Summit Meeting as Soon As Practical, Say France, U.K.

By JOHN EARLE

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain and France have agreed on the need for an East-West summit meeting "as soon as practical" after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to France in March, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said Friday.

Lloyd spoke to reporters at London airport on his return from two days of talks with French leaders aimed at patching up Anglo-French differences.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville told the cabinet in Paris that France and Britain envisage the East-West summit talks in April or May. He said France and Britain have drawn closer together on their once-divergent views about a summit meeting.

Lloyd was asked whether he thought France is "dragging her feet" toward the summit talks because President de Gaulle has succeeding in postponing them until next spring.

KEEP UP MOMENTUM

Lloyd replied that "the point is to keep up the momentum" behind improved East-West relations since he and Prime Minister Macmillan visited Moscow in February.

Khrushchev's visit to France in the last half of March is "a significant new factor," he said, adding:

"We want to avoid something happening to destroy the better atmosphere. I think this visit of Mr. Khrushchev to Paris will help to improve the atmosphere. It is according to the pattern which we tried to initiate."

Soviet Agrees to Radiation Study

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) —Wallace B. Nesbitt, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations, announced on Friday night that agreement had been reached with the Soviet bloc on a proposal for a world-wide study on atomic radiation.

Nesbitt said the agreement on the resolution—on which Canada took the initiative—was reached in a private conference late Friday with representatives of the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, who insisted that there be no new amendments from the non-Communist side.

Teachers' Pay Boosted 9 p.c.

PENTICTON (CP) — Penticton School District payrolls will be increased about nine per cent next year with settlement of the 1960 salary agreement for the district's 120 teachers.

The new salary scale—in line with agreements recently concluded in Kelowna, Vernon and other Okanagan Valley centres — also includes for the first time the school board's participation in a joint-contributory medical coverage plan for the teachers.

Beginning elementary teachers have their salary boosted to $2,800 from $2,570 in the 1960 scale. Highest elementary teachers' salaries, after full qualifications and 11 years experience, are up to $5,800 from $5,350.

In the secondary class, the new scale ranges from a low of $4,200 to a high of $7,700 compared with a low of $3,850 and a high of $7,280 under the 1959 agreement.

Choice of Dunrossil Questioned

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Viscount Dunrossil of Vallaquie, a good-humored, philosophical man, can be counted on to take a detached view of the fuss over his appointment as governor-general to Australia.

Lord Dunrossil, 66, is better known to British MPs as W. S. (Shakes) Morrison, well-loved Speaker of the House of Commons for the last eight years. However stormy the Parliamentary weather, Shakes usually sees the funny side of things.

In Canberra, his appointment to suiceed Briton Sir William Slim as governor-general has caused some disappointment among blunt-spoken Aussies. There is great respect for Lord Dunrossil, but many would have preferred an Australian.

It is also widely believed that Prime Minister Menzies has spent a lot of time lately "hawking" the job around Britain. Menzies is an enthusiastic Royalist, and Australian correspondents in London say they are sure he tried to persuade either the Queen Mother or Princess Margaret to accept the post.

In Canberra, Menzies indignantly denied that he had offered the position to any member of the Royal Family.

Cranberries To Be Held

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cranberries shipped here from Washington and Oregon are free from poison but will not be released for public sale until tests on British Columbia cranberries are completed, a federal official said Friday.

H. A. Thomlinson, head of the federal food and drug branch here, said tests by department analysts have shown no contamination on imported berries from possible use of a chemical weed killer, aminatriazole.

Tests on B.C. berries are expected to be completed by next Tuesday.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar 13-64 lower at $1.05 9-32 in terms of U.S. funds. Week ago $1.05⅝.

Pound sterling down 3-64 at $2.80 21-64.

HUNTERS GOT WOMAN'S GOATS

SOOKE (CP) — Any more shooting of her goats is going to mean trouble for the hunters concerned, Mrs. Joan Yates warned Friday.

And perhaps the hunters don't know it but Mrs. Yates is a cougar hunter of note in this southern Vancouver Island community and a crack shot with a rifle.

She said that so far this season hunters have killed 12 of the 100-goat herd she keeps on her 500-acre Beecher Bay farm. They left the animals where they had been shot.

The hunters are believed by authorities to be mistaking the animals for wild goats but Game Department officials said there are no wild goats on Vancouver Island.

Machine Oil Paralyzes 10,000

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — About 10,000 Moroccans have suffered partial paralysis after using cooking oil adulterated with machine oil from surplus U.S. supplies, the Morrocan health minister announced Friday.

Twenty - seven Moroccan merchants have been arrested, charged with selling adulterated olive and peanut oils during a Moslem festival in September. They are liable to a death sentence under an emergency law proclaimed last week.

The oil used in the mixture is described as a mineral-type sold as machine oil from U.S. air force surpluses at Noausseau, near Casa-Blanca.

Originally intended for use in flushing airplane engines, it is about the color of olive oil.

At first physicians thought it was a polio outbreak. The malady partly paralyzes arms and legs.

No new cases have been reported in the last four days. Strict controls and a publicity campaign have turned up about 800 tons of the U.S. oil, including a batch in a Casablanca perfume factory to be used as a hair oil base.

B.C. Sidelights

PENTICTON (CP) — A three-year plan for school construction to keep up with steady growth in enrolment has been approved by the education department.

The school board here received departmental approved Friday. The plan will be presented to ratepayers Dec. 17 at civic elec*tions, the school board said.*

It would call for classroom construction and allied expenditure of $878,280 in the next three years.

VICTORIA (CP) — A master plan for development of the northern part of Vancouver Island, including roads and power, was announced Friday by Premier Bennett.

He told a press conference he has asked the provincial ministers of highways, lands and forests, and recreation to cooperate with the B.C. Power Commission in setting up such a plan for long-term implementation.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Frank Ernest Game of Lilliiet, who had his wife committed to the provincial mental hospital 10 days ago, Friday was ordered to stay away from her home.

Mrs. Florence Pauline Game was released from the hospital Nov. 5, two days after her committal. Her lawyer, Neil M. Fleish*man, had started habeas corpus* proceedings in her behalf.

Deputy superintendent Dr. J. E. Bolding brought Mrs. Game to court and said the hospital had no reason to hold her.

Game had obtained his wife's committal to the mental hospital after he had been served with her petition for divorce.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Catholic Charities announced Thursday it will open a 60-bed shelter for destitute men. Officials of the organization said it will accommodate some of the homeless, unemployed men who have come here from Eastern Canada.

Court Decision Raises Question Of Legality of Expropriation Act

U. S.-CANADA DEFENSE IS THE THING — Howard C. Green (left), Canadian secretary of state for external affairs, and U. S. Secretary of State Christian Herter seem to be in animated discussion as they sit in a helicopter in Washington to fly to Camp David. Top officials of both nations held a discussion there on joint defense problems.

Diefenbaker Favors Review of Act; Other Cases to Be Held in Abeyance

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The legality of government expropriations of property has been questioned as a result of an Exchequer Court decision.

A judgment Thursday by Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson has brought in its wake an appeal by the federal government to the Supreme Court of Canada. It likely will mean that all pending appropriation cases involving the federal government will be held in abeyance.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday there should be a review of the Expropriation Act to ensure that the rights of individuals are protected where the government takes over private property for its own use. He said the Thorson judgment will be studied by Justice Minister Fulton.

Mr. Justice Thorson, who once said Canada has the most arbitrary system of expropriation of any civilized country, ruled in favor of Mrs. Florence Crawford who was contesting federal government expropriation of 59.5 acres in the capital area.

SOUGHT $72,000

The government offered $28,000 against her demand for $72,000. The land was expropriated for the Federal District Commission —now the National Capital Commission—for a storage yard.

However, in finding in Mrs. Crawford's favor Mr. Justice Thorson said he did so contrary to his own opinion that the federal government acted legally. He made the unusual finding in order that the government would appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada for a final decision on an apparent conflict in a legal precedent involving the steps to be followed in expropriation proceedings.

Chief issue raised by the case was whether the land being expropriated must be surveyed and survey markers placed before the government may file a registered plan and description of the land in the public registry office.

In an earlier expropriation judgment, Mr. Justice Thorson had expressed the opinion that by merely filing the plan and description the government became the actual owner, eliminating any *claim to the land by the landhol*der or anyone with a mortgage or lien against the property.

GOES BACK TO 1883

He maintains this position in his reasons for judgment in the Crawford case but at the same time takes special note of the contention of Mrs. Crawford that an 1883 Supreme Court of Canada judgment apparently agrees with the contention that the survey must first be made.

In the 1883 case, Mr. Justice Thorson says, the landholder received $4,000 compensation for having the property expropriated but the courts also awarded $100 for trespass by the Crown's agents. He described this finding as "astounding" and drew attention to the majority opinion of the court that the government did not become legal owner of the land because the survey was not made.

Mr. Justice Thorson says that if this decision is right "then every expropriation that this court has dealt with, at any rate since I have been a member of it, was invalid, for, so far as I am aware there has never been any case in which the expropriated land was laid off by metes and bounds (surveyed) prior to the deposit of a plan and description of it."

Press Important Link Political Students Told

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—Advice to budding politicians: Start at the municipal level and don't underestimate the press.

It came from federal health Minister Monteith who spoke to the students' political club at the University of Waterloo Thursday night.

He said political careers are of great service to Canada. "A political career is worth your consideration, whatever party you might choose.

Start off at the city or town council level, he suggested, to get a good grounding. Referring to the press, he said, "it is the most important link between the government and the people . . . I have yet to meet a reporter who will abuse a confidence."

Unemployment Climbs at Coast

VICTORIA (CP) — The number of unemployed is building up in Victoria but is still not a "great problem," city welfare administrator William Hooson said Friday.

There had been "no appreciable" drift of unemployable transients from the mainland.

The administrator was commending on reports that a Vancouver mission is being swamped with unemployed men, most of them drifting in from the Maritimes, Ontario and the Prairies.

Defence, Finance Top Problems for House

OTTAWA (CP) — Problems of finance and defence are shaping up as the main issues that will occupy the new sessions of Parliament after it opens on Thursday, Jan. 14.

The opening date, decided by cabinet Friday, was announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker following a meeting with Governor - General Vanier.

The third session of the 24th Parliament, elected in 1958, will be the first to be opened by Gen. Vanier who became governor-general last Sept. 15.

On opening day he will read the Speech, from the Throne, set*ting out the government's legisla*tive program for the session.

But unless the government has some legislative surprises to announce then, it is likely that the session's first political battles will be fought on issues of finance and defence. The opposition parties pick the issues for the initial 10-day throne speech debate, and *those matters have been the fore*most ones in recent criticisms by Liberal and CCF spokesmen.

On the financial front, the central factor has been high interest rates and a general difficulty in borrowing money—a tight money" situation — which has affected all sectors of the economy.

A major defence question has been posed by Opposition Leader Pearson's demand that Canada should have sole control over nuclear weapons used by Canadian forces. The government is looking to a joint arrangement with the United States for control of atomic warheads slated for use with the proposed Bomark anti-aircraft missiles.

Nehru Spends Quiet Birthday

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — A tired Jawaharlai Nehru, India's first and only prime minister, headed for the hills Friday for a quiet and isolated celebration of his 70th birthday Thursday.

He issued "do not disturb" orders before flying with his daughter to the Himalayan foothill town of Dehra Dun, 100 miles from New Delhi. They are staying in a guest house here with the governor of West Bengal.

The Asian statesman, who has run India since it became independent in 1947, has been engaged in a strenuous tour of country areas in the last week.

Nehru often heads for the Himalayas when the burdens of state become too heavy, and he has been under strenuous pressure because of India's frontier dispute with Communits China.

This time, the prime minister is taking only the weekend off be*fore tackling the problem again* Monday.

China is scheduled to hand over Friday 10 captured India border policemen and the bodies of nine others killed in a clash with Chinese troops last month.

CHILD JOINS PARENTS AFTER 6-YEARS APART

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eight-year-old Zeny Fistravec has arrived here from Yugoslavia to begin life in a new world, with parents she has not seen for six years.

"I'm so tired, mommy," she said. "Just let me close my eyes."

