TRAIL OF DEATH SPREADING OVER RUMANIA

Nazis "Test" London for "Weak" Defences

NAZI SUBMARINE PLANTS POUNDED BY R. A. F. FLIERS

Le Havre Paper Tells of Wide Damage to Port
POLITZ ATTACKED

LONDON, Nov. 29 (CP).—The Air Ministry told today of overnight bombing raids centred upon Nazi plants producing the submarines which have been preying upon Britain's shipping.

The Ministry said that the submarine shipbuilding yards at Suetin, on the Baltic Sea, and the U-boats engine factory at Mannheim were attacked.

A synthetic oil plant at Politz was hit and left in flames. Britain's long-distance bombers have periodically, although it is a long flight from the British Isles.

Hitler has concentrated a large part of his synthetic oil industry in that region.

The first bomber over Politz started fires immediately, the Ministry said, and one observer counted 12 while another noted eight "as a result of his own bombing."

Terminating the attack on Mannheim a "side-blow" at the German Navy, the Ministry said fires and explosions occurred there, while railways in the Rhineland had a "warm night."

Attacks were made also on the Channel ports of Antwerp, Boulogne and Le Havre.

Other targets bombed included the docks at Cuxhaven, railway communications in Western Germany, military structures near Mainz and airfields at Koblenz and Eindhoven.

Two British aircraft are missing.

PARIS, (Via Berlin), Nov. 29. (Delayed.)—The Le Havre newspaper "Petit Havre" disclosed in an article authorized by the German authorities the wide extent of damage caused to port and residential areas during British bombings since September 14.

The raids have continued almost nightly the newspaper said.

Le Havre's population, the article claimed, has fled to the heights surrounding the seaport, where some have sought refuge with friends and others in the railroad tunnels and fields.

Green Predicts 30-Hour Week
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29 (AP).—William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, predicted at the closing session of the A. F. L. convention today that when adjustments are made at the end of the defence program United States workers would go on a 30-hour week.

The A. F. L. which first advocated the six-hour day, 30-hour week eight years ago, reaffirmed its endorsement of that working schedule but made no recommendation that it be put into effect immediately.

Noting the need for speedy re-arrangement, the convention unanimously approved a committee report declaring "high productivity in this country makes the 40-hour week both possible and necessary at the present time."

The United States industry, the report added, is "geared" to the 40-hour week.

Two Cars Demolished at Crossings
—One at Blueberry, One in Trail
TRAIL, B. C., Nov. 29—A car, driven by S. K. Metcalf of South Slokan, skidded at the railway junction at Blueberry, on the Trail-Castlegar Highway, and stalled on the tracks at the West side of the crossing.

ABANDON CAR
Mr. Metcalf and two passengers unable to remove the car before the Canadian Pacific passenger train, due in Trail at 7:30, reached the crossing, had to abandon the car. Extent of damages to the vehicle is not known.

A bus carrying Nelson hockey players to Trail stopped and started to help remove the car from the tracks, but the train came around the corner before they could shift it. Metcalf ran about 75 yards up the track to signal the engineer, but as it was snowing heavily at the time, his efforts to attract attention were ineffectual.

The car was a total loss.

But Guns Roar All Over City as Attackers Stream in; Believe Nazis Hoped Guns Sent to Provincial Cities

LONDON, Nov. 30 (Saturday)—(CP).—German warplanes, apparently attempting to determine whether the capital's defences had been sapped to aid bombed Provincial cities, picked London for their main target anew last night and early today.

Casualties and wrecked homes and buildings were reported from a wide area of the capital as explosive and fire bombs rained down from early last night until just before the all-clear signal at 2 a.m.

It was London's heaviest attack after 10 nights of comparative calm in which Provincial cities such as Bristol, Liverpool and Birmingham bore the brunt of Nazi bombs. Heavy attacks on those cities brought appeals to London for strengthened defences—a manoeuvre which some believed the part of Nazi strategy to weaken London.

Anti-aircraft fire was heavy over the city, on the bombed outskirts, and clear down to the mouth of the Thames. In one London district the raiders roared over at the rate of one every 30 seconds.

Workers digging for victims in Liverpool homes demolished in Thursday night's raid were interrupted by further attacks. Additional casualties were reported early today from that big port city.

In London, curious blue-white beams stabbed the sky, paralleling the ground, but with no visible connection with it, suggesting the employment of what The Daily Mail described only yesterday as a new "mystery weapon" for defence.

During yesterday London had three raid alarms and in daylight activity, in Air Ministry announced, five Axis planes were shot down against the loss of two Royal Air Force fighters.

The assault on Liverpool and the Merseyside Thursday night and Friday morning was the first to date.

Casualties in the Merseyside were "unusually slight in view of the length of the raid and the method of indiscriminate bombing by relays of planes," it was officially stated.

In two towns in the Southwest, the Ministry of Home Security announced, the damage to residential property was "somewhat more extensive than was at first indicated," but it added that casualties were not heavy, though they included a small number of persons killed.

Japanese Sign "Peace Treaty"
SHANGHAI, Nov. 30 (Saturday)—(AP).—Gen. Nobuyuki, Japanese Ambassador, and Wang Chung-Wei, head of the Japanese-sponsored Chinese Government at Nanking, today signed a treaty of peace, Japanese reports reaching here today.

The Wang Government was set up March 22, 1940, under Japanese auspices in opposition to the Chinese Government in Chungking of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

Chiang Kai-Shek ignored a "last exhortation" sent him by the Wang Government asking him to declare an armistice with Japan. The Chungking spokesmen have declared a fight to the end with Japan.

Travel Publicity Reduction Urged
VICTORIA, Nov. 29 (CP).—Reduction of $25,000 in the advertising campaign of the B. C. Travel Bureau was urged in the British Columbia Legislature today by Harold E. Winch, C. C. F. whip.

Mr. Winch recognized the value of advertising outside the Province but wondered if any value was received from ads in small papers and magazines in smaller towns throughout British Columbia. The total advertising appropriation is $105,000.

"It looks as if the Trade and Industry Department was merely subsidizing small papers and magazines," he said. "It all goes through the hands of the same people."

E. T. Kenney (Lib. Skeena), contended the Bureau must advertise and it worked an injustice to the Bureau to cut its appropriation.

Discussion on other votes brought out that two Victoria hospitals, the Jubilee and St. Joseph's are to receive additional grants from a special vote of $75,000 for further assistance to hospitals. The main vote for hospitals was ratified at $1,649,700.

LAUD TRADE CHECKUP
TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP).—Decision of the Canadian Government to send Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, to investigate increased trade possibilities with the British West Indies and South America, was commended today by the Executive Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Mild Excitement in the Neighborhood

The wreckage of German warplanes is getting so commonplace throughout England that hardy Britons now take them in their stride. This big bomber that crashed into a house at Hornchurch attracted no more than a handful of neighbors. The caption failed to state if anyone were in the building wrecked by the fallen raider.

Italian Supply Ports Are Hard Hit by R. A. F. Planes

British Reported Waiting as Nazi Freighters Sail
Fierce Fight on for Vital Military Point
ITALIANS MASSING

TAMPICO, Mexico, Nov. 29 (AP).—In face of reports that British warships await them in the Caribbean, the German merchantmen Idarwald and Rhein sailed today from their haven here with Spanish ports as their declared destinations.

On the Eastern horizon as the freighters nosed out of the Panuco River and into the gulf, hugging the shore, could be seen the silhouettes of three foreign warships, too distant for identification, but believed to be United States neutrality patrol vessels.

United States destroyers were in the vicinity two weeks ago when the Idarwald and Rhein, with two other German merchantmen, the Phrygia and Orinoco, made a luckless attempt to face the British blockade.

Today's departure was not without mishap. The Idarwald, 9033 tons, it was learned, ran aground on a sandbar outside the harbor but refloated herself unassisted. She and the Rhein, 6631 tons, skipped downstream and into the gulf of early morning.

A Mexican gunboat, reported to be the Durango, awaited the freighters in the gulf, charged with escorting them out of territorial waters. Both were reported carrying limited cargoes of fuel and provisions, the Idarwald with clearance for Vigo, Spain, and the Rhein for Tenerife, in Spain's Canary Islands. They carried crews of 53 and 45, respectively.

URGES AID FOR BRITAIN
OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 29 (AP).—W. M. Jeffers, President of the Union Pacific Railroad, urged Americans today to "lend every possible measure of support they are capable of to Great Britain in the present conflict."

CHAUTEMPS ARRIVES ON MISSION TO U. S.
JERSEY CITY, Nov. 29 (AP).—Camille Chautemps, former Premier of France, arrived today aboard the line Exchambria on an "unofficial" and unidentified mission to the United States after a four-month voyage from Vichy.

Chautemps, 55, declined to discuss "political matters" but said he wanted to say this to the United States people: "Americans do not misjudge France. The soul of the people has not changed. I am quite convinced that France will raise itself to its old position and I hope that America will help."

By United States help, he said he meant that all France wanted now was "confidence and friendship" from the United States.

He was vague about his status with the Petain-Laval Government.

Michael Flees as Troops Massed in Effort for Control

Antonescu Seeks Aid of Peasant Leader and Army Heads; Thunder of Guns Reported; Charge Nazis Permit Murders

By DANIEL DE LUCE — Associated Press Staff Writer
AT THE HUNGARIAN-RUMANIAN FRONTIER, Nov. 29 (AP). — Flight of King Michael, heavy loss of life in fighting at three Transylvanian cities, a mounting death list in the Iron Guard's blood purge and a massing of Rumanian and German troops in Bucharest were reported from Rumania tonight.

These advices, barred from ordinary channels of news by Rumanian censorship but filtering across the border into neighboring Hungary, filled in the sparse lines of Bucharest-to-Budapest dispatches passed by the censor.

A dispatch reaching Budapest, slashed by the censor, said: "Premier Antonescu, struggling to keep control of turbulent Rumania, sought today the aid of Juliu Maniu, respected peasant leader, and army corps commanders while rampant Iron Guards continued the purge of their enemies."

"During the day Maniu—six words censored—had a long conference with Antonescu. The general also conferred with army corps commanders—90 words censored. "Antonescu was said to have consulted most of last night and today with Iron Guard leaders throughout the country, appealing to them to restore order. Antonescu, Gheorghiu-Bala and Argetoianu are still living in Antonescu's office."

The reference is to former premier George Tatrescu and Constantine Argetoianu, and Michael Gheorghiu-Bala, who were Ministers of Transport and Labor in Argetoianu's cabinet, which succeeded Tatrescu's and resigned Nov. 23, 1938.

The Bucharest dispatch continued: "The bodies of seven Jews were found today along a railway track between Bucharest and Ploesti. How they met death is reported to be a 'mystery.'"

According to border reports, Guardiai Legionnaires, drawing on their secret stores for weapons, were said to be trying to seize power at Turcu, Severin, Craiova and Brzov, all in Transylvania, where heavy loss of life occurred in the guard fight for possession of public buildings.

At Brasov Guardiai were said to have occupied the post office and telephone building but were driven out by soldiers of the local garrison.

LONDON, Nov. 29 (CP Cable)—Rumanian circles in London charged today that as a few German battalions could restore order in Bucharest, the Nazis who have occupied Rumania have some political aim in permitting murders and other disorders in that strife-torn Balkan kingdom.

Germany's attitude there is puzzling, these circles said. They expressed belief the Nazis do not want establishment of a powerful and respectable administration and consequently are willing to permit disorder.

100th Casualty List Makes Losses 55,000
LONDON, Nov. 29 (CP). — The War Office issued today its 100th casualty list of the war, bringing to 55,363 the total of officially listed British Army losses.

In the 100 lists these casualties have been given, by name: Prisoners, 32,319; killed in action, 4749; wounded, 15,225; missing, 1502; died, 1668.

Apparently the names of all prisoners have not been obtained. War Secretary Anthony Eden announced recently that 44,800 British soldiers have been taken prisoner.

Today's list included 990 prisoners, 36 killed, 39 wounded, 45 died.

Late Flashes
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29 (AP).—A contract under which Sweden was to get 144 military combat planes from the Vultee Aircraft Corp. has been assumed by Canada, Vultee officials disclosed tonight.

The planes are single-seaters, single motors, and are heavily armed.

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 30 (Saturday) (CP). — Australian naval authorities said today the enemy raider reported to have sunk 57,000 tons of shipping in the South Pacific and Indian Oceans is a 6000-ton motorship armed with torpedo tubes and four four-inch guns.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (CP). — Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, said today that certain understandings had been reached with Greek officials on questions of United States aid to Greece.

E-X-T-R-A!
LONDON, Nov. 30 (Saturday) (CP).—British bombers staged overnight air raids on the German cities of Bremen and Cologne as well as on Nazi air bases and "invasion ports," it was reported authoritatively today.

LONDON, Nov. 30 (Saturday) (CP).—"Many fires" were started in the London area, the main target of Nazi overnight air raids on Britain, but all were under control by early morning, the Government announced today.

Rossland Bill Gains Assent; Seek Hospital-Compensation Settlement
VICTORIA, Nov. 29 (CP). — Lieut.-Governor Eric W. Hamber was called to the British Columbia Legislature today to give assent to the Rossland refunding bill to provide for the refunding of $196,500 of the Kootenay city's debt at four per cent interest, payable semi-annually over a period of 20 years.

The measure calls for the depositing in the bank by the city of $71,044 on or before June 30 and December 31 of each year, beginning in 1941 and continuing up to and including 1960.

The question of unemployed congregating in Vancouver was brought before the House again by Mayor Lyle Telford (Ind. Vancouver East). He said there was considerable "panhandling" and house-to-house begging for food and money, and suggested a central registration office where each applicant would be given a bed for one night and one meal.

Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, replied that the Government was anxious to meet Vancouver in working out a solution. He said Relief Administrator E. W. Griffiths was in Vancouver and any arrangement worked out between him and city authorities would be satisfactory.

The House then went into estimates for trade industry and the Provincial Secretary's office, totaling $3,583,786.83, passing both.

Hon. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipal Affairs, introduced the Burnaby Refunding Bill, calling for refunding of $2,895,172 of accumulated ranging from 2 1/2 per cent to four per cent.

During discussion of estimates for the Provincial Secretary's Department, Frank Putnam (Lib. Nelson-Creston) called attention to disputes between hospitals in the Southern Interior and the Workmen's Compensation Board.

"Doctors send injured workmen to hospital as compensation cases and keep them confined until they consider discharge is warranted," Mr. Putnam said. "Then the Compensation Board tells the hospitals the men were kept too long and refuse payment after a certain number of days."

Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, promised to meet both the hospitals and the Compensation Board in an endeavor to reach a satisfactory settlement.

Scandinavians Open Observance With a Social
 Rev. Earl E. Lindgren, the congregation's second pastor who left last August for Seattle, Wash., where he now preaches, returned to the Nelson Scandinavian Church Friday night to open the congregation's tenth anniversary services, which will continue tonight and through Sunday.
 Mr. Lindgren complimented the congregation on how it had prospered through its life thus far, and trusted the same progress would continue. Mr. Lindgren was the church's pastor for eight years, and it was to him and his wife that a bulk of the church's success was due.
 Friday night's opening service took much the form of a social, and tonight there will be a song service and Mr. Lindgren will speak again. Sunday morning's sermon will be preached by the present pastor, Rev. C. R. Martin, and Mr. Lindgren will take services at 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

McPhee Dies at Vancouver Home

VANCOUVER, Nov. 20 (CP)—Howie McPhee, 24-year-old Vancouver boy and representative at the Olympic Games in Berlin in 1936 died at his mother's home here tonight following a relapse from a recent ailment.
 McPhee collapsed at Grand Forks, B. C., Nov. 12 a few hours after playing an English rugby game. He lay unconscious for several hours and two days later was brought to Vancouver for medical examination by Coast doctors.
 Brought here on a stretcher he was taken to his mother's home and remained in a coma.
 McPhee was physical instructor at the Grand Forks High School where he taught since last September and was also disciplinarian for an army unit at Grand Forks.
 He graduated from University of British Columbia in 1936 but continued studies there until last Summer.

