Tunisians Fire On Patrol Boat

Demand French Forces Leave Bizerte; Barricade French Military Bases

TUNIS (AP) — Tunisia demanded Wednesday the evacuation of all French forces as the price of restoring French-Tunisian friendship. The government underscored its demand with a display of increased hostility, including firing on a French patrol boat at Bizerte.

In retaliation for France's air attack on the border village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef Saturday, Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba told France to pull out her 15,000 troops and give up her strategic naval base at Bizerte.

But the French showed no signs of bowing to Tunisian demands.

In Paris, the French were reliably reported ready to seek to have all French bases in Tunisia brought directly under NATO command. Then Bourguiba would have to deal with the NATO alliance although Tunisia is not a member.

BARRICADE BASES

Meanwhile, Tunisian national guard troops barricaded the French military bases. Truckloads of Tunisian troops sped to Bizerte to build defences around the entrances to the port's natural harbor.

Orders for the buildup came after Tunisian forces fired with small arms at a French naval patrol craft trying to slip out of the harbor Tuesday night. When the firing started, the craft returned to the base.

The Tunisians have threatened to block the harbor entrance with boats if the French try to run the blockade. This technique was used by the Egyptians in the Suez Canal during the 1956 hostilities It took months to clear the canal again.

The French used three helicopters to fly supplies to an army base near Tunis. This was in defiance of a Tunisian threat to shoot down French aircraft trying to deliver supplies to isolated bases.

DELAY UN PROTEST

At the United Nations Tunisian ambassador Mongi Slim held up submission of Tunisia's request for a UN security council meeting pending further consultations with council members.

He is understood to be studying what action Tunisia could get from the council. Slim talked among others with Soviet delegate Arkady Sobolev, council president for February.

French forces apparently were under orders to restrain themselves and let the diplomats in Paris work out the problem.

Premier Felix Gaillard's government appeared to be acting more boldly in the face of criticism from its own allies. Gaillard, who got sound backing from the National Assembly Tuesday night after defending the attack, sent his government's own report to the NATO council, beating out Norway, which had threatened to bring up the matter.

The NATO council announced later that it will meet in a special session today on the general subject of "political consultation." A NATO spokesman refused to elaborate but said the French - Tunisian crisis will be brought up among other things.

NATO INVOLVED

NATO became indirectly involved in the dispute when Bourguiba demanded the French quit Bizerte. The base, which can handle the biggest of navy vessels, guards the Mediterranean Sea.

The United States and Britain pleaded with both France and Tunisia to simmer down and settle their dispute peacefully. But there seemed to be a divergence of views on how the matter should be settled.

PAY BOOST FOR COAST TEACHERS

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — School trustees and teachers here have agreed on a 13.5 per-cent salary boost in 1958.

A joint statement issued by trustees and teachers said the agreement reached "partly accomplishes the teachers' main requests this year for a professional scale."

A single scale is now in effect for elementary and secondary teachers.

Basic 1958 salaries for teachers holding elementary certificates will range from $3,100 to $5,100 with the maximum attainable in 10 years.

Basic salaries for secondary teachers will range from $4,000 to $6,800 with the maximum attainable in 14 years.

NAMES DRUG RINGLEADER

TORONTO (CP) — A convicted drug trafficker Wednesday put the finger on a Toronto man as the ringleader of a narcotics ring that shipped $200,000 worth of drugs to Vancouver in less than a month.

Jack Meldrum, 37, who pleaded guilty last week and was sentenced to eight years concurrent with a 12-year sentence he is serving in Vancouver, identified Vern Epter, 51, as "top man."

New Haven Not To Be Disbanded

Bonner Announcement Cheered in Legislature

VICTORIA (CP)—The New Haven Borstal school will not be disbanded, Attorney-General Robert Bonner told a cheering legislature Wednesday.

Mr. Bonner, speaking in the budget debate, reversed a previous decision to move the New Haven institution to the Haney correctional institute.

He also said a similar Borstal-type program would be started in the vicinity of the Haney institute.

Mr. Bonner told the legislature New Haven will continue to house approximately 30 inmates "in its present location" and will continue to "operate with approximately its present staff and population."

He said an additional group which may in time number 800 will be placed during the fiscal year "in a Borstal-type program" near Haney.

The proposed closing of New Haven has raised a storm of protest from many quarters including delegations from the John Howard Society, arguments in the legislature, groups of New Haven "graduates," and a crowd of University of B.C. students who last week forced Mr. Bonner to sign a petition against the re-location of the school.

He said the Haney institute would be in full operation by the end of the fiscal year. The picture as estimated by his staff shows 314 guards in the institute and satellite camps, with 630 inmates, giving a ration of prisoners to staff of only two-to-one.

The number of inmates referred to at the Haney facilities include 400 at the Haney Correctional Institution, 50 at Gold Creek rehabilitation camp, 120 at the Chilliwack pre-release camp and the Borstal institutions.

"The question of New Haven has been very much in the public mind in recent weeks," Mr. Bonner said.

"There is no doubt in my mind that in the foreseeable future the press of population around the New Haven site and the condition of the premises themselves will argue very strongly for its removal to a more suitable location and premises.

"Meanwhile it will be our intention to establish in conjunction with Haney a Borstal-type program for young men who in the ordinary way would not qualify on examination and segregation for the present Borstal program."

DULLES DOES ABOUT FACE

Decides Preliminary Meet Not Necessary

By PAMELA MATTHEWS

LONDON (Reuters) — East-West negotiations for summit talks shifted Wednesday to the toughest problem yet—what to talk about.

A major obstacle to the conference was removed Tuesday when John Foster Dulles said he did not consider a preliminary meeting of foreign ministers essential.

The comment by the U.S. secretary of state was in line with Prime Minister Macmillan's view that the summit talks could be prepared through diplomatic channels as an alternative to a foreign ministers' conference.

Soviet Premier Bulganin has rejected repeatedly a meeting of foreign ministers in advance of the heads - of - government conference.

Officials here said the main hurdle in the way of a summit conference now is lack of agreement on an agenda.

In a reply to Moscow last Saturday, Macmillan endorsed President Eisenhower's suggestions of items to be discussed.

Court Crowded for Sommers Case Preliminary Hearing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former forests minister Robert Sommers and those charged with him in an alleged bribery conspiracy Wednesday elected trial by judge and jury.

Preliminary hearing of the charges against Sommers, four business men and four companies opened before Magistrate Oscar Orr in a crowded courtroom with six RCMP officers guarding a table laden with documents. There were 10 lawyers and five typists in court.

Sommers sat with his arms folded. He spoke only once during the opening phase of the hearing. That was when he was asked by the magistrate if he understood the charges and he replied: "Yes."

Angelo Branca, counsel for the former minister, took part in a spirited exchange with the magistrate after requesting amplification of the charges. He said he could not tell what his client is charged with because of the general nature of the charges.

"We're entitled to the time, place and manner. We're not apprised of any act," he said.

Mr. Branca said he wanted to know how much money and what it was that was accepted and by whom.

Magistrate Orr said Mr. Branca should have made his request before. Mr. Branca said he has had no previous opportunity since he has only recently been appointed counsel for Sommers.

"I am not satisfied and I make that application now," he said.

Mr. Branca cited previous cases in a 20-minute argument to support his demand. The magistrate said he would consider the application and ask city prosecutor Stewart McMorran if further particulars could be included in the charge.

A. E. Bull, counsel for C. D. Schultz, supported Mr. Branca's application.

"There are no references in the charges to forest management licences. For two years we have heard nothing but scandals about forest management licences, but there is no mention in two pages of charges of these licences," Mr. Bull said.

Maigstrate Orr said he would like the extra information to be supplied by Monday.

NO NIGHT WORK

Mr. McMorran said "I can't do this any more at night. Unless I am out of court for at least two full days I will not be able to produce the particulars by Monday. I will not work on Sunday, and only a half day on Saturday."

"I say right now I don't intend to work at night to get these particulars," he said, adding that he had given the lawyers for the defence a resume of all the evidence.

40 WITNESSES

Mr. McMorran said there would be 40 witnesses and 25 statements.

McMorran asked for immediate adjournment if these particulars were wanted before Monday, but Mr. Orr denied the request and ordered the hearing to proceed.

When the six charges of offering and accepting bribes were read to the defendants, Mr. Sommers stood with his arms behind his back and frequently looked down at the floor.

Mr. Branca asked permission for Mr. Sommers, member of the legislature for Rossland-Trail, to be excused from attending court so he could resume his seat in the legislature. Mr. Orr said he would consider the matter.

"This is going to be a long case and if there is no legal objection there is no point in having a person sitting here if he is not wanted in the case," the magistrate said.

First witness was RCMP Sgt. John Purdy. He told of seizing about 4000 documents from the offices of Pacific Coast Services Limited Nov. 21, 1957. Ninety-one of the documents were entered as exhibits.

Wind Delays Bulldog IV

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP) — Possibility of casualties to paratroopers jumping in 20-mile-an-hour winds Wednesday forced postponement of a scheduled airborne assault in winter exercises for a mobile striking force.

The drop was to be made from 16 RCAF flying boxcars by about 320 officers and men of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The drop will be held today if winds are under the 15-mile-an-hour limit for training jumps.

As Part of Exercise Bulldog IV the Patricias were to make their airborne assault in this 400-square-mile army camp 120 miles southeast of Edmonton to dislodge an "enemy" force which has set up a missile-guidance system for an attack Friday on the United States.

Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, officer commanding the army's western command and exercise director, told reporters Wednesday that under actual Arctic combat conditions the weather would be a factor — but not a big one — in any paradrop.

Stumping With The Leaders

Tax Cut Pledge ... Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson set off on the campaign trail Wednesday night in search of his first mandate and promising a "good fight for we have something to fight for."

The 60-year-old party chieftain, elected to head his party just 27 days ago, swung aboard a train bound for Ontario points while Prime Minister Diefenbaker delivered his keynote address at Winnipeg.

All along the trail, the confident Mr. Pearson, who has promised to lead the Liberals back to power March 31, will elaborate on his $400,000,000 tax-cut pledge and unfold a few other ones he now is known to be mulling over.

As he prepared his itinerary, the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize winner said in an interview he regrets that he has had little time to reorganize the Liberal party, beaten at the polls in the June 1957 election after 22 continuous years in office.

Whatever his tactics, the line taken by Mr. Pearson is sure to be a contrast to the mild-mannered campaign conducted by his predecessor, former prime minister Louis St. Laurent, in the 1957 fight. Then the elderly Mr. St. Laurent, now 76, pledged mainly to maintain "good government."

Long Range Plan ... Diefenbaker

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker launched his election campaign Wednesday night with an appeal for return of a majority Progressive Conservative government to carry out a long-range national development program.

He outlined plans for heavy expenditures on roads and railways to open northern resources, measures to strengthen Canadian control over foreign investment, and expansion of power output across Canada.

The Conservative leader also promised extension of the present scheme of old age pensions with "a rounded and effective contributory social security plan" patterned on a study of the United States social security program.

Speaking in Winnipeg's giant Civic Auditorium, Mr. Diefenbaker said he did not call the March 31 election "without trying in every way to prevent it." But he added: "Canada's major needs cannot be served by a minority government."

Conservatives held 113 of the 265 Commons seats in the last Parliament.

He said his government, in that Parliament's single session, completed the legislative program to meet its short-term objectives.

"As a minority government we now feel that we should seek from you, the people of Canada, a new and stronger mandate to pursue the planning and to carry to completion our new national development program for Canada."

Margaret Poses For Bust

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret posed for sculptor Jacob Epstein today, and obviously found it a pleasant experience. The mink-coated princess was wreathed in smiles as she left his studio near Hyde Park.

Epstein, 78, has been commissioned to do a bronze bust of the princess for the University College of North Staffordshire at Keele, of which she is honorary president.

LABOR PARTY WINS SEAT

LONDON (Reuters — Diesel engine mechanic Jack McCann Wednesday captured the Rochdale seat in Parliament for the Labor party as the Conservatives ran a poor third in a three-corner contest.

Second was Liberal Ludovic Kennedy, a television commentator, and third was Conservative John Parkinson.

Released Scientists Say Russ Not Bluffing

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany (AP) — A German rocket scientist held by the Soviet Union for 13 years declared Wednesday night that the Russians are not bluffing when they say they have intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Peter Lertex, 66, who worked on the German V-1 and V-2 rockets, made the statement when asked about Russian progress with guided missiles. Lertes is a specialist on electronic remote control as applied to rockets.

He was taken to the Soviet Union in 1945 with hundreds of other German scientists and technicians.

Lertes said the Russians won the race to put up an earth satellite because they concentrated fully on their Sputnik program.

But he added that no German scientist or technician was directly employed by the Russians on the Sputniks.

BENEFIT FROM GERMANS

He said the Russian bid for outer space undoutedly benefited considerably from the knowledge gained from the captured German scientists.

Lertes returned to West Germany Wednesday with nine colleagues who were finally allowed out after periods of up to 13 years in Russia. All who returned were former employees of German electrical firms connected as physicists, engineers or technicians on the problem of remote control of missiles.

B. C. Teachers Offered Support

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor unions and teachers organizations in Alberta and Quebec have offered support to B.C. Teachers Federation in its campaign against compulsory salary awards.

The federation said Wednesday it has received messages of support from the Alberta Teachers' Association, the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec and the Vancouver and District Labor Council.

Green Announces ...

$20 Million Federal Spending for B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Public Works Minister Howard Green announced Wednesday a $20,000,000 federal spending program for British Columbia.

He told a press conference it will be part of the government's speeded-up construction program aimed at providing jobs for unemployed.

About $9,000,000 will be spent on new buildings and harbor work in B.C. and about $11,000,000 on highway construction.

The projects include a $4,000,000 wing for Vancouver's Shaughnessy Veterans' Hospital, a $2,000,000 science services laboratory for the agriculture department at the University of B.C., a $1,000,000 Indian school and dormitory at Mission, a $500,000 renovation program for an old federal building here and a similar program at the Chilliwack army base.

Mr. Green, member for Vancouver-Quadra in the last House, said the Conservative government's most effective weapon against unemployment so far has been its housing program.

"This program has been of tremendous significance in pulling the housing industry out of its slump," he said. "The result has been that 1957, which looked like a bad year for housing, turned out to be one of the best."

The $11,000,000 for highway construction will go towards B.C.'s share of the Trans-Canada Highway. He said the amount represents about 25 per cent of the over-all total for Canada under the Conservatives' new spending program.

He did not indicate when the highway money would be paid to B.C., but said work on most other projects will begin shortly.

CHURCHILL INVITED

CALGARY (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill has been invited to open the week-long Calgary exhibition and stampede July 7, stampede president F. C. Manning announced today.

Britain's former prime minister visited Calgary several years ago.

Penticton Considers Home Nursing Plan

PENTICTON (CP) — The annual meeting of the hospital society here advocated setting up a home-nursing plan for persons who need some care but don't require hospital treatment.

The group decided Tuesday night to ask city council for a 10-cents-per-capita grant to support the plan, which was rejected two years ago by council.

The society said that with proposed abolition of the 70-cents-per-patient-day charge to municipalities for resident patients, the city could afford the $1,200 for the home nursing.

The group was told there was an operating deficit for the hospital last year of $8,707, compared with the 1956 deficit of $27,132. It was termed the best year ever under B.C. Hospital Insurance Service financing.

Retiring chairman P. E. Pauls recalled the threat of a nurses' strike at the hospital last July and said a similar situation could occur in the future.

"At this date there is no indicated change in government policy that would relieve hospital boards of the unpleasant choice between disruption of service and morale on the one hand, and alarming deficits on the other," he said.

Jordan-Iraq Union Announcement Today

By JAMES NORRIS

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—The Hashemite kingdoms of Jordan and Iraq are expected to announce today a limited federal union which will allow the countries to pursue somewhat different foreign policies.

King Hussein of Jordan and King Faisal of Iraq, 22-year-old cousins descended from the prophet Mohammed, conferred through the day on the proposed union.

Informed sources said they reached agreement on most major issues and a statement of union will be issued today.

The statement will contain references to "one government, one army command, one currency and one development board," these sources said.

But Iraq is expected to remain in the Baghdad Middle East Defence Pact while Jordan is not expected to join. The anti-Communist alliance links Britain, Turkey, Iraq, Pakistan and Iran. Jordan is not anxious to tie itself to the pact.

Thus any act of union is expected to exempt Jordan from committing itself to Iraq's foreign alliances.

A representative of King Saud of Saudi Arabia sat in on Wednesday's union talks as an observer. Saud is not expected to link his country to the union at present.

Trade With Red China Urged for B.C. Economy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chairman J. V. Clyne of MacMillan and Bloedel Limited Wednesday urged trade with Communist China and new labor legislation to help solve grave problems facing B.C.'s economy.

"What I have seen and learned in the last few weeks during the pulp and paper strike troubles me deeply as a citizen of this province," the former judge told the Vancouver Board of Trade in an address entitled: "The Path to Economic Suicide."

Mr. Clyne resigned from the B.C. Supreme Court bench at the end of the year and was appointed to his present post early last month.

"We can get into serious trouble in this province if, because of recent prosperity, we become too complacent, and I confess I have been guilty of a degree of complacency because I had not been brought face to face with the problem," he said.

The prosperity of the province rests on its primary exporting industries and these are at a disadvantage because of distance from markets, heavy taxation and strong competition, Mr. Clyne said.

The most logical area for selling B.C. primary products is in the Orient and "the sooner we accept the fact that we must recognize the government of Communist China and treat her as a trading entity, even though we don't like her political philosophy, the better it will be."

Turing to labor relations, Mr. Clyne said he has found to his astonishment that the economics of industry are "not considered as a matter of importance" by union negotiators.

During negotiations in the recently concluded 11-week pulp and paper strike, he found labor leaders attached first importance to securing a wage increase, without regard to falling markets, B.C.'s competitive position or the economy of the country.

"I felt we were temporarily taking leave of the world of hard realities and being invited to play a game of make believe—a game in which we were to suppose that it didn't matter how much we added to costs."

Mr. Clyne said the methods of the Labor Relations Act failed entirely and the time has come for employers and labor to develop new legislative machinery to prevent similar disastrous losses to both sides from future industrial disputes.

He said the answer may lie in use of skilled mediators, as in the United States, in improved conciliation boards, in expert arbitration boards or in labor courts.

And in This Corner ....

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Those cotton carnival banners that flapped in the breeze last carnival season are going to be destroyed. They were made of rayon.

That firm decision was announced Tuesday at a meeting of the carnival's publicity committee. The next cotton carnival begins May 13.

The city will pick up the tab for the new banners which will cost several hundred dollars. They'll be 100 per cent cotton.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Inky, a small black cocker spaniel, has made his annual trip to the police station for a new dog licence.

Police Chief Fred Abrams said Inky appears about this time each year and refuses to leave until he is issued a new tag. This year, Abrams said, Inky got a new collar because his old one was worn.

Abrams said Inky sometimes visits the police station during the year, but only at licence time does he whine and bark for a new tag.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actually men are the weaker sex," a British surgeon says.

Dr. W. C. W. Nixon, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of London, told a gynecological conference Tuesday that more than 15 per cent of English fathers insist on being in delivery rooms with their wives.

"One father fainted dead away while watching his child being delivered," Dr. Nixon said. "He smashed to the floor and was knocked for six.

"When we could get around to him, we discovered he had a broken jaw. His wife went home with the baby in four days, but he spent six weeks in our hospital."

Conciliation Board Set Up

Appointment of Magistrate William Evans as chairman of a conciliation board investigating a dispute between Yale Lead and Zinc Mines and Local 901, District Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union, has been made by the provincial government.

Other members are J. Black of New Denver, representing the union, and A. Burton of Trail, representing the mine.

The board will investigate wages and working conditions. Hearing will be Saturday morning at the court house.

Boy Released

Family court Judge William Evans released a Sons of Freedom child from New Denver Dormitory School Wednesday. Court was convinced the boy was 15 years old, age at which children can be released.

Million Dollar Tower Hotel To Be Discussed for Nelson

Possibility of development of a proposed office-tower, hotel project that would result in the City of Nelson owning a $1,000,000 building will be discussed at a special meeting of City Council next Wednesday.

Mayor T. S. Shorthouse last night outlined a proposal suggested by the Vancouver originators of the project whereby funds could be raised with city backing.

The mayor compared the plan to the development of the city's major utility, the power plant, and foresaw the acquiring of a city hall "for nothing."

