Diefenbaker Defends Capital Punishment Bill

Wants Commutation Decision Taken Out of Cabinet Hands

OTTAWA (CP)—Recommendations for mercy by murder case juries should be accepted by the cabinet, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday in the Commons.

Unexpectedly entering the debate on the government's bill prescribing hanging for premeditated murder and life imprisonment for impulsive murder, Mr. Diefenbaker said his main concern has always been the danger of convicting and executing an innocent man.

He suggested that the minister of justice and solicitor-general, not the entire cabinet, decide whether to commute the death penalty.

He described this current responsibility of the full cabinet as a "frightening experience" which should be removed from cabinet's shoulders.

PREVENTS MISTAKES

The prime minister said the government's bill goes a long way toward ensuring that mistakes in murder cases will not take place.

It gave juries the right to recommend mercy. Up to the present, no judge had the right to ask a jury whether it wished to recommend mercy.

There had been no consistency by the cabinet in regard to recommendations for mercy. Between 1930 and 1957, 30 recommendations for mercy had been ignored.

Mr. Diefenbaker agreed with Opposition Leader Pearson that the death penalty may not be a deterrent to murder.

He recalled his grandfather telling him he had witnessed a public execution in Upper Canada as a boy. The man was being hanged for picking pockets. Pickpockets were active among the crowd watching the hanging.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government's bill is a "great forward step" which provides safeguards against the conviction of an innocent person. A major safeguard was the automatic appeal.

FEW REPEATERS

The prime minister said there have been amazingly few murder repeaters. He could recall only two cases in Canada. In one, at Saskatoon, the man had been charged with murder and was found guilty of manslaughter. After release he committed murder in the United Kingdom in 1945 and was executed.

In another case, in Manitoba, the man had been convicted of murder, reprieved and later freed. He had murdered again.

The prime minister recalled the case of another man convicted of killing his father. He had served 12 to 13 years in prison, joined the army and now occupied a high position in the Canadian business world.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who specialized in criminal law in his bar career, rejected Liberal requests that the bill be stood over for examination by a special committee.

Mr. Pearson also suggested that the bill carry a time limit so that it could be re-examined in Parliament after a certain period of time.

Horse Is Boy's Baby-Sitter

100-MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP) — Four-year-old Clifford Thorsteinson's horse was also his baby-sitter.

His mother, Mrs. Gordon Thorsteinson of nearby Roe Lake, 200 miles northwest of Vancouver, would put the child on a work horse and he'd hang on happily for hours.

On Friday, the horse wandered into the bush. Clifford remained glued to the saddle.

Three private planes, a helicopter, 50 riders and more than 200 persons on foot were soon searching the countryside.

They found the horse Saturday, seven miles from the Thorsteinson ranch. A few hours later they found Clifford sitting on a log.

"He's a tough little guy," said Constable Len Jerritt, one of the searchers. "He clung to the saddle for more than 20 hours before being knocked off. Then he had the sense to just sit and wait for help."

"I just lay down and went to sleep," said Clifford. "I knew somebody would find me."

No NHA Loans For Old Houses

OTTAWA (CP) — Works Minister Walker said Monday the government has no intention of making National Housing Act loans available from government funds for improvements to old houses.

He said the owners of 1,500,000 rented houses can qualify for government - guaranteed bank loans of up to $4,000 on each house for improvements.

He was asked in the Commons by J. R. Garland (L-Nipissing) whether the National Housing Act would be amended to allow NHA loans on existing buildings.

Mr. Walker said the government is using all the funds it has available for loans under NHA to builders of new houses.

Implement Firms Urged Cut Profit

OTTAWA (CP) — Farm implement companies could cut prices by reducing profits, the Canadian Labor Congress said Monday.

The United Steelworkers of America have a standing suggestion for an inquiry into the primary steel industry which governments have not taken up and the United Auto Workers had promised — with no takers — to reappraise wage demands if implement prices were cut, the Commons agriculture committee was told.

At the same time some government supporters on the committee said the farmer is getting the runaround from industry and union briefs on who is to blame for high machinery prices.

The flight attendants on domestic runs now average $335 to $430 for 75 hours flying time a month.

Liberal Takes PC Stronghold, Leeds

By The Canadian Press

Progressive Conservatives held three of four Commons seats at stake in byelections Monday — two in the Maritimes and one in British Columbia — but were upset by a hard-working Liberal candidate in the Eastern Ontario Conservative stronghold of Leeds.

In Esquimalt-Saanich on Vancouver Island, George Chatterton, 45-year-old reeve of Saanich, pulled away from the start in a five-way fight in which Liberal and New Party candidates provided his toughest opposition.

The Canadian Press declared him elected 71 minutes after the polls closed at 8 p.m. MST.

In the three ridings retained by Conservatives, opposition votes cut into the majorities rolled up by government forces in the 1958 general election. And in Leeds, the Liberal candidate more than wiped out a big Conservative majority registered in 1958.

PULLS UPSET

The Liberal victory in Leeds was scored by John R. Matheson, 43-year-old paraplegic who campaigned on crutches and upset Conservative candidate R. Elwood Stewart, 63, a Brockville businessman. Mr. Matheson, a lawyer and father of six, suffered a head wound during the Second World War which left him paralyzed from the hips down.

Before Monday's vote, Liberals had won Leeds only twice—1940 and 1949 — in the riding's 58-year history. Mr. Matheson overcame the 8530-vote Conservative margin of 1958 and, with all but seven of the 125 polls heard from, had a lead of 2697 votes.

In the Prince Edward Island riding of Kings, Mrs. Margaret Macdonald won the battle against Liberal Thomas J. Kickham, 60, a farmer, to hold the Commons seat made vacant by the death of her husband, John A. Macdonald, last Jan. 4.

Restigouche - Madawaska, in northern New Brunswick, gave victory to Conservative Edgar Fournier, 53, a former New Brunswick cabinet minister, after a hard-hitting contest with Liberal Jean-Eudes Dube, 34, a Campbellton lawyer.

HAS SLIM LEAD

With all but four polls reported, Mr. Fournier had a 953-vote majority over Liberal Dubewell well below the 4,312-vote lead piled up by Conservative Charles Van Horne, who resigned the seat in January.

Mr. van Horne campaigned strongly in support of Mr. Fournier, former chairman of the New Brunswick Power Commission, in a contest in which Premier Louis Robichaud fought vigorously on the Liberal side.

Mrs. Macdonald, a housewife in her 40s, becomes the fifth woman member of the present Commons and the first woman MP in Maritimes history.

Her winning margin, however, was only 167 votes — a fraction of her husband's 1,184-vote majority in 1958 over Mr. Kickham.

In the house Mrs. Macdonald joins four others of her sex from Ontario: Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough, Margaret Aitken and Mrs. Jean Casselman, all Conservatives, and Judy LaMarsh, a Liberal. Mrs. Casselman won a 1958 byelection in Grenville-Dundas caused by the death of her husband — a parallel situation to that in Kings.

OPPOSITION GAINS

While the Conservatives retained Esquimalt-Saanich, all opposition parties added to their vote totals there in losing.

Former defence minister Pearkes, who resigned the seat last October to become British Columbia's lieutenant - governor, received in the 1958 general election a whopping 18,768 votes, almost twice the combined total of the four persons running against him.

In the byelection, Mr. Chatterton had a winning margin of less than 1,000 while receiving less than half the votes given Mr. Pearkes. David Groos, 43, a retired navy officer who finished second, more than doubled the Liberals' 1958 vote.

New Party candidate Glen Hamilton, 41, a social worker, was third whereas the CCF was second in 1958 but he added substantially to the CCF vote. The Social Credit total was more than triple what the party got in 1958 but candidate George Hahn, MP for New Westminster in 1954-58, still finished a distant fourth. Don Poirier, 22, former seaman who ran under a Socialist party label, was not in the picture.

Million Dollar Vocational School To Serve District

VANCOUVER (CP) — Education Minister Peterson Monday announced a $10,000,000 vocational school construction program for British Columbia, to be completed with federal help.

Included in the widespread program will be an institute of advanced technology at nearby Burnaby, to be completed by March, 1963.

Two $1,000,000 vocational schools, somewhat smaller than that at Burnaby, will be built to serve the Okanagan - Kootenay areas.

There will be additions made to the Nanaimo vocational school and the Vancouver Vocational Institute. The minister mentioned a $1,750,000 vocational school, now under construction in Prince Georgee.

Speaking as he opened Commonwealth Technical Training Week in B. C., at an open house in Burnaby, Mr. Peterson said he expects to sign a federal-provincial agreement shortly under which Ottawa will assist financially in the building and operation of the facilities. The federal portion will be 70 per cent of most costs. The minister arrived at the Burnaby school by helicopter "not intended as a sideshow stunt, but to emphasize the technological age in which we are living."

Archaeologists Study Columbia

VICTORIA (CP) — Archaeologists have started a three-month study of parts of the Columbia River valley, where they hope to salvage remains which would be flooded by the proposed hydro development.

Provincial secretary Black announced Monday that the survey is under the direction of Dr. C. E. Bordon of University of B.C. The leader of the field party is Peter D. Harrison, a graduate archaeologist from University of Toronto, and members are Richard Cox of Victoria College and David Baxter of UBC.

If they find valuable middins, further arrangements will be made for salvage operations. Mr. Black said the survey is the first field project sent out under an act passed by the legislature last year and marks a milestone in plans to preserve B.C.'s archaeological heritage.

INVESTIGATION OF WELFARE "MESS" URGED

OTTAWA (CP) — A royal commission to investigate Canada's "crisis in charity" was recommended Monday at the 41st annual meeting of the Canadian Welfare Council.

A need to define the functions of private and public welfare was expressed during a panel discussion at the meeting opened by Governor-General Vanier. Some 500 delegates are attending.

The governor-general urged members to participate in a "full scale family life crusade." This is required if we are to "preserve let alone improve, the moral and social health of our country."

Gower Markle of Toronto, education director of the United Steelworkers of America, called for a royal commission to investigate the "mess" of Canadian welfare.

Banks to Cut Prime Rate On Loans

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian chartered banks will reduce the prime rate on loans to 5½ per cent from 5¾ per cent effective next Thursday, the Royal Bank of Canada confirmed Monday.

The prime rate applies to day-to-day loans to large commercial borrowers or companies.

Commenting on the reduction, C. B. Neaple, general manager of the Royal Bank, said there has been a slight upturn in the economy recently and this step would encourage the uplift in economic activity.

Rains Help B.C. Fire Situation

By The Canadian Press

Weekend rains weakened forest fires in British Columbia but a rash of new blazes exploded in the parched bush and timber in northern sections of the Prairie provinces.

Fire hazards remained high to critical as one major fire in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan and four in Manitoba roared through the defences of more than 1500 bulldozer-equipped fire fighters.

One death was reported Monday. Ludwig C. Smith, 77, of the Rangeton district, 80 miles northwest of Edmonton, died Saturday when a burning treetop fell on him while he was fighting a small forest fire.

Some 25,000 acres of spruce and pine were destroyed in Alberta's worst blaze, out of control about 25 miles north of Edson. Some 2500 soot and sweat-covered men backed by three helicopters and 30 tracked vehicles threw a fireguard around almost half the fire's perimeter.

Of Alberta's 301 forest fires this year, 67 still flamed, edging the year's destruction total over the 100,000-acre mark. This compared with 7500 acres destroyed during the whole of 1960.

HEADS SCHOOL BOARD — Woodford R. Porter, elected in 1958 as the first Negro member of the school board in Louisville, Ky., now is the first member of his race to serve as the board's chairman.

Suspended Sentence For Plumber

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) Charles Ingram, 56-year-old Windsor plumber, was given a two-year suspended sentence Monday on two counts of a breach of duty in connection with a store gas explosion last year that killed 10 persons.

Judge Ian Macrae, of London, Ont., in passing sentence, said "lives were lost, injuries suffered and property damaged and was indeed a tragedy."

"You have suffered anguish, worry and concern and you yourself were seriously injured in the explosion. Under these circumstances I think it would be appropriate that a suspended sentence should be passed on both counts.

He was convicted by a jury last week following a seven-day trial. The Oct. 25 Metropolitan Store explosion killed 10 and injured scores.

DOUGLAS TO DECIDE JUNE 17

REGINA (CP) — Premier T. C. Douglas will decide June 17 whether he will lead the New Party. This is the date of the constituency convention in Weyburn.

