Italy - Germany Sign Alliance

Acclaimed Instrument of Constructive Force for Peace

JAPAN APPROVES

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, May 22 (AP).—Germany and Italy signed today a 10-year military alliance devoid of qualifications and proclaimed themselves makers of Europe's unwritten history.

Presumably counting in their supporting countries, they declared, in the words of Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop of Germany, that they had forged a mighty invincible bloc of 300,000,000 people "ready to offer the hand of friendship to anyone but determined to smash any enemy by their united power."

Japan was the first power to register "present" for the line-up. Its government sent a message approving of the military, political, economic and diplomatic alliance.

With Chancellor Hitler an unsmiling witness sitting between them in the ambassadors' hall of the new chancellery, von Ribbentrop and the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, at 11:06 a.m. affixed their names to the accord consisting of a preamble and seven short articles.

7:30 p.m.—Departure from station.

Dionne Babies Hug and Kiss Royalty in Day's Feature

Guineas Presented at King's Plate Horse Race, 1,500,000 See Process as Day Long Program Moves at Top Speed

By R. K. CARNEGIE

TORONTO, May 22 (CP).—The King and Queen got kissed today by the Dionne quintuplets and if anything more exciting than that happens to them on their Canadian visit it will have to occur in the west or on next month's easterly run to the Atlantic seaboard.

Their Majesties made a smiling conquest of Toronto — and most of Ontario — today before boarding the luxurious Royal train that takes them into the west, across the prairies to Vancouver and brings them back again.

After six consecutive days of rigorous public appearances in Quebec, Three Rivers, Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto, they can rest tomorrow as the blue-and-silver wheeled palace takes them through woodlands and past picturesque lakes of northwestern Ontario.

A 10-minute stop at Schreiber, tiny settlement along the way, in mid-afternoon and a longer visit to the twin cities of Port Arthur and Fort William in the evening make up a compartively easy day for the Royal party.

MOVE AT TOP SPEED

Today they went at top speed from morning to evening. The Royal procession passed an estimated 1,500,000 persons who cheered the King and Queen at every stage, making Toronto's demonstration of affection as moving a spectacle as they have yet viewed.

By WILLIAM H. DUMSDAY

TORONTO, May 22 (CP). — Queen Elizabeth met the Dionne quintuplets today at a quiet family gathering, returned their affectionate hugs and kisses and told their physician, Allan Roy Dafoe: "What beautiful children—they are among the most beautiful children I ever have seen."

The five sisters, who left their northern Ontario home for the first time for a visit to Toronto, were presented to the King and Queen at the Ontario legislative building and later panicked 1500 spectators in the legislative chamber with a brief romp across the floor of the house.

The quints curtsied to the royal couple, hugged and kissed both the King and Queen, gave them their autographs and pictures, called the Queen "beautiful" and had the grandest time of their lives before they sped back toward Callander in their special train. In the legislative chamber they threw kisses to the crowd and skipped and jumped while the place rocked with laughter.

10 Years Regular at Sunday School of Kaslo, aged 14, has attended Kaslo United church Sunday school for 10 years regularly. He is holder of a gold pin for eight years attendance, and is among the youngest of United Sunday school pupils with a 10-year record for perfect attendance.

ALBERTA FOREST MEN, FARMERS GREET RAINFALL

EDMONTON, May 22 (CP)—Skeleton fire-fighting crews were "mopping up" tonight in the wake of six days of intermittent rainfall that almost wiped out the peril to Alberta's forests on widespread fronts.

The fire situation has been "greatly relieved" and fire fighters had been reduced to a minimum, T. F. Belfgen, provincial forestry director, announced. Many of the blazes scattered throughout the northern part of the province were out and others were well under control or smouldering underground.

The heavy rains, coming just at the right time after most seeding had been completed in north-central Alberta and fields were beginning to run short of moisture, made farmers jubilant as fields were soaked.

Dr. MacKinnon Is East Kootenay's Cons. Candidate

CRANBROOK, B. C., May 22—Dr. G.E.L. MacKinnon was unanimously named Conservative candidate for the federal constituency of Kootenay East when the district organization of 60 delegates from Cranbrook, Fernie, Creston and Columbia met tonight to nominate for the election which is expected to take place some time this year.

Proposing his name was Mr. Geddes of Edgewater and Colonel Mallandaine of Creston seconded it.

Dr. MacKinnon is a graduate of McGill university and has lived in B. C. for more than 30 years.

Supreme Court Rules Proposed Marketing System for Milk Valid

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP). — Validity of a proposed clearing-house system of milk marketing for British Columbia's lower mainland was upheld by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson in supreme court today as he dismissed two actions of independent milk producers and distributors attacking the scheme.

His Lordship also dissolved an injunction preventing inauguration of the clearing-house scheme which had been granted pending a decision in the case.

The judge ruled in the case of W. A. Hayward and other plaintiffs who sued the milk producers clearing house cooperative association and the lower mainland dairy products board and directors of the former and member of the latter, that it was not necessary for the clearing-house to comply with the Co-operative Association act.

POLISH BORDER TENSION EASES

WARSAW, May 22 (AP)—Tension over a Polish-German shooting in Danzig relaxed somewhat today and informed sources said protests over the incident had proved "fruitful" of progress toward a satisfactory settlement.

These sources said the Danzig senate had given assurances three Polish customs inspectors, who have returned to their post at Kalthof where the station was attacked by a partly uniformed crowd Sunday, would be protected against any further incidents.

Involved in the dispute, however, was the counter claim of the Danzig senate for official apologies and damages for the family of Gustav Gruebner, Nazi veteran shot and killed at Kalthof by the chauffeur of a Polish official.

The Polish press made no mention of these Danzig demands, and there was an increasing tendency to regard the disturbances in the Free City, focal point of unsettled questions with Germany, as the acts of Nazi extremists who had overstepped Berlin's policy.

COAST JOBLESS MARCH PEACEFUL

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP)—Almost 200 unemployed men marched to the British Columbia employment service offices late today, but marched away again when William G. Hassard, in charge of the relief branch, refused to admit a delegation of three.

Hassard agreed, however, to later interview individually 40 of the men who claim they are reduced to their last relief voucher.

The marchers came from their Cordova street hall, marching in an orderly fashion and singing. At the employment offices they talked amicably with 15 police officers rushed there to keep order, but who were not needed.

The unemployed in a weekend meeting discussed plans for sending a delegation to Victoria to interview Labor Minister G. S. Pearson regarding a summer works program. They claim 4000 have been thrown on their own resources since the closing of winter relief camps.

Nelson Building Puts Coasts' In Shade, Murray

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP) — British Columbia's southern interior is "booming" industrially, in the opinion of George M. Murray, member of the legislature for Lillooet who arrived in Vancouver today from a tour of that district.

"Hundreds of new homes were under construction in the Trail-Rossland area," he said. "New construction being carried on by the West Kootenay Power company was responsible for a great deal of employment as well.

"The new city hall at Revelstoke is one of the architectural features of the interior, while the new $300,000 auditorium and community centre at Nelson puts any similar building at Vancouver in the shade," he said.

"All through the Okanagan improved transport services on land and water attract new settlers and add to the contentment and prosperity of the people.

"New mining development is creating new opportunity for labor and capital from the Boundary country through to Fort St. James," the Lillooet member said.

Radio Situation In Canada Being Studied-Dunning

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP).—A new broadside from all sections of the house of commons against price differences between radios in Canada and United States today drew from Finance Minister C. A. Dunning assurance the government was doing everything possible to remedy that source of complaint.

"The government is anxious," Mr. Dunning said, "to see to it that the price of radios in Canada properly reflects Canadian conditions and does not involve profiteering such as caused my (radio) reference to the tariff board in the first place."

While the tariff board made its report on radios and radio tubes just as the budget was brought down a month ago, the board was continuing to examine the radio situation, he said.

The secretary of state, Hon. Fernand Rinfret, was investigating application of patent law to radio manufacture, especially as to its effect on prices, and Labor Minister Norman Rogers currently was having the question of a combine studied, the finance minister informed the house.

Japan Reaffirms Fascist Sympathy

TOKYO, May 22 (AP). — Japan, anti-comintern partner of Germany and Italy, has decided to broaden the "basis for cooperation" with the two European powers, but the decision contains no military or political clauses, a high government source said today.

The anti-comintern pact was described as being made into an "agreement of consultation" under which the three governments would inform each other before any one of them took any decisive steps.

The general outline of Japan's position was said to have been given United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew when he made an official courtesy call on Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita before sailing last Thursday for a vacation trip home.

Grew was informed Japan was reaffirming her close relations with Germany and Italy and giving those nations her sympathy and moral support.

Russia Entry Into Pact Said Likely to Come by Wednesday

Mackenzie Has Praise for Hahn

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)—The initiative of Major James E. Hahn, president of John Inglis Co. of Toronto, contractor for 7000 Bren guns, was the quality chiefly responsible for securing to him that order, Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie told the public accounts committee here today. He scouted the suggestion of Howard C. Green (Con. Vancouver South) that the department "was pushing Major Hahn at every step."

When, following an interview with Deputy Minister LaFleche, Hahn proceeded to England he took with him a letter of introduction of war office officials signed by Mr. Mackenzie, which described him as a contractor interested in orders for munitions generally.

The minister said he had never discriminated against any manufacturer in this respect, and if anyone else had approached him, recommended as Hahn was by a member of parliament, he would have given him the same type of letter. Hahn at his own expense had gone to England and made a favorable impression on war office officials.

Catholics to Pray on Arrival of King, Queen at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP) — Bells of Holy Rosary Cathedral will speal the moment the King and Queen step from their Royal train here May 29 and special prayers will be said in Vancouver's Catholic churches that day, according to instructions of Archbishop William M. Duke. The instructions invited pastors to have church bells rung in parishes through wich the King and Queen travel.

Halifax to Submit a 3-Point Plan to Cabinet

GENEVA, May 22 (AP).—Russia was understood tonight to be standing firm in demands for a closer form of agreement or alliance than had been proposed by Great Britain to bring her into the Anglo-French anti-aggression front.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax was said to be planning to submit a three-point plan Wednesday to the cabinet in London.

Terms of the plan were said to have been evolved during conferences among Lord Halifax, Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambasador to London, and Foreign Minister Bonnet of France. These conferences have taken Geneva's limelight from the 105th council of the League of Nations.

Maisky smilingly rejected all suggestions, it was said, that his country should be content with less than the form of pact which he asked. Russia originally proposed an outright alliance, but Britain made counter-proposals.

Gas Kills Three

MAPLE CREEK, Sask., May 22 (CP). — Three men died today at Smith's Camp, on Belanger creek, 35 miles south of Maple Creek, believed to have been victims of carbon dioxide gas. Another man, in serious condition before a doctor reached the camp, was reported as making a good recovery tonight.

The dead: Edward Jones, 65, Stoughton, Sask.; Jonas Paulson, 32, Calgary; Ernest Braithwaite, 27, Stoughton, Sask.

The four, when they retired Sunday night, put on a fire in their bunkhouse, as the night was cold. When they did not appear for breakfast, other men went to waken them. They found the four men unconscious.

Prisoners Escape in Arkansas Gale

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 22 (AP). — A severe rainstorm accompanied by winds approaching 50-mile velocity swept central Arkansas late today and tonight, dealing major damage to property and levelling a stockade at Cummins state prison farm.

An unannounced number of prisoners were injured slightly by flying debris and 12 were unaccounted for and believed to have escaped in the confusion.

From England, 21 miles east of Little Rock, a short wave radio report gave property damage in that town of 2500 at $200,000 and said two men and a child were missing.

Convicts Caught

BOISE, Idaho, May 22 (AP).—Deputy State Prison Warden Emmett Crouch reported tonight the capture of three of four escaped Idaho prison convicts late today in the Ruggest country near here.

The fourth, heavily armed, eluded pursuit.

Corbin said the three captured were Cliff Daugherty, 35, described by Prison Warden P. C. Meredith as the probable leader of the four; Raymond Curtis, 20, and Edgar Pruett, 19. All were under long sentences for robbery.

Still at large was Lonnie Walling, 31, sent to prison for five to 10 years for robbery.

Corbin directed the manhunt, which spread over an area of 77 square miles in the worst possible country.

1493 Enlist in Royal Air Force in Week

LONDON, May 22 (CP-Havas) —The air ministry announced today 1493 men enlisted in the Royal Air Force last week, compared with 387 in the corresponding week of last year. Since April 1, 6558 recruits have been accepted, as compared with 2352 in the corresponding period of 1938.

COAST MAN ACQUITTED IN MANSLAUGHTER CASE

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., May 22 (CP)—An assize court jury today acquitted Edward Vogel of Taylor Flats, B.C. of a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of B. E. Goodwin and the accused was discharged by Mr. Justice A. I. Fisher. The crown alleged Vogel shot Goodwin near the Peace River area settlement, when he mistook him for a moose.

South Slocan Sports Day Is Postponed Due to Scarlet Fever Cases

South Slocan's annual Empire Day sports have been cancelled, due to an outbreak of scarlet fever among school children. Four cases of scarlet fever resulted in the school being closed Monday to guard against further spreading of the disease, and officials in charge of the annual sports decided to postpone them.

Roosevelt Denounces Critics of Program

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP) —President Roosevelt denounced critics of his economic program tonight as "radicals" eager "to gamble" with the safety of the United States, and bluntly gave abandonment of administration "principles and objectives."

Addressing the retailers national forum, the president asserted that if "so-called business" "deterrent taxes", such as the undistributed profits tax, are repealed, other taxes on business must be increased to replace revenues thus lost.

He said that while "the conservative attitude of this administration" hardly contemplates a permanent excess of government expenditures over receipts, "balancing the budget today, or even next year, is a pretty difficult if not impossible job."

Break in Balkan Entente Averted in Conferences

BUCHAREST, May 22 (AP).—An immediate break in the Balkan entente was reported reliably tonight to have been averted in talks between Foreign Ministers Grigore Gafencu of Rumania and Alexander Vinca-Markovitch of Yugoslavia.

First reports of Sunday conferences aboard a Danube river boat were that Yugoslavia would refrain, for the time being at least, from seeking to break the bonds which unite her with Rumania, Greece and Turkey in the entente.

It was understood Gafencu convince dthe Yugoslav foreign minister to seek a way out of his country's ticklist position in regard to Germany and Italy who have been seeking to win her over to their axis.

Adimarl Raikes Is Reserve Fleet Head

LONDON, May 22 (CP)—Vice-Admiral Robert Raikes tonight was appointed commander of the reserve fleet, effective June 26, replacing Vice-Admiral Sir Max K. Horton, Admiral Raikes served as a submarine commander during the Great War.

Church at Williams Lake Hit by Lightning

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C., May 22 (AP)—Lightning struck the Sugar Cane Indian reserve church here over the weekend, ripping up shingles, shattering part of the belfry and striking the bell with a resounding crack that sent tones out over Williams Lake.

By J. F. SANDERSON

LONDON, May 22 (CP Cable).—Japan has warned the British government that a military alliance with Russia would be taken as "an unfriendly act," it was reported in diplomatic circles today.

The government was not expected to pay much attention to the Japanese warning because every indication points to conclusion of some form of military alliance among Britain, France and Russia this week.

The British government has reached the decision that a military arrangement with Russia is imperative if plans for a strong anti-aggression bloc in Europe are to succeed. Details of an alliance are being ironed out in Geneva between Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London who is attending the League of Nations council meeting as the Russian delegate.

Lord Halifax is expected to fly back to London for the cabinet meeting Wednesday when plans for the Anglo-Russian agreement may be completed.

Tokyo, it was reported, has protested that if Britain became linked permanently with Russia in a military pact, Japan would consider it an "unfriendly act." Japan also was reported to have warned that such a step would make it imperative for her to tie up with Germany and Italy in an outright military alliance.

The British government, however, was reported to regard the protest pretty much as a bluff. There is a growing disposition here to regard Japan as playing a selfish game, ready to link up with Germany only if she can assure herself of tangible gains. If this is a true reflection of her position, it would make no difference whether Britain concluded a military alliance with Russia.

Any alliance among Britain, France and Russia would apply only to Europe, excluding Japan's sphere of influence in the far east.

The Japanese cabinet recently rejected a military tieup with Germany and Italy and London expects that policy will be followed irrespective of the result of the Anglo-Russian negotiations.

