Trail Tax Rate in 1939 Is Reduced by 1½ Mills

Budget Down $25,800 School Expense Climbs

BUDGET REVENUE $153,987, YEAR

TRAIL, B. C., March 27 — Recommendation of Alderman J. A. Wadsworth, chairman of the finance committee, that the Trail tax rate for 1939 be 40½ mills, a reduction of 1½ mills from last year, was approved by the Trail city council when the budget was brought down tonight.

"We wish to point to the city of Trail's expense for schools this year over former years," Alderman Wadsworth declared.

"The 1939 general school rate is 12.2 mills against 10.8 in 1938. The school debenture rate is 3.2 against 2.1 in 1938, making a total added charge of 2.5 mills or $9786. This is a definite fixed change we have no control over. Schools this year will cost the city $65,776.87.

"Your sinking fund for all purposes is in excellent shape, being slightly over 100 per cent.

YANKEE CLIPPER CROSSES OCEAN AHEAD SCHEDULE

HORTA, The Azores, March 27 (AP)—The mammoth Yankee Clipper carried the tradition of her sailing namesakes through the Atlantic skies today in an inspection flight over a trail for American Air commerce with Europe.

The 42-ton, 74-passenger flying boat rode a fair west wind from Baltimore to these sunny islands, completing the first leg of her maiden trans-Atlantic trip nearly half an hour ahead of schedule.

Flagship of Pan-American Airways, which will start regular passenger service to Europe later in the summer, she carried 21 crewmen, technicians and army, navy and coast guard observers—the largest number ever to fly the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air machine—over the route followed by the old American sailing clippers.

Captain Harold E. Gray, commander of the craft, said the 2800-mile flight was the "most comfortable kind of a journey."

The clipper completed her trip in 17 hours and 32 minutes, making an average of 165 miles an hour. She took off from Baltimore yesterday on the 10,000-mile shakedown cruise to inspect base facilities, check radio communications and weather reporting services and train airport personnel in servicing flying boats.

Motion to Cancel Patents of Radio Tube Co. Is Given

EDMONTON, Mar. 27 (CP).—Notice of motion to request the Dominion government to cancel patents and patent rights owned or controlled by Thermionics Ltd., of Toronto was given in the Alberta legislature today by Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary.

Shortly after giving notice of motion, Mr. Manning tabled the report of R. J. Gaunt, commissioner who investigated the price spread of radio tubes and declared a monopoly in the business existed.

Dr. Manning's motion declares the Gaunt inquiry disclosed the manufacture, distribution and sale of radio tubes in Canada is controlled solely by Thermionics Ltd., and its licensees, resulting in restraint of trade and in maintenance of unduly enhanced retail and wholesale prices.

It also requests the Dominion "to amend the Patent act so as to provide that patent rights respecting radio tubes held pursuant to the Patent act shall expire in the event that the article, the subject of the patent, is sold in Canada at a price greater than the lowest price, plus all federal import duties, sales and excise taxes, and transportation costs, at which articles of the same quality are sold to wholesalers or retailers or consumers, as the case may be in any other country."

4 Hurt as Auto and Coast Train Crash

VANCOUVER, Mar. 27 (CP).—Four men were injured, one seriously, late today when their automobile was struck by a Vancouver-bound electric interurban train at nearby Marpole, B. C.

Cliff Jackson, most seriously injured, suffered head injuries. Hospital attendants reported his condition only fair.

Harold C. Ralph suffered a fractured shoulder and cuts, Bud Ralph suffered head injuries and cuts and Frank Lundy had his shoulder bruised. Condition of all three was reported good.

Witnesses said the automobile, reported by police to have been driven by Bud Ralph, was thrown 30 feet by the crash and turned over in a ditch.

Hungarians and Slovaks in New Border Clashes

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 27 (AP)—A new outbreak of fighting between Hungarian and Slovak troops was reported today as negotiators of their border dispute began conversations which some Slovaks feared would end in most of their country going to Hungary.

A Hungarian communique said a minor clash occurred in the Kiskolon region of the border between Slovakia and Carpatho-Ukraine but made no mention of any casualties.

The skirmish followed three engagements yesterday in which the Budapest government said eight Slovaks were killed, several wounded and an undisclosed number taken prisoner.

"In view of repeated Slovak frontier violations and attacks the chief of staff today issued orders that these are to be most energetically repulsed," the communique asserted.

Reliable reports said Hungary was bringing the strongest pressure on the Slovak negotiators who arrived today and it was believed Budapest was endeavoring to obtain quick consent to a plan to be offered for German approval.

Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, was en route here from Berlin and Hungary's haste apparently was spurred by hopes of having the proposal ready by the time he arrives. Slovakia is under German protection while Carpatho-Ukraine is an autonomous province of Hungary.

"Chief" of Arab Rebels Is Killed

JERUSALEM, March 27 (AP) — British troops today tracked down and killed Abdul Rahim Haj Mohammed, self-styled "commander-in-chief of the rebel forces" in Palestine. His chief lieutenant, Suleiman Abou Khleifah, was wounded and captured.

The Arab chief was killed when he attempted to escape through a military cordon placed about the Arab village of Samaria.

Abrul Rahim directed revolutionary activities against the British from headquarters in the hills. Last Jan. 13, when it appeared the British army had broken the back of his revolt after 32 months of almost continuous fighting, he fled to Damascus, Syria. It was presumed he returned to Palestine secretly.

$500,000,000 ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL PASSES U.S. SENATE QUICKLY

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP) —The largest peacetime army appropriation bill in United States history slipped through the senate in jig time today—and with only one voice raised to question the need for the expenditure.

The $513,188,000 measure which was left untouched as it came from committee, included $13,330,000 more than the house voted. The bill now goes to a joint committee for adjustment of differences between the house and senate.

Senator King (D-Utah), warning against being "swept off our feet by reason of fires raging in Europe," proposed that the bill be sent back to committee for a 10 per cent pruning.

But when his motion was put there were no audible ayes" and a lusty chorus of "noes." A moment later a voice vote passed the measure.

King stirred up a brief discussion of foreign affairs when he asked what danger threatened this country to justify the amount of the appropriation.

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), in charge of the bill, replied that under present world conditions "the nation must be ready every moment of every day to defend itself."

"The only possible danger to justify large armaments is from Japan," King said, "and I do not regard that as a danger, because Japan is beating her head against a stone wall in China."

The measure is the regular, annual appropriation bill, supplying army funds for the year beginning July 1.

The total exceeded the appropriation for the current year by $52,987,628 and was $7,116,986 below the budget estimate for 1939-40. The measure would appropriate $95,738,281 for the army air corps and authorize in addition contracts totalling $32,205,988 for the purchase of new airplanes.

Mayoral Chain and Robes of Vancouver Soon to Reappear

VANCOUVER, Mar. 27 (CP).—Vancouver's mayoral chain and robes of office, put into storage when Mayor Lyle Telford was elected, are to be brought back into use when the mayor leaves on a four week trip to the east next month.

Acting Mayor J. W. Cornett said today he believes the robes and chain "should be worn as a means of dignifying civic government." He announced he planned to bring the regalia out of storage and wear it when he presides over the council during Mayor Telford's absence.

Mayor Telford has signified his intention to wear the robes and chain during the visit of the King and Queen in May.

DALADIER WON'T DISCUSS TERMS UNTIL IL DUCE NAMES CLAIMS

Support of Majority of Cabinet Said Obtained

SPEECH TO DISPEL SECRECY ON ITALY

PARIS, Mar. 28 (Tuesday) (AP) —Premier Daladier was reported without official confirmation early today to have obtained support of a majority of his cabinet in refusing to talk terms with Premier Mussolini until Italy states her exact claims on France.

Informed circles said the premier overruled a proposal by Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and four other ministers that France open negotiations with Il Duce on the basis of his speech Sunday.

Every effort was being made to keep Daladier's decision on the Italian question secret until his much publicized speech on Wednesday.

It was said by informed sources however, he would say France refuses to negotiate with any nation under threat and is capable of defending her empire.

Alberta Minister Explains Meaning of Overtime in Act

EDMONTON, Mar. 27 (CP).—Misinterpretations put on amendments to the Male Minimum Wage act defining overtime were referred to in the Alberta legislature today by Hon. E. C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

Any statement that it established a 10-hour day was erroneous, the minister declared. The amendment defined "overtime" and validated regulations now in effect, he said.

The amendment provides that "overtime" means any time worked by an employee:

"1. During any one day in excess of 10 hours or during any time which is not included in the hours of work prescribed pursuant to the Hours of Work act as the normal hours of work in a day for any such employee; and

"2. During any one week in excess of 54 hours or during any times which is not included in the hours of work prescribed pursuant to the Hours of Work act as the normal hours of work in a day for any such employee."

Ten hours was the maximum, said the minister, an employee could be worked in one day without payment of overtime.

"CKLN" Call Letters, 1420 Kilocycles Frequency

Construction of Nelson's new commercial radio broadcasting station is proceeding at once, it is announced by the Nelson Daily News. Preliminary excavation for aerial masts and anchor wires is under way at the site, the former Schaeffer-Hitchcock pole yard in Fairview between Gordon road and the C.P.R. tracks. Poles for masts have arrived, and the crew on the ground was enlarged Monday.

Announcement of construction was delayed until final approval from Ottawa of plans for the station and until the City of Nelson building permit was issued. The latter was delayed owing to the new zoning bylaw under which the consent of property owners within a radius of 300 feet was required.

VANCOUVER, Mar. 27 (CP).—Martinus L. Hansen who came from the Savoy hotel in London, England, in 1909 to take the position of dining car inspector for the Canadian Pacific Railway company at Winnipeg and later worked as dining car steward, retired today.

After working as dining car inspector Hansen became a dining car steward and in 1918 was appointed assistant manager of Hotel Vancouver. Preferring his former occupation, however, he returned to the dining cars. He made his last run on transcontinental train No. 3 which arrived here at 8:45 a.m. today.

Auxiliary Air Mail Service for West Kootenay Unlikely Present Time, Post Office Tells Esling

Held at Lethbridge for Connection With Trains

OTTAWA, March 27—The possibility of an auxiliary air mail service to points in southeastern British Columbia is not encouraging at the present time. No provision is made for point of call between Lethbridge and Vancouver, every attention now being given to insure regularity and punctuality of the trans-Canada main line operations. This was the information given to W. K. Esling, West Kootenay member, by the post office department.

It takes several hours longer for air mail in transit from Montreal to Trail than from Montreal to Vancouver; although better time is made on all eastbound mail from interior points. The time from Montreal to Vancouver is just 17½ hours. All mail for Nelson, Trail, Rossland and other points will be transferred from the planes at Lethbridge, there to await connection with the westbound Crow's Nest train. This means that airmail leaving Montreal at 9 p. m., on Monday, say, will reach Lethbridge at 9:20 a. m. Tuesday and West Kootenay mail will leave Lethbridge by train at 9:35 Tuesday night, reaching Nelson at 9:45 a. m., Wednesday and Trail at 12:30 p. m.

Air mail for the east would leave Nelson by train at 1:30 Monday morning and would reach Lethbridge at 5:50 Monday evening. It would remain there until picked up by the plane which reaches Lethbridge at 10:30 Monday night and is in Montreal at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday.

With regard to the question of an air mail service for West Kootenay, the department points out that the successful operation of such a service would involve a point of call on the main line of the Trans-canada air line between Vancouver and Lethbridge which the government does not consider feasible at the present time.

10,000 ACRES OF MONTANA FARM LAND FLOODED

HELENA, Mont. Mar. 27 (AP).—The weather bureau reported tonigt ice jams had dammed the Missouri river near Fairview, in extreme eastern Montana, and caused the river to inundate more than 10,000 acres of farm land.

Many residents of the flooded area were driven from their homes, Ellis Eggleston, weather observer at Fairview, reported. He said the Missouri was 12 feet higher than normal there, but expressed the opinion the flood peak had been reached.

Forty years ago, 12 persons met death when a flood caused by ice jams in the Yellowstone river at Glendive inundated lowlands.

CONFERENCE OF BRITISH, FRENCH ARMY CHIEFS TO BE STAGED TODAY

Viscount Gort to Visit General Gamelin; to Tour Maginot Line

RUMORS OF SPLIT ON CONSCRIPTION

LONDON, March 27 (CP Cable) —Commanders of the British and French armies will confer in Paris tomorrow, giving the Anglo-French entente every appearance of a military alliance.

Viscount Gort, V.C., chief of the Imperial general staff, will visit General Maurice Gamelin, supreme commander of the French army, navy and air force, called by Frenchmen their "second Napoleon."

Lord Gort will take three senior officers with him, suggesting there will be staff talks on joint use of military strength of the two democracies in wartime. The British commander will watch French military manoeuvres and tour fortifications of the Maginot line.

The announcement of Lord Gort's projected consultations with the French soldier-philosopher came after Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons Great Britain did not intend to apply economic pressure on Germany.

Employment in Canada Increases

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP)—Employment in Canada March 1 showed a slight increase over Feb. 1 but was lower than the corresponding date last year, the dominion bureau of statistics reported today. The 11,309 employers reported an aggregate staff of 1,027,846 persons compared with 1,027,619 while the 10,416 employers reporting at March 1, 1938, had a payroll of 1,027,992 persons.

