Baleman Lauded War Sacrifices of C. M. & S.; Urged Young Set to Emulate

TRAIL, B. C., Nov. 19.—George C. Baleman, President of the Canadian Institute of Mining & Metallurgy, and Controller of Metals for the Dominion, who is now on his way East, paid tribute to the war effort of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, and its employees, after an inspection tour of the Company's plant at Tadoussac and Warfield, Monday evening.

Commenting on the loyal cooperation of the employees and staff of the Company who were making capacity production possible through the 24 hours of the day, Mr. Baleman said he was impressed by the attitude of the Company in its fine productive effort to assist the Empire.

"I do not want to talk about the metals they are engaged in producing. You know how essential they are in the war effort, and the Consolidated is making a magnificent contribution. The metals produced are sold at prices that virtually amount to confiscation. These prices represent a great sacrifice of profits, and are a great contribution to the Empire's cause. While a substantial sacrifice was made by all of the producers of non-ferrous metals, it is more particularly true of lead and zinc than of the others, because the prices at which lead and zinc are being sold are relatively much lower."

Sweet Business Built on Odors

FLACKVILLE, N. Y. (CP)—Odors repugnant to humans but irresistible to fur-bearing animals, "lure" sweet business to a trapping equipment factory started "almost by accident."

The ill-smelling odors which trap trappers dab on their snares to attract the animals, are extracted from such assorted sources as the glands of Abyssinian civets, ambergris from sperm whales and tonquin musk from North China deer. And, in the words of E. J. Dailey, owner of the factory, who guards carefully his secrets for compounding the lures, they are guaranteed not to lose their scent in "Arctic cold or African sun."

Dailey, a former trapper, started the business 25 years ago after an extensive study of scents in their relation to successful trapping. He had no plans then to market his products, but other trappers prevailed upon him for supplies.

Dailey developed the business to such an extent that he now sells 25,000 bottles of scent a year, comprising a major share of his estimated $100,000-a-year business. To produce the scents, Dailey says the factory requires 500,000 animal glands annually.

Cannons Bristle From Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR (CP-Reuters)—Gibraltar's gun power has been immeasurably strengthened during the last few months and cannon now bristle from the face of the rock, covering all approaches from land and sea.

There is every reason to believe the fortress is tank proof. It attack comes it is felt the garrison will be able to hold out for considerable time.

Among officers and men from the highest to the lowest a spirit of quiet confidence prevails, inspired by the knowledge of the immense strength of the rocky guardian of the Western Mediterranean.

Banlam Pool to Start Saturday

Plenty of enthusiasm, a hockey stick and a pair of skates, that's all the kids need for the banlam pool that starts Saturday morning," D. G. Chamberlain, President of the Nelson Amateur Hockey Association, said Tuesday night. The first pool practice is scheduled for 11 to 12 Saturday morning.

The banlam pool, which was instituted last season, and operated with enough success to justify the N. A. H. A. to continue to foster it, inducts the youngsters into hockey at an age before they are ready for competitive play.

Naturally the youngsters who start at nine and 10 years to push a puck around, and learn to start, stop, dodge, and intercept, will be the boys who will later make up the banlam teams. They learn their way around, and are also given some play.

Fire May Take Some Evacuees

LONDON (CP)—Negotiations that may lead to evacuation of tens of thousands of women and children from bombed British areas to Eire are proceeding between J. W. Dulaney, Eire High Commissioner in London, and Lord Cranborne, Dominions Secretary.

Prime Minister de Valera is understood to have initiated the discussions after the torpedoing of the liner City of Benares in which 81 children being evacuated to Canada were drowned.

When Mr. de Valera learned of the tragedy he called a meeting of his ministers to consider what Eire could do to help the evacuation of British children and their mothers. His suggestion for consultation between the two governments was welcomed in London as "a great gesture" and the British government is anxious to take the fullest possible advantage of Eire's offer of hospitality.

"No decision has yet been reached on matters of detail, but it is probable that any scheme will have to be confined to women and children with relatives or friends in Eire who are willing to take them in," an official in close touch with the negotiations said.

The British government is considering the question of providing free travel vouchers for evacuees unable to pay their own fares, and it is even possible that arrangements will be made to pay billeting allowances.

"It is certain, however, that no evacuees will be sent to Eire unless it is known that they have homes to go to there."

Want-Ads bring quick results.

Rossland P.T.A. Is Shown Color Films Big Bend

ROSSLAND, B. C., Nov. 19.—Interesting moving pictures were shown to the Rossland Parent-Teacher Association Monday night at the Court House, R. E. Plewman showing beautiful color films of the Big Bend Highway, and unusual shots of wild life, as well as some reels of skiing and winter scenes around Rossland.

It was announced the two High School Sports shields will be presented next Monday morning.

NEW ESSAY CONTEST

Owing to certain complications, the High School students did not have an opportunity to compete in the essay contest of the local branch of the Canadian Legion. As it was felt that it was now too late to arouse interest in the original Amalgamated topic, a new one is to be submitted to the Legion for approval. "The Best Way to Deal With the Situation After the War" was one title suggested as suitable for the contest.

The Safety Committee, composed of Mrs. H. Hayden, A. Turner, and A. F. G. Drake, is working on a school safety campaign conducted with posters. It is hoped that more may be done later regarding adult education in this matter.

The Coasting Committee, working in conjunction with a committee from the Junior Board of Trade, has prepared a brief on the question of setting aside certain streets for winter sleigh riding, and has sent it to the City Council.

Good progress was reported by the Public Health Committee, which had met a group from the Junior Board of Trade and drafted a statement which is to be sent to the City Council. The statement was read and endorsed by the meeting. A copy will also be sent to the School Board.

The meeting endorsed the executive's idea of sending $5 to each school. It is suggested that the money be used for library work, but it may be used for any purpose the schools desire.

Mrs. T. Volland, Membership convener, disclosed that the membership had more than doubled since the last meeting.

Former Bank Clerk Finds Bomb Squad Work Is "Thrilling"

LONDON (CP)—A London bank clerk who gave up his job to become a member of a bomb disposal squad of the Royal Engineers finds "much fun and real pleasure" in his work of taking the sting from delayed action bombs.

"I'm surprised to find how much fun and real pleasure I get working with the parties," he said in a letter to a friend, in which he described the "biggest thrill of my life."

"About a fortnight ago I was digging in a hole in about three feet of mud. Suddenly Jerry started to machine-gun us and drop bombs. I amazed myself with the speed with which I covered so long a distance in so short a time. The blast of another bomb simply blew me down the steps of a shelter—and all I suffered was some lack of breath."

"One good soul said she was sorry she couldn't make me a cup of tea, but the milk was a little later than usual. And she had nothing, absolutely nothing, left of her home."

As an epilogue, he added, "we are all looking forward, you know, to our Spring tour of Germany, visiting such interesting places as Berlin and Hamburg."

Historic Rooms Famous British Writers Smashed in German Raids

LONDON, (CP)—Historic Middle Temple Hall, damaged by a bomb during a recent air attack, was opened by Queen Elizabeth in 1936 and it was there that Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" was performed for the first time by the playwright's own company in 1611.

One end of the beautiful building, one of London's most famous tourist attractions, has been wrecked and the whole structure has been evacuated.

The Inner Temple Hall nearby had been bombed previously. There is scarcely a building in these ancient parts of London which does not bear the marks of bomb explosions.

The bomb that mutilated the Middle Temple Hall fell on the opposite side of Middle Temple Lane and also raised some of the buildings. There are two great gaps facing the ruined end of the Hall.

WORKS OF ART MOVED

An official of the Middle Temple Treasury said most of the priceless works of art in the Hall, including portraits of Queen Elizabeth, Charles I on horseback, attributed to Van Dyck, and portraits of other sovereigns, and the valuable stained glass windows, were removed at the start of the war.

The double-hammered beam roof, one of the finest in Britain, and the famous panelling were damaged, however, for the bomb completely destroyed the East wall.

The Minstrel's Gallery has gone. Debris fell on the serving table said to have been made from Drake's ship, the Golden Hind, and the benches' table reputed to have been the gift of Queen Elizabeth.

NO SERIOUS CASUALTIES

Crown Office Row, where Charles Lamb was born, was damaged. Horace Wyndham, the author, had a narrow escape while sitting in the back room of his chambers. Other chambers were demolished. There were no serious casualties, but 12 persons were rescued from a damaged cellar.

Brick Court, where Oliver Goldsmith died, has had its roof damaged and windows smashed. The rooms where the author of the "Vicar of Wakefield" was lived by Dr. Samuel Johnson, who looked at the manuscript and sold it for £40 (£800) have no windows. The brickwork, also suffered. But behind the shattered windows minus glass, typewriters of the law still click.

Cables from the Dominions and the United States expressing sympathy have been received by the authorities.

Rossland Pro-Rec Holds Boxing Card

ROSSLAND, B. C., Nov. 19.—A boxing card under the auspices of the Pro-Rec was held Monday evening in the Rossland Armory.

The curtain-raiser was a two-round bout between two 63-pound youngsters, Monaghan and Razzou, with Monaghan the winner.

In the next bout Earl Coulter scored a knockout in the third round over Frank Spring. Jerry Monaghan was the winner over Sammartino of Trail. Ira Page vs. J. Fananni of Trail, Ira Page vs. F. Langman, and Ralph Stinson vs. O. Pello of Trail turned out to be draws.

The final bout for the evening was an exhibition between J. Hamilton and Dick Ayres who leaves tomorrow to compete in the Golden Gloves tournament at the Coast.

Girl Guides Aid to Home Guards

CHRISTCHURCH, England (CP)—Every one of the 200 "old sweat" in the Home Guard here think there is nobody quite like the Christchurch Girl Guides. Rain or shine, two of them turn up at the drill hall every night to run messages and go on errands for the company.

The Guides' best achievement was summoning the guard to duty on an emergency call one night when they cycled along miles of country roads and had the guardsmen at headquarters in two hours.

"Good heavens. How on earth did we get them here so soon?" the commanding officer asked when he saw his men massed on parade. "The guides have done it again, sir," an officer said.

When the company was being organized, Hazel Hornby, 16-year-old high school girl, and her friends went to headquarters to see if they could help. On bicycles they scoured the countryside delivering postcards inviting men to join.

"When we formed the company, she trooped along with her girls and rather shyly asked if they could help." Major T. Woodbell, commanding officer, recalled. "Help! Why, they've nearly done this company. They've done us countless good turns."

Hazel blushed. "We like doing the work—the major is so nice."

Great Luxury Liners Are Converted Into Grim, Useful Armed Cruisers

By "Taffrail"

LONDON, England — Speaking more than six months ago, the first Lord of the Admiralty mentioned the fact that among the many other ships taken over by the British Navy for war purposes were fifty armed merchant cruisers.

These are steamers of the ordinary liner type, over a certain speed, provided with guns and commissioned as men-of-war. They have done much arduous work since the outbreak of war, some in the far North watching that area of sea from the Orkneys to Iceland and Greenland, others guarding the convoys or trade in the outer oceans.

It was a well-known transatlantic liner commissioned as a vessel-of-war that I recently visited. Of the officers, all but the captain and executive officer belonged to the Royal Naval Reserve. Except for a handful of petty officers and a solitary Royal Marine bugler, the ship's company was entirely made up of reservists, pensioners and men who had joined the Navy especially for the war, and had been sent afloat after a few months' intensive training.

Among the men were 30 Newfoundland fishermen. As expert boatmen in all weathers, their services were particularly valuable for boarding intercepted steamers.

How many miles this particular ship had steamed since the outbreak of war I did not discover. But her work had been arduous enough, particularly during the fierce weather and the long nights of winter. Her normal routine was 18 to 19 days out, followed by five days to a week in harbor for refueling and storing. Her officers and men had about three days' leave every six weeks, and well they deserved it.

How were the 800 odd that formed her crew kept occupied and contented during the long periods at sea? I enquired. The time never hung heavily on their hands, I was told.

Compulsory Insurance Scheme Covers Thirteen Million Houses

LONDON (CP) — Immense interests are affected by the War Insurance of Property Bill which provides for nationwide compulsory insurance against air raid damage to all buildings in the United Kingdom—homes as well as factories.

Details of the bill, introduced by Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons, October 8, are being completed by Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer. The bill is retroactive and will cover all damage since the start of the war.

Previously there had been no insurance against property damage by enemy air attacks. It is proposed to provide insurance against war damage to all forms of movable property, household effects and personal belongings as well as industrial plant and machinery.

BUILDINGS' VALUE
It is estimated the capital value of all buildings in the United Kingdom is at least £10,000,000,000 ($44,500,000,000) and of this total about £6,000,000,000 ($26,750,000,000) is subscribed to the 13,000,000 houses distributed all over the land.

Of the houses, one in every eight is mortgaged to the building societies who have today more than £7,000,000,000 ($31,150,000,000) owing to them by 1,500,000 house buyers. For this reason building societies are anxious to have two insurance schemes, one applying to houses and the other to all other kinds of buildings.

There are many complications involved in bringing such a scheme into existence. Every factor usually taken into account in considering insurance risks is absent. Insurance circles say that beyond the fact stressed by Mr. Churchill that damage so far has been substantially less than had been anticipated there is nothing on which to base an estimate of the ultimate cost.

Thus the Prime Minister's assurance that if necessary a state subvention will supplement the pool raised by premiums is seen as essential if substance is to be given to the scheme. What the premium is likely to be and how it is to be collected have been matters of considerable discussion between the Treasury and representatives of the leading insurance companies, building societies and property owning associations. The figure generally favored is 2s 6d (56 cents) per £100 ($445) of capital value.

From the pool, or central fund, which will total hundreds of millions of pounds, those whose houses and other property have been damaged will be able to recover "certainly by the end of the war, and possibly before," according to an authority. Meanwhile, those who are in difficulties will be helped to carry on.

The question of valuation is one of the outstanding problems. Since the war started property values have fallen considerably, and, according to one source, there is doubt as to whether the present valuations shown on fire insurance policies could be realized. On the other hand replacement costs have risen substantially. Institution of the war insurance scheme is expected, however, to do much towards restoring property to favor as an investment.

B.C. WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS EXECUTIVE MEET NOV. 23

ARMSTRONG, B. C., Nov. 19 (CP)—Members of the executive of the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association will meet in Vancouver Nov. 23.

