

52 Receive Awards for Part in Sicilian Campaign

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 28 (Delayed) (CP Cable)—After brilliantly leading the Canadian 1st Division through the Sicilian campaign, Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order by immediate award in the field, it was announced today.

colorful as the fighting Western troops he commands. Quiet, soft-spoken Lt.-Col. J. C. Jefferson, commanding the Loyal Edmonton, also won the D.S.O. Under his leadership the Edmontons distinguished themselves in the high-class company of the Western brigade. The Edmontons' exploits shine as brightly as those of any battalion in the line.

Maj. Southern's exploits were not confined entirely to engineering. One story is told of how he was late for a conference at Brigade Headquarters and was ticked off by Brig. Vokes when he finally arrived. Maj. Southern then explained he had been driving up and down a front-line road in a Bren-carrier, trying to draw fire from a German position which the Canadian artillery was trying to locate.

The fighting postmaster of Sunderland, Ont., Maj. G. A. Welsh, also won the D.S.O. At Leonforte, Brig. Vokes nicknamed him "Tiger" and it has stuck. A short, unassuming man past the age for most battery commanders, Maj. Welsh led his anti-tank battery with amazing dash at Leonforte and is known throughout the division now for his front-line exploits.

Other Military Cross awards resulting from the Leonforte battle went to Maj. Rowan Coleman of Montreal, son of the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, D. C. Coleman, and Capt. Pat Tighe of Edmonton. Maj. Coleman won the medal for leading his company of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry into the town in the final thrust that led to its capture.

Capt. Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown, medical officer with the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, won the Military Cross for magnificent work under fire in Leonforte, tending the wounded. He was later killed in the Seaforth's sweep towards the Suroto River front near Aderno.

Another R. C. E. officer to win the M.C. was Lt. W. K. Heron of Airdrie, Que., who was particularly outstanding in clearing mines before the Canadian attack between Valguarnera and Leonforte.

Lt. Sgt. R. Beaugard of Maniwaki, Que., added to the Royal 22nd's honors by winning the M.M. for making three trips alone in a carrier in the action South of Enna to bring back wounded.

Lt. Cpl. G. E. Patenaude also of the Royal 22nd and from Peno, Alta., was another M.M. winner. In the Enna fight he stood up in a carrier firing a Bren gun to cover his companions. He was hit in the leg by a machine-gun bullet but kept firing until out of ammunition. Even then he jumped from the carrier and with another gun climbed a hill and knocked out a German machine gun position. Hobbling back to the carrier, he drove it to safety.

Reilly sniped from the house for a while and then Canadian anti-tank gunners, not knowing he was there and thinking it enemy-held, blasted the house. Reilly made his way back to his own lines.

INVERMERE

INVERMERE, B.C.—One of the loveliest and largest weddings ever to take place in the Columbia Valley was solemnized in Trinity United Church, Invermere, on Saturday, September 18, when Audrey Doreen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bunnell, Invermere, became the bride of Charles Edward Osterloh, only son of Mrs. M. Osterloh of Kimberley. Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white net over tulle, her train length full of net caught to her head in a pleated crown of white flowers and greenery. The bride's train was held by organist orange blossoms, she carried a bouquet of red roses and carnations. The bride's two younger sisters, Miss Allison and Miss Marion Cleland were her attendants, the former in a floor length frock of pink net over tulle, the latter in a blue and white gown. Pull Up... Blouse and Skirt Fashion Calls for Trim Lines

"Skirts are mostly worn in high school and I have some nice ones—but they shouldn't be worn by me unless I hold my stomach in, and this I find it impossible to do. Also, I have a sway back, which makes my hips stick out."

Caution... She Finds Her Boss Reserved

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Dear Miss Fairfax:
I am very much interested in and attracted to my employer. He is single, 39, and I am 28. He is shy and has had very little time for social contacts. He does not know how to be casual or friendly with single girls and he is always on his guard for any friendly advances that might be made. I have avoided any contact with him, during business hours, but we had to attend a business dinner together, and since then he has been complimenting me and making small but friendly advances. He even asked me to go out, but never set the date.

