Economist Would Up Both Rail, Highway Freight Rates

BCE Research Head Advocates Proper, Adequate Level of Earnings for Both

OTTAWA (CP)—The best way to prevent the railways and competing highway carriers from damaging each other is for both to have higher rates, an economist told the Board of Transport Commissioners Friday.

Dr. H. L. Purdy, director of research for the British Columbia Electric Company, said that "the solution of the uneconomic problem of competing carriers is rates that will support each in financial decency."

Dr. Purdy was testifying for the Canadian Pacific Railway in its application for a new method of determining its revenues, which would give the railways greater freedom in putting up freight and other rates. The application is being opposed by eight provinces, all except Ontario and Quebec.

After a week of railway evidence —chiefly provincial cross-examination of CPR witnesses — the provinces are expected to open Monday their own case in opposition to the CPR proposal.

A provincial counsel, M. A. MacPherson of Saskatchewan, took a sideswipe Friday at the CPR's basic argument that it needs more earnings to bolster its credit so it can adequately finance expansion and modernization over the next few years.

Mr. MacPherson suggested the railways had "aggravated" their credit situation by "preaching despair" and over-stating their case.

This contention was not accepted by Dr. Sidney Miller, a Pittsburgh transportation expert testifying for the CPR who was under cross-examination by the Saskatchewan lawyer.

He said over-statement of the railways' case may have affected the securities market "in some small measure" but basically he believed investors "have become fearful of railway securities because of financial results."

Dr. Purdy, discussing the question of rail-highway competition, urged that Canadian transportation be kept from "falling into the mess" existing in the United States, where the railways were destroying highway competitors.

He advocated a "proper and adequate level of earnings" for both types of carrier. That would involve hoisting the general level of rail and truck rates, he said.

The Manitoba counsel, C. D. Shepard, cross-examining the economist, objected that this would have a varying impact on different sections of the country.

Dr. Purdy said individual rates would have to be looked at closely from that standpoint. He was talking only of the general scale of earnings and stressing the importance to the Canadian economy of having railways healthy.

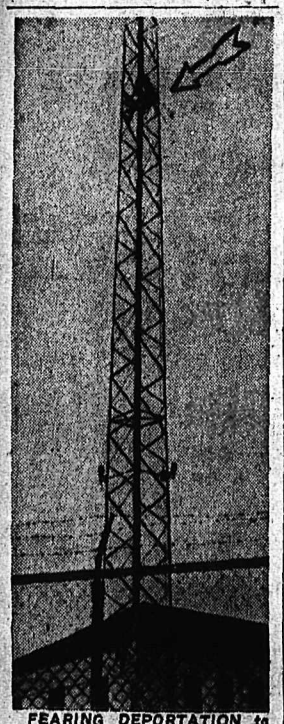
TRUMAN ORDERS LOYALTY PROBE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman today signed an order directing that a loyalty investigation be made of all U.S. citizens employed by the United Nations, or considered for employment.

It was described as designed to prevent UN employment of any American whose loyalty to the U.S. is subject to "reasonable doubt."

Under the procedures called for in the order, the civil service commission will make the first investigation.

If its investigators turn up any derogatory information, a full-scale check will be made by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.



FEARING DEPORTATION to Red-controlled Poland, where he is sure that he will be killed as an anti-Communist, Michael Koziel (arrow) seeks haven 80 feet up the radio tower in the grounds of the immigration service barracks on Terminal Island at San Pedro, Cal. Koziel climbed the pole and then, calmly announced he would not come down until promised that he will not be deported. His father, who had been an active anti-Communist, was killed by the Reds, and he believes that he also will be a victim. Immigration officials said the Pole's pole-sit was just a "publicity stunt."

249 DROWN AS VESSEL SINKS

Only Seven Saved As Hurricane Strikes Ship

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — The Korean passenger ship Chang Yung Ho sank outside of Pusan harbor Friday night and the ministry of transportation said 249 persons were believed drowned.

The ministry said only seven out of 256 persons aboard were saved.

The captain of the vessel was rescued.

Presumably all the persons aboard were Koreans.

The vessel sank almost within sight of Pusan.

The ministry quoted the captain as saying a hurricane-type storm hit the vessel Friday night 10 miles West of Pusan.

The ship was a regular passenger ship travelling between Pusan and Yosu in Southern Korea.

Another Korean vessel radioed it was in distress.

The 573-ton freighter Alchong sent out an SOS. It gave its position as midway between Japan and Korea.

A patrol craft was speeding to the area.

The Alchong carried 33 crew

There was no immediate report on the nature of the trouble.

The sinking of the Chang Yung Ho was the latest in a series of ship troubles across a wide stretch of the Pacific.

Stoochnoff Says Pavlukoff Not A Doukhobor

VANCOUVER (CP) — John P. Stoochnoff, long known for his campaign to improve relations between Doukhobors and other Canadians, said Friday that Walter Pavlukoff, arrested in Toronto on a charge of murder, is not a Doukhobor. Toronto dispatches Thursday had identified Pavlukoff as a Doukhobor.

Labor Bodies Name Nominees

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's two big labor bodies have sent in names of nominees for their representatives on the new part-time Labor Relations Board, but "under protest."

The Trade Union Congress (TLC) and the Federation of Labor (CCL) forwarded their nominations Friday to Victoria.

R. K. Gervin and George Home, secretaries of the TUC and BCFL respectively, both said the names were sent in under protest.

The new board, which will come into effect Monday, was announced by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks recently. It will take over from the present full-time board.

Both Mr. Wicks, and Premier W. A. C. Bennett have stated they have no intention of changing their minds on the new establishment of the board.

New Floating Bond Available Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government announces the floating of a $100,000,000 25-year bond issue to "feel out" the money market for a much-bigger issue planned for 1954.

Finance Minister Abbott Friday night announced the new issue, to be handled by the Bank of Canada, bearing an interest rate of 3¾ per cent and yielding 3.85 per cent. It will be available next week.

A Gift for Ike

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Eisenhower has received a bottle of 152-year-old cognac from the private stock of Napoleon Bonaparte. Max Blouet, manager of the George V hotel in Paris, presented it to the general Friday. Eisenhower stayed at the Paris hotel for about 18 months in 1944-1946.

REUNITED AT OTTAWA, Pte. Joseph Glendon, front-line stretcher-bearer in Korea, is shown with his wife, Florence, and only surviving child, a son, Richard, of fire which gutted his home at Deschenes, Que., trapping his four other children inside. Red tape was slashed by the Canadian Army to fly Glendon home on compassionate leave from the front line to attend the funeral. Pte. Glendon had a 30-day leave with his family before he left for Korea but because his departure was made from Camp Borden, Ont., more than 300 miles from his home, they were not there to see him off. The mother of the victims was visiting a neighbor when fire, believed to have started from an oil stove, broke out.—Central Press Canadian.

SLIDES ON ROADS, RAILS . . .

Weather on Spring Spree—55 Here

Nelson District folk were still questioning the veracity of their thermometers today. They had watched a Spring-in-January thaw and rain Friday wipe out a 10-inch snowfall of two days earlier and the mercury soar up to April levels.

But the weatherman, who couldn't find anything to equal it in the records of the past 10 years, said it was true. The official instruments on the Baker Street level in Nelson recorded a 55-degree maximum temperature. The lowest mark in the 24-hour period was 39. Rainfall measured .46 of an inch.

The Chinook weather cleaned snow from roads, but it wasn't all a blessing. Trains from the East arrived late, and there were reports of slides along the North Shore roads. The Rossland-Cascade section of the Southern Transprovincial Highway was temporarily closed because the road bed was too soft to handle traffic.

Passenger train from the East, due at Nelson at 12:10 p.m. was held at Sirdar and consolidated with No. 11 and the combined train was further delayed by a slide near Blake. The 165 feet long, 35 feet wide slide was loosed by the thaw about 10 miles East of Procter, and the CPR express train, scheduled for arrival at 7:30, came in about 9 p.m.

Trail experienced 50-degree weather.

In Rossland many of the side-streets were turned into trafficty-ing, slush-filled lanes by thawing snow which has piled up over the last two months. Traffic on the roads was reported nearly impossible although the main arteries were in excellent condition.

Hermit Who Lived In Abandoned Tank

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—The curious case of a man who lived like a hermit in an abandoned tank-truck trailer came to light today when his death was reported to police.

He was identified as Armando Leonia, 48. His friend, Frank Clifford, who was bringing him some food, found the body.

Police had to cut the tank with an acetylene torch because the only entrance was a manhole on top, 18 inches wide.

Clifford said Leonia entered his man-made cave, where he had taken up residence about a month ago, by holding his arms over his head and dropping straight through the hole on to a chair.

Inside the tank police found a mattress and a coal scuttle in which Leonia had made small fires to keep warm. The tank once had carried hot tar and it was insulated so that it retained heat.

Carlson Has Dandy Ship, Dandy Crew

FALMOUTH, Eng. (Reuters) — Capt. Kurt Carlsen has sent word from the Flying Enterprise II that he enjoyed the last leg of a globe-circling voyage with a "dandy crew and a dandy ship." It was the first anniversary of the sea saga in which he won world fame.

The 38-year-old skipper radioed an anniversary message to Reuters Friday from his present ship, steaming toward the United States East coast after passing through the Panama Canal at the end of a round-the-world cargo haul.

The original Flying Enterprise lies at the bottom of the Atlantic, 42 miles Southeast of this port on the rocky Southwest coast of England. It sank last Jan. 10 after Carlsen's 13-day battle to save her from the sea's fury.

"Please convey my most profound gratitude to all those who by their outstanding efforts prevented a serious loss of life," radioed the captain. The 40 crew members and nine passengers of the ill-fated vessel were picked up by ships after he ordered them to abandon ship Dec. 29.

GOV'T TO STAND FIRM ON LABOR BOARD POLICY

VICTORIA (CP)—Faced with a storm of criticism over its decision to place the Labor Relations Board on a part-time basis, the provincial cabinet Friday discussed the government's position in the controversy, but gave no hint of backing down.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, who recommended abandoning the existing permanent board, reiterated that he is prepared to stand firm on the new policy.

In his defence of the new policy, slated for institution next week, Premier Bennett said the proposal is "not just designed to save a few thousand dollars, but is part of a reorganization of the labor department.

I'd like to point out to labor this is the first time for many years that the government has had a labor minister and a deputy who are members of trade unions."

BURNS TO DEATH

NORTH SURREY, B.C. (CP) — Sam B. Jones, 55, was burned to death today when his one room shack exploded into flames.

Origin of the fire, which was preceded by an explosion, is unknown.

Revelstoke Man on Queen Honor List

REVELSTOKE, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Josephine McIntosh received word Friday that her eldest son, Group Capt. Russell Donaldson, DFC and Bar, was awarded the CBE in the Queen's New Year's honors list.

Group Capt. Donaldson was born in Revelstoke 41 years ago and attended local schools. He left here in 1936 to join the RAF in England and went through the Battle of Britain as combat officer, receiving his DFC and Bar for meritorious and gallant duty.

He rose through all RAF ranks to his present position and now is station commander at Marham, Norfolk. He married in England several years ago and has two children.

Sees No Reason for Teacher Pay Boost

VICTORIA (CP) — The B.C. School Trustees' Association sees no justifiable grounds for increases in teachers' salaries this year, Richard H. Reeve, vice-president, said Friday.

Mr. Reeve said letters to that effect had been sent to all school boards during the course of normal routine, following association meetings.

