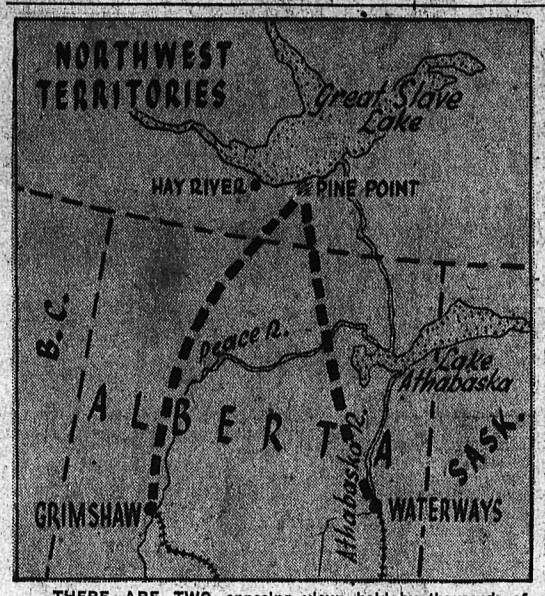
BOMB ROCKS KELOWNA HOTEL



THERE ARE TWO opposing views held by thousands of Canadians on the correct route to build the proposed railway to Pine Point, NWT, where the world's largest deposit of lead and zinc is awaiting development. Residents of Alberta's Peace river area wish the railway to run from Grimshaw and service the populated areas in between. Others want it to start at Waterways and open up new territory and natural resources en route to Pine Point. The decision is up to the Diefenbaker government which is believed to favor the Waterways route.

Cuba Rebels Kidnap Canadian, American

41 Canadian, American Citizens Believed Now Held By Cuban Rebels

By GEORGE KAUFMAN

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban rebels' kidnap campaign mounted Sunday night with the disclosure that two more North Americans have been seized.

The two latest victims were identified as a Canadian sugar mills manager and the American assistant manager of another mill.

The Canadian was identified as Richard Sargent, about 50, of Toronto, manager of the central Isabel mill northeast of Guantanamo Mill officials said he was taken from his home Thursday night. His wife was left in the house.

The American's name was given as Daymond Elmore, 53, of Haynesville, La. He was said to have been seized Saturday near the Ermita sugar mill, 10 miles west of Guantanamo in southeast Cuba.

Their abduction pushed the toll of Americans and Canadians now believed in rebel hands to 41.

Word of the new seizures came as U.S. authorities headed into rebel mountain hideouts to seek release of 27 U.S. marines and sailors who vanished during the weekend.

Walter Wadsworth, manager of the mill where Elmore worked, said he had word that Elmore would be released soon.

The U.S. defence department announced meanwhile that 27 marines and sailors were missing from the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo. It earlier had been announced that 24 servicemen failed to return Saturday night from an overnight outing. Their empty bus was found on a road near Guantanamo.

It also was disclosed belatedly that an enlisted man was daringly picked up by rebels Saturday night outside the Guantanamo base.

All the North Americans, along with Cuban driver and his assistant on the service bus, were believed held by the rebels led by Fidel Castro.

The U.S. Embassy here said there was evidence the men in the bus were forced from their vehicle into rebel trucks and driven into mountains near Guantanamo.

The embassy said it still was awaiting word from consul Park Wollam and William D. Bowdler, embassy second secretary, who were working to effect the release of the missing men.

Ten U.S. and two Canadian engineers were seized earlier by the rebels.

REPRISAL MOVE

The rebels described the engineers' kidnapping a reprisal against the United States. They claimed President Fulgencio Batista's regime was using the Guantanamo base as an airport for operations against the rebels in their mountain hideout. U.S. Ambassador Earl T. Smith denied the charge.

De Gaulle Welcomes Macmillan

PARIS (Reuters) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle Sunday welcomed Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to Paris on the first day of a hectic diplomatic week for the new French premier.

Macmillan, the first head-of-government to confer with de Gaulle since the General assumed power June 1, was accompanied on his 24-hour flying trip by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

After the Macmillan visit, de Gaulle will travel to Algeria for a three-day inspection tour and then return to Paris in plenty of time to greet U. S. state secretary Dulles Saturday.

De Gaulle, wearing civilian clothes, went to the aircraft to greet Macmillan. The two men worked together in North Africa during the war.

The French-British talks were expected to cover such topics as East-West relations and the prospects of a summit meeting, European security and the Middle East.

CAMPBELL RIVER, B. C. (CP) —A young Hanna, Alta., boy was drowned Saturday in Willow Point Creek, three miles south of Campbell River.

Police identified the boy as 2½-year-old Herbert Fehr. His mother, Mrs. P. Fehr, was visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Moncrief.

Governor Foot to Deliver Strawberries

LONDON (Reuters) — A British soldier serving in Cyprus is to get a taste of his father's prize-winning strawberries by order of Prime Minister Macmillan, a London newspaper reports.

The Daily Sketch says Macmillan has arranged for the delivery to be made by Cyprus Governor Sir Hugh Foot, in London for top-level discussions on the future of the British Mediterranean island colony.

Trooper Burgoyne, a 21-year-old national serviceman in Cyprus, wrote home to his mother: "Wouldn't it be grand mum if I could taste some of dad's strawberries. Pity they'll all be gone when I get home in October . . ."

Mrs. Jill Burgoyne wrote to Macmillan.

She told him: "Wouldn't it be nice if Sir Hugh Foot could take some of my hubby's strawberries to our son Jac?"

Government wheels moved quickly. Mrs. Burgoyne was instructed Friday to pack the strawberries and take them to Foot's apartment.

She picked a pound and a half, The Sketch reports, enclosed a loving note and made the delivery.

Fiercest Battle Yet Rages In Lebanon 7-Week Revolt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Government forces pounded rebel strongholds around Tripoli from the land and sea Sunday in the biggest battle of Lebanon's seven-week-long rebellion.

The rebels apparently were trying to capture or destroy the U.S. Presbyterian Hospital, isolated in rebel territory overlooking Tripoli. The insurgents warned earlier they would take the hospital if government guards did not withdraw.

Inside were 25 bedridden Lebanese patients and 42 Lebanese staff members. The U.S. Embassy here expressed grave concern for them.

Explosions shook the building and bullets hit its outer walls.

AMERICANS OUT

Americans evacuated the 60-year-old hospital, known as Kennedy Memorial, two weeks ago.

At least nine persons were reported killed and many wounded in fighting swirling around Tripoli during the weekend. Sources here feared the battle might mushroom into a rebel attempt to take all of the northern port city.

Government gunboats in the Mediterranean shelled the port area of El Mena, where the rebels threatening the hospital were holed up. Armored cars blasted their strongholds from land points.

Roads leading to the isolated hospital have been mined by rebel forces, but the hospital staff — two doctors and 40 nurses — are in telephone contact with the outside.

There were indications the rebels sought possession of the hospital for their own wounded.

Meanwhile, government sources Saturday night disclosed United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold has rejected Lebanon's case for UN intervention in the seven-week-long revolt.

7,000 MEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik said Sunday it "may require something on the order of 7,000 men" in a UN force to effectively seal off his nation's border so the government can cope with the rebellion there.

Malik, appearing on a television show, contended sealing the border is the only effective means of bringing the rebellion to an end.

Malik said a "specific, formal request has not yet been sent to the UN to seal the border."

"INTERNAL AFFAIR"

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser says the UN observers in Lebanon will expose the fighting there as an internal affair and not the product of United Arab Republic interference.

He told the newspaper Al Shaab, apparently before his departure Saturday for Yugoslavia:

"Now that it has become clear to everybody that the rulers of Lebanon exaggerated their charges against the UAR and that the Lebanese revolution is internal, the rulers have lost their self-control.

"Once more they claim that the UAR continues its interference on a large scale in the hope of getting help from foreign forces against the Lebanese people."

Holiday Death Toll 29 So Far

By The Canadian Press

The death toll from traffic accidents continued to mount Sunday as 29 persons died in mishaps during the first 48 hours of the Dominion Day holiday weekend.

A Canadian Press survey which started at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ends at midnight Tuesday showed that at 4 p.m. MDT Sunday at least 27 persons had been killed on the highways.

The Canadian Safety Council has predicted 45 traffic deaths during the survey period.

Quebec led the accidental fatality toll with 10 persons killed in traffic accidents.

Alberta had eight traffic fatalities, four of them a result of a collision between a gasoline tanker and a car 14 miles south of Calgary.

Ontario's count was seven. British Columbia reported two deaths, one traffic and one drowning. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick each had one traffic fatality.

The only provinces free from accidental deaths during the first 48 hours were Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

THOUGH IT LOOKS a little like a washboard gone wrong, this corrugated shoulder is the latest in highway safety measures. The new safety device was installed on a road near Frankfurt Germany, to help cut down accidents. It is hoped that sleeping drivers will be awakened by the pounding before their cars go off the road. And the raised surfaces of the concrete offer better traction in a case of a skid.

Russ Want to Know U.S. Stand

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia has called for a full understanding with the United States on cessation of nuclear tests in connection with the beginning of technical talks July 1 in Geneva.

The phrasing of a statement Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Saturday indicates the Kremlin has decided to participate in the scheduled opening of the Geneva talks. But it also indicates the Russians still will press for an agreement on suspension of tests along with discussion of control.

The Soviet Union earlier had hinted it would not attend the talks unless its terms were met, but the United States had replied as far as it concerned the talks will be convened as scheduled.

A radio Moscow broadcast reporting the latest exchange said the United States has "evaded making a statement on its position on the main issue — namely the aim which the meeting of experts should serve."

$100 MILLION BRIDGE OPENED

MACKINAC BRIDGE, Mich. (AP) — High above the straits of Mackinac, they dedicated the world's longest, heaviest, costliest single-span suspension bridge Sunday.

On behalf of the people of Michigan, Governor Williams gave it to the people of America.

Freighters passing beneath the $100,000,000, five-mile span whistled in salute. Sea gulls and jet planes soared overhead. Aerial bombs exploded on both shorelines and bunting flapped in the breeze. Canada was represented at the ceremony by Secretary of State Henri Courtemanche.

Governor Williams called it "the world's greatest bridge" and "a symbol of the strength and unity of the people of Michigan."

To Dr. David B. Steinman, the designer, it was "a poem in steel" and "a symphony in metal and stone."

POET, NOYES DIES

VENTNOR, Isle of Wight (CP)—Alfred Noyes, 77, writer of sea and country ballads and author of world favorite poems, The Highwayman and The Barrell-Organ, died Saturday six days after he was stricken by an intestinal blockage.

One of the more famous poets of the English language, he leaves a body of work remembered by millions for its human sentiment, clear direct prose, and vivid descriptions.

IWA Talks Stall

KELOWNA (CP) — Contract negotiations between the International Woodworkers of America and the southern interior lumber operators have broken down.

J. Clayton Walls, IWA interior regional director, said Saturday the union and the Interior Lumber Manufacturers Association could find no common ground to settle differences in proposals for renewal of the contract.

The union, Mr. Walls said, is applying to Labor Minister Wicks for the services of a conciliation officer.

Fraser Brigade Has Near Fatality

HOPE, B. C. (CP) — The Fraser Brigade, accompanied now by five Indian dugouts, left here Sunday on the last 100 miles of its trip down the turbulent Fraser River to Vancouver, sobered by the near drowning of two Indians.

The Brigade, which left Prince George May 21 in five plywood canoes to re-enact Simon Fraser's historic 600-mile journey, were joined at Yale Saturday by the dugouts.

Both groups are scheduled to arrive in Vancouver Wednesday night. The dugouts started at Lytton.

Leading the bare-chested, war-painted Indians was 73-year-old Chief Peter Emery and his son, Willy, in a fragile, two-man dugout.

About six miles from Hope they were 300 yards in the lead when they were suddenly sucked into a whirlpool. The dugout was overturned. Chief Emery clung to the boat but Will was thrown into the pool.

Two brothers, Alec and Larry Jimmy of Chilliwack, guided their own tiny kayak into the pool and pulled the Emerys from the water.

The overturned dugout disappeared along with Willy Emery's shoes, shirt and jacket.

"I was trying to swim through that whirlpool but I wasn't getting anywhere," Willy said later. "I couldn't have lasted much longer."