Spreading Christ's Word Better Than Fighting Wars

NAKUSP, B. C.—The September meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. George Keys with Mrs. Armitage of Kaslo, Presbyterian President, guest speaker.

Mrs. Armitage spoke on missionary work as its effects individual lives, stressing the point that it was very much better to spread Christianity than to fight wars. She stated that moneys spent on Christianizing peoples did not cost as much as one battleship.

Mrs. Armitage also spoke of the work of the missionaries in Kaslo and said there were some 200 children in Sunday School. C.O.L.I. Groups, W.M.S. Society and Ladies Aid and Kindergartens were also organized.

The ban on the holding of processions in Northern British Columbia for security reasons after the outbreak of war, has been revoked.

Canadian Girls Back Guns of Canada C.W.A.C. Officer Tells Women; "Corps of 14,000 Is Marching on"

"They are behind the men, who are behind the guns of Canada," said Lieut. B. Bullock-Webster as she spoke to an open meeting of Nelson women last night, of the thousands of Canadian girls now serving in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, their life and work and splendid service in the Corps.

Lieut. Bullock-Webster is the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Officer, Pacific Command, now in Nelson. She is accompanied by Cpl. Betty Barrett.

"Behind every girl you see wearing the uniform there is a desire to serve her country. She has enlisted for this purpose. She has not qualified her desire to serve, she has volunteered to serve her King and country in Canada or in any part of the world for the duration of the war and for one year afterwards.

I.O.D.E. Appeals for More Books

The supplying of recreational reading to the services men and women in camps, and on ships is an ambitious undertaking, but we are ambitious where service to the country is concerned," states the Provincial War Service Convener of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, in a bulletin to Koksnes Chapter, in which she urges the formation of a new drive for books.

"We can and must satisfy the day to day demand from the Armed Forces on our Headquarters for more books," she said.

Responding to the appeal, Koksnes Chapter appointed a committee of Mrs. W. F. Williams and Mrs. A. G. Cuthbert, who are now receiving books and donations to buy new ones.

Mrs. John Carmel, Regent of the Chapter, asked particularly for the support of Nelsonites in this drive, in supplying the immediate demand, and in keeping that supply constantly flowing to Headquarters for Camp Libraries.

BORN IN B.C.

"The C.W.A.C. has a special place in the hearts of British Columbians and we can be proud of the fact that it was in Victoria, B.C., that the Women's Army was born. It was a slow beginning, starting with the B.C. Women's Service Corps, but through the faith, determination and courage of the leader, Lieut. Colonel Joan Kennedy, who is now General Staff Officer in charge of Training in the C.W.A.C., the Corps was given Government and official recognition and it has since become an integral part of the Canadian Army. There are many opportunities open to the girls. A long list includes such occupations as canteen helpers, bookkeepers, architects, typists, stenographers, cooks, dental assistants, drivers, radio operators, telegraphists, night vision testers, and so forth. There is opportunity for the girl with initiative, high educational standing and character which fit her to be a leader of others. If specialists in some line, C category may now be enlisted by special permission.

WORK TOGETHER

"There are three training centres in Canada . . . one at Vermilion, known as a basic training centre for Western Canada, another similar centre at Kitchener, Ontario, and a third at St. Anne de Bellevue, where the advanced training is given non-commissioned officers, and where the officers' training course is established. Very briefly the curriculum includes lectures in first-aid, map-reading, war-gases and a number of others, together with drill, marching, and it is interesting to see how much the trainees enjoy their month at the centre. There is something about working together, playing together and living together that does a great deal for esprit de corps and gives to the shyest of the new recruits sense of being one of a great company of adventurers. The day begins early, the meals are excellent and the healthy exercise, chiefly out-of-doors, brings a glow to young cheeks.

"After the training period, the recruits are posted to their various districts where they begin their work. Living in barracks they are under the command of women officers, and army discipline is maintained.

