75-MILE LONG HORDE OF 'HOPPERS EATING INTO OREGON, CALIFORNIA

RENO, Nev., July 1 (AP) — A record-breaking horde of migratory grasshoppers covering some 3000 square miles is eating its way into Oregon and California.

The State Department of Agriculture said today the band of hoppers is 75 miles long and 40 miles deep.

"This is undoubtedly the largest and most intensely populated single band of the Western range locust in modern times in this country," said Harry E. Galloway, field supervisor.

The hoppers are heading into Southern Harney County in Oregon and into Northern Lassen County, California. They have moved about 35 miles over the Oregon border and about 15 miles into California.

W. B. Mabee, United States entomologist at Elko, said damage done to the rangelands "is heavy and permanent."

Dollar Holdings Slip, Surplus Continues Upward

Transfer of Profits by U. S. Companies Sliced Into Reserve; Tax Cuts Show in June Revenue

OTTAWA, July 1 (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott tonight reported a surplus of nearly $252,300,000 for April and May—the first two months of the current fiscal year. That was nearly $3,000,000 less than the surplus for the same period of last year.

At the same time, he announced Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars totalled $977,000,000 at the end of June, an increase from the reserve of $742,000,000 at the end of June last year but a drop from the reserves of $1,067,000,000 held at the end of March this year.

He said in a statement the drop in U.S. dollar reserves was due to the transfer of 1948 profits of foreign-owned companies in Canada. These companies were permitted to take their profits out of the country three months after the end of the fiscal year in which they were made.

The budget surplus resulted from expenditures of $230,700,000 and receipts of $483,000,000 during April and May. During the same period last year, expenditures were $212,800,000 and receipts were $468,000,000

Mr. Abbott said the largue surplus for the two months could not be taken as any indication of the surplus for the whole year.

May revenues of $301,400,000—compared with $271,800,000 last year—did not reflect the tax cuts which came into effect earlier this year and were boosted by final settlements of 1948 income tax payments.

May expenditures were $155,900,000, compared with $148,200,000 for May, 1948, leaving a surplus for the month of $145,500,000.

IN JUNE FIGURES

Mr. Abbott said the effect of the tax cuts on Government income would not become apparent until budget figures for June are available.

Income and corporation were the biggest item of revenue during the two months. Corporation taxes totalled $91,700,000, income tax deducted at source was $60,800,000 and other income tax collections amounted to $155,900,000.

Biggest expenses were $50,200,000 for interest on public debt, $48,500,000 for family allowances and $27,200,000 for veterans affairs.

Fire Leaves Howser Mill in Ruins

The Duncan Lake Lumber Company mill had been destroyed and lumber piles were still flaming when this picture of the $40,000 fire was taken last Sunday. Jobs for 30 men went up in smoke and most of the employees were young war veterans from the Coast, who came into the Lardeau Valley a couple of years ago to live literally as pioneers. Two carloads of lumber were lost. A few men are carrying on small-scale logging and pole operations, some being taken on by Glacier Lumber Co. Ltd.

Sentence Judith Coplon As Spy for Russia

"I Am Innocent" Former Government Employee Maintains; Appeal Planned

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — Scorning a mercy plea, Judith Coplon today was sentenced to serve 40 months to 10 years in prison for attempting to betray her country as a spy for Russia.

The 28-year-old former Government employee took the sentence without a quiver.

But in a bitter outburst, immediately before Judge Albert L. Reeves pronounced sentence, she cried out:

"I understand I could plead for mercy. That I will not do. To me, pleading for mercy would be an admission of guilt."

Then, referring to Prosecutors John M. Kelley, Jr., and Raymond P. Whearty, she went on swiftly:

"I am innocent . . . I am innocent before all the Whearys and all the Kelleys and all the Government, whatever they want to do against me, and they may gloat in the glory of their hollow empiric victory . . .

"They want to break me. They will never break me!"

A few minutes later, with Miss Coplon staring coldly up at him, Judge Reeves pronounced sentence as the climax of a sensation-studded trial that ran for almost 10 weeks.

Sternly, the 75-year-old justice denounced Miss Coplon with an allusion to the American revolutionary war traitor, Benedict Arnold, and he declared:

"I thoroughly approve of the verdict of the jury."

Judge Reeves ordered her confined in Federal prison for 40 months to 10 years on the first count in the two-count indictment, which charged Miss Coplon with stealing Government secrets "with intent" to injure the United States and aid a foreign power, Russia.

SECOND SENTENCE

On the second count, involving unlawful removal of confidential papers from the Justice Department, Judge Reeves sentenced her to one to three years.

He directed that the sentences be served concurrently. Her attorney, Archibald Palmer of New York, said he will fight the case to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary.

FIRST DEATHS IN CHURCH, STATE CONFLICT

Beran Resists Suggestion He Leave Palace

POLICE BEATEN

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 1 (AP) — Diplomatic sources had reports tonight that at least two Communist policemen were beaten to death and an undetermined number of persons injured in clashes between Roman Catholic faithful and Government adherents in Slovakia in recent days.

These same sources also heard reports that at least small-scale anti-Communist partisan activity was under way in the staunchly Catholic Slovak region.

On the political front, the Communist Government was on the offensive. It moved to take over the big national religious holidays this weekend.

These holidays start tomorrow and extend through Tuesday. They will be marked by big Catholic pilgrimages and celebrations honoring the missionaries Cyril and Methodius, who brought Christianity from Greece in the ninth century, and ESt. Prokop, a Monk who built a monastery at Sazava, Bohemia, in the year 1030.

The country will celebrate another national holiday July 4 marking the burning at the stage of religion reformer John Huss in 1415. This holiday has been moved up from July 6 to make a compact weekend and save a working day for the "people's democracy."

Catholic Archbishop Joseph Beran, meanwhile, was reported by informed sources to be sitting tight inside his Prague palace. He was said to have rejected Communist suggestions that he leave his police-guarded residence for a Summer vacation in the country because he lock him out if he tried to return, suspected the Communists might

Romania Leads in Communist War Against Church

VATICAN FIGURES

VATICAN CITY, July 1 (AP) — An unofficial Vatican informant estimated today nearly 3000 Roman Catholic Priests are imprisoned in Soviet-orbit countries.

He said he obtained his figures by canvassing sources in Rome.

Romania heads the list, with 600 Priests and members of religious orders thrown into jail since the Communists came to power.

Poland is close behind with 500, according to the Vatican source, who gave the following breakdown for the other countries:

Hungary, 250.
Czechoslovakia, 200.
Yugoslavia, 200.
Bulgaria, about 30.
Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia, 1000, most of them in Lithuania.

King, Queen Join in Dominion Day Service

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 1 (CP) — The King and Queen today joined Canadian officials and their families in a moving and impressive Dominion Day service at Westminster Abbey.

Facing the high altar, with its massive gold plate shimmering in the light of a hundred candles, C. B. Cowley, Canada Club Secretary, presented two chairs and faldstools to the Dean of Westminster, Dr. Alan Don.

The Club's gift is a memorial to Canadians who died in the Second World War.

After it had been accepted, Their Majesties mounted the altar steps, stood near the arms of Canada, to the sanctuary where the chairs and faldstools—intended for the use of royalty at divine service—were used for the first time.

Queen Elizabeth wore a flimsy dress of pale lupin blue, ornamented with a small maple-leaf brooch. The King was dressed in formal morning attire instead of the naval uniform he usually wears.

L. Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner in London, read the lesson, which was from Book I, Chapter VII, of Kings.

Then the congregation filed to the altar to look at the royal chairs, made of Canadian birch, darkly stained and polished. They are of venetian pattern, each with a maple leaf carved at the front. The faldstools bear the arms of Canada.

Motley Parade as Decorated Bikes, Pets Introduced Into July 1 Program

Overwhelmingly popular innovation of Kinsmen-sponsored Dominion Day celebrations at Nelson Friday was a decorated bicycle and pet parade.

Scores of costumed youngsters who entered bikes and tricycles bestreamered in all colors and animals of all kinds made the parade a gay and multi-hued one.

Crowds lined Baker Street to watch the two-block-long array make its way to the Civic Recreation Grounds, led by the Kootenay Kiltie Pipe Band.

Mayor T. H. Waters judged the bike team of Rochelle Crawford and Doreen Evans, for their patriotic and good Canada-U.S. relations theme, as winners in the decorated bicycle section.

Elsie Abfalter, who wore Indian garb and rode a bike that had a red canoe fashioned on it, came second.

Little Jean Oulton pedalled a fancily-decorated tricycle rigged up with a pink parasol to first place in the best tricycle division, and Patsy Gordon came second.

Prize for best pet entered went to young Donna Armstrong, whose haltered police dog dragged a cart containing a small boy and other dogs. Donna, who lives in San Francisco, is visiting Nelson for a holiday.

Norma Evans hen which nested placidly in a cage atop a wagon and entitled "Jenny Hen" won her second prize.

PUPS POPULAR

Drawing laughs from the spectators was a pantalooned poodle that did not place. Dogs of numerous breeds, clothed or sporting big bows about their necks, as well as cats, rabbits and so on, presented a comical scene.

Costumes of the pet paraders were varied, and went all the way from Red Riding Hood to Robin Hood. Dragging a small canine was an "Indian family" of a young boy and two toddlers swathed in sacking and complete with papoose.