Alexander to Attend Quebec Celebrations

LONDON (Reuters) — Earl Alexander of Tunis left here by air Sunday night for Canada on his way to attend the 350th anniversary celebrations of the founding of Quebec.

"My official visit will last for three days — the speech-making is on July 3," he said at the airport.

"But after that I will be going to Montreal on business."

Alexander, former governor-general of Canada, will return to London in mid-July.

U. S. May Have $3 Billion Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is due to wind up the fiscal year at midnight Monday with a deficit of $2,750,000,000 to $3,000,000,000.

High Eisenhower administration officials predicted this Saturday. Ahead for fiscal 1959 beginning Tuesday is the even more dismal prospect of red ink aggregating $11,000,000,000, or perhaps close to $12,000,000,000.

The business recession was the chief villian in transforming fiscal 1958 from what the Eisenhower administration expected to be its third successive year of balanced budgets into the start of a new period of deficit financing.

CANADIAN SERVICEMEN who have served and are serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East are to be issued with this medal. Soldiers at present serving in Egypt will receive their medals from Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander, UNEF, during a ceremony on Dominion day, July 1. The outward face of the medal approximates the present UNEF armlet insignia, with a round globe in the centre representing the world surrounded by laurel leaves denoting peace. At the top are the four letters UNEF. The reverse side carries the simple words "In the Service of Peace." Main color of the medal ribbon is sand—the sand of the Sinai desert.

West Not in Favor Of UN Intervention

LONDON (AP)—Several Western and neutral powers—Canada among them — informally have expressed misgivings to Britain and the United States and Britain about any intervention in the Lebanese crisis even under the flag of the United Nations.

This was reported Saturday by diplomats of countries consulted by London and Washington about the situation in the Middle East republic.

The diplomatic informants said resistance to intervention — especially by the big Western powers —has mounted in the last few days and has come mainly from Canada, France, Yugoslavia and India.

Two principal objections to big scale UN military action in the Lebanon apparently have been cited in the exchanges:

1. There is no clear-cut evidence that Lebanon has sustained an armed attack in the sense suggested in article 51 of the United Nations Charter. Political, economic and limited military interference in Lebanese affairs by President Nasser's United Arab Republic seems to be generally recognized. But the feeling seems to be growing that the main threat to President Camille Chamoun's government comes from his political opponents at home.

2. Yugoslavia fears that Russia may be preparing a showdown with Poland's independent-minded Wladyslaw Gomulka and that the Kremlin bosses would be happy to use the smokescreen of a UN venture in Lebanon to cloak any physical actions they may plan to take. British and U. S. diplomats appear to agree that Soviet-Polish relations are heading for a crisis.

Yugoslav officials recall that the Russians were able to crush the anti-Soviet revolt in Hungary in 1956 at the time of the British-French invasion of Suez. At that time the moral issues became confused, the allies were divided and the United Nations were unable to act effectively to halt the Hungarian tragedy.

Jets Cross Atlantic in Six Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — Two U. S. Air Force jet tanker planes flew from London to New York Sunday in the record time of less than six hours, more than an hour and a half faster than the old mark.

The same craft had set marks of less than 5½ hours for the New York-London flight only two days ago.

The British held previous records for the flights. They were established Aug. 23, 1955, by Capt. J. W. Hackett, flying an RAF Canberra jet bomber.

Hackett set a mark of seven hours, 29 minutes on a London-New York flight and six hours, 16 minutes from New York to London.

The first of the two air force planes—the Alpha—had an elapsed time for the 3460-mile transatlantic flight of five hours, 51 minutes and 24.8 seconds.

The Alpha's sister ship, the Bravo, streaked over Idlewild airport in an elapsed time of five hours, 53 minutes and 21 seconds.

Centennial Flag Flies On Mount Fairweather

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's centennial flag flutters today from the icy, windswept peak of the province's highest mountain.

It was planted on 15,300-foot Mount Fairweather Thursday by four Vancouver mountain climbers, the first Canadians to reach the top.

Word of the success of the expedition reached here Saturday through an amateur radio hookup with the mountain, 900 miles north of Vancouver on the B.C.-Alaska border.

The four mountaineers who reached the summit were identified as Fips Broda, leader; Paul Binkert, Walter Romanes and Joe Hutton, all from the Vancouver area.

The other four members of the eight-man expedition, which left Vancouver June 16, were understood to have continued attempts to reach the summit. They are Dr. Denis Moore of Newton, B.C., Russ Yard of Dollarton, B.C., Dave Blair and Paddy Sherman, both North Vancouver.

Success of the climb, a B. C. centennial project, was reported by George Kitson, ham operator at northerly Lituya Bay.

The message said: "Mount Fairweather successfully climbed by first party of four. Final ascent from camp 2 at 9400 feet. Party returned to camp at 3:15 a.m. Friday. Total time from camp and return 19 hours."

Broda was quoted as saying:

"It was a wonderful climb and a classical mountain. The time spent on reaching the summit was terrific. The mountain was much bigger than anticipated."

It was only the second time Mount Fairweather, ice-clad from sea-level to summit and one of the world's highest coastal mountains, has been conquered.

Bombs Found on Ferry, In Vernon Beer Parlor

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — A bomb destroyed a room in a Kelowna hotel Sunday and two other bombs were discovered in washrooms aboard a ferry and in a Vernon, B.C. beverage room.

It appeared to be a continuation of terrorist activity which has disturbed the British Columbia interior for several months.

No one was injured in the explosion at the Willow Inn Hotel here.

Proprietor Rex McKenzie said several thousand dollars in damage was caused when the bomb exploded in an adjoining washroom.

Janitor Dan Stefenik, working in the room at the time, escaped with only a bad shaking.

Two hours earlier, a bomb was found in the men's washroom of the ferry Lequime, one of three boats which ply Okanagan Lake between Kelowna and Westbank.

Deckhand Tony Dunne found the bomb and immediately threw it overboard.

RCMP and the provincial highways department were notified by skipper Bob Williams but said no arrests were made despite roadblocks thrown up after both incidents.

The third bomb was discovered Saturday night in a men's washroom adjoining a beverage room at Vernon, 30 miles north of here.

There is a standing reward of $25,000 offered by provincial authorities for information on the bombings.

ON $500 BAIL

VICTORIA (CP) — Five Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were released from city jail Saturday on $500 bail each after appearing in city police court on charges of assaulting a provincial welfare officer.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall remanded the five, two men and three women from interior B.C., to Wednesday.

They were charged by the RCMP with assaulting Miss Ruby McKay, superintendent of child welfare, in her legislative buildings office Friday morning.

Miss McKay was reported in good condition Saturday recovering from shock and scratches.

The court was crowded with spectators and officials when the charge was read in Russia by interpreter C. P. Lambert to the three burly women and their two male companions in the prisoners box.

The Doukhobors were identified as Mrs. Tina Esevoloff, Mrs. Ann William Podovinikoff and Tina Jmaeff, all of Kootenay communities.

GAGLARDI PREDICTION

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia cabinet minister, P. A. Gaglardi predicted Sunday that "all the persons responsible for the vicious bombings in B.C." would be surrounded before Princess Margaret arrives here July 12.

"I am not at liberty to say what is happening or how it will happen, but I am certain the RCMP is pretty well on top of this serious situation," he added, commenting on the Princess's safety after the explosion of a bomb at a Kelowna hotel and discovery of two other unexploded bombs in the B. C. Interior.

"I am satisfied the security arrangements for Princess Margaret's visit are quite sufficient," Mr. Gaglardi said. "They'll have them rounded up before Princess Margaret gets here."

Grasshoppers Hit Wheat Crop

STERLING, Colo. (AP) — The grasshoppers blight is clearly on Colordao wheat. The view is a little shocking.

Fields that had promised to produce the state's finest harvest in years are filled instead with dying wheat stubble. The multi-million dollar crop has suffered badly from three weeks of infestation.

A rancher, George Hale of Kit Carson, Colo., shook his head.

"I plant and as soon as it comes up they eat it all. I plant it again and they eat it all again."

And in This Corner . . .

DENVER CITY, Tex. (AP) — John Ellard parked his crop-dusting airplane on a country road to recharge its dusting tanks Friday.

When he started to take off, he hit the car of James Underwood. The plane's left wing broke off.

Ellard went for help and when he got back state police were waiting with a ticket charging Ellard with improper parking.

PORT SEVERN, Ont. (CP) — The duck that has hatched her eggs in a cottage chimney here for the last 12 years pulled it off again Friday — but not before she's been in the kind of trouble that made Walt Disney's Donald famous.

For a start, the owner of the cottage, Mrs. Loreen Leathardale of Montreal, shivered every night this week after she learned the perennial guest was back at her cottage in this Georgian Bay resort district.

And because she could not light a stove, Mrs. Leatherdale prepared all her meals on a hotplate.

Then when it seemed that everything was going well she was awakened by the kind of noise that only a duck can make.

There was a terrific honking from the chimney, combined with chirping noises.

She found that six newly hatched ducklings had fallen from their nest and were hopping wildly at the bottom, their fuzzy little bodies smothered in soot.

Alone in the cottage, Mrs. Leatherdale spent an hour disconnecting nuts and bolts and pipes on the stove. She managed to remove all six with a longespoon but when the last was brought out there was no sign of mother duck.

She reappeared however, after the ducklings had been placed on a waterside rock, and ushered them into the Severn River. When last seen they were paddling furiously away.

WASHINGTON (CP) — A new aid for men with bad backs, or men who are just plain lazy, has been patented by a 78-year-old retired manufacturer. It's a mechanical trouser remover.

Otto Boruvka, who says his gadget also should appeal to women who wear slacks, conceived his idea during a bout of back trouble.

His invention consists of a pedal with two fingers attached to do the actual removing. The wearer puts the bottom of the trouser leg between the fingers, closes them by stepping on the pedals and steps back out of the leg. The same operation frees the other leg.

The trouser remover is not in production yet.

Two Men in a Boat Nearing Cranbrook

CRANBROOK (CP) — Two Cranbrook men were reported halfway to Cranbrook Sunday in their 150-mile centennial power boat trip down the Kootenay River from Libby, Mont.

Hotel manager Jack Barber and radio station manager Bob Reagh left Libby Saturday. They hope to reach Cranbrook by Dominion Day.

A plane from Cranbrook spotted their power boat Sunday afternoon about 15 miles below the Canadian border.

Pool Coating Is Peeling Off

Improper preparation of Lakeside Park swimming pool prior to application of plastic covering has resulted in the coating peeling off, a Recreation Commission member said Sunday.

Commission members and helpers pulled the remaining pieces of plastic from sides and bottom of the pool — such as was left after children swimming had unravelled several various - sized slabs.

Preparation for plastic coating requires complete smoothing of the cement surface, scrubbing and abrasing, to allow for no loose particles remaining, it was reported.

The pool surface was hosed in preparation for application, according to reports, but not sufficient real preparation was undertaken, and the bottom of the pool was damp from lake water seeping in.

The plastic coating purchased by the city has not yet been paid for, the commission member said, and it has not been made known whether payment will be expected after failure of the coating to adhere. Cost of the covering was $3,000.

The coating carried a guarantee, but stipulation had been made, it was said, that the pool surface must be prepared adequately.

Plastic coating lasts longer, according to authorities on the subject, than a paint job, which has a life of two years. The plastic discourages growth of algae, which was thought to be a big consideration in a pool used consistently. It is expected a coat of paint will be applied in the near future.

SWIM CLASSES START AT POOL

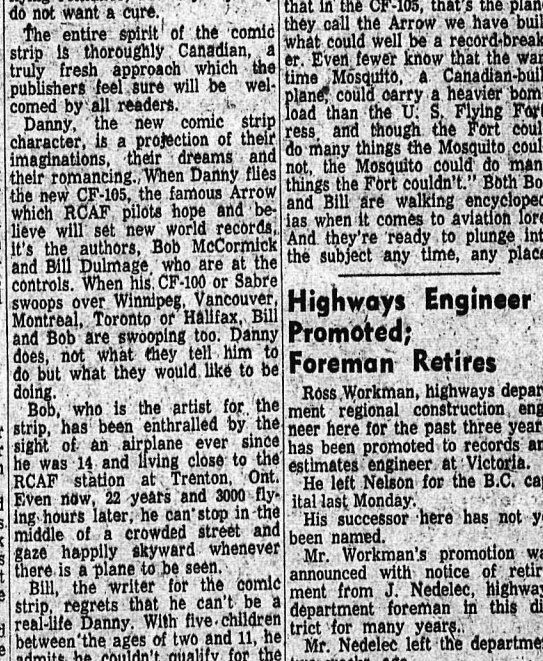
Swimming classes will get under way today with somewhat colder water in Lakeside Park pool than swimmers have been used to.