NEW POLICY IN PALESTINE BREAKS NO PROMISES COMMONS ASSURED

LONDON, May 22 (CP).—Great Britain will maintain its mandate in Palestine until both Arab and Jewish interests are secured, Malcolm Macdonald told the house of commons today. He declared Britain has not broken any promises by its new policy.

The colonial secretary opened a two-day debate on the white paper of last week which foresaw eventual establishment of an independent state in the Holy Land, in which Arabs would have a majority, as they have at present.

He declared the best answer to Jewish claims that the policy placed "Jews at the mercy of the Arab majority" was that the Arabs themselves had rejected the policy.

Thomas Williams and Josiah Wedgewood, Labor members, assailed the government after the colonial secretary spoke.

Referring to the Anglo-United States convention of 1924 regarding Palestine, Mr. Macdonald said "we are of course anxious that the interests of America referred to in that convention shall be properly assured at all times in the future.

"We state specifically  that before we can agree to a constitution and a treaty with the (new) state we shall have to be satisfied that the interests of foreign countries in Palestine for which we are at present responsible, are being adequately safeguarded."

He declared the "holy places dear to millions throughout the world would be made secure.

"We must be satisfied that the interests of both majority and minority in Palestine are secured before we surrender completely our mandatory control," he said.

KING'S ADDRESS TO BE HEARD ON AIR WEDNESDAY

By The Canadian Press

Canada's recognition of Queen Victoria's birthday takes on new significance tomorrow when her great-grandson, the King, standing before a microphone in the heart of the senior dominion, broadcasts an Empire Day message to his 500,000,000 subjects.

The Winnipeg event marks another outstanding feature in the precedent-shattering tour of the King and Queen, the first British sovereign and his consort to visit a self-governing dominion. It will be the first Empire message ever delivered over the air by the King away from England.

There is added significance in the fact that as Canada observes 120th anniversary of the Good Queen's birthday, her great-grandson will be honored in the hub of the great grain industry which had its genesis in the Empire expansion marking the latter part of her reign.

Nelson Man Faces Trial on Mexican $10 Bill Charge

Arrested in connection with the passing of a Mexican "$10-bill", William Sorenson of Nelson was committed for trial when he appeared before Henry John, stipendiary magistrate, at Salmo.

Student Bodies at Kaslo High School Lauded

KASLO, B. C.—Kaslo High school staff received praise from Inspector J. B. DeLong of Vancouver, when he visited the school. In his report to the school board, Mr. DeLong said: "I know of no other small high school where student organizations are in such satisfactory condition."

"A house system, with three houses in operation; there is a students' council; the Girls' Glee club takes in practically all girls of the senior grade; the Boys' Glee club takes in practically all boys of the senior grades; the Little Theatre embraces everyone in the school; there are also aircraft and athletic clubs.

"It is worthy of special mention that this small school had two entries in the Kootenay drama festival . . . Practically all the pupils have parts in these two plays. The standing of the classes is considerably above the average of our smaller schools.

"A fine spirit is evident throughout the school. Mr. Gibson has done very fine work here."

DRAMA GROUPS LAUDED

W. M. Gibson, principal of the Kaslo schools, is in receipt of the following letter:

"Dear Mr. Gibson:

"I feel I cannot let this occasion go by without writing to tell you how impressed I am by the remarkable work you are doing with your drama groups in the high school.

"I don't think in all the years of my experience that I have ever seen youngsters give such intelligent interpretations as those of your players in 'The Dictator Visits His Mother.' I know they could not have achieved this without exceptional direction and training.

"The awarding of the cup in the intermediate group was very difficult, the only difference in marking being that of 2½ points in the production generally.

"You have, however, some exceptionally promising players, and I hope it will be possible for them to compete in the provincial festival.

"I shall watch them with great interest, for the performance of the girl who played the 'mother' was one of the most thrilling surprises I have ever had. And for the 'Dictator' to get across without the audience being amused by his youthful and almost comic appearance and his small statute compared to the other players was a triumph.

"Again congratulations,
Yours sincerely,
"Yvonne Firkins."

Family Can't Stop Son's Marriage by Knocking Fiancee

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Our family is about to go crazy with worry over my brother. He came in the other day and calmly announced his intention of marrying a girl five years his senior. He has little education and makes the paltry sum of $12 a week. The girl is not the best type anyhow: she runs down everybody and has tried to turn my brother against his family. We have had tough going because he made so little father has allowed him to live here free of charge. In marrying now he is turning down a wonderful opportunity to get a free aeronautical education but he doesn't consider this and of course the girl doesn't care. If you can suggest anything we can do to save my brother, please tell us because we are making no progress.

SISTER.

Answer:

Frankly I don't know; because in the nature of the case a boy who proposes to get married on $12 a week would most certainly not be amenable to reason. However, I do know this much: that if you run down his girl and try to convince him that she's not the proper sort you will antagonize him to the point that you will have no influence with him whatsoever.

Apparently he expects to bring his bride to live as he has lived, free, on his family, and if you were to turn your guns on this point, making it clear that there won't be room for two of them, you may be able to halt them temporarily. There is also a bare possibility that the girl's parents might be able to control her were they in possession of the facts, though generally speaking it's true that when parents can't prevent their own son's making a lamentable mistake in marriage, they can't expect the parents of the other part to do better.

Really, it amounts to a holdup when a youngster who can't support himself comes in and tells his family that he's going to get married. He's demanding that they assume his responsibilities at a price. And the father and mother feel as, I imagine, a victim of a gunman feels when the pistol is pressed against his middle: afraid of the consequence of meeting demands and afraid of the consequences of refusing. "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child!"

WHITE ORCHIDS

By MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER 15

Eleanor closed her eyes and breathed deeply of the perfumed water around her. She lowered herself deeper in the tub in Kit Cranston's mauve and silver bathroom and gave herself up to the physical pleasure of warm water.

A maid knocked at the door and said: "Your breakfast tray will be up in ten minutes, Mrs. Parrish."

Eleanor said: "Thank you, Anna. I'll be ready. Is Mrs. Cranston having breakfast with me"

"No, ma'am. She's in the garden with the baby.'

Eleanor dried herself with a warm towel and slipped into a negligee. Then she sat down at the dressing table in the guest room of Kit's house and brushed her hair thoughtfully, prolonging the enjoyment of every moment.

The sunshine poured through wide windows curtained with white ruffled dimity. It splashed pools of gold on the biege rug and sparkled on the mirrors and gleaming furniture.

Eleanor arranged herself on the chaise lounge as the maid came in with a tray. She lifted the covers and sniffed the delicious aroma of bacon curls and toasted rolls. She ate hungrily and opened the folded newspaper. But her eyes drifted to the view from the window and touched on the wide, blue sky, the fresh green of May's budding trees, the early flowers in the garden.

Kit's laughing voice drifted up to her and, with an attuned ear, she thought she heard her baby's voice.

Suddenly she was impatient with her own laziness. She was lonely for the baby that she had not seen since she tucked her away the night before in the empty nursery.

She dressed quickly without thinking, for the first time since she had come to Kit's house a week before, of the shabbiness of her last year's knitted suit.

Kit was dangling a dilapidated teddy bear over the side of the baby pen where Jessica, rounder than she had been when Kit had brought them up to her place a week before, made a valiant effort to stand up.

Eleanor stood beside the pen. She said: "Am I being merely a fond mother or does my daughter look better than when she came up here?"

"Better!" Kit said, leaning down to kiss the back of the baby's neck where tendrils of corn silk curled. "She's turned into a beauty."

Jessica, with wide dark eyes, picked out of her father's face, looked at her mother solemnly.

"She's not bad," Eleanor murmured.

Jessica was turning into a beauty, a fragile, doll-like creature at eight months with dark eyes and pale, gold hair and a solemn little face.

Kit said: "I'm in love with her. Joe and I would love to have you stay here as long as you can, Eleanor. We think the country has done her a lot of good. . . . Whoops! Little girls shouldn't try to eat grasshoppers." She removed one from the active fingers.

Eleanor laughed a little. "I guess I'm one who has to be shown things Kit. Phil wants me to move out of the city. I was against it all winter, but I'm beginning to think there's something in it."

Kit sat back on her heels and gazed at her guest with an incredulous expression. "Eleanor Parrish, do you mean to tell me that you preferred to live in that walk-up?"

Eleanor nodded: "It's been a hold on city life, in a way. Also, I had been expecting to go back to my job, but it looks now as if it were really out."

Kit allowed her curls to be clutched in small fingers and looked up at Eleanor from a rather unusual position saying, "Job? There isn't any better job than this one. I was just cut out to be a mother or a nurse maid. I simply can't see any other point of view. What would you want a job for?"

"For all of us. I don't want Jessica to grow up without advantages. Also, I'd like a few for myself."

"You and Phil are both young. Phil will get somewhere someday."

Eleanor looked away silently. Once she would have said: "Yes, Phil is writing a novel that I think will be important."

"Joe says that things are not going so well at the paper since Stevens came in. He says that they've laid off a lot of people. Perhaps Phil will go to another paper."

Eleanor looked at her sharply. "Why should he?" she asked quickly.

"No reason at all, except that I know Phil is a good newspaperman and there are so few opportunities on the Globe."

"Kit, we're going back today. When I make up my mind to do something, I always am anxious to get it done. I've decided to tell Phil that we're going to take a place out of New York. And I want him to see how well baby looks."

"We hate to have you go, but I know how you feel. I'll drive you in this afternoon. Does it matter if we don't get in too early?"

"I'd like to get back in time to get Phil's dinner. Poor angel! He's thin as a rail and I want him to have lots of fresh vegetables. I'll take some back from here, and get two small broilers on the way."

"You'd better ring him before you start in." Kit said sagely, as Eleanor went back to the house. "I'm a girl who doesn't believe in startling a husband."

"Good idea," Eleanor returned. "I'll call him right now."

Mr. Parrish was not in, the operator at the paper told her. Then Mrs. Parrish would leave a message: She would be at home that day and was expecting Mr. Parrish for dinner as soon as he could get there.

At eight o'clock that evening Eleanor rang the paper again from her apartment and asked if Mr. Parrish had received her message. The operator "thought" he had.

Phil came in after ten. He had been drinking. Eleanor didn't know whether she knew it because she could smell alcohol or whether it was because his face looked so strained and his eyes so despairing.

She said: "I'm a bad wife to go away and leave you so long, but you'll be glad to know, Phil, that it has made a new baby of Jessica and taught me a lesson."

"Has it really?" he asked, his smile a mirthless gash in his face.

"It has," she said serving him the remnants of a long prepared dinner. "Darling, tomorrow we are going to begin looking for a place out of New York. Ever since I decided, I've been full of plans. I'm going to do . . ."

Phil had got up. He opened his mouth to speak. Then he closed it and went to stare out of the dusty window.

Her voice was very still. "What's the matter Phil?"

He turned around and his face was bitter. He said: "It looks as if we'd better stay here for the rest of our lives. When Jessica gets older, Nell, you can find a job and make a better life for yourself than I've been able to make for you. I . . . my salary's been cut fifteen dollars a week and I'm demoted to the lobster shift. Your husband, madame, now works nights, for a pittance."

"Oh, darling!" she said, gathering him into her arms as she would have Jessica. "We'll manage on it."

To Be Continued.

CONSCRIPTION BILL PASSES 2ND READING

LONDON, May 22 (CP).—The military conscription bill was passed by the house of lords with a show of hands on second reading today.

Important Role . . .

Platelets Help Guard Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

One of the important advances in treatment of late years has been in the department of the hemorrhagic diseases.

Mechanical hemorrhage is easy to understand and recognize. A cut or accident results in a considerable loss of blood, and when this is severe enough a transfusion is indicated. Or spontaneous hemorrhage may occur from an ulcer. Most severe nose bleeds come ulcers in the mucous membrane. Women suffer severe hemorrhages from ulcers or fibroids. And hemorrhages from the lungs or the stomach may occur from the erosion of a blood vessel—in the case of the lungs due to tuberculosis and in the case of the stomach from ulcers.

But there are other more peculiar types of hemorrhage. All of a sudden myriad dark red patches may appear under the skin, due to extravasation of blood there. What causes this spontaneous, unheralded tendency of the blood to "unclot" and begin to seep out of the blood vessel walls?

It has been found that it is due primarily to the lack of blood platelets in the blood.

It is hardly proper to call the platelets cells. They are peculiar bodies—in fact, bodies quite unique in nature. But their exact anatomical structure is too complicated to discuss here; anyway, a knowledge of it is unnecessary for an understanding of this subject.

Suffice it is to say that they play an important role in the clotting of the blood, one of the most important safeguards in Nature. If you cut your finger and blood ran out and continued to run out, you would be a goner. It is the clot that acts like a cork and plugs up the hole. When the blood strikes the air the platelets disappear; they seem to dissolve, and that is partly what makes the clot.

Every once in a while the platelets disappear from the blood, and then it is liable to ooze out into the tissues.

Why do the platelets disappear? We are beginning to know some of the causes. Lack of vitamins is certainly responsible at times. When vitamin C is lacking in the diet, from a deficiency of milk or orange juice or tomato juice, there are spontaneous hemorrhages into the gum tissue.

CURIOUS COMPLEX

Then there is that curious complex of which so much is being made just now, and which is cured by vitamin K. It is a combination of liver damage, jaundice and spontaneous hemorrhage. The patients may become very sick, but administration of vitamin K along with bile salts by mouth makes a magical improvement. The bile allows the vitamin K to be absorbed, and after absorption vitamin K does what it normally does, increases the clotting power of blood.

I am frequently asked by letter to discuss the disorders of the white cells, called the leukemias, but I never do because no treatment yet known improves them. All leukemia patients sooner or later go to a doctor. My letters usually imply that the doctor cannot be handling the case right, and that I could do it better. This is untrue. I have no more wisdom about them than the newest graduate or the most obscure crossroads physician.

Royal Reception to Press Commended in London Papers

LONDON, May 22 (CP)—London newspapers today commended editorially the King's reception of Canadian and United States newspapermen in Ottawa last Friday.

"The reception was the most sensible thing the press organizers have done on this trip," said the Daily Mail. "These journalists met the King and Queen and at once all the silly talk and flummery have disappeared."

"The King is to be congratulated on cutting red tape and inviting the American journalists to meet him," said the News Chronical.

"It was a great success," said the Daily Express. Some of those present were journalists from Fleet street. They are wondering why the King cannot be allowed to give interviews in Britain. Why should these reporters have to go to Canada before they can interview the King of England?"

Summer . . .

Camp Is Ideal Place for Boy

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

We wish all children living in crowded places might have the opportunity to spend several weeks annually in a summer camp. The time may come, by and by, when they will. Even now, a few of these children enjoy this privilege thanks to certain thoughtful, generous groups and individuals.

Most children whose parents can afford to send them to a private summer camp do not live in crowded homes and crowded communities. These "privileged" children usually are sent in order that they might learn to get along better with children their age and acquire more independence, self-reliance and responsibility.

But many a child, especially an only child, who most needs to attend a summer camp doesn't do so because he can't break away emotionally or his parents can't bear to have him out of their sight. Yet, going to camp is about the best way for this child and his parents to bury the emotional bottle. The parents must, of course, take the initiative, for which an enormous amount of self-discipline may be required.

SEND HIM TO CAMP

Suppose you have a boy or girl over 12 or 14 who does not mix well with others of his age and who, you realize, is too dependent on his parents. Plan if at all possible, to send him or her to a camp for several weeks this coming summer.

But suppose this child doesn't want to go. Begin now to prepare him to want to go and be ready to go. Have him now and then spend a night or weekend with some friends away from home. Attract more boys and girls of his age to your home. Set the stage so he will meet some new friends and mingle with them. Plan a program to exercise him gradually in more independence, self-reliance and responsibility right now at home.

In the meanwhile, assemble literature on the best available camps. Induce your child to study this literature with you. Invite a camp director in whom you have confidence to call and see your child; also some other youths who have attended summer camps.

Consider only those camps which you know to have perfect sanitation and are run under the best physical and moral health conditions. If possible, visit the camp director and have reliable assurance of his ability, personality and character.

All set, announce the date when your child will leave for camp. From then on take his going for granted.

And when at last he goes, leave him in the care of the camp director. Manage your emotions. Wean yourself. Don't write too often nor childishly. Stay away from the camp, at least for several weeks. Don't expect the child to make visits home. Put him on his own and yourself on yours. Be grown-up about it.