Crew of Greek Freighter Saved
 HALIFAX, Nov. 20 (CP)—The British freighter Uria today rescued the entire crew of the storm-struck Greek freighter Eugenia Cambanis off Newfoundland, according to wireless advices reaching here tonight.
 Battered for two days by an Atlantic gale, the Cambanis remained adrift about 125 miles southwest of Newfoundland, leaking and helpless, and held up only by her load of lumber. Another ship was standing by while a salvage vessel headed for her position.
 The Uria reported the safety of all members of the crew of the Greek vessel, which first flashed SOS signals three days ago.
 Still awaiting rescue off the Canadian East coast was a Norwegian freighter, which wireless four days ago had lost her propeller and since then rode through the same storm that accounted for the other two craft. A tug was expected to reach her side overnight.

New Type Aerial Bomb Proposed by 14-Year-Old Nelson Student Under Consideration by Inventions Board

A new type of directional aerial bomb originated by a 14-year-old Nelson student is under consideration by the Inventions Board at Ottawa—a Board of competent scientists who examine war inventions and proposals.
 Allan Ramsden, son of Mrs. Rose Ramsden and the late W. H. Ramsden, conceived a bomb which through a photo-electric cell might be self-directed through light action to industrial targets.
 Assisting him in working out his idea, D. G. Chamberlain of the Junior High teaching staff suggested that he should forward it to Ottawa. A few days ago Ramsden received a letter from O. J. Waters, Private Secretary to Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Defence, stating his suggestion had been placed before the Inventions Board; and on Friday a letter from S. J. Cook, Secretary of the Board, advised him that it was under consideration.

Patterson Leads Vernon to Win Over Trail Stars

VERNON, B. C., Nov. 20 (CP)—More than 1000 fans tonight saw Vernon Hurricanes swamp Trail All-Stars 5-3 in the first of a two-game exhibition intermediate hockey series here tonight.
 Slew Patterson, Vernon right winger, headed scores with four goals and an assist, Eggie Hale, Vernon's goalie started between the posts.
 Bill Waddell in the Trail nets worked hard and turned in a smart performance but failed to hold back the Vernon barrage.
 The team:
 Trail—Waddell, goal; Kendall, Jones, LaFace, Purcello, Wanless, Petroko, McIntyre, Welykoeb, Appleton, Forsey, Scott, Devlin and Hughes.
 Vernon—Hale, goal; Anderson, Cannon, Wardrop, Zemla, Calvert, Hassan, Bilinski, Neilson, Patterson.
 The game was held at the Vernon arena.

Counter Plans to Keep Londoners in Country Sought

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP)—Ample facilities for swapping gossip were included in a program outlined by Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald today to counteract a "get-back-to-London" complex which afflicts many removed families.
 "They don't like trees, grass and flowers," he commented. "They want smoking chimneys and signboards. When they read about new canteens and entertainments being provided in the public shelters in London, they grow bored with their surroundings in some country rectory and back they come."
 His plans for countering this homesickness include: communal facilities for swapping gossip; increased facilities for country housewives and evacuee mothers in overcrowded kitchens, sick bays, hostels for difficult children, nursery centres and mothers' clubs where they can do their washing and sewing and enjoy good old Cockney gossip.
 Mr. MacDonald said 1,500,000 persons had been moved from London and other big cities to the reception areas of the countryside.
 About 370,000 of London's school children have been removed and only 80,000 remain in the city, but 30,000 of the 220,000 children under five are still enduring the nightly raids.
 Old folks have proved more difficult than the children. Inspectors touring public shelters induced 4500 to leave for hostels in the country, but 3500 Country "grannies" will not go.

Cross Disagreement With Hepburn Hinted as Resignation Cause

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (CP)—The Toronto Telegram said in a news page story today that the resignation of Hon. Eric Cross was led to resign his portfolio in the Ontario Government not only by his desire to return to legal practice but by disagreement with Premier Hepburn.
 Mr. Cross relinquished his portfolio as Minister of Municipal Affairs and Public Welfare last week. The Telegram said that the reasons for his resignation became apparent today as details of one of the major factors contributing to the rift were bared in usually reliable quarters.
 The newspaper said that it has been reported that a principal cause of the disagreement was the payment of an $18,000 legal fee to Armand Reine, Windsor lawyer, "friend of Premier Hepburn and Ontario Public Trustee, for his services in connection with the resignation of Sandwell's municipal debt."

Roosevelt Plans Mystery Journey

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt caused surprise and speculation today by telling reporters he was planning a trip next week to an unannounced destination and that he might employ a plane to bring him back if an emergency developed.
 OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (CP)—Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, Economic Adviser to Dr. W. C. Clark, Deputy Minister of Finance, today was named Chairman of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

35,000 TROOPS, 20 WARSHIPS FIGHT FOR FRANCE

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP Cable)—Thirty-five thousand troops, 20 warships in service, 1000 aircraft and 60 merchant ships make up the growing force of Free France, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Free Frenchmen disclosed tonight in a broadcast. He spoke to the people of France and defined the aims of the Free French movement as "firstly to fight; to fight to help defeat the enemy."
 Mr. Malind produced a letter from a man who had a mill at Burns Lake. The writer claimed he had gone to Nourah Creek and knew nothing about the project until the Fraser Lake Sawmills started to deliver the lumber.
 Mr. Malind asked F. H. Harrison, Purchasing Agent to produce vouchers dealing with orders given the Hamilton Bridge at Goldie, and the Big Bend Cedar Pole Company in Kaslo-Sooan District. The Committee will meet next week to go into these.

Mexican Motif at Silver Slippers Dance Striking

With a Mexican motif lending color and gaiety to the decorations, the second dance this season of the Silver Slippers Club—held at the Canadian Legion Friday night—was colorful and gay. The dance was under sponsorship of Mrs. W. R. Grubbe's Circle of St. Saviour's Church, with Mrs. Stewart Oldham in charge of decorations.
 Blue panels, as blue as Mexican skies, were employed effectively around the hall, while overhead were suspended glittering silver slippers and gay sombreros. On the walls were two large panels, each with a desert and adobe but background, featuring a Mexican man and woman, complete with serape and great pottery jars with tiny Mexicans peeping from behind them were spaced about the walls.

Trail to Donate Silver Bell to Corvette Trail

TRAIL, B. C., Nov. 20.—In order that a definite association with the city of its name might be established, the new corvette of the Royal Canadian Navy, the "City of Trail" will soon have an eight-inch silver plated bell, presented from the Smelter City.
 This action was taken by the Council at the instigation of Mayor Herbert Clark, and the bell is now on order.
 Just when the bell will be presented is not yet definite, as it has to be inscribed, as well as plated, and W. E. B. Montgomery, City Clerk, is waiting for word from Vancouver as to when the work will be completed, and when the presentation may conveniently be made.

Idle Philadelphia Yard to Speed U.S. Sea Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States Navy acted today to bring a long idle Philadelphia shipyard into production after President Roosevelt disclosed steps were under way to speed up construction of 115 destroyers.
 Naval officials contracted for $9,500,000 worth of new facilities at the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, and at the same time placed orders with the Company for construction of six cruisers to cost $113,822,290. The shipyard has been out of production since 1928.
 The contracts raised to 54 the number of cruisers now on order for the navy, which has 37 in commission. They completed, 100, award of all authorized tonnage in the current cruiser program. No details of the new cruisers were disclosed.
 Mr. Roosevelt's announcement that efforts were being made to expedite the destroyer construction program stirred conjecture as to whether the United States growing but heavily-loading ship-building facilities would be further expanded.
 At a Press conference, the President said he had referred the problem to William S. Knudsen of the Defense Commission, and declared that the original delivery dates set for some of the destroyers for which the navy let contracts last Sept. 9 were much too far off.
 Mr. Roosevelt said his desire to accelerate destroyer building had no relation to the question of making more such vessels available to Great Britain.

Fleet Blocked Italian Attempt to Set Up New Lines to North Africa

By J. F. SANDERSON
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP Cable).—The offensive staged by the Mediterranean Fleet nipped in the bud an attempt by the Italians to establish new lines of communication with their forces in North Africa. British naval experts suggested today.
 These experts suggested that the Italian force routed off Sardinia Wednesday, with damage to six of the enemy warships including a battleship, was attempting to patrol a new line of communication, perhaps using French territorial waters off Tunisia to reach Libya where Marshal Graziani's offensive against Egypt has been stalled for a long time and apparently needs reinforcements and supplies.
 Apparently the Italians had not realized that Britain's hold on the Mediterranean had been so strengthened by the Fleet Air Arm raid on the Italian naval base of Taranto Nov. 11 that a big force could be used to patrol the Western Mediterranean as an separate naval entity.
 It was evident from the Admiralty communique announcing the action off Sardinia that Vice-Admiral Sir James Somerville has a big force under his command in the Western end of the Mediterranean. His flag is carried by H. M. S. Renown, 34,000-ton battleship. The Commander in Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet, Sir Andrew Cunningham, has been operating further East of Greece, Italy proper and Egypt.
 What effect this ability to extend the fleet operations will have eventually on the use of the Mediterranean for British merchant ships which now use the Cape of Good Hope route to reach British ports in the Middle East it is impossible to say. But if Mussolini's fleet receives many more blows it may be possible to run convoys through Gibraltar.
 For weeks the Italians have found it impossible to make steady use of the direct route across the Mediterranean from Taranto, Brindisi or any other Italian port to Libya.
 During the day new attacks by British naval planes on the Dodecanese Islands of Lero and upon the Libyan port of Tripoli were officially reported.

Trail Glee Party and Ladies' Trio Sweep Nelson Audience With Them in Keen Enjoyment of Fine Concert

VICTORIA, Nov. 20 (CP)—R. L. Matland, B. C. Conservative Leader, demanded in Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature today the production of vouchers and tenders for supplies purchased by the Government in several interior ridings.
 Mr. Matland produced a letter from a man who had a mill at Burns Lake. The writer claimed he had gone to Nourah Creek and knew nothing about the project until the Fraser Lake Sawmills started to deliver the lumber.
 Mr. Matland asked F. H. Harrison, Purchasing Agent to produce vouchers dealing with orders given the Hamilton Bridge at Goldie, and the Big Bend Cedar Pole Company in Kaslo-Sooan District. The Committee will meet next week to go into these.

Trail Glee Party and Ladies' Trio Sweep Nelson Audience With Them in Keen Enjoyment of Fine Concert

Sweeping their hearers along with them in obvious enjoyment of their music, members of the C. M. & S. Glee Party of Trail and a Trail ladies' string trio presented a musical adventure for an audience which filled Trinity United Church Friday night. Their concert was sponsored by Trinity Choir, set proceeded being in aid of the Red Cross. H. D. Dawson was Chairman.
 From beginning to end, through the great range of which the Glee Party and the trio were capable, the music was a rich, experience for an appreciative audience.
PATRIOTIC SONGS
 Particularly appreciated for the manner in which they reached the heart of music lovers whose thoughts day by day were with the Empire in her hour of need, were "Dear Land of Home" with its ringing desire to contribute to one's own land; the familiar but ever-new "Land of Hope and Glory" with its challenge and hope for a still greater Britain; and the popular "There'll Always Be an England" with its promise, its hope and its pledge. At the invitation of the Glee Party conductor, Hans Fogh-Domschmidt, the audience joined in "There'll Always Be an England."
TRIO WINS AUDIENCE
 To lovers of stringed instruments the ladies' trio brought still richer enjoyment. The ladies, each a talented performer, combined their musical ability in three trio selections, and added to their splendid contribution violin solos by Mrs. H. S. Fowler and cello solos by Mrs. Hans Fogh-Domschmidt, with Mrs. C. H. Wright accompanying.
 It was indicative of their enjoyment of music and the audience's appreciation that, after refreshments had been served by Trinity Choir following the concert, the Glee Party again, requested by Mr. Dawson to sing "Dear Land of Home," they topped off the evening with their highly enjoyable "Jolly Roger." Ernest Hopwood of Nelson, a member of the party while in Trail, and Arthur Stringer, popular Nelson baritone, were "drafted" to sing with them.
THE SELECTIONS
 L. Freeman, baritone, sang "Even Braver Heart"—Charles Gounod, and "The Green-Eyed Dragon"—Wolsey Charles; and J. A. Phillips, tenor, sang "Beloved, It Is Morn"—Florence Aylward.
 The ladies' trio contributed three selections: "Large Movement from Beethoven's Trio in G; Songs My Mother Taught Me"—Dvorak; and "Ave, Maria Stella"—Grieg.
 Mrs. Fowler's violin solos were "Tambourin Chinois"—Kreiser; and "Estrellita"—Ponce-Barramann; while Mrs. Fogh-Domschmidt presented "The Goodbye Scherzo" and "Autumn Flower"—David Popper.
 The "Valse Brillante"—Mozzkowski, and "Norwegian Bridal Procession"—Grieg, were the selections chosen by Mrs. Harrod for her solo and encore.
 Glee Party numbers were: "Winter Song"—Frederick Bullard; "Follow Me Down to Carlow"—Irish folk song; "Down in a Flowery Field"—J. Michael Dladly; "In Praise of Tobacco"—C. Lee Williams; "A Song of Hope"—Arthur Collingwood; "The Musical Trust"—Henry Hadley; "Menagerie"—Cesare Sodero and Harry Eiders; "Bitter Ballad"—J. H. Maundie; "Dear Land of Home"—Jean Sibelius; "Land of Hope and Glory"—Edward Elgar; "There'll Always Be an England"—Ross Parker and Huguette Charles.

60 Interviews, Held by Flight Officer, Trail

TRAIL, B. C., Nov. 20.—Flight Lt. A. G. Hodgett, stationed at Trail Thursday and Friday to interview applicants for the R. C. A. F. stated that he had given over 60 interviews. He would have liked to stay longer, but the schedule did not provide for more than two days, said Mr. Hodgett, stating that he had intended to go to Rossland, but had not been able to find time.
 Interest in every branch of the air force seemed apparent, and a number of particularly good motor mechanics had offered their services. The main body of applications had come from young men interested in the air services. Attributing the fact that the men in Trail were employed by a war industry and would, therefore, have to be released, Mr. Hodgett stated that he had not expected a great many applications from skilled tradesmen who were prevalent in the vicinity.
 He was not sure when a return visit would be made, but thought it would be in the early part of next year.
 Answering an enquiry as to whether applications could be made direct to the recruiting center, Mr. Hodgett stated that those interested could send to the R. C. A. F. Recruiting Headquarters, 1208 First Avenue East, Calgary. Application forms would be sent from there, and he advised forwarding proof of age, education, and other qualifications with the application.
 "This would not necessarily mean that a man would be accepted, but from such proof he could be informed if there was any likelihood of his being considered," he said.

Kiddle Fatally Injured by Car, Was Sleighing
 Colin Bunt, five-year-old Sheep Creek kiddie, died in Kootenay Lake General Hospital, Nelson, late Friday night, in consequence of injuries received about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at Sheep Creek, when he was in collision with a car.
 The kiddie, who had been coasting, was rushed to Nelson in the hope of saving his life.
 He was the child of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bunt.

Nash of Renata Dies at Age 85; Prolific Writer
 TRAIL, B. C., Nov. 20.—Frederick W. Nash, aged 85, died at the Trail-Tadacac Hospital early Friday morning.
 Mr. Nash, who is survived by a brother at Vancouver, had resided at Renata for the past 36 years.
 Burial will take place at Syringa Creek Saturday, with a prior funeral service in Trail.
 Even at his advanced age, Mr. Nash was recently still writing letters to The Nelson Daily News expressing vigorous opinions on topics of the day, as had been his practice for many years.

