Associated Officers Deny Boards' Resolutions Are Pigeon-Holed at Victoria; Refuse Send Delegation

Early Distribution of Resolutions Is Urged

FERNIE HOST FOR NEXT CONVENTION

Denials that resolutions of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia were merely "pigeon-holed" at Victoria, and assertion that the organization was known as "the parliament of the interior," greeted the proposal of C. F. McHardy, Nelson, that the Associated should send a delegation to the government with its recommendations. His proposal was made at the annual sessions of the boards of trade from a close at the Hume silver room Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. McHardy expressed himself as "disgusted" with the results of resolutions, asserting personal representations should be made because the Associated was "not getting value" for the time and expense of its annual meetings.

LEVEL-HEADED MEN

J. R. Hunter of Nelson, secretary-treasurer, felt little more could be accomplished by a delegation than by letters. W. G. Ternan of Rossland, president, declared the government realized the Associated Boards represented a large number of people, and that its deliberations were those of level-headed business men.

His experience in the house, declared E. C. Henniger, M.L.A. for Grand Forks-Greenwood, was that Associated Boards resolutions often

MORE ABOUT ROYAL WELCOME

It was distinctly French-Canadian's day and the first visit Their Majesties made was to the Quebec legislative building where they heard Premier Duplessis say the people of his province were "overjoyed and privileged" to have the King and Queen here. And he affirmed the "joy, respect, loyalty and affection" of the people.

TOLERANCE EXAMPLE

In a reply he handled the premier, His Majesty expressed belief the tolerance in which the two great races of Canada live together is an example to the entire world.

Later, at a Dominion government luncheon, speaking in a slow, clear, unflinching voice, the King declared the "spirit of Quebec is a happy fusion of a vigorous spirit of enterprise and of ancient traditions proudly guarded."

For several minutes before the Royal couple stepped ashore after Mr. Mackenzie King, the thousands of men, women and children set up such a roar of welcome that hundreds of church bells in the city, the marine whistles and the hum of Royal Air force bombers flying overhead couldn't drown them out.

PARADE THREE MILES

Later the Royal couple drove to the legislature, visited the citadel, took luncheon at the Chateau Frontenac, paraded three miles around the city, and heard 35,000 school-children sing "God Save the King" in both English and French and "O Canada" in French only on the plains of Abraham where Wolfe won Canada for England.

They had tea at Spencerwood with Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. E. L. Patenaude before returning to the citadel, summer residence of the governor-general.

It was a day of new history.

MORE ABOUT BOARDS' ROAD RESOLUTIONS

Sessions Wednesday were held at the Hume hotel, W. G. Ternan of Rossland, president, occupying the chair.

HOTLY DEBATED

The highway commission resolution, which held that road locations would be more wisely selected and that the province would obtain more for its money under commission management, was one of the most hotly debated of the convention.

Donald MacDonald of Trail, resolutions committee chairman, asserted nothing would be gained by a commission, that the present public works management was the best British Columbia had known to date, and that even if a commission were appointed it would be impossible to take it out of politics.

It was useless, President Ternan felt, to expect the government to institute a commission.

From E. C. Henniger, M.L.A. for Grand Forks-Greenwood, came the assertion that the province already had a "commission"—the engineers in charge of the five districts and the chief engineer—and an arbitrary one. To appoint three more would be "superfluous and perfectly useless." There would never be a highway commission "as long as I can keep it out," he declared.

OPPOSITION POLITICAL

Organizations generally endorsed the highway commission proposal, said W. E. MacInnes of Salmo, the only organized opposition coming from the politicians. Public works engineers could only work with the money voted by the legislature and "the money goes where the votes are," he asserted.

C. F. Nelson, New Denver, described himself as a once enthusiastic supporter who had changed his mind. With a highway commission it would shortly be found that the bulk of the money was being spent where the bulk of the population resided, and outlying districts would be neglected, he felt.

On the vote the Nelson resolution was defeated and the recommendation of the resolutions committee against it was accepted.

GOATFELL-CRESTON

Standardization and hard-surfacing of the section of the southern transprovincial highway between Creston and Goatfell, as set out by Creston, was urged in a resolution adopted by the convention.

Guy Constable, Creston, stated a 19-mile section of road east of Creston was involved. The Associated endorsed the resolution on the basis that it concerned part of the transprovincial highway and should receive government consideration from that viewpoint.

NELSON-NELWAY

Standardization of the Nelson-Nelway road was urged in a Salmo Valley board resolution adopted by the convention.

C. F. Nelson, New Denver, declared the road was of vital importance to the district in bringing tourists from the south to Nelson, which was the district distributing centre. The Associated should not present a local viewpoint but should go to the provincial government with a district outlook.

WINDERMERE ROAD

Kimberley's request for early completion of the Windermere road between Kingsgate and Radium was withdrawn by the Kimberley delegates. Robert McLeod stated word had been received just before their departure that work was to resume immediately.

HOPE-PRINCETON

Princeton forwarded a resolution urging maintenance of sections already built, and completion, this year of the Hope-Princeton road as a commercial, tourist and military road. It was not endorsed in this form, but was amended to ask completion at "as early a date as possible."

W. E. McArthur stated the Okanagan felt keenly that this district was indifferent to the Hope-Princeton road, and suggested a better feeling might be engendered between the districts by a strongly worded resolution.

The Associated had never refused to endorse the Hope-Princeton link, stated President Ternan and Donald MacDonald, Trail, resolutions committee chairman. Mr. MacDonald felt the Boards would be asking too much to urge completion of the link this year.

NAKUSP-ARROWHEAD

Feeling that it did not have sufficient information to deal with Revelstoke's resolution urging opening of a road from Arrowhead to Nakusp to connect with the Big Bend highway, the resolutions committee reported unfavorably on the resolution and it was referred back to Revelstoke. Mr. MacDonald said the road appeared to be an extremely expensive one and added the data set out in the resolution was not sufficient to make a decision. The committee suggested the resolution be returned to Revelstoke for further information as to route, cost and so on, and this was followed.

FLOOD CONTROL

Creston's resolution to endorse the British Columbia legislature proposal for an international agreement for flood control in the Kootenay river delta was adopted. Widening of various points in the West Arm and deepening of the channel of the Kootenay river through the flats in Creston area and northern Idaho, to give security to farmers on delta lands at flood periods were proposed. Joint Canadian and American action was requested in the resolution.

CABLE TOLLS TO BRITAIN

Dominion study of cable tolls between Canada and Great Britain, with a view to increasing flow of Canadian news to British papers, was proposed in another Creston resolution adopted by the convention. It pointed out Canadian news was at a minimum in newspapers of the Old Country, events of major importance because of the cost of transmission. Mr. Constable stated Canada was not enjoying the special cable rates arranged by the Empire Press union because the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific telegraphs felt they were unable to reduce rates.

Suggestion of a subsidy was cut out of the resolutions committee. On the convention floor it was proposed that subsidizing be suggested in a letter to Ottawa accompanying the resolution.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

The Associated endorsed Nelson's proposal for province-wide daylight saving for six months each year.

C. B. Garland, Nelson, stated the present difference of time between East Kootenay and the remainder of the province was a relic of railway construction days. He asserted there was no question of affecting the health of children and Kootenay children were healthy enough. A comparatively high percentage of tuberculosis in the Kootenays was in part due to lack of sunshine, and daylight saving would help to remedy this condition, he argued.

C. F. Nelson, New Denver, felt education of the public to support daylight saving was necessary.

Kaslo's resolution suggesting the change of time from Mountain to Pacific should properly take place at Midway rather than at Crow's Nest, and that a change should be made accordingly, was held to involve too great expense in correcting railway time tables.

HIGHWAY REGULATIONS

Greenwood's protest that highway regulations too closely restricted truck operation, and suggestion that the regulations should be modified, "by permit or otherwise," was endorsed by the resolutions committee but was defeated more than 2 to 1 on a recorded vote.

The Greenwood resolution complained that zoning limited operation of trucking to particular areas that operators were prohibited carrying anyone on their trucks; that farmers were not permitted to carry their families on trucks and that the regulations were not sufficiently clear.

Discussion was lengthy, general opinion being that the regulations were designed to promote public safety and to provide protection for and control of established truck lines. Apparent injustices could be met by special permit, it was suggested.

President Ternan cautioned the Associated against taking a stand upon a subject with which it was not thoroughly familiar.

W. E. McArthur, Greenwood, declared "we're being regulated to death." It was not fair that a license should be withheld from anyone person or granted to another; and he felt the argument of safety was overemphasized. R. W. Wallace, Greenwood, claimed one of the difficulties was interpretation of the regulations.

