Macmillan Sees Summit Meet After Election

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said Thursday he believed Premier Khrushchev would agree to another Summit conference some time after the American presidential elections.

Macmillan conferred with Khrushchev for 1½ hours on the eve of his departure by air from New York Wednesday. He held a cabinet meeting shortly after his arrival Thursday afternoon, reporting in detail on his 10 days of talks inside and outside the United Nations.

Macmillan made these points to reporters at London Airport:

1. He is more hopeful about East-West relations than he was after the abortive Summit talks in Paris last May.

2. Khrushchev "overplayed his hand" at the UN General Assembly. "I do not think Mr. Khrushchev had it all his own way. He thought he would rather stampede the thing and pinch the whole show."

3. Britain, as leader of the firm, "It is no good our throwing away our weapons and running around in disorder."

4. East-West problems should be disentangled one by one through "patient negotiation."

5. It would be "a terrible mistake" to give in to Soviet pressure and make structural changes in the United Nations at this time. "Once you do that, the Russians would get the whole thing on the run."

6. Khrushchev's attack on UN Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold had been "a great failure."

Asked if the new Summit talks would take place early in the new year, Macmillan replied:

"I cannot tell. I think there will have to be a meeting for negotiation of some of the outstanding questions which we failed to deal with in Paris last May. I hope we shall be able to organize a meeting for that purpose.

"I am very hopeful. I think the Russians will agree to it."

Nazi Letters Found

BERLIN (AP) — Construction workers have found secret letters from top Nazis in a buried safe, West Berlin police said Thursday. The safe was dug up in the bombed site of the Nazi Authors' and Publishers' Society. A city official said only a long expert examination would show whether the safe contained any great secrets of the Nazi regime.

Bomb Hoax Turns Back Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Trans-Canada Airlines jet with 87 passengers aboard returned to International airport here Thursday because of a telephoned bomb scare, the third such hoax call to the control tower in as many days.

The DC-8 jet, bound for Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and London, was airborne for 10 minutes when the control tower ordered it to return.

The plane took off again at 2:30 p.m., two hours after its scheduled takeoff, after police had checked the aircraft and found nothing.

Another TCA jet was brought back after being airborne for 10 minutes Tuesday after a telephone caller reported there was a bomb on board.

The next day, a telephone call resulted in a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane being brought back after it left for Tokyo. In all three instances, the planes had to jettison fuel in the Gulf of Georgia

$18 Million in Medical Supplies Stocked Against Nuclear Attack

POLICE AND RESCUE WORKERS struggle to carry the body of a passenger still trapped in the seat of the Eastern Airlines Lockheed Electra which plunged into Boston harbor. The silver airliner, with 72 persons aboard, dropped like a stone into the water just after take-off. Mystery still shrouds the tragedy, the fifth involving Lockheed Electras in the past 20 months and one of the worst in the history of commercial aviation in the United States.—TNS.

620 Treatment Centres Spotted Across Canada

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP)—Canada is stockpiling $18,000,000 worth of medical supplies and specially-designed "packaged" hospital and treatment centres in case of nuclear attack.

Dr. R. H. Hardman, chief of the emergency health services branch, federal health department, told Atlantic province mayors here Thursday that $11,000,000 worth of equipment and supplies are on hand. Another $7,000,000 is being spent on additional supplies.

He said 620 treatment centres and package hospitals are being spotted across the country in every province for quick movement to evacuation areas in event of a nuclear attack.

Dr. Hardman, a medical doctor, said that should an attack come there would be hundreds of thousands of patients. Supplies must be on hand to save their lives. Most pharmaceutical companies were in target areas and would be destroyed in a nuclear attack. It was up to governments to make sure medicines would be available.

Dentists, veterinarians, laboratory technicians and other medical experts must be trained, he said, to help take the tremendous wartime load off doctors by treating less serious casualties.

Neighborhoods would be provided with health haversacks and equipped for minor care of people being evacuated.

TO SET UP HOSPITALS

The 200 packaged hospitals, specially boxed for long storage, will be shipped to schools, churches or other buildings for setting up in evacuation periods. Each will contain 200 beds, reception rooms and three operating rooms. They will have their own power and water supplies.

These will be augmented by 420 smaller advanced treatment centres, available in 10 regional depots in every province by December. Eighteen model units now are available for training purposes.

Spread out across the provinces will be 1200 packaged disaster units containing equipment and supplies to supplement hospital facilities.

A portable clothing sorting machine is being designed to handle rapid distribution of clothes, blankets and other covering equipment.

Three Parks Considered For Olympics

VANCOUVER (CP) — The hunt for a possible Canadian site for the 1968 Winter Olympics has been narrowed down to three locations.

John Taylor, member of a parliamentary committee working with the Canadian Olympic Committee, says Garibaldi and Manning Parks in British Columbia and Banff, Alta., remain in the running.

Duce's Former Girl Friend Takes Own Life

GENEVA (AP) — Magde de Fontanges, 50, one-time French girl friend of Italian dictator Benito Mussolini has committed suicide

Police sources said Miss de Fontanges was found dead from an overdose of sleeping pills last Saturday in her apartment in Geneva.

Her friendship with Mussolini came to light in 1937 when she shot and wounded Count de Chambrun, then French ambassador to Italy, in a Paris railroad station.

PARKING TICKET FINES GOING UP

Fines for several parking and driving regulations were raised anywhere from $1 to $5 Thursday by Magistrate R. S. Nelson.

The increase in fines has been pending for several months and became effective Thursday when city police were issued new books of traffic tickets stating increased fines.

The move is in keeping with other centres in B.C. which have raised their fines for various minor infractions.

The fine that will be felt most by motorists is that for overparking at a meter. Overparking will cost a citizen $2 where before it was $1.

New fines with old in brackets follow: Blowing horn $10 ($5), overparking in a two-hour zone $3 ($2); failing to stop at road signal light, $15 ($10); parking within 10 feet of fire hydrant $15 ($10).

CO-OP TREASURER LAMB ARRESTED

PENTICTON (CP) — RCMP Thursday arrested Austin Lamb, 50, former secretary-treasurer of Oliver Co-op Store Association, on charges of misappropriating some $12,000 of association money.

An audit in August revealed a $3000 shortage, police said. Further investigations established that an additional $9000 was unaccounted for and directors of the association laid charges.

Lamb, a highly respected citizen of Okanagan Falls, is owner of the Dolly Varden Motel in that district. He resigned from the Oliver school board two weeks ago. He was also active in church work in the Oliver district.

South Africa Votes To Become Republic

By HENDERSON GALL

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—South African nationalists Thursday night clinched their long battle to make the country a republic.

With only six of the country's 156 constituencies yet to be heard from, the pro - republic forces led by 818,185 votes to 758,262 in an all-white referendum Wednesday on making the country a republic.

(See also story page 6)

All of the uncounted constituencies are strongholds of nationalist Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

The pro-republic forces shot into the lead Thursday night after overcoming an early lead of more than 150,000 votes held by antirepublic groups.

The foes of the move to make the country a republic had their of the population, who voted early.

But once the results started coming in from the strongly-nationalist Afrikans farming areas, the early anti-republic lead was quickly erased.

Success for the pro - republic forces in the referendum meant a chance to bring into reality the long - standing nationalist dream of establishing an Afrikaner republic at the southern tip of Africa.

It also meant giving notice of intent to sever the half-century-old links with the British monarchy under which a governor-general serves as the queen's representative.

The former Afrikaner republics of the Transvaal and Orange Free State were united with the old British colonies of the Cape and Natal May 31, 1910.

This was eight years to the day after a peace treaty ended the three - year Boer War between Britain and the two Afrikaner states.

OTTAWA (CP)—The decision on whether South Africa will—or can—remain in the Commonwealth probably will not be taken until May, giving both the Commonwealth and the country more than six months to adjust to its new republic status.

Canadian government officials said this waiting period may produce a change in South African racial policies, or at least the production of a formula whereby South Africa can remain associated with the Commonwealth in a new way.

MUST MEET RED CHALLENGE, SAY INDUSTRIALISTS

LONDON (CP) — Influential world industrialists ended Thursday a three-day conference on the note that both governments and private enterprise must do more to meet the Communist challenge in the world's uncommitted countries.

The theme cropped up in practically every one if the discussions of five groups set up by the fourth International Conference of Manufacturers to study and report on the broad range of problems that businessmen must face in the 1960s.

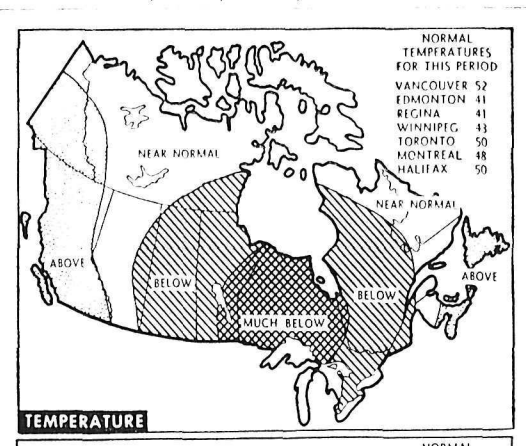
35 Traffic Deaths Predicted

OTTAWA (CP)—Thanksgiving weekend traffic in Canada will claim 35 lives, the Canadian Highway Safety Council forecast Thursday night.

If borne out, this would be one of the lowest fatality totals in years for the long October weekend. Last year 37 persons were killed on highways, compared with 52 in 1958 and 51 in 1957.

The forecast period covers the 78 hours from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.



EXCEPT FOR WARM WEATHER on the east and west coasts, most of Canada will have below-normal temperatures during October according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau. Maps show predicted temperatures and precipitation across the country for the month. Tables give normal readings for various centres. These maps are based on predictions of the weather office which says its monthly outlook is not a specific forecast and that a change in weather pattern may produce major errors.—CP Newsmap.

Winter Works Projects Listed

OTTAWA (CP) — Details of a $100,000,000 public works program to be undertaken by the federal works department this winter were announced Thursday by Works Minister Walker.

He said the 1960-61 winter works program of the department will include the construction of between 60 and 80 standard post office buildings, 12 slightly larger post office buildings, $3,000,000 worth of interior work in public buildings and the purchase of some $1,200,000 worth of furniture and equipment.

Mr. Walker said details of some parts of the $100,000,000 program, announced Sept. 21 by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, still were being worked out.

In the building construction field the department plans to continue work on 103 contracts already let to contractors. These contracts will run for more than a year and have a value of more than $54,000,000.

Some of the bigger building projects in Western Canada:

The department would attempt to continue work on 56 large harbor and river projects valued at more than $20,000,000. These will include:

British Columbia — Port Alberni, wharf reconstructino, $818,742; Nanaimo, wharf reconstruction $818,470.

West Anxious Over Vote on Red China

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Red China's claim for United Nations membership went before the 15th General Assembly Thursday night in an atmosphere of resentment and doubt resulting from the defeat of a neutralist plea for a new Summit meeting.

