Tshombe Rakes O'Brien For His Congo Policies

Claims Former UN Chief Used Balubas To Create Disorder

By JOHN STEPHENS

PARIS (Reuters)—President Moise Tshombe of The Congo's Katanga province Monday called Conor Cruise O'Brien, former United Nations chief in the breakaway province, a "criminal" who should be prosecuted for his Congo policies.

"I rejoice that he has quit," Tshombe told a press conference after dodging reporters since his arrival Sunday by plane from Brazzaville, in the former French Congo Republic.

The UN announced Friday that the Irish diplomat, who directed the UN attempt to reintegrate Katanga into The Congo in September, was being relieved of his Katanga post.

O'Brien charged in a letter published Sunday that Britain and France brought pressure to force his resignation.

Tshombe accused O'Brien of using Baluba tribesmen to create "disorder" and said he was thus responsible for the Baluba refugee problem in the province.

Asked about efforts of President Fulbert Youlou of the former French Congo to mediate between Katanga and the Congolese central government, Tshombe replied: "As far as I am concerned any African intervention is desirable."

TRIED FOR MEETING

Tshombe said that while in Brazzaville, he sent two emissaries over the Congo River to Leopoldville to arrange a mid-river meeting with central government Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Adoula replied with a suggestion that he come to Leopoldville, Tshombe said.

Tshombe, who was arrested the last time he went into central government territory for a conference, said: "Adoula does not inspire my confidence because he was responsible as interior minister of the time for my detention."

The only solution to The Congo problem, Tshombe said, was a confederation of independent states.

"This solution, which was agreed upon at the Tananarive conference (of Congolese leaders) last summer, is the only valid one," the Katanga leader said.

Tshombe said he will leave for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in about two days to attend a conference there of Moral Re-Armament, a world-wide anti-Communist organization.

He added that he had come to Paris to see his 17-year-old son, who was due here from Belgium where he had undergone an appendectomy.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) —The former United Nations chief in The Congo's Katanga province Monday accused the British government and British "gutter millionaires" of sabotaging the UN in The Congo by encouraging the continued secession of Katanga.

Conor Cruise O'Brien, 44-year-old formr Irish diplomat, told a press conference that British support had provoked violence by President Moise Tshombe's Katanga forces against UN troops.

O'Brien left UN service and resigned from the Irish foreign service last week with a bitter statement against Britain and France. He said they used behind-the-scenes pressure against him and his mission at UN headquarters while publicly supporting UN aims in The Congo.

Britain and France have denied the charges.

O'Brien declined to go into details on the pressure allegedly used here. He said he would clear up a number of other questions in a book he is planning to write on his Congo experiences. He met reporters in his hotel near UN headquarters.

Foreign Minister Frank Aiken of Ireland issued a statement terming the press attacks on O'Brien "unfair and unjust."

Katanga Agrees To Open Road

ELISABETHVILLE (AP)—Katanga province bowed to a threat of United Nations force Monday night and agreed to reopen the main road of the Elisabethville airport that was barricaded during the day by Katangan troops and police.

Tension between UN and Katanga forces built up to a flashpoint before Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba of Katanga announced agreement on reopening the airport artery.

Kimba professed surprise at the new barricade construction. But just a few hours earlier he had threatened to shoot down all UN planes flying over this secessionist province.

The agreement came within an hour of a UN ultimatum threatening military action unless the Katanga forces removed the roadblocks that had paralyzed traffic between Elisabethville and the airport and a UN Indian troop camp.

Elsewhere in Elisabethville, Katangan gendarmes set up new barriers. The Swedish and Irish UN camps were completely isolated, all three main roads leading to them being guarded by Katangans.

Canada Urges Agreement

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada pointed Monday to a danger that the United States and the Soviet Union will carry their "earthly rivalry" into space warfare.

Senator Alfred J. Brooks, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, mentioned this while announcing his country's co-sponsorship of a U.S. resolution urging the United Nations to adopt a broad program for co-operation in exploring outer space.

Australia and Italy also are co-sponsors of the resolution that U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson declared would prevent the march of science from becoming a "runaway race into the unknown."

Brooks, addressing the 103-member UN political committee, said he was heartened by statements that neither the U.S. nor the Soviet Union intends a "selfish conquest" of space.

"Nevertheless, none of our countries can rest easy while nagging concern remains that the earthly rivalry of these two powers, and perhaps of other states, may yet be carried into the infinite reaches of the universe.

"The spectre of a titanic struggle for mastery of space fills the most complacent of us with foreboding for the future."

Laos Peace Meet Makes Progress

GENEVA (AP)—The 14-nation Laos peace conference took a major step Monday by naming Britain and the Soviet Union as permanent guardians of the Southeast Asian kingdom's peace and neutrality.

In its first formal session in five weeks, the conference concluded an East-West agreement that also covered the functions and powers of the three-nation International Control Commission, which will supervise a neutrality treaty.

Canada, India and Poland make up the control commission.

Despite the difficult problems that remain, U.S. delegate William H. Sullivan said the agreement set a pattern for peaceful settlement of East-West differences throughout the world.

The new agreement becomes operative only after the treaty is signed and ratified. Among the major obstacles remaining is the problem of demobilizing Communist rebel forces or bringing them under the proposed new Laotian government.

Red China's Chang Han - fu served notice that the Communists will not accept any international supervision over the demobilization and integration of the armed forces.

The conference now goes into a period of marking time. It can take no decisions until the three rival princes set up a government of national unity and send a delegation to Geneva.

KAMLOOPS JAIL BULGING WITH PRISONERS

KAMLOOPS, (CP) — Kamloops city jail was jammed with prisoners during the weekend with as many as 44 persons at one time crowded into quarters designed to accomodate 12.

RCMP Superintendent J. B. Harris said the arrest of a total of 55 persons between Friday afternoon and Monday morning was the result of "increased police activity."

But he said it is impossible for police to "cope with the situation" unless better facilities are provided.

"Even our own men are disgusted with the way they have to look after prisoners," he said. "Washroom facilities are totally inadequate. Prisoners have to sit on the floor and balance plates on their knees when eating meals."

Supt. Harris said Kamloops is subject to an unusually large number of transients and undesirables because of "foophouse" conditions in the city.

Ceylon Raps U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Ceylon accused the United States Monday of waging a war "against the Chinese people" by opposing admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

In a speech to the UN General Assembly, Ambassador G. P. Malalasekera declared the U.S. is building up a "wall of hatred" between the American and Chinese peoples that could lead to a third world war.

The Ceylonese delegate made this comment on U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's speech to the assembly last Friday urging that the UN keep the door closed to China:

"There are apparently not only two Chinas in American thinking, but also two Stevensons. There is the Stevenson of the brilliant promises and, alas, to my disappointment, the Stevenson of the same old conclusions."