"We wrote school boards to tell them of the association's views and urging them to hold the line," said Mr. Reeve.

Cabinet Advises Accident Point System for B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — Institution of an automobile accident point system in British Columbia was recommended to the provincial cabinet today by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of B.C.

Monty Aldous, Chamber president, asked the government to adopt a plan similar to the point plan of the state of Connecticut in the United States.

Under the system, a card is kept for every motorist. He gets demerit marks every time he has a traffic conviction. After a certain number of black marks, he's called in to have his driving habits checked. If he continues to get bad marks, he loses his licence.

Truman Lays $78.9 Billion Budget Before Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman laid a $78,900,000,000 valedictory budget before Congress today.

This estimate of government spending in the fiscal year 1954, beginning July 1, was $4,000,000,000 more than Truman projected for the current fiscal year and $12,500,000,000 more than in fiscal 1952, which ended last June 30.

The increases were almost entirely for national security programs, and pointed toward a $10,000,000,000 deficit 18 months from now.

Truman called for a big increase in foreign aid, mostly for military help to European allies of the U.S.

The budget message Truman sent Congress today, 11 days before he leaves office, is subject to revision by the incoming Eisenhower administration, which has indicated it will be scrutinized closely and revised, probably starting in April.

On the St. Lawrence seaway, Truman said that if the new administration and Congress propose "practical arrangements for sharing the costs and construction of the seaway, I believe the Canadians will, even at this late date, admit us to partnership in the seaway."

Truman made no proposals for increased taxes. But he told a Republican Congress, whose leaders have been talking wistfully of a tax cut, that "in my judgment it would not be wise to plan for a large budget deficit during a period when business activity, civilian employment, and national income are reaching unprecedented heights."

The dominant feature of the budget was military costs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional finance experts shouted "confusion" and "fantastic" today at President Truman's new budget. Some promised to cut it at least $10,000,000,000 and also reduce taxes.

Republicans who will control the federal purse strings in the present Congress indicated they would ignore Truman's proposal for spending $78,600,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1, and wait to see what President-elect Eisenhower has to say on the subject.

They expect Eisenhower to submit a revised, much lower budget sometime after he takes office 11 days hence.

16 Dead, 100 Injured In Three-Days' Rioting

Hundreds Arrested as Students Protest Educational Facilities

By PETER JACKSON

KARACHI (Reuters)—Empty wine bottles and debris from a score of street fights littered this capital of Pakistan Friday night after day-long rioting between howling mobs and police.

The toll for three days of violence was at least 16 dead and more than 100 injured, half of them policemen. Hundreds of persons were arrested.

As burning pools of liquor glimmered in the night, police and troops stood guard with orders to shoot to kill if they spotted arsonists.

Chief Commissioner A. T. Maqvi said at nightfall the city was "completely under control," though crowds had been reported defying the curfew. The commissioner also said there might be renewed trouble today.

The riots started Wednesday when parading students demanded lower fees and better educational facilities at their college here.

The prime minister warned students to beware of elements with "evil designs" trying to exploit their patriotism. But the riots grew in fury, spreading among the masses as Communist agitators capitalized on the disorders.

Shortly after daybreak Friday fires broke out and liquor stores were looted. The rioters, who had been using bricks and clubs as weapons, smashed into gun shops for pistols, rifles and shotguns.

Police and troops spread through the streets.

Shopkeepers hurriedly put up shutters and all markets in the sprawling city closed.

SHOTS RANG OUT

Shots rang out from a dozen street corners as troops, police and rioters exchanged fire. Groups of police, backed by others wielding bayonets, charged barricades hiding crouching rioters.

The city calmed in the afternoon for a time, but then large-scale looting started among the wine-shops. Rioters dumped quantities of liquor on the street and set fire to the puddles.

Broken bottles added to the litter of rocks, uprooted street signs and glass from smashed windows.

CAMELS NEEDED

CALCUTTA (AP) — Chinese Communists' have been compelled to send 2000 camels to Tibet to ease the desperate transport problems of their estimated 20,000 troops there, word reaching Calcutta from Lhasa said Friday.

NO LIVES LOST AS LINER SINKS

British Liner Picks Up 234 Survivors

BEIRA, Mozambique (Reuters)—The British liner Bloemfontein Castle docked Friday night with the 234 survivors of Thursday's sinking of the Dutch liner Klipfontein.

The survivors lined the rails laughing and waving. Not a life was lost—not even that of a puppy belonging to one of the 116 passengers.

The 10,500-ton Klipfontein crunched onto a submerged wreck five miles off the African East coast and sank. The passengers and the 118-man crew lined up on the boat deck, boarded the lifeboats and abandoned ship.

They drifted only about 30 minutes before the Bloemfontein Castle picked them up.

The survivors told their story in the lounge of the Bloemfontein Castle. Miss E. M. Yurak, 24, of New Zealand, said:

"Suddenly there was a scrape and a bump. Then the ship went on a bit before the engines stopped. Nobody panicked.

"After about an hour we were told to get our passports and money and report to our boat stations."

"We still didn't think there was any particular danger, and when we were told to get into the lifeboats some of us thought this was a very dramatic sort of a practice.

"Then all the boats were in the water and we pulled away. When we looked back we could see she was tilted and for the first time we realized what danger we were in.

"Suddenly she put her nose in the water and slid down. We were alone on the sea."

Mrs. Smith Gets Life Sentence

TOKYO (AP)—A United States Army court-martial today convicted Dorothy Krueger Smith, daughter of a general, of murdering her colonel husband. It sentenced her to life in prison.

The attractive 40-year-old woman was convicted of premeditated murder in stabbing Col. Aubrey Smith, 45, with a foot-long hunting knife as he lay asleep Oct. 3 in their bedroom here.

The sentence must be reviewed by two commands in Tokyo and an Army board in Washington.

Mrs. Smith showed no emotion as the verdict was read. Earlier, she had broken down in tears during the closing argument.

The nine-member board, including one woman, took about 65 minutes to reach its decision.

The defence wound up its argument with a plea that the attractive daughter of retired Gen. Walter Krueger of Second World War fame is a "wrecked personality and should not be charged with any criminality."

HOSPITALS FACE CLOSURE AS STOKER STRIKE THREATENS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eight stokers threatened a closure of two Vancouver district hospitals as Winter laid a cold clutch on British Columbia.

The eight men who operate the heating plants in the North Vancouver General Hospital and the Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster moved Friday toward strike action after a breakdown of wage negotiations.

Cliff Kirby, a director of Royal Columbian, said a strike would virtually paralyze the hospital because it would cut off heat and hot water and make sterilization impossible.

A conciliation board recommended no wage increase for the four members of the International union of Operating Engineers (TLC) at the North Vancouver hospital and the engineers applied for a strike vote. The four workers at Royal Columbian said they will apply for a strike vote Jan. 15, unless the board of directors agrees to a new wage talk.

CRITICALLY INJURED

VICTORIA (CP) — A seaman from HMCS Ontario was critically injured Friday in a fall into the government drydock at nearby Esquimalt.

LS. Harvey L. Vincent, 22, of Consort, Alta., is in hospital critically injured in a fall from a ledge of the drydock 60 feet to the concrete paving below.

Wild Ride Leaves Truck Driver Shaken

ORINDA, Calif. (AP) — A broken air compressor sent a huge truck-trailer on a wild 80-mile-an-hour ride Friday.

The desperate driver used his spotlight as a warning to other highway drivers because the break left him without horn as well as brakes.

At a crowded intersection, the traffic light turned green—just in the nick of time.

Finally the big rig halted on an upgrade of a hill—and out climbed driver James Stark, 29, shaken but unscratched.

She's a Friend to Homesick Soldiers

LONDON (CP) — Canadian soldiers visiting England on leave from Germany don't have far to go to find homelike hospitality in London and a Canadian hostess and "mother confessor" who has their interests at heart.

Groups of them flock continually to the British leave centre at Nuffield House just behind St. Martin-in-the-Fields, off Trafalgar Square where Lena McLure of Charlottetown, holds forth. She is employed by the British centre.

Miss McLure, daughter of W. Chester S. McLure, member of Parliament of the P.E.I. constituency of Queens, regards her "boys" as the brigadiers and generals of tomorrow and says "everyone at home can be proud of them."

Her reputation for doing a fine job of looking after Canadian troops is known by all Canadians in the United Kingdom and Germany. They come to talk to her, to read, eat a solid meal and get a bit of homesickness off their chests.

"I just make sons of them," says Miss McLure. "I have my older boys and my babies. They often come in here looking as though butter wouldn't melt in their mouths, but I know them well and I am proud of them for they are well-behaved and always smart in appearance."

CHEESE SHIPMENT TO UP U.K. CHEESE RATION

LONDON (Reuters) — The 5,000,000 pounds of cheese Canada is to ship to Britain under a trade pact announced in Ottawa Friday will help increase the cheese ration here by 50 per cent.

Housewives still queue up for one ounce per person per week.

But a recent food ministry announcement said the ration will be boosted to 1½ ounces Jan. 25. The Canadian cheese helps to make this possible.

The only unrationed cheeses which Britons can buy are the more exotic and expensive types from "soft currency" countries of Europe.

SOME OF THE 27 AUSTRIANS who had been held in Russia since they were taken prisoner by the Red army during World War II, are seen arriving in Vienna, where they were greeted by kin of other Austrian prisoners still in Russian hands and interrogated as to their fate. The returned Austrians reported they were forced to do hard work for a monthly "pocket money" of 150 rubles, but said their food in Russia was adequate.

And in This Corner . . .

NEW YORK (AP)—The friendly little man who each day for more than a decade had a lunch of milk and blueberry muffins at a mid-town restaurant won't be back. But the waitresses will remember him.

"He was a wonderful person," said Elizabeth Kennedy, hostess at the restaurant. "So jolly and pleasant to everybody. He liked the people in here. They took good care of him. He said it was so homelike in here. He was so humble, you'd think he didn't have a dime."

The customer was Stuart Hirschman, a multi-millionaire real estate man, who died last Dec. 16 with an estate estimated at $6,000,000.

His will left $4,000,000 to charity, and cash gifts to 66 relatives, friends and employees—including $500 each to nine employees of the restaurant.

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia has claimed another first. Moscow radio said Friday a Russian named Lubimov was the first to invent a movie camera.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—He caught Sally in the act.

John P. Turk has been driven to near-desperation in recent weeks by a mysterious caller. His doorbell would ring, Turk would answer, but there never was anyone there except Sally, a calico cat of dubious ancestry.

Last night, Turk's doorbell rang. No one was there. He looked up and down the street. When he came back to the porch his bell was ringing, and there was Sally, her paw on the buzzer. It was no trick at all for her. She stood on the porch bench to reach the buzzer.

Turk says all is forgiven, and that Sally can come back any time —but he won't answer the bell.

1¼ MILLION PROJECT

Kootenay Forest Products Ltd., succeeded the Glacier Lumber Company Ltd., on July 1, 1952. Numerous plant extensions and improvements were made during the year including the construction of a new modern, pushbutton sawmill, an automatic lumber stacker, Moore dry kilns, and a new finishing plant. A total of $1,250,000 was expended on these improvements.

Production has increased considerably with the new plant until the monthly shipments have reached nearly three million feet of kiln-dried finished lumber. The newly elected president, Mr. Hickey, forecast a production of 35 million fbm during 1953. Several further improvements will be effected shortly in the sawmill and planing mill to ensure this production.

