florence Johnston, sister of the bride, wore a dusky rose dress with white accessories and her corsage was the same as the bride's, pink rose with silver ribbon. Groomsman was Earl Kyle, brother-in-law of the bride. During the signing of the register Mrs. Stan McNeil sang "Because" with T. S. Baynon at the piano. After the wedding the guests attended a reception. The couple left for a wedding trip to Banff where they will spend a week and will then return to Cranbrook and continue to Kelowna. The bride's travelling dress was a rust and beige sports suit with beige accessories. They will reside in Vancouver.

First Course Has Definite Nutritional Value in Meals

Cream soups are of particular value as a means of working in a part of the daily milk requirement, while stock soups run a close second with their high percentage of minerals vitamins and protein from the meats and vegetables.

Bouillons, consomme and clear vegetable soups are light soups that find a suitable place at the beginning of a dinner. These soups should be fairly highly seasoned and served very hot as their place on the menu is that of an appetizer.

For generations past the old soup pot has been the subject of much ridicule. Despite this it is known that soups — in their many forms — are nutritionally important to our diet. The mere fact that left-over bits of vegetables, cheese, meats and fish, as well as those waters drained from vegetables, etc., are used to make our best soups, means that all those precious minerals and vitamins that would otherwise be lost, are saved.

SERVED HEARTY SOUPS

Under this classification come the cream soups and soups with meat stock bases. Cream soups are made from a milk or thin white sauce base, and include all the vegetable puree soups as well as shellfish "stews" and bisques, which are thin soups of fish stock, garnished with a spoonful of whipped cream. The chowders also come under this group being a milk base with meat fish or vegetables. Stock soups may be either brown or light depending on the meat and vegetables used in the preparations.

Chicago Corn Prices Lose Early Gains

CHICAGO, May 11 (AP)—Renewed buying of corn futures yesterday lifted prices as much as a cent or more to new peaks for the past four years but wheat declined fractionally due to prospects of a large Winter crop harvest.

Corn closed ¼ lower to 1⅛ cents higher compared with yesterday. May 72½-¾, July 72¾-⅞; wheat ½-¾ lower, May 97⅞, July 96¼-⅛; oats ¼-½ higher.

Wall St. Prices Stiffen Due to Air War News

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP).—The stock market got its back against the wall Saturday and punched out sizeable recoveries from many recent laggards. Heavy Royal Air Force bombing of the Germans tended to stiffen sentiment to a certain degree.

Improvement came after a hesitant start. Motors, steels, copper and rails came to the fore in the final hour of the brief session and gains of fractions to about 2 points were tacked on favorites. Prices were at or near the best at the close.

Canadian issues were quietly mixed. Dome was ⅛ lower and McIntyre ¼ higher.

Eggs Advance Two Cents on Public Market at Nelson

Eggs advanced two cents on the Nelson Public Market Saturday, Grade A large being quoted at 27 cents, medium at 24 and pullets at 22. It was the first change in egg prices in weeks.

Saturday's market was marked by fitful trading. The forenoon was fairly busy, but in the afternoon purchasers came in waves so that vendors were alternately rushed and idle. On the whole it was a good trading day.

The advance of the season was signallized by a change in the price of rhubarb, which sold at eight pounds for 25 cents instead of three cents a pound; and in the halving of the price of cut Lillies of the Valley, which sold at two dozen instead of one dozen for 25 cents.

Trade in bedding plants was not as active as had been anticipated, possibly because cool nights made gardeners apprehensive. It was pointed out there was still plenty of time for most of these plants.

Winnipeg Slow

WINNIPEG, May 11 (CP).—Wheat futures traded slowly at their minimum prices during Saturday's abbreviated session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as export interest in Canadian wheat lagged. May wheat is pegged at 75⅞ while July's peg is 77½ cents, a bushel.

May wheat lost yesterday's minimum gain immediately after the opening bell and failed to move from its pegged price again.

In the cash wheat market, shippers bought a little No. 1 Northern and Southern houses purchased small quantities of Nos. 5 and 6 wheat and feed wheat.

A new spray used on orchards has reduced the falling of apples from 60 to 90 per cent in untreated trees.

No Tax on Interest and Dividends Paid in Foreign Currency to Non-Residents

OTTAWA, May 10 (CP).—Finance Minister Ilsley announced Saturday the tax on interest and dividends paid to non-residents would not apply to securities which call for payment in a foreign currency.

As first announced in the budget speech the tax would apply to all interest and dividends except interest on bonds of or guaranteed by the Government of Canada irrespective of the currency of payment.

Now it will apply only on interest and dividends payable in Canadian currency. The budget increased the former tax from five to 15 per cent.

Mr. Ilsley said a question had arisen as to the fairness of the proposal. Representations had been made on behalf of various groups of United States investors who said they had purchased Canadian bonds in the belief such bonds would not be subject to Canadian taxation.

Salmo Sluggers Go to Top of Valley Softball by Beating Gold Belt 24-12; Queen Team Wins First 22-5 at Ymir

SALMO, B. C., May 11—Pounding out a barrage of extra-base hits which included four home runs, a triple and four doubles, Salmo broke a tie with Gold Belt at the top of the Salmo Valley Softball League here today with a 24-12 victory over the Gold Belt nine.

Once again the pitchers were treated as long-lost cousins as 36 runs went on the score sheet. With Earl Rickard in great difficulties with his control, Salmo spotted its opponents nine runs in the opening ning, but wasn't long in diminishing the lead. They finally went to the front when eight runs came across the plate in their half of the sixth.

Rickard, having a decidedly off-day, allowed three straight singles at the beginning of the game and then he walked five in a row before being lifted in favor of Pete Klovance with none out. Over the rest of the route, Klovance allowed eight hits, including a double by DelPuppo and a triple by Elliot. He fanned one and walked two.

