DISORDERED ROMMEL ARMY IN FULL RETREAT

CANUCK FLIERS PLAY BIG PART IN DESERT

Fighters, Bombers Help Smash Land and Sea Forces

LONDON, Nov. 4 (CP Cable)—Canadians flying in fighters, fighter-bombers and torpedo-carrying planes are playing a "prominent part" in the Middle East operations which have beaten Axis air-power in the desert to a standstill and forced Rommel's army into "full retreat."

An R.C.A.F. press release from Cairo tonight said that in addition to the Canadian fighter squadron which went to Egypt last June there are a number of Canadians fighting with the R.A.F. and a few with the United States army air forces in the desert.

"The Canadians have taken a prominent part in terrific troop strafing of the enemy's lines, have harassed his supply columns far their back, have bombed his dumps and strong points and have battered his shipping," the R.C.A.F. release said.

"In unprecedented blasting from the air to which Rommel's lines were subjected before the latest British advance began, Canadians took a particularly prominent role. The individual exploits of Canadian fliers already are being recorded in large numbers on the Egyptian front and tally are being augmented."

The R.C.A.F. named Po. R. V. Manning of Vancouver who wrecked an Axis tanker with a torpedo alt and Sgt. K. B. Taylor of Preeceville, Sask., who fought three Italian planes with a spare machine gun stuck out of an open turret after the rear guns of his machine were knocked out of action. Po. L. H. Curphey of Ottawa also was mentioned for destroying an Italian fighter while escorting Allied bombers on a raid.

"Canadians of both air and ground crews shared the work and credit during the tremendous and intensive bombardment of the enemy's positions at El Alamein, and during the ceaseless night and day attacks on the enemy's vital supply columns and landing grounds," the release said.

Roosevelt Party Scrapes Up Bare Majority

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (CP)—Sweeping Republican successes in Tuesday's election made actual vpting control of the House of Representatives a touch-and-go affair tonight, although the Democrats salvaged enough seats to block the Republicans from naming a new Speaker.

The Democratic Party also retained a majority in the Senate though the Republican flood-tide ripped wide gaps in the Administration forces there.

President Roosevelt's party finally pieced together a bare majority of the House membership tonight, but the opposition had edged so close that even slight defections from Party regularity ,might shift the tally on important roll calls.

With only eight House races undecided Republicans counted 205 seats compared with 218 for the Democrats, two held by Progressives and one each by American-Labor and Farmer-Labor lawmakers.

The new Senate lineup stood at 56 Democrats, 38 Republicans, and one Representatives, with the outcome of a contest in Montana undetermined. Senator James E. Murray, Democrat, held the lead in that State.

The Republicans had made a net gain of nine Senate seats, including that of 81-year-old George W. Norris, Neb., Ind. As a result they had their largest representation since the New Deal drove to power nationally in 1932. Republican power had dwindled to only 17 Senate seats in 1937.

DEFEATS JOSH LEE

Of the 15 Democratic Senators elected Tuesday, 10 were from the Party's stronghold in the South. But Oklahoma elected its second Republic Senator in 35 years when E. H. Moore, Tulsa oil man, retired Democrat Josh Lee.

The Republican tide ran strongly, too, in the race for governorships. Out of 33 contests they elected 18 governors to 12 for the Democrats and they lead in three of the undecided contests. The Republicans won in New York, Connecticut, California and Michigan but went down to defeat themselves in Wisconsin where Progressive O. S. Loomis ran away from Republican Governor Julius P. Heil.

But these figures tell only part of the story of the rebirth of Republican power in the first American wartime election since 1918. The minority party came up today with greater power and influence than any time since the lush days of 1928. In the "two-cars-in-every-garage" era of Herbert Hoover. They extended a more or less complete control over the whole of the Northern U. S. and even in the deep South they cut into Democrat majorities.

There was no denial of the fact it was a protest vote against the conduct of the war by the Roosevelt Administration. Not so much in the military field but on the home front. For months it has been apparent that Washington was lagging behind the country in decisive, forthright prosecution of the war—and yesterday the people spoke up in protest against indecisive, vacillating approaches to major wartime problems.

Even the Kelly-Nash machine in Illinois failed to win a Democratic majority in Chicago big enough to defeat Republican Senator C. Wayland Brooks who, because of his Isolationist views before the Pearl Harbor and obstructionist tactics against the Roosevelt administration, was regarded as an ideal opponent by the Democrats.

The Administration lost strong supporters in the Senate. Detroit's Judge Homer Ferguson defeated Senator Prentiss M. Brown, who ramrodded this year's price control legislation through that chamber. A Republican industrialist, Albert W. Hawkes, accounted for William H. Smathers of New Jersey who had the backing of Boss Frank Hague. Republican George A. Wilson downed Democratic Clyde Herring of Iowa.

White House influence could not save Senator George W. Norris, 81 year old Nebraska Independent who bowed to Republican Kenneth S. Wherry. E.V. Robertson, Wyoming Republican, eliminated Senator Harry H. Schwartz.

Party leaders in both Houses won hands down. Speaker Sam Rayburn had no opposition in his Texas district. House leader John W. McCormack and House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin came through in Massachusetts, as did Senate Republican Leader Charles L. McNary in Oregon. The seat of Senate Democratic Leader Barkley was not at stake.

LOAN EXPECTED TO BE WELL OVER TOP TODAY

Five Provinces Gain Objectives; Nine Cities Are Over Top

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP.)—Assuming the daily average of subscriptions to Canada's Third Victory Loan was maintained today, the loan total now should be above the minimum objective of $750,000,000.

The National War Finance Committee said tonight, assuming average figures are maintained, the total announced tomorrow should be well over the $750,000,000 mark.

Five provinces, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Manitoba, British Columbia and New Brunswick, have reached their preliminary objectives, loan headquarters said.

At the close of business Tuesday, 14th day of the campaign, 907,957 Canadians had subscribed to the loan. This total compares with 788,727 subscribers at the same stage of the previous Victory Loan.

The 18-day loan campaign closes Nov. 7, and its new objective, in the words of Finance Minister Ilsley, is "every single dollar that this nation can add."

Nine cities, from Saint John to Victoria, advised national headquarters today that they had passed their original loan objectives. To the list of those already in this circle are added Summerside, P.E.I., Moncton, N.B., Saint John, N. B., Montreal, Regina, Saskatoon, Windsor, Ont., and Victoria, Halifax is just a fraction short of its quota with 99.8 per cent.

The list of large municipalities from which reports have been received includes: Moose Jaw, 157 per cent; Lethbridge, 131 per cent; Sydney, N. S., 112 per cent; Sherbrooke and three Rivers, Que., each 110 per cent; Moncton, 160 per cent; Hull, Que., 106 per cent; Summerside, Saint John and Quebec, all 106 per cent; Windsor, Ont., 105 per cent; Montreal, 104 per cent; Saskatoon, 103 per cent; Regina 102 per cent; Victoria, 100.3 per cent; Halifax 99.8 per cent; Edmonton and Ottawa, each 94 per cent; Charlottetown and Vancouver, 90 per cent; and Calgary, 84 per cent.

Berlin Radio Breaks News Gently

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Berlin Radio apparently began preparing the German people tonight for news of the British breakthrough in Egypt by stressing the "tremendous masses of men and material employed by the British," and Marshal Rommel's supply difficulties.

"Competent quarters" in Berlin were quoted as saying "local breaches" were inevitable because of the numerical superiority of the British, and in another broadcast heard by CBS the announcer said:

"Unfortunately there is no land bridge between the European and African continents. All supplies and reinforcements for Rommel's army must go by sea. It is no exaggeration to say that no British offensive in Egypt would have any hope of success if a land bridge existed between the European and African continents."

The Berlin announcer overlooked the Caucasian land bridge between the two continents—held by the Russians. That is another story

Tattered, Fleeing Army Hacked at by Driving Allies

Von Stumme, Nazi Second-in-Command, Killed; 9000 Prisoners Taken; Losses Include 600 Planes, 260 Tanks

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Nov. 4 (AP) — Marshal Erwin Rommel's desert forces were in full and disordered retreat tonight across the sands of Western Egypt, pursued relentlessly by British forces and under constant attack from above by British, Canadian, American and South African airmen.

A special Allied communique said Gen. von Stumme, Nazi second-in-command, had been killed in the 12-day fight which preceded the flight of the "disordered columns," and 9,000 Axis prisoners had been taken, including Gen. Ritter von Thoma, Commander of the Afrika Korps, and other top-flight German and Italian officers.

The joint communique announced these tremendous Axis losses in less than two weeks of battle:

"We swept over the road and saw it packed with transports. But every vehicle was stopped and everywhere there were tiny trails of dust where the crews were running into the desert. Every bomber in our formation turned and sailed down the road, spilling their bombs on vehicles and men."

DEATH IS BLOW TO AXIS

The joint communique which disclosed the first detailed results of this third big British offensive in the desert said that the slain Gen. von Stumme had been Rommel's stand-in whenever the latter made his periodic trips to Germany.

His death was an obvious hard blow to Axis leadership along with the capture of Gen. Ritter von Thoma and other senior Axis officers.

Before tonight's communique was issued front dispatches had given this picture of the general situation:

On the North, Lt.-Gen. B. L. Montgomery's powerful tanks and infantry, after cracking and routing the 21st German Panzer Division, had swept on beyond the coastal railway station of Sidi Abd El Rahman, which is 18 miles West of El Alamein. The advancing British forces has had pushed the enemy back in the North almost half way to coastal El Daba from the Easternmost point of Axis penetration.

Behind these advancing British forces, several thousands of Germans and Italians were sewed into a coastal pocket into which they first were hemmed by Australian infantry.

The main British forces merely by-passed this pocket, pushing Westward from a strong position established three miles West of the broken enemy minefields. At last reports fighting was continuing somewhere West of Tel El Akakir, "the Hill of Wicked Men", beyond which the Axis still was withdrawing in an attempt to escape another encirclement.

On the South, the enemy fled from their positions at Deir El Munassib and El Himeimat. These were occupied by British troops which continued their pursuit of the Axis forces.

El Himeimat is an important prominence which previously gave the enemy command of a large area. It is almost at the edge of the Qattara Salt Sinks. Deir El Munassib is about 10 miles to the North.

In between the Northern and Southern sectors lies a wide corridor, evidently still bordered by some enemy guns, though which Montgomery strongest tanks and troop reinforcements continue to pass.

Near the coast Australian troops cracked the Axis lines and minefields, turned North and anchored themselves on the Mediterranean rim. Behind them several thousand of Germans and Italians were pocketed for several days.

By now, however, this Axis pocket has been "completely overrun," dispatches from the front said tonight.

After the Australians punched this hole Gen Montgomery sent a powerful tank and motorized infantry group through it to meet the challenging 21st Nazi armored division. The enemy division was smashed and routed, and the British forces pushed on past Sidi and El Rahman.