One of the directors, R. V. Stuart of Vancouver, for many years connected with the B. C. Forest Service both at Nelson and at the coast, travelled from Vancouver to attend the meeting.

The active management of the Kootenay Forest Products Ltd., during the coming year will be under W. J. Shukin as general manager, E. L. Vance, sales manager, L. Lefeaux, office manager, Norris A. Hardy, plant manager, Richard Johnson, woods manager and R. B. Walkley, BCRF, forester.

Mr. Hardy, a newcomer to the company, came from a similar position with the Clearwater Lumber Co., Clearwater, B. C., North of Kamloops. Mr. Walkley was formerly a Forester with the firm of C. D. Schultz and Co., Ltd., of Vancouver, and holds the degree of Bachelor of Science in Forestry.

The Nelson ferry, crossing the West Arm carried 2589 cars and 19,092 passengers across the Arm at that point during last month, both increased over 1951, December.

Russ Scientists Bar Teachings Of Voznesenky

MOSCOW (AP) —Nearly 1000 Soviet economists and scientists gathered here Thursday to admit publicly their errors in once praising the wartime economic views of former Politburo member Nikolai A. Voznesensky.

The tone of the discussion was set by K. V. Ostrovityanov, a leading Russian economist and head of the economic institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Ostrovityanov said he was "subjecting to criticism my own mistakes and the mistakes of other economists who propagandized and praised the faulty, anti-Marxist booklet by Voznewsensky on the military economy of the U.S.S.R. in the period of Fatherland War Second World War."

JUST DISAPPEARS

Vosnesensky was purged in 1948 from the all-powerful Soviet Politburo and from his posts as chief of the Soviet state planning commission and deputy prime minister.

He was 45 at the time, the youngest man ever to sit in the Politburo.

Voznesensky simply has disappeared in a purge which has been attributed to Georgi M. Malenkov, often named as possible successor to Stalin.

Castlegar Meeting Tonight . . .

Steel Ferry Guards Studied; Added Chains, Hooks Asked

CASTLEGAR — As a result of the Christmas Day drowning tragedies at the Castlegar ferry, residents of this community are asking that greater safeguards be installed on the ferry.

The matter was discussed Friday morning when H. T. Miard, divisional engineer for the department of public works, met representatives of the board of commissioners, the Castlegar and district Chamber of Commerce and the Castlegar school board, here.

Further discussion of the issue is scheduled for tonight at a public meeting in the corontion hall, to which residents of surrounding communities are also invited. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7.30 p.m.

At Friday's conference, the Castlegar delegation recommended to Mr. Miard that two extra chains and reinforced hooks be installed at both ends of the ferry immediately. The public works official promised to forward this recommendation to his department's headquarters in Victoria at once. In the meantime, he said, the installation of hydraulically controlled steel guards or other more solid protection is being investigated.

It was pointed out that the inquest concerning a previous accident at the ferry, in which two people were drowned some 15 years ago, had brought forth a recommendation that since the safety chains on the ferry are not adequate enough to stop a vehicle out of control, a rigidly held solid protection must be installed.

The delegation expressed gratitude to Mr. Miard for the prompt action with which he has responded to requests from previous delegations, regarding ferry traffic.

Those attending the meeting were Victor Jenks, chairman of the village commission; R. T. Waldie, representing the Castlegar School Board; and Mike Dalton, C. A. Anderson and J. R. Elliott representing the Chamber of Commerce.

Kaslo-Born Member To Speak at Truck Loggers Meet

VANCOUVER — The man who came close to being the first native son of British Columbia to assume the national leadership of a political party will be among the men from Government and industry who will speak at the tenth annual convention of the Truck Loggers' Association, which takes place in Vancouver Jan. 14, 15 and 16.

Howard Green, Q.C., M.P., Vancouver barrister and Progressive Conservative Member for Vancouver-Quadra, and one-time competitor with Premier John Bracken of Manitoba for the leadership of his party, is slated as the speaker at the luncheon which opens the three-day convention.

The convention, which annually draws more than 1000 logging and sawmill executives from all parts of the Province, is the largest industrial gathering of its kind in Western Canada.

Kaslo-born Mr. Green has participated in Federal politics since 1935, when he was first elected to represent Vancouver-South, and since then has established a reputation for his determination and ability. He is a past president of the Provincial Progressive Conservative Association, and was reconstruction expert in the "shadow Cabinet" of John Bracken in 1943.

Opportunity Given to Talented Youngsters by Lauritz Melchior

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tenor Lauritz Melchior is embarking on a concert tour designed to supply an audience for a half-dozen aspiring young singers.

Melchior will motor to 100 United States towns.

Over a stein of beer at his mountain top home, Melchior explained the reasoning behind the tour:

"For one thing, I think television has brought a compelte change in the concert field. I believe the time has passed when one artist accompanied by one piano can stand on a bar stage and entertain an audience for two hours. People expect more than that.

"But the bigger reason is that I feel it is time that someone did something to find an audience for the many fine young voices we have in this country. I think it is tragic that there is virtually no opportunity for a new artist to be heard.

M. NY OPPORTUNITIES

"What opportunity is there? The Metropolitan has a season of 20 weeks. A young singer would make about $125 a week there. There are a few other opera companies. Some of them charge a young singer $5000 for the privilege of singing a leading role! A newcomer knows he stands no chance for success unless he becomes a crooner."

The singer added Europeans make more provisions for young talent.

"Take my native Denmark," he remarked. "It has just over 4,000,000 people, but it has a royal opera house plus ample time for serious music on the radio and TV. Each town has its won opera.

Promising singers are rewarded by the state. I was paid a full opera salary for a year while I was studying and changing from baritone to tenor."

Melchior favors state assistance for young artists and culture in general. "The program could be paid for tax stamps on all TV and radio sets," he suggested.

LAKE DROP CONTINUES

Cominco is continuing to draw on its water storage in Kootenay Lake. A drop of about a quarter of an inch indicated Friday that power generation for the Trail plants is calling for more water than natural flow and precipitation can supply.

The level was 3.40 feet above zero. Water storage in acre feet: a year ago, 570,310; Thursday, 539,670; Friday, 536,976. Water storage has dropped by 2694 acre feet since Thursday.

Colombium is the metal that when alloyed with steel, gives a steel the heat resistance necessary in jet engine parts.

The Weather

Synopsis: Friday saw rapid changes in the weather over B.C. Cold polar air has rushed rapidly over most portions of the province and by early evening had pushed into the Kootenays. On the North coast a disturbance developed rapidly on the polar front and will move down the coast bringing more strong winds and snow to the coast and some parts of the Interior. With the cold air now over the province it seems very unlikely that Pacific air will return to the province for the next few days. As a result it is expected that temperatures will remain quite cold in all sections Saturday and Sunday.

Arbitrators Put $17,000 Value on School Site

A $17,000 valuation has been placed on the Balding property, site chosen for the proposed high school for Nelson District.

A three-man board of arbitration, set up to determine a fair value for the Upper Fairview site outside the city's boundaries, announced its decision Friday. The decision was earlier reported by the Board of Trustees of School District No. 7 and William J. Balding, owner.

The evaluation was arrived at from consideration of expert advise and arguments placed before the board in a hearing in December.

The $17,000 figure was agreed upon by two members of the board, Chairman C. B. Garland, School Board appointee, and H. R. Burden, appointee of the Superintendent of Education. A figure submitted by E. C. Hunt, the owner's appointee, totalled $19,005, plus $1150 for "compulsory taking" or expropriation of the land.

Mr. Hunt, in arriving at this figure, stated "the property was optioned by the city for a hospital site in 1949 for $28,000. In the Spring of this year, William Hampshire offered $25,000 for the property. It has been his (Mr. Balding's) home for many years and is very conveniently located. It would be very hard for him to locate a place so suitable and convenient to the city."

Mr. Garland and Mr. Burden also agreed that each party to the arbitration proceedings shall pay its and their own costs of Counsel appearing for and witnesses called by them upon the arbitration proceedings and that each party shall pay one-half of the fees of the members of the Board of Arbitration.

A study of the legal aspects of the possibility of the School District meetings these costs in full is likely.

The Board of Arbitration valuation is $500 less than an offer made to the Baldings by the School Board in the initial stages of negotiations.

Nelson Group Demands Action . . .

Victoria, Ottawa Apathy in Kootenay Bombings Charged

Nelson's Junior Chamber of Commerce Friday "accused" the Provincial and Federal Governments of an apathetic view toward bombings in the Kootenay. In a wire to W. H. Herridge, MP and W. D. Black, MLA, Nelson-Creston, the Jaycees charged:

"The Nelson Jaycees accuse the Federal and Provincial Governments of apathy in regard to recent bombings in this area. Jaycees urge immediate action to quell further bombings and immediate action to press for arrests and convictions."

Jaycee President, Jack Morgan, introduced the "new project".

"I don't think there is a place in the world where a few people can tie up a national railway to the extent where there has to be a curfew on traffic."

Mr. Morgan charged that the Nelson "bank" (electrical department) is being "harrassed" by these attempts to blow up the pole lines. Mr. Morgan said the Doukhobor Consultative Committee had likely submitted a "good report" but that no action was being taken on it. He urged members to look into the situation and to "find out why nothing is being done."

"Once in a while," Mr. Morgan continued," they catch someone, place him in jail and because he says he will be good, they release him."

Is the RCMP being instructed to "lay off" investigations and arrests because a special committee is working on a solution? This query was raised by Roy Mann whose motion to wire Federal and Provincial Governments was unanimously accepted at a later stage in discussions.

Another member declared the power line dynamitings in the Blewett area have revealed an apathetic attitude on behalf of some of the nearby residents. "People who lived practically across the road failed to report the dynamitings" at the time they occurred.

A special committee, headed by John Dalgas will study the situation further and report periodically to the Jaycees. The committee is comprised of, Charles McGuire, D. Coates, Alan Ramsden, George Kaiway and Adam Doyle.

No Close Shaves—Just Tank Blown To Bits, Says Nakusp Korean Vet

An enemy shell struck the gas tank of the armored vehicle, ripping it into bits and pieces.

"I don't even remember what I did. I know I didn't stay in that spot very long."

Pte. McQuair hails from Nakusp. A tank driver with the armored Royal Canadian Lord Strathcona Horse Regiment, he joined the army at Vancouver. Pte. McQuair is currently on 70-day leave.

Five man a tank, he explained, and although each has his own duty to perform, each man is capable of handling any of the others' jobs. Tankmen's primary job is backing the infantry, which means they are recipients of all "cover fire" dished out by the enemy, even though they are a short distance behind the front.

NO SLEEP

"Sometimes we work five or six days, just lying and waiting, without any real sleep," he said.

He explained the rotation system employed on the fighting front: three months battle and one month out. The "out" month, he said, is generally spent in what is termed a rest camp, about a mile from the front.

Some days a tank has only a couple of shells allotted to it to lob at the enemy. "The enemy seems to have ammunition rationed to them too," he said, "sometimes a month goes by without a murmur." But there are times when ceaseless fire rips through the lines. Times like these fighting tanks are issued all the ammunition they need.

KOREA HOLDS NO LURE

Pte. McQuair was glad to get away from Korea. He had little praise for Korea's overcrowded cities and towns. Seoul, he said, was "awful." Overcrowded, dirty in places and "not at all like our Canadian cities." Houses are mostly thatched, he said. "In some ways, Koreans are clean." Their daily diet is fish and rice, similar to Chinese and Japanese fare.

