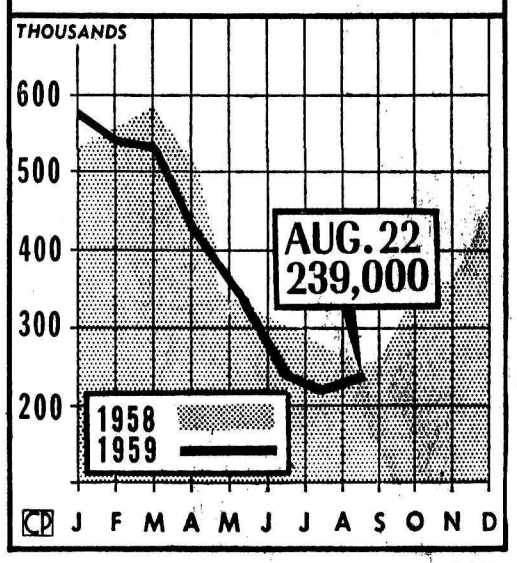
GREEN GOES OVER BIG AT UN

UNEMPLOYMENT

WITHOUT JOBS AND SEEKING WORK



TREND REVERSED — The bureau of statistics reports that 239,000 Canadians were out of work and seeking jobs at Aug. 22, up 11,000 from the previous month. The increase reversed a five-month improvement trend in the unemployment picture. In August, 1958, there were 281,000 unemployed and seeking jobs.

Proves Surprise to Press, Anticipating Stuffiness

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Howard Charles Green, Canada's new external affairs minister, went over big at his first press conference at the United Nations Thursday.

Green, 64, displayed quiet humor in parrying questions by reporters and won their hearts at one point by admitting that a particular part in his speech to the General Assembly earlier had been shoved in by somebody "just to round out the sentence."

"A lot of help came from the Canadian team on this speech, you know," said Green, whose engaging grin is somehow enhanced by a nose that is slightly off-centre, apparently because of a childhood accident.

Everything went Green's way from the beginning, when he was introduced by Stanley Ryan, a native of Vancouver, who is senior press officer for political affairs at the UN.

STOPPED BRIEFLY

His attractive wife, Donna Enid, who had listened to his General Assembly speech in the guest section, also appeared at the press conference, where Green was stopped only briefly by a correspondent's query about disarmament.

"Without disarmament, control of course would be irrevelant," the minister had said.

"What does that mean?" the correspondent asked.

"I thought it was just put in there to round out the sentence," said the tall, lean minister, smilingly.

This was slight shock to the UN press corps, whose members are inclined to watch for stuffiness among foreign ministers.

At the beginning of the session Green ended a brief staring session between him and the reporters by stating briskly:

"I just had one speech. Any questions?"

BENNETT DEFENDS GAGLARDI

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett Thursday sprang to the defence of Highways Minister Gaglardi and criticized newspapers and critics who he said were "smearing" the minister.

In a press conference he praised Mr. Gaglardi as a minister of the church and a minister of government. He mentioned his work with children in Kamloops and said he was one of the finest men in B.C. He said "thank the Lord for Gaglardi."

48 DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Airliner Crashes, Explodes, Burns In France

BORDEAUX, France (CP) — A French DC-7 airliner bound for West Africa crashed, burned and blew up just after takeoff here late Thursday night, killing 48 of the 60 persons aboard.

Twelve persons survived, many of them badly injured. The plane carried 51 passengers and a crew of nine.

Sekou Sissoko, health minister of the French Cameroons, was among the survivors. He was only slightly hurt.

Three children were among those alive. An 18-months-old boy and a two-year-old girl, escaped with only shock and minor injnries. Another boy, about 4, had a broken leg and burns.

Names of survivors given by the airport officials appeared to be all French.

Canada Urges Voice For Smaller Powers

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada moved in the United Nations Thursday for a world-wide study on radiation and also stressed that the middle and smaller powers must be heard on the question of disarmament.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green, making Canada's policy speech to the General Assembly, outlined his country's thoughts on radiation — a subject with implications reaching into the health of future generations — and said that disarmament must not be left to the great powers alone.

On radiation, Green said:

"We believe that mankind would derive relief from anxiety if the nations of the world were to acknowledge an obligation to do what they can to ensure that the worldwide physical measurement of the intensity and distribution of radiation is made as accurate and complete as possible.

"At this session the Canadian delegation intends to submit a proposal which we sincerely hope will encourage the worldwide collection of more accurate data on radiation and will provide for its central collation."

NOT ENOUGH DONE

Green told UN correspondents later that complete plans haven't been worked out but "we don't think anybody is doing enough now" in this problem.

Ideally, he said, the full membership of the UN would funnel information on radiation to a central agency, where it would be made available to scientists of the world.

On disarmament — the dominant theme of the assembly— Green said Canada is "entirely sympathetic" with Soviet Premier Khrushchev's plan for total disarmament, but he rejected the Russian's claim that the West had obstructed disarmament by demanding control and inspection.

CONTROLS TOO STIFF

Khrushchev, said Green, had suggested that the Western powers had tried to obstruct genuine disarmament by insisting on control more far-reaching than was necessary to ensure implementation and more far-reaching than they themselves were prepared to meet.

"I cannot accept this suggestion," said the Canadian foreign chief. "The record does not bear out the charge."

On another subject, Green said Canada, as its special contribution to the world refugee year, will let down immigration bars and admit a "substantial number" of tubercular refugees and their families from European camps.

Queried about this later he said:

"We'll certainly take 100 families and perhaps more."

SPECIAL INTEREST

Regarding disarmament, Green referred to Canada's position as a neighbor of both the United States and Russia in the cold war and added:

"This gives Canadians a special interest in disarmament. We believe that this goal should be pursued with determination and with patience, using whatever forum is appropriate, whether in the UN or outside."

Noting that Canada now is a member of a 19-nation negotiating committee and has been active in disarmament negotiations in the past, Green said in his speech and at the press conference that his country will strive to put forward the views of the middle and smaller powers, and also to keep the committee in close touch with the UN.

Green turned to the troubled Southeast Asian kingdom of Laos with the suggestion that the UN must find a way to express "its continuing interest" in the Indochina territory whose government claims it is the target of aggression by Communist North Viet Nam.

MUST LOOK AHEAD

"It seems to us that the UN must look ahead at this long-term future," he said. "True we have in Laos at present a subcommittee set up by the Security Council and we must await its report upon the facts of the situation there. However, the very presence of this UN body seems already to be having a pacifying effect.

". . . We for our part have come to the view that some appropriate and continuing expression of UN concern is desirable, not only in the interest of the people of Laos but also in the general interest of world peace and security."

Khrushchev Back In Washington For Crucial Talks

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev returned from his flying tour across the United States Thursday to get down to the real business of his American trip.

This is a round of intensive talks with President Eisenhower on a wide assortment of cold war problems ranging from disarmament through the Berlin crisis to fighting in Laos.

The outcome of these secret discussions, starting late today at Eisenhower's Maryland mountain retreat, Camp David, and continuing through Sunday morning, is bound to affect the course of world events in the days and months ahead.

Khrushchev, wearing a light grey suit and carrying a blue-grey felt hat, was more than an hour behind schedule after a late leave-taking in Pittsburgh, where he spent one of the happier days of his cross country tour.

For once, being late, the Soviet premier made no speech on arriving at the airport. He stepped out of the U. S. air force jet transport that bore him from Pittsburgh to Andrews air force base in 45 minutes and walked directly to the bubbletop white house limousine waiting for him.

TIRED, BUT HAPPY

Khrushchev, looking tired but happy, waved amiably and remarked to one airman: "You fly like an eagle."

In contrast to the ceremonious welcome he received at the same airport 10 days ago on his arrival from Moscow, Khrushchev was greeted more or less perfunctorily Thursday.

Eisenhower sent Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy to welcome the Russian leader back to Washington.

Only a few hundred persons were at the airport but several thousand were waiting in Lafayette Park outside Blair House, the government's official guest residence.

In the streets fronting on the White House and Blair House, and at nearby intersections, Thursday's crowds seemed more dense than at the time of Khrushchev's big reception of Sept. 15.

Government offices had emptied a good half-hour before the Russian premier's delayed arrival and thousands of government workers took up positions along the route.

MANY WAVED

On Pennsylvania Avenue, thousands who had awaited the procession for more than an hour, stood silently as Khrushchev's auto, flying the hammer and sickle, went by. However, many raised their hands in a friendly wave. The premier kept a steady return salute going out of the side window of the car.

Main events on Thursday night's schedule were a big reception at the Soviet embassy and then a private dinner with a group of businessmen.

Khrushchev came back from his trip to California in what appeared to be a happy and mellow mood. He announced at one point during the day that he was "having a wonderful time."

This was in Pittsburgh, where the Soviet premier visited a big machine factory and made a luncheon speech at the University of Pittsburgh. In the speech, he put blame for continuing the cold war on the United States.

But for the most part he appeared in high spirits.

TUTS Reported Near Bankruptcy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Theatre Under the Stars faces bankruptcy unless it receives immediate financial support from the city, said TUTS president Dorwin Baird. Mr. Baird said the theatre group needs $40,000-$45,000 to pay current bills and continue operating until the end of the year.

ENROLMENT UP

WINNIPEG (CP) — Enrolment in the University of Manitoba's faculty of education has almost been doubled from last year—105 compared with 55 last year.

Speaker Got The Red Light

KITCHENER (CP)—Traffic lights for after-dinner speakers?

They tried it out here Wednesday night at a dinner following the official opening of the new police building here. Among guest speakers was Attorney-General Roberts of Ontario.

Joseph Connell, general secretary of the YMCA, was master of ceremonies. He equipped the head table with a traffic light which he switched onto green when a speaker started. When Mr. Connell thought the audience of 325 guests "had enough" the speaker was given a red light. The idea was well received by the audience.

Twins Die In Operation

CHICAGO (AP) — Four-day-old Siamese twins were separated by surgery Thursday, but one of them died during the operation and the other within five hours.

Mary Helen Schultz failed to survive the surgery. Marie Ellen Schultz died at 8:40 p.m. CDT — four hours and 40 minutes after the operation was completed.

Children's memorial hospital held up the announcement of Marie Ellen's death until her parents had been notified.

Doctors had decided that the tiny girls, joined at the abdomen, could not live without surgery.

So a surgical team performed a three-hour operation. It was the first instance, a surgeon reported, of separation of Siamese twins in which interdependent circulation and respiration systems were involved.

Khrushchev Swaps Watch for Cigar

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Offer a fellow a cigar and you never know what may happen. If the fellow is Premier Khrushchev you may wind up with a wrist watch.

In the Mesta Machine Company plant Thursday a factory worker impulsively offered Khrushchev a cigar — one of a five-for-39-cents kind.

The Communist leader accepted it with a smile, stripped off his wrist watch and handed it to Kenneth Jackey.

If Jackey was surprised at that, he got even a bigger surprise a moment later when Khrushchev also handed him a gold medallion.

The medallion commemorates Russia's successful rocket flight to the moon earlier this month.

The wrist watch was identified by a member of the Russian party as a Zvezea Star model and worth about $125. Some other Russians said $25 to $40.

Plan City Hall

VICTORIA (CP) — Mayor Percy Scurrah moved Thursday to name a three-man committee to make a continuing study of the need for a new Victoria city hall and where it should be located.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Army officials said Thursday no trace has been found of four soldiers missing since Saturday near Fort Churchill, 610 miles north of here. The search is continuing.

Typical Farm Left In Untypical State

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—For Nikita Khrushchev, Wednesday was just a typical day on a typical American farm.

The Soviet premier was fed a typical old-fashioned farm lunch of baked ham, fried chicken and barbecued ribs—catered from Des Moines. He was ushered into a typical old-fashioned farm living room with wall-to-wall carpeting. He paused at a typical old-fashioned outdoor farm bar loaded with vodka and whisky, which was near a typical old-fashioned swimming pool.

In uproar all day, wealthy farmer Roswell Garst's place looked like a Cecil B. DeMille movie set. Soldiers with carbines at the ready guarded the hilltops, barnyards, entrances, Mrs. Garst's garden and even lurked in the rows of corn.

Photographers, reporters and TV men with mountains of equipment swarmed everywhere, scaring the sparrows out of the walnut trees, giving the livestock the shakes and thoroughly dismaying the large staff of hired hands who would have to clean up.

The damage to Garst's crops must have been considerable. Reporters are asking how he will recover the loss — from federal crop insurance?

Ross Thatcher Heads Saskatchewan Liberals

REGINA (CP) — W. Ross Thatcher, once a pillar in the CCF Party, Thursday was elected leader of the Saskatchewan Liberal Party on the first ballot.

He defeated Alex C. Cameron of Maple Creek, Wilf Gardiner of Melville and Franklin Foley of Turtleford.

The votes figures were not immediately available.

Mr. Thatcher, 42, succeeds A. H. McDonald of Moosomin who resigned the leadership because of ill health but has said he will contest the next election, expected in 1960, as a private member.

The new Liberal leader said he crossed the floor of the House of Commons in 1955, deserting the CCF Party which he had represented for 10 years, because he is a "Liberal by conviction" and had never regretted his decision.

He said the Liberal party in Saskatchewan has been "wandering in the political wilderness for 16 years" and needed a new, dynamic approach if it were to return to power.

He described the CCF, which has formed Saskatchewan's government since 1944, as an "octopus which must be killed." And to be killed, it "must be hit on the head in Saskatchewan."

Hunters Gun-Happy

SIDNEY (CP) — Deep Cove residents are up in arms about gun-happy hunters who have done $200 damage in the area, including the killing of a farm animal. They protested to the government and are setting up a club to exercise control over random shooting.

Podola To Hang

LONDON (CP) — Guenther Fritz Podola, who tried to escape trial on a novel plea of lost memory, was found guilty Thursday of murdering a London detective and sentenced to be hanged. The defence he offered was unique in the annals of English legal history.

The 30-year-old German-born photographer, a former member of the Hitler Youth who lived for a time in Montreal, was accused of killing detective sergeant Raymond Purdy, 43, July 13 while resisting arrest.

A jury in Old Bailey Central Criminal Court took only 37 minutes to return a verdict of guilty.

The death sentence was passed immediately by the presiding judge, Justice Edmund Davies.

Podola's lawyers said they are considering an appeal, which would have to be heard before an execution date is fixed by the home office.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A couple of policemen took the bull by the ears.

The bull was a Jersey — relatively young and docile — who escaped from the stockyards.

He was threading his way through heavy traffic Wednesday, startling pedestrians in the downtown section, when Patrolman Wiley Nelson spotted him.

Nelson finally caught up and leaned out the cruiser window, grabbing the bull by the ear. His partner leaped out and grabbed the other ear.

