New Queen Flies From E. Africa; World Mourns With Commonwealth

Kootenay Plans Memorial Service

Mayor's Wire Expresses Nelson Sorrow; Flags Dip To Half Staff

Nelson joined towns throughout the Commonwealth and world Wednesday in mourning the death of King George VI.

Flags fluttered at half mast and words of regret at the monarch's passing were on lips of everyone. The City sent a wire to Prime Minister St. Laurent expressing the sorrow of the mayor, aldermen and citizens of Nelson and District.

School students received a day-long holiday.

"Our beloved King George is dead. Kindly dismiss the schools today" was the text of a wire received at 9:30 a.m. from Hon. W. T. Straith, B.C. Minister of Education. Junior and Senior High School students were notified during assemblies. Principals F. L. Irwin and G. H. Lee spoke on the significance of the King's death, and students sang "God Save the Queen."

This change in the words of the national anthem, Nelson people found, would be just one of a number of similar changes in such matters as administration and the pledging of oaths of allegiance and other judicial procedures. C. B. Garland, Nelson's only K.C., and Alan Graham of Cranbrook became Queen's Counsels.

Memorial church services are planned throughout the Kootenays.

Rt. Rev. F. P. Clark, Bishop of Kootenay, circulated to all Anglican clergy in the diocese the message that services will consist of "suitable prayers from the Burial Office and reference to the late sovereign.

"On the day of the funeral a requiem using the Collect, Epistle and Gospel from the Office for the Burial of the Dead, and for a public service, the Prayer Book Office for the Burial of the Dead supplemented by hymns and an address, ending the national anthem, "God Save the Queen." He further instructed the clergy that until the Primate issues the new order in the State Prayers, the words "Our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, Philip the Prince Consort, Prince Charles, Princess Anne and all the Royal Family" shall be substituted.

Very Rev. T. L. Leadbeater, Dean of Kootenay, said his program consists of special prayers Sunday morning in St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral; with a eulogy by the Dean on the King. In line with all churches in every diocese, a solemn remembrance service will be held on the day of the King's funeral, probably at 10:30 a.m. At 8 a.m. there will be holy communion (requiem).

Arrangements for Cathedral of Mary Immaculate are being made by Most Rev. M. M. Johnson, Bishop of Nelson.

The United Churches and other Protestant churches will also pay tribute to the King.

Duke of Edinburgh To Have Delicate Position as Consort

DUKE OF EDINBURGH

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh is assuming a new and delicate role—that of consort to a sovereign queen.

The death of King George VI brought this change to the handsome, 30-year-old royal naval officer.

The Duke's royal wife left with him last Thursday on a projected tour of Commonwealth nations as Princess Elizabeth. She faces heavy responsibilities, but constitutionally her duty is clearly defined.

That cannot be said for the obligations of the duke, Prince Philip. Britain has not had a male consort to a sovereign for 91 years, and in that time much has changed.

The last male consort was Prince Albert, German-born husband of Queen Victoria. He died in 1861.

As queen, Elizabeth has the privilege of granting her husband the title of Prince Consort Philip.

One essential fact remains, Queen Elizabeth is the sovereign. The Duke of Edinburgh is socially the first Gentleman of the Empire. But the queen rules.

Not only have times and usage changed, but the temperaments of Elizabeth and the duke are far from those of Victoria and Albert.

SYMBOL

The queen has indicated several times that she regards herself as the visible and tangible symbol of the union of the commonwealth. She is a sort of living constitution.

The queen, her consort and their children are the first family of the Commonwealth, and it is expected they will regard it as their first duty to be an example of all British families by practicing the virtues that Britain admires.

The Duke of Edinburgh is a rugged sailor type, a good mixer in any company and an enthusiastic sportsman. He has opinions, and he has been known to express them with vigor.

But—as the price of being a consort—it is also believed that his days as an active sailor are over.

Canada First To Proclaim Elizabeth II

King's Body To Lie in State; Funeral Likely Within Two Weeks

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP)—Princess Elizabeth, a serious girl with a tremulous smile, became Britain's seventh ruling queeh today as a sorrowing people mourned the death of her father, King George VI.

The King died in his sleep early today. Hours later his elder daughter, sobbing with grief, cut short a visit to Africa and started the long journey to assume responsibilities for which she has been groomed since childhood.

As she headed home from Kenya, an accession council held a special meeting at St. Jame's Palace to proclaim the Pirncess Queen Elizabeth II — sovereign in her 26th year of Great Britain, Ireland and the dominions overseas.

The King, in the 16th year of a popular reign, died peacefully at his country estate in Sandringham, near the cottage where he was born 56 years ago. His passing followed a long illness, including a major operation last September for a cancerous lung, but news of his death caught Britain and the Commonwealth unprepared.

PEOPLE GRIEF STRICKEN

When the word came this morning it seemed for a moment as though the heartbeat of a nation stopped, too. People could not believe their beloved King was dead. Then, as the realization sank in, high and low gave vent to their grief.

Traditional British reserve melted. Some women wept openly. Frivolous day-to-day activity ceased and official functions were interrupted. Parliament met briefly and adjourned, courts closed and the Stock Exchange called an early halt.

The King's body will probably lie in state all next week in Westminster — the great hall of the Houses of Parliament. The funeral is not expected until the following week. Burial will probably be at Windsor. Final date of the funeral cannot be fixed until Elizabeth returns.

Vincent Massey, Governor-General-Designate of Canada, cancelled plans to sail for Canada this week. Massey, a personal friend of the Royal family, had an audience with the King 13 days ago and is expected to be "commanded" — in the words of Buckingham Palace — to attend the funeral.

Masesy attended today's accession council meeting as a member of the United Kingdom Privy Council.

The Accession Council met at 5 p.m. (noon EST.). It had drafted the proclamation by the time the meeting ended 20 minutes later but it was not to become official until its publication some hours after the meeting.

OFFICIAL

Canada's proclamation of Elizabeth as Queen became official between 2:15 and 3:30 p.m. EST with the signature of Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, administrator in the absence of a governor-general.

The cabinet adopted the proclamation at about 12:10 p.m., first Commonwealth body to do this.

Canadians had acclaimed the King 13 years before when he toured the Dominion with the Queen before the outbreak of war. They had also seen their new Queen when as Princess Elizabeth she toured the Dominion with the Duke of Edinburgh last Fall.

Thus Elizabeth became Britain's first woman ruler since Victoria's reign which ended 51 years ago.

She sobbed when she heard the unexpected news in Kenya, but set out at once for home and the responsibilities of the throne.

The King's death plunged Britain and the Commonwealth into mourning. Flags all over the world dipped to half staff. Even the Russians made this gesture of respect in Berlin.

The King's reign spanned 15 years of turbulent history. He saw Britain lose much of the empire upon which, it once was said, the sun never set. He saw it come to austerity, privation and near bankruptcy. He saw his countrymen stand against and help to conquer the bloody thrusts of Hitler and Hirohito. For his own part, he refused to leave embattled Britain with his gracious queen and their two daughters.

3 HOURS AFTER DEATH

The King's valet, John MacDonald, discovered the body when he took the King his usual early morning tea. The queen and Princess Margaret were awakened and told the news and a radio message was dispatched to Princess Elizabeth. The news was given to the world some three hours later.

It came as a shock, even though it was widely known that he was not in good health, Only Tuesday he had been rabbit hunting on the Sandringham estate and there was no hint that his condition was any worse than usual.

BLOOD CLOT

Coronary thrombosis — a blood clot—was believed to have been the immediate cause of death. Last September surgeons removed the King's left lung. Two years before that, he underwent an operation to relieve a circulatory ailment in one of his legs. His face was haggard and lined in recent months and his condition had caused concern to his subjects.

Just before she left London with the Duke of Edinburgh last week, Princess Elizabeth gazed seriously into his tired face, thus displaying her own fears. Some thought she might have had a premonition that she might not see her father alive again. She had not been scheduled to return from her trip to Australia and New Zealand until July.

Britons the length and breadth of the islands wept and paid the King tribute today in five simple words:

"He was a good man."

Londoners slipped into churches, black-bordered newspapers gripped in their hands, to think and to pray.

Many donned black ties and sombre suits. Crowds stood before Buckingham Palace, where the white blinds were drawn. The BBC shut down for the day after announcing the King's death, except for news bulletins and weather reports.

BELLS TOLL

At Westminster Abbey the bells tolled for two hours; Great Tom, the hour bell at St. Paul's Cathedral, tolled once a minute from 11:50 a.m. to 12:50 p.m. Restaurant and hotel operators posted bans on dancing.

A quirk of fate brought the shy former Duke of York unwillingly to the throne in December, 1936, when his brother, then Edward VIII, abdicated. King George's steady, serious way and his quiet courage won him the respect and love of his people.

His brother, now the Duke of Windsor, is sailing from New York for Southampton aboard the Queen Mary Thursday night to attend the funeral. Both he and the Duchess were in seclusion in their suite in the Woldorf Towers of New York. His secretary said the Duke was "terribly shocked and surprised."

The Duchess, for whom Edward left the throne and who had never been received by the royal family, will remain in the United States.

There is a superstition in England that Britain waxes prosperous under a queen, a superstition dating back to the days of the first Elizabeth 350 years ago.

PROCLAMATION

Elizabeth's actual accession to the throne will be proclaimed tomorrow in an ancient ceremony at old St. James's Palace. The accession council's proclamation must be read from the roof of the palace by the Garter King of Arms, chief of the King's heralds, wearing a mediaeval costume.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II

Mother To Decide Son's Title

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP) — A chubby little Prince scrambled over the nursery floor today, unaware that the death of his grandfather has made him one of Britain's richest boys — with a legacy of grave responsibility.

Three-year-old Prince Charles, now heir-apparent to the British throne, spent the day much as usual, playing with his small sister Anne in hushed, grief-stricken Sandringham House, the Norfolk mansion where King George VI died.

The Prince automatically became the Duke of Cornwall, entitled to the full revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall. Mostly rents, the revenues of the Duchy amounted to £100,000 a year just before the Second World War and now probably total around £180,000.

A JOY

Charles, bright and sturdy for his age, was one of King George's biggest joys. In the closing months of his life. It was largely because the ailing Monarch delighted so much in the company of his grandson that Charles and his sister were at Sandringham.

His first official state duty may be to travel to the ruins of Caernarvon castle in Wales to be made Prince of Wales. Like the title he automatically received today, the position of Prince of Wales is reserved for the eldest son of a reigning sovereign. But it is not conferred automatically. It is up to his mother to decide when he takes on the title.

Changes in Titles Studied by Experts

LONDON, Feb. 6 (Reuters) — Experts on protocol conferred tonight on problems relating to changes in titles and precedence made by the death of King George VI.

First is the question of the official titles to be taken by the new Queen's mother and grandmother.

These are not automatic and will eventually be answered by an announcement from Buckingham Palace.

An expert outside the court said the widowed Queen Elizabeth probably will take the title of queen mother and that Queen Mary, formerly known as the queen mother, will be known simply as Queen Mary.

It is doubtful if 84-year-old Queen Mary will take the title of Dowager queen mother, as the royal family is said to dislike them.

The future title of the Queen's husband, Prince Philip, is something that will have to be answered by Queen Elizabeth herself.

Although husband of the new sovereign, the duke has no standing except by courtesy. As the most recently created Duke, he is far down in the order of precedence.

But if the queen wants him to be known as Prince Consort, she can command that. Queen Victoria did not give Prince Albert that title until 17 years after their marriage.

Canada First to Proclaim Queen

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP) — Canada's proclamation of Queen Elizabeth as the new monarch became official between 3:15 and 3:30 p.m. EST today.

The cabinet adopted the proclamation at about 12:10 p.m. — first commonweatlh body to do this — and later it became effective with the signature of Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, administrator in the absence of a governor-general.

ANTHEM AGAIN BECOMES "GOD SAVE THE QUEEN"

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP) — For the first time since 1901, the British salute to the sovereign will be: "God Save the Queen."

In official proclamations and in the National Anthem the new Queen Elizabeth II will be hailed as was her great-great grandmother, Victoria, who died 51 years ago.

The Queen's birthday, April 21, may become a public holiday.