But, in her own room at her parents' home, she was too excited to sleep. She called constantly for her mother and fought back an occasional nose bleed.

Awaiting her were eight gift dolls and a cupboard filled with new clothing, which she tore frantically from the hangers.

"No presents for you, mommy and daddy," Zeny told her parents. "Grandma gave them to me, but the police in Zagreb took them away at the airport."

Mrs. Fistravec is a nurse at Vancouver General Hospital. Her husband went to work Friday for the first time since last April when he took sick.

PARENTS DEMAND BETTER TRAFFIC SUPERVISION

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sommerfield, whose five - year - old daughter Hilde was killed last April when struck by a car, notified the city and two school principals Friday they will not send their other two children to school again until traffic supervision in school zones is improved.

Young Brunhilde died in hospital eight days after being struck by a car as she darted across the street in a playground zone. Thursday, Tony Woi Wong, 22, was acquitted by a jury on a charge of criminal negligence in connection with the death.

He said he does not intend to send his 14-year-old son, Erwin, or his eight-year-old daughter, Gudrun, to school until the city has better traffic supervision in school zones and playground areas.

Fine Weather for 700-Mile Walk

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — The temperature was 10 below zero but for Edward Wilson it was "perfect weather for walking."

The 41-year-old Vancouver construction worker tramped down No. 2 highway near Fort Macleod Thursday in an attempt to walk from Calgary to Vancouver in 21 days.

Mr. Wilson, who flew to Calgary from Vancouver Sunday, said the 700-mile walk is a trial run for a walk across Canada next summer.

"I just wanted to see if I could make the trip from Calgary to Vancouver in 21 days during the winter months," he told a reporter, turning down a lift in his car. "If I can, next summer I plan on walking across Canada in three months."

Mr. Wilson, who has averaged about 30 miles in a seven-hour day since leaving Calgary Monday, planned to stop the night at a hotel in Fort Macleod, 25 miles west of here, then head west through the Crowsnest Pass.

"It's not really very hard. I enjoy walking," he said, heading down the road.

SCHOOL SYSTEM SAID KILLING INDIVIDUALISM

VANCOUVER (CP) — The present teaching system in schools is killing individualism and wiping out minorities to mold us into one big happy family under state control, John S. Cormack of Edmonton said Thursday night.

Mr. Cormack told the B. C. Catholic Teachers' Association annual convention here that Canadian schools are producing a breed of conformists who are leading the country down the garden path to a 'big brother' state.

A member of Alberta's Royal Commission on Education, Mr. Cormack said that "curriculums have been stripped of past ideals and compulsions that drove men to great things."

Bennett Explains Power Tax Proposal

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett denied Friday that he made a plea for the special interest of private power companies in British Columbia at the recent federal - provincial financial conference in Ottawa.

He accused Saskatchewan Treasurer C. M. Fines with a breach of the undertaking that the conference would be in Camera. Mr. Fines said Thursday that B.C. had asked that federal corporation taxes be removed from private power companies.

He also referred to subsequent comment by CCF Leader Robert Strachan of B.C. as "dirty politics." In a statement to the press, he outlined what B.C. had proposed.

In reply to federal Finance Minister Fleming's request for views on federal corporation taxes collected from utility companies, Mr. Bennett said he made two proposals:

"One, that the federal government could continue to collect the tax, but that it should all be returned to the affected provinces to be used for the citizens' benefit, or

"Two, that the tax should be cancelled, on the understanding that the companies benefitting from this remission would reduce their rates by this total amount, to be arranged by the public utilities commission."

He said the federal government agreed to study and discuss these choices with the province at a later date.

"This is the sum total of the representations made by British Columbia and can be verified readily by any and every one of the persons who attended the conference—including the minister of finance of Saskatchewan."

OPPOSED SECRECY

The premier said he was opposed to holding the Ottawa sessions in camera on the "grounds that a misunderstanding or a distorted report just such as this might come out of the sessions."

Street Corners

By PYRAMUS

At city hall this week, a storm which arose concerning architechts was brought about by an absent councillor's letter.

Although the councillor's absence was a known fact and was noted in the course of the argument, no one mentioned that the Nelson architect involved was also absent and that both he and the alderman were in Vancouver attending a community planning conference in the interests of Nelson and district citizens. D. P. Fairbank was one of the speakers at the conference. It is ironical that these men should become centres of a controversy even while they were away working in the interests of the citizens.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Fred Stevenson and his beagle hound went hunting Thursday. They roamed a wooded area of northwestern Pennsylvania all afternoon.

Stevenson failed to return at 5 p.m. to a home where he had been staying, and a search party was formed.

About 10 p.m. one of the party spotted Stevenson walking along a country road. But it turned out he wasn't lost.

One of the first questions Stevenson asked was, "have you seen* a beagle hound around? I've been looking for him all night."

At last report the hound was still lost.

BATH, England (CP)—Someone called the Somerset branch of the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals Thursday to report a flock of sick pigeons.

A PDSA official investigated and found them exhibiting familiar symptoms. They performed backward somersaults while attempting to fly. They staggered. They tried to hop on one leg. They were bleary-eyed. In fact, they looked as though they were waiting for someone to lead a rendition of Sweet Adeline.

A bit of detective work revealed that the birds had spent the night in an open bin at a malt house, which supplies local breweries, whooping it up on semi-fermented barley.

One or two were put into cages to sober up. The rest were removed to the decorous surroundings of Bath Abbey churchyard.

MONTREAL (CP)—It's better not to question children about their art, a panel discussion at the fifth annual conference of Canadian art teachers agreed Thursday.

Jeannie Garland of the York Township board of education in Metropolitan Toronto told of a school inspector who asked a child why she painted a green sun.

"Someone else was using the yellow brush," was the reply.

Tom Martin of Port Credit, Ont., an assistant school superintendent, said he once asked a young boy why he always did his blackboard drawings with red chalk.

"It's because my legs are short," said the boy.

The boy explained further:

"My legs are short, I get to the board last—and the other kids have used up all the white chalk."

Philosophies Studied By Teachers' Panel

Philosophies of education, literature, character building and life itself came before more than 500 teachers at the West Kootenay Teachers' Convention Friday in L. V. Rogers high school.

Rev. L. R. McKenzie of Notre Dame College, Andrew Soles, principal of J. Lloyd Crowe high school at Trail, moderator, Rev. E. Donovan Jones, St. Paul's-Trinity Church, and Nelson A. Allen, district superintendent of schools, discussed education philosophies in a three-hour long panel discussion on character building in the educational system, literature to build character and discipline of school work.

"For the Christian, there has been no proof needed for the value of poetry . . . and by poetry, I mean all literature, Father McKenzie stated.

" . . . God himself chose to reveal his secret mysteries through our greatest literary masterpiece, the Holy Bible," he said.

A poet, he noted, is blessed and magnifies the Lord. This is because he inculates a spirit of reverance and because he shows the magnificence of our beings and life and because he reveals to us a Messianic hope for the future.

"The student who is not trained in a reverance for anothers' ideas or culture will be tempted to exclaim of many poetic pieces that it is silly or even blasphemous. When he is taught to approach the poem with true reverance he will see the deep richness of thought of the contribution," he said.

Such poets as Homer, Dante, Shakespeare, or the modern writing of Pasternak, show a reflection of the maid who inspired by the Holy Spirit, composed "the most beautiful song" in any language: "The Magnificate."

Mr. Sole said school must prepare its "inmates" for the world into which they are about to enter. By the time the child comes to school at the age of six, his or her character and habits are already formed.

NEED DISSATISFACTION

"Good education can only lead to maladjustment in this day and age. And dissatisfaction is what we want in our young people. For of they are dissatisfied with the world as they see it, many will attempt and succeed in changing the world and its workings. We can't build a society or even improve it, with children who are quite happy with the way the world is and the way they find it," he said.

"We sometimes over-value the importance of intelligence rather than character improvement," he said. People who already have a feeling of what is right and wrong can derive anything out of studying.

Discipline of work, Mr. Jones said, is actually the realization of the potential personality of an individual. It is the form or stamp in which the world has shaped them.

Character forming is never complete, he said. Without constant forming and moulding, building and progress would stop. Work is essential to character building.

A road-map of life cannot be laid down from the next generation . . . or from the last, he stated.

Growing children must have the capacity to think for tomorrow's life. They must use logic and critical comprehension.

The primary God-given gift to man is the ability to stand on his feet through his reasoning and thinking powers, he concluded.

Discussion Ideal Form Of Teaching

"Discussion is the ideal form of teaching," was the contention of Robert G. Hazo of the Institute of Philosophical Research of San Francisco, speaking to the West Kootenay Teachers' convention on Friday afternoon.

He noted teaching is a co-operative art, and that all learning is by discovery on the part of the pupil. "Discussion facilitates this discovery better, approximating the process of learning.

"It is more immediate that the other forms of teaching and handles more learning problems It requires initiative on the part of the student, and develops this initiative. As a further point, it allows the teacher, as well as the student, to learn through exchange."

Discussion, he said, is an all-inclusive form of teaching and of learning. "There are no definite sides in a discussion where one person teaches and the other learns. Both teach and learn at the same time."

He further contended that a person can learn best through five periods, discovery and instruction with the former being the most important. He noted with the discovery type of teaching, the teacher helps by asking the student, while in the instruction type, the student is told.

"All learning is discovery. The teacher is accidental, and is not the sole cause of learning. Everything that is learned can be learned without a teacher, but less effectively. Instruction will always aid discovery on the part of the student."

Student Stimulating Science Fairs Urged as School Projects

H. M. Louderback, Spokane chemistry teacher, said there were 600,000 science fair projects exhibited in the U. S. last year and advocated this type of science education for the Kootenays.

Speaking at the West Kootenay Teachers' Convention in Nelson Friday, Mr. Louderback addressed his remarks to a group of district science teachers and urged them to introduce science fairs into their schools.

The science fair provides an opportunity for students to build and exhibit their own creative work.

"Science fairs provide the student with invaluable experience and a far greater interest in science," he said.

Edward Mauget, who won the top award in the last Inland Empire science fair in Spokane, displayed the miniature atom smasher which was acclaimed the winning exhibit.

He said the project, which took two years to build, earned him an extensive trip through the U. S. and tours through the major electronics plants of the country.

Mr. Louderback, director of the Inland Empire fair, said such exhibits stimulate problem solving, orderly thinking, motivate careers in science, provide an opportunity for discovering students for science and the opportunity for self-expression, an exchange of ideas and an increase in science enrolment.

He said boys and girls from any grade should be entitled to compete and estimated the cost of organizing a science fair of from $30 to $40.

Mr. Louderback stressed that teachers should act only in a guiding and advisory capacity, leaving the initiative to the pupil. He said there is no dearth of ideas for projects and as an example suggested such things as proving the tensile strength of a spider's web, if different spiders' webs have different tensile strengths.

To round out his talk, Mr. Louderback screened a large number of color slides of the last Spokane fair, showing such projects as those dealing with astronomical photography, electronics, synthetic muscles, and aerodynamics.

Alcoholism, Juvenile Delinquency Top B.C. Problems, Says Perrault

INVERMERE — Speaking for the first time in East Kootenay, Ray Perrault, Liberal leader for British Columbia, told a meeting here Friday night that never was there a greater need for a liberal Liberal party.

He said the greatest resource of the province is the people, then proceeded to diagnose the problems B. C. faces.

A major problem, he stressed, is that of alcoholism, which he described as the root cause of thousands of broken homes, and of an increase in juvenile delinquency, which he saw as the No. 1 problem.

Alcoholism, he said, costs the province $85,000,000 a year in social damage. He accused the Social Credit government of spending too little on an alcoholism prevention program.

He quoted a $26,000,000 profit on the sale of liquor by the government with only $75,000 spent on a prevention campaign against alcoholism.

Mr. Perrault said the current problems of juvenile delinquency do not indicate that young people are any worse than they ever were, but he stressed a constructive program to keep their minds on physical fitness. Such a program would give specialized training to young athletes in all parts of the province.

There should also be a physical fitness program fully integrated for people of all ages, he continued.

NEED COLLEGES

Turning to education, Mr. Perrault expressed a belief that university opportunities for more students in the interior would be available if associated colleges were established at strategic points throughout the province.