Bayoff Sentenced to Five Years

Terrorist Orders Freedomites "Go Clean Out Your Pig Pens"

"Go home you pigs!" This was Mike Bayoff's advice to some 50 Sons of Freedom packing the gallery of county court Monday. The self-confessed terrorist had just been sentenced to five years in the B.C. penitentiary for illegal possession of explosives when he lashed out at his compatriots.

In passing sentence His Honor Judge Eric P. Dawson said that terrorists have practically declared civil war on West Kootenay over the years. Referring to the fire at Glade Saturday night he stated that almost on the eve of Bayoff's sentencing terrorists had continued their diabolical attacks against human life.

Bayoff's sentencing came in the midst of preliminary hearings into terrorist charges laid against nearly 50 Freedomites arrested since Bayoff confessed his guilt in court a month ago. The preliminary hearings began nearly two weeks ago.

A DETERRENT

The judge said in a quarter-hour statement that Bayoff had expressed remorse for his past actions and had provised his sincerity by his great assistance to police since his confession. But he said a sentence had to be imposed that would serve as a deterrent to those who were engaged in violence with him.

In passing sentence he must also consider the interest of the community, to protect the people of the West Kootenay, Judge Dawson said.

He described terrorists as potential murderers and said it is only by the grace of God that someone has not been killed in fires and explosions.

"It has become abundantly clear," he said, "that in these acts of bombing and burning those responsible have acquired a reckless disregard for the safety of human life, both in the targets they have chosen for attack as well as in the manner of their attack."

When asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Bayoff replied, "From now on I would like to see these people at the back of me to accept the laws and obey them. They have turned into pigs and why not return home and clean the snow from the pig pen."

About 50 Freedomites were sitting in the public gallery behind him.

"GO HOME, PIGS"

After the five-year sentencehad been passed Bayoff stepped from the prisoner's box and said to other Freedomites in the gallery "Go home you pigs."

A short silence followed while Judge Dawson left the courtroom and then several Freedomite women babbled in Russian and English, but no demonstration took place.

During the sentencing of John Makortoff during the fall assize recently a demonstration broke out while the supreme court judge was still in the courtroom and Makortoff's father was fined for contempt of court.

Never Too Old To Marry

TACOMA (AP)—Dr. Bartholomew E. Hoye, 100, possibly the nation's oldest physician, became the nation's oldest honeymooner when he wed a 63-year-old former school teacher, Jane Frances Murray, in a quiet weekend ceremony here.

The retired New York-born physician will be 101 on Valentine's Day.

Dr. Hoye's first wife died in Auburn in 1926.

Friends said the newlyweds had known each other for a long time.

Mobs Smash Shops In Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Terrorists encouraged by the army smashed shops and clubbed down civilians Monday in a strongarm attempt to end the crippling seven-day strike aimed at ousting the Dominican government.

Angry anti-government crowds fought back with rocks and slingshots.

The new violence flared after the armed forces withdrew all troops from riot duty in the capital and openly invite people to smash shuttered stores.

In response, a small army of club-wielding civilians began to grow in the poor sections of the city.

The situation appeared to be developing into the worst display of violence yet in the Dominican political crisis. Opposition sources described the military move as a scheme to discredit anti-government ranks by blaming any rioting on them.

In Santiago, Chile, a government spokesman said Chile is considering a request by the Dominican government and opposition to mediate a settlement of week-long political crisis. In Washington, it was reported a Chilean diplomat left Sunday night for Santo Domingo to act as mediator.

Soldiers exhorted residents of poorer class neighborhoods to rise against the owners of closed shops. The appeal went largely unheeded except for a band of some 20 men.

Led by two uniformed police and an army officer wearing battle dress and firing a sub-machine-gun, the terrorists went on a club-swinging rampage.

Several men also ran after an American reporter, John Hlavacek of the National Broadcasting Company. They clubbed an NBC cameraman and seized one of his cameras.

The two policemen turned and fired in the direction of a taxi where three other correspondents were watching the violence. The correspondents were Robert Berrellez and Bernard Diederich of The Associated Press and Richard Valeriani of NBC. The cab was not hit.

PM Promises To Wipe Out Discrimination

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Monday recalled his boyhood days on the Prairie frontier and pledged himself anew to the complete erradication of racial discrimination in Canada.

He told a conference of editors of foreign-language newspapers and periodicals that he grew up in a community largely composed of Middle European peoples, and knew what it was to have good citizenship judged on the basis of acceptable surnames and racial origins.

His people, he said, had been in Canada over 100 years, and had lived among Germans and Ukranians. If he had been born under his mother's family name, he would have been Mr. Campbell-Bannerman, rather than Mr. Diefenbaker.

When Canada secures the power to amend its own constitution in Canada, he said, the first amendment he would propose would write into it a Bill of Rights covering both federal and provincial fields of jurisdiction.

ROSSLARE HARBOR, Ireland (AP)—A raging storm hurled nine sailors from a lifeboat into seas off western Ireland Monday night and washed three other men off a rescue ship.

Ships, planes and small craft fanned out in search of the 12 missing men.

Macmillan Seeks United Stand on Berlin Issue

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan will press for a united Western position on Berlin negotiations when he meets President Kennedy in Bermuda, diplomatic observers said Monday.

Sources in Paris said Macmillan put a forcible case for new overtures to Russia on Berlin in his meeting with President de Gaulle of France 10 days ago

But they said de Gaulle maintained that Allied offers of negotiations at this time would risk a weakening of the Western position.

According to the French sources, de Gaulle believes that standing pat already has caused the Russians to withdraw their original threat to sign a peace treaty with the East Germans before the end of the year and to display other signs of reducing tension.

Observers here said Macmillan would stress the theme of the present disarray in the Western alliance and the need to form a united front to deal with Russia on the delicate Berlin issue.

Indian Forces Conduct Manoeuvres on Borders

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Indian forces have been deployed for major manoeuvres near disputed border areas with Communist China, Pakistan and Portugal, authoritative sources disclosed Monday night.

The sources said the manoeuvres involved large-scale combined exercises of the army, navy and air force.

The deployment came amid growing demands for firm action to settle the government's dispute with Portugal over the tiny enclave of Goa and with Communist China over its occupation of vast areas along India's northeast frontier.

The sources said the government has no plans for immediate military action against Portugal but "precautionary measures" were being taken.

Reliable sources earlier said the army had taken over 76 trains to move an undisclosed number of personnel. The action followed a reported buildup of portuguese forces along the enclave's 180-mile border with India.

India border police also have been dispatched to the frontier area near Daman, another of the four Portuguese enclaves on India's west coast.

According to reporters here, 700 more Portuguese troops landed in Goa Sunday, placing the 1300-square-mile territory on a virtual war footing.