Her father's birthday, Dec. 14, was observed in Britain at a variable date in June with the famous ceremony of the trooping of the color in London.

In Canada it was observed as a public holiday, fixed by proclamation annually for a Monday in June.

'We Must Tell...the Queen' Says Grief-Stricken Mother

By R. B. MacLURKIN

SANDRINGHAM, England, Feb. 6 (Reuters) — King George VI was discovered dead in his bed this morning by his valet.

Court officials were called from their beds and news was broken to the Queen. She went immediately to his bedside.

She did not weep, according to local reports. Though her face was racked with misery, she kept control of her emotions.

She kissed the forehead of the dead King.

Then, straightening up, she said, "We must tell Elizabeth. We must tell . . .," she hesitated then added, "We must tell . . . the Queen."

Tonight inside the red-brick house itself, Elizabeth, now Queen mother, and her daughter Princess Margaret mourned.

Villagers here kept their sadness pent up inside.

Most of the older ones knew King George VI when he was a shy child who used to come here on vacation with his father, King George V.

One old villager said the King had known for months past that he was under sentence of death.

Truman Laments Death of King

He said in a statement that the King played his part in world affairs "nobly" and with full understanding of his responsibilities.

State Secretary Dean Acheson and many members of Congress joined the president in lamenting the King's death and in wishing a long, successful reign to the new Queen, Elizabeth II.

The House adjourned out of respect to the King after adopting a resolution asking the president to convey its sorrow to Great Britain.

Truman had sent messages of condolence to Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family.

The president said in a statement:

"A world personage who maintained the highest traditions of the English constitutional monarch passes in the death of His Majesty King George VI.

"From his accession to the throne through all the ills which beset the world throughout the years of his reign—including the most disastrous war in history—he played his part nobly and with full understanding of the responsibility which was his. His heroic endurance of pain and suffering during these past few years is a true reflection of the bravery of the British people in adversity."

Man Tells of Horrible Death of 200 Poles

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — A man wearing a white mask that covered his head told Congress today that one wild night in 1939 he saw the Russians murder 200 Polish officers.

The man in the mask — he could speak only in Polish — appeared before a special House of Representatives sub-committee. It is investigating reports that thousands of Polish officers were massacred in the Katyn Forest near Smolensk, Russia.

The man's identity was hidden, chairman Roy J. Madden (Dem. Ind.) said, because he still has relatives behind the Iron Curtain.

Through an interpreter, the witness told the committee he was hiding in a tree, along with two other Poles who had escaped from a Russian prison camp. Suddenly floodlights were turned on, illuminating the scene only 100 yards away.

While they looked on in horror, he said, they saw 200 men bound and gagged with sawdust.

Some were shot, the masked man said; others, too weak to resist, were kicked — alive — into a vast open grave.

They shocked themselves," he said through the interpreter.

Was he sure there were 200?

"There were 200," he said, "because we counted them."

He said the Russians brought the Polish officers up two at a time to be bound, gagged and either shot or kicked into the pit.

Madden said the committee members had examined the witness privately and were convinced his story is true.

$16,000 Bequest To Cancer Fund

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 6 (CP) — A $16,000 bequest made in the will of Mrs. Helen Stewart, who died here in February, 1951, was ordered today by Supreme Court Justice A. D. MacFarlane turned over to the King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund.

The will was contested in Supreme Court last year by relatives of the deceased and several cancer societies because Mrs. Stewart omitted to give the full name of the cancer society to receive her bequest.

She stated in her will that the bequest was to go to "the cancer fund."

R. W. Chard, counsel for one of the relatives, Clara I. Reilley of Ottawa, contended the will "failed" because there was no such organization known as the "cancer fund."

Lloyd G. McKenzie, representing two cancer societies, argued that the testator's intentions were clear.

Mr. Justice MacFarlane said he was satisfied that Mrs. Stewart's gift clearly referred to the King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada.

Textile Exhibit Shows Modern Design Scope

An outstanding exhibition of textiles which will be displayed tonight and Friday afternoon and night in Room A in Civic Centre, is well worth the attention of both men and women.

Students of the sponsoring Nelson Art Club's course in design will find the exhibition of particular interest, but for the general public it is an eye-opener into what lavish textiles in intriguing designs the industry of today can turn out.

The special exhibition comes to Nelson via the Western Canada art circuit from the Scalamandre family (Mr. and Mrs. Franco Scalamandre and children Gino and Adriana) of New York.

The family has had a major role in promoting the decided flair for modern textiles in interior decorating in the present era.

In 1922 Franco Scalamandre designed "Diana Hunting," stylized English goats and modern dahlias, woven with a lampas weave. This was the first time the textile world had seen anything with a modern feeling woven on a silk loom. He went to the United States in 1924 and when he had progressed from an importer to a manufacturer of textiles in his mill at Long Island, N.J., he began to introduce textiles with a modern feeling.

Now the family is practically a closed corporation in the designing of textiles. Occasionally a design is bought for a printed textile from a free-lancer.

Franco Scalamandre is an expert all-round designer; his wife excels in drawing floral patterns; Gino has an aptitude for the modern, and Adriana specializes in animals.

ALL ADAPTABLE

The exhibition brings out the point that, if one has an imaginative mind and a flair for drawing, there are few objects that attract the attention out-doors or in, that are not adaptable for a textile design.

The textiles are of various sizes, depending on the pattern. There is a roundel pattern inspired from the ancient Chinese swastika; "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," a design simulating smoke curling upwards from a lighted cigarette; elaborate Rococco designs, a semi-circular hexagon pattern so woven that it may be cut for chair covering, an Aztec calendar stone design, a modern portrayal of tulip motifs printed by the silk screen process, a silk-screen reproduction of a French chinoiserie toile, circa 1790, the original of which was used in Colonel Hiram Smith's home in New Jersey, the design being after the style of pillement; "Vue du Levant," a silk-screen reproduction of a French 18th century hand-colored paper print, and a deometric design derived from the fret-work used by Mayas in their stone carvings.

These are just a few. The entire 65 textiles, viewed individually and as a whole, present infinite variety in subject matter and inventive imagination.

Experts Guessing What Queen To Be Called in Scotland

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II already has the experts guessing on the title she will be known by in Scotland.

The first Queen Elizabeth reigned before the Crowns of England and Scotland were joined in the reign of James I.

Queen Elizabeth I thus was never Queen of Scots.

So the point is expected to arise as to whether the new monarch should be called Queen Elizabeth II of England but Queen Elizabeth I of Scotland.

IMMIGRANTS ON HUNGER STRIKE

ST. PAUL L'ERMITE, Que., Feb. 6 (CP) — Disgruntled immigrants today staged their second hunger strike in a month and raised a black flag briefly over the government hostel building to mark their protest.

The strike and flag-raising were a protest over the lack of jobs for the 800 Europeans and what their spokesman termed as "unsatisfactory" answer from Labor Minister Gregg to their demands.

The group recently asked the government to pay the transportation bill to bring some 350 wives and children to Canada from European refugee camps. They said they would pay back the government when they got jobs.

However, this was contrary to the government's policy of which, officials said, the immigrants were informed before leaving Europe. But Mr. Gregg — in a telegram last night — said he would send the director of immigration to Europe to try to speed up transporting the wives and families.

W. G. Andrews and A. D. MacDonald, co-directors of the hostel, said they didn't expect any trouble after the demonstration. The first strike about a month ago lasted a day.

Jury Finds Waneta Death "Accidental"

TRAIL, B. C. — A coroner's jury Wednesday reached a verdict of "accidental death" caused by drawning with no blame attached to anyone in the death of Marcel Lamal, youth ful power-crane operator.

Lamal was killed Dec. 19 when the crane he was operating plunged into the swirling waters of the Pend d'Oreille River. Following weeks of futile attempts to recover the crane and the body of the operator, Northern Construction Company, of which Lamal was an employee, was successful in raising the giant crane to a position permitting removal of the body by cutting into the top of the cab.

It is believed the crane was pulled over during the process of lowering a section of the coffer dam into the river. The current dragged the section causing the crane to topple.

Witnesses attempted to war the operator were in vain.

Lamal, apparently aware of the fatal situation, attempted to jump clear of the cab. The crane fell on its side before the trapped man could get out, thus cutting off escape.

A second man on the crane at the time, managed to jump clear.

Witnesses heard at the inquest were John Hall, Bud Wilkinson and Paul Fietz, all employees of the company.

The jury was comprised of George O'Farrell, Oscar Lauener, Alvin Hall, M. Salsiccioli, W. J. Bailey and O. J. Berry.

Dr. J. S. Daly conducted the inquest.

King's Religious Life Noted

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, and other religious leaders paid tribute today to the devotion and self-sacrifice of Britain's late King George VI.

The Archbishop, who was confined to his bed at Lambeth Place with bronchitis, said in a statement:

"The King was a grand leader of his people by reason of his courage, his simple humanity, his selfless regard for others, his single-minded devotion to duty.

"We thank God for his example."

The executive committee of the World Council of Churches, an international organization of Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches, expressed "profound sorrow" at the King's death.

The free church community of England and Wales said "we mourn the death of a king beloved and honored by us all."

Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Roman Catholic Primate of England and Wales in a message of sympathy to the royal family said the King "was a true father of his people and as such we mourn his passing."

Inter-Church Youth Group Is Suggested

Approximately 55 young people of various church denominations met Tuesday evening in St. Saviour's Memoria' Hall under the leadership of Very Rev. T. L. Leadbeater, with Rev. Vernon Lund of the Mission Covenant Church and Lieuts. Louis and MacKenzie of the Salvation Army also in attendance.

The evening began with a "get-acquainted" after which games were played and a film on the Amsterdam Conference at hich the World Council of Churches was formed, was shown.

The younge people then divided into four groups to hold discussions on problems facing Christian youth in these times. Leaders of each group reported the highlights of their discussion to Dean Leadbeater, who spoke briefly on their findings.

It was suggested during the discussion, that an Inter-church Youth Association be established for the purpose of exchanging ideas and worshipping together, however, no definite plan has been established.

A hymn was sung and the meeting closed with prayers. The Anglican Young People's Association served refreshments after which many of the young folk played table tennis.

Man. Members First With Oath

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6 (CP) — The 57 members of the Manitoba legislature today were the first in Canada — and possibly the Commonwealth — to take oaths of allegiance to Queen Elizabeth II.

In a shortened sitting of the newly-opened session, the members were sworn in as a group after unanimously passing a resolution of condolence to the Royal family in the death of King George VI.

The resolution moved by Premier D. L. Campbell and seconded by opposition leader Errick F. Willis, expressed "profound grief and sorrow at the untimely death of His Majesty King George VI.

"We pay tribute to his life of dedicated service, and to the leadership he so greatly gave through precept and example to his people and to the world both in war and peace.

"We proudly share the respect and affection in which he was held throughout our province, our country, our commonwealth and the world."

"The Dead King"

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP) — "And God poured him an exquisite wine, that was daily renewed to him."

Words from the famed poem entitled "The Dead King" written by Rudyard Kipling on the death of King Edward VII in 1910, were repeated by Chief Justice Thibeadeau Rinfret today in paying tribute to King George VI.

The quotation:

And God poured him an exquisite wine,
That was daily renewed to him,
In the clear-welling love of his peoples
That was daily accured to him.
Honor and service we gave him, rejoicingly fearless;
Faith absolute, trust beyond speech and a
Friendship as peerless,
And since he was master and servant in all
That we asked him,
We leaned hard on his wisdom in all things,
Knowing not how we tasked him.
We accepted his toil as our right—none
Spared, none excused him.
When he was bowed by his burden, his rest was refused him.

REV. D. C. M. HERRON MODERATOR KOOTENAY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. D. C. M. Herron, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Kimberley, was unanimously elected moderator of the Presbytery of Kootenay, the Presbyterian Church in Canada. He succeeds the Rev. W. L. Detlor of Trail.

The court heard most encouraging reports from its various committees and from congregations within its bounds, all of which pointed to spiritual and financial growth unparalelled in recent years. Budget givings, for maintenance of mission work at home and abroad by the church and for operation of the church throughout Canada, had reached the allocation during 1951.

