Freedomite Elders Leaving Hilliers

VICTORIA (CP) — Vancouver Island's Doukhobors are on the move again, and nobody but the Doukhobors knows why.

The Island's only Doukhobor colony, a small village three miles from Qualicum Beach, has been losing residents steadily for the last weeks, say RCMP officers.

About six weeks ago groups of the Sons of Freedom sect of the Doukhobors were observed on the move in the Interior.

Whether the island Doukhobors are joining a general movement on the mainland is not yet known.

"We have no idea why they are going," an RCMP officer said. "We wish we did."

ELDERS LEAVE

The island colony at Hilliers was founded by the late Michael Verigin, called "Archangel" by his followers, in 1946. The settlement consists of two sections or villages.

The large compound called the village of Archangel, containing Doukhobor elders, is almost deserted, it is reported.

The smaller settlement, known as the village of Verigin, is made up of younger Doukhobors and children. It is still fairly intact, according to police.

"As a rule the Doukhobors are close-mouthed with us," the RCMP Qualicum Beach detachment said. "We don't have much to do with them unless we have to."

Movement of Sons of Freedom, chiefly from Gilpin near Grand Forks, to Hilliers was noted some weeks ago. The Kootenay sect members, however, were recently reported to have almost all returned to their homes in this area.

None of those leaving the elder community at Hilliers are coming to the Kootenay apparently.

In recent weeks a number of Sons of Freedom of Krestova have sought passports. At least 25 are known to have made applications.

These moves coincided with a report that Stefan Sorokin, spiritual leader, had again gone to South America seeking land for the group in Uruguay. He made an unsuccessful quest earlier this year. Sorokin left Krestova four weeks ago, but his followers claimed they had no knowledge of his destination. A New York Russian newspaper published what it said was an interview with the leader, who it said was in the American port en route to South America. Other reports were that he had been to San Francisco earlier.

Gov't, Alcoa Discuss $4 Million Project

VICTORIA (CP) — First official talks with the British Columbia government on the proposed $400,000,000 aluminum development near Skagway, Alaska, started today.

J. T. Growdon of Pittsburgh, Pa., chief consultant to the Aluminum Company of America which is planning the project, met with Lands Minister Sommers.

Before the meeting Mr. Sommers said he didn't know exactly what the nature of the discussion would be, but thought Alcoa might make an offer to the government in connection with water rights on the Atlin Lake watershed.

The B. C. and Canadian governments actually hold the key to the proposed development.

ALASKA MAIN INDUSTRY

The project, which would result in mushrooming of a new community of 20,000 and become Alaska's main industry, hinges on B. C. and federal approval because Atlin Lake watershed, the chief source of water supply, lies partly in B. C. and partly in the Yukon.

The hydro-electric development depends on this water.

Observers said Mr. Sommers would want to learn from Mr. Grourdon if plans for the aluminum project would adversely affect a similar project at Kitimat, being built by Aluminum Company of Canada.

GIVES SELF UP AFTER 20 YEARS

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — A 54-year-old man gave himself up to police Thursday for breaking parole 20 years ago.

Frank Connelly told police that in 1932 he stole a car in Ontario and drove it to Halifax where he was arrested. He said he was freed on bond on condition that he report regularly to police.

"I never reported and now my conscience has bothered me so much I thought I'd better give myself up," he said.

Connelly is being held on a vagrancy charge pending further investigation.

CIO DEADLOCKED OVER HEAD CHOICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—CIO leaders are reported still deadlocked in their attempt to select a new president without a public fight which might leave lasting scars.

More than 700 delegates to the sixth CIO convention are headed for Atlantic City and the showdown on the question of succession.

Stork Visits Couple on Three Thanksgiving Days

BERLIN, N. H. (AP) — The stork has an apparent preference for Thanksgiving Day when calling on the Wilfred McCreadys.

A boy was born Thursday to Mrs. McCready.

The couple has two other children — Louise, born on Thanksgiving Day 1943, and Richard, a 1949 Thanksgiving Day arival.

Some Pay More, Some Don't Pay

VICTORIA (CP) — Letting the customers estimate their own charges and pay their own bills at the cash register can be interesting for a restauranteur, but it has its headaches.

Paul Arsens, proprietor of the Dominion and Sussex cafes who is conducting the experiment in both establishments, said Thursday that people never stop asking questions, and the telephone never stops ringing.

"New York news services and two radio systems have kept in contact with us since we started this scheme last Monday," he said.

"We're still getting letters, wires and telephone calls from all over the continent."

Customers at the restaurants order what they wish, then pay what they wish. So far, a large proportion pay more than is required, a majority pay the price shown on the menu, and a scattered few have taken full advantage of the invitation to "pay what you wish."

Two Victoria men between them had soup, veal cutlets, halibut steak, sirloin tips, macaroni and cheese, two fruit salads, two orders of Boston cream pie and two cups of coffee.

"They didn't pay a cent," Arsens said ruefully. "They just got up and walked out."

"That kind of thing has happened only once or twice," he said, "but it's a worry to the waitresses."

His volume of business has doubled for the first half of the week, he said, and receipts are higher than they would have been if checks had been given—despite the non-payers.

Today, the day's receipts will be divided among the staff as Christmas bonuses.

"The atmosphere in both restaurants has been wonderful. Everyone likes the novelty of figuring up their own charges, and the men especially got a bang out of ringing up the cash registers."

LIVING SYMBOLS of the new democracy that Japan has embraced are Princess Yori, 21, daughter of the emperor, and Takamasa Ikeda, 25, a rancher. Honeymooning on the ranch, the couple have become a tourist attraction, as thousands of Japanese, marveling at the change that has come over their country and customs, journey to see them in their new home. Visitors find the emperor's daughter accompanying her husband as he tends his herds. Though both are wealthy, they plan to make the ranch a paying proposition.

AN 18-MONTH-OLD black Cocker Spaniel is able to romp and play for the first time in his life after undergoing what is believed to have been the first "blue baby" heart operation ever performed on a dog. Little "Boots," owned by Mrs. M. Davis, of Vancouver, had always been a listless dog, he couldn't run and romp without curling up on the floor in a listless heap afterward. Worried about her pet, the owner took Boots to a veterinarian, Dr. John A. Follinsbee, who diagnosed the dog's trouble as a rare heart condition, common to blue babies, in that the union between the aorta and pulmonary artery of the heart, which normally closes when a creature starts to breathe, had remained open. Successfully operated on by one of Vancouver's leading heart specialists, Boots, seen above with Dr. Follinsbee, is now the mischievous dog that he should have been months ago.—Central Press Canadian.

Prague Court Sentences Eleven to Die as Traitors

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The Prague purge court has sentenced 11 former Czechoslovak Communist leaders to die on the gallows as confessed traitors who led a Zionist, Trotskyite plot to overthrow their pro-Moscow government.

Rudolf Slansky, 51-year-old former boss and hatchet man of Czech Communism, and Vlado Clementis, former foreign minister, headed the roll of the doomed, all but three of whom are Jews.

LIFE TERMS FOR 3

Three Jewish co-defendants escaped with life terms. The court explained that one of these helped implicate the group and the other two were "merely links" in the purported conspiracy of treason, sabotage and espionage.

The Prague Radio Thursday announced the outcome of the week's hearing, marked by virulent anti-semitism and an obvious effort to Czechoslovakia's failure to fulfill brand the group as scapegoats for Russian orders for industrial and war supplies.

All 14 had confessed volubly to the charges, reciting their sins against Stalinism and President Klement Gottwald's Czech regime in a pattern that first became familiar to the Western world through the blood-letting Moscow purge trials of the 1930s.

SLANSKY RINGLEADER

Slansky, a Jew was called the ringleader of the plot.

All accepted their sentences. This indicated there would be no appeal and they would soon be hanged or sent to prison.

The final rubber stamp is to come from President Gottwald. After a struggle for power with Slansky, Gottwald has emerged as the country's strong man. Since the prisoners allegedly plotted his murder, Gottwald can be expected to show no mercy.

The plot was described throughout as "Zionist-inspired". The implications of a broader crackdown on Jews behind the Iron Curtain were obvious. Several Czechoslovak Jews already are reported to have committed suicide.

Claxton Explains Defence Buying

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton today defended the purchasing policies of his department and said the present armed forces could use up existing stores within 12 to 15 months.

He devoted a speech entirely to replying to charges by the Progressive Conservative party that there has been extravagance and waste in defence purchasing.

Mr. Claxton said the department has done largely what it should have done in view of the fact that war might have come at any time in the last few years. If there had been errors, it was surprising that they hadn't been larger in view of the scope of the defence business.

He said mobilization stores are being accumulated for three months of major war but that is only part of the explanation for current orders.

Fulton Not to Lead PCs

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Davie Fulton, M.P., left two young men to fight out the Conservative provincial leadership between them today when he firmly refused to consider a nomination.

The Kamloops member of Parliament was considered certain to win if he had let his name go before the party's leadership convention this Saturday in Hotel Vancouver.

But his refusal in favor of continuing in the federal field immediately plunged the party into disagreement over the two names now most frequently mentioned for the job: Les Bewley of Vancouver, and Deane Finlayson of Nanaimo.

Mr. Bewley, 35-year-old city lawyer and Young Progressive Conservative leader, has long been a leader of the "anti-Anscomb" faction which fought the party's resigning leader throughout his tenure.

Mr. Finlayson, association vice-president, is two years younger than Bewley. He conducts a real estate and insurance business in Nanaimo and his opponents have charged he is favored by the party's "old guard" to take over the leadership reins.

Commission Probes Brewers' $875,000 Loan to Hotels

Liquor Control Board-Brewers Relationship Comes Under Inquiry

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's liquor inquiry commission has ordered breweries in Vancouver to produce a list of B.C. hotels to which they have lent $875,000.

Disclosure of the loans to hotels came Thursday after Robert Fiddes, director of Coast Breweries Ltd., told the commission that his company had no interest in any hotel other than loans, which took the form of endorsing notes.

Mr. Fiddes said the loans were suggested by the provincial government's liquor control board to improve the hotels. He said coast breweries had loans and advances to the amount of $179,172 but that the total of $875,000 was made by the three breweries in Vancouver jointly.

The commission is inquiring into the best methods of providing for sale of liquor by the glass, approved by British Columbians in a Summer plebiscite. Under present B.C. law, beer only is sold in hotel beer parlors or by the Liquor Control Board. Liquor must be bought in government stores.

Under questioning by H. H. Stevens, commission chairman, Mr. Fiddes also said breweries here have been trying to get a price increases for beer for almost a year.

3 SHARE MONOPOLY

He also disclosed that the three breweries share the liquor board monopoly market on a pro-rata basis: Vancouver breweries, two shares; coast breweries, two shares; and Sick's Capilano breweries, one share.

Company balance sheets read by Mr. Stevens showed the brewing companies paid about $160,000 last year to the B.C. Brewing Association. Mr. Fiddes said this was to help maintain three bodies, the Dominion, the Western and the B.C. Brewing Associations.

Macy's Parade Draws 2 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — The 26th Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade Thursday drew a police-estimated throng of 2,250,000 spectators, the largest turnout to witness the department store's annual procession. Fifteen floats, 11 bands, aerial performers and scores of clowns were in the parade. Five huge helium-inflated balloons, including one in the image of a space man, were towed along the route.

Dairymen See Margarine Threat To Dairying

VANCOUVER, B. C. — Agriculture Minister Ken Kiernan met his best friends and severest critics Tuesday in Hotel Vancouver.

They were the representatives of B. C.'s producer organizations, gathered to brief the minister before he heads for Ottawa and the Dominion-provincial conference on agriculture.

For more than an hour in the afternoon, dairymen of this province hammered home the need for a royal commission to look into the margarine-synthetic butterfat threat to Canada's dairy industry.

The dairy farmers were headed by Alex Mercer of FVMPA, and they were backed by beef farmers, bulb growers and just plain farmers.

PRESERVE SOIL

Tommy Wilson, beef man of Vinsulla, warned that grassland farming must be carried on to preserve our soil, and without cows, grassland is worthless.

Mr. Mercer took the stand that vegetable oils are mainly imported; they bring no income to Canadian farmers. The use of cheap fats as butter substitute is a temptation to food dealers and restaurant men, and an army of enforcement officers would be needed to protect the public.

"No chemical test yet devised can identify margarine from butter. It would be even harder to identify tynthetic ice cream or cheese," he said.

INDUSTRY THREATENED

"The margarine and other synthetic butterfat industry is the greatest threat in the history of Canada's 2.8 billion-dollar dairy industry that employs one-sixth of our population," he added.

UBC Student Loses Hand in Explosion

VANCOUVER (CP) A University of British Columbia student lost his left hand in an explosion Thursday when a stunt to pep up interest in a student meeting backfired.

Robert Tappay, 23, an advance student in chemistry, had loaded his car with explosive chemicals for a bonfire and display.

Tappay was sitting in the parked car when a shattering explosion threw him out of the vehicle. The blast shattered front and back car windows and lifted the hood and trunk door.

Tappay was in serious condition in hospital three hours after the accident.

FLOWER VENDOR DIES

LONDON (AP) — Emma "Lovely Violets" Baker, a 60-year veteran of flower vending in Piccadilly Circus, was buried Thursday. Her cry is familiar to British radio listeners as the introduction to a popular BBC show.

PRESIDENT of General Motors Corp., 62-year-old Charles E. Wilson is seen during a press conference in Detroit prior to accepting appointment as U.S. secretary of defence in president-elect Eisenhower's cabinet. Wilson told the newsmen that "in the present situation no real American could refuse such a position." Eisenhower named his secretaries of state, John Foster Dulles, defence and the interior, Gov. Douglas McKay of Oregon, in a swift series of cabinet-making moves before he took off for Korea to try to settle war, on a journey that will be blacked out in the news.—Central Press Canadian.

Hopes for Early Start on Seaway

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier says he has confidence in continued Canada-United States cooperation on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Despite published reports of an 18-month delay in the project, he is confident that "we shall proceed with this development in the not-too-distant future."

He spoke in the Commons Thursday after being questioned on an interview in Toronto Wednesday night by G. M. Goetz, counsel for the New York State Power Authority. Mr. Goetz was quoted as saying that, if legal processes were followed in the U.S., the Supreme Court there would be asked to decide which agency would develop the U.S. share of the power in the seaway project.

The 2,200,000 horsepower in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence River would be split between the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and an agency designated later in the United States, under a recent recommendation of the International Joint Commission. It is expected here the New York State Power Authority will be designated.

Conditional upon the Ontario-U.S. split on the $450,000,000 power enterprise, the Canadian government has undertaken to build alone the $300,000,000 navigation works to provide a waterway for deep-sea ships between Montreal and Lake Erie.

In the House Thursday Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) asked Mr. Chevrier both as to the suggestion of an 18-month delay on the seaway and as to whether there are likely to be other obstacles to its construction raised.

"It is not surprising that there should be some litigation," the minister replied. "But I should like to say that the cooperation we have received from our United States friends is such that I have confidence it will continue in the present application."

Unemployment Commission Gets Pat on Back

OTTAWA (CP) — P. E. Cote, parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Gregg, lauds the work done by the Montreal office of the unemployment insurance commission.

He told the Commons Thursday night the office has one of the best records in Canada for placing older and handicapped workers.

Mr. Cote made the statements in replying to criticism directed at the Montreal office Wednesday by Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto-Eglinton). Mr. Fleming quoted a poem from a bulletin issued by the office to Montreal employers.

The poem—he described it as "rubbish" and a "waste of the taxpayers' money—said that in olden days old men were knocked on the head and put to an end. Now old men had their jobs taken away and they were allowed to starve to death.

Mr. Cote said the poem was part of the campaign by the Montreal office to caution employers against unnecessarily releasing older employees.

Reds Continue Probe Attacks On Korea Ridges

SEOUL (AP) — Chinese Reds jabbed at United Nations positions along the chilly Korean war front today. Allied troops threw back all the probes.

An Eighth Army briefing officer called the action "extremely light."

The Reds struck in groups of 10 or 12. It apparently was a continuation of probing attacks begun on Thursday.

The Chinese made three small probes today in the Sniper Ridge sector of the central front, scene of bloody fighting the last six weeks.

The Red groups probed Pinpoint Hill, the crest of Sniper Ridge; nearby Rocky Point, and Jane Russell Hill in the same area.

BOMB RED LINES

Allied planes bombed Red front-line positions despite solid overcast and cold rain.

B-29 Superforts from Japan and Okinawa bombed a 'ommunist supply centre and a chemical plant in North Korea. Overcast prevented observation of results.