Pilot Credited With Saving Five as Plane Burns
 NANAIMO, B. C., Nov. 20 (CP).—Pilot Jack Hames' cool handling of a Ginger Cootie Airways plane which burst into flames in midair was credited tonight with saving the lives of five passengers bound from Vancouver to Tofino and Zeballos on the West coast of Vancouver Island.
 "Another five minutes in the air and there would not have been anything left," said Jack Steeves of Vancouver, one of three men burned badly enough to require hospital treatment here. Two other passengers and the pilot were able to return to Vancouver.
 Steeves, making his first trip by air, said his partner, Fred Luditt of Zeballos, noticed a flame lick up inside the plane just as it was passing over Nanaimo at an altitude of 3500 feet. Hames immediately nosed the craft down towards the water while Luditt and Steeves beat ineffectively at the fire with their hands.
 "When the plane began to swoop down the fire really got going and began to lick up the sides to the ceiling," Steeves said. "Pretty soon it was blazing away inside and we turned our backs."
 "It was hard to breathe inside the plane. The pilot landed so quickly and smoothly we didn't know it. When we scrambled out (onto a float) the water was just up to our knees."
 Another Ginger Cootie plane flown by Pilot Eob Goldie came to their assistance, landing and picking up Steeves, Luditt and William E. Parker of Vancouver. The latter was the most severely burned of the trio.

U.S. Shelves Problem of Financial Aid to Britain Until New Congress Meets

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (CP)—The question of the United States giving financial assistance to Great Britain, in line with its announced policy of "all aid short of war," appeared today to have been quietly shelved by the tacit consent of all concerned until the New Congress convenes in January.

The whole problem of Britain's needs—"planes, munitions, ships and perhaps finance," as put before the country by the Marquess of Lothian, British Ambassador, on his return

Random Notes of 2nd Division

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND. — (CP) — Random shots from the 2nd Canadian division: Staff officers at headquarters are sporting new arm bands... a blue patch with a gold "C" with a Roman two through it on a crimson band... similar to those worn by officers in the old 2nd Division of the First Great War.

At the holding unit camp is Lt. Sandy MacPherson, of Regina whose father is a prominent conservative... he graduated from Dalhousie University Law School at Halifax... he's assigned court-martial cases.

Corps canteen: When it rains the Canucks don their tin helmets—air raid or not... they're the best rain hats in a soldier's equipment.

Sweetheart of a famous Western infantry regiment, recruited in Vancouver and Winnipeg, is a blond girl named Eileen Broad... she runs a tea shop in the town where the regiment is billeted... the Westerners just about took over the place... they help in the kitchen, wait on themselves and pay their own bills.

Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells, chief Protestant Chaplain with the Canadian Forces, is in England... there might be some changes in the Chaplain service... he talked over the Chaplain question with most senior officers, including Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Corps Commander.

Penalty for Trainees Is Not Decided Yet

NEWMARKET, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP)—Officials of the compulsory training camp here said today that they have not decided on future penalties for Willem Hansler, 21, of Newmarket who has refused to wear the King's uniform and take training.

Lt. Col. R. B. Harkness, Camp Commandant, denied a report carried by The Canadian Press last night that he would sentence Hansler to 14 days detention if he refused to wear the uniform after serving the term of seven days detention imposed when he first refused.

Hansler is now in Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, where he was taken from the camp guardhouse after it was found he was suffering from a minor ailment.

When he reached camp Nov. 22 Hansler told officers he was formerly a member of the outlawed religious sect Jehovah's Witnesses and that he refused to take training because it was against his religious beliefs.

DUCHESS OF KENT COMPLETES TRAINING

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP)—The Duchess of Kent completed today the required 50 hours of hospital experience and became a member of the Civil Nursing Service. The Duchess trained in the University College Hospital under the name "Sister Kay," making beds, washing dishes, helping with surgical cases and taking her turn at the casualty clearing station.

'CORPORATIVE AUTHORITY' FOR FRENCH SCHOOLS

VICHY, France, Nov. 20 (AP)—Georges Rupet, Minister of Public Instruction in the Pétain-Laval Government, announced today that France's educational system will be shaped so as to introduce "corporative authority" and "accustom children to obedience."

"Funny" Canadian Sings in Mid-Ocean

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 (CP)—Capt. Sven D. Orlander, command of the Swedish freighter which rescued crew members of the heroic Jervis Bay, told today of a "funny" Canadian which his vessel picked up in the Atlantic after the Jervis Bay had been sunk in a battle with a Nazi raider.

Capt. Orlander said in an interview that the Canadian was sighted as his vessel searched for survivors of the armed merchant cruiser which saved the majority of its convoy by attacking the German pocket battleship.

"There he was in the middle of the Atlantic, standing on a piece of wood about two feet wide and four feet long, riding it like a surf board and singing away at the top of his voice. He was a brave fellow."

ENLISTMENTS FOR FREE FRENCH NAVY TAKEN AT CALGARY OFFICES

CALGARY, Nov. 20 (CP)—Calgary offices of the Alberta Aid to Gen. De Gaulle, leader of Free French Forces announced today they will interview applicants for enlistment in the Free French navy. Volunteers will be trained at an overseas naval school.

Trained specialists, especially engineers, electricians and wireless operators aged 18 to 25 with a secondary school education are required.

Russia to Step Up Oil Production

MOSCOW, Nov. 20 (AP)—Russia's Commissar for the oil industry, M. Sedin, writes that "it is necessary to recognize that the general result of the Russian oil industry for 1943 is far from being sufficient although it has exceeded the results of 1939." He gave no figures.

In an article in Pravda, the Communist Party organ, Sedin stressed the importance of oil fuel in modern mechanized warfare. (Germany has looked to Russia as a source of oil supplies.)

To increase the Soviet Union's production the Commissar announced a plan to eliminate autumn and winter declines in output. He wrote: "In 1941 the Peoples Commissariat of the oil industry expected considerable capital investment in the construction branch of the industry. New roads, mechanical shops, compressor stations and dwellings will help destroy the harmful theory and practice of reduction of the output of oil during the autumn and winter seasons."

Sedin said autumn decreases had already ended in the important Baku region.

COUPLE SENTENCED ON DEFENCE CHARGE

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP)—Convicted of two charges under the Defence of Canada Regulations, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leeson were fined $300 each and sentenced to four months in jail with additional terms of three months on failure to pay the fines. Trial of the couple was held a month ago.

Arrested after two of their children refused to take part in patriotic exercises in school, they were charged with advocating the principles of Jehovah's Witnesses.

CREW OF NAZI BOMBER INTERNED IN EIRE

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 20 (CP)—A German bomber came down in the sea today six miles off Blasket Island near the Western tip of Ireland on the County Kerry coast. The crew of five were rescued and interned by authorities of Eire.

Nothing to Report on Italian Front

ROME, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Italian High Command issued the following communique Friday:

"On the Greek front yesterday the Ferrara, Siena and Centaur divisions of the 11th Army counter-attacked and broke off an enemy attempt at infiltration. There was nothing particular on the 8th Army's front."

"The Greeks announced local gains in yesterday's fighting."

"Air formations bombed objectives at Corfu. On this base, our warships carried out a prolonged bombardment at short range against military works on the morning of November 27."

"Enemy naval formations sighted near Malta were overtaken and attacked by our air formations. A big warship was hit squarely by a heavy calibre bomb. Violent battles were fought between our bombing planes, escorted by fighters, and enemy pursuit planes. Five enemy planes were shot down and four were seriously damaged. One of our planes failed to return."

"(No British ship was hit in this attack although bombs fell near the aircraft carrier Ark Royal. Two Italian planes were shot down while one British plane was lost.)"

"During the night our aircraft bombed Port Valetta on Malta."

"In East Africa enemy air raids took place over Tessenet without consequence. In Uak where two were wounded and Omar, near Metemma, where a child was killed and several subjects wounded."

"Our submarine Marconi sank a 10,000-ton English transport ship in the Atlantic."

"Enemy planes attempted to reach the cities of Brindisi and Taranto. Met by a violent barrage fire of the anti-aircraft defence, they dropped explosive and incendiary bombs only near Brindisi, where they fell in open country and the sea."

SERIAL STORY... Before the Blitzkrieg... By RUPERT GRAYSON... "Then listen: This may not work of course, but it's just a chance here! what we've got to do—or, really, what Coral has to do, since the majority of the ones is on her. We'll go back to the bungalow, and have a general talk. Then I'll tactfully suggest going up to bed, and leaving you two to it. Then you'll have to do your stuff—stage your show. And the outcome will be, Tommy, that you will give in, and tell Coral to inform Otto and Trent that if they bring the money over with them in the morning, you're prepared to spill the beans. I expect they'll fall for that—I hope so, at any rate—and that will mean that we have the night to ourselves. Now, to get that key, Coral, you'll have to manage, somehow, to slip a couple of those pellets to Trent's drink, just as I did the other night. Then go to bed. As soon as you think it's safe, get into his room and get the keys from under his pillow. He ought to be sleeping tight as a drum by then. When you've done that you must slip along here. The guards will think you're paying us a clandestine visit, without Otto knowing. They'll understand that—we must hope that they will also sympathize. If you can bring along a doctored flask with you, that will be fine. Then, if we succeed so far, we must get across and deal with Otto and Trent—the others will be less difficult to handle without them. Then—Oh, by the way, Coral, how many planes are there in the hangars?"

'Plaguey Bug' Science Gains In Tuberculosis War

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. Dr. Lewis J. Moorhead, wrote last year a very clever little article called "A Bug Full of Tricks". He was referring to the germ of tuberculosis and it has, indeed, been a plaguey bug for the human race and one which we have spent some of our best efforts in trying to subdue...

It is a microscopic bit of protein and sugar, covered with a skin of wax and this wax apparently has been its means of protection to allow it to survive under unfavorable conditions through long centuries and all sorts of weather conditions. It is possible to culture tubercle bacilli and have them live when picked up from the bodies of these same Egyptian mummies. They withstand cold and rain and heat—at least climatic heat. (And it takes a good deal of surgical sterilization heat to kill them.)

WILL SURVIVE UNFAVORABLE CONDITIONS... It is a microscopic bit of protein and sugar, covered with a skin of wax and this wax apparently has been its means of protection to allow it to survive under unfavorable conditions through long centuries and all sorts of weather conditions.

During the last century, however, mankind has begun to get the better of the old enemy. About a hundred years ago the first open air treatments for tuberculosis were begun. It is only within the last one hundred and fifty years that the different forms of tuberculosis—lung, bone and lymph gland—have been shown to be due to the same cause.

GERM WAS ISOLATED... About fifty years ago the germ itself was isolated and stained and cultured by Robert Koch and Paul Ehrlich. The use of the stethoscope to detect cases early—and the even more valuable use of the X-ray, discovered in 1895, have given us the means to detect the presence of tuberculosis in those who do not know they have it, and to keep them from infecting other people.

"Amazon Company" Hurl Rocks From High Peaks at Fleeing Italian Troops

By J. WEB GALLAGHER Associated Press Staff Writer... SALONIKA, Greece, Nov. 29 (AP)—An "Amazon Company" of Macedonian peasant women who helped the Greek Army defeat 3000 Italian troops by rolling rocks down upon them from the peaks of the Pindus Mountains was described today in a Greek dispatch from the front. More than 100 women were reported by a Greek correspondent to have followed a Greek Army column, against the orders of an officer, and to have fought with the soldiers. The correspondent quoted one mid die-aged farm woman, Helen Codjani, who was wounded in the fight, as telling him: "A sergeant who passed through our village wanted to know the way to the Chapel of St. George. We told him and when he started off about 100 women took the trail after him. When we neared the chapel, we saw many Greek soldiers. When the officer saw us, he got very angry and ordered us to go back, but we started shouting, 'we shall not go back' we want to fight with you."

Several games of up-side-down what were enjoyed, prizes going to Mrs. W. Ziegler, Miss Wynne Porter receiving the consolation award. A substantial amount was realized. "Don't Be Mistaken About Constipation! A great many people, when they are constipated, open the medicine chest, take a purgative, and try to forget—until the stomach returns. And generally it comes back—more and more often—until you find the cause. If, like most people, you eat bread, meat, potatoes—the cause of your ailment is probably lack of "bulk." And "bulk" does not mean quantity of food, but the kind of food that is incompletely assimilated and serves a soft mass in the bowels that helps the bowel movement. If that is the reason for your ailment, eat a good bowl of Kellogg's crispy All-Bran for breakfast. It forms the necessary "bulk," and contains Vitamin B, the natural intestinal tonic. Eat some All-Bran every day, drink lots of water, and become "regular." Made in London, Canada, by Kellogg. At all grocers. LET A WANT-AD SERVE YOU

Hints for Housewives

TODAY'S MENU... Creamed Oysters over Toast... Baked Sweet Potatoes... Stewed Tomatoes... Lettuce or Cabbage Salad... Apple Skillet Cake... Coffee... CREAMED OYSTERS... Three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, dash pepper, one cup milk, 18 oysters, one-half cup of raw onion, one-half plumetto, minced, or one-half teaspoon paprika... APPLE SKILLET CAKE... Part I... 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup brown sugar, third cup hot water, 6 large eating apples, sliced thin... Part II... 1 egg, beaten, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup boiling milk, pinch salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup flour...

STAGES OF PLAY... Contrary to popular belief, the play interest of boys and girls up to five or six are very much alike. Much greater sex difference is apparent at the age of eight or ten. While children differ widely in respect to play interest they all tend to go through the following stages: They first handle materials and enjoy the experiences they get through the senses; then they gradually put things together, first very crudely, later with more and more likeness to the things they say they are creating. As more definite ideas take shape there develops more and more dramatic play. Fortunately the child whose parents encourage his creations and inventions, however crude, in terms of things or words, who enjoy his yams of fancy, go with him into his land of make-believe, and who fire his imagination by reading non-fearful fairy tales to him.

ASSOCIATION WITH OTHER CHILDREN... Even the child of five may follow his own play interest most of the time, in the presence of other children his age. While you won't insist that children of this age play cooperatively, it is well for them to play alongside other children of the same age, thus affording them increased inducements to play together.

Christmas Shopping in Nelson

No. 1 —

It's Time to Send That Christmas Card; Nelson Stores Have Fine Stock

Airmail Will Help You to Reach a Distant Friend; Great Variety of Cards; Care in Mailing Is Essential

It's Christmas Card time. This is the time of year to make a list of all those friends to whom you have been intending to send a Christmas card for remembrance. And to send the cards. It's not too late for any but the most distant friends, for airmail will reach most of them before Christmas even at this date.
Buying Christmas cards in Nelson stores can be an adventure, in itself. If one remembers that even in July, when the Summer sun was bringing sunburn blisters to tender skins, someone in a stuffy office was printing or photographing those snowy, Santa Clausy scenes; or that someone with an artist's easel was carefully planning designs particularly to suit you, then Christmas cards come alive and call aloud.
And if one chooses carefully a card designed to carry a remembrance of his or her own personality to a friend far away; or equally carefully selects a card to appeal to that particular friend; then shopping for Christmas cards becomes a real adventure.
As to the variety available—that is fixed only by the limits of artistic creation in a dozen mediums, which means there is practically no limit. A visit to the Nelson stores handling them is proof of this.
One of the important things to remember about Christmas cards is that you expect them to arrive at their destination, and so expecting, you want them to be in good condition. This means giving some consideration to size and packing.
If they are under size or oversized, they may offer all kinds of difficulties to mail clerks through whose hands they pass. Small ones may be damaged in stamp cancelling machines; large ones may be damaged when they are tied in bundles, along with normal sized envelopes, by the string used to tie the bundles. It's sensible and safe, to think of these things when mailing the cards.

Ernest Watts of Castlegar Drove Early "Horse Car"

Many Castlegar and Robson friends attended the funeral in Nelson Friday of Ernest Edward Albert Watts, Castlegar resident since 1907. He died Tuesday at Castlegar in his seventy-second year, leaving three daughters, Mrs. H. J. Billard of Okanagan Landing, Mrs. A. K. Miller of Nakusp and Mrs. C. C. Young of North Bend; three brothers, Herbert and Nathan of Sydney, B. C., and George of Balmoral, Man.; and nine grandchildren. His wife died five years ago.
Mr. Watts was born in Yorkshire, England, September 25, 1869. The family, on its way to Canada in 1878, boarded the crack Allen Line steamer Sardinia. There was an explosion before the ship left port and Mr. Watts' brother, Nathan, suffered serious injury. But transferring to the ship Scandinavia, the family continued the journey.
Arriving in Canada, they settled at Fort Garry, now Winnipeg, travelling the last part of the journey by Red River steamer. There was no railroad into Winnipeg until three years later.
DROVE "HORSE CAR"
Mr. Watts was among the first men who drove "horse cars" in Winnipeg, and later was a motor-man on the first electric street railway cars which replaced them.
In 1896 he married Miss Mary Clark, and in 1907 they brought their family of three girls to British Columbia, making their home at Castlegar.
As a last Mr. Watts served in a minor capacity with the forces engaged in suppressing the Riel Rebellion. He was a member of the Winnipeg Horse Artillery in 1895, volunteering for the Boer War, he went to England and was on his way to South Africa when the peace treaty was signed.
The funeral Friday was held from the chapel of Somers Funeral Home, Rev. T. J. S. Ferguson officiating. Hymns chosen were "Love That Will Not Let Me Go" and "Abide With Me."
Funeral directors were H. Foxlee of Robson and R. McGealey, J. Hanson, W. Dams, I. Peterson and A. Lampard of Castlegar.

