Eli Johnston Is Fined $50 for Unlawful Wounding Trail Man at Hockey Game

3rd Blow Unnecessary Therefore Unlawful Says Magistrate.

2ND TRIAL AWAITS FABRI'S RETURN

Finding that two blows on the man's head were necessary to suppress him, but that the third blow was unnecessary and therefore unlawful, William Brown, police magistrate, Wednesday afternoon fined Eli Johnston, special constable of the Nelson city police, $50 for unlawfully wounding Leonardo DeRosa of Trail with a wooden police baton, in an altercation after a hockey game in Nelson March 6. His worship reserved his decision until Wednesday after four days of testimony by prosecution and defence witnesses last week.

DeRosa was wounded when Johnston struck him while attempting to break up a struggle in which DeRosa and Nick Mason, also of Trail, were engaging at the Civic Centre arena.

Victoria Fabri of Trail, representing DeRosa, asked the magistrate if a similar charge brought by Mason against Johnston could be held over until Fabri returned from the coast. Permission was granted.

Before passing sentence, his worship said he believed DeRosa offered resistance to arrest, and that Johnston acted only as an officer in a difficult situation. The third blow Johnson landed on DeRosa, however, was unnecessary, he thought. He said the testimony of DeRosa and Thomas Monkhouse, one who attempted to take Mason off the ice and prevent a fight, had many differences, not because of misunderstanding but because it was "false evidence." The testimony of Edward Moody and William Jones was "affected by prejudice and bias," but all other witnesses were credible.

The large number of differences in evidence was "unusual", his worship believed.

COURT COMMENTS

In his comment the magistrate said:

"The demeanor in the witness box of DeRosa and Monkhouse was very unsatisfactory. There were

BRITAIN RUSHES SHELTER ORDERS

LONDON, April 5 (CP Havas). — An official announcement tonight said the government has put in a rush order for 1,000,000 additional pre-fabricated sheet steel air-raid shelters.

The government also plans to speed delivery of steel shelters now in stock at double the pace of current distribution so that 300,000 refuges capable of sheltering 1,600,000 persons will have been delivered by the end of the Easter holidays.

Most of the steel "family" shelters, being provided free of charge to persons whose incomes are less than £250 (about $1250) yearly, are being shipped to the so-called "vulnerable zones"—Great Britain's vital industrial areas.

'Lungs' Are Built Into New Homes

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP).—A new type of home construction, which puts "lungs" in the outside walls, was reported to the American Chemical society here today.

Highway pavements made largely of sulphur that imparts strength and elasticity were another new scientific report.

The "lungs" are for frame houses and are made to save the paint. They are thin air spaces, built in just underneath the outside boards.

While they permit circulation of air like lungs, their real work is like that of kidneys, to take moisture out of the walls. This wetness, unable to escape into the house, now comes out through the outside boards and in so doing ruins the paint.

SPOKANE MAN KILLED IN CRASH

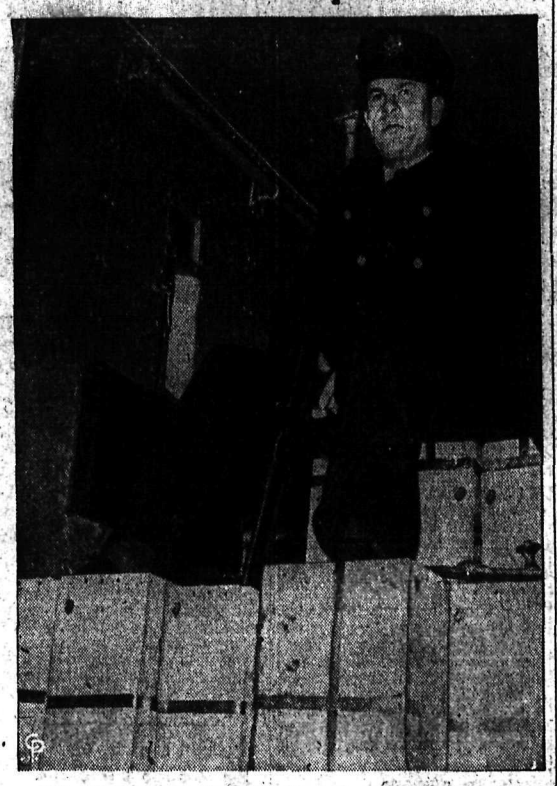
$60,000,000 Gold Shipment Arrives From Europe



When the American liner S.S. Manhattan arrived in New York from Europe recently, it had on board a $60,000,000 cargo of gold, said to be the largest shipment of gold coin or bullion ever carried on a single ship. Following the Manhattan's arrival scenes like this were common as the gold was conveyed from the ship in trucks, vigilantly guarded by menacing men, fingers ready on the triggers of their weapons.

LeBrun Reelected French President

VERSAILLES, April 5 (AP)—The national assembly today elected Albert LeBrun to a second seven-year term as president of France despite opposition of leftists.

Premier Daladier's campaign to make the election a demonstration of national unity during the present European tension fell short when uproar of Socialist and Communists greeted the result. Shouts of "Resign! Resign!" followed announcement of LeBrun's selection.

Jules Jeanneney, president of the senate and presiding officer of the national assembly—the senate and the chamber of deputies—had to close the meeting because of the uproar without giving the complete official list of the votes.

With no serious rivals, LeBrun, who is 67, received 506 of 910 votes, the remainder being distributed among party favorites. Selection of LeBrun, who had expressed a personal preference to retire, broke a half-century tradition of one-term presidents.

The only other president ever re-elected, Jules Grevy, resigned in 1887 in the second year of his second term.

The ceremony of investiture is scheduled for tomorrow, to become effective May 11.

Several Hundred Iron Lungs From Nuffield Expected in Canada

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP). — The department of pensions and national health has completed arrangements for Canadian hospitals to take advantage of the benefaction of Lord Nuffield, noted British philanthropist, who recently offered to provide an "iron lung" for every hospital in the British Empire.

It is expected several hundred units of the life-preserving equipment will be provided for the Dominion. The only expense is in transportation from the Nuffield works at Cowley, England, to Canada. Federal government authorities have ruled there will be no federal charges such as customs or sales taxes and one steamship line has offered to carry all "iron lungs" from England free.

Bank of America Officials Accused of Defraud Scheme

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—The United States securities commission today accused A. P. Giannini and other officials of the Bank of America of using "a device, or scheme, and artifice to defraud," purchasers of securities.

The commission's charges were contained in a civil complaint filed in the United States district court for the northern district of California, southern division.

The commission's charges related to certificates of Timetrust, Inc., sold to the public in face amounts of $600 and multiples thereof.

Timetrust has principal offices in San Francisco and other California cities.

Women Offering Services for War

REGINA, April 5 (CP)—Women, many of them grey-haired and the mothers of families, who served overseas during the Great War are again offering their services to their country in the event of another war.

Mrs. S. R. Parker, president of Overseas Nursing Sisters' association of Regina, said today more than 50 women had already registered with her under the national veterans' survey, which is seeking to learn how many veterans of the last war are willing to give their services in the event of another.

Proceeding at the same time is the listing of applications of younger women, registered nurses, with the Red Cross society volunteering for service in times of national emergency. Miss C. I. Stewart, of the Red Cross, said 182 nurses were now listed, with Saskatchewan's quota set at 270.

Intense Negotiation Under Way; Confer With German Staff

NO CONFIRMATION MADE OFFICIALLY

By RICHARD MASSOCK
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ROME, April 5 (AP).—Intense negotiations between Italy and Albania were reported tonight as reports spread through Rome Italian troops were ready to occupy Albania at any moment.

Expectations of an imminent Italian move in the Adriatic were heightened by a conference at Innsbruck, Germany, between General Alberto Pariano, chief of Italy's general staff, and Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of the German armed forces.

Though foreign circles heard an important announcement might be made before morning, there was no official confirmation of any impending action against mountainous Albania across the Adriatic.

Inquiries at Brindisi, where Italian troops are concentrated at the heel of the Italian boot only 80 miles by sea from Albania, brought the reply no soldiers had left the port.

CABINET MEETS

(In Tirana, Albanian officials declared "suitable military precautions" were being taken while the cabinet met late to discuss the international situation).

Special importance was attached to the Italian-German military talks because of Pariani's connections with Albania.

He not only is commander of the Italian army as under-secretary of war but formerly was chief military adviser to the Albanian army. He was in Albania from 1927 to 1932 and was considered one of King Zog's closest Italian advisers.

(In Berlin it was announced Pariani and Keitel would confer again tomorrow at Innsbruck).

General Zef Sereggis, the new Albanian minister to Italy, flew back to Rome after a hasty trip to Albania.

Usually reliable sources said he conferred immediately with Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, presumably on proposed "strengthening of the Italian-Albanian alliance" which Italians say King Zog has requested.

Albania, a rugged state of 10,629 square miles with 1,003,124 inhabitants, has been under strong Italian influence for years with Italy interested both in a foothold on the Adriatic's east coast and in Albania's oil resources.

Sharp Italian warnings to little countries against acceptance of British and French protection were sounded today.

Unconfirmed reports of anti-Italian demonstrations in Tirana, Albanian capital, led to a belief in some circles Italy may have acted to impress Albanians the safer course for them was with Italy.

10 Towns Vote "Wet" 4 Dry, Saskatchewan

SASKATOON, April 5 (CP). — In fourteen Saskatchewan towns and villages where votes on beer parlors were held today, the "wets" won at 10 points and the drys scored in the others.

Chief interest in the voting was centred around Milestone which in 1935 voted "wet" by one vote and last year registered an opposite opinion by one vote. This vote was challenged, however, on the grounds that persons not entitled to vote had cast ballots. Today the vote went "wet" again, this time by a majority of 30.

Resulting Unnecessary Alarm Is Regretted; Refuses Dismissal of Earl; Overshadows Polish Talks

Rumania Frontier Adjustments to Aid Move by Poland, Hungary and Rumania in Alliance Is Suggested

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 5 (CP Cable)—Prime Minister Chamberlain took full responsibility in the house of commons today for attempts to suppress a statement by Earl Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, last night that the anti-aircraft guns of the fleet were being manned "so as to be ready for anything that might happen."

Lord Stanhope had a conference with him today, the prime minister declared, and expressed regret the statement caused unnecessary alarm. When pressed by Arthur Greenwood, acting leader of the opposition, to dismiss Lord Stanhope from the cabinet, Mr. Chamberlain declined on the ground the incident did not affect the general efficiency of the first lord.

The affair overshadowed for the moment the Anglo-Polish negotiations. Mr. Chamberlain saw the Polish foreign minister, Joseph Beck, today. The talks end tomorrow, when the prime minister will tell parliament of the results.

It was reported Poland suggested Rumania make minor frontier adjustments in favor of Hungary to facilitate cooperation by Poland, Hungary and Rumania in a Baltic-Black Sea alliance. The Hungarian minister, George Barcza, conferred with Colonel Beck tonight.

Hungary's position and the British reaction to Polish desires for inclusion of Budapest in the proposed anti-aggression alliance were believed to have been discussed with Barcza.

HOLD THIRD TALK

Polish quarters said the British-Polish mutual alliance against aggression "became effective" today after Mr. Chamberlain, Beck and Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, held their third talk in two days.

Poland and Britain were said to have "agreed on the principle of solving the Jewish question in Poland with the hope that practical measures will follow."

Both Polish and British quarters declined to disclose details of the agreement reached, but it was believed to be on the lines of the Polish plan outlined by Beck yesterday.

It was understood Poland in this plan wanted a loan for rearmament, provision of British colonial territory as a home for Polish Jews and a British agreement to replace League of Nations control of the Free City of Danzig by a committee of one German, one Pole, and one representative of a third power, perhaps Britain or Sweden.

NO SPECIAL ORDERS

The prime minister disclosed that no special orders had been given the fleet yesterday to man anti-aircraft guns, as was interpreted generally from Lord Stanhope's

1200 OUT, WASH. LUMBER STRIKE

RAYMOND, Wash., April 5 (AP) —Lumber mills and logging camps were closed and longshore work on two ships was halted here today by a strike in Willapa harbor's lumber industry.

More than 1200 men were idle; picket lines surrounded most operations and loading of lumber aboard the Grace line ship Coya and the Yamashita line's Cyoko Maru was halted. The Japanese ship sailed only partly loaded.

