...rouse Victim ...f Grilling Ride

A bird in the grill is worth two in the bush—at least that's probably the way G. E. Foster of Vancouver, travelling salesman, has it sized up.

While servicing Mr. Foster's car, William Defoe spotted feathers sticking out of the grill and opened the engine hood for further examination. There sat a grouse, still alive, but apparently badly hurt, between the grill and the radiator front.

Mr. Foster found it hard to believe his own eyes, for he could not recall hitting a bird during his trip from Cranbrook to Nelson during the day. It is believed the bird flew low across the highway, smashed against the car and in between the spaces in the grill, which are four or five inches wide on the 1952 model.

NORWEGIAN VESSEL MISSING

Search Underway After Severe Storm

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 30 (CP) —A Norwegian freighter tonight was reported missing off the Atlantic seaboard as gale-lashed seas moderated slightly after one of the worst storms of the season.

Search and Rescue officials in Halifax reported that the 2500-ton Dux has not reported since Sunday, when she radioed her position as 400 miles East of Belle Isle, Nfld.

The 250-foot ship was en route to Montreal from Rotterdam.

In the event that her wireless was not operating, R.C.A.F. officials have warned all ships in the area to be watching for her.

B.C. Mines To Ship Zinc To United States

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 30 (CP) — Some British Columbia mines are being forced to ship concentrates to the U. S. as a result of total production exceeding the zinc refining capacity of metallurgical plants here.

A spokesman for Consolidated Smelters said today the company is "holding the line" on zinc concentrates and not taking any new offerings either from new producers or the more established producers.

He said the electrolytic zinc plant has been operating at full capacity for the past two years.

New mines and established mines that have enlarged their production of concentrates now must pay the added cost of shipping to a U. S. smelter.

U. N. Rejects Reds Korean Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 30 (CP) — Britain today rejected Russia's proposal to set up a new United Nation's commission on Korea but asked for clarification of Soviet views.

Selwyn Lloyd, Britain's minister of state, told the General Assembly's political committee that he wants to hear more about the Soviet position on the key issue of war prisoners which has deadlocked the Korean truce talks.

FACES MURDER CHARGE

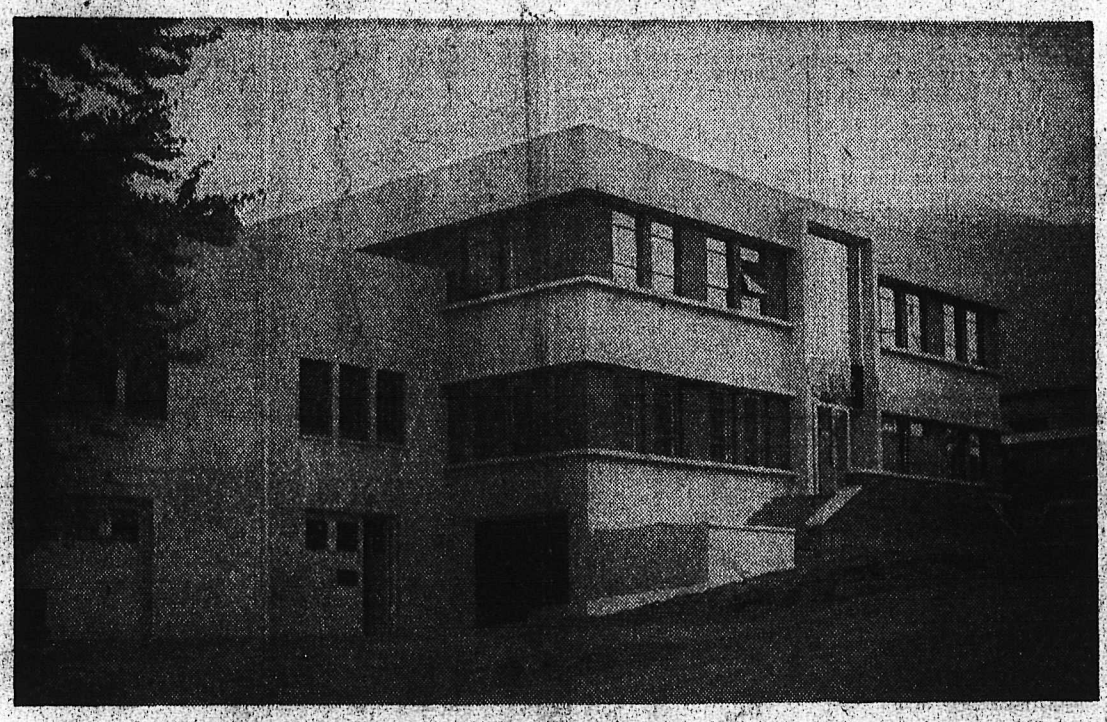
LILLOOET, B.C., Oct. 30 (CP)— William Tom Jr., 23, was charged with murder today in the death of Ray Gregorie, 85, on the Bridge River Indian reservation.

Gregorie was found beaten to death in his cabin Tuesday.

Nelson Forest Service Building Opens Today



OPEN TO PUBLIC INSPECTION TODAY will be the brand new $200,000 B.C. Forest Service building, above, on Front Street at Nelson. Opening ceremonies are planned about 2 p.m. Hon. R. E. Sommers, Minister of Lands and Forests, is unable to attend, District Forester H. B. Forst learned yesterday. Howard Taylor, marine and structure engineer of the service, whose department at Victoria designed the building, will attend. More than 20 offices in the two-storey building will house personnel of drafting, management, clerical, operations, rangers, radio, and other divisions, and there are rooms for land inspectors of the lands department. Operations division includes firefighting and improvement sections of the service. Also provided are lunch and reception rooms, radio workshop for servicing of the more than 100 radio sets of the service, the supervisor of scalers and grazing subdivisions office. A large room will store firefighting equipment ready to go out immediately on fire calls, with trucks able to back up under cover in a loading area off the room. In the old building at left there is room for equipment to supply 1000 firefighters. Ready-to-go units for 25, 50 or 100 men will be laid out in the new building. Large basement area will house unused trucks in Winter, mechanical inspector's tools and equipment for minor repairs and overhauls. A hot water heating system with automatic coal stoker has also been installed.—Daily News photo.

COMMUNITY PLANNING EXPERTS AT TRAIL . . .

West Kootenay Regional Planning Proposed

TRAIL — Regional planning may be embarked on in West Kootenay.

A suggestion by a Kinnaird village commissioner Alex Creighton that the Castlegar, Trail, Kinnaird, Rossland, Fruitvale and Salmo area and possibly Nelson become a Lower Columbia Valley regional planning area, was taken up here Thursday at the fifth regional conference of the B.C. division of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

The proposal came after community planning experts from the Coast had presented a strong case in favor of planning municipal leaders and interested persons in this area, attended the day-long session in city hall, along with a group of Trail high school students.

Supported on the meeting floor by Castlegar commissioner Robert Hunter, the proposal will be directed to each of the municipalities concerned, by the Trail Town Planning Commission.

Poor planning problems are not as yet serious in the Kootenay, so it is in a position to benefit from the experiences of other parts of B.C., Dr. J. Lewis Robinson of U.B.C.'s department of geography and geology, told the packed room.

The Fraser Valley cannot meet food demands of the Vancouver area, yet Lulu Island lands have been let go for housing, and Penticton and Kelowna, by residential encroachment of fruit lands, are "biting off the hands that feed them."

The Kootenay, he predicted, will benefit through highway connections which will link it with two areas of population, Southwest Alberta and Southwest B.C.

IRRIGATION HINT

Its wealth-making resources come primarily from its mountains, but its people must be fed. Regional economy is sounder if food can be produced locally.

The Kootenay has "limited lowlands in its valleys." Samples of soil, studied in connection with Doukhobor lands, showed that apart from the rare Creston flats land and Grand Forks land, the Kootenay is in none too rich an agriculture position.

However, if water could be taken to Doukhobor bench lands, the portion suitable for agricultural purposes could be raised from one to 10 per cent, and 45 per cent could be made productive to a limited degree.

"Irrigation must come if the Kootenay is to develop," Mr. Robinson said. He suggested integrated use of dams for irrigation and power purposes as an aid for balanced growth.

In illustrating that urban growth should be directed toward non-agricultural lands, he noted that cultivated acreage per person in B.C. had dropped from three to one in the last 50 years. Minimum requirement is 2½ acres a person.

The view that urban development on B.C.'s lower mainland was not only moving onto agricultural land but was also spoiling industrial sites was expressed by J. W. Wilson, executive director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board. Its future, in his opinion, is in industry, not in agriculture.

ESTIMATE GROWTH

A planner must estimate probable population growth, which in B.C. is the fastest in Canada; must look to the space available, and what must be established in a certain location.

The Lower Mainland board, representative of 26 municipalities and employing a professional staff, costs each person in the area three cents a year. It has been studying airports, future Fraser River bridge crossings, and the desirability of increasing boundaries of certain areas by annexation.

RIBBON GROWTH

In an address later in the day, Mr. Wilson, pinch-hitting for Evan Jones, deputy minister of education, who was unable to attend the conference, told of the evils of ribbon development.

When people build alongside a major highway, the road's value is "sterilized" partially in that traffic is slowed. Travel is less safe, provision of services is costlier, and above all, when ribbon development takes place extensively, a new road is needed in another location, this the value of the original investment is depreciated.

There are 40 driveways or residential accesses per mile on main highways in B.C., and if change to three lanes were to be made, cost of removing buildings would be $20,000 a mile.

Taking a cue from Great Britain, the United States and Eastern Canada, the B.C. government plans to introduce a bill for a controlled access highway system for new highway construction, and prevention of worse conditions on existing highways.

OBJECTIVES

The objectives of community planning, outlined by Professor H. P. Oberlander of U.B.C. are health and welfare of the people in respect to such matters as housing, sanitation, hospitals and fresh air; efficient machinery for proper living in such matters as highways and admigration, and attractive appearance in that cities reflect a nation's culture or lack of it.

He cited Sunningdale as an example of laying-out of 175 houses with a view not only as a place to live but also with consideration of what it would look like.

People are attracted to towns for employment, yet once there, they want to move into the country, he said. A recent Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company employment survey showed that of 5500, one-half live outside Trail in Rossland, Castlegar and other neighboring communities. Movement of people to and from work daily for a considerable number of miles creates traffic and taxation problems.

