Japanese Push Deeper Into Central China Along Yangtze

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30 (Tuesday) (AP)—Invading Japanese forces pushed further into Central China today both north and south of the Yangtze river. On the river itself British and United States gunboats were warned by the Japanese navy to look out for themselves. Japanese naval authorities here, asked to comment on Hankow dispatches concerning the explosion of a mine dangerously near the United States gunboat Monocacy, said they had no information on this incident but made it clear the Japanese navy was opposed to the movements of both the Monocacy and the British gunboat Cockchafer nearby. "While the campaign is going on in that region,"

Sergeant Hooker Arrives in Nelson From Cranbrook Fill Barber's Post

VICTORIA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Hon. F. M. MacPherson, British Columbia minister of public works, was en route east today from Cranbrook, B. C., to preside at the 24th annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads' association to be held at Bigwin Inn, Muskoka Lakes, Ont., September 6 to 8. The minister, president of the organization, attended the convention of the Liberal party to Kelowna and journeyed from there to his own constituency of Cranbrook. Sergeant J. W. Hooker of the Cranbrook detachment, provincial police, has been transferred to Nelson to take the post vacated by C. G. Barber, now inspector in charge of Prince Rupert division. Inspector Barber was promoted from the rank of staff-sergeant to sergeant and transferred to Prince Rupert to take the post of Inspector J. W. Service, killed a short time ago. Sergeant Hooker has been with the provincial police since 1929, when he joined the force after serving 4½ years with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Stationed first at Pitt Meadows, he was transferred in 1930 to Coquitlam, and in 1932 to Powell River. In 1934 he was transferred to Grand Forks, and the following year was promoted to the rank of corporal. Early this year he was transferred to Cranbrook, the senior officer there, Sergeant A. Fairbairn, going to Grand Forks to take charge of that detachment. Shortly after going to Cranbrook he was promoted again, this time to the rank of sergeant. Sergeant H. N. Wood, a veteran officer, has been transferred from Vancouver to Cranbrook to take Sergeant Hooker's place in charge of the Cranbrook detachment.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 29 (AP)—Shanghai, continually threatened by Chinese guerrilla bands, was invaded tonight by a band of irregulars who crossed the western border of the city. The Chinese soldiers came within 2½ miles of the international settlement's western defence lines, which British troops patrol, and set fire to a highway bridge adjacent to the International Hung Jao Golf Club. They hoisted their flag there. As Japanese troops dashed to the scene, the irregulars withdrew.

He will be followed by Arthur Dixon, deputy minister of public works, who leaves here Wednesday to attend the convention.

Monetary Policy Essential Says Alberta's Brief

EDMONTON, Aug. 29 (CP)—A monetary policy administered in the interests of the nation is essential in Canada, declared the Alberta submission on Dominion-provincial relations issued here today by Hon. Solon Low, Alberta provincial treasurer. National credit should be available for purposes national in character regardless of the boundaries of the provinces and without prejudicing the rights of the provinces to make full use of their own resources, it contended. Housing projects, unemployment and refunding of the provincial debt in an equitable way are all dependent upon the adoption of a monetary policy administered in the national interest, the brief added.

KIDNAP VICTIM'S HOME GUARDED

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 29 (AP)—The home of Irving Baker, victim of Olympia's kidnap-assault case, was guarded tonight after Prosecutor Smith Troy revealed a second note threatened harm to Baker's children unless he drops the case. Dr. Kent W. Berry, Olympia physician; James Reddick, Olympia taxi driver; William K. McAlone, former Montesano Marshal, and Robert Smith, Brady, wash, dairyman, were given until Wednesday to plead to first degree kidnaping and assault charges. Harold Schers, deputy coroner here, pleaded innocent to being an accessory by harboring Smith and McAlone his $25,000 bail was reduced to $2500 and he was released. Troy said today's note, delivered at the Baker home in the morning here tonight. "This is your last warning. Follow orders of the last note or else"

Alta. Urges New Economic Order

EDMONTON, Aug. 29 (CP)—Emphasizing the need of a living debt problem, the Alberta government's statement on Dominion-provincial relations was issued here today urging a new economic order and proposing an inter-provincial conference to discuss confederation. Recommendations to be made effective until a new social order is established and other recommendations for a new social order were contained in the brief that is being submitted to the Dominion government. The legislature at its 1938 session decided not to submit the brief to the Rowell commission on Dominion-provincial relations. Recommendations to be made effective immediately included cancellation of Alberta's debt to the Dominion for relief purposes; refunding of Alberta's public debt at not more than two per cent interest; Dominion assumption of unemployment relief costs and old age pensions and federal grants-in-aid for public health, education, mothers' allowances and highway construction and maintenance.

HORTHY HOME

BUDAPEST, Aug. 29 (AP)—Hungary's regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy, returned today from a state visit to Germany described as a strengthening link in Hungarian-German economic relations. Although Horthy and his host, Adolf Hitler, did not sign any agreement, officials in the regent's party said the two were in full accord on a plan for permanent peace in central Europe. To this end, they said Hungary probably would join Germany in demanding positive concessions from Czechoslovakia to her minorities, including 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans, and 700,000 Hungarians. An explosion which shook downtown Budapest occurred 40 minutes after Horthy's arrival. An official statement said the blast had no political significance.

HENDAYE, France, Aug. 29 (AP)—Spanish government troops were reported today to be closing in on Castuera, insurgent base 150 miles airline southwest of Madrid, and threatening to cut off 20 miles of the enemy lines. Counter-attacking against the insurgent threat to drive east for the valuable Almaden mercury mines, the militiamen struck from the north along the Villanueva de la Serena and Compañario sectors. Government dispatches said these troops broke through the left flank of the enemy and occupied numerous positions around Castuera. They also asserted the main road running east from Castuera to Cabeza del Buey, 20 miles away on the route to Almaden, had been cut, although secondary lines apparently remained intact.

Manion to Seek London Seat

OTTAWA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Unconfirmed reports in parliament tonight indicated that Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, would seek a seat in the house of commons by running in the London by-election, which probably will be held in the late fall. The other Ontario vacancy is in Waterloo South. The late Major Fred C. Betts formerly represented London, and won the 1935 election with 14,911 votes, a margin of 2283 over his Liberal opponent. Major Betts was drowned last spring while fishing in Quebec. The riding has been Conservative since 1907.

153 Plants Closed and 11 Others Expected to Follow

STALEMATE ON THE WATERFRONT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29 (AP)—On a half-dozen labor fronts, San Francisco moved closer today to a major industrial crisis. Organized warehouse employers, with 153 plants already closed, reelected a Committee for Industrial Organization peace offer and shunted their trouble-laden "hot" boxcar to the city's largest dry-goods warehouse. It closed, and 11 others were expected to follow. Twenty-seven major department stores were threatened with a clerks' walkout as American Federation of Labor unionists sought strike sanction, from the central labor council.

Extreme Fire Hazard in the District Again Brings Alarm

Another period of extreme fire hazard as hot weather continues has the forest branch on its toes throughout the Kootenay-Boundary. Although spectacular developments were lacking Monday, the increasing hazard led to intensified precautionary measures at the scenes of old smoldering outbreaks. Forest branch officials were hopeful of maintaining an excellent season's record—low loss of good timber despite a large number of fires—during the present period. Lookouts in Rossland area reported the Sunday outbreak, driven from the old fire toward the Rossland watershed, appeared to be under control late Monday. A crew of 150 men was rushed to this fire when it flared up Sunday and threatened the watershed.

COMPLAINS OF POLICE AT A C.C.F. MEETING

VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP)—Grant MacNeil, Cooperative Commonwealth Federation member of parliament for Vancouver North, has addressed a formal complaint to Hon. G. S. Wismer, attorney general of British Columbia, against the presence of two British Columbia policemen at a C. C. F. meeting he addressed at Van Anda, B. C. Van Anda is on Texada Island, about 40 miles northwest of here and a few miles from Blubber Bay, scene of a strike of Pacific Lime company employees. "I would like to know who gave orders to two provincial policemen, who have been stationed at Blubber Bay, to travel to Van Anda and take up positions at the door of our meeting. Presumably they checked over all who attended," MacNeil said in an interview here.

French Peasants Given 48 Hours to Leave Italy

NICE, France, Aug. 29 (CP-Havas)—Peasant families moved today from the Isola area on the Italian side of the French frontier. Italy served notice on French farmholders Saturday to quit the territory within 48 hours. The migration began last night and 50 families crossed into French territory, their livestock burdened with hastily-reaped harvest and their household goods. An appeal had been sent to Paris by French citizens living around Isola, in the Hasluffen valley, against the expropriation. They asked the French government to compensate them for whatever losses they might incur.

Dominion urged to provide agricultural credits at low interest rates and for long terms. Provision by Dominion of adequate monetary facilities for an extensive home building program recommended. Province urges calling of inter-provincial conference to deal with "proper basis" of confederation. Alberta government prepared to test operation of Social Credit, without interfering with other provinces. Province says $25 social dividend practicable and equally so in rest of Dominion. Early action suggested on part of each province to "establish the sovereignty of their people. . . ." Revision of entire debt structure on equitable basis, details to be settled when principle agreed upon.

BRITANNIA MEN ARE IMPROVING

VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP)—Two Vancouver hospitals reported tonight the 10 men injured in a train accident at Britannia mine early Sunday and brought here for treatment were "doing nicely." It was expected they would be confined to the institutions for a few days yet. A two-car electric train, carrying about 60 passengers, ran out of control past a locked switch near the mine and bumped into a standing locomotive. Some of the passengers jumped and suffered injuries.

