Republicans Win New York; Strong Elsewhere

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (CP)—The Republicans swept back to power in President Roosevelt's home State of New York today and demonstrated surprising strength in other parts of the United States in the first wartime election since 1918.

Thomas E. Dewey, crusading young attorney and former Manhattan racket-buster, put himself in the forefront for the 1944 Republican presidential candidature when he defeated John J. Bennett, Democratic nominee for Governor of New York.

Polling a hug up-state vote and holding Bennett, who had been endorsed by President Roosevelt, to narrow margins in New York City, Dewey became the first Republican Governor of New York in 20 years.

Estimates were that Dewey's plurality over Bennett, Attorney-General in the Democratic Government of retiring Herbert H. Lehman, would finally reach 300,000 votes with Dean Alfange, candidate of the American Labor party, running far back.

This estimate was easily borne out by a tabulation based on returns from 7,973 precincts out of 9927. Dewey had 1,894,973 votes, Bennett 1,588,083 and Alfange 333,183.

Besides his own victory Dewey appeared to have swept into office the entire Republican ticket of candidates for Lieutenant-Governor Attorney-General and State Comptroller. In the only other New York race which created wide interest, representative Hamilton Fish, noted isolationist, was re-elected from President Roosevelt's home district. Fish defeated Ferdinand A. Hoyt, Democrat and American Labor party candidate.

The early returns from elsewhere in the country were full of potential upsets with a clear trend developing for the Republicans. Its strength still was difficult to judge at midnight but it was clearly discernible as a threat to democratic control of the United States Senate.

The entire house of representatives membership of 433 seats was elected today and one-third of the senators.

Indicating the uncertainty of the election at that hour was the race for United States Senate in New Jersey. Albert W. Hawkes Republican and former President of the United States Chamber of Commerce, held a strong lead of the Democratic incumbent, William H. Smathers, backed by the political machine of Boss Frank Hague.

In Iowa Governor George A. Wilson, Republican aspirant to the United States Senate, was ahead of Senator Clyde L. Herring Democrat.

In Michigan Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner and Senator Prentiss M. Brown, the Democratic incumbents, trailed Republican challengers in early returns.

While these early returns indicated a Republican trend, they were far from indicating a Republican sweep of the country because they failed to take into consideration the Democratic hold on the South.

As another indication that the trend was not all to the Republicans, the Senatorial race in Massachusetts saw Joseph E. Casey, Democrat, slightly ahead of Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican incumbent on the basis of a heavy Democratic vote in Boston.

In another ding-dong struggle Governor Lovett Sillimant of Massachusetts Republican trying for reelection held a slight lead over Roger Lowell Putnam in what has been dubbed the "battle of the Blue Bloods".

In other sections of New England, the results were almost as uncertain. Vermont as expected, was going strongly Republican. In Rhode Island, Governor J. H. McGrath and Senator T. F. Green, both Democrats, were well ahead, in New Hampshire and Connecticut, however, the Governorship and Senatorial races were definitely in doubt.

In West Virginia, Matthew M. Neely, who left the Senate two years ago to become Governor of the State and then sought to return, trailed his Republican opponent in the early count. Neely, however, was relying for his main strength on the coal mining sections of the State which did not report until late.

Virginia went solidly Democratic. Carver Glass 84-year-old veteran of the Senate, was sent back for his fifth term with scarcely the semblance of a contest from Socialists and Communist opponents. Nine Democrats won house seats several by acclamation.

MANITOBA FIRST TO REACH ITS OBJECTIVE

B.C., New Brunswick Also Over Top; Total $661,000,000

CONTINUE PUSH

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (CP)—Manitoba is the first Province to achieve its minimum objective in Canada's Third Victory Loan. Headquarters announced at midnight tonight, and it will have the honor of sending its silver Commando dagger, suitably inscribed, by bomber to Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander of the Canadian Army overseas.

British Columbia and New Brunswick also went over the top, each achieving its minimum objective, the announcement said. Manitoba came from behind to nose out several other provinces for first place.

The National War Finance Committee announced earlier that as at the close of business Monday, 13th day of the campaign, $35,404 individuals had subscribed to the issue. Of this total, $26,701 subscriptions came from employees of industry and business, who contributed a total of $31,807,300 under the payroll Savings Plan.

Minimum objective of the campaign, which concludes Nov. 7, is $750,000,000. Accumulated total of all subscriptions for the first 13 days of the canvass was $661,281,700, which compares with subscriptions of $579,151,350 at the same stage of the last loan. Those buying Victory Bonds Monday numbered 66,304.

Loan Headquarters said none of the three provinces which had reached their objectives was halting in its campaign.

They have adopted the slogan of Finance Minister Isley, who said: "We want not only the $750,000,000 but as much more as this nation can add to it." The new objectives are "all we can get," it was stated at Headquarters.

Manitoba's quota was $53,000,000. British Columbia and Yukon had an objective of $75,000,000 and the mark at which New Brunswick aimed was $11,500,000.

Three Rivers, Que., is the latest city to reach its original objective, reporting 103 per cent of quota. Montreal is just on the verge with 99.8 per cent, and a number of other centres are well within striking distance. Moose Jaw, Sask., continues well in front of all larger municipalities reporting to national headquarters, with 131 per cent of its objective accounted for; and Lethbridge, Alta., is next in line with 129 per cent.

Canadian Butter Stocks Decline Sharply

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (CP)—Canadian stocks of butter showed a sharp decrease on Nov. 1 as compared with a month ago, according to figures for nine cities released tonight by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

J. Gordon Taggart, Foods Administrator of the Prices Board, told the Canadian Press the figures would be carefully studied and it was too early to say whether they foreshadowed butter rationing. The figures did not change his previously announced opinion that rationing would not become necessary.

Colliers Idle at Princeton After Strike Vote

PRINCETON, B.C., Nov. 3 (CP)—Princeton Colliers were idle today following disclosure coal miners employed at the three operations had voted to go on strike if the companies did not recognize the United Mine Workers of America on a closed shop basis.

The miners approved strike action yesterday by a vote of 112 to 2. They are employed at mines of the Granby Colliery, the Tulameen and the Princeton-Tulameen Mines. No miners were working today.

Yesterday's vote was conducted under the supervision of three Princeton businessmen and three union scrutineers, the miners contending they were entitled to conduct their own ballot in view of the fact more than five days had elapsed since they applied to the Labor Department for a strike vote.

Application for a strike ballot was made Oct. 15 after an arbitration board recommended against their application for union recognition. Earlier in the month the miners quit work for a few days in protest against alleged delay in releasing the arbitration board report.

The Weather

While Nelson had several hours of dry weather Tuesday, the 24 hour period on the whole was damp, variegated with light snow, sleet, and drizzle, for a precipitation of 16 inch. Some blue sky showed in the afternoon, and occasionally there was a snatch of sunshine. The temperature extremes were 33.6 and 47.3 degrees.

HESS HAD PLAN TO MAKE BRITAIN COLONY

Britain Was to Give Up Military, Naval, Air Strength

LONDON, Nov. 4 (Wednesday) (CP)—The London Daily Mail today quoted Sir Patrick Dillan, former Lord Provost (Mayor) of Glasgow, as saying that Rudolf Hess came to Britain as an "official ambassador of the Nazis" with peace terms that in effect would have made Britain "a German colony with Hitler as Dictator and Hess as Protector."

Sir Patrick told a Daily Mail reporter that Hess flew to Britain "with the authority of Hitler and his colleagues" and hoped he would be given gasoline and allowed to return within 48 hours.

The Socialist Lord Provost was further quoted:

"Hess had no documentary terms but indicated in conversation that all previous German colonies were to be returned to Germany and that Great Britain was to give up her military, naval and R.A.F. strength.

"She was also to pay indemnity and to be left with an R.A.F. to protect the British Isles.

"Europe was to be Germanized with the Fuehrer as overlord. Germany was to get the Atlantic coast of West Africa, Syria, Palestine and other territories.

"Control of the Suez Canal was to be transferred to Italy and Germany. Mussolini was to get Corsica and Tunis. French Morocco and Gibraltar were to go to Spain.

"Hess said he did not want to see the Prime Minister or any of his colleagues but wished to clear them out of the Government and blamed them for having caused the war.

"Hess was annoyed that he was kept a prisoner and complained of unfair treatment."

Hess parachuted from his plane in Scotland, and the mystery of his dramatic trip has never been officially explained. Soon after he left Germany the Nazis said he was mentally unbalanced and had flown to Britain as a self-appointed peace apostle. He is held in Britain as a war prisoner.

MORE JAPANESE LANDED ON GUADALCANAL

Knox Warns Enemy Still Has Strong Sea Force

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Braving American planes based on Guadalcanal and American destroyers prowling its waters, the Japanese have landed more troops on the island, the Navy reported today. This time the landing was made to the East of the embattled airfield and its defences.

The new landing was carried out Monday night after United States destroyers during the day had bombarded the foe positions West of the American lines in support of attacks by land. Earlier reinforcements of the Japanese have been landed principally on the Western part of the island's Northern shore.

This latest development, posing a grave threat to the American defences now in the middle of two strengthened enemy forces, followed a warning by Navy Secretary Frank Knox against false optimism over the fighting for the Solomon Islands and for control of South Pacific supply lines despite a "very signal success" which he saw in the initial phases.

Although the Japanese strength was crippled in the long sea and air battle off the Stewart Islands North-east of Guadalcanal Oct. 26, Knox told a Press conference, the foe "still has a fleet of formidable proportions" and "we haven't any doubt that they will come back."

Knox coupled his warning with an announcement that an American task force "got" two more Japanese cruisers and one more destroyer than originally reported in the night battle off Savo Island in the Solomons Oct. 11-12. The communique on that engagement had listed one enemy cruiser, four destroyers and one transport sunk.

A revision of the damage done to the Japanese fleet in the Stewart Islands engagement also was made in the communique which told of the Japanese landing. United States airmen damaged five cruisers rather than three, and one battleship instead of two, along with the two aircraft carriers originally listed.

Rommel Calls on Artillery to Cover Retreat

Battlefield Littered With Wrecked Hun Tanks and Trucks; Allied Planes Batter Retreating Tanks; Many Prisoners

By FRANK L. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE 8TH ARMY ON THE EL ALAMEIN FRONT, Nov. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—British armored forces, which this morning pierced enemy defences, have forced Marshal Erwin Rommel to withdraw his tanks after a six-hour battle.