National Centre for Britain's Half Million Devotees of Game

LONDON, April 22, (CP)—One woman who has learned the science of "exactness" is reaping her reward. Mrs. P. H. Stevenson—otherwise famous as Miss Vera Menchick, international chess champion—has been appointed secretary and manager of the National Chess Centre, designed to provide a headquarters for Britain's 500,000 chess enthusiasts.

This is the first comprehensive venture of this kind in England. The centre will occupy two floors of a great new office building in Cavendish Square and be opened towards the end of September.

Mrs. Stevenson is the only woman in her class of chess experts and is known throughout Europe and America. She intends to devote her full time to furthering the interests of the new organization and popularizing the game. Though this last effort seems little needed in London where there are over 300 recognized clubs and competitions are sometimes played between the North and South of the Thames with 1000 players on each side. The City of London Chess Club—established for over a century—closes in June and its members will form the nucleus of the new venture.

The Centre will be luxuriously equipped as the most up-to-date chess club in the world. The rooms, open on weekdays until 11 p. m., include a room for tournament play, a room for friendly play, and a reading room. There will be a first-class chess library for reference and lending purposes. Tournaments will be played every Saturday afternoon in a huge salon made available for this purpose in the building. It is large enough to accommodate a 200-a-side match.

TODAY'S MENU

Liver Loaf Scalloped Potatoes
Dandelion Greens Endive Salad
Brazil Nut Fudge Cake Coffee

LIVER LOAF

Two pounds liver, four slices of bacon, one-fourth cup finely chopped onion, one cup milk, one-half cup ketchup, two wheat biscuits, crumbled, three eggs, beaten.

Either beef, pork, lamb or calves' liver may be used. Scald liver and grind. Add other ingredients, except bacon and mix thoroughly. Place two bacon slices in the bottom of a loaf pan, pack the loaf mixture in the pan, and on top lay the other two bacon slices. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F.) until heated through, about 45 minutes.

ENDIVE SALAD

Over well washed endive sprinkle yolks of hard-boiled eggs. Cover with French dressing and over all sprinkle a few finely-chopped chives if you wish.

FUDGE CAKE

One-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, one well beaten egg, two squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, one half teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup milk, one and three-fourths cups of cake flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup ground nut meats—one teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening, add the sugar gradually, beating well. Stir in beaten egg, then chocolate. Add flour, sifted with baking powder and salt, alternately with the milk. Stir in nuts and vanilla. Pour batter into two eight-inch greased cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes.

SPICED PRUNE RELISH

It takes one and one-half cups granulated sugar, one and one-half cups hot water, one piece of stick cinnamon, twelve whole cloves, twelve large prunes, soaked in cold water, to fill six lettuce cups.

Combine sugar, water and spices and heat to boiling point. Add the prunes, cover and cook until tender about 20 minutes. Remove prunes from syrup and cool slightly. Carefully remove stones. Place two or three prunes in each lettuce cup and arrange on platter around meat loaf or other meat dish.

SPICED BANANAS

The dish requires three-fourths cup vinegar, two dozen whole cloves, two and one-half cups of sugar, one small stick of cinnamon and three bananas.

Boil vinegar, sugar, cloves and cinnamon until sugar is dissolved and the syrup is thick. Drop the bananas into the hot syrup and boil for two minutes. Remove from fire and cool. Bananas may be cut into smaller pieces if desired.

ORANGE STICKS

Cinnamon Orange Sticks require one and one-half cups each of sugar and water, juice of one lemon, two cinnamon sticks and three oranges.

Make a syrup of sugar, water, lemon juice and cinnamon. Wash oranges and cut in thick slices. Place in hot syrup and boil gently without covering until rind is clear. Chill in syrup before serving as a meat garnish.

PEACHES EN SURPRISE

Recipe requires six ripe peaches, one cup cream cheese, teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves. Cut peaches through from the top just enough to remove the stone. Fill the cavity with a paste made by mixing the cheese and spices. Use as a garnish for hot meats or serve in a small lettuce nest with dressing as a salad course.

HOT APPLE SAUCE

One heaping cup of chopped apples, tablespoon each arrowroot and lemon juice, few grains of salt, grated rind of one lemon, one eighth teaspoon cinnamon, two pinches of nutmeg and one half cup cold water.

Put the chopped apples into a saucepan. Add the arrowroot, salt, lemon juice, lemon rind, cinnamon, nutmeg and cold water. Cook all together for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Strain and serve with pork.

Powell First Commercial Match Block Maker, Rotarians Informed

Horton Takes Local Industry for His Talk Theme

That W. W. Powell, who gave Nelson one of its permanent industries, the manufacture of match blocks, was the first man in the world to commercially manufacture match blocks, was stated Monday by R. E. Horton, manager of the W. W. Powell company, to the Rotary club, in an address dealing with this industry.

The match manufacturing industry used white pine, at first employing the eastern species, Pinus strobus. But later the eastern match manufacturers, after investigating the merits of the Idaho white pine, Pinus monticola, which is whiter and straighter, bought their match plank from the Idaho mills, and continued to manufacture the necessary match blocks themselves.

POWELL FIGURED OPPORTUNITY

It was Mr. Powell, then just out of college, who figured out that he could supply the eastern match companies with match blocks more cheaply than they could supply themselves, and do so at a profit to themselves, and he was able to convince Colonel Reynolds, head of the Pennsylvania Match company, of this, and to obtain a contract from the Pennsylvania Match company, as a result of which he built his factory in Spokane.

Two years after he built his factory, both the Diamond Match company and the Ohio Match company built match block factories in Spokane, that of the Diamond costing probably $500,000.

After Mr. Powell sold his Spokane plant, he came to Nelson, at first meeting with discouragement when told that there was not sufficient white pine in this district for his purpose. But this proved to be not the case, and Mr. Horton stated that, properly used, there were stands of white pine in this district that could keep the Nelson industry operating indefinitely.

The Powell company, which had now operated here for 17 years, secured its supplies of match plank entirely by contract, various mills sawing match plank for it.

MAKING OF MATCH BLOCKS

From the match plank delivered, the best 60 per cent, from the point of view of freedom from blemish, was selected to be used by the match block factory, and the rest was stocked for sale as white pine plank, for which it was in every way standard.

Mr. Horton then gave some description of the processes of match block manufacture at the W. W. Powell company plant here, including the cutting of the plank into blocks of desired length by a gang-saw—cutting done to a fineness of 1-100th-inch—the rejection by certain operatives charged with that duty, of all match blocks showing any blemish, and the chopping up of the rejects by other girls, for the purpose of fuel, and finally the boxing of the finished and accepted match blocks, for shipping to market.

When he first came west, Mr. Horton remarked, the cedar pole market would stand for 10 per cent rot, which was usually around the base of the pole, but today the pole must be perfectly sound. There had been a similar stiffening of the standard in the match block market since the Nelson plant was first opened. At first the match companies would take "hearts", "blue stain", and other blocks a little off color, but today the product had to be perfect.

In its 17 years here, the Powell company had produced from 7,000,000 to 17,000,000 feet board measure, of match blocks, its largest year's output being 17,700,000 feet. Its present production was 7,000,000 feet.

The match block market was probably one of the steadiest markets in the world, Mr. Horton explained. The company had had contracts with the E. B. Eddy company ever since 1922, and was also supplying match blocks to the Commonwealth Match company of St. Johns, Que., and match plank to the Canada Match company at Hull, Que.

MATCH MANUFACTURE

Mr. Horton concluded his interesting address with a synopsis of the processes matches pass through in manufacture, at the plants in eastern Canada, including the splitting, various dippings, painting with brushes, spreading, and drying, over a route that takes from 45 minutes to an hour to cover.

If one bought an Eddy match, other than the Sesqui, it probably started at Nelson, Mr. Horton stated.

J. A. Ferguson, who was in charge of the program, thanked the speaker warmly for his address.

Church Weddings Urged on Couples by United Church

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., May 22 (CP).—The United Church of Canada's British Columbia conference today adopted a report embodying the opinion that couples contemplating marriage should be encouraged to have the ceremony performed in a church rather than in a registry office.

The report pointed out marriage, essentially a religious service, "should not be made the occasion of a mere display." The report, submitted by Rev. H. E. Horton of Vancouver, also urged that greater encouragement be given to the publishing of bans.

The Provincial Marriage act was described as "not unsatisfactory." It was reported, however, that great difficulty had been met in registering ministers of the Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian churches of other countries, temporarily employed or resident in British Columbia. A resolution was passed authorizing the secretary of the conference, Rev. William Deans, to certify such ministers for purposes of the Marriage act.

C. E. Acheson, president of the lower mainland district council told the conference that "if the cancerous problems of the present day — the great liquor problem among our young people for example—are to be solved, it will be done only through the cooperation and unity of Christian men and women."

Rev. Dr. A. M. Sanford presented the report of Union college, showing the college paid its way during the past year. A slight reduction in the deficit carried over from previous years had been achieved.

DEATHS

LONDON, — Lord Merivale, 83, chief secretary for Ireland 1916 to 1918.

Paralytic Shoots Self; Unable to Stand Suffering

Afflicted with creeping paralysis, Albert Edward Cline of Summerland left his wife and daughter and walked into his house and shot himself, placing the muzzle of a shotgun in his mouth and firing the gun with a stick, it was indicated in a report received Monday at divisional headquarters of the provincial police, Nelson. His body was found across a bed, a 12-gauge shotgun between the legs, the left hand gripping the barrel near the muzzle and a stick in the right hand. The coroner investigating decided no inquest was necessary.

Mr. Cline left a note stating: "Death is swell to this life of suffering, so will bid you all good bye. When the time comes may the Lord have mercy on my soul. I can't stand this much longer, getting weaker each day with usual of trouble. Bury me in a shallow grave at little expense as possible. So good bye. May God bless you.

"A. E. Cline."

His daughter Nelda Marcella Cline, told the coroner and provincial police her father had been suffering for over a year and had been informed his condition was incurable.

He had lived at West Summerland five years.

Try Honey Facial for Stimulation

By DONNA GRACE

There is no question of the superiority of the modern manufactured beauty needs as compared with the old time homemade mixtures. However, there will always be good reason for using a few of the old methods, one being the honey facial. You will like to try the facial for a good bleach and cleansing.

Here's how to use it:

First secure the hair very carefully with a towel or cap. Then give the face and neck a thorough soap and water rinsing, making sure to remove very trace of soap with clear tepid water. Pat the face dry. Apply the honey in a thick layer over the face and neck. Do this with the tips of the fingers that have been washed thoroughly, then dipped into alcohol. After you have covered the face, continue to use the tips of the fingers to massage the honey in.

The virtue of the honey facial is in its bleaching and drying effect and this can be accomplished without much rubbing.

After from three to five minutes, remove the honey with warm water and apply a cleansing cream. When this is removed, pour a tablespoonful of astringent and two tablespoonfuls of water over ice cubes. Sponge the face with pledgets of cotton dipped in this iced lotion. Continue to pat it on until you feel a glow and satin smoothness all over the face. When the skin is dried, it is ready for makeup.

PEARY TRANSFORMED CANADIAN ESKIMO

How Peary the Arctic explorer, transformed the Canadian Eskimo was set forth in an address on "An Expedition to Northwest Greenland and the Canadian Arctic in 1937," by J. M. Wordie before the Royal Geographical society, as reported in the Geographical Journal.

"Thse Eskimo are known generally either as the Cape York Esikmo or as the Polar Eskimo, the name preferred by Rasmussen, and are descendants of the natures discovered in 1818 by Sir John Ross, who in his picturesque way called them the Arctic Highlands," said Mr. Wordie.

"In the next 70 years the tribe was seldom visited, except that Scottish whalers generally did a little barter-ing each year as they passed Cape York, while occasional hunters with their families assisted some of the polar expeditions of the latter half of the nineteenth century, such as those of Kane, Hall and Nares.

"By the end of the century, however, the Polar Eskimo became well known and famous as sledgers, as the outcome of Peary's many expeditions based on Smith Sound. Peary first employed them in 1891 to hunt walrus for his dog food, and finally came to depend on them almost entirely as his dog drivers as well, and the polar journey of 1909 succeeded largely by reason of their great ability as sledgers combined with their loyalty and trust in Peary. For all they did for him, Peary made full payment, giving them rifles and iron goods and, to his best men, boats. In this way by 1909 the Polar Eskimo passed from a primitive bow and arrow stage, self-supporting and without contact even with other Eskimo, to a modern hunting and trapping type dependent on the rifle, and therefore on trading."

The nearer we approach great men, the clearer we see that they are men.—Bruyere.

HOW ABOUT A CURIO EXHIBIT?

Some years the Kootenay fair should by way of novelty try out the "old curiosity shop" idea, and assemble all the curios that members of the interested public may bring forward, from zulu assigais, and albatross skins, to early editions.

If absolute safety can be guaranteed with chicken-wire protection and day and night guards on duty, owners of curios will bring them out to the light—and a great surprise everyone will have.

And of course it need not be limited to the Kootenay fair. Any place that holds a fair—or even a novel community entertainment—can get effective results.

What often happens after such an event, is a demand for a local museum. And there are worse things than local or district museums.

The English village of Yattendon in Berkshire, which has about 500 inhabitants, recently staged a very successful exhibition of objects "of interest to others" collected from its cottages. A number of these objects were rescued from oblivion in the lumber-room, or the attic, or that drawer of old junk to be found in most households; and the fact leads one to speculate on the treasure that still lies hidden, and unsuspected by its owners, in the village homes of England.

What manuscripts and letters and diaries, legacies, of the famous, or "trivial fond records" of the humble that have yet their historical value; what relics of ancient usage, and forgotten crafts; what finds, rare, precious, quaint and beautiful, must remain to be discovered by attac adventurers!

In the case of the Kootenay there are probably few ancient attics to explore. For one thing, few Kootenay homes have been occupied by several generations of one family, which is the prime reason for the survival of what to some may be junk, to others, priceless records.

It is to be hoped that some day someone does something about this kind of exhibition. The first one assuredly will not be the last.

Difficulties strengthen the mind as well as labor does the body.—Seneca.

Europe Air Lanes 60,000 Miles

There was a time, in the infancy of continental air touring, when a trip across say to Paris satisfied most travellers. Today the story is different. Family parties, and groups of friends, as well as individuals, now set off across the Channel on flying tours which take them in stages from city to city, and from one famous beauty-spot to another. Such comprehensive aerial touring necessitates frequent changes at continental airway junctions and all such changes have, of course, to be carefully arranged beforehand. Today the European airway system extends over approximately 60,000 miles, and many intricate problems arise in dovetailing all the facilities available into a homogeneous traffic network for the convenience of modern holiday folk.

Early each year representatives of the International Air Traffic association — the members of which control operations on the airways of Europe — begin to discuss and draw up their schedules for the forthcoming summer's flying.

For the English Sparrow

In a recent issue of Our Dumb Animals appeared a good word for the starlings. In my opinion the pugnacious, much-abused English sparrow is changing his menu to an insectivorous one, at least in certain areas, and should be accorded his just dues.

Early last June a 20-foot Japanese plum tree on our lawn became infested with nests and larvae of the spring cankerworm. The sparrows discovered the "find" first and cleared it of nests and larvae within a short time — but even to this day a flock of these sparrows occasionaly swings into this plum tree to peer about as if to see whether or not they have by any chance overlooked something.

—H. E. Wentworth in Our Dumb Animals.

Song for a Poor Fish

Twinkle, twinkle, little fish,
Swimming with a jaunty swish
Have you heard about the act?
You're the subject of a pact.

Now a governmental plan,
Signed by Russia and Japan.
Allocates for '39.
Who will scoop you from the brine.

Have you given any thought
To the time when you'll be caught?
Where do you inted to go—
Leningrad or Tokyo?

You will find that in Japan
Manners constitute the man.
Russians have a jollier air
But they're weak on savoir faire.

Russia offers Tchekov plays,
Nippon, cherry bloom bouquets.
Both will try to fill the wish
Of the most fastidious fish.

Twinkle, twinkle, little fish,
Motionless upon the dish.
Seems to me, poor fish, that you
Should have had a treaty too!

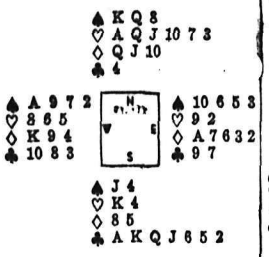
Contract Bridge

Shepard Barclay Tells How to Bid and Play

TOO MUCH STRENGTH

THERE IS NO sense in making a high original bid, as a rule, except for the purpose of shutting out opponents whom you fear. If your hand is so weak that you probably can take no tricks against them, the entire defense devolving upon your partner, a pre-emptive bid of a long suit carries some justification. But any hand containing an A of one suit and a K of another is definitely likely to be of value to your side, either on the defense or at some other declaration your partner may call.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Seldom has there been a worse pre-emptive bid than the 5-Clubs called by South on this deal. North, knowing that it was an overbid, and South having stated by his bid that his hand was worthless except in clubs, North could do nothing but pass and the contract was set one trick.

