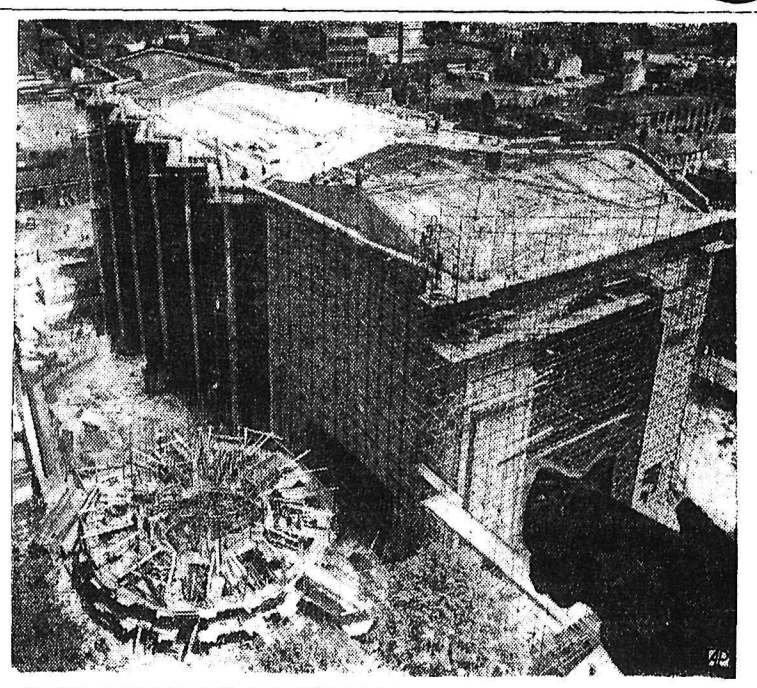
UN Meeting Urged by Lumumba



NEW COVENTRY CATHEDRAL — Modern design of new Coventry Cathedral in Coventry, England, is seen through scaffolding. Stained glass windows will be set in zigzag walls. Building replaces cathedral destroyed by German raid in World War II.

Pearkes Next B.C. Lieut-Gov. Says Paper

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sun says Defence Minister Pearkes is due to leave the federal cabinet next week to become lieutenant-governor of British Columbia.

The announcement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker will come in conjunction with a major reorganization of the federal cabinet, the newspaper says in a dispatch from Ottawa. It says Mr. Pearkes, 72, will resign and be appointed to succeed industrialist Frank Mackenzie Ross, 69, whose five-year term expires Oct. 3.

Also leaving the cabinet, the newspaper said, will be Veterans Affairs Minister Brooks, 69, who will be appointed to the Senate.

Protest Search Delay

VERNON (CP) — Loud protests were issued Thursday by citizen's groups against city council and RCMP here over alleged delays in organizing the search for an 11-year-old boy who was later found slain.

In an open letter to Mayor Frank Becker, the Kiwanis and Lions Clubs said they had offered assistance to the police and had been refused 48 hours after Donald Oliver disappeared last Friday. His body was found Monday a half-hour after a search began.

The group asked city council to discuss the handling of search arrangements, contending that the search should have been organized sooner, that RCMP failed to search properly in the area where the body was eventually found, and that aldermen who criticized the delay should have started a search themselves.

Mayor Becker said the group's letter was discussed in a closed council session Thursday, but nothing would be said until it had been brought before an open council meeting Monday night.

"This thing has gone overboard on publicity," the mayor added.

There were also complaints from Vernon Fish and Game Club that RCMP didn't call in the club's search and rescue team, despite making an agreement the previous week that the team would be notified when an emergency arose.

Stern Warning Sent Belgium

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold Thursday delivered a stern warning to Belgium that interference in the internal affairs of the Congo was a violation of Security Council decisions binding upon all United Nations members.

The warning was addressed to Ambassador Walter Loridan, Belgian UN delegate, as the council prepared for emergency discussions to clarify the UN role in the troubled African country.

Hammarskjold was under sharp attack from Congolese premier Patrice Lumumba, from the Soviet Union and from Yugoslavia. He in turn was pressing for new council steps to halt the flow of outside aid to the warring factions.

UN officials said the council probably would meet Saturday in a session which might last into the night.

REPORTS CONFIRMED

In his latest communication to the Belgian government, the secretary-general said he had received confirmed reports that nine tons of weapons were unloaded Wednesday from a Belgian Sabena airlines plane at the Elisabethville airport in the secessionist province of Katanga.

Hammarskjold asked the Belgian representative to tell him whether the Belgian government had authorized the sending of weapons to the provincial authorities.

"Should this be the case," Hammarskjold said, "the secretary-general would consider it necessary to make a formal serious protest."

UN officials announced Hammarskjold had received a cable from Lumumba inviting the Security Council to meet in Leopoldville. There was no comment, a spokesman said.

CONFERS WITH REDS

During the afternoon Hammarskjold coferred with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov and Yugoslav Ambassador Dobrivoje Vidic, both of whom have been critical of UN policies in the Congo.

The secretary-general earlier called on the UN to provide $100,000,000 to help the Congo get on its feet.

Demands Pullout Of Foreign Troops

By NIGEL RYAN

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters)—Premier Patrice Lumumba called Thursday for a special meeting of the United Nations Security Council to be held here so that its members could see for themselves the situation in the Congo.

He read out at a press conference a cable he had sent to the Security Council after telling the Senate earlier that he wanted all UN troops removed from the Congo.

At the press conference, he declared that his government would consider throwing out all the UN forces if they continued "blocking the work of the Congolese government."

When news of Lumumba's demand for the withdrawal of UN troops reached Gen. Karl Von Horn, Swedish UN commander here, Van Horn merely commented: "He has said it all before."

A UN spokesman later said the question of the troops withdrawal is "up to the Security Council."

WOULD BREAK OFF

Lumumba at his press conference declared that he would break off diplomatic relations "with the United Nations, Britain or anybody else" if propaganda continued against his regime because of its relations with Russia.

"I am not a Communist, nor an American, nor a Frenchman," he asserted. "I am a Congolese and will never be anything else."

The press conference, held at Lumumba's home, featured the presentation of a man whom he termed a "Belgian spy."

The man, pale and shaking, was led into the crowded conference room as Lumumba held up a paratrooper's uniform and shouted:

"Here is the uniform of a Belgian paratrooper. They are everywhere, even in the United Nations."

TRY SEIZE FILMS

Congolese troops tried to seize the film of an unidentified Canadian photographer who shot pictures of the incident as the alleged spy was brought to the premier's house before the conference while reporters waited outside.

They also tried to arrest a Tunisian radio reporter who was wearing an army-style web belt.

Just then a government spokesman came out and shouted to the Congolese soldier: "Leave him alone. He is not a soldier. He comes from Tunis and is an African like you."

The 34-year-old premier made his new attacks on the UN after the Senate gave him its overwhelming support in his battle with President Joseph Kasavubu.

REJECTS ORDER

By a vote of 41 to 2, the Senate rejected an order issued by Kasavubu Monday dismissing Lumumba and several of his ministers.

As soon as the vote was known, Lumumba declared: "We must ask for the immediate withdrawal of all United Nations troops from the Congo."

He followed this up later with a call for a Security Council session on the Congo situation.

He charged that the UN had "militarily occupied" the Congo by seizing its airports and the radio station here.

Rising to his feet with his hands raised in a victory salute as the Senate vote was announced Lumumba whirled around and shouted his tanks to his supporters who replied by chanting "Uhuru" (Freedom).

STILL WANTS HELP

Despite his demands for the withdrawal of the UN forces, Lumumba was careful to stipulate that he would continue to ask for technical co-operation and assistance.

Meanwhile, the UN appeared to have blocked flights by Russian planes which had carried Lumumba troops into Kasai province to fight the forces of Albert Kalonji, self-styled president of a "mining state" in Kasai.

Donna Hurtling Toward Florida

Evacuation Advised as Hurricane Cuts Swath of Injuries, Death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Immediate evacuation of all low-lying areas in the Florida keys was advised Thursday night as savage hurricane Donna, with at least 136 deaths behind her, bore down on the Florida straits with 150-mile-an-hour winds.

The hurricane struck its first hard blows at Cuba Thursday night, lashing the notheastern coast with furious winds and pounding seas.

The Cuban National Institute of Agrarian Reform reported from Holguin in Oriente province that flood waters destroyed about 80 houses in the coastal community of Gibara.

More than 3,000 persons were evacuated from Gibara.

There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Hurricane warning flags flew from the northern coast of Cuba through Key West to Key Largo, 45 miles south of Miami. Gale warnings were hoisted Thursday evening from Key Largo northward through Miami to Vero Beach, just south of Cape Canaveral.

At 6 p.m., EDT, Donna was proceeding on a westerly course at 11 m.p.h. and was 310 statute miles southeast of Miami. It was expected to maintain speed and intensity the next 18 hours.

Thursday evening the overseas highway to Key West was reported jammed with hundreds of residents fleeing northward. Special contingents of the Florida highway patrol were dispatched to clear the jam.

Gale winds were expected in the hurricane warning area shortly after midnight. Hurricane velocities were expected by Friday afternoon.

Abnormally high tides ran ahead of the storm and Florida residents of low-lying areas, substandard housing and trailer houses were warned to seek refuge elsewhere.

WARNING FLAGS

On Puerto Rico, meanwhile the weather bureau today issued a new flood alert for all of the eastern part of the island where 11,000 persons were left homeless by the floods and high tides that followed Donna.

Food rationing was ordered in the San Juan areas as a result of the floods that killed hundreds of head of cattle, disrupted communications and cut electricity.

Civil defence officials said more than 150 still are missing.

Reports of heavy damage began to come in from the southeastern Bahama Islands, across which the 150-mile-an-hour storm raced Wednesday and Thursday.

Only minor damage was believed done in the American Virgin Islands. The British Virgin Islands suffered greater damage but full reports have not yet been received.

Bill of Rights Complicates Juvenile's Trial

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — An apparent conflict between the Criminal Code and Canada's new Bill of Rights has injected legal complications into the murder trial of a Prince Edward Island juvenile.

Authorities connected with the case say it still is too soon to determine what effect an "open-court ruling of Summerside Magistrate W. Chester MacDonald will have on the trial. However, they predict the Supreme Court of Canada will eventually have to rule on the legal principle involved.

The issue arose when Magistrate MacDonald opened to the public the preliminary hearing of 15-year-old Andrew Alfonso Arsenault on the grounds the Bill of Rights demanded it.

The Criminal Code says a juvenile shall be tried without publicity but the Bill of Rights says all persons accused of a crime are entitled to a "fair and open" trial. The bill's preamble says the bill shall take precedence over earlier statutes unless otherwise stated.

The magistrate said he opened the court on his own initiative after studying the two documents. Neither counsel requested an open court.

Turn Down Sommers' Parole

VANCOUVER (CP) — A parole application for former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, serving a five-year term for bribery and conspiracy, has been turned down by the National Parole Board.

Regional Director B. Kyle Stevenson said here Thursday the application would be reviewed again in the spring. Also denied parole was H. Wilson Gray, convicted with Sommers.

Veiled Warnings Worry Estonians

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Free Press says Estonians living in Winnipeg have received "veiled warnings" from relatives overseas to stop writing too often, and stop sending parcels if they want to avoid becoming implicated in trouble in Canada.

The newspaper quotes one member of the Estonian community in the city—reported to be about 150 strong—as saying the warnings now have more meaning since Alexander Laak became the target of a Russian news agency attack.

"It looks like they are tightening down over there," the Estonian member said. "Our friends know that an active letter writer, or one who sends parcels, is likely to be singled out for attack."

Tuesday night, Laak committed suicide after being accused by the Russian news agency Tass of being a Nazi war criminal. The 53-year-old native of Estonia, who had denied the charges, hanged himself from a rafter in his garage.

The newspaper says the community has been "frightened by the publicity given the Laak incident. One citizen said 'whoever was in the army during the occupation, if he held any rank at all, could be singled out next.

"The Russians could easily say that Mr. X living in Winnipeg was a captain in an army unit which committed atrocities in Estonia,' the citizen said. Mr. X, if he was a captain, and in the particular unit, cannot possibly prove the atrocities didn't take place.'"

The Free Press says the citizen also revealed that "our letters from home hint that we should only write every two or three months, and stop sending parcels—who knows, maybe the mailman who delivers them over there keeps track of how many each person receives."

The paper says the Estonian leaders in Winnipeg met Thursday to express their sympathy to the Laak family, and to plan how they are to meet what they consider to be a new threat to their way of life in Canada.