Water in the pool was changed Sunday to ensure freshness, as chlorine ordered during the week has not arrived and the water is not being artificially purified at present, recreation director Joe Johnson said.

Children starting at Gyro and Lakeside Park pools today will be graded by instructors according to ability, and instruction will be based for each division on the grading of that particular group.

Large numbers of children have enrolled — over 100 registered are 10 years old and more than 50 10 years old and over.

Playground activity will star Tuesday instead of Monday, Mr. Johnson said, taking the holiday into consideration.



Happy at their work are artist Bob McCormick and writer Bill Dulmage, standing. In creating the Danny Fortune comic-adventure strip, they're doing what comes naturally.

Canadiana Comic Is Welcome by Daily News

An all-Canadian comic strip starts today in this newspaper, whose publishers are pleased to welcome its appearance.

The comic "Danny Fortune" was created by two ex-RCAF pilots who admit they have a bad case of flying romance, but they say they do not want a cure.

The entire spirit of the comic strip is thoroughly Canadian, a truly fresh approach which the publishers feel sure will be welcomed by all readers.

Danny, the new comic strip character, is a projection of their imaginations, their dreams and their romancing. When Danny flies the new CF-105, the famous Arrow which RCAF pilots hope and believe will set new world records, it's the authors, Bob McCormick and Bill Dulmage, who are at the controls. When his CF-100 or Sabre swoops over Winnipeg, Vancouver, Montreal, Toronto or Halifax, Bill and Bob are swooping too. Danny does, not what they tell him to do but what they would like to be doing.

Bob, who is the artist for the strip, has been enthralled by the sight of an airplane ever since he was 14 and living close to the RCAF station at Trenton, Ont. Even now, 22 years and 3000 flying hours later, he can stop in the middle of a crowded street and gaze happily skyward whenever there is a plane to be seen.

Bill, the writer for the comic strip, regrets that he can't be a real-life Danny. With five children between the ages of two and 11, he admits he couldn't qualify for the life of a carefree, adventurous pilot able to take off for the DEW line, for Egypt, for a mercy flight that could end in disaster, or for any place else that an airman could be ordered to go. So Bill just sits back and imagines what he and thousands of other Canadians would like to be doing if they could —and Danny does it for them.

Danny, as a heroic personification of the RCAF pilot with more than a dash of romance, was a development rather than an inspiration. Bob McCormick, who attended the Ontario College of Art for four years, part of that time while he was in uniform, always felt the urge to do cartooning. As an instructor and pilot in the RCAF during the war, he was overwhelmed by his view of the immensity of Canada, of the variety of the peoples within our boundaries, and most significant, of the great contribution of Canadians to the progress of world aviation.

"Few persons realize even now that in the CF-105, that's the plane they call the Arrow we have built what could well be a record-breaker. Even fewer know that the war-time Mosquito, a Canadian-built plane, could carry a heavier bomb load than the U. S. Flying Fortress and though the Fort could do many things the Mosquito could not, the Mosquito could do many things the Fort couldn't." Both Bob and Bill are walking encyclopedias when it comes to aviation lore. And they're ready to plunge into the subject any time, any place.

The pallbearers were all grandsons of Mr. Bourgeois. They were: R. G. Helbecque, D. H. Helbecque, Martin Bourgeois, Francis Bourgeois, G. M. Helbecque and William Bourgeois.

Many floral tributes were received and friends from Crescent Valley, South Slocan and Nelson attended. Rosary was recited at the Thompson Funeral Home Friday evening.

Forty-five cadets from University Naval Training Divisions across Canada recently completed a two-week amphibious warfare training course with 875 United States Naval Academy midshipmen at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, Norfolk, Va. The UNTD cadets are now taking further training with the RCN before returning to college and university in the Fall. Taking the course at Little Creek was Cadet Robert S. Porter, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Porter, of Salmo, B.C. A student at the University of British Columbia he is shown here at the controls of a landing craft during training in amphibious operations. —Official Photographs U.S. Navy.

Radio, TV Service To Be Increased

Radio Inspector W. C. Johnston is the first appointee and two more will follow shortly. The Kelowna office is under the supervision of Radio Inspector G. N. McTavish. The Kelowna office has jurisdiction over the use of radio from Hope, north to Prince George and east to the provincial border. More Departmental representation will now be possible for the Okanagan and Kootenay Districts. Besides interference to radio and TV reception, the field office is responsible for the licensing and inspection of all radio stations established in this area for communications and broadcast purposes and the examination of operators of radio stations who require to be the holders of Certificates of Proficiency in Radio, in accordance with regulations made under the Radio Act.

Waiting Room Hit By Truck at Genelle Sunday

TRAIL — A collision between a truck and a passenger car at Genelle caused several hundred dollars damage to the vehicles and pushed the bus waiting room sideways Sunday afternoon. Two persons were taken to hospital but were not detained.

The accident occured about one p.m. at the junction to Lower China Creek. Steve Troyan, Nelson, was driving a transfer truck and was proceeding towards Trail while H. A. Van Tassel of Oasis, who was accompanied by his wife, was visiting friends in Genelle.

According to reports, Mr. Troyan had to swerve to avoid hitting the car broadside, and in doing so his truck swung off the road and struck the waiting room. In doing so, his vehicle sideswiped the passenger car.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Tassel were taken to Trail Tadanac Hospital but were released following an examination.

Sports, Parades, Drama as Beaver Valley Celebrates

FRUITVALE — Beaver Valley Centennial Celebrations got underway Friday evening when oldtimers from the district, some from as far away as California, were banqueted and entertained in the Memorial Hall. Assisted by the Fruitvale PTA in the catering local artists will be assisted by the Fruitvale PTA in the catering local artists will be featured on the program.

The sports program Saturday included ball games, a colorful parade and the pageantry of a queen crowning — a full day of entertainment and activity for celebrators.

Two ball games, one between the Trail pony league rep team and Fruitvale, and the second pitting Fruitvale girl's team aaginst a femme team from Montrose were both won by Fruitvale. Even the score — 20-8 — were identical in the twin victory.

The afternoon's activities started with a parade featuring the four candidates running for Centennial Queen.

QUEEN CROWNING

Miss Shirley Simms, of Montrose, was crowned queen by the 1957 queen Beverley McKeesie of Montrose. Princesses were Faith Geffreys, Montrose, and Myrna Wilmot and Terase Wilkinson of Fruitvale.

Carleton Haines, chairman of the Fruitvale village commissioners, was master of ceremonies, and introduced the Mount Rose village commissioners representative, A. Webber.

The parade, a colorful column of floats, and gaily-costumed individuals, was led by the Trail pipe band.

Fruitvale prize went to the Fruitvale Legion branch float, depicting a model ranch house of the first ranch at Fruitvale. The float had a genuine spinning wheel by the door.

The Montrose Whist Club entry of a little red school house was awarded second prize, and the Trail Krik Special received third. There other entries receiving honorable mention were the Centennial committee's Century Sam, the Fruitvale Teen-Town float, and one by the Montrose market depicting an ice cream cone.

Prizes were also awarded to the people in the parade having appropriate costumes. Winners were: ladies, Mrs. T. J. Wood, Montrose and Mrs. Stanley Walsh, Fruitvale. Men, Stanley Walsh; girls, Jennifer Rogers, Donna Walsh; and boys, David Walsh and Dennis Walsh.

THREE PLAYS

As their part in the schedule of social events the Fruitvale Community Players are presenting three one-act plays in the Memorial Hall on Monday evening. One of the acts presented is a new departure for the players, that is a Musical, and is directed by Alan John, president of the Club and a veteran conductor. The other two plays are "He's Dead, All Right," and "Red Men, White Men, Blue Waters." These are directed by Mrs. Joseph Lussier and Wilfred Martin, both veteran directors of the Club. From the listening-post word has come that it promises to be a very worthwhile evening for young and old.

Tuesday is Montrose Day and will feature track and field events. Their Centennial Committee has charge of the arrangements.

As a momento of the year the Women's Institute have published the History of Beaver Valley and Pend O'reille districts. Commissioned by the Centennial Committee a year ago, the Institute committee, consisting of Mrs. John Newton, Mrs. Karl Grupp and Mrs. Alfred Endersby, collected data and pictures interviewing oldtimers here and at the coast; then compiling and arranging the material and pictures into a 20-page brochure.

Balfour School Awarded Cup

J. Hewston trained the Balfour school children and supervised the sports activities.

Bev. Nelsen won the cup for the highest points in sports for girls and John Noakes won a plaque for the second in sports for boys.

Mrs. J. P. Keiran gave a talk on the importance of education.

Ten pupils have graduated to Grade VI, and will be commuting by bus to Nelson. They are Elaine Wakley, Sharan Peterson, Loretta Sammartino, Nancy Craigdallie, Leaha Stainton, Peter May, Jack and George Wellwood, Lorni Sammartino and Ronald Oakley.

Six new pupils—Rayma Oakley, Lynn May, Nancy Noakes, Diana Peter, Kevin Bowles and Allen Hewston—will register for the fall term.

NAKUSP — Nakusp Branch 20 of the Canadian Legion was host to the West Kootenay Zone Council for a two day general meeting.

The service officers of administration of war veterans allowances and welfare of needy veterans and dependants, was attended by Don Thompson Dominion Service Officer of Ottawa, Ont.

The wives of members of the Nakusp Fire Department catered to a banquet seating some 150 delegates, fraternal members and ladies Auxiliary members. This was followed by an open dance in the Legion Hall.

Reports from the following committees were discussed:

J. Weber, Trail; membership — W. H. Burns, Nelson; sports — H. E. Pepper, Rossland.

GIANT MASCOT TO REOPEN

CRANBROOK — Year's shutdown of the Giant Mascot Mines Ltd., operation at Spillimacheen, formerly a major base metals producer, will end next month when it will re-open as non-metalic producer. Dwindling ore reserve the mine located west of the Columbia River in the Purcell Mountains, together with soft prices led to closure last July.

Contract has been engaged by the company with McPhail Engineering of Tacoma to deliver 1500 tons of barite a month, for a year, with tentative plans for further production and possible merging of the contract principals.

Tailings at the site from years of base metal concentration total about 800,000 tons, which contain 35 to 50 per cent barite, non-metallic mineral used in oil drilling, as pigment in paint, rubber, linoleum and paper, and as shield against radio activity.

The operation is expected to employ about 25 men at the start but will expand this payroll to double production within the next six months if the contract arrangement succeeds as anticipated by the mining company. The Silver Giant mine is an historic development of the upper Columbia river area from early day history, and the operating company merged with Hedley Mascot Gold Mines several years ago to form Giant Mascot Mines Ltd., for its successful base metal production of the past decade.

Big Explosion to Mark Canada's 91st Birthday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dominion Day — Canada's 91st birthday as a nation — will be signalled tomorrow by a tremendous explosion at 8 a.m. EDT that will be heard on radio sets across the nation.

This isn't a special Dominion Day salute. It's the explosion of 30 tons of dynamite that will blast gaps in an earth dam, releasing a flood from the St. Lawrence that will create a new artificial lake to serve the Ontario-New York state power station being constructed along with the St. Lawrence Seaway.

This man-made lake will submerge an historic area, from which whole communities have been removed to higher ground, transforming the whole appearance of what is known as Seaway Valley.

The big explosion, which will be seen later in the day on television sets, gives a special touch to this year's observance of the historic holiday.

PERMANENT DATE

Dominion Day is one of the few annual holidays that have not been changed to a Monday observance by statute. It came on Monday last year, because July 1 then fell on a Monday. In 1956, the holiday was also celebrated on Monda, since July 1 fell on Sunday. But this year it's Tuesday, and next year it will be a Wednesday.

The holiday also retains its historic name of Dominion Day in Canada by official statute, although the term Canada Day is used abroad and has been for some years.

