Roosevelt Power to Devalue U.S. Dollar Is Killed in Senate

Democratic Foe, Tydings, Delivers Last Speech; Western Silverites Hopes of Increased Price Lost

WASHINGTON, July 1 (Saturday) (AP). — President Roosevelt's power to devalue the United States dollar died at midnight, stamped out in the senate by relentless Republican filibusters who gleefully left the last, killing speech to an implacable Democratic foe of Mr. Roosevelt.

That speech was delivered by Senator Tydings (Dem.-Maryland) declared in stern, measured tones that congress must keep its historic powers over money to itself.

With the dollar devaluation power expired the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund, with which the treasury for five years had endeavored to protect the foreign value of the U. S. dollar against the raids of other governments and of speculators.

And with both went the expectations of western silverites for obtaining immediately an increased statutory price for the product of their silver mines. In a vote-trading deal earlier in the week they and the Republicans had drastically altered the administration monetary bill.

A law enacted in 1934 established the stabilization fund and authorized the devaluation of the dollar, but specified that both authorities should expire last midnight. The administration monetary bill was introduced to continue them for two years.

Coast Police to Be Reorganized; Foster Remains

VANCOUVER, June 30 (CP). — Vancouver's police department will undergo a reorganization that will especially affect vice squads but Brigadier W. W. Foster will remain chief of police, Mayor J. Lyle Telford announced today following an informal meeting of the civic police commission.

Details of the meeting, attended by Chief Foster, Mayor Telford, who is chairman, and the commission's other two members—Judge A. M. Harper and Magistrate G. R. McQueen—were not announced.

The mayor said he would take up the matter of reorganization with the chief and those involved. Brigadier Foster said the proposed changes would mainly affect the three vice squads—liquor, gambling and morality.

"I'm not satisfied with conditions on the force but I am going to accept for the time being certain departmental changes which the other two commissioners favor," the mayor said following the meeting.

Seattle Council Asked to Summon Reform Preacher

SEATTLE, June 30 (AP)—Prosecutor B. Gray Warner called today upon the city council to summon a "vice reform" clergyman for a public hearing on his charges of extensive flouting of the law in Seattle.

The action followed Warner's warning to Rev. James Warren Hastings that his failure to submit what the pastor described as evidence of "startling gambling and vice conditions" might lead to the pastor's being charged with compounding such crimes.

Dr. Hastings is the leader of a vice and gambling "crusade" group which the prosecutor referred to as "a purported committee."

Dr. Hastings said he would "ponder" Warner's demand, but he had promised his "safe full" for the governor within a few days, ignoring local authorities.

Censure Motion Unemployment Policy Defeated

LONDON, June 30 (CP).—An opposition move to censure the government on its unemployment policy was defeated in the house of commons tonight 118-100.

The vote was specifically on a labor motion demanding symbolic reduction in the labor ministry's credits by £100 (about $468).

Labor members claimed that while the government was absorbing jobless in rearmament projects no concrete broad program had been devised to deal with unemployment.

Labor Minister Ernest Brown said rearmament was a major factor in recent reduction of unemployment, but it was not the only reason for the progress made in absorbing Britain's jobless in the past four months.

Halifax Warning Stupid Bluff Is Goebbels Answer

BERLIN, June 30 (CP). — Dr. Joseph Goebbels, reich propaganda minister, tonight called Lord Halifax's warning that Britain will oppose German aggression "a stupid bluff."

German newspapers did not quote the foreign secretary's speech today, limiting themselves to hostile commentaries.

Writing in the Voelkischer Beobachter, Goebbels said: "Great Britain is making empty threats which do not intimidate Germany at all.

"Britain must learn that Versailles will never be repeated. We shall judge Britain on its acts and its acts alone."

German troops meanwhile were being sent to East Prussia as "precaution against Polish Chauvinists who almost daily now proclaim the necessity for Poland to seize that province."

Hundreds of thousands of troops in other parts of Germany today perspired in sultry heat as they went through regional summer manoeuvres.

Halifax Ends Chance of Direct Negotiation in Speech, Says Gayda

ROME, June 30 (CP-Havas).—The speech of Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary, yesterday, slammed the door on direct negotiations for settlement of Europe's problems and proved Britain "is marching on the road to war," Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist commentator, said today.

Writing in the Giornale D'Italia, of which he is editor, Gayda warned:

"Europe must know that (Britain's) policy of encirclement is a policy of stubbornness and war, a fact that Italy and Germany have long realized. They (the axis partners) will know, however, how to meet coming events with calm and firm resolution."

Evangelist Denies Immoral Exhibitions

LOS ANGELES, June 30 (AP)—Except for one interlude when he "heard voices" and missed a question, Evangelist Joseph Jeffers spent today making denials of charges that he and his wife, Zella, gave immoral exhibitions.

$1,755,600,000 RELIEF BILL GOES TO ROOSEVELT CLOSE TO DEADLINE

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP).—Passed without dissent by the senate the $1,755,600,000 United States relief bill went to President Roosevelt about 4½ hours before the midnight deadline, when the existing Works Progress administration appropriation was scheduled to run out.

The bill was approved after four hours of debate, devoted largely to complaints by various senators that their pet amendments to the measure had been striken out.

The measure, hastily redrafted by a conference committee last night, won house approval, 321 to 23, early in the afternoon. When it reached the senate, Vice-President Garner sought to gavel it through, announcing: "Without objection the bill is—"

"Mr. President," Senator Vandenberg (Rep., Michigan) shouted before Garner could say "passed," and the debate was on.

Word quickly circulated that Republicans were seeking to delay the measure for several hours so that they would not have to talk so long to kill the pending monetary legislation, which was next on the calendar and which was scheduled to die if speechmaking continued on past midnight.

Republicans quickly denied this, however, with Senator Austin (Rep. Vermont), the acting leader, telling reporters that "the members of our party recognize the responsibility of providing relief for those in need, and there is no disposition to delay this bill."

As passed by the house, the compromise relief bill carried $53,300,000 less than the total appropriation approved by the senate.

Stricken out, however, were provisions originally approved by the house to substitute a three-man board for the present single W. P. A. administrator and to set aside $125,000,000 for public works from the $1,477,000,000 work relief appropriation.

Besides the work relief allotment, the compromise measure carried $100,000,000 for the national youth administration and $123,000,000 for the farm security administration.

Danzig Considered Imminent Danger Spot by Officials

Reactions if Germany Were to Use Ingenuity Instead of Force Important Question; Nazis Unimpressed by Warnings

By The Associated Press

Alarmed European statesmen pondered a welter of rumors and bristling official pronouncements last night in search of an answer to the question: Is there a new crisis in the wind and where?

Puting two and two together they found little concrete evidence of an impending showdown. At least they could not put a finger on such ominous signs as preceded European crisis of the recent past.

London official circles insisted with emphasis there would be "no retreat" by Britain in Europe but lack of clues on Chancellor Hitler's immediate plans and technicalities of the British guarantee to Poland gave rise to speculation over whether Danzig was an imminent danger spot.

British officials said a declaration by Foreign secretary Lord Halifax Thursday that Britain's "first task is to resist aggression" was intended in the first place to eliminate any doubt as to whether she would fight for Danzig.

One important question concerning Danzig appeared, however, to lie outside his statement — what would happen if Germany used "ingenuity," as a Nazi spokesman put it, instead of force?

TO RESIST FORCE

The British foreign office wouldn't say whether that would be regarded as aggression but it was emphasized that Britain would be compelled to fight for Poland if she decided to resist with force.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 30 (AP) — "Guard against surprise" was the admonition which went out tonight to Danzig's reinforced police force.

Railway bridges were guarded and strategic highways patrolled, authorities said, against the possibility of a putsch or invasion from the Polish frontier.

The security measures were of purely precautionary nature, Danzig officials declared.

They denied knowledge of any German action in Danzig—but they expressed concern over the possibility that Polish elements might be aroused into some positive action in the quarrel which has made this city and Pomorze (the Polish corridor) a point of contention between Germany and Poland.

(Newspapers alleged anti-aircraft guns were smuggled into the Free City Wednesday night and were being established on Bischofsberg, the highest hill near Danzig, said to be closed to civilians.)

There was no sign of military activity in the city or the adjoining countryside.

Approve U.S. War Appropriation

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP).—Congress approved today a $223,440,000 supplemental appropriation for the United States war department.

The funds are to be spent largely for expansion of the U. S. air corps, aside from $14,250,000 for so-called "educational orders" to train industry in the manufacture of munitions, and $27,000,000 for strengthening the defence of the Panama Canal zone.

Congressional action on the measure was completed when the senate approved a conference report, sending the bill to President Roosevelt.

Canadian Home for King and Queen Is Floridan's Scheme

LONDON, June 30 (CP). — A permanent Canadian residence for the King and Queen, to which they could pay a yearly visit, was suggested here today by an American.

Judge Brettle Scott of Florida, told the Sevenoaks, Kent, Rotary club of the stirring welcome given Their Majesties in Canada and the United States and added:

"A home in Canada should be established for the King and the Queen, where Their Majesties could spend part of each year.

"In these days of quick communication, there is no reason why this should not be done. It would draw Canada still closer to the Empire."

Arms Embargo Is Forced Through in Washington Vote

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Overriding the wishes of the administration, the house of representatives insisted tonight on including a modified arms embargo provision in the United States neutrality bill.

Desperately fighting to eliminate this restriction opposed by the administration, house leaders made three unsuccessful attempts to eliminate it from the measure.

Each time they were beaten, although Speaker Bankhead, a veteran of the U. S. congress which declared war against Germany, went down on the floor and pleaded in a dramatic speech for elimination of the restriction.

The roll call vote, ratifying tentative approval given yesterday to an amendment by Representative Vorys (Rep., Ohio) prohibiting the exportation to belligerents during wartime of "arms and ammunition", was 214 to 173.

AUSTRALIA UNITED IN NATIONAL SCHEME OF WAR PREPAREDNESS

SYDNEY, Australia, June 30 — (CP). — Australia is bending every effort toward mobilization of its man-power, military strength and industries in a national scheme of preparedness against war.

Since last September's crisis, there has been serious stock-taking in the commonwealth. Like many other nations, Australia found itself far from ready for an emergency. Those deficiencies are being repaired rapidly and the government has voted more than £70,000,000 ($327,600,000) for a defensive program which will be pressed to completion during the next three years.

The Australian government has laid its plans so that the Dominion will be in a position to withstand sudden attack by the strength of its own arms, realizing that assistance could not immediately be given by Britain in a supreme emergency here.

Defence authorities are particularly concentrating on strengthening the naval and air forces, which between them will absorb approximately £41,000,000 ($200,000,000) of the total outlay. This policy is being followed on the theory that an enemy's attack will take the form of surprise raids by sea and air on the capital cities. With exception of Canberra, all these are on the coastline.

The army will be enlarged and completely overhauled.

In addition, ordnance factories and munitions plants are being set up, while a register is planned of industrial resources and manpower. By 1941 it is hoped Australia will be able to produce all its munitions requirements, including the Bren machine gun and that industry and man-power will be organized on a war-footing.

A ministry of supply has been created, headed by Reginald Casey, former federal treasurer. His national slogan is "economic preparedness."

TO OBSERVE 72nd ANNIVERSARY OF SIGNING OF CONFEDERATION AT FAIR

NEW YORK, June 30 (CP). — While Canada celebrates Dominion Day, the 72nd anniversary of the signing of Confederation will be observed at the New York world's fair tomorrow.

Later they will be joined by another 4000 Canadians and other Britons in the court of peace to see a parade of the crews of the Canadian destroyers Skeena and Saguenay, watch a musical ride by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and hear Canadian music by the "Mounties" brass band.

Mr. Euler and the official party, escorted by guards of honor, are to call on Mayor Laguardia at the summer city hall, near the fairgrounds, and Edward J. Flynn, the United States commissioner general to the fair. There will be a world's fair luncheon and later a Dominion government reception in the Canadian pavilion.

THREATS TO PRESS FREEDOM TO BE BROUGHT TO CANADIAN MEETING

LONDON, June 30 (CP Cable).—Threats to freedom of the press will be brought by the Empire Press union before the Imperial Press conference when it meets in Canada next year, press union delegates decided today at their final session here.

Concluding a five-day meeting devoted to the intensive study of problems faced today by newspapers in the Empire and the world, the delegates urged upon the British government the need for encouraging spread of British news, and international news of British origin, through existing unofficial channels to newspapers of foreign countries.

They stated, in a resolution, that this would be one way of applying a corrective to heavily subsidized foreign service.

The delegates expressed alarm over the "recurrence and gravity of the encroachment by legislation or otherwise" on the freedom of the press.

They affirmed that such freedom is an "inseparable part of the liberty of the individual and vital to the survival of government by the people."