A town should decide whether it wants more residents, or fewer inhabitants, whether it should be a recreational, industrial or trading centre.

A town planning commission's task is to obtain all the data, analyze it and draw conclusions for advising the municipal government.

LEGAL ASPECTS

The Town Planning Act, placed on B.C. statutes in 1925, enables organized communities to carry on actual planning, and other legislation contains opportunities for the implementation of planning, W. T. Lane, member of the provincial executive of the Community Planning Association of Canada, said.

He told of expansion of the act in 1928 to allow for replotting of old subdivisions, regulated area innovation of 1946 and introduction of regional planning in 1948.

WEALTHY KOOTENAY

The "vast industrial strides" taken in the Kootenays since the end of the war were covered by D. H. T. Mollison of Nelson, field representative for the department of trade and industry.

Its mining industry is pouring out refined metals, metal bearing ores and concentrates for export, fuels, building materials and chemicals. In the five-year period ending in 1950 the annual value of mineral products averaged just under $100,000,000, averaging 75 per cent of the total provincial output.

The Lardeau valley presents a potential mining area of considerable importance, now that the Kaslo-Lardeau road has been pushed through.

Annual average cut from 1947 to 1951 in Nelson forest district of 250,000,000 f.b.m. is expected to be doubled with the establishment of Celgar.

In manufacturing industries and in power developments, the area is also well advanced.

"It is not too difficult to surmise the possible interconnection of power reserves with Calgary power and perhaps, in the not too distant future, the Bonneville Power Administration.

"We have the power and the natural resources, but we lack a large market in the West," Mr. Mollison continued. "But I feel that in the next 20 years, with the development of Alberta's oil and natural gas industries, the establishment of chemical industries, and with our own great provincial development, we shall find ourselves sitting in the middle of Canada's Western market, making possible the establishment of long-dreamed-of industries."

A few of these might be production of pig iron and possible construction of a small steel mill, production of magnesium using magnesite deposits at Marysville, and production of aluminum and titanium.

"We must be sure that space for industrial development is available."

WATER, MILK

The municipal men were urged by Dr. L. G. Anderson, head of the West Kootenay health unit, to look to a watershed and water supply for the area between Castlegar and Trail.

The Columbia River is polluted, and increased deposits of sewage and garbage in the river could in the next six years make living along its shores unbearable. He suggested blocking off of a watershed to meet requirements.

He also expressed the view that opening of Inonoaklin Valley by road connection would give the Trail area a milk supply source.

THE ORGANIZATION

Job of the Community Planning Assocaition of Canada is to interest the public in planning, Tom McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. division, said.

Branches in various parts of the province are assisting town planning commissions in bringing their findings before the public.

Welcome to delegates was extended by Ald. G. G. Rennison, representing the city of Trail, and Hon. W. D. Black, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Provincial Secretary, brought greetings from the government. Presiding at the sessions were Mayor Joseph Kary of Nelson, Mr. Mollison, Nick Oglow, chairman of Castlegar Village Commission; J. Paul Reecke, branch manager at Trail for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and C. H. Jeffares, deputy chairman of the Trail Town Planning Commission.

Pearson May Have Key Role in Korea Armistice

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 30 (CP)—L. B. Pearson may have the opportunity to play the key role in behind-the-scenes soundings for chances of a Korean armistice.

Canada's External Affairs Minister is carrying out the job of president of the United Nations general assembly with an objectivity seldom achieved by previous presidents.

While some of his procedural rulings as president have come under Russian fire, American delegates have also taken him to task on some of his opinions about handling of U. N. business. At the outset of his presidency, Pearson emphasized that his conduct of the post would be without "prejudice or partiality."

New Denver-Three Forks New Route Open to Traffic

SLOCAN CITY—Flood control of the Slocan Valley's low-lying farmland could be accomplished by construction of a dam at the head of the Slocan River near here, Roy Pollard, Nelson Water Rights Branch engineer told the Slocan District Board of Trade Tuesday.

Asked to make a survey of the Slocan River by the B.C. Government to see what could be done to improve flood conditions on farm lands which each Spring are underwater when they should be producing, Mr. Pollard made two land and one aerial survey to determine the most effective way to control the river level to avoid flooding. Survey was requested after the Board wrote to Victoria explaining the situation. Mr. Pollard explained the findings of his three trips and of his study of air photographs of the area, to the Board at its regular meeting in the Women's Institute rooms at Slocan City.

Cost of construction of a dam at Slocan City where the lake flows into the river would "not be too much," Mr. Pollard explained, and would allow controlling of the river water level during Spring run-off, eliminating flooding.

Less attractive solution to the flooding would be clearing of gravel, and sand from narrow areas of the river which are holding back water. One of these is at Lemon Creek about six miles from Slocan City. This would lower the river level and avoid considerable flooding by allowing faster runoff, but would also lower the reservoir of Slocan Lake, Mr. Pollard told the meeting.

Mr. Pollard also suggested some bank work near Perry Siding to prevent possible washing away of valuable farm land. Improvements could also be made at Gwyllim (Goat) Creek and at Winlaw.

The Board decided to withhold further action pending publication of Mr. Pollard's report.

HIGHWAY OPENED

A letter of congratulation to M. C. K. Struve, District Engineer at New Denver, for the new Three Forks-New Denver section of the Kaslo-New Denver highway, which was opened to traffic recently, was sent by the Board. Appreciation of extensive gravelling carried out North of Rosebery this year was also expressed in the letter.

Word of plans to resurface (gravel) the Silverton-Slocan City portion of the Nelson-Nakusp Highway, was also welcomed by the Board. Ultimate aim of the Board is to see a standard paved highway from South Slocan to Nakusp. Copies of the letter were also forwarded to Hon. P. A. Gagiardi, Minister of Public Works, E. S. Jones, chief engineer, and H. T. Miard, divisional engineer.

New Denver Telephone exchange is now on a 24-hour basis, members learned. A letter from F. L. Hallam of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company explaining their position in regard to acceptance of zinc concentrates, was read. The Board hopes to have a C. M. & S. official visit the district soon.

The Board moved to send a letter of sympathy to Mrs. E. C. Carson, widow of the former Minister of Public Works.

Two Die In Crash

CLARESHOLM, Alta., Oct. 30 (CP)—A Claresholm-based R.C.A.F. training plane crashed two miles North of here today, killing a student pilot and his instructor. Their names have not been released.

The Harvard training craft plunged into a farmer's field near the station. Claresholm is 75 miles South of Calgary.

There were no witnesses to the accident, but Wesley Sinclair, the farmer in whose field the plane crashed, said, "I drove past the field one minute and nothing was there. But when I came back a few minutes later there was the plane."

One of the bodies was said to be half out of the plane, and an attempt apparently had been made to open the parachute. The R.C.A.F. has started an investigation into the crash.

Creston Men Named Directors At Kelowna Meet

KELOWNA, B.C., Oct. 30 (CP)— The Western Canada Reclamation Association today urged the Alberta government to lease timberland for pulp and paper production only in areas which would not adversely affect streams flowing eastward over the prairies.

This was one of several resolutions passed at the association's one-day convention here. The 85 delegates later saw the "life blood" of the Okanagan Valley flowing through irrigation troughs and finished their tour with a visit to packing houses, nerve centre of the Okanagan's $25,000,000 fruit industry.

Problems relating to reclamation schemes were discussed by the delegates from Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia and the Association asked the Federal government to extend the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to B.C.

CRESTON MEN ON BOARD

For the first time, a B.C. man was elected head of the association. A. W. Gray, Rutland, was chosen president.

Other officers: First Vice-President, J. A. Cameron, Youngstown, Alta; Second Vice-President, Charles T. Hazon, Saskatoon; Secretary-Manager, G. O. Shaughnessy, Moose Jaw.

Eisenhauer, Regina; Mr. Hazon; Mr. Pope; for Saskatchewan; Mr. Cameron; Carl Anderson, Brooks; Charles Ronan, Medicine Hat; Ted Sundal, Taber; for Alberta; and Mr. Gray; J. B. M. Clarke, Keremeos; Guy Constable, Creston; Frank Putnam, Creston; for B.C.

CANADIAN DOLLAR DOWN

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (CP)— The Canadian dollar was 5/32 of a cent lower at a premium of 3½ per cent in terms of United States funds in closing foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was 5/16 of a cent higher at $2.80¼.

STERLING HIGHER

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (CP)—The United States dollar today closed at a discount of 3 13/32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, up ⅛ from Wednesday's close. That is, it took 96 19/32 cents Canadian to buy $1 American. The pound sterling was $2.70 11/16, up ⅝ from Wednesday.

Oil and Gas Hunters Turn to Kootenays

VICTORIA, Oct. 30 (CP)—Oil and gas-hungry firms and individuals have taken up or applied for more than 36,000,000 acres of land in British Columbia as the search is extended from the Peace River area into the Cariboo and Kootenay districts.

Petroleum and natural gas branch of the B. C. Department of Lands and Forests reported today that at the end of September there were 36,328,847 acres of land either issued or applied for.

Fifteen more applications, covering 619,640 acres were received during the month, most of them for the Peace River area but one in the Kootenay district and two in the Cariboo.

And in This Corner . . .

VANCOUVER, Oct. 30 (CP)—Wrong house?

A prowler climbed a ladder into a second-storey suite in the West End early today and slipped into bed with a sleeping mother and her 12-year-old daughter.

The woman told police she was awakened at 3 a.m. by the touch of a man's hand.

She screamed. The prowler fled.

MALAGA, Spain, Oct. 30 (AP)—Actress Rita Hayworth got her hotel in trouble with the authorities.

The hotel was fined 200 pesetas ($5).

The charge: failure to have the guest state her age on the register.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 30 (CP)—James Barnes, 83-year-old war veteran in Deer Lodge Hospital, had the ward roaring yesterday during his conversation with Governor-General Vincent Massey.

When Mr. Massey walked over to greet him, Mr. Barnes said: "I've seen your face in the papers."

Replied Mr. Massey with a laugh: "I can't seem to keep my face out of the papers."

"Well," philosophized Mr. Barnes, "I've seen worse."

