BRITISH MILITIA TO BE MADE REAL ARMY

IDAHO FARMERS BAR OUT 6-FOOT STORAGE

NEW PLAN WILL PRODUCE MODERN ARMY FOR REINFORCING REGULAR ARMY BY UNITS; COULD ALSO BE SENT TO DUTY ON THE CONTINENT

Deficiencies Shown by Crisis to Be "Made Good"

EQUIPMENT WILL BE REMEDIED

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Leslie Hore-Belisha, war secretary, tonight announced complete reorganization of the territorial army, Great Britain's home defence force, to put it on a regular army footing.

Disclosing the changes at an officers' dinner, the minister acted swiftly following the pledge last week of Prime Minister Chamberlain to "make good our deficiencies" shown during the European crisis.

Mr. Hore-Belisha said reorganization would "produce an up-to-date army capable of reinforcing the regular army by units or formations."

Up to now the territorial army, volunteer, part-time force of about 200,000 men, has been regarded as a purely home defence organization.

SOVIET AVIATION HEADS DENOUNCE STATEMENTS OF COL. LINDBERGH

British Circles Said to Have Instructed Lindbergh

"SUCH LIES ONLY MAKE US LAUGH"

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP)—Eleven Soviet aviation leaders denounced Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today in a letter which referred to alleged statements by the United States flier published in London after he visited Moscow in August.

(Col. Lindbergh declined comment when he arrived Monday in Rotterdam with Mrs. Lindbergh, en route from France to Berlin for the annual session of the Lilienthal society for aerial research.

(Neither in Moscow, where the couple visited Aug. 17-26, nor subsequently has there been any public statement by Col. Lindbergh on his Russian trip or any other subject.

(The statements attributed to him in the Soviet airmen's letter were of the same tenor as an article in the Oct. 5 issue of "The Week", leftist publication published in London.

Hungary Claims Cause Deadlock

KOMAROM, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 10 (AP) — Negotiations between Czechoslovakia and Hungary for settlement of Hungary's minority claims in Czechoslovakia were reported at the breaking point tonight because delegates of the Prague government considered Hungarian demands "outrageous".

The Czechoslovaks offered about 20 per cent of the territory demanded and suggested discussions of other demands be continued in another conference within two months.

It was understood the Hungarian "minimum claims" include some territory in Carpatho-Russia, extreme eastern portion of Czechoslovakia, which would give Hungary free access to the Polish border on the north.

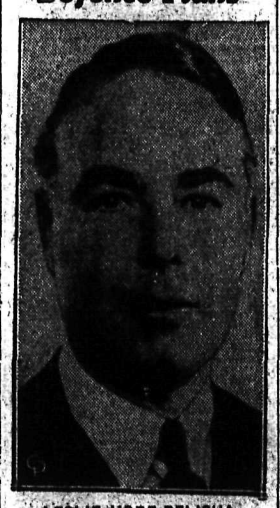
Six Feet or Nothing Is Power Company Answer

Bonners Ferry Hearing by International Joint Commission Contentions; Petition Signers Start With Four

Announces New Defence Plans



LESLIE HORE-BELISHA

Leslie Hore-Belisha, war secretary, last night announced a complete reorganization of the territorial army, Great Britain's home defence force, to put it on a regular army footing. (See story elsewhere on this page).

BONNER'S FERRY, Idaho, Oct. 10—The West Kootenay Power & Light company's application for a licence to store six feet of water in the fall and winter months in Kootenay lake met with some opposition on the opening of the two day sitting of the international joint commission here today.

Practically all the evidence given by Idaho land owners favored four feet of storage, with an increase to six feet if no serious inconvenience was incurred either from extra pumping or low land flooding from seepage.

GROHMAN CREEK DEEPENING

The company's application for storage carries with it a guarantee to remove 250,000 yards of rock and gravel at Grohman creek, which would carry off the spring flood waters almost as fast as they flow into Kootenay lake, and this feature has a strong appeal to the farmers—but seemingly not quite enough to secure landowners' consent to six feet of storage.

Peace Hopes High as Rearmament Continues

Despite the high hopes of Prime Minister Chamberlain for continued peace in Europe, England has no intention of weakening her defences according to reports emanating from British governmental circles. Construction of bomb-proof shelters is continuing in Hyde Park and other sections of London as well as throughout other parts of England. Rescue parties searched tonight for some of the bodies, said by an eyewitness to have hurtled from the plane after it became disabled while flying through fog and rain on its regular Brussels-Essen-Berlin run.

The pilot, Joseph Van Den Eynde, 34, who was personal pilot for the late Queen Astrid of Belgium, had flown more than 1,000,000 kilometres (621,000 miles) during the last 13 years in the service of Sabena, Belgian airline company which operated the plane.

PLANE HITS HIGH POWER LINES BUT ABLE TO FLY ON

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 10 (AP) —Aviators used to say it was a good landing if you could walk away from it. But no aeronautic axiom could be discovered to cover a collision Saturday that by all odds should have ended in disaster but as a matter of fact did not even stop the airplane.

An unidentified aviator late Saturday collided with a 120,000 volt power line and flew away from the crash.

Two hedge-hopping airplanes were flying low over the Umpqua river according to H. C. Grunow and Isadore Inda, farmers. They swooped up over a suspension bridge at the C. L. Beckley ranch. The leading plane turned sharply and was into the power line span across the river before the pilot realized it.

The farmers said the ship struck and a great ball of fire appeared in midair as the lines were sheared. The plane fluttered drunkenly, then zoomed upward and continued on its way.

The mine production of gold by the United States in 1937 and not including that of the Philippines and Puerto Rico was estimated in a preliminary report at 4,057,884 fine ounces.

To Investigate Fraser Valley Air Crash Today

LANGLEY PRAIRIE, B.C., Oct. 10 (CP)—An inquest will be held here tomorrow into the deaths of Arthur Raynard and Ted Rashleigh, amateur fliers killed yesterday when their two-seater plane failed to come out of a spin and crashed near an emergency field here.

Raynard, 26-year-old pilot, at the controls at the time of the crash, was a resident of Strawberry Hill, 15 miles west of this Fraser Valley town. Rashleigh, a passenger, lived at Newton another nearby Fraser Valley settlement.

Police Chief R. Macklin of Langley Prairie said Raynard borrowed the machine from its owner, Leonard S. Milne of New Westminster, B.C.

Witnesses said the fliers had come out of a loop when the ship went into a spin. The pilot gunned the motor in an attempt to gain altitude but the machine nosed over and fell about 500 feet, landing on its nose. Both men were killed instantly.

Such a rate would be the maximum permitted under the crop control law, which provides for price-bolstering loans to farmers. The 61-cent figure would be four cents more than the rate the department indicated several weeks ago it was prepared to establish.

Punishment Planned for Nazis In Attack on Cardinal Innitzer

VIENNA, Oct. 10 (AP)— Joseph Buerckel, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's commissioner for Austria, was understood to have returned to Vienna today intent upon sending to concentration camps persons responsible for Nazi attacks upon 62-year-old Theodore Cardinal Innitzer. The attacks are "deeply regretted" in official Germany, it was said.

The agency Dienst Aus Deutschland in an inspired article from Berlin said Buerckel had "taken most vigorous action" against demonstrations including that Saturday night, when the cardinal was cut by flying glass in the stoning of his palace in St. Stephen's square by Nazi mobs.

All churches and parochial offices in Vienna were being guarded tonight by police or storm troopers to prevent attack "by radical anti-Catholic elements."

St. Stephen's square tonight again was the goal of hundreds of promenaders. Police cleared the square and drew a cordon around it, permitting neither pedestrians nor carriages to pass.

Only persons able to show they were residents of the roped-off area or had urgent business in it were permitted to pass.

The cathedral was in darkness, with no lights visible through the windows.

(In Vatican City today news of the attack upon Cardinal Innitzer created a "painful" impression, church circles said. Full details of the incident were awaited by the Vatican before making a decision on a formal protest.)

Informed circles charged that youthful elements took advantage of "general indignation" caused by a sermon preached Friday night by the cardinal.

Buerckel planned to investigate the circumstances of the sermon, it was said.

GERMAN ARMY GAINS COMPLETE CONTROL OF ALL SUDETEN AREA

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP)—The German army tonight had complete control of all Sudeten German territory awarded from Czechoslovakia by the Munich four-power accord and decisions of the international commission sitting in Berlin.

"Within 10 days the national change of title to Sudetenland was accomplished," Dienst aus Deutschland observed, "and nowhere were there incidents worth mentioning, although the atmosphere had become decidedly heated through events preceding."

Dienst aus Deutschland reflects the general attitude of both official and unofficial Germany.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler in a Sunday address at Saarbruecken inferentially placed at 10,000 square miles the amount of Czechoslovak territory occupied. Unofficial estimates had placed it at 11,500 square miles.

STAFF CHIEF OF BULGARIAN ARMY IS ASSASSINATED IN SOFIA STREET

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 10 (AP) — The chief of staff of the Bulgarian army, Maj.-Gen. Yordan Peyeff, was shot to death in a Sofia street today by a two-gun assassin who then tried to kill himself.

Gen. Peyeff, 55, died en route to a hospital. He had six bullet wounds. His adjutant, Major Stoyanoff, also was struck by some of a full dozen shots fired and was hospitalized in a serious condition.

The shots were fired by a man who gave his name as Stoil Kiroff, 33. He was expected to die from self-inflicted wounds.

Rumors that Kiroff was a former official and political conspirator who was recently released from jail were discredited by police. They were investigating, however, the possibility the assassin belonged to "Imro," a terroristic organization which played an important role formerly in Bulgarian politics.

Gen. Peyeff apparently was well liked in the army because he seemed entirely disinterested in politics.

The Bulgarian press feared the murder might start a feud similar to the Macedonian terror which rocked the country until several years ago.

Eye-witnesses said the slayer held a pistol in each hand, firing a stream of shots from each.

Major Stoyanoff wheeled around and flung himself in front of his chief.

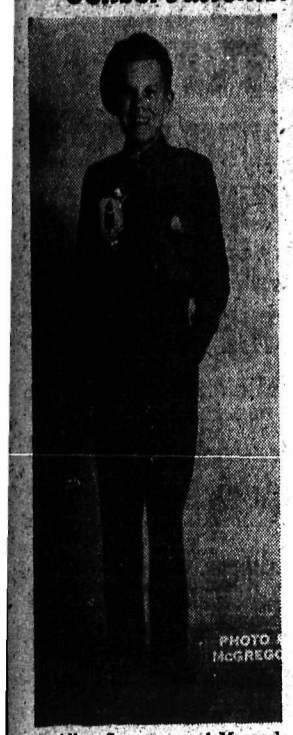
ROSSLAND LADY HAS IDEA FOR PUBLIC LIBRARY FOR ROSSLAND

A Young Harrop Conservationist



Allan Serres, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Serres of Harrop, wearing his tree patch and forest service shield as a junior fire warden, and also an infectious smile.

Would Make Start With Donated Volumes

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 10—Mrs. H. M. Bates, formerly from the prairie provinces, plans to approach the Rossland junior board of trade at its next session to discuss possibilities of founding a library in Rossland.

"It's nearly a crime," Mrs. Bates stated, "that such a progressive city as Rossland, with a population of nearly 4000, is without a public library. With the scheme I have in mind I feel certain that if a committee of public-minded citizens got their heads together, a library in Rossland could be established with little or no expense."

She was informed of a library movement here two years back in which the promoters sought funds wherewith to purchase books.