The long-standing border dispute with Communist China touched off new protests Monday in India's legislature.

The protests centred on new Chinese incursions into the Aksai-chin Plateau in the Ladakh area of Kashmir.

Even Communist legislators joined in demanding that China withdraw from the 12,000 square miles of border territory it has "illegally occupied" along India's northeast frontier.

Strachan Ready To Ask Questions On Ferry Service

VICTORIA (CP) — Opposition Leader Strachan said Monday the Canadian Pacific Railway's Vancouver - Nanaimo ferry service will go out of business as a result of the government buying the Black Ball operation.

At the same time, he said the CCF had always advocated government take-over of private ferry services in British Columbia because they were part of the highway system.

Mr. Strachan said the government would be held accountable if it was proved the $6,700,000 purchase figure was too high and that "questions will be asked" by the CCF-New Democratic party members at the next session of the legislature.

He suggested that a bridge be built from Nanaimo to Gabriola Island and that the ferry service should start at the southeast corner of Gabriola. This trip could be made to Vancouver within an hour.

School Bus Drivers Need A-Plus Card

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta Highways Department is setting up an "A-plus" driving certificate which will be issued for the operation of school and highway buses.

In a statement issued at a press conference Monday, Premier Manning said persons now holding a class "A" licence will be allowed to continue to operate buses until they have been tested in a school bus and those applying for the first time will be tested in a school bus.

The statement contained about 50 recommendations of a government - appointed committee on school bus operations with comments on them by the highways department.

It said the provincial highways department has begun a comprehensive survey of every level crossing in Alberta and the information obtained will be made available to any municipality.

Weathership Will Meet Santa at Sea

VICTORIA (CP) — The weathership St. Catharines will steam from harbor here today for a rendezvous with Santa Claus 900 miles out in the Pacific Ocean.

The 56-member crew aboard the vessel, who will spend seven weeks on the stormy winter seas, would be thinking of it as just another voyage if it did not have the promise of a Christmas party with all the trimmings.

Many had "Christmas" dinners with their families Monday night, then packed the little parcels their wives and children gave them for opening Christmas morning on the high seas.

Others will wait until daddy comes home Jan. 22.

The St. Catharines will patrol weather station "Papa" a 200-square mile patch of ocean where it makes observations and radios them to shore. It will be "business as usual" for the crew, Christmas or not.

But in the ship's stores are 16 turkeys, 18 hams, cases of mandarin oranges and a large supply of candies, nuts and other festive goodies.

Capt. James Sleight will pour a cup that cheers Christmas Day and the men may have their own refreshments to share with mates.

TREE AT MASTHEAD

The department of transport weather service doesn't have the same tradition as the navy when it comes to Christmas at sea, but as with all sea-going vessels St. Catharines will have a fir tree at her masthead.

There will be decorated trees in the mess decks and smaller ones on the tables. For holiday entertainment, there will be a special movie which the crew has selected.

Nothing short of disaster forces weatherships from their lonely patrols. Engine breakdown is not considered serious because while on station the ship runs on one, leaving the other in reserve.

"Even colds are rare," said third engineer Charlie Giliard of Victoria. "We're away from all that when we're out here."

Crews seldom report an illness and only once was a man flown to hospital on a mercy flight.

And in This Corner . . .

PEKING (Reuters)—The annual St. Andrew's Ball, one of the highlights of Western diplomatic life here, was declared a success Monday after a week of worry about whether the haggis would arrive in time.

The haggis, a traditional delicacy ordered from Scotland several months ago, reached Peking only a few hours before the ball Saturday night.

Scottish members of the diplomatic community arranged a special car to rush it from the nearby port at Tientsin in time for the celebrations.

The haggis consists of a sheep's stomach stuffed with the animal's heart, liver and lungs, together with onion, oatmeal and spices.

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—Two teen-agers who stole a ham radio outfit from a local shop got an unexpected lesson in geometry.

They now know the meaning of the word "triangulation."

Police said Monday the two boys started broadcasting from a parked car Saturday. In a short time six members of the Apple Valley Citizens Band Association were tuning them in.

The ham operators, who do this sort of thing regularly for practice, quickly pinpointed the parked car and directed police to the spot.

The triangulated two now are trying to square themselves with authorities.

Kaslo Hospital Injunction Action Awaits Judgment

The interim injunction restraining Victorian Hospital of Kaslo board of directors from suspending Dr. D. A. Barrera from practicing in the hospital will remain in effect until the decision of His Honor Judge E. P. Dawson is made public.

In a chamber sitting Judge Dawson reserved judgment on renewal of the injunction after hearing arguments of both plaintiff and defendant counsels Monday.

He did not indicate how soon the judgment would be brought down but said that the injunction will continue on the same terms until the decision on the application for renewal is known.

On Nov. 17 Dr. Barrera was suspended by the board until such time as he had completed his medical case histories for the years 1960 and 1959. The same afternoon defense counsel M. E. Moran of Castlegar obtained an injunction from Justice J. O. Wilson on the grounds of "discriminatory action" against the doctor.

Monday Mr. Moran contended that the directors' request for completing the case histories to comply with a bylaw passed by the board in April was not binding, because the bylaw was not retroactive.

He also implied that the board had not used its discretion judicially in suspending the doctor without a hearing and also based its decision on misinformation.

Defence counsel R. L. Maitland of Vancouver claimed that the plaintiffs had no grounds to obtain an injunction, that the board was not compelled to give a hearing, that the doctor's action showed lack of co-operation.

The board contends that Dr. Barrera has not made a sufficient effort to complete his medical case histories for the required years, though he has been given six months to do them.

When the issue first arose in May, the board informed Dr. Barrera that he had 413 case histories to complete for hospital files. In a letter to the board in June, Mr. Maitland argued, that Dr. Barrera indicated he understood the situation and would take steps to rectify it.

Later summer correspondence revealed that the board threatened to suspend the doctor's practising privileges at the hospital if he did not comply.

In six months, Mr. Maitland said, the doctor completed 10 charts for 1960, then in the month prior to his suspension completed about another 60.

"This shows complete lack of co-operation with the board. I would go even so far to say disinterest, a cavalier attitude towards the hospital authority," charged Mr. Maitland.

Mr. Moran has contended that the doctor has shown co-operation by keeping his cases up to date in 1961.

Mr. Maitland contended that the Government Act concerning hospital administration gave power to the board to suspend the doctor without a hearing.

"Dr. Barrera had a right to be heard and was never given the opportunity to appear before the board before he was suspended," said Mr. Moran.

He said that the board based its decision on information saying that up to Nov. 17, the doctor had only completed 17 case histories from 1960, when he had in fact completed 69 cases.

