Political Interference by Gov't Ruled Out

Shrum Heads Energy Board

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier Bennett announced Wednesday formation of a five-man British Columbia energy board to be headed by Dr. Gordon Shrum of the University of British Columbia.

The premier said other members of the board, which will advise the government on all phases of energy developments, production and use, are:

Hon. James Sinclair, one-time Liberal federal minister of fisheries and now president of the B.C. Fisheries Association;

Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission;

Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission;

A. F. Paget, comptroller of water rights in the province.

HEADED COMMISSION

Dr. Shrum, who will be chairman of the board, headed a three-man royal commission which made an exhaustive study of the operations of the B.C. Power Commission.

The premier released the commission's 200-page report at the press conference at which he announced the membership of the new board.

The premier said appointment of an energy board is in line with government policy outlined during the 1959 session of the legislature by Mines Minister Kiernan. It followed a recommendation made in the Shrum commission report.

USEFUL ROLE

"The report recommends a board which can assume a useful and helpful role in negotiation with the federal government and in formulating plans with the United States for joint resources development," the premier said.

"I am very proud that men of this outstanding calibre have consented to serve on it."

Newfoundland Voters Go to Polls Today

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Politicians step aside for the voters today in the most important provincial election since Newfoundladers became Canadians in 1949.

Premier Smallwood's Liberal government is seeking re-election for the third time since 1949 and has entered 33 of a record 95 candidates in the field for the 36-seat house of assembly. The opposition Progressive Conservative Party, headed by former magistrate Malcolm Hollett, has 32 candidates.

For the first time a third party, the labor - backed Newfoundland Democratic Party, has enough candidates to form a government if all were elected. There are 19. The United Newfoundland Party, formed by dissident Progressive Conservatives, has entered nine men, including three in St. John's ridings which the Liberals are not contesting. There are two independents, one backed by the Democratics.

200,000 VOTERS

Possibly 220,000 people are eligible to vote. A voters list tabulated during a 10-month period in 1955 was not revised for this election, presumably because of the shortness of time after the legislature was dissolved July 28.

In the 1956 provincial election, more than 115,000 of the eligible 190,000 voters gave Premier Smallwood 32 Liberal members. The Progressive Conservatives won four seats but two members quit the party shortly after dissolution to form the United Newfoundland Party after differing with Mr. Hollett and Rex Renouf, PC member for St. John's South, over the financial terms of confederation. One seat—that of former Highways Minister Greg Power, who resigned — was vacant.

CCF BEHIND LABOR

The CCF, which had 10 candidates entered in the 1956 election but failed to elect any, is backing the Newfoundland Democratic Party which also has the support of the 1,000,000 - member CLC.

Red Guerrillas Advance in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) — Communist guerrilla bands are pushing eastward in Sam Neua province and have taken more government military outposts, it was reported here Wednesday by observers in northeast Laos.

A spokesman for the Laotian defence ministry said there were only minor skirmishes, but "the situation is more dangerous than during the first attack last month."

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Bedford, 42, was critically injured in an automobile accident in the south of France Wednesday, his secretary said.

Capsule Carrier In Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Discoverer VI satellite travelled into orbit Wednesday carrying a capsule that the air force hopes to snatch from the air as it parachutes earthward near Hawaii today.

The air force said it was circling the earth's poles once every 95 minutes and is expected to stay in orbit at least 30 days.

Following an egg - shaped path through the skies it comes within 138 miles of earth at its closest point and goes as far out as 537 miles.

LOUD AND CLEAR

Radio signals are loud and strong, the air force said, indicating that the satellite is stable in orbit.

In Sunnyvale, Calif., Maj.-Gen. O. J. Ritland, commander of the air force ballistic missile division and Herschel Brown, general manager of Lockheed Aircraft's missiles and space division, said in a joint statement:

"The successful orbiting of two Discoverer satellites in less than a week marks a tremendous forward step in the scientific study of space vehicles and their applications.

One of the aims of the Discoverer series is to study techniques of sending man into space and back.

STAGGERING ODDS

The air force faces staggering odds in its planned aerial capsule recovery try.

If all goes right — and a thousand things could go wrong—the capsule will be kicked loose from the rocket's 19-foot second stage this afternoon. The capsule would descend on a parachute, sending out radio signals to indicate its whereabouts. A squadron of C-119 flying boxcars would go after it, and try to snatch it with trapeze-like contraptions attached to each plane.

21 Students Die In Plane Crash

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A chartered airliner crashed into a mountain peak Wednesday in a dense fog, killing all 32 persons aboard. Most victims were vacationing British students.

The plane burned after smashing head-on into the 2400-foot high Peak of Man 25 miles northeast of Barcelona. Flames drove off rescuers who rushed to the scene from a nearby weather station.

The plane, chartered by the British National Union of Students, crashed minutes after taking off from Prat de Llobregat airport for London.

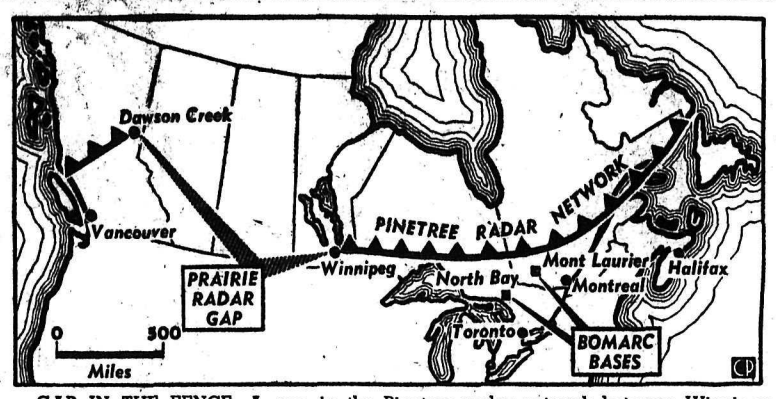
There were at first conflicting reports on the exact number of passengers aboard, but authorities said Wednesday night the passenger list showed there were 21 British students returning home from vacations in Spain.

The three crew members—pilot, co-pilot and stewardess—also were British.

Famed Dieppe Raid Commemmorated

DIEPPE, France (AP) — A quiet ceremony in this channel city Wednesday marked the 17th anniversary of the famed Canadian commando raid on Dieppe.

The raid, one of the biggest and bloodiest of the war, occurred on the night of Aug. 19, 1942. France was then under German occupation.



GAP IN THE FENCE. A gap in the Pinetree radar network between Winnipeg and Dawson Creek has been drawn to the attention of United States and Canadian defence authorities. Neil McElroy, U.S. defence secretary, went to Ottawa recently to seek Canadian cooperation in constructing more radar units to fill the gap. U.S. plans are to bear the major share of the cost of the units. One-third of the cost of the Pinetree chain is already borne by the States.

Mountain of Rubble Holds Mystery of Earthquake Toll

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP)—A 50,000,000-ton Mountain of rock, dirt and shattered trees —loosed by the earthquake that ripped southwestern Montana—Wednesday hid the mystery of how many died.

The great mass cascaded from another mountain onto a camping area as the mighty quake rocked this beautiful vacation area late Monday night.

The known death toll stands at eight. One woman was missing. Twenty-seven of the scores of injured still were in hospitals. At least six were in critical condition.

On the basis of reports from survivors, the death toll may go to at least 12, perhaps higher.

"It is presumed that some people may have been buried by the large land mass which slipped into Madison Canyon," said A. E. Zion of the Montana state highway department.

HALF-MILE SLIDE

"The slide is approximately one-half mile long and a minimum of 150 feet deep at the lowest point and approximately 300 feet at a point over the road."

Searchers assembled equipment to claw at the great hill in a grim hunt for more victims. But their start was delayed until land movements cease in the still-quivering area.

Skindivers were brought in to explore deep river holes where bodies might be submerged.

All known survivors—about 300 persons—have been brought out of Madison Canyon, where they were trapped between damaged Hebgen Dam and the landslide.

Helicopters flew through clouds this morning and brought out the last trapped fishermen and campers. They guided people able to drive their own cars out over roads made passable by bulldozers.

DAM STILL UP

Damaged Hebgen Dam still held back its 337,000 acre-feet of water. An acre - foot covers an acre one foot deep. The owner of the dam, Montana Power Company, said it will be repaired as soon as possible.

Lt.-Gov. Paul Cannon of Montana took a look at the quake area and called the disaster "probably the worst in the history of the state."

Survivors streamed out with tales of horror in the crashing night.

"It was horrible," said Mrs. Clarence Scott of Fresno, Calif. "The children were screaming for help, crying for their mothers. Husbands begged their wives to answer."

Fifteen-year-old Marvin Stryker of San Mateo, Calif., told of seeing his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stryker, perish in the landslide.

TREES CRACKED

"We could hear trees cracking," he said. "When we got out of the tent two trees had fallen across our car and another across our boat. They couldn't have known what hit them."

African Disease Found in Quebec

FARNHAM, Que. (CP) — Five definite cases of loa-loa, a disease common to Africa and India but never before known in Canada, have been diagnosed here.

One of the victims is in serious condition.

It is still uncertain whether the disease is contagious.

The disease is caused by a parasite and no cure is known. However, some success has been achieved in treating the effects.

Loa-loa remains with its victims for life, causing swollen feet and legs, skin inflammations and sometimes joint pains. It is not fatal.

Malaya Elects Alliance Party

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters) — Malaya's moderate Alliance Party, pledged to an independent anti - Communist foreign policy, swept into power early today in the first general election since independence.

When counting closed, the Alliance — comprising Malay, Chinese and Indian parties — had won 67 of the 100 seats contested. The opposition parties had won 30.

Three seats remained to be counted and results were not expected for some time. A fourth seat, where an opposition candidate was disqualified will be contested again.

ABSOLUTE MAJORITY

Already having won three seats unopposed, the results gave the Alliance an absolute majority in the 104-member House of Representatives.

Malaya gained independence within the Commonwealth two years ago.

More Women Held In Natal Jails

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) — Fifty more African native women were held in the bulging jails of Natal province Wednesday as racial disturbances which so far have claimed two lives continued in the east coast area.

Police arrested the women for picketing an African beer hall at Escourt. The white owner was stoned in his truck Tuesday night while trying to summon police to quell a disturbance.

But Power Commission Not Properly Directed

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett Wednesday released a massive royal commission report absolving his Social Credit government of charges of political interference in the publicly operated British Columbia Power Commission.

But while the report found the interference charges unfounded it said blame could be laid at the government's door for failure to properly direct the multi-million-dollar power commission on its role in power-rich British Columbia.

On the other hand, the report blamed former power commission officials for laxness and faulty judgment which it said cost B.C. taxpayers millions of dollars because of inflated costs for power commission projects.

A MISINTERPRETATION

In its 200-page report the royal commission said charges levelled last fall by former power commission general manager H. Lee Briggs that the government tried to force an unfair rearrangement of financing on the commission was "based on a misinterpretation of events."

"Although there has been no political interference by the government in the affairs of the power commission, there has been a lack of awareness and appreciation by the government of the problems and accomplishments of the power commission . . ."

It said the power commission has not had a clear indication from the government on the role it is expected to fill in the future development of major power sources.

BOTH GET BLAME

"The responsibility for this lack of integration of power commission plans and government policy is largely that of the government but it is also due in a lesser extent to the failure of the power commissioners to present the position of the power commission effectively and forcefully to the government."

"INVALID"

The commissioners also found as "invalid" charges and implications by Mr. Briggs that members of the old three-man power commission had not fulfilled their functions "competently and effectively." The old commission has since been replaced by a five-man commission headed by Dr. Keenleyside.