South had a hand which was worth seven positive tricks at no trump and which originally would figure to be worth about two tricks or more on the defense. He was too strong to bid more than 1-Club. Had he done so, there was no way to keep the side out of a game contract at hearts or no trump, at least 4-odd being certain at either declaration.

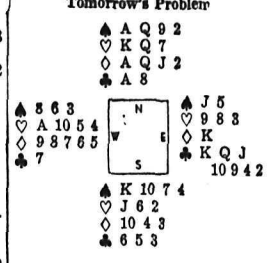
Tomorrow's Problem



Against a lead of the club K, how should North play for 3-No Trump?

X. Y. Z., Salmo—What is a good formula for gopher poison, and is there any possible way to exterminate pocket gophers?

Following is a gopher poison and exterminate: Add one-half ounce of strychnine to one pint of hot vinegar, more if the vinegar is of poor grade, and after the strychnine has dissolved, mix the vinegar with solution with three quarts of water. In this solution soak 10 pounds of wheat for 18 or 20 hours, by which time the solution will be entirely absorbed by the grain. Then spread the wheat in the sun to dry. Frequent and vigorous stirring is necessary while the wheat is soaking, in order that the grain will be thoroughly saturated with the poison. If properly prepared according to this formula, each kernel of grain will contain a fatal dose for one gopher. Next dissolve three pounds of brown sugar in one gallon of water and boil down to one-half gallon. This gives a good thick syrup. When cold stir in one teaspoonful of oil of anise. When the poisoned wheat is dry, or nearly so, the syrup is poured over it and thoroughly stirred until each grain of wheat is more or less covered with the syrup. It is then thoroughly dried. A few grains, a quarter to one-half teaspoonful are buried near each burrow. A word of caution, however, is necessary. Wheat so poisoned is a dangerous preparation and should be kept out of the way of fowls and animals. It should be labelled "Poison," and put in some place where there is no possible danger of its being used for any other purpose than that for which it is intended. When using, it is advisable to bury it to prevent the destruction of useful birds.

B. J., Nelson—Is there any way to make Easter lilies bloom again?

If the lilies are planted in the garden now, they will bloom again in the fall. This second blooming is final.

The HUMAN SIDE OF THE NEWS

BY EDWIN C. HILL

Copyright, 1939, by Central Press Canadian

This account of the Doukhobors, by an American writer far from the scene, is at variance in several particulars with the facts that are common knowledge to readers of The Daily News—for instance in failing to make a distinction between the ordinary Doukhobors and the fanatic element—but is closer to history than many articles on the Doukhobors written by writers closer to the scene than Mr. Hill. It is extremely interesting as a summation of the historical facts from an American standpoint.

Canada's 15,000 Doukhobors, one of the strangest religious sects under the sun, moon and stars, are anxiously awaiting their new leader, Peter Verigin III, who is somewhere in Russia. The new chief of the "spirit wrestlers" is the grandson of Peter Verigin I, and the dynasty remains unbroken.

In the meantime, a grandson of Peter Verigin II, John Verigin, acts as chief of this 200-year-old Russian sect which, just 40 years ago this year, was colonized in Assiniboia and Saskatchewan, and through thrift and hard work, has built a property in farms, canneries and textiles valued at $25,000,000.

They have been good citizens on the whole, yet troublesome because of their resort to nudity and frequent clashes with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They kept the mounted police on the run, routing nude parades of bewhiskered farmers and their families, when the "mounties" should have been out "getting their man", as the established Oliver Curwood tradition.

"Very few clothes and a very red nose—that's all right in the summer time." So ran the old London music hall song, but the Doukhobors did a Sally Rand right out on the snow, parading in the nude on the slightest provocation — through a blizzard, if they felt like it.

No one ever got it quite straight, as to the reason for all this, but it seems to have been partly a phase of their religious belief and partly a means of sabotaging the tax collector. When their colony was established in 1899, they insisted they would pay no taxes for war. They also said they would school their own young, and they objected to school taxes.

Taxes and clothes, two considerable items of latter-day overhead, caused most of the trouble. Two rich farmers, reaching a wrong destination on the railroad, undressed in a crowded station, as a gesture of protest. Nudity became a fighting weapon as well as a ritual.

Canada brought it all on herself, inviting the Doukhobors to come on over, dealing them 450,000 acres of good land. Tolstoi helped finance the trip with the returns from his "Resurrection". The Quakers helped, too. They were model citizens, barring their odd ideas about clothes, or the lack of them. They were marvellous farmers, working from dawn to dark. They had no objection to automobiles, tractors or binders.

Modern industrial progress was all right if it wouldn't insist upon clothes. But it did, and friction with the authorities has been frequent. Three years ago, they negotiated with Mexico, but were barred out. Big, shaggy old Peter Verigin I, leading their hegira from Russia, was their king.

He was a benevolent but firm monarch, a shrewd businessman, building their industries and farms into a prosperous little empire, dealing shrewdly with the outside world. But, about 15 years ago, there was mounting discord and trouble. The Canadian government jerked back 360,000 of the fertile acres it had given them. Orchards and farms had been developed, but the government insisted that the colonists had violated their corporate charter.

In 1924, old King Peter was mysteriously blown up and Peter II, with a big walrus moustache like his dad's, ruled in his stead. He, too was a two-fisted monarch, but more and more in trouble with the police as his people continued to flaunt their nudity before the John Laws.

Two years ago, deportation proceedings against King Peter II started him back to Russia where, his followers insisted, he would have been executed, as a hang-over from czarist days.

But, by this time, sons of unclad Doukhobors had grown into big-time lawyers, and they managed to flag King Peter at Halifax, procuring a court ruling against his deportation. He was in jail for a while, but released in February, 1933.

The Doukhobors are of ancient Tartar stock, starting as a mystic religious cult early in the 18th century. In their early days, they were driven off their lands, into the Caucasus, and then hounded around Asia and finally to islands of the Mediterranean. But, through all this persecution, their band was strangely persistent.

JOHN VERIGIN

There are about 15,000 of them in Canada now. They were and are ascetics, forbidding musical instruments, cards, dominoes and games of all kinds. Everybody must be in bed at 9 o'clock and up at 5 o'clock in the morning. Marriage is a simple business of selecting a mate, with no ceremony, but with the strictest monogamy thereafter.

This nudity business is no modern fad. It's very old . . . back to Queen Elizabeth's day. In 1795 Lord Monbaddo of England recruited quite a following and carried through a long encounter with the police which his lordship apparently enjoyed greatly. Set upon by the authorities for strolling around in the raw, he made a spirited philosophical counter-attack, tracing most of the ills of humanity to clothes. Finally he announced he would compromise. He would meet a public committee partially dressed. And he did appear, garbed in a coat of olive oil.

There are probably half a million nudists in Germany. In Soviet Russia they wear them, or not, as they please, in the country and at the beaches. In the U.S. there are nudist movements in 17 states. French police are kept on the jump by a nudist island in the Seine.

Man is a strange creature. Missionaries have a dreadful time getting primitive people to wear clothes. But once man is clothed somebody has to call the police to keep him so. A queer animal, man.

A Hundred Craft Pass Balfour for Fishing Grounds

Cabin cruisers, ordinary motorboats, outboards, and row boats were heading up-stream in constant procession Sunday, to the main lake fishing grounds, according to Jacob Seal, boat livery proprietor at Balfour.

"I estimate that 100 craft of all descriptions have passed my place so far today," Mr. Seal remarked at noon Sunday. "The first party got me up at 5, and they have been moving ever since."

Many well-powered craft presumably went up to Kaslo, for the "salmon" grounds there, but crafts were spread out in all directions from the Outlet, coming and going all day. Even the water between the head of the West Arm and Procter was constantly patrolled by boats whose occupants were evidently after the ordinary trout.

In numerous cases, fishermen made two days of it.

Just how the fishing turned out has not yet appeared. The corresponding weekend of May 1938, possibly made an all-time record, with approximately 50 big fish, colloquially called "salmon", boated, in addition to larger numbers of course of smaller sized trout of the same species.

PLANE CRASHES KILL 15 IN U.S.

SAN JOSE, Calif., May 22 (AP)—Eight crashes involving American army and private airplanes, topped by the spectacular plunge of an attack ship into California university's fog-shrouded Lick astronomical observatory, killed 15 persons in the United States yesterday.

Lieut. R. F. Lorenz, 25, of March Field, Calif., and Private W. E. Scott, his passenger, were crushed to death as their army ship tore through two 18-inch walls of the Lick administration building near here. Archives containing valuable photographic plates and other records were wrecked.

Modern Equipment Washes Bottles of Gassossa Co., Trail

To assure proper and complete sterilization of bottles, Gassosa Company, manufacturers of soft drinks in Trail, has in operation a new "Liquid" bottle washing machine manufactured by the Carbonic Canadian Corporation, Limited, of Montreal.

This new piece of equipment, which cost $4500 is the latest thing in bottle washing. Bottles are placed in holes in metal bars of an endless conveyer and are automatically locked about the neck as they enter the first washing chamber. Here they are rinsed with hot water, both inside and out, and then descend into an alkali cleansing solution which is kept at a temperature of 145 degrees.

After emerging from the cleansing solution the bottles are rinsed six times with hot water and then three times with cold water.

For one bottle to pass through the machine requires eight minutes.

The Gassossa Company extends an invitation to anyone to visit its plant at 328 Rossland avenue, Trail, and witness the manufacturing of its many popular soft drinks.

KING SALUTES OWN STATUE—CROWD CHEERS

TORONTO, May 22 (CP)—The King signalled "howya!" or its royal equivalent today when he suddenly saw a bronzed 18-foot statue of himself two stories up at the corner of a large department store on the route of the parade through downtown Toronto.

The figure was first seen by the Queen who smiled and drew the King's attention to it. His Majesty looked up grinned broadly and snapped a cheery salute. The crowd at the intersection howled with delight.

Would Fight Reds in Franco Manner

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—Dudley P. Gilbert, New York socialite, told the Dies committee on Unamerican activities today he had been trying for months to organize a campaign to "help the American people be ready" for a "red revolution."

Examined closely about letters he wrote to J. E. Campbell, Ownesboro, Ky., with whom he was associated, Gilbert told the committee "I figured that very shortly we would be faced with a civil war from the left."

"I though that if they took over the country — what was left of it—the country would have to rise up under the Franco method," Gilbert testified.

Representative Healey (Dem., Massachusetts) inquired whether Gilbert meant a military dictatorship.

"If something like that did take place we would have to do something like Franco," the witness replied. "We did not advocate a .. ilitary movement but only that the people would have to fight back.'

Christ Crucified in Business Says Robbins, Rossland

ROSSLAND, B.C., May 22—Too many today were like the followers of Christ during His life on earth, being strong and firm in their convictions while together in Christian groups, turning against their faith as soon as they were separated, asserted Fred Robins, Koolaree camp director and boys' work enthusiast, in an address given to the congregation of St. Andrew's United church here Sunday morning in the absence of Rev. T. W. Reed, pastor.

In the ancient days the people followed Christ and listened to His every word, proclaiming Him Saviour, but at His downfall joined the angry mob who cried, "Crucify Him". So it was in life today, he said. Christians followed and adhered to Christ's principles in church circles but in business they were prone to crucify Him, he stated.

Speaking to the congregation in the evening Albert Marshall, president of the Excelsior Young People's society of Knox United church, Trail, said that the downfall of any nation might be from corruption caused by the careless methods of its people. His topic was The Responsibility of Modern Youth".

The speaker traced the responsibilities of youth from the caveman days through the Middle Ages and up to the present time, and said that historians after comparing the activities of youth in those periods, proclaimed that youth of today carried a heavier burden.

'TOY SOLDIERS' FORM GUARD OF HONOR FOR PRINCESSES

LONDON, May 22 (CP Cable).—Boys from the Duke of York's military school, costumed as toy soldiers, formed a guard of honor for Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose when, accompanied by Queen Mary, they left the royal military tournament at Olympia today.

Thirty grandfathers, all more than 60 years old, formed a guard of honor for the princess royal when she visited the Dockland settlement in London's East End.

NEW ZEALAND IMPORT RESTRICTIONS RULED INVALID BY JUSTICE

WELLINGTON, N. Z., May 22 — (CP-Reuters). — Mr. Justice J. B. Callan of the New Zealand supreme court today ruled that Prime Minister Michael Savage's new import restrictions were invalid.

Commenting on the decision the Prime Minister said "whatever amendments are necessary to give effect to the original act and intentions will be made."

NANAIMO MAN KINSMEN HEAD

VERNON, B. C., May 22 (CP).—Gordon Robertson of Nanimo was elected district governor of Kinsmen clubs today at the annual convention of clubs from all parts of British Columbia at this interior centre.

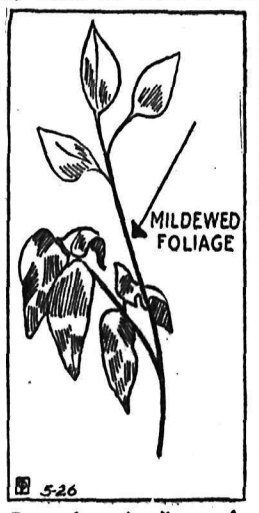
J. Murdoch MacLachlan of Chilliwack was chosen deputy governor.

Mayor Harry Bowman, Everard Clarke, president of the Vernon board of trade, Charles Hayden, president of the Rotary club and Frank Baldock, president of the junior board of trade, were the principle speakers at a civic luncheon. The reply was made by John Reed of Vancouver, last year's district governor.

Sulphur Is Used for Black Spot

Written by DEAN HALLIDAY

Since roses are the "Grand Dames" of the garden, they must be protected against diseases which would destroy their beauty. Mildew, for example, is one disease which not only causes the leaves to turn



Beauty-destroying diseases of roses

white and curl and droop as shown in today's Garden-Graph, but also attacks the buds and causes them to become deformed.

Mildew appears during damp weather, or as the result of damp weather. It is first noticed upon the buds but spreads rapidly to the foliage. To protect roses against mildew spray them with some one of the commercial forms of Massey dust.

The disease most dreaded by rose growers is black spot. It starts at the base of the plant and works upward. Black spot should be prevented, as it cannot be cured once a rose bush is infected. Black spot can be prevented by keeping the rose foliage dusted with sulphur. Start the sulphur treatments as soon as the leaves appear, and continue to dust the bushes every 10 days until fall.

'Stamp' Experiment Seems Successful

By JOHN LEAR

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 22 (AP).—First line of what may become a blueprint for streamlining the distribution system of the United States and cutting down the food bill of the average family emerged today from the federal government's newest experiment with surplus farm crops.

This experiment's immediate purpose was to sell surplus food to the unemployed through the normal channels of trade by using "stamp money."

Prices of food listed as "surplus" fell when grocers began competing for a share in the stamps relief clients had been given as a government bonus to make such purchases. The average man, not being on relief, had no stamps. But he reaped the benefits of the lower prices just the same.

Grocers were jubilant over the fact that between Tuesday morning, when the "stamp money" went into circulation, and the close of stamp sales Saturday afternoon, they had received or had promise of receiving some $16,633 worth of new business.

Pendergast Gets 1 Year, 3 Months

KANSAS CITY, May 22 (AP).—Tom Pendergast, dethroned political boss, pleaded guilty today to evading United States income taxes on $443,550 and was sentenced to a year and three months in prison.

Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis sentenced the political leader to one year and three months on the first count of an indictment charging he dodged taxes in 1935 and 1936.

On the second count the judge sentenced Pendergast to probation for three years and fined him $10,000.

Doubts Scheduled Departure From U.S.

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)—Daniel Roper, new United States minister to Canada, said in an interview here today that the King "struck me as a man with a vitalizing conception of service."

"The Queen? What need I say? Our hearts are beating with one throb," he continued. "So much depends on one's attitude. Your King has the right attitude. He was enjoying himself, I'm convinced of that. He told me two or three times how he was looking forward to his visit to the States and his interest in our people."

Roper said he would be surprised if the American people "let the King and Queen get away at the time they are scheduled to leave."