He said, too, that there should be more vocational schools and more nurses' training schools.

Regarding social welfare, Mr. Perrault declared there is a rising rate of divorce and marital separation. He believed that a provincial conciliation court should be established. He accused the Social Credit government of neglecting certain aspects of social welfare.

Mr. Perrault described the slogan of his party as "not right, not left, but forward."

He said B. C. is suffering from political apathy, and that the time is ripe for younger people to form strong political affiliations.

Mr. Perrault will visit other East Kootenay points next week to address meetings at Kimberley, Fernie, Cranbrook and Creston, and will speak fully on the question of Columbia River hydro power, probably at Kimberley and Creston.

VEGREVILLE, Alta. (CP) — Mike Kwasnycia, 54, a farmer from the Derwent district, Thursday was found guilty of a reduced charge of manslaughter and sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary. He was originally charged with murder in the death of Steven Jacula, a neighbor. He was also found guilty on a charge of attempted murder and sentenced to three years, to run concurrently. The second charge arose from the wounding of Marshal Jacula, the dead man's son.

Teacher Highly Important To Community

No matter where a person looked he could not find people more important to the community or to the world than those attending the West Kootenay Teachers' banquet, William C. Sorenson, superintendent of schools, Spokane, said at the Hume Hotel Friday night. About 250 attended.

"You, as teachers, have the greatest responsibility on molding the lives of boys and girls. Your rewards come in later years.

"The students of our schools now will later develop better communities in the future due to your efforts as teachers. It is a serious job and we must be sure of what type of molding we are doing," he told the assembly.

Administrators who hold positions as leaders of these teachers, must give them what they seek in their job.

Conformity and uniformity should not interfere with a teachers' ingenuity. School population is increasing by leaps and bounds every year.

For an example, Mr. Sorenson stated, in 1953 there were 5000 primary students in Spokane schools. By 1957, there were 11,000. With this increase of students, an expected 20,000 primary students will be in the schools by 1975.

Administrators must help to develop the following qualities in their teaching teams in order to have efficient teaching facility, Mr. Sorenson remarked.

Intelligence; diligence; understanding; wiseness.

Teachers must learn to bring out qualities in people that should be brought out. No greater responsibility can be endowed on an administrator or a teacher than to have good leadership, he said.

Assault By Trio Reported By Lebedoff

WYNNDEL — RCMP are investigating an attack on a former leader of the sect, Sons of Freedom at his home here early Friday.

John Lebedoff reported that three masked men broke into his house and assaulted him at 2 a.m. Both doors to the house were broken.

Lebedoff leaped from his bed and in a fight which followed Lebedoff told police he bruised the face of one of the men and tore away part of his mask, which was made of white sack-cloth.

One of the men dropped his flashlight when it was knocked out of his hand as the trio rushed away.

Mrs. Lebedoff and their two sons Sydney and Walter were also asleep at the time.

They told police they felt it was fortunate they were at home, that they feared Lebedoff might have been killed if he had been alone.

Polic plan to examine the flashlight for fingerprints.

Trail Mayor To Run Again

TRAIL—Mayor Leslie Read announced his intention Friday to seek a third term as Trail's chief magistrate, and Ald. F. E. DeVito and former alderman Alex Brokenshire officially declared their intention to try for aldermanic vacancies.

Ald. W. A. Curran still is undecided whether he will allow his name to stand for a third term, but is to make his position known shortly.

Completing city council terms this year are Mr. Read, Mr. DeVito, Mr. Curran and Ald. Stuart Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell already has indicated that he will not seek re-election.

With one year still to run in their terms are Ald. J. L. Crowe, Ald. Harold Dixon and Ald. Joseph Palyga.

Still Not Profession

Teaching Agency Under Dictation Of Gov't Says Convention Speaker

J. B. Varcoe, Trail lawyer, declared Friday that teaching is not a profession, but an agency dictated by governmental decree.

Mr. Varcoe expressed his opinion during a panel on professional ethics staged as part of the West Kootenay Teachers' convention which closes in Nelson today. Business sessions were held in the L. V. Rogers High School.

"A teacher is a civil servant who holds a certificate issued by . . . .the department of education," Mr. Varcoe said. He claimed that in the 100-page Public Schools Act the word "profession" only appears once and then in connection with the "examination and investigation of the professional development of teachers".

The speaker said the duties, courses of study and the text books used by the teachers are prescribed by a government body.

"I wonder how teachers can be expected to achieve a high degree of scholarship when what they do is dictated by governmental decree?" he asked.

He felt the relationship of the government education authorities and the teachers is one of "servant and masters" consequently under such circumstances, the question of ethics is not involved.

"It is just a matter of the master saying to the servant, do as I say," Mr. Varcoe explained.

LACK CONTROL

Reginald Cox of Vancouver, president of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation, agreed that teaching has not yet gained the status of a profession and can not do so until teachers have control over who shall teach.

Mr. Cox, along with Stanley Evans, of Vancouver, secretary of the BCTF, comprised the three-man panel presided over by Peter Klassen, president of the Nelson Teachers' Association.

"As soon as a person is given a certificate they become teachers and we have no say about it," Mr. Evans said. He pointed out that the individual teacher automatically becomes a member of the BCTF after being granted a certificate.

"Neither the teacher or the federation have any say about it," he claimed.

"We have people in the classrooms who we say have not enough training to teach. We should be able to say if this person should or should not teach," Mr. Cox claimed.

"We must prevent people as a whole jumping in and preventing the purpose of education. Part of our job is to resist the wish of society that we do all their jobs for them," he maintained.

"Only until we have control over who comes into our profession, and then only, can we worry about that word ethic," he concluded.

Mr. Evans said teaching "has the earmarks of a profession" and is governed by a code of ethics set up by the BCTF.

He claimed that few cases of violation of ethics have come before the federation and explained that most have arisen in connection with contracts.

Mr. Evans claimed that teachers can not be expected to be regarded as professionals when they accept part-time work not connected with their vocation.

"The public is well aware we are not full-time teachers," he said.

"We are not going to get a professional status by asking for it, it must be earned," he said, and warned that the action of just one teacher "can color the entire group".

BRIDGE TOLL CUT FOR MOTORCYCLES

Nelson Bridge toll Lieut. R. Roberts was notified Friday that by a government order-in-council, crossing rates for motorcycles had been reduced from 50 cents to 10 cents. Motorcycles with sidecars will pay 20 cents instead of 50 cents.

Can-Can Girls Lively Finale for Convention

A chorus line of eight crinoline-clad Can-Can Girls brought down the curtain on the West Kootenay District Council Teachers' Convention Friday night.

The peppy finale featured eight teachers in the role of a Parisienne chorus for the gay cabaret entertainment at the Nelson Hotel.

It was the wind-up entertainment for the convention which has kept some 600 delegates in busy sessions since Thursday evening. The majority will return to their Kootenay communities today while others will remain for workshop and convention evaluation reports.

The Can-Can performance followed a smorgasbord, and a dance wound up the entertainment.

"We are well pleased with the convention. It went smoothly and, I feel, furnished inspiration and invaluable information for district teachers," said A. L. Cartier, convention chairman.

The dancers, directed by Mrs. Bernard Clarkson, were Mrs. Morris Slater Miss Mary MacLean, Mrs. James Todd, Mrs Tom Naka, Miss Evelyn Kerr and Mrs. Richard Bradshaw.

B.B. Crawford, principal of the sented Mrs. Clarkson with a Nelson Junior High School prebouquet following the dance performance in the banquet hall.

Merlin Bunt and Bernard Ryall acted as masters of ceremonies and entertained on the accordian and piano.

$120 Fine Paid For Ignoring Policeman's Signals

For failing to stop when signalled to do so by a city policeman, and for failing to produce a driver's licence, Richard Eggers of Nelson was fined $120 and costs by city police court Magistrate R. S. Nelson Thursday.

A $100 fine was levied when the accused pleaded guilty to ignoring a police officer who twice ordered him to stop when he spotted him driving with his car lights off at 12:20 a.m..

He paid another fine of $20 on the driver's licence charge.

In Friday's paper, it had been reported that Eggers received the larger fine for failing to stop at a stop sign.

Odds... and Ends

... by M. D. B.

As you will recall we are continuing on the story of the Capitol Theatre. Previous to its opening Nelson had been served by the Gem Theatre, (where the former unemployment insurance office now stands empty) owned by I. G. Johnson. He later sold out to Famous Players and J. Paul Pitner became manager. There had also been the Starland (where I first saw Peter Pan) that was somewhere near where Hood's Bakery is now.

Vaudeville was still going strong in those days and some oldtimers will recall the "Lilliputians" and the Winnipeg Kiddies who did acrobatics. There were the Kentucky Jubilee Singers, Joe Cook at the Ballgame (a monologue), and the Calvert Kiddies.

Two years later, spelling the doom of vaudeville, came the talkies and Nelson was treated to its first movie with a sound track in September 9, 1929, when Ramon Novarro appeared in "The Desert Song".

* * *

A full-page ad announced the theatre's reopening after the installation of the sound equipment. "The Desert Song" was hailed as "a staggering succession of bewitching songs that flow from the screen with thrilling intensity! Your heart will tingle with this superb rendition of throbbing melodies and the sonorous grandeur of the mighty chorus and symphony orchestra." So the advertisement proclaimed a new era in the life of the theatre.

It was at this time that a news headline read "Fanatics On Way to Oakalla" and the Western provinces were preparing a petition of appeal against freight rates in the West. Fashion showed women's dresses with no waists, all floppy and baggy with hemlines askew. Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham was announcing opening of the new Anglican Church, George Harlow, Nelson heavyweight, was to meet Fred Lenhart of Spokane and J. B. Gray, president of the Board of Trade, spoke to Rotarians on the work of the board here. It was noted in a small news item that it took A. H. Green just 16 hours to travel to the coast and only four and a half hours to come from Spokane to Nelson. Cars could really take punishment in those days.

Theatre ads continued to extol the wonders of the "Talkies" and an ad in the Dec. 25, 1929, paper announced "Broadway Melody" as Boxing Day fare — "Talking, Singing, Dancing — all pictures fade into insignificance beside this living, lilting screen drama of the great white way." There were also pictures starring Clara Bow (the "It" girl) in "Dangerous Curves", Mary Pickford in "Coquette", Maurice Chevalier in "Innocents in Paris" and Dolores Costello in "Glad Rag Doll".

* * *

It was on October 17, 1929 that King George V spoke to "the people of our far-flung British Empire" through the medium of the talking picture.

The pictures were in black and white in those days and it wasn't until much later that the first color came to the screen when the odd "epic" was blazoned forth in colors, a little unreal, but heralding another advance in the movie industry. Theatre advertising grew more daring, though now it seems as passe as lavender and old lace. Such blurbs as "A beautiful woman risked an empire for love — and the man who loved her risked even more"; "Love, laughter, passion and intrigue, adventure and mystery amid the tinkle of temple bells and the perfume of Asiatic nights" — these were the romantic words that wooed the theatregoer. They went to see heroines bent into a hoop to be kissed and the illustrious Greta Garbo in Camille emoting to a young Robert Taylor, "Crrrush me in your arms unteel all the breath is gone from my body."

Oh, it was all mighty potent stuff in those days when John Bowles, David Rollins, Ray D'Arcy and Nelson Eddy played hero or villian. It was quite something for the heroine to be "an enigmatic adventuress, voluptuous and cruel, inflamed with power, but enslaved by passion" as it was for the hero to be "a man of iron into whose arms she melted after the love duel in which she gambled for an empress' tiara and lost" (to this man of iron, probably the blacksmith's son).

* * *

Again I have wandered away from the Capitol for as you see it still has the power to transport one, if only back over the years.

The clouds on her blue ceiling are water-stained, the painted roses dull and faded and her gilt work chipped. She is no longer the great lady she was in her heyday. Now she only plays hostess to the odd concert, theatre group or what-have-you. Her heart is still warm and she tries to tuck up her faded petticoat and put on a good front, but I imagine that when the laughing crowds have gone home and the lights in her chandeliers turned off she must sigh to herself in the dark for gay days departed.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHT. Caught by camera in conversation at West Kootenay Teachers' convention banquet at the Hume last night are G. H. Lee, principal of L. V. Rogers High School, who introduced speakers; Lawrence Owen of Nelson committee, and W. J. Sorenson, superintendent of schools, Spokane, who was guest speaker.