Of Mr. Briggs himself the commission said he deserved much credit for guiding the commission through a difficult period. It found the power commission on the whole "good and efficient."

But it said that Mr. Briggs as general manager and the power commissioners let some power station projects get out of hand in the matter of cost.

The commission's report showed there was an excess of $26,000,000 over original cost estimated on power commission projects since 1952. The report recommended the government should clearly indicate its power development policy to the commission well in advance so that technical planning may be undertaken sooner.

The royal commissioners noted that cost of power commission construction programs since Jan. 1, 1952, including estimated cost of projects under construction and scheduled for completion this year, totalled $169,375,000.

REPORT CRITICAL

"These projects were originally estimated to cost $142,992,000, indicating a cost over-run of $26,383,000, representing 18.5 per cent of the total cost estimate."

The report was critical of the power commission on a number of these projects and said errors in judgment had increased the cost.

The royal commissioners termed a decision to install four gas turbines of unique design — rather than including some diesel units — in construction of the Georgia generating station near Chemainus as "a serious and costly error in judgment." The station was originally estimated at $13,300,000 but cost $15,850,000.

COULD CUT COSTS

The report said, too, that cost of the Ash River development, where costs overran estimates by 40.5 per cent or some $4,440,000, could have been reduced if the power commissioners and former general manager H. Lee Briggs "had exercised better supervision of the project and if they had received better advice from their consultants."

CLASH OF PERSONALITIES

A clash of personalities was involved in the charges levelled against the government by former power commission general manager H. Lee Briggs, the Shrum Royal Commission said in its report.

It said the "personality difficulties" arose between Mr. Briggs and Dr. J. V. Fisher, financial adviser to the premier. They were over a government proposal to rearrange commission finances — a proposal with which Briggs disagreed.

It was this which sparked the whole royal commission investigation of power commission operations.

The report said the government's proposal on refinancing was not unreasonable and the government was not trying to force anything on the commission, as Mr. Briggs charged.

Highlights of Shrum Report

VICTORIA (CP)—Highlights of the findings of a three-man royal commission which investigated B.C. Power Commission operations and whose report was released Wednesday:

Charges by former commission general manager H. Lee Briggs of government political interference in the commission "unfounded."

Several other charges not proven but mainly due to misinterpretation or personality clashes.

The government showed a "lack of awareness" of power commission problems and failed to give the commission proper direction in its role.

Briggs was a capable general manager and did a good job.

Recommendation of a provincial energy board.

Recommendation of a new working agreement between the publicly operated power commission and the privately owned B.C. Electric utility.

Wheat Surplus Cut To Four-Year Low

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's supply of surplus wheat has been reduced to its lowest point in four years.

On the eve of what is expected to be the biggest wheat harvest since 1956, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday that the country's wheat carryover at the July 31 end of the 1958-59 crop year stood at an estimated 546,298,000 bushels.

This is a drop of some 93,302,000 bushels from the total stocks of 639,500,000 bushels a year ago, and represents a sharp drop from the record 729,546,000 of 1957. Previous low was 536,748,000 bushels in 1955.

HOLDINGS DOWN

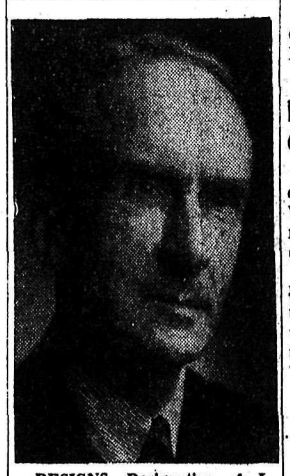
Included in the end-of-year estimate were farmers' own holdings of 130,000,000 bushels of old-crop wheat, down 73,900,000 bushels from last year and the lowest since 93,716,000 in 1953.

The farm holdings now are almost par with the 10-year average of 131,600,000 bushels.

Total carryover stocks of the five major grains — wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed — were estimated at 806,800,000 bushels at July 31, 13 per cent below last year but still 28 per cent above the 10-year average of 632,300,000 bushels.

LOW LAST YEAR

Main factor in the decline of wheat stocks was last year's below-average crop of 368,700,000 bushels, about the same as the year previous and well below the long-term average of nearly 490,000,000 bushels.



RESIGNS. Resignation of J. M. Macdonnell, above, minister without portfolio in the cabinet, was announced Wednesday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Resignation of Mr. Macdonnell, 74, is generally believed to be intended to pave the way for the appointment today as public works minister of David Walker, Conservative MP for Toronto. Mr. Macdonnell will remain a private Member of Parliament for his Ontario constituency of Toronto-Greenwood.

Gov't May Announce Coal Industry Probe

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is expected to announce today the creation of a commission of inquiry into problems of the hard-pressed coal industry — perhaps in western Canada as well as the east.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a reporter Wednesday there will be an announcement "on coal," but without specifying its nature.

Informants said later it is likely he will be announcing the passage of a cabinet order-in-council setting up a promised inquiry, mainly centred on the ailing Nova Scotia coal business.

Originally, it was planned earlier this year as covering just Nova Scotia, faced with a particular crisis because of a fall-down on central Canadian markets and resulting in heavy unemployment in the Cape Breton colliery districts.

But the government has been under some pressure to extend the investigation into New Brunswick and western Canadian coal fields, where the industry has been on the wane, though less drastically than in Cape Breton.

Mushrooms Make Men Mad — And Sane

MONTREAL (CP) — Mexican mushrooms that drive men mad —for a while, anyway—can help make them sane again.

Dr. Roger Heim of the Museum of Natural History, Paris, described the weird plants Wednesday in an interview at the ninth International Botanical Congress.

Dr. Heim said he and a co-worker in Paris have succeeded in cultivating the mushrooms in quantity, have discovered the drugs in them which produce their strange effects, and have succeeded in making the drugs synthetically.

The mushrooms, of the psilocybe and strophaira species, have been known and used in religious rites for centuries by natives of Central America. They produce vivid hallucinations and a splitting of the personality. No one has heretofore tried to use them for medicinal purposes.

USED FOR RITES

Dr. Heim, following up the work of New York anthropologist R. Gordon Wasson, investigated the use Mexican Indians made of the mushrooms for religious rites and took some of them back to France.

Chemist Albert Hofmann analyzed the plants and discovered the two compounds — named psiolcybine and psilocine—which produce the hallucinations. Psychiatrist Jean Delay experimented with them on schizophrenics.

Dr. Heim has taken the mushroom treatment eight times.

"I saw the most vivid colors, colors that do not exist in nature," he said.

"I saw scenes of the most splendid grandeur. It is almost impossible to describe adequately. I remember that I was conscious all the time that I was having a hallucination."

Dr. Delay's experiments, he said, indicated that the mushroom drugs can be used to quiet schizophrenics. Like tranquillizers, the mushroom drugs in small quantities can impart a feeling of deep peace and lassitude. In small doses they don't produce hallucinations.

Dr. Heim said as far as he can determine, the mushroom drugs are not habit-forming. Nor do they have any direct bad effects.

And in This Corner . . .

PARIS (Reuters)—One of the early morning street noises in the "symphony" of Paris is heading for extinction.

Police decreed that ashcans must be "fitted with a temporary silencing device." By 1965, only noiseless ashcans of a police-approved design will be permitted.

The decree follows years of complaints from Parislans who claim the din of garbage being collected in the streets disturbs their sleep.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The police department's "voice of safety" vehicle and a bicycle collided Tuesday. Paris Flowe, 12, riding the bicycle, was slightly injured in the collision with the vehicle, which broadcasts safety warnings and advice.

LONDON (CP)—Sidewalks, in the eyes of British justice, are meant to be walked on—not stood on.

Louis Goldberg didn't know this when he stepped outside his house for a breath of fresh air. He stood still. He was arrested.

Goldberg appeared in court Tuesday charged with obstructing police, all five feet, two inches of him. The 53-year-old Polish-born boilermaker was indignant.

"I have a right to stand near my home and get fresh air," he told the magistrate, Leo Gradwell.

The magistrate had news for the defendant. "The law states that you have only the right to walk up and down, not to stand there."

$25,000 Expansion Project Announced for Drive-In

A $25,000 expansion project said to be unique in Canadian drive-in theatre history, is slated for the Starlight Theatre on the North Shore.

Thomas Hetherington, manager of the outdoor cinema, Wednesday disclosed ambitious plans for the construction of a 40 by 60 foot heated swimming pool, dance pavilion, an enlarged playground, and a modern tourist camp, dining room and lounge.

When the building scheme it completed, the Nelson district will have the most complete drive-in theatre in Canada which will function from morning to midnight, Mr. Hetherington stated.

Bids on construction of the pool are now being received. Construction will begin on the other building shortly.

DEMAND SEEN

Mr. Hetherington said the decision to establish a tourist camp was prompted by the fact that almost every night a dozen tourists are unable to find accommodation in nearby Kokanee campsite of the provincial government.

A gala seventh anniversary celebration has also been arranged, the manager said. He said there will be a variety of attractions plus $500 worth of door prizes and the presentation of a free car to a lucky patron on the last night of the celebration.

Nonagenarian Mrs. Moore Dies

Mrs. Margaret Moore, who celebrated her 90th birthday at Mount St. Francis June 20, 1958, died at Kootenay Lake General Hospital Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Moore is well known in Alberta, especially in the Gleichen area. Her son, Dick, was the first white child born on the Blackfoot Indian reserve there.

She was born in Surrey, England, in 1868, and came to Canada 90 years ago. She was brought up in Guelph, Ont., and went west to Calgary in 1890. She was married to the late John Moore in Calgary two years later.

Her husband was a government contractor for construction of schools and churches on Indian reserves. He predeceased her in 1925. One son, Jack, also predeceased her in Calgary in November, 1957.

She is survived by one son, Dick, of Canmore, Alta.; four daughters, Mrs. Leslie (Minnie) Hall of Nelson, Mrs. Tom (Dorothy) Rush of South Burnaby, Mrs. William (Alice) Krause of Vermilion, Alta., and Mrs. Ray (Jennie) Leary of Langley Prairie; 15 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

There are also two brothers living, Walter and John Birney of Calgary. There are two nephews, Dr. Vernon J. Hall of Castlegar, and Earle Birney, well-known professor of English at the University of British Columbia.

FALSE ALARM

A false alarm at the corner of Observatory and Ward Streets sent fire engines and men scurrying to the corner Wednesday night. The alarm was sent in from a fire-alarm box at 8:55 p.m.

Lads Enthused Over Cross-Country Hiking

Five Boy Scouts and two leaders of the Third Nelson troop spent the weekend looking over some of the finest country in the Kootenays. But they did it the hard way—on foot.

NEW CORONER. Stipendiary Magistrate William Evans, above, has been appointed coroner for Nelson and district, succeeding Dr. H. H. Smythe who resigned several months ago. The appointment became effective Aug. 13. K. D. McRae, government agent, was named as deputy coroner.

With leaders Gordon Fleming and Bob Jennejohn in command, Scouts Angus Whitmore (troop leader), Keith Meakins, Gary McCandlish, Fred Massey and Terry Day spent four days in the hills between Ymir and Kootenay Lake, and reported on their return a wonderful holiday.

After spending the first night near Ymir, the hikers climbed up Wildhorse Creek onto Seeman Creek and then crossed over to Midge Creek which they followed down to the lake.

The total distance was covered in an easy manner except when the group had to scramble through falldowns from old fires and through new growth, which in places was so thick they could not penetrate.

The trip took only 90 cents a day out of each hiker's pocket for food. Everything was handled on a group basis, and the consequent saving in dollars and weight of packs was noticeable. Nobody carried more than 45 pounds and many packs were lighter.