The great clash of armor started when Rommel threw his tanks into the breach which the British armored strength opened up at the northern end of the El Alamein line. But the British force was too strong for him.

He ordered his tanks to break off the battle and called on his artillery to cover his retreat. The Axis then brought all available anti-tank guns into the area to form a gun defence to replace the fortifications which the British Army had broken through.

The tank battlefield was littered with wrecked Axis tanks and trucks many of them burning. Smoke from the fires and from exploding shells and mortar guns hung over the desert, flowing red in the setting sun. R.A.F. and allied planes swept over toward the positions to which the enemy armor had withdrawn.

Through enemy minefields our tanks and infantry reinforcements rolled up to support the forward tanks. Back behind the lines hundreds more prisoners still were arriving at the prisoners' cages from last night's and today's action.

A majority of the prisoners were taken by the infantry last night when they moved up quickly behind an artillery barrage and found the enemy still in a haze from the heavy shelling. About a third of the prisoners were Germans.

BROKE THROUGH SUNDAY

A break-through in the German lines was made during Sunday night when Lt.-Gen. Montgomery attacked with strong infantry forces and several of his most powerful armored units.

The new breach was made in the neighborhood of the previous gap cut through the Northern end of the El Alamein line by infantry and artillery. Then at the first light of day the allied tanks moved North to engage the 21st German armored division which was approaching from the North.

At the same time British armored cars poured through the gap and turned South where they began chopping up enemy infantry detachments and in fact anything of the enemy's that came in sight.

The 8th Army's armored attack began as darkness fell yesterday over a 400-yard front and by midnight it had slashed through to a point where there were no fixed enemy defences.

Shortly before 3 a.m. today several hundred British tanks came in contact with the tanks of the German 21st division in the area South of Sidi Abd El Rahman near the Mediterranean coast and behind the German lines.

The British armored forces began the attack by suddenly dashing to the South after nightfall and slipping through the Axis lines without meeting opposition from the enemy's armor.

Last night's assault began as others of the past week, under a heavy artillery barrage. When the big guns began it was as if someone had pressed a button and suddenly turned on the lights of a gigantic city and started as the ammunition machinery with their racket and whirling illumination.

After nearly six hours of bitter fighting, Marshal Erwin Rommel withdrew his tank force from the battle and called on his artillery to cover the retreat, these reports said.

The big battle took place at Northern end of the Alamein front about 16 miles West of the position held by Rommel when Lt.-Gen. Bernard Montgomery launched his offensive 12 days ago.

After Rommel withdrew his tanks he rushed all available anti-tank guns into the area in a desperate effort to halt the British advance and the last line of fixed fortifications at that point.

British official quarters described the engagement as "an armored battle on a considerable scale" and said heavy fighting was still in progress. Despite the withdrawal of the Axis forces, neither side was claiming a definite decision in the larger phases of the battle.

The Berlin radio had said the British forces were attacking with 500 tanks. If this estimate is correct it would indicate a tank battle that could decide the course of the whole campaign. DNB, the German news Agency, described the battle as the biggest tank engagement yet fought in the desert and said fighting continued on a vast scale.

A brilliant slash by Australian infantry set the scene for the tank melee which began yesterday at Tel El Akaki—"Hill of the Wicked Men"—a height of 16 miles West of what had been the front line stretching from the Mediterranean to the Qattara Depression when the British 8th Army, 12 days ago, opened its offensive with heavy and continuing allied air support.

The Australians cut through the minefields, swung right toward the coast and pocketed a considerable German force in a narrow corridor between the coastal railroad and the shore.

While they pushed through the dunes to draw the pocket light, Rommel threw at least a part of his panzer-husband armor toward the coast to break the pocket. The tanks hammered hard at the Australians through yesterday's pre-dawn hours and then Lt.-Gen. B.L. Montgomery sent his tanks through carefully-cleared lanes in the minefields to meet the Axis steel.

While the tanks moved into major action the allied air force hit a new peak of activity, cascading their bombs on Axis positions as accurately and so intensively that German soldiers surrendered to the advancing British infantry without a fight.

Russ Check Nazi Drive in Central Caucasus

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 4 (Wednesday) (AP)—The Red Army checked the great German drive in the Central Caucasus Tuesday, a Soviet communique indicated today, and made slight advances on several other fronts including Stalingrad where large-scale fighting flared up again.

For the first time in several days the communique made no mention of any German gains at the foot of the 18,000-foot Caucasus mountains where the Germans are driving toward the historic Georgian military highway.

Southern outskirts of the city Russian counter-blows wiped out fortified points and blockhouses and annihilated a German battalion.

Northwest of Stalingrad, the communique said, Russian troops attacked and occupied some German fortified positions after Soviet artillery had knocked out seven blockhouses.

On the Black Sea front, Northeast of the port of Tuapse, Russian forces also maintained the initiative.

But the main battle continued to be in the central Caucasus where the Germans hope to gain control of the Georgian Highway, artery through Europe's highest mountain barrier.

The German High Command claimed the Caucasus fighting had reached East of Alagir, which the Nazis say they have captured, and that the attackers had penetrated "strongly fortified and mined positions of the enemy." Alagir is about 45 miles by road West of Ordzhonikidze, where the Georgian military road begins.

Soviet dispatches said that the enemy, using perhaps 60,000 German armored troops and Rumanian mountain infantry, and even about 1,500 land-fighting sailors, had occupied "another village" East of Nalchik, which the Soviets have evacuated, then had broken through one road and were attempting to approach another highway.

Earlier reports said the enemy had been driven from several buildings in a factory area, and on the ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Nov. 4 (Wednesday) (CP)—Allied ground forces which captured Kokoda, advanced Japanese base for the ill-fated mountain thrust at Port Moresby, are continuing to push the enemy back toward the North New Guinea coast, the Allied High Command announced today.

The advance units now are approaching Oivi.

Dillie, Harbor town on the North coast of Portuguese Timor, Northwest of Australia was attacked by two waves of allied bombers which found fires still burning from the previous day's raid and started new ones in the town and wharf areas.

The much-bombed Buin-Faisi area in the North Solomons, where concentrations of Japanese warships and merchant vessels have been dealt serious blows from the air, was visited by medium bombers last night and bombs were dropped on enemy shipping.

Pilot Officers Barry Needham, Wynyard, Sask., and Dave McKay, of Winnipeg, shot up two in a low-level attack.

P. L. W. Powell of Edmonton, who has participated in successful attacks on nine locomotives, and Sgt. W. H. Tape, Lettbridge, Alta., damaged two others.

P.O.'s George Keith, Taber, Alta., and O. R. Brown, Palmer, Sask., also damaged a couple of engines.

Hong Kong List Now 1410

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (CP)—The Canadian (Active) Army in its 1942 overseas casualty list of war today announces names of 78 Hong Kong prisoners of war. All are members of the Quebec Regiment, represented in the Hong Kong garrison by the Royal Rifles of Canada from Quebec. After Hong Kong surrendered last Christmas Day the Japanese announced they had taken 1,609 Canadian prisoners. The official casualty lists so far issued by Defence Headquarters account for all but 279 of this number.

The total Canadian force sent to Hong Kong comprised 1,065 officers and men.

Big Stirlings Raid West Germany; England Also Raided

By FOSTER BAROLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 3 (CP Cable)—Britain's heavy-weight four-motored Stirling bombers attacked Western Germany while Canadian Spitfire squadrons were making sorties over Northern France in a continuance of daylight offensive operations today. Communications in the low countries also were attacked.

The appearance of the raiding bomber formations over industrial Western Germany interrupted the broadcasts of German-controlled radio stations for considerable periods in the late afternoon.

Radio stations in Paris, Vichy, Toulouse and Lyon interrupted their broadcasts early in the evening. Previous shutdown of these stations in France has heralded R.A.F. attacks on Italy.

The Canadian-piloted Spitfires damaged at least six locomotives as well as power lines and pylons and camouflaged enemy army trucks.

Four locomotives were damaged by airman from a squadron commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. J. C. (Nobby) Fee, Calgary, raising the total engines destroyed or damaged to 17 in the last three weeks.

Pilot Officers Barry Needham, Wynyard, Sask., and Dave McKay, of Winnipeg, shot up two in a low-level attack.

P. L. W. Powell of Edmonton, who has participated in successful attacks on nine locomotives, and Sgt. W. H. Tape, Lettbridge, Alta., damaged two others.

P.O.'s George Keith, Taber, Alta., and O. R. Brown, Palmer, Sask., also damaged a couple of engines.

"One locomotive was attacked was just coming out of a grove of trees and the crew couldn't see us as we made our attack," said Keith. "I saw the smoke stack go up as it exploded."

DOWN TWO HUNS
Two of half-a-dozen German bombing planes which ventured to England were shot down by R.A.F. fighters over a Southwest Coast town where a hospital was damaged, streets machine-gunned and a church set on fire by four raiders.

Five persons were killed and a sixth was missing as a result of this raid.

Two communities in East Anglia were bombed by single planes.

Genius of Past Boosts British Morale, but Past Haunts Germany, Dr. Tyler Tells Nelson

British morale is "bolstered by the genius of its past," while Germany's is haunted by the disasters of its past, British morale was at its peak at the time of Dunkirk when the people knew they were fighting, were united behind their leaders, knew they were "in for a pound- ing," but were ready to carry on.

And this morale was largely due to Churchill who offered the people only "blood, sweat and tears." At the same time German leaders were telling their people they could never be bombed by Britain.

These contrasts were presented to Nelson teachers and public at the Canadian Legion Tuesday night by Dr. F. T. Tyler, B. Sc., M.A., B. Ed., Professor of Psychology at the University of British Columbia, speaking on the theme "Morale in War-time."

"Actually, Britain has not been defeated since before the Spanish Armada, and has not been successfully invaded since 1066," Dr. Tyler stated.

He described morale as condition in the sense of an athlete's condition. To have it meant that the people were mentally and physically prepared for dangers and difficulties.

Lack of morale resulted in the collapse of France, Britain had recovered from Nazi bombings, China had fought for years against the Japanese, and Russia was making its stand now because they possessed morale. It was the will to fight, to endure hardships and to face bad news.

Dr. Tyler said fatigue was detrimental to morale, and since one's whole outlook was colored by his physical condition, general physical health was necessary. These were biological factors affecting morale.

Dealing with the psychological factors he contrasted the appeals to the emotions made by the German leaders based on hate and prejudices and promises of positive rewards; and appeals by Allied leaders based on appeals to continue the democratic way of life. Hitler also played its part.