WHEAT BOARD

Maintenance of a wheat board in Canada and a minimum price for wheat, a resolution proposed by Creston, was endorsed. No recommendation as to minimum price was made.

RADIO FEES

Kimberley and Greenwood resolutions on radio fees and poor reception were combined by the committee in a resolution request-

TRAFFIC BYLAW PASSED

CRANBROOK, B. C.—An amendment to the streets and traffic bylaw was passed at a special meeting of the Cranbrook city council, making it unlawful for any person to carry passengers on any bicycle, tricycle or motorcycle, on the handlebars or any other place, except when the vehicle is constructed for two or more persons.

OVERLOADING TRUCKS, BUSES

Overloading of trucks and buses was being controlled already, it was said and Cranbrook's resolution calling for checking of loads was held to be superfluous. It was stated the machinery was already in existence for controlling loads and was being used.

COQUIHALLA PASS

Proposal from Princeton, that Pentiction should be supported in its efforts to have the C.P.R. keep the Coquihalla Pass open that year through, was not endorsed. It was held the cost would be prohibitive.

FEEDER AIR LINES

Creston board of trade was requested to carry on its work of promoting the establishment of a feeder line to the Transcanada Air Lines, the Associated thus avoiding a premature resolution. Mr. Constable suggested Creston was prepared to "get together" with other points with a view to determining the logical point for basing such a feeder service.

APPRENTICESHIPS

Feeling the resolution encompassed an extremely wide field, and doubting whether the plan was practical, the resolutions committee reported against Cranbrook's resolution urging cooperation between the Dominion government and industry to put youth to work at apprenticeships. Mr. MacDonald said the committee doubted whether the plan would accomplish all that the resolution suggested.

ICE

Mr. MacHardy felt the resolution was a step in the right direction. President Ternan pointed to British Columbia's Apprentice act, but the Nelson delegate asserted it did not go far enough and was faulty. Mr. MacDonald urged that "something concrete and practical" should

PETTICOAT FRILLS DENOTE NEW STYLE ON PARIS BOULEVARDS

Ribbons and Bows Make Appearance on Fashionable Little Girl Styles

PARIS, May 17 (CP).—The petticoat, or "jupon," tired of playing second fiddle—no fiddle at all—has now—has at last decided to appear beneath the dark knee-length skirt and showed its frilly legs in a blatant fashion which would have landed its wearer's other in embarrassed social disarray 20 years ago.

Not so today—you meet a petticoat on every corner in the world's fashion capital. The Champs-Élysées, the Bois de Boulogne and the opera corner see a steady stream of "English" embroidery, hand-made lace or dainty ruching sauntering by. As yet, though many have turned to take a sixth look, no startled gentleman has mustered the courage to step up and say gallantly, "Lady, your petticoat is slipping—like my coat!"

TRUE STORY!

They jeered when I went to the oven— They laughed when I said I could bake—

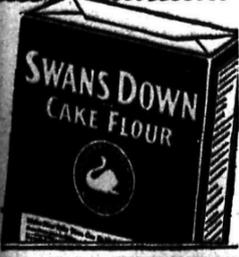

I opened the door— and they're shovin' For a slice of my Swans Down Cake!

Can't Blame Girl for Wanting Man Who Has a Job

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD
DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:
I thought I was all set in business and in love but it seems I wasn't. With no warning I lost my position and couldn't afford to take my first around as I had been doing. I told her she must go out with other boys whenever she had a chance since I was flat and didn't think it fair to tie her down. I am not located yet and have to stand by and see her getting further and further away from me. I believe she is growing indifferent because she heads me off when I speak of my dreams and plans for the future. Can you help a guy that's behind the eight ball?

MISERABLE.
ANSWER:
Not unless some hard philosophy will help you. It begins like this: You did the main thing in releasing the girl which should give you great satisfaction. And it ends like this: If she's entirely possible that she's been diverted by another beau. In any case, you'll remain behind the eight ball until you find work.

In fairness we can't blame a girl for changing the subject when the boy friend, who hasn't a dime to his name and no means of earning one, tries to entertain her by discussing his dreams and plans for the future. She's obliged to ask herself what sort of stuff these dreams are made of. Not wishing to discourage you but hoping to show you the importance of rustling around to find work—any sort of work—I'd say your lips should be sealed until you have the sealed pay envelope in pocket.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. W.: "Is it harmful to take a teaspoonful of salt in warm water before breakfast? I don't think the salt would hurt, but I've been wondering if a teaspoonful is too much?"
ANSWER:—A teaspoonful is a good deal, about five times the daily requirement.

Reducing... New Exercises to Slim the Ankles

By DONNA GRACE
A few days ago we dropped in to have lunch with a world famous beauty expert who has just returned from one of her commuting trips to Europe. We were eager to see some of the new exercises in the reducing department, and the set we thought especially interesting at this time was for the ankles.

Every girl wants nice slim ankles, and when we wear sports clothes or even the fashionable skirt lengths, the legs and ankles are always in evidence. In the days when high shoes were worn, ankles were generally smaller than today, when they are unsupported and free. At that time, it was the confined pressure of the shoes tops that shaped the ankles.

ICE BOX CAKE
The ingredients given will make a cake that yields 12 portions. It takes 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, one-half cup sugar, dash of salt, one-fourth cup hot water, 1 tsp. cold water, granulated gelatin, four egg yolks, teaspoon vanilla, four egg whites, stiffly beaten, one-half cup of cream, whipped, and 38 lady fingers.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES
Chocolate Ice Box Cookies to the tune of seven dozen can be made with four cups sifted cake flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups each softened butter or other shortening, and sugar, two unbeaten eggs, four squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; one teaspoon vanilla and two cups broken walnut meats. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again.

BROWNIES
Three-fourths cup sifted cake flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-third cup butter or other shortening, two squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; one cup sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one-half cup chopped walnut meats and teaspoon vanilla.

SERIAL STORY... WHITE ORCHIDS

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:
In spite of the inspiration provided by his bride of a few months, Phil Parrish finds writing his first novel a tedious task. Phil, and Eleanor, new to New York, where he is a reporter, live modestly in Greenwich Village. They had met on a small-town newspaper. Eleanor had stopped writing when she had come to New York with Phil. She longed to do something to supplement their income. But Phil would not consider it. Phil introduces Eleanor to Kate Douglas, society editor of his paper. Kate needs a part-time assistant. Eleanor finally persuades Phil to let her take the job. When Eleanor gets the gripe on the eve of a party, she induces Phil to go without her, much against his will. Eleanor accepts a few casual dates with Ed Hastings, a friend of the Parrishes, when Phil is called out of town for ten days. When he returns, Phil is furious.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER 11
Phil was still asleep when Eleanor opened her eyes and the quarrel that was the last thing between them came back to her. She slipped out of bed noiselessly and dressed quietly. She put on the green knitted suit Phil liked the best of all her new things, and tied an apron over it. There were popovers and hot chocolate and a light omelet at his table when he finished shaving. Eleanor stood at his elbow, her fingers picking timidly at his sleeve. "I'm sorry, darling... do you think a good breakfast would make you feel like forgiving?"

He smiled, but his smile was slow in coming. "Maybe," he said. "You really haven't forgiven, have you?" she said, when she lighted his cigarette after breakfast. "It isn't a question of forgiving, Nell. I guess I'm just dumb. I don't seem to get you at all. First there was that night at Link's party when you wanted me to go and... well..."

"I was wrong with that! I wanted you to have a good time." "Sure you did. But you got sore when I said I didn't want to go without you. That's what bothers me. I don't understand you."

"Look," she said pleasantly and patiently. "We—you and I—are people. We aren't just somebody's wife and somebody's husband. We're individuals. We're not two parts of one person. We're two separate persons."

Phil drew in a long breath on his cigarette thoughtfully. He said: "I don't see it that way, I'm not the only guy in the world, Nell, who thinks that marriage is supposed to make two people one entity. Maybe you don't like being my wife."

"Oh, my precious," she said despairingly. "I wouldn't want to be the wife of any other man in the world. But I don't want to think of myself as a wife, or act like a wife. I think wives are stuffy!" He grinned impishly at her. "You'd better pipe down on that line around the office. A fine home-making editor you make!" "The office has a job to do with it. But I can take an objective point of view about other women. Poor things! If you could see the letters they write in... 'My husband wants me to vote Republican.'... 'My husband doesn't take me to parties any more because he says I am jealous of other women.'" the window and looked over the roofs, beyond the lines of grimy clothes strung there. "Do you know what I'd do if I caught you kissing another man?" "Beat me up!" she asked hopefully. "I'd act first and think afterwards. I'd poke him in the nose and leave you."