In Newfoundland however, it's still known as Discovery Day, the islanders celebrating like other Canadians but primarily in observance of the date 461 years ago when John Cabot is recorded as making his first landfall in Newfoundland.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will take part in a special 90-minute salute to the opening of connected television facilities from coast-to-coast when he appears in the program Memo to Champlain, on the combined English-French television network of the CBC at 4:30 p.m.

RECALL PIONEERS

The prime minister is expected to speak from the Western Development Museum at Saskatoon, just after opening the 1958 Pioneera, an exhibition of historical farm equipment.

The pioneers will be recalled in many other communities. Church services, sports events and outdoors celebrations will be held at many places, some of them perhaps uninhabited spots when Confederation came into effect on July 1, 1867.

On that date, Confederation united the provinces of Upper and Lower Canada (Ontario and Quebec) with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Manitoba came in as a new province in 1870. British Columbia joined in 1871, Prince Edward Island in 1873, Alberta and Saskatchewan, new provinces, in 1905, and Newfoundland—the oldest British colony—joined in 1949.

At Confederation the Canadian population was below 4,000,000. At the last count, in 1957, it was 16,589,000.

Resuscitator Presented At Centennial Celebrations

WILLOW POINT — A resuscitator, complete with two extra cylinders of oxygen, has been presented to Willow Point residents by the Willow Point Centennial committee.

This completed Centennial project was presented by W. P. S. Green, chairman of the meeting, on behalf of the committee. Manipulation of the equipment was explained by Paul Deakin, who said that classes for instruction in its operation will be held and it is hoped many residents will attend.

V. C. Owen presented scrolls to members of the community who, as explained by T. S. West, "in the committee's estimation had helped in the building up of the community through the years. Some of these are not necessarily old-timers," he said. Those receiving scrolls were: Mrs. Hugh Middleton, Mrs. C. Shannon, Mrs. B. Townshend, Mrs. J. Learmonth, Mrs. I. C. Campbell, Mrs. Bertha Heddle, H. W. Hankin, G. T. Ludgate and Andrew Scott.

The order at Newport, a trip in a forestry plane and a trip with a hunting party in the hills were illustrated on colored films for those attending the meeting by H. H. Hinnitt of Nelson.

Women on the committee were Mrs. C. Linden and Mrs. V. E. Howard.

3 Public Health Posts Filled

CRANBROOK — For the first time in a considerable period all professional offices in the nursing section of the East Kootenay Health Unit are filled. Appointment was made recently of Miss Freda Hilton PHN, as supervisor fo Unit nursing services with Cranbrook headquarters. She arrives July 7.

Golden public health nurse, post created some time ago but not filled, will be Miss Jean Oliver, PHN, who arrives in the district the same date. Until now the Windermere nurse has been fulfilling Golden requirements. Third appointment is Miss Sylvia Heska, PHN, who will be district nurse for Creston. Applications for a third staff sanitarian for East Kootenay Unit, because of the public requirement for service, has been refused by the department of health.

Unit's rural school dental program will get underway early in July and continue at three centres until completed. Dr. J. M. Martin of Trail will be dentist for the Invermere program, and Dr. Holub of Edmonton for the Golden program, both under district school board sponsorship, and Dr. Duncan of Calgary will be dentist for the Edgewater school clinic under Parent-Teachers' Association sponsorship.

School Trustees To Discuss Dental Program

CASTLEGAR — Meeting of the Board of Trustees District No. 9 approved the attendance of district superintendent C. S. McKenzie at trustees meeting to be held in September at Kelowna.

It was announced that Dr. J. Conchie will be in attendance at the next meeting, to discuss the dental plans for the coming year. Fuel tenders for coal and oil have been called.

W. R. Brown was present to discuss work needing done during the summer and the number of teachers required. Miss Talbert was appointed to the Elementary School staff.

The boiler inspection report said all boilers were in good condition. The board approved the use of Tarry's Valley Vista and Ootischenia schools for the holding of the health clinics during July and August.

OILS SEED

Sunflower seeds is grown for its oil, used in the paint industry and also in food processing.

Nakusp Delegates To Attend International Meet

NAKUSP — Jehovah's Witnesses from the Nakusp congregation announced plans are under way to attend an international convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in New York City this summer.

Nick Chekluck, presiding minister of the Nakusp group, said the convention could well be the largest in the history of Jehovah's Witnesses. It is scheduled for July 27 to August 3 and will be held in Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds simultaneously.

The last international convention attended by many local Witnesses, was held in 1953 in Yankee Stadium and reached a peak attendance of 165,000 including the overflow audiences.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, governing agency for Jehovah's Witnesses, has been making special travel arrangements for foreign delegates, Mr. Chekluck said. Many missionaries who have served in other lands will also be brought to the U. S. for the Bible convention.

John Cairns Award Winner

KIMBERLEY —John Cairns, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cairns, of Chapman Camp, was presented with the Kimberley Lions Club mathematics book prize at the annual awards day assembly of the McKim Junior High School. John also won a "K" letter award for top all-round achievement in scholarship, school citizenship and arts and letters in Grade IX class.

"Mathematics is used in nearly every field of endeavor and in this age of inter-space rivalry is more vital a subject than ever," Milo Fabro, 1957-58 zone chairman of district 19, Lions Club and past president of the Kimberley Lions Club, stated in presenting the mathematics award.

"To encourage excellence in mathematics studies, the Kimberley club will award a book prize each year to the student with the highest standing in mathematics in Grade IX," he continued. "It is hoped that those in that grade will follow in John's footsteps and that this important subject will continue to receive th eattention it deserves."

The award winning student also copped the French studies prize, a French book to be given annually by the French consulate at Vancouver.

Tying with John for the science book prize donated jointly this year by C. D. Chisholm, head of personnel for Kimberley's Cominco operations and L. Garstin, school principal, was John Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Russell, of Chapman Camp.

Desiree Nicholson, Richard Spinks, and John Cairns tied to receive the social studies book prizes.

L. S. Fowler, manager of the Royal Bank, guest speaker for the closing assembly, urged the Grade IX's to continue their education in the Senior high, pointing out that a well-rounded schooling to Grade XII was necessary for jobs demanding responsibility and efficiency.

Scholarship, school citizenship and athletic crests were also given to top students in Grade VII and Grade VIII.

Marathon Swim Regatta Feature

INVERMERE — The Invermere centennial regatta on Lake Windermere July 26-27, will feature a marathon swim from Windermere Beach to Taynton's Bay, a distance of three miles. No record of that particular swim is known.

A number of swimmers have swam across the lake and in 1956, Mrs. Rosemarie Plueschow, a new Canadian from Berlin, swam its 12-mile length.

The finishing line in the bay will be in view of the hundreds of people expected to attend the regatta. A trophy will be awarded the winner.

Other events will be children's swimming and diving competitions, canoe, sail boat and power boat races, water skiing competitions and skin diving demonstrations.

PTA Sponsors Child Dental Clinic

Construction Work, Fruit Picking Eases Unemployment

CRANBROOK — Unemployment insurance claims have declined sharply in June with most of the logging and mill workers laid off for spring runoff back at their jobs. In some cases crews were reduced when work resumed, however and a surplus of these workers still exists in Cranbrook district.

Construction prospects and work under way in East Kootenay were reported good during the month. Dawson - Wade Construction Ltd. contracted for 12 miles of road paving in Kootenay National Park, and contract for further 12 miles there is due for award, Perini-Pacific Ltd., contractor for the major highway surfacing project between the north and of Moyie Lake and Yahk on the newly constructed Southern Transprovincial Highway sections, expects to start work the first week in July and continue six to eight weeks.

Survey and construction by the B.C. Forest Service of a further section of the White Swan Lake access road to a Public Working Circle east of Canal Flat has started and the present crew, mostly university students, may be expanded for building a bridge. Timber along the surveyed route is being scaled and sold as the road continues from the 12 miles completed last year.

A $250,000 National Housing Act housing project of 25 homes on a 12-acre site just north of Creston has been announced by the Calgary construction firm, Meldtley, Lippert and Bender. Construction is also continuing on the new Interior Breweries plant at Creston. Creston public utilities program for the village this year budgets $18,000 for street lighting, fire hydrants and sewerage system extensions. At Kimberley Fame Brick Construction Ltd. has contracted with the city for 16,180 square feet of new concrete sidewalk in the city.

Bank clearings at Cranbrook for the proceeding month at $1,000,203 were down slightly from $1,002,450 for the same month last year. At one Cranbrook bank male clerks have been imported from Alberta to replace female clerks who have left their jobs to get married.

Casual labor for berry picking crop was in short supply for a time, but is now being met locally with pickers anticipating continued employment into the raspberry of the excellent Creston strawberry season to the end of July.

Cranbrook to Study City Limits Extension

CRANBROOK — Report and further extension of city limits north-easterly will be made to the city by the provincial commnnity planning commission later this year.

A commission representative will inspect the proposed area during the summer. Area under general consideration flanks Joseph's Creek on the prairie north of the city and also includes foothills section beyond this where the city dump is located. One of the purposes would be to prevent squatting and sub-standard construction which has been a continuous problem in city outskirts as city limits have expanded.

The city has been notified by France's consul-general at Vancouver that French ambassador to Canada His Excellency Francis LaCoste will visit Cranbrook July 23 on a dominion-wide tour.

Proposal will be made that he be a guest of the city that evening at the RCMP Musical Ride at Moir Park which is part of the 1958 Centennial program for Cranbrook.

City Clerk G. M. Robertson was instructed by the meeting to initiate legal action toward collection of business tax and trade licence fees where there are arrears.

The Cranbrook School District will be notified that cost rates of electricity for schools in the city observed for many years will be cancelled and that in future commercial electricity rates will be assessed on these buildings.

Posting of a $200 reward for apprehension and conviction of the person or persons indecently abusing a wash house at Baker Park is under consideration.

Strains on the Communist Tie

If there are many who still suppose that a mystical something called "communism" forms an unbreakable bond among governments whose leaders profess it, they should read reports of a speech President Tito of Yugoslavia delivered at the mining town of Labin.

It not only showed how deep and broad the gulf has become between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union but it also hinted at strains that Belgrado believes exist between the principal axis partners, Soviet Russia and Communist China, according to the Christian Science Monitor.

Tito may or may not be accurate in deducing that Chairman Mao Tse-tung or Premier Chou En-lai in Peking has prodded Premier Khrushchev in Moscow by a greater militancy than he would assume toward "deviationism." The militancy may be there, but Mr. Khrushchev showed no great reluctance about taking up the cue.

First, his government announced that $285 million of economic aid promised to Yugoslavia for building an aluminum plant had been "suspended." Then, while himself talking of buying goods from America on credit, he charged that Yugoslavia was letting in a "Trojan horse" from the "imperialist camp" by accepting American assistance.

Significance of the cancellation of Soviet aid, so widely advertised as being "without strings," can hardly be lost on Egyptian President Nasser and others. But Poland's Secretary Gomulka must be calculating rather tensely how far his country can go in taking goods it badly needs to buy from the United States.

Peking radio says Mao's famous speech of February, 1957, was evoked by the 1956 revolt in Hungary. The "rectification" campaign may have checked its effect in China, but in some other parts of the world his "hundred flowers" are still blooming.

Interpreting the News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United Nations special committee on Hungary is going ahead with a special report on the execution of former premier Imre Nagy regardless of Budapest's refusal to cooperate.

The committee also is exploring the possibilities of calling a special meeting of the UN General Assembly. At the same time the Hungarian government refuses to answer a UN request for information on the execution.

These developments—on top of government protests and repeated popular demonstrations of outrage—make it increasingly certain that the name Nagy will not soon be forgotten.

DEFIANT SYMBOL

How did Nagy, a veteran Communist, become a symbol of defiance to Russian power? Why is the former Red premier's memory honored among millions of non-Communists as well as Communists?

Actually, Nagy was not premier when the Hungarian revolt broke out Oct. 21, 1956, with student disorders, although he had held that post earlier—from July, 1953, to April, 1955.

But as the rebellion grew in violence and became national in character, Nagy was quickly called to power—on Oct. 24—replacing Premier Andras Hegedus.

HUNGARY'S MALENKOV

Faced with a surging tide of fury, the Hungarian Communist party's central committee turned to Nagy because of his popularity with the masses and his reputation for moderation.

This reputation grew in the period after the death of Josef Stalin, when benign influences spread through the Communist empire and Nagy became known as "Hungary's Malenkov."