"Exceptionally high" casualties in dead and wounded;

600 planes.

260 tanks destroyed or captured,

270 guns and,

Allied air losses were described as "light" in the 12-day bloody breakthrough by which the British Command hopes to smash with finality the Axis position in Africa.

The British drive Westward climaxed days of artillery and aerial preparation which softened the Axis line, touched off an elaborate four-mile deep mine field, and knocked out other fixed Nazi positions.

British Infantry did a heavy preliminary job before Gen. B. L. Montgomery hurled his huge tank forces through a gap torn in the Axis coastal flank West of El Alamein. The same procedure was followed 40 miles to the South at the edge of the Qattara Salt Sinks in an effort to roll up the Nazi positions from both flanks.

Hundreds of allied planes pounded the Axis supply lines as far back as the Libyan port of Tobruk, one of the main intake points for much-needed Axis supplies hazardously ferried across the Mediterranean from Italy and Greece.

So great was the advantage enjoyed by the allies this time in the air, the communique said that 300 Axis planes were shot down in combat, and "a like number" destroyed or put out of action on the ground.

Tonight allied fliers still were hacking at the tattered Axis infantry and the remnants of their armored forces streaking Westward along the coast toward El Daba, 35 miles behind the punctured Alamein line.

Under the protection of this allied sky supremacy the 8th Army is continuing its advance. Though the extent of ground gains wasn't stated in the communique, front dispatches said the British troops were beyond Sidi Abd El Rahman, a coastal railway point 18 miles West of Alamein.

Thus the Nazi threat to the big British naval base at Alexandria has been removed by a long distance of about 100 miles. British tanks henceforth will enjoy greater manoeuvrability in the desert but full advantage will not come in this respect until the Nazis have been pushed as far West as Matruh, 75 miles beyond El Daba. The Qattara Depression in the desert to the South ends on a line drawn South from Matruh.

Italians Ask Truce to Bury Dead in Egyptian Area

LONDON, Nov. 5 (Thursday)—(CP.)—A Reuters news agency dispatch from Cairo said today that Italians in one sector of the Egyptian front had asked for a truce to bury their dead. The dispatch said Italian casualties were extremely heavy in the area involved.

Kootenay-Boundary Only $600 Short of Eight Million in Victory Loan; Nelson, Kimberley Over Top

KOOTENAY-BOUNDARY VICTORY LOAN STANDING
(Including special names)

Totals	$170,650	$7,999,400

Kootenay-Boundary on Wednesday was only $600 away from a Victory Loan total of $8,000,000.

It was an outstanding day in the campaign, with Kimberley and Nelson added to the centres winning honor pennants, joining Fernie and Kaslo in this class, and with other centres pressing closer to their minimum objectives.

The Kootenay-Boundary has already achieved a splendid record in subscriptions and apepars likely to improve its standing in the remaining three days of the campaign. The objective now is oversubscription by as wide a margin as possible.

KIMBERLEY GOES OVER MINIMUM QUOTA

CRANBROOK, B.C., Nov. 4—Kimberley topped its minimum Victory Loan objective today, the second centre in East Kootenay to win an honor pennant. Kimberley's quota, $225,000, was the largest in this district and it is now over by $2,650. It is expected this figure will be materially increased by the end of the week.

Fernie, first East Kootenay centre over the top, boosted its total to $233,800, and is now $33,800 over its minimum with subscriptions still coming in volume.

	Subscribed	Quota
Cranbrook	$142,000	$150,000
Creston	69,050	110,000
Michel	29,950	50,000
Windermere	18,700	25,000

To achieve its $760,000 objective East Kootenay needs $39,450.

East Kootenay figures:

NELSON OVER QUOTA; NEW GOAL SET

Nelson City pounded over its minimum Victory Loan objective Wednesday and raised its sights for a new goal. The biggest single report of any day since the campaign opened, $61,400, pushed the City's total up to $355,150; placed it $25,150 over its minimum; and placed it almost one-third of the way along the road to the new objective.

Attainment of the objective won one honor pennant. To obtain the second Nelson must subscribe a total of $412,500, or 25 per cent more than the previous minimum. With $25,150 already in hand, Nelson needs $57,350. It has Thursday, Friday and Saturday to get it.

DISTRICT QUOTA

Nelson District, similarly with the biggest single day of the campaign to date, and with a $30,000 special name subscription added, saw its aggregate district quota smashed as the total of general sales and special names reached $654,900. This was $39,900 over the $615,000 minimum.

But it was over only because the special name subscriptions are $65,000 over the quota of $165,000. General sales in Nelson District, are $25,100 short of the $450,000 general quota. Only Kaslo and Nelson are over the top so far.

Nakusp needs $14,550 to reach its $35,000 minimum; Slocan needs $17,650 for its $35,000 quota; and Salmo needs $19,200 to reach its $30,000 objective.

Special name subscriptions were swelled Wednesday by Bayonne Consolidated Mines Ltd., which subscribed $30,000. This brought special names to $230,000.

Red Army Holds Ground Before Two Nazi Drives

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 5 (Thursday) (AP)—The Red Army held its ground in Stalingrad and the Central Caucasus Wednesday and scored successes on the Black Sea front and northwest of Stalingrad, a Soviet communique said today.

The Germans continued to hurl masses of tanks into the battle on the Nalchik Plains, at the foot of the 18,000-foot Caucasus mountains, and in the rubble-strewn streets of Stalingrad, but the Russians repulsed all attacks, inflicting heavy losses.

On the other two major fronts—Northwest of Stalingrad and in the Black Sea area—the Red army continued to hold the initiative and captured a number of German positions in both areas.

The Germans were reported to have been forced to withdraw some of their Elite troops from Stalingrad to meet the threat to their left flank Northwest of the city after Red army riflemen, ferried by night across the Volga, entered the battle.

The communique said, however, that the Germans continued to attack all Soviet positions inside the Volga city with both tanks and infantry, indicating there had been no decrease in the intensity of the fighting.

Strengthened by the reinforcements, Russian troops Northwest of Stalingrad captured five dugouts and fortified positions, while Soviet artillery demolished nine blockhouses.

In the central Caucasus area, where the Germans are trying desperately to reach the historic Georgian military highway, main artery across the lofty mountain barrier, the Russians claimed to have repulsed all attacks in the big battle Southeast of Nalchik.

On the Black Sea front, one Russian unit was said to have captured "several enemy strong defence points" Northeast of Tuapse. To the East of Novorossisk, German-occupied Black Sea port, a group of Russian scouts penetrated behind enemy lines and raided the headquarters of a German unit, killing 27 men.

Inside Stalingrad a new flareup of German attacks by perhaps 30,000 infantry was stopped without gain in a six-hour struggle, Russian dispatches said. They declared that ground won back in the factory belt by Russian thrusts was held successfully against counter-attacks.

Edmonton Firemen Battle Three-Alarm Fire

EDMONTON, Nov. 4 (CP)—Traffic was stalled in downtown Edmonton tonight as firemen battled a three-alarm blaze in the three-story Empire block at the intersection of Jasper Avenue and 103rd Street.

The fire was first noticed at 8:45 p.m. when smoke and flame was seen pouring from a top story window. Flames broke through the roof of the building shortly after firemen arrived.

Lion Cracked by Coast Blasts Can Be Repaired; Many Feared Raid

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP) — The 16-ton granite lion flanking one side of the Vancouver Court House entrance can be repaired "as good as new", one of the stonecutters who carved the figure in 1909 said here today as police continued an investigation into two heavy blasts last night which damaged it and shattered numerous windows in the nearby buildings.

Meanwhile experts of three police forces, the Vancouver City, B.C. and R.C.M.P., joined scientific forces in an attempt to bring about the arrest of the persons responsible for the planting of the blasts.

Sgt. P.E.J. Tomey, watching in a building flanking the court house told police that shortly after the blast "I saw a short man dashing from the steps."

A lengthy piece of fuse, another length of wire, and pieces of metal were other clues police had to work on.

Hundreds of persons thought an air raid had begun. It was estimated today that more than 50 panes of glass in nearby buildings were smashed by the blast.

Mrs. M. Kathleen White and Mrs. L. A. Prosser, sitting at a window table in a nearby hotel suite, were showered with broken glass.

"I grabbed my daughter and beat it downstairs to the big hotel basement. I was sure the Japs had come," Mrs. Prosser said.

Force of the blast hurled large pieces of granite carving 40 feet away and smaller pieces several hundred feet.

150 District Sportsmen See Films, Hear Addresses at Trail Banquet

Ofer 150 sportsmen of Trail, Boss-land and Nelson Tuesday night at Trail gathered in the Crown Point palm room for the Trail Rod and Gun Club annual banquet, to hear addresses by leaders in Rod and Gun activities and officials of the Game Branch, and generally to talk about the sport nearest their hearts.

Showing of the sport films of Game Commissioner J. G. Cunningham of Vancouver provided a big part of the entertainment. Commissioner Cunningham told the meeting that Rod and Gun Club Zones, such as organized in the West Kootenay, were a great aid to his department in the protection of game and the conservation of wild life. He spoke in appreciation of the work of sportsmen, who by voluntary effort constructed nursery pools and otherwise assisted in fish propagation. Such projects could not help but improve fishing in quality and quantity. The Commission in recommending the adoption of game laws sent down by the sportsmen through their organizations, he said, felt that they were being assisted in providing legislation desired by the sportsmen themselves.

J. J. McEwen of Nelson, President of the West Kootenay Rod and Gun Club Zone, gave a resume of the association's years activities. Sportsmen must protest he said, such actions, detrimental to wild life, as the proposed reclaiming of the area including Duck Lake near Sirdar.

He also explained how Japanese evacuees of Kaslo were permitted, under supervision, to have and prepare the bodies of spawned red-fish for food.

AMALGAMATION A FOLLY

The folly of any move to embody the duties of the Game Branch into those of the B.C. Police was pointed out by R. R. Burns of Trail. It would be a crime he said, to permit such a move without strong protest. There were some who would dispense with the game wardens, he warned.

The cooperation being received from the B.C. Security Commission in the work of destroying coarse fish was detailed by C. H. Robinson of Nelson, Fisheries Supervisor. The Commission permitted Japanese evacuees to work under the supervision of Game Branch officials in this work. Over six tons of coarse fish had been taken from Whatshan Lake. He also praised the organizations taking part in fish propagation work, and spoke on conservation of game fish.

The hope that the redfish run in Meadow Creek in the Lardeau would be back to normal in 1943 was expressed by J. F. Thompson, Jr., Hatchery Superintendent at Kaslo. Normally it was possible to obtain upwards of 15 million eggs from the run, but this year because of road work being carried on, the fish had gone up the Lardeau River and not Redfish Creek, where the traps were located. He wished to allay any fears that redfish were reduced in number under the spawning program, on the contrary, he said, the numbers were increased.