E. A. MANN

Responding to the request of many friends, including prominent Nelson business men, E. A. Mann has announced he will be a candidate for Alderman at the December municipal elections. He is the first candidate, except for members of the present Council offering for reelection, to enter the aldermanic field.

Mr. Mann has been President of the Nelson Board of Trade for the past two years, and for three years previously was Vice-President of the Board of Trade, holding these offices during some of the most successful years in the Board's history. A feature of these years has been the building up of district contacts by the Board.

For three years he has served the City as a member of the Civic Centre Commission, the last two years as its Chairman.

Recently he was named Nelson District Chairman for the war savings stamps and certificates campaign, a highly successful drive in aid of the war effort.

Mr. Mann is a member of the executive of the Nelson Retail Merchants Association, and of the Nelson Gyrus Club. He has served as President of the Gyrus. He has also served as a director of Kootenay Lake General Hospital Society.
Coming first to Nelson in 1907, Mr. Mann lived in 1910 for Prince Rupert. He returned to the City to set up in business in 1929.

The marketed value of canned fish produced in Canada in 1939 was $15,449,000.

Christmas Motif Marks Successful St. Paul's Bazaar

Ushering in a season of bazaars and sales, St. Paul's Women's Auxiliary held a highly successful Christmas bazaar Friday afternoon in the parlors of St. Paul's United Church. So successful was it that the stalls were swept clean of fancywork and home cooking, and the kitchen was emptied of delicacies prepared for the tea.
The Christmas motif was emphasized by tinsel-hung Christmas trees and evergreens, and by decorative poinsettias. The tea table attracted many comments with its central bowl of dwarf caryanthe nuts flanked by Christmas red tapers in silver sconces, and gleaming silver tea services.
Mrs. J. A. Wilson, President, received the guests.

A THOUGHTFUL CANDIDATE

A community-minded candidate is Dr. David C. Cowen of Spokane, who recently was elected to the Washington State House of Representatives for a fourth consecutive term. He feels a sense of responsibility for the cardboard he caused to be tacked up during the election campaign.

Says a Spokane lady, in a letter to the editor of the Spokane Spokesman-Review, in part:

"It was my pleasure to be out Sunday riding in my car when I noticed two men tearing down the signs of all the candidates who ran for public office who had them posted in the Seventh Legislative District. To my surprise I saw the successful candidate for Legislator of the District, Dr. David C. Cowen, together with his assistant, tearing down the signs.

"It would do the hearts of the other aspirants good to drive through the District and see how neat and clean it is, while other sections of the City are enmeshed with signs from the governorship down to the legislative candidates. Why can't they do as this young man does every two years?"

This is an idea that need not be confined to Spokane.

In Nelson a card or notice of any kind remains on view until someone has occasion to put up its successor.

There have been occasions when notices many weeks old have remained on down-town poles in Nelson.

There should be authority under which those responsible for putting up notices would be held accountable for seeing that they came down after serving their purpose.

If the City had rubbish containers at all corners, disposal of these unwanted signs would not take long.

HUNGARY BECOMES "PARTNER"

Having been faithful to the Axis Powers in little things, Hungary is rewarded by promotion to partnership. Chancellor Hitler went all the way to Vienna to preside over the ceremony. The Hungarian Foreign Minister, Count Stephen de Csaky, affixed his signature to a protocol admitting Hungary into the German-Italian-Japanese treaty of alliance. The German and Italian Foreign Ministers and the Japanese Ambassador at Berlin added theirs. If any wicked foreign nation henceforth dares to attack Germany or Italy or Japan, Hungary is obliged to go to the aid of the one so attacked. The three Axis Powers agree to do the same thing by Hungary. It must be a great relief to Hungarians to know that if Guatemala, for example, sent over an army to attack them, powerful neighbors would rally to their aid.

It is not, of course, announced that the Axis Powers have found it necessary to protect Hungary from the menace of Guatemala, or even that of British Honduras. It is nevertheless difficult to guess what other potential attacker the signatory Powers have in mind. None of Hungary's neighbors in the Balkans is looking for trouble with the Magyars. The problem of Russia, it is intimated from Vienna, is being otherwise disposed of; Greece has its hands full; so has Rumania; Bulgaria is looking not to the Northwest but to the Southwest. No other potential foe is in striking distance.

A glance at any good map clearly shows why Hungary was invited into the charmed Axis circle. Hungary is to serve as a highway, if needed. It brings Germany to the border of Rumania, on the East, as it is at the border of Yugoslavia on the West.

If Hungary allows the German war chariot to roll Southward over the famous plains, those same plains will be there when that chariot is later driven back in reverse.

At the present stage, Hungary may not pay much of a price for serving Germany. However, there is a future. And a partner in a rough game, even a would-be silent partner, is apt to get mugged up.

Tea, Sugar, Butter, Meat Not Permitted British Gift Parcels, Widdowson Learns

Following is a copy of a letter in part, received from England, in reply to questions from E. W. Widdowson of Nelson as to whether certain food stuffs would be acceptable, and could be got through the customs over there:

Oct. 27th, 1940. I have received a letter from you dated Sept. 29th and this one has not been opened and examined. I think it must have come straight through Canada and not gone into the U. S. Thank you so much for the thought of sending a parcel of edibles. It does sound good.

A DAY OF SLEUTHING
Well, you would have laughed if you'd been with me this morning, Thursday being my day free from duty at present, I didn't hurry out, and only just caught the customs officer. Just at present they are closing this office at 11 a.m. Well, he was very nice and very busy, but sorry he could not help, excepting on one point. There would, "he thought", be duty to pay, if they allowed it to be landed, I better go to the Food Control office, they were being much stricter.

So off I went to the Municipal Buildings, and the first official I asked said, "You'd better go upstairs, first room on right, but I know you can't receive butter." Up I went, to a room full of women clerks. They redirected me to the "chief's" office, they wouldn't answer for that. Down I went to a door marked private, and in answer to my knock, "Come in," and I went. Well, there, when I asked him if I could receive a gift box from B. C. from friends, he said "Who sent you here?" When I told him, how, he laughed and so did I. Quite an elderly gentleman, but very keen. Well, he went into all that might be in the box, and "No, no—no, and then yes."

NOTHING THAT'S RATIONED

"No tea, no sugar, no butter, bacon or ham, nothing that is rationed; they are drawing the cord very tight now, and it's not allowed. But he saw nothing against receiving biscuits, perhaps cake or a Christmas pudding; he wasn't quite sure as to jam or marmalade. Yes, there'd be duty, he thought.

I told him about the stockings, and he said, Well, none of you ladies can have those this year; that's not permitted, is it?"

So that's how it is, dear. One thing he did say. They might be able to tell them the other end if these things are permitted to be landed. I can tell you both that some cake of biscuits or anything like that, that keeps, would be very acceptable. It takes the place of bread and "mixture" we call it—2 oz. butter mixed with 4 oz. marg., and really the margarine is not bad, or if I can get marmalade to put on it, it's all right.

After all, when I think of the folk who have lost some foodstuffs and everything, oh! How very grateful one ought to be. Here, in our town, some of the big places are turned into long dormitories, beds on either side, and evacuees are sleeping there. The houses are full. It doesn't seem one bit like nearing Christmas.

CONTRACT

THINK THOROUGHLY
HALF-BAKED thinking is frequently better than no thinking at all. If a player will merely do what seems the natural thing, the first thing that comes to his mind, he may blunder through. But if he pauses just a moment to reflect, he may get a bright idea, contrary to what is usual. He should not follow such a hunch, however, without first weighing it a bit as against the alternative course of action, or he may pay heavily for his shallow smartness.

Wax, of course, to prevent a lead of that suit, and it succeeded because West had so many he reckoned East's double was based on strength elsewhere. He led the spade 2, the A overtaking the K. South, counting only eight immediate tricks, expected everybody at other tables to make 4-Clubs on the deal, so that he couldn't afford to get set. He struck for an early heart trick, hoping the A would be held up, but West came in with it and properly returned his diamond 2. East took it with the K, then thought a bit. With no side entries, he decided he had better set up his suit at once, so led the diamond J. As a consequence, the declarer got the rest of the tricks, making 5-No Trumps for a huge top score.

If East had thought a moment longer, he would have realized the diamond 2 was West's fourth-best, leaving the declarer only two diamonds. The play of his A then would have enabled his side to set the contract two tricks, giving the declarer a bottom score and his own pair the East-West top.

Silverton Man Fears People Not Being Told Whole Truth of War

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Sir—During these hazardous and troublesome times, newspapers and radio news broadcasts play an ever and ever more important role in moulding public opinion concerning the eventual outcome of World War II; more especially because we in Canada are so far removed from the scene of actual conflict.

As I understand it, there exists in Canada today a self-imposed censorship concerning news, editorial comments and radio news broadcasts. This is not, of course, censorship as practiced in totalitarian states but, rather, it shows itself in a reluctance to admit our reverses and an over-emphasis of what meagre successes we have had to date.

Now the average Canadian is a more intelligent, better educated, and much better informed person than he was during World War I. He is very similar to his British cousin in that he fights much harder when the going gets tough than he would otherwise. He is not afraid to take a little of the bad along with the good and, definitely, does not fly into panic when told that all is not going well.

In connection with the above, do you think that sugar-coated news and tight-mouthed radio news broadcasts are serving their intended purpose; to good Canada to its ultimate effort in winning this war? Don't you think it would be better to present the news to him in such a way that our reverses receive as much emphasis as our successes do? Don't you think he is capable of properly weighing the facts himself? Don't you think that instead of taking up time and space telling him how just our cause is, and how wrong that of the enemy is, you should be telling him what will face him if he doesn't do his utmost to win this war? Don't you think if you told him how serious the situation really is (it is still more serious than at any time during World War I), that he would put his shoulder to the wheel and push that much harder?

FEARS AIM IS TO LULL

Instead, your every purpose seems to be lull us into that false sense of security that was almost Britain's downfall last Summer. You continue to emphasize the sunny side of the news and "soft-pedal" anything which you think would depress us. You would have us believe that the few thousands of pounds of bombs the R. A. F. can carry to Berlin do more damage than the thousands of tons the Germans have been dropping on London and Coventry. Our shipping losses receive scant acknowledgment. Whole city blocks are laid waste, yet we hear "the damage was light." You shout "fifth column" when you should be emphasizing the fact that we were and still are inadequately prepared. You glorify shopkeepers in England who put up signs "business as usual" in bombed shops, when you should actually be telling us about the suffering and misery those people have to endure.

It took the defeat of France, the sight of thousands of enemy bombers overhead, and the grim spectre of invasion to wake the English people up. Well, we Canadians are not much different from the average Englishman. Most of us are not really awake yet, and there are no immediate prospects of enemy bombs, gunfire or invasion confronting us. And, Heaven help us, if such a time should ever come, it would really be too late.

So, the sound of enemy bombs being far removed at present, don't you gentlemen of the press think it is time to indulge in a few editorial bombshells that would rock us to our very foundations and scare some sense of apprehension into us? And don't you gentlemen of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation think it is a very appropriate time to indulge in some heart talks with "us, the people," and tell us where we actually stand? We can only see smoke where we should be made to see fire. We can better face the facts right close up than viewed from a distance through the sunset.

Don't continually belittle the enemy," for we know he is formidable, and our preparations will be much better if we are made to realize it. Don't lead us to believe that the sinking of a few Italian battleships has turned the tide in our favor. Remember, over-confidence was the real downfall of France. If we are losing this war, we want to know about it and make more sacrifices, if necessary, than we are at present.

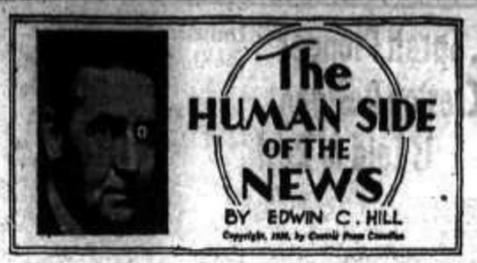

We have a long hard road to travel before ultimate victory, and your every purpose should be to keep us pointed continually in the right direction on that road. Don't encourage us to sit down and take a rest; we haven't got time now to do that.

Prove to us that the very purpose for which we fight this war is the right and just cause, by giving us "democracy and more democracy" in the news.

Dust of Gold

"True worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth. . . the Father seeketh such. God is a spirit." John 4:23, 24.
When Jesus spoke these words to the woman by the well, He was giving out new truth to the people of his time who thought that God must be worshipped in one place only.
Have you today discovered the great joy and freedom there is to be found in worshipping God in your spirit any time of the day or night that it might occur to you to do so?
Throw away your grievances, confess your sins to God, and worship Him today in the deepest sincerity with your whole spirit, and a warm consciousness of His love will flood your being, bringing peace and joy and power.

Sacred Shrines No Longer Respected by the Germans

It is said, indeed, to reflect that houses of worship are no longer respected by the enemy which seeks daily to convert England into dust and rubble. Some of the greatest masterpieces of architecture are torn and rent by huge bombs. Recently great damage was done to Westminster Abbey, where the kings and queens of England have been crowned since the days of Edward the Confessor, and where so many of the illustrious dead are sleeping the eternal sleep.

The bomb which blasted a hole twenty feet in diameter in Old Palace Yard, behind the statue of Richard the Lion-Hearted, near the peers' entrance of the House of Lords, also damaged the roof of St. Margaret's Church, adjacent to the Abbey, and blew in hundreds of leaded windows of the House of Lords. There is scarcely a window now intact in that House. Concussion from the bomb caused considerable damage to the historic shrine of Henry VII's chapel, sixteenth century shrine at the East end of the Abbey, where many kings and queens lie buried, and knights of the Order of the Bath are installed with ancient pomp. The parts used for crypts for rulers were not damaged, but chunks of the outside masonry were blasted away.

The famous poets' corner of the chapel, being located in one corner of the South transept of the Abbey escaped injury. Spintners were sent flying Southeast from the bomb crater clear up over Victoria Tower, 336 feet high and the tallest of the three towers of the House of Parliament; others were catapulted to the Northwest and scarred a statue of Oliver Cromwell in front of Westminster Hall, seventy feet from the crater. The heroic figure of Richard the Lion-Hearted was undamaged, but his sword was bent and the horse slightly damaged.

A fascinating treasure-house of history and of human memories is the great old Abbey. I know of no building erected by the hand of man so alive with the deathless spirit of the men and women that made England what she is today. Entombed in Westminster Abbey is much more than royal bones. For, as one strolls through the dim corridors, upon whose marble and granite walls fall the divinely lovely light from old, old stained glass, one pauses, with quickening breath, before symbols and mementoes of love and hate—symbols and mementoes that still have power to flood the heart with woe and emotion.