They felled the bull with a neat manoeuvre and returned him to the auction block.

GOODERHAM, Ont. (CP)—The word has gone out to all hunters in this district 60 miles north of Peterborough: Be on the lookout for a squirrel running about with protruding, oversized teeth.

The communique was issued by Bill Sarginson, veteran lands and forests department chief ranger, who lost his false teeth while on a recent cone-picking expedition. He organized a search party, but three hours' hunting failed to locate the missing teeth.

"Those (censored) squirrels must have run off with them," Sarginson growled.

STONE HARBOR, N.J. (AP)—When Jack and Tom Stack closed their 80-room hotel for the season earlier this week they left something inside: A guest.

The brothers, who are co-owners of the Shelter Haven Hotel, were sitting and chatting Wednesday when they realized the oversight.

Robert Rice, a marine engineer who had checked in to the hotel in April, had never checked out.

A trip back to the hotel confirmed the brothers' suspicion.

There was Rice, enjoying the peace and solitude of the empty hostelry.

Furthermore, he announced, he had no intention of checking out until November.

The brothers remained the perfect hosts.

They presented the hotel keys to Rice and told him to make himself comfortable.

Luck.

Mushrooms Found At Troup Deadly

Mushrooms found by Thomas Clem on the beach near Troup Junction five miles east of Nelson have been identified as Fly Agaric (Amanita Muscaria) and are termed by the Encyclopedia Britannica as "deadly poisonous."

They are fairly common throughout the country and grow in forests. An orange top skin, flecked with light brown patches covers the umbrella-shaped top.

Peeling back the skin will reveal a bright yellow centre fading to white around the edges. The underside of the umbrella and the stalk are white.

Coast Man Acting Driver Examiner

A. (Smoky) Miller from the Vancouver office of the Motor Vehicle Branch is temporarily serving as driver examiner at Nelson, with offices in the court house.

His appointment as acting examiner has come after the presumption of the death of Sydney D. A. Ballard in the Montana earthquake of Aug. 17. Mr. Ballard had held the post for the last three years. He, his wife, and their only child, a son Christopher, reportedly were killed by the earthquake while on a camping trip to Yellowstone Park.

A permanent appointment is expected to be made in the next few weeks.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED BY COMINCO

TRAIL—The appointments of Dr. T. H. Mather as assistant to the director of research and development, and of J. F. M. Douglas as manager, market research division, have been announced by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

Dr. Mather joined the company in 1930 and, after serving in various administrative capacities in the fertilizer sales division in Western Canada, became manager of market research in Montreal in 1951. Dr. Mather has recently been chosen by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations as an industrial adviser for a comprehensive study of chemical fertilizer usage and production in Asiatic countries. Mr. Douglas joined the company in Trail in 1937 and in 1955 was transferred to the head office in Montreal. He became assistant manager, market research division, in 1958.

B.C. Gov't Better Off For Columbia Sharing

Liquidation of the net debt has placed the provincial government in a better position financially for sharing in Columbia River hydro development.

Speaking as a member of the provincial treasury board, mines minister Hon. Kenneth Kiernan mentioned this Thursday in an address to the Chamber of Commerce on financial policies of the Social Credit administration and the distinction it draws between net debt and contingent liabilities.

It was largely a reputation of Opposition claims that the province was not rid of its debts with Premier Bennett's bond-burning ceremony at Kelowna this summer and that nearly all of the province's contingent liabilities are actually direct responsibilities of the provincial treasury.

The British Columbia government is committed to participation in the Columbia River development and the cost will be hundreds of millions of dollars, Mr. Kiernan said.

He inferred that the province would have had little hope of raising the money for its part had it not been for the administration's "progressive policy" of liquidating the direct debt.

Wiping out of the net debt has made the credit of the province "an asset to all projects we endorse as contingent liabilities."

THREE POINTS

The government's guarantee on bond issues for contingent liabilities enables the obtaining of funds at lower interest rates, finds the most reliable bond markets, and helps build the province, he said.

The biggest contingent liability, the B. C. Power Commission, in which $200,000,000 is invested, will pay for itself, Mr. Kiernan stated. He is the commission's deputy chairman.

"There is little likelihood that the taxpayers will have to put up a cent to pay debts or interest on debts of the Power Commission."

Mr. Kiernan admitted that "the situation is rougher on the money markets than I have ever seen in my life," but predicted that this tight money situation would improve.

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway, also on the contingent liability list, has been turned into a paying business and an instrument for opening up parts of the province.

He denied that bridges built under the Toll Bridge Authority—another contingent liability—are not making money, averring that "some of these bridges are doing very well, the Lions Gate, for instance."

"GOOD SENSE"

Summing up, he said the provincial government's guaranteeing of bond issues for contingent liabilities was not only "good sense" but also a practical application of a "good credit rating."

Mr. Kiernan was introduced by H. E. Doelle, president of the Chamber of Mines of Eastern B.C.

Other guests at the luncheon meeting, first of the fall season, were Hon. W. D. Black, MLA for Nelson-Creston; Brigadier-General G. A. McCarter, civil defence co-ordinator for the province and James McLeod of Vancouver.

An application for membership from Blair Scott of Kootenay Bay was approved.

Proceeds from a mystery show to be held tonight and Saturday in Capitol Theatre will help local crippled children, officials of the sponsoring Shrine Club said Thursday.

Four children from the Nelson District are being helped by the Shrine Club in such ways as the provision of transportation to and from the Shriners' Hospital in Spokane where they are receiving treatment.

J. F. PEARSON DIES AT 76

Resident of this district for the past 35 years, Johan Fred Pearson died at Mount St. Francis Infirmary Thursday morning at the age of 76.

Born in Sweden, Mr. Pearson emigrated to Nelson in 1924 and worked in mining and logging camps in the Slocan Valley. He is survived by a sister and niece in Sweden.

Junior College Issue Seen Very Much Alive

There is still a great deal of interest in the junior college movement in this province.

This is the conclusion of G. H. Lee, L. V. Rogers high school principal, who recently attended a conference in Vancouver sponsored by the University of British Columbia Alumni Association. He was chosen by Nelson's Junior College Committee to attend, when a request for representation was made by the Alumni Association.

Dr. N. A. M. Mackenzie, UBC president, main speaker, discussed problems connected with establishment of junior colleges with delegates from Kelowna, Nelson and Vernon, three cities which have proposed these institutions. Dr. Mackenzie reiterated his opinion that financing of UBC and the present public schools should come first, but that junior colleges merited consideration when conditions warranted them.

The confrence learned of progress in the UBC development fund and future building plans. One opinion unanimously agreed upon was that students from the interior attending UBC should be subsidized.

NEW POST. Michael Stewart, above, forester with the B.C. Forest Service in Nelson Forest District in research, will join the staff of Kootenay Forest Products Oct. 1. Mr. Stewart, who obtained a degree of bachelor of science in forestry at the University of Wales and later his master of forestry diploma from Oregon State College, joined the Forest Service in 1952 at Victoria. During the Second World War he served in the Royal Navy. He took up residence in Nelson in 1956.

She was married in Arran in 1900 and continued to live in the district until 1930 when she and her husband moved to Glade. In 1957 they went to Krestova. North's Riches Almost Untouched – Kiernan

The vast potential of British Columbia's north was shown to a rapt audience Thursday night by Hon. W. K. Kiernan, provincial minister of mines.

Using color slides taken in the vast area north of Prince George over the past three years, he illustrated the need for roads and rail lines through the region.

To open up the "tremendous potential" of the Casiar asbestos mine, a road is being built from Stewart, B.C.'s most northerly port, to Dease Lake, Cassiar and the Alaska Highway.

The road will cut more than 200 miles from the present shipping route, allowing the mountain of asbestos to be exploited to the fullest extent.

Oil and natural gas, life bloods of today's transportation, were also discussed by Mr. Kiernan as he showed the audience the potential of the Peace River district, the only area in B.C. where these fuels are being produced.

400 WELLS DRILLED

He noted that of the 400 wells drilled, 60 are producing natural gas and 140 are producing crude oil.

"Without drilling any more wells in the area, we would be able to produce a total of 50 million barrels."

The natural gas from the district is now being distributed to homes and industry all over B.C. through the recently completed 30-inch pipeline which stretches to Vancouver. This line is carrying 450 million cubic feet of gas per day, and could carry more, he said.

In closing his talk, Mr. Kiernan stated that "the surface has just been scratched.

"Anyone wanting to develop in the north must have four things — money, ingenuity, courage and know-how. Without these, he would lose his shirt."

The meeting, attended by 40 persons, was held at the Legion under auspices of the Nelson-Creston Social Credit Association.

Top Militia Men Invited To 54th Dinner

Military brass of the district will arrive in the city today.

High-ranking officers of the 24th MAA Regiment, with headquarters at Trail, will pay tribute to the men of the 54th (Kootenay) Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary force, at the latters' 20th annual reunion at the Legion.

The First World War veterans and the militia men will meet around the banquet table, swap yarns and listen to speeches. Later formal inspection of the 111th battery will take place at the Armory.

MAYOR TO SPEAK

Mayor T. S. Shorthouse will be keynote speaker at the 54th Association's banquet, and will also inspect the battery.

Creston Presbyterians To Mark 50th Anniversary, Dedicate Hall

CRESTON — Sunday will be a red letter day for Presbyterians in Creston when services are held marking the 50th anniversary of the church and dedication of the new church hall.

Fifty years ago this September the present church building was opened. Sometime later the congregation was presented with a bell which is still in use, by Dr. T. B. Kilpatrick of Toronto, who had laid the cornerstone in April, 1909. In 1939 and then in 1950 the sanctuary was enhanced by two memorial windows, one in memory of the late Dr. G. B. Henderson and the other in memory of the late S. A. Speers and his son Arthur.

Services under Presbyterian auspices actually began before 1909 with ministers coming from Moyie. A Sunday School was begun about 1902, organized by Mrs. J. W. Dow who was an active worker in the church until she left for Vancouver in 1954.

Of the three elders who were elected to the Kirk-session when it was organized in 1921, only M. J. Boyd remains. Many ministers have served St. Stephen's over the years, the longest pastorate being that of Rev. N. G. Robertson, now of St. Paul's Vancouver who served from 1946 to 1954. The present minister is Rev. R. M. Pollock who arrived in June 1955.

MODERATOR TO PREACH

On Sunday the moderator of Synod, Rev. J. Murdo Pollock of St. Paul's, Mission City, will preach at the anniversary service in the morning and at the dedication service in the afternoon. Also on hand will be the Rev. E. McKinlay of St. Andrew's, Kimberley, who as moderator of Presbytery will take part in the afternoon service.

The new hall which was built primarily to meet the needs of the church school and youth activities is adjacent to the church and overlooks the Creston flats. Its large front window with a Celtic cross has brought forth many complimentary remarks from tourists and others who now consider it a landmark. The hall has a large activity room, a modern kitchen, a lounge, classrooms and minister's study.

RAGG INDUCTED AS MINISTER AT CASTLEGAR

CASTLEGAR — Rt. Rev. P. R. Beattie of Kelowna, Bishop of Kootenay, officiated at the induction here of Rev. H. I. G. Ragg, new minister of St. Alban's Anglican Church. Mr. Ragg succeeds Ven. B. A. Resker, Archdeacon of Kootenay, who has retired after serving the Castlegar, Kinnaird and Robson area, and now lives at Balfour.

Assisting at the ceremony were Canon W. J. Silverwood of Nelson, who read the proclamation; Rev. E. H. Paterson of Trail, as Bishop's chaplain, and Archdeacon Resker. The sermon was delivered by Mr. Ragg's father, Rt. Rev. H. R. Ragg.

Also present were Canon G. W. Lang of Nelson and Rev. William Edington of Kokanee parish.

Mr. Ragg has come to the parish from The Pas, Man., where he served for four years.

The ceremony was followed by a social at which the new minister met members of his congregations.

Power Consumption Climbs at Cranbrook

CRANBROOK — Consumption of electricity on the city's distribution system last month amounted to 1,288,380 kilowatt hours, up 25 per cent from the same month last year. The increase is attributed to capacity operation of lumber producers and to 93 more meters, most of them domestic, this year.

Equipment for the new substation, to bring to three the city's substations from its East Kootenay Power and Light Company supply source, is expected to arrive and be installed next month. The equipment was provided for in a $78,000 debenture bylaw approved several months ago. This will be just in time to meet the increasing winter demand which is beyond capacity of the present two substations to supply.

No Place For Fatalism, Says CD Official

CASTLEGAR — "Something can be done in the event of a nuclear attack on this country," Brigadier J. Lister, assistant civil defence co-ordinator for British Columbia, told a civil defence study form here.

"We must not take the fatalistic view that it would be the end, because by being prepared for an attack and aware what to do in such an event, the majority of the people would survive."

It is essential that leaders at all levels of government be fully cognizant of the dangers of an attack and ready to put into action well-planned operations for survival and protection of citizens, he said.

People themselves should know methods of self-preservation, and for others, an emergency supply of food to last a week, a reserve of gas and if possible, a fall-out shelter.

Brig. Lister commended Castlegar and district for strongly supporting civil defence, and praised the officer, Steve Jankola, and the co-operation of Jack Bainbridge, hospital administrator, and Mrs. C. R. Higgins, superintendent, for their plans for dealing with a major disaster in the area and for expanding hospital facilities.

The plan, which would involve with up to 60 casualties, twice the normal hospital capacity, was explained in detail. Mr. Bainbridge said he hoped to stage an exercise before the end of this year according to the plan.

South Slocan Girl Gains Another Award

SOUTH SLOCAN — Local 999, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, with headquarters at South Slocan, has announced that the winner of its $150 scholarship is Jean Street, daughter of union member James Street.

L. R. Hammond, chairman of the union scholarship committee, said the award will be held in abeyance for one year, until Miss Street enters an institution of higher learning of her choice. She is a June graduate of Mount Sentinel high school, and is now attending grade 13 at the Nelson L. V. Rogers high school. She is also winner of a $200 scholarship offered by the South Slocan School and Community Club.

The local 999 scholarship is open to any graduating child of one of the local's members throughout a wide area from the East Kootenay to Princeton and the Okanagan. The award has been offered for three years, though this is the first time any applicants have come forward or a winner been named. Information and application forms have been distributed to all the high schools attended by members' children.

CS UNHAPPY

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson said Wednesday night there is uncertainty and unrest in the federal civil service because of the government's "indecision" in the matter of increasing government workers' salaries. He also told a Liberal election rally that the morale of the service had dropped because of the government's reported decision to establish a royal commission to check the efficiency of the civil service.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP

NANAIMO (CP)—The British Columbia division of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society announced Wednesday that Felicity McEwan of Nanaimo is among four high school graduates who have each won $500 bursaries from the organization.