He urged his hearers to be careful of rumors; to read the news carefully for over- and understatements; to have confidence in their leaders without surrendering the right to criticize; to avoid emotional tension caused by scare head-

Republicans May Get Three Seats in Wash.

SEATTLE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Washington's Democratic Congressional delegation, solid since the party's 1932 landslide, appeared tonight, on the basis of early election returns, to be threatened on three fronts.

Republican standard bearers were running ahead on the scattered returns from Northeastern Washington's fifth district, in the Southwestern third district and in the South-eastern fourth.

In the fifth, former Sen. C. C. Dill was trailing Walt Hovan, Wenatchee orchardist, in each of the five reporting counties.

Republicans were leading incumbent Congressmen in the other two. Hal Holmes of Ellensburg, a central Washington College professor, took an early lead over Rep. Knute Hill, but most of the returns were from Kittitas and Walla Walla counties, where he was strongest. Fred Norman, Raymond's former State Legislator, held a narrow edge over Rep. Martin F. Smith in first results from the third district.

Rep. Warren C. Magnuson (D) piled up nearly a two to one margin over Harold Stewart (4) in the first district; Rep. John Coffey was widening almost as much of a gap over Ralph Woods (4). Tacoma, in the sixth and Rep. Henry Jackson built up a substantial early lead over Payson Peterson (R), Snohomish, in the second.

Early Washington Voting Against Pension Proposal

SEATTLE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Early incomplete returns gave a margin against Initiative 181 tonight in the only bitterly contested statewide issue of today's off-year election.

The vote from 156 of the State's 1,138 precincts was: 9,731 against; 1,054 in favor.

The initiative would liberalize the State's Old Age Pension payments and extend the scope of public assistance.

S. Slokan Auxiliary to Pack Overseas Parcels

SOUTH SLOKAN, B. C.—A well attended meeting of the Red Cross Auxiliary in the Community Hall last Friday afternoon. Mrs. P. O. Bird, President, in the chair. The correspondence included a letter from one of the boys overseas for cigarettes sent in August.

Misses Hoffman and Palmer agreed to act as auditors for the remainder of year.

Mr. Bird reported 168½ pounds of plum jam and pear marmalade had been forwarded to Nelson. The meeting thanked Mrs. Bird and those who had helped.

It was arranged to pack the parcels for the local boys overseas Nov. 8. All contributions to be left with Mrs. Ivor Jones, Convenor, before that date.

Mrs. C. H. Bland gave the knitting report for the remainder of the month, as follows:

Three pairs socks, two body belts, two turtle-neck sweaters and one girl's sweater.

Nelson Firemen's Demand for Cut in Hours of Work Rests on Interpretation of Act Mayor Says

Demands of Nelson firemen for reduced working hours and for pay for five hours overtime weekly they claim since March, cannot be answered by the City Council, Mayor N. C. Stubbs stated Tuesday night, until a definite ruling is obtained on the Hours of Work Act as it applies to firemen. The firemen asked for an answer to their demands by Tuesday.

"The whole question hinges upon interpretation of the act," Mayor Stubbs stated. "Our own opinion does not enter into the question at this time, and will not enter into it until we have something definite to go on."

He stated the Council could not deal with the firemen's request for an advance of 10 cents an hour in their basic rate of pay unless it was prepared to deal with rates of all City departments, and this could not be undertaken at this time of year with the Council's term nearing its close.

Another request made by the firemen—that men appointed temporarily should, after six months probation, receive the same salary as those they were replacing—must also be considered in the light of the City's general pay setup, the Mayor continued, since it affected schedules. The firemen's schedule was $110 monthly for the first year, $120 for the second year, and $130 for the third year, the last being the top wage, he explained.

The City pays a cost of living bonus of $5 to married men and $2.50 to single men.

"This is a basic rate, fixed by a ruling made in years past to govern Fire Department salaries. If the Council was to grant a temporary man the same salary as the man he replaced, it would mean that he would receive top wages after only six months, and this would not be fair to other men in the Department, nor to men in other departments of the City."

Temporary men signed on, he said, at a wage of $110.

However, the whole question remained open for discussion, Mayor Stubbs continued. The Council has agreed to meet a representative of the Firemen's Union at its meeting next Monday.

P.T.A. Asks Probe of Rossland Absentee Mothers; Recreation Hall Mooted

ROSSLAND, B. C., Nov. 3—At an executive meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening it was decided that Harry Smith, Community Standards' Chairman, contact Arthur Drake, Boy Scouts' leader, regarding the possibility of proceeding with the building of a hall suitable for community youth projects, as well as scout and guide meetings, the site to be the City-owned property set aside about four years ago for a building site for a Scout hall.

Mr. Smith gave a detailed report of the contacts he had made since the last meeting and the results.

In view of the many organized activities already in progress, such as Pro Rec, Guides, Scouts, Youth organizations within the churches, and so on, it was thought that a place suitable for hobby clubs would fill the additional needs, particular mention being made by Mr. Smith for the starting of a model plane club to aid in Canada's War effort.

Mrs. E. V. McCauley, who is in charge of the Junior section of the Rossland Public Library, announced that Book Week would be observed in that department Nov. 15 to 21.

An interesting feature will be the use of projects made by the school children to illustrate the books.

The Parent-Teacher Association, will request the City to furnish a suitable place for the Junior Boys' Band to hold weekly practices. Desirability of encouraging such a band, and its value to Rossland were pointed out. The initiative shown by High School students in organizing and carrying on a Junior Boys' City Band was worthy of support, was the feeling Mr. Smith, as Con-munity Standards' Chairman, agreed to attend the Council session next Monday.

Miss Madge York, Director of Child Welfare, located at Nelson, will be asked to investigate prevalent conditions in Rossland due to mothers of young children being absent from their homes. It was stated that some mothers leave before 6 a.m., and that the young children are left to shift for themselves or be nuisances to the neighbors.

REPRESENTATIONS TO OTTAWA
Mrs. Rex Eaton, Director of Women's Selective Service, Ottawa, is also to be advised of conditions arising due to mothers of young children being employed in war industry. The matter will also be brought to the attention of the City Council and of the C. M. & S. Company's Industrial Relations Department. There was considerable discussion as to the possibility of day nurseries being established, where the mothers were employed for suitable daytime hours.

In view of the good behaviour of the school children this Halloween it was decided that in future the Association would try to sponsor a masquerade party for the occasion.

Congratulations are to be sent to two Rossland students who recently brought honor to Rossland, Miss Doreen Jamieson and Miss Jane Cox also to a Rossland High School teacher, Robert Melville, who was one of three in B. C. to be awarded the Bachelor of Education degree.

Principal A. B. Thompson extended an invitation to the Executive members to attend the High School graduation exercises Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Rene Morin presided.

Unity Saved Empire From Domination Maitland Tells Club

VANCOUVER, Nov. 3 (CP)—Attorney General R. L. Maitland told a service club luncheon here today that if members of the British Empire had not stood united against the Axis they might have been struck down one by one like the conquered countries of Europe.

Mr. Maitland said the strength gained from unity enabled the Empire to stand alone against the Axis until Russia and the U.S. entered the war. He said the Empire was built in the main by colonization of unpeopled lands and development of backward peoples, not by aggression.

Hotel District at Vancouver Shaken by Blast

VANCOUVER, Nov. 3 (CP)—Two heavy explosions on the Court House steps in Vancouver shook the city hotel district late tonight, shattering a number of windows and damaging one of the ornamental lions at the Court House entrance.

Windows were blown out in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation offices in the New Hotel Vancouver, the Georgia and Devonshire hotels and in the old Vancouver Hotel.

All the buildings flank the Court House Square.

Police found a length of burned fuse which they said indicated dynamite had probably been used. No one was injured.

City, Provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigating.

Neale Poultry Plant Destroyed; House Is Saved

SUNSHINE BAY, B. C., Nov. 3—Early last Wednesday morning, Tom Neale had the misfortune to lose a chicken house, containing 300 pullets and garage and woodshed containing dry wood, coal and tools.

Beurling Hurt Only Slightly

By SCOTT YOUNG
SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Nov. 3 (CP Cable)—The report that Canada's serial ace P.O. George Beurling of Verdun, Que., had suffered a broken leg in an air accident at Gibraltar turned out to be much exaggerated.

Development of X-ray pictures taken after the 20-year-old Spitfire pilot and hero of the defence of Malta arrived at the R.A.F. hospital here showed no bodily injury.

All that he got from a crash of a big airplane at Gibraltar was a cut in the hand and a bad shaking up.

The young fellow who would sooner match wits and skill with a Nazi afman than anything else except to see his folks at home, fretted because his trip to Canada to take part in the Victory Loan campaign had been interrupted. But except for his disappointment he was a cheery customer and the object of all eyes at the hospital.

Keen Study of Air Fighting, Firing Behind Success of Air Ace

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 3 (CP)—Pilot Officer George Frederick (Buzz) Beurling, Canadian fighter pilot who has been grounded by a flying accident in which he merely played the role of a simple passenger is paid a striking tribute by "another Malta pilot" in an article in the Sunday Express.

The lanky Verdun, Que., ace suffered a broken right leg Saturday in an air crash at Gibraltar while enroute to Canada to take part in the Dominion's third Victory Loan Campaign.

His fellow pilot wrote that Beurling's scientific study of air fighting and air firing gave him a tactical advantage over the majority of Malta pilots. Much of Beurling's success was attributed to his genuine ability to fly.

When Beurling, who in four months destroyed 29 A.C. aircraft and won the DSO, DFC, DFM, and Bar, went to Malta in June with a score of two, discipline in the air was the weakest part of his flying. His former companion wrote that he was sensible enough to listen and soon realized it was the team and not the individual which counted, "and yet, at heart, he remains pre-eminently an individualist."

"Beurling has exceptionally fine eyesight. I remember when the raids were coming in high over the island and we could hear the familiar 'blue note' of the ME-109s, he would point and say—'Look at those screwballs. One, two, three, six, ten. And then, 15 seconds afterwards we would see them...'

"As a rule the average fighter pilot is not a good shot. It is a thing he learns slowly. But Beurling is an exceptional shot, and was good right from the beginning.

"Much if it is probably just natural ability; but he has studied it and knows exactly what he is doing. Moreover, he knows the vulnerable points in every type of Hun aircraft, and he took infinite pains to find out where they were. He is an excellent judge of distance which most of us are not..."