In the period 1953-55, Nagy's political fortunes rose and fell with those of Georgi M. Malenkov, the short-time Russian premier now running a hydro station.

Nagy, on becoming premier in 1953, was actually ahead of Malenkov in proclaiming a more human jogram regarding living standards and concessions to the peasants.

OUTSPOKENLY CANDID

He made one of the bluntest admissions of economic failure ever heard from a major Communist leader. This was all the more remarkable in that Nagy had a long record of devoted revolutionary activity and had even taken part in the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia, where he lived for many years.

Nagy was so outspoken in favor of post-Stalin moderate policies that he was forced to disappear from the political scene when those policies were abandoned by the Kremlin. Two weeks after Malenkov resigned, the Hungarian press consigned Nagy to limbo by saying he was "ill."

Nagy's second term as premier—in the revolution — was historic, brief and tragic, marked by offers of great concessions to the rebels. It lasted only from Oct. 24 to Nov. 4, when he took refuge in the Yugoslav Embassy as Russian guns boomed in Budapest and the revolt was coming to an end.

212 Words or One

Since we, too, in our modest capacity dabble with words professionally, and, like all Americans, struggle annually to decipher the federal document entitled "How to Prepare Your Income Tax Return on Form 1040", we take deep interest in the unsuccessful efforts of 700 television contestants to shorten, without impairing its meaning, a 212-word sentence in said document bearing upon the conditions under which additional charges are levied upon taxpayers who underpay their estimated tax, a situation which obviously cannot be explained briefly and which might even require the intervention of a master of prolixity like James Joyce or William Faulkner to expound, particularly to taxpayers who, like us, are not only unable to understand long sentences but even to finish them, especially around April 15 when we are toiling over Form 1040 and wondering where the money is supposed to come from anyhow and why the devil can't they write these things in English, which we expect to go right on doing in years to come, for despite the failure of 700 would-be editors we still can't help thinking that whatever the Internal Revenue Service has to say its meaning can be reduced not only to a sentence of one word but to a word of one syllable: pay.

Period.

Color Illusion

Green makes time pass more quickly. Yellow is relaxing. Pink creates an impression of heat.

The dockers of a big port complained of the excessive weight of the dark grey cases they transported. The cases were then painted pale green. Whereupon the workmen immediately thought them much lighter. And so on. One might give any number of examples of this kind—which is exactly what was done by the specialists who recently met at a "color congress" in Toulouse.—The World Veteran.

F. B. Pearce. . . ...Writes

My wife informs me that I should write a merry column but how can I be expected to do that if I am in hospital? This time I am in Shaughnessy, the famed military hospital in Vancouver. It is an excellent place, the wards are large and airy and the company good, the grounds are pleasant, though like the rest of Vancouver they are getting rather frayed at the edges with the continued drought. The grass is beginning to burn and the flowers are rather faded.

I came to this hospital because there is a Red Cross hostel close to it where my wife can stay while I am undergoing treatment. I have heard people at various times compare the Red Cross and the Salvation Army usually to the somewhat disparagement of the former. To my mind there is no point of comparison. The Salvation Army does excellent work from the point of view of the underdog and the individual, while the Red Cross deals with people in the mass and with the ordinary people of Canada. It, of course, has always had an affinity for the Army, after all, it was born in the agonies of war and it never ceases to consider veterans are its especial care.

The Lodge is a most attractive place with its lounge card rooms and its cafetaria. No expense seems to have been spared to make it so and it is well patronized by patients and their friends. The charge for a pleasant bedroom is two dollars a day for which breakfast is also provided. This is a boon for wives who have to stay in Vancouver for many of the patients come from distant parts of the province.

Daily the ladies of the Red Cross make the rounds of the hospital with gifts of cigarettes, candies and books. The Canadian Legion also does this and the result is that the veterans are well looked after. Apart from the gifts it means to many men who are a long way from home, that they are not forgotten.

It is easy to get used to hospital routine. At six in the morning the nurse wakes the patient sticks a termometer in his mouth and takes his pulse. Don't ask me why they do this at six when breakfast does not come till eight. It seems like a waste of good sleep, but you never argue with nurses. That's what they did in the Crimean war and that is what they do now. Besides in my enfeebled state these nurses look too buxom to argue with.

The cooks here deserve a special word of praise. The food is excellent though quite often I have not been able to enjoy it because of indigestion. My theory is that this indigestion is due to the enormous amounts of water we are expected to imbibe. I never did like drinking a large amount of water and I believe this dilutes the gastric juices to the point where they cannot do their job. Needless to say I can get no support from the staff here for this theorie, but my indigestion gets no better.

When the patients are not being operated on or having X-rays and tests they are either sleeping, reading or taking pills. I have yet to learn the amount of pills used here, but believe it amounts to several tons a year. Three times a day we get them, a brown, a black and a white one with the occasional jab in the rear with a hypodermic syringe. But the meals make up for all this. Those who can, dine in the basement dining room cafetaria style and have a pleasant meal, those who have had operations dine in the wards ahead of the others, which is good for morale.

Supper is just coming in now. The cold food comes in first and the hot food follows in an electrically heated trolley. This is what we get tonight. Steak and fried potatoes, salad, peaches, bread and butter and cake and, of course tea. Despite this, do not go telling me how well I look when I get home.

Chemise Is Out

The chemise, we fear, is doomed.

Dean Acheson has put it outside the perimeter of those things he is prepared to defend.

"There are fashions in everything, even in horrors," said the former Secretary of State. "By the couturier's alchemy, our most curvaceous charmers are turned into bags of Idaho's famous product."

Had he not been practised in diplomatic locution, doubtless Mr. Acheson could have ended his sentence four words sooner. Nevertheless, now that he has turned his back upon the chemise, there is nothing for any of us to do but wait for it to settle.—The New York Herald-Tribune.

Sommers' Court Battle To Reopen Wednesday

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial enters a new phase this week—Round 3 for the defence.

The prosecution won Round 2 Friday when Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, in a decision written overnight, threw out a defence motion to quash the 25 charges against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, three lumber industry executives and four timber firms.

This meant the trial will continue and the defence battery of six lawyers immediately began to move a new motion aimed at dismissal of the charges for "lack of evidence." The opening defence gun on this was fired by D. McK. Brown who said the Crown had failed to prove that money from his client—B.C. Forest Products Limited—had been used to pay Sommers.

Mr. Brown will make further submissions Wednesday when the trial enters into its 34th day. The judge granted a defence request for the adjournment from Friday on the ground that senior defence counsel Alfred Bull was not present due to illness and more time was needed to consider the defence position.

ACCUSED TO TESTIFY

Defence lawyer Walter Owen, arguing for the adjournment, said he and others needed time to consider "the order of the calling of the defendants." It was the first public defence indication that Sommers and other individuals accused will be put on the stand should the dismissal motion fail.

Rounds 1 and 2 in the politically-significant court battle went to special prosecutor Victor Dryer earlier in the week. Mr. Justice Wilson first ruled that the one conspiracy count and the 24 charges of bribery would stand in an amended Crown indictment under the old Criminal Code and then Friday came up with his lengthy written judgement that the defence quash plea was not valid.

Sommers was minister from 1952 until he resigned from Premier Bennett's Social Credit cabinet in 1956. He still is Social Credit member of the legislature for Rossland-Trail. Charged with him are H. W. Gray, John Gray, Charles D. Schultz, Pacific Coast Services Limited. Evergreen Lumber Sales, C. D. Schultz Company Limited and B.C. Forest Products Limited.

All have pleaded not guilty.

INVOLVED LICENCES

The Crown's main charge is that certain firms made undercover payments to obtain government timber licences and that some of this money was split among H. W. Gray, Schultz and Sommers while Sommers was minister.

The defence motion to quash was based mainly on the question of whether Sommers as minister was an "official of the government." It is on the latter designation that he now is charged with receiving and the others with giving him bribes. But the section of the old Criminal Code under which the charges are laid makes no mention of a 'minister' of the Crown."

The defence claimed that Sommers as minister was not an official of the government and therefore all the prosecution charges were faulty.

Mr. Justice Wilson in a lengthy written judgment said that by all accepted definitions and "sensible English usage" the word "official" must be interpreted as including a minister of the Crown.

Pearson Fears NATO Collapse

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson says the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will crumble "within the next year or two" unless determined steps are taken to develop a free trade system in the Western world.

The former minister of external affairs spoke at a press conference Friday night after addressing a policy conference of Ontario Liberals in this Muskoka Lake resort.

Mr. Pearson told reporters: "There must be a gradual but definite lowering of tariffs between such countries as Canada, the United States and free European countries or Canada and the U.S. will find themselves sitting off by themselves in North America with no mutual free-world agreements.

"The Russians are making great headway in this economy field in expanding trade with countries outside the Communist world. Unless we are willing to make the economies of the Western world more interdependent, NATO will not last more than a year or two."

Week's Indicators Mixed In U.S. Business Economy

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ

NEW YORK (AP) — Three big questions popped up last week in United States business—a week in which economic indicators were pretty mixed.

They were:

Will the giants of the steel industry, a bellwhether of the economy, raise their prices? if so, when?

Will there be a general boost in the price of copper, which goes into a vast array of products from kitchen pans to missiles?

Will rainy, cool weather continue to put a crimp in the business of the retail merchants?

Attention was turned somewhat from the over-all state of business to the trend of prices.

RECORD HIGH

Consumers were told that while living costs again were at a record high in May, some relief appeared in sight. Food prices may be heading down after a long climb.

There were other developments which clouded the outlook for the longer pull.

On Tuesday, wages of steelworkers are scheduled to go up 20 cents an hour as part of a three-year labor contract. A year ago, when the workers' pay was raised a similar amount, the companies boosted the price of steel an average of $6 a ton.

This year, with mills at around 60 per cent of capacity, the companies moved slowly. U.S. Steel, which traditionally sets the price pattern, said it would delay an increase until "the situation is clarified."

A general steel price increase often sets off a parade of higher prices in a multitude of items made of steel. However, some steel - using manufacturers have hinted they may be slow in passing on costs to consumers this year.

CONFUSION IN COPPER

Confused prices also were the rule in the copper industry. The price to 26½ cents a pound June 16. Other big producers clung to the 25-cent level, raising a question of whether Anaconda may have to withdraw its increase.

With the arrival of the summer lull, some business statistics lost a bit of their recent tone. Steel output dipped after a two-month rise. Auto production edged upward but was about to be hit by early closedowns for model changeovers.

Unseasonable weather was blamed for a downturn in electric power use and in retail sales. Air conditioners and summer clothing were not moving in some areas, Dun and Bradstreet said.

To Plead For Release of Greta Goede

MONTREAL (CP)—A plea for the release of Mrs. Greta Goede, accused of kidnapping, will be heard Monday in Superior Court.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure granted the hearing after a plea Friday by Phil Cutler, the women's lawyer, that she is being illegally detained.

Mr. Cutler also swore out a writ of habeas corpus calling on authorities to show cause Monday why Mrs. Goede should not be freed immediately.

Mrs. Goede, 46, is accused of kidnapping Joel Reitman, 2½-year-old scion of a wealthy Montreatl retail clothing merchant family. Missing three days, the boy was found safe in Ottawa, June 17.

Mr. Cutler's plea contended an essential point of a kidnapping charge is proof that the victim was taken against his will, and according to long-established British jurisprudence anyone under 14 has, before the law, no will.

The action called for the outright release of Mrs. Goede, barring a change in the Crown accusation to the lesser offence of depriving legal guardians of their custody of the child.

Ford of Canada Ups Employment

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Ford of Canada, bucking the recession which has cut deeply into new car sales, has scheduled all-Canadian production of its six-cylinder engine in six months.

President Rhys M. Sale, annoucing the step Friday, said it will mean increased employment at the Windsor plant and at a foundry in Sarnia, Ont., where the engine blocks are to be manufactured.

The $4,000,000 program to develop six-cylinder engine production in Canada began two years ago and will complete its final phase next fall when Holmes Foundry Limited at Sarnia begins casting the blocks.

Since the development program started Ford has been steadily replacing U.S.-made parts in its six-cylinder engine with Canadian products. Now all parts except the block are being made here. Ford has been producing all-Canadian eight-cylinder engines for more than 25 years.