Moderate improvement was reported in manufacturing industries, with leather, lumber and textile factories showing the most pronounced increases. Among non-manufacturing industries, mining, transportation and highway and railway construction and maintenance also showed heightened activity. Logging, communications building construction and services reported declines.

Employment in British Columbia was higher. The working forces of 1121 firms aggregated 83,053 persons compared with 82,164 at Feb. 1 while the 1075 employers reported at March 1, 1938, employed 81,831 workers. Manufacture of lumber, pulp and paper and electric light and power was more active while factory employment also showed improvement. Tendency in other groups was moderately downward, largest losses being in mining and trade.

"YOUR HOUR OF LIBERATION NEAR" FRANCO TELLS CIVILIANS IN RADIO MESSAGE; QUICK CAPTURE IS LIKELY

Council Assists Flight of Those Wishing to Escape Vengeance; Recruits Not Yet in Army Demobilized

MADRID, March 28 (Tuesday)—(AP)—The fall of Madrid to General Franco's nationalists appeared imminent early today.

Possible quick capitulation by the republican national defence council was indicated by two sudden moves late last night.

First the council began assisting flight of those wishing to escape possible vengeance at the hands of the nationalists. Later it demobilized recruits who had been called up but who had not yet joined the army.

The demobilization move confirmed belief the defence council did not intend to resist the nationalists who today opened up an encircling offensive against the beseiged capital.

At the same time the council was trying to keep the city orderly, observers believed, as a prelude to peaceful entry by Franco's troops.

Repeated appeals were broadcast over the union radio for the population to remain calm.

General Segismundo Casado, Republican defence minister, on the radio declared:

"We continue our labors to insure peace as soon as possible.

"We want to end the war and attain peace.

"In the name of all Spaniards, I promise we shall have peace."

But the defence council's action indicated peace negotiations had broken down.

QUICK CAPTURE

Poland Prepares for Nazi Threat in Defence Loan

WARSAW, March 27 (AP)—Poland today announced a huge extraordinary national defence loan to 'assure new successes for Polish arms" should difficulties arise with growing Germany or any of her neighbors.

While the belief increased in Warsaw that Nazi Germany was planning a new blow in Danzig, where Poland has sworn to protect her minority and her Maritime rights, the issue of an internal loan of 1,200,000,000 zloty ($225,600,000) was announced by President Ignace Moscicki for warplanes and air defence.

General Stanaslas Skwarczynski chief of the national unity movement, Poland's only party which has representatives in parliament, pointedly recalled the Polish victory over German knights at Gunwald in 1410 in issuing an appeal for subscriptions to the loan tonight.

Announcement of the loan came as it was persistently reported that the German fuehrer, Adolph Hitler, had brought to the attention of the Polish government a four-point list of demands relating to Danzig and the Polish corridor.

Skwarczynski's statement, in the light of these reports, was interpreted to mean that Poland is ready and determined to fight if necessary without waiting for Britain and France to form a "stop Hitler" bloc with iron-clad guarantees of military assistance.

"Historical events are taking place near our frontiers," Skwarczynski said, in an apparent reference to German annexation of the territory of Memel from Lithuania last Thursday, and to the dissolution of Czecho-Slovakia on Poland's southern frontier.

"We look upon these important changes quietly because our security is based on confidence in our power and strength."

Famous Lady Author, Born in Canada, Dies

NEW YORK, Mar. 27 (AP).—Miss Constance Lindsay Skinner, 60, who wrote a novel at 11, an operetta at 14, and numerous newspaper articles before she was 17, died today.

Poet, novelist, historian and geographer, she was editing the Rivers of America book series for the Farrar & Rinehart Publishing company when she was stricken two weeks ago with grippe. Five volumes had been published.

Born in British Columbia, educated in Vancouver, she wrote for Canadian newspapers and subsequently worked for the Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles Examiner and Chicago American, and wrote book reviews for New York papers and magazines. Among her numerous books were many widely read by children.

MINIMUM PEG ON WHEAT PRICE IS SET DOWN TO 60 CENTS A BUSHEL

Stark Disaster State Southern Alberta Farmers

GRADE STANDARDS RAISED BY THE BILL

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP) —For the 1939-40 crop year starting next Aug. 1, western Canada wheat growers will be paid a guaranteed initial price of 60 cents a bushel, basis No. 1 northern at Fort William, instead of the 80-cent minimum on the same basis, paid during the present crop year.

The 60-cent provision was proposed in an eagerly awaited bill introduced in the house of commons today by Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade, amending the Canadian Wheat Board act. At the same time, the minister also introduced a voluminous bill to amend the Canada Grain act, making minor amendments to 70 sections of the act.

The government's wheat program is to be rounded out by three other bills to be introduced later this week. Mr. Euler will bring in a measure for the closer supervision of the Winnipeg grain exchange, implementing many of the recommendations of the Turgeon grain commission report.

Dumping of Wood Pulp Is Protested

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27 (AP).—Pacific Northwest congressmen, intent upon preserving the lumber industry of their region, have united in an effort to halt the dumping of surplus German pulp wood in the United States.

The action followed closely the inauguration of attempts, both in congress and at the White House, to restrict imports of Canadian shingles to 25 per cent of the domestic consumption and to require the marking of lumber moving into this country so buyers might know the origin of the product.

The attack on the German pulp imports came first from Representatives Wallgren and Smith of Washington, who wrote letters to President Roosevelt protesting the shipments and urging him to declare an embargo against the product.

Later, other members of the Washington and Oregon delegations joined in the drive.

Representative Wallgren wrote the president the dumping of German pulp in the United States was proving a "detriment to the American industry and workmen." The German pulp, he said, was selling at less than the cost of processing the domestic product.

4-Day Holiday for B. C. Civil Servants

VICTORIA, March 27 (CP) — Saturday, April 8, has been proclaimed by order-in-council a holiday for provincial civil servants throughout British Columbia, it was learned at the parliament buildings today.

This will give British Columbia employees a four-day recess as Easter, Good Friday and Easter Monday being statutory holidays.

ALBERTA ACT TO OUTLAW DEBTS IS DISALLOWED; 4 OTHERS LEFT INTACT

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP)—For the third time since the Alberta Social Credit government began its attempt to remake the financial and economic structure of that province the weapon of disallowance was used by the Dominion government today to bring Alberta legislation to a state of nullity.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, announced in the house of commons the Alberta Act to Amend the Limitation of Actions Act 1935 (chapter 28, statutes of 1938) had been disallowed. Its effect was to outlaw all debts contracted prior to July 1, 1936, unless actions for recovery were started before July 1, 1940, or the debts are revived by new agreements.

Request for disallowance of four other Alberta measures were rejected although Mr. Lapointe in his report to the cabinet intimated two of the four were unconstitutional and would probably be found so in the courts.

The four acts left intact were:

Act to amend the Debt Adjustment act, 1937, (Ch. 27, statutes of 1938) which Mr. Lapointe thought the courts would upset as it infringed federal jurisdiction over bankruptcy;

DIAMOND WEDDING

FAMILY CELEBRATES

Mr. and Mrs. Smith celebrated the diamond jubilee of their wedding Sunday with their family. They were married in Mascouche, near Montreal, March 27, 1879. They have three daughters and 10 grandchildren. Their daughters, Mrs. F. M. Auld of Nelson, Mrs. F. E. Lathe of Ottawa and Mrs. F. Hedley Auld of Regina, taught in Nelson schools.

With the exception of three years in Minnesota their early married life was spent in Montreal, where Mr. Smith was in the service of the Grand Trunk railway and subsequently of the Canadian Pacific railway. He entered the service of the latter company in Montreal in 1885, was transferred to Nelson in 1904, and retired in 1927. Since then they have continued to reside in Nelson and are real "old timers" of this city.

In early years they participated actively in church and Sunday school work. Mrs. Smith was particularly interested in social welfare work in Montreal. For three years she was president of Trinity Women's Missionary society in Nelson, is now an honorary president of the United Missionary society and seldom misses a meeting.

GROOMSMAN WIRES

Among numerous telegrams and letters of congratulations and good wishes was the one from Buckingham palace. Another message of unusual interest was one from Dr. J. T. Donald, founder and present head of the well known firm of Chemical Engineers, Montreal, who was groomsman at the wedding 60 years ago.

A much appreciated message in recognition of Mr. Smith's long association with the Canadian Pacific railway was that received from C. E. Stockdill, assistant to the vice-president for western lines.

The family celebration of the anniversary Sunday and took the form of a reunion, with all the daughters present, at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Auld, Nelson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home to their friends in Nelson on Friday, from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 in the evening.

Cameron Declares the Letter Detrimental to His Career

C. C. F. BEHIND LABOR UNIONS

TRAIL, March 27 — Declaring that he intended bringing suit against a Trail paper and the writer of a recent letter to the editor of that publication, Colin Cameron, M.L.A., for Comox-Alberni, in an address at the Elks' hall tonight claimed statements in the letter were detrimental to his public career and strongly denied that he was a member of the Communist party.

Speaking under the auspices of the C. C. F. party, Mr. Cameron denounced the Workmen's Cooperative committee system of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company. He said he was "still in the dark" as to the employer-employee relationship.

Asserting that people in Trail, Rossland and Kimberley "have been so isolated in their ivory tower of prosperity that they are not aware of the conditions existing around them," he admitted he had found one feature of the district which he could not say was true of any other. That was "that the people have jobs."

The C. C. F., the speaker pointed out, was solidly behind organized labor and was making it its duty to see that unorganized districts became unionized.

"That explains my presence in Trail," he said.

The grant of $100 from the City of Cranbrook was acknowledged and the thanks of the board expressed for the kind assistance rendered by the city council in financing the work to be carried on during 1939.

The letter from J. D. Robillard, regarding holding a stampede and rodeo in Cranbrook was read and Mr. Robillard advised that the board cannot see its way clear to sponsor such a program owing to stampedes being held by local people as well as the Calgary stampede, and also that it is possible that the stock in East Kootenay would be under quarantine during the summer months.

Regarding a request from the Ta Ta Creek Farmer's institute that farmers receive at least fifty per cent cash when selling vegetables to local merchants, it was decided that the Institute be advised that the various merchants in Cranbrook had been interviewed, and they had stated their willingness to pay part cash for vegetables received from farmers at any time the merchants are in need of such vegetables, providing the vegetables are properly graded as required by the Marketing Act.

It was decided to write the deputy minister of public works regarding the Alaska highway and ask that the interior route be given favourable consideration.

Police Commission at Trail Agrees to Delay Adding Staff

TRAIL, March 27 — Trail city council tonight received a letter from the police commission which stated that it would comply with the request of the council that it reduce its estimates for 1939 by not adding another man to the police department staff.

However the commission asked that should it be necessary to employ another man during the year, earnest consideration be given such a request.

The council thanked the commission for its action taken.

TRAIL TAXES

"Your carryover will again be reduced, provisions for this having been made. We had over $20,000 carryover in 1937 and we reduced it $8000 in 1938, bringing it down to $12,660 to start this year. We intend to cut a further sum off which will give us an opportunity to cut it all off the following year."

At the request of Alderman William Thomson, Alderman Wadsworth explained how the committee reduced the rate the 1½ mills, which meant a reduction of $28,800 in the estimates. The biggest portion was pared off by taking $7400 from the sinking fund.

"We were that much overpaid in our sinking fund," Alderman Wadsworth stated. "We can give that back to the people and our sinking fund will still be 100 per cent.

"We had guts enough to put on five mills last year and we should have guts enough to start cutting it off," he asserted.

The finance committee had cut "a really good looking suit" out of "not so good material" the council agreed.

REVENUE $153,987.61

"The budget was balanced with anticipated revenue of $153,987.61."

To reduce the mill rate, Alderman Wadsworth enumerated the following: The rink company, because it formerly housed the city market, did not pay taxes for the rink, but this year would be taxed $400; band donations were cut $100; a provision of $500 for the hockey club last year was deleted; a provision of $800 for the royal visit was deleted; engineering costs were cut $900. The fire department was cut $200 and other departmental allotments were reduced.

Additional revenues which warranted the tax cut were: Estimated police court fines $1000; Warfield sewer rental $500; sewer installations $350; poll tax increase, $200; road tax increase, $100; and other sundry items totalling $1506.06.

Estimates for various departments included in the budget follow: fire department $15,235; waterworks $7600; street lighting $4700; fire, water and light recapitulation $27,535; administration $40,245.93; health and relief $21,256; board of works, excluding engineering department and trucking department, $35,837.80; police department $17,082.17; parks and cemeteries $4869.74; direct relief $1500; gas, oil and equipment, $5000.

Montanez Knocks Out Phil Furr

NEW YORK, Mar. 27 (AP).—Pedro Montanez, Puerto Rico's hard-hitting welterweight, added another scalp to his belt tonight when he knocked out Phil Furr of Washington in 1:10 of the first round of their eight round bout at St. Nicholas Palace. Montanez weighed 143, six pounds less than Furr.

Trail Council Asks Shriners Delay Carnival

TRAIL, B. C., March 27 — After a heated address by Alderman William Thomson, who charged that the Shriners' proposal to stage a show in the rink from May 10 to 16 was "utterly disgraceful" when the Gyros had for years held their annual carnival on May 24 to raise funds for the improvement of Gyro park, and after other members of the council considered it unfair, the council decided tonight that a letter should be sent to the Shriners asking them to reconsider holding their show prior to the Gyro carnival.

A letter from J. M. Spowart, president of the Trail Gyro club, sought the council's support in asking the Shriners to alter their plans.