Chinese infantry tried a surprise attack on Sniper Ridge in the rain Thursday night, but alert Allied artillery loosed a barrage that sent them scurrying off in the darkness.

Trunk Murderess Escapes 5th Time

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Arizona State Hospital reported Thursday that Winnie Ruth Judd, notorious red-haired trunk murderess of 24 years ago, had escaped.

Police quoted Dr. M. W. Conway, hospital superintendent, as saying she had "cut a heavy screen."

The hospital grounds are surrounded by a nine-foot fence — a barrier that has failed to stop the 48-year-old "tiger woman" in several of her previous bids for freedom.

She has fled from the hospital on five previous occasions, the last on Feb. 2 when she remained at large five days.

S. KOREAN ENGINEER STUDIES AT TRAIL . . .

Korea Unity Greatest Dream of S. Koreans, But Not Under Reds

TRAIL, B. C. — Unification with North Korea is the greatest dream of the people of South Korea, but not under any circumstance, unification under Communist domination. Chong Won Lee, an employee of the South Korean government in Canada to study under a U.N. education scheme, made that very clear when he was interviewed Wednesday.

"Our understanding of war is very different from what Canadians understand," he said, "and the Korean people yearn for peace more than any other country." However with the peace must come unification or economic stability will not exist.

Mr. Lee is very serious about his country. He has many dreams which are generally mutual with those of his countrymen and which have evolved from the experience of war. The fact that he and the eight others in his party are in Canada, and will be for another 11 months, is an indication of how hard South Koreans are working to build their dreams.

STUDIES PLANTS

The group is here to study methods and systems of operations ranging from transportation to municipal administration. Mr. Lee's interest is in agricultural fertilizer and other means of stimulating food production.

He came to Trail two weeks ago and immediately began to learn operations in the Smelter and in the Warfield plant. At the end of the month he will go to Ottawa and begin study of operations in Eastern Canada.

His position with the Korean government is in the capacity of chemical engineer. He is a member of the chemical section of the Bureau of Industry of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry and is stationed at the ROK's temporary capitol in Pusan.

CALGARY (CP)—Some Calgary thieves may not have "everything but the kitchen sink"—but they've plenty of those.

They made off with four kitchen sinks and nothing else from a warehouse loading platform here Wednesday night.

LONDON (AP) — Members of the House of Lords sat back in astonishment Wednesday when Lord Dorchester arose to speak on a problem of parish elections.

It wasn't the subject that startled them. It was the fact that the 76-year-old peer was making his first speech after 21 years' membership.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP)—Two young goats on a roof Wednesday caused far more traffic congestion in the business section than they could have on the street.

Car-drivers jammed two streets and hundreds of pedestrians craned their necks to watch the goats' antics.

Living up to a goat's reputation for sure footedness, they scampered over the gable roof of a 2½-storey building for more than an hour. They had gained the roof by climbing the outside stairs of an adjoining house and jumping across a small opening.

The goats played hide and seek with a milkman for more than half an hour before he cornered and brought them down.

City Council has not purchased a new fire truck, nor has it contemplated buying one, officials announced Thursday.

The Weather

Synopsis: A storm was developing 500 miles West of Vancouver Island Thursday night. Rain from this system will spread to the North coast overnight but other areas of the province are not likely to be affected.

Cloud still blankets most of the province. However, clearing has taken place at many points in the Southern Interior and temperatures there will drop sharply Thursday night.

Some fog still persists in the Vancouver area. However, an end to the dense fog of the last two days seems likely.

Nelson Chamber Sees Added Lake Ferry as Long-Term District Need

Augmentation of the Kootenay Lake Ferry service will be urged on behalf of the Nelson Chamber of Commerce when representatives of the Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of South-eastern B. C., meet members of the provincial cabinet in Victoria Dec. 5.

A letter to the Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of Public Works, was approved by the Nelson Chamber at a luncheon meeting at the Hume Thursday, and will be presented in Victoria by H. D. Harrison, president of the Chamber, and T. D. Rosling.

Commenting on the letter, Mr. Harrison emphasized that the Nelson Chamber is not opposed to the Creston-Salmo highway development. Since, however, "not even a survey is under way yet" for the alternative transprovincial route, it is felt that the present overtaxed ferry situation is likely to continue for some time to come, and that improvements in the ferry service are essential.

The text of the letter follows.

The Hon P. A. Gaglardi
Minister of Public Works,
Victoria, B. C.

Sir: The Nelson Chamber of Commerce respectfully and urgently requests that you and your department of public works take the earliest possible steps to augment the Kootenay Lake Ferry service presently operated by the M. V. Anscomb.

The constantly increasing traffic, tourist and commercial as well as local, intensified by the current very extensive developments of the Bluebell mine at Riondel, the Celgar project at Castlegar, and by the general extension of the hard surfaced road mileage in the district will, in the considered opinion of this Chamber, very soon render the "Anscomb" entirely inadequate for this service on its present route. In July, 1948, the Anscomb transported 3683 motor vehicles; in July, 1952, 13,276 or almost four times as many.

It is well known that apprehensions as to possible delays at the ferry landing, particularly on the last trip of the evening, cause many tourists to adopt other and less desirable routes.

The obligatory periodic overhauls of the Anscomb necessarily occur during the season of heavy traffic, and adequate alternative vessels to carry on this service during such overhauls or during any accidental lay-off of the Anscomb are exceedingly scarce and difficult to procure.

TOURIST ROUTE

In the opinion of this Chamber the construction of the proposed alternative route for the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway via Creston and Salmo will not ameliorate this over-taxed ferry problem for several years, if at all, in view of great local developments and of the scenic attractions of the Kootenay Lake route, which will always make it a favorite with tourists.

This Chamber, in view of the situation as thus outlined, begs to present a number of possible remedial measures which appear to be feasible and some of which you and your department may find it expedient to put into effect.

1. The construction of one or more auxiliary ferry boats, not necessarily of the type of the Anscomb for standby and supplementary service;

2. The putting of the service on a round the clock basis during the rush season.

3. A reconsideration of the possibility of using Queen's Bay instead of Balfour as the westerly terminus of the run, except during infrequent strong South winds, thus lessening the crossing time and permitting more frequent trips. Present run is 6½ miles. Queen's Bay-Kootenay Bay run would be only 3¼ miles. Also, there are other alternatives to further reduce the mileage.

This Chamber puts forward these suggestions for expenditures to improve the Kootenay Lake Ferry service in appreciation of the fact that the tolls charged render the service in large measure self-liquidating.

Horace Kay Dies Here at 60

Horace Kay, 60, a Nelson resident for 22 years, died Thursday morning at Mt. Saint Francis Infirmary.

Mr. Kay was a well known figure in Nelson, having been active for many years as a cafetaker for a number of business establishments and apartment blocks. He retired last May because of illness.

Born in Victoria, Mr. Kay came to the district as a child when his parents moved to Beasley at the turn of the century. He moved to Nelson in 1930.

Mr. Kay was a member of Kootenay Lodge No. 16 of the IOOF, and of the Queen City Rebekah Lodge. He is survived by one brother, Archie, of St. Clair, Mich.

Funeral services will be held in Nelson Dec. 1.

Liquor Sales for Hotels With Dining Rooms Only, Board Stand

In a brief to be presented to Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman of the B. C. Liquor Enquiry Board, the Nelson Chamber of Commerce will go on record as opposing local option, and as favoring the licensing only of those hotels with dining-room facilities.

Voting on 23 points dealing with the increase of present liquor outlet facilities, the Nelson Chamber decided at a luncheon meeting Thursday at the Hume to favor the establishment of an elected 7-man liquor commission which would have entire control in the administration and interpretation of the revised liquor laws.

Very Rev. T. L. Leadbeater, chairman of the Chamber's committee on the liquor brief, presented a list of proposals to the 38 members attending, and a separate vote was taken on each point.

The most contentious point was the question whether a licensee should be allowed to hire female employees for serving liquor. On a second vote, the Chamber showed a slim majority in favor of the proposal, reversing the decision of the committee.

The committee's recommendation that the present law which prohibits brewers and distillers from having any financial interest in licensed premises should be maintained was also turned down by the meeting-at-large, which after some debate voted for a change in existing law to remove these restraints.

Among other recommendations to be contained in the Chamber's brief are the following:

Licences should be granted only to "old-established places of good repute and sound financial standing," or to newer establishments which fully measure up to standards set by the proposed 7-man commission.

No licenses should be granted to a part of the building separate motels or tourist courts.

Licensed premises should be in part of the building separate from the dining-room, where however the sale of drinks with meals should be allowed.

Premises, except the dining-room, should be "open to the public view."

Existing beer-parlors which measure up to commission standards should be licensed to extend facilities to provide liquor and wine by the glass, and should be permitted to serve light refreshments.

No change should be made in the status of private clubs.

A special licence should be granted to allow the sale of liquor in hotel dining rooms in off-hours.

"Modest entertainment" should be allowed in dining-rooms where liquor is served.

The wine-list should be on a separate menu, to be given only on the direct request of a customer.

Licences should be non-transferrable.

Licencees should provide additional space for premises rather than cut down lobby-space, etc.

The commission should discourage any form of advertising of liquor facilities by licencees.

Hotels should not be required to provide separate dining-room facilities for non-drinkers.

Premises should conform to a high standard of construction and supervision in line with fire, police and public health requirements.

DEAN, BISHOP CONDUCT RITES FOR J. ANDREWS

Funeral services for the late James Thomas Andrews were held Thursday at St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral.

Mr. Andrews was born in England in 1874, and died in Nelson Nov. 24 at the age of 78.

Pallbearers were Bruce Arneson, C. H. Hamilton, Fred Irvine, P. G. Morey, Nelson Murphy and Alfred Wood.

Interment was in the Anglican Church Plot, Nelson Memorial Park.

The win made a three-way tie for first place with Quality Meat, Porky Beans and Meat Marketers all tied at 23 points. Fiorilio Bros., are just a point behind, followed by Coal Co., 21, HA's 20, CPR 19, Eagles 18, Firemen 16, Combines 13, Fernie Garage, 11, and Rum Bugs 9.

FARM PROBLEMS DISCUSSED AT MEET

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Representatives of almost 25,000 B.C. farmers are in conference in Hotel Vancouver threshing out the problems of the various branches of their industry.

Among delegates were Hon. Ken Kiernan, minister of agriculture, his predecessor, Harry Bowman, minister under Coalition; and Frank Putnam, another former agriculture minister.

The meetings are sponsored by the B.C. Federation of Agriculture and first item on the agenda was a report of the year's work of the federation.

President A. H. Mercer outlined the year's work of the federation and announced the parent body, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, would hold its annual convention in Victoria Jan. 26, next year.

He said the move to Victoria of the offices of the BCFA has proven a great advantage. Officials of the organization are now close to government offices and can discuss the problems of B.C. farmers with government officials in a matter of minutes.

Mr. Mercer listed the principal problems of the past year as: the foot and mouth disease outbreak last Winter, and the carryover of poultry diseases from the previous year.

Public works department, forest service, and water rights branch have all been in conference with the BCFA during the year, he said, and many commodity groups have found the federation office of use to them in discussing their problems.

The federation worked on a budget of about $20,000 for the year, the president said, and added any extraordinary expenses, such as representation at Eastern Canadian meetings, would be covered by a special levy of 10 per cent of regular membership fees on the main commodity groups.

Secretary-manager Charles Walls, in his report to the membership said the federation had balanced its budget for the past year and had increased its membership through seven new groups for a total of 730 farmers. Two groups left the BCFA, for a total of 79 farmers.

Mr. Walls said the federation has "never relinquished its vigilance" on the problem of school taxation and reported on two meetings with the Social Credit cabinet.

Davies Blames Mass Hysteria for Mau Mau Spread

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Eric Davies, member of the Kenya legislature for African affairs, blames mass hysteria and fanaticism for the spread of Mau Mau terrorism in the British colony.

The situation, he said, is "fast developing into almost a guerrilla action by thugs, supported by the great mass of the people who will not help."

Davies told the legislative council Thursday the "religious" claims of the anti-white secret society are most dangerous. He said the riot at Kirawara last Sunday, when police killed 16 Africans, was started by a young African supposed to have visions, who whipped the tribesmen into a frenzy.

PRESS CENSORSHIP

The government, he said, has imposed press censorship because so many near-illiterates could be so easily stirred by the printed word. He defended the communal punishment introduced this week on the grounds that communal responsibility was an important feature of African life.

SECURITY MEASURES

Kenya put into effect Thursday certain unspecified security measures advised by Sir Percy Sillitoe, head of Britain's secret service.

Five Kikuyus here were given jail terms ranging from seven to 12 years and 24 strokes of the lash each for administering the illegal Mau Mau oath. The five were accused of hanging an old man by his thumbs to persuade him and his wife to take the oath.

Kiwanis Stocks Up for Shoot

About 75 turkeys weighing between 12 and 14 pounds have been ordered for the annual turkey shoot sponsored by the Nelson Kiwanis Club Dec. 18, 19 and 20.

Chairman Stanley Morris and committee heads told club members that all preparations for the shoot were well in hand. The shooting will be speeded up this year and a record attendance from Nelson and district is expected.

Features are planned for children as well as adults. Bingo prizes are to be displayed in the window of a down-town business establishment.

President Kai Jensen welcomed six members of the Castlegar Kiwanis Club to the local club's dinner meeting at the Hume Thursday. The out-of-towners were Joseph J. Killough, president of the Castlegar club; W. T. (Bill) Waldie, president-elect; Cliff Wanless, Dr. Lloyd Bottomley, William Sharples, and Mickey Moran.

Copies of the first issue of The Castlegar Historical Review were circulated to local club members. The 12-page paper, which will appear annually, was published this week by the Castlegar Kiwanis Club.

Another guest at the dinner was Miss Joyce O'Hearn, who entertained members with competent renditions of two songs, "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" and "Kiss Me Again." She was introduced by Bernard Kelly and thanked by Frank Eberle.

A letter was received and read thanking the Kiwanians for their recent $100 contribution to the Salvation Army.

Canadian industry used 2,913,101 tons of scrap iron and steel in 1951, or nearly 200,000 tons more than in 1950.

Russ Might Welcome India's Plan If Doing Her Own Fighting, Eden

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden Thursday heralded the Indian proposal for settling the Korean war as a good one but admitted prospects for immediate peace were "slender" in view of Soviet opposition to the plan.

Eden told the House of Commons he wonders whether Russia's eagerness to continue the war is based on the fact the Chinese "are doing the fighting for them."

He predicted the United Nations assembly would approve the Indian plan for dealing with prisoners of war by an "overwhelming majority."

PLAN GOES FAR

Eden, who has just returned from the UN meeting in New York, said he felt the clarification of the original plan put forward by India "went far indeed to meet any anxiety that might be felt."

At one time the United States and Britain were at odds over the issue.

"I have every confidence any difficulty of definition will soon be overcome," Eden said.

Prairie Points Cheer Esk Specials

EDMONTON (CP)—A crowd of 750 football fans jammed the railway station here Wednesday night.

They were the ones who "couldn't make it" to Toronto by special train to back Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup football final. They turned out to cheer the ones that could.

The train was the second of two "Eskimo specials," each carrying about 300 fans. The first left Tuesday.

Reports by telegraph from the first train indicate, Eskimo vice-president Henry Singer said, the Eskimo special is receiving a "tremendous reception" at various stops across the Prairies.

Strikes and Spares

An aggregate of 714 put Don Iceton of the Eagles Lodge team ahead of all other bowlers in the Men's Commercial League Wednesday. His singles were 256, 250 and 208. Second was Joe Sikorski of Island Industries with a 706.

High single went to Barney Jarbeau of the Savoys for a 290. Jarbeau had a 605 aggregate.

Gladys Olund of the Rum Dums made a 709 high aggregate in Variety League bowling, and the high single went to M. Russell of the Amigos for a 265. The latter had an aggregate of 650.

Convention Delay Hit By Cranbrook Liberals

CRANBROOK—Cranbrook city Liberal Association at its annual meeting unanimously endorsed a motion that a provincial convention of the Liberal Association be called at the earliest opportunity to select a leader and discuss policy in view of the probable imminence of both federal and provincial elections.

Postponement of the planned November convention until Spring was strongly criticized. The motion will be forwarded to a Cranbrook-Kimberley District Liberal Association meeting planned for Cranbrook Dec. 10 with the additional recommendation that it be circulated among other district associations for endorsation by the required 15 associations to make a convention mandatory under the constitution.

The meeting named Prime Minister St. Laurent as honorary president, and Mrs. Nancy Hodges MLA honorary vice-president.