Kimberley Library Shut, Quarters Sought

KIMBERLEY — Kimberley City Council is studying a brief calling for immediate action to put the library back into operation and for long-term planning for the institution.

With sale of property which accommodated the public library and temporary quarters proving unsatisfactory, the Library Association ordered closure until suitable quarters are found.

The brief, presented by Association chairman A. E. W. Day, states that besides an immediate location, a definite plan for the future should be provided if Kimberley is to have library facilities comparable with those of other cities of its size.

Mayor Clifford Swan told representative W. Evans of the Ambulance Association he would try to reply within 30 days to his group's request for accommodation for an ambulance now parked outside the fire hall in a reserved parking area. Mr. Evans said it is increasingly difficult to operate under the present arrangement.

A request from fire chief J. Dickens for a deputy chief was turned down.

Concert Group Opens Drive

CRANBROOK — East Kootenay Civic Music Association has launched its drive for enlistment of pre-paid members for the 1959-60 season of four or five concerts at Cranbrook and Kimberley.

The Winnipeg Civic Ballet Company will appear at Kimberley Oct. 10 for the first program in the series. Other artists will be selected by the Association's talent committee on the basis of membership balloting.

A membership of more than 1000 persons is expected between the two cities. The campaign closes at the end of this week.

Opinions Worth Considering

Ever since the beginning of the cold war there has been a disposition on the part of the West to ignore any statement by the Russians. There is still that disposition on the part of Americans. They seem to consider that Mr. Khrushchev's remarks are always propaganda and hence not worthy of examination.

It is highly exasperating to the unbiased observer to find that the Soviet premier can come up with a highly imaginative and probably entirely impracticable plan for disarmament while the West has not since the cold war began done anything more than insist on the status quo. At the same time as the plan is poohpoohed no account is taken of the possible validity of Mr. Khrushchev's assertions.

This is so particularly in the case of West Germany. When he says that twice in the lifetime of one generation America has had to send her sons to the field of battle in Europe, he is speaking a truth which has been bitterly ground into the heart of Germany's neighbors. Remembering Belsen and Buchenwald, other Europeans have as little use for a defeated Germany as they have for Communism. Germany has never been a friend to anybody; she has simply and solely been concerned with her own advantage.

When Mr. Khrushchev says that certain quarters in West Germany were harboring plans for setting Russia and the other powers at loggerheads, disturbing the relations between them and keeping the world in a state of tension, he is only stating what many European observers believe. They have been much perturbed by evidences of Fascism and the belligerence that goes with it.

It is time we considered European opinion. It is evident that the British do not approve of Americans' refusal to consider what Mr. Khrushchev says, and to counter what he says by referring to the action in Hungary and to what is happening in Asia may make a good argument but does not bring agreement between the East and West any closer. Yet this is needed desperately.

Germany will continue to be a stumbling block to peace between Russia and the West, but it might soften the United States stand on the matter if she realized that many Europeans would be quite happy to have them under Communist rule. They do not trust the Germans.

However, a great deal can be done to ease the tension by confining talks to essentials, by conceding some points to the Russians and by admitting that we are not always right or the Russians right. In other words a little of the common politeness used in conversation might be of value.

Interpreting the News

By KEN SMITH

Premier Khrushchev's special brand of diplomacy — saying in public what no other world leader would even consider saying — has rarely been used as adroitly by the Russian leader as during his U.S. visit.

He has used the technique for years and, by throwing out political bombshells at cocktail parties and other informal meetings, has succeeded in keeping the Western world wondering what comes next.

But, by making a great show of temper in the face of what he considers improper questions during his present tour, he has forced the U.S. government for the moment into the position of pretending that many of the specific points of Western opposition and criticism of communism are better left alone and ignored.

By threatening to cut short his tour and return to the Kremlin, Khrushchev manoeuvred the state department and the White House into calling on people meeting the Russian premier to restrain their questions.

Agitated by the thought that a Khrushchev whose ire is up might erase any hope of a fruitful meeting this weekend with Eisenhower, the White House branded as "discourtesies" questions about such things as Hungary, censorship, Communist expansion and domination of the satellite countries.

These and other points of East-West tension undoubtedly will be raised and raised strongly by Eisenhower during his private weekend meeting with Khrushchev. But the government's call for silence meanwhile comes as a distinct switch in a country where little in politics is private and nothing sacred.

There are signs that Khrushchev's slips of tempers were deliberate. He has proved many times that he is as adept as the next politician when he wants to be at turning aside or slipping past awkward questions.

He could easily have done so on each of the occasions during his trip when he instead replied with a show of temper.

Some observers following him have suggested that all his outbursts are well-timed pieces of acting, designed to get headlines throughout the world — as they have indeed done.

It could be a way of displaying him to the rest of the world as a man wanting peace and seeking friendship, but being rebuffed by boorish Americans who don't know how to act properly.

Although Khrushchev has been subjected to some tough heckling and loaded questioning by his audiences, it is doubtful if he has been given a tougher time than were Prime Minister Macmillan and Vice-President Nixon during their visits to Russia.

Khrushchev himself delivered a strong attack on the West while Macmillan was in Russia, and then at the last minute cancelled a trip he was supposed to take with Macmillan — hardly polite treatment of a guest.

Nixon was met with a steady barrage of questions from hecklers about U.S. foreign and military policies.

But both these Western politicians at least managed to keep a smile on their faces. And neither threatened to fly home.

Husbands Beware

There are sinister developments on the home front.

A recent report from the prefabricated housing trade reads:

"With new roof trusses taking the weight off partitions, the housewife of the future will be able to move interior partitions around to suit herself."

The picture conjured up of the little woman tossing walls around is, of course, false. You know who will move those interior partitions around to suit the housewife. The new roof trusses may take weight off her partitions only to load it on her spouse.

This project opens up whole new worlds for the cartoonist and the jokesmith. These hungry fellows are bound to make use of the new development to dust off and re-run all those threadbare items about husbands moving pianos, or husbands tripping over furniture shifted during the daytime.

This aspect of our brave new world is a daunting prospect.

F. B. Pearce. . . . . Writes

Our editor has handed me a letter postmarked Nelson and surcharged "Help Retarded Children."

Here is the letter:

R.R. 1
Nelson.

Dear Editor:

I am so glad Mr. Pearce is not taking any notice of that nasty old man from Ymir because next to the ten cent comics I like reading Mr. Pearces fairy tales best. When my Dads paper comes I always look for Mr. Pearces column even before I read the funnys.

Yores Truly,
Freddy Wilson (Grade 4)

God bless you Freddy, your tears brought letters to my eyes. No, no I mean your letter brought tears to my eyes. It is so nice of you to write to me. Fancy you being able to read my column. That's very good for a boy in Grade four, but did you write the letter yourself or did you get your grandfather to do it for you?

It is not that I am a suspicious person Freddy. I am really a quiet and unassuming person, open-hearted and ready to believe anyone, but the way you make your capital M's interest me. They are so like those my first teacher taught me 60 years ago back in England and I haven't seen any in Canada since I came. You have no idea how it brings back the atmosphere of that class room in my native town. I can almost smell the wet clothes.

Then of course there is that Greek "e". You know, like a figure 3 written backwards. They don't make them like that today. But you should be careful my boy. You don't want to get into bad habits. I'm sure your teacher would not approve so let's have a true Canadian one which can't be told from an "a" or an "o".

Now, Freddy, I'm sorry but you should not get into the bad habit of being rude to the aged and infirm. The gentleman at Ymir is not a nasty old man. He is a worthy person and entitled to every courtesy, even if I do not always agree with him. And that, Mr. Wells, is not nonsense.

No. I don't believe the letter was written by a Grade 4 boy — though it may surprise you to know that there are children in the elementary schools who read my columns. I think it was written by someone nearer my own age. But with all due respect to the writer I think he should have signed his own name. It is not exactly cricket to write a letter like this.

Euphemisms

A euphemism is a mild or indirect word or expression used instead of one which would be more unpleasant, even though more accurate. Social workers seem to spend a good deal of time thinking up euphemisms.

"Juvenile delinquent" is a case in point. It was originally coined to take the place of such expressions as "young criminal" in an effort to aid youthful offenders.

But now, according to delegates at the Canadian Bar Association meeting in Vancouver, juvenile delinquent has become a dirty word. Somebody needs to coin a new term, or at least make juvenile delinquent apply only to those charged with serious crimes.

This is the fate of all euphemisms. As soon as the general public finds out what the expressions really mean, the expression becomes useless and a new one must be found.

Reality keeps breaking through the camouflage of language and when it does, the euphemism not only sounds as bad as the original term but it makes the thing described sound worse since it is obvious that somebody thought it was too terrible even to talk about under its own name.

It would be better if we could bring ourselves to say what we mean, simply and directly, and devote our efforts to changing the unpleasant realities rather than the unpleasant words.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Scotland Yard Looks Into Home Loan Firm

LONDON (Reuters)—Scotland Yard fraud investigators Thursday studied the books of a big home loan company while anxious investors crowded the company's London offices.

The mortgage company, known in Britain as a building society, advanced loans to a group of companies suspended three days ago by the London Stock Exchange.

Detectives were sent to the offices of the State Building Society Wednesday following an announcement that £3,900,000 of its money was on loan to companies controlled by 54-year-old Harry Jasper.

More than 100 of the 17,500 small investors who had invested in the society clamored for their money back.

The Building Societies Association, of which State is not a member, said Wednesday night it believes a large proportion of State's funds have been advanced to one group of property - holding companies.

This, it said, was "not in accord with the true function of a building society which is to make advances on individual houses for owner occupation."

British Sentence Gunman to Death

LONDON (CP) — Guenther Podola Thursday was convicted of murdering a London detective July 13 and sentenced to be hanged.

The guilty verdict was returned by a jury of 10 men and two women after a two-day trial in the Old Bailey.

The jury was out only 35 minutes.

As soon as he had received the verdict, Justice Edmund Davies placed on his head the strip of cloth symbolic of the black cap long used in handing down death sentences in British courts.

The death penalty has been abolished in Britain except for a few specified offences including the murder of a policeman in the execution of his duties.

COMPELLING EVIDENCE

Addressing Podola, the judge said:

"You have been convicted on evidence of the most compelling character and certainty of the capital murder of Raymond William Purdy, a police officer acting in the execution of his duty, by shooting him down in the prime of his manhood.

"For that foul and terrible deed but one sentence is prescribed, and that I now pronounce."

The judge did not set a date for the execution. Podola's counsel said an appeal will be considered.

Podola, who spent some time as a photographer in Canada, was accused of shooting Detective Sgt. Raymond Purdy, 43. Purdy and another detective were attempting at the time to arrest the 30-year-old Podola on a charge of making threatening phone calls demanding money from Mrs. Verne Schiffman, a television actress and model.

Podola, testifying earlier in his own behalf, told the jury he could offer no defence because "I have lost my memory."

"I cannot put forward any defence," said Podola, who pleaded not guilty Wednesday.

"I cannot remember the crime. I do not remember the circumstances leading up to events or to this shooting.

"I do not know if I did, or whether it was an accident, or an act of self-defence."

After a nine-day "trial within a trial" which preceded the trying of the murder case, a previous jury decided Podola was faking loss of memory and was fit to face the charge.

At the start of the trial Wednesday Podola's counsel, Francis Lawton, said the German was persisting in the loss-of-memory claim and had been unable to offer any suggestions for his own defence.

He said the defence would offer no evidence.

Meany Shouts Down Speaker During Segregation Discussion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Organized labor has decided to maintain a soft - persuasive approach to curbing racial discrimination within United States unions instead of adopting a hard, mandatory ban.

That is how a torrid debate wound up Wednesday night at concluding sessions of the AFL-CIO convention in a showdown over union racial discrimination practices.

The dispute pitted George Meany, AFL - CIO president, against Philip Randolph, Negro chief of the Sleeping Car Porter's Union and an AFL - CIO vice-president.

Randolph demanded elimination of racially segregated union locals. Meany said he deplored discrimination as much as any one but opposed punitive action against locals that have democratically chosen for decades to remain segregated.

MEANY EXPLODES

Finally, with Meany shouting from the rostrum and Randolph from a floor microphone, Meany exploded:

"That's your policy. Well it's not my policy. I'm for the democratic rights of Negro members to maintain a union if they want to.

"Who the hell appointed you as the guardian of all the Negro members in America?"

Randolph protested: "Just a minute, Brother President. I think you—"

Meany: "You talk about tolerance.

Randolph: "Just a minute, Brother President."

Meany: "I've asked, do you think this union should destroy locals that have lasted so many years despite the fact that the members want to maintain them? And you call it democracy? Well it's not my type of democracy."

Randolph: "Mr. President—"

Meany: "Because those Negro members have the same rights of any other members of this federation. Even though you think you should think for them."

Randolph: "I would say this, Mr. President, and we don't have to become emotional about it: I don't believe members of a union have the right to maintain a Jim Crow local."

Meany: "Well, I believe that a group of members of a Negro union that want to stay the way they are, have a right to stay that way."

Randolph: "Well, what about a group of members in a union that want to have a Communist-dominated union?"

Meany: "They can't have it and belong to this federation."

Randolph: "Well they ought not to have it as a Jim Crow local either."

Meany: "That's where you and I part company, Phil. I think these Negro members have the same rights. They have the right to think for themselves."

Randolph also lost an earlier push to fix a deadline for two railroad unions — the Trainmen and Firemen—to fulfill pledges to eliminate color bar membership provisions from their union constitutions.

Meany said organized labor in the last two decades has whittled down from over 20 to only three —the two rail unions, plus the airline pilots—the number of unions having color bars. He said unions gradually are eliminating discrimination, and drastic steps would only stop that progress.

Expelled Seamen To Appeal To Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four seamen who were expelled from the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) for allegedly joining a rival union are taking their case to court.

Ernest Jrak, Donald Alarie, Arthur Palmer and Bill Thomson were accused by the SIU of joining the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CLC).

They are suing the SIU for a declaration that the expulsion was illegal and to recover damages for being deprived of employment.

Until last week they worked on the Clifford J. Rogers, a vessel operated by the British-Yukon Navigation Company between Vancouver and Skagway, Alaska.

The two unions have been fighting for bargaining rights for seamen on the West Coast for nearly four months.

Saskatchewan Liberals Get Ready For Election

By R. J. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's Liberal party will fight the next election with many of socialism's weapons.

Pre-paid medical and surgical services for all, improvement in wages and hours for the working man, extensive highway building, more aid to education, greater development of natural resources . . .

All these were promised Wednesday as the party's leadership convention nailed down the planks in the platform it will present to the voters in the election expected in 190.