J. B. Holder Again Heads B.C. Fruit Growers Creston

CRESTON, B. C. — There was a fair turnout of growers at Trinity United Church Hall, Saturday for the annual meeting of the Creston-Bowen Branch of the B. C. Fruit Growers Association. J. B. Holder, President, was in charge.

Mr. Robinson submitted the financial statement which showed the Branch was closing the year with a balance of $58.

J. B. Holder was re-elected President. William Keim was nominated for the position, but withdrew. R. B. Robinson was the unanimous choice for Secretary-Treasurer.

Eight were nominated for the Directors: L. Littlejohn and Fred Powers of Camp Lister were named scrutineers, and those elected are E. E. Cartwright, Erickson; Col. Fred Lister, Camp Lister; John Hall, Erickson; W. J. Truscott, Creston; George Nickel, Creston. There was a tie vote for the fifth member of the Board. R. H. Stewart retired in favor of Mr. Nickel.

When it came to the business of raising five delegates to attend the B. C. F. G. A. convention at Kelowna in January, there was a motion to refrain from sending representatives and give the money so saved to some war charity. There was also a motion to send but one delegate, and a motion to limit the representation to two, and have the savings applied to war effort. All these were negatived and the full quota of five representatives will attend. Those chosen are Col. Fred Lister, R. B. Robinson, E. E. Cartwright, J. B. Holder and William Keim.

Resolution to be sent for consideration at the annual convention include one to have all cost of fruit inspection borne by the Government. There was another to have the Government provide money at a low rate of interest to enable more growers to buy power sprayers and thus enable the valley to be created a coding moth spray area. There was a resolution asking that all citizens refrain from buying goods made in Japan. Earlier in the week the local Executive had circulated the retailers asking them specifically to refuse to handle Jap oranges.

Suggestion that a tag day should be held—since more money would probably be raised than would be given in a city grant—was made by the Council Tuesday night when the Women's Auxiliary to the 11th Battery and Overseas Forces asked for assistance in providing Christmas parcels for soldiers.

The Auxiliary in a letter to the Council stated it had sent more than 10 parcels overseas but still had on its list the names of 200 men serving in Canada. Funds had been exhausted not only through sending parcels overseas but also through assisting soldier's families whose allowance checks had been delayed.

Bachelor Chased by Quintuplets

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 19 (CP). —Emilie, of the six-year-old Dionne quintuplets, has asked her man and doesn't mean to let him go.

Dick Hallion of North Bay, the quint's official photographer and an eligible bachelor, has been tabbed by Emilie as her "boy friend" with Yvonne apparently just waiting a chance to cut in.

Nurse Leona Dubois closely Emilie watching Hallion closely so, just for fun, she went over to the photographer and put her hand on his shoulder.

"No, no, no," cried Emilie, coming over to wave her finger in warning at Miss Dubois, who moved away. After the picture-taking, Miss Dubois suggested that she would go along with Hallion. And perhaps go dancing.

"Wait," said Emilie, "I'll get my coat. I am going too."

When she found she wasn't to be allowed to go, Emilie threatened to go out with all the other men she had seen around the nursery in the last few months, and she would not be satisfied until Miss Dubois agreed to stay at home.

While Emilie had it out with her nurse Yvonne showed something into Hallion's hand and ran from the room. It was her most-treasured piece of art—a water-color drawing of trees and dogs.

Landlubbers Bewildered by Old Terms Used in Language of the Sea

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP). — When a Royal Canadian Navy man is on the job at his desk at headquarters here in the capital, miles from a sea-going ship, he is aboard and when he is out of the building he is ashore. That's the way they talk in the Navy.

For instance, an officer here telephoned: "Is Petty Officer Jones on board?"

"No sir, Petty Officer Jones is ashore. Shall I have him call you when he comes aboard?" came the answer. It happened that Petty Officer Jones had just stepped out of an office building to buy an evening paper from a passing newsboy.

Officially a sailor lives and works in a ship whether he happens to be in mid-Atlantic or in the middle of the Sahara Desert.

Every day Canada is becoming more of a naval power. We are getting more ships and hiring more men to work and fight in blue uniforms. Naval Minister Macdonald, according to recent utterances, is one of those who believe Canada we need a sizeable navy even after the present war. To most Canadians however, the language and traditions of the navy are "Greek."

Each station of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve from which the navy draws its recruits is treated as a ship. The sentries work in watches. The hours of the day are divided into watches as on shipboard.

H.M.C.S. ON LAND

Almost all Canadian personnel not attached to a real ship are attached to one or other of two flotillas vessels, H.M.C.S. Stadacona and Naden. The Naden is a depot ship for the Pacific Coast and the Stadacona's personnel includes naval headquarters in Ottawa and per-

NICKEL NOT SHIPPED FROM MINE IN FINLAND

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP-Cable). — Diggle Foot, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Economic Warfare, in a written reply in the House of Commons today said the Petsamo Nickel Mine at present is not producing ore and the Ministry has no reason to believe that any nickel shipments are reaching Germany from Finland.

sonnel serving ashore on the Atlantic coast.

When naval officers are in training at Royal Military College in Kingston, their school is called H.M.C.S. Stone Frigate, after one of the buildings they use. The building is on the site of an ancient naval barracks.

Someday for the formation of the land-lubbers who pay the taxes that purchase ships and whose lives and jobs depend on the protection of the navy, naval headquarters may issue a dictionary of naval terms and usages.

Such a book would include an explanation of such terms as "show a leg" and "hands to cocoa and wash."

These are orders roared out on board a ship in the morning. "Show a leg" is said to be a hang-over from the days when one of the King's ships occasionally had to get up when the crew was called in the morning. Just in case some sailing or tried to steal an extra hour's sleep by pretending to be a visiting woman, the order "show a leg" was given.

THE EVIDENCE

Then everyone on board who did not get up had to hang a bare leg over the side of his or her hammock. If the leg was smooth there was no trouble but if a man's hairy leg appeared something had to happen. "Hands to cocoa and wash" is one of the first morning orders but now it should be "hands to tea."

On getting up sailors used to get a cup of cocoa, then do some work or drill and then have breakfast. Now it is thought cocoa is too rich for early morning so, they get tea.

"Splice the main brace" is an expression that gladdens the heart of old-time sailors. It means to use an extra allowance of rum, comes of festival occasions, such as holidays or visits from the King.

The Beaver Goes to Town

By ALICE ALDEN

Beaver again tops in winter fur-line-up.

Bury as a beaver is a saying that means something in the fashion world. Ever since beaver has been sheared of its long nap, the world, for beaver emerges again as one of the important furs it has emerged from the sports class and taken its place in the dressy section of the dress parade, as ideal for smart daytime wear. Invariably, though, beaver or nutria is handled in a casual manner.

SERIAL STORY . . .

By RUPERT GRAYSON

Before the Blitzkrieg

"Something like that," he replied. "You see, there are certain new secrets regarding airplanes that we could make good use of. These two men know them, and so we have captured them and are trying to extract the necessary information from them. That is to say, Captain Trent is so doing, but so far he has not been successful. His methods are—"

"A sneer crept into his voice—'a trifle too humane, I fear. But now that I am here there will be a difference. I know some little naval tricks, for instance, that are very good for extracting information.'"

"His tone was the reverse of pleasant, and Trent frowned, while the young Italian shuddered slightly. But Coral only laughed.

"Doesn't he seem a little bit over the top?" she asked. "You're old-fashioned, my friend. These are whippersnappers on you. These men are Englishmen, remember, and therefore stubborn fools. You will never get anything out of them by torture, or rough stuff of any kind. The thing to do is to set me on to them—let 'em think I've gone all soft over 'em. I'll soon find out all you want to know. Remember what I did with that fellow at Chatham, Otto? Besides, it will give me something to do, while we're stuck here—there don't seem to be many theatres or movie houses about."

Trent laughed.

"I guess we don't need 'em, Miss Merridew—we reckon to manufacture our own drama here, good and plenty. But I tell you what, Otto, that's a good idea of Miss Merridew's—these sort of guys will fall for a woman when nothing else will shift 'em. It's worth thinking over."

"Then maybe I will think it over," Otto observed—but he didn't seem in love with the idea.

It did not seem that Coral was disposed to let time hang heavily on her hands that day. She displayed a tireless and entirely intelligent interest in all that went on at the factory. At the same time she gave no impression of a desire or inclination to pry into things from any sort of ulterior motive, so that even the suspicions of Trent were in no way aroused. She was inimitably clever over it. And she found out quite a lot. Nor did she make any particular secret of what she found out—she was quite open about it.

For instance, at lunch she remarked:

"I say, Otto, that's a pretty comprehensive sort of arsenal you've got tucked away in the corner, isn't it?"

Both Trent and Otto looked at her quickly, and frowned. Then Otto said:

"How do you know about this arsenal, then, Coral?"

She laughed as gaily as a child. "Good heavens, don't look so angry about it, Otto. Haven't I done any harm, have I? You didn't tell me I wasn't to look around, did you, now?"

Otto did not seem entirely at his ease. He sat very stiffly, with food impaled on his fork which he did not attempt to lift to his mouth, and stared at Coral with an expression which told her that both she and her enterprise were in considerable danger. But if she felt any thrill, it did not show itself in any way; she appeared entirely at her ease.

"Yes," said Otto slowly. "As you say—enough to do quite a lot of damage. And what, my dear, do you imagine we have collected all this material for?"

She laughed again.

"Why, that's not very hard one, knowing what I know, you must. I reckon you're going to break the world's record in boldness and there by extract from somewhere or other the necessary dough for certain little plans you and I have made, eh?"

She was playing her cards superbly well. The faint smile she gave him, and the suggestive softness that crept into her eyes reminded him of the joys in store for him, without in any way suggesting that she was cozening or, as she herself in her present guise might have phrased it, "leading him up the garden." His manner changed instantly, much to her relief.

"And you would not be far wrong, my dear. It is something very much like that we have in mind. But about this matter you must not ask questions, or try to find out. I prefer that you know nothing."

She shrugged in the way she knew always fascinated him.

"As you say, I suppose. But I'd rather like to be in on the lark myself—looks like being a thrill to me."

Otto smiled, quite genially for him.

"That cannot be. Maybe it would be a little too much of a thrill for you, my dear, still, you are a smart girl—as I have heard some of your English say, there are not any files upon you."

She exhibited sudden anger.

"Don't put that over on me," she said sharply. "I'm not English, I'm Irish, and I hate the English like hell!"

It was a magnificent effort. Trent and Tunesi looked startled; Otto paled.

"Pray, accept my apologies," he said, and then, with a smile. "But it is as well you do not like the English overmuch. We shall not be

Vitamin B<sub>1</sub> in the Limelight as Aid in Paralysis Cure

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The vitamins in the food are necessary for health. How they act is a mystery, but we know that if they are left out of the diet certain symptoms occur. Vitamin B<sub>1</sub> is the one that was discovered in the Orient where in other days a form of paralysis, called beri-beri, was very prevalent. It was found the victims on a rice diet and they polished their rice—removed the outer shell by a form of milling.

When whole rice was substituted the beri-beri did not occur, and it was found that the use of whole rice would cure beri-beri.

EIGHT OR TEN ELEMENTS

As chemical research in the vitamins went on, it was found that Vitamin B was not one substance but several. It is found in nature in cereals and yeast and as now understood, there are eight or ten elements in the Vitamin B factor—Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, B<sub>3</sub>, B<sub>4</sub>, B<sub>5</sub>, B<sub>6</sub>, Vitamins H, W and U.

B<sub>1</sub> is chemically thiamine chloride. There is quite a bit of it in its use. It will undoubtedly cure certain forms of paralysis. The paralysis that occurs in heavy drinkers called "alcoholic neuritis" is undoubtedly due to lack of the vitamins in the diet. It is used for many conditions of general debility, and, in fact, even used to encourage the growth of plants.

B<sub>2</sub> is chemically riboflavin. It has no influence on paralysis, but a peculiar condition results from its absence in the diet, consisting of soreness of the tongue, fissures around the lips and roughness of the skin.

There are something like the disease called pellagra—a deficiency disease that results from living on a diet of preserved foods—salt pork, molasses, corn pone, etc.—a common winter diet in the South. The element in the Vitamin B factor that prevents pellagra is nicotinic acid. Riboflavin deficiency resembles pellagra.

WHAT RESEARCH HAS SHOWN

B<sub>3</sub>, B<sub>4</sub>, B<sub>5</sub>, and B<sub>6</sub> deficiency will cause certain animal diseases but no analogy is found in man. B<sub>3</sub> is necessary for weight gains in pigeons. B<sub>4</sub> prevents a form of paralysis in rats; B<sub>5</sub> is necessary for normal nutrition in pigeons. B<sub>6</sub> is known as the rat dermatitis factor. Vitamin W is part of the B factor and acts to stimulate riboflavin. Vitamin V is another growth-stimulating factor.

The latest development of Vitamin B research is that one part of the complex when absent in the diet, results in premature graying of the hair. These experiments have been made on rats and have not been confirmed in man.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

P. — "Please discuss the relative merits of castor oil and calomel as a cathartic."

Answer — Castor oil cleans out the lower bowel very thoroughly and usually tends to a period of constipation afterwards. It is said, as a laxative, it knows when to stop. It is harmless except that it is habit-forming in that it eventually causes the bowel to be constipated. Calomel is a good cathartic because it cleans out the upper intestine also, but it also tends to require large doses to work. The great advantage of calomel is that it is so much pleasanter to take. As a matter of fact, the two can be well combined, using the calomel to clean out the upper intestine and the castor oil afterwards to get rid of the calomel, too.

FORMER BOSWELL, NELSON YOUTH, W. S. HEPHER, MARRIED AT LYNN VALLEY

BOSWELL, B.C.—A wedding of much local interest took place at the beginning of the month at Knox United Church, Lynn Valley, when Miss Lella Mary Underwood, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Underwood of Upper Lynn, was married to William Stanley Hefner, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hefner of Hill Ranch, Boswell.

The bridegroom, who is an M.Sc. of University of Idaho, is well known in Nelson; having attended High School there and had been with the Forest Service for some time in West Kootenay before being transferred to Vancouver.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Ballard.

very popular with them, after our little coup."