Mayor Herbert Clark welcomed the visitors, and at the close gave humorous versions of outdoor sports, introducing District personalities into his story.

Idaho Governor Battle Sways

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 4 (AP)—The see-saw battle for Governorship of Idaho again swayed toward Democratic incumbent Chase A. Clark tonight as scattered reports from isolated Idaho precincts came in.

With 800 of 846 precincts reported Clark had 71,619 votes to 71,424 for former Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, a lead of only 195 in the unofficial count.

United States Senator John Thomas (R) had been conceded re-elected by his Democratic opponent, Glen Taylor, and with 788 precincts reported the unofficial count gave him 71,799 to 67,907 for Taylor.

Both of Idaho's incumbent representatives were safely in, former Gov. H. C. Baldridge, Republican, conceding the reelection of Compton I. White, Democrat, and Democratic candidate Ira H. Masters conceding the reelection of Republican Henry Dworshak.

FIVE DAYS REMAIN FOR CHRISTMAS MAILING OVERSEAS

Christmas gift-givers will be busy with wrapping paper and string in the next five days getting the last of the Christmas gifts off to friends and relatives in the active forces overseas. All parcels and letters for Christmas delivery overseas must be in the mail by Nov. 10.

While it was found that parcels in the mail by Nov. 10 were able to be delivered for Christmas last year senders have been urged to mail as early as possible.

C.P.R. Stock Rise Not Due to Dividend Expectation

MONTREAL, Nov. 4 (CP.) — Recent activity of Canadian Pacific Railway Company stock on the exchanges of New York, Montreal and Toronto "was not founded on any information given out which would lead to the expectation that a common dividend will be declared in the near future," D. C. Coleman, C.P.R. President, said today in a statement here.

Mr. Coleman said: "The present speculative strength of the stock is undoubtedly based entirely on the better earning position of the company and the fact that it has been able during the past three years to make a somewhat substantial reduction in its funded debt."

Say Nazis Rushing Men From Russ Front to Rommel

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 4 (AP)—Reports from Greece said tonight that the Germans are rushing three or four divisions of troops from the Russian front to Africa to aid Field Marshal Rommel.

Four trainloads of Nazi troops passed through Athens Monday at great speed en route to embarkation points for transfer to the island of Crete and then across the Mediterranean to Africa, those reports said.

ALLIES SWEEP THROUGH JAP RESISTANCE

New Guinea Drive Aims at Buna; Jap Bases Blasted

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Nov. 5 (Thursday). (CP)—Allied troops "swept aside strong enemy resistance" three miles West of Oivi in the New Guinea jungles, "and are continuing the advance" aimed at Buna, the Japanese coastal base which is being pounded steadily by Allied planes, a communique said today.

Now operating several miles beyond Kokoda, mid-way point across the 130-mile waist of New Guinea, the Allied troops were aided by their aerial artillery which not only blasted Buna Oivi, but ranged far up the coast to hit the subsidiary Japanese bases of Lae and Salamaua. These latter attacks obviously were to hinder any Japanese attempts to send sea-borne reinforcements to Buna.

Allied medium bombers returned again to Dilli, harbor town and the Jap-occupied villages of Manbisse and Alley in Portuguese Timor, causing heavy damage.

Last night under covered of darkness, an Allied heavy unit bombed the airdrome and wharf areas at Lae, a Jap-held base on the Northeast coast of New Guinea 175 miles North of Buna.

In the ground fighting, in which Allied troops have rolled back a Japanese offensive thrust over the Owen Stanley mountains, directed at Port Moresby, Allied headquarters said strong enemy resistance was met and overcome three miles West of Oivi while planes supported the attack by strafing Jap positions.

A strong force of medium bombers attacked Salamaua, another North New Guinea port one bomb touching off an explosion, probably from a munitions dump which hurled debris 700 feet in the air.

Republicans Win in California

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4 (AP) —The Republican victory in California became more pronounced tonight with additional returns giving that Party the office of Secretary of State, new gains in Congress and possible control of the State legislature as well as a triumph in the governorship contest.

Late returns showed eleven Republican representatives had been elected as against 10 for the Democrats. Two Congressional contests remained undecided.

In one of these unsettled races, Representative Carl Hinshaw, Republican, jumped into the lead over J. O. Donovan, Democrat, in the 20th District. In the other, Rep. V. Izac, D., had a lead of less than 1000 over James B. Abbey, Rep.

Lieut. Gov. Ellis Patterson, Dem., and Frederick F. Houser, Rep., were waging a see-saw battle, with first one leading then the other. With 13,009 out of the 14,494 precincts reporting, Houser had 877,321 and Patterson 875,008.

Earl Warren, Rep., who unseated Governor Culbert L. Olson, Dem., continued to pile up a big majority. In 13,000 precincts the vote was: Warren, 1,037,749, Olson 771,466.

Teacher Testifies Jap Black Dragon Society Affiliate Works in B.C.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 4 (CP.) — A Vancouver High School teacher who requested that her name be kept secret today testified at a public hearing into charges by the Vancouver News-Herald that an affiliate of the Japanese Black Dragon Society was active in British Columbia.

The teacher, referred to as "Miss A." by Judge J. C. A. Cameron of Belleville, Ont., who is conducting the inquiry, said two Japanese youths and a Japanese girl had told her of their worries about the "Morii gang."

She said that when evacuation of Japanese families began the "Christian, Canadian born" Japanese approached her separately as "someone they knew and thought they could trust."

Judge Cameron asked her if they had given any "concrete evidence" of their fear of Eizuji Morii, head of a Japanese liaison committee that worked with the British Columbia Security Commission in evacuating Japanese.

"I couldn't be certain whether they had personal knowledge," replied Miss A. "They all were sincerely convinced."

She said the first to approach her was a former student who was "very much worried, not about what any white person would do, but because a group of Japanese men not friendly to Britain or Canada had won the confidence of those in authority."

This group had been powerful for a long time and was felt to be "very dangerous," she said, adding that another youth came to her three weeks later.

She said the second youth told her of his fears, and "even spelled Morii's name" in identifying him with these fears.

"He mentioned that he firmly believed money had been given by Japanese families to Morii and his henchmen so their families would not be broken up or evacuated soon," Miss A. testified.

She said a Japanese girl who "had no idea" of information supplied by the two youths, approached her and "blurted out the same story, amazingly alike in detail."

When asked by Senator J. W. de B. Farris, counsel for the News Herald, if the similarity of detail between the stories suggested a "frame-up," she replied "knowing the people, it wouldn't. They were outstandingly intelligent and honest."

Says Boots Never Received by B.C. Police

VICTORIA, Nov. 4 (CP)—Constable George D. Meade, British Columbia Police clerk at Vancouver testified in Assize Court today that three shipments of boots totalling 190 pairs and purported to have been shipped direct to Vancouver from Victoria had never been received.

The shipments were supposed to have been made from James Maynard, Ltd., between March 15, 1940, and March 17, 1941.

Constable Meade was testifying at the trial of John Graham Simpson, Managing Director of Maynard's, and Leonard J. Simmons, former Provincial Police Quartermaster, charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Simmons and Joseph A. Walsh, Victoria shoe merchant, were convicted yesterday of a similar charge and remanded to the end of the Assizes for sentence.

Meade admitted quantities of boots had been received from the Quartermaster's stores and that Simmons had not been furnished with a record giving names of constables to whom the boots had been issued. He also admitted special constables gave no receipts and signed no requisitions for boots, although certain records had been kept in his office.

Corvette Rammed Naxi U-Boat

LONDON (CP)—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, told this story of a battle with a U-Boat in the North Atlantic—

"For nearly three hours one of our corvettes hunted a U-boat which was first sighted on the surface. There were violent rain squalls and complete darkness.

"Accurate gunnery forced the U-boat to dive. Depth charges brought her to the surface. Four times the corvette, firing everything she could muster, rammed the U-boat. Clouds of sparks made a fantastic firework display each time she hit her.

"After the fourth attack the bows of the U-boat reared up above the corvette's deck and crashed down on her forecastle. Then the U-boat sank.

"The fight lasted 19 minutes during which every gun on board was blazing away and men even ran for rifles and revolvers and fired at the conning tower."

Time to Get to Brass Tacks Declares Nurse

VICTORIA, Nov. 4 (CP)—"Brass Tacks" said Miss K. W. Ellis, R.N., emergency nursing adviser, Canadian Nurses Association, would have been the name chosen for her address before the 26th annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals Association here today, if the title "The Nursing Problem in Civilian Hospitals with the Country at War," had not already been given to her comprehensive report. Miss Ellis felt it was time to get down to "brass tacks," and the outcome of her address was a resolution to the effect that the incoming executive committee of the B.C. Hospitals Association be appointed to consider the matter of supply of nurses, nurses in training, and all nurses.

Miss Ellis pointed out that modern trends associated with Hospital Nursing Services include:

1.—An increasing demand for hospital nursing service.

2.—Changes relating to the quantity and quality of nursing service and an increase in the demand for these.

3.—Closer integration between nursing and other health services.

4.—Increased emphasis on education for both the student and graduate nurse.

5.—Closer association with social security for the worker.

6.—A greater centralization of Government control.

Vichy Gives Up 35 Merchant Ships

LONDON, Nov. 4 (CP)—The Ministry of Economic Warfare said today the Vichy Government is handing over 35 former Allied merchantmen in French Mediterranean ports to the Axis.

There have been previous reports that such transfers were shaping up, but the Ministry's statement was the first such word from any of the United Nations' Governments.

The announcement said the ships being handed over totalled 120,000 tons. Thirteen of the vessels are going to Germany and 22 to Italy.

A BBC broadcast Oct. 28 said German authorities in Paris had told Pierre Laval, French Chief of Government, that he must surrender all merchant ships, French or foreign, which were in France's ports.

Foreign ships in French harbors were reported to include Norwegian, Danish and Greek vessels.

The Ministry said so far as was known only three ships actually had reached the Axis. There were taken to Genoa. Three of the 35 ships involved previously had been under charter to Britain.

Expect Luce Will Attack New Job With the Old Vim

By RUTH COWAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP) — Blond, glamorous Clare Boothe Luce playwright, author and wartime globe-trotter, can now write after her name, Republican Representative from Connecticut.

Mrs. Luce, wife of the Editor of Life Magazine, won her first political campaign, and at the opening session of the 78th Congress in January she will take her place in the House with Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Democrat, whom New Jersey voters returned for her 10th term, and four Republican women who were reelected.

They were—

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, unopposed in her Massachusetts district, Jessie Sumner of Illinois, Mrs. F. Bolton of Ohio, and Margaret Smith of Maine. The latter was elected in September.

In Michigan Mrs. Dorothy Kemp Roosevelt (D) divorced wife of the late G. Hall Roosevelt, brother of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, was defeated.