"Thank you very much." Mr. Massey said. "I regard that as a great compliment."

Schools Bylaw FORUM

The Daily News is conducting a forum on the Nelson School District No. 7 schools building bylaw, to be voted upon Nov. 5, in an effort to bring to light all phases of the proposed building program. Citizens are invited to mail or bring their questions to the Daily News, and every attempt will be made to obtain accurate information.

The following questions were received by various school board members, and the answers provided by school board and education authorities.

1. What assurance have the taxpayers that the so-called "frills" have been removed from the proposed new buildings?

School Board members, as representatives of the taxpayers, have pointed out the various steps taken to reduce the estimates on the various buildings. For example, in the High School plans reductions were made in the Industrial Arts and Home Economics units, a centre stairway was removed, the office space was reduced in area and the gymnasium-auditorium was changed from concrete to frame. Similar economies were mentioned for the other projects.

2. Why is the old high school being converted to an elementary school if it is no longer suitable as a high school?

The main criticisms stressed by the Board on the old high school are the lack of classroom space and the shortage of adequate facilities for science laboratories, Home Economics and Industrial Arts, Commercial and gymnasium for the present enrolment of 330 high school pupils. The architect's plan to replace the objectionable features such as the existing stairwells, and the roof over the third floor would provide adequate space for 150 elementary pupils. As an elementary school this building would make possible a reduction in the overcrowding in the Central Elementary school.

3. What is the purpose to be served by the activity room in the Hume School addition?

The 40' by 60' activity room is meant to serve many purposes in the school. Since the assembly room and music room of this school were converted to classrooms two years ago the Activity room will be used for both these purposes. It will also serve as a lunchroom since an adjacent kitchenette is planned. Lunch tables will fold against the wall. The Activity room will be used as a place to teach games and folk dancing and for school contests in indoor sports. It has also been stated by the Board that it will be used in the evenings for Scouts, Cubs and other such community affairs.

4. Why is a gymnasium necessary in the proposed new high school?

The Junior High School completed in 1928 provided both a gymnasium and a sloping floor auditorium for the same enrolment. The proposed new high school gymnasium must function both as an auditorium and a gymnasium. As an auditorium it will be used for school assemblies, for the production of plays, for musical affairs and other such school functions. As a gymnasium it will be used steadily for the required two periods weekly in physical education for each of the twelve divisions. It will also be used for practices and games in such athletics as basketball, badminton, and volley ball before and after school hours. It will be given use in the evenings for school and public functions.

Pease Puts Hospital Before Schools; Using Hospital Against Bylaw—Mann

"I charge Mr. Pease with deliberately using hospital matters to block the schools bylaw, which he has not got adequate information to discuss," said E. A. Mann in a statement at a public meeting last night called by George W. Pease for discussion of the bylaw.

In a speech lasting more than an hour Mr. Pease came out in strong opposition to the proposed construction bylaw which will be voted on Nov. 5. He said he did not oppose good schools, but thought the addition of 16 classrooms to existing schools would take care of overcrowding. The bylaw provides for 17 new classrooms, some of them in the proposed new High School building.

Mr. Pease spoke at length of the hospital situation, claiming that taxpayers could not afford to finance both school and hospital costs at the same time. He said the Kootenay Lake General Hospital was "the only hospital" which has not complied with fire regulations.

Mr. Mann, chairman of a committee of citizens formed early this Spring to investigate the possibility of forming a hospital district, obtained Mr. Pease's permission early in the question period to make a statement.

"We had Mr. Pease on the committee because we knew that otherwise he would be against us," he said. "One reason we dropped him was because of his continued opposition" to all the committee tried to do," he added. Mr. Pease said that as far as he knew he was still on the committee.

Loud cheering punctuated Mr. Mann's forceful statement and reached a peak when he said "Mr. Pease has never yet been in favor of anything progressive—all we've heard is red herrings." He charged that the speaker had falsely used condition of the children's ward at the hospital to gain sympathy. Mr. Pease had mentioned it when describing the hospital as a fire-trap.

An unidentified woman in the audience brought the meeting to an end after nearly two hours by calling out "I move we adjourn" while Mr. Pease was still speaking. An exodus of listeners had begun shortly before this. Mr. Pease agreed to the adjournment, but continued to talk without being heard except by a few people in the front row at the Capitol Theatre where the meeting took place. About 200 attended.

MONEY SHARING

In his long speech which was listened to quietly by the audience prior to the question period, Mr. Pease devoted a good deal of time to the hospital question and said the taxpayers' money must be "shared up" between hospital and schools. "The overcrowding at the hospital is more serious" than at the schools, he claimed.

Referring constantly to a raft of notes on a table beside him, Mr. Pease quoted a great many "facts and figures" concerning the bylaw, and again charged the School Board with not giving him answers to questions. He spoke of "all this propaganda in the paper" with which he said the Board is "trying to scare the parents—it's a bunch of bunk."

"I'LL DO IT"

He drew laughter from the audience when he added: "If the School Board can't straighten out the situation, I'll do it."

He praised the work of City Clerk C. W. Reeve Harper, who he said had willingly supplied him with all the information he wanted.

He quoted Dr. W. K. Massey, a school trustee, on two occasions. He said Dr. Massey had told him that architects and engineers estimated present Nelson school buildings good for "75 years' more service." Earlier, he said Dr. Massey had stopped him on the street and in the course of conversation had said, in effect, that it was a good plan to rush the school bylaw through and get the hospital money later. The audience reacted with laughter.

Mr. Pease quoted at length from his recent correspondence with the School Board, after calling it "not very competent."

The only question asked by a School Board member came from L. M. McBride, who asked what Mr. Pease would propose for the rural areas if, as the speaker had suggested, they were to be detached from the city in a reorganization of the school district. Mr. Pease had charged in his speech that Nelson taxpayers were contributing too much to the rural areas, and in answer to the question Mr. Pease said that the former Greater Nelson area might be increased. He also said that "the areas can carry their own weight."

Talking of the organization of School District No. 7, of which he said the late Dr. Max Cameron — "he was no financier" — had been the "instigator," Mr. Pease said that in contrast to the hospital district situation no vote had ever been taken when District 7 was set up. He said there had been protests from all over the province that the district system was "inequitable," placing a burden on municipalities which was too great.

In the question period, Harry Burden, provincial tax assessor, made it clear that rural areas do not receive a share of the 3 per cent sales tax, which last year netted Nelson $76,000, and are given special aid for this reason for schools and improvements.

Speaking of the mill rate for schools, Mr. Pease said that the rate for the City of Nelson had fluctuated up and down during an all-over rise from 27 in 1946 to 32.535 in 1952.

The rural rate, he said, rose from 7.04 to 10.06 in the same period. "The rural areas have a special mill rate," he said. This had been as a result of rural protests when John Hart was Premier. "The reason District No. 7 was formed," said Mr. Pease, was so that "the municipality would take some of the load from the rural area."

"I want to see children have a good education," said the speaker. "I am not opposed to good schools." But he said the School Board's plans resembled a "champagne spree". He told the audience "You can't afford what the School Board wants you to do."

Home Medical Care May Be Necessary

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP) —Hospitals may have to institute supervised home medical care after a patient's discharge to combat the shortage of hospital beds, Dr. Harvey Agnew, professor of hospital administration at the University of Toronto, said today. Addressing a meeting of the Ontario Hospital Association, Dr. Agnew said the plan would allow a hospital to send patients home earlier and release needed beds.

Molten Glass Spills From Broken Furnace

LONDON, Oct. 30 (Reuters) — Workers at a bottle factory fled for their lives early today when 10 tons of molten glass gushed towards them from a cracked furnace. The glass settled on the factory floor and gradually hardened there under firemen's water jets. No one was hurt.

The entire banking system in Argentina was put under government control by decree in 1946.

Trees Pile Up as $400,000 Christmas Industry Started

CRANBROOK, B. C.—Yard depots in Cranbrook for Christmas tree operations are beginning to pile up with trees after a slow start in September. Deliveries are accelerating, but are not expected to reach peak until more severe frosts, which set needles and prevent shedding between now and the Christmas season.

Three companies are operating in the Cranbrook district this year, J. Hofert Company of Seattle, G. R. Kirk Company of Portland, and the Emerald Company, which is also American. So far agreement among the three of a set price of $1.25 a bale, containing from one to six trees depending on the size, is said to be holding, but with the wide territory covered and the strong competition, companies are watching each other closely. In general the supply is not lavish this year, following an extraordinarily warm and dry Fall and appearance of needle miner blight in some stands.

About 50 permits to cut trees on Crown lands have been issued in the Cranbrook district this season. This policy, which is forest management licence in miniature, was established in 1942 by the B. C. Forest Service. Permits are granted over an indefinite period, providing care and cultivation of the specified tract is continued year-'round by the operator of the permit, with frequent Forest Branch inspections through the year to confirm that the tract is being operated on a perpetual-yield basis. Since 1942 several permits have been cancelled for omitting between-season care. Donald Munro is Forest Branch inspector for Nelson Forest District, and Glen Bertram and William Colgive are engaged in woods inspecting during harvest.

Trees cut on these permits amount to a substantial volume, but less than half the whole annual cut, with the rest coming from privately operated stands. Forest Service report for 1951 shows Nelson Forest District Christmas tree harvest was 755,156 trees, with an estimated f.o.b. value of $415,335.80, which shows the economic importance this branch of the woods industry has in the district.

Growers are only one economic phase, with other revenue derived to district workers through trucking and yard work of trimming, baling and tagging. Most of the trees from Nelson Forest District, with accent on Cranbrook, Fernie and the Windermere Valley, go to United States markets, and rail shipment is concentrated in the last half of November with objective of cleared yards the first week in December.

East Kootenay Now Is Civil Organized Area

CRANBROOK, B. C.—East Kootenay mobile support and reception area as part of the Province's civil defence organization was established here Tuesday at a meeting of official representatives of organized territory in East Kootenay, with Mayor R. E. Sang of Cranbrook named chairman until a Spring general meeting.