SUMPTUOUS DINNER. An empty corner complete with end table provided a perfect spot in the crowded banquet area for these two. Left is Miss Tannis Kelley, James Webster school, Warfield, and her guest, Mr. K. J. MacKenzie of Vancouver.

Daily News Photos

HUGE SMORGASBORD. Hundreds of delegates, like those above, jammed the banquet halls and dining room of the Nelson Hotel to feast on a wide variety of dishes. A dance followed the dinner.

PANEL DELIBERATES. Speaking in West Kootenay Teachers' Convention panel is Andrew Soles, principal, J. Lloyd Crowe High School, Trail, as Nelson Allen, district schools superintendent; Rev. LeRoy McKenzie, Notre Dame College, and Rev. E. Donovan Jones, St. Paul's-Trinity United Church, listen in background.

Cranbrook Teachers' Pay in Conciliation

CRANBROOK — Conciliators have been named, James Kraft by Cranbrook District School Board, and M. G. Klinkhamer by Cranbrook Teachers' Association, following unsuccessful negotiations between their respective bargaining committees toward establishment of the 1960 teacher salary scale.

Teachers' Association negotiation committee proposed increases of 10 per cent which the board found unacceptable in view of the heavy school tax load carried by the city, Board counter-proposed an increase of four per cent which was rejected. The negotiating committees met six times and agreement was reached on all other contract renewal terms. Under the Public Schools Act final contract terms must be reached by Dec. 31, so that municipalities may establish their school mill rate for the year.

If conciliation is not successful through efforts of the conciliation proceedings, the matter then goes to arbitration.

Contrary to mysteriously emanating reports in Alberta newspapers, neither school board nor teachers' association seems to consider the widely discussed Cranbrook plan in its contract has failed. This section of the contract, inserted in the 1958 agreement, covered four clauses: establishment of a teacher liaison committee of not less than 10 per cent of the total teaching staff and excluding all school administrators to deal directly with the school board teacher committee; establishment of department heads for various subjects in the secondary school; evaluation and scoring of each secondary teacher on the staff by the schools superintendent and the high school principal and a money bonus in addition to the annual normal increment for highest scoring range, with right to withhold the normal increment for the bracket in low scoring range.

In outlining its initial proposals for renewal of contract, the teachers' committee specifically asked continuation of this section with exception of the fourth point, the bonus or withholding.

Supporting its claim of success of the Cranbrook plan, the School Board has produced statistics of successful examination passes. The plan was instituted specifically to improve academic rating of the Mount Baker School which showed 68.2 per cent government examination passes in 1956, far below the provincial average of passes.

Cranbrook Plan was implemented early in 1958, and passes in Mount Baker School rose to 78 per cent, and in 1959 were 90.82 per cent, far above the provincial average.

School year 1958-59 was the first complete year for the plan, and the scoring by the superintendent and principal of the 34 secondary teachers on the staff rated 20 in the superior class which qualified them for the bonus in addition to normal increment. However, approximately one-third of these highly-evaluated teachers moved to positions in other school districts, not necessarily more highly paid and in some cases at a lower salary rate.

Cranbrook School District salary scale for teachers is among the eight highest in the province.

TOO MANY FOR SELF, NAKUSP PADRE STATES

NAKUSP — "We have a better world materially, but not morally," Canadian Legion padre James Ferguson said in an address during Remembrance Day ceremonies here.

Man's conduct could be divided into two parts—compulsory and voluntary. One might be called the first mile, the other the second mile.

Under the first heading would come the necessities of everyday living, under the second, acts of a person's own accord, "like going the second mile."

Servicemen who made the supreme sacrifice "went the second mile." They died in order that "we might have a better world in which to live."

"Materially, we have much more. It depends on what we do with this extra time. Will it be for self or for service? Will it be the first mile or the second?"

"Capitalism," he said, "is changing. It is now all self. It is not prepared to go the second mile. The present system is not based on human need, but profit. Each must make a sacrifice if the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God is to be obtained."

The address was heard at the Arrow Lakes Theatre. A parade to the Nakusp Cenotaph followed.

New Cranbrook Food Store Opens

CRANBROOK — Initial Super-Valu Food Market for East Kootenay was opened by Mayor R. E. Sang Thursday morning. The 12,000 square foot building with glass walls on three sides and a 100-car asphalt parking lot extends the business section a block farther east to Twelfth Avenue on Baker Street. It was constructed over the past five months by C. J. Oliver Construction Ltd., who are now turning their full attention to building a similar $120,000 food market centre at Kimberley for opening next spring.

Transferred from Kamloops Super Valu operations to become manager of this new Cranbrook store is Arthur Dance, who has established his new home here.

This means that the wood is placed in a large magazine with no outlet at the top. In the magazine the fuel is slowly changed to charcoal by destructive distillation, releasing combustible gases containing at least half the heating value of the wood. These gases must flow downward and enter a special gas combustion flue where extra fresh air is provided to insure complete combustion. Tests prove that this scientific method of burning wood saves fully half the fuel and greatly reduces creosote problems.

when men are available

More and more Canadians every year are finding that it makes sense to have work done in the wintertime when skilled men and materials are available.

This applies particularly to home, plant and office improvements.

But in addition to home improvements, there are many other things that can be done to advantage during the winter. They include such things as maintenance of lawn and garden equipment, electrical appliances, outboard motors and automobiles as well as dry cleaning of drapes and rugs, and replacement of upholstery, to mention but a few.

By taking a realistic approach to winter work you also will be helping your community by creating employment during the traditional winter lull. When everybody works, everybody benefits.

The Piper Hits a Sour Note

When psychologists get around to studying the behavior of nations they will probably conclude that in many respects it is similar to that of the individual. At the moment the dominant characteristic of most of them seems to be a desire for attention and prestige.

This is particularly so in the case of France under General de Gaulle. Ever since the conclusion of the last war France has been apparently suffering from frustration. Up to that time she had always been considered a great power. Then she sank into insignificance in the councils of the free world. Much of what happened was her own fault but it was not helped by the little attention given her.

Then de Gaulle, when France seems to have reached the lowest point in her history, takes command. He is a fervent patriot, determined to restore France to her former greatness. He has apparently gone a long way towards doing it. He is determined to make the atom bomb if only to keep abreast of Britain and the U.S. and he is holding up the summit meeting purely, it would seem, to assert his right to be heard in NATO.

De Gaulle is quite right. To him his country comes first and its prestige is important to him as it is to a great degree to other countries in the world. Its method of achieving it may be uncomfortable for the other members of the Western alliance, but none of them can deny his fundamental right to take the line he is doing.

Leadership of an alliance is always difficult. National interests conflict and rivalries among allies are no less because of their association. There comes a time when the lesser nations make their voices heard and the leader has a hard time to keep them working amicably together. Such a time seems to have come, and the United States as the leader has to bear the brunt of it. Not only France, but Canada has been standing up and demanding to be heard. Of course the smaller nations should have a voice in affairs, but they should nevertheless remember that the cost of defence is largely assumed by the U.S. and he who pays the piper should be allowed to call the tune.

At the same time the United Nations Assembly seems to be made use of for the purpose of propaganda. Strictly speaking no one can have two loyalties and it is evident that much of what is said in the Assembly is subtly intended to convey national attitudes and not the spirit of internationalism. The smaller nations all crave attention.

Stimulate or Stifle

After two days of public hearings on its proposed television regulations, the Board of Broadcast Governors will now ponder the results and draw up a final policy. If it sticks to the original schedule announced last summer, the decision will be made within the next 10 days. November 15 was set as the target date.

The BBG has serious problems to resolve in that limited period. The briefs it heard this week were often conflicting and controversial — which is hardly surprising in view of the controversial nature of its own proposals. The manner in which the BBG discharges its heavy responsibility will affect the future of Canadian television for many years to come.

The BBG can save time by agreeing forthwith to eliminate the silly and petty regulations it wanted to impose. Outstanding in this category is the proposal to ban most television broadcasting before noon. None of the organizations testifying this week apparently had a good word to say about this bit of bureaucracy. The proposed usurping of two hours between 8 p.m. and 11 p.m. for purposes dictated by the BBG should meet similar oblivion.

As expected, the major subject of the hearing was the proposed regulation requiring that 55 per cent of all programs be Canadian. Opposition to the proposal came from those who would be required to implement it, including the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation; support came from those who represented certain viewers and from those who would benefit through employment.

This question of Canadian content goes right to the heart of what is wrong with the BBG's regulations. It apparently intends to lay down one inflexible policy for the whole country, for both public and private stations, based on an arithmetical formula pulled glibly out of a hat. In attempting to do so, it clearly misunderstands the nature of the problem.

There is no logical reason why the CBC should be subject to the same rules as private television. Its function and purpose (to say nothing of its financing) are completely different. It has limited resources, and to use them most effectively it should not start broadcasting until afternoon—perhaps late afternoon. The private stations, on the other hand, should be free to operate 24 hours a day, if they wish to chance making a profit on such a schedule.

The CBC should be required to produce a certain proportion of Canadian programs, certainly at least half. It has an obligation to develop a sense of Canadian identity, to promote Canadian talent. The private stations have much less obligation in this regard. If they are required to submit to some arbitrary minimum of Canadian content, if should be much lower than that for the CBC. The main yardstick for them should be public acceptance. It is not a question for them of whether a program is Canadian or non-Canadian, but whether it is good or bad.

This approach is based on the premise that the viewer has freedom of choice, as he has in Toronto with a minimum of four channels from which to choose. In many Canadian cities and towns, however, there is only one channel available to viewers, and the operator of that station, private or CBC, is under a special obligation to provide balanced programming.

The Board of Broadcast Governors has made no attempt to separate and define these varying circumstances and formulate policy accordingly. Let us hope it does so within the next 10 days; without a recognition of these important factors, the regulations it proposes to implement will seriously hamper Canadian television. They will not stimulate, but stifle.

—Toronto Globe and Mail.

Interpreting the News

Two pitfalls on the way to peace and freedom in Cyprus have been overcome in recent weeks. At the moment the chances are good that the Mediterranean island can make the transition from British colony to independent republic next February without more bloodshed.

The first hazard disposed of was Gen. George Grivas, the Greek soldier who led the four-year fight against British rule and who has since returned to Greece trying — vainly, it seems — to grab a place in the sun of Athenian politics.

In making that bid, he tried to capitalize on the fears and hatreds of the Greek and Turkish Cypriots that have not been altogether buried. He talked of taking a hand in events but at a meeting with Archbishop Makarios apparently agreed to drop out of the picture.

The other roadblock that has been cleared, apparently to almost everyone's satisfaction, is the role of the vice-president in the new republic. Argument over the issue had deadlocked the constitution — making conference for more than a month.

An agreement reached last February ending the fighting on Cyprus specified that the president of the new republic should be a Green-Cypriot and the vice-president a Turkish-Cypriot.

Each is given veto powers in certain matters but the Turks wanted a wider voice: Consultation on all matters that came before the president. In other words almost co-equal powers. The Greek-Cypriots, who comprise four-fifths of the population, refused to go along.

The issue has been resolved with Solomon — like wisdom. The president, who will most probably be Makarios, will have precedence over all persons in the republic. The vice-president, almost certain to be the Turkish-Cypriot leader Dr. Fadil Kutchuk, will take precedence over everyone after the president.

As a further sop to Turkish vanity, the diplomatic world is presented with a nicety of protocol: The president will be head of state and the vice president vice-head of state.

Kutchuk pronounced himself "deeply pleased" with the outcome and Makarios said "the most difficult stage" had been overcome.

However, the islanders are still nervous. There was alarm last month when a Turkish shipload of arms was uncovered and Makarios suspended the constitutional talks. If Grivas chose to stir up more trouble or if other difficulties arose, progress could easily be stalled again.

Meanwhile talks on joint defence arrangements among Greece, Turkey and Cyprus and negotiations on Britain's military bases are reported to be going smoothly.