He claimed the board exceeded its jurisdiction. "The board's demands to complete records for 1959-1960 were made without lawful authority," he said.

"The only right that the board had was to require keeping the records from that day forward," Mr. Moran said in regard to the bylaw not being retroactive.

Hunting Deaths Spur Action

VICTORIA (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia said Monday his department will seek ways to stop "hunters from hunting each other."

He said he has ordered a study of recommendations made by coroner's juries inquiring into five hunting deaths in the province this season.

200 Attend Opening of Angels Play

"My Three Angels" is a fast moving Christmas comedy about three angelic convicts and a snake named Adolph.

The play, in three acts, was presented last night by the Nelson Little Theatre before about 200 people. It will be staged again tonight.

The action takes place in the Ducotel family's living quarters behind a general store in Cayenne, French Guiana, on Christmas, 1910.

Three convicts from a penal colony decided to help the Ducotel family out of a financial mess caused by the father's generosity, and over-extension of credit. The father was convincingly played by Cliff Carne. Mme. Ducotel was played by Marie Bradshaw, who ably portrayed the harrassed housewife.

The third member of the family, Marie-Louise, the daughter, played by Eileen Thexton, seemed a little unsure of herself in the first act, but improved in the second and third.

Ken Strang, as the convict Joseph, was convincing as a smooth talking forger, when he remembered his own lines and did not step on someone else's. Arne Laine, the regretful convict Jules, who also had some trouble with his lines, got the humor across. Alfred, the accomodating member of the trio, was played well by Gerry Borch.

Others in the cast included Deny Coen who was forceful and firm as the cruel uncle; David Thexton, as the snobbish nephew; and Gerry Cathcart and Jane Steed.

Opening night jitters should be resolved by tonight. Offstage prompting could be heard in the audience.

The audience, including a group of Senior Citizens who were guests of the Little Theatre, was appreciative and reacted well.

Costumes designed and made by Lou Leverington and Jane McLeod were excellent and authentic.

Others backstage were: director, Doreen Pearce; stage managr, Cliff Carne; lights, Soren Madsen; make-up, Mrs. J. Argyle, Mrs. H. Lake, Mrs. A. Laine; properties, Jean Madsen; prompter, Olga Poznikoff; sound, Cliff Underwood and Olga Poznikoff.

The Kiwanis Club sponsored the play.

Nakusp Vote To Be Held Dec. 16

NAKUSP—The Board of School Trustees has made arrangements with Celgar to rent their vacant offices on Bay Avenue for classrooms to relieve the crowded condition that exists in the Nakusp Elementary School and also to do away with the shift system currently in force.

Two classrooms are being prepared for occupancy and alterations required by the Provincial Fire Marshall's offfice are being carried out. The grade VI and VII class under Mr. Hancock and the grade VII class under Mr. Marshall are occupying this building, starting Monday.

The Order-in-Council, authorizing the Board to place a Referendum before the Owner-Electors, has been received and the Board has declared Saturday, Dec. 16, as polling day.

Council Supports School Referendum

City council gave support in principle to the $829,000 referendum of School District No. 7 in the shortest open council meeting held this year.

Council's vote on the referendum, which will be decided by the ratepayers at the polls Thursday, was divided.

Aldermen F. A. Beresford and J. W. McClelland opposed giving support the motion due to its timing and nearness of the election.

Ald. McClelland contended that it was the wrong time to put in such a motion and wondered why the board had not come forward and asked for council's approval of the referendum.

Ald. Edith Van Maarion, who moved the motion, answered that the board itself had only learned that the provincial government had approved the referendum a short time after council's last meeting.

At council's last meeting, the board was granted permission to place the referendum before the taxpayers at the Memorial Hall polling station on Dec. 7.

"I don't think this is in order," said Ald. McClelland, referring to the motion. Later he challenged Ald. Van Maarion with "Do you think this is the right thing to do?"

"Yes," she replied, continuing that council should give moral support and is an elected body to give leadership and show confidence.

Aldermen J. S. M. Harts and van Maarion voted in favor of the motion. Ald. McClelland abstained and Ald. Beresford voted against the motion. Seconds later Ald. Beresford said he did not wish his objection registered and would bow to the will of council.

Ald. B. C. Affleck, acting mayor, after the motion had been passed, indicated that he would have broached the subject and supported it if Ald. Van Maarion hadn't. He was acting in the place of Mayor T. S. Shorthouse, who left the meeting early.

The meeting lasted about two hours before council convened into committee of the whole council.

Trio Collaborated in Stretcher Invention

A Nelson bookkeeper obtained a patent recently and turned out an invention in a basement machine shop.

E. R. Bennett and Erle Halliwell teamed with Rolfe Brock, chief engineer at Kootenay Lake General Hospital, to devise a fifth wheel invention for hospital stretchers.

Mr. Brock and Mr. Halliwell worked on the mechanical end in the latter's shop. Mr. Bennett handled the legal work, involving many forms to be filled out and accomplished the near impossible feat of obtaining the patent without the aid of a patent attorney.

All three men hold the patent rights but Mr. Bennett is the business agent.

Asked if the trio would turn out more wheels in the shop, Mr. Brock said they would wait for a good offer from some firm equipped to handle such an undertaking.

Church Filled For Peerless Funeral Service

A large attendance, including Rotary Club members, doctors and optometrists, filled Fairview United Church Monday for funeral services for Leonard George Peerless.

Mr. Peerless was born in Winnipeg Dec. 30, 1910, and died in Nelson Nov. 30 at the age of 50 years. He was prominent in community activities.

Officiating clergyman was Rev. H. R. Whitmore. Hymns were "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "For the Beauty of the Earth," with Angus Fraser as organist.

Honorary pallbearers were W. W. Wait, Dr. J. A. C. Laughton, Mayor T. S. Shorthouse, R. E. Horton, H. Boyanner, W. Harold, C. Scaife, G. E. Marshall, S. Hermant and E. Carrothers.

Expectant Mother Unhurt in Collision

An expectant mother was rushed to Kootenay Lake General Hospital following a two-car collision at the corner of Fifth and Davies streets Friday.

Wife of driver John Markotich of Vancouver was examined at hospital and later released.

Driver of the other vehicle was E. J. Poty of Nelson.

Damage was minor.

Davidoff Returned to Jail; Four More Sons Committed

A belligerent Krestova Freedomite cited for contempt of court Saturday for refusing to take the witness stand, forced adjournment of preliminary hearing proceedings of William G. Bojey in Nelson Monday.

Bojey is charged with unlawful possession of explosives near Winlaw during the early part of February.

Fred N. Davidoff, already ordered to stand trial on two separate charges of placing bombs, the offences allegedly taking place at Brilliant and Winlaw, was cited with contempt when he refused to testify as a crown witness in the Bojey hearing Saturday He was ordered placed back in the cell until such time as he purged his contempt.