In his report, the mayor said:

"During my recent trip to Vancouver, I called on the principals of the proposed tower hotel development to ascertain the city's position with respect to the much discussed project, which for financial reasons has been delayed for several weeks.

"I can tell you now that the principals in Vancouver find it impossible to finance the project, but they were most enthusiastic about the success of such a development for the city of Nelson, offered me a great deal of encouragement, and asked me to bring it before the council for your consideration as to the feasibility of the city developing the building.

"The council is, I am sure, concerned with the urgency of more suitable and adequate quarters for civic administration and I am of the opinion that with the assurance of a government long-term lease for space in the building, along with the proposed city hall requirements, and the other rentals which I understand have been agreed to, the building could provide a long felt need for the city and district. And could, I feel, be an extremely good investment.

"I compare it to the very favorable development of the city power plant—an instance where former city councils had to take the initiative to provide Nelson with means for a sound economic future.

REQUIRES BYLAW

"I have been assured that the money is available for us for such a development. It does require a money bylaw, with government approval, and it does not affect our borrowing power. It would have to be approved by the ratepayers.

"It has been suggested that we limit it to a 60-room hotel for the time being, with provision for extension, if necessary, at a later date.

"The City would erect the building and lease it to a reliable hotel operating company, who would be in full control of its operation.

"The City owns most of the property in the area concerned, so our investment in real estate would not be great.

"It can be built, I am told, for close to $900,000, and in approximately 25 years this City would own a valuable piece of property.

"If the Council is interested in the plan, I have been assured Paul H. McClung, Gerald Hamilton and E. L. Boultbee would be only too pleased to come to Nelson to discuss it with the Council."

The Mayor strongly recommended the City go into the project, stressing the urgency of Nelson helping itself to go ahead.

"We've lost the brewery . . . we're losing the jail . . . this could give us the development we need. All we have is the tourists, and we have to attract them here."

Blueprints, plans and estimated costs were available, and Hon. W. D. Black, provincial secretary and MLA for Nelson-Creston, has assured Mayor Shorthouse the Government would honor a lease signed for space in the proposed building.

"I know we have the old post office, but we have uses for it. The museum is housed there, the Civil Defence unit is using it, and the City band practises there. It could contain a library — releasing that space in the Civic Centre—a City court room, and a lockup."

TEN RECEIVE CITIZENSHIP

Ten local people received citizenship certificates Wednesday from Judge E. P. Dawson in county court.

They were Marie Johanne Bauer and Max Christian Bauer of Riondel, Heinz Franz Hermann Carl and Susanna Carl of Riondel, Viktor Chomski of Salmo, Folkert Cnossen and Jean Cnossen of Blewett, Marino De Pretto of Nelson, Aldo Mercello Goegan and Theresia Frehling of Riondel.

Petitions for citizenship papers were approved from Karolina Anna Baird of Nakusp, Norbert O. Choquette of Nelson, Anneliese Junger of Nelson, Mary Orbeliani of Nelson, Christian Gunnar Pedersen of Slocan City and Gerda Laux of Nelson.

Fire Department Answers 13 Calls

Nelson Fire Department answered 13 city calls and one outside call last month, Fire Chief E. S. Owens said in a report to council. There were 10 calls in January, 1957.

Value of property damaged was $410 compared wtih $1900 in January, 1957. Value of property exposed to fire was $141,000, with fire insurance cover totalling $99,400. There were three false alarms, two of them set off innocently by five-year-old boys, compared with one in January, 1957.

"We realize the challenge to reduce five violations and hazards in our business and merchantile properties by continued fire inspections. The increased attention to the elimination of violations and hazards throughout all of our buildings is most gratifying," Chief Owens reported.

Weekly practices on downtown buildings, also ladder, hose and pump evolutions, lectures on ventilations, first aid extinguishers, fog nozzles and other equipment were continuing, he added.

In the field of school children, fire prevention and public relations, the department, in conjunction with the Civic Centre and Mayor T. S. Shorthouse, acted as hosts to a large skating party.

The report was received and filed.

COURTS BUSY THIS WEEK

Nelson courts were busy this week and imposed fines totalling $265 on counts ranging from impaired driving to parking meter violations.

D. M. Monaghan, Nelson, was fined $200 and costs and his driving licence was suspended for six months when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving before Magistrate William Evans.

W. J. Grant, Nelson, was fined $10 and costs Wednesday by Magistrate R. S. Nelson when he pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding in a playground zone.

G. W. Gasser also pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding and Mr. Nelson imposed a $10 fine.

Kenneth Lowres, Nelson, was fined $1.50 and $3.50 costs when found guilty of a parking meter violation.

He appeared Tuesday and pleaded not guilty to the charge, when the case was adjourned until Wednesday.

Six Nelsonites were each fined $5 and costs by Magistrate Nelson for parking meter violations. They were:

A. J. Hesse, M. Makortoff, Roy Kline, James McLachlan and Elmer White. All pleaded guilty by written request.

Toronto Thieves Get Two Years Imprisonment

V. A. Regimbalt and R. L. Thomson of Toronto were sentenced to two years' imprisonment by provincial court magistrate William Evans on a charge of breaking and entering.

The sentences will run concurrent to terms imposed Tuesday by county court judge E. P. Dawson.

The two were charged with breaking and entering the North Shore home of A. J. Hesketh near Two-Mile Point in late January. A small quantity of goods was stolen. They elected trial by magistrate and pleaded guilty.

Regimbalt and Thomson were sentenced to one year and 18 months respectively Tuesday when they pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the home of R. C. Emory near Four-Mile Point about the same time. Clothing and other personal articles were taken.

Government Neglecting Nelson Area, Affleck

The B.C. government is "absolutely neglecting this part of the country" in its prison modernization program, Ald. B. C. Affleck said Wednesday night.

He spoke after a letter had been read from G. D. Kennedy, deputy attorney-general, relative to proposed closure of the Nelson jail. A delegation including Mayor T. S. Shorthouse met with Mr. Kennedy and other government officials earlier.

Mr. Kennedy said the government had to consider closing one or two custodial type institutions in favor of modern correctional methods, such as those used at the new Haney Correctional Institution, which give inmates a chance to rehabilate themselves. Impossibility of duplicating these facilities in other parts of the province was pointed out.

JAIL COSTLY TO HEAT

Rental of the building by the city, possibly in conjunction with the RCMP, was suggested since the government would like to see the building kept open in case of an emergency. Mayor Shorthouse said RCMP Inspector E. S. W. Batty was not too interested in such an agreement. The Mayor thought the building could not be used by the city now and said it is expensive to heat.

Ald. W. S. Ramsay asked if it could be used for, say, an engineering office? Mayor Shorthouse said it is badly cut up for this purpose.

Council agreed to invite a government representative here to discuss all phases of the question, including possible establishment of a Kootenay work camp. A copy will be sent to Hon. W. D. Black.

A road to Kokanee Glacier Park should be developed, Mayor Shorthouse thought. He said inmates could be transported easily from town to the site of operations.

If the jail became a correctional institution, social workers would have to be hired, Ald. Edith Van Maarion pointed out. Mayor Shorthouse said the government has set up four camps, each with 60 prisoners, in other parts of B.C.

RETURNS HERE TO RETIRE

A resident of Nelson and district from 1904 to 1926, Robert Dean Cook, 79, has returned here to live.

Mr. Cook logged in Castlegar and South Slocan and worked in the smelter here. From 1917 to 1926 he worked in the Canadian Pacific Railway car department. At that time he lived in a house at the corner of Falls and Gore Streets.

The oldtimer said he did not know the city when he arrived Tuesday night, but was beginning to get straightened around by Wednesday. He knew J. J. Boyd and several other present Nelson residents.

First Daily News he remembers was in 1908 and Mr. Cook was surprised to see the new, modern plant. He is now staying at the Allen Hotel.

After leaving Nelson, Mr. Cook went to Calgary for a year. He then left the railroad to homestead and farm at Entwhistle, Alberta, 60 miles west of Edmonton. He has now retired.

Mrs. Cook died in November. A son, Walter Cook, lives in Camrose, Alta. There are two grandchildren.

NORTH SHORE TO DISCUSS HALL

North Shore residents will meet tonight to discuss future use of the newly built United Church Hall, presently $13,000 in debt.

The meeting was called in order to establish a future course of action by those interested in its upkeep and completion which will provide needed recreational and social facilities for the 140 families who live in the immediate area.

When completed, the hall will include sport facilities, a dance floor and community rooms. It was started three years ago and the building was completed during 1957 by Volunteer working parties from the vicinity.

Tonight's meeting, which takes place in the hall at 7:30 p.m., was mistakenly reported for Tuesday night.

Death Accidental, No One Blamed

TRAIL — After one hour of deliberation during an inquest into the death of six-year-old Ray Roy Campbell, of Fruitvale, the jury brought in a verdict of "accidental death as a result of a motor vehicle accident with no blame attached to anyone."

Dr. Stewart Daly was coroner and Charles King jury foreman.

Social Services Protest Sent by Kootenay Deanery

Following Wednesday's meeting of the West Kootenay deanery, members sent a resolution to the provincial government protesting curtailment of social services.

The institutions which caused the meeting's concern were the Provincial Mental Hospital, Child Guidance Clinic, Woodlands School for Retarded Children.

Present at the quarterly session of the deanery, which continues today, are Rev. Canon W. J. Silverwood and Rev. Canon G. W. Lang of Nelson, Rev. W. Edington of Willow Point, Archdeacon B. A. Resker of Castlegar, Rev. E. S. Somers of Grand Forks, Rev. E. R. Hope of New Denver, Rev. T. Mitchell of Nakusp and Rev. F. Wyatt of Rossland.

Service was held at the St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral Wednesday evening conducted by Canon Lang, assisted by Rev. Somers and Rev. Hope. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Wyatt.

Next quarterly meeting will be held in Nakusp in May. A retreat will take place in September.

Good Weather Aids New Hospital

Good weather in January enabled continuing of concrete work on the new hospital, R. H. Procter, administrator of Kootenay Lake General Hospital Society, said in a progress report.

The report covered a claim for $52,039, bringing total spent to date to $595,501.

Third floor slab is complete and Mr. Procter thought concrete work except sidewalks, curbs and ramps could be finished this month if mild weather continued. Main electrical vault has been energized to give temporary power and boilers are ready to be fired for temporary heating when water is available. Trench excavation is 90 per cent complete except for Douglas Road sewers.

Thirty per cent of the electrical installation, 31 per cent of the plumbing and 50 per cent of the heating and ventilation had been done. There were 40 building inspections last month with an average of 50 employees engaged on the project.

New Contract for Cranbrook Teachers

CRANBROOK (CP) — A merit-rating system, believed to be unique in British Columbia, has been incorporated in a new contract for Cranbrook district teachers.

The contract, which is retroactive to Jan. 1, sets a basic salary lower than that for surrounding districts but allows for additional remuneration based on individual performance. The merit clause has been inserted on an experimental basis.

The innovation is the first practical application in the province of a scheme advocated recently by Dean Neville Scarfe of the University of B. C. education faculty.

Responsibility for deciding on merit rating rests jointly on school principals, inspectors and school boards.

Speed Zone From Hendryx to High

A resolution from Nelson police commission establishing a 20 miles per hour zone from Hendryx and Baker Streets to Cherry and High Streets was approved Wednesday night by city council.

Police commissioner chairman Mayor T. S. Shorthouse reported the recommendation was made because of complaints about speeding and cars hitting the Baker Street curb.

The new zone will be east from the 800 block Baker to Cedar, north on Cedar to Edgewood, east on Edgewood to Park, north on Park to High and east on High to Cherry.

MORE VANDALISM

Police believe vandals were responsible for breaking and entering City Weigh Scales Monday night.

Entry was gained by breaking a window on the west side of the office building. Using an axe in the building, the intruders chopped at the lock area on both sides of the door. Nothing was reported taken.

Plant Figures Up Over January

Figures recorded last month at Bonnington generating station were up over those reported for January, 1957.

Total kilowatt hours generated were 3,688,850. Other figures, with 1957 comparisons bracketted, were: station sevice, 10,110 KWH (9350); net KWH to system, 3,678,640 (3,625,800; average load KW, 4944 (4873); peak load KW, 8300 (8300); minimum load KW, 2380 (2200); 30-minute average peak KW, 8142 (8133).

BOSSY AND THE LAW (OR MECHANIZED BUCKAROO)

Cowpunchers of the roaring west have been known to trade lariats for the tin badge of The Law. Nelson police Wednesday reversed this procedure and became cowpunchers for a short time.

There was a modern touch to the theme, however, for the two maverick hunters arrived at roundup scene in mechanical mustangs.

The rodeo was set into motion when a bossy old cow was noted wandering in aimless rumination on our fair city's streets — "A Terrible State of Affairs", all will agree.

"An Anxious Citizen" reported "bossy" to the fire hall, but as everyone knows, firemen can not become involved with "Cows." If it had been a fiery bull, now, that would have been different!

As a result of the cow veto, firemen informed city police and Const. F. J. Vecchio galloped — oops, — drove in search of "bossy". She was corralled at Josephine and Carbonate Streets and shortly after her capture Sgt. J. H. Crozier arrived with a rope and assisted his "pard".

At that stage, the arithmetics of the situation totalled: 1 cow plus two policemen plus two cars, equal one stalemate. This was eventually overcome, though, and one car was left at the intersection while Const. Vecchio led "bossy" to the city pound. Sgt. Crozier hazed from the rear in the second car.

The bovine excursion ended finally when Mike Evdokimoff of Rosemont was established as "bossy's" owner.

Unfortunately, "bossy" was not available for interview or portrait taking and her intensions are not known, perhaps she became dissatisfied with mountain scenery and was meditating a jump over the moon!

SEWAGE OUTSIDE CITY IS REFUSED BY COUNCIL

Council agreed Wednesday to tell R. D. Barnes, executor of the estate of the late D. W. Guy, they would be glad to supply sewer facilities to Mr. Guy's former home if, and when, that area comes into the city.

Mr. Barnes said the sewer facilities were necessary so the house could be sold. The house, which was moved from the new hospital site and never lived in at its new location, was 50 feet from a city sewer and provincial health authorities would not allow a septic tank to be used.

The house next door is served by the city, Ald. B. C. Affleck said. However, council recently made an "iron-clad" resolution against making connections outside of the city. Mr. Guy was refused service last summer.

The more sewer connections are made outside the city, the more remote will become chances of these people coming into Nelson, Ald. W. S. Ramsay said. He was supported by Ald. George Eckmier. There have been many applications from persons outside the boundaries for sewer facilities, added Ald. G. A. Mermet.

Individual conditions should be considered since "rules are always made to be broken," Ald. Affleck thought. Ald. Eckmier wondered how council would appease other applicants, to which Ald. Affleck said each case should be treated on its own merits.

City ratepayers should not have to provide sewage disposal for those living outside Nelson, added Ald. Eckmier. Giving them sewer connections if they would agree to come into the city with the area was suggested by Mayor T. S. Shorthouse. The city has been "asleep at the switch" in not putting that in other deals, Ald. Affleck commented.

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Africans from the British territories of Basutoland, Swaziland and Bechuanaland must obtain permits to remain in South Africa after next May, it was announced here Tuesday.

Newspaper Man John Bassett Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — John Bassett, chairman of the board of directors of the Gazette Printing Company Ltd., died Wednesday night in hospital. He was 72.

A native of Northern Ireland, Mr. Bassett joined the Montreal Gazette as a cub reporter in 1910 and in an association with the daily that lasted almost a half-century became one of Canada's most prominent newspaper figures.

He was chairman of the company since March, 1956. As president from 1937 to 1956, he guided The Gazette through the difficult years of after-depression and the Second World War, and into rapid expansion in the post-war years. He was elected to the board in 1913.

ACCEPT RED LOAN

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt has accepted a $20,000,000 loan from East Germany in the form of machinery, factories and euipment, the newspaper Al Ahram reported Tuesday. The ministry of industry declined to comment on the report. Al Ahram said an Egyptian mission is proceeding to East Germany to discuss details.

HUME TEACHERS, PARENTS HOLD SUCCESSFUL MEET

Hume school teachers, students and parents worked together Wednesday afternoon to make a success of the annual Valentine tea of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Garlands of red hearts held in the beaks of large paper bluebirds encircled the activity room. These were the work of Mrs. Della Irwin's grade 3 students and of the grade 2 boys and girls in Mrs. B. MacLean's room.

Scattered on the white tea tablecloth flanked by red tapers were more hearts. A centrepiece of red roses carried out the theme.

Girls of Mrs. J. S. Livingstone's grade 6 room wore bright aprons and headbands of red and white which they had fashioned for themselves. They worked with PTA members in serving tea, sandwiches and cakes. In the gymnasium Grade 6 boys and students from the grade 5 rooms of Bill Irvin and Miss Fiona Wilson acted as baby-sitters.

Guests were met at the door by Mrs. M. A. Martyn, president; Mrs. A. L. Furman, tea convener; and Mrs. Paul Berekoff, co-convener. Mrs. M. Cushner was in charge of the silver collection. The raffle of a cake baked by Mrs. R. C. Couch was conducted by Mrs. W. L. Carter. Mrs. J. Grant won the prize.

Pouring at the tea table were Mrs. C. H. Jones, Mrs. H. E. Doelle, Mrs. Richard Palmer and Mrs. J. M. Morley. Mrs. Louis Hanic was in charge of the bake table, assisted by Mrs. J. S. McIntosh and Mrs. S. Hansen.

Serving tea were Mrs. E. T. Bodard, Mrs. R. J. Rothery, Mrs. M. J. Varseveld, Mrs. A. J. Shankland, Mrs. G. V. Fredriksen, Mrs. H. F. Lake, Mrs. B. J. Frocklage, Mrs. E. J. Ferraro, Mrs. W. C. Curran and Mrs. R. Irving.

Runners were Mrs. C. E. Swanson, Mrs. F. E. Kienholz, Mrs. E. Halliwell and Mrs. W. K. Massey. In the kitchen for the affair were Mrs. R. H. Procter, Mrs. B. D. Balderston, Mrs. R. Brock and Mrs. Thomas Fox.

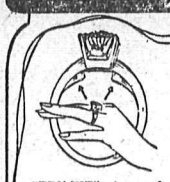
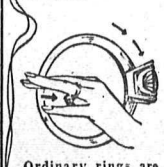
PROTECTION Built In TO EVERY RING



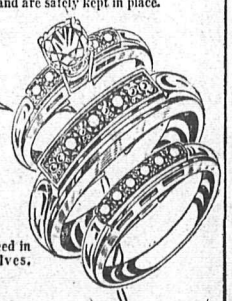
"TRU-FIT" rings adjust automatically to the shape of your finger — never twist, always fit.



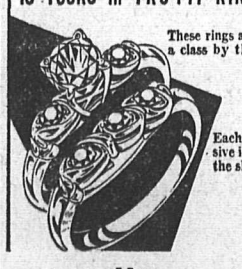
Ordinary rings are sized to fit your knuckle only, then twist and turn on your finger.

DISTINCTIVE Heritage TRU-FIT DIAMOND RINGS

These are superior — because in each ring two concealed "TRU-FIT Angels" spring into action to embrace your finger gently, yet firmly. The rings never twist — and are safely kept in place.



SECURITY and PROTECTION IS YOURS in TRU-FIT RINGS



These rings are indeed in a class by themselves.

Each of these creations is exclusive in design — self-adjusting to the shape of your finger.

Teacher Merit System Adopted On Trial in Cranbrook District

CRANBROOK—A contract unique in British Columbia has been signed by Cranbrook District School Board and the Cranbrook District Teachers' Association on one year's experimental basis and retroactive to January 1.

It sets the basic salary scale for district teachers lower than in adjoining school districts, but allows for additional remuneration to teachers based on individual performance without reference to a set scale of increase or periods of experience. In effect it is the first practical application in the province of the teacher merit-point system advocated in theory by the dean of the University of British Columbia school of education.

The big question concerning the theory of merit rating of teachers was where the responsibility for the rating would be placed. The new contract here outlines a system whereby school principals, the district inspector and the school board will evaluate achievement in teaching of the individual teachers over a set period of time.

Where teaching results are deemed to show exceptional ability and work habits, the teacher will receive remuneration above that resulting from fixed schedule increments, while performance judged substandard would result in less than the normal periodic set increment.