Out With the Junk Mail

Reports that the post office department is looking for a way to reduce the nuisance caused by what is commonly described as junk mail will give joy to many people. It is not only the postal service which is annoyed by the way mail advertising has developed. To tens of thousands of householders and business offices throughout the land this cluttering of mailboxes with printed piffle is a perpetual cause of anger and wasted effort.

The post office has less cause than the public to regard this misuse of the royal mails as a nuisance to be got rid of if a way can be found. True, receiving and distributing junk mail adds heavily to the work of the postal staff and the cost of operating the most important of all federal services. But the department gets paid for it; and as the Canadian post office operates with strict regard for profit and loss, it may be taken for granted that the government does quite nicely.

No so the householders and business people. Separating the wheat from the chaff has to be done in their own time; and in the case of business firms that time and the accompanying cost can be considerable. For householders junk mail is throw-away mail, which means that it is thrown onto streets, sidewalks and boulevards or into gutters, to lie there as soggy litter until the street cleaners remove it at public expense.

—Victoria Colonist.

STAMP CORNER

By JAMES MONTAGNES

With Armistice just over it might be a good occasion to look over your collection to see how many stamps have been issued to mark the end of a war. Certainly quite a number have been issued to remember the end of the two world wars.

The armistice which marked the end of World War I was remembered with a special stamp last year by France, on the 40th anniversary of the event. The stamp shows a French soldier's hat on a grave marker with grain growing over the grave.

The best-known war memorial is the Cenotaph at London, shown on Australia's 1935 commemorative stamp. New Zealand featured its national war memorial on a 1946 stamp to mark the end of World War II. Canada showed its war memorial in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa on a 1938 stamp and in 1939 featured the national war memorial in the centre of Ottawa, the year it was unveiled by the late King George VI on his Canadian visit. United States on its 1922 stamps featured the national memorial at Arlington, outside Washington.

At the end of World War I a number of countries issued stamps to the event. New Zealand had a set in 1919, Newfoundland had a set featuring the caribou, with each value of the series to a specific battle in which Newfoundland troops took part. Jamaica in 1919 had a pictorial series, several values of which depicted troops from that island going off to war and returning to Jamaica.

France in 1939 issued semi-postal stamps for a monument to soldiers of its enigneering corps who fell during World War I. Switzerland in 1919 issued a set to peace which followed the war, even though Switzerland had remained neutral. United States that year issued a victory stamp featuring the flags of the allied countries. Japan had two stamps showing the dove of peace.

Many stamps have been issued to mark individual battles of World War I. France in 1936 issued two stamps featuring the Canadian war memorial at Vimy Ridge, a major battle in which many Canadians fell. France in 1956 issued two stamps to the 40th anniversary of the battle of Verdun, showing soldiers in the trenches.

At the end of World War II Great Britain and all its colonies issued stamps to mark the victory. Australia, New Zealand, India and South Africa also issued victory stamps. So did the Philippines with overprint of Victory on regular issues, Brazil with a set to its forces, Honduras and United States with stamps to its various military services and war veterans, and the Netherlands with a stamp to its liberation. Russia featured victory parades on 1945 stamps.

Monuments to other wars are depicted on many stamps of many nations. Greece, for example, recalls its wars of independence of last century on many stamps, and South American countries have had numerous stamps to monuments of their liberators and battles. History of wars as shown on stamps makes an interesting specialty collection.

New issues . . . United States next July 1 issues its new flag with 50 stars for the 50 states, and on Nov. 1 issues a stamp for the Camp Fire Girls movement. . . . Ghana has issued stamps for United Nations day. . . . Australia has issued four stamps for its Antarctic territory.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

For Sunday, November 15, 1959

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) —Take everything in proper order; do not be hasty of thought or undecided in action. "Keep your head about you," as the saying goes, and you will fare well this day.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)— No one can quarrel with you if you act conscientiously to prevent disagreements and prepare for eventualities. There are many fine planetary influences, but act conservatively, nevertheless.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)— Take things in stride, and do harmony, both in your domestic everything possible to promote life and your work. Some new incentive should prove stimulating.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) —Speed may be an important factor today. But, of course, speed is never advised at the expense of doing a job thoroughly or of overlooking small but vital details. Be careful if travelling.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)— Your own approach will count now—your willingness to pitch in and be eagerly interested in the day's activities. Keep your own counsel. Avoid oversensitiveness.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Review briefly (even though your affairs may seem to be in order) and note whether this new day requires a new idea or plan. Then start with determination, albeit with cheer and an ear for all opinions.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — You, too, have some excellent aspects, but you also have some restrictions at which you must not chafe. A wary eye overindulgences advised.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVERMER 22 (Scorpio) — It may not be easy to do a routine job or accede to others' wishes if you have done so for "too long." While you work it out, keep planning, and don't lose contact with friends.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Note Scorpio; your indications are similar. Too much work and no diversion is as harmful as too much play. Try to relax.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — It will not be too difficult to get tedious matters over with when you think of the mental satisfaction, to say nothing of the material gain. Not minding "petty obstacles" is half the battle.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Here is a spot for some reflection but NOT remorse, or regrets. Revise where you profitably can, or carry on as you have — but with greater determination and know-how.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — There is a big "IF" today, namely: IF you start on time, and maintain a steady pace, you will achieve. If you start poorly, results will be mediocre.

YOU BORN TODAY can rise above hazards, leap over obstacles, and be popular IF you will cultivate your many fine talents and no waste time on frivolous pastimes or unworthy associates. You frequently work too quickly and while you usually accomplish ably, still can make foolish errors. You have tremendous mental capacity, an appreciation for music and other arts; are loyal and sincere, but are not always demonstrative.

For Monday, November 16, 1959

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For MONDAY, NOV. 16, 1959

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) —Fine planetary rays should spur you on now. Pay more attention to the "minor" essentials that can bring solid, lasting results. Be reasonable in demands, too.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)— This day promises advantages, fresh avenues for advancement, an improvement in your status; be afterted, duly ambitious. You can gain at your specific occupation and be happy in both social and domestic relationships.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)— Good planetary influences should strengthen your chances for achieving more than usual. Without overdoing, get on with your affairs and have faith in yourself.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)— More planetary encouragement than you may think, but there are also vibrations that warn against carelessness and moodiness. Be cheerful, hopeful, and use your fine ability to the utmost.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)— Give more time to studying the tasks and duties on your schedule. It will greatly help and simplify procedure. The right start is half the battle. Many good influences!

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — A good period for mental work, study, research and the like, but it is not a wholly generous day for laborious tasks — those requiring vigor and stamina.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Day promises fine opportunities but you must look for them and make the most of them. Be alert!

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Favored; new ideas, methods and helpful conferences. Forward! Don't procastinate, but don't make hasty decisions.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — You are on the lucky side, with your Jupiter in fine position. Make the best use of your varied talents.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — You can make what you will of this challenging day. If you keep up interest and add the stimulus needed, your skill and industry can reap profitable results.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Finances, real estate, all sound business activities favored. Purely personal desires may have to wait, but get ahead in your work.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Friendly Neptune rays should bring you benefits if you put forth your best efforts. Don't worry. You are your most efficient and effective self when hopeful and cheery.

YOU BORN TODAY have courage, fortitude; are enterprising and will push plans, projects efficiently to competion. If true to your finer self, you can even remold impractical ventures into things worth while. Never permit yourself to become overbearing or unreasonable. Self-control and confidence are your best aids in all emergencies, events. And keep ambitious.

Decision on Farm Problems Expected Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday he expects a decision "by early next week" on the question of federal aid for Prairie farmers whose grain crops remain unharvested in the fields because of early snows.

Speaking to reporters as he entered a cabinet meeting, he indicated the government still is seeking co-operation of the Prairie provincial governments in meeting the problem.

"The talks are continuing with the western provinces," he said. "They are being discussed in the usual way."

Early estimates were that one-quarter of a 400,000,000 - bushel western wheat crop was caught in the fields by early snowfalls.

Requests for aid were presented to the prime minister and other cabinet ministers at a Winnipeg meeting Oct. 22 with representatives of Prairie farm groups.

Their requests included a reported bid for direct aid of a minimum $5 an acre up to 200 acres for each farmer to compensate for losses. Another proposal was for interest-free loans to be repaid when the grain is threshed and delivered.

Americans Adopt Unwanted Baby

LONDON (AP) — Roy and Sheila Winkley said Thursday their unborn and unwanted baby will go to Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Malone of Anchorage, Alaska.

"They seem very nice people from their letter," said the baby's father, 29-year-old Roy Winkley.

More than 200 letters and some 12 cables have arrived at the Winkley's Timperley, north of England, home since they offered the child for adoption in the United States.

Winkley, a jobless ex-factory worker, said he and his wife were devoted to their eight-year-old son and five-year-old daughter but could not face another bout of baby-minding. They gave away a baby to an English couple last year for the same reason.

The Winkleys' baby is expected next February or March.

In Anchorage, Mrs. Malone expressed unbelief, amazement, then sheer delight when told she would get the unwanted baby.

Our Father's Business

True greatness stems from goodness and the truly great are humble in spirit. Service to others and for others, is the keynote of the whole Christian doctrine, and the endless service Jesus Christ is giving for the redemption of the whole human race, demonstrates His great love for us.

In the Gospel of St. Mark, chapter 10:42-45, we read these words: "Whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister: And whosoever of you will be chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

The incident which caused Christ to speak the above words took plade when they were on the way to Jerusalem for the last time—James and John, the sons of Zebedee, had asked Christ if he would fulfill the desire of their hearts, which was that they should sit with him when he came into his glory as King, one on his right hand and the other on his left. They were ambitious for greatness and their mother had urged them to ask for this favor.

Jesus rebuked them rather sharply and told them that the honor they desired was not his to give, and that they must be prepared to undergo the cruel hardships which soon would come to them.

The other disciples were displeased with James and John, and Jesus called them to Him and gave them a lesson in true greatness, explaining the difference between those who ruled in temporal kingdoms and the really great in the kingdom of heaven.

Pride in achievement is a human trait which has prevented many men and women from being acknowledged and received by their own generation, as truly great.

The old maxim which reads, 'the good alone are great', holds true even in this atomic age. Service to mankind has activated great men in every generation to heroic deeds and unstinting sacrifice of time and energy, not expecting reward, but working to make the world a better place for their fellows.

If the attitude of many of our fellow citizens would change from 'What is there in it for me,' to 'What can I put into it,' our city would prosper and we would be a happy community.

Selfless service brings happiness and contentment to the donor, it also brings happiness to those that receive its benificence.

E. A. HIRCOCK,
First Presbyterian Church, Nelson.

Calgary Pianist Commended for London Recital

LONDON (CP) — A recital by Carlina Carr at Wigmore Hall receives friendly notices in two London newspapers, which praise the Calgary pianist's choice of program as well as her performance.

The Times commends her inclusion of unfamiliar works by well-known composers, including a toccata in A minor by Bach and a Sonata in G minor by Haydn, "in which Miss Carr showed her skill with 18th century ornaments."

The Times reviewer says Miss Carr "played her program with a natural love for the instrument that made Bach, Brahms and Bartok equally ingratiating in their several ways."

The Daily Telegraph says Miss Carr's rendition of Maurice Ravel's rarely-heard Valses Nobles et Sentimentales was "piano playing of unusual quality." The Bach and Haydn works were played with elegance, lively rhythm and a versatile touch but lacked "the dash of passionate temperament that would have made these performances truly memorable."

"But there is no denying that Miss Carr has a mind of her own and a technique to match her intentions. Altogether an occasion of achievement and promise."

Home Parties Coming Back Into Vogue Both Outdoors and Inside

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The trend is to home parties, says Mary Smith - Howard, a party consultant in Toronto for the past five years.

She says the popularity of recreation rooms, outdoor cooking facilities and swimming pools has brought about a casual, relaxed manner of entertaining.

Parties are getting smaller, too, and more intimate.

"People used to invite 50 or 60 guests," she explained, "but now they'll have two parties with 25 people at each."

Square dancing remains popular for both young and old. European immigrants, who are fond of folk dancing, adapt quickly to square dancing, she says.