IT'S NOT SKEWBALL

Beurling, who neither drinks nor smokes, and who has a particular fondness for peanuts, is known to his flying mates as "Screwball." Through a cable error in one of the first stories from Malta about him, he was "skewball." Beurling and some British newspapers continue to call him that. "But 'Screwball' is correct and 'another Malta pilot' explained how Beurling got the name.

"He really brought it on himself. He used to refer to everything—the flies, the ME-109s, or the Maltese—as those—screwballs."

Two Fighters Shot Down in Britain

LONDON, Nov. 3 (CP)—Two of four enemy fighters which attacked the Southwest coast of England this afternoon, were destroyed by British fighters, it was stated authoritatively.

A lone raider, swooping from the cover of low clouds, dropped several bombs on an East England town. One struck a bus. Others fell in gardens.

Fighter Planes "Talked Down" Through Darkness

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England (CP)—A young Canadian sergeant pilot, Gregory Cameron of Toronto, is the toast of his mates in an R.C.A.F. fighter squadron for "talking down" from the ground a whole squadron through haze and the gathering dusk to a safe landing after a cross-Channel sweep.

Cameron had landed with two of his companions at a Southern air-drome just as darkness was closing in. A ground haze was rolling over the field, making judgment of distance difficult. He sighted a homing squadron coming in to land under these dangerous conditions.

Cameron raced to a nearby Spitfire, switched on the intercommunication telephone and talked the aircraft down through the dusk and haze one at a time. Coupling a pilot's trained eye with remarkable judgment, he told each of the incoming pilots when to lose height, put down his flaps and with these detailed instructions enabled every member of the squadron to touch down without even a washed out undercarriage.

Cameron received high praise by his own C.O. Bud Malloy of Halifax as well as from the leader of the squadron he steered to safety.

ENEMY TESTED STRENGTH IN MALTA BATTLE

LONDON, Nov. 3 (CP)—The Air Ministry described the mid-October air battle over Malta today as a "deliberate trial of strength" by the Axis and said that the enemy, with 136 planes shot down, suffered such a disaster he had to call quits after 10 days.

Besides 131 planes shot down by fighters defending the Mediterranean island stronghold, the Air Ministry said, seven fell to anti-aircraft gunners and many more were probably destroyed.

It compared "infinite small" damage to Malta in the raids with the enemy's "staggering" losses.

The Air Ministry ranked October as the biggest of three air defeats for the Axis over Malta this year. Never before, it said, were so many planes destroyed in so short a time as in last month's conflict.

Up to yesterday, it said, the official total of enemy planes downed over Malta was 1094. The two heaviest defeats prior to October were the April-May period in which 252 planes were destroyed and last July when 90 were shot down.

Justifies Selection of Name for French-Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—When Eugene Charpentier, press officer in Ottawa suggested the French-Canadian bomber squadron in Britain be called "L'Escadrille des Alouettes" he justified the selection by references to history, ornithology and the dictionary. It means "Lark Squadron." The name was adopted in a letter to J. W. G. Clark, Chief of Information for the armed services.

Mr. Charpentier pointed out the Americans had an "Eagle Squadron" in Britain, named for a bird dear to the American people. Setting down his choice of name for the French-Canadian unit he advanced four reasons:

1. The lark or skylark was the tribe bird and emblem of the Gauls, direct ancestors of the French Canadians—they used to wear it on their helmets for the battle dress.
2. The name is very popular in French Canada because of the song "Alouette, gentille Alouette."
3. It is a name well-known to English-speaking Canadians because of the popularity of that song.
4. The characteristics of that bird, which flies very high in the sky and which according to ornithologists and the dictionary, never perches on trees, seems to make its name a proper one for our forces whose horizon is the sky.

Hull Satisfied With Gov't Policy to Vichy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) State Secretary Cordell Hull, said at a Press Conference today the State Department and the Administration are entirely content with the Government's policy toward Vichy France and the way in which that policy has been pursued.

Hull's remark was in reply to a request for comment on Wendell L. Willkie's recent statement that the administration's "lack of courageous leadership is... nowhere more plainly illustrated than by its continued recognition of the vicious and subversive Vichy Government."

Asked whether the question of extending lease-lend air to the Free French had come up, Hull commented that the State Department some time ago recommended that the Free French be given lease-lend supplies and that such aid has in fact been extended for some time.

Has Surprise Talk With King

BY LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, (CP)—There's no prouder man in the air force than Flt Sgt. J. L. Ratz of Vancouver. When his pal, Wireless Operator George Barfoot, former steward's room boy at Buckingham Palace, suggested visiting the servants' quarters, the Canadian jumped at the chance.

While they were chatting in the servants' quarters, the King heard they were there and said he would like to see them. The two airmen were received by the King and talked with him for 30 minutes.

Ratz was the pilot of a Coastal Command Whitley in which Barfoot was operator when the plane was forced down in the Bay of Biscay. The crew was saved.

Three Canadian air gunners recently provided a striking example of will-to-win spirit by giving up their leave to return to the R.A.F. gunnery school where they were taught, the Air Ministry News Service reported.

The Canadians, who had just completed a spell of operations, devoted three days of leave to a visit to their old school, where they gave talks to the "new boys" on their experiences in action as well as refreshing their own skill.

Recognizing the value of such visits, Flying Training Command is to encourage graduates to take refresher courses so that they can note the improvements which are gradually taking place.

JAPS FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO BOMB BOMBERS

HEADQUARTERS OF U.S. FORCES IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Oct. 28 (Delayed) (AP)—Unable to shoot down a flying fortress with their machine guns and cannon in two months of aerial warfare in the Solomons, the Japs are trying a new technique—bombing the bombers.

Jap Zero float (pontoon-equipped) planes have been flying about 1,000 feet above the fortresses over Guadalcanal and trying to drop bombs on them in the air. So far, not a hit has been scored, and American gunners, wise in the trick, have found the Zeros easy targets at that distance.

Stylish Demand Fitness

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Have you tried any of the new ones? The descriptions alone are enough to make a woman nervous about her figure. There's one design that "fits just like the paper on the wall." Just imagine how that could look on an overlapping neckline.

Another one features "a skin-tight torso from shoulder to waist." The same has the "sleekest, smoothest curves and moulding in between." Sounds lovely provided your curves are in the right place and there no bulge popping out between waist and wishbone.

These are the new styles and one thing about them, they are healthy. If they fit, you're fit. If you have not been exercising what are you waiting for? Get into shape with a fit like this:

1. Position: Sit on footstool with legs straight out in front, feet anchored under chest of drawers or out of bed, hands clasped back of head.

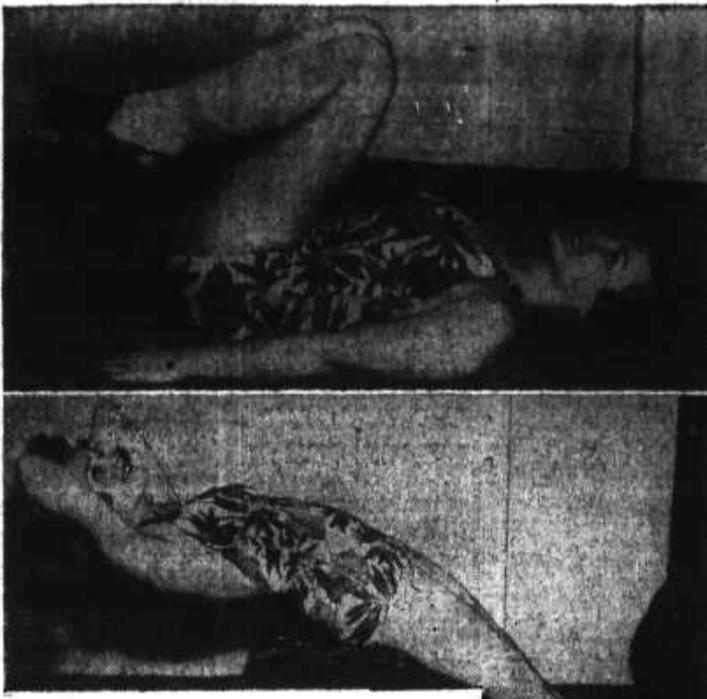

Movement: Pull up strongly with neck muscles and keep back very straight as you lower trunk backward. Eventually you should be able to touch head to floor, but never lower trunk farther than it is possible to keep back straight. Then straighten up to sitting position under your own power, and repeat five times.

2. Position: Sit on floor with legs straight and widely separated, hands clasped back of head, elbows out at sides in line with shoulders.

Movement: Pull up with mid-section muscles, twist around to one side, and touch elbow to opposite knee without cheating—that is, without letting elbow get out of line with shoulder. Also, while bending over, keep those stomach muscles pulled up. Come back to position and twist and bend to touch elbow to opposite knee.

3. Position: Lie on back on floor, arms down at sides, knees flexed and feet off floor.

Movement: Jerk alternate knees down to chest, hard! In jerking towards chest, use hip and stomach muscles and slim and flatten both measurements. Repeat 10 counts.

Donna Wood, singing star with Horace Heidt's orchestra, illustrated the correct form for two streamliners. In doing the backward bend, be careful to lower the trunk only as far as you can do it without letting small of back cave in. In the exercise on top use hip, leg and stomach muscles to pull alternate knees down to chest.

slowly, relax, and repeat another 10 counts.

4. Position and movement: Clench hands in front of chest, elbows bent. Tense muscles of arms and shoulders, and, as if you were ripping a tough fabric apart, thrust fists up and out at sides. Return to position and repeat 15 times.

While you are trimming your figure to the styles you are building up your vitality. It is more than vanity these days, to go in for exercises.

SERIAL STORY . . . . . By Marie Blizard MARK'S WIFE

CHAPTER TWENTY
BARBARA allowed Tony and Pamela to persuade her that she was the only one to stage the carnival.

"Then it's all settled," Pamela looked at her wristwatch and jumped to her feet. "I'll have to dash. I drove Tony over so I'll have to drive him back—I'll tell Mother to expect you at three tomorrow . . . by the way, what sort of a costume do you think we ought to dream up for Tony, Barbara?"

Barbara considered him thoughtfully, thinking how admirably his shabby tweeds suited him. "Well," she said, "wouldn't that depend on what his girl is wearing?" You see, a monk and a ballet dancer or a clown and a queen would be too incongruous if you're going to have prizes.

"I told you she was good!" Pamela said.

"Let me know then when you've decided what you are going to wear Tony said.