"The Shriners have refused to find time to discuss the matter," vehemently declared Mr. Thomson. "The Gyros' May carnival is for the bettering of Gyro park for the benefit of citizens who by force of economic circumstances are unable to leave town in the summer. The Shriners carnival money leaves town and the Shriners money follows it."

Oshawa Juniors Oust North Bay

TORONTO, Mar. 27 (CP).—Oshawa Generals defeated North Bay 5-4 in 10 minutes overtime here tonight and pushed Trappers into discard in the Memorial cup hockey competition. Generals, three goals back at one stage, came back to level the score late in the third.

Roy Sawyer fired the winning goal, a whistling drive from the blue line at 8:32. The victory was Oshawa's second straight and the Generals meet either Perth or Verdun in the next round of the playdowns.

At the same time, the prime minister made clear Britain would go after Rumanian trade despite the new Berlin-Bucharest treaty.

SPLIT IN CABINET?

Meanwhile, all sorts of rumors and unconfirmable reports circulated about a split in the cabinet over military conscription, rapidly moving to the front as a major political issue. Informed sources admitted there was a difference of opinion within the government but said there was no sign of a cabinet rupture.

According to these sources, the prime minister definitely is opposed to conscription which is being urged by Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and Leslie Hore-Belisha, war secretary. Another dissenter to the idea of conscription is supposed to be Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, who resigned from the government during the great war over the same issue.

If there are conflicting opinions within the cabinet on this question, it is simply a reflection of the disharmony existing generally in political circles. Even those urging conscription cannot agree on the form—some insisting on full military conscription along continental lines, others recommending a compulsory national register, and still others declaring in favor of passive defence work or a few months annual training for youths from 18 to 21.

Before making up its mind definitely, the government may wait until the end of the month and watch results of the voluntary national register. There is no doubt conscription along the widest lines would be introduced immediately on the outbreak of the war, but the British nation has resisted all modern efforts to apply it during peacetime.

DUFF COOPER FAVORS

Alfred Duff Cooper, who resigned as first lord of the admiralty after the Munich four-power agreement which resulted in dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia, told his constituents tonight he favored conscription.

He said he thought war could be averted, but only by "swift, resolute, united action" by the British people.

He did not suggest putting every man in uniform "but I do say we should assert the principle that in times of emergency the state has the right to demand military service of every man of military age."

SAINT JOHN, N.b. (CP).—The New Brunswick museum school service was extended to 398 cities, towns, villages and settlements during 1938, stated the annual report of the museum director, Dr. William MacIntosh.

Pusie Suspension Said Too Severe

ST. LOUIS, March 27 (AP) — Indefinite suspension of Jean Pusie, explosive St. Louis Flyer defenceman, with the finals of the American Hockey association playoffs coming up was termed "too severe" a penalty tonight by Ed C. Steffen president of the Flyers.

Pusie, fiery French Canadian from Chambly Basin, Que., was suspended after an argument at Tulsa with Referee Stan Swain, who fell to the ice and was knocked unconscious.

Steffen added he had protested to President William F. Grant, in New York," who ordered the suspension.

"Jean didn't strike Swain or try to knock him out," Steffen declared. "He pushed Swain and Swain lost his balance and was knocked unconscious in the fall."

Loss of Pusie for the possibly three remaining games would be a blow to Flyers. St. Louis won the first game of the best of five game series 4-1, Tulsa Oilers the second 6-2. The place here Wednesday and Friday, and if necessary, Sunday.

FALL OF MADRID

("Madrilenos, the hour of your liberation is near," his radio message said. "Within a few hours our flag will float from the highest point of the capital. Our army is conquering all resistance and will enter Madrid within a few hours, bringing peace and justice to all inhabitants.")

This was taken to mean that peace negotiations with Generalissimo Franco had broken down completely and that the Nationalists were preparing for an attack on the capital.

Several officials addressing the people on the radio indicated that peace negotiations had been at a standstill since Sunday night when they said defence measures were being taken against expected Spanish Nationalist offensives.

Those negotiations broke down, officials of the defence Junta said, when the Nationalists in conversations last Thursday insisted upon delivery of the Republican air force by last Saturday.

The Republicans said this "token" surrender proved impossible because of the short time allowed, although Nationalists' guarantees of treatment of all persons in Republican territory except "criminals" and those "responsible for continuing the war had proved satisfactory."

General Franco yesterday launched a new offensive south of Madrid after the defence Junta had promised delivery of its air fleet today.

HONORABLE PEACE

Despite these developments the defence Junta had indicated early today it would continue to attempt to carry out its purpose—the obtaining of an "honorable peace."

The defence council's brief announcement tonight about civilians said it was expediting "the evacuation of all those who must be saved."

General Segismundo Casado, minister of defence, demobilized all recruits who had been called for service but who had not yet joined the army. They will be sent to their homes as soon as possible.

An official communique concerning military operations said the Nationalists had started another offensive on the Toledo front south of Madrid "where they succeeded in capturing some positions."

The communique added: "All was quiet elsewhere."

BURGOS, Mar. 27 (AP).—A complete breakup of Madrid's defence was expected within 24 hours in this capital of Nationalist Spain tonight with the possibility General Franco's troops might enter the city before then.

Nationalist despatches reported an increasingly large number of Republican soldiers were laying down their arms and entering the Nationalist lines in University City and Carabanchel.

Almaden centre of mercury mines 150 miles south of Madrid, had fallen to the Nationalists.

On the central front a force striking at Madrid from Toledo bridgehead, 50 miles south of the besieged city, reported Republican lines were crumbling under heavy artillery bombardment and sweeping machine-gun fire.

Eight passengers were aboard the ship. Pan American Airways officials announced the flight would be resumed tomorrow at 4 p.m.

'Divine Drudge' Is Exceptional Stage Offering

Little Theatre Group Plays to Full House

MOVING STORY IS SET IN GERMANY

"The Divine Drudge", a three-act play of exceptional quality by the Nelson Little Theatre association, was presented to a full house at the Civic theatre Monday night.

Scene of the play was laid in a little town in Germany, just before the Hitler regime, and the story as told by the authors, Vicki Baum and John Golden, and as presented on the stage by the Nelson players, was a moving one.

The presentation was under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Craufurd.

Liza is the devoted wife of Niko, a small town doctor. For the most part they take their love for each other for granted, without often declaring it in so many words, because both are preoccupied in a medical experiment which has continued over a period of years, and which is to make Niko famous.

An automobile accident in the village brings Karl Kruppe a Berlin magnate, Lania, a famous actress, and others of his party into the lives of Niko and Liza, with the result that Herr Kruppe falls in love with Liza and she with him. Pursuaded by Kruppe that her life has been too narrow, Liza eloped with him.

On her return to Niko's house next day to say good-bye to him, she finds that his experiment has already been completed in other experimental centres. This leads to a reconciliation.

THE CAST

Brian Horstead played the part of a Jewish storekeeper, "Markus" in love with the doctor's wife Liza. This love was evident in his actions and it was also apparent that the love was unrequited.

Eileen Dill was cast in a character part as a gossiping woman of the town "Frau Kiapstuhl", who with word and action added a subtle mixture of pathos and humor to the play.

"Liza", the doctor's wife was taken by Mrs. Harold Lakes. Being the doctor's assistant, she had her time well taken up between her duties and her desire to get away and enjoy herself.

Leslie Craufurd, as the old school teacher of the village, "Herr Alkott", played a very old gentleman with implicit confidence in the young doctor.

The Doctor, "Niko", was played by Albert Smith. He was so deeply ingrossed in his great experiment that every other incident and action in the household that did not affect his work was lost to him.

The convict, "Lunga", given by the prison authorities to the doctor for his experiment, was taken by Harold Hinitt. In this character, a broken down wreck of a man diseased in mind and body, he was a thing of torment and worry to "Liza" and a source of profound interest and hope to "Niko".

"The Mayor", a pompous, fellow, was aptly taken by Alec Leew.

"Karl Kruppe", a magnate from Berlin, by Reeve Harper, was a man of color and romance who proved to be Liza's greatest temptation.

COMEDY NOTE

Miss Alma Smillie was "Lania" the most famous actress in Germany.

"Kid Pauker" the champion prize fighter of the country, by Warren Cartmel, with his manager, "Putsch" played by Gilbert Goucher, provided a touch of clear comedy. Carl Carlson played the part of Kruppe's lawyer from Berlin. "Frau Schultz" a patient of the doctor was portrayed by Mrs. E. D. Rutherglen. Arthur Foster played the part of the great Berlin "Doctor Reiffeisen".

Stage management was excellently executed by George Horstead, Lawrence McPhail and A. S. Creech.

Amendment to Tax Recovery Act, Alta. House Is Advanced

EDMONTON, Mar. 27 (CP).—Bringing Calgary, Edmonton and Medicine Hat within its provisions, the bill amending the Tax Recovery Act, 1938, was reported for third reading by the Alberta legislature in committee of the whole today.

The house reported six other bills for third reading and made progress on three others, including the bill amending and consolidating the Coal Mines Regulation act, before adjourning until tomorrow.

Under amendments to the Tax Recovery act, approval of the minister of municipal affairs, Hon. Lucien Maynard, is required before occupied property can be sold through tax sales proceedings.

Amendments to the Alberta Election act also were reported for third reading. A new amendment written into the act requires byelections to be held within six months of a vacancy. Previously the requirements was four months.

ROMFORD, England (CP) — A father was sent to prison for three months for neglecting his five children, police discovering the family bivouacing in a field. He said "I was born in a field and I am all right and the children are all right."

FIXED PRICE RELATION OF SILVER AND GOLD SOUGHT FOR MINING AID

RENO, Nev., Mar. 27 (AP).—Contending a fixed price relation of silver and gold would bring about recovery to the mining industry and also insure general industrial and agricultural prosperity, a number of speakers at Gov. E. P. Carville's silver conference of western governors and mining men today urged congress to enact legislation permanently stabilizing the price of the white metal at from $1 to $1.29 an ounce.

Gov. Carville, opening the meeting, briefly reviewed history of silver mining and prices in the United States and urged that the nation recognize silver as full legal tender in payment of all debts.

He declared that if this were done "other nations would quickly follow the movement, and we would note a marked increase in the American export business."

Senator Patrick A. McCarran (D., Nev.) explained features of a bill introduced by him recently in the senate.

"The measure," he said, "provides for the establishment of the price of domestic silver at $1.04 per ounce, and authorizes the purchase of foreign silver when tendered in payment of American agricultural products for export at a price of 25 per cent above the world market, up to $1.29."

Nearly 100 persons were present at the opening conference, representing western governors and the mining industry.

Statement in Alta. Murder Case Says Wrong Man Tackled

EDMONTON, Mar. 27 (CP).—The prosecution's case was completed at the Alberta supreme court trial here today of Wallace Mackie on a charge of murdering John Horoszko, 34, farmer of the Rich Lake district.

Crown Counsel J. W. McClung read to the court a statement which he said Mackie gave to Royal Canadian Mounted police following his arrest.

The statement said that Mackie thought Horoszko was John H. Waine, Rich Lake school board chairman, when he attacked Horoszko with a beer bottle December 21 during a party at the district community hall.

According to the statement, Mackie was jealous of Waine because of his attention to Helen McDowell, teacher in the Rich Lake school.

Trail Ratepayers to Vote April 12 Water Extension

TRAIL, B.C., March 27—Reporting to the city council tonight on a conference he had with Hon. A. Wells Gray, minister of municipalities, Mayor E. L. Groutage stated that he was advised that the city should submit the $130,000 Waterworks Extension bylaw to the ratepayers since Ottawa first wanted to know if the people approved it before any action was taken to provide the loan.

The council gave the bylaw its third reading and set the date, at which it will be submitted to a poll, for April 12.

The government advanced a step nearer wartime footing, apparently strengthening France's position for possible negotiations to settle Italy's claims on her.

Five new decrees were issued yesterday in a cabinet meeting which considered Premier Mussolini's indication Sunday the next move was up to France.

They were issued under the government's new dictatorial authority and were concerned primarily with the navy although one affected frontier defences and another completed financial arrangements for industrial mobilization. The full scope of the measures will not be known until they are published in the official journal, possibly tomorrow.

Although the strict new military censorship law effectively prevented seepage of details, it was known the three naval decrees increased the fleet's fighting and technical manpower, changed the method of recruiting and revised the reserve organization from which the navy draws its wartime strength.

Waterworks Bylaw Brings Spirited Discussion Rossland City Council

Nimsick Champions Cause of Small Gardener

ROSSLAND, B. C., Mar. 27—At the council meeting this evening the Percentages Addition bylaw, 1939, received its first and second reading. It provides for an addition of five per cent to unpaid taxes on July 1, and an additional five per cent on October 1.

City Clerk J. A. McLeod stated that the city still owed $550 on ball park land which it was purchasing from the Great Northern railway. The strip between the park and the Great Northern track would make 10 building lots 50 feet wide. It was decided to defer action until sufficient applicants came forward to make it worthwhile planning and making arrangements with the Great Northern.

A resolution from the Coldstream Ratepayers' association claiming the greater portion of taxation resting on the land was ruining landlords, and recommending that the burden be allowed to fall on other forms of wealth, was ordered filed.

INVITED TO COAST

The Vancouver committee in charge of arrangements for the visit of Their Majesties wrote inviting the Rossland council to be present.