New president, succeeding T. A. Moore, is Vincent Downey, vice-president Martin Kennelly, executive members, Peter Berkosha, J.H. Cameron, Mrs. Herbert Bradley, R. E. Read, T. A. Moore, M. G. Klinkhamer, T. A. Dooling, D. A. MacDonald and Sam Littlejohn. Secretary J. R. Meredith, and treasurer, Miss Nancy Miles, were reelected.

Good membership in the past year was reported, and a balance was carried over to the new year. Plans for wider activity were laid and a general city meeting was called.

Ex-officio executive members are Joe Provenzano, as East Kootenay Association president, and George Haddad, as Cranbrook-Kimberley District Liberal Association president.

Mrs. Buchanan is survived by three sons, Jack and Horace at Fernie, and Leslie at Smithers; three daughters, Mrs. Irving Commons at Sea Island, Vancouver, Mrs. Edward Whalley in Michel, and Mrs. A. Nesbit in Vancouver, and 12 grandchildren.

TRAIL — A light delivery truck reported to belong to an East Trail garage skidded on the frosty bridge just below the C.P.R. tunnel on Trail-Rossland highway late Thursday night, smashed through the railing, to land on its radiator six or eight feet below.

Some delay in traffic was experienced while a wrecking crew pulled the truck back to the road. Driver was uninjured.

Accident occurred about 11 p.m.

BISHOP PRAISES TOWSON'S WORK

WYNNDEL—Funeral services for William Towson were held in Christ Church Wednesday, Rev. E. R. Hope officiating.

Rt. Rev. F. P. Clark, Bishop of Kootenay, gave the address, and spoke of Mr. Towson as a "fine citizen, good father and true Christian," and said that through his efforts, with others, the Anglican Church at Wynndel, St. Patrick's, had become a reality.

Hymns "Son of My Soul" and "Our Blest Redeemer" were sung. Interment was in Forest Lawn cemetery. Pallbearers were Joe Wigen, W. Cooper, A. Sherwood, E. A. Hackett, A. Glanler and C. Hindley. Floral tributes were many.

An estimated 160,000,000 tons of salt are added to the sea each year by rivers.

Put Idle Mine Equipment to Work on Roads, Board Says

KASLO—Commenting on loss of trained personnel and mine equipment being idled with closure of mines in this area, G. M. Armstrong suggested to Kaslo Board of Trade at its meeting here that employment might be found for both on road work.

W. V. Drayton, president, was asked to interview J. W. Peck, of Nelson, resident mining engineer, for his reaction to the suggestion. If it is favorable, the board will take the matter up with the public works department.

In a discussion on Kootenay Lake Ferry service, two members were asked to draw up a draft for a resolution asking moving of the M.V. Anscomb western dock to a point further North, to shorten the route, and thus facilitate more trips per day.

Members decided to invite the jubilee committee to meet the board's executive.

Mr. Armstrong was named to represent the board at a meeting at which a civil defence officer for Kaslo and vicinity will be appointed. The board asked Mr. Armstrong to consider taking the post.

A vote of thanks was extended to the city for its offer of permanent office quarters in the city hall.

C. A. McLeish reported the city is in favor of erecting street signs, and that the B. C. Forest Service and the city's public works department would help in their erection. The signs will be supplied by the board of trade.

DOCTOR ARRIVING

It was announced that Dr. A. Barrera would soon take up residence in Kaslo. The new doctor has been with the compensation board in Vancouver and is highly recommended.

New equipment, a memorial to the late Dr. Shimo-Takahara, is in use in Kaslo Victorian Hospital, members learned. It consists of $90 worth of furniture, and leaves a balance of $60 in the fund which is available for further expenditure. The hospital's matron invited the board to visit the building.

A film on the Trail smelter and Sullivan mine at Kimberley was shown by G. J. Dickson.

Works Dep't "Waste" Charged at Kimberley

KIMBERLEY — Dissatisfaction with the operation of the city works department was expressed by Kimberley Council members at their meeting here, after presentation of finance and works department reports.

It was alleged that time and money was being wasted in repairing a water-line at the McKenzie Street bridge. Council members felt they should have been consulted before the work was started.

Members also charged lack of planning in digging of a drainage ditch at the city arena. They were of the opinion that work was going too slowly, and that nobody seemed to have been placed definitely in charge of the project.

RENTAL FEES SET

Alderman Twells, representing the parks board, released rental rates for the Kimberley arena. The followindg rates have been set: kid hockey $1000 per year; intermediate hockey, $50 per game with one free practice hour per week and $8 for each additional practice hour; figure skating, $400 per annum with $200 for the Figure Skating Club's annual carnival night. The Curling Club will pay one-third of the wages of the compressor operator, together with all heating, lighting and janitor costs for the curling rink. This is th: same agreement as has been in force with the club during the past few years.

Mr. Twells also reported the plumbing at McDougall Hall in need of repairs, and that estimates for construction of a new fire-escape at the hall are being considered.

The Council endorsed a parks' board recommendation that an application by the board for the sum of $8357, the unexpended balance of the $3957 which remains in the recreational fund plus $2400 which will be matched by $1200 from the Kimberley and District Community chest, be granted. It is planned to use the money to help pay for the elliptical sewer pipe at present being constructed at the arena. Estimated cost of the project is $8395.

City Clerk, Don Torgeson, was instructed to inform the hospital board that the Council has no funds which it could use to help pay for the Hospital Survey the board is proposing to undertake in the near future, but that it would have the matter brought before the 1953 Council.

NO PHONE ACTION

In view of the fact that Kimberley is not affected by the application of the B.C. Telephone Company for an increase in rates, except on calls outside the Kootenay Telephone Company area, the Council voted not to take any action on a request of the UBCM for financial aid in fighting the proposed increases.

The City expressed little interest in a letter received from the Mine-Mill local suggesting that the city bus service be made a public utility operated by the City. It was pointed out that there is the possibility that the service may have to close down for financial reasons.

CONSERVE WATER

Householders are to be requested to cooperate in conserving both water and power in view of the shortage caused by lack of rain or snow over the past few months. The City is considering discouraging the use of lights for Christmas decorations next month.

The Kimberley Amateur Athletic Association is being requested to consider using money which would otherwise go towards the construction and maintenance of outdoor rinks for minor hockey rentals, since the amount of time allotted to children at the arena has been more than doubled and it is felt that the outdoor rinks are now unnecessary.

Civic election date has been set for December 11 this year. Retiring aldermen are A. Lloyd, A. Loraas and P. Brennan.

Interest rates for the City of Kimberley bonds are to be increased from 4½ per cent to 4¾ per cent, and the life of the bonds are to be increased from 10 to 15 years, according to a resolution passed by the Council at a special meeting.

An application from the Kimberley Ski Club for a grant of $1000 from the recreational facilities account was approved.

On request of the finance committee, Council authorized the borrowing of up to $30,000 from the bank on outstanding taxes.

Chinese Masons Open New Hall

CRANBROOK — Dignitaries of Chinese Masonic lodges of Montreal, Toronto, Vancouver and Victoria, joined with Cranbrook officials in a banquet Tuesday at the newly-completed Chinese Masonic Hall on Seventh Avenue to mark its official opening.

Fire completely destroyed the 30-year-old frame Masonic and Dart Coon club halls in February and other Chinese Masonic lodges across Canada contributed generously to a fund which has resulted in replacement with a fine two-storey stucco building with big plate glass windows.

The new hall affords lodge rooms, banquet room and living accommodation for a number of elderly Chinatown residents. Opening ceremonies were in the dining room, where more than 100 guests were served an elaborate Chinese banquet.

Red Opponent New Greek Leader

At the age of 70, Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, leader of the Right-Wing Greek Rally Party, is to form a new Government at Athens. Like General Eisenhower, just elected to the Presidency of the United States, points out a Toronto paper, Marshal Papagos is a national military hero, with little experience in politics. He led the Greeks in their glorious resistance to Mussolini's invasion of their country. Later, after some time as a prisoner of the Germans, he commanded the Greek forces which beat the Communists, with British and American aid, in the civil war of 1945-46. He is a partisan of the West, a Greek patriot, an anti-Communist and a believer that his people, in friendship with the Western Powers, can stand on their own feet as a self-supporting and independent nation.

Marshal Papagos, says the Globe and Mail, owes his overpowering majority in the Greek Parliament, 238 seats in a House of 300, to a change made last year in the electoral laws. Previously Greece had used the system called Proportional Representation, or P.R. for short, and had suffered the familiar consequences.

P.R. fosters splinter groups and makes it nearly impossible for any single party to obtain a clear mandate. The Greek law adopted last year "modifies" the P.R. system. It provides that only a party obtaining at least 17 per cent of the vote, or a coalition obtaining at least 20 per cent, can take part in the second or third count. Obviously the effect is to force minority factions to get together and pool their strength in the hope of securing seats.

In Western Europe the merit of proportional representation is a vital issue. P.R. is widely used there, and the instability of some regimes, notably in France, is due in part to the multiplication of parties thus encouraged.

The Greek electoral experiment may give a lead. It retains P.R. in principle, but, by throwing out groups that are too small to deserve to be called national, it gives the main party at least a chance to come to power with a majority. The Greek Rally, under General Papagos, obtained just under 50 per cent of the local poll this week; but it is by far the largest and most popular political force in the country. It is surely not "undemocratic" that this Party should be accorded enough Parliamentary strength to enable it to govern without constant compromising and jockeying.

That, at least, is the theory of the new—and apparently unprecedented—Greek electoral plan, explained by the Toronto paper. Its merits will be judged by results. Marshal Papagos' ideas appear to be sound. He favors national conciliation, with tolerance for Communists except those who openly advocate violence. He wants economic expansion, and particularly the revival of the Greek merchant marine under the Greek flag. He believes in a closer military liaison with Yugoslavia and Turkey. The Western nations will wish him well, noting with satisfaction that the Greeks, living next door to the Iron Curtain, administered a terrific beating to the Communists in their national election.

The 5 o'Clock Bus

To the Editor:

Sir—May I please air my views in your widely-read newspaper? The 5 o'clock bus—uphill service I am speaking of—seems to be a magnet for shoppers and children—definitely no room for the business woman, or even the male bread-winner. The bus is full up before it ever reaches the Baker Street main bus stop. Why does the bus driver bother to even stop? One must wait until the next bus, in another half-hour, to get home and cook dinner and do the housework, or whatever other simple pleasure one looks forward to in the evening. I am not asking for a seat on the bus—just merely standing room.

A BUSINESS WOMAN.

Where the Money Goes

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

During the first two weeks of October, the Department of Defence Production awarded contracts totalling $16.6 million. Some of these were for warlike goods, calculated to dampen the enthusiasm of our enemies. The news that Canada's armed forces are in process of acquiring half a million dollars' worth of buses, and rather more than a million dollars' worth of "station wagons, trucks, spares," may well strike a chill into the hearts of would-be aggressors. How many station wagons can the Communists throw into action?

But some of the orders were for clothing, and are likely to have a more disturbing effect on taxpayers at home than on conspirators abroad. For example, necktles. During the first half of last month, the Defence Department ordered $92,638 worth. Assuming each necktie costs 30-35 cents, that makes about 100,000 of them; one for every man serving in the active forces.

But just last June, a return tabled in the House of Commons showed that during the 16 months up to April 1, the Department had ordered 1,153,155 neckties at the price abovementioned. The return clearly said that these ties would cover the needs of the services, including reserves, until the beginning of 1955. Why, then, are new orders being placed?

Yet again, take footwear. During the first half of October, the Defence Department placed orders for boots and overshoes to the tune of $237,821. But just last May, it was revealed that during the 11 months up until Feb. 29, the Department had ordered 1,304,407 pairs of boots and shoes. Here again the excuse was stockpiling—preparing for future needs. How big does the stockpile have to be? Are we preparing for a war in which the whole population will be fitted with army boots?

For dish cloths, $41,789; for stockings, $30,720; for shaving brushes, $49,228; for lamps, $25,990. (On June 28, a return tabled in the House showed that the Defence Department had ordered 6754 boudoir, table, trilight and bridge lamps at a cost of $57,750.) For trousers, $40,682; for shirts and jackets, $75,510; for overcoats, $222,350. Napoleon said that an army marched upon its stomach, but Canada's army seems to march upon its wardrobe. Our forces must surely be better dressed—or at any rate, the most dressed—in the world.

It is from such figures as these that the Canadian taxpayer can understand why 100,000 troops are costing him $1.7 billion a year—$17,000 per man, the highest such figure recorded by any nation, at any time. As these military Beau Brummells whiz by in their buses and station wagons, he may be excused for feeling a twinge of self-pity. The gravel is hard on bare feet, and the wind blows cold through a barrel.

F. J. L., Trail—Can you tell me how to make old-fashioned English sage wine?

To one gallon water allow four pounds raisins, quarter to half peck green sage leaves, a little yeast, and a gill of brandy Clean and shred raisins, chop dried sage roughly and put them in a tub. Boil the water, let it stand till lukewarm, and then pour it over the raisins and leaves. Add yeast, stir well, and cover. Leave this to stand five or six days, stirring twice or thrice daily. Then strain, pressing out all the liquor. Put this into another barrel and leave to work. When fermentation is over, close bung and after a week put in brandy. Let wine stand for six months, then draw off into another vessel (a stone crock), and in two days bottle it. It will be ready to drink in four or five weeks, but improves with longer keeping.

Haunted, Nelson—Can you please, please tell me who wrote the lines:

Legal Bars Dropped

At last Confederation has been recognized by the venerable and respected Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada. They have not gone completely reckless and brought their own hoary name up to date yet, but they do agree now that Ontario is not the only Province in Canada and Osgoode Hall is not the only institution turning out Canadian lawyers.

Last week, after long deliberation and much prodding, the Benchers agreed to cut the admittance fee into the lush Ontario field. At present the law graduate from another Province has had to pay $1500 before he can start to practise in Ontario. Now the Benchers recommend that this be cut to $250, providing the applicant has been practising in his own Province for three years.

That's a move in the right direction. Law Societies in British Columbia and any Provinces that have also been guilty of grossly overcharging would be well advised to follow suit. These big initiation fees are simply a form of tariff to keep out competition, to preserve the field for the local boys. There is not the slightest reason why a lawyer trained in one part of the country should be any better than one trained in another. It's the quality of the man and the quality of the school in which he was trained that matters.—Financial Post.

Views from the News Fronts

The statement by Andrei Vishinsky that Communist China has rejected proposals before the United Nations for ending the Korean war makes the argument more and more the phantom fight.

Reports from India that the Chinese attitude is more of an objection than a rejection lends some credence to reports that Peiping is more anxious than Moscow to find an out. But Russia obviously is carrying the ball for the whole Communist sphere, and Russia is manoeuvring desperately to keep the UN from adopting any resolution at all. Vishinsky clarified his tactics when he said it was a waste of time to continue the debate.

In effect, the Communists have said that it would be useless for the U.N. negotiators to go back to Panmunjom with the Indian plan, which had seemed on the verge of being modified sufficiently to get American support.

That probably is true of any plan or any resolution which the UN might adopt. It appears the Communists are well satisfied with the way they have the Allies tied up in Korea, and that the impasse over war prisoners is really an excuse.

Anthony Eden, British Foreign Minister, expressed the one good reason for continuing the UN effort. He said it might not produce a truce, but it will certainly be a valuable gain if all other nations except the Soviet bloc can agree on a resolution and on the course they would pursue to end the Korean deadlock. In other words, that would make the Soviet bloc the only holdouts against peace.

Judge Refuses Nullity Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Validity of the marriage of a Canadian Naval rating was attacked in Court of Appeal Wednesday on grounds that the officiating clergyman was not registered under the Marriage Act.

Mary Patricia Gilham of Victoria married the rating, James Steele, at Esquimalt, Sept. 20, 1947. The ceremony was performed by the Canadian Naval chaplain, who was a duly ordained clergyman of the Church of England. He had registered under the Act, but the registration lapsed after he left for service overseas. He applied to renew the certificate, which was issued two days after the marriage was performed.

The husband now resides in Winnipeg, where he is employed by the CPR.

W. B. Monteith, counsel for the wife, who is a stenographer, contended the marriage was a nullity, but Mr. Justice Macfarlane, who heard the case, held that the failure of the officiating clergyman to register was an irregularity which did not invalidate the marriage.

Edythe Thomson Bride In Mississippi Rites

Of interest throughout the Kootenays, where the bride was well-known in mining circles, is the marriage in Wicksburg, Miss., of the former Edythe Thomson, and Tollef A. Moe of Michigan, N.D.