Upon the slab is the recumbent effigy of a great queen. Her head rests upon tasseled and embroidered cushions, her slim feet upon a crouching lion. She is mantled in royal robe, lined with ermine. Her closely curled hair is crowned with a simple cap. Elizabeth Tudor as she was when she broke the power of haughty Spain.
But it is the ring—the simple little memento that lies behind a protecting plate of glass, underneath her stilled heart—that draws the eye, and by the power of its magic turns back the very centuries. For that ring stands for a great love, a woman's treachery and the death of a young man whose pride dragged him to the headman's block.
Elizabeth greatly loved the young Earl of Essex. In a moment of tenderness, she gave him that ring, with the queenly pledge that if ever he forfeited her favor he could win her forgiveness, no matter what the offence, by sending her the ring. Handsome, brilliant, headstrong young Essex, sent to Ireland in command of an army, and the victim of misfortune and his own fiery temper, bitterly disappointed Elizabeth. She ordered him to remain and retrieve his failures.
In wild anger, he not only disobeyed the order and returned to London, but stormed one night into her private apartment and loosed upon her the violence of his intense wrath. Punished by the deeply offended queen, he then conspired against her crown. She sent him to the tower. Her council condemned him to death. At the very last, with the executioner waiting, his pride gave way. He threw the ring and a message out of a window to the Countess of Nottingham, whose love he had rejected. The spiteful and treacherous countess kept the ring and suppressed the message.
Waiting until the last minute, in trembling hope of submission from the man she still loved, Elizabeth in a tempest of tears, signed the death warrant and the head of the proud Earl of Essex rolled in the lower yard. Years later, the dying Countess of Nottingham sent for the queen, confessed her treachery and craved her pardon. Elizabeth had a transport of grief and fury, struck the dying penitent across the mouth, "God may forgive you," she cried, "but I never can!"

NO DANGER OF FOOD SHORTAGE IN BRITAIN

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—Dr. William Allen, who accompanied Agriculture Minister Gardiner on his recent food mission to Great Britain, said last night that Britain is in little danger of a food shortage. "In some parts of England there is little danger from over-cultivation than from bombing," Dr. Allen told an Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' banquet here.

D'ye mind the wee blue skinned hooch that used ta stand at the end o' the brig? We used ta call it the Tell. Abla's it was a Toll since, 't the auld days, but when you an' me gae'd there, there was an auld wye stayed in it an' sell't sweetsies. She was a wee shrewlived up kind o' body and aye had a shawl round her shoulders an' a much as white as snow, an' she had the grandest peppermints an' sugar b'ob's a body ever tasted, an' the clagum an' lickin' stick. D'ye mind how the bell used ta gang jinglin' jinglin' when ye opened the door an' gie' near fell down the step intae the hoose?

Wee! It's no there any mair. There's naughtin' but a ruckle o' broken stanes, some blacked wud, broken glass and a muckle glaury hool. Yin o' Hitler's knights o' the air m'kook it for a toot or a castle or somethin' an' Phoebe, awa it gae'd.

But! The road down past still winds among the oaks an' beeches an' chestnuts, down an' round the bend, an' there's Tweed, just the very same, singin' along awween its houghs, an' the Braegheids wi' their red scarves shinin' i' the mellow afternoon sun, an' aw about there are the Eldons' blue' blue' and hazy agin the sky, strong, steadfast an' everlastin', an' further over yet the Cheviots, crest after crest, rise after rise. The royal purple o' the heather has begun ta fade under the snell blast o' the November winds, but still there's a glory o' colour i' the sunshine an' a warmth an' wonder about them. Or an' hills, they're aye there yet, they're aye there.

J. Spratt Pioneer Creston Resident Is Laid to Rest

CRESTON, B. C. — Many were on Thursday afternoon to pay last respects to the late John Spratt, a long-time resident of Creston whose death occurred Tuesday morning.

Funeral services will be at Christ Church, with Rev. A. S. Farrington in charge.

Following the church burial rites, the funeral was held at the Royal Orange Lodge where it was presided over by Mr. Spratt was a Past Master of Creston Orange Lodge, whose membership was present at the last rites.

Honorary pallbearers were W. H. Crawford, H. S. McCrest, R. S. Evans, C. F. Hayes, E. W. Payne, and Tom Leaman. The active pallbearers were E. Haskins, R. Alderson, C. B. Twigg, George Hood, W. H. Mathew and Hilson Young.

Mr. Spratt was a real pioneer of the Kootenays, making his first trip to these parts in 1868, when he was employed with a crew cutting a trail north from the Idaho boundary at Rhyker, B. C., to what was then designated as the Alice Mine Townsite, a mile north of Creston.

Following this he worked at Greenwood, Grand Forks, Kaslo, and the Slocan until 1892, when he again visited at Creston, although it was not until 1903 that he located permanently on his farm property here and went into stock raising and fruit growing.

He was married in 1910 at Cranbrook to Miss M. McCoy of Belfast, Ireland, and is survived by his widow and four daughters.

Industry Romance Behind D.S.O. Award to Legless Pilot

A romance of British industry lies behind the award of the D.S.O. to the famous legless pilot of the R.A.F., Acting Squadron-Leader to a Squadron from Canada.

After an accident in 1931, when he lost both legs, Squadron-Leader Bader was fitted with artificial limbs by one of the Desoutter brothers who have given Britain the world lead in making artificial limbs.

When Marcel Desoutter lost a leg in an airplane accident in 1912 his brother Charles, an aeronautical engineer, set to work and produced the first light metal limb made of what was then the new duralumin alloy and weighing 3½-4½ lbs. instead of the usual 7-10 lbs. A year later Marcel Desoutter resumed flying and since that time no fewer than 100,000 limbs have been supplied by the Desoutter brothers to the British Ministry of Pensions and to private patients all over the world. Ball-bearing mechanisms enable the users to cycle, play tennis or golf, ride on horseback, drive a car and even to ski. An astonishing feat of design is the artificial ankle which combines the joint and spring action of the foot in one neat mechanical unit.

Squadron-Leader Bader, the most distinguished user, won his D.S.O. by leading a squadron of Hurricanes which dived straight into a lightly packed formation of 70 to 100 enemy raiders and brought down 11 of them.

"Squadron-Leader Bader is an exceptional pilot," says E. R. Desoutter. "He learned to use his limbs very quickly and soon developed many special tricks, such as turning backward somersaults."

Nazi Bombs Give Buckna's Unit a Lot of Thrills

Joe Buckna, Trillite with the C.A.S.F. in England, tells of free entertainment put on for the soldiers, and also of a close shave for his unit when a Nazi bomber dropped bombs in the vicinity, in his latest letter to The Daily News.

"On Monday Oct. 21 we were treated to a fine vaudeville performance put on by some London players. It was a free show to all Canadians, and the Canadian Legion is the sponsor. Twice a week a new show is given and the leads take every opportunity to attend. A grand performance is given each week. The Canadians are great for singing events.

The lead from the Kootenays are doing well. No one seems to be in anything but good shape as far as I can make out. The countryside in England is a beautiful sight to behold at this time of year. We do have fog in the mornings but we manage to have some nice sunny afternoons.

CLOSE CALL

Three o'clock the other morning the boys had a hair-raiser. The drone of a close-by plane was heard by most of us. It had awakened most of the boys as it was whistling low. All of a sudden the whistling of dropping bombs could be heard. They were of the smaller type and as each one was let loose they seemed to be getting closer all the time. Luckily, not too close.

As one lad remarked, "They were of the smaller type but plenty big enough for me." I quite agreed with him.

We viewed the damage today. They landed in a football field. The Nazis' poor shooting was our good luck. Just as long as they miss, we'll be seeing you. Sure hope they do."

Canada Might Give U.S. Corridor for Alaska Road

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — The possibility of Canada granting the United States a "corridor" for a highway to Alaska, over which troops and supplies could be moved in an emergency, was mentioned today in speculation on the terms that might be involved should any additional American warships be sent to Britain.

There was no confirmation in official quarters that the release of additional U.S. naval vessels was under consideration, or that a grant from Canada for the proposed defence highway might figure in such a transaction.

Talk of such a development was heard, however, in the discussion that has sprung up since the Marquis of Lothian, British Ambassador, returned from London recently with word that more ships were among his country's urgent needs.

Anthony J. Dimock, delegate in Congress from Alaska, has estimated that a good road could be constructed to close the existing gap between Hazelton, B. C., and the existing Alaskan Highway system for $25,000,000.

ADMIT COMMISSION STUDYING PLAN

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP) — Defence Department officials, wary of disclosing official secrets, had little to say today on a report from Washington that Canada might grant the United States a "corridor" for a highway to Alaska in return for the transfer of additional American warships to Britain.

But one spokesman admitted that the International Joint Commission had been delegated to investigate "the feasibility" of such a move. He said, however, that the report of the Commission would not be completed until January.

Another official, warning that nothing definite could be said on the subject, acknowledged a movement in support of the proposal was "active" in British Columbia and also on the South side of the boundary.

SOLDIERS UNDER 20 YRS. MUST HAVE OFFICER'S CONSENT TO MARRY

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP) — Subalterns and warrant officers in the Canadian Active Service Force not yet 20 can marry only with the consent of their commanding officers. The ruling came into effect under a routine order Nov. 18.

Army Doctors Invent Rheumatism Cure

Faced with rheumatism, the scourge of armies, British Army doctors have found how to give to sufferers first-class treatment with the most primitive of apparatus.

Rheumatic conditions call for three forms of treatment: rest, purgation and warmth.

Under normal circumstances rest is given in beds of hospitals; warmth from elaborate medicinal bathing establishments. Now in the field treatment quite as efficacious is provided by placing the patient in an ordinary canvas chair, wrapped in an army blanket with a copious stream of steam from a pipe led under his wrappings from a Primus stove.

Since radiant heat lamps are not practical on active service, Army doctors have improvised in their steed cast iron heated over a Primus stove and then set before a sheet of metal to act as reflector.

Next, mud is mixed with olive oil and glycerine to form packs and sand is baked in pails and applied to the affected parts.

Cmdr. Beard Was Retired on Sick Leave April 1939

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP) — Cmdr. Charles T. Beard was retired on sick leave from his post as officer commanding the auxiliary cruiser Prince Robert on the unanimous opinion of medical men who examined him, the Naval Minister, Hon. Angus Macdonald told the House of Commons today.

He answered a question from Dr. Herbert Bruce (Con., Toronto Parkdale), a distinguished surgeon who, after Mr. Macdonald's statement, said as a professional man he could not give an opinion on the unanimous opinion of medical men who examined him, the Naval Minister, Hon. Angus Macdonald told the House of Commons today.

Dr. Bruce said there had been much discussion about the "beaching" of the officer who was in command when the Prince Robert captured the German freighter Weser off the West coast of Mexico. The Conservative Member asked for the result of any medical investigation.

Mr. Macdonald said Cmdr. Beard was retired in April 1939 as being in category E. The medical examiner then said his general physical condition was good but he suffered a slight cardiac atrophy, high blood pressure and some rigidity of the spine.

In May, 1939 a medical board was held at Esquimalt and gave the opinion Cmdr. Beard's disability was due to a nervous disease. In part an injury suffered while in charge of a bathing party in the Mediterranean.

Stowaway Now Has Seaman's Papers

NEW YORK (CP) — Bobby Stap, the lad who has a passion to go down to the sea, and did—four times as a stowaway—now has his seaman's papers.

Now 16, but just as snub-nosed and freckled-faced as he was two years ago when, in the space of five months, he travelled away on four vessels and travelled some 20,000 nautical miles, Bobby has graduated, with honors, from New York Merchant Marine School.

Bobby, who expects a berth with the Clyde Mallory line, was ordered by the children's court of New York to attend the Marine School when he returned from an illicit cruise of the Caribbean. His travels took him to England, France and South America.

Survivor Says Nazi Raider Hit Twice

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Nov. 29 (CP) — A survivor of one of four vessels sunk by the German raider during an attack on a 38-ship convoy in the North Atlantic November 5 said on his arrival here from St. John's, Nfld., today he believed the Nazi warship suffered two hits on her superstructure from a four-inch gun on his ship.

Abbe Seaman E. Fletcher, second-class gunlayer, arrived here with 29 other survivors of two of the four merchant vessels sunk by the German vessel. A total of 92 British seamen were saved from seven lifeboats in mid-Atlantic after the battle and landed in St. John's, 43 having been brought here previously.

R.C.A.F. Casualties

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP) — The Air Ministry issued today its 23rd casualty list of the war, announcing 13 men killed in flying accidents in Canada and listing as "missing as a result of a flying accident" the three airmen for whom search is being conducted in the East Lake region of Quebec.

One man who had previously been reported missing was listed as killed in a flying accident. Taking this into consideration and counting the three missing in Quebec, today's casualty list brought total Royal Canadian Air Force dead and missing reported since war started to 89.

Following is the latest casualty list with official number and next of kin:

Killed in flying accidents in Canada:

Temporary Sgt. Frederick Edgar Wellington, R-6810, r. Frederick William Wellington (father), Toronto. (Temporary Sgt. Wellington was killed in a crash near St. Catharines, Ont., Nov. 23.)

Temporary Sgt. Donald Fielden Whitaker, R-70429, Frank L. Whitaker (father), Waterloo, Ont. (Temporary Sgt. Whitaker was killed with Temporary Sgt. Wellington.)

Lt. Joseph Arthur William Boyd, R-5477, William Boyd (father), Westmount, Que. (Lt. Boyd was killed Nov. 19 at Jarvis, Ont.)

Lt. Louis Macadam Duff, R-56372, Charles Alexander Duff (father), Montreal West, (Lt. Duff was killed Nov. 25 at London, Ont.)

Lt. John Edwards Higginbotham, R-56322, Henry Edwards Higginbotham (father), South Orange, N.J. (Lt. Higginbotham was killed in the same crash with Lt. Duff.)

Lt. Andrew Joseph Hurley, 7979, Mrs. Dorothy Beatrice Hurley (wife), care of Mrs. Strickland, North Sydney, N. S. (Lt. Hurley was reported missing Aug. 19.)

Lt. Peter George Mason, R-63601, George Stanley Mason (father), London, Ont. (Lt. Mason was killed Nov. 22 near Hammond, Ont.)

Lt. Charles Harold Morgan, R-52650, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Morgan (mother), St. Catharines, Ont. (Lt. Morgan was killed in the same crash at Lac. Mason.)

Temporary Sgt. John Henderson Scott, R-70529, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Scott (wife), 714 Omnicia St. E., Moose Jaw, Sask. (Temporary Sgt. Scott was killed in the crash of a flying plane near Moose Jaw, Nov. 7.)

Ac. Frank MacGuire, R-76531, Mrs. Marian Roberts MacGuire (wife), Suite 5, Wellington Court, Moose Jaw. (Ac. MacGuire was killed in the same crash as Temporary Sgt. Scott.)

Missing as result of flying accident:

Flt. Lt. Gilbert Frederick Clay, C-118, F. S. Clay (father), 145 18th Ave., New Westminster, B. C. (Search is being conducted for Flt. Lt. Clay in the East Lake region of Eastern Quebec where he bailed out of a patrol plane the night of Nov. 15.)

Fo. John Gordon Richardson, C-890, A. J. Richardson (father), 309 29th St. W., Saskatoon. (Missing with Flt. Lt. Clay.)

R. H. Howard (father), Aylesford, N. S. (Missing with Fo. Richardson and Flt. Lt. Clay.)

Recreation Cuts Juvenile Crime

CHICAGO — By opening a new world of ball teams, swimming meets, boys clubs, and song fests to neighborhood "toughs" and potential gangsters, many American cities have reduced juvenile delinquency and crime as much as 75 per cent, the International Association of Chiefs of Police reports.

Crime-prevention programs in these cities are proving that what a juvenile court judge once said about boys is true. "There are," said the judge, "no inherently bad boys. The worst offender often is just a boy with drive and energy enough to kick against wrong conditions that exist. He's like a plant growing crooked because a stone is pressing on it. Remove the stone, and the supposedly 'bad' boy grows into a fine man."

These cities are doing just that—removing "stones"—righting wrong home conditions, giving "tough guys" a chance for normal fun, directing older unemployed youth to jobs, or ways of training for them.

ANALYSIS OF PROGRAMS

To find out about existing facilities for preventing crime and rehabilitating delinquents, an analysis of the programs of 150 cities was made recently by the Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Crime Prevention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. It found programs administered in the following ways:

In 40 cities by the police alone.

In 24 cities by the police, juvenile courts, and probation officers.

In 56 cities by courts and juvenile probation bureaus.

In 17 cities by private agencies, such as Lions or Rotary Club.

