NAZIS BLAST NEW HOLE IN RUSS WEST LINES

To Allow Sugar Users to Buy Four Week Supply

Purchase Vouchesr for Home Canning to Be Abolished After Sept. 30; New Quota Systems for Big Users and Caterers

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—Revision of the Sugar Rationing Regulations to allow consumers to buy four weeks' supply at one time was announced tonight by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. (Also see Ration Book Rulings, on page 3.)

Simultaneously, the Board announced abolition of sugar purchase vouchers for home canning after Sept. 30 and new quota systems for industrial users, public caterers and institutions.

Prior to tonight's order, the announcement said, each numbered coupon of the temporary ration cards represented two weeks' supply at the rate of one half pound per person per week. The new regulations validate two sugar coupons per month and hence permit a person to buy a full month's supply of two pounds at one time.

Sugar coupons 1 and 2 in the new ration books became valid on Monday, Sept. 7; numbers 3 and 4 may be used on and after Oct. 5. The last one, number 13, will not be accepted before Feb. 22, 1943. The coupons continue to be good for the purchase of sugar at any time after their valid dates. This also applies to unused coupons from the temporary ration cards.

Until the end of September sugar may still be obtained by purchase voucher for home canning purposes, but it must not be used later than Oct. 31. The announcement said the Board will introduce new provisions in plenty of time for the next canning season.

It added: "For preserving and canning perishable fresh fruits, the ration is one-half pound of sugar for each pound of fruit or, if the preserving or canning is done by syrup method, the syrup used must not contain more than one part of sugar to two parts of water. Until further notice, sugar for apples may be had at the rate of one pound of sugar for eight of apples. Crabapples have been classed as fresh fruits for the purpose of preserving them or making them into jelly.

"For the final three months of this year the supervisor of rationing will set the quota of sugar allowed to public caterers, industrial users, institutions and for ships' stores. This system, more flexible than the previous 30 per cent cut, will allow for increasing or decreasing volume of business and for shifts of population.

"Operators of boarding houses may register in the institutional classification if they wish. Otherwise they operate in the same way as ordinary consumers with each border deemed to be a person in the operator's household.

The order provides that a consumer may detach from his ration book a whole sheet or any remaining part of a sheet and leave these with the merchant from whom he regularly buys his sugar. The merchant may then detach the proper coupons as he delivers sugar on the orders of his customer and in accordance with the valid dates of the coupons.

The order states that any seller of sugar may refuse to sell to any person whom he believes has contravened or is attempting to contraven any provision of the rder.

At Least Six Die as Bomber Hits Apartment

NEWARK, O., Sept. 8 (AP)— A United States army bomber with a broken wing crashed into a downtown apartment building today, killing all six occupants and a woman.

As investigators delved into the debris tonight; there were indications the death toll might mount to nine or 10. The plane's cabin was buried in the burned wreckage of the building, while other parts of the ship were scattered over several blocks.

Officers at Dayton identified two of the dead as the pilot, Col. Douglas M. Kilpatrick, 33, of Houma, La., and the co-pilot, Lieut. Lawrence S. Lawyer, 29, of Freeport, Ill.

The woman victim was Mrs. Dollie M. Campbell.

Two of the crewmen plunged to death after jumping from the crippled plane, which witnesses said lost a portion of one wing several blocks from the scene of the crash.

Say 140 Frenchmen Killed, 420 Wounded in Bombing

VICHY, Sept. 8 (AP.) — The French Information Office asserted today that 140 Frenchmen were killed and 420 wounded Saturday in the raid by United States Flying Fortresses upon Rouen, in the German-occupied zone, a sharp increase over the previously announced figures.

BISHOP SAYS ALASKA HIGHWAY "BURMA ROAD OF CANADA"

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 8 (CP.)—Rt. Rev. A. H. Sovereign, Bishop of Athabasca, speaking at the annual meeting of the general synod of the Church of England in Canada, today described the Alaska Highway as the "Burma Road of Canada" linking the settled South with the virgin north.

Runaway Couple Return Home

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8 (CP.) — Harry Alexander, 17, and his 16-year-old bride were safe at home today, putting a definite end to fears they might have drowned while swimming from a Vancouver beach last week. The couple, some of whose clothing was found on the beach, eloped to Victoria where they were married Thursday.

Economy in Clothing Will Keep Off Rationing for Some Time

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP.) — Patches on clothing may be more common than they used to be, but such evidences of economy may mean that clothing rationing will not be necessary for a long time, informed sources said today.

Canada has sufficient fabrics on hand to meet the "normal" needs of buyers for some months to come, and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has stressed that the law forbids a Canadian buying more than his "normal" requirements of any commodity — including clothing.

Officials said they had heard rumors that the spare coupons in ration books which went into service yesterday were to be used later for clothing rationing.

"The fact is that no one knows what these coupons may be used for—if they are ever used," one spokesman said. "They have been placed in the ration books purely as a precaution against a condition that may arise in the future."

Clothing trade officials have made clear that the supplies of clothing are not sufficient to permit enlarged sales in comparison with past year, and if more than normal amounts are disposed of, rationing becomes a more immediate prospect.

Delay in Use of Furnaces Urged by Board

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP) — The thrifty householder's time-honored procrastination in starting up the furnace for the winter was given official Government approval tonight when J. McG. Stewart, Coal Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, urged Canadians not to start furnace fires until they are actually necessary.

As a conservation measure, Mr. Stewart said it would be particularly important in the case of large apartment houses and department stores, in which, after fires have been lighted, they are often maintained regardless of any moderation in the temperature.

JAPS AT MILNE BAY WIPED OUT BY ALLIES

Jap Destroyer Sunk, Buna Base Hit Hard by Bombers

SMASH BARGES

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 9 (Wednesday)—(AP.)—A Japanese landing force of 700 now has been "practically destroyed" at Milne Bay in Southeastern New Guinea, and Allied torpedo-bombers and fighter planes probably damaged a destroyer in attacks off the Trobriand Islands north of here, a communique announced today.

While the ground fighting in the Kokoda-Myola sector, less than 60 miles from Port Moresby, was described as static, Allied bombers scored heavily on the Japanese coastal base of Buna which feeds the Kokoda salient.

An Allied spokesman said the Japanese still were held on the North side of the Owen Stanley mountain range about 2000 feet below "the Gap", which is virtually the only pass trail through the rugged mountains. This fighting area is estimated to be still six miles from "The Gap".

Fighter planes also bombed and strafed Japanese positions in this area, which is near a 6000-foot gap leading through the Owen Stanley Mountains to Port Moresby.

For the first time, Allied use of torpedo-bombers was mentioned. These were Australian-made Bristols and Beauforts and they made three separate attacks in the Normanby-Trobriand island area off the Southeastern coast.

Heavy Allied bombers also hit "a group of beached barges, causing destructive fires" at Buna, the coastal base whence Japanese troops struck overland to reach the Kokoda-Myola area—an operation that already has caused the Japanese to suffer more than 1000 casualties.

In the first raid off Normanby island two enemy warships were attacked by torpedo-bombers. Poor visibility prevented an immediate check on any damage inflicted. Fighter planes however dived low to strafe the decks of the two ships. All Allied planes returned to their bases.

With the Japanese annihilated at Milne Bay, the danger to Port Moresby from the Kokoda-Myola sector is the most pressing one for Allied leaders.

There is no indication that the Japanese, however, have reached the gap which leads through the mountains North of Myola, and today's communique in fact indicated the Japanese had been stopped short of that goal after advancing eight miles from Kokoda.

AXIS REGROUPS DESERT ARMY BEHIND BARRAGE

Axis Reinforcement Problem Acute as British Smash Ships

DOWN SIX PLANES

CAIRO, Sept. 8 (CP Cable) — Enemy activity fell off sharply in the Western Desert today as Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel halted to regroup his battered forces behind a cover of anti tank batteries near the starting point of his latest drive for control of the Middle East.

Six enemy planes of the few that ventured in the air in the Southern sector were shot down, against the loss of one allied plane, headquarters reported. In addition, one enemy vessel in the Mediterranean suffered a direct hit. A near miss was scored on a tanker.

From the Qattara Depression to the Mediterranean coast, British lines held firm all along the El Alamein front.

SHIPPING HIT HARD

Meanwhile Rommel's question of reinforcements threatened to become more acute in the face of announced successes against Axis shipping in the Mediterranean where Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, commander in chief of the Mediterranean fleet, said heavy inroads on Axis shipping were being made despite an increase of surface and air protection for these convoys.

Bengasi and Tobruk he said, are the chief ports of entry for reinforcements bound for Rommel.

Prime Minister Churchill, speaking to the House of Commons, today took an optimistic view of the Egyptian situatin."

Wendell Willkie declared on his arrival in Turkey that the truth of a great allied victory in Egypt, has not yet been made public.

Conservatives Plan Winnipeg Meeting

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP.)—Plans are going ahead for a meeting in Winnipeg of a committee of Conservative members of the House of Commons and Senate to discuss war and post-war policies of the party, a source close to Conservative House Leader Hanson said tonight.

It was learned that no date has been set for the conference so far.

Le Havre, Cherbourg Blasted by Day; Big Night Force Heard

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP.)—The R.A.F. sent heavy forces of bombers across the English Channel tonight after Buston bombers, in two separate operations, had blasted the docks at Le Havre and Cherbourg from which Nazi submarines sometimes operate.

The size of the night raid, like those of the daylight hours, was a military secret, but watchers at a South coast English town said the star-lit heavens throbbed with the continuous thunder of motors as the planes raced to the attack.

Two of the escorting fighters were missing after the attacks on Le Havre and Cherbourg, but there was nb mention of losses among the bombers.

A coastal command plane shot down a German plane off the southwest coast of England today.

The Berlin radio said two British planes flew over Germany in daylight and one, described by the Germans as "a mosquito type," was claimed to have been shot down.

RAID BRITISH TOWN

German raiders dropped high explosive bombs on an East Anglican town late tonight after lighting up the town with dozens of flares. Other raiders dropped leaflets in Southern England. The contents were not disclosed.

Three children and a man were killed when bombs fell on a Southwest coast town before dark and demolished several houses.

The attack on Le Havre and Cherbourg followed publication of an Air Ministry statement which said that in a recent month the R.A.F. coastal command had made 30 attacks on submarines, chiefly in the Bay of Biscay.