"The Winnipeg group in one way considers itself to be lucky," the newspaper says. "They say the main Estonian settlement in Canada is in Toronto, where many Estonians who were former government official, even to the ambassador level, now are living . . . Most of our people (in Winnipeg) held no real official position."

Irregularities in Voters' List, Claim Candidates

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conservative candidates charged Thursday that irregularities exist in the voting lists in two Vancouver area ridings.

David Sturdy, candidate in Vancouver-Burrard sent a telegram to K. L. Morton, registrar of voters, and returning officer J. W. Wardrop saying he intends to prosecute them "regardless of party allegiance and of the outcome of the election" if irregularities in the Aug. 11 list of voters are present when the list is renewed.

He said "very many persons" have been disenfranchised in the list, while disqualified persons are included.

150 Courses in UBC Night School

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia will offer 150 courses in evening classes which start the last week of this month. Enrolment is expected to reach 5000. New courses include current affairs, anthropology, sociology and chess.

DISCUSS FATE OF FLIERS

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson talked with Nikita Khrushchev for 90 minutes Thursday on the eve of the Soviet premier's departure for the United Nations. Among the subjects discussed was the case of two imprisoned American fliers.

Thompson declined to go into details about the meeting but told reporters:

"We discussed matters of interest to both governments including the detention of two RB-47 fliers."

Soviet fighter planes shot down an American RB-47 reconnaissance plane July 1 and the Russians announced two members of the six-man crew had been captured alive.

Nelson Man Killed In Celgar Mishap

CASTLEGAR — A well-known Nelson carpenter, Alex Swetlikoe, 49, died in Castlegar and District Hospital where he was taken Thursday after being struck by the boom of a mobile crane.

The accident occurred in the Celgar Ltd. yards where Mr. Swetlikoe has been working as a carpenter. The crane is reported to have overturned shortly before noon Thursday.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigation is continuing. A coroner's jury viewed the body and date for resumption of the inquest is to be set later.

It was the second fatality during the construction period this year at the Celgar site. A coast worker died after falling from steel girders.

Mr. Swetlikoe was recording secretary of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 2458.

He came to Nelson seven years ago from New Westminster, where he had worked as a millwright for 16 years. Born in Mikado, Sask., Aug. 14, 1911, he was raised there and farmed for a time before moving to the Coast.

An ardent minor hockey league supporter, he served on the executive and coached the Bruins for four years. He was also active in Doukhobor community affairs.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. (Betty) Voykin, Pass Creek; one son, Allan, Nelson; three brothers, William, Penticton; John, Williams Lake; a twin brother, Fred, Blewett; one sister, Mrs. Mary Baturin, Winnipeg; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Swetlikoe, Blewett.

Election Candidate Tells . . .

Stole, Served Term for Secret Service

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Social Credit candidate in the Sept. 12 British Columbia election says he stole public funds and was sentenced to three years in jail while a member of the "Canadian Secret Service."

Donald Riggan, 41, candidate in the Fraser Valley constituency of Delta near New Westminster, said in a statement Thursday the "Secret Service" ordered him to commit the crimes so he could be placed in a cell in Prince Albert Penitentiary next to a man he identified as a brilliant Nazi scientist named Adolph Kratz.

He said he pleaded guilty in December, 1951, to charges of failing to remit money collected for the sheriff's department at Edmonton. He had committed the crime while employed by the department at Edson, Alta., and was working under Secret Service orders.

He said he was approached about 1949 by a person "I cannot name."

"This person asked me whether I was prepared to give myself in the service of the Canadian government. He told me the job involved the total sacrifice of my future life forever. He said it concerned the Canadian Secret Service and required a man of investigative experience, plus expert electronic engineering capacity."

DOES NOT EXPLAIN

The statement did not explain what was meant by "Canadian Secret Service."

He said he was then operating his own electrical contracting business in Edson and he had done investigation work as an Alberta government civil servant of "corruption by individuals in the civil service."

Mr. Riggan said he decided that service to the Canadian government was more important than his personal life and agreed to take the job and sent his family here to live.

"The job was to investigate one Adolph Kratz, the Nazi. Kratz was at this time in Prince Albert Penitentiary for the murder of other prisoners at Lethbridge, Alta., in a prisoner-of-war camp."

"Kratz was a brilliant German scientist with particular knowledge in the electronics field. I was expected to obtain information from him about electronics and other things."

He said he was ordered to become employed in a "suitable government department which would later arrange the necessary actions to the suceeding events."

He was employed by the sheriff's department and later was instructed on procedure "relative to the remittance of money." He was to remit the money by envelope by cash on certain dates. "I was instructed to remit certain moneys I collected and withhold certain moneys."

He later followed his family to Vancouver and then worked as an electrician at Kitimat, 400 miles north of here. He was arrested by the RCMP three months later.

He said he was charged in Alberta, tried, pleaded guilty "under instructions" and was sentenced to three years in Prince Albert.

"I was placed in the cell next to Kratz and became friendly with him. My job was successful. I was released 11 months after going to jail."

The Sun says Mr. Riggan pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing at Edson, and elected a jury trial.

It says an Edmonton Supreme Court jury found him guilty of one charge of theft and he then pleaded guilty to five other charges of theft and to a charge of obtaining $1,175 in a car deal by false pretences.

It says according to testimony at his trial Mr. Riggan accepted about $700 from persons in the Edson district for payment to the sheriff in Edmonton, but the money was not paid to the sheriff.

The paper says Riggan testified that he had received the money in April, May and June of 1951, and on June 30, prior to leaving for the west coast, had placed the money with a letter of resignation in an envelope and mailed it to Edmonton.

It says Prince Albert prison records show that a carpenter and private in the Africka Corps, named Adolph Kratz, 22, was convicted in 1943 of murdering a fellow prisoner of war at Lethbridge and was sent to the penitentiary.

It says records show Kratz and Riggan lived three cells apart and that Kratz was returned to Germany in 1954.

M. Riggan said he agrees that a man convicted of charges of misuse of public funds should not become a member of Parliament. Then he related what he said were the circumstances of his case.

Father of six children, he is president of the Delta Social Cedit Association, the largest party group in B.C.

Officials of the attorney-general's department in Victoria were not immediately available to comment on whether Riggan is eligible to run for election.

A pertinent section of the Elections Act says a person is disqualified from election if he is "convicted of treason or any indictable offence, unless he has obtained a free or conditional pardon for the offence or has undergone the sentence imposed for the offence."

DOLLAR LOWER

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar 3-64 lower at $1.03 1-32 in terms of U.S. funds. Week ago $1.03.

And in This Corner . . .

NEW YORK (AP)—Never ones to skirt the issue, the girls at Barnard College have won the battle of Bermuda shorts.

Shorts worn to class and library when sessions start later this month will be okay if they are not:

Too short. Too bright. Or, ahem, too tight.

However, across the street at Columbia University, the girls will simply have to wear long coats over the shorts. There are boys over there.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Retired pullman porter William Tyler, who spent part of his $140,000 sweepstakes winnings on a private railroad car tour, came home Thursday to his three-room apartment.

"I'm just going to live the way I always have," said Tyler.

Wearing a gray homburg and pin-striped business suit, Tyler said he spent about $18,000 on the chartered 8000-mile trip with eight friends.

"It was worth it," said Tyler, 78, who always dreamed of taking such a tour in his own private car.

"I don't have any spending plans for any other trips," he said, "unless I get me another horse."

Not Two Party Election—Gregory

Party Multiplicity Danger To Democracy, Club Told

Democracy in Canada is being imperilled by a multiplicity of political parties, Nelson Kiwanis Club heard Thursday night.

An Olympics-type of eliminations designed to restore discipline to the democratic system was suggested by Rev. E. Donovan Jones, who addressed the club at the Hume Hotel.

He was speaking on the conservation of the democratic way of life, which he said, required action soon.

Democracy had been "bought at some agonizing prices and could easily be sold down the river," Mr. Jones said. "This delicate balance of the concept of rule by the people is most difficult to preserve . . . and we are in danger of losing our principles of democracy."

The trouble sprang from politicians "who do not study history," he said. "And when they don't study the past they are not acquainted with the experiences of mankind and idiotically repeat the mistakes of mankind."

"You only have to look at Germany to see how easy it is to overthrow democracy. Hitler hadn't a ghost of a chance until he was opposed by more than one party and he came in power because all who opposed him split their votes among two other parties."

He saw nothing wrong with present parties, but he felt there "is something wrong with our discipline in democracy when we allow such a peril to intrude."

This lack of discipline produced Hitler in Germany and turmoil in France's government affairs.

His suggestion for a means to setting the country back on the path of disciplined democracy:

"Leave your provinces for all parties to try their wings and prove their abilities, but at the national level, have an elimination race."

Mr. Jones suggested counting machines be set up where voters could record two choices for the two parties they liked best. The two most popular parties would be the only ones to participate in a national election.

"Think of the expense," a critic had said to him. "But I say think of the value," Mr. Jones emphasized.

In the name of conservation, he said, "we must do away with a multiplicity of parties. It (the elimination system) makes sense in the Olympics, why not in politics?"

Texans Long on Pride And Long on Memory

Nelson and Creston are still remembered with warmth by a Texas farm group which toured this area four years ago, H. (Fritz) Farenholtz found on a recent trip to Dallas.

With Alex McDonald, Mr. Farenholtz recently attended a Deere and Company industrial display at Dallas.

Mr. Farenholtz was invited to take part in a radio program conducted by Murray Cox, manager of WFAA, who was with the farm group of 200 persons which toured this district.

"We remember Creston and Nelson best," Mr. Cox said during the radio discussion. Mr. Cox speaks daily on a farm broadcast at noon and during this urged his listeners to stay tuned to hear his Nelson visitor speak.

He described th. Creston-Nelson part of the tour as "more personalized" and remarked that "When we go for a holiday we go somewhere, but when you go for a holiday you don't have to go." This was a reference to Kootenay's lakes and mountains, which Mr. Cox commented on with enthusiasm several times during the broadcast.

Subjects also ranged over farming, fishing and hunting, and the progress of road improvements.

Mr. Cox sent his regards to Joseph Kary, mayor at the time of the tour; city clerk C. W. R. Harper, Mrs. Elsie Christiansen, Chamber of Commerce secretary, and Mrs. R. H. Dill, who entertained Mrs. Cox.

Another highlight of the Dallas visit, Mr. Farenholtz said, was to meet Floris Florio, brother of Joseph Florio of Nelson, who entertained them at dinner and took them on a sightseeing tour of the Dallas area.

Prairie Cyclists Invade Nelson

Forty - five members of the nation's black-leather-jacket boys kept Nelson in a constant din of straight pipes and peeling tires Saturday night when a "gypsy caravan" of motorcyclists invaded the city.

The caravan, joined by cycle clubs from Saskatchewan, Calgary and Spokane, passed through the city over the weekend on their way west.

With only their black leather jackets, motorcycle boots and crash helmets for protection, the nomadic adventurists travel light, sleeping under the stars with only their dual exhausts to keep them warm.

Ten club members from Calgary, two from Saskatchewan and the remaining travellers from Spokane and points south were among the visitors.

The caravan moved out of Nelson early Sunday morning.

Herridge Named To Tokyo Delegation

H. W. Herridge, MP for Kootenay West, has been named a member of an all-party delegation of two senators and four members of the House of Commons to attend the 49th Annual Conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union to be held in Tokyo from Sept. 29 to October 7, it was announced in Ottawa yesterday.

It is expected that 450 delegates from 58 nations will be in attendance.

Bishop Beattie's Condition Serious

BISHOP BEATTIE

KELOWNA (CP) — Rt. Rev. Philip R. Beattie, 48, Anglican Bishop of the Kootenays, was reported Thursday in serious condition in hospital here following an abdominal operation.

Exact nature of Bishop Beattie's illness has not been disclosed by hospital or church officials. He was admitted four days ago.

A bachelor, he was elected Bishop of the Kootenays in March, 1955, one of the youngest bishops in the Anglican church.

He is a native of Barrie, Ont., the seventh in a family of nine. He left school at 16 to work in a Toronto stock broker's office. In 1931 he returned to school and graduated from Wycliffe College, Toronto, in 1936.

To help pay his tuition he worked part time and during the summers as a garage attendant, teacher, fire fighter and missionary.

His first post after ordination was as general secretary of the Student Christian Movement of Canada which required him to tour Canadian universities.

For a time he was rector of the Church of Ephiphany in Sudbury, Ont., and following the war became rector of St. George's Church in St. Catharines, Ont.

He came to Victoria in 1952 and was elevated to his post as Anglican bishop of Kootenay Diocese in 1955. His diocese takes in the entire southeast corner of B.C. and covers about 83,000 square miles, including such places as Nelson, Penticton, Vernon, Revelstoke and Field.