Concern has been felt by the school board over the poor showing in the past two years of Cranbrook students in department of education examinations in comparison with the provincial average. In amicable negotiations between committees of the board and the teachers' association, constructive means of improving the level of learning was the main concern.

Prior to negotiations, the teachers' association had proposed increases which would amount to 28.76 per cent of the 1957 salary total of $264,961.50. Increases granted in the new contract total 15.1 per cent to bring the teacher salary budget to $305,170.

Anglicans Select Synod Delegates

INVERMERE — The annual meeting of the Windermere District Parish Anglican Church elected F. W. Hillier of Invermere as Senior Warden and H. R. Wannop of Windermere as Junior Warden.

Delegates chosen to attend the annual synod at Nelson are E. C. Peatfield of Radium, Captain J. R. Ogilvie-Wills of Fairmont and Ray Crook of Invermere.

Mr. Peatfield was appointed parish clerk to succeed Mrs. F. W. Hillier who has held the position for 12 years.

Rev. Richard Littlehales presented his report for the year and announced that $1100 has been pledged for 1958.

Reports from Windermere, Edgewater and Invermere churches all showed considerable activity and the Church Guild and Evening Branch of the W.A. had accomplished much work for the church.

Galloway Man Again Heads East Kootenay Health Board

CRANBROOK — The first meeting of 1958 of East Kootenay Board of Health named Harry Erskine of Galloway to continue a second term as chairman, with Charles Wilson of Sirdar vice-chairman and Health Unit medical officer Dr. G. A. Gibson secretary.

Members of the board are appointed by the school boards. City Councils and Village Commissions each January, and meet quarterly to discuss matters concerning the public health of the whole district and make recommendations to East Kootenay Health Unit.

City council representatives on the board this year are Isaac Haile and J. R. Minton of Fernie, Mark Beduz of Kimberley and A. J. Balment of Cranbrook. Village commission representatives are Dr. G. E. Lapp of Golden, J. B. Yuill of Chapman Camp, E. H. Elliott of Marysville, and C. A. Anderson and Murray Fisher of Creston.

School district representatives are Mr. Erskine for Fernie, Mr. Wilson for Creston, Vincent Downey for Cranbrook, Mrs. Ida Volk of Marysville for Kimberley, Sydney Feuz for Golden and Mrs. R. Sattman for Windermere.

Cranbrook Church Has Notable Year

CRANBROOK — The best year in its history from the viewpoint of parishioner participation and financing in 1957 was reported at the annual parish meeting of Christ Church presided over by Rev. R. W. S. Brown, new minister. Minister in 1957 was Rev. F. D. Wyatt who moved to Rossland parish in early winter.

Outstanding parochial event during the year was the drive for membership and pledged financial support of the parish which exceded its $40,000 objective over a three-year term. During the latter part of the year a volunteer crew completely insulated, re-roofed and shingled Christ Church, and this month work is to start on reconstruction of the vacant rectory which will cost about $10,000. The rector and family meanwhile are living in rented quarters.

Financial statement for operations of the parish for the year showed receipts totalled $12,739.17, and operating disbursements left a balance of $1260.45 to start 1958. Outstanding financing improvement came from the regularly pledged membership envelope contributions which amounted to approximately $8000 compared with the total in 1956 of $2700. Report was by treasurer John Connolly.

T. E. Wood was named to succeed R. S. Inglis as rector's warden, and the meeting elected Frank Townsend as people's warden. Delegates to the Synod at Nelson will be Mr. Inglis, C. W. Draper and G. E. K. MacDonald, and alternates Wesley Harbottle, Mr. Townsend and D. C. MacDonald. Elected to the parish committee were Mr. Harbottle, Mr. Draper, G. E. K. MacDonald, Fred Cawte, William Betts and Mrs. W. G. Spence.

Liberals Welcome Back J. A. Byrne

KIMBERLEY'S CENTENNIAL BABY TO BE HONORED

KIMBERLEY—The first baby born after midnight Wednesday of next week will be Kimberley's centennial baby.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Kimberley hospital will present the infant with a sterling silver souvenir spoon, suitably engraved to mark the occasion.

Centennial Dollars To Go to Top Ling Angler

INVERMERE — Some lucky fisherman will be the richer Sunday evening by 100 silver centennial dollars.

Lake Windermere will be the rendezvous of ling fishermen from all over East Kootenay and many from Calgary, with the Centennial Ling Derby as a major attraction. The Windermere District Rod and Gun Club is sponsoring the contest.

Judging of fish will be by length only and should a tie occur, the heaviest fish of the two will be judged the winner. All judging will be done by Game Department officials.

Miss Carol Portman, 1957 Queen of the East Kootenay Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition, will award the prize.

Ice on Lake Windermere is 14 inches thick but in consideration of public safety, only the official car will be allowed within the fishing area, which is the ling spawning ground at the mouth of Windermere Creek.

Ample parking space will be available adjacent to the fishing area.

Convener of the derby is Gordon Rad of Invermere.

Contestants in the Centennial ling derby must purchase an entry ticket prior to starting fishing and must have a regulation fishing licence. Contestants must catch their own fish and it must be caught within the fishing boundaries marked off on the ice.

Derby fishing will begin at 9 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. No entries will be accepted after 4 p.m. All B.C. fishing regulations must be observed.

In addition there will be a prize for the best photo taken during the derby. Entries must be submitted to the Rod and Gun Club not later than March 8. Photos are to be of some aspect of the derby. No entry fee is required.

Besides the grand prize of 100 centennial dollars, other prizes, donated by local merchants, will be awarded.

OIL PAINTING NETS $100

PROCTER — Report on the Christmas concert and plans for the third annual talent night scheduled for Valentine's Day were the main topics of discussion at the Procter PTA. Proceeds from an oil painting donated by the artist Oliver Melby of Procter netted over $100.

Some new talent has been discovered by the committee of William A. Henke and B. J. Fitchett. Entertainment will be provided by a men's quartet and a musical pantomime, with H. R. Anderson and Mrs. Alec J. Garner supplying behind-the-scenes singing.

Church Assets Up During 1957

SOUTH SLOCAN — During the annual meeting of St. Mathews Anglican Church, Canon W. J. Silverwood informed members the church assets had increased in 1957.

Church income has increased and the church has became self-supporting as part of the Church of Redeemer parish. A new oil furnace, new floor and four new pews have been added to the building.

Canon W. J. Silverwood opened the meeting which heard reports from church groups, and proceeded with election of officers for 1958.

In commenting on efforts of last year's officers, Canon Silverwood offered his thanks to all and said "More has been accomplished this past year or so than we have been able to do for many years."

George Craft, rector's warden since the death of J. D. Yeatman, has accepted the post for 1958. B. Hammond was re-elected peole's warden. 1958 church committee consists of Mrs. C. M. Murray, Mrs. H. McDougall, Mrs. R. J. Mulloy, Mrs. S. Baker, Sr., and M. Harrison. Treasurer, Mrs. R. J. Mulloy, secretary, M. Harrison.

As delegate to the Synod in Nelson April 23, Mr. Harrison will represent St. Mathews and Mr. Craft is substitute delegate.

Women's Auxiliary report by Mrs. S. Baker Sr. showed much activity in all phases of their work. The 14 members of the auxiliary entertained at tea twice during the year and took part in May 24 celebrations.

Of the W.A.'s $200 contribution to church funds, $150 was designated for payment on the new furnace. New dishes and spoons were purchased for the new hall.

Contributions were also sent to Indian schools.

One of the members attended the annual meeting in Vernon, and all members took part in the World Day of Prayer.

Forty-three Sunday School members, with an average attendance of 35, collected funds and gifts to make up 12 Christmas parcels for old-age pensioners in the Annable Block in Nelson. Mrs. D. James' class of seven teen-age girls have undertaken the work of caring for the church altar.

The report, presented by Superintendent Mrs. D. McDougal, showed a balance of $52.50 for Sunday School funds.

Teachers are Mrs. S. Baker, Mrs. L. Sinclair, Mrs. Axworthy, Mrs. R. Kennedy, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. E. Hill, secretary.

President Mulloy of the Naomi Club spoke of the club's project for clearing the bank outside the church of debris and repairing the walk between the church and hall. A bake sale will be held by the six members in February. The club report shows $419 spent on the new church floor.

ASK FOR INCREASE

The parish of South Slocan will be asked for an increase in contributions to the Church of the Redeemer to assist in its status as a self-supporting church, and to the "Kootenay Forward Fund."

Religious instruction classes will be conducted by Canon Silverwood each Sunday before afternoon church services. Three candidates are hoping to be confirmed in the spring.

Drainage from snow pushed over the bank onto church property is undermining the church foundations, and a letter will be forwarded to the Department of Highways about this matter.

Mrs. I. Stone acted as secretary for Mrs. D. Bell, who was unable to be present.

ROAD PROGRAM AMBITIOUS

INVERMERE — The Invermere Village Council has embarked on an ambitious road program for 1958. This will include gravelling main roads in the village with possible hard surfacing of some of them.

A project under way at present is the building up of Third Street below Bruce Avenue to avoid the uphill approach to the avenue.

D. B. Coombs, superintendent of Kootenay National Park, addressed the February meeting of the Windermere district Board of Trade. His subject, "Mapping the Canadian North", covered his experiences as an engineer in the Ungava Peninsula and James Bay and Hudson Bay areas.

Mr. Coombs described the fine scenery of Baffin Island which has a mountain range 8000 to 10,000 feet in height, dropping vertically to the sea.

He spoke of the Eskimos, reporting that there are some 10,000 of them and said they vary considerably from tribe to tribe depending on the economic conditions of the area in which they live. He described them as wonderful to work with as they are reliable and have an amazing mechanical aptitude.

Mr. Coombs' lecture was illustrated by some fine colored slides which he had taken himself.

S. Africa Withdraws Treason Charges

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—The government Wednesday withdrew treason charges against a white man, two Asians and a publishing company.

The men were Len Lee-Warden a member of Parliament, and K. Moonsamy and Ismail Chota Meer. The firm was identified as the "Real Printing and Publishing Company."

The withdrawal of the charges came 13 days after the three, together with 92 others, were committed for trial on a charge of high treason for plotting to set up a Communist state.

Originally 156 persons appeared at the preliminary inquiry, which lasted more than a year, but last December the prosecution withdrew allegations against 61.

With the withdrawal of the charges Wednesday, the total number to face trial now is reduced to 58 Africans, 16 whites, 16 Asians and two of mixed race.

Lee-Warden is one of three white members of Parliament representing African interests.

No date has been set for the trial, but it is unlikely to start for at least another two months. All accused have been granted bail.

OHIO MAN BAGS BIG COUGAR

INVERMERE — One of the largest cougars to be caught in the Windermere district was bagged by Wallace McKenzie of Diamond, Ohio, who had come to the Valley for the purpose of cougar hunting with guide Jim Thompson of Edgewater. The cougar measured nine feet, four inches.

Mr. McKenzie has been big game hunting in the valley for years and is also a keen photographer.

B.C.'s Sikhs Discard Turban

VICTORIA (CP) — An urge to "live modern" appears to be sweeping the tradition - steeped Sikh colonies in British Columbia.

Sikh officials here report most of the sect adherents are unwinding their turbans and wearing hats.

Kuldeep Baines, spokesman for the East Indian community here, is typical of the "contemporary" Sikhs. He wears a hat regularly, gets haircuts regularly, and generally goes along "with the times."

FEWER BEARDS

The long, flowing beards also are disappearing in the Sikh communities of B.C.

Mr. Baines explains the long hair and beards were strictly utilitarian when the sect, a break-away from Brahmanical Hinduism, originated.

In the religious wars of the past, the beards and long hair served to identify the Sikhs in battle.

Many of the oldsters, however, are sticking rigidly to the rules laid down hundreds of years ago. The "kes," or unshorn hair, often grows to a length of two feet. It is worn in a top - knot under the "pugri" or turban.

The turban itself is from three to five yards long, from two to three feet wide, and can be made from any suitable material.

"They aren't hot, even over the hair," said one turbaned millworker. "In fact, they keep the heat off."

He admitted, however, that in a damp climate one could get a soggy head from wearing the turban.

TURBAN FASHIONS

There are fahions in turbans, dictated mostly by methods of winding and of color. The fashions are set in the Patiala area of northern Indian, home of the Sikhs.

Mr. Baines says that while there is no actual significance in turban colors, it would be inappropriate to wear a black turban to a wedding, or white to a funeral.

It is estimated there are about 3,000 Sikhs in British Columbia, with about 1,000 of them on Vancouver Island and the rest on the lower mainland.

Mothers Collect $325 For Polio

INVERMERE — "The March of the Mothers" sponsored by the Invermere Kinsmen Club for the B.C. polio fund received $325 in donations and other donations have not yet been reported. Last year the fund reached $600.

Indications point to a busy time ahead for the club which will schedule the annual ladies' night, centennial celebrations, the annual anniversary banquet and dance and a bottle and light bulb drive fund-raising project.

Appointment of Brands Inspector Discussed

CRANBROOK — Appointment by the provincial department of agriculture of a Cranbrook district inspector of stock brands was main topic dealt with at the February meeting of the Cranbrook District Farmers' Institute. This work has been done for many years by an officer of the RCMP, at present by Corporal H. H. Smith. Corporal Smith was main speaker at the meeting outlining the Stock Brands Act and range laws, and requirements of brand inspection which is necessary for shipping live cattle, parts of carcasses, and hides, and for local slaughter or for butchering of stock carcasses killed accidentally.

The Provincial Inspector of Brands at Victoria will be invited to address the Institute at its March meeting with further information on the subject.

Crown range closure for horses will start February 15 and continue to April 16 through East Kootenay, and the district's recommendations for agents to round up horses found at large during that period have been approved by the range officer. They are Ken Miles of Marysville, Fred Pattinson of Wycliffe, Cliff Grainger of Fort Steele, V. T. Casselman of Bull River and Mrs. Bill Sissons of Cranbrook. How to obtain a permit for stud shooting of either branded or unbranded stallions was also reported to the meeting.

ACCIDENTS

A committee named at the January meeting to report on the extent of highway accidents involving stock on open range told the meeting that only three per cent of the highway accidents from Canal Flat to Kingsgate and east to Jaffray had involved stock on the road in the past eight and a half months. Actual statistics showed six accidents with motor vehicle damage of varying extent and death of the range animal in each case.

District agricultural agent J. W. Awmack asked L. G. Pippen of Mayook, Mr. Casselman of Bull River and Max Bidder of Wardner to report the subjects their areas preferred for the annual short course in June which will be offered here by the department of agriculture.

U.K. Calls for Consultation

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain is consulting the United States and France about the effect of the new Egyptian-Syrian union on the Western big three's 1950 guarantee of Middle East stability, the House of Commons was told Wednesday.

Minister of State Allan Noble said the three Western powers must determine whether the 1950 tripartite declaration now requires alteration.

The declaration pledges the three powers to maintain a balance in arms deliveries to Israel and Arab nations and to preserve peace and stability in the area.

HOSPITAL AID ANNUAL MEETING

INVERMERE — Mrs. W. H. Cleland was re-elected president of the Senior Hospital Ladies' Aid at Invermere during the annual meeting. Vice-president is Mrs. E. E. Tunnacliffe and Miss E. M. Fisher was re-elected secretary.

Mrs. G. H. Cartwright, who was president for many years, was elected honorary president.

Mrs. Ernest Johnson convenes the buying committee.

The organization has only 12 active members but has achieved commendable results during the year. The chief project was donation of a deep freeze unit to the Windermere District Hospital. In addition they donated a small electric refrigerator to the hospital nursery, an electric iron to the nurses' residence and one dozen baby blankets to the nursery.

The hospital aid was formed in 1911 and has been active since, having donated many thousands of dollars' worth of equipment to the district hospital.

Liberals Quick To Learn— Now Think of Elector

Possibly there was something to be said for the philosophy of those old-time educators who believed that corporal punishment was an essential adjunct of learning. Certainly the Liberal party after their punishment in the last election have been quick to learn. Before they were more or less contemptuous of the electorate, now nothing is too good for them.

It certainly increases our sense of importance to be treated with consideration and to be offered all the good things which the Liberals are now willing to give out of our own money. Unfortunately it also makes us wonder why they did not think of these things when they were in power. Then, too, all this somehow makes us wonder if all these offerings are not carrots to please the donkey.

It is a pity to be suspicious. We should take things on their face value and not be introspective about them. What a happy time we should all have if only we could manage to kick each party out after about six months. In time we should be the most pampered electorate in the world and possibly the country would be bankrupt.

How nice it would be for a change if instead of stressing all the material benefits to the individual a party gave the voters the credit of believing that they are intelligent individuals who are less concerned with their own benefits than they are for the good and the prestige of the whole nation.

The Arab Republic

It is easy to dismiss the new United Arab Republic, formed by the union of Egypt and Syria, as a mere gesture without practical importance. Certainly the new state faces immense difficulties. Its two parts are separated by Israeli and Jordanian territory, and have no common frontier.

Their forms of government are different; Egypt is a thorough-going dictatorship, while Syria still has a parliamentary system with competing parties. Both countries are predominantly agricultural, and their economies are more competitive than complementary. Even more serious, perhaps, is the disparity in size. Egypt has 23,000,000 people to Syria's 5,000,000, and it is likely to dominate the union to a degree unacceptable to many Syrians.

These are formidable obstacles, and there is little to indicate that Presidents Nasser and Shukri al-Kuwatly have given them much advance consideration. In the case of the medieval little kingdom of Yemen, which is also reported considering accession, the difficulties are multiplied. It is doubtful fi anything more than a very loose federal union is possible between Yemen and the northern states.

Despite all this, however, the union is likely to have a tremendous emotional effect in the Middle East. Arab unity has long been a popular dream. Though widely scattered, the Arab peoples share most of the intangibles—a common language, religion, and culture—which make a nation. In addition, they have a long tradition of unity; to cite one example, for much the greater part of the last 2000 years Syria, Egypt and what is now Jordan were under one government—whether it was that of the Roman Caesars, the Arabian Caliphs, or the Turkish Sultans.

By contrast, most of the separate present-day states of the region are new and rather artificial creations, with no roots in the past and little hold on the affections of their subjects. The union of Syria and Egypt is the first concrete step toward the creation of an Arab nation. It may quite conceivably touch off a wave of nationalistic emotion which will lead to the unification of the Arab world.

This in itself might be no bad thing, but in the present state of affairs it represents a serious threat to Western influence in the Middle East and perhaps to the peace of the world:

1. The present and prospective members of the United Arab Republic, Egypt, Syria and Yemen, have been consistently hostile to the West and have accepted arms and economic aid from the Soviet Union. Their union—especially if they induce other countries to join them — should therefore be highly gratifying to Russia.

2. The pressure on Jordan is likely to be increased. The absorption of this kingdom would provide a much-needed connecting link between Syria and Egypt. We may expect further attempts to overthrow the shaky monarchy. Any such conspiracy could probably count on widespread support from the Palestine refugees and other groups among whom Pan-Arab sentiment is strong.

3. One of the avowed aims of the new republic is to annihilate Israel. A joint attack by a united Egypt and Syria—especially if Jordan came in—would have a far better chance of success than the ill-co-ordinated Arab campaigns of 1948, or Egypt's single-handed fight in Sinai in 1956.

Moreover, a war against Israel might be the surest way of rallying the whole Arab world to the standard of the new United Republic. The analogy of Germany comes to mind; it was the conflict with France in 1870 which made possible the unification of the German states. Israel has perhaps never been in greater peril in its ten years of existence.

This development is a challenge to Western policy in the Middle East, but so far there is no sign of effective action to meet it. The Eisenhower Doctrine has no application to the situation. The only alternative organization which the West has held out to the Arab peoples is the Baghdad Pact. But this defensive alliance, with its predominantly non-Arabic membership, has far less appeal than a purely Arab state; and what attraction it offers has been further impaired by the refusal of the United States which sponsored the scheme, to join it. If the Arab world is not to be organized against us, there is need of far more imaginative statesmanship. — Toronto Globe and Mail.

Threat of Baldness

On top of all the other hazards that bedevil modern man, a Russian physician, Dr. B. Dobarskikh, has announced that tobacco, smoked in even small amounts, can cause baldness, among other disorders. This statement cannot be brushed aside as mere propaganda, designed as part of Russia's war of nerves against the West. For it was made in an article published in the Moscow newspaper Young Communist. Dr. Dobarskikh must believe that what he says is true.