Hours before the raid on Cherbourg light British coastal warships attacked a German convoy off the coast, scoring many hits. Another convoy was intercepted in the Dover Straits. The guns of one Axis escort ship were silenced and many hits were registered on two vessels in the convoy.

The British boats returned safely to their bases with two motor gunboats slightly damaged.

Equal Pay for Equal Work Policy Wanted by War Labor Board

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP) — The National War Labor Board has instructed Regional Boards that a policy of "equal pay for equal work" is to be observed, Labor Department officials made known today.

These instructions will result in women and junior employees who are doing skilled work being paid on a basis comparable with the pay of skilled employees receiving the higher wage rates.

"Basic wage rates, whether a range of rates or a single rate," are to be paid with respect to an occupational classification—not with respect to particular individual employees in a classification," the National Board's ruling says.

The instructions provide that an employer may request a War Labor Board to permit the establishment of a new and lower paid occupational classification within an occupation for which classifications have already been established.

The order continues:

"A War Labor Board may approve such a request, provided that the skill and ability called for is of a lower grade than that previously associated with the established classifications of the employer or where separate classifications are desirable for apprenticeship or learner's schedules, provided that the range of wage rates or single wage rates requested is a fair and reasonable measurement of the relative skills and abilities required in connection with the new and lower paid classifications."

Woman Acquitted on Charge of Having Fort Sketch

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8 (CP.) — Police Magistrate H. S. Wood today acquitted Mrs. Kay Davies, 18, of a charge of being in possession of a sketch of a fortified place "in a manner likely to be prejudicial to the safety of the state."

Mrs. Davies pleaded innocent to the charge a week ago, telling the court the sketch was drawn by her brother to explain the location of a dance hall.

"I accept her evidence," Magistrate Wood said today. "The Prosecution doesn't seem to consider it a serious case. Apparently one of her so-called friends informed on her and the military authorities got out a search warrant."

Russ Continue to Repulse Enemy to the Southwest

Fight Stubbornly at Novorossisk; Tell of Local Successes in Grim Mozdok Battle 60 Miles West of Grozny Oil Fields

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 (Wednesday) (AP)—German tanks and airplanes have punched another hole in Russian defences west of Stalingrad, but the Red Army continued to repulse Nazi onslaughts southwest of that imperilled Volga River city, the Soviets announced early today.

In the Caucasus outnumbered Soviet defenders continued to fight stubbornly against a Nazi wedge driven into Novorossisk, the Black Sea naval base, and for the second straight day the Russians reported local successes in grim fighting at Mozdok, 60 miles west of the Grozny oil fields.

The German break-through in one sector immediately West of Stalingrad was the second in as many days. The communique said it occurred in "a narrow sector" where Soviet artillery first held its ground firmly but was forced to withdraw to new positions after fresh Nazi tanks and infantry supported by airplanes were thrown into the fight.

The Germans also attempted all day yesterday to capture a populated place West of Stalingrad "with alternating success," the communique said. The Germans lost five tanks and about 460 men in this engagement.

Southwest of Stalingrad the Russians said the Germans tried to outflank Red army positions but were beaten off with one German infantry company annihilated and nine Nazi tanks disabled.

No fighting was reported on the Northwestern approaches to Stalingrad.

Soviet naval artillery men were in action in the defence of Novorossisk on the Black Sea coast where the Germans apparently had failed to widen a wedge driven into Russian positions.

At Mozdok in the Caucasian foothills the Russians said 800 Germans were killed and 10 Nazi tanks destroyed or disabled in a successful counter blow.

Soviet airmen were credited with destroying or damaging about 90 German tanks and armored cars, and more than 150 trucks with troops and supplies during Monday on various sectors of the front.

(The German high command asserted that further positions on heights had been captured by Axis troops in the fortifications area of Stalingrad, "notwithstanding obstinate resistance." On the Black Sea rim of the Caucasus front the Germans claimed that 6736 Russian prisoners had been taken in capture of Novorossisk. The Russians have not confirmed this capture.)

German Tanks Litter Desert

By EDWARD KENNEDY

With American tank crews in Egypt's Western Desert, Sept. 8 (AP)—Scattered over the desert are wrecks of German tanks destroyed by British and American tank crews in thwarting Marshal Erwin Rommel's latest drive toward the Valley of the Nile.

British crews knocked out by far the larger number of Nazi tanks, as only a small fraction of the Allied armored formations was composed of Americans.

(Wendell Willkie said in Ankara that, in all, the Allies smashed 100 of the 290 first-line tanks at Rommel's disposal).

These were the tanks which were considered virtually invincible as they broke through France's defences two years ago and later models were strengthened by face-hardened armor plates.

Japs Force Allied Withdrawal to New Positions Near Port Moresby

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 8 (CP) — After weeks of jungle patrol skirmishes, the Japanese forces trying to reach the advanced Allied base at Port Moresby, New Guinea, from the North have finally forced an Allied withdrawal to new defence positions in the Owen Stanley Range, Allied Headquarters announced today.

A communique said the enemy accomplished this by a series of frontal attacks, combined with infiltration and envelopment tactics. Fighting has developed on a larger scale.

The size of the opposing forces was not given, but a dispatch from the New Guinea correspondent of the Sydney Herald said that late in August Allied patrols reported "enemy parties of unusual strength, converging over the positions of the Allies" forced the Allies to withdraw.

The Sydney Herald's correspondent said the withdrawal took place late in August, the Japanese taking possession of a few miles "of rough muddy tracks," while the Allies "established a new line in the heart of the towering range of jungle-covered mountains whose peaks are wreathed in perpetual cloud . . ."

Aug. 28, the correspondent said, the Japanese moved against the Allies from three points, "working around the Allied flanks wherever opposed . . .

"By the next day," he wrote, "several Allied groups were surrounded though many were able to escape and rejoin their units. Japanese casualties have been much heavier than our."

Then he added that the Japanese never were permitted to command the situation. The withdrawal was completed Aug. 31.

Criticism of Plan for Japs to Get Redfish as Food Unwarranted Says Rod and Gun Head After Visit

"Criticism of the plan to make available to Japanese evacuees as Winter food is entirely unwarranted", said J. J. McEwen, West Kootenay Rod and Gun Clubs Association President, Tuesday after a weekend visit to the Meadow Creek spawning grounds. "The plan is a good one in every way."

Mr. McEwen with Al Farnum, Trail Rod and Gun Club Vice-President, and Jack Riddell, Kaslo Club President, visited the Lardeau to look into the situation on behalf of the Rod and Gun Club zone. Both of the other visiting Club officials were in agreement with Mr. McEwen that the plan was not a harmful one.

The problem, Mr. McEwen considered, was that the plan was not understood by those criticising. Statements that the fish were not obtainable by white people were incorrect, he said. While Fisheries Branch oficials will not permit others than themselves to catch the fish, they will give the spawned fish away to any who come for them after their own needs are filled.

SALES PROFIT TO GO TO RED CROSS

In 1941, after Fisheries men had taken sufficient to supply food for fry and fingerlings in District hatcheries, 15 tons of the dead fish were buried. This year however, under arrangements with the Game Commission, the B. C. Security Commission, has arranged to take all the fish available for use as food for the Japanese.

Under the plan, entirely supervised by Fisheries Branch officers, the fish are taken, salted, and transportid in barrels to Kaslo, where they are smoked or otherwise treated, Mr. McEwen explained.

The fish thus obtained are sold to the Japanese evacuees by the Commission. The plan thus is self-supporting, and after the sale of the fish, should there be any money in excess of expenses, it will be donated to the Red Cross.

The Commission supplies transportation for the fish, and Japanese labor to handle them. In addition, two Japanese cooks prepare food for both the Fisheries officials and Japanese, who eat in separate eating rooms, at Meadow Creek.

In summing it up, Mr. McEwen declared "the Japanese are getting only the Redfish that have spawned, they are getting fish that would have been destroyed in past years, and the supplying of this food is at no cost to the public. White people, as in past years, may go and get some of the fish if they wish."

J. F. (Bud) Thompson of Kaslo, with three other Fisheries Branch men is handling the collection of Redfish eggs at Meadow Creek.

Paul McLane, Trade Commissioner, Gives Cranbrook Thrilling Tale of Hong Kong's Siege and Fall

CRANBROOK, B. C., Sept. 8—Paul McLane who was trade commissioner in Hong Kong at the time of its fall and who was in the exchange of prisoners, said in an interview here today: "I arrived in Hong Kong in December, 1939, and was caught there when the Japanese came in. The first warning I had of the approach of the Japanese was the approach of airplanes, which I could see from my apartment. My apartment was on the mainland, and I had considerable difficulty in getting to the island of Hong Kong which was only a stone's throw from the mainland. A marked feature of the war was the utter confusion, with everyone running in all directions, and no one quite knowing what to do or where to go.

"The army command was certain they could hold Oalhoon for a month or six weeks and it was evacuated very hastily four days later. When the Japs entered the city the police with the army and the Chinese lost the battle, aided by the Japanese.

"Once on the island it seemed possible that Hong Kong could hold out for some length of time. There was lots of food and the civilian morale was very good. Most of the soldiers had evacuated from the mainland, so that when the Japanese landed on the island they were met they cut the island in two, and the fighting was very severe in many parts. The Japs were too strong, and Oalhoon had to be surrendered.

"During the siege, the civilians for the greater part did war work such as A.R.P., transport work, etc, and although Hong Kong was heavily bombed, there were very few foreigners who were hurt, as most of the bombings were at military objectives. As I could not drive a car I was put distributing gas in the transport service, to army, and navy personnel and dispatch riders at Wongnecheong. The night the Japanese came they passed within 100 yards of my station, and in spite of machine gunning during the night, none came near me, and I was able to get back to the city. On several occasions the junction of the road was shelled but no shells fell within more than 50 yards of the station, so I had all the excitement and none of the penalties.

"After leaving the station I worked on gas dumps, and lived in an apartment on Macdonald road which was a sore thumb on the landscape, and while it must have been sighted by the Japanese, it was not shelled. Shells hit within 50 feet of the apartment house, but did no damage, and after the surrender it was one of the first buildings taken over by the Japanese Navy.