Mr. Fleming said that for ten miles the group followed no trail, but just pushed forward using the contour of the land and maps to guide them.

The boys returned to Nelson ardent fans of cross-country hiking and anxious to see more trips like this one planned by the scout association.

Henry Renner, 19, of Nelson, pleaded guilty to a charge of having in his possession a case of beer last Saturday.

Fred A. Konkin of Slocan Park was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Nelson for driving contrary to a restriction on his licence. He is required to wear glasses while driving.

G. A. Salstrom of Kinnaird was fined $10 and costs when he was found guilty of speeding on Nelson Avenue Friday. He had pleaded not guilty, stating that his speedometer was not working, and that he was unable to ascertain his speed.

Gov't Control Over School Boards Rapped

Governmental control of provincial school boards was criticized by two teachers Wednesday night.

David Smith, head of the commercial department of Alberni district high school, and L. J. Prior, principal of Windsor elementary school, agreed that "well-meaning bureaucracy" throttled the actions of school boards.

"The main fault is the school boards are not permitted to make enough decisions of their own," Mr. Smith claimed and said this was particularly true in matters of finance.

"Every move a school board makes has to be approved by Victoria," he said.

Mr. Smith maintained that education would be better served if boards were given a "lump sum of money to use as they wished". He felt that if this sum did not meet a board's needs it should secure the remainder through local tax levies. This, he said, was the most satisfactory method of standardization of education.

Mr. Prior expressed the view that school boards should be given greater responsibility.

"Trustees are tied by well meaning bureaucracy which replaces responsibility," he claimed.

Mr. Smith is chairman of the education finance committee of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation and Mr. Prior is a member of the same committee.

SPECIAL CLASS

Bernard C. Gillie, principal of the S. J. Willis junior high school in Victoria for the past nine years, reported "great success" with a special grade 9 class for "slow track people".

He said students who are not making the scholastic progress they should are routed, with parental permission, to "terminal grade 9". Students from 15 to 17 who would not normally continue their education are given a one-year specialized course to better prepare them for employment.

Mr. Gillie said that in preparing the course school officials were guided by the advice of representatives of business and labor who urged the teaching of English, reading and mathematics.

A survey of former special grade 9 pupils disclosed that "very few fell by the wayside," Mr. Gillie said. The majority had reasonably good employment or were married, he explained.

He said the coures is tailor-made for those students who through no fault of their own are unable to cope with the regular curriculum and is designed as a last ditch stand to better prepare them for their future.

The three men are participating in the tenth annual teachers' workshop sponsored by the Federation and being held in Notre Dame College.

$100 Fine Levied

Lothar Goerlke of Castlegar was fined $100 and costs when he appeared before Stipendiary Magistrate William Evans Wednesday on a charge of driving while his licence was suspended. He entered a plea of guilty.

Big Entry Already For Highland Games

Nelson's Kootenay Kilties Pipe Band won't be entering the Highland Games on Labor Day, but four entries received to date indicate that band competition will be stiff.

Top contender for the band championship is the Strathcona Pipe Band of Edmonton, winner of the Saskatchewan Open Pipe Band Championship for the second successive year.

Directed by Pipe Major James Stout, formerly of Nelson, the band defeated the North Saskatchewan Light Infantry Band from Saskatoon and the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals band from Regina. Earlier in the year, the band also captured the Alberta championship in Edmonton.

Other competition for the champion band will be coming from the Angus Scott Memorial Band of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and the Balmoral and Trail Pipe Bands from Trail.

Other band entries are also expected from Calgary and Edmonton.

The Kootenay Kilties will not be entering. Clifford Underwood, Pipe major, said that a serious loss of pipers and drummers last year, and a poor attendance at practices, has ruled out the band from competition.

Many of the members, however, will be entering the individual piping and drumming competitions.

40 DANCERS

More than 40 entries in the dancing competiton have been received to date, but according to Mrs. R. C. Wright, registrar, "the rush is just beginning."

Miss M. Lavoie of Cloverdale will judge the dancing, which will consist of Highland fling, sword dance, seann truibhais, Irish jig, sailor's hornpipe, and the reel.

Dance entries have been received from Trail, Rossland, Calgary, Edmonton, Fruitvale, Red Deer, Spokane, Cranbrook, Lethbridge and Blueberry Creek.

REVIVAL

These will be the first Caledonian games since 1956 for Nelson. Organizational difficulties forced cancellation of the games in 1957 and 1958.

Apart from the years during the Second World War and 1957-58, the games have been held annually since 1932. These will be the first staged by the Kootenay Kilties. In the past, the group has assisted Clan McLeary in the presentation.

This year is also the 40th anniversary of the founding of the band by Pipe Major William McLeary, Robert Wallace, William Byers, Ivie Speirs, Albert Wallach and Jack Welsh. There were 18 members in 1919.

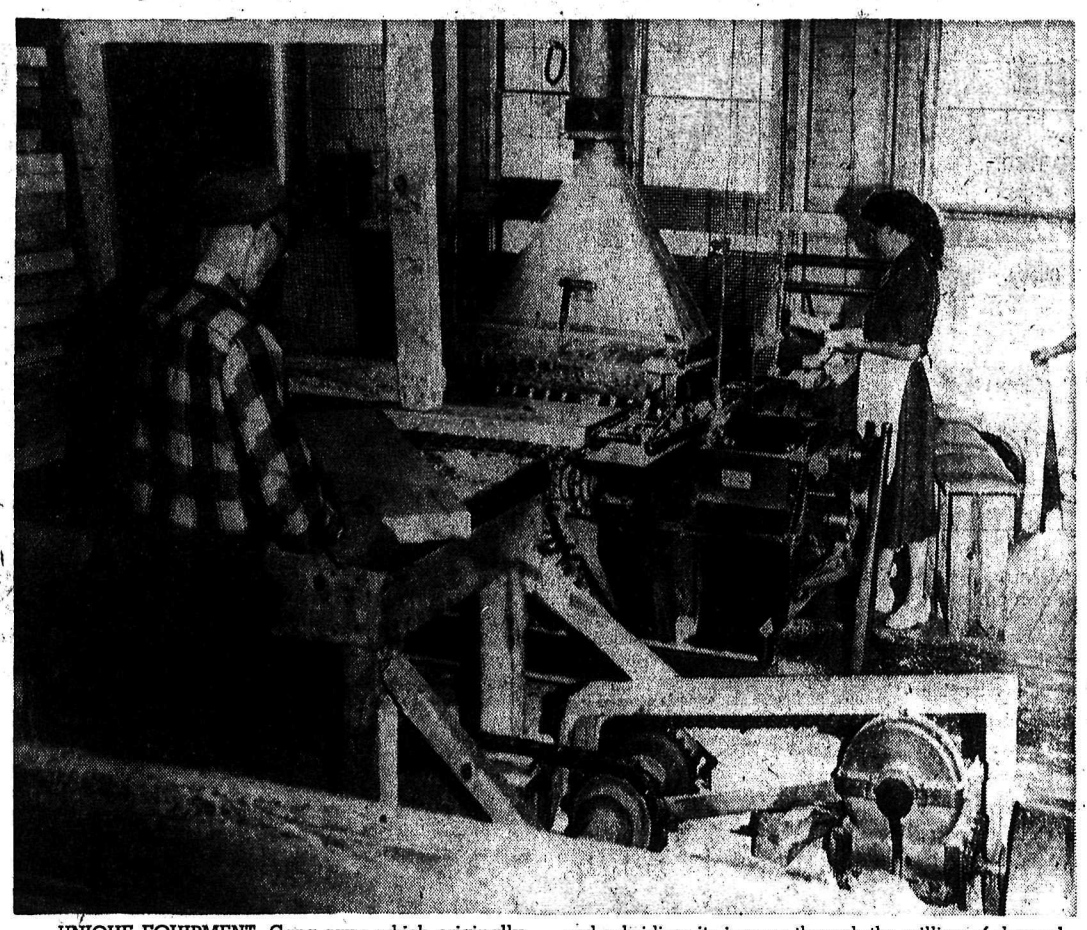
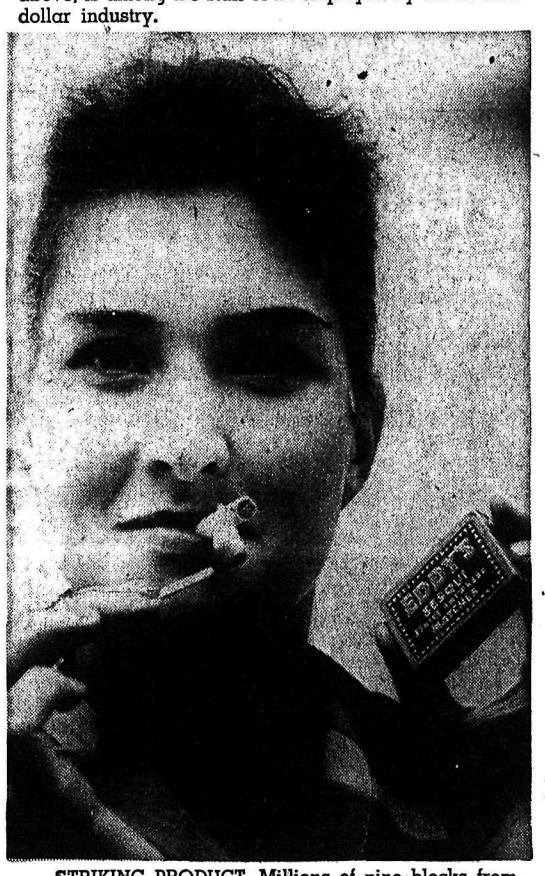
MATCH MATERIAL. White pine from Kootenay forests is turned into billions of wooden match sticks. The W. W. Powell Company Ltd. at Nelson is the largest producer of match blocks in Canada. Mrs. Anna Purdy, above, is among the staff of 24 employed by the million dollar industry.



UNIQUE EQUIPMENT. Gang saws which originally cost $30,000 and are no longer manufactured are required to carve 5,000,000 feet of white pine into match-length blocks to meet annual orders. The company, established 38 years ago, has a yearly payroll of $75,000 and subsidizes its income through the milling of dressed lumber for the eastern market. Harry B. Horton, president and general manager, started with the company when 17 at 40 cents an hour for a 60-hour week.

—Daily News photos by Mickey Carlton.

NO LABOR STRIFE. There has never been any labor strife at the plant and employees like Jennie Argatoff, above, enjoy pleasant working conditions. Adept with an axe, Jennie chops defects from pine blocks. The Powell company is the largest buyer of white pine in the Interior, placing orders for 10,000,000 feet annually, and thereby providing work and pay for some 750 lumbermen in the district. Despite the heavy cutting, the company claims the local supply of white pine has "hardly been dented."



STRIKING PRODUCT. Millions of pine blocks from the region's forests are turned into matches by the Eddy Match Company in Pembroke, Ont., and many eventually find their way back to consumers in Nelson like Mrs. Wayne Hendy, Gore Street.

INDUSTRIAL NELSON

As Match Block Producer Powell Firm Leads Canada

This is the first in a series of picture stories on Nelson industries by Nelson Daily News staff reporter-photographer Mickey Carlton. The Queen City of the Kootenays, long a business and administrative centre and tourist mecca, has an active and growing industrial side. It is the aim of The Daily News to present picture stories of the city's industries in action.

Where the blue waters of the Kootenay River lap lazily at Nelson's waterfront, a million dollar industry lopes along with the easy gait of a cruising woodsman.

The W. W. Powell Company Limited, biggest producer of match blocks in Canada, functions with the unhurried tempo of a balmy summer day.