The bride was secretary of the Chamber of Mnies of Eastern British Columbia, with headquarters in Nelson and with her local training in mining, subsequently held positions with mining companies in various parts of the world.

After a wedding trip through Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Moe are making their home in Tulsa, Okla., where they have bought a motel.

The ceremony was performed in the Vicksburg Presbyterian Church by Rev. W. F. Mansell, the bride wearing a dress of imported Italian silk, accented by an embroidered pina cloth handbag from the Philippines, alligator shoes and a small yellow hat. For travelling, she wore a navy blue silk, also from Italy and a camel hair coat.

KIMBERLEY IODE TO ADOPT SCHOOL

KIMBERLEY — Members of the Sullivan Mine Chapter, IODE, laid plans for adopting another needy school at their meeting at the home of Mrs. A. G. Sterling.

At present, the Sheep Creek school is the chapter's adopted school, but members were of the opinion that this school is now adequately serviced by the Kimberley school board. It was decided to write the provincial chapter for a list of needy schools in the province, and to choose a school from this list.

Donations were also voted to the provincial chapter to aid in the purchase of an encyclopediae for an Indian school and to the Queen Alexandra solarium.

Mrs. L. McCallum gave a report on the semi-annual IODE conference held in Vernon earlier in the year, and Mrs. J. Giegerich was appointed membership convener for the coming year.

There are approximately 325,000,000 people on North, Central and South American continents.

Panel Discussion Marks P-TA Meet

CASTLEGAR — At a meeting of the Stanley Humphries Parent-Teacher Association in the high school, an interesting program was presented by six Grade XII students in the form of a panel discussion on "extra curricular activities."

Members of the panel were Sandra Spence, Donna Muirhead, Beverley Lipsett, Ken Facchina, Alan Jacobson and Ed Collinson. G. Rice was chairman.

Archdeacon B. A. Resker spoke briefly on the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements urging the P-TA to support these groups. A report was presented by Dave Campbell, chairman of the youth organization committee, stating that several activities have been organized for the boys and girls of the district.

It was announced that Miss Marjorie Smith of UBC extension department would be at the high school Saturday to show a film entitled "Community Recreation", and to hold a discussion on this subject.

P-TA members were delighted to hear that a concert would be presented by the Trail school band and choir in the high school on Dec. 12. It was decided to ask members of the Stanley Humphries high school band to play host to the Trail musicians. Proceeds from the concert will be turned over to the local high school band to help purchase additional instruments. Members of the two bands will meet socially after the concert.

Carnival Brings $32 in Pennies

Trinity Church CGIT held a well-patronized penny carnival in the church hall Tuesday night.

The girls and their leaders, under the direction of their superintendent, Mrs. Florence Allardyce, entertained their relatives and friends in a variety of contests, games and amusement projects, including fortune-telling, bingo and target practice. Other features were a "house of horrors" and the "smallest lady in the world" where for the nominal sum of one penny the public got a view of a lady bug.

The novelty corner was most attractive, and drew many customers. The door prize was won by J. J. McKinley.

Admission to the carnival, and participation in all events was on the basis of pennies, and the executive had a real job counting revenue, which amounted to more than $32.

Four Groups Put Work in Bazaar

INVERMERE — Preparations are well under way for the annual pre-Christmas hospital bazaar which will be a special event this year, as all four Ladies' Hospital Aids in the Windermere District are making a combined effort to raise funds to finance a modern X-ray machine for the Lady Elizabeth Bruce Memorial Hospital here.

The Senior Ladies' Aid will be in charge of the home cooking stall and the Junior Aid will have a Christmas stall and will also convene tea arrangements. The Edgewater Hospital Ladies' Aid plans a stall of mystery parcels. The Windermere Junior Hospital Aid is in charge of organization of the bazaar and will have a Christmas gift stall, and the candy stall. Mrs. Adolph Sattmann, president of the Windermere Ladies' Aid will be general convener.

Guides' Frolic Swells Building Fund $150

CRANBROOK—The fourth annual Fun Frolic, staged again by the 40 Girl Guides and about 70 Brownies as their contribution to special financing, returned about $150 net this year.

The amount will go into the building fund which has a present objective of $500 for materials to build a suite, largely through volunteer labor, for a resident caretaker for the Guide hall which has been converted over the past few years from the former Rod and Gun Club fish hatchery.

The hall serves primarily as the headquarters for Guide and Brownie activities and pays for its own operations with rentals to approved adult groups. Cranbrook Guide Commissioner is Mrs. F. W. Purvis, who also is leader for the two troops of Guides, and Guides help as leaders of the two packs of Brownies. There is a serious shortage of Guide leaders at present.

SPECIAL ACTS

The Fun Frolic was in their own specially decorated hall, and was well-attended by the younger set and their parents. Features at this year's Frolic were a display of dolls in international costumes and a dollhouse, a manicure shop, a tumbling act, a rummage toy sale, which was a Brownie contribution, puppet show, penny toss and fish-pond. Mrs. Gil Putnam won the baby quilt which was decorated by Canal Flat Girl Guides who turned it over to Cranbrook when their company dissolved.

Hall improvements this year, by volunteers, include insulating and boarding of ceilings. Notable contribution was by Cubs who were able to retrieve a quantity of bricks stored at the hall which had disappeared and were finally found at a creek bottom nearby. The Guide Association is currently sponsoring a huge bridge tournament with these proceeds also to go to the building fund.

WOMEN WORKERS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg's estimated labor force of 110,000 now includes almost 36,000 women workers. Current reports show women working at many jobs, including farm labor, street-car operators and truck drivers.

Rt. Rev. E. P. Clark, bishop of Kootenay, was chairman for the election of officers. Later he presided at the induction of Rev. R. E. Yarburgh at Fernie and Michel. Mr. Yarburgh is rural dean of the East Kootenay.

Children, Parents Benefit From Two-Day Kimberley P-TA Workshop

KIMBERLEY — Choosing the theme "Helping Children Take Responsibility in Home, School and Community," members of the Kimberley P-TA held a successful two-day parent institute and leadership workshop at the A. A. Watkins elementary school.

The conference opened with a talk by Miss Marjorie Smith of the extension department of the University of B.C., who spoke on the general topic of helping children take responsibility following which a film "Meeting Emotional Needs of Children" was shown. The session closed with a discussion of the responsibilities of the school age child, led by Miss Smith.

Highlighting the first night's session was a symposium on responsibility and its meaning to youth and adults in which parents, teachers and students took part. Speaking on responsibility in the home were Mrs. J. Campbell, representing the parents and Mary Wightman, Grade X student, at the P. J. McKim Junior-Senior High School. Mr. Hopkins, boys' counsellor at the High School and Allan Claussen, president of the high school students' council, discussed responsibility in the school, and Mr. J. McFarlane, of the personnel department of the C.M. and S. Company and Melvin Forsythe, treasurer of the Junior High School Students' Council discussed, responsibility in the community. A general discussion of responsibility and the teenager followed the remarks of those taking part in the symposium. Miss Marjorie Smith was chairman for the symposium and the discussion, in which the audience joined.

Mrs. H. W. Poole, first vice-president of the B.C. parent-teacher federation outlined the history of P-TA conferences, stressing the value of the workshop type of conference in stimulating interest in group discussions and in training leaders.

The conference closed with a discussion of the problems and possibilities of leadership led by Miss Smith and Mrs. Poole. To emphasize the most effective way of leading discussions, a group of local P-TA members acted out examples of meetings chaired by a dominant leader and one who was more democratic, choosing the planning of a bazaar to illustrate their points. Taking part in the dramatization were Mrs. R. McColl, Mrs. C. Davis, Mrs. H. McRae, Mrs. M. Pocock, Mrs. R. Luchanski, Mrs. J. Campbell and Mrs. M. Levesque.

Mrs. Miriam Levesque was general convener of the conference and Mrs. C. Davis in charge of publicity. Mrs. F. Hollick and M. Pocock were in charge of the teas served following each session. Mrs. R. Armstrong and Mrs. R. Luchanski headed the welcoming committee. Mrs. S. McRae, president of the local P-TA opened the conference and welcomed the guests who included members of the Marysville and Cranbrook P-TA groups.

Columnist Presents Own List of Nominations for Top-Prize Flops

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here are some nominations for the prize flops in hollywood during the last year.

1. The Lana Turner-Fernando Lamas romance. This started to blaze after Lana busted up with her third husband, Bob Topping, and co-starred with Lamas in "The Merry Widow".

Lamas announced publicly that he had scant interest in matrimony. Significantly, Lamas was dropped as Lana's co-star in a future film titled "Latin Lovers"

2. The sale of RKO. After languishing under Howard Hughes' rule, the ailing studio got a burst of life with its reported sale to a Chicago syndicate. But the deal blew up after publicity about some of the syndicate's backers. The company is still looking.

3. "My Son John." This film ranks as the top turkey of the year because it offered such promise. Created by Oscar winner Leo McCarey, it was the film return of Helen Hayes and Robert Walker. Disappointment over the result was intense.

4. The Rita Hayworth-Aly Khan reconciliation. The fabulous couple played their roadshow from Beverly Hills to Paris. They had more farewells than the late Sarah Bernhardt. Observers noted that Rita's film vehicle was prospering in the meantime.

From an Oldtimer's Notebook

by R. G. JOY
Historian Nelson District Oldtimers Association

A short time ago I answered the telephone and a hurried female voice asked: "Are you Mr. Joy, the historian of the District Oldtimers' Association?"

"Yes," I said. "What can I do for you?"

"I have not much time," she said, "and we had a burst tire. My husband has gone to get it fixed. I've been trying to find someone who knew a Mr. Deeley. He was a lumberman at one time, and often wrote back home and told an elderly lady things about Nelson—of how he had arrived in town with 25 cents in his pocket. He also told of building a house near the water; in fact, the water flowed past the end of their lot."

"Which side of the lake?" I asked.

"It might be this side," she replied, "but there is a railroad on this side."

"I remember when there was no railroad," said I.

I asked her to spell the name. She did—J. Dewar. "Well, well," I said, "you're in luck. We are friends."

She laughed, and soon we were friends, and I told her the story of J. A. Dewar, who arrived in Nelson on the same date as Billy Coles and I, April 7, 1898.

Jack's tent was next to ours on the CPR Flats. There were also others. Jack Dewar camped with Dick Richards, a deap-sea sailor, and Angus McCallum. The next tent South was owned by Jim Barker and Jack Harvey, Cornish miners from England. Later they worked at the Silver King under Bill Turner, M. S. Davis' right-hand man.

Jack Dewar later obtained employment at the Nelson Sawmill Company, where the late John Bell and George Naden had charge of the logging and manufacture of lumber, which was sold at low prices—rough lumber $10 per thousand, shiplap $11 per thousand.

The sawmill was situated on the banks of Cottonwood Creek on the site where Give-Out Creek flows into Cottonwood. The mill was furnished with a Pelton wheel, one of the first hydraulic plants in the country. A small dam was up the mountain near the Silver King road, and this scribe at times would accompany Tom Berry (who, by the way, furnished the cash to buy the lots on Baker Street for the Odd Fellows' Building.)

Time passed on. I was conducting a restaurant-lunch counter in the Merchants Saloon for Walter Sully. Sirloin steaks with the usual bread and butter, tea or coffee, cost only 35 cents. I had a blackboard on the sidewalk and I calked on it: "Coffee like your mother made. Weekly meal tickets only $5."

Two stalwart miners passed by, and one said, "If it's just like my mother made, I wouldn't drink it."

This was the Winter of 1893-94. One day I heard a shout from the back window, and there was Jack Dewar.

"George," he said, "I want you to come and cook for us at the Nelson sawmill." I sold the interest that W. Sully had in the restaurant for $35.50.

In a few days I was in charge of the boarding house, in which was a special room for the cook. The water for domestic purposes was flumed from Give-Out Creek. The meat house was placed over the cold water coming down the mountainside, and it kept me busy keeping flies out. By the way, I had a bed of pansies bordering the boarding-house.

At times strong winds would come down the valley and the timber would sway like a wheat-field, and one had to dodge falling timber, which at the beginning of the sawmill enterprise was growing within a radius of three-quarters of a mile from the mill. In later years, a huge timber chute was built of blocks up Give-Out Creek, nearly to the height of the Silver King mine, and the logs came down the chute at a terrific speed into a pond.

A man named McLeod was walking down the chute, and the men above, not knowing he was there, started the logs down. They hit McLeod, who was a heavy man, and knocked him out of the chute, killing him instantly.

Canada Bill, one of the hairiest white men I ever saw (Bill Feeney, of Salmo) was the foreman, doing the construction at the chute.

After Jack Dewar had been in the bunkhouse a few days, the lumberjacks tossed him about, using white blankets which he had brought from Ontario. So much so that he took his gear out from the bunkhouse and asked the cook if he could turn in with him. And that's how Jack slept with the cook. We were there for six or seven months.

NEIGHBORS

I feel I should set down here that Jack Dewar and Jim McKay, both of Ontario, built a cabin of split cedar logs, next to the site where Billy and I built ours the following year.

When Charles Etter brought me down from the Silver King mine to Jack's cabin, I had a bad cold. Five men had died with pneumonia previous to that date. Jack Dewar doctored me with mustard plasters, and soon I was fit again.

Jack Dewar and Andy Blomquist studied bookkeeping during the Winter months in the evenings. Jack's ambition was to form a joint stock company wherein each member would be employed at lumber manufacturing. In later years he was president of the Porto Rico Lumber Company in Salmo Valley. Jack began to prosper.

I induced John Bell to employ Billy Coles in the lumber industries, and Billy succeeded G. R. Naden, the tally man. In later years he became one of the best tally men in the Kootenay district. He could keep up a conversation, tally and load lumber, and seldom if ever made a mistake.

Jack Dewar, Billy Coles and Oscar Johnson were partners in a mine at Beaver Falls, near Fruitvale. Jack built the house in which the R. E. Hortons live now, and at that time the lots ran down to the lakeshore, the railroad being built into Nelson from Procter in later years. Our tourist visitors from Sarnia, Ontario, were able to take a photo of the house that Jack built for the sweetheart of his youth.

GRAVEL PROSPERITY

A few years rolled by, and Jack Dewar was travelling with a Mr. MacArthur of Winnipeg, going to Vancouver, and when nearing Vancouver, someone pointed at some good gravel that could be used for concrete building in Vancouver. Jack seized the opportunity, and quietly bought the land and established a gravel and cement yard in Vancouver, and became fairly wealthy.

He built himself a good home, and with his wife was a respected business man of the city. More years passed, and some of my family moved to Vancouver. I paid them a visit and hunted up my old friend Jack. I found him, and, alas, he was a victim of arthritis. The late Billy Coles was also smitten with the same. Both these men had worked considerably around water flumes handling wet lumber, and they were wet day after day.

While at Vancouver I did a few favors for Jack. He was then carried to his invalid chair. "George," he said, "why are you so kind to me?"

"Cast your bread upon the waters," I quoted, "and it will return after many days. Jack, try and remember the time you placed the good mustard plaster on my chest when I came down to your cozy cabin on the banks of Cottonwood Creek in the early '90s."

"I had forgotten," he said.

We shook hands and said goodbye. That was the last I saw of him.

This story is told because of the telephone message from down town asking me if I knew a man who kept a lumber yard and built a house by the river. The lady told me there was an old lady in Sarnia, Ontario, who wished a photograph of the house that Jack Dewar, the man who arrived in Nelson with 25 cents in his pocket, built.

★ ★ ★

Since writing the above, I might add that Jack Dewar was one of those Ontario boys who had God-fearing parents, and Jack's habits were good. Soon after he built his cabin he bought a team of cayuses and met steamboats at the wharf and brought freight and passengers' luggage uptown. He also gathered timber in the vicinity of the land known as Rosemont, and one of his customers was the Church Ladies' Aid. Jack said they were good but slow paying. He was very methodical in posting his accounts every evening.

We went to the old Presbyterian Church on Sunday nights.

Jack, being a steady man, I teased him about a certain neglected young lady in Nelson. Jack told me he had a sweetheart waiting for him in Ontario, and eventually they were happily married, but they had no children.

He was proud of the fact that some of his ancestors fought at the Battle of Bannockburn, in Scotland.

Gambling Report Accuses 'Peg Magistrate of Altering List

WINNIPEG (CP)—Attorney-General Ivan Schultz of Manitoba Thursday said "disciplinary action" will be taken against Magistrate D. G. M. Kyle of Provincial Police Court for altering a name on a list of found-ins at a police-raided crap game in suburban West Kildonan.

Mr. Schultz released a report on local gambling activity following an investigation by his department.