ALL LOST WEIGHT IN CAMP

"I was in Hong Kong after the fall until January, under protective custody, and then taken to the civilian internee camp, where there were 3000 other British, Dutch, etc., prisoners, and was there till June. The Japanese provided the rations in February which came to 1200 calories, principally of rice. In April they were improved by eight ounces of flour, which made the diet still much unbalanced, and we all lost a great deal of weight. We are hoping that supplies from the Red Cross will go forward from Laurenzo Marques.

"The Canadian soldiers at Hong Kong were intern d at North Point and judging from a letter recently received in Canada, are fairly well looked after, but it s ems pretty certain they need more food to supplement the Canadian diet. The Japanese idea is that veryone must fight for his country and die for it, and they can't understand civilians in a danger zone not in uniform and soldiers surrendering. They have no patience with civilians or prisoners of war. The Japanese are not used to the same diet as the civilians and think their diet sufficient and as good as the civilians in Japan receive, or that received by civilians in occupied countries in Europe.

"The Japanese soldier is dominated by the idea of fighting and dying for his country, and the officers have the theory that the Japanese have the divine right to rule the world. This theory is upheld by the people, and there is only one way to stop it—to defeat the Japanese in battle—and this will no be an easy task."

Mr. and Mrs. McLane are at present visiting at the home of Mrs. McLane's sister, Miss E. B. Patterson, and hope to remain in Canada. While in Hong Kong internee camp, Mr. McLane lost 50 pounds, and was hardly recognizable by any of his friends. As he says, the diet is not equal to that which the Canadians are used to, and "they are simply dying of starvation and pelagra, etc." Mr. McLane was guest speaker at Cranbrook Rotary Club Tuesday and gave a personal talk on his experiences in the Far East.

New Centrifuge and Knife Strop for Hospital Suggested

Purchase of a new centrifuge—an appliance for whirling test tubes so as to separate liquids—and a knife strop and hone for the Pathological Laboratory was recommended to the directors of Kootenay Lake General Hospital by the House Committee in a report presented Tuesday night by E. E. L. Dewdney, Committee Chairman.

H. M. Whimster, President, stated the centrifuge was under consideration for purchase "when finances permit."

Dr. F. P. Sparks, Director of the Laboratory, stated that specimens cut for examination were approximately 5-25,000 inch thick, and that extremely fine stropping and honing, finer than could be obtained with present equipment, were needed to assure the best work.

The House Committee's report, which included with these recommendations a number of suggested minor repairs, was referred to the Executive Committee for action.

Powerful Bomb Found in Big War Plant

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 8 (AP)—Discovery of a powerful time bomb in the Western Electric Company's vast Kearney plant was disclosed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation today with the arrest of an employee who supposedly had found it.

E. E. Conroy, Assistant F.B.I. Director, said the bomb had been set to explode at 11 p.m., Sunday, but that at 10:42 p.m. it was turned over to Company guards by Bernard Joseph O'Donnell, 21, of Teaneck. Guards ripped out wires to prevent a detonation.

Had the bomb exploded in a strategic spot, Conroy said, it could have killed 100 persons.

Hospital Board Defers Adding Nurse to Staff

Pending receipt of a financial report showing the Hospital's present standing, directors of Kootenay Lake General Hospital Tuesday night deferred decision on adding a nurse to its staff to take over the telephone switchboard.

J. C. Forbes, Business Manager, argued for appointment of a nurse, so that the office staff could be relieved of switchboard work, and devote its time to the business of the Hospital; while Miss Honor Tregear, Superintendent, held a nurse should be in charge of the switchboard to assure that doctor's orders were taken correctly.

Directors pointed out it would mean adding $1000 to the payroll, and asked for the financial report before taking this step.

Pack Right Foods In Lunch Box

The lunch box is coming to the fore in Canada's war effort because the worker's efficiency depends partly on what he eats and thousands of Canadians today are carrying their lunches to schools, offices and factories.

A packed lunch can be nourishing or otherwise. It's up to the packer. And remember a couple of sandwiches alone are not enough in any lunch box; other foods should be included and a beverage, preferably a hot one should be included. But speaking of sandwiches, a 17-year-old boy may require from six to eight for his meal, while an adult wants only two, three or four.

For the harrassed lunch packer here are some suggestions: Sandwiches of pilchard paste made with chopped pickle, or made with cold meat; jellied veal is delicious with a sprinkling of chopped parsley. Something crisp goes nicely with them, maybe strips of raw turnip or carrot, while rhubarb turn-over adds satisfying sweetness to the meal.

In any lunch box half the sandwiches should be made of dark bread and the white ones will have higher nutritive value if the bread is made with the new Canada Approved flour. If cheese is used generously in the sandwiches, tomato juice can replace milk as a beverage.

Hospital Executive Is to Deal With Physio-Therapy

Waiting to hear from the Workmen's Compensation Board regarding increased rates if physiotherapy treatment were made available at Kootenay Lake General Hospital, directors of the institution Tuesday night referred back to the executive the proposal to initiate such treatment.

A letter from Dr. F. M. Auld, Secretary of the Medical Staff, stated the Staff would do all it could to facilitate the establishment of physio-therapy treatment.

Churchill Hints British May Take Direct Role in Battle of Russia

Sees Hitler Blocked in Drive for Control of Mediterranean and Caucasus and About to Come to Grips With Strong Allied Force

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP). — A British Army is rapidly being strengthened in Iran and Iraq "which may eventually give support" to Soviet Russia's imperilled flank, Prime Minister Churchill disclosed today, indicating British preparation to enter directly into the Battle of Russia if necessary.

His statement came in a detailed war report to the House of Commons which reflected confidence in the Allied situation generally in the air and at sea and, specifically on the vital Western desert of Egypt.

The Prime Minister gave Commons assurances both that Egypt was secure by the virtual raising there of a new Allied army, stronger than ever, in the midst of battle and that the day for an offensive against Hitler's Europe is coming.

He called the Dieppe raid more than a Commando attack, a reconnaissance in force which was an "indispensable preliminary" to greater undertakings.

Thus, the Prime Minister pictured Hitler as blocked at one side of his great 1942 campaign for control of the Mediterranean and the trans-Caucasus and possibly about to come to grips with a new, strong British force on the other.

The 10th Army, separated now from the Middle East Command and made an autonomous force under General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Churchill disclosed, "is being rapidly strengthened and, with substantial air forces which it will require, may eventually give support to the Russian left flank, and, in any case, defend the soil of Persia."

Britain, he reported in a war summary to the reconvened Parliament, "may be confident in our ability to maintain a successful defence of Egypt not for days or weeks but for several months ahead."

Speaking of Dieppe, Mr. Churchill said "military credit for this most gallant affair goes to the Canadian troops who formed five-sixths of the assaulting force and to the Royal Navy, which carried them all there and carried most of them back."

Mention of the Canadians was greeted with cheers.

The Prime Minister added it was a mistake to speak or write of Dieppe as a Commando raid though some Commando troops distinguished themselves remarkably in it.

"The raid must be considered as a reconnaissance in force," Mr. Churchill continued. "It was a hard, savage clash such as are likely to become increasingly numerous as the war deepens. We had to get information necessary before launching operations on a much larger scale."

He said that apart from its informational and reconnaissance value, the Dieppe raid "brought on an extremely satisfactory air battle in the West, which the Fighter Command wish they could repeat every week."

"It inflicted perhaps as much loss on the enemy in killed and wounded as we suffered ourselves," he continued. "I personally regard the Dieppe assault—to which I gave my sanction—as an indispensable preliminary to full-scale operations."

"I do not intend to give any information about the operation and I have only said as much as I have because the enemy can see by daily reconnaissance of our ports many signs of movement that we are unable to conceal from his photography."

Declaring that "the tendencies of war have continued to move in our favor" since he last addressed the House, Mr. Churchill disclosed that in the period from June to the first week of September "we have dropped a double bomb load on Germany compared with the same period last year."

Of the Middle East and Russia, which he visited during Parliament's recess and reports on which many members had awaited expectantly, Mr. Churchill said the results —"although now secret"—will "justify any trouble or expense incurred" when they become apparent.

He found no reason to believe the condition "of the desert army and troops in Egypt" is "entirely satisfactory."

Mr. Churchill said that before he left England he "had some reason to believe the condition of the desert army and the troops in Egypt was not entirely satisfactory."

In his first explanation of the switch in command in the Middle East from Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck to Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Mr. Churchill said that Gen. Auchinleck had "gone on leave" at his own request but that he hoped his "services might be available later in the war."

Still, he acknowledged, the Nazis have been building submarines faster than the Allies have been able to sink them. Nevertheless, he said, the bombing of German shipbuilding yards "will have increasing effect upon the output and assembly of U-boats."

With direct reference to American air-operation in the European theatre, he commented:

"United States daylight bombing is a new and increasingly-important factor and there is no doubt that both in the accuracy of high-level aim and in mutually defensive power new possibilities of air warfare are being opened by our American comrades in their Flying Fortresses."

The peak strength of the 8th Army in Egypt, Mr. Churchill said, is due to the fact that "so large have been its reinforcements that it is to a large extent a new army which has been created while fighting actually was in progress."

"We are entitled to consider this last week's fighting as distinctly not unsatisfactory," the Prime Minister declared of the North African front. And, he went on:

"The desert army will welcome every opportunity offered to them and further developments may be awaited with good heart."

(This optimism corresponded closely with the view of Wendell Wilkie who, arriving today at Ankara after a visit to the Egyptian front since the battle flared up again, reported that Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had lost 100 of 200 first-line tanks and "is in a hole.")

Mr. Churchill said:

"I have never seen any army which deserved victory more and I await with confident hope the further unfolding of the scroll."

Of his visit to Moscow to talk with Joseph Stalin, Mr. Churchill conceded that "the Russians do not think we or the Americans have done enough so far to take the weight off them."

"This is not surprising in view of the terrific onslaught they are enduring with such tenacity," he continued.

But, he said, "we made their leader feel confidence in our loyal resolve to come to their aid as quickly as possible and without regard to losses or sacrifices involved so long as the contribution was toward victory."

The House cheered when Mr. Churchill declared that "one thing stands out in my mind after this visit and that is the inexorable resolve of Soviet Russia to fight Hitlerism to the end."