Equally diversified were the ideas represented in the decorated bikes. While several splashed red, white and blue, others were decorated in other contrasting colors.

DIFFICLT CHOICE

Mayor Waters, who was assisted in judging by Mrs. Len Gustafson, W. C. Hancock, W. G. Harold and H. A. D. Greenwood, praised the parade as the best Nelson has had.

The exceptionally good turnout made it hard to pick winners, he commented.

Think Communists Will Save Crops

By WALTER PARROT

HONG KONG, July 1 (Reuters)—Chinese Communist troops, whose Southward drive slowed down after the capture of Shanghai, will probably postpone a new general onslaught until the Autumn to avoid fighting over harvest lands, according to observers here.

Such a move would enable crops to be gathered in and stored and thereby eliminate the risk of antagonizing farmers, the observers said.

A new Communist offensive was at one time said to have been due to start June 15. Some observers believe the main reason for the delay has been extensive flooding in the Kiangsi and Hunan provinces, South of the Yangtse River.

Persistent but unconfirmed reports reaching Hong Kong and Canton have said that sickness is widespread among the Communist armies South of the Yangtse. This has been given as another reason for the delay in the Communist offensive. They have been susceptible to malaria, influenza and rheumatism as most are Northerners unaccustomed to Southern conditions.

Plane Crashes in Storm, 18 Die

PERTH, Australia, July 2 (Saturday) (AP) — Eighteen persons were killed when a DC-3 transport plane bound for Darwin crashed in a blinding rainstorm early today at Guildford airport, eight miles from Perth.

All aboard the plane were killed instantly. The craft belonged to the MacRobertson Miller Aviation Company.

The plane hurtled to the ground and burst into flames. One engine is believed to have failed.

Catholic Suffers In Prague Prison

PRAGUE, July 1 (AP)—A high church authority said today Dr. Antonin Mandl, first prominent Roman Catholic arrested here in the Czechoslovak Government's fight on the church, is "in a very bad shape" at Pankrac Political Prison Hospital in Prague.

He said Mandl is in bad condition, whereas he was a healthy man of 37 when arrested about three weeks ago.

Mandl was secretary of the church's Secular Catholic Action Society.

DOLLAR SAME

NEW YORK, July 1 (CP)—The Canadian dollar was unchanged at a discount of 5 9-16 per cent in terms of United States funds in closing foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was down ¼ of a cent at $4.02¾.

SEEK SECOND MAN IN CALGARY DEATH

EDMONTON, July 1 (CP)—With one man already charged with murder, police tonight sought another man believed to be involved in the death of a 60-year-old warehouse worker whose body was dug from a shallow grave in suburban West Jasper Place last night by investigating R.C.M.P. officers.

Police said Thomas Lee has been charged with the murder of William W. MacKay who was killed and robbed of $170 following a drinking party at Lee's suburban home Wednesday night. His body was dug from Lee's garden.

Lee was taken into custody after his wife telephoned city police last night to report Mackay's death. She said her husband had prevented her from reporting the death earlier.

Police said MacKay had been hit over the head, probably with a piece of lead pipe, and robbed. His body was dragged through the back garden and covered with earth in a flower bed.

Two men were hired Friday to dig a large hole in Lee's front lawn where police said Mackay's body probably would have been reburied.

MacKay was said to have attended a party at Lee's home Wednesday night with Lee and another unidentified man. Police are seeking this other man whose identify they declined to reveal.

Lee will appear for preliminary hearing next week.

LIVORNO, Italy, July 1 (Reuters) —Livorno dock workers today again stopped unloading the 7128-ton Canadian freighter Pantrooper in sympathy with the striking Canadian Seamen's Union.

NORTHERN MINER EDITOR DIES

TORONTO, July 1 (CP) — Edward Dowd Loney, 50, Editor of the Northern Miner and a prominent figure in newspaper circles, died at his home today following a heart attack.

WORRY OVER U. K. CRISIS AS THREAT TO E.R.P. SUCCESS

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — Britain's economic crisis is beginning to cause grave concern among top United States Government officials here. They wonder whether it will threaten the success of the European Recovery program.

Government authorities who thought the economic storm would break later and be less severe now say privately that Britain and other Western European countries will have to take "strong measures" soon if recovery is not to be endangered.

Locomotive Shortage Slows Train Movement to Berlin

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN, July 1 (AP) — The Berlin railway system started freight flowing today — like molasses in January.

The Russian rail management gave the go signal after a six-week shutdown caused by a strike of non-Communist union men and then found they were too short of locomotives to do the job.

As a result, only four loaded Western trains came into Berlin during the day and 12 empty ones left.

The Russians insisted on using their own locomotives to haul all trains through their zone.

Coast Ancient Off Again

VANCOUVER, July 1 (CP) — Alcarez Haabsburg — the 114-year-old pensioner—is missing again. And Haabsburg, who tells his friends he's "only 135", will be a legal 115 years old next Friday.

Mrs. A. B. Bailey, the supervisor of Sunnyside home where Haabsburg lives at 2233 S.E. Marine Drive, said today the old gentleman went downtown Thursday and hasn't returned.

Mrs. Bailey said she isn't too worried. She said he had enough money for a hotel room but added jokingly, "knowing him as I do, however, he probably won't spend a cent. He's saving for his old age."

Haabsburg disappeared for two days on May 12 with a $500 check in his pocket. He dropped in on a few friends and returned home with the check uncashed.

Hints Painless War Possible

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — Is a "painless" gas war in the offing?

Representative Robert Sikes (Dem. Fla.), with a slight touch of mystery, told the House of Representatives today such a prospect "is not necessarily pure fancy."

He said the United States Army Chemical Corps "may, with proper incentives, produce a painless war."

"The Army Chemical Corps today may not be far from the production of a gas which temporarily destroys the will to fight but does no lasting harm," he said.

"That would make short shift of any aggressor and render his defence impotent.

"Such a weapon, properly guarded, could be much more valuable than the atomic bomb, for it would be free from the destructiveness of the atomic bomb."

Calgary Breaks Out In Crime Rash

CALGARY, July 1 (CP) — Two armed thugs held up and robbed a sandwich and waffle shop in downtown Calgary early today as the city's two-week old crime wave continued unabated.

The men, both described as young well-dressed and good looking, escaped with about $30 from the shop's cash register after locking employees in the premises.

It was the fourth armed robbery in the city in the last two weeks, one of which resulted in the slaying last June 21 of Thomas Elliott—66-year-old night clerk at the Empire Hotel.

RICH COOK OVER LAMP, SMART NAB ROAD LIGHT IN SYDNEY BLACKOUT

SYDNEY, Australia, July 1 (CP) —Life in Sydney today is life in the dark ages.

A million and a half people are under blockade by the strike of Communist-led miners' unions. The coal shortage means no hot water, few hot meals, very little light.

In suburban Castle Hill, a big store has a notice in its window: "This establishment now is operating under its own lighting system." Beside the sign is—a candle in a beer bottle.

In prosperous Vaucluse suburb, a housewife whose husband earns $150 a week cooks lunch over an alcohol lamp while inspectors disconnect her water heaters and remind her that electric refrigeration is banned.

In Martin Place, the city centre, two men are talking:

"There's a smart fellow out our way," says one. "He pinches one of the council's oil lamps from a road repair job. But he puts it back each morning so the council fellows fill it."

Paralytic Travels 9800 Miles in Two Years . . .

Drives Jeep While Lying in Bed

CARMAN, Man., July 1 (CP) — You can't keep a good man down, they say, even if his handicap appears unsurmountable.

Take plucky Peter Dyck. He has been paralyzed and forced to lie on his back for 12 years, and yet he is probably the most widely-travelled motorist in Manitoba. His record is 9800 miles in the last two years.

Peter is 37 years old now. In the Fall of 1937 he was returning to his home in Saskatchewan by truck after doing harvest work when the truck was struck by a car coming off a side road.

Peter suffered a broken back. The 13 other persons in the truck escaped with minor injuries. In his first six years in hospital here, Peter remained in bed, unable to go anywhere.

In 1943, he was given a machine built on bicycle wheels and driven by a washing machine motor. The next year he had a vehicle built on motorcycle wheels and driven by a larger motor. He kept this one for two years.

In 1946, with the help of friends and with money he had saved he bought a jeep. He drew up blueprints of an arrangement enabling him to drive the jeep while lying on his stomach. H. H. Garbrant of Plum Coulee made the interior alterations for him.

The jeep has a bed raised to the height of the steering wheel. The gearshift is the same as that on any other car. The accelerator, clutch and brake are all on the same lever. When the top of the lever is turned, the car accelerates

DUAL-PURPOSE LEVER

When the lever is pulled back one notch it acts as a clutch, and when it is pulled back any further it acts as a brake. The jeep has a radio set and a heater.

Peter travels in his jeep only in the warmer months. The nurses carry him from his bed in Carman hospital and place him in the jeep. He usually begins driving at 10 o'clock in the morning, and continues until it's time to go back to bed at 10 p.m. He has spent only two nights away from the hospital in 12 years.

At meal times he drives to the back of the hospital and the cook brings him his lunch on a tray.

During the day he travels around Carman watching people work. "I'm a carpenter at heart and I love to watch men building," says Peter. "I have watched the construction of the new Carman hospital from the time they started excavating until the ribbon was cut."