It said "the magistrate should not have made the alteration. To ensure that justices of the peace and police magistrates are not knowingly parties to accepting fictitious names, disciplinary action will be taken."

While not named in the report, the attorney-general later said Mr. Kyle was the magistrate referred to "in this case."

He said "disciplinary action" could take one of several forms, including suspension or severe reprimand.

Mr. Schultz said Wednesday one of a number of persons he questioned was Earl Solomon, Winnipeg lawyer listed as a found-in at the floating crap game raided by RCMP Oct. 25.

Mr. Solomon's name was later stroked out and the name of a Brandon man substituted. The Brandon man said he was at work at the time of the raid.

The attorney-general's report admitted "there is some dispute as to the facts prior to the change being made and as to who had knowledge of the same. It is clear, however, the actual change was made by the magistrate."

Americans Mark Thanksgiving in Bleak Korean Hills and Foxholes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans from Plymouth Rock to Korean foxholes paused this Thanksgiving Day to celebrate their country's heritage with feasting and prayer.

At Plymouth, Mass., where the Pilgrims landed 332 years ago, the community mirrored the country-wide reunions, turkey dinners with all the fixings, traditional football rivalries and special church services.

In the bleak Korean hills, with the battle lines comparatively quiet, U. S. troops relished their turkey dinners complete from shrimp cocktails to nuts.

The Americans shared their holiday fare with United Nations comrades and Korean war orphans.

Gen. James A. van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, told the troops:

"Last year at this time we thought that peace would be here before Thanksgiving came around again. Let us thank God that we have allies to fight with us and that we have a united team in Korea."

O'Dwyer, Target Of Congress, to Leave Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, a target of Congressional criticism during his 28-month career as a diplomat, is resigning as United States ambassador to Mexico effective Dec. 6.

The resignation was a routine change-of-administration move. The White House announced Wednesday that President Truman accepted it "with reluctance" and praised O'Dwyer for "a job indeed well done."

HEADLINE FODDER

O'Dwyer became headline fodder when the Senate crime investigating committee, headed by Senator Estes Kefauver, Dem. Tenn., accused him of contributing to the growth of organized crime in New York.

The Kefauver committee said in its report:

"Neither he nor his appointees took any effective action against the top echelons of the gambling, narcotics, waterfront, murder or bookmaking rackets. In fact, his actions impeded promising investigations of such rackets."

RECORD DEFENDED

O'Dwyer, testifying at the committee's hearings, staunchly defended his record, denied all charges.

He contended, among other things, that he had smashed the notorious murder-for-hire mob known as Murder, Inc., while district attorney.

Without Country, Refugee Lives Aboard Cunarder

QUEBEC (CP)—Mischel Hapalo, a man three countries have refused to accept as a refugee, has completed another voyage as a non-paying passenger aboard a liner.

The 28-year-old, Polish-born tailor, who said he was ordered from France after serving a jail term for striking a police inspector, arrived Wednesday aboard the Cunard liner Samaria from Southampton.

The shuttle between Canada and Britain—who have rejected him for failing to meet immigration requirements—is at the expense of Cunard because of a technicality resulting from the fact he first came to Canada last year aboard a Cunard ship.

"There is nothing much I can do about it," Hapalo said. "I would like to remain in Canada, which I have come to love in the nine months I lived in Montreal.

"But I will go anywhere the authorities send me, short of behind the Iron Curtain.

"I would rather die in jail than go to a Communist country."

Placing of Nativity Scene Stirs Rumpus Among Religious Leaders

TORONTO (CP)—Religious leaders differ on whether a Christmas nativity scene should be placed on the steps of city hall.

Board of control has refused to reverse a previous decision barring a Christmas tableau of the nativity from city hall steps.

Mayor Lamport said he had received letters of complaint regarding the proposed scene from members of the Jewish community. The city hall steps are an improper setting for such a scene, the mayor said.

UNIVERSITY CAMPUS

Mayoralty candidate Nathan Phillips said he favors the scene. With 90 per cent of Toronto's population of the Christian faith the request should be granted, he said.

The proposal was made by the "Bring Christ Back to Christmas Committee" at the University of Toronto. The committee said it will erect the scene on the campus of the university.

"I would agree with the decision of the board of conrtol," Rabbi Reuben Slonim of the Great Synagogue said. He said he felt that if one religious holiday was observed all others should be also. "I don't exactly see how they could observe Yom Kippur on city hall steps."

TOLERANT ARMY

Col. R. S. Harwood, chief secretary of the Salvation Army, said his organization would not have objected if the scene had been permitted but they would never have sponsored such a move.

Rev. Gordon Domm, president of the Toronto central presbytery of the United Church of Canada, said Christmas does not depend on nativity scenes in public places. Rev. Harold Trainer, editor of the Canadian Baptist, said his church favores the presentation of the nativity at city hall.

A spokesman from the office of Bishop A. R. Beverley, Anglican bisho of Toronto, said the bishop had expressed his approval of the project to the university students.

Spokesmen for the Roman Catholic Church declined to comment.

Church Tithes Enrage Farmer

RUCKINGE, Eng. (CP) — For more than 20 years, Archibald Waddell, 77, once a wealthy farmer of this district, has been waging a one-man war against imposition of church tithes.

In his latest skirmish with the authorities he was sentenced to a jail term of seven days for failing to pay a tax of £10 assessed against him last May.

"I will not pay tithe, I will cut my throat first," the farmer shouted as he was led away by the bailiffs.

MAINTAINS DEFIANCE

He has maintained this attitude of defiance ever since he purchased his farm for £6000 after the First World War. For defaulting on tax payments his furniture, farm machinery and livestock, have in turn been seized. Bankruptcy proceedings have also been brought against him three times.

After one sale of his property a cart horse he had owned for 18 years was bought back by "Our Dumb Friends League," and returned to him.

NATION SHOULD PAY

In 1939, after paying a liability of £100 when his land was threatened with seizure, Waddell told the court: "If tithe is for a national religion, then the nation should pay it."

He was still in a fighting mood when a receiving order was made against him in 1948 for refusing to pay a tax bill of £50.

"I am an old man fighting a lone battle," he said then, "but I do not intend to haul down my flag yet."

French Cabinet Revises Former Saar Agreement

PARIS (Reuters) — The French cabinet has agreed to revise a two-year-old economic agreement with the industrial Saar by permitting the pocket state to share in the operation of its own coal mines and giving it wider control over its imports.

The cabinet was also reported considering two other sweeping decisions under which France would:

1. Abolish the French privilege to veto Saar legislation.

2. Probably agree to share control of former Nazi property in the Saar with the Saar government. This would apply particularly to the Volkingen steel plant, largest in the territory.

IN A NUTSHELL

The French cabinet's decision to give the Saar wider control over its own imports means this in a nutshell:

The Saar government will get its share of American aid—a percentage of that granted to France—in dollars instead of francs. This will enable the Saar government to buy in any market including Western Germany.

Saarlanders have complained that they could not buy in Germany, where shoes and clothing, for instance, are cheaper than in France.

It was reported from Saarbrueck-en, the Saar's capital, that Premier Johannes Hoffman Wednesday received a letter from Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France outlining details of the cabinet's revisions.

Hoffman and his advisers were reported satisfied with them.

Murder and Ambush in New Mau Mau Outbreak

By RONALD BATCHELOR

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—A murder and a jungle ambush featured a new outbreak of Mau Mau terrorism Thursday.

Police found the mutilated body of an African-nominated member of Nairobi city council, Tom Mbotela, this morning. Mbotela recently attacked the anti-white Mau Mau cult and called on Africans to give up their beliefs in witchcraft.

He had been hacked to pieces with pangas, heavy bush knives, the favorite weapon of the terrorists.

Police investigating the slaying brought dogs with them in an attempt to track the killers.

ONCE UNION MEMBER

Mbotela was formerly a member of the Kenya African Union, the Africans' main political organization believed by some to be fostering the anti-white campaign—but resigned recently after disagreements with executives over policy. Jomo Burning Spear Kenyatta, head of the union, is at present facing trial for organizing the terrorist group.

In the up-country Fort Hall district—one of the areas most plagued by the marauding Mau Mau—two terrorists tried to ambush a Kikuyu chieftain named Kito as he drove along a lonely jungle track in his car.

But the chief's African escort pounced on the knife-wielding attackers and arrested one of them.

Mystery Unsolved of Missing Plane Clue

VANCOUVER (CP) — Another possible clue in the disappearance of a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane with 15 persons aboard near Vancouver in 1947 petered out Thursday.

The RCAF identified an aircraft engine recently caught in a fisherman's net near Active Pass, 20 miles West of here, as one from a Hurricane fighter lost in 1942.

All's Quiet on New York Front

NEW YORK (AP)—Dock workers who staged a one-day strike in protest against a State crime probe involving some union leaders were back on the job Thursday.

Police said, after a survey of the waterfront, that there were no reports of any stoppages, although only a few piers were busy on the Thanksgiving holiday.

About 1000 workers, members of Local 824, International Longshoremen's Association, AFL, walked off their jobs Wednesday.

PASSENGERS HAUL BAGS

Passengers and ship personnel did the luggage-hauling chore from four liners: the Queen Elizabeth, the United States, the Independence and the Vulcania.

The New York State Crime Commission, announcing it would begin public hearings Dec. 3 on alleged waterfront rackets, subpoenaed four Local 824 leaders for private appearances. The men balked at talking, and were told to come back and testify at the public sessions.

UN Attaching Korean Soldiers to United States and Canadian Units

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—South Korean soldiers may soon be wearing Canadian Army uniforms, manning Canadian weapons and soldiering in Canadian units on the front, The Canadian Press has learned.

The move is part of a plan to attach individual Republic of Korea soldiers to United Nations units and to integrate them into the formations.

Commonwealth authorities in the theatre are said to have approved attachment of 1000 Koreans to the Commonwealth division's three brigades. That would give the 25th Canadian Brigade more than 300. Only final approval is needed from the Commonwealth Governments concerned.

FIRST DRAFTS

The plan would see Koreans attached to United States Army divisions in numbers varying from 1800 to 2500. Some U.S. divisions already are receiving their first drafts.

An estimated 18,000 to 20,000 men thus would be added to the United Nations' fighting strength, equivalent to almost two divisions.

Under the plan the Korean soldiers would continue to be paid by their own Government.

Qualified sources say the plan is intended to make maximum use of weapons, ammunition, equipment and transport without committing the theatre to activation of still more Korean divisions.

Since the United States election Eighth Army Commander James A. Van Fleet has received authority to activate two more RoK Army divisions and five regiments.

KOREAN REACTION

Reaction among Korean Government and service officials to this additional plan is said to be mixed.

RoK troops have recovered from the poor name they acquired in early days of the war when entire divisions were mobilized from the streets and hurled into a desperate line after five days to 16 days of training.

Regular divisions such as the 1st RoK Division have never yielded an inch without being ordered to by higher command, and, as Gen. Van Fleet once told The Canadian Press, "have always led the parade in the advance."

Privately, UN commanders say they would like the new plan better if its aim were to attach the soldiers for conditioning as potential non-commissioned officers.

Mrs. W. A. Hewitt, 74, mother of Foster Hewitt, well-known NHL hockey broadcaster, was instantly killed near Scranton, Pa., when the car driven by her son-in-law, C. A. Foster Hewitt, informed of the fatality just before he went on the air to broadcast the Chicago-Toronto game, decided to go on with his hockey broadcast and telecast as usual.

Coast Brewers Reveal Loans To City Hotels

VANCOUVER (CP)—A spokesman for Coast Breweries revealed Thursday that Vancouver breweries have been trying to get a price increase for beer for almost a year.

The disclosure came as the Liquor Inquiry Commission ordered breweries in Vancouver to produce a list of the city hotels to which they have loaned $875,000.

SLOW TO APPEAR

Commission Chairman H. H. Stevens said at the start of the hearing that the breweries had had to be twice asked before they made an appearance before the board.

Bob Fiddes, director of Coast Breweries, disclosed that a price increase for beer was being sought.

It was also disclosed that the three breweries on the coast share the provincial liquor board monopoly market on a pro-rata basis of Vancouver Breweries, two shares, Coast Breweries, two shares and Sicks' Capilano Breweries, one share.

LOANS DISCLOSURE

Disclosure of the loans of $875,000 to hotels came after Mr. Fiddes had said that Coast Breweries had no interest whatever in any hotel other than loans which took the form of endorsing notes at the bank.

Alta. History on Treasure House Of River Banks

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — An archaeological treasure-house that may trace the history of Southern Alberta from prehistoric times to the 20th century, lies almost untouched along the scarred banks of the Milk River, about 70 miles Southeast of here, and within 10 miles of the international boundary.

The area is known as Masinasin. "Writing on Stone" Park and derives the name from Indian writing and paintings along the river bank.

Most of the Indian writings are petrographs, or stone carvings. Erosion has toppled some of the rocks and the writings have been lost. Some of the cliffs have been painted with a red pigment such as is found at nearby Paint Pots in Marble Canyon.

TWO TYPES

There are two distinct types of writing and it is believed one is much older than the other. One type portrays figures as long and narrow and uses straight lines. The other has all its figures round, both for people and animals.

Some archaeologists who have visited the rocks conclude the region was visited by a race of people before the Indians. It is known that an earlier race passed through Alberta and tools and pottery have been found that were used by the earlier people.

It is possible this group did some of the petrographs and the later-arriving Indians added some of their own.

The area lies under the shadow of the Sweet Grass Mountains of Montana and is rich in prehistoric finds. Dinosaur bones have been found a few miles east of the rocks, along with immense petrified trees and prehistoric oyster beds.

MOUNTIES STORY

First report of the writings is contained in Maj. Fred Bagley's story "The '71 Mounties" and tells of seeing Indian paintings on the rocks and caves near a North West Mounted Police camp in the Sweet Grass hills. This was probably the place later known as Writings-on-Stone.

Major Bagley related one of the stories told by the paintings. It tells of a group of Indians on a hunting expedition overtaken by a blizzard. They sought shelter below the rocks and painted the story of their buffalo hunt. All perished before the storm abated, according to the picture-story.

Report Back-Fired

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three youths made a mistake when they went to the police station Wednesday to lay a charge against the fourth.

The three were identified as suspects in a robbery an hour earlier.

The youths, whose names were not disclosed by police, invaded an east end house early in the morning, held up a roomer at gunpoint and then crashed a party. They kicked, beat and robbed eight guests and fled after firing a shot from their car.

Later, during a street fight they claimed a fourth youth fired a shot at them. They went to the police station to lay a charge.

As the trio entered the station the robbery victims identified them as the holdup men.

Red Cross Tackles Repatriation Of 100 Canadians

TORONTO (CP) — Another attempt to repatriate more than 100 Canadian civilians being held in Communist China will be made next month by the Canadian Red Cross.

Dr. W. Stuart Stanbury, the society's commissioner, said today in an interview he will go to Geneva next month to confer with officers of the Chinese Red Cross on repatriating the Canadians.

He said the conference will be on a purely Red Cross level, lacking government sponsorship.

MOSTLY MISSIONARIES

Most of the Canadians in China are missionaries, representing several denominations. Many are Roman Catholic nuns.

The Canadian government and the Red Cross have in the past made numerous representations to the Chinese government but without result.

Newsprint Up $10 Per Ton

TORONTO (CP) — Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., is advising its Canadian customers that the price of their newsprint will be increased $10 a ton, effective Jan. 1.

The increase is the same as that put into effect for United States customers last June 15, which did not apply in Canada.

Some other Canadian newsprint producers are also understood to have advised their customers of the increase.

$122 A TON

Under a $10 increase the Canadian base-area price will be $122 a ton. Canadian publishers also pay a federal 10-per-cent sales tax on all but the transportation part of the price.

Accordingly, their newsprint cost, with the increase, will be about $133 a ton in the base area, with higher prices in other parts of Canada.