"I'd do anything to hurt the English," Coral said, sullenly.

Inwardly she was triumphant, knowing that she had scored a considerable point in establishing confidence.

Later Trent and Otto discussed the question of how to extract the required information, as soon as possible, from Tommy Hazeldene.

In the end it was decided that Gun's plan should be tried out first; if that failed, Coral was to be allowed to see what she could do. And if she did not succeed then Otto was to apply his torture, at the very idea of which his eyes glistened, and his mouth took an ugly twist. Trent eyed him with distaste. Plainly the man was a sadist—and Trent, though a rogue, was a comparatively clean one. He decided that he had no great partiality for Otto, and that Coral was definitely too good for him.

Order of Tables Simplifies Them

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Most of us learned the multiplication tables in groups of 2's, 3's and 4's. We said: "3 times 1 are 3, 2 times 2 are 4, 2 times 3 are 6," and so on. The 9 times was the last one and seemed the hardest. Some of us also learned the tables of 10's, 11's and 12's. Few do nowadays. However, most children today learn the multiplication tables about as we did.

There is something about the rhythm and order of these tables that makes them easy. But after you have learned a table, say of 7's, and know it perfectly you might have trouble on meeting up with a combination out of its order. I remember, for example, that for a long while after I could say the table of 7's rapidly and accurately, I would have trouble when I had to multiply 6 or 7 or 9 by 7. I could not get either one until I had said over all the rest of the table of 7's from the beginning to the combination wanted. Other adults tell me they must do so still with certain multiplication facts. I have found numerous school children who must.

FACTS AS FACTS

It is a much better practice to learn each multiplication fact as a fact alone, therefore, not to learn it in a table of 2's, 3's, 7's and the like. Accordingly, the child would learn, for example, the fact, 2 times 7 are 14, 6 times 4 are 24, then 3 times 2 are 6. This is just as I suggested the learning of each of the 100 addition and 100 subtraction facts. In ordinary experience with numbers we don't stay in the table of any one group. They come at random. Why not learn them so?

A good way is to write down all the tables, then cut them up, shuffle the slips of paper, draw them by chance and copy each combination as you draw it. Then you will have a sheet of all the multiplication combinations which the child will need to memorize.

If you do so, be sure not to have the child attack more than three of these facts at a sitting. The child saves time if right after he memorizes the fact, "3 times 7 are 21," he also memorizes the fact, "7 times 3 are 21." He might know one without knowing the other.

I still have on hand copies of the 100 addition and 100 subtraction facts which every child should learn by heart before the age of nine or ten, since he will use them all the rest of his life. You may have without cost, a copy of each by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp on it.

SOLVING PARENT PROBLEMS

Q: Is there any sense in rebuking or punishing a child of 10 or 16 if, while in a rage, he is throwing objects or using abusive language?

A: No; any talk by the parent at that time only enrages the child more. Be as cool, then, as a cucumber. I suppose cucumbers are cool. Wait several hours or days for an opportune time, when you and the child are wholly calm and poised. Then gently remind him of the way he acted and ask him if he would not like to try to change himself when annoying situations arise, assuring him you would like to help him in any way you can.

Stimulation Is Most Important for Skin Beauty

By ALICE WADE ROBINSON

While having lunch with a beauty expert, who for years has given all her time to research and study of feminine charms, we asked her what she considered the most important in all beauty treatment. Unhesitatingly she said stimulation. For years she stressed the vital importance of stimulating the skin.

"The roses on the cheeks of the youthful beauty are due to her constant activity and vivaciousness," she states, "but as she matures, the tempo changes. The inquisitive turn of the head and unrestrained movements of the facial muscles are gone. With this passiveness comes a somewhat dormant circulation."

The need of stimulation is more urgent today than ever before, largely because of the high tempo of our lives and the lack of fresh air and exercise in our daily routines. Fresh air and exercise do have immediate beneficial effect upon the skin but few women take the time to exercise in the open air.

This lack of invigoration of the skin tissues is the cause of many complexion ills, such as sallowness, lines, drooping contours and rough surfaces.

Sluggish circulation can be relieved with facial massage and face and neck exercises, then there are many good stimulants that cause the skin to glow and take on the appearance of youth. The stretching of the facial muscles help to give the skin elasticity. Open the mouth wide as in making the sound of "Ah," then contract the lips form "O." Follow with the vowels I, E, U. Do this vigorously.

When the mouth is fully stretched twist to the side, then alternate and push the chin forward as far as possible. Draw it back so there is a strain on the muscles at the back of the neck.

These are good exercises not only for the stimulation of the skin but also for pleasing expression.

Lady Astor Vetoes Plea of Women

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP).—Lady Astor told "up" off again today in the House of Commons.

The occasion was a request by Sir William Dawson for a more musical warning to replace air raid sirens, about which he said numerous women had complained because "they are more depressing than bombs."

"The women are showing more courage than the men," Lady Astor responded, "and I beg the Honorable Gentleman not to listen to 'few nervous letters from a few nervous women.'"

Hands Tell Much About the Woman

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

This isn't a beauty column (I wouldn't know how to write one) but merely some observations on the subject of hands—a woman's hands. The care she takes is a cue to her grooming. The way she uses them is indication of her character and disposition as well as of her breeding. Amazing how much a pair of hands will tell about the woman who owns them.

If she has bodily grace and mental poise her hands tell the glad news. If she's fidgety and nervous, emotionally unstable, her hands betray her. If she's one of these efficient persons, one who can tie up a neat package, untie the tightest knot, darn, sew, upholster a chair, change a tire and lay brick if necessary, her hands tell the world about her skills.

Go to a public gathering where there are all sorts of people if you want to study the subject, and watch the women in front of you. I did this recently. There was the masculine woman with the close cropped hair and mannish costume. Even if you hadn't seen her hair cut or her clothes, the way she swept her hand over her whole head at one full swoop would have told the story. Masculine strength and determination.

There was the careless groomer with the frowzy hair-do, a wrinkled blouse and a not too-clean string of pearls around her not too-clean neck. Up went her hand and with a gesture you'd make stuffing feathers in an old pillow case, she mauled the stray locks, pushing them out of the way. And she repeated the gesture all through the evening. Don't you know her type?

Next there was a bit of feminine perfection—a slender grey-haired woman who removed her hat, not with her fist, as some do, but with her beautifully manicured fingers, laid it lovingly in her lap, patted her neck curls once and then with a graceful, swanlike motion put her hands slowly, down, where they remained motionless until she was ready to go home. No fingering her face, no fooling with her hair, no nervous jerky motions. Perfect poise.

Queer, there's a close affinity between love and hands. We always love the hands of our dear ones, however they are shaped or misshapen, however they are used or misused. If the pair of hands we love are adorned with long, tapering fingers whose every movement is the personification of grace, we swell with pride in them and never cease to watch them with delighted interest. If the red hands we love are all fat and no fingers, used as paws, personifying awkwardness we chuckle affectionately, indulgently, and love them just the same.

Sleeve Interest

Patricia Lane ready for the afternoon social.

Sleeves are shouldering a lot of fashion interest this season. The long tight sleeve is used to lend interest to some of the most important dinner and evening frocks. And for afternoon we see frocks that wear their heart on their sleeve on the form of beautiful embroideries or jeweled ornaments. The dress shown here, nice for afternoon, is of dull surfaced black crepe, topped with a bolero of self fabric. But setting off the matt fabric is the brilliant green embroidery used on the full sleeves.

No Shortage of Food in England

"Life is not honey here by any means and poor London is worse," says a letter to Mrs. W. C. Leno of Nelson from a niece in Birmingham, England. "Several of our food stuffs are rationed, chiefly the fats and meats, but there certainly seems to be no shortage. When you can't have one thing you have to make do with another, is the best way of looking at it, I think. We've had several bad air raids recently. We go downstairs into our cellar as we do not possess a shelter. It seems fairly substantial but we are hoping the Corporation will reinforce the ceiling shortly as this will save a little of the shop weight falling. "We are trying our hand at this dig for victory campaign which our Government is booming up. We have rented a small allotment nearby."

Anti-Raid Device Proves Helpful

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP). — Air Marshal Sir Philip Joubert declared today the problem of night air raids on London was "very far from being solved," although the Government is "doing its damndest to find an answer."

"We are hopeful," he said.

At the same time, the Evening News reports a new method of combatting night raiders already was being tried out successfully on "a small scale."

"It is known that points where the new device has been tried," the News said, "have been marked down by the Germans as 'hot spots' to be avoided."

Production of the devices is starting on a large scale, it said and it is likely that "anti-aircraft fire will become steadily more accurate."

THE JERVIS BAY WON

Instead of annihilating a convoy, as the German Government claimed, it now is established that the German pocket battleship that was engaged in the Eastern Atlantic so gloriously by the Jervis Bay, the converted merchantman armed at best for potting submarines, did an exceedingly poor job, and destroyed not more than five out of the 38 ships, the number reaching port now standing at 33.

Credit for saving not only the bulk of the convoy, but actually nearly seven-eighths of it, belongs of course to the heroic Jervis Bay, which closed in and occupied the powerful raider, dooming itself in order to give the convoy an opportunity to scatter in the darkness, an opportunity the merchant captains were not slow to utilize.

And the most powerful raider that was ever launched, a craft able to engage on equal terms any battleship or battle cruiser in the world except three, accepted the diversion and instead of carrying on with the convoy on which it had started, set out to annihilate the submarine fighter, and two of the ships that it had shelled actually made port. The raider would have been working to better purpose if it had devoted itself to the convoy, but in such case the Jervis Bay might have got close enough to dangerously wound or disable it. At all events, the German captain decided to deal with it first, and thus fully played the game as the Jervis Bay wanted it.

If ever a sacrifice paid richly, this one did.

The lesson of this encounter—in which the ship that went down was the undoubted winner—is that the smallest and weakest British war craft will fight out of its class at any time, in the line of duty.

Of this, and of the fighting spirit of the whole British Navy, Hitler would do well to take notice.

WHAT QUEBEC HAS DONE

Yes, it can be done.

That a provincial government sufficiently determined can make large reductions in expenditure has been proven by Quebec.

Figures given by Hon. J. Arthur Mathewson, Quebec's Provincial Treasurer, for the first three months of the Godbout Government's budget—which covered July, August and September—in connection with the $21,600,000 issue of sinking fund and serial debentures, are simply astonishing.

For the first three months of the fiscal year that opened July 1, 1939—in other words, the first three months of the last fiscal year—Quebec's ordinary disbursements were $20,186,000, and its capital disbursements were $9,629,000. One year later, that is to say, the past summer, the ordinary disbursements were cut down to $16,264,000, and the province got along with a capital outlay of only $6,571,000. That is to say, the total expenditures for the first quarter of the new fiscal year were down $6,980,000.

Ordinary receipts in the first quarter of the 1939 fiscal year were $13,958,000. For the recent quarter they were $24,456,000, this including $5,154,000 deferred revenue from the end of the 1939 fiscal year. Taking the figures as they lie, the revenue gain, presumably owing to special taxation as well as to increased collections due to business and industrial activity, was $11,998,000.

In the first quarter under comparison, Quebec had a deficit of $7,128,000, which, added to $9,629,000 capital outlay, boosted the provincial debt by $16,857,000. In the latter quarter discussed, there was a current surplus of $8,192,000, which more than covered the capital outlay of $6,571,000, and allowed a debt reduction of $1,621,000.

The difference between the two quarters, one year apart, was $15,320,000 betterment on current account, and $3,058,000 betterment on capital account, or a total betterment of $18,378,000.

A betterment of over $18,000,000 in comparable three-months periods would represent a betterment of $54,000,000 if projected for a year.

This is real saving in any man's language.

Brighton Lady Writes Her Brother

W. H. Rixen, "We're Giving Them Hell"

Hilder's raids upon Brighton did not depress the inhabitants of that well known watering place, according to a letter received by W. H. Rixen of Nelson from his married sister.

The vivacious letter says in part:
30 Appleford Road,
E. Moulsecomb,
Brighton 7,
England,
Sept. 5, 1940.

"Dear Brother Will and Family—
I have Ruth's long letter to answer, and also to thank you all for the tea, which John forwarded to me. It is very nice to have a bit extra, especially when one is up a lot in the night, and we have had some long spells lately.

"So far we are still here, and, compared with some parts, we have come off lightly, but, oh, boy, aren't we giving 'em hell!

"Don't believe any German propaganda, and the comments from Germany to be taken with a grain of salt. The leaflets of Hilder's speech were a scream. Hundreds were sold for the R. Cross. I saw one auctioned, and it reached £2 10s, which went to the Spitfire Fund. We want to buy one for Brighton.

"We had a very exciting time last week—such a fight! I watched the tracers. The three bombs fell (incendiary), and three fires started simultaneously. Then our guns, and down that particular boulder came. Unfortunately I lost that night, being bundled back to bed, but my husband, who was on duty, saw it all. You see, I am deaf, and not hearing the guns I should have been exposed to the danger of shrapnel, etc.

EXPECTED TO FEEL BULLETS
"I saw plenty of them during the last war at Margate.

"I was in my garden, when, without warning, two planes swooped from nowhere, so low I could have touched them, had they been stationary. My neighbor lowered her head and put her arms up. We both expected to hear machine-guns (and to feel 'em) but they were Spitfires, and immediately the siren went. I said, 'I think we had better adjourn.' We might not be so lucky next time.

"Sybil, whose hospital is on the cliffs, is very exposed to danger. Bombs have dropped quite close. She is kept very busy getting patients to safety, and then bringing them up again.

"I believe I told you my eldest son is in the Merchant Navy, but I cannot tell you where he is or what he is doing. My other son is a sergeant in the R. Marines, and was in charge of a raid and post on the East Coast. I am proud to say that each is doing his bit."

"I divorced him ages ago. My retriever keeps bringing him back."

X.Y.Z. Trail—I would like to know if I can order from Sears, Roebuck Ltd., in the U.S.

This is a matter of foreign exchange and exports of funds is severely restricted. It is necessary to obtain a permit from the Foreign Exchange Control Board before payment can be made to U.S. firms. These permits are issued in cases where the export of funds is permitted, by post offices and banks.

The songs which you request have previously been published in this column.

L.C. Kimberley—Could you please tell me where to write for particulars on being an air hostess?