In three cities by the local board of education.

In 10 cities by various other city, county, and state agencies.

But however administered, success depends largely on the degree of cooperation received from other agencies in the town, the analysis showed. Some cities, notably Los Angeles, have a coordinating council—made up of representatives from schools, courts, churches, social agencies, and other local groups. It is a central clearing house for ideas on crime prevention, and eliminates duplication of work.

RECREATION STRESSED

All the programs examined emphasized recreation as a means of preventing crime and curing delinquency. Municipal playgrounds help much. Some cities open public school gyms at night. Neighborhood "toughs" forget mischief, it is found, when they can play on a hard-fighting basketball team, or train for a track meet.

Y. M. C. A.'s give memberships to underprivileged boys. In some places juvenile courts parole first offenders to the "Y" with fine results. Such a boy is called "dependent" instead of "delinquent" to remove the stigma attached to that name and give him every chance to grow straight.

In many cities police play a big part in preventing and curing delinquency, the programs showed.

Boy Scout troops, often are sponsored by policemen. It is not unusual for a police officer to be a Scout Leader, and for the troop to hold meetings in the police squad room.

When a young person collides with the law, parents are often the real culprit, courts and social workers find. And in one city, where the crime-prevention program is managed by the Board of Education, negligent parents are arraigned in court and action taken against them. A state welfare act permits it.

There is a definite trend toward education generally as a means of preventing crime, the Association states.

Even Buttons Make Distinction for Canadian Navy Officers, Men

By FRANK FLAHERTY Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Ont. (CP) — Canadians are slowly becoming navy-conscious as the nation's fighting fleet expands in numbers of ships and men to meet the needs of war and are learning something of the uniforms and insignia of the service.

Three types of uniforms are worn in the navy respectively by commissioned officers, petty officers and ratings having special trade qualifications, and by seamen. Ratings are all naval personnel who are not commissioned officers.

The commissioned officers wear a suit of dark blue with double-breasted coat, brass buttons and white collar and black tie. Their rank is indicated by gold bands on the sleeve near the cuff.

If the band is plain and straight it indicates the officer is a permanent navy man. A wavy band indicates the wearer is a member of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve who does full-time naval duty in war but pursues some civilian activity in peacetime.

A cross-band denotes a member of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, who works in the merchant marine in peacetime.

MATTER OF BUTTONS

Petty officers and certain other ratings with specialist qualifications wear a uniform somewhat similar to commissioned officers except that their coat has three buttons instead of four.

Their rank and trade qualification is indicated by badges on the cap above the peak, on the sleeve or on the collar. Signalmen, telegraphists, motor mechanics, engine-

Business Clubs in Britain Carry On Under Severe War Conditions

OTTAWA (CP) — To Canadian and American women with such aid as their British sisters may bring from an embattled Britain has fallen the task of keeping alive the International Federation of Business and Professional Women which linked 25 nations before the war. This is the first year in 10 with no European congress.

Miss Alice Ahern, President of the Ottawa branch said this is considered as a part of their war-work.

"There are 28 affiliated clubs in Canada alone and a gallant effort is being made to maintain and strengthen our international bonds with those lands still free to do so, in the face of the steady disappearance of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Holland and six other European nations which had flourishing Business and Professional Women's clubs," said Miss Ahern.

Word received from Federations in Finland, Norway and Sweden indicated magnificent work done in the stricken countries and the clubs are likely to survive the war, the Ottawa president said. "The situation of those in Poland and Czechoslovakia is different. We know they have been through much suffering. In Czechoslovakia all women's clubs have disappeared."

WORD FROM ENGLAND

An open letter to Canadian women members was received by Miss Ahern from Miss Gordon Holmes at the International Headquarters in London. It described the efforts to keep things going in England. She writes:

"Of our 25 affiliations I can only write to Australia, New Zealand, Canada and United States this year, but I am sure you will want to know what progress we are making in England—and we are, in spite of the war."

"Clubs in England have doubled in number. Our work is inducing in us all a morale, courage, hope and happiness that have helped to carry us through one bitter winter and will carry us through all the others if it is necessary. We are organizing for leadership to ensure those things for our nation and other nations. This is our war work."

Describing club organizing in England in wartime Miss Holmes writes that between air-raids, time lost in shelters and delayed journeys, the work isn't easy. While running an ambulance and between watching air battles she organized new branches. "I shall always remember these," she said.

Closing her letter Miss Holmes writes, "We are all proudly thrilled by the way Canada is coming to our aid. Canadian regiments are marching through London to overwhelming cheers. Canadian flags are flying and Canadian bands playing, and every ship brings Canadian supplies. All Britain is saying, 'Thank you, Canada!'"

Unforeseen War Emergencies Add to Responsibilities in Welfare Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Social and welfare work in Canada has a veritable civilian army in action on the "Home Front" according to Miss Charlotte Whitton, director of the Canadian Welfare Council.

Reports from welfare authorities in 10 cities and districts throughout the Dominion show a movement towards the coordination of services and financing of social agencies. Programs have been adapted to retain fundamental values while meeting new and unforeseen war emergencies.

"The survey reveals that Canadians understand that our 'Home Front' campaign is essential for our overseas victory," said Miss Whitton.

Important points were listed as follows:

1. Enormously increased family services to the wives and children of soldiers.
2. Closer cooperation between the Dependents' Allowance Board and the social agencies.
3. More national planning to save time, money and overlapping of services.
4. Increase in children's work because of the overseas evacuation plans.
5. Protection and advice to beebidden and other people who have money in their hands for the first time in years due to war-created work.

Loan funds have been opened in many of Canada's larger centres by the social agencies in order to bridge the delays in payment of dependents' allowances.

"It is impossible to avoid delays if justice is to be done to all legal dependents, the tax payer who provides the funds and to the national war effort," declared Miss Whitton. "Therefore our social agencies have been cooperating, giving the necessary aid and looking after families in the interim."

Reports from the loan funds show that every effort has been made for repayment. In one town out of 98 loans there is only $38 outstanding.

Loss of a money sense during the depression years is noticeable. Here the Welfare Councils have been called upon to protect housewives against lavish installment buying beyond their means.

Throughout Canada councils have received personal requests and letters from soldiers asking them to "Keep an eye on the family." The wife is likely to get "down in the mouth" and find it "difficult to manage the kids."

Some of the social agencies have the problem of the guiding and direction of the "teen-age boys and girls on their hands. Winter programs of many social agencies are designed towards steady youth and teaching the principals of democracy for which their elder brothers are fighting abroad, said Miss Whitton.

Contributions have been generous. In Montreal alone $1,716,000 was contributed to the four Welfare Federations last year.

Speed Highway "Catches Up" With Fastest of Automobiles

Since motorists started to zoom into Pennsylvania's State capital over the new, non-stop 160-mile-long turnpike from Pittsburgh with completely revised concepts of highway speeds, "stop overnight in Harrisburg" has been converted from a tourist trade slogan to a highway safety campaign, says W. Clifford Harvey in Christian Science Monitor.

"You simply cannot do it" gas station agents and traffic police are telling out-of-state motorists who arrive in Harrisburg out of the West with the telltale flush of high speeds in their faces. In reply to the usual retort: "You cannot readjust yourself to traffic hazards ahead without giving your newly acquired speed complex an over night's rest."

Motorists taking this friendly advice are helping to fill Harrisburg's hotels, while business feels the influx of tourist dollars all the way from the Eastern terminus of the express road in Carlisle, 30 miles West of the State Capital, North to Jonestown and the Pennsylvania Dutch towns straggling along Route 40 in the direction of Bethlehem. The common query encountered in tea rooms, hotel lobbies, and on street corners, momentarily supplanting the war issue is: "How fast did you go on the new turnpike?"

THE HIGHWAY OF TOMORROW

Some tourists are heard to say: "I get her up to 85." One proudly stated that his wife, who usually rebels at 60 miles an hour did not even know when the car hit 70. The writer can understand these reactions on the turnpike for a total of 300 miles in something less than six hours, at times attaining speeds he never dreamed of travelling with the assurance of safety.

Transplanted for so many hours on the "highway of tomorrow" where mental hazards are virtually eliminated, the return to conventional driving is something of a shock, like lifting a railway engineer, accustomed to uninterrupted travel on an exclusive right of way, out of his locomotive and putting him behind the wheel of an intown motorbus.

Aside from the beauties of the autumn-colored alleghenies through which the motorist slides via a series of seven-mile-long tunnels, driving along the turnpike is a thrilling, not soon to be forgotten experience of mental ease and fast clicking speedometers. You pick up the pike at Carlisle, going West, find yourself on a four-lane, divided highway with high, wire fences on both sides to protect your right of way against pedestrians and other stray impediments to carefree travel.

TEST OUT THE ENGINE

You step on the gas, 30, 40, 50 miles an hour, glance cautiously around for "brass buttons" then remember that you are on a thoroughfare, nonstop express road. With a sigh of relief, you test out the engine in sudden spurts up to 60. Miles ahead you see the road dip, over a slight grade. Did we say miles ahead? That was three minutes ago. You just went over the dip.

There's a warning sign: "Willow Hill exit, 16 miles." The speedometer now reads 70 m. p. h. That means 15 minutes to Willow Hill. You can count on that, since you will not have to stop or slow down unless the gas gives out.

There is another sign: "Filling station and restaurant, 2 miles." By the time you have checked your gasoline, you are there. The long, merging approach to the station is none too long. You hit the approach at 65, little realizing how fast you are going, and the car zooms up to the pumps like a rocket. Everyone stops, as a rule, since stopping places are novelties, being 30 miles apart on this right-of-way which bans bill boards, hot-dog stands of the conventional sun variety, tourist homes, and traffic lights.

But hold your hat you are off again at a 50 mile an hour clip. You are getting accustomed to high speeds, so you step up to 75. Then a strange thing happens. For the first time in your driving experience, you are wondering, not if the highway driving conditions are safe, but "am I going too fast for the car?"

CARS AHEAD OF HIGHWAY

Across your vision flashes the picture of automotive research which has built safe speeds into cars that conventional highways are unable to take with safety. The car has been years ahead of the highway. Now you have found a highway that has caught up with automotive engineers and will compel them to go more deeply into problems of air resistance and tire hazards.

Rubber manufacturers say that the fabrics are not made to withstand pressure of sustained speeds at 65 to 70 miles an hour. And before reaching 75 miles an hour, wind resistance sets up a car sway so noticeable to drivers with a "feeling of the car" that the majority of motorists on the new pike will not drive more than 50 to 60 miles an hour.

That is why William A. Stasia, acting chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, points out that "highway engineers have finally thrown off the shackles of restricted vision and built a roadway that has caught up with the automobile. This road is recaptured driving habits. It is the first link in our national defense chain of modern highways. It is a challenge to the slow driver who will fall asleep at speeds of less than 50 miles an hour on this highway."

Officially there is a 50-mile-an-hour speed limit on this turnpike. But that is to catch the reckless motorist and is not intended to keep speeds down to 50 miles where greater speeds than that are clearly justified. There are curves and certain reduced speed zones where a 50 mile an hour law will catch up with the reckless, giving the police a clear basis of action.

Canadian War Fliers of 1914-18 in Harness Again, But Most Grounded

OTTAWA—Canadian war fliers of 1914-18 are back in harness with the Royal Canadian Air Force, although only a handful are aloft again hunting Hun in the clouds. Legions of others are serving as administrative officers or commanding active service formations or training units, "grounded" because they are not as young as they once were. Altogether some 250 Canadians who fought and flew in the First Great War have donned the air force blue.

Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., D.S.O. and Bar, M.C., D.F.C., Chevaller of the Legion of Honour, Croix de Guerre with Palm, has rejoined the service in an administrative capacity and is aiding in the recruiting of the new air force of Canadians. Death has taken most of "Billy" Bishop's comrades among the top ranking Canadian "aces" of the earlier war, but the large proportion-century ago with the Royal Air Force has supplied much of the backbone of the Royal Canadian Air Force today.

The scilicet heads of the various branches of the force at Ottawa are all veterans of the First Great War who remained in service after the armistice and guided the development of Canada's own air force from a humble start in 1920.

Air Vice-Marshal G. M. Croll, A.F.C., fought for a year with the Gordon Highlanders before he learned to fly. His air service took him to France and the near East, where he personally piloted the famous "Lawrence of Arabia" on secret missions among the desert tribes. Air Vice-Marshal Croll played an important part in training camps in Egypt. At the outbreak of this war he was Chief of Air Staff in Ottawa, but when the importance and magnitude of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan increased staff duties, he became inspector-general to devote more time exclusively to this training program.

Air Vice-Marshal Lloyd S. Bredner, D.S.C., is active head of the R.C.A.F. as Chief of the Air Staff. He learned his flying with the Royal Naval Air Service in 1915, flying with the navy and then with the fighting squadrons in France, where he won the Distinguished Service Cross in 1917. After the war he became one of the originals of the Canadian air force and for a time was director of civil aviation.

He is president of the Air Council, formed of the department heads of the Air Force and charged with the coordination of their various activities for the best effectiveness of the whole.

Air Vice-Marshal E. W. Stedman, O.B.E., is member of the Air Council for Engineering and Supply. He interrupted an engineering career to fight in the sky with the Royal Naval Air Service and later with the Royal Air Force. He became technical director of Canada's young air force in 1920 and has remained with that branch.

The member of the Air Council for Air Staff is Air Commodore A. A. L. Cuffe, who transferred from the Fort Garry Horse to the air force in 1917 and came back from that war to begin a long career in Canada's growing air force, serving for a time as official liaison officer of the R.C.A.F. with the British Air Ministry.

A former Royal Naval Air Service pilot, Air Commodore Harold (Gus) Edwards, member of the Air Council for Personnel, fought with the fighter squadron in France, twice escaped from a German prison camp only to be recaptured, and then went back to air fighting with General Denikin's army against the Bolsheviks in Russia. Air Commodore Edwards was also one of the originals of this Dominion's air force.

The remaining member of the Air Council is Air Commodore G. O. Johnson, Member for Organization and Training. He flew with serial offensive patrols on the Western front, winning the Military Cross and the Croix de Guerre, returning later to Canada where he joined the Canadian Air Force in its early years and has remained ever since.

Many other veterans of the First Great War, of course, are serving in an administrative capacity in the headquarters branches directed by the Air Council, in the air stations across Canada, in the 115 units of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, and on active service at home and abroad. Many have impressive records and well-earned decorations from the war 25-year ago.

King Zog Gives Greece Support to Even Matters With Italians

By NELO DRIZARI, Central Press Canadian Correspondent

LONDON—King Zog's long arm is reaching from London to even up the score with Benito Mussolini's Fascist legions now clashing with the Greek forces in Albania.

The former Albanian ruler is once again using long-distance tactics to win. While King Zog and his American-descended Queen Geraldine, with their son, Prince Skander are dodging Nazi bombs in London's air raid shelters, his former officers are aiding the Greek armies against the very Roman legions that drove the royal family out of Albania last year.

The right hour must have struck for King Zog. Win or lose, he has made his choice. He has cast his lot with neighbor Greece against invader Italy. Now he has openly joined the "47,000,000 Churchills" against the Axis.

Among the officers and men King Zog left behind in Greece a year ago last Summer are those who may be in the thick of the battle between the Greeks and Italians. One of them is none other than Zog's own army chief, General Xhemal Araniti, who saw the royal family safely into Greece 19 months ago when Italy invaded Albania.

Italian military plans to attack Greece and Yugoslavia are known in detail by General Araniti, for he was "sely connected with General Pariani, now Italian chief of staff. Pariani was military instructor of the Albanian officers until shortly before the Fascist conquest of Ethiopia.

Dynamiters Look Improved Over 1939 as Show Before Home Fans

KIMBERLEY, B. C., Nov. 29—In order to give the fans a preview of a present edition of the Kimberley Dynamiters, Coach John Achterner split all the available talent to two teams Wednesday night at the end of three periods of the game wound up in a 6-6 tie.

About 500 of the hockey faithful lined out to witness the encounter and they went home satisfied that this year's club will be a great improvement over that of last season.