44 Cast Ballots In Advance Poll

First ballots were cast in the provincial election at Nelson Thursday, 44 taking advantage of advance poll facilities at the Civic Centre lounge, Mrs. Stanley Morris reported.

The advance poll will be conducted from 1 to 9 p.m. today and Saturday.

Calls for Return of Integrity in Gov't

A plea for the return of integrity in provincial government and a warning to the people of B.C. that this general election is not a two-party affair was sounded by Victoria Liberal candidate George F. Gregory, addressing about 50 people on behalf of Nelson-Creston candidate R. B. Oliver in Nelson Thursday night.

"I suggest that deception marks the whole pattern during this whole campaign," he said.

"Do not allow yourselves to be persuaded that the Trade Union is going 100 per cent for the CCF party. There are a great many people in the Trade Union who believe same as I do that the last thing we want in society is a class society where Social Credit represents the working man."

The state if one believes in such a two-party theory is, he said, "that a voter is showing less that high degree of integrity if he accepts without question that assertion that it is a choice between Social Credit or CCF."

JOHNNY ONE NOTE

As to the charges that he is "Johnny One Note of the Liberal party," as branded on him by Attorney-General Robert Bonner, in reply to remarks he made Wednesday questioning the integrity of the cabinet and Mr. Bonner, he said, "Let me say this before you good people. Let me say with pride. If I am going to sound only one note, I am happy and proud that it be a note of integrity."

In his address on "honesty" of the Social Credit record, Mr. Gregory, Harvard Law graduate as well as UBC, touched on several controversial items of the Social Credit government, particularly the Robert Sommers case and its handling by Mr. Bonner.

"Are highways and bridges and green and white-painted ferries the only things which count any longer in British Columbia?" he challenged.

SUCCESS STORY

"How much dishonesty must we be prepared to tolerate as the price of a mile of blacktop? How much corruption must we accept in return for a promise of full employment?"

In referring to the Social Credit success story, Mr. Gregory touched upon these items: "It (the record) shows a premier boasting of tax relief after imposing four brand-new taxes, flogging tax 1953, mining tax 1953, insurance premiums tax 1957, and motive-fuel tax 1959 — without even counting the infamous "bingo" tax.

"It shows fulfillment of a promise progressively to reduce sales tax by "reducing" it all the way from 3 per cent up to 5 per cent."

CHISELLING

"It is a story which includes everything from petty chiselling, to proven corruption, defended, all down the line by leaders of Social Credit," said the Victoria MLA.

In Mr. Bonner's handling of the Sommers case he stated that the whole affair could have been quickly solved by the simple act of a look at Sommers' bank records.

"All that was necessary to show him guilty or innocent was production of his bank records," he said. "By this simple act Sommers, if innocent, could have showed Evers field up a liar, could have shown himself a man toward who Inspector Butler's evidence pointed in error."

Yet since Sommer's conviction he stressed all but two members of the Social Credit MLA's have approved of Mr. Bonner's handling of the case.

NO REGRET

"It (the record) discloses no note of regret at what occurred, no defense either of those who participated or of those who acquiesced in it. It offers no promise that such a thing will never be allowed to occur again," he said. "The record shows Social Credit, proud, unrepentant and unreformed."

In closing Mr. Gregory said, "I am on no witch hunt. Let us be quick to forgive those who have yielded to temptation and repented. But let us judge harshly those who witnessed and countenanced and defended the falling of one of their number by the wayside and remain unrepentant. Let there be heard from border to border the cry, 'We want integrity in government. We demand it.' "

Fine Weather Welcomed By Trekkers

At least 25 outdoors enthusiasts, drawn by the current spell of fair weather, will journey from Creston on the annual Salmo-Creston trek Sunday, B. A. (Bud) Fowlie reported Thursday night.

The Creston group, which will be joined by Chamber of Commerce representatives from Salmo, Trail and Nelson, will set out Saturday night in order to get over the more rugged eastern terrain in time for a rendezvous at Summit Lake.

"With this kind of weather I think we'll be taking off bright and early," Mr. Fowlie commented. "The enthusiasm is growing here."

The Creston group is taking cooking facilities, salads, etc., "everything but the steaks, in fact," said Mr. Fowlie. He said the trekkers from the west side were being asked to bring their own steaks, plates, knives and forks.

The Creston party plans to camp about half way to the meeting site Saturday night. Four-wheel drive vehicles will be used.

A good turnout is expected from Salmo and Nelson, and Trail will also send trekkers. Herbert Harrop, in charge of the Nelson arrangements, said 12 had been lined up so far, Thursday night.

An informal get-together is planned at Summit Lake.

P. H. Long Passes at 86

A resident of West Kootenay since 1901, Phillip Hugh Long, 86, died at Mount St. Francis Infirmary Thursday night.

Mr. Long was a retired railroader who worked for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Nelson for 40 years. He was a blacksmith in the old Roundhouse.

He first settled at Sandon and with other Slocan oldtimers operated packhorse trains. He is known to have hiked from Sandon to Kaslo several times.

He and Mrs. Long resided at 709 Silica Street since 1921. Mr. Long was a patient in Kootenay Lake General Hospital for a month before moving to Mount St. Francis more than a month ago.

A member of the Cathedral of Mary Immaculate, he was also once a member of the Knights of Columbus. His wife is his only survivor.

Trail Political Forum Draws Overflow Crowd

TRAIL — Over 700 packed the auditorium of the J. Lloyd Crowe High School Thursday night to hear the five candidates for the Trail-Rossland Riding in the provincial election.

The large crowd attending the political forum, sponsored by the Mine-Mill Union, forced a change of venue from the Union Hall to the auditorium.

Each candidate was given 15 minutes to outline his party's platform, and eight minutes for rebuttal. There was no question period.

Candidates heard were D. L. Brothers, Social Credit; A. L. Warrington, Communist; K. W. Gaylor, CCF; Dr. M. E. Krause, Liberal; and J. W. Loader, Conservative. Chairman was Jerry Flanagan.

Two Nelsonites Partake in Biggest Civilian Airlift

The biggest civilian airlift in North America ever staged thrilled two Nelson businessmen who recently took part in a Dallas, Texas, industrial display.

H. (Fritz) Farenholtz and Alex McDonald rode in Canadian Pacific Airline's "Empress of Santiago" from Calgary to Dallas on a six-hour non-stop flight. The Santiago is the CPA flagship which visited Castlegar on the inaugural flight of the new DC-6 service between Vancouver and Calgary.

The mass movement into Dallas involved 6000 dealers, guests and personnel of John Deere and Company, which was host in the dislay of $2,000,000 worth of new farm and industrial machinery.

Nine airlines were recruited to take the visitors from 96 cities, and 76 flights were required.

The Nelson visitors commented upon the smoothness of the whole operation which had taken 18 months preparation. Movies and closed circuit telecasts were seen on a five-sided screen hung in an auditorium. At noon, 6000 lunch boxes were distributed. At 6000 sat down in the evening to a huge dinner and other entertainment included an ice show and fireworks.

Debunks Untruths About Social Credit Members . . .

Packed Hall, Overflow Crowd Hear Black Speak of SC Financial Wizardry

Policies of the Saskatchewan CCF government and federal government highways construction program were attacked by Hon. W. D. Black in Creston Wednesday night.

To an absolutely packed hall at the Canadian Legion in Creston Wednesday night, Hon. W. D. Black, member *for Nelson-Creston riding, gave an accounting of his govern*ment's stewardship during the past eight years.

The overflow audience of more than 100 listened on loudspeakers outside the hall.

At the beginning of his talk, Mr. Black said he would not stoop to character assassination of any other candidates, but would vehemently attack the policies of other parties.

He felt the greatest achievements the Social Credit government was able to render was the debt reduction and retirement, and explained the values that now accrue from this policy—good credit rating, being able to guarantee the borrowing of lesser governing bodies and also to be able to increase the services in each of the departments' spending to the tune of some $56,000,000.

He explained what a contingent liability was, and read articles published from the Financial Post, Reader's Digest and others, commending the Premier and his government for setting up a proper, modern system of keeping public accounts.

Mr. Black reiterated previous statements by other cabinet ministers that this government has not or does not intend to give away a single drop of water, a sliver of wood or a teaspoon of soil to anyone.

He said this would have to be done by provincial statutes and anyone could search these statutes and find there are none under Social Credit.

He also said that the people who are responsible for this type of propaganda are indulging in such giveaways in the province of Saskatchewan, and read a portion of Hansard, dated May 26, 1959, in which Mr. Diefenbaker was reported as having said that the Saskatchewan government had invited private enterprise to build both a steel mill and cement plant in Saskatchewan.

The CCF government has backed the borrowing of these private companies to the tune of some millions of dollars, Mr. Black said, and the promoters of said concerns were allowed to buy large numbers of stock at 60 cents per share, which later were sold at public auction at some six dollars per share.

Mr. Black also made mention of highway contracts, and methods of issuing such, and the unhappy situation that had developed in respect to continental construction in this area.

He went on to debunk some "malicious rumors" that Hon. P. A. Gaglardi's family were shareholders in construction companies.

For example, he pointed out, a current rumor has been that the Minister's son-in-law and brother-in-law were shareholders and participants in construction companies and were receiving contracts. Mr. Black then wryly commented that Mr. Gaglardi, "strange to state," has no daughter and no married sister.

Nisei in Japan Send Gift to New Denver

VANCOUVER (CP) — A gift for the village of New Denver has arrived in Vancouver by boat from an association of Canadian-born Japanese who elected to go to Japan after the Second World War.

The gift, from the Canadian Nisei Association of Japan, consists of a ceramic garden set, a collection of 12 Japanese dolls and specimens of culture pearls. Some cherry trees will arrive in November so a Japanese garden can be set up at New Denver, where many Japanese were sent during the war years.

Accompanying the gift was floral designs of cherry blossoms and the maple leaf with an inscription — "From the land of the cherry blossom to the land of the maple leaf."

Mrs. R. S. Nishidera of Tokyo, director of the association, wrote a Vancouver newspaper:

"We Canadian Niseis have at length come to realize our long - pending matter of sending souvenir gifts to the people of New Denver, in token of gratitude and co-operation the community gave to Japanese evacuees during the relocation period."

Harding Accuses Government . . .

Unemployment Rises While Gov't Clings to Allotted Funds

CCF philosophy and program were outlined for a well-attended meeting in Bosun Hall by H. W. Herridge, MP for Kootenay West, and Randolph Harding, CCF candidate for Kaslo-Slocan riding.

Mr. Herridge dealt briefly with legislation passed at the last session of parliament. He stated that the major problems facing Canada at this time were connected with international affaisr, overseas markets and continued unemployment.

Dealing with the CCF philosophy and program, Mr. Herridge said that the CCF is a segment of an international movement working for world peace, economic justice and stability.

Speaking in support of the CCF candidate for Kaslo-Slocan, Mr. Herridge stated that Randolph Harding is a man of integrity, in*telligence and industry, the three* main requisites for a member of parliament.

Mr. Harding then spoke of the CCF program and major issues in the provincial campaign.

Dealing with the merits of public ownership of hydro power, Mr. Harding felt it was wrong and unjust for the people of B.C. to have one-tenth of their province controlled by one man.

He urged the development of the north without creation of vast monopolistic empires such as the Wenner-Gren scheme.

The audience showed a keen interest in regard to High Arrow and the development of the Columbia River.

Dealing with failure of the government to expend some eighteen millions of dollars voted by the legislature for such purposes as highways, roads to mines, forest access roads, housing for senior citizens and other money starved departments, Mr. Harding pointed out that these monies were available while some 80,000 unemployed tramped the highways of B.C. in search of employment.

The CCF candidate explained the party's platform in regard to the medical care plan, assistance to *municipalities, education, automo*bile accident insurance and other points of the program.

Subdivisions, Pump Relay Troubles Aired

Subdivisions and water relay timing problems were among topics discussed at the Castlegar Village Commission meeting this week.

R. W. Cook, parks commissioner, reported that the grader had been rented for use on the subdivision at Kinnaird and also to H. A. Simmons, Ltd., Celgar at the pulp mill site. Rental is $9 an hour, and they supply the operator.

Fire commissioner G. Carr reported that fire chief A. Lewis would like to attend the fire convention at Calgary September 19. He will be sent with $150 expenses granted.

Commissioner W. Thorpe, health and welfare, reported complaints that the condition of a certain piece of property were not sanitary, as there are a number of tents on this property. Stan Hush of the West Kootenay Health Unit has investigated and found it in satisfactory condition.

Mr. Thorpe stated that the deadline for purchasing property from A. Shewchuk subdivision is September 30. He also gave a report on the AKM convention at Grand Forks on August 26.