In the event of further invasion of established privileges other than those indispensable to national safety, the union urged arousing of the public to the common danger involved. Overseas section members will be asked to advise the union of all encroachments so that the Empire press as a whole might be informed.

A resolution of appreciation was passed for the invitation to hold the conference in Canada.

Similarity of ideals had created a happy partnership between press and radio in Canada, the delegates were told during the final session. The Canadian section of the union, in a memorandum prepared for the conference, said that Canadian publishers had set no bounds to the freedom of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's use of their cooperative news association, The Canadian Press.

"It is confidently expected this increased volume of news on Canadian air, Canadian and British in its character, will eventually flood out for the Canadian listener foreign news from across the friendly border," the memorandum said.

Nelson Maple Leafs Run Roughshod Over Tiring Redmen in the Final Two Sessions to Win by a 13 to 7 Score

Egan, Simcock and Bailey Kept Fans on Edge With Several Tiffs; Leo McKinnon Leads With Five Points

Rossland Redmen made a gallant bid to gain a victory in their first engagement with Nelson Maple Leafs Friday evening at Civic arena, but after holding the league-leaders all even after two periods, they wilted badly in the final two cantos and went down to a 13-7 defeat in a West Kootenay Lacrosse league game.

It was only a fair display of boxla for a crowd of nearly 800 fans. Nelson, missing several regulars, were way off in their passing combinations, and few of their plays really clicked. On the other hand, the Redmen were participating in only their second game, and, as expected they tired on the large floor.

The game, however, was not devoid of excitement and thrills by any means. Several brilliant goals were chalked up by both squads and numerous personal tiffs broke out to keep the fans on edge. Pat Egan and Ace Bailey, the latter one fan once termed during the game "Egan's playmate", were continually mixing it up, and laying each other low with rousing body checks. Bailey was not the only lad Pat was interested in though; Sid Simcock, a husky defenceman, had a few mixups and tangles with Egan to keep the action interesting.

This Simcock, by the way was one of the most effective players on the floor despite his three sessions in the hoosegow. He bolstered the defence considerably, and led many nice rushes down the rink. He set the pace for the scoring with the first goal of the game only 36 second after the opening whistle.

Chunky Leo McKinnon, a rookie just up from junior company this year, was the high scorer of the night, rapping in three goals and handing out two assists. He was one of the few players that was "on" his game. Foster Mills snared two goals, fooling Gidinski neatly on each occasions. Bill Townsend made up for several bad plays on passes by banging home two counters. George Bishop, usually one of th. most consistent players, had a lot of tough luck around the net, missing the net completely on wonderful opportunities twice in the third period. He chalked up three points during the tilt.

Rossland had the Leafs buffaloed most of the time in the first half of the game. The Redmen presented a tough bulwark for Nelson to crack and held the upper hand as far as the score was concerned twice in the first period, leading 1-0 and 2-1. In the second, after the homesters had gone up, the Golden City crew knotted the count twice more.

Then Nelson's condition began to tell and the visitors seldom threatened Davy Gibbons' citadel to any great extent. Whenever they did break through, Davy was right on the job. The youthful green and whites outran the Redmen at every turn, and should have taken a greater command of the play.

SHOW GREAT PROMISE

Rossland will improve greatly as the season wears on. The team showed plenty of promise of that. The defence hands out plenty of punishment, all the defenders being big men. George Anderson, a fly in the ointment at all times for his opponents, Gordon (Squeak) Ezart, both favorites in the local arena, again drew plaudits from the fans with some pretty plays, but they too coudn't stand the pace.

The Rosslanders worked their sound interference system to perfection in the earlier part of the game, and when they round into form they will be a force to be contended with. Their tight defensive play kept the Leafs disorganized, and this counted in a great measure for the ragged game Nelson put up.

It wasn't Johnny Gidinski's fault that his club failed to finish on the long end of the score. He robbed incoming opponents repeatedly with sensational saves. With his mates tiring, he had no chance as the Leafs kept boring in.

Two big lights at the east end of the Vernon street side of the rink were out and that was responsible for disorganized play in that area.

Buddy Hammond, retired boxla player, made his debut as an official and met favor from the fans although most of the railbirds take delight in riding the refs on all possible occasions. He was right on top of every play, and he and Wheatley formed a fine team.

MORE ABOUT CRISIS FEARS

Nazi officials, who have denied any intention of an impending coup in Danzig, expressed amusement at French reports of an effort to settle by negotiation the German Polish dispute over the Free City.

Informed Berlin quarters said there were no indications of an effort by either Poland or Germany to settle the matter directly but that "it might be that France and Great Britain are trying to step in as mediators." They doubted that Hitler would compromise.

Topflight Nazis professed to be unimpressed by Britain's warnings and asserted Germany would strive unswervingly toward the goal set by the fuehrer—return of Danzig to the reich and a sovereign right of way across Pomorze, the Polish corridor, to connect Germany proper and East Prussia.

An authoritative Warsaw source said Poland "will not allow herself to be provoked but every action will be met with due counteraction," adding:

"It is now understood both in Poland and Great Britain that any act of violence, whether it comes from within or without the Free City, would be an act of war."

New Minister Is Inducted, United Church in Trail

Burning of Mortgage Features Special Service

TRAIL, B. C., June 30 — The institution and induction of Rev. J. Lynley Clerihue and the burning of the mortgage were conducted at a special service in East Trail united church tonight. Rev. T. J. S. Ferguson of Nelson presided and inducted the new minister, Rev. Foster Hilliard of Nelson charging Mr. Clerihue, and Rev. M. W. Lees of Knox United church addressing the congregation.

"Be the ideal citizen, the ideal friend, and work so that these the people of your congregation cannot rise much higher than the example you set to them," Mr. Hilliard said.

In congratulating the congregation on its establishment of a separate parish Mr. Lees conveyed "the richest of goods, blessings and grace" and hoped that "you be able to build a tremendous influence in East Trail for the Kingdom of God."

"One word," he said "sums up what ought to be said on such an occasion and that is cooperation. What splendid work you can do when the congregation and the minister work as a team."

Mr. Clerihue closed the induction service by pronouncing the benediction. Speaking briefly he said: "I will endeavor to make this congregation the most effective congregation in the presbytery and to give the very best that I've got."

A. E. Jones of Knox United church presided as chairman, as Mrs. Fred Cullen, president, and Mrs. George Palmer, secretary-treasurer of the Ladies' aid, burned the mortgage. The ladies organization paid off the mortgage in three years and during that time maintained the Sunday school and sponsored the church.

The Sunday school, which has over 200 members, was started in Greens grocery store in East Trail about 11 years ago, Mr. Jones announced. At that time it had about 15 members.

Speakers were Mrs. H. T. Beckett, on behalf of the Sunday school; Charles Hand on behalf of the Tuxis group; Mrs. J. T. Nicholson for the Daly club; Miss Margaret Maitland for the C. G. I. T.; Mrs. Cullen for the Ladies' aid, Mrs. W. C. Aston for the Knox United church Ladies' association; R. Kydd, steward of Fruitvale United church; Reg Hawkes, Knox Sunday school superintendent; and Dr. J. S. Daly, superintendent of East Trail church Sunday school.

Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Fred Attaway and Lois Freeman. Mrs. A. K. Cairns, A.T.C.M., accompanied at the piano. Later there was a reception held for Mr. Clerihue and his family at which refreshments were served.

Weather Reader Fractures Skull Mountain Climb

TRAIL, B. C., June 30—Found lying in a critical condition high on the mountainside near Columbia Gardens, Charles Lawrence, 23, Trail smoke observer, was rushed to the Trail-Tadanac hospital late this afternoon, where X-ray examination revealed a fracture of the skull. Tonight his condition was reported to be serious. Lawrence is a member of the Dominion government meteorological party which is collecting data on smoke and weather conditions in the vicinity of the Trail smelter.

A farmer travelling along the road near Columbia Gardens heard moaning on the mountainside, and upon climbing up to investigate, discovered Lawrence in a semi-conscious state. A passing motorist was hailed, and the injured youth taken to Trail.

Lawrence scaled the mountain daily to change charts on three thermograph instruments automatically making a continuous record of air temperatures, placed at 100, 2400 and 3000 foot levels. The ground traversed is rocky, and in places very steep. The observer, who was unable to tell rescuers the cause of the accident, apparently fell while endeavoring to scale a particularly steep mountain part.

Although routes have carefully been mapped out to ensure the safety of observers, officials tonight intimated that the observation schedule will be revised to eliminate certain hazardous climbs, to preclude the recurrence of today's accident.

Enrollment 56 Senior Boys Camp; Tribal Ceremonies Are Carried Out

By IAN HUMPHRIES

Off to a good start, the senior boys camp has tucked the first few hours safely under the covers. The first of the 50 campers to arrive was Hawkshaw Powell of Creston, with Hugh Worsfold from Willow Point trudging in a close second. The greater number of the boys arrived by C. P. R. about 2 Thursday afternoon and all set to immediately get located in their cabins.

The usual business of organizing the camp occupied the remainder of the afternoon. After a dip in the invigorating cool waters of the West Arm everyone was ready for supper at 5:30 p.m. After which two softball games and rowing were in progress until campfire time.

CEREMONIES IN CHAPEL

The ceremonies of opening camp followed after sundown. As the dark shadows cloaked the woods, the tribes marched silently off through the woods to the chapel. There Big Chief Fred Robins gave a very hearty welcome to both new and old campers, with a brief outline of how Koolaree camp has grown in the last few years, and a few words of reminiscence for the Christina Lake and Kokanee camps. The Big Chief invoked the blessings of the Greatest Chief of All on the camp. The quiet steps and the solemn faces of the boys spoke only to vividly of the sanctity of the outdoor chapel. Old campers recalled many pleasant instructive and inspired hours spent in the chapel. New braves were impressed and thrilled by the natural house of worship.

AROUND COUNCIL FIRE

After the lighting of the tribal fires, the braves gathered around the council fire and pledged their tribes to the Big Chief. Ralph Stinson and Cameron McKenzie of Rossland, both eight-year campers, took part in this ceremony.

"Nipper" Ellison, Trail, and Bob Beattie, Nelson, campers of some nine years experience, gave interesting recollections of former camps.

A few songs, an evening prayer, and "Taps", and tired braves trudged off to bed. The gong rings out across the lake, and the cry, "Lights Out", is heard, then hurried plans for the morrow, and again the gong, and "All Quiet" is all that can be heard in the night wind. "All is Well —God is Night."

E. Brett, Fernie Oldtimer, Dies

FERNIE, B. C., — For 20 years a resident of Fernie, Edwin Brett, aged 69, died in the Fernie hospital Monday night. Mr. Brett had gone to work that day, and as he did not feel well shortly after commencing his work, he returned home before noon. Born in Rochdale, Lancashire, England, Mr. Brett came to Canada as a young man of eighteen. He had farmed in the Indian Head district of Saskatchewan and resided in Lethbridge for two years. EAST KOOTENAY LIBERALS AWAIT ELECTION NEWS

CRESTON, B. C. — No Liberal candidate will be placed in the field in East Kootenay until there is quite definite signs or information that a federal election will be held in 1939. This decision was unanimously made at a meeting of Liberals at Cranbrook Wednesday afternoon, in charge of President T. M. Roberts.

The meeting was informal, and matters of interest to the party were freely discussed. A constitution was roughly drafted by those present and later a committee made up of President Roberts, chairman; Mr. Brewer, Fernie; C. F. Hayes, Creston; J. A. Genest, Cranbrook, and Thomas King, M. P., Golden, completed its compilation, and it will be submitted for approval at the next meeting of the association.

President Roberts is also in charge of a committee made up of John Blakley, Radium; W. Linden Bell, Creston; E. K. Stewart, Fernie, and Ross Pascuzzo, Cranbrook, who will set a date for the nominating convention.

The constitution is generous in fixing the quota of delegates from each polling division, of which there are about 80, and will account for possibly 175 representatives when the nominating session is held.

All were optimistic as to Liberal success at the polls. There would appear to be no dearth of candidates, and the prospects all men of standing in the riding.

Harry F. Colgan, defeated Liberal candidate in Fernie in the 1937 provincial election, was also present.

Expect Social Credit Members to Run Under New Democracy

EDMONTON, June 30 (CP).—Endorsation of the New Democracy movement led by Hon. W. D. Herridge and decision to prepare for the next federal election immediately were announced in a statement issued today as a result of the caucus of Social Credit members of parliament which ended here last night.

"The federal Social Credit caucus is heartily in accord with the principles of new democracy as enunciated by Hon. W. D. Herridge in his speech to the Toronto district labor council June 28" the statement declared.

"It was resolved to proceed with careful preparation for the forthcoming federal election as requested by Major Herridge in his address.