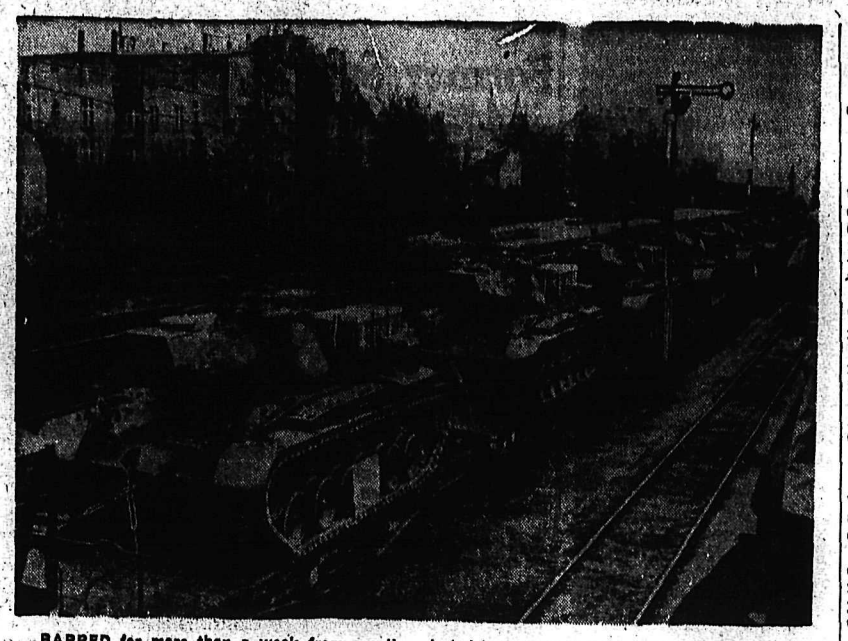
The United States price remains at $126 a ton, landed in New York, with higher prices in various regions.

Winter Weather For Ministers

LONDON (CP) — British Commonwealth prime ministers and their deputies gathered here Thursday in winter weather as bleak and stormy as the economic problems they will try to solve.

As snow, gales and ice gripped much of the British Isles, the seven prime ministers and two deputies prepared for two weeks of conferences during which they hope to work out plans for putting the commonwealth on a paying basis for easing the flow of world trade.

The weather delayed the arrival of Canada's Louis St. Laurent, held up Prestwick, Scotland. Australia's Robert Menzies and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were held up by engine trouble flying from New York and did not arrive until Thursday morning.



BARRED for more than a week from a rail crossing of the Soviet Zone to West Berlin, these 47-ton Patton tanks of the U.S. army are shown as they belatedly arrived in Berlin. The Reds objected to passage of the tanks on the grounds that they were "too broad" and "too heavy". The Pattons will replace the Pershing tanks now in the U.S. service in West Berlin.

Collect $7000 for Hold-Up Victim

EDMONTON (CP) — Almost $7000 has been collected by the Rudolph Rufer fund, more than enough to send the paralyzed garage operator to a paraplegic hospital at Montreal.

Mr. Rufer, who operated a garage at Gainford, 60 miles West of Edmonton, was shot in the neck June 30 in a holdup attempt. The bullet caused paralysis.

The fund, with an objective of $5000, was started Nov. 3. Mr. Rufer, 46, will be flown to Montreal free of charge by an Edmonton travel agency.

Martin Proposes Air Ambulance

VICTORIA (CP) — Proposal to set up a government-sponsored air ambulance service in British Columbia is under study, Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin said today.

The proposal has been submitted by Keith Malcolm, former chief pilot of a similar service in Saskatchewan.

Inauguration of such a service would be welcomed by residents in out-of-way places.

Ottawa Investigates Cheap Cigaret

Prisoners Escape by Kind of Rope Trick

WAKEFIELD, England (CP) — Four long-term prisoners escaped in the mist from Wakefield jail on Wednesday night aided by a variation of the Indian rope trick. To scale a 15-foot wall they tied one end of a rope to a short plank and threw the plank over the top of the wall so that it jammed against two large stones. One after another they "monkey-walked" up the wall and jumped to freedom.

Society Finds Ruins Thought To Be of Champlain Church

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec Historical Society says it has discovered what it believes to be the foundations of Notre Dame de Recouvrance Church, built in 1633 by Samuel de Champlain, founder of Quebec City.

The society said in a statement Thursday that a wall more than 46 feet long, about two feet wide and from one to three feet high was found in a search of backyards of stores established in a block rounded by Du Fort, Du Tresor, Ste. Anne and Buade Streets, near the Quebec basilica.

DOCUMENTS SHOW

The historical Quebec block, documents show, covers an area known as "Reserve d'Ailleboust" established in 1649.

Rev. Honorius Provost, secretary of the society, said the ruins were found by digging into the dirt in yards behind a series of business establishments on Buade Street.

Father Provost said the size of the wall and information contained in a letter written by Mme. d'Ailleboust, wife of an early French governor, in 1661, led the society to conclude that it could be nothing else but part of the first church built in the city.

The letter, found some years ago in the archives of the basilica, says the "reserve" was established on the site of Notre Dame de Recouvrance Church, destroyed by fire in 1640 along with a nearby chapel and the house of Jesuit missionaries.

Father Provost said no objects were found. The stone wall was about two feet from the surface. Earth dug up has been replaced and the wall is not now visible.

It was not known how the find will affect a long search for the body of Champlain, who died Christmas Day, 1635. He was buried in the cellar of Notre Dame de Recouvrance Church, but his remains were transferred to a small chapel later. All records were lost in the fire.

Pincher Creek, Peace River, Fort St. John Promise Big Oil Territory

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

A $500,000,000 treasure is buried in one place in southwest Alberta.

The treasure is natural gas at Pincher Creek, 60 miles west of Lethbridge, in the Rocky Mountain foothills. The gas is more than two miles deep and is being kept there until plans are made for its use.

Pincher Creek and the Peace River country of Alberta and British Columbia are the sensational features of Western Canada's natural gas development, which rivals the development of oil.

"WET GAS" FIND

The Pincher Creek find is "wet gas," which means that it has other products in it that the "dry gas" used for fuel. In this case, the other products are worth twice as much as the dry gas content.

Most common opinion is that they will bring a petro-chemical industry and gradual industrialization in southern Alberta; and that the dry gas will go to Eastern Canada by pipeline, with drop-offs at Prairie and northern Ontario points.

Such things, however, await Alberta's decision whether she had enough gas to permit sale outside the province.

Alberta's stand has been that she must have enough known gas to meet her own requirements for 30 years before she can allow export. It is believed this point now has been reached and some export permits have been granted.

PEACE RIVER GAS

On the big Peace River area, 300 miles to the north, Dr. G. S. Hume and Alexis Ignatieff of the federal department of mines and technical surveys, reviewing the situation at August 31 last, said:

"There is little doubt that the present developed gas reserve of 2,506,000,000,000 cubic feet will be greatly increased."

And, speaking of the Fort St. John, B.C., area alone, with reserves of 1,500,000,000,000 cubic feet, they said:

"It would not be surprising if the structures within the Fort St. John area have the greatest reserve of any structure so far found in Western Canada, including Pincher Creek. The discovery was made only in 1951 and the reserves have been developed within a few months of this year."

SURVEYS COMPLETED

Airborne surveys have been completed on the proposed pipeline. It would run from Dawson Creek, B.C., to Portland, via Prince George, Quesnel, Kamloops, Vancouver, Bellingham, Seattle and Tacoma—a distance of 960 miles, requiring an initial investment of $111,000,000.

The Fort St. John drilling hasn't yet gone down to the deeper Mississippian and Devonian formations which are the chief source of Alberta's major oil fields.

Emphasis is on gas in the Peace right now, but round Fort St. John important oil discoveries have been made and its backers predict that it will be big oil territory.

Rum stories...

"To train the shark was not so simple as you may think," said the bosun.

"Fortunately, the brig when she grounded was loaded to the marks with Lamb's Navy Rum. By judiciously rewarding my finny friend with dark invigorating tots, I so influenced his mind that he would give me the better fish such as turbot, retaining for himself only inferior qualities like cod. A trivial point, perhaps, but I thought good for discipline. I was about to send him to bring me a wife from among the girls bathing in a distant lagoon, when suddenly I sighted a sail. Instantly mounting the shark I went alongside and pausing only to present him with the corkscrew, climbed aboard."

"That's a Rum Story," said the wedding guest incautiously.

"Very kind of you, I'm sure, sir," replied the mariner. "I could just fancy a Lamb's Navy Rum."

School Additions in Planning at Castlegar

CASTLEGAR—The board of trustees of Castlegar school district is preparing a new building program to be presented in the Spring.

Contemplated projects are an addition to the Stanley Humphries Junior-Senior High School here, where already 100 students are using rooms not intended for classrooms, and additions to rural schools.

Preliminary plans are in Victoria awaiting government approval.

Only major construction item this year was erection of a one-room school at Deer Park.

Kinnaird to Take On Garbage Work

KINNAIRD—The Village of Kinnaird is planning to take over its own garbage collection shortly.

The truck it will use is a recently-purchased second-hand two-ton truck for village work, which is operating satisfactorily. Collections would be made along the present route. Previously, the service has been handled by contract.

The truck is the second major purchase of the Village Commission in the equipment line. A second-hand caterpillar was bought earlier this year.

School Board Head May Not Run Again

TRAIL — T. H. Weldon, chairman of the board of trustees of Trail school district, whose term expires this year, may not seek reelection in December.

After eight years on the board, the last two of them as chairman, Mr. Weldon said Thursday he didn't think he would offer for reelection. His is the only term expiring.

During his years as a trustee, the Cameron report's consolidated slant was implemented, and more recently, the board has carried through its three and a quarter million dollar building program.

Although an additional program is being contemplated, Mr. Weldon said he anticipated he would be looking at the board's activities "from the outside."

To Install Floating Bridge Across Sound

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Washington State Toll Bridge Authority approved the building of a floating bridge across Puget Sound.

It would link the Seattle area with Bremerton and the Olympia Peninsula, via Vashon Island. The estimated cost, including connecting bridges in the Bremerton area, would be $82,000,000.

Governor Arthur B. Langlie commented: "The world's first floating bridge over salt water likely will be opened to traffic in 1958."

It would replace most of the state-operated ferry routes on the Sound.

Brian Rennison Becomes Trail Area Scout Chief

TRAIL—Scouting activity in the district has shown continued progress. This was reported at the annual meeting of the Rossland-Trail district Scout organization Thursday evening, held in the Webster School. There were sixteen active groups in the district and new ones welcomed this year were Second Rossland, Second Castlegar and First Robson.

District Commissioners J. Nicholson and Archdeacon B. A. Resker reported on activities during the year, stressing the need for leadership. A suggested Cub and Scout display will be the main point of business on the next agenda. Camp chairman Reg White reported an excellent and well-attended camping year. Reports were heard from various groups in the district concerning the year's activities.

A presentation was made to Fruitvale Scout leader George Metcalfe for completion of a section of the Gilwell training course last Summer.

Archdeacon Resker gave a report on the international Scout Jamboree held in England this Summer. He said the conference brought out the spirit needed in the world today so that man may live peacefully together in spirit and harmony. He stressed the importance of the Scout movement in helping to fulfill the spiritual need of young boys today.

In an election, A. H. W. Busby was returned as president with C. R. Mear vice-president and J. H. Hargrave second vice-president. Brian Rennison was appointed district commissioner.

Kinnaird Active In Civil Defence

KINNAIRD — Further classes in civil defence are planned for Kinnaird residents after the new year.

This has been announced as the result of a meeting of the local civil defence organization, at which C. Shand spoke on a recent meeting with Kinnaird Commissioners and Civil Defence Chief A. V. Marcolin at Trail.

The future of civil defence activities in Kinnaird was discussed.

At least 50 people completed basic training in the Spring.

Cancer Bomb for New York Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Montifiore Hospital has obtained an $86,000 anti-cancer bomb from Canada that is reported capable of producing the same "kick" as $30,000,000 worth of radium.

The bomb, properly known as a cobalt teletherapy unit, was brought by truck Wednesday to the Bronx institution from the Canadian atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont.

Largest of its type in the country, the bomb's active elements are contained in four small wafers of cobalt 60—which can bombard a cancer with up to 3,000,000 volts compared to 200,000 volts from X-ray machines.

Trail May Again Get Water From Violin Lake in Month

TRAIL — Replacement of pipelines from Violin Lake, a $75,000 project which has been going on here since August, is expected to be completed by Christmas, it was stated here Thursday.

When it is finished, Trail will return to its normal water supply mediums of one half the city being served by Violin Lake and the other half by the Columbia River. During the work, all water has been coming from the river, necessitating chlorination.

"Actually, what the completion will mean is a more palatable water supply," a city official said.

To replace old lines and increase their size, 3000 and 9000 feet pipelines have been laid from Violin Lake, part of a $335,000 water system improvement bylaw.

Trail Local Backs Vancouver Union

TRAIL — Members of local 480 of Mine-Mill Wednesday night expressed concern over the plight of an independent Vancouver union, the Civic Outside Workers' Union.

The independent Civic Workers' Union is being "raided by the International Association of Machinists (TLC)", the membership was told.

"The Wednesday night meeting endorsed a bulletin signed by officers of local 480, giving full support to the Vancouver union," Martin Walsh, business agent for local 480 said Thursday morning. He said the Civic Outside Workers have a membership of 1500, which the machinists union is trying to win over.

The Rossland section of local 480 was reported to be particularly busy developing entertainment for the children, under direction of Harold Bradford, chairman of the entertainment committee. Free Saturday film matinees were attracting large numbers of youngsters.

Mr. Brandford and his committee are now working on an amateur stage competition slated for December 9.

Canada's Families Getting Smaller

OTTAWA (CP)—The number of persons in the average Canadian household is steadily declining, a trend that has been continuing for 70 years.

The Bureau of Statistics estimated that the average household consisted of 4.07 persons in 1951, with a drop showing in every decennial census since 1881 when the average household consisted of 5.33 persons.

In 1901, the average was trimmed to 5.03 persons. In 1941 it had declined to 4.25.

While the size of the households declined, the numbers increased in line with general population growth. Total households in the nine older provinces jumped to 3,349,000 in 1951, up from 2,706,000 in 1941 and more than four times greater than 800,000 in 1881.

Astor Leaves $2 Million Estate

LONDON (Reuters) — Viscount Astor left an estate in Britain at a gross value of $2,729,230, of which the government has lopped off more than half in inheritance taxes, it was disclosed today.

The viscount, who died in September at 73, left his wife funds to cover her "adequate requirements" and the use of all diamond ornaments left in trust by his father, the first viscount.

SANCY DIAMOND

Among them is the 53½-carat Sancy diamond once owned by Queen Elizabeth I of England, Louis XIV of France, a Russian prince, an Indian rajah and a Spanish king before the first Lord Astor acquired it.

After the deduction of $1,425,712 in inheritance taxes and several bequests, the rest of the estate goes to his son, 44-year-old William Waldorf Astor, the third viscount.

Lord Astor left a separate will in the United States to cover his fortune there.

BORN IN U.S.

Astor, a descendant of a German emigrant who made a fortune in American real estate and furs 150 years ago, was born in the United States and came to England as a youngster.

He married Nancy Langhorne who became Britain's first woman member of Parliament.

Astor's will also pointed out that he had helped to preserve the Canadian hospital on his Cliveden estate.

Japanese Order Russians Home

TOKYO (AP) — Seven Russian citizens left Japan Thursday at the order of the Japanese government.

Among them were Tass News Agency Correspondent Evgenii Seminovich Egorov and Pravda Correspondents Alexi Ivanovich Kozhin and Igor Dmitrivich Fyzhov.

The Japanese Justice Ministry ordered them to leave because Russia has not taken steps to end the technical state of war with Japan which has existed since the Second World War.

About 50 members of the Soviet Mission in Japan are still in this country. The government has taken no steps to force them to leave.

CAIRO (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib's tough reform Government stripped Egypt's Royal Family of another privilege Thursday.

The Cabinet ordered dissolution of the Crown Council, which was set up in 1922 to handle all judicial matters concerning the King and other members of the Royal house. It was made up of several Princes, palace dignitaries and Cabinet members.

Henceforth Royalty will come under the jurisdiction of the ordinary courts, like all other Egyptians.

Canada Urges Acceptance India Korean Peace Plan

By NORMAN ALSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada, in the hope that the Chinese Communists and North Koreans want peace, today urged prompt United Nations approval of an Indian peace plan for Korea despite Russian rejection.

Health Minister Paul Martin, leader of the Canadian delegation who first publicly suggested the formula which became the basis of the Indian plan, told the UN political committee that it should not haggle over non-essentials.

He struck hard at Foreign Minister Vishinsky of Russia for his rejection of a "sincere effort to find a solution which would lead to an armistice in Korea."

Martin recalled that Vishinsky said at the last assembly he "laughed all night" over suggestions made for settlement of the disarmament question.

"Surely he cannot long escape the judgment before the bar of world opinion," Martin added.

"It is the hope of most of us here and of the millions of people whom we represent that our deep-rooted desire for peace in Korea is shared by our adversaries in the present conflict," the minister said.

KEY TO SOLUTION

"It is in that hope and in the conviction that the Indian resolution gives us the key to a solution that I strongly appeal to all delegations to lend their support to the principles and purposes of the resolution now before us and to stand against efforts by the Soviet delegation and its satellites to bring that hope and these convictions to naught."