The Soviet Union's demand that Communist China be seated in the world body seemed headed for another defeat—as in former years — but Western diplomats watched anxiously to see whether the proposal would gain additional support from uncommitted countries.

Actually, the assembly merely was debating whether it should include the Red China issue on its agenda for formal debate later The 98 - member assembly's 21-member steering committee has already voted against it. A victory for the Communist side on this procedural matter—or even a close defeat—could be a major turning point.

In the background of the China discussion was defeat of a resolution introduced by five key neutral countries — including India —"hoping" for a renewal of Summit negotiation between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Communist bloc delegates showed every sign of satisfaction that the proposal was defeated by Western action while they themselves abstained from voting.

Both Eisenhower and Khrushchev had discouraged the neutralist move but it was the U.S. rather than Russia which engineered the collapse on the floor of the assembly early Thursday.

"I Don't Care If I Burn" . . .And He Will

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—The summer of 1959 was hot and on the pavements of New York youth ran wild in an orgy of blood lust. There were 11 juveniles slain that summer in a wave of street gang mayhem that shocked the city

Slowly, inexorably, the law took over the streets from the youth mobs. One by one, the young killers were brought to justice. Thirteen now are serving prison terms. All are Puerto Ricans

But punishment for one of the most brutal of that summer's crimes had not been set — until Thursday. That was the slaying Aug. 30, 1959, of two 16-year-old boys, Robert Young and Anthony Krzesinski

The two were stabbed to death in a playground by a gang of Puerto Ricans. The victims were youngsters who had no part in the gang feuds of the area.

Leader of the killers was Salvador (Dracula) Agron, 16, who derived his nickname from a black cape he wore as a symbol of command His partner was Luis (Umbrella Man) Hernandez, 17.

"They should get the chair," said William Young, father of one of their victims.

READY TO 'BURN'

With their arrest, Agron swaggered into court after boasting:

"I don't care if I burn — my mother could watch me"

And, indeed, that was to be their fate. Last July 20, Agron and Hernandez were condemned to execution by a jury that found them guilty of first-degree murder.

Thursday, Agron, Hernandez and four members of their street gang were brought before trial Judge Gerald P. Culkin. He pronounced sentence on them all.

Francisco Cruz, 18, got 10-to-20 years for manslaughter and assault, and Rogelio Soto, 17, got 9½ - to - 20 years on similar charges. Nestor Hernandez, 17, no relation to the Umbrella Man, and Jose Rivera, 20, were sentenced to 7½-to-15 years each for manslaughter.

The Judge Culkin turned to Agron and Hernandez and ordered both youths to Sing Sing prison, there to die in the electric chair. The actual execution date will not be set until after court appeals.

BURY, England (AP)—Nearly every Briton's day dream, a win of £28,649 ($80,217) on a football pool, was realized by Raymond Smith. But Thursday he decided to give it away.

Smith, 30, a draughtsman, has a wife and two young children. He has no home of his own, but plans to buy one on mortgage.

He has not been able to afford a car, although he recently passed a driving test.

But he announced that his handsome windfall in entirety would go to charity.

"I have put the money in the hands of trustees and that is all as far as I am concerned," he said

Raymond Smith is a Methodist and his religion frowns on gambling.

He devoted his winnings to charity after seeing his local minister at his own request.

LONDON (AP)—Too many fat men in one coach sank the 7:13 commuter train from Reading to London Thursday morning.

There were 40 men in the coach, and more than half of them were sedentary types with paunches. Their weight caused the coach to sag, fouling the automatic brake mechanism.

The nine-car train wheezed to a halt twice before giving up the ghost just outside London's Paddington Station.

"About time you got a bit of weight off, isn't it?" said an irate thin passenger as the chubby occupants of the coach trudged along the tracks.

Excessive Speed Contributed To Olson Death, Jury Finds

A coroner's jury Thursday night termed excessive speed as contributing to the cause of death of Robert John Olson, 21, of Nelson, September 3.

After listening to testimony of nine witnesses, jury foreman Neil Derby said the death, due to injuries resulting from a car accident, "we are of the opinion that the car was travelling at a rate of speed contributing to the accident which caused Robert Olson's death."

Testimony revealed that on Saturday, Sept. 3 Olson had been driving a 1953 hardtop vehicle at excessive speed along Douglas Road, before rolling over the embankment and ploughing into a cherry tree in the front yard of James Watson, 406 Fifth Street.

The wild ride had been preceded by all-day drinking by Olson and several companions, including Richard G. Ferguson of Kaslo and John McDonald of Merritt, B. C., it was testified.

All three were thrown from the car on the point of impact. Apparently Olson struck his head on a stone retaining wall at the bottom of the embankment.

Dr. W. K. Massey testified that Olson had died from "multiple injuries to the skull, hemorrhages of the brain and other injuries to the brain."

He also said that an analysis of Olson's blood revealed 0.15 per cent alcohol. In the United States, this is enough to convict a man of being intoxicated, but in Canada the ruling is not recognized, as a man with considerable drinking experience may handle that much alcohol without feeling the effects of intoxication.

He said for a 190-pound man to have that much alcohol in his blood, he would have required to drink 12 ounces of hard undiluted liquor just prior to the examination.

Ferguson, 24, of Kaslo, who escaped the accident with minor bruises and scratches, stated that Olson and he had been drinking for the better part of the morning and afternoon.

LOST CONTROL

"We were going along the road," said Ferguson, talking about the accident, "and we met a car and Olson pulled over too far. We hit a soft shoulder or something and he lost control of the car. He tried to gain control of the car."

City Police Sergeant J. H. Crozier supported this testimony, stating that skid marks were found 260 feet from the cherry tree and at one point the car had travelled 85 feet with one set of wheels a foot off the soft shoulder, rolling on the hard packed grass of the embankment. A hubcap was found in this area.

Farther down the road metal scrapes were found as if the car had been rocking. Crozier also stated that one skid mark had been consistent while the other was broken.

Jacob Hamm of 324 Fifth Street, testified to the speed of the car, in the 30-mile an hour zone, saying "it was going fast. My idea is that it was going about 70 miles per hour."

"I was standing in the kitchen when I heard this awful screech of brakes," said Mrs. Muriel Marlow, who lives on the corner of Douglas Road and Fifth Street. "I turned and saw this car turn over and over, two or three times." Police testimony confirmed this, stating scratches were observed on the car's roof.

Constable G. E. Dalzell said he answered the call at approximately 6:40 and when arriving on the scene discovered Olson lying by the stone wall.

Mechanic Reno Stedile stated that his examination of the death vehicle revealed that the brakes and steering mechanisms were in good working order.

On the jury were Derby, F. W. Carmichael, J. F. Towler, J. Corbett, F. Jenkins, G. Lane.

Sharp Drop in Tourist Trade

The biggest drop in the tourist trade in the last five years occurred in Nelson during the months of June, July and August this summer.

It was the third consecutive year that the tourist figures dwindled from a high 8814 in 1957 when Nelson celebrated its diamond jubilee.

It was also the lowest figure in the last five years, not even equalling the low mark of 7551 set in 1957.

A drop of 1253 tourists was noted at the Chamber of Commerce building this summer as only 7103 tourists registered there as compared to 8356 in 1959. In 1958 a total of 8691 tourists registered at the booth.

A breakdown of this summer's total follows:

Tourists	June	July	August
Canadian	478	2137	1652
Foreign	21	22	25
United States	199	1903	617

Post Office Business Up

Receipts and disbursements at the Nelson Post Office totalled $221,183 in September.

Total business showed an increase of better than $19,000 when compared with the September, 1959, figure of $201,296.

Sale of postage stamps and supplies netted $9103, compared to $8817 a year ago; other revenues were $561, compared to $307. Number of money orders issued were 3609, while 4381 money orders were paid.

Nelson Fund To Aid Nanaimo Fire Victims

A fund has been started in Nelson to aid the homeless Chinese of the Nanaimo community.

See Pong of 608 Lake Street, spokesman for the Chinese Relief Fund for Nanaimo, stated that the fund will consist of voluntary donations and canvass of the business section will be carried out. All funds collected will be forwarded to Nanaimo this weekend.

The entire Chinese community of the Vancouver Island city was destroyed by flames recently, leaving 200 Chinese residents homeless.

Approximately $200 had been collected by the group on the first day of the drive, Thursday. Anyone wishing to contribute can contact Mr. Pong.

Electronic Eye, Latest Aid In Cleaning, in Use Here

Faith and begorra, the old Irish washerwoman would turn in her grave, that she would, if she could see the new electronic eye gadget in Steve Conne's dry-cleaning establishment.

Life round the washer is getting more technical every day as every wife knows when she puts her dirty clothes in the washer and removes them all but ironed.

Steve Conne has a large dry-cleaning tank in which clothing is immersed in a dry solvent (one without moisture) and special detergent. A certain amount of moisture has to be added to the dry solvent to remove water stains in clothes, such as tea, coffee, and so on.

The amount of moisture is relative to temperature of the solvent is important in result of the cleaning process, and until now, the adding of moisture by measurement and by hand has been the rule.

Now, however, the moisture content automatically adjusts to the right proportion through an electronic conductivity control which is found in a room apart from the one in which the flammable substances, such as solvent, are kept. This control may be set for the required moisture ratio, which will vary with different fabrics and extent of soil.

When more moisture is needed, a red light turns on and moisture drops from a container into a pump, which pumps the small addition through the filter process and breaks it up minutely before transferring it to the solvent. This filtering process is one through which the solvent is pumped every minute and a half, the soil catching on a powder on the filter. This powder is mined in California and is diatamaceous earth and contains fossil material.

This electronic conductivity control is the only one in the West Kootenay. It was approved by the National Institute of Drycleaning, of which Mr. Conne is a member, in 1953.

This addition to the drycleaning machinery means a more streamlined operation to Mr. Conne.

With new fabrics continually being introduced on the market, the dry cleaning operators have to keep informed on the care for these latest materials and the Institute keeps them up to date on this.

Lively Campaign Ends as Notre Dame to Polls Today

The campaign for election to the various offices for the Student Union of Notre Dame College has been carried out with a great deal of ballyhoo and hilarity underlined with a seriousness and a feeling of purposefulness strange to college elections.

Voting takes place this morning.

The candidates have been caricatured and lampooned by a profusion of posters which literally cover every nook and cranny of the hallowed halls of Notre Dame, and by numerous skits and playlets which have the faculty and student body convulsed with laughter at just about every meal.

A new height in the campaign was reached when the Nelson city fire department came clanging onto the campus, pulled up in front of La Salette Hall and shot their ladder to the roof to provide a platform from which Jim Manson, vice-presidential candidate, extolled his qualification for the office. Not to be outdone, his opponent, Don Robb, jumped from the roof into a firemen's net, thus proving he has the courage, foresight and executive skill for said office. The demonstration was arranged for by Jim Manson in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week.

A major contest has sprung up between the two contenders for the presidency, Jim Hurst and Laurine Schwartzenhauer, as well as for that of the office of vice-president.