MARCHING ON

"And so the Canadian Women's Army Corps is marching on. A year ago a mere 800 in the whole of Canada. Today our strength is over 14,000. We are only beginning. A time goes on, more and more men will have to be released for mercantile and combatant duty. The women of Canada are behind the men, behind the guns of Canada. It is a new role for them. Because they have donned uniform does not change them altogether. But it has changed many of them. Changed them from being uncertain, questioning and emotionally upset by the general tempo of the times. They are in this thing to help finish the job that must be finished. It will not be a life-work . . . they are not signing away their future . . . rather they are helping in their own way to build a better, freer Canada in which they and their children will have a rightful place and of which they may be rightfully proud.

Highland Dancer Delights Audience

The persistent applause of the audience rang through the Civic Theatre Wednesday evening when Betty Pringle Barrett, Highland dancer, wearing her Mcintosh Tartan and hand knitted plaid socks beneath her khaki tunic. Cpl. Barrett won the admiration of all present. Accompanying her on the pipes was Rod McKinnon of Trail, formerly of Procter. Piper McKinnon is the son of Capt. McKinnon, old time skipper on the Main Lake Ferry.

Thursday evening she danced and played in a typical Highland manner at a meeting of various women's organizations in the Legion Hall. Jimmie Boyd, popular Nelson piper, donned the Royal Stewart Tartan to accompany Cpl. Barrett.

Cpl. Barrett, with hazel eyes shining and a winning smile, laughingly admits that she is a married woman of nearly two months.

"This is my first trip through the Kootenays and it is proving to be most interesting and enjoyable," she said. The tour will include the East and West Kootenays, the Cariboo and the Okanagan Districts.

Animal manures, leaves, plant residues, wood ashes, floor sweepings and many materials which go into the average garbage pail are valuable sources of humus and plant nutrients and should be added to the compost pile.

Relax Dim-Out for Better Protection

Dim-out regulations in Pacific Coast vulnerable areas are an international matter. They affect both Canada and the United States and the Pacific Coast Commands of both countries are concerned in their application...

The present position is that the restrictions, especially at the Coast, are not being enforced. There is no true dim-out, and the reason for such general disregard of the rules is that the public is no longer convinced of the need...

With relaxation of restrictions, but with periodical test dim-outs and blackouts to keep us all conscious of the continued danger and to keep ARP organizations in training...

If the regulations were suspended, but the machinery kept in shape, there would be much more effective observance of either dim-out or blackout when such became advisable.

Evidently, there is a disposition on the part of the military authorities on the United States side of the line to feel very much as the public here does about it. The new officer in command at San Francisco has intimated that he proposes to give serious consideration to a relaxation in regulations...

Too Much Loose Talk

The Security Intelligence Branch of the combined services under the Pacific Command is doing good work, and getting considerable public support, in its efforts to eliminate gossip that is harmful to the war effort.

Sometimes gossip concerns military secrets of value to the enemy, and in British Columbia we have to remember that while the Japanese have been driven back to some extent in the Pacific the offensive against the Nipponese is only just getting under way.

In other instances gossip consists of wild rumors which have a tendency to break down public morale. We all know that there is altogether too much loose talk and chatter about our munitions manufacturing, about alleged difficulties that are encountered, or about defects in equipment...

A Practical Viewpoint

The resolution of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities urging that postwar social insurance schemes be directed and operated by the Federal Government, rather than by Provinces with Federal aid, represents the viewpoint of men who have had much experience in the administration of various forms of social benefits.

They know that single control is much more satisfactory and less complicated and wasteful than dual or triple control. We had three parties to relief funds—Federal, Provincial and Municipal. We have two involved in Old Age pensions. We had two, again Federal and Provincial, concerned in the original employment bureau.

Relief is now entirely Provincial and municipal, the Federal Government having ceased to contribute. Old Age pensions are the joint affair of Dominion and Provinces. Provinces contribute 25 per cent of Pensions, though some Provinces are today also paying a special Provincial bonus, in British Columbia of $5 a month.

These developments, which are in the main direction of Dominion control and administration, have been determined by experience and the logic of circumstances.

Writers of the St. Louis report saw not only this tendency but also that no other than Dominion-wide social security plans could successfully operate for long. The tendency, no matter how little we like centralized control, cannot be resisted in measures which in the final analysis can only be carried through on the basis of equality of treatment for every Canadian, no matter in what Province he may live.