The premier, given the liberty by the provincial CCF to do what he likes, said Monday he still wants to discuss the New Party leadership with his constituent.

Mr. Douglas has been running for office in Weyburn constituency since 1934 and has been elected consistently since 1935.

Report of Upstream Drop Encourages Bonners Ferry

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (AP) — The swollen Kootenai swirled against sandbags atop soggy dirt dikes Monday but weary flood fighters were encouraged by a report the river was dropping upstream.

The river, which has already flooded some 800 acres of rich farmland, forced evacuation of many families and cut railroad lines, appeared to be levelling off after reaching its crest sooner than expected.

"We're still far from being out of danger," said a spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers which is directing the flood fight.

"But we have a better chance now of holding the line — if the tremendous pressure of the high water doesn't force a break at some weak point."

The river surged steadily at just over 37 feet at midday, but was expected to climb to about 37.5 feet overnight. A slight drop in readings at Libby and Rexford, Mont., brought a revised forecast for the Kootenai to drop back to 37 feet by Wednesday.

This is still far above the normal height of the dikes but under the level of the temporarily raised tops. Wind and wave action and continued high water weakens the dikes and can easily cause break-throughs.

When the river reached 37 feet in 1956, some 17,000 acres of farm land were inundated. The town of Bonners Ferry was last flooded in 1948.

CPR Earnings Drop in April

Railway expenses increased $109,481 to $35,946,404 from $35,836,923.

Paper Gets Deadline In Sorokin Libel Case

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Trail Times will have one week after a June 11 Court of Appeal deadline to provide Stefan Sorokin with further particulars of its defence in Sorokin's libel suit against the Newspaper, it was ruled Monday.

Lawyers for the Times told Mr. Justice Harry McInnes that June 11 is the deadline if the newspaper wants to apply to the B. C. Court of Appeal for permission to go to the Supreme Court of Canada on this point.

Sorokin, spiritual leader of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, is suing the Newspaper for libel in connection with a story published Oct. 24, 1959. His lawyers obtained a Supreme Court order requiring the Newspaper to supply him with additional particulars of their defence against his claim. This was upheld in Court of Appeal.

Sorokin now seeks to have the newspaper's defence struck out on grounds the firm has failed to comply. The firm has until June 11 to decide whether it will appeal the point to the Supreme Court of Canada.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (Reuters)—A Danish dentist has written Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev offering him a set of false teeth free of charge.

"From newspaper pictures you can see Khrushchev's back teeth are too small," dentist Finn Larsson said.

"This can give chronic headaches, so I wrote to Khrushchev and offered to make a set of false teeth for him."

No reply has come from Khrushchev. But Larsson has been criticized by the Danish Dentists' Association for "unprofessional advertising."

GRAND RAPIDS, Man. (CP)—This is the story of a poor fish watching football.

Ron Barrett, publisher of the weekly Grand Rapids Star, told Monday how he was tossing a football around with his brother when it fell into the Saskatchewan River and was whisked into Lake Winnipeg by the current.

With a rowboat, they caught up to the ball and found a four-pound pickerel giving the pigskin a fishy stare. They clouted the fish with an oar and hauled both the ball and the fish into the boat.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (Reuters)—A sign, not authorized by the highway department, appeared at the beginning of the road from Henley to Berwick in Otago province.

It read: "Road rough. Remove false teeth."

Heat Ups Fire Chance

The hot weather of last week moved the Nelson Forest District fire hazard rating into the moderate range, the B.C. Forest Service reports.

Fires this year in the district are almost on par with those in a corresponding period one year ago, but the cost of fighting them has almost quintupled.

To date there have been 20 fires costing $1,530.

A total of 18 fires cost $266 at this time last year.

The lookout is for a series of disturbances from the west to bring moist air to the district but the fire hazard is expected to remain moderate.

At Krestova Doukhobors Discuss Land

The land question continues to spark unrest in Krestova, the Reformed Doukhobor "capital" as indicated by a large meeting Sunday afternoon which resolved refusal to pay taxes on the land and stated it could not be bought or sold.

An RCMP spokesman stated it was difficult to know just what transpired as the outdoor meeting was conducted entirely in Russian. He said it appears, however, they either want the land-titles destroyed or turned over to Stipendiary Magistrate William Evans of Nelson for disposal as he sees fit.

Police stated it appears there is a split on the land question among the Doukhobors themselves.

The meeting took place outside around a banner, planted in the ground, proclaiming in English: "Down with private ownership of the land and down with boundaries."

During the course of the meeting an unidentified Freedomite rushed up to the banner, tore it out of the ground and threw it away. He was immediately stripped of his clothes by a half dozen women. Police said he made no protest. The incident sparked shouting and yelling in Russian but no violence took place.

About 25 men and women were stripped during the meeting. They put their clothes on soon after police arrived. Six RCMP constables were on the scene.

Ex-Logger Floats Higher

Fooling Floods Afloat At Dump Is His Game

Sitting in the warm sun on the front porch of his 33-foot floating house anchored at the city dump on the West Arm of Kootenay Lake, Eloi Pelletier, 54, said Monday he's sorry spring floods have hit near Creston but as far as he's concerned the water can go right on rising.

"I'm sitting on top of it," he said.

The friendly French Canadian ex-logger built his floating log cabin from scraps of material collected in his front yard — the city dump.

He plans to make Nelson his home after having been a logger most of his life; living in logging camps across Canada. Crippled in a logging accident he said: "I got stuck in Nelson last fall with a sprained elbow. Arthritis set in and I didn't have a penny or a place to stay."

He made his way to Nelson's waterfront and built his present home. Judging from the perking coffee pot he's as snug as a bug in a rug. The floating house was built on the lakeshore last June to November and was launched December 12, 1960.

Mr. Pelletier isn't worried about floods, nor famine nor city taxes.

Peeling a pot of potatoes paid for with a welfare chit the floating home-owner said he scrapes from pay-day to pay-day by doing a little fishing. His dingy is tied up at his front door and it's a quick flip into the frying pan for his catch.

Taxes don't worry Mr. Pelletier because he's in what he claims to be a "neutral zone." If the city assessor comes around Mr. Pelletier pulls up anchor, draws in the front walk, and floats his house 33 feet from shore.

And as the waters of Kootenay Lake slowly cover the Nelson airstrip just east of his home, Mr. Pelletier floats higher and higher.

FLOOD WATERS SUBSIDE

Cool weather of the past 36 hours turned down the roar of Kootenay streams Monday.

In the Creston Valley the Kootenay River continued to rise but at a slower rate than had been recorded during the last week. The rampaging Goat River appeared to be subsiding.

In the West Kootenay the runoff returned to normal for spring condition after a weekend which threatened several bridges in the area.

In Nelson the Kootenay Lake continued to rise, inundating the airstrip.

The water level reading for the lake rose from 13.05 feet to 13.75 feet since the onset of cool weather. Danger point for costly flooding by the lake of cottages and homes in low-lying areas on its shores in in the neighborhood of 16-17 feet above the low water mark.

Highways department engineer A. L. Freebairn, of Nelson, said Monday night everything had returned to normal in the runoff situation. The ban on heavy traffic over the Shoreacres bridge on the South Slocan river was lifted Tuesday. During the weekend when the bridge had been threatenen by fast water and driftwood, all heavy trucks, with over a five ton load limit, including mail trucks were rerouted via the Nelson-Salmo highway to Trail.

He reported that the runoff of Salmo Creek like others in the area had shown a drop in the last 24 hours.

A sudden rise in the water level of the Kootenay River in the Creston Valley, expected Monday afternoon, failed to materialize R. A. Jackman of Creston, highways department resident engineer reported Monday night. Instead, he said, the rate of rising has dropped off from one foot a day to six inches in the last 24 hours. It is believed that the flooding in Bonner's Ferry may be the nause of this. The brunt of the runoff now endangering Bonner's Ferry is expected to hit the Creston area in the next few days.

Water level of the river was reported to be at 22.6 feet Tuesday.

The Goat River which has inundated the Goat River flats area, forcing several families to evacuate their homes, is reported to have receded slightly Tuesday.

All other stream runoffs are said to have returned to normal for this period of the year.

Patrols on the dykes in the Valley are being maintained by he farmers in the district.

Speeding Conviction Costs $20

C. E. Healey of Nelson was fined $20 and costs when he appeared in police court before Magistrate R. S. Nelson and pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding on Front Street.

This marks the successful conclusion of the extensive leader's training course instituted by the founder of the Boy Scout movement, Lord Baden Powell, at Gilwell in England and used throughout the world to train Boy Scout leaders.

Rector of St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral, Rev. Canon G. W. Lang, spoke on the religious aspects of scouting.

H. M. Peverley, Kootenay Boundary regional commissioner, spoke on the need for Scouts, Cubs and Guides to make more use of the natural facilities so readily available to them. He stressed that during all too short fine weather period of summer, meetings should be held in the open air. For perspiring fathers he suggested that they get into Scout uniform as scouters and enjoy the coolness of shirt and shorts.

District Scoutmaster John Flamank spoke on the training of Boy Scout leaders and the benefits of a Gilwell course.

Kootenay Prospector Dies May 28

A well known mining figure of the West Kootenay, Cecil Edmond Morre Crosley, died in Victoria Sunday, aged 82 years.

Born near Shooter's Hill, a suburb of London, in 1879, he was educated at St. Elmsmere College and Oxford before going as a youth to British West Africa to work as a chemist for the Ashanti Gold Fields Corporation. After two tours of West Africa he went back to England then came to Canada in 1904.

During his first years in Canada he was associated with Monty Davis in the Slocan mining camp. Later he operated the Granite Poorman gold mill near Nelson for a number of years from 1907 on.

During his early years in the Kootenay, in association with his brother Alfred Crossley, he located and staked the Perrier gold mine near Nelson.

In 1919 he married Miss Agnes Leece of Nelson. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in Victoria last December 5.

During the 1920-30's he designed and installed and in some cases operated a number of gold milling plants in British Columbia and Manitoba.

In 1928, in association with S. C. Baker of Greenwood, he opened an assay office and ore-testing laboratory in Nelson. This business he carried on until 1946 when he bought out the firm of E. W. Widdowson and Co. and combined the two firms which he managed until his retirement in 1959. Since that time, until his recent illnes, he and his wife have been residing in Victoria.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Atkinson, Rossland; seven daughters: Mrs. Elmwood Clum, Mrs. David Johnson, Mrs. Raymond Talbot, all of Nelson; Mrs. Robert Quin, Victoria, Mrs. S. B. Catalano and Mrs. J. V. Mandoli, both of Trail, and Mrs. Henry Griko, Grand Prairie, Peace River, Alta., and 34 grandchildren.

The funeral will be held in Nelson at a date to be announced.

City Set, Vote on Boundary Move

A record turnout at the polls is expected Friday on the city amalgamation vote.

Boundary extension chairman Ald. Edith Van Maarion reported early signs from 20 representatives of BEC, scattered throughout the city, predicted an overwhelming support for amalgamation will be shown by ratepayers.

At the same time Trail solicitor Richard D'Andrea is expected to visit city hall today to once again scan three petitions signed by residents of the fringe areas of Rosemont, South Nelson and Upper Fairview.

Mr. D'Andrea, working for an Upper Fairview group in opposition to the proposed amalgamation, looked at the petitions Friday. He did not take photostatic copies of the petitions as requested to city council at their general meeting of last Wednesday.

City Clerk C. W. R. Harper who verified the three petitions, certified them Friday as each containing over 60 per cent of the signatures of the residents of the respective districts.

Ald. Van Maarion reported that opposition in the city to the boundary extension move appeared to be at a minimum.

For boundary extension to succeed this Friday, over 60 per cent of the city ratepayers must vote in favor of the issue.

Advance poll for the bylaw election will be in the city clerk's office at city hall between the hours of 9 a.m. to 12 noon on May 31 and June 1.

The poll on Friday will be at the Armoury and will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A successful vote would mean an additional 2500 citizens and 650 acres for the city. For the fringe area it will mean a $1.2 million money bylaw vote in September to provide essential services, improved roads, lighting and sewers for the districts.

Last extension of the city's boundaries occurred in 1923 when Fairview merged with the City of Nelson.