The annual balance sheet of the city was read and tabled until the next meeting, when L. A. Read, auditor, would be present.

The Rates bylaw, 1939, and Contagious Diseases bylaw were reconsidered and finally adopted.

Aldermen William Cunningham, J. P. Gallie and Leo Nimsick staged a spirited discussion over the second reading of the Waterworks Amendment bylaw. Alderman Nimsick contended a man with a small vegetable garden and a few flowers could not afford them if sprinkling regulations were too rigid.

Fire Chief Kenneth Martin was instructed to report to the council on the condition of the building on First avenue known as "the old ice-house". It was contended that the building was a fire-trap.

Receipts from the rink were reported at $395.40, and expenditures about $400.

The council will investigate the complaint of water damages to the property of W. Tulloch on the lower end of Columbia avenue.

City Clerk McLeod reported that the government would not sell land sought by W. Posenkoff because it was on the watershed of the City of Rossland.

A complaint of ashes being piled on Spokane street was referred to Corporal Gordon Lennox.

Expenditures for the past two weeks were: Finance and relief committee, $4929.42; board of works and health, $539.69; and fire, water and light committee, $255.

Peace River Floods Recede; Miss Dunn of Nelson Recalls Country

DAWSON CREEK, B. C., March 27 (CP). — Flood waters in the East Pine and Murray rivers of the Peace River district of eastern British Columbia receded tonight as residents of the area surveyed damage done by a sudden flood Friday, which took eight lives.

The waters rose 30 to 40 feet above normal when the ice blocked rivers swirled death over the low-lying lands around the tiny settlement of East Pine, 50 miles west of here and 550 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Bodies of Mrs. W. Warren and her three-year-old grandson, Don Lamont, have been recovered.

Other victims of the flood were Mr. Warren, three Warren children, Jean 12; Pearl, 10 and Ada, six; and two children of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lamont, Raymond, two, and Ernest, one.

Stories of battles for life in the treacherous waters, loaded with huge ice chunks, were described by survivors of the sudden flood.

Alex Dame, pilot who flew over the scene of the flood, said he saw at least one man who appeared trapped between the Murray and Pine rivers, unable to make his way to safety because of deep water above the junction of the two rivers.

Dame said the whole settlement was flooded out and only the tips of a few cabins were showing above the waters. Escape for the trapped men seemed impossible because of high waters for many miles upstream on both rivers, Dame reported.

News of the disaster at East Pine struck sharply home to at least two Kootenay residents — Dr. C. M. Beckwith of Trail and Miss Nancy Dunn of Nelson, both of whom formerly lived in the Peace River country.

Miss Dunn said Monday night she knew Mrs. Warren, in whose house eight died, and many of the others mentioned in the story.

East Pine was one of the outposts of her district and several times she had to cross the river. Horses screamed with fear when forced into it at flood periods, she said. On one occasion she had to cross the rivers at flood stage to reach a girl suffering with appendicitis.

A Hacking, Racking Persistent Cough

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you do to get rid of it is the kind that is dangerous to neglect.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

But, there is a remedy to relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is that remedy.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that may produce serious complications.

All-Party Gov't. Urged by Eden

GRIMSBY, England, March 27 (CP)—Immediate formation of an all-party government, with the double-barreled policy of harnessing Great Britain's industry, private fortunes and manpower reserves, was urged last night by Anthony Eden.

In a speech the former foreign secretary appealed again for rapid action from the government to convince the world Great Britain realizes the gravity of the European situation and is prepared to gird to meet it.

New Radio Station

The call letters "CKLN"—representing "Canada, Kootenay Lake, Nelson"—have been reserved for the new station by the federal controller of radio, and a frequency of 1420 kilocycles has been assigned. It will be a 100-watt station, similar in power to a number of western Canada stations including CJOC, Lethbridge; CFRN, Edmonton; CKCD, Vancouver; CKMO, Vancouver; and CHWK, Chilliwack, as listed by "Canadian Advertising."

High fidelity equipment of the most modern type available has been ordered.

A building in characteristic modern style, measuring over all about 40 by 24 feet and housing both transmitter and studio, will be constructed. A. H. Green C., Ltd., has the contract and W. F. Williams, a leader in the modern architectural field whose work has won a number of awards, is the architect in charge.

Two masts 150 feet high and about 425 feet apart will carry the broadcasting aerial. The masts will be constructed of cedar poles brought in from the Kootenay Flats by S. P. Pond. Each will be set in nine feet of concrete and each will be guyed by three anchor cables, also set deep in concrete and grounded beneath the cement.

Approximately five thousand lineal feet of wire will form an underground grid beneath the aerial, forming a rectangle between the masts with additional lines radiating out from the rectangle and others forming "bars" of the grid-iron arrangement. At each joint a metal ground post will be driven down to moisture.

The station building will consist of a semi-single storey structure housing office, control room, reception room, studio, and storage rooms, with furnace and additional storage rooms in the basement. It will be finished in white, the modern style being emphasized in the frontal view, entrance and windows and roof line, and by the call letters of the station, CKLN, on the side of the building.

IRISH 'BOMBERS' ON TRIAL AT LONDON

LONDON, March 27 (CP Cable)—Two of the nine men arraigned today on charges arising from the bombing episodes of January made impassioned speeches from the dock of the Old Bailey police court.

They were among the five men who refused to plead during their trial. Each of the five said he was a "soldier of the Irish Republican army"—a banned organization.

Peter Stuart, 25, looking Mr. Justice Humphreys in the eye, said: "If Ireland is not free when I come out I will carry on the fight again."

When Michael Preston denounced England's Irish policy as "one of shooting, hanging or jailing" the judge interrupted, "I have listened to enough of this nonsense."

WHEAT PRICE

The Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, will introduce a bill levying a small percentage assessment on western grain growers, revenue from which will go toward bonusing farmers in bad crop areas on an acreage basis. He will also submit a bill designed to encourage cooperative marketing.

The wheat board act amendment repeals the provision the board shall fix a price to be paid wheat producers simply because, as an explanatory note states, "it is no longer desired to require the board to fix the price to be paid."

Standards of several western wheat grades are raised slightly under the bill amending the Grain act, although the bill is concerned chiefly with making clarifying changes in numerous sections.

The bill authorizes the board of grain commissioners to grade screenings and "off grades". It again includes Nos. 1 and 2 C. W. garnet as mixing grades.

FREE TRANSPORTATION

While the act names several board officers to whom every railway company and other common carrier are required to furnish free transportation, the new bill provides free transportion shall be furnished for any other officials or employees travelling in the course of their duties, at request of the board or chief commissioner.

Another amendment specifically states the board's right to grant licences, because the present act does not clearly establish that right, according to an explanatory note.

A fine of not more than $100 is provided as an alternative to the present penalty of imprisonment not exceeding six months when a licencee refuses access to grain weighing scales to a person authorized by the board. Imprisonment without the option of a fine was considered too drastic.

A new section permitting "open sale contracts" provides "a means of dealing in grain by mill and private terminal elevators which is at present a general practice."

Insurance against loss by "inherent expolsion" as well as by fire is required on grain in terminal elevators in a further amendment. Payment for loss is to be made to the board in trust for the warehouse receipt holder, instead of to the receipt holder directly, as at present.

Annual weighover of all grain in every terminal elevator is made a definite requirement under an amended section 138. Consecutive weighovers are to be not less than nine and not more than 15 months apart. A new section requires annual weighovers in eastern elevators.

FARMERS ASTOUNDED

CALGARY, March 27 (CP) — Farm heads in southern Alberta today were astounded when they learned of a proposal before the Canadian government to reduce the minimum pegged wheat price from 80 cents a bushel to 60 cents a bushel, basis No. 1 northern at Fort William. Such a price, if approved, is far below production costs and will mean stark disaster and ruination of the farmers and in addition it will be bad for business, they said.

In commenting on a bill introduced in the house of commons by Trade Minister W. D. Euler to amend the Canadian wheat board act, John I. McFarland, former chairman of the wheat board, said that "any legislation which does not provide a living price together with a national policy for rationalization of the wheat industry is a defeatist policy."

Sun Shines Eight Hours in Nelson

Nelson's temperatures showed a wider range Monday as the mercury dropped to 27 degrees during the clear, frosty night and rose to 53 degrees for the day's maximum. The sun beamed down on the city for nearly eight hours during the 24 hours ending at 5 p.m., to send the snowline still further up the mountainsides surrounding the city.

CLAIM CHANUTE BANK ROBBER IS AMNESIA VICTIM

CHANUTE, Kas., March 27 (AP).—A man who threatened to "blow the place to hell" with dynamite bombs concealed in his clothing robbed the First National Bank of $4860 in currency today. He escaped in a taxicab.

Identified by several persons as a former Chanute resident who recently suffered amnesia, the man forced City Attorney Joe F. Balch, under threat of being "blown up" to accompany him to the bank.

There he confronted bank officials, demanded $10,000 in cash, threatened to detonate the dynamite, and finally agreed to accept whatever cash the bank officials had in the place.

Next he summoned a taxicab, took Balch as hostage and drove south from Chanute. He released the driver and Balch unharmned 4 miles from the city limits.

Swiss Strengthen Frontier Defences

BERNE, March 27 (AP). — The Swiss government took further steps to bolster frontier defences today by prolonging the annual training period of reserve border forces from one to two weeks.

Some of these border reserves, called up late last week, were rushed to frontier points as a precautionary move in view of the international situation. The movement continued today, most of those summoned being sent immediately by truck to the German frontier.

The Swiss federal council also decided on a one-week training course for territorial reserves who had not figured in previous orders.

Rumors concerning German troop movements on Switzerland's borders grew so strong and persistent the Swiss government issued a statement to quell them.

"Information gathered by military authorities," the note said, "shows clearly rumors concerning an immediate threat to Switzerland, either direct or indirect, are without foundation."

The rumors were current chiefly at Basle and Zurich when Swiss troops and reserves were called to the colors and placed mines under frontier bridges and strengthened the frontier guard.

A number of German army specialists and technicians also were said to have entered Italy, but the reports could not be confirmed here.

Novice Breaks Hip on Fast Ski Run

VANCOUVER, March 27 (CP) — Snow frozen hard presented lightning skiing conditions at Westlake ski run over the weekend—as C. Kennedy found out.

A scheduled race down the Hollyburn run was cancelled because of the suicidal conditions but Kennedy, a novice, decided to try the run anyway.

He lost control, fell, crashed against a tree, and was carried down the mountain to hospital here with a fractured thigh.

Windows Broken as Stove Explodes

WHONNOCK, B. C., March 27 (CP)—All windows in the Whonnock General store were shattered and merchandise scattered from shelves and counters yesterday when a heating stove in the building was exploded. Four persons in the store at the time were uninjured.

David Nadin, a partner in the business and one of the four in the store at the time of the explosion, could not account for the blast but said explosion of the stove apparently caused a number of detonating caps stored in the room to explode also.

His wife and Albert Cook and Bernard Whiting, all of Whonnock, were with Nadin.

SHANGHAI, March 27 (AP) — The Hankow headquarters of the Japanese army reported today the capture of Nanchang, once an important Chinese air base in Kiangsi province.

Japanese yesterday began a seige of the city, 170 miles southwest of Hankow, against strong Chinese resistance.

The Chinese reports said their air force had bombed Japanese positions along the Siao river, inflicting many casualties an shooting down three Japanese planes.

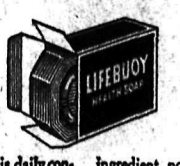
E. C. SHERMAN, Buffalo Salesman, relates sad experience with ordinary soap

MR. SHERMAN IS RIGHT . . . He has learned from experience that no ordinary soap stops "B.O." as Lifebuoy does. He made the mistake of thinking any kind of soap kept him fresh for his daily contacts . . . But now he knows that a daily Lifebuoy shower is a real business asset.



Just you try bathing with Lifebuoy and see if you don't agree with him. The chances are you'll never go back to ordinary soap. For no ordinary soap stops "B.O." as Lifebuoy does . . . No ordinary soap gives you the same pepped-up, extra-clean feeling Lifebuoy does. And you are extra clean, you know. For Lifebuoy contains an exclusive purifying ingredient not in any other popular bath or toilet soap.

Lifebuoy is grand for the complexion, too. It is thorough and it is mild—by test Lifebuoy is over 20% milder than many leading "beauty" and "baby" soaps. Get the Lifebuoy habit—for bath, complexion, and hands!

More women, men and children bathe with Lifebuoy than with any other soap

Fairness to Wife Should Be Man's First Thought

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

I knew from the beginning of our engagement that my husband contributed a lot of his salary to his family more than his older brothers who had better salaries, which was all right with me then. After we were married I noticed that his younger brother was wearing the belt buckle, cuff links and other gifts I had given my husband besides having his way paid to dances, movies and games out of our money. Every day something turns up to fret me and show me that his family comes first. I do my own housework to save money and he spends more than I save on his folks. Do you wonder that I'm upset and want advice about the matter before I blow up?

G. J.

ANSWER:— A blow-up will do no good but a showdown may; and you should have this matter out with your husband here and now. Any woman would be hurt and filled with resentment at seeing a young blade of a brother-in-law sporting jewelry she'd given her fiance. So you might start out by saying to your husband that, while you respect him for loving his family and being generous with them, you do think he should be first fair to his own wife. Then marshal your facts and show him how unfair he's being from your viewpoint.