Most encouraging was the report on the "Christian Outreach," a campaign to build up reserve funds to build new churches wherever needed. The goal of the Presbyterian church in Canada for this fund is $1,100,000 with only half the Presbytery of Kootenay reporting on this fund, cash to cover the entire allocation for the Presbytery has already been raised, with almost three times the allocation in pledges. The West Kootenay section of Presbytery is planning a drive for this "Outreach" in March.

The camp committee recommended plans for the annual camps for boys and girls at the camp site at Wasa, B. C.

The following conveners were elected to direct the work of the Presbytery for the ensuing year; Rev. N. G. Robertson, mission; Mr. H. H. Taylor, budget, Rev. D.G.M. Herron, evangelism and social action; Rev. W I. Detlor, Sabbath schools, Young People societies and colleges, Mr M. MacLeod, pensions; Rev. Herron, publications, W. H. Harris, historical; Rev. Detlor, radio; Rev. Herron, camp and Rev. L. S. van Mossel, property.

Men, Women of Every Creed Pay Tribute to Respected King George

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP) — Much of the civilized world joined Britain today in mourning for gallant King George VI.

Men and women of every color and creed paid tribute to the modest monarch whose simple devotion to duty through 15 troubled years won him the respect and admiration of millions.

Canada was the first of the Commonwealth countries, including Britain, to proclaim Princess Elizabeth as Queen Elizabeth II. Flags flew at half staff throughout the country as Canadians mourned the loss of their King.

President Truman expressed the feelings of many in a message of sympathy. He termed the King "a world personage who maintained the highest traditions of the English constitutional monarch."

Flags hung at half staff throughout Europe and the British Commonwealth.

Public celebrations were cancelled in many countries.

Several countries decreed periods of public mourning.

Newspapers throughout paper-starved Europe broke out their biggest type to headline the announcement that the 56-year-old King had died in his sleep at his Sandringham country home.

U.N. PAYS TRIBUTE

In Paris, U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie ordered the flags of the 60 member-nations lowered in front of the Palais Chaillot, the U.N. meeting place in the French capital.

The Security Council and the world technical assistance conven-tion stood for a minute's silence.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, host to King George and Queen Elizabeth in 1939 when the royal couple visited the United States, said she was "terribly grieved and shocked."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered the flags of all 12 Atlantic Pact nations lowered to half staff at his supreme headquarters, Allied powers in Europe.

In Vatican City, the Pope sent a message of condolence to the royal family.

Even Egypt, disputing with Britain over the presence of British troops in the Suez Canal Zone, paid tribute. King Farouk ordered his court into mourning for 14 days.

In Australia, the people were preparing for a visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, now cancelled. The Australian parliament adjourned until Thursday. Many movies and other places of entertainment closed.

Kootenay Got Death News First —Because of Policeman's Tip

A city policeman sat in his city hall office early Wednesday morning listening to the radio while checking his night duty report.

At nearly 2:50 a.m. an announcer at Salt Lake City interrupted his program to say "King George VI is dead".

Const. R. L. (Bert) DeArmond "didn't know whether to believe the news at first" so he switched to another station for confirmation.

His phone call gave the Daily News the greatest "break" in its 50-year history as a daily newspaper. The News beat most of the world's papers for speed with which it had story of the King's death on the street — an hour and 20 minutes after his death.

B.C.'s other two morning papers, The Vancouver News-Herald and the Victoria Colonist, did not hit the streets with extras until 6 a.m. Other Vancouver papers followed before 10 a.m.

REGULAR EDITION OUT

The Daily News' regular edition headlining the rescue of astronomical records from a flame-encircled Canberra, Australia, observatory, when DeArmond phoned at 2:50, just five minutes after the monarch's death.

Editorial and composing room staffs, having put the paper to "bed" had left to go to bed themselves.

Press room foreman Fred Brown took DeArmand's call. He banged down the phone and got an okay on a "stop press" order from an editor. Members of the editorial and composing room staffs were recalled, and it was decided to make another front page.

The news, which had started to tick in on the teletypes, was on its way to a special edition.

The area between Nelson and Rossland, served by truck, normally receives the first papers off the press. These had been bundled, addressed and despatched shortly before the King's death. Regular papers for East Kootenay and some West Kootenay centres were in mailbags awaiting shipment.

RECEIVE TWO EDITIONS

There was limited time for the remake job, as early mails out of Nelson won't wait for newspapers. So rather than destroy papers ready for mailing, an entirely new mailing was arranged.

This is why a number of Daily News subscribers received copies of both the regular and special editions.

To bring news of the King's death to readers in the Nelson-to-Rossland area, a second shipment by special truck was sent to all newstands at Robson, Castlegar, Trail and Rossland. The extra covered the territory from Grand Forks to the Alberta boundary.

All Nelson subscribers received the special edition. A stack of the regular edition which had been running off the press for local distribution was tossed aside. That's the story and only 10 papers were lost in the shuffle.

Resuscitators Help Save Nine Lives

Nine lives have been saved to date by the resuscitators the Nelson Lions Club have given to the Fire Department, Fire Chief G. A. McDonald told the Lions at their Tuesday supper meeting. He mentioned three cases where death would have been unavoidable without them and said the hospital occasionally calls for extra tanks of gas.

Chief McDonald said he wished the Nelson public were more aware of the facilities available to them at the fire hall. So often in cases of shock, gas poisoning and drowning people first called the doctor and the doctor on arrival would have to call the fire hall. How much better it would be, he said, if they would call the fire hall first. Radio communication made it possible to call a doctor while the machine was being rushed to a patient.

In Vancouver, the chief continued, he had answered 362 such calls; people in Vancouver realize that in calling the fire hall they receive the fastest possible aid in emergencies.

The Nelson Fire Department has the most modern equipment in the province. The two resuscitators and the 13 tanks of gas given to him by the Lions "to be used wherever needed" have a total value of $1400, "reckoning in dollars and cents, but when human lives are at stake the equipment is priceless."

In closing the Fire Chief said the Nelson crew of firemen and volunteers were beginning a course on first-aid.

President George Kirby presented the Chief with another tank of gas on behalf of the club and thanked him for giving them so interesting an address. Chief McDonald said thanks was due to the club for the service members were doing for Nelson.

Other guests were G. L. Phillips of Nelson, divisional railway superintendent, J. A. Bracken, secretary of Associated Boards of Trade, and representatives of the boards of trade of Kimberley, Creston and Marysville.

Its expenditures on advertising, national affiliations and support of its various projects and on salaries totalled $1593, and a balance of almost $1500 was carried over.

McKowan as a memorial to her husband, will be installed in the United Church here by Easter, it was reported at the annual congregational meeting of the Church. Major building installation during the past year has been the two oil furnaces. Active membership of 124 was reported, and Sunday School enrolment of 175.

Total church receipts for the year were $9548.72 including a $5000 bank loan for the furnace installations. Rev. W. H. McDannold was extended an invitation to continue as minister of the church, which he accepted though he said there was a possibility he would not complete the whole year. He reported officiating at 21 funerals, 35 baptisms and 35 weddings during the year and that 17 new members were received in 1951.

The meeting elected to the Board of Stewarts Frank McDanile, E. L. Hedley, Angus McPherson and W. D. Gilroy, as members of the Board of Trustees V. C. Brown, George Burch and Stanley Moffatt, and as elders Mr. Brown, William Busch, Walter Laurie and Gervin Moore. Ronald Dale was named assistant to Miss Minnie Brock as envelope secretary. Mrs. Alan Grant is secretary of the Board of Stewards. Mrs. Jock Thompson was chosen as delegate to the Provincial conference in late Spring.

Kimberley High School Band to Enter Festival

KIMBERLEY, B.C. — As is customary with all High School Bands, the busiest time is between Christmas and Summer holidays, and this holds true with the Kimberley Rotary High School Band, a group that is unique in that it can be expanded from a thirty-five piece to double that size in a matter of minutes.

In its fourth year, the Kimberley band has enlarged from a fourteen piece group to its present membership, thirty-five seniors approximately. Laterly juniors have filled in on several numbers each time the band appeared, and the group totalled over sixty. It is expected that the band will number fifty each outdoor performance and slightly less inside for the remainder of this term.

Since Christmas, the local group has appeared several times in Kimberley and once in Cranbrook Recently a joint concert was held with the Creston High School Band and a repeat performance will be held in Creston.

Important items on the agenda include two concerts with the Whitefish, Montana High School Band, one in each centre in early Spring. It is almost definite that the Kimberley Band, under the direction of Ralph Yarwood, High School teacher, will attend the Kootenay Music Festival in Nelson scheduled for April. Plans call for the band to enter as a High School Band as well as a junior band, and several members will enter solo, duet, and group competitions.

Considering the celebrations throughout the East Kootenay the band usually journeys to, members are in for busy but enjoyable days ahead for some time to come.

Trail Y.M.C.A. Grows Rapidly; Has New Offices and Club Rooms

TRAIL, B.C.—At the annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. in the Masonic Building, elected to the board for three years were J. A. Bush, Mrs. H. Goddard, R. R. Hanna, M. C. Monkhouse, and for one year, E. G. Fletcher.

Retiring directors were thanked by the president, Dr. C. H. Wright. They were Father G. Hart, J. C. Craik, Miss Barbara Perry and Mrs. Jean Lucas.

Finance committee reported in the general account an expenditure of $7472 with an income of $7409; in the program account expenditure was $391 and income $475. G. C. Campbell and S. G. Smillie were on the finance committee.

Girls Hi-Y Club was reported upon by, two presidents, Miss Nan Patton and Miss Lois German, and co-ed report was given by F. W. Doubt. Camp committee report was given by W. B. Fromson and J. Bush reported on membership in the absence of C. Craik.

In 1950 paid up membership had been 240 with 100 participating members. During 1951 there were 410 paid up members and 300 participating.

Dr. C. H. Wright said the Trail Y.M.C.A. had been in operation just 18 months, but has made some noticeable progress. By April of last year its program had developed sufficiently for it to be granted a certificate of recognition from the Canadian Y.M.C.A. national council. This changed the status from a provisional association to a fully recognized one.

As the program developed through the year, accommodation became an increasingly difficult problem. For the first nine months of the year the Y shared accommodation with the T.A.A. in the memorial centre, but with the increased activity of both organizations, it was found necessary to obtain more space.

Finally, in October, an agreement was reached with the Masonic holding company to rent space in the Masonic Building. The Y now occupies offices, committee and club rooms, and in addition make use of the hall and lounge as needed. This improvement in facilities had a marked and progressive influence on the development of program.

Even before the Y.M.C.A. was established in Trail "we made the point that in addition to operating a strictly Y.M.C.A. program, the association could assist in the co-operation between agencies and in helping coordinate other community activities." Last Summer an agreement was signed between the Rotary Club and the Y.M.C.A. in regard to the operation of the Rotary camp near Robson. The Rotary Club continues to own and maintain the camp, with the Y.M.C.A. handling the administration and supervision of the camp program. The Y.M.C.A. has been developing boys' program slowly because it has no desire to duplicate other efforts which are going on in the community.

However, a boys' club program was established late last year and is carried on with the support of the Kiwanis Club, and is known as the Ki-Y Boys' Clubs.

The year 1951 was the centennial year of the Y.M.C.A. in Canada, and the United States. Dr. Wright reported he attended the impressive centennial convention in Cleveland, Ohio, last Summer. It was an inspiring occasion and pointed up the fact that the Y.M.C.A. is a great force for good around the world. The theme of the convention was "A Faith for the Future".

MANY AT RITES FOR SALMO PIONEER

Many Salmo and Ymir residents gathered in Thompson's Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon to pay final tribute to Mrs. Mary Smith Campbell, who died early Monday morning at the age of 93.

A pioneer resident of Salmo, she had many friends in the district, and with her going the Kootenays lost another link with the early days.

In attendance at the service were the Salmo Women's Institute, Salmo Ladies Aid and representatives of the W. W. Powell Company. Rev. R. A. Pennoyer officiated at the chapel service, and two hymns, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," were sung with Mrs. W. A. Manson at the organ.

Interment was in Nelson Memorial Park.