There was no laughing, or kidding note in his voice. Eleanor came over and stood beside him. "Would you?" she asked softly.

"Yes, my dear, I would!" "Think about it for a moment, Phil... Would that be the right thing to do? Wouldn't you remember how much we meant to each other? How much we've built together?"

Japanese Barbarism the Worst in History, Murray Tells Nelson Club

Rome, Berlin, Japan Are All Bent on Pillage

That Japan had introduced a new type of Asiatic barbarism more terrible than had been recorded in the pages of history, in its present attempt to conquer China, was the charge of George M. Murray, M.L.A. Lilloet, in reviewing international affairs in the Pacific region, before the Nelson Canadian club at the Legion hall Wednesday night.

GENGHIS KHAN
"Murder on wholesale lines, torture of innocent non-combatants, pillage and destruction have marked the activities of the Japanese," Mr. Murray said. "The conquests of Genghis Khan, when every male Chinese opposing his armies was killed, are being equalled today by Japanese, using air bombers in place of cavalry, incendiary and explosive bombs in place of the torch, machine guns in place of bows and arrows."

"Japan is the great menace to the British Empire in the Pacific," Mr. Murray said. "She is the greatest enemy of democracy that the world knows today."

"Her military power is but the advance guard of her industrial campaign to dominate first Pacific ocean markets, and then world markets."

INDICTMENT IN SEVEN COUNTS
Mr. Murray indicted the Japanese on the following counts:

"Japan is re-establishing the sale and distribution of narcotic drugs in China and throughout the world. "Japan is building a great modern industrial system on a wage system borrowed from the ancient Meiji days."

"Japan's social standard calls for government ownership and profiteering in the bodies of her womanhood. Her factory system includes a plan of slave wages for young women sold into industry on the lines of the age-old Yehiwa system. "While spending millions upon her army and navy, she allows the health of her people to be neglected and suffers from leprosy are permitted to roam abroad in the rural areas like wild animals."

"Japan is one of the original Fascist states. There trial by jury is not known and democratic government with the people voting as in the British commonwealth, is a myth."

"She seeks the right to own land in British Columbia, Australia and elsewhere while forbidding any strangers to own land within her empire."

"Japan aggressively seeks the right to send her national colonists to other lands holding them always as vassals of the emperor, reckoning their earnings in British Columbia or elsewhere as legitimate revenues of the empire of Nippon."

Mr. Murray referred his hearers to official findings of League of Nations authorities for confirmation for statements made.

A CAREER OF WORLD PILLAGE
Launching out at Fascist organizations in British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec, he said:
ROME, BERLIN, JAPAN ALL SAME

"Friends of the Rome-Berlin axis must take to their bosoms the blood-thirsty Japanese and all that they represent. They are Three Musketeers together, set out upon a career of highway robbery and pillage throughout the trade routes of the world."

"Canadians who, especially in Quebec, have expressed Fascist sympathy, do so largely through lack of knowledge of the aims and objects of international Fascism. Indeed, ignorance of the true aims of the Japanese in war and peace enable Mussolini and Hitler to deceive their own people as to the character of their ally in the far east. For Japan is as great a menace to Germany and Italy as to Great Britain—but time will be required to reveal this to the world."

Mr. Murray said that a wage scale popular 50 years still ruled in many parts of the Empire of Nippon.

PAUPER LABOR

"While labor organizers seek to secure higher wages at Trail for Canadian workmen in the chemical fertilizer trades, Japanese manufacturers are competing with Trail in fertilizer products throughout the orient and the occident. They have shipped their products as far west as Puget Sound in competition with Canadian fertilizers, and at lower costs, based upon lower wage scales."

"It is so in every industry in Japan," Mr. Murray said. "The Japanese scale in the lumber trades, steel and iron, electrical, mining, fishing, agricultural and transport industries calls for a working day of 16 hours or more, with few workmen receiving more than a dollar gold a day—and millions of workers receiving less than the equivalent of 40 or 50 cents."

Giving detailed figures of the wages paid in the mining and smelting industries, the railway running trades, in shipping and in farming, Mr. Murray said: "We should send missionaries to the Japanese, and they should be organizers of the American Federation of Labor and the C.I.O., because the menace of Japanese industrialism is that they gain supremacy in the nation they have such unlimited man power and such a vast field of raw materials to draw upon that they can capture enough of the world's trade to break all the trades unions in the west. The fight should be not one alone of western capital against Japanese imperialism, but of western trades unions against slave labor and child labor in the orient, directed as it is now, and may be in the future at the point of the Japanese bayonet."

Referring to the royal visit of their Majesties the King and Queen, Mr. Murray said it was an honor to Canada and to the British possessions on the Pacific shores. He hoped that their visit to British Columbia would be the "crowning touch" of all the visit, as British Columbia was the front portal of the British Empire.

Included on the program were pleasing piano solos, including her festival winning piece, by Shirley Herron, winner at the B. C. Music festival at Vancouver.

Mrs. A. T. Horswill, president, was in the chair.

Hume School Hears King George Speak

Pupils and teachers of the Hume school, in their assembly hall, Wednesday forenoon listened to the royal broadcast originating in Quebec and broadcast over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation with Prime Minister Mackenzie King's toast to the King, and a toast in French to the Queen by Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader in the senate, followed by "God Save the King," Mr. King and Senator Dandurand then gave addresses of welcome to the King and Queen respectively, the latter in French, to which King George duly replied, to the prime minister in English, and on behalf of the Queen, to Mr. Dandurand in French.

The program was heard for three-quarters of an hour, from 10:15 to 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The made available by Ross Fleming, is to serve for the school's use throughout the entire itinerary of Their Majesties in Canada, so that the pupils may keep in close touch with the progress of their tour.

Guarding Nelson Children Again Diphtheria

Second stage of the campaign to immunize Nelson school children against diphtheria was nearing completion when this picture was taken. Medical men representing each of the doctor's offices in Nelson are participating with public health authorities in the drive. Each child receives three treatments of the diphtheria toxoid, and those pictured here are receiving the second injection. Dr. W. K. Blair, Miss Nancy Dunn, school nurse, and Dr. B. T. Dunham were carrying on their share of the work when this Daily News photo was taken.

If you'd take anything as cheap as a kiss for a thrill I couldn't give you.

Eleanor put her hand through his arm. "I wouldn't worry about that if I were you, Phil. I don't want to kiss anybody else. Our bank account of thrills is pretty big. Do you want to hear what I think about Ed Hastings?"

"I think he's a pompous fool. He's a bore. He's a hanger-on and rather pitiful. He's lonely. I wasn't lonely, but I was bored and lonesome for you. So I accepted his invitations."

"Nell! The trouble with that sort of thing is that accepting invitations when you're alone might become a habit. Maybe the next man might be a fool and a bore, but another man may come along, and there might be a little moment of propinquity and then where would you and I be?"

Eleanor was tired of the subject. "You're just looking for trouble, Phil, and I refuse to indulge in morbid contemplation. We'd better both get ready if we are going to keep our jobs."

He said: "I wish you didn't have to go to work today, Nell. You look a little pinched around that nice nose for news of yours."

"That's because you haven't seen me for ten days. Remember me?"

I'm the girl who had gripe a month ago.

"A month is a long time. You ought to pick up by now. I'm afraid that housekeeping and a job are too much for you."

Eleanor didn't want him to talk about THAT. It might lead to his getting husbandly and deciding she shouldn't work any more.

She said: "I think I'll drop in and see Dr. Benedict this afternoon. I get so tired when I walk upstairs. He may give me a tonic."

Eleanor broiled lamb chops for their dinner that night. The smell of the cooking made her dizzy. She said: "Phil, would you mind finishing them? I—I can't bear the smell."

"Sure honey. We could have had something else, but I thought you liked them. That's why I brought them in."

"I used to—but it seems that now I'm having a baby."

Phil said softly: "Say that again."

"You heard me. I don't blame you for being surprised. I was a trifle surprised myself when Dr. Benedict told me."

Phil sat down as if his knees had suddenly gone weak. He looked around the room because he didn't want her to see the mist he felt in his eyes. He said: "This is no place to bring up our child. We'll have to move. . . . When, honey?"

"Not until October or November. After a few weeks the doctor says I'll be perfectly normal. I told Kate right away and she can't see any reason why I can't work until the last two weeks. Then I can have a leave of absence for two months. I'm going to get a raise because I'll take over part of the society desk. Phil said brokenly: "Nell!"

It Agrees with Babies

There are so many hundreds of cases reported to us of babies who were not doing well until put on a Carnation Milk formula—and literally thousands who did well from the start on Carnation. Baby specialists know the reasons Irradiated Carnation Milk is so rapidly becoming the leading milk for bottle-fed babies. It is because it is so successful—and this because it agrees with babies.