"In thus urging the Social Credit forces in Alberta to take an aggressive and enthusiastic interest in new democracy, the federal Social Credit caucus is confident that it will be giving the leadership which will be welcomed by the entire progressive element in the province.

"The basis of Major Herridge's appeal is unity for a definite program of results wanted by the people of Canada. It is positive and constructive and in line with the principles and policies advocated by the world wide Social Credit movement. It is democracy in action.

"This is in striking contrast to the narrow partisanship of the old line parties and the negative attitude of these in their 'unity for nothing in particular,' by which they hope to defeat the progressive majority in this province," the statement declared.

At present there are 16 Social Credit members of parliament, two from Saskatchewan and 14 from Alberta. It is expected the present federal Social Credit members will run under the New Democracy banner in the next federal election.

Hollywood Girls Keep in Trim

By DONNA GRACE

For their strenuous work before the cameras, the Hollywood beauties must have energy and cannot afford to live on starvation rations.

Ann Sheridan, whose perfect figure has earned her the title of "oomph girl", depends on exercise for those streamlines. She doesn't favor any one particular sport but indulges in them all. In this way all the muscles are brought into play and there is no fear of overdevelopment.

When she notes the muscles of her right arm firming too much from tennis, she transfers her affection to bicycling or archery. She thinks there is nothing less glamorous than a girl with bulging muscles in arms or legs.

Her breakfast and luncheon is always light because she fears that stuffy feeling while working but for dinner she eats everything she wants, even two helpings of dessert. Twice a year for a week each time she goes on a liquid diet consisting of fruit and vegetable juices.

If she finds her weight slipping below her normal 120 pounds. Ann merely gets more sleep. If she finds her weight increasing, she drops starches and fats from her diet and has steam baths followed by a salt rub-down.

Rosella Towne, one of filmland's young starlets, was required to increase her weight 10 pounds. She says she did this without changing her diet by simply increasing her night's sleep from 8 to 11 hours over a period of 10 weeks.

Pretty Priscilla Lane believes the little girl fashions are enhanced with what she calls a "military school carriage." Her pre-breakfast exercises to strengthen the spine and keep it straight are simple.

Stand erect with hands clasped behind head. Bend over forward as far as possible and return to position. Repeat several times, then transfer hands to hips. Alternate by bending as far as possible to the back, the left and right. Repeat 10 times.

This one is a little more difficult but excellent for supple spines:

Lie flat on the back. Raise both legs upward and attempt to touch the floor behind your head with your feet.

Thyroid Balance Is Essential for Complete Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Yesterday we described the symptoms which were given us in a letter from a reader. These symptoms — overweight, sleepfulness, and dry skin and hair — indicated a condition of lack of secretion of the thyroid gland, known as myxoedema. We described what help the patient could obtain from a doctor who would perform a simple test which measures the oxygen consumption of the body (basal metabolism).

Myxoedema is quite a severe form of thyroid deficiency, and it might be well to follow up this account with some remarks on less complete loss of this important secretion.

NECESSARY FOR HEALTH

The thyroid secretion is certainly necessary for complete health. It must be maintained at a fairly constant level of production, if the human organism is to remain in a state of well-being. Many physiological organisms are able to keep up such a maintenance. Others, for reasons, some of which are known and other unknown, show a considerable fluctuation of thyroid secretion. Such individuals will have alternating periods of well-being and of a state of health which can hardly be described as sickness, but consisting of a state of fatigue and subnormality.

The modern physician is able to recognize these conditions and to treat them by the means mentioned above, as I have said, with great accuracy.

FREQUENT SYMPTOMS

Perhaps the most frequent symptom of these states of incipient hypothyroidism is somnolence—undue sleepiness—or, in lieu of that, forgetfulness, lack of concentration, day dreaming, a tendency to procrastinate. Of course, we all have these symptoms, it is true, but it is also true that probably they are due to temporary lapses in the vigor of the thyroid. That they occur in those of middle age is simply a confirmation of this, because lowered thyroid activity is particularly liable to occur at this time.

The nose and throat also show some symptoms. There is a feeling of stuffiness due to swelling of the nose and of the bronchial tubes. Allergy, another cause for boggy membranes, is always worse when associated with hypothyriodism, according to Dr. C. L. Hartsock.

TONGUE SWELLING

Swelling of the tongue and hoarseness are typical symptoms of myxoedema, and can be observed in milder forms.

Naturally, a tendency to overweight may be present. Dryness of the skin and hair, brittle and thick, coarse nails, falling hair and premature graying are very suggestive.

This, I realize, is a somewhat suggestive list — it is liable to make the reader think he has all the symptoms I am listing. So the best thing to do is to consult your doctor — we are advised to do that anyway once a year when we are in the hypothyroid age. And under the heading of treatment, do not try to do your own doctoring on any account. The administration of thyroid by the patient himself, without any professional advice, is one of the most dangerous of indoor sports.

NAKUSP, B.C.—A quiet wedding took place at 10 o'clock Tuesday at Our Lady of Lourdes church, Nakusp, when Mary, second daughter of Mrs. M. Surina and the late Mr. Surina of Nakusp, became the bride of Thomas Salmon of Sheep Creek. Rev. Father McGuire officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Frank Surina, the bride wore a dark tailored suit and carried a bouquet of roses and fern. Her sister, Miss Irene Surina, was her only attendant. She chose a grey tailored suit and carried roses and fern.

A reception followed the ceremony, intimate friends of the family being present. The bride and groom left the same evening for a honeymoon to be spent at Vancouver and other points.

Parents Can Help Child to Overcome Speech Disorder

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

"Dear Dr. Myers: Have been a reader of your column for some time and I enjoy it so much, as there is always so much good advice.

"Our problem is a stuttering lad. He will be six soon; we adopted this little boy when he was about seven months old. At about three he became fretful, nervous and cried quite a lot. He is still very nervous, cannot sit still in school or any place else. His stuttering is real bad at times; he cannot say words at all unless he leaves off the first letter of the words, and then the teacher scolds him.

"He seems to be worse this year, since the teacher is so quick and impatient with him. She tells him to hurry when he reads and then he can't say anything. Then she sends him to his seat to do his lesson over again. The children all laugh at him at times and mimic him, even the teacher laughs, and I think it is very wrong of them.

WHAT TO DO?

"What shall I do about him? When he stutters around home, we do not let on we notice it and talk to him like we would to another child. He never stuttered until he was about four. He also gives up very easily in his lessons and the teacher tells him he is capable of doing better. When he gets good grades we praise him very highly. Are we doing right?

"He is always very loud in his play; we can hear him above all others, showing off, etc., but otherwise he is mostly a very good boy. He was examined by our doctor who said he was all right, only very high-strung. He had his eyes tested, too, and he thought within a year the boy should have glasses."

ADVICE GIVEN

I advised this patient, sympathetic mother to have her child lie down at least half an hour every day after school and for one or two hours each Saturday and Sunday. Furthermore, I suggested that unless he showed marked improvement after a few weeks he should be taken out of school and given lessons at home for several months. Yet, he should continue to mingle freely with many other children his age, but be kept from too long and strenuous periods of play. Keep the radio off while he is awake and keep him away from the movies, of course.

Avoid unnecessary noises and excitement in the home. Keep your voices soft and low. Don't look at him when he stutters. Don't stop him or ask him to repeat. Merely act as if all is going well. Read aloud to him a great deal and have him lie stretched out as you do. Enlist your friends and his playmates in your understanding attitude toward this child. Play up his successes. Try to make him feel more worthwhile. Let him know he is adopted—and good luck.

WINGS OF YOUTH

By HELEN WELSHIMER

SYNOPSIS

SARAH ANNE MELTON, minister's daughter and close friend of JUDITH DRAKE, daughter of luxury, had a childhood romance with JACK COURTNEY, who attains sudden fame by flying the Pacific.

* * *

YESTERDAY: Sarah Anne receives a long distance call from San Francisc .

CHAPTER TWO

Standing in the alcove in the parsonage hall, clutching the receiver with one hand, Sarah Anne felt her slender body trembling.

Some place, hundreds of miles away, Jack Courtney was holding a telephone, too. He was calling her. Over the mountains, through the tunnels, across the prairies and cities and rural roads, their voices would speak to each other.

"Miss Melton?" That was a strange voice. Besides, Jack would have said, "Sally Anne," or "Honey, I did it!" This must be a secretary for one of the airways or a promotion man. Some earth-bound individual who looked after prosaic details for the men who flew. He was putting the number through for Jack.

"Yes, speaking," she answered.

"Miss Melton, I'm Ted Evans of the Dispatch. I won't waste time on formalities. Would you tell me, please, when you and Jack Courtney are to be married?"

She did not answer at once. The astonishing question took her breath and she dropped into the chair at the telephone table.

"Will you say that again, very slowly?" she asked.

"Why?"

"Because it's news to me!"

If a newspaper man thought he would trick her into a revelation in order to provide a romantic background for Jack, that news paper man could go write about the weather in Hawaii!

"You mean you are not engaged?" Either the man belonged on the stage from the feigned surprise in his voice, or he had believed in his own question.

"Just where did you get that idea?" she asked.

"From Courtney. Where else could we?"

"From Jack?" Had he let his brother flyers know that there was a girl named Sarah Anne Melton, a small-town minister's daughter who taught the third grade—But if he had, she was not supposed to know it. There was a bridge, two years long, which she and Jack must cross to find each other, only sometimes you could fly across a void.

"Are you still there?" the man persisted. "How shall I quote you?"

"Not at all, please. Jack is a very dear, very old friend, and I'm gloriously glad about his flight. That's all, and your sentimental notions should be knocked into a cocked hat!"

She spoke quickly.

"Where did you get my name?"

"Sister, no one on this golden coast knows you but the flying guys! Where else could we get it?"

Where else? Then Jack must have made some idle remark in which he used her name, and the press had magnified it. But it meant that she mattered in some way, small though it might be.

She even laughed happily into the telephone. "You ask Jack anything you wish to know. And I don't think he has any romantic ideas either."

She hung up. She was weak. She had not heard the voice for which she was listening, but somewhere, somehow, Jack remembered.

The mention of her name was such a flimsy thing on which to build, yet it was a living, breathing, shining contact. Her eyes became wider, star-filled, dark as long nights. She brushed her black hair until its curls were a misty cloud around the small oval of her face. She had planned to wear a simple linen frock with a row of white buttons, but now she slipped a white chiffon from its hanger. It was light as Jack's own clouds, and there were threads of gold caught in the shimmering folds. This was a gala night and she must wear a festive dress.

So it happened that Bing Wells, who never before had spoken to her except to say the dozen conventional phrases with which people carry on a necessary conversation with someone who must be spoken to, noticed her and came to sit near her.

"What's happened?" he asked. "A new kind of cold cream, false eyelashes—"

"My skin always was good," she answered laughingly, "and my eyelashes grew that way. Nothin's happened."

"It has. You're radiant."

"School's out next week and the whole third grade is passing."

"A lot you care about a lot of youngsters stepping up a year. You have a secret—"

Bing was slim and dark and he had a small mustache that gave him an air of detachment. He had been devoted to Judith for a long time, and Sarah Anne had wondered why she liked him. Judith was so strong, so capable, and the man was not of the same stuff. Judith was as tall as he was. But where there was strength in her slim body he had indolence, weakness.

Mrs. Allen, with her brusque frankness, had mentioned the matter once. "The man's weak. Oh, harmless enough, except that he saps somebody else's strength. Seems to me that's pretty bad. But now and then people like it. Maybe Judith has a maternal complex about the man."

"Maybe . . ." Sarah Anne had agreed. Judith needs valor, courage, strength in the man she loved. Why Judith accepted Bing, remained a mystery. She smiled about him, she said openly that he was amusing, that was all. But she went to church with him, to the town movies, to the concerts.

Now for the first time the man discovered Sarah Anne. The party was ending. The wood fire, for the June night was cool, had blazed high and riotously, then died. The long table had lost its beauty of candles and its silver trays of salads and sandwiches and ices and cakes.

Bing looked at Sarah Anne and smiled suddenly. He had a radiant smile. His eyes crinkled, his white teeth flashed, his face laughed. "Suppose you let me drive you home and tell me about Treasure Island," he suggested.

"The new land you found today?"

"There aren't any new lands. Columbus and Balboa got all of them." How could she say: It isn't a land, it's a path. A shining, silver cord between the stars, and it isn't even mine! It's just the way a brave boy took a cross a wide sea. But you wouldn't know. You sit at a desk in an office in the steel mill which Judith's father owns. . . . No, she couldn't talk like that. So she asked a question instead:

"Why do you want to take me home? You brought Judith—"

He shook his head slowly, that twinkle still dancing in his eyes. "Wrong, Sarah Anne! Judith brought me in her chariot."

"Then you better climb in, for I came in Gentle Annie—that's the parsonage car and it won't go above 30 miles. That's why Corrinne dubbed her that." Then, as he raised his brows, "Corrine's my sister—just 18, and she looks like Judith only she's gold instead of red-gold. See you later."