The strike resulted from a dispute between CIO-International Woodworkers of America and the Willapa Harbor Lumber company over employment of a bull bucker in the woods whom the union *claimed was not liked by the log*gers.

Stanhope Words Scored, Germany

BERLIN, April 5 (AP). — The German foreign oft oecium German foreign office mouthpiece, Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, expressed "astonishment" today that alleged threats of German aggression against Poland *could form the basis for con*versations Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, is having in London.

At the same time the controlled press, exceeding even its previous abuse of the democracies, attacked last night's statement of Earl Stanhope, first lord of the British admiralty, as a "deliberate provocation" made to increase tension, to further Great Britain's aims to encircle Germany or to impress Poland with British preparedness. Lord Stanhope had said anti-aircraft guns of the British fleet were manned "to be ready for anything."

High Quality Cheese Production Is Aim of Gardiner's Bill

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP).—To encourage high quality cheese production in Canada, a bill to be introduced in parliament by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, will provide a premium of two cents a pound for the highest scoring product, it was learned tonight.

Canada last year produced about 120,000,000 pounds of cheese and of this approximately 90 per cent was graded number one. However there is high number one and low number one. The high number one grade is that which scores more than 92 points out of a possible 100. According to reports circulating here tonight the premium will only be on the high number one grade which last year represented about 40 per cent of production.

U. S. $100,000,000 Relief Bill Favored

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP).—United States administration forces and economy advocates in the senate joined today in a compromise agreement to support an emergency relief appropriation of $100,000,000.

A bill providing this amount. . . . $50,000,000 less than President Roosevelt had requested. . . was approved unanimously by the senate appropriations committee after a series of cloakroom discussions. The senate is scheduled to take it up tomorrow with approval apparently assured since most Democratic and Republican members have agreed to vote for it.

The $100,000,000 figure already has been approved by the house. It is designed to supplement an emergency appropriation of $725,000,000 appropriated by congress to carry WPA through the fiscal year ending June 30.

Henry Stimson Opens Neutrality Act Battle

BORAH, JOHNSON TAKE UP BATTLE

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) —Henry L. Stimson, former republican secretary of state, demanded today that the United States, for its own protection, reserve the right to name and boycott the aggressor in a foreign war.

"If I saw a dangerous situation approaching step by step," he asserted, sharply rapping his knuckles on the table of the senate foreign relations committee, "I wouldn't wait until it killed off the last nation that stood between us and safety before taking economic action."

Stimson, with this statement, opened what many expect to prove the session's bitterest congressional battle, a fight already turning upon the question whether the Neutrality act should be so amended that the president will have wide discretion in formulating this nation's policy toward a foreign conflict.

Stimson argued that he should. The present act, he said, had built up abroad the false psychology that Americans were insensible to cruelty and aggression and too timid to wish their government to make decisions which might be necessary to their future interest. The law, he said, had encouraged aggression by nations which have rejected the traditional code of national behavior.

Acreage Assurance Plan for Farmers Outlined by Gardiner for Legislation

Government Moves to Inaugurate Permanent Plan; to Formulate National Agricultural Policy

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP) — Farmers of western Canada will benefit from an acreage assurance plan this year if legislation outlined in the house of commons today by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, becomes law. In future years principle of the plan may be applied to all branches of agriculture throughout Canada.

Moving for introduction of the first of a series of measures embodying the government's new wheat policy, Mr. Gardiner told the house previous wheat legislation had been of a temporary or emergency character. The government was now moving to inaugurate a permanent plan and to formulate a national agricultural policy.

Debate was adjourned until after Easter after Mr. Gardiner's outline but M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) obtained the floor for a minute and described the plan as "probably the most far-reaching proposal concerning agriculture ever presented to this house."

In addition to the acreage assurance plan, legislation designed to encourage cooperative marketing, to guarantee an initial payment on wheat of 60 cents a bushel by cooperatives and to regulate the Winnipeg grain exchange, is ready for introduction.

WOULD APPLY ALL PROBLEMS

"Before bringing down these measures," said Mr. Gardiner, "I should like, if possible, to have this house establish a principle that we can apply in connection with our agricultural problems throughout Canada, so that the same principle may be followed in dealing with the problems of the dairy industry, the livestock industry, the fruit industry and other branches of agriculture across this country.

"I believe that if we can establish a principle of that kind during this session we can at least start to give Canada an agricultural

King Ghazi's Death "Purely Accidental"

BAGHDAD, April 5 (AP)—An investigating magistrate made the finding today that the death of King Ghazi early yesterday was "purely accidental" and exonerated two men riding in the back seat when the royal car crashed into a light pole.

The two men, described as the King's personal servant and the supervisor of the Royal Broadcasting station, were injured.

Evidence showed the King lost control of his car and hit the pole at high speed, the magistrate said. The King's skull was fractured by the pole.

Trail Man Given Month on Checks, False Pretences

TRAIL, B. C., April 5—A. Hector Chivers, 36, pleaded guilty to five charges of forging worthless checks, to five charges of uttering them, and to two charges of obtaining goods and money by false pretences when he appeared before Magistrate Donald MacDonald, in city police court this afternoon. The forged checks were for amounts of $5.50, $15.75, $4.50, $12.25, $2.25 issued at different places of business in town. False pretences charges were laid as the result of Chivers obtaining goods at one store to the value of $4 and cash of $6, and obtaining goods at another place to the value of $1.50 and cash of $3.45.

Chivers was sentenced to one month in jail on each count, sentences to be served concurrently.

SAID MONEY OWED HIM

Chivers, who operated an electrical business, told Magistrate MacDonald that people owed him money and he had to pay his bills. He had anticipated receipt of money that he could put in the bank to meet the checks. He had no funds in either of the two banks on which two of the checks had been issued in his own name.

When the magistrate asked Chivers why he had not signed the other checks with his own name, and received no coherent answer, he stated: "It looks like this has been done by a man who had completely lost his head."

All the forged names were fictitious. Chief John Laurie told the court that a police officer had accompanied Chivers to places where Chivers said the men who had signed the checks were, but none could be found.

Chivers at first maintained that they were "somewhere in Trail."

He finally admitted that he "did not know any better."

Magistrate MacDonald considered his conduct that of a fool. He hoped that Chivers would come back to Trail after serving his term, and make good and pay off his debts.

speech aboard H.M.S. Ark Royal, Britain's biggest completed aircraft carrier.

It was quite normal in a time of national tension for the fleet to take special precautions, the prime minister declared, and this was what Lord Stanhope was attempting to say.

Mr. Chamberlain said he was informed last night "considerable comment" had been aroused by a broadcast of what the first lord had said, though the broadcast was given to the empire at large and not to the United Kingdom.

"Since it seemed to be likely to be treated, as in fact it had been treated, as a sensational matter, whereas there was no reason or foundation for any sensation, I gave directions that the press should be asked not to publish the account of the first lord's speech, or if they did publish it, not to ascribe to it any particular importance," the prime minister said.

A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty in the labor government, asked whether the prime minister's attention had been drawn to Lord Stanhope's words: "Unfortunately shortly before I left the admiralty it became necessary to give orders to man the anti-aircraft guns."

He asked whether that did not imply an international crisis was arising and that the admiralty had information and was taking the special defence measures necessary, "was it not unwise to make that statement?"

The prime minister, scarcely audible amid opposition shouts, replied: "I think the right honorable gentleman is making more of this than is necessary."

Lord Stanhope himself in the house of lords expressed "keen regret" that his remarks "emphasizing the readiness of the navy to meet all eventualities . . . caused concern" or "added to the work of the prime minister."

Technocracy Men Tell Rossland Trail Smelter 40 Years Behind

ROSSLAND, B. C., April 5 — "When the product price system fails, on or before 1942, it is not likely that North America will be endangered by foreign powers," asserted Walter Simmons of Trail, speaking on "Technocracy" to a Rossland audience on Wednesday night.

"Technocracy has made military provisions against invasion, and it would be sure suicide for any nation to attack since the economic set-up of a technate is so far advanced above Asiatic and European set-ups that the aggressors would be powerless to function here. We would let the aggressor land on our shores and on the following morning we would make 'soap grease' out of him," he continued.

"Will technocracy destroy individualism?" a hearer asked Mr. Simmons.

"Have we individualism under the present system?" he asked in turn, and then replied in the negative. "Technocracy will tend to preserve individualism," he answered.

"What technocracy will do to North American civilization figuratively speaking is take overalls off the men and put them on the machines. To produce more we must work less," he said.

FOR VESTED INTERESTS

He declared that the Trail smelter was operating 40 years behind time. It was working for the vested interests, and brought a handsome profit to them.

"The men who are on relief today should consider themselves fortunate," Mr. Simmons said. "In a short time a large percentage of industry will close; that is inevitable and the workingman will clamor for relief. Our government is in a precarious position, and would not and cannot afford to establish a relief fund to feed these numbers. What are they going to do?" he asked.

Throughout his address Walter Saul, the first speaker, stressed the downfall of the price system.

"This system is doomed," he said. "It is on its way out. First it will work its way out on this continent and then in the countries across the waters."

Before starting their addresses, both speakers saluted the audience, and at the conclusion saluted again with "Happy Landing on New America." James Georgeson of Rossland was chairman.

JOHNSTON TRIAL

many contradictions of various parts of their evidence by other credible witnesses. There were many parts of their evidence that were highly improbable in view of surrounding circumstances. I find neither of these witnesses credible, and I do not consider it a case of misunderstanding, but rather of false evidence.

"I consider Moody and Jones credible witnesses except that I consider their evidence to be affected by prejudice and bias.

"I consider all the other witnesses to be credible. All except Dr. L. E. Borden and Mr. (John) Cartmel were subjected to hostile cross-examination, and their evidence was not materially broken down under such severe cross-examination.

"There are an unusual number of differences on details between all the witnesses. It is not a case of prosecution witnesses merely being contradicted by defence witnesses, but these differences are scattered between the prosecution witnesses one with another, and between the defence witnesses one with another. While it is common amongst a number of people seeing the same incidents, that there be differences of detail, the great number of differences in this case is, I think, unusual. It is partly due to the fact that the situation was exciting, action was fast, and on occasions witnesses' attention was diverted elsewhere so that they missed seeing part of the affair.

FACTS PROVEN

"I find the following facts proven:

"1—That Mason was very drunk, creating a serious and dangerous disturbance in a crowd, struggling, swearing, yelling, talking excitedly; that he was ferocious and wild, and at the same time able-bodied and strong. At the time that Johnston arrived there was a dangerous situation. Mason's friends and others had not succeeded in quietening him. While one police officer only was present Mason was actively and ferociously resistant, and force only had any effect on him. It is necessary to refer to Mason, as DeRosa's and Mason's conduct were interrelated, but this reference is not intended as a judgment with respect to any charge Mason may have laid.

"2—DeRosa also was intoxicated, but not as drunk as Mason. It was chiefly Monkhouse, with the assistance from Jones and Moody, who had been trying to get Mason out of the rink away from the place where he was a menace. DeRosa had little to do with that assistance to Mason prior to the arrival of the accused.

RESISTED OFFICER

"3—Upon the arrival of the accused, he started to stop the disturbance an dtold DeRosa to stop fighting. DeRosa was then bending over Mason struggling with him, mauling and thrashing around, and a violent struggle between two intoxicated men was taking place in which one party was DeRosa, so that he was a party to the disturbance. I find from a maze of conflicting testimony that at this stage DeRosa told the accused to "keep out of this, we will handle it", although Johnston did not hear those words. DeRose drunkenly continued to struggle. I find that his actions and words constituted resistance to an officer in the execution of his duty. Force was necessary against DeRosa because Johnston was the only officer present, two drunk men were antagonistic to police interference, and Messrs. Monkhouse, Moody and Jones were of no assistance to the police. Johnston did now hit DeRosa a first time. I find that that blow was necessary and the degree of force reasonable and necessary.

SECOND, THIRD BLOWS

"4—After that first blow DeRosa straightened up, made a pass at Johnston with his hand open, grabbed his scarf and pushed the accused back a little. I find that DeRosa's hand was not extended in a pleading gesture. This was further resistance. Johnson hit a second blow, which I also find was necessary, and the degree of force both reasonable and necessary. This blow caused a wound.