Rush Was Not Farmer But Used Truck for Trip to Toronto Midnight Show

To the Editor: Six—On August 26, one David Rush was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate Prentice of Toronto for an infraction of Order 121 of this Board, which prohibits the use of motor trucks for carrying passengers.

This event has been widely represented as the conviction of a farmer for giving his wife a lift while using the truck in the regular course of his business. If that were the criticism which has been expressed in the Press would be warranted. Accordingly, I personally investigated the matter and have delayed writing you until I could verify all the circumstances of the case.

I now give you the facts and I think you will agree that they throw quite a different light upon the matter and justify the action taken by the War-time Prices and Trade Board which is charged with responsibility of conserving such critically short supplies as gasoline, tires and motor transport equipment.

1. At the time the offence was committed (June 7) Rush was not a farmer. The truck was not a farm truck but was owned and registered in the city of Toronto by Rush's father-in-law, one Max Gold.

2. At about three o'clock on the morning of June 7th, the police noticed the truck cruising on a number of streets in the Markham Street district of Toronto. On their own initiative the police followed and finally stopped the truck which was carrying no freight and in which Mrs. Rush was a passenger.

3. When questioned by the police, Rush stated the truck had been at a nearby garage for repairs and that he had just picked it up on his way home from a friend's house on Markham Street. Mrs. Rush, however, volunteered that they had driven in to Toronto from Dunville. Enquiries at the garage established that the truck had been taken out by Rush at noon on the preceding Saturday and had not been returned to the garage. In the police court Rush stated in evidence that he and his wife had been to a midnight show and on their way home picked up the truck from a parking lot.

4. The facts of the case were carefully examined by Board investigators, by Board Enforcement Counsel and by the Board's Enforcement Administrator at Ottawa before leave to prosecute was issued by the Board. In sentencing Rush to a fine of $50, the Magistrate presumably took into consideration the fact that there had been a deliberate, wasteful use of gasoline, tires and equipment. It is scarcely credible that he would have imposed such a fine for a mere technical infraction and certainly this Board would not have proceeded with the prosecution had that been the case because all Board officers were advised shortly after the Order was first issued that truck drivers are permitted to carry two passengers in the cabs of their trucks when the trucks are being operated as freight vehicles.

5. No prosecution has ever been initiated by this Board against any truck operator for carrying passengers in the cab while using the truck for transporting goods. In order that there may be no possibility of a misunderstanding of this nature ever developing, Order 121 is now being amended to define more precisely the prohibition of wasteful and unnecessary use of trucks.

DONALD GORDON, Chairman, War-time Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa, Sept. 17.

J. C. H., New Denver—After reading the glowing accounts of soy beans in the seed catalogues we determined to give them a trial. We got a pound of beans from a well known firm and planted them early according to directions. The beans came up, hardly, a seed failed and the plants grew splendidly but were a long time coming into flower. At last the small blossoms in color between mauve and purple, appeared, but not one blossom has set so far and our hopes of living on all sorts of soy bean luxuries during the winter have been dashed to the ground and we are back to spuds and cabbage, etc. I have heard of similar failures but no success with soy beans around here. Has anyone in these parts succeeded with soy beans and can you suggest what has been wrong. Have we got an unsuitable variety or is our method of watering wrong or sprinkling the plants with cold mountain water causing the trouble? All the ordinary varieties of beans have done well in our garden. Well, anyway our cow appreciates them when I feed her an armful but we should like to know what the trouble is and the remedy?

There may be several reasons for failure of your soy beans to set. You may have a variety unsuited to the climate; you may have watered them too much; there may have been a lack of bees and insects to pollinate them while they were in blossom. Soybeans ordinarily do well with little water. They can be and are grown successfully in home gardens in this district. Suggest you write to the Experimental Station, Summerland, for instructions on the growing of soy beans.

T. E. T., New Denver—Would you please tell me how to rid my cellar of slugs?

Slugs may be readily killed by dusting them with chloride of lime or a mixture of hydrated lime and dehydrated copper sulphate. Mix thoroughly 1 part of hydrated lime with one part dehydrate copper sulphate.