Tell him he shows no sentiment about the personal gifts you've made him but passes them over to be used by somebody else. Tell him you work to help him get ahead and he spends what you save on pleasures for his brother, who should be paying his own way or learning to do without what he cannot afford to pay for. Warn him that due to these and a thousand other things you feel pushed out of first place in his life and eventually this will kill your love for him; to say nothing of making you loathe his family.

Of course, the call of the clan is mighty strong to the ears of some men, and when their wives come into the picture the habit of answering the clan call is firmly fixed. However, the average man prides himself on his sense of justice and fairness and if his wife can convince him that he isn't fair nor just to her, he's more than likely to mend his ways.

She cannot convince him unless she holds her temper, hides her resentment and approaches him on the theory that he loves her as she loves him, wants to do the right part by her and will, once he understands how she looks at matters. If, after using her head, her woman's wiles and her wifely tact, she can't stop the leaks, she can, at least, earn her own money and keep the in-law fingers out of the pie.

BENNY TO PLEAD NO DEFENCE

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP) — The Daily News said today radio comedian Jack Benny would plead nolo contendere—no defence—when he goes on trial here next Monday in federal court on charges of smuggling $2131 worth of jewelry into the United States.

The News said it had learned from sources close to Benny that if the court refused to accept this plea, the comedian is prepared to plead guilty.

In the latter event, the newspaper said, Benny planned to point out he had paid $256,000 in income taxes in 1938 without protest and that it was unreasonable to assume he would attempt to defraud the government of $500 in customs duties.

New Hairdress Not Becoming To All Women

By DONNA GRACE

There is now a marked tendency on the part of all hairdressers to cut the hair of every patron whether she likes it or not. This is not to annoy their clients, for most of them honestly believe they are doing the right thing by the customer by simply lifting her out of her old-fashioned way into beauty and smartness.

They do really improve the majority, but there are a number of girls and women who should never wear curls and short-chopped ends about the face.

We met a woman a few days ago who had been to one of the smart stylists, and she was in tears of rage and disappointment. Her hair was nicely curled but she looked ordinary, and lost all the distinction the smooth unbroken line her lovely hair afforded. Her hair is the kind that grows out slowly and it will be fully two or three years before it will again be a becoming length. She plans to wear hair pieces of the transformation type in the meantime.

It is so easy to cut, but when the hair is off, nothing can be done but make the best of it. Some women must have short hair for the newer spring and summer styles but there are many who cannot wear such styles any more than every one can wear the same style of hats and clothes.

The rule is—know your own type, but try to think of the hair as a soft, flattering frame for the face, rather than something to eliminate. The hair may be the only good point one has. This is frequently the case. So, while you may have every confidence in your hair stylist, just remember some of them seem to have gone a bit mad on the subject of short hair.

The best way is to go to one of the hairdressers who advocates the short styles, and before any cutting is done, let him dress your long hair so as to give the effect of the short coiffure. They all know how to do this. Then, if the effect is pleasing, you may want to have it cut. You are the one who will have to wear it.

Teachers Should Train Class to Be Charitable

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

"Dear Dr. Myers: — I am general superintendent of a Sunday school. I have a problem class, a class of girls aged 13, which gives me, its teachers and the superintendent of the intermediate department no little concern . . .

"It seems that this group of girls, five of them, ever since they were in the primary department, have made ugly remarks about other pupils in the class with the result that these pupils refuse to attend class. They cut up so in class that teachers try to do something for the girls but finally give up in disgust. The class has had no teacher since last May because each teacher said she could do nothing with them. I have asked others to take the class but when they learn what class it is they refuse."

PROMOTE THEM

My reply, in part: Suppose you promote these girls into a class of adults but don't let them sit together. Their presence there might tame them, especially if the teacher is interesting. If they choose to leave the Sunday school, all concerned might be better off. While a very skilful teacher might succeed with these girls, the chances are that there is hardly a person available who could. Anyway, a Sunday school should not have to be a reformatory.

The snobbishness of these girls—and, oh! how many snobs there are in Sunday school — had its origin, no doubt, at home. Perhaps their parents are pillars of the church. Nevertheless, something still might be done to "save their souls." If one or two of these girls could be induced to present a talk before the class on how unchristian snobbishness is, good results might follow.

SPEAK WELL

I wish primary teachers in day and Sunday school would help children to learn to speak only well of others — their clothes, person or family — and lead these children to see that about the worst sin is to be a snob. Then I wish all we parents would work in the same direction, through precept and example. And when we hear a child speak slightingly of any other person and things precious to him, let us remind this child that in our home we don't say such mean things. This sort of education is peculiarly desirable in these days when there is so much hatred and intolerance in the world.

Present Feminine Mode Is "Tops" From a Man's Point of View

NEW YORK, (CP) — Reappearance of the pretty girl in advertising layouts, replacing the jaded sophisticate of the late 1920's, draws an editorial whoop of joy from the New York Herald Tribune.

"Ten or 15 years ago (and until very recently), jaded, worldly-wise, a female 'dead-pan' gazed out upon us from all advertising copy and window display devoted to women's fashions," the editorial recalled. "Interesting, exciting, sophisticated, glamorous a woman might be, but pretty, romantic, sentimental, mid-Victorian were adjectives used only in the coarsest insults. The petticoat and the demure smile were unthinkable.

"Now foaming veils and delicious white lingerie and ribbons and velvet bows and lace and ruffles have conquered an unconditional surrender; and romance, sentiment, charm or prettiness that cruelly dated a lady in 1927 are in complete rebound.

"Once again the female is a female and no mistake and from the man's point of view, at any rate, it is a most delightful mode."

SERIAL STORY . . .

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER

By RUTH RAY KANE

READ THIS FIRST:

Disheartened because she can find no work, Lona Ackerman, whose father is serving a life sentence for murder, finds some consolation after telling her troubles to Jim Claridge, an acquaintance she has decided to trust. Aside from Claridge, she is alone in world, jobless and broke. Jim gives Lona a lead for another job and she applies at the office of the Western Realities company. Lona likes her new work, sees more and more of Jim evenings. On Sunday they decide to go to a nearby lake for a picnic. Avoiding old friends who had snubbed her, Lona plunges into the lake, infuriated, and swims out farther than she intended.

(Now go on with story).

CHAPTER TWELVE

With three-fourths of the lake behind her, there was nothing for Lona to do but keep going. Tiredly, she swam a few more yards, trying to take it easy, hoping her strength would return. But her arms only seemed to grow heavier and her breath shorter. Alarmed now, she rushed desperately against the water. Each yard seemed like a mile, each minute dragged endlessly. . . . And then, suddenly, a streak of pain hit her!

Cramps, like a giant hand reaching out from somewhere in the bottom of the lake ragged at her. With a faint cry she doubled up and went under. Choking, trying to hold her breath, struggling to free her limbs from the grip that was twisting them into helplessness, she went down, and came up again.

"Jim!" she managed to scream out across the suddenly hostile water. Then she was fighting again. Fighting and losing! The world seemed to have turned to water . . . terrible, crushing.

"Jim—" she tried to cry again, and a swift gladness shook her as she felt, rather than saw, a dark form loom close to her. Frantically she reached for him, grasped a wet shoulder, tried to find his neck. Is she could only get her arms about his neck.

"Easy, girl!" she heard him mutter. "Take it easy. Let go! . . . Let go—"

She knew she should loosen the grip that had tightened itself, somehow, about his neck, but she couldn't do it. The water was too terrible! How could she let go? He was straining, trying to pull away from her, panting.

"Jim—" she tried to cry again, and then something hit her on the jaw, something hard. After that she knew no more.

She was lying on the sand when she regained consciousnes. Jim was bending over her, working her arms. His face was white and his teeth were set and he was breathing hard.

"Girl!" he cried, when he saw that her eyes were open. "You're all right?" He dropped her arms and gave her a little shake by her shoulders. In his eyes was a look she had never seen there before.

"Tell me you're all right!" he repeated as she stared up at him. "You—God, you scared me, girl." With a sudden swoop he gathered her into his arms, wet and dripping, as they both were, and Lona felt him tremble.

"I'm sorry, Jim," she managed to gasp. The tears came then and, choking, she tried to hide her head on his wet shoulder.

"Suppose I hadn't followed! Or if I hadn't got there—in time!" He looked at the water and she felt him shudder. "And I had to—hit you! You wouldn't be quiet—" There was horror in his voice as he looked at the dark bruise swelling on her chin. "Sure you're all right?"

"Of course I'm all right." Lona felt her heart beat with a sudden vigor that sent a glow creeping over her body despite her chattering teeth. "Only I'm c-cold—" she brought out, and tried to burrow closer.

Her distress seemed to bring him back to himself.

"Of course," he acquiesced. "What am I thinking of, keeping you here like his? You'll get pneumonia." He looked about ruefully, and Lona saw that they were at the farther end of the beach, opposite the bathhouse. From across the water she could hear, faintly, the cries of the bathers on the other side, the bathers she had tried to escape.

"I'll have to carry you," he decided and, lifting her bodily in his arms, he set off through the trees without further ado.

"I'm too heavy, Jim!" she protested, her face against his chest, the exhaustion she had been fighting stealing over her, taking possession of her body. Beneath her ear she could feel his heart pumping hard and it filled her, suddenly, with a feeling of safeness, of being cared for. She pressed closer to him, and her arms went about his neck. "Jim," she brought out, realization of all that had happened taking hold of her, "Oh, Jim!"

He halted for a moment and stood, looking down at her, seeing the tears that started in her eyes. "Don't, girl!" he said, and his voice was tender. "Don't cry. You're not to cry again—ever! You're safe with me, now."

His arms strained her to him with a new tightness and she felt his heart racing. He rubbed his face against her wet hair. "Do you understand?" he brought out.

"Yes, Jim, I—understand," she managed to murmur before she allowed her tiredness to overcome her completely, deliciously.

Safe! That word, spoken in Jim's low drawl was running through her mind like a song as she went back up her boarding house stairs to her room. Safe! She had never expected to connect that word with a man, after all she had been through. She had never expected she would allow a man to love her, either, or to love anyone herself.

For Jim loved her! She knew that, now, and the realization was warm and comforting. It seemed to envelope her in a sense of security that was unlike anything she had known since the gay, thoughtless days back in Bridgewater. He was so casual about it, so sweet and so reticent. Not demanding, as she had always thought love must be.

Through the long ride home he had scarcely spoken a word to her. She had sat with her shoulder pressed to his, warmly, not needing to speak. Now and then he would look down at her, and his eyes were solemn and tender, and the half-smile that crinkled up his face was full of meaning. Meaning that made her heart race.

He hadn't even kissed her. For a moment as they sat in the chugging car before her boarding house to say good night she had thought he was going to. He had taken his arms from the wheel and put them about her slim body and held her infinitely close for a long moment.

"Good night, girl," he said in the drawl she had come to know so well. His lips had rested for a moment on her hair. Then, as if he knew the shyness that was possessing her, released her gently.

"Good night, Jim," she whispered back. "Thank you for a beautiful time. It's been—wonderful."

"I'll wait until you get to your room," he told her, protectingly. "Turn on the light and wave. Until tomorrow, then." He gave her hand a parting pressure and she felt suddenly humble.

"Until tomorrow—Jim."

Just that, but her heart was singing as she hurried up to her room. It was so wonderful to be happy, she thought, with queer humility. So wonderful and so undeserved.

She could still hear the comforting chug of the noisy roadster as she fitted her key into the lock of her door. She turned on her light as she stepped into the room. Could he see her, she wondered, and flushed as a honk from below answered her question. Going to the window, she watched the roadster out of sight, its tail light winking like a red eye in the night.

She was still standing there by the window fifteen minutes later, when a knock at her door and the whining voice of her new landlady interrupted.

"A telegram for you, Miss Ackerman," the woman sang out before she could open to her. "It's been here since before supper, and I couldn't raise you. It must be real important. It's from the capital—"

"From the capital! Lona's face paled suddenly, and her hand shook as she took the fateful yellow envelop. It must be Daddy.

Her worst fears were verified.

"FATHER DYING. COME AT ONCE," it said, cruelly, in bald uncompromising capitals.

For a moment the room whirled.

"I didn't know you came from the capital." The landlady was eyeing her curiously. "Anything happened that's bad?"

"I must use the telephone," Lona managed to bring out, then. Her hands were trembling, and her legs were shaky under her weight as she went back down the steps she had mounted only a little while ago so confidently. Fumbling, she dialed Mrs. Peterman's and asked for Jim.

Study of Starches Show Factors That Govern Food Digestibility

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Important practical work checked by scientific standards is being done on the value of various foodstuffs and methods of cooking them as it affects their digestibility. There is a common belief that imported starches, such as arrowroot, tapioca, and sago, because of their greater digestibility, are superior to the domestically-produced starches derived from our own corn, wheat and rice grains.

The work of Day on the digestibility of cooked starches from various sources indicates that the factors influencing digestibility are substances known as rose and blue amylose. In the course of cooking apparently rose amylose is changed to blue amylose. This is the chemical change that makes cooked starches more readily digested and absorbed. There is more rose amylose in wheat, corn, rice and barley starches and relatively little in potato, arrowroot, tapioca and sago.

TAKES TWO HOURS

It requires about two hours to change the rose amylose into blue amylose so a shorter cooking time is required to render potato, arrowroot, tapioca and sago digestible. However, the difference is more theoretical than real because the greater appetizing effect of cooked corn and cereal offsets the question of cooking time.