Write Trans-Canada Air Lines, Federal Building, Vancouver.

A.B.C. Ymir—How would one treat a bear hide for a rug?

To tan the skin for a rug, first thoroughly wash the skin and remove all fleshy matter from the inner surface; then clean the hair with warm water and soft soap, and rinse well. Take one quarter pound each of common soap and ground alum, and one half ounce of borax, dissolve in hot water, and add sufficient rye meal to make a thick paste, which spread on the flesh side of the skin. Fold it lengthwise, the flesh side in, the skin being quite moist, and let it remain for 10 days or two weeks in an airy place; then shake out and remove the paste from the surface and wash dry for a heavy skin, a second application of the salt and alum may be made. Afterward pull and stretch the skin with the hands, or over a beam, and work on the flesh side with a blunt knife.

R.D. Nelson—What kind of a card game is Patience?

Patience is a synonym for Solitaire. There are many games that are forms of Solitaire and Patience.

Dust of Gold
"Whereby perceiveth we the love of God, because He laid down His life for us."
1 John 3:16

The great Bishop Taylor Smith once summed up the whole Christian doctrine in these three sentences. God IS. God is LOVE. God loves YOU.

Simply trusting Thee, Lord Jesus. I behold Thee as Thou art. And Thy love, so pure, so changeless.

Satisfies my heart. Satisfies my deepest longing. Meets, supplies my every need. Comprehends me round with blessings.

Thine is love indeed.

1. What is the Greek word for God?
2. What is the difference between a synthetic and an imitation stone?
3. What are "cats and dogs" in stock market parlance?

WORDS OF WISDOM

Something men have that half-gods never know, the power to sensitize cold, lifeless things; to make stones breathe, and out of metal grow escarpments that deny the need of wings. — Virginia McCormick.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE

Be tidy in your habits, but not over tidy, nagging at the other members of the household for every tiny slip. A pleasant face and voice and tolerance are more to be desired than great orderliness.

TODAY'S HOROSCOPE

Use care and discretion in your love and domestic affairs during the next year, if you have a birthday today. Also check waste in your business, and the year will be favorable to you in the main. Headstrong, impulsive and quick-tempered will be the child born on this date. This will be especially true if the child is born about noon. He or she will possess energy, however, and will be moderately successful.

THE RUFFING SQUEEZE

IF YOU want to show your friends a pretty play, you can hardly pick anything more attractive than what is usually called a "trump squeeze," sometimes described as a "ruffing squeeze." It is effective in a situation which shows one defender with ability to keep following with higher cards in a suit you are trying to establish by ruffing his winners. By playing the winning cards of some other suit, you may oblige him to choose between discarding a winner in a third suit or throwing away a necessary card in the suit you have been trying to establish. If he does the latter, you can then ruff up a winner for yourself.

strength, so that South might read the situation.

Let it be presumed that West, in response to his partner's opening bid, led the club 8 to the Q, and that East cashed his two diamonds and returned the heart K to the A. South can then run all but one of his spades, which would complete the first nine tricks. He would then retain in his own hand two clubs, the diamond J and the spade 3. Dummy would keep the heart 10-8, diamond Q and club A.

To protect the heart situation East would have to hold his heart Q-J, and to guard clubs the K-7. When South leads to the diamond Q, then, what will East do? If a heart, the ruff of a heart sets up the dummy's other one; if a club, he sets up the winning trick in that suit. Pretty, isn't it?

Fast-Learning Men Turn Out Canadian Army Trucks With Speed

OTTAWA—Along the winding English road comes a Canadian army convoy... a long line of powerful trucks carrying troops, ammunition and supplies faster and more efficiently than they have ever been carried in the whole of military history.

On those big, drab trucks depends the mobility and striking force of the Canadian army. Whence 69 these vital vehicles come? Who are the men who build them?

The story begins far from this winding road in Britain's battle zone. It begins in a Canadian motor factory... in Windsor perhaps, or Ottawa.

There the parts are made and crated... engines, frames, wheels, cab bodies are neatly packed in big wooden boxes so that they will occupy the minimum of precious space in a ship's hold.

The Royal navy helps to steer the ship safely across the Atlantic despite Nazi mines, bombs and torpedoes. In a British port the crates are swung ashore. By train they are rushed to a modern motor assembly plant, operated by Canadian Military Headquarters.

High above the plant float silvery barrage balloons to keep the German bombers at a respectful distance. Outside the gates Canadian soldiers stand guard night and day to make sure there is no sabotage.

But step inside the plant and the war seems far away. You might be back in Canada, watching trucks being assembled in Ottawa, or Windsor.

You meet C. S. Finkle, superintendent of the plant. He wears a grey tweed suit is brisk, business-like and 40. Queen's graduate in mechanical engineering, was on the staff of Detroit architect Albert Kahn assisting in the design of the Stalingrad tractor plant and other big Russian factories. He served the Ford Motor Co. in Windsor, Montreal, India and Winnipeg before coming to England last March to superintend this assembly plant for Canadian war munitions.

Mr. Finkle shows you over the whole plant... 100,000 square feet of it. First you see the crates unloaded beside the railway track that runs right into the factory building.

He refers to these crates as S.K.D. It turns out that this means "semi knock-down." For some time the factory was operating on a C.K.D. (completed knock-down) basis but they found that the slight saving in shipping space was not worth the extra time required in assembly. Promptly the plant returned to the more efficient S.K.D. system.

From the point where the crates are unpacked to the end of the production line, the truck takes shape with amazing speed. Nimble hands bolt in engines, wheels, cabs, bodies.

Inexorably the conveyor belt moves forward, carrying the whole assembly line towards completion. This mechanized pageant seems smooth enough now but the present efficiency has not been achieved without great effort on the part of the men who first established the plant just a few months ago.

Mr. Finkle arrived last March with four other Canadian motor experts: H. M. Jeffery of Oshawa, A. G. Wilson of Toronto, G. W. T. Brown of Toronto and R. R. Lane of Cornwall, Ont. All they had to start with was an empty building. It had been a car assembly plant but had closed down when war broke out. Now there were few tools or workmen.

Tools were soon obtained but labor presented more of a problem. The Canadian technicians had to take what labor they could get. Most of the men were completely inexperienced when it came to putting trucks together.

At first when tightening nuts with an electrically driven tool, many of the workmen did not realize that the "chatter" of the tool meant that the nut was tight. They kept on "chattering" away until "You see, it's like this, George. We're told that everybody ought to give up something these days, so I've decided to give up you."

On The Air

An interesting visitor to Nelson this week is Miss Muriel W. Cameron of the Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service, Ottawa. Among several talks Miss Cameron is giving during her stay is a radio address to be broadcast from CKLN Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. entitled "What Every Mother Should Know About Food." This talk was arranged by Miss Nancy E. Dunn, District Nurse. Miss Cameron is making a tour of the four Western Provinces, explaining how best to get the full food value out of the materials readily available in each district. It is hoped the radio talk will enable many who otherwise would be prevented from doing so to learn something of real value. Miss Cameron is a fully qualified dietitian and an expert on nutrition as well as a household economist, a graduate of one of Canada's best-known universities.

"SUPERMAN" COMES BACK FRIDAY

"Superman," intrepid visitor from another planet, has another of his thrilling adventures related on the air at 8:15 this afternoon from CKLN and CJAT as well as many other stations in Canada. Most children and many adults follow the dare-devil story in the comics day by day; they find the radio version even more to their liking than the strip. The added chance of making a five-dollar bill to swell the Christmas fund does not detract from the pleasure of the programme, either. "Superman" is one of the best serial thrillers we know. Wednesdays and Fridays at 8:15 p.m.

HOCKEY BROADCAST LIKELY

There is every likelihood that many of the West Kootenay Hockey League games will be broadcast again this year for the benefit of those who cannot attend the matches in person. Arrangements are not complete, but unless some unforeseen hitch occurs, the same sponsor as last year will take the series. Trail and Nelson stations will be linked for the broadcasts.

U.S. Plans to Rush Building Bases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP).—The United States Navy plans to rush construction, informed persons said today, on a $60,000,000 chain of bases for the sites traded with Britain for destroyers in the Western hemisphere.

There also were indications U. S. naval tenders might move into some of the newly-acquired anchorages immediately and provide temporary base facilities for American submarines and seaplanes guarding the Atlantic and Caribbean approaches to the vital Panama Canal area.

The way to a general start of construction and partial occupancy of some bases appeared cleared by the Navy's formal announcement last night that "all the British authorities concerned" had agreed upon sites to be leased by the U. S. Government in Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, British Guiana and Newfoundland.

Only a Trinidad, the Southern "Anchor" of the chain, were arrangements still incomplete. The Navy said consultations were continuing on the exact facilities to be granted the United States on that British Island possession, off the Northeast Coast of South America.

Eyes of World Focus on Turks as Axis Invades the Balkans

By DEAN A. WOODRUFF
(Central Press Canadian Writer)

WASHINGTON — With Axis moves in Rumania and actual war in Greece foreshadowing a further thrust in the Balkans, the eyes of the world and the hopes of Great Britain are turned toward Turkey. Can Turkey act as an effective barrier against the German drive to cut the British life line at the Suez canal? Or will she have to permit the German war machine to ferry across the straits and rumble through her mountain passes to Syria and Palestine?

These are burning questions in all the warring capitals today as Greece tries desperately to hold back the legions of Mussolini. The importance of Turkey's stand becomes clear if one considers that a German advance through Turkey or Egypt would cut off the British fleet from its vital supply bases in the East. Combined with a successful Axis attack on Gibraltar, this would force England to abandon the Mediterranean or see a large portion of her navy bottled up.

Forty years ago Turkey would have been in no position to resist anyone. Then it was known as the "sick man of Europe," an empire disintegrating under chronic misgovernment and intrigue. The Turkey that today stands watch at the cross-roads between Europe and Asia, between the Mediterranean and the Black Sea, is much smaller, but infinitely stronger and more independent.

TURKEY UNITED

Thanks to the progressive and far-sighted work of the late Kemal Ataturk and Ismet Inonu, her present leader, she is now unified and sturdy, self-reliant and potentially self-supporting. She has a well-equipped army of 2,000,000 first-class soldiers, her finances are sound and the budget is balanced regularly, despite large purchases of armaments and industrial equipment abroad.

There are no large foreign interests or minorities in Turkey to intrigue or dictate policy. Only in the last two years has the government at Ankara permitted itself the luxury of accepting the foreign loans thrust upon it by the Germans and the British in their eagerness to gain Turkish friendship.

If Turkey resists Germany, she can rely on internal unity, which is more than most European countries have been able to do. The secret of unity is confidence—confidence in the wisdom of every act of the government. Wise old Kemal Ataturk, the "gray wolf," knew how to inspire it. He steered clear of extremes.

Though his power was as absolute as that of Hitler and he was ruth-

Turkey has a well-equipped army of 2,000,000 first-class soldiers less toward opposition, Ataturk was sure of his aims and his strength lay in the fact that his people were sure of them, too. Outside of his more spectacular acts—such as the abolition of the fez and the veil and the introduction of the Latin alphabet—most of Ataturk's reforms were unobtrusive.

Moreover, though he took away the political power of the Moslem church, which had retarded progress in Turkey since the days of Mohammed, the faithful were not persecuted; and though, like the Nazis, he preached self-sufficiency, he never allowed it to become a fetish. Compare this to the present regime in Germany.

FOREIGN POLICY SANE

A sane foreign policy also contributes to the potential strength of Turkey's position. Its leaders have contrived for 20 years to embrace Russia without also embracing Bolshevism; a treaty of friendship with Italy has survived the severe friction over sanctions at the time of the Ethiopian war; bitter quarrels with Greece have been patched up, and since 1932 Turkey has been a model member of the League of Nations. Her pact with Persia, Iran and Iraq has made her strong in the middle East, and with the sponsoring of the Balkan pact of 1933 she has emerged also as a leader among her small neighbors in Europe.

With her old ally, Germany, she has been friendly despite the fact that she has come out on the short end of a good many of the typical Nazi barter agreements.

England and Turkey signed a military alliance a year ago which now is about to be put to the authority test. It obligates them to fight side by side against anyone—except Russia—who disturbs the peace of the Balkans. So far it has affected none of Turkey's other relations; she still is allied with Russia and even now officially friendly with Germany. She is on good terms with all the great powers and has been able to remain completely independent—a feat achieved by straight dealing and moderation. This "splendid isolation" from the quarrels of the world may be rudely shattered any day as Italy penetrates Greece and Hitler hints of giving the signal for his troops to march through Bulgaria toward Constantinople (Istanbul).

Roosevelt Sends Message Urging Labor Leaders to Work for Just Peace

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19 (AP).—President Roosevelt in a message to the American Federation of Labor today urged a "just and honorable peace" with the now divided Labor movement in the United States and suggested Labor leaders can find a way toward that end.

"Peace will not be easy to achieve," the President said in a letter to A. F. L. President William Green, who had it read to the convention, "and the intricate problems involved may not be easy to solve."

"But when men of honor and good intention," the President said, "sit down together they can work out a solution which will restore the much needed harmony either by unity or by a sensible working arrangement."

In his message, Mr. Roosevelt stressed the need for "a great and united democracy" in "any emergency which might be forced upon us."

Green, in an answering telegram, assured the President that the A.F.L. Executive Council was in full agreement that unity or a "sensible working arrangement" can be worked out by men of "honor and good intentions."

"I am confident the convention will concur in the recommendation of the Executive Council by officially authorizing the committee representing the A. F. L. to meet with a committee representing the C. I. O. around a conference table for the purpose of negotiating an honorable peace and the reestablishment of unity and solidarity within the ranks of Labor."

Hertzog Move to Help Smuts' Effort

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP-Cable).—The sudden decision of Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog to withdraw his support from Dr. D. F. Malan and the extreme Republicans who preach independence was described in South African circles here today as bound to assist Prime Minister Jan Smuts in directing the country's war effort.

Dispatches from South Africa report speculation whether the former Prime Minister, whose policy of non-belligerency was rejected by Parliament at the outbreak of the war will attempt to form a new party. Such a step would strengthen the Government's hand by splitting the opposition.