Looking Backward

With the exception of three growers who truck out their own fruit, all orchardists of Creston Valley have signed up on the "cent a pound or on the ground" agreement drafted at the grower's meeting at Creston Saturday. R. D. Wallace and son, John Wallace, had a lucky day on the Main Lake near Procter Sunday and returned in the evening with three salmon and a number of trout. Snow fell at many points over the weekend. At Rosland flakes fell throughout the day but melted on the lower sections.

Among Trail visitors at the Nelson Fair and Exhibition were Mayor and Mrs. Schofield, D. F. Jelly, the orchardist, George L. Merry and J. H. Clay, the market gardener. Mr. Jelly and Mr. Clay captured nearly 30 prizes between them.

Fred J. Squires, Nelson's pioneer merchant tailor, had a display of tennis and awnings of his own manufacture at the fair last week. He makes a specialty of protean tents.

Old Age Pensioners Not Required to Sign Over Property Says Pearson

VICTORIA, Sept. 23 (CP)—Provincial Secretary George S. Pearson said today there is an erroneous impression abroad that old age pensioners must assign their property to the Pensions Board before they can obtain a pension. Mr. Pearson's statement follows: "From time to time statements are made by persons who would seem to be in a position to know that the old age pensioners are required to transfer or assign interest in their property to the Old Age Pensions Board before they can receive a pension.

Two Hits

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Russo, the sore-armed pitcher, put himself in line for World Series assignment today by hitting two-hit ball as New York Yankees downed Detroit 7-1-3. He fanned seven and struck four while handsuffing the Tigers except Rookie Jim Outlaw and Joe Wood who led single.

Winning today the Yanks eliminated Cleveland Indians from the post race and moved closer to inevitable clinching of their 14th American League championship, adding a night game at Washington. The Yankees need two more tries to dispose of the stubborn Reds.

McKechnie Signs for 7th Year

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23 (AP)—William Boyd (Bill) McKechnie signed for his seventh year as Manager of Cincinnati Reds today, becoming the first man in the club's 50-year history to enjoy that long a tenure.

Terms of the one-year paper were not announced but smiles all around after a brief conference with President Powell Crosley, and General-Manager Warren C. Giles indicated all was well, despite a report that McKechnie took a slight cut in view of drastically reduced wartime attendance.

As the doughty Scot from Wilkingsburg, Pa., came with the Reds in the winter of 1937, he was under a two-year contract at $25,000 per, plus a $5000 bonus if home attendance reached 425,000. It did, as an amazed fandom, accustomed to years of apathetic cellar-dwelling, watched the team jump to fourth place. Next year, 1939, the Rhinelanders copped the National League pennant and in 1940 they won the world championship. McKechnie again collected.

Looking ahead a year hence, Bill will have been a big-time manager 21 years—second only to the 31 years which the late J. McGraw enjoyed when he "pped down from New York Giant in 1934.

YOU PICK 'EM
 Arthur Metheny, Yankees—Bud is the kind of player who might be a series star or a bust, depending on how he's hitting against southpaws, who usually trouble him. Once hit 372 at Williams and Mary but he says to say he won't go that at Yankee Stadium. Was a 298 hitter at Newark last season and currently is slugging .269 for the Yanks.

Stan Musial, Cardinals—Stan started out three years ago as a left-handed pitcher at Daytona Beach but soon saw the error in his ways. Never pitched in a minor league long enough to win an official batting title but is a cinch for the National League crown with a .336 average. Also leads the league in doubles and triples and has socked 18 homers. Not so hot at field, but who cares?

SHORTS AND SHELLS

He can neither speak nor hear... and Paul Florence, headman of the Barons, sees him as the logical successor to two old-time stars who were similarly handicapped, the Reds' Billy Hoy and Luther (Dummy) Taylor of the Giants.