"That is not my idea," she elaborated. "If the committee members could canvass the homes here for contributions of one or two books or a dozen books, a library of several hundred could be accumulated in a very short time. Some families would give one volume; others would give several. When a good number of volumes were collected, they could be placed in a convenient and central building for the public to draw. The court house, I understand has several spare rooms. A library could be established there," she suggested.

"Library cards," Mrs. Bates said, could be sold for, say, 10 cents a card where there is space for listing of some 30 books or less. When the reader has filled that card he buys another and so on. A time limit for books drawn could be set accordingly. This money the librarian would keep as salary.

VARIOUS SUPPLIES OFFERED

Such a scheme went over well in her home town, Mrs. Bates said. Once a community shows interest in such a proposal, organizations rally to the fore to assist. The government made a handsome grant for books there. Canadian book clubs sent novels gratis. Doctors and other professional men who subscribed to various magazines left them with the librarian for public use. Contributions of periodicals kept the library sufficiently in stock of current literature.

In Rossland several organizations have libraries. Rossland high school and MacLean public school each have one. St. George's Anglican, St. Andrew's United and the Roman Catholic Sunday schools have libraries.

According to T. H. Brown, an oldtimer, there was a library here at the beginning of the century. It was founded on the same principle as suggested by Mrs. Bates. Where those books went, Mr. Brown has no idea.

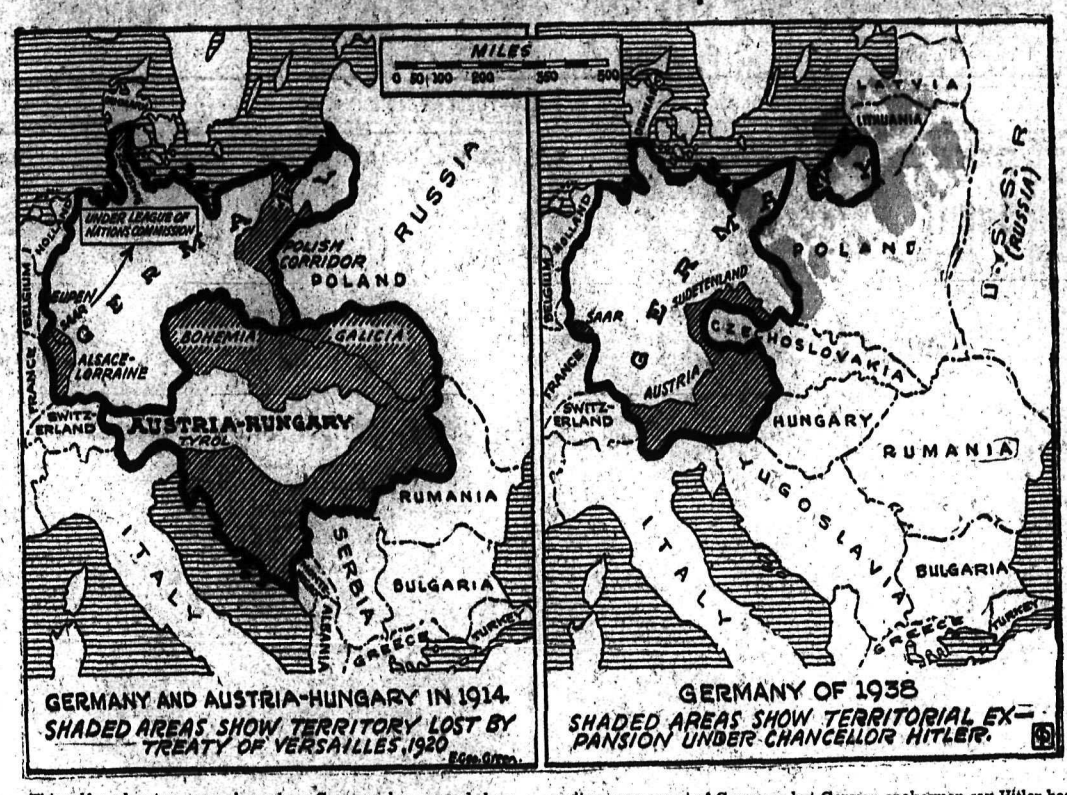
How Germany Has Expanded Under the Leadership of Adolf Hitler



This self-explanatory map shows how Germany has expanded under Fuehrer Adolf Hitler. The German fuehrer has acquired the Saar basin by plebiscite; Austria by bloodless conquest and the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia by threat and negotiation. There are six remaining regions once a part of Germany, but German spokesmen say Hitler has no intentions of making moves to bring them back into the German fold. The six are the Polish Corridor, Eupen, Schleswig, the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, the Tyrol area of northern Italy and the Transylvania area of Rumania. The map shows these areas.

Junior Lacrosse Title Goes East as Mimico Wins

Coast Juniors Lose Third Game by 16-10 Score

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10 (CP) — Mimico Mountaineers tonight won the Minto cup and the Dominion junior lacrosse championship when they defeated Richmond-Point Grey 16-10 in the best-of-five series. The easterners won three straight games after the suburban Vancouver team had taken the first.

The victory retained for Ontario the Minto trophy set up last season for junior competition and won by Orillia Baby Terriers who bested Vancouver Bluebirds in the final series.

Mountaineers, who dropped the opening game 18-16, only to come through with two straight wins prior to tonght again proved too finished for the British Columbia club.

The easterners led from the start, finishing the first quarter with a 4-2 advantage and leading 8-2 at half time.

From then on they took over command of play and when the teams started the final quarter Mimico led 12-5.

The coast team started a great rally in the last period but it fell far short as the polished visitors tightened up.

Thanksgiving in Nelson Is a Little Damp

Nelson observed Thanksgiving day to the usual accompaniment of chicken and turkey dinners.

Rain and general bad weather spoiled the holiday somewhat; nevertheless, restaurants did a roaring business, while many homes had their annual family gatherings, climaxed by the big feast, most important at least to the children.

At the Cathedral of Mary Immaculate, the customary early morning mass was held.

A public service was held in the First Church of Christ Scientist in the morning.

On Sunday congregations of the other churches took part in special Thanksgiving services.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Murder and Manslaughter Cases Feature Assizes Opening Today

Chief Justice Here From Coast to Preside

Nelson fall assizes open this morning at 11, with Chief Justice Morrison of the supreme court bench presiding. His lordship arrived Monday night from the coast. Two criminal cases, charging murder and manslaughter, respectively, will be heard by judge and jury, and two undefended petitions for divorce will be heard by his lordship. E. P. Dawson is crown prosecutor.

Seth Olov Daniel Ostlund, Idaho logger, is charged with the murder of Mrs. Laura Green of Nelson, whose battered body was found at Taghum on the morning of July 15. Ostlund's counsel will be Robert D. Macaulay, Nelson.

Olaf Floysvik of Trail is charged with manslaughter, arising out of the death of Joe Caronni who was killed when struck by a motor car on the paproach to Taghum bridge on the night of June 25. Floysvik will be represented by Parker Williams, Trail.

Anna I. Steele of Nelson petitions for a divorce from Robert H. Steele, naming Myrtle Cather as co-respondent. C. B. Garland appears for Mrs. Steele.

Ida Frances Bentley of Rossland is petitioning for a divorce from Norman Stanwood Bentley, and names Joy Thompson as co-respondent. The petitioner's counsel is A. G. Cameron of Trail.

This is the first assize for many years that there have been no ordinary civil suits, and the first assize for probably a decade that has had so few divorce petitions.

Trail Sports Drowned Out Thanksgiving

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 10—Thanksgiving day was spent quietly at home by most Trailites, in festive dinners, at the movies or in home entertainment.

With the threat of wet weather hanging over the city all day long, sports and planned picnics took a back seat, and later, sport areas, the Rossland-Trail Golf and Country club links, and numerous tennis courts, were cleared by a heavy downpour, which starting at 4:30 p.m. lasted well into the night.

Annual exodus from the city for family reunions in other parts, traditional of Thanksgiving, was hardly equal to that of other years.

No Developments in Truck Burning

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 10—No further developments in the investigations of Trail city police and Tadanac municipal police into the burning of Arthur H. Evan's truck last Tuesday were reported here today. Every effort was being put forward in investigations by the two forces however.

SERVICE STATIONS AND YOUR TOWN

IN TRYING to tell you something about the oil business, we do not ask you to believe that it is run by supermen who never make mistakes; however, we believe it is at least as efficient and as ably directed as other important industries where competition demands good service at reasonable cost.

A criticism often directed at our industry is that we have spent too much money on our service stations—"There must be big profits in gasoline when the companies can afford all those stations." That is what people sometimes say.

After all, it is natural for you to think this if you have not been told the facts. Frankly, we admit it is we who are to blame if you don't know the truth.

To begin with, the oil companies did not build all the service stations you see around the country. The oil companies own less than 12 out of every 100 of the places where gasoline is sold. Private enterprise and private capital — your fellow-townsmen, for instance — own the great majority of them.

Such people have invested their money in a retail business enterprise in your community, and what has been the result?—bright, attractive, highly specialized "stores", where motorists can buy the brands of gasoline, oils, tires, batteries and other things they prefer—"stores" that invite visitors to stop for a while in your town and to spend their money there, thus helping to make your community more prosperous—"stores" that give employment to men who might otherwise be unemployed, to your cost as a taxpayer—"stores" that provide restrooms and conveniences that might otherwise have to be paid for from the tax revenues of your community.

Now what do these stores cost the gasoline buyer?

You know that your butcher, your grocer, your hardware man, all make their living by buying goods in large quantities and selling to you in smaller quantities, charging you more, of course, than they paid so that they may cover the cost of the service they render, and earn a reward for their labor and enterprise.

The average storekeeper sells ordinary goods at a gross profit of 25% to 30%. Well, your neighboring service station operator gets no more, and sometimes less. In many cases he would not be able to carry on his business if he depended only on his profits from gasoline; that is one reason why he sells oil and other products and services. That, too, is a reason why in many cases the oil companies help the dealer to keep his place bright and attractive by providing signs and by painting his premises. But do not think that just because a place is painted in the oil company's colors it is owned by the oil company. In most cases that is not so.

Are there too many service stations?

Some may think so, but it might also be argued that there are too many butchers and bakers, too many farmers, mechanics, lawyers and doctors. How would it benefit you to have fewer of them? What would you do with the people displaced from occupation? Put them on relief? Then the taxes of those still occupied would have to be increased, and would offset any theoretical "economies."

So do not assume that because there are many "service stations" you, as a consumer of gasoline, are "paying the piper." "Service stations" pay taxes on land that might otherwise be non-productive, they provide necessary service, they give employment and they circulate money in your district. All this is to your advantage and entails negligible addition in cost of gasoline to the consumer.

The fact that the price of gasoline in British Columbia compares so favorably with prices elsewhere should alone be enough to prove this.

Parents Should Not Gratify All Wishes of Child

CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Eight years ago I married a man with a little girl nine years old who had never had a day's schooling. I took my nest egg, built a small cottage and then went to work so we could put the child in school. My husband is a sober man with many fine traits but he isn't a money-maker and the heavy end of the financial responsibility for the family has fallen on me. If the little girl had been my very own I couldn't have worked harder or sacrificed more for her and I ask no credit for this. She is now seventeen and is begging to quit school and go to work so she can have clothes and spending money like her companions. Her father thinks she should have everything she wants, regardless, and is urging me to continue working so she can remain in school and at the same time have the sort of clothes she's been deprived of and spending money, too. I am awfully tired of the grind and had planned to retire this fall and now this question comes up. Please say what you think of the plan.

IN-A-QUANDARY.