Primaries Today Test Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—Democratic primary elections in South Carolina and California will measure tomorrow the effectiveness of President Roosevelt's campaign to elect New Dealers to the United States congress. In each of two sizzling contests for places in the senate, the president has made his preference clear. Without mentioning names, but unmistakably, he has asked that the Democrats of South Carolina defeat Senator Ellison D. Smith, opponent of some administration measures. And he has endorsed Senator William G. McAdoo of California for reelection. Smith, a senate veteran who holds a key position as chairman of the agriculture committee, is opposed by Governor Olin D. Johnston, who has proclaimed himself a "100 per cent" New Dealer.

Those arrested were picked up by constables when they appeared with tin cans in crowds watching the Canadian Pacific exhibition parade and refused to move on when ordered to do so by police. They were charged with obstructing police and later appeared before

Four Identify Hines as Pal of Racket King

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—A battle-scarred ex-boxer who said he admired the brawny "bully" of James J. Hines, one-time big blacksmith, testified today he saw the Tammany district leader in 1935 in the Bridgeport, Conn., hotel suite of Dutch Schultz, whose parasitic policy racket Hines is charged with having protected. The witness, Eddie Corbett, 38, a physical culture teacher, was the fifth man District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey has brought from Connecticut to point out Hines in supreme court as an acquaintance of Schultz. A marked veteran of 241 bouts, Corbett said he frequently was called to the Barnum hotel in Bridgeport to give the New York gangster overlord, who was hiding out between federal income tax trials, a massage or workout. Charles W. Hughes, former assistant manager of the Hotel Barnum, Bridgeport, identified Hines without hesitation. John Pucher, head waiter in the Pine room of the Hotel Stratfield, Bridgeport, was just as positive of his identification. So was Charles Wall, a former bellhop.

TRAIL SMOKE EATERS GET JUMP IN BOXLA PLAYOFF SEMI-FINAL AS TRIM ROSSLAND REDMEN 14-7

Last Half Drives Win Series Opener at Trail

TENSION GROWS AS PACE SPEEDS

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 29—Quelling an early Redman uprising with smashing attacks in the last half, Trail Smoke Eaters Monday night hammered Rossland for a 14-7 semi-final victory and took their first step toward a berth in the final of the West Kootenay Boxla league.

Held in check by the well-organized tribesmen in the first two cantos, the Smelter city lads broke the siege in the last half and outscored the Rosslanders 8-0. Time and again the Golden City men rallied desperately, but Trail's stonewall defence held them.

Tension grew in those last two sessions as Trail quickened its pace and as a result tempers flared. The referees were kept continually busy. Its fashion for the boys to rough it up at least once in every game of this tri-league, and Harrison and Forrest took their turn this time. The players each drew 10 minutes for the ruckus.

FAST ALL THE WAY Play was fast from the first and Trail burst into the goal column almost immediately when Merio countered. Their lead lasted for seconds only, however, as the Redmen moved in on organized attack, Scott, Saundry and McGuire each tolling the bell for one. Trail's men answered quickly after the barrage and by the period's end the count was deadlocked at 4-4.

JUVENILE REPS SHAPING UP

The juvenile rep team players are working out and Bert Jardine will be picking his team soon. Taking my pencil and paper with me one evening, I went down to the rink to choose the boys I thought good enough for a juvenile rep. I know Bert won't agree with me, but still I think it's a fair choice. In goal I pick Cookson and Barney Prestley; for defence, Vic Delupppo, Ron Newell, Everett Kuhn and Jim Arnott. Rovers would be Cecil Maloney and Harold Tapanila. Centres, Howie Breeze and Ernie Defoe. Wings would be chosen from Matheson, Milne, Eccles and Thompson. In looking them over I might give a little dope on each one:

In goal Tommy Cookson has shown vast improvement over last season and will probably be a sub for the junior Rep. As for Barney Prestley, he has been very practice, he and given more practice, he will be hard to get by. On defence Vic Delupppo is big and hits the Vic Delupppo is big and hits the opposition hard. Everett Kuhn is much like Vic, and has had considerable experience in junior company this year. Ron Newell is playing lacrosse for the first time this year, and is the rushing type of defence player, and has snared a lot of goals for the F. A. C. The fourth defenceman is Jim Arnott, and while lighter than the others, he plays a fine checking game. For rovers, red-headed Cecil Maloney is a comer and he carries the ball in a weaving stick and shifts the very well. "Tappy" Tapanila is still of midget age, but the boy is plenty smart, and has an Indian-like gift that carries him up and down the floor tirelessly. You can bet "Tappy" won't let you down in a game. Of the centres, Howie Breeze is the stick handling wizard of all local kids and is the youngest juvenile player in the league. Ernie gets his share of goals and is one of the best sports, for no matter what the outcome of the game or what poor breaks, he never complains, and is ever eager to fight to the finish. On the wings, a blond-haired Art Matheson plays a heady game when not complaining which is probably just a habit of Art's. George Milne, who is like a hard worker and takes lots of punishment. Jim Eccles is like Dunlop in stick handling and can be Defoe in goal. Walter Thompson, relied on for goals. Walter Thompson is the leading badman of the juveniles and if he could, would be very tripping habit, he would be very valuable, as he has shown good lacrosse in some games.

I understand that Elmer Gelinus will be going away soon, and so the junior squad loses a goal getter. Bud Emery, who was slated for a junior berth, was away on holidays, and did not get a card filled out, so he won't be on the rep either.

MY JUNIOR REP CHOICE

While on the rep lineups, I might as well give my choice of the players I would pick for the junior rep: In goal, Doug Blais and Al Emmott; on defence, Howie Campbell, Harold Lapointe, Dick Wallace and Bob

Here and There in Local Sport

The intercity girls softball series has come to an indefinite halt, but secretary of the Trail club very kindly published a letter in the Nelson Daily News covering the situation from their side. The reasons are varied, but it is hoped these will be overcome and the series may continue on September 11.

The interest in track and field is noticeable now that the big day is drawing near. Harold Mayo is the most industrious of them all, and "Baldy" or "Rabbit" as he is affectionately known really puts his heart into it. A regular little speed ball is Baldy, and whether it's lacrosse, hockey or track, you can bet your grandmother's last big nickel that the kid will give everything he's got and that little bit extra which is the true marking of a real athlete.

The C. B. C. boys have been out at Camp Koolaree and so they have missed a few boxia games. The F. A. C. bantams have been taking it on the chin again, being on the short short end of big scores made against them by the Bluebirds and Hornets. These two teams should produce some close games in the playoffs.

In the Midget section the Bluebirds are away out in front, and Doug Winlaw's boys sure pass the ball around. Herbie Guscott, who has been up here visiting, has collected his share of points, besides being in a flat encounter with Frankie Christian. Herb and Doug Winlaw played their first juvenile game last week, and both took considerable punishment, but they collected some points besides, which always seems reward enough for the kids.

It is too bad no individual scoring records are being kept any longer. I had been keeping players and league records till the middle of July, but since then all teams, or nearly all, have been using players other than their own, and that left things in a mixed condition. It is my belief that such records of games and players statistics is really the very foundation upon which all leagues are built. Just what the use of playing a lot of games if when it is all over, no one knows who has won or lost? The sooner local lacrosse is run in the same systematic way that the Nelson Amateur Hockey association conducts its league, then players will have to toe the mark, or their teams drop out. At present it looks like there are too many teams for the number of players.

Trail has sent word to Art Wallace, popular boxia official, to the effect they would like a midget playoff with Nelson. I think it an excellent idea, and I know the kids will be tickled pink.

AMATEUR GOLF STARTS TODAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Aiming at the highest amateur golf honor in the United States, some 850 golfers will start firing tomorrow for the 156 open places in the 170-man championship field of the United States amateur at the Oakmont Country club, Pittsburgh, starting Sept. 12.

Hospital Payroll Figures Different Than the Auditors'

VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP)—W. J. Scribbins, acting for non-professional male employees of Vancouver General hospital, today told a three-man arbitration board there were discrepancies between payroll figures submitted by General hospital directors and an audit by Riddell, Stead & Co., chartered accountants.

I can't explain these figures," Oliver Phillips, secretary of the hospital board of directors, said when questioned by Scribbins. "I didn't prepare either set of figures."

Scribbins said the hospital statement listed 87 employees and a monthly payroll of $8200 for April 1938, while the auditors' report showed 71 employees and a payroll of $5000.

Canada's Troops in "War Games"

SCHOMBERG, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP)—Completing a march of 45 miles the northland force commanded by Col. W. G. Hagerly of the Royal Canadian Horse artillery tonight bivouacked in the fields and along the roadside in the neighborhood of this picturesque village 35 miles northwest of Toronto.

Advancing southward by restricted routes from Camp Borden, the cavalry, infantry and artillery of the northland force were subjected to harassing air attacks by their southern "enemies" as Canada's permanent force troops stationed at Camp Borden engaged in manoeuvres. Four large-scale air raids punctuated the northlanders' progress.

Theoretically, some damage was done to mechanized equipment and guns, but the northlanders had the satisfaction of "downing" at least one southern plane. Credit for the make-believe victory went to the Lewis gunners of the northland army service corps.