CHOOSE NEW LEADER

The Liberals, out of office since 1944 when the socialistic CCF party swept into power, also will fight the election with a new leader, to be chosen today. They will choose from among four candidates:

W. Ross Thatcher, Moose Jaw hardware merchant who left the CCF party in 1955; A. C. Cameron of Maple Creek; Wilf Gardiner of Melville and Frank Foley of Turtleford.

Voting is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. MDT. On each ballot, the candidate with the lowest number of votes is required to withdraw.

A. H. McDonald of Moosomin, leader since 1954, is retiring because of ill health but not from the legislature. He told the convention he has reconsidered an earlier decision and will run again in Moosomin if nominated in 1960.

BROUGHT TO LIFE

The convention came alive Wednesday afternoon when Mr. McDonald made his farewell speech as party leader. His emotional address won a standing ovation from the delegates.

In a free-swinging speech he blasted present policies of the provincial and federal governments, objected to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States, opposed subsidies or protection for Canadian agriculture and industry and urged a country-wife return to the principles of liberalism.

The retiring leader recalled past "bickering and dissension" in the party and, in promising his support to the new leader, called for a united front to ensure victory at the polls.

The party's labor plank includes a right - to - work clause and pledges to improve wages, working hours and working conditions. It guarantees private enterprise freedom from regulation other than in the public interest.

The right - to - work clause is tempered by a measure which would allow unions in open shops to collect dues. The clause reads:

"We propose to provide that no man shall be deprived of a job because of his not being a member of a union, by reason of expulsion or refusual of admission, and to guarantee security of unions by providing that all workers in a bargaining unit whether members of the union or not shall pay union dues to the union certified as bargaining agent for that unit, since all workers benefit by the activities of the union."

MEDICAL PLAN

The public health plan contends that most of Saskatchewan's existing health services were established under Liberal legislation and promises that a Liberal government will establish a province-wide plan of prepaid medical and surgical services.

A long list of additional benefits, largely improvements upon existing provincial hospital and medical plans, also was approved.

An "aggressive" highways program was promised with an expenditure of at least $100,000,000 in the next four years. In addition, $30,000,000 would be spent on main market or grid roads.

The resolution on education said increased federal grants for education would be sought. Higher salaries and improved conditions for teachers were promised. The Teachers Super annuation Act would be revised to provide better pensions.

On natural resources and industrial development, the party promised encouragement of private enterprise opening up the province and in investing in industrial enterprises.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Four high school girls who skipped classes and succeeded in shaking hands with Premier Khrushchev were suspended indefinitely from school Wednesday.

Couple Wed in Silverton to Live in Calgary

SILVERTON — Zion United Church in Silverton was scene of a lovely Autumn wedding. Baskets of fall flowers ornamented the church for the marriage of Edna June, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Nelson, and Robin Kent Blennerhasset, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Blennerhasset of Medicine Hat, Alta.

Rev. R. Booth of Nakusp perfromed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a floor-length gown of white nylon chiffon over a hooped skirt. The fitted lace bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and lily point sleeves. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a pearl choker.

Mrs. R. Stevenson of Nakusp was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a bronze sheath dress with an overskirt of tangerine nylon chiffon. Miss Ellen Bergren of Calgary was bridesmaid in an identically styled dress of gold, with gold overskirt of chiffon.

Both wore picture hats of matching chiffon and carried nosegays of bronze and gold 'mums.

Deane Blennerhasset of Maple Creek, Sask., was his brother's best man, while his younger brother Wynn, and the bride's brother, George Nelson, ushered.

During signing of the register, Mrs. Gordon Nelson sang "I'll Walk Beside You." Mrs. T. Steenhoff was organist.

The bride's mother wore a pale blue afternoon dress with white accessories.

The groom's mother was attired in a light blue suit with pink accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

A family reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Rev. Booth proposed a toast to the newlyweds. The wedding cake was made by the bride's mother.

For going away, the bride changed to a coffee brown fitted suit with beige accessories and gold chrysanthemum corsage.

Following a honeymoon trip in the United States, the couple will reside in Calgary.

MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD McGILLIVRAY OF CALGARY

Calgary Wedding Interests Kaslo, Balfour Residents

CALGARY — The home of Mrs. J. Coptin, Calgary, was the setting of a pretty evening wedding, uniting in marriage Judith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McIntyre of Kaslo and Clifford, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McGillivray of Balfour.

The living room was decorated with streamers and pink and white wedding bells for the event, and gladioli ornamented the mantelpiece.

Rev. D. O. Reece of Trinity United Church in Calgary officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractively gowned in ballerina-length white Swiss organdy, harem-draped over taffeta and net. A pearl-trimmed tiara held her shoulder-length veil and she carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings, gift of the groom.

Her sister, Roberta, was her only attendant in a ballerina-length gown of Nile green nylon over taffeta and net. She carried a bouquet of yellow baby 'mums.

The bridegroom was supported by his brother-in-law, Gerald Durham. Wedding music was played by Mrs. June Durham, sister of the groom.

A reception was held in the recreation room. A three-tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Durham, centred the bride's table. Telegrams from Vancouver and Trail were read by Gerald Durham, and the bride's uncle, Bert Daws, proposed a toast to the newlyweds.

For her going-away outfit, the bride chose a blue jacket dress with white accessories, and wore a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

On their return from a honeymoon trip to Banff and Jasper, they are residing at 1242 Regal Crescent, Calgary.

Colorful Background of Flowers, Dress, Provides Edinburgh Conference Setting

By MRS. GEORGE WILSON
National Public Relations Officer

The Associated Country Women of the World Conferences are always colorful.

The hostess country provides characteristic background. This year in Edinburgh, flowers grown by some of the member societies—heather, blue bells, Scotch thistles and lengths of tartan — were used to decorate the places of meeting.

National dresses of the delegates added interesting color notes — women of the East in their gorgeous saris; the Welsh with tall black hats; South Africans in full skirted, lace trimmed dresses with poke bonnets; Scandinavians with striped skirts, white aprons and black bodices; and our own delegates in gay summer dresses.

The souvenir bazaar, where visitors could purchase gifts for the home folk, was gay with cloths and cases embroidered with emblems of Scotland. Knitting came from the Shetland and Orkney Islands, dolls in kilts and doll furniture padded with tartan were on sale. A cloth said to be worked by Mary Queen of Scots and a modern patch work bed cover containing 4,641 pieces made in six months by the Perthshire Women's Rural Institutes were displayed.

Food of another country, with the different ways of serving, adds color too. This year we hear of scones and jam, short bread, oat cakes and cheese being served for tea. Have you ever tasted that wild strawberry jam at Newton Moor?

In the midst of these colorful surroundings, business was carried on by this international organization, dedicated to the welfare of rural homes around the world.

An international scholarship in the field of Home Economics and Rural Welfare was set up as a memorial to Lady Aberdeen, who worked with Mrs. Alfred Watt in founding the A.C.W.W. This project was sponsored by societies from United States and the Netherlands.

The Food and Agriculture Organization will cooperate to enable qualified leaders in Home Economics to study in other countries. The scholarship will be financed by voluntary contributions from A.C.-W.W. Constituent Societies, interested individuals and from A.C.-W.W. funds.

Prizes for the essay competition, entitled "Things My Grandmother Told Me", went first to England, second to South Africa, third to Sweden and fourth to Ceylon.

For the 10th Triennial Conference in 1962, there are two essays — "Our Children and Their Games", and "How I Broaden My Horizons Through Group Contacts and Study". Again, the emphasis on home and international aspect of our programs is evident.

A resolution introduced by the Italian Rural Societies supporting a "Free the World from Hunger" campaign by the Food and Agriculture Organization was passed.

Asian delegates presented a resolution asking for suspension of nuclear tests destructive to humanity. Over 100 delegates abstained from voting. Some felt that if other nations had nuclear bombs all needed them for protection.

Baroness Elliot of Harwood, first woman to speak in the House of Lords, opened the conference. She said, "Women set the standard of home life and community life in a country."

Officers elected are: president, Mrs. F. J. van Beekoff van Selms, Holland; world vice-presidents: Mrs. Haven Smith, U.S.A.; Mrs. F. B. de Mel, Ceylon; Mrs. W. H. Cullen, Australia.

The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada presented the Associated Country Women of the World with a "Canadian Mosaic" in slides, for the purpose of exchange between member countries.

Whytehaven Opens Despite Warning

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte's controversial children's home near Bowmanville has opened again under a government warning that it must be registered properly or it will be closed.

Government officials removed 107 children from the Oshawa area home early last month following outbreaks of influenza and hepatitis. A court hearing later ruled the children had been neglected at the unlicensed home which Mrs. Whyte calls Whytehaven.

Sixteen children now are staying at the home that for the last 10 years has been a bustling refuge for needy children.

W. H. Bury of the Ontario welfare department said that unless Mrs. Whyte registered immediately, a report will be filed with the attorney - general's department for court action.

Sharon Rogerson, chief supervisor at the home during Mrs. Whyte's absence on a money-raising tour of Western Canada, said at least one relative of each child is also staying at the home. The children range in age from nine months to 12 years.

Mrs. Whyte is trying to raise the $10,000 down payment on a nearby farm where she hopes to build a new $300,000 home.

Most of the children seized in last month's raid have been returned to their parents. Some still are in the custody of the children's aid society.

In a telephone interview from Vancouver, Mrs. Whyte denied there are any children at her home illegally, or that the main purpose of her western tour is to raise funds.

"Every child at the home now has a parent there too," she said.

Mrs. Whyte added that she and her husband were "just travelling and showing slides of the children. There is no fund drive.

"Of course, we have picked up an offering here and there," she said. "But we are not seeking money."

Mr. K. Tours Pittsburg

By ARTHUR EDSON

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev toured through Pittsburgh Thursday in an open car under bright sunshine.

The chief focus of interest was a company that makes the big machines used by steel mills. In the Soviet premier's party is Nikolai A. Tiknonov, a leading figure in the Soviet steel industry.

This industrial centre is the last stop on Khrushchev's cross-country tour before he gets down to the main business of his American mission—talks with President Eisenhower on world tensions.

On one major matter—disarmament—there were reports that Khrushchev was expressing confidence that inspection controls could be worked out.

Adlai Stevenson, the 1953-56 Democratic presidential candidate, said Khrushchev told him that at Coon Rapids, Iowa, Wednesday.

In the open car with Khrushchev for yesterday's touring were mayor Thomas J. Gallagher and Henry Cabot Lodge, American UN representative.

CHEER, BOO TOO

A crowd of 4,000 to 5,000 lined the sidewalks, as Khrushchev came out of his hotel. There was some cheering and some waving of hands by spectators. There also was some booing.

Police confiscated several anti-Khrushchev signs before the premier came out. A blonde had carried one saying: "Don't forget he is a bloody-handed murderer."

A man had a sign with a caricature of Khrushchev and one word in Russian. The translation: "Murderer."

The blonde and the man told reporters they were Hungarians.

Khrushchev arrived right on schedule at Mesta Machinery Company, makers of steel mill machinery.

MORE POLICE

On the drive from the hotel, he passed hundreds of police officers who were lining the road.

There was little reaction from the crowd outside Mesta. One or two boos went up and a slightly heavier sprinkling of cheers.

Many of the 4,000 employees of Mesta were looking out the windows as Khrushchev was greeted at the door by company officials.

On his way from the hotel, he passed the huge Jones and Laughlin sheet strip mill, silent and closed by the steel strike.

Where chimneys from steel plants normally belch smoke into the sky, Khrushchev saw deserted plants.

The visit to this plant and an address to a civic luncheon were the main events on the premier's schedule here.

Canada's Wheat Market Declines

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's share of the world wheat market declined sharply last year as the porting countries increased their shipments.

Total shipments by the big four—United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia—rose by nine per cent to 934,700,000 bushels in the crop year ended July 31, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday.

However, Canadian exports fell by eight per cent to 294,100,000 bushels from 320,300,000 the previous year.

This country's share of the four-country export trade dropped to 31.5 per cent from 37.4 per cent in the previous year.

SHARE INCREASES

The U.S. increased its wheat exports by 15 per cent to 456,300,000 bushels, and the U.S. share of the market climbed to 48.8 from 46.3 per cent.

Argentina's wheat exports rose to 106,200,000 bushels from 77,600,000, increasing its share of the market to 11.4 per cent from nine. Australia's exports climbed to 78,100,000 bushels from 61,900,000, from 7.3 per cent.

Total stocks of wheat in the four countries at Aug. 1 were an estimated 2,445,600,000 bushels, almost unchanged from a year earlier.

STOCKS RISE IN U.S.

Canadian stocks were whittled down to 546,300,000 bushels from 639,500,000 during the year. U.S. stocks rose to 1,719,900,000 bushels from 1,686,100,000 and Australia's to 103,400,000 from 37,500,000, while Argentina's declined to 76,000,000 from 87,200,000.

The bureau said the forecast of a 405,000,000 - bushel Canadian wheat crop this year, if it materializes, will mean total supplies of 951,300,000 bushels for the current crop year, counting stocks at the year's start.

It would be the first time since the 1954-55 crop year that total supplies fell below the billion-bushel mark.

Employment Service Unit Finds Jobs for Handicapped

BY JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—In 1954, a grade 10 student in Vancouver was doing a private experiment with chemicals, and blew off both his hands. About the same time, a 15-year-old girl from an unhappy home was skidding downhill—in character and reputation.

Today, both are gainfully employed, and the reports in the special placements file of the National Employment Service say both are making good progress. Their employers are pleased.

These are two incidents which help point up one of the many services of the NES, which to many is better known for its connections with unemployment insurance and statistics on unemployment.

SPECIAL BRANCH

The special placements unit of NES, says H. M. MacKay has as its prime function the placement of persons with occupational handicaps.

It is not simply a problem of handling persons with physical handicaps.

"We don't deal with a physical handicap as being a problem unless it is an occupational handicap as well," said Mr. MacKay, supervisor of the Vancouver office's special placement officers, and a 16-year veteran in the service.

"Many persons with physical disabilities would be insulted if you suggested their disability was an occupational handicap."

Among the many fuctions of the special placements unit are a counselling service to advise persons on the best types of work to follow or vocational training to take; selective placement of the occupationally handicapped; guidance to school students; and placement of persons with criminal records or who have been released from mental institutions.

STEADY CHECKS

In the task of placing the occupationally handicapped, special placement officers must visit employers regularly, interest them in the possibilities of employing the handicapped, survey plants to see what jobs can be done by these people, and convince employers that all these people want is a chance to earn their own way.

In the school program, officers visit schools regularly, talking to students in grades 9 and 10 and in graduating classes, advising them on what employers expect, what they can expect and the benefits of higher education.

In placement of ex-convicts, officers visit various prisons to interview—on a voluntary basis—persons due for release.

"We interview anyone in prison who wants to see us and we hope in that way that only those who really want to make a new start will come," Mr. MacKay said. "We have had some wonderful results and some wonderful failures."