A debate by the campaign managers of the presidential candidates was held in the dining lounge to inform the electorate of the reasons for, the necessary character of, and the responsibilities of the president of the Student Union.

Having clarified these questions for the student body, Miss Nola Landucci and Ian Whishaw then proceeded (a la Nixon-Kennedy) to extoll their party and acclaim the virtues and qualifications of their candidates, Jim Hurst and Laurine Schwartzenhauer.

Other candidates busy soliciting votes with bonfires, weiner roasts, marshmallow roasts, are for treasurer, Marian Mitchell, Pat Heal; minister of publicity, Bill King, Henry Meixner; second-year class president, Melvin Maglio, Herry Corkery; second-year representative, Garry Filenger, Maida Lang; first-year class president, Ray Marusyk, John Edwards.

As this is being read, Notre Dame's electorate is going to the polls to decide who is to be their particular "man of the people."

Fewer Births, More Deaths in August

Births in the City of Nelson during the month of September numbered 31, a drop from 36 births in August, while deaths rose from seven in August to 12 last month. There were four marriages. These figures coincide fairly well with September, 1959.

According to figures just released from courthouse there were 11 deaths in the district and one marriage during September.

27 Fatalities in Two-Month Period

For the first time since August 3, the Nelson RCMP subdivision failed to record a traffic fatality in its district.

During the past weeks of September, the sub-division reported about half of the traffic fatalities for the province.

For the week ending Oct. 2, the subdivision's traffic statistics read 28 accidents and 10 prosecutions.

For the province there were 278 accidents, four fatal accidents, four deaths and 77 prosecutions.

In the way of fatalities, August and September set what is believed to be records for the Kootenay-Boundary area. August had 13 fatalities while September recorded 14.

In August, an accident which claimed six lives near Fernie, boosted that month's traffic fatalities to nine. Four others met death in drownings, two fighting forest fires.

In September, there were seven traffic fatalities, including the death of Robert Olson of Nelson whose inquest hearing was held Thursday.

Two hunters were killed near Fernie while five men died from working accidents and an Elko boy was electrocuted.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. ROBERTSON

Funeral services for Mrs. Edith May Robertson who died in Nelson, Monday, age 80, was conducted Thursday at Thompson Funeral Home with Rev. H. R. Whitmore of Fairview United Church officiating.

Interment followed in the IOOF plot of Nelson Memorial Park.

Hymns sung were "Breathe on Me Breath of God" and "Nearer, My God to Thee."

Pallbearers were Edward Damstrom, Frank Phillips, Chester Bradshaw, Rex Little, William A. Triggs and Ralph Pettet.

SAWMILL COMING UP — With the completion date expected to be July 1, 1961, construction of the Celgar Limited sawmill west of the pulp mill is progressing. The sawmill will provide modern dry kiln and manufacturing facilities lacking in the company's present sawmills. The mill will draw its steam and water requirements from the pulp mill while supplying the by-products of lumber, in the form of wood chips and hog fuel to the pulp mill.—Photo by Pettitt Studio, Castlegar.

Fuel Shed Destroyed . . .

Kimberley Golf Club Bonfire Runs Amok

KIMBERLEY — Fire at 10 am. Thursday completely destroyed a fuel storage shed at Kimberley and District Golf Club, and damaged other buildings containing equipment.

Five members of the Marysville volunttter fire department answered the call but were unable to approach the fuel shed until gas tanks exploded.

Dry pine needles caused the fire to spread to the second shed and to the surrounding brush and it took approximately 1½ hours to extinguish the blaze.

Groundskeeper Harry Pearson had the jeep out of the shed at the time and was able to remove the greens mower before the shed ignited.

Equipment loss is not expected to be high.

The fire started from a bonfire at rear of the building from which flames spread through dry pine needles.

At no time was there danger to the clubhouse which is situated some 300 feet away.

Convicted as Habitual Criminal

TRAIL (CP)—The British Columbia Court of Appeal has upheld the conviction of Reginald Roy Smart, 37, of Trail as an habitual criminal.

At the time of his declaration as an habitual criminal, Smart was serving a three-year term in the Prince Albert, Sask., penitentiary for several offences committed in Calgary.

He subsequently admitted to safe-cracking offences in Nelson and Creston, and to stealing money in Kaslo and Trail.

Magistrate Williams was notified of the Appeal Court's findings in a letter from the court registrar Wednesday.

Progress Good On Windermere School Additions

INVERMERE — Progress is reported on all school building projects now under way in No. 4 Windermere School District, the Edgewater two classroom and gymnasium addition being now 90 per cent complete, balance to be done entails work mostly by the sub-trades.

This includes completion of heating facilities and of the grounds, fixtures in the classrooms and on the stage and installation of steel lockers for students.

The addition to the Edgewater school is attractively designed and colors and special building products have proved to be particularly satisfactory.

Construction of an addition to the Canal Flat school has been held up by lack of delivery of Howe trusses. All foundation work and framing, roofing and framing of the gymn is complete and the sewage disposal system is completed.

At Invermere, progress on the addition to the David Thompson School has been good with all building and electrical alterations to the existing buildings completed. All foundation work as well as all framing to the entire project is completed, with the exception of the gym, delayed by late delivery of the Howe trusses.

At Brisco, the teacherage is practically complete, with a little painting and clean-up of the grounds remaining to be done.

Crow's Nest Coal Still a Valuable Resource

The Crow's Nest Pass coal mining communities will take cold comfort from the Rand Report. It recommends that the subsidy or subventions to assist in shipping the coal to export points, which are the chief factor keeping the coal industry alive in the Pass, should be discontinued. This would mean abandonment of many of the mines.

Though the evil day has been staved off until now, it has always been thought that coal would eventually have to give way to other fuels. The commissioner pays tribute to the realism of the West when he says B. C. and Alberta "view coal as they do oil or any other fuel; its position must be left to its inherent strength, and if that is not sufficient then it must go the way of all weaklings and yield to its competitors."

That is true. It is giving way to its competitors, and for the time being the industry is kept alive through this subsidy which enables the coal to be exported. The commission recommends that if the federal government considers it advisable it should continue to give assistance through co-operation with Alberta and B. C.

Having begun it, there is no good reason why the federal government cannot continue the subsidy instead of making a new and possibly contentious plan whereby the province and the federal government will each pay a share of the cost. The subsidy cannot be allowed to lapse at this particular moment . . . there is much unemployment and little opportunity to retrain the displaced miners. It must be continued until the economic picture is brighter, and until further uses for the Crow's Nest area coals are developed. The possibility of new uses for this coal is under study by the huge United States Steel Corporation, and we should not underestimate the potential future of this huge resource.

Interpreting the News

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Three big men now rule Europe. How they get along together influences decisions that affect the world.

Recently, for instance, the change in relationships among the top three has given a major boost toward economic unity in Europe.

To appreciate the significance of the triumvirate, you have to go back a year or so. At that time, Gen. de Gaulle of France and Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany were getting along famously. In the warmth of their new-found friendship, the old Franco-German feuds evaporated.

But two was company and three a crowd, leaving the third member of the trio — Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain — as something of an odd man out. Britain's influence on the continent declined sharply.

Now it's a different story. The West German chancellor, who used to carry clippings around in his pocket to prove that Britain was being beastly to the Germans, is growing tired of his flirtation with de Gaulle.

On the rebound, he is turning to Macmillan. As a sign of the changing climate, a German newspaper recently referred to the British prime minister as "good old Mac."

Out of the ripening understanding between Adenauer and Macmillan came the push toward economic unity. All the talk in Whitehall now is of the new "political will" to admit Britain to the Europe trading club, despite all obstacles.

Meanwhile de Gaulle, alarmed by rebuffs from Adenauer, is said to have written a letter to the chancellor suggesting they try to get back to the "good old days" when France and Germany formed a two-country admiration society.

Maybe Adenauer will heed the plea. If he is serious about getting Britain into Europe — and it looks as though he is — he will have to overcome opposition from de Gaulle, the biggest barrier to British entry.

Alternatively, Adenauer may welcome de Gaulle back into his embrace in return for a friendlier attitude to NATO.

One thing certain is that as long as the Big Three dominate Europe, each new nuance in their relationships will affect events.

Bureaucracy at Its Bungling Worst

Of the very stuff of which bureaucracy is made is the grim story from Ottawa that Canadian soldiers in Korea were not issued a steel helmet 20 per cent better than the old "tin hat" because a huge stock of the latter had to be used up first.

This fact came to light when the defence department announced recently that the American-type steel helmets will be issued soon to the Canadian army—helmets which were purchased in 1945.

These helmets were bought for use by the Canadian Pacific force, which, as it turned out, did not have to go to the Pacific to assist in the defeat of Japan. They—all 60,000 of them-have since been gathering dust in army stores, together with 250,000 Canadian tin hats.

Apparently the army didn't want to use the American-type helmet because someone decided the Canadian types should be used first, although at the current rate of use they would last 100 years, and because "they would make Canadian troops look more like American soldiers."

The complete absurdity of the story is evident when it is known that the U.S. helmet is more comfortable to wear and, more important, provides up to 20 per cent more protection to the back of the head and the ears. The Canadian tin hat, it will be remembered bitterly by thousands of former Canadian servicemen, has a tendency to sit on the top of the head rather like a saucer on a pumpkin. Officers have said frequently that it was a "real tragedy" that Canadian troops did not have the American helmet during the 1950-53 Korean War.

It is incidents of bureaucratic bungling of this kind which cause the citizen to shake his head bewilderedly and "old sweats" to nod knowingly.

The story would be amusing were its implications not so macabre, and were it not so typical of a kind of mind which all too often is found in civil servant offices, both military and otherwise.

Surely there was not so much money involved in the 250,000 tin hats that they could not have been written off entirely or else issued to cadets. Besides, how many tin hats does it take on the scales to balance a human life?

It is quite possible that some Canadian troops died or were seriously wounded in Korea because someone in Ottawa decided the Dominion's soldiers might look too much like American troops. It is a shaking thought.

Letters to The Editor

Hazing Worries Mother

To the Editor:

Sir—My children are too young for me to have any first hand information regarding the "hazing" problem at the High School, but as I have four children coming up, I am very interested and apprehensive of what I read and hear. I would like to have something cleared up.

The Daily News reported that some students had ropes tied around their necks and the other end looped to a car. Now the principal of the High School denies this and says it happened several years ago. Who is right?

A great deal of money every year is spent by our government trying to do something about our juvenile delinquents, yet this sort of thing is being condoned by our education system. Why? If Mr. Khrushchev performed these acts they would be called atrocities, yet Mr. Lee calls it "harmless fun".

If this is needless worry on my part, why has the University of B. C. stopped this form of initiation?

(MRS.) STELLA LePAGE.
Nelson, B. C.

F. B. Pearce. . . . . Writes

Women say, "You men are all alike," and believe that because they have married men they know all about them. There is nothing improper in a woman claiming to understand men, but if a man claims to know all about women it is evidence of his misspent youth.