Accountants Hear Celgar Manager

TRAIL — Sixty-five members and guests of the West Kootenay Chapter of the Certified General Accountants' Association of B. C. attended a dinner meeting in the Palm Room of the Crown Point Hotel Friday evening.

The dinner meeting which preceded the sixth annual general meeting was addressed by F. Waite, manager of accounting services, Celgar Ltd., who spoke on Celgar's contribution to the local economy and on their mechanized accounting system.

W. T. Mann of Victoria, provincial president of the association, reported on the nation-wide growth of the organization. In British Columbia, there are almost 1000 members, approximately 600 of whom are students, he said.

Among those present were members and guests from Vancouver, Victoria, Aldergrove, Kimberley, Nelson, Grand Forks, South Slocan, Castlegar and Kinnaird.

The sessions continued Saturday with the members of the Public Practice Committee (nine of whom are members of the Vancouver Chapter) meeting in Kinnaird.

"Re-Evaluation Of Education Needed" — Rector

In his annual formal address to Notre Dame University College's graduating class, Father Aquinas Thomas, Rector of Notre Dame, said, "The future of our democratic society demands the re-evaluation and a second look at higher education for its own safety and protection."

The Rector developed his theme before the largest graduating class in Notre Dame's history and their assembled guests, at the College's Commencent Exercises recently. He emphasized that this re-evaluation is of extreme importance particularly today when we are no longer content with restricting the democratic form of life to our own lands but are involved in an attempt to extend it over the entire face of the now free world and even to push it past the boundaries of the iron curtain.

Charging that our educational system, by its very democratic nature, has emphasized the practical side of knowledge, Father Aquinas said, "Education is tending to become more utilitarian and practical in nature, our schools are progressively tending to become vocational schools, preparing our children for specialized jobs."

He went on to say, "We find the same conditions existing even in colleges and universiites, where one has but to glance at the curricula to realize their basic function is to turn out, year in, year out, a required number of trained engineers, doctors, lawyers, farmers and business men necessary to the welfare of the democracy.

As important as this may be in its own sphere, this type of education is nevertheless woat we might call 'the third part of knowledge.' that of methods of applicaiton and means of execution.

He declared that democracy as we know it cannot survive today without truly educated men and women, leaders who are thoroughly versed in what the Rector called 'the first and second parts of knowledge'; the first part comprising the most theoretical principles and those more abstract notions whose application is either unknown or very remote.

The second is composed of those general truths that still belong to pure theory, but lead nevertheless by a straight and short route to practical results.

"It is the first and second parts of knowledge that, although not immediately practical, are nevertheless useful in making man more human, more understanding, with a broader outlook and full of the realization that not all is material," he said.

Father Aquinas pointed out that practical knowledge has its source in the apparently impractical sphere of speculation. He illustrated his thesis by saying "In peace as well as in war the powerful industrial equipment of the greatest amongst the modern nations can be rendered obsolete at any time by the abstract speculation of some unknown scientist using a few sheets of paper and a pencil in the solitude of his attic."

Dog With Four Feet Asks Refund

Big feet in the canine world are as costly as those in the human world.

Mrs. M. R. Burills recently asked city council to refund part of the $15 she had paid for a dog licence while staying in Nelson. Since then her family has moved to take up residence in Grand Forks. Civic officers of Grand Forks have refused to accept the Nelson dog tags and have asked her to purchase a new licence for her dog.

Thinking of the $15 licence, Ald. B. C. Affleck mused, sympathetically, "He's (the dog) only got four feet."

"He's got big feet," answered Ald. J. W. McClelland, thinking of gardens.

"How did Grand Forks find out about the dog," queried another alderman, thinking both dog licences are of the same texture.

"They must have all the dogs counted over there," suggested Mayor T. S. Shorthouse.

The letter was marked received and filed.

the difference between a job . . . and a career

In a job, a man puts in his eight hours day by day and that's that. But to embark on a career, a man must plan to put his whole life into it. Dentistry is a career because the demands on a man are beyond the bounds of a mere job. He must devote himself to it – for the rest of his life. And, if he believes in his ability, has the skill, and the desire to help his fellow man, he can.

Dentistry is not all demands, however. In return comes a deep satisfaction in caring for and protecting members of the community, a well-earned income, and recognition from the community.

If you feel that dentistry is the career to which you wish to devote yourself – your time and energies – we invite you to write for our informative pamphlet, Dentistry As A Career. There is a challenge to be met. Perhaps you are one of the few able to meet it.

June 11 Set for Reopening 1½ Miles Dewdney Trail

CRANBROOK — East Kootenay Historical Association is putting the final touches to clearing and reopening on June 11 the last mile and a half of the four-foot wide century-old Dewdney Trail, first British east-west road linking Pacific and Rocky Mountains constructed in 1864 in the vicinity of Fort Steele.

Following the Oregon Treaty, which established the boundary between British and United States territory in 1848, Governor Douglas of what was then New Caledonia was concerned about the lack of a direct transportation route across what is now British Columbia. The gold rush to the Cariboo in the 1850's resulted in construction by British Army engineers of the trail from Fort Langley up the Fraser River. A surplus from this army operation was assigned to the trail linking the coast with the Rockies when gold was found at Wild Horse in the 1860's.

Fisherville, on Wild Horse Creek, a couple of miles from where Fort Steele is now located, was the trail's eastern terminal. It was the metropolis of the entire Kootenay area, with 5000 people and along with Barkerville in the Cariboo the only settlement of consequence in the entire interior of B.C. The post office and gold commissioner's ofifce were outposts of New Caledonia.

The trail was built four to five feet wide, 291 miles from Hope to Fisherville. In general it followed the route of the present Southern Transprovincial Highway, Hope to Princeton, across the southern Okanagan, around Anarchist Mountain and over the Cascade summit between Grand Forks and Trail, which was named Trail for this reason. It skirted the south end of Kootenay Lake, then cross country to Moyie and northeast the 35 miles to Fisherville.

Engineer of the project was a British Army officer, Edgar Dewdney, and the trail for packing and horseback travel was built inside the assigned year. With passing of the century, most of it has been obliterated, and the Cranbrook group of the Historical Association has reclaimed from wilderness this final mile and a half where it coincides with the Kalispell Trail, which brought in miners from the United States in the 1860's, and the trail from Golden in the north, down which Major Sam Steele and his contingent of Northwest Mounted Police rode in the 1880's to establish law and order.

MINING POST FOUND

Association secretary Dan MacDonald prowled on foot through the foothills approach to Wild Horse this spring and found conclusive evidence of where the trail ran because of tree growth pattern. Only original mining post ever discovered in the Wild Horse area was uncovered in the process of making the trail passable. This entailed hard weekend work by his Association crews in removing windfalls and second growth on the trail.

It is now wide enough to accommodate the cavalcade being arranged for the formal reopening ceremonies set for Sunday, June 11. The reclaimed trail forms a bow to the mile-long new gravel section of the Crestbrook-Cranbrook Cartage forest development road into Wild Horse timber.

This latter will afford motor access for the large crowd expected for public ceremonies to mark the reopening nearly a century after its construction. The expedition June 11 over the Trail on foot and horseback, and the parallel trip by motor road will be the Historical Association's first field trip for the 1961 season.

Trek Date Set for June 12

The trek over the new highway between Cascade and Kinnaird which was to be held Monday, May 29, has been postponed till Monday, June 12, due to the snow conditions on the access road.

On the new date members of the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce from Osoyoos, Greenwood and Grand Forks will meet at Grand Forks at 10 o'clock in the morning and travel east to meet members of the Boards of Trade from Nelson, Castlegar, Trail and Rossland. The two groups will meet at Sheep Lake for a box luncheon and then proceed on east and west and return to their home communities via the Rossland summit road or through the United States.

Fruitvale Legion To Promote Library

FRUITVALE — Two awards, to be presented to the Fruitvale Junior High School on Awards Day were allotted at the regular meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 196 held recently, with 16 members attending and Major Allen of Trail as guest speaker. Ivor Theodore was initiated into the Branch.

A substantial grant was made also to the Salvation Army.

It was decided to hold a joint annual picnic with the Ladies' Auxiliary late in June.

H. Redding reported on the Legion track meet held recently at Warfield, stating that Fruitvale athletes made a fine showing.

C. Lilydale reported on arrangements for the blood donors' drive to be held soon. The Ladies' Auxiliary has pledged its support for this, he said.

L. DeBruyn, chairman of the Branch's project committee, told the meeting that "after investigating many projects, the only possible one a branch of this size could undertake is a library." The projects committee was dissolved and a library committee set up to investigate further.

Major Allen, of the 44th Medium A.A. addressed the meeting, outlining the role of the militia in modern times. He stated that fighting is now a secondary duty of the army, the main role being to prepare and educate the population concerning any possible atomic attack.

The army's work now includes areas of disaster, such as floods, and fires. Mr. Allen mentioned the radar warning system and the part Canada's fighting forces fulfill in this work.

Cominco Directors Welcome to Kootenay

This week the Board of Directors of The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd. will be making history in the Kootenays. The Board will be in meeting in Trail on Thursday, and it will be the first time such a meeting has been held in the industrial Kootenays. This in itself is an important event. But there are other important side effects, too.

The directors attending are men prominent in the national and international affairs of this country. They will be visiting Cominco operations from Kimberley to Tadanac, Warfield and Waneta, and in the course of so doing will get a glimpse of the Kootenay cities and towns from one end of this inland empire to the other. They will see the mines and the growing chemical and iron industry at Kimberley. They will see bustling Cranbrook, which seems to benefit as much from Cominco as does the city of Kimberley. They will pass through beautiful Creston and its valley, the bread basket of the inland empire. They will see the busy transportation and distribution centre that is Nelson, and the first power plants between Nelson and Brilliant that have played such an important role in their company's growth. At Castlegar junction of the Columbia and Kootenay Rivers they will undoubtedly see the first pulp mill off tidewater in this province. They will see a community, the growth of which is not yet measured. On into Tadanac, Trail and Warfield, they will be at home in their company's largest and most widely-known community. Throughout the four days these industrialists are in this area, there will be much attention to technical, financial and marketing aspects of the company and the region. We trust they and their hosts will be able to take time to note other aspects of this area which has prospered so from their company's growth and progress. We hope they will be made aware of the resources not yet being fully utilized. We hope they will note that all these resources do not lie in the area of heavy industry, but that agriculture, the service industries, the tourist industry and the growth of cultural and educational institutions are transforming this region. The Kootenays are fast becoming a well developed, closely associated community. Our visitors need only to note the quality of the towns and cities, the solid modern development of business, home and service institutions, to appreciate the quality of the community. As to the beauty of scenery and pleasantness of climate, we know they will fully appreciate this from their stay here along the Kootenay.

It is of importance to the Kootenays to have Cominco's Board of Directors among us this week. We extend a hearty welcome from the Queen City of the Kootenays and trust their stay will be fruitful and pleasant. If they have another project in their pockets, we assure them the Kootenays will be most anxious to have it within this inland empire.

A Little Late to Bargain Now

The Dominion government is growing justifiably weary of British Columbia's foot-dragging attitude towards development on the Columbia River.

There is cause for concern as well as impatience. This treaty with the U.S. has been years in the negotiating stage and now that the two nations have agreed it seems inconceivable that B.C. will continue for the sake of bargaining posture. Delay now is unnecessary and expensive.

Yet it is difficult to regard the West Coast province's position in any other light.

As Hon. Davie Fulton, minister of justice (he led the Canadian negotiators), told the House of Commons:

"Every word, every phrase, every clause, every provision, every annex, every implication of that treaty had been discussed with and approved by British Columbia before the treaty was signed."

There is no reason to suppose that B.C. has changed its position in the meantime. Yet it is becoming increasingly apparent that Premier Bennett is stalling over the treaty's ratification. The matter has been under discussion between the two governments now since January and the end is nowhere in sight. Indeed, it has been suggested that an agreement with B.C. will never be reached. This seems incredible in view of the obvious and far-reaching benefits which will accrue to the province once the Columbia River project becomes a reality.

Premier Bennett must be holding up proceedings deliberately. He may well be doing it to try to get a better deal from Ottawa.

On the other hand, it would be interesting to know if the B.C. government has made prior commitments to the big, private Wenner-Gren interests, and if this accounts for B.C.'s attitude.