The House can expect some lively sessions next year, for Mrs. Luce has pitched into politics with the same vim with which she wrote successful plays—"The Women", "Kiss the Boys Goodbye"—and books, and dashed about Europe and Asia writing for magazines.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—Withdrawal of rubber from the jurisdiction of the Munitions Department Supplies Control and establishment of a new rubber control branch under Alan H. Williamson, formerly supplies controller, was announced today by the munitions department.

At the same time the department announced that Mr. Williamson will also take over the duties of timber controller, succeeding A. S. Nicholson who remains with the timber office as associate controller.

Henry Borden, co-ordinator of controls and chairman of the industries control board will assume the duties of acting supplies controller in addition to his other offices.

J. A. Martin, previously a deputy controller of supplies, becomes deputy controller under Mr Williamson, and J. A. Lamprey and G. P. Kaye continue as deputy supply controllers.

In the statement announcing the changes Munitions Minister Howe said Mr. Nicholson had asked to be allowed to relinquish his post as timber controller, and that he had been allowed to do so on the understanding he remain with the department as associate timber controller.

"In this capacity he will concentrate his ability and wide knowledge of the industry on the major problem of increased production of lumber and the more economical use of lumber and timber for both military and civilian purposes," Mr. Howe said.

"Mr. Williamson will assume the duties of timber controller in addition to his duties as vice-chairman of the industries control board, and his new duties as rubber controller.

"The supplies control will continue to function as the control in charge of silk, nylon, hemp, kapok, sisal, cork, and along list of metal articles including refrigerators, beds, vacuum cleaners, stoves, and other items declared to be 'supplies'."

If you are thin and tense, your doctor may suggest that you check up on your coffee drinking. Even a cup a day may be one too many. You don't need a stimulant. You are already in high gear.

Taper off so you won't feel the let down. When you have been in the habit of drinking several cups of coffee a day, cut down to one and a half, then to one cup. And begin diluting that with warm milk. By the end of two weeks you can be on straight milk.

Just try it, you will be astonished at the difference in your feeling of well being. Instead of hair trigger nerves, you will almost be a restful person.

Most of us like a hot beverage for breakfast. You can have cocoa or one of the excellent coffee substitutes. Whatever you have, boost the calories and buffer your nerves by using one-half milk.

If your nerves bring on skin troubles, you should not only cut down on coffee, and perhaps tea, but should be careful not to drink any beverage piping hot.

We are all under so much pressure nowadays that we tend to speed up in everything we do. You thin girls are inclined to eat too fast and nothing could be worse for you. Take your time.

You should be ready to eat at mealtime. There are several ways of doing this. You can add wheat germ to a hot breakfast cereal. You can buy wheat germ at any good grocery store. A routine way of eating Vitamin B-1 is to eat more bread and butter—either use the enriched bread or the 100 per cent whole wheat kind. Butter your bread generously for more calories.

SERIAL STORY.....By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER TWENTY

From where she stood, Barbara singled out the costumes, the clowns and mandarins, the Mickey Mouse and polar bear, the ineitable pierrettes and their harlequins. And then, as startling as an exclamation point, the girl like a tall doll dressed all in white from tips of her skating boots to the top of her white fur shako, the girl in short white skirt with a band of fox. That would be Pamela. And step by step with her was the tall figure in a Cossack costume: Tony.

"Pamela was right, You're a perfect Cossack," she'd said to him when she first saw him in costume, but he'd scarcely been listening for looking saying, "I'd like to paint you in that costume, Barbara."

That had been nice of him.

She had no illusions about her simple costume. She'd made it herself and it consisted of no more than a full gathered skirt with a warm basque blouse that buttoned tightly to where her little bonnet was tied with blue ribbons. The bonnet she'd faced with pansies from an old hat and thought it much to young and coy. The whole thing had been concocted out of purple velveteen curtains she'd found in the attic.

She hadn't wanted to wear a costume, protesting to Pamela that she was only part of the hired help, a protest that was founded on Clair's cool behavior. But Pamela had insisted, pointing out that she would be less conspicuous than if she wore ordinary dress. "Even the skating waiters are to be in costume," Pamela had added, and further added, "Besides, you won't be working all evening. I want you to join us and have a good time. Mother's having slews of extra men and we'll snag a beau for you. So get your work done early.

Now the work was done. Before noon, when the train had brought the house guests, everything was in order. The paint was dry on the big shell where the orchestra sat, the hot drink bar had been set up in the portable log cabin; the fires had been ready to light, the costumes of the help fitted, the lights strung and tested and the entertainers — the comedy team and the professional skaters—given dressing rooms. The musicians and the caterers, having once been engaged, were no longer her responsibility.

There was nothing more for her to do in the big house. A regiment of caterer's assistants were preparing the buffet supper and the Cuban orchestra was playing in the drawing room, where Claire Kilcran, in a gown more resplendent than Barbara had ever seen, held court, and where those who did not wish to enter into the outdoor activities were dancing to rumba music.

Strolling alone on the hillside, Barbara heard laughter that rose above the music and it made her feel as lonely as if she had been a star in the cold heavens, looking down upon the scene.

"Only, if I were," she thought, "I should have the company of other stars."

There was nothing to keep her from going down to join that laughter on the pond. Pamela had urged her to, saying, "You will have almost the whole evening free. Bring your skates and join us as soon as you can." She'd said that only a few hours earlier when she was leaving the house with Tony at her side.

She saw Tony now, picking out his tall figure easily. He stood alone, close to one of the burning brush fires. But even as she watched, he was no longer alone. Pamela, looking like a big doll, came out of the shadows and the two figures drew together and glided off into the maze of skaters.

"He wouldn't know it if I were there," she said half aloud.

If she were to go down there, would he come to her and put his strong young arm around her as it now was around the slender waist of Pamela? The unbidden question was disturbing; it opened gates of memory, and the tide of other thoughts pushed through them. A swift surge of longing, a longing for things she didn't put into words, swept over her. Widow and mother she was, but telling herself this was not enough to quell the desires that made her conscious of her hunger, for life, for love, for gaiety. She was young, she was a woman and she was alone, completely, forlornly alone.

Too Much Money Proving Bad for Adolescents

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Does it work out well for the average sixteen-year-old to have a highly-paid job?

This question, which cannot be answered in the affirmative, is the heart of a new war-time problem, with which many serious persons and groups are now concerning themselves.

It has come about very naturally. With fathers in the service and mothers over-busy, some of them with war-work, and with older brothers in Army camps, there are available large numbers of jobs connected with war production but not demanding skill or experience. These have been filled by youngsters who have been made dizzy with delight at the high pay they receive. Most of them have been boys but in many cases girls, too, have been among the lucky ones.

Lucky, that is, from their own point of view, for, as might have been expected, children of from 13 to 16 rarely have the necessary steadiness to handle large sums of money. The rise in delinquency cases has been startling. Boys and girls with too much freedom, too much money, too little education and not enough home supervision cannot be expected, it seems, to lead reasonable lives. They topple over into misdemeanor and misfortune.

Common sense is coming to the rescue. One of the points agreed on is that children musn't be released from school too early. Study of methods followed here during the first World War, and in England during the present war, is sure to help. Our prime consideration is that we must not allow human material to be ruined before it becomes mature—not even to further war production.

LONDON (CP)—Fleet feathered members of the British Army—carrier pigeons of the Royal Corps of Signals—brought the first operational messages to a military headquarters in England while the Canadian-British raid on Dieppe, on the French channel coast, was in progress.

Importance . . .

Nagging Gives Ego a Lift

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Why are parents so generous at finding fault with each other and their children, but so miserly at complimenting them deservedly? It is probably because we are human beings with a good deal of the savage still in us.

About the easiest way we gain feelings of importance is making others feel and seem to be less important than we are, by lording it over them. This is exactly what the husband does (unawares, of course) when he constantly finds fault with his wife or children.

FIND IT ANNOYING

Now the wife, husband or child is annoyed by our continual fault-finding and we in turn are vexed that they should be so easily annoyed. We assume that anyone should welcome our criticism at any time and immediately strive to profit from it. On the contrary the person excessively criticised does not feel ready to profit from the criticism but, instead, tends to do more often and intensely the very things criticized.

What we need to strive to do is to turn our way about and cultivate the habit of expressing honest compliments and approvals more often. We need to practice at celebrating successes in the other parents and children.

SOLVING PARENT PROBLEMS

Q. Should a child over six be expected to help in the garden and about the place while visiting at the home of farm relatives or friends for several days or more?

A. Yes; it will do him moral harm not to do so.

Canadians Needn't Fear Winter in New War Clothing

OTTAWA (CP) — The Winter winds blow and soon it will snow, and what will poor Canucks do then poor things—what with orders cutting cuffs from their pants, restricting the length of their nightowns and forbidding the use of cloth over cloth designs.

Well, in effect the Prices Board, source of all the orders, contends that Canadians will be as warmly clad as ever this Winter in spite of all the economies which have been effected.

All Fall and Winter clothing manufactured since early last Summer has been made in accordance with Board regulations designed to save labor and materials. Observing the ingenuity of designers in meeting the economy requirements, officials said that clothes generally are just as smart as they ever were, and just as effective in keeping out the cold.

Gone with the Summer breeze are women's voluminous sleeves, jackets, with capes, hems wider than two inches and pajama legs with a stretch of more than 24 inches.

It has been made unlawful to sell, after stocks on hand or on order are used, a three piece woman's suit, coat with dolman sleeves, jackets or coats with separate or attached hood, cape, scarf, shawl or vest, or garments with wool lining.

Fur coats are not under the price ceiling and Prices Board officials said women buyers should expect higher prices than last year because of a new federal tax. Restrictions on use of materials affect fur coats mainly in respect to linings. Wool cloth linings and interlinings, and cloth on the inside of cuffs and pockets, now are forbidden. Pockets can no longer be closed with a zipper.

The cost of manufacturing those stalwarts of the Canadian winter—ribbed cotton and fleecer lined underwear—has increased since the prices were set during the basic period from Sept. 15 to Oct. 11 last year, but board officials said the increase must be divided between the manufacturer and the wholesaler. The cost to the consumer will be unchanged.

COLOR RESTRICTIONS

Persons buying new cardigans or other woollen garments will find the choice of colors restricted, since the administrator of knit goods had reduced the number of colors which any manufacturer may use in knitted outerwear to eight, including air force blue and kahki.

For those who are determined to knit their own woolens, the Board gave this advice: Don't start a new garment if you still have one or more half-finished jobs on hand; don't buy new wool until you have used up any stocks you may have already. Even quite small quantities can be used to make children's garments and afghan squares for Britain.

A loud note in the lamentations against clothing restrictions has concerned the elimination of the two-pant mens' suit, the protesters saying that since the life of one coat equals that of two pairs of pants this outfit represented economy instead of waste.