Judith stopped her, and the dark, bright eyes were laughing. "Darling, let the lad have his fun. Run on with him, please! I don't mind." She lowered her voice. "I don't want to go home. I'm taking my ship up and he's excess baggage. Please, Sally Anne."

"All right." She didn't want him, either, and if he knew that, he wouldn't have stood there so nonchalantly sure that he was the brass ring for which the merry-go-round played its calliope.

The old car chugged along methodically. Bing kept up his bantering. Suddenly he said, "I did you a good turn today. I wanted to get thanked for it."

"Did me a good turn?" The car swayed, then came back to the road between the maples which lined the southern part of the little city.

"I was over at the newspaper office today when the telephone call from the coast came through asking about Jack's devotions. He must be some guy. He left before I came to town."

She waited. So there had been a call to the paper, too? Why?

"Some wire service wanted to know if there was any girl waiting for him. It seems he yelled to the men to lay off when he hopped out of his ship. Don't blame him. He'd taken an ocean in his stride. So they called up here. The desk men were all out in the composing room so I took the call. I gave you a break. Thought you might like to see your picture in the paper and I've heard Judy say he carried your books home from school—"

"What did you say?" This cool, small voice was coming from somewhere deep inside her. It wasn't Jack who had remembered, who let her name slip out. . . .

"What did you say?" she repeated, while the night grew quiet, clouds lowered, and stars blew away. "Hurry!"

Young Girl Needs a Mother's Help

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

In conversation with a young mother the other day she remarked that she was devoutly thankful not to have the problem of an-old-for-her-age daughter which so many of her friends were wrestling with. "I'm sure," she said, "I wouldn't have the courage to deny my child the privileges that her friends were having — that is if she asked for them. Fortunately she hasn't a thought of boys yet though some of her friends are plainly boy struck."

"Are you sure," she was asked, "that your little girl isn't holding out on you? Are you sure that she and her chums don't get their heads together and whisper of what this boy said to the teacher and what the teacher said back to him? Are you sure she isn't agonized over the fact that her chums have a running start on her? Maybe timidity with you is tying her tongue." But no, the young mother was quite sure such suppositions were foolish.

She was believeing what she wanted to believe and instead of bringing the school children to her home for games and fun, letting boys and girls play together as children she was preening herself on her good fortune in not being bothered. She was forfeiting a grand opportunity to be her child's best friend and confidant. Conscientious in all? Yes, but dumb.

Not so much can be said for the mother of this sixteen-year-old girl who writes: "My problem is a little different from the ones I read about in your column and so I'm writing, hoping you can tell me how to solve it. Mother isn't willing for me to have friends or fun. In the afternoon when my girl friends call up and ask me to go skating or to a movie I say wait a minute until I ask mother. She always tells me to say, 'I'm sorry but I don't feel like going today.' I tell them this lie so much I almost believe it myself. She's afraid we'll meet the boys.

What I can't make out is that she sits up and entertains me by the hour telling me what good times she had when she was a girl. How can she be so cruel to a daughter? Of course I'm restless and unhappy and can't get my mind on anything and when I cry she scolds me and says I'm old enough to settle down. I suppose I should get myself a cat and stay at home the rest of my life."

None so blind as those who will not see. But at the head of the list is the mother who refuses to see that prohibitions and policings are poor policies for protecting adolescent girls. Why cannot these parents look around and observe that the young girls who fare best are those whose mothers provide them with home fun, help them make friends of both sexes and start them off with a safe, sane, well chaperoned social life that centres around the family livingroom?

Chairman of Electric Industry In Scotland Is Mrs. J. Roberts

By DILYS THOMAS

LONDON (CP)—Organization of Wimbledon tennis championships or chairmanship of an electricity utility don't sound like women's jobs but two women are handling them.

Miss Nora Cleather, assistant secretary of the All-England Tennis club, and Mrs. Jean Roberts, member of the Glasgow City Council, have proved women can do those jobs as well as men—or better.

Miss Cleather has assumed responsibility of Wimbledon because of the illness of Major D. Larcombe, the secretary. She is credited with being an organizer of exceptional efficiency and will stand up for her own opinion against her committee and the high powers of lawn tennis. She is seldom wrong.

Nevertheless she is popular with players and officials. At the end of the tournament her table is covered with gifts from players of all nations who have reason to thank her for kindnesses. One of her jobs is to arrange hospitality and transport for all the overseas competitors. Few realize the amount of work and responsibility the tournament entails. More than 30 nations are represented.

Mrs. Roberts has just been appointed chairman of the Joint Industrial Council of the electricity supply industry in Scotland. She will also represent Scotland on the National Council for the electricity supply industry.

She becomes boss of 9000 men and through the National Council will have a voice in the control of another 100,000. The Joint Industrial Council looks after all questions of wages and conditions in the electrical trade. No woman will come under her jurisdiction, for women are employed only in the commercial side of the industry.

Asked what it feels like to be the boss of so many men, Mrs. Roberts said: "Well, I am not the least bit afraid of the job, but I don't want to reveal my reactions in case my husband might read about them.

"After all, he is the 'boss' in my home—at least, up 'till now I have always managed to make him think he is."

New Denver Hears Mrs. MacLachlan

NEW DENVER, B. C.—Mrs. McLachlan, superintendent of B. C. Women's Institutes, visited New Denver June 21. At an evening meeting 50 ladies were present, 17 of these being from Silverton, where it is hoped an institute will again become active.

In a very interesting and enlightening address, Mrs. McLachlan outlined the aims and work of the institutes.

She congratulated the New Denver ladies on their successful dental clinic and hoped that the good work would be carried on.

Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. A. Greer, Mrs. H. G. Gunn, Mrs. O. Johnson and Mrs. E. Kirkwood, at tables decorated with roses, peonies and columbines.

The bedspread and two cushions which were raffled by the institute were won by D. P. Morgan and Frank Mills of Silverton. Proceeds are to be used for dental clinic work.

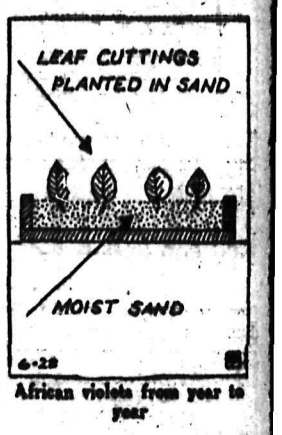
African Violets Only Live Year

By DEAN HALLIDAY

So many "house plant" gardeners wonder why they cannot keep African violets living indefinitely. The reason is that the plant itself lives only one year, but by taking leaf cuttings from a plant you can keep your African violets going from year to year.

One method of planting leaf cuttings from an African violet plant is shown in the Garden-Graph. Choose mature leaves, pick them off at the base of the plant, and insert the whole leaf stem into the ground, as shown. Use moist sand for the first rooting.



African violets from year to year

Leaf cutting can be planted either in a flat, as illustrated, or in flower pots, but the sand in them must be kept moist and the whole thing covered with glass until the roots form. After roots have formed on the cuttings, they should be transplanted to individual small pots containing a mixture of good garden loam, sand and leaf mould. Later, as they grow they may be transplanted to regular size pots.

Rents Up 300 Per Cent in Shanghai, Foodstuffs 70 Per Cent Say Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis on Way New York Today

Rents in Shanghai have advanced 300 per cent, and cost of foodstuffs about 70 per cent as a result of the Sino-Japanese undeclared war stated Mrs. W. B. Curtis, a visitor to Nelson this week. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, en route to England for a visit, were guests in Nelson of Mrs. B. Ramsden, aunt of Mrs. Curtis. They are eastbound today by train, planning to visit the world's fair at New York before sailing for England.

"Our living conditions are very similar to any large city," Mrs. Curtis said, "except that everyone has servants. The big trouble is that one gets so used to having everything done instead of doing it oneself. Labor is cheap, of course."

Foodstuffs are much the same as consumed here, except that the proportion of tinned goods is much greater.

ACTIVITY NARROW

Mr. Curtis, who is a sub-inspector of the Shanghai municipal police, stated the Japanese occupation of surrounding territory has narrowed down the activity of most while residents of Shanghai to the concessions. Industrial plants outside these areas employ only a fraction of their normal forces. Since they are in territory occupied by the Japanese, the work of the police is considerably handicapped by the Japanese military.

Crowding is one of the big problems in Shanghai, the city being filled with refugees. This is the reason for extremely high rent, and for the great difficulty in securing suitable quarters.

Should the "show" be stopped tomorrow, it would take some time to remedy conditions because most of the refugees had no place to go even if they were able to return home much of the country being devastated, he said.

American Flag Is Given to Masonic Lodge of Creston

CRESTON, B. C. — International Masonic fellowship at its best was in evidence at the International Night session of Creston lodge No. 54, A. F. & A. M., at the June meeting Wednesday night, which was graced with the largest attendance ever recorded at a regular lodge sitting. There were about 90 visitors from Sandpoint and Bonners Ferry, Idaho.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a handsome silk American flag to Creston lodge. It was a gift from Sandpoint and Bonners Ferry lodges jointly, and was presented briefly but appropriately by Mr. Soper, a past master of Sandpoint lodge, and was received and acknowledged by Ed Langston, and Col. E. Mallandaine. Throughout the session it occupied standard alongside the Union Jack and heightened the already attractive hall decoration with its abundance of cut flowers.

For the edification of the visitors the Master Mason degree was conferred by the officers of Creston lodge in impressive fashion, and proceedings closed with the two national anthems.

Dinner was served in the banquet room, the tables of which had been set and profusely decorated with flowers by members of the Eastern Star. There were the customary toasts and responses and the large gathering closed with Auld Lang Syne.

Creston lodge was accorded a similar reception at Sandpoint a week ago, and it is planned to pay Bonners Ferry a return visit in September.

No Forest Fires Burning for Sixth Week; Six in Week All Extinguished

Total 134 This Year to Date Against 93 Last Year

Although hot, bright weather has taken its seasonal place, recent rain contributed to the sixth weekly report by the forest branch Friday that no fires were burning in the Nelson forest district at the end of the week. Six outbreaks during the week were all minor and were extinguished by the time the report was made up.

Against the week's total of six fires, there were 25 in the corresponding week last year. The current total of 134 was still far ahead of last year's total of 93 on the corresponding date, however, due to the number of outbreaks in the district at the beginning of the fire season.

Of the six new fires in the week, three were in West Kootenay, one in East Kootenay and two in the Boundary. The total of 134 was made up of 66 in West Kootenay, 53 in East Kootenay and 15 in the Boundary.

Sheep Creek Is Scene of Beautiful Wedding Miss Whiteley, J. Erickson

SHEEP CREEK, B.C. — Sheep Creek hall was the scene on the evening of June 28 of a beautiful, impressive ceremony, when Miss Janette Whiteley became the bride of Jens Erickson.

The hall was most tastefully decorated in rose and white, the side decorations climaxed by a beautiful archway banked with flowers and centred by a wedding bell.

To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mrs. R. Binning, the bridal party moved slowly up the aisle. Preceding the bride were the bridesmaids, Miss Audrey Wright, of Winnipeg, cousin of the bride, becomingly gowned in pale rose silk net, with small flower trimmed hat and veil, and silver accessories. Her bouquet was variagated flowers. Miss Pat Reger wore pale green sheer silk, with small hat and nose veil. Her accessories were of silver and her bouquet of variegated flowers.

Mrs. J. May, matron of honor, was charming in Queen's blue silk lace, with white picture hat, and white accessories. She carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations.

The lovely bride, supported on the arm of her father, was gowned in white silk net over satin, her floor-length veil being caught in a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses and lillies of the valley. The veil was an heirloom, having graced four brides of the family.

Rev. G. M. Ward of the First Baptist church in Nelson met the young couple at the bridal arch, and performed the marriage ceremony, after which, during the signing of the register, Miss Annie Busk of Nelson, cousin of the groom, gave a splendid rendition of "I Love You Truly."

The groom was supported by E. J. Brekkl.

Assisting the bride and groom in receiving their friends after the ceremony, were Mrs. Whiteley, mother of the bride, attired in a gown of Petunia silk crepe, with matching picture hat and silver accessories. Her corsage was of orphelia roses. Mrs. Wright of Winnipeg, the bride's aunt, wore a gown of duchess satin with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

After the reception, the bride cut her cake and toasts were proposed first to the bride and groom by R. W. Bruhn, M.P., responded to by the groom; "The Brides's Parents," by Mr. Doelle, superintendent of Queen mine, responded to by Mr. Whiteley, father of the bride; "The Groom's Parents," in Sweden, by Mr .Whiteley, responded to by John Erickson, cousin of the groom; and "The Matron of Honor and Bridesmaids," by J. B. Gray of Nelson, responded to by J. May.