Peter travels a good deal to neighboring towns, where he has many friends. Most of his trips he makes to Winkler, where he has four sisters. His longest trip was to Rock Lake, 92 miles from Carman.

And in This Corner—

CEDAR RAPID, Ia., July 1 (AP)—Mrs. Lowell Long of Cedar Rapids made some biscuits and they were a bang-up success.

She lighted the oven, put the biscuits inside and closed the door.

A few minutes later five shots in rapid succession came from the oven. She opened the oven door and removed the pieces of what had been a .22-calibre pistol.

She carried the pistol into the yard, and a neighbor asked her if she planned to shoot anybody with it.

"Bang!" she said facetiously.

"Bang!" came from the house. "Bang! Bang! Bang!"

Mrs. Long then recalled that she had hidden two .22-calibre pistols —one in the oven and one in the broiler—when her family went on a two-week vacation.

The biscuits, she said, turned out swell.

HOLLYWOOD, July 1 (AP)—The baby sitter married the baby today.

Lloyd Harris, 27, who used to take care of blonde and blue-eyed Cliffortine Kirkley 20 years ago in Underwood, Ala., became her husband today on a radio program (Bride and Groom).

They left for a five-day honeymoon on Santa Catalina Island, after which they'll return to Montevallo, Ala., where Harris will operate a jewelry store. They received $2000 in household gifts for appearing on the radio show.

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 1 (AP) — Sir Hartley Shawcross, Britain's Attorney-General, today visited Criminal District Court here and watched while a theft case was being tried.

"Your atmosphere is much more informal" than in Britain, Sir Hartley commented afterwards. "It puts the prisoner at ease."

Sir Hartley is here to address the Texas Bar Association.

NEW YORK, July 1 (CP)—The New York World-Telegram says it has made its first and last effort to break the East-Coast drought by dropping dry ice on the clouds.

Reporter Murray Davis dumped half his planeload of dry ice over Jamaica Bay. No rain. He dropped the rest over Kenisco Reservoir. No rain.

"Ice was too dry, mebbe," the World-Telegram decided in its headline.

TORONTO, July 1 (CP) — Here we go again with the question: "Are the champions of today really as good as the champions of 50, 60, or 70 years ago?" This time we have an answer.

Mike (Kingston Whig-Standard) Rodden quotes Tommy Burns, the only Canadian ever to win the world heavyweight boxing championship, as saying: "Despite the rigid training endured by mittmen of this era, they suffer in comparison with the playboys of old who did their fastest running while dashing to the nearest pub."

A remark like that might be expected from one of the old school, but looking over Burns' record, Mike finds the Canadian has had enough experience behind him to back up his statement.

The 173-pound Burns defended his title oftener than any other heavyweight ring champ until the coming of Joe Louis and it took Jack Johnson, the 215-pound Negro who has been rated as the greatest of them all, to lift the Canadian's crown.

That bout, fought in Australia in 1908, was one of the most vicious contests in the history of modern heavyweight boxing.

"Burns lost, but by no stretch of the imagination can it be said that he didn't furnish evidence of courage and ability," writes Rodden. "Johnson was unable to depart homeward immediately after the bout as he had planned and required medical attention for a long time before he fully recovered from the effects of the body blows (which broke several of his ribs) landed by the wildcat who would not surrender."

And when Rodden describes Burns as "The wildcat who would not surrender," he isn't kidding. Checking back through an old sport almanac, we found that the police at the arena had to stop the bout to save the gallant Canadian from permanent injury.

Kinsmen Sports for Kiddies Draw Hundreds to Recreation Grounds

Hundreds of kiddies all ages and sizes got into the races at the Civic recreation grounds Friday morning to collect shiny nickels, dimes, quarters and fifty-cent pieces for prizes.

The races, one of the many features of Dominion Day celebrations sponsored by the Nelson Kinsmen Club, were preceded by a parade, which began after the soap box derby, and wound its way down to the ball grounds led by the Kootenay Kiltie Pipe Band. Some 200 children and a few parents joined in the parade.

While down at the grounds the Kiltie Pipe Band drew a crowd as it went through various formations.

Penal Guinea Pig

—Central Press Canadian

This Sing Sing prisoner recently gave 18 pints of blood in a futile attempt to save an eight-year-old girl from dying of leukemia. He is Louis Boy, 49, native of Sicily. He is now being tested weekly to determine if he contracted the dread blood disease in his voluntary effort to save the child who died June 10. Boy is serving a life sentence for complicity in the death of John T. Moore in a garage robbery. His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, then New York governor. In 1942, Boy helped medical experts test the effectiveness of atabrine as a malaria treatment, and in 1943 he volunteered to test an influenza medicine.

Kootenay Lake Survey Progress Outlined to Nelson Wildlife Group

At a well attended meeting of the Nelson Fish and Wildlife Protective Association in the City Hall Thursday evening, Dr. P. A. Larkin, Biologist to the Game Commission, gave an interesting talk on the initial stages of the work of making a biological survey of Kootenay Lake.

One of the aspects under observation, he said, was the food supply, and while it was too early to state definitely one way or the other whether this will prove to be adequate for a large fish population, there were many ways in which the local anglers could assist by giving the biologists definite data on fish taken, their length and condition and, where possible, their stomach contents. This would help materially. He urged them not to forget to return creel census cards showing the number of hours fished, "even if you catch nothing."

Dr. Larkin went on to say that spawning grounds in some cases may be contributory to poor conditions in certain waters and these grounds are also under survey by his party.

Then there were nine separate species of fish in Kootenay Lake and a study must be made to determine whether the competition for food supplies at certain stages becomes too keen for the survival of the wanted species.

Parasites were also another phase which would come under their observation.

The coarse fish subject was one sometimes badly misunderstood. In certain cases coarse fish might be far from detrimental. Being scavengers they sometimes were even beneficial in maintaining a balance.

Natural balances might also be upset by overfishing and also by underfishing "and it is our job to find out what the Kootenay waters can produce per acre, how many fish it can sustain and then recommend accordingly."

It was also necessary to know the variety of fish taken. It seemed that a large number of fishermen got mixed up on determining the smaller Kamloops from the Kokanee or Silver trout. There was one infallible rule, Dr. Larkin stated, and that was the number of spines in the Anal fin (the last fin nearest the tail of the fish on the lower side). This fin had 13 or 14 spines in the case of Silver or Kokanee trout and only 11 in the Kamloops. The difference in spots on tail was also mentioned as being an easy way of defining species.

Dr. Larkin remarked that as the survey proceeded, more interesting data would likely be available. The fishermen had many questions to ask. The majority wanted to know where to catch the most fish in the shortest time.

The Chairman, J. F. Waters, thanked Dr. Larkin for his talk.

Capital Takes It Easy on Canada's 82nd Birthday

OTTAWA, July 1 (CP) — It was hot and sticky today as Canada's capital celebrated Canada's 82nd birthday.

It was the lull between the frenzy of the election campaign and the excitement of the next session of Parliament.

There were no parades and no speeches. Most of the city's 40,000 civil servants used the long week-end to cross the Ottawa River to the cooler Gatineau Hills that could be seen from Parliament Hill by the few civil servants on duty.

For Government employees, this was the first of the five-day weeks they'll have for the rest of the Summer.

In one of the few occupied Government offices, Prime Minister St. Laurent worked during the morning. He took the afternoon off and went to a garden party at Rideau Hall, residence of Viscount Alexander, the Governor-General.

Harbor Sweetening Brings Legal Tangle

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 1 (CP) —A legal tangle involving three different companies and the City of Belleville may result from the loss of 250,000 gallons of molasses, valued at more than $30,000, during the unloading of a lake ship here last Friday.

The liquid, shipped to the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company at nearby Corbyville by a United States manufacturing firm, was pumped from the boat through a 10-inch underground pipeline to a 350,000-gallon storage tank inland. It was later discovered the pipeline sprung a leak. The molasses seeped through the ground and flowed into the harbor.

No official announcement has yet been made concerning liability for the loss.

Scenes of Joy as Que. Strike Ends

ASBESTOS, Que., July 1 (CP)—The long, drawn-out strike of asbestos miners, punctuated two months ago by bloody clashes with police, came to an end early Dominion Day and set off parades of 2000 cheering, jubilant strikers.

Settlement came through negotiations personally conducted by Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec. The men are expected to start returning to work Monday.

This Eastern townships industrial town was the storm centre of the strike that began Feb. 13. Last month settlement was effected between 2500 employees of four smaller asbestos companies in the Thetford Mines area.

Announcement that the strike against the Canadian Johns-Manville Company, employing nearly as many men as all the other companies together, came today from Gerard Picard, President of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor. The various asbestos workers' syndicates are affiliated with the Confederation.

The agreement approved by both sides provides for:

An increase of 10 cents an hour to bring the basic hourly wage to 95 cents; seniority rights; re-employment of all strikers without discrimination; four holidays with pay a year.

The National Museum in Ottawa is loaning motion pictures of biology and anthropology to schools across Canada for a more direct and popular method of teaching.

Enjoy Holiday Without Accidents

By The Canadian Press

Canadians staged one of the biggest Dominion Day celebrations in years— and most of the managed to avoid mishaps on roads and waterways.

With many thousands continuing the holiday fun during the weekend, a Canadian Press survey Friday night showed that few fatalities had been reported in Canada since the mighty trek to beach and cottage started late Thursday.