"5—After the second blow DeRosa let go his hold of Johnston's scarf, and the accused struck a third blow He stated that it was to bring him to so he would quit his fooling around and be quiet. I consider that that third blow was unnecessary. I find that that third blow also caused a wound.

"6—When being placed under arrest by Sergeant (Robert) Harshaw, DeRosa used foul and obscene language, and forcibly resisted arrest and struck a blow at the officer, which I consider were the words and actions of a drunken man and not the result of any blow.

"7—All actions of Johnston were as a police officer in a difficult situation, and there was nothing personal on his part, which circumstances I will consider in imposing punishment."

B. C. Exhibit Small but Elaborate, Vingo Says After Exposition Visit

California Great but "You Can't Beat Nelson" He Says

Declaring that California was a great state, with its movie stars, palm trees and great fruit groves, "but you still have to go some to beat Nelson and the Kootenay district," Joseph Vingo returned from a 4500 mile bus trip to the San Francisco Exposition and coast cities. Away about four weeks, he visited Vancouver, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

Nelson's greatest booster and a "publicity agent on the west coast," he found in Pat Egan, former Nelson hockey and lacrosse ace, now of the Seattle Seahawks, with whom he spent one afternoon at Seattle. Pat was leaving for Calgary to visit his home and see the Kimberley-Port Arthur hockey series, but was returning to Nelson "just as fast as I can" to spend the summer.

The British Columbia exhibit, found in the hall of western States, was rather small but elaborate, Mr. Vingo said. Murals encircling the exhibit, done by three Vancouver artists, were an outstanding feature. The exhibit contained sections devoted to lumbering, mining, fishing and fruit growing and emphasis was placed on the scenic beauty of the province. A large map on the wall showed the main British Columbia highways by means of a special type of running Neon light, brought especially for the exhibit from England.

NEEDS PUBLICITY

Mr. Vingo found that the "Kootenay district needs plenty of publicity in the south." The question most often asked was: "How's the fishing and hunting up in your country?"

The Nelson visitor missed seeing Corporal C. W. A. Barwis of the provincial police, formerly of Nelson, who heads the detachment of B. C. police as Corporal Barwis was ill.

The most outstanding exhibit at the exposition was to be found in the Palace of Fine and Decorative arts, where art treasures were valued at $20,0000,000. Other fine exhibits were to be found in the science building, in the electrical and communication building and in the various foreign pavilions.

Probably the most impressive sight at the fair was the night illumination. Costing $1,500,000, it was the greatest attempt ever made at outdoor lighting. All the lighting was indirect and in various color harmonies. It was even-graded in intensity from the base of the buildings to the top, to maintain the depths of arcades and accentuate the architectural set-backs.

At San Francisco Mr. Vingo viewed three of the world's greatest engineering achievements, the Golden Gate bridge, the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge and Treasure Island.

Treasure Island, the largest man-made island in the world, was one mile long, two-thirds of a mile wide and covered about 400 acres. Of this, 280 acres were planted in trees, flowers and shrubs. Artistic designs, costing $1,500,000 were formed with the plants.

HEARD MRS. ROOSEVELT

Mr. Vingo had a fifth row seat when Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke on "A Day with the President at the White House." The speech was humorous, and the ovation given the First Lady was tremendous. The "house almost came down with the applause" when she told the audience that the president would be there in the summer.

Also seen on the trip were the western collegiate basketball finals in which University of Oregon beat the University of Oklahoma. Oregon has since defeated Ohio State for the national crown.

In San Francisco Mr. Vingo toured the N.B.C. studios and attended Bennie Walker's amateur hour broadcast from station KGO in Hollywood he toured both the N.B.C. and C.B.S. studios, and at the latter he saw the rehearsals of the Burns and Allen program and "Big Town," with Edward G. Robinson and Claire Trevor. He attended the regular broadcast of the "Wonder Show" with Jack Haley and Ted Flo Rita's orchestra, and other broadcasts. He inspected the 50,000 watt transmitter of station KPO and the engineers were pleased to hear that reception from KPO was good in Nelson. Other orchestras he heard were Buddy Rogers, Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiians, and George Olsen's.

At Salt Lake City Mr. Vingo attended the 35-minute organ recital given daily in the Mormon tabernacle, and viewed the governor's reception room at the Utah state capitol. Furnishings were valued at $65,000 in the room, which was said to be most elaborate in any state capitol building.

The weather on the whole trip was unsettled, with "plenty of rain in Portland and Los Angeles." "I got a few brief glimpses of that well known California sunshine when I crossed the desert between California and Nevada."

"But you still can't beat Nelson and the Kootenays," he concluded.

CRESCENT VALLEY MAN FINED FOR STRIKING GIRL

Warning him that "You mustn't take the law into your own hands again and strike anyone," John Cartmel, stipendiary magistrate, Wednesday afternoon imposed a fine of $10 on Pete Legebokoff in provincial police court for assaulting Miss Doris Chernenkoff at Crescent Valley, the night of March 31.

Legebokoff and Pete Kabatoff, a defence witness, said they were walking along the road with two other men when they met Miss Chernenkoff with Miss Pauline Markin. Legebokoff said they passed the girls and he turned and called Miss Chernenkoff back, asking "Why did you tell that lie about me?" She replied she had made a statement about him and would say it again, at which he "gave her a gentle touch on her lips with my hand." Asking her if she could prove the statement, she replied "yes", and he hit her again, "only lightly." She then attempted to strike him but he dodged her, he said.

Sergt. J. W. Hooker, prosecuting, asked Legebokoff to demonstrate on him how hard he had struck the girl, and Legebokoff laid his hand lightly against the officer's mouth

Miss Chernenkoff and Miss Markin testified that they were walking along the road when they met the four men, and told how Legebokoff had struck Miss Chernenkoff.

Pete Kabatoff, who was walking with Legebokoff, told of meeting the girls, and said his companion had "put his hand over her mouth to shut her up."

His Worship told Legebokoff that if he disliked statements Miss Chernenkoff might make about him, he should find some other means of suppressing them, other than force.

Eskimos Come Under Heading "Indian"

OTTAWA, April 5 (CP)— The supreme court of Canada, in a judgment handed down today, as found that Eskimos are Indians within the meaning of the British North America Act, section 91, which placed within Dominion jurisdiction Indians and lands reserved for Indians.

The judgment which was unanimous, arose out of a reference by the Dominion and Quebec governments to ascertain which government was responsible for providing relief for Eskimos in the northern part of Quebec, formerly Ungava. The decision is a win for Quebec.

Whereas the court was not asked to rule definitely on the point of which government should provide relief, the effect of the judgment will be to make Eskimos wards of the Dominion and their relief a federal responsibility.

Unusual March Weather Recorded As Highest Wind Is But 12 Miles

Habitual wild March winds failed to visit Nelson last month, the highest wind velocity being only 12 miles per hour, being recorded on the 12th, 14th, 18th and 21st. Instead of the usual weather experienced in March, Nelsonites enjoyed relatively mild weather almost throughout the entire month.

Paced by 9.7 hours on the 28th, the sun beamed down on the city for 98.7 hours. A year ago there were 83 hours recorded during the month, with the longest day being 9.5 hours.

There was a much greater range of temperatures during the past month, the mercury soaring to 61 degrees on the 21st and dropping to 7.8 degrees in a sudden and brief dip on the 5th. Last year the mercury ranged between 51 and 16 degrees.

Total precipitation was also way down this year, only 1.255 inch being measured. This was composed of .28 inch rainfall and 9¾ inches of snow. During the same period in 1938, 3.4 inches of precipitation were recorded, 2.5 inches of rain having fallen.

No Gov't. Order to Probe Red Cedar Wages, Says Pearson

VICTORIA, April 5 (CP)—Hn. George S. Pearson, British Columbia minister of labor, said today he has not yet received a federal government request for investigation into wages paid into the Red Cedar shingle industry in the province.

Mr. Pearson said that in some parts of the lumber industry wages might be lower in British Columbia than in the United States, but there was a good reason for it. British Columbia's lumber business depends largely upon a world export market while the United States industry sells on a protected home market.

Press Urges Royal Rank Be Given Duchess of Windsor

LONDON, April 5 (CP.-Havas)—Recognition of the Duchess of Windsor as "Her Royal Highness", was urged today by Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express.

Termination of the Duke of Windsor's exile would be of general benefit, the editorial said, declaring that refusal to accord his wife royal rank was a "petty injustice."

The editorial asserted: "It is the universal rule for a wife to take the status of her husband. Earl Baldwin insisted on the rule at the time of the abdication crisis. A King's wife, he said, must be Queen. A morganatic marriage was an institution unknown in this country. He refused to allow it to King Edward.

"The Duke of Windsor has now had a morganatic marriage forced upon him. His wife is not granted his own rank. This petty injustice is a poor return for the service which he gave to his country."

U.S. Senate Votes $100,000,000 Relief

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP).—A United States senate appropriations sub-committee voted unanimously today to recommend a $100,000,000 relief appropriation. That sum was voted by the house of representatives after President Roosevelt had requested $150,000,000.

Members of the sub-committee said the $100,000,000 allotment would recieve general support from both administration supporters and economy-bloc senators.

Administration floor leaders previously had sought a compromise $125,000,000 appropriation, but economy-minded senators refused to support such an allocation.

CATHOLICISM IS LOGICAL CATENA OF BELIEF, DR. MCKENNA TELLS KIN

An explanation of the system of post-graduate work in the sacred sciences done in Rome by young priests from every corner of the globe was given by Rev. R. J. McKenna, Ph.D., at the Kinsmen club's supper meeting in the Hume hotel Tuesday night.

Sprinkling his talk with humorous remarks and stories, Dr. McKenna referred to his own first years as a priest and his years of study in the Eternal city.

In every diocese, he said, particular work required young priests with special training in one or another branch of ecclesiastical learning. Among other prominent centres of higher learning throughout the world, Rome offered distinct advantages in supplying the requisite preparation for academic degrees in theology, scripture, canon law and philosophy. There in the famous universities, under the tutelage of professors selected for their vast erudition and from almost every country, the young cleric ordinarily spent three years of strenuous work, participating in public disputations before examining boards and undergoing mental disciplining which was as fundamental as it was vigorous.

STUDY CANON LAW

One subject which young priests are sent to study is canon law that governs the matrimonial courts in every diocese. In all these courts there are judges, lawyers, officers and other officials who go to make up a court of judicial procedure. These men try matrimonial trouble and cases, and it is the young priest who has studied more advanced canon law abroad who usually acts in this court.

The priesthood had a natural attraction for every Catholic boy, Dr. McKenna said, and when he had given years of careful consideration to the state, as he knows it from his spiritual directors and the priests of his native parish, he embraces the vocation with a clear realization of its difficulties, its purposes, its peculiar character and singular consolations. The setting aside of other careers, possibly more attractive by everyday standards, may naturally cost such a youth an effort and constitute a grave sacrifice of ambitions. The sacrifice is made willingly and unconditionally if the ecclesiastical authorities find the candidate for ordination acceptable.

Referring briefly to the rigorous training in the major seminaries of Canada, the speaker said the Roman post graduate work presumed the comprehensive course of such institutions and built on that already formidable structure. One failure before the examining board and the student could write "finis" to his efforts to secure the coveted degrees.

Touching on the component parts of philosophy, metaphysics or pure speculation, logic or the rules of straight thinking and utterance, psychology, cosmology and the ethical principles basic to responsible action, the priest presented scholasticism as the traditional but always modern background of Catholic thought, and illustrated by examples the "arithmetic of intellectual activity."

ETHICS NECESSARY FOR MORALITY

Stressing the necessity for a common ethics as the basis for a return to strict morality, honest business tactics, and oneness of thought on the problems confronting and threatening the Christian civilization today, Dr. McKenna offered Catholic philosophy and its superstructure of belief as a system of inflexible logic, all-comprehensive, completely satisfying and permanently enduring.

J. B. Stark, program chairman, thanked Dr. McKenna for his enlightening and interesting talk on behalf of the club.

Robert Horswill, president, was in the chair, and Harold Brown was at the piano for group singing.