MAILS SLOW

He had another complaint—that of the mail service on the front. Fighting men are anxious for word from their homes, but the mail service is "slow."

Pte. McQuair has lived in Nakusp most of his life. His mother and father, two brothers and two sisters are at Nakusp where he is spending most of his leave.

After the holiday, he will return to Vancouver and likely to Calgary where he will serve the balance of his army time.

$2000 STOLEN FROM ROSSLAND BEER PARLOR

ROSSLAND — RCMP are investigating a robbery at the Allan Hotel on Columbia Avenue, when thieves made off with $2000 from a beer parlor till.

The money was taken during the regular dinner hour shut down between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. Thursday. A window leading from the rear of the hotel parlor was smashed.

Police investigation showed the thief had escaped through the 16-inch by 20-inch window on the left side of the beer parlor into a two-foot wide space between the hotel and the Butcheteria.

Owners of the hotel are Mike Molina and Rinaldo Bielli. Mr. Molina who manages the hotel beer parlor, said he heard nothing and was not aware of the robbery until he returned to work soon after 7:30 p.m. and found the cash drawer lock broken and the money gone. Police were called immediately and a dragnet was thrown out to locate the thief.

Police said the job of breaking open the cash drawer was "easy" and the robber could do the job without making undue noise.

Mr. Molina explained that normally such large sums of money are not kept on hand at the beer parlor, but on pay days, such sums are kept for the convenience of workers who wish to cash their checks.

Trail Union Dislikes Part-Time Board

TRAIL—The membership of Local 480, Mine-Mill was highly critical of the proposed part time provincial Labor Relations Board when it met in Trail Thursday night.

The union local incorporated this stand in a unanimous resolution to Labor Minister Lyle Wicks. The Trail Union takes the position that only the workers themselves should decide who is to represent them and claims the present act gives the government the right to define an appropriate bargaining unit.

The Trail local has taken the stand that the right of the workers to determine who will represent them has been abrogated and the amendment to the ICA act restoring this right is long over-due.

The special meeting approved the principle of division of work in the event of large lay-offs in the plants of the C. M. & S. Company.

The meeting pointed out that this policy has been previously endorsed by Local 561, Kimberley, and Local 901, Nelson.

Levey Again Trail Red Cross Head; Raise $9149; Juniors Aid Crippled

TRAIL—In making his annual report at the Trail Red Cross meeting, President Leo Levey was high in his praise for the fine work being done by the various committees, but noted with regret that the branch had fallen slightly short of its $10,000 quota, the total sum contributed being $9149.50.

More attention should be given the effective Junior Red Cross group by the seniors.

Mr. Levey, referring to the Disaster Services Committee, which ordinarily should be a dormant one, said that there always seems to be some incident to create work and keep the members of the Committee active. Relationship of this Committee with civil defence has been further established.

Mr. Levey, who was returned to serve another year as president, was chosen to represent the branch at the Provincial Council meeting to be held in Vancouver in February.

Two special guests from Vancouver, executives of the Red Cross, addressed the meeting. Lt.-Col. G. P. Stirret, president of the B. C. Division, dealt with Red Cross across Canada, and pointed out that no two branches operated alike, but placed emphasis on different things. Lt.-Col. C. A. Scott, Commissioner, went into the international scope of the Red Cross, saying that no other organization was able so successfully to get people of opposite ideologies to talk peacefully at a common table. He referred to the 18th International Red Cross conference held in Toronto last Summer for the first time in Canada, and the second time in America. Seventy-one countries were represented.

The Junior Red Cross is beginning to play an important part in this district. This was brought out in the various reports given at the annual meeting of the Trail Red Cross held Thursday evening in the Council chambers. Under sponsorship of classroom teachers, schools of Trail contributed the sum of $615 for the cost of branch supplies and to help crippled children. Funds were raised through fish ponds, auction sales, teas, candy sales and penny collections.

Besides raising funds, the school groups participated in cleanup campaigns, making health and safety posters, sunshine gifts for sick children and hospital tray favors. Scrap books of the district for foreign countries were also made. The Junior group would like the Senior organization to suggest projects to be undertaken in the schools. President Leo Levey said that the success of the Junior work was a high tribute to the principal and methods of the classroom teachers.

New House Features Secrets of Trade

Home builders of America have put their heads together, traded construction secrets they usually have kept to themselves, and come up with a composite $15,000 house that should please just about everybody.

Beating the next fellow "to the draw" in new construction techniques was scrapped in favor of a joint co-operative industrial effort to promote better housing at a conference of the nation's home builders several months ago in the West and Southwest.

At "trade secrets" sessions, they decided to drop traditional barriers, exchange ideas, and help one another to bring their housing up to higher standards. On the basis of confidential discussions they believe they have it—the house everybody wants.

What is it? It's a three-bedroom affair, with 1½ baths, a huge fireplace, and a flexible, open-floor plan that makes it possible to rearrange the room sizes according to the immediate needs for space.

Though no single feature in the house is new, it includes what probably is the greatest number of advanced ideas ever introduced into a single house, according to Life magazine, which featured the model $15,000 home.

The design is not the "home of tomorrow", but is the "home of today" tailored to the immediate needs of the average family. Because it is engineered for efficient production methods, it is possible not only to make the house larger when desired, but to give more storage room, better outdoor living areas, and an attractive exterior without pushing the cost higher than the average family can afford.

Almost all the parts are tailored to fit a uniform unit of measure, so that windows, doors and walls may be pre-cut and slipped into place quickly. Roof trusses are assembled on the site, quickly hoisted into place, and the house finished in eight weeks or less.

The house will be displayed in scale-model form at the annual meeting of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago this month.

No Downpayment . . .

Homes for Sale at $48 Per Month

Would you like to own a home without having to make a down payment, by paying less-than-rent monthly payments, at a total purchase price of $7950?

There's a catch, of course: The houses are located in Spokane, not in this bailliwick.

It not only sounds good, but it's true. An American builder offers these "No Money Down" homes in a half-page advertisement of an American newspaper.

The two-bedroom homes feature full basements, curbs and sidewalks to the doors, hot air furnaces, insulated walls and ceilings, built-in kitchens, hardwood floors throughout, composition roof, extended eaves and even black topsoil for a greener, softer lawn and garden.

The modern bungalows with front and rear entrances feature the popular picture windows in living rooms. Another kitchen feature is inlaid linoleum and a good quality washable paint graces walls of kitchen and bathroom.

The balance of the rooms are decked with a soft velvety-type flat paint.

All this for $48 a month.

Infringement Charged By Radio-TV Firm

OTTAWA (CP)—Rediffusion Incorporated of Montreal, a company which delivers radio and television programs by special wires, has asked the Exchequer Court to reject an action initiated against it by Canadian Admiral Corporation of Toronto.

Admiral Corporation, manufacturer, of radio and TV sets, initiated the case in October, filing a statement of claim in Exchequer Court. The statement said Admiral's copyright on telecasting of Montreal Alouettes' football games had been infringed by rediffusion.

Admiral also claimed newspaper advertisements sponsored by Rediffusion contravened the Unfair Competition Act.

In a statement of defence, Rediffusion said it had not infringed Admiral's rights by carrying the games. It asked that the case be rejected.

No date has been set for hearing the case.

The action by Admiral is regarded as the first step in a battle by the radio and TV industry against Rediffusion and its service. The industry regards the service as a threat to its business.

The service is provided in some sections of Montreal by Rediffusion, which rents radio and TV sets and supplies programs by special wires to subscribers for a weekly fee.

Result of the test case is expected to determine whether Rediffusion may continue to pick up radio and television programs and distribute them by wire without authority of the program originators.

At present Rediffusion provides subscribers in two Montreal districts with television programs on two channels operating about 3 1/3 hours a day. Channel One carries programs arranged by Rediffusion; Channel Two carries CBC telecasts.

Subscribers also have a choice of radio programs on six channels and additionally a "Muzak" channel, supplying background music 24 hours a day.

This service is provided for a down payment of $25 and a weekly rental charge of $5.60.

For radio service exclusively, Rediffusion charges a down payment of $5 and a weekly rental of 75 cents.

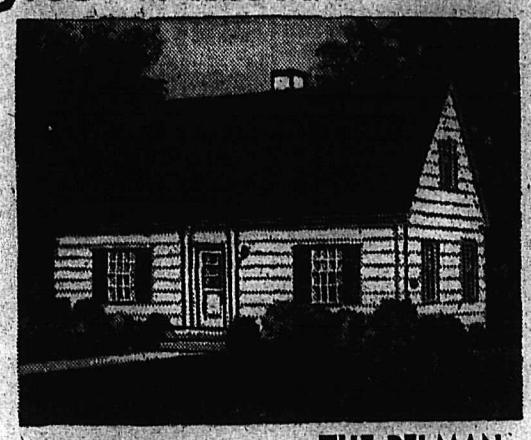
The television equipment rented to subscribers is manufactured in Britain where Rediffusion originated more than 20 years ago.

In its statement of claim, Admiral said that through agreements with the Montreal football club and the CBC it had obtained exclusive right to telecast Alouettes' games. The agreements included all rights to distribute the telecasts by "wire service" or by "so-called Rediffusion."

In its statement, Rediffusion said it "denies the validity of the various agreements."

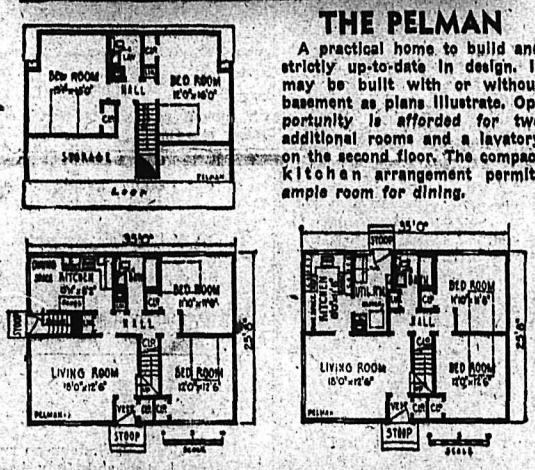
HERE is just one of the innumerable ways in which B.C. Douglas fir plywood may be used to lend distinction to a living room interior. In this distinguished treatment, various sized oblongs of plywood have been applied in a formal pattern to the standard plywood wall panels. All have been painted in one solid color, using a light finish, and the cool simplicity thus achieved is effectively contrasted with the tones of the brick fireplace and the cheerful upholstery of the built-in plywood sofa. Large, light, easily handled fir plywood panels add greatly to the flexibility of interior treatment and give the architect and home owner a much wider range of expression, whether conforming to conventional taste or exploring the farthest reaches of modern home design. With plywood, too, many types of built-in fixtures, such as this typical sofa-table-cupboard combination, can be effectively incorporated in the general plan with great economy of floor space and added comfort and convenience for the householder.

The Modern Home



THE PELMAN

A practical home to build and strictly up-to-date in design. It may be built with or without basement as plans illustrate. Opportunity is afforded for two additional rooms and a lavatory on the second floor. The compact kitchen arrangement permits ample room for dining.



These plans are published for the interest and information value only. The Daily News cannot supply detailed blueprints or specifications. Those contemplating building homes should consult a local architect, designer or builder.

A HOBBYIST NEEDS A WORKBENCH

Open season for hobbyists finds many suppressed inventors and displaced cabinet makers handicapped for handiwork because there is no proper place to work.