Answer:

Can't you have a heart-to-heart talk with the child, explain to her how you have worked for eight years to put her where she is and now that you are tired you hope very much that she will agree to go on with her schooling, accept the privations which her father's financial status necessitates and show you both that your sacrifices haven't been in vain?

You see a step-mother with husband and child ganged up against her has a hard time and if there's anything in reason she can do to avoid this impass it should be done. However it isn't reasonable for a man who hasn't fully supported his family to ask a second wife to work and supply luxuries for his child, when she has already done a mother's part by the girl.

Anybody with a heart must sympathize with a seventeen-year-old who can't go the pace her companions set. And yet it seems to me a questionable procedure to bribe her to finish school with promises of luxuries which she knows her family cannot afford.

If she were willing to put a step-mother's nose to the grindstone to buy her furbelows and fixings, right there would be positive proof that already too much had been done for her and she was spoiled in consequence. And while it's bitter to a father to see his child deprived of luxuries he would like to give her, wonder if he has the right to let her grow up believing that her every wish can be gratified regardless of what it costs her dear ones?

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Mechanism of Asthma Known But Cause Not

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The tonsils and the nose are classified as parts of the respiratory system, although they have about as much to do with the essential functions of respiration as the steps to your house have to do with your inner life. They have to be classified somewhere, according to the way the minds of scientists work, so since the air you breathe passes over them on the way to the lungs, they are put down in that category.

They share, however, the same unhappy sorrows of the lungs, in that they are subject to innumerable infections. And the nose especially shares the fate or rather, bears the burden of the reaction to foreign particles in the air which cause the curious phenomena of allergy. Allergy is the name given to hypersensitiveness to such things as pollen, dust or plant or animal emanations of any kind. Not everyone—only about 10 per cent of us—is affected in this way.

The familiar example of the condition is hay fever. Pollen from some plant produces in hypersensitive people a swelling of the mucous membrane of the nose; in the lungs it may produce asthma.

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN

The mechanism of asthma is well understood, although the essential cause, so far as the immune reactions in the blood are concerned, is unknown. The mechanism is an upset in the tiny little muscles which surround the bronchial tubes, at their final terminations. These muscles contract, in response to the hypersensitive reaction, causing an obstruction to respiration. The wheezing which sounds so painful to the onlooker is the outward symptom of asthma.

The list of substances floating in the air which can cause asthma is endless. Stories about it are among the choicest in the repertory of the family doctor. One of my own is that of two brothers who conducted grocery stores in two different towns about 50 miles apart. Whenever one of the brothers dropped in to see the other at his place of business, he always was attacked with a spasm of asthma. Nobody ever found out why.

New Fall Makeup . . .

Vivid Colors Harmonize With Warm Skin Tones and Can Suit Everyone

By DONNA GRACE

The season is beginning when you are not going to wear your street dress for the evening festivities but will have the appropriate garb for all formal occasions. Clothes and accessories are so lovely now, with the rich colors and new makeups, everyone is more than willing to conform with the rules of correct costuming.

In former years when we wore vivid shades of violet, fuchsia, cyclamen and purple, there were only a few who felt they could wear them becomingly. Such colors were considered too daring and extreme. With smart makeup, however, any girl can select the colors that appeal to her and wear them in harmony with the color of her rouge, lipstick and powder. The eyes, too, are a part of the picture, and we know what to do about that.

All of the vivid colors harmonize well with a warm skin tone, and this will mean a powder not lighter than the brunette shade. There are some powder and rouge tones made especially for the bright cyclamen, fuchsias and other colors, with more of the blue and vivid combinations than we have been using. It is advisable to use the newer tones if possible.

There is very little of the orange shade used now, even for the red-heads. It is a bit passe nad conspicuous. You will find a number of the new colors suitable for all hair of the copper, bronze and red shades.

THE MAKEUP

When wearing the vivid tones, you will avoid the definite use of rouge. It is necessary to use it but blend it so well that it will have no outline and appear to be a natural healthy coloring. When the skin is the pale, blue-white tone, begin with the foundation and rub it very smoothly until it appears to be a part of the skin. Then the paste or cream rouge is blended carefully over the cheek; a very light coat is used. After that, put on the powder and, last of all, a light coat of dry rouge is patted all over the face, including the forehead.

When the face is thoroughly covered in this way take the powder brush and remove the excess powder. In this way the light coat of dry rouge will be blended with the whole makeup, giving the effect of a beautiful tone.

Hints for Housewives

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Now that winter is on the way again, it might be a good idea to try one of those oven meals that are thrifty of time and cooking heat. A meal such as the one given here is guaranteed to delight the family, so try it soon. It comprises baked stuffed liver, baked potatoes, onions steamed with parsley and butter, and, for dessert, a delectable peach pudding.

Oven Meal

The meat course requires two pounds beef liver, one tablespoon melted butter, one teaspoon salt, half cup chopped celery, one egg, tablespoon water, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, six slices of bread, cubed; one-quarter teaspoon sage and two slices bacon.

Select a thick piece of liver, cut a pocket in it, beginning at the thick end. Mix the other ingredients, except the bacon, and fill the cavity. Skewer the opening together. Roll liver in flour and brown in hot fat.

Place in a small baking pan or casserole, pour over one tablespoon melted butter, one tablespoon salt and one cup meat stock or bouillon. Place two slices bacon over the top.

For the onions you will require six medium-sized onions or four large ones, one-third teaspoon salt, three tablespoons butter, two tablespoons chopped parsley and one-half cup water. Cut onions in half-inch slices; add salt, butter and parsley, and pour over one-half cup water.

Pudding Recipe

To make the pudding you will require wholewheat bread, one No. 2½ can sliced peaches, one cup ground toasted almonds, one quart milk, one and one-third cups sugar, four eggs, teaspoon vanilla and half teaspoon almond flavoring.

Cut wholewheat bread into half-inch slices and butter. Cut into quarters. Line bottom of oiled pan or casserole. Cover with sliced peaches and sprinkle with almonds.

Heat milk, add sugar and add to slightly-beaten eggs; add flavoring. Pour over bread and peach mixture. Place food in a cold oven and cook for one and one-half hours at a 375 F. temperature.

Sausage Loaf

Surprise sausage loaf, scalloped tomatoes and cucumbers and apple-pineapple dessert make another grand oven meal. Incidentally, we might note, these meals are for a six-serving yield. For the sausage loaf there is needed two pounds bulk pork sausage, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, half teaspoon salt and four cups bread crumbs.

Mix all ingredients together well. Line a large loaf pan with the mixture, reserving enough for the top. Fill center with a potato stuffing, made by combining two cups mashed potato, teaspoon salt, teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons chopped pimentos, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, two egg yolks, one-quarter teaspoon pepper and one-quarter cup milk.

Scalloped Tomatoes

For the scalloped tomatoes you will need a No. 2½ can tomatoes, medium-sized cucumber, small onion, half cup cracker crumbs, three tablespoons butter, half teaspoon salt, pepper and half cup grated cheese.

Place a layer of tomatoes in a buttered casserole. Add half of sliced cucumber, sliced onions and crumbs which have been combined with melted butter. Season and repeat layers until all is used, topping with grated cheese. This oven meal cooks in a 375 F. oven for an hour and the food is placed in a cold oven.

Pet Often Proves A Good Builder of Child's Character

Jim is eight. He has always wanted a dog. One day a hungry, ugly looking cur follows Jim and makes friends with him. Jim brings it home, ties it to a rope and feeds the little tramp. Jim is all excited. He sees his dream come true. Here's a dog at last.

You have a serious problem facing you. You are glad the boy has been kind and tender to this stray animal but you don't know anything about the beast; it is not your wish to have a dog around. You may have no place or means by which it can be properly cared for.

You have the task, provided you can't have the dog "adopted", of persuading your boy to give it up. The honest promise of a more desirable dog or of something else might help you succeed. Certainly you don't wish to have the poor dog just turned away.

Before another pet is promised or the child permitted to keep this dog, you will be pretty sure that Jim will care for it continuously. To be sure, he will promise you in all good faith and, for the first few days, he will eagerly care for this pet. But once the novelty has worn off what will happen?

You and I know very well that few children old enough to do so really take responsibility for a pet; its care usually falls to the mother or some other member of the household. All the while the delinquent child may be scolded often every day for his negligence. It is great moral loss for a child of eight or older to have a pet he does not learn to care for regularly.

Suppose that Jim's tearful promises and pleadings had persuaded you to let him keep the stray dog or to get him another one; and suppose that after three days he began to neglect it. To dispose of the dog then is not enough. Jim had pledged to stand by a program. He was taken at his word. Set a future date, say two weeks, up to which time he must care for the dog, following a strict program. Let Jim learn, for instance, that when the dog misses a meal he must miss one, too. Don't talk, act. Be exacting. Jim's character is at stake.

Recruiting for Auxiliary Service Proceeds in the United Kingdom

By MOLLIE McGEE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

LONDON (CP) — Twenty-five thousand women in England were to have the opportunity of serving their country immediately if war came. Detailed plans for organization of a women's army, to be known as the Auxiliary Territorial Service were formally announced by the government during the crisis.

Organization of the A.T.S. is continuing despite easing of the situation by the historic conference at Munich. The plans, which called for the amalgamation of existing organizations, have been worked out since the leaders of women's groups were called to the War Office some months ago.

As announced, this women's army is designed to free men in various non-combatant duties and most of the work follows the lines of that performed during the Great War by the auxiliary organizations known as "WAACS."

Recruiting is going forward for three branches in particular; motor driving, clerical work and general duties—which includes cooking, orderly duties and telephone switchboard work. Members of the A.T.S. will wear uniform on duty and a special badge when in civilian clothes.

All units — to be organized throughout the country—will be divided into two classes, one for general service, one for local work. Members of the first-class volunteer for work at home or abroad, the second class only to serve within reach of their own homes.

Age limit for the general service volunteers is 18 to 45 years and for local service 18 to 50. Officers are required to enrol for an indefinite period and members for four years with option of re-enrolment.

TO DRILL REGULARLY

Companies of the A.T.S. will be employed for service with army units and Royal Air force establishments. Certain special companies composed only of motor drivers or of clerical members will be formed. With these exceptions companies will consist of the requisite proportions of clerical and general duties personnel. During war time women territorials will receive pay. During peace time they will be paid for the time they spend attending 10 obligatory drill periods a year.

Lord Strathcona, parliamentary under-secretary of state, will be a member of the army council responsible for control of the A.T.S. He will be assisted by the deputy director-general, of the Territorial Army, representatives from the War Office, the air ministry and existing women's organizations.

Women (married or single) will be enrolled and not enlisted. All will be required to complete the enrolment form and the names and addresses of two references as to character, one of whom must be a woman, will be furnished by all applicants for enrolment. At present enrolment will be limited as far as possible to women who already are trained in the type of duty they are required to perform.

Aliens are not eligible and any applicants whose applications show that either of the parents of the applicant was not at birth a British subject will be referred to the War Office. A certificate of health from a medical officer must be furnished. Ex-service women must produce their demobilization or discharge papers.

A cooling tower re-cools water used in air conditioning, thus lessening the amount of water required.

Disease, Death Church Themes

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 30:17).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down and prayed; and turning him to the body said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes; and when she saw Peter, she sat up. And he gave her his hand and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her alive." (Acts 9:40, 41).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The great spiritual fact must be brought out that man is, not shall be, perfect and immortal. We must hold forever the consciousness of existence, and sooner or later, through Christ and Christian Science, we must master sin and death. The evidence of man's immortality will become more apparent as material beliefs are given up and the immortal facts of being are admitted."