Carnation is cows' milk with part of the natural water removed by evaporation. Homogenization and heat treatment make it far more digestible than milk in ordinary form. It is always the same wherever you buy it—unopened, it keeps without ice—it is economical in price—AND through irradiation it has added "sunshine" vitamin D.

Carnation does wonders for cooked dishes that call for milk or cream. It saves on cream bills for cereals, coffee and fruit. Write for Carnation books. "The Contented Baby" is free. The big, colorful Carnation Cook Book is 15c (postpaid). Carnation Company Limited, Abbott St., Vancouver, B.C.

HAS GENERAL FRANCO FOUND A FRANKENSTEIN?

General Franco apparently is finding that his brand of peace, too, has its delays. The military victory is complete and unquestioned; yet his triumphal entry into Madrid is again postponed—this time until May 30. Former King Alfonso XIII and his family have their physical properties in Spain restored; but nothing is settled as to the future of a Spanish crown, if any. Political news from Burgos is in suspension. This is not quite the picture of triumphant dictatorship that a devoted partisan might wish to see.

Why? There is little authentic news to suggest an answer. Almost certainly, Mussolini has an interest in seeing the Franco triumph, on which date he is supposed to remove his troops from Spain, postponed. But this is not enough to explain the present aspect of Fabian dictatorship so far as domestic government is concerned.

In all probability, General Franco is finding out what made it so hard for the Republican parliament to make up its mind. The sponsors of the civil revolt were the upper strata rulers of the economic and social order in Spain. But the fighters, by and large, were from the lower middle strata. And once organized into Fascist-type units, they speedily outnumbered their sponsors. Their platform is one of political and economic levelling—at the expense of the sponsors. And instead of merely being a parliamentary party, capable of being curbed, they were raised by General Franco into the proud strength of a fascist unit, bent on enforcing their demands with authoritarian candor and dispatch. General Franco, in fine, has domesticated a conflict of no mean proportions; and some working agreement must be found as to who will rule, before the ruling can begin. This doubtless is the process now taking place behind the scenes.

Reports from Paris say that the Carlists, whose allegiance is to the Roman Catholic Church, have contributed to the impasse—insisting in advance on terms restoring full civic powers and properties to the Church. Here is another reasonable though not confirmable explanation for the delays.

General Franco surely knows that the first rule of dictatorship is to dictate; but not even the presence of a foreign aid fascist army of occupation seems to make this an easy rule to follow.

TORONTO OUT TO BEAT THE RAGWEED

Eastern Canada must have recovered from its overhang of winter, for in Toronto they are starting the annual drive against ragweed, the principal of several wild plants that shower the green or golden pollen that induces hay fever in those with sensitive nasal membranes.

This year the drive is going to be bigger and better than ever, if the Toronto Telegram's advice is followed, and the provincial government will be in on it. Likewise the drive will have beneficial results for the unemployed, who will be on the firing line.

Many years ago goldenrod was supposed to be the prime offender in loading the air with sneezing powder, and the Nelson district took satisfaction in being practically free of goldenrod. But no locality can be said to be free of ragweed. However, hay fever is a rare affliction in the Kootenay.

There are evidently mixed motives in the case of Toronto, for beside saving worthy Toronto residents from undue anguish and providing worthy unemployed with pay-checks, a further objective is to make the Toronto district, and all Ontario, attractive to American tourists who may be unhappily allergic to pollen grains.

The scope of this matter may be seen from the following editorial from the Toronto daily mentioned:

"Having obtained good results last year from its war on ragweed, the city will this summer continue and increase its efforts to get rid of the chief cause of hay fever. Hundreds of men who would otherwise be obliged to remain in idleness on relief are to be given the opportunity to work for cash.

"From the standpoint of hay fever sufferers and from the standpoint of unemployed men the weed-cutting campaign has been a blessing. Mayor Day has pointed out that from the standpoint of weed elimination the plan in effect worked to perfection last year. Dr. Jackson, M.O.H., testifies that there was a considerable reduction in the incidence of hay fever. This year it is to be hoped that as well as being cut the weed will be destroyed and not kept in piles to dry and blow all over the place as was the case last year.

"The extent of the ragweed nuisance in Toronto prior to the clean-up efforts may be gauged from the fact that some 700 men were employed at the peak of the drive in cutting and uprooting weeds from vacant lots, back yards, unimproved areas and other spots where it thrives.

"To make the work more effective Property Commissioner Bland is engaged in a commendable effort to enlist the cooperation of adjacent municipalities. Ragweed pollen is carried great distances by the wind. If neighboring towns and townships can be induced to join Toronto in its clearance efforts the benefits in the Toronto district will be still more pronounced.

"Ontario government cooperation is also much to be desired. If ragweed growth can be substantially controlled the province should more than ever become a haven for tourists and holiday makers. Hay fever numbers its victims in the tens of thousands and ragweed is mainly responsible for their affliction. Farmers also find it one of their worst pests. A double purpose would be served by a well-directed province-wide crusade against it."

Roads on Rock-Clay Foundations Cost Half as Much, Last Longer, Serve Better than Asphalt "Veneer" Now Used Milne Asserts

Nelson Daily News: Sir—Now that our roads and streets are passable again after the winter snows, the time is surely ripe for us to stop and consider what is the matter with our road building system anyway. Surely we can build roads in British Columbia that will withstand the traffic, irrespective of what climatic conditions are? I say emphatically, "yes we can".

After thirty years practical experience of road building, working under some of the foremost road builders in Great Britain, including the late Johnny MacAdam of macadam road fame, I believe I have gained some knowledge of the business in that time, and always being interested in this class of work, I have given it a lot of study, so I believe I am in a position, if not to advise, at least to pass on some constructive criticism.

First I will deal with plain gravel roads and explain why they deteriorate so fast, and what can be done to prevent them from doing so. Due to the fast travel of our traffic today, we have two destructive forces to contend with. They are the centrifugal and centripetal forces. Right at the arc of contact of the wheel and road there is a vacuum caused by the sudden displacement of air and other small particles. This is the centrifugal force, and it is always present when a car is in motion, but, of course, the most conspicuous when passing through a pool of water or over a very rough road, leaving a very spectacular cloud of dust in its wake. The inrush of air to this vacuum also tends to loosen and destroy other small particles. This is the centripetal force. The only way we can overcome these two forces is to build roads that won't be affected by them and that is impossible with gravel.

We often hear the remark made: "What causes the rocks to go to washboards?" It is the action of these two forces causing a displacement of the small ingredients which leaves a depression in certain places and as each car comes along and hits these depressions with greater impact, they are thrown up, releasing the pressure on the road surface for a few inches, to come down again heavier and displace more material—just as when we skip a stone over the surface of the water the impact on its force is spent, when it falls to the bottom. But the force of the car, unlike the stone, continues to fluctuate till eventually the whole road is all washboard.

The only thing that can be done about this is to run the grader over them to level them up; then the procedure starts all over again. This is continued year after year, just like a person going around in circles and getting nowhere. We have been doing this for many years now on our roads and streets and we'll be doing the same thing a hundred years from now if we keep pouring gravel on them. We have all heard what happened to the foolish man who built his house upon the sand, and we see the same thing happen in a wind or rain storm when our roads are built on sand.

I am going to make some rather bold statements in this article. I don't suppose anyone will agree with me, but I am speaking from many years of practical experience and study. So the first statement I will make is that it is impossible to build permanent roads with material from a gravel pit. In building permanent roads a gravel pit is valueless. Due to the action of ice and water in prehistoric periods, nearly all material from a gravel pit has a smooth surface, and as all material is made up of particles, molecules and atoms, the particles and molecules of the asphalt which is mixed with this round and smooth surfaced material (sometimes known as peanuts and walnuts) has no chance to adhere to and bind them. Therefore they are held in place only by the finer ingredients which cover them. But when these two forces, which I have already mentioned, destroy this finer ingredient down past the widest circumference of the small stones, the particles of the asphalt at the lower part have no more control over them and a film of air gets around them, leaving them loose to be kicked out by the two destroying forces, and hence leaving a small cavity—the beginning of our famous chuckholes.

There is no use kidding ourselves into believing that we can build permanent roads with gravel, irrespective of how it is treated. Our black top veneered roads are a liability just as soon as they are laid down. We see proof of that every day, and especially during the break up period in spring when all our roads are closed to traffic.

I will now give a description of the only permanent road that can be built. The old-fashioned solid stone macadam road. Not only is it the only permanent road that can be built, but with the material available in British Columbia it is the cheapest road that can be built; costing only a fraction of concrete, it should not be over half the cost of a veneered road. It is chuckhole proof and will last indefinitely if the surface is attended to.