Other experiments in which not only the length of time it took for digestion in the stomach to occur but also intestinal digestion and absorption, would indicate that corn, wheat and rice flour are more completely digested than potato and the other starches noted.

The most rapidly-absorbed starch of all is the simple sugar, glucose, and, according to A. C. Roberts, who made "a study of the speed absorption of glucose," it enters the blood stream much more rapidly than any other type of carbohydrate and as an energy food would thus be the most efficient of all.

In cases where there is a sensitive digestive tract, in convalescent and other states, the exhibition of glucose as an energizer has good theoretical reasons for its use. In any such considerations the study should take into account not only the food itself but also the consumer, and the state of mind and physical health of the human individual is just as important as the food itself.

For a healthy individual we may assume that any vegetable starch cooked to his taste will be as efficient as any other, but these studies do indicate that the popularity of the potato and of corn has some sort of experimental scientific basis.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

J. L.: "I would like some information on neuralgia. What is the cause of neuralgia? Would it affect the entire side of one's head, causing headache, making the eye extremely sore, sore cheek bones, sore teeth?"

Answer — What you are describing is probably tic-douloureux, or trigeminal neuralgia. Probably the best treatment for this is injection of the nerve, which can be done by an experienced physician. The use of trichlorethylene, which is a volatile liquid, by inhalation has been successful in many cases.

STANDARD BUTTER CAKE

Required are one-fourth cup butter, one cup sugar, one half cup milk, two eggs, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one half teaspoon flavoring, one and one half cups pastry flour sifted before measuring.

Cream butter until soft, then gradually work in sugar. Separate yolks from whites of eggs, beat the whites until stiff and yolks until thick and creamy, add beaten yolks to creamed butter and sugar, sift dry ingredients together and add to mixture alternately with milk, then add flavoring. Beat together for one or two minutes, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into greased pan which was prepared before the cake making was commenced.

If you bake the mixture in a loaf better use greased paper; if as cup cakes greasing the tins will be enough. Light oven five minutes before cake will be ready to bake. For baking the loaf cake set the oven thermometer at 350 F.; if in layers or cup cakes, at 375.

GRAND DISH

Smelt a la Benedictine is quite a grand dish, nice enough for any meal. One pound smelt, four medium sized sweet potatoes, juice of a lemon, one cup cream or top milk, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and butter are required.

Boil fish until bones and skin may be removed, mash fine, add tablespoon butter, juice of one-half lemon.

Cook drain and mash the sweet potatoes, add a pinch of pepper, two tablespoons butter, juice of one-half lemon, salt, to taste, then add cream or milk. Mix with the prepared fish. This makes a rough dough; if too stiff, add a little milk. Grease a baking dish. Put in the dough, cover with bread crumbs and melted butter. Dot here and there with lumps of butter. Bake 20 minutes in hot oven. Serve in dish.

CHOWDER VARIATION

Smelt Chowder offers a swell variation on the good old chowder theme! Soak fish several hours or overnight in salt water. Rinse. This is done to remove the "fish cucumber" odor.

Clean three pounds of smelt. Place in pan. Pour on a cup of hot water. Place in oven 15 minutes. Then separate fish from bones. Peel and slice six medium sized potatoes, one half onion. Cook in six cups of water. When the potatoes are tender, add two teaspoons butter, the fish, four cups milk, salt to taste and a tiny pinch of sugar. Pepper as desired. Bring to boiling point.

BAKED SMELT

Clean and stand fish in salt bath overnight. Rinse. Pour boiling water over smelt and let it stand five minutes.

Layer the fish in a dripping pan. Place a thin slice of bacon over each fish if they are large (big ones run 6 to 10 to a pound). If small, cover generously with bacon. Sprinkle with pepper, and a few dots of butter. Add one inch water. If you have beef stock, add half beef stock. Bake until very little moisture remains and fish are done. Serve with catsup.

BELTS AND BRACES NOT NEEDED SAYS DUKE AT THE B.I.F.

LONDON, March 27 (CP)—The Duke of Kent has thrown the national association of brace, belt and suspender manufacturers into a lather by remarking casually his trousers stay up without auxiliary devices.

The duke, governor-general designate of Australia, disclosed during a tour of the British industries fair he wore neither belt nor braces. Subsequently, E. J. H. Mills, chairman of the association said:

"It should be remembered that while he (the duke) can keep his trousers up without belt or braces there are many men who cannot. After all, the B. I. F. is intended to increase and help British industries and a remark like this, meant quite harmlessly, of course, might if taken seriously, do some harm."

Dr. McKenna Urges Rotarians Seek Perfection of Private Ownership

Answer to Menace of Communism, He Asserts

Drawing examples from Russia, which he described as a "great experiment," Rev. Radey J. McKenna, Ph.D., urged Nelson Rotarians at a luncheon meeting at the Hume hotel Monday afternoon to maintain the principle of private ownership, seeking to eliminate corruption and wrongs, freeing it from abuses by thorough probes and investigations, thus to gain an ideal political system.

Dr. McKenna, sketching the history of Communism, stated that it was a modern menace which needed more consideration. In Canada there was a great tendency to accept European culture and philosophies primarily because they were European. A philosophy was a mode of living, the speaker explained, the ideas behind one's convictions. A person acted according to caprice, he continued.

Philosophies went past the business surface, right to the very nature of man. And human nature was not perfect, for man was always striving to patch up that great fall in the days of Adam and Eve. Communistic doctrines would necessitate a denial of free will, the speaker stated, for these people believed that something similar to a chemical reaction was the reason and cause of all man's action.

Communists attempted to take human nature and raise it above its own level. Private property was not required then, Dr. McKenna said. According to the theory of St. Thomas Aquinas, in the thirteenth century, if private property was taken away, then also the incentive to work, production and social peace were lost. And this was what constituted the basis of the Catholic church's opposition to Communism, for this system was contrary to human nature.

Speaking of Russia and Communism, speaker told of the organization of the Bolshevists under Lenin and Menshivists under Trotsky in England in 1903 when these free thinkers had left the scene of the Czar's oppression to prepare for the overthrow of the government. Private rights had not been respected by the Czar and so Russian conditions were ripe for entrance of Communism. The peasants wouldn't lose much by accepting this new belief for only 25,000 persons owned land out of the population of 170,000,000. By the time of the Great War, Russia was seething under the surface after. Dr. McKenna told of the army's revolt against the Czar, Korensky's coalition government and the eventual seizure of the government by Lenin and his cohorts.

Lenin promised peace and land, appealing to the very instincts of man. In spite of these high-sounding promises the state took over the land and the proletariats were as badly off as ever.

ARTIFICIAL STIMULUS

An artificial stimulus was applied to make the commoners work when the incentive to work disappeared, but this was done through terrorism and so social peace was sacrificed. Production figures were way down, in spite of the claims and comparisons of the Communists who compared the figures to those in 1903, under the Czar, when conditions were terrible.

In following Christian doctrines and Rotary principles, the speaker said, the threat of Communism could be warded off in Canada and the present private property regime could be improved until an ideal system could be secured.

Dr. F. P. Sparks briefly thanked the guest speaker on behalf of the club. George A. Hoover led the singing with Alderman P. G. Morey at the piano. J. P. Fink was in the chair and A. T. Horswill had charge of the program.

John Cowan, Vancouver Rotarian, was a guest.

TORONTO, March 27 (CP).—Ontario section of the Cooperative Commonwealth Youth movement in annual convention Saturday voted unanimously to refuse to enlist or to be conscripted in case of war.

The war resolution was adopted only after long debate, some delegates expressing the opinion the party would become illegal if members refused to become conscripted.

Motorist to See Other Side of Hill in New Mirror

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP) — Science has made an astronomical looking glass to prevent automobile collisions at the crests of the hills. In the glass a motorist can see the other side of the hill.

Going up, he has a visibility of 2000 feet down the opposite side.

The device was described by the greater New York Safety council. Six years experimenting is back of it.

The glass, 13 feet wide and four high, big enough for a half size view of the other side of the hill, is set above the middle of the road at the hill top. It is on a bridge similar to those used to carry railway signals.

It is made of 17 triangular bars of glass, laid parellel across the face. Each bar is actually a prism, the device used by astronomers to bend light into the spectrum in studying stars.

Overbright and Dull Child Needs Extra Attention

By STEPHEN McDONOUGH

NEW ORLEANS, March 27 (AP). —A mental revolution to put the brakes on child prodigies and speed up subnormal youngsters was advocated today before the opening meeting of the American College of Physicians.

Both the dullard and the genius child is out of step with his or her environment, John Barclay, registrar of the Devereaux schools at Bewyn, Pa., told the assembling 1500 physicians, and the genius needs just as much adjustment and training as the child who never seems quite bright.

"Thousands of patients now in mental hospitals could undoubtedly have been spared that fate if their cases had been treated individually and intelligently when they were children," he declared.

"What we glibly call 'insanity' is a disease arising from any one of a number of causes, a major one being the failure of parents, brothers, sisters, teachers," and, he added with emphasis, "grandmothers" to treat every child as an individual.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

A UNITED EMPIRE FOR A UNITED DEMOCRACY

The harmonious operation of the totalitarian axis is a matter of daily record. The swiftness with which the Nazi leaders consolidate their gains in resources and men into the totalitarian front is a warning a divided democracy has woefully neglected. Do we need more shocks to awaken us?

Democracy's first line defence has been the British Empire heretofore, not Great Britain alone. A united Empire is still essential to a united democracy. This is where Canada's responsibility begins, and, we believe, provides the reason why a majority of Canadians are chagrined by the absence of a positive attitude in our federal leaders.

How can we expect, the Toronto Globe and Mails asks, the wholehearted support of Great Britain and France from the United States if the senior British Dominion remains cold? Manifestly we have a dual responsibility, assumed when we became unofficial interpreter between the mother country and the neighboring republic. For the sake of Empire and democratic unity our key position has to be acknowledged in a practical manner. This Dominion's obligation to the Empire cannot be neglected without endangering the entire works and playing into the hands of the dictatorships.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech, his conference with the representatives of the Dominions, the statement from Washington, the action of the French chamber of deputies in giving Daladier practically single-handed authority, proclaim demand for a democratic front to save the world from totalitarian domination. Great Britain and the other democracies have every right to look for a solid backing from British people throughout that quarter of the world embraced in the Empire. Canadian neutrality and independence are impossible anyway. Why, then, the absurdity of futile silence?

The Union of South Africa has felt impelled to take extreme action to prevent German colonizers from landing in that part of the world. The United States has imposed heavy duties on German imports. These are signals that cannot be ignored. Nazi operations are not confined to central and south eastern Europe. The barter system of trade is capturing South America. Preservation of our democratic system and safety of our commerce are involved. Yet some of our leaders speak as though neutrality were conceivable.

We ask again: What will happen to Canada and the rest of the Empire if Britain fails in Europe? Can we afford to be less concerned about impending disaster than even the United States?

CENTRAL SELLING VOTE GOES TO GROWERS

The Loyd committee on central selling this week makes its report and places, through the mails, a copy of the report, a statement by the committee chairman and a secret ballot right into the hands of every registered grower. The committee, in effect, says to each grower: "If the committee is to go further toward central selling it must know you wish it to do so. If you want to improve conditions in the fruit industry declare yourself on the secret ballot. If you are satisfied with present conditions refrain from voting."

The committee is looking over its fortifications after having received a virtual declaration of war from one of the large groups of shipers. It is checking its reserves and looking to its lines of communication before picking up the gauntlet and tossing it back into its adversary's face, says the Kelowna Courier.

This growers' committee has canvassed the situation thoroughly. It knows it has the legal powers to go ahead and set up an elaborate central selling scheme. It knows, too, that that scheme would undoubtedly be attacked at the first opportunity. This was made quite plain by the registered letter sent to the committee by the United Distributors Cooperative, stating that organization would have no part in any discussion about central selling. Being aware that, if it went forward to complete its task, its efforts would be immediately challenged in a court of law, the committee naturally desired to ascertain the wishes of the fruit growers before taking this drastic step.

Every possible precaution has been taken to keep the ballot a secret one. An envelope addressed to a chartered accountant has been enclosed with the ballot and this independent firm will count the ballots and then destroy them. The committee members or any person interested in the fruit business will have access to them at on time. Every grower may mark his ballot in perfect confidence that no interested party can ascertain how he voted.

These precautions have been taken that each grower may unreservedly signify his personal wish and thus a clear cut picture of the grower-opinion be obtained.

Future action depends entirely upon that grower opinion as expressed through the medium of the ballots. The committee has put it very plainly that if the growers want it to continue its efforts to better the marketing conditions, they must so signify. If on the other hand, they are so disinterested that they refrain from voting, the committee may naturally conclude that the greater percentage of growers is content with present conditions and will cease, at the present time, its efforts to bring in a central selling scheme. Should, however, the growers emphatically declare themselves to be behind the committee in its work, the committee will take this as a mandate to take any and all steps it may deem advisable to bring in a central selling scheme.

It is clearly a matter for the individual grower. In his several hands he holds the immediate future of the fruit industry. . . . He has been asked a fair question. He must take his place beside the shipping interests or join the ranks of his fellows who feel that the growers' interests would best be served by a grower-controlled central selling agency.