A swift sortie against the northland advance party at Bondfield, shortly after dawn, resulted in the enemy bomber scoring a direct hit on a northland gun. A little later the southland scouts spotted the artillery of the main column rumbling over the highway between Angus and Allandale. Bombers were dispatched and for a while things looked black for the gunners.

DISTRICT NURSES IN SOUTHAMPTON USE MOTORCYCLES

Leading English Business Woman Says That Leisure Is Necessity

By MOLLIE MCGEE
Canadian Press Correspondent

LONDON (CP) — Ideas back of the mechanization of the army have spread in England and district nurses in Southampton now are equipped with light motorcycles. Roar of the visiting angels' machines can be heard far and wide and heralds the advent of healing science with more publicity than has been given in that direction for many decades.

Nurses on cycles have their troubles but they are nothing compared to those in the educational tests for nurses which a recent meeting of the Dartford District Guardians committee described as "absurd". It was reported at this meeting that five nurses returned from an examination "very disheartened" as a result of the arithmetic test.

Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, member of the committee, stepped into the breach and is to give tuition in sums to the nurses.

BUSINESS WOMAN ACTIVE

Busiest woman with a career in Britain is perhaps Miss Caroline Haslett, who besides attending two conferences in August and two in September has already attended 14 this summer.

She flew to Budapest to attend the congress of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, then to Vienna to represent the Electrical Association for Women at the World's Power conference at Vienna.

As far as business women's problems are concerned, Miss Haslett finds the greatest is for a woman building up a new line of business to find time for leisure. Sensible and direct, stolid and handsome, Miss Haslett is a striking example of the woman in business who has a broad outlook and sane point of view. She is a director of a huge electrical association.

"Leisure is very necessary," she said, "because the people who live entirely for their job tend to become unbalanced. I find greatest relaxation when I have a free evening digging in my garden. At the week-ends, whenever possible, I go to my country cottage and lead a life as different as possible from office and London social life, wearing old clothes, sun-bathing, sea-bathing and gardening."

This type of woman would have won the approval of the great Lawrence of Arabia, according to Sir Ronald Storrs, former governor of Jerusalem, who addressed the British Empire meeting at Cambridge. Sir Ronald said Lawrence was no woman-hater, but he resented women whom he thought did nothing at all but merely what he called "dressed and knew people."

A WOMAN TAXIDERMIST

Miss Winnifred Selma Mosby knows a great deal about dressing but it is of an unusual sort. As assistant curator of the new Central Library and Museum, Workshop, Miss Mosby is the only woman taxidermist in Great Britain. She has no blood-thirsty love of her art, however, but prefers animals that have died naturally or met with accidental death.

Her particular field is small animals and birds. Essential qualifications for the successful practice of taxidermy is extreme delicacy of touch, patience and an unlimited capacity for taking pains. These are qualities which Miss Mosby, young and attractive, possesses in a high degree.

Popular Girl Is One Who Is Always Interested in and Kind to Others

By JULIET SHELBY

Romantic day dreams of plumed knights in golden armor and ourselves as the most adored Princess may belong to youth and the fairy tale age, but they are always a dominating theme in the imagination of every girl.

The modern little girl likes to feel she is the most attractive girl in her own set, and hopes the boy of her dreams will love her above all others. This is natural, and girls with such imagination usually realize their dreams.

We all know certain girls who seem to dominate every group. They are fascinating and said to have a lot of personality. They do have personality but what does that mean?

What is this intangible something that makes them stand out from all their associates? These questions are asked thousands of times throughout the year and we are going to give you just a few of the attributes which are a necessary feature of a nice personality.

First be natural but refined and generous. The girl who feels abrupt rudeness is a mark of sophistication who never be popular unless she offers lavish entertainment will be shunned as disagreeable.

She never gossips and is not concerned about the faults and mistakes of others. She likes people and is not only interested in everything they do but will not hesitate to give them sincere praise.

She should be healthy but even though she is fatigued and ill she will keep it to herself. Listeners dislike to hear of illness but charming, radiant girls are never ill nor self-conscious.

Perfect features are desirable, but not so important as good manners. Even when her early training lacked the refinement and finish that stamps one as well bred, she will study and correct selfish faults. She will find there is usually a nice balance in what she gives and receives. Smiles, generous laughter

Constipated? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get it over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble! Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

Jewells This Fall

This fall, according to those in the know, will see our lovely ladies of fashion gaily bedecked in sparkling rubies, sapphires, pearls, emeralds and diamonds, much in the manner of this miss. According to the story they tell, it is Lady Mendi, British society leader, who is responsible for this fashion whim.

When she recently visited several of the high potentates and Maharajahs of India, her hosts showed her their overflowing gem vaults and sent her home with several quartets of the above-mentioned jewels. Lady Mendi had several lavish settings made for them and as a result several manufacturers asked permission to copy them.

wife begins to pity herself a husband begins to despise her (see dictionary definition of despise) and it's perfectly logical that he should. Self-pity melts down self-respect as hot water melts ice and when a wife gives expression to it by word, look or gesture she's inviting a kick which she invariably gets. That martyr manner is also a veiled accusation of the husband for his mistreatment or neglect, an accusation that he resents. He never fails to answer it with the best weapon he has; mental cruelty.

Wrong Attitude . . . Unhappy Woman Pities Herself Blames Husband

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield: My husband and I have been in the mercantile business ever since we were married, 22 years ago. We have been disappointed at having no children and have not had a happy married life. While my temper and tongue are quick, my disposition is forgiving else we wouldn't be living together as he has the habit of laying the blame on me for everything that goes wrong in home and store. A few years ago I had a serious operation and conscience-haunted he became very loving and attentive but now he is getting back in the old rut. He's on bad terms with my family, doesn't like me to see anything of them. Naturally I get lonesome for my kin and kin who live far away and at times I feel like riding off to spend the rest of my days with my family in peace. I am not physically or nervously able to endure my husband's abuse any longer.

Answer: Friends you may think these are hard words; but they are written in all sympathy and with the sincere hope of helping you. If you had a drunkard, a philanderer or a loafer on your hands you'd have something to cry out loud about. As it is you have a pretty good husband with a difficult disposition which isn't a crying matter. Admitting that he's fractious and fault-finding, you can change your attitude and your tactics and make him reasonably respectful toward you.

The proof lies in the fact that when you were ill and helpless he rose to the occasion and behaved as a loving husband should. If you would endure that act, drop your martyr mood, calm your quivering nerves, hold down that quick temper and tie the sharp tongue, in no time your husband will respond to the change in you. He might conceivably get on better terms with your family, you don't force them down your throat.

You aren't the first couple that's been disappointed in having no children. It's no excuse for folding your hands and pronouncing your life a failure. What's wrong with you adopting a child. Here's a truth that few disappointed women can grasp: When a

For that ever popular game of tennis Barbara McClees is shown wearing a new celanese rayon weave play suit and tennis costume. The weave of the material gives an unusual surface interest of broken checks.

The dress, cut on princess lines, with short sleeves, turnover collar and buttoned down the front, is worn over shorts and halter.

Miss McClees is posing during a brief rest in her game in the rolling acres of Monmouth country, Red Bank, N. J., with a back-brooch that fastens her collar is a new design—a sombrero hat brooch in transparent red catalin.

Home Training . . . Parent Education Needed to Combat Crime, He States

By DR. GARRY C. MYERS

Walter M. Germain, supervisor crime prevention division, police department of Saginaw, Mich., writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I have read with a great deal of interest your article, 'Checking Crime Up to Best,' which appeared in our paper. 'I am just about fed up with the idea that the economic situation is the chief cause of delinquency and crime, in fact I have referred to this phase of the problem in my annual report as follows: 'The contributing causes of delinquency are too numerous to mention. It should be pointed out, however, that there is a growing tendency to overstress the economic factor, most of which, in my opinion, is governed by idealistic, socialistic or communistic thinking rather than facts. . . . It is not, therefore, a job for any one agency or group, but each public agency should contribute its fullest measure of effort in cooperation with other departments of public service, in a concerted effort to curb the rising tide of delinquency.' 'Parent education is perhaps the most effective single attack on the problem of delinquency that can be made if means could be found to direct its greatest preventive value into the right channels.'

'I have enjoyed reading your column and hope you will have more to say about crime.' 'Parent education is perhaps the most effective single attack on the problem of delinquency that can be made if means could be found to direct its greatest preventive value into the right channels.'

I wrote Mr. Germain and asked for his permission to quote from his letter. Because of the outstanding service at crime prevention which he has been directing, and of the wide publicity this service has been receiving, I am sure my readers will be interested in his comments. Let me quote from his reply:

MEANT WHAT HE SAID 'I certainly meant what I said about parent education, and it will be quite all right for you to quote me if you think that will help. I concur in your opinion that 'decline in religion, growing interest in things made with hands and bought with price, and decreasing interest in things non-material or spiritual, probably comprise the leading single cause of crime in our country.' Mr. Germain says he quoted the foregoing statement in a letter to the ministerial association of his city. . . . 'It is gratifying that you will further assist in disseminating constructive information by emphasizing the seriousness of the crime problem. It is true that primary responsibility for preventing crime, which is simply a matter of building character and citizenship, belongs to the home. Crime runs the gamut of the home, church, school, police, court, correctional institution, prison, and in chronic criminality back again into the community life. So the community must coordinate its forces and resources to do in the beginning what it must do in the end.'