Water commissioner A. Sylvest reported that the works program for the next two weeks will involve changing the water times, as the timing relay of number one pump stuck and shut the pump down.

E. Greep, tradesman, has been asked to fix the pump.

A graph is to be kept by the clerk indicating how much water is being used and the cost.

Council will give up their rights to Sheep Lake at the request of the Department of Recreation and Conservation, providing this property is used for recreational purposes for the public.

A $20 grant will be given to the Castlegar and district hospital WA at the request of secretary Mrs. J. Bainbridge.

Chairman and Mrs. N. Oglow and commissioner Sylvest will attend the UBCM convention at New Westminster Sept. 21-23.

A. E. Norris requested that council accept his resignation as their representative on the hospital board as he is leaving the district.

A motion was passed that Ross McCutcheon be approached to replace Mr. Norris on the board.

A motion was passed also that a bylaw regulating the use of firearms, air rifles and air pistols be instituted.

Entertains District Staffs

Teachers, wives and husbands from Castlegar School District No. 9, were guests of the school board at a supper held Tuesday in the United Church basement. "Relations between the school board and teaching staff in the district have always been excellent," said chairman Mrs. W. Jacobson, who pointed out that the purpose of the supper was to welcome old and new teachers and have them become acquainted.

New district superintendent C. Bissell stated that he was impressed with the good relationships in Castlegar as compared toother districts where he had worked.

"It gets the term off to a good start," he said.

Principals of various schools in the district, which include Terrace, Robson, Ootischenia, Champion Creek and Renata, as well as Castlegar and Kinnaird, introduced the staff of their respective schools.

Supper was convened by the United Church WA.

Kootenay Development Theme at Procter Meet

PROCTER—A good audience at Procter heard Hon. W. D. Black speak on Social Credit policies in general, and particularly on what might be hoped for in the Kootenays if the countryside continues to develop as it is doing.

Mention was made of steel and possible subsidiary industries. "Electric power is still a problem, but as the demand becomes insistent this must eventually be brought in, which will spell increased industry," said Mr. Black.

The provincial member stated that "Good government is not any more nor less than good housekeeping."

He gave a number of financial statistics and mentioned parity bonds, "heavily subscribed to owing to the confidence of the public." In the face of this those in opposition to the party were steadily attempting to destroy such confidence, commented Mr. Black.

He spoke of future road-making, pointing out that more B.C. people are holidaying within their own province, and more roads are needed in scenic parts.

With so many rivers and lakes, ferries are being overtaxed by the vast travelling public, creating bottlenecks about which the department of highways hopes to find a commonsense solution, he concluded.

Sportsmen Also Conservationists

Fall is a lovely time in the Kootenays. Probably in no other part of the world are the skies so bright, the air so cool and bracing and the changing colors of the trees on mountains and in the valleys so beautiful to behold. It is good to be alive and we suspect that much of the allure of hunting is due to the unconscious desire to be out in the open air and to be part of this delightful Fall world.

There are dangers in hunting but every sport has its dangers. Those accidents which result from hunting are few — only 1.4 per cent of all accidental deaths whereas the deaths from automobile accidents is 22.7 of the total. Surprisingly enough the only lower figure is that for accidentally choking on food which is 1.2 per cent.

Gun accidents are distressing to everyone and hunters do all they can to avoid them. They try to wear colors which will be easily visible and this with some color-blind people is not always successful. Yellow looks white to some persons and red is not so good as might be expected. The two best colors to use are fluorescent "blaze-orange" and fluorescent "neon-red," but quite apart from protective colors, the greatest single safety measure is the determination of hunters not to shoot unless the target is completely visible.

Hunting seasons are usually good these years and this must be credited largely to the keenness of game departments and the constant interest displayed by our rod and gun clubs. These latter are always alert to improvements in game management.

They are concerned with regulations to prevent over-shooting and depletion of game, and they are just as concerned with fishing and the increasing demand for more fishing areas. They are concerned too with flyways, the chain of stopping places for migratory waterfowl. They oppose strongly the reclamation of marshy lands, arguing that these are essential for the continuance of our wild life.

The Rod and Gun clubs are probably our oldest institution of this kind. They deserve a great deal of praise for what they have done and more support from those who enjoy the fruits of their labor.

Interpreting the News

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The fires of religious bigotry are sweeping across southern states, fanning into some northern areas and threatening to leave scars that will be remembered long after the 1960 presidential campaign is over.

Almost daily, in pamphlets, speeches and even sermons from the pulpit, a widening army of southern Baptists and Methodists are subjecting Senator John Kennedy to an immense anti-Catholic smear campaign — possibly the most virulent of its kind in the history of the United States.

Kennedy had anticipated some opposition to his Catholic religion just as there had been opposition to the 1928 defeated Democratic candidate, Al Smith. But his aides hadn't anticipated the ferocity of the opposition which, in the South at least, seems to have taken on the appearance of a medieval witchhunt.

Every legend, every rumor and even outright lies about the ambitions of Catholicism is spread among southern voters as straight fact. Persistently hammered home to the voter is the allegation that if a Catholic ever becomes president, the United States would become a political vassal of the Vatican.

Kennedy has set up a committee under 42-year-old Jim Wine, a Presbyterian elder, to set the facts straight, to repeat what he so often has stated: that he believes in the separation of church and state; that his decisions as president would be his own and not that of any church; that he is opposed to the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican.

But his southern supporters fear his effort may be too little and too late. Kennedy's campaign leaders in such traditional southern Democratic strongholds as Virginia, Georgia and even Texas fear he may lose out to Vice-President Richard Nixon, the Republican candidate.

Nixon, a Quaker, in fact made a few forays into the South before he went to hospital with an infected knee and came away surprised and encouraged by the welcome he received in Democratic territory.

Protestants outnumber Catholics in the U.S. about four to one. Most of the Catholics are in the northern states. Some of the more radical religious leaders of the South say their anti-Catholic campaign has just started; that they are just beginning to move.

But others apparently think they already have gone too far.

One southern Baptist minister, confronted with evidence that he was circulating anti-Catholic statements falsely attributed to Thomas Jefferson, said:

"We southern Baptists did not plan to come out on this religious issue as strongly as we have."

No Need for More Testing

The U.S. will resume underground nuclear testing, President Eisenhower implied recently, if the Geneva talks with Russia on a test ban stay deadlocked.

The layman doesn't know who is putting sand in the diplomatic wheels at Geneva. But he will have no trouble forming a clear opinion, and an adverse one, if Mr. Eisenhower makes the unilaterial decision he threatens.

If the U.S. and Russia both have enough atom bombs to annihilate humanity several times over, what's the need for further testing? The official U.S. answer has always been: To produce and perfect small, tactical nuclear weapons for use in limited warfare.

But this answer no longer makes sense if one can believe Dr. Hans A. Bethe of the Cornell Laboratory of Nuclear Studies. As he has been involved in the technical discussions at Geneva, he clearly ranks as an expert. He writes in the Atlantic magazine:

"We are far ahead of Russia in the development of small nuclear weapons. We have nuclear weapons ranging from 20 kilotons down to a fraction of a kiloton. We have them in different sizes. We have weapons which can be carried in big airplanes, in ballistic missiles, in land-based rockets, and even in airborne rockets. . . . We have nuclear weapons which can be shot in short-range rockets, like Honest John, we have nuclear weapons so small that they can be carried by the infantry with relative ease. We have an enormous arsenal of such weapons."

This information, probably news to most people, blows up the argument for further trials and experiments. The U.S., it's clear, is amply supplied with atomic fire-power for any sort of war, limited or unlimited. If tests are resumed, the only possible explanation will be that the fire-eaters of the Pentagon are in command.

Letters to The Editor

Many Helpers in Boys' Baseball Tournament

To The Editor:

Sir—The fact that Bill Taylor has referred to me as "struggling" with my "one-man show," the Boys' Midsummer Baseball Tournament, and wrote disparagingly of "the kind of support" I've had from the parents, makes me realize that it is time I thanked, publicly, all those who helped to make the tournament the success it has been. Because of your larger circulation, I hope you can allow me space to refute Taylor's insinuations.

The following did more, by helping with score-keeping, umpiring and coaching, at the games, than I did: Maryan Harvie, Sharon Walls, Verna Chernoff, Lorraine Webster, Doris Holliday, Gwen Ward, Thelma Campbell, Eileen Richardson, Gladys and Arvid Schneider, Albert Vulcano, Stan Playdon, Dick Roberts, Nick Jmaeff, M. Arishenkoff, Bill Phillips, Matt Phillips and Mark Hennig. Most of these are parents but some are not related in any way to players.

These people did the real work at the games, giving hours of their time, and all I've done is act as manager of the tournament. It has been far from a "one-man show."

As for support from parents, we have to remember that our game times — mid-morning and mid-afternoon — are not convenient for either mothers who have their homes to run or fathers who have jobs to go to. And we had games every day. I've had more support from parents for the tournament than we got for the Civic Recreation Commission's Shrimp league when games were played only twice a week, at a more convenient time, and far more than I remember the Babe Ruth league championship play-offs got last year.

The only "struggle" I've really had with the tournament, has been with a half dozen, rowdy, undisciplined boys — out of over 70— who didn't know the meaning of sportsmanship and failed to appreciate that coaches, umpires and others were unpaid and only trying to help them.

CY JACKMAN.

F. B. Pearce. . . ...Writes

School is in again and soon our primary children, those delightful six-year-olds, will be learning to read. Entranced mother will hang breathlessly upon their children's words as they recount the adventures of Dick and Jane.

Run Jane run,
Run Dick run,
Run Spot run,
Run, run, run.

Pablum for little girls perhaps, but not for boys who have been playing cowboys and Indians for years past. A primer for them should read:

Bang, bang, You are dead.

Bang, bang, I shot you through the head.

Run, Jim, run. The Indians are after you.

You are dead Jim. I shot you.

Most unscientific, of course, with too many new words introduced, but I am willing to bet the boys would enjoy learning to read and that the next day they could read it all to teacher without any hesitation, and this too:

This is a tractor, Jim.

It is not a tractor. It is a bulldozer.

It is so a tractor.

It is not. It is a bulldozer. It has a blade in front.

Tractors don't have blades.

My uncle has a farm. He has a tractor and his tractor has a blade. So there.

Too many new words, too many long ones but at the back of it all there are ideas which a boy understands and ideas are what makes reading. As for words being too long it is just as easy for a child to recognize "Mesopotamia" as "me," perhaps easier.

When the child goes to school it starts its reading at a vocabulary level far below its oral level and certainly much below its understanding level. To make it easy for the child we start it reading with ideas a four-year-old might have and through the elementary schools the children are always two grades below — in ideas — where they should be. If they read well they are to be congratulated for there is little in their school readers to feed their imaginations.

Basically there are conventions which must be followed. The Dick and Jane series are very prim and very proper. That I have given as an example for boys is decidedly not. I can quite imagine that a great many maiden school teachers would be up in arms at the idea of talking about cowboys and Indians and they would have no patience at all with tractors and bulldozers.

Liberal Adviser Advises Gov't To Prepare for Economic Crisis

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A Liberal party economic adviser says machinery should be set up to enable the government to take swift, effective action in an economic crisis.

Maurice Lamontagne, former professor of economics at Laval University, outlined a recommended program Wednesday to strengthen government economic initiative at a study conference on national problems at Queen's University.

He said under traditional practices government action is often restricted and delayed by such things as budgetary decisions.

Policies should be devised to meet problems concerning specific industries in specific areas.

"It is dangerous to attempt to solve such economic problems as unemployment as if they had the same causes and intensity throughout the country and as if they could be effectively met by the same policies in all industries and in all regions," he said.

"In Canada we have well-known depressed industries such as coal, wool and cotton textiles and depressed areas such as the Atlantic provinces."

CHANGED FROM 1930s

Mr. Lamontagne said the nature of the unemployment problem had changed from the 1930s when unemployment and excess industrial capacity were viewed as basic long - term problems. Now there was no fear of a prolonged depression, but of short-term business-cycle unemployment.

Mr. Lamontagne's address was considered to represent the latest in the Liberal party's economic thinking. He is a special economic adviser to Opposition Leader Lester Pearson, who first suggested the study conference.

The economist's main recommendations included setting up an economic research council with which the bureau of statistics should work in close collaboration; an advisory board on bility; and a special cabinet committee.

He also suggested establishment of a public debt commission, responsible to the finance minister, which would manage the national debt. This would permit the Bank of Canada to concentrate on monetary matters.

Another proposal was for a price conciliation board to which "certain monopolistic industries" would submit projected price increases before putting them into effect—though remaining free to fix their own prices.