The amount of material saved by making only one pair of pants with a suit has been estimated at 1,125,000 yards. "Were there only 105 yards of cloth at the disposal of civilians, the choice would have to be either one-pant suits for 30 men or two pant suits for 21 men," one official said. "It is obvious that the long-term economy represented by the two-pant suit cannot be considered to be in the national interest when it means nine men out of every 30 can't get suits at all."

We Are Loading the Gun

Two sailors in the rigging of a ship lashed by the gale may use each a spare hand, so that together they tie a required knot, even make a splice. It is a striking illustration of effective cooperation. Each has one hand available for the task in hand, the other being used to hold to the rigging, but one man's right and the other man's left make a pair, and the work, that may be vital to the riding out of the storm, is done efficiently.

When a 15-inch gun is being loaded, many men play varying parts in the sequence of acts. The barrel is swabbed out, by concerted motion. The shell is swung by crane and cradle, and inserted in the breech. Four men take a single hand-hold of a handle, and push smartly in unison, and the shell is pressed snugly into place. Another man carries on his shoulder the charge, which resembles a white sack partly filled with flour, and it is inserted in the breech and pressed home. And so on, by various steps, by different members of the gun crew, the gun is cleaned, loaded, aimed, and fired. It is another example of cooperation.

On a battleship or battle cruiser, many more steps would be involved, and the shell would be brought by elevator from a magazine in the bowels of the ship.

Even in such a simple thing as a drowning man being pulled ashore by a line, cooperation is essential. If the man on shore holding the line lets it go slack, no matter how firmly the man who is in peril grips it the contact is only nominal, not real. Under such circumstances, the man in need of aid could drown—when a tightening of the rope could save him.

At the present time, we civilians in Canada are holding the lifeline. The cooperation of each and every one of us is essential.

We are the man holding the rope, we are the man carrying the charge for the 15-inch gun, we are loading the gun, the firing of which, early and often, is part of the recipe for the preservation of Canadian liberty—part of the recipe for victory.

The duty is on us now, on each and every one of us—in these three weeks now running out—to see that the gun is loaded, and that it has in reserve an ample supply of shells and of explosive, to make it a victory factor.

DOWN THEIR ALLEY

Meeting the other day near Brampton, Ont., members of the C.C.F. constituency organization for Peel riding deplored what they called the "growing Fascist tendencies of the Mackenzie King Government."

It wasn't Fascism that the C.C.F. followers were condeming. It was statism—state control made necessary by the effort to bring everyone into the greatest war effort Canada ever made. It is statism when a government rations goods, sets prices and wages, conscripts men for the war services and for the war factories.

And isn't statism the very thing for which the C.C.F. are working? They have declared in favor of state ownership of the means of production so that there may be "production for use and not for profit." They have told us that, if they get into power, they are going to take over the public utilities, the banks, the packing plants and other food processing industries, and they are going to develop our resources not for the individual but for the state. The individual is going to be very small potatoes when the C.C.F. gets through with him.

Now we all expect a certain amount of statism during war. War is destruction, and the object is to bring the whole of the people under rigid control in order that we may administer the greatest possible destruction to the enemy. But war is the very antithesis of freedom, the freedom for which we are fighting. We do not need statism during peace time. The Anglo-Saxon abhors that kind of regimentation except in time of a crisis such as war.

We predict that after the war the C.C.F. will be lauding the very statism they are now condemning as Fascism. They will be telling us that we were willing to regiment ourselves for the destruction of war, therefore we should be glad to to knuckle down to a statism of peace so that we might enjoy that utopian economy envisaged in the C.C.F. platform. The statism the C.C.F. called Fascism at Brampton is right down the C.C.F. alley.—Lethbridge Herald.

REMEMBER LITTLE PETYA

When you are asked to buy a Victory Bond you might remember Petya Kaputovski. He is a Russian boy of 12 and already a soldier, with a gun of his own. He has been under front-line fire, carried messages on horseback through artillery bombardments, seen many men die.

As a special writer tells the story, Petya hid under the stairs when the Germans came to his village. And "the Germans took my mother and my two young brothers and my two sisters. They tied their hands with rope. Then they led them away and put them into the biggest house in our village. And then when the Germans had filled the big house with people, they set it on fire—they burned it down. Many of the women and children were crying when they took them in. Then we heard them screaming and screaming when the fire began to blaze up high."

So Petya is alone now, the adopted boy soldier of a Russian regiment. His father died fighting. His mother and brothers and sisters were buried alive by the Germans. All the Victory Loan asks of you here in British Columbia is to loan your money to the Government. That is the only way to save this country from the things that little Petya has seen with his own eyes. Remember Petya, and think about that burning house with the women and children in it, when Victory Loan salesmen call—Vancouver Sun.

NEW HEART TREATMENT

Almost everyone has been struck by the number who, of recent years, have been dying suddenly in middle life from heart ailments. Whatever be the general cause of this condition, treatments to prevent the toll take on special interest, and thus there is likely to be exhaustive study of the newly announced substance, convallaria, which is extracted from the common lily of the valley.

Digitalis has become widely known as a substance which prolongs the life of those suffering from certain dangerous heart conditions. The new drug is said to possess certain advantages over that extracted from the purple foxglove, and thus it apparently marks a further step forward in the search for something that will effectively combat this great killer of men in their prime.—Windsor Star.

Buried Robots Protect Pipes From Rust

Metal robots, which sit on poles five feet above the ground, and protect oil and gas pipelines against rust, are joining the American effort to ease fuel rationing. There may be only one robot per mile, and it may be a mile from the nearest pipe line, but in that area no pipe rust forms.

EFFICIENCY PROVEN

The United States has 420,000 miles of pipelines, with more now building to rush gasoline and fuel oil to the East. National rationing prospects appear to depend in part on the efficiency of the lines. In the past rust has ben a terrific handicap in some places.

The rust boxes, the result of 10 years' experiments, have shown their efficiency in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Northern Florida for the United Gas Pipe Line Company and in Montana for the Montana Power Company. Millions of dollars worth of them are going up on poles in other parts of the nation to protect underground iron and steel.

They were developed by engineers of Ebasco Services Incorporated, a research organization of Electric Bond & Share Company. The Ebasco engineers' report was made public today.

A new idea of the cause of rust is the basis of the robot. Experts hitherto have considered rust simply by the textbook definition of oxygen reacting with metal. But the Ebasco engineers say rust is caused by electrolysis, that is, a flow of electricity, which carries particles of metal (tons of metal) with it. In proof, they point to pipe lines which used to rust; but where there has been no particle of rust since the robots went to work.

STOP ELECTROLYSIS

The robots merelys top electrolysis, nothing more. In underground metal, there is always likely to be electrolysis, due to earth currents. Always these currents flow outword from the metal into the earth.

One ampere of this current will carry away metal at the rate of 20 pounds a year. In piplines the amperages vary widely, but the rate of loss of metal never changes.

The robots stop all this merely by reversing the direction of flow of earth currents—so that they go into the pipe instead of out. Each robot is a metal box about the size of a small suitcase. Its interior is a rectifier—an aparatus which changes alternating into direct current.

The power lines feed the robots the standard alternating current, they changes it into direct, which is the kind of electricity that flows in the earth.

OFFER BIG SAVING

The robot feeds a little of this direct current into a mass of iron buried in earth near the robot's foot. A fine wire runs from the robot directly to the pipeline. The result is that currents of electricity run through the earch from the mass of iron to the pipeline, and then back to the robot.

The buried iron mass then does the rusting, as the current toward the pipline carries away the metal tons. This loss is so rapid that the Ebasco engineers are experimenting with chemicals to substitute for the buried iron.

If the robot is close to the pipeline, the buried iron is a 20-foot length of railroad rail, set ertically, all underground. If the robot is a mile away, the mass of iron is much larger.

The engineers say the robots offer a big saving in expenses. Recondition from rust runs from $5000 to $10,000 a mile, while the robots cost $1500 to $2000 for the same distance for pipes 6 to 16 inches in diameter.

Today's Horoscope

Independence, self-confidence, mental keenness and the promise of success in life are the gifts of those who celebrate birthdays today. They are easy to get along with, are kind and considerate, and should have congenial married lives. They will enjoy unexpected gains of an unusual character during the next year. Secret matters are well signified, but they should guard their speech and writings and avoid disputations. A child who is born on this date will hold advanced ideas, and in consequence be in danger of scandal and slander, especially through correspondence and travel. Some good fortune is indicated, however.

British System of Profit Pooling Studied in Making Plans To Curtail Non-Essential Industry

MONTREAL, Nov. 4 (CP)—Studies on concentration of industry have inclined the Prices Board toward the British system of profit pooling, whereby the continuing plants in an industry are able to assist the curtailed plants, R. F. Chisholm, Director of the Board's Industrial Division, said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Advertising and Sales Executives Club Mr. Chisholm said there is no "secret list" of non-essential industries to be closed under the curtailment plan. Every civilian industry was on the list, for virtually every one contained some element of non-essentiality.

"The non-essential element in one industry will receive exactly the same treatment as the non-essential element in another," he said.

Curtailment was being handled through the existing organization of Administrators, each of whom consulted with his Advisory Committee and other representatives of industry.

A few moves had been made toward overall curtailment, pooling of production and distribution. While more drastic plans were under discussion they would not be implemented until they had been discussed with the industry concerned, and until a clear procedure had been involved for the handling of whatever men might be required for other purposes.

"Let us be clear that the job is not only to curtail non-essential production but also to maintain essential production," said Mr. Chisholm. "In this respect the Administrators of the Board may be regarded as attorneys for the consumer."

The question of advertising and selling had to be dealt with in each individual industry.

"In my opinion it is sheer nonsense to say that all advertising and all selling can be eliminated," he said.

"I do not know of any country, either democratic or totalitarian, which has banned newspapers or advertising."

Mr. Chisholm said "a lesson in elementary arithmetic now has appeared on the national blackboard." It was this: "Canadian production facilities multiplied by manpower do not equal the requirements of the armed forces plus normal civilian needs."

The former is supplementary to the June, July and August requisitions which fell short of meeting the number of men required. The latter is supplementary to the September requisition which was also short.

Equal Educational Opportunity For B.C. Children, Salary Justice For Teachers Federation's Goal

Policy of the B.C. Teachers' Federation was directed toward equalizing educational opportunities for every child in British Columbia, and to securing justice in salaries for teachers, particularly those at outlying points, A. T. Alsbury of Vancouver, President of the Federation, told the Nelson Teachers Association at a dinner meeting at the Canadian Legion Tuesday night.

As a means of obtaining these objectives the Federation urged redistribution of taxation to take the burden off land. He stated Canada was the only part of the British Empire which left education in the hands of local authorities. In Britain the central government paid 50 to 80 per cent of the cost, and in New Zealand and Australia 100 per cent.