As I drove down the dusty cul de sac at the foot of Stanley Street onto the Powell property, a lone tractor beefed between the vast stacks of white lumber glistening in the sun.

There was no other sign of life. The office and mill seemed asleep in the skirts of the towering mountains and only a wisp of smoke drifted from the stack at the water's edge.

I left the car beside half a dozen others baking in the morning sun and walked across the yard formed over the years by tons of waste sawdust. The general office of this giant of the match block industry was a small frame building little bigger than the attendant's office in a metropolitan parking lot.

In an office as shyly unpretentious as the building, Harry B. Horton, president and general manager, sat behind an unimposing desk. He wore an open neck sport shirt, a gray pair of trousers and a big grin.

Harry Horton has a way of putting visitors at ease. From his conversation it quickly became apparent that the drowsy atmosphere that seemed to envelop the plant was a thin veneer hiding the throbbing heartbeat of a bustling industry.

WIDENED SCOPE

Tracing the history of the company, Mr. Horton went back 38 years to the days of its founding by W. W. Powell. He outlined the development of the business from the days when match block making was its only function to the present operation which involves the processing of 10,000,000 feet of white pine to match blocks and dressed lumber.

In 1948 the company became a subsidiary of Eddy Match Company and today the Powell organization produces more raw material for match sticks than any plant in Canada.

The advent of cardboard match sticks struck a crippling blow to the organization but they took up the slack by milling white pine and today ship more than 5,000,000 feet of dressed lumber a year to the Ontario market.

With a staff of 10 girls and 24 men, the company meets an annual payroll of $75,000 and in purchasing its raw material provides pay and employment for another 750 people in the local lumber business.

The annual output of the mill is 80 freight car loads of match blocks and 200 cars of lumber, all bound for the industries and building trades of the east. The company has no United States or overseas customers.

Following in his father's footsteps, Mr. Horton started working for the Powell company when he was 17. He earned 40 cents an hour, worked a 10-hour day and put in a six-day week. Today the lowest paid employee earns $1.64 an hour for a 40-hour week.

STREAMLINED PROCESS

In the mill that trembles from the vibration of screaming saws and planers, 24 men and women fashion the products of the Kootenay forests.

On an endless belt small blocks of fragrant pine tumble like toy soldiers past checkers and inspectors. Like a shower of wooden bullets they pour into bins to be loaded onto freight cars.

At the Eddy plant in Pembroke, Ont., they will be turned into a billion wooden match sticks and one day many will find their way back to the Queen City of the Kootenays.

Velvet's New Ore To Balance Mill Feed

Indications of higher-grade ore reported in the preparation of the Velvet mine near Rossland for a return to production, go a long way to insure a balanced mill feed when the operation starts, it is reported by M. F. Maxwell, president, Mid-West Copper and Uranium Mines Ltd.

A true width of 2.0 feet of ore assaying 1.78 ounces gold per ton with 3.53 per cent copper has been obtained in an intersection between the third and fourth levels.

The ore was found to the south of stopes on higher levels in the Dick Rowe vein and is believed to indicate an extension of that orebody on the plunge.

The discovery was made in the diamond drilling which is being conducted along with the rehabilitation of the mine. It is hoped to reopen the mill this month.

An Asset to Nelson District

The opening of its first branch in the Interior by the British Columbia Automobile Association marks a great step forward by that rapidly growing body. It is a recognition of the importance of this city as the centre of a large area with an increasing number of those who drive cars and are interested in good motoring.

The branch office may be classed as an added amenity of the city, a place where motorists can foregather to exchange notes and to receive information, where they can discuss their travels and listen to what others have to say.

Motorists have their own particular interests and the BCAA keeps a watchful eye on any legislation affecting car drivers. It sorts and sifts the opinions of its members and presents them to responsible bodies for their consideration.

There is little doubt that the Nelson office will help to serve this purpose, perhaps even better than the main office as it will be the clearing house for ideas of travelling motorists from all over the province. At the same time a pleasing feature is the favorable publicity Nelson will receive.

Interpreting the News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Santiago conference of foreign ministers had enunciated great principles but it failed to ease even slightly the blood hatreds of the Caribbean, especially between Cuba and the Dominican Republic.

With Caribbean events in flux, to say the least, there were apparent impossibilities in this meeting of the organization of American states, which includes 21 self-governing nations of the western hemisphere, Canada being a notable exception.

The central cause of Caribbean troubles, diplomats say, is the collision between the dictatorship of Rafael Trujillo in the Dominican Republic and the revolution of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

Military sideshows — minor "invasions" — occurred in Cuba and Haiti even as the foreign ministers had been called after similar forays worked. Their emergency meeting in several countries including Panama, Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic.

The conference once more condemned intervention of one state in the affairs of another — thereby stirring the hostility of Cuba and Venezuela who believe this is merely a legal trick for the protection of dictators.

The conference also condemned dictatorships but decreed in effect that such regimes could be toppled by their own peoples. The Dominican Republic, along with Paraguay and Nicaragua, the two other states described as dictatorships, found it possible to vote for this resolution which was embodied in the "Declaration of Santiago."

The declaration lists democratic principles so that people can be guided in assessing their governments. But it is questionable whether such a list will be useful, for instance, in the Dominican Republic where all media is controlled.

Regarding non-intervention, the ministers empowered an existing committee to study "methods and procedures to prevent activities originating abroad designed to overthrow constituted governments," dictatorships or not.

Castro professes to have no plans for a Cuban invasion of the Dominican Republic, but it is known that irregular forces in Cuba have such an aim. It is also reported that troops are training in the Dominican Republic with the hope of invading Cuba.

Observers are baffled as to how non-interventions can be enforced under these circumstances without some sort of a watchdog patrol, which presumably would be drawn chiefly from the United States and might itself be open to the charge of intervention.

The U.S., although now an ardent supporter of non-intervention, has traditionally taken a different view and is still accused from time to time of meddling in the domestic affairs of its latin neighbors.

It was as late as 1941 that the U.S. gave up the last of its treaty rights in Latin-America—in the Dominican Republic—and before that it often took direct action south of the border, in Mexico, Cuba, Haiti, Nicaragua and Panama.

Diplomats, while confident that the Santiago conference is bound to have a cooling effect on Latin passions, fear that unrest in the Caribbean is inevitable while present conditions continue.

Lessons From Australia

Speaking in London recently, Mr. Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, had some good advice for intending British immigrants and for the government of Canada. Addressing Britons, he emphasized that Canada was a land of opportunity, that while these opportunities did not come "prepackaged", they were there for those willing to work for them.

Mr. Gordon doubtless had in mind the widespread impression in Britain today that Canada is a land in the depths of depression. This impression is in part the work of the popular British press with its sensational but unfounded stories. A good deal of the blame, however, also rests with those Canadians who, for political purposes, have exaggerated the extent and severity of the mild recession this country suffered in 1957-58. Between them, they undoubtedly discouraged many potentiql British immigrants.

Mr. Gordon's words should do something to correct this false picture. He can speak with a special authority, for he himself came to Canada as an immigrant from Scotland. The CNR president's advice to his own government also concerned immigration:

> Since I went to Canada with my parents in 1914, tens of thousands of other immigrants from the British Isles as well as from Europe have arrived to throw in their lot with the vast new Dominion. Many more are sure to go and in the long run we need them. Then why not open the doors immediately to those who are waiting to get in? The long-term prospects justify, and indeed depend for their realization on increased population.

This is something which Ottawa needs to hear, and often. Canadian political leaders of all parties are in favor of immigration, but they do not recognize its overriding importance in a new country. They do not give it the priority it ought to have. No great effort or imagination is used in attracting immigrants from Britain or elsewhere.

A marked contrast to this is provided by our sister Dominion, Australia. After the Second World War, the Australian government made it a cardinal national goal to acquire more population. A definite target has been set of 115,000 immigrants annually—in Canadian terms, 215,000 a year would be the equivalent. To overcome the obstacle of great distances and high costs of transportation, intending immigrants from Britain are offered virtually free passage with their families.

This policy was undertaken more for strategic than economic reasons. To maintain its independence on the fringe of an overcrowded and restless Asia, the country needs more people. Yet its economic results are highly significant. Australia has probably the lowest unemployment rate in the free world and enjoys one of the highest investment rates—including a rising influx of European and United States capital. The theory in Canada is that immigration follows, and is dependent on, investment and development. The Australian experience shows, rather, that immigration produces both.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

Spoke For Juvenile Court Committee

To The Editor,

Sir—For the record may I say that the brief from the Ministerial Association submitted to the Mental Health Commission was submitted by the Rev. H. Whitmore and not by myself as reported in the paper. I did not prepare a brief. I spoke on behalf of the Juvenile Court Committee and the Council for Social Service of the Anglican Church.

With regard to my request to the City Council for pedestrian crossing lines at Nelson Avenue and Davies Street, may I say my request was more specific in that it also asked for a line be placed over the blind spot on High Street opposite the residence of Mr. Lundie.

Just as important is the fact that I insist that a line be placed down the centre of Davies Street which, as all my neighbors know is a race track and a veritable menace.

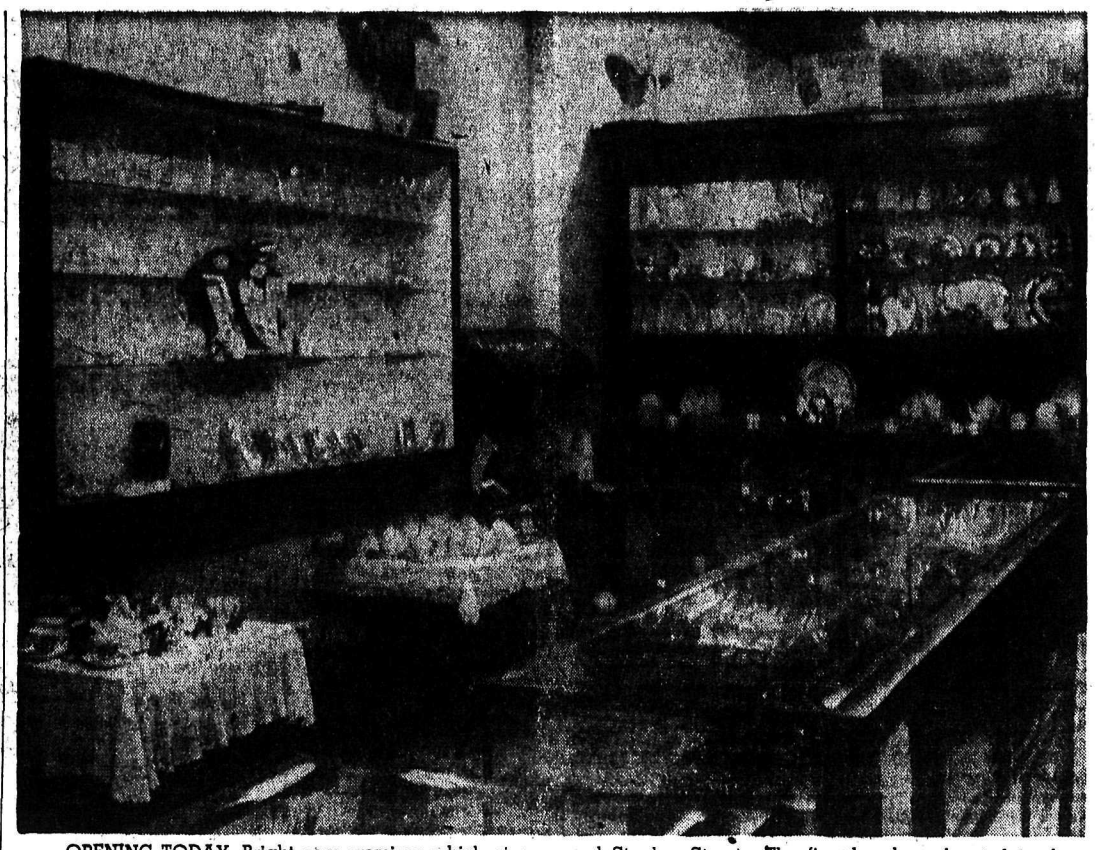
A Policeman's Lot

Again, news reports tell of hoodlums fighting a lone police officer, while a jeering crowd looks on, none lifting a finger to help the constable. Such incidents are becoming all too frequent.