Pet Cures . . . Average Person Thinks He Can Diagnose Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The average person likes to think of himself as intelligent and quite able to take care of himself by his wisdom and wits. To suggest to him that many of his acts are illogical and carry potentialities for harm to himself would arouse his resentment or interest, depending upon his sense of fairness.

In dealing with the problems of health, this lack of logic oftentimes takes curious turns. It is characteristic of most people to pride themselves upon their ability to act in the capacity of a doctor or lawyer, yet readily admit their complete ignorance of engineering or aeronautics.

We may well ask why this illogical situation exists. The answer probably lies in the fact that engineering and aeronautics are man-made sciences and deal entirely in facts and figures, reason and logic, and it is no reflection upon the intelligence to admit ignorance of a purely technical matter. On the other hand, medicine is not an exact science. So much is not proved. So many forms of treatment are based upon theory rather than fact. In the not distant past it was wrapped in the deepest mystery, and has gradually evolved through a combination of observation, folklore and scientific investigation.

FOLKLORE RESPONSIBLE The folklore element is largely responsible for the present day "hang-over" of the confident belief on the part of laymen of an ability to diagnose and prescribe for many of the ailments of the body. It is a matter of family pride to know certain "sure cures" for many diseases, and to take issue with these beliefs is a distinct reflection upon the family intelligence.

Furthermore, the so-called scientific fodder constantly broadcast over the radio and in the public print relative to miraculous or "newly discovered" remedies, influences a great many people to a belief that diagnosis and treatment of human ills is a simple cut and dried affair, that for every disease there is a cure; that if the doctor is unable to relieve the patient, doubtless there is someone else who can.

It is a human trait to want to be helpful in sickness and distress. To build a bridge is distinctly the "other fellow's business," but sickness and distress bring out all the latent charity in everyone except the most depraved. It is a good trait and should be encouraged because it is a great solace to the patient.

Serial Story . . . TWO WORLDS

By MAUD MCCURDY WELCH

CHAPTER 29 Noel stared at Nick, the color rushing to her face, when he announced he was going to marry her. Nick poured himself a glass of champagne and sat looking at her through the bowl of his glass.

Finally Noel said, "That's absurd, Nick. I do not love you. I am not interested in marriage." Nick sat twirling his glass now. "I'm not a bad fellow, really," he began in his tight voice. "You'd have found that out if you'd made any effort."

"But I'm not interested," Noel repeated. "Wait a minute," Nick moved over to a wall safe, twisted the dial until it opened and came back with several velvet jewel boxes.

"Look, these are for you! You've probably never realized that Nick Luigi's a rich man," he opened two boxes, displaying a diamond and emerald bracelet and a string of perfectly matched pearls that would have made a duchess envious. Then he opened a third box containing a large very handsome diamond ring. "A Marquis," he said proudly. "Fifty thousand dollars—not a cent less."

Noel looked coldly at the jewels. They were magnificent, of course. But she was feeling like the heroine of some of the old-time melodramas in the nineties. One of those funny old songs was running idiotically through her head.

"Take back your gold—for gold can never buy me— The situation seemed both absurd and laughable. But Nick was in deadly earnest. "Look at this apartment!" he said. "It's all yours."

The big room was lovely Noel had to admit. It had a cool cathedral air, with its high vaulted ceiling, and its oval stained-glass window. Even the luxurious furnishings did not take away this effect. But to find Nick Luigi in such an apartment was the last thing in the world she would have expected.

"Your apartment is lovely, Nick," she said evenly. "And now I must go." She rose.

But Nick ignored that too. "Everybody has a right to be happy," he said. "That's why I want you." "Good night, Nick," Noel moved to the door.

"You're not going?" Nick exclaimed in a voice of surprise, as if he could not possibly believe his guest would want to leave so early.

"I certainly am going," Noel retorted. "And listen, Nick, if you have any idea that you can keep me here, you'd just better get it out of your mind at once."

"You do slap very hard—I seem to remember," Nick came back with an unusual attempt at humor. Then he added, "The door is open. Nobody is keeping you."

Noel found that was true. She opened the door, started out.

Then Nick said, "So you're not interested in what I have to say about the young doctor?"

Noel hesitated. Then she turned and faced him. "If you have anything to tell me about him, which I don't believe, you'd better get on and say it."

She didn't look closely at Nick. So she did not see the dark scowl that came to his face. But she could judge something about his mood from the grim, suddenly furious tone of his voice. "Just this. You're never going to marry him. Never—if I have to—." But he did not finish.

Noel stood there, a sudden weakness rushing over her. Nick's words had a familar sound. This was the second time someone had told her that she would never marry Julian Paige.

Then Noel straightened and looked at Nick levelly. "Listen to this, Doctor Paige isn't any more interested in me than I—I am in you. And that is just exactly—NOT AT ALL!" She stopped, drew a long breath, went on. "He has never asked her to marry him. And he hasn't the slightest intention of doing it."

"You lie almost as beautifully as you dance," Nick said grimly. "It's the truth!" With that Noel opened the door and walked to the elevator. "I was sure she knew how to operate it. Probably she'd better walk down."

Fishing, Forest Pictures Shown to Rotary Club

Terrible destruction and havoc done by forest fires, and "The Saga of the Silver Horde", showing the salmon fishing industry on British Columbia's Pacific coast, were shown on the screen before Rotary club members at their luncheon meeting in the Hume hotel Silver room Monday, by J. A. Bramham of the Canadian Forestry association. Mr. Bramham is travelling through the district showing the reels at various places. He gives the shows at 275 communities during the season.

Beautiful green forests were seen transformed into black, sinister looking masses of useless timber, and people were driven from their homes by the fire demon. In 91 out of every 100 fires, the guilty fire bug was careless man.

The cost to taxpayers for fire fighting in one fire was $800 a day, and the fire that ravaged part of Vancouver island early in the fire season this year, cost British Columbia taxpayers $5000 a day.

The salmon fishing picture showed boats, nets, hooks and other paraphernalia that is necessary to catch the silvery salmon, and traced the fishermen's catch from the time the fisherman went out, until the salmon was on its way to the cannery.

Mr. Bramham stated he "left a concrete message with you to ask your moral and financial support in conserving our forests."

English Writer Goes Through Nelson on Trans-B.C. Trek With Pack Pony

Hope-Princeton highway at the headwaters of the Similkameen river.

PONY POISONED

Leaving the Similkameen some 15 miles down, he then struck east over the high ridge by Placer or Baldy mountain into the Ashnola river. In this section he had an anxious time when his pony was poisoned, which caused an unexpected halt and heavy drain on the food supplies.

When he reached Keremeos he had half a pound of tea, half a pound of coffee and one pound of lard on which to subsist.

From Keremeos Mr. Gissing kept to the cross trails wherever possible. First, he travelled over the hills to Fairview and Oliver; then over by Baldy mountain and old Camp McKinney to Rock Creek. On past Midway and over the hills again to Grand Forks, he followed the West Kootenay Power & Light company power line in many places on his way to Rossland.

The traveller said that one of the most tiring sections of the whole trip was following the main highway from Rossland to Nelson. Two and a half days of heat, dust and gravel, and little feed by the wayside for his pony were experienced.

TO ST. MARY'S COUNTRY

From Nelson, Mr. Gissing intended continuing the trip by way of Fraser's Landing and Gray Creek; then over the high land into St. Mary's river and up to Canal Flats. At this last place he hoped to strike a trail leading into the mountains to the east that would bring him out near the head waters of the Kananaskis. He intended to follow this river to its confluence with the Bow river in Alberta. From there, a matter of 25 miles, he would reach his home near Cochrane, Alta.

To Renovate Little Cemetery Made Famous in Novel by Ralph Connor

SIRDAR, B. C.—Wild Rose lodge, No. 39 Knights of Pythias has taken into consideration the recording and renovating of the little cemetery near Goat River Crossing made famous in Ralph Connor's novel "The Doctor".

Owing to the generosity of a lady, who does not wish her name divulged no monetary assistance is sought but the cooperation of all interested is desired in securing information or data that will enable the lodge to place before the Historical Sites commission facts concerning the cemetery and those who lie there with a view to getting the commissions permission to proceed with the work of restoring. It is felt there must be many, especially among the old timers who can furnish some information and the lodge would be grateful if those having helpful knowledge would send this direct to the lodge or hand same to any of its members.

A representative from the lodge was sent to the cemetery at the first of last week to take photos and secure details so that compilation of facts can be proceeded with and placed before the Historical Sites commission.

It has been definitely established there are at least 10 graves. Seven in one row and two in another and one with a trellis fence separate from the others and presumably that of the nurse; the heroine of the novel. The trellis fence is in a bad state of repair.

Senator Favors Alaska Highway

SEATTLE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Senator James Hamilton Lewis came back to Seattle yesterday with this observation:

"The Alaska highway would be a vital link in national defence in the event of a war with Asiatic powers."

The Illinois statesman, who twice represented Washington state in congress at the turn of the century, is a strong supporter of construction of the Seattle-Alaska highway.

He said he believed that the time is coming when the Orientals, Chinese or Japanese, will join with Russia in demanding that the United States abrogate its present exclusion policy.

He regards war with an Asiatic power not only possible but inevitable.

100 MILE-WIDE RIGHT-OF-WAY?

Just a day before the Liberal convention at Kelowna was passing a resolution endorsing the proposal for the Alaska highway, the Seattle Times had a little editorial naming some of the terms some Americans in authority believe Uncle Sam should exact before investing any money on the British Columbia section.