In all structures, including roads, the principle part is the foundation. If we haven't a foundation we can never have a permanent surface. So the first principle in practical road building is a strong, solid, and waterproof foundation. After the road has been brought to a grade, we proceed to lay a layer of rocks, anything from 3 inches to 12 inches in size. These are placed as closely together as possible, then thoroughly rolled with a heavy roller. After they are thoroughly rolled the voids are filled with clay, being swept or poured in. It is better to use a mixer for this as clay is very resistant to water and almost impossible to sweep.

Some of my road building friends will ridicule, no doubt, by mention of clay, but I am still under the heading of practical experience. I have assisted in constructing roads over clay beds, quicksand beds and peat moss beds 10 to 20 feet deep, and clay and rocks were the major components. If I were asked to define clay I would say it was one of God's greatest gifts to the practical road builder. It is one of the greatest water resisting natural commodities we have. If clay is at rest, it is practically impervious to water. Only by vibration and agitation or through sandy seams and fibrous roots can it be penetrated. The practical road builder's chief aim is to keep the water out of his road bed so he binds his base with clay. By putting gravel on the base or digging out 2 or 3 feet of clay and substituting sand and gravel with a veneered covering, we are simply opposing all laws and principles of practical road building. Who ever heard of a bricklayer building a wall and putting all the mortar on the top layer? The one and only reason why all the roads in the Kootenays have to be closed during the break up period is because of an open porous base. I must again emphasize the necessity of having the base solidly bound and waterproof. By using the present method we are simply inviting the water in and surely we don't need water rambling all over the road bed. The only time we need drainage in a practical road base is when we encounter a spring of water. Then proper means are taken to direct it to the nearest exit. If we keep the surface well sealed and drained, a properly built base will look after itself.

After the voids in the rocks have been filled with clay, they are again rolled while the clay is in liquid form so that the vibration of the roller will cause every crevice and cranny to be filled, thus prohibiting any movement of the rocks. Then we have a perfect foundation. This is then covered with a coat of crushed rock of two and three inch size or three and four inch size (2 or 3 being preferable) but nothing under 2 inches. All under 2 inch should be recrushed to 1/4 and 1/2 inch chips for finishing purposes. It is essential to have this coat graded because it is impractical to load a truck with anything from 1/4 to 3 inch and 4 inch rocks and dump them haphazardly on the road, as according to the law of gravity, the larger ones will run together and the smaller ones will go together, making an uneven wearing surface. If we want practical roads, we must use practical methods. All road and smooth surfaces must be avoided as it can't be bound. Three inches is enough for this coat because the closer we keep to the base, the stronger the road. There are fewer joints in it and it takes less asphalt. If we get six and eight inches away from the base, we are not getting the benefit of it. This coat is then rolled just enough to level and smooth it. Too much rolling on this layer breaks the rough corners and surfaces, making it not much better than gravel. The material that covers the surfaces are the greater the area, therefore more particles of asphalt adhere to them.

OUTDOING THE DEALER

ONE OF THE easiest ways to get a lot of extra points, over and beyond those which have been dealt into the cards for you, lies in re-doubling a low contract which one of your opponents has doubled and which you are convinced your side can surely make, with possibly an overtrick or so. Sometimes the scores obtained this way will mount up to several times what you could get in any other manner. Hands which could not even produce a game under ordinary circumstances can thus give you a total much larger than a game would produce.

This coat can either be pre-mixed or sprayed from the spray tank after it is rolled, but everything must be clean and dry. It is then given a light covering of chips 1/4 to 1/2 inch in size, rolled again and the road is finished—a solid stone road, not an ounce of gravel in it. These crushed rocks with their coarse surfaces are bound together from the bottom to the top, unlike the smooth gravel pit material which is held in place only by the finer ingredients which cover them.

This is the most permanent road that can be built and with the material available in the Kootenay it is also the cheapest. It is the only material that has to be bought is the asphalt, and it would not take half as much asphalt to cover the surface of a two or three-inch rock as it would their equivalent of sand or gravel. It is chuckhole proof as it is practically impregnable to the two surface destroying forces, there being no fine ingredients in it.

But there is another force that tends to destroy the roads and acts on both surface and foundation—that of heavy truck traffic. When a heavy truck is going over a road constructed of gravel mixed material, carrying a load of say 2000 pounds over each tire and the tires are six inch with an arc of contact on the road of six inches there is a 36-square-inch arc of contact. Two thousand pounds divided by 36 is 55 5/9 pounds load pressure per square inch. With the same load passing over a stone road with 12 inch rocks in the base, the load pressure would be distributed over an area of 144 square inches. Two thousand 13 8/9 pounds load pressure per square inch. Surely there isn't much argument there.

As I served my apprenticeship on road building in the old country, argument is often put up to me that conditions over there are different. That they haven't the same frost to contend with. Now I happen to be rather familiar with the actions of frost. I wouldn't blame it so much for causing trouble with our roads as I would our impractical methods. I believe the weather conditions over there are more adverse to road building than our weather is here. If our roads are properly built and waterproof, they must be pretty well dried out during the summer months. Only the natural moisture would be left and frost would not penetrate so far into a body of dry material as it would if that material were water soaked. Of course there will be enough natural moisture in the road to freeze it, and it will freeze all winter, so no more moisture will be admitted while it is in that state. If the surface is well sealed and drained no more water can get into it during the break up period. When the frost comes out the road is in the same condition as it was when the frost attacked it, and besides 12 inches of solid rocks will surely stand up better than two to four inches of black top veneer under any conditions.

Now over there they must have two or three times more precipitation than we have. They have two or three frosts and thaws every month during the winter period, each frost penetrating two to six and eight inches. The volume of their traffic must be 25 to 50 times greater. I wonder just how long a veneered road would stand up under those conditions?

Last summer I read in one of my old home papers where the country council I used to work for were hauling their rocks 40 miles by truck. Just imagine the number of miles of road that could be built in the Kootenays without even trucking a rock. No country in the world could be blessed with more or better road material than we have, yet we ignore it. We will construct roads over solid rock then haul gravel for miles to cover it up. This idea, to the practical mind, seems preposterous.

When our boards of trade and other business organizations which are interested in good roads get together and petition our governments to prohibit the use of gravel in any form on our highways, then, but not until then, will we see that endless train of tourist cars which everyone in the Kootenays would like to see.

Farmers' Convention Returns to Robson

To the Editor of The Daily News: Sir—Since holding the West Kootenay and Boundary Central Farmers Institute convention at Robson in 1935, the delegates have travelled some hundreds of miles for their annual meetings. In 1936 they went to Creston; in 1937 to Grand Forks; in 1938 to Nakusp. These trips were all extremely interesting, and revealed the extent and diversity of agriculture in the Kootenays. This, combined with the lavish hospitality experienced at these different points, made these trips memorable.

Monday next, the 22nd, will see the delegates once more travelling to Robson for their annual meeting. It is hoped the morning session will be started at 10 a.m. The ladies of the Robson Women's Institute have kindly consented to once again take charge of the social side, and it is hoped a pleasant and profitable day will be spent by all.

Graft One Rose to Another Best

By DEAN HALLIDAY

It is true that rose grafted to another rose's stock grows better and proves more satisfactory than the same rose would if it was grown on its own feet, or roots. Most of the lovely new roses are of "bud-ded" stock that is, the rose that produces a lovely, delicate bloom of a desirable new color is grafted on

SOIL SHOULD COVER "BUD"

Budded stock roses are best to a vigorous, hardy root stock that can send its strength up to the rose that is capable of producing wonderful blooms but not necessarily capable of withstanding rigorous weather.

In today's Garden-Graph, which shows a newly-planted rose, the arrow points to the "bud" or the "crown," the place where the understock has been cut off. If a rose branch should develop below this bud, it is a sucker from the wild rose stock and should be cut off. In planting a "budded" rose the soil should cover the "bud" to the depth of an inch or two, as shown in the illustration.

Fewer Opium Hongs

The report by the Shanghai municipal council shows that the illicit traffic in opium and other drugs in the Settlement during 1938 experienced many vicissitudes and presented some puzzling paradoxes. Before the war, in Chinese-controlled territory in Shanghai, there were 71 licensed opium-hongs (firms). The whole of the traffic was dislocated by the hostilities and attempts on the part of traffickers to establish themselves in the Settlement eventually failed; but, after various negotiations, 20 licensed hongs were established in former Chinese territory now in Japanese occupation.