Pamela's eyes flashed to his instantly and she saw that he had spoken to Barbara.

And she saw the way their glances were locked and the faint color that surprised had sent to Barbara's cheeks, and the same faint color that sprang from Tony's knowledge of what he had said.

If she had been four years younger she would have given way to stars of disappointment that made a lump in her throat. But she was 18 and already a woman of the world, so she said coldly: "Then I think you'd better plan on the Cossack costume

I first suggested, Tony. You're to be my beau that night, you know."

"You'd make a perfect Cossack, Tony," Barbara said. "And whatever Pamela wears is sure to be charming. What is it to be Pam?"

"That's going to be a surprise. The whole evening will be full of surprises. Wait and see!"

The strum of guitars was louder and the beat of a haunting melody that had begun beside a gypsy campfire grew faster, wilder, and its cry rose to the sky that was like a star-studded bowl of lapis lazuli overturned upon a fairyland.

A girl in purple velvet stood on the crest of a hill between another hill topped with the lighted mansion that was Stormwood and the brightly lighted pond below where a gypsy orchestra in a giant gilt shell played that wild, stirring music. She was silently drinking in the sight of beauty that she and the night between them had created.

Above and around her, all over the woodland that was the Killoran estate, colored lights strung in the trees winked and blinked like myriads of giant fireflies and made dancing shadows of the silhouettes of great lacy trees, upon the carpet of light snow that covered the ground.

To her right the mansion was ablaze with lights that shone from every window and cast golden light out into the shrubbery and reached to the drive where gleaming motors stood in double rows. The lights of a car turning into the gates below the long drive sent an arc of light to halo the hill as it approached. From these things, Barbara Wistler turned her glance to the more enchanting scene below her.

Here, a circle of brush fires, attended by men in peasant costumes, made a flaming frame for the big pond that looked like an animated picture out of a 17th century story-book. Torches of red and white fire threw giant shadows on the white hillside and made the colors of the skater's costumes as clear as if the night were day.

Water Needed to Maintain Life

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Science gathers its materials in unexpected places. The story of the Mutiny on the Bounty is an adventure yarn of the sea, but it is also one of the great contributions to human heredity.

When we study heredity in mice we know about heredity in mice, not necessarily in human beings. It is a convenient way to study the subject because we can keep the mice up in cages and keep them getting away from and having love affairs in the open. The mutineers of the Bounty landed on a desert island and intermarried with the natives, they were all killed but one and when discovered he was the ancestor of everybody on the island, they had been in a cage.

So the story of the three U.S. sailors in a rubber raft floating on the Pacific for 3 days is an adventure story of the first class, but it will be stuck in the physiologist's long after it has been dropped from the story books, because it is a study in metabolism.

Three men were forced down in a Navy plane and found themselves on a rubber raft with nothing to eat, no water, no nothing. Oh, yes, they had a knife. As hunger began to get the better of civilized ideas they agreed that survivors should eat the heart, liver and internal organs of the first one that died. One of them was able to spear a fish from day to day and these were eaten raw.

After several days of blistering heat and clear weather it rained. After that there were squalls every day so they had water. And water was what saved them.

What they had to eat for 34 days was probably as much as a normal adult eats in one day of light meals. And it had no variety. They had no vitamin tablets. But they had water. And men can live for 34 days if they have water.

It is one of the very few recorded experiments to determine this point. The average reader of scientific literature has read a number of loose statements and thinks that physiology has plenty of data on the subject. . . . that fellow that was out in the desert that time. Well, what fellow who was out in what desert, what time? A professional physiologist made vague statements so we started to look it up and we found almost nothing. The figure of the man in the desert gets vaguer and vaguer as you trace him down. No professional, faster, not even Mohandas Gan'hi has been able to stand the torture of a fast without water.

By Nature . . . Children Aren't Bothered By Social Problems

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

"Dear Mr. Myers—We have moved to a so-called 'nice' neighborhood and my children, ages four and five respectively, are very fond of a little boy a few years their senior from a so-called 'low' family. As far as I can see they are 'good' people but not too clean and a bit ignorant.

"I have studied the child very closely and find him a very honest, polite little boy.

"To my mind my children are getting more in character building from this child than they would from a child coming from a family with prestige and background.

"Several of my friends disapprove of this but I think it very unfair to feel racial prejudice or social distinction and I would like my children to feel the same way. What would your viewpoint be?"

"As I answered this mother, I agree with her that any children, especially under 10 or 12, are democratic if their parents are not snobs. Of course her two children need also to play with some other children of their age. So does the visiting older boy.

Nelson Daughters of England Buy $500 Victory Bond

Nelson Lodge of the Daughters of England on Tuesday bought $500 in Victory Bonds, bringing their patriotic expenditure since the outbreak of war to $735.

Decision to place the money in Victory Bonds was made at a lodge meeting Monday night, said Mrs. Robert Vyse, Secretary-Treasurer.

In the last Victory Loan drive the Lodge bought a $100 bond. Previously it gave $100 to the Kootenay Bomber Fund, and also donated to three ambulance financing drives staged by Daughters of England lodges throughout the Dominion.

Band Pleases Creston Audience

CRESTON, B. C. — Citizens of the Creston Valley enthusiastically welcomed the Esquimalt Navy Band here Sunday and turned out in large numbers to hear the three performances given in the air of Victory Bond sales.

Clear weather Sunday afternoon made possible the parade and outdoor performance of the band. The parade led by the band was followed by the veterans 1914-18, A.R.P. personnel, the Pacific Coast Rangers, School Cadets and the Red Cross Cadets. After parading to the school the Victory Loan flag was dedicated and the band gave a short concert. The remainder of the afternoon the sailors were the guests of their hosts who showed them the interesting points in the valley.

The High School auditorium was jammed to capacity for the evening presentation of the band, which was declared by the majority to have been one of the best performances ever heard here. During a short intermission Capt. Ingram, who captained the third ship to be torpedoed in this war, strongly appealed for the sake of "your brothers and my brothers" who are lost on flaming tankers for the people to conserve gasoline and to buy Victory Bonds.

Col. E. Mallandaine gave a rousing speech for the sale of the war bonds. He deplored the complacency of the people of the Interior and declared unless the citizens dug deeper and produced the necessary money the enemy would get the chance they were looking for, and the citizens would be letting down the two hundred or more soldiers who are gone from the valley. He called on the people to do their utmost to reach Creston's quota this week.

Replying to Col. Mallandaine's speech of appreciation of the band performances, Band Master Cuthbert replied and thanked the citizens for the welcome and treatment the band received here. He said Creston hospitality was equal to any they had received and hoped they would be able to return at a future date.

A midnight frolic commencing at 12:01 was the final appearance of the band and well over 400 people attended and danced to the excellent music of the 13 piece swing band. Their vocal soloist, Doug Stanley won the applause of the dancers. The dance was held in the auditorium and war savings stamps sold as admission amounted to $141.50.

Miss K. Messinger Weds R. Irving at Creston Ceremony

CRESTON, B. C. — Bronze mums and delphiniums, formed floral decoration for a pretty home wedding, when Kathryn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Messinger, of Creston, became the bride of Robert E. Irving, youngest son of Mrs. Mary Irving and the late Edward B. Irving of Thurms, B.C.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of friends by Rev. A. A. Fulton, M.D., B.A., of Trinity United Church, at the house of the bride's parents on Oct. 29th.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of British tan, with brown accessories, her corsage was yellow rose buds. Miss Helen Nelson, her bridesmaid, chose a rose bunny wool dress, with brown accessories, and her corsage was pink rose buds.

The Empty Room...

This is my boy's room. This is where he slept. This is where he dreamed a child's dreams. This is where he saw a man's visions. Here, in this empty room, are faded pictures of team mates and heroes... books scribbled over with notes and exclamations... the gloves and spiked shoes we hung up for good before he went to war... the silver cup he won... bright pennants... and all the careless memoranda, the echoes of his days.

If fathers could only pour their hate through the hot barrels of smoking guns, and write the records of their grief with bayonet steel. They said I was too old to fight, though I'm only fifty. But, if I'm too old to fight and drop a stick of bombs, I'm not too old to lay my money on the line for war savings stamps and bonds! Maybe I am too stiff and slow to fly, but I've got control enough to keep my car speed under 40... so they can keep their fighting planes above 400! And if I can't march thirty miles a day with a full pack, I can walk two miles to work and back to help save gas and rubber! No, I'm not bitter any more because I won't win this war behind a gun or on a ship or in the sky. I've come around to thinking that here at home we've got the job of passing the ammunition along, of sacrificing little things, of giving up and giving without, of looking ahead to "less" instead of "more". Somebody's got to do the necessary, undramatic things... and I guess that's what older men are for.

NELSON SOCIAL

By MRS. M. J. VIGNEUX

JEFFS-ATHEY • A pretty wedding was solemnized at Christ Church Cathedral in Vancouver Saturday evening, Oct. 10, when Phyllis Margaret, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Athey of Mission, B. C., became the bride of Alfred Nelson Jeffs, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jeffs of Nelson, B. C. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cecil Swanson, D.D., of Vancouver. To the strains of "O Perfect Love" the bride entered the beautifully-decorated church on the arm of her brother-in-law, Ernest Smith. Her wedding gown was floor length, pastel pink chiffon, cut on princess lines with Peter Pan neckline and long, full sleeves. She wore a waist-line veil of matching color held with a halo style Dutch cap. The bride carried a white prayer book clustered with pale pink rosebuds and white heather with long satin streamers. She was attended by her sister, Anne, who was gowned in floor-length rose chiffon, with matching accessories. She wore a waist-length corsage of white carnations and maiden hair fern. The groom was supported by Clifford McKinnon of Nelson, brother-in-law of the bride. After the ceremony the bride couple and intimate friends repaired to Hotel Vancouver, where the rooms were prettily decorated with mauve and pink flowers. The bride couple was assisted in receiving the guests by the bride's mother, who wore a blue sheer redingote with matching accessories, and by the bride's sister, Mrs. Ernest Smith, who wore a wine ensemble with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of pink and white carnations. Later a reception was held at Duff's Dining Room. A two-tiered cake embedded in pink tulle with tall lighted tapers at either end graced the bride's table. Leo McKinnon of Vancouver proposed the toast to the bride and groom, to which the groom replied. The groom's gift to the bride was a dinner ring and to the matron of honor china novelties. The groom received a travelling clock and the best man a travelling case. For the wedding trip to Vancouver Island, the bride chose a dusty rose dress, with black boucle coat, silver fox collar and matching accessories. Her corsage was pale pink and white carnations. The happy couple plan to make their home in Victoria.