Canada is unable to proceed with Columbia dam construction under the treaty if B.C. refuses to participate. The treaty contains a clause that it will not become operative until it is ratified by both the U.S. and Canadian governments, and Canada cannot proceed with ratification until the province is behind the scheme.

Thus Canada's hands are quite effectively tied. It is time Premier Bennett slipped the knot.

What the Virgins Are Doing

Congos may come, colonies may go, but the Virgins remain inviolate.

We refer to those lovely British islands of the Caribbean who, like truly devoted daughters, cherish their single state and never think of leaving mother's side.

They have rejected amorous overtures from the lusty young West Indies Federation — turned their pretty, sun-drenched backs on the proposal of union.

They flirted coyly with their suitor until the affaire d'etat reached a moment of decision. Then with feminine perversity, they retreated to the shelter of their colonial home, preferring chaste security with mother to the unknown hazards of marriage into the bold, brash Caribbean community.

At times when it is fashionable for young people to scorn mother love and demand immature independence, this old-world faithfulness to family ties has a curious charm.

—Financial Post.

Pretty Polly

A sailor was so proud of the tricks of a parrot he had brought home from a voyage that his mother invited friends in to see the tricks. A tight-rope was stretched across the room and the bird walked it successfully. "Isn't that marvellously clever?" they all cried. "Very clever," shrieked the parrot, "but damned difficult."—London Express Service.

Museum Goes as Tourist Season Begins

To the Editor.

Sir: While the City Hall question still existed the Kootenay Museum Society was allowed to use the large room and adjoining office on the second floor of the old post office building. By last fall, Peter Verigin's coach had been dismantled, hoisted through the window and re-assembled there. A large part of the room held a Doukhobor display, another part showed an old time parlor complete with a mannequin dressed as of old. There were many old photographs of early Nelson and the steamboats. There was an Indian arrowhead showcases . . . and so on. The Museum group put a great deal of work and planning into this glimpse-of-the-past and even during the Winter many students and general visitors came to see . . . and learn.

With the City Hall issue settled the Council sought another place for the Museum because they were pressed for a council chamber . . . and so the $6000 Library mezzanine idea was born . . . only it would cost over $17,000 and it's practical value was sorely questioned.

The Council then decided that the Museum must move and made availalbe the main floor of the vacated Hostel on Lake Street. The same building would serve for band practices and perhaps for a kind of downtown rest room for elderly gentlemen pensioners.

This wooden structure, well known to established Nelsonites, is quite old, of similar architecture and vintage to the razed city hall. It is condemned as a hostel, it is rundown, fire-scarred and weatherbeaten. Its wiring and plumbing are obsolete. It is not fireproof in any sense of the word. The building is over 100 per cent depreciated as it has well out-served its economic usefulness over the past hal fa century. It occupies a valuable commercial site which, on the market, would command a high price. Its very existence as a bone dry wooden structure is a fire hazard to all neighboring real estate.

Now, the Council is willing to waste money on it when the only revenue-wise action would be to tear it down. Now, at the beginning of the tourist season, the council would banish the museum with all its valuable relics to a fire-trap. The council would recover the floors, close up doorways, add interior and exterior paint, and even install a sprinkler system (which in case of frie would readily soak all the displays.)

Furthermore, earlier in the picture, a local service club suggested to the city that possibly a museum building could be built at the park with city aid. This generous gesture to promote tourism in Nelson was flatly turned down by the city.

So the folly of it all can be seen: spend thousands of dollars on a mezzanine — or refurbish a condemned building — lose revenue on available commercial site, turn out the museum at the beginning of the tourist season, refuse to cooperate with a new museum scheme.

Why do a dozen other B.C. centres have successful museums? How many thousands of tourists, students, and citizens visit them every year? Is Nelson interested in the tourist industry? Is she interested in her historical resources?

Wouldn't it be reasonable to:

(a) Grant the museum the use of its present location for at least the tourist season.

(b) Let out tenders for the demolition of the hostel or turn it over to the fire department for systematic burning during fire-fighting practices.

(c) Sell or lease the valuable property to an incoming firm for an office building or warehouse site or some other taxable use.

(d) Be prepared, as a "forge ahead" council to enter into cooperative ventures which will promote the Queen City as an educational and tourist centre. Could a museum be a more appropriate venture?

Kennedy Spends Birthday Studying Conferences

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) President Kennedy turned 44 Monday in the seclusion of his family home on Cape Cod. He put in more homework on his crucial meetings with French President de Gaulle and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Kennedy boned up on this week's European conferences while anticipating a giant birthday celebration in Boston with personal and political friends.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger reported the chief executive remained at home Sunday except for a drive to mass in the nearby village of Hyannis. He stayed in the beach-front home of his father pouring over documents relating to his sessions with de Gaulle in Paris and Khrushchev in Vienna.

The president flies to Paris Tuesday night after Mrs. Kennedy joins him in New York.

RECEIVES GREETING

Birthday wishes crammed the wires in this summer resort. Hundreds were delivered Sunday and it appeared Kennedy would get 1,000 before hopping to Boston tonight for a Democratic fund-raising birthday dinner in his honor.

Kennedy was smiling as he acknowledged shouts of "happy birthday" on leaving St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church Sunday morning. Hundreds of worshippers filled the white frame church and hundreds more flocked to the streets outside.

Attorney - General Robert F. Kennedy, the president's brother, was here with his wife and seven children. Ted Kennedy, the president's youngest brother, was also on hand with his wife after returning from a trip to Italy. So were his sister, Jean, and her husband, Stephen Smith.

Sanitation in Nelson, District Inspected, Corrected During 1960

Recently published report for 1960 of the Selkirk Health Unit contains an article by Russell Davis, of Nelson, sanitarian, whose area includes the City of Nelson and the district East to Lardeau.

A second sanitarian recently appointed to the Selkirk Health Unit is Steve Chamut. Mr. Chamut's territory includes the area west of the city and south to Salmo.

The Selkirk Health Unit is composed of four school districts with population as follows: No. 6, Kaslo, 1750; No. 7, Nelson, 14,500; No. 8 Slocan, 4000; and No. 10, Nakusp, 2500.

Mr. Davis reported to the health unit his duties and observations as sanitarian as follows:

During the December elections in Nelson a money by-law for the construction of an intereceptor sewer was approved by the majority of the ratepayers. This trunk sewer will connect the seven existing outfalls, and discharge the effluent downstream form the beaches of the city. This is the first stage in the construction of a sewage disposal plant which we hope will be built, as the present construction does nothing to lessen the bacterial contamination for downstream users. In addition to the trunk sewer sanitary sewers are being laid in a residential area to improve existing facilities. The people of Nelson are to be congratulated for taking these measures to improve the city.

SEPTIC TANK TROUBLE

During the year several homes in Rosemont caused trouble with septic tank effluent discharging into creeks which flow through the gardens in a new area. The owners have spent much time rebuilding septic tank disposal beds; but it is practically impossible to find a satisfactory solution to this problem. We hope that sewers will be constructed in this area in the near future.

In Nakusp, Celgar Ltd., has built accomodation for office space and maintenance. There has been a considerable amount of new home construction in this area.

At Salmo, there has been an influx of trailer homes due to the construction of the Salmo-Creston highway. All the trailers are serviced by individual septic tanks.

Many older homes in Nakusp, New Denver and Salmo have been provided with indoor plumbing and septic tanks.

Water supplies at the summer camps have shown a low degree of bacterial content this year.

Fluoride determinations were done on the creeks which supply Nakusp. The results of this work are as follows: Brouse Creek, 0.82 ppm.; Seven Mile Creek, 0136 ppm.; Kuskanax Creek, 0.10 ppm. It has been proposed to use Kuskanax Creek as a future source of water supply for the new community.

TO SERVICE BLEWETT

A new water system was installed in Eagle Creek, to serve nine small holdings in the unorganized community of Blewett. The system is capable of considerable expansion. Efforts made in 1958 to bring this about have succeeded.

Four farmers on Forty-Nine Creek have done the same thing. Both of these systems were costly and the costs were borne in the greater part by the Inland Natural Gas Co. as part of their restitution for the damages done to private water supplies on these creeks. Branch lines were constructed by the individual owners from the mains to their homes, and these schemes represent a valuable capital asset to the district as a whole.

The people of Balfour have met to sound out the possibility of constructing a community water system. We sincerely hope that this comes in the near future.

In Slocan City, since the filter was installed at the intake, complaints regarding debris in the water have ceased.

At Salmo, we recommended that a fence be placed around the village well to protect it from wandering cattle. This has been done. There are four private wells still in the village and fourteen samples taken have tested 0/5.

LAKE ALGAE

A number of inquiries were received during the summer in regard to the presence of large amounts of algae on Kootenay Lake. This phenomenon has become a worse problem during the past years and was bad in 1960. The types present do not seem to cause harmful symptoms, but create unpleasant tastes in the water. In December we began a program of sampling and identification. We intend to extend our resources into the problem during the ensuing months, and will couple the identification with a year-long monthly analysis of the water for mineral determinations regarding phosphates and nitrates.

All raw water supplies showed a lower bacterial content this year as compared to last. Only the Nelson system is chlorinated. Salmo's ground water supply continues to show excellent results. The well is about 50 feet deep.

A well was drilled in Kokanee Park by the Recreation Department, but since it has not yet been put into operation, samples could not be taken.

A chlorinator was installed on the MV Anscomb for the treatment of all water used on the vessel. All the samples have shown freedom from bacterial content since installation.

SWIMMING POOLS

Recreational facilities, swimming pools:

Rotary Pool was operated in an excellent manner during the summer months. The bacterial quality of the water was maintained at a low level during most the season. The foot bath was kept in an effective condition and was helpful in contributing to clarity of the water. The thorough program of supervisor was instrumental in maintaining high level reached.

Gyro Pool was opened upon the demand of a group of women at a council meeting July 4, 1960. Council was strengthened in its decision to open the pool by the recommendation of one alderman. He advised the risks children would encounter were not excessive. He said if the pool were emptied twice a week it would be safe for children.

This was not the advice of the sanitarian.

The bacterial quality of the water improved somewhat and, as in the case of the Rotary Pool, was wholly due to the staff, who maintained a more vigorous program of control than in former years.

Villa Motel Pool was maintained in a satisfactory manner throughout the season. Chlorination, though manually applied, was effective.

Ainsworth Pool, in spite of the efforts of the operator to keep the water in a satisfactory condition, the bacterial quality remained poor. There was some enquiry into the purchase of the pool by two different groups. The Water Engineer of the Federal Department of Health and Welfare has established that gas chlorination is practicable, but other methods cause the precipitation of large amounts of dissolved mineral, turning the water opaque. The problem is to retain the natural heat and to clarify the water — circumstances which appear to be mutually contradictory. A new owner should be prepared to make considerable expenditure for a new bathhouse — and a new pool, since the present one is badly cracked.

Starlight Pool has been built by the proprietors of the drive-in theatre as a daytime adjunct to the nearby Kokanee Park. It is an "Esther Williams" pool — a plastic sheet set in the ground and having a re-circulating pump and filter attachment. Chlorination is done manually. Dirt tracked into the pool from the surrounding area interfered with the filtering apparatus and prevented the maintenance of a high quality pool water.

Can-Ex pool was maintained in a satisfactory condition.

BEACHES

Beaches: Regular sampling of Lakeside Beach was maintained throughout the summer and into the fall. Particularly offensive conditions were reported on July 5, when discrete globules of fecal matter were seen to float from the nearby sewer outfall to the beach.

Sigs warning the public of the hazard of swimming in such water were posted at various points along the beach. They were heeded by most sensible people.

Sampling of the Slocan and Kootenay Rivers has been made for comparative purposes.

CAMPS

Summer Camps were inspected shortly after each opened. High standards of care and supervision of youngsters was found to be the rule at each one. Conditions of over-crowding at the Kootenay Pentecostal camp could be overcome by the building of an additional dormitory. This was suggested to the director of the camp. New privies were built at Camp Galilee.

Logging camps have been inspected and are up to the standard with the exception of one. Difficulty was experienced with this camp last year, and new ownership has not improved the conditions there. However, the camp closed before action could be taken.

Two camps were opened by the E. Anderson Construction Company on the Salmo-Creston highway. These were well-equipped and well-organized.

The mining camp at Duncan Lake was inspected in May.