Mr. Sales said Ford decided to proceed on schedule with the engine plan despite lagging car sales.

"The recession has not shaken our faith in the future of this country one iota," he said, "even though like many other businesses we have had to tighten our belts somewhat for the short term."

Ford plans to put the first all-Canadian six - cylinder engines into its cars next Jan. 1.

Brussels Police Kind To Russian Dancer

BRUSSELS (AP)—Olga Lepesjinskaia, once Stalin's favorite ballerina, was caught shoplifting in a Brussels department store, police said Saturday.

The star of the Bolshoi Ballet now appearing at the Brussels world fair, Miss Lepesjinskaia is ranked only behind Galla Ulanova and Maya Plisetskaya among Moscow's famous ballerinas.

Police said she was stopped on leaving the store Friday by a store detective, who had been tipped off by a customer.

She pleaded to be allowed to attend ballet rehearsals, but was hustled off to a police station, then to the palace of justice for questioning.

Police said she finally admitted taking an umbrella, two pairs of gloves, cuff links and some tape.

UNLIKELY TO DEVELOP

Unlike the celebrated case of a Soviet woman athlete convicted of shoplifting in London in 1956, this one seemed unlikely to cause an international incident.

Store officials indicated they will not take any action.

Two years ago an international incident developed after Nina Ponomareva, Soviet olympics discus thrower, was charged with shoplifting five cheap hats in London.

An athletic meet was cancelled in London and after hiding out for days in the Soviet Embassy, the attractive athlete finally appeared in court.

She denied stealing the hats but was convicted of shoplifting. She was released on payment of court costs.

The Soviet government stood behind Nina and only a year ago awarded her the Order of Labor Red banner.

Cranbrook Couple Mark 50 Years of Marriage

CRANBROOK — Fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at Lethbridge was celebrated June 26 by Mr. and Mrs. William S. Johntson. She was the former Nettie Eeston who came from Scotland in 1907 to join relatives in Lethbridge. Mr. Johnston also came to Lethbridge from Scotland in 1907 but they did not meet until both were established in Canada.

They were married by Rev. A. M. Gordon of the Presbyterian Church at Lethbridge. Following overseas service through the First World War Mr. Johnston brought his wife and family to Cranbrook about 1919 and they have lived here ever since.

He is widely known through the province, for which he was Grand Master of the IOOF Lodge last year. Their four daughters, Mrs. John Drinkwater of Kelowna, Mrs. Sidney Swift who is transferring from Kelowna to Westview, Mrs. Earl Kyle of Kimberley and Miss Florence Johnston of Vancouver Schools staff are joining them here this week, and the anniversary was marked Sunday by a reception at the IOOF Hall. Also here for the celebration are their six grandchildren.

Woman Refugee Symbol For Other Escapees

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Agatha Maria Vagi, a sales agency secretary here, has become something of a symbol of hope for other Hungarian refugees who came to Canada after the abortive 1956 uprising in Budapest.

Mrs. Vagi, 24, has just been awarded a bachelor of arts degree at Sir George Williams College here. "My friends here and elsewhere in Canada followed my college progress with much interest," she said in an interview.

A former newspaper woman in Budapest, she speaks fluent English as well as Hungarian, Russian, German and French, but left her homeland before completing her college education.

NOW CANADIANS

With her husband, she arrived here Jan. 12, 1957, "with the clothes on our backs and a dollar between us." She was granted a one - year sholarship at Sir George Williams College and was given academic credits for all but the final year of the arts course. She completed that course at night, working during the daytime.

Of her countrywomen now in Canada, Mrs. Vagi believes "they will probably all stay.

"Those still here are largely in two groups. One smaller and older group is still very Hungarian, and always will be. But the larger, younger group is becoming fiercely Canadian. That is the way Hungarians are when they emigrate. They attach themselves to their adopted country."

Salmo Girl Guide Going On Atlantic Adventure

Atlantic Adventure, with Lois Hanson of Salmo representing West Kootenay Girl Guides, is a trip undertaken by Girl Guides from Canada, Great Britain, and the United States to Guide camps on the Atlantic seaboard.

Lois is a full fledged member, having joined brownies in 1948, and is now a first class guide with approximately 22 badges and emblems to her credit as well as her All Round Cord. Pioneer Camping and Camper Gadge are two of the qualifications important to out-of-the-Division camping. Lois possesses these, plus many more to make her an able representative.

Atlantic Adventure will see 100 guides, rangers and cadets attending from each province of Canada as well as guests from Great Britain and the United States.

Adventure starts in Montreal July third, then proceeds to Eastern provinces with visits and stopovers at several guide camps, touching at places such as Brackley Beach, P.E.I., North Sudney on Cape Breton Island, N.S., then on to Newfoundland as the guest of Corner Block Guides. Halifax and Quebec City will be visited on the return trip by ship to Montreal.

Cost of the trips are shared by the World Friendship Fund; partly by the local association and the guide herself.

Strawberries and Cream ... Plain or Fancy!

By MARGARET CARR

June is dairy month in Canada, as you no doubt know, and in honor of the dairy foods, and those great big beautiful strawberries that we enjoy every June, we'd like to share with you some tempting treats on this sweet theme.

Strawberries with rich cream, strawberries with fluffy whipped cream, strawberries with frosty ice cream, strawberries with clotted cream, and strawberries with dairy sour cream — take your choice for desserts with elegance. Add to those mentioned our three brand new strawberry-and-cream combinations. You'll enjoy the continental dessert of strawberries and petit suisse — a rich molded sweetened cream cheese that's a French springtime favorite. Strawberries with Devonshire cream is a "spring on the south coast of England" treat, that you can make in Canada.

We warn you right from the start you'll find it expensive, but, oh, it is good!

Last but not least, our recipe for pineapple strawberry cream is the latest in fresh-as-summer Canadian desserts, designed specially for our June dairy month celebration. Make it and only you will know how easy it is to please—via this kitchen combination of strawberries and cream.

PETIT SUISSE
(Makes 8 to 10 servings)

2 4-ounce packages plain cream cheese; 3 tablespoons heavy cream; 2 tablespoons icing sugar.

Soften cream cheese. Blend with cream. Beat in sugar. Turn this mixutre on to centre of a piece of cheesecloth and fit into a sleeve. Chill.

DEVONSHIRE CREAM
(Makes ½-pint)

1 quart milk, not homogenized; 1 pint heavy cream.

Combine milk and cream in a shallow pan. Set in a cool place and leave undisturbed for 24 hours. Carefully set pan over low heat and heat slowly until top crinkles. Remove from stove, cool and set in refrigerator to chill. Skim off cream which will be consistency of soft cream cheese. Use on fresh or cooked fruit as a topping.

STRAWBERRY AND PINEAPPLE CREAM
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

1 cup pineapple cubes, drained; 1 cup whole fresh strawberries, or quartered large berries; 12 marshmallows, cut up (96 miniature); ½ cup shredded coconut; ½ pint dairy sour cream.

Eastern Honeymoon For Nakusp Newlyweds

NAKUSP — A double-ring ceremony united in marriage Joan Margaret, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. S. Brown of Nakusp, and William Charles Marks, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Marks of Sidney, Nova Scotia.

Rev. R. M. Booth presided at the ceremony in the Robertson Memorial Church.

As the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, the choir sang "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven."

The charming bride chose a floor length gown of white nylon net, with lace applique trim, long lily point sleeves, a Peter Pan collar and fitted bodice, set off the flowing skirt of net over satin. The bodice was fastened at the back with a row of tiny buttons, from waist to neckline.

Her full length veil of nylon net was appliqued with white satin daisies and the same daises adorned the Juliette cap that held the veil in place. Her cascade bouquet was of deep red roses. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls, the gift from her groom.

Her attendants were chief bridesmaid, Miss Rae LaRue, who chose for her gown, a turquoise blue brocade in street length and Mrs. Bob Hamling and Mrs. Neil Shaw who wore identical dresses of nylon figured with pink flowers.

The dainty little flower girls, Myrna Butt and her cousin, Donna Butt wore identical dresses of blue nylon and carried nosegays of white carnations and roses.

Al Butt was groomsman. Ushers were Dougald Ormond, and Robert Hamling.

During the ceremony, the church choir of which Joan was leader, sang the anthem, "Thanks Be To God."

Mrs. Robert White sang. "The Wedding Prayer," while the wedding party retired to the vestry, to sign the register.

The wedding breakfast immediately followed the ceremony, for immediate friends and relatives, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vince Hill.

Cablegrams and telegrams from England and Nova Scotia were read.

An open reception was held in the evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Representing the groom's parents in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Robson.

For a wedding trip to Sidney, Nova Scotia, the bride donned a teal green dressmaker suit, pink, flowered hat and shoes, white bag and gloves and a pink carnation corsage. The young couple motored to Spokane, then flew across the continent to New York and then to Sidney. They will return via the Canadian route.

They will make their home in Nakusp, where the groom is employed by Celgar sawmill and the bride is local agent and chief operator for the B. C. Telephone Co.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. Janson of Revelstoke; Mrs. Al King of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. Brett of Trail; Mr. and Mrs. Jenson of Nelson; Miss Rae LaRue of Osooyos and Mrs. P. Smardt of Oliver.

SPORTS

Expect Heavy Battle For CIL Golf Trophy

At least 29 members of Nelson Golf and Country Club will tee off Tuesday morning in the first round of the annual CIL 27-hole medal play tournament.

Defending champion Arnold Sherwood tees off at 8:30 a.m. in a foursome with Bruce Latremouille, Red Koehle, and Bernie Clarkson. Clarkson is likely at any time to batter par with his long drives and booming iron play, so Arnold, recent winner of the Wood, Vallance tournament in Kimberley, may be in for a tough scrap to attempt to retain his honors.

Scotty Cameron's 29 has remained solidly in the memory of local golf followers, so Scotty, naturally, has received solid backing from certain quarters. Walter Apostoliuk, one of Sherwood's major competitors in recent years, has become club professional and is ineligible to compete.

Following is the draw:

8 a.m.—Mickey Maglio, Vern Miller, Bill Wicken, Bill Day.

8:10—Bill Haldane, Alex Allen, A. Jones, George Barefoot.

8:20—Terry Panton, Bob Paterson, Tillie Mores, Harold Mayo.

8:30 — Bruce Latremouille, Red Koehle, Arnold Sherwood, Bernie Clarkson.

8:40—Bob McDonald, George Gelinas, John Melville.

8:45—Fred Whiteley, Dunc Jamieson, Harry Forse.

9:00—Carl Locatelli, Scotty Cameron, Jack Skellern, Leo Atwell.

9:10 — Bill Hamilton, George Baerg, Brian Hughes.

Post entries will be accepted until 8:30.

Jim Rathmann Sets Record At "Monza"

MONZA, Italy (AP) — Jim Rathmann of Miami, Fla., beat the greatest 500-mile drivers of Europe and America Sunday in the fastest auto race ever run.

His blazing 166.788 miles an hour in a Zink Leader Card special was six miles an hour faster than Jimmy Bryan's winning time here last year and 31 miles an hour faster than the Indianapolis record. Bryan, from Phoenix, Ariz., won this year's Indianapolis 500.

Rathmann even beat the old 162 - mile - an - hour world record which German Hermann Lang set in a Mercedes 20 years ago on a track near Berlin that had a six-mile straightaway. The Monza speed track is a 2.6-mile steep-banked oval.

The terrific pace and the bumpy track knocked out all but six of 19 starting cars and left two drivers ill.

In final placings, Bryan was second in three hours, one minute, 9.6 seconds.

Aaron's Grand Slammer Leads 10-6 Victory For Braves Over "Dem Bums"

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A four-hit spree by Hank Aaron including his second bases-loaded home run of the season sparked the world champion Milwaukee Braves to a 10-6 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday.

In other National League action Sunday, Philadelphia Phillies defeated St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 in 13 innings in the first game of an incompleted double bill. The second game was halted in the eighth inning by the Pennsylvania curfew law.

San Francisco Giants blanked Cincinnati Reds 2-0 and Chicago Cubs split a twin-bill with Pittsburgh Pirates, losing the opener 4-3 and winning the night cap 8-3.

In the American League, Kansas City Athletics clobbered Casey Stengel's New York Yankees 12-6 Sunday, grabbing 15 hits off Yank pitching.