Properly built with heavy legs and a thick birch or maple top, a home workbench can take a lot of hard usage in the building of garden furniture, repairs, or whatever it was the workbench was built for in the first place.

A rough workbench can be built with legs of two-by-fours, a framework of double one-by-fours, and a double top of planks of about one and three-eighth-inch stock. The first layer of planks is laid lengthwise, the second layer crosswise. Nailheads, naturally, are countersunk.

Fuel Not Cause Of Wall Smudges

The smudge on ceilings, walls, and especially around warm air vents and radiators, is not the result of the buel burned in the heating system.

It develops for the reason that warm air is capable of holding more moisture than cold air. Moist air carries minute particles of house dirt. When this comes in contact with the cold wall surface, particularly at the heating source, some of the dirt content is deposited. In time this accumulates to form perceptible smudge.

The Antarctic is about 35 degrees colder than the Arctic region around the North Pole.

No Hospital Care For Chronically Ill

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 1000 persons are being denied hospital care here because of an acute shortage of facilities to handle the chronically ill, a Community Chest and Council committee reported Friday.

Committee spokesmen will meet with City Council next week to press for construction of a 500-bed hospital for chronic care.

B.C. Can Expect Reverse Weather

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia braced itself Friday night for another thrust of Winter, after battling all day against a weird assortment of blows.

A new mass of polar air will send temperatures plunging 40 degrees in most regions of the province. Earlier, heavy snowfalls followed by rising temperatures, rain and strong winds created havoc in many areas.

Worst spot was the Fraser Canyon where tons of snow cascaded down the mountainsides blocking rail and road traffic. CPR and CNR main lines on opposite sides of the river were cleared at noon. Passenger trains were at least 24 hours behind schedule.

The biggest slide on the CPR main line occurred at Boothroyd, about 140 miles East of here, where four to five feet of snow covered the tracks.

At Edmonton at least 50 Westbound CNR passengers took advantage of a company offer to continue on to Vancouver by air. The Tacoma Rocket hockey club was among those using the airlift.

Road traffic in the canyon has been hamstrung for two days. Three buses were stranded at the isolated little community of Boston Bar which has been without supplies of fresh food since Tuesday. The one hotel was jammed.

Bulldozers and giant rotary snowplows were pressed into service on both the canyon road and the Hope-Princeton Highway in an attempt to get traffic moving again.

Telephone and power poles on Vancouver Island were bowled over by sleet-laden wind gusts. Flooding occurred at some points when rain fell on top of 15 inches of snow.

In Washington and Oregon, torrential rains and winds up to 70 miles an hour were responsible for widespread disruption of transportation and communication facilities. The Columbia rose 1.1 feet as snow-melted water swelled tributary streams.

B.C. Totem Pole On Alta. Street

CLARESHOLM, Alta. (CP)—A Pacific coast Indian totem pole frowns on the main street of this little prairie town 75 miles south of Calgary.

John J. Bell, a hotel owner, wanted a totem pole so he got one at the Capilano reserve near Vancouver.

The 30-foot pole weighs 4100 pounds. It cost Mr. Bell $300 and $1.61 a hundredweight for cartage from Vancouver. In addition he paid $40 to have the pole taken to Vancouver from the reserve.

Placed on a concrete base, the pole was erected on the main street of Claresholm on a piece of town property adjacent to the railway tracks.

Bathtubs Should Be Comfortable

Are you bathtub conscious?

You will be if designer Freda Diamond has her way.

Miss Diamond, who's been making a reputation for 10 years as the designer of home-furnishings items from doorknobs to draperies, now has turned her attention toward protecting the bathtub.

She's afraid this rarely mentioned but much used plumbing necessity is becoming extinct.

Miss Diamond, who describes the bathtub as the "sole remaining vestige for individual relaxation and privacy in our nerve-wracking society", thinks the bathtub is becoming obsolete because bathtub manufacturers haven't done any "functional thinking" on the subject.

"You have all types of new, cute, super-duper tubs in assorted colors that fit a small space, but you can't stretch out and relax. You have to double up," the designer explained.

LITTLE CHANGE

And what about fat people, or tall people, she asked.

Miss Diamond, by the way, is brunete, slender, and 5 feet 9 inches tall.

The bathtub manufacturers, she continued, are making little effort to accommodate the structural changes of Americans — who are getting bigger and, taller according to statistics — to the shape of bathtubs.

Miss Diamond maintains that furniture or clothing manufacturers who ignore size and weight the way the bathtub makers do soon would be out of business.

There's no reason, she maintains, why a bathroom can't be as ingenious and as versatile as a kitchen, especially since many bathtub manufacturers also make kitchen equipment.

Miss Diamond, who is a home furnishings and design consultant for a list of companies that read like a page from Dun & Bradstreet, has won museum recognition for some of her designs in glassware, lamps, furniture, and such items as canisters and wall brackets. She thinks the key to good design is to make an object suitable for more comfortable and gracious living.

New Safety Belt For Small Fry

A safety belt has been designed for babies on the same principles as a steeple jack's safety belt. The manufacturer says this new belt has it all over the old-fashioned leather dog-type harness.

The new baby safety belt is made of one piece of soft webbing which does not chafe. Present belts usually are made of several rivetted leather, and hold the baby by the shoulders and armpits, waists, chest and back. This new belt has only one strap which fits around the baby's waist. It is controlled by one friction type buckle, and no metal touches the baby.

This permits the baby to get plenty of exercise without any danger that he will fall from his crib or carriage. With this new safety belt, a baby is able to lie down, move from side to side, roll over.

Our Father's Business

Many people seem to have the idea that religion and reason are poles apart. Sometimes they are, but always to the loss of both!

I think that we should emphasize, more and more, the place of reason in religion. There are those who shun the church because they are of the opinion that the church is unreasonable. There are, no doubt, vast numbers in the world today who are convinced that the principles of the Christian faith are unreasonable. Therefore they have turned to Communism, Fascism, Naziism, or some other form of paganism.

But the Christian faith is based on the highest reason possible; that is, the mind of God. Again and again in the pages of Holy Writ we find this truth substantiated. "Come, let us reason together," we read in one place. In another: "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your minds, that ye may know what is that good and perfect and acceptable will of God." Again we are admonished to "present our bodies a living sacrifice . . . which is our reasonable service."

No one was more careful to make his teachings sound reasonable and acceptable than was Jesus Himself. Always He appealed to the common sense of His listeners. He pointed out that the Kingdom was like salt, or light, or yeast, or plowing a field, or finding a jewel, or going on a trip, phases of life familiar and comprehensive to the lowliest mode of thought. He spoke often in reference to food, clothing, money, seed-time and harvest, flowers and the storehouse of Nature. On one occasion He said: "If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good things unto your children, how much more shall your Heavenly Father give good things to them that ask Him!"

We today would assuredly make greater advances in the matter of world peace, economic security, the strengthening of the home, the progress of the Church, if we were more anxious to copy our Master in being reasonable.

Royalty Going to Earl Of Dalkieth Wedding

EDINBURGH (CP) — The wealthy Earl of Dalkieth and Jane McNeill, 22-year-old former model, will exchange vows today in Britain's society wedding of the year.

The Queen will head the list of royal guests in St. Giles Cathedral. And Princess Margaret, who for a time was linked romantically with the earl, will also attend, along with Queen Mother Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

For two years the earl, 29-year-old member of a wealthy and ancient family, was a regular companion of Princess Margaret, often giving rise to rumors of a possible engagement.

But the announcement last August that the earl had asked Miss McNeill, daughter of a prominent Hong Kong lawyer, to become his bride, put an end to the talk.

The Queen and her party will arrive by train from Sandringham just before the wedding.

Friday night police were ordered to be alert for any incidents from fanatical Scots nationalists, who object to the Queen being known in Scotland as Elizabeth II. They insist she is Elizabeth I since the first Elizabeth did not rule over Scotland.

Authorities will post nearly 1000 policemen along the royal route from Edinburgh's Waverley rail station to the cathedral, to make sure nothing embarrassing happens.

Shepherds and farmers in their best tweeds, bowler-hatted shopkeepers, game wardens and blacksmiths, will be among the guests. They will come by special train from the vast estates the earl's family owns along the border of England and Scotland.

The earl is the son and heir of the Duke of Buccleuch and Queensbury. His blond fiancee once worked as a model for dress designer Norman Hartnell, who lately has been busy on Coronation robes.

On her head today will be the Buccleuch heirloom, a diamond tiara. She also will wear a three-ply diamond necklace and pearl earrings encircled by diamonds. She had her ears specially pierced.

Petite Singer Home From Korea

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lorraine McAllister, petite Vancouver singer who won the hearts of Canadians in Korea in nine freezing days, is back home.

Lorraine, wife of band leader Dal Richards, and accordianist Karl Karleen flew to Korea Dec. 9 in answer to a rush call from the army for two entertainers.

In the next nine days she and Karleen did 30 shows in cookhouses, canteens and thatched huts.

The rule in Korea was Winter army clothing for women, Lorraine said on her return Thursday night. She ignored this and entertained in a strapless evening gown.

"I almost froze," she said. "But I was there representing their wives and sweethearts. I'd change from travel boots to slippers on the stage —if there was one—while we talked and kidded around."

"I tried to be as feminine as possible."

NO POWDER ROOMS

Lorraine, still shaking Korean soot out of her blonde curls, became an expert at the teacup sponge bath "because there were plenty of facilities for men, but none for women."

On Christmas Day she crossed the Imjim River to the combat area, met the troops as they shuttled in for their Christmas dinners, and gave shows all day.

Lorraine said the men are well fed and well housed.

"The only thing they lack is feminine companionship and enough letters. I can't emphasize too much the need for letters. Send them every day. Practically every boy I met was downhearted because he didn't hear from home often enough."

Economic Comeback Sets W. Germany Up as Competition

Western Germany, according to the authoritative London Economist, is devoting 25 per cent of her gross national production to capital expansion of industry.

At the end of 1951, Bonn reported a gross national production of 74 billion marks, about $18 billion. Today it reports one of 125 billion marks, close to $30 billion. This increase of more than 60 per cent may be compared with Canada's increase over the same period of 7 to 8 per cent; from slightly over $21 billion to slightly under $23 billion. In both countries, some degree of inflation helped to bring about this increase in value, but it was substantially less in Germany than in Canada.

The reality of Germany's economic comeback is attested by figures based on actual production. In 1938, the peak prewar year, the German automobile industry produced 276,000 units; this year, the figure will be around 330,000. Taking 1936 as 100, the index of industrial production now stands at 167, having jumped a phenomenal 29 points at a rate of 350,000 to 400,000 a year. German steel production is now running roughly equal with British.

The German accomplishment to Britain means intense competition from her traditional economic enemy; already German cars are outselling British in Continental Europe. To France, it means that her traditional military enemy is potentially stronger than ever before. To the United States, it means that Germany can get along without economic aid; and possibly without military aid, when the present arms veto is lifted.

To Canada, it means that we can no longer expect large numbers of German immigrants. It means that a large, wealthy market is developing for Canadian food and raw materials. It also means that keen competition is developing—especially on price—for many of our manufactures; not only on world markets, but on domestic ones, too.

Weathervane

The clip and clop of well-shod hooves
No longer sound on road and street;
An age of speed in motion moves
On rubber tires, noiseless, fleet.

In effigy the quadruped
With flowing tail and lustrous mane,
An undefeated thoroughbred,
Races the wind as weathervane.