Almost everywhere, the skies were blue and a warm sun shone for Canada's 82nd birthday. For the first time, the new Province of Newfoundland joined in the festivities.

And Canadians far from home turned their thoughts to the land of the Maple Leaf. Canadians in the Australian cities of Sydney and Melbourne met for special Canada Day luncheons and the Australian Broadcasting Corporation broadcast a recorded Canadian program.

Vancouver enjoyed fine, sunny weather, with the temperature about 76 degrees. A doubleheader baseball game was the main sports attraction. British Columbia border points, along with those elsewhere in Canada, reported heavy traffic across the International Boundary.

Pentland Twins, Jack Newstead MacDonald Scholarship Winners; Nearly 140 Junior High Graduates

"The second round on the ladder of formal education", in the words of their Principal, F. L. Irwin, was completed by nearly 140 Nelson Junior High School students Thursday morning, when graduation exercises were held. Students and their parents packed the Auditorium to capacity for the all-important occasion, for which the girls were attractively gowned.

Two girls, twin sisters, and a boy, shared the Mr. Justice W. A. MacDonald Scholarship, a $25 award to the highest boy and girl in Grade IX. The girls were Louisa and Gertrude Pentland, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Pentland; and the boy was Jack Newstead, son of Mrs. J. C. Newstead.

The Scholarships were presented in honor of the late Mr. Justice MacDonald, who left Nelson in 1909. They are based 60 per cent on scholarship, 20 per cent on sports, and 20 per cent on citizenship.

The Rev. Canon W. J. Silverwood Award for Citizenship, in which academic service and sports activity are considered, was captured by Joy McEwen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McEwen.

The presentations were made by E. E. Hyndman, District School Inspector, who described the awards as "well deserved" and symbolic of the wide range of activities of the schol. Mr. Hyndman had high praise for the Junior High School and its staff.

WIN HOUSE TROPHY

For the third year in succession, Spartans won the House Trophy, a cup, which goes to the House amassing the largest number of points in inter-House competitions. Spartans had 355 points, Vikings 325 and Normans 287. Joseph Kary, representing the School Board, presented the Trophy.

Special awards went to highest point winners in the Vikings—Mark Burgess, Joyce Bland, Beverley Lythgoe and Sylvia Shorthouse.

Letter awards went to 15 students for the largest number of points collected in House activities throughout the year in game leagues, track and field participation and other school activities, citizenship and scholarship. They were presented by Very Rev. T. L. Leadbeater, Dean of Kootenay.

Winners were:

Spartans — Ray Hubert, highest Grade VII boys; Marilyn Waterer, Joy McEwen, Louisa Pentland, Linda Maddaford, Joan Stromstead and Bill McIvor.

Vikings — Mark Burgess, Trudy Pentland and Sil Benedetti.

Normans — Margaret Ann McFadden, Dorothy Rogers, Evelyn Riesterer; Pat Carney and Ruth Krane.

Valedictory address was presented by Pat Carney, who gave a thought-provoking talk on the importance of the attitude of the youth of today in preparing for future roles as world citizens.

Mr. Irwin told the graduates of the significance of their diplomas and urged them to practise the "lowly virtues"; to make them guides to all their thoughts and actions that they might develop into the best citizens they were capable of becoming, for the sake of their own success and the welfare of their fellow citizens.

Graduation gift to the school was an electric clock, to be installed in the upper hall, and in receiving it, Mr. Irwin pointed with pride to the numerous gifts of past graduate classes. While each had its own practical value to the school, the gifts were also living remembrances of the graduate classes in turn.

ORCHESTRA HEARD

Chairman was Hiromi (Spud) Uyeyama, President of the Students' Council, and the Junior High School Orchestra played a number of selections under direction of Don Cowan, Musical Director.

The hall and stage were beautifully decorated with flowers by Miss Enid Etter. The graduates posed for a photograph prior to the exercises.

Love Problems

Simple Decisions Not Always Easy Especially When Righting Wrongs

Those who were brought up to know their Bible stories will remember the man who asked one of the old prophets how he could cure his leprosy. The prophet told him simply to go and bathe in a nearby river.

The man was angry at being told such a simple thing would cure him and refused to do it. Whereupon his servant, who seemed to have a remarkable knowledge of psychology, suggested that if the prophet had told the man to do something hard to cure himself, he would have done it without question, but because the thing was so easy, he wouldn't believe it would work.

NO SIMPLE WAY

This story comes to my mind as I read a letter from a man who seems to be passing up the simple way to solve his problem and trying to find a complicated one.

He tells me that, some time ago, he left his wife after two years of marriage because they were constantly quarreling. A lack of money and "no decent place to live" were the chief causes of their quarrels, he says. Apparently, he left more or less on the impulse of an excited moment, because he says: "At that time I was all mixed up, and could only think of the mean things she had said to me. I made up my mind we were through. My wife went to work and didn't ask me for support.

"She had hurt me so deeply that I admit I was out for revenge. So when I met another woman who seemed very agreeable, and thought everything I did was right, I planned to marry her eventually. She knew I was married and separated from my wife.

SEES MISTAKE

"Now I see my mistake. This woman doesn't have the character my wife has, and I am losing all respect for her. I want to go back to my wife. I feel so ashamed when I face my family and friends, and I would like to end this relationship immediately. It has taken two years of separation from my wife to prove to me what a swell kid she was.

"But how can I tell this other woman? I am afraid of what might happen. I am in a terrible mess. Tell me how to get out of it."

Now there are two things this man wants to do. One is to tell the woman with whom he has become involved that he wishes to end their relationship. The second is, he wants to go back to his wife.

As I see it, the right way to go about both these things is very simple and direct, and perhaps, like the man in the Bible story, it is this very simplicity that makes him overlook it. What he should obviously do is, in the first place, to tell the other woman frankly and honestly that he has made a mistake; that he is sorry for having upset her life as well as his own, and that he now wants to mend his mistake so far as possible by going back to his wife and trying to work out his marriage. Then, in the second place, he should take the simple way of being equally frank and honest with his wife, telling her also that he is sorry for the past and is sincerely anxious to make the future happier for her.

FACE FACTS

I am not saying that because these things are the simple and obvious ones to do, the doing will be easy. But I do say, that if this man will stop trying to evolve some miraculous sytem through which he can pull a few strings and put the whole situation back into its original shape again; if he will face the facts squarely, and move towards his objectives in a straight line, he will have far more chance of achieving them than in any other way.

Beauty Hints

No Woman Need Look Her Age Today, Easy To Look 15 Years Younger

It's a great day for the ladies! A spot check of a dozen top beauticians on women vs. age brought this unanimous verdict: The great majority look years younger than they are.

It appears that no woman need look her age today. If she "keeps up," she can even stump the experts on the birthday question. One extremely encouraging male expert went so far as to say there needn't be much difference in the age, a woman looks from 28 to 40 . . . or even to 45! "If a woman is smart," he declared, "no one need know her age until she no longer cares to conceal it—if that time ever comes."

AGE SIGNS

But suppose she isn't careful—what gives age away then? Many things . . . settled posture, and "old" walk, a lost waistline, wrong style in clothes (too young or too old), frown lines, a sagging chinline, crepey throat, an unflattering haird-do—any of these things can not only make a woman's age an open secret but can even make her appear older than her calendar years.

Interested? Here are just a few of the details . . .

A FEW HINTS

POSTURE: It's all-important. A woman must be particularly conscious of posture from 30 on—slumping won't pass for the debutante slouch after that age! If posture, especially head carriage, is right, there'll be no trouble with the chin line. WALK: Watch your step. Walking from the knees and turning feet out can put a gal in the beyond-forty class. WEIGHT: Excess pounds definitely pad age, but extreme underweight is aging too. Normal weight for individual build is the youngest weight from every angle. FACE: Keep a fresh-looking skin . . . and ward off unnecessary lines. Skin care naturally helps, but expressions play a big part too. Frowning makes droopy lines and etches them deeper. Habitual tension can make even a young person look old. Too much alcohol and late hours are ruinous to any woman's face. HAIR: Well-brushed locks and the right hair-do does so much. With classic features a severe hair style may be striking, but most women need a softer effect. Dyes? Hair can be lightened—but seldom darkened.

The most delightful observation on chin and throat lines came from a distinguished looking Frenchman with a decided accent: "The too-thin ladies get the scraggly neck as they get along,", he explained sadly. "And the ones who are—how you say it—poly roly, get two chins!" Mais oui!

Our authorities agreed that age can sneak up on a woman after 30. As one expressed it, "We sort of have to put up resistance to age from then on."

But don't fight too hard! Trying to look too young is a dead giveaway. According to the men, when a woman hangs onto youth for dear life, that's when age shows most. Too much effort to conceal a sign of age only accentuates it.

"But why should a woman tell her age?" asked one gallant gentleman. "If she feels young and looks her best, what possible difference does age make?" . . . Cheers!

For Parents

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

Dominating Eldest Child May Be Feeling Own Position Insecure

It's amazing how naive some parents are about the problem of jealousy in the older child. They seem to suppose that all parents need to do is to prepare the first child at 2, 3 or 4 for the coming of the next baby, by talking to him of the expected new brother or sister. They suppose that everything will be lovely thereafter. The assumption seems to be that jealousy is likely to occur only during the first few weeks or months of the new baby's life, and that talk can easily prevent this jealousy.