EARNED SUCCESS

In the two cases mentioned earlier, it took months of effort by the special placement officers to bring permanent employment for the two youngsters.

"It took plain, unglamorous common sense to build that girl up until 1957 when she was placed in a job where she still is working," Mr. MacKay said.

The boy's case was more spectacular. He was fitted with special hooks and was making fairly good progress continuing his schooling. His father died and he had to find work.

"He was placed in clerical work where he handles filing, telephones, machines and other tasks quite efficiently," Mr. MacKay said. "It took nearly two years, but it has worked out fine."

Bombings Mark 48-Hour Strike

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Bombings and gunfire Thursday marked the closing day of a faltering 48-hour general strike against belt-tightening economic policies of Argentina's government.

Union squads roamed various industrial sectors in an attempt to repress a growing back - to-work movement. Police arrested some troublemakers, including one they identified as a leader of the Argentina Communist party.

Leaders of about 100 unions which called the mass walkout were frustrated in their attempt to tie up the country. The trend back to work continued.

There were at least a dozen terrorist attacks in the night.

Bombs planted in two buses injured five persons. Another went off in a passenger train coach, vacated moments before by passengers when the bomb was spotted by guards. A bomb knocked out power briefly in the industrial zone of Buenos Aires.

FIRE SHOTS

Potshots were fired at vehicles moving workers to their jobs, but no injures were reported.

Two members of a metal workers union led by supporters of exiled dictator Juan Peron were captured setting off a bomb in an industrial suburb.

Security forces were reported to have uncovered Tuesday the plan for the campaign of violence and got set for action after the strike began Tuesday midnight.

Industry appeared to be the only segment of the economy hit hard by the strike. Most manufacturing plants remained closed.

Transport, partly cut Wednesday, moved toward regular operations and most shops and other commercial organizations opened their doors for a normal working day.

CF-Jet Interceptor Said Not Likely

OTTAWA (CP)—Cancellation by the United States of the projected F-108 jet interceptor makes the RCAF's chances of getting a replacement for its CF-100 jet far tougher, if not impossible, informants said Thursday.

The U.S. Air Force had planned to use the F-108 to patrol the DEW radar line in Alaska, Greenland and the Canadian Arctic.

When the Canadian government cancelled the Arrow jet interceptor program in February it said that the main Russian threat to North America would be long-range missiles and not bombers.

Defence Minister Pearkes told a reporter that cancellation of the F-108 is a "further indication of the changing threat."

Owing to the great cost of weapons, he said, even large countries like the U.S. had to be selective. Apparently American officials were faced with a choice between the F-108 and other weapons which would have a greater value as a deterrent to war.

MORE RADAR

Mr. Pearkes added that the U.S. decision was also undoubtedly influenced by the fact that steps are being taken to increase radar facilities on the warning lines. The F-108 would have operated independently of ground control radar.

He said the U.S. decision does not affect the Canadian decision to build the American Lockheed Starfighter because this plane would be used for strike and reconnaissance and not interception.

In view of the Canadian government's own previous action in regard to the Arrow and now the example of the U.S. defence department in cancelling the F-108 that the RCAF will get the replacement it wants for the subsonic CF-100, informants said.

This means that the air defence of Canada will rest with two 30-missile units of American anti-aircraft missiles not expected to be in operation until 1963.

Farmer Borrows $15,000, Pays Back $400,000

TORONTO (CP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario was told Wednesday a farmer who borrowed $150,000 found later he owed $400,000 to pay back the loan.

Russell Payton, counsel representing Mr. Douglas, said the interest rate on one of the loans made to his client was 1,125 per cent.

The defendants are Melvyn Paul Rubinoff and Daniel Stein, trustees; Sheraton Investments Limited; A. O. Ritchie and Company Limited; Harold Linden and North Penturn.

Mr. Justice George T. Walsh reserved decision on the request to have the three separate actions heard simultaneously. But he told the defendants:

"You're all in the same boat as far as I'm concerned. If you're in the same boat, you should go before the same judge."

Said Mr. Payton: "To get some $150,000, the plaintiff found he was owing about $400,000. He was paying $56,000 a year as true costs of the loan, and in the interval, the plaintiff had paid off $400,000 in interest."

Steel President's Wound Believed Self-Inflicted

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Walter F. Munford, president of the strikebound United States Steel Corporation, apparently wounded himself with a knife while in a state of fatigue and nervous exhaustion, a hospital administrator reported Thursday.

Gerard Ouellette, administrator of the Cape Cod Hospital, to which Munford was brought in serious condition Wednesday, made the announcement on the circumstances.

The 59-year-old Munford was admitted Wednesday morning with a then-unexplained knife wound in the abdomen.

The hospital has reported that Munford had a good night and described his condition as "satisfactory."

ISSUES STATEMENT

Ouellette issued this statement:

"Mr. Munford has been under the care of his personal physician for the past few weeks suffering from fatigue and nervous exhaustion. The day before yesterday Dr. O'Connor (Robert B.) and Harvey N. Jordan, executive vice-president of U.S. Steel, visited Mr. and Mrs. Munford as overnight guests.

"During yesterday morning, while getting ready to go . . . to Boston to arrange for further treatment he apparently wounded himself with a knife.

"He was immediately taken to the Cape Cod Hospital where the wound was repaired. His condition post-operatively was satisfactory. Today his progress continues to be good."

As the district attorney in charge of Barnstable County began an investigation it was learned that the injury to the steel executive remained undisclosed until nine hours after his admission to hospital.

As head of U.S. Steel, Munford's salary is reported by a reliable source to be in the $250,000-a-year bracket.

Dinis refused to answer reporters' questions about Munford's injury other than it was inflicted with a kitchen knife.

IMPOUND KNIFE

Authorities impounded a five-inch knife they found in the lavish Munford summer home, and Dinis ordered an investigation to determine if the wound was "self-inflicted or otherwise."

Dr. Robert B. O'Connor, the big steel firm's medical director, called for an ambulance at 10:15 a. m. Wednesday. A moment later, Dr. Robert E. Harned of Chatham, Mass., placed a similar call from another place in that town.

Firemen Wendell Deer and Albert Loring, who responded in the ambulance, said they found Munford lying on a couch in a first-floor den with his wife and Harned attending him.

Both O'Connor and Harned said they have been treating Munford for an undisclosed ailment for two weeks. First word that Munford had been stabbed did not come until nine hours after he was admitted to the hospital.

Munford has been president of U.S. steel since last May 5. He began his steel career as an open-hearth worker in 1923.

South American Countries Consider Common Market

By ALFONSO MAURI

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Plans for a common market to promote more rapid economic development, especially of heavy industry and the production of machine tools, are being considered by Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay.

Economic experts of these four countries, together with representatives of Peru, Bolivia and Paraguay, met recently in Lima, Peru, to consider a blueprint for a common market drawn up jointly by these experts and the Economic Commission for Latin America, a U.S. agency.

The blueprint envisages an annual reduction of eight per cent in teriffs and other trade handicaps among the signatory nations.

OPEN TO ALL

Membership in the group would be open to any nation in the western hemisphere wishing to join.

Experts believe many of the political troubles which beset Latin America could be averted by sound economies.

The project suggests the classification of traded articles into three groups:

1. Primary goods such as the products of mining and agriculture.

2. Capital goods, including capital and durable articles, ranging from industrial steel to automobiles.

3. Manufactured goods of common use.

Countries entering the common market zone would be classified in three groups ranging from those of greater industrial development, namely those which are comparatively mature in the production of articles in groups two and three, to those which can supply exclusively, or almost exclusively, commodities in group one.

NO FAST RULES

The main lines of the blueprint, including proposals for an elastic system of tariff reductions to fit the three categories of commodities and the three types of countries, may be accepted by the four sponsoring countries, Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay and come into operation next year.

No hard-and-fast rules would be established for the steps by which the individual countries would relax trade handicaps. Each member nation would be allowed to apply the reductions where it thought fit and to those articles which might best favor its position within the common market, provided that the average reduction added up to the required eight per cent a year.

Queen's Message At Christmas To Be Brief

LONDON (AP) — The Queen, expecting a baby early in the new year, will not make her usual television appearance on Christmas Day, Buckingham Palace announced.

Instead, she will record a Christmas message to the Commonwealth in advance, for sound broadcasting only. Copies will be sent to radio stations throughout the Commonwealth. The announcement said it will be a message rather than a speech, and will be shorter than usual.

The broadcast has long been part of the Christmas tradition. It was started by the Queen's grandfather, King George V.

A court source said the royal mother-to-be probably will record her message when she returns to Buckingham Palace from her Scottish residence, Balmoral Castle, next month.

The baby is expected in January or February.

The Queen appeared in good health when she visited a movie studio with her 10-year-old son, Prince Charles, this week.

Investigate Polygamy In North Utah

FARMINGTON, Utah (AP)—An investigation into polygamy in northern Utah is running into resistance but a grand jury foreman says the jury will continue efforts to stamp out the practice.

One indictment has been issued charging Gerard van Hoff with unlawful cohabitation, but Hoff has left the area.

Judy foreman Henry Frederiksen says many polygamists—he did not specify the number—have left since the jury began its investigation several weeks ago.

He says many persons who sympathize either with the idea of polygamy or the families involved have become irritated when subpoenaed to appear before the jury, or they have become what he termed "prone to defy the law."

Frederiksen says the jury will issue reports on what he calls the "unhealthy conditions" the jury has found among polygamous families.

Polygamy once had the sanction of the majority church in Utah, the (Mormon) Church of Jesus Christ of Latter - Day Saints. But the church outlawed it before Utah became a state in 1896.

Strange Object Seen Over Atlantic Ocean

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reports from both sides of the Atlantic Wednesday told of a strange object flying off the coast of Labrador Tuesday night.

The pilot of a Pan American jet airliner said he thought it might have been a space rocket. An RCAF report described it as "glowing red and with a vertical tail."

Both sightings lasted about 30 seconds and located the object about 130 miles east of Labrador.

Capt. Howard Cone was quoted by a Pan American spokesman in London was saying the airliner was at 20,000 feet when the object was sighted moving from south to north "at tremendous speed."

The RCAF report, filed to Air Defence Command at St. Hubert, Que., said the object was moving in a north-to-south direction, exactly opposite from the Pan American sighting.

A United States missile base in Maine said there were no Snark missile firings which would account for the sighting.

Saturday night several persons reported a mystery object in the skies near Moncton, N.B. Two men described it as pear-shaped and emitting a blinding light which forced one of them to shield his eyes.

New India Has No Desire To Return to Former Days

By RUSSELL ELMAN

MYSORE, India (CP) — With the flag of the Indian republic flying over his palace, the maharajah of Mysore personifies India's experiment to substitute democracy for autocracy in the former princely states.

Once ruler of one of India's best - administered independent states and one of the country's wealthiest men, the maharajah today is the constitutional representative of the president of the Indian republic and governor of Mysore.

Integration of the 554 princely states into the Indian union has been a major contribution to consolidating the unity and political stability of independent India. Their relatively speedy and peaceful transition was largely due to the strong guiding hand of the late home minister Sardar Patel.

Although states were permitted to join by choice either India or Pakistan, the logical geographical pattern of assimilation was departed from in only several isolated instances. Apart from still-disputed Kashmir, the most difficult case was the large state of Hyderabad in the heart of India, where the ruling nizam wished to establish an independent state. Civil strife broke out, the Indian army intervened and order was restored.

RULERS RECONCILED

In travelling through India today, the visitor is not likely to hear even a whisper of a desire for a return to the old days. The more important princely states and their rulers have adapted themselves to the new regime.

Hundreds of small principalities have been swallowed up in successive reorganizations of India's new states.

Mysore, whose economy prospered under benevolent maharajahs, has made further significant progress. Bangalore, its capital, is a go-ahead city of more than 1,000,000 and perhaps the fastest-growing industrial centre in India.

The old Hyderabad state has been dismembered and Hyderabad city now is capital of a new state — Andhra Pradesh. Many Moslems still live in Hyderabad but little unrest is reported. For the first time a concerted effort is being made to improve conditions among the backward rural population.

UNHAPPY HISTORY

Travancore - Cochin, which formed the new Kerala state, has had an unhappy political history. Unrest culminated in the dismissal of the country's first elected Communist state government and a re-establishment of presidential rule.

Baroda, another state widely known for its good administration, remains a leading educational centre in Bombay state. Its forme ruler, the gaekwar, is parliamentary secretary to the defence minister and manager of the Indian cricket team now touring England.

Like the gaekwar, many princes have gone into active politics. Some like the maharajah of Bikaner are prominent independent MPs. Others are members of the ruling Congress Party.

While a few former maharajahs have been content to retire on compensatory privy purses from the central government, most of the younger men have adjusted well to the new conditions in which they no longer are assured of easy incomes from large land holdings. Many now are trying to find a new road to riches in the professions or business world.

Open Special A-Studies At Blind River

OTTAWA (CP) — A special school will open Feb. 1 at Canada's Chalk River, Ont., atomic project to give Canadian and foreign scientists advanced instruction on atomic power systems being developed in this country.

The Chalk River Reactor School will place special emphasis on power reactors using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water to boil ordinary water to raise steam for electric generators.

Canada is banking on this system to produce economic electricity from atomic energy.

The school will have a class of 20 students in each 12 - week university degree in physics, engineering physics, chemistry, metallurgy or engineering. The fee for each course is 600.

Canadian scientists may obtain applications for admission to the school from the secretary, Chalk River Reactor School, Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, Chalk River, Ont.

Application forms for the first course must be received at Chalk River by Nov. 15.

Blame Strike For Drop In Fish Prices

VANCOUVER (CP)—An industry-wide strike was blamed by the department of fisheries Wednesday for a sharp reduction in the value of fish landed in British Columbia during August.

A monthly report issued by the department said that the Catch, valued at $7,564,000, was about half the value compared to the same month last year. It also said this year is an off-year in the sockeye salmon cycle.

Sockeye landings during the month were valued at $2,960,000, pink at $2,185,000, coho at $497,000 and springs at $169,000. Troll-caught fish were valued at $1,104,000.

Senator Sees Jewish Exit From Russia

WINNIPEG (CP) — Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon told Jewish-Canadians gathered here Wednesday night that it was "by the grace of God only" that they were sitting there eating a sumptuous dinner.

He referred to the diners in comparison with the millions of dead and the refugee Jews in poorer circumstances.

"You sit in these chairs tonight by the grace of God, and don't you forget it," he said at a special dinner in his honor.

The senator was addressing the Jewish - Canadians on the urgency of backing the Israel bond drive to "help build up the state of Israel which is standing out in the Middle East as a bastion of freedom among fuedal ism."

Sen. Morse predicted that in the next five years there could be a tremendous exodus of Jews from Russia.