BLOUSES OFFER BEAUTY AND NEATNESS

By VERA WINSTON

With suits more important than ever, and with a brisk market for the separate blouse and skirt ensemble, the manufacturers have come through with some beauties. The general effect is one of soft neatness and an absence of the frilly and fluffy. To prove this, here are two models just off the boat from Paris. The first is of pink taffeta with looped ends on the high neckline. The blouse is beautifully tailored and fitted. The buttons are self-covered. The high leg-o-mutton sleeve has that smart pushed-up effect. It's nice with black or brown or any of the purplish casts. Another model is in golden yellow cravat silk printed in blue and burgundy circles. There is an incrusted band at the high yoke which ties in a knot end. The detail is repeated at the waist.

AFRAID TO MARRY

By HELEN WELSHIMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Judy Rogers, New York heiress, is looking for a job because her father has been wiped out in a financial crash. When her father goes west with her step-mother, her own mother being abroad and remarried, Judy moves to a small hotel. Heart-broken because Craig Denby, the man she loved, married another girl, she finds solace in the company of Ronald Birrell, brilliant young attorney from Tennessee, who recently joined the firm of her father's lawyers. Afraid of marriage, Judy realizes that is why she lost Craig. When she learns from her best friend, Marjorie, that Craig and Mary, his bride of a few weeks, have separated, Judy calls on Mary and phones Craig in an effort to bring them back together. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 14

It was a normal, friendly conversation such as any two old friends might have that Judy shared with Craig. She pretended that she had called to tell him how much she liked Mary.

"You are lucky, Craig. She's lovely."

"Isn't she, Judy? I knew you would think so, too." He said it reverently, as though he spoke of the Madonna, Easter, or the Christmas star. There were miles of shining wires between the room in which Craig sat, as he talked to Judy and the boudoir at Marjorie's where she lounged on the chaise lounge as she talked. There were long strips of street, and acres of buildings, but across their pulsing beat Judy caught that note of worship. Oh, now she knew. Craig did love Mary. But loyalty to an old devotion had caused him to lose her. He had not failed her, Judy. She would not fail him.

She spoke slowly. "Craig, Marjorie's told me that Mary believed you married too quickly, and should have some time to consider. I know better. I'm sorry."

"Thanks, Judy. Let's forget it, shall we? Maybe Mary grew afraid of her voice. Three days is such a small slice out of a life-time."

"But you are sure?"

"Absolutely!"

"So is she. Go tell her, Craig. She's so helpless and she loves you so."

"Judy, you are about the grandest person—minus one—who ever lived. No, I'll make even one exception."

But Craig did not win his suit with Mary. Marjorie, who flew to the coast for two weeks, told Judy about it when she returned. Judy, meantime, had not found a job. She amused herself on rainy days by making sketches. She revamped some of her own clothes. She sold a set of the Encyclopedia Brittanica so she could eat.

"They were hard to digest mentally, anyway," she consoled the gap in her book shelves. "A hamburger and some beans will be much easier on my system. Besides, there are always libraries with encyclopedias if there is anything I have to know."

Judy decided, as she talked to Marjorie, that she would go to Mary. If it was over her that this foolish misunderstanding had arisen, it was up to her to right it.

One of her black dresses had been renovated merely because she felt creative. She put it on, and hunted for a provocative rose turban in her hat box. A rose coat, short and fitted, finished the ensemble.

"I'll give Craig back to you, Mary Banner," she said under her breath as she rang Mary's bell. "I'll return him all wrapped up in white tissue paper with a big blue bow on the package. Only, Mary, my dear, I never had him. You don't understand that. He loves you. That's why I'm coming. It's real love, Mary. Grasp it tightly. Lock it up. Love—seldom—lasts."

No, that was not right advice. Love must be free. Free to blow where it would. If there were walls, it would climb them. If there were a gate, it would find the latch. Love was like mercury. If you tried to pick it up, it spread and spread. But if you were contented, it stayed quietly with you.

Mary was in. She had been practicing. Her piano held a scattered array of music. Her lounging pajamas were of a dull rose that grew paler beside the vibrant color of Judy's tam and coat.

Judy never knew, afterward, how she led into the subject of her call. She only knew that presently she was saying:

"Craig loves you so, Mary. He told me about it on the telephone two weeks ago. I thought then he would win you back almost at once. I'm an old friend, that's all."

She mustn't remember that once she had regarded him as the old friend, and he had professed his love for her. That was long ago. Last summer. Before he had met a girl with blue-black hair and dark, hurt eyes and a wistful mouth.

"He married me so swiftly. I never even wondered about it. Then I found out—it was you he had known for such a long time."

"But don't you see, Mary Banner? If there had been love between us we had years to make something happen. Don't let him down. He loves you!"

"You think so?" Mary's dark eyes were shining with tears. "Life isn't any good without him."

"Oh, I know," whispered Judy, but the words stayed in her heart. Not any good at all!

"May I tell you how we met?" Mary asked, as though she wanted a confidante. "I'd like to have you know."

Judy had not thought that she would ever know. Yet here was the answer to all her unasked questions.

"I was with my aunt at this house party. It was a large one and the house was palatial—golf course, tennis courts, swimming pool, verandas along the lake, and tea houses. Even a moon that looked as though it had been polished for the occasion."

"I remember — it was a perfect week-end." Yes, she remembered. It was that week-end she had stayed in town, waiting for Craig to hurry home so she could tell him her mind was made up, her heart at peace.

"The hostess was a queer old lady with a sharp tongue who said just what she pleased. She had a touch of rheumatism so I was having tea alone with her in the library one afternoon — Friday it was — when Craig came, hunting a book. The others were swimming."

Judy nodded. Mary was sweet and sympathetic. It would be she that the eccentric hostess would keep from the water sports.

"Mrs. Cabot—the hostess—looked us both over. Then she told Craig it was high time he married. He said he thought so, too, only . . ."

Judy waited, only her heart asking a question.

"He said that the girl he wanted didn't believe in love and marriage. Then Mrs. Cabot said there were other girls, and asked him why he didn't marry me. All the time we were drinking tall glasses of iced tea. Craig looked at me and smiled and laughed at the idea. He said some nice things, oh, perfunctory, expected ones, of course, but he took me sailing before dinner.

"At first it was all in fun. We tried to fool Mrs. Cabot. Then suddenly it was serious. I couldn't quite believe it. Sometimes, you know, you see a hat or a dress and you know it's been made for you. Maybe you never thought of it but when it comes it's just as though you don't need to shop any further. It was that way when I met Craig. "I thought I'd have three day to put away in an album. But he felt that way, too, it seems. I mean he thought he did—"

Her voice trailed away, and a maid came from somewhere and snapped on the softly shaded lamps.

"He didn't think anything of the sort. He meant it!" Judy said.

Oh, it would be so easy, so very easy, to win Craig back. Now she could see how this marriage had happened. He had found Mary sweet and desirable and something had passed for love. Then Judy remembered the cathedral tones in his voice when he spoke of Mary. It had been something less than love at the beginnig. But it was love now, full and complete.

"I'm so glad you came. I won't doubt him any more. I'll call him now."

Someone spoke Judy's name as she passed through the lobby.

Get Wise to Constipation!
When you're constipated, it's a great temptation to be satisfied with quick relief. But physics may become a habit. And they don't keep constipation from returning. It's so much better to get at the cause of the trouble.
If you eat what most people do, chances are the only thing the matter is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.
What to do? Eat a little Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. This crunchy toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B1. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Ontario, Sold by every grocer.

GREATER MONTREAL PAST MILLION MARK

"A good many Montrealers will doubtless be surprised," says the Montreal Star, "to learn that the population of Greater Montreal is now estimated, according to Lovell's Directory, which has always proved a pretty accurate guide in the past, at no less than 1,443,588. This includes, in addition to Montreal proper, the adjacent muncipalities of Lachine, Longueuil, Montreal East, Montreal South, Montreal West, Town of Hampstead, Town of Mount Royal, Outremount, St. Lambert, Ville LaSalle, Ville St. Laurent, Ville St. Pierre, Verdun and Westmount.

"If the city alone be considered, it population is now 1,263,298. We have gone far, far beyond the million mark. We have an area of 32,254 acres, 853 miles of streets, and 1774 acres of public parks. Our property valuation is $1,238,014,135; with an assessed value of $919,928,491."

In two items, Toronto shows larger figures than Montreal—total assessment for 1938 is $969,686,055 and park acreage is 2,402.8. Comparing populations, Might Directories estimated that for Toronto proper, on Jan. 1, at 713,475, and for Greater Toronto, including suburban municipalities served by Toronto post office letter carriers, 88,160 Toronto's area is approximately 21,760 acres, with 575.6 miles of streets.

POOR EXEMPLARS OF LIBERTY

Readers of the Daily News may wonder if it was worth while for the nations, after the Great War, to have undone the "partition of Poland" by the Germany, Austria and Russia of an earlier epoch and re-created the Polish state, in view of the singular lack of the rights of others displayed for the last 18 years by the Poles.

The democracies of the world began to wonder how really "freedom-loving" the Poles were, within a year or two of the setting up of the new state, when they began to apply a heavy hand to the minorities within their borders.

They also showed at an early stage the desire to acquire the territory of others, that they have just shown toward Czechoslovakia.

Only a few months ago the people of the Kootenay were reading in The Daily News the ultimatum of Poland toward the Letts, to resume on pain of war for refusal—the diplomatic relations they had sturdily rejected from the time of the seizure of Vilna.

For numerous generations the English-speaking world thrilled at the poem, "When Kosciusko Fell," and on the creation of the new state hailed with sincere regard the white-haired idealist, Paderewski, as he took the helm to guide his re-created country through its formative years. Poland was viewed critically, but on the whole indulgently.

The last disillusionment as to the real nature of the Poles' supposed love for freedom—it seems it is their own freedom they love; not others'—has come with the way they have flown at Czechoslovakia, at the invitation of their chosen ally, Germany.

Early instances of covetousness and the strong arm, after the re-erection of Poland, were attributed, apologetically, to the natural reaction of a newly liberated people toward their late oppressors.

But the morals that Poland, after two decades of free existence, is now exposing to the public gaze differ neither in character nor degree from those of Hitler, and the idea that the Poles are the peculiar exemplars of the liberty ideal goes by the board.

Every man is least known to himself, and it is very difficult for a man to know himself.—Cicero.

A SHORT-SIGHTED POLAND

That Poland, the state that owes its re-creation entirely to the states that typify liberty, has in the present crisis shown itself short-sighted indeed, even on the selfish ground of its own material interests, let alone moral considerations and the world's regard, is strongly suggested by the Toronto Globe and Mail, in the following editorial dealing with Poland's recent self-expression in the matter of Czechoslovakia:

"POLAND CORNERS HERSELF.

"Overshadowed by the Sudeten crisis, Poland's part in the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia is not without interest. There is a touch of irony to her position in the affair which partially explains her resentment of the Munich settlement. While she got what she wanted by threat of force and under the cover of the German threat, she is far from happy about the manner in which Sudetenland finally changed hands.

"With a few minorities of her own, revision by 'intervention' has taught her that treaties and pacts are not worth much as territorial security. Realizing this, Poland played tough with Prague, thereby breaking a pledge or two of her own, to avoid being a beneficiary of the precedent by which the 'Big Four' Powers might undertake readjustment of all territorial disputes in Central Europe.

"But Poland didn't quite escape. Grant her a right of claim to Teschen—the Czechs sneaked the district when Poland was busy with the Russians in 1919—she came by Vilna in much the same fashion. Her claims refused by the boundary-makers, a freebooting general laid siege to that Lithuanian city and took possession. The Polish government disclaimed responsibility, but accepted, and has since protected the spoils. Under cover of the Austrian crisis last spring she used her troops to force the Lithuanians to resume diplomatic and economic relations.