BUSINESS PREMISES

Willowhaven Rest Home was enlarged again during the Fall of the year with an addition of eight beds. Any further expansion will necessitate an addition to the waste disposal facilities.

The Nelson Home for Aged Men closed permanently in December.

The "corner grocery stores" were inspected during the year and were found to be operating satisfactorily. The super-markets maintain a schedule which precludes the accumulation of waste.

The bakeries were inspected, and were found to be in a satisfactory condition.

Restaurants were visited at about twice-monthly intervals, and some establishments more frequently. They maintained a fair-to-good standard throughout the year. There have been no complaints about the conditions in any of them. Renovations were made at two Nelson cafes this year—pie cabinets were installed in one, and the kitchen of the other was repainted.

There has been a further drop in the number of raw milk vendors, leaving only six. Palm Dairies Ltd., took over the routes of seven rural suppliers durin gthe summer months. This has made a marked increase in the number of people who now drink pasteurized milk.

One dairy had an outbreak of mastitis—having three consecutive counts of 90,000; 107,000; and 160,000 before the outbreak was brought under control.

Both raw and pasteurized milk sold in this area is of excellent quality. We have had less trouble with milk this year than in former years.

AT SALMO

The village of Salmo continued its sanitary landfill during the summer months, filling in a swamp and thereby reclaiming valuable land in the village.

A Salmo resident has permitted the Village and the surrounding area to use a gravel pit as a dump three miles north of Salmo. During the high fire hazard season the dump was declared a fire hazard and since the owner could not be expected to assume the responsibilities involved, the dump was closed. The closure did not affect Salmo at the time. They continued with the landfill scheme. However, garbage and refuse, from outside the village boundaries, soon began to appear along roads, on private property and crown land.

Efforts to correct the situation have produced the following results. The owner has offered to donate the land to a responsible organization, the Highways Department has provided access, the Forestry Department has agreed to limit fire responsibility and fencing materials are available to prevent fire-hazard material from blowing into the woods. The dump was re-opened when the fire season was over and present indications are that a permanent solution will be made before the next fire season.

With the co-operation of the RCMP and the Department of Highways, the dump at Nakusp has ceased to be a problem. Dumping has been restricted to one point by providing an approach and a clean dumping edge with a log barrier. Efforts to organize a collection service have resulted in no progress.

Nelson alleys were inspected on several occasions regarding both residential and commercial garbage. Residential garbage is not a serious problem — any offensive condition which develops is attended to forthwith by the person concerned. For most premises commercial garbage is not a problem; however there are pockets of chronic conditions which are variable from bad to worse. A change in the bylaw making it mandatory for the owner to maintain the area surrounding the cans might have a beneficial effect, but as the bylaw now stands, no one is responsible for this important matter.

SCHOOLS INSPECTED

All schools were inspected, and where deficient, recommendations were made to the school boards.

At the school in Vallican running water and indoor plumbing were installed last fall, so that all schools in School District No. 8 are now so equipped.

Lighting is inadequate in most schools in Districts 8 and 10, being in many cases considerably below recommended minimum standards. The electrical wiring is adequate for 500 watt bulbs, which would supply the recommended in minimum of 30 foot candles in classrooms. The lighting problem was brought to the attention of the school boards last year as well as this year and a few classrooms have been converted to fluorescent lighting. This provides considerably more than the recommended minimum of lighting, wth a substantial reduction in the amount of power used. It is possible most of the schools will be converted in the coming year.

The schools in the Nelson School District No. 7 all conform to the requirements of 30 foot candles in classrooms. Schools in Kaslo School District No. 6 generally follow the pattern in districts No. 8 and No. 10.

The results of the water sampling done on the supplies of rural schools indicate that the water is free from bacterial contamination.

Twenty new homes were approved for septic tank facilities during the year and an additional 56 septic tanks were installed in either old houses or trailers.

Two rooming houses in Nelson were inspected due to a change in ownership. The bathrooms in both were found to be inside rooms lacking adequate ventilation which created chronic odour problems. Ceiling vents were installed to correct these conditions.

Barber shops and beauty parlours were inspected and found to be operating within the regulations governing them.

Three problems concerning the keeping of chickens were looked into in co-operation with the building inspector. Flocks were cut to a dozen in each case, to conform to the bylaw.

The itinerant Gayland Shows were inspected. Conditions at the food dispensaries were found to be satisfactory.

A survey of carbon monoxide in automotive repair garages was made during the latter part of the year. Since high levels were found in two garages, it has been decided to test them at intervals of three months, especially in cold weather.

Report From Victoria

By HON. W. D. BLACK
Provincial Secretary,
Minister of Municipal Affairs,
Minister of Social Welfare

We are approaching our busiest time of the year as far as tourists are concerned. Every part of British Columbia will receive visits from people who arrive from somewhere beyond the borders of our province. Tourists, of course, mean dollars left behind in our numerous communities. However, we have been warned by responsible officials that, if this inflow of dollars is to be maintained, courtesy to our tourists must be kept at a high level.

The use of our provincial government parks reached an all-time high last year. Park visits totalled over three million and was fifteen per cent greater than that of the previous year. There is certainly no indication of any slowing in the trend of camping and picnicking, so a further increase may naturally be anticipated for this year.

Tourist enquiries continue to pour into the government travel bureau office in Victoria at an accelerated rate. More than 12,000 letters from potential visitors had been answered by bureau counsellors up to the first part of May. This was due, at least in part, to this year's stepped-up promotional program.

The travel bureau's 1961 promotion of provincial tourist attractions has been boosted by a 20 per cent increase in its advertising budget. This made possible substantial space commitments in a wider range of newspapers and magazines.

This increased expenditure has brought benefit to individual regions and communities, as well as to the province as a whole. Co-operative advertising pages, arranged for and strongly supported by the bureau, are ensuring choice locations in leading newspapers for the smaller advertisements of community organizations and commercial tourist services.

Another phase of tourist promotion is reflected in a new folder produced by the B.C. government travel bureau. The aim of this folder is to boost long-distance holiday travel to British Columbia.

The full-color folder, describing outstanding events in British Columbia, has been shipped to major rail, air and bus lines for distribution to the public through their domestic and foreign ticket offices.

Many major events are listed and illustrated in full color among which are the International Festival and the Pacific National Exhibition. Mention is also made of flower shows, fishing derbies, water galas, outdoor shows, Indian ceremonies, loggers' sports, folk dancing and sports tournaments taking place in the many centres throughout the province.

IODE Educational Secretary Urges More Recognition Vocational Schools

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire spent $317,563 on education during 1960, national educational secretary Mrs D. W. McGibbon of Toronto told delegates at the annual meeting here Monday night.

Of this amount $213,858 went directly to 1,436 students in the form of scholarships, bursaries and loans, she said.

War memorial scholarships and bursaries from the national chapter went to 93 students and the remaining 1,339 students were given assistance by provincial, municipal and primary chapters.

In an interview, Mrs. McGibbon said the IODE must increase assistance to vocational students.

"We are doing some work but we must do much more," she said.

MUST RAISE PRESTIGE

"We must do something—anything—to raise the prestige of students attending vocational schools," she added.

Some parents thought it was necessary to send their children to university even though the children were better qualified for vocational training. Unemployment figures showed the need for vocational training and with governments talking of more vocational schools, the IODE would have to review its student's aid, she said.

Work with schools began in 1914 when the order began sending books to isolated rural schools. Mrs. McGibbon said in her report.

"Since that time the scope of the work with schools has broadened until today 22,022 schools are sent educational and recreational aids," she added.

A year ago the adoption of schools in the Leeward Islands and Dominica was announced as a pilot project and the plan proved so successful, it was extended to other islands in The West Indies and British Honduras.

A total of 30 schools have applied for adoption. Each school is sent an initial library of 12 reference books and further gifts depend on the need of the school and the resources of the sponsoring chapter.

Leaves Famous Recipe For Spaghetti Sauce

By DEIRDRE MUNGOVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Margherita Marin used to insist that no Italian dinner was complete without a platter of hors d'oeuvres known as antipasto.

But even more important was the spaghetti sauce and she was acknowledged as an expert in making it.

When she died last October at 76, the woman who learned the art of cooking in her father's hotel in Sicily before she came to Canada as a bride left many of her old-country recipes in a worn black book.

For the antipasto, she would arrange on one plate slices of Italian salami, cheese, black olives, stuffed green olives, celery and sweet pickles. On another she would place fillets of anchovy in a petal formation topped with sprigs of parsley.

CARE WITH SPAGHETTI

All her spaghetti - and - meatballs dinners were accompanied with piping hot French bread spread with garlic butter. And she maintained that since the spaghetti sauce was the most important part of the meal, it should be prepared with special care.

Her recipe:

Grease a large pot and fry finely cut onions and one small garlic clove. Add half of a six-ounce can of tomato paste which has been dissolved in a cup of boiling water. Add two 15-ounce cans of tomato sauce, two cans of water, one tsp. sugar, one-half tsp. salt, a dash of pepper, two or three whole cloves, two bay leaves, one tsp. sweet basil and one-quarter tsp. ground allspice. Cook slowly for 1½ hours.

Prepare the meatballs next. Place one pound of ground round beef steak in a large bowl. Dry out two slices of bread in the oven, place them on a plate and pour cold water over them. When soft, remove the crust. Squeeze the bread until the water is gone and it has become a paste. Add it to the meat along with two tbsps. finely cut parsley, three tbsps. grated cheese, one-half tsp. salt and a dash of pepper.

NOTHING WASTED

Work everything in the bowl with your hands and mix well. Add an egg and a few grains of garlic salt. Roll the meat into medium-size oval meatballs and fry in a greased pan. When cooked, set them in the oven to keep hot and pour the grease from the pan into the tomato sauce. Pour a little water into the frying pan and add this to the sauce.

The spaghetti is the last part of the dinner to be cooked. Place 1½ pounds of spaghetti in boiling salted water in a large pot. Cook until tender—12 to 15 minutes. Pour cold water into the boiling water, stir the spaghetti and strain. Add some of the tomato sauce to the spaghetti and serve on large plates.

The meatballs may be served on a separate platter or added to the tomato sauce.

The recipe serves eight. And don't forget the chianti.

Wishing Well, Recipes Provide Diversion At Bridal Shower

SOUTH SLOCAN — A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Joyce Stuart, a June bride-elect, was held in the parish hall recently.

Many gifts were presented to the guest of honor in a miniature wishing well, and as each gift was opened, the person who had given it came and threw a penny in the well, making a wish for the bride-to-be.

Since Miss Stuart is a bank teller, all the guests' names were written in an imitation cheque book.

Guests also brought favorite recipes for the honoree and Mrs. George Penniket brought a recipe entitled "How to make a good husband," which had been given to her aunt at her shower in 1912. Mrs. Penniket read it aloud, to the amusement of the guests.

Mrs. H. E. Dahlquist sang "Because," accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Axworthy.

A contest, "A Musical Wedding", was won by Mrs. Dahlquist.

The tea table centrepiece included pink snapdragons and white stocks. A double heart-shaped bride's cake was cut and passed to guests by Miss Stuart.

Nosegays of pansies and lily-of-the-valley graced the small tables at which guests were seated.

Corsages were pinned on the guest of honor, her mother and her grandmother.

Hostesses were Mrs. N. McClenaghan, Mrs. D. J. Davis, Mrs. R. J. Mulloy, Mrs. D. H. James, Mrs. J. A. Hawkins, Mrs. J. A. Street, Miss Teresa Marshall, Miss Noralee Marshall and Mrs. D. C. Axworthy.

Calls for a Broader Jewish Women's Program

TORONTO (CP) — Judaism will always have something to say to the world and there is a need for a broad-based organization of Jewish women with a program based on this belief, Mrs. N. I. Zemans of Calgary, national president of the Council of Jewish Women of Canada, said Monday.

Although it is impossible to determine the success of their program, Mrs. Bemans said "the yardsitck by which we evaluate is the extent to which we can reach and develop the individual member to her full stature. Our enduring purpose can only be served by striving for much individual understanding and commitment."

She spoke to 84 delegates at the council's five-day 11th biennial meeting.

A total of $27,000 was disbursed by the national council for scholarships and training programs during the 1959-61 period, said Mrs. Martin Bloom of Toronto, treasurer.