Hollywood Says Canadian's Voice Like Galli-Curci

HOLLYWOOD, April 5 (AP).—Movie Producer Sam Goldwyn says he has discovered a nine-year-old Canadian girl singer whose voice compares favorably with that of Galli Curci in range, timbre and quality.

His press agents described the discovery, Jacqueline Nash, as "Galli Curci of the fifth grade" and "prima donna of the auto camps."

The tiny blond Montreal miss was living with her mother, Mrs. Minette Nash, in a Los Angeles auto camp when talent scouts found her and signed her for an important singing role in a picture starring Jascha Heifetz, renowned violinist.

PREDICT PASSING OF THE GLAMOUR GIRL

Sophisticated Type Replaced by Feminine "Little Girl" Clothes

By ROBERT STEVENSON

TORONTO, April 5 (CP).—Style experts today are ringing the knell of the "glamor girl" along with a health tune on the cash register, as a new and nuttier line of feminine frills heads for the boulevards and the Easter parade.

"The 'glamor girl' is definitely on the shelf," said one votary of Schiapareli in a downtown store. "She of the spun yarn dresses billowing on her shoulders, with heavy lipstick, pale complexion and very sophisticated clothes is gone. In her place we have—the 'little girl'."

This year's "little girl" will be altogether more curved and feminine than her counterpart last year. If you care for social psychology, this may have something or other to do with the international situation. But anyway, the net result will be young and lively—with cockeyed hats, square shoulders, tiny waists and flouncy skirts.

It all adds up to a real fillip for the work-jaded male because skirts are getting shorter.

They'll be one to one and a half inches higher, or about 17 inches off the ground. If you want to be technical, that's about the top of the calf on most women.

Despite the upward trend, Toronto stylists see no signs of a return to the boom days of the early twenties.

Another tip to nervous escorts. Petticoats are back. Don't rush off the deep end if you find the girl friend parading with an inch and a half of frilly lace showing below her skirt. It's meant to be there. And it's an even chance it won't be a petticoat at all but only a lace trimming sewn to the underside of the skirt to give a petticoat effect.

In step with the general trend will be those things they call accessories, apparently because they're practically no use at all. The outstanding one this year is the "Chamberlain" umbrella—called in Paris "un Chamberlain"—a feminine gadget with a large sober crook for a handle.

Understanding . . .

Classes Organized to Educate the Much Ignored Prospective Father

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Times are changing! The new social order is thinking of everyone. At last they have some propaganda for that lowest of human animals, the prospective father.

The Maternity Medical Centre, 1 East 57th street, New York, is conducting a course, and the only requirement for entrance is that the applicant be a prospective father.

They have also issued two pamphlets, "Syllabus — classes for prospective fathers," and "A Talk for Prospective Fathers."

In the old days everybody made the prospective father feel as if he were a criminal of the deepest dye; all the old ladies, not only long before but particularly during the event, cast baleful glances at him and sometimes even remarked that he had ought to be ashamed of himself. Only his wife seemed to feel that he was all right. When he had been a father six or seven times, of course, he got over his inferiority complex and stood his ground, but the first time he just lay down and took it.

CONCERN OF WOMEN?

The belief that maternity is the concern of the woman folk has created havoc in many homes. At no time in her life does a woman more need the understanding help of her husband. She may not feel well. She may be frightened. She may be excited, irritable or emotional. She may be too casual about her needs. What a feeling of security she would have if her husband took the lead in providing the care that is needed to make maternity as comfortable and safe as it can be.

The course begins with a few lectures on the physiology of reproduction, the beginnings of life, the anatomy of the organs, and the stages of labor, the coming in of the milk and the puerperium. With this knowledge and an understanding of some of the complications, such as vomiting, the father is in a better than sympathetic mood because it is an understanding mood.

WHAT DOCTOR WILL DO

Then there's a lecture on what a good doctor will do, when called, as he should be, early in the case. He will make a complete examination of the prospective mother from head to foot, also taking blood pressure, urinalysis, weight and pelvic measurements.

Then there is advice about making plans early for adequate care—a good hospital or adequate provision in the home.

In the next few lessons the father is given practical demonstrations in how to bathe, feed, diaper (I've often wondered about that myself) and "bubble" the baby, using "Junior," the rubber doll, as a model; in how to make attractive nursery furniture on a burdened budget, and many other useful matters.

Many prospective fathers must have felt as hopeless as Dr. Johnson when Boswell asked him what he would do if he were shut up in a tower with a new-born baby. This course should give them courage.

Is there such a course organized in your town? There should be.

Tragic to See a Family Split Up Over Property

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

There's a family fuss among us eight children over property. Tell me if you think my husband and I have been fair. Five years ago mother was unable to stay in her home during the winter on account of the bitter cold and my husband and I insisted that she come and stay with us until spring. We assumed the mortgage on her house, have it nearly paid off, keeping up taxes and insurance, and we have kept her each winter even when our income was down mighty low. Finally we got old age pension for her which relieved us to some extent. Now my sisters and brothers say we have coaxed the home away from her and keep her with us to use her pension. They come to see mother and spend the time quarreling; so we have no peace as one of them is always here. My husband and I are worried to death and so is mother.

Answer—Sister, it will probably take a lawyer and a good one to settle a family dispute about property and then it will never be settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. However, anybody can tell you that you and your husband hadn't the right to step in and assume indebtedness for your mother's home, pay it off and claim ownership on this ground. Not unless you had offered your brothers and sisters the opportunity to come in with you, and they had declined, would you be in a tenable position.

Granting that the home belongs to your mother and she has the right to hand it over to you, you couldn't expect your sisters and brothers to see this as a fair deal. So not pretending to give legal advice but merely a little golden rule suggestion, why don't you and your husband ask the protesters what would satisfy them and give it to them. After you have got back the cash which you've invested, the good will of your clan will be more precious to you than ownership of the place.

Then, too, shouldn't you think of the mental anguish of your mother, whose children are fighting over her small possessions. Naturally she feels obligated to you and your husband who saved her home from being sold.

It's a common sight, but none the less tragic, to see a family split to pieces over a little land or money. Millions don't compensate us for the peace of mind we lose when members of our family fall out with us over what they consider a raw deal. So I say it's better to go the second mile in satisfying sisters and brothers, even at financial sacrifice, than to hold out and incur their lifelong enmity.

SERIAL STORY . . .

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER

By RUTH RAY KANE

CHAPTER TWENTY

Jim wanted Lona to marry him immediately, that afternoon, as soon as they could go through the motions of obtaining a licence and finding a minister. Now that they had made up their minds, he argued, there was no reason for waiting. But, laughingly, Lona put him off. It wasn't decent, she said. A bride must have some time to get ready for her wedding. She couldn't be married in her crumpled office suit.

"You look good to me in anything, girl," he protested, his eyes meeting hers across the restaurant table with a new look in them, a possessive, promising look that brought a warm glow to her strained face and made her feel suddenly alive. Alive, after all these days of just enduring, just getting through things because they must, somehow, be lived through.

"I hope you're not going to want any fuss," he brought out. "I hate that sort of thing. You're not planning any church aisle stuff, are you?"

She laughed. "I've had enough publicity this last week. I'm won-

Teach Children To Know Nature

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

You and I like people to remember our names. We are pleased by the salesman who does so. On the other hand, we are not attracted to people who forget our names.

We also feel more happy when we recall another person's name and recall his name as we speak to him. Have you noticed that when you have forgotten a person's name after you have met him, or when you come across him a second or third time, how very unhappy you feel because you can't recall his name? As you know, we can be happier, make others happier, and make them like us better if we remember and often use their names when we are with them. Let us teach our children by precept and example in the art of remembering people's names.

LEARN NATURE, TOO

Just as we and our children enjoy people better when we know their names, so we enjoy birds and flowers and trees better when we know their names. A bird means more to us as a robin, lark or wren than it means just as a bird. So does it mean more to our children. A flower is more precious as a tulip, marigold or rose than merely as a flower. So also is a maple, birch or elm far more enjoyable than only as a tree. It's so much finer to know a flower by its color, shape or fragrance; a bird by its feathers, flight or song; a tree by its leaves, bark or trunk. Though birds, flowers and trees can't talk to us, we can talk to them and feel their friendship as we know them by their names.

Fortunate is the tot whose parents, older brothers, sisters or teachers will go with him into the woods, across the fields, beside the streams, up and down the hills and through the hollows, especially when these places are alive.

CAN ENJOY THEM

If these pilgrims to the out-of-doors are good citizens, if they love the beautiful things about them, and if they want other people to enjoy these beautiful things, they are careful not to bother anybody or anything. They don't go where they should not go. They don't break down fences, nor trample down the crops. They don't steal the fruit and vegetables. They don't hurt the trees and flowers and plants. They don't throw stones at the birds. They look at all these beautiful things, enjoy them and talk about them. Best of all, they enjoy these beautiful things together.

Man, Brag About Your Wife

by Mary Blake

Do you brag about the coffee she makes? If that isn't easy to do—get her to try Carnation Milk for creaming the coffee. It may surprise you what a new, rich, smooth flavour you'll find.

Carnation gives smooth richness to good coffee because Carnation Milk itself is rich and smooth—double-rich milk of the consistency of cream. Wherever, in cooking or creaming, milk is called for, Carnation Milk means finer flavour, finer texture—and it is very economical.

For one use where cost doesn't matter, economical Carnation is also best—in baby-feeding. More digestible than cows' milk in any other form. Carnation is just whole milk with part of the natural water taken out; sterilized so it keeps on the pantry shelf indefinitely; homogenized to give every drop equal creamy smoothness; irradiated for extra "sunshine" vitamin D.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

dering if we could go away some place, out of the city. Do you suppose the reporters will write us up if they find out?"

"They'll eat it up. . . . Prison Escape Girl Weds. . . . Can't you see the headlines?" He crinkled his eyes into a frown over his cigaret and Lona felt suddenly panicky.

"Couldn't we elope?" she brought out. "To Greenwich, maybe?"

But he shook his head. "Greenwich is too public. All the runaways go there. The reporters watch the licence lists and they'd spot us right off, unless—" He hesitated, and she sensed a sudden tenseness in his eyes. "You wouldn't want to use some other name, would you, girl? They wouldn't tumble then."

For amoment Lona frowned. "But, Jim, that wouldn't be legal, would it? I thought you had to use your own name on a marriage licence."

"Oh, it would be legal, all right. It's the intent that counts, not the name. There's many a man gets himself hooked up under an alias. Why, for all you know, maybe I'm not using my right name. You've only my word that I was born Jim Claridge."

He grinned at her, and she had to smile back. Gazing into his face, it came to her that she really did know very little about this man she was planning to marry. Nothing but that he was kind and strong, and that he loved her. She was sure of that, now. But he had told her almost nothing about himself, and what he had told her might not be true.

"I'll take your word for it, Jim," she brought out, abruptly, ashamed of even the shadow of a doubt. "And I suppose there's no use trying to run from the newspapers. I'll just have to take the publicity." She shrugged and he gave her hand a reassuring pressure.

"We'll make it Friday," she promished when he did not speak. "Friday afternoon—" She broke off, then flushing at her own boldness.

"Friday! That's three whole days! When we could be hunting up a licence right now. You women are funny." He shook his head and she laughed again.

"Wait until you see the wedding dress I'm going to buy," she told him.

It couldn't be white, of course. With Daddy just laid to rest in the grassy cemetery back in Bridgewater she had to pass up anything reminiscent of bridal satins and orange blossoms. Blue was her next best color and it was upon a demure little fall model of navy crepe that she decided finally. With a delicious recklessness she cashed the check Mr. Sanders had given her, and bought a trim little blue felt hat with turned-up brim and a price tag that would have sent her scurrying at any other time. She even managed a pair of blue pumps, with the sheerest of matching hose, and a pair of smart hand-knitted gloves.

Waiting for Jim to call for her at the hotel on the last evening before what was scheduled to be their wedding day, she tried on all her purchases together. She adjusted the collar of filmy white organdy on the blue dress and stood for a long moment studying herself critically in the mirror. She looked slim, and girlish, and not very bride-like, she told herself severely. More like a business girl ready for work.