While the object of the Times was to discredit the eastern statesman that was the subject of its reference, it is interesting to know that a member of the United States senate contends that Uncle Sam should be given a 100-mile-wide right-of-way as an "ante" in the deal. This belt of territory would of course come from British Columbia, if British Columbia were to be the beneficiary of the road project.

With this explanation, we may quote the Times reference, which is in the main home politics, with the Alaska highway only incidental:

"Senator Reynolds of North Carolina must have seen a lot on his brief tour of Alaska, including the walrus that tried to bite him, but remarks upon his return do not indicate that he learned much. He still thinks we should have full title to a strip through Canada, 100 or so miles in width, before we start to build the Alaska-Yukon highway, and now it's his opinion that we should somehow take Wrangell Island away from Soviet Russia, as well as Newfoundland and Nova Scotia from Britain. The senator also says Alaska has agricultural acreage to support 12,000,000 persons. No doubt about the acreage; but 12,000,000 more under subsidy by Secretary Wallace not to raise crops might not be much of an asset to Alaska or the nation."

TORNADOES

A tornado has just visited Thunder Bay and the lake-head country, for about the first time in history, and the Fort William Times-Journal seizes the occasion to comment on the phenomenon, as follows:

Tornadoes, such as that which swept over a section of this district on Monday night, are extremely rare in his wooded and hilly country, so much so that it has been asserted that Thunder Bay area is absolutely free from this type of storm. This opinion must be revised, in the light of Monday's storm, but so infrequent is such a tornado here that none of the oldest inhabitants recalls a similar experience.

It is probably true that the climate in this portion of Canada is not favorable to the development of these twisting storms, which seem to breed from hot sultry weather, combined with great humidity. As one goes south into the United States, they become far more frequent, a storm-celler being, in certain sections, a regular part of the equipment of a home, where it may be necessary to have a place of refuge handy, at any moment during the heat of the summer. Tornadoes are not uncommon in the prairie provinces, where records show that many have occurred, some, like that which struck Regina some 25 years ago, working great damage when they passed through cities and built-up areas.

Given the right meteorological conditions, a tornado may occur anywhere, being merely a vastly magnified whirlwind, such as may be seen on almost any hot day in the form of "dust-devils," the little whirling wisps of dust formed by the vortical movement of the wind. Increase this whirling motion a thousand-fold and set the whirlwind travelling about thirty miles an hour across the country, gathering impetus on its way, and the stage is set for a destructive tornado.

It is to its revolving motion that the tornado owes its great destructiveness. In the centre of the vortex the air pressure is greatly reduced and the difference between the normal air pressure and that at the heart of the storm is often as great as 500 pounds to the square foot. This difference accounts for the curious facts that buildings destroyed by a tornado are not blown down, as would be the case in a straight windstorm, but explode outwards, owing to the pressure of the air inside them. At the same time, it may be that this outward explosion accounts for many of the almost miraculous escapes from death, since the materials of the building are blown from over those inside it, and not piled on top of them, as they would be in a straight collapse. When it is considered that the air at the heart of a tornado is revolving with the speed of a rifle bullet, the destructive power of the tornado can well be realized.

Some strange stories are told of tornadoes. One of them, just north of Brandon, Man., hit a threshing outfit, and stripped the engine of everything, leaving the bare boiler on the ground, while the separator apparently vanished into thin air, fragments being scattered for miles. As a contrast, it is said that a tornado in the southern states struck a farm house and wrecked it, carrying away a baby in its cradle and leaving it, unhurt and still in the cradle, on the ground a mile away. It was said that the big Regina tornado caused a house in the city to explode, in which a woman was taking a bath, and deposited bath and lady, unhurt, in the street, safe, but in an embarrassing position.

While we may no longer boast of complete immunity from tornadoes, the rarity of their occurrence in this district is reassuring, and the fact that the path of destruction is usually only from 100 to 300 yards in width should serve to allay fears of them. The chances of being in the path of such a twister are very slight.

Clothes do not make the man, but the padding helps.

In Nelson By-Paths

Not long ago the remark was made in this column that young birds, even though well fledged and perfectly able to fly and take care of themselves, will usually let the old folks feed them as long as they are willing to do so.

A good illustration of this came to light a couple of mornings ago, on Baker street, when some kindly shopkeeper, on opening up in the morning, put out on the pavement about a cupful of what looked like some coarse cream-colored meal, or possibly finely cracked grain, or bread crumbs, spread in a belt about a yard long, for the pigeons. The first point of interest was that three house sparrows were darting in and out among the pigeons at one end of the mound and getting what they wanted without any interference from the good natured giants, who quessed all over an area several yards while dipping into the feast of cereal from time to time.

More sparrows, observing what was going on, dropped down from surrounding perches, to the auto fender, and the pavement, and by short approaches eventually joined the group, till there were 11 of our "weaver finches" snatching peckfuls of food as there was opportunity, while 21 busy pigeons appeared unaware of their existence.

RAN TO ITS MAMMY

One of the first-comers, however, after feeding avidly at the end of the creamy heap furthest from the pigeon flock, retired when a pigeon appeared near it, and disclosed itself as a young bird by "running to its mammy," who was further out near the car track. While the on-croachment of the pigeon was only momentary, and there was a clear field again for the young sparrow, it fluffed itself out, half opened its wings, and hopped along behind its parent, chirping and tilting back its open bill for the morsels of food the old bird was picking up from the pavement. I was glad to see that, up to the time the birds someone came along and the birds took flight, the lazy youngster received no parental indulgence.

This maneuver of fluffing out, half opening the wings, and sitting back with open bill, will always identify the young bird that is asking for food.

Young robins will do it, and will pursue their parents across the lawn, hoping for a worm or a cherry, though the cherries may be under their feet, and their parents may be drawing worms out of the grass, right and left.

Young bluebirds will pester their parents, and will hop from log to log around the city dump, asking for insects, though the grass stalks around them may be loaded with winged food.

ELECTRICAL SWALLOW

One July day this summer I was walking up from Lakeside park along the railroad track, and was making excursions to the overhanging bank wherever there were trees, keeping an eye out for redstarts and cedar waxwings. At one point, looking down the sloping bank, I observed a piece of woven wire fencing that was projecting out of the water's edge, and on one strand of it, side by side, three swallows.

Suddenly the three birds, with one consent, half opened their wings and started to tremble, and the explanation appeared as a parent swallow in passing hovered a moment, and dropped insect food into one of the three open bills.

Other swallows showed up, and perched around the three youngsters, and on surrounding sprays of small saplings, but the youngsters made not a motion, but instantly watched the air in front of them. While other swallows were darting around, the trio never made a mistake, but the instant one of the parents swept by, the three went into their trembling act on the moment, as if they were automata animated by a current of electricity, and always the parent turned and came in to them.

After watching this little show for some time, I became ambitious to get nearer, but the instant it became apparent I had designs on the bank, all the swallows took flight, and the youngsters spread themselves through some bushes overhanging the water. No doubt in another minute the parents were visiting them in rotation.

FULLY RUDDERED
A couple of weeks ago I was going down the track, and just past Cedar street saw a robin carrying a beakful of worms toward the cottonwood bush. Interested in the lateness of the brood, it being August 13, I investigated. Instead of a nest, however, I found a young robin, that had no difficulty in flying away from me. When a young robin's tail is grown, giving it a perfect steering apparatus, there is nothing that it can't do in the way of flight, and it could be entirely self-sustaining if thrown on its own resources.

Probably the bird parents work harder just after their young ones have left the nest than at any other time, for they have to keep track of the babies, who may be spread out over a block or more, feed them individually and protect and train them. Probably for the first few days, while the young birds fly on impulse, without steering, and seek only to hide, they tend to spread widely, but no doubt after a time they do the following, and keep close tab on their meal tickets.

QUESTIONS
ANSWERS

L.E.S. Trail—If a lady is sitting down when a gentleman is introduced to her should she stand up?
When a man is introduced to a woman she remains seated if she prefers to do so. Some women regard it as more cordial to rise under these circumstances. If the man who is introduced is elderly, a young woman always rises when he is presented.

CURIOUS, Gray Creek—How many rooms are there in the Vatican at Rome?
The Vatican is said to have 1100 rooms.

D.V.H. Nelson—Has there ever been a time when water did not flow over Niagara Falls?
The winter of 1847-48 was so extraordinarily severe that heavy ice formed in Lake Erie. When the ice broke up towards the end of March the winds swept the ice into the entrance of the Niagara River at Buffalo, where it jammed in a solid mass, completely choking the outlet of Lake Erie, with the result that on March 29, 1848, the falls of Niagara were practically dry.

A.J. Salmó—I have been told that Mexico exports flies. Is this true and if so, what for?
The flies exported from Mexico are used for bird food. They are dried as a rule.

JACKIE, Fairview—Can you explain why foam on the lake looks white?
This is due to its being composed of tiny bubbles which reflect the light from their surfaces. When white light, such as sunlight shines upon them, they therefore naturally appear white.

G.F. Rossland—Which is the older religion, Christianity or Buddhism?
There are so many points of resemblance between Buddhism and Christianity that many have believed that Buddhism was an attempt to copy that religion. Most Oriental scholars agree, however, that it arose in the north of Hindustan between 500 and 600 years before Christ.