Respect for law and self-discipline are essential to the democratic life. Without them, democracy soon sinks into anarchy, corruption and self-seeking. In a free land, any citizen has the right to arrest a lawbreaker; he has the duty to help a police officer to do so. To stand idly by while a constable is beaten is to be indifferent to the basic rights guaranteeing his own freedom.

Assertions that the police invite antagonism by their own attitude are seldom borne out. Most Canadian policemen carry out tedious duties, especially unpopular traffic control, with courtesy and restraint. Nor can the reason for present hostility lie in past history. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police and its equally famous predecessor, the Royal North West Mounted Police, have justly earned a high reputation for integrity, courage and efficiency.

Police recruitment is difficult now; it will become even more difficult to obtain the right type of man if prospective recruits learn to equate joining a police force with exposing themselves to public vilification.—Toronto Globe and Mail.



OPENING TODAY. Bright new premises which give Olson's Credit Jewellers more display space for the firm's large stock of merchandise, open today in a newly-erected business building at the corner of Baker and Stanley Streets. The firm has been located in the same block of Baker Street.

Jewelry Firm Moves to New Premises

From the time the first person walks in the door today of Olson's Credit Jewellers' new store at the corner of Baker and Stanley Streets every customer and casual visitor will have an opportunity to share in more than $500 worth of prizes.

In making the move to new and larger premises, Gordon Olson said Wednesday the more commodious quarters give much more space for display of the wide and varied stock his firm offers.

His only regret was that lighting fixtures, ordered some time ago, were not available and the store had to swing wide its doors with what Mr. Olson could only describe as "makeshift" lights.

"Proper lighting is essential in this business, if the customer is to see exactly how an article will appear," says Mr. Olson.

STEP FORWARD

The move to the new premises is just another step forward in the history of a company which was founded in 1951, right after its originator had finished his time with the armed services and then spent several years in training at Vancouver for his trade.

With a stock of $50,000 worth of quality jewelry, watches and chinaware—all, Mr. Olson points out, "name brands" — Olson's offer the buying public not only the best in merchandise and service, but also an outstanding credit plan.

"Not a penny more for credit," is the company's slogan, and, says the busy director of this enterprise, "we mean just that." Through its own arrangements Olson's are able to provide purchasers with time payment plans which cost the customer nothing extra, but make it more convenient and easy to buy worthwhile investments in good living.

The flourishing business employs two besides Mr. Olson, Mrs. B. Austin, clerk and saleswoman, and Manfred Schwindt, master German clockmaker. Mr. Olson himself is also a graduate watchmaker. The company prides itself on its watch-repairing and engraving services.

STEADY GROWTH

In explaining his move to the new site, Mr. Olson put it this way: "Nelson is not a boom and bust town, but it grows steadily. And so has this business since I started it. I can see a great future for Nelson and the businesses which serve the people well."

Mr. Olson takes pride in the fact that his concern, located right in Nelson and with qualified men to service every aspect of the work, can provide the service which out-of-towners cannot.

"That is why I went into the credit selling field," Mr. Olson says, "because I felt that we could give the public a better service than Coast firms. We are right here. If there turns out to be trouble or dissatisfaction with our goods, the buyer doesn't have to write letters; he can come right in and get the problem solved immediately."

GUEST AWARDS

In the next three days, during which the $50,000 stock will be on show, Olson's hope that everyone in Nelson and district will come in, if even just to take a chance on "surprise" gifts which will be given out at unknown times, and on the big $500 group of guest awards to be drawn Saturday afternoon.

Each visitor to the store will receive a free ticket, to be drawn Saturday afternoon, which will entitle him or her to a chance to win anything from a 400-day clock, a $100 diamond ring, through a gamut of valuable prizes such as silverplate, pens, watches to $20 diamond necklace and earring sets.

Ruth never sees but one side. She complains that Joe criticizes her all the time, and all he does is to tell her for Pete's sake to stop criticizin' him.

Principals of Cramer-Labentsoff Wedding Make Home in Yukon

Blue and pink of the attendants' cocktail-length gowns added a soft shading of color to the bridal procession at a marriage ceremony in the Bethel Tabernacle in Nelson for the former Margie Labentsoff and Clinton Joseph James Cramer.

Rev. Reuben Swanson officiated at the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Labentsoff and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Cramer of Carberry, Manitoba.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride walked down the aisle in a gown of lace over satin with floor-length hooped skirt. Dainty nylon flowers trimmed the lace, Sabrina neckline and lily point sleeves.

A rhinestone headdress held the waist-length bridal veil, and she carried a crescent bouquet of pink carnations.

Maid of honor Miss Florence Labentsoff, cousin of the bride, and bridesmatron Mrs. Hazel Pereverzoff, sister of the bride, were gowned in blue nylon and blue taffeta respectively while bridesmaid Miss Anne Labentsoff, the bride's sister, chose pink taffeta.

They all wore matching headdresses of flowers on a circle of net, and their bouquets of carnations were tipped in shades to match their gowns.

The bridegroom was supported by John Anonby of Nelson and ushers were George Watts of Calgary and Bill Pereverzoff.

Soloist Weldon Jones of Crawford Bay sang "Because" accompanied by pianist Mrs. Norma Evans of Trail.

A Russian dinner was served to 200 guests at a banquet reception in the Canadian Legion Hall. The bride's mother wore a blue princess-style dress with pink accessories, and the bridegroom's mother chose a beige dress with light green accessories. Both were presented with a pink carnation corsage.

Gladioli and clarkia ornamented the bride's table, which was centered with a three-tiered cake decorated with pink iced rosebuds and topped with a bride and groom. Pink and white streamers and bells were arranged throughout the hall.

A toast was proposed by Mr. Swanson, who was master of ceremonies. During the reception, the newlyweds were presented with gifts.

For going away, the bride donned a white sheath dress with white accessories and pink carnation corsage.

Following a honeymoon trip to Spokane, Seattle, Vancouver, Radium, Banff and Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Cramer will make their home in Teslin, Yukon, where the groom will teach school.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cramer (parents of the groom) from Carberry, Man.; George Watts and Ray Archer of Calgary, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Jones of Crawford Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evans of Trail.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, Aug. 20th — Shortcake Shortcut! . . . here's the perfect cool dessert for a muggy August day! So easy to make — you simply fill baker's shortcake shells with creamy-smooth ROYAL INSTANT PUDDING. Top with whipped cream, fruit, ice cream or shaved chocolate. That's all — and so delicious! Royal Instant Puddings make summer's most light-hearted desserts and they keep cooking down to a minimum . . . a real boon! Another boon! . . . you can make Royal Instant Puddings deliciously and economically with skim milk. Add skim milk to any of the seven Royal Instant flavours for perfect desserts time after time!

IT'S WONDERFUL FUN TO PLAN . . . when you're planning to get the things you really want on the BANK OF MONTREAL Family Finance Plan. If you have a steady income and can meet surprisingly low monthly payments, chances are a lot of the things you are dying to own can be yours right away — and you'll be living sensibly within your income too! I followed the lead of lots of my friends by talking to the people at my local branch of "My Bank". There's automatic life-insurance, two years — or even three — to repay, and a very special feature called Ever-Ready Credit. This is the Plan for me — how about you?

WHEN YOU COOK FOR TWO — OR JUST FOR YOU, you want the quality but not the quantity. That's why Aylmer put up their AYLMER FANCY PEAS—ASSORTED SIZES in a 10-ounce tin as well as in the 15 and 20-ounce sizes. Like the larger tins, it's bright white and brimful of young, tender, succulent peas . . . the best you've ever tasted. That's because Aylmer Fancy Peas are grown on carefully selected Canadian farms where sunshine, moisture and soil are just right. Then, when they have reached perfection, Aylmer rushes them, fresh-harvested, to nearby canneries — seals and cooks them, often within an hour. Result . . . that top quality, sunshine-fresh Aylmer flavor!

PASSING ON GOOD NEWS, whether to neighbors over a back fence, or through a column like this, is always cheering. That's why I'm pleased to be writing you about the success which TEMPLETON'S TRC's has had in many hundreds of cases in helping men and women who suffer from rheumatic, arthritic or sciatic pain. Week after week I see their letters and read their pleasure in passing on word of relief from cruel, long-endured pain, through TRC's. If you know of friends who are suffering in this way, do suggest that they follow the example of so many — and free themselves from agony. TRC's are available at all drug counters.

Open House at Dr. F. W. Green Memorial Home Draws Crowds

CRANBROOK — "Open House" at the Dr. F. W. Green Memorial Home Monday afternoon drew a steady stream of visitors to inspect the facilities it offers as a home for elderly people.

Essential equipment which failed to arrive in time for the opening were springs and mattresses for the 26 beds, a kitchen range and refrigerator and dishes, but the committee in charge of arrangements secured borrowed dishes and used electric kettles and percolators to keep the refreshments rolling out during the afternoon.

Living room and dining room were completely furnished, and gifts of flowers from various gardens made the light and sunny building on Seventeenth Avenue most attractive.

Receiving were Mrs. Vincent Liddicoatt, Mrs. W. O. Green and Mrs. T. J. Sullivan. Pouring tea and coffee were Mrs. F. W. Green, Mrs. G. E. L. MacKinnon, Mrs. C. R. Ward and Miss Myrtle Gummer. Mrs. Gordon Haskell was in charge of the shower gifts brought —large quantities of tea towels, pot holders and pillow cases and tinned goods.

Helping serve were Mrs. Sam DeLuca, Mrs. D. W. Dow, Mrs. Val Meshwa and Mrs. C. J. Rollheiser, and helping prepare were Mrs. Sam Ratcliffe, Mrs. William Schlapbach, Miss Ida Gamache and Mrs. Alfred Oman. Mrs. Charles Rosevear was cashier and Mrs. A. J. Weir was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Frank Bridges looked after a cookery table. This and cash donations by guests returned $75.

Generous gift of $250 was received by the Society this week from George Wong, operator of the U and I Cafe, who last year reserved a day's gross proceeds from his coffee shop, totalling over $400, and gave it for the building fund.

Formal opening and dedication of the Home as a memorial to Dr. Green, constructed through the help and efforts of the community and many friends across Canada, will not take place until some time next month when normal operation of the residence will be well under way.

Ainsworth Notes

MCC Head for Trail After Vancouver Win

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Marylebone Cricket Club, led to a fine recovery by John Pretlove, defeated an all-British Columbia side by 56 runs Wednesday in a one-day exhibition match, the last of four scheduled appearances in Vancouver.

Pretlove, a gifted left-handed stroke player from Kent County, stayed at bat for two hours and scored 78 runs, putting MCC into fairly good position after they had lost five wickets for 98 runs at the lunch break.

MCC was all out for 159 after three hours at bat and then took all 10 B.C. wickets for 103 runs in two hours and five minutes in the afternoon, scoring the victory with an hour to spare.