The topics of discussion within the Kremlin must remain unannounced, Mr. Churchill said, but he told the House he had reported them to the War Cabinet and that W. Averell Harriman, U.S. lend-lease coordinator who accompanied Mr. Churchill to Moscow, reported them to President Roosevelt.

"During the month of July Mr Roosevelt sent a most important mission to this country," Mr. Churchill informed the House, recalling the London visit of Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff; Admiral Ernest J. King, Chief of Naval Operations, and Harry L. Hopkins as the United States President's personal representative.

Over 10 "very important days the whole field of war was explored and every problem of importance in it was scrutinized and weighed," he disclosed.

He spoke of "continued efforts" to unify the Allies both in command and action and, for the first time cited one spectatcular instance of cooperation.

"As far back as March," he related, "I asked President Roosevelt to loan me shipping to transport an additional 40,000 or 50,000 men to the Middle East so as to have something to bear an our on, so as to have a force which we could turn in various theatres in which danger might develop.

"The President consented and placed at our disposal a number of American ships and, in consequence, we had rounding the Cape a very large and well-equipped force which could be directed immediately to Egypt.

"It is to that that the improvement and maintenance of our forces in that region must be largely attributed."

Mr. Churchill warned that "when the hour of liberation strikes in Europe, as strike it must, it will also be the hour of retribution," and added:

"Particularly do I identify His Majesty's Government and Commons with the solemn words of President Roosevelt that those guilty of Nazi crimes will have to stand before tribunals in every land where their atrocities have been committed in order that an indelible warning may be given to future ages and the successive generations may say, 'So perish all who do the like again.'"

Mr. Churchill disclosed that at one time after the collapse of France he had feared Hitler might use the political prestige of his victories to establish himself as a "kind of Charlemagne of Europe and would unite many countries under Germany's sway while, at the same time, pointing to our island as the author of the blockade and the cause of all their woes."

Now, he went on, this danger has vanished: "Germany is now more hated in every country in Europe than any race has been since the human record began."

The Germans, Mr Churchill said, could see at British ports "movements we are unable to conceal" and observe a "steady and rapid influx into these islands of United States divisions and other troops."

The enemy, Mr. Churchill went on, does not know "when and where, with what force and in what direction he will be smitten . . . all this it is desirable, should be left to his own fulminations unassisted by British or American advice and comment."

Again, the Prime Minister said:

"There is no reason to suppose that we have not the means of victory in our hands providing that the utmost in human power is done here and in the United States."

Mr. Churchill warned the House that "losses at sea still are very heavy," but he gave it the reassuring word that August and the first week of September showed a "definite improvement" over previous months.

He disclosed, furthermore, that the production of merchant ships in the United Nations "definitely has crossed and maintained itself above the line of sinkings."

Arrival of the recent convoys at Malta guaranteed the "life and resistance" of the fortress for "a good many months to come," he said.

The price paid by the Royal Navy, said the Prime Minister in his first speech in Parliament since his conversations in Moscow with Joseph Stalin, "was not excessive for the results obtained."

This also was Mr. Churchill's first report to the Commons since it gave him a substantial majority to override a motion of censure nine weeks ago and the Prime Minister thanked the members for the vote as proof to the world of "the inflexible steadfastness of Parliament."

He described Malta as a gem "as bright as shines in the King's crown" and said the effectiveness of the Mediterranean isle against any communications with North Africa was vital to the Middle East's strategic situation.

He called the re-supplying of Malta, after a running battle with enemy sea and air forces through the Mediterranean, new proof of "the value of aircraft carriers" and the increasing power of the gunnery of the fleet and armed merchantmen.

Of the Russian front, Mr. Churchill had but one terse comment, an oblique reference to the fact that Hitler still is to gain his objective against the Soviet Union and that another Russian Winter is not far behind the Axis armies.

"I will only at this moment say," the Prime Minister observed, "it is the eighth of September."

He informed the Commons that "complete agreement" has existed between Britain and the United States on policy in waging global war since the end of July.

He also disclosed that the British heavy cruiser Shropshire has been transferred to the Australian Navy to compensate it for the loss of its own cruiser Canberra.

Arthur Greenwood, Labor Leader who was first speaker in the war debate scheduled to follow Mr Churchill's review, declared that Britons felt too little had been done for Russia and expressed hope that the Prime Minister's flight to Moscow "may lead to closer cooperation."

The house emptied so quickly after Mr. Churchill's speech that members calling for a count found less than a quorum. The necessary attendance was supplied from the lobbies, but the house adjourned for the day without hearing any major criticism of the Prime Minister's report.

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP)—The appointment of Sir Harold Alexander as Commander-in-chief of British forces in the Middle East was made after "many hard searchings", Prime Minister Churchill said in the House of Commons today.

Gen. Alexander, who made an impressive showing in a "brilliant uphill campaign in Burma," was the logical man to succeed Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, the Prime Minister said.

While in Egypt Mr. Churchill gave his personal attention to the successor of Lt.-Gen. Neil Ritchie, who was in command of the 8th army when it was driven out of Libya.

The Prime Minister's first choice, Lt.-Gen. William Henry Gott, was recommended in a telegram to the war cabinet. The cabinet, Mr. Churchill said, was endorsing the recommendation when Gen. Gott was killed in a plane shot down on the front.

The choice then fell on Lt.-Gen. Bernard Montgomery, whom Mr. Churchill called "one of our most accomplished soldiers."

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP Cable)—Prime Minister Churchill, replying to a member of the House of Commons who asked for "the total number of casualties among our troops at Dieppe," declared it is not the practice to give exact figures of casualties in men or material sustained in individual operations.

"I see no reason to depart form practice in the present instance," he added.

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that suggestions for appointment of a Commander-in-chief with full operational control over British land, sea and air forces for unified control in each area and for establishment of a supreme war council, are "of considerable interest."

The Prime Minister's statement was made during the question period.

He declined immediate answer to a question of Emmanuel Shinwell, Labor, whether United States land and air forces in Britain were "under American control exclusively or under British control."

Of the Duke of Kent, who was killed in the crash of a Sunderland flying boat while on a mission to Iceland, Mr Churchill said "his overpowering desire was to render useful service to King and Country."

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill will make a statement on the India situation at the next sitting of the House of Commons and the question will be debated later if the House so desires, Sir Stafford Cripps, Mr Churchill's Deputy in the Commons announced today.

Churchill Sought Easy Confidence With Russia

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP)—The main purpose of his mission to Moscow, Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today, was "to establish the same relations of easy confidence and perfect openness I have built up with Mr. Roosevelt."

Of Stalin, he said: "It is very fortunate for Russia to have this great, rugged war chief at her head. He is a man of inexhaustible courage and willpower and he is even blunt in speech . . . I believe I have made him feel that we are good and faithful comrades in this war.

"But that, after all, is a matter which deeds, not words, will prove."

Mr. Churchill said he and Russian leaders shared the conviction that in the British Empire, the United States and the Soviet Union Hitler has forced an alliance "strong enough to beat him to the ground and steadfast enough to persevere not only until his wickedness has been punished but until some, at least of the ruin he has wrought has been repaired."

Decisions on Second Front Were Made in London Last July

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — The White House announced today, after President Roosevelt had made it plain that preparations were under way for opening a second front in Europe, that the "necessary decisions regarding military operations" were made at a London conference between British and American officials in July.

The conferences, held with Prime Minister Churchill and the British Chiefs of Staff, lasted 10 days and covered the whole conduct of the war.

The United States Government was represented by Harry L. Hopkins as President Roosevelt's personal representative, Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, Chief of naval operations.

Stephen Early, Presidential Secretary, was in London at the same time conferring with Brendon Bracken, British Minister of Public Information.

The decisions on military operations were, of course, not revealed, although Mr. Roosevelt in his radio "Fireside Chat" last night pointed out there are at least a dozen different places at which attacks could be launched.

There was a probability that the metings, described by the White House as important, were related directly to the recent conferences in Moscow between Mr. Churchill, Premier Joseph Stalin and W. Averell Harriman, American Lend-Lease agent in England.

Clarifies Rules on New Ration Books

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—Forestalling a host of possible rationing questions, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board today issued a new order bringing rationing regulations up-to-date as the new ration books, now in the hands of every Canadian over the age of 12, went into effect.

The new Board order answers to a wide miscellany of points about which Canadians have been wondering since the new books were first issued.

Tea and coffee coupons in the permanent ration books are effective beginning Sept. 7 the Board said, but the coupons on temporary ration cards distributed last June are still valid. However, the emphasized that the tea and coffee coupons on the temporary books are each good for only one week's ration, while those in the permanent books each have the value of two weeks ration.

The new ration book coupons become valid only at intervals of four weeks the order said. Coupons 1 and 2 are good from Sept. 7 the next pair from Oct. 5, and so on up to the odd one, Nov. 12, which may be used on and after Feb. 22, 1943.

As each coupon covers two weeks supply it represents two ounces of tea of eight ounces of coffee or "that quantity of coffee concentrate or substitute containing coffee normally required to make 25 cups of beverage, the board said.

The following clarifying points were covered in the Board statement:

1. The tea-coffee coupons are not so marked only the sugar coupons being designated. Tea-coffee coupons are the second series in the book, green in color, and marked "Spare A."

2. Only children who were 12 years old on June 30 last can get the tea and coffee ration. This will hold until the new books come out, in March, 1943.

3. No ration book, card or coupon is valid after the death of the holder, when such book or card must be forwarded by his legal representative to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office.

4. If your ration book is destroyed or damaged and unfit for use, you must make a statutory declaration, on a form available at the Board offices, before receiving a new book. When this is issued it will not bear a serial number, and the former serial number must be entered on the new book.

5. Members of the armed forces on leave, and visitors to Canada may be issued temporary ration cards. The coupons attached to such cards may be used at any time, having no valid dates.

6. Consumers may leave their ration books with their retailer for safe-keeping with orders to detach coupons as deliveries are made.

7. An operator of a boarding house, if not registered as operator of an institution, may buy tea and coffee as a consumer, in which case each boarder will be deemed a person his "household."

8. After Oct. 1, all public eaters and institutions will obtain their tea and coffee supplies by drawing against a quota which will be set by the Supervisor of Rationing and based on the number of meals served during the previous quarter.