Even though it has evoked so much wry humor, baldness is a serious matter. A bald man jokes about his condition only to hide his true feelings, which are revealed in the infinite care he takes to brush the sparse locks, or lock, remaining to him in such a way as to hide his baldness, if only partially.

Why should this be so? Baldness has existed, in one place or another, throughout recorded history. Statues and drawings of Greek philosophers and Roman politicians reveal baldness in some of its most acute forms. In the lusty Elizabethan age, Shakespeare wrote "bald as pard." Since then, baldness has been apparent everywhere. Men should be used to it by now.

Yet they are not, perhaps because at no point is a man's vanity so easily injured as in the appearance of the top of his head. Consider the extraordinary lengths to which some young men go with their hair. The intricate patterns they achieve make a woman's coiffure seem dull. In mentioning baldness as a consequence of smoking, Dr. Dobarskikh has hit where it hurts. All the evidence indicates that smoking has nothing to do with baldness. But it is enough simply to mention baldness to raise uneasy doubts in the minds of smokers. Dr. Dobarskikh has undoubtedly caused some anxiety. It is to be hoped he goes no farther, returns to his practice and stops dabbling in research.

Miracle on the Tundra

One hesitates to use the word miracle these days. But the chance rescue recently of a doctor, a bush pilot, an Eskimo and his child permits no other word.

On a 330-mile flight from Churchill, Manitoba, Wiggo Norwang was piloting his single-engine Trans-Air Norseman, carrying Dr. Jean Charles Patry, the Eskimo Ayaruk and his daughter Annie, 11, as passengers. There was an air of homecoming and celebration in the plane, for the doctor was returning to his family at the Roman Catholic mission hospital in isolated Chesterfield Inlet, and Ayaruk and his daughter were looking forward to a reunion with relatives after three years at the TB sanatorium in The Pas.

Then, miles from nowhere, the plane crashed. The doctor and pilot suffered broken legs, the Eskimo a broken collarbone and his daughter a broken hip. Their chance for survival was nil in 30-below-zero weather. There was hardly a hope they would be discovered, since a Mountie patrol passed along this way only once a year. For 30 forlorn minutes they looked forward to a grave among the snows.

Then an extraordinary coincidence brought rescue as suddenly as the crash had occurred. RCMP Const. Len Mascatto and his Eskimo guide, on their once-a-year patrol, spotted what they thought to be a pile of rocks. They were about to press on when one of the rocks moved. The injured were saved.

How to explain this fortunate combination of events? Mere chance? The doctor the pilot, the Eskimo and his child have only one word for it—a miracle.

College Debaters

Representatives from ten Canadian and U.S. universities converged last week on the University of Toronto's first inter-university debating tournament. The debaters thoroughly assaulted and finally vanquished the topic: "Resolved, that in international relations Canada's interests are adequately represented by Great Britain and the U.S." It was a pleasant irony that both teams in the finals of the tournament were U.S. and an irony capped when the Catholic University of America proved conclusively to the University of Rochester that Canadian foreign policy was no mere footnote to that of Britain and the U.S.

Under such friendly circumstances, the John Bassett Trophy, presented for annual competition, goes to Washington this year. Torontonians may be consoled that an award for the best speaker went to Toronto's Stephen Lewis, son of David Lewis, CCF national chairman, who proved that debatesmanship is a family heirloom.

A college debating tournament may be an important act of international friendship and a training ground for future parliamentarians on both sides of the border.

Your Individual HOROSCOPE

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, February 14, 1958

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Take it calmly, slowly, before you voice opinion or act too quickly. Your Mars stresses gentleness to avoid overaggressiveness. Mental alertness, bright ideas and pleasantries are strongly approved. We can be happy.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—Rather mild influences between two strong, good days. Contemplate yesterday's results and what to do tomorrow. Without strain, tend to regular duties and home affairs; rest eyes.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Sponsored are fresh ideas, creative work generally, new, unique methods to enhance saleability of products an ditems for personal and outside use. Write, enjoy music, etc. Be original.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—Can be a day of results if you give duties and asks right treatment. Handle important, urgent matters first, then follow with things in order of necessity. Make room for weekend rest.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—Try to finish incompleted work and don't crowd with new undertakings unless imperative, and useful. Nice feeling to clear desk, shop and house for a new week and some relaxing. Do not neglect civic interests.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Similar to Cancer today. Aim to add new interest to ordinary things, offer inspired ideas where needed. Sanction good work in children, young folks, all. You can encourage.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — You may have to furnish the incentive and perseverance required for full, food results. This can be a tricky day. Put your clever, philosophical mind to work to clear the way for the weekend.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Capitulate to new ideas, if good. Don't lose possible advantages by not heeding those qualified to advise. Be humble, hopeful and unafraid of testing or menial tasks. Rest, too.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Yield to bright, promising thoughts; they bring inner gain. Just remember to keep wise conservatism and practicality with you as safeguards. And take care with finances!

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Your Saturn's aspect not strong, nor unfriendly. It would be wise to choose what to do first and at what tempo. Better returns are likely if you examine the day's schedule, then proceed.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — There are no rays to dishearten, but, rather to tell you to steam ahead. A few obstacles? Meet them head on and conquer quicker. You can, if you will. But little duties ask alert, quiet handling.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Have pride in your work and all just activities and don't worry if everything doesn't show immediate returns for effort. Be mostly concerned with how well you do with right matters.

YOU BORN TODAY are progressive and have the variable ability to climb to great heights IF you conquer procrastination and persevere patiently, efficiently to achieve those goals. God-given talents must be nurtured, developed to the fullest if we would do our duty. Don't make excuses, exercise your adaptability. Use your logic and progressiveness rightly each day and you won't have cause to worry. Realize that you are versatile, roundly talented and can make good in profession, trade, industry teaching. Don't undersell yourself. Choose fine characters with whom to associate.

A Day in The Hospital

. . . F. B. PEARCE

Most people rather dislike going to hospital but the three times I have gone I have enjoyed my visits. The first was in Grantham when I went into the military hospital to have a cyst removed from my face. It was a minor operation and I could easily have gone back to duty the next day, but the Sister came along and told me that I should stay and enjoy their chicken dinners. So I stayed a week and had a merry time with a bunch of Aussies and one lone Canadian. Poor fellow, the Aussies teased the life out of him.

The next time was when I got a carbuncle on my finger about fifteen years ago and went into this hospital. The only noteworthy thing I remember then was when the pretty little night nurse came along at ten one night and woke me up and wanted to squeeze my finger. Normally I suppose no man would object to being awakened by a pretty nurse who wanted to squeeze his hand, but the probationer had done that earlier in the evening and I had had enough. When I said so the nurse drew herself up to her full five feet nothing and said "Mr. Pearce, I'm your nurse." To which I replied, "Nurse, it's my carbuncle," and that finished the matter.

Those trips to the hospital were for things which were not very serious and this time I went in for an examination which the doctor could do better there. So there was really no reason why I should not be quite happy. As a matter of fact I had a royal time. I saw all my friends among the married women on the staff and two of the three young and pretty nurses on the floor were old pupils of mine and one was a neighbor when I lived on Hoover Street.

Joyce, I used to think, was the prettiest thing when she ran around my school but so shy that I could not get a word out of her. She is tall today and just as pretty and the shyness is now a rather attractive reserve of manner. Shirley is still a merry little thing and you should have heard her giggle when she told me to drink castor oil. Margie I did not know so well, but I have a little daughter-in-law so like her that it was pleasant to look at her. I still can't believe the three are grown up.

INFERNAL BREW?

What amused me was not only their competence but their dignity. They certainly walked with professional propriety among the has-been wolves which infested the wards. But the married women were considerably more uninhibited. One of my oldest friends brought me a couple of glasses of fruit juice and said, "Here, drink this." And I wasn't quite sure whether they were for the love of me or if the doctor had mixed some infernal brew in them, but we certainly enjoyed our meeting.

Then Mrs. Van Maarion came in and if you find me going around waving the white banner of Social Credit during the election it will be because of her persuasive voice —but we had a lot of fun together and it was certainly not how we did things in the British Army.

But if the hospital building has decayed very much since I was last a patient there, the administration has improved considerably. Where once there was efficiency based on keeping to rules now there seems a greater degree of co-operation. The nurses seemed to work more quickly and with a greater bustle then where today they work more quietly. They may not work quite so fast, but the atmosphere is more restful.

One day's observation does not establish me as an authority, but it seemed to me that they were all much alive to the needs of the patients and that was especially so with the orderlies as I had reason to know. It seemed to me that they all enjoyed looking after the patients and when meals came in they all, nurses, wardmaids and orderlies took in a tray.

The meals were simple and well cooked and because I had had no breakfast they sent me up an extra plateful of dinner, which was thoughtful, to say the least.

Of course there were moments which were not so pleasant as when they washed my insides out with lye and water and, as Kipling said, it wrought like a devil unchained and when they doped and put me on a carriage and took me upstairs. What happened up there I don't know. One of the attendant sprites had handed me a goof ball before and shot me full of dope, but I dimly remember a voice telling me that under all that disguise was Mrs. James.

But even in my short stay I could see that much good work is being done in a most inconvenient building. We shall all be happy when the new hospital is completed and the most thankful people will be the staff of the present hospital.

Elvis Abandons Noted Sideburns

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That army barber who yearned to scalp Elvis Presley's sideburns won't get the chance.

The rock 'n' roll singer is sporting a normal haircut for his current and last pre-induction movie — King Creole. And it makes him look strangely different.

Producer Hal Wallis, who got Presley an eight weeks' deferment from his draft board, finally let a reporter on the set Tuesday to talk with the singer. Elvis said he didn't cut his sideburns off because of impending army duty.

"I've worn long sideburns in all my other movies," he explained, "so I figured I'd be a little different in King Creole."

LOOKS FORWARD TO ARMY

Elvis finishes the picture March 14, takes a train for his home town of Memphis and expects to be at Fort Chaffee, Ark., by March 22.

"I'm looking forward to going into the army," Elvis said. "I think it will be a great experience for me."

Is he looking for a job in special service entertaining the troops?

"No sir, I'm asking no special favors. And I'm not going in on one of those six-months deals. I'm in for my two years."

He did say that he would utilize leave time to cut records to keep his name alive. Presley has sold 20 records that have each hit over 1,000,000 sales.

British Toughies Fear Trained Police Dogs

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Britain's force of flat paws—its growing detachment of trained police dogs—has become a permanent, effective part of law enforcement.

"The mere appearance of a police dog in a tough district," said a Metropolitan Police Force spokesman, "has a salutary effect."

In plain language he meant the toughies are afraid of the doggies.

Police departments started using trained dogs in 1938 with two Labradors. Gradually, the Alsatian was introduced and the police moved them into some of London's tougher areas.

THE GREAT REX

Then came the great Rex. He had been a watch dog at the French embassy, but when the ambassador installed a set of burglar alarms, Rex was through on the diplomatic beat.

The police took him and he proved to be the greatest flat paw hero of the force.

He had 120 arrests to his credit. He was praised by magistrates. He was even presented to the late King George VI.

He was so clever that he was the first police dog trained in London to detect dope. He was also the first canine to win a medal.

In 1956, the year Rex died, London flat paws arrested 1,169 humans.

TRAINED AT SCHOOL

The police have established a training school at West Wickham for the 300-dog force. Here the doggy recruits are trained in tracking, following a scent, obedience and making an arrest.

"The first thing taught is how to make an arrest," said a spokesman. "The dog is taught to seize the offender's right coat sleeve and hang on until the handler arrives.

An Alsatian named Dan once charged into a gang of teddy boys, London's equivalent of zoot suiters, halted them from breaking into a movie house and raced around them until his handlers arrived.

"That dog," said Judge Tudor Rees, "should be promoted to inspector."

The police dogs are controlled by several methods. They are all taught to respond to a supersonic whistle, one that can be heard by their sensitive ears, but not by man's. Others react to specific number commands.

SPLENDID RECORDS

The files are filled with splendid records set up by the dogs.

There was Max, who became the terror of the Paddington teddy boys, but was killed last Christmas Day chasing a suspect through a building. He fell down an open elevator shaft.

Joe has helped arrest 109 housebreakers.

Ben, a Labrador, had more than 200 arrests when he was retired at 10. Frankie caught six dangerous lunatics who had escaped from an asylum. Tosca's specialty was warehouse burglars.

Dogs always stay with their handlers. On duty and off duty, they live in kennels at the handler's home and become members of the family.

Not long ago a 72-year-old woman tearfully asked the police to use a dog in trying to locate a tortoise that had been in the family for 40 years.

Prince smelled the small box in which the tortoise was kept, traced him down the garden, through a gate, over an open field, across a railway and located him in a patch of brambles.

Says Religious Freedom Denied In Malta

LONDON (Reuters) — The Archbishop of Canterbury said Wednesday that non-Catholics are being denied proper religious liberty in Malta and that he is "increasingly uneasy" about the situation.

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, speaking at the church assembly here, said also that the colonial office for many years past "has been very unwilling to give us any help or encouragement for the assertion of our proper claims to the rights and equalities of religious freedom."

After referring to the plan to make Malta constitutionally a part of Britain with representation in the British Commons, he said that under any such proposal there must be absolute security that the same conditions of religious liberty in Britain will apply equally in Malta. The Mediterranean island is predominantly Roman Catholic.

"The history of this matter has been an unhappy one," he said. "Anglicans and others in Malta have suffered denials of their proper liberties in one way or another, often and grievously."

Black's Promise Remarked On by CMA Director

VICTORIA (CP) — Ample evidence of deterioration of the standards of care in B.C.'s psychiatric institutes is already present, J. D. Ward, director of the B.C. Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association said here Tuesday night.

He was commenting on Provincial Secretary Wesley Black's promise to the legislature Tuesday that there would be no deterioration of B.C.'s mental health services as long as the present government is in power.

"The Essondale medical staff have admitted that with the present staff, they can give no more than custodial care," Mr. Ward said.

He agreed with the provincial secretary's statement that there is a shortage of psychiatric nurses.

"Then in the face of this shortage, why is the new training school at Essondale not opened?" Mr. Ward asked. "Actually, salaries are one of the main causes of the shortage."

Playful Ghost Opens Bottles

SEAFORD, N.Y. (CP) — If James Harmann's house is haunted, he has one consolation —he doesn't have to worry about bottle openers.

For a week now, bottles have been flipping their lids. The mystery continued Tuesday, he said, as the top of a bottle of toilet water and a bottle of turpentine came off, with no human being coming forward to claim credit.

The bottle tops and the bottles have not been damaged. Hermann says tops of several bottles have been found during the last week lying mysteriously near the bottles they should be topping. None showed signs of tampering.

One explanation put forth by civic authorities who looked into the matter is that there is an underground stream under Hermann's house. The stream rocks the house's foundations, disturbing the bottles, they say.

[illegible] will settle for an oil well trying to break through."

Trade Problem In U.S. Hands Says Duncan

OTTAWA (CP)—The remedy for Canada's imbalance of trade with the United States is "in the hands of U.S. authorities and her citizens," James S. Duncan chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission said Wednesday.

The problem would "obviously never have arisen if that country had been willing or able to increase her imports from us to a point where our trade with her would have been brought at least into near balance," he told the Ottawa Canadian Club.

Attempts to increase exports to the U.S. were met with "effective action through tariffs, quotas, or other preventive measures which frustrated our efforts."

Mr. Duncan said the aim of the Canadian trade mission to Britain last fall, of which he was vice chairman, was to advocate greater diversity of imports. He said that was also the aim of the Dollar Sterling Trade Council of which he has been chairman since 1949.

AMERICANS AGREE

Mr. Duncan said: "I have discussed our point of view with many Americans and I have yet to meet one who, when apprised of the situation, did not agree that what we are proposing is not only sound but in the best interests of Canada and the United States also.

"The fact is that since we are by long odds the United States' largest customer it is as essential to them as it is to us that we should remain economically sound."

Mr. Duncan said the trade imbalance, which rose to $1,283,000,000 in 1957, and the "massive inflow of American capital" is not the result of any national policy on the part of the U.S. government other than its action in the matter of tariffs and [illegible].

"It cannot be emphasized too strongly that these situations are preponderantly the result of the individual citizens of the United States and Canada operating in a free economy, and where corrections are required they can only be satisfactorily applied by the voluntary action of the individuals in both nations."

Stiff Penalties for False Fire Alarms

VANCOUVER (CP) — People who turn in false fire alarms face stiff penalties in police court a city magistrate warned Tuesday.

Magistrate Gordon Scott issued the warning after a 14-year-old witness testified he had set off a false alarm a month ago.

The boy, who is charged in juvenile court, was testifying at the trial of Barry Northcott, 18, who is charged with turning in the same false alarm.

Magistrate Scott reserved decision on Northcott for one week.

Baptist Circle Hears Lecture

Mrs. Ham of the Salvation Army, here visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. Campbell, was guest speaker when the Dorothy Francklin Mission Circle of First Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. R. B. Walkley, 603 Seventh Street.

She gave an interesting lecture on Salvation Army work in the West Indies and Argentina, telling of the poverty in those countries and the hardships which must be endured by the women.

Plans were completed for World Day of Prayer service February 21.

A potluck supper at the church will be a highlight of the March meeting.

EDGEWOOD WI ADDRESSED ON CREDIT UNIONS

EDGEWOOD—S. M. Murray was guest speaker at a meeting of the Edgewood-Inonoaklin Women's Institute at the home of Mrs. K. S. Edgell. Mr. Murray, who is treasurer of the Arrow Credit Union, spoke on credit unions.

The first credit union was started in Canada by a man in Ontario who deposited the sum of 10 cents, he said. This small deposit was the beginning of what today is one of the largest loan organizations in Canada.

Business transacted at the meeting included the appointment of a sick and visiting committee which will consist of Mrs. L. J. deGans, Mrs. W. Shipmaker, Sr., and Mrs. J. Klein.

An interesting letter was read from Mrs. R. A. Yeld, who is visiting England, and another from Mrs. F. Watson of Mount St. Francis infirmary in Nelson thanking the members for a Christmas gift.

The Institute will once again sponsor the Red Cross campaign. Canvassers were appointed.

A special prize is to be donated to the fair board. Mrs. G. Millar was authorized to purchase this.

Miss Kirkman Heads Edgewood Guides

EDGEWOOD — Miss M. R. Kirkman was elected president of the local Guide Association when the annual meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. Slyter. Mrs. J. Ewings was elected vice-president, and Mrs. F. Jackson, secretary-treasurer.

The members agreed to assist the Guides with an afternoon tea and sale to be held in March or April.

Valentine's Day Calls for Special Treats

By MARGARET CARR

The simple, quick secret of all these Valentine's is semi-sweet chocolate morsels that get you off to a flying start because they are pre-processed chocolate, ready to eat "as is." Naturally, it doesn't take the addition of many ingredients to a complete chocolate like this before you have a treat on your hands. Try, see how easy chocolate cookery can be.

LACY LOVE-FOREVER CAKE FOR VALENTINE

One package white cake mix, 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels, 2 eggs, separated, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons sugar.

Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Turn batter into an 8x3-inch deep heart-shaped cake pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Cool. Reserve 1 tablespoon of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. For filling, melt remaining morsels over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from heat; beat in egg yoiks one at a time. (Mixture will be stiff). Blend in milk and vanilla. Reserve. Beat egg whites and salt until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar and beat until very stiff. Spoon meringue around edge of cake or force through pastry tube. Sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon morsels. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 4 minutes, or until meringue is lightly browned. Spoon filling inside meringue border. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

HAVE-A-HEART VALENTINE COOKIES

One-half cup evaporated milk, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels.

Prepare favorite rolled butter cookie recipe or use packaged mix. Roll cookie dough; cut out with a 2½-inch heart cookie cutter. Bake; cool. For filling, combine evaporated milk, butter and salt in saucepan. Bring to a full boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Stir until blended. Use as filling for cookie sandwiches. Yield —Approximately 1 cup.

Note: If desired, centre of half the cookies may be cut out with smaller heart cookie cutter before baking.

SEMI-SWEET SWEETIE PIE FUDGE

Two cups sugar, 1 1-3 cups evaporated milk, 2 cups semi-sweet chocolate morsels.

Combine sugar and evaporated milk in a 2½ or 3-quart saucepan. Place over moderate heat and bring to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly (about 4 minutes). Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add chocolate morsels and stir until smooth. Turn into a buttered 8-inch square pan; chill, then cut into squares. Makes approximately 2 pounds.