10 WINS

The result gave MCC a record of 10 victories and three draws, one of them because of rain in eastern Canada, since they began their tour about a month ago.

The MCC has one more match in B.C., against the Oakanagan-Kootenay side in Trail Saturday, then opens a swing through the Prairies. Today the club travels to Penticton for a sight-seeing tour.

The British Columbia side made a good start Wednesday as Fred Sealy took four MCC wickets for 26 runs, but Pretlove's two-hour stand just before and after lunch gave the tourists a safe margin.

Daniel Piachaud, a slow, off-break bowler from Ceylon who now is attending Oxford, spoiled any hopes the B.C. side had of passing the MCC total. Piachaud took six wickets for 41 runs, halting a brief threat by Bob Quintrell, 24, and Stan Hansen, 17.

Kidd Favored to Take Canadian Amateur Golf

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bob Kidd became the outstanding favorite Wednesday in the 55th Canadian amateur golf championships here as he scored one-up victories in both rounds of match play competitions.

Kidd, low medalist in the two-day 36-hole qualifying round, turned back Bobby Stimpson, 29-year-old Winnipeg Pine Ridge shotmaker, in the morning round and defending champion Bruce Castattor of Toronto in the afternoon.

Kidd won medalist honors in the qualifying rounds when he carded a pair of two-under 69s on his home course of Marine Drive. He was the only golfer among 146 starters to break the tight, 6432-yard Marine Drive par of 36-35—71 both days.

Boatmen Plan Happy Weekend

More than 100 boatsmen and their families are expected to take off Saturday in the annual "rendezvous" sponsored by Kootenay Launch Club.

Already 8 Spokane boats, with 29 aboard, have notified the club they will be on hand for the overnight trip to Pilot-Sawmill Bay on Kootenay Lake across from Procter.

Fifteen to 20 Nelson boats, several from the Arrow Boat Club at Robson and at least one from Bonnington are also signed up for the cruise.

The Kootenay Launch Club will provide a barbecue dinner the first night, after that it will be everyone for himself so far as eating is concerned. To make sure there is plenty of food for the first night the club is asking that anyone with a boat and intending to take part contact Kirby Grenfell, at 359-L, before Friday.

The show will get under way from the government dock in Nelson at approximately 3 p.m. Saturday.

China Clipper Back in Eskie Graces

EDMONTON (CP) — President E. Duggan of the Edmonton Eskimos announced Wednesday that an "equitable arrangement" has been reached with Normie Kwong over a $2300 fine imposed on the fullback by the Western Interprovincial Football Union Club.

Kwong had been fined $100 a day for the 23 days he failed to show up at the Eskimo camp this season. The China Clipper had held out hoping to be traded to the British Columbia Lions, but returned to Edmonton three weeks ago when negotiations for a swap failed.

Can't Fight 'Mob' and Patterson Both — Ingo

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, world heavyweight champion, writing under his byline in Life magazine, declared:

"I can't fight Patterson and the fight mob too."

He said he would be ready Sept. 22 for a rematch with Floyd Patterson, the American from whom he took the title June 26, "but there probably will be no fight."

Johansson did not identify the "mob".

At the conclusion of his article he stated:

"The man I am going to fight is Floyd Patterson. I have given my word to fight him and I keep my word. But three things have to happen first:

"1. I must have my money in the bank under my own name before I come to America to fight.

"2. I must have a good explanation of who is promoting the next fight, who owns whom, and who has lied to whom. Where does Cus d'Amato come in and where does his backer, Vincent Velella, get his money? 'Don't worry about money,' Velella told my friend, Eddie Ahlquist, 'There's no limit.' That is a funny statement and it should be cleared up.

"3. I must wait until the investigations are over.

"I do not think I am asking too much after what the fight mob has done to me."

Johansson's references were to d'Amato, who is manager of Patterson; Velella, who has a controlling interest in Rosensohn Enterprises which promoted the fight under the direction of Bill Rosensohn; and Ahlquist, Johansson's Swedish adviser.

Claims Pole Mark

HAMILTON (CP)—Paul Cote, 31, of Kapuskasing, Ont., came down from his flagpole at Hamilton Beach Tuesday night and claimed a Canadian record.

He had been on the 40 - foot pole 31 days.

The ex-paratrooper said his record was three days longer than that set by a Montreal woman.

After police escorted him through a mob of spectators, he went to collect a $1,000 cheque from his sponsors.

Cote said he was in good physical condition but extremely sleepy. "I guess I'll sleep the clock around." He said he slept only two or three hours every night while he was on the cramped platform.

Moore Keeps Title With 11th Round KO of Bassey

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World featherweight boxing champion Davey Moore retained his title Wednesday night when he stopped Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria, in the 11th round of a scheduled 15-round fight.

Moore, 126, had the ex-champion in bad shape at the close of the 10th round and Bassey, 125, was unable to come out for the 11th.

It goes into the record as an 11th-round knockout because the bell had sounded before the fight was stopped.

Moore, of Springfield, Ohio, dethroned Bassey for the title when he stopped him in 13 rounds in this same Olympic Auditorium last March 18.

Bassey's right eye was badly swollen and bruised from the rapid-fire left hooks and jabs. The former champion also suffered a cut at the corner of the left eyebrow in the second round. It bled but did not hamper his efforts too much.

The 25-year-old American went al out in the 10th to score a clean knockout.

Bassey opened the round with a swinging right, but in a moment Dave looped a right to the head that spun Bassey around. Bassey's glove touched the mat, but he did not appear in too much distress at this stage.

Moore, sensing victory in his first defence of the 126-pound title, tore in. He rocked the Kid with stunning lefts and rights and had Bassey hanging on desperately in a neutral corner.

GETTING RUBBERY

Bassey retreated down the ropes toward his own corner, with Davey continuing his relentless head attack. Bassey was getting rubbery on his feet. The bell then sounded.

There were some boos from the crowd of about 8,000 when Bassey apparently on the advice of his English manager, George Biddles, refused to resume the bout.

In the original fight five months ago, Bassey similarly was held back because of severe cuts over both eyes.

In each fight, Moore was comfortably ahead on points.

MOORE CONFIDENT

But in contrast to the first fight, it was a confident Moore who took charge at the outset this time. Primarily a counter-puncher, Davey outboxed and outpunched his 27-year-old opponent in the opening rounds.

Bassey, obviously intent on making it a rousing fight even if it cost him the win, brought the crowd to its feet in the fifth round, his best. He let loose with a swinging attack, looping with both hands and driving Moore back.

It was the fourth time that Bassey had been stopped in a career of 66 fights. The victory was the 15th straight for Moore in the televised bout.

NHL Broadcasts To Be Cut in TV Areas

TORONTO (CP) — National Hockey League broadcasts carried by radio stations in areas where the games are also televised may be dropped from the CBC's radio network this season, Imperial Oil Limited said Wednesday.

The move would not affect Foster Hewitt, whose play-by-play accounts have been heard by Canadians for 24 years, or his son Bill Hewitt, who teamed up with his father last year in radio-TV coverage of hockey.

REFUSES $840,000 FOR $3000 HORSE

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An Australian horsebreeder Wednesday refused $840,000 for a stallion that cost him only $2940 five years ago.

Carl Powell, owner of Rego, said the horse was not for sale. One of the main reasons, he said, would be the tax on his profits.

Powell said that Rego, a son of the famed Nasrullah and the sire of Mr. Wiggle now racing in the United States, was being sought by a U.S. syndicate.

New League Faces Costly Damage Fees

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Heads of the high minors served notice Wednesday on Branch Rickey and his embryo Continental League to be ready to pay damages amounting to approximately $8,000,000 for invasion of their territories.

Ed Doherty, president of the American Association, which may lose six of its ten franchises to the newly organized would-be major circuit, said he already has demanded a million dollars indemnity for each of the cities taken.

Houston, Denver and the twin-cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul, all members of the A.A., are among the five founders of the Continental League. The new league also is eyeing the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Toronto of the International League and New York also are definitely in the new loop.

MUST PAY

"If they (Continental League) think they can operate — and I wish them luck," said Doherty, "let them pay for the privilege. I've got to protect the people who have investments in my league. I don't think anybody has the right to demand territory without paying for the privilege of using it.

"If they take those six cities away from us, the American Association is dead. I'd have only four clubs for a nucleus of another league."

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, said he would ask for approximately $1,000,000 for Toronto and the possible loss of another of his cities, either Montreal or Buffalo.

"They claim they've got millions," said the silvery - haired veteran of more than 50 years in baseball. "Well, they'd better get ready to spend some of it.

SIMILAR TO PCL

"If they take any of our cities, there certainly would have to be an indemnity. We'd have to get at least as much as was paid to the Pacific Coast League two years ago when the National League took two cities away from it (Los Angeles and San Francisco). The PCL got $900,000 and the Dodgers and Giants provided them with two new cities (Phoenix and Spokane)."

Leslie O'Connor, President of the PCL, was not as demanding, possibly because he doubts whether the new league will invade his territory.

"They can expect to pay substantial compensation," he said.

Charles Hurth, president of the Southern Association, also doubts whether any of his cities would be included in the Continental League but he, too, is prepared to demand payment if either Atlanta or New Orleans joins the new loop.

Kootenai Indians Lived on Them

Caribou Make Last Stand in Idaho

By PAUL FLINN
Idaho Fish and Game Department

In the far northwestern corner of Idaho ranges the rarest of this states big game animals—beautiful animals that time tucked away and forgot in a wilderness forest high in the Selkirk mountains.

These are the caribou, presence of which is remembered by few, forgotten by many and sometimes referred to as "ghost talk" used often to color up tales of the north woods.

In early west days of other regions various species of game animals reached long lasting fame but in northern Idaho the one species which can make honest claim to this distinguished niche is undoubtedly the caribou.

First explorers in the land of Kootenai Indians found the red men with caribou skins to offer in trade. Later years found fur trappers and miners depending on the animals for fresh meat. In high spruce forests, where trappers ran long strings of marten lines, caribou meat was the main bill of fare after deep snows had driven deer to lower regions. Throughout the region caribou were plentiful before civilization pushed remaining, and dwindling, numbers into mountain wilderness.

Among lesser known tales of early days in northern Idaho is one which has to do with a mine. Packing goods and equipment from Priest Lake to this mine high in the Selkirk range on Continental Mountain were long strings of pack animals. Down through the years the names of packers pulling these pack strings have been forgotten with the exception of one who well remembers the train to Continental mine and caribou of the mountains. In 1956, Colon Smith wrote: "Along in the '90's there were hundreds of caribou around Priest Lake and Priest River when I was packing to the Continental mine."

WHITE CARIBOU

Still living in northern Idaho are many residents who remember Fred Fisher's "White Caribou" saloon. The saloon, first in Bonners Ferry and then Porthill, was so named for the white caribou in full body mount on display in the grog shop. And the best information has it the animal was killed in either 1905 or 1906 near the Canadian boundary.

In the First National Bank of Bonners Ferry are two mounted heads from bull caribou killed in the vicinity. Both heads were taken in the summer of 1892 by a Dave Davis who was a professional packer for the old Bonner Mercantile.

Without exception each bit of information points toward the fact caribou were once numerous in northern Idaho. People took them for granted much as they do deer today. The animals are native to and nothing new in north Idaho.

Although observations in recent years may lead to the conclusion that Idaho had and still has a monopoly on caribou range there could be nothing further from the truth. Information gathered does, however, lead to the conclusion that Idaho had, and still has, the major range of this southern-most herd of caribou.

In the northwestern corner of Montana caribou were successfully hunted in past days and there is no fiction connected with caribou being killed along the Yahk river near the turn of the century. Northeastern Washington is also known to have caribou and Forest Service employees reported sighting a small herd in the Salmo River region last fall.