Although the consumption of pure opium by the poorer classes was greatly reduced owing to the high prices prevailing, the provision of substitutes seems to some extent to have met the demand. The report suggests that imports from the north, particularly Yunnan, provided the traffickers with stocks of Peasant and Jehol opium which the dealers mix with Szechuan and Yunnan opium to give their clients a palatable smoke.

Attributing the diminution of the sale of heroin and red pills in Shanghai to the rigid enforcement of regulations by the Chinese court in the Settlement, the report records increased activity among certain foreign residents who are obtaining consignments of heroin to feed the international traffic. In Tientsin, whence the heroin is transported by sea, and it says that seldom do such consignments proceed to foreign countries by way of Japan, although that would be the shortest route to America. So when seizures of heroin are made it frequently happens that Shanghai or Hong Kong are named as the ports of origin. This is described as productive of the misconception that Shanghai is a manufacturing centre for heroin and morphine. The report alleges that for the past two years at least, heroin and morphine factories have been unknown in Shanghai.—League of Nations Fortnightly News.

Wants Removal of Lardo Log Jam

F. T. Abey, Kootenay old timer, who was in Nelson as a delegate to the associated boards of trade, is advocating the removal of a log jam which is causing the Lardo-Duncan river area to be flooded to the extent that 3000 acres of first class farming land are being made virtually useless.

Mr. Abey points out that if this jam were removed at a cost to the Dominion government of about $3000 it would make open to settlement an area which would add materially to the agricultural production of Kootenay and district, and would particularly benefit Kaslo and Nelson.

Successful Experiments in Trail of "Soil-less" Growth of Plants and Vegetables, Rotary Club Told TRAIL, B. C., May 17.—Rotarians and guests, were today informed of "Hydroponics", the soil-less growth of plants, by G. S. Orner, guest speaker at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Trail Rotary club.

Hydroponics, Mr. Orner said, was the growing of fruits, vegetables and other plants in water, containing certain added mineral ingredients. It was not a new science, he explained, as it has been known to plant physiologists for many years, but it was only in the last three or four years that it had become popular and of wide public interest.

POPULAR DEMAND

The "so-called founder", Dr. Gerlock of Berkeley, Calif., who was connected with the University of California, had received thousands of letters seeking information on the subject and many commercial firms had started up in the business, some of which have "folded up."

"The functions of soil are to support the plant, provide it with food and water, and to allow the roots access to a certain amount of air," Mr. Orner explained.

SUPERIOR RESULTS

"Dr. Gerlock claims that water grown vegetables are superior on the average, to those grown in soil, and thinks that eventually it will be possible, by varying the ingredients added to the water trays, to vary the type produced.

COMPLICATIONS

"It sounds very simple, but plants, like ourselves, require a number of elements for growth, which complicates matters somewhat. Nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium and sulphur must be furnished to the solutions in relatively abundant proportions. Iron, boron, zinc, manganese, and

Trail Presents Scrolls Members of Smoke Eaters Civic Reception Held for World Hockey Champions GREAT RECORD WINS APPLAUSE

TRAIL, B.C., May 17—In appreciation of their long list of victories which culminated in the world amateur hockey championship at Zurich, Switzerland, in February last, and the wonderful record which they established in so doing, the by Trail Smoke Eaters were publicly honored by the citizens of this city at a complimentary banquet in the Knights of Pythias hall tonight.

The scroll read: "Presented to (Name) of the Trail Smoke Eaters hockey team, season 1937-38; winners of the Savage cup, B.C. championship, the Afton cup, championship of Western Canada; the Allan cup championship of the Dominion of Canada; and the world's amateur hockey championship, competing for and won at Zurich, Switzerland, February, 1939. "Wherefore in appreciation of your part in bringing such high honor to the City of Trail, the citizens do hereby extend their thanks and congratulate you on the success of your efforts."

At the bottom of each scroll, which was an excellent piece of workmanship, appeared the lineup of the team. DESCRIBES PLAYERS James Buchanan, "the father of hockey in Trail" made the presentations in an able manner, commenting on each player with remarks which brought forth rounds of laughter.

The Allan cup and the world's championship had been brought to the Kootenays twice in three years, he said and "if it was not for 'old man' Hui I'm sure they would have been back here a third time."

Mayor E. L. Groutage, chairman, in his opening remarks, on behalf of the citizens expressed pride in having made it possible "for the boys to go over there and bring back the world's title."

"They have shown what true sportsmanship means and have exemplified what Canadians stand for," he said. When he mentioned that the Smoke Eaters had played 55 games and lost one, a loud huzza burst forth from the assembly and when he lauded the Trail Blazers the team which last winter carried this city's colors in the Kootenay league, there was more applause.

"They held the fort magnificently," the mayor said, and gave a good account of themselves. The Blazers came close to getting the Allan cup. Appreciation of the support of the citizens was given by O. H.

MORE ABOUT JEWISH RIOTS (Continued From Page One) In Jerusalem 300 youths marched through the streets to the Jewish agency building where cries were heard of "down with Chamberlain", "down with MacDonald" and "Halifax". "Long live the Jewish state." At Halfa a copy of the white paper was burned in a symbolic demonstration. The participants dispersed quietly after they pledged to "fight to the last" against execution of the new policy. Nation-wide demonstrations were organized by the Jews for tomorrow with hundreds of thousands expected to participate. Meanwhile the Jewish population closed down all public activity and by order of the Chief Rabbi prepared to observe tomorrow as a day of fast and prayer. Placards were posted in Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv announcing places for Jews to gather at 10 a.m. tomorrow for demonstrations including a 24-hour strike. REGISTER FOR CAUSE Jewish Nationalist institutions opened offices throughout the country where Jews between the ages of 18 and 35 might register for "service in the Jewish cause". British troops and police were under orders to "stand to" in anticipation of possible further disorders. Householders, anticipating a long strike, depleted the stocks of grocery stores and markets. Arabs in Jaffa, fearing the reaction of the neighboring all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, asked police to place a guard between the two cities. Most members of the Arab supreme committee were meeting in Beirut, across the Syrian border, to decide what action Arabs will take. They listened to Djemal Hussein, head of the Arab delegation to the London conference on Palestine, express belief that the new British policy probably would not offer "sufficient guarantees for realization of Arab aspirations." The strike tomorrow, the Jewish National committee announced, will stop all work in the fields, all construction, industry, small business, transport, travel and exchange of merchandise. No automobiles or bicycles will be on the streets, and schools, cafes and restaurants will be empty.

Fireworks Light Way Home for Royal Pair QUEBEC, May 17 (CP)—Fireworks that lighted the way home late tonight for the King and Queen symbolized the joy of Quebec City at having their Majesties as their guests on their first day in Canada. The heaviest night street crowds in Quebec's history roared approval of the royal couple as they left a dinner given by the Quebec government. Cheers and shouts that were heard as they arrived this morning and during parades today were weak in comparison with the good natured uproar with which they were greeted as they entered the Chateau Frontenac for the dinner and left it for the Citadelle, their home until they leave tomorrow. ONTARIO FARMER ADMITS ROBBERY OF SILVER IN 1935 PICTON, Ont., May 17 (CP)—A 60-year-old farmer and mechanical wizard who said he also was once a preacher at Edmononton told an amazed court today the story of his venture into crime to satisfy a desire to average what he considered his father's financial ruin by a United States bank years ago. Oscar St. Pierre, respected resident of this Prince Edward county district by day and self-admitted criminal by night, pleaded guilty to the robbery of $1190 in silver from the Bank of Nova Scotia in March 1935. He confessed also to breaking and entering a pool room and stealing $26.

Both rough stuff, and in the bantam games were marked by a lot of out by Tommy Cookson and Slim Porter, who handled the game. The midget till saw a lot of heavy slugging go by the boards as the boys laid on the hockey, with the result that next game a much closer check will be put on them. In the bantam game the smaller C.B.C.'s put up a game fight against their larger opponents, Jackie Gallicano led the Bluebirds with four goals and one assist. Bud Whitfield went through for two markers while Allan DesChamps, Reed Sahara and Ritchie Wassick chalked up one each. Assists went to DesChamps, Sahara and Currie Penallie. Bantams were dashed out to Frank Doyle with three trips to the cooler, Allan DesChamps two and Reed Sahara, Hugh Wallace, Bud Hesse, Dick Santor and Jack Gallicano each making a little jaunt to the penalty box. Art Choquette was the stand out for the C. B. C. and he walked through for four goals, Jackie Jarboe hit the twine for the other marker for the losers. Leo Choquette got the lone assist on one of brother Art's markers. Art also got the only penalty for the C. B. C. Tommy Cookson and Slim Porter refereed with A. N. Winlaw the timekeeper.