"You'll have that problem—the great migration from Russia—to deal with."

He said the Jews would start to leave when Russia had reached a position where she had surplus food. "She's on her way to this state."

He warned that Israel would not likely have sufficient room for all these Jews.

Must Expand B. C.'s College of Education

VANCOUVER (CP)—The shortage of school teachers in British Columbia will steadily worsen unless the university of B.C.'s college of education is expanded, Dean Neville Scarfe predicted Thursday.

"We accepted all applicants this year but we have them sitting on window sills," said Dean Scarfe, head of the college. "If we don't get additional space and staff next year we will likely have to limit applications."

"We are still using the wartime huts hauled on the campus in 1956 as a 'temporary' measure. Our present staff is 70. To meet the future demand we will need at least 100."

Phil Kitley, director of teacher recruitment for the provincial government, said three per cent of secondary school teachers in B.C. are not fully qualified.

Northern Char Makes Debut in Restaurants

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FROBISHER BAY, N. W. T. (CP) — Arctic char, a centuries-old staple of the Eskimo diet, is about to join the family of seafood delicacies.

Those who have will tell you it is delicious. Except for limitations on supply, it might rank with its cousin trout and salmon in popularity.

The first fresh - frozen Arctic char was marketed in Southern Canada last year and now is available only in certain quality restaurants of Central Canada.

FEDERAL PROJECT

They are caught and handled by Eskimos under a northern affairs department project to provide the Arctic natives with a new source of cash income. They are available on the wholesale market through a Montreal broker at $1 a pound.

Char has been marketed before in Canada and elsewhere in a salted state. Preserved this way, the delicate flavor of its soft flaky meat was hidden and it was not popular.

This is the first time it has been marketed in a quick-frozen state, however, and it arrives on the table as if straight out of the water.

Within two or three years it should be available to consumers at fish markets, but it must always remain a delicacy. The northern affairs department estimates that the eventual maximum annual production of char may reach 500,000 pounds, a small amount compared to the millions of pounds of salmon, cod and other common fish caught annually.

The project began with establishment of an experimental fishery by the department last summer at this major Eskimo centre on Baffin Island, 200 miles below the Arctic Circle. The fishery was opened after exhaustive biological study to determine its commercial potential.

SHORT SEASON

In the first season 12,000 pounds were hauled in. Char are caught in quantity only in the few weeks of late July and early August during which they move down rivers from their fresh-water wintering grounds to their salt-water summer habitat.

They hit the market with a boom. A firm in the United States asked to be supplied with all it could get.

This year two more char fisheries were set up—operating as Eskimo co-operatives — at Port Burwell at the northeast tip of Ungava Bay and at George River at the bay's southern end.

Because of a breakdown in freezer equipment, purchased by the natives under the government's Eskimo loan fund, Port Burwell did not get into production this year. Frobisher and George River produced about 25,000 pounds, all that will be available on the market this year.

The northern affairs department expects that additional Eskimo fisheries will be set up in Hudson Bay, perhaps next year.

Char average three to four pounds, but run as high as 16 pounds. They live to be 20 years old. Their flesh, under greyish-black, scaleless skin, ranges from white to red. The reddest flesh is considered the best eating, but medium pink is the most usual color.

Fewer Suffer From Common Diseases

OTTAWA (CP)—Communicable and common diseases laid low fewer Canadians in 1958 than in the previous year, the bureau of statistics said Thursday.

However, cases of the liver disease hepatitis showed a sharp 80-per-cent increase to 4,516 from 3,006 in 1957.

Cases of all types of poliomyelitis rose 18.3 per cent in the year to 323 from 273 in 1957, an increase of 50. Cases of paralytic polio rose by 75.

Last year Manitoba, Alberta and Quebec had the highest polio rates.

Cases of tuberculosis fell to 7,502 from 7,979.

Foster-Mother Wins Right To Keep Children's Home

MONTREAL (CP)—Aunt Gaby Thursday won a fight to keep her 17-foster children.

Plump, cheerful Mrs. Arthur Brunet appeared in municipal court representing her husband who was charged with operating an unauthorized children's home.

But Judge Ernest Simard dismissed the case with the comment "my judgment may be too much from the heart but even judges have to be human at times."

"If more Montreal families followed the example of Mrs. Brunet and her husband there would be less juvenile delinquency."

The city brought the complaint against Mr. Brunet but the judge was told that the city welfare department is contributing $1.80 a day for five of Mrs. Brunet's "adopted" children.

In an interview later Mrs. Brunet told reporters that her home started in 1946 after she made a vow that should her husband survive an illness she would devote her life to needy children.

Mrs. Brunet's family is mostly made up of children sent to her by the social welfare court and the city welfare department. At first Mrs. Brunet and her husband paid the total cost of the children's upkeep. Now they receive small sums from the city for a few of them.

Youths Found With Gasoline Bombs . . .

New York Police Round Up 27 Boys Carrying Lethal Weapons

NEW YORK (AP) — Police rounded up 27 youths in two well - armed gangs Wednesday night, probably preventing more killing in the tense Bronx area where 16-year-old John Guzman was slain Monday.

One group of six youths, three of them over 21, were trapped by police on a rooftop with a pile of nine "Molotov cocktail" gasoline bombs, a shotgun with 22 shells, two hunting knives and a box of .22-calibre bullets.

A short time later three carloads of youths were spotted about four blocks away and caught after a five-block chase.

SECOND HAUL

This netted another 21 boys, a zip gun with two barrels on a swivel, and a switchblade knife. Some of the boys who tried to flee from the cars were seen dropping several objects into a sewer—presumably more weapons.

Deputy Chief Inspector James J. Walsh, after questioning some of the youths, commented:

"If this one had not been stopped, there would have been a couple dead tonight for sure."

Both groups of boys were arrested on anonymous telephone tips to police.

"RUMBLE" PLANNED

The rooftop ambush and the auto caravan apparently were the outgrowth of a planned "rumble" between the gang to which Guzman had belonged and the gang identified with his killers.

Edward Peres, 16, and six other teen - agers have been charged with homicide in the shooting of Guzman on the steps of a Bronx high school.

As police reconstructed it, the battle was to have been fought on a playground Wednesday night and the three carloads of youths were bound for the playground.

The six on the rooftop allegedly told police they had feared they would be outnumbered by the other group, and had decided to ambush them from the roof with their rifle and fire bombs.

Bank of Canada Interest Rate Falls to 5.85 Percent

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada interest rate fell Thursday to 5.85 per cent from 6.13 last week with the sale of $100,000,000 in 90 - day government treasury bills.

The decline of .28 per cent followed three consecutive weekly increases in which the rate moved from 5.58 per cent on Aug. 27 to last week's 6.13.

The bank rate — minimum charge made on the infrequent central bank loans to chartered banks—is set at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield on the weekly issue of short term treasury bills sold by tenders. The bills are normally for 91 days, but this week's issue is 90 days to avoid having them mature Christmas Day.

Thursday bids were accepted for $100,000,000 ot the bills with an average yield of 5.60 per cent compared with 5.88 last week. Average price was $98.638. Highest yield was 5.64 per cent and lowest 5.56.

Another $15,000,000 in 182-day bills were sold at an average yield of 6.29 per cent compared with 6.58 last week. Average price was $96.959 compared with $96.825.

PRICE STRENGTHENS

The Bank of Canada interest rate, being geared to the average interest yield on weekly government borrowings, is considered to reflect general conditions in the short-term money market. In recent days the price of short-term government bonds has strengthened.

Thursday's central bank interest rate of 5.85 per cent compares with the record high of 6.41 per cent last Aug. 13, and the record low of 1.12 per cent on Aug. 2, 1958.

The $115,000,000 in treasury bills sold this week equals the amount of 91-day bills falling due.

The announcement said that next week the government again will accept tenders for the same amount—$100,000,000 in 90--day bills and $15,000,000 in 182-day bills.

Employees Agree To Form One Postal Union

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Postal Employees Association Thursday on the final day of its annual meeting agreed to continue working towards the formation of one postal union.

The association, representing 10,000 of 12,000 post office employees, eventually wants to unite with the 5,100-member Federated Association of Letter Carriers and the 800 - member Railway Mail Clerks Federation.

Retiring General - Secretary Fred Whitehouse of Ottawa said formation of a united postal association was still at least two years away. He said at that time a unity convention of the three groups might be successful.

The three organizations are affiliated with the Civil Service Federation of Canada and the Canadian Labor Congress.

Canadians Buy Less On Credit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians purchased less on credit last year than they did in 1957 and 1956, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday.

Finance companies in 1958 extended $1,124,550,000 worth of credit for instalment buying. This represented a decline of 4.7 per cent from credit totalling $1,190,991,000 in 1957 and of 9.1 per cent from the record $1,248,347,000 in 1956.

Balances outstanding on the books of finance companies at the end of 1958 totalled $1,025,594,000, down from the record balance of $1,067,403,000 at the end of 1957.

Canada Needs American Dollars – Duff Roblin

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian patriotism and American capital can live and work together in partnership, Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba told a group of American business writers who Thursday concluded an 11-day Canadian tour.

Mr. Roblin, speaking at a reception given to the visitors Wednesday night, said Canadians feel strongly that they wish to remain Canadian, but this does not indicate any serious incompatibility between Canada and the United States.

"We need and welcome American investment, know - how and initiative," he stated. "And we want you to think that you have a friendly and co-operative country to the north."

GOOD CANADIANS

All that Canada asks of American enterprises establishing here is that they act like "good Canadians" and this, said Mr. Roblin, is something American firms do well.

Manitoba and the large American-backed industries now operating in the province had found it possible to come to mutually satisfactory agreements.

Earlier in the day at Regina Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines of Saskatchewan also emphasized the need for capital to finance continuing expansion of that province.

Fifteen years ago two-thirds of the province's wealth came from agriculture and one - third from all other sources. Today these figures were reversed.

"I wish to pay tribute to the financiers of the United States," Mr. Fines said. "Without their assistance we could not have succeeded in doing what we have."

GREAT PROJECTS AHEAD

Great projects lay ahead and these would require further large amounts of capital.

In regard to northern Saskatchewan's uranium mines, Mr. Fines said he is confident that even after current contracts run out in 1962, the industry will continue to expand in Saskatchewan because of the high quality of the ore.

The visiting writers—guests of Gulf Oil Corporation of Pittsburgh and British American Oil Company Limited — Wednesday travelled from Calgary to Regina and Winnipeg.

En route they were given aerial views of British American's plant at Pincher Creek, Alta., one of the world's major gas fields, and also of the work now proceeding on the South Saskatchewan River dam and irrigation project. Various western cities and communities were pointed out to them, including Lethbridge and Medicine Hat in Alberta and Moose Jaw in Saskatchewan.

REMARKABLE TRIP

Speaking on behalf of the group at the Regina luncheon, Tom Euster, of Barron's Weekly, New York, commented:

"To many of us Canada has seemed some sort of nicely colored area north of the United States. Now we know a lot more. The trip has been a remarkable one. What we have seen beggars description and everywhere the hospitality shown us has been extraordinary. We are exhausted but happy."

The Saskatchewan luncheon was featured by a main course of wild duck — bagged by local hunters for the occasion.

Soviet Press Reports On Mr. K's Welcome

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda says the atmosphere has greatly changed in the United States and that Premier Khrushchev brought it about in little more than a week.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, elaborates on the same theme in a front-page cartoon showing applauding Americans welcoming Khrushchev while the cold war rides away on a broomstick.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, Thursday topped its front page with a headline saying: "Millions upon millions of Americans give Khrushchev a joyous welcome," and reports American cities "competing to give the emissary of the great Soviet people the warmest and most joyous welcome."

"Little more than a week has passed since the arrival of the head of the Soviet government in the United States and every unbiased person can note how much the atmosphere has changed in this country."

Start On New Houses Shows Sharp Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — Construction starts on new housing in Canada fell sharply in the first half of this year from the corresponding period of 1958, mainly reflecting the tight money situation in April, May and June.

The bureau of statistics said Thursday that starts fell by 14,127 units to 59,074 from 73,201 last year. However, most of the decline was in the April-June period when they fell to 42,709 from 55,413, a drop of 12,704.

Housing units completed in the half - year totalled 56,551 down from 58,308 last year.

Starts declined in the six months in all provinces except Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Figures for western provinces with 1958 totals bracketed: Manitoba 2,176 (2,544); Saskatchewan 2,179 (2,194); Alberta 4,746 (6,770); British Columbia 8,696 (9,271).

Plain Scrapings

Roy McBride, manager of the Spokane Comets, is missing a bet if he doesn't sign up that last minute performer at Wednesday afternoon's workout. You know the one, Roy, the "old man" out of uniform who was breezing merrily past the rest of the boys when they started doing their 20 times around the ice at the end of the workout. Of course, he probably was a little fresher, since he had just got out there and the others had been pounding around for a couple of hours, but he showed some real flashes of form. His name — let me think — seems it was Roy McBride.

* * * * * *

Spokane, by the way, better really drag in the crowds this year. At the rate the boys were bustin' sticks in practise this is gonna be a real durned expensive year. Saw at least four go blewie inside of 30 minutes, and at today's prices, that just ain't hay, brother. Maybe they should make the old shillelaghs out of plastics, and to heck with little things like broken bones.

* * * * * *

Saw a recent note in the papers — yeah, I read them, too — which said the venerable Archie Moore, lightheavy champion of the world, was going to Hollywood to become an actor. That should be easy for Archie, he's been foolin' the public and his opponents on his age for so long even he probably doesn't know how old he is. At that Old Arch will probably make a very acceptable Mark Twain character because there has been an honesty and sincerity about his own career which makes him very human, and that is the first requirement in good acting.

The arrests reported a couple of days ago by FBI agents of men accused of attempting to "cut in" on the earnings of welterweight champion Don Jordan, indicate once again the fact that boxing has a real problem on its hands. It has been that way ever since "organized" crime got really rolling in the prohibition days of the United States. Boxing, unfortunately for the sport, is one of the few where a "fix" can be arranged. It only takes one man to do it, whereas in team sports all, or nearly all, have to be involved, and that is a pretty tough thing to set up.

True, there is the infamous "Black Sox" scandal, which nearly ruined major league baseball, and there were some bad cases a few years ago in big-time basketball. But these are rare in team games because of the difficulty of "getting to" enough players. Boxing, which has its good points — aside from the fact it can be as brutal and do more permanent damage than probably any other — has a big job ahead if it is to clean up its profession. Trouble is, of course, that boxing is, like many another sport, an encouragement to betting. Not that I have any objection to betting — except that I never win — but that betting brings in the "syndicates" and with them the "smart guys" who never bet on anything but a "sure thing." An absolute guarantee crookedness will creep in. It's a tribute to the general run of bruiser who sticks his chin out for dough that so few have been tarred with the brush. For the sake of a sport which goes back to the early Romans and Greeks, and which has produced fine sportsmen like Jack Dempsey, Jimmy McLarnin, Billy Townsend, Joe Louis, Gene Tunney, and the aforementioned Archie Moore, to mention only a few, let's hope the FBI's attack will clean up a nasty mess.