Well, such preparation is, of course, desirable. But it alone is not adequate or permanent in effect. Indeed, it might do little good even for the first several weeks of the new arrival's life unless the older child has enjoyed considerable physical and emotional independence of the mother up to then. What is more, jealousy hazards never wholly disappear as long as the older or younger child is alive. Countless new situations arise that cause jealousies, even after both the older and younger are married and have children of their own.

BIG PROBLEM

Let us ask of the child of any age how secure he feels in the family, whether he feels he is loved as much as the other child or children. No matter what we parents believe is true, what the child believes is so for him. (My bulletin, "Jealousy", may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

Now the older the first of two children is, the less likely, as a rule, are his parents to suspect that he might not feel secure emotionally, even though he be a big problem to his parents. Also, the wider the difference in age between the eldest child and the next one in age, the more he may suffer from jealousy, and the less likely are his parents to suspect there is jealousy. Relatively few parents are aware of the possibilities of jealousy in the teenage child who has one or more brothers and sisters several years younger.

DON'T "BABY"

"Dear Dr. Myers: I have a boy 14 years of age. He is getting to be quite a problem, being so bossy and mean at times with his little brother, 6, and sister, 8. They bring a lot of this on themselves, as they are very bad about getting into his things. But when I talk to him he doesn't really want to be mean to them, but they seem to get on his nerves. I have often wondered if maybe we didn't prepare him for the coming of his baby sister just right."

In part, I replied: Make sure first that these younger children don't interfere with the rights and possessions of their older brother, that they mind their own business, especially when his friends drop in. Enlist the aid of your friends in applauding his achievements and try to set the stage so he will find more ways to win approval of his own pals. In all sorts of ways you and Dad might let him know by your attitudes and remarks that you consider him the "young man" of the family. Take him into your counsels. Seek his opinions about matters which concern the entire family. Let him have privileges and responsibilities the younger children cannot have. Dad might entertain him at lunch down town occasionally, and go places with him alone or together with a few of his pals. The younger children can easily see that he has certain consideration because he is so much older. As he gains in a feeling of worthwhileness and family security, he will have less of an urge to boss the younger children or appear to be mean to them.

Sufferers From Heartburn Must Eat Slowly and Avoid Bad Habits

At one time or another nearly everybody has experienced the burning sensation below the lower part of the breast bone which is known as "heartburn." Many people, particularly those who suffer from other disturbances of the stomach and bowel, are annoyed by this symptom frequently.

The distress comes on most often shortly after eating, particularly after the "bolting" of a large meal. Other symptoms may be associated with the heart burn. In some cases, there is actually pain in the pit of the stomach. Sometimes, there is a feeling of fullness. In many instances, the patient brings up acid or sour fluid into the mouth.

Belching is also frequently present. In most cases, the belching is due to air-swallowing. The patient swallows air and brings it up again.

CAREFUL STUDY

A careful study of a number of patients with heartburn has shown that the immediate cause in most cases is nervous tension. Those who have heartburn recognize that their symptoms become worse during emotional strain. Overtiredness may also be an aggravating factor.

Sometimes certain foods may tend to bring on the difficulty. Fatty foods, dried foods, spices, gravies, and sweets are often thought to be responsible.

Heartburn, in many cases, is not due to any actual disease of the stomach and bowel, nor does it seem to be caused by excessive acid in the stomach.

Most patients with heartburn have bad eating habits. They may eat too fast, consume large amounts of fluids with their meals, and drink large amounts of carbonated beverages. Often they are in the habit of swallowing air.

CONDITION OF MUSCLES

It is thought that heartburn is probably produced by changes in the condition of the muscles in the lower part of the esophagus which leads from the mouth to the stomach. Spasm of these muscles may be brought on by nervous tension and emotional upsets. Thus in treating this condition, it is important that nervous strain and emotional disturbances be avoided. Since poor eating habits also seem to contribute to the development of the condition, these bad habits must be corrected. Patients with heartburn must be persuaded to eat slowly, to refrain from gulping fluids with their meals, and to avoid overeating. Foods which are known to bring on distress should be eliminated from the diet.

Drug treatment apparently is of no great value for heartburn.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. S.: What is scurvy, and what is its cause? Would it affect the scalp?

Answer: Scurvy is a condition which results from a lack of vitamin "C." It produces such symptoms as bleeding of the gums loss of weight and strength, and, in severe cases, bleeding into the joints.

Treatment consists of the administration of vitamin "C" in large doses.

The condition does not affect the scalp particularly.

Movie Gossip

Finds No Reason Why Bob Hope Can't Win Academy Award If Crosby Can

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 29 (AP) — If Crosby can win an Academy award, why not Hope?

This proposition is getting more sensible with each new Bob Hope picture. He is now making "Where Men Are Men," a remake of "Ruggles of Red Gap" in which he sports mutton-chop sideburns and a British accent.

The comic glowed with the news that the Gettysburg address scene, which Charles Laughton did memorably in the original film, now will be included in the new version.

"When I suggested a few months ago that I recite the address, they laughed at me," Hope said. "Now they've decided to leave it in.

"You know what changed their minds? It was the 'Sorrowful Jones' reviews, which indicated I might actually be able to act."

IT'S MURDER

Hope lamented the fate of a comic who wants to do something fairly dramatic.

"It's murder. People look at me and they automatically start laughing. I walk down the street and they say, 'there's Bob Hope—ha ha ha!'"

He added that "Sorrowful" helped make a transition for him. "Working with the kid gave me a chance to do something serious without being too obvious," he said.

Bob still hopes to get away for a two-week vacation in Jasper Park, Canada, but he said a few days in the local mountains revived his spirits before starting the picture.

"The air is pure ovaltine up there," he said. "One deep breath and the bellboy catches you and puts you to bed."

Gray Creek . . .

GRAY CREEK, B. C.—An odd experience occurred to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson at their trailer camp on Gent's Beach here. Mr. Nelson in the morning pulled out nine fine trout one after the other. As the fish suddenly stopped coming, after their fashion, he strung them on a loop and suspended them in the water on a length of line off the rocks, to keep fresh. At supper-time that evening, his wife went for the fish and came back crying that they had gone. He hurried down. There was the loop of line pulled up, with nothing on it but the chewed gills. No bear had been seen in the neighborhood, nor would a bear fish on a steep cliff. Mr. Nelson thinks it must have been an otter who devoured the trout, with her two kits. He has not seen an otter, but squaw fish left on a rock ledge always disappear.

Stars Just Home-Bodies Says Maureen's Aide

TORONTO, July 1 (CP) — The majority of Hollywood movie stars are just home-bodies when off the set, says Toronto-born Eleanor Blair, actress Maureen O'Hara's social secretary.

The ones which do kick up once in a while are partly justified, she says, because emotional strain and pressure brought by the director forces them to play hard between pictures.

Miss Blair visited Los Angeles nine years ago, met Miss O'Hara, wife of a director, and was persuaded by the actress to become governess for her daughter, Bronwyn. She now is here on vacation.

"Maureen is up at 6 a.m. and is on the set at nine o'clock. Most times she gets home about seven or seven-thirty at night," says Miss Blair. "After that she concentrates on family life. Any entertainment is on a small scale with few business connections."

Miss Blair says shopping, secretarial and governess duties keep her busy.

Movie-going is not included in the household's entertainment—"too tired and too busy."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional white satin with sweetheart neckline, lily-point sleeves and shoulders and yoke inset with lace. The skirt ended in a gracefully flowing train with a full length veil held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried mauve orchids on a white prayerbook, with white velvet streamers. Her only ornament was her grandmother's pearls.

The bride was attended by Miss Bette Rothwell, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and her cousin, Miss Mabel Ferris, as bridesmaid. The bride's little sister, Terry, was flower girl. The groom was attended by his brother, Douglas Rothwell. The ushers were Calvin and Gary Ferris, brothers of the bride. Mrs. M. Campbell played the nuptial music. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Douglas Knowler sang "Because."

The reception was held in the Fruitvale Community Hall, when 75 guests gathered to fete the happy couple. More, to which the groom responded. Douglas Rothwell proposed the toast to the bridesmaids. Misses Esther Schewe, Elaine Wilson, Evelyne Wilmot and Joyce Fraser were serviteurs.

For her going away costume, the bride chose a suit of pearl grey gabardine with navy accessories and a corsage of mauve orchids. Following a short honeymoon at Spokane and other U. S. points, the happy couple will make their home in Fruitvale.

Out of town guests included the bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. E. J. Ferris, her aunt, Miss Reta Ferris and Miss Catherine McEwan, all of Portage La Prairie Man.; Miss Mabel Ferris and Miss Marlene Ferris of McDonald, Manitoba, cousins of the bride, and Miss Bette Rothwell of Creston, B. Charge Americans Favoring Birth Control in Japan

VATICAN CITY, July 1 (AP) — American experts are pushing an "unscrupulous campaign favoring birth control in Japan, the Catholic Information Service Fides charged today.

The charge was published in the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano under the heading: "The problems of the Japanese population.

Fides, which described itself as an independent agency with close contact in the Vatican office of Propaganda Kide aFith, quoted numerous Japanese publications to support its charge.

It said that population experts had long awaited a favorable occasion to practice their theories in Japan now it added. They have found "a favorable field of action."