(Under the old order such persons were given a quota of 70 per cent of last year's consumption. The new procedure is established to provide greater flexibility, the Board said.)

9. No basic change is made in the procedure to be followed by retailers and others in replenishing their stocks but some minor changes have been effected "to simplify the routine."

Provisions for enforcement of the rationing orders are strengthened by new sub-sections, the Board said, one of which prohibits the possession by anyone, without lawful authority, of detached coupons, books or cards other than those issued to him or other persons in his household.

ancer Has Two xercises to eep Figure Slim

BY IDA JEAN KAIN

You can take your choice. You n eat and exercise, or you can and not exercise and lose your ure. It's in Ann Miller's con- ct to keep slim. She can't choose. t the way she sees it, any wo- n who doesn't exercise can't ep fit.

The talented dancer and new- mer to the films thinks the av- ge woman doesn't appreciate the fference exercise makes in the y she looks and feels simply be- use she has never had enough it. Ann sometimes works stead- y for several weeks on a nine- our day schedule to perfect a nce routine for a picture.

It's when she is resting up that e trouble comes. "I have to eat let when I am working that hard, nd of course, there's no way of lling my appetite to take it easy. o I keep right on eating just as uch. But instead of feeling good. feel loggy. I put on weight— ometimes as much as five pounds three days—and most of it hrough the thighs so that I get in y own way. And I pant when I xert myself in the slightest. It's e fun to be fat!"

In her holidays from dancing, nn has found the eating and ex- rcise combination works perfectly. "Why, I believe a woman could ven have glandular trouble and eep slim with exercise if she ould really do it!" But Ann isn't olling. She has only two that she oes, but she does one 100 times day, and about half that many ounts for the other one.

Here they are: Stand tall, feet part, arms stretched overhead, nd bend down to the left side to ouch right hand to floor on far ide of left foot. That makes you tretch and twist your waist and t's farewell to the inches. Straight- n up and swing down to the other ide. The second exercise is a var- ation of the same — stretch tall nd pull up with the stomach mus- les as you bend your trunk par- allel to floor, sides, then front. That's all!

Longevity . . .

Your Chances of a Golden Wedding

By Logan Glendening, M.D.

In this year of marriages and more marriages, presumably every young couple looks forward to the happiness of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. So far as hygiene and medical science are concerned, the chances are better than they ever were.

But as a strictly scientific proposition based on the lengthening of the life span and the phenomenon of longevity in out time (under natural, not warlike conditions), the chances of a golden wedding, according to statistics, are twice as good as they were.

The causes and factors which enter into this improvement are many. Few of us realize what a revolution in healthy living habits has taken place since 1890. Food is better, more plentiful, more varied, due to a better transportation and refrigeration. There are no seasonal variations in our food supply.

People have learned more sensible eating habits, The infectious disease are under control. Maternal mortality is greatly improved and we have smaller families. Childbearing put a great strain on the wife of a few generations ago. My grandfather married and had six or seven children till his wife gave up and died. Then he married a widow with one child and they proceeded to foist on a frontier community six more children. It certainly made a mix-up as to who was the cousin of whom in my generation, but that was a mild case. With families of a dozen or more with one mother, the women simply couldn't take it.

QUSETIONS AND ANSWERS

H. N.: 1. Is there any cure for an enlarged thyroid gland besides surgery? 2. Is this considered a very serious operation, and about how long would one be away from work to have it done? 3. Is there any point in treating the nervous and depressed condition brought on by the goiter, or can this only be remedied by removal of the cause of the trouble? Does this nervous condition gradually grow worse until the gland is removed? 4. Is not the thyroid gland an important organ of one's system, and would not the removal of it impair certain functions and thus cause a great decrease or increase of weight?

Answer: There are many kinds of enlarged thyroid glands. Some are simple and due to lack of iodine in the food. I take it from what you say that yours, being accompanied by nervousness, is of the type in which excessive thyroid secretion is absorbed into the blood. Most of these cases eventually return to normal. Although the time required is quite long, on the average four years. Surgical removal in most cases causes a rapid disappearance of symptoms. It is considered a major operation. The entire gland is not removed, so the worries suggested in your fourth question are not important. There is another type of enlarged thyroid which does not get better with rest and time and should be removed immediately. So you see your question was not an easy one to answer. That is why I think all such questions should be answered by the family physician, who has an opportunity to judge what kind of case he is dealing with.

Destroy Gall Bearing Turnip

BY DEAN HALLIDAY

Turnips will continue to grow long after corn and tomatoes are killed by frost. However, the roots will not stand a hard freeze and they can be stored before the ground freezes. They can be stored just like carrots or potatoes.

Storing turnips from Victory gardens

This Garden-Graph shows a turnip deformed by the galls caused by the gall weevil. Turnips found bearing galls, or with club roots, should be destroyed when harvested. The soil where the deformed turnips grew should be treated with quick lime, using one bushel of lime to one rod of soil area.

Wartime Hints . . .

Using Less Sugar May Help Figure

Remember girls, less sugar, fewer bulges. So even if the day comes when you cannot get the kind of foundation garment you like best, the fact that you won't be able to eat as much sugar may simplify your problem!

So far, sugar rationing has demanded greater sacrifice of the woman who lives in the country and does all her own baking, than it has of her sisters who can eke out their sugar supply by buying cakes, pies and cookies at the nearest bake shop. Now, however, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has authorized a 20 per cent reduction in industrial consumption of sugar so there will not be so many sweet things available in the shops. Not only will bakers have to manage with a 20 per cent sugar cut but so will the people who make candy and other confectionery, the manufacturers of soft drinks and the fruit canning companies.

Because hard physical work calls for quick energy, some adjustment is being made in the allowance of sugar to sailors, fishermen and workers in lumber and construction camps. This quick energy is not needed by people living less energetic outdoor lives.

One tablespoon of sugar equals half an ounce. If every person in Canada cut his consumption of sugar by one ounce a day, approximately 718,750 pounds could be saved, which over a period of one year would amount to the enormous total of approximately 262,343,750 pounds of sugar.

The following tested sugarless recipes are supplied by the Department of Agriculture's Consumer Section.

HONIED BAKED APPLES

Choose good firm cooking apples. Wash, dry with cloth. Remove cores but do not peel. Cut small slits around the apple with a sharp peeling knife. Or the prongs of a fork. Place apples in a shallow greased baking dish. Put one teaspoon of honey and one teaspoon of butter in the centre of each cored apple. Add about half a cup of boiling water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until soft. Baste frequently during cooking. Serve hot or chilled.

APPLE SAUCE CAKE

¼ cup honey, 1-3rd cup shortening, one egg, one cup thick apple sauce (unsweetened) 2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon nutemeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup raisins (seeded).

Thoroughly cream honey and and shortening. Add egg, beat well, add apple sauce alternately with sifted dry ingredients and floured raisins. Pour into a well greased cake tin. Bake one hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

CANADIANS ON SUGAR RATION

The sugar ration announced by the Sugar Administrator, S. R. Noble amounts to three-quarters of a pound per person, per week. This equals three-and-a-half tablespoons a day.

One pound of white sugar equals two cups.

One pound of brown sugar equals two and two-thirds cups.

Three-quarters of a pound of brown sugar equals two cups.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (CP)— Public houses here are serving drinks in jam jars, of all things, because too many glasses are being stolen and can't be replaced. A man was fined $13.50 for stealing pub glasses.

SERIAL STORY . . . . . By ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

YOU ARE THE ONE

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

After that brief, unexpected encounter with Tibby, Steena went on into the women's locker room to change from her uniform to street clothes. She still had a vague and troubled feeling tugging at her heart or consricence. She felt that she should have said more than "Do please be careful Tibby," when she found that Tibby was going up alone in that silver ship. Steena should have tried to dissuade her—or perhaps gone with her, although there was no reason for her to feel this way. If Tibby felt confident that she could pilot the plane when Wayne was away, it certainly was none of Steena's business.

Yet she dressed much more rapidly than usual, taking only a few minutes with her toilette and her makeup matters. There were deep circles beneath her green eyes, for Steena had not been sleeping well lately, any more than had Tibby—her face was unusually pale. Love certainly played havoc with a woman's appearance. It either gave her an added lustre or robbed her of her radiance entirely. It was because of Wayne that Steena looked as she did now.

Tibby had not looked any too good either, Steena reflected, further. There had been no radiance about her, no soft shining stars in her brown eyes. She was not happy. Could it be that she was unhappy because she had promised to marry Wayne? Steena still believed that it was Tommy Dare whom Tibby loved.

Maybe, in trying to bring things to the right ending, Steena had unwittingly brought about the wrong one. Maybe she should have left well enough alone, not tried to force that ending with her silly campaign. Maybe she should have told Tibby, when they had met just now, that she was not engaged to Tommy, that it had all been a mistake.

That would have been the decent thing to do. It would, at least, have put everything on a fair, clean basis. It would have eased her conscience, that was nagging at her. As she left the locker room, Steena still had that troubled, uneasy feeling.

She could still tell Tibby, straighten things out that much at least. If she put it off she might never tell her. She might lose this mood, that was indeed a rare one with Steena, and decide to let her conscience take care of itself.

The silver ship was in the air, Steena caught its bright glint, high in the sky, against the deep blue. Maybe that was why Tibby had taken it up, to get away from the earth, which must look even smaller and further away to her. Maybe she had had to get away. Steena could understand that feeling of wanting to cast the world aside, with all its petty problems, its complexities, and heartaches, that urgent need to try to escape. If Tibby were unhappy, too, she must feel that way. Steena, who had never experienced unhappiness until now, in having lost Wayne, knew that feeling all too well.

Training . . .

Keeping a Child Off Streets

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Outside your house is a street or highway. You want your little child to stay on your lawn or the sidewalk. How may it be done?

It can be done best if you begin as soon as he goes outdoors to play.

Budget your time for the next several weeks so as to be always with him when he is outside. Don't begin the training until you are ready to do it well—so well that he will learn not to step off the curb or leave the lawn unless guarded properly.

When you are ready to train him to be safe alone outdoors, do as follows: Go out on the lawn with the child, preferably when no one else is around. Have him take along a few playthings. First, take him near the curb. Tell him just once he must not step into the street.