With passage of time so went the caribou until they were once thought to have vanished from Idaho. Only in recent years has it been determined there are still a few caribou where once there were hundreds or more.

LAST STAND

In the relatively short span of 50 some-odd years Idaho's caribou all but vanished. Only in the rugged Selkirk range have the animals managed to survive. These mountains have remained untouched by modern civilization until recent years when logging of virgin forests got under way. Here is where the remnant of north Idaho's once numerous caribou have made their last stand.

I believe that Idaho's caribou are mountain caribou (rangifer montanus), cousins of the barren ground caribou of the frozen north and the lesser known woodland caribou of the east. Summer range of these mountain caribou extends along high peaks of the Selkirk range north and into British Columbia. Haunts consist of alpine meadows near or above timber line which are more commonly associated with mountain goat range. Swampy areas of deep shade along lake shores are also preferred. Summer foods consist of alpine growth, ground lichens and sedges.

Animals of both sexes grow antlers but those on cows are much smaller than those grown by bulls. Some cows have but one antler while a few will grow none. Immature bulls have small racks which are thought to be cafried through the winter. Mature bulls, sometimes sporting huge racks, shed antlers in October and November immediately after the September breeding season.

NOT PROLIFIC

Single calves are born in June and it is thought that cows never bear twin calves. For some undetermined reason caribou appear to be the least prolific of all game animals.

While no definite conclusions have been reached regarding the extremely low calf crops the most likely appears that many cows do not produce calves each year. In the event they do a heavy loss of calves occurs before animals concentrate on winter range.

Caribou are great walkers and If there is a walking champion among game animals it must be the caribou for they wander extensively and ofter cover more than 10 miles a day during winter months.

Although caribou observations in recent years are mostly confined to the Continental mountain region there is evidence to indicate the presence of a few additional animals further south in the Selkirk range. Because of terrain these mountains have, heretofore, withstood progress penetration. For this reason it seems likely there must be secrets long hidden in this mountain fastness, one of which could well be that Idaho actually has a few more caribou than are known to range on Continental mountain.

Although recent information may lead to an assumption caribou numbers are increasing there are no facts on hand to bear this out. What has been determined is the animals still range in northern Idaho, and their numbers are small enough to still make their position precarious.

Russ Say Only Plant Life Pictures Taken

MONTREAL (CP)—A Russian scientist arrived here by air Tuesday night from the Canadian Northland where he took photographs around a radar defence installation of the Distant Early Warning (DEW) line.

White - bearded Dr. Boris A. Tikhomirov said the pictures "were only of plant life."

He was among 30 botanists from several countries who made a 5,000-mile fact-finding tour of the North before attending the International Botanical Congress that opened here Wednesday.

Interviewed at Montreal airport by a reporter fluent in Russian, Dr. Tikhomirov was asked about his photographic activities.

NOT INTERESTED

"I am a botanist," he said. "Why should I be interested in military installations; that is for the politicians."

He said all botanists who made the trip photographed flora around the radar base at Cambridge Bay on Victoria Island in the Northwest Territories. The site is 1,400 miles north of Winnipeg.

Authorities at the base allowed members of his party to take pictures "for the purpose of our study," he said.

The Russian also said he was "exceedingly satisfied" with the trip and had brought back 330 different types of plant life not found in the Russian northland.

An RCAF North Star aircraft carried the botanists on the trip. The stop at Cambridge Bay was not scheduled. The plane was to land at Resolute Bay originally but high winds there forced a diversion.

Arab Refugee Plan Rejected

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A United Nations plan to clear 1,000,000 Palestine Arab refugees out of their camps has been rejected unanimously by a conference of Arab experts.

The conference, representing all Arab League states except Tunisia, repeated the Arab demand that the refugees be repatriated to the homes in Israel from which they fled during the 1948 Arab-Israeli war. They remain one of the prime sources of tension in the Middle East.

The experts' recommendations, drawn up during a 10-day conference that ended Tuesday, will be forwarded to the Arab League foreign ministers, who meet in Casablanca Sept. 1 to work out strategy for this fall's UN General Assembly session.

Mom Whyte Opens Campaign

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte said at a public meeting Tuesday night she hopes to have $10,000 by the end of August to make a down payment on an 86 - acre tract of land where she hopes to build her new Whytehaven.

Campaigning to raise $300,000 for the new children's home, Mrs. Whyte was handed more than $200 in cash and pledges at the meeting, attended by about 50 persons.

The old Whytehaven was closed by provincial health and welfare department officials more than two weeks ago after an outbreak of hepatitis, influenza and gastro-enteritis amongst Mrs. Whyte's charges. About 107 children were removed to various shelters.

Rev. James Spiers of Winnipeg, who is assisting Mrs. Whyte in her campaign, said Tuesday night more than $2,000 has been contributed to date.

CRUELTY CHARGE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Man charged under the Cruelty to Animals Act with attempting to cut off a dog's tail with a rusty knife and a hammer will appear in police court here Friday. The black and white terrier suffered no ill effects and was later placed for adoption by the SPCA.

Acid Thrown At Representative

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional associates quoted Democratic Representative F. Thompson of New Jersey Wednesday as reporting acid was thrown on him from a passing automobile Tuesday as he drove to his office.

Stewart L. Udall of Arizona, also a Democratic Representative, and close friend of Thompson, said the New Jersey representative told him and a few others about the incide.t.

Udall said there was an acid hole through Thompson's clothing and a burn on his arm, about the size of a dime.

Thompson was quoted as saying he threw up an arm when he saw the fluid being squirted at him from a syringe and protected his face.

The Washington Post quoted a source close to Thompson as saying he had been receiving anonymous telephone threats for about two weeks in connection with his activities as a leading backer of the "middle of the road" labor-control bill in the House. The House finally dropped that bill in favor of a broader measure, after turning down a still less stringent one.

Britons Ride Prosperity Wave

LONDON (AP)—Britons were told Tuesday they are cresting the wave of a great prosperity boom that is earning them more, buying them more and making life a lot more worthwhile.

The treasury took a satisfied look at the nation's profit-and-loss account and reported:

Wages are rising, prices are holding steady.

People produce more.

Britain exports more.

Personal credit is rising—and people buy more goods with it.

Ruling Party Wins India Majority

PONDICHERRY, India (Reuters) — India's ruling Congress Party has won an absolute majority in mid-term elections in the four former French territories in south India. Final results were announced Tuesday.

Mid - term elections were ordered held in the territories after the last assembly had been dissolved following internal differences in the Congress government.

Congress won 21 of the 39 seats in the legislative assembly of the former French territories —Pondicherry, Karikal, Mahe and Yanaim—in voting held during the last week.

The Communist-sponsored People's Front becomes the main opposition party with 13 seats.

In the dissolved assembly, Congress had 20 members and support of three independents.

Kitten Shook Up After Riding Rods

VANCOUVER (CP) — Great Northern Railway officials recently discovered what looked like a case of customs-evasion, illegal border crossing and non payment of fare.

The suspect: a six-week-old kitten which apparently rode one of the axles of the diesel locomotive on the night express from Seattle.

Inspector Bert McKay of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals picked up the begrimed tabby at the CNR grease pit where he was discovered soon after the train pulled in.

The inspector reported the diminutive freeloader suffering from a bad case of the "shakes" as a result of the four-hour 150-mile ride. After a meal of milk and selected tidbits at the SPCA headquarters he still was in poor shape Tuesday.

Members of the train crew said it was impossible the kitten could have boarded the train along the route. He must have come all the way, travelling at speeds over 60 miles an hour.

Inspector McKay said the small fellow would receive a checkup by a veterinary and would be sent back if anyone claimed him.

Quake Toll In Millions

NEW YORK (AP)—Throughout history, earthquakes have claimed millions of lives. Since 1900, seven have had death tolls of 10,000 or more.

They were:

Messina, Italy, in 1908, 75,000 dead.

Avezzano, Italy, in 1915, 29,970 dead.

Kansu, China, in 1920, 180,000 dead.

Tokyo, Japan, in 1923, 143,000 dead.

Kansu, China, in 1932, 70,000 dead.

Quetta, India, in 1935, 60,000 dead.

Erzingan, Turkey, in 1939, 23,020 dead.

Police Break Up Catholic Protesters

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) Steel-helmeted club-wielding police entered Port au Prince cathedral Tuesday night and scattered a group of Roman Catholics believed to be silently protesting the government's expulsion of two French priests.

President Francois Duvalier decreed the expulsion of Father Etienne Grienenberger, rector of Saint Martial, the largest Catholic college in Haiti, and Father Joseph Marrec, for more than 20 years the pastor in the town of Saint Marc.

The president said the priests were being expelled for reasons of internal security.

A number of persons in the cathedral were arrested and several injured by police.

FAIR BUILDING OPENED

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Mayor Beth Wood of New Westminster opened the 87th annual Chilliwack fall fair Tuesday before thousands of visitors, then performed official ceremonies to open an agricultural coliseum, completed last year as the area's centennial project. The fair lasts three days.

Employment Rises to Record 6,200,000 Jobs in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian employment jumped by 153,000 to a record 6,206,000 jobs in July, the federal government reported Wednesday.

At the same time, unemployment fell off slightly to 228,000 from 234,000 a month earlier. The number of jobless in July, 1958, was 294,000.

The figure of those with jobs at July 18 topped the previous peak of 6,053,000 in June mainly as the result of seasonal expansion in agriculture. Farm employment accounted for about two-thirds of the increase over June.

In addition to those without jobs as estimated by the bureau of statistics, there were 12,000 persons on temporary layoff, down slightly during the month and comparing with 19,000 a year earlier.

NES FIGURES

With the bureau estimates, the government also released figures from the National Employment Service showing 291,513 persons registered for work at July 16. This compared with 320,927 in June and 412,332 in July, 1958.

The employment service figures contain a proportion—never officially estimated — of persons changing jobs. The bureau calculations are based on a monthly sampling of 30,000 households.

The July unemployment represented 3.5 per cent of the labor force of 6,434,000. In June, the percentage was 3.7 per cent of a labor force of 6,287,000. For July of 1958, it was four per cent of 6,314,000.

During the month, farm employment rose to 835,000 from 731,000 but remained below the 851,000 of July, 1958, in continuing a year - to - year downward trend in farm jobs.

Non-farm employment rose to 5,371,000 from 5,322,000 in June and 5,172,000 in July of last year.

The government reported that a larger number of students and other workers entered the labor market between June and July than for several years.

Many of the additional jobs were filled by the new entrants, with the result that the drop in unemployment was nowhere near the job increase in employment.

In non-farm jobs, the chief increase over last year was in the service industries. Manufacturing, trade and transportation also gained.

Towards the end of July, the government said, unemployment rose in several British Columbia areas as the result of widespread strikes and in some parts of the central provinces where plants began to shut down for stock-taking and model changeovers.

ALL LOWER

There were declines in unemployment in smaller, less industrialized areas. In almost all districts, unemployment was much lower than a year previously.

On the Prairies between June and July, the usual mid-summer buoyance boosted jobs to 1,105,000, for gains of 32,000 in the month and 25,000 in the year.

In British Columbia, the number with jobs increased by 13,000 in the month to 561,000. It was an increase of about 17,000 over the previous July. However, there was a decrease during the month in the number actually at work, because of vacations and industrial disputes. There was no estimate of the decrease.

There was no estimate of unemployment by regions, but here are the National Employment Service registrations at July 16 with those for June and for July, 1958, in brackets:

Atlantic, 30,253 (41,342—48,389); Quebec, 90,295 (98,617—128,860); Ontario, 100,023 (104,349 — 135,208); Prairies, 35,062 (39,506—44,156); British Columbia, 35,878 (37,212—55,748).