A few words were spoken by Mr. Bruhn, and by Mr. Gray, master of ceremonies, both lifelong friends of the bride's parents.

Dancing was indulged in for several hours, the bride and groom remaining with their guests until 11:30, when the bride, following tradition, threw her bouquet to her friends, the recipient being Miss Dorothy Roach of Salmo, and amid a shower of rice and good wishes, the happy couple left by motor for Vancouver by way of Spokane.

The ushers were Frank Whiteley and Jack May. The serviteurs, the Misses Esther Olson, Mary Kavalier, Florence McIntyre, Annie Kavalier, Joyce Austin, Lillian Robertson, Lila Melbey, Margaret Morrison, Virginia McMillan, Agnes Leahy, assisted by Mrs. Larsen, Mrs. Yeunie and Mrs. Helmersen.

The bride's grandfather, Mr. Wright of Vancouver, was present for the ceremony.

Gifts to the ushers from the groom were gold tie clips; to the bridesmaids and matron of honor, gold compacts. The bride presented each of her serviteurs with dainty silver souvenir spoons.

Jackets and Capes to Make Contrasts

By RACHEL GAYMAN

PARIS, June 30 (CP-Havas)—The classical redingote, with tailored revers and pockets, is to be featured among a wide variety of coats for the coming fall season.

Beige and pastel shares will be worn over contrastingly dark ensembles to an even greater extent than last spring.

Jacques Maillet sponsors daring color combinations of sea-green and rose, rust and jade, dark ruby and light blue. These are more effectively worn by young girls than by older women.

Capes in light shares are worn over black ensembles. Sleeveless boleros and short, severe jackets are more popular than ever. They constitute an inexpensive and satisfactory way of varying one's wardrobe.

Contrasts are obtained through white coats and jackets over black dresses, pastels over black and navy, and, more interestingly, through the use of the same color in two different shades.

CANADA HAS A NEW OUTLOOK

Canada faces this Dominion Day—the 73rd in its history—with a new consciousness.

Seldom in the past could that have been said with any approximation to truth.

It could not have been said any time last year.

For the greater part of last year the various provinces were tearing at the throat of the Dominion. It seemed as if every provincial premier was endeavoring to see who could go farthest in demands for powers that originally were considered to belong to the central government. The "wreckers" were loud of speech. There were hints of secession for public effect.

The difference today is not from anything Canada has done, but it is from an experience Caada has gone through.

Without doubt, the country has been welded together in many of the parting seams, through the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth. The emphasis has been on the nation, and on that nation's place in the British Empire.

Little Canadians could not have been heard during Their Majesties' visit, if they had wanted to be heard.

Canadians woke up during that historic month that the sovereign couple were on this side of the water. They suddenly appreciated certain realities; realized that certain things were not merely forms of words, but had an actual existence.

There is no doubt whatever that the young King of the British Empire, Canada's King, has fired the imagination of all the British peoples, and that in Canada he lighted a conflagration of sentiment that is not going to die down.

Canada can never be the same again. Its people have a new vision, a broader one. Added to all the Empire ties Canada had before, is a personal pride in and affection for the young couple that fate has called to the highest office of title in the world.

Today the provincial bickerings seem relatively unimportant. Today more Canadians, no doubt, will be less dogmatic, will be more willing to see the other fellow's viewpoint, will be willing to concede something for the greater benefit to the nation.

Probably this new spirit will carry Canada over the constitutional troubled waters. Let us so hope, at all events.

Yes, Canada's history is now in a new chapter, and the thanks for this situation belong not to any Canadian, but to an inspired young monarch.

Canada has a great deal to celebrate on this Dominion Day.

LET US VOICE OUR PRIDE PUBLICLY

Today's patriotic exercises in Nelson, in connection with the Dominion Day observance, are the 12th or 13th such program in a period of 14 years. In only one of those years was the impetus for the celebration from outside; in the Dominion's Diamond Jubilee. In all the other years, the 1927 Ottawa promoted and guided a national observance of inspiration was Nelson's own.

It is surely time that the idea of patriotic exercises, as an integral part of every Dominion Day program, was acted upon throughout the length and breadth of Canada.

We Canadians are too cold. We consider the Americans too vociferous about their flag. But we go to the opposite extreme, and blush to admit we have a nation.

As a matter of fact, the Americans are dead right. Their example is one that we should follow.

On at least one day in the year, we should give consideration to Canada's nationhood, Canada's history of free institutions, Canada's national problems.

A community, large or small, should feel free to have its fun—after it has rendered its tribute of attention to this matter of being a nation.

It is to be hoped that the cities and towns and settlements of the Kootenay will show leadership in this matter, and that visitors from other parts of the province and from other parts of Canada will find in our national observances here, when we have them generally, suggestions to be acted on by every Canadian community that has a proper pride in being Canadian.

ADVANCE WEATHER BULLETIN

For Western and Central Canada, embracing British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario.

Monday, July 3, 1939—A cool spell and in general fairly clear, but in some parts of the central provinces there are indications of a few light showers.

Tuesday, July 4—Turning warmer; on Pacific coast and in northwest of central provinces cloudy conditions, unsettled and a few light showery rains.

Wednesday July 5—Temperatures quite variable, or slightly warmer with most of the country clear, though about Manitoba and also on Pacific slope light rains.

Thursday July 6—Slightly rising temperatures and probably somewhat heavier and more general rains, though much of rainfall rather light and scattering.

Friday July 7—Quite variable temperatures and rains now become more general, probably being heaviest about east Saskatchewan and Manitoba country.

Saturday, July 8—Fairly warm and clearing in most of the west as unsettled conditions drift on to east and southeastern parts of the central provinces.

Sunday, July 9—Nearly everywhere clear and slightly cooler weather, though temperatures are variable within a rather narrow range slightly above normal.

Week of July 3 to 9, 1939, in central provinces begins with a short period of cool weather for this time of year, but temperatures slowly rise during most of the week, though about last days quite variable. During first part of week there should be some fairly clear weather. though a few scattering rains may be expected in a few sections. Then around middle and last part of week rains probably become heavier and more general for a day or two, yet weather finally changes to clearer and considerably cooler.

In these regions the early July rains may usually be counted on to carry a very considerable amount of the summer moisture to the soil, because, as is well known, the seasonal peak of rainfall comes on about this time. A short cool spell soon followed by rising, or at least variable temperatures, as forecasted for this week ought to bring on these regular mid summer rains, and present indications are there will be something like normal moisture in nearly all the central provinces and on Pacific coast. About Edmonton there ought to be nearly 4 inches of rain in July while to southeast as far as Fort William there should be nearly as much, and in all sections fully up to the seasonal normal.

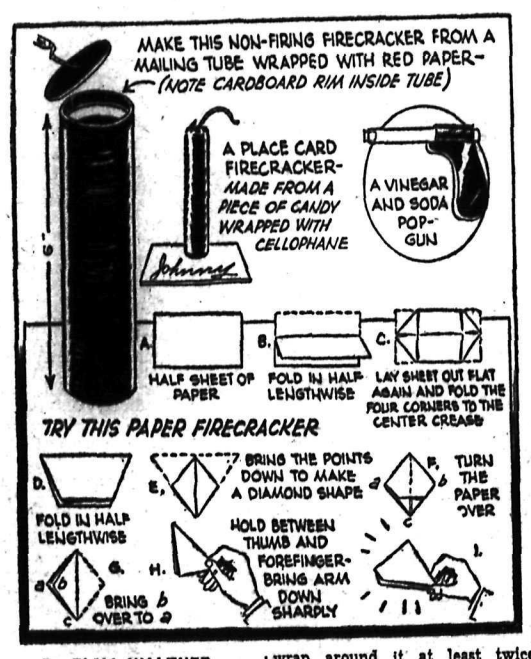
Make Vinegar-and-Soda Popgun, and Noisemakers of Folded Paper



By ELMA WALTNER

If Daddy has said "no firecrackers!" this year, you are no doubt greatly disappointed. Maybe you think he is being unfair, because other children on the block are allowed to have them. If you were older, you would realize that he is doing the best thing for you, because every first of July many children, grown-ups too, have painful accidents with them. However, don't feel bad, for I am going to tell you how you can have firecrackers that are fun but not dangerous.

Make some large and small ones to decorate the dinner table. For two large ones, you will need a mailing tube about 12 inches long. Cut this in half so that you have two sixinch tubes.

Now get some red paper—maybe you have some red tissue paper left over from last Christmas. Cut a piece an inch and a half longer than the tube, and wide enough to wrap around it at least twice. Wrap the tissue paper around the tube and glue the edge. Tuck the ends into the ends of the tube. Glue a circle of cardboard over one end for the bottom.

The top is not quite so simple, but you should have no trouble with it. Inside the open end of the tube and about half an inch down from the top, glue a narrow strip of thin cardboard all the way around inside. Now cut a circle of cardboard that will just slip into the tube and rest on the edge of cardboard. Glue red paper over this cardboard disk.

MAKING THE FUSE

Now with the point of the scissors, punch a hole into the centre of the disk. Thread a piece of string through the hole and glue it to the under side. Put the top into position, and you have a nice hollow giant firecracker to decorate your dinner table. Your family will enjoy them still more if they are filled with small candies to be eaten after the dinner.

The place cards are firecrackers, too. For these you will need stick candy, red cellophane and string. Wrap half a stick of candy in cellophane. Twist the ends, putting a short piece of string into one end before twisting to make the wick. Glue them to small cards on which the names are to be printed.

If you want something that will make a noise, make a paper "firecracker". Fold a half sheet of newspaper as shown in the illustrations. Take the edges between your thumb and forefinger, lift your arm and bring it down rapidly. The cracker will open with a loud pop.

A SAFE PISTOL

Here is another noisemaker, easy to construct and fun to use. A short piece of metal tube or hollow curtain rod, sealed at one end, is necessary. It must have a tightly fitted cork. The tube forms the barrel of your pistol. For the handle use any soft wood, such as the end of a fruit crate. The barrel and handle are fastened together by passing several strips of gummed paper from one side of the handle over the top of the barrel, and gluing to the other side of the handle. Give the handle a coat of black paint.

Now we are ready to test our pistol. The ammunition is different from any other you have ever used. Fill the barrel about half full of common baking soda. Add a few drops of vinegar and put the cork well into the bottle. In a few seconds the cork will be blown out with a loud report. You will need to be quick in putting in the cork after the vinegar has been added to the soda or the gas that is generated will escape.

A medicine dropper is fine for the addition of the vinegar. You can fire from ten to 15 shots by adding vinegar to the soda. By that time the soda will have lost its "kick" and you will have to reload. The cork will be blown quite a distance, and if you wish you can make a target at which to shoot. The gun is entirely harmless and just as much fun as a regular firecracker.

Now get out your materials and make your firecrackers. I'm sure you will have a grand and glorious first of July, as well as a safe and sane one.

BING! I BANG! I

In just a little while it's going to be the Fourth of July. You'll enjoy the noise and the night fireworks. But your dog and cat won't! No, sir, decidedly they won't. And it may do them actual harm.

I know a "high-strung" setter that was a wonderful hunting dog until one Fourth of July celebration with lots of firecrackers made a quivering wreck of him. Ever after that the sound of a gun or any sudden noise set him to shaking.

But the dog doesn't have to be a hunting dog to be ruined by too much bombarding on the Fourth. Collies and Poms, and Boston Terriers have had their nervous systems all tossed awry by it.

The only cure is a long period—months and months — of careful peace and quiet, with no noises, no loud voices, no disciplining. It may take two or three years before the animal comes back to normal.

SOME DOGS AREN'T BOTHERED

Some dogs, of course are not bothered much that way. It all depends on the individual; not on the breed especially, although some breeds are more susceptible than others.

The best thing to do is not to take the risk. Keep your dog shut up over the Fourth, out in the garage

Keep your dog shut up over the Fourth or in the house. Anywhere where there will be nothing to startle him severely.

Cats, too, do not feel any better for being terrorized by a cannon cracker going off right beside them. It may be funny to you to see them jump and go sailing off with their tails stiff and bristly. But if that cat has a litter of kittens somewhere, she may be so frightened that she'll rush to them and kill them all. That has happened a number of times.

So it's better to keep your cat in the house, too. For even if you may not shoot fireworks yourself, there are likely to be others who will.

And while we're on the subject, here's a reminder: Don't get careless with fireworks, treat them with very great respect. They can do serious damage, not only to feelings, but also to the human body.

Be smart! Be careful! I don't want to hear of any of you fellows and girls getting hands burned or fingers blown off!

And don't shoot at other people's pets!

THE MISSING MEDAL

By W. BOYCE MORGAN

INSTALLMENT IV

Officer Coughlin looked at Jed with sober eyes.