Five professional people received $500 for gerontological work. Recipients included Elizabeth Beck, assistant supervisor, Victoria Order of Nurses, Vancouver branch; Lola Wilson, Regina, director of aged and long-term illness project, and Dr. J. A. MacDonell, chief consultant, Winnipeg municipal hospitals.

Mrs. Peter L. Robinson of Toronto said members had an outstanding opportunity to direct the thoughts of their fellowmen to a better way of life.

She said she personally believed too many parents put too much stress on university education for their children with little regard for their children's aptitudes.

She referred to a growing lack of pride in craftsmanship and urged more training for skilled workers.

30 Colts Named for Epsom

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP) — Thirty colts were named Monday for the 182nd running of the Derby at Epsom on Wednesday.

This is the last stage at which owners may pull their horses out of the race without penalty.

The only doubtful starter appears to be English-owned Aurelius. Trainer Noel Murless said he wanted rain in the next 24 hours before making up his mind about running the horse.

Scratching of Aurelius could leave Britain's champion jockey, Lester Piggott, without a mount in one of the most famous horse races in the world.

WON TWICE

Piggott originally was due to ride one-time favorite Pinturischio. Murless scratched Pinturischio because he failed to show his best form after an illness.

Piggott won the derby on American-owned Never Say Die in 1954 and St. Paddy lat year.

There has been little rain at Epsom over the last few weeks and the going is likely to be firm.

The race appears to be the most open in years with no outstanding British colt entered.

Owners, jockeys and trainers —even those connected with long shots—all think their entries have a chance of finishing in the first three.

AMERICAN FAVORITE

The French-trained Moutiers, owned by Mrs. R. B. Strassburger, 80-year-old widow of the Norristown, Pa., publisher, is favorite for the 1½-mile race over a turf course.

The race, carrying a load of betting, and also an Irish Sweepstakes, will be worth $96,734 to the winning owner.

Heavy betting on Dicta Drake shortened the odds on the French trained colt from 20 to 1 to 12 to 1 Monday night.

The complete line set at Monday night's callover was:

Moutiers 7 to 1, Just Great, Pardao, Sovarango 10 to 1, Dicta Drake 12 to 1, Time Greine, Dual 14 to 1; Neanderthal 20 to 1; Belliqueux II 22 to 1; Aliosha, Latin Lover, Nicodemus 28 to 1; Perfect Knight, Supreme Verdict 40 to 1; Aurelius, Polyktor, Bounteous, Scatter, Owen Davis 50 to 1; Cipriani, Oakville, Prince Tudor, Rullahgeelah, Psidium 66 to 1; Hot Brandy, Patrick's Choice, Pinzon, Fontani di Trevi 100 to 1.

Twins Have Been Losing But Whose Fault?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Minnesota Twins have lost eight of their last nine games. But their slump can't be blamed on Harmon Killebrew or Lenny Green.

Killebrew, who has hit safely in eight straight games, leads the American League in batting with a .357 average. He had 10 hits in 27 ties last week and gained four points. Three of his safe blows were home runs and that enabled him to tie Jim Gentile of Baltimore and Rocky Colavito of Detroit for the top spot in this department. Each has 12.

Green is on a 24-game consecutive batting streak. The skein started May 1 and since then the fleet Minnesota outfielder has had 34 hits in 94 times at bat, a .362 pace to lift his over all mark to .322 He in the No. 8 spot in the batting competition.

CASH MOVES UP

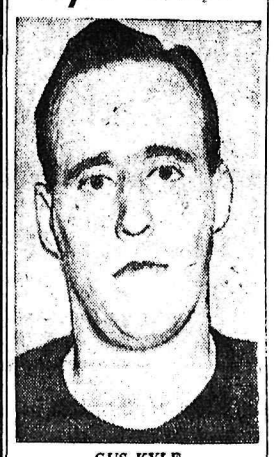
Norm Cash, Detroit's slugging third baseman, moved up one position to second at .345. Johnny Temple of Cleveland, the leader a week ago, dropped 20 points to .340 with a 6-for-26 performance. Roy Sievers of the Chicago White Sox advanced from eight to fourth on a 12 point pickup to .329.

In the National League, Wally Moon of the Los Angeles Dodgers continues to set the pace with .370 average. He lost two points in last week's action with five hits in 14 times at bat.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee charged from fifth to second as a result of a 12-point increase to .343. The Braves' outfielder had nine safeties in 22 trips.

Don Hoak of Pittsburgh, who was not among the first 10 bats men last week, streaked into third place. He picked up 19 points to .333 with an 8-for-18 showing.

Kyle Quits



GUS KYLE

CALGARY (CP)—Gus Kyle, coach of the Western Hockey League Calgary Stampeders, quit Saturady and blamed Mervyn (Red) Dutton, president of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, for his decision.

"I'm through," Gus said, "I just can't take Dutton any more. I just want a little security in hockey. I'd like to be able to look ahead three years but with the exhibition board I can't look ahead three weeks."

The Stamps finished in first place last season.

Kyle said he will join an investment firm and live in Saint John, N.B.

He said he had been interfered with all season by Dutton.

Dutton denied interference.

"I was never in the dressing room once all season," he said. "I tried to help him sign the players and get the payroll down to what it should be, and believe me, we're still too high."

Palmer Closes In on Player

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer has moved a little closer to Gary Player in the race for top money winner in professional golf but still trails by a little more than $7000.

Palmer just missed winning the "500" Open last weekend in a sudden-death playoff with Doug Ford. Palmer, who won more than $80,000 last year to set an all-time record, has played in 16 tournaments, won four and placed with the upper five finishers five times for $44,685.

Player, who has been leading the field since early in the tour, has competed in 18 tournaments, won three and placed with the upper five six times for $51,954.

Penticton Sox Hold Slim Lead With Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Penticton Red Sox bolstered a slim lead in Okanagan Mainline Baseball League standings with a 6-1 and 6-5 victories over the Merrit Metros Sunday.

In another weekend doubleheader at Trail, the Smoke Eaters edged Vernon Carlings 12-1 after dropping a 7-5 decision Saturday.

The Kelowna Labatts took their first defeat of the season when the Oliver OBCs scored runs in the seventh and eighth innings to win 5-3.

Home runs played a big part in Penticton's hometown victories. Steven Hunter, the league's leading hitter, picked up two homers and Lee Day counted another for the Red Sox.

Pitchers Bruce Rowland and Carl Sheeley took credit for the wins while Merritt's John Alexander chalked up two losses.

At Trail, the Smoke Eaters dropped the Saturday game despite superior hitting power.

They piled up 11 hits on Vernon hurler Gary Barnes while Smokies' Spike Gover held the Labatts to five hits.

In the second contest, Trail built up an early lead with four runs in the first, faded in the fifth an dsixth innings, then came back in the seventh to score the winning run on Owen Mailey's homer.

Kelowna's defeat followed a strong start which gave them a 2-1 lead in the second. Oliver picked up two in the third to tie the score and went on to win with sinles in the seventh and eighth innings.

Knucklin' down . . . a boy's delight

THERE ARE twenty million boys, 5-15 years old, and you might find a few hundred out of all of them who don't shoot marbles—but it's doubtful.

Prehistoric man's offspring probably thumbed pebbles at other pebbles, and brawled over "slips" and "fudging" and other misdemeanors. No one, anyway, has been able to trace the origin of this sport which comes now, June 18-23, to the 37th National Marbles Tournament on the beach at Wildwood, N. J.

MARBLES

THE AGE limit is 15.

They shoot agate marbles one-half to three-quarters of an inch in diameter from the point on the outside line of a ring 10 feet in diameter. In the center of the ring are 13 glass marbles, pee wees, arranged three inches apart in the shape of a cross—the object being to hit these with the agate and knock more of them out of the ring than your opponent. And knocking one or more marbles out, provided the shooter's agate stays in the ring, wins another shot.

At least one knuckle of shooter's hand must be touching the ground, otherwise "histing" is called and shot is lost. "Fudging" is moving the hand forward in shooting, which also loses the shot.

"Slips" may be called by the shooter when the agate rolls from his hand, provided it doesn't go more than 10 inches, and another shot is allowed.

"Dubs" is hitting two or more marbles out of the ring on one shot. Lofting is an art of arching the marble into the air to hit one in the ring, the ultimate in skill.

THIS ISN'T exclusively a boys' game either, and since 1950 there have been separate events at the National Marbles Tournament for girls. Last year both winners were from Yonkers, N. Y., and the girl, Christine Zamoiski, was born in a German displaced persons' camp.

More than two million boys and girls are knuckling down now in city and regional tourneys sponsored by newspapers, city recreation departments and civic and veterans' organizations. Out of the multitude will emerge 60 lucky ones going to the national finals.

Pee Wee Reese, famed shortstop of the Brooklyn Dodgers, got that nickname for his marbles mastery—he was runnerup at 13 in the 1932 national championships.

Six Years of Famine; Outlook Improves for Return of Title

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Six years ago, when the Canadian women's golf championships were staged in Victoria, British Columbia won the interprovincial team title. Since then the province hasn't been able to repeat the victory.

But there's growing confidence in women's golf circles here that the trophy will return to B.C. this year.

The girls give three reasons. The first is that the championships will be held in B.C. again with interprovincial team, Canadian close and Canadian open play scheduled between Aug. 1 and 12 at Vancouver's Marine Drive and Point Grey golf courses.

The other two are Janet McWha and Donna Collett. These, of course, are in addition to the crop of ranking young golfers and steady veterans native to B.C.

IMPORTS FROM EAST

Miss McWha, a 24-year-old school teacher who has been a scratch player for five years, and Mrs. Collett, 22-year-old wife of Marine Drive professional Len Collett, are recent imports from Quebec and Manitoba.

Janet moved here last September from Montreal where she earned a place on the Quebec women's team six times in the last seven years and was three times runner-up in the Quebec championships.

Mrs. Collett, the former Donna Paton, came here late last year from Winnipeg when her husband won appointment as Marine Drive pro.

She missed last year's competitions, taking time out to have a baby, but has returned for three consecutive years—1957, 1958 and 1959.

SUZANNE MARRIED

One of last year's B.C. Interprovincial team will be missing this year. The former Suzanne Foulds, who scored a rare double by taking both junior and senior titles in B.C. has married and moved to England.

Ruth Wilson of Vancouver, Mrs. Shirley Naysmith and Dorothy De Girolamo of Victoria will be trying for berths on the four-member team.

The two-member junior team may remain intact, too, with Gayle Hitchen, 19, runner-up to Gail Harvey of Toronto in last year's junior championship, and Nancy Young, 18, both of Vancouver, still eligible for the junior competition.

Mrs. De Girolamo was a member of the 1955 championship team, playing then as Dorothy Herbertson. Other members of that team were Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria and Sheila Ross and Mrs. E. L. Buchanan of Vancouver.

This year's team will be selected following the B.C. championships here June 19-23.

CONGRATULATORY bouquets are in order for Ron Nash's Outlaw ball club after their first visit to East Kootenay ball diamonds over the weekend.

And their victories over the Cranbrook club were about as decisive as you can get.

Charlie Burdette used his arms-of-oak to pound out a couple of good healthy balls to lead the Outlaws in the powerhouse department. Les Hufty was unbeatable on the mound and Mr. Nash says, "The fielding was simply out of this world."

Blair Olson started out badly but hitched up his belt to hold the Cranbrook hitters for five straight innings.

What is even more interesting is that Nash feels the Outlaws are far from their strongest potential.

* * *

THERE SEEMS TO BE a little bit of confusion as far as next Sunday's doubleheader (all Nelson games are doubleheaders) is concerned. The East Kootenay Baseball League can't seem to decide whether June 4 is the proper date.

Rumors have filtered around that they are considering June 11 instead. I hope they decide this issue before too late in the week and clear up a large amount of confusion in this West Kootenay city.

Another rumor, much brighter in all-round complexion, is that Leo Petty, player deluxe, is considering a transfer to Nelson to join the Outlaws.

He will be placed somewhere in the infield. Definite news on this rumor will be available Saturday The 23-year-old Petty is in Spokane.

ANOTHER BIG HOPE for the Outlaws is Bernie Monteleone, who pranced around in a Nelson uniform last year. Monteleone has not yet turned out for practices, however he has notified club officials that he is expecting to join. Saturday will know the outcome.

Time is growing very thin for the club as far as player signing is concerned. July 1 is the deadline date for registration of the official 18 players.