Magazine Buys Space Men's Stories

NEW YORK (AP)—Life magazine said Tuesday it has signed contracts with the seven prospective space men — The Astronauts — for exclusive rights to publish the personal stories of their experiences.

The magazine declined to say what it paid for the rights, but another Luce publication, Time, said the sum was about $500,000. The men will split it seven ways, regardless of which one goes into space first.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration made a policy ruling last May that the men were free to make any deals they wished for selling stories or plays of their personal lives.

However, all information about their official duties, as space men, must be made available freely to all media, the space agency ruled.

SUGGESTS VISIT TO U.S.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Luke Hart, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, Roman Catholic men's group, suggested Tuesday night that Pope John visit the United States. Speaking at the annual meeting of the Supreme Council, Hart said it would be "a wonderful thing if His Holiness could in some way find it possible to grace . . . the dedication of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception." The shrine is in Washington, D.C.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

N Z T S N A K H D T J G F Z E N H J H O J D S K H G Z N X T E K H — G H E D J H.

Market Trends

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices gave ground again Wednesday although a late rally cut losses about in half.

Turnover totalled 3,050,000 shares.

All sections of the list joined the comeback.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks slipped $1.60 to $227.30, its lowest point since June 26.

American Motors was most active, dipping ⅛ to 42½ on 59,300 shares.

Anaconda, hit by a strike, skidded ⅞. International Nickel also lost ⅞.

Among the Canadians, Aluminium Ltd., Canadian Pacific and Dome Mines lost ⅝ each, Distillers Seagrams, Hudson Bay Mining, McIntyre Porcupine and Walker Gooderham dropped ½ each, Granby Mining ¾, and International Nickel ⅞.

TORONTO (CP) — A late rally greatly reduced industrial losses Wednesday but failed to erase them completely as the stock market closed down for the fifth session in a row. Trading was moderate.

Industrials, off seven points in mid-afternoon trading, cut their losses to slightly more than 2¾ points on index.

Active speculatives generally were easier. Four of the five most active were down pennies. Central Patricia dipped 15 cents at $1.90.

Typical of the industrial recovery was Steel Company of Canada whose early 1⅞ loss was converted to a ⅜ gain at 82¼.

Senior mines were down in base metals. International Nickel slipped 1 at 95½ while Hudson Bay was down ¾ at 52. Uraniums were mixed as Gunnar dipped ⅜ at 13 but Consolidated Denison added ⅛ at 14.

Seniors were down in western oils. Hudson's Bay was off ¾ at 16½ while Central Del Rio dipped 35 cents at $6.40.

We of the junior girls' camp woke up with the birds and could hardly wait to get started. Jerks weren't too welcome but we hurried through them before flag raising. In the dining hall the cooks warmed us up with hot porridge and cocoa before we went down to chapel. Cabin 5 led the service, which was based on the Ten Commandments. Those who took part were Dianne Barnes, Shannon Hulton, Norma Renmark and Ruth Mitchell.

After dishes and chores we were assigned to our Bible study groups. Our Bible study this year is based on the Bible and how it can guide us in our daily lives.

Next came handicraft groups — six groups making foam rubber slippers while two groups take lessons in water safety. These groups will rotate so all groups will have a turn at both.

Following dinner, rest hour and swimming, there was great excitement as everyone prepared for a backward supper. In addition to the variety of costumes, we found that supper was served backwards, starting with fruit and cake. The cabin leaders were a little late but their costumes and antics made up for it. As soon as we finished our soup, the names of the cabins were announced as follows: Cabin 1, Breezy Outlook; Cabin 2, Lazy Lodge; Cabin 3, Peachy's Palace; Cabin 4, Pinky's Pipe Shack; Cabin 5, Cosy Cove; Cabin 6, Chipmunk Inn, and Cabin 7, Monkey's Haven.

After supper, when everyone got straightened out, scheduled volleyball, softball, hiking and boating got under way. We formed a horseshoe for flag lowering and then went to campfire. After a sing-song Cabin 2 presented a fashion show with a variety of novel costumes. All too soon it was time for bed and lights out for a happy and tired group.

HAPPY DAY NO. 3 —

As it was Sunday the rising gong granted us an extra hour of sleep. After breakfast and quick chores everyone dressed for church service.

Cabin 2 was in charge of the service. Those taking part were: Linda Johnston, Mary Jean MacLeod, Heather Ashworth, Louise Towler, Jean Carter, Cecilia Grubisic, Cheryle Doubt and Kathleen Morrison. Mrs. Bennett gave a talk on the importance of rules to live by, as based on the Ten Commandments. The cabin leaders formed a choir and sang "I Would Be True".

After church cameras were busy taking pictures of everyone in their dresses. The sun was dodging between the clouds so we tried to take advantage of the clear periods.

Dinner was wonderful, with roast beef and strawberry shortcake. When rest hour was over a few brave girls went swimming in the slightly choppy water. Others played ball with the leaders before supper.

After supper activities got under way. Competition is keen in volleyball and softball as each cabin tries to build up their points for the big K's.

At campfire Cabin 3 entertained with a skit, "The Viper", and Donald Daly led one of the songs.

HAPPY DAY NO. 4 — We went swimming today and those who did, didn't stay in long. The others played scrub volleyball or busied themselves in their cabins.

Tonight we had a birthday supper. We all drew names yesterday and made a present for the person whose name we got. The gift could not be something that we brought from home, in other words, we had to make it from things found in camp. We laid our variety of gifts on a spare table before supper. Everyone had a piece of birthday cake which had Bernice (Bunny) Kary's name on it as she had a birthday at camp. After supper Mrs. Bennett and Bunny distributed the gifts, much to everyone's delight.

Because of the special "supper fun" scheduled activities got under way a little late. Following flag lowering we all gathered around the welcome warmth of the campfire. Cabin 4 entertained us with two skits, one taking place on an Indian reservation and the other in a candy store.

First Airmail Pilot Dies At 80

LONDON (AP) — Claude Grahame-White, Britain's first airmail pilot, died Wednesday in Nice, France. He would have been 80 on Friday.

Grahame - White founded Hendon Airport, near London, in 1910 and later sold it to the British government for £500,000 — then about $2,500,000.

Commissioned in the Royal Flying Corps at the outbreak of the First World War, Grahame-White flew on the first British air raid, against the city of Zeebrugge.

No Casualties In Island Shocks

HONIARA, Solomon Islands been reported from the outlying islands of the Western Solomon group, which suffered severe earthquake shocks Tuesday at about the same time as tremors hit the American and Canadian West.

Communications to a number of villages are poor and it may be some time before the full extent of the damage is known.

Reports recieved Wednesday from Gizo Island said houses shifted on their foundations and crockery and glassware were smashed but the over-all damage was not severe.

Laughton Wins Boos, Cheers

STRATFORD ON AVON, England (AP)—Charles Laughton put on whiskers Tuesday night to play King Lear for the first time, earning both cheers and jeers from the audience and dividing the critics as sharply.

It was the actor's second role of the Stratford Shakespeare season.

Both boos and cheers greeted Laughton when he appeared with the full company to take a curtain call. There was booing again when he came out for a solo bow, but a roar of cheering drowned out the complaints.

Most critics agreed Laughton's Lear was different.

GENIAL AND AFFECTIONATE

"Here was no gaunt and withered dotard holding on with difficulty to a few scraps of an authority no longer maintainable," said The Daily Telegraph. "Here was a genial autocrat and affectionate father who might, one was tempted to think for a moment, have been a near relative of Old King Cole."

Said The Times:

"By substituting a slightly different Lear from Shakespeare's and by abiding by the logic of his own interpretation, he makes sure of a measure of sympathy in some crises at which grander Lears are apt to grope for it in vain.

" . . . Laughton's performance is a superb essay in stage pathos. Only at the very end does it attain the level of high tragedy."

"Charles Laughton is not a great Lear," complained The New Chronicle.

"Laughton deserved the boos," The Daily Herald asserted.

Nova Scotia Fishermen Look To Million-Dollar Crop in '60

CHETICAMP, N.S. (CP)—Fishermen in this Cape Breton community hope to haul a $1,000,000 payload from the Atlantic next year.

Ten years ago the fishing fleet's profit stood at $200,000. Then came new ideas, boats and diversification. Earnings are expected to reach $850,000 this year.

New methods are clicking and the fishermen hope to have a million-dollar industry within a year.

FUTURE GOOD

Capt. Henry Aucoin of the vessel St. Theresa, a $30,000 boat built under special provincial loans, says "it's diversified fishing that holds the key to our future . . . and our future sure looks good."

The Cheticamp fleet, made up mostly of longliner-type vessels built mostly since the Second World War, roams the rich waters between the western Cape Breton shore and the Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Longliners, considered the most versatile fishing boat ever developed on the east coast, and new fishing methods have combined to boost catches and earnings.

The major step was use of a net method developed by Denmark called the Danish seine. Fishermen lay a circle of net two miles in diameter and haul on ropes until it closes into a small scoop. The fish are trapped in the centre.

Cheticamp fishermen were the first Canadians to use the method. Others are switching to it.

LOW COSTS

"It's a great way to fish," says Capt. Aucoin. Among the overhead items it eliminates is costly bait.

Maintenance cost for the gear is comparatively low "and we can catch fish where the trawlers can't," Capt. Aucoin said. Trawlers drag steel mesh equipment behind them.

Major catches are flounders and sole. But fishermen hope to use the method in the valuable cod and haddock industry.

The vessels here have been averaging $650-700 a trip.

Rioters Led by Reds, Police Claim

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Police used tear gas to repel 4,000 food rioters Tuesday at Cuddapah, in south India.

Officials said the rioters were led by Communists, and there was speculation they were retaliating for the anti - Communist campaign that brought the dismissal of the Red government of Kerala state by Prime Minister Nehru's government. Cuddapah is on the opposite side of the Indian peninsula from Kerala, a few hundred miles to the northeast.

The demonstrators entered the Cuddapah railway station and stopped the express from Madras to Bombay. They opened two locked freight cars and stole fruit.

The mob shouted demands for lower grain prices. Business throughout the town was shut down in support. Police turned tear gas on the mob and later banned meetings of more than five persons.

Roscoe Sues TV Station

SPOKANE — Ben Roscoe, former director of public relations and exploitation for radio station KXLY and KXLY-TV, has filed suit in superior court asking $139,644 damages growing out of alleged breach of contract, plus an estimated $60,000 in commissions he says are owed him.

The suit asked $100,000 in general damages, $11,700 in back salary, $1200 in expenses, $25,000 for slander and $1744 for car expenses.

Roscoe claimed damages from the alleged cancellation of the "Miss Greater Spokane Contest". The station faces another suit filed by Clara Erickson (Miss Greater Spokane) claiming $70,000 damages over the same incident.

In his 16-page complaint, Roscoe said that immediately after Richard E. Jones, former general manager of the corporations, resigned in September, 1958, the defendants breached contracts with him, although the contracts ran until 1960.

He also claimed that the corporations " . . . in an effort to justify their breach of the aforesaid contracts made various representations of a slanderous and libellous nature".

In the Miss Greater Spokane promotion, he said he had contacted officials in various Inland Empire communities as well as movie and chamber of commerce officials and that the defendants failed to carry out promises made before Jones resigned.

SASKATOON (CP)—Mayor Sid Buckwold says city police courts were partly responsible for the high rate of crime here because Saskatoon was becoming known in the underworld as a place where it is easy to receive lenient treatment in the courts.