Fides said Japan is being turned into a scientific laboratory" and its people into instruments of American experts who are attempting to spread the idea of artificial birth control. . . ."

Sees Need for Girls To Know More of Marriage, Femininity

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1 (CP)— Girls should be taught more about "the satisfactions of femininity, marriage and motherhood," a prominent psychiatrist said today.

Dr. Lewis L. Robbins of Topeka, Kas., addressing the annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association, deplored modern emphasis on material values, success and "glamor."

Greater stress on courses in home economics, child-bearing, sex hygiene and marriage will help combat "the social instability of the family," he said. The combined efforts of the industrial revolution, two world wars and the depression of the 1930s had forced women to think of home and career separately, "often with the result that they find themselves in the dilemma of choice between the two."

11 Rules for Rearing Children From Probation Officer's Experience

By MARIENNE IZSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 1 (CP) — Can you remember what you were like as a child?

Mrs. Joseph A. Mercer, probation officer for Manhattan Children's Court, says that's an important part of successful upbringing of your own children. When dealing with their misdemeanors, remember you weren't a paragon of virtue yourself.

She has dealt with 5000 children during her seven years as probation officer. In most cases, she says, parents are to blame for child problems.

Sixty per cent of the problem children come from broken homes, she estimates, and 20 per cent are from homes in which there is continual strife and wrangling.

These are the 11 points she listed today as being most important in the rearing of children:

1. Give your children enough affection to let them know they're loved—but don't spoil them.
2. Don't give too much attention to one child and neglect others.
3. Allow them to play outside as much as possible to help burn off excess energy.

ROOM TO PLAY

4. If possible, give them some privacy. An extra room to be used as a playroom after they are seven or eight years old is a boon.
5. Don't repress their individuality too much. Let them be themselves.
6. Try to find out what's in their minds. Take time out to play with them.
7. Let them choose their own sports and recreations.

Here's To a Safe and Sane Holiday

Vacationists can do much to assure themselves accident-free and disease-free holidays this Summer, the Health League of Canada states in its annual vacation-time message to citizens of the Dominion and tourists from the United States.

The Health League lists as important reminders the following "safe and sane" vacation hints:

If you are a non-swimmer, avoid deep water and stay out of a canoe! No one should go in the water immediately after eating!

Learn about artificial respiration—you may save somebody's life!

Make certain your vacation milk supply is pasteurized—if the commercial product is not available, pasteurize it yourself! Home pasteurization information may be obtained from the Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ont.

Be sure your water supply is pure!

Take the sun in easy doses—sunburn is a real burn!

Learn what poison ivy looks like—then avoid it!

Avoid over-exertion, particularly if you are unaccustomed to strenuous exercise!

In hot weather use more salt in your diet!

Take precautions against possible food supply contamination by flies and rodents.

Snobbery?

A resolution passed at a convention of war veterans in Alberta urges the Dominion Government to restrict immigration to peaple of "British descent". There should be little attention paid to that short-sighted, unreasonable and decidedly democratic request, says The Financial Post.

The delegates who voted approval must have been completely blind. They only had to look around the Province where their convention was held to see the immense benefits of wide-open immigration.

In Alberta, as in all our Western Provinces, a great deal of development and progress is the work of people whose forebears never touched foot in the British Isles. Many of them, it is true, did come from Britain, but thousands of others trace their ancestry to France, Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries or elsewhere.

This influx of new blood has brought us increased strength, just as continuous immigration from Continental Europe all down through the centuries has enriched the United Kingdom.

Until this country is fully settled, we have no right, and we would be extremely foolish, to bar any newcomer willing to work and to fit into our way of life.

It's Been Said

Love conquers all things; let us yield to love.—Publius Virgilius Maro Vergil.

Verse

SNOWBOUND

Lonely mountain tops, in space,
Bedevilled by the constant snow,
Stand aloft, with lordly grace,
And seem splendid to us below,
When bathed by the sun's descending glow.

But power, also, do they hold,
For once their torrents were too bold,
And there was grief and damage untold
For those below, whose hearts were cold
As over their lands the waters rolled.

Oft', though, in Spring, the waters run free,
And maddened though they seem to be,
They flow on to the open sea.
The mountains may laugh with merry glee;
But the people can but thankful be.

For once in many a score of years,
The mountains hold their frozen flanks,
And then, people realize their fears,
For water, water bursts its banks,
The mountains rule, we're in the ranks.

For we know that the mountains stand
While we pass on to another land.
They can always tower so grand
While we are like small grains of sand,
Wrought thus by (some) God's Almighty hand.

We Accuse

A young man from Latvia, who now lives in Regina, and who does not wish his name to appear in print for fear of reprisal against relatives in Europe, looked back eight years to June 14, 1941.

On that date, the Russian Army arrested 65,000 citizens of the Baltic States and sent them to slave camps. And in 1941, this 22-year-old Latvian last saw his parents.

This is his story:

Today is one long to be remembered by displaced persons from the Baltic States—Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania.

On June 4, 1941, the Red Army arrested 65,000 of those people and sent them to Siberia and many other slave camps, where they were and still are making ammunition and weapons for the next war against democracy and culture.

Many of them are dead from inadequate food, heavy work, and lack of medical aid, but they will never die in our memory because they are loyal and our best sisters, brothers, playmates and fellows.

So today in all churches where it is not forbidden with strict punishments, the people from once-free States are going to pray to God for them to be freed from their painful life and violence from the Communists.

We thank them for their loyalty and because of their courage, and we pray that our countrymen will have free and fortunate people some day, with no longer the fear of bullets from dictators' guns.

We accuse the Kremlin dictators for their gory work of what they have done and are still doing.

We accuse the Kremlin for ruining our native country.

We accuse the Kremlin for being inhuman.

I, 22 years old, Latvian, would like to see my parents again, who, at present, if they are alive, are living in one of the many slave camps. I lost my parents in the year 1941, when I needed them most, their advice and education.

I will never forget Stalin and his servants for tormenting our country, taking from us our cultural life and freedom.

We accuse!

—Regina Leader Post.

Doctor's Dilemma

At its convention the other day the California Medical Association gloomily discussed one of the problems of modern civilization: the increasing difficulty of how to vaccinate girls so that the scar won't show, in view of the shrinking lines of today's bathing suits.

It was all a very simple matter a generation ago. Little boys received their pre-school vaccination in the arm. Girls were vaccinated in the leg above the knee, and this naturally was perfect assurance that the gaze of the curious would never see the scar. The soggy bathing suits of that era were regarded as daring if they revealed even so much as a glimpse of the knee. As far as gym displays and other sports were concerned, the tell-tale pock-mark was discreetly hidden somewhere under the voluminous folds of the navy blue bloomers that went with the standard uniform of middy-and-bloomers. Unless a young woman—perish the thought—became a chorus girl or a circus acrobat, the world never knew whether or not she was protected against the hazard of smallpox. For that matter, it was considered none of the world's business.

The problem, as we see it—and who doesn't, on the bathing beaches today?—appears to be too futile for busy doctors to fret over.

For one thing, if girls are determined to wear scanty swim suits, then the vaccination mark should be their worry, not the doctors'. And for another, the doctors can't win anyway. It makes little difference what ingenious ideas they may think up—the bathing suit designers will always be one clip of the scissors ahead of them, because they can spend all their time concentrating on new twists for next year's styles while the doctors are continually being distracted by patients who insist on having tonsils and gall bladders treated. The contest therefore hardly seems fair.—Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

Voter, Nelson—On what date in 1948 did Newfoundland decide to enter Confederation?

July 22.

Newcomer, Trail—Apparently Quebec, Ontario and some other Provinces have Latin mottoes. What is British Columbia's?

Splendor Sine Occasu (Splendor Without Diminishment).

Mrs. D. G., Nelson—Please tell me how to make bread croustades.

Cut slices of bread from one to two inches thick, remove brown part of crust and cut each trimmed piece into two oblongs or two triangles, or into four squares or four triangles for small croustades. They can, if preferred, be shaped with a cookie cutter. Insert the point of a very sharp knife into top of croustade, about one-half inch from edge, and cut round the outline, running knife down to within one-half inch of bottom. Then, by carefully inserting knife-point horizontally, cut out and remove centre, leaving a box with half-inch walls and bottom. Fry these cases in deep fat, then fill with whatever is to be served—creamed chicken with ring of green peas, shrimps, minced meat, etc. The first ones may seem a little difficult to make, but perseverance brings quick results.

Looking Backwards

10 YEARS AGO

Frank Swerydo will carry the green and white for Nelson into the British Columbia men's championship in track and field at Trail today. He will enter the quarter mile, half mile, and perhaps the mile.

There were only six forest fires in the district this week, and every one of them was extinguished by the end of the week. They were all small. This is the sixth week that all fires were extinguished by the end of the week.

It took Jack Nolan, heavyweight champion of Canada, just three rounds and 40 seconds to put Joe Reice, the battling logger of Golden, to sleep last night in a scheduled 10-round bout in the Recreation Club's gym.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the season thus far, the mercury climbing to 93 degrees above zero in the shade. Grand Forks was the hottest Kootenay town, as it reached the 100-degree mark. Cranbrook, like Nelson, hit the 93-degree mark.