Richard, who went to left field after being yanked, hit two doubles and a home run, and Klovance belted two doubles. Moir hit for three pases, and Anderson hammered out a pair of home runs in successive innings, and Elmer Gibbon one.

A. Fitzpatrick, Gold Belt pitcher, struck out two and walked eight. He allowed 16 safeties.

Baby Is Born, Operation Performed While Public Inspecting Hospital

Over 200 Visitors; Tea Receipts Are $35

Nelson had a Hospital Day baby.

Half an hour after Kootenay Lake General Hospital was opened to the public for inspection, and just an hour before the tree-planting ceremony, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Appel, 803 Victoria Street.

The birth of this baby and an operation later in the afternoon were evidence to Hospital Day visitors that the work of the Hospital goes on no matter what the occasion may be. The operation, which took place late in the afternoon, narrowed down the visitors' schedule, for the operating room having been prepared, it was not possible to show them this department.

Over 200 visitors saw nearly every other department of the active institution, escorted by nurses in crisp white uniforms.

They wound up their visit to the Hospital by calling at the Nurses' Home nearby, where tea was served by the Hospital Auxiliary. Pouring tea were Mrs. C. F. McHardy, Mrs. P. C. Richards, Mrs. N. C. Stibbs and Mrs. F. M. Auld. Members of the Auxiliary acted as serviteurs.

Approximately $35 was contributed at the tea.

Man Who Started for Okanagan Free; Couldn't Buy Car; Tried Extend Ride

TRAIL, B. C., May 10—The charge against Arthur F. Hart, of theft of a car from the Dominion Garage and Sales Company, Trail, was dismissed by Magistrate Parker Williams, in City Police Court, Saturday morning.

The case was tried Friday, judgment being reserved.

Commenting that the case for the crown, represented by Acting Chief of Police F. H. Steele, had been ably presented, His worship observed that the accused had only $7, and was not in a position to even think of purchasing a car as he did not have steady employment. The accused had led S. R. Walley, garage proprietor, to believe that he intended to buy a car, and immediately he obtained possession, had decided to go to Grand Forks.

Referring to the statements of both Mr. and Mrs. Hart, that they did not intend to steal the car, the Magistrate said the intent was important. "I find it difficult," he said, to believe that a man, however weak or foolish, would go into a garage where he was well known and pick on a conspicuously small car with the idea of theft in mind.

"If he intended to steal, I would have expected him to pick up an ordinary car from the street and make the best time possible before abandoning it. Instead of keeping his intentions to himself, he called at two places, and advised that they were starting West, and in fact picked up a suitcase at one place. This is not consistent with our common conception of theft."

GIVES BENEFIT OF DOUBT

Magistrate Williams said he was much impressed with the evidence, appearance and manner of the accused's wife, and he could not but feel some doubt as to his intention. To find the accused guilty of theft, he would have had to believe that Mrs. Hart was equally possessed of criminal intent.

"I can only come to the conclusion that the accused conceived the warped idea that the trial drive of the car would extend to cover the trip. There being this important factor of doubt in my mind, I must give the accused the benefit of the doubt and dismiss the case," the Magistrate concluded.

Tenders Called for Road Work on Nelway, Kaslo and Fruitvale Roads

Tenders for three road reconstruction projects in West Kootenay — one on the Nelson-Nelway road, another on the Nelson-Kaslo and the third on the Trail-Salmo—are being called by the Department of Public Works. Tenders must be in the hands of the Department by 12 noon on May 19, a week today.

The Department's call for tenders lists a mile of reconstruction on the Nelson-Nelway road; eight-tenths of a mile in the Cedar Creek section of the Nelson-Kaslo road; and 1.8 miles of reconstruction on the Trail-Salmo road approximately three miles Southwest of Fruitvale Specifications are available at the office of O G. Gallaher, Assistant District Engineer, Nelson; at the ofice of E. H. Verner, District Engineer, Vancouver; and at the Department of Public Works, Victoria.

Contractors tendering on the Nelson-Nelway project must send a check for $1500 with their tender; those bidding on the Nelson-Kaslo project a check for $2500; and those tendering on the Trail-Salmo project a check for $3500. The successful tenderer in addition will be required to furnish an accepted check for an amount which, added to the sums specified above, will equal 25 per cent of the amount of the contract. Alternatively he may furnish a bond equal to the amount of the contract.

Tenderers must submit a list stating the type and capacity of the equipment in their possession which they propose to use for carrying out the work and stating where the equipment is located so that it may be inspected if necessary.

Haley Stars as W.S.C. Continues Winning Ways

SEATTLE, May 11 (AP).—Washington State College, traditionally strong Northern division track luminary, remained undefeated in 1941 dual meet competition by winning by a larger score than expected 73 to 58 over University of Washington Saturday and two British Columbia athletes played a big part in the victory.

The meet was featured by the performance of Bill Dale, W. S. C. half miler, from Victoria and the duel between Pat Haley, W. S. C., six foot four sprint star, who hails from the Smelter City of Trail in the West Kootenay and Kjell Qvale, Washington Norwegian flyer.

Dale stepped the 880 in 1:52.8 which bettered his own dual meet mark, established last year, of 1:52.9. Haley and Qvale divided honors in sprint events. Haley won the century in 9.8, then lost his first race in collegiate competition, in the 220 when Qvale shaded him by a foot and a half to defeat the cougar sophomore in 21.6.

Neither performer approached a record as a stiff wind blew against them.

Haley won the 100 by the thickness of his chest in a driving finish over Qvale.

Haley picked up another first in the 220-low hurdles, winning by eight feet over Bob McLaughlin, of Washington, in 24.4. Haley was high point man with 13 points.