Cake, ice cream and "pop" remain the favorite items on the menu for children's parties. During the holiday season, entertainment such as a clown or magician is often added as a special treat.

Women love to have a fortune teller at their parties. "Men like them too, but won't admit it," she says.

She anticipates a sharp increase in parties for teen-agers.

"There parents feel it is better for them to bring their friends home," she said.

NEW SEASON

The party season which usually starts a few weeks before Christmas is already under way.

The use of decorations is on the upgrade, but sometimes they are overdone, says Mrs. Smith-Howard.

"A well-set table with an attractive centre - piece is better than having all sorts of things hung around the room.

"The food should be attractive, too. You don't need a large variety, but what you have must be good, and there should be plenty of it."

Organization is the most important ingredient for a successful party, she says.

GOOD HOSTESSES

"That's why business girls are often good hostesses. They're organized and enthusiastic.

"A good hostess makes sure those guests who are new to each other have an opportunity to get to know each other."

When the hostess makes up her guest list she does the planning which determines whether or not her party will be a success.

Mrs. Smith-Howard is against inviting people with no common interests to the same party.

"It's better to entertain people separately at different times if they have nothing in common."

Climate Influences Color Atmosphere

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — One of the nicest things about Canadian homes is the open fireplace "which people really use," says Margit Bennett.

She is the decorating editor of a monthly magazine and in her travels across Canada she has developed a theory that the climate influences the color atmosphere of various areas.

"The Maritimes, with greyish weather, are conservative with color," she says. "The Prairies and Quebec burst into color because they both get a lot of snow and sunshine. It's not unusual to see turquoise or chartreuse on the Prairies.

"Vancouver has the soft shades again. Ontario is a nice medium because of its mixed climate. Ontario is more restrained than the West, but less conservative than the Maritimes."

BRIGHTER SHADES

Many of the softer colors of imported cloths from Europe have to be re-dyed for Canadian women, she explained, in the upsurge of interest in decorating in Canada.

Canadians are more home-conscious since the advent of television, she thinks. "Canadians with their great pioneering spirit just never had time before. Now, with more leisure time, they're going to night school and learning more about decorating."

"We're getting away from suites and moving into the mix-and - match age," the Danish-born decorator explained. One or two old pieces of furniture, for instance, are being mixed with contemporary pieces.

"It's much more difficult to do. You need a common denominator, such as color or a common finish."

A strong accent color can do wonders for a room, but if used too sparingly it's ineffective, and an overdose is even worse. "It's like painting or making a floral arrangement."

PERSONAL TOUCH

Mrs. Bennett recommends a professional decorator—"just as you call a doctor if you are sick, or a dentist if you have a toothache.

"The interior decorator will build a nice frame around you, but it still needs your own finishing touches."

The best furnishings are comfortable, usable, and can justify their existence.

"If you're the type that becomes attached to things, try to choose good things, like books and perhaps a pottery vase."

Simple changes can often rejuvenate a room. "Rearranging the colors is one of the most inexpensive changes," she says.

And one of the great needs in home decoration, in Mrs. Bennett's view, is a basic design for children's furniture which will grow up with the child.

Home Builder Can Choose Between Stripped House or "Plus Value"

Everyone shopping for a new home is looking for the best bargain obtainable. The builder, too, tries to give the customer the most for his money.

From the builder's point of view there are two ways of looking at the question. Some will cut costs in every way possible while maintaining an acceptable standard of construction, and pass these savings on to their customers. This method enables those with limited funds to obtain a house with a minimum down payment and lower monthly mortgage instalments.

Other builders feel that they are giving the customer a better deal by putting in all the extras when the house is built. They pass on to the owner the discounts obtained through bulk purchasing of materials and equipment. The cost of these extras is added to the mortgage debt and payment is therefore spread over a number of years, eliminating the need for heavy cash outlays that might otherwise be necessary.

There are quite a number of features not considered basically essential to a house but which homeowners often insist on having. A fireplace, a built-in garage, an extra bathroom, all these are now part of the plus package. Picture windows with sealed-in insulation and wall-to-wall carpeting are other conveniences now installed as regular "built-in" features. The kitchen may be vented to the outside by means of an electric fan and, indeed, a full range of kitchen equipment may be provided with the house. An air conditioning unit is no longer considered a luyury. It is often installed integrally with the heating system and included in the sale price of the house.

No specific costs can be quoted for these items, since the prices of materials and services vary from one locality to the next.

Whether the extras are considered as necessities or luxuries depends on the customer's living habits. And whether the added convenience and advantages they provide outweigh the additional cost they will also have to be decided by the purchaser in each case.

New Patterns In Floor Tiles

Latest in floor coverings is a resilient tile sprinkled with copper, gold or silver colored flakes.

The tiles come in two patterns. One is a terrazzo effect which is available in gold, silver or copper tones. The second pattern is a wider spaced flecking of metal on a solid background of black or white. The white background comes with scattered flecks of gold. The black has flecks of copper, silver or gold.

Group Pictures For Greater Impact

By BETTIE BRADLEY

Look at the pictures in your own room. What height are they? How are they grouped? Where is the most important picture?

There is a convenient check list of rules that help in rearranging your pictures to achieve a pleasant wall composition.

First of all hang your largest pictures above either a sofa or mantel. The most important picture in terms of size should be identified with your most important piece of furniture. Less significant pictures are often hung above secondary pieces of furniture such as a small table, a pair of chairs or a hi-fi set.

A good rule of thumb, when establishing the height of your pictures is to have the centre of the picture at eye level. But consider, as well, the space between the top of the piece of furniture and the bottom of the picture.

Let's suppose that you plan to hang three small prints. They will be placed over either a tall chest of drawers or a long, low buffet. In this case, the height of the furniture will determine the arrangement.

Because the chest of drawers is tall, the pictures will hang side by side in a horizontal arrangement. However, over the buffet they may be hung vertically, one on top of the other. With the second arrangement, do not centre the pictures, but rather hang them to one side of the buffet and balance the arrangement by having a tall lamp or a long, slim vase set at the opposite end of the buffet.

BETTER IF GROUPED

Little pictures, dotted around the room, look scattered and restless. But a number of small pictures can achieve real importance when they are grouped on one wall.

Hang them close together — almost touching — to cover as much of the wall area as possible. This helps to submerge and unify a variety of shapes. (Four pictures, for instance, will appear as four separate units instead of one overall mass if hung too far apart.)

When grouping a great number of pictures, have the frames form a straight line at the sides, top and bottom of the collection. And don't permit the collection to be wider than the piece of furniture that sits beneath them.

Avoid "stepping" your pictures — except on a stairway. Diagonal picture arrangements are restless, although a set of small prints, marching up your stairway can lend interest to an otherwise bleak area.

Stairs are a test of your ingenuity! A friend of mine collected her family photographs and hung them on the wall at the turn of the stairs. Her own rogues gallery of family pictures became a conversation piece that reflected her sense of fun.

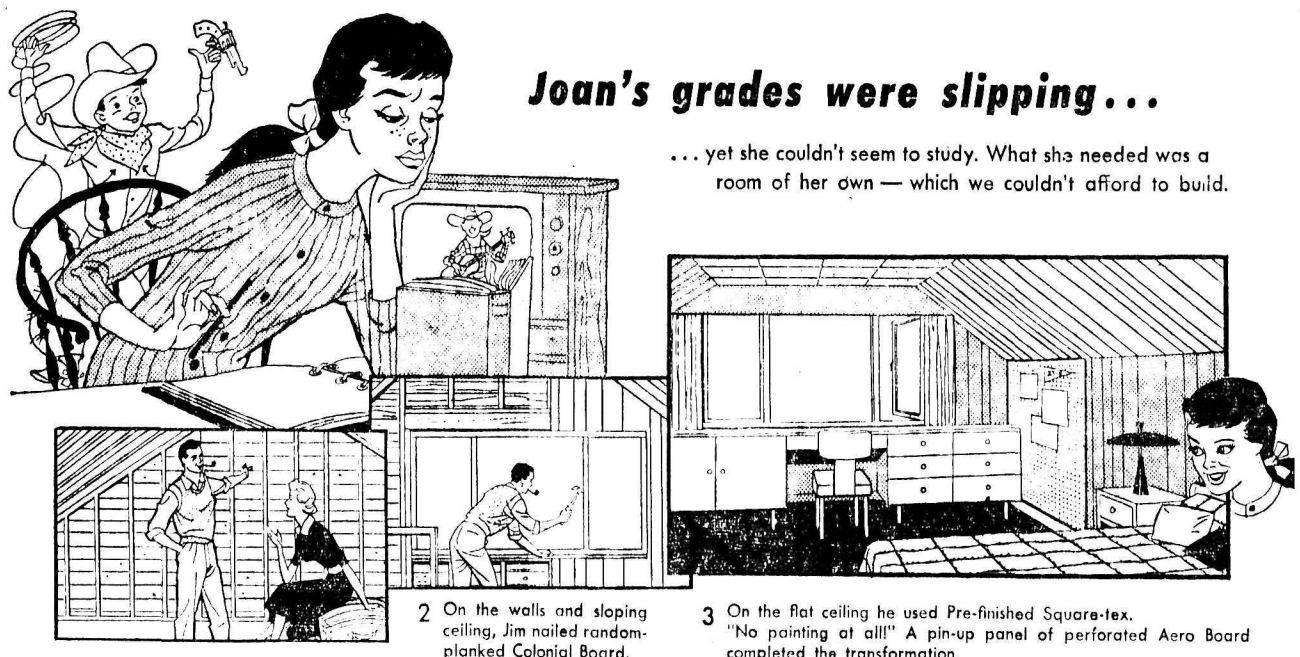
Black and white pictures and oil paintings are not compatable because they are too remote from each other in both technique and tonal value, They are used in the same room but not combined on the same wall.

The final guide is this: a place should appear dull and empty if a picture is removed — otherwise you simply don't need a picture in that area!

So have a long, slow look at the walls of your room. You may not be doing full credit to the pictures you own.

Joan's grades were slipping...

... yet she couldn't seem to study. What she needed was a room of her own — which we couldn't afford to build.



1 Our empty, unfinished attic provided the answer. "We'll put a window in here" said Jim, "and panel the room with PV Hardboards.".

2 On the walls and sloping ceiling, Jim nailed random-planked Colonial Board. "Panel joints don't show; finished the job with one coat of paint," he boasted. "It's prime-coated!"

3 On the flat ceiling he used Pre-finished Square-tex. "No painting at all!" A pin-up panel of perforated Aero Board completed the transformation.

Now Joan has a quiet, attractive room any teen-ager would be proud of; thanks to low-cost, labour-saving PV Hardboards. For full details of these tough, all-wood panels see your lumber dealer today. Ask him about low-interest Home Improvement Loans.

Ontario-Quebec Sweep First College Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Mud-spattered athletes from six Ontario and Quebec universities scored a sweeping victory in the first Canadian intercollegiate track and field championships.

The Ontario-Quebec division scored 109 points with the four-school Western division earning 38 points and the Ottawa-St. Lawrence group, also with four schools, getting 26.

Events were run under almost impossible conditions. A two-inch snow overnight had mostly melted by the opening of the meet, leaving the track a muddy mess. Heavy rain began before the halfway mark.

Coaches said they were worried about injuries to their runners on the slippery track but no accidents occurred.

One event, the discus throw, had to be held on the nearby Trinity College grounds because the football field at Varsity Stadium was covered by a tarpaulin. The tarp is keeping the field in shape for today's inaugural East-West college football championship between University of Western Ontario Mustangs and University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

Mike Baird and Bruce McKague of McMaster University were the only competitors to win two firsts. Baird took the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes; McKague the hop, step and jump and broad jump.

DRYBROUGH STANDOUT

Dave Drybrough of the University of Manitoba was a standout for the West. He won the one-mile by a good margin and placed third in the javelin.

The Ontario-Quebec group comprised McMaster, Western, Toronto, McGill, Queen's and the Ontario Agricultural College. In the Western group were the universities of B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The Ottawa-St. Lawrence division was made up of royal Military College, Sir George Williams, McDonald and Ottawa universities.

Points were awarded on a 5-3-2-1 basis for the first four finishers and the first two in each event received medals.