FIRE DANGER OVER; HEAVY RAIN FALLS

EDMONTON, May 22 (CP) — With Alberta's forest fire peril practically eliminated and croplands thoroughly drenched, the wet spell appeared ended today with a forecast of "mostly fair and a little warmer," after more than five inches of rain had fallen over most of Northern Alberta in the last six days.

More Than a Thousand Pupils Enjoy Annual 'Play Day' Creston

CRESTON, B. C. — With more than 500 youngsters, all set for a holiday outing, Play Day at Exhibition park, Creston, Wednesday morning and afternoon was an outstanding success, in spite of dull weather and a rain that halted proceedings about 1:30 p.m. instead of the planned 2:30 p.m.

The big day was for the pleasure of all pupils attending the nine public schools in Creston Consolidated School district, and the attendance was just about 100 per cent from each school district, and every teacher present. To accommodate the turnout extra bus trips had to be made to Alice Siding and Erickson.

A committee of Miss Florence McLure, Creston; F. York, Huscroft; H. Stuart, Canyon and Sid Rogers, West Creston, evolved a succession of games each lasting about 20 minutes, with the pupils graded senior, intermediate and junior, all divided into groups of a size each teacher could conveniently handle.

At noon, the more than half thousand pupils and the teachers sat in a group for lunch, and this was followed by community singing directed by Miss Helen Moore.

Supervising principal Earl Marriott then very briefly addressed them on the aims and objects of Play Day, which, primarily, was to get all the pupils acquainted and develop affairs on the idea that there was but one school (not nine) now that consolidation was effective.

S. A. Speers, chairman of the school board, spoke in complimentary terms of the effort of the teachers in connection with the day and praised the good conduct of the gathering.

The trustees, he said, favored Play Day, and would do all that was possible to make it a success from year to year.

Col. E. Mallandaine, gave a brief but characteristic patriotic talk and to express the hope that these get togethers would be annual affairs and presented on a bigger and better scale from year to year. At the close of his address he had the several teachers look after the distribution of bronze medallions to each of the pupils.

With rain commencing to fall, adjournment was taken to Park pavilion where, for almost an hour, the children took part in, or were entertained at a gym display, from features of the curriculum of physical exercises. Performing were groups of pupils directed by L. Gillis of Alice Siding; Miss Wall of Erickson; Miss McClure and Herb Dodd of Creston; Principal Art Rutledge of Wynndel, and Principal Stuart of Canyon. Along with this some fancy mat work was contributed by Messrs. Rutledge. Suart and W. H. Kolthammer of Arrow Creek.

After these features there was more musical entertainment, but as the rain continued the teachers with much regret decided to end proceedings about 2 p.m., when the buses were available for the return trip.

The turnout of parents was small, but with the konwledge of the pleasure afforded by the 1939 reunion, great things may be looked for in each succeeding year. In every respect the day was well handled, the pupils were well behaved and their enthusiasm for the day's proceedings was fully shared by Supervising Principal Marriott and his staff of 19 teachers.

Walmsley C.P.R. Agent Tadanac

Revelstoke Man Takes Over Post of Late C. E. Jestley

William Walmsley, Canadian Pacific railway agent at Revelstoke has succeeded the late C. E. Jestley as agent at Tadanac.

During his stay in Revelstoke, Mr. Walmsley took an active interest in the affairs of Gold Range lodge, Knights of Pythias. He has been a member of the order for many years.

Mr. Walmsley, who joined the Canadian Pacific railway at Revelstoke over 30 years ago, went to his last appointment at Revelstoke from Enderby. Previous to that he had been at Greenwood for a considerable period.

Mr. Walmsley's successor at Revelstoke will be only the third regularly appointed incumbent of the agency in over 40 years. Mr. Walmsley's predecessor, T. W. Bradshaw, now living in Vancouver, was agent there for 35 years.

KING AND QUEEN POSE FOR GIRL AT STATION

COTEAU STATION, Que., May 21 (CP)—Somewhere near this little Soulanges County station an unidentified small girl slept happily last night.

She had taken a posed picture of her King and Queen with her box camera as the royal train paused at the "Y" here yesterday to reach the line to Toronto.

The Queen glimpsed the little girl shortly after she slipped through the wire fence along the right of way. The smiling Queen touched the King's arm just as they were leaving the observation platform on the train. They turned and posed.

GERMAN EXILE FOUND HANGED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP). — Ernst Toller, 45, author and playwright and exile from his native Germany, was found hanged today in his hotel suite in Central Park West.

Detectives and doctors, who pronounced him dead, said it was suicide. They quoted associates as saying Toller had threatened suicide because of recent ill health.

Opposes Sales Tax on Bad Debts

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP).—The house of commons today resumed "business as usual". The commons' members turned back to their debate on Finance Minister C. A. Dunning's resolution to make certain income tax exemptions to industries expanding their plants.

Conservative Leader R. J. Manion brought to the attention of the government a source of complaint by companies selling goods to a buyer who becomes bankrupt before the goods are paid for.

In such instances, where the seller paid sales tax at the time of the sale, the seller lost not only the price of his goods but also the tax. Dr. Manion suggested a tax refund in such cases. He contended the tax was on the sale and, if goods were not paid for, there was no sale.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley revenue minister, said the complaint was an old one but no government had seen fit to accept the suggestion for adjustment. He held the sales tax was really a tax on the person making the sale.

CLOVERDALE, B.C., May 22 — (CP).—Alex Pate, 34, New Westminster, B.C., longshoreman, was found dead at the bottom of a well on his brother-in-law's farm today.

Nelson Students Leave for Coast for Royal Visit

Nelson's four students who will see the King and Queen at Vancouver—Edna Steed and Einer Domeij of the High school, and Dorothy Todd and John Worthington of the Junior high school—departed Saturday morning, sent on their way by a delegation of their fellow students and several teachers. Representatives of other centres, Kimberley, Creston, and Kaslo, occupied a special car on the train with the Nelson students. Other delegates will be picked up along the way.

A formal send-off was given the Nelson group at a "co-ed" dance held at the High school two weeks ago. The two boys and two girls were introduced by John Huyck, prime minister of the High school parliament, and each expressed his thanks for being chosen to represent their schools and to see their Majesties. Each promised to "do my best" and be a worthy delegate of Nelson. A successful send-off party was given in the Junior high school Friday night to raise funds for Nelson's representatives.

From today till May 29, the day they see the King and Queen, the students will be guests of he Vancouver school board, which is arranging billets and entertainment.

KING AND QUEEN TO HEAR ANDERSON AND TIBBETT, WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP). — Marian Anderson, negro contralto, will sing for the King and Queen at a white house dinner June 8.

Mrs. Roosevelt disclosed Miss Anderson and Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan opera singer, would appear on a musical program designed to show the origins and heights of American music and talent.

C.C.F. Won't Contest Van. Byelection

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP) — The Cooperative Commonwealth Federation regional committee has decided not to protest the civic byelection which returned ex-mayor George C. Miller to civic office as an alderman this month.

Delegates from city C. C. F. clubs who comprise the committee, voted however to "condemn the city council for its conduct of the recent byelection, particularly in failure to supply sufficient ballots."

Dressmaker Had To Quit Sewing

Hands Swollen With Rheumatism

Pity this poor dressmaker! Nine-tenths of her work consists of sewing—and she was not able to sew. Rheumatism in the hands was her trouble, and she tried any number of remedies. But nothing helped much—until she came to Kruschen.

"Three-and-a-half years ago," she writes, "I had a violent attack of rheumatic pains. My feet and hands were swollen. The pain was terrible. I was really quite crippled and helpless.

"I tried many remedies without success. Then I started on Kruschen Salts, and after one month, I could stand up again. Then, I walked with a cane. In three months, I was quite well again. As I am a dressmaker, you can imagine what it meant to me not to be able to work my sewing machine. What a treat to be able to walk, to work, and to be free from pain."—(Mrs.) E.S.

The stabbing pains of rheumatism are often caused by needle-pointed crystals of uric acid lodging in the joints. Kruschen brings relief because it helps to dissolve those troubling crystals and to expel them from the system. (Advt.)

Trail Wins Kootenay Lacrosse Opener 13-11; Game Reaches a Peak in Speedy Final Quarter

Ceremonial Opening Season's First Boxla, Trail

MINUTE SILENCE FOR DR. McKAY

TRAIL, B. C., May 22 — With impressive ceremony the 1939 boxla season opened in Trail tonight. Parading to the rink led by the Canadian Legion band and the Junior Police Corps bugle band were some 50 youngsters, wearing multi-colored sport sweaters and waving lacrosse sticks.

The Legion band played several selections and after the Nelson and Trail teams took to the floor and had warmed up, the referee's whistle commanded attention. R. E. G. Hayward asked that a minute's silence be observed in tribute to the memory of Dr. D. W. McKay, and as the crowd stood with heads bowed, J. McLure sounded "The Last Post." Colors were dipped by Boy Scouts.

R. R. Burns, M.L.A., and Mayor E. L. Groutage then officiated at the face-off.

Between the first and second periods the Junior Police Corps bugle band paraded on the floor. At half time Fred McDowell led the fans in community singing of "O Canada" "There's a Long Long Trail" and "Pack Up Your Troubles."

Before the third quarter got underway a presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas (Smokey) Harrison, "Smokey" having just recently crossed "The Great Divide." R. E. G. Hayward, president, officiated on the Trail team's behalf.

Trail's Early Lead Is Narrowed as Leafs Find Feet

TRAIL, B.C., May 22—Despite a menacing recovery in the final quarter by the Nelson Maple Leafs, Trail Golden Bears conquered the visitors 13-11 in the opening game of the West Kootenay Boxla league at the Trail rink tonight.

After battling for three quarters in an effort to get the feel of the game, both teams warmed up in the final frame, swung into action and gave the fans a fair indication of the type of play to be seen in the 1939 season.

Both squads played a wide-open style, and suffered equally on penalties for three quarters, but not a single penalty was meted out in the final period and it brought to memory some of the "rip-snorting" battles of last season.

The lads of both teams who came up from junior ranks of last season showed indications of holding their own in more mature company and many showed great improvements as the game progressed.

"Booney" Sammartino rapped in three goals in the first period to give the Bears a 3-1 lead for the frame. In the second stanza Trail increased its lead to 7-4 and completely shut out the Leafs in the third period to enter the final canto on the long end of a 9-4 count.

With Bonneville, Hooker and George Bishop each rapping in two goals and Gallicano one in the final frame, the Leafs took the first edge in the play, scoring seven goals compared to Trail's four to narrow the gap and terminate the battle with considerable gusto.

Both net minders played outstanding games between the pipes and time after time received ovations from the fans for their spectacular saves.

MORE ABOUT Toronto Welcome

They waved and nodded to hundreds of thousands at a time. In the Ontario legislative assembly chamber they met more than 200 people. They had luncheon with 400 and watched the 80th running of the King's Plate with a jubilant crowd of 40,000 that hailed C. George McCullagh's Archworth as winner.

His Majesty hailed the winner, too, and presented Mr. McCullagh with the 50 guineas that since Queen Victoria inaugurated the race in 1880 have been presented annually to the winning owner by the reigning monarch. This was the first time the guineas were presented personally.

But probably the Dionne quintuplets — Yvonne, Emilie, Cecile, Annette and Marie — made the deepest impression on the visitors.

For the Royal couple the day was one of ceaseless activity. The cheers were deafening this morning on their arrival at North Toronto station and along all the four-mile drive down canyonlike Yonge street where hundreds of thousands were massed.

From many parts of Ontario and a dozen of the United States, boisterous throngs cheered the Royal car on Yonge street. Their Majesties could easily pick out the banners carried by Ontario delegations from Kitchener, Guelph, Owen Sound, Stratford, Hamilton and a half-dozen or more other cities and towns.

HUNDREDS FAINT

In city hall square the press of people was so dense that first-aid and police squads were removing an average of six persons every 15 minutes from the crowds. Not many of those who fainted had room in which to fall to the pavement. They just fell back and were held by those behind until help arrived.

Both the morning and afternoon crowds saw the Queen in a softtoned blue ensemble with matching felt hat. So full was the program that she did not take time to change. It marked the first time since the arrival Wednesday that Her Majesty had not changed at least once.

His Majesty wore the uniform of admiral of the fleet in the morning. Just prior to luncheon at Hart House, on the University of Toronto campus, he changed to formal morning clothes and in the afternoon wore a silk top hat.

At the formal receptions of welcome on a platform in front of the city hall and later in the legislative chamber Their Majesties received civic and provincial government officials.

Elizabeth Marie, eight-year-old daughter of Mayor Ralph C. Day, presented the Queen with a bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley at the city hall and Mrs. Ian Strachan, wife of the Liberal party whip, presented flowers to Her Majesty at the legislature.

Lieut.-Gov. Matthews presided at the Hart House luncheon where the King ate only fried breast of chicken and a cream cheese and Her Majesty took everything on the menu from hors d'oeuvres to ice cream.

Just prior to the luncheon the Queen presented colors to the Toronto Scottish regiment on the north campus of University of Toronto.

After the luncheon the Royal couple drove slowly past 50,000 school children and at least that many adults in Riverdale park. Then they went to Woodbine park, later took tea with a small party in the lieutenant-governor's suite and finally swung through the western part of the city.

There they visited Christie St. military hospital and were greeted by another throng of 50,000 school children in the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

FISHMEN DEFEAT INDIANS, COAST

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., May 22 (CP).—New Westminster Salmonbellies defeated North Shore Indians 28-21 here tonight in a scheduled intercity lacrosse league match. Salmonbellies held a 12-7 lead at halftime.

Ken Fetherston counted seven goals and assisted in another for Salmonbellies while Ray Baker sniped five Indian counters and engineered a sixth.

Fetherston and Hubie Smith of Indians were benched for 10 minutes each for fighting in the second quarter.

MORE ABOUT DIONNE QUINTS

The little country doctor, wearing morning dress for the first time in years, said that when he was presented to the King by Premier Hepburn he started to bow "but before I could make much of a job of it, his Majesty shook my hand and that made me feel much at ease."

PRESENTS OTHERS

Dr. Dafoe then asked whether he might introduce others of his party and in turn presented Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, parents of the children, and the three nurses, Molly O'Shaughnessy, Louise Corriveau and Gaetabe Vizena.

"I saved the children until the last because I was sure once they got started there would be no letup and it turned out just that way," Dr. Dafoe said.

The sisters presented the royal couple with a sheet autographed by each of them. It was folded but the Queen was not satisfied until she had examined the signatures of Marie, Yvonne, Emile, Cecile and Annette who will be five years old May 28.

Then came the demonstration of the quints' affection. They gave the Queen a set of large pictures of themselves and when she bent down to examine the gift, the quints could not restrain themselves.

LOVE TO PRINCESSES

The King, of whom the quints are wards under an act of the Ontario legislature, also was kissed. After insisting on explaining each picture separately the little girls hugged him, too. Marie, the tiniest, asked the King to give their love to his daughters, the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose.

"The children talked so much and so quickly they scarcely gave the King and Queen a chance to get a word in," said Dr. Dafoe. "They each carried a bouquet but decided Her Majesty should have them and accepting the Queen said 'Oh my, what will I do with all these lovely flowers.'"

When the nurses were presented, the King and Queen inquired as to the upbringing of the mannerly little girls and wanted to know the height and weight of each.

The striking appearance of the Queen in her blue ensemble did not escape the view of the children and Annette, her eyes turned upward in admiration, said "la belle reine" (the beautiful Queen). The others joined her and repeated the tribute in unison several times.

The Queen smiled at the little girls and quietly told them they looked most charming in their ankle-length white organdie dresses. The skirts were full and ruffled, the sleeves short and puffed, trimmed with ruffles.

ADMIRES UNIFORM

The blue naval uniform of the King was a big attraction for Cecile and she wanted to feel the brass buttons and medals. The inquiry led to a chat between his Majesty and Cecile regarding the celebration of their fifth birthday next Sunday.

The meeting was a closely guarded private affair and only one representative of the press, Walter S. Thompson, in charge of press arrangements on the pilot train, attended on behalf of all newspapermen.

Following the presentation, the quints were introduced to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and in turn the children said politely "comment ca va Monsier King."

The quints then moved into the legislature chamber and dissipated every trace of formality in the dignified chamber as they threw kisses to parliamentarians who shortly before had acclaimed the King and Queen.