Customs Receipts Show Increases

CRANBROOK, B.C.—Customs receipts and inland revenue collected at Cranbrook last month totalled $57,780.12, at outport of Roosville $24.87 and at Flathead $387.19 to amount to $58,192.18. This was steeply up from the total of $37,320.64 collected in December.

Customs office staff and facilities transferred the last day of January from the upper floor of the post office to the new Kiceluk building on Van Horne Street where business will be carried on pending completion of the post office building reconstruction which will take most of the next year.

Dr. C. H. Wright Again Heads Y.M.C.A. at Trail

TRAIL, B.C. — The Trail Young Men's Christian Association held its board of directors meeting following the annual meeting in the Masonic Building where offices and committee rooms are available to the group. The expansion of the group made the move to the new quarters necessary late last year. The organization received a certificate of recognition from the Canadian Y.M.C.A. national council last year, raising its status from a provisional to a fully recognized association.

Dr. C. H. Wright was reelected president with J. W. Loader, first vice-president, and S. G. Smillie, second vice-president. G. Campbell was elected treasurer and W. C. Naylor reappointed general secretary of the organization.

Basketball, one of the leading sports in the United States, was first played at Springfield, Mass., in 1892.

Tax Department Causes Change in Creston Hospital Letters Patent

CRESTON, B.C.—On his return from the coast where he interviewed top officials of the Department of Health and Welfare and the Water Rights Branch, V. Mosher, acting on behalf of the Creston Valley Hospital Organizational Committee, told a special meeting that he was well received. Cooperation was shown by the two departments in making as few changes as possible to the amendments presented the public meeting January 21. There was only one exception. The one exception is the important amendment which limited the amount of money trustees could collect in any one year to an amount of two mills on the district assessment.

This amendment was in difficulties when placed before the Department of Finance.

REFUSED PERMIT

The superintendent of taxes refused to permit his department to undertake the collection of taxes for the district if this amendment became part of the Letters Patent. His stand was so definite and final that the committee has decided to have the letters patent issued with this clause left out, without anyway admitting that this amendment is not of vital importance.

The committee feels that the stand taken by the superintendent of taxes is not unreasonable.

The issuance of the new Letters Patent will be speeded up. There appears to be no question of the friendly cooperation of the Department of Health and Welfare and Water Rights Branch and it is expected the Letters Patent will be in the printer's hands shortly.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM

In the meantime the local organizational committee has a difficult problem to solve. It must replace the clause deleted by the proposal placed before the January 21st meeting, with some more satisfactory plan of keeping taxes levied to an amount that will be satisfactory to the taxpayers of the district. The various committee members are giving the matter a week's study and consideration.

The Common Man's King

Canadians, in their hearts, today will share with all others of the Commonwealth a real grief in the death of their King.

George VI, who ascended the throne May 12, 1937, almost a stranger, relatively speaking, to his subjects won through years of peace and struggle their loyalty and affection. He was a "personal" monarch, more than any other before him the common man's king. His deep sense of duty, his love of God, his people and his family that he placed above all else brought him that position.

Called dramatically to a throne he did not seek following the unprecedented abdication of his elder brother, the unassuming man known always before as Albert, Duke of York, dedicated himself to upholding "the honor of the Realm and to promoting the happiness of my people". He did so in a manner that was an inspiration in war and crisis, and earned the peoples' devotion in peacetime.

Canadians will recall the triumphant visit in 1939 that brought him so close to the people of the Dominion. In that tour he demonstrated the democratic qualities that made biographers describe him as "the common man's king". During the war those same qualities were evident as he visited scenes of bombings, braved the dangers of air raids to comfort those who shared the perils, landed on the Normandy beachhead during the June, 1944, invasion. No monarch talked personally to so many of his subjects individually at home or on the fronts.

King George's devotion to the good things, to Christian life and to his family probably endeared him to his people more than all else. To millions he and his family became symbols.

Some of the devotion that was inspired by those familiar family scenes will flow on to his daughter, now Queen Elizabeth II.

Council's Duty

In Parliamentary bodies it is customary to hold caucus meetings, but this is for political reasons, and municipal Councils are supposed to have no political affiliations.

They can, of course, hold committee meetings in private, but when the full Council is in session it should never be behind closed doors, unless good and sufficient reason is given for such procedure. And under any circumstances, full accounts of Council committee actions should be rendered to the taxpayers.

Nelson City Council has this year wisely adopted this procedure.

What the Individual Is To the Community

To the Editor:

Sir—I was so struck with your brief editorial entitled "The Churches" in your issue of Saturday, Feb. 2, that I really felt constrained to drop you a line to congratulate you, and to thank you also.

It is not so very often that our daily papers come out with definite statements in support of the work of the Christian Church in spreading the Word of God and extending His Kingdom. People who live an ungodly life, ignoring the churches and trying to make things "go" in their own strength, have little idea of the work done by ministers and people alike, who faithfully fulfil their obligations year in and year out fighting under the banner of Jesus Christ in the "cold war" against sin. Your last paragraph hits the nail right on the head. Without the influence of the Church our world would soon be a sorry place to live in. It is sad but true, that people cannot seem to see that what the individual is, so will be the community and the nation, and what the nations are influences the whole world for war or peace.

Human Rendered Inferior To Animal

To the Editor:

Sir—The pictures in your newspaper showing blonde Patricia McCormick fighting the bull are all right, but in describing the fighting and killing of the bull you appear to have failed to point out that the bullfighting game has been condemned by many as a cruelty against animals.

This would help to induce more people to save unnecessary cruelty to animals.

A man or woman might be smart and intelligent, but to abuse their superiority against a dumb animal is not bravery or gallantry, as they might suppose. It is rather cowardice.

To tease an animal and kill him in a slow, painful way for the sake of plenty of easy money renders a person morally inferior to animals. This is not the teaching of today's Bible, where many chapters are missing, but is the teaching of many thinkers.

A bull is extremely useful to man, because without him he would not have the cow or his meat. He cannot speak, even when ill-treated and murdered cruelly, but if he could, he would say: "What wrong did I do you? Didn't I help you to feed yourself and your neighbors? Then would it not be a more sane thing to treat me as a friend instead of being suddenly and unexpectedly subjected to this cruel and treacherous punishment?"

Teaching the Public A Lesson?

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

It is easy to be sympathetic with groups who find that costs are overtaking income. It is so common an experience. But natural laws, given a chance, have a way of remedying difficulties that seem to be beyond our own correction. Little is ever gained by antagonizing a customer.

Therefore it is with regret that we read that President Charles E. Harkness, Chairman of the Cheese Marketing Board, had advocated the withholding of their product from market. "Perhaps then we can teach a lesson to the Canadian people," he said.

There is something rather disconcerting about an organization, however important, threatening to teach the whole people a lesson. In the specific case, and in many others also, the lesson learned by the public might be that they can get along without the product. The public is not the enemy to be lessened. The public is the friend who makes all things possible. It will be well for the progress of this country when primary producers and groups of workers come to recognize so simple a fact.

GOOD SUGGESTION

A North Bay coroner's jury, investigating a hunting fatality, has recommended that it be made a criminal offence for any person to give a firearm to a juvenile or permit use of a firearm by a juvenile without adult supervision. And surely such a proposal is neither more nor less than simple common sense.

Premier Laundry, Ltd., Calgary, specialize in dyeing; Perth Dyeing and Cleaning Works, 1762 West Second Avenue, Vancouver; Kingsway Cleaners and Dyers, 8927 33rd Street, Vancouver; Campbell Brothers, 1399 Granville Street, Vancouver.

Reader, Kinnaird—How can one find the address or whereabouts of an old friend who has left her former address? We were at school together, and I would like to write to her, but have lost touch.

Write to the Chief of Police in the town where you last had contact with her. This implies no slur on the character of the person being sought. The police have a special department for tracing people who have gone away and lost touch with old friends and relations.

Anxious, Nelson—If a person leaves the Province what can he do about hospital insurance? Are his B. C. premiums still available

Yes; as long as the premium is paid, and he is in benefit at the time of hospitalization, B.C.H.I.S. will pay $6.50 per day for a period not exceeding 30 days.

Interested, Nelson—To settle an argument, can you tell me where Ellen Terry was born? Was she an Englishwoman? Did she marry Henry Irving?

Ellen Terry was born in Coventry, and was definitely an Englishwoman. She was not married to Henry Irving, but was associated with him on the stage for many years. King George V made her a Dame of the British Empire in 1925.

Elizabeth, Queen of England.

By that very phrase Britain's new monarch takes over the realm in an aura of romance hardly ever vouchsafed to the beginning of a reign.

The Queen of England will rule no one. Instead, she will herself be ruled by the tasks of one of the most exacting jobs in the world. No empire builders will connive around her, seeking her approval for their projects either to build or rebuild an empire. Yet her accession to the throne may have an important impact on the state of the realm built by her predecessors.

Throughout this century Britain has had on the throne personalities who endeared themselves to the people mainly by their steadiness—steadiness which was not stodginess.

In many ways George VI was a hero, but without any air of derring-do to bring him more than sober credit. The shy man took the throne because his brother, the member of the family really trained for the business, wouldn't have it without the American woman he loved.

GREAT SYMBOLS

George was a stutterer, making public appearances only at the expense of great effort. He began his reign as war clouds were gathering over Europe. He had to provide the figure around which an empire could rally, and he did it in a fashion to arouse the admiration of the whole world. He and his wife, his family, his position, became the symbols of things which cruel men must not be permitted to change.

Prime Minister Nehru of India, implacable foe of British rule and a man who had led a revolution against the British throne and then devised a means of continued cooperation with it, just about said it after the King's death yesterday:

"It is significant in this world of republics how the British royal house stood firm, not merely in low, but in the affections of the people."

So it is not without affection for the shy king who is dead that Britain shouts "Long Live the Queen."

But it was a queen, another Elizabeth, 400 years ago, whose rule saw Britain become the head of empire, whose admirals put their names to the map all over the globe, whose captains planted her banners at the four corners of the earth.

And it was under another queen, Victoria, that the empire so built was brought to its peak of economic success.

The legend grew: Britain always waxes fat under a queen.

Cosmetics Warehouse Goes Up in Smoke

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (AP) — A lot of facials went up in smoke Tuesday.

Damage was tentatively estimated at $75,000. For nearly an hour seven fire companies battled flames in the brick warehouse.

KING GEORGE A "FRIEND"—WINCH

VANCOUVER, Feb. 6 (CP)—Harold Winch, CCF. leader in British Columbia, said today of the King's death:

"One hears with regret of the sudden death of King George VI. His success in being thought of more as a friend than as a king undoubtedly contributed greatly to the high regard in which he was held.

"It was my pleasure to meet him upon two occasions, once in Victoria and later in London, and he undoubtedly had a keen interest in and knowledge of Canada.

"It is to be sincerely regretted that his life should come to a close at such an early age."

Movie Gossip

Michael Rennie, British Actor, Started Film Work as Stand-In

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6, (AP) — This week the stand-in for Michael Rennie, the English actor, fell ill and the studio scurried around for a substitute.

"No hurry," assured Rennie. "I'm an old hand at standing in."

He wasn't kidding. Without poring through the records, I would hazard a guess that he is the only stand-in to achieve starring status.

Rennie, who has done a number of leading roles for 20th-Fox, is currently playing Jean Valjean in the remake of "Les Miserables". Playing opposite him is Sylvia Sidney. When she reported to work, Rennie said to her "you don't remember me, do you?" She allowed that she didn't.

"I was the stand-in for John Loder in a picture called 'Sabotage' that you and he made in England back in the 30s," he said.

Miss Sydney still didn't remember, but the memory is a vivid one for Rennie. That was his first movie job.

"I wanted to be a film actor," he recalled. "I figured the only way to be one would be to watch how it was done. I thought of being an extra, but that would have meant that I would only work a day or so in every picture. If I were a stand-in, I could watch the whole picture being made."

So Rennie took the stand-in job, which consists of standing under the lights until everything is ready and the star steps into the set.

"It was physically exhausting to be standing for so long," he remembered. "But it wasn't mentally exhausting, because I had much to watch and learn."