* * *

A COUPLE OF KINKS still have to be ironed out in the Junior Outlaw baseball club but even with these inadequacies, they have managed to tie all-comers.

They did it again last night when West Trail came over to Civic grounds.

The big bat boys Phil Engstad and Jimmy Rogers, weren't hitting like many expected them to but Engstad managed to connect with a two-run double. Rogers spent his time walking from home plate to first.

The 5-5 deadlock went unbroken when darkness stopped the show in the seventh inning.

Dave Grant, the right-handed starter last night, fanned eight, walked two and had five balls sail back at him.

Brian Ryder, another right-hander, will be pitching for the Junior Outlaws Thursday when they travel to Fruitvale. Their next home game will be Monday against Rossland.

* * *

HOCKEY ISN'T THE ONLY SPORT that Don MacKenzie is interested in. He was squatting behind the plate last night.

Other hurlers for the Outlaws who are expected to carry the club through this six-team league are southpaw Doug Florio and righthander Jim Brown.

SHE WON — BUT SHE LOST! Theo Cornelius, 14, of Port Chester, N.Y., grimaces in disgust upon learning that she cannot be the New York Yankee batboy for a day. Her essay on "Why I want to be Bat Boy for a day for the Yankees" was chosen best of 12,000 submitted in an annual contest. Theo lost the job when judges discovered she was a girl but did get something she always wanted — a Mickey Mantle bat.—TNS photo.

Jr. Outlaws Tie West Trail

Nelson's Junior Outlaws were stopped in their quest for their first official win of the season last night by darkness in the seventh inning and had to settle for a 5-5 tie with West Trail in the West Kootenay Junior Baseball League.

Right-hander Dave Grant went the distance for the Outlaws, striking out eight, walking two and allowing five hits.

Trail sent a number of hurlers to the mound and between them set a record of two strikeouts, six walks and three hits.

Phil Engstad was the only big hitter for the Outlaws with a two-run single.

Next game is in Fruitvale on Thursday and the next home game is against Rossland Monday.

Three-Run Homer Powers Rookie Hurler to Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A three-run homer by Frank Robinson powered rookie right hander Ken Hunt and Cincinnati Reds to a 5-1 victory over National League-leading San Francisco Gints Monday.

At San Francisco, Robinson's 12th homer of the season, a 400-foot clout, came in the first inning off loser Mike McCormick, whose record now is 5-3.

Hunt, a big, 22-year-old curve ball artist, who wasn't on the Reds' roster during spring training, won his fifth game. He's lost two.

Hunt allowed seven hits and had Giant runners on base in every inning but the ninth, but he was scored on only in the fifth. Charlie Hiller and Ed Bressoud singled and Hiller scored when Felipe Alou bounced into a fielder's choice. Hunt struck out seven and walked only two.

STARTED EARLY

The Reds jumped on McCormick in the first inning when Ed Kasko walked and Vada Pinson singled. Robinson the lined his homer to left.

The Reds added a run in the fourth on consecutive singles by Wally Post, Dick Gernert and Jerry Zimmerman. They picked up their final run in the ninth off Stu Miller when Gernert walked and Zimmerman doubled. The victory moved the games behind the Giants and percentage points ahead of Los Reds into second place, two Angeles.

A wrong - field liner by Vic Wertz in the seventh inning dropped for a single Monday night, scoring Jackie Jensen and giving Boston Red Sox a 2-1 victory over New York Yankees, their first victory over the Bronx Bombers in nine tries.

But it was Jensen, the prodigal son of the Red Sox outfield, who proved the Yankees' undoing.

Jensen, who quit the Boston club earlier this season for a spell because of despondency over his playing in the game with an anemic .198 batting average. In the second inning he hit a homer.

Mickey Mantle matched it with his 11th of the season in the top of the seventh. In the bottom half, Jensen walked on four pitches.

AVERTS DOUBLE PLAY

Then he broke fast on a hit-and-run signal, sliding into second in time to foil a double play. From there, he sprinted home on Wertz's single. Just to cap that, he grabbed Mantle's long drive for the final out to preserve Ike Delock's five-hitter.

The loss, in the only scheduled American League game, dropped the Yankees into a virtual third - place tie with Baltimore Orioles. The Red Sox were in eighth place, half a game behind Minnesota Twins.

In the National League, Frank Robinson's three - run homer powered Cincinnati Reds to a 5-1 victory over the league-leading San Francisco Giants behind rookie Ken Hunt's airtight pitching.

Cuban Fighter Collapses

NEW YORK (AP) — Jose Rigores of Havana, who was knocked out in a six-round preliminary bout Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena, collapsed in his dressing room and later was taken to hospital where his condition was described as "very, very poor."

Rigores was knocked out at 2:26 of the sixth round by a vicious right to the jaw by Anselmo Castillo of Puerto Rico. He left the ring unaided after being attended briefly by two doctors.

After he reached his dressing room, he collapsed and oxygen was applied. The two physicians diagnosed the injury as an intercranial hemorrhage.

JOHN DRYSDALE, southpaw pitcher from Creston, has had nothing but winners since he started in baseball. Drysdale is presently in New Mexico in a five-team league connected with the Los Angeles Dodgers. So far he has a 2-0 record.

Canuck Referee Safe From Mobs

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian soccer referee whose decision rankles the fans will no longer have to fight his way off the field, the president of the new Eastern Canada Professional League said Monday.

Harold Ballard, former Toronto Maple Leaf hockey executive who believes soccer will be nursed into Canada's top summer sport, says as far as his league is concerned the pros are putting skill in and taking rowdyism out.

"We're getting performers who play with skill rather than brawn," said Ballard. "When fans realize our parks are properly supervised and that we have adequate protection against kooks running out on the field, then there'll be no rough stuff."

LAYCOE RETURNING

PORTLAND (CP) — Coach Hal Laycoe of Portland Buckeroos of the Western Hockey League said Thursday he will return next season as coach of the team. The 38-year-old coach guided bucks to the league playoff title and a second-place finish in the regular season as Portland returned after an absence of a decade.

Fair Weather Prediction Made for Golden Anniversary of 500-Mile Auto Race Today

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The golden anniversary 500-mile Memorial Day auto race today looms as the most wide-open in this traditional carnival of speed and carnage. And it apparently will be blessed with its fabulous weather luck.

The forecast is for generally fair weather, ranging up to 75 degrees—perfect for a record-breaking assault by 33 nervy drivers, including three former winners and eight talented rookies headed by world road racing champion Jack Brabham of Australia.

Since Ray Harroun won the inaugural 1911 race by whipping his Marmon Wasp to a 74.95-mile-an-hour victory, rain has marred only three races.

Most important, propitious weather will send more than 200,000 picnic-spirited folk into this unique, 550-acre racing plant for some 3½ hours of gaping at a contest in which death can strike at any moment in the 200 laps around the 2½-mile brick and asphalt course.

Some 53 persons — drivers, mechanics and spectators—have died at the track, the latest victim being a prime favorite to win the 1961 race, veteran Tony Bettenhausen, killed in a May 11 practice spin.

Sam Hanks, 1957 500 winner and now speedway racing director, predicted "a real helmet dash" when the 33 racers go into action at 12 noon EDT today (9 a.m. MST) after speedway owner Tony Hulman cranks up the field with his traditional "Gentlemen, start your engines" salutation.

"Helmet dash" is a term applied to spring races.

"I think five or six drivers have an equal chance of winning," said Hanks. "I won't put anybody on the spot, but with veterans like Roger Ward, Jim Rathmann and Eddie Sachs, not to mention Jim Hurtubise, Parnelli Jones and Eddie Johnson, there has got to be a wide-open race."

Jim Rathmann

Rathmann won last year's 500 with a record-breaking 138.767 miles an hour, but he was only some 12 seconds ahead of Ward, the 1959 winner. The third returning champion is 1952 winner Troy Ruttman, a heavy-footed terror.

Sachs holds the pole-car position in the 11-row lineup of three abreast cars with the best qualifying time of 147,481 miles an hour.

Although Brabham has been in the spotlight in his 500 debut driving a British Cooper-Climax, Jones has also made a strong impression as a speedway rookie.

A foreigner has not won the 500 since the Italian-born Englishman, Dario Resta, triumphed 45 years ago, taking the 1916 race in his Peugeot at 84 miles an hour.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Psychologist Describes Interviews With Nazis

By LIONEL WALSH

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — A New York psychologist testified at the trial of Adolf Eichmann Wednesday that top Nazi war criminals had told him some of their best friends were Jews.

Dr. Gustave M. Gilbert, chairman of the psychology department at Long Island University, described his interviews with Germans on trial for war crimes at Nuernberg after the Second World War.

He said during his first talks with the Nazis he kept from them the fact he was a Jew because he wanted to test Nazi ideology.

"Not a single one of them know," Gilbert said.

When the psychologist later told the Nazis he was a Jew, they replied they had never had anything against Jews personally, "that this was all ideological nonsense and some of their best friends had been Jews."

RECORDED TALKS

Gilbert said he made extensive notes after every conversation with the Nazis. Because some things they said were "so incredible," he had them write essays as substantiation.

Gilbert said he acted as interpreter at an interview between Judge Michael A. Musmanno, now a Pennsylvania Supreme Court judge, and Field Marshal Hermann Goering.

Goering, referring to extermination of Jews, said:

"This of course was not any business of mine. . . .

"It was under the jurisdiction of (Heinrich) Himmler (supreme Nazi SS and police chief) and his boys, (Reinhard) Heydich (chief of the security headquarters), Ecihmann and so on. . . ."

LOST ALOOFNESS

Gilbert described the one occasion on which he said he lost his "professional aloofness."

"A survivor from Auschwitz had testified how children born in concentration camps were taken from their mothers and never seen again, and how in the rush season in 1944 children were thrown live on to the fires.

"This was too much even for a psychologist, and I went to (Ernst) Kaltenbrunner (Heydrich's successor as security chief) in the lunch break and told him: 'Do you really mean that you know nothing about this?'

"He replied: 'No, no, I did not have anything to do with the extermination program as such. It was the others, Heydrich, Eichmann and others from Himmler down in that chain of command, but they are all dead.' "

U.S. Senate Declares Pugwash Talks Pro-Red

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A staff report by the U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee says the Pugwash conferences which originated in Nova Scotia were designed to weaken the will of Western scientists to resist Soviet aggression.

It charges the conferences of international scientists, supported largely by Canadian-born U.S. industrialist Cyrus Eaton, were initiated by 'individuals with significant records of support of Communist causes."

Eaton, who has been strongly critical of U.S. foreign policy, was accused by the subcommittee staff of having made "an almost treasonous attack on American security" by urging Canada to divorce itself from U.S. foreign strategy.

"Canada is a vital link in the chain of our defences," the report said.

SIX MEETINGS HELD

Eaton offered his Pugwash, N.S., home to the international meetings. Six have been held so far since they were started in 1957—two at Pugwash; one at Lac Beauport, Que.; one near Vienna; another at Baden, Austria; and the sixth at Moscow late last year.

Two of President Kennedy's White House advisers, Dr. W. W. Rostow and Dr. Jerome Wiesner, were delegates to the Moscow meeting. Prominent Canadian scientists have attended the meetings along with others from Britain, France, West Geggmany, India, Japan, Russia, Poland and other countries.

Eaton has given up financing the meetigs which now are being underwritten by the Ford Foundation. The name is being changed to the Conferences of Science and World Affairs. The next meeting is scheduled for Woods Hole, Mass., Sept. 5.

The subcommittee document didn't suggest the Russians had made any great gains in subverting Western scientists although it concluded that some had been subverted.

QUOTES CANADIAN

The report included a letter from Dr. J. Stuart Foster, director of the McGill University radiation laboratory at Montreal. Foster said that when he attended the first conference in 1957 he found "the Russians came with the desire to take home the bacon in the form of a unanimous recommendation that (atomic) bomb tests should be stopped."

Foster said that at times he felt he was under pressure to sign a ban-the-bomb appeal. He didn't sign.

The report suggests that Western scientists possibly were inadequately trained and experienced in international politics in meetig with their opposite numbers from Russia.

The document said it was significant that Russia sent Dr. Alexander Topchiev as a delegate. Topchiev was vice - president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences but his role in the acadmy, the report sad, 'is primarily that of chief political watchdog and commissar in behalf of the ruling Communist party."