Mr. Lamontagne advocated that government financing be flexible to show a deficit, surplus or balance to meet changing situations in which unemployment and inflation rapidly succeed each other. Tax changes should be made as required, and retroactive tax cuts introduced at any time.

Mr. Lamontagne expressed concern at neglect of economic research in Canada. At government level research usually was piecemeal and directly related only to the department concerned.

He recommended that the Industrial Development Bank have a special lending policy for the Atlantic provinces, with special sound economic development where possible.

Russell Bell, assistant research director, Canadian Labor Congress, warned that unless substantial remedial measures are taken "the Canadian economy may find itself in a position of stagnation at least for the first half of the 1960s."

He considered that deficit financing in the public sector would not, under present conditions, risk inflation. Work could be expanded in such fields as education, social security services, urban redevelopment, roads, hospitals and low-rental housing.

Mrs. Jean Edmonds, Winnipeg business writer and third member of a discussion panel, suggested the expanding needs of technical education cannot be met at a provincial level. It was a national problem.

Slide Kills Three In McBride Area

McBRIDE, B.C. (CP)—A rain-soaked hillside caved in on a highway project Wednesday near this Cariboo community, killing three men working some 150 feet below.

"There was only a split-second warning when the slide started," said Mike Mynio, 24, of McBride, one of two men who escaped. "and I just happened to jump the right way."

Buried in the slide were Allen Frear, about 50, his 22-year-old son Allen Jr., both of McBride, and Francis Fred Lee, 48, of Prince George.

Lee's body was recovered shortly after from the huge avalanche of mud, trees and rock. RCMP and workmen dug through the night in the search for the other two bodies.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

John Krahn, 22, of Abbotsford, B.C., was taken to hospital but his condition was not serious. About 15 other members of the highway crew, working 19 miles west of here, were not endangered.

The slide, between 60 and 100 feet wide and up to 30 feet deep, swallowed up three of the workers while tossing Krahn clear.

"One of the men who disappeared was right beside me," Mynio said in a telephone interview. "I was pretty scared and all I could think of was to get away."

All were employed by a construction company clearing trees from the ravine so it could be filled in as part of a highway construction project. McBride is 120 miles southeast of Prince George.

Laak's Records Checked, Find Him Eligible

OTTAWA (CP)—The immigration department said Thursday that an examination of its records failed to disclose any information which would have made Aleksander Laak ineligible for admission to Canada as an immigrant.

Laak committed suicide in Winnipeg Tuesday night after being accused by the Russian news agency Tass of being a Nazi war criminal. The 53-year-old native of Estonia hanged himself from a garage rafter at his Winnipeg home.

The department said it had made a "thorough check" of records relating to Laak's admission to Canada in April, 1948, as a landed immigrant. Laak at that time was classified as a displaced person and was sponsored by the International Refugee Organization.

"An examination of these records failed to disclose any information which would have rendered Laak ineligible for admission to Canada," the department said.

A department official said Wednesday that Laak was given a police security check before he was allowed to enter Canada.

Soviet Has Hard Time Keeping People Mum

By JOHN MILLER

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The call to Soviet citizens to be on their guard against foreign spies in their midst and the "disrupting" influence of bourgeois ideology when they go abroad again is being sounded throughout the Soviet Union.

The code word of the campaign is "bditelnost," the Russian word for vigilance.

It has been waged at different pitches on and off since the end of the war. But with the shooting down of the U.S. U-2 spy plane, the call for vigilance now is being made almost daily by some section or other of the Soviet propaganda media.

Sovietskaya Rossiya, organ of the Russian Federation Communist Party committee, commented recently: "Every year, thousands of foreign tourists, journalists, students and portsmen come to the Soviet Union. They are gladly met as guests and helped to get a correct impression of the Soviet Union and its people."

But, the newspaper added, Russians should not forget that imperialist intelligence organizations plant agents among tourists and trade delegations and carry out spy ctivities.

ACCUSE ENVOYS

One newspaper said recently that a group of embassy officials travelling from Moscow by train were seen by train conductors trying secretly to photograph "objects" and make notes. The train conductors demanded to see the notes, it said, and found they contained information about military airports and bridges.

But so-called spies are not the only targets in the campaign. Newspapers are particularly incensed about citizens who give away secret information to their relatives, friends and even strangers.

Also under attack are "foolish people" who lose secret documents and speak "too freely" on the telephone.

Vigilance by Russians abroad also is emphasized. About 900,000 Soviet citizens visited "non-socialist" countries last year and more are expected to go this year.

They are being warned that foreign intelligence services are waiting and watching. "They will try to provocate, and even to recruit, Soviet citizens," one newspaper said, adding: "Many Soviet people completely devoted to their country are too talkative and lack self-control."

Biologist Tests Phytoplankton In Coast Water

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Phytoplankton, the tiny marine organism that may solve the feeding problems of future generations, is being cultivated by biologists in the waters off this Vancouver Island city.

Dr. John Strickland, a fisheries biologist, wanted to see how phytoplankton grows and matures but ordinary water conditions make this impossible. So he hit on the idea of a plastic bag 20 feet in diameter to hold 25,000 gallons of water. It was feet below the surface and anchored.

In the bag, Dr. Strickland and his assistant, Dr. Timothy Parsons, seeded the plankton field. They have undertaken tests to determine how much phosphate and nitrate is taken out of the salt water to feed the organism and also to establish the carbohydrate, fat and protein content of the plankton.

The organism, no larger than the point of a pin, grows quickly and, says Dr. Parsons, there is more phytoplankton in the oceans than there is plant life on earth.

Because of rapid growth the scientists suggested it might provide a source of food for passengers on space ships to could be tomorrow's dinner and the phytoplankton could be grown right aboard the ship.

Shoe Information Expert Says To Pay More for Most Used Shoe

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Pay the most for the shoe you're going to wear the most.

This is a tip from Elizabeth Hammond, director of the Shoe Information Bureau of Canada, who says shoes for special occasions needn't be as expensive.

Adding a fashion note, she adds that the latest shoes this season are styled with even more pointed toes and high slim heels. To keep the points on the ground, pull out and down each time you remove these shoes and stuff the toes with paper.

LOWER HEEL

Mrs. Hammond, a young-looking grandmother, says she has conceded to a lower heel. Squash, keg and stacked heels are all being shown in low-heeled styles, ideal for walking.

Heels of dress shoes for fall and winter are slimmer and straighter than ever. The newest high heel measures 3⅜ inches.

One of the newer styles has a squared-off heel and toe, but the toe still appears elongated. The oval toe, forecast last spring, "just didn't catch on."

With the pointed toe just reaching its prime in the United States, Mrs. Hammond estimates it will be popular in Canada for at least another two years.

In reply to complaints that the little heels get caught in grates and door mats, she said, "You've got to be conscious of the little heels and learn to walk around the obstacles."

The working girl needs at least two pairs of shoes so she can alternate them daily for a maximum of comfort and wear. Softly-textured unlined shoes have come into prominence. Among the new styles are casual walking boots with low heels.

The unlined shoes usually have the ornamentation cut into the shoe itself rather than added to it.

Calfskin and dull matt finishes outnumber black suedes but colored suedes appear frequently.

RICH BROCADES

Late-day shoes like late - day dresses appear in rich brocades, satins, jacquards and petitpoint.

Mrs. Hammond says men's shoes have changed even faster.

Following the war years, the double and triple soles became popular, and ex-service personnel, tired of black shoes and boots, bought brown shoes.

The brown shoes ran their course and the refined black shoe returned. Now men's shoes include the unlined leathers and styles range from dressy shoes to slip-ons in both dressy and casual style.

PRIEST WOUNDED

HAVANA (AP) — Informed sources said Wednesday night a Spanish Roman Catholic priest, who was founded while arranging shelter for anti-Castro youths, has left for Puerto Rico after being told to get out of Cuba. The informants said Father Marcial Bedoya left two days ago. No charges were brought against him, they said, but he was told he had 10 days to leave Cuba.

SOVIET AID

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has signed an agreement to help build a railroad and factories in the Syrian region of the United Arab Republic. The agreement calls for Soviet technical help in building a 480-mile railroad, a nitrogen fertilizer factory, and a lubricating oil plant.

SCHOOL COSTS SOAR

CALGARY (CP)— Representatives of six Alberta cities were told Wednesday to expect a sharp increase in education costs by 1965, and agreed 90 per cent of the bill should be borne by the resentatives and their councils agree, a report submitted by Calgary Commissioner Dudley Batchelor will become the basis of a brief to be submitted to the provincial government.

French Gadget Gives Manned Bombers Fresh Lease of Life

By STEWART MacLEOD

LONDON (CP) — A small French gadget may have been behind the British government's decision to rely more heavily on mobile launching sites for missiles.

The gadget, called a carcinothron, has given manned bombers a new lease on life with the greatest degree of protection since the advent of radar. The protection also applies to the bomber's missile cargos.

The carcinotron, a small electronic machine that spews out ultra-high-frequency radio waves, jams all radar sets that would normally pick up the aircraft, thus shielding the plane from enemy detection. On top of this, it can jam the guidance systems of many existing anti-aircraft missiles.

The carcinotron, developed by the Compagnie Generale de T. S. F. of Paris, is believed already installed in Britain's Victor and Vulcan bombers. Sources say the gadget has been patented in Britain and the United States and development is going ahead at full speed.

It comes at a time when British defence officials are obviously worried over the accuracy of Russian missiles — the moon shot brought the message home—and fixed missile sites are generally regarded as sitting ducks.

The white paper on defence, tabled in parliament several weeks ago, indicated that new emphasis would be placed on missile mobility.

With the carcinotron, it means that bombers equipped with short-range missiles stand a good chance of working their way past enemy radar, firing their weapons and getting back home from a mission that previously would be considered certain suicide.

One of the missiles now under investigation by Britain is the American Skybolt which, if adopted, may be carried in a military version of the Vickers VC-10 jet liner now being built. Spokesmen say that if such a missile is placed in service, the carcinotron should get much of the credit.

Few details have been published about the French invention except that its radio waves cover an unusually wide range of frequencies.

Ottawa Late in Delivering Caribou Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government now is more than three weeks behind schedule on its commitment to provide Caribou transport planes and their crews for the United Nations Congo force, it was learned Thursday.

Officials said two Caribous and their crews were trained and ready to fly to the Congo Aug. 15 but that they have not yet left.

It is understood the government ordered four Caribous from de Havilland Aircraft Limited, Downsview, Ont., for Congo service before making sure the UN wanted them.

The Caribou is designed to take off and land within short distances on rough runways. It would thus be ideal for carrying UN troops into remote areas of the Congo.

Another possible reason for the delay is that on two occasions Canadian servicemen in the Congo have been beaten and injured by Congolese troops or civilians.

Quebec Near Agreement On Highway

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage said Thursday agreement is near on Quebec participation in the Trans-Canada Highway construction project.

Mr. Lesage made the announcement to a delegation of the Quebec Province Trucking Association when they presented their annual brief to Transport Minister Gerard Cournoyer.

Candidate Suspects Vote Padding

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Progressive Conservative candidate said Wednesday night he will make application in Supreme Court here for an investigation into possible padding of the voters lists in Vancouver Centre constituency.

Patrick Reid said at a Sept. 12 election meeting an investigation of 10 polls revealed 31 voters registered in a parking lot, 11 at a filling station, 233 at a hostel, 14 in a church basement, and 12 legitimate voters registered more than once.

A Supreme Court judge will be asked to order a public review of all enumeration cards and the method by which the names were recorded.

Mr. Reid said charges could be laid against individuals found guilty of placing names on the voters' list contrary to the oath taken by all official enumerators.

Remember Children Are People, Says Man of Wide Experience

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The most efficient and understanding "mother" I know is a 28-year-old bachelor named Steve Meyer.

Although he has had no previous experience in the field, Steve finds taking care of 10 children a breeze.

"Anybody who takes the trouble to understand a child should have no problems of discipline," says this pleasant and good-looking young man. "I just remember that kids are people, and act accordingly."

As assistant stage manager of the Broadway musical hit, The Sound of Music, Steve has charge of the seven children in the cast and their three understudies, ranging in age from eight to 16.

LEARNING PROCESS

He also has to cope with their mothers; and this, he admits, is not so easy. But during the months of rehearsal and five weeks on the road, he learned to cope even with stage mothers by the time the show opened in New York.

"No mothers are allowed backstage during performances," he says. "This rule is simple to enforce, because there just isn't room.

"So we have a room in the basement fixed up for mothers and understudies. The kids watch TV and do their homework and the mothers sit and plot how to get more attention for their offspring—but it all works out okay."