Brigadier G. A. M. McCarter, Deputy Provincial Coordinator of Civil Defence, was present at the meeting, called as a result of continued efforts to establish an East Kootenay unit, bounded by Kootenay Lake and the Alberta border, and from Kingsgate North into the Columbia Valley. Each organized territory within those bounds will have an official representative on the East Kootenay Committee who will meet before the end of November to appoint a district coordinator. Provincial salary and expense arrangements continue under the reorganization with organized territory meeting additional expenses on a pro rata basis.

Change in organization from Kootenay area into two divisions of East and West Kootenay becomes effective Jan. 1. In preparation for the new East Kootenay unit, G. A. M. Watson of Kimberley, who took an intensive 10-day civil defence course on high explosives and demolition aspects, given in Ottawa, started a course for committee officials of Kimberley, Cranbrook, Marysville and Chapman Camp Thursday to run two hours a week for six weeks to produce local instructors. These will become instructors of volunteers from the public in their own centres. Cranbrook district coordinator M. D. McFadyen has already had this course while a member of the R.C.A.F.

Present at the meeting here in addition to Brigadier McCarter, the Cranbrook Mayor, City Council and City Clerk, and Mr. McFadyen, were Mayor Thomas Uphill, Alderman John Sweeney and City Clerk G. M. G. M. Robertson of Fernie, Mayor Swan and Mr. Watson from Kimberley, and Commissioners T. S. Wilson of Chapman Camp and H. L. Neilsen of Marysville.

Two leading members of the profession from Vancouver read papers at the meeting. Dr. J. A. Ganshorn, president of the B.C. Division of the Canadian Medical Association, spoke on "Pathology of the Breast." Dr. T. R. Serjeant, who is assistant professor of surgery at U.B.C., gave a paper on "Arteriosclerosis."

Vandals Blamed for Smashed Windows

VANCOUVER, Oct. 30 (CP) — Stone-throwing vandals and not dynamite pranksters were held responsible today for damage of $800 to a South Vancouver greenhouse.

First reports said the windows had been shattered by a dynamite explosion, but police found later that the damage was caused by rocks taken from boxes outside the greenhouse.

But there was one dynamite blast at 1:20 a.m. in downtown Vancouver for which police blamed Hallowe'en pranksters.

It was felt over a wide area and was heard in both suburban West and North Vancouver. No serious damage was caused. The dynamite was stolen from a construction job.

A Warning about Foreign Attachments to Telephones

Telephone subscribers are reminded that the use of telephone attachments unauthorized by the Telephone Company is contrary to regulations governing telephone service. This is pointed out because from time to time certain devices of this kind appear on the market and are offered for sale or for rent to telephone users.

The regulation applying to "non-approved devices" follows:

The subscribers shall not use or permit to be used any electrical or mechanical apparatus or device in connection with the equipment or facilities furnished by the Company without the written consent of the Company, or permit the attachment of advertising devices thereto. If any apparatus or devices of any kind other than those furnished or approved by the Company are attached to or connected with any part of the Company's property, the Company may remove such apparatus or devices or terminate the service.

This regulation is, of course, in the interests of good telephone service and, therefore, for the protection of telephone subscribers generally. Some attachments to telephones can impair service. And interference with service on one telephone does not stop with that instrument. Others are bound to be affected.

That's why telephone regulations prohibit telephone attachments without the written consent of the Telephone Company.

Mau Mau

It was nearly two years ago that the Western world first heard of Mau Mau, the mysterious secret society formed among the Negroes of Kenya, in Southeast Africa. The members of Mau Mau take a solemn oath, surrounded by the most intimidating symbols of African black magic, to regard the white settlers as their enemies and to work for the expulsion of these interlopers. In Kenya today Mau Mau has imposed a reign of terror on people of both races. The society is blamed for over 43 murders, mostly of natives accused of being allied with the whites, but two of its victims have been European women.

That Kenya must one day face trouble of this kind has been evident for a good many years—at least to those Europeans who were able to see below the surface of what looked like orderly progress, says the Toronto Globe and Mail, noting that in Kenya two peoples utterly alien to one another are living together in a very uneasy peace.

On the one hand there are some 30,000 white colonists, enough people to make one small city, whose standards of comfort, culture, health, morality and industriousness are those of civilized Europe. Sharing Kenya with them there are 5,000,000 Africans who live intellectually at the level of the late Stone Age. A collision between the two elements in the population has long seemed, to many observers, quite inevitable, because the native people cannot advance rapidly enough to make even a rough equality and compatibility possible.

Before the white man came, the tribes of Kenya lived in the squalor and confusion of semi-barbarism. Their sports were war and hunting; they knew next to nothing of agriculture; their religious and social customs were a dark amalgam of superstition and witchcraft; their numbers were kept down by disease, killing and want of food, the three classic Malthusian checks on population. The white man has changed their lives but not their way of thinking; and whether they can learn to be Western in their outlook may now be the heart of the question, thinks the Toronto paper.

There is certainly enough arable or pasture land in Kenya, a country bigger than France, to support its population. Because of public health measures and medical services introduced by the British, the number of natives has been multiplied many times in the past 40 years; but with adequate capital investment and proper land use, Kenya could be a food exporter on a substantial scale.

But the tribesmen are both averse to hard agricultural toil and slow to learn new techniques. Somehow the colored people of Kenya, still not far from primitiveness, do not take to progress. Instead of smiling fields and a thriving, happy population, there are colored communities crowded on small patches of earth, there is a highly discontented but small colored proletariat and there is Mau Mau, muttering savage incantations against the white man. Britain's Colonial Secretary, Mr. Oliver Lyttelon, will go soon to Kenya to see what can be done about the present troubles. He has a hard assignment, says the Globe and Mail, for there are many who fear that Kenya's problem is insoluble on European terms, and that, in the end, the country will see the last of its small British outpost and revert to the chaos of the bush.

Wauchope, Inonoaklin Settlement Named for General, Not India

To the Editor:

Sir—having taught in Edgewood for four years, I was much interested in your article; on the Inonoaklin Valley published in your issue of the 21st.

There is, however, one statement that needs correction, and I quote: "The river, after rising in the swamps and flats of Waukaup (pronounced walk up), becomes a rushing stream, etc."

I don't know whose imagination is responsible for the spelling of "Waukaup", which gives it the appearance, like Inonoaklin, of an Indian name, which it certainly is not. The pronunciation is correct, but if you will refer to any map of the Kootenay, you will find the word correctly spelled as "Wauchope". The mining settlement of that name, founded during the Boer War, when such names were prominently before the public, owes its original nomenclature to one of the Boer War generals of the British Army. Kimberley, Ladysmith, were also founded at the same time, but whereas they grew into cities, Wauchope was never more than a mining settlement, quickly deserted, and even when the Edgewood-Vernon road was opened in 1925, all that was left of the settlement was a couple of shacks and the sagging roof of what I was told was once "Shiell's Hotel". Now nothing remains of what was hoped, as in the case of Mineral City, would become a great mining centre.

Castle on a Mountain

This was the mountain none might scale save the fearless prince in the fairy-tale, who achieved the task achieved by none
save the seventh son of a seventh son.

Now over its slopes of ice-blue glass
the aerial railways lightly pass; and where once the adventurer's feet were slowed,
Runs an excellent scenic motor road.

Now whoever would taste its frosted fruit may land on its summit by parachute; or those of a cautious turn of mind
a regular service of lifts will find.

The ogres stand at their castle gate with a smile. They regard it as out-of-date to oppress the needy, but live in lieu by making a minimum charge to view.

No more in their dungeons damsels lie, but, clad in elegant uniforms, ply
on enchanted lawns under spellbound trees, earning their keep by serving teas.

The story changes. But scratch the skin of the commonplace, and there lies within a glassy mountain, that's reached by rail, and truth outshining the fairy-tale.

Immigrant, Nelson—Regarding your question on what to put into food parcels for the Old Country, we are indebted to Mrs. F. Lippingwell, Nelson, for further information:

Butter, margarine, lard, cheese, bacon, sugar, candy and meat are still rationed. Canned fruit can be obtained but very rarely—about one small can to two ration books. There are about three allocations per year of currants, raisins, mixed peel, and so forth—the latter they so seldom see that it can hardly be regarded as "allocated". Also towels, tea-cloths, and even sheets, though more plentiful than they were, are very expensive, and used ones in reasonable condition are always welcomed.

A Reader, Creston—Where can I get a correspondence course in sewing?

Write to Correspondence Courses, Educational Department, Weller Building, Victoria, B. C.

Another Reader, Slocan Park—Is it permissible for a guard at a school to shine a flashlight in one's face when passing a school zone on a Government road? Has a school guard permission to report a motor vehicle going over 15 miles per hour during school hours in the zone?

Flashing a light is one way of identifying a passerby at night. It would depend on how it was done whether it could be considered offensive or not. Any passerby going about normal activities has a right to expect reasonable treatment from guards or any public servants. With regard to the matter of the car, anybody—whether a public servant or otherwise—can report infringement of speed laws.

It's Not True

Surrounded by newsmen after he had presented his credentials to President Truman, Georgi N. Zarubin, new Soviet Ambassador to the United States, was asked, "What about the 'Hate America' campaign in Russia?"

"It's not true," said Mr. Zarubin.

Literally construed, this states what Americans have known from the first reports of the campaign—namely, that it consists of falsehoods and misrepresentations, bitter or uninformed; in other words, that its materials are untrue. Of course, what Mr. Zarubin meant was to deny the existence of such a campaign. Communist semantics doubtless calls it by some other name. But there is a certain slight consolation, possibly reassurance, in the fact that Moscow officially still holds to the proprieties enough to profess that no such campaign is taking place.—Christian Science Monitor.

Hobgoblins Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out

By The Canadian Press

Watch out, folks. It's Hallowe'en again and the kids will be on the loose. A lot of the grown-ups will be sharing the fun at parties across the country.

Maybe this new-fangled television thing will keep some city slickers quiet with fancy pictures of ghosts and hobgoblins in those parts of Canada that get television programs. But many more are going to be busy celebrating the night in the age-old fashion.

The wild pranks that used to cause alarm have gone out of fashion and many cities and towns have got their community celebrations perfection to the last detail, with the laudable object of obtaining the maximum enjoyment with the least damage.

CENTURIES OLD

But Hallowe'en has been a tradition for a long time, from way back in the days of the Romans and the Druids and the early Christians. Now it's the eve of All Saints Day, in honor of all saints known or unknown, and it's been observed as such since the eighth century.