The Federation was not content to await the conclusion of the war to seek improvements, but was in full accord with authorities who said they must be undertaken now Mr. Alsbury asserted.

EDUCATION A WAR INDUSTRY

"The teacher is the most important single factor in education," he declared. "Education is now an essential industry. Modern war demands advanced training in mathematics and science. An effective war effort, and the very lives of the boys in school who will soon be in uniform, may depend upon the training being given them.

"Victory demands the best. Teachers can make their most effective contribution by remaining at their posts and doing the work for which they are best qualified by training and experience," he asserted. "To this end all teachers must receive a decent living wage in order that education may make its proper contribution to the winning of the war and later to building the peace."

Mr. Alsbury described teachers in rural areas as "the forgotten men and women of today". Salary injustices dating back to depression years had not been remedied despite increasing governmental revenue and the rising cost of living.

STRIKE TALK INDICATES GROWING CRISIS

"Ordinarily teachers are moderate in deed and thought. Apparently for that reason they are ignored. It is only when teachers suggest militant action that they get the headlines on the front page—as in the case of the North Vancouver teachers who took a strike vote," he said.

Talk of a strike among teachers was an indication of the growing crisis in education owing to war conditions and inadequate salaries, Mr. Alsbury stated. Teachers could not continue to work for as little as $17 a week while boys of high school age and unskilled workers received much higher wages in war industry and while the cost of living was rising steadily.

The dinner was prepared by teachers and students of the economic classes of the High and Junior High Schools.

Second Police Trial Opens

VICTORIA, Nov. 4 (CP)—Second of the Government trials in connection with quartermaster's stores of the British Columbia Police opened in Assize Court today with John Graham Simpson, Managing Director of James Maynard, Ltd., shoe merchants, and Leonard J. Simmons, former Police Quartermaster, charged with conspiracy to defraud.

First two witnesses were shoe company officials from Eastern Canada. John A. Reid, President and General Manager of the Hartt Boot and Shoe Co., Ltd., testified that his firm between Nov. 4, 1940 and Feb. 1, 1941, shipped 350 pairs of high boots direct to the police stores here. These orders were received from the Maynard firm.

Joseph R. Leonard, Credit Manager for the Slader Shoe Co. Ltd., Montreal, was second witness. He swore that his firm shipped 800 pairs of high boots direct to quartermaster stores on orders of Simpson, between Feb. 4, 1939 and Nov. 16, 1940.

This trial is not expected to last as long as the first case, in which Simmons and Joseph A. Walsh Managing Director of William Cathcart & Co. Ltd., shoe merchants, were found guilty last night after 11 days of evidence and charges.

The Government has 29 witnesses to call, while the Defence expects to call five or six.

nservatives Seek Platform That ll Endure When Peace Comes

By R. K. CARNEGIE
anadian Press Staff Writer

TTAWA, (CP) — The National mittee of the Conservative party which is organizing the Winnipeg party convention December 9-11 is making elaborate plans to coordinate the handling of scores of resolutions expected to pour in from all parts of the country as material with which to erect a party platform.

Observers here said they see a tough job ahead in building, at a wartime convention, a platform which will stand up under the altered conditions after the war when the party will be seeking the confidence of the electors in a general election.

Resolutions that may look good at one time can look bad a few years later because of changed conditions. At the Conservative convention held in Winnipeg in October, 1927—there were boom days then all over the continent—a resolution was passed calling for "an aggressive system of immigration based upon the selective principle."

But after 1930, when the Conservative party came into power and was in a position to put this resolution into effect, Canada like the rest of the world was suffering a depression. No government would have dared embark on an aggressive program to bring more people into Canada when there were not enough jobs for the people already here and the farmers were producing more than could be sold. Immigration stopped almost entirely, except for Canadians coming home.

SEE HEADACHES

The immigration plank in the platform now to be drawn up for after the war is expected to cause plenty of headaches at Winnipeg. The Port Hope, Ont., round table of laymen Conservatives last September handled the problem as follows:—

"We believe that:—

"(1) A prerequisite to any immigration policy is the assurance of full employment and social security for our existing Canadian population regardless of racial origin;

"(2) Our resources, however, are capable of progressive development and of providing a high standard of living for a greater population and there is a further obligation to provide opportunity for citizenship on equal terms to numbers of kindred-minded people from other lands;

"(3) With a view to the perpetuation in Canada of a democracy in the British tradition, preference in immigration should be given to those individuals whose political background, intelligence and love of freedom are likely to fit them for such democracy; and

"(4) The control of immigration should be directly under the government without any subsidiary arrangement with private interests."

If the Winnipeg convention agrees with the views of the round table proposal, it still will have to decide whether the wording is sufficiently simple and direct to encourage support from the average voter.

ON WAR EFFORT

The most important question will be the party's attitude to the war effort but Conservatives here expect no great difficulty on this resolution, since, they say, there is unanimity in ETAOIN SHRDLU RDLUPU as enunciated by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, present national leader of the party. This includes conscription for overseas service. The Port Hope conference made the war and war problems its foremost concern.

The labor program of the round-table meeting suggested penalties for employers who attempted to thwart collective bargaining. The conference also set down proposals for helping the fishing industry and post-war employment and rehabilitation, and programs dealing with individual iniative and government responsibility, housing, air transportation, conservation and development of natural resources, education and social security, and Canadian unity.

At the Winnipeg convention there will be resolutions relating to the tariff, to agriculture, to labor, and to all the various divisions of rehabilitation after the war. The national committee arranging the convention is encouraging the people to send in resolutions. It has urged that study clubs be formed in each constituency, in which any person who wishes may participate.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 3 (Delayed) (AP)—A large Japanese transport which had been driven away from New Guinea was spotted and knocked out with three bombs off New Britain, Flying Fortress crews reported today on their return from the successful hunting trip.

The big planes on reconnaissance spotted the 10,000-ton ship along about 30 miles Southwest of Gasmata, New Britain.

The Americans attacked at once, smashing and firing the ship with three direct hits.

"There were small boats around it and whether they were taking off troops or cargo we couldn't tell," said Lieut. J. T. Murphy, one of the Fortress pilots.

COURTENAY, Nov. 4 (CP)—Ragnar Dahl, owner of the Tgiler Rita, is missing and believed drowned and his partner, Arvid Estergard, is in hospital here being treated for exposure and injuries sufffered when their boat was wrecked off Formby Island, Nov. 2.

Provincial Police were advised today that the Rita sprang a leak off the South Point of the Island. Incoming water disabled the engine and left the little vessel at the mercy of high seas which swept her on the rocks.

The boat is a total wreck, only its engine being seen in about 15 feet of water. Search for the missing man is continuing. He leaves a brother, Fred Dahl, here.

LONDON (CP)—And the judge scratched his head!

A police officer, asked at the Old Bailey what he had to drink while on duty in a public house, replied: "Half a pint of beer but I didn't drink it."

"Who stood it?" was the next question. "Myself," was the answer.

"Why didn't you drink it?"

"I'm a tee-totaller!"

Cost of Living Index Down 1-10 Point; Bonus Is Unchanged

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—The cost-of-living index at Oct. 1 was 117.8, a decrease of only 1-10th of a point from the July 1 index, and as a result the cost-of-living bonuses paid to employees in Canada will remain at their present level for the next three months, it was announced today.

The Oct. 1 cost-of-living index was 4-10th of a point above the index for Sept. 1.

"The October increase was due mainly to higher food prices although moderate seasonal increase also occurred for coal," the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said in its monthly cost-of-living index report.

The food index advanced from 128.5 in September to 129.8 for Oct. 1. Eggs and oranges moved sharply higher and increases of lesser importance were recorded for butter, lard, several canned vegetables and lemons.

"Most meats averaged slightly lower on Oct. 1 as did cheese and potatoes. The fuel and light index mounted from 112.5 to 112.8 because of the coal increases. The October rental survey showed small advances ina few localities but they were insufficient to change the Dominion rent index which remained at 113.3.

"Other groups also remained unchanged for October (Oct. 1), clothing at 120.1, home furnishings and services at 117.6 and miscellaneous items at 107.1."

Cost-of-living bonus payments, compulsory in most industries under the Government's wartime anti-inflation policy, are adjusted every three months to conform to changes in the index.

The last change was effective Aug. 15. At July 1 the bonus was 2.4 per cent higher than at Oct. 1, 1941, the basic date for cost-of-living bonus calculations. The bonus changes 25 cents a week for the average Canadian worker for each one-per-cent change in the index. Accordingly, effective Aug. 15, bonuses went up 60 cents or 2.4 per cent of earnings, depending on the employee's salary category, to conform to the July 1 index figure.

For purposes of calculating bonus payments, the figure provided by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics—based on the increase over the index of 100.0 at the start of the war—is reduced to a percentage basis. No change in the bonus is made unless the increase or decrease in the adjusted index is more than one point over a three-month period.

The Bureau's 117.8 figure for Oct. 1, as adjusted, shows a 16.9 per cent increase in the cost of living. The adjusted index at the beginning of July was 117.

Are You a Sufferer From Rheumatic Pains?

These pains come from an inflammation in the muscles and are generally caused by a deposit of poison in the blood called uric acid which produces the irritating and painful effect that causes many days and nights heavy with pain.

During the past 60 years Canadian people have found that by purifying the blood stream, Burdock Blood Bitters aids them to enjoy freer body movement with less rheumatic pain, as B. B. B. helps to tone up the system and clear up the uric acid in the blood, and probably help fortify the system against future attacks.

Joe Gordon Wins Most Valuable Player Award in Close Vote

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Joe Gordon, the flashy second baseman of New York Yankees, today was named the most valuable player in the American League as Ted Williams, slugging star of Boston Red Sox, was edged out of the honor for the second straight year.

A committee of 24 members of the Baseball Writers Association whose balloting was done before the World Series but not announced until now, showed an irreconcilable difference of opinion over the merits of the season's outstanding performers in the junior circuit. The result was Gordon finished ahead of Williams 270 points to 249, one of the closest ballots since the scribes took over the selections in 1931.

Every member of the committee ranked both Gordon and Williams somewhere among their top 10 choices, but Gordon rated 12 first-place votes to nine for Williams.

The other first-place votes went two for Shortstop Johnny Pesky, Williams' rookie teammate of the Red Sox, and one for Vernon (Junior) Stephens, the rookie shortstop of St. Louis Browns.

He led the American League in batting until the middle of July and finished with an unofficial average of .321, approximately 40 points higher than he ever had accomplished in four previous years in the majors. In addition he continued the spectacular fielding that has caused him to be rated among the greatest second sackers of all times.

Hawks Favored to Take Bruins Tonight

By The Canadian Press

A little soul-searching has convinced Steve Buzinski that his National Hockey League debut with New York Rangers wasn't so bad, after all.