"By insisting on the return of Teschen she has revived the Vilna issue. If a Four-Power alliance is to set about the task of general appeasement by interceding for the hapless minorities of the weaker states, the Poles have provided the starting point. And then, of course, there is the Corridor, for which Hitler's pledge may or may not be good, and one or two bits like this. All in all, Poland might have served her own interests best by forgetting Teschen to join with the outraged moralists."

?? Questions ?? ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers is open to any reader of the Nelson Daily News. In no case will the name of the person asking the question be published.

Mrs. W., Nelson — Is a silver dollar with an American eagle on the back, dated 1884, of any value?

Suggest that you write to one of the following, giving a description of the coin: William Kershaw, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; Scott Stamp and Coin Co., 1-W 47th St., New York; Numismatic Co., of Texas, Fort Worth, Texas.

H., M. L., Chapman Camp — In ten pin bowling what does the term "string" refer to?

String would refer to a game of 10 frames.

A. H., Trail — Will you please tell me what the different poker hands are and what their value is?

The rank of the hands beginning with the best possible, all of five cards: (1) Royal Flush: the five highest cards of the same suit, such as the A K Q J 10 of hearts. (2) Straight Flush: five cards of the same suit in sequence, such as the J 10 9 8 7 of clubs, which is ranked as "jack high." (3) Four of a kind: any four cards of the same denomination, one of each suit, such as four tens. The odd card may be anything. (4) Full House: three cards of one denomination and two of another, such as three kings and a pair of nines. The highest triplet wins, regardless of the pair. (5) Flush: any five cards of the same suit, not in sequence, such as K 10 7 6 2 of diamonds. Flushes rank according to the highest card. This would be a "king high" flush. (6) Straight: a sequence of five cards in various suits, such as the 10 9 of diamonds, 8 of hearts, 7 and 6 of clubs. Straights outrank one another according to the highest card. This one would be "ten high." An ace must either begin or end a sequence as, ace to ten — five to ace. (7) Threes: any three cards of the same denomination such as three queens. The two odd cards may be any unmatched cards. (8) Two Pairs: any pair of one denomination, with a pair of a different denomination, such as two queens and two sixs. The higher pair gives the rank of the hand. This one would be "queens up." The odd card may be anything else. (9) One Pair: any two cards of the same denomination, with three other unmatched cards. (10) High Card: Any hand that contains none of the foregoing combinations is ranked by the highest card in it. The K J of clubs, 9 of diamonds, 7 and 2 of spades would be "king high." These ranks are taken from the 1938 edition of Hoyle.

HONOR NEEDED

What is the greatest national need in Canada at the present time? Canada needs to develop a sense of honor, a national honor, an honor that would make the transaction of a crooked deal an impossibility; an honor that would make elections clean; that would make the offering of a bribe for a vote a cause for shame, and that would make picion because they wore a uniform cient cause for contempt and ostracism.—Guelph Mercury.

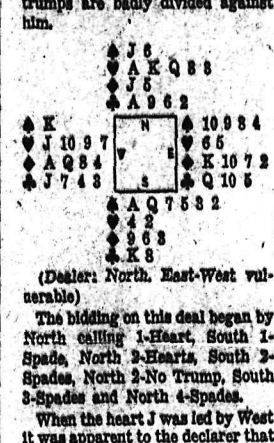
Shepard Barclay Tells How to Bid and Play

BET ON THE LONG SHOT

A RUBBER BRIDGE declarer is obliged sometimes to be like a race track plunger who stakes his all on a long shot, as his only chance to come out ahead on the day. Dropping a singleton king or queen can be right in that class, if the trumps are badly divided against him.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable)

The bidding on this deal began by North calling 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades, North 2-No Trump, South 3-Spades and North 4-Spades.

When the heart J was led by West it was apparent to the declarer that he would possibly lose two diamonds and therefore would have to limit his trump losers to one to make his game.

Missing the K, 10, 9 and 8 of spades, South realized, after winning the first trick with the heart A, that if he finessed the J or Q of trumps and the trick lost to the K that one of the other outstanding trumps would be bound to win and his chances for game would fade.

He therefore decided to lay down the spade A and the drop of the singleton K assured him that East could claim only one trump trick. Next came the spade 3 to the J, followed by the two high hearts, East ruffing the latter. On this trick South discarded a diamond. East returned a diamond to West, who cashed the A and Q. Declarer lost exactly three tricks.

The Rich English Scene

If you would take a foreigner to the very heart of England, you could hardly do better than row down the Thames from Eton past Windsor to the green island where the Magna Charta was signed. Its place in the midst of these historic names gives Romney Lock, though it is not one of the most widely advertised locks, a peculiar virtue. Some day—why not in our day?—we shall be given a half-tide lock at London Bridge; and the London Thames will be restored to the ancient splendor when spacious flights of steps led down to the moored pleasure barges. But at present the locks are all above London. What a marvellous change in the amenities of the river followed the making of the Richmond lock! From there to Henley, and beyond, the river is a national river indeed, reflecting every quality of the rich and quiet English scene.—Sir William Beach-Thomas.

A Robot Plane

Eventually the scientists announced that they really had settled all their problems and it was decided to catapult the third and last Fairey Queen. Once again the prolonged ritual of preparation was carried out. A thousand seamen and a handful of Naval and R. A. F. officers held their breaths as the little flag was waved for the last time; the lanyard was pulled, the catapult carriage hurtled forward, and the Fairey Queen sailed gracefully into the air and climbed steeply upwards to blue skies, probably the first full-sized aircraft in the world to fly entirely pilotless. There was a lusty cheer from a thousand throats, and it was observed that the relief from tension was so great that the knees of at least one R. A. F. officer were knocking together. The almost insuperable problem had been solved.—Described by Wing Commander G. W. Williamson.

Resent Censoring of Silicosis Film

To Editor of the Daily News.

Sir—The resentment felt throughout the mining camps of B. C. at the action of certain provincial officials in censoring the educational film on silicosis was freely expressed at the meeting of the Silverton C. C. F. on Tuesday, October 4.

The reason for this censorship, as given by the B. C. workmen's compensation board officials, for asking that parts of the film be cut, appears absurd to the working man. If the danger of silicosis is so great that "showing up the truth might create a fear reaction among B. C. miners and others," we feel there is all the more reason, the truth should be proclaimed far and wide.

We believe that the real fear reaction will be caused amongst those employing the victims of silicosis. Combatting this dread disease will cost money; the more prevalent the disease the more it will cost, and it is the fear of this cost that has caused this censorship. We, ourselves, have seen many fine specimens of humanity attacked by this disease, and modern knowledge and science could save many lives in all the mining camps of B. C. were it given the opportunity.

The film was produced by the officials of the U. S. government labor department. It was highly commended by the Alberta workmen's compensation board. It is ridiculous that B. C. provincial film censors should dare to censure a film of this educational character.

A resolution censuring this meddlesome work and directing a committee to send their protest to: The Minister of Labor for B. C., to Harold Winch, M. L. A., chairman of the C. C. F. economic relations committee, and to the Nelson Daily News, was passed unanimously.

For The Committee:
J. C. HARRIS.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

C. I. O. INFLUENCE

Two years ago San Francisco longshoremen were making $60 to $75 a week, but now, with the C. I. And the barnacles that collect on ship bottoms are a poor substitute for oysters on the half-shell.—Windsor Daily Star.

WHEAT WORRY

We may be wrong—but it is not hard to guess that the dominion government is worrying quite a little over the price of wheat these days. They may have to do exactly as John I. McFarland did under the Bennett government, buy and hold for a raise in price, or take a loss of $40,000,000 or more, at to-day's prices.—Pincher Creek Echo.

Canadian Exporters Appreciate the Work Done Abroad

by Canada's Trade Commissioners

THE old saying "Trade Follows The Flag" might, in Canada's case, be changed to "Trade Follows The Trade Commissioner". Certainly these able men that Canada has sent to Empire countries and foreign lands have played an important part in the building up of Canada's immense export trade. Just how important may be realized by extracts taken from a few of the many letters recently received by the Department of Trade and Commerce. These letters being confidential, the exporters' names have been omitted.

These Letters prove the worth of this Service

February 23, 1938:— "Our Company has always received valuable help through the offices abroad of the Trade Commissioner Service during the years we have been building up our export connections and I can assure you that it has been very gratifying indeed to us all."

* * *

May 11, 1938:— "We sincerely appreciate the efforts of the Canadian Trade Commissioner in South Africa in opening up the market for us in that country."

* * *

April 25, 1938:— "We certainly have nothing but the highest words of praise for the great co-operation we receive from your Department and from the Canadian Trade Commissioners everywhere."

* * *

March 19, 1938:— "Your efforts in our behalf on this matter are highly appreciated and confirm our opinion that the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service is second to none in the world."

May 3, 1938:— "It is impossible to reply to this communication without expressing congratulations on the extremely thorough manner in which the information was transmitted to us. It bespeaks well for the efficiency of your Department and is very much appreciated."

* * *

April 13, 1938:— "In view of the services and assistance rendered us by your Trade Commissioner and his staff in Kingston, and the Commissioner and his staff in Port of Spain, the writer, on behalf of these services, would wish to compliment your Department in the personnel and ever-ready and willing assistance extended us by these respective officers."

* * *

March 14, 1938:— "We have come to associate success in anything they undertake with the names of that great body of Commercial Ambassadors whom we call our Trade Commissioners."

* * *

March 24, 1938:— "In closing, may we express our appreciation of the assistance given us by your Department in the past, which has so greatly encouraged us in the development of our exports of Canadian merchandise."

* * *

March 10, 1938:— "In the trying time through which all export business is now passing, one of the most pleasant features is the unfailing helpfulness and courtesy rendered to Canadian manufacturers by the representatives of their Government, commercial and otherwise, abroad."

* * *

March 12, 1938:— "I wish to take this opportunity of expressing to you my appreciation for the valuable assistance which the Canadian Government Fruit Trade Commissioner in London, gave us in connection with obtaining satisfactory insurance on our shipments to South America."

* * *

January 27, 1938:— "We would again like to remark that you have certainly been a tremendous assistance to us in both the Dutch East Indies market and the New Zealand market and we assure you that we are very grateful."

* * *

January 11, 1938:— "We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our keen appreciation of the very excellent attention which the Cape Town Commissioner is giving to this particular situation and the service which he is performing is indeed of great value to us."

They Helped To Provide Employment

Canada's Trade Commissioners furnished several thousands of trade reports during the last fiscal year to Canadian firms seeking to enlarge their export trade. They assisted Canadian exporters to make many new connections that brought 22 millions of new business to Canada—business that helped provide employment.

Goalie Joins Scorers as St. Catharines Shellack New Westminster 22-11

Fans in Frenzy in Final Period as Fight Rages

By RICHARD SHERIDAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 10 (CP)—With all hands manning the guns, St. Catharines Athletics shelled New Westminster Adanacs into submission here tonight to take a two-game lead in the Dominion senior lacrosse finals.

Even Goalie Bill Whittaker of the Ontario team took a hand in the scoring as his team lathered Adanacs 22-11.

Not content with sustained bombing, the teams supplied further fireworks with a free-for-all fight in the final quarter that sent the 5684 fans into greater frenzy.

Ran Matthison and Joe Cheevers started the punch-throwing. Bob Lee and chunky Carl Madsen joined them and most of the other players took part in the melee—either as peacemakers or just kibitzers.