IMMEDIATE PUNISHMENT NECESSARY

If no car is approaching, let him step into the street, each time he chooses to do so, but the moment he does, smack him right then and there. To be effective, it must really hurt. After his punishment, call to his attention his toys.

Your purpose is not just to keep him out of the street now. You are there and could pull him away. Your purpose is to make him connect pain with stepping off the curb unprotected so the act will no longer be attractive to him but painful, whether you are there or not. You want to teach him to choose to keep himself out of the street.

SOLVING PARENT PROBLEMS

Q. What do you consider a good means of keeping girls of high school age balanced emotionally respecting men in uniform?

A. Wholesome mingling for good times among many boys and girls in homes and other desirable places during the early teens and now; sympathetic, companionable relationship with their parents. A special list of books on understanding the teen-age boy and girl may be had by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Asks Time Off for Employees to Register Next Week

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP) — Mrs. Rex Eaton, assistant director of National Selective Service today issued a statement advising all householders employing domestic help to allow their female employees special time off to register in the Sept. 14-19 national registration of women from 20 to 24 years old.

Women who registered with the unemployment insurance commission last Spring will not be required to register again if they are still working for wages or salary, but domestics did not register then and now are compelled to do so.

If domestics were not given a few special hours off at one time during the week of registration, the registration offices would be glutted on certain hours. Apart from causing inconvenience to registrars, this will make it difficult to give individual women "as full and fair an interview as would otherwise be possible."

Mrs. W.A. Ward of Procter Boosts Soldier Hospital

Mrs. W. A. Ward of Procter is active in urging the establishment of a military hospital in the Kootenays, and after taking up the proposal with W. K. Esling, M.P. for Kootenay West, has written to the Nelson Board of Trade as follows:

"Referring to our conversation of recent date and the advice of W. K. Esling, M.P., to write the Nelson Board of Trade in connection with the proposed military hospital in the Kootenays:

"I would like to have the Board of Trade consider the Outlet Hotel at Procter as a site for the proposed hospital.

"The hotel has an unlimited gravity supply of good water; railroad facilities a few yards from the back door; 5½ acres of shore line land and more available; and is in the restricted area; has the finest of fishing and boating; and there are fresh fruit orchards a short stroll from the hotel.

"Another item of great possibility is that Mrs. Cronin of Procter holds a letter from Mr. J. Witmore, Civil Engineer of the C. M. & S. Company as to the existance of hot springs on her property, a distance of three blocks from the Outlet Hotel.

"When discussing the proposed hospital, wish you would keep the Outlet Hotel in mind."

Cost of Living Figures

With its comprehensive wage and price ceilings policy Canada had a cost-of-living increase from Jan. 1 of this year until June 1 of 1.3 per cent. It rose from 115.4 to 116.7.

During the same period the United States cost-of-living increased 4 per cent. In the United States the price ceiling policy was introduced considerably later than in Canada, and is far less comprehensive in its scope.

In the year fom June 1, 1941 to June 1, 1942, the increase in Canada was 6.2 per cent. Price ceilings were effective after October. During the same epriod the increase in the United States was 11.9 per cent.

Canada's June 1 cost-of-living figure of 116.7 compares with 121.7 in 1929, and 150.5 in 1920.

Unique Finish Possible in Major Leagues

Sport page readers, who are watching the terrific pace of the St. Louis Cardinals — who have won 28 of their last 34 games, and as this is written are 2½ games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers — may yet see something unprecedented in Major League baseball.

Not infrequently a Major League pennant-winner ends the season with a record of 100 victories. If the pennant-winner emerges with two-thirds of its games won, it will get into the coveted three figures, if it completes its 154-game schedule.

Last year the New York Yankees "touched par" in the American League, while the Dodgers, with 99 wins, "nosed" it, so to speak, but didn't quite get over the bar.

In 1940 the Cincinnati Reds had 100 wins to 53 losses in the National League, while in the American, a red-hot race kept winning totals down, and Detroit Tigers took the pennant with 90 victories, to 89 for Cleveland Indians, and 88 for the Yankees. Two others were only eight games behind the winner.

There was not a 100-game winner in 1938, the Yankees taking the American League pennant with 99 victories, and the Chicago Cubs winning the National with 89 victories, to 86 for the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were only one full game behind.

With the present pennant-races in the stretch, and less than three weeks to the tape, there is not only a possibility, but a probability, of three clubs making the coveted par. The Dodgers, with 92 wins so far, need but eight more out of their remaining 20 games, to make the mark. Their fast-coming rivals, the Cardinals, have 90 wins, and 19 games left in which to get 10 more—and lately they have been winning almost five out of six. And in the American League the Yankees, with 91 wins, need but nine from their remaining 18 games, which is asking the League leaders only for a 50 per cent gait from here to the tape.

Anxious, Trail—In order to sit for the barber's examinations that are held in Vancouver periodically, can a student barber who has graduated from a barber school on a premises—putting in 1900 hours of practical experience—sit for his first exam, or does he need other requirements such as an apprenticeship period, professional period etc.?

To sit for the exams he must have put in 1000 hours apprenticeship or experience in shop. The exams are held every three months. For information as to requirements, etc., write B. C. Barbers' Association, 441 Seymour Street, Vancouver.

B. W. S., Trail—Could you give me a method for keeping beef? I have heard it can be salted and would like to know how it can be done

Beef Pickle: To each gallon of water add one and a half pounds of salt; one half pound of sugar; one half ounce of saltpeter and one half ounce of potash. Let these be boiled together and skim scum off the top. Let cool, and when cold pour over the meat and let remain for four or five weeks. The meat must be well covered with the pickle, and should not be put down for at least two days after killing, during which time it should be slightly sprinkled with saltpeter, which removes all the surface blood, etc., leaving the meat fresh and clean. Some omit boiling the pickle, and find it to answer as well, though the operation of boiling purifies the pickle by throwing off the dirt always found in salt and sugar.

Mexico Plans a New University

(Mexico News)

Preliminary work has started for the creation of the University of the North which will have its seat in Monterrey, for the committee in charge of studying all phases, cultural, economic capacity, etc., of this proposition has completed its assignment and rendered its report to Lic. Octavio Vejar Vazquez, Minister of Public Education.

This University will be established under the direct patronage of the Ministry, for it was decided that it is essential to provide the frontier zone of the country with an institution of this nature and with two essential objects: the first, to prevent young Mexicans of this zone going to the United States, thereby forsaking their country, to gain higher education, and second, to relieve the congestion of students at the National University of Mexico.

It is proposed that the University of Monterrey attend students not only of Nuevo Leon, but of Chihuhua, Tamaulipas, Coahuila and Durango, and perhaps extend its services to other zones of the center of the country. Financing and sustaining this institution will be primarily by the Federal Government, that of Nuevo Leon, and by contributions from private interests of industry, banking and commerce.

Press Comment

AN EXAMPLE FOR CANADA

The British Government has lifted the ban on the Daily Worker, organ of the Communist party. That newspaper has been suppressed since the early days of the war, when it was following the then—Moscow—line and undermining the war effort. The maintenance of the ban long after the original justification for it had been removed was one of those minor anomalies which exist in Britain as elsewhere.

In Britain, of course, the Communist Party itself is legal. In the United States the same condition prevails. In all other British countries, except Canada, there is no ban on the party which represents the same political philosophy as that which inspires the people of Soviet Russia.

Even in India the Communist Party was legalized shortly before the beginning of the present crisis. It is an ironical fact that the Communist Party is the only organization (other than the all-Moslem group) which is openly opposed to the Congress Party's demonstration for immediate self-government.

There was some excuse for the original ban on the Communist Party in Canada. In this country, as in others the orthodox Communists were pursuing a policy of obstruction, which has proved doubly wrong in the light of events. It weakened our war effort hen, with the result that our net strength was weaker when Russia was plunged into the war on our side than it would have been had the Communists shown more common sense. But the fact is that all this is ancient history. For the past fourteen months there has been no legitimate reason for the supression of the Communist party in Canada. To maintain it now is utterly ridiculous—and especially in view of Britain's latest act.—Vancouver News-Herald.

THEY JUST WENT TO WORK

The Montreal Star prints a story from Washington that might well have an application elsewhere.

When President Roosevelt drafted Bernard Baruch, President Conant of Harvard and President Comptod of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a supreme committee of three to handle the rubber crisis, these men did not wait to engage a staff, organize a secretariat, hunt up office space and open a publicity department. Hatless and coatless, they went to work at once on a park bench in Washington. They were hard at it before even the alert newspaper corps at the Capitol suspected they were in action.

With Japan in possession of most of the sources from which their country drew its rubber, and with the war demands for rubber growing hourly, these men made the right kind of a start. Setting an example to the new government bureaus springing up on all sides, and putting a premium on office space, they just went to work.—Victoria Times.

IMPARTIAL VICHY

The Vichy official who recently penned a protest to Washington on American participation in R.A.F. raid on Roeun is the same official who congratulates Hitler on repelling the "invasion" of Dieppe. Yes, and the same one, likely, who eagerly opens diplomatic mail pouches from Vichy's Legation in Ottawa and steams the contents for news of what Canada is, or isn't doing.—Windsor Star.

LACK OF PRIVACY EXPLAINED

Says Pat Egan Is Hated by Boxla Fans

By SCOTT YOUNG

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP)— The word is about that the Canadian Basketball Association may be next major sports organization to fold up for the duration. . . . It has been more difficult to keep going than some others, because for many years only British Columbia, Ontario, and Quebec have been producing good teams. . . . Box Lacrosse has the same trouble but there are no signs of retrenchment in that sport. . . . Guess anyone connected with boxla is too tough to retreat. . . . He plays defence for Vancouver Norvans, the club New Westminster Salmonbellies are playing in the coast final. Strangely enough, the referees treat him like a little angel. He had only 18 minutes in penalties this season. . . . Mayor Fred Hume of New Westminster has promised the Salmonbellies he'll fly them East for the boxla playoffs if they win the B.C. crown. . . . That'll make New Westminster's two Orillia-trained players, Bill Wilkes (Orillia) and Ed Downey (St. Catharines), hit the opposish with increased enthusiasm.

Nelson Anglers Get Trout

Nelson anglers marked up at least two catches for Main Lake fishing trips over the Labor Day weekend.