Members of the cast refer to Steve as "den mother," but this doesn't bother him. He rests on his record: Not a single child has been late for a performance yet, all regard him as a pal, and one of the little girls has proposed to him.

The children portray the famous von Trapp family singers in the show.

"The one big worry of both the kids and the management is that they're all growing so fast," says Steve. "Most of them already are on their second or third pair of shoes, and both boys have outgrown their first costumes."

HURT IN FALL

"I'm Voting for the First Time"

. . . and I'm voting Social Credit

"Like most fellows and girls who are nineteen, I'm looking forward to voting for the first time. And I've been following pretty closely what the various party leaders and candidates are saying — and promising. Personally, I'm impressed with what the Social Credit Government has done since it took office—in roads, bridges, schools and in generally making B. C. a better place to live. Naturally I'm interested in being able to get a good job. I think Social Credit Government is doing its best to create employment by encouraging more industries to come here. Another thing that appeals to me is the Social Credit Government's interest in recreational facilities in B. C. Anyone who's seen some of the modern campsites will know what I mean. I like the way they get things done so I'm voting Social Credit on September 12th."

SPY STUFF

IN WASHINGTON, the State department said it had no right to deny an American passport to Dr. Maurice Halperin, shown in 1953 at time he was fired as a Boston university professor for refusing to say if he had ever been a member of the Communist party, and before he and his wife planed secretly to Russia via Mexico in 1958 to work for Soviet, probably on Latin American affairs.

IN MOSCOW, the Communist youth organ Komsomolskaya Pravda said Richard Renaud Lane, shown at home in Monterey Park, Calif., was an agent of American intelligence during the International Youth festival in Moscow in 1957, and that he recruited two Soviet young men for espionage. Silly, said Lane, in effect.

IN CHICAGO, Robert Berlin, 28, shown at his home, told a reporter that in 1958, when he was going on a two-month tour of Russia and Asia, he was approached by a Central Intelligence agency man who asked him to spy for the U. S. He said he told the agent he didn't think it proper for a tourist to spy.

HOPES TO DO 400 MILES PER HOUR—Art Afrons, 34, Akron, O., sits in "cockpit" of his "Green Monster No. 16" in Los Angeles, en route to the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah, where he hopes to do 400 miles an hour. That would be a new land speed record. The "Green Monster" is powered by a 3,800-hp engine from a World War II P-38 fighter plane. The aluminum body has an airfoil design. The electronic transmission is designed to shift out of low gear automatically at 300 miles per hour. Afrons designed the car.

German Pilot in Second War Successful Canadian Builder

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—A Second World War German pilot who once took part in a daring escape from a Northern Ontario prisoner-of-war camp now is a Canadian citizen and a successful builder.

Horst Liebeck, who makes his headquarters in Toronto, recalled his wartime experiences while visiting Brantford where he is building a shopping plaza.

After his fighter plane was shot down over England, he spent three months in hospital was shipped to Hreon Bay, a POW camp on Lake Superior.

One hundred prisoners dug a 189-foot-long escape tunnel and four months later Liebeck was among a group of 28 that fled into the rocky, ice-covered wilderness.

TWO MADE IT

Their escape plans depended upon reaching the CNR's main line. He and his companion were the only ones that made it. They unlocked a freight car loaded with blocks of ice, hollowed out a space and travelled undetected to Winnipeg, then alternately hitch-hiked and took other freight trains to Medicine Hat, Alta.

The other 26 prisoners were quickly recaptured and authorities presumed Liebeck and his companion had died of exposure.

"We were supplied with identification papers, civilian clothes and any help we needed by friends. Contact with Germany by short wave radio told us an escape boat would be ready at Vancouver."

But a few hours before they were to have left for the west coast they were picked up. "A picture of us in a newspaper is what caught us. A Mountie recognized us and took us in."

NOT A NAZI

Mr. Liebeck returned to Canada after the war and became a Canadian citizen Feb. 21, 1958. In addition to the building business, he was recently granted the Canadian franchise for a German firm, Bauer Chocolate, and plans to establish a plant, possibly in Brantford although the parent company suggested Kitchener.

Speaking of his past, he said: "Please do not think of me as a Nazi. I am not a political fanatic. When war broke out I was drafted from university and had to join the air force. I did not enjoy the war or being a soldier—I just love to fly."

He had words of gratitude for the English doctors who cared for him after he lost his sight when his plane was shot down. "Not only did the doctors restore my sight but they also healed my face so that no scars remain. I would like to thank these English doctors."

Villagers Flee From Raging Forest Fires

HALIFAX (CP)—Forest fires raced in on seven communities in three Atlantic provinces Wednesday night, forcing residents to flee and causing heavy property loss.

Women and children ran from fires which closed in on northern New Brunswick fishing communities of Baie Ste. Anne and Escuminac. An early report said two homes had been burned as the flames advanced under near-gale force winds. Ten miles east of Baie Ste. Anne, the fishing village of Rescuminac was threatened. Each village has a population of about 250.

Half the fishing folk in Old Perlican, a fishing village of 1,000 on the tip of Newfoundland's Avalon Peninsula, left their homes when a fire that had been smouldering near the village for a week burst into new fury Wednesday night.

The 40 patients of the village hospital were reported evacuated while flames licked up the side of the building.

In Prince Edward Island, four forest fires, driven wildly by winds which repeatedly switched direction, bore in on the scattered farming communities of Enmore, Freeland, Foxley River and Bideford. The communities are in an area 30 to 60 miles west of Summerside.

At last report, the fires were completely out of control, and several homes in the communities had been evacuated.

A civil defence co-ordinator in the western Prince Edward Island disaster area said, "Nothing but long, heavy rain can halt the destruction . . . We just get one fire slowed down when another starts up. Everything's so dried up we can't even get water without going to the shore for it."

The flames are burning deep in the ground. Salt water has been hauled to fight all the fires.

The fire that raced in on Old Perlican had been smouldering in bush and dry turf since last week when rain halted the flames as they approached the homes through tall spruce stands.

Confusion and fright struck the again Wednesday, sending them down the streets with the only belongings they could carry. The manager of a freighting firm in Carbonear, 30 miles east of the village, wakened most of his 100 employees and urged them to go to the isolated village to help in the evacuation.

AIR FORCE CALLED IN

As flames leaped into the Acadian community of Baie Ste. Anne, five tankers, four pumps and air force personnel were called in from the Chatham, N.B., air base.

Some 27 other blazes were burning in other parts of New Brunswick. None was threatening homes.

In Nova Scotia, where forestry officials could give no estimate of the extent of damage and destruction to valuable forests, no communities were in immediate danger.

On the province's southern shore near Shelburne a 12-day-old fire burning on an eight-mile front jumped to Jordan River and a bulldozed firebreak and tore into virgin timber, mostly pine.

One forestry official said the men couldn't get near the blaze. "It burns round and round as the wind changes direction. You never know where it'll go next. . . . If that firebreak and river wouldn't stop her, I don't know what will."

In the Gaspereau mountain area, seven miles south of Wolfville in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley, a fire burned through 120 acres of spruce forest before fire departments from five valley centres were able to contain it.

Second War Mustangs Turn Into Executives' Planes

VANCOUVER (CP) — A hustling native of London, Ont., is converting Mustang fighter planes of the Second World War into well-equipped aircraft for executives.

Doug Wimperis, 37, now superintendent of Trans Florida Aviation, an air charter service in Sarasota, Fla., came here to arrange purchase of seven of the old fighters from the RCAF. His company converts them into private planes with a price tag of about $46,000.

The last converted Mustang went to an Oklahoma banker, he said. Another is in the hands of a Detroit tool and die manufacturer, who likes the speed (425 m.p.h.) and range (2,000 miles) of the aircraft.

Hired crews were scrubbing the RCAF markings from the seven Mustangs that were bought here, slapping on new United States serial numbers and generally tuning up the obsolete war horses for their first flights in more than five years.

In Florida, they are stripped down to little more than wings and fuselage. When they are rebuilt, each has a new engine, a second seat with writing table and dictating machine, sleek upholstery and $23,000 worth of radio-navigation gear.

As a final touch, six pieces of matched luggage are fitted into the wing bays that once held six machine-guns and ammunition belts.

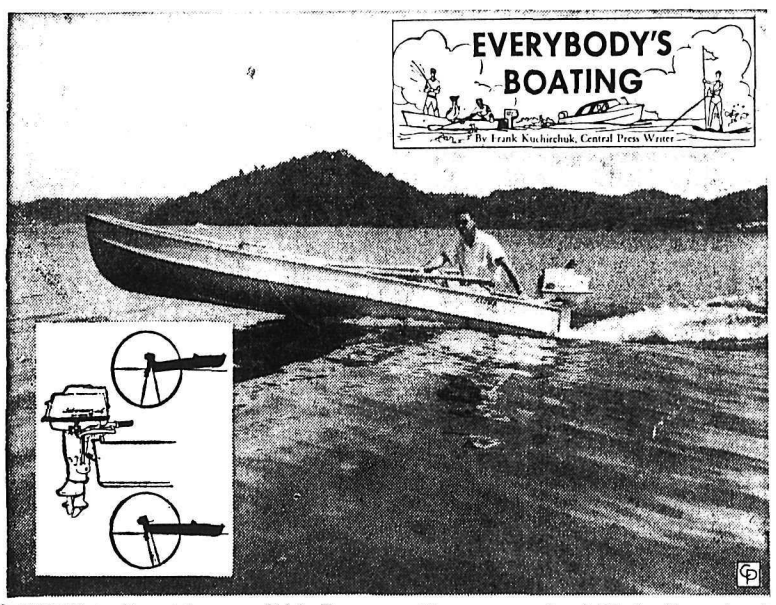
Vacation Guide



TAKING boating pictures on Ohio's Tappan lake the other day, we noticed a man boater who had installed his outboard improperly. What he did wrong was to mount his motor so that his lower unit was too far out, thus causing the bow to lift out of the water, as aptly shown in the above photo.

If the lower unit is too far out it will result in propeller slippage and loss of speed. If the lower unit is too far in, the boat will dig in and plane on too much of its length. This can prove dangerous in rough water with a following sea.

The proper angle of tilt for the motor depends on the type of boat and load distribution. The correct angle can be determined by observing how the boat operates at full speed. In the initial adjustment, however, if the motor is mounted on a boat which is not in the water, the cavitation plate of the motor should be parallel to the planing section of the bottom of the boat. In the water, if the direction of the propeller thrust is parallel to the line of boat travel, the motor is adjusted correctly. The drawings show perfectly what we mean.

U.S. Nervous of Steel Situation

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The delay in the expected upturn in steel output is casting a shadow over the fall outlook for the U.S. economy.

U.S. business is used by now to the ups and downs in the steel industry. But when one of the ups doesn't come along on schedule, business gets nervous.

That's because steel has the name of being the basic industry. It lags when other industries lose their zip. And if it lags too long, pessimism tends to spread to other lines.

The steel mills were first expected to be firing up idle furnaces by now for the fall business revival. Now steel spokesmen talk of October. And one close observer of the industry says only a mild seasonal upturn can be expected this fall, with the big turnabout delayed until next spring.

One reason for the delay is that steel customers either have more steel still in stock than the industry had counted on, or their own products are moving too slowly for them to expand output now.

AUTO ORDERS LOW

Added to this is their knowledge that steel is in good supply, idle capacity means that any rush of orders could be filled without undue delays.

Steel's best customer, the auto industry, hasn't put in the steel orders expected. Stocks of materials seem to be large. Also the stocks of 1960 cars in U.S. dealers' hands is well above this time last year.

Appliance makers also have tended to cut output instead of expanding it, and to be holding up new steel orders.

The construction industry has slowed its pace and its orders.

All this has been added to the usual summer slump due to vacations in steel-using industries and the general lull before output for winter business.

On the long-term side, a growing problem is competition from other materials. Cars are using more plastics, aluminum and glass. Buildings are using more pre-stressed concrete, more glass, more aluminum, more plastics. Tin-coated steel cans vie with glass, paper, foil, plastic bottles, squeeze tubes in sharing the food industry business.

CRASH IS FATAL

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg truck driver Jean-Marie Marier, 32, was killed Wednesday when bound Canadian National Railways freight train at a level crossing 14 miles north of Winnipeg.

Grain Growers Suggest Plan to Ease Railways' Difficulties

OTTAWA (CP)—A plan to free Canada's railways from paying income taxes—with the savings being passed on to freight shippers — was outlined Thursday by the United Grain Growers Limited, a producers' co-operative of some 60,000 Prairie farmers.

The UGG told the MacPherson royal commission on transportation that it prefers to see the railways cleared of income tax charges than to have the federal treasury subsidize the railways.