FORMER NELSON MAN IN DAMAGE SUIT AT COAST

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP). — Judge C. J. Lennox in county court today reserved decision in the action of John Useich for $700 damages against Inspector Walter Fisher of the British Columbia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for the killingof 24 of his dogs. Inspector Fisher was formerly of Nelson.

His lordship, who visited Useich's farm during the trial, told the Maillardville millworker the "filth" of the place was beyond his imagination. The dogs, he said, were better off dead.

The judge said but for a point of law — whether Inspector Fisher had proper authority for destruction of the dogs — he would have dismissed the action and would have found that Upseich proved no damage.

B. C. Saw Log Scale Up 1st Four Months

VICTORIA, May 22 (CP).—British Columbia's official saw log scale for the first four months of this year reached 851,926,355 board feet, compared with 572,401,085 board feet scaled in the corresponding period of last year, E. C. Manning, chief forester, said today. In the same period export shipments were brisk, and prices a little firmer than at this time last year.

For the month of April alone, the saw log scale was 264,192,251 board feet, compared with 204,552,686 board feet in April, 1938. An earlier start in the woods, continuous cutting, and some anticipation of possible fire closures in the dry season are believed to have stimulated the scale during the period.

Farmers Present Eight Resolutions to Annual Convention Held Robson

Robson Offers Four; Two Withdrawn and One Amended

DR. MacDONALD GIVES ASSENT

ROBSON, B. C., May 22 — West Kootenay-Boundary Central Farmers institute had before it today eight resolutions from the constituent institutes, at its annual sessions in Robson community hall today.

Comments by Hon. K. C. MacDonald, minister of agriculture, were sought on most of the resolutions, and the minister's answers were roundly applauded as he stated he was heartily in accord with almost any resolution offered by the farmer seeking to better his lot. "I thoroughly understand the problems of the farmer," he said.

Dr. MacDonald was welcomed "from the capital of the province to Robson, the capital of the Kootenays," by President O. B. Ballard.

Of the eight resolutions, five were passed, only one was amended, and two were withdrawn.

WANT WORKING OUT TAXES CLARIFIED

Following presentation of a resolution from the Robson institute, regarding the working off of taxes by farmers, and whether the farmer could hire anyone to work off the taxes, Dr. MacDonald said the policy laid down was that all farmers who were not physically unfit had to work off their own taxes. The exemption of course also applied to widows.

Replying to a question, Lt.-Col. John Murray of South Slocan said Doukhobors were also working off their taxes "and making a little money on the transactions." Money was being paid to friends by the Doukhobor farmers who should have been doing the work themselves.

The Robson resolution moved by W. T. Waldie and R. H. Devitt, was adopted as follows:

"Whereas there seems to be considerable uncertainty among farmers as to what rights they have regarding the working out of taxes, and whereas we hear of men hiring others to work out their taxes for them, and

"whereas we are opposed to this in principle.

"Therefore be it resolved that we ask the government, if they have not done so, to define exactly what rights a farmer has in this respect and furthermore that they refuse to the farmer the privilege of hiring others to work out taxes with the exception of those who are physically unable to work out their own taxes."

Commenting on a second resolution presented by the Robson institute, urging that the game commission's grant be increased so that better game protection could be given, and more people educated in regard to wild life, A. H. Noakes of Balfour and O. B. Appleton of Procter said the game men stationed at Nelson were "very alert" and felt the game service did not need enlarging. They paid tribute to the work of C. F. Cairns, divisional inspector and Max K. Ewart, and J. C. Robinson, game wardens.

The resolution moved by Duncan Carter and A. W. Thorpe, carried, as follows:

"Whereas there are areas in which there is inadequate supervision of game regulations; and

"Whereas further educational work is desirable to bring the value of our game resources to the public's notice;

"Therefore be it resolved that the advisory board be urged to seek an increase in the game commission's grant for the purpose of furthering the latter's protection and educational work."

FARM TRUCKING

On a third resolution from the Robson body, asking that farmers be allowed to carry their wives or hired help in farm trucks, the convention heard the law explained by Constable John Henry of Castlegar, of the provincial police highway patrol. Constable Henry said that vehicles licenced for carrying freight, which were carrying passengers could be stopped for inspection, but vehicles which were not licenced for freight carrying, and which were carrying passengers, could not be inspected, except of course, for defective lights, brakes and so on. He stated a free permit could be granted by the provincial police to farmers who wished to assist their neighbors in harvesting crops within a radius of 15 miles, and the farmers could haul either produce or employees for the neighbor.

With the matter thus clarified, the resolution, moved by J. T. Robson and Capt. P. Hartridge, the latter of Balfour, was passed as follows:

The third resolution follows:

"Whereas the farmer today in the operation of a farm truck is seriously handicapped by existing regulations, and

"Whereas instances have been brought to our notice of farmers being held up by the police for carrying their own families in their trucks and their employees to work,

"Therefore be it resolved the government or commissioner as the case may be, be asked to modify these regulations and allow a farmer to carry his own family or employees in his truck."

AGAINST LOCAL DUMPING

A fourth resolution from Robson, seeking to prevent the dumping of poor grade fruit on the market at under-cut prices, and seeking to stabilize distribution of fruit and vegetables on the market, moved by C. S. Squires and A. F. Mitchell, was adopted as follows:

"Whereas complaints are continually being made by consumers in regard to culls and low grade fruit which are flooding our local markets; and

"Whereas, the peddling and unrestricted selling of this low grade fruit seriously curtails the distribution and consumption of fruit of good quality and grade, of which there is a surplus; and

"Whereas ample powers are unquestionably given under the Natural Products (British Columbia) Marketing act and the Fruit, Vegetable and Honey act for the control of the grading and distribution of fruit and vegetables in British Columbia,

"Therefore be it resolved that the Dominion fruit branch, the provincial department of agriculture, the British Columbia Fruit board, and the interior vegetable marketing board be urged to exercise the powers given them under these acts, to prevent the dumping of low grade fruits and vegetables, and stabilize the distribution of fruit and vegetables on our local markets."

NOMINAL LICENCES

The only resolution amended was that presented by the Creston institute, asking that licence fees be lowered on farmers' cars and light trucks. Its final form, as accepted by the original movers, W. H. Hilton of Creston and John Egloff of Edgewood, was as follows:

"Whereas the licence fees charged to owners of motor cars and light trucks are too high;

"Whereas, in most cases the operation of a car or light delivery truck is of vital importance to a farmer in the conduct of his business, especially in moving produce to market;

"Therefore we urge that the licence fee charged to farmers who operate cars and light trucks be reduced to a nominal one."

The original resolution asked that fees be reduced on all "cars and light delivery trucks to a flat rate of $10 per annum", but A. H. Noakes of Balfour moved that the resolution be amended to cover "cars and light trucks", asking that the rate be made a "nominal one".

WANT GOPHER BOUNTY

On behalf of the Slocan City Womens' institute, Mrs. K. Popoff presented a resolution, asking that the Robson Farmer's institute and other institutes back up the ladies in seeking government aid to eradicate gophers "which have ruined whole crops." Mrs. Popoff said Dr. MacDonald and the department of agriculture had been kind in helping, "but so far that has not been enough." Dr. MacDonald replied he was heartily in accord with the resolution, but he held out little hope of securing the government's aid, as the question was an old one, brought up many times before.

Gas was believed by several to be the best exterminator. Badgers had worked well in eradicating the gophers also, the minister stated.

Mrs. Popoff moved the resolution, which, seconded by H. Kershaw of Nakusp, passed and follows:

"Whereas the destruction of crops in this province caused annually by the alarming increase of gophers (in some instances whole fields of oats and root crops are totally destroyed and good fertile lands are lying idle due to these pests)

"And whereas the menace is increasing yearly, notwithstanding the big expense and efforts of the ranchers and farmers to curb this menace

"Be it resolved that this Robson Farmers' institute petition the Hon. Dr. MacDonald, minister of agriculture, to present this resolution to the government and endeavor to have a bounty of at least five cents on all gopher tails produced.

"And that the various branches of the Women's institutes in British Columbia be asked to endorse this resolution, and that copies be forwarded to them asking for their cooperation in this matter."

TWO WITHDRAWN

A resolution presented by H. Kershaw for the Arrow Lakes institute, Nakusp, dealing with appointment of official trustees for school districts where a school board could not be elected, was withdrawn after Dr. MacDonald said he was not in favor of official trustees. "If the people of a community are not strong or cooperative enough to elect a school board, and look after their own affairs, they should not be allowed to appoint an official trustee," he said.

The text withdrawn was as follows:

"That we recommend to the government that clause L of section 12 of the school manual which reads: 'To appoint an official trustee to conduct the affairs of any school district', be amended;

"And that all trustees shall be elected by the ratepayers or appointed as per section 97 of the school manual."

Another resolution by the Arrow Lakes institute, moved by Mr. Kershaw, asking that necessary steps be taken to place encephalomyelitis, or "sleeping sickness" of horses under the "Animal Contagious Disease act" was also withdrawn when Dr. MacDonald said it had already been placed within the act. It read:

"That this institute meeting recommend to the government that they take the legal action necessary to bring the disease commonly known as 'sleeping sickness' in horses under the 'Animal Contagious Disease act'."

Crescent Valley Fire Probed at Inquiry, Nelson

Eli Sowpa and his wife Mabel of Crescent Valley, appeared before W. A. Walker of Vancouver, deputy fire marshal for British Columbia, at an inquiry held at the court house Monday to determine the cause and origin of a fire at their store and home at Crescent Valley. Findings of the inquiry will not be known until later.

Mr. Walker goes to Fruitvale today to resume an adjourned inquiry there seeking to determine the cause and origin of a fire in the Brown & Co. warehouse. The inquiry opened last week, and was adjourned to today.

Questionnaire for Drivers Read to Nelson Gyro Club

A questionnaire for auto drivers laid down by the provincial government was read to the Nelson Gyros in a dinner meeting in the Hume hotel Monday evening by J. J. (Mickey) McEwen. All drivers shortly will be required by the police to answer at least 25 of these questions correctly.

Spirited and instructive discussion arose during the questioning as each Gyro in turn was asked to give an answer.

Dan MacNaughton read the club an amusing poem entitled "Ode to Progress", dedicated to the thinker, Mr. MacNaughton, who recently visited at the coast, told of a chat with Ado Diebolt, late Nelson Gyro stating Mr. Diebolt was very successful in his new position.

An ensemble consisting of Margaret Graham at the piano, Ted Swanson and Mr. McEwen, violins, and Clarence Wilson, saxophone played several selections. Encores were demanded. Mr. Wilson later played a solo number on his instrument.

President J. B. Gray was in the chair.

"Hizzoner, the Ump" Is Really a Character Fans Know Little About

Blind Men' Are Made Policemen in Baseball

By IRVING VAUGHAN
Central Press Canadian Sports Writer

What does an umpire think about? The answer to that one if you got it from a ball player or a manager would be an explosive: "They don't think."

But the boys in blue who try to call 'em as they see 'em, really do think; it is part of their job. Mastering the rules isn't the umpire's only problem. What makes his job harder is the fact he hasn't time to deliberate when the rules themselves are confusing.

Along with the rules umpires are surrounded by a series of regulations which the higher-ups regard as essential to the game. These regulations make a policeman of the umpire before, during and even after a game. For from three to four hours a day he has many things in his mind, not counting about 50 ball players ready to tear him to pieces and the thousands of fans waiting to see the players do it.

FANS KNOW BUT LITTLE

The average fan who barks at an umpire and yet wouldn't hurt the fellow if the chance presented itself, mind the scenes. One of the umps has no idea of what goes on before working a game must arrive one hour before starting time. He can sit in the stand, but he has to keep his eyes working. He must see to it that neither team is cheating on its allotted time for hitting and fielding practice. If he sees a player talking to a spectator he is expected to report it to headquarters. If a player shows up in a dirty uniform it's the policeman's duty to make him get into a presentable garment.

The way umpires must guard the baseballs you'd think there was a scheme afoot to sneak in strange pellets. Four dozen balls, the boxes unbroken, must be delivered by the home club, to the umpire's room before the game. Two dozen are placed in a bag. The other two dozen are placed in the sunken compartment near home plate. The umpires aren't supposed to allow these balls out of their sight.

There's the little matter of batting order. Before the umpire and manager can permit a game to start he must be in possession of written lineups carrying the signatures of the two managers. The league furnishes cards for this purpose and the umpire keeps them in his pocket for reference. If a team makes two or more substitutions at the same time the manager must immediately inform the plate umpire where the newcomers are going to bat. Then the umpire is responsible for seeing that this information is conveyed to the press box. In the old days umpires yelled but now loud-speaker systems serve the purpose.

The umpires along with the calling of plays, must act if they see a player who is warming up in the spots set aside for such purposes, suddenly decide to take a chair in the grandstand. It is up to the umpire to order him back. Players are not permitted to recline on the bench. Base runners can't sit down on the bag for a rest while time is called. A pitcher warming up in the bull pen can't throw his jacket on the ground. It must be placed on the bench.

Vendors are barred from the field during a game. If conditions make it necessary to wink at this restriction, a ground rule must be adopted to cover a case of a peddler being hit by a ball in play. Field photographers are furnished with credentials. If they don't have them the umpire must give them the air.

Pitchers can't work with ragged or slit sleeves. Such devices aid in deception and the umpires must act immediately. They must know what to do if a third strike lodges in the mask of the plate umpire, or if a batted fair ball sticks in a screen. They must watch for the "stops" in a pitcher's delivery. If a pitcher does stop momentarily after a preliminary stretch of his arms it's a balk. They must watch that a pitcher doesn't cheat with his feet by not staying on the rubber slab during delivery of the pitch.

And if an umpire sees a player, at the end of the game, toss the ball to a gang of clamoring youngsters, he must report the incident. The player will be fined.

Yes, the hours are good, but it's not all milk and honey, the life of "hizzoner, the ump."

Yates Leads Pack in British Golf

HOYLAKE, England, May 22 — (CP).—Charley Yates, of Atlanta, Georgia, regained his putting touch after a faulty start to lead an almost unbroken parade of favorites successfully through the first round of the British amateur golf championship.

First notable casualty in the big field that went out among the Royal Liverpool course's hazards was Hon. Michael Scott, veteran English international, Scott, winner of the championship in 1933, the last time it was played here, dropped a 2-and-1 decision to Tom Edwards of Wales.

Yates, one of the favorites, beat Bruce Thompson, a local star, 5-and-4 while the only other American to start today, Dick Chapman of Connecticut, eliminated John Cowley of Rotherham, 4-and-3.

Among the expected results in the top flight British brigade were a 5-and-4 victory Len Crawley scored over C. Boulton, and the 4-and-3 thumping Scotland's champion, Eddie Hamilton, handed Dento Guest.

Jim Bruen, 19-year-old Irish star and co-favorite with Yates, will make his initial appearance tomorrow, when he meets Len Crawley, another former Waker cup player.

Hector Thomson, 1936 winner, also came through today eliminating D. B. Field, 4-and-3.

Bees Even Series With Chicago Cubs

Neither Lou Fette nor Bill Lee, the starting pitchers, finished the game as Boston Bees, winning 5-3, managed yesterday to even their National league baseball series with Chicago Cubs at one apiece.

New York Giants rallied behind Hal Schumacher's best pitching of the year to trample the Pirates 9-2.

Schumacher went the route for the first time in six starts, allowing only six hits, four of them by Jeep Handley.

The Cincinnati Reds hit "in the clutches" and won their seventh straight National baseball game 6-3 over Brooklyn Dodgers.

Morton Cooper, young St. Louis Cardinal right hander, held Philadelphia Phillies to four hits, three of them doubles by Hershel Martin, to turn in a 2-1 victory and maintain the Redbirds' slim lead over Cincinnati in the National Baseball league race.

Cooper got in hot water in the ninth and Curt Davis finished.

The Athletics' four-game American league baseball winning streak was cracked by the home-run bats of Mel Mazzera and Harland Clift, which gave St. Louis Browns a 6-3 victory. It was the only game in the junior circuit as rain washed out three other scheduled fixtures.

Mazzera's circuit clout in the fourth inning broke a 2-2 tie. With two down in the fifth, and one on, Clift blasted a roundtripper to score the winning runs.

Women's Track and Field Championships in Ontario Aug. 12

MONTREAL, May 22 (CP).—The women's Canadian track and field championships will be held August 12 at Hamilton, Ont., Secretary Irene Wall of the Women's Athletic Federation of Canada announced tonight.