Ballantyne's catch was weighed in for the Gyro Derby by Mrs. W. A. Ward at Procter, while Murray's was weighed by O. C. Thomas at Balfour. These were the first catches reported in over two weeks.

It was also reported that R. A. Heighton of Procter recently boated a 7½ pound trout, and three smaller fish; while in late August W. H. Harkness of Nelson took an eight pound, 13 ounce Kamloops on a pearl wobbler off the Lime Quarry. The latter catch was weighed in by Mrs. Ward.

Louis, Conn to Meet In First Title Battle Between Two Soldiers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — Corporal Joe Louis and Pte. Bill Conn will meet in New York's Yankee Stadium Oct. 12 in the first heavyweight championship match in ring history between two soldiers.

The War Department gave its official blessing to the bout today in an announcement which said the return match of one of the best title tusses in recent years would be fought for the benefit of army emergency relief. The entire net proceeds of a gate which is expected to reach at least $500,000 and may go as high as $1,000,000 will be turned over to the fund. Neither of the fighters, or, for that matter, any "private interest," will receive any return.

Tickets for the bout, which probably will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the Columbus Day holiday will be scaled from $3 to $40.

At the Fort Riley, Kas., cavalry replacement training centre where he is stationed Louis said the War Department announcement was "the first I'd heard of it" and added a quick "that's swell" when told all proceeds would go to the army emergency relief.

"I'm in good shape," he said. "About 12 or 16 pounds overweight and I'm usually about 10 pounds heavier anyway when I'm not training. This army work's kept me in good condition."

Mike Jacobs has been designated as promoter, said the Department announcement and a committee of sports writers headed by Grantland Rice has been appointed to handle arrangements.

Louis will train for the bout at the Greenwood Lake (N.Y.) base he used for virtually all of his fights before he joined the army. Conn will do his preparatory chores at a camp Promoter Jacobs will construct on his Rumson, N.J., estate.

The fight has been regarded as a static "natural" ever since June 1941 when the two met the first time. On that occasion, Conn went far out in front through the first 12 rounds almst flooring Louis in the 12th, but ran afoul of Joe's knockout punch in the 13th.

Pro Golfers Plan Another Tour in Winter Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Unless unforseen conditions arise, the pro golfers will have another tournament tour on their program next Winter. Fred Corcoran, tournament manager, says he has received word from sponsors in California that they would like to continue their events if possible, the tournaments including the Los Angeles, Oakland, San Francisco and Bing Crosby opens.

Corcoran right now is directing a tour which he expects will raise $100,000 for United States service charities. Crosby and Bob Hope, both better than fair golfers, will be the extra-special gate attractions, and will perform with such established stars as Byron Nelson Walter Hagen, Jimmy Demaret and Lawson Little.

And as added gate bait, Crosby will sing on the 18th greens assuring a turnout of lads and lassies to the roar of the crowd he had completed the longest game in the Piedmont books, had finished with 20 straight scoreless innings, given only 11 hits.

Stan Allibone Photographed With Dempsey

ROSSLAND, B. C., Sept. 8 —Sgt. Stanley Allibone, a former Rossland baker, who is spending his leave with his wife and family, who now reside in Trail, has been in Rossland several times this past week renewing of acquaintence.

Mr. Allibone was a sports' enthusiast, and while living in Rossland trained several local boys for boxing, including Sgt. Pilot William (Chesty) Coulter, Trooper Jack Richardson, and Richard Ayres, who all entered in Kootenay boxing cards. He also took them to Vantouver for pro-rec finals where they each made good showings.

Recently Stan was on an exhibition card put on by his training centre, which was refereed by Jack Dempsey. Stan had his photo taken with the Manassa Mauler, and it appeared in recent issues of National Home Monthly and Life Magazines.

Yanks, Dodgers Each Add Half Game to Leads

The pace-setters in the Major League pennant race—New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers—each added half a game to their leads Tuesday.

Brooklyn did it the "hard way," downing Pittsburgh 4-0, thereby moving three full games in front of the surging St. Louis Cardinals, who were idle. The Yanks had their half-game bulge handed to them. They took the day off while second-place Boston was losing a "tight" duel to Washington Senators 15-11. This left the Yanks 9½ games in front.

Since the bombers have only 16 games left to play and Boston has only 15, yesterday's loss just added another signature to the "death warrant" of the Red Sox pennant hopes. At the moment, the American League chase looks like this:

New York

New York	93	46	—	16
Boston	84	55	9½	15

The National League championship hinges largely on the end-of-the-week series the Dodgers and Cards will play at Brooklyn. By their victory yesterday, the Brooklyns left the chase this way:

Young Hurler Goes 22 Innings, 20 of Them Scoreless

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Sept. 8 (AP) —It was the last day of the Piedmont League season and, with their places in the standings already settled, Charlotte and Asheville were just playing out the string; so manager Harry Smythe started his red-headed second-string catcher Odell Barbary on the mound.

The other players were shifted out of position and the game was strictly for fun until along in the 12th inning, with the score 3-3, Smythe realized he had a ball game on his hands and "old red," 20, was still pitching. Players were moved back to their regular jobs and Barbary began bearing down.

In the last of the 22nd, a brace of doubles got Red the run he needed. When he trudged off the field

Cardinals Report Two Casualties

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)— St. Louis Cardinals brought two casualties to town with them today as they arrived for their important series with the Giants and their crucial set with Brooklyn Dodgers.

Manager Billy Southworth reported that shortstop Marty Marion injured leg, was still ailing and that Ernie White's southpaw pitching arm was sore.

Scribes Have Pat on Back for Pat

Coast scribes after the weekend's 13-11 Norvan triumph over Salmonbellies in the Inter-city League boxla finals opener at New Westminster had many kind words to say about bumptious Pat Egan, who Nelson sports fans like to remember as a former star hockey and boxla player here.

Says Al Windsor of the Sun about our Pat, "Hit it Professor—a salute to that solid citizen of sport, Pat Egan.

"The accomplished Brooklyn puckster entered another hall of fame last night at Queen's Park Arena, in fact, he practically tore the joint down, as he led the fighting Norvans lacrosse team to a 13-11 overtime victory over Salmonbellies in the first game of the Intercity League finals"—and on and on.

It appears Patrick, besides dealing out minor mayhem to the opposition, sank the tying goal just 13 seconds before the final bell to tie the count 8-all. Besides that, and an earlier goal, he scored another in the overtime.

Bert Bryant, another former Nelsonite, also scored one during the battle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (CP) —Sam Breadon insists he and Branch Rickey haven't come to a parting of the ways, in spite of all rumors, but he adds, "just supposing there wasn't any minors next year, you wouldn't need a farm head, would you?"

In eight main bouts at Madison Square Garden, Frizzie Zivic has drawn an average gate of $48,000. . . . Jock Semple, the marathon runner, works a 10-hour day as a ship joiner in Boston and then runs 10 miles to his home in Lynn to save gas. . . . SHOW HIM YOUR ENTRY

YOUR PARTNER'S bidding and first few plays may show you the desirability of having an entry, so you may make some particular lead at the right stage of the defense. If you have such an entry, it can pay you to show its location to him, by means of a low or high discard on some trick, by a high-low signal in following to a particular suit, or otherwise. Thus you enable him to plan his own defense efficiently, and at the expense of the declarer.

	♠ A ♥ Q 4 3 ♦ Q 6 2 ♣ A K 10 9 8 6
♠ Q 5 ♥ A J 9 7 5 2 ♦ K 4 ♣ 7 3 2	N W E S	♠ K 9 7 6 3 2 ♥ 10 ♦ A 10 8 5 3 ♣ Q
	♠ J 10 8 4 ♥ K 8 6 ♦ J 9 7 ♣ J 5 4

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
3 ♣	3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	Pass	Dbl

East decided to leave that double in, for fear he and his partner had terrific misfit hands and that further bidding from him might only cause deeper trouble. North took his club K and then, after looking at the dummy, was torn between two ideas. Would he jeopardize his own trump Q by leading a heart to prevent West from ruffing a club in dummy? Or would he lay down his spade A, with the idea that he might get a ruff or two himself? He decided on playing his spade A, then led the diamond 2, which West took with the K.

As expected, West then ruffed the club 3 with the dummy's lone heart, called the diamond A and got back to his own hand with a diamond ruff. He laid down the heart A and then the heart J. There was the crucial trick, deciding whether the contract went down one or two tricks, but North didn't know it. He played low, letting South win with the K. South now cashed the club J and returned his spade J, which North ruffed with the heart Q. That ended the trick-taking by the defenders, and West was down only one, the defense getting two tricks with clubs, one with the spade A and two with their trumps, one of which was the ruff with the heart Q.

If North had looked closely, he would have seen South put the 5 on the first club lead, and the 4 on the later one, which West ruffed. That should have told North that South had either a doubleton or the club J, which could be an entry. Had he done that, he should have taken the eighth trick, to which West led the heart J, with his Q. He then could have put South in the lead with a small club to the J and South could have returned a spade to be ruffed by the heart 4. Later South would have scored his heart K. In other words, North, by letting South win the first trump led to his side, had nothing to ruff with but his Q. By taking the first heart himself, however, North would have been able to ruff with a small card and thus the side's trumps would have scored three tricks instead of two.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ J 10 3 ♥ A 7 6 4 ♦ Q J 6 ♣ A J 6

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If you passed East's hand originally because you had hidden the spade K behind your clubs when you valued the hand, what would you do on your next turn if South bid 1-No Trump, West over-called with 2-Spades and North passed?

In case of a fire the siren will sound steadily for 40 seconds. A 20-second signal will denote "fire out."

The signals will come into effect Sept. 15.

Chinese Push Japs Back to Funkai

CHUNGKING, Sept. 8 (AP)—Japanese troops in Kwangtung province have retreated to Funkai, 18 miles North of the important coastal city of Canton, a Chinese Army spokesman said today.

In Chekiang province, the Japanese continued to reinforce the troops defending Kinwha, about 50 miles East of the important air base of Chuhsien which the Chinese have recaptured.

Allied fighters challenged Japanese planes attempting to raid the Hunan province city of Hengyang yesterday morning, precipitating a fierce air battle, Central News reported.