Long an attraction for tourists, Switzerland's Lake Lucerne is 23 miles long with average width of two miles.

Canucks Keep Top Spot

VANCOUVER (CP) — League-leading Vancouver Canucks drew on everything they had Friday night to come from behind and edge the reborn Spokane Comets 5-4 to keep their nbeaten home WHL record intact.

Edie (The Pistol) Dorohoy saved the night for Canucks, scoring two goals, including the unassisted winner, and setting up another.

But the glory belonged to last-place Spokane. The Comets were never behindw in regulation time and led 2-0 at the end of the first period.

Al Johnson, scoring two goals, one assisted, and setting up another, paced the Comets as they used fierce forechecking to continually keep Canucks fumbling and stumbling inside their own blueline.

Bev. Bell and Max Miklok got the others for Spokane, who outshot Canucks 28-23.

Centre Ray Cyr, Danny Belisle and Bruce Carmichael were Vancouver's other scorers.

Some 3,000 fans turned out for th game, first of a four-game stretch between the two clubs. Vancouver visits Spokane Saturday and Sunday and the two clubs meet again here Friday.

Fatal Football Claims: 15

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fifteen fatalities directly connected with football were reported Friday in the annual mid-season national survey conducted by a committee of the American Football Coaches Association.

Dr. Floyd Eastwood, dean of student activities at Los Angeles State College and chairman of the coaches' committee on injuries and fatalities, issued the report.

Three of the deaths occurred in sandlot football, three in semi-professional, six in high school and three in college football.

Dr. Eastwood said 13 of the 15 deaths were caused by injuries to the head and spine areas. Cause of death in the other two cases has not been determined.

The committee has been in existence since 1931. The records show, Dr. Eastwood said, only 1.537 direct fatalities per 100,000 participants in high school football and 2.165 per 100,000 in the colleges.

Chuvalo Sure of Win

TORONTO (SP) — George Chuvalo agrees with Yvon Durelle on one aspect of their Canadian heavyweight championship fight next Tuesday night.

It won't go the 12-round limit.

But the youthful Toronto scrapper doesn't necessarily think the bout with the slugging challenger from Baie St. Anne, N.B., will be his toughest fight yet.

"It could be the toughest, or it could be one of the easiest," Chuvalo said Friday during a pause between workouts for the meeting at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

"Durelle is a guy who wades in. If I tag him early and down he goes, that would make it an easy fight for me."

There is no question that either man has the power to end the affair quickly. The odds are that Durelle will be the one on his feet at the windup and they vary between 7 to 5 and 9 to 5.

Thunderbirds Edged 63-61

VANCOUVER (CP) — Centre Bob Pickell scored a goal with six seconds to go Friday night to lead Dietrich-Collins to a 63-61 victory over UBC Thunderbirds and a tie with Thunderbirds for first place in the Senior A men's basketball league.

Pickell led the Dietrich-Collins scoring with 16. Other high scorers for the winners included Ed Wild with 12 and Mike Fraser with 11.

Rookie Dave Way of Thunderbirds was high scorer of the game with 18 points while Barry Drummond and Norris Martin each got 15 points for UBC.

Lineups:

Dietrich-Collins: Bob Ramsey 7, Brian Upson 7, Ed Wild 12, Jim Carter, Ed Malecki 1, Al Birtles 9, Mike Fraser 11, Bob Pickell 16—total 63.

UBC—Dave Osborne, Jack Lusk, Barry Drummond 13, Dave Way 18, Bill Berandino, Keith Hartley 2, Ed Gushue, Ed Peterson 3, Norris Martin 13, Ken Winslade 10, Mike Potkanjak 2—total 61.

No Favorites as Riders Battle Tiger-Cats, Esks Meet Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Edmonton Eskimos worked out Friday in the clear freezing weather that is expected to prevail for today's second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

The Eskimos flew into town Friday afternoon and went through their paces on the frozen ball park adjoining Winnipeg Stadium. The Bombers held their final workout at their regular practice field in neighboring St. Boniface.

The tarpaulin which has protected the iron - hard surface of the Winnipeg Stadium for the last week was lifted Friday after the weather office said there would be no snow before game time at 2:05 p. m. CST today.

HARD FIELD

Stadium manager Stew MacPherson, asked if the field was as hard as it was early in the week, replied: "Harder."

An overnight low of 10 below zero was forecast Friday. Weather office advice for those going to the game was: "Wear everything you've got." The temperature at game time was expected to be about 10 degrees and the wind light.

Coach Bud Grant of Blue Bombers said Friday that veteran tackle Buddy Tinsley definitely would play in the game today, despite pulled leg muscles.

The only casualty reported in the Edmonton ranks was tackle J. T. Frankenberger, who has a hand cut suffered in Wednesday's game.

The Bombers, sticking closely to the script the two teams formulated lat year, won the first game of the final in Edmonton Wednesday by a 19-11 score. Last year, the Bombers took the first game in Edmonton 30-7.

If they stick to the script again today, the Eskimos will stay alive for another game. Last year they took the second game in Winnipeg by the same 30-7 score that the Bombers ran up in the opener. The Bombers won the third game and the series.

However, if the Bombers win today they will be the West's representatives in the Grey Cup game for the third year in a row.

The winner of the round will meet the Eastern champions—Hamilton Tiger - Cats or Ottawa Rough Riders—for the Canadian title in Toronto Saturday, Nov. 28.

Television viewers across the country—except in the Winnipeg area which is blacked out — will be able to see today's game. Eastern stations will pick up the latter part of the game after completion of the first game of the Big Four final.

By ART WILKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The best-matched Big Four football final in several seasons shaped up Friday as Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats ran through loosening-up drills before today's opener.

"Mentally and physically I've never seen the boys better," said Ottawa coach Frank Clair, discussing at the same time however that defensive back Gary Schreider may miss the first game of the home-and-home total - point series with a charleyhorse.

"Ottawa has been hungrier longer than any other Eastern club," conceded big Jim Trimble as he led his league-winning Ti-Cats into Ottawa by air. "But our boys are hungry, too." He admitted that rain or wet snow, predicted for today, could hamper his sharp-passing club more than Ottawa because "they're stronger on the ground than we are."

NO SWAMI!

How many points would win it all?

"I'm out of the swami department," he said flatly. At least some betting in Ottawa—where odds - makers had established Hamilton earlier as 14-point favorites on the series—was down to even money.

Ottawa hasn't won a Grey Cup since 1951. Hamilton went all the way in 1957 and lost to Winnipeg last year. Both clubs by and large are healthy.

Clair said a charleyhorse suffered by Schreider late in the regular season has been hemorrhaging and whether he'll play today won't be known until near game time.

ONESCHUK OUT?

Steve Oneschuk, Hamilton's defensive back and Ticats' regular man on field goal and convert kicking, is another doubtful starter as a result of his shoulder separation.

Clair promised that he has some new plays ready to go, perhaps with backs Joe Kelly and Ron Stewart passing a bit. But the Ottawa repertoire was pretty big and "I don't want to add too much—perhaps 10 per cent of the stuff tomorrow will be new."

The field was expected to be good. A tarpaulin was down Friday and temperatures for game time, with kickoff scheduled at 1 p.m. EST, were expected to touch the mid-30s.

A near sellout crowd, threatening the Ottawa record of 20,675 admissions, was anticipated by ticket manager Art Cuthbert.

Leafs, Warriors Play Tonight

Nelson will host the Rossland Warriors tonight in Civic Arena in the ninth game of the league series.

Rossland, presently in the cellar spot in the league, and Nelson, second on the league ladder, fell in defeat at the hands of league leading Trail Smoke Eaters Tuesday and Wednesday night respectively.

The Smokies, who have kept the top spot in the league occupied since the beginning of the season, boast of seven wins in eight starts. Nelson has four wins for eight starts and Rossland one for eight.

In the individual scoring race, playing-coach Mickey Maglio of the Leafs leads the league with 21 points, six ahead of two of his teammates Lee Hyssop and Wendy Keller who are tied for second spot with 15 points.

Third place in the individual scoring is Pinoke McIntyre of Rossland with 14 points.

Keller, who since left the club and returned to his home in North Battleford, Sask., led the playmakers with 11 assists.

Flyers Dump Cougars 3-2

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Flyers vaulted into fourth place in the Western Hockey League by defeating Victoria Cougars 3-2 Friday night before 2724 fans.

The win put Flyers one point ahead of the Calgary Stampeders, idle Friday. Cougars remained in second place.

The Edmonton scorers were Stu McNeill, Gord Labossiere and Murray Oliver. Arlo Goodwin and Ron Matthews counted for Victoria.

Edmonton led 2-0 at the end of the first period on goals within 34 seconds. After a scoreless second period, Cougars outscored Flyers 2-1 in the final 20 minutes.

STRIKES 'N' SPARES

The results of Friday night's A League bowling were: Sputniks 4, Hotshots 0; Frilly-Dillys 0, Inlanders 4; Pin Pushers 2, Mavericks 2.

Ladies' high single, Arlene Brandt, 224; ladies' high aggregate, Dolly Fife, 619; men's high single, John Lilley, 301; men's high aggregate, Ralph Pettit, 699; team high single, Pin Pushers, 1029; team high aggregate, Mavericks, 2753.

B League: Goofers 2, Gutterballs 2; Trotters 1, Bunkos 3; Blowhards 3.

Ladies' high single, Marie Stangherlin, 236; men's high single, Ralph Peterson, 261; ladies' high aggregate, Ann Nikiforuk, 565; men's high aggregate, Don Ball, 681; team high single and aggregate, Bunkos, 912 and 2560.

Warriors Edge Seattle 1-0

WINNIPEG (CP) — Goalie Al Rollins racked up his second shutout of the season Friday as Winnipeg Warriors edged Seattle Totems 1-0 in a ragged Western Hockey League contest before 3,500 fans.

The victory gave Billy Mosienko a food start as coach of the Warriors. He took over the club this week after Alf Pike resigned to become coach of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

Junior Hoopsters Get Start Today

A junior basketball league, for all boys 10 to 14, inclusive, will start today, with the first meeting at the Civic Centre.

If there is enough interest, the cross-court games will be played two afternoons a week after school hours. All that is necessary to play is a pair of running shoes and the interest. The teams may also play Saturday afternoons.

City recreation director Ernie Gare said each team will have a coach, probably a high school player. Instruction will be given in the fundamentals; dribbling, shooting, passing, etc.

If enough players turn out, and the interest is high, the scope of the minor basketball league may be enlarged to include eight and nine-year-olds.

This is the first attempt at establishing a junior league in Nelson, but it has been successful in other centres.

Russians To Play Area?

The Kootenays may get a chance to see an Olympic hockey team in action late in January.

The Moscow Selects, made up of the best players in the eight-team Moscow League, will play two games in interior B.C. Jan. 25 and 27.

Leo G. Atwell, president of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, said the location of the two games will depend on three points; the most central points for the public, the handiest location for the visiting team, and whether the arenas selected will be able to meet the high guarantees required by the Selects.

He said the probable locations for the two games will be decided at a meeting of the officers of the BCAHA Nov. 30. The high guarantees are necessitated by the large travelling expenses of the Moscow team.

A further possibility of Olympic calibre teams playing in Nelson or the immediate area came with the announcement by Gordon Juckes, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association president, that Canada's Olympic entry, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, will also play in the west. No details are available on the locations, but the Dutchmen will play five games in the west, from Feb. 1 to Feb. 11.

CANADIANS WIN INTERNATIONAL JUMPING CLASS

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian team won the first international horse jumping class Friday night at the Royal Winter Fair with a total of 8¾ faults for the three-man team. The United States was second with 20¼ faults.

The class was the first of 11 international team jumping events scheduled during the seven-day fair. A trophy will be awarded on the basis of total team points.

The Mexican team was third with 21 faults. Brazil was fourth with 24½ faults and Argentina fifth with 28½.

Two Canadian riders, Tom Gayford and Jim Elder, both had clear rounds on the 11-jump course but gained time faults for going over the 42-second limit. The team's captain, Doug Cudney, had eight faults.

William C. Steinkrause, captain of the United States team, and Pedro Mayorga, Argentinian captain, both had clean rounds.