Men, on the other hand, do not claim to know all about women. Far from it. They are far more apt to express their inability to understand them by saying, "Isn't that just like a woman?" and leaving it at that.

Of course all men are not alike, and the thing which puzzles women is that they have definite male characteristics which they don't like and can't change however much they may try.

Women have all sorts of feminino ways which puzzle men which they like just the same. In fact, the more queer ways they have the better they like them. Wasn't it a poet who said, "Age cannot stale nor custom wither her infinite variety"?

But women are seldom so generous. They have their ideal man and they would like their husbands to be like him. Let him come home late and the first words she says are, "What makes you so late?" for she can see no reason why he should want to leave her or the home.

Of course the maternal spirit is at the back of much of her attitude towards him. She treats him like a boy and views his staying out with suspicion, and probably with reason, for who knows what mischief a man—like the boy she thinks him—can get into?

For man is a roaming animal who is often ready to love at any time and almost everyone. That is part of his biological makeup for which he is not responsible, but he is most definitely responsible for keeping all his urges under control, particularly if he is married.

With most women things are different. Their love has something to do with their need for children. They have times when they want love and others when they do not, quite unlike men, who are always ready for it. They have, however, a very strong continuing action which makes for family solidarity, especially if it centres around the father.

This is as it should be, for love was not invented for our pleasure, but to insure the continuance of the race. The human family is necessary for this purpose. Children take so long to reach maturity that they need the shelter of a home where there are two parents.

We are only dimly beginning to understand how large a part marital affection plays in the development of happy children. There are too many unhappy homes where children say their parents fight.

We need wives who are affectionate, tolerant and understanding, and we need husbands who, as another poet says, will compass them—their wives—about with loving observances, for a woman needs the constant assurance of a husband's affection for her if she is to develop that serenity of spirit which is the hallmark of a much-loved wife.

'Buffalo Hunter' Proves Incapable Of Wrenching Living From Land

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SCANTERBURY, Man. (CP) Brokenhead is an Indian reservation where farming flopped and federal relief has been the only solid alternative so far.

It bears out, as many Prairie reservations do, the wry conclusion of a senior Indian affairs branch official:

"I can't help thinking that the worst mistake made was sticking a buffalo hunter behind a plow and expecting it to work."

Too often, officials say, the experiment degenerated into a pursuit of federal funds by Indians ill-equipped, by training or tradition, to handle any steady occupation on or off reservations.

CHIEF ON RELIEF

Brokenhead comprises 13,600 acres of bush and fields just below the south end of Lake Winnipeg near this hamlet. Its 311 residents—about 30 families—are Saulteaux, offshoots of the wood-dwelling Ojibways who rival the Cree in numbers and territory.

Some at Brokenhead work as railway section hands, main Indian wage source in Manitoba. Some work casually on farms but, officials complain, the farmers don't plant enough and the Indians tend to be irregular workers.

Most Brokenhead farms are leased to non-Indians and agriculture is limited to gardens and some hay-making with the five reservation horses, a wagon and two mowers. A fire years ago burned off much of the marketable cordwood.

Relief in food rations runs between $300 and $700 a month during the worst part of the winter. Chief Sid Chief, with no permanent means of support, draws rations himself.

RAW DEAL

The economic process seems to turn on efforts of the administrators to keep relief down—in line with the official policy of making the Indian work as much as possible for what he gets—while the Indian ponders ways to get relief.

Superintendent Ed Daggitt, formerly a conservation officer in northern Manitoba, is a combined welfare officer, economist, cajoler and the "government man" tainted with the responsibility of saying no. So are his three assistants.

"We find that other branches of government often get along better with Indians because we are the people who have to say no," said one official.

Daggitt is the first to agree that the Indian has had a raw deal, fobbed off with remnants of the land he once roamed and a few dollars paid annually under terms of treaties signed with most bands.

FIGHTS APATHY

At the same time he is saddled with the task of trying to inject some self-reliance into an apathetic band. He urges the Chief to sign a band council resolution that will sanction a new source of band revenue.

"What for?" says the chief good - naturedly. "You people have lots of money." His tone indicates he may be only half-joking.

A chatty visit with the chief raises one of those problems which show why the Indian is suspicious of the non-Indian and why he has a good point.

It concerns the fact that Indians, like non-Indians, are restricted to shooting game birds in season under terms of the migratory birds convention signed by Canada, the United States and Mexico. It was signed after Indian treaties had pledged perpetual hunting rights in many cases.

GOOD GRAZING

The chief is adamant about the wrong and Daggitt can only say:

"Look, I'm not disagreeing with you. I'm just telling you that shooting birds out of season on or off the reservation is against the law."

Application has been made in Daggitt's appropriations next year for $15,000 to start three beef - cattle nursery herds. A common practice, they are used to start herds on reservations that offer good grazing, like Brokenhead. He hopes at least one herd will be approved for his Clandeboye agency running up the east side of Lake Winnipeg.

Beef has proved a good source of income elsewhere, notably on the Alberta Blood reservation. Canada's biggest, where a communal herd is run.

Brokenhead housing, of the old school, is decrepit and shabby. Federal welfare housing put up four new homes last year—cost runs around $2,800 each—but applications were shaved to one this year. Money also goes on repairs to existing homes, done under supervisin of a non-Indian carpenter.

NEEDS ASSISTANTS

Perhaps two Brokenhead pupils will go on to integrated high schools this year, staying at government expense in one of several denominational hostels or boarding with private families. There are Roman Catholic and Anglican day schools.

In Winnipeg, the regional superintendent for Manitoba's Indian schooling is John Slobodzian. His problems illustrate those general across the country as the federal government pays education costs for Indians as far as they want to go, depending on progress.

Mr. Slobodzian has 225 classrooms from the United States border to the north country where airplanes are the only means of access to bush settlements. He needs—and lacks—two assistants. They are hard to get primarily because provincial salaries for the equivalent classification of school inspector run some $2,000 a year higher than the federal government pays.

Hirings, textbooks, air charters, pupil allocations and bookwork — one form requires nine copies—come under his authority. Despite a decrease in the forms necessary for Indian administration, they are still plentiful.

But in Manitoba, as elsewhere, integrated schooling is on the rise as a means to encourage equal participation economically and socially between Indians and non-Indians.

TOMORROW: B.C. reserve is economic success story.

RAPS PRISON SECURITY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrate Doug Hume of Burnaby criticized Oakalla's security provisions Wednesday as he sentenced Karl Snickers, 26, to six months in the B.C. Penitentiary for escaping from Oakalla in daylight Sept. 26. Magistrate Hume said there is also "something lacking" in the choice of minimum security prisoners.

Dramatic Speech By Carole's Defence Counsel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Carole Tregoff, I turn your destiny over to God and his jury," said defence counsel Donald Bringgold as he completed final arguments at her murder retrial.

Miss Tregoff, 23, and her lover, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, are charged with slaying the physician's wife, Barbara. Their first trial ended with a deadlocked jury.

Bringgold's summation Wednesday was made with tears in his eyes. He reminded the jury that the prosecution had called Miss Tregoff an adulteress, then quoted from the Bible about an adulteress being brought before Christ.

Bringgold quoted Jesus: "Let him without sin among you cast the first stone . . . Woman, go thy way and sin no more."

WHEELS CRUSH WORKER

Canadians Urged To Produce More, End Running Into Debt

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

CALGARY (CP) — Canadians must produce more of the goods they need—instead of importing them — and must stop running into debt with other countries, James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, told the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

These things must be done, he said, if Canada is to retain her independence.

They could be done without inflation and without any substantial loss in the Canadian standard of living, by putting Canada's unemployed people and facilities to work on things now imported.

There is no financial obstacle to accomplishing these things, Mr. Coyne said.

He indicated, however, that Canadians — already large savers—would have to put more of their money to work on the desired objectives.

He said he was not raising arguements or getting into an argument about free trade versus protection, because this was beside the point.

However, under his proposals, the proportion of Canada's manufacturing in the economy would go up.

MUST AID UNEMPLOYED

He indicated that even if attacked energetically, his proposals for ending unemployment might take time to accomplish their aims. In the meantime, the unemployed might have some form of income maintenance, and he envisaged the possibility that this might be considerably higher than what now is received under the unemployment insurance fund.

He said there seems "no practical possibility" of export industries solving the unemployment problem.

Mr. Coyne said Canada is at perhaps the most critical crossroads in her history and added:

"Economic developments and preoccupation with fiscal doctrines of an earlier day are pushing us down the road that leads to loss of effective power to be masters in our household, and ultimate absorption in and by another.

"A nation cannot truly call itself a nation or provide a satisfying way of life to the many varieties of people within its boundaries, unless it can achieve full diversification of its economic activities. Primitive peoples, backward nations, seriously under-developed nations, obviously cannot do this for a long time to come. Canada can do it now.

"Savings generated by the Canadian economy each year, and the size of the discretionary income of the Canadian people, are such that we can afford to build whatever kind of economic structure we want."

SAYS CANADA DOMINATED

Mr. Coyne said no country in the world with Canada's relative state of development has ever had such a degree of foreign domination, or even half or one-quarter so much.

He said Canada has in many line, a "branch-plant economy," and commented:

"Rarely is there genuine Canadian participation in the introduction of new ideas or the development of new products and projects. Important management decisions are for the greater part of our industry taken outside Canada by foreigners, whether Americans or Europeans, and taken for reasons which have little or nothing to do with the outlook or aspirations of Canadians.

"In most such companies, Canadians are not encouraged to have new ideas, cannot put their ideas to the test, and cannot assume responsibility for proving and carrying out their ideas.

"The Canadian automobile industry has never built a Canadian automobile designed to meet Canadian conditions or incorporating Canadian ideas whether good or bad.

"To a great and increasing degree many of the most advanced fields of secondary industry—including electronics and all that this may develop into in the future — are dominated and controlled from abroad, with production and exports restricted and managerial initiative stunted in Canada as compared with what they would be under Canadian-oriented management.

CANADIANS UNAWARE

"Canadians do not even know the state of affairs of many of their major industries as these are owned by foreign corporations which do not find it necessary or desirable to publish statements of accounts for their Canadian subsidiaries.

"Canadians cannot participate in the share ownership of most of these industries.

"American and other foreign capital and management have no doubt given us some benefits which we would not otherwise have obtained in the same quantities or so soon, but rarely the benefit of self development."

Mr Coyne said the growth of foreign domination in Canada has gone on so long that perhaps Canadians are blind to it. He added:

"A start towards improving the situation would be possible if foreign companies which have large subsidiaries in Canada — particularly in those industries which are more than 50-per-cent controlled by foreign companies and which have been here long enough to become firmly established — would undertake as a matter of policy to divest themselves of their corporate ownership of the stock of their Canadian subsidiaries.

"This could be done either by distributing the stock in the Canadian company to the shareholders of the foreign company, even though they may be largely or entirely foreign investors rather than Canadian, or, better still, by selling such stock on the public market.