Martin noted that Vishinsky has told the committee of the "negative attitude" of the Chinese to the Indian proposal, which would have all prisoners sent to a demilitarized zone under a neutral commission where they would decide whether to return home.

Under the Indian plan, Martin said, the problem of prisoners who refused to be repatriated 90 days after a cease-fire "will have been limited and definited and may have been reduced to a point where the solution will not be difficult."

$93 Million in Gold in Every Cubic Mile of Ocean's Water

By DAVID HELLER
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

If somebody told you where you could find $93 million in gold and $8½ million's worth of silver absolutely free for the taking, you might: (a) regard your informant as a fool, or (b) start running like mad to where you were told to look.

As a service, Central Press Canadian can tell it's readers positively and absolutely where the $100-odd million of precious metals are. What's more, all you have to do is cart it away.

Like most pie-in-the-sky schemes, however, there's a catch.

The fantastic fortune is the amount of gold and silver that can be found in every cubic mile of sea water in all the oceans of the world. The Smithsonian Institution once estimated that there is $45 trillion's worth of gold alone in the sea — enough to make every man, woman and child on earth a millionaire at current prices.

Why don't we recover the gold from the sea? Simple. It costs more to recover than it's worth.

However, someday soon, as scientific and engineering knowledge increase, man may be mining gold from the sea as he now mines it from the earth. Mining the sea has already become a billion-dollar industry and all of our lives are richer for it.

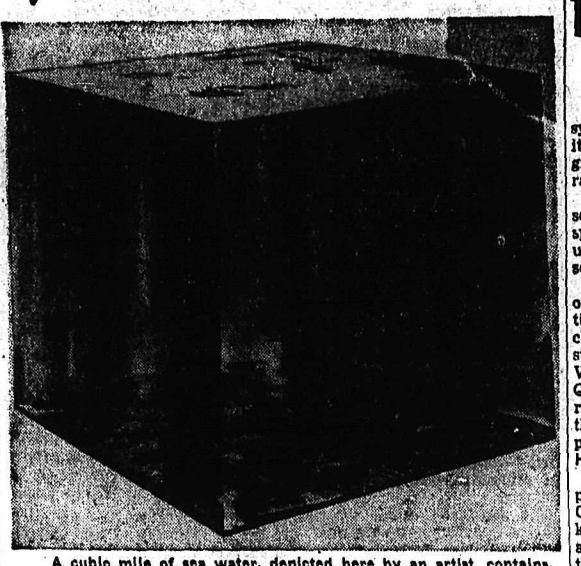
The oceans of the world contain a fantastic store of mineral wealth —50 quadrillion tons. This incredible store of minerals is dissolved in the water in minute particles. Engineers are now learning ways of tapping this wealth, and with the population of the world increasing by ever-increasing leaps and bounds, mankind may look to the seas as the main source of some minerals.

BROMINE SOURCE

Take the case of bromine, for instance.

Chances are, you've never heard of it, but it plays an important part in your life. Without it, there would be no high-test gasoline for our cars. Bromine is also used in the making of headache powders, fire extinguishers, photography, dyes, and for hundreds of other purposes.

The ocean has a world-wide monopoly on bromine — literally.



A cubic mile of sea water, depicted here by an artist, contains 24 billion pounds of magnesium, lightest of structural metals, in addition to 93 millions of dollars' worth of gold.

More than 99 per cent of the supply has filtered into the seas of the world from rainwater and other sources.

When anti-knock gasoline was developed, fuel scientists cried for bromine. However, their needs for it exceeded the world supply by more than 10 times. There was only one place to get it, from the sea. Thus, less than two decades ago, was born the first important recovery of the sea's treasures.

In 1933, a major chemical company established the first plant to extract bromine directly from the sea. Kure Beach, N.C., was the first important centre for this work. Now Freeport, Tex., is the bromine capital of the world.

By a complicated process a minute percentage of bromine is removed as a gas from the huge amoun of sea water. World War II increased the need for aviation gasoline (and bromine) many times and new methods of mining the sea played a key role in helping the Allies defeat the Axis.

The "wonder metal", magnesium is another treasure being recovered from the ocean. Magnesium is the lightest commercial structural metal and has made possible thousands of new products. Only two-third as heavy as aluminum, it gives steel great strength when alloyed with it. Magnesium is used in airplanes, truck bodies, electrical equipment and a wide range of other products.

Today, nearly 100 per cent of America's virgin magnesium and 80 per cent of that nation's bromine come directly from the sea, forerunners that will one day come from the source.

CHEAPER IODINE

Iodine is another mineral which promises some day to come from the sea in vast quantities. Necessary to the maintenance of life, iodine was once obtained only from the ashes of burned seaweed. While it has not yet been directly mined from the sea, the next best thing has happened. It has been produced on a huge scale from heavily-concentrated brines. The price of iodine dropped almost to a fourth of its original price within a few years after this method of mining it was discovered.

Ever since the first caveman learned that evaporated sea water contained life-giving salt, men have sought to tap the wealth of the oceans. With scientific knowledge growing apace, the day may not be far off when it will be one of our important sources of raw materials.

Perhaps some day soon we will be mining that million's worth of gold and silver which is contained in every cubic mile of sea water.

Rum-Drinking Skunk Presents Problems

VANCOUVER (CP)—"Hubert" is a deodorized skunk but the sea-going animal still presents problems for his master, Slim Williams, commodore of the Burrard Yacht Club here. True to the traditions of the sea, Hubert insists on his daily rum ration and usually totters overboard. The skunk swims fairly well but tires quickly and Williams has often gone to the rescue.

Telemeters Can Widen Areas for TV Performances

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A transmission system called "telemeter" has made it possible to see television programs in communities beyond range of existing TV stations.

The telemeter is a method of sending programs by wire, and a special adaptor is required for regular television sets to obtain this service.

Famous Players Canadian Corporation, which acquired distribution rights, has applied for franchises to instal telemeters in Kingston, Hamilton, Toronto, Kitchener, Vancouver and several towns in Quebec. Where communities already receive regular television, the telemeter would provide supplementary programs.

HEADING WEST

Officials of the company said it plans later to include centres like Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Saskatoon, the lakehead and eventually perhaps every sizable town in the country.

USES COIN SLOT

Once the attachment is installed, the set owner operates telemeter by coins, much the same as a pay telephone or coin-operated radios common in hotels.

The sets are connected by wire to a central control room and the programs are "pipe" over the wires. Most of the programs would be regular movies, and recorded films of sports events and other attractions which had been previously televised.

In areas which now have TV, the company plans to install 'community antennae." About 300 feet high, each community antenna would be located at an interference-free point to serve all subscribers to the service.

Cost to the set owners for installation of telemeter and a link to the community antenna is estimated at between $135 and $150. A monthly service fee of about $2 would also be charged.

Famous Players said charges for using telemeter would vary depending on the program. The average for a "top quality" movie would be about 50 cents, other programs ranging from five cents to $2.

SOUTH AFRICANS EAT SWEET LUPINS

STELLENBOSCH, South Africa (CP)—The sweet lupin is being cultivated as a vegetable at the agricultural college here. The flower is said to be rich in protein and the seeds, growing in pods like peas, have a sweet flavor. The plant which grows in sandy soil was used as a food in Germany during the last war.

London Times Agrees to Canada's Economic View

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Times came out today with an analysis of the Commonwealth economic conference that seems in complete accord with the Canadian viewpoint.

In its leading editorial, the newspaper says the Commonwealth ministers have two main problems to consider: self-help within the sterling area and the fundamental problem of United States predominance.

The danger, says The Times, is that the second problem may be used by the sterling area as an excuse for not putting their own house in order.

SELF-HELP FIRST

"Because of the persistent American surplus . . . it is contended that the action now demanded to make the economies of the Commonwealth coutnries shipshape. . . is beside the mark," the newspaper adds. "In fact, the truth is precisely the opposite."

"The greater the difficulty of making both ends meet in world markets, the greater the need to leave nothing undone to make the most in competitive terms of Commonwealth resources. Self-help is the first and last item on the agenda."

RESTRICTION WRONG

The Times says it is clear, "as it has been all the time to the Canadians at their special vantage point in North America," that there is no solution in perpetual restriction.

Canada has long urged that sterling-area self-help must precede helpful action by the dollar bloc, such as the lowering of American tariffs. In the past, Britain has often seemed to postpone strict measures at home on the ground that the fundamental problem of lack of dollar-sterling equilibrium must be solved first.

Ghost Town No Way to Speak Of Dawson City

By STEPHEN SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DAWSON, Y.T. (CP)—The words "ghost town" are fighting words here.

The 700 normally friendly residents of this once fabulous centre of the Klondike gold rush have various and rather homicidal plans for the writer who recently called the "city" that.

Dawson was born of the Klondike gold rush. It sprang from barren tundra to a city of 25,000 within two years of the discovery of gold on the Klondike River.

FAMOUS WORLD OVER

It became the home of money-hungry adventurers from the world over and for a few short years its name was as famous as any city in the world.

Within the two-square-mile townsite the number of new buildings can be counted on the fingers of one hand. The people live, work and play in the same buildings as the hard-living gold miners of 1900. Many of the old buildings have been condemned as fire hazards and torn down. Others are sagging, unpainted and empty. Because of the shifting soil, foundations of most buildings, new and old, sink and tilt.

SHADES OF PAST

The famed Floradora saloon and dance hall, once the liveliest spot in town, now is the Alexandra Hotel and Cafe and in the Winter is about as lively as a mortuary.

The plush seats, hardwood floors and velvet curtains of the Auditorium, once the city's pride and joy, are gathering dust. No buyers are willing to pay the $5000 purchase price for the building.

The log cabin of Robert Service, the bard of the Yukon, stands sad and neglected on the hill overlooking the community.

Dawson is still supported by gold mining — gold mining by machines that work about eight months of the year. During those eight months the population rises to about 1200.

NO LONGER CAPITAL

Civic pride was hit hard last year when the federal government announced the Yukon's seat of government would be changed from Dawson to Whitehorse, the new centre of the territory's growing population.

Both United States and Canadian companies have expressed interest in base metal discoveries, including copper and high grade silver, in the immediate area of Dawson. Year-round hard rock mining would put this town back on the map, senior citizens say.

EVERY PROVINCE has a waiting list for Telephone Service

There is a worldwide shortage of telephone plant and equipment. The largest telephone system in North America reports that it has a waiting list for service of a million names. The same system has about two million people waiting to get on lines having fewer parties.

In Canada every province has a waiting list.

The demand for telephone service has been greatly accelerated in recent years because of higher incomes and a greater "telephone consciousness." This demand has strained the world telephone resources.

British Columbia has had an unusually heavy demand because it is the fastest growing part of the Dominion. We have spent millions of dollars —and are currently spending millions more—on the largest expansion program in our history.

New Dynamiter Goalie In W. Kootenay Swing

KIMBERLEY —"Smiler" Brown's cellar-dwelling Kimberley Dynamiters open their second jaunt through the West Kootenays in Trail this evening. The Dynamiters dropped both games in Trail and Nelson on their initial WIHL trip, but since have padded their roster with new talent.

Dynamiters have yet to win a game in Trail's new ice palace; the best they have done was a 5-5 draw. They will be fighting desperately tonight to try and break the jinx and vacate the WIHL basement spot.

So far this season the Dynamiters have only managed to win three three games out of eleven meetings. They have won three games at home and lost two, and have drawn 7000 fans to their five home games.

Newcomer Al "Buk" Buchholz, a netminder from Yorkton, Sask., will be between the pipes for both games. He is 21 years of age and played for Toledo last semester.

The "Smiler" is carrying five defencemen, Yost, Johnson, Banting, Jones and Sutherland. The Dynamiters highest scoring line of Mellor, Hockley and Kavanaugh will be intact. Diminutive Ray McNiven will centre Bell and Barre on the second unit. Bobby Schmeid will make his first appearance between Lamb and Larter in the third trio.

Brown believes his team will improve as the season progresses for he has a young squad with Buchholz, Banting, Hockley, Lamb and Larter, all 21 years of age.

Doc Livingstone is back in harness, but will not see action until next Tuesday when the Dynamiters host Spokane Flyers.

Ken Simpson arrived back in Kimberley and will help the hapless Dynamiters when he rounds into shape. Red Mellor, Dave McClay and Spence Tatchell will not be on the trip.

Hawks Tie Leafs 3-3 to Retain Lead in League

By The Canadian Press

Chicago's Black Hawks retained their National Hockey League lead by playing to a 3-3 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night. In other games, Boston Bruins shipped New York Rangers 3-1 and Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens tied 2-2.

Gordie Howe, skidding off balance on his hands and knees, scored one of the all-time freak goals in the NHL to earn the tie for Detroit.

The freak tying goal came at 4:10 of the final period when Metro Prystai fired a 50-footer towards the net. Howe had flopped to the ice and his back was to the puck as he skidded. It hit him from behind, flipped between his legs, and he shoved it past an amazed Gerry McNeil, Montreal goalie.

CROWD 13,247

A Thanksgiving Day crowd of 13,247 saw the Wings, still trying to climb out of fourth place, make up a 2-0 deficit in 1:42 minutes of the last period.

First Reg Sinclair slapped in the puck during a scramble in front of the net at 2:28. Ted Lindsay and Marcel Pronovost got assists. Then came Howe's goal, his 10th of the year.

It was a brilliantly-played offensive game with McNeil and Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk each stopping 30 shots.

The Canadiens moved ahead on a goal by Dick Gamble at 15:27 of the second period. Bert Olmstead made it 2-0 at 1:10 of the third.

The third-period Canadien goal was protested by goalie Sawchuk, who claimed Olmstead was standing in the crease. Bud McPherson had shot and Sawchuk came out of the net to block the try. The puck was knocked to the ice in the crease and Olmstead, standing at the side of the net, reached behind Sawchuk and flicked the puck in.

Sawchuk had 14 saves to McNeil's 13.

BRUINS WIN

At Boston, the Bruins scored at a goal-a-period clip to whip New York and end an unbeaten string of the Rangers' at three games.

It was Boston's first win over the Rangers this season after two ties.

Boston went in front at eight minutes of the opening session on a nifty combination play between Milt Schmidt and winger Leo Labine. Schmidt got the puck out of a scramble along the boards and passed to Labine right at the goal mouth.

The Bruins, facing a New York club which showed vast improvement since its last game here with the return of Don Raleigh, Chuck Rayner, Leo Reise and veteran Edgar Laprade, notched the clinching tally in the middle session as Fleming Mackell whipped a 20-footer past Rayner.

New York rookie Dean Prentice drew New York up to a 2-1 deficit at 19:36 of the session as he smacked in Raleigh's rebound.

The Bruins added an insurance marker in the finale on Pentti Lund's eight-foot backhander.

FIRES 60-FOOTER

At Chicago, Fred Hucul fired a 60-footer from the blueline at 13:42 of the third period to break a 2-2 deadlock. The Leafs at the time were short-handed because of a tripping penalty to Jim Mortson. Bill Mosienko, Hawk veteran, was driven into a corner post and suffered an injured left leg.

That slender lead prevailed until 1:37 of play remained when, with a face-off in Chicago ice, Harry Lumley was pulled out of the Toronto nets. Twice the Hawks cleared the puck successfully. On the third face-off, Ted Kennedy drove a short pass to Sid Smith whose shot went past Al Rollins for the tying goal at 18:52.

With 10 seconds to go, tempers flared between Kennedy and Hawk Fred Glover who were waved off for roughing and high sticking.

The Hawks had to come from behind twice in the first two periods. After Tod Sloan's goal against a short-handed Chicago club at 3:09, Jimmy Peters evened it at 8:44. However, George Armstrong connected at 19:08 for a Toronto 2-1 lead at that point.

The second period saw Mosienko count at 9:48 to tie again at 2-2.

Leafs Hyssop, Haldane Take Over Scoring Lead

Lee Hyssop and Bill Haldane took over the scoring leadership of the WIHL last weekend when Hyssop came through with another hat-trick and Haldane chalked up two assists.

Rated on the percentage basis of Spokane 43-56, Nelson 43-47, Trail 43-49 and Kimberley 43-43, this gives the two Nelson players a fractional lead over Red Tilson and Dino Rozzini of the Spokane Flyers.

Hyssop and Haldane, with 26 points each, have a rated standing of 23.8 (computed by multiplying 26 against 43-47), while the 32 points won by both Tilson and Rozzini becomes 32.3 when the percentage of games is taken into account.