Rennie is modest about his success in American pictures. He attributes his good fortune to what he calls the "mid-Atlantic accent." That is an accent neither too British nor too American, thus permitting him to play either nationality.

He managed to develop it while training with the R.A.F. in Canada and the United States.

During 1951 consumption of gasoline by industrial users increased by 14.6 per cent over 1950, while consumption of aviation gasoline increased 23.8 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Oomens will not be among the 52 immigrants when the plane arrives. They will remain in Iceland a week.

Claxton Cancels Check Pay Plan

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton today cancelled the controversial plan to divide married servicemen's pay into two cheques, one for the husband, one for the wife.

An order went out to all three armed services that the plan, scheduled to go into effect March 1 for officers, later for men, directing that it be waived.

It climaxed weeks of argument and furore which spread from the lowest ranks to the highest and kept offices humming with protest.

The cancellation will not affect those assignment systems which were in effect before the new plan was set in motion.

In other words, wives of married servicemen in Korea or Germany, will continue to get cheques embracing part of the husband's pay and the navy will continue with its modified form of assignment.

Cancer Talk Given To Invermere W.I.

INVERMERE, B.C. — Windermere District Women's Institute heard Miss Frances Hewgill, public health nurse, talk on the subject of cancer and saw the film "The Traitor Within," at its January meeting.

Miss Hewgill pointed out one death in eight throughout Canada is attributed to cancer. She reminded the group that in women of 30 to 60 years of age it is the leading cause of death.

These statistics she said were not meant to frighten people, but to alert them to the danger signals so they would seek medical aid at the first symptoms when the disease is curable.

Women to Launch Postcard Campaign

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP). — The Canadian Congress of Women announced yesterday that it will sponsor a mass postcard campaign during the first three weeks of March.

Earlier the council decided to call on Premier Frost to demand that legislation forbidding the coloring of margarine be rescinded.

C.G.I.T. Policy Set by Council

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles on the Canadian Girls in Training, who this week are observing C.G.I.T. Week across Canada.)

Every year Canadian Girls in Training in British Columbia as in each province in Canada hold a camp council.

This is in addition to the regular camp to which any girl may go and is composed of members chosen to represent their groups. Every C.G.I.T. group in B.C. tries to send a representative. Camp council sets the policy for C.G.I.T. in B.C. for the following year.

The camp elects the provincial president and vice-president. This year they are Arlene Dill of Vancouver and Jean Parmley of Penticton.

The outline for "Gitom" (Girls in Training Own Magazine) is made. This year it was B.C.'s turn to design the cover for "The Torch," national C.G.I.T. magazine.

Girls from Nelson chosen to represent their groups last Summer were Dolores Olsen from St. Paul's United Church, Doris Graves, Bernice Swanson, Verna Mae Murphy and Shirley Lewis from Trinity United Church.

The theme for the year, chosen by camp council and followed by all C.G.I.T. groups in the province, is "Be at peace with God, in oneself, in the home, in the community and in the world."

Getting your Christmas cards ready for mailing early solves the problem of cards that arrive late or never arrive at all. An up-to-date address book is a great help. Also, if you have kept a list of last year's card senders, you will not be so likely to miss any of your friends.

She's "Too Respectable" In Boy Friend's Opinion

BY JANE ATKINSON

Dear Miss Atkinson:

Recently I met a boy who I thought a swell guy. One night he told me he would like to take me out, but for some reason he could not. Later he told me that when he went out with a girl he went in for petting and he thought I was too respectable for that.

Do you think that if this fellow really liked me, he would say a thing like that? And do you think we could work it out between us, as we are still good friends and can talk quite frankly with each other?

M.A.

Dear M.A.:

I don't see why it should take very much frank discussion between you and this boy to make your position clear. All you have to do is to tell him that he's quite right; that you definitely are "too respectable" to go in for petting; then let your behavior show him that you mean what you say.

I certainly do think that if he really likes you he will want to be with you on your own terms. If he doesn't, but tells you he doesn't care to take you out because he always expects to pet with any girl he dates, you'd better give him up right now unless you're looking for trouble.

King George VI, 1895 to 1952 — Elizabeth II, Seventh Reigning Queen

SERVED AS SAILOR, AIR FORCE MAN AND RULER IN TWO WORLD WARS

By The Canadian Press

When George VI ascended to the British throne in 1936 he said: "It will be my constant endeavor, with God's help, supported as I shall be by my dear wife, to uphold the honor of the realm, and to promote the happiness of my people."

To this pledge he held steadfast. In peace, in war, in illness and time of crisis, he became a living example of integrity. Doubts that had arisen over his capacity to take the place in public esteem of his elder brother, Edward VIII, were soon set at rest.

Three years after Edward's abdication, his leadership was put to the supreme test by the Second World War. The way in which he accepted the same dangers as his people strengthened the bonds of loyalty. His place in the Commonwealth's affection was secured.

His sincere and often-voiced belief in Christian ideals, and his model family life, won further respect at a time when faith and fidelity were under a severe strain. In the company of the Queen and the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret he found relaxation from the busy round of State pageantry and official ceremonial. Birth of a son and a daughter to Princess Elizabeth following her marriage to the Duke of Edinburgh completed the family circle.

Though George VI received no direct training for the throne, he helped often during Edward's brief reign to lighten the burden which lay upon his brother. As Duke of York, he devoted years to social welfare, visiting industrial centres, inspecting factories, chatting with workers of all ranks. In 1923 he started holiday camps attended by equal numbers of boys from historic English public schools and from working-class districts, and continued to direct them until he became King.

Called dramatically to the throne, George VI took the Oath of Accession on Saturday, Dec. 12, 1936, and announced that the first act of his reign would be to confer the title of Duke of Windsor upon his brother, who had left Britain on his abdication. Within the space of 11 months the Commonwealth had three Kings, an experience unknown since the 15th century.

As the burden of his high position increased George received immeasurable support from Queen Elizabeth, and in all of his public utterances he paid tribute to her. The phrase, "The Queen and I", continually occurred in his speeches, and in private he made no secret of his debt to her.

How much family life meant to the King is illustrated by the fact that when Princess Elizabeth married on Nov. 20, 1947, he expressly ruled that the couple should have as few public engagements planned for them as possible during the first six months of their married life.

On Nov. 14, 1948, when his first grandson, Prince Charles, was born at Buckingham Palace, the King, again remembering his own younger days, ordered that no Dominion tour should be planned for the Princess and the Duke until their son was at least one year old. He remembered the sadness with which he and his young Duchess had left England on a January morning in 1927 for a six-month tour of Australia, leaving behind them Princess Elizabeth, then aged only nine months. Princess Elizabeth's second child, Princess Anne, was born Aug. 15, 1950.

SERIOUS ILLNESS

Five months after the historic Royal wedding, April 26, 1948, the King and Queen were themselves the central figures in a ceremony of public rejoicing—the 25th anniversary of their marriage. They were deeply touched by the warmth of the crowd's greeting as they drove from the Palace to St. Paul's Cathedral and back along streets packed tight with cheering men, women and children.

The King was never a man of robust physical strength, and in the days following the excitement of Elizabeth's wedding and his own silver wedding, friends noticed that he showed increasing signs of fatigue.

In the midst of preparations for a long tour of Australia and New Zealand, the world was shocked by an announcement, Nov. 22, 1948, that the tour was cancelled. Doctors found that an arterial ailment in the King's right leg was preventing the blood supply from reaching his foot. Complete rest was ordered.

The King cancelled the tour, later rescheduled for 1952, with reluctance, knowing how much disappointment, inconvenience and even financial loss would be caused to people in Australia and New Zealand. "There is nothing in life he likes less than not doing something he has promised," a friend said at the time.

The illness was due partly to overwork. Those closest to him attributed it to the cumulative effect of physical and nervous strain from which he had had no respite since before the war. During the South African tour of 1947 he had dropped 14 pounds in weight.

On March 12, 1949, the King underwent a successful operation to free the flow of blood to his right foot. After a period of convalescence at the Royal Lodge, Windsor, he returned to London, apparently much restored in health, and soon after his round of public duties was resumed on a slightly modified scale.

TOURS CANADA

The first few years of the King's reign were shadowed with the increasing gravity of the international situation. The breath of war already blew across the waters when with the Queen he left Britain for his historic tour of Canada in 1939. Plans for the King and Queen to travel in the battle cruiser Repulse had to be abandoned because of the growing tension in the European situation. They crossed the Atlantic to Quebec in the liner Empress of Australia, becoming the first British monarchs to set foot in the oldest of the dominions.

The visit to Canada and the United States lasted from May 17 to June 15, and was an unprecedented success.

THE KING IN WAR

The threat of war had come unmistakably closer when the Royal party returned. By Aug. 24 the situation was so grave that the King travelled South from Balmoral to hold a Privy Council at the Palace. Ten days later Britain was at war.

In his broadcast that night the King asked his people, marshalled against Germany in fulfilment of their promise to invaded Poland, to "stand firm and united," adding the prophetic warning, "there might be dark days ahead, and war can no longer be confined to the battlefield."

From then on the King wore uniform until peace came six years later. More than any monarch since his ancestor, George III, who fought on the battlefield at Dettingen, the King visited distant battefields. To a greater extent than any King before him, he shared intimately the perils of his subjects at home.

Buckingham Palace was bombed nine times. Once, during a morning raid, the King and Queen looked through a window and saw bombs falling from a German plane. These wrecked the Royal Chapel and blasted part of the Palace buildings.

Presence of the King and Queen in London throughout the worst of the blitz enhanced the esteem in which they were held. This was expressed in a popular wartime song, "The King Is Still in London." There was a plan for the King and Queen to leave Britain for Canada at short notice had it become necessary. But the King made no secret of his firm intention not to leave Britain except under the direst necessity. There was talk, too, of the Princesses leaving to seek refuge in Canada. But the King did not approve, and the two young girls who were next in succession to the throne remained at rural Windsor through the worst years.

VISITS TROOPS

In the quiet period before the German onslaught of May, 1940, the King went to France, visited the British Expeditionary Force in their lines, and inspected the French defences of the Maginot Line.

A few months later he saw officers and men of the expeditionary force back on British soil, almost weaponless, fewer in numbers, but unbroken in spirit after escaping from the clutches of the Germans at Dunkerque. He walked miles along dusty country roads, through Savernake Forest and other centres of Southern command, to see his men, talk to them and encourage them.

VICTORY CELEBRATIONS

When the war ended the King set off on a new series of tours and visits, this time to join in the victory celebrations throughout Britain. On VE-Day—May 8, 1945—the King and Queen, with Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, appeared on the balcony of Buckingham Palace while huge crowds acclaimed them.

The King, interpreting the feeling of the crowd, invited Prime Minister Winston Churchill on to the Palace balcony.

Rejoicings of VE-Day were repeated on VJ-Day after the final victory over Japan, and again the King and Queen appeared on the Palace balcony to receive the ovation of immense crowds.

Early in 1946 the King marked the inauguration of the United Nations Organization by giving a State banquet at St. James's Palace. On June 8 he stood in the Mall for hours taking the salute at the Victory parade of Commonwealth forces and those of the Allies.

TOURS SOUTH AFRICA

Plans for the first postwar Commonwealth visit followed. On Feb. 1, 1947, the King and Queen with the two Princesses sailed in the battleship Vanguard from Portsmouth bound for Capetown. On a tour that covered many thousands of miles and took them to every part of the Union of South Africa, the King and his family received an enthusiastic welcome. It was regarded as a great personal triumph and a mark of the new status of South Africa as a nation.

Soon after his return the King announced that he had given his consent to the betrothal of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, son of Prince and Princess Andrew of Greece. That Winter the King, a proud and happy father, drove his daughter to Westminster Abbey to be married to the young Naval lieutenant whom he had created Duke of Edinburgh on the eve of the marriage.

The King was always a firm believer in the ideals of the British Commonwealth, but he was destined to see sweeping changes in its structure. His own Royal title of King Emperor was altered after Britain had given independence to the two new dominions of India and Pakistan, which had formerly been the Indian Empire. But though legal and constitution ties between the nations were altered greatly during his reign, the King always maintained that the spirit of brotherhood between members of the British family of nations was stronger than any written treaty or legal agreement. He did everything in his power to promote amity between those nations, each of which acknowledged him independently as their King. His crown was accepted as the symbol of Commonwealth unity after a Commonwealth conference on constitutional matters was held in London in April, 1949.