TESTING THEM IN SPAIN
In Spain there is at least a prospect of peace, however much it is denied. Pray God peace comes. Just as we here strive to keep war far away, we should do all that is in our power to help stricken Spain to end her war. If Mr. Chamberlain can confer that gift on Europe he will rival Pitt, the greatest of prime ministers. As for the Spanish people by this time both sides know that it's a bit too much that their country should be made the testing ground for every weapon of war and instrument of devilry invented in Italy, made in Germany or developed in Russia. Shepard Barclay Tells How to Bid and Play

SUNCHES VS. SCIENCE
SOMETIMES a player with a little knowledge of probabilities in distributions will succeed with a course in which the odds are more against him than they would be under some other procedure. Ignorance leads him to success. On other occasions a keen student consciously chooses the less likely path because he has a hunch—women call it intuition—that science would not pan out at that particular time. Some of those achievements are little short of uncanny.

This deal arose in a rubber game and the South player opened with 1-Spade. Two-No Trumps was North's response, South called 3-Spades, North 4-Spades, South 4-No Trumps, North 5-No Trumps and South 7-Spades.

The lead of the diamond Q was taken in dummy with the A and the spades Q and K cashed. It immediately became apparent to declarer that if hearts were not divided three-three, his contract was in danger. He dared not draw dummy's last trump without feeling out the situation. He daringly led out three rounds of hearts and ruffed the fourth. He was extremely lucky to find the holder of the four hearts also the possessor of the outstanding trump. The chances for success in his play were very limited, but he figured that this might work for him better than an even break of hearts.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

G.F. Rossland—Which is the older religion, Christianity or Buddhism?
There are so many points of resemblance between Buddhism and Christianity that many have believed that Buddhism was an attempt to copy that religion. Most Oriental scholars agree, however, that it arose in the north of Hindustan between 500 and 600 years before Christ.

TESTING THEM IN SPAIN
In Spain there is at least a prospect of peace, however much it is denied. Pray God peace comes. Just as we here strive to keep war far away, we should do all that is in our power to help stricken Spain to end her war. If Mr. Chamberlain can confer that gift on Europe he will rival Pitt, the greatest of prime ministers. As for the Spanish people by this time both sides know that it's a bit too much that their country should be made the testing ground for every weapon of war and instrument of devilry invented in Italy, made in Germany or developed in Russia. ## AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor of The Daily News:
Sir—Just what does The Nelson Daily News mean to us in our daily lives? Its value was forcibly impressed upon me when on a recent morning the paper was not in its usual place on the highway. Probably some early passerby had annexed it. This was disappointing indeed, especially as my family and self were anxious to see the result of the test match.
It is my usual custom to make some tea first thing and have a pleasant half-hour reading the paper, my family digesting it later in the day. This day we were without the world and local news, which opens up conversation and discussion. In a way our day was spoiled. Something important was lacking in our usual routine.

Until something like this happens we perhaps fail to appreciate what a great asset The Nelson Daily News is in our daily lives.

Gumption and Knee Action

The Land Problem in Germany

Is Nazi foreign policy still aiming at the conquest of land for peasant settlement, and if so, where? There are one or two points worth noting in this connection. Firstly, Hitler's economic ideas at the time when "Mein Kampf" was written were comparatively unformed. Secondly, practical experience has demonstrated the difficulty of finding enough suitable settlers even for schemes within the German boundaries. And thirdly, Soviet Russia, which Hitler expected to break up, has become a powerful nation constituting in the eyes of Germans a serious threat to their security. Here again it is possible to distinguish the underlying idea. Hitler advocates the conquest of land as opposed to trade expansion or grandiose imperialistic advetures. But since—the conquest of land is impracticable, at any rate at present, Germany should aim at the next best thing—an economic system whose principal factors are within the sphere of German economic influence and as far as possible political influence as well.—Contemporary Review.

The work of these men in foreign lands should be known to All Canada

They create business and jobs for Canadians

CANADA'S export trade is big business. Last year it amounted to more than a billion dollars—4 million dollars a day. It is estimated that more than half of Canada's population is dependent upon export trade for a living.

54 Foreign trade specialists

The maintenance of export trade is so vital to Canada that the Dominion Government, through the Department of Trade and Commerce, keeps 54 Trade Commissioners and Assistant Trade Commissioners in other countries. These men were all trained for this work. They are foreign trade specialists. They know what Canada grows and manufactures. And they are constantly studying foreign markets to find new outlets for Canadian products and to report changes in business conditions that may affect the sale of already established lines of Canadian merchandise.

During the last fiscal year these Trade Commissioners furnished many thousands of reports to Canadian firms outlining prospects for the sale of Canadian products abroad. They assisted directly in the establishment of 762 agencies to represent Canadian manufacturers. They were influential in assisting exporters to secure more than $22,000,000 of new business. They helped smooth out customs and exchange difficulties, and assisted in cementing friendly relations between Canadian exporters and importers in other countries.

The more products sold abroad the more work for those at home

The work these Trade Commissioners do cannot be measured by any single year's accomplishments. The results are cumulative. Small initial orders they help Canadian exporters to secure one year frequently grow into larger and larger orders. Manufacturers, working men, farmers, practically everyone in Canada benefits from the work done by these trade representatives of Canada in other lands. The more products sold abroad, the more work for those producing them on the farms, in the forests, on the seas, in the mines and in the factories.

How you can help

We, at home, can help the Trade Commissioners by growing and manufacturing products of such quality that they will bring prestige to the name of Canada and thus make it easier to introduce new products and widen the sale of older Canadian products in the markets of the world.

BOB FITZSIMMONS' RECORD

Jack John writes from Kimberley to challenge a recent report that Henry Armstrong is the first boxer to hold three titles at once. Here is Jack's letter:

"On reading the result of the Armstrong-Ambers fight in your valuable paper last week, I noticed where it said that Armstrong was the first man to hold three boxing championships at one time. Perhaps he is the first colored man, or the first American, but if you will look up the record of Bob Fitzsimmons, I think you will find that he held the middleweight, the light heavyweight, and the heavyweight belts, all at the same time which naturally would make him the first man.

Probably lots of other papers are in error too, especially on the other side of the line, I guess."

FROM THE RECORDS

The record books show Robert L. Fitzsimmons won an amateur tournament in Timara, New Zealand, in 1880. After turning professional he won the New Zealand middleweight championship and held it until 1890, when he lost it to Jim Hall.

Shortly afterward he went to the United States where he won the world's middleweight championship from Jack Dempsey (The Nonpareil) in 1891. Six years later he won the heavyweight title by knocking out James J. Corbett in 14 rounds. He never was defeated for the middleweight title, but lost the heavyweight to James J. Jeffries in 11 rounds in 1899 on his first defence of it.

In 1903 he outscored George Gardner in a 15-round bout at San Francisco for the light-heavyweight title.

Although he held three titles, he did not hold three at one time.

GEORGE LOTT ADVISES TENNIS STARS AVOID AMATEUR RACKET

Don't Let It Take Life; He Was Chiseller

Frank admission that he was probably the leading chiseller of his time in amateur tennis was made today by George Lott, for many years a ranking star, in an article in Collier's in which he warns the present-day crop of top-flight players to avoid the pitfalls that swelled the ranks of "tennis bums."

Lott relates how he once heard Dwight Davis, donor of the Davis cup say:

DAVIS WAS DOUBTFUL

"Tennis has given me a great deal of enjoyment but I sometimes wonder if the Davis Cup was a good thing. It has become too big. It requires too much time of young fellows who ought to be thinking of the serious problems of life. I wonder if it has been an asset or a detriment to sport."

"When the donor of the cup raised the question as to whether the Davis cup had overreached its original purpose," Lott comments, "America held the trophy and seemed destined to do so for many years to come. Tilden was in his heyday. Everything was booming. Money flowed like water. It did not seem important in those pre-depression days whether a few young men neglected opportunities to work out their economic independence."

"I happened at that time to be on the fringe of big-time competition. I was determined to become a Davis cup player, to ensnare myself to a game that would leave me beached when my playing days were over. I didn't have sense enough to digest Dwight Davis' note of warning that there is danger in making tennis the main business of life."

SOMETHING "ON THE SIDE"

"In my early years in the game, my father contributed $1500 to $2000 a year to keep me going in tennis. Then I discovered how to apply a bit of pressure that would produce 'expenses.' I realized a person would never get rich as a tennis amateur but also discovered methods to make both ends meet, and how to obtain a little on the side."

Lott discusses the efforts to U. S. L. T. A. to correct abuses that have made the public so suspicious of the word "amateur," and adds:

"If a tournament wants a headline or badly enough it will resort to undercover methods and pay him in such a manner that the transaction will not appear in his expense account. Such lack of cooperation with the national body breeds a spirit of contempt on the part of the players to all restrictive measures."

Discussing the present-day situation in the tennis world, Lott writes: "The burning question of the hour is not whether Don Budge will turn professional, but when. He is a close friend of Vines, and Ellsworth has undoubtedly enlightened him concerning the profit to be made from a tour with him. Then again, Budge's parents are exerting pressure on him to turn his efforts to cash. There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that another 'match of the century' will be held the coming winter, provided Budge maintains his supremacy over the amateurs.

BUDGE'S CHANCE

"Certainly my advice to Budge would be to turn pro at the conclusion of this year's play. He can establish himself for life financially and assure himself a pleasant future. On the other hand, if he continues to play on and on, there will inevitably come a time when someone will pop up to beat him and he will be left high and dry, with nothing but a few memories. And believe me, they are very difficult to live on."