"I don't know what your mother thinks," he said. "I tried not to worry her, but she knows something's wrong. She said you came home very late last night, and didn't explain where you'd been this morning."

The policeman took a step forward and laid a hand on Jed's arm. "Look here, Jed," he pleaded, "you must be able to explain that medal. How did it get in Old Abe's loan shop? You haven't started that kind of stuff have you, kid? Why, Jed. . ." The officer's voice broke. "How did that medal get there, Jed?"

Jed's brain raced. Suppose he told Officer Coughlin how he had lost the medal in the alley behind the poolroom. They might not believe him; and even if they did, it would mean that Joe would be arrested. Joe, who was already started wrong mixed up with Jiggs Lane and his gang. Going to jail now would be the worst thing that could happen to him.

"I lost the medal last night," Jed said slowly. "That's all I can tell you about it—except that I didn't break into that loan shop."

Officer Coughlin shook his head hopelessly. "You'll have to come along to the station, Jed," he said.

Jed squared his shoulders. "Okay" he said. He turned to his employer. "Sorry that I have to leave you like this, Mr. Monaco," he said, with an attempt at a smile. "But I hope I'll be back before long."

Mr. Monaco said nothing. He watched the boy and the policeman as they walked side by side down through the loading shed. Then he shook his head sadly and turned toward the office.

In the street outside, Officer Coughlin walked up to a police call box. Jed laid a hand on his arm.

"You don't have to call the wagon do you?" he said. "It's only a few blocks. We can walk."

Officer Coughlin hesitated. He reached a hand toward the pocket that held his handcuffs, then he quickly withdrew it.

"Come along," he said gruffly. "I know you won't try to get away."

Not a word was spoken as the boy and the officer walked the few blocks to the precinct station, but many people turned wondering eyes after them. Jed walked along with his back stiff, his eyes straight ahead. He did not wish to see anybody whom he might know.

At the station, Officer Coughlin led him into the office of Precinct Captain Furey. Captain Furey was a tall, red-faced man whose stern eyes showed why he had been so successful in handling the tough section of the city in which his station was located. As Jed walked up to his desk, he stared at him for a long moment weighing in his hand the medal which Officer Coughlin had handed him.

"You're Jed Mallett, aren't you?" Captain Furey said. "Well what can you tell me about this robbery of Old Abe's loan shop?"

"Nothing," said Jed, "except that I had nothing to do with it. I lost that medal last night."

The captain shot a series of questions at Jed, asking him of his movements on the preceding evening, where he had lost the medal, why he had been out so late and so on. Jed refused to answer. He merely repeated his first statement, and would say nothing more.

Finally the officer leaned forward. "Let's see your hands," he demanded.

AND EDUCATIONAL BOAT

Harold's father said the pond back of the new house was no use at all. It was too small, and there were no fish worth catching in it. But he bought Harold a rowboat.

"Not that you'll use it long," he said. "You'll soon tire of rowing around a two-by-four bit of water."

But Harold was interested in aquatic life. To him, the pond was a never-ending source of wonder. Through diligent work, after school hours, he fashioned himself a water-telescope which was simply a long metal tube with a heavy glass disc set in the bottom. When he used this homemade apparatus, he set the glass end under water and rested the upper part against his boat.

Harold discovered so many interesting things in the pool that he told his biology teacher about it. And that genial instructor arranged special Saturday afternoon classes. Pupils who wanted a ride around the pond, together with a view of aquatic life, were charged fifteen cents a trip. The tours proved both entertaining and educational, and Harold was soon gaining the patronage of younger pupils.

Harold since built a better telescope and learned more about aquatic life. Learning and earning!

DOMINION DAY

The first of July is a grand time for that first midsummer picnic, and here are some ideas to make it a real success.

Set a long trestle table outdoors, use a white paper cloth and stripe it with red and blue strips, tacking everthing down securely. Use paper dishes as much as possible, and if you want to make it really "patriotic", paint red, white and blue borders around them with wax crayons (the waterproof kind). Or you can paste small paper flags from the dime store on them.

For the centre of the table use giant firecrackers and make them this way: Get several sizes of mailing tubes, enough to form a line all down the table, with three large ones for the center. Cut them any height you like.

Editor's note: See Elma Waltner's article on this page for full instructions on making these firecrackers).

Take three of the largest size, tie them together with white paper "ribbon," and set them in the centre of the table. Place the rest of the red-covered tubes in a line down the middle of the table, getting them smaller as you go down. Glue the bases securely to the tablecloth. You'll have the best-looking picnic table you ever saw at practically no expense.

PEPPING UP TRAVEL

Evidently there must be a movement in France as well as in this country for popularizing travel by train; but the French have thought of one device which seems to be unknown here. We have not so far coupled up a dance hall. That, however, is now being done in France, where we are told that "'radio trains' with a car big enough for a dozen couples to dance in, are now the rage at weekends in Paris." In addition, every compartment has a loud speaker, and "a lecturer gives a short alk on the country through which the train is." Manchester Gardian.

JAKE ALLES SWATS NIFTY .400 TO REMAIN AT TOP OF TEAM AVERAGES

Vic Howard Still Runnerup With .357 Clip; Richardson Strikes Out Only Once and Drives in 9 Runs

Jake Alles, playing coach of the Nelson baseball seniors, still leads the team in hitting with a sweet .400 average compiled during the nine games the team has played this season.

Vic Howard, runnerup, has closed up the gap between him and his coach considerably is still far behind, the young southpaw swatting at a .357 clip.

But it isn't only in the averages that Jakes is leading his charges. He has scored most runs, eight, lashed out most hits, 14, hit for most total bases, 22, and has clouted most doubles, six. He also has a triple to his credit to tie with two others for leadership in this department, Gordon Richardson and Vic Howard also having hit for three bags.

Doc Chodorcoff took over the leadership in base stealing since the averages were last released three weeks ago. He has pilfered four, one more than Richardson.

Richardson has batted most runs across the plate with a total of nine, Chodorcoff coming next with five. The hefty catcher also has been given most free passes to first: he walked five times and was hit by a pitched ball once. Howard walked on three occasions and was hit once.

Walt Gelling has fanned most times with 11 whiffs, Tom McInnes coming next with eight. Gordon Richardson has fanned only once in 31 trips to the plate.

Roy Anderson is charged with most times at bat with 36.

SLUMPING REDS BEATEN BY CUBS AS WORDS FLY

(By The Canadian Press)

The Chicago Cubs collected only four hits, but defeated the slumping Cincinnati Reds yesterday 5-1, for their 10th victory in their last 12 games.

The Cubs, although remaining in fourth place, climbed to within five games of the leading Reds. The winners drove in only one of their five runs with a base hit. The first two runs were forced in on four walks issued by Johnny Vander Meer and one by Whitey Moore in the second inning.

Vander Meer was ejected from the Chicago game by Umpire Ziggy Sears in this inning after the southpaw had protested a ball and strike decision on the fourth man he walked.

The Cubs' two other gift runs were obtained in the eighth when Ernie Lombardi dropped a third strike on Stanley Hack, the two runs scoring when the ball rolled to the grandstand.

Lombardi subsequently was tossed out of the game by Sears when he protested the third strike on Hack was a foul tip. The big catcher provided the Reds' only run with a second inning homer, one of the eight hits allowed by the veteran Charley Root as he registered his first mound victory of the season.

Rain which fell in the second inning washed out the night game of the Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies at Brooklyn after they had played a scoreless first frame. The contest originally was scheduled for Thursday night and postponed because of rain.

YANKEES WIN

Over in the American league at Washington, Joe DiMaggio's terrific clouting and the four-hit pitching of Oral Hildebrand gave the New York Yankees a 10-2 victory over Senators in a game which was interrupted for nearly an hour by rain and finally was called because of darkness after three plays in the eighth inning. The score reverted to the seventh.

DETROIT WINS

Errors by Catcher Mike Tresh and Shortstop Luke Appling in the first inning in Detroit cost the Chicago White Sox the opener of a four-game series with the Tigers and a chance to climb past Tigers into fourth place. The score was 3-1.

Buck Newsom scattered eight Chicago safeties to win his eighth victory of the season, leaving 11 of the Sox stranded on base.

A SWELL JOB

Those fellows who volunteered their labor to build the open box at Rossland must have felt proud Wednesday night when they saw and heard some 600 fans yell their heads off at Redmen's initial game in the West Kootenay lacrosse league this year. Their efforts were abundantly fruitful for despite the golden city crew losing to Trail 11-7, their defeat by that count, if I know the Rossland boys, means they'll be right in there with Trail and Nelson in a short short time.

To those of you who didn't turn out to see that game, by all means do for the next one. It's a treat in many ways. And in as much as we've had a deal of rain, well — it just wouldn't be fair for rain to fall the nights of league games scheduled in Rossland.

THOSE OUTDOORS AGAIN

Evenings in Rossland after a bright sunny day are perfect. And Wednesday evening was just one of those. As people were swarming into the bleachers I sat there in the press box (built by Bill Miller) drinking in the beauties of nature. At 7:45 p.m. it was twilight. The sun's rays disintegrated by fluffy clouds floating around the mountain tops cast orange-red rays on the summits of the tall hills of Rossland. A full moon was high in the heavens to the south-east. The air was still but cool and fresh with that crisp tang of the great outdoors. There was no obnoxious odor of mingled perspiration and linament rising from the players' boxes; no thick air caused by smokers who insist on smoking.

SMOKING ALLOWED

But to smoke in the open air with the sky for a roof, to see two boxla teams in action under bright lights — it was perfect. If you've attended night baseball in Spokane or Vancouver on a gorgeous summer evening, you'll know what I'm talking about.

The box, which is 70 feet by 160 feet, the same size as the old ring (as the same floorboards are used) pepped up the game and there was action from start to finish. Redmen have the makings of a good team, Mel Spowart and I agreed as we talked about the battle, on our way home in his car. Mel graciously drove me down to Trail so I could file my story on the wire to Nelson before 11 o'clock.

Ross Forrest will be back after the next game and he'll help considerably. Ace Bailey, the big bozo who draws the crowds, by no means is back in there to his fullest extent. When he did get going the crowd went berserk. Sid Simcock, that rangy lad who turned senior last year, put up a great battle. Anderson, Carkner, LaFace, Ezart and Saundry were in there with much of their usual gusto and appeared to have as much on the ball as ever. Gidinski stopped many tough ones, but was beaten easily on others.

THEY'RE FIGHTERS

There's something about sport in Rossland that stirs your fighting blood. The work which built that box and organized a team, is indicative of that.

In a neatly arranged program handed out at the game appeared the following.

"A few weeks before the gutted game was to commence in the Kootenays this season, the Redmen gathered together to decide how they were going to have a team, despite the dark looking set-up they had before them.

"Minus a rink in Rossland and a considerable sum on the red side of the club's ledger, they had a seemingly impossible task before them if 'Boxla' was to function in the season of 1939.

"However, on being approached, the local Gyro club readily consented to sponsor the Redmen, and with this backing the boys got to work. With the help of several fans they constructed the box on Second avenue.

"Provided the Redmen can make their way financially they will endeavor to pay off their proverbial red in the ledger and therefore a percentage of receipts will go to Rossland's hard-sought after rink fund.

"It is the hope of the enthusiastic Redmen that the public, realizing just what obstacles are being overcome, will rally round the boys and give them all the support they so rightly deserve."

The Gyros; Cecil Pitts and Harry Leckie, who took over the managership after the executive resigned; the Redmen, and the fans, showed Wednesday night the result of sports cooperation. Here's hoping the fans will continue their excellent backing in the future even if the Redmen do not win the first few games. If those jugglers of the gutted hickory sticks have full bleachers to play to, they'll give till they drop.

Pucksters Back in 1st Place; Trounce Bombers

Pucksters marched back into a first place tie in the Nelson's Men's Softball league when they handed a 14-5 shellacking to the hitherto-undefeated High School Blue Bombers at the Recreation grounds Friday evening.

It was the heavy hitting of Bill Freno, Hal Bergstrom and Jimmy Allan that really won the game, although Bergstrom pitched steady ball to effectively scatter nine hits. His only bad inning was the second but Ty Culley's miscue at third paved the way for three additional runs after one counter was already in.

Bill Freno found his batting eye, the big right fielder smashing out a home run and two doubles in five trips to the plate. Bill batted in four runs and scored three himself.

Jim Allan singled, doubled and tripled in five official times at bat. Bergstrom clouted a double and two singles.

The biggest swat for the losers was a triple by Jack Gray. Harold Tapanila slashed out three safeties and Ted Huyck two. Frank Swerydo hit a double.

Bergstrom struck out two and walked out and his opponent. Huyck, walked the same number and fanned only one.