There's always an age group of children to whom the great night is something brand new. They and the older youngsters will be roaming the streets in weird costume, knocking on doors and crying "shell out" or some other phrase that's best known in their district.

And the wise housewife will have a stack of goodies on hand to appease the invaders. There's plenty of candy and fruits, and goodness knows how many bushels of candy kisses will have been distributed when the last small celebrant is hauled reluctantly to bed.

A lot of them will have made themselves hoarse yelling "shell out, shell out." Then there's the "trick or treat" group. In Montreal, the kids use the old cry "charity," while in parts of the Maritimes they still say "help the poor."

They'll be seen on all the highways and by-ways in fantastic garb—witches and skeletons, white-sheeted ghosts and more modern apparel like cowboy suits, but all masked and still looking for more loot.

Three Sisters Wed Canadian Seamen

CAPE TOWN (CP)—A South African woman sails for Montreal shortly to catch up with her three daughters, all of whom married Canadian seamen.

During the shipping strike of 1949 Mrs. Ruth Styles collected groceries and made cakes for seamen from Canadian cargo ships whose food supplies were cut off by the strike.

"Later three of the men came to thank me for my help, and they met my three daughters," said Mrs. Styles.

"Mona married Stewart Christie, Peggy married Walter Fortin, and now my third daughter has married Fred Bryce."

Mona and Peggy are living in Montreal with their husbands, who have quit the sea. The Bryces are to live in Toronto. Mrs. Styles, accompanied by her small son, may divide her time between the two cities.

Education First With Wife of N.B. Premier

JUNIPER, N.B., Oct. 30 (CP) — The children of Juniper miss Mrs. Hugh John now that she has moved to Fredericton with her husband, newly-elected premier of New Brunswick.

Aida Flemming came to this community of 1000, 50 miles North of Fredericton, as a bride six years ago and found everyone, especially the children, calling her husband Hugh John.

"I was amazed and pleased," she recalls, "and it was nice that they wanted to call me Mrs. Hugh John."

Mr. Flemming, elected Progressive Conservative premier in September's provincial election, and his wife now live in a high-ceilinged flat in a house behind the Parliament Buildings in Fredericton.

FOUNDED LIBRARY

Moving day was a sad one for Juniper's 200 children. It meant that they will have less of Mrs. Hugh John's attentions at school in her role as trustee and founder of both the 3000-volume library and the Red Cross station.

Above all she was community confidante. .

Mrs. Flemming, a tall woman with green eyes and dark brown hair, is a graduate of Mount Allison University at Sackville, N.B. She was the only girl valedictorian at the university, before and since her time.

She took a degree in education from the University of Toronto and a master's degree at Columbia University, New York.

Her background also stresses education. "I spent my first eight years at Kaslo in the Kootenay District of British Columbia where my father, Charles McAnn, was a lawyer," she recalls. "He died just before an election in which he was running as a Conservative candidate."

Young Aida Boyer McAnn was brought up by an uncle, the late L. W. McAnn of Moncton, N.B.

"My uncle's hobbies were children and education. I inherit such interests from him. He used to take special interest in talented youngsters and would finance and supervise their education."

She is widely read but is no intellectual snob. Her favorite topic of conversation is her husband. Both call each other "The Boss."

"I would like to see equal opportunity for children," said Mrs. Flemming who has two sons. "I want them to have good food, good environment and good health services. I have tried to give the children here the reading habit. We started the library in the school basement about three years ago and we still have 500 books to catalogue."

New Drugs Hold Dangerous Risks

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Glowing reports of new anti-biotics have been followed by a tendency for the public to "gobble up" these drugs—to use them for anything and everything.

With aureomycin, chloramphenicol, and terramycin, we are now able to check many severe infections before they can cause any serious complications.

SIDE REACTIONS

As time goes on, we learn that drugs cannot be given without some risk of side reactions. Recently, cases of severe anemia have been reported from using chloramphenicol. Some of these anemias have even failed to respond to treatment. This does not mean the drug should never be used, but it does mean we must use it only under the direction of a physician, in cases where he thinks it is needed.

With aureomycin and terramycin, many cases of irritation of the rectum have been reported. The person usually complains of severe burning and itching, and the area around the rectum is inflamed. Many times severe diarrhea develops, which can last from days to months before it eventually stops. Usually, the person has to go on a mild diet.

Some doctors think the diarrhea may be caused when antibiotic drugs destroy the normal helpful bacteria that are present in the healthy bowel. This would leave the bowel open to infection from molds and irritating bacteria. Injections of liver and vitamns in the muscle are helpful in treating this condition.

Antibiotics can be life-saving when used under careful supervision. They should not be used indiscriminately to treat every sniffle.

Silver City Sidelights

By LOUIS FRYLING

So many things are happening in the Trail district these days, what with industrial expansion, the passing through of prominent visitors and the activities of many organizations that some newsworthy items need catching up on. Like the time, Mayor George Fletcher, knowing the yearly budget was used up, listened with the patience of a saint to several grievance committees. Continued listening with the stoic calm of an Indian chief, not only through the oratory of one harassed property owner but also for another fifteen minutes after the man's good wife took over the floor.

Like what happened to the car of early vintage donated to the Jaycees during B.C. convention week to be inscribed with their initials and to be driven by the president to the next convention. Past President "Flip" Filipelli says there is no accelerator with the vehicle, which would make it very awkward to drive. President Charlie White is at present studying a proposition to sell the ancient vehicle and purchase a similar antique in North Vancouver, hosts for the next convention.

"The Lord is thy confidence and shall keep thy foot from being taken." Lt.-Gen. Sir Arthur Smith, British war hero, addressing a Trail audience on October 21, noted that it was on the same date, years ago, that he came upon this passage in the Bible at a time when he was asked to make a choice, on the advice of his doctor, to allow his leg to be removed in order to keep on living. Sir Arthur kept his leg. The general's several lectures in Trail, including three lunch-hour and after-four school children gatherings, were well attended. The activities sponsored by the local Christian Business Men's Committee have been quite popular. It is a good thing to see such interest in spiritual affairs.

Hope the little woman sees this. A wallet always makes a very acceptable present. While settling an account in a jewellery store the other day, I queried the value of my pocketbook, wondering if my wife would be willing to do a little better this year than the usual tie and socks. One brother viewed the wallet critically while the other eyed me apprehensively. "Pretty old, isn't it?" queried one. "About $8.50 new," stated the other.

A lot of cabbage had come out of that bit of Morocco and I replaced it tenderly in my pocket, and said: "Sure it looks old. It's been in daily use for sixteen years. I bought it from you for three dollars —and charged it, too."

Dominion Deposits Show Decrease

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP) — Dominion government deposits decreased $3,339,000 to $11,938,000 during the week ended Oct. 29, the Bank of Canada reported today in its weekly financial statement.

Chartered bank deposits increased $46,935,000 to $664,497,000 while notes in circulation dropped $6,394,000 to $1,487,068,000.

Warfield Builds Community Hall

VOLUNTEER LABOR has gone a long way this Fall in building Warfield a community hall. Since the end of August when bulldozing started, this stage has been reached, and in the Spring the community-minded workmen will erect the top floor. Residents will have a first class hall for their work and their $35,000 investment. —Louis Fryling photo.

Suggestions Worth $2035 To Cominco Workers

TRAIL—Employees of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company won $2035 through the company's suggestion system in September, more money than was awarded during any month since the system was started ten years ago. Among the 51 ideas which rated cash awards, there were five in the major category:

At the Kimberley operations, J. R. Dean was awarded $625 for suggesting improvements for the loading and transportation of ore. K. F. Tipper received $240 for changes to liners in discharge chutes and R. J. Crutchley (now at Cominco's Bluebell Mine) won $230 for suggested changes to the pumping system in a section of the concentrator.

At the Trail operations, W. A. Farnsworth gained $225 for an improvement to the slag retreatment furnaces. A. G. Jurick of the tramming department was given $200 for two ideas, most of it resulting from devising a way of decreasing axle wear on motor cases.

In addition to the major awards, 45 other ideas were valued between $5 and $50, with the cash payments going to employees at both the Trail and Kimberley operations of Cominco.

DREW TO VISIT CASTLEGAR

CASTLEGAR — George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party will pay a brief visit to Castlegar on November 6, during a familiarization tour of the West Kootenays. He will speak before the Chamber of Commrece at Nelson.

Due to arrive at Castlegar Airport from the East at 3:15 p.m., the leader of the official opposition at Ottawa will be met by J. S. Roberts, Castlegar, first vice-president of the Trail and District Progressive Conservative Association, and W. Waldie, Robson, executive member of the association.

Gov't May Administer More Regulated Areas

TRAIL—Under the Town Planning Act, the Provincial Department of Municipal Affairs is administering 10 regulated areas, and is considering taking others under its wing.

This was noted by Hon. W. D. Black, Nelson-Creston M.L.A. and Minister of Municipal Affairs, addressing a luncheon in Crown Point Hotel here Thursday held as part of the day-long fifth regional conference of the B. C. Division of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Addressing municipal leaders and interested people from a number of West Kootenay towns, Mr. Black defined regulated areas as unorganized territories, affected by an influx of population, and threatened by disorderly conditions, where control over building, zoning, sanitation and subdivision is exercised by a permit system.

"This is a very real, practical example of community planning, aimed at securing better and more orderly development of settlement in our Province," he said.

Since it started, permits have been issued for building construction valued at $14,000,000, including 1800 residences.

"Developments are taking place which perhaps may not be perfect, but at least they are proceeding in a manner which will result in fewer problems than past developments have given us."

PLANNING LEGISLATION

Although the Provincial Government is extremely active in planning, planning legislation is permissive and not mandatory, he emphasized. No one is compelled to institute a zoning bylaw or official plan, but if a community decides to take planning action, the regional planning division of the Department of Municipal Affairs is ready and able to give assistance.

Already, suggested plans for street systems, provision for recreational demands and suitable land use patterns have been developed and zoning bylaws prepared for 40 municipalities, and technical advice on small details has been given.

Since the Town Planning Act was amended to permit formation of planning boards made up of representatives of adjoining municipalities, two boards have been formed—the Lower Mainland Planning Board and the Capital Region Planning Board.