"In either case, once the stock is out of the hands of the parent company and in the hands of numerous investors, it is available for purchase by Canadians. However, once this is accomplished, the management, from the board of directors to the chief executive and on down, can more easily be Canadianized, and the future financing of the company can be done entirely in Canada and be responsive to conditions in Canada in the same way as purely domestic enterprise."

Mr. Coyne said Canadians would not be happy to see their banking, or other large financial institutions, controlled by foreigners. A few years ago action was taken to prevent life insurance companies from being bought up by Americans. Foreign control or management of the Canadian Pacific Railway would not be regarded favorably.

"Why then," he asked, "should we have a different regard to so many important sectors of Canadian industry?"

In his review of monetary matters, Mr. Coyne said there has been no "tightness" in the monetary situation for many months.

Brush Up Your English Accent, Secretaries!

TORONTO (CP)—Vera Sugg of London says "it's the accent" that makes North American businessmen prefer British secretaries.

Mrs. Sugg, who runs the Graydon Bureau, one of the top five employment agencies in Britain, told a press conference Wednesday there will be as great a demand for the English imports by Canadian executives as there has been in the United States.

"By Christmas we shall have placed 150 in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and San Francisco," she said.

"Americans say British secretaries have calmness and poise. They tell us we don't go into flaps easily."

To qualify, a girl must have four years' experience, be single and between 20 and 40 years of age. She must have a typing speed of between 60 and 70 words a minute and 120 words a minute in shorthand.

Mrs. Ken Chandler was welcomed into the circle which plans the club's activities. Thirteen members make up this group.

An innovation for the formal dance season this year, members learned, will be a rotation of two local orchestras and one orchestra from Trail. A surprise contest will be held at each dance.

Composed of a limited membership of 75 couples, the club meets four times each winter to dance in the ballroom of the Nelson hotel. First dance of the season will take place Friday, November 5. After the second affair on Friday, December 17, the final dances will be on Saturday evenings after the New Year.

All proceeds go to charity.

East and West Meet Frankly in Atlas Mountains' Monastery

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—In at least one place in the world today, the East and West meet in frank friendship.

It's at a monastery in Morocco. There, proponents both of democracy and Marxism converse in mutual respect. Moslems, Catholics, Jews and Protestants confront their differences and seek genuine understanding.

"They come as strangers, but inevitably part as friends," said philosopher William Dunphy, who has spent several sessions at the quiet, secluded religious haven on a wooded plateau of North Africa's Middle Atlas Mountains.

The spot, in a way, has become a sort of neutral ground for the modern, conflicting forces of the earth—a place where partisans can share their views without partisanship.

PEACE INQUIRY

The Benedictine monastery is called Toumliline, the name of a nearby spring.

The annual international conferences, started there in 1956 under the leadership of the prior, Father Denis Martin, have attracted widening attention.

Participants have come from about 35 countries. Numerous governments now sponsor representatives. Recently, Iron Curtain scholars attended for the first time. Other Marxists have participated previously.

Yet the mood has remained one of peace and inquiry, not conflict.

"Somehow, an atmosphere of confidence is generated there," said Prof. Dunphy, of Fordham University. He emphasizes that the tone is religious and cultural, not political. "The whole spirit of the thing brings out a tremendous feeling of good will.

FALSENESS GONE

"These groups spend a great deal of time together. They live in the same quarters. They use communal facilities. After a few days of sitting around the same table and ripping a roast sheep apart all the phoney posturing is gone.

"Something happens to them. It may sound corny, but I think it's love."

Protestant philosopher F. S. C. Northrup of Yale University called the atmosphere of the affairs "one of the most constructive developments of the contemporary world."

Four U.S. foundations, including the Ford Foundation, have started giving support to the meetings.

During the international gatherings, the cloistered monks continue their daily cycle of work and prayers.

Power Failure Sets Off Explosions

NEW YORK (CP) — A spectacular power failure, possibly caused by a short circuit, set off a series of explosions Wednesday that blew manhole covers five storeys into the air, shook buildings and smashed windows in a 12 - block area on New York's upper east side.

It also stalled subways and elevators as flame and smoke poured out of the streets on Second Avenue between 73rd and 85th Streets.

Police, firemen and Consolidated Edison Company emergency crews fought the utility fires for three hours as the neighborhood was sealed off to all traffic.

It was believed the power failure was caused by a short circuit in a high-tension underground electrical cable that touched off gas fires and also caused trouble on the lower east side.

Wednesday night Consolidated Edison officials still weren't able to pinpoint the exact cause. The trouble started at 9:30 a.m.

The trouble caused what Consolidated Edison said was "a low voltage condition," stalling various elevators, knocking out appliances and playing havoc with the signal system of the subways.

Subway trains automatically stalled when all signals went red and then the trains had to be hand-signalled for more than an hour.

The force of the erupting manhole covers smashed about 70 windows in six buildings in the East 85th Street area and blew hubcaps off parked cars.

SPUDS UNCHANGED

LADYSMITH (CP)—Vancouver Island potato growers can expect a commercial crop of some 6,000 tons—about the same as last year—Don Wilson, Island representative of the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, said Wednesday.

Signs Indicate Break With U.K. In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — A diminishing anti-republican lead indicated Thursday that South Africans have voted to cut their country loose from the British Crown.

The forces opposing nationalist Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's plan to turn the British Commonwealth nation into a republic still clung to a lead of 102,000 votes with 86 of the 156 districts reported. But many heavily nationalist rural districts were yet to be heard from.

United party leader Sir de Villiers Graaff, who led the anti-republicans, had not yet conceded defeat and Verwoerd had not yet claimed a victory.

Dutch-born Verwoerd has declared that he will consider a majority of only one vote a mandate to submit to the nationalist-controlled Parliament legislation to turn South Africa into a republic, substituting an elected president for Queen Elizabeth II as chief of state and recognizing the British sovereign only as head of the Commonwealth.

WOULD EXPELL SA

Verwoerd says he hopes to keep South Africa in the Commonwealth as a republic. But this will require the unanimous consent of the other 10 member governments, and Asian and African members have shown strong signs of wanting to expel South Africa in retaliation for the nationalist government's apartheid policy of strict racial segregation.

A record outpouring of nearly 1,500,000 votes apparently was cast Wednesday from an all-white electorate of about 1,800,000. South Africa's 12,000,000 non-whites could only stand by and watch the plebiscite.

Verwoerd and his white - supremacist followers campaigned on the claim that a republic would finally unite the Afrikaans and English-speaking white factions. His Dutch - descended Afrikaners outnumber the whites of English descent by a ratio of about 55 to 45.

English - speaking whites bitterly attacked the plan for a republic. They charged it would pave the way for Verwoerd to create "nationalist dictatorship" and might lead to the country being expelled from the Commonwealth.

British Labor Favors Broader Socialism

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP)—The Labor party Thursday cast aside its backing for nationalization of industry in favor of broader socialist concepts.

The decision represented a surprising victory for Hugh Gaitskell, the party leader who suffered a setback Wednesday when the conference voted against the nuclear deterrent and Britain's continued participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The 1,261 delegates at the party's annual conference, voting the strength of the organizations they represented, took their decision this way:

1. By a vote of 4,153,000 to 2,310,000 they supported a statement of aims by the executive committee. This defined party goals as something broader than the old demand for full public ownership of the means of production, distribution and exchange.

2. By 4,304,000 to 2,226,000 the delegates approved a motion backing up the executive statement.

LESS EMPHASIS

Following Labor's election defeat by Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservatives a year ago, Gaitskell sought to have the party constitution rewritten to lessen the emphasis on nationalization of industry.

This produced an explosive party battle and in the end, Gaitskell was forced to give up his attempt to tinker with the constitution, which was drafted in 1918. But by today's conference decision, he has achieved his point by a roundabout route.

In a speech to the conference, he said a future Labor government would not merely limit itself to nationalizing industry but buy shares in private enterprises to finance welfare measures, extend the conception of the co-operative movement and seek by various means to ensure that the "commanding heights of the economy" were under public control.

The victory clearly strengthened Gaitskell's chance to retain his hold on the party's leadership.

PARTY BADLY SPLIT

From early reactions to Wednesday's leftist victory over Gaitskell's defence policy, it was difficult to tell which side of the badly-split party had finished on top.

Supporters of unilateral disarmament, which Gaitskell unsuccessfully fought in Wednesday's defence debate at the party's annual conference here, appeared subdued. They constantly reminded one another that they still have many more battles to fight.

The party's rightwingers, on the other hand, walked out of the conference hall feeling they had won a moral victory and spoke confidently of reversing the decision at the earliest opportunity.

The party voted in favor of having Britain go-it-alone in renouncing nuclear weapons. The big block votes of some of the largest labor unions turned the tide against the official policy which pledges loyalty to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization based on the nuclear deterrent of the United States.

FOREGONE CONCLUSION

The result of the voting had been a foregone conclusion since the Amalgamated Engineering Union, meeting in caucus the night before, decided to cast its 650,000 votes against Gaitskell.

But when the votes were counted, the largest majority polled by the anti - Gaitskell foces on any of the four defence ballots was 400,000 votes out of a total of 6,000,000.

The votes fell far short of the two-thirds majority needed to force a change in official policy.

The subdued reception by the delegates of the voting figures cead to them by party chairman George Brinham reflected the general surprise at the closeness of the contest.

CONVERSIONS SOUGHT

Michael Foot, the party's candidate to succeed the late Aneurin Bevan in the pending byelection in Ebbw Vale, called for efforts to convert Labor MPs, most of whom support Gaitskell's policy.

It is the parliamentary party that holds in its hands the fate of Gaitskell as the party's leader.

There were reports that Gaitskell might ask for a vote of confidence from his fellow-MPs next month and then call for the conference to be reconvened to reconsider its defence verdict.

In his speech Wednesday, the party leader delivered a warning that he and the Labor MPs will light the convention decision with all the powers at their command.

In a statement Wednesday night, he said: "I could not possibly support a policy of unilateral disarmament or neutralism for Britain which believe would be profoundly dangerous for the peace of the world and the safety of our country."

By 3,282,000 delegates' votes to 3,239,000, the convention backed a resolution sponsored by Gaitskell's arch rival, Frank Cousins, head of the Transport Workers Unin, which has 1,000,000 votes.

The Cousins motion provided for rejection of any defence policy based on the threat to use strategic or tactical nuclear weapons.

Bank Manager Tells of Packers' Purchase With Company Money

BRANDON (CP)—A Brandon bank manager, testifying before a judicial inquiry, said Wednesday two Toronto men received a $7,000 "signing bonus" when they purchased Brandon Packers Limited with the company's own money.

John English, manager of the Imperial Bank at Brandon, told Mr. Justice G. E. Tritschler who is conducting the one-man inquiry, that Hugh Paton and D. Hubert Cox of Toronto received the proceeds of a $200,000 Brandon Packers cheque signed by J. C. Donaldson, the former major stockholder, then paid Mr Donaldson $183,560 from it and had the balance transferred immediately to Toronto.