Monday he was brought back into court and crown prosecutor T. G. Bowen-Colthurst asked him to take the stand.

"I have said . . .," Davidoff stated, still refusing to take the stand.

"I'd like to be saying more, too," stipendiary magistrate William Evans interjected.

"Don't judge us as individuals," Davidoff replied. "Decide our Doukhobor problem as a whole."

Mr. Colthurst stated that he could ask for an order of committal for Davidoff but "it seems a more academic application than a practical application" because Davidoff is already in jail awaiting trial.

An adjournment until Dec. 12 was granted.

In a second preliminary hearing heard Monday Pete N. Repin, Andrew Tarasoff and brothers Edward and Paul Perepolkin were committed to stand trial on a joint charge of burning an empty house, a garage and car at two Champion Creek villages, near Ootischenia, Aug. 19.

Evidence submitted in the hearing included pictures of the scene by Const. L. E. Brenster; parts of an incendiary device found at the Walter Postnikoff village where a vacant home was gutted found by Const. Edward Malinowski; and patrs of an incendiary bomb found by Cpl. R. L. Carlson at the Fred E. Zebroff village where a car and garage was burned.

Through the translation of Fred Ozeroff of Nelson, Mrs. Hanna Zebroff testifited that she, her husband, who is nearly blind and needs the aid of a cane to walk, and a 10-year-old girl awoke to flames from a nearby garage. The heat, she said, was tremendous and people could not get near the garage to fight the flames.

She testified that the evening prior to the fire a boat was moored on the Columbia River just below their village but the next morning it was on the other side of the river.

William Postnikoff, a 51-year resident of Champion Creek, testifield that he and his wife saw flames at 2:30 a.m. Aug. 20.

Illarion Spielmans, inspector of the Lands Settlement Board, told court that the buildings burned were on land owned by the Board.

William Tymofievich testified that at dusk Aug. 19 he saw two men walking along the river 200 feet from his home but was unable to recognize them.

LIONS GIVE $100 TO BOOST LIST OF SCHOLARSHIPS

CRANBROOK—The Cranbrook Lions Club has established a new scholarship at Mount Baker High School.

The Club has promised a $100 award to the Grade 12 Mount Baker student with highest standing in the annual June examinations by the Department of Education.

Cranbrook service clubs and lodges support students each year with school prizes, scholarship and bursary awards. However, an increase of approximately 30 per cent in school population has also increased the need for more assistance of this type for students wishing to continue post-graduation study.

City Lacks Leadership Van Maarion Claims

Mayor T. S. Shorthouse was charged with lack of leadership and sit-on-the-fence tactics in a campaign speech delivered over CKLN by Ald. Edith Van Maarion, mayoralty candidate, Monday night.

She claimed that the city hall issue would have been "settled years ago" if the city had had strong leadership; and that the mayor engaged in "sitting on the fence strategy," in the boundary extension campaign.

Alderman Van Maarion also criticized one of her opponent's planks, that of waterfront development, stating that there were more urgent projects demanding attention.

The candidate said that as chairman of many civic activities she had been able to execute all her assignments with success to the benefit of the city. The chairmanship of the boundary extension committee was "the highest and most important assignment that could be given to any alderman."

Meanwhile, she said, the mayor had been absent from the city on many occasions, and had gone to meetings he had not been asked to attend by council. The mayor's post was a full-time job, she said, although it "never has been in Nelson nor in any of the interior cities."

Success of the boundary extension campaign had been due to the efforts of the hard working committee "and nothing else," she declared. In other cities, she said, the mayors had assumed leadership but such was not the case in Nelson.

She agreed that there had been much progress in the past four years, but said this was due to the united efforts of progressive council members.

If elected, she said, she would give priority to essential needs of greater Nelson, including the senior citizens' village, a long range capital plan, and listed the senior citizens' villa, improved streets and sidewalk construction as urgent projects.

Missionaries Make Transition From Tropical Habits to Northern Life

By JEAN BAKER

Many thousand miles from the home they have known for the past 34 years, where "manyana" is the time for things to be done, Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Eggleton are unpacking their accumulated mementos of life in the West Indies at their new residence in Nelson.

Mr. Eggleton was superintendent of the West Indies for a number of years for the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada at Trinidad and latterly was field director at Barbados.

Mr. and Mrs. Eggleton are old-timers here, where they were married in the mid-1920's at Trinity Methodist Church by Rev. Wright. Mrs. Eggleton is the daughter of the late Mrs. Weaver, well-known early day Nelson piano teacher. Mr. Eggleton had come to Nelson to minister at the Pentecostal Church, which at that time was next to the Nelson Daily News building, and three years later he married his church's pianist.

They spent a year in Penticton before leaving for Trinidad, with a spirit of adventure and expecting the worst, a frame of mind recommended by Mr. Eggleton for anyone going so far afield "then anything better than expected comes as a pleasant surprise" is his philosophy.

Recalling their first service in Trinidad, the Eggletons say it is one "we'll never forget." It was held in an old stone building lit with Coleman gasoline and kerosene lamps. Huge bats swooped down, both fruit bats and vampire bats, and as the service was progressing, a scorpion strolled across the platform. For a young couple straight from Canada, it was pretty terrifying. They were warmly received by the natives, however, and their faith in God carried them over many a hurdle in the years to come.

Trinidad is a well-jungled island and is rich in oil. One of the many famous sites visited by the missionaries was the renowned pitch lake, 13 acres of a tar substance forming a wasteland on which a truck can be driven, but which Mrs. Eggleton says is soft and slightly sinky underfoot. This tar is loaded into trucks and shipped away for asphalt-making. The lake extends under the sea.

Barbados, where they spent the latter part of their mission, is the climate for Europeans, says Mrs. Eggleton. The island is on a coral reef and rain runs off quickly. There is no jungle and the main crop is sugar cane. The island is on the eastern side of the semi-circle of islands and the climate is dry. Some animals found there have crossed the five miles from the Venezuelan coast and become native to Barbados, says Mrs. Eggleton.

The natives are "very warm - hearted and good humored, loving to play their guitars with their families gather around to sing, recalls Mrs. Eggleton.

Names of the native families are straight out of history and the English they speak ranges from a strong Cornish to Irish accent, their names are those of the masters of their ancestors, who imported the Africans as slaves. These colored people proudly pass on to their descendants such names as McLaren, Clark, Ryan, Poole and O'Reilly.

TRIBES DISAPPEARING

There are few true natives of Barbados left, says Mr. Eggleton. The tribes of Caribs have dwindled to a few scattered individuals and the Arawaks are no more. These fierce West Indians refused to be taken by conquering nations and fought to the death or jumped to their deaths from cliffs rather than submit to the invaders.