CANADIANS FAIL TO QUALIFY FOR U.S. GOLF OPEN

NEW YORK, May 22 (CP). — Four Canadians, bidding for qualifying places in the United States open golf tournament over the Park Country club course at Buffalo, failed today.

Joe Thompson of Hamilton, Ont. who reached the semi-finals of the United States amateur tournament last year, tied with two others for the alternate qualifying position but lost in a play-off.

The other Canadians who failed, all of Fort Erie, Ont., were Eddie Sams, Merlin Luther and Doug Laughton.

At Minneapolis, Kasmir Zabowski, Winnipeg professional, won the right to represent Minnesota in the open for the second successive year although his 36-hole score of 159 gave him seventh place. Lester Bolstad, Minneapolis, led with 149 but he and five others who bettered Zabowski's score are unable to make the trip.

At Spokane, Wash., another Canadian, Vic Ripley of Calgary failed to make the grade. Ripley, member of the Spokane Pacific Coast Hockey league club and formerly National Hockey leaguer, put together cards of 75-81 for 156, 16 strokes more than the 72-68 Ken Storey used to enter one of the two Pacific northwest qualifying spots. Marvin (Bud) Ward won the other place with 142. Both are Spokane amateurs.

Besides Ripley two other professionals, Roy Moe and Bill Mader were far out of the running with totals of 151 and 162 respectively.

Derbyshire Wins

LONDON, May 22 (CP.-Cable)—Derbyshire whipped Northamptonshire by 10 wickets in an English county cricket championship match concluded a day ahead of schedule today. Northamptonshire was dismissed for totals of 124 and 95, Derbyshire replying with 214 and six for no wickets.

Close-of-play scores in other first-class matches started on Saturday follow:

Middlesex 236 and 207; Gloucestershire 207.

Essex 209 and 110 for seven; Yorkshire 141.

Somerset 281 and 53 for three; Leicestershire 81 and 304.

Nottinghamshire 78 and 249 for five (Hardstaff 104); Kent 367 for nine, declared (Valentine 201).

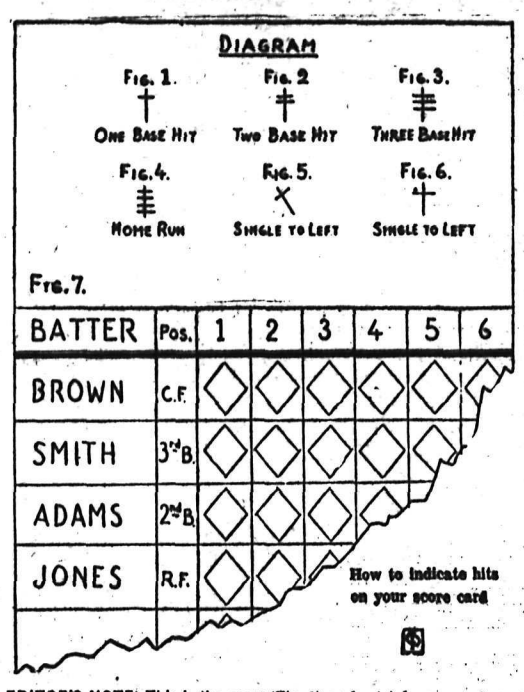
Glamorgan 94 and 134 for no wickets; Sussex 450 for six, declared (H. Parks 161, James Langridge 116).

Lancashire 363 (Oldfield 141); Warwickshire 289 for seven (26-55 115).

Hampshire 319 and 112 for five; Worcestershire 262 (Gibbins 111 not out).

West Indies 224 and 158 for nine; Surrey 215.

How to Keep Score . . .
SIMPLEST BATTING CODE DESCRIBED WITH SCORING DIRECTION BASE HITS



EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles showing how to properly score a baseball game.

By Central Press Canadian

In the first article of this series we described how most baseball experts identify the playing positions by numbering the players from 1 to 9 usually designating the pitcher as 1, the catcher as 2, and so on around the infield from first base 3, the outfielders numbering from left to right field, 7, 8 and 9.

The simplest batting sign code in general use today is incorporated in the system used by many well-known sports writers.

FOR BASE HITS

These experts indicate a one-base hit with single cross (Fig. 1). Kieran indicates the direction of the hit by slanting the cross in that direction—a single to left is marked by slanting the cross to the left (Fig. 5). A two-base hit is a double cross (Fig. 2) and a triple cross, of course represents a triple (Fig. 3). A bar with four cross-marks is a home run (Fig. 4). Some experts use dots instead of slanting lines to designate the direction of the hits (Fig. 6).

The baseball fan who takes his scoring seriously usually provides himself with a pocket-size scorebook, or he may use program scorecards provided in the ball parks.

A satisfactory score-book or card has a businesslike layout with sections especially provided for all the details in maintaining a clean-cut play-by-play record of the game (Fig. 7).

List the players on each team in their batting order as illustrated in the diagramed segment of the score-sheet. Mark down the lettered abbreviations of their playing positions as indicated under the column headed Pos.

In the next article of this series we will describe the initial steps in actual scoring, using examples.

British Amateur Golf Results

Cricket Is Rained Out After Spokane Gathers 100 Runs

Owing to inclement weather in Spokane Sunday, the cricket match between Spokane and Nelson was abandoned.

Playing under miserable conditions, Spokane were sent to bat. The bowlers on the Nelson side, owing to the slippery ball and foot conditions, could not maintain any length. Consequently the batsmen, during play, found their offerings comparatively easy, and when the game was finally called off Spokane had 100 runs on the board with seven wickets down. Fred J. Lakes was top scorer with 40 runs to his credit.

Poland Even in Davis Cup Tennis

WARSAW, May 22 (AP).—Poland evened the score against Germany at 2-2 in their second-round European zone Davis cup series today by winning one singles match. The deciding encounter was left unfinished because of darkness. It will be completed tomorrow.

Ignacy Tloczynski of Poland conquered Roderich Menzel, former Czecho-Slovakian player, 2-6, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2, 9-7. In the final match Henner Henkel of Germany won the first two sets from Adam Bawerowski, 6-4, 6-2, before darkness halted play.

Groups of Polish students jeered Menzel, Sudeten German star, who used to play for Czecho-Slovakia.

Dr. Leonard of Trail Wins 410 Gauge Title in Spokane Tourney

SPOKANE, May 22 (AP).—H. H. White of Spokane, breakin, 97 birds out of 100, won the individual championship today at the Washington state skeet shooting tournament. Charles Libby, Jr., of Spokane, was second with 96.

The women's championship was won by Mrs. E. B. Hockwalt, of Edmonds, who broke 95 out of 500, to defeat Louise Ross of Grand Coulee with 92.

Col. E. B. Hockwalt of Edmonds, won the 20 gauge championship with 48x50, followed by Dr. W. Leonard, of Trail, B. C., 47x50.

Dr. Leonard won the 410 gauge title with 44x50 followed by C. R. Morton, Yakima, 43x50.

ODDS SAME ON DERBY FAVORITE

LONDON, May 22 (CP.-Cable)—The Earl of Rosebery's Blue Peter continued to rule 75 to 20 favorite for the derby at Epsom Wednesday in tonight's callover of odds at the Victoria club.

Feature of the betting was the sudden shortening of Fox Cub's odds to 21 to 2 which made him third favorite and which was attributed by many to the magic name of his jockey, Gordon Richard, the perennial wizard of the English turf. Fox Cub was only fancied at 100 to 7 in the last callover.

Other odds: Helipolis, 13 to 1; Triguero and Admiral's Walk, 15 to 1; Dhoti, 100 to 6; Fairstone, 18 to 1; Casanova, 19 to 1; Romeo II, 27 to 2; Hastings End Buxton, 28 to 1; Experian, 35 to 1; Atout Maitre, Salford II and Wheatland, 50 to 1; Bellman, Major Brackey, Mauna Kea, Rogerstone Castle, King Legend and Fairfax, 66 to 1; Fair Chance, 80 to 1; others 100 to 1.

King and Queen Watch Winning of King's Plate by Archworth

By FOSTER BARCLAY.

WOODBINE TRACK, Toronto May 22 (CP)—C. George McCullagh's favored Archworth won the 90th running of the King's plate here this afternoon while the King and Queen looked on.

Their Majesties arrived a few minutes before the 13 King's Plate runners came out on the track. In a state carriage, the King and Queen drove around the track while the record crowd of more than 40,000 cheered.

The triumph for Mr. McCullagh, 34-year-old publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, was highly popular with the public which had made Archworth a 2-1 favorite at post time.

Sea General, owned by Harry Giddings, placed second, a full 10 lengths back on the flying Archworth and Skyrunner, from the Parkwood stable of W. S. McLaughlin was third. The time was 1:54 2-5.

King George, first monarch ever to witness a running of the event inaugurated by Queen Victoria, who presented 50 guineas to the winning owner, watched the race from a specially-built royal enclosure in front of the members' stand.

His Majesty then personally congratulated Mr. McCullagh and Jockey S. Birley in the winner's circle in the infield. Mr. McCullagh became the first owner of a King's Plate winner to receive personally the 50 guineas.

At post time for the first race, the crowd was estimated at 40,000.

Archworth, champion two-year-old of 1938 and the first McCullagh horse entered in the Plate, ran the mile and a fulong one-fifth second off the Plate record set in 1934 by Horometer.

Immediately after the winner was declared, the King and Queen walked across the track on a red carpet.

In full view of the crowd the King presented Mr. McCullagh, who wore a sack suit, with the royal added money. The King wore morning clothes and a top hat. In addition to the 50 guineas, the winning owner won the big portion of the $10,000 stake.

Archworth was bred on the Barrie, Ont., farm of W. H. Wright, gold-mining millionaire who saw his first King's Plate race years ago through a knothole in the Woodbine track fence.

The race was about 30 minutes late starting. Their Majesties arriving behind schedule from Riverdale Park where they drove past thousands of school children.

Once in the Woodbine enclosure, they drove around the track and were greeted at the entrance of the members' section by A. E. Dyment, president of the Ontario Jockey club. The band of the 48th Highlanders of Toronto played the National Anthem.

A further delay of about five minutes occurred at the post before Starter Nipper Rowe got the field away. After that it was a parade for Archworth, the McCullagh horse avoiding the early bumping and opening up a six-length lead.

Immediately after the infield presentation, Their Majesties left the park. Re-entering their motor car, they went to the lieutenant-governor's tea at the legislative buildings before concluding the day's program with a drive through the western part of the city.

Argues Posted Oil Charges

CALGARY, May 22 (CP).—Leon Plotkins, Calgary refinery operator, in cross-examining James McGrath of Toronto, Imperial Oil officials, at the McGillivray royal commission heading today charged that Mr. McGrath was "playing with the commission" regarding evidence on the posted field price for Turner Valley crude.

After H. G. Nolan, K.C., counsel for Imperial Oil and Royalite Oil companies, protested, Mr. Justice A. A. McGillivray, commission chairman, informed Mr. Plotkins that "we may make our own conclusions but it is not for you to conclude anything like that."

Witness stated he could not answer certain questions regarding Imperial's method of determining the posted field price for crude. Matters of company policy were outside his control, said Mr. McGrath.

"We invite you to justify the price," his lordship said. "There must be someone who knows why the price was posted."

In addressing Mr. Nolan, his lordship stated:

"If your company does not wish to bring some one here who will tell us just that, then we know where we stand."

The present price, posted in the field 32 miles southwest of Calgary by Imperial Oil, depends on the gravity of the crude. Forty-eight gravity crude is bought at $1.30 a barrel.

CHAMBERLAIN REFUSES TO ANSWER QUESTION SCANDINAVIAN PACTS

LONDON, May 22 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain declined to say when questioned in the house of commons today whether Great Britain would seek mutual non-aggression pacts with the Scandinavian countries.

Richards Butler, foreign undersecretary, told the house the closing of the British legation in Prague by the German government would have no effect on Britain's refusal to recognize annexation of Bohemia and Moravia by the reich.

Impressive Ceremony at Kimberley First Communion Services

KIMBERLEY, B. C.—Sunday was a very impressive day in the Sacred Heart church. At the 8:30 mass 29 children received their first holy communion in a deeply moving ceremony. Later the Sisters of Charity entertained them at breakfast. The large church was packed for both masses.

In the evening a procession was formed at the Convent and headed by crossbearers and acolytes and chief flower girl, Eleanor Boardman, 125 children marched to the church. This was one of the most impressive ceremonies ever seen in Kimberley.

The Catholic members of the local Boy Scouts, under Patrol leaders James and Riva handled the traffic. The boys were in uniform and much color was added by the various groups of girls, each group in a spring color. At the end of the procession was Miss Eva Carlgren, queen of the procession, with her attendants, Helen Bond, Mary Edmonds, Catherine McKay, Jacky Laurin, as Flower Girls; Laurie Riedel, Peter McMahon, George Severn, Albert Manerin as pages. Loraine Loraas was crown bearer and was attended by Patricia Murphy and Marie McMahon.

Father Monaghan preached a special sermon of explanation and the choir and children rendered several hymns. Eva Carlgren presented a Crown of pearls at the Shrine of the Blessed Virgin, Queen of the May, after which the children recited their act of dedication. Robert Fontaine presented the petition of the children at the shrine. The ceremony ended with the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and the procession returned to the Convent.

In the afternoon, the Knights of Columbus held an initiation into the First Degree of their Order when several local men joined their ranks. A similar initiation is planned for next month as several more applications have been received.

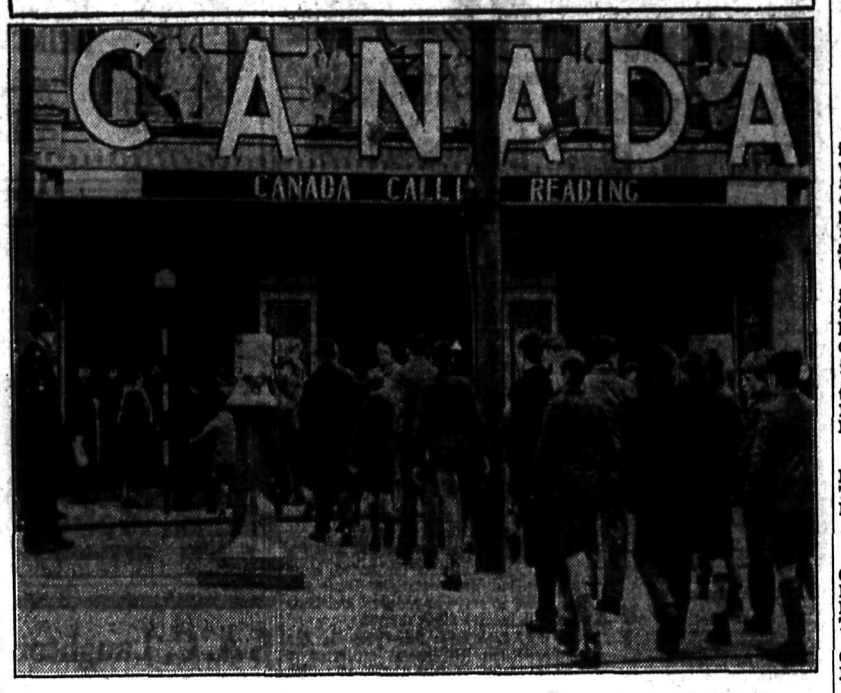
"CANADA CALLING" IN BRITAIN



Typical of scenes witnessed at cinemas in some of the principal cities in Britain these days is the above photograph, showing English schoolboys trooping into a theatre at Reading, England, to see a special screening of films provided by the Dominion Government. One of the many activities of the "Canada Calling" campaign, the films depict farm, fishing and industrial scenes which emphasize the importance of Canada as the food basket for the United Kingdom. The campaign, which covers the major population centres in Britain, is being conducted by the Dominion Government's Department of Trade and Commerce. Regarded as one of the most carefully planned efforts ever launched by a British Dominion, this trade crusade also embraces a series of localized drives and extensive newspaper advertising and marketing operations. In addition, it is supplemented by lectures to schools, women's clubs, domestic science classes and other organizations, and has enlisted the support of thousands of merchants who are giving special displays of Canadian products.

ROBSON FARMERS ACCEPT RESOLUTIONS FOR CONF.

ROBSON, B. C. — The Robson Farmers' Institute held a general meeting Tuesday evening in the Robson hall, when the vice-president, C. E. Tutt was in the chair, O. B. Ballard, president, being at the annual Nelson board of trade dinner.