FIRST QUEEN SINCE VICTORIA'S REIGN FROM 1837 TO 1901

By The Canadian Press

The pink bundle yawned, burbled and blew bubbles—and seconds later, as dawn whipped across London's Mayfair on April 21, 1926, elderly Sir William Joynson-Hicks, then Britain's Home Secretary, greeted His Royal Highness, the Duke of York, and said:

"It's a girl!"

Then Sir William hustled off to the Lord Mayor to herald the news that former Lady Elizabeth Angela Marguerite Bowes-Lyon had borne "a babe, female, of true royal blood" who in a few short years would have all Britain at her chubby knees and in two decades would be the central figure in a romance of world interest, and was to become Queen as she neared her 26th birthday.

Observers of 21 years ago were quick to sense that Princess Elizabeth Alexandra Mary would never be far from the shadow of a crown. But few who stood around the font in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace five weeks later could guess how close that shadow lay.

HISTORIC TIMES

Her kicking legs warmed by an antique robe which had covered the infant limbs of a queen and three kings, Elizabeth roared her disapproval without realizing her christening came when, among other events of the times, the British Commonwealth of Nations arrived at maturity.

Her arrival coincided with the joint decision of Britain and the Dominions to define themselves as "autonomous communities within the Empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate to one another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs though united by a common allegiance to the Crown."

She graduated from the nursery and entered the schoolroom when the Statute of Westminster in 1932 set solemn seal to that concept. While a gangling teen-ager self-consciously opened the door to public life, she watched the Commonwealth link arms in defence of that concept. At 21, a young woman in love and marriage a few months away, she called on her generation to walk with her in perpetuating "our union."

Flipping back the newspapers of that time when a proud, sparkling-eyed mother softly told her first child to "shush" as the ancient ceremony of the Church of England came to a climax, today's reader would discover that:

Gentle King George V of the neatly trimmed iron-grey beard, who was to dote on this baby, was enjoying vigorous health.

Debonair Edward VIII, then Prince of Wales and Elizabeth's "Uncle David," was still unmarried. Even if he clung to bachelorhood, her own parents—the quiet, shy Duke and Duchess of York—might have a son who would sit on the throne.

But the news columns of the period would also tell how the shadow of the regal headdress became each hour more substance than fancy after Elizabeth's 11th birthday in 1937.

"Grandpapa England," as Elizabeth fondly called her grandfather, was dead, the new king had abdicated to retire with "the woman I love" and her father was gravely weighing the responsibilities of the crown he wore.

A slim, nervous and retiring child, Elizabeth could not comprehend fully the implications of those muddled weeks.

Perhaps that's why she could grin and wave on Coronation Day as she joined her tired parents, her stiff-backed Granny and their retinue on a Buckingham Palace balcony.

"HELLO, LILLIBET"

Far from that balcony, far from the cheering throngs who cried "Hello, Lillibet!" loomed the future—the great, inescapable responsibility of being the sixth British queen since the Norman Conquest.

There on the balcony was father to guide and inspire, a young king who defeated by sheer will-power his nervous speech defect. Behind him, calm, steady, was her grandmother, Queen Mary, to whom regal precedence, duty and devotion to a proud dynasty were all-important.

"The Bambino", as Queen Mary called Elizabeth, would have a good life. There would be cracking good family parties, outdoor trips, pets, riding and friendly companionship.

From the first, the King and Queen were determined to have their daughter's life as free from clammy traditionalism as possible.

She had to be a natural child. Affectations could develop later, but in childhood, let there be nonsense, let there be nursery junkets, and let there be a little girl with a silly giggle who would slyly collect worms and butterfly cocoons while wondering what it might be like to feed a pet turtle.

And, of course, the result, at 21, was a study, vibrant young Woman with a lot of her father's serious men, but not at all lacking in her mother's sense of humor.

Although slow in appearing, her smile was broad and unaffected when it lit her face.

A SISTER BORN

There were long trips to the country—Glamis in the Scottish Highlands, where younger sister Margaret was born in 1930. But smoky London always remained a place of adventure from the day "Grandpapa" first sent a coach to take her driving through Kensington Gardens—and Queen Mary ordered an urban excursion.

While Canadian lungs roared cheers to her parents in the Spring of 1939, Elizabeth and Margaret went adventuring. They had their first ride in a London underground. It was much more zestful fun than sitting sedately in a limousine with a royal flag flapping and whipping about its radiator.

Forbidden to have an automobile of her own, Elizabeth chalked up a personal triumph during the war by driving a military car through rush-hour traffic, twice around Piccadilly Circus. That marked her graduation from the Auxiliary Territorial Service school where she had been a member since her 18th birthday.

KNEW THE PEOPLE

As is the case today, she knew London's teeming peoples, the rich and the poor. On VE-Day, 1945, she and Margaret stood with their parents on Buckingham Palace balcony, waving to the adulating crowds below.

This time, however, the tumult and rejoicing were too much. While the city went wild, she slipped away into the throng to get her first street's-eye view of her tired but happy King and Queen.

Peace had again come to her island, and with it new demands, tedious tasks and sober responsibilities for an heiress called "princess" by right of royal birth, but lacking a title in peerage and rated a commoner by law.

Princess Elizabeth then seemed to blossom.

Early in 1947 she and Margaret Rose accompanied the King and Queen to South Africa. It was her first visit outside the British Isles and her first intimate contact with that Commonwealth whose destiny she would dedicate herself to at legal maturity.

PLEDGE OF FAITH

At Capetown she observed her 21st birthday with this pledge of faith to her Empire:

"Will you, the youth of the British family of nations, let me speak on my birthday as your representative?

"Now that we are coming to manhood and womanhood, it is surely a great joy to all to think that we shall be able to take some of the burden off the shoulders of our elders who have fought and worked and suffered to protect our childhood.

"We must not be daunted by the anxieties and hardships that the war has left behind for every nation of our Commonwealth. . . .

"There is a motto which has been borne by many of my ancestors—a noble motto—'I serve'. Those words were an inspiration to many bygone heirs to the throne when they made their knightly dedication as they came to manhood.

"I cannot do quite as they did, but through the inventions of science I can do what was not possible for any of them. I can make my solemn act of dedication with a whole Empire listening.

"I declare . . . all my life . . . . shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong, but I shall not have the strength to carry out this resolution alone, unless you join in it with me . . . God help me to make good my vow, and God bless all of you who are willing to share it."

Now a wife and mother she becomes Queen — to take up the full load of responsibilities and service to which she earlier pledged herself.

Queen's First Duty to Call Privy Council

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP) — Queen Elizabeth's first constitutional duty will be to hold an accession meeting of the privy council, an ancient body which advises the King. It is composed largely of nobles and leading political figures.

At this meeting, the new sovereign will swear to fulfill her duties and be a good ruler. The oath will be administered by the lord chancellor, Britain's highest law lord.

Under the 1702 Settlement Act, the accession council must have affirmative answers to two questions before Elizabeth can be proclaimed queen:

1. Is she a descendant of the electress of Hanover, reigning head of the British dynasty of the day?

2. Is she a Protestant?

The new line of succession to the throne is:

1. The new queen's three-year-old son, Prince Charles.

2. Prince Charles' little sister, one-year-old Princess Anne.

3. Princess Margaret, 21, sister of the new queen.

4. The duke of Gloucester, 52, youngest living brother of the late King.

5. Prince William, 10, elder son of the Duke of Gloucester.

6. Prince Richard, 7, younger son of Duke of Gloucester.

7. Prince Edward, 16-year-old Duke of Kent, who succeeded to the title when his father, the late King's youngest brother—was killed in an air crash in 1942.

8. Prince Michael, 9, Duke of Kent's brother.

9. Princess Alexandra, 15, Duke of Kent's sister.

10. The princess royal, 54-year-old Princess Mary, sister of the late King.

11. The Earl of Harewood, 28-year old elder son of the Princess Royal.

12. Viscount Lascelles, one-year-old son of the Earl of Harewood.

IN HIS FIRST public appearance since his lung operation, and the last before his death Wednesday, King George VI is shown, second from left, waving "bon voyage" to the plane that carried Princess Elizabeth, now Britain's Queen, and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, on the first leg of their Commonwealth tour, abruptly ended by the death of the King. Princess Margaret is in centre waving black-gloved hand and Queen Elizabeth is beside her.

Huge Crowd Pays Homage to Late King in Christ Church Cathedral

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 6 (CP) — More than 2000 Victorians gathered in Christ Church Cathedral at 11 a.m. today to pay homage to their late King.

They came from all walks of life. Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace was there, members of the Cabinet, and little children who knew only that they had lost their King.

A hush fell over the sorrowing throng as the service began, as if the full impact of the King's death has just reached them.

PERSONAL GRIEF

The address was given by Rt. Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Bishop of British Columbia.

"This is a deep personal bereavement that has come suddenly upon us all today," he said.

"We have lost our greatly admired King whom we loved as a man. He was the best-known of all our monarchs and we felt he belonged to us all, especially when he spoke to us in our homes at Christmas. His sudden death is signalized by this universal outburst of affection and sorrow."

Heard from the huge congregation, representing almost all denominations in the city, were unashamed sobs, and the eyes of many were shining with tears.

A group of young sailors of the Royal Canadian Navy, obviously on leave, tip-toed silently into the cathedral to pay their respects to their commander-in-chief.

The cathedral was filled at 10:30. Hundreds stood at the rear, and beyond the doors, which were left open.

A Liberal party banquet scheduled here tonight to pay tribute to the former Saskatchewan premier's long period of public service was postponed. Many Liberals from all parts of the province already were in Regina when the royal death caused the postponement.

Visiting Ottawa the moderator of the United Church of Canada, Rev. C. M. Nicholson of Halifax, said "he was so great a King because he was so great a man. In the years he reigned over us he showed us how complete may be devotion to a high and demanding office . . ."

United Churches across the Dominion will hold memorial services next Sunday.

George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, now is in the Bahamas but his Ottawa office issued a statement by Mr. Drew saying the King's death brought a sense of "great personal loss to the whole free world."

Gordon Graydon, foreign affairs critic of the Progressive Conservatives, said the King's "courage, humanity and exemplary family life has been an inspiration to his subjects in every corner of the globe."

At Rouyn, Que., E. J. Parsons, Dominion president of the Canadian Corps Association, said that during the war years the King visited Commonwealth troops and showed a sincere feeling for their welfare and appreciation of their services.

EDMONTON, Feb. 6 (CP)—Rev. Fred McNally, president of the Baptist Federation of Canada, said today that Canadian Baptists learned of the King's death "with deepest sorrow."

CANADIAN FORCES IN MOURNING

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP) — A period of mourning for Canada's armed forces, symbolized by black armbands on officers' sleeves, was ordered today by Defence Minister Claxton.

There are roughly 10,000 officers in the regular and reserve forces. All of them will swear new oaths of allegiance to Queen Elizabeth.

No definite period for the services mourning was set by Mr. Claxton.

He issued orders for the artillery to fire 56 rounds, one a minute—one for each year of the King's life — in all provincial capitals, in Ottawa and at other "saluting stations" in Canada on the day of the funeral.

Victoria Cancels State Dinners

VICTORIA, Feb. 6 (CP) — Two state dinners and the state ball arranged to mark opening of the 1952 session of the British Columbia Legislature have been cancelled, it was announced from Government House today following news of the death of King George.

Time of mourning for His Majesty is not yet known, but an official at Government House pointed out that full court mourning for the late King's father, George V, extended from the day of death on Jan. 20, 1936 to July 20, 1936, and half-mourning until October 20, 1936.

During the time of mourning His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, his aides-de-camp and others at Government House will wear black ties at all times and black arm bands when appearing in public.

Throughout the period of mourning, no official or social affairs will take place at Government House.

Shocked Canada Reads of Death

By the Canadian Press

Black-bordered newspapers told shocked Canadian readers today of the unexpected death of the King.

The news broke before 6 a.m. — after publication time for most morning papers and well before most evening papers go to press.