SCORE EARLY

Unlike the first game of the best-of-five series for the Mann cup when St. Kitts staged a nine-goal sortie in the final quarter to take the decision, Athletics went to the front from the opening gun tonight.

The winners led 4-3 at the first quarter interval and 7-6 at the half.

An eight-goal outbreak in the third just about clinched the game. St. Kitts led 15-8 as the teams changed ends for the last time. Seven fourth-quarter goals just added to the trimmings.

Whitaker scored his goal following the free-for-all which saw six players penalized. He picked up George Urquhart's pass and shuffled down centre, firing from well out.

Third game of the series is slated for Wednesday.

STAN SMITH TO TURN OUT WITH PATRICK ROVERS

15 Players Are Picked but Goalie Not Decided on

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10 (CP)—Lester Patrick, chief of New York Rangers in the National Hockey league, tonight announced personnel of the Rangers' amateur farm team, New York Rovers.

Fifteen players were chosen at the concluding session of Patrick's fifth annual hockey school here but the all-important goalkeeping assignment was not made.

Rovers, United States Eastern Amateur league team will represent Canada from coast to coast, Patrick said, adding that he believed this year's Rovers will be the strongest club in five years.

Nine newcomers will work with seven outstanding veterans of last year's troupe. They are:

Three goalkeepers will fight for that position: Tiger Mitchell, Winnipeg, Hal Cathcart, Portage la Prairie, and Harry Moroz of Flin Flon, Man., will play goal in workouts with Rangers and Philadelphia Ramblers of the International American league for two weeks before Patrick decides the man to work between Rovers' goalposts.

Remainder of the squad are Alf Pike and Albert Collings, both of Winnipeg; Murdo McKay, Fort William, Ont., Lloyd Ailsby, Vesper, Sask.; Walter Rimstad, Edmonton, and Frankie Boucher of Ottawa, all forwards; and Defenceman Bill Allum of Winnipeg.

Commencing with a dance in the Tadanac hall Friday night, the club members will draw the season to a close with a "tombstone" tournament, a handicap competition, on Saturday. In the evening, supper will be served in the club house, and cups and prizes will then be presented to the winners.

World Series 'Pot' Is Largest Known

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs sliced up the largest financial "melon" ever received by the players in a world series of four games.

From a player pool of $434,094.66, the two pennant winners took as their share 70 per cent, or a total of $303,866.26. The Yankees, as series conquerors, received 60 per cent of this latter total, or $182,319.76; the Cubs received $121,546.50.

Manager Joe McCarthy and 22 players on the Yankee squad, the three coaches, the batting practice pitcher and club trainer, each of whom was voted a full share, received $5815.28 each.

Each of the Cubs, who split their pot only 26 ways—25 full shares and one in portions—get $4674.87.

U. B. C. in Second Win on Prairies

SASKATOON, Oct. 10 (CP) — University of British Columbia Thunderbirds completed a successful invasion of the prairies today by defeating the University of Saskatchewan Huskies 13-6 in a scheduled Western Canada Intercollegiate Football union fixture at the Griffiths stadium.

The victory, which was the second scored by the Thunderbirds in their week-end jaunt into Alberta and Saskatchewan, was witnessed by more than 3500 fans. Thunderbirds beat University of Alberta 40-11 Saturday.

Bob Watson Again Nelson Golf Club Champ; Shoots Par

"BOB" WATSON

Shooting par golf most of the way, Robert Watson defeated Jimmie Allan five up and four to go at the Nelson Golf club course Saturday, to retain the men's championship and the Appleyard-Lowe cup. The match comprised 36 holes.

During the morning rounds the finalists waged a "see-saw" battle, the lead changing hands often. Entering the third round in the afternoon, Mr. Watson proceeded to shoot a par round to emerge four up at the 27th hole. He had shot one over par on the first and fifth holes, but an eagle-three on the sixth hole gave him a par round.

Mr. Allan played good, careful golf, but could not compete with the champion at putting. They halved a number of holes.

JOCKEY RICHARDS TO RIDE DOMAHA

CALGARY BRONKS JOIN TOP TEAMS WITH 5-3 WIN OVER ROUGHRIDERS

CALGARY, Oct. 10 (CP)—In a double triumph, Calgary Bronks showing the best form of the season under the fiery litle mentor Carl Cronin, crashed through to the top of the Western Canada Rugby Football Conference during the Thanksgiving week-end.

A 14-0 victory over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday was followed by a 5-3 win over the bruising Regina Roughriders today.

Record crowds, near the 5000 mark today, watched the Bronks reach the top of the league in a point-tie with Winnipeg and Regina. They have only to stop the tail-end Eskimos twice more to hold a certain lead when the final season's count is made.

After a wide-open display Saturday, the Bronks got down to hard, bruising play against the Roughriders today and capitalized on the few breaks that came their way in the victory-winning smash.

Johnny Rosano, husky little flying wing, gave the decision to the Bronks shortly before half time. He fell on a loose ball over the Regina goal line for a major score. Earlier in the second quarter Roughriders won three points from a field goal, kicked after Howard Cleveland, hard hitting Regina quarterback, went up to gather in his own kick on the Calgary 30 yard line.

CHAMPION YANKEES MAY SHOW 25 PER CENT MORE STRENGTH

Starry Keller Is to Complete Dream Outfield

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP) —Joe McCarthy's all-victorious New York Yankees broke up for the year today as the baseball world wondered when and where they will stop in the mad rush that has swept everything before it.

The first club in history to win three world titles in succession and the parent organization of two clubs which met in the "little world series," the Yankees apparently have all it takes to make a one-club show out of big league baseball for years to come.

Reports from the vast club farm chain indicate the champions should be 25 per cent stronger next year. One farm star, Charlie Keller of Newark, is almost sure of a regular outfield berth, giving McCarthy a dream outfield. Though rival clubs have offered as high as $125,000 for Keller, the Yankees have rejected all bids.

Chicago Cubs didn't see the champions at their best during the four-game series sweep. The pitching and fielding was normal, but the hitting was far below Yankee par with a team average of only .274.

Hero of the series, a record breaker at the gate for a four-game show that drew a gate of $351,166 from 200,833 cash customers, was Frank Crosetti.

Though Rookie Joe Gordon displayed some great heroics in his first series, Bill Dickey batted .400 and Red Ruffing pitched two winners, Frankie was the one-man thorn in the heart of the Cubs. His fielding ruined them in the first game, his homer off Dizzy Dean won the second, and in the fourth he ripped off a triple that sank the Cubs for good.

REMEMER WHEN?

By The Canadian Press

Jack Gaudaur, one of Canada's greatest scullers 50 years ago, died at his home near Orillia, Ont., one year ago today. He was world professional champion for five years and winner of numerous lesser titles in the 25 years he was actively interested in rowing. He was 79 years old.

Pacing his own team with high individual and high aggregate scores, Nick Cassios and his challenge squad defeated a team skipped by James Allen, 351 to 332 at the Canadian Legion alleys Monday night.

Cassios' scores were 131 for high individual and 351 for high aggregate.

Teams, in order of lead, second, third and fourth and skip, were:

Claude Miller, Nels Jackson, John Aurelia, Anthony Scanlan and Cassios; Walter Duckworth, James Spencer, Jack Ford, Robert Glazebrook and James Allen.

Further challenge games are scheduled each night for some time and tournament play will be started about the end of October.

SEVEN CLUBS IN ALBERTA SENIOR HOCKEY LEAGUE

CALGARY, Oct. 10 (CP)—Seven clubs—Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, Drumheller, Olds, Turner Valley and Coleman—will comprise the Alberta Senior Hockey league for the 1938-39 season.

Edmonton and Calgary will have a team each instead of two as under the former Alberta Senior Six league while Lethbridge, Turner Valley and Coleman will be newcomers to the seven-club league.

Plans for the new set-up were approved at a meeting of club delegates and officials here during the week-end.

Lee Orr Mentioned in U.S.A.A.A. List

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (CP)— A compilation of the outstanding track and field performances during 1938, issued today by the United States Amateur Athletic association, showed Sydney Wooderson, Great Britain's mile record holder, the only athlete to hold top ranking in two events.

He hung up a new world mark of 1:48.4 for 800 metres and ran 1500 metres in 3:49 during the year.

Canada received mention in the compilation when Lee Orr of Vancouver was bracketed with four United States sprinters who ran 100 yards in 9.5 seconds.

Edmonton Fumbles Give Bombers 25-12 Win in Football Thriller

Bombers Move Into 3-Way Tie for First Place

EDMONTON, Oct. 10 (CP)— Winnipeg Blue Bombers took advantage of Edmonton errors to defeat Eskimos 25-12 here today in a Western football thriller watched by about 3000 fans.

After getting two touchdowns through Edmonton fumbles in the first half, Blue Bombers fell apart before the Albertans' second half drive but recovered late in the fourth quarter in time to add another pair of major scores.

The victory boosted Winnipeg into a first place tie with Regina and Calgary Roughriders, leaders over the week-end after trouncing Eskimos 17-0 at Edmonton Saturday, were edged out 5-3 at Calgary today. Bronks had beaten Blue Bombers 14-0 at Calgary Saturday.

A glance at the statistics showed Winnipeg displayed marked superiority only in ability to pick up loose balls. Bombers gained 158 yards rushing and made 11 first downs while Edmonton gained 151 yards on the ground and moved the yardsticks 12 times.

In the air, Winnipeg was supposed to excel, Edmonton was by far the best, completing six of 13 passes for 137 yards from the line of scrimmage while Winnipeg's seven were either intercepted or incomplete.

Winnipeg's 12 punts went 501 yards from the line of scrimmage and Edmonton kicked 10 times for 463 yards. Winnipeg lost 60 yards on six penalties. Eskimos were not penalized. Bombers recovered two of their five fumbles while Eskimos dropped the ball eight times and were able to regain it only twice.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA WALK OVER OPPONENTS IN EASTERN FOOTBALL

TORONTO, Oct. 10 (CP)—Accent along the eastern senior football front is on diversified attack and you can put in your datebook now that Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders will be shooting at one another in the interprovincial union playoffs seven weeks from now.

Argonauts and Rough Riders have speed and deception along the ground and through the air. Toronto walked over Hamilton Tigers in the fourth quarter here Saturday to win 21-8 and Ottawa pushed the young Montreal Cubs around for 60 minutes at Ottawa to win 37-0.

The Ontario Rugby Football union shows no such clear supremacy. The champion Sarnia Imperials had all they could do here today to eke out an 8-6 victory over Toronto Balmy Beach in the annual Thanksgiving Day classic between the traditional rivals. The two newcomers to the C. R. F. U. met at Montreal where Montreal Nations showed power for a 26-6 victory over Peterborough Orfuns.

COLLEGE PLAY EXCITING

The football was tighter and less spectacular—but more exciting—in the Intercollegiate union Saturday as McGill defeated University of Western Ontario 4-1 at Montreal and University of Toronto overcame a Queen's university lead to win 13-16 at Kingston.

Denny Whitaker of Hamilton was the best man on the field at Toronto, but the little quarterback's throwing and spirited bucking could not match the Dominion champions' all-around effectiveness. One of his forward passes brought the game's first touchdown, but Frank Stukus passed to his brother, Annis, to set up an Argo touch that left the score tied 6-6 at half-time.

Bill Stukus, third member of the family, kicked a field goal in the third quarter and a Hamilton single left the Toronto lead at 9-7 going into the fourth. Then Art West broke away twice for long runs, crossing the goal-line the first time and putting Argos in position the second.

Ottawa's regulars were given lots of rest after establishing a 12-0 lead in the first quarter against Montreal.