R.M.R. Units in Kootenay Are Reorganized

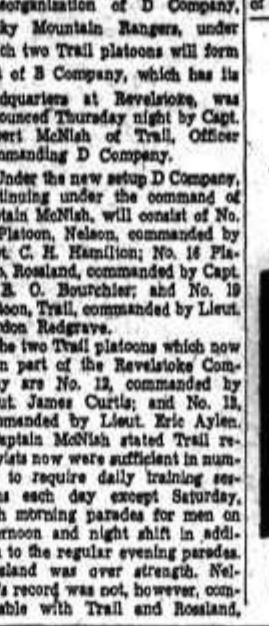

Reorganization of D Company, Rocky Mountain Rangers, under which two Trail platoons will form part of B Company, which has its headquarters at Revelstoke, was announced Thursday night by Capt. Robert McNish of Trail, Officer Commanding D Company.

Under the new setup D Company, continuing under the command of Captain McNish, will consist of No. 17 Platoon, Nelson, commanded by Capt. C. H. Hamilton; No. 18 Platoon, Rosland, commanded by Capt. E. B. O. Bourchier; and No. 19 Platoon, Trail, commanded by Lieut. Gordon Redgrave.

The two Trail platoons which now form part of the Revelstoke Company are No. 12, commanded by Lieut. James Curtis; and No. 13, commanded by Lieut. Eric Ayles.

Captain McNish stated Trail reservists now were sufficient in number to require daily training sessions each day except Saturday, with morning parades for men on afternoon and night shift in addition to the regular evening parades. Rosland was over strength. Nelson's record was not, however, comparable with Trail and Rosland, and he expressed hope the strength of this unit also would be built up.

Democracy's heavy artillery... firing harder than ever

In every newspaper plant in the country, the presses are rolling at top speed... firing projectiles as vital to our victory as bullets or bombs.

We have always been a news-hungry people, but crisis whets our appetite. In this greatest crisis of all, we are hungrier than ever, not only for the news itself, but also for guidance and instruction on the countless vital problems that face a free people at war.

It's a hunger that only newspapers can satisfy.

Years before World War II, the nation's newspapers were already retooling to meet this greater demand. Foreign services were strengthened... overseas communications reinforced... picture services refined and expanded. Increasingly, as war came closer and finally struck, newspapers were giving us not only the news but also... through words and maps and pictures... a better understanding of each day's events.

This clearer understanding of what the war means, and why we must win it, is the foundation of a democracy's strength in battle. Through it we are learning how to sacrifice, how to conserve, how each of us in our own way can contribute to victory. Being thus well-informed, we are much farther along the road.

Other ways of learning things we have in profusion. But nearly all of us turn to newspapers every day as our basic source of information. Through them... through the ads as well as the news columns... we are adding every day to the knowledge we must have to do our part in the war.

DODGE NAZI ROCKET BOMBS

Heavily loaded with Allied troops, landing boats dodge rocket bombs unleashed from high flying German bombers as they were approaching the Italian shores.

WED 2300 YEARS AGO

Arlene Fear, in court in Los Angeles, Calif., for a divorce, said that her husband, Ralph Gordon Fear—who is asking an annulment—told her that they were man and wife in Greece 2300 years ago.

BUSINESS NOT AS USUAL HERE

Debris litters a deserted Salerno street, mute evidence of the fierce fighting between the Allied and Nazi forces.

SNIPER CHASING IS A SCIENCE

This is Italy. One Yank goes through the door while a buddy slightly behind him watches the different angles of the doorway. About 15 feet in back of them are others of the squad covering the windows and doorway. Another Yank on the left is guarding the corner of the house. The sniper was captured.

QUILTIES FOR BABY

Any one of these charming quilted articles will go straight to the heart of your "expecting" friend. A whimsical, padded hanger that's also a sachet, is something different and so practical. There's a carriage cover soft as duckling's down, a bib, a bottle cover. Pattern 886 contains a pattern of 3 hangers, a bib, directions for making articles shown.

Send 20 cents for this pattern to The Nelson Daily News, Needlecraft Dept., Nelson. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address. Patterns will be mailed to your home in about 15 days. Marion Martin SWEETHEART JUMPER

For a cut little mixx a jumper-frock is tops! Especially one with a sweetheart neck. Pattern 9342, with its button front and flaring skirt is the perfect easy-to-get-into school frock—adorable, too, for the kindergarten tot.