Whale of a Time at Stewart

Dad Rainey staked a homestead at Stewart, which was at that time considered a part of Alaska, the boundary-line running through Stewart to a point a few hundred feet beyond Glacier Creek (about four miles from Stewart), and thence in a north-westerly direction across the Bear River Ridge. Later a combined survey party from the United States and Canada defined the boundary as running up the Bear River Ridge from a point at or near the mouth of the Salmon River to what is now Mile 13 on the Salmon River Road.

Old-time prospectors came from all parts of the country, two even came in a home-maid boat which was nick-named "The Coffin," and in which they had a very exciting trip before landing at Stewart.

About a mile and a quarter from the mainland a float was anchored with chains to facilitate the landing of freight and passengers. One day a whale had the temerity to make its way up the canal and became entangled with the chains anchoring the float. It carried the float, chains and all, down to the mouth of the canal. The greatest excitement prevailed in Stewart, and a committee was appointed to go down the canal and see what had become of the float. John Stewart, Dad Rainey, and some others were in this party, and found the whale dead on a bar at the entrance to the canal, the float still in tow. — H. McDonald, general foreman, in British Columbia Public Works.

Moose Meat Pops You Up

There's one thing about Telegraph Creek. You never get tough beef there, nor greasy lamb, nor stringy mutton, not even over-fed veal. But you do get moose-meat! What? Never tasted moose-meat? Why! It's worth the trip to Telegraph Creek for just that alone! There's something about moose-meat that perks you up. You can eat twice as much as you would at home—you likely will—but you'll never feel satiated nor gorged, although you may be, actually. You'll feel so strong and active right after dinner that you won't want your usual nap at all. You'll be ready for a big hike, maybe to Dease Lake and back before supper. You said it. "Telegraph Creek for Moose-meat!" — District notes in British Columbia Public Works.

An Honorable Gamble in Life

You must be prepared to take risks. There is no more hopeless motto for youth than "Safety First." I do not mean that people should be foolhardy. I mean they must be prepared for an honorable game in life. They must play the long game, and not the short game.

To slip into the first job that offers when you have no special aptitude for it, and no interest in it, that is a certain road to disillusion and failure. Find out what you want to do, and insist on doing it, whatever the obstacles and dangers. —Lord Tweedsmuir at Scout banquet in Montreal.

A Centenarian Fish

When a great sturgeon, 767 pounds in weight, was captured last year in the Fraser River, in British Columbia, examination of its ear-rings proclaimed the fact that the big fish had seen a century come and go.

Counting the otolith (ear-bone or ear-stone) rings is the method of determining the age of some fish. In the case of the big Fraser sturgeon the rings were counted by an inspector on the British Columbia staff of the Dominion department of fisheries, among others, and he vouches for the statement that there were more than a hundred of them. Age, by the way, had not made this fish decrepit by any means; it put up a hard battle with every one of its 767 pounds when it found itself trapped in a fisherman's net.—Canada's Weekly.

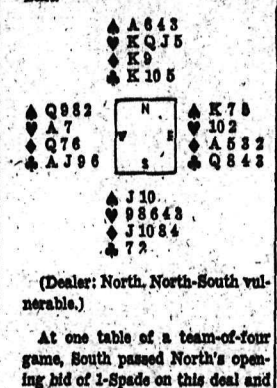
Contract Bridge

Shepard Barclay Tells How to Bid and Play

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

IF YOU HAVE a partner whose two bids really guarantee a game, and whose original bids of one may therefore be almost as strong as a game guarantee, it will pay you to strain yourself to keep the bidding open once for him in order to hear his second call. This is especially true if he has bid one of your shorter suits and you may have a much better fit for whatever he bids next.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

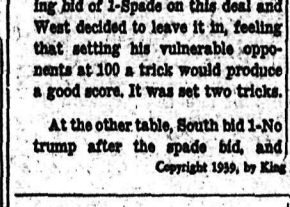
At one table of a team-of-four game, South passed North's opening bid of 1-Spade on this deal and West decided to leave it in, feeling that setting his vulnerable opponents at 100 a trick would produce a good score. It was set two tricks.

At the other table, South bid 1-No trump after the spade bid, and North then bid 2-Hearts. South felt he had a raise for this and took it to 3-Hearts, which was made by the kind of play that developed. Only one trick was lost in each suit.

It would have been interesting to see how other people would bid this deal, if it had been played at more tables. Most players in the West position would have doubled or bid 1-No trump if South passed the opening bid of 1-Spade. And some North players would have preferred a short-suit minor bid, or No trump, to the four-card major suit.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West bids 1-Heart, North 1-Spade and East makes a thin double on this deal, what should West then do after South's pass?

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

FRANCO AS STATESMAN

On the complicated chessboard of international politics a pawn—Franco—has been pushed through to become an important piece. His abilities as a statesman are now of far greater importance than his military skill. The latter he has demonstrated, but as the dominant leader of a shattered, exhausted and embittered people his reputation is still to be established.

The question is no longer whether the Spanish nationalists will win. It is the use they will make of their victory, and its consequence for the world, which is now at issue.—Washington Post.

There are two strong reasons, therefore, for establishing a final court of appeal in Canada. One is that such action would be entirely fitting in view of Canada's nationhood and the self-reliant spirit of her people. The other is that past experience indicates that Canada's interests would be served just as well, if not better, if this change were made. It is to be hoped, therefore, that parliament will, at the present session, provide for a self-contained judicial system in Canada.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Time to Look For Lace Bug

If you have not inspected your azalea, rodobendron and evergreen cotoneaster bushes since January, it will be wise to do so now. When you do check such shrubs, be on the look out for the lace bug, a pest which has spent its time the past few months by making a nuisance of itself. If this type of shrub is planted in the sun, then it is just to the liking of the lace bug, which will feed so voraciously as to seriously weaken the plants through loss of their vital juices.

The Garden-Graph shows an enlarged illustration of a lace bug, and also shows how this pest fastens itself to a leaf for feeding purposes. If inspection of your shrubs at this time reveals a light, whitish blotching on the foliage, look on the underside of the leaves and you will most likely find both the adult lace bug and its young, busy sucking out the plant's juices. The adult is about one-eighth of an inch in length, with brown, lace-like wings. The young lace bugs are wingless.

If you find that your shrubs are infected, spray a contact spray on a warm day. A nicotine soap solution or kerosene emulsion spray will prove effective.

Hank Doesn't See Way to Reaching the Babe's Record

LAKELAND, Fla., Mar. 27 (AP).—Big Hank Greenberg of Detroit Tigers spoke without envy today, and, in a casual acknowledgement of his own limitations, said, "I'm no Babe Ruth."

"When Babe Ruth struck out he did it with gusto, and everybody cheered," said Hank. "When I strike out it's just a strikeout, and they give me the dickens."

Greenberg came within a whisper of matching Ruth's record of 60 home runs last year, and has more than a hazy chance of bettering it, despite his own expressed opinion he won't come that close again.

"I don't think I can do it," he continued. "And after all, what does it mean? It just puts a lot of pressure on you. Maybe in my old age I could pull out clippings and show the folks what a great guy I was. But right now I'm not particularly interested. I'd rather go after the runs batted in record."

Brandon to Be Tough Team for Edmonton Juniors

WINNIPEG, March 27 (CP) — Brandon Elks, well-balanced and featuring a sensational goalie, present a formidable array of hockey talent for the western junior final with Edmonton Roamers.

Defence of the Canadian championship won last year for Manitoba by St. Boniface Seals rests with a team which many consider the equal of Seals in all-round ability. The 12 Brandon players average 163.8 pounds and 18.3 years.

Jimmy Creighton, centre with Port Arthur when the Tricolor won the Allan cup in 1929 and a professional with Detroit, Philadelphia and Kansas City until serious injury forced his retirement in 1933, developed Elks into a smooth hockey machinei n his first year as a coach.

In 18 scheduled Manitoba north division games this season Brandon topped the standings with 14 wins and four losses, scored 102 goals to their opponents' 60. In the division final they whipped Elmwood 6-3, 5-2 and 10-4 and, after losing the first game of the provincial final to Winnipeg Monarchs 11-3 came back to take three straight, 4-3, 5-4 and 4-3. There they showed their championship mettle.

Diz Dean, Bill Lee Burn 'em Over in Training

Bring on those Pirates! Bring on those Giants! Diz Dean, left, and Bill Lee, zing the ball over the plate at Chicago Cubs' Catalina Island training camp, as they demonstrate to Manager Gabby Hartnett just how they are going to hang up victories for last year's National league champs. Diz hopes to regain the glory that was his before he was afflicted with arm trouble, while Big Bill will be doing fine if he can duplicate his feats of last season when he practically pitched his team to the flag, sprinkling his victory strings liberally with shutouts.

Patrick Can't Hear Exhibition Games Offers

By ALAN RANDAL

NEW YORK, March 27 (CP)—Such widely separated spots as London and Los Angeles would like New York Rangers to play exhibition hockey next month . . . so far the cash offered hasn't been enough to tempt Lester Patrick . . . neuritis is taking some of the joy out of the Stanley cup playoffs for Manager Art Ross of Boston . . .

The hockey fever that took hold of Boston for the Bruins-Rangers series is really something . . . one fan moved into Boston garden for the first game last Thursday at 3 a.m. to get first crack at returned tickets . . . President Wes Adams of the Bruins was so touched by the story he ordered at least 2000 reserved seats on public sale for all remaining games. . . .

The stick Mel Hill used to score his winning overtime goals is a frayed affair that has seen service for more than a month . . . It's so lucky he won't discard it . . . Sitting on the bench Lester Patrick sometimes loses several pounds a game . . . and Lew Burton, in his Journal-American column, adds: "On such occasions he generally loses the game, too." . . .

Sun Valley Youth and Swiss Miss Emerge as Best Skiers at Idaho

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Mar. 27 (AP).—A youth who hails from a land without snow and a teacher of skiing came out of a strenuous three-day tournament today as the United States' best skiiers.

A slender Swiss miss, Erna Steurt, overshadowed all feminine competition.

Husky Peter Radacher of Sun Valley pieced together second positions in the langlauf, downhill and slalom, first in the downhill-slalom combined and seventh in the jumping to win the national four-way open and its recognition as the best all-around skier in America.

Dick Durrance, a Florida-born youth who went to Dartmouth college to study art, won the national four-way amateur meet and the title of best all-around amateur skier. He yielded his title in the Harriman cup international open to Radacher, however.

Miss Steurt won both events in the women's combined tourament and her teammate, Nine Von Arx-Zogg, took up where she left off with seconds in both events.

Procter Loses to Nelson, Badminton

PROCTER, B.C. — Procter Badminton club entertained a number of Nelson junior and senior badminton players Saturday evening at a tournament held in the Procter Community hall, when the Nelson players took on a team of the Procter club's beginners.

The Procter club did not succeed in winning any of the games, however, the experience gained in playing against outside competition, this being the first time for the local club, was extremely valuable to the team.

Player's from Nelson included Ken McBride, M. Smith, S. MacIntosh, M. Whimster, B. Taylor, L. Carew, B. Collinson, E. Hammer, Mrs. D. Male, Norman Ashley, Ross Fleming and Hector McKenzie.

CUBS LIKED FOR ANOTHER TITLE

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 27 (AP).—Heading into the last week of their annual spring sojourn in southern California, the hustling Chicago Cubs remain, in the eyes of this admiring locality, a solid choice to win the National league championship again.

Peeking into the worry department of Manager Charles Leo Hartnett, the biggest problems seem to hinge around the slightly rheumatic joints of Shortstop Dick Bartell, and the pitching possibilities of the great one himself, Jerome Herman Dean.

The Dean matter isn't such a critical problem, at that, for the simple reason his ailing arm is no new development and the success or failure of the Cubs is not founded on his ability to come back.

With or without ol' Diz, Chicago has a fairly good mound corps, headed by General Bill Lee, ace of the circuit in 1938, and flanked by Clay Bryant, Larry French, Charlie Root, Relief Pitcher Jack Russell and a couple of recruits who may prove of value.

GLOVE, GRUNT AND GROAN SHOW IS ON TAP, SHEEP CREEK

SHEEP CREEK, B. C. — Resin, ropes and a battle royal will be the order of the day when the second smoker of the season is staged by the Sheep Creek "Pep" boys, in the Sheep Creek hall. The last lively mitt and grunt and groan card, staged in December crammed a lot of action into one evening.

It is expected that George Barnett, enthusiastic sportsman from Ymir, will bring down three or four leather pushers and also a welterweight squirmer.

"Babe" Belanger, well known in Canadian boxing circles, who has also fought across the border is lining up the card. The "Babe' has had many years experience in the ring business.

A battle royal will see six grunt and groan artists climbing through the ropes at the same time and when the gong goes it will be every man for himself, a case of survival of the fittest.

The idea of the smoker is to stimulate interest in boxla for the summer, and also to get all the men of the district together in a spirit of good-will, pepped up for a real summer of sport.

Jerry O'Donnell has been appointed property manager; Jack Flagel and Belanger, in charge of card; T. Foreman, publicity; Scotty Yates, master of ceremonies; Tommy Morgan, music director; Bill McLaughlin, referee; and Boyce York, official timekeeper.

DETROIT LOOKS TO CONACHER AND THOMPSON AS GUIDES TO FINALS

TORONTO, March 27 (CP)—Hot along hockey's comeback trail, Detroit Red Wings came to Toronto tonight to begin semi-finals for the Stanley cup they won in 1936 and 1937.