Gen. Hertzog has advised his supporters to back the Smuts candidate in a byelection in Winburg, Orange Free State. However, it is not believed this is a clear indication of full friendship with Gen. Smuts, with whom he governed jointly for six years after what seemed an implacable enmity sustained for a quarter century.

Krupp Output Cut 50 Per Cent

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP).—Production at the Krupp Munitions Works at Essen, Germany, has been cut down 50 per cent as the result of British bombing raids, the Air Ministry news service said today.

News reaching London indicates "the growing disruption of industry in cities of Western Germany," the news service added.

The Air Ministry said the Krupp Works were having great difficulty in obtaining their regular supplies of raw materials "because of transport trouble by wrecked railway junctions."

"Three sections of the factory have been hit and put out of commission," the bulletin said. "One particularly heavy bomb penetrated to the underground workshop before exploding and wrecking the place. Some departments have been closed and others have had to be removed to other cities."

The Air Ministry also said that four large buildings of the Union Chemical factory on an island at the junction of the Oder and Moul Rivers at Stettin had been wrecked, the biggest oil refinery at Hanover destroyed and the Deutsche Vacuum Oil Company at Bremen put out of production.

Damage to the power house of the Fokker Airplane Works at Amsterdam, Holland, stopped production there for several weeks.

Harvests in many parts of Germany are rotting ungathered in the fields, the bulletin said, and added, "the disorganization of transport is so acute that sufficient workers cannot be taken to the fields nor crops moved to storehouses."

PROBES PUBLIC WORKS IN KASLO-SLOCAN DISTRICTS

VICTORIA, Nov. 19.—R. L. Maitland, M.P.P., Leader of the Conservative Party, is asking a number of additional questions in the Legislature concerning public works in the Kaslo-Slocan District.

He is asking the Minister of Public Works, Honorable C. S. Leary:

How many surveys were made for the proposed Nakusp-Arrowhead road and which if any has been adopted?

Was an extension of Bay Street in Nakusp established as a public highway, when did the Department of Public Works build this extension, what was the cost and what was the purpose served?

Has a survey been made for a road from Nakusp to Nakusp Hot Springs on the North side of Kuskasaw Creek? What is the mileage? What is the estimated cost of extending the road and have any expenditures been made on it this year?

Has a survey been made for a road from Glenbank to Nakusp Hot Springs, what is the mileage, and what is the estimated cost?

Has the Department built a machinery warehouse in New Denver this year, was it built by contract or day labor, what was the contract price or cost by day labor, what quality of lumber was used, who supplied it and at what price, and what was the hardware and at what price?

Has a public highway been established through the City of Kaslo, and if so has a bridge recently been constructed on this highway, how long is it and what is the total cost?

Mr. Maitland also asks who supplied the lumber, timber, pilings and hardware and at what prices?

Has a public highway been established between Brouse and Wilson Lake, was any part of this highway built before it was established as a public highway, if so how much was built by the Department of Public Works and how much by other parties? Was any work done by the Department of Public Works on this highway in 1939 or 1940 and if so at what cost? Mr. Maitland also wants to know if there are any time limits tributary to this highway, or where this highway runs and if so who owns these limits?

Another question affecting this road is whether part of the highway was built by other parties? Did the Government take over this part and if so from whom and for what consideration?

Two other questions by Mr. Maitland affect the Rossland-Trail district. He asks if Major Sutton, former District Registrar of the Supreme Court in Rossland, also held the office of Official Administrator for that district and whether the present District Registrar also holds that position? If not who is the Official Administrator and what are his qualifications?

Another question affecting Rossland-Trail district is whether James Skinner is Deputy Registrar of Voters for the Rossland-Trail district and if so when was he hired and at what salary?

Ottawa Grateful for Suggestions From Citizens on Running the War

OTTAWA (CP).—Many and varied are the suggestions coming to the government these days of how best a Canadian might contribute to the war effort. They range all the way from suggestions for collecting tin cans to ideas for dropping gorillas on the enemy and an offer to get inside a torpedo and direct it at the enemy.

The suggestions come to government departments from citizens of all ages and classes, all anxious to help win the war.

Daily in the mails these suggestions arrive and all receive attention for, as one official put it, "you never know when you may find a fine idea in a haystack." For example, one suggestion that came in, hit right on a point a government agency was working on. The matter was considered of the greatest importance and operations were being carried out in the most secret way.

Officials decided the citizen who made the suggestions could have had no knowledge of what was going on, and while they had the highest regard for his discretion, they were loath to admit even to him that his idea was being investigated. They finally decided to inform him as to the state of affairs in order to obtain his silence. This was done and the whole matter remains an official secret.

Officials of the National War Services Department said all suggestions indicating the spirit and good will of the people of the country are gratefully received. But it is not to that department alone that offers and suggestions come. Rather they come to virtually all departments—finance, war services, defence, air, navy and even trade.

One particularly interesting idea came from a naturalized Canadian of Italian birth, a railway shop worker in Winnipeg. This worker wrote that he and his fellows had been considering the position of the nation in respect to the war and the position of those serving in the armed forces.

He felt himself that he could not accept more money for remaining peacefully at work than was paid those who were fighting. In consequence he was prepared to surrender his pay over and above the $1.30 a private in the Canadian Active Service Force received, toward national expenditures.

An old soldier in the West, Arthur Krogstad, a man totally disabled as a result of the last war, sent in a dollar a month from his war pension and offered his body "if any suicide troops are raised." Unable to write himself he had a friend draft a letter in which he expressed his willingness to put himself in a torpedo or lie in a mine behind the lines and blow the enemy up as they advance.

Other suggestions are in lighter vein. One arrived in verse:

"It's not only wealth and armaments
Plus soldiers in the ranks,
But a lot of stand togetherness
That will outweigh the enemies' tanks."

A ranchman in Alberta wrote a suggestion the government might use payment in kind in the war effort and he would contribute anything he had by way of grain, cattle or hogs.

Youngest suggestion but by no means fantastic is that of Sylvia Dattner, six-year-old miss of Calgary. She wrote Prime Minister Mackenzie King saying, "I would like to know if you think it's a good idea to start a club to save tin cans and help win the war. Please let me know. Your friend, Sylvia."

Sylvia's ideas come under the head of salvage, officials say, and that matter is under consideration.

The War Inventions Board gets probably the most and the wildest ideas, but they get many good ones too. The good ones usually come from scientists or those occupied in research work. These are the ones they won't talk about. They will mention the idea of taking up gorillas in parachutes and dropping them on the enemy to maul them into mince meat, or slinging a bridge below balloons across the broad Atlantic.

ITALIANS CONFRONTED BY SERIOUS PROBLEM IN NAVAL REPAIRS

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP).—Crippling of the Italian fleet at Taranto faced the Italian command with a serious problem of repair because the work must be done in private shipyards. The British Broadcasting Corporation reported today.

The BBC said Italy does not build her warships in naval shipyards but has them constructed under contract by private firms.

"Therefore," said BBC, "at least one of the battleships probably will have to be taken to Trieste or some other port where there is a private shipyard. Such a move would bring obvious hazard."

Greece Appeals for More Planes

ATHENS, Nov. 19 (AP).—Greece appealed to the "free countries" of the world today to help her against Italy, with the declaration by Theo Nicoloudis, Press Minister, that they should not be misled by current Greek successes in the field.

He appealed especially to Britain and the United States, in a talk with foreign newspaper correspondents, to send the greatest possible number of planes, and compared Greece's present situation with that of Finland in the struggle with Russia a year ago.

"We won't make the same mistake as heroic Finland which, content with her first successes, failed to ask for help from abroad," Nicoloudis said.

The Greeks, he continued, are fighting an enemy six times greater in war materials in the Koritsa area, he declared, the Italians are using 400 planes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP).—The Greek Government has appealed directly to the United States Government for permission to purchase aviation and other military supplies.

This was made known today by Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State who said the Greek Government had been assured that the appeal would receive a most sympathetic response.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP).—Harold S. Vanderbilt, financier, sportsman, will serve as Chairman of a Greek-American War Relief Committee organized to aid the Greek people with food and medical supplies, a spokesman for the Greek Consul-General said today.

It was said at the Consulate that "several hundred" Greek citizens in the United States had volunteered for military duty in their homeland "but the problem is how to send them to Greece."

There are an estimated 700,000 persons of Greek descent in the United States.

War Savings Sales $26,091,680, 5 Mos.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP).—Sales of war savings certificates in the five-month period from June 1 to Oct. 31 totalled $26,091,680, war savings committee headquarters announced today.

British Columbia was the leading contributor on the basis of per capita sales with $3.71, the committee said, but Ontario led in dollar volume sales of $10,777,715.

Sales by provinces with per capita figures in brackets:

Prince Edward Island $132,230 ($1.33); Nova Scotia $1,313,080 ($2.1); New Brunswick $225,600 ($1.62); Quebec $4,583,785 ($1.43); Ontario $10,777,715 ($2.83); Manitoba $2,016,495 ($2.71); Saskatchewan $1,690,905 ($1.71); Alberta $1,795,385 ($2.16); British Columbia $2,950,785 ($3.71).

Air Minister Says Parachute Troops May Be Army, Air Force Undertaking

By FRANK FLAHERTY (Canadian Press Staff Writer).

OTTAWA (CP).—Bold and bright young men with a yen for excitement will be in demand when and if a corps of Canadian parachute troops now under consideration, is organized.

Air Minister Power has announced that formation of such a corps is being considered as one of the steps which should be taken with a view to a possible offensive by Empire forces.

In planning for parachute troops the Canadian authorities are taking a couple of leaves out of the new books on tactics of the German and Russian armies. Moreover, the United States Army is engaged in the organization of a parachute battalion. At Fort Benning, Georgia, a parachute unit being recruited from 24 infantry organizations, each infantry unit being given a quota in the new corps.

Parachute troops were used by the Germans in Holland, Belgium, France and Norway with some success and by the Russians in the Finnish war with somewhat less success, according to available reports. Just how big a factor they were in the German advance last Spring has not been authoritatively determined but military authorities seem to be in agreement that the parachutist has a definite place in the fast-moving offensive operations of these days of mechanized warfare.

FIGHT ON THEIR OWN

Intelligence and resourcefulness together with daring shape up as prime requisites for a parachutist. In the parachute forces every jumper, once he makes his jump, becomes his own general for the time being. Groups of men may be dropped from planes at one place to assemble under a designated commander but each man must use his own wits when he lands.

'French Will Not Aid Germany Against British'

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP).—The French people will never cooperate with the Germans against the British, Percy J. Philip, Canadian correspondent for the New York Times who lived through the fall of France, said in a speech before the Canadian Club today.

Basing his conclusions on 24 years spent in France and several weeks there following the armistice between the Vichy Government and the Germans, Mr. Philip said Marshal Petain was a man of honor who would never agree to a dishonorable course for his country.

Petain's prestige and popularity was going up with the French people while that of Pierre Laval, Vice-Premier, was going down.

Petain and his associates agreed to the armistice because they were convinced Great Britain would soon be defeated also and the chief protagonist of this view was Laval. Now Frenchmen were coming to realize Laval was wrong and as British resistance continued, hope for a British victory revived.

The reason France fell was that the country lost 2,800,000 of its best men in the last war and for a full generation had to carry on with the second best and third best, said Mr. Philip. The new generation which went into the present war had grown up fatherless in a world seething with new doctrines. They lacked discipline and they lacked confidence in authority.

"We know and should remember," he continued, "that that terrific force of men and machines which broke the French and Belgian armies last May and sent us scurrying home from Dunkerque is still intact, possibly stronger than ever and it is that force which we are fighting almost alone."

V. Sifton New Head of Ordnance Branch

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP).—Defence Minister Ralston announced in a statement today the appointment of Victor W. Sifton of Winnipeg as acting master-general of the ordnance branch of the Defence Department succeeding P. A. Chester, also of Winnipeg.

Mr. Sifton will assume his new duties immediately.

At the end of the month Mr. Chester will relinquish his present appointment and return to his private capacity as General Manager of the Hudson's Bay Co.

Mr. Sifton will serve without salary. Like Mr. Chester he will serve as a civilian at his defence department post.

1st Division Spitfire Fund Goes Over Top

By ROSS MUNRO (Canadian Press Staff Writer).

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Nov. 1 (CP Cable).—The Canadian 1st Division's Spitfire fund went over the top today and the £3000 ($23,250) raised by voluntary contributions by officers and men will be presented shortly by Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production.

The Division is believed to be the first military formation to raise funds for the purchase of an airplane for the Royal Air Force. Maj.-Gen. C. R. Pearkes, General Officer Commanding the Division, said: "Every unit made a most generous contribution. A great many men gave a day's pay or more."

A huge bottle labelled, "A blitz against Fritz" stood in the lobby of Division headquarters. Passers-by tossed in small change.

Canada Spends Big Sum on Health; People Fail to Take Full Advantage

OTTAWA, (CP).—Maintenance of public health in Canada costs $191,000 or $19 a person, annually, according to latest official figures. In, say experts of the pensioned health department, is a higher rate than Canadians spend on education and only just below the sum spent on clothing each year.

The National Committee for Men-Hygiene has just concluded a thorough survey of medical care and public health services in Canada, and concludes that full advantage is not being taken.

Death rates for first-year infants are greatly in different parts of Canada where conditions are, comparable, the committee report said, adding that 2500 more beds are needed in Quebec and the Maritimes for tuberculosis cases alone, and 900 for other provinces. An additional 8500 beds are needed for treatment of mental illness in Canada.

MEDICAL SERVICE

ARMY

The report said more than 55,000 Canadians, including 10,000 physicians and surgeons, 4800 dentists and 20,000 graduate nurses earn their living by providing public health and medical services. Of the $193,000,000 spent annually, the committee's survey showed, that 72 per cent is paid by private individuals and 21 per cent by governments and seven per cent comes from philanthropy and industry.

Of the annual expenditure roughly $90,000,000 goes to doctors and dentists and nurses; $50,000,000 represents hospital costs, less salaries of personnel; $13,000,000 is spent for physicians' prescriptions; $30,000,000 on drugs and $33,000,000 on patent medicines and drug sundries. Sanitation costs for a year run to $11,000,000.

The committee reported that organizations to secure medical care in groups are growing in the Dominion and through workmen's compensation several millions of dollars a year are being spent in this manner.