The following is the unofficial individual scoring record as of Nov. 27 (goals and assists—one point each) for each player in the league, all totals being subject to the league rating:

Aussies Start Stadium for Olympic Games

By TONY SYME

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters) — The next Olympic Games, slated for Melbourne in 1956, are a long way off, but the Australians are already busy with all out preparations for them.

Major item in planning for the Olympics is a stadium where the major events will be held.

The Olympic stadium will be erected at a football field a mile and a half from the centre of Melbourne and workmen on the spot now are busy sinking test holes to determine the soil composition and rock strata of the site.

Soon other workmen will start tearing down the old football stadium to make way for the new one.

After a contest among 115 top-flight Australian architects, the organizing committee selected Frank Heath, winner of this year's town planning medal, to design the stadium.

The plans he submitted will cost an estimated £900,000 to carry out.

Okanagan Areas Seek Longer Hunting Season

KELOWNA, B. C.—A two-week extension of the deer season is being sought by fish and game clubs in Penticton, Kelowna and Vernon.

Telegrams to this effect went out Wednesday to Victoria. The small kill, due to a mild open Fall, is behind the request. Normally by this time of year, many more deer are in the lockers.

But with hardly any snow on the mountains, the deer are still high up and hard to get at. The season is due to end Sunday.

Sports In Trail . . .

Victory for Eskimos May Inspire New B.C. Activity

By DMITRI P. GOLOUBEF

This week I will digress from Sports in Trail and talk about Canadian football and the Grey Cup which will be played on Saturday between the Edmonton Eskimos and the Toronto Argonauts. Having played for the Eskimos for two seasons, I hope they win the cup, not only for sentimental reasons, but for what it can and will do for football in the West.

By the West I mean British Columbia in particular. Calgary, in 1948 won the Grey Cup and what did that mean to football in the West? Edmonton, lying dormant since 1939 decided then and there tha they wanted a football team so the Edomonton Eskimos were born and on Saturday you will see them battling for the Grey Cup, emblematic of Canadian football championship in Canada. Now if Edmonton can, and I think she will, win the Grey Cup on Saturday, it will do very much to get the Vancouver entry into the Western League. Vancouver was refused admittance in the league last year and the reasons are still very vague to a lot of people, but never-the-less she was refused, but if the Grey Cup comes West I think we will see Vancouver entering a team next year.

Now you might say, what if Vancouver does enter into the Western Football League? If Vancouver enters a team she is going to have to get players from somewhere and where is she going to get players? She is going to get those players from high schools, colleges, and junior clubs throughout the country. Yes, she will be getting players from the States but if the rugby officials set the limit for imports at five or seven they are going to be forced to use Canadian talent because each football club has a complement of between 30 to 35 players. Football is played in all the high schools on the coast and now they are starting to play the game in the Okanagan so logically the next step is to have football played here in the Kootenays.

POSSIBILITIES GOOD

There are enough ex-football players around that would be more than willing to coach and organize the game for high schools, and, in the same breath, there are enough high schools around to make a very good and strong inter high school football league. There will be a great incentive to play the game if the players think they might have a chance to some day play in the senior league.

For the initial year the cost of football is high but for the years following the cost is not too high and if admission is charged for the games enough money can be made to defray all the cost of football. Right here in the Kootenays we have the interest, not only from would-be players, but from spectators; we have the talent, green at present, but still talent that could be developed; we have the schools for the initial league and we have the coaches and the organizers. All we need now is for the school boards to sanction the game and yet another sport will be added to the Kootenays.

Now to get back to the Grey Cup final between Edmonton and Toronto. This should be the most interesting Grey Cup game that has ever been played. You will see, going into action, two teams that have been dubbed 'the greatest comeback teams in the history of the game.' Edmonton came back from a 19 point deficit against Calgary to beat them by four points, and then went ahead, and after losing the first game to Winnipeg, whipped them soundly the next two games to become the Western champions. Toronto, on the other hand, after winning the first game against Hamilton, lost the second one by a score that evened the two-game-total-point-series and forced another playoff game between the two clubs which Toronto won.

So when the teams trot out on the field of Varsity Stadium on Saturday the fans will see one of the most exciting Grey Cup games in the history of Canadian rugby.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

WAA Asks Change In Car Designs

CALGARY (CP) — The Western Automobile Association has urged manufacturers to consider changes of design in future car models. Officials called for design improvements which would lower the cost of repairs and replacements after accidents.

The request, directed at the Automobile Manufacturers' Association of Canada and the United States, was passed unanimously Wednesday by delegates from the British Columbia Automobile Association, the Alberta Motor Association, the Saskatchewan Motor Club and the Manitoba Motor League.

Next year the WAA annual meeting will be in Winnipeg, when the Manitoba Motor League celebrates its 50th anniversary.

Market Trends

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were weak on the year's slowest session. Volume was less than 900,000 shares.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains more than two to one, most of them small.

MONTREAL (CP)—With a rise of more than two points, General Dynamics provided a strong spot in otherwise narrowly irregular dealings today on the stock exchange. General Dynamics, up 1¼ points Wednesday, gained 2¼ points.

LONDON (Reuters) — Trading gave a widely mixed display though the over-all activity was slight.

South African gold shares were prominent on revived hopes of an increased price for gold and sterling convertibility. Copper shares and leading oil shares also improved.

The word "ink" comes from a Latin word for a purple writing fluid which the Roman emperors used to sign their papers.

WOUNDED SOLDIERS of the Republic of South Korea are shown at an aid station behind the front lines after they came back from the bloody slopes of Triangle Hill, after one of many unsuccessful assaults on that strategic position. Infantry attacks have been discontinued by both sides as too costly in manpower, but the heavy guns continue their barrages.—Central Press Canadian.

Canadian Exports Drop 30 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian exports to the Commonwealth, which helped power a big trade expansion earlier this year, dropped by almost 30 per cent during October, flattening out Canada's foreign trade drive.

Exports to the Commonwealth declined to $65,100,000, down $26,600,000 from $91,700,000 in October, 1951, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday in a preliminary statement.

There were these other developments:

1. Exports to the United States were virtually unchanged from a year ago, but imports climbed, causing another large Canadian deficit in U.S. trade.

2. Gains in exports were made among some of the smaller markets, but on the whole exports were just slightly behind imports, causing a $300,000 deficit in total trade.

3. The trend indicated that the peak had been reached in Canada's foreign trade with soft spots showing up more prominently than in any previous month of 1952.

U.K. REDUCES IMPORTS

During the month, Britain, Canada's second largest market, reduced imports from Canada by $14,600,000 with shipments declining to $49,600,000 from $64,200,000.

It was the third and largest monthly drop of the year. Sales to Britain were consistently higher in every previous month with the exception of July when exports declined by $5,100,000 from a year ago and in September when they declined to $10,300,000.

BRITISH IMPORTS

Imports from Britain, however, were slightly higher, increasing to $3,900,000 from $32,700,000. Britain's traditional deficit in trade with Canada was still there, amounting to $12,700,000 for the month and bringing the 10-month total to $333,400,000.

Sales to other Commonwealth countries declined to $15,500,000 from $27,500,000. Imports also dropped — to $16,600,000 from $21,300,000.

This trend in Commonwealth trade contrasted with developments in the first nine months of 1952 when exports climbed by $170,000,000 to $784,400,000 from $614,000,000 in the similar period last year.

Imports declined by $187,000,000 to $401,800,000 from $588,900,000.

With October's developments in Commonwealth trade, exports to all markets increased only slightly to $377,40,000 from $375,700,000 last year. Imports increased to $377,700,000 from $344,100,000, up $33,600,000.

The balance between exports and imports left a deficit of $300,000, reducing the over-all 10-month surplus fractionally to $352,200,000 from $352,500,000. This still was a sharp contrast to the deficit of almost $300,000,000 in 1951.

Sales to the United States during October were virtually unchanged from a year ago, amounting to $210,900,000, against $210,800,000 last year. Imports, however, climbed to $277,400,000 from $238,300,000.

ENDS WITH DEFICIT

As usual, Canada ended up with a deficit, this time $66,500,000, bringing the 10-month deficit in trade with the U.S. to $538,500,000. This compared with $447,800,000 in a similar period last year.

In trade with all other countries, exports climbed to $101,400,000 from $73,200,000, while imports eased to $46,800,000 from $51,800,000.

This development more than doubled Canada's favorable balance with these countries, boosting it to $54,600,000 during October from $21,400,000 a year ago.

Turn to Socreds For Egg-Storage Responsibility

VANCOUVER (CP) — A resolution that the provincial government be responsible for seeing that all cold storage or other processed eggs be labelled as such, was passed on Thursday at the B. C. Federation of Agriculture convention here.

The resolution said there is wide spread dissatisfaction among consumers on quality of eggs offered for sale and that this arises from the "indifferent" quality of storage eggs.

"There is no common means by which the consumer can distinguish between fresh and storage eggs at time of purchase," the resolution said.

CIO Employees Turn Down Strike Action

VANCOUVER (CP)—Proposal of strike action by the International Woodworkers of America (CIO) has been turned down by more than 300 employees of four Southern Interior lumber operations in a Government-supervised ballot.

The union requested the vote after the Southern Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association rejected a majority conciliation board recommendation for a 3½-cent hourly pay boost and three statutory holidays with pay.

Many Headaches For Eisenhower

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) —The first signs of a struggle for power within the new Eisenhower administration are beginning to make their appearance.

Prospective chief antagonists are two veterans of the Republic political wars—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, twice his party's presidential nominee, and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who lost three efforts to gain the nomination.

In essence, Taft and Dewey represent two wings of the Republican party struggling to channel the Eisenhower administration into their own pattern.

DEWEY LEADING

Dewey represents what—for lack of a better description—is called the "internationalists" wing of the party. Taft represents those who believe that the greatest threat of communism comes from within.

At this point, Dewey and his influence are in the ascendency. There are reports that Eisenhower asked him to become secretary of state, but that Dewey suggested John Foster Dulles instead.

Dulles served as Dewey's foreign affairs adviser in the 1944 and 1948 campaigns, when Herbert Brownell, Jr., designated by Eisenhower for Attorney-General, was Dewey's campaign manager.

But to a large measure, a president only proposes and Congress disposes. That is where Taft is likely to have his big innings.

Princess Launches Passenger Ship

NEWCASTLE, England (AP)—Princess Margaret, cheered by thousands of dockyard workers, today launched the 7000-ton passenger ship Maori from the Vickers Armstrong Naval dockyard. The vessel, which will carry nearly 1000 passengers, will be used on runs around New Zealand.

PERHAPS the fact that he has never in his 28 years with the police force arrested anyone for possessing sweepstakes tickets—which are illegal in Quebec—helped Lieut. Lucien Charbonneau of the Montreal police traffic division to win $46,900 in the Quebec Army and Navy and Air Force Veterans' sweepstake. The father of two, seen above with their mom and dad, held a ticket on Summer Rain, which finished first in the November Handicap at Manchester, England. When told of the win, he said: "That's terrific!" and then went on to say: "I won't be buying any big car. Maybe I'll just buy the motorcycle I've been using for years."—Central Press Canadian.

Delays Foreseen On Seaway Work

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail said Thursday that construction of the St. Lawrence power and seaway project will likely be delayed another 18 months by court action in the United States, although the International Joint Commission approved the scheme last month and the Ontario Hydro is ready to start at once.

In a newspage story, the newspaper quoted C. M. Goetz, lawyer for the New York State Power Authority, as saying that if due processes of U.S. law are followed the Supreme Court will be asked to decide the argument in the Spring of 1954. The NYSPA hopes to join the Ontario Hydro Commission in the power phase.

"Regardless of which way decisions go both sides seem determined to carry the scrap to the highest court," the story says.

Inventor Samuel Morse sent the first message over the first telegraph line in the United States in 1844.

Alberta Needs More Gas Markets Says Manning

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning says that outside markets for Alberta natural gas are essential to the continued expansion of the province's oil and petrochemical industries.

He told the Social Credit League that at the present rate of development Alberta in 10 years will have enough gas to take care of the province's own needs for a further 60 years.

Completion of the trans-mountain pipeline to the Pacific Coast would permit production of another 100,000 barrels a day of crude oil. In that extra production there would be large amounts of residual gas.

Canada Opens Borders To Fighter Squadrons

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada with some soul-searching—has agreed to open her borders to U.S. fighter squadrons in peace-time as a new step towards complete integration of the air defence systems of the two countries, it was learned Thursday.

The government made the decision with some hesitations, it is understood, because of the seeming anomaly of a foreign power sending fighter squadrons into a country which itself is spending billions of dollars to build up a fighter force and sending a large part of it to Europe.

LOOKING AHEAD

However, the cabinet apparently finally accepted the view that since U. S. squadrons would quite likely function on Canadian soil in wartime, it is just as well to prepare the way now.

It is understood that there already is one U.S. fighter squadron at the big Goose Bay base in Labrador, which is under Canadian command but has a large American detachment.

Agreement has been reached between Ottawa and Washington for other U.S. squadrons to come to Canada for training.

American servicemen have also started to move into U.S. radar stations built on Canadian soil and integrated with Canada's network.

16-Cent-An-Hour Pay Boost Board's Advice

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal conciliation board on the $150,000,000-a-year railway-labor dispute, slicing union demands sharply, has recommended an average 16-cents-an-hour increase for non-operating rail workers.

The majority finding of the three-man board, made public Thursday, proposed for the 144,000 union employees a little more than one-third what they asked in wage boosts, granted them two other demands and rejected two more.

NOT BINDING

The report, aimed at settlement of a four-months dispute between the major railways and unions that staged a paralyzing strike in 1950, is not binding on the disputants. It may form a basis for negotiation.

The majority finding was signed by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, board chairman, and Paul Smith, Montreal lawyer and nominee of the railways on the board.

A minority report by the board's union nominee suggested a 26-cent boost—the unions asked 45— and went along with other union points. It was written by David Lewis, Toronto lawyer.

There was no immediate reaction to the findings either from head offices of the major railways at Montreal or from a 100-man meeting of the general conference committee of the 17 railway unions in session there.

EXPECT ACCEPTANCE

Some informants here said there was a good prospect that the railways would accept the majority finding. Union observers thought it was certain the labor group would reject the majority recommendation.

On the basis of company calculations during the negotiations the whole cost of the 45-cent increase would have run to $141,000,000 a year for the employees affected—including non-union personnel in the groups covered by contract—and $156,000,000 if the companies took in other employees, as they customarily do.

The majority wage finding would cost the roads, on these terms, $50,000,000 a year for those directly affected and $56,000,000 if extended to all. The comparative figures for the minority recommendations are $83,000,000 and $90,000,000.

They would be the equivalent of the yield from freight-rate increases of between 10 and 11 per cent in the case of the majority finding and 17 and 19 per cent in the minority case, also on unofficial estimates.

Once a wage-increasing agreement was nailed down, it was expected here, the railways would quickly apply to the board of Transport Commissioners for rate increases to cover the full amount of the settlement. They already have before the board, based on current expenses.

In the two findings—of which the majority report is the governing one—the two-man majority found some agreement with Mr. Lewis but mostly split with him.

They were in agreement officially only on the check-off of union dues by the companies, on the basis that it would be compulsory on the part of the railways and voluntary and revocable by individual union members.

Mr. Lewis did not mention the point in his report, but presumably he also agreed with the majority finding in favor of a union demand for elimination of a 1950 contract clause restricting overtime pay by employees in the event of a proclaimed national emergency.

AGAINST ESCALATOR CLAUSE

On other issues, the majority:

1. Ruled against a union-demanded escalator clause in contract providing for a one cent an hour increase in wages for every point increase in the cost of living index from last Sept. 1.

2. Turned down a union call for the union shop, which would mean that all employees under the contracts between companies and unions—161,000 in all—would have to belong to the appropriate unions.

Mr. Lewis found in favor of the union shop and the escalator clause. He suggested the escalator provision be based on the new consumers' price index—which came into effect since the negotiations—and proposed that the railways and unions work out a formula to translate the old index-wage proposals into the new situation.

While the report was not conclusive on the point, it appeared the run of the proposed new contracts would be for one year. The majority, expressing some doubt as to whether this came under its terms of reference, suggested it extend from the date of final settlement of the dispute.

Mr. Lewis recommended higher wages take effect at last Sept. 1, the expiry date of the two-year contracts imposed on the railways and unions under the Parliament-enforced legislation that ended the general rail strike of that year.

That settlement included Canadian National Railways hotel workers, who went on strike. Hotelmen now are negotiating separately.

The "running trades"—those who operate the trains—also are negotiating separately. A wage-increase pattern of around 11 per cent has been worked out for some of the running trades unions.