With area planning boards, as with municipal planning commissions, the Government does not interfere with local autonomy.

LONG-TERM SURVEY

Te Department's regional planning division has also done much toward appraising the Province's resources.

"Planning by the Provincial Government is not confined to my Department," he said, pointing to forethought of the Lands and Public Works Departments.

J. W. Loader, president of the Trail Chamber of Commerce, was luncheon meeting chairman, and others at the head table were Tadanac's Reeve Robertson, R. J. Morice, chairman of the Kinnaird commission; Mayor Joseph Kary of Nelson, who introduced Mr. Black; Ald. G. G. Rennison of Trail, Nick Oglow, chairman of Castlegar Village Commission, and H. S. Elmes, Mayor of Rossland. H. A. Sommers, Castlegar commissioner, thanked the speaker.

Mayor Fletcher Asks 'Phone Rate Hike Be Explored

TRAIL — Mayor E. G. Fletcher, who will travel to Victoria this weekend on civic business, will request the provincial government to "use all possible resources to fully explore the B.C. Telephone Company's application for increased rates."

The mayor was authorized to make the request on behalf of the city at a special meeting of City Council Tuesday afternoon.

Councillors felt that they should not go on record as opposing a rate increase since they did not know the merits of the case. However, they did not want any increase granted unles the 'phone company could prove to the satisfaction of the government that an increase was merited.

The mayor will leave Tuesday for Victoria, where he will attend a meeting of the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities Nov. 1, and a meeting of that group with the provincial cabinet Nov. 2, to discuss several municipal problems.

Ald. G. G. Rennison Tuesday was named acting mayor to act during the mayor's absence.

Goat-Killing Case Puzzles Saanich

VICTORIA, Oct. 30 (CP)—Saanich police today were investigating a strange goat-killing case.

Thieves made off with a registered Saanen goat from the barn of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smart Tuesday night, carried it about 200 yards over a neighbor's fence, and killed it by cutting its throat.

REGINA (CP) — Retail price of a quart of milk has been increased by one cent to 20 cents. The increase is the regular seasonal hoist by order of the Saskatchewan Milk Control Board, and the price will revert to 19 cents next May 1.

J. Provenzano Heads E. Kootenay Liberals

KIMBERLEY — East Kootenay Liberals last night chose J. Provenzano of Cranbrook to head the federal association and George Haddad of Cranbrook as president of the provincial association for the Kimberley-Cranbrook riding.

Following a banquet in the "Oasis" the 47 Liberals from Fernie, Golden, Windermere, Cranbrook, Marysville and Kimberley heard Ken Stewart of Fernie, member of the Liberal Provincial Advisory Committee, urge them to organize for the coming elections. He asked that locals give every consideration to the policies of the Liberal Party platform and choice of leader. An organizer is to visit this area soon after the Columbia election is over.

Retiring President R. Pascuzzo of Cranbrook lauded the excellent work done by J. Byrne, M.P., work that should be invaluable in selling Liberalism. The permitting of trucking in the parks, hard topping of roads in this area, building of two new post offices at Cranbrook and Kimberley, and of new customs buildings at Kingsgate, all are due to his efforts.

A vote of confidence in Mr. Byrne was enthusiastically passed.

Those present were asked to do everything possible to urge voters in the Columbia Riding to support George Keenleyside, retiring president of the East Kootenay Association, who is carrying the Liberal banner in the Columbia Riding by-election.

A resolutions committee consisting of T. King of Golden, Mrs. Miard of Fernie and R. Pascuzzo of Cranbrook presented the following resolutions to the meeting: Legalization of sweepstakes and raffles for charitable purposes; granting to Indians of all privileges of Canadian citizenship; Government support to establish iron ore smelters in the Province; increase of old age pensions to $50 a month, and a closer co-operation between the Departments of Immigration and Colonization and the Department of Labor to ensure jobs for immigrants. All resolutions were approved.

A complete slate of officers was elected as follows:

East Kootenay Liberal Association (Federal), Honorary President, Rt. Hon. L. St. Laurent. Honorary Vice Presidents, Senator J. H. King, James Byrne, M.P. President, J. Provenzano, Cranbrook. Four Vice Presidents, to be elected by their respective Associations of Columbia, Fernie, part of Creston and Kimberley-Cranbrook.

Secretary, Miss. Nancy Miles of Cranbrook; treasurer, E. Dale of Cranbrook.

Cranbrook Riding Associatioon (Provincial):

Honorary Presidents, Rt. Hon. L. St. Laurent, Byron I. Johnson. Honorary Vice Presidents, Senator J. S. King, James Byrne, M. P. President, G. Haddad of Cranbrook. Vice Presidents, Mrs. C. P. Lane of Kimberley, Mrs. L. Caldwell of Cranbrook. Secretary, Mr. Clinkhammer of Cranbrook; treasurer, J. R. Meredith of Cranbrook.

Executive: D. Boone of Kimberley, V. Wowney of Cranbrook, J. J. O'Neil of Kimberley, Mrs. Betty Oliver of Kimberley, J. Provenzano of Cranbrook, W. Jostad of Cranbrook, Mrs. M. Bradley of Cranbrook, E. Dale of Cranbrook, A. Lauzon of Kimberley, R. Reid of Cranbrook, T. Kervin of Marysville, and one other to be appointed from an outside point.

Castlegar Eagles Membership at 150

CASTLEGAR — C. Anderson, chairman of the newly formed Fraternal Order of Eagles for Castlegar, Thursday night said that the Order had reached a membership of one hundred and three. The new organization which has been named the Columbia Valley Aerie hopes to have one hundred and fifty members by November 23 when election of officers will take place as well as initiation ceremonies.

Egypt Moves Closer To Accord With U.K.

CAIRO, Oct. 30 (Reuters)—Egypt today officialy revealed that she is agreeable to self-government for the Sudan by the end of this year as a first step towards the Sudanese deciding their own future within three years.

The plan is embodied in an agreement with Sudanese leaders signed last night and published today.

The move brings Egypt into virtual accord with Britain on the Sudan, a problem which not long ago loomed as a major rift between the two countries.

HOPEFUL PRELUDE

As a prelude to self-determination by the Sudanese the agreement calls for evacuation of both British and Egyptian forces from the 1,000,000-square mile territory and complete "Sudanization" of the administration—the assumption by Sudanese of all posts now held by Britons.

It also lays down that the choice of the Sudanese when it comes to determining their future status shall lie between union with Egypt and compelte independence.

Some Sudanese have wanted a third choice—admission to the British Commonwealth.

Sweepstake Luck Numbs Couple

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30 (AP) — Con Heuther, 43-year-old house painter, and his wife, Eileen, are feeling "sort of numb"" today. They just found out they won $140,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes.

Three months ago in New York, Heuther bought a $3 ticket on Richer in the Cambridgeshire Stakes at Newmarket, England.

Two months ago the Heuthers moved here leaving the ticket with Heuther's brother-in-law, Phil Kaufman, of Merrick, Long Island.

Kaufman telephoned Wednesday with the news that Richer came in and the Heuthers are richer by $140,000 — less taxes.

"I'm still in a fog," said Con. "Maybe I'll open a business. It's all like a fairy tale."

Heuther believes he'll net about $80,000 after taxes.

Canberra Divides Airlines' Business

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 30 (Reuters) — The House of Representatives today ratified an agreement under which the nationalized Trans-Australia Airlines and the privately-owned Australian National Airways will receive an equal share of government business.

Ratification came in the teeth of an unsuccessful labor opposition move to delay operation of the agreement until after a national referendum.

Saar Elections Raise Storm

BONN, Germany, Oct. 30 (AP)—The West German government said today it will refuse to recognize the Saar Parliament to be chosen next month. It doesn't recognize the present Parliament either.

Commenting on the announcement by Saar Premier Johannes Hoffman that new elections will be held in the Saar on Nov. 30, the government Press office said:

"A new Parliament elected according to the present election laws will be looked on by the (West German) federal government in the same way as the present Parliament is regarded: It cannot be considered as legitimately elected."

German leaders have said repeatedly, however, that it would be difficult to revive talks if the Saar holds elections from which pro-German parties, now banned, are excluded.

Fresh Charges Against Nixon

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30 (AP) — Gerald L. K. Smith charged today that a representative of Senator Richard Nixon had tried to make a deal with him to withdraw the Christian Nationalist Party ticket before Tuesday's election.

The Republican vice-presidential candidate's campaign manager denied the charge. The Senator in a speech had termed Smith an advocate of racist theories.

Said Smith, who heads the Christian Nationalists:

"Senator Nixon's attack on me in his nation-wide radio broadcast (Wednesday) revealed him as a complete and conscienceless hypocrite.

"Less than one week ago a representative of the Nixon strategy committee headed by Dana Smith propositioned me for support. They made extravagant and flattering promises provided Senator Jack B. Tenney (of the California Legislature) and I would pull the MacArthur-Tenney presidential ticket out of the national contest.

"For Nixon's agents to proposition me secretly on one hand while attacking me publicly on another only reveals and emphasizes the hyprocrisy of the whole Eisenhower-Nixon outfit."

The Christian Nationalists are running Gen. Douglas MacArthur for president and Tenney for vice-president.

New Location for Armstrong Brothers

KASLO — Complete renovation and remodelling has been carried out by George (Monty) and R. W. (Bob) Armstrong in the new Marshall-Wells hardware store opening here Friday and Saturday.

Nex fixtures, new flooring and a complete redecoration job give a highly modern appearance to the store on the North side of Front St eet.

The Armstrong brothers had operated a hardware store on the South side of the street for the past 18 months, and their move has given them floor space three times the size of their former store.

Half of the former Kootenay Lake Farmers' Institute one-storey building has been leased.

A variety of pleasing colors; meet the eye upon entering the store. Various color tones and natural plywood finishes combine to make an attractive interior. Island stands are of matching tones and behind the major stand are panels of pastel shades and solid colors.

TEL AVIV, Israel, Oct. 30 (Reuters)—An army spokesman has disclosed that prison terms had been imposed on soldiers who recently incited two Israeli Army units to mutiny against extension of the draft period from two years to 30 months. The small but vocal Israeli Communist party has been active in campaigning against the extension of military service, which was approved by Parliament last August.