Company co-manager Gilbert Adams told Mr. Justice Tritschler that the two men would not appear before the hearing, despite a request by the Manitoba appeal court judge.

Mr. Adams also said Mr. Cox and Mr. Paton would not allow the inquiry to examine National Trust Company books concerning the Brandon Packers bond issue which raised the $200,000.

"NO LOAN ON THAT"

Mr. English said Brandon Packers received 2,000 shares of Fropack Investments, owned by Mr. Cox and Mr. Paton, for its $200,000. Commission counsel Maurice Arpin said Fropack is worth, for investment purposes, about $5.97.

When Mr. English was shown a reconstructed balance sheet of the Fropack company, he said, "I wouldn't be prepared to loan anything on that."

The sale of the plant was completed in Mr. English's office Nov. 21, 1956. He said Mr. Cox and Mr. Paton had about $17,000 to spare after they paid Mr. Donaldson. After they deducted $10,000 which had been used as a down payment to pick up the sale option, the two men still had almost $7,000 extra.

The bank manager said he was following instructions received from the bank's Toronto head office.

He also said that although the deal "was unusual for my branch, it was not unlike what has been going on all over Canada for a long time."

CONFLICTING TESTIMONY

Donald Thomson, credit manager of Brandon Packers testified, contrary to Mr. Donaldson's previous evidence, that the former owner had known of the deal and had explained to him some of the details of the investment in Fropack.

Mr. Donaldson had told the commission earlier he "couldn't remember" whether he had signed the $200,000 cheque turned over to Mr. Paton and Mr. Cox.

The cheque, produced Wednesday at the hearing, bore what was said to be Mr. Donaldson's signature along with that of Miss Minny Perry, the company secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Adams also produced cheques revealing that after the plant was sold, the two Toronto owners began charging $200 a month as Brandon Packers' contribution to their own Toronto office rent, a practice they continued until february, 1960, 38 months after the sale.

MONTHLY CONTRIBUTIONS

Mr. Adams, who had been instructed by the commission to produce all cheques paid to Mr. Paton or Mr. Cox, provided two cheques for $100 each, payable to Paton Corporation and to Leomar Investments. The cheques were representative of the monthly contributions required by the Toronto men to pay their own office rents, Mr. Adams said.

As co-manager and treasurer, Mr. Adams said the company lost about $16,000 a year as a result of company money being used to allow Mr. Paton and Mr. Cox to gain control.

The treasurer said Brandon Packers was in serious financial difficulty before it was sold. He said if the plant had not received new management it would have gone bankrupt.

He also said that a provincial official of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CLC) has instigated grievances since the union's strike against the plant was settled Aug. 29. Mr. Adams said the plant has enforced labor harmony by threatening instant dismissal for anyone involved in violence or harsh words.

"We have had grievances instigated by the Manitoba representative of the UPWA, Joseph Willford," Mr. Adams said, "but we won't tolerate friction."

He said Mr. Willford threatened "to pull the men out on the picket line again" if the company didn't agree with him.

"I honestly think that Mr. Willford is not conducive to good relations at the plant, and I honestly think he is not good to the local union men," Mr. Adams told the inquiry.

TWO ITEMS

Mr. Adams said there were two items of the final strike settlement which the union had not carried out. He said the union had agreed to spend an equal amount of money in counter-advertising to tell people the boycott against Brandon Packers products was no longer on. He said the only advertisement the union had run since the strike ended was one thanking other unions for the help it received.

He also said the union promised that the company would "have no more trouble" with union president John Olver, sentenced to jail on an assault charge during the strike.

Now, Mr. Adams said, the union has written the company asking for full reinstatement privileges for Mr. Olver, who since his release has resumed working at the plant.

Earlier Wednesday, new labor laws outlawing union boycotts and giving management a "bill of rights" were urged in briefs submitted to the inquiry. They were the first requests the inquiry has received for changes in legislation based on the six-month strike.

The briefs, presented by the Brandon branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association and Canadian Brown Steel Tank Company Limited, claimed unions have been making improper use of their "vast powers."

Yellowknife Marked On Highway Map

OTTAWA (CP) — Yellowknife was placed on the Canadian highway map Thursday.

After five years of sub-Arctic work and an outlay of $12,000,000, the road to the Northwest Territories mining town was declared open by the northern affairs department.

The road covers 281 miles. It begins at the Hay River, N.W.T., end of Alberta's Mackenzie highway and then generally follows the west shore of Great Slave Lake to Yellowknife.

Although traffic now can use the "Great Slave Lake highway" most of the year, work on it is not yet finished. Traffic won't be able to move during the freeze-up and break-up periods.

Coast Police Never At Loss For Interpreter

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver police court has never been stuck for a word.

Officials are proud of the fact that never, no matter what language or dialect an accused or witness used, have they failed to provide an interpreter.

Many of the languages encountered are obscure from the Canadian point of view and interpreters are difficult to find.

One recent case involved an East Indian who spoke an obscure dialect. Court clerks searched until they finally found a University of British Columbia student who spoke the dialect.

TWO INTERPRETERS

Sometimes two or three different languages are involved. One of the most complicated cases occurred some years ago when two interpreters were needed for one man.

A Chinese seaman who appeared in court spoke only the dialect of Ningpo in Northern China. A chain of communication had to be set up through veteran Chinese interpreter Gordon Cumyow and another seaman.

Mr. Cumyow spoke to the other interpreter in the Cantonese tongue. The second man passed on the words to his accused shipmate in his own dialect.

"We got through all right," recalled Mr. Cumyow.

COURT KEEPS LIST

At different times interpreters have been needed in the Maltese, Portuguese, Turkish, Egyptian, Latvian and Estonian languages.

"It's a big headache for us because we never know what language we are going to meet in a single day," said court clerk W. W. Edwards.

To help solve the problem, the court keeps a list of interpreters in about 30 languages. Some are paid monthly retainers and others receive fees according to the number of times they are employed.

The budget for interpreters has climbed steadily in recent years, said Mr. Edwards. Last year the cost of their services was $6,354, while in 1958 it was $6,119.

The only staff interpreter is Jack Brauchfeld, 50, who speaks Arabic, German, Hebrew, Yiddish, Romanian, Italian and French. A keen language student, he's now adding Russian.

How to Handle Skunks — Don't

TORONTO (CP) — The best way to handle skunks, says the Ontario department of lands and forests, is not to handle them at all.

When the white-striped animals take up residence under the house, porch or an outbuilding, "the simplest procedure is to leave them alone as they are probably harming nobody."

Skunks live on mice, worms and insects, have a particular fondness for white grubs, the larvae of June beetles, and can help save your lawn from damage.

But if you're determined to get rid of the skunks you can employ their fondness for eggs. They can be trapped if a broken egg is used for bait, then drowned or gassed with exhaust fumes.

A simpler method for removing the animals from under houses is to wait until the skunks are out and block the entrance holes. The skunks are quick to take the hint.

Finally, for persons or animals sprayed by skunks the best thing to do is wash them off with a cloth soaked in tomato juice.

12 Yanks Step Up in 6th

Yankees Retaliate to Crush Bucs in Second Series Tilt

By JACK HAND

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mickey Mantle drove in five runs with two homers — one an awesome 460-foot smash over the centre field wall—in a 16-3 New York Yankee romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

Squaring the series at one game each with this second game route before 37,308 fans, the Yanks sent the press box tenants scrambling to the record books to find anything to match the showing.

SEVEN IN SIXTH

Bob Turley walked the tightrope through the early innings, barely skirting disaster in the second, fourth and fifth until the American League champions burst through with seven runs in the sixth. Although nicked for 13 hits, Turley stuck around until the ninth for his fourth series victory.

Turley left with one out in the ninth and little Bobby Shantz came in and fed Don Hoak a double play ball to end the game.

The 32 hits picked up by both teams this soggy afternoon broke the series record of 29 set by St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox on Oct. 10, 1946. The Cards that day got 20, equalling the record set by New York Giants against the Yankees on Oct. 7, 1921.

WHITEY FORD
. . . To start Saturday.

The Yanks' 19 blows Thursday fell just one short of the mark.

MOCKING FANS

Twelve Yanks went to bat in the goofy sixth inning against Fred Green, Clem Labine and George Witt before the Pirates finally got them out to the accompaniment of some mocking cheers.

Mantle passed Los Angeles' Duke Snider as the only challenger to the all time series homer record of 15 held by the late Babe Ruth. Mantle's two blasts gave him a total of 13.

YANKS SCORE FIRST

After two scoreless innings of a battle between Turley and loser Bob Friend, the Yanks crashed through for two tallies in the third on a walk to Bobby Richardson, a sacrifice, a single by Tony Kubek and a double by Gil McDougald. They lengthened the lead in the fourth on Richardson's single, a passed ball and a single by Turley and picked up two more in the fifth on Mantle's two-run homer.

Then came the big sixth. Mantle's three run homer in the seventh and the final run in the ninth on a wild pitch home by Tom Cheney, the sixth Pirate pitcher.

Every Yankee starter had at least one hit and even the two infield replacements — Clete Boyer and Joe Demaestri — each had a hit. Bobby Shantz, who finished up for Turley in the ninth, never got a chance at the plate. Kubek and Richardson each had three hits and the rest were well divided.

BROKEN RECORDS

Records were crashing all over the place. Mantle tied one by driving in five runs in one game. Others to do it were Yankee Tony Lazzero and Bill Dickey, both in the same game in 1936, and big Ted Kluszewski of Chicago White Sox last year in the 110 opening game against Los Angeles.

Before the Pirates finally got the side out in the sixth, 12 men batted of whom seven had hits—five singles, a double and a triple. One was safe on an error and another advanced on a passed ball.

Stengel announced in the club house that Whitey Ford (12-5), his veteran lefthander would start against the Pirates in the third game Saturday at Yankee Stadium. Vinegar Bend Bill Mizell (14-8), also a southpaw, will pitch for Pittsburgh.

Casey said he started his offensive lineup Thursday, hoping to get some more runs. Wednesday he started the defensive unit and they never got in the ball game.

Totem Coach To Handle WHL All-Star Game

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seattle Totem coach-manager Keith Allen was named Thursday to handle the Western Hockey League All-Stars in their game here Friday against Vancouver Canucks, replacing Hal Laycoe of Portland Buckaroos.

League President Al Leader said Laycoe, who coached Victoria Cougars into the league final last year, then lost to the champion Canucks, was unable to get to Vancouver because he is tied up on the prairies where Portland is involved in a series of exhibition games.

At the same time it was learned that Ceasare Maniago, a rookie from Chatham Maroons of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series, will be in goal for Canucks in the All-Star game.

Hank Bassen, the league's top netminder last season while with Canucks, now is with Detroit Red Wings of the National League and the Wings have refused to permit Basen to fly to Vancouver to take part in the game here because the NHL season is under way and Bassen may be needed to fill in for regular Terry Sawchuk.