Baltimore Orioles downed first game of a twin-bill, but lost the second.

SWEEP BOTH GAMES

Baltimore Orioles swept a doubleheader from Cleveland Indians, 11-6 and 5-2, while Boston Red Sox staged a comeback to whip Detroit Tigers 10-7 Sunday.

At Chicago, Washington Senators stopped Chicago White Sox 12-6 in the first game of their twin - bill Sunday. Jim Rivera's run-scoring double in the 11th inning broke up a free-swinging second game to give the Sox a 12-11 victory and a sweep of the doubleheader.

Saturday in the American League, the Yankees clobbered Kansas City 8-0 behind Whitey Ford. Cleveland topped Baltimore 6-5, Chicago tripped Washington 8-4 and Boston edged Detroit 6-5.

In the National Pittsburgh beat Chicago and Milwaukee stopped Los Angeles by identical 7-3 scores, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 8-2 and St. Louis hammered Philadelphia 8-1 behind Sal Maglie. This game, seen on national TV, featured a triple play started by Philadelphia's Solly Hemus.

Del Crandall also hit a homer in the Milwaukee victory Sunday, as the Braves evened their four-game series with the Dodgers.

Milwaukee now has a two-and-a-half game lead over the second-place deadlocked Cards and Giants.

Al Worthington's four - hit performance plus a helping hand from veteran pitcher Johnny Antonelli helped the Giants to their Sunday win.

SIGN OF RELIEF

At Philadelphia, when the Sunday curfew stopped the second game of the doubleheader, the Phils heaved a sigh of relief. . . they were losing 4-3.

The winning run in the game came when Harry Anderson doubled home Solly Hemus.

Dale Long paced the Cubs to their win over the Bucs with four RBI's via a homer, single and double.

Frank Thomas' 22nd homer of the year highlighted the first game, won by the Pirates.

In the American League, veteran Red Sox stars Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen set the pace with three-run home runs in the 10-7 win in Briggs' Stadium.

Arnold Portocarrero tossed a five-hitter and drove in two runs in the second game of Baltimore's sweep over the Indians. Bob Boyd had five hits for the Birds in the second game that saw six Tribe hurlers allow 13 hits.

Hector Lopez started the Athletics on their way to the big win over the Ranks, with a homer with two out in the fourth. That started a rally for three runs at a point when the A's were five runs down. Roger Maris added a homer and three singles.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Brazil won the world soccer championship Sunday by outclassing Sweden 5-2 in a drama-packed world cup final.

The Brazilians switched on their magic in the first half for a 2-1 lead and treated the sell-out crowd of 50,000 at Stockholm's Rasunda stadium to as fine a display of football ever seen.

Every man in the Brazilian team was a star. The individual brilliance of the South Americans combined with superb team play and precision passing outclassed the Swedes, who fought all the way but never stood a chance.

Brazil had 22 shots at goal during the whole match and the Swedes only seven.

It was the climax to three weeks of gruelling competition that saw 16 teams start out in a bid for world soccer supremacy.

Heavy rain left the ground wet and soggy. Pools of water stood on the ground.

GOAL IN FOURTH MINUTE

The game started dramatically with Swedish inside forward Nils Liedholm scoring for Sweden in the fourth minute. It was a goal that sent the crowd wild with excitement.

But the joy of home fans was short-lived. Brazilian centre forward Vava, who like many Brazilians uses only one name put the South Americans on even terms in the seventh minute and from then on the Brazilians took complete charge.

Other goals in the match came from Vava in the 32nd minute, Pele for Brazil in the 55th minute, Zagallo for Brazil in the 67th minute, Agne Simonsson for Sweden in the 80th minute and Pele again in the 88th minute.

Nelson Edges Trail Squad

Playing a trifle casually on their home grounds, Nelson Champions coasted through the first half at Civic Recreation Grounds Saturday night before taking control of their exhibition match.

Slowly but remorselessly in the second half, Nelson put pressure on Trail Athletics before ramming home three goals for a 3-1 victory. Trail was vastly improved over their performance a week previously at Trail, but Nelson, in the final reckoning was too good.

Joe Molnar scored all three goals —in the second half.

Outlaws Collect 34 Runs; Win Pair in Doubleheader

Nelson Outlaws broke loose with a loud series of bangs at Civic Recreation Grounds Sunday afternoon for a total of 34 runs in two amazingly one-sided victories over Spokane Olympics.

Outlaws scored nine times in the second inning of the lid-lifter on the way to a 14-2 triumph behind Les Hufty's two-hitter. The locals came back in the nightcap for six runs in the first inning and eight in the sixth to highlight a 20-4 shellacking.

There was simply no way the shorthanded Olympics could cope with the Outlaw power, and Hufty, Blair Olson and Joe Postnikoff (for one inning) restrained the visitors on a total of seven hits for 14 innings.

Outlaws used only nine hits in the opener, taking advantage of wildness by hurler John Freeman and a generous supply of shoddy Spokane fielding. Olympics came without a regular catcher, and none of four employed behind the bat were outstanding.

Gary Huffman started behind the plate in the opener, but moved out shortly to make way for Don Holmes, Outlaw chattel loaned, along with utility outfielder Stu Brown, to make the game interesting.

Holmes was satisfactory, but not spectacular. In the nightcap, Clarence Buckenberger started behind the bat. He made way for Ed Luedtke in the last half of the sixth during an eight-run outburst that sayy 11 men step to the plate. Luedtke, to point up the injustice of it all, started the second game on the mound.

The former Spokane Indian hurler must be in the public relations business. He did all he could to make himself popular with his enemies, including giving four hits apiece to Frank Hufty and Leo Petty. In all, off Luedtke, and reliefer Freeman, Outlaws collected 21 hits.

Luedtke was Spokane's lone offensive threat. He belted a none-aboard homer for the second hit and only run off Hufty, then clouted a one-on blast in the fifth inning off Olson.

Big offensive gun for Nelson in the opener was catcher Ed Isakson — (how he loves hitting against righthanders!) — with a triple and two singles. Charlie Burdette had two singles in the first game.

Every starting player but Al McDonald had a safety for Outlaws in the nightcap, Monteleone had two, Frank Hufty four, Petty four, Burdette two, Les Hufty one, Ron Nash two, Don Hoffman three and Olson one. McDonald was unfortunate. He hit the ball hard twice but each time right at an opposition fielder.

It was just that kind of day. The weather threatened; the field was wet as a result of overnight rain; and the opposition, what there was of it, wasn't much.

Nash has hopes, however, that Tuesday's game with Colville Air Base Ra-Darts will be better. He contacted The Daily News and mentioned that he was telephoning the Base to make certain the Yanks bring their entire ball-club.

Demands Investigators Get Goldfine Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative John Bennett (Rep. Mich.) said Saturday he will insist that congressional investigators get all of Bernard Goldfine's records to find the truth amid conflicting statements in the Sherman Adams controversy.

"That's the one way we can corroborate all these things," said Bennett after hearing fresh testimoney from Boston businessman John Fox about relationships between Goldfine, millionaire Boston industrialist, and Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide.

Fox's new testimony under oath drew more denials.

Bennett, a member of the subcommittee of the House of Representatives checking relations between Goldfine and Adams, spoke in an interview as the House group appeared split whether to question Fox in secret when he returns to the witness stand.

TELLS OF HOUSE

Fox, who published the now-defunct Boston Post, on Friday quoted Goldfine as having told him that Goldfine had bought a Washington house for Adams and had given cheques to Adams regularly before Adams came here with Eisenhower in 1953.

"Falsehoods," replied presidential press secretary James Hagerty on both counts.

Hagerty said Adams has rented two houses he has lived in since coming to Washington and that Goldfine never sent any cheques to Adams.

SAYS NEVER HAPPENED

Late Friday, Adams blasted as "another malicious falsehood" a statement by Fox that Goldfine once sai din the presence ofAdams and Fox that Adams "is going to take care of" some troubles Goldfine was having with the federal trade commission.

"I deny it ever happened," Adams said in a statement.

Both Bennett and Representative John Flynt (Dem. Ga.) said Fox had not produced evidence so far to back up his words about Adams and Goldfine, once his friend but now a business foe.

Flynt said that if Fox cannot support his allegations "it's a serious error to question a man like him in open session."

Macmillan Blasts Blatant Perfidy Of Communists

ARDINGLY, Eng. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan Saturday scored "the blatant perfidy of the Communists" in the execution of Hungarian leader Imre Nagy.

But Macmillan added he hopes a summit meeting can be arranged and agreement reached with Russia.

Speaking at a fair at this Sussex village on the eve of his trip to Paris for talks with Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Macmillan said "with proper preparation and goodwill there is no reason why we should not be able to reach some agreement."

"But I cannot conceal from you the revulsion with which I learned of the executions of Mr. Nagy and the other Hungarian patriots. These have aroused the anger of the whole free world. . .

"It is little wonder that people are asking whether there is any point in attempting to negotiate with the Communists. For even if agreement is reached, they ask will it not be worthless?

NEED GUARANTEES

However, he said, he believes negotiations must continue with resolution for a reasonable settlement.

To give up the effort would be to admit defeat and leave mankind with little hope for the future—"that I am not prepared to do."

"The lesson to be learned from the tragic death of Mr. Nagy is this: "The blatant perfidy of the Communists who arrested him makes it all the more necessary to insist that whatever agreement is reached is fully guaranteed.

"If, for instance, we can reach some agreement on disarmament, then there must be an effective system of control."

Stay Alive, Drive Safely on Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Safety on the water and caution on the road were warnings carried Saturday to holiday-goers and headed for summer cottages and tourist resorts as celebrations of Canada's 91st birthday also heralded the first long weekend of the summer.

The Canadian Safety Council predicted 45 traffic deaths would occur between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Tuesday, July 1, the day marking the anniversary of the creation of Canada.

The prediction compares with 54 traffic deaths in the three-day weekend last year and 55 in 1956.

The holiday weekend is traditionally a heavy one for travel with schools closing for the summer and youngsters going to summer camps.

HEAVY BOOKINGS

Railway and airlines reported heavy bookings, particularly in the West.

Dominion Day celebrates the federation of the united provinces of Upper and Lower Canada (Ontario and Quebec) with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in 1867. Manitoba joined in 1870, British Columbia in 1871, Prince Edward Island in 1873, Alberta and Saskatchewan in 1905 and Newfoundland in 1949.

Water safety has highlighted warnings by provincial authorities in an attempt to keep the holiday death toll as low as possible.

Police and fire departments, helped by service organizations, are sponsoring safe swimming and boating demonstrations today and Sunday at Ottawa beaches, showing rescue methods, boating regulations and the proper way to handle boats.

NO HOLIDAY FOR POLICE

A country-wide crackdown on motorists is hoped to reduce the traffic fatality count. Provincial Police Director Hilaire Beauregard of Quebec said all his 600 men will be on duty at least 12 hours a day during the holiday period.

The RCMP in Alberta said all available patrols will be out and Manitoba officials issued similar warnings.

Winnipeg holds its annual Scottish games Tuesday, the same day the Flin Flon Trout Festival winds up.

Numerous fairs are taking place in Saskatchewan. Harness racing is scheduled for several points in the Maritimes.

British Columbia celebrations are tied in with the province's centennial. They include a yachting regatta, baseball games and police sports day at Vancouver, folk dancing and band concerts at Victoria and parades through the interior.

Woman Who Helped Hungarians Says Canada Leads With Gifts

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Henderson, Vienna-born British housewife who aided many refugees during the Hungarian revolt in 1956, praised the generosity of Canadians in an interview here.

"Canada has been our most generous contributor of all the Commonwealth countries," she said, "and I was so impressed by their readiness to help in Vienna that I felt I just had to see Canadians in their own country."

Mrs. Henderson, 49, volunteered her services as soon as the revolt broke out. Though she had lived in England 25 years, she collected as much clothing as possible and took her car to Austria.

For several weeks she operated as a single unit, driving along the frontier a picking up stray refugees as they fled through the swamps.

A Hungarian frontier guard's machine-gun put an end to this phase of her work, blowing out the car's front tires, turning the car over and breaking Mrs. Henderson's back in three places.

"I was three months in a plaster cast," she said. "During that time I decided to join the Save the Children Fund in Vienna as soon as I was fit again.

"I help to look after the 2,000 Hungarian children who are still in Vienna. Some have parents, but most have not. They range from infants—for the process of life still goes on there — to 18 years.