The American Voters Speak . . .

SAMUEL LUBELL, author and political analyst, gets United States election campaign dope from the people.

A tireless doorbell ringer, Mr. Lubell goes directly to the voters to find out what they're thinking politically, and why they feel the way they do.

Then he charts their voting behavior—by state, county, ward and precinct. He's been doing it for years—in the big cities, in the villages and hamlets, and in the farmlands.

His appraisal of the voting prospects in this year's important national election is based on those unmatched records and on what he's learning in the front-porch talks he's now having.

By SAMUEL LUBELL

When this reporter started out on the grass roots survey of voter feeling which I have been conducting these last four months, it was not with the idea of predicting the outcome of the election.

Rather, my objective was to try to report the campaign in a new kind of way—by talking to people in every walk of life, exploring the issues really agitating the nation's voters and giving them a chance to speak out on those issues.

Naturally, though, my interviews with voters in 16 farm counties and 26 cities across the country have left me with definite impressions on how the election is likely to go. The remaining articles in this series will sum up my more significant findings.

I want to emphasize that I make no pretense of having discovered some magic formula for foretelling how the whole nation will vote on the basis of a few thousand voter interviews. Still, through my talks with farmers, housewives, workers, businessmen and others, I do feel that I have been able to penetrate to the broader election trends which have dominated this election.

No reporter can hope to be entirely free of errors of judgment. But after cross-checking my findings in every possible way, this is my appraisal of the many conflicting election currents:

EISENHOWER WIN

1—Enough persons who voted for President Truman in 1948 have told me they intend to vote Republican this fall so that General Dwight D. Eisenhower should win the election.

2—Governor Adlai E. Stevenson's one hope for victory lies in a possible freak of the electoral college system—by squeaking through with small margins in the big city states with the heaviest electoral votes—New York and Illinois plus either California, Pennsylvania or Michigan.

3—If that happens I would not be surprised if Eisenhower actually got more popular votes through the whole country, even while losing out on the electoral count.

4—Should the pro-Eisenhower trend prove strong enough to crack three or four of the big city states, then his would be a landslide victory.

5—In any case, the pattern of voting which prevailed four years ago will not be peated this November. A Stevenson victory would produce an electoral map closer to that of 1944. An Eisenhower triumph would show an electoral alignment unlike any seen in modern times.

Before going on to say how I arrived at these conclusions, perhaps I should explain briefly my working approach since nothing like what I have tried has ever been undertaken before. Attempts to take the national political pulse usually are directed toward determining what percentage of the electorate is lining up behind the major candidates. That is not what I have been doing.

1948 ELECTION BASIS

The basic frame of reference which has guided my own survey has been the 1948 election results. In writing my book, "The Future of American Politics," I made an exhaustive analysis of the 1948 vote for every single county in the United States, and also ward by ward in all of the more important cities. In this campaign, using this breakdown (along with my analyses of the four Roosevelt elections) as a starting base, I set out to test systematically how the feelings of every major voting segment in the country may have changed over the last four years.

My rule has been to open each interview by asking how a person voted in 1948 and while Roosevelt was running. Only after I knew a person's past voting record did I ask whom he or she favored now. Whenever I ran into someone who was wavering or shifting from the past—from having voted for Dewey in 1948 to Stevenson, or from Truman to Eisenhower—I made special efforts to find out the reasons why. In the main, my judgments are based on my analysis of these shifts from 1948—how numerous they have been and what has caused them.

Possibly as a result of my particular working methods, some of my interpretations differ markedly from those advanced by other observers. For example, I cannot go along with the thesis that the key to the election ever has rested with the so-called "independent" vote. If Eisenhower wins, it will not be because of "independent" voters but through sizable defections of traditional Democratic elements who voted for Truman and Roosevelt every chance they got.

Nor do I believe that the uncertainty which has featured this election stems from an unusually high proportion of "undecided" vot... At no time during the campa... have I found anything like a th... or a fifth of the voters I was t... ing with who were unable to cho... between the candidates, as has b... reported by some polls. During ... past month, of every 100 voter... have interviewed only six or se... were "undecided," and most ... these persons told me for wh... they were leaning.

What makes the election so pu... ling, in my judgment, is a curi... political paradox which has crop... up repeatedly in my own leg wo... That paradox might be summed ... in these terms — nearly eve... where in the country there is ... unmistakable falling off of ... Democratic strength, and yet it ... is questionable whether Eisenho... has actually cracked the Dem... cratic coalition.

As a result, strange as it m... sound, Eisenhower today may ... be on the verge of landslide v... tory, and yet he could also aw... on election morning and find h... self cheated of the Presidency ... having lost several key states ... small margins.

Such an election prospect—w... out parallel in recent American ... litical history—is worth examin... in greater detail tomorrow.

By W.W.W.

Now it can be told! Apparently Don Haley has been taking correspondent lessons or something on his shooting and that accounts for his three goal splurge. Really he made four. The first came while practically pin-pointed on his nose and the fourth while he was sliding into the goal on his back. It seems that Don is taking shooting lessons from a guy who is so good he can shoot ducks with a rifle. Personally we hope Haley isn't paying too much for the lessons. While we haven't seen this pro miss the side of a barn with a handful of pebbles, we have seen him miss the entire house with a shot (and was his skip mad!).

Jim Malacko's defence efforts are reminiscent of Fred Nelson's play here about three years back. Like Fred, Malacko clears well and takes his man out of the play. The fiery little defenceman made many nice blocks the other night against Spokane, as well as getting an unassisted goal and an assist. His declaration of war against Dino Rozzini only came after the Spokane player had been hooking at his face from behind, and a penalty should have been called on the play before it reached the showdown stage.

THINGS YOU CAN'T FORGET

The British Columbia Hockey Association Outstanding Player award to Duke Scodellaro in recognition of his contribution to hockey is most fitting. The Iron Duke was one of the most colorful goal tenders ever to play in the Kootenay. Those who have seen him in action will never forget those Trail power plays when the Duke would move up as far as his own blue line, or if the situation was tense he might go as far as centre ice . . . or those dives of his into scrambles in front, at the side or behind the net to spear the puck and stop the play . . . or those miles and miles of little snow barricades he built on the inside of the goal posts . . . or those whiplike flashes across in front of the net to cover the angles from close-in passing plays . . . or flipping the puck into the rafters in clearing . . . and yet possibly Duke was never happier than when he was playing forward in the Trail Smelter Intermediate League.

JOTTINGS . . . Bill Haldane spent Wednesday in bed with the flu, and yet turned out at the last minute to play . . . Just how interesting the game was with the Flyers can be gleaned from the fact that T. R. Wilson stayed to the end. T. R. is still trying to live down the occasion when he left with about 10 minutes to go and Nelson was down 6-2 to Kerrisdale. That was the night that Roy Allen mounted Pegasus, or whatever it is that one mounts for particular occasions, and dashed hither and yon to score four goals and put the game into overtime. By that time one of his team-mates came to his assistance to score another goal and give Nelson the game . . .

Dick Butler looked like the most promising of the newcomers to Spokane, with Jack Miller a close second. Butler is a smooth worker and is adept at passing a man with the puck in close to the opposing player's feet. Miller is more of the speedy type . . . Grebinsky tactics are too rough for a good defenceman . . .

Fritz and Red Koehle are counting consistently this year despite fairly heavy chores in the checking line when the Leafs are short. It takes a lot of heart to check like they do and then take over the offensive at the tail end of a session . . . Lovett picked up four assists and with Hyssop made the centre ice position look much better . . . Lee Hyssop picked up three goals and an assist and made a dozen more nice setups . . . Boomer didn't get much chance to shine because his counterpart at the other end was kept too busy by the Nelsonites, but he did have to contend several times with Red Tilson, who parked on his doorstep a couple of times and was through with only Boomer to beat.

Pappy Gault Out For Title

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP) — Henry (Pappy) Gault wants a title bout so bad he'd be willing to fight Vic Towee, world's bantamweight title-holder from South Africa, "in the middle of a corn field" if necessary.

Gault, a mail clerk for a Spartanburg, S.C., newspaper, won the North American bantamweight title Monday night in Quebec, scoring a decision over Fernando Gagnon.

Gault is managed by Chris Cline, a waiver at a local restaurant. Cline met Gault two years ago through a mutual friend.

"We are 75 per centsure that we can beat Towee!," Chris Cline said today. "That's why we are going all out for a title bout.' '

QUAKERS WIN 5-4

SASKATOON, Oct. 30 (CP)—The defending champion Saskatoon Quakers tonight climbed back into a tie with Vancouver Canucks for leadership of the Western Hockey League by defeating the Edmonton Flyers 5-4 in a fast, hard-hitting match before 4500 fans. The loss left Edmonton tied for second-place with Victorja Cougars.

Smokies Faze Flyers 7-5

TRAIL — Trail Smoke Eaters defeated Spokane Flyers 7-5 in the first '52-'53 W.I.H.L. game matching the two clubs in the Cominco Arena.

The Trail Smoke Eaters, clad in their new white uniforms Thursday night outplayed Roy McBride's Flyers to the extent of a 2 to 1 lead in the first period.

The American club trying for a comeback after a 10-2 loss in Nelson, could not seem to make their plays click.

The lone scorer for Spokane was Bill Ramsden. The Trail goals were scored by Bursaw and Kromm.

The Flyers opened the second by tying the game on a goal scored by Tilson. This only set off the Smokies fight all the harder and they came back with two more goals within 15 seconds of play. The clubs finished the stanza with a goal apiece ending 5-3.

The Smokies opened the third with the same spark they had shown earlier and stretched their lead by one goal. This did not last for at the quarter-way mark, Spokane crew came roaring back to score three goals.

If it hadn't been for some excellent net minding by MacDonald in the Trail cage Smokies would have lost their vital lead. The Flyers were driving for the tying goal until within one minute to go when Cook slipped through the Spokane lines and drove one home to cinch the game for Trail.

8-3 WIN . . .

Hawks Down N.Y. Rangers

By The Canadian Press

Chicago Black Hawks, in their most dazzling display of scoring power before a home crowd in nine years, last night boosted their first-place lead in the National Hockey League to three points over Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings.