The grain growers co-operative also flatly opposed any interference with the statutory guarantee of low freight rates on Prairie grain destined for export markets.

The UGG viewpoints were presented as the royal commission resumed its year-old investigation of the problems of the major railways and the far-flung regions served by them.

The six-man commission, headed by Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson, was set up 16 months ago to try to find a way to ease the railways' financial plight and also to lighten the burden of high freight rates on rail users.

WOULD EXEMPT RAILWAYS

In essence, the farm co-operative called for a change to the Railway Act so that the cost of income taxes would not be considered an expense in calculating freight rates. A concurrent change would be made to the Income Tax Act so that railway income is excluded from taxation.

"The direct benefit of such provisions would accrue — and would be intended to accrue—not to a railway company or its shareholders, but to those who pay freight charges," said the UGG brief.

The plan would affect the privately-owned CPR, but would have no direct bearing on the publicly-owned CNR, which does not pay income taxes as long as it operates at a loss.

The main point of the United Grain Growers submission was devoted to defending the controversial Crowsnest Pass freight rate level on Prairie export grain, a level pegged by law to the rate structure of 1899.

The CPR and CNR have urged the commission to recommend a federal subsidy to offset what the railways calculate are losses of more than $70,000,000 a year in handling export grain at the Crow level.

"There are basic and primary problems faced by the railways much more serious and significant than the consideration of any one commodity rate," contended the UGG.

PROPOSAL "REPUGNANT"

It said the railway proposal on the grain problem is "completely repugnant" to Western grain producers.

If granted, the subsidy would be voted on annually by Parliament, said the brief, adding:

"Each such occasion would give rise to reproach against the grain producers of the Prairies and each would bring into jeopardy the freight rates essential to the grain growing industry of the Prairies."

If the railways need a subsidy, said the brief, there are many possible "excuses"—a subsidy to offset the geographic problems of mountains or Maritimes, a subsidy to offset losses in carrying passengers or to keep the railways operating as an essential part of Canada's defence system.

NOT SEEKING SCAPEGOAT

"It is not our purpose to say that the railways need assistance. Nor is it our purpose to suggest that if they do, such assistance should be labelled part of the defence budget, nor do we suggest that the blame should be laid upon those who continue to travel as railway passengers or upon those who live in one area or another of Canada.

"We do not seek a scapegoat on whose head to lay all the difficulties of the railways. We simply protest against selecting the Western grain traffic as such a scapegoat."

Diagnosing some of the underlying causes of Canada's railway ailment, the brief said the present railway situation and its problems are the outcome of past national transportation policies.

One aspect of the national policy has been to deliberately encourage competition between the CPR and CNR—competition that now may have become unnecessary because of the growth of alternative transportation.

DIVORCE ACTION

MIAMI (AP) — In a divorce action, Mrs. Doris Cohen complained she painted their house inside and out, mowed the lawn and brought her husband's dinner to him while he was "glued to the television set." But she said when she returned from a month's visit with a daughter in Chicago she found her husband, Benjamin, missing. On a table was a stack of bills, all paid, and a note saying he was leaving town and "everything is yours." Also missing, she said, was $1,900 from their $2,400 joint bank account.

UNWELCOME VISITOR

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP)—When Mrs. Herbert Peterson stepped into her back yard two blocks from downtown Ironwood to hang out the wash Wednesday she heard a growl in a tree overhead. Hastily-summoned police shot down a 225-pound black bear which apparently had ambled into town from a nearby woods.

NEWSPAPER STONED

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—An anti-government mob stoned the building of the newspaper Novedades, owned by the family of President Luis Somoza, broke windows in two banks and overturned automobiles of two government officials. The rioting followed the funeral of a student leader. The government said he was a terrorist and was shot trying to escape from prison.

Alcatraz Not Country Club Says Warden

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Striking Alcatraz convicts stood firm Thursday in demanding more privileges, but warden Paul Madigan refused to worry.

After all, how long can a man stand bologna and cheese sandwiches?

The 255 convicts in the toughest of federal prisons continued a refuse-to-work strike begun Tuesday. Since then they've stayed in their cells.

Their diet consists of a choice of bologna, cheese or tuna sandwiches prepared by guards. The convict-staffed kitchen is closed.

"They'd like to have as many privileges as in other institutions — daily newspapers, commissary rights, and so on," Madigan said, "but Alcatraz never has been and never will be a country club."

SKIPS BAIL

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Norman Talbot, 42, free on $10,000 bail during his trial on conspiracy and drug possession charges, failed to appear in court Wednesday and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. The trial of Talbot, his brother Maurice, 36, and John Herbert McLennon was postponed to Oct. 19.

Post-War Immigrant Teachers Prove Valuable to Canada

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Post-war immigrants are making a significant contribution to the higher education of Canadians.

A survey of new immigration records shows that students of Canadian universities have the help of teachers and technicians from 40 countries.

These teachers represent about 12 per cent of the total number of professors and research personnel employed by 24 universities.

At the beginning of 1959 post-war immigrants on the staffs of the universities totalled 852. All arrived in Canada after the war. Immigration and university officials estimate that more than 100 were hired during 1959 and a like number so far this year, pushing the total over 1000.

The great majority have become Canadian citizens or are planning to apply for citizenship after meeting the five-year residence qualification. Many are refugees or displaced persons from the war.

Dr. T. H. Matthews, executive director of the National Conference of Canadian Universities, said the immigrant teachers did much to relieve a serious shortage of professors in the early post-war period.

More than half the 852 were of British origin or former residents of the United States. British immigrants, including men and women from Northern Ireland, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand, totalled 355. There were 123 Americans.

Germans were third with 46 followed by 42 Poles, 36 Hungarians, 32 French, 27 Dutch, 17 Czechs and 14 Austrians. There were also 13 East Indians, five Japanese, two Bulgarians, five Spaniards, 13 Yugoslavs, one Pakistani, three Turks and 14 Ukrainians.

In 1945-46 eight universities hired a total of 13 immigrants. In 1947 the number was 23 and increased almost every year to a peak of 128 in 1958.

Montreal's McGill University has augmented its staff with 149 immigrant professors and research personnel. The University of British Columbia has engaged 119, the University of Alberta 93, University of Toronto 73, University of Montreal 66, University of Ottawa 57, and University of Western Ontario, London, 42.

The 852 are qualified in 35 fields ranging from agriculture to zoology but nearly one-third are in the fields of medicine and literature and languages.

Of the total, 142 are on the medical staffs of universities and 122 are teaching languages and literature. There are 59 teaching engineering, 58 mathematics, 49 chemistry and 47 physics.

U.S. Takes Dim View of Plane Swap With Canada

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — United States authorities are gradually losing hope of cementing a multi-million-dollar military plane swap with Canada. They emphasize there will be no big cargo plane purchases in Canada if the deal doesn't go through.

In fact, some U.S. officials are impatiently muttering that the proposed deal, involving Canadian-made CL-44 cargo planes and U.S.-made F-101 Voodoo jet fighters, is heading towards the scrap heap because of Canadian coolness to the plan.

The embarrassment for certain Canadian officials here is that they have been repeatedly pleading for production-sharing contracts at the U.S. defence department and now are confronted with a case where the U.S. is willing and Canada less so.

WOULD REPLACE CF-100

In the midst of modernizing its huge military transport fleet, the U.S. Air Force has expressed willingness to acquire about 35 or 40 of the CL-44 planes produced at the Montreal Canadair plant for some $155,000,000, providing the RCAF purchases about 66 of the U.S. McDonnell F-101 twin-engined jets for about $100,000,000.

The supersonic F-101 would replace the aging CF-100 sub-sonic jets in the nine Canadian squadrons forming part of North American air defences. Military men maintain that their replacement is long overdue.

A report circulating in the Pentagon is that the Canadian government has indicated it cannot go through with the deal because of lack of funds.

However, the view among other officials is that Canada may yet change its mind and cement the swap but that time is running out and it must move soon.

Algoma Steel Plans To Change Its Name

TORONTO (CP) — Algoma Steel Cop. Ltd. plans to change its name by adding "the" as a prefix, if shareholdes approve at a meeting Sept. 27.

The name change is planned because of a plan to amalgamate the parent company and two of its wholly-owned subsidiaries—Algoma Ore Properties Ltd., and Canadian Furnace Co. Ltd. which will become divisions of the parent firm. This will also be put to a vote at the meeting.

Lead by 1½ Games

Birds Stretch Lead Over 2nd Place Yanks

By The Canadian Press

Baltimore Orioles lengthened their American League lead to a game and a half over the second-place New York Yankees Thursday night by defeating the Cleveland Indians 9-0 as the Yankees were losing a squeaker to the third-place Chicago White Sox, 5-4.

Milwaukee Braves moved within a percentage point of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals in the National League with a 9-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants, and now trial the leading Pittsburgh Pirates by six games. Both the Pirates and Cardinals were idle.

Chicago defeated Philadelphia 2-1 and Los Angeles downed Cincinnati 7-4 in other National League games. Boston defeated Detroit 6-1 and Washington blanked Kansas City 7-0 in the American League.

One big inning was all the Orioles needed to subdue the Indians—that, and the fine pitching of Jack Fisher, who turned in his third straight shutout. The Orioles scored all their runs on four hits in the seventh inning, aided by six walks and a three - run homer by Gene Woodling and a three-run triple by Marv Breeding.

The Yankees saw a three-run lead vanish in the seventh inning, and could blame Ted Kluszewski. Starting his first game in more than two months big Klu drove in two runs with a double in the four-run seventh, and another in the fourth with a single.

Four of the Sox runs were unearned. Roger Maris and Hector Lopez put together back-to-back home runs for the Yanks in the third inning, kayoing starter Billy Pierce. Mike Garcia, recently returned to the active list, held the New Yorkers hitless the last two innings, although reliever Russ Kemmerer got the victory.

Ted Williams rapped his 27th home run, a double and a single in the Red Sox victory as Tom Brewer held the Tigers to four hits in going the route.

Jack Kralick held the Athletics to seven hits in scoring his shutout, with Jim Lemon and Lennie Green hitting home runs. It was Lemon's 35th, and came with two on base in the eighth.

TWO HOMERS FOR MATHEWS

Eddie Mathews hit his 34th and 35th home runs and drove in five runs to help Warren Spahn to his 18th victory. Hank Aaron hit his 35th homer on the first pitch after Mathews' first smash. Spahn also got in the home run act with a solo blow in the eighth.

The Dodgers snapped Cincinnati's four-game winning streak as they scored all their runs in the first two innings of the final game between the two clubs. The first five men to face starter Jay Hook got on base, four scoring. Vada Pinson got his 19th home run for the Reds in the sixth.

Ernie Banks hit his 39th homer to lead the Cubs in their victory over the Phillies. Glen Hobble allowed only six hits in turning in his 14th triumph against 17 defeats. Art Mahaffey, sensational rookie who had won five games without a loss, was the loser. He gave up four hits before leaving the game for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Near Upset Sparks Little League Opener

A near upset highlighted the first game of the Little League playoffs Thursday night when the Gyro club, sparked by Terry Hughes on the mound, drove from behind to close the wide gap, only to drop the contest 12-9 before the do-no-wrong Lions. Hughes allowed 11 hits and three walks.

Lions went through three pitchers, Len Furman, Don Sargent and Bob Phillips.

Chris Petty led the Gyro hitting staff with a triple and a homerun. Len Furman blasted a homer for the Lions and Don Halliwell and Melvin Keinholtz hit for extra bases.

Next game of the best-two-out-of-three semi-final series will be Saturday at 3 p.m. Kinsmen and Rotarians start their series on Friday.

U.S. Olympic Supremacy Is Badly Battered by Russians

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROME (CP)—Russian athletes have cut deeply into United States supremacy in track and field, winning 11 gold medals in the blue-ribbon competition of the 1960 Olympic Games, and all that extra gold has clinched the unofficial team championship for the Russians.

The Soviet Union won seven gold medals Thursday for a total of 33, one more than the American total of 32, and with the huge Russian bag of second-place silver and third-place bronze medals boosted the unofficial Soviet team point total out of reach of the Americans as the 17th summer Games approached their climax.

The United States won two gold medals in the windup of the track and field—only the marathon remains to be run Saturday—and lost a third in a heart-breaking disqualification.

Russia also picked up a pair of gold awards in track and field, winning the gruelling 10,000 metres in which Canada's Doug Kyle placed 24th and the men's javelin throw. A Romanian girl took the big hjump, a record Olympic leap.

Russians also won gold medals in the equestrian, shooting, weightlifting and gymnastic events while Hungary's defending champion, Rudolph Karpati, retained the individual sabre championship.