"Our biggest need, of course, is money. The children cost $1.50 a day each to feed, house privately, clothe and educate."

No Place for Setback In Livestock Markets

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The booming livestock business is posing this important economic and political question in the United States: Is it building up for another big letdown?

Producers of meat animals have been riding along on the crest of an upturn in farm income. Prices of cattle and hogs have been running from 25 to 35 per cent higher than a year ago. Market receipts from slaughter animals have been topping year-ago levels by around 16 per cent.

As a consequence there is little talk of recession in agricultural areas where the livestock industry prevails.

Yet, recent developments are causing farm leaders in and out of government to show concern about the future. There are signs that livestock producers, as in the past, may push increases in production too far and bring prices crashing about them.

Prices have been unusually good for several reasons. The reasons may be found in a good consumer demand for red meats. The recession seems to have affected meat purchases very little.

Another reason for the favorable prices is that many farmers have been holding back cattle for herd expansion. This has been the case especially in the Great Plains, where cattle numbers were cut sharply during the long drought which ended last year. Reviving range and pasturelands, plus the good market prices, sent many ranchers to livestock markets to buy cattle which otherwise would have gone to slaughter.

A third factor has been relatively low feed grain prices. When feeds are cheap and livestock prices are good in relation, farmers usually step up production, particularly of hogs.

Furthermore, there have been abundant supplies of grains—and this abundance may continue for some time to come.

A big outpout of hogs is indicated in 1959. A department of agriculture survey made public last week indicated that this year's fall pig crop will be 14 per cent larger than the 1957 fall crop.

If borne out, such a crop could bring a downturn in prices, but perhaps not to unprofitable levels.

The threat lies in what producers may do on big crops forrowed in 1959 and 1960. Once an expansion cycle gets under way, it usually carries through a year or longer.

Should the usual production cycle come about, meat animal prices might well hit bottom—and most likely in the big presidential election year of 1960. The outlook needless to say, worries Republican party officials.

Posthumous Award for Scout

OTTAWA (CP) — A 15-year-old Willowdale, Ont., scout who pushed toward higher scouting honors even on his death-bed has been awarded posthumously the Cornwell scout badge.

Scout Gysbert Edward Van Eserik, who died of cancer of the legs last March 29, received the top award of scouting for his "remarkable scout-like determination and fortitude." Young Gysbert finished his First Class Scout tests in hospital only 11 days before his death.

Two other scouts were cited for gallantry, another received a certificate of meritorious conduct, and 25 officials were honored for services to scouting in the list of Dominion Day awards announced on Sunday by Governor-General Massey.

Bird Lovers United Over Save the Stork Drive

LONDON (AP) — The stately stork may be making his last one - legged stand on the high chimneys of continental Europe.

He faces extinction — no one knows why. A group of British experts has reported "a calamitous decrease" in the number of white storks in Europe.

Egged on by the serious plight of the picturesque creature, bird lovers of the world are uniting in a save-the-stork drive.

Storks, as is well known, bring babies. Also, it is widely believed, they bring good fortune to the man on whose land they choose to live.

BIRD LOVERS MEET

Men and women travelled all the way from Argentina, the United States and Japan for this year's session in Finland of the International Committee for Bird Preservation, which has sections in 45 countries. High on the agenda was the stork.

"We need more precise knowledge of the tragedy which is befalling storks," says Miss Phyllis Barclay-Smith, secretary of the British section of the committee. "We have some suspicions, but not enough facts yet, to make governments and men indignant . . ."

Storks may be dying out from eating poisoned locusts. Storks migrate to northern, central and eastern Africa for the winter. They fly into locust country, in which international agencies spread tons of poison to control the devastating swarms of insects. Storks regard grass hoppers as a delicacy, and possibly they eat too many of the poisoned ones for their own good.

"There is conflicting evidence," says Miss Barclay-Smith. "Locust eradicators must, of course, do their work, and most of them insist that they do everything possible to protect innocent life . . .

"But we aren't sure, and what we need is hundreds and hundreds of autopsies on storks which die in Africa to determine whether poisoning is an important factor."

Shooting, particularly in France Spain and Lebanon, accounts for the destruction of some storks.

Some ornithologists think storks are not very bright and they have curious prejudices. They don't, for instance, like the British Isles. One explanation for this anti-British feeling is that storks won't fly over stretches of open water and the English channel is too wide to suit them.

Gives Reason Why Women Outlive Men

LONDON (Reuters)—A British doctor who uses the slogan "be wise, hypnotize" claims human beings have the potential ability to live to 150, 200 or even 250 years of age by means of hypnotherapy.

Writing in the current issue of the British Journal of Medical Hypnotism, Dr. S. J. Van Pelt says the only common factor among centenarians is their state of mind.

They enjoyed life, took an interest in living and wanted to go on doing so.

Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists, said hypnotism can induce this state by removing tension, anxiety and "strain disorders."

"Any organ or gland in the body can be affected by scientific hypnotic suggestion," Van Pelt said.

MOST LOGICAL

"Obviously, if glands can ensure long life, any method of controlling them is of importance when longevity is concerned.

"Hypnotherapy is the most logical method."

"Centenarians, having unconsciously hypnotized themselves into a strong desire to live and enjoy life, influence their organs and glands so that they work at maximum efficiency."

Why do women live longer than men?

According to Van Pelt, because they "let off steam through their emotions"—while men bottle up their feelings.

But when men had learned to deal with their emotions by hypnotherapy, they were likely to outlive women because of greater strength and stamina.

Men of the future will live to an average age of 250 years and women to about 200, Van Pelt concluded.

GOOD SWIMMERS

Muskrats, always close to the water courses in which they live, can dive and remain submerged for long distances.

Odds . . . and Ends
. . by M. D. B.

I have a heart-warming story for you today about a young Yugoslavian medical student who is now attending University of Alberta at Edmonton, with the kindly help of a fellow countryman here in Nelson. The young chap came to Canada in 1953, leaving his mother in Sarajevo and his sister in Belgrade where she is a professor of Arabic languages at the university. His father, a justice of the supreme court had been shot by Tito for political reasons after World War II and the son, having taken five years of his medical course, decided to come to Canada to finish his course and avoid being caught up in the political intrigue.

* * *

He arrived in Vancouver looking for work and someone there told him of a Nelson man, also a Yugoslavian in the mining game who might be able to get him a job. Up he came and was soon employed in mining at Ainsworth. The Nelson man who had hired him, said the new Canadian knew nothing of this type of labor but found him studying text books late into the night and was curious about this lad who had fine small hands and spoke cultured Yugoslavian.

* * *

When he learned of the young chap's plight he offered to help him through his medical course and sent him off to McGill, but he hit the language barrier and at McGill was advised to get work where he would hear nothing but English spoken and come back when he had mastered the language. He went to White Horse where he worked for a year as a male nurse and then worked in Edmonton for a year. By this time he had gained a working knowledge of English and by washing dishes at the University cafeteria was able to earn his board there. With help from his Nelson benefactor he is well on his way to completing his medical course.

* * *

He writes that he is doing cancer research with hamsters and his Nelson friend is delighted with his progress. "He'll be through in a year and a half," he says with a note of pride in his voice. I could tell how much it meant to him to be able to help someone get the education he would have liked to have had himself.

Tourists Miss New York's Most Fascinating Curio

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the fascinations of New York the tourist never sees, ranking somewhere between secret sessions in the United Nations and floating crap games in Brooklyn, is an esoteric, hyperthyroir, hydraheaded sect of mad evangenlists known as Broadway press agents.

There are many kinds of Broadway press agents — those with brilliant brains, those with creative brains, with witty brains, with fiendish brains, with no brains. But the one syndrome that united them is a restless phobia about space.

Press agents have a horror of space being wasted, in print or on the air, on trivia like the H-Bomb or inflation or Khrushchev when, as everyone knows, the world is crying for news about a new snake charmer, play, movie, talking squirrel, hypnotist, hair restorer, night club or the 10 best-dressed pickled herrings of the month.

Thus, from Broadway's crowded cowpath of culture and corn, the press agents arise to attack the mansions of news in many ways—through the front door, through the back door, through a window with a rusty lock, up from the basement or through a hairline crack in the wall.

FACT OR INVENTION

Dreaming of the front page but willing to settle for the back, they sound out carloads of releases, invent stunts, make announcements, give awards, and search the stage doors, the night clubs and-or their brains for news and gags for the columnists. It is not an easy life.

For example, there is one type of press agent, usually dour-faced, day dreaming up gags to flow from who sits chained in a closet all the mouth of his client into the Broadway columns. Thus Arthur Murray, the Mr. Chips of the dance studios, began to enjoy a reputation as a wit.

But suddenly a famine set in. For three weeks none of the columns reported any of Murray's epigrams. Finally, he stormed into the office of his press agent, demanding:

"What happened to my sense of humor?"

There are big press agents and little press agents, men who work out of plush offices and moles, who work out of phone booths, men whose fee runs into the thousands and men whose feeis a bartered hotel room, men who handle only the biggest names and men who handle names known only to the missing persons bureau.

There is big, beared Jim Moran, probably the most fiendish mind in the business.

Jim is the man who sold a reon and hatched an ostrich egg for The Egg and I, ran a bull into a Fifth Avenue china shop and startled Park Avenue with a strange limousine.

"LOOK, NO HANDS"

The steering wheel, gearshift, clutch and brakes of the car had been moved into the back seat, where hidden from view, Moran did the actual driving. At a dummy steering wheel in front and apparently driving was an ape. The car was plastered with signs for the play The Matchmaker.

Moran's big coup this year — so far — was a "spontaneous" demonstration of anger at the play, Look Back in Anger. Early in the third act one night a woman jumped up from the audience, mounted the stage and slapped an actor playing a woman-hating character. The audience gasped, the management offered to refund their money, the show went on bravely and the stunt made all the papers the next day.

"Planning a publicity stunt," says Moran, "is like planning a bank robbery. You must figure on every condition and emergency. You must plan your front, your alibi, your getaway."

Lebanon Not Pleased With Hammarskjold

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rising irritation with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations was exhibited here Saturday.

Hammarskjold was accused editorially of seeming to lack "appreciation" of what's going on in this rebellion-racked nation. He has been reported to believe that the situation is not so bad as it looks and has adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

Surprise and shock at this apparent attitude was voiced by the most influential spokesman for the moderate group that stands between President Camille Chamoun and rebels trying to overthrow him, said Beirut's leading newspaper L'Orient.

An editorial criticizing Hammarskjold appeared to be unexpected support for the president from a source that has been opposing him though not siding with the rebels.

The editorial indicated the UN observation mission here does not realize how serious is the situation created in Lebanon by the infiltration of United Arab Republic forces. It appealed for decisive action to deal with the situation.

Accusing the United Nations of ambiguity, the editorial said: "It seems that Hammarskjold's powers of appreciation are as limited as his powers of decision."

Lawyer Charges Conspiracy

PENTICTON (CP) — Prince George lawyer John Meredith Tayler has taken out a writ against Attorney-General Robert Bonner and 25 members of the law society of B. C., charging them with conspiracy to prevent him from practising law.

The writ was issued by the court registrar here Friday after Tayler failed to gain support at the society's annual meeting for a resolution urging that the powers of benchers be reduced. The writ calls for a hearing within eight days.

Mr. Tayler originally proposed a motion at the society meeting censuring the benchers, the society's governing body, for suspending him from practice for six months "for criticizing a county court judge." He later withdrew the motion.

Mr. Tayler told the meeting of the society that his suspension was arbitrary and illegal. He sought unsuccessfully to have a B. C. legislature committee set up to investigate the suspension. He said he resumed practice April 5 after his suspension.

Elmore Meredith, discipline committee chairman, ruled him out of order when he asked that the charge against him be read from the committee's report.

The chairman said Mr. Tayler had had a chance earlier to appeal the benchers' ruling to the court of appeal but had not done so.

Who is Danny Fortune? . . . He's a combination of everyone who ever piloted an airplane. He rides Canada's skies from Atlantic to Pacific and from the U.S. border to the Pole. He'll test-fly the Arrow, Canada's newest and fastest aircraft, for the RCAF . . . He'll be flying mercy missions in the Arctic and, just perhaps, he'll be among those making the first flights into space!