Betty's Weekly Letter to:

Dear Jane:

This week the Christmas trees have been stripped and discarded, the Christmas cards have been re-read, especially the ones with yearly letters included; colored lights have been taken down—reluctantly, perhaps; the jovial Santa who has been perching on a roof for a couple of weeks has disappeared. Even the clock on the Medical Arts Building is missing—perhaps getting a going-over for 1953. The flow of good wishes has stopped and the mail seems heavy with glassine-faced envelopes.

It is the New Year.

I wasn't going to say a word about New Year's resolutions this year, having given them up as useless. I used to be so enthusiastic about them—in fact, I used to be enthusiastic about any kind of resolution. Each morning I would resolve to be many things I hadn't been the day before. I would be kind, gentle, friendly, easy to get along with, wouldn't look hard done by if no one offered to help with dishes; but then — bang-bang-bang — when night came it didn't look as though I'd come very close to my resolve. I don't know about you, Jane, but for myself I seem to be made up of a bit of the Divine, a bit of the Old Nick, and a very human me.

So I was leaving resolutions alone for the New Year.

Then someone asked me: "You making any resolutions for 1953?"

"No," I said. "Not out loud, anyway. I think it's smarter not to make them than to make and break them."

"That's where you're wrong!" he said. "A guy's got to have something to aim at. As long as we make resolutions, even if we break them, we're growing, we're striving for something, we're alive. It's the guy who doesn't believe in resolutions that I feel sorry for."

And I think he's right!

All of which made me think of an answer I got from a 'teen-age schoolgirl the other day when I asked her if she had made a New Year's resolution. "Yes," she said. "I am going to try to get up every morning in time to wash real well, so I can start the day feeling nice and clean."

That sounds good enough for me: ". . . so I can start the day feeling nice and clean."

Claims H.I.S. Refused Payment When Son At Cancer Hospital

To the Editor:

Sir—"We regret that the Hospital Insurance Service does not cover the cost of hospital care at this institute, as it is not one of the approved hospitals under the Hospital Insurance Act." This is part of a letter received by me from the Hospital Insurance Service at Vancouver regarding a hospital bill of $353.50 for time spent by my stepson during treatment for a malignant tumor at the Cancer Hospital in Vancouver, B. C.

What is hospital insurance, and what is the meaning of "approved hospital"? What is behind it all? What protection does a man have after his premiums are paid up?

The first bill I received was from the General Hospital in Vancouver, charging one dollar a day plus the doctor bill for the operation. Next he was removed, without my knowledge that he was not covered by the H.I.S., to the Cancer Institute for further treatments. At present I am told I shall have to pay the full price of $6.50 a day because the hospital is not one approved by the H.I.S. Why does the H.I.S. not approve of an institution which seems to be the only one equipped to give treatment after such an operation is a mystery to me. His was not a chronic case.

What is behind it all? Does the H.I.S. believe it fair to insure a man and take his money but not give protection when needed? I fail to see why I was protected while he was under treatment at the General Hospital, but not for the time spent at the Cancer Hospital, which it seems was the only one able to give further treatment to cure him completely.

Why pay for protection if you are not able to get it when you need it?

A. B. S., Nelson—Continuing the reply to your request for rules on how to play euchre:

In four-handed euchre the game is played with partners cutting, sitting, and the deal passing, as in whist. If the first player has passed, his partner may say, "I take it from you," which means that he will play alone against the adversaries, the first player's cards being put face down and not used in that hand. Any player can similarly play a lone hand, his partner taking no part in the play. Even if the first hand plays alone, the third may take it from him. Similarly the dealer may take it from the second hand, but the second hand cannot take it from the dealer. If all four players pass, the first player can pass, make it, or play alone, naming the suit he makes. If all four pass again, the hand is at an end and the deal passes. As with two-handed euchre, the game is five up. If a lone player makes five tricks, his side scores four; if he fails to make three tricks, his opponents score four.

If the dealer gives too many or too few cards to any player, or exposes two cards in turning up, it is a misdeal and the deal passes. If there is a faced card in the pack, or the dealer exposes a card, he deals again. If anyone plays with the wrong number of cards or the dealer plays without discarding, trumps being ordered up, his side forfeits two points (a lone hand, four points), and cannot score during that hand. The revoke penalty is three points for each revoke (five in the case of a lone hand), and no score can be made that hand; a card may be taken back before the trick is quitted, to save a revoke, but it is an exposed card. If a lone player exposes a card, no penalty; if he leads out of turn, the card led may be called. If an adversary of a lone player plays out of turn to his lead, all the cards of both adversaries can be called and are exposed.

Mrs. H., Nelson—Can you give me the address of the "Wearever Aluminum" agent in this district?

We are unable to find this. Perhaps another reader can help.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

When Juan and Evita Peron were building a luxurious retreat for themselves some miles outside of Buenos Aires they established a rigid guard around the project to prevent the theft of valuable materials. Every day at noon, the story goes, the same workman began to appear at the exit gate with a wheelbarrow loaded with straw. The guard, convinced that there was dirty work afoot, searched the straw more carefully daily—even had it analyzed to see if it possessed special chemical values—but could find nothing to substantiate his suspicion, and had to let the workman pass.

A year later, the guard met the workman, evidently enjoying great prosperity. "Now that all is said and done," pleaded the guard, "just what were you stealing every day on that Peron project?"

The workman whispered, "Wheelbarrows."

One of the country's greatest experts on the atom bomb went off for a well-earned vacation. On the door of his laboratory he hung a sign reading: "Back in three weeks. Gone fission."

A slick spieler in a backwoods carnival cleaned up selling "Atomic Bomb Protection" for a dollar. The "protection", it turned out, was merely a big plastic bag you were supposed to slip over your hand. An enclosed circular announced: "If for any reason complete atomic protection is not afforded, your dollar will be cheerfully refunded."

France lost her best-known statesman Thursday when Robert Schuman was pushed out of office after 4½ years as Foreign Minister.

Schuman enjoyed more prestige and popularity abroad than at home. He once was described by Gen. Charles de Gaulle as "a sleepwalker who doesn't know where he is going, but never falls down."

Many of his French adversaries reproached him as being an apnb monkish ascetic who con personal kind of foreign policy threatening to revive the same strong Germany that crippled France in two wars.

To most of the rest of the free world, however, he has been the man with daring ideas for eliminating European wars.

Schuman is 66, and a bachelor.

His successor is Georges Bidault.

Schuman was born in Luxembourg, and became a lawyer. He first got into politics in 1919 as a Deputy. Deported by the Gestapo to Germany, he escaped in 1942 back to France, where he lived in hiding.

In May, 1950, he suggested merging West Europe's coal and steel industries. This "Schuman plan" aims to end one of the economic causes of war between France and Germany by establishing joint control over the materials that make tanks and guns.

France subsequently came up with a similar scheme for pooling large numbers of troops from the same countries—France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—into a European army. Schuman has been carrying the ball for this idea as well.

Such is the man Premier Rene Mayer had to get rid of because of Schuman's growing unpopularity with Parliament.

Many neutral observers think Schuman is merely the victim of France's second thoughts. Certain politicians have grown cold to the idea for a European army, fearing a hard-working Germany would become stronger than France, bogged down in a war in Indo-China.

Welfare Council Recommends Royal Commission to Study Sex Crimes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Welfare Council today recommended that the government establish a royal commission to study sex crimes. It said such a study is necessary before adequate laws on the subject can be framed.

The recommendation, one of several, was contained in a brief based on the work of a committee of the council's delinquency and crime division which reviewed proposed changes in the Criminal Code now before Parliament. Norman Borins, a Toronto lawyer, headed the committee.

Copies of the brief were sent to Justice Minister Garson and all members of the House of Commons. The proposed revision of the code already has passed the Senate.

Other recommendations included:

1. A statement in the code of the purpose of criminal punishment emphasizing that the aim is protection of society through reform of the individual.

2. Further consideration of the instalment method of paying fines.

3. Abolition of the cat or lash for corporal punishment.

Under one section of the bill, a person could be deemed a sexual psychopath and sentenced to a term of preventive detention of indeterminate length. However, no provision was made for treatment durin gthat time.

"It may be necessary for the protection of society and for the protection of the offender himself that certain dangerous maladjusted persons be kept in detention," the committee said.

"But if the offenders are recognized as ill persons, treatment should be provided."

NO THOROUGH STUDY

The committee said it knows of "no thorough study of the sex offender prepared in Canada and believes that without such a study good legislation covering this difficult matter cannot be framed."

It suggested a royal commission composed of representatives of education, law, medicine, psychology, psychiatry, religion, social work and sociology.

A statement of the purpose of punishment would "serve as a guide to the courts in determining appropriate sentences."

"The crucial question is whether the released prisoner is more suited to special living than he was when starting his sentence.

"If he is not, his incarceration has accomplished little and if, as is too often the case, his imprisonment has made him even more dangerous, society has suffered a loss. It is not protected but endangered."

The brief said instalment paying of fines, not included in the bill now before Parliament, was intended to remove the inequality between persons with means who can pay a fine and persons without funds who cannot pay and must go to jail.

Ontario's A-G Fires Hospital Four-Man Board

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Porter today fired the four-man board of directors of East Windsor Hospital and appointed a new board of seven to take its place.

Dissolution of the board was recommended in the report of commissioner Gordon Fraser who investigated the administration of the hospital and criticized many phases of its management.

Mr. Porter earlier had issued an ultimatum which said provincial grants to the hospital would be cut off unless the present board of directors resigned.

Slim Prospects for Quick Peace In Tito's Rupture With Vatican

BELGRADE (AP) — Prospects of a quick peace in the bitter quarrel between Yugoslavia's Communist government and the Roman Catholic Church seemed slim Friday despite a decision to set up a mixed commission to work out a solution.

Marshal Tito's action Thursday in calling in seven of the country's top-ranking Catholic clergymen to talk over the differences was interpreted here as having a double aim:

1. Internally, to placate those among the country's 7,000,000 Catholics whose opposition to government decrees against the church was heightened by Yugoslavia's rupture of diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

2. Externally, to attempt to prove to the outside world that Yugoslavia is willing to settle its differences with the church.

The Catholic Church has shown no sign of budging from a number of basic demands, among them:

Recognition of religious marriage ceremonies as legal without the recent requirement of a civil ceremony; unfettered distribution of church literature and public religious education for children in areas predominantly Catholic.

On the other hand, Tito is expected to stick firmly to the principle of separation of state and church functions.

Executive Sees Vancouver as Big Oil Outlet for Pacific Markets

VANCOUVER (CP)—John White, executive vice-president of Imperial Oil Limited, said Fridy conditions in California may bring a temporary increase of a cent or so in British Columbia gasoline prices.

He told the Vancouver board of trade transportation and customs bureau that Pacific Coast oil prices may rise slightly because shortages in California are compelling the use of more costly supplies. California now is the source of most of B. C.'s oil supply.

PIPELINE'S EFFECT

Mr. White said, however, that the opening of the Edmonton-Vancouver pipe line next fall "may well bring prices back to present levels as the volume grows."

He mentioned the possibility of Vancouver becoming a big oil centre for the Pacific area.

"The first meeting place of Canadian crude and the ocean is here, at Vancouver. The outcome will depend largely on the size of Canadian oil production.

"We feel that Vancouver could well become an important oil centre, since it is strategically located to supply the Pacific area."