Behind the Red Wings, as they awaited the start of their best of three round with the Maple Leafs tomorrow, lay the fact they had scored only one goal on Toronto ice during the National league schedule. Before them was the happy realization they are just beginning to feel the full effects of the experience of Charlie Conacher and Tiny Thompson, plus the vigor of an eager crop of Rookies.

Value of Conacher and Thompson didn't start to exert itself until the preliminary round of the cup series against Montreal Canadiens. The Red Wings were beaten 2-0 in the first game at Montreal, but largely because of Conacher and Thompson they came back to take the second and third 7-3 and 1-0.

It was Conacher's playmaking, rather than his smoking shot, that helped the Wings to the second-game success. Thompson's goal-tending stood the Wings in remarkable stead in the deciding contest. His shutout was the most spectacular of the four that have been turned in so far in playoffs.

TORONTO EAGER

The Toronto team is ready as it hasn't been since the start of the schedule, despite the fact Harvey Jackson's bad leg won't let him start against Detroit. Leafs have been idle since Thursday, when they polished off New York Americans in the second straight game of their preliminary round.

Pete Langelle has fitted into the Leaf machinery as a replacement for Jackson far better than Manager Conny Smythe could have hoped. The Winnipeg youngster from the Syracuse farm, working at centre-ice, has given Smythe three strong scoring lines whereas he had expected to have two and a checking trio.

Toronto will be favored about 8 to 5 to step by Detroit into the finals with Boston or New York Rangers.

Dynamiters and Bearcats Rejoice at Postponement of Western Final Opener

First of the Calgary Games Set for Thursday

CALGARY, March 27 (CP)—Port Arthur Bearcats, seeking the fourth Allan cup triumph for the Lakehead city, and Kimberley Dynamiters, in quest of their second Dominion senior hockey championship, tonight rejoiced over the 24-hour postponement of the first game in their best-of-five semi-final series. The contest, scheduled for Wednesday, has been set for Thuraday night.

Prof. W. G. Hardy, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey association, granted Kimberley's request to change the playoff date because three of Dynamiters' best players were flu sufferers since Sunday. Bearcats welcomed the switch to allow their men additional time to accustom themselves to Calgary's higher altitude.

HUNDREDS AT PRACTICE

Several hundred persons, a fraction of Calgary's hockey-mad fans, watched the players from the British Columbia mining centre, and the Thunder Bay-Manitoba-Saskatchewan champions in brisk workouts today. Fast, interesting games are in prospect for the series.

Kimberley, 1936 Allan cup holders, now nick-named "the old men of the mountains," pack experience, and co-ordination in front of their star netminder Ken (King) Campbell. The 'Cats,' called the best lakehead club since the 1925, '26 and '29 Allan cup winners, feature back-checking, speed, passing, and mingle veterans with youngsters for a well-balanced squad. The B. C. men average 25 years, two more than Port Arthur.

VETERANS WITH PORTS

Bearcats arrived here today with such notable veterans as Hughie O'Leary, ex-left winger from Fort William Wanderers, Gus Saxberg, forward, and Jakie Nash, goalie with the 1935 Bearcats, western Canada champions.

Seven members, Stan King, Don Gordon, Bob Manahan, Saxberg, Norm Wright, Len McCormack and O'Leary were on Port's losing team against Trail Smoke Eafers in the western final a year ago. Joe MacArthur, McCormack and O'Leary were with Wanderers when they bowed in the western final to Kimberley in 1936.

Six of the 1939 Dynamiters were on the 1936 team, Harry Brown, Bill Burnett, Hugo Mackie, Ralph Redding, Puffy Kemp and Campbell.

Gordon Wilson and Brown, two of the flu victims, were on the road to recovery tonight but Mackie showed slow progress. The three Dynamiters said they hoped to get into the first game Thursday.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By The Canadian Press

Tom Heeney, the "Hard Rock From Down Under" who five years previously had received $100,000 for fighting Gene Tunney, lost a ten-round decision to Stanley Poreda at New York five years ago tonight. Heeney, caught in the stock market crash of '29, got $200 for the Poreda fight.

Saint John Wins Berth in Eastern Puck Semi-Final

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP) — A third period penalty paved the way for the winning goal tonight as Saint John Beavers defeated Hull-Volants 4-2 to win the Allan cup elimination hockey series three games to two and gain a berth in the eastern Canada semi-final with Toronto Goodyears.

A penalty to Defenceman Gene Reinhardt gave Beavers the break and Matt Kelly scored to break a 2-2 deadlock. Jimmy Russell made sure of the outcome with 37 seconds to go.

Larry Larocque opened the scoring in the second minute of the game but Russell tied it up 14 minutes later with the help of Kelly. Albert Cholette broke the deadlock 38 seconds from the end of the period.

Boots Baird drew Saint John even again at the five minute mark in the third period.

Bruins Favored to Beat Rangers

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP). — Boston Bruins, who finished off their regular National Hockey league schedule with eight straight victories and then won their first three Stanley cup playoff games, will be strong favorites to take their fourth tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden, when they tangle with New York Rangers again.

The game represents the Rangers' last hope for playoff survival. If they win, they still have to take the next three games in order to win the best of seven series.

Even Manager Lester Patrick appeared to be about ready to give up today. "We seem to be up against a stone wall," he said.

Bert Gardiner will be in the nets again for Rangers tomorrow night. The regular incumbent, Dave Kerr, still hasn't recovered from a shoulder injury.

Kick-Off After Score in Football Proposed

DETROIT, Mar. 27. (CP).—Robert (Rocky) Parsaca, who became one of Canada's football greats with the Sarnia Imperials, today proposed a rule change eliminating the kick-off after a score in football, as a means of speeding up the game and reducing injuries.

Parsaca has been football coach at De LaSalle for two years since he quit his Canadian playing.

Parsaca said his proposal is fundamentally similar to elimination of the centre-jump in basketball. He says he would retain the kick-off at the start of each half, but that after a touchdown or a field goal, he would award the ball to the team scored on at a certain point in the field.

Cy Wentworth to Quit Hockey Ranks

MONTREAL, March 27 (CP)—Marvin (Cy) Wentworth, veteran defenceman with Montreal Canadians, announced his retirement from hockey tonight as the team returned from Detroit after being knocked out of the Stanley cup playoffs by Red Wings. Big Cy, a National Hockey leaguer for 13 years, said from now on he would attend strictly to his business in Toronto, where he is employed by a beer firm.

Party Leaders Attitude Scored By Publisher

TORONTO, March 27 (CP). — Criticism of the "inept and anaemic declaration" of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. R. J. Manion, leader of the Conservative party, on Canada's stand within the British Empire "in the midst of a world situation of unprecedented gravity," was voiced here last night by John Bassett, president of the Gazette Printing Company of Montreal.

Speaking to the congregation of Howard Park United church, Mr. Bassett contrasted the "meaningless empty words of the prime minister" with the clause Sir Wilfred Laurier wrote into his naval defence resolution 29 years ago when he expressed conviction of the Canadian parliament "to make any sacrifice that is required to give the Imperial authorities the most loyal and hearty cooperation."

The Montreal publisher appealed for a "consecration anew" to public service and to a united Canada standing firm with the British commonwealth of nations, as the best way to preserve peace."

Goering Protests Catholic Influence

BERLIN, March 27 (CP-Havas).—Field Marshall Hermann Goering's National Zeitung of Essen today protested against alleged interference by Catholic church leaders in election campaigns in Belgium and the Netherlands.

Under the headline "Ridiculous pastoral letters" the newspaper accused the clergy of the Netherlands of "unscrupulously aiding" the Roman Catholic party and condemning the Netherlands Fascist movement headed by A. A. Mussert, "whose ideologies completely differ from those of German National Socialism."

'EXTRA' NOT WAR SCARE, ONLY BOY'S LOST DOG

KINGSTON, N.C., March 27 (AP) —Residents of West Kingston, hearing cries of "Extra" at an early hour, figured war had broken out. They called the newspapers and learned there was no extra. Then they learned a boy had lost his dog, which answers to the name of extra.

Ado Dieboit Is Honored, Gyros

In token of appreciation of the Nelson Gyro club during his past term as president, Ado Diebolt was presented with a fine silver flower basket at the dinner meeting of the Gyros in the Hume hotel on Monday evening. R. E. Crerar made the presentation.

Mr. Diebolt leaves shortly with his wife for Vancouver, where he has been promoted to the post of manager of fuel oil distribution for the Shell Oil company for the whole province. In Nelson Mr. Diebolt was manager of the local branch, serving the city and district.

Mr. Diebolt said he would carry away from the city something indefinable in the way of friendship which he had experienced and which he had not felt in any other club with which he had been associated.

Myers Proposes Nelson Business Men Should Organize to Finance Prospectors, Assure City Future

Areas Worked Early Days Provide a Field

Hoping for consideration by Nelson citizens and businessmen of the organization of a group to grubstake prospectors and then to supervise their work to a degree, William M. Myers spoke on "The Future of Nelson" to Gyros at their dinner meeting at the Hume hotel Monday night.

Mr. Myers, who was the Nelson club's first president, spoke of early days of the city and its steady growth to the most flourishing condition in its history.

Nelson's future lay in mining, he asserted, explaining that minerals were the greatest of the district's natural resources. Many people claimed that within 10 years almost all the properties would be worked out and then Nelson would face the same fate as Rossland, Phoenix, Greenwood and many others.

NOTHING BEING DONE

At the present time nothing tangible was being done to solve the problem. There were prospects now at the head of Woodbery creek which was operated by prospectors at the turn of the century. Although no great effort has been made to see how rich the ore was, 300 ounces of silver had been found in a ton of ore. Lemon creek district was worked by prospectors in the '90s, and there were good gold prospects there.

There was a great lack of preliminary development, Mr. Myers stated. Due to reluctance of engineers and mining companies to investigate some regions and due to other handicaps, everything was left to a few prospectors who didn't have enough money to more than scratch the surface. It was practically impossible at this time for prospectors to get a grubstake, partly their fault and partly the fault of the business men. The speaker urged financing of the prospectors and direction of their efforts along given lines.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

Two new members were initiated into the Nelson club, F. H. Smith of Nelson and Thomas A. Temple, formerly of the Trail Gyro club. R. B. (Jack) Morris performed the initiation exercises in which he told of the history of Gyro and what it stood for. John Cartmel, a former president, continued with a brief talk on Gyro views and ideals and the benefits which would be gained from Gyro friendship.

Community singing was led by L. E. Hamson, with V. C. Owen at the piano. J. B. Gray, president, was chairman with R. E. Crerar taking charge of the program.

MORE ABOUT DISALLOWANCE

Act providing for the temporary increase in taxes payable by banking corporations (Ch. 8, statutes of 1938) which Mr. Lapointe indicated would likely receive similar treatment in the courts by reason of the privy council judgment on an earlier and more drastic bank tax act;

Act respecting the suspension of proceedings in respect of certain kinds of debts (Ch. 25, statutes of 1938);

Act to amend and consolidate the Tax Recovery act, 1929, (Ch. 82, statutes of 1938).

Clashes of jurisdiction between the federal parliament and the Alberta legislature have been frequent since Premier William Aberhart and his Social Credit administration came into office in August, 1935. Most of the clashes have been in the field of bank and credit regulation and debt adjustment or reduction. The federal power of disallowance had been out of use for more than 10 years prior to its first application to Social Credit legislation in 1937.

An objectionable feature of the bill disallowed today, according to Mr. Lapointe, was it clashed with the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement act of the Dominion parliament. Under the latter measure some 6500 farmers in Alberta have had their debts scaled down from an aggregate of $58,000,000 to $23,000,000.

The adjusted debts of these farmers would be treated in the same way as other debts and wiped out in 1940 unless legal action was taken earlier.

"The statute has created a great state of uncertainty as to the debt situation in the province," Mr. Lapointe reported, "so much so that the superintendent of insurance reports that the companies under his supervision lending money in Alberta are very seriously affected and cannot with the accuracy desired report their financial condition as reported by law."

KASLO COUNCIL FAVORS RESOLUTION URGING MUNICIPALITIES ACTION

KASLO, B.C.—The city council at its regular meeting received a letter from the C.G.I.T. group asking permission to use the Eagle hall for an entertainment to raise funds for the summer camp, Koolaree. Permission was granted with the understanding that the group would attend to firing and leave the premises in good order.

The annual loan bylaw was given a final reading and passed.

A communication, accompanied by a resolution, came from Coldstream, Okanagan district. The resolution asked that municipalities unite in a demand that some additional machinery be found by the municipalities and approved by the government for the raising of necessary funds for municipal works and expenditures besides the placing of the whole burden on the land by way of tax. The council thought it would be a difficult problem to solve, but, in principle, approved of the resolution.

N.S. Confederation Withdrawal Favored by P. A. Cough

HALIFAX, Mrch 27 (CP)—Alderman P. A. Gough's secession movement reached the public meeting stage last night with a rally, attended by about 300, that heard the ward six veterinary discuss for approximately an hour Nova Scotia's disadvantages under confederation.

Gough, who has given notice of motion to the city council that at its next meeting, April 13, he will move a resolution asking it to go on record as favoring the province's withdrawal from confederation, urged the meeting to work for an independent Nova Scotia.

When the time for nominating candidates for the next federal election came, he urged, Nova Scotians should nominate men "who are pledged to go to Ottawa and vote against the British North America Act."