Fashion Will Be Informal Suits at Royal Luncheon, Member States Get-Up of Members Varied He Says in Nelson get-up of banker's gray, with fedora to match. "Captain C. S. Leary, M.L.A. of Nakusp, is named as another man who will also appear under a silk hat. He is short of stature, and his friends say a silk hat will give him that length of figure to be desired. "Men over six feet tall, such as C. H. Tupper of Simalkameen and Mr. Murray of Lillooet shrink from wearing tall silk hats, with due modesty, fearing that they will offend official pleasers. If they wear tall ties they would steal the show, overshadowing legislative "vest pocket editions." "The glass of fashion, and the mould of form will be exemplified however, by Captain C. R. Bull, M.L.A., of South Okanagan, a Patriotic figure of a man, who Beag street tailors have been engaged hobnobbing with his Majesty." The wives of upper country members would accompany their husbands at the luncheon, the legislator stated. "The problem of the curtsy for Her Majesty will probably puzzle some of the ladies who have it planned that Mrs. R. R. Burns, a reginal figure, shall be the ambassador of etiquette. The curtsy will come easily enough to younger matrons, but may present some trouble to ladies who long since have abandoned the tennis court and more vigorous physical exercise. "A wave of delight passed through the province when officialdom decided members of the legislature might present on the daughter to the mother. This plan was probably conceived in the minds of cabinet ministers at Victoria who run heavily to daughters in the debutant group," the member concluded.

C., May 17—The five princesses who will comprise the retinue of the Gyro May queen, were announced today by Fred McDowell, manager of the Gyro carnival to be held in Trail May 22, 23 and 24. The queen will be announced Friday after a drawing to decide the honored personage is held at the high school. Choice of the Annable school for princess is little Dorothy Hewitt daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hewitt, 10 Murray Drive. She is 10 years of age and is in Grade IV. The Central school princess is Irene Pacifici of Grade V. Although 16 years old, Irene is by no means a backward student. She arrived from Italy only two years ago, and is doing nicely in her new environment. Her popular choice by the other students is indicative of this. She resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Pacifici, at 889 Brier street. Representing the East Trail pupils is Lorraine Dwyer, 12, a student of Grade VI. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dwyer at 1648 Columbia avenue. The Tadanac school princess is Nancy Willis, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willis, Tadanac. She also is a Grade VI student. The high school princess is Verna Simpson, 13, a grade VIII student. She resides at 1815 Riverside avenue, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Simpson.

MORE ABOUT BRITISH POLICY (Continued From Page One) wrecked by disorders for three years. Jews will be limited to one-third of the population of the country which Britain wrested from Turkey during the Great War and now controls under league of nations mandate. The plan must obtain approval of both parliament and the league of nations. Jews planned strenuous efforts to defeat it, but the government was confident of pushing the program through. Main points of the plan were: 1. Establishment within 10 years of an independent state dominated by Arabs and bound commercially and strategically with Britain. 2. Permission for 75,000 Jews to immigrate to Palestine within the next five years—but thereafter Arab immigration will be necessary for Jews to enter. 3. Granting to the British high commissioner power to restrict or control the sale of land. The white paper says the British government "declare unequivocally that it is not part of their policy that Palestine should become a Jewish state" and dismisses the contention of the Arabs that the McMahon correspondence, during the Great War, forms a basis for the claim that Palestine should be converted into an Arab state. The government quotes a white paper issued in 1922 to support its argument that the Balfour Declaration meant only that a Jewish national home should be established in Palestine, and not that Palestine as a whole become a national home. The McMahon correspondence, made public during the roundtable talks on Palestine in London last winter, took place in 1915 between Sir Henry McMahon, high commissioner to Egypt, and the Sharif of Mecca. During the 10-year transitional period outlined in today's white paper, Britain will be responsible for the government of Palestine. The immigration of 75,000 Jews within the next five years will be subdivided thus: "10,000 annually, subject to economic absorptive capacity, plus 25,000 refugees to be admitted immediately the high commissioner is satisfied adequate provision has been made for their maintenance." Sharp criticism of the scheme was immediately forthcoming from both Jewish and Arab quarters.

Modern Equipment Washes Bottles of Gassosa Company TRAIL, B. C.—To assure proper and complete sterilization of bottles, Gassosa Company, manufacturer of soft drinks in Trail, has in operation a new "Liquid" bottle washing machine manufactured by the Carbonic Canadian Corporation, Limited, of Montreal. This new piece of equipment, which cost $4500 is the latest thing in bottle washing. Bottles are placed in holes in metal bars of an endless conveyor and are automatically looked over the neck as they enter the first washing chamber. Here they are rinsed with hot water, both inside and out, and then descend into an alkali cleansing solution which is kept at a temperature of 145 degrees. After emerging from the cleansing solution the bottles are rinsed six times with hot water and then three times with cold water. For one bottle to pass through the machine requires eight minutes. The Gassosa Company extends an invitation to anyone to visit its plant at 328 Rossland avenue, Trail, and witness the manufacturing of its many popular soft drinks. ... A Lerosse is manager.

11th Marks the Arrival of King, Queen in Canada Telegram Welcomes; New Officers Are Sworn

In recognition of the arrival of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in Canada, the 11th (Nelson) battery, R.C.A., staged a ceremony at its parade Tuesday night which was climaxed by the dispatch of the following telegram to the King, colonel-in-chief of the artillery: "May it please your Majesty; we, the officers and other ranks of the 11th (Nelson) field battery R.C.A., on parade and at the present, salute your Majesties and welcome you to Canadian soil." At the south end of the drill hall a large picture of the King was placed upon a stand covered with the colors of the artillery. Opening the ceremony, the battery formed up at the north end of the hall and gave the royal salute to the accompaniment of "God Save the King". MAP SHOW ITINERARY It then wheeled to face the opposite end of the hall, on which a large scale map showed their Majesties' itinerary from London to Victoria, giving dates and times of stops en route. A large button bearing the picture of the King and Queen, movable from point to point, indicated where they were at the moment of the salute. The map was flanked by the Union Jack, Canadian ensign and White ensign. At the top centre was a large picture of the King and Queen, and above it the royal standard. Another ceremony of the evening was the swearing in of two officers, newly gazetted—Second Lieutenant J. W. Hooper and Second Lieutenant E. M. Gillott. Each of the new officers spoke at the coffee table afterwards. Other speakers were A. S. Horswill, Sergeant A. D. Oliver, Sergeant Thomas Lanes-Bombardier, A. M. Hines Major A. E. Dalgas, officer commanding who proposed "the King", regimental sergeant-major Lionel Leask, as the only representative present of 24th field brigade headquarters Mrs. Leask, president of the ladies' auxiliary to the battery; and second lieutenant G. Dodgers and Cubs Tie 9-9 After 19 Innings of Play

Yankees Beat Browns for 7th Straight Victory

Second Year Star

By The Canadian Press The Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs tried hard to throw away their ball game yesterday, but in the ninth inning decided to keep it and played to a 9-9 tie before darkness closed in at the end of 19 innings.

It was the longest game in the National league since August 17, 1922, when the Cubs beat Boston 3-2 in 19 innings.

The tying run was scored by the Dodgers in the ninth inning when, with two out, Ernie Koy singled and Pete Coscarart doubled.

Luke Hamlin, who started for the Dodgers, was removed in this inning for a pinch hitter and Vito Tamulis pitched 11 scoreless innings in relief.

Philadelphia Quakers, paced by Morrie Aronovitch, beat Pittsburgh Pirates with an eighth inning upsurge 7-3.

Philadelphia Quakers, paced by Morrie Aronovitch, beat Pittsburgh Pirates with an eighth inning upsurge 7-3.

REDS TAKE SECOND Cincinnati Reds took over second place in the National baseball league, defeating Boston 6-1 behind Bucky Walters' seven-hit hurling.

The New York Giants fashioned two big innings to one the Cardinals put together and beat St. Louis 9-5 to even their series.

Three singles and Mel Ott's sixth homer of the season, with two on, gave the Giants their first four runs in the fourth and they bunched three more in the ninth when, with the bases filled, Joe Moore was walked forcing in a run and Frank Demaree singled home two more.

The World Champion Yankees stretched their string of American league baseball victories to seven with a 4-3 conquest of St. Louis Browns on Monte Pearson's fourth hit hurling.

Rookie Walter Masterson, 18-year-old right-hander with two innings of previous professional baseball experience, snapped Washington Senators' losing streak at three games by holding Detroit Tigers to six hits, all singles, for a 4-1 victory.

Gallicano and Hammond Again Out With Leafs

Atwell May Referee in Boxla This Season

Returns of Leslie (Buddy) Hammond and Joe Gallicano to Nelson senior boxla ranks were bright lights at Wednesday evening's workouts of the Maple Leafs.