Anti-British Talk

Allan A. Michie, foreign correspondent and author of the new book on the Middle East, "Retreat to Victory," says that the Nazi propaganda machine is intensely interested in keeping Americans suspicious of their British allies, and in some cases has succeeded pretty well.

Mr. Michie reports that in all parts of the world he has heard Goebbels-nurtured doubts voiced about the British. In the Philippines a young American asked scornfully: "Why can't the British do anything about anything?" In Manila, 10 days before American planes and bombs were wiped out through careless complacency, pilots said: "Those damned limeys don't know how to fight a war."

And here is a portion of the British record as reported in "Retreat to Victory:"

"The damned limeys' held the Axis alone for a year and a half. A handful of R.A.F. pilots pushed back the whole might of the Luftwaffe. The British put more than 500,000 Italian and German troops in Africa out of action; reduced Mussolini's empire to ruins; protected the shipping of the United Nations; spend from 6 1/2 to 10 million pounds a day for the war. After the great air blitzes, no Briton suggested his country should quit. Toward the end of '41, 80 per cent of Britain's military production was being sent abroad to her Allies; she imported 200 tanks; sent 3000 overseas from her own factories.

"During the battle of Singapore, no one inquired whether the Japs might be cleverly and deliberately giving Bataan a few breathing spaces in order to drive still deeper the comparison between British and American soldiers. Japs used 800 to 1000 planes to blast Singapore, and by contrast, comparatively few were used during the lulls on Bataan, a fact which critical American armchair generals forgot to point out."

Military Harmony

(Montreal Star)

Colonel Ralston's statement on his return from Britain that Canadian and United States military forces in Great Britain are exchanging a certain number of officers to obtain increased coordination in the event of joint operations is a gratifying indication of cooperation between armed forces now in Britain. It has been known for some time that this exchange has gone on between British and American formations, but this is the first intimation and the United States have followed suit.

It is important that there should be complete integration of planning, and that can only be done if the various forces are familiar with one another's training and methods. This familiarity can be assured by an interchange of personnel and this, Colonel Ralston declares is now being done in complete harmony of view.

With Mr. Howe, the Minister of Munitions and Supply, Colonel Ralston found Canada's stock in Britain very high right now. Despite brought Canadian military efficiency to the fore, and gifts from Canada to Britain and the continual supply of food have made the British people aware, as they have never been aware before, of Canada's strength and resourcefulness.

Of the quality of Canadian equipment going overseas, Col. Ralston found only the highest praise. General McNaughton told him that Canadian equipment is "the best that comes to England," a statement our Commander-in-Chief also made to Canadian newspaper men who visited him recently. That view was borne out by officers in the field, who preferred Canadian equipment of any other.

On this question of supply, Mr. Howe put his finger on the problem when he said that the difficulty was not so much to get enough for Canada's own needs as to produce enough for Britain and get them delivered. The crux of the problem lies in the phrase "and get them delivered." Masses of material are known to be piled up awaiting shipment, but the shipping problem must be solved if this material is ever to get to the troops.

Colonel Ralston's estimate of the Canadian troops overseas conform with opinions expressed by others who have seen them in training and in their operational role in the British defence system. They are highly trained troops, eager for battle.

Liberia Threat to Axis

(New York Times)

There has been and probably will be no official explanation of why American troops have landed in Liberia. But the landing coincides with reports of German submarines operating against Allied convoy routes from Cape Palmas, which is just over the border of Eastern Liberia. Vichy, however, will not fail to note that Monrovia, the Liberian capital, is only 750 air miles from Dakar.

No doubt an American expeditionary force will be welcome in the Negro republic, which was established 95 years ago under American auspices and has always enjoyed our friendly interest. The chief commercial activity of the country today is the Firestone rubber plantations, from which we import a sizable tonnage of latex. German nationals are now leaving Monrovia, and Berlin says Liberia will soon join the United Nations. If that happens, French West Africa will be entirely blocked off in the Southeast by territory hostile to Germany. It is not surprising that German propaganda betrays such nervousness over Dakar and its hinterland, or that Hitler is exerting his utmost pressure to obtain military control of the area.

Liberia is the closest we have come to Dakar, though the British at Freetown are even closer. But our landing appears to be only the latest of a series of bridgeheads we have flung clear around the Gulf of Guinea. The Axis has reported American troops on the Gold Coast, in Nigeria, at Brazzaville, in French Equatorial Africa, which is under de Gaulle control, and at Leopoldville, in the Belgian Congo. The military resources of this vast section in the heart of Africa, British, Free French and Belgian, are now very considerable, even without the recent influx of American forces. It does not require much imagination to see how they could be used. The map reveals how completely the Axis flank and rear in North Africa and Vichy's stronghold at Dakar lie open to an advance from the South.

Press Comment

THE KOOTENAYS SHOULD BE REPRESENTED

The British Columbia Government has not yet appointed a new Minister of Mines for the Province, following the temporary shuffling of the Cabinet as the result of the late Hon. Rolf Bruhn's death.

Our mining industry is a most important one, especially now when we are hunting for strategic minerals and when our present base metal and other factors in that industry are asked to expand to meet Canada's demand for "more and more war metals."

The Kootenays contribute more to B.C. mineral production than almost all other districts combined. And when we say the "Kootenays" we include the Boundary district. At Kimberley, here and at Trail we have the most important mining operations in Canada and one of the most vital in the Empire.

In the Slokan and throughout the entire area of the Kootenays and Boundary, we have more actual and potential mineral wealth and production possibilities than in all the rest of British Columbia—particularly when we consider it from a point of accessibility for rapid and growing production of the metals our country and its Allies require. And yet—we have no Cabinet Minister, let alone a Minister of Mines.

Not since Lorne Campbell held the latter portfolio in 1916 has this side of the Province had a Minister of Mines. And yet we have the striking facts, indicated above, before us. And add to this the very important coal production of the Fernie and Michel mines.

We think the time has come when the Kootenays should get together and request, nay demand, such mining representation.

THE BACK MARKET

Since the beginning of the Canadian price ceiling in December, 1941, there had been 493 prosecutions of black market traders up to the end of August, 1942. In almost all cases—93 per cent—the prosecution had been successful and the offenders punished.

This shows that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board does not prosecute unless it knows the facts. It also shows that, while the black market has not yet damaged the ceiling seriously, it has become a factor to be reckoned with. We can safely assume anyway that for every offense discovered by Mr. Gordon's investigators, several offenses are committed without discovery.

Should the black market grow, who would be the victim of it? The public, of course. Black markets, secret sales of goods at illegal prices, not only damage the original purchaser, but can finally make the whole ceiling unworkable. Any citizen who buys in the black market is bidding up prices against himself.

The black market must be attacked by rigid prosecution, not only of those who sell in it, but those who buy in it. But in the end the ceiling can not be held only by prosecutions. It must be held by the vigorous support of all the people, by their refusal to pay more for anything than the legal price and by their refusal to buy anything that they do not need. —Vancouver Sun.

Disappointed Calgary Fans Learn Ray, Not Bobby, Bauer in Town

CALGARY, Nov. 4 (Wednesday) (CP)—Calgary hockey fans, happy yesterday at the thought that famed Bobby Bauer of the Boston Kraut line would play for the local R.C.A.F. team this winter, were disillusioned today.

Things were explained as follows in the sports pages of today's issue of The Albertan.

Bobby Bauer, famed as one of the Kitchener Kids of the Boston Bruin Kraut line, has a brother.

Bobby's brother is named Ray, which gives him the same initials: Robert Bobby's brother, like Bobby, is a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Also like Bobby, Ray plays hockey.

But he never played in the N.H.L. He never played in any other professional league.

It will be Ray, not Bobby, who plays for Calgary Air Force Flyers Saturday night against A-18 Infantry Training Centre in the season's first local exhibition hockey game. Ray, not Bobby, will be stationed in Calgary this winter.

The similarity of initials and the jubilation of local Air Force officers when they heard that a hockey-playing R. Bauer was being posted to Calgary caused No. 4 Training Command to issue in good faith Monday an announcement that Bobby Bauer would play in the Saturday night Junior Commerce Chamber's war fund game. Newspapers and radio sports commentators followed up with headlines, pictures and long yarns about the "Kraut Kid."

Ray, youngest brother of Bobby, played for No. 1 Manning Pool in Ontario last winter. He has a reputation as a first-class Senior player and but for being a member of the R.C.A.F. would have jumped to professional ranks a year ago as he has had several pro offers.

Lust, Castilloux Set for Bout

Committee to Line Up Players for Organization Commercial Puck League; Suggest N.A.H.A. Affiliation

Nelson's proposed Commercial Hockey League took its first step toward formal organization Wednesday night when at a meeting of supporters with Secretary-Manager Ed Keller of the Civic Centre, a committee was named to line up all likely players and lay the ground for an organization meeting next Wednesday. Walter Wait, Jesse Seaby, and Jim Ritchie were named for this chore.

Affiliation of the Commercial League, with the Nelson A.H.A. was suggested. It was felt this would lend greater ease to preparing ice schedules and handling relationships between kid hockey and the commercials.

Express purpose of the movement as outlined by the Sec-Manager, was to "keep the game alive, to give fun and recreation to the older players and to train the younger ones." The teams, it was proposed, would be self supporting.

Both he and W. Wait, kept supporter of the movement, stressed that "the whole thing loses its point if we have unbalanced teams." And there'll be no cups to play for so there would be no point in packing any one team. One suggestion was that a players' committee be named to see that balance was maintained.

3 TEAMS LIKELY

A three-team league was proposed Wait said. Already 18 players were definitely lined up, while there remained many others yet to be contacted.

Secretary Jack Wood of the Nelson Amateur Hockey Association, governing body for kid hockey, asked that an understanding be arrived at so that juveniles needed in the kid ranks not be permitted to confine their activities to the commercial league to the detriment of kid hockey. Few juveniles would be used, it was said, and then only when required to fill the ranks for the Commercials because of absenteeism.

Ranks of the Commercial league teams will likely include Bill Brown,

Hapgood of British Soccer Fame, Nears International Mark

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A Bristol magistrate many years ago told Eddie Hapgood that unless he curbed an urge to boot a football he would find himself in serious trouble. The admonition followed a two-shilling fine for breaking a lamp-post glass.