CASTONGUAY IMPROVES

OTTAWA (CP)—The condition of former chief electoral officer Jules Castonguay, in hospital here since suffering a heart attack and stroke Jan. 21, Tuesday was described as slightly improved but still serious. Hospital officials said Mr. Castonguay, 75, who had been unconscious, now is in a semi-conscious condition.

SOON AVAILABLE in smart stores is a series of slim suits in light tweeds. Perfect under winter coats, come spring they will take to the sun with furs. Huntleigh does such a suit in olive green tweed tailored in a semi-fitted line. The jacket boasts such handsome detail as tabs over buttons and a finely stitched, winged, notched, collar. Great emphasis is placed on the curved torso and bust seaming, so important to perfect fit. Incidentally, green is shaping up as a very important hue for spring.

Bird-Watcher Tells Why Bird-Watchers Watch

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Why does a bird-watcher watch birds? What does he get out of chasing through bush and fields to catch a glimpse of the feathered creatures?

Earl Godfrey, National Museum ornithologist and "a bird-watcher since I was a kid," says it's instinctive and "lots of fun."

"Man has an inherent interest in animals and birds and the most convenient and attractive outlet is in bird-watching," he said in an interview.

A recognized authority on birds, the native of Wolfville, N.S., says the popularity of bird-watching is "increasing in leaps and bounds" in Canada. He will spend the next 16 months writing a large volume on the birds of Canada for the museum.

KEEPING SCORE

Watchers keep records of the species they spot. Some keep lifetime scores.

The longest list is that of Ludlow Griscom of Cambridge, Mass., who has spotted 2500 species.

"Such things as snakes and frogs interest man but the average hobbyist won't see enough different species of these in a day in most places to sustain his interest for very long," Mr. Godfrey says.

Insects were too difficult to study in the field and too numerous. But birds were "sufficiently varied to sustain interest and elusive enough to challenge the watcher's ability to identify them."

The color and attractive songs of birds also lured followers and "the ability of birds to fly and travel great distances provides an element of surprise."

Ardent bird-watchers might spot the occasional Arctic or tropical bird that had flown off its course, or been blown off it. Migration habits of birds changed from season to season, giving bird-watchers variety.

WINTER GOOD TIME

Mr. Godfrey says the best time for beginners is winter, when most birds are out of Canada and there are fewer species to identify.

Many bird-watchers were "mere list hounds" content to keep records only of the number of species spotted. But a vast amount of information about birds had been gathered by the hobbyists.

Bird-watchers of North America team together once a year in the Christmas season to take a census of birds. In 1953, some 5000 fans in Canada and the United States counted 9,000,000 birds and 480 species.

Mr. Godfrey, studying Canadian birds for the museum since 1947, says the only equipment required by a bird-watcher is a set of binoculars, a good guide book, a notebook and pencil, perhaps a camera, and "enthusiasm and a sense of accuracy."

DEER PARK WI GIVES TO FUND

DEER PARK — At the February meeting of the Deer Park Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. A. Phelps, a donation was voted to be sent to the Provincial Secretary-Treasurer Mrs. R. Doe, for the "Pennies for Friendship" Memorial Fund.

Materials for sewing were distributed among the members and several finished articles for the coming sale, were on display. Mrs. V. Coleman will be the hostess for the March meeting.

Mrs. H. Mottershead was hostess when members of the Women's Institute met at her home for the weekly sewing meeting. At this meeting tea-towels were finished, pillow-cases made and several aprons made.

Health Staff Attends Ottawa Civil Servant

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the largest health services in Canada looks after the physical — and emotional — problems of Ottawa's 35,000 civil servants.

The civil service health division has a central diagnostic headquarters in uptown Ottawa and health units scattered about the capital, to help government employees with everything from a cut finger to family problems.

Forty-six nurses bandage up injured workers after minor accidents. Day-to-day problems are handled in 22 spacious health units and four part-time units, complete with rooms where handicapped or disabled employees can rest during noon hours.

WELL-EQUIPPED

Six doctors are employed at central headquarters, including a psychiatrist, psychologist, a part-time radiologist and a social worker. It has a miniature hospital complete with the latest in diagnostic equipment, from x-ray machines to cardiograph.

"We're not just a first-aid outfit," said Toronto-born Dr. Eric L. Davey, chief of the 10-year-old division, in an interview.

Dr. Davey, a 46-year-old veteran of the Second World War, says the division is interested "in the emotional as well as the physical well-being of an employee.

"Just giving him an aspirin won't solve many problems," he added.

Employees not satisfied with their work can go to the psychologist for aptitude tests. He tests. He will recommend transfers if he finds people doing jobs they are not suited for. Emotional problems are discussed with the psychiatrist.

Services are available to all classes from cabinet ministers to clerks, and the health units handle 14,000 cases a month.

Variety of illnesses encountered by the staff is illustrated by the fact that the 41,957 employees on sick leave last year suffered 62,476 illnesses.

Other services provided by the division include medical examinations for foreign service officers and their families when they go abroad and when they return. Regular examinations are given government scientists working with radioactive materials. Nurses keep an eye on working conditions in the 25 government departments here, as to lighting and working space.

While the division's main function is to look after employees in Ottawa, it also acts in an advisory capacity for the 100,000 other federal workers across Canada.

Dr. Davey who has accompanied both Prime Minister Diefenbaker and former prime minister St. Laurent as attending physician on trips abroad, hopes eventually to establish health units in larger cities throughout Canada.

Winnipeg House New Museum

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — A building completed here recently ended another chapter in Manitoban history.

The house, now occupied by Grey Nuns, replaces their original haven of 1847 when four members of the order came from Montreal to teach in the Red River settlement.

Rev. A. d'Eschambault, Manitoba's representative on the Historical Sites and Monument Board of Canada, has recommended that the old provincial house be made a museum. It is western Canada's oldest continuously inhabited building, having been in constant use for 110 years.

The house, built of logs covered by clapboard, is about 100 feet long and 40 feet wide. It has two main storeys and a third floor with dormer windows.

Plans for building the house began in 1845 but lumbermen ran off with the money.

The next spring lumber was brought in, but the completion of the building was delayed by an epidemic. Later a flood caused further delay and then the lumber was burned in a Prairie fire. The house was finally completed in 1847.

Several relics of the first nuns are housed in the building, including a small statue of the Virgin Mary which the pioneer nuns brought with them from Montreal by canoe.

The Grey Nuns' new provincial building is only a few hundred yards from their original home.

Salmo Group Elects Officers

SALMO — At a recent meeting of the Women's Missionary Council, Mrs. James Dodds was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Hearn, and Mrs. Bleaney succeeded Mrs. Taylor as secretary-treasurer.

The Women's Missionary Council is the women's organization to the Hillcrest Pentecostal Church and its main object is to help missionaries on home and foreign fields. It is a country-wide organization. Some 1957 projects have been collecting stamps for re-sale, rolling bandages from old sheets and collecting Sunday school and church literature which is sent to foreign fields. A quilt was made and sent to an old people's home in Manitoba, which is sponsored by the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada. Three parcels and a money gift were sent to missionaries at Christmas.

On Women's Missionary Council Day Sunday, the council will conduct the evening service in the Hillcrest Pentecostal Church.

INSTALL NEW SYSTEM

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway announced Tuesday it is installing a $2,000,000 traffic control system which eventually will enable a dispatcher in Toronto to operate every switch and signal from Toronto to Smiths Falls, 212 rail miles away, by push button. The system is expected to reduce running times considerably.

Ottawa Forecasts Drop In 1958 Immigration

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada this year is expected to reach between 280,000 and 285,000 — greatest since 1913—but likely will fall to between 165,000 and 170,000 in 1958.

Officials in Ottawa base their forecast of a decline in 1958 on current estimates of the ability of Canada to absorb immigrants next year.

After two years of rapid expansion, the Canadian economy began to show a slower rate of growth toward the end of 1956, and in the current year moderation in demand for goods and services brought about a levelling in economic activity. Most economists do not anticipate any major strengthening of economic activity next year.

The cabinet has not yet considered in detail the immigration pattern for 1958. The number admitted will be determined in the light of economic, labor and social conditions anticipated next year.

The current winter unemployment situation likely will be reflected in a reduced flow in 1958.

The bureau of statistics estimated in November that 208,000 Canadians were without jobs and seeking work at Oct. 19, a rise of 14,000 in a month. Forecasts have been made that the unemployment figure may be some 500,000 by next March.

If unemployment rises to the forecast of 500,000, the government likely will reduce immigration next year. Past experience shows a big decline in immigration following winters of greater-than-usual seasonal unemployment.

WOULD REDUCE FLOW

The flow also would be cut by dealing a decision on 1958 immigration targets until late January or February. The immigration department requires about three months to set machinery in operation for arrival of newcomers. In years of high employment, tentative targets usually are set by the end of December for the following year.

Arrival of some 285,000 immigrants this year will mean that 1957 will be the fifth biggest immigration year this century.

The record was 400,870 in 1913. The three other years in which immigration exceeded 285,000 was 1910 with 286,839, 1911 with 331,288 and 1912 with 375,756.

About 50 per cent of 1957 arrivals will be made up of immigrants from Britain and Hungarian refugees.

By the end of the year the total for British immigrants is expected to reach 115,000, greatest number since 1913 when 150,000 arrived. Arrivals of Hungarian refugees will be about 33,000.

At the end of November 35,797 Hungarian refugees had arrived in Canada, including some 3,000 who landed in December, 1956. About 300 have found it impossible to adapt themselves and have returned to their home and at Canadian government expense.

HIGHLIGHT OF YEAR

The flow of British immigrants and Hungarian refugees was the most significant aspect of 1957. It was highlighted by the arrival of large numbers of professional people, technicians and persons skilled in a variety of trades for which there is a sharp demand.

Arrivals reached a peak in the spring and early summer of this year. After July 31, landings of unsponsored immigrants was restricted in line with previous policy of preventing immigration adding to the fall and winter unemployment problem.

Persons from the United Kingdom, France, Ireland and the United States still could come provided they qualified but were advised to wait until next year. However, those from other countries could not migrate unless they were sponsored.

Monthly immigration figures in 1957 were at their highest level in any year since 1913. Final figures for the first nine months of the year show arrivals from all countries totalled 244,266, compared with 110,009 in the corresponding period last year.

The nine - month total compared with 164,857 in 1956, 109,946 in 1955 and the post-war high of 194,391 in 1951. Arrivals of immigrants from Britain rose to 99,081 from 34,734 a year ago.

Marine Wonders Fill Aquarium

NOUMEA, New Caledonia (CP) —Marine wonders in an aquarium at Noumea, in the French island of New Caledonia, are beginning to attract world-wide attention.

Kept by a French scientist, Dr. Rene Catala and his wife, this South Pacific wonderland has features believed to be unique.

One of the most remarkable attractions is the fluorescent coral, which Dr. Catala has managed to keep alive. The coral was discovered accidentally some months ago 120 feet below the surface of the sea in the reefs surrounding New Caledonia.

Underwater explosions carried out as part of an oil prospecting program revealed a dense coral growth and when divers were sent down to investigate they were amazed to see a brilliant glow of red, green, orange and yellow.

Samples were brought to the surface and it was found that all the corals possessed fluorescent qualities. Dr. Catala believes the fluorescence may be caused by the extremely rich mineral content of the sea around the island or by micro-organisms which the corals have absorbed.

It was thought the corals might die at surface pressures since their natural habitat is 120 feet below the sea. However, Dr. Catala has been able to keep them alive by having sea water constantly pumped through the 50 tanks of the aquarium.

The brilliant colors glowing in the tanks gives the air of a hidden horde of jewels suddenly discovered.

This colorful wonderland also has some rare marine curiosities. One is a species of parrot fish with body circled by red and white stripes and with blue and green markings on the head. Its teeth are blue, tipped with white.

Another strange creature, bulldozer, daily builds itself a nest in the sand in which to sleep during the night. It digs the hole with its mouth and erects the nest of stones, shells and seaweed carried between its teeth. At dusk it watches until other fish are elsewhere and then dives into the nest and covers the opening with seaweed.

Deep sea anemones, sponges, sea turtles, crabs, sea snakes and four stone fish are kept in the aquarium. The stone fish are one of the deadliest creatures of the sea. To stand on their spikes can bring agonizing death within two hours.

Guardian Enthuses on Canada's Soldiers

LONDON (CP) — The Manchester Guardian Wednesday published an enthusiastic story on Canada's army in Germany, saying that a spirit of enthusiasm and determination to be ready for instant action "permeats the whole brigade."

The 1,500-word story reviews the conditions of the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade group, commanded by Brig. Donald Cameron of Alexandria, Ont., referring particularly to such amenities as supermarkets, Maple Leaf clubs and hockey stadiums.

The brigade group's soldiers are the world's highest paid, the story says, quoting a "happy wife" as saying: "We are living like millionaires." The story concludes:

"The Canadian brigade is an example of a volunteer army under present conditions of high employment. It can obviously be achieved by other countries, too —if the governments are prepared to pay the bill."

Alberta-Quebec Pipeline Would Cut Oil Imports

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's bill for oil imports could be reduced by as much as one-half the estimated 1980 cost if a pipeline were built to feed Quebec province with Alberta's huge supplies.

This saving is indicated in a special study on Canada's imports during the next quarter-century, prepared by Professor David W. Slater of Queen's University for the Gordon economic commission. It was issued Wednesday.

Prof. Slater estimated that if by 1980 Quebec is served by Canadian crude, the over-all oil import bill, based on 1949 prices, will be about $389,000,000, just a little more than the $353,000,000 of 1955.

However, if Quebec continued to rely on imports, the total Canadian bill would almost double to some $724,000,000.

The current argument is that Alberta oil, now being piped into Ontario, cannot compete against the prices of foreign oil imported in the Montreal and Atlantic areas.

By 1980, the Canadian market for oil is estimated to rise to some 1,900,000 barrels daily from the 623,000 in 1955.

"The economics of the situation indicate that the United States will become increasingly dependent on imported petroleum and that areas closer to Alberta than is Montreal will provide excellent outlets for Western Canadian crude," Prof. Slater said.

"This consideration, together with the enormous body of cheaply discovered reserves in the Middle East, suggests that imported crude will continue to serve the Montreal and Atlantic markets in the future.

"However, some people argue limit the export of Canadian petroleum to the U.S. and that political considerations, including military reuirements, will lead to the building of a crude pipeline for Western oil to Montreal."

Points Out Possible Dangers Lying In Pay-As-You-Go Security Fund

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

W. M. Anderson, president of North American Life Assurance Company, in a recent examination of old-age security, made a number of interesting statements. Here is one of them:

"If everyone in Canada had in the past, while of working age, been required to contribute the necessary amounts to provide a life annuity of $55 a month at age 70, and if all these contributions had been invested productively, the current size of the accumulated fund would approach $30,000,000,000 and the fund would be increasing by close to $1,000,000,000 per year.

"Such a fund would be much larger than the total debts of all governments and municipalities in Canada and greater than the total resources of all of Canada's financial institutions.

"Just how the fund might be productively invested is difficult to imagine. Certainly it would have caused an almost complete alteration in the economic history and position of Canada as a whole and Canadians as individuals.

RECORD SHOWS ILL-USE

"Looking over the record of our countries which have attempted to provide for old-age security in this way, one gains the impression that the mostly likely uses of the fund would be to finance aggressive armament or to facilitate misappropriation by dictatorial governments."

Mr. Anderson made this statement in asserting that old-age security and assistance systems are definitely "pay-as-you-go" program.

"They represent," he said "a current transfer of spending power from the population of working age to the retired population. In no sense of the word can they be regarded as savings schemes whereby contributions are made during working years and productivity invested to provide retirement income later on.

"The reason for this situation is that at all times the primary purpose of the system is to provide current retirement benefits for the existing old-age population.

"The absurdity of trying to do this through an orthodox funded savings system is indicated by the size of the fund which would be required."

NEW PLANE FOR RCAF

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has ordered 10 medium transport aircraft of a new type from Canadair Limited, Montreal, the defence department announced Tuesday. The plane, to be known as the Cosmopolitan, will be an all-Canadian version of the American Convair airliner frame fitted with British turboprop Eland engines. It will be used in the RCAF's Air Transport Command.

FORD REPORTS NET EARNINGS HIGHER

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. Wednesday reported net earnings for 1957 were $282,800,000, eual to $5.20 a share. This compared with net earnings of $236,600,000 or $4.38 a share in 1956.

The company reported its sales for 1957 came to $5,771,300,000 or 24.2 per cent greater than in 1958.

Included in the earnings statement was a net profit of $53,300,000 or 98 cents per share in the fourth quarter of 1957. This compared with $91,400,000 or $1.66 a share in the like uarter of 1956.

Its factory sales for 1957 numbered 2,224,255 cars and trucks, exceeded only by 1955.

The factory unit sales for 1957 represented 30.9 per cent of the industry total and the highest market penetration by the company in the post-war period.

Ford directors declared a dividend of 60 cents a share, payable March 14, to stock of record Feb, 21. This is the same rate that has been paid quarterly by Ford since its stock became available to the public two years ago.

SAVED BY PHONE

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) Warned by an 85-mile telephone call from Tulsa, Okla., police and firemen found four persons overcome by furnace fumes Tuesday. A doctor said the warning averted a tragedy, Mrs. Howard Pixley of Tulsa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Early, tried to reach them on the telephone. When her mother answered but could only mumble incoherently, Mrs. Pixley called Arkansas city police and asked them to investigate.

Westcoast Warns Against Losing U.S. Oil Markets

CALGARY (CP) — Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., owners and operators of the first major natural gas pipeline to carry Canadian gas to the United States, said Wednesday that unless immediate advantage is taken of ready American markets they will be lost permanently.

If export is delayed for a long period, the company said in a brief to the Borden energy commission, other fuels will be developed that could make "Canadian gas superfluous and as useless to Canada as the present coal resources of Alberta."

MARKETS NEEDED

It said gas reserves in Canada "far exceed" the reuirements of Canadian consumers and "for the benefit of Canada, its industries and its trading position generally, markets presently availab'e must be secured for surplus Canadian gas."

Westcoast's pipeline extends about 700 miles from the Peace River area of northern British Columbia and Alberta to the U.S. border where it connects with a distributing network for American consumers. It also supplies the Vancouver district and several B.C. communities.

The company is currently seeking a permit to export gas from southwestern Alberta into the U.S. via the Crowsnest Pass and the border town of Kingsgate, B.C.

WARN OF H POWER

The Westcoast brief stated the Canadian oil and gas industry "is approaching a fork in the road."

"The calm announcement by the United Kingdom . . . that it expects to have hydrogen power on a commercial basis by 1960 warns us that the days when natural gas will reign supreme as a source of fuel and energy cannot be expected to last forever. Already the first atomic energy electric generating plant is in California supplying part of the energy reuirements of the principal Western market for surplus Canadian gas."

Recoverable pipeline gas in B.C. and Alberta is estimated by Westcoast to amount to 24,500,000,000,000 cubic feet. Future potential reserves may be in the neighborhood of up to 300,000,000,000,000.

Development of reserves will also mean construction of plant facilities and long-distance transmission lines. And increasing volumes of byproducts from gas will provide permanent jobs in processing plants.

Lack of Snow Halts Ski Championships

KELOWNA (CP) — Lack of snow has caused cancellation of the Okanagan ski championships, slated to be held at Kelowna next weekend.

Ski club officials here fear there is little prospect that the events can be held later this winter. Snow is scarce all over the Okanagan except at Silver Star Mountain, near Vernon, which does not have facilities to stage championship competitions.

Billy Graham Finds Problems In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP) — Organizers of Billy Graham's revival meetings here called on the public to welcome the U.S. evangelist Wednesday with a mass demonstration and parade.

Graham speaks tonight in Guatemala City's 25,000-seat football stadium.

Guatemalan Roman Catholics, the bulk of the population, were warned by a priest "not to offer any kind of collaboration" with the two-day revival.

Half-page newspaper ads calling for attendance at the meetings were matched by ads addressed to Catholics by Rev. Isidro Iriarte, Jesuit chaplain of La Merced Church.

The priest acknowledged "indisputable merit in the person of Billy Graham" but warned that "his views and doctrine are inadmissible to Catholics."

Deny Stories Of Queen Mother's Health

CANBERRA (AP) — Sir Allen Brown, director-general of the Australian royal visit, Wednesday said he knows nothing of reports that the Queen Mother's tour of Australia might be curtailed.