Some brilliant fielding brightened up the game, three double killings marking the play, although 15 errors were committed by the two teams. Kspak to Gray to Tapinila performed the trick in the third for the losers and Culley to Ahrens to Allan retired two runners in the third, and Ball to Lipsak ended the game with another double play.

Umpires: George McCulloch, plate Tony Arcure, bases.

Score by innings:

Bombers ..... 040 001 000— 5 9 10
Pucksters ..... 221 141 21x—14 14 5

Bombers—Bud Emery c, Harold Tapanila 3b, Bill Kapak ss, Wilbur Bentz cf, Jack Gray 1b, Ted Huyck p, Jim Fletcher 2b, Frank Swerydo rf and Roy Anderson lf.

Pucksters—Jim Allan c, Ty Culley 3b, Sid Ball ss, Jesse Seaby lf, Vernie Ahrens 1b, Hal Bergstrom p, Bill Freno rf, Walter Tozer cf and George Lipsack 2b.

RACING SEASON OPENS TODAY AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, June 30 (CP) — British Columbia's lower mainland preparcd its gala dress today for the celebration of Canada's seventy-second anniversary as a nation Saturday as "cloudy but warm" weather was predicted for the day.

The opening of the 1939 horse racing season at Lansdowne Park and an international swimming gala are the main events of a big Vancouver sports program. A provincial cup soccer game, baseball and a track and field meet rounds out the program.

Chilliwack's cherry carnival will be highlighted this year with the crowning of a cherry queen.

ORILLIA IN BOXLA WIN

ORILLIA, Ont., June 30 (CP).—Orillia Terriers defeated Mimico Mountaineers 22-5 in a senior "A" Ontario Lacrosse association game here last night.

N.O.H.A. Battles C.A.H.A. to Get Snowden, Kowcinak and McCreedy for Kirkland Lake Hockey Team

SUDBURY, Ont., June 30 (CP).—The Northern Ontario Hockey association will "go to bat" against the Canadian parent body to allow three players who toured Europe last winter with Trail Smoke Eaters, to play next season with Kirkland Lake, W. A. Thompson, secretary-treasurer of the N. O. H. A. said here today.

The players are Mel Snowden, Dick Kowcinak and Johnny McCreedy. The central committee of the C. A. H. A. executive in Toronto last week ruled they could not play for any eastern Canada team this coming season since they had not qualified under the east-west May 15 residence deadline.

Thompson charged the three players were eligible to play for Kirkland Lake according to 1939 rules. He had learned, he said, that a new ruling suggested at the C. A. H. A. meeting in Winnipeg last spring and finally adopted last weekend, at Toronto, was made retroactive in the Kirkland Lake case. He said he questioned the legality of such procedure when the N.O.H.A. had not been notified of any change.

Thompson said that W. A. Hewitt, registrar of the C.A.H.A. had told him the matter of exemptions of deadlines on the team that the C.A.H.A. sends to Europe had been considered at Winnipeg. It then was referred to the sub-committee, which met last weekend and ruled against allowing the three players to join the Kirkland Lake team next season.

UNFAIR MOVE

Thompson said he protested to Hewitt that such a move was unfair. The announcement should have been made before the May 15 deadline he said. Kirkland Lake could have had the players in by April 10.

"However, the three boys wanted to take part in some windup banquets and presentations at Trail" Thompson said. "They told Lake Shore (Kirkland Lake) they asked the head of the British Columbia branch of the C.A.H.A. and he said it was alright to stay."

Thompson claimed the May 15 deadline rule on east-west transfers was passed at the 1939 annual meeting but was not applied. The rule had been given special treatment, he said. Last fall, the deadline was September, on such transfers, which meant a year of grace on a special ruling.

Catholic Girls Take Title Game Church Softball

Catholic girls snagged the championship of the ladies' division, Church Softball league, on Friday night when they trimmed Trinity girls 28-8 in the playoff windup.

Two big innings accounted for the majority of the Catholic runs. With a lopsided score to fight, Trinity faced a hopeless task.

Playoff in the men's division sees Catholics and Baptists on the mat tonight. Baptists won their way to the playoff spot by beating Trinity.

Great Talent in Line B.C. Track, Field at Trail

Five Empire, Oylmpic Games Competitors to Take Part

TRAIL, B. C.—Athletes already in the city and those who have wired that they will compete, indicate that Dominion day at Trail will see the greatest aggregation of track and field athletes yet to gather in the Kootenays. At least five have competed in British Empire or Olympic games.

From Victoria and Nanaimo will come Joe Addison, Burdeck, Hugh Thompson and Broderick, quarter, half and mile runners. Among those from Vancouver will be Rutledge, who recently broke a 10-year high school broad jump record for Vancouver, and who pole vaults 12 feet. Armstrong, another high school lad from Vancouver, established a new school record in the high jump of six feet. Others from Vancouver are Clark Jones and Fitzpatrick. The latter worked out at Butler park this afternoon.

William Dale of Washington state college, Pullman, is bringing with him two sprinters. From the University of Moscow, Idaho, will come a weight participant.

Jack Dempsey Is Holding His Own After Operation

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Though still weak and sick from an emergency appendectomy performed last night, former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey appeared well started on the road to recovery tonight.

The old mauler, who was stricken with what he termed a "regular Dempsey family stomach-ache" while playing cards with friends, was able to summon a smile and shake hands with his secretary, Ned Brown, when the latter visited him at Polyclinic hospital this afternoon.

JACK DEMPSEY

Jack's bedside for the first time since the operation and went home to tend to their two little daughters. She appeared to be in good spirits and convinced that her husband was in no immediate danger. She did not have a room at the hospital.

A bulletin issued late in the afternoon said: "Mr. Dempsey is quite comfortable. His temperature is 101.2 degrees, his pulse, 82, and his respiration, 24."

A report from Jack's room said he slept most of the afternoon and seemed slightly improved.

Scores of Dempsey's friends throughout the United States called the hospital during the afternoon to inquire of his progress. Brown assured each of them that Jack was "doing as well as could be expected" and told them not to worry.

Dr. Robert Emery Brennan, chief of the Polyclinic surgical staff, who performed the operation, had not yet pronounced Dempsey out of danger and was not expected to do so for another 72 hours. He revealed that the appendix had been removed before bursting and that drains were taking care of the infection that was found. The operation, performed under a local anaesthetic, required 35 minutes.

COUNTY CRICKET

LONDON, June 30 (CP Cable).—Gloucestershire defeated Yorkshire by seven wickets at Bristol today for the second time in the English county cricket championship. Six weeks ago at Bradford the western county chalked up a six-wickets margin over the Yorkists.

Despite the two reverses — the only ones suffered by the champions in the campaign to date — the Yorkshiremen continue to lead the field in the competition with Gloucestershire in second place, slightly ahead of Middlesex.

Essex came from behind to win from Hampshire by 37 runs.

Hampshire's inability to clinch victory in close matches has been a feature of this summer's play, today marking the fifth time the southerners have posted four points for leading on the first innings in a match ultimately lost.

Another close contest saw Sussex defeat Derbshire by 13 runs while Kent sent Leicestershire deeper in the cellar, winning by 161 runs. In other matches Nottinghamshire and Glamorgan took first-innings points from Worcestershire and Lancashire respectively.

The scores:

Yorkshire 176 and 105; Gloucestershire 168 and 114 for three wickets.

Essex 181 and 241 for nine, declared. Hampshire 229 and 156.

Sussex 258 and 147; Derbyshire 198 and (Worthington 199).

Kent 190 and 222 for five declared (Fagg 131); Leicestershire 166 and 85.

Worcestershire 310 and 254 for five; Nottinghamshire 375.

Lancashire 249 and 291 for nine, declared.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, June 30 (AP). — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis is "still a bum" in the estimation of Frank P. Larsen, Idaho State Athletic commissioner despite Louis' four-round technical knockout over Tony Galento Wednesday night.

"Louis hasn't met a good man since he's been in the ring with the possible exception of Schmeling and then he took a licking from Schmeling," Larsen said.

Jacobs Must Pay Usual Rental if He Wants Detroit Park

DETROIT, June 30 (AP). — If Promoter Mike Jacobs wants to stage a heavyweight title fight in Detroit between Champion Joe Louis a home-town boy, and Bob Pastor of New York, he can obtain Briggs stadium as the site provided he is willing to pay the same rental he would have to shell out for the use of a ball park in New York.

That was the word tonight from Owner Walter O. Briggs of the Detroit Tigers, who disclosed that his representatives would confer with Jacobs in New York July 10.

QUEBEC, June 30 (CP).—Fifteen young Canadian cricketers from Canadian colleges sailed from here today aboard the liner Empress of Australia for a playing tour of British public schools.

Baptists Trounce Trinity to Enter Softball Finals

Aided by two big innings in which they took advantage of their opponents' lapses in the field, Baptists eliminated Trinity from men's divisional playoffs by a score of 14-6 at the Junior High grounds Thursday evening to advance to the finals against Catholics in the Nelson church softball league. Baptists and Catholics clash at the Recreation grounds Saturday evening at 5 o'clock.

Rev. Gerald M. Ward pitched steady ball to gain his victory, but it was really the sensational outfielding and hitting of George Staley, left gardener, that put the damper to Trinity's hopes. He made three sensational catches and batted three for four.

Ted Huyck started on the mound for the losers but he was forced to give way to Jack Clements in the fifth.

Sid Ball clouted for the circuit for the Baptists and Jack Clements, Bud Emery and Jim Allan smashed out homers for the losers.

Bill Kapack umpired.

Score by innings:

Trinity ..... 320 100 0— 6
Baptists ..... 041 315 x—14

Lineups were:

Trinity — Jack Clements, Bud Emery, Jim Allan, Wilbur Bentz, Ken McBride, Alf Parker, Ted Huyck John Huyck, Jack Argyle and Roy Mann.

Creston Valley Crow Kill Is 500

CRESTON, B. C., — Creston Valley Rod and Gun club's annual crow kill was almost 500 at the weekend, and with a streak of the best weather of the season in evidence, it was decided to extend the shoot to include July 2, at the June meeting of the club, Wednesday. In the crow kill the high gun was H. H. Adams, one of the operators on Nick's Island, with a total of 110.

The club was advised 50 pheasants were liberated at four points in the valley early in the month, and that there is assurance from the game commission that another 50 will be shipped in shortly.

The recently arranged East Kootenay Rod and Gun club zone, with which Creston is affiliated, sent along its proposed constitution, which was read. Objection was taken to a section that provides that affiliated clubs cannot associate themselves with the B. C. Fish and Game Protective association, of which Creston has been a member for years. Creston will advise the East Kootenay association it will be compelled to discontinue membership, if this particular clause is not withdrawn.

The game commission will be asked for latest information as to what has been done toward having the authorities collect what is known as a stamp tax, which will be a charge in addition to the usual game bird hunting licence. Creston favors the impost provided every nickel so collected is spent in conserving wild life in the province.

Frank Staples spoke briefly on a Washington state enactment that makes it compulsory for a hunter to get tags each day for the number of pheasants he bags each day of the open season regardless of where the hunter resides. Game guardians and deputies are placed at stated locations every day throughout the season. The secretary of Creston club will write a few clubs in Idaho and Washington for copies of their game regulations, or information as to stamp tax and tags in each of these states.

Six Runs In 1st 2 Innings Gives Hillcrest Game

NATAL, B.C.—Scoring all their runs in the first two innings, Hillcrest noced out Elk Valley Senators 6-5 in a Crow's Nest Pass Baseball league game played at the Elk Valley Ball field Friday which was called at the end of the fifth inning due to rain which made play impossible.

The visitors fell on young Halko in the second inning for five runs when they caught the entire Elk Valley infield napping, a number of successive bunts going for hits. They increased the lead to 6-0 in the third inning. Elk Valley opened up in their turn at bat and scored five runs and left the winning runs stranded on base when Seamen was rushed to the rescue to stop Elk Valley, after Richards, the Hillcrest starting pitcher, had weakened to force in the first run on three successive walks, while 'Skinny' Price pitched only two balls for three more runs, which included a double by Hampton.

Seaman, the third pitcher, allowed one more run but tightened up to retire the side.

Again in the fifth inning Elk Valley had the tying run on base but could not bring it home.

The game was umpired by A. Krail of Natal and D'Amico of Hillcrest.

The loss sent Elk Valley with Fernie and Natal-Michel into a three-way tie with Fernie and Natal-Michel for the cellar position with four defeats, while the win boosted Hillcrest further into the league leadership.

In league games played on Sunday, Coleman defeated Fernie 8-5 and Hillcrest defeated Elk Valley 9-3. The Natal-Michel game was rained out with Fernie.

SMITH ONLY INTERESTING FIGURE IN DULL WIMBLEDON TENNIS PLAY

By SCOTTY RESTON

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 30 (AP).—England's "world tennis championship" was about as thrilling as an overtime chess contest today and if it hadn't been for the Berkeley, Calif., schoolmaster, Gene (Mr. Chips) Smith it might have collapsed altogether.