The islands are trying to federate, with preparations started about four years ago, to be completed in 1962.

Premier of the Federation is Sir Grantley Adams. Lately, Jamaica has seceded from the embryo Federation and there is some question as to whether or not Trinidad may be next to secede, which would leave the smaller islands (smaller in economic status) without cohesion.

There is much poverty in Barbados, say the Eggletons, and the biggest problem is unemployment. There are 260,000 people crammed into 166 square miles, the main economy being provided by sugar cane plantations owned by absentee landowners, and by tourism. Dr. Cummins is premier of Barbados and Dr. Eric Williams is premier of Trinidad.

Among the colored congregations of the 17 national churches in Barbados, 75 per cent of the children are illegitimate. Union by marriage being the exception rather than the rule is one of the problems to be worked out by the missions. There is one white church on the island, although colored people are welcome there. The natives enjoy their services boisterously, with clapping hands, rattling tambourines and great emotion.

The missionaries think of their island friends with affection. They remember the insects with rather less than affection, particularly the ants and the scorpions. "One time," shudders the minister, "I was about to put my face in a towel and there was a scorpion."

A constant vigil against insects is waged by mothers. Mr. and Mrs. Eggleton find their attention caught immediately by any small movement in the house.

The food, hard to become accustomed to at first, is as natural now to the Eggletons as their Canadian food was before, although they truly enjoy returning to their native B.C. dishes.

One of the more exotic types of food to the northerner would be the flying fish, of which the Eggletons have a mounted one to show visitors.

Trinidad is a cosmopolitan world, with Chinese, Syrians, Portuguese, East Indians and others. The East Indians are the businessmen, says Mr. Eggleton, and form one-third of the population.

Their trip home was quite a contrast to the trip down to the Indies 34 years ago. They flew home, landing in Toronto within the day.

They visited their son, who lives with his family in Oshawa, before coming west. Their daughter, Mrs. Grant Hood, lives in Nelson.

Films and souvenirs of the West Indies will entertain their visitors for a long time and the missionaries' thoughts are often with the happy colored people with whom they have spent nearly half of a lifetime.

Fernie Leaves Arena Floor In Rossland

FERNIE — Fernie City Council decided to leave the arena floor, recently purchased, at its present location in Rossland for the winter months.

The move was made to save extra handling charges. It was felt the floor would be of no value here until next spring when it will be transported and installed immediately.

City clerk Frank Butala was authorized to have the floor insured immediately.

In reporting on the city's prospects for natural gas, Mayor White told Council that Columbia Natural Gas Limited, in its application to the Public Utilities Commission to construct and operate a distriubtion system in the East Kootenay, was including Fernie and Creston in its plans.

J. and E. Hall, contractors who installed the artificial ice plant in the local arena, will be contacted regarding the unsatisfactory service given by the compressors. It was stated the machines had given trouble since the time of installation.

Malcolm McLennan, manager of the arena, was authorized to attend an operating engineers' conference at Lethbridge, sponsored by the Canadian Ice Machine Company, to study the care and maintenance of ice-making equipment.

An inquiry was received regarding the cost of purchasing property across the highway from Fernie Mountain Service. Council decided to give the necessary information to the applicant, J. G. Dolynuk of Penticton. If sufficient interest is shown the property will be advertised for sale at an up-set price of $3000.

Confirmation of William Ross in his position as public works superintendent was given by council. Mr. Ross had been acting in this capacity since the retirement of Jeff Hunt.

A donation of $25 to the March of Dimes campaign was approved.

Fernie Foresees Fight On Aldermanic Issue

FERNIE — Two positions on Fernie City Council were filled by acclamation when nominations closed here. Mayor James White, the city's chief magistrate since 1956, was unopposed as was Richard Pennington, who will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of former Alderman Robert Lilley.

Present aldermen Telfer Dicks, Jack Minton and John Sweeney are seeking to retain their seats and will be opposed by Leon Rushcall, school teacher and Bruno Magale, store clerk.

Mr. Rushcall is running for public office for the first time while Mr. Magale is making his second attempt, having narrowly missed securing a council seat in last year's civic elections.

SCHOOL BOARD

Four candiddates are contesting the two seats on the school board for trustees of School District No. 1 (Fernie).

Board chairman Dr. Sparling East and board member Daniel Chester are seeking to retain their seats while Percy Starr, whose wife is presently a member of the board, and Albert Gotzy are making their first bids for a seat on the board.

Owner-electors of Fernie will be asked to approve a proposal to extend the city's boundaries in a plebiscite to be taken with the elecitons.

Voters are also requested to anser a "yes or no" questionaire in which they are asked if they approve the present systems of garbage removal in the city.

If a majority express disapproval it is expected council will enforce the garbage by-law which calls for householders to place garbage in circular metal cans of sufficient number to accomodate all refuse with the exception of ashes. The by-law has been in existence for a number of years but was never enforced.

Rossland to Choose Three Councillors

ROSSLAND — Rossland voters will go to the polls Thursday to select three aldermen to serve for the next two years.

Mayor of Rossland since 1950, Harold Elmes was returned to office by acclamation. Also elected by acclamation was school trustee Ted Fletcher, who has just completed his first two-year term as one of Rossland's representatives on the board of School District No. 11.

Councillors with a year remaining in their terms of office are Aldermen Percy Berry, William Wadeson and William Keane.

A last-minute entry for former alderman Arthur J. Lees resulted in five candidates being nominated to fill the three council vacancies. Others who filed nomination papers were: Alderman Dave Shaw, Alderman J. C. Miller, William Douglas and Cecil Skinner.

City clerk Donald Camozzi has been named returning officer for the election and voting will take place in the council chambers at the city hall between 8 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock in the evening.

Ski Development Company Formed For Snow Valley

FERNIE — A private company, the Snow Valley Ski Development Company Ltd. was formed recently in Fernie to develop the skiing potential of Snow Valley near Fernie.

In corporated in Victoria on Nov. 20, the company expects to have 50 member shareholders, the maximum allowable by law.

No development is scheduled to take place this winter and skiers will use facilities of the Snow Valley Ski Association presently on the hill.

It is hoped to have a T-Bar lift installed for the 1962 season.

Officers of the new company who will carry on for four months, at which time there will be a shareholders meeting to choose officers, are: president, Telfer Dicks; vice-president, Donald G. Bacon; sceretary - treasurer, James Ryley and directors J. J. Crabb, Dr. G. W. Leroux, F. C. Hislop, H. C. McKay and Mayor James White.

Warfield to Vote Only on $100,000 Paving Bylaw

WARFIELD — At Warfield no election will be held since all incumbents were returned to office unopposed.