VIEWS RESPECTED

"Yet this man who was chiefly responsible for the regimentation and discipline of Soviet scientists was received with the highest respect and agreement by American atomic scientists who attended the Pugwash conferences and his views were widely disseminated by the bulletin of the atomic scientists."

The report delved into the backgrounds of some persons who helped set up the meetings, including Lord Bertrand Russell of Britain, Dr. Frederic Joliot-Curie of France, famed atomic scientist and a self-proclaimed Communist, and Dr. Leopold Infeld, a Polish-born naturalized Canadian citizen who lectures at the University of Toronto and then defected to the Communists in 1950.

His Canadian citizenship was revoked in 1953.

Infeld's "contributions to the advancement of science in Communist Poland have been enormous," the subcommittee staff report said.

At Eaton's office in Cleveland, a spokesman issued a statement saying:

"The Pugwash scientists from America and the Western world, including the top scientific advisors to the U.S. government and Nobel science and peace prize recipients, have proved quite capable of taking care of themselves in international discussions.

"American participants in the Pugwash conferences have been encouraged by our government to attend. . . ."

Eaton and his wife are on a visit to Bulgaria.

Movie Star In Critical Condition

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—Actor Jeff Chandler is again in critical condition. New internal bleeding Saturday forced him to undergo his second emergency operation in nine days.

The 42-year-old actor was reported conscious Sunday and "resting well."

A hospital spokesman said Sunday night that there had been no change in Chandler's condition since Saturday's surgery. It was much shorter than the first emergency operation May 18.

At that time the actor was given 55 pints of blood by surgeons who worked for 7½ hours after complications developed following surgery May 13 to correct a slipped spinal disc.

Ontario Accounts For Nearly Half Traffic Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario accounted for nearly half of all traffic deaths reported on Canadian roads this weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed 48 Canadians died accidentally, 31 in highway mishaps. Ontario reported 15 traffic deaths.

Alberta had six traffic deaths, Manitoba and British Columbia four each and Quebec and Saskatchewan one each.

There were six drownings, three in Quebec and one each in New Brunswick, Ontario and British Columbia.

One fire death was reported in Nova Scotia, two persons were accidentally shot in Manitoba and Alberta and there were seven accidental deaths by unclassified causes. A Quebec farmer was killed when his tractor toppled over.

The figures do not include industrial accidents, natural deaths or known suicides.

Former French Generals Face Serious Charge

PARIS (Reuters)—A military court assembled here Monday to try two French ex-generals for their lives on charges of leading last month's abortive army rebellion in Algeria.

Former generals Maurice Challe and Andrew Zeller faced charges of taking over a military command without legitimate reason and organizing an insurrectional movement. The charges carry possible death sentences.

Two other alleged leaders of the abortive revolt, ex-generals Raoul Salan and Edmond Jouhaud, are still hiding from French authorities.

Russia Cold To Nuclear Test Ideas

GENEVA (Reuters)—The West Monday proposed compromise to meet Soviet objections to its earlier plan for inspections in policing a ban on nuclear test explosions.

The United States and Britain at the three-nation conference here put forward a new way of calculating the annual quota of inspections of "unidentified seismic events."

The West originally asked for 20 a year on Soviet territory, to which Russia replied with a proposal for three. The plan proposes 12 a year, with an additional one inspection for every five unidentified events reported by the control system, up to an annual limit of 20.

COOL RECEPTION

The compromise proposal received a cool reception from Russia.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said the West is still insisting on an "unrealistic relationship" between the number of seismic events and the size of the quota.

The conference's task, he said, was not disarmament but the cessation of nuclear weapon tests.

"If the West really accepted general and complete disarmament, you could poke your noses anywhere you liked in the Soviet Union," he said.

British delegate Sir Michael Wright said the Soviet delegate's reaction to the Western concession was both "disquieting and bewildering."

The Soviet delegate appeared to be out to belittle the importance of reaching an agreement on nuclear tests, Wright said.

2 New Stars Appear On Hollywood Horizon

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The golden dozen has lost two of its members but two new stars have come up.

Three years ago, this writer pointed out that there were a dozen film stars who virtually ruled the industry by their ability to write their own ticket in deals. They were Marlon Brando, William Holden, Gary Cooper, Burt Lancaster, Tony Curtis, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas, Frank Sinatra, Clark Gable, James Stewart, Gary Grant and John Wayne.

Today, Gable and Cooper are gone. Through their box-office draw was off from their prime years both were drawing top money when they died. Gable was paid $750,000 for The Misfits, plus $48,000 weekly overtime for three weeks. Cooper did The Naked Edge for $275,000 plus half the profits.

Neither Gable nor Cooper will ever be replaced. But the tides of film fortunes have provided two new members again make it the golden dozen. They are Jack Lemmon and Rock Hudson.

NOW CASHES IN

Hudson would have made it to the top ranks sooner, except for his restricting contract with Universal. Now he is more able to cash in on his vast popularity. Lemmon, long Hollywood's most underrated actor, established himself with Some Like It Hot and The Apartment.

The industry situation has not changed with regard to the golden dozen. I pointed out in 1958 that the 12 men were the real rulers of Hollywood since they were the only names on which producers felt they could rely. If anything, the dozen stars hold even more power today.

To acquire the services of these stars film companies have to make concessions that would have been unheard of in the era when the Cohns, Mayers and Zanucks were absolute monarchs. Nearly all of the actors have their own companies with which the studios must deal, usually as partner—and often a silent partner, at that.

Strike Halts Building In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Hundreds of building projects in the metropolitan Toronto area were halted Monday when immigrant construction workers and others supporting them went on strike.

A spokesman for the Toronto Building Trades Council said "well over 10,000 workers" were out.

The strike was called in an effort to impose union conditions on the industry.

The housing locals, affiliates of international construction unions, claim the contractors have violated the contracts they signed last summer and have short - changed the workers in pay and working conditions.

Shrinking Market Requirements Present Threat To Uranium City

By JIM WHELLY

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP) Unable to keep their tongues off a sore tooth, the 3,000 people of Uranium City often mention "mid-1963."

By that date there is expected to be no ready market for the barrels of uranium -- bearing yellow powder produced by the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Company and the independent Gunnar Mines Limited.

The two compaies pay 73 per cent of the taxes levied in the 1,000-square - mile area chartered as the Municipal Corporation of Uranium City and District. They are the only major employers.

But shrinking market requirements have snatched the immediate future from both mines and they may shut down by mid-1963.

"Some people came into this with their eyes open. They planned and made a quick killing," says town manager William S. Seaman. "Those who intended to recover their investment over a long term will be broken if the mines shut down."

The boom town of Uranium City was born in 1952 during the most concentrated staking rush in Saskatchewan's history. When 1953 ended, 21,000 claims had been staked—most in the Martin and Beaverlodge lakes area just north of Lake Athabasca, about 450 miles north of Prince Albert.

EMBRACED MINES

By 1956 the municipality was incorporated, including all operating mines and the mine townsites at Eldorado and Gunnar. Within two years the district was established as a major world producer of uranium.

Yet in the last 18 months more than a dozen of the district's uranium mines have sealed their shafts, paid hefty severance wages to employees and closed their books.

Once - busy mine sites of Cayzor Athabaska, Rix-Athabasca, Lorado, Black Bay and Lake Cinch look as though everyone left at a five o'clock whistle and never came back. It cost less to leave some heavy machinery behind than to freight it out.

The economic jolt of the mine closings helped knock 25 of about 55 Uranium City firms out of business and wounded the municipal corporation's finance.

Unofficial estimates of the lifetime of Gunnar are about 30 months, including one year of stockpiling after current contracts are fulfilled. The stockpiling plan indicates hope for renewal contracts for uranium for peaceful purposes about 1970.

EXPANDING PLANT

"By 1970," says manager Don Douglas, "Eldorado could reopen in a new market climate, and we'll be prepared to do just that."

The company's confidence is being expressed in construction of a second hydro-electric plant at a cost of $3,000,000, installation of new machinery and sinking of one of its three shafts another 2,000 feet to more than a mile.

Despite high transportation costs, annual personnel turnover of more than 70 per cent and other peculiarly northern problems, Eldorado and Gunnar have remained this long in competitive production partly because of a high recovery rate of nearly four pounds of uranium from each ton of material treated.

Uranium City fathers, who can't afford to take the long-term view of mine officials, see the 1963 to 1970 period as an impassable abyss, deepened by the corporation's $2,800,000 debt.

They fear that unless the mines can obtain enough contracts to stay in operation Uranium City will become a ghost town.

Nehru Resents Great Powers' Aid To Rebels

DURGAPUR, India (Reuters) Prime Minister Nehru Monday criticized the support given by "some of the great powers" to Portugal, engaged in a three-month-old battle with rebels in its West African territory of Angola.

Nehru singled out for criticism British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, who has just ended an official visit to Portugal.

The Indian prime minister said such visits, when a "bloody war of extermination" was raging in Angola, created a bad impression on every African and Asian and "elsewhere too."

Nehru, speaking to the policy-making body of the ruling Congress party, said the "genocide" and "manslaughter" carried out by the Portuguese in Angola had gone beyond the "normal pale of human tolerance, political tolerance."

He said the great powers who were members of NATO with Portugal would be tested by Asians and Africans in their attitude toward Portuguese colonialism.

The policy - making Congress party committee adopted a resolution condemning Portuguese repression in Angola.

Ottawa Aims To Control Sale of "Goof Balls"

OTTAWA (CP)—The government introduced in the Commons Monday a new measure aimed at controlling drugs commonly known as "goofballs."

The measure, an amendment to the Food and Drugs Act, provides for prison sentences from 18 months to 10 years for any person convicted of illegal trafficking in such drugs.

The legislation, given first reading today, cites three drugs as coming under its provisions —amphetmanine and its salts, barbituric acid and its salts and derivatives, and methamphetamine and its salts.

MUST BE LICENSED

It provides that persons dealing in these drugs must be licensed and must keep special records on their distribution and sale.

The cabinet is to issue regulations covering the manufacture, sale, importation, transportation, delivery or other dealing in the controlled drugs. It will also spell out what records are to be kept, and who is eligible for licence.

The measure sets a fine up to $500 for a violation of the regulations.

The controlled drugs are sold under medical prescriptions as tranquillizers, stimulants or depressants.

However, they have also turned up in a black market trade as goofballs, which are combined with soft drinks or alcohol to give users a "lift" or intoxicated feeling.

AIM AT BLACK MARKET

The legislation is aimed chiefly at permitting prosecution of black market dealers in goofballs.

It provides for an 18 - month jail term for summary conviction before a magistrate in police court and imprisonment for 10 years upon conviction on indictment.

In introducing the controlled-drugs measure, Justice Minister Fulton left another bill standing on the Commons order paper. It deals with a new act to provide for the control of narcotic drugs.

Both bills actually come under Health Minister Monteith, who was absent from the Commons Monday.

The measure establishes two specific offences — trafficking, which means manufacturing controlled drugs, importing, selling, transporting or flivering them illegally and possessing them for the purpose of trafficking.

OUTLINE PROCEDURE

The punishment for either offence to be a jail term. There is no provision for a fine.

The measure sets out procedure in prosecution for possession for the purpose of trafficking. It provides that prosecutor must prove possession, then it is up to the accused to establish that he possessed the drugs legally.

If the accused fails to establish this, then the court will find him guilty and impose sentence accordingly.

The legislation also empowers a peace officer to enter and search any place other than a dwelling house without a warrant. A magistrate's warrant will be necessary to enter and search a home.

Kennedy May Attack Tractor Critics

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) President Kennedy Monday was reported to be directing an administration attack on critics of the tractor deal to liberate captives of the Cuban invasion attempt.

Former Vice - President Richard Nixon and Republican leaders in Congress have denounced the proposition of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro to exchange 1,200 prisoners taken in the invasion attempt for 500 tractors and bulldozers.

They called it blackmail and criticized Kennedy for helping to organize a committee of citizens to raise the necessary millions and arrange details of the transfer.

There have been signs that Castro may welsh on the offer. One administration objective is to put the Cuban leader on the spot.

Kennedy has appealed for contributions to pay for the tractors, which would cost an estimated $15,000,000. But he also has declared the government itself can play no part in the transaction or fund raising.

The administration is said to believe the situation is just right to undo any damage in relations with other Latin American nations caused by the invasion failure.