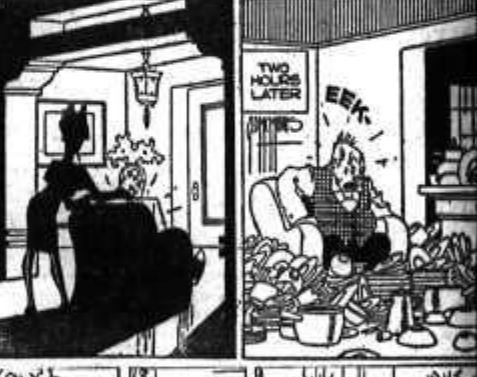

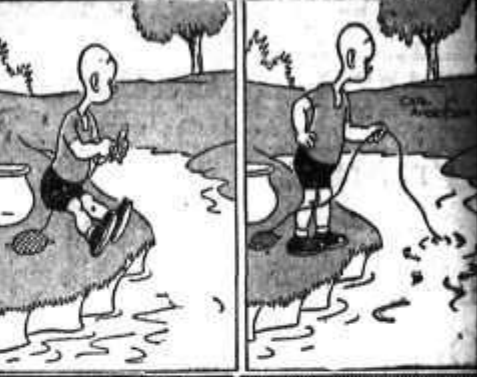

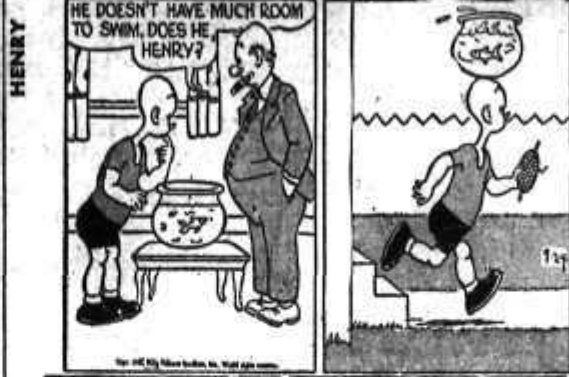

Pattern 9342 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, jumper, requires 1-1/2 yards 34-inch fabric; blouse, 1/2 yard 36-inch fabric.

AUNT HET

"I don't believe in liquor, especially for church members, but I can't blame anybody for takin' a little snifter to have a tooth pulled."

Contract... By Shepard Barclay

CORRECT YOUR MISTAKE
DID YOU ever pass your hand on the first round for the simple reason that you had sorted your cards carelessly and didn't realize that you actually held a sound opening bid? If that never happened to you, then you are a very unusual young man or young woman. If it has happened, and your partner then opened the bidding, what did you do on your next turn? Your job is really to let him know, the best you can, that you should have bid in the first place, by making some kind of a force or else a jump to game.

Indeed South had. But when North admitted that he found the club A after he had passed, and therefore realized he should have opened the bidding, there was no excuse for his subsequent action except one—he was flustered by his first error and did not think clearly.

Noting his strength, North should have bid three in clubs or diamonds, a jump, after South opened with 1-Heart. Since he bid only 2-Clubs, and South then jumped to 2-Hearts—a terrific bid after the partner had made an opening pass—North should have gone direct to small slam in hearts, if the pair was not using any artificial slam convention, or else should have employed whatever convention was in use to ascertain the controls for slam purposes. He had two chances to correct his first slip, but fumbled them both.

Tell of R.C.A.F. Exploits Without Permission of Air Ministry

OTTAWA, Sept. 23 (CP).— Air
Minister Power said in an official statement tonight that news of activities of Canadian airmen in the Mediterranean was made public only after R.C.A.F. Headquarters here had instructed its Public Relations Officers overseas to identify Canadians as such, without permission of the Air Ministry in London. Maj. Power said that previously the British Air Ministry had not permitted identification of airmen.
Maj. Power was commenting on a London dispatch which said representatives of Dominion newspapers decided today to protest officially to the Air Ministry at the failure to include any representatives of Empire overseas news services or newspapers on a recent tour of journalists through the Mediterranean war theatre.