Schemes whereby employees each contribute a small sum a week to cover medical care are developing in the various provinces, most novel of these being the municipal physician system operating in Western Canada.

This system has made the most progress in Saskatchewan, the committee said. Under the plan a physician is engaged at a salary to provide general practitioner care for approximately 2000 people living in a certain area. Cost is met through a land tax, the average annual price per person in rural areas being $2.12. This plan, the committee found, is operating in approximately 100 rural municipalities and 50 towns in Western Canada.

British Prisoners Lack Winter Clothing

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP Cable).—War Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today that many war prisoners in Germany lack winter clothing and that he is using every means in his power to effect a remedy.

The German Government has been urged through diplomatic channels to fulfill its obligations under the Geneva convention.

The War Secretary was replying to Sir William Dawson, Conservative, who asked if he was aware that many prisoners in one camp had only the battle dress they wore when captured. Sir William added that "many of us get letters from all over the country saying our men actually are too weak to play games because of lack of ordinary food."

Mr. Eden said he was "dissatisfied with conditions, hence representations have been made."

COVENTRY ATTACK TESTED FOOD POWER

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP).—German air attacks on Coventry tested emergency food organization in Britain severely but the service "stood up to the job," the British Broadcasting Corporation reported today, quoting a statement made by Lord Woolton, Minister of Food.

Lord Woolton added that "we have plenty of reserve power, if necessary."

Disease, More Devastating Than the Blitzkrieg, Is Fought by Britain

LONDON, (CP). — Britain is moving rapidly to eradicate an invisible menace which a House of Commons Committee fears "may prove more devastating than the blitzkrieg."

This unseen foe is the threat of infection and epidemic lurking in overcrowded underground stations which have become night air raid shelters for thousands of Londoners—men, women and children and even babies in arms.

Representatives of the Labor Party have condemned the Department of Health for what was described as laxity and insisted that effective action be taken immediately.

Rhys Davies, Labor member for Westhoughton, was one of those calling for quicker action. He said unless the Nations that are at war are very careful with the health of the community they may be faced with much more serious issues than bombs, battleships and bayonets.

Malcolm MacDonald, Minister of Health, said it was hoped to implement shortly the recommendations of Lord Horder who already had mentioned shelter conditions and had suggestions to counter them.

For instance, it was suggested that entire stations be filled with a mist-like antiseptic; that throat-spraying and gargle be made compulsory; that a nurse be placed in attendance in each shelter; that cases of disease be isolated in hospital and that inoculation, now provided free, be increased and even be made compulsory.

Thousands of women and children are being dispersed daily from London, Mr. MacDonald said, and already nearly 600,000 or 5 per cent of the children in London evacuation areas had been sent away.

First-aid posts will be set up in stations housing more than 500 persons and a sick-bay will be established so that sick persons may be "partially isolated." Doctors will be on call.

Tams Coming In, Kilt Going Out, in Modern Army

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

OTTAWA, (CP).—The major contributions of the Second Great War to Canadian military dress are the introduction of the battle dress uniform and revival of the wedge cap, officially known as the field service cap.

Both spring from a desire to adapt military attire to the needs of the times, to give the fighting man a garb which will be most convenient under the conditions of modern war, with its emphasis on mechanization, rapid movement and concealment.

The battle dress was adopted in the United Kingdom after a series of experiments prior to the outbreak of the present war. The wedge cap is an old army cap which was generally worn before the adoption of khaki about the time of the South African War. It was worn when soldiers wore scarlet tunics and blue trousers into battle.

With the adoption of khaki the stiff peak cap worn during the last war and since become standard. In these days, however, soldiers may be attacked at any time and in war areas must have steel helmets ready to hand at all times. They needed some kind of cloth cap which could be carried in their pockets and slipped on when they took off their helmets. So the old wedge cap came back. Now it has been authorized in regimental colors for off-duty wear.

KILTS DISAPPEAR

With the present war the kilts of Canada's highland regiments and one Irish killed regiment vanished as a service garb in the Canadian Active Service Force. They may still be worn off duty. These units when on active service wear the battle dress of ski-pants with canvas gaiters.

They are permitted to identify themselves as highland and Irish units, however, by their head gear. The Scottish units wear khaki tam o'shanter for field service and the regimental glengarry bonnet for off-duty occasions. The Irish Regiment of Canada at Toronto wears a green cap, something like the Scottish tam o'shanter, for service and off-duty occasions.

Canada's tank regiments wear a black beret. This was adopted by the British army because it seemed the handiest sort of thing for men who rode in and worked around tanks. The tank units have no cap authorized for off-duty wear.

Celtic garb has not entirely disappeared from the Canadian army as the highland units of the Non-Permanent Active Militia and officers of the second battalion of the Irish Regiment still wear the kilt while two unklitted Scottish units, the Scots Fusiliers of Canada of Kitchener, Ont., and the Lorne Scots of Brampton, Ont., wear the tartan trews or tight-fitting trousers. When the present issue runs out, however, they too will wear battle dress.

The old-style stiff peak cap is still worn with old-style khaki service dress uniform, tight-fitting tunic and plain long trousers, but the wedge cap is coming into use there, too.

Service dress, the old-style uniform for officers, continues to be worn extensively in Canada but officers up to the rank of lieutenant-colonel are expected to obtain the wedge cap when they need a new cap. For other ranks service dress is giving place to battle dress throughout the country.

Wearing of the drab peak cap is still optional for officers of the rank of colonel and up but it has a colored band instead of being plain as for officers of lower rank. With battle dress they wear the colored field service cap.

The colloquial term "brass hat" is often applied to high ranking officers who wear the colored bands on their caps. The band is of scarlet for generals, brigadiers and colonels, except for those in the medical corps who wear dull cherry, in the ordnance corps, blue, in the pay corps, primrose yellow, in the dental corps, emerald green and in the chaplain service, purple.

Armless Man Is Good Air Warden

LONDON, (CP).—Horace Lineham was born without arms but he's the most useful man at the Welsh Tavern Air Raid Precautions Post.

What other wardens do with their hands, 31-year-old "Joe" does with his feet. And just as well, too. He answers the phone, keeps the log, puts on his tin hat, stops buses when there is danger, tests gas-masks, shepherds people to shelter, keeping busy at the 101 jobs that occupy an A.R.P. warden's time.

"I've been a warden for a year, working without pay," said Joe. "I'm no good to the army but can do anything at A.R.P. that other people can do. I'm registered as a part time worker, but most days I put in 16 hours. I live just around the corner."

Joe has no fear of anything the Germans may send over, but he has a complaint. "The boys want me to do all the inside work. I want to be outside—in the front line."

His mates call Lineham the most useful man on the job.

"He did a grand piece of work when we took the gas mask census, making sure everyone's mask fitted properly," said Les Couchman, one of his aides. "The only trouble is we can't find enough to keep him busy."

"You'd think he would be satisfied with the work he does already. But not Joe. He wants to be a roof spotter."

British Columbia Can Prosper by Developing Its Resources

In British Columbia we have vast and hundreds of other products, are reserves of the very highest quality bituminous coal and we import hundreds of tons of other bituminous coal, the greater portion of less heat value, none of more, throwing hundreds of coal miners out of work. There is no reason for a single ton of coal to be imported into British Columbia.

Our dairy products, milk, canned and powdered, butter and cheese are graded with the best in the world. Our canned milk is exported to 11 foreign countries, increasing every year against all world brands, and yet many carloads are imported into B. C. every year—this also applies to butter and cheese.

Our canned fruits and vegetables, jams and jellies, are of the very highest quality—yet carloads are imported and sold.

Our meat products, fresh, smoked and canned, paper products, paints and varnishes, biscuits and confectionery, men's and women's clothing, marine engines, batteries, fertilizers, metal work, printing jobs, equal to the best—yet all are faced with direct competition with imports of no better quality.

Buying B. C. Products Will Increase B.C.'s Prosperity

Statistics show that $4,700,000 worth of women's ready-made clothing was sold in the Province in 1938. Of this amount B. C. factories supplied 13 per cent, $150,000 worth of this type of merchandise keeps fifty people working twelve months a year. Retail merchants selling this merchandise definitely state it is competitive in all respects to the imported articles.

The value of property and increase in individual opportunity depend entirely on the production of primary and secondary industries. Spending British Columbia dollars in British Columbia stores for British Columbia products is more than a patriotic principle. It should not involve any sentimental appeal. It is sound common sense for every Father and Mother who have their own and their children's interest at heart.

"What is an industry worth to the community? If gold were discovered on the outskirts of the city tomorrow, the newspapers would carry the largest, blackest headlines possible, and a frenzy of excitement would grip the people. However, there are only a few profitable gold mines. Yet, almost every community has one or more successful industry which day after day and year after year steadily pays out a constant stream of gold to the citizen in the form of pay cheques."

Slogans for British Columbians

"Develop a British Columbia consciousness."

"Not to spend more but to think more."

"We encourage industries to locate in British Columbia—we should encourage them to remain and assist them to develop by extending our Home Market support."

"Not a sentimental appeal, price and quality being equal—buy the Home Product."

"Keep every possible dollar circulating in our own field of operation—British Columbia."

"Not a narrow idea—encourage foreign trade to the greatest possible extent, but don't import what is available here."

"We export lumber, fish products, fruit, minerals, certain milk products and manufactured articles. To balance this valued trade we could confine our imports to the numerous required products that are not obtainable here."

"Competitive imports provide transportation, distribution and dealer returns—Home Products provide all the above, transportation to a lesser extent, but in addition production, employment, market for raw materials, taxation revenue, social services, etc."

"With heads of families, single men and women on relief, we can ill afford to divert from local channels a single dollar that carries employment possibility."

"British Columbia products are quality products, made from high standard materials by an intelligent people—remember this and discard all inferiority complexes."

"Our fruit, vegetables, live stock and dairy products have won the highest awards in various Canadian Exhibitions and yet last year we imported over $9,000,000 worth of directly competitive agricultural products."

Lady Tweedsmuir Assists I.O.D.E.

LONDON, (CP). — Comforts for Canadian forces overseas, collected in Canada by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, are being distributed here in cooperation with the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Lady Tweedsmuir has accepted the appointment as overseas representative of the I.O.D.E. and details of distribution of cartons from Canada were discussed at a meeting of the Joint Field Comforts Committee at her Oxford residence, Elfield Manor.

It was agreed that the I.O.D.E. and the Red Cross Society would leave the appointment of regulations as passed on to Auxiliary Services officers to the discretion of the comforts committee. A large number of requisitions already has been received and passed on, including a number of cartons from the I.O.D.E. stock.

Col. George Namith, overseas commissioner, Canadian Red Cross Society, and Major J. M. Humphrey, senior officer, Auxiliary Services Canadian Military Headquarters, attended the meeting with Lady Tweedsmuir.

LONDON, (CP). — Every night at seven o'clock 12 soldiers crowd around the table in the kitchen of a small stone house in a Northeast town and get cooking hints from a grey-haired Scottish woman, Mrs. Oliver Gathercole.

Ex-Mental Cases Form Unique Club

CHICAGO, (CP). — Former mental patients — once hospitalized — are having "the time of their lives" with a self-help rehabilitation plant that keeps them so busy they have not time to feel sorry for themselves or worry that they might break down again.

These one-time victims of mental ailments — all members of the association of former patients of the psychiatric institute of the University of Illinois and the State Department of Public Welfare — have their own social set, their own clubs, their own employment committee, and even their own youth movement.

Maya Pearson, a vivacious girl of 20 is Secretary and leader of the youth movement, which finds expression for social life in two groups within the organization—the Fortnightly Club and the Companion Club for former patients between 18 and 30 years of age.

Each club member takes a turn at staging a house party for cards, for dancing and other forms of relaxation. Behind these activities is the desire to destroy the stigma which, association members say, sometimes follows the one-time mental patient even though cured.

EAST FOOTBALL IN MIXUP AGAIN

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP)—Fred Hamilton, President of the Sports Service League, sponsor of a plan to arrange a war charities rugby football game between Eastern and Western football champions, said today of rumors that Ottawa and Balm Beach are negotiating for a two-game Eastern final. "I don't believe it."

Such an Eastern final would end on Dec. 7, date set for the Sports Service League's East-West game Balm Beach and Ottawa are likely, although not definite, Eastern finalists.

"I was talking to four or five Ottawa stars Saturday and they are all intent on playing the game against Winnipeg," he said. "They feel they should have won last year and they really want to play this one."

Davis' Licence Revoked; $2500 of Gale Share Held

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—The heaviest penalty ever imposed on a fighter by the New York State Athletic Commission was pinned on Al (Bumby) Davis today for the tactics which caused his disqualification in the second round of his tilt with Fritz Zivic here last Friday.

The Commission revoked his license and penalized him $2500 of his $11,340 share of the gate from the fight. Referee Billy Cavanaugh stopped the fight after Davis had fouled the welterweight champion eight or 10 times in the second round. After the bout was halted, Davis started fighting again and finally was restrained by police.

In addition, Commissioner Bill Brown declared that while the Commission does not have the power to revoke a license for life, there will "have to be a new commission here" before Davis gets another permit to fight in New York State.

The state fathers of both Pennsylvania and New Jersey immediately agreed with the New York action.

In explaining the commission's closed session today, Davis was quoted by Chairman John L. Phelan as saying Zivic was guilty of "bumbling, holding and punching and hitting on the break in the first round; that Al was in such a condition after the first heat he 'didn't really know what happened,' and that if he (Davis) did any fouling 'it was not intentional.'"

91-Year-Old Rower Mad—Car Accident Stops His Exercise

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19 (AP)—An automobile accident that kept 91-year-old Frederick A. Plaisted in bed for a couple of days was annoying to the veteran rowman. It forced him to miss a rowing date on the Schuylkill River "to get some exercise." Plaisted has been rowing professionally 73 years.

Nowadays, Plaisted rows "about three miles—every other day if I can—but, of course, I don't row quite as fast as I once did."

In 1877, he won the American professional championship at Boston in a contest that found him finishing inches ahead of Frenchy Johnson, the great Negro oarsman of the day. Jim Teneyck was in third place.

Jessel Syndicate After Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Jerome Goldenbock, New York attorney, said today he is representing a syndicate headed by George Jessel in negotiations for the purchase of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club.