But frightened as Eddie was at finding himself in a police court, he couldn't resist the urge to fool around soccer. . . . It was the same Eddie, now a member of the famed Arsenal Gunners, who captained England's team against Scotland in the first International of this season which resulted in a scoreless draw at London's Wembley Stadium. . . .

It was the 32nd time since he first was chosen for an International side nine years ago that the fleet-footed forward skipped an England team. . . . That's a record. . . .

The Wembley match also was Eddie's 41st International and brought him within one of Bob Crompton's complete mark of 42. . . . Eddie's total is made up of 13 pre-war Internationals against British sides, 17 against European clubs, and 11 wartime Internationals. . . . In addition he captained England in two Jubilee games in 1935. He has been playing big-league soccer for 15 years and followers say he's good for many more seasons because "he uses his head to save his legs."

The Wembley International maximum crowd of 75,000—there would have been more but the police wouldn't allow it—contributed a gate of $52,000. . . . Except for expenses, the full receipts were distributed among war charities. . . . Scottish officials, as in the past, refused to allow their players to be numbered, contending the public needed no assistance in identifying them. . . . The Football Association, whose players made up England's team, have been converted to the numbering of players. . . . England's men wore numbers on the back of their white shirts. . . .

Sport has contributed approximately $2,200,000 to the British Red Cross Fund since the outbreak of war, the Red Cross Sports committee announced football contributed more than $168,000 of that amount, while rugby and cricket each provided more than $40,000. . . . A silver trophy known as the Victory Cup and purchased by the Football League Management Committee probably will be put up for competition in the first season after the war when a "Victory League" may be run before the return to normal soccer conditions.

Bombers Come From Behind to Win Crown

WINNIPEG, Nov. 3 (CP)—Outmaxing a second half aerial attack, Winnipeg Bombers came from behind a one-point deficit with a last minute touchdown to win the two-game total-point Winnipeg Senior Football Series against Royal Canadian Air Force Flyers 34-29 in a thrill-packed game here tonight.

Sparked by Ches McCance, veteran backfielder, the Bombers took the second game tonight 20-11 after watching the airmen run their 18-14 advantage after the initial game to a 15-point jump in the first quarter. McCance anared a 31-yard forward pass from Quarterback Wayne Shelley, side-stepped two airmen, and raced 40 yards for the last major score in the last minute. He converted the touchdown, his third of the night, having booted for the extra point when Jerry O'Donahue and Shelley got touchdowns.

Bombers' other points came on a safety-touch when Art Ken Charlton took a bad R.C.A.F. snap and carried the pigskin out of play behind his own goal line, in the second quarter.

P.O. Bob Fritz, coach of the airmen, took advantage of a strong wind in the opening quarter, a kick on first down was fumbled on Bombers six-yard line and two plays later Fritz plunged for a touchdown. Art Johnny Lake converted.

Late in the quarter Charlton wormed his way through the gold and blue line for another major score that went unconverted.

Shelley's passing to McCance, Bus Moorehouse, O'Donahue and Ken Preston in the second half appeared to disorganize their opponents.

Pro Player Can Go to Teams Only If Unskilled Worker

TORONTO, Nov. 3 (CP)—Under a ruling today by G. A. Buckley, Assistant Manager of the Toronto Branch of the National Selective Service, professional hockey players employed in war plants during the off-playing season will not be permitted to quit their jobs and return to hockey unless they are classified as unskilled workers.

Selective Service officials refused permission to Tommy Cooper, star right-winger with the St. Catharines amateur team, to leave his work as apprentice tool-maker in order to play for the Toronto Maple Leafs. Cooper formerly played with Saskatoon Quakers.

Buckley considers hockey players' "work up war plants necessary to the country's war effort."

TORONTO (CP)—Sugar Jim Henry of Winnipeg, goaltender for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League last year, is in the army stationed at Ottawa and will be net-minder for the Canadian Military Staff Clerks team in the National Defence Hockey League here. He was awarded to the clerks by a ruling by which available pro players were allotted to the various teams in the circuit.

Whirlaway Goes Down Before Hot Riverland

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—proved his upset triumph over Alaab was no fluke as he raced through Pimlico's mud to defeat 17th running of the Riggs handicap today before a crowd of 10,000 stoned persons.

Only three days after his defeat of Mrs. Albert Sabath's three-year-old, the sensational son of Coldstream turned on a blazing bit of speed to take the winner's purse of $9225, from Calumet Farm's top money winner of all time.

Whirlaway finished second, 2 1/4 lengths back of the winner, and W. L. Brann's Picor was third, three quarters of a length behind Whirlly. Howard Wells' Equifox was fourth in the field of six.

Whirlaway, four-year-old son of Blenheim II, gave away pounds of weight to the field, carrying 130. Riverland had the second highest impost with 116.

Whirlaway was forced to go wide entering the stretch while Riverland slipped along the rail. The Calumet Comet made a game bid and closed some ground but could not overcome Riverland's lead.

The winner, from the Louisiana farm stables of Harold A. Clark, thus boosted his year's winnings to $54,175. He did not race as a two-year-old and won only $90 last year.

The second portion of the purse, $1200, brought Whirlaway's all-time winnings to $540,836.

Old Timers to Show Stuff in Coast Hockey

By CHARLES EDWARDS

TORONTO, Nov. 3 (CP)—Enlightenment of so many of the younger hockey players in Canada's armed forces is giving the old-timers an extra year or two, maybe more, on the steel blades. Dozens of puck veterans, fellows who know all the hockey answers after years in professional company and who are anxious to remain in the sport as long as their creaking joints will let them, are winning team positions which ordinarily would go to vigorous youngsters.

Taks, for example, the veteran Coley Mail has working on his Vancouver St. Regis amateur club—and this time there are no loud cries of "you can keep them", Mail's player candidates include Percy Jackson, Porky Levine, Sam McAdam, Lulu, Palm, Ralph Blythe, Bill Hutton, Jack Riley and Lulu Lennon and the average professional experience of these eight men is 12 years.

It's 13 years since Goslie Levine, former Timmins, Ont., junior turned pro with Detroit. Fourteen years ago McAdam ended a sensational career as a Winnipeg Elmwood forward for a salary with Vancouver Lions. Each of these chaps is 34, old for an active athlete 'tis true, but young enough to make good use of their long experience.

It will be interesting to watch the successes and disappointments of the old-timers matching the wisdom gained in the toughest hockey company in the world against the speed and condition of their younger rivals.

BUCKNA STILL IN DOUBT

TRAIL, B. C. Nov. 3—Mike Buckna's hockey future is still in doubt. Saturday the ex-Smoke Eater, trying out with the Chicago Black Hawks, wired his wife "Small f sign or come home!" and she wired back to sign. In a letter received yesterday he indicated that he believed that he would have no trouble making the N.H.L. club's lineup, but that he was not "fussy." He told his wife that the training grind was tough. The players went on the ice for two hours drilling in the morning, ate in the rink with their uniforms on, and then went back for another session in the afternoon.

Banser Is Fined for Transporting Cows Without Certificate

Pleading guilty to a charge of transporting cows on a truck without having a certificate of inspection under the Brands Act, Hetman Banser was fined $25 and costs in Provincial Police Court at New Denver. He appeared before William Irvine of Nelson, Stipendiary Magistrate.

He was checked by Constable G. A. Brabazon near Slocan City when he had two cows in his truck but did not have a certificate covering them.

Constable Brabazon explained the certificate of inspection was necessary to establish ownership of the animals.

Lethbridge May See Hockey This Year After All

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Nov. 3 (CP)—Squadron Leader Lees, officer in charge of No. 8 Bombing and Gunnery School hockey club, said today he still hopes to enter a club here in the Alberta Senior Service Hockey League.

"At the time of our withdrawal yesterday, it looked impossible for us to ice a club capable of entering the League," he said.

"Later in the day further developments prompted me to reconsider this, and to delay any withdrawal for two or three days."

Kayak II to Try Tracks Again

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 3 (AP)—Tom Smith, the trainer who performed a racing miracle when he brought Seahisult bank from stud to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, will try this winter to revive Kayak II.

Owner Charles Howard retired Kayak II early in 1941 when the horse went amiss in training for the Santa Anita, an event he had won in a previous running. Now a seven-year-old, Kayak II will be brought here for the Tropical Park meeting, opening Dec. 21. Kayak II has won $213,200.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Pie Mickey McConnell of Fort Knox, Ky., former Secretary of the Dodgers' farm system, offers this proof of Branch Rickey's ability as a promoter. . . . When Rickey first took hold in St. Louis, says Mickey, his wife discovered that their best rug was missing. . . . "I took it down to the office," Rickey sheepishly explained. "Several of the city's most influential men were coming out for a conference and I wanted the place to look prosperous."

TODAY'S QUEST STAR

John Cronley, Oklahoma City Oklahoman: "I still like Henry Swanka's explanation of the difference between a high school and a college coach. . . . the prep mentor looks for the position of the ball after the first kickoff, while the college coach glances over his shoulder to count the crowd."

SERVICE DEPT.

John Murski, the crack miller from Missouri, must figure that 13 is his lucky number. He used to wear it on his warm-up jersey. He drew Nov. 13 on his army tag and completed his 13-weeks officers' course 13 months after he entered the service. . . . The Cardinals' Terry Moore expects to join the Navy early next year. His brother Frank, the golfer, signed last week when the Gulf Coast Training Command came around looking for men to be trained as ground mechanics and radio technicians.

Fight Veteran, Fidel La Barba, Finally Makes Army

MARCH FIELD, Calif., Nov. 3 (AP)—For a long time it looked as if Fidel La Barba, a fighting man if ever there was one, would be forced to settle for a passive spectator's role in the biggest scrap in history.

But it was not to be, so Fidel, former world's flyweight boxing champion, veteran of hundreds of ring battles, scholar, writer and physical culture expert, now is Pie La Barba of the U. S. Army.

Fidel wanted to get into the fight long ago. But impaired sight of the left eye, damaged in a gym accident while training for a bout with Kid Chocolate in 1932, kept him out.

The Army finally decided that La Barba had plenty of qualifications to offset the disadvantage of one poor eye, so last week he was drafted and sent to March Field as a member of the Army Air Force.

Fidel has been assigned to the athletic office as boxing instructor.

TORONTO (CP)—Morden Skinner, 28, of Lockport, Man., a forward with Baltimore Orioles of the Eastern U. S. Amateur Hockey League last season, has joined the Royal Canadian Navy.