40 YEARS AGO

From The Daily News of July 2, 1909

The great event of the Dominion Day celebrations was the race between Lou Scholes of Toronto and T. (Del) DesBrisay of Nelson. The race was half an hour late, due to the private craft on the lake. However, when it did get started Lou showed what a wonderful oarsman he was by winning over "Del" by a length and a half.

Reports on Personnel Relations

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has made a survey of 1300 Canadian firms to find out what they are doing in regard to personal relations.

The results were given in an address by W. J. Sheridan, of Montreal, Manager of the Chamber's Department of economic development. Addressing the annual meeting of the Canadian Paper Box Manufacturers Association, Inc., at Manior Richelieu, Que., he said in party:

"Ninety-seven per cent of 29 companies with 5000 employees or more, employ personnel who are engaged primarily in employee relations among 117 companies with 1000 to 4999 employees; 73 per cent among 113 companies in the 500 to 999 group; 54 per cent among 186 companies in the 250 to 499 group; companies in the 100 to 249 group.

"The fact that 34 per cent of the reporting companies employing 100 to 249 employees have individuals who are engaged full or part time on this important work, would seem to indicate that all those who employ more than 250 employees should have people engaged in this work.

"Only 41 per cent of reporting companies employing 100 people or more have a handbook which contains information concerning the rules and regulations, the policy, aims and history of the company. A bright spot, however, is that one-third of those companies who have no such booklet indicate that they plan to issue one.

U. K. Railwaymen To Abandon "Slow Down"

LONDON, July 1 (CP)—The men who run Britain's state-owned railways today called off a threatened slow-down, in response to Government arguments that it would jam the vital exports program.

They yielded to pleas that interference with transportation would jeopardize the country's economic security and decided to carry on their wage demands through mediation, not strike action.

The slow-down had been scheduled to start Sunday midnight. Leaders of the 60,000 union men asked Labor Minister Isaacs to intervene between the union and officials of the nationalized railway system.

Isaacs is expected to name an independent fact-finding commission which will report to Parliament.

As the rail-strike threat was lifted, some prospect appeared for an early settlement of the London dock strike. The work-stoppage spread to a total of 7922 men and 87 ships, but the general secretary of the powerful transport and General Workers' Union said new steps are being taken to get the men back to work.

The first break came when four gangs of dockers agreed to handle a fruit cargo before it could spoil. They provided, however, that their earnings must go to a union-supported hospital.

Today the dock workers sent a deputation to ask L. Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner in London, to intervene in hte dispute, called in support of a Canadian Seamen's Union strike against Canadian ship owners.

Hits Snag in Treaty Drafting

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON, July 1 (AP) — The Big-Four treaty writers hit a snag today in their new try at drafting an independence pact for Austria.

They wrangled for three hours to no decision over a Russian demand for guarantees on the rights of Slovene and Croat minorities in Austria. Then they adjourned for the weekend.

Winnie's Voice Most Theatrical, Academy Decides

NEW YORK, July 1 (CP)—Winston Churchill has the most theatrical voice in the world and Trygve Lie the most sincere.

At least, that's the way the National Academy of Vocal Arts rated them today in a list of the 10 outstanding voices of the world.

Movie actress Lauren Bacall, the only woman named, has the sexiest voice, the Academy said. The most effeminate is that of Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

The remaining top 10: sauvest, Dean Acheson, United States State Secretary; most authoritative, Ben Grauer, radio commentator and reporter; most paradoxical, Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer; most explosive, Leo Durocher, fiery manager of the New York Giants; friendliest, Dan Seymour, radio master of ceremonies; and most pugnacious, John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers union.

Churchill, Britain's wartime prime minister, rated as having the most theatrical voice because he is "always the actor playing to an audience," said Arthur Lessac, director of the Academy. The secretar'-general of the United Nations won the nod in the sincerest voice category, because he speaks in a "simple, direct and believable manner."

Tigers Take Rossland, Fruitvale To Capture $100 Baseball Tourney

By CLIVE FLEMING

Nelson Tigers took the $100 ball tourney held here July 1 the hard way, by beating both Rossland Cubs and Fruitvale, coming from behind in each game. In the first game, the Tigers were behind Rossland three times, but won 11-7 with a big five-run tenth inning, while in the second game with Fruitvale, who got a bye from the toss of a coin, the Tigers trailed twice and clinched the game with a three-run outburst in the ninth, winning 8-4.

The games were part of the Kinsmen celebration program.

Youthful Ron Brown, Nelson starter against Rossland, didn't allow one Cub to reach first base in the first four innings, but left the game for Jack Mathers an inning later when the Cubs grabbed a 3-0 lead. Nelson took the lead in the next inning with four runs, topped by a terrific homer by Carl Locatelli in deep centre, and two doubles. Rossland regained the lead in the same inning with Marshall's two-run circuit clout. Hits were a dime a dozen and at the end of the ninth, the score was tied 6-6.

Red Koehle tripled and Bill Haldane doubled for his second time in the top of the tenth when relief pitcher Rusty Wynn met a six-hit barrage, scoring five runs. Cubs got back one run in the bottom of the tenth, but were defeated 11-7 by the reinvigorated Tigers, who outhit the Cubs 18-6.

THREE HOME RUNS

Home runs in the game were hit by Locatelli and Swensen for Nelson, and Rossland's Marshall. John Densky and Red Koehle banged out three base hits, while two-baggers went to Haldane with two, Fritz Koehle, Swensen and Marshall.

Nelson made two double plays to Rossland's one.

In the second game, between Fruitvale and Nelson for the championship, Fruitvale scored twice in the second inning, only to have the Tigers come back with a pair of runs in the top of the third. Once more Fruitvale took the lead with a run, but again Nelson fought back and took the lead in the top of the fourth.

Jack Mathers took over from Les Hufty in the sixth after Sandy McInnes doubled and tied the game. Bob Pitts, who batted three for four, drove in Red Koehle from second base for what proved to be the winning run. Locatelli started out the ninth with a triple, and three more runs crossed the plate for Nelson to ice the game 8-4. Joey Monaldi came in to relieve Fuzzy Grieve in the ninth, but was too late.

McInnes and Secco drove out two base hits for Fruitvale, and Locatelli's triple was Nelson's only extra base hit. Nelson made two twin killings.

First game:

Nelson 000 004 011	5	11	18	5
Rossland 000 032 001	1	7	8	2

Second game:

Schroeder Wins Wimbledon

LONDON, July 1 (CP) — Ted Schroeder of California won the Wimbledon singles tennis championship, defeating the Czech lefthander, Jaroslav Drobny, in a lightning-fast five-set battle.

Schroeder, a 28-year-old refrigeration engineer, always seemed the stronger of the two finalists in this greatest of tennis championships, except in the first set when Drobny's crashing first service did more damage than the American's.

From then on the American produced passing shots to which the Czech was again and again unable to find an answer.

The top-seeded favorite from La Crescenta, Calif., completed his conquest of the men's singles title, 3-6, 6-0, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

The 27-year-old Californian started the tournament June 20 as a 7-to-4 favorite.

Queen Mary, Princess Margaret, the Duke of Edinburgh and the Duchess of Kent saw the match, played in steaming heat. The Duchess came down on the court from the royal box to present the victor's trophy to Schroeder.

ALL-U.S. FINALS

All-United States finals tomorrow in both men's and women's doubles, as well as women's singles, were assured by the outcome of semi-final matches today.

United States champion Richard Gonzales and Frankie Parker, both of Los Angeles, will meet Schroeder and Gardnar Mulloy for the men's doubles title. The latter pair gained the final round Thursday.

In the women's doubles final it will be Louise Brough of Beverly Hills and Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Bellevue, Del., against Gertrude Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., and Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif.

Miss Brough and Mrs. Dupont also will meet in the singles final for the title won last year by Miss Brough.

Good catches which this season have sent Kootenay Lake's reputation for fine fishing sky high, have not diminished over the last two weeks.

Twenty-six trout that have swallowed lures of Kootenay and United States anglers in that time have reached the books of Gyro Trout Derby Statistician Harry Swingler of Nelson.

They bring the total since opening May 1 to a record-breaker for the time of the season of 246.

Several fishermen from across the line have recorded fine catches in the latest batch. Most prolific was W. E. Alexander from Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Phil Stuman, Tensed, Idaho, Waltonian, is still leading the race with his 17 pound, 12 ounce catch of late May.

Nine Tune Up For Gold Cup

DETROIT, July 1 (AP)—A classy field of nine speedboats was tuned up today for the 42nd annual running of the Gold Cup race tomorrow.

Several other boat owners hurriedly sent their craft through qualifying trials in hopes of winning a starting berth in the race, oft-referred to as the "Kentucky Derby of American speedboat racing."

Among late qualifiers today was Henry J. Kaiser's Hot Metal which did three laps around the 2½-mile course at an average of 67.601 miles an hour. The qualifying requirement is 65 m.p.h.

Miss Great Lakes, the defending champion, qualified with a 67.72 m.p.h. mark today, as did two other Detroit boats.

They were: Miss Pepsi, driven by Chuck Thompson, 69.213 m.p.h. and Astraea, driven by D. Cameron Peck of Chicago which did 66 m.p.h.

The qualifying tests left Wild Bill Cantrell's My Sweetie as favorite for the Gold Cup. Cantrell qualified earlier this week with a 92.402 mark and hit well past the 100-mile-an-hour mark on the straightaway.