Commenting on reports that the Queen Mother is tired from her current New Zealand tour and that Queen Elizabeth, worried about her mother's health, has suggested deletion of parts of the Australian itinerary, Brown said: "I have no official or unofficial information that the Queen Mother is in any way indisposed."

Brown's denial was contained in a press statement in which the royal visit public relations officer, Robert Kennedy, who returned Wednesday from New Zealand, said the New Zealand tour was much more strenuous than the Australian tour would be. He said reports of the Queen Mother's tiredness in Church Sunday were "a little bit exaggerated."

The Queen Mother, who flew to New Zealand from London with a one-day stop in Vancouver, was in southern New Zealand on the last stage of her visit there.

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Work began here Tuesday on a new Ford Motor Company plant which will produce 200 all-Australian cars daily and employ 2,750 persons.

Meany Doubts Ike's Views

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Organized labor expressed doubt Wednesday that the lagging American economy will begin recuperating at mid-year as President Eisenhower anticipates, and called for quick government remedial action.

That was the reaction of President George Meany and other AFL-CIO leaders to the government's announcement in Washington that United States unemployment jumped beyond 4,500,000 in January.

Meany forecast that the jobless figure will rise at least another 1,000,000 before the employment situation improves. He called for launching a stepped-up public works program and other stopgap measures immediately.

The soaring jobless figures were the main talking point among AFL-CIO leaders as they wound up 10 days of winter meetings here.

Tuesday the AFL-CIO leaders ordered all affiliated unions to insist henceforth on labor contract clauses barring racial discrimination in factories and other working places.

Teamsters union leaders, meanwhile, continued their separate winter meeting. The teamsters, expelled from the AFL-CIO on charges of corruption, nevertheless renewed a series of mutual aid agreements with AFL-CIO unions.

Credit Leader's Tactics With Saving Two Lives

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The adult leader of a group of Toronto teen-agers, two of whom died after becoming lost in Muskoka bushland over the weekend, believed he knew the area too well to ever lose his way.

"I had been up there five years and I didn't figure there was any place I could get lost," Andrew Morton, 29, said Tuesday.

Mr. Morton, a group leader at St. Stephen's United Church, Toronto, is recuperating in hospital from the 53-hour ordeal in which he and two other survivors wandered aimlessly through a dying blizzard in below - zero temperatures before their rescue by plane Monday. Also in hospital are Charles Douglas McCoy, 13, and George Farmer, 14.

The frozen bodies of the two other members of the party, Robert Pettersen, 13, and James Duffy, 14, were recovered Tuesday. They died of exposure.

SUDDENLY LOST

"It was a weekend like hundreds of others I've spent up there. We started out to shoot rabbits and the first thing I knew I was in country I hadn't seen before," Mr. Morton related.

A compass and an axe were part of the group's equipment, but he five had left both behind on the trip on which they became lost.

All three survivors are suffering from frostbite. McCoy, in satisfactory condition, will probably return to Toronto today. But it will be some days before it is known whether Morton or Farmer will lose toes.

The dead boys, wearing T-shirts under windbreakers and summer underwear, were found about 60 feet apart. The hands of both were covering their faces, as if to shield them from the cold. Tears were frozen on Duffy's cheeks.

ACTIONS CRITICIZED

Veteran bushman Charles Tonge of Torrance, a storekeeper and guide, criticized the group's hunting plans,

"People will just have to learn that the north country is to be taken seriously. These lads hadn't any plans of staying in the bush very long, but you can never tell what can happen and you always have to be on your guard," he said.

Commented Constable William Lidstone:

"This is a tragedy that never should have happened. By the looks of things none of them had any right to even go near the bush."

Rescuers and other residents of the area credited Morton with keeping two of the boys alive by keeping moving until they were picked up.

Constable Bruce McCallum, a member of the search party which found the dead boys' bodies, said the survivors had wandered erratically.

SUFFERED DELUSIONS

"They'd go straight and then just head off on a tangent. Evidently they were all suffering from delusions. The McCoy boy said they saw a snow plow, walked over to it and it turned out to be a log.

"Another time they saw a freight train, but it disappeared as they got close."

The survivors said Pettersen fell through ice into a creek and was dried before a fire, but later died of exposure. Constable McCallum said it was certain Duffy also fell into the water and died of exposure after becoming separated from the group.

Near the bodies was a pile of green wood which Duffy had been unable to light with his two wooden matches. In desperation he tried to light the foil of a candy bar.

Britons Believe Tunisian Report

LONDON (AP) — Britain said Wednesday that foreign diplomats who visited the scene of the French bombing raid in Tunisia formed the impression that the Tunisian government's version of the incident was generally correct.

A foreign office spokesman told a regular daily press conference that a representative from the British Embassy in Tunisia was among the members of the foreign diplomatic corps who visited the scene of the raid.

The spokesman added: "Their (the diplomatic corps) impression in general conforms with the account of what happened which they had previously received from the Tunisian government."

SOMETHING FRESH AND GAY . . . for dessert tonight, to lift your menu from the winter doldrums is Crazy Mixed-up Puddin' made with ROYAL INSTANT VANILLA PUDDING. It's something very special — look how easy it is to make, too!

Crazy Mixed-up Puddin'

2 cups cold milk
1 pkg. Royal Instant Vanilla Pudding
¼ cup seedless raisins
¾ cup chopped maraschino cherries
¼ cup chopped nut meats

Pour milk into bowl; add Royal Instant Vanilla Pudding as directed on package. Stir in fruits and nuts. Spoon into serving dishes. If desired, top with whipped cream. Makes five scrumptious servings.

It's fun to invent ideas for your own Crazy Mixed-up Puddin'. Add other variations — marshmallows, diced fruits, shredded coconut, chocolate chips, crushed pineapple. Think of anything else?

BE QUEEN OF HEARTS TOMORROW — with some tantalizing goodies for your little Valentines gathered around the dinner table! LITTLE-KNOWN WELTERWEIGHTS BOX ON PAY-AS-YOU-SEE TV

CHICAGO (AP) — Pay-as-you-see television made its boxing debut Tuesday night and it appears only a matter of time before the American public has to feed the meter to see certain shows.

The feature bout of a boxing program at Midwest Gym in which welterweight Jerry Mortell won a unanimous eight-round decision over Don Alderson, was piped into a downtown hotel and viewed by newspaper men and sports figures.

The event marked the first time in history that the International Boxing Club—sponsor of the Wednesday and Friday night fights—used the closed wire pay-as-you-see system.

The audience was told it could have a choice of a modern movie at the cost of 85 cents, a basketball game for 50 cents or the fight which also cost 50 cents.

The preliminaries of the fight were seen at no charge. Then a gentleman appeared on the screen and announced it would cost 50 cents — to be deposited in the meter—to watch the main event. The screen went blank, 50 cents was dropped into the meter and the show was on.

Except for the notable lack of commercials, the picture was the same as free television. One attempted innovation was wiring each corner for sound in order to bring in the conversation of handlers between rounds. Background noise, however, caused this plan to fail.

The organization sponsoring the plan hopes to establish unnamed centres on the west and east coasts for experimental purposes.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the IBC, said the project probably will be available on a nation-wide basis to the public in "about two years." Putting meters on individual sets will be the time-consuming job.

Richmond, Calif. — Bob Butcher, 195, San Francisco, knocked out George Kennedy, 198, Fresno, 3.

WESTERN CANADA SKATING FINALS START THURSDAY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some of Canada's top figure skaters will be among the more than 50 competing in the Western Canada championships beginning here Thursday.

Entries have been received from Winnipeg, Edmonton, Regina, Brandon and clubs throughout British Columbia for the 14 events. The competitions range from senior ladies and men's singles through novice classes and veteran pairs.

One of the favorites is Winnipeg's Elaine Protheroe. Miss Protheroe won the 1956 Canadian waltz title with William Trimble, also of Winnipeg.

The two are again entered in the waltz and Miss Protheroe in the ladies singles.

Joan Boney of Regina and Vernon's Rose Bilyk head the senior ladies with Elaine, while Larry Rost of Winnipeg and Vancouver's Harry Nevard will battle for the men's singles crown.

Thursday the novices and pairs are scheduled, Friday junior singles, and Saturday the seniors.

Soccer Commission Refuses Permission for Benefit Game

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans to stage a benefit soccer match for the families of Manchester United players killed in last week's plane crash at Munich appear to have hit a snag.

Dave Fryatt, chairman of the B.C. Soccer Commission, said Tuesday the commission had not given its consent to the match, a projected replay here between two clubs of the Mainland Soccer League.

Fryatt said announcement of the benefit game between Columbus and Westminster Legion was upsetting to him because the move should have been made by the Football Association of Canada.

No date was named in the announcement of the benefit game, made Monday by league president Frank Frederickson.

Fryatt continued: "The Canadian association, of which I am a member, would not make such a move unless help from anyone outside the United Kingdom was solicited by Manchester United or the English Football Association."

It was not certain that the game, interrupted when fans rioted at a meeting of the two teams Feb. 2, will be replayed at all. Legion officials said the matter is in the hands of the B.C. Soccer Commission.

SPORTS

The SHORT CIRCUIT

By JOHN SHORT
Sports Editor

It was early in the 1956-57 Western International Hockey League season. Pat Egan was making with the words, as only Pat Egan can.

Whenever Pat Egan opens his mouth, quotes fall out, some of which will never make any paper in any city in the world. But all that he says, when he discusses hockey, makes sense. It did then, and judging by reports from Victoria, it does now.

The way Egan said it was not important. What he said was. He said: "The man's a pro, but he does everything too easy."

He meant Lee Hyssop, who at least once a year is denounced by fans because all he does, they say, is score points.

By the end of the season, Lee Hyssop will probably have earned 70 points. He may even have won the WIHL scoring title, but even if he does not, one of his linemates will have.

There is little doubt among hockey men in this area that a fired-up Lee Hyssop is the most devastating piece of hockey machinery in the interior. If ever Lee decided to take a good shot at professional ranks, he would make his presence felt, but he won't make a permanent jump at this date.

A few years ago, a professional team wanted Hyssop. He wouldn't make the move. I know of one professional hockey team that could use Hyssop right now, and would be willing to sign him for at least one year.

Again, I feel sure he won't make the move. The fact that he has passed his 27th summer has all but ruled out the possibility. The fact that he has a wife and family and a good job ruled out what remained of the possibility.

Victoria's loss, as the saying goes, is Nelson's gain.

A small segment of fans takes pleasure every year in calling Hyssop to a board and ridiculing his every move. "He's not rough enough," is their reason.

That may be. Hyssop is not a wonderful body-checker. He lands one only as often as he takes one, which isn't, as you realize, often at all.

If Murray Parker is the backbone, Mickey Maglio the spark-plug, Don Appleton the goal-getter and Wendy Keller the man who scores the points, Lee Hyssop is the decoy. Even when he isn't scoring, he puts pressure on opposition defences so the others can do what they have set out to do.

Ask Keller, the leading scorer in the league, why he's there. He'll tell you Hyssop. Ask Maglio who is the guy who helps him go. He'll tell you Hyssop. Ask Roy McBride or Mike Buckna who is most likely to score the goal or make the play that will beat you, and they'll tell you Hyssop.

Playing more aggressively than he has in two years, shooting more often and more accurately than he has at any time since he won the scoring title last. Hyssop is, generally speaking, 40 per cent of the Nelson Maple Leaf offence.

Even if he scores three goals tonight and another three in Nelson Saturday, some fans will be saying, "He could have done better."

Maybe he could, and maybe he couldn't. But Lee Hyssop will have trouble finding a greater compliment.

MILAN, BORUSSIA IN SOCCER TIE

DORTMUND, Germany (AP) — Italy's and West Germany's champion soccer teams, Milan and Borussia of Dortmund, drew 1-1 Wednesday night in a quarter-final match for the European soccer cup.

It was the first meeting between the two crack teams. Whichever team wins the second match in Milan will enter the cup semi-final. Should the Milan encounter result in another draw, a third match must be played on neutral ground.

DOING HIS BIT to help minor hockey in Nelson, Mayor T. S. (Tom) Shorthouse is buying the first bingo card from pee wee star Chuck Owens, son of Fire Chief Elwyn Owens. All proceeds from the sale of bingo cards at Saturday's game here between Trail Smoke Eaters and Nelson Maple Leafs go to the Nelson Minor Hockey Association. NMHA president Tom Shrieves, centre, looks on.

Many Big Names Still Unsigned In Annual Spring Pact Hassles

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-five per cent of the players on major league baseball rosters have yet to sign 1958 contracts. They include Hank Aaron, the National League's home run king world series hero Lew Burdette and New York Yankee star Mickey Mantle.

The total of unsigned players is 158. Boston Red Sox lead the pack with 19, followed by Milwaukee's champion Braves with 18.

Among the other standout players not in the fold are Roy Sievers of Washington, Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox, Harvey Kuenn of Detroit, Minnie Minoso of Cleveland, Whitey Ford and Bill Skowron of the Yanks, Ed Bailey and Brooks Lawrence of Cincinnati, Johnny Antonelli of San Francisco Giants and Ed Mathews of the Braves.

Except for St. Louis Cardinals, who have signed all their players, each club will have to do a lot of contract negotiating between now and the March 1 official start of spring training. Some will probably have to go beyond that date.

MANY TIGERS UNSIGNED

The Tigers still have not satisfied 15 players and the Yankees 14. Philadelphia, Baltimore, Kansas City and Washington are next with 12 each. Then come Pittsburgh Pirates, with 10, Chicago White Sox 9, Cincinnati, eight, Cleveland six, San Francisco five Los Angeles four and Chicago Cubs two.

Sievers, Aaron and Antonelli are among those who have publicly announced dissatisfaction with the contracts offered them.

Sievers, American League home run leader, has asked that his salary be doubled. He received around $19,000 last season. Washington president, Cal Griffith is said to have offered no more than $30,000.

Aaron, who had 44 homers and 114 runs batted in coupled with a .322 batting average, hauled in $30,000 in 1957. His most recent comment was "the Braves and I are far apart."

Antonelli, an 18-game loser, is bucking a sizable cut. He received an estimated $35,000 last year.

Mantle, who won the American League's most valuable player award for the second straight season, has had one salary talk with the Yankees. He received about $60,000 in 1957 and is believed to be asking $75,000.

Burdette has been too busy on the winter banquet circuit to say much about his contract. He is reported asking for a $10,000 boost to $45,000.

Mrs. Streit And Robbins In 3rd Round

JUPITER, Fla. (AP)—Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Airman Hillman Robbins of the U.S. Air Force Wednesday defeated Mrs. Charles Spaulding, Greenwich, Conn., and Tom Shevlin, Palm Beach, 5 and 4, in the second round of the U.S. mixed foursomes golf tournament.

Defending champions Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio and Jack Penrose of Miami had little trouble defeating Mrs. Don O'Brien of Richmond, Va., and Joseph McBride of Paterson, N.J., 4 and 3.

GEORGE WOOLF JOCKEY AWARD TO VET VOLZKE

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Flanked by seven previous winners, jockey Merlin Volzke Wednesday received the George Woolf Memorial Jockey Award in colorful ceremonies in the paddock walking ring at Santa Anita Park.

Volzke, whose career was interrupted by military service in the Second World War and the Korean War, was voted the trophy by Southern California turf writers for his sportsmanship and conduct in racing.

He has never been suspended for a riding infraction since he brought in his first winner in 1942.

Previous winners attending the ceremony were Eddie Arcaro, Willie Shoemaker, Johnny Longden, Ralph Neves, Gordon Glisson, Ray York and Johnny Adams.

Volzke was given a bronze cast miniature of the statue of George Woolf which stands in the paddock. Mrs. Genevieve Woolf-Cayer, widow of the famous rider who was killed in a riding accident here in 1946, made the presentation. Woolf grew up in Cardston, Alta.

Four Nelson Forwards Among Top 5 in WIHL

With each club in the Western International Hockey League involved in a ding-dong battle as the last-minute juggling for playoff positions is well underway, Nelson Maple Leafs, despite their lowly standing, have four scorers among the league's top five.

Exclusive of Wednesday night's battle between Rossland Warriors and Leafs at Civic Arena, Wendy Keller, Lee Hyssop, Mickey Maglio and Don Appleton were among the top five, with, as usual, Keller and Hyssop running one-two.

Maglio, a contender all year for third spot in the scoring derby, fell one point behind Spokane Flyers' Lloyd Maxfield into third place as Flyers tripped Leafs 6-0 in Spokane last Saturday. Trailing Mickey by three points is Appleton, with 49.

Almost since the first game, Keller has remained atop the circuit's scoring parade, but his points-per-game average, prior to Wednesday's game, had fallen off considerably from his early-season level.

Canadian Pair Heavy Choices In World Meet

PARIS (CP)—The world's figure skating championships open today, with the defending champions, including Canadians Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul in the pairs competion, favored to repeat.

Best choice in the women's title is Carol Heiss, 18, of Ozone Park, N. Y. Dave Jenkins, 21, from Colorado College is favored for the men's title.

Miss Wagner and Paul, both from Toronto, won the pairs title at Colorado Springs last year. They also are three - time Canadian champions.

The men's compulsory figures, counting for 60 per cent of the final point total, will be skated today. The free skating will be held Friday night.

The women will skate their compulsory figures Friday and finish Saturday.

Keegan, Fox Rejoin Chisox

CHICAGO (AP)—Second baseman Nellie Fox Wednesday came to terms with Chicago White Sox for more than $40,000, highest salary ever paid by the American League club.

Fox, starting his ninth Sox season, agreed to terms in a telephone conversation with Vice-President Chuck Comiskey from his home at St. Thomas, Pa. Nellie received "a very substantial increase," Comiskey said.

The Sox also received the signed contract of Pitcher Bob Keegan, whose 10-8 record last season included the league's only no-hitter, against Washington Aug. 20.

Yvon's Manager Takes No Chances

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Chris Shaban, manager of Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight champion Yvon Durelle, says he is taking no chances on having a bout with Tony Anthony postponed a third time.

Durelle, second - ranked contender for Archie Moore's world title, is sceduled to meet Anthony in New York March 14. The bout was twice postponed when fighters took sick, one after the other.

Shaban said Tuesday he cancelled a bout Durelle was to have fought in Holyoke, Mass., prior to meeting Anthony.

Durelle's opponent and date of the bout had not been decided before Shaban called the whole thing off. He expalined that he would take no chances on Durelle being injured.

OSHL MAY BECOME FIVE-TEAM LOOP

SUMMERLAND (CP) — The Okanagan Senior Hockey League will be extended to five teams if plans of Summerland hockey promoters materialize.

George Stoll, Summerland hockey booster, said he plans to take the matter before the OSHL executive.

Mr. Stoll said he will travel to the Prairies this spring to secure players if he is given some encouragement from the four teams already in the league.

"I believe there are lots of good hockey players around here and on the Prairies that would be willing to play for less money than is being paid in this league now and who could form a competitive team," Mr. Stoll said.

Teams from Vernon, Kamloops, Kelowna and Penticton form the present Okanagan League.

Summerland's arena will accommodate about 1200 fans.

Flyers Regain League Lead With 7-1 Victory

SPOKANE — Spokane Flyers moved back into undisputed possession of first place in the Western International Hockey League here Wednesday night with an easy 7-1 victory over Trail Smoke Eaters, who fell to the league basement, two points behind Nelson Maple Leafs.

Flyers scored three goals in the first period and added two in the second and one in the third before Adolf Tambellini spoiled John Sofiak's bid for his second shutout in three games.

It was a complete turnabout for Spokane, which lost 5-0 in Rossland Tuesday night as Warriors moved into a tie for first place.

Buddy Bodman scored twice for Flyers, with Frank Kubasek, Bryan Whittal, Dave Gordichuk, Lloyd Maxfield and Johnny Goodwin adding singles. Tambellini's tally, his 29th, moved him one ahead of Nelson's Wendy Keller and Don Appleton in the league goal-scoring race.

Surprisingly, only one goal was scored with an opponent in the penalty box. Maxfield's marker early in the third period came with Gerry Penner sitting out a minor assessment. Maxfield also assisted on Goodwin's goal—the last of the game—to keep pace with Keller and Lee Hyssop of Nelson, who run one-two in the points derby.

Whittal and Trail defenceman Gord Robertson tangled early in final period with Whittal drawing seven minutes in penalties to Robertson's five.

SUMMARY

Trail — goal: Martin; defence, Conn, Andre. Robertson, Hamilton; forwards: Kromm, Rypien, Penner, Tambellini, Bursaw, Hockley, Hicks, Hayes, Godfrey.