"Many people who read this will say that I am a fine one to be telling these stories out of school. They will say that I got mine and now am making it hard for the present crop to get theirs."

"I was probably the leading chiseller of my time in the tennis racket. That I admit. My purpose in telling this story is to warn the younger generation of tennis potentials. I know the characteristics such a life will develop in these boys. They'll be very satisfied with themselves at the time of their tennis life, but when they are finished with the game as headlines all over the lot. Out of the coming hopefuls only one of many thousands can hope to be as successful as a Perry or a Vines."

SHOULD BE PASTIME ONLY

"Why not treat the game as it was originally intended? It doesn't deserve the best years of your life. Play a year or two of tournament tennis, put it down to experience, develop contacts that may help you establish yourself in the business world, and play tennis during vacation but think at all times of your future."

Committee Arranges Final Details Program

ROTARIANS TO SEE DANCERS, SPORTS

Final details for the Highland games at Nelson Labor Day, a stand-out program, were arranged by the committee of the Clan McLeary and Kootenay Kiltie band meeting at the Hume Monday night. Alderman A. G. Ritchie, chairman, presided.

Dancers from Trail, Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver, and track and field leaders of Trail, Nelson, Creston district and Calgary are scheduled to provide a day filled to the brim with action.

New York Giants' Pennant Hopes

Smiling from behind a whisker or two is Carl Hubbell, ace of the New York Giants' pitching staff, seen resting in the hospital in Memphis, where Dr. Spencer, fixer of ailing pitching arms, removed a chipped bone from the Meat Ticket's leathery left arm, the arm that has bagged over 200 victories for the Giants in the past 10 years. The operation, it is hoped, will enable the master of the screwball to regain his hurling form, but he is not expected to play again this year. If you look closely at the picture you can almost see the National league pennant fluttering at a Pittsburgh or Cincinnati or Chicago masthead.

Carrying Australia's Hopes

On these two men, Adrian Quist, left, and Jack Brown, lie Australia's hopes of taking the Davis cup "down under" for the first time since 1918. A durable pair, they have been taking care of both the singles and doubles assignments for their country in the international competition and will clash with the American team in the challenge round. As a doubles team they have not met defeat for two years and are out to take the United States doubles crown for which they are now playing and in which they are expected to meet the ace American team of Don Budge and Gene Mako in the final.

Gardiner Calls B. C. a "Land Flowing With Milk and Honey" As He Opens Coast Exhibition

VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP)—Vancouver's 29th Canada Pacific Exhibition was opened today with a parade of bands, floats and navy police detachments through main streets and an official ceremony at Hastings park.

"Thousands of children and adults lined the parade route to hear the 16 bands and watch the 2½-mile procession which included detachments from two Canadian destroyers now in port, city and British Columbia police, the Legion of Frontiersmen, Sea Cadets and Sea Scouts, Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer reserve and other organizations.

Preceding the 136 floats were official cars carrying Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, who spoke at the official opening. Mayor George Miller of Vancouver and Exhibition Association officials.

An optimistic picture of Vancouver's future as the dominion's chief outlet for exports of the area between here and Winnipeg was painted by Mr. Gardiner in his opening address.

"If there is any part of Canada which should become self-sufficient, it is British Columbia," he said. "Here you produce all the semi-tropical and temperate zone fruits and vegetables and all the cereals. Livestock thrives upon your hillsides and in your valleys.

"It may be said of British Columbia that everything which a person needs to eat may be produced in abundance within its bounds. It is a land flowing with milk and honey.

"Lumber, paper, minerals and all the materials necessary to house mankind are to be found in abundance within your boundaries," he said. "Waterfalls and fuel produce power in abundance with which to process the unlimited resources of the area.

"If I might be pardoned a personal suggestion, it would be that you set yourself to wield a wider influence in the future than you have in the past.

GREAT MINERAL WEALTH

"Between Vancouver and Winnipeg to be found three-fifths of all the farm lands of Canada. Between these two cities could be produced as great mineral wealth as from all the rest of Canada. Between them could be produced annually as great wealth from the fisheries and forests as from all the rest of Canada.

"The ports on the Pacific, and particularly Vancouver, are the natural outlet through which the wealth of the area should find its way to the markets of the world. Vancouver, through its exhibition, could do more to link the Pacific coast with the productive prairie areas."

Dog Is Hero in Warning of Fire

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Aug. 29 (CP)—Forestry officials here are thinking of buying a lot of juicy bones for a dog owned by W. Atkins, who lives near Cedarside in the Valemont district 180 miles north of here.

W. E. Noble, forest ranger at Birch Island, tells why in a report to Kamloops. During the night, after a heavy electrical storm, the animal aroused the men in camp by excited barking. It ran to the camp door, then into the woods. Thinking it was after a bear, two of the men followed with rifles. The dog lead them on until they heard a crackling in the brush. Lightning had started a fire and three men worked all night to get it under control.

B. C.'s "Mystery Falls" Are Visited

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C., Aug. 29 (CP)—British Columbia's "mystery falls," of the Atkarako river district in the Bella Coola area west of here, where the waters of Turner lake drop approximately 830 feet, were reached recently by a party of three Americans and a Canadian.

The party was led by T. A. Walker of Tweedsmuir Lodge. The others were Anne Seidelhuber and Louise Van Patten, Seattle newspaperwomen, and H. P. Zuidema, Detroit newspaperman. They saw two streams, divided by a small island, shooting over a great precipice into a gorge whose bottom could not be seen from the top of the cliff.

Walker intends soon to complete blazing a trail to the falls and make them accessible to visitors to the Atkarako district.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE AT ROBSON ASK ROAD WORK

ROBSON, B.C.—Robson Farmers' Institute met August 25 when the deplorable condition of the Robson road was discussed. The members felt that this piece of road had received less attention than was its due. The chairman of the roads committee stated that requests for the grader had been ignored and on one occasion a letter had not even received the courtesy of a reply.

Many of the residents are desirous of having some road work since the apple season is now coming on and the loss due to bruising from moving apples over a poor road is serious.

After some discussion on the subject it was decided to wire the local member as follows: "Apples beginning to move road in deplorable condition meeting requests immediate action." Signed, Robson Farmers' Institute.

Widest Losses In Five Months Recorded on Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (CP).—Stocks recorded their widest declines in five months today on the Toronto exchange and selling was fairly active through the first four hours of trading. Indices took losses of four points to five.

At early afternoon losses of two to five points were scattered through the list. These were modified a little in spots. The war scare in Europe appeared to be the chief factor in ushering in the decline but the drop of such war stocks as Nickel, Noranda, Smelters and the steels left the situation a bit confused and suggested sentiment favored the selling side regardless of the possibilities of war. Noranda posted a loss of 5 1/2 which was reduced later to about 4 points. The close was down 2 to 3 points for International Nickel, Hudson Bay and Smelters.

Waite-Amulet was sold in volume for a decline of 30. Yenters dropped about 40 and Bend Oreille, Sheritt, Sudbury Basin and Falconbridge weakened.

Outstanding weak spots in the golds were Macleod-Cockhutt, off 50, O'Brien, down 85, and Macassa, down 40. Recessions of 10 to 20 showed for Little Long Lac, Teek-Hughes, Wright-Hargreaves, Pamour, Pickle Crow, Hard Rock, Preston, Uchi, Kerr-Addison and others.

Decline of a point or more for McIntyre was the main loss in the senior gold group.

National Steel Car dropped about 4 and losses of 1 to 3 appeared for the Canadian Car issues, Steel of Canada, Dominion Bridge and Dominion Steel. Abitibi pfd. weakened four points or more. Walkers common 1 1/4 and Distillers-Seagrams nearly a point. Canada Packers, off 1 1/2, was the weakest of the foods.

Recessions in the western oil group were narrow. Calgary-Edmonton eased off 12 cents. Okalta dropped 5 and Anglo-Canadian about 8 cents. Royaltis declined 4 points on a broken lot sale.

Wheat Futures Down at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29 (CP).—Winnipeg wheat futures, taking leadership from Chicago, averaged about a cent lower during most of today's session. At the final bell prices were 1 1/4-1 1/2 cents lower. October 64 1/2, November 64, December 63 1/2 and May 67 1/2 cents.

Early gains of 1/2 cent were short-lived as scattered support from exporters and through intermarket operations proved insufficient to cope with light selling.

Meanwhile deliveries of new-crop to prairie points Saturday reached 4,247,000 bushels, highest deliveries for any day since harvesting began. Deliveries a year ago were 2,091,000 bushels.

Canadian export sales were small but a fair demand developed in the cash wheat market for Nos. 1 and 2 Northern with 1/2 cent improvement in spreads reported. Lower grades of Red Springs and Durums were neglected.

Liverpool advanced due to unsettled political situation in Europe and higher North American markets Saturday but full gains were not maintained. The close was 1/4-1/2 higher. Buenos Aires eased 1/4 cent at noon and Chicago was off about a cent.

World wheat shipments last week totalled 12,414,000 bushels, almost 1,000,000 bushels higher than the previous week and more than 4,500,000 bushels above shipments of a year ago. Stocks afloat increased about 1,000,000 bushels to 40,250,000. Coarse grains dealings were chiefly in barley with exporters covering earlier export sales. Oats, flax and rye showed little change.