There was also a good home market. Already, he said, B. C. is, per capita, the largest consumer of petroleum products in Canada.

German Socialists Ban Youth League

WIESBADEN, Germany (CP) — The right wing German Youh League (BDJ), once encouraged by U. S. occupation authorities, was banned by the Socialist government of the state of Hesse today because it had developed an underground organization which would have sprung into action in event of war.

Canada Polite But Firm on Seaway Question

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has told the United States she is still willing to discuss joint development of the St. Lawrence Seaway but not if the discussions mean delay.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday a memorandum to the U.S. government attached these two conditions to willingness to reopen negotiations on any "specific proposal" differing from Canada's decision to do the job alone:

1. The way must first be cleared for the first of the project's two major phases — the power development. This would be done by designation of an American entity — presumably New York state — to cooperate with Ontario in building hydro works. Mr. Pearson said Canada hopes this can be done by the end of March or earlier.

2. The discussio. . must not seriously delay the seaway as a whole.

The Canadian statement was prompted by an advance text of President Truman's budget speech in which he expressed the hope the door will not be closed to U.S. participation even though Canada has laid plans to build the seaway alone.

This was shown to Prime Minister St. Laurent Thursday by U.S. ambassador Stanley Woodward.

Very little of Holland's land surface rises more than 15 feet above sea level, while some of it is as much as six feet below.

Ubyssey Article Stirs Trouble

VANCOUVER (CP) — The secretary of the University of British Columbia Social Cred club has been fired, following an article in the student newspaper, The Ubyssey, which attributed anti-Semitic statements to him.

Second-year law student William Thompson said he was misquoted. He said a reporter failed to add his qualifying statement to a remark made during an interview.

Club president Roy Trimble said Thompson was relieved of his duties because he had placed himself in a position where his remarks could be misconstrued.

Earlier, a club statement said it was planned to lead a "campaign against racial discrimination."

READ THE CLASSIFIED DAILY

WHERE ON EARTH

FOR five years there have been no weddings on Holy Island, a stubbornly independent little community in the North Sea, east of England. Only 1,000 acres in size, Holy Island, or Lindisfarne, owes its lack of marriages not to any obscure religious custom—but to the fact that young people are scarce on this ancient island. Its tiny population is made up of just 21 families—all interrelated. Marriage with a mainlander is unheard of—so selection of a mate on Lindisfarne is cruelly restricted. But there is another reason which might explain the islanders' reluctance to wed. According to an ancient custom, all brides must go through a ceremony so strenuous that only true love would make it worth while. For good luck, a new wife on Lindisfarne must leap over a stone 2 yards wide and 2½ feet high! This hurdle is called the Petting Stone, and lies in a churchyard where it once served as a socket for a Saxon cross. In her lover's leap the bride is "helped" over by the two oldest men on the island. If she makes it, she must reward her two boosters with 10 shillings apiece. If she fails, she is doomed to bad luck the rest of her wedded life. Thus, for weeks before her wedding day, a young lady from Holy Island spends many patient hours mastering the broad jump. Not only does the path of true love on Lindisfarne never run smooth, it is a road trod only by a few and ending in an unromantic and ungraceful hop across that foreboding obstacle—the Petting Stone!

Around the KOOTENAY in Sport

By LEN WALKER

With word of skiing echoing through the various centres around the Kootenays, it brings back to mind the days when Nelson skiers were right in there shouting their challenges along with centres like Kimberley and Rossland.

In the past four years the sport has steadily declined here to a point where the kids of Nelson get little skiing practice putting them in a class where they can't hold a torch to the kids in other centres.

By all this I don't mean that skiing has been completely forgotten around these parts. There are still a good few people who like to strap on the hickories and enjoy the slopes.

It is quite true that other centres have gone ahead in leaps and bounds toward bettering their skiing facilities in the past few years in a way that is almost impossible for the Nelson Ski Club members for they are such a small organization. Although a few can do a lot they can't do everything.

If the sport is to again reach the peak that it once held, a good deal of work will have to be done and not by just a few, but by all those who want to see skiing once again thrive in Nelson.

I understand that the ski jump itself is badly in need of repairs. Bulldozing is required on the hill to make it smoother. If this could be accomplished then once again we could see the jumpers in action around these parts, and we would, no doubt, once again see the names of several Nelson competitors amongst those at the top of the list in the various tournaments around the country.

• • •

Fans at sporting events sometimes find they are running risks as well as the players. There is always that danger of a spectator being injured. During the Intercollegiate Invitational ski meet at Red Mountain, for instance, David Dahlstrom was struck close to the eye with a broken part of a ski. Luckily for David the cut was above the eye, for it could have meant the loss of an eye.

• • •

It might be interesting at this time to take a gander at the way the scorers are outdoing themselves in this goal hungry WIHL. Up to and including January 8 there have been 59 games played and, believe it or not, there have been no less than 550 goals scored giving the league an average of 9.3 goals per game.

In all there have been 27 games, or nearly half of those played, that have produced 10 or more goals. The total scored in these encounters is 330. In breaking them down, we find that one game between Kimberley and Spokane produced 18 goals to top the league.

On four different occasions there have been 16 goals scored, 14 have been produced three times. Thirteen goals were only recorded once, while 12 goals were netted five times, 11 goals were registered three times and the mark of 10 goals has been accomplished no less than ten times. What no 15 or 17?

While we are about it and, if you are still interested, we find that the number eight has been very popular as this number has been scored 10 times, the 9-goal mark has been reached seven times while 6-goal and 7-goals games have seen three appearances each.

Turning now to the games with five or less goals scored, we find that there has only been nine in the 59 encounters played to date, and six of those games produced five goals, one game had four scored while on two occasions there were two goals scored. Both produced shut-out games. In all there have been only three shutouts in the league with Nelson getting two and Trail the other.

It looks like the league record of 88 points set by Pat Patrucci of Spokane in the season of '47-48 will be snowed under if Gino Rozzini of Spokane and Lee Hyssop of Nelson keep going at their present pace.

Rozzini has scored 24 goals and has garnered 41 assists for a total of 65 points giving him an average of 1.9 points a game. With still 24 games to be played by the Flyers Rozzini, if he can keep up this same production, can reach an all time high of 110 points. On the other hand if Rozzini should falter, Nelson's Lee Hyssop could well be the new record holder. To date he has collected 26 goals and 32 assists for a 58-point total. This gives Lee an even 2 points a game record. His potential is 94 points for Nelson still have 18 games to play.

CHARLENE HERITAGE, queen of the 18th annual Miami Beach metropolitan fishing tournament, makes a fetching figure as she poses aboard a fishing boat to add a touch of glamor to the fishing contest. Some anglers might prefer to stay on the dock and look at Charlene rather than go hunting stupid fish.

Native Dancer to Carry 130 Pounds

NEW YORK (AP) — Native Dancer was placed Friday atop the experimental free handicap ratings with 130 pounds — only the fourth thoroughbred in the history of the rankings to receive 130 or more pounds.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's unbeaten grey colt, voted the No. 1 horse of 1952 by most racing authorities, is seven pounds above the second horses, Trio stable's Laffango and Ben Whitaker's Tabitian King.

The experimental rankings are issued each January by John B. Campbell, veteran handicapper and racing secretary of the New York tracks. They reflect this opinion of what last year's two-year-olds will accomplish in scuch three-year-old classics as the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont and other stakes.

Count Fleet received 132 pounds in 1943 and the great Citation got only 126 in 1948. Only others to get 130 were the late Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech in 1940 and Mrs. Al Sabath's Alsab in 1942.

After the top three came the Weatley stable's Hilarious, the Saxon stable's Invigorator, and Greentree's Straight Face, each with 121. Calumet's Chanlea, winner of the San Vincent Stakes at Santa Anita last Friday, was given 114 pounds.

Former Leaf Coaches In Switzerland

DON APPLETON
. . . former Leaf is Swiss Coach.

Don Appleton, former centreman for the Nelson Maple Leafs, is coaching a hockey team in Davos, Switzerland.

Don, who last June married Shirley Craig, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lorne Craig of 520 Victoria Street, left last September for England where he was signed with the Strathan Hockey Club of the English hockey league. In November Don was offered the position of coach for a Swiss hockey club in Davos, Switzerland. Both Don and Mrs. Appleotn are "enjoying Swiss hospitality."

Davos is a Swiss town not far from Zurich and is recognized by most sport fans as the rendezvous of such name figure skaters as Barbara Ann Scott and Sonja Henie.

TRAVELLING TEAM

Don's overseas hockey career has taken him to Milan, Italy, where his team took a 4-3 defeat at the hands of an all-Canadian touring team; then on to Frankfurt, Germany, where they defeated last year's European champs, then into Holland to chalk up another win.

A clipping from the Ice Hockey Review, a hockey publication from London, England, and received by Shorty Malacko who played last year over there, says that Appleton "has made a new team out of the Davos club." It describes Davos:

"The sunshine is so brilliant at this world's greatest ski resort and biggest ice surface in Europe, that all players put a black smudge under their eyes like baseball players do." Word received from Appleton is that he is planning to return to Nelson sometime in the spring.

Don, in his last year with the Leafs was the teams' top scorer and fifth in the final standing in the scoring race with 29 points and 27 assists for a total of 51 points.

Who's to Fight Who for What?

NEW YORK (AP)—A tournament to determine Ray Robinson's successor as middleweight champion will be discussed today when a special committee of the National Boxing Association meets with the New York State Athletic Commission in a new era of cooperation.

Bob Christenberry, New York chairman, has no sympathy with the British stand that any fight involving Randy Turpin be declared a championship bout.

"We think Turpin should meet Charles Humez of France," said Christenberry, "and then come over here and fight the winner of the United States tournament."

Fred Saddy of Milwaukee, chairman of the NBA rating committee, said his organization also seems to think the Turpin-Humez winner should fight the American tournament survivor before receiving world recognition.

Both the New York and NBA groups will try to reach an agreement on the names of the ranking middleweights to be paired in the American middleweight tournament. Bobo Olson of Honolulu, Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N.J., and Rocky Castellani of Luzerne, Pa., are almost certain to be included.

Russia Welcomes Swedish Skate Team

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians gave the first Swedish skatnig team ever to visit the Soviet Union a rousing welcome in Moscow's Leningrad station Friday.

"We are very glad to be here," said Sven Loftman, president of the Swedish Skating Union.

Soviet athletic officials and many of Russia's outstanding skaters greeted the seven-man Swedish team and the three officials as they arrived for the two-day meeting starting today.

NCAA Adopts Strict Television Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has overwhelmingly adopted a program of strict controls for televising football next season.

The outcome means that U. S. football television fans will see approximately the same number of college games next fall as they did last season, when one game a week was telecast nationally. The program allows only one network appearance for any college football team, but provides some lee-way on regional games.

The NCAA also approved the continuation of post-season football bowl games, to which some opposition had been expressed.

Maxwell Set for Trial With Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — Wally Maxwell, a blonde, crew cut youngster, steps out in the big time, pro hockey ranks Saturday, achieving the chance he's aimed a. since he broke into organized hockey as a bantam in Winnipeg.

Wally played for a Winnipeg bantam team during the war years when his dad was stationed there with the RCAF.

The other day a Winnipeg sports columnist, having noted that Wally was playing with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, wondered in his column whether it was the same Wally who used to play in Winnipeg.

Wally said Thursday he was the fellow in question.

Next week Marlboros will have to do without him. He'll be with Toronto Maple Leafs for a three-game trial in the National Hockey League, filling in for the injured Ted Kennedy between Sid Smith and Ron Stewart.