Herbie Westman, back in the McGill lineup after a three-year absence because of scholastic difficulties, kicked the Redmen to victory over Western's Mustangs.

Queen's took advantage of a Toronto fumble to score an early touchdown and establish a half-time lead of 6-1. But Bee Rowland of the Blues booted the tricolor back on its heels in the third quarter and Cam Gray fired a touchdown pass to level the score, then Rowland intercepted a forward to run over with the winning touch.

16,000 AT SARNIA

A crowd of 16,000 saw Sarnia pull a perfectly-executed flicked pass, whip the ball around like basketball players and send Tony Golab over for the winning touchdown in the second quarter.

Bummer Stirling, easily the outstanding player, nearly cost Imperials the game when he fumbled in the second minute of play and Syd Reynolds scooped up the ball to run 78 yards for Beach's touchdown, converted. But Bummer fired a 60-yard punt for his first point halfway through the quarter and made the flicker pass that led to Galab's touch. Stirling kicked the final point in the last quarter.

Scoring in every quarter at Montreal, Nationals fashioned their total from three converted touchdowns, three singles, a field goal from placement and a safety touch. Peterborough's lone touchdown opened the second quarter. Tommy Burns led Nats with two touchdowns and a convert.

Prime Minister King Unveils "Peace and Liberty"

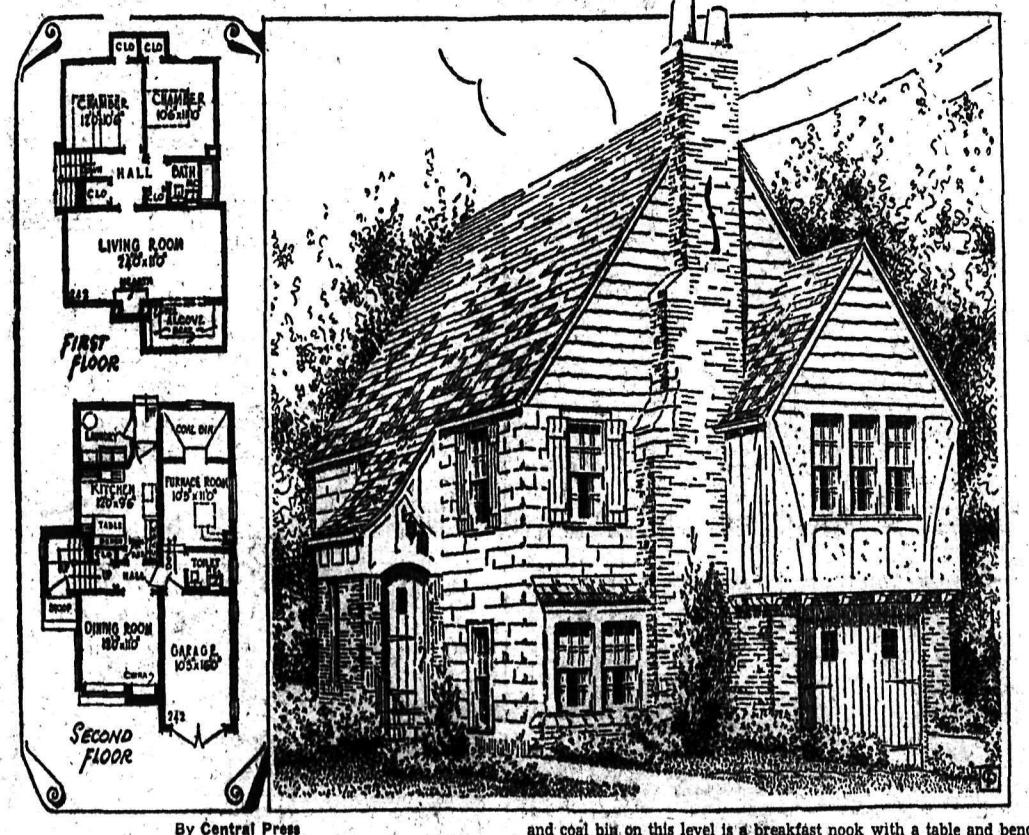
House Has English Basement With Living and Bedrooms on Second Floor



By Central Press

This five-room frame house is unique in that it has an English basement. The garage is on the same floor level as the dining room and kitchen, and is connected with them by a hall. The living room and bedrooms are on the floor above.

This type of house is often built on a hillside, so the plan is worth considering if you have a lot of that character.

Besides the garage, dining room, kitchen, laundry, furnace room and coal bin on this level is a breakfast nook with a table and bench. There also is a toilet on this floor.

The living room occupies the entire front of the second floor, with hall between it and the bedrooms. The bathroom is off this hall. The living room has a fireplace and an alcove over the garage with windows overlooking the front of the house. This alcove contains a built-in seat and place for telephone.

The size of the main building is 24 feet 6 inches by 40 feet 6 inches; size over all, 31 feet by 41 feet 6 inches. It contains 23,780 cubic feet.

UTILITIES AND LOW-PRICED ISSUES ATTRACTION ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Buying shifted to utility stocks and low-priced specialties in Monday's market while profit taking sapped the starch from recently strong industrials and rails.

Power issues bounded up fractions to a point or so to new 1938 peaks as steels, motors and specialties fell back as much.

There were no outstanding optimistic developments on the utility sector, but the fact this group had lagged in the past week when other categories were chalking up new 12-months' tops led to nibbling by speculative contingents, brokers said, on the theory power stocks were "behind the market."

With quotations highly mixed at the close, the Associated Press average of 60 issues finished off .1 of a point at 51.9, its first set-back in 11 consecutive sessions. Transfers amounted to 1,663,960 shares compared with 1,464,560 last Friday.

On the downside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., Air Reduction, General Electric and Kennecott.

Canadian shares swung narrowly both ways. Ahead minor fractions were Dome and Hiram Walker, while Canadian Pacific, McIntyre Porcupine, Distillers and Dominion Stores tipped backward.

Harvest Service at South Slocan

SOUTH SLOCAN, B.C. — The Harvest Festival took place at St. Matthews church Sunday afternoon.

The edifice was a beautiful setting for the service of thanksgiving, not only for the abundant harvest, but also for freedom and peace which had come about through the Munich conference in the past week.

Rev. W. J. Silverwood, vicar, gave an eloquent address based on the 12th chapter of St. Luke, the lesson read for the day, with emphasis on the 15th verse "For a man's lip consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

A large congregation attended.

The decorations were very effective combining the late summer blooms with the rich colorings of autumn foliage and berries. Purple and white asters were used on the altar, flanked with sheaves of wheat and fronted with the offerings of fruit and vegetables.

The pulpit wreathed with trailing vines and hung with bunches of purple grapes. The honor-roll font and windows were also decked with flowers and fruit.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. F. H. Russel, Mrs. S. Dawson, Mrs. M. McIntyre and Mrs. Avis were responsible for the decorations.

St. Matthews Sunday School was re-opened for the winter session Sunday, with Mrs. W. A. MacCabe and Mrs. J. D. Yeatman superintendents and an enrollment of 52 children.

B.C. Interior Fowls for British Guiana

Now en route to Georgetown, British Guiana, on the Lady Hawkins, these Rhode Island Reds from the Triangle Poultry Farm at Armstrong, and two pens of Fraser valley White Leghorns, will go to the ministry of agriculture in British Guiana as foundation stock, following an earlier purchase of Barred Plymouth Rocks from eastern Canada. In all cases, purchases, which were made through Ottawa, of R.O.P. or "Record of Performance" stock, were of two pens, consisting of a cockerel and four pullets, each 10-bird purchase changing hands for $170. The express and ocean charges on these Triangle birds were $49.95. Upper picture shows the Armstrong birds in their yard, and lower shows them on their shipping crate. Only one cockerel is shown, possibly for the sake of peace in the family.

SELLING BETTER LIVING

Number 2

Calvin Coolidge once related that when he was a boy in the hills of Vermont the only merchandise he saw was in the country store, but his horizon was broadened by the advertising of things that appealed to youth. With his desires aroused for the interesting and better things in life, he strove to obtain them. Asserting that advertising performs a distinct public service, Mr. Coolidge explained, "It is essential in the first instance to produce good merchandise but it is just as essential to create a desire for it."

This, in a nut-shell, is the service of advertising. As Calvin Coolidge implied, the most useful household appliance, the longest-wearing rubber tire, or the best mousetrap in the world will never be popular if hidden from the public. We cannot have desires for things we do not know about. No motorist was concerned about having knee-action in his car until he learned about its advantages through advertising. Yet it represents a marked improvement in riding comfort.

A century ago it took a long time to introduce any improvement in the way of living. Even the example of President Fillmore, who installed the first bathtub in the white house in 1850, failed to make people bathtub-conscious. Fifty years later it still was an uncommon thing to have a bathtub in the home. The invention was there but people did not care about it—not until advertising got on the job and sold bathtubs. Then everybody wanted them, and today no home is complete without one.

Only a short time ago our bathrooms were ugly as could be. Somehow, no one thought of making them beautiful. But when manufacturers began to advertise artistic tile, tinted bathtubs, and beautiful plumbing fixtures, everybody realized how much pleasanter life can be with beauty in the bathroom.

Our parents and grandparents were well satisfied with the heavy staple foods of their time but we have learned to demand a balanced diet, with plenty of vitamins and minerals and a goodly assortment of light salads and tasty desserts, to say nothing of out-of-season vegetables and fruits. Our food is much better today, because our eating habits have been changed by advertising.

Where do you suppose the radio industry would be if manufacturers had not advertised their receiving sets? Only fifteen years ago home radios were practically unknown. Few people cared about radio or thought it would ever amount to much. But the infant industry embarked on a tremendous advertising campaign, through newspapers, magazines, signs, and circulars, and in a miraculously short time radio sets were introduced into four out of every five homes in the land.

It is the same with many other articles. Millions brush their teeth because advertising sold them toothpaste, and many children have even been persuaded by advertising to wash their necks and eat their spinach.

Better living comes not merely through natural desires, but through education, and advertising is one of the strongest forces in public education. Advertising is the salesman for better living.

MORE ABOUT SUDETEN

The task is two-fold—bringing the Sudetenland administration in line with the rest of the reich German-Czech problems, chiefly of an economic nature, arising from German acquisition of Sudetenland.

As the first outward gesture Chancellor Hitler decreed the Swastika flag now is the flag of Sudetenland as well.

Secondly, he decreed the reich's coat of arms and the official seals be used throughout the newly-absorbed territory.

Thirdly, German law now applies to the Sudetenland.

More difficult than these, self-evident measures were a maze of economic problems to be faced.

As these economic problems involved relationships with Czechoslovakia, the international commission of ambassadors again refrained from meeting and left the problems to be worked out by an economic sub-committee.

CAMPAIGN OF PRESSURE BEGINS

PRAGUE, Oct. 10 (AP) — Germany was reported in informed circles today to have launched a campaign of pressure upon Czechoslovakia aimed at reducing the republic to the status of a vassal of the Nazi state.

Berlin, whose armies already completed occupation of the fifth zone of territory ceded by Czechoslovakia, was said to have hinted it would forego a further military advance only on condition that Czechoslovakia ends its alliances with Russia and France.

Further points of the Nazi program were reported as follows:

1—A customs union which many Czechoslovaks believe might lead eventually to complete domination by Germany.

2—Outlawing of the Communist party by Czechoslovakia.

3—An agreement by which German troops might pass through Czechoslovakia territory in event of war in eastern Europe.

4—Adoption of an anti-Semitic policy by Prague sufficient to prevent anti-Nazi activities by Jews in Czechoslovakia.