MONTREAL TERMINAL EXPLAINED

It is nice to know that the directors of the Canadian National Railways duly deliberated and considered every little thing before they embarked upon the huge passenger terminal expenditure in Montreal—something in the tens of millions, isn't it?—that the press of the country has almost unanimously condemned as outrageous under the company's financial conditions and in view of the national desire for railway coordination.

They tell us about it themselves in the annual report just laid before parliament. In the words of President S. J. Hungerford:

"During the year a study was made of the Montreal terminal project, work on which had been suspended for some years. In such study the directors gave consideration to the following factors:

"The necessity for rational coordination of passenger and freight terminals of the Canadian National in the interests of efficiency and economy.

"The adverse effect, financial and otherwise, upon the operations of the company through the continued use and maintenance of antiquated and uncoordinated terminal facilities inherited from predecessor companies.

"The long-standing grade crossing problem in Montreal.

"The effect upon the development and growth of the city, industrially and otherwise.

"The provision of a satisfactory suburban service between South Shore communities and the centre of the city.

"The amount of money already invested in the property standing idle.

"The necessary developments in the light of present day conditions and requirements as well as future necessities, including eventually, if decided upon, a union terminal.

"The pre-eminent suitability of the location of the central station for a union terminal demonstrated by exhaustive study of the situation by the company's engineers as well as by a special independent study made by Sir Frederick Palmer, M. Inst. C.E., M.Am. Soc. C.E., who was engaged by the Dominion government for the purpose.

"The directors therefore decided that the company should proceed with the completion of the terminal by stages as conditions warrant, taking advantage of any favorable factors which may from time to time prevail for doing work which contributes to the eventual completion.

"The Dominion government has recognized the importance of this project as a means of relieving unemployment, and has contributed to the cost of the work a portion of the funds voted by parliament in its construction and rehabilitation appropriation, and tenders have been called and contracts placed for the construction of certain items of the work. Further progress is contingent upon the project being assisted as an unemployment relief measure to the extent of the direct labor content of the work performed."

It is a pity that the spirit of coordination and of economy, exemplified in the agreement for the joint operation of the new Canadian National hotel at Vancouver—to which the report also made reference—was not allowed to have play in Montreal.

The extreme pleasure we take in talking of ourselves should make us fear that we give very little to those who listen to us.—La Rochefoucauld.

DISILLUSIONMENT ALL 'ROUND

Winston Churchill says that those in Britain who sought peace and believed in the possibility of peace have no need to recant—"their aims were honorable." At the same time he says it is astonishing that any well-informed and thoughtful persons could have believed that the spring would pass without further German aggression.

Two weeks ago he himself was in a fair way to believe just that. On March 13, sizing the situation, he considered Germany's straits, Italy's weakness, Britain's growing strength, the feeling in eastern Europe, the awakening of America, and concluded that there was reason to hope there would be no breakdown of civilization this year. British rearmament, he said, had brought respect for Britain's wishes and rights, while in Europe the fate of Czecho-Slovakia had not induced submission or despair. His chief fear was that Germany might be tempted to strike before the odds against her became too great.

That is what has happened. Hitler has struck and equalized the odds. The event was one that was foreseen as a possibility by everyone, but it could not have been prevented—recently or in September—without a preventive war, which would have been a crime as long as there remained hope of peace.

Now the new situation has to be faced and it must be faced with clear eyes and without loss of confidence. Mr. Churchill says Chamberlain has been disillusioned by Hitler's breach of faith but he says, too, that the dictator has been disillusioned by Britain's determination to resist him. He is certain that the forces arrayed against Nazism are still far the stronger. In that is the justification of the British government's policy.

There is nothing more nearly permanent in human life than a well-established custom.—Joseph Anderson.

What counts most in the modern business world is an adding machine.

Early Days in Nakusp . . .

(Editor's Note: Nakusp in its early days with its first industries, boats and activities, was described to a banquet meeting of the Youth Training school at Nakusp by Kenneth Harlow, his information being supplied by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jordan of Nakusp.)

By KENNETH HARLOW

Nakusp lies prettily on the eastern shore overlooking a crescent-like bay, of the Arrow Lakes, at an altitude of 1413 feet above sea level. The name Nakusp mean's "Big Bay".

In the year 1892, the townsite of Nakusp was staked and jointly owned by the C.P.R. and Kootenay & Columbia Steam Navigation company. One company staked Nakusp and the other company staked the bay west of Kooskanux creek. However, they settled their differences and decided to have the townsite at Nakusp. The townsite was cleared and surveyed into lots in 1892, the foreman of the crew being Tref Nault, a Frenchman, who had a large gang of French Canadians. In the same year the Slocan railway construction started.

HOTELS BUILT

In 1893 the Hotel Madden and Leland hotel were built, the Madden hotel being across the street from the Leland. The Leland hotel has been added to many times, but the original structure still stands. There was also a hotel at the foot of the hill owned by a Mr. Thomas, who was the first postmaster here. It was afterward destroyed by fire. There were also three stores, one owned by a man named Frank Bourne, another by F. W. Jordan & Co., and the third by Mr. Garland. There was a small sawmill built by Pete Gennelle.

At this time there was a steamboat named the S.S. Lytton, which plied between Revelstoke and Northport, Wash. It started running about the end of May and ran as long as the water was high enough to go through the rapids. This boat was owned by the Kootenay & Columbia Steam Navigation company and was purchased at Northport. In those days the boat used wood for fuel, which employed quite a few men along the lake route.

The Navigation Company then started building boats at Nakusp. Owing to the mining boom at Rossland, the Lytton could not begin to handle the business. This was the first big industry for Nakusp employing about 75 men.

Later on the Gennelle mill grew to quite a large concern, employing around 150 men.

SLOCAN ORE

The ore from the Slocan country was hauled by pack train in the summer and by sleds in the winter time to Nakusp. Of course when the railroad was completed the ore was taken by train, which kept them busy. There was not even a wagon road in the old days. From Revelstoke to Robson was a vast wilderness until the completion of the railroads.

In the early days the Indians came from Colville, Wash., in their birch bark canoes with their families, to hunt all summer and return to Washington for winter. We had no permanent residing Indians of our own.

In 1922 the business houses that were on the water front were deserted and the merchants moved up and located on Broadway.

We also had a large Chinese garden, owned by Sam Henry. He employed about 20 Chinese and supplied the boats and residents with fruit and vegetables. The garden is now owned by Buesnel brothers.

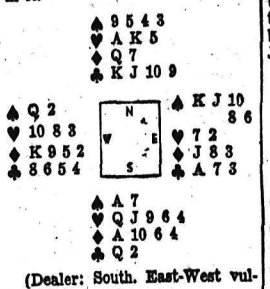
Contract Bridge

Shepard Barclay Tells How to Bid and Play

REBID ON YOUR LENGTH

SOME DAY THE leading bridge books will give bidding advice which more closely approximates the tactics actually used by the authors at the competitive table. Some of the most prominent teachers still feel that the average person will get in trouble if the methods of the big winners are taught to him, but others think it is always a mistake to teach one thing when you know another is sounder. This applies especially to the rebidding of a major suit, which depends not at all upon how much honor strength is in that suit but only upon the number of cards you hold in it.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Proper rebidding tactics won this deal for one side of a team match. At the first table South bid 1-Heart, North 2-Clubs, South 2-Diamonds, North 2-No trump and South 3-No trump. Though East made the unfortunate lead of the spade J, costing one trick, his side held the hand to exactly 3-No trump, getting three tricks in spades and the club A.

At the other table, after the 1-Heart by South, 2-Clubs by North, 2-Diamonds by South and 2-No trump by North, South saw fit to rebid his five-card suit at 2-Hearts. North, a sound partner, who would not make a three-card raise of what might be a four-card suit headed by the Q or J-10, now knew his partner had five hearts. So he raised to 4-Hearts.

There was no earthly way to beat this contract, at which only one trick each was lost in clubs, diamonds and spades, thus producing a score which defeated the 3-No trump by 20 points. In addition, there was the fact that the No trump game would have been beaten if East had not led the spade J and West put his Q on it.

Tomorrow's Problem

Hints on Etiquette

Until recently the tuxedo was worn only on semi-formal or "stag" affairs, the full dress suit being the only correct attire for men when ladies were present at evening gatherings. In recent years, and in less formal circles, the tuxedo may be worn on many occasions in place of the full dress suit.

ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers is open to any reader of the Nelson Daily News. In no case will the name of the person asking the question be published.

H. T., Nelson—Will you please tell me how to make a good cobblestone path without using cement, if possible?

The main feature in making a cobblestone path is to have a firm foundation, light gravel being as good as any for this purpose. Leave a fair space between stones, fill with soil and seed with grass.

J. F. C., Kimberley—Does Canada issue post cards with information of new stamp issues, and where to apply to get same?

Not as far as we know. Any information regarding new issues of stamps may be had by writing the Post Office department, Ottawa.

B. L., Nelson—Would you please publish the words of the "Penny Serenade?"

"Once I strayed 'neath the window of a lovely lady,
And she smiled—While I softly played my Penny Serenade—si si, si.
You can hear it for a penny—si, si, si
Just a Penny Serenade.
In her eyes—shone the tender dawn of love and sweet surrender,
As for me—In my heart I played a lover's serenade—si, si, si,
Hear my love song for a penny—si, si, si,
Just a Penny Serenade.
In a dream so divine she was mine,
No word spoken—When I woke from my dream she was gone,
My poor heart was broken,
Still I pray—That wherever she may be she will remember.
In her heart—She will always hear my Penny Serenade, si, si, si,
That's my love song for a penny, si, si, si,
Just a Penny Serenade, si, si, si,
Just a Penny Serenade, si, si, si,
Just a Penny Serenade, si, si, si."

A. N.—What is the difference in the rating of a horse power in a steam engine and in a gasoline engine? It seems that a 20 horse power gasoline has not the same efficiency as a 20 horse power steam engine. Why is that?

The rating of horse power is always the same, and the output of a 20 horse power steam engine is equivalent to a 20 horse power gasoline engine.

NOTES ON Canadian Birds

By G. H. RICHARDSON

In early March, the ducks begin to move. Wintering species are beginning to assume their breeding plumage, and courtship performances start.

In a previous article, mention was made of the highly musical note — a real song — of the Old-squaw Duck. From now until early May, Old-squaws will be in evidence in certain parts of southern Canada. At this time, they are changing from the winter dress with much white, to one which is mostly dark brown. As this takes some time to attain, for the next two months, birds of a pied appearance, of all stages of in-betweenness are commonly seen, and cause some confusion due to this extremely varied appearance. If the long tail is present, it settles the question quite readily, for the Pintail is the only other duck we have with such a long tail, and it is definitely different in color from the Old-squaw in both male and female, and has a longer slenderer neck.

The American Golden-eye is another duck which winters in numbers in southern Canada. It has an interesting mating performance, in which the drake draws back its head until it touches the back, making at the same time a nasal "beep," its head immediately bobbing back into place, like a spring.

The Golden-eye summers in the northern forested areas, nesting in trees, using available holes, probably old Pileated Woodpeckers' holes.

STRIKINGLY PATTERNED

It is strikingly patterned in black and white; the head being iridescent green. The eye is yellow, and just in front of it is a round white patch. There is a western species, the Barrow's Golden-eye, which has violet and purple iridescence instead of green; a crescent-shaped patch before the eye; and more

Old-Squaw Ducks

black along the sides. When it flies, its stiff wings produce a whistle, the cause of the common name "whistler," by which it is more familiarly known to hunters.

In addition to these, Scaup Ducks (Bluebills) are common, and with them some Canvas-backs and Redheads. Scaups look black at both ends and white in the middle, and are readily distinguishable from the Red-heads and Canvas-backs. To distinguish the two species of Scaups, however, is a tougher problem. Greater Scaups have green iridescence on the head; Lessers, purple. In flight the after edge of the wing shows a white edge from the body to the bend of the wing. In the Greater it extends beyond the bend, about to the tip, while in the Lessers it barely goes beyond the bend. Overlapping of these characters occurs to such an extent that some authorities will not identify these two in the field.