Junior Badminton Time Changed

Junior badminton, originally set for 9 a.m., has been set aside until 11 a.m., today, recreational director Ernie Gare announced Friday. The two hour period will be used this Saturday for the organization of a junior basketball league.

Mustang Attack May Beat Thunderbirds

TORONTO (CP) — University of British Columbia Thunderbirds will have to stop the potent running attack of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs if the Vancouver team hopes to win the first national intercollegiate final today.

The chore won't be easy — no team has done it yet.

Mustangs are powered by fullbacks Lionel Conacher Jr., and Meco Poliziani, both of whom were named on the Eastern intercollegiate all - star team. The Mustang offence gained 2,213 yards rushing in eight games this fall—1,106 by Conacher alone.

STRONG LINE

But Thunderbirds, undefeated in the Western Intercollegiate League, are counting on a strong defensive line, led by 230-pound middle guard Doug Mitchell, to do the trick. The UBC line averages 220 pounds, giving them a weight advantage on Mustangs.

UBC is placing its hopes on halfback Jack Henwood, a five-foot-seven 185-pounder, to handle the offence. Henwood has averaged 100 yards from scrimmage in each of the Thunderbirds eight games this year. He also plays quarterback.

UBC coach Frank Gnup says he may play Henwood at quarter today in place of the ailing Jon Morris, even though Henwood isn't noted as a passer.

WESTERN FAVORED

Mustangs coach Johnny Metras will probably let Conacher and Poliziani do most of the running, while quarterback Frank Cosentino, another Eastern all - star calls the plays.

Western has lost only one league game this year and having beaten UBC in previous season's exhibition games, is ranked as the favorite.

Weather here is anything but good. Rain and snow fell in Toronto all Friday.

However, the Varsity Stadium tarpaulin has been left on the Varsity field even though West and East college track stars met in a meet there Friday.

For the game itself either snow or rain is predicted, depending on the temperature.

Game time is 1 p. m. EST (11 a. m. MST) with proceeds of the game going for paraplegic research.

PEEBLES AUTO TALK

YOU NAME THE TUNE!

This heading really sounds like another one of the controversial (or otherwise) TV programs. However, the idea occurred to me while we were being given all the low-down on allegedly "fixed" contests, that maybe YOU, THE CAR BUYER, would like to enter a thrilling and profitable Peebles QUIZ (unrigged).

On two different occasions, Peebles Motors has offered unheard of values in GOOD used cars and trucks, by the mere vehicle of a public auction. Often we hear people asking when the next auction will be held—when will they be able to avail themselves of Peebles' bargain opportunities again?

Well, the time's right now and the place is at Peebles. Here's what we invite you to do:

Come down to Peebles' big automotive centre. Visit our used car and used truck lots. Be sure to visit our beautiful lower-floor showroom suite. Here you will find on display the finest used cars and trucks (and a few brand new ones). Each will be marked with its real market value.

Now, HERE'S WHAT YOU DO. Look over the entire stock. Figure out which car or truck you would like to own. Take the convenient form you will find on any car on display. The form reads as follows:
Unit number 1234.
Market value $——
I would like to buy this car for $—— (state amount you're willing to pay)
I have to trade a ..... (give year, model, etc., of present vehicle) for which I expect an allowance of $ ..... (state amount expected)
I would like to pay as follows: Cash? Terms? (If so how much per month? $ .....
I have a prospect for my present car. His name is ..... He will pay $ ..... for it.

Hand this form to me or to our office manager, Mr. Peter W. Marken. We will give you an immediate answer. What could be more simple? Here, you have the opportunity of quoting your own price on your own terms. If we sell your present car to the prospect you name, we will give you a further $20.00 during this sale.

This wonderful opportunity will be yours up to and including Nov. 30th. Look at the list of cars and trucks available in the next column. Come early. Make your bid. Don't be disappointed. This is an opportunity of a lifetime to buy a car at your own price, on your own terms. There's no hocus-pocus about this, no double-talk. We can arrange financing right here on our simple, low-cost Elite plan, with full life insurance regardless of age or health conditions. Drive a Peebles Bargain — it pays!

Harry D. Harrison
General Manager

P.S.—Cut out this copy of Peebles Auto Talk — bring it with you . . . If you buy a car we'll give you $5.00 for this copy. — H. D. H.

Intense Cold Spreads To Alta. From Montana

DENVER (AP) — Intense cold that plunged temperatures to near - record lows locked the Rockey Mountain states in a wintry grip Friday on the heels of a 25-inch snowfall that buried Montana.

The temperature was 22 below zero at Cut Bank, near the Montana-Alberta border.

It was 18 below at Great Falls and 13 below at Helena, Montana's capital city, which bore the brunt of the blizzard.

Sub - zero readings were common from Montana south into Colorado along the eastern slope of the Rockies. The Continental Divide formed a barrier that moderated temperatures west of the mountains.

The forecast was for continued cold throughout the mountain region.

At least 14 deaths have been attributed to the massive storm which rushed out of Canada and now has engulfed much of the United States from the mountains to the midwest.

Seven deaths within a week have resulted from Montana's storms. Icy roads caused six highway deaths in Illinois, and another accident took the life of an Iowa motorist.

Two hunters are unaccounted for in mountain terrain near Missoula, in western Montana.

The snowfall tapered off along southern Montana Thursday night leaving 20 inches on the ground at Billings. Scattered communities reported a foot. Winds kicked up 15-foot drifts on the plains.

The worst of the snow turned its fury on the plains region.

The weather bureau issued heavy snow warnings for the area from Michigan through Iowa. Snow and freezing rain fell throughout the midwest and into Kansas and Nebraska.

Travel facilities were slowed and, in some places, suspended. Schools were closed in scores of towns.

London Critics Praise Books By Canadians

LONDON (KP) — Two books about Montreal, by authors from the same city, win plaudits this week from British critics.

They are The Watch That Ends the Night, by Hugh MacLennan, and The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz, by Mordecai Richler.

George Millar in The Daily Express says MacLennan's story, published earlier in Canada, "clawed its way into my mind and heart."

"I cannot stop thinking about it. It's unlike other novels, for it falls somewhere between the American kind, extended, fruity, apt to be soft-cored, and the more stabbing, hit-or miss European kind."

The Times says Richler is one of Canada's most lively and assured young writers, and "his assurance no longer outstrips his talent or his material." Richler is in his late 20s.

Higher Food Prices Up Living Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose during September in eight of 10 regional cities across Canada, due mainly to higher food costs, the bureau of statistics reported Friday

Local consumer price indexes showed increases ranging from .3 per cent in Saskatoon-Regina to one per cent in Vancouver. The Montreal index remained unchanged while the index for St. John's, Nfld., declined .3 per cent.

Coal prices were slightly higher in Montreal and Winnipeg, and wood prices rose in Vancouver.

Indexes on Oct. 1 for western Canada cities, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, with Sept. 1 figures in brackets: Winnipeg 125 (123.9); Saskatoon - Regina 124.6 (124.2); Edmonton-Calgary 124.5 (124); Vancouver 129.6 (128.3).

Logging Operations Like Outdoor Lab to Foresters

VANCOUVER (CP) — Foresters and biologists are using a Vancouver Island logging operation as a giant outdoor laboratory in a search for the best methods of managing second-growth forests.

The studies range from increasing the growth rate of young trees to protection of forests from insect damage and integration of game resources with management of the new tree crop.

They are being carried out at MacMillan and Bloedel's Northwest Bay division near Parksville in the southern area of Vancouver Island. Both government and industry research scientists are involved in the work.

COMMON AIM

Their common aim is economic utilization of all the resources of the forest, both now and in the future.

I. K. Barber, supervisor of forestry for MacMillan and Bloedel says the whole concept of forest management in B.C. still is in the research stage.

He said two chief methods of increasing the allowable cut of second-growth forests are to increase the number of producing acres by prompt reforestation and reclaiming land lost to non-productive trees, and by increasing the rate of growth to the acre.

The company is carrying out various tree fertilization, reforestation and spacing programs in the outdoor lab.

INSECTS MAJOR CONCERN

One of the industry's major concerns is insect damage.

H. A. Richmond of Nanaimo, B.C., Canada's only consulting forest entomologist, says the presence of the insect pests has more economic significance today than in the past because a big outbreak can upset a costly management plan for a whole rotation.

Mr. Richmond was retained to conduct a program of spraying logs in the woods and in the water by helicopter in an effort to combat damage by the ambrosia beetle.

This beetle attacks logs on the ground damaging the timber, he said. Losses on an average attack of ambrosia on logs in the woods can run to $7 to $10 for 1,000 board feet. And timber damaged by ambrosia cannot be sold in the industry's vital export market.

SPRAY LOGS

Working with industry personnel and J. M. Kinghorne, research officer with the federal agriculture department's science service division, Mr. Richmond is conducting studies at Northwest Bay which had been sprayed while logs were on the ground.

The study has proven helicopter spraying while the logs are on the ground is not successful, Mr. Richmond says. The spray didn't reach the underside of the logs. Similar spraying of logs in the water was more successful and is practical.

The Northwest Bay division also is the scene of a unique game management study, conducted by game biologists Don Robinson and Jim Bandy of the provincial fish and game branch.

They are working with company foresters to reduce damage to young trees caused by deer browsing.

Castro Angrily Denies Cienfuego's Defection

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro says he believes his army commander, Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, crashed into the sea north of Cuba and has angrily denounced rumors that Cienfuegos may have deserted the Cuban revolution.

The premier looked grim and haggard as he went into great detail in a midnight television speech to squelch widespread rumors arising from Cienfuegos' disappearance.

The 28-year-old army commander, one of Castro's closest associates from the beginning of the revolution, vanished Oct. 28 after leaving troubled Camaguey province for a 300-mile plane flight to Havana. No trace of him or his plane has ever been found in the extensive search directed by Castro himself.

Castro said the army chief's twin-engined Cessna left Camaguey with only three hours' gasoline and then ran into a severe storm.

Cienfuegos' disappearance spawned some rumors that he had been kidnapped as a hostage for persons jailed by the Castro regime, but "Cienfuegos was not one to allow himself to be kidnapped," Castro said.

The defection rumors were part of a "disgraceful intrigue" to discredit the Cuban revolution.

"Camilo Cienfuegos fell doing his duty, just as every one of us will fall, if necessary, to defend our revolution."

Castro also assailed a story in the Miami News speculating that Cienfuegos had been liquidated because of differences with the premier's younger brother, Raul, chief of Cuban armed forces.

"No differences exist among the revolutionary leaders," Castro shouted.

Construction Spokesmen Gloomy on Jobs Outlook

VANCOUVER (CP) — Winter unemployment could be up to 10 per cent higher than last year in the Greater Vancouver area if business falls off in the construction industry, a representative of the National Employment Service said Thursday.

Construction industry spokesmen were gloomy about the prospects.

G. F. Lawson of the employment service told a meeting of the Vancouver winter employment committee that "if the bottom drops out of construction, unemployment might increase as much as 10 per cent over last year."

Said Harold Taft, secretary of the Building Trades Council: "This is going to be one of the worst winters we've ever had. There doesn't seem to be any money around, and there are no prospects of any big projects opening up."

E. A. Jamieson, general secretary-treasurer of the Vancouver and District Labor Council, agreed it will be a "very difficult" winter for the building trades.

"I was informed only today that almost 500 carpenters are out of work and more get laid off every day," Mr. Jamieson said. "And it's not much better in other trades."

Mr. Lawson said statistics show a "note of optimism." Job placements were up over last year while registrations and unemployment benefits paid out were lower.

The situation will not get worse "if the construction industry holds up," he added.

Representatives of Greater Vancouver municipalities pledged support for the winter employment committee in the form of civic works programs.

MEMORIUM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, William Lister, who passed away November 14, 1958.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear.
Too far away for right or speech,
But not to far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who was here,
And who though absent is just as dear.
Ever remembered by his loving wife Blanche and family.

Public Urged To Observe Safety Week

VICTORIA (CP) — Provincial motor vehicles branch superintendent George Lindsay Friday urged strong public support of Safe Driving Week, Dec. 1-7.

He said that "the rising toll of traffic deaths and injuries demands new support of this program by the people of the province."