Chairman Arnold Lauriente together with Commissioner T. W. Matheson and Commissioner C. E. Fenton have all been returned after completing their first two-year terms of office. Also elected by acclamation was School Trustee Jim Gray.

Warfield ratepayers, however, will vote on the $100,000 street paving by-law which would provide for blacktop surfacing of all streets in the village next year.

New Fire Truck on Way, Natal Hopes End Year With Surplus

NATAL — Following notification by the Department of Municipal Affairs that it was prepared to approve a short term loan, the Natal Commission has given first, second and third reading to its Capital Loan By-law No. 12.

This, upon final approval and adoption, will enable the village to borrow funds to pay for the new village fire truck, expected to be delivered in the near future by the Saskatoon Fire Engine Company.

The decision to borrow was made after the commission agreed that all possible steps should be taken to prevent repetition of a disastrous fire, which last week destroyed a clothing store in the village.

Council was notified that Canadian Underwriters would test the apparatus in Saskatoon last Saturday, and delivery could be expected shortly in Natal, where another and more rigid test by the underwriters would be undertaken.

HYDRANTS FROZEN

Following complaints by the Natal firemen regarding frozen hydrants, council instructed fire chief Mike Slemko that weekly tests of the hydrants must be made throughout the winter.

A meeting to discuss the entire problem of fire protection in the village has been called for Friday in the Union Hall at Natal.

Invited to attend the meeting are representatives of the Natal Chamber of Commerce, Natal Council, Canadian Underwrtiers Association, Natal Fire Department, RCMP, Natal Waterworks, Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. and the public.

In other business the council gave final reading and adoption to the village Budget By-law No. 13, 1961 which showed an expected surplus of $699.35 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1961. Revenue for the year is shown as $43,655.55 of which $20,324.26 is derived from general taxation and $14,346 from grants.

Largest single item of expense allowed for in the budget is education, which calls for the payment of $14,205 to School District No. 1 (Fernie).

An indebtedness of $9500 was shown, with $3000 still owing on the purchase of the Village Hall and $6500 to be paid on the fire truck.

Tentative Offers Made For Ainsworth

Ainsworth townsite property of the Yale Lead and Zinc Mines, Ltd., which has been up for sale recently, has attracted two or three offers, none of which are affirmed as yet.

Property of the mining company within the townsite limits includes the popular hot springs, adjoining hotel, several residences other buildings and lots.

M. Turner, only representative of the company left in Ainsworth following suspension of Yale's operations there, says that something definite may be settled within the next few weeks.

Ainsworth is the oldest established community in the Kootenay Lake area.

Since closing of the mine and mill work there, Ainsworth's population has hit a new low and it has had some low points during its history. The few children left in the community are required to take the school bus into Kaslo every day since the Ainsworth school has not been opened this season.

Residences built by the company and others built previously and owned by it have sat empty as has the hotel, since the mining company's property was put on the market. The Yale office building burned down recenty The hot springs pool has remained open at government insistence as a health centre. People from all over the district may be seen enjoying the hot waters at any time of the day or night.

Road construction approaching Ainsworth will alter the face of the little community slightly, with a change of direction towards the lake, according to reports.

Old Autos at Cominco Point Up Safety Week

TRAIL — Vintage automobiles which have suffered severe damage in accidents are being displayed at prominent locations at Tadanac and Warfield.

This is part of Cominco's effort towards publicizing Safe-Driving Week this week, Dec. 1 to 7, according to the company's safety supervisor, J. C. Ink.

Cominco safety officials are again cooperating with Trail and District Safety Council in urging citizens to take extra precautions during the annual Christmas season safety drive.

In addition, appropriate safety messages in conjunction with a daily tally board at each location, record the number of automobile accidents each day this week and resulting damage costs. These statistics include the surrounding areas of Rossland, Castlegar and Fruitvale.

"Property damage and loss of life due to automobile accidents is becoming more and more severe every year in Canada," said Mr. Ink. "We're asking all our employees to be extra cautious during this period of heavier traffic in the coming Christmas season. Trail is enjoying a marvelous fatality-free record — I hope it can continue for years."

Insult to Womanhood

It will be interesting to see if an organized "whisper campaign" has any effect on the residents of this community. We think it highly unlikely.

Lacking anti Van Maarion ammunition, those near and dear to the Shorthouse camp set in motion a scurrilous whisper campaign and whipped it into a high state of animation up and down Baker Street. There are a few who have taken the bait hook, line and sinker.

Essence of the tongue wagging is that "she won't have time to do a good job as mayor" and "Do you want a woman to boss YOU?" "She should be home looking after her family" and other equally absurd and ill founded remarks.

It is highly regrettable that those concerned felt the need for this type of back alley propaganda in an election campaign and it can only be hoped that it will be met with the utter contempt it deserves.

Ald. Van Maarion has time and time again demonstrated her unselfish efforts in the best interests of our citizens which, according to those intimately associated with Mr. and Mrs. Van Maarion, has not detracted from her loyalty and devotion to her family.

That a woman is not capable of heading our city administration is an irresponsible statement that truly typifies the intelligence of her egotistical male opponents.

Charlotte Whitton, Mayor of Ottawa, has most ably administered the affairs of the Canadian capital for many years and has become a well respected and greatly admired national figure.

Beth Wood, Mayor of New Westminster, a progressive and flourishing city, has dramatically demonstrated the capabilities of a woman at the head of civic affairs.

Joan of Arc, Madam Curie, Eleanor Roosevelt and Florence Nightingale are just a few names of the endless and glorious list of women who have contributed so greatly toward a better way of life for us all.

Any suggestion that Ald. Edith Van Maarion is incapable because of her sex, to function efficiently and honorably as chief magistrate of this city is not only an insult to the intelligence of the taxpayers but an outright reflection against the womanhood of this city.

It is not conceivable that the men of Nelson would be party to such bigoted thinking and will clearly demonstrate their disgust for such a sneaky whisper campaign by voting Van Maarion for Mayor.

Voters: An Important Year Ahead

On Thursday, December 7, Nelson voters are required to go to the polls to elect their Mayor and three councillors. These persons to be elected will constitute a majority around the council table throughout 1962. This is one of the reasons why the coming election is of major importance.

It is obvious that a group (or slate as it is called at times) could take control of the affairs of this city if such a group exists and is elected. In effect, such groups or slates bring to Municipal Elections something akin to party politics. It is, of course the right, and in truth the duty of the voters to decide if such a situation should come about.

The voters will make their choices on Thursday, and it is well we are all aware of the importance of this particular election which will place four out of the seven persons around the council table who will be responsible for city affairs during 1962.