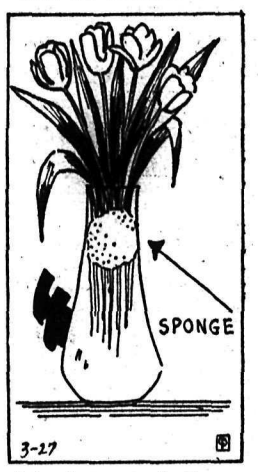
The Red-head's back is grey, and its head rusty-colored. The Canvas-back has a very white body, even more so than a Scaup, but its head is rusty, too, not so dark as a Scaup's and its sloping forehead, continuing the line of its long bill is quite unlike the distinct forehead of must ducks.

A Safety Sponge Aids Cut Flowers

By DEAN HALIDAY

Getting a vaseful of garden flowers to the flower show, or to a sick friend's bedside without having the flower wilt for lack of water, has always been a perplexing problem. Here, however, is a practical suggestion: Try using a safety first sponge in the container.

After the flowers have been



Safety first sponge for flower vase

arranged in a container of water, work a dry sponge into the neck of the container as shown in the above Garden-Graph. The sponge should be a long, narrow one that can be wedged around the flower stems.

With the safety first sponge in place, the vase of flowers can be taken in an automobile, or carried by hand, without danger of the water slopping out of the container. The dry sponge in the neck of the vase will absorb and hold any water which slops up against it as the vase is handled or carried about.

Baron Lauds Hitler on Prague Arrival

PRAGUE, April 5 (AP)—Baron Konstantin Von Neurath lauded Adolf Hitler as a master of history today upon his arrival here to take up his new office as Hitler's protector for Bohemia and Moravia.

Von Neurath emphasized in a brief speech that he deemed it his duty to lead Bohemia and Moravia within the reich's "living space" to prosperity.

"It is my ardent hope the Czech people recognize our and their mission," he said in pleading for "honest cooperation."

B.C. Winter Sports Grounds Considered

VICTORIA, April 5 (CP)—To follow up surveys on the development of winter sports grounds, Hon. W. J. Asselstine, British Columbia minister of trade and industry, and E. C. Manning, chief forester, will visit Timberline Lodge near Portland, this weekend.

The government is considering a project on the north shore of Vancouver harbor and has a report from James Sinclair, Mr. Asselstine's former secretary, on the possibilities there for ski grounds and other winter sports.

LEAFS HEAD FOR BOSTON AT NEAR FULL STRENGTH

TORONTO, April 5 (CP). — As strong as at any time since the start of the National Hockey league schedule, Toronto Maple Leafs entrained tonight for Boston to open the Stanley cup finals with Bruins tomorrow. Leafs took along Defenceman Jack Church and Goalie Phil Stein from their Syracuse farm club in case of emergency.

Defenceman Bingo Kampman could barely feel the soreness in the ankle he twisted when the Leafs knocked off Detroit in the semi-finals last Saturday night. Harvey Jackson was fully recovered from the knee injury he suffered before the playoffs.

George Parsons and Buzz Boll are still out. Parsons is just beginning to see partially through an eye that may never regain full sight because of an injury. Boll has crippled first one knee and then the other this season, and won't play until next fall.

But Pete Langelle has proved an able replacement for Parsons, working at centre-ice while Murph Chamberlain has moved to Parsons' wing.

Manager Conny Smythe said he was satisfied Leafs were ready to hold their own over the best-of-seven games grind. Coach Dick Irvin saw possibilities the Toronto team's speed might over-ride the admitted edge held by the bruising Bruin defence.

With them, the Leafs had precedent. They had met the Bruins four times in previous cup series and have beaten them every time.

Brandon Hopeful In Junior Series

WINNIPEG, April 5 (CP)—Brandon Elks' amazing 5-0 victory Wednesday night over Edmonton's powerful Roamers has left the best-of-five western junior hockey final up in the air as far as Manitoba fans are concerned and a capacity crowd of 5000 in assured for the fourth game tomorrow night.

Odds still favor Edmonton, who took the first two games in the Alberta capital by 6-0 scores, but many now give Brandon a good chance to square the series tomorrow.

Roamers may be without Defenceman Harry Pardee, who aggravated an old ankle injury last night. Coach Lefty Grove said it was doubtful whether he will play in the fourth game. George Agar, suspended for two games following the Saturday contest at Edmonton, also will be on the bench. Ken Reardon may replace Pardee.

Mel Neilsen, who suffered a three-inch gash over the eye in Tuesday's game here when clipped by Bud Foley's stick, will be in action tomorrow and Brandon will be at full strength.

Hornquist Plans to Use Original Lineup

SASKATOON, April 5 (CP)—Saskatoon was hit by another attack of "hockey fever" today as the Kimberley Dynamiters and Port Arthur Bearcats arrived for the fourth game of the western Canada senior finals tomorrow night.

The Bearcats, without the semblance of an injury or a cold on the entire lineup, went through a brisk workout this afternoon. Coach "Jazzy" Manahan stated he would use the same lineup as in the games at Calgary and predicted his club would be the new western Canada champions tomorrow. Manahan anticipated a stiff fight from the Dynamiters but figured his club could cope with it.

The Dynamiters followed the Bearcats on arena ice and went through a stiff hour's drill. Carl Sorenson was their only absentee but he will be available for tomorrow night's game. "Scotty" Ness and Gordie Wilson, who missed the third game at Calgary, worked out with the team and will play tomorrow night.

With the casualties available for duty, Coach "Swede" Hornquist will have the same lineup available as when his Dynamiters defeated the Bearcats in the first game of the series. Harry Brown, Bill Burnett and Jack Corbett will alternate on defence in front of Ken Campbell and the front line combinations will be Ralph Redding, Gordie Wilson and Carl Sorenson and Hugo Mackie, "Scotty" Ness and Chris Sorenson with "Puffy" Kemp available for relief.

Pete Sande, Calgary and Pete Rule, Edmonton will be the referees tomorrow night. They replace "Duke" Keats and Art Townsend of Edmonton, who handled the games at Calgary.

Wooderson Granted Permission to Run at Princeton Meet

LONDON, April 5 (AP).—Sydney Wooderson, Britain's holder of the world mile and half-mile records, was granted permission today to compete in Princeton university's invitation track meet June 17 after a controversy with the British Amateur Athletic board.

The board's action will result in the matching of the two greatest milers of the day — Glenn Cunningham and Wooderson.

Wooderson said the board tried to prevent him from competing at Princeton so he would be available for British A. A. championships, June 7-8.

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP).—The track meet between picked athletes of Great Britain and the United States, scheduled for New York's Randalls Island July 15, will not be held if Sydney Wooderson goes through with his announcement to make his American debut in the Princeton invitation meet, Dan Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, said today.

"We told the British Amateur Athletic Union that we could not hold the meet unless Wooderson ran his first race in this country in our meet," said Ferris. "Naturally his race against Glenn Cunningham would have been the drawing card."

Rossland Rink Finance Group Is at a Loss

ROSSLAND, B.C., April 5—After meeting with discouraging results in the vigorous drive for funds for the construction of a $30,000 skating rink for Rossland, the rink finance committee is now reluctant and at a loss to know what steps to take, John Gordon, chairman, stated Wednesday.

A local organization which has been a staunch supporter of the campaign, has a scheme up its sleeve to raise funds, but will not announce it for a while yet, it was learned. There will be nothing doing for at least two months.

Ailments Heavy on Ball Hurlers

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—Seldom has a baseball season approached with such an assortment of ailments afflicting the moundsmen. A few sports page scare heads picked at random:

"Castleman to see surgeon."

"Hubbell to Memphis for arm examination."

"Lamaster to see Card physician."

"Dizzy awits doctors' verdict."

With the opening of the major league season less than two weeks away the list of mound question marks includes Hal Schumacher, Carl Hubbell and Clydell Castleman of the Giants; the two Deans, Paul of the Cardinals and Dizzy of the Cubs; Lefty Grove of the Red Sox; Lee Grissom of the Reds; Van Lingle Mungo of the Dodgers; Schoolboy Rowe of the Tigers and Johnny Allen of the Indians.

On the ability of several of these men to bounce hinges the hopes of their clubs. If Schumacher, Hubbell and Castleman come through the Giants would be a favorite. Dizzy Dean might be worth 20 games to the Cubs, or he might be worth 20 cents.

Johnny Allen, with a good arm, could make the Indians a team on its toes instead of on its nose, and Grissom's long left arm might hurl the Reds to the pennant or over the back fence.

Today Manager Bill Terry received an optimistic report on Hubbell from Memphis. Dr. J. Spencer Speed told Terry the screwball hurler's trouble with his left shouler was nothing serious.

MODEST JOCKEY IS TOPS — JUST SITS, HANGS ON

BOWIE, Md., April 5 (AP).—The leading United States jockey is little Johnny Oros, amazingly modest apprentice, who said today his winning technique was to "just sit up there and hang on."

He's only 17 and so small he looks as if he would rattle around in a thimble but he's a terrific saddle opponent. To date this year he has ridden 95 winners.

Glycerine Made From Waste Gas

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP).—Discovery that glycerine, one of the chemicals in world-wide use, can be made from a gasoline by-product, waste gas, was announced today.

From ancient days the only source of glycerine has been animal and vegetable fats. The new glycerine is neither animal nor vegetable in source.

Its synthesis, described to the American Chemical society, was regarded as one of the leading industrial scientific achievements of this century. Production already has been proven on a commercial scale.

Chemists of the Shell Development Co., Emeryville, Calif. who invented the process, said the oil wells can supply glycerine for the entire world. The new glycerine, they declared, is even better in non-toxic qualities than the United States Pharmacopeia requires of the "natural" glycerine.

The glycerine is made from propylene, a waste gas from the cracking process of gasoline manufacture. The gas is treated with chlorine. The result is allyl chlorine, a new commercial product, useful for industry, but poisonous.

Scottish Sport Writers Could See No Good in Smoke Eaters

Hammer Wielded Generally on Canadian Champs; Suggested Their Visit Did the Game No Good

With the Trail Smoke Eaters returning to Canada with glowing reports of the hospitality extended them while touring Scotland, it is somewhat surprising to read con-"experts" in old country papers concerning the sportsmanship displayed by the Trail Smoke Eaters. One of the newspapers, The Ice Hockey World and Skating Review, proclaimed through its staff writers that the actions of the Trail Smoke Eaters had done great harm to the game in Scotland.

In his account of the game between the Smokies and a picked Scottish team at Falkirk, one critic wrote, "Trail, billed as "Canada" won 7-5 but I am sure that after this game they will be treating the Scottish representatives with considerably more respect. I make bold to say that if it had not been for an unfortunate accident to Bill Lane, Dundee Tigers cagetender in the closing minute of the first period when Scotland were leading by one goal, the Trail boys would not have gotten away with a win.

The game started in a welter of excitement, when it was apparent that Trail had forgotten that, while they were world champions, the referee still ruled the game. The visitors raised the ire of the spectators by their tactics which often went over the borderline of fair play, but generally speaking the Trail boys were simply playing their ordinary hard-going hockey, and the Scots soon started dishing out the get-together stuff themselves.

In the story of Trail's 4-0 victory at Dundee rink was included the criticism:

"Five thousand people crammed the rink, and though enjoying the Smoke Eaters' smart hockey, were disappointed at the way the Canadians heckled and threatened the referee."

TRULY AMATEUR

A feature story in the paper stated that the Smoke Eaters were real out-and-out amateurs and went into detail concerning the occupations of each player. "In these days," the story said, "when so many impolite remarks are being made about ice hockey, it is refreshing to note that there is one ice hockey team that is truly amateur. This club of clubs is Trail Smoke Eaters, Canadian and world champions."

Following an interview with the team, Robert O'Sullivan wrote: "Coming from out in the west from a little town of 12,000 people in the shadow of the Rockies, they have all the unsophisticated charm and sociability of Canadians from the West, and they are as modest as if they were schoolboys on holiday rather than one of the greatest hockey teams in the world."

Following a walk with Joe Benoit and Duke Scodallero, O'Sullivan said, "that journey is one I won't forget for a while. both boys walking within inches of complete annihilation by motor cars. The Smoke Eaters just can't remember that all the traffic here keeps to the left hand side of the road—the wrong side as they call it. And it put my heart in my mouth to see Joe and Duke stepping briskly off pavements into the path of onrushing cars, with their heads turned the other way." Throughout the remainder of the article the scribe gave intimate sketches on several of the players and interesting sidelights.