Goldenbock said Alexander Eisenmann, a broker, and George M. Cohen are others in the syndicate, and that Lester Amster, drug magnate, also may participate.

He said his preliminary negotiations had been conducted with George Barnwell, an officer of the Brooklyn Club representing the Brooklyn Trust Company, which holds 50 per cent of the stock in trust. Barnwell said he knew nothing of any negotiations.

Kowcinak, McCreedy High Sydney Scorers

SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 19 (CP)—Glenn Bay Miners climbed into a first-place tie with Sydney in the Cape Breton Hockey League tonight by gaining a 6-0 victory over Miners in overtime.

Sydney's imported front line of Dick Kowcinak-Johnny McCreedy-George Seel got four of the Miners' goals. Kowcinak and McCreedy, once of Trail Smoke Eaters, got two apiece.

Ken McBride Wins University Golf

KENNY MCBRIDE

VANCOUVER, Nov. 19 (CP)—Kenney McBride of Nelson successfully defended the University of British Columbia golf championship he first won last year, by defeating Ormie Hall of Vancouver five and four today in the 36-hole final.

McBride finished the first nine five up on his Vancouver opponent and led all the way to end the match on the 14th hole.

An all-Nelson final for the title had seemed likely, when Jimmy Allan of Nelson made the semis, but Allan dropped out when defeated by Hall.

Jimmy Wilson to Take Things Easy

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP)—Jimmy Wilson hadn't been manager of the Chicago Cubs more than 13 minutes before he let it be known that he is no popoff.

"Why should I start talking right away about what I am going to do?" he asked. "I'm no popoff. I want to look the situation over before making any recommendations."

Wilson agreed to terms in a conference yesterday with James Gallagher General Manager and Charles (Boss) Weber, Vice-President, and signed a two-year contract last night. He affixed his signature to the paper as soon as Warren Giles, General Manager of the Cincinnati club to which he belonged, arrived and personally handed him his unconditional release. The salary figure was thought to be about $20,000.

Wilson, however, revealed immediately that he wouldn't back away from any attractive trades for material.

"While I saw plenty of the Cubs last season," he said, "I wasn't looking at them with the same slant I now must take as their manager. But there is one thing certain, I'll listen to all trade propositions. From what little I know at this time I figure the big need is pitching."

Indians, Dodgers to Play Series in Cuba

CLEVELAND (AP)—Proving that the appointment of long-faced Roger Peckinpaugh isn't the only thing in the wigmaw, the Cleveland Indians will invade Cuba to play three Spring training contests.

Cleveland fans can't recall the Indians ever playing outside the United States.

The Indians will start gathering at their Fort Myers, Fla., Spring training camp about February 20, says Vice-President C. C. Slapnicka. This is about a week earlier than usual.

They go to Cuba March 7 for a three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have hopes for a pennant in their own National League.

Peckinpaugh, Cleveland manager who managed the Indians five and a half seasons before President Alva Bradley discharged him in 1933, has a bundle of problems to deal with.

One of the first is to determine whether to retain Luke Sewell, Johnny Bassler and Oscar Melillo as coaches. Another is to figure how he can obtain a slugging outfielder.

New York Heavies Injured in Hockey

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (CP)—Two star defencemen suffered injuries tonight that may keep them out of action for several games when New York Rangers defeated Americans 3-2 in the first meeting of the National Hockey League clubs this season.

Art Coulter, Ranger defenceman, injured his shoulder in the first period when he was slammed into the boards by Pete Slobodan, rookie Amer defense player. Coulter, it was feared, had suffered a bone separation in his shoulder and will have x-ray pictures taken of the injury tomorrow.

In the third period Slobodan himself suffered a fractured bone in his left cheek in a collision with Phil Watson, Ranger centre, whose stick struck the defenceman as they fell.

Mackay, Bentley Have Good Chance of Making Hawks

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP)—Dave Mackay, husky defenceman, and centre MAX Bentley, recalled by the Chicago Black Hawks from the Providence Reds, faced an opportunity today to gain regular major league employment with the Chicago Club.

The Hawk Manager, Paul Thompson, said he would put the youngsters through intensive drills and that should they measure up to his standards, he would use them on Thursday night against Boston Bruins.

"If these kids are impressive I'll make room for them Thursday," he said. "I'm not sure who will be sent back to Providence but I certainly have not been pleased with our play, particularly on defence. After Sunday's game, however, I'll have a few ideas as to who will stay or go."

Last Sunday night the Hawks held a 3-0 lead over the Canadiens but Montreal, as the Hawks defences folded, crawled into a 4-4 tie.

"Bentley is a great prospect," Thompson said. "He is second in scoring in the League, with five goals and two assists, and is only 20 years old. Mackay, just 21, is a little green but fast and a hard worker. He looks like he'll develop."

"Both have a good chance of sticking with us."

Veteran Portland Goes to Canadiens

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (CP)—Big Jack Portland, veteran Chicago Black Hawks defenceman, was purchased by Montreal Canadiens for a reported $12,500 today in an effort to lend the correct dash of experience to the youthful National Hockey League club.

An official of Canadiens confirmed the announcement in Chicago by President William Tobin of the Hawks that Portland was traded in a straight cash transaction. He added that the defenceman will report to Canadiens in Detroit tomorrow, playing in Thursday night's game there.

Acquisition of Portland, 28, brings the number of Canadian defencemen to six—veterans Cliff Gougeon and Doug Young, and rookies Ken Reardon, Alex Singh and Tony Graboski. There has been no indication who will be dropped to make way for him.

The 220-pound defenceman, born in Collingwood, Ont., played his first N.H.L. game with the Canadiens, breaking into professional ranks with them in the 1933-34 season. He went to Boston soon after, being traded to Chicago last season.

Seaby Is Going Even Better This Season for Leafs

It seems that just as long as Jesse Seaby has someone to give him competition he is just about invincible in the Maple Leafs' goal.

If Tuesday night's practice of the Nelson Senators was a truthful indication, Seaby is due for even greater things this season. It was like trying to squeeze blood out of a stone as the opposing Leafs tried to get the puck past the agile Jesse in a fast scrimmage game between the Greens and Whites.

The Greens, with the Kilpatrick-Proulx-Mann front string battering at his doorstep, were outluckied time and again as they drilled promising drives at Seaby, and it was all they could do to salvage a 2-3 tie out of the proceedings. The first goal, a screened shot by Kilpatrick, glanced into the goal off a teammate's skate, and it was only when Bob Gilmour had to send one man off to give the Greens an opportunity to know their power play, that they finally squared it.

Seaby came to Nelson from Drumheller for the 1937-38 season, but he had to play second fiddle to Bill McKay, one of the greatest goalies Nelson has ever had. The following season he took over the first string berth, beating out an ex-pro, Gordie Struthers, for the nod. Last Winter he hooked up with Dick Burgess in a close fight for the position, and they alternated in the first half of the schedule. In each of his appearances Jesse performed spectacularly, and if the truth be told, the Nelson club management fully expected at the start that Burgess would take the first-string position. But the amazing way that Seaby came through dispelled any possibility of that. Burgess later went to Goshogaw, but this term Seaby has Junior Mason from Regina to contend with.

Mason is a capable little netminder, and it will take a lot to keep him out of the Nelson goal. But that kind of competition is what Seaby revels in, even admits as much. If he should be alternated with Mason, he won't mind that at all, for it keeps him on edge and on top of his game at all times. He just can't afford to let up for a minute.

Frank McCormick Is Rated High by Boss

During the world series Warren Giles, the Reds' general manager, let his sympathies be known on what he thought of his first baseman. Somebody asked him whom he would choose if he were building a ball club and had the pick of the field.

"Joe DiMaggio," said Giles. "And your second choice?"

"Frank McCormick," he said. This caused a little bit of surprise among the listeners, but Warren was quick to defend the choice.

"Don't forget," said Giles, "that McCormick is in there every day, playing his position as well as anybody else in the game, hitting with all of them, and hitting when it counts. He does everything you ask of him. He leaves you wanting nothing more at first base."

Americans' Newest Rearguard Drops "Z"

NEW YORK (CP)—All the advance stories from the training camp at Winnipeg had called New York Americans' young defenceman "Pete Slobodan."

So when the official program at Madison Square Garden for the first National Hockey League game in New York had the young Red-ginger as "Pete Slobodan," questions were asked.

The talk player with an effective bodycheck explained it. He prefers to have the "x" left out. It was his request, so as far as the New York Hockey Writers' Association is concerned, from now on it's "Slobodan."

BRUINS GOING IN FOR AIR TRAVEL

Art Ross, the Boston bandmaster, is going in for airplane travel in a big way. He says those so-called suicide jumps, which Eastern teams like the Bruins and Rangers and Americans have been forced to make by playing Saturday nights in Toronto and Sunday nights in either Detroit or Chicago, can be eliminated by mass transportation of the hockey teams, and that's what he intends to do for his Bruins this year.

Detroit's Red Wings, and even the Americans, have sent their teams up in the air, but neither club made a practice of it. Ross says he will.

Louis to Defend Title in Detroit

DETROIT, Nov. 19 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs announced Joe Louis will defend his world heavyweight boxing title in Detroit the latter part of February, or early March.

Jacobs was here to arrange a series of fights in Olympia Arena which may produce an opponent for the Brown Bomber.

The first of eight shows under the Jacobs banner will be held Dec. 6 and bring together Abe Simon, New York heavyweight, and Roscoe Toles, Detroit Negro, in a 10-round bout.

Jacobs said if Simon should win handily over Toles he would get a shot at Louis' title.

Rangers Hold Off Last Period Push to Beat Amerks

Springfield Puck Artists Top List

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19 (AP)—A pair of hard-skating forwards for Springfield Indians, one of whom does the goal getting and the other the assisting, are staying at the top of the American Hockey League scoring race, weekly statistics released today show.

Fred Thuermer picked up a couple more assists last week for a total of 11 points which retains for him the No. 1 spot, while his teammate, Fred Hunt, added two more to his total of goals and that left him with 10 points for second place, the same spot he occupied a week ago.

The statistics do not include the Springfield-Providence game Saturday night, the summary of which was not available at the league office.

Bill Allum of Philadelphia Ramblers is the league's heaviest penalty carrier with 21 minutes in the penalty box.

Leading scorers:

Thuermer, Springfield 4 7 11

Hunt, Springfield 6 4 10

Summerville, Cleveland 8 3 9

Roussel, Pittsburgh 3 4 9

Brydson, Springfield 4 4 8

FELLER FIGURES PECK TO BE O. K.

ALGONA, Iowa (AP)—Here with a party of pheasant hunters, Bob Feller, Cleveland pitcher, said he thought that Roger Peckinpaugh "would make a big improvement in the morale and spirit of the players."

Feller, whose home is at Van Meter, Iowa, said Peckinpaugh, named manager of the Indians yesterday, "knows what it's all about. He knows the inside of the Indian situation," he added. "He knows what caused the internal trouble last year—and he knows what to do to prevent its cropping up again."

Big Names Leave N.H.L. This Year

It isn't often that big league hockey loses so many all-time stars as it has this season. The Rangers, Bruins and Maple Leafs are virtually standing pat, yet out of the active ranks in the seven-team league have drifted such players as Tiny Thompson, Cecil Dillon, Eddie Shore, Red Horner, Art Chapman and Neil Stewart.

A pretty powerful team could be put together from the most recent batch of lost big leaguers. Such as the following:

JIMMY FOXH HARDEST HITTER IN BASEBALL

Jimmy Fox of the Boston Red Sox is said to be the hardest hitter in baseball today. Six or seven years ago, when Babe Ruth was still in the game, ball players agreed that Ruth was the hardest hitting left-hand batsman and Fox the hardest hitting right-hand hitter.

GREAT STALLION Following Gallahad's victory in the Kentucky Derby this year, the demand for yearlings sired by Sir Gallahad 3rd is expected to be greater than ever. Few greater stallions ever stood in this country.

Toronto in First Place Ont. Hockey

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP)—They're not as classy as the Toronto Goodyears of last season but Toronto Marlboroughs are in the same position today as the Goodyears were all last Winter—first place in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior "A" division.

Auburn and Georgia are the South's oldest football rivals, having played the first college game in the deep South forty-nine years back.

Achizener Expected to Develop High-Powered Dynamiler Machine

KIMBERLEY, B. C., Nov. 19 (CP)—Johnny Achizener, who coached Kimberley Dynamilers to the Canadian championship in 1936 and the world title the following year, has returned to coach the squad this year, and although he's not promising an Allan Cup winner, he thinks a speedy high-powered machine can be built from the material he has to work with.

Plans to Re-Establish Canadian Naval College

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP)—Canada will again have a naval college, says Minister Macdonald today. Speaking in the debate on the address in reply to the throne speech, the minister said "I am happy to be able to say, with the concurrence of the Prime Minister and my colleagues, that we propose to re-establish a Canadian naval college."

"To this college will resort young men who wish to adopt the naval profession as their life's work," the Navy Minister added. "During the war period no other type of work can be attempted at such a college."

The Navy Minister did not say where the college would be established but he referred to the naval college established in Halifax in 1910 and abandoned after the Halifax explosion in 1917.

After that classes continued for a year at the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., and for a few years subsequently at a temporary college building in Esquimalt, B.C. The minister also said he hoped to have 255 naval units and 23,000 all ranks in the Canadian Navy by the Spring of 1942 and announced the government planned a program for construction of destroyers and possibly cruisers in Canadian shipyards.

Mr. Macdonald said there was high authority for the opinion that a naval college should never concern itself with anything else than the training of men for service in the navy.

"The whole project is as yet far from being fully developed in my own mind and it may be that the institution will be an exclusively naval institution," he said.

"On the other hand it may be that after the war it will become a place to which young men who wish to train for the merchant service can go and receive the training necessary to fit them for that important life of seafaring work."

The minister, speaking of the government's plans to build up a navy "that will not be unworthy of Canada," officered and manned by men trained in Canada, said that to get such men the naval college would be needed.

He told the House the Canadian Navy had an active service strength of 1,830 officers and 11,533 other ranks, or a total of 13,373 compared with 1,774 all ranks at the outbreak of war.

There were 798 of all ranks from the Canadian Navy serving in Great Britain or in British ships.

The Canadian naval fleet had 18 units at the start of the war to 183 "all types at the moment."