Mr. K's Caravan Goes Into Seclusion Soon

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The colorful Khrushchev caravan will be swept from public view Friday behind the oak and hickory trees of a mountain-top retreat where once plans were made for war.

In a closely guarded rustic setting of luxury log cabins cradled in a wooded crest of the Catoctin Mountains, President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev will meet at Camp David, Md., at a critical point in their personal diplomacy, their personal quest for peace.

There will be no crowded streets, no television cameras, no reporters and no hecklers. It will be a two-man conference, an informal summit meeting, with only their closest advisers by side, brought in by helicopter from Washington 60 miles to the southeast.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK

The talks will range during the weekend, from Friday evening until Sunday noon. Advance speculation as to the outcome is gloomy, but Khrushchev has shown himself to be unpredictable, blowing hot and cold. Anything can happen.

The Camp David presidential hideaway was built by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt 17 years ago during the dark days of the Second World War. Roosevelt's first major guest here was Britain's wartime prime minister, Sir Winston Churchill.

Roosevelt called it Shangri-La. Former president Harry Truman rarely used the camp but Eisenhower was enthusiastic. He renamed it Camp David after his eldest grandson. He built a helicopter landing field and a golf course.

It is there that Eisenhower's ability to make friends may shine. State Secretary Christian A. Herter has a theory about Eisenhower—that he has extreme persuasiveness in man - to - man talks. With Khrushchev that persuasiveness will undergo critical tests.

Wicks Not Too Optimistic On B.C. Employment

VICTORIA (CP) — Labor Minister Wicks said Thursday he is "not too optimistic" about British Columbia's employment prospects for the coming winter.

However, he said in an interview, he expects unemployment will be alleviated by the federal-provincial-municipal winter works program.

Asked about winter employment prospects, the minister referred to the recently settled eight-week strike of 27,000 coastal woodworkers and said:

"The fact is that the IWA strike so slowed down the economy that it affected retail sales and that in turn affected employment.

"I am not too optimistic. You can't have a rash of strikes and then not expect to have unemployment."

He added, however, that early announcement of renewal of the federal government's plan to pay 50 per cent of approved municipal winter works projects would give the municipalities a chance to plan for such work.

And this year the province was sharing the cost of these projects to the extent of 25 per cent.

British Columbia's labor picture is stable at the moment, with no strikes in progress.

TWO CARAVANS

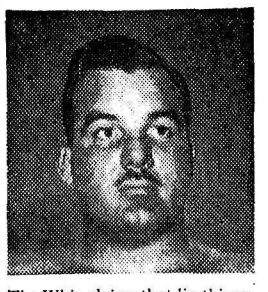
Whipper Watson Wins on Early Tag



The Whip claims that 'in this annual match with winter, I'm ahead of the game right from the start 'cause I get an early Green Tag.' Whipper is referring to the Green "Prestone" Anti-Freeze Tag that's attached to his radiator. It's proof that he has "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze in his car's cooling system. And that's protection against frost, corrosion, rust, clogging and foaming.

'What's more' says Whipper 'with "Prestone" Anti-Freeze I also have magnetic film going for me—the extra protection of a coating all through the cooling system. This magnetic coating effectively seals off rust—actually prevents it from forming.' Follow Whipper's lead . . . get an early Green Tag this winter.

Coach Crozier Has Comets on the Zip

Slavery was outlawed several years ago, but they forgot to tell Joe Crozier. The coach of the Spokane Comets was cracking the whip harder than ever in yesterday's practices at the Civic Centre.

It was one thing none of the boys could complain of lack of exercise after the second day's workout which kept them on the run for nearly five hours.

A good part of yesterday the arena sounded more like a shooting gallery than an ice rink as pucks rattled off the boards like machine gun bullets. The Cat Francis and trainer Mike Ryan who acts as spare goalie were bombarded from every angle as forwards honed up their shooting eyes in a series of rapid-fire drills.

The short practice game proved one thing — the fellows may need more time to get in top playing form but most of them don't require any instruction in holding and hooking. That they can do to perfection.

Comets gained one more man yesterday in the person of Alex Kuzma, a right winger formerly with Seattle. They also have been promised the return of one player from the Montreal Canadiens camp, and hope to get one or two more later.

"Carbo Had to Be Taken Care of" Says Leonard

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boxing promoter Jackie Leonard says the government is getting at the main source of evil in prizefighting by indicting Frankie Carbo.

Carbo is one of five men charged with trying to muscle in on the earnings of world welterweight champion Don Jordan.

"It's a tough proposition to clean up the boxing game," Leonard told a reporter. "For 20 or 25 years you could hardly put on a championship fight without 'taking care' of Carbo first."

Leonard said he was assaulted a month ago by a hoodlum who called him a "stool pigeon." Leonard is one of the principal witnesses against Carbo, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Chicago attorney Truman Gibson and Los Angeles gambling figures Joe Sica and Louis Dragna.

Braves Favored 5-8 In Pennant Battle

By MURRAY ROSE

Milwaukee's champion Braves, back home for their final three games against last place Philadelphia Phillies, Thursday were rated 5-8 favorites to win the sizzling National League race.

The home park edge and an extra day of rest for the cripples were some of the factors that made the Braves the favorites over the travelling Los Angeles Dodgers and the reeling, all but dead San Francisco Giants.

Under the odds posted by Broadway bookmakers, if you liked the Braves to win their third straight pennant, you put up $8 to win $5. It's the other way around (put up $5 to win $8) if you like the chances of the Dodgers, who are tied for first with Milwaukee.

GIANTS WRITTEN OFF

The Giants, trailing the co-leaders by two games with three left to play and losers of five straight, were all but written off at 30-1 odds. Las Vegas odds quoted the Braves at 5-8 and the Dodgers at 6-5.

All of the major league clubs had Thursday off. This gave the cripples a chance to heal and all players another 24 hours to feel the mounting pressure of the pulse-pounding pennant race.

In one respect, the Dodgers, who wind up their thrilling comeback with three games against the Cubs at Wrigley Field, have one advantage. They take on the Cubs in the afternoon today while the Braves face the Phils at night.

If the Dodgers and Don Drysdale (17-13) can beat the Cubs and Glen Hobbie (16-13), the heat will be blazing on the Braves in the evening. It will be fidgety Lew Burdette (21-14) vs young Don Cardwell (9-10) at County Stadium.

JONES VS MIZELL

The Giants close out their final three contests against the Cards at St. Louis. In the opener tonight, San Francisco's workhorse, Sam Jones (20-15) will oppose Vinegar Bend Mizell (13-9).

If rain should force a postponement, any game that would affect the battle for first place would have to be played off. This possibility, along with the strong chance of a first place tie between Milwaukee and Los Angeles, could make the world series a mid-October spectacle. If there is a National League winner when the season ends Sunday, the world series will open Wednesday in the home of Chicago White Sox.

A tie between Milwaukee and Los Angeles would force a best-of three playoff with the first game at Milwaukee, Sept. 28, and the next two at Los Angeles, Sept. 29 and 30. Then the Sox, who clinched the American League flag Tuesday, would be host in the series opener on Thursday.

What do the managers think about the situation?

Fred Haney, Milwaukee — "We went into Pittsburgh figuring we'd be all right if we won two out of three. We did and now we're in a good position. We have them at home the rest of the way."

Walt Alston, Los Angeles — "It looks like a fight right down to the last game. Drysdale is our starter Friday but we don't know after that. We've been playing good ball and I can't see that our players are too tense. They're keyed up and ready to go."

Bill Rigney, San Francisco — "We're still alive. They haven't counted us out yet."

Strikes 'n' Spares

A team high aggregate of 3636 was bowled by Savoy Hotel Thursday night to set a new city record, replacing the old record set by the Hume Hotel in 1954 of 3594. Savoy Hotel also rated team high single with 1361 points.

Other bowling results in the mixed commercial league follow:

Bank of Montreal 0, Hume Hotel 4
Palm Dairies 3, Orange Cruch 1
Mc and Mc 0, Queen's Hotel 4
Hudson's Bay 1, Beatnicks 3
Overwaitea 1, Savoy Hotel 3
North Shore 3, Bloopers 1

Ladies' high single—Rose Matheson of Overwaitea 312; ladies' high aggregate, Lorraine May of Savoy Hotel 797; men's high single and aggregate—Chuck Symmonds of Savoy Hotel, 380 and 906.

Phillies Blame Players Keep Manager Sawyer

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — The Philadelphia Phillies contributed a refreshing note to the major baseball scene Thursday. They blamed the club's last place finish on the players and rehired manager Eddie Sawyer for another year. Terms of the new contract were not disclosed.

General manager John Quinn said weak hitting, poor fielding and playing mistakes mired the Phillies in last place in the National League, not the 49-year-old Sawyer. Quinn said he and owner Bob Carpenter and Sawyer are going right to work on the job of improving the team for next year.

Sawyer, a former college professor who in his first term as Phillies Manager (1948-1952) led the club to a pennant in 1950, observed:

"We should be improved next season. We played much better ball over the last half of this year in spite of some crippling injuries. We played almost .500 ball the last half."

NEEDS BULLPEN HELP

Sawyer is satisfied with his starting pitchers, Robin Roberts, Gene Conley, Don Cardwell and Jim Owens, but is looking for bullpen help. Expendable players appear to be outfielders Richie Ashburn and Wally Post, pitchers Ray Semproch, Jack Meyer and Dick Farrell, catcher Valmy Thomas and infielder Chico Fernandez. All but Post were big disappointments this season.

Sawyer, who returned as skipper July 22, 1956, held a workout Thursday in preparation for the all-important closing three game series with Milwaukee tonight, Saturday and Sunday.

"We'll give it all we've got," said Sawyer. "Who knows, we may have to sneak out of Milwaukee when its all over."

Plante To Use Face Mask

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Plante has made up his mind he will use a face mask—a new type he helped to design—in National Hockey League games.

The all-star goalie of Montreal Canadiens has been toying with the idea for some time. Two cheek bone fractures from flying pucks helped to convince him. During last spring's Stanley Cup playoffs he began figuring on a design.

He tried out the new mask in practice Wednesday and feels it passed the test.

The mask is of fibreglass and has slits for eyes, nose and mouth. Plante says he can look down at his feet without difficulty or restricted vision—something he hasn't been able to do with the old-style mask.

Giants Not Saying Die

ST. LOUIS (AP) — San Francisco Giants are almost out of the National League pennant picture after a five-game skid, but manager Bill Rigney said Thursday, "as long as there's a slim straw in the wind, we'll clutch at it."

Asked what he thought of his club's chances, the slim, grey-haired pilot said:

"Sure, they aren't good, but suppose we win tomorrow night and the other two teams lose, then what would you think?"

You had to admit that a one-game deficit with two games left would offer more hope than the Giants' present near-hopeless situation, two games back with three left.

Any way you look at it, the Giants need a three-game sweep tonight, Saturday and Sunday over St. Louis Cardinals, a club they have beaten 15 times in 19 meetings this season.

And Milwaukee and Los Angeles, now tied for first, each must lose two out of three for the Giants to tie. The Braves face last-place Philadelphia and the Dodgers meet Chicago, the team which handed Rigney's club a pair of heartbreaking defeats, 5-4 and 9-8, in 10 innings.

Rangers Win Exhibition

LOS ANGELES (AP)—New York Rangers completed a two-game sweep of their exhibition hockey series with the Vancouver Canucks Thursday night, winning 3-2. They won Tuesday night 5-2.

Thursday night's match started a half-hour late, the management hoping the crowd of 6000 in Sports Arena would increase. It didn't.

Lost Four Times, but Made It From Trail to Rossland

By GERRY STEVENS

How can a car get lost four times between Trail and Rossland? It isn't easy, but we succeeded.

The occasion was the running of the Kokanee Sports Car Club's September Ladies' Handicap Rally, a three hour average time run over paved and unpaved roads in the backwoods of Trail, Rossland and Northport.

The rally was organized and planned by Viv Tye, an old hand at getting people lost, and finding roads that even permanent residents aren't aware of.

The over-all winners, Alan Mawdsley, driver, and Dwayne Brothers, navigator, in a Volvo PV 544, amassed a total of 70 points, easily beating the second place crew, Tom and Joyce Campbell in a Triumph TR-3 with 88 points.

Third place went to Ted and Dorothy Hinchcliffe in a Jaguar XK-150 coupe with 90 points.

Way down on the winners list is the notation "11th — Austin-Healey Sprite, Driven by Peter Shayler and navigated by Gerry Stevens, 213 points". That was us.

Our day started at 12:48 Sunday afternoon at a parking lot in Trail where we were handed our route instructions, average speed charts, and sent on our way.

All went well until we reached the point on the instructions where it said "follow right-hand lane." WE followed the left-hand lane.

After being straightened out by an official car which caught up with us, we retraced our steps, got onto the proper road, and succeeded in reaching Rossland. There our troubles began again, as we missed a vital landmark and kept going straight ahead instead of turning left.

PILE IN

After getting lost three more times, we stopped on a convenient corner to figure where we were in relation to where we should have been. At that point, the corner became the world's most popular place for sports cars. They came from all directions, converging on our little blue Sprite which moments before had been the loneliest car in the town.

It seemed that Mr. Tye had given every second car a different set of directions to follow, and the corner we picked for our conference was the place where all the cars met to rejoin a common route. Needless to say, we followed the car which seemed to know where he was going, and he did!

The rest of the rally was straightforward as rallies go, touching every forgotten backroad in the area, with the finish line on Lookout Road high above Trail.

The Austin-Healey Sprite team gained a place of distinction in the rally, taking three of the last four places. The hard-luck trophy of the day (had there been one) would have gone to the Sprite-carried team of Jim Ida and Don Penegelly of New Denver.

After getting lost in Rossland, they bogged down in a mud hole, and were stuck there for three-quarters of an hour. Later in the rally, they were given the maximum 75 points for being late at a couple of checkpoints. They ended with a total of 318 points.

RAMBLE RALLY

Sunday, many of the cars, drivers, and navigators that were in the rally will try again for first place as the Nelson Ramble Rally is staged.

Starting from a parking lot in downtown Nelson, the rally will carry the contestants over about 75 miles of roads.

Organizers George Benwell, J. G. Blaney, Ivan Laughton and Gary Foxall have set reasonable average speeds, all within legal limits. This will be a straight-forward rally, with the emphasis on navigation and few gimmicks. More than 15 cars are expected to enter.