High Czech quarters said this new German pressure would be resister bitterly, despite realization that under threat of further German occupation, submission might be the only way of preserving even the semblance of independence.

60 'Dubs, Duffers' Wind Up Golf Club Season at Nelson

Vice-captains overshadowed captains 11-4 in the "Dubs and Duffers" golf tourney which wound up the season at the Nelson Golf club Sunday afternoon. Sixty golfers participated in the two-ball mixed foursome competition. When the draw was posted it found that non-members were well mixed with members, which resulted in interesting play.

Rules laid down by the match committee allowed the use of only one club on each hole during the first nine. Notices on the tee boxes stipulated the type of club to be used.

The second round reverted to "just golf," but the effects of the first nine kept the fun and laughter going on till the finish. Many a sigh was heard as golfers discovered that the sixth hole, 450 yards, had to be played with a niblick.

The day was topped off with a banquet held in the evening.

MORE ABOUT BRITISH ARMY

The new plans apparently envisage its use to reinforce even a continental expeditionary force of the regular army.

WORK REVIEWED

The war secretary reviewed the work of mobilizing 50,000 men of anti-aircraft and coastal defence units during the past crisis and declared it disclosed "both resources of our strength and evidence of our weakness."

Speaking of the territorial army, he said:—

"This army must, with modifications appropriate to its peculiar character, be given the same content and be put on the same footing as the regular army. . . . It is deficient in many of the up-to-date units which the regular army has, and the necessary proportions of arms and services are lacking. These shortcomings must be made good."

He made only a passing reference to criticism concerning shortage of anti-aircraft guns.

PROGRAM PROCEEDING

An ambitious program to remedy equipment weakness, he said, "is proceeding".

Following are the principal territorial army changes—

Both light and heavy machine-gun battalions for the infantry.

Eight-gun batteries for the artillery, along regular army lines, instead of the present four-gun batteries.

The addition of the following new units: Cavalry light tank regiments, anti-tank regiments, light anti-aircraft regiments and tank battalions.

Formation of three motorcycle battalions. These do not exist now even in the regular army.

Horse regiments will be retained as reserve calvary now that most regular cavalry units have been mechanized.

Infantry brigades will be built on the regular army pattern of three battalions instead of four. As a result, there will be nine complete divisions on the regular army model, three motorized divisions and a mobile division.

At the same time a war office announcement said the three new territorial motorized divisions would parallel proposed six-battalion divisions of the regular army.

Each of these will have a motorcycle battalion attached.

Mr. Burkholder Talks on Thanks-Giving, Rossland

ROSSLAND, B. C., Oct. 10 —Taking his text from the scripture, "Whatsoever a man soweth that also shall he reap", Rev. Horace Burkholder, Vancouver addressed St. Andrew's United church congregation here Sunday night. He is travelling secretary United church young people's work in the province.

Punctuating his address with illustrative incidents, the speaker based his Thanksgiving sermon on two ideas, "You can't be effective without putting a little effort into performing your duty, and sowing the right kind of seed.

Following the service, he spent a social hour with the young people.

He had been missing from his residence for two days.

Lambert Hooks a Few Fish Dinners in the Main Lake

Instead of Bagging himself a Thanksgiving turkey, as the old Pilgrims did, George Lambert Monday hooked himself a fish dinner or two.

Fishing from J. J. (Mickey) McEwan's boat with "Mickey" handling the engine, Mr. Lambert landed a salmon weighing about 18 pounds, a char weighing about nine pounds, and three trout ranging near three or four pounds each.

The fish were caught on the main lake, in a triangle including Riondel, Pilot Bay and the Procter lighthouse.

MORE ABOUT LINDBERGH

(Ellen Wilkinson, Labor member of parliament, last Thursday called parliament's attention to the story in "The Week."

STATEMENTS "SLANDEROUS"

The letter, published in Pravda, organ of the central committee of the Communist party, and circulated by Tass (Russian official news agency), accused Col. Lindbergh of making "slanderous and insolent anti-Soviet utterances" before guests of Viscountess Astor, member of the house of commons.

It referred to a report by "The Week' agency" and charged that "Lindbergh acted in conformity with instructions of British reactionary circles 'to prove the weakness of Soviet aviation' and thus provide (prime minister) Chamberlain with an argument in favor of capitulation in Munich in the Czechoslovak problem."

The letter was signed by Vasily Molokoff, civil aviation chief and a noted flier; Valeri Chekaloff, Georgi Baidukoff and Alexander Beliakoff, who flew from Moscow across the north pole to Vancouver, Wash., in June, 1937; Mikhail Gromoff and Sergei Danilin, two of the airmen who flew a month later 6262 miles from Moscow to California by way of the north pole; Vladimar Kokinski, who flew 4300 miles non-stop from Moscow to Vladivostock in the summer; Mavriky Slepneff; I. T. Spirin; a flier named Seroff; and Flier Order-Bearer Demchenko.

The letter as circulated by Tass in part:

" it appears Lindbergh declared in London that Germany possesses powerful aviation, which is able to defeat the air fleets of England, France, the U. S. S. R. and Czechoslovakia.

"The second statement outstripped the first. He declared that in the course of his stay in Moscow he was offered the post of chief of Soviet civil aviation. ***

"Lindbergh as chief of aviation! Such absurd lies can only make us fliers laugh. ***

"A further quite unbridled falsehood. (The Soviet air fleet, Lindbergh declared, is left without leadership and is in a chaotic state). It would be unnecessary to refute such an obvious lie. ***

"The same 'The Week' agency which reported Lindbergh's statement declared that according to information being at the disposal of the high command in London, Paris and Prague, the Soviet air fleet at least was equal to the fleets of Germany and Japan taken together, not mentioning the qualitative superiority of Soviet aviation.

"Mr. Lindbergh got into an awkward situation, making himself a laughing stock of the entire world. He found himself performing the part of a silly liar, underling and lackey of German Fascists and their British aristocratic patrons. ***"

The Lindberghs visited Moscow Aug. 17-26, then flew to the Soviet Ukraine and left Russia Aug. 31. During the whole stay, Lindbergh spent most of his time with Soviet airmen and consistently refused to talk for publication.

SUCCESSOR TO GRIMES STILL TO BE NAMED

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—General Manager Larry Macphail of the Brooklyn baseball club called in reporters today to tell them something they all knew—that Burleigh Grimes had been released as Dodger manager.

No successor was named though Macphail said he was considering several candidates, foremost of whom were Leo Durocher, Jimmy Wilson, Charles (Chuck) Dressen, and Frank Frisch.

"Grimes did his best and even brought the club up 15 games higher than 1937," said Macphail, "but we feel a change is necessary."

Skippers Strive Better Schooners

GLOUCESTER, Mass. Oct. 10 (AP) —Although he drew first blood by taking the opening race of a three-of-five championship series with Captain Angus Walters' big salt banker Bluenose, Canadian defender of the International Fishermen's trophy, Captain Ben Pine of the Gloucester challenger, Gertrude L. Thebaud, tonight, on the eve of the second race, strove to improve the United States schooner.

No sooner had Thebaud arrived today from Boston, off which port she scored her initial victory yesterday, than Captain Ben sent her mainsail back to its makers for alterations.

Nor was Captain Walters idle throughout the day. He sent his main topsail again to be recut, having found previous alterations failed to make it set properly.

Changes also were made in some of Bluenose's other canvas and bands were set up around the defender's fore topmast, which cracked during yesterday's contest and caused the skipper from Lunenburg, N. S., to douse some of his headsail shortly before the finish.

Thebaud, after a tooth and claw battle twice around an 18-mile triangle off nearby Nahant, led Bluenose across the finish line yesterday by two minutes, 56 seconds.

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Albert Hall, 82, came to the House of Refuge with his wife after their home was burned down. A week later he fell nearly 40 feet to his death.

The Dominion government has four representatives from the public works and natural resources departments. The United States federal and state governments are well represented as is the agricultural department of the Great Northern railway. The West Kootenay Power & Light company case is being handled by Solicitor R. C. Crowe. L. A. Campbell, vice-president and general manager, and W. J. Tindale, engineer.

Representatives of the federal and B. C. governments testified that the application was in order in so far as their respective interests were concerned. The responsible engineer of the federal water rights branch of the department of natural resources, amongst other things, assured the commission that the West Kootenay company had cooperated fully in opening its dams during high water.

WOULD LOWER IDAHO LEVEL

After formally presenting the company's petition, Mr. Crowe briefly, but very definitely, outlined its proposed opening up of the narrows at Grohman creek and submitted data, compiled by United States and Canadian engineers to show that the work would mean a lowering of peak flood waters, of more than a foot at Bonner's Ferry, and two feet at Creston, based on 1933 high water and a substantial lessening of floods even if the all-time high water of 1894 was encountered.

After the various government representatives had been heard in a variety of official testimony, Idaho farmers were given a hearing.

FOUR FEET THEIR LIMIT

It would appear that while owners of 26,700 acres out of a total of 34,000 acres, had signed a petition favoring the six-foot storage, on the strength of which the company renewed its application, when the land owners appeared today most of them affirmed that at the time they signed up they had been assured only a four-foot storage was wanted—at least for a start, to see how it worked out—and that the final settlement as to four or six feet would be up to the commission. Even the representatives of the United States government, which is interested in 4000 acres, had signed up on this understanding.

Chairman Stanley made it quite clear that the commission had no authority to act in such a manner, and L. A. Campbell was quite emphatic that no work would be undertaken at Grohman unless a licence for a six foot storage was granted.

CAMPBELL EXPLAINS COSTS

Mr. Campbell also spoke at some length on various features of the Grohman development, including a statement of prospective cost. As to revenue, he advised the company assuredly expected some profit, but this would depend on the demand for lead and zinc, as Trail smelter would use most of the power coming from the six foot storage.

Martin Wolsdon, a large owner in District No. 1, was opposed to any storage licence under any consideration, while R. W. Allen, an owner in District 10 and 11, was among the few who approved a six foot rise, explaining any harm suffered would be amply compensated for by benefits from flood control as promised by Grohman creek development.

The commission is sitting here Tuesday, and will be at Creston Wednesday, and Nelson on Thursday.

BENEFIT U.S. POWER PROJECTS

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho, Oct. 10 (AP)—A controversy over the proposed six-foot increase in the Kootenay lake winter water level developed today at the opening hearing of an international joint commission.

Kootenay Lake in Canada is fed by the Kootenai river, flowing through North Idaho's panhandle.

Landowners testified that they understood the West Kootenay Power & Light company would seek only a four-foot increased water level for a trial period, with an additional two-foot lift to be conceded in a year or two if no damage resulted to diked farming districts.

L. A. Campbell, the power company's general manager, said the company wanted a six-foot increase for power purposes or nothing.

BONNEVILLE HEAD TESTIFIES

J. D. Ross, administrator of Bonneville dam power on the lower Columbia river, testified the improved storage facilities in Kootenay lake would benefit both Grand Coulee and Bonneville power projects. The lake feeds the Columbia.

The amended application of the company specifies 250,000 yards of gravel would be removed from Grohman narrows in the West Arm outlet of the lake, to provide flood relief for the lands adjacent to the Kootenai river in Idaho and British Columbia. The river flooded thousands of acres in last spring's overflow.

R. C. Crowe, company attorney, said the company was encouraged to renew its application by a petition from landowners in the reclaimed districts, urging the case be reopened to provide flood relief through the narrows improvement.

K. W. Morton of the Dominion public works department took the stand to testify that the proposed project would improve navigation conditions on the lake and river.