Writing under the name of "Fearless" one columnist minced no words regarding his opinion of the Smokies, and reached the heights with the following:

ASTONISHED

"Six thousand people turned out at Dundee to see the Smoke Eaters and were astonished. They were not astonished by the brilliant play of the visitors. NO! They were astonished at the amazingly BAD sportsmanship shown by the Smoke Eaters!

"To me it was evident they were trying the old Canadian game of scaring the devil out of the referee. I suppose that in some of the continental places they visited they must have had to play against the referee as well as the players of other teams, but in Scotland such tactics are unnecessary to maintain fair play. The Dundee public just couldn't understand it all. They had never seen anything like it—and they hated it.

"Smoke Eaters' display of bad temper, win-at-any-cost tactics and disregard for the referee's uniform left a bad taste in the mouth and certainly did the game no good in the north. Many Scots are wondering now as to what manner of men they breed in Canada. It is all so disappointing. These games between the Scots and the tourists could have been used to cement the friendship existing between the nations.

SHOULD HAVE REFUSED GOAL!

"Smoke Eaters had chances to show good spirit but not once did they take them. For instance, there was the occasion when Mel Snowden accidentally kicked the puck into the net and Referee McCabe, unsighted by players, awarded a goal. Wasn't that a wonderful opportunity for Snowden to skate over to the ref and explain what had happened? The crowd would have loved him for it. Not he. He took pats on the back, as if he had done something really smart.

"If anything, the display of poor sportsmanship by the Smoke Eaters was worse at Falkirk on Friday. When Rogers scored with a shot that went right through the net, they set a terrific squawk, swarmed around the referee and beat the ice with their sticks in vexation. I almost expected them to burst into tears.

First Smoke Eaters Get Hearty Welcome Home; Babe Greets Dame

TRAIL, B.C., April 5—As members of the Trail Smoke Eaters, world amateur hockey champions will be "straggling" home at different times, no official welcome was arranged, but several hundred fans turned out today to welcome Buck Buchanan, Bunny Dame and Ab Cronie and Jimmy Morris.

The greatest reception was tendered Bunny Dame, who was greeted with a daughter, born last March 16.

With their families waiting for them, the players remained with the reception crowd only a short time before being driven to their respective homes.

Plans for an official public reception will be announced after all members of the team, who propose to return to Trail, arrive.

gested that most of the neutrality law be repealed, and that instead the president, in the case of war which threatens American interests, be empowered to name the aggressor and stop commerce with the country named. He would not object, he added, if such action were conditioned upon the approval of congress, but was not convinced that such a check was necessary.

Senators Borah (R-Idaho) and Johnson (R-Calif.), two veteran isolationists whose service goes back to the battle against American entry into the League of Nations, leaped to the attack; they plied Stimson with questions based upon their well-known point of view that to name an aggressor holds dangerous possibilities of pulling this country into the war.

"Where do you go from there?" Johnson demanded. "Doesn't that edge us into war?"

Stimson replied that America's vast resources and inaccessibility to attack were a shield against aggression by a nation already at war with another country.

"Then," Johnson asserted, "you are hazarding the whole thing on the event that the people declared to be an aggressor will be so busy in their war that they would not attack us."

"I think," Stimson answered, "our country can act with reasonably assured safety to declare an aggressor and decline to assist the aggressor further."

STOP HITLER MOVE APPROVED

The discussion quickly veered to recent European developments. Johnson noted the formation of a "stop Hitler" bloc, approving its purpose, and emphasizing that Great Britain and France were attempting to bring Russia into the alignment.

Great Britain and France take the field, the three great democracies of the world (his inclusion of Russia was pointedly satirical), do you want us to take the field with them?"

Stimson parried momentarily, saying that the question was an example of Johnson's skill as a controversialist. Then he gave this answer:

"Not unless the situation became dangerous enough to indicate that we would be the next victim. Then I would go in as fast as I could."

Senator Reynolds (D-N.C), asserting that Great Britain and France had been guilty of force and aggression in building up their empires, asked if Stimson saw any danger of "Hitler or Mussolini coming over here in the next six or seven months and attacking us."

"Not in the next six or seven months."

"Nor in the next six or seven years," Reynolds shot back with a tone of finality.

"I'm not so certain about that. It depends on their success with the nation which you seem to be prejudiced against."

Borah asked how Stimson would define an aggressor in writing a law, and the latter replied that he would "make the definition of an aggressor nation one which has been guilty of violating a treaty with us."

To this Borah replied that none of the European nations involved in the discussion was in that category.

"I think the pact of Paris sufficient," Stimson said, referring to the Kellogg-Briand treaty by which most of the nations of the world renounced war as an instrument of national policy."

"Undoubtedly," said Borah, "they are violating American principles—".

"Principles involved in a promise to us," Stimson said.

"They made no promises to us in the pact of Paris," the senator persisted.

"I think they did," was Stimson's

Elaborate Plans to Curb Boston Fans Under Way

BOSTON, April 5 (AP).—Plans to curb over-exhilarated Bruins fans rather than Toronto Maple Leafs, were foremost in the mind of Manager Art Ross today when he gave his Boston Bruins final instructions for tomorrow's opening Stanley cup hockey class at Boston Garden.

Ross said the Bruins' management was so determined to protect players and spectators from missile-throwers who disrupted play in Sunday night's final playoff game against New York Rangers it had decided to station large details of plain clothes policemen in all parts of the arena.

"Should the practice of throwing from the upper balcony continue tomorrow night, it will be closed for the remainder of the Toronto series," Ross warned. There are but 1500 seats available in the top section. They are scaled at 40 cents.

During a blackboard drill, Ross and his players, including five Boston-owned farmhands acting as insurance against injuries, worked on plans calculated to tie up the Drillon-Apps-Davidson line, the only set of Toronto forwards the Bruins say they fear.

"Bookies" were loaded with Bruins' money and were quoting the National Hockey league champions as 5-3 favorites for the opening game and the series.

policy that will lift agriculture out of some of the difficulties it is experiencing from one end of the Dominion to the other. It is with that end in view that I bring this measure before the house."

The acreage assurance plan will apply to the spring wheat area of Western Canada which, for practical purposes means the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the Peace River district of British Columbia. Some spring wheat is grown in the Fraser river delta of British Columbia but with abundance of rain there the yields are so high the farmers would not come under the bill.

Salient features of the plan are:

1. A charge of one per cent on all grain which goes to terminals to form part of a fund, the remainder to be provided by the treasury.

2. In an emergency year payments may be made to farmers of $1 an acre on half their cultivated acreage in townships with an average yield of wheat from 11 to 15 bushels, of $2.00 an acre in townships with an average yield of six to 10 bushels and of $2.50 an acre in townships with a yield less than five bushels.

3. The bill will declare 1939 an emergency year. Subsequent years may be declared emergency by order-in-council.

4. Acreage payments for wheat will be subject to deductions of 1-10 for every cent the average price of wheat from August to December exceeds 70 cents and when the price reaches 80 cents no payment will be made.

5. In succeeding years the government may vary the limits of the 10-cent price range.

6. In years of total crop failure farmers with less than five bushels to the acre will receive the $2.50 payment regardless of whether it is an emergency year and regardless of price.

7. Wheat is used as a basis of determining crop yield but payments will be made on all cultivated acreage, whether in summer fallow or other crops.

8. The township is the unit of yield, to avoid individual declarations and avoid encouraging the farming of poor land.

9. The maximum acreage on which a farmer may receive payment is 200 where the farmer has 400 acres in cultivation.

The plan will replace the present system under which the Canadian wheat board pays a fixed price (this year 80 cents a bushel for No. 1 Northern at Fort William) for wheat. The wheat board will not be abolished, however. It will operate as a central selling agency for cooperatives as the former central selling agency of the wheat pools operated.

Under the most unfavorable conditions the maximum cost to the Dominion treasury of the new system would be $30,000,000 said Mr. Gardiner, just half the cost of the fixed price this year. With an average market price of 62 cents a bushel, the wheat board stood to lose $48,000,000 on the wheat it bought at 80 cents and in addition relief for farmers who had no crop would cost $12,000,000.

The present system was described by Mr. Gardiner as uneconomic, inequitable and tending to encourage production of wheat at expense of other grains.

He estimated the market price for wheat this year might have been five to 10 cents a bushel higher if the government had not bought all the wheat. With competition eliminated and the government holding all the Canadian wheat, buyers were safe in delaying their purchases. Elevator companies, with the government paying storage charges, were in no hurry to move wheat.

It was inequitable in that it gave much to farmers with good crops and nothing to farmers with crop

B.C. GAME DEPARTMENT FISHERIES PROGRAM TO BE GREATEST YET, 1939

Nelson, Gerard to Be Included in Huge Scheme

VICTORIA, April 5 (CP). — The British Columbia game department this year has undertaken the greatest program of fish propagation and re-stocking of rivers and lakes yet attempted, Attorney-General Wismer was advised yesterday by J. G. Cunningham, game commissioner.

Mr. Cunningham discussed with the attorney-general plans for the year's work.

It is the first year the province has had full control of fish hatcheries, which were turned over by the federal government.

Within the last 10 days 500,000 yearling Kamloops and cut-throat trout have been planted on Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

Mr. Cunningham outlined a broad program for the department. It includes operation of a new hatchery at Nelson and hatcheries at Summerland, Cultus Lake, Smith Falls, Stanley Park, Qualicum and Veitch Creek near Sooke.

A former Dominion station at Gerard on the Lardeau river has been taken over and will be used as a collecting and eyeing station. Eggs from all over the province will be collected there.

Additional eyeing stations are at Beaver lake near Kelowna and at Penask lake and Lloyds creek in the Kamloops area. A rearing pond will be taken over from the Kelowna Fish and Game association.

Within the last year, Mr. Cunningham said, a total of 16,000,000 eggs and fry have been either planted or liberated.

A new project being developed this year is to destroy coarse fish that eat up the food needed by sport fish and ducks. In cooperation with game associations on the lower mainland and in the Okanagan coarse fish traps will be laid to reduce the numbers of suckers, squaw fish and carp.

Mr. Cunningham said in an experiment at Salmon Arm last year 6,000,000 carp fry from 2½ to 5 inches long were taken out in four days.

The commissioner said he was convinced this year's planting program would be the most successful in the history of the game board.

"It is the best stocking we have ever had," he said. "The fish are in excellent condition, with no sign of disease."

OSHAWA TIES UP EASTERN JUNIOR SERIES, VERDUN

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—Oshawa Generals, playing back to the form expected of them, skated Verdun Leafs into the ice here tonight to score a 6-1 victory and even the series for the eastern Canada junior hockey championship. The teams meet here Friday night in the deciding game of the best of three series, the winner of which will meet either Edmonton or Brandon for the Memorial cup.

Led by the Brilliant Billy Taylor who was held in check in the first game at Montreal which Verdun won 2-1, Generals showed all round power.

Generals went to the front with a brace of goals in the first period and scored a pair in each of the succeeding sessions. Jim Drummond got the first and was followed in order by Nick Knott, Norm McAtee, Taylor, Gerry Kinsella and Gar Peters. Peters got into the game when Roy Sawyer broke a bone in his ankle in the first game.

Salute 101 Guns Announces Birth Albanian Prince

TIRANA, Albania, April 5 (AP) —A son was born yesterday to Queen Geraldine and King Zog, I, it was announced today.

An artillery salute of 101 guns notified the people that a crown prince had been born. Elaborate celebrations were ordered throughout Albania.

The Queen was described as in excellent health.

Queen Geraldine, the former Countess Geraldine Apponyi of Hungary, was married to King Zog last April.

The crown prince is expected to be named Skander in honor of Albania's national hero of the 15th century, Skanderberg, who led a long and bitter uprising against the Turks. His official title is Prince of the Albanians.

Officials indicated the prince would be reared in the Mohammedan faith of his father since it was announced there would be no baptism. Queen Geraldine is Catholic.

Queen Geraldine's mother, Mrs. Gladys Stewart Girault, is an American now living in southern France. Her father was the late Count Julius Nagy-Apponyi.

King Ghazi Is Buried by Father

BAGHDAD, April 5 (AP) — Thousands of bewildered mourners attended the funeral today of King Ghazi of Iraw, who was killed in an automobile accident early yesterday. He was 27.