Turning to the Navy's duties, Mr. Macdonald said they were three: the convoy and control of movement of British merchant shipping to and from North America; the patrol and protection of Canada's own coast, and co-operation with the British Navy in European and other waters.

Italians Belittle Greek Successes

ROME, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Italian high command issued the following communique Tuesday:

"Sharp fights took place yesterday on the Epirus front which failed to move the respective lines excepting in the zone of Ezeqi where the village was occupied by the enemy."

A Greek communique announced the capture of new positions by Greek forces on several sectors of the front.

"In North Africa, our air force bombed with high explosives and shrapnel bombs and machine-gunned enemy aerodromes, works, defence works and barracks in the oasis of Elms, hitting all objectives and causing enormous damage. All of our planes returned."

"Enemy aircraft dropped bombs on Tobruk and Bardia without results and on Salum, where three persons were killed and five injured."

"In the Dodecanese, the enemy attempted to gain possession of the islands of Gaidaro. Quick reaction of our land, sea and air forces chased off the enemy, who retreated rapidly."

"A Greek communique indicated there was a small scale raid by a Greek civilian force in which Italian prisoners were taken before the raiders withdrew."

"In East Africa, enemy air raids on Agordat, Corondil, Buna and Sherelle failed to have serious results."

CRANBROOK, B.C., Nov. 18 (CP)—Relief costs for the city during October amounted to $530; a 13 per cent drop as compared with September, and less than half of the total for October 1939.

Recruiting and an increase in mining and lumbering activities in the district are believed to be responsible for the drop.

TO PROBE COMMUNIST MAGAZINE ARTICLE

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP)—The Government was asked today whether it had taken steps yet against Canadian Chambers of Commerce for an article appearing in the magazine, Canadian Business, allegedly advocating Communism for Canada.

The question was raised in the Commons by Norman Jacques (N.D., Wellesville). He said an article entitled "The U.S. and Us" had appeared in the magazine of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which, in effect, Communism for Canada.

Justice Minister Lapointe, smiling broadly, said his Department would examine the article in question. But, he said, he found it difficult to believe the Chamber of Commerce or the Canadian Manufacturers' Association had turned Bolshevik.

TO PROBE LENIENCY REPORT ON PRISONER

Britain Refuses to Comment on Germany's Claims

BERLIN, Nov. 19 (AP)—Tuesday's German high command communique:

"A submarine sank four armed enemy merchant ships totalling 33,880 tons, and another submarine also sank four armed merchantmen, two of which were oil tankers, totalling 21,340 tons."

(The British Admiralty does not comment on individual enemy claims of merchant ship sinkings. Actual losses have been running less than half the tonnage claimed by the enemy to have been sunk.)

"The attack on war-essential objectives in England continued the night of Nov. 17 and the day of Nov. 18."

"Battle planes of the Italian flying corps attacked a city on the East coast of England with good results. It was possible during an attack on ships in convoys off the British East coast to sink two merchant ships, each of 3000 tons, and heavily damaged three other ships."

"Nocturnal attacks of a restricted number of British planes on Reich territory had no effect."

(The British Air Ministry announced that the synthetic oil works at Leuna, near Leipzig, were attacked with "good results.")

"No plane losses occurred."

Thirteen Ships Are Lost During Week

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP)—Thirteen merchant ships totalling 71,740 tons were lost through "enemy action" in the week ending Nov. 10-11, the Admiralty announced today. They included 10 British vessels totalling 61,202 tons, one allied of 1,930 tons and two neutral totalling 9,608 tons.

The figures included four ships sunk when a still unidentified German raider attacked a convoy of 38 ships guarded by the armed merchant cruiser Jervis Bay Nov. 5 in the Atlantic and a fifth vessel of the convoy which was attacked later from the air and abandoned.

The Admiralty said that during the week ending Nov. 10-11 Germany claimed to have sunk 140,414 tons of merchant shipping.

The average weekly loss of British, allied and neutral shipping through enemy action has been 58,575 tons.

The week's sinkings raised the weekly average since the war began from 58,575 tons to 58,787 tons, and brought the total sunk since the outbreak of war to 3,844,835 tons.

The enemy, up to Oct. 31, had lost a total of 1,542,000 tons of merchant shipping—a much larger percentage of enemy shipping than British, allied and neutral losses have been of their merchant fleets.

Trainees to Leave Thursday Morning for Vernon Camp

Young men aged 23 are packing up and preparing to leave their homes to do khaki and live in barracks for a month. The second class of trainees under Canada's compulsory military training plan is scheduled to open a 30-day training period Friday.

Special coaches attached to Thursday morning's Westbound C.P.R. train will carry 200 of these young men, in the district from the Crow's Nest to Penticton, on the first leg of their journey. After an overnight stop at Penticton, where the railway cars will be sidetracked for them to sleep in, they will continue on to Vernon Friday morning by bus.

It is anticipated that the largest contingents for this class will be from Trail and Roseland, where a large proportion of the young men of the Kootenay-Boundary are employed. The number of Nelson men called for the next period of training is described as exceptionally small.

Mrs. McAskill of Salmo Is Laid at Rest at Nelson

Funeral of Mrs. Agnes McAskill of Salmo, who died suddenly at Nelson Saturday, was held Tuesday afternoon from the First Presbyterian Church, interment being made at the Nelson Memorial Park.

Rev. James Forbes-Robertson conducted the services at the church and at the graveside. "Abide With Me" was the hymn chosen.

Funeral services were held for Archibald Gray, John McAskill, James Morrison, George McLennan and Robert Sainsbury.

Nelson and Salmo friends joined in paying their last respects to Mrs.
McAskill. She leaves her husband, a son and daughter, and a married sister, all residing at Salmo.

Nazi Bombers Turn Party Into Hospital

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, — (CP).—Gladys Ayling, 30, spends long hours at a first-aid post but she also constituted herself as a "mother" to a group of Royal Air Force men stationed nearby. They were given a great bunch that she decided to hold a party and went over to the camp to invite them.

Two minutes after Gladys returned to her job the telephone rang and a voice droned "casualty list."
The R.A.F. post had been hit and the first names she copied down were to have attended the party.
Then she went out to receive them as they were brought in on stretchers. She passed from stretcher to stretcher. To those who were conscious she murmured words of comfort.

"Several of the boys have been to my home and we were all so happy that I decided to give a party," she said. "I went across to their station and we talked about it. I hadn't left more than a couple of minutes when those German murderers dropped the bomb. I knew there were casualties but I didn't know it was the boys. It was heartbreaking."

LONDON (CP).—Pilot Officer
Frederick King, credited with being the first air gunner to shoot down a German bomber, has been reportedly missing. He has won his commission since the feat, and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.

Widely Known American Mining Man Dies at New Denver From Injuries

Herbert Julius Salinger of San Francisco, Vice-President of the Metals and Ores Corporation of San Francisco, and widely-known figure in United States and Canadian mining circles, Monday night in the Slocan Community Hospital at New Denver succumbed to injuries sustained in a car accident on the Nelson-Slocan Highway Armistice
Day. His wife, Mrs. Jeannette Bietry Salinger, who flew from San Francisco when informed of the accident, was at her husband's bedside when he died.

Mr. Salinger and M. W. Woolley of United States Smelting Company of Salt Lake City, Utah, were driving from Nelson to Silverton on business connected with the Mammoth Mine when the tragedy occurred. The car, apparently getting out of control on the icy road surface, crashed through the railing of a bridge about three miles south of Silverton. Both men were rushed to the Hospital at New Denver, and Mr. Woolley, who suffered only slight injuries, was released a few days later.

AUTHORITY ON ZINC
Starting his career in Cobalt, Ont., shortly after graduating as a mining engineer from Columbia University, New York, Mr. Salinger took an outstanding part in mining throughout the United States and Canada.
He was identified with large mining enterprises in Salt Lake City for years, and for three years, 1927-30 in Toronto. With the exception of the three years in Toronto, he spent the last 10 years in San Francisco.
He was regarded by his colleagues
as an authority on zinc.

Born in New York City on May 29, 1886, he was 54 years of age.
During the Great War he enlisted with the American Army, but did not serve overseas. He was married in San Francisco in August, 1924.
His wife, Mrs. Jeannette Bietry Salinger, has been active in art and journalistic circles. She was a writer for The Canadian Press, Canadian Forum, and the former Toronto Mail and Empire. Some time ago she toured Canada as a lecturer for the Women's Canadian Club.

Besides his wife, four sons, Pierre, Herbert, George and Richard in San Francisco; his mother, Mrs. Emil Salinger, and a brother, Edgar, of New York, survive him.

The body will leave Nelson by train this afternoon for Spokane, to be flown to San Francisco for burial Saturday.

Purcell's Appearance in Nelson to Draw Fans From All West Kootenay

Ticket Sale for Big Shuttle Show
Is on

Ticket sales for the badminton exhibition in Nelson November 28 by Jack Purcell, internationally regarded as the greatest stylist the game has ever seen and still one of its top players, will start in earnest today. Ron Andrews, President of the Nelson Badminton Club, said Tuesday. Tickets will be sold by Nelson club members.

One of the greatest events of the year on the Nelson sporting calendar the exhibition, one of a series in a Western Canadian tour for the Canadian Red Cross, is expected to draw in the neighborhood of 500 patrons. Andrews said that badminton clubs at Trail, Roseland, in the Salmo Valley, in the Slocan Valley, along the West Arm and on the Main Lake had been written urging their members to attend the Nelson show.

The "Peerless Purcell", who only last Winter was upset by a young star to lose the world's professional title which he had held for years, is regarded as the most complete player the modern game of badminton has produced. His exhibition tours have been held responsible for the widespread growth of the game's popularity in the United States.

STARTED IN 1924
Jack Purcell began playing badminton in Guelph, Ont., in 1924, and entered his first Canadian championship tournament at Ottawa the following year, only to be defeated in the first round of every event. During the next five years, however, he captured every title of importance in the Province of Ontario, winning the men's singles championship five consecutive times and the mixed doubles four years in a row.

From 1928 to 1930 Purcell dominated the Canadian amateur field, carrying off the national singles title twice, the Granite Club Toronto invitation tournament three times, besides winning numerous doubles and mixed events.

1930 PEAK YEAR
The year 1930 was Purcell's peak year as an amateur, for in addition to retaining his Canadian singles title, he met on successive nights the four leading British amateur stars who were then touring Canada—D. C. Hume, R. C. F. Nichols, R. M. White and J. F. Devin—and defeated each of them in that order, losing a game only to Nichols.

These four Britishers have between them monopolized the All-England singles championship for the past 19 years.

Early in 1930, Purcell visited England and accomplished something no other visiting player every had done. He won the Surrey doubles championship (with K. G. Livingstone) and the West of England singles.

BECAME PRO
In the Fall of 1931, Purcell was suspended by the Canadian Badminton Association for writing instructional articles on the game and engaging in the sporting goods business.

He immediately abandoned his amateur status and the following year took part in active competition with the leading Canadian,
American and British professionals,
all of whom he decisively defeated.
Following these successes he was conceded the title of world's professional champion, and defended this title against all comers until last Spring.

In recent years he has appeared in exhibition matches in the United States from coast to coast. It is some time since he played in Western Canada, but he has had exhibitions regularly each year in Eastern Canada with the top-ranking Canadians.

Although in his 37th year Purcell has maintained a consistent interest in singles as well as doubles and still plays both enthusiastically.

The strength of his game lies in perfect co-ordination and timing, ability to move around the court easily and gracefully and in his ability to deceive opponents.

Juve Stars Turn Out With Leafs

So impressed was Bob Gilmour with the ability of Doug Winlaw and Harold Tapanila when he viewed a recent practice of the Nelson Juveniles, B. C. champs, that he has asked the pair to turn out to work-outs of the Senior Maple Leafs.

Practice with the Seniors will greatly help Winlaw and Tapanila for it will develop their speed, and they can't help but learn a lot by familiarizing themselves with the style of Gilmour's club. They will continue to play in the Juveniles League, for there is obviously no intention to promote them this year, but it will help them for the future.

Bud Emery, with the juvenile champs last season and now in Calgary, turned out with the Maple Leafs for a good part of last season to better his ability.

Catholic League of South Slocan Has Tea

SOUTH SLOCAN, B. C.—The new Parish Hall was the scene of the Catholic Women's League of the Sacred Heart Church annual tea and prize drawing. The hall was attractive with prettily arranged tables. The large serving table at which Mrs. Val Koslanec poured tea was centred with a silver bucket of pink and white button mums, with pink tapers in pink sconces.

Serving sides were Mrs. Norman Roberts, Mrs. H. Hiltz, Mrs. P.
Horlick, Mrs. E. Marshall, Mrs. H.
Tutt and Mrs. M. Paucheson, Convener. Mrs. R. G. Elliott presided at the novelty stall. Mrs. George M. Helberque had charge of the tickets for the prize drawing. Rev.
Father Boyd of Nelson was Chairman. Miss Florence Nixon drew the tickets. Mrs. G. A. Platt won the table lamp, Mrs. H. Hiltz the bed throw. Mrs. H. D. Clark, clock and Mrs. J. Koslanec, two pairs of socks.

Hereafter the zone tournament will be of at least two consecutive days' duration. Arrangement of events will be up to the host club, provided no skier has to jump and ski in another event the same day.

Junior competition will also be emphasized in the future. A class of juniors from 14 to 18 years will be provided in future zone tournaments these juniors to be chosen on ability.

WANT QUALIFIED JUDGES
The zone secretary will write the Technical Ski Board in Vancouver, regarding the procedure in training and examining judges in order that clubs in the Kootenays might have qualified judges for tournaments.

It is hoped to obtain one or two movie films and have them shown to Kootenay skiers.

The secretary will write the Canadian Association regarding standard medals for zone tournaments.
The financial report showed that $50.97 was still in the treasury, receipts during the past season amounting to $78.40 against disbursements of $27.43.

Attending the meeting were Paul Jones of Trail, Thomas Anderson and Fred McKim of Kimberley, Harold Fox and Pete Fowler of Roseland and Dan McKay and Bob Brown of Nelson.

Kin Donates $10

ized following the reading of a letter from S. A. Maddocks, Treasurer of the Branch, asking aid in meeting the Branch's expenses.