Maniago and George Wood, another rookie, are seeking the regular netminder's job with the Canucks.

The WHL All-Stars arrived here Thursday and were feted at a league dinner.

DATE NIGHT AT GARDEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Saturday night at Madison Square Garden also will be "date night", starting Oct. 15.

That's when the Garden inaugurates its Saturday night boxing shows resulting from the shift of the Friday night television fight program to Saturday night.

Ladies, when accompanied by a male adult escort, will be admitted free.

YANKS 17-10 FAVORITES

NEW YORK (AP) — The Yankees' 16-3 rout of Pittsburgh Thursday to even the world series at 1-1 also made the New Yorkers the 17-10 favorites to win the classic.

The Yanks also are 3-2 choice to win the third game at New York Saturday, according to the Broadway bookmakers' latest line.

Whitey Ford of the Yankees will oppose Vinegar Mizell of the Pirates in a duel of left-handers at the Stadium.

What! Me Worry? Says Murtaugh

By GIB STALEY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Manager Danny Murtaugh of Pittsburgh Pirates took Thursday's 16-3 defeat by New York Yankees in philosophical fashion.

"I prefer getting beat by a big score as long as I have to lose," Murtaugh said. "Today's game gave me an opportunity to play all of my young fellows. It gave them a little experience in the world series — some of it pretty hard experience."

Don Hoak, the fiery third baseman who is playing the series despite a groin injury, chipped in to say:

"We got beat. And I'm like Danny. If we lose by a big score we don't have to hang our heads and worry about some mistakes —the kind of mistakes that cost you victory in these 3-2 and 2-1 games. We made a good many mistakes today. We learned something. We'll profit by it and don't worry about us not winning the series. We'll win okay."

Dick Groat, the Pirate captain who committed a glaring error on a ball hit by Tony Kubek in the Yankees' big seven-run sixth inning, said:

"I booted that ball and that is all there is to it. I certainly should have fielded it cleanly and I have no excuses. As far as the team is concerned, this team bounced back all the time in the regular season and we'll bounce back against the Yankees in New York."

PTCHER MOURNS

Bob Friend, the starting and losing pitcher, was the most disconsolate of all the Pirates. He struck out six men, walked two, allowed six hits and two earned runs in his four-inning stint.

"I had just as good stuff on the ball as I have ever had," said Friend. "Naturally, I hated to be taken out but that's life. . . If I have the same kind of stuff that I had today we'll beat the Yanks when I pitch again. Some of those hits they got off me were no such hot hits to my way of thinking."

Friend went to the showers in the fourth inning when the Pirates scored their first run and seemed headed for one of their typical rallies. Two men were on base and there was one out when Murtaugh sent up Gene Baker to bat for Friend.

Murtaugh said he would have left Friend in the game if Bill Mazeroski had kept the rally going with a hit. But Mazeroski lined to third base and the strategy simply called for a pinch hitter, Murtaugh said.

Hawks Down Red Wings 4-2

Habs Open NHL Season With Win Over Toronto

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens started off their 1960-61 National Hockey League season Thursday night with a 5-0 shutout of Toronto Maple Leafs. Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard scored two of the goals.

In the night's other game, Chicago Black Hawks rolled to a 4-2 victory over Detroit Red Wings, Ron Murphy, Bobby Hull and Eric Nesterenko taking advantage of a ragged Detroit defence to score early goals.

Canadiens outskated the Leafs and capitalized on a five-minute major penalty to George Armstrong by running in two goals.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion ¼¼JFD GOALIE Johnny faced 28 shots, many at close and Dickie Moore contributed range, against only 21 the Leafs

The Leafs were shaky on defence and goalie Johnny Bower faced 28 shots, many at close range, against only 21 the Leafs fired at Montreal goalie Jacques Plante.

PLAY LOOSE

There was loose play by both teams at times and Canadiens' one difficulty seemed to be in lugging the puck out from their blue line. They improved their attack as the game went along.

Veteran Bert Olmstead, Bob Nevin, a Leaf farmhand, and Armstrong gave Plante his closest calls.

Armstrong's major penalty came late in the first period when he high - sticked Phil Goyette, who had a stitch taken in a cut on the bridge of his nose.

The opening game drew a crowd of 13,746.

The Leafs were without Dick Duff, a holdout, and Larry Regan. The game also marked the end of the league record of 580 consecutive games held by Johnny Wilson, who has been ticketed for a farm club by the Leafs but has balked at going.

Each team drew five penalties, including the Toronto major to Armstrong.

HAWKS DOMINATE

At Detroit—the Black Hawks' second line dominated the entire game and the Red Wings drew close only once. That was in the second period when a goal by Len Haley narrowed Chicago's lead to 3-2.

But veteran Ed Litzenberger found Detroit's defence napping again and got an easy goal.

Murphy started Chicago off with a power-play goal half way through the first period. Hull poked in an easy shot three minutes later and Nesterenko—who assisted on two other goals—boosted the lead to 3-0 with a blazing 20-footer early in the second period.

Murphy was serving a penalty for hooking when Len Lunde finally got Detroit's first. Haley's score came four minutes later on a great rush from his blue line.

The Red Wings stumbled around in their own zone and failed to get the puck out for nearly two minutes before Litzenberger took a pass from Nesterenko and poked in the insurance goal from close range.

Lions Snap Losing Streak; Drop Esks

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions, scoring early and containing the Edmonton offensive most of the way, upset the favored Eskimos 21-13 in the rain Thursday night to regain third place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union standings.

A rainswept crowd of 21,707 watched Lions snap a four-game losing streak and end Eskimos' six-game winning string as they scored two touchdowns in the first 19 minutes, then held off the injury-weakened Eskimos.

When Lions turned a third-quarter Edmonton fumble into a third touchdown, they had the game won.

Fullback By Bailey, quarterback Jim Walden and halfback Waillie Fleming scored the Lion touchdowns in the first, second and third quarters respectively, and tackle George Grant converted all three.

Eskimos got a touchdown from quarterback Jackie Parker, the most consistent gainer on the field despite the loss, and another from fullback Johnny Bright. Cowboy Woodruff converted one. Tommy Coffee missing the other convert try.

BALL-DRYING TRIED

A heavy rain fell throughout the game, making passing difficult despite special ball - drying efforts by the Lions, who had an electric clothes dryer at the sidelines to dry the ball between plays.

This helped prevent Parker from making spectacular gains through the air and the Lion defence, shored up by the return of halfback Bob Jeter and tackle Dave Barrus, contained the Edmonton ground attack fairly well.

The Lions had a 10-day rest before the game, an injury-healing period that showed up in the late stages when Edmonton tired. The Eskimos were without several first - stringers, including safety Oscar Kruger, linebacker Ted Tully, and tackle Roy Stevenson, out with injuries.

The Lions moved a single point ahead of Calgary Stampeders in the league standings with the victory, while Eskimos remained four behind the league-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers and probably lost any hope they had of picking off first place.

$8,000,000 Arena

Prairie Baby Born Into WHL Family

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP)—Portland returns to professional hockey this fall, sporting a shiny, glass-walled coliseum, built by the city, and hopes for a Western Hockey League title contender.

Because work is still going on in the 10,500-seat building, Portland fans will not be able to see a home game until Nov. 15. For the same reason, coach Hal Laycoe has held his training camp at this southern Saskatchewan centre.

Laycoe, a former National Hockey League defenceman and WHL coach at Victoria and New Westminster, is not expecting any miracles from his freshman squad.

"I've put in a lot of tough hockey seasons," he says, "but never one like this — and we haven't even started the schedule yet."

His attempts to provide Portland and its $8,000,000 arena with a contending club have been a series of disappointments. He has had to scramble for players from the parent Boston Bruins, other professional clubs and in the open market.

INJURIES RIDDLE TEAM

Several of his top prospects have met with illness and injury.

Despite his difficulties, Laycoe has used a nucleus of seven WHL veterans to form a club he expects will be fighting for a berth in the playoffs.

The seven were with New Westminster when the Royals folded two years ago. They were on loan to Victoria last season and now go to Portland which has the former New Westminster franchise.

The veterans include forwards Gordon Fashoway, Arnie Schmautz, Arlo Goodwin, Art Jones and defencemen Ron Matthews and Pete Wright. Laycoe is hopeful that Wright will change his mind about retiring.

Laycoe considers his best acquisition was goaltender Don Head, persuaded to turn pro at the age of 27. The big goalie played with Windsor of the Ontario senior league last year and was outstanding with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the winter Olympics.

The defence corps will include veterans Fred Creighton and Matthews and Jack Bionda, an NHL veteran last year with Victoria, who was struck down early this season by a strange malady but is expected in the line-up before the schedule opens.

The fourth defenceman, if Wright stays in retirement, will be either a rookie—Norm Ryder of Calgary or Jean Therrian of Quebec City—or Bob Blackburn who spent part of last season with Providence of the american Hockey League.

STRONG AT CENTRE

The Buckaroos are strong down centre ice with Jones, Gord Haworth, Larry Leach and Reg Primeau. Jones, a WHL All-Star last year, scored 35 goals, while Haworth had 26. Leach, the former Boston Bruin, broke a collar bone in training camp but is expected back with the club within six weeks.

At right wing, Laycoe will have Schmautz, apparently fully recovered from a skull fracture suffered at Winnipeg late last season. Eddie Dudych, who scored 50 goals for Louisville of the International League last year, and Dick Vincent, a Flin Flon Bomber junior graduate who also scored 50 goals last season.

The veteran Frashoway, the highest scorer in professional hockey history, will lead the left wingers.

Goodwin, a six-year WHL veteran, his brother Johnny, up from the junior Saskatoon Quakers, and former Estevan junior Barney Krake are the other left wingers.

Laycoe says his forwards "must be the smallest in professional hockey history." But, he adds, if Wright returns and Bionda recovers, the defencemen should be able to take care of the fowards.

TODAY! THE GREATEST

SIXTY-ONE DERFUL CHEVROLET

Here's the car that reads you loud and clear—the new-size, you-size '61 Chevrolet. A car so right for you in so many ways that once you compare it with the rest of the crop you'll agree nothing else near the money measures up to it.

We started out by trimming the outside size a bit (to give you extra inches of clearance for parking and manoeuvring) but inside we left you a full measure of Chevy comfort. Door openings are as much as 6 inches wider to give feet, knees and elbows the undisputed right of way. And the new easy-chair seats are as much as 14% higher—just right for seeing, just right for sitting.

Once you've settled inside, you'll have high and wide praises for Chevrolet's spacious new dimensions (in the Sport Coupes, for example, headroom has been upped as much as 2 inches, and there's more legroom, too—front and rear). Chevy's new trunk is something else that will please you hugely—what with its deep-well shape and bumper-level loading it holds things you've never been able to get in a trunk before.