Leo Atwell, who played defence and rover in past years for Nelson, may be seen in a referee's role this season. He has put in a bid for such a position with the West Kootenay Lacrosse association, and to acquaint himself to the job he handled the Leafs in a practice game last night.

Davy Gibbons was unable to turn out at the practice last night, and Bud Cooper has yet to turn out. Although the latter played defence last season along with other of this year's absentees, as Pat Egan and Bert Bryant, rearguard positions appear cinched now.

MORRIS LOOKS GOOD Morris in particular has been very effective, incoming forwards finding it difficult to dupe him out of position. He has put on considerable weight from last season when he starred for the juniors.

Other players turning out last night were Doug Blais, Ernie De Jong, Regie Miller, Pete Bonnevillie, Jack Blain, Albert Maxwell, Howie Campbell, Al Hooker, Art Hill, George Bishop, Glen Price and Leo McKinnon.

Rosland, Trail Enter Own Teams Junior Lacrosse

ROSLLAND, B.C., May 17—Rosland Terriers junior lacrosse squad was entered as a team for the West Kootenay junior boxla playoffs at a meeting of the Rosland-Trail junior league in Trail, and Trail decided to enter a representative team for the playoffs, selecting players from its own teams.

The league will operate during the season on a same basis as last year with three teams from Trail and one from Rosland competing. Some of the games may be played in Rosland.

A Terrier representative will act on the league executive. Attending the meeting from Rosland were Harry Beaulieu, president; Harold Bailey and Ross Saundry, executive members.

EDMONTON GRADS TAKE CLEVELAND 43-34 IN 50th DEFENCE OF TROPHY

EDMONTON, May 17 (CP)—Led by two diminutive forwards, Edmonton Grads tonight defeated Cleveland 43-34 to win their best of five series in defence of the Underwood women's international basketball trophy with three straight victories.

Grads won the previous games 61-32 and 99-26.

Helen Northup, who is barely more than five feet tall, and Sophie Brown, only a couple inches taller, led the Albertans as they broke through Cleveland's early defensive game. After building up a 10-6 lead in the first quarter, Cleveland was not able to keep up with the Grads attack, falling behind at 13-12 after about four minutes play in the second quarter.

Grads led 23-13 at half time and 33-23 at the three quarters.

Less than 1000 fans saw Grads complete the 50th defence of the trophy they won on its donation in a series with Cleveland Favorite Knits in 1923.

Because of a rainstorm, the game turned out to be one of the longest ever played here. Nearly two hours were needed to complete the 40 minutes play, interruption after interruption came in the second half as rain seeped through the roof of the arena on to the playing floor.

Midway through the last quarter a 10-minute time out was called by the officials to enable them to catch up on their mopping.

On Sunday, Creston used two pitchers, LaBelle and Brownell, with Sandy Telford behind the plate. Creston goes to Cranbrook next Sunday.

OUR NEW HOCKEY PLAYERS TAKEN UP BY CHICAGO; $35,000 EXPENDED

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey league, confirming reports they would rebuild the club which finished out of the playoffs last winter, announced today the purchase of four new players and the expenditure of $35,000 for new talent since the close of the 1938-39 season.

Bill Tobin, Hawk general manager, said the club had purchased Bill Galt and George Allen, both forwards, from New York Rangers, Phil Hergeshelmer and Les Cunningham from Cleveland Barons of the International-American league.

Purchase prices were not disclosed but Tobin said the Hawks, to which Hergeshelmer, paid the highest price ever paid for a minor league performer.

Tobin said that 14 other young players, all under 21 years of age, have been signed to contracts and will be given tryouts during the training season September. Among them are John Chad and Bob Carse, brother of Bill, both Canadian amateur stars.

Bill Carse, 21, and from Edmonton, plays centre or left wing, and scored 24 goals and 33 assists for Philadelphia Ramblers, a Ranger farm, during the Ramblers' regular season. Playing for the Rangers in the Stanley cup series he scored three goals. Allen, a 22-year-old left wing, came from the Ramblers to the Rangers late last winter, banging in six goals and having six assists in 12 contests.

Hergeshelmer, 24, scored 34 goals and made 19 assists during the Barons' regular season, operating at right wing. Cunningham, 25, a center from Calgary, played on the same line with Hergeshelmer and had 26 goals and 20 assists.

Wynndel as Spread Before the Camera's Eye

Two views of Wynndel, in the fertile Kootenay valley. Wynndel, already widely known for its strawberries and other fruit, shares in the attention directed to the Creston district through dyking schemes which have brought thousands of acres of the Kootenay river flats into grain production. These views were taken by Adolph Hagen from the top of the Midland elevator at Wynndel.

eneer and Berry nt Running Full Time at Creston

strawberry Shipments Expected to Start
Early in June

CRESTON, B. C.—The venerable berry crate unit at the Charles Rodgers Limited, sawmill and factory is running full time the make and delivery of strawberry pint cups and crates for the growers at Wynndel, where strawberries for shipment should be available early in June, possibly a week earlier than in 1938 when the crate went east June 8.

Last year Wynndel had an export about $1,000 crates, along with new hundred plants for jam factory. The plants have wintered all and with a slightly increased range and excellent bloom, the look is for a crop on a par with year ago.

On unirrigated fields rain would be welcomed as the moisture supply for April and so far in May has been practically nothing. Some ice-freezing nights have also been recorded, but so far as can be learned the Wynndel section has passed these.

This year, Wynndel Box and Lumbeck company, is helping supply the demand for berry crates and a pond cup making machine has been added. He is preparing to get with the make of strawberry sizes and hatches as soon as the strawberry demand is taken care of. A plant is also equipped for making other fruit and vegetable containers, along with pear and apple boxes.

For the first four 1938 months the sales aggregate of $89,361,878 was 2 1/2 per cent over the like 1938 period.

"Gory Murder" is Dog Bylaw Effect Council Is Told

A letter from Otto C. Thomas, owner of a Doberman Pinscher dog, "one of the unhappy owners of dogs you have put such a tie on," was "received and filed" by the city council Tuesday night. Mr. Thomas referred to the bylaw passed by the council, placing a $15 annual tax on dogs of the large type. His letter stated that supporters of the bylaw "must have some personal reason for hating these dogs."

Pork, Lard Prices Advance; Jars for Early Season Berries Ordered Soon

Strawberries and New Potatoes Are Cheaper

Pork and pork products, including lard, were on the upward trend, wholesale dealers reported Wednesday, the reason being believed due to the supply and demand for these products. Receipts of eggs were beginning to slow up.

Wholesalers are having some difficulty in distributing canned green beans to retailers, as stocks in the hands of canners almost completely cleaned up until next pack. Retailers, wise to the shortages, are buying up all available stocks. Beans have been so cheap this winter that more people have been buying them, the dealers said.

Stocks of both Canadian and American manufactured fruit jars will be ordered soon, in readiness for berries which are expected somewhat earlier this year because of the early season. Prices might be slightly lower this year because a 3 per cent excise tax on the jars has been removed.

Strawberries from Kenewick, Wash., are now on the market at reasonable prices, with Washington head lettuce also available. New potatoes from California, now more plentiful, are reasonably priced. The supply of old stock table potatoes is practically exhausted. Hothouse tomatoes from Grand Forks and the coast are more plentiful at lower prices.

A drop in bran and shorts was reported to wholesalers Wednesday morning.

Carlot arrivals of the week included two of meats, one of canned goods, two of groceries, one of vegetables, two of flour and feed, one of sugar, one of oranges and one mixed car of bananas and vegetables. A truckload of jam was sent to the prairies.

Rossland Band Platform Done

ROSSLAND, B. C., May 17 — Construction of a band platform in the lot between the Madison block and Hunter Brothers building was completed by the city work crew today. Here the mass bands, comprising the Fort George Wright band of America and the Rossland City band, will give a concert in June.

Burial Must Not Be Made Before Permit Issued

A letter stating that in no instance is a grave to be used unless the cemetery caretaker has a burial permit from the city authorities, will be given to "all parties concerned," the city council decided Tuesday night. In the past some burials had been made before Alfred Lane, the caretaker, had the burial permit, Ald. George M. Benwell, parks committee chairman, reported.

Mayor N. C. Sibbs said the cemetery was being made into "a very pretty cemetery, and I think it would be a good idea if all the aldermen visited it."

The present plan of road building in the cemetery would affect three graves in the Catholic plot, but Most Rev. Martin M. Johnson, bishop of Nelson, had given the council assurance there would be little trouble in moving the graves, Alderman Benwell said.