Members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the government and the army walked behind the coffin in procession from the royal court to the royal mausoleum where Ghazi was buried beside his father, Feisal I.

The funeral of G. E. A. C. Monck-Mason, British consul killed by a mob at Mosul during frenzied mourning yesterday, is to be held tomorrow at Mosul.

Ghazi was succeeded by his three-year-old son, Feisal II, with the boy's uncle Emir Abdul Ilah acting as regent.

SINGS VERSE OF 'SWEET ADELINE' IN PLACE OF FINE

NEW YORK, April 5 (P).—"Sweet A-a-a-a-de-li-i-ine" is still bringing royalties in Henry W. Armstrong, co-author back in 1903 of the classic barroom and barber shop ballet.

He sang his way out of a $2 fine yesterday in traffic court with a rendition of the song's verse to the satisfaction of Magistrate Richard F. McKiniry.

When Magistrate McKiniry learned the defendant was the composer of "Sweet Adeline," he observed he was familiar with the chorus of the song but had never heard the verse.

"Has it a verse?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," Armstrong responded.

"Then sing it and I'll suspend your sentence," the court ordered.

Armstrong obliged with these words of the verse, written by Richard Girard in 1903:

In the evening when I sit alone—dreaming
Of days gone by, love, to me so dear;
There's a picture that in fancy oft appearing Brings back the time, love, when you were near.
It is then I wonder where you are, my darling,
And if your heart to me is still the same;
For the sighing wind and nightingale a-singing
And breathing only your own sweet name.

Magistrate McKiniry listened critically to Armstrong's rendition and before suspending sentence, remarked: "I ought to fine you for singing."

Man Collapsed on Window Ledge Horrifies Crowd

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP) — Passersby who remembered John Warde's spectacular plunge to his death after a wait of nearly eleven hours on a ledge outside his hotel room last summer gazed up, horrified, today at a fifteenth floor window ledge at the Belmont Plaza hotel.

A man's motionless figure was visible, hanging partly out.

"Don't jump!" a policeman shouted, as crowds halted in the street and peered up.

The man—identified as Charles Davidson, 36, of Hamden, Conn.,—apparently didn't hear the commotion. While hotel employees and police battered at the door of his room, two policemen leaned from the window of the next room and grabbed his arm. He stared straight ahead.

Apparently he clung to the ledge semi-conscious, after a heart attack. He was pronounced dead shortly after the door was smashed down. Physicians said he probably had gone to the window for air, and collapsed.

AIR MINISTER RETURNS

LONDON, April 5 (CP.-Havas)—Air Minister Guy La Chambre of France left Croydon for Paris today after conferring with British officials on Anglo-French cooperation in the event of an emergency.

THIEVES BLOW SAFE

BOWDEN, Alta., April 5 (CP).—Thieves blew the safe in M. Sestrap's general store here early today and escaped with $1950, including $1800 in cash, police reported.

The burglars, it was believed, used a railway handcar in making their escape. The Royal Canadian Mounted police are investigating.

B.C. FRUIT MEN FAVOR CENTRAL SELLING SCHEME

Kamloops, G. Forks Only Districts to Turn Down Plan

KELOWNA, B. C., April 5 (CP) —By a vote of 1699 to 202 fruit growers of interior British Columbia have approved a "central selling" scheme for tree fruits in the ballot conducted by the British Columbia Fruit Growers association central selling committee during the past two weeks.

The ballot was necessitated because of opposition from the newly-formed United Distributors Cooperative association, which declared it would not go into any voluntary deal for central selling on the domestic market this year.

Of the 2500 registered growers in the interior, 1901 votes were received by chartered accountants, who conducted vote-counting on behalf of the growers' association. This is said to be a record vote for the fruit growing industry.

In only two districts did the growers turn down the central selling idea, these being Kamloops and Grand Forks, where fruit growing is not extensive. In the Okanagan, most opposition arose in Oyama, but even in that centre the vote went two to one in favor.

Most Okanagan districts voted in favor of central seling by 80 per cent or more, and three districts were unanimously in favor. The Kootenays, whose reaction was considered doubtful, went in favor.

"The result, far more than a vote, a shout and a clamour," said A. Loyd, president of the B. C. F. A. and chairman of the central selling committee, when informed the vote result last night.

"This means that out of every nine growers voting, eight demand that central selling be given a trial. I can hardly imagine a more emphatic answer to the shipper opposition than is contained in the ballot and possibly no further discussion is needed on that score.

"I believe that the oppositon referred to, voiced by those in disagreement with the central selling committee, was genuine, and if so, suggest they now make an equally sincere gesture and cooperate with the B. C. F. G. A. in implementing the emphatic wish of an overwhelming majority of the growers. "Conditions in the fruit business in most others are difficult," Mr. Loyd said, "and the whole intention of central selling is to get the best out of the market on behalf of the growers and to obtain as much as possible for the producer from the sale of our fruit.

"No more is possible, under central selling, than the market can afford. Central selling never guaranteed high prices but it is a definite effort to see whatever is in it for the producer reaches his pocket." The B. C. F. G. A. executive will meet in Kelowna April 11 to consider what steps will be taken to carry out the growers' mandate.

Values Holding Up, Deep Drift Motherlode Vein

Drift on the Motherlode vein cut by the new deep tunnel being driven by Reno Gold Mines limited is in good ore, states a coast broker's report. Values over a drift of 40 feet were "maintained closely in accordance with the values reported for the first 20 feet, that is, 0.4 ounce across five feet," the report said, and continued:

"The present drift is following the Motherlode vein in the Nugget band of quartzites. There is a band of argillites to pass through before the Motherlode band of quartzites is reached, officials point out. Values in the Sheep Creek camp lie in the quartzite formations.

"While drifting continues in both directions on the Motherlode vein it is planned to push ahead the main crosscut to the Nugget vein at the rate of one shift daily.

"Drifting on the Motherlode vein was held up for a few days while the crew made provision for storing the good ore at the portal of the tunnel and put in a crosscut to expediate work on the vein and permit the main crosscut to be extended at the same time. It is now possible to push ahead the drift on the Motherlode in both directions at a good rate of progress."

Favorable Crop Prospects Affect Chicago Wheat

CHICAGO, April 5 (AP).—Favorable crop prospects in the winter wheat belt resulted in lower prices today for wheat futures contracts which could be satisfied by delivery of new 1939 grain in July and September.

The result was an irregular close, with unchanged to ⅝ lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 67⅝—¾, July 66⅞—67. Corn was ⅛—⅜ down, May 47⅛—47, July 48¾; oats ⅛—⅜ lower.

Wall St. Stocks Partially Recover

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP).—The stock market shifted gears for a rally today as Wall Street took a calmer look at events in Europe.

The financial district was alert for hints of a settlement of the Danzig question between Germany and Poland. Ripples of buying, giving impetus to the hesitant recovery, were attributed by brokers chiefly to stock exchange rumors, unconfirmed, of an agreement behind the scenes on the German-Polish dispute.

A turn for the better in European markets was followed by an appreciable let-up in selling here. Transactions approximated 900,000 shares against about 1,500,000 yesterday.

Bonds and commodities likewise benefited from a lift in selling pressure, although there was no rush to get aboard the rally.

Prominent in the comeback were Douglas, United Aircraft, Sperry, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel, American Smelting, North American, Chrysler, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Youngstown Sheet.

Union Carbide, Eastman and Sears Roebuck were among the laggards.

Canadian issues were narrowly mixed. Fractional gain was registered by Canadian Pacific while off as much were Distillers and McIntyre Porcupine. Canada 4s were under mild pressure.

Sanitation Problem for Turner Valley as Gas Flares Go

TURNER VALLEY, April 5 (CP) —Turner Valley residents are confronted with a lighting and sanitation problem.

For many years flares from waste gas has illuminated the valley and other flares have disposed of garbage and waste paper from houses. With the extinction of these flares through a conservation board order residents believe that due to the nature of the soil water from kitchens will remain on the surface and create a breeding place for flies and a menace to health.

Electric lights are being considered to replace the old flares but funds for this purpose are not yet available.

Propose 15,000-Acre Northern Ranch for Sudeten Refugees

GRAND PRAIRIE, B.C., April 5 (CP) — The 15,000-acre Gundy ranch 15 miles south of Pouce Coupe in the northeastern British Columbia interior, may be purchased for the settlement of Sudeten refugees, according to F. B. McConnell of the Canadian Pacific Railway department of immigration and colonization in Winnipeg.

Passing through here recently on an inspection tour, Mr. Connell said there was a possibility a number of Sudetens who already have left Czecho-Slovakia would be settled on the property. He said the ranch property might offer a solution to the problem of finding a suitable location for the immigrants.

'Peg Wheat Prices Lose Early Gains

WINNIPEG, April 5 (CP).—Moderate selling prompted by hesitation at Chicago and late weakness at Liverpool erased early gains made by wheat futures prices at Winnipeg today. Final quotations were ¼—½ cent lower, May at 59¾, July 61½ and October 61⅛—¼.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at around 400,000 bushels worked from both seaboards and included at full cargo out of Vancouver.

Liverpool finished unchanged to ¼ higher. Chicago showed small losses while Buenos Aires was unchanged to ¼ cent up.

Yesterday's country marketings totalled 151,000 bushels against 186,000 for the same day a year ago.

Operations in the coarse grains pit uncovered some export support in barley and oats. Cash wheat transactions were negligible.

HAM AND LAMB FOR THE EASTER MENU MOVING FROM WHOLESALE ROW INTO HANDS OF RETAILERS

Other Easter Goods Mostly Out; Egg Prices Down

FERTILIZERS AND SEED ARE MOVING

With Easter buying at its climax in retail stores, the season is about over for most wholesale houses. On Wednesday demand slackened considerably. Only last-minute orders remain to be filled.

Buying indicates that lamb, ham and veal will be the leading meat dishes for Easter Sunday dinners. Hams and lamb particularly are in demand.

Almost anything in the fresh vegetable line is available in quantity, California supplies having been drawn upon for the seasonal upswing in demand. Two cars of mixed vegetables and fruit arrived during the week.

FEED MOVING OUT

Feed dealers are in the throes of spring buying, seed and fertilizers being in heavy demand. Both chemical and organic fertilizers are in stock, the week's carlot arrivals including two of chemical fertilizers and one of blood and bone. In addition chemical fertilizers are arriving from the Consolidated plant at Warfield by truck.

Flour slipped back 20 cents a barrel during the past week, the last reduction being recorded April 3.

Egg prices are lower, generous local supplies arriving on the market being largely responsible.

AWAY FROM LENT

Among grocery houses the trend is swinging away from foodstuffs suitable for meatless Lenten meals, but the movement is not heavy since these goods are in use throughout the year, though demand is somewhat livelier during Lent.

Carlot arrivals of the week included two of meats, two of chemical fertilizers and one of organic fertilizer, two of fruit and vegetables, one of mixed vegetables, one of oranges, one of Alberta alfalfa, one of Okanagan alfalfa and one of corn.

Catholic Young Folk Reorganize; Maglio Is Head

Oratorical Contest to Be Feature of Meetings

Armando Maglio was elected president and Miss Louise Coletti secretary-treasurer when the Catholic Young People's club reorganized Tuesday night. Rev. J. J. Morelli is spiritual leader. The club was divided into three groups, each group to have a leader.

To arouse interest in the society, Rev. R. J. McKenna, Ph.D., started an oratorical contest in which the young people will take part. Eliminations will be held and finalists will compete with Catholic young people of other West Kootenay points. There is a possibility Vancouver and Victoria speakers will enter the contest.

Dr. McKenna, who coached championship debating clubs in Hamilton, Ont., for seven years, will coach the young people, who will choose their own topics. First subjects were written and handed in at Tuesday night's meeting.

Later in the year Dr. McKenna will deliver a series of lectures.

Mrs. Curtis Head Nelson S.P.C.A.

Mrs. F. Curtis, 917 Edgewood avenue, was reelected president of the Nelson branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals when the society held its annual meeting at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. F. Edgington, 723 Silica street, was named secretary and Mrs. E. Marsden, 803 Victoria, was placed in charge of the care of animals.

A canvass of Nelson for members was planned.