Tension in Europe Is Factor in Worst Tumble Since June, N. York

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP).—The stock market today suffered an attack of war shivers, among other things, and leading issues broke 1 to more than 5 points in one of the worst tumbles since the beginning of the mid-year upswing. Be-lated buying support enabled some shares to close moderately up from the lows.

The list lived to around its bottom levels in the forenoon as advances from Europe stressed the growing tension over the German-Czech controversy with troop movements on virtually all borders exemplifying the chances of an explosion that might draw Great Britain and other world powers in.

At the same time, brokers advanced the guess that despite the cloudier news from overseas, the market may have been waiting for some excuse to establish the "correction" which many thought was overdue as a result of the lengthy upward ride which got under way last week.

Business news, on the whole, continued to present favorable aspects—there were a few exceptions—but trading contingents were a trifle discouraged, apparently because of the futile efforts of the market to penetrate the year's average high after getting within touching distance of this mark a number of times.

In the morning upset the ticker tape fell behind for a brief interval. Come-back attempts brought another slow-down. Transfers ap-proximated 1,300,000 shares.

A jump in this week's steel mill operations of 1.2 points to 44 per cent of capacity. A new peak 5 1/2 last November and the third consecutive weekly upturn, provided a crumb of comfort for recovery contingents, but steel stocks failed to respond to any great extent.

Under heavy pressure from international political tension the tone of the bond market weakened and secondary rails, dropping in many instances 1 to more than 4 points, lost most of the ground gained last week.

Selected industrials, resistant for a time, towards the last hour gave way for losses of a point or more. Studebaker 6s dropped more than 3 points. Utilities also were easy. Utilities Power & Light 4s dipped fractionally.

The foreign dollar list gave ground and active German issues lost substantial fractions. The government 5 1/2s were down nearly a point and the 7s down about 1/2.

U. S. treasuries also were easy with few gains showing and declines ranging up to 5-32 fairly common.

New York Central 5s dropped more than 4 points. Rails losers of 3 points or more included: Southern Pacific 5 1/2s '88, the 4 1/2s '89, and the Colateral 4s; Delaware and Hudson refunding 4s; and Southern Railway 6 1/2s.

Small Union 3 1/2s and American Telephone 3 1/2s '86 dropped fractionally.

Chicago Wheat Prices Are Down

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP).—Wheat prices backed down more than a cent a bushel today under the pressure of profit taking and stop loss selling.

Weakness in securities influenced selling here. Increased European political tension, credited with being an important factor in the stock market, fell flat in the wheat pit. Normally war talk is an influence for high grain prices.

Wheat closed 1/4 lower compared with Saturday's finish, September 63 1/2-64, December 62 1/2-63, corn 1/4 down, Sept. 52 1/2-54, Dec. 51 1/2; oats unchanged to 1/2 lower.

Kelowna Wholesaler Seeks Nation-Wide Probe of Marketing

VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP).—R. B. Staples, president of Sales Service Ltd., Kelowna, said in an interview today "I've got to be investigated or my business won't live."

The head of the wholesale fruit brokerage house referred to charges made at a recent meeting of growers at Vernon that a combine existed in the marketing of fruits in western Canada.

Mr. Staples said he had written Hon. Norman Rogers, federal minister of labor, asking that a Canada-wide investigation be launched immediately.

Staples felt a provincial enquiry would not be adequate as the marketing done for Okanagan growers extended throughout Canada.

COAST SLUMPS

VANCOUVER, Aug. 29 (CP).—Share decline in prices on the Toronto market had a bearish influence on Vancouver stock exchange today and at the close leading gold and oil issues recorded substantial losses. Base metals were quiet and transactions totalled 51,940 shares.

Premier Gold declined 1 1/2 cents at 2.36 and Bialome dropped 15 at 2.35. Cariboo Gold Quartz was down 3 1/2. 2.50 while Fairview Amalgamated at 6 and Dentonia at 5 1/2 each eased 1 1/4. Gold Belt slipped 2 at 46. Bid prices, compared to Saturday's close, showed Koolenay Belle down 6 at 1.32, Big Missouri 3 at 28 and Hedley Mascot 9 at 1.18. Vulcan Oil closed down 11 at 72. Calgary and Edmonton declined 18 at 2.12 and Anglo Canadian lost 8 at 1.30. United dipped 1 1/2 at 10 1/2, Royal Canadian a fraction at 11 and Prairie Royalties 2 at 31. Okalta was bid at 1.18, down 10, and Home at 1.08 down 8.

London Close

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP).—Disturbing European political events over the week-end caused general selling in the stock market and prices were weak throughout the day. Motor and aviation shares were especially heavy and considerable selling pressure in oils came from continental sources. Rubber issues sold lower in sympathy with the reaction in that commodity and foreign bonds and British gilt edged securities continued easy. Losses in the Transatlantic group ran as much as two.

It added that a "crisis isn't involved by one greater power crediting the Czechoslovak government with the best of intentions just because it proposed to the Sudetens a new plan concerning which nothing is known."

The paper then went on to urge that "representations concerning the crisis should be directed to those in power to mend matters radically and without delay so they shall not be left under the impression that they have done enough and that anyway they are safe by being backed by great powers."

The Fuehrer's inspection trip was expected to take him from Aachen, near Belgium, to the vicinity of Basel, Switzerland. He touched at Kehl, opposite Strasbourg, France, today.

The tour began Saturday with but brief public mention. A communique said "during the entire drive he was greeted by troops and the populace with indescribable joy and stormy enthusiasm."

Coasting Into Marriage

Hanging on for dear life, David Goldberg and Hilda Schneider of Brooklyn, N.Y., are pictured as they were married by the Rev. Cyrus C. Starkey of Plainsfield, N.J., while zipping along on the roller coaster at Palisades Amusement Park, Palisades Park, N.Y. They had met on the scenic railway and decided to wed there.

easing the crisis welling from the dispute between Czechoslovakia and her autonomy-demanding Sudeten German minority.

In weighing the outlook for the future, informed sources said they considered Hitler held the upper hand in event of a sudden open conflict because of German manoeuvres which begin next Thursday and for which an estimated minimum of 1,000,000 men will be under arms.

Military attaches said Germany thus would be fully 10 days ahead of any other country should war break out suddenly.

TO PREVENT WAR

Downing Street was the scene today of a series of diplomatic conferences designed to save central Europe from a general war.

Central figure was Sir Neville Henderson, ambassador to Germany, who gave Prime Minister Chamberlain, Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, his views on the Czechoslovak situation. Their meeting was an important prelude to tomorrow's gathering of cabinet ministers.

One report was that today's meeting considered reports from Soviet Russia, Rumania and Yugoslavia that these three countries had received coolly a German suggestion that they remain neutral if the Reich moved in Czechoslovakia.

Another report was that Lord Halifax informed his conferees that the French government had sounded out London on the advisability of new representations to Berlin, more concrete than any made hitherto.

BENES AND RUNCIMAN MEET

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 29 (AP)—President Eduard Benes and Viscount Runciman met tonight in a conference believed to have an important bearing on the tense dispute between the Czechoslovak government and the autonomy-demanding Sudeten Germans.

Lord Runciman, unofficial British mediator, hurried to the president's residence after he had spoken at length in his hotel with a parliamentary committee of six. This committee is participating in negotiations on the Sudeten German demands.

It was indicated that the government, with Lord Runciman sitting by and making occasional suggestions, was putting the finishing touches on a plan to reorganize government in the state through Cantons which would possess a large measure of self-rule.

Lord Runciman was understood to have a promise from Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader, to indicate by Wednesday, at least tentatively, what his organization's reaction to the government proposals might be.

While the deliberations were proceeding, Czechoslovak waited with nerves taut but steady.

FRENCH CONCERN MOUNTS

PARIS, Aug. 29 (AP)—A swift inspection tour of fortifications down the Rhine by Chancellor Hitler today gave new impetus to French concern over the mounting military activity of Germany.

Tonight Premier Edouard Daladier went from a cabinet meeting at which the international situation was reviewed, to the Elysee palace for a one-hour conference with President Albert Lebrun.

The press gave evidence of French anxiety, displaying Hitler's trip as a new sensation amid the huge German manoeuvres soon to reach a peak, and the crisis-over Czechoslovakia and her Germanic minority.

Second Phase Theory Durango Faulting to Be Tested, Drilling

Second phase of Grattan M. Lynch's theory of the faulting at the Durango Mines Ltd. property near Ymir is to be tested by diamond drilling.

A Vancouver broker's bulletin states that one portion of the theory was proved by a raise which located the faulted extension of the Peck orebody, and that "interest now centres on a diamond drilling program which was to test the second phase of the faulting theory."

"Should diamond drilling be successful, it is stated, Durango might conceivably disclose a considerable ore tonnage on levels thus far opened."

A jurisdictional dispute between American Federation of Labor electricians and the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen threatened to halt virtually all work on the $2,850,000 Transbay Electric railway terminal and viaduct tomorrow.

Negotiations between the Retail Shoe and Textile Salesmen's Union and shoe stores collapsed, but the union president said strike talk was premature.

Chain groceries and the store clerks' union set a "crucial" meeting for tomorrow.

Overshadowing all was the stalemate in negotiations between C. I. O. longshoremen and waterfront employers, with the union charging shipowners were "stalling" in an effort to sign up other unions and leave the longshoremen isolated when the September 30 contract expiration date rolls around.

The association of San Francisco distributors, warehouse employer group, issued a four-page statement today rejecting a peace offer of the C. I. O. International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union.