Many told the news in extra editions — at Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. In Victoria, the Morning Colonist's extra devoted six pages to the story.

Across the country, evening papers went to press hours earlier than usual. They carried news stories on the death and Elizabeth's accession to the throne and reaction in Canada and elsewhere in the Commonwealth. Editorials praised the King's career of service. Pictures illustrated the story of his reign and his severe illness last year.

Winston Churchill Pledges Allegiance

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP) —Prime Minister Winston Churchill swore allegiance today to his sixth British monarch.

His voice was almost inaudible among members of parliament taking the oath as subjects of the new Queen Elizabeth.

Churchill has been in the service of all six monarchs in his lifetime. He was commissioned in Queen Victoria's army in 1895.

May Raise Flags For New Monarch

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP) — Flags, lowered to half-staff across Canada in mourning for the King, may be hoisted to full staff tomorrow in recognition of the proclamation of Queen Elizabeth II as the new monarch.

This was the procedure followed after the death of King George V in 1936, a state department source recalled. If that precedent is followed, the flag will be raised tomorrow for the full day, then lowered to half-staff again on Friday, remaining there until the day after the King's funeral.

However, the source said the department is awaiting instructions from the Lord Chamberlain's office in London.

The British Lose Sportsman King

By JIM CHAMBERS

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP)—British sports lost a keen fan in the death of King George VI, patron of the Football Association which controls the national game of soccer.

The late King was a competent lawn tennis player and golfer, and like his father, King George V, was rated one of the best hunting shots in the country. He also was a fine rider, and was intensely interested in horse racing.

Tennis, however, was the game at which he shone. He was a left-hander and in 1926 played in the men's doubles at the Wimbledon championships with his old friend, Sir Louis Greig, as partner.

The dour Scot pro, Alex (Sandy) Herd, taught the late King to play golf when a boy. With the Duke of Windsor as his partner, he played in the 1930 Sunningdale Club Founders Cup, and the following year he reached the finals of the Marlborough Club tournament at Sandwich.

King George was the captain of the Royal and ancient golf club of St. Andrews in 1930.

* * *

Racing played a big part in his life. In the war years he owned two of Britain's outstanding thoroughbreds, Sun Chariot, a fast filly, and Big Game, a colt. The King leased the horses from the National Stud.

In 1942, Sun Chariot won three of the English classics — The One Thousand Guineas, The Epsom Oaks and The St. Leger. Big Game won the Two Thousand Guineas the same year. However, the derby eluded the King.

For the ordinary man in the street, however, it was the King's interest in other sports — soccer cup finals, cricket matches, and rugby union international games — which will always be remembered.

Most British sporting fixtures, except football association cup ties, were cancelled today when word came of the King's death. Football and rugby union games were called off, as well as boxing and dog races.

There will be no horse racing or coursing meets, in which dogs chase live hares, until after the funeral.

The secretary of the English Football League said that as far as he knew, the normal league games would be played Saturday.

Two Upsets in Opening B. C. Title Curling

Stone, Tinling Keep Up Race for Aggregate

KIMBERLEY, B.C.—Favorites came through in afternoon games, but two upsets featured the evening draw as the B.C. Playdowns got under way here Wednesday.

A. M. Chesser, defending champ and Frenchy D'Amour, both of Trail, were defeated in second round games, Chesser dropping an 11-9 decision to club-mate Fred Wendel while D'Amour fell 13-7 before a fine game by Milt Ryalls of Nelson.

Three other rinks were eliminated in the second draw.

Eric MacKinnon of Cranbrook, A. C. Rutherford of Revelstoke and Jack Shirra of Vancouver dropped both their first games in the double knockout competition.

Reg Stone of Trail, another favorite, had a close call, notching two on the last end to squeeze out a 9-8 victory over Alex Caldwell of Kimberley.

KIMBERLEY, B.C.—The first round of the British Columbia Playdowns ran fairly well to form here Wednesday afternoon as the favored rinks came through with convincing victories.

Defending champion A. M. Chesser, Reg. Stone and Theo D'Amour, the big three from the Trail club, all won by good margins as did Milt Ryalls of Nelson and Alex Caldwell of Kimberley.

Two other games were nip-and-tuck affairs all the way, however. Fred Wendel of Trail edged thirsty Anders of Vancouver 5-4 in a match that saw three ends blanked in a rousing knockout tussle.

With the score tied 4-4 Anders made a difficult takeout of Wendel's shot rock with the last stone of the game, but had the misfortune to roll out himself, allowing Wendel second shot to count for the winning margin.

13-ENDER

Spiers of Creston had to go 13 ends to beat McDannold of Cranbrook 11-10 in another close match.

The playdowns, major attraction in the week-long 57th annual B. C. Bonspiel, is a double knockout competition which allows rinks one loss without elimination. Two other closely-watched rinks, Fred Tinling of Nelson and 'spiel veteran Donald MacDonald of Trail, drew first round byes but were scheduled in the second playdowns draw later Wednesday. Twenty-nine rinks are competing.

Results of first round playdowns matches:

D'Amour, Trail 14, MacKinnon, Cranbrook 9.

Ryalls, Nelson 14, Cook, Vancouver 9.

Spiers, Creston 11, McDannold, Cranbrook 10. (Extra end.)

Caldwell Kimberley 12, Farenholtz, Nelson 6.

Stone, Trail 14, Rutherford, Revelstoke 4.

Anders, Vancouver 4, Wendel, Trail 5.

Chesser, Trail 12, Shirra, Vancouver 1.

Rae, Trail 10, Beattie, Kimberley 7

Round II

IN CHALLENGE SEMIS

In the bonspiel events, rinks began moving into the playoff brackets. Fourth round grand challenge games saw D'Amour and Stone of Trail, Tinling of Nelson and Hugh Bates of Kimberley reach the semi-finals.

D'Amour downed clubmate R. E. Hill 8-6 while Stone disposed of Cimolai of Kimberley 5-2. Tinling beat Maartman of the host club 11-5 while Bates shaded Beattie 9-8 in an all-Kimberley tussle.

It was still Stone and Tinling in the grand aggregate race with eight wins and no defeats with their closest competitors all having at least two setbacks.

In this bracket are Anders, D'Amour, Ryalls and Storm Maartman of Kimberley, all with 6-2 marks, while Topping of Oliver, Rea of Vancouver and Wendel of Trail are next with 5-2 records.

B. C. playdowns games do not count in the aggregate. Play moved into the eights in both the Trail and Kimberley Cups, second and third primary events respectively.

MAY FULFILL JUNIOR PROMISE WITH BRUINS .... Two-thirds of one of the greatest scoring lines in Canadian junior hockey has been reunited as a major league unit with the sale of Fleming Mackell of Toronto Maple Leafs to Boston Bruins for an unknown forward from latter's farm club, Hershey, of the A.H.L. Back in 1947, Mackell, seen above, Eddie Sandford, now of Boston, and Les Costello, who has since given up hockey for the priesthood, proved a great goal-getting trio when they helped Coach Joe Primeau win the Memorial Cup for St. Michael's College, Toronto. Having previously been bouncing between Toronto and Pittsburgh in a utility role ever since turning pro in 1947, 22-year-old Mackell, when he signed his contract last Fall, had asked specifically that he not be sent back to Pittsburgh for a fourth term in the minors if he had a chance of catching on with another major league club.—Central Press Canadian.

TRACK AND FIELD TRIALS HELD JUNE

VANCOUVER, Feb. 6 (CP)—British Columbia's olympic track and field trials will be held June 20-21 at University of British Columbia stadium, one week before the Canadian trials at Hamilton.

Date and venue of the trials were sanctioned by the B. C. Track and Field Association at its monthly meeting last night.

Bob Osborne, executive member of the Canadian Olympic Association, said the recent C. O. A. meeting at Ottawa made no move to name a coach of the women's track team.

"Selection will be made by the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation next month from our own Mary Thomasson, Joe Richmond of Montreal, Earl Deakin and Bruce Foote of Toronto and Joe Griffiths from Saskatoon," Osborne said.

N.H.L. Toronto Game Called Off Due To King's Death

TORONTO, Feb. 6 (CP) — The National Hockey League game scheduled for tonight between New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs has been postponed because of the death of the King, G. McCullagh, vice-president of Maple Leaf Gardens, announced today.

No new date for the game was set.

The postponement was the second of its kind for the Leafs. They called off a game with Montreal Canadiens Jan. 21, 1936, because of the death of King George V the previous day.

Ousted in Bonspiel

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6 (CP) — The lone remaining outside rink in the Manitoba curling playdowns was ousted tonight as play narrowed to the semi-final brackets.

The playdown is being held in conjunction with Manitoba's 64th annual bonspiel. The winner of the playdowns, to be decided tomorrow, will represent the province in the Dominion curling finals at Winnipeg next month.

Jimmy Wishart of Portage La Prairie was ousted in a 10-8 defeat by Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg Deer Lodge. Welsh took the Grand Aggregate earlier today by winning a game in the Eaton event.

Wallace, Mannings Rinks Win Way to B. C. Championship Play

Playdowns for the right to represent Nelson in the British Columbia Ladies Bonspiel here Feb. 22 and 23 wound up Wednesday. Mrs. T. A. Wallace with four wins and Mrs. E. N. Mannings with three wins skipped their rinks to victory.

First outside entry arrived Wednesday, telegraphed from Prince George by a Mrs. Gustafson. Entry deadline is Feb. 15.

The Nelson rinks are:

Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. J. M. DeGiorlamo, Mrs. A. J. Hesse and Mrs. R. H. Bush.

Mrs. E. N. Mannings, Mrs. V. M. Killeen, Mrs. R. M. Chandler and Mrs. B. Gray.

Three other rinks were skipped by Mrs. W. J. Hipperson, Mrs. M. L. Craig and Mrs. R. Hale. Only two rinks may curl in the event, however.

Kimberley is a new entry in the B.C. Ladies' Curling Association this year. Cranbrook is also a member.

Air Trip in Line for High School Curlers En Route to Championships

WINNIPEG, Feb. 6 (CP)—Western rinks will trade the ice lanes for the air lanes in getting to Moncton for the Canadian High School Curling Championships on Feb. 18-21.

Ken Watson of Winnipeg, chairman of the Dominion Schoolboy Committee, announced tonight that rinks representing British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan will get into Winnipeg on "their own hook" by Feb. 15. Along with the Manitoba foursome, they will travel by plane to Toronto the same night.

On arrival at Toronto, the boys will be treated to a breakfast by a large department store. Following a bus tour of the city, the young curlers will play some exhibition games in Hamilton against rinks from surrounding Ontario cities.

After supper on a stop-over back to Toronto, the boys will take in a National Hockey League game at Maple Leaf Gardens. However, they will only be able to take in part of the contest as they are scheduled to fly to Montreal that Saturday night, Feb. 15. Rinks representing Ontario and Northern Ontario will join the Westerners at Toronto, bringing to 40 the number of persons — curlers and officials—making the flight. The Quebec representatives will be picked up at Montreal and the flight eastward continued Sunday morning.

Previous arrangements for a stop-over at Ottawa were cancelled when the committee decided to move the curlers by air instead of rail.

To date only three provinces have declared winners. They are Manitoba, British Columbia and Ontario. Skipped by Ron Gray, the Manitoba rink from Belmont High School is comprised of Roy Gislason, third; Don Hyrich, second; and John Hyrich, lead.

Ontario's representative from Lindsay Collegiate Institute is skipped by Jack Mosely. Other members are Jack Ward, third; Hugh Lightbody, second; and Bud Martin, lead.

Murray Green's Vernon rink will represent B.C. at the finals. He will be backed by Malcolm McCulloch, third; Don Nolan, second; and Ron Weir, lead.

Committee officials estimated more than 21,000 high school boys are curling across Canada, with Saskatchewan topping the list with about 7500. Manitoba follows with 6000 and Alberta next with 5930.

The 1951 championship was held at Nelson, B.C., with Gary Thode of Saskatoon Technical Collegiate capturing the title and the Sifton Trophy.

Sedgman After Wimbledon Title

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Feb. 6 (AP) — Frank Sedgman, Australia's brilliant tennis ace, said Tuesday that he will not defend his American singles championship at Forest Hills this year.