Spokane—goal: Sofiak; defence: Hodges, Lancien, McLaren, Plante; forwards: Bodman Goodwin, Zahara, Kubasek, Nadeau, Maxfield, Whittal, Beattie, Gordichuk.

First period — 1. Spokane—Bodman (Goodwin, Lancien) 13:08; 2. Spokane—Kubasek (Hodges) 15:13; 3. Spokane—Whittal (McLaren, Beattie) 17:50.

Penalties: Kromm :49; Hodges 12:02; Rypien 14:26; Hamilton 14:42; McLaren 18:29.

Second period — 4. Spokane — Bodman (Gordichuk, McLaren) 1:14; 5. Spokane — Gordichuk (Beattie, Plante) 9:50.

Penalties: Rypien 5:25; Robertson 11:57; Bodman 11:57; Penner 13:37; Kubasek 13:37; Hodges 19:33.

Third period — 6. Spokane — Maxfield (Kubasek, Nadeau) 2:41; 7. Trail — Tambellini (Rypien, Hamilton) 4:46; 8. Spokane Goodwin (Bodman, Maxfield) 17:59.

Art Gets Two In Royal Win

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Playing before the smallest crowd of the season here, New Westminster Royals ran wild for a convincing 7-2 Western Hockey League win over Victoria Cougars Wednesday night.

Art Jones and robust Duke Edmundson paced the New Westminster attack, each with two goals. Other Royals markers came from Dick Van Impe, Hugh Barlow and Pat Hannigan.

Victoria answers were supplied by Doug Macauley and Gordy Wilson.

The win moved Royals to within 11 points of the Coast division leaders, Vancouver Canucks, and left the Cougars 23 behind Seattle in the cellar.

HUNGARIAN STAR ANXIOUS TO MEET AMERICAN MILERS

BUDAPEST (AP)—Istvan Rozsavolgyi, Hungary's great middle distance runner, leaves by plane Wednesday night to compete in United States indoor track meets.

Although the slim, blonde flyer holds several world records and is a member of the elite four-minute mile club, he is not blase about his first trip to the U. S. When he heard that his visa had been granted, he overbid his hand in a card game and lost his cash.

"Who cares about money if you can make a visit to America," he said excitedly.

Rozsavolgyi, 29 next month, is looking forward to meeting Ron Delany, Ireland's Olympic 1,500-metre champion, and five other milers in the New York Athletic Association meet Saturday.

He has never been on boards and realizes it will be a difficult transition.

WARRIORS BUILD PRAIRIE MARGIN

EDMONTON (CP) — Winnipeg Warriors, scoring twice in rapid succession in the first and third periods, defeated Edmonton Flyers 6-3 Wednesday night in a fight-marked Western Hockey League game before 3683 fans.

The victory, paced by Earl Ingarfield's three goals, gave Warriors a five-point margin over the second - place Flyers in the league's Prairie division.

Bill Mosienko, Bruce Lea and Steve Witiuk scored singles for Winnipeg as the Warriors came from behind twice, then won with three third-period goals. Edmonton scorers were Chuck Holmes, Hugh Coflin and Bud MacPherson.

Harringay Racers Top U.S. Entry

LONDON (AP)—Harringay upset the U.S. entry in the world hockey championships 5-4 Wednesday night.

Harringay, made up of Canadian and Scottish players, led 2-1 at the end of the first period. The score was 3-3 at the end of the second period.

Canada's team in the world championships at Oslo Feb. 28-March 9 whipped Harringay 6-2 last week.

EVEN BROKE LEGS TOGETHER

STOCKPORT, England (AP) — John and Bridgit McLeod, married 40 years, say they have always done everything together. Today they both broke their right legs.

Ambulance men brought John home with his leg in a cast from the factory where he works. They found Mrs. McLeod nursing her broken limb after a fall in the kitchen.

Hyssop Big Nelson Star; Fires Winner in Thriller

Lee Hyssop, flying as Lee Hyssop has been known to fly in years past, powered the winning goal past Rossland goalie Reno Zanier with less than four minutes to play at Civic Arena Wednesday night to propel Nelson Maple Leafs into sole possession of third place in the Western International Hockey League.

Hyssop flashed in from the right wing to rattle the pipe on Zanier's right side about three feet off the ice for the goal that provided a 6-5 victory and a thrilling evening for the estimated 750 fans in attendance.

Lee, never an obstreperous performer, was more aggressive than usual as he scored Leafs' second goal, added an assist and made a key play on Frank Turik during a Leaf penalty in the third period to prevent the Warrior pivot from getting a shot.

Leafs' other goals came from Wendy Keller, Don Appleton, Cliff Shockey and Bill Haldane. Turik, Steve Chorney, Gordon Steliga, Leo Lucchini and Norm Lenardon replied for Warriors, who dropped into second place as Spokane Flyers defeated Trail Smoke Eaters in the American city.

Gus Adams, under the gun from certain fans after a series of questionable performances, was nothing less than outstanding in the middle portion of the game, kicking out 13 shots in the second period when Warriors were outscored 4-0.

Although outscored 2-1 in the opening stanza, Leafs were not outplayed. Twice in the first period shots glanced off available posts with Zanier out of position. In all, Leafs blasted five shots off posts and Keller, league's leading scorer who picked up three points, missed the net after Hyssop had faked Zanier thoroughly.

Leafs have a chance tonight to move four points ahead in the battle for third spot as they visit Trail. Saturday, Smokies return to do battle at Civic Arena.

Danny McDougall and Marsh Severyn played a pair of useful games on the Leaf blueline, with McDougall in particular standing out. Danny said before the game he expects to enter hospital Friday for minor surgery on his knee, which has been bothering him intermittently for some time.

Mickey Maglio, third member of Leafs' high-scoring trio, was absent due to business, and Shockey, replacing him, scored his first goal since Ernie Gare's enforced departure late in December. The rookie winger was apparently wrapped up in front of Zanier when he got his stick on Hyssop's pass from the boards to flick it into the corner.

Jim Pilla, leftwinger who has been sidelined with a foot injury, returned to action in time to earn an assist on Haldane's second goal of his comeback, make a pair of clever plays and toss his weight around more than somewhat. He retired late in the game with an apparent aggravation of the injury.

With young Steliga supplying the spark, Warriors swarmed back in the third period as Lenardon, and then Lucchini counted within 33 seconds early in the stanza. Then Yogi Kraiger intercepted a pass inside the blueline and fired a shot that hit Steliga's stick and trickled past Adams.

Hyssop's goal came 58 seconds later, and although Murray Parker departed for interference and Rossland coach Mike Buckna removed the goalie, Leafs held firm.

Rossland — Goal: Zanier; defence: Lofvendahl, Ferguson, Fletcher, Kraiger; forwards: McIntyre, Turik, Andrews, Steliga, Lucchini, Lenardon, Chorney, Demore, Desrosiers.

Nelson—Goal: Adams; defence: Parker, Stewart, Severyn, McDougall; forwards: Hyssop, Keller, Shockey, Appleton, Martini, Koehle, Malacko, Haldane, Pilla.

Officials—Al Toikko and Johnny Ursaki.

First period—1. Rossland, Chorney (Ferguson) 5:38; 2. Nelson, Keller, 10:37; 3. Rossland, Turik, 15:25.

Penalties — Keller (cross-checking) 2:33; Haldane (tripping) 11:26.

Second period—4. Nelson, Hyssop (McDougall) 1:45; 5. Nelson, Appleton (Martini) 9:46; 6. Nelson, Shockey (Keller, Hyssop) 16:19; 7. Nelson, Haldane (Pilla, Malacko) 17:05.

No penalties.

Third period—8. Rossland, Lenardon (Steliga, Fletcher) 4:17; 9. Rossland, Lucchini (Lenardon, Steliga) 5:00; 10. Rossland, Steliga (Kraiger) 15:19; 11. Nelson, Hyssop (Keller) 16:17.

Penalties — Desrosiers (holding) 7:32; Parker (interference) 16:45.

18-Year-Old Skip Directs Mates to Manitoba Finals

WINNIPEG (CP) — An 18-year-old Winnipeg boy Wednesday piloted his teenage curlers into the final of the Manitoba curling championship with an 8-6 victory over a rink of adults in a semi-final match of the 60-rink playoff.

Terry Braunstein of the Winnipeg Granite Club has the youngest rink ever to reach this stage of the competition—climax of the annual bonspiel of the Manitoba Curling Association.

Braunstein defeated Bert Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., only non-Winnipeg rink to reach the semi-final.

BROTHER IS THIRD

His 17-year-old brother, Ron, plays third. Ray Turnbull, 18, plays second and Jack Hallemand, 16, lead. All except Braunstein are high school students.

In the other semi-final, Marno Frederickson of Winnipeg Strathcona toppled two-time Dominion champion Billy Walsh of Fort Rouge, 12-8. Frederickson also has been on a winning Canadian rink — in 1934 as lead on Leo Johnson's squad.

Except for the third end when the score was tied at 2-2 Braunstein led all the way for his victory over Parker. It was a different story in the other semi-final where Frederickson was trailing 3-6 until the eighth end when he scored a four-ender.

The two now will battle it out for the Manitoba title Wednesday night and the right to represent the province in the Canadian championships at Victoria next month.

Oriole Prospects Signed By Mounties

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League announced the signing Wednesday of two more players for the 1958 season.

They are outfielders Don Moitoza, 21, formerly with Stockton of the California State League, and 19-year-old Barry Shetrone of Phoenix, formerly in the Arizona-Mexico Class "C" League.

Moitoza hit .296 at Stockton and .349 in 18 games with Mounties last year. Shetrone, a six-three, 180-pounder, hit .379 and had 52 stolen bases at Phoenix.

Lack of Courtesy In House Scored

VICTORIA (CP) — A CCF member of the legislature complained Wednesday of an "inexcusable lack of courtesy" which he said government party members exhibit by leaving the chamber when opposition MLAs are speaking.

More than 20 Social Credit members, including four or five cabinet ministers, were absent from the assembly when Cedric Cox, member for Burnaby, rose to speak.

Mr. Cox said Highways Minister Gaglardi is the chief offender, possibly because he was "afraid of criticism."

"And he should be," Mr. Cox said, referring to the time several months ago when Mr. Gaglardi was ticketed for speeding near Kamloops.

"How can we expect the youth of this province today to obey the laws when a minister of the Crown won't?" the CCF member asked.

Transmitter on Moon Goes Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department said Wednesday signals from one of two radio transmitters in the U.S. Explorer satellite apparently have stopped.

The transmitter, originally expected to function for from two to three weeks, was the most powerful of two encased in the 30-pound satellite.

The satellite was launched by the U.S. Army Jan. 31. If the batteries have gone dead, they lasted less than 12 days.

BAY COLT FOALED BY SAGE MISS

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Swaps' first offspring, a bay colt, was foaled Wednesday at Darby Dan farm near Lexington. The colt's mother is Sage Miss, a daughter of Noor. It was her first foal.

Swaps, mighty west coast campaigner, won 19 of his 25 starts and earned $848,900. He was brought to Darby Dan last summer and the farm owner, John W. Galbreath of Columbus, Ohio, later acquired full ownership of the 1955 Kentucky Derby winner.

LARSEN SIGNS; FOURTEEN TO GO

NEW YORK (AP) — Big Don Larsen, no-hit pitcher of the 1956 world series, has signed his 1958 contract, New York Yankees said Wednesday.

The husky righthander from San Diego, Calif., won 10 games and lost only four last season while posting a 3.73 earned run average.

Larsen's acceptance brought the Yanks' total of signed players to 24. Fourteen still are unsigned, including Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford, Bill Skowron and Bob Turley.

Giardello Downs Franz Szuzina

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joey Giardello, fourth-ranking middleweight, kept alive his hopes of a summer title fight Wednesday night by winning a unanimous 10-round decision over Franz Szugina, a rough customer from Bremen, Germany. Giardello weighed 160½, Szuzina 160.

The 27-year-old Giardello, who hopes to meet the winner of the March 25 Carmen Basilio-Ray Robinson title fight, was pressed all the way to whip the German.

Giardello extended his winning streak to 15 fights.

Canadian Horse Wins Hialeah Race

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Canadian-owned Pink Velvet, under a fine ride by Walter Blum, scored by a head over Ada L. Rice's Beautillion in the $25,850 Columbiana handicap Wednesday before a Hialeah Park crowd of 21,990.

Pink Velvet, owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto, ran the seven furlongs in 1:23 3-5 on a fast track and paid $12.10, $6 and $4.50. Pink Velvet carried 114 pounds.

Beautillion, 2-to-1 favorite under 118 pounds with Sammy Boulmetis riding, returned $3.60 and $3.10 while third money went to the D and H Stable's Pardala, who beat Calumet Farm's Amoret by 1¼ lengths and paid $5.60 to show.

Amoret, ridden by jockey Bill Hartack, also carried 118 pounds and was seeking her second straight in this feature for fillies and mares pointing for the $30,000-added Black Helen March 3.

Pink Velvet, winner of nine out of 26 races last year, had been out of the money three times in her four starts in Florida this winter but the four - year - old chestnut daughter of Polynesian out of Bayrose by Sir Galahad 3rd had plenty of run Wednesday.

Behind Amoret, winner also of the Black Helen last winter, came Stay Smoochie, Del's Delight, Judy Darling, Happy Princess, Gay Life, Little Apache, Bonanza Miss and Sahanna in that order.

Pardala, far back in the early running, closed fast in the stretch under Vancouver - born Hedley Woodhouse and Amoret moved up to take fourth by a nose over Stay Smoochie, another fast closer.

The race was worth $18,425 to Beasley, who was present to receive the trophy.

Pink Velvet won the Nassau and Toronto cup handicaps, both at Woodbine, last year, and took the Margate and Jersey Belle to boost her earnings as a three-year-old to $84,252.

The Columbiana was named for the only filly ever to win the Widener handicap at Hialeah and all of Wednesday's starters except Stay Smoochie, Sahanna and Bonanza Miss are nominated for the richer Black Helen. Elliott's Gem was a late scratch in the mid-week feature.

Canadiens Batter Fifth-Place Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — The free-wheeling Montreal Canadiens, at times toying with the opposition, overpowered Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 Wednesday night to extend their lead in the National Hockey League race to 27 points.

Canadiens, who had this game well in hand from the start, held the second - place New York Rangers by that 27-point bulge.

Centre Henri Richard paced the Habs with two goals, running his output for the season to 24. Jean Beliveau, Tom Johnson and Andre Pronovost got the others. Defenceman Ron Stewart and centre Brian Cullen scored for the fifth-place Leafs.

So inept were Leafs against the classy Montrealers that they managed only 17 shots on goaltender Jacques Plante. Time and again their offensive was stopped cold at centre ice by Canadiens. Goalkeeper Ed Chadwick stopped 22 shots for Leafs. The loss left Toronto with 46 points, three behind the fourth spot Boston Bruins.

POWER PLAY WORKS

Leaf penalties led to Canadiens' first two goals. Richard got his first one at 1:33, banging Beliveau's rebound past Chadwick while Dick Duff was serving an interference penalty.

Just as rearguard Bobby Baun stepped from the penalty box after serving a highsticking minor, Johnson made it 2-0 at 3:59 with a hard blueline shot that was deflected past Chadwick off the thigh of Leaf defenceman Marc Reaume. Pronovost picked the open corner with a short blast at 15:14 to make it 3-0.

Beliveau got his goal at 2:38 of the second period with a bullet shot from the left wing that Chadwick didn't see. Canadiens' Dollard St. Laurent was in the penalty box when Stewart cut the margin to 4-1 at 4:29 during a goal mouth scramble. Richard bagged his second goal at 17:38. He was sent in the clear by Pronovost and beat Chadwick easily.

Brian Cullen closed out the scoring at 15:47 of the final period, circling the Montreal nets and hooking the puck behind Plante.

Referee Red Storey called six minor penalties, three to each team, plus a 10-minute misconduct to Stewart in the first period for arguing a decision too vigorously.

Hoad Crushed By Gonzales

NEW YORK (AP) — Pancho Gonzales smashed the teeth from Lew Hoad's tennis game with sledgehammer power Wednesday night and crushed the young Australian 7-9, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4 before 15,237 at Madison Square Garden. It was the largest crowd ever to see a professional tennis match in the United States.

The victory was the second straight for the big pro king from Los Angeles and reduced Hoad's lead on the 100-match tour to 9-7. The show moves into Washington, D.C., tonight for two matches.

The crowd at the Garden exceeded the professional record turnout of 15,114 which braved a snowstorm to see Bobby Riggs and Jack Kramer play in the Garden in December, 1947.

MENU SUGGESTION

Most folks like to accentuate the mild flavor of roast leg of lamb with a bit of mint or currant jelly or sauce. Buttered peas are always right with lamb, but hot mixed vegetables make an equally delectable side dish. Potatoes . . . serve them boiled, mashed, baked or fried.

GETS 7,000-VOLT SHOCK

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Frank Fenner, 41, a worker at Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd., escaped serious injury Tuesday when he received a 7,000-volt electrical shock. Fenner, a tester in the plant, accidentally brushed his arm against test equipment. He received severe burns to his arms and legs. His condition was not believed serious.

RETURNING TO CANADA

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) —The proprietor of the 128-year-old Niagara Falls Museum, advertised as the oldest in the United States, said Wednesday the museum will move back across the river to Canada next fall. The museum, started in 1830 in Ontario, was moved here in 1880. Included in its exhibits are the barrels used by the only three persons to go over Niagara Falls and live—Jean Lussier, Bobby Leach and Mrs. Annie Edson Taylor.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

V Z X U S K X Z X S O V C X S V U E G
X L X O R Z I K S G C O X S U V — S O G N J B.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: FOR MY ENEMY IS DEAD, A MAN DIVINE AS MYSELF IS DEAD — WHITMAN.

Race Problems In More Than One Part of World

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The question of race relations absorbs increasing attention among students of foreign affairs.

In the island paradise of the Bahamas, in awakening Asia and in many parts of Africa, differences in pigmentation and the antagonisms they arouse lie at the heart of recent tensions.

These conflicts usually result in cold-war triumps for the Russians. Communist success in giving outwardly convincing demonstrations of belief in racial equality enhances their reputation among the uncommitted countries.

A symptom of Asian sensitivity is seen vividly in a sign on a hotel in India: "Dogs and South Africans not allowed."

"SETTLER POLITICS"

The Spectator, a weekly magazine, says the lesson is that leaders cannot go faster than public opinion in Southern Rhodesia, where the electorate now numbers some 53,000 Europeans compared with about 1,000 Africans and a few thousand Asians. This public opinion, it adds, can "more rightly be called public prejudice."

Liberal-intellectual commentators take an even stronger line on the split in Rhodesia. They are also perturbed at what they call a growing trend toward "settler politics" in such territories as Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika.

They note sadly that Basil Davidson, a left-wing journalist and student of Africa, has been refused a visitor's permit for a visit to British East African territories. Davidson's proposed tour was sponsored by Labor members of Parliament and no reason has been given for declaring him a "prohibited immigrant."

Race relations are also said to be the root cause of disturbances in the Bahamas, leading to a general strike which has curtailed facilities and frightened off Canadian and United States tourists.

The Observer, an independent paper published in London, says the dispute arose originally from the granting to a white-owned bus company of an exclusive franchise for services between Nassau and the airport.

DUKE ALSO TRIED

The paper says political control in the colony is in the hands of a group of wealthy merchants, known to the Negroes as the "Bay Street buccaneers."

"The only governor who ever had the temerity to try to buck the buccaneers was the Duke of Windsor during the war," says The Observer. "And he didn't succeed."

Discussions of race problems invariably trace back to South Africa, where experienced observers foresee only ultimate tragedy. Iain Lang, foreign editor of The Sunday Times, a Conservative paper, has written a careful study of the union's problems, in which he speaks of the white community living on a "plateau of privilege."

Lang sympathizes with the difficulties of the government Nationalist party, but clearly feels apartheid is no solution.

"During the past 30 years or so," Lang writes, "I have seen racial discrimination at work in many parts of the world—in India . . . as well as in the southern United States, in the international settlement in Shanghai as well as in The Netherlands East Indies, in Kenya as well as in South Africa—and my reaction to it has been angry nausea."

Man Who Makes Laughter Takes Self Seriously

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Peter Ustinov, one of Broadway's funniest stars, calls himself a very serious guy indeed.