Russia piled up the points to increase its lead to 608 points in the over-all team championship based on the 10-5-4-3-2-1 system of scoring for the first six placings in each event.

The United States was far behind with 506½. Germany had 297½, Italy 231, Hungary 144½, Australia 140 1-3, Poland 135¾ and Britain 120½. Canada was tied with Austria for 25th place, each with 15 points.

The most amazing part of the track and field was the fact the Russians were able to win 11 gold medals this time compared with five in the 1956 Games at Melbourne. The United States slipped from a total of 16 in 1956 to 12 in 1960.

Five Russian men won gold medals here compared to three at Melbourne. Four years ago American men won 15 gold medals; here they slipped to nine.

Russian women showed a tremendous improvement, winning six of the 10 track and field events — while the Americans got three and the Romanians one. Male Americans won 11 gold medals at London in 1948 and 14 at Helsinki in 1952.

The outstanding performer was Wilma Rudolph, the big Tennessee sprinter who took three gold medals and saved the day for the American women.

The U.S. quartet of quartermilers streaked to the gold medal in the men's 1,600-metre relay and broke an eight - year - old world record.

The flying foursome—Jack Yerman, Earl Young, Glenn Davis and Otis Davis — clocked three minutes, 2.2 seconds to nip 1.7 seconds off the world record set in 1952 by Jamaica.

The Americans, racing in a drizzle before 60,000 in Olympic Stadium, needed to average 45.5 for each 400 metres to beat the Germans, who also were under the world record with a clocking of 3:02.7.

Yerman did 45, 6, Young 46, 7, Glen Davis 45, 5 and Otis Duvis a sizzling 44, 4.

The Germans got their break in the men's 400 - metre relay when they were awarded the gold medal in 39.5 seconds, equalling the world mark and throwing out the performance of the American team that finished first by inches.

The Americans were disqualified for passing a baton out of the prescribed zone.

Ray Norton, who turned out to be the "goat" of the American team, took the blame for the disqualification. "I was too anxious, I was running too fast," he said.

Russia got the silver medal in the 400 and Britain took the third-place bronze.

CANADA FOURTH

Canada's team in the men's 400-metre relay ran fourth in a semi-final heat and failed to qualify for the final. Germany's crack team won the semi - final heat in 39.7 seconds, with Venezuela second and Britain third—last qualifying berth. Canada's time was 41.1 seconds.

Sig Ohlemann of Vancouver, a quarter-miler and half-miler, was pressed into service because Harry Jerome was unable to take his place on the team.

Jerome suffered a leg-muscle injury in the semi-final of the 100-metre sprint last week and scratched from the subsequent 200-metre sprint.

The Vancouver sprinter, who shares the world record of 10 seconds for 100 metres with Germany's Armin Hary, ran in the relay heats Wednesday and aggravated the injury.

Replacements normally are not allowed. But a doctor from the international amateur athletic federation examined Jerome and found him unfit to run. Canada then was enabled to substitute Ohlemann.

Others on the team were Lynn Eves of Saanichton, B.C., running the first leg; George Short of Saskatoon, second leg; Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B. C., third leg, and Ohlemann, anchor leg.

The team, each member running 100-metres, held second spot briefly on the second leg but could not hang on.

(The Canadian Press erroneously said Jerome ran with his mates. The error occurred because a summary of the race cabled from Rome showed Jerome on the team along with Epes, Short and Tobacco. On this basis Jerome was named in the story moving out of New York as having competed. Word from Rome late in the day made it clear he had not.)

Pyotor Bolotnikov of Russia won the 10,000-metre run in 28 minutes, 32.2 seconds which eclipsed the Olympic record of 28.45.6 set by his famed countryman, Vladimir Kuts, in 1956.

At the end it was a three-way race between Bolotnikov, Hans Grodotzki of Germany and David Power of Australia, who finished in that order.

Kyle, from Calgary, never was in contention from the start and was lapped about 1,500 metres from home. His time was 30 minutes, 31.6 seconds. Max Truex of the U.S. finished sixth.

Viktor Gybulenko of Russia won the javelin with a toss of 277 feet, 8⅜ inches. Walter Kruger of Germany was second with 260-4⅝ and Ergely Kulcsar of Hungary third with 257-9⅜.

SOMETHIN'S MISSING HERE—It sure is, the ball, and you can spot it to the right of Johnny Temple's head as he attempts to make a play on Reno Bertoia of the Senators during game in capital. Temple is Indians' infielder.

MEDAL OF HONOR—Winners in the Olympics get this gold medal, shown on both sides. Second placers get silver medals and third placers bronze.

Yanks Too Soft Claims Brundage

ROME (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Thursday soft living threatens to make the United States second class in sports.

"We are outclassed in half the events on the Olympic program," Brundage told a luncheon meeting of Rome's American Club. "If it were not for our great Negro athletes we'd be second class now. Life in the United States is too soft."

The Chicago businessman has just been re-elected head of the International Olympic Committee for another four years after completing an eight-year term.

Brundage said the United States should have a national sports program like Soviet Russia's.

"The IOC has suggested national sports programs for 50 years," Brundage continued. "It is a little frightening to find that the Communist nations have adopted them, for I do not believe their intentions are precisely those of the IOC."

Comedy of Errors Ends in Victory

A "comedy of errors," staged by Lord Nelsons, ended in a 15-11 victory for Hipperson's in the first game of a best-of-seven series for the Nelson boys' midsummer baseball championship yesterday.

In a direct reversal of form that had seen them win their last seven games, the Lords started to blow up in the third inning, committing a game total of 24 errors. Fourteen of the errors allowed runners to score. Hipperson's had only one run batted in, that by Brian Chamut's single.

At bat, the Lords showed their usual power, outhitting the winners seven to four, and having eight of their 11 runs batted in — one each by Ralph Beatty, Arvid Carlson, Don Ross and Paddy French, and two each by Paul Joyce and Postlethwaite. The Lords' collected the only extra base hits of the game also, Ross, Joyce and French each slamming a two-bagger.

Second game of the series for the John Jackman Memorial trophy will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Civic grounds.

Yesterday's line-score:

Cards Sign 15-Year-Old

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals Thursday signed 15-year-old Mike Jones, a right-handed pitcher now in the seventh grade.

A club spokesman said the boy received a consideration for signing but added, "in today's market it would not be considered a big bonus."

Young Mike, one of 10 children of a Negro laborer, will play for Keokuk, Iowa, in the Class D Midwest League.

His sponsor, Irvin Lorts, said Mike has pitched at least 30 no-hit games and once pounded a ball 447 feet. He stands six feet tall and weighs 170 pounds.

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick granted the boy special permission to sign a contract as a hardship case. Normally he would not be eligible to sign until his high school class was graduated.

Salmonbellies Lick Wings in Opener

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — New Westminster Salmonbellies took a one-game lead in the Canadian junior lacrosse finals for the Minto Cup, drubbing Whitby Red Wings 16-10 in a wide-open game here Thursday night before 1120 fans.

Twenty - year - old Doug Wallsmith sparked the British Columbia champions with four goals and one assist.

Charlie Saunders added three goals and an assist. Barry Brownlee and captain Mike Gates had two each, and singletons came from defenceman Bob Bateman and Gordie Stidolph and forwards Dave Tory, Keith Jackson and Kelvin Kyle.

Chunky Terry Davis, Whitby's second highest scorer in the regular season, paced the Ontario team with four goals. Speedy Bryan Gibson added three and Phil Hall, W. Thorne and Johnny Roberts one each.

The Salmonbellies, making their second straight bid for the Canadian junior title, wrapped the game up early.

They held Whitby scoreless from 0:51 of the first quarter to 2:10 of the third, and scored six unanswered goals for a commanding 9-2 lead.

It was 5-2 for the salmonbellies at the end of the first quarter, 8-2 at the half. The teams split 10 goals in the third quarter and six in the final.

Despite the 16 goals that got by him goalie Bob McCready of Whitby was by far the most exciting player on the floor. He turned aside 37 shots — 12 in the hectic second quarter when Whitby ran into a strong of four straight penalties — but found time to assist on two of his team's goals.

Several times when both teams were shorthanded because of penalties, he carried the ball deep into the New Westminster zone.

At the other end, Howie Smith stopped 26 shots, 15 in the last half.

Whitby took 17 of 32 minutes in penalties handed out by referees Gordie Folka and Wally Henderson.

With McCready setting up the play, the Eastern champions opened the scoring 37 seconds after the opening faceoff, Gibson pulling the trigger on the first of his three. Brownlee, Bateman and Gates put Salmonbellies ahead 3-1 and although Gibson added his second to cut the margin to 3-2, the Salmonbellies steadily pulled away.

Davis and Gibson appeared to be the only Whitby players able to shake off the effects of a long train ride West and to master the wooden floor in Queen's Park Arena here. Defenceman Phil Hall showed well in the late going for the visitors.

CANUCK FINALS SET

Bank of Canada Interest Rate Declines Sharply

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada interest rate Thursday ended its recent sharp decline, rising to 2.34 per cent from 2.26 last week with the sale of $95,000,000 in 91-day government treasury bills.

The rate, an indicator of conditions in the short-term money market, ended an almost unbroken decline during which it dropped from 3.49 per cent on July 14 to last week's two-year low..

The rate, minimum charge by the central bank on its infrequent loans to chartered banks, is set at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield on the weekly sale of 91-day treasury bills.

Thursday's bank rate compares with a record high of 6.41 per cent on Aug. 13 last year and the record low of 1.12 per cent on July 31, 1958.

RED EXPERTS EXPECTED

Oyster Farm Believed Oldest Industry on Vancouver Island

COOPER'S COVE, B. C. (CP) — There's room for argument, but Harry Helgesen's oyster farm in this Sooke district locality may be the oldest continuing industry on Vancouver Island.

As long as 1861, Sooke oysters were being gulped in Victoria's saloons and a hotel operated the yster farm in the same spot where Helgesen's spat—that's seed—now is set out.

The Helgesens have 17 acres of leased sea bottom near their home in the Saseenos district of Sooke, on the outskirts of Victoria.

Harry also has oyster beds at Quadra and Denman Islands and he brings the oysters down from those farms to the home beds at Cooper's Cove, sets them in the bay below his house and hauls them in, fresh and succulent, for the shuckers to prepare for market.

FAST DELIVERY

"They're shucked the day they come out of the water and they're on the table in the restaurants in Victoria the next day," says attractive Lila Helgesen, who as a petite WRCNS rating sang at navy concerts in HMCS Cornwallis in Nova Scotia during the Second World War.

The Sooke oysters, shucked or shelled, may also be found in restaurants as far east as Winnipeg.

"Some people don't like oysters," says Mrs. Helgesen. "Perhaps it's an acquired taste. But, off the shell, fresh out of the sea, with a few drops of lemon juice and a city of Hassi Messaoud."

But even as this is being considered, some of the employees are wondering whether they should subject their families to

"Here will rise the residential the rigors of the Sahara climate.

In the winter the daytime temperature is about 80 degrees. At dash of tabasco sauce, they're a wonderful taste experience."

"If you prefer them cooked, you can fry them, stew them, bake them, put them in cocktails or casserole.

"You can cook them in wine or beer. Try them with beer instead of milk, in a stew. And they're a rare treat if deep-fried."

JAPANESE ORIGIN

The oysters the Helgesens are taking to market aren't the original native variety. The seed comes from Japan.

Harry and Lila Helgesen took over the oyster farm eight years ago from Percy Winch who operated the beds for 20 years before that. Actually the Sooke beds go back at least 100 years.

The Helgesens' history goes back some time, too. Hans Helgesen settled here in 1862. Christian, his youngest son, was Harry's father.

A fourth generation is growing up beside the oyster beds. Terry, 14, is an experienced oysterman already and Eddie, 11, is a capable helper.

There's a Trick In Eating Dulse

WINDSOR, N.S. (CP)—Dulse—a dry seaweed which some Maritimers chew like candy—brought a puzzled reaction from a United States resident.

Ezra Parsons, president of a service club here, sent a packet of dulse to an American friend he met during a convention in Florida. Unfortunately, Mr. Parsons forgot to enclose an essay he had written about how dulse is properly enjoyed

From the wife of the American Mr. Parsons received a letter which said: "I fixed it like hot tea the first time, but it was kind of hard to drink. I telephoned a health store and they suggested I drink it like mineral water. Is that right?"

Mr. Parsons, who said he was "grieving" about the use to which the dulse had been put, suggested that unless the woman had acquired a taste for dulse tea she should break the habit because "it sounds awful."

His instructions are that the flavor is bought out by long chewing of the raw dulse. It can also be eaten if it is toasted until it turns "purplish-green."