Bandleader Guy Lombardo, a native of London, Ont., qualified with 73.127 in Tempo VI.

The race will be a 90-mile affair, staged in three 30 mile heats, over the Detroit River course.

The winner will be adjudged on a point system, with 400 for any first place in any heat; 400 for the boat making the fastest 90 miles and 400 for the craft doing the fastest 30 miles.

TRACK RECORDS FALL

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 1 (CP) —A Dominion track record was smashed, another equalled, and a new provincial record set, as a record turnout watched today's 43rd annual running of Vancouver's police sports.

Highlight was the exceptional performances of the Oregon University track squad, who showed well in every event.

Vancouver's Hudson's Bay squad set the new national record in the 440-yards women's relay, defeating three other Canadian teams to check in with a 49.8 time. Previous Dominion mark was 50.6.

Victoria Y.M.C.A.'s Bob Hutchison, good Olympic potential, came through with a great 22.3 race to tie the standing Canadian mark for the 220-yards dash.

Husky Vancouver Olympic star, John Pavelich, set the new British Columbia record in the shot putt with a throw of 47.4 feet.

There are nearly 70 bird sanctuaries, located in all parts of Canada, with a total area of 1360 square miles.

Philadelphia Jacks In Diamond Sculls Final

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 1 (AP) — Two Philadelphia buddies — Jack Kelly and Jack Trinsey — row for Henley's diamond sculls tomorrow in the first all-United States final of the famed regatta's 110 years.

Kelly stroked smoothly today as he defeated Tom Neumaier of the Netherlands, by three lengths in the first of the semi-final races. He pushed his tiny craft through one mile, 550 yards of smooth water in eight minutes, 12 seconds.

In contrast, Trinsey wobbled all over the course as he eliminated Ian Duff Barclay of London and Scotland, by almost two lengths in 8:37. However, the course wasn't as fast at the time as when Kelly rowed.

Kelly is favored to defeat Trinsey, a sprinter, tomorrow. He is heavier by 14 pounds and is vastly more experienced.

Kelly won the diamond sculls in 1947 and was the United States Olympic representative here a year ago in singles rowing.

"GENTLEMEN ONLY" SLUR REMOVED

His 1947 triumph climaxed his father's ambition to see the Kelly name on the Henley records. The father generally was regarded as the world's best sculler two decades ago but was barred from the Henley because he had worked with his hands. Kelly, Sr., had been a brick layer before trying for the title.

The rule which restricted the race to "gentlemen only" has since been removed.

Young Kelly now is a senior at the University of Pennsylvania. Trinsey is a musician and for a time studied the cello. Both finalists are 22.

Swansons Win 4-2 Over Bombers

CRANBROOK, B. C., July 1 — Swansons edged up to within a half game of third place in softball Thursday night with their 4-2 win over Bombers who outhit them 11-7 and left seven men on bases.

Bryan Logan Ends Carmichael Reign In Bug Race; Burdett Junior Victor

Flashing down the Silica Street track in 22.3 and 23.4 seconds, 12-year-old Bryan Logan captured the Kinsmen Club's Soapbox Derby and broke the hold of the Carmichael brothers on the event since it started six years ago. He defeated Bill Carmichael, 15, last year's winner, in the first heat of the senior event.

Meanwhile, Bill Burdett, 10, captured the junior event, just edging Bob Olsen, 11, who cracked up just before the finish line. Olsen was unhurt. Bill Hryniuk, 11, was third.

There were thrills and spills galore in the races in which there were 17 junior and senior entries. No driver was hurt seriously, however.

The boys raced against time in the various heats, with heat winners later racing for first, second and third places.

RADIO UNITS USED

A feature this year was the setting up of a shortwave radio service by the 111th Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery, with the operators keeping officials at starting and finishing lines in close touch. Sgt. Major E. J. Smith, artillery man in the war, and Sgt. T. J. Moorecroft, in Signals in the war, were the operators.

LAST CHAMPION

In the senior event, Bob Longden was second and Jack Fornelli third, Fornelli squeezing Alvin Mann out by half a length in a real thriller in the finals. Carmichael had been winner last year and either copped the junior events in the preceding years, or ran second to brother Roddy, too old this year, who built up a similar record in past events.

The final winner of the junior event, Bill Burdett, was the object of a widespread search after the time trials. Thinking he had lost out in the heats, he had gone home. Meanwhile, it was discovered he had accidentally been sent down the hill against a senior, Alvin Mann. Both their times were counted and Burdett was finally located in time to run in the finals.

Results of heats:

JUNIOR

First heat—Bob Olsen .25; Philip Spencer .31.

Second heat—Bill Hryniuk 26.2; Larry Fournier .27.

Third heat—Dinham Drew .26; Ronald Goodman .26.2.

Fourth heat—Bill Burdett .25.3.

Fifth heat—Gerry Linton .27; Larry Miller .27.3.

SENIOR

First heat—Bryan Logan .22.3; Bill Carmichael .26.1.

Second heat—Jack Fornelli 24.5; Lino Muto .27.3.

Third heat—Bob Longden .24.3; Rickey Lewis .30.

Fourth heat—Alvin Mann .25.

Waitkus Still Carrying Bullet

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP)—Eddie Waitkus, Philadelphia Phillies' first baseman, left the operating table today still carrying a bullet near his spine, but with both lungs working.

Waitkus, wounded June 15 by a mentally-deranged typist, underwent two hours of surgery to reinflate one lung. The lung had been partially collapsed by blood released by the bullet.

A hospital spokesman, reporting Waitkus' condition as "good," said no further surgery is planned. He is expected to remain in the hospital 10 days.

FIGHTS GALE IN WINNING TITLE

MOOSE JAW, Sask., July 1 (CP) —Tom Ross, Regina Club professional, won the Saskatchewan Open Golf Championship here yesterday. He succeeded Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, who did not defend his title.

Playing in a 50-mile-an-hour gale that almost blew the players off the course and sent scores skyrocketing, Ross turned in rounds of 82 and 83 for a total of 163, 23 more than par figures. Par Fletcher, young Regina pro, took second money and J. A. (Red) McCormick, Moose Jaw, third.

Reed Scores Three In Richmond Win

VANCOUVER, July 1 (CP) — Richmond took its second straight game last night in a 15-8 defeat of the R.C.A.F. in the Pacific Coast Senior B Lacrosse League.

The Richmond squad extended its winning streak to two in a row after the 10-8 victory over New Westminster last night.

In a rugged, close-checking game featuring three fights, Richmond Harry Reed scored three goals for the winners, bringing them to a 3-3 count at the quarter and an 8-0 count at the half.

Ian MacLean scored four points for the winners.

When Jet Hits Jet in Mid-Air

—Central Press Canadian

U.S. Army officers and sheriff's deputies are combing through the wreckage of one of the jet planes that are presumed to have collided some 25,000 feet above the earth near Gorman, Cal. The body of Pilot Capt. William A. Higgins of Cranston, R.I., was found near the plane. The pilot of the other plane, Capt. Richard Barr of State College, Pa., parachuted to earth and is hospitalized with cuts, bruises and burns. Capt. Barr was flying an F-86, said to be the world's fastest jet plane, over Antelope Valley. He can only recall that he suddenly found himself in the air, falling. He pulled his ripcord and floated to earth.

Return of the Prodigal Scrap

—Central Press Canadian

Here is a part of 9000 tons of scrap metal which arrived in the U. S. recently from Japan to be resmelted and converted into useful articles. It consists primarily of armament and steel from the Japanese naval base at Kure, now dismantled. Return of the metal to the U. S. completes a circle that was started 10 years ago when the U. S. shipped thousands of tons of scrap metal which Japan used to build her fleets and her armies for her war against the Allies. Now the scrap is back in North America again—this time to stay.

Gold Question Hot Subject In Philippines

The gold question is a hot subject in the Philipines, according to Miss Edythe Thomson, well known in Western Mining circles and paticularly in the Kootenays.

Thee is a stong movement afoot thee to ty to stabilize gold, as with the Shinese situation, anything can happen to the maket, she has written E.W. Widdowson of Nelson, for whom she was a Secretary.

Miss Thomson described the year she has spent in charge of field offices of the Panamias Mining Comppany at Manila as interesting and one she has enjoyed.

Although the heat uring April, May and June was "pretty bad" the rains are starting cooler weather is expected.

She told also of making five-day trip to Gaguio, mountain resort to the North of Manila, in February.

Miss Thompson was for 16 years Secretary of the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia. A brother is W. Stanley Jackson, City Engineer.

Snow Decorates Cranbrook Mountains

CRANBROOK, B. C., July 1 — Throw a little red and nature decorated this Kootenay Valley patriotically for Dominion Day today.

Heavy snow down to the 4500 altitude Thursday decorated blue mountains and foothills spectacularly and Cranbrook shivered miserably all day in the low forties as wind whipped rain around.

FIND ANCIENT PIT

BIRCHINGTON, Kent, England—(CP)—Working between tides, archaeologists excavated an 1800-year-old "ritual pit" in the cliff face near here. It was 32 feet deep, and contained the outsize skull of a horse, ox bones, Roman-British pottery fragments, and hundreds of unopened oyster shells.

HISTORIC CHURCH

BROOKLAND, Kent, England—(CP)—Known as the church with the wooden steeple, St. Augustine's, which recently celebrated the 700th anniversary of its founding, needs urgent repairs.