Contract... By Shepard Barclay

LIKE A HANDICAP RACE. PLAYING for a contract of only one in either No Trump or suit resembles an even race in which two runners are trying to go about the same distance. But making a game from scratch is more like a handicap, to see if the strong side can take a large number of tricks before the weaker pair can take a smaller number. Having enough sure trick takers, in your own hand and dummy, to add up to the height of your contract, does not assure success necessarily. Before you gather yours in, the defenders may collect enough to beat you.

West refrained from doubling solely because he feared one of his opponents might have a blank in the club suit. He contented himself with merely taking his four aces and beating the contract a single trick.

But there is more to this hand than that. Just examine the holdings of North and South in the different suits. Doesn't the spade suit seem a sure thing to produce five tricks, no matter what happens? Isn't the heart suit bound to furnish two tricks? Aren't there two more certain tricks in diamonds? And isn't South equipped with a positive trick in clubs? Add those up—5 plus 2 plus 2 plus 1—and you get 10, the number bid for.

The only trouble was that West had four tricks before South got started and, though he had ten trick-takers between his two hands, only nine tricks remained to be played before the deal was finished. In other words, West, with his big handicap, only had to try to cover the ground of four tricks before his opponent traveled ten, all of which he did. In fact, he did it while South was still left at the post, and all of his best running after that could not win after West hit the finish wire.

"You will do a grievous wrong to the Allied cause of you do not stir the truth from the chaff while there is yet time. . . I want you to look upon the immediate recognition of India's independence as a war measure of first-class magnitude."

Brazil's Unity in War Is Impressive

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP)—Recognition of a state of belligerency between Brazil and Germany and Italy by the Brazilian Government faithfully mirrored popular sentiment. Public opinion had condemned the sinking of Brazilian shipping carrying material on the international trade routes to Germany's enemies, but although it considered such action entirely unwarranted, it was still understandable.

However, when Brazilian coastwise shipping, which could not conceivably be related to the conduct of Germany's war, was sunk in circumstances of extreme cruelty, it could only be considered as direct and wanton Nazi aggression against Brazil herself.

Instantly crowds in every corner of Brazil staged spontaneous demonstrations. There was nothing that smacked of mob frenzy in these manifestations in Rio de Janeiro—they were orderly and sober. They were in the nature of stern civic demonstrations of determination. The population sensed the tragic responsibility which President Vargas—and he alone—had to assume. The unanimity of every class and interest, of every profession and religion was most impressive.

Heartening as have been the substantial successes of the Brazilian Air Force against Nazi submarines, the most important factor of the equation is the strong internal unity of the country, which finds a natural complement not only in its anxiety to cooperate with the United Nations, as was made patent by the step taken according to Nelson Rockefeller, the American coordinator, but in "Continental Solidarity," a concept which has always operated deep in the mind of Brazil.

The latter found an outlet to express itself in the honors paid to General Justo, ex-president of the Argentine, on his recent visit to Rio and in the Sanitary Congress in which eleven of the American nations, including Canada, participated. General Justo was doubly welcomed—personally for having placed his sword at Brazil's service in his capacity as an honorary general in the Brazilian Army and secondly, as the symbol of the sympathy of the Argentine people.

The achievement of national unity is a remarkable performance of the Vargas administration. Everybody knows the powerful influence exercised in Brazil by the economic strength of the Italian and German minorities and how thoroughly these have been regimented by the totalitarian governments of their countries of origin. What is not so well known is the way the Japanese had insinuated themselves into Brazil's economic life and in establishing cohesive groups in strategic parts of the land.

Waddington Is Music Head of Army Show

GEORGEY WADDINGTON

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (CP)—Geoffrey Waddington, Canada's best known musical director in connection with early commercial radio programs, has been appointed musical director of "The Army Show", the official Canadian Army entertainment troupe now being organized. It has been announced by the Department of National Defence. Mr. Waddington will be associated with Jack Arthur, consultant producer and Victor George, general manager, in forming this feature production.

Chief aim of "The Army Show" will be to bring modern entertainment to troops in army camps and training centres across the Dominion, and where possible to portray to the general public, life in the army in a lighter vein. The show will be introduced as a national network feature before making its tour in army camps.

Performers will be drawn from the active army, but where specially qualified civilians are available, their services will be enlisted. Talented artists among the Canadian Women's Army Corps will be sought, chiefly singers and dancers.

The show, with its own band of 32 highly-qualified musicians, will not conflict with other civilian and service groups now entertaining the army camps. The services of best-known writers, composers and lyricists will also be utilized.

Troops in the east will continue to live a military life, and will be quartered in barracks. Their training will not be slackened and will be designed to make them soldiers as well as actors.

Complete equipment, including stage scenery, costumes, along with its own stage managers and arrangers will be carried by the show.

A.R.P. Head Warns Motorists Must Hood Lights for Blackouts

"With the much-talked-of large-scale practice blackout rumored to take place on Dec. 7, but of which it is yet too early to expect definite instructions locally, it behooves all automobile and truck drivers to be in a state of readiness," Chief A.R.P. Warden H. E. Thain warned Tuesday. "Whilst it is reasonable to assume that the big test of early December will also encompass this District, we should not overlook the possibility of having to face a blackout long before then.

WILL ENFORCE LAW

"The latitude granted to so many motorists, caught unprepared on Sept. 28, cannot be extended on similar occasions of the future," he said. "The serious inconvenience that may arise from having to park by the wayside and stay put until the all-clear is fully appreciated, but our police and wardens have now no option but to enforce the law, and every motorist should see to it that he is ready for any such emergency."

Anyone may continue to drive during a precautionary blackout, providing he cuts his speed to 15 m.p.h. and has head and tail lights screened according to regulations. Hoods for lights are obtainable at most service stations at reasonable cost, and effective screening may be secured by many improvised methods. Cyclists also come under the restrictions.

The Mobile Unit will be headed by Flight Lieutenant J. E. Wright with Flight Lieutenant Douglas Ritchie in charge of medical examinations, and Flying Officer W. Hoover in charge of classification and aptitude tests. Section Officer Rhoda C. Keir will also be with the Mobile Unit to interview recruits for the Women's Division.

These applicants should visit the Mobile Unit at the Canadian Legion between 3 and 5 p.m. and 7 and 9 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday.

It is expected that the response for aircrew enlistments from this district will be as high as previously. Aircrew applicants may be enlisted immediately and put on leave without pay until any date they wish to report between now and next May. Formal education is no longer a bar to aircrew. The age limit has been reduced to 17 1/2 years, and applicants of exceptional ability are being accepted as old as 33 or 34. Recruits taking training under the War Emergency Training Plan will now receive $125 per day subsistence allowance as well as the regular Air Force Pay and dependent allowances where applicable.

Tradesmen are needed for immediate enlistment as carpenters, postal clerks, engineers suitable for chief engineer's duties and stationary engineers. In the works and buildings section first class firemen, diesel fitters, general fitters, foreman of works, tractor operators and pumpmen are needed.

In the Women's Division of the Royal Canadian Air Force there is a large variety of interesting trades now open which will be explained to interested girls who visit Section Officer Keir.

Charged with exceeding the 40 miles per hour speed limit set under Department of Munitions and Supply regulations, Hatsu Arinobu, Slocan City Japanese, was fined $25 and costs at New Denver.

Arinobu pleaded guilty. He appeared before Stipendiary Magistrate William Irvine of Nelson in Provincial Police Court at New Denver.

Constable Frank Slater of the B. C. Police Highway Patrol stated that while he and Constable L. I. Cutler were making a patrol on the Slocan Highway they checked Arinobu at speeds of 50 to 60 miles an hour between Lemson Creek and the Popoff farm. He was driving a B. C. Security Commission truck carrying a number of Japanese who were standing in the truck, holding the sides, and Constable Slater warned him he must not carry men in this manner.

LONDON, Nov. 3 (CP)—About 100 members of Parliament welcomed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt when she visited Parliament on a sight-seeing tour today. The house was not in session.

Overwhelmed by the welcome Mrs. Roosevelt said, "It is very kind of you. I am very happy to be here because I've never been to the house of Parliament before."

Interpreting The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
Allied and Axis accounts alike indicate that the crucial phase of the British offensive in Egypt is at hand.

The main tank fleets of the rival commanders now are engaged. Lt. Gen. B. L. Montgomery, the British Commander, and his Nazi opponent Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, both have staked everything on reaching that moment in a position to deliver a knockout blow. Both have carefully husbanded armored strength during the bloody preliminaries.

The British problem was to force a way through Axis mine fields and other defenses without heavy tank expenditure. They have done it with guns. Indications are that they have advanced 20 miles or more on the coastal flank, where a substantial enemy force is reported still trapped against the sea in an eight-mile pocket.

The break-through apparently has been paralleled by another British forward lunge farther South to some 16 miles in depth through the Axis defence zone. And it is there, midway of the narrowness between the coast and the Qattara Depression which hems in the contestants on the South against flanking operations, that Berlin reports Gen. Montgomery has moved to bring the battle to a decision. Nazi accounts say 500 British tanks are in action.

The 40-mile span of the desert corridor between the Mediterranean and the Depression has decided strategy and tactics on both sides. Tank warfare in the desert has gained its most effective results heretofore where there was elbow room for manoeuvre. It is

In that type of desert warfare that Rommel proved himself a master. It is for a renewal of it he has withheld his tank units and possibly some of his air force.

Gen. Sewell, authorized commentator of the British information service in Washington, agrees that the outcome of the whole North African campaign will depend on which side is strongest in fighting manpower and tanks in this new phase of the fight.

He estimated however that even a 25-mile British advance from the El Alamein would traverse only one quarter of the distance to the open desert where tank manoeuvring would be possible on a major scale.

The corridor widens slowly Westward of the El Alamein narrows. It reaches a width of 80 miles, double the length of the front on which Rommel's drive at Alexandria was halted, only in the Matruh area, 100 miles West of El Alamein.

A dozen days of British artillery barrage blasting and air bombing by day and infantry forward surges by night, have torn gaps in the Axis defence system. And by every indication it is behind the Southern gap, somewhere near the centre of the corridor and where a new and important allied advance was reported, that Rommel posted his own tank reserves to meet an expected British armored thrust.

Once joined, the duration of that crucial fight cannot be great. Men and machines could not long endure the strain of continued head-on battle. Hours, days at most, should reveal results in Egypt that could vastly influence the whole war picture.