The Hawks scored four goals within the first 10 minutes of their game against the last-place New York Rangers to coast to an 8-3 win, while the Stanley Cup champion Red Wings snapped a three-game losing streak with a 4-1 win over Boston Bruins at Detroit. The Red Wings' victory moved them into a second-place tie with the Canadiens, who with Toronto Maple Leafs were idle last night.

The Hawks scoring outburst was their largest in Chicago since Jan. 28, 1943, when they defeated the Rangers 10-1.

Rookie Pete Conacher and Jimmy McFadden got two goals apiece as Pete Babando, Gerry Couture, Cal Gardner and George Gee connected for one each. The goals by Conacher, 20-year-old son of the former National Hockey League star and ex-Hawk coach Charlie Conacher, were his first in N.H.L. play.

Babando at 26 seconds, McFadden at 6:34 and again at seven minutes even set the Hawks into a 3-0 lead that became 4-0 at 9:23 when Couture connected.

The Rangers broke into the scoring column at 14:19, on Herb Dickenson's goal with Wally Hergesheimer and Ed Kraftcheck getting assists.

Strikes 'n' Spares

Dot Waterer again swept all the honors in the Senior Ladies League Tuesday night as she rolled a 289 single and a top aggregate of 776. She just missed breaking her aggregate record of 777.

Team honors went to the Watson quintette as they chalked up a 1008 single and to the Maloney team who rolled a 2613 aggregate.

Browne quintette holds top league standing with 24 points followed by Morris with 22. Waterer team moved into third place with 19½ points and Watson fourth with 19.

It looked like anything but a bowling league Wednesday night as the Ladies' Variety Club turned up in Hallowe'en costumes. Although they didn't set the alleys on fire with their bowling, there were plenty of cheers over the costumes.

Hazel Leeming of the Rum Dums and Gwen Macrone of the Handicappers led the league with Hazel scoring a single and Gwen a 626 aggregate.

The Handicappers took the team honors with an 844 single and 2512 aggregate, and are on top of the league with 12 points, three points ahead of the Rum Dums, who have nine.

In the Men's Commercial League, Don Iceton of the Eagles Lodge swept all the individual honors with a big 323 single and 838 aggregate to beat his own record of 828 this season. Steve Maco bowled a 694. Eagles took team honors, scoring a 929 single and 2466 aggregate. Lumber Jacks head the league with 23 points, followed by Superiors and Fred Welsh, 22.

Grey Cup Finals To Appear On TV

WINNIPEG, Oct. 30 (CP) — The Grey Cup final, Canada's greatest sports spectacle, will be televised for the first time this year, it was announced today. The football classic will be played Nov. 29 at Varsity Stadium in Toronto.

The announcement was made by Arthur Chipman, President of the Canadian Rugby Union, and confirmed by C.B.C. officials in Toronto.

Details will be given at a press conference tomorrow in Toronto by Harry McBrien, secretary-treasurer of the C.R.U., and Harry E. Foster, who has the broadcast-telecast rights for the game.

The telecast will go out over station CBLT on the C.B.C.'s channel 9, and will be viewed only by persons within a range of about 90 miles. The station reaches Cobourg, Buffalo, N. Y., Brantford, Kitchener, Welland, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Barrie and Orillia in the various directions.

Student Faces Bribery Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP) — A University of Maryland junior—accused of trying unsuccessfully to fix his school's football game with Louisiana State last Saturday—appeared at a fugitive hearing here today, and his lawyer indicated he would fight removal from the District of Columbia.

Proceedings in the hearing were delayed until Nov. 20.

Louis Leonard Glockfield, a chunky 21-year-old who starred in high school football in this area, is charged with trying to bribe a Maryland player to make sure that Maryland did not beat L.S.U. by more than 21 points.

A special law covering the bribing of athletes in Maryland provides that persons convicted under it may be fined from $300 to $5000 and sent to jail from six months to three years.

Although Glockfield lives in Hyattsville, Md., just outside the District of Columbia, he surrendered in Washington last night. This forced authorities in Prince George's County, Md., where the warrant against him was issued, to bring extradition proceedings to get him back into Maryland for prosecution.

Plante to Replace Canadiens' Goalie

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (CP) — Gerry McNeil, sturdy, little goalie for Montreal Canadiens, will undergo an operation tonight or tomorrow for fracture and displacement of the right cheek-bone.

He will be out of action indefinitely. His place will be taken, at least temporarily, by Jacques Plante, touque-topped netminder of Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League.

McNeil was struck by a puck in last night's National Hockey League game at Toronto, won by the Maple Leafs 7-5.

Market Trends

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Jogging along in a rut of pre-election caution trading moved narrowly.
Canadian issues were higher. Canadian Pacific and Distillers Seagram each gained ¼, International Nickel advanced ⅛, and McIntyre slipped ¼. Dome Mines and Hiram Walker were unchanged.

TORONTO (CP) — Base metals led a general upward trend toward the close. Trading was the slowest in months.
Base metals gained more than a point on the exchange's index in the second hour of trading and held roughly the position. The rise continued an advance started Wednesday.

MONTREAL (CP)—Paced by senior metals and miscellaneous industrials, issues showed a stronger tone.
Gains ranged to about 1½ points in slow dealings. Among wide gainers were Placer Development and Trans-Mountain Pipe Line, up 1½ at 40 and 29¼ respectively.

LONDON (Reuters) — Trading was quiet.
A slightly lower trend was seen in industrials although textiles and engineering issues were occasionally harder.
Business in gilt-edged was small. Oils and shippings showed little life and the former tended lower.

Current assets were worth $10,162,649 and total assets $16,252,084. Net working capital was $1,066,151.

NUEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corporation today reported net income of $387,030,986 or $4.32 a common share for the nine months ended Sept. 30 compared with $372,790,913 or $4.14 a share in the like period last year.

Pre-School Agers Learn by Doing At Play School

"Learn-by-Doing" is the method being employed in teaching pre-school age children at St. Saviour's Church Play School.

The Play School, a form of kindergarten, opened this week for 10 small children, aged four and five, who are learning to work and play together in preparation for elementary school. It is an innovation in Nelson educational efforts.

Under the supervision of Miss Trudy Morrison, a graduate of the Anglican Women's Training College in Toronto which teaches the church work and children's care and supervision, the youthful students color, draw, play games, build with blocks, (the school has one of the largest sets of construction blocks you have seen) and paint. With large easles, four and five foot pieces of paper, long paint brushes and poster paints, the children have the opportunity to express themselves in color. There is also the advantage of a children's library and the girls have their own special corner for dolls.

The tots go to St. Saviour's Memorial Hall Tuesday through Friday mornings. Enrollment is continuing, Very Rev. T. L. Leadbeater said Wednesday.

Classes were held last year but were conducted on a different bases. The mothers of the pre-school agers helped the supervisor who instructed the children only part time. Classes are similar to ones held in Victoria for the past four years. Miss Morrison is a former Sunday school teacher at St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral.

Compulsory Course For Drivers Sought

VANCOUVER, Oct. 30 (CP- — The B.C. Automobile Association wants to institute a compulsory training course for all new drivers.

Association officials are certain the number of dangerous drivers would be greatly reduced with proper training

Harry Duker, president, said surveys show that only two per cent of competently trained drivers are ever involved in accidents.

"The B.C.A.A. recommends that any boy or girl up to the age of 18 should have to show a diploma from a recognized driving school before he gets his driver's licence," he said.

WHO SEZ WE'RE TOO YOUNG for Hallowe'en, say young Martin Ramsden and David Stevens, who are brewing their own kind of witching night magic. While their older friends are crying "Treats" from door to door, Martin and David, both six months old, will be celebrating All Hallows Eve at home. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Ramsden and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stevens.—Alice Stevens photo.

All Hallows Eve

Spirits and spooks will prowl tonight,
Wild black cats will howl tonight,
Goblins and gnomes will growl tonight
And witches on brooms will ride.

Beings will come to your door tonight,
You never have seen before tonight,
You'd better have treats in store tonight
Or climb into bed and hide.

It's "Treats or tricks" they'll say tonight,
And practical pranks they'll play tonight,
You'd better be giving away tonight
Or mischief will sure betide.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Stoddart the thieves escaped with $800 in cash stolen from a chest.

Pupils Advised On Traffic Safety

The dangers of walking on streets and in riding bicycles without lights have been explained to High School students.

Chief of Police Robert Harshaw in a talk to students advised them that complaints come in from time to time about sudents neglecing to obey the traffic safety laws.

Chief Harshaw, addressing both the Junior and Senior High schools students, outlined traffic safety rules which include crossing the streets at intersections only, being alert for approaching danger, playing in safe places such as playgrounds. Don't try to hitch rides or dart suddenly out onto the street from behind a parked vehicle and don't ride your bicycle without proper light and reflector at night, students were counselled.

The chief also cautioned students to ride bicycles on the right hand side of the road in single file. He also told students to walk on sidewalks where provided, keep to the left where there are none and walk no more than two abreast.

Everywhere that skating fans gather for hockey, figure skating or "swinging to the band", amateurs and professionals—young and old—there you will hear comment on skating equipment is almost unanimous—"Mine's a C.C.M. Matched Set, too".

Actual check with hockey players in Canada and United States has proven that over 94% use C.C.M.'s.

Boston Bruins won the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world's Professional championship on C.C.M. Matched Sets (all but 2 players). Regina Rangers won the Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian Senior Amateur Championship on C.C.M. Matched Sets (all but 2 players). Winnipeg Rangers won the Memorial Cup, emblematic of the Canadian Junior Amateur Championship all on C.C.M. Matched Sets.

This overwhelming preference for C.C.M.'s is the result of all the care and matching that goes into the production of C.C.M. Matched Sets.

Each set consists of a pair of C.C.M. skates matched by experts for height, length, weight, ice-lay and balance. This perfectly matched pair of C.C.M. skates is then securely riveted, in exactly the correct body-balancing position, to a matched pair of comfortable glove-fitting C.C.M. skating shoes.

In selecting this season's skating equipment at your C.C.M. dealer's for yourself or others, be guided by the experience of the great majority of skaters and choose a C.C.M. Matched Set. And in so doing be sure to find the "winged-tag of identification" which is attached to every genuine C.C.M. "Set".