At the end of the first period the score stood at 2-1. The Whites jumped into the lead in the second period and were leading 4-3 at the end of that period. However, the Blues came back with three goals in the final session while the best the Whites could do was to register one.

Patrick with two goals and two assists was the leading scorer for the Whites while Sullivan and Carl Sorenson each with a goal and two assists were high men for the Blues.

Whites—Lafae, goal; Swanney and Corbett, defense; Redsky, Patrick, Wilson; Downey, Zak, Gold, Colvin, forwards.

Blues—Kilburn, goal; Burnett and Carl Sorenson, defense; Sullivan, Redding, Wotherspoon; Chris Sorenson, Hunt, Armstrong, forwards.

Referee: Clarence Reddick.

First period: 1, Blues, Armstrong (Chris Sorenson); 2, Whites, Redsky, (Patrick); 3, Blues, Wotherspoon (Sullivan); 4, Whites, Patrick.

Penalty: Burnett.

Second period: 5, Whites, Corbett; 6, Whites, Wilson (Patrick); 7, Blues; Chris Sorenson (Burnett).

Penalty—Sullivan.

Third period: 7, Whites, Patrick; 8, Blues, Sullivan (Redding); 10, Blues, Redding (Sullivan and Wotherspoon); 11, Blues, Armstrong (Hunt and Chris Sorenson); 12, Whites, Downey (Colvin).

Penalties—None.

Conn-Savold Battle Round by Round

ROUND ONE

They spent a full minute exchanging lefts and circling in mid ring, feeling each other out. As they locked for the first time Referee Donovan broke them. Conn threw a long left on the break and was warned by the arbiter for this violation. Conn hooked two lefts to the jaw and reddened Savold's side with two rights to the ribs at the bell, Conn's round.

ROUND TWO

ROUND THREE

ROUND FOUR

ROUND SIX

A full minute they stood in mid ring and slugged away with both hands to head and body. Savold connected with a right cross and Billy's eye was bleeding again. Referee Donovan warned Conn for hitting low. Conn peppered Savold with a half dozen lefts to the face and rights to the body. Conn threw both hands to the head at will and a mouse grew under Savold's right eye as the bell sounded. Referee Donovan took this round from Conn for low punching and awarded it to Savold.

ROUND SEVEN

Conn came out throwing lefts one after another and appeared to have Savold on the run. Savold dug a left and right to the body. Savold put two solid left hooks to the jaw, then shot a left to the body. Conn threw two lefts to the body and a pair to the head. Then he punched three times to the face as Savold closed in. Conn dug another left to the chin and a right to the head and sank a low left to the body at the bell. The crowd roared "keep them up." Conn's round.

ROUND EIGHT

ROUND NINE

They exchanged straight lefts. They danced around mid-ring and the crowd started whistling and stamping feet. Savold caught Billy with a straight left on the nose. Conn charged in with lefts to the body and head. Savold drove a hard right into Conn's side. Conn shot a solid left to the body. Again the crowd shouted that Conn had hit Savold low. But the referee stepped between the fighters and pulled Lee's trunks down. There was more boozing at the bell. Conn's round.

ROUND TEN

Savold swung a hard right against the body then sent Billy reeling back with a straight left to the face. Savold's left hook caught Billy on the nose and a spurt of blood resulted. Savold shot another left to the head when they squared off in mid-ring. The blood from Conn's nose smeared over Savold's shoulders. For a full minute they threw wild left swings at each other. The crowd was roaring. Savold connected with two left hooks to the face. Savold's round.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP).—Except for a few scattered engagements between beaten teams this week, United States college football bows out tomorrow and leaves the various "Bowl" Committees to put on their annual tug-of-war for the prize events.

But the big game of the day will have no Bowl significance. It will bring together Army and Navy for the 41st time at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium with a sell-out crowd of 102,000 in prospect.

The Cadets hold a 22-16 margin, with three ties, in the series that started in 1890, but the Middies are favored to make it two straight over an Army team that has beaten only Williams and tied Harvard this season.

At least one participant in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day probably will be decided beyond doubt in the West coast meeting between unbeaten, untied Stanford and the California Bears. Stanford is strongly favored to complete a perfect season and become an automatic choice for Pasadena.

Tennessee Volunteers, strong contenders for the honor of either representing the East a second straight time in the Rose Bowl or playing in the Sugar Bowl, complete this schedule against the weak Vanderbilt Commodores and appear a cinch to wind up their third consecutive perfect season against Southern opponents.

Battle of Left Hooks Winds Up in Decision Over Savold by Billy Conn

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP).—In a battle that started out as a wait and wound up with left hooks, Billy Conn tonight whipped Lee Savold in a 12-round slugging match at Madison Square Garden.

The battle was to have decided a challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown. While it definitely furthered Billy's campaign toward that goal, there was the feeling at the finish that the Pittsburgh pretty boy should take a while longer to prepare.

It was Conn's toughest fight to date, although Savold gave him a wide edge by a slow start. It wasn't until the third round that Lee really unhooked his left and started pitching, and not until after the half way mark that the two boys drew the cheers of the crowd by going at it hammer and tong.

A crowd of 12,750 contributed to a gross gate of $31,170.

The decision of Referee Arthur Donovan and both judges was unanimous for the light-heavyweight champion who is getting ready to "abdicate" his throne in order to compete among the big fellows exclusively. One round, the 12th, was taken from Conn by Referee Donovan for low punching.

The Associated Press score card gave Billy eight rounds and Savold four, including the 12th.

Conn really had a real "rattle" on his hands tonight, particularly through the last five rounds. His nose was bloodied in the tenth and his right eye was gashed badly in the 11th.

He had Savold's nose and mouth bleeding as early as the fourth.

At 174½, Conn spotted the Corn-belter 12½ pounds and still beat him, although Lee was in there fighting all the way. Savold, who brought a spotty record into New York was a 4 to 1 underdog in the betting.

In the first two rounds, Billy was off by himself, banging away with lefts to head and body and, in the second, poking a right under the heart that momentarily brought the blood better to a standstill.

Savold looked better in the third and fourth, using left hooks, throwing everything into each one. But the action started to drag here as the two battlers concentrated on body punching, and the crowd stamped and whistled for a more lively tune.

It wasn't long coming. In the sixth they stood toe to toe in mid-ring and slugged, with Conn having a decided edge. In fact, from the fifth through the ninth Conn seemed to have Lee on the run. But Savold came back strongly, and in the tenth the crowd leaped to its feet roaring as they filled away, each desperate to score a knock-down.

They kept this up until the final bell, and with the decision, the chances are Conn also won a shot at Louis next Summer.

Grimm, Spalding Aid Wilson With Chi Cubs

Shibicky Suffers Shoulder Injury

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (CP).—X-ray pictures taken at Polytechnic Hospital today showed that Alex Shibicky, left winger of New York Rangers, suffered a double separation in his right shoulder in last night's National Hockey League game with New York Americans.

It was decided to place the shoulder in a tight bandage — practically a cast — for 10 days, after which further X-ray pictures will be made to ascertain whether or not an operation will be necessary to bring the bones back together.

Herb Foster, forward of Philadelphia Hammers, will join the Rangers as a utility man, and Lynn Patrick will take over Shibicky's place on the Neil Colville-Mac Colville line.

.... AND THERE BE DRINK ME
Was part of old London

1—Today everyone admires the spirit of London, the Empire's capital. But Tom Bixton surprised me the other day. "Would you like to see a bit of old London in Vancouver?" he asked. Of course I would.

2—So out we drove to Marpole, and into the UDL plant. We passed through a maze of buildings and into the Gin Distillery. A smiling gentleman made us welcome, "Meet Mr. Strange," said Tom.

3—I did not know it, but I was shaking hands with a famous Londoner—one of the two TOP-ranking gin distillers in the world, who personally supervises the formulation of all UDL gins.

4—"Come this way," he said. What looked like a huge metal hour-glass loomed before us. "This is the new Patent Rectifying Still installed by Dore & Co. of London at a cost of $65,000. There's nothing like it in the West!

5—We entered a large room lined with scores of medicinal herbs, seeds and roots. "What are all these?" I asked, innocently. He smiled. "You are asking the secret of formulas perfected in London centuries ago."

Italy Forced on Strict Rations as Blockade Closes Import Channels

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The British Mediterranean blockade has been so effective, the United States Agriculture Department reported today, that Italy faces the winter deprived of many severely-needed foodstuffs and agricultural raw materials.

By barring the gates of the Mediterranean at Gibraltar and at Suez, Great Britain has cut off the sources of more than 80 per cent of Italy's imports, the department said.

"This blockade is so effective in stopping the flow of supplies needed by Italy," the department said, "that it has more severely disorganized the Italian economic structure than anything else the war has accomplished."

In a report on "Italian agriculture under Fascism and war," the department, using confidential information said to have been obtained through diplomatic channels, told how Germany's Axis partner has resorted to strict rationing in an effort to make available supplies last as long as possible.

"The restrictions on food consumption," the report stated, "are heavy for an agricultural country like Italy, even in times of war. Great numbers of the poorer classes were said to be suffering from malnutrition."

The department said that Italy, upon her entry, apparently expected the war to be of short duration. "It was only after more than a month of warfare, when the Italian government became less certain of the duration of the conflict, that genuine alarm was felt and more inclusive rationing was adopted."

Not only have Italians felt the pinch of food shortages, but higher prices as well. The report said prices were 40 per cent higher than when Great Britain and France declared war on Germany. At that time, it declared, Italy already was suffering from the effects of four years of conflict in Ethiopia and Spain, from the "uneconomic attempt" to achieve self-sufficiency and from the unceasing tempo of rearmament.

The report said that in the period between start of the war and Italy's entry months later, the Allied blockade against Germany prevented Italy from replenishing already depleted stocks of vital raw materials. "It was under this economic burden, with little or no reserves of vital agricultural products, especially of cotton, wool, rubber, cereals, oleseeds and meats, that Italy entered the war on June 10, 1940," the report said.

As overseas trade shut off by the blockade, Italy must now rely on sources of supply that may be reached only by land, especially Germany, Switzerland, the Balkans and Northern Europe.

The department said, however, it was difficult to see how these sources could supply Italy with such products as rubber, cotton, wool and cereals. Moreover, they have no color and export little meat, and their excess cereals and fats must be sent to Germany.

"Thus the lack of fats, oils, meats—the three food products in which Italy is most deficient—may become more serious as the British blockade continues," the report said. "In this case the Italian people may expect much stricter rations and possibly five or six meatless days a week. Meat supplies are already so scarce, the report said, that consumption is permitted only on Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays. The sale of fresh pastry and ice cream likewise is limited to three days a week. Coffee drinking by civilians has been prohibited, available supplies having been requisitioned for the armed forces.

Restrictions recently were imposed on purchase of edible oils, butter, lard and suet. The monthly ration per person is olive oil, a major item in the Italian diet, now is one pint. Only three-quarters of a pound of butter, lard or suet a month is allowed each person.

The department said bread is being rationed in restaurants at 2.8 ounces per person per meal in "luxury and first-class" restaurants and 5.3 ounces in "second, third and fourth class" eating places. The bread contains more bran than heretofore. Sugar consumption has been reduced so that a part of the available supply may be converted into severely-needed industrial alcohol, the report said. Cotton supplies are expected to be exhausted within a few weeks.

BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN CONTROL STRENGTHENED

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (AP)—Neutral observers in the German capital today voiced the belief that the Mediterranean area is coming so thoroughly under British control that it is creating a new problem for the Axis.

The Greek successes, coupled with the crippling of half of Italy's battleship strength at Taranto Nov. 11, and further Royal Navy successes this week, have strengthened Britain's hold on the Mediterranean and caused neutral observers to wonder how long Germany can wait before putting her army on the march again.

While the German end of the Axis is facing the winter without public admission of any qualms, reports from Italy induce speculation as to how happily that country, already reduced to four meatless days a week, will get through the coming cold months under the blockade.

Mr. Caswell said the building of cargo ships would not interfere with the steady flow of Corvettes, 54 of which have been ordered by the British Government and 10 by the Canadian Government. Quebec and Montreal shipyards were putting in additional yards to look after building of cargo ships.

Much preliminary work is necessary in building a cargo ship, it was explained. The exact shape and length of the steel required has to be ascertained and ordered from the steel plants. Accordingly, while this is going on the ways can be installed so there will be no particular delay.

Mr. Caswell is virtually the czar of Canadian shipbuilding. He has power to order anything he desires—the way work shall be allocated, how facilities may be used, where any ship must go for repairs.

And when it comes right down to it, the shipbuilding director-general who served as a marine engineer in his native Scotland, and in China, Australia, the United States and Canada, can take over any plant and operate it himself if he doesn't think the work is going ahead fast enough.

Canadian shipyards are awaiting the final word to begin the construction of 18 cargo ships for Great Britain," said the director-general, who works in the Munitions and supply department.

"They will be 2,500-ton ships and 12 will be built in Eastern tidewater ports and six on the Pacific coast. They should be ready for delivery next October."

"Five Corvettes and one minesweeper were launched between Nov. 16 and Nov. 23 in Canada," he said. "That's a pretty good showing for one week."

These ships will be fitted with engines and be ready to take over active service when the Spring break-up comes.

Finances Will Be Discussed Before House Adjourns

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (CP)—Financial matters will be taken up in the House of Commons before adjournment today, it was indicated today when Prime Minister Mackenzie King gave notice of motion to resolve the House of Commons into the Committee of Supply and into the Committee of Ways and Means.

As the main estimates for the fiscal year 1943-44 will not be brought down until February it is likely the Government will introduce a War Appropriation Bill to provide additional funds for war purposes in the period between now and the end of the present fiscal year, March 31.

The setting up of the Committee of Ways and Means which considers revenue and taxation may indicate some amendments to the taxing laws require consideration.

U.S. MINISTER TO CANADA IN NEW YORK HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (CP)—Mrs. Loring Christie, a bride of six days, said today her husband, Canada's Minister to Washington, is in the Rockefeller Institute Hospital here for observation and that she expects him to leave the hospital in a few days.

Mrs. Christie said the Minister had decided some time ago to enter hospital for examination and this was his first opportunity to do so.

ALBURY, Australia, (CP)—Establishment of an Infantry Officers' Training School here has raised the output of infantry officers for the Australian army to nearly 2000 a year.

British Ships Hit Claim Nazis

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (AP)—The German High Command issued this communique Friday:

"German destroyers undertook a thrust toward the Western exit of the (English) channel close to the English coast. A skirmish developed with an English destroyer. We succeeded in torpedoing two enemy destroyers. Other German destroyers sank two steamers of 9,000 and 3,000 tons in addition to two smaller enemy vessels on the English South coast.

(The British Admiralty announced that the German vessels "retired at high speed" when British forces approached. One British ship was damaged while damage was inflicted on the enemy. Details are not yet available.)

"The air force on the night of Nov. 27-28 and during the course of Nov. 28 continued retaliatory attacks on war-essential objectives in the London City region.

"Last night several British planes dropped explosives and incendiary bombs on Northern and Western Germany. Considerable property damage was done to several houses. Fires were quickly drenched. One bomb hit an army hospital.

(The British Air Ministry announced the R.A.F. bombers concentrated on freight yards, naval armament factories and gas works in the cities of Dusseldorf and Mannheim.)

"The foe's losses yesterday total 13 planes, 11 by air fights and two by anti-aircraft and naval artillery. Four of our planes are missing."

(Six British fighters were lost over Britain yesterday while two bombers failed to return from the night's offensive operations. Five German planes were shot down over Britain during the day.)

U.S. Seaplanes Bound for Britain Leave

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 20 (AP)—First of a fleet of Consolidated 28 patrol bomber type seaplanes took off today for an unannounced destination—en route ultimately to join in the defence of Great Britain.

Aboard the ship, which has a 104-foot wingspan and 1,000 horsepower motor, were Naval Reserve Lieut. W. Cleveland and Douglas Kelley, a San Diego aviator, as pilots; and Russ Rogers and J. G. Ross as observers. Rogers piloted the Archbold plane Guba on its around the world flight. Ross is a Canadian civilian pilot.