Yet, generously endowed as this car is with spaciousness and clean-etched elegance, it holds steadfastly to all the thrifty, dependable virtues Chevrolet buyers have come to take for granted. Your dealer's the man to see for all the details that make this sensationally sensible '61 Chevy a new measure of your money's worth.

IMPALA 4-DOOR SPORT SEDAN—one of five Impalas that bring you a new measure of elegance. Notice what beautiful sense the new roof line makes—the front door entrance height between sill and roof is nearly 2 inches greater.

NOMAD 9-PASSENGER STATION WAGON. You have a choice of six Chevrolet wagons, each with a cave-sized cargo opening nearly 5 feet across and a new concealed compartment for stowing valuables.

BEL AIR 2-DOOR SEDAN, like all '61 Chevrolets, brings you Body by Fisher newness you can use—more front seat legroom and, thanks to a shaved-down driveshaft tunnel, more footroom in the rear.

Chamber Delegates Hard Put To Assess Coyne's Implications

CALGARY (CP) — There are no financial barriers against Canada cutting down her imports, increasing her manufacturing and putting her unemployed to work, James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, said Wednesday.

In a 31-page speech to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention here he warned that Canada is at a crossroads, far too much of her industry is foreign-controlled, she must stop running into debt to other countries, and her independence is at stake.

He suggested foreign companies, in one way or another, make stock of their Canadian subsidiaries available for purchase on the open market, so Canadians could ultimately buy back control.

DELEGATES HARD PUT

Chamber delegates — weary from three days of drawing up their own massive program for the coming year—were hard put to assess the implications of Mr. Coyne's speech.

Capt. Joseph Jeffrey of London, Ont. chairman of London Life Insurance Company and the chamber's incoming president, said:

"I would like to read the speech again. I heard it with mixed emotions. Such a concept requires further study."

Other reactions were varied. Many delegates apparently didn't feel much impact in Mr. Coyne's undramatic presentation of his carefully prepared speech.

Some felt it was simply a reiteration of the warnings Mr. Coyne has been delivering over the last year or so. Still others felt it went considerably beyond anything he has said before.

Mr. Coyne told Canadians what he felt they should accomplish, but he didn't say how they—or their government—should carry it out.

MANY QUESTIONS

This gave rise to such questions among delegates as:

Does he mean higher tariffs? Does he mean import quotas? Does he mean some change in the way in which present Canadian savings are being used? Does he refer to the large possible area of government action in the taxation field?

Mr. Coyne said he was not raising any argument of free trade versus protection, because this was beside the point.

His remarks were welcome to representatives of Canadian secondary manufacturing industries but, if they implied protection, unwelcome to exporting industries.

He saw no practical possibility of exporting industries absorbing Canada's unemployed.

He said his proposal could be carried out without inflation, without massive budget deficits and with little or no effect on Canadian standards of living.

He outlined three ways to attack unemployment on "a straight forward pay - as-you-go basis."

The preferred way would be to encourage increased production in private industry. Another would be increased employment on public projects of all kinds, a method generally used for short-term results. And, while these two methods were being put into effect, unemployed would be given "income maintenance payments."

Mr. Coyne said Canadians generate savings at a rate as high as any advanced nation. He added however, that many could save more, borrow less, and thus build a more secure future.

He said Canada in some lines is a "branch - plant" economy, with Canadians exercising little voice in the running of many foreign-owned subsidiaries.

PROFIT REINVESTED

The chamber's three-day meeting ended Wednesday night with its annual dinner addressed by Harvy S. Firston Jr., chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio.

Mr. Firestone, here for the opening of a Firestone plant, said that since inception of the company's Canadian subsidiary in 1920 every dollar of profit earned had been reinvested to expand production, sales and service facilities in Canada.

He said countries of the free world are engaged in an economic war and that countries able to do so must spend or invest more in the uncommitted areas that are at stake.

He said there is growing sentiment in the United States that other nations — especially those which have become financially sound through United States assistance—now should assume a greater part of the responsibility for foreign aid.

Doctors Advise Tightening Driving Laws

VANCOUVER (CP) — A committee of doctors recommends that impaired driving laws be tightened to catch drivers who have had only a few drinks.

The committee reported to the annual convention of the B.C. division, Canadian Medical Association that driver impairment occurs at a much lower level of alcohol in the blood than the courts now recognize.

The doctors recommend:

That a blood-alcohol reading of .05 per cent be deemed impairment of the driver. (Courts have tended to accept .15 per cent as evidence of impairment.)

That police station breath analysis tests be mandatory.

The committee, headed by Dr. B. B. Moscovich, said one cocktail, or one highball or two beers results in .03 per cent alcohol content in the blood, and that two cocktails, two highballs and four beers result in .06 blood-alcohol reading. Figures are for a 150-pound person. A smaller man would show higher readings.

A breath analyzer reading of .15 per cent results from drinking five cocktails or five highballs or 10 beers. A person shouldn't drive for five hours after taking this amount, the committee said.

It held that a claim of tolerance for alcohol or special driving ability should not be taken as a defence on a charge, any more than a driver could claim a speed limit did not apply to him because he was such a good driver.

LOGGERS SAVED

PORT COQUITLAM (CP) — Eight loggers bailed frantically Wednesday to keep their holed vessel from sinking in Pitt Lake until help arrived. All were taken aboard ferries in the area after the 23-foot speedboat Teresa Benneck struck a deadhead and later sank.

CBPRT Protests Cut in Sleeping And Dining Cars

OTTAWA (CP)—A delegation from Canada's biggest transportation union — the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) —met Transport Minister Hees Wednesday to protest against the CNR's cut in sleeping and dining car services on its transcontinental trains

Two briefs were presented to Mr. Hees, one from Local 283 of the brotherhood in Toronto and the other from Locals 78 and 130 in Winnipeg.

Both argued that the CNR's decision to suspend dining and sleeping facilities on the Continental train was unwise and unnecessary. The brief said more than 100 jobs were affected by the curtailment.

Alex Kamarowski of Toronto reqested a royal commission to study passenger services and rates.

The Winnipeg brief, read by Claude Becker of Toronto, said the railway decision will "cause many employees to be out of work this winter . . . when we feel there is no necessity for it."

Manitoba Air Cadets Lead All Provinces

OTTAWA (CP) — Air cadets from Manitoba led those from all other provinces in the 1960 scholarship flying training course sponsored by the Air Cadet League of Canada, it was announced Thursday.

Thirty - five Manitoba cadets sent to the course completed it successfully with an over - all average on flying and written tests of 76.29 per cent. Top place last year went to New Brunswick, following Manitoba's victory in 1958.

The league announced Wednesday that the top individual cadet in the course was Joseph M. Green, 17, of Edmonton.

Medical Men Would Extend Check System

VANCOUVER (CP) — B. C. doctors may adopt a system of checks on all work done by doctors in hospitals. Object is "controlling and elevating the standards of medical practice in hospitals."

It will extend a check system that now applies to all surgery. Whether surgery was necessary and properly done is now reviewed by a system of reports including microscopic examination of excised tissue.

A committee report on the subject adopted Wednesday by the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association convention said in part:

"From the type of question we see now from the government agencies who are paying the hospital bills, it would seem almost certain that if the medical profession does not maintain its efforts to raise professional standards in hospitals, the government will almost certainly take over this function."

The report said that already in small B.C. hospitals a surgeon must submit evidence of surgical training and experience, backed up by a letter of recommendation from a qualified surgeon.

Khrushchev Shows Signs Of Slowing

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev is finally beginning to slow down after waging a day-and-night propaganda offensive against the West for the last 17 days.

The 66-year-old Soviet premier seems to have lost some of the bouncy pep that has made him communism's No. 1 salesman.

He is grimly pressing ahead with his one man crusade. But the pace is beginning to tell on even his robust physique.

Wednesday night for the first time since arriving here he showed definite signs of being tired. He cracked fewer jokes, shook fewer hands and bragged less about the virtues of communism as he moved—just a bit slower than usual—through three diplomatic receptions.

AIDES HOVER AROUND

His normally pink complexion seemed less ruddy. Security and other aides hovered around him solicitously as he limited himself to 20-minute stops at an Indian and Cambodian reception.

He wound up with a 45-minute stay at a Communist Romanian get-together. But instead of circulating through the crowd, he spent most of the time in a side room conferring privately with his European satellite chiefs.

Khrushchev and his aides are guarding his departure date like the secret to Russia's success in rocketry. There are clues which hint he might leave about the middle of next week.

Some satellite delegations, which have acted as his personal cheering clque, hinted Wednesday night they might leave about that time.

For the third successive weekend, Khrushchev is planning to rest up at the Soviet mansion in Glen Cove, Long Island.

Congo Educationist Not Counting On French Canada For Teachers

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — Edmond Sylvain, UN policy-maker on education in the Congo, says he is not counting on French-Canada for a large supply of teachers.

"And I'm sorry this is so," the Haiti-born scholar-diplomat said in an interview.

He doubts there will be much response in Canada to UNESCO's appeal for French-speaking teachers to come to the Congo.

The reasons he gave for his belief were that the distance of more than 6,000 miles between Canada and the Congo may discourage some from coming here and, secondly, the need for secondary school eachers in Quebec may be greater than the supply.

BEATINGS NOT A FACTOR

Sylvain, former dean of law and rector at the University of Haiti and his country's former permanent representative at the UN, was asked whether he thought Canadian teachers might stay away because of the unprovoked beatings Congolese soldiers gave Canadian signalmen last August.

"There are risks," he said. "But I am optimistic. I do not believe there will be serious troubles as long as the UN forces are here."

He did not believe the bitter feeling shown by the Congolese toward their former Belgian rulers in last July's disturbances was a general, long-lasting feeling.

The Belgian teachers who were here last year apparently held the same belief. Although UNESCO had not attempted to recruit teachers in Belgium, it is known that at least a third of those here last year were "interested" in returning, provided they received guarantees for their safety.

FACE DIFFICULT TASK

UNESCO and Sylvain face a tremendous task in finding some 1,500 teachers and school administrators to launch a $12,000,000 school program agreed to in principle with the Congo government.

At the moment thousands of young Congolese are waiting for schools to reopen. There are no statistics for this year but it is believed only a small percentage of last year's 1,650,000 grade-school pupils and 60,000 secondary-school students are back in school.

How long the educational crisis will continue depends on when a draft agreement establishing pay scales, working conditions and safety guarantees is signed.

AGREEMENT NEEDED

Signing of this agreement is subject to the signing of an overall technical assistance agreement between the UN and the Congo government. There is no indication when this broader agreement will be approved.

Sylvain said UNESCO headquarters in Paris has advised him teachers can be flown to the Congo within a week or two after the necessary agreements are signed. UNESCO had received promises of help from France, Haiti, Switzerland, Italy, West Germany, Morocco and Tunisia.

Proposed pay scales for secondary-school teachers, with the cost split 50-50 between UNESCO and the government, would range between $3,800 and $6,000 a year plus allowances for teachers' wives and children.