As it was, Mr. Chips showed up with his whistling service and his perpetual grin and thumped his way past Emil Gàbory of Hungary, 6-0, 6-4, 6-3 into the quarter-finals of the men's singles. But even this development didn't keep the crowd of around 2000 from complaining that it was the dullest day since Wimbledon was a croquet club.

There was only two other important developments. First, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, Cambridge, Mass., stroked her way into the last 16 of the women's singles by beating Miss N. G. Huntbach of Great Britain, 6-2, 6-3, and second, it rained.

Mrs. Fabyan beat Miss Huntbach about as she pleased.

But only Smith attracted the big crowds. He swept the willing Gabory right off the No. 1 court in the first set, giving him only 12 points in eight minutes. The Hungarian started the second set by mastering the schoolmaster's mighty service, but it was only a spark which Smith soon put out.

The only other notable matches in men's singles were victories of Ghaus Mohammed of India and Germany's Henner Henkel, both of whom moved into the quarter final round. Mohammed had the fight of his life to beat Otto Szigeti of Hungary, former professional, 6-4, 14-16, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, but here again the tennis wasn't so good. Henkel had his own way with France's fine veteran, Jacques Brugnon. The German won 6-1, 6-3, 6-0.

WATT AND TARSHIS, FAVORITE AND UNKNOWN IN QUEBEC TENNIS FINALS

By DOUGLAS AMARON

MONTREAL, June 30 (CP). — Two Montrealers, one the favorite and the other unheralded and unseeded, qualified today to meet tomorrow in the men's singles finals of the Quebec provincial tennis championships.

Laird Watt, the Dominion's first ranking player, trounced Bruce Hall of Toronto in three sets in a match that followed form, but Ellis Tarshis scored a stunning upset with a four-set victory over Don McDiarmid of Ottawa, who previously had been undefeated by a Canadian in two years.

Watt won 6-3, 6-1, 8-6 but not before he had been extended to the limit in the final set by the University of Toronto divinity student's game rally. Tarshis played steady and often brilliant tennis for a 6-3, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2 victory.

PEARSON, PEDLAR WIN

Favored pairs advanced to the finals of the men's doubles in exciting matches. Toronto's young combination of Phil Pearson and Bill Pedlar, formerly of Vancouver, smashed their way to a 6-3, 12-10, 13-11 victory over Montreal's Lewis Duff and Roger Durivage while Watt and Gordie MacNeil of Montreal outlasted Hall and Pigott 8-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Two out-of-town players, Eleanor Young of Vancouver and Mrs. Frank Fisher of Toronto, qualified for the women's doubles finals with an easy 6-3, 6-0 victory over Monica Little and Mrs. Ralph Tees of Montreal.

They will play Mrs. Rene Bolte and Mrs. A. R. Porter of Montreal who won 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 from two other Montrealers, Barbara Barnard and Ruth Stewart. Miss Young and Mrs. Bolte qualified yesterday for the women's singles final.

Miss Young stepped into the running for three titles when she and Pedlar defeated Steuart Veysey and Ruth Stewart of Montreal 6-1, 6-2, in the semi-finals of the mixed doubles. They previously had won by default from Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Nicholson of Montreal.

The visiting team's opponents will be Dr Georges Leclerc of Montreal and Mrs. Frank Fisher of Toronto who won 6-2, 6-3 from Jess Baldwin and Isobel Matheson of Montreal.

...C.A. Station at ...ranbrook Again in Running Order

CRANBROOK, B. C.—The mono- ...ne here Sunday evening was a ...ans-Canada Airline plane loaned ... department of transport officials ... additional work in connection ...ith the radio range station here ...hich guides planes between Cow- ... and Crescent Valley.

In the party who flew in Sunday ...ening were J. B. Knox of Ottawa, ...ith the department's radio engi- ...ering staff, William Lawson, Do- ...inion government inspector of air- ...ays, and Z. L. Leigh, assistant ...perintendent with the airline, sta- ...oned at Winnipeg.

The flight Monday morning was ... experimental flight on the four ...urses of the range beam in order ... devise a let-down procedure for ...e Cranbrook airport. A let-down ...rocedure is plotted for every air- ...ort across the airline course of ...e continent, giving directions as ... flying procedure in relation to ...e four courses set out by each ...nge, duration of time to be travell- ...d on the given course after pass- ...g the zone of silence, and the rate ... descent before and after regula- ...on turns on the course to insure ...afety for passengers and plane in ...e emergency of a blind landing ... any of these airports.

Every pilot on the airline and ...very radio operator has a copy ... these directions for the width of ...he continent, with nearest alterna- ...ive landing field or directions in ...ase of impossibility of landing at ...hat field.

The visitors also flew to Wasa ...ith the possibility in mind of ...eventually building a marker bea- ...on similar to the one at Maple ...idge in that vicinity. On departure ...hey were accompanied by A. K. ...ooke, operator of the T.C.A. office ...ere, who has been transferred to ...innipeg.

Repair work on the range station ...here, damaged by lightning the ...revious week, was completed last ...eek. The lightning struck the ...west tower at the range station fus- ...ing connections, and putting the ...ighting system out of order. The ...epairs were completed by F. C. ...itkens, maintenace man for B.C. ...and Mr. Knox. Following repairs ...the station had to be recalibrated, ...work in which G. C. Upson, assis- ...tant inspector of civil aviation, ...helped by testing the course sig- ...nals in his department plane.

A third inspector visited the air- ...port during the week, J. E. R. Mid- ...dleton, inspector of the meteoro- ...logical bureau, checking on the ...weather instruments. His inspection ...territory includes the whole Do- ...minion.

The portion of the field annexed ...last summer at a cost of $10,300 paid ...by the department of transport, ...sprouted a foot high crop of yellow ...weed during the rains of the past ...few weeks, and systematic mowing ...of this territory began yesterday.

Mr. Aitkens and Mr. Upson left ...in the inspection staff plane for ...Vancouver to join A. Carter Guest, ...inspector of civil aviation.

Arthur McGill has been appoint- ...ed operator in charge of the T.C.A. ...office following transfer of Mr. ...Tooke, and three men will now ...handle the office routine. The sta- ...tion will be silent for six hours a ...day.

Toronto Rallies in Final Hour

TORONTO, June 30 (CP).—Toronto stock market came through with a rally in the final hour today to lift the gold, base metal and industrial indices narrowly. Turnover was around 300,000 shares.

Dome firmed ¾. Small fractions were added by McIntyre, Lake Shore, Hollinger and Bralorne. Net gains of 5 to 10 were chalked up for Sylvanite, Pamour, Lamaque, Powell Rouyn and Wright-Hargreaves.

Noranda finished about a point up and net gains showed for Smelters, Hudson Bay, Pend Oreille and Sherritt. Eldorado advanced to 1.16 for a gain of 8.

Steel, food, liquor and building groups were quoted at stronger prices while the utilities and senior oils leaned narrowly to the down side.

Western oils, in the final rally, erased the bulk of early narrow losses. Calgary-Edmonton boarded a net gain. Calmont closed down a few.

Part of Frood Mine Closed

COPPER CLIFF, Ont., June 30 (CP).—Part of the Frood mine of the International Nickel Company of Canada was closed today waiting for settlement beween the 2000 and 2600-foot level.

Engineers two days ago warned the settlement was likely and yesterday all men in the affected section were withdrawn.

The King and Queen visited the Frood mine June 5 and dropped to the 2800 foot level at shaft No. 3.

Calgary Livestock

CALGARY, June 30 (CP).—Receipts today: Cattle 526; calves five; hogs two; sheep nil.

Cattle market barely established. Medium to good heifers 5—5.50; good cows 4.25—4.50; good to choice veal calves 5.50—6.

Bacons 8.65 off trucks; selects 50 cents premium; butchers $1 discount.

Aircrafts Lead Wall St. Upturn

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP). — After a series of slip-shod rallies and retreats, the stock market took a longer shot at recovery in the final hour today under leadership of aircrafts, steels and motors.

The belated and selective comeback gave favorites a lift of fractions to more than a point, although many issues were behind minus signs at the close.

Dealings were rather slow, compared with the preceding session, transfers approximating 600,000 shares.

Brokers attributed the upturn partly to short covering by traders who desired to clean the slate preparatory to taking a holiday from tomorrow until next Wednesday. Wednesday. With the exchange shut down Tuesday for the fourth of July commemoration, attendance in boardrooms was expected to be light both on Saturday and Monday.

In addition, business prospects remained of the hopeful type marketwise. While tension over European war dangers still acted as a brake on speculative sentiment, and the congressional monetary battle made for further confusion, some buying was believed based on the theory the market had been "oversold" and was due for a temporary rebound at least.

Securities markets overseas were quiet and irregular.

On the home front better performers included Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Glenn Martin, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Anaconda, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, Du Pont and American Can.

Soft spots were fairly well distributed in the bond department. Commodities were mostly lower.

Small gains were score by Dome, Lake Shore and Hiram Walker while C. P. R., and Distillers receded fractionally. Dominion 4s were in fair demand in the bond market.

Silver Recovers Slightly, London

LONDON, June 30 (CP). — The spot silver price on the London market recovered slightly today at 18 pence an ounce apparently on the increasing belief that the United States congress would achieve a compromise authorizing the treasury to continue its foreign silver purchases.

Today's figures was 1-16 penny higher than yesterday's fixing price despite further overnight reduction of the United States treasury buying price to 38 cents an ounce. Thus the London market continued slightly today at 18 pence an ounce apparently on the increasing belief that the United States congress would achieve a compromise authorizing the treasury to con*tinue its foreign silver purchases.*

Today's figure was 1-16 penny higher than yesterday's fixing price despite further overnight reduction of the United States treasury buying price to 38 cents an ounce. Thus the London market continued slightly higher than precise parity with the level offered by the United States treasury.

Slocan and Harrop Strawberries Are to Go to the Coast

Processing Is Under Way; Quality Is Good

Hot weather is speeding up the movement of small fruits. Strawberries and black currants are moving in seasonal volume and raspberry shipments are expected to begin next week. A few early raspberries moved from Wynndel this week

Fred Deans, fruit inspector, stated Friday that over 60 barrels of strawberries have already been processed at Perry's Siding, in the Slocan, and that processing had started at Harrop. The quality was high he said! These berries will go to a coast firm. Later in the season raspberries will be processed also for this firm.

Movement of fresh berries to the prairie markets and to jam plants is also speeding up to the seasonal pace.

Holiday Spirit Rules Throughout Kootenay Today as Celebration of Dominion Day Rules Every Centre

Children's Sports in Spotlight; Dances to Be General

Sports, patriotic exercises, parades and dances will highlight this day in the Kootenays. It is Dominion Day and as Canada's national holiday, and it will be celebrated in holiday spirit.

At Trail the B.C. track and field championships will occupy the spotlight, with competitors from all over the province and from American universities aiming at B.C. records. British Empire and Olympic Games competitors will display their wares in one of the greatest track and field shows in the interior in years.

Nelson will make it a children's day as the Canadian Legion Bugle band puts on its annual sports. Flat races in the morning; Dominion Day patriotic exercises to start the afternoon program; novelty events in the afternoon interspersed with demonstrations of scoutcraft by Boy Scouts; and a gunnery display by the 111th Battery; and a monster dance at night comprise the program. The drill team of the Nomads of Avrudaka will give a display. Every emphasis is on giving the youngsters a big time, and there'll be plenty of candy, fruit and ice cream to do that. Bicycles will have a big place, both decorated and in racing.

Most Rev. Martin M. Johnson, D.D., Bishop of Nelson, will speak at the patriotic exercises.

BIG DAY SALMO

At Salmo a grand program of races has been arranged, along with feature sports in a day that will be crowded with action. Logsawing, log chopping and mucking competitions, crowning of a Dominion Day Queen, junior and senior baseball, midget and senior boxla, girls' softball, tugs-of-war, a demonstration by the Nelson Pythian Sisters drill team and two dances are included.

Salmo lodge of the Knights of Pythias has charge of arrangements. A special train leaves Nelson at 8 a.m. for Salmo.

Rossland Baseball club has charge of the celebration to be held in that city, emphasiing a program of children's sports and a street midway, with a dance for the grand windup.

Nakusp will feature horse races in a program which includes a parade of decorated floats, children's sports and novelty events, senior competitions, and a big windup dance.

Willow Point will strike a different note as the Girl Guides hold a garden party.

Long blocked by the snowslides in the Lucky Jim area, the Kaslo-New-Denver road has been opened by the provincial public works department, giving the direct highway connection between Kootenay lake, Slocan lake, and the Arrow lakes. This also means that the circle route embracing Nelson, Balfour, Kaslo, New Denver, Slocan ity and South Slocan is open for use.