"I just happen to have the gift of making people laugh," the rolypoly author-actor says.

"You can't—at least, I can't—be properly funny unless the subject matter is quite serious."

Ustinov is currently jouncing, strutting and grimacing through Romanoff and Juliet, a gay fable that introduces him in person to Broadway audiences which previously had known Britain's "veteran boy wonder" only via his scripts.

Bearded Peter has also been cutting a lively swath on television, as a dramatic actor in an impressive play about Samuel Johnson, as an expert on quiz shows and a voluble guest star in other spots around the networks. He is married to the former Suzanne Cloutier of Ottawa.

His emphatic arrival, plus the success of Romanoff and Juliet doesn't surprise Ustinov, a man confident of his varied capabilities. (On occasion he also produces plays and writes novels).

"After all," said the 35-year-old Ustinov, "I've been writing plays for 17 years."

He does like to clear up several items in shop talk about the theatre.

"I contradict comment that my play is an improvisation," he insists. "It is carefully constructed and it relies a great deal on audiences. Their participation is far more important than in most plays.

"It is much easier to perform in a drama than in a comedy which is a badinage."

Ustinov rushes to the defence of comedy, which he feels has been "debased" in public esteem as a dramatic device that "sheds light on life or human behavior."

He also detests suggestions that he writes plays to give himself starring roles. Like Noel Coward he runs off a list of his creations that have succeeded without him.

MARKET TRENDS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market Wednesday recorded its fourth straight decline amid the slowest trading in nearly two weeks. A brief and feeble rally in the closing minutes lifted a majority of prices up from their lows but couldn't get back much of the earlier ground lost.

Industrials had an index-loss of more than 1¼ points. Base Metals were down a point, western oils nearly one - half point, and golds were virtually unchanged.

Brokers said the decline was more of a result of a lack of buying rather than any sustained selling. They said many investors are still waiting before committing themselves.

Index stocks were down in almost a solid line among industrials but none of the losses among these issues exceeded a fraction. A few lightly-traded issues lost as much as 1¼ points but most changes were smaller.

Senior base metals were lower in a line but most declines were less than a point. Hudson Bay, however, lost a point at 43. Golds, uraniums and coppers were narrowly easier due to profit-taking recorded in recent years.

Western oils lost ground but their decline was the slimmest of the three major sections. Canadian Devonian and Central Del Rio lost 15 cents each while most other changes were 10 cents or less.

Index changes: industrials off 1.35 to 412.65; golds up .01 to 77.80; base metals off 1.03 to 147.50; western oils off .40 to 129.80.

NEW YORK (AP)—An expression of confidence by President Eisenhower that the U.S. economy's downward trend is about over was followed by a stock market decline Wednesday, the sixth in a row.

The market was only slightly lower before the Eisenhower statement and a recovery fluttered some stocks to the upside, apparently in anticipation of his statement. Upon publication of the statement, however, stocks declined sharply.

Because of Lincoln's birthday many financial institutions were closed and stock trading was conducted under semi-holiday conditions.

Turnover was 2,030,000 shares compared with 2,110,000 Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 50 cents to $159.50 with industrials down 60 cents, rails down 50 cents and utilities off 10 cents.

Among the 15 most active stocks there were seven gainers, seven losers and one unchanged.

Among Canadian issues on the New York exchange, International Nickel trimmed an earlier loss of 1⅛ slightly to close down ¾. Hudson Bay Mining was down 1, Walker-Gooderham was off ½ and Canadian Pacific, Dome Mines and Granby Mining ⅛ each. McIntyre Porcupine turned a ¾ loss into a ¼ gain.

In a quiet Canadian section of the American exchange, Brazilian Traction lost ⅛ and Canadian Marconi gained ⅛.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges generally moved lower in a one-point range Wednesday in light trading.

The beverage group bucked the trend and was strong.

International Nickel at 72 and Imperial Oil at 39¾ dropped a point each in lower base metal and refining oil groups. Construction, utility, and miscellaneous stocks were also easier. Building Products at 37½, Industrial Acceptance at 28 and Calgary Power at 66½ slipped ½ each.

Pipelines, banks, steels and newsprints were fractionally mixed. Interprovincial Pipeline lost ½ at 40½, Bank of Montreal ¼ at 41½, Steel of Canada ½ at 48 and B. C. Forest ½ at 11.

Mines and oils were down. In the Western oils, Pacific Petroleums declined ¾ to 18 and Bailey Selburne "A" 25 cents to 7.75.

Speculative mines were lower in a nine-cent range.

Industrial volume was 43,000 shares; mines and oils 414,500.

Musical Family Appear Together

LONDON (AP) — The four Goossens — members of a most remarkable musical family — made history here recently by appearing together as virtuosi in the same work.

Elder brother Sir Eugene wrote it specially for the family. He called it Concert Piece for Two Harps, Oboe, English Horn and Orchestra.

The 64-year-old composer-conductor conducted the piece in Chelsea Town Hall. Sisters Ma*rie and Sidonie played the harps* and 60-year-old brother Leon the oboe and the English horn.

ALL KNOWN

All four are familiar figures to London's musical public. Sir Eugene frequently conducts at the Royal Festival Hall. Leon is one of the more popular soloists on the Royal Festival Hall. Leon is one of the more popular soloists on the British concert scene. Sidonie plays the harp in the BBC Symphony and Marie is harpist with the London Symphony.

But this was the first time they had all appeared together as conductor and soloists—and the first time they had played together in one of Sir Eugene's own compositions. In the front row sat the quartet's 91 - year - old father, Eugene Goossens, once famous in Britain as the conductor of the Carl Rosa Opera Company.

The critics were not overwhelmed by the composition. The Times, for instance, described it as "more a piece d'occasion than an immortal masterpiece, but very good fun." The Daily Telegraph said it was "a clever occasional piece, difficult enough to display the full Goossens virtuosity."

Sir Eugene, who came home from Australia 18 months ago after nine years of conducting there, has spent much of his career abroad.

Movie Gossip . . .

Drama Editor, After 45 Years at Work, Retains Faith in Future Film Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Forty-five years is a long time to be reporting and reviewing the movies. But as Edwin Schallert brings his lengthy stint to a close this week, he still has the enthusiasm of a cub reporter.

"Does the movie business have a future?" says the retiring drama editor of the Los Angeles Times and dean of the Hollywood press corps. "I'm sure of it. The picture business has had troubles before and managed to survive them. They'll still be making movies—for one medium or another—many more years."

Ed Schallert and his vivacious partner in life and covering Hollywood, Elza, have been on that beat since anyone can remember. Ed's career ranges from the inimitable Mae Busch ("an exciting person, always good for an interview") to the irrepressible Jayne Mansfield ("an interesting personality").

STARTED IN 1913

A large man with a kindly air unusual in a critic, Ed began reviewing concerts, plays and the embryo film business around 1913. He started writing a movie column in the days when such was a novelty in newspapers. I asked him what covering studios was like in those days.

"I could do it by streetcar," he replied. "The town was a lot smaller then, and there was an intimate, friendly atmosphere that is lacking today. You were on personal terms with all the stars, and it was unheard of for a publicity man to be present at an interview." (The ever-present flack is standard equipment today.)

Ed has known all the big names, and he mused over some of them:

"I knew Garbo very well, back in the days when she was giving interviews. She was always very friendly. It was Jack Gilbert who sold her on the idea of shunning publicity. . . . Charlie Chaplin and I have been friends for years. I always admired him as an artist, but he always made a fool of himself when it came to politics and women. He wasn't tough to interview, but you had to start him on serious matters before getting to the more personal questions. . . .

ALWAYS GOOD ANGLE

"Cecil DeMille was always a great interview, especially in his earlier days. He'd always say something wild that would make a good story. I remember once when he was casting Cleopatra, he told me there were no actors in Hollywood. It made a good headline. . . .

"Doug Fairbanks was one man who really built Hollywood. Not until he started making his big productions in the '20s did the business really take on international stature. He was the first president of the academy and a really potent force in the town. . . . I've come to know Mary Pickford more in the days since her career started to decline. She was not too easy to interview in her prime. . . .

"Gloria Swanson has always been a good interview, and so has Joan Crawford. Norma Shearer was generally good, though she was a bit restrained. I've never had much luck with Marilyn Monroe. Often you'll find that the ones who have that aura of glamor are not too exciting in person."

Actors Praised for Good Work in Difficult Comedy

OTTAWA (CP) — The Fisher Park Community Theatre Tuesday night took a bow for making a "good attack" at a situational comedy adjudicator Richard West called "a little thin."

The amateur group chose William Marchant's The Desk Set as the first-nighter in the five-day Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival here.

The eight-play festival continued Wednesday with the Ottawa Little Theatre's performance of Truman Capote's The Grass Harp.

The Desk Set, in three acts, portrays the arrival of an efficiency expert and automation in a Manhattan office staffed by women.

Mr. West said he didn't know why the play was chosen. It was thin in plot, difficult to act and the cast had to fight for laughs. But he congratulated the cast for a "good shot at a comedy by no means easy."

Two to 10 Years In Prison on Conspiring Charge

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—A jury of 12 fathers Tuesday night convicted Edward Cline, 44-year-old former convict, of conspiring to dynamite racially integrated Clinton High School.

Judge D. L. Hutson immediately passed sentence of from two to 10 years in prison as recommended by the jury.

Glifford Lowe, 20, on trial with Cline, was acquitted. The jury deliberated for more than six hours.

The state earlier had dropped charges against Avon Nolan, 19, in the same case so he could testify for the prosecution.

Sheriff Glad Woodward said Nolan and Lowe told him they had been offered $250 each to help dynamite the school where five Negro and more than 700 white pupils are enrolled. The sheriff said they implicated Cline who denied the plot.

Teenage Boy Gives Self Up . . .

Lured to Roof by Candy Small Girl Meets Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A pretty seven-year-old girl was lured to the roof of a Bronx apartment house Tuesday with a promise of 10 cents and a lollipop, and thrown 12 floors to her death.

Francis Michael Medaille, a 15-year-old boy expelled from school a month ago, surrendered to police and admitted:

"I put my hands around her neck and choked her a little bit; I don't know why. And then I pushed her off the roof." He was charged with homicide.

Killed instantly when she landed atop a first-storey abutment on the building was Kathleen Hegmann, one of eight children of John and Rita Hegmann.

Medaille was said by police to be the second eldest of nine children of George Medaille, a night desk clerk at a Manhattan hotel, and his wife, Margaret, who also works nights.

Both families lived in the apartment house where the girl was slain.

A short, brown-haired boy who wears spectacles, Medaille was suspended four weeks ago from Cardinal Hayes Roman Catholic High School after he flunked three subjects. He had not entered another school since.

Msgr. Bernard Fleming, principal of the school, told reporters he had no individual recollection of the youth but that a number of students had been dropped at the same time, as is the school's custom, for failing three subjects and "not keeping up with the semester's work."

PARENTS WARNED

After checking the school records, the principal said Medaille appeared to have been "emotionally maladjusted." Msgr. Fleming said the boy's parents repeatedly had been sent letters calling attention to his poor grades and frequent absences.

The principal added that when the youth was dismissed the parents were warned by letter that he needed psychiatric attention, but that no reply was received. No further action was taken.

The slaying came as a special United States Senate committee on juvenile delinquency, holding hearings here, was being told by a New York school official that the board of education's mass suspension policy just put into effect was wrong.

Dropping troublesome children from the schools en masse is no solution to crime in the schools, said Joseph C. Noethen, an assistant superintendent in charge of two Brooklyn school districts. He said the board of education's action was more political than professional.

Mixed Schools For Indians, Whites Urged

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trying to make Indians keep their "history-book culture" is just as bad as man's ways, says Jean Lagasse, a social scientist in charge of the Manitoba government's current studies of the status of Indians and Metis.

I'm tired of people who keep telling us the Indians mustn't lose their old culture," he said. "I've yet to hear a white man say the same thing about himself—that he'd like to go back to using a flint like his ancestors.

"We don't have to change the were against a program of bettheir own," he told a group attending a community institute in human relations sponsored by the central region of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

FREE MOVEMENT

"Indian culture is changing today, influenced by the same factors changing our own way of life," Mr. Lagasse said. "But it's up to us to provide free interaction between our life and theirs.

"We must have faith that, with this freedom, the Indians will choose the culture best suited to them," he said.

Bernard Grafton, supervisor of special schools in Manitoba, said best results in working with Indians are obtained in settlements where whites and Indians work together.

"Standards tend to rise quickly and sharply where there is intergroup mixing," he said. "Where there is none, progress is slow."

ABLE STUDENTS

Mr. Grafton said many people were agaainst a program of better education in isolated areas when it was started 10 years ago.

"They said these children (Indian and Metis) were incapable of progressing beyond grade 6; they were too lazy to study; they lacked intelligence; and so on. None of these accusations are true. The children need to be given self-confidence. They have the ability.

"We feel there is no problem with youngsters," said Mr. Grafton. "Lines are not drawn within the school. The trouble, if any, starts out of school."

UN Alphabets Puzzle Experts

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) You can't keep up on things at the United Nations unless you know the meaning of such alphabetical puzzlers as UNEF, UNESCO and SUNFED — and vnow there's UNCLE, STUNG, UNWASHED and PRUNE.

Because some wag has come up with his own imaginary list of alphabetical agncies.

Published in the UN Employees' Secretariat News—and borrowed from a British publicavtion — it includes BUNFED, UNCLE, AUNTS, UNWASHED, LUNCH, MUNCH, SUNBURN, SUNTAN, STUNG, PRUME and WHODUNIT.

UNEF is the UN Emergency Force. UNESCO is the UN Eduvnational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. SUNFED is the still unrealized Special UN Fund for Economic Development.

The imaginary agencies? They are, reading right along:

Bigger UN Fund for Economic Development; UN Center for Loans and exchanges; Additional UN Trusteeship System; UN Works Administration for Solar and Hydraulic Energy Development; Latin-American UN Clearing House; Middle East Ditto; Special UN Technical Aid for Navigation; Special UN Bureau on Utilizing the Resources of Nature; Strictly Temporary UN Grant; Preparatory UN Executive, and World Health Organization Department for UN Internal Troubles.

Young Chinese Artist Makes Name In Ont.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — When 18-year-old Yen Chin arrived here from Hong Kong two years ago, he wanted to continue his painting career and attend art college. Now his new paintings have given him enough money to pay for his education.

Calendars brought his date with college. To get some money he went straight to a bank, selling nine paintings to the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

They'll appear each year on the bank's calendars. The first one is on the 1958 issue. The painting of the Chinese god of longevity brought such a demand for the calendars that they were all gone in a few days.

Yen Chin is a student at a local public school where he is struggling with English and painting under art teacher Miss Mayden Davis.

His talent was so exceptional that a group of local men and women interested in art, banded together to find some means of ensuring his art training would continue to the art college level.

But Yen beat them to it.

"He just walked into my office last July with his paintings tucked under his arm," Windsor bank manager W. J. Noblett commented.

"We couldn't do very much about them so we sent them on to our office in Toronto. He did it all pretty much on his own."

Yen's training began in Hong Kong under expert Chinese painters. At first it looked if he would have difficulty in developing his talent further when he arrived in Canada at 16, as he worked after school in his father's laundry.

He found a weekend job in a local restaurant, however, and now paints almost daily.

Freed Scientists Reach Germany

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP) A group of 12 German scientists released by the Soviet Union arrived at this entrance to West Germany Wednesday.

The well-dressed men and their families leaned out the windows of a special train and waved vigorously as they rolled through the Iron Curtain on their way home.

The scientists are from a group of 21 Germans who have been working for the Russians at Sukhumi, on the Black Sea. The group was taken to the Soviet Union by the Red Army after the war and given work contracts. Their families were permitted to join them.

The Russians announced last month that they could go home. The West German government said all wanted to return to the West, but the first three who arrived from Moscow last week remained in East Germany.

The remaining six scientists and their families are expected at Helmstedt Friday.

Predicts Foreign Debt Will Rise

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will become more heavily dependent on the United States for imports in the next 25 years and her foreign debt will rise, Professor David W. Slater predicts in a special report to the Gordon economic commission.

The Queen's University professor, in a 222-page study made public Wednesday, estimated that Canada's over-all imports of goods and services will more than double during the next uarter-century, to $15,100,000,000 a year from $6,400,000,000 in 1955. The forecast is based on 1955 prices.

At the same time, Canada's exports of goods and services might lag slightly, rising to $14,400,000,000 a year from $5,700,000,000 and leaving Canada with a deficit of about $1,000,000,000 a year, compared with $700,000,000 in 1955.

DEBT MAY INCREASE

This deficit — the balance of imports over exports—would be financed by foreign investment in Canadian industry, boosting Canada's foreign debt and increasing the drain of interest and dividend payments.

An increasing portion of this increasing debt would be owed to American investors.

Prof. Slater forecast that Canada's deficit in trade with the U.S. might climb to $1,700,000,000 annually from $1,100,000,000.

Trade with Britain also would increase, though to a much smaller extent. On balance, the Canadian surplus of about $400,000,000 annually might remain unchanged.

Trade with other countries might produce a surplus of some $300,000,000 a year, up from $100,000,000 in 1955.

The report on imports was one of more than 30 special studies ordered by the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects headed by Toronto accountant Walter Gordon.

In a forecast of the commodity picture—that is, leaving imports of services aside — Prof. Slater concluded that the proportion of goods brought in from the U.S. will increase in the uarter-century, while that coming in from Britain and other countries may decline.

The reason was that Canada will need in the future larger supplies of machinery and euipment and manufactured consumer goods, much of these coming from the U.S.

RCAF Keeps Tight-Lipped On Navigation Computer

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—One of, the strangest cases on record here concerning so-called classified—or secret—information involves the RCAF's new automatic navigation computer.

The RCAF has disclosed exactly how the instrument works and has permitted publication of photographs of it. But it steadfastly refuses to say why, when or where it is used.

The air force, in fact, has refused to say whether the euipment is still in the testing stage or on order from a manufacturer, although the defence production departments, purchasing agent for the armed forces, announced in October, 1956, that Canadian Applied Research Limited of Toronto had been awarded a $3,141,984 contract for production of the euipment.

FIRM GIVES DATA

Canadian Applies Research has said in a press release that the computer can provide to an air crew automatically the distance and bearing to a plae's target, even if the target is an enemy bomber in flight.

This would be of tremendous advantage to Canada's air defence system because it would take a heavy load off the ground radar system which now must guide RCAF interceptors within several miles of the target aircraft before the interceptor's radar can take over.

Consequently, many more interceptions could be carried out at the same time than if interceptors had to rely solely on ground control radar.

The RCAF has also declined to say whether the euipment now is in jet CF-100 squadron service.

But Canadian Applied Research has said in another press release that the four RCAF CF-100 squadrons in Europe have been euipped with the computer.

MANY USES

The company has also said the Swedish Air Force has shown interest in the device and that Canadians, British and United States armies are considering using it in tanks.

Two commercial airlines, Scandinavian and Pan-American, are contemplating use of the computer for trans-ocean flights, the company added. The firm is a subsidiary of A. V. Row (Canada) Ltd.

RCAF Wing Cmdr. Jerauld G. Wright, DFC, of Liverpool, N.S., won the McKee Trophy in 1955 for invention of the instrument, known as the R-THETA computer. The McKee Trophy is awarded annually for the outstanding contribution to Canadian aviation.

The instrument automatically provides a pilot with directional information for reaching any position he feeds into it. It works independently of radio so that it cannot be jammed.

Sprightly Woman Nears 107 Years

PETROLIA, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Mary Ford will celebrate her 107th birthday Friday with a gift of her own to cardiac victims.

That gift is the example she has set during the last 25 years following a severe coronary attack coupled with a stroke at the age of 82.

Amid the bustling activity of a battery of well - wishers rapping at her door and ringing the telephone, Mrs. Ford, who arrived in this town 11 miles east of Sarnia from Penzance, England, 80 years ago, offered this advice: "Start looking on the bright side of things, relax and keep an even disposition."

Despite her age, Mrs. Ford is still active although she now tends to conserve her energies.

Her husband, James, died in Petrolia in 1899.

TREMOR KILLS MINERS

VIENNA (AP) — Radio Warsaw reported that four coal miners were killed Tuesday when an earth tremor caused collapse of a shaft at the Rozbark mine in Upper Silesia. The four miners were buried under more than 1,000 tons of coal and rocks and their bodies have not been recovered yet, the radio said.