Delivery is to be taken by the Canadian Government on the East Coast.

Guerrillas Blast Train at Sochow

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20 (AP)—Five coaches of a Shanghai-Nanking train were blasted from the tracks today and between 100 and 400 persons killed or injured as the toll of a Chinese guerrilla raid reported today by Chinese guerrillas to spoil the impending ceremonial signing of a Japanese-sponsored treaty at Nanking.

One report had it that passengers on the train included Japanese and Chinese officials bound for Nanking to participate in the signing tomorrow of a pact of recognition and collaboration between Japan and her creation, the Sang Ching-Chi Chinese puppet government.

The accident occurred at Sochow, about 90 miles West of Shanghai.

Nazi and Italian Prisoners Fight

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Nov. 20 (CP)—A group of Italian prisoners landed here today under military escort from St. John's, Nfld., bound for an internment camp in Eastern Canada. The number of Italians was not revealed.

German and Italian prisoners held in Newfoundland were said to be "getting along badly" together because of taunts by the Nazis over Greek successes in Albania. It was decided to separate the Italians and Germans to avoid trouble.

REPORT NEW "MYSTERY WEAPON" USED IN RAIDS

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP)—The Daily Mail reported today the possibility that a new "mystery weapon" is being tried out against German night bombers.

It said London observers had noted a peculiar horizontal beam of light flashing in the sky during barrage operations.

DENY STUDENTS SHOT

BERLIN, Nov. 20 (AP)—Nazi sources said today a student of a Paris university had been arrested "recently" as the result of a hostile demonstration but claimed that foreign reports that some had been shot were untrue.

Chicago Loses Gains

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP)—After trying for most of the session to extend its recent recovery trend, the wheat market was forced to retreat today due to lack of sufficient support from milling and baking trade buyers as well as commercial and professional dealers and speculators. Wheat closed 1/4-3/4 lower than yesterday. December 49 1/2-3/4, May 49 1/2-3/4, corn 1/4-1/2 down, December 49 1/2-3/4, soybeans 1/4-1/2 higher.

Wall St. Falls in Rally Attempt

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Stocks tried for recovery in today's market but generally failed to attract real buying power. Prices for steel, motors, aircrafts, shipbuilding and specialties edged forward fractionally in the forenoon. There was a mild relapse after midday and, at the close, gains were reduced to negligible amounts in many instances or replaced with declines. Utilities were soft throughout and numerous other issues finished where they left off Thursday. Dealings were about as slow as in the previous session, transfers being around 50,000 shares. Consolidated Edison and Public Service of N. J. dipped to new lows for the year.

Losses Outnumber Gains at Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 29 (CP)—Declines more than outweighed gains in today's late stock market dealings. National Steel Car sold down more than two while Nickel backed well over a point. Noranda backed a sizeable fraction. Fractionally backward were Imperial, Asbestos and Algoma but Canada Cement posted a small addition. Price and Montreal Power showed small declines and Brazilian posted a narrow advance. Home Oil was down 28.

100 Shares Traded on Calgary Exchange

CALGARY, Nov. 29 (CP)—Trading in oil shares on Calgary Stock Exchange today consisted of 100 shares of Calmont at 25, unchanged from Thursday's bid. Bids for Anglo were four cents down, C. & E. 15 and Home 18 cents.

Prices Weaken at Toronto Close

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP)—Prices developed a weak tone today on Toronto Exchange and the close was around the low for the day. Base metals and Western oils registered the main weakness. Reported reduction of the production allowances in the Turner Valley oil field was responsible for the Western oil share decline. Home oil weakened about 25 to 23 1/2, Calgary and Edmonton 12 to 14 1/2 and smaller losses appeared for Okalta, Foothills, Brown and Anglo-Canadian. O'Brien Gold slipped off nearly 20 to 121. Preston, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Wright-Hargreaves and Buffalo-Ankerite weakened 5 to 10. Upper Canada went to a new high and held a gain of 4 at 1.78. Cariboo gained 13 and Sigma added 25.

Christmas Tree Custom Provides Large Industry

OTTAWA, Ont.—Millions of Christmas trees will again bring joy and happiness to homes in the United States and Canada, according to the Dominion Forest Service, Department of Mines and Resources. Handed down from ancient times, the delightful Christmas tree custom now provides an important seasonal forest industry. In addition to supplying a supplementary source of revenue to Canadian farmers, this year the export of Christmas trees to the United States will help establish foreign exchange for the purchase of war supplies. Last year approximately 6,000,000 evergreens were cut in Canada as Christmas trees, of which almost 5,000,000 valued at $274,255 were exported to the United States. New York City alone took about 750,000 trees, while large shipments were made to Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago. On the Pacific coast, the large cities as far south as Los Angeles now offer an attractive market for British Columbia trees. About a million Christmas trees are used annually to decorate Canadian homes during the Yuletide season. Balsam, fir, Douglas fir and spruce are the species favored by the Christmas tree buyers. Balsam fir is most popular in the East, because of its quality and pyramidal shape. Spruce, obtainable nearly everywhere, is also widely used. For several years Douglas fir from British Columbia has been growing in popularity in the United States market, and recently there has been an increased demand for Scotch pine, especially in border cities adjoining Ontario. Canada's growing Christmas tree trade offers no serious threat to the forests, as under proper management the present cut could be produced in perpetuity on an area of less than 200 square miles. In addition, the waste material used by some tree dealers are condemned by the orderly cutting and marketing of the annual crop provides the basis for a legitimate and profitable industry. Formerly young trees for the Christmas trade were secured with little or no difficulty from the woodlands or pastures situated within a convenient distance of towns, villages and other shipping centres throughout Eastern Canada, particularly in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Within the past few years, however, a scarcity of suitable trees has been experienced in some localities with the result that many farmers are now growing Christmas trees on managed plantations.

LONDON (CP)—Wartime's "main chance" for London's commercial photographers is company records. Millions of index cards, sales and purchase accounts and correspondence are being photographed so that the originals are bombed or burned, duplicates can be obtained. Commercial photographers enjoy a "land office" business as insurance companies, banks, stores — every type of concern — seek to have records copied so German air raids can't dislocate business. Ironically, the specially-designed apparatus used to speed up the photographic output was designed by a German Jewish refugee.

URGE U.S. USE OF BRITISH ORIENTAL POSSESSIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Several Harvard Law School professors, among them Dean M. Ladd, have urged that the United States acquire or use British Oriental possessions, thereby reducing Great Britain's war debt to this country.

New York Paper Urges More Travel Canada

OTTAWA—"Travel to Canada" is the editorial advice to Americans in large display type contained in the New York Daily Mirror. "It is generally agreed that most Americans want to knit the nations of this hemisphere in a solid bloc that can resist any attempted invasion," says the Mirror. "It is further agreed that most Americans want to aid England in any way short of war. Best way to contribute to both these ends is to spend your 'travel dollars' in Canada. Alarmists should not be permitted to fan rumours about border inspection into foolish fears that will keep Americans from planning a trip to Canada. The simple fact is that no more identification than a voter's registration certificate or membership in any automobile club is needed for entry into Canada, or return to America."

Poultry Raiser Gains by Properly Finishing His Birds for the Market

Fattening in Crates and Pens Boosts Returns

In view of the increasingly keen appreciation of quality by the consumer of dressed poultry, the producer should pay greater attention to finishing his birds before they are marketed. For an entirely different reason also he should properly prepare his birds because of the greatly enhanced returns which such preparation will bring, states H.S. Guttridge, Poultry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service. Only vigorous stock is worthy of the attention necessary for proper finishing. All unweathery or unthrifty birds should be culled, and indeed should have been culled long before reaching market weights. The remaining birds should be fattened in crates or pens until they have fully responded to treatment. In crate fattening, the most efficient method of finishing, the birds are confined to crates—usually with four birds to each compartment of approximately 2 feet by 18 inches deep by 20 inches high—and given only soft mixed fattening feed. On being placed in the crates they are starved for 24 hours and then given their first feeding of a wet mash composed largely of ground grains and mixed with skim milk or buttermilk to a sloppy consistency. Espoon salts at the rate of one pound per 100 birds should be mixed in with this first feeding. Two feedings a day are as satisfactory as a greater number. Because of the inactivity brought about by the restricted quarters of the fattening crate the appetite must be maintained by feeding only such quantity of mash at each feeding as will be cleared up in 20 minutes, any unconsumed residue being removed and fed to other birds. Actually the appetites of the birds are the best guide as to how well they are fattening and any marked slackening of feed consumption should be a good indication that they should be marketed for fear of loss in weight. TWO WEEKS ENOUGH As a rule, two weeks of crate fattening is sufficient and, because of the greater fattening response, the most economical fattening period. If appetite is well maintained three weeks of fattening may be successful. The best grains for fattening are oat groats and corn and they should be "coarsely" rather than finely ground white corn being used if white flesh is required. Somewhat less satisfactory are buckwheat and wheat, with oats and barley considerably less efficient. If oats or barley are used their efficiency can be increased by sowing as much hull as possible. A combination of any of the above grains bearing in mind their comparative value is satisfactory. If available five to seven per cent of melted mutton or beef fat, mixed quickly with the ground grains while hot to avoid lumping, will definitely increase gains. Birds should be starved for at least 16 to 20 hours with water to drink before killing for market, to be sure their crops are empty. The greatest care should be exercised in killing and plucking to procure a proper bleeding and to avoid skin tears and pin feathers. All blood should be removed from the head parts and the legs and feet scrubbed clean. In pen fattening what has been said applies with the exception that the fattening period should be of three to four weeks duration. Since the birds are confined only to pens in this type of fattening receiving their soft feed in troughs, they are able to obtain sufficient exercise to maintain their appetites for a longer period.

National Park Visitors Exceed Million Mark

OTTAWA—Canada's national parks enjoyed their greatest Summer tourist season this year. Figures released by the Department of Mines and Resources, which administers the national parks, show that a total of 1,041,200 persons visited the parks during the seven-month period ended October 31, 1940, compared with 875,774 in the corresponding period a year ago, an increase of 165,586. The only other year in which tourist travel to Canada's national parks exceeded a million was in 1937-38 when the attendance totalled 1,008,690.

Banff National Park, in the heart of the Rockies, continued to be the most popular of the parks, attracting a total of 224,007 visitors during the period under review, an increase of 47,634 over the seven months ended October 31, 1939. Travel to Jasper National Park, adjoining Banff on the North, reached unprecedented heights with a total of 90,954 visitors, an increase over last year of 68,616. Yoho National Park, adjoining Banff Park on the West, registered a marked gain with a total of 107,362 as against 60,039 last year, and Kootenay National Park, adjoining both Banff and Yoho, had 72,897 visitors compared with 62,053.

Ventilate with Ventube
FOR GREATER EFFICIENCY

Ventilating a long "blind end" drift in a metal mine by means of "VENTUBE"

Promotes Healthful Working Conditions

The "VENTUBE" system of auxiliary ventilation is becoming increasingly popular with modern metal mine operators. Here are some of the reasons for this—

- "VENTUBE" offers the most efficient and most economical means of ventilating "blind ends".
- Installations of "VENTUBE" are low in first cost and, due to the special treatment which the material receives, a tubing is produced which is resistant to fungus growths, acid and alkaline waters, dry rot, and other adverse conditions encountered underground. This results in low upkeep costs.
- By rapidly clearing the face of dust and fumes, the use of "VENTUBE" enables the interval between blasting and subsequent return to the face to be reduced, thereby resulting in a saving of time.
- "VENTUBE" promotes healthful underground conditions at the working face. By sweeping out foul, dusty air and replacing it with fresh, pure air, best working conditions are assured. This naturally results in increased efficiency on the part of the workmen.

We'll be glad to send additional information on request and to help you plan the most effective installation for your particular conditions.

Nelson Lady Curlers to Commence Sharp Cup Competition on Monday

The Ladies' Curling Club enters into its first official competition of the season Monday afternoon when two games in the Sharp Cup event are scheduled.

Nine rinks have been lined up for play, and they will play each other once during the competition, the leading rink at the close to take the cup. A side competition will be run at the same time, whereby the rink with the most points gained in its eight games in the event will win a prize.

In Monday's draw Mrs. L. Maddin will meet Miss Grace Laughton, and Mrs. T. E. Homersham plays Mrs. Arthur Smith.

Hansell Wonders if Defence Act Is Causing Dictatorship Fears

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP)—A sense of fear "characteristic of a dictatorship" has grown up in Canada since the war, E. H. Hansell (ND Macleod) declared in the Commons today.

He suggested it was because of the manner in which the Defence of Canada Regulations have been administered and that in its policy toward these regulations "the Government has made a huge psychological mistake."

Mr. Hansell said no member should have to fear, in a Democratic country, that because of his criticism of the Government he might be "planted." (Mr. Hansell explained outside the chamber that by "planted" he meant "framed.")

"I am not suggesting for a moment that any administration would go so far as planting a member," Mr. Hansell said.

"But I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that a member who becomes a political menace to the existing administration could be planted, and is in danger at least of all the possible forces and all the possible intrigues being levelled against him in order to destroy him."

Mr. Hansell was one of four private members who spoke in the throne speech debate during today's short sitting. He was frequently interrupted by other members.

Justice Minister Lapointe, who has jurisdiction over the Defence of Canada Regulations, sat through the speech and laughed at many of Mr. Hansell's sallies. "It was a good speech anyhow," he said when Mr. Hansell was cut short by the 40-minute time limit.

At the start of proceedings Prime Minister King obtained unanimous consent to proceed Monday with motions to be made by Finance Minister Flaherty having to do with "trade and taxation."

Other speakers in today's debate were R. W. Gladstone (Lib., Wellington South), R. W. Warren (Lib., Brentford North) and G. R. Boucher (Con. Carleton), the latter delivering his maiden speech.

The subject of free transportation for soldiers on Christmas leave was discussed by two of the members.

When Mr. Hansell said no Liberals had applauded a plea for free transportation for soldiers since Maj. Power said the Government did not intend to provide it, he was interrupted by Bruce McNevis (Lib. Victoria, Ont.), who said: "You are mistaken, sir, I applauded."

Mr. Warren, who followed Mr. Hansell, said he had been impressed by the fact that since Defence Minister Ralston told the House at the start of the session there would Claude E. Murray, who for 11 years served as Vice-President and General Manager of the Willard Storage Battery Company of Canada, Ltd., at Toronto, has been named Vice-President and General Manager of the Willard Storage Battery Company with headquarters at Cleveland.

There will be no free transportation for soldiers, members from all sides had urged it time after time.

"I have been wondering if that was because we know that it is a popular attitude to take," said Mr. Warren.

BOWLING SCORES

Led by Johnny Smith who bowled high singles and high aggregate, the Millionaires strengthened their first place hold in the standings of the second half of the Fleury tournament when they swept three straight games from the Truckers on Gellinas Bowling Alley's Friday night.

Their 96-pin spot each game enabled the Millionaires to win two of their games however, and they are now five full points up on the second-place Gas House Goofers.

Ottawa Confident of Football Win

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders left the capital today for Toronto to meet Balm Beach in the first of a home-and-home series for the Eastern Canada rugby football championship. From Coach Ross Trimble down there was not a man who voiced thoughts of anything but victory.

"I don't think we'll have any trouble coming back with a few points to spare," Trimble said. "Beaches may be unbeaten and they may be united but their league is a lot softer than the Big Four."

"Ponton says if the field is dry Beaches might take us. But he seems to forget that we can play pretty good football on a dry field ourselves."

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP)—The weatherman said "cloudy and cold" for tomorrow, so it looked tonight as if Alex Ponton would get the kind of gridiron he wants for Toronto Balm Beach in the opener of their Eastern Canadian football final against Ottawa Rough Riders. Tractors, plows and men with shovels were put to work on the surface of the Varsity Stadium field today and by nightfall they had removed the blanket of snow which settled on the turf during an overnight storm. The snow left the surface soft, but overnight cold was expected to make it hard and fast.

That's the kind of a field Ponton has hoped for and, though he refused to say what kind of an attack Balm Beach will concentrate on his prayers for a dry surface could mean that Balm will attempt to match Ottawa "dippy-doo" with some of the same.