Results of the battle were not given but it was said that Hengyang and other cities were held under a three-hour alarm starting at 6 a.m. as Japanese planes visited the province. Eight of the aircraft strafed Lingling near the Kwangsi border and subjected Shaoyang, Northwest of Hengyang, to the same treatment.

Russia Given Credit for Canadian Wheat by New Pact

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP Cable)—A credit agreement under which Russia may draw up to approximately 9,000,000 bushels of hard Spring wheat or flour was signed at Canada House today by representatives of the Canadian and Soviet Governments.

High Commissioner Vincent Massey and Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky signed the agreement, the first major wheat deal ever negotiated between the countries, at a brief formal ceremony culminating eight months of negotiations

Terms of the agreement were not announced but a statement released to the press said the British Ministry of Food had undertaken to act as agents for the Dominion and that some deliveries had already been made. The wheat is of the same quality as that supplied the United Kingdom. The announcement said:—

"Conclusion of the agreement is a source of great satisfaction to both parties and it is to be hoped it may be the forerunner to closer economic relations in better times to come."

The credit, understood to approximate $10,000,000 is believed to be more or less an interim loan which may be increased later if Russia is unable to feed her people from her own supplies or from wheat delivered under Lease-Lend agreement with the United States.

It is possible, too, that when supplied by the United States may be supplemented by Canadian wheat through an agreement similar to that under which Canada produced tanks and other munitions for Lease-Lend.

The Germans have overrun the best of Russia's wheat-growing provinces and it will take years for the Soviet Union to restore them to full production after the war. Canada may well serve as one of her grainaries during that period.

The Ministry of Food, by agreeing to act as agents, has taken the delivery problem off the Canadian Government's hands.

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—Government officials said today they look upon the new credit agreement under which Russia will draw on Canadian wheat supplies up to about 9,000,000 bushels of wheat or flour as a major development in the United Nations' program of mutual assistance.

Considerable amounts of Canadian wheat—the exact bushelage has never been given out—have already been moved to Russia, being sent via the United Kingdom to Northern Russian ports where it is made available for the feeding of Soviet troops.

Keep the Letters Coming Says Gunner Buckna

"Everyone has been doing a grand job in writing and sending us smokes, parcels and letters but I must once more put the emphasis on "keep the letters coming', writes Gnr. Joseph Buckna from England.

"The health of the Kootenay lads here is indeed excellent and all wish to be remembered to their friends and loved ones back home. Training of all kinds keeps us in good trim and I must say under the circumstances we have not fared badly at all.

"The lads are all eager for action and I'm sure will be ready to 'hit the ball' when the time comes. So many speak of a second front immediately but I'm sure that every possible angle is being taken into consideration and as the Nazis have 10 years start on us we will hit them "where the hitting is the hardest and at the right time".

Interpreting

The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Sifting the Roosevelt and Churchill war summaries for their dominant note, there can be no doubt that it is to be found in the conviction both men expressed that hard-pressed Russia can and will hold out to shatter Hitler's conquest dream.

That necessarily is the bed-rock foundation of Anglo-American planning to destroy Hitler's power "on European battlefields," as President Roosevelt said. It is the keystone of the arch of offensive action being built; the vital element of decisions already taken in Washington and London.

"I can now say," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that all of these decisions are directed toward taking the offensive."

The element in the struggle in Russia, aside from Russian endurance and fighting genius, which appears to have made the biggest impression on President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill is the Nazi time loss.

"This is Sept. 8," Mr. Churchill commented,

"Millions of German troops seem doomed to spend another cruel and bitter Winter on the Russian front," said President Roosevelt. "The Russians are killing more Germans and destroying more airplanes and tanks than are being smashed on any other front."

It so happens that the Churchill summary came on the first anniversary of Nazi investment of Leningrad. Berlin announced it had been "completely cut off", on Sept. 8 last; yet today it is free of encirclement and its garrison ceaselessly on the attack.

The Germans were reported last September in the suburbs of Leningrad with only 15 miles of flat country between them and their goal. They were as close to Leningrad and its embattled population as they now are to Stalingrad; but they never reached it.

That year general rains along the whole Russian front were reported by mid-September. The Nazi war machine ground forward, nevertheless, to take Kiev, closely threatening Moscow. On Oct. 2 Hitler bugled from his Russian headquarters that "today begins the last great decisive battle of this year." The next day in Berlin he uttered the famous boast that Russia was "already broken and will never rise again."

Twenty days later Hitler bulletins were noting snow and freezing weather to excuse failure to take Moscow, but he had overruled his generals to take supreme command himself and press on against all such Winter portents. By Nov. 22 his troops were in Rostov, the "gateway to the Caucasus" now far behind them; but just a week later his armies were in general retreat before a Russia he said would "never rise again."

It is that bitter German experience of 1941 which best illustrates what both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill had in mind in noting the time element in Russia. Hitler now is holding vastly more extended lines than he held last September or in November when the Winter halted him. He needs more men, more planes and more supplies in Russia now than last year; nor is there any prospect he can disengage them for use in the West or in Egypt.

And in Egypt, although Mr. Churchill made only guarded reference to it, the possibility of an annihilating counter blow at Rommel's African corps is looming.

Coupled with Wendell Willkie's disclosure from Turkey that Rommell lost more than a third of his first-line tanks in his recent frustrated attempt to turn the British flank in Egypt, Mr. Churchill's report on a completely rebuilt and strengthened British 8th army there poised to seize any opportunity, is significant. He seems to expect swift and favorable developments soon.

Total income taxes accruing from Australia's dual system of Commonwealth and provincial taxation is estimated at $56,540,000.

Explanation of Atlantic Charter Given Rotary by Rev. Silverwood

"The two outstanding leaders of the world, Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt, have publicly joined in recognising that the destruction of Nazi tyranny is not the all sufficient end of the present struggle," said Rev. W. J. Silverwood Tuesday when he addressed members of the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon, on the Atlantic Charter and the Post War World.

"I am glad that this has been emphasized," he said, "because much talk about getting rid of Hitler and his gang is just sentimental nonsense. Their elimination is just a means to an end, the establishment of a better world order, and the Atlantic Charter needs to be subjected to constructive criticism, for this is the right way and the privilege of free men."

DURABLE PEACE

Mr. Silverwood maintained that the Charter "seeks to enlist us all in the greatest of all causes, the attainment of a durable peace, aside from the mere defence of material things. The ultimate object of the Charter is the assurance that all men in all lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want, and this in turn requires for all improved labor standards, economic advancement and social security.

Mr. Silverwood emphasked that "the old politico-economic order has failed, and all the King's horses and all the King's men cannot put it together again.

"When you have economic and spiritual maladjustments, engendered by social ills, exploitations, tariff barriers and racial discriminations, some form of explosion is bound to occur. Throughout the whole world the hope and opportunity of youth was curtailed and the security of the mature was impaired. It would appear that the world's most tragic deficit is moral and spiritual; because of this deficit we have failed to achieve a spiritual leadership of the multitudes who everywhere demand that a way be found to save them and their children from the misery and starvation and degredation of body and soul and the violent death which economic disorder and recurring war now wreak upon man."

Mr. Silverwood's solution was for "some form of organization that will exist by the consent of all the nations that will accept a duty to seek first the general welfare, of putting the general welfare above loyalty to their particular nation, and which will support the moral support of all.

WANTS A SUPREME ORGANIZATION

"Some supreme responsibility, some supreme organization must be established if peace is to endure. The Axis powers may enjoy and for a time continue to enjoy the military initiative, but we can offset all this by a moral and intellectual initiative; our ills have been well diagnosed, we need to show the will and capacity to apply the remedies, and most of us are getting a faint idea of what those remedies are."

Sgt.-Air Gunner Jack Argyle was a guest at the luncheon; and Dr. F. P. Sparks, who has just returned from taking a post-graduate course at Edmonton, and Flying Officer J. T. Anderton of Medicine Hat were also guests.

President K. C. McCannell was in the chair.

Pearkes' Main Aim Is to Get His Troops Ready for Action

VICTORIA, Sept. 8 (CP)—Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., newly-appointed Commander-in-Chief of West Coast defences, in an interview today expressed his determination of "putting heart and soul into the work of getting myself and my troops into condition for the inevitable day when they will go into action."

Gen. Pearkes, former Commander of the 1st division overseas, arrived her Sunday after flying from Britain. He said he would not predict the West Coast would be invaded but "we won't win this war by sitting down."

"I don't know where it's going to end but certainly the troops here are not just for home defence," he said. "We've got to fight somewhere."

Gen. Pearkes said his first job, one which he is undertaking immediately, is to inspect coast defences in all their phases.

There's no difference between a General and a private. After all, we're all in it together doing the particular job to which we have been called; but I am going to insist upon alertness."

Gen. Pearkes said he was impressed by the development he had been able to see in his flight across Canada, mentioning the vast airfields and training centres, the huge industrial plants and general air of high activity.

"It is very important that every one of us, soldier and civilian do his own job with all his might. That's what will win," said Gen. Pearkes.

"Another thing that pleased me was that the first parade of troops I saw here was a church parade. It was symbolic because I don't think we can win the war without divine assistance. We must look upon it in the nature of a crusade."

Gen. Pearkes said he looked upon his command "as a second front," but would not expand that remark.

"I want stout-hearted soldiers here," he went on. "They are more important than defensive earthworks. We know men can't fight in this war without armor. It would be useless slaughter. But neither can armor fight without brave men.

"By stout-hearted men I mean men of high morale, well-trained tactically and in the use of weapons and, above all, physically fit. Not physically fit to play and win games but fit to stand privation.

"It is my view that discipline and morale are intimately linked. Not barrack square discipline but battle discipline under which a man will consider it more of a crime to be slack in action than on the parade ground.

"I believe in saluting. It makes for alertness. I always salute my fellow soldiers and say "good morning" when I do so. It's one way to get to know them, something I intend to do."

Germans Take Crack at Sweden

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—German propaganda delivered a sharp attack today upon neutral Sweden, a Berlin transocean broadcast quoting German Foreign Office circles as saying that "Sweden has the honor of being at present the active central comintern in Europe."

(The Comintern is the International organization of the Communist Party with Headquarters in Moscow.)

Transocean said today's critical words from the Foreign Office followed a sharp attack by the same source a few days ago over what was described as anti-German statements in a Stockholm newspaper.