C. S. Squires reported the activities of the electric light committee.

C. E. Tutt gave the report of the ways and means committee, who have raised the money to send two Robson students to Vancouver. The report showed that the sum of $43.92 had been raised.

The cemetery committee report, given by Mr. Tutt, told that a lawn mower had been bought and that a caretaker had again been hired for the summer months.

The delegate elected to attend the annual Farmers' institute convention being held in Robson May 22, is J. T. Webster, with S. Humphries as alternative.

Four resolutions dealing with the Motor Licence act, the Game Grant, Low Grade Fruit, and the working out of taxes on the road, were accepted by the institute to be presented at the conference.

LONDON (CP).—Professor John Hilton has announced the irritability of dictators is caused by the tendency of military top boots to cause tantrums and rushes of blood to the head.

B.C. Board Turns Down Applications to Retail Petroleum

VICTORIA, May 22 (CP).—The British Columbia coal and petroleum products control board has rejected 32 applications for petroleum retailing licences and two for coal retailing licences, it was announced here today.

Dr. W. A. Carrothers, board chairman, said the applications were refused in line with the commission's policy to curb any tendency to oversaturation of the distribution system.

The chairman said each application was carefully investigated, and dealt with its individual merits. The applications were for retail outlets in various parts of the province.

Prices Irregular

MONTREAL, May 22 (CP). — Prices moved over an irregular route on the stock market today.

Steel of Canada pfd. was up a point while Canadian Car pfd. yielded ½.

Asbestos gained ¼ to 22. National Steel Car and Dosco followed Canadian Car and eased fractionally.

Smelters gained ¾ while Nickel and Bulolo posted improvements. Bell Telephone moved up ½ but narrow declines came out in Montreal Power and Brazilian.

Decreases showed for Lake of the Woods and National Breweries.

INT. NICKEL HEAD SAYS WAR CHANCE 60-40

NEW YORK, May 22 (CP). — Robert C. Stanley, president of the International Nickel Company of Canada, came back to New York today after a business trip to the United Kingdom with a conviction that the chances against war in the near future are 60 to 40.

"That is the impression I gained from talks with responsible people in England, Ireland and Scotland," he said.

Interdepartmental Camp Softball Opens

KIMBERLEY, B.C. — Chapman Camp Interdepartmental Softball league got under way this week, with six teams comprising the group and a 45-game schedule drawn up. Playoffs between the leading teams will follow.

Sponsored by the Chapman Camp Community club, the softball league is under the direct leadership of Johnnie MacKay, under whose guidance the league has flourished for several years. Bill Leaman continues as secretary of the group.

Interest is as high as ever, as some 60 players participate in the sport. In addition a Chapman Camp representative team is being forced to play against outside competition. This team will be under the management of Tom Wilson, who is also manager of the Office team in the Interdepartmental league.

Other teams in the league and their managers are as follows: Pattersons' Shift (Schulli), O'Connor's Shift (Shearer), Entwistle's Shift (James), Muckers (Lemmon) and Apprentices (McKenzie).

Coalmont Miner's Death Accidental

Verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Otis Barrett, who was killed Tuesday in No. 5 mine of Coalmont Collieries, Blakeburn, stated reports reaching provincial police divisional headquarters at Nelson Monday.

Barrett died of a broken neck. It was believed he had slipped off the bumper of the front car of a "trip" of four, drawn by a horse, and that the horse failed to stop in time. The car was partly over the body when it was found, the legs doubled up.

'Peg Wheat Price Eases Slightly

WINNIPEG, May 22 (CP).—Despite firmness at Chicago, Winnipeg wheat futures prices eased slightly today. Final quotations were ½—⅝ cent lower, May at 63⅝, July 64¾—⅞ and Oct. 66.

Chicago's strength was attributed to lack of appreciable moisture in the United States winter wheat fields during the week-end, but plentiful rains in western Canada partially offset this bearish news.

Liverpool finished ¼d lower to unchanged. Chicago was up a cent and Buenos Aires unchanged.

North America's share of world wheat clearances was 6,624,000 bushels last week, 5,946,000 the preceding week and 3,254,000 in 1938.

JAPANESE YEN LOW

SHANGHAI, May 22 (AP).—The Japanese yen declined to an unprecedent low today on the local foreign exchange market, Tokyo's subsidiary notes bringing only 89 cents of the Chinese dollar.

U.S. TREASURY BONDS UP

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—U. S. treasury bonds gained on a steady demand today and Home Owners Loan 2¾s, called for refunding, gained fractionally after a minor early decline. The foreign government list was quist with few changes.

Golds Lead Active Vancouver Session

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP). — Gold prices generally were a few cents higher at the close of Vancouver stock exchange today as sales volume hit its highest mark in several weeks. Oils were quiet and transactions totalled 121,546 shares.

Dentonia Gold with a turnover of 74,000 shares finished fractionally higher at 3¾, following favorable reports from the mine. Bralorne advanced 15 cents to 11.25 and Privateer moved up 10 to 1.40. Big Missouri at 16, Hedley Mascot at 91 and Kootenay Belle at 70 each firmed a cent. Gold Belt dropped 2 to 41, Reno was off 2½ at 52 and Premier eased a cent to 1.91.

Anglo Canadian Oil was eight cents lower at 1.05 while Royal Canadian at 18½ and Okalta at 1.10 remained unchanged, Home finished at 2.15, up five cents and Calgary & Edmonton was up a cent at 2.04.

Halifax Rejects Plan Ban Exports Japan

GENEVA, May 22 (AP).—Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's delegate to the League of Nations, pleaded before its council today that all plane-manufacturing and oil-producing countries ban export of planes and fuel to Japan.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax of Great Britain rejected Koo's proposal to create a coordinating committee of powers interested in the Far East to unify action in aiding China against Japan.

Anglo-Canadian Off

CALGARY, May 22 (CP)—Anglo-Canadian dropped four points at 1.10 today but other oils on Calgary stock exchange held firm. Transfers totalled 16,805.

Royal Canadian gained one at 19.

Montreal Produce

MONTREAL, May 22 (CP).—Spot: Butter, Que. 20½. Eggs, A-large 20½. Sales 650 Que. 20½; 300 Que. 19⅝.

Butter futures: June 20¾; Nov. 22¾—⅝. Sales: One Nov. contract at 22⅜; two Nov. at 22½.

Westminster Wood Factory to Resume

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., May 22 (CP).—The International Wood Products Limited, sawmill and box factory, which has been closed for the past two years, has been purchased by European capital and operations will start about the middle of June, it was announced here today.

The plant will be operated by Alaska Pine Co., recently capitalized at $250,000 and company officials said employment will be given from 100 to 150 men.

Wall St. Firmer Due Steel Price

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP). — A more than looked for rebound in this week's steel mill operating rate imparted a little courage to the stock market today and many early losses running to a point or so were transformed into advances of as much at the close.

Douglas Aircraft was an isolated strong spot in the list, climbing about 5. Turnover was approximately 400,000 shares.

Belated support was accorded to U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Mongomery Ward, American Telephone, U .S. Rubber, Du Pont, Phillip Morris, Santa Fe and Great Northern.

Nicked for fractional losses in the Canadian group were C. P. R., Dome and International Nickel. Lake Shore managed a small gain.

May Wheat Up, New 1939 High, Chicago

CHICAGO, May 22 (AP).—Advancing as much as 1⅝ cents, May wheat sold at 81¼ cents a bushel just before the close today, the highest any future has been since June, 1938.

higher compared with Saturday, May 80½-¼, July 74⅛-¼, September 73⅝-¾; corn ⅛—⅞ lower, July 50⅜, September 51—51⅛; oats ⅛ off to ⅛ higher.

U.S. Dollar Steady

LONDON, May 22 (AP). — The United States dollar finished unchanged at $4.68⅛ to the pound in foreign exchange trading today. French francs also were unchanged at 176.75 to the pound.

FORBIDDEN PLEASURES

LONDON, (CP).—When the staff of the South African high commissioner's office has a let-up, they are generally below South Africa house, in the cool new bombproof shelter, listening to the radio.

LOUIS TRICHARDT, South Africa (CP).—The perils of mining are increased in South Africa by lions. Six of them entered the settlement here, disturbing the inhabitants in a midnight raid.

PLANS ARE NOW COMPLETE TO DRIVE A LOW-LEVEL TUNNEL TO PENETRATE THE RAINBOW MEMBER

The Canadian Geological Survey and distinguished geologists and engineers report that the Rainbow Member or the Lowhee Member, or both, of the Barkerville Gold Belt, pass through the entire length of the Company's properties for a distance of four miles. All ore mined by Cariboo Gold Quartz and Island Mountain Companies has come from these members.

Dr. Victor Dolmage, eminent consulting geologist reports in part: "The conclusion is therefore reached that the exploitation of the Proserpine Group on a large scale is fully warranted; that the risks involved are commensurate with those of any sound mining venture and are offset by the brightness of the profit expectations."

Half Hour's 'Rest' Changes Attitude of Prisoner, Trail

TRAIL, B. C., May 22—A half hour's sojourn in a cell after he had caused a scene in city police court today, altered the attitude of Michael Banner, charged with stealing $50 worth of fountain pens, 13 pairs of sox and vagrancy.

Banner pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 10 months imprisonment on the first count. He then asked permission to change his plea of "guilty" to "not guilty." Magistrate Parker Williams stated the court had accepted Banner's pleas of guilty, and that the sentence on the first count would stand.

Magistrate Williams warned Banner that he would be returned to his cell for a half hour if he did not remain quiet.

"If you don't give me a new trial I'll appeal my case before a higher court," he cried as he was being led from the stand.

At the door to the courtroom he called out: "I think this is a kangaroo court, if you ask me."

Half an hour later he stood quietly before the magistrate to hear the sentence on the fountain pen theft count, repeated. A similar sentence was imposed for the theft of the sox and 30 days on the vagrancy charge. All sentences will run concurrently.

The sentences will date from the time of his arrest on May 12.

Alex Burke, Banner's companion, was first to be sentenced. He pleaded guilty to charges of stealing the sox from White's store, and fountain pens from Trail Mercantile store and was sentenced to three months on each count.

At the time of their arrest, Banner had expressed indignation to police and maintained he and his companion were "students merely working their way through college." After Banner pleaded guilty to his three charges, and before the magistrate passed sentence, the man's police record, dating back to 1919, was introduced by Sergt. Joseph McMillen.

Magistrate Williams commented on the seriousness of many of the crimes, including housebreaking, shopbreaking, theft and selling of narcotics.

Banner pleaded that he had endeavored to go straight since his release from jail a year ago. He explained he had substituted sale of razor blades for opium.

Banner raised a storm when the magistrate passed the 10-month sentence. He charged the court was sentencing him on his record. He then declared he wished to withdraw his plea of guilty, and went on to explain his original plea was entered because he had been arrested in company with Burke and expected to receive the same treatment.

Police Seeking James Cochrane on Behalf Wife

Nelson city police are making inquiries among miners and mining operators for James Cochrane in response to inquiries being made by his wife, who is in England. He is believed to be in the Nelson or Rossland district.

The inquiry reached Robert Harshaw, acting chief of police, through W. W. Foster, chief constable of Vancouver, to whom the wife's inquiry was addressed. Chief Foster's letter stated in part:

"This department has been requested by Mrs. E. M. Cochrane of 147 Effingham Road, Harringay, London, England, to trace the whereabouts of her husband—who was last heard of at West Summerland, B.C., in 1935.

"We have communicated with the provincial police at West Summerland, who advise that Cochrane would likely be found in the vicinity of Nelson or Rossland and in all probability engaged in blacksmithing in a mining camp. . .

"We may say that Cochrane is a returned man and known to members of the Shaughnessy hospital, in this city."

Sports Planned Around District for Empire Day

Major spring holiday, Empire Day, will be celebrated throughout the district Wednesday with sports days. South Slocan's annual sports have been cancelled owing to an outbreak of scarlet fever, but as far as is known other sports days will proceed as scheduled.

At Trail a three-day affair will be featured Wednesday by crowning of a new queen, preceded by a parade to Butler park. The King's speech broadcast from Winnipeg to the Empire, will be heard over a public address system at the Trail grounds.

Similar arrangements will be made in many other district centers as a feature of the day's celebration.

Creston will hold its first May carnival, with baseball, lacrosse and a street parade as highlights.

At Ymir baseball, softball and lacrosse, children's and adult sports, crowning of a May queen and the big events of the celebration—rock drilling and log sawing—will be highlights.

At Slocan City the schools athletic meet for the Slocan valley will be held.

At Kaslo baseball, softball and lacrosse will succeed children's sports in a grand revival of one of the former foremost holidays for the cherry city. Golf will be another high light.

MORE ABOUT
GERMANY-ITALY

Von Ribbentrop and Count Ciano emphasized the sole purpose of the alliance was the preservation of peace.

Another purpose emphasized in the preamble was:

"In the midst of a world of unrest and disintegration to serve the task of rendering safe the foundations of European culture."

Count Ciano also told newspaper correspondents of the "determination (of the axis powers) to demand that the knots still throttling the life of Europe be undone."

This was taken to indicate that Poland's grip on Danzig has become a matter in which Italy as well as Germany is vitally interested.

The pact became effective at the moment of signature, its "first period" to cover 10 years and the two nations conferring with each other before its lapse with a view to extending it.

An inference from Italy's authoritative editor Virginio Gayda today to the effect there were secret undertakings brought from the German government spokesman assertions the foreign ministers had signed nothing more than was published. They said, however, the military staffs of the two powers naturally had secrets between them which they were not sharing with others.

Von Ribbentrop said in a broadcast as the ink on the treaty was hardly dry:

"If democratic war mongers attempt to create complicated pact systems to encircle Italy and Germany, we say that here we are giving our answer."

ACCLAIMED, ITALY

ROME, May 22 (AP).—Italy has acclaimed her military alliance with Germany, signed today in Berlin, as an instrument of "constructive force" for peace and as a unified plan of the two nations in event of armed conflict in Europe.

Fascist press spokesmen also indicated Premier Mussolini might welcome the signatures of "friendly powers," making the formal alliance of the Rome-Berlin axis partners a world coalition of countries that see eye to eye with Italy and Germany.

A hint of secret clauses with the inference they cloaked a unified war plan was given by Virginio Gayd, informed editor of Il Giornale D'Italia. He wrote from Berlin that German and Italian forces "will be employed with a unified direction" and added "more is not to be said."

"The undisclosed technical decisions," Gayda said of the alliance, "are not to be revealed in advance nor may it be explained how, where and when the allied Italian-German masses above all should point."

Forms Available for Application Forestry Camps

Application forms for youths seeking to enter forestry training camps this season have arrived in the district, and are available from the government employment offices or government agents. The Dominion-provincial youth training scheme will operate similarly to the past, providing three to four months employment and training in forest work for the accepted youths.

The government has invited applications from 800 youths, of whom 300 will be placed in provincial forestry training camps and 500 in national forestry camps.

Rate of pay is $1.25 per working day, less 75 cents for board, lodging and transportation. Those selected to serve as rangers' assistants will receive $45 a month.

A departure this year is the provision for special uniforms to be issued, costing $16.50, of which the applicant must pay half. The standard issue consists of a forage cap, slicker, windbreaker, sweater, tie, belt, two shirts, two pairs of trousers, two pairs of socks, boots and running shoes.

RUSSIAN ENTRY

These were said to be the three points of the new plan:

1. The three powers come to each other's aid automatically if any one of the three is attacked directly.

2. If any state guaranteed by the signatory power is attacked and asks help the three signatories give immediate aid.

3. If any signatory considers an act of aggression against a state not guaranteed as affecting its own interests there shall be tri-power consultations to decide if aid should be given and what form it should take.

ACTION WEDNESDAY?

(Havas news agency reported it learned from an impeccable source in Geneva that discrepancies between the British and Soviet views "have vanished to the point where the Soviet union's enlistment in the peace front now lacks only the final action of the London government, which will probably come by Wednesday.")

LONDON, May 22 (CP).—Some members of parliament indicated tonight they believed Prime Minister Chamberlain would be in a position to announce this week conclusion in principle of an Anglo-French-Russian pact of mutual aid and collaboration.

Poland was understood to have asked formal Anglo-French recognition of her view that the continued existence of Lithuania is vital to Polish independence — which would mean automatic going into force of the Anglo-French promises of aid in event Lithuania were attacked.

Concern lest the weekend Danzig incidents may presage abrupt German action against Poland was understood to have prompted the government's decision to push through a military arrangement with Russia this week if possible.