INTEREST UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed the third-try housing bill Wednesday and the federal housing administration boosted the interest rate ceiling on its home-insured mortgage to 5¾ per cent. Both actions, designed to keep the housing industry booming, had been expected. The $1,000,000,000 housing measure authorizes many government-backed housing programs which are out of funds. The FHA interest rate ceiling has been 5¼ per cent.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ZOO MAY CLOSE

NANAIMO (CP) — Manager Paul Hertel of the Wellington zoo near here said the operation needs $10,000 worth of improvements to stay in business. A campaign to raise the money is being considered but Mr. Hertel said he has received an offer to move the animals to the United States.

Market Trends

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Thursday enjoyed its greatest rally in nearly two years as it continued to rebound from the sharp August-September decline.

Motors again were pacemakers. The advance took in most major segments of the list except oils which were irregularly lower despite the example of Gulf Oil which rose 2 points in further response to plans for a stock split and raised dividend.

The market renewed its upward drive from the start.

Volume swelled to 3,480,000 shares.

The AP 60-stock average advanced $3.40 to $219.80, its biggest leap since Nov. 27, 1957 when it gained 3.90 on reports that President Eisenhower was making an excellent recovery from an illness.

Studebaker - Packard was the most active stock, up 1⅛ at 15⅜ on 187,600 shares. Second was American Motors, up 2⅜ at 60¾ on 127,200.

Among Canadian issues, Aluminium Ltd. and Walker Gooderham gained ¾ each, Canadian Pacific, Hudson Bay Mining and International Nickel rose ⅜ each, Granby Mining ¼ and McIntyre Porcupine ½. Distillers Seagrams lost ¼ and Dome Mines ⅛.

American Stock Exchange prices rose on volume of 1,120,000 shares. Among wider gainers were General Development, Associated Oil and Gas, Molybdenum and Heli Coil.

Brazilian Traction, Preston East Dome and Fargo Oil were ⅛ higher, Shawinigan rose ⅜, Sapphire Petroleums 3 - 16 and Scurry Rainbow Oil ¼.

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market closed moving away again Thursday but trading was light. Industrials stretched their win streak to three sessions in leading the rise.

Price moves among the five most active mines, all of which gained, were limited to 5 cents or less.

Banks, steels and refining oils paced the industrial rise but gains were not as large as Wednesday.

Ford A added 3 at 163 while Bank of Nova Scotia gained 2¾ at 76½. International Paper and Royal Bank were ahead around 2 and Steel Company of Canada added 1¾ at 79½. Canadian Tire dipped 2 at 168, but losses generally were small.

Senior base metals moved forward with Falconbridge rising 1 at 26½ and Hudson Bay gained ⅞ at 40. Algom Uranium was up ⅝ at 12⅞ on a few trades.

Hollinger was the standout among golds, ahead 1⅛ at 29½. Kerr-Addison added ¼ at 19¾ and McIntyre closed unchanged at 2, recovering from an early 1-point loss.

Western oils were quiet. Calgary and Edmonton added ⅝ at 21 while ¼ gains went to Home B and Hudson's Bay.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices Thursday increased sharply for the second day in a row at the close of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

The banking section was outstanding. Nova Scotia gained 3 at 76 and Imperial jumped 3½ at 67. Gains of 1½ points showed for Royal at 854 and Toronto-Dominion at 60.

Utilities had Power Corporation up 1¾ at 57, Quebec Natural Gas up the same at 16, B. C. Power up the same at 40¼, and Consumers' Gas up 1¼ at 41. Calgary Power fell 1½ at 88½.

In a strong paper section Macmillan B made 2½ at 38½, International Paper gained 5 at 120.

Steels saw Stelco up 1½ at 79½ and Ontario Steel up 2 at 23.

British American Oil made ⅞ at 34, Imperial Oil jumped 1⅞ at 36¼, Seagrams lost ⅝ at 31½.

Closing averages showed banks up 1.03 at 62.19, utilities up 3.3 at 145.1, industrials up 1.3 at 293.4, combined up 2.0 at 244.0, papers up 2.1 at 420.7 and golds up 1.72 at 82.93.

Industrial volume was 86,100 and mines and oils were 217,800.

Widow Found Insane In Slayings

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Anjette Donovan Lyles, 34-year-old widow accused of four arsenic poison murders, was called insane Wednesday by two psychiatrists who used truth serum and hypnosis to probe her subconscious mind.

But state attorneys described her as a capable, cunning mass murderer, in opposing commutation of her death sentence for the poison murder of her 9-year-old daughter, Marcia.

The state board of pardons and paroles, after a two-day clemency hearing, took under advisement attorneys' plea to reduce Mrs. Lyles' sentence to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Lyles also is accused in the deaths of two former husbands, Ben Lyles Jr. and Joe Neal Gabbert, and a mother-in-law, Mrs. Julia Y. Lyles.

Form Arcan Stockholders' Protective Committee

TORONTO (CP) — An Arcan Corp. stockholders protective committee has been formed in a bid to unseat directors and replace management officers of the company, it was announced Wednesday night.

Toronto lawyer W. R. Salter said his legal firm has been retained by New York lawyer Edward M. Garlock to help organize and represent the committee.

Mr. Salter will represent the committee at the Hamilton Company's annual meeting Sept. 30.

The corporation was suspended from trading on the Toronto and Canadian stock exchanges July 21, following a sudden price drop in shares the previous day. Arcan dropped $4.95 on a turnover of more than 200,000 shares. Since January the wholesale company shares had climbed from $1.50 to a peak of $8.62½ cents and had been one of the most active industrials for the last couple of months prior to the drop.

Arcan manufactures industrial and ventilation equipment and sells non-food items to the Independent Grocers' Alliance. This year it acquired control of Bon Ami Ltd., which manufactures and sells cleaners, waxes and sprays.

NANAIMO (CP) —John Marinavitch was rescued by fellow workers Wednesday when the walls of a 14-foot ditch in which he was working collapsed. He was taken to hospital with leg, chest and shoulder injuries.

SCHOLARSHIP ANNOUNCED

VANCOUVER (CP) — President Norman McKenzie of the University of British Columbia announced Wednesday that a $1,500 scholarship has been established for studies in grammar and the fine arts in memory of Thea Koerner, wife of philanthropist Leon Koerner who died earlier this year.

Judge's Judgment Worthy of Solomon

TORONTO (CP) — A magistrate Wednesday convicted Lloyd Kearney of assaulting his wife, then reversed his decision after Kearney and his wife swapped insults in the courtroom.

"I think the worst penalty I could impose is to make you both live together," Magistrate J. L. Prentice told them.

"Anything but that," pleaded Kearney. "I don't think I would live too long."

Mrs. Kearney alleged that her husband drank nine bottles of beer, then knocked his son Frank from a chair, emptied a bottle of beer over his wife, slugged her with the empty bottle and jabbed it in Frank's eye.

Protesting he always came off second best in family fights, Kearney, 44, said: "I get more clouts from my wife than a whole army could give me."

He claimed his wife blackjacked him with an iron bar, cutting his head four times.

High Costs of Good Roads Seen as Ottawa's Problem

By STEPHEN SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Everybody wants good roads but who's going to pay for them?

A taxation expert Wednesday forecast provincial gasoline and vehicle taxes will increase in the next decade and suggested that municipalities keep their fingers out of the pocket-books of motor vehicle owners.

He said provincial taxes now provide between 70 and 75 per cent of the funds for provincial highway construction. Unless the charges were increased they would provide only about 60 to 65 per cent in 10 years.

CHARGES GOING UP

"It is reasonable therefore, to expect that provincial road use charges will be increased within the next decade and any additional burden in this same field by way of a municipal tax would be a most unpopular move."

He said the level of provincial taxes will not reduce property taxation but "may cushion the incidence of future road expenditures."

Taxation by municipalities would tend to be unfair to residents living either inside or outside a city, would be hard to administer and probably would not provide the intended taxation relief to property owners.

Two other speakers at the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association said the federal government should come into road building as it did with the Trans-Canada Highway.

F. H. Finnis of Toronto, municipal research associate of the Canadian Tax Foundation, said in the vast majority of cases the responsibility of collecting taxes from road users should be centralized with the provincial government with the possible exception of metropolitan areas.

Hon. J. T. Douglas, Saskatchewan highways minister and retiring president of the association said a national highway policy of comprehensive assistance to the provinces is needed for any realistic highway planning by junior governments.

"Only realistic forward planning and budgetting at all three levels of government can save us from future traffic jams that will seriously interfere with the economy of the nations."

NO INTERFERENCE

He said the Trans-Canada Highway agreement under which the federal government paid a large portion of construction costs showed that such an agreement need not interfere with provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. Douglas said new highways particularly the Trans - Canada, are stimulating increased vacation travel by Canadians. It was possible for a large family to enjoy an economical holiday using provincial parks.

The trend to highway travel was helped substantially by such celebrations and festivals as the British Columbia centenary, the Calgary Stampede, the Pion-Era at Saskatoon, the Stratford Festival and the golden jubilees of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The tourist angle was echoed by Lawrence Dampier of Vancouver, vice-president of the Canadian Tourist Association, who said the federal government has developed a policy of roads to resources. He suggested a policy of roads for resources — the tourist industry was Canada's fourth.

AMERICANS LIKE DIEFENBAKER

By STEPHEN SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada's consul general in Los Angeles said Thursday more Americans know Prime Minister Diefenbaker than any other Canadian leader in recent years.

Dr. D. Leo Dolan said not since Lester Pearson, former Canadian external affairs minister and now leader of the Liberal party, "made his mark at the United Nations and at International conferences has a Canadian public man caught the imagination of the America press as has Diefenbaker."

Mr. Dolan was speaking at a luncheon at the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

PRAISE OF CANADA

He said it has been a long hard struggle to create a greater knowledge of Canada among Americans. But now everywhere he goes in the United States he finds "people loud in the praise of my country."

He said Mr. Diefenbaker's recognition by Americans is probably because of outspoken remarks during his career on Canadian American relations which had resulted in him becoming a most publicized figure.

Shortly after his election, cries were heard that Mr. Diefenbaker was leading an anti - American government. Some radio and television commentators in Los Angeles had suggested by innuendo that Mr. Diefenbaker "was about ready to declare war on the United States."

"Today, you hear none of this nonsense talked in the United States by sensible people."

While mentioning the apparent lack of knowledge of Americans about Canada, he chided Canadians for not knowing enough about their own country. In his Canadian travels he found "vast numbers of Canadians who were pitifully unenlightened about their own institutions and ignorant of our own economic problems."

BOY INJURED

RICHMOND, B.C. (CP) —John McCarthy, 4, was knocked down and run over by his father's car here Tuesday and he suffered only a face scratch. The wheel went between his legs, over his body and passed by his ear.

Opinions Differ On Death Cause

BOSTON (AP)—A week after pretty Lynn Kauffman, 23, died in Boston harbor's murky waters in a shipboard tragedy, the cause of her death today remains officially in dispute.

The medical examiner who performed an autopsy on the battered body of the talented assistant of a university professor withheld his signature from the death certificate, saying circumstances have not been explained to his satisfaction.

But Capt. Joseph F. Fallon, head of Boston's police homicide squad, said he leans toward a suicide theory, with accidental death a second possibility.

NO ASSAULT

"Her death did not come about from any violent assault perpetrated by anyone," Fallon said.

Dr. Michael A. Luongo, the medical examiner, declined both theories.

He said Fallon's opinions had been conveyed to him, that he had studied the evidence and "in my opinion the suicide theory does not hold up."

Discounting both suicide and accident Luongo said:

"In my opinion this girl drowned after receiving multiple injuries severe enough to incapacitate her.

MULTIPLE IMPACTS

"The type of injuries and their distribution, and their multiplicity are such as to be consistent with multiple impacts rather than injuries in a fall from a ship, under the circumstances portrayed to me."

Fallon supported his theories by disclosing that upon her arrival here from Singapore aboard the Dutch steamship Utrecht the divorcee had received "very distressing news" which "we are certain drove her to the depths of despondency and caused her to alter her future plans."

Fallon declined to elaborate.

Have you noticed how eagerly the spiders are seeking a cosy corner in the house to set up winter housekeeping? I found a pair of huge ones in the bathroom honeymooning in a spiderweb built for two, but they were too quick for me and got away. I'm certainly going to have to nip this romance in the bud unless I want a whole family of spiders. Family? More like community.

* * *

One day, just as I was going to bring the clothes rack in off the porch I noticed something odd among its bottom rungs. In the few hours it was out there, an enterprising spider had spun a web and laid hundreds of eggs which had promptly hatched into hundreds of minute spiders. It was utterly astonishing — talk about speed of the jet age!

* * *

Another pest that is doing its best to find a nest and you know the rest, in the house is the earwig. This creature that is so hard to kill and so hideous to look at with a bite at one end and pinchers at the other, has a habit of sitting on top of the door soaking up any escaping heat. Open the door and what do you get—a shower of earwigs. Oh, I know, there are earwig baits on the market and the sensible thing to do would be to buy some and try to get rid of them. I doubt, however, that this would work for I would have to spread it over the whole rockery for there is where they really abound.

What a disappointment the weatherman is. Wednesday, a beautiful sunny fall day appeared to augur the beginning of golden Indian Summer weather. Everywhere people were mowing lawns like mad. The lengthy spell of rain had pushed the greensward to astronomical heights and everyone was waiting poised to dash out the first chance to cut it before it would require a scythe. Everywhere there was the putt-putt and whirr of the power machines and for the rest of us the chomp of the one-horsepower kind that stops every now and then while the horse mops his brow.

* * *

Later walking along Third Street I overheard this conversation: "I see you cut your lawn, Gordon, why didn't you cut mine at the same time?" Gordon: "I ran out of gas — I didn't even have enough to finish the back." Such is the mechanical age. It used to be that nothing short of a doubling up case of lumbago would prevent the finishing of the mowing job — elbow grease was always at hand. Not so gas — and it isn't as cheap, either.

Polio Hits Hard In Maritimes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Polio continued to strike throughout Canada this week, hitting Atlantic provinces hardest.

Three more cases were reported in New Brunswick, one in Nova Scotia, and two in Ontario.

The Maritimes now have had 136 cases this year, nine of them fatal. Newfoundland has had 103 cases and six deaths.

In Montreal, the city with the most cases—the area count is 829—the situation was unchanged from Wednesday.

Ottawa's Civic Hospital received a Cornwall area case, a two-year-old boy whose sister was admitted Tuesday. The hospital's polio case total now is 40, 27 from the Cornwall district.

Newfoundland's education department has announced schools will open Wednesday. The opening was delayed two weeks in the hopes the polio epidemic would subside. A department spokesman said that while it isn't over, there is a reasonable expectancy the epidemic will decline gradually.