Toronto Maple Leafs pumped seven goals behind Buzinski last Saturday as Leafs routed Rangers 7-2 and most of the 11,777 fans in attendance reasoned that the 25-year-old Dublane, Sask., netminder suffered a severe case of opening nite jitters. Buzinski's self-diagnosis is somewhat different.

NOT SO NERVOUS

"I wasn't nervous so much as I was bewildered by all the scrambly stuff going on around me," said the 25-year-old wheat inspector who graduated to bigtime hockey from Swift Current, Sask., Intermediate Indians. "Most of the game I thought I was back with Swift Current. So far, I haven't seen a great deal of difference between N.H.L. and Intermediate hockey."

The slight, wiry Lithuanian who seeks to fill Sugar Jim Henry's place in the Ranger net carries his new-found confidence into his second N.H.L. contest tomorrow night when Rangers meet Detroit Red Wings on Detroit ice. He is assured plenty of competition in a nerve-jangling way from Johnny Mowers, who recorded the season's first shutout when Wings blanked Boston Bruins 3-0 last Sunday. A Detroit victory would give the Wings undisputed possession of first place, about the only significant change that can occur as a result of Thursday's two games.

The twice-beaten Bruins, forced to play their third game in less than a week at a time when Manager Art Ross has trouble putting 12 men in uniform, oppose Chicago Black Hawks in the only other game on Thursday's card. Hawks, apparently well stocked compared with Bruins, probably will be favored to make their first start a winning one. Their defence is nothing to shout about, with Bert Gardiner in goal and four minor professionals at rearguard, but the seasoned forward lines will give them a perceptible edge on Bruins.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 4 (AP) — Gaining an early lead with fast play and never letting up during the contest, Pittsburgh Hornets tonight defeated Hershey Bears 3-1 in an American League Hockey game before 2500 fans. The Bears are leading the Eastern Division of the circuit.

Tony Hemmerling, back after a week's absence due to injuries, N. Schultz and Pete Bessone chalked up the Hornets' tallies. Frank Daley scored for the visitors.

Goalie Harvey Teno broke back into the Hornets' lineup in an auspicious manner, making 22 stops but Nick Damore of Hershey had 26.

Indianapolis, New Haven Eagles, Play to 2-2 Tie

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 4 (AP) —Bill Thomson of Indianapolis Capitols scored two goals in the second period of an American Hockey League game here tonight but New Haven Eagles, still seeking a victory after four starts, came from behind and pulled into a 2-2 tie.

Thomson, fronting a five-man assault on the Eagles' new goalie, Alec Woods, scored first midway in the second period and added another on a rebound shot just before the period ended.

Joe Shack of the Eagles brought cheers from the crowd of 1900 at the start of the third period when he whizzed home a shot from the red line. The Eagles then pressed furiously for a tie and made the grade 10 minutes later as Joe Levandowski, executing the prettiest play of the game, brought the disc out from behind the Caps' cage and nudged it past Goalie Floyd Perras.

Washington Beats Reds 4-2; Forsey With Reds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP) — Washington Lions tonight outmanoeuvred Providence Reds, 4-2, for their first American Hockey League victory in four starts to mark their initial 1942 home appearance.

The first Washington goal came after 13:15 of the first period when Joe Brown, right winger, took passes from Tony Gabroski and Leo Lamoureux to get past Goalie Mike Karakas.

Providence evened the score after 7:37 of the second period when stocky Tony Demaruo scored on passes from Norm Galladine and Don Webster.

Lion markers by Lamoureux and Peggy O'Neil in the second, and by Hark Dyck in the third, piled up the final total. A late Reds' attack by Jack Forsey, leading up to the second Providence goal, came too late.

SILENCE IS ELOQUENT

FAILURE of a particular opponent to bid can eventually prove as eloquent, for those who will listen to it, as noisy proclaiming by his partner. It can tell you sometimes that he does not hold a certain card or cards, thus enabling you to place them in the hand opposite him. So doing, you can sometimes go after tricks which would be dangerous to monkey with otherwise.

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	3 NT

Cutting didoes would have been a mild expression to fix on East and West as they strained for an impossible top score near the end of a duplicate game. You can find plenty funny about their bidding, as veraciously reported above. East had only one excuse for his 2-Club call, his spade 8t for later use. West's failure to bid diamonds his second turn was also odd, and so was East's ultimate pass of 3-No Trumps, his only excuse being that they were shooting for crazy results.

North mistrusted them, so opened his club 6. West called the dummy's 7 and South failed to apply the good old rule of eleven, using his 9 instead of the 9. He returned the latter to the A, whereupon the 4 came back to the 10. West counted up, saw that 4-Spades would be sure at other tables and realized he had to beat that, requiring 4-No Trumps. He promptly laid down the dummy's club K, sure that North had neither major ace for a re-entry to clubs, as with either he should have bid such a suit.

Then he led spades until South played the A on the second round. West hoped now that South would expect to find North with a re-entry for those clubs, so refrain from cashing his heart A. He returned the diamond 3 instead. Consequently West took the rest of the tricks to score an extra and top on the deal. If instead of cashing that club K West had gone after his tricks in both majors, South would surely have used both of his aces and held the contract to exactly 3-No Trumps, giving West a bottom score instead of a top.

Canada's Trade to India Grows

OTTAWA (CP)—The effect of restrictions recently imposed by the Indian Government against imports from Canada is not expected to be particularly marked, Paul Sykes, Canadian Trade Commissioner in India, reported to the Department of Trade and Commerce here.

At the present time Canada is the fourth largest exporter to India with the United States leading all sources of supply, the United Kingdom coming second and Iran third.

Mr. Sykes said Canadian-Indian trade continues to expand citing figures for April, 1942, when Indian imports from Canada were valued at $2,516,855 compared with $1,779,409 in April, 1940.

The new restrictions imposed by the Indian Government were necessary due to the original wartime policy of conserving Canadian dollar exchange and also the need to conserve shipping space and the intention to limit India's imports as far as possible to goods essential to war production and the basic needs of the civilian population.

Labor Shortage Cuts Output of Field Metals

TORONTO, Nov. 4 (CP) — Base Metals Mining Corporation Ltd., Field, B.C., subsidiary of Mining Corporation of Canada Ltd., today reported tonnage milled in the quarter ended Sept. 30 was 14 per cent lower than that of the preceeding quarter owing to labor shortage.

Operating profit for the mine in nine months was $139,693, $39,548 in the third quarter, $45,518 in the second quarter and $54,518 in the first quarter.

Leicesters Earn "Tiger" Badge

LONDON (CP)—Men of the Leicestershire Regiment are familiarly known as the "Tigers" because their regimental badge shows a tiger. They've lived up to its name in fighting in Norway, Crete, Libya, Syria and Malaya.

The Leicestershires fought in Canada with Wolfe as the 17th Foot Regiment and now are allied with the Sherbrooke Regiment. They got their first action in this war in Norway in April, 1940, as part of the British Expeditionary Force which tried to foil the German invasion. They led the British attack on Oslo.

In Crete the Leicestershires found the going even worse; said their transfer from Libya's baking sands was like a jump from frying pan into fire. While they fought, they were dive-bombed and machine-gunned constantly.

CAUGHT PARATROOPS

The battalions rounded up more than 800 "pheasants" as they dubbed paratroops and once were called on to hold a breach in the British line that threatened two other regiments. One company of Tigers saved the situation by a counter-attack.

When they left Crete, the Tigers went to Syria where they distinguished themselves in the advance on Damascus. During the siege of Tobruk, Leicestershires who had fought fiercely in General Wavell's offensive, were landed in the fortress from the sea to relieve the tired garrison.

The Tigers, who up to then had captured 2000 Italians and altogether in their desert fighting handled 40,000 Axis prisoners, won Nazi praise for displaying "fine fighting qualities."

AIR FIGHTING LIKE DRINK OR DRUGS SAYS AUSSIE PILOT

LONDON, (CP)—There have been countless descriptions of air fighting but the best yet is that of Flt. Lt. C. R. Caldwell, an Australian fighter pilot who has gone back home to fight against the Japanese.

"Single-seat air fighting," he says, "is like drink or drugs, it grows on you. Sometimes in a tight spot you think 'I'll never get out of this,' and your tongue sticks to the roof of your mouth. But after getting out of it the itch begins again and you can hardly wait to get into the air for another go.

"When you see the enemy, there it is, either you or he, so you do your best to make sure that it is he. There are thrills in ground strafing, too, but you can't make any mistakes for at the bottom of your dive you're traveling like a comet with plenty to do."

May Ship Christmas Trees by Mail Up to November 15

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP)—Restrictions on the delivery of Christmas trees, announced recently have been modified to permit wider distribution, it was announced today in a joint statement of the Prices Board, the Industries Control Board and the Transport Department.

An order issued by Transport Controller T. C. Lockwood now will allow rail shipment of Christmas trees up to Nov. 15, regardless of when the trees were cut. After that date the movement of such trees by rail will be subject to prior permit from the Timber Controller.

"Because the transportation of the armed forces and of war commodities must take precedence, there can be no guarantee that rail facilities will be readily available," said Mr. Lockwood. "In any event, flat cars and gondolas are in short supply, and will not be used for that purpose."

Services Administrator James Stewart of the Prices Board said there is no necessity for issuing a ban of Christmas trees by the special order regarding transportation. After Dec. 1 the general regulation limiting commercial truckage to a 35-mile radius from their home base will apply to the delivery of Christmas trees as well as to other commodities, but farmers' trucks will not come under this 35-mile limitation.

Under the original curtailment order, it was provided that trees cut before midnight of Oct. 31 could be delivered before Nov. 15 but that shipments after Nov. 15 would require a written permit from the Timber Control Office or from a Regional Representative of the Timber Controller.

Demand for Confectionery Cannot Be Filled by Wholesalers; Small Amount for Christmas Trade

Owing to weather conditions there is difficulty in securing supplies of vegetables, particularly potatoes, during the last few days, wholesalers reported Wednesday. Potatoes are arriving principally from Grand Forks and the Prairies.

Onions arriving from Grand Forks are running mostly No. 2 grade, although a few number 1's are available.

Cabbage is cleaned up locally, supplies arriving from the Prairie. Carrots, turnips, beets and parsnips are still available in quantities locally. Head lettuce is very scarce and is being brought in from other districts. Field tomatoes are over.

The orange market is still strong. Texas grape fruit are now on the market, at fairly reasonable prices.

There has been a strong demand for bulk confectionery of all kinds, but it is practically impossible to procure it. A small volume of boxed chocolates will be on the market for the Christmas trade, however.

Market Trends . . .

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Stock Market prices held generally firm to the close today despite some profit taking.

Industrial shares took the brunt of the cashing in, Home Rails advancing and Oils closing firm at improved prices. Coppers were firm.

NEW YORK—Stocks turned irregular after leaders opened fractions to around a point higher on a brisk buying movement attributed to election results.