"There's no reason why he can't do the job," said Staff Smythe, Marlboros' manager. "He centred for Stewart with Marlboros for two years, so why shouldn't he be able to do it again?

Wally, a native of Ottawa, turned up in the Leafs' farm clubs after his father was transferred from Winnipeg to Toronto. The youngster was with midget Marlboros in 1948-49 and the next year moved up to the Weston Junior B club. Last season he moved over to the Leafs' top amateur club, the Marlboros.

Kimberley Venue for NW Collegiate Skiing

KIMBERLEY—Kimberley Ski Club will be this year's host for the Northwest Intercollegiate Four-Way Ski Championships sponsored by the University of Washington and Seattle. It includes 15 universities, including Washington, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Alberta and British Columbia. Dates of the contest are Feb. 28 and March 1.

Kramer Dissatisfied On Money Division

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Kramer's tennis troupe arrived Friday for the second stop in their around-the-world tour, and the major-domo lost no time complaining about the way the money was being divided.

Kramer and his partners—Frank Sedgman, Ken McGregor and Pancho Segura — play in Madison Square Garden today and Sunday, and expect to pack the house.

But Kramer, promoting the venture, said he hopes to divide the receipts in a different manner next year. This year the Australians have been guaranteed a reported $100,000.

New Scoring System for Boxing To Be Submitted

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Commissioner Abe J. Greene of the National Boxing Association today described a new scoring system for boxing designed "to eliminate the disputes of split decisions."

Greene said the system, developed by Benjamin Yesersky, veteran sports editor, will be presented to the NBA's executive committee at a meeting in New York this weekend.

Greene said Yesersky, sports editor of the Liberty, N.Y., Times, Monticello, N.Y., Evening News and radio station WVOS, spent a number of years perfecting the study.

Here's the way it works:

At the end of a bout, scorecards tallied by three officials — the referee and two judges — would be picked up by a state athletic commission representative, who would compute the individual judgments of each round.

Majority scoring would prevail for each round and be transcribed to a master scorecard which would then be handed to the ring announcer.

To be declared the winner, a fighter would have to win a majority of the rounds. In the event of a tie roundwise, the contest would revert to the point system.

Points, in turn, would be figured this way:

Each official's decision in a round would constitute one point. When a contestant wins a round on the cards of two officials, he would receive two points, one point from each official.

If all three officials award a round to a fighter, he would get three points. An even round would be determined by either three differences of opinion, or a majority opinion voting even. In that case, no points would be awarded either fighter.

Says "Rabid Fan" Criticism Unfair

SIR: In Tuesday's issue of the Nelson Daily News, there was a letter from a "Rabid Hockey Fan" which should not go unanswered. His criticism of Gare and McClenaghan is very unfair as those boys have always played good hockey, even when playing with injuries which they received in previous games.

Eddie Wares deserves a lot of credit for the teams which he has been able to provide with the limited funds and jobs available.

Leafs at Trail Tonight; Weary After Travel Woes

Nelson Maple Leafs were a groggy bunch of puck chasers when they stepped off the train at Nelson on Friday. They had taken a beating from the weather and a consequent train hold-up caused by slides, far worse than the 5-4 defeat they suffered at Kimberley the night previously.

The weary wearers of the green and white have to take on Trail Smoke Eaters at Trail tonight, too.

There was just a trace of humor in the situation. Before the lads left for Kimberley, President Frank Hufty asked how they wanted to travel. He had in mind the delay they had suffered in the previous trip home from East Kootenay when their bus was held up out of Creston by travel difficulties. "By Train" was the unanimous choice.

But the East Kootenay travel jinx still held. Homebound Friday the team was held up nine hours, first by a schedule delay at Sirdar and later by a snowslide near Blake.

Other Western International Hockey League action this weekend will see Dynamiters at Spokane.

Skaters Enjoy Dance Night

Several Nelson figure skaters took advantage of the open night dancing at the Civic Centre on Thursday, under the supervision of George Manual, the new skating pro of the club.

The skaters, including five guests from Trail, enjoyed dancing, three or four waltzes and several tangos.

It is anticipated that a larger crowd will be on hand next week when another open night will be held.

ANOTHER RANGER ON INJURY LIST

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's injury-plagued Rangers suffered another blow Friday with the disclosure that left-winger Ed Slowinski suffered a fracture of a bone in the right foot in the game Thursday night with Montreal Canadiens. He will be sidelined about three weeks.

However, defenceman Leo Reise, who suffered a sprained ankle last Wednesday, will return to action Sunday. Goalie Chuck Rayner still is unavailable because of a leg injury, and Lorne Worsley of Saskatoon of the Western Hockey League is filling in.

Marciano, Walcott May Fight For Title at Chicago In April

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano probably will defend his title against Jersey Joe Walcott April 10 at Chicago Stadium with a $50 top and a national television network.

At least that's the way promoter Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, wants it. Norris said Friday he expects to announce a definite time and date early next week.

Felix Bocchicchio, manager of 39-year-old Walcott, was due in town for a conference.

Norris, now occupied with the many varied business interests of his father, the late Jim Norris, Sr., cannot afford to conduct extended negotiations to set up the fight.

"I have every reason to believe Al (Al Weill), Marciano's manager, will go along with what I want. Felix is talking about Miami or Atlantic City but I hope to convince him."

Weill confirmed Norris' statement.

"I'd like to have it in June because I know it's a million-dollar fight," said Weill. "But if Jim wants it April 10 in Chicago, that's all right with me."

Norris said that at $50 tops, the Chicago Stadium would be scaled for $860,000, including $300,000 for TV rights. A sell-out crowd of 26,000 would mean an all-time indoor cash record. The old high was $422,918 for the Graziano-Tony Zale middleweight title fight in the same arena July 16, 1948, at $30 tops. When Marciano knocked out Walcott last Sept. 23 in an outdoor fight at Philadelphia, a crowd of 40,379 paid $504,645.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J I B T P T T P Z P H C I P I Y S I P V C J K V

V Q Z P V C C B T U P K V P — S B U H V O Y C I.

Police Inform Mrs. Pavlukoff

VANCOUVER (CP) — In a neat, white and grey cottage in Vancouver East end, the widowed mother of Walter Pavlukoff learned of her son's capture in a Toronto suburb.

Pavlukoff had been away for five years following the fatal shooting of a bank manager here during an attempted holdup.

Mrs. Vera Pavlukoff did not see reporters, but another son, who came to the door of the modest home, said:

"Thank you for letting us know."

Pavlukoff carried two letters at t time of his capture. One was a Christmas letter — started Dec. 25 and finished Dec. 29 — addressed to his mother, and the second was addressed to: "To whom it may concern."

DRAMATIC LETTER

On the outside of the second letter was a note that it was to be opened only in the event he was found dead or dying.

Police disclosed Friday that this letter said he "wants to die quick." It also told of an unhappy childhood "tortured with poverty."

In the Christmas letter to his mother, he said: "I have been free four years, I hope to make it five."

Pavlukoff, who started his crime career in Chicago at the age of 19, told a Vancouver court eight years ago that he did not go straight because he was unable to get a job.

Pavlukoff was before the court on the charge of carrying a gun, and when arrested he was carrying a "sucker list" of a score of names of prominent Vancouver citizens.

SECOND LIST

After he had served three years in prison, he was arrested again with a list of "names I should know."

"They have good jobs, nice jobs, big cars, and smoke big cigars," he noted.

The list included the names of former lieutenant-governors Eric Hamber and W. C. Woodward and Chief Justice Wendell B. Farris.

It also contained the names of Vancouver millionaires and rich industrialists.

Church Condemns Death by Hanging

TORONTO(CP) — The United Church Observer, a bi-monthly magazine published by the United Church of Canada, says in an editorial that execution by hanging is a "sadistic spectacle shocking to the Christian conscience."

Commenting on the execution of bank robbers Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson last month, the editorial says it took "50 minutes for them to die . . . we wouldn't treat a dog that way."

"If it is necessary to put a criminal to death—and we are not persuaded it is a Christian thing to do—surely some more humane way of doing so could be used," the editorial said. "There are plenty of drugs, any of which when injected into the blood stream would cause instant death."

Coast Crime Said At Lowest Point

VANCOUVER (CP) — Major crime in Vancouver was at its lowest point in 1952 since 1949, Police Chief Walter Mulligan reported today.

Total number of robberies with violence declined but there were three murders last year compared with two each in 1950 and 1951.

Chief Mulligan said a big drop in auto thefts in 1952 was "most encouraging."

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters)—Vince Read, pious bookseller who claims he dreams the winning numbers in the state lottery, picked up another £600 Thursday by drawing third and fourth prizes. Read, a regular church-goer, won more than £700 last year. "I lead a simple life of service," he said. "All my money goes into government bonds."

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) — Sixteen million children in 72 countries were assisted by the United Nations children's emergncy fund in 1952, it was reported Thursday.

"HELP ME THROW THEM AWAY!"—That is what infantile paralysis victim Mary Battiste, 3½, was thinking when she asked donations for the March of Dimes, currently under way. The child, of Vallejo, Calif., was benefitted by the campaign, and to show appreciation has given 10 cents for each of her 169 days in the hospital.—AP Wirephoto.

Canadian Pacific and Distillers Seagram each slipped ¼ and Dome Mines and McIntyre both dropped ½. International Nickel and Hiram Walker were unchanged.

TORONTO (CP)—Prices continued mixed and trendless.

Industrials and golds held firm although the index showed small losses as some leading issues slipped. Western oils weakened, followed by base metals. All changes in the index were minor.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices generally held steady in active dealings.

Movements were mainly fractional and unchanged issues dominant. Canada Cement posted the biggest gain, advancing three points to 78. Page-Hersey moved up one point to 72.

OFA Alters Views On Oleomargarine

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Agriculture has apparently softened its attitude toward oleomargarine.

An amendment to a resolution dealing with synthetic dairy substitutes which called for the ban on the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine was voted down at the organization's annual meeting on Thursday.

Some speakers told delegates that oleo was the chief enemy of the dairy men; others said it was better not to mention oleo and to try and top the trend toward such other substitutes in such dairy products as ice cream, milk and whipped cream.

Pavlukoff Turned In By Storekeeper

TORONTO (CP) — Police Friday identified John Moore, a shoe store manager in suburban North York, as the man whose information led to the capture of Walter Pavlukoff, 40-year-old suspect in the murder of a Vancouver bank employee in 1947.

Pavlukoff, listed by the RCMP as Canada's second most-wanted criminal, was picked up Thursday on a street in North York. He offered no resistance.

STUDIED POSTER

Chief Constable Roy Risebrough of the North York police said Moore identified the suspect from posters he had seen in the police station. Earlier reports said Pavlukoff was identified by pictures in detective magazines.

"After looking at the posters Mr. Moore said he had seen the man in the neighborhood, and thought his name was McRae. We asked him to call us if he spotted Pavlukoff again, and that's just what he did."

The Doukhobor ex-convict has been sought for five years in connection with the slaying o bank manager Sydney Petrie, 55.

Last Year's Date Bothers Bankers

EDMONTON (CP) — Persons who forget that 1952 is gone, are giving Edmonton bankers a headache.

One bank reported it's an average of 50 checks a day dated 1952 instead of 1953.

"If the amount is not large, we accept the check," one official said. "If large, we ask the person who issued it to confirm that it was drawn.