Instead, Sedgman said he will concentrate on trying to win the Wimbledon title, which thus far has eluded him.

The Aussie's Davis Cup star will tour Europe after the Asian tourney here, and arrive in England in time to compete at Wimbledon.

He is expected to talk things over then with General Manager Frank Selke and decision will be made about further medical exminations and possibly a long rest.

Richard, who rejoined the club after a seven-game layoff, found that the pains returned when he tried to play. He left his teammates in Boston Tuesday. Canadiens are due to play in Detroit tomorrow, Toronto Saturday and Chicago Sunday.

Villemain, Hairston Fight To Draw

DETROIT, Feb. 6 (AP) — Eugene (Silent) Hairston of New York and bull-shouldered Robert Villemain of France battled to a draw in a crowd pleasing 10-round middleweight scrap tonight.

Hairston started fast and appeared on his way to a victory. But Villemain, with a 3¾ pound edge over his 160¾-pound opponent, roared back with his windmill style and caught the crowd's fancy to get the draw.

Hairston never backed up until Villemain rocked him in the sixth round. Then the crowd started to shout "vive la France."

Villemain appeared tired in the late rounds but time and again bore into his faster opponent and churned away. The winner had been promised a shot at champion Sugar Ray Robinson's title by the International Boxing Club.

17 Withdrawals From Steeplechase

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP) — Seventeen of the original 84 horses entered for the Grand Ntional steeplechase were withdrawn at the first acceptance stage today.

Cafe Creme, one of two French horses given top weight of 175 pounds along with Freebooter — the 1950 winner—was taken out. The other French entry with 175 pounds is Le Drole.

Two other former winners were left in—Nickel Coin, first home in 1951, and Russian Hero, victor in 1949.

Another acceptance for the gruelling four miles, 856 yards race at Aintree April 5, is scheduled for March 18.

Around the KOOTENAY in Sport

GERRY REYNOLDS

KIMBERLEY, B.C.—It's events of a bonspiel like this that provide the ammunition for many a long clubhouse gabfest and this one is certainly no exception. Since the first draw Monday the post-mortem boys have been hard at it far into the night, replaying and second-guessing the highlight incidents and situations that give the game such a wide appeal.

The 57th, just as the first, second and all the rest, is providing its quota of upsets, close games, oddities, and color—the rugged start made by defending champ Alf Chesser and the occasional rising to heights of little-known rinks in spilling the main boys, games like the brilliant Anders-Wendel clash that had the outcome riding on every shot, the loud and variegated garb and the boisterous joviality of personalities like president Jimmie Livingstone of the host club.

It's all here and more as the boys go after the silverware and have a whale of a time to boot.

The Kootenay stronghold—Trail, Nelson and Kimberley—have so far maintained their hold on the key events but "outside" opposition is stronger and will continue to strengthen as interest spreads. Charlie Cook of Vancouver, a skip in the largest Coast contingent yet, seven rinks, tells me there are now more than 1000 curlers in Vancouver, counting the casuals. At this rate, it may not be long before the curling capital shifts Westward to the Coast.

The Northland, too, is rapidly reaching the status of a hotbed with a reported 800 enthusiasts in the Prince George district alone.

As this is written, Stone and Tinling are still mowing them down with the most consistent regularity but there are at least half a dozen other top-notch rinks who could do it all without causing eyebrow to raise. And, of course, the dark horses. As the saying goes, you can't take STONE for granite in this game.

If you're still reading after that last pun, Stone is the rink to beat, just the same. He's been curling the steadiest along with Fred Tinling, but without taking anything from the Nelson skipper, Fred's been favored by the draw and hasn't been tested too severely as yet. Chesser has apparently settled down after a bad start and will be just as tough as ever. After dropping his first four he's won three straight, including a 12-1 opening victory in the Playdowns.

Jack Falkins, president of the Cranbrook Curling Club, breezed onto the scene of activity here Wednesday and informed me that the Cranbrook folk have high hope of artificial ice in the new arena and curling rink for the 1952-53 season. Jack says that pipe is now available and the Gyro Club has $10,000 on hand for the project. It's figured to cost about $75,000 for the job so the club plans to get busy immediately on a public subscription campaign.

"It can become a reality if we really work for it," says Jack, who sees Cranbrook as a very eligible site for a B.C. Bonspiel once the goal is achieved.

He reminds us that Cranbrook, despite the effects of a mild Winter on natural ice, even now has 40 rinks formed, 10 more than in Kimberley, and has ample hotel accommodation for the premier events.

Donald MacDonald, the Trail skipper, is the bonspiel veteran in point of service. He's competed in nearly all since 1925 and is now curling in his 47th bonspiel in that span. Jack O'Neill of Kimberley is a good second, also starting in 1925 but missing the war years. Incidentally, Jack has reached the Grand Challenge finals three times in his span only to lose out. Curling with Storm Maartman this year, he was ousted in the eights.

Ball Salaries' Policy Attacked

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Baseball asked the government today to relax its new policy regarding players salaries and to exempt recruitment bonuses from pay ceilings.

Lawyers for the two major leagues and the minors appeared before John Kieran, one-man panel of the Salary Stabilization Board, and argued that changes must be made in the decree that puts a tight lid on club payroll budgets.

Louis F. Carroll, lawyer for the National League, contended the latest ruling is "unworkable" and violates the spirit of baseball's reserve clause.

Both Ben Fiery, lawyer for the American League and Herman Tingley, legal representative for the National Association (minors), brought up the bonus question.

They urged that bonuses for signing players should not be included in the club budgets subject to government controls.

Kieran, former sports columnist of the New York Times, said he could only make recommendations.

"But I shall suggest to the board in Washington that these matters be taken into full consideration. I feel sure the problems can be worked out to the satisfaction of all concerned."

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Bulgaria Gov't Ousts Officials

VIENNA, Feb. 6 (AP)—Removal of the three high officials of Bulgaria was announced by Tass, official Russian news agency. It appeared to be a pure to meet peasant unrest and shortages.

At the same time, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia took steps toward greater Sovietization of their countries.

The Bulgarian Sobranje (Parliament) voted to model its entire legal system upon Soviet Justice.

Czechoslovakia called a three-day ideological conference in Brno to bring Czech science fully into line with Bolshevism and away from "bourgeois objectivity."

The Tass dispatch from Sofia said the Bulgarian Parliament approved the removal of Kyrill Dramaliev, Minister of Education, Boris Taskov, chairman of the State Supply and State Reserve Administration, and Sava Ganoyski, chairman of the Committee for Science, Art and Culture.

Urges Religious, Culture Emphasis

MONTREAL, Feb. 6 (CP)—Rene B. Perrault, President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, strongly recommended a religious revival and an emphasis on cultural values to Canadians if they seek to retain individual freedom in the face of industrial growth.

Addressing members of the Montreal District Chambre de Commerce, Mr. Perrault said the loss of individual freedom was one of the dangers facing the Canadian people at a time Canada's economic progress was outstripping even the fondest hopes of her pioneers.

"If we lose our liberty we lose everything," he added.

VIOLINIST WINS TAX DEDUCTION FOR INSTRUMENT

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP)—An unidentified Ontario professional violinist has won an income tax deduction for various items in connection with his calling—including depreciation for the wear and tear on his violin bow.

The musician, known only as No. 46 in the closed hearing before the Income Tax Appeal Board, listed his violin bow depreciation at $30 for 1949, the year the Income Tax Department disputed his deductions.

The Board, in a judgment made public said No. 46's violin bow depreciation deduction was quite all right, along with another for $175 for the upkeep and repair of two violins and a piano.

Seek Support on Alta. Gas Export

SPOKANE, Feb. 6 (AP) — Texas officials of the Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation left for Seattle today in an effort to line up support for their reciprocal plan to import natural gas from Alberta.

Ray C. Fish of Houston, President of the Board of Pacific Northwest, said he and his associates will meet representatives of half a dozen coast gas companies Thursday.

His corporation is one of four which want to pipe in natural gas from Canada. The federal power commission will hold a hearing on the plans in Washington April 8.

Legislature To Open Simply in B.C.

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 6 (CP) — Opening of the British Columbia Legislature Feb. 19, usually a colorful and majestic affair, will be simple and with no fanfare, because of the death of the King.

Provincial Secretary W. T. Straith said today the 1952 session will get down to work without the traditional ceremony.

Message Sent by Lt.-Gov. Wallace

VICTORIA, Feb. 6 (CP)—This afternoon at 2 o'clock, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor released the following message:

"It is with the deepest distress that we in British Columbia have received the intelligence of the passing of His Majesty King George VI. His Majesty's great personal sacrifice and his care and solicitude for the welfare of his people in all parts of the Commonwealth, and his determination to exercise his influence toward the attaining of peace, has endeared him to all our hearts, and in his passing we feel, individually, that we have suffered the loss of a personal friend and a staunch defender of the Faith.

"Our profound sympathies are extended to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, to the Queen Mother Elizabeth and to all members of the Royal Family.

"To Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth we express our allegiance and our abounding faith in her judgment and guidance. We pray that she may be long spared to rule the people of the Commonwealth committed to her charge, in health and peace, and that God's blessings may be ever with her."

B.C. Gov't Employees Seek Five-Day Week, at Least 6 Per Cent Wage Hike

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 6 (CP)—A wage increase of at least six per cent and a five-day, 40-hour week are two top 1952 contract demands by more than 10,000 British Columbia Government employees, it was learned Tuesday.

A committee of the Cabinet today received a brief from spokesmen for the B.C. Government Employees' Association (TLC), which also asked that government workers be given the right to settle disputes by conciliation or arbitration.

The Cabinet Committee consisted of Chairman Hon. W. T. Straith, Provincial Secretary, John Cates, Minister of Labor, and A. D. Turnbull, Minister of Health and Welfare.

Employees were represented by Association General Secretary E. P. O'Connor, Vancouver; Carl Haugh, local President; William Oliver, Secretary and A. C. Bennet, Assistant-Secretary.

The Association's brief asked for an across the board increase to compensate for the rise in living costs since the last adjustment April 1 last year, when a 10 per cent general increase was won.

The cost-of-living index has risen six per cent to date, and may go higher before negotiations with the Government are completed, Mr. O'Connor said.

The Association wants further increases to be automatic with every five-point rise in the cost of living.

The Government workers want the five-day week without a cut in take-home pay. Their brief pointed out that the Ontario Government has adopted the 40-hour week and that chartered banks appear to have put the shorter week in effect.

Massey to Stay For Funeral

LONDON, Feb. 6 (CP) — Vincent Massey, Governor General-designate of Canada, today postponed his departure for Canada on learning of the King's death.

Massey, a personal friend of the Royal Family, was to have left for Canada by sea this Friday. No new date has been set.

It is expected the Governor General-designate will attend the King's funeral.

Massey has been acquainted with members of the Royal Family for nearly two decades. He had an audience with the King a week ago Friday, shortly after it was announced he was to succeed Field Marshal Viscount Alexander as Governor General of Canada.

During his stay in London, Massey also saw the Queen, and twice called on Queen Mary, once formally and once privately.

Friends said Massey was shocked and saddened when he learned, early this afternoon, that the King had died.

New Rates Take Effect Monday

OTTAWA, Feb. 6 (CP)—Freight rate increases authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners Jan. 25 will go into effect Monday.

The railways have filed the new rates with the Board to have them become operative on that day. They provide generally for an increase of 4½ per cent over existing rates, with a number of exceptions.

The major exceptions are potatoes, coal and coke, on which no increase was allowed.

Today the Board issued a minor amendment to its Jan. 25 order, substituting a straight percentage increase for cents-per-ton boosts on sand and gravel for building, stone screenings and crushed stone.

In the original judgment, the Board had wiped out for these products a 12 per cent interim increase granted last July. Instead, it gave a 10-cent-a-ton increase on sand and gravel and 20 cents a ton on the stone products.

The Board's announcement today said some shippers after Jan. 25 complained these increases "detrimentally affected" them.

Today's change restores the original 4½ per cent granted on other products, and adds on the 4½ per cent granted on other products. The effect is to place the sand-gravel-stone articles on the same footing in rates.