Among Canadian stocks, Dome Mines gained ⅛ and Distillers Seagram ⅜, while Canadian Pacific eased ⅛.

TORONTO—Gold stocks had one of their best days in a month as prices climed to show an index gain of about a point. Other groups were steady.

Among base metals, smelters, International Nickel and Hudson Bay were off small fractions.

MONTREAL—A group of Stock Exchange leaders sported small gains near the close of trading today.

C.P.R., which has been leader in activity recently, was an exception and moved down a fraction.

VANCOUVER—Trading remained light.

Bralorne sold up 25 at 5.75, Privateer up ⅛ at 19, and Sheep Creek up 2 at 82.

CHICAGO—A break in the Rye pit, which sent all contracts to new seasonal lows, dampened post-election enthusiasm in the Grain Market today.

Sgt. Ross Writes He's Safe and Well in Germany

A letter from Sgt. G. M. Ross of Nelson, captured at Dieppe, brought news to his wife and family in Nelson Wednesday that he was safe and well. The letter, written from a prison camp in Germany, also gave an idea of just what prisoners of war appreciate in gift parcels from relatives.

The letter, in part, follows:

Sept. 9, 1942.

Prisoner of War 26121,

Dear Babs and Children:

I hope you haven't lost any sleep worrying about me as I am safe and well. I am a prisoner of war in Germany, captured at Dieppe in France. . . .

Please send me a parcel of eats. Send stuff such as corned beef, dried fruit, sugar, coffee and milk. Please send also a knife, fork and spoon. We get any parcels sent to us so send all you want. Before you send a parcel go to the Red Cross and they will tell you all particulars.

I hope you and the little girls are fine. You can tell them I'll be home soon. . . . .

Love, Gerry.

Mrs. Ross and family reside at 705 Stanley Street.

Nelson, Over Top, Sets New Victory Loan Goal; Need $57,350 Next 3 Days; Pennant Presentation Tonight

Nelson is over the top as far as its original quota in the Third Victory Loan is concerned; but it has a new objective. General sales reached $355,150 Wednesday $25,150 more than the minimum. In the remaining three days of the week it will seek to go over a newly-set quota.

"Canada wants a billion. British Columbia wants $100,000,000 instead of $75,000,000. So we've raised our sights too. Let's go all out for a second honor pennant by going 25 per cent over our minimum. Let's make our new minimum $412,-500."

This was the challenge flung Wednesday afternoon by Mayor N. C. Stibbs, Chairman of the National War Finance Committee at Nelson; and Lieut.-Col. George A. Hoover, Public Relations Chairman.

NEW GOAL

The goal at which Nelson now aims is $412,500. It already has $25,150 of the additional $82,500 needed. It has Thursday, Friday and Saturday to bring in $57,350 and make that goal. In the last Victory Loan, in February, it reached $424,180.

Nelson has won an honor pennant in each Victory Loan campaign to date, but it has yet to win a second pennant for oversubscription. That is the present objective.

George Kidd, B. C. Chairman of the War Finance Committee, telegraphed Wednesday to Mayor Stibbs: "Congratulations, Nelson, on going over quota. Hope before weekend your results will give us all cause for even greater satisfaction."

The importance of not going over the minimum but also of going over heavily was stressed in another message which stated:

"Those units which have reached their general canvass objective owe responsibility to the rest of the province to provide leadership; and where the general canvass objective has not yet been reached we sincerely ask, in the name of our armed forces, that you bend every effort to reach and go beyond your goal."

Nelson's honor pennant will be presented at a brief ceremony at tonight's A. R. P. rally at the Capitol Theatre.

Veterans Guards Carry Pte. Lequereux to Rest

Comrades of the World War 1 and of this war, members of the Veterans Guard of Canada, as Pallberers carried the body of Private Charles H. Lequereux of Nelson to its grave at the soldiers plot of Nelson Memorial Park Wednesday afternoon.

A Guard of Honor of members of the Guard Platoon, stationed at Nelson, following funeral services at the Thompson Funeral Chapel, formed open ranks through which the casket passed from the Chapel to the hearse. Again at Memorial Park, they escorted the casket from the entrance to the graveside. Sgt. Ingram was in command of the guard of Honor.

Rev. H. Stewart Forbes of St. Paul's United Church conducted the services at the Chapel and at the graveside. The hymn sung was "Breathe on Me Breath of God", Mrs. T. J. S. Ferguson, organist, accompanying.

As the notes of the "Last Post" and "Reveille" sounded by Cpl. W. Jackson, Bugler, died away near the close of the committal service, poppies were deposited in the flag-draped casket by the pallbearers, members of the Guard of Honor, by Lt. George Kerby, O.C. of the Platoon of the Veterans Guard here, and by Capt. H. E. Thain of the Canadian Legion.

Members of the Guard, serving as pallbearers, were Cpl. W. Aitken, Pte. W. Ouderkirk, Pte. W. Toal, Pte. H. Ashton, Pte. H. C. Jeary and Pte. W. S. Williams.

Pte. Lequereux, who served with the French Army in World War 1 and was decorated with the Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor, died Friday at Seebe, Alta., where he was stationed. He enlisted at Nelson, when a platoon of the Veterans Guard was being formed here earlier in the war.

Staff Sergeant Douglas Craig, whose home is in Ymir, escorted the body from Seebe to Nelson.

Harrison, Vancouver, Western Representative of the Department of Labor, that he will take an official strike vote here Friday and Saturday. There are 120 men in the three mines.

Interpreting The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Above even the distant clamor of guns and bombs in North Africa, where hopes of an allied victory of major scope over Axis foes are hourly brihtening, rises the hub-bub of post-election analysis in the U.S. of returns showing wide Republican resurgence against the still dominant Democratic Party.

That the Roosevelt administration and its management of the war has received a sharp rebuke at the hands of the American electorate goes with out saying. Its party majorities in both Houses of the new Congress will be heavily reduced. Many Democratic governors, state legislators and lesser officials have been replaced by Republicans from coast to coast and border to border, always excepting the traditionally Democratic solid South. A wealth of new ammunition for the Axis propaganda drumfire attack has been provided.

Yet the fact remains that this wartime exercise by free men and women of the voting privilege that is the symbol of that liberty for which the United Nations are fighting, on battlefields, around the globe has no direct bearing on the war effort except to demand its intensification. No American peace or appeasement advocate has been elevated to office. There is no anti-war party. The election only reaffirms at the source the national will for victory.

That was promptly testified to by high authority. The only living former President of the United States, Herbert Hoover, elder Statesman of the Republican Party, put in a nut shell in his election comment from New York:—

"Our enemies can get no comfort from this election. The platform of every single candidate—Reublican, Democratic and Labor—was vigorous, efficient prosecution of the war."

Nevertheless, the "protest in the vote," as Hoover dubbed it, adding that it represented insistent national demand for "more effective organization o. the war," confronts the war administration with new and acute problems. Mr. Roosevelt can only look forward to the new war congress convening in January with certainty that the heavily recruited opposition ranks in both Houses will operate under that protest mandate.

That should mean more rigid, critical and deliberate Congressional scrutiny of every new war measure the President or his aides may offer.

In essence however, and regardless of the thousand and one cross currents that fed the "protest" vote almost to the flood stage, its main source, as Hoover noted, unquestionably was the "Get on with the war" demand. Its political beneficiaries in Congress or out must govern themselves by that interpretation if they hope for future as well as present public favor.

The spirit in which the vote was carried them into office, was cast would brook no war obstruction tactics to gain party advantage.

It is a curious circumstance of the off-year Democratic reverses at the polls that they came just when the war clouds in Africa, in the far Pacific and in Russia, were showing new and hopeful glimmers of light for the United Nations. On all three fronts foretastes of still inconclusive victories over the Axis were being savored.

There is no assurance of early allied complete victory as there was in November, 1918, when another Dmocratic war President, Woodrow Wilson, saw his party majorities upset.

The elements out of which ultimate United Nation victory may be woven are taking shape, however. They are present in the Solomons, on New Guinea, at sea in the deadly tonnage attrition battle, in Egypt where an allied army that is a virtual United Nations' cross section is rolling Westward with gathering momentum. And in Russia both at Stalingrad and in the high passes of the Caucasus range, Winter is fast advancing to chill the ardor of Nazi attack short of crucial objectives. On both sides of the Atlantic, allied war industries are reaching new output peaks month by month to warrant expectation within a twelvemonth of both quantitative and qualitative weapon superiority over the foe.

Rossland Social . .

By MRS. HARVEY FLEURY

ROSSLAND, B. C., Nov. 4—Marion Elisabeth, younger daughter of J. E. Dupperon and the late Mrs. Dupperon, of Rossland, and John Ramsay Kennedy of Robson, son of Mrs. Kennedy and the late Mr. Kennedy of Assiniboine, Sask., were united in marriage Wednesday morning at 10 in the Sacred Heart Church Rectory by Rt. Rev. A. K. MacIntyre, V.G.D.P. The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a formal length gown fashioned from white silk triple trimmed with bands of delicate white lace at the girdle waistline and edging the square neck. A bolero jacket was also fashioned from white lace and featured shirred bracelet length sleeved. A row of tiny white buttons closed the jacket. The bodice of the wedding gown was softly gathered and the skirt hung in graceful folds. The bride's veil, enhanced with silk embroidery, hung from a tiara of orange blossoms to the floor, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Miss Mona Conroy, as bridesmaid, wore a formal length gown of turquoise blue net, featuring a lace bodice and bolero and short puffed sleeves. Tiny pink bows trimmed the front of the bodice. A chapel veil, matching the shade of her gown, was held in place with a cluster of tiny pink buds, and she carried a bouquet of Chrysanthemums and sweet peas in pastel pink. Dante Leschuitta, the bride's brother-in-law, acted as groomsman. Following the ceremony the bridal party motored to Trail, where the wedding breakfast was enjoyed, the Kootenay Hotel private dining room being beautifully decorated with Autumn flowers for the occasion. During the afternoon a reception was held at the home of the bride's father, when the couple were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. G. I. Sterns, attractively attired in a navy blue frock with cut-velvet yoke and wearing a hat en tone; also assisting in receiving was Mrs. Dante Leschuitta, sister of the bride, who chose a becoming dress in black and white with which she wore red accessories. The Dupperon home was decorated with streamers in pastel shades, and autumn floers were aristically arranged. The reception table, covered with an ecru lace cloth, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Ivory tapers flanked the cake. For the wedding trip to Nelson the bride changed to a deftly styled heavy sheer afternoon frock in Airforce Blue, cleverly trimmed with a fine braidwork and featuring shirred insets of woodrose. A felt sweetheart hat in Airforce blue, a polo coat, and navy accessories completed the bride's travelling ensemble. Following the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy will reside at Robson.

Miss Carol Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Martin, who is a patient in the Mater Misericordiae Hospital, is progressing satisfactorily from an attack of scarlet fever.