Nelson is one of the finest communities in Canada. Its people are proud of the fact and have kept the progress of the city in their hearts. Because of the difficulties of providing services, streets, sewers and so on in a rocky hillside location, the cost of advancing and progressing is greater than in many other communities. Because of this, good sound administration is a must if we are to keep our tax bills from piling up.

There is a good selection of candidates offering for office on Thursday and we urge voters to take time out to think which ones can best administer our affairs and spend our moneys to best advantage. No one is capable of saying who will be the best administrators, but collectively the voters can come up with four candidates who will, we hope, conduct the affairs of the city in the manner in which the people paying the bills want them conducted.

This city deserves to have its affairs handled with prestige and with the dignity of a city of the worth of Nelson. Some of this dignity and prestige has been lacking at times in recent years. It is to be hoped the new Council members will be able to rise above the irritations of the past.

These next twelve months will be important ones. These four persons to be elected will in a large way determine how successful the year will be.

We urge you to vote, but also urge you to give the whole list of candidates your sincere consideration before you do.

Who's Afraid Of Being Shot?

One of the top tailors of London's Savile Row, where men's suits are wokrs of art, is turning out bullet-proof vests for his customers. They are, of course, made to measure and fit like a glove.

They are hammered out of high-tensile steel, and backed with canvas. They weigh 13½ lbs. and cost $85. The customer, if he wishes, may have the reliability of his metal undershirt tested by calling at the shop and standing up to fire from an automatic pistol at a range of 10 feet.

"Spaghetti" Age

Every time we finish our stint of looking over most of the weekly newspapers published in Alberta, three or four Alberta dailies and several dailies from other parts of Canada, we come up with the feeling that Canadians are hanging more and more on the apron strings of their governments.

It is a most depressing tendency. It has all the symptoms of a creeping paralysis of the courage, resourcefulness and energy of the individual. One wonders if Canadians are not gradually sinking into a mass in which each person strongly resembles a limp piece of cooked spaghetti.

It is rarely you hear of any group or organization standing on its own feet, thumbing its nose at all governments and doing whatever needs being done. Instead, the matter is twisted around until some angle is found that gives an excuse to ask some government -- civic, provincial or national — either to do the job or else to foot the bill.

Ironical Indeed

Liberal and Conservative party spokesmen have expressed understandable amazement at a provision written into the provincial New Democratic party's constitution at its founding convention in Winnipeg. The new constitution gives provincial executives the power to veto candidates nominated by the constituency organizations. In this it follows the NDP's national constitution.

Aside from the thoroughly undemocratic nature of this innovation, it is hardly likely to make the party executives popular with the constituency organizations. Certainly, it does not flatter the grass roots. The obvious implication is that the provincial executives have no faith in the local representatives' judgment, in their ability to pick candidates that will not embarrass the party.

However that may be, the constituency organizations and the people they represent will likely interpret the provision to mean that the party brass simply does not care what the local people think. That is ironical indeed. For years the CCF has claimed to be the only party that really represents the grass roots. Its successor will have some difficulty making the same claim.

Wailers Gone

Funeral customs vary from age to age, from country to country, even at time from place to place within the same country. But some customs gain a general prevalence and are slow to die out. Such, in Ireland, has been the custom of hiring professional mourners.

In times past, in Ireland, professional mourning was regarded as an art. For a bereaved family in some localities it was more than an art — it was a social necessity. It was a poor family that could not afford at least one professional mourner.

The professional mourner in Ireland was a "keener." But the "keeners" of Ireland are no more. A Reuters despatch out of Bantry carries the news that Kate Connolly, the last of Ireland's professional wailers at wakes and funerals, is dead.

Candidate Gives Answers to Five Questions

To the Editor:

Sir—I would be very grateful if you would allow me space in your "Letters to the Editor" column, as I would like to reply to the recent letter by Mr. H. E. Klein and Mr. S. A. Bragagnolo.

1. Do the candidates feel that the efficiency of the city administration would be better served by a city manager?

I feel that the efficiency of the city administration may be better served by a city manager or an efficiency expert. If we couldn't acquire a professional City Manager for a reasonable salary, and the City could not save much more money than we would have to pay out for his remuneration, then I wouldn't be in favor.

However:

We may acquire the services of an "Efficiency Expert" who could advise us on a professional basis, and still do this with a minimum of expense; probably this may be all we would require and if this proved more feasible and satisfactory to begin with, I would favor this more so than a city manager.

2. I would not be in favor of the Provincial Government expropriating our local Power Plant. I do not believe our Provincial Government would be interested in the expropriation of our local Plant as it is already a Public Utility.

Re. modernizing of our Power Plant versus disposing of it.

I would accept the data of qualified engineers and personnel, and then, if it proved that the Plant was netting a good profit and would continue to do so, I would recommend that we keep our Plant; but if it were proven that we were not making a profit, or that to make a profit, the Utility would have to charge the consumers more than what our neighbors were paying, I would recommend that we dispose of it. Again, if it was proved that we could buy power, and using our own transmission system we could make only the same profit as at present, then I would still favor keeping our Utility as we would be maintaining our present employment level. I feel very strongly on the employment issue and believe we should do everything possible to keep our labor force and if possible to increase it.

3. I didn't know that our present Law Enforcement wasn't satisfactory; but if it was proved that it wasn't, then I would favor a complete study to determine what could be done to either improve it, or the alternative of hiring the RCMP and then determine which would be best suited to our needs.

4. I believe that there is no substitute for a well-informed Public. However, there may be occasions in the life of Civic Government when some matters concerning the well being of the community must be held in strict confidence, temporarily at least, and if such an occasion arose I believe that the information would always be available at our City Hall.

5. Re Amalgamation —

A. I understand that the street lighting is already under way, and am told that the delay if any has been caused by delivery of materials to carry out the Program; if this were not so, and if elected then I would do what I could to get this underway.

B. Seeing that I haven't been on Council I can't say if Council has proposed to raise the water rates to cover the cost of the increased Water Works Program. The water rates for the new amalgamated areas should be at least 20% than what we previously paid because we can save this by the prepayment of our water rates.

C. With regards to 1962 taxes on former fringe areas being based on their present assessment, if this was promised by some of the candidates I would think that they would follow through. However, I am told the Provincial Government has instituted a new formula for the entire Province, whereby properties will be assessed based on 50% of current values, and this new formula is to be completed in 1962.

Therefore, if this is the case, and the new assessment is completed in Nelson, including the former fringe areas, we could have a different tax structure.

I realize that these questions should be answered and published before our Civic Election, which doesn't give me the time I would like, to acquire the information necessary to answer some of the questions to my satisfaction.

U.S. Army Battle Group Boosts Berlin Garrison

BERLIN (Reuters) — East Germans worked in a pelting rain Monday on anti-tank emplacements at each of the seven crossing points in the Communist wall slicing Berlin in two.

Cranes swung jagged steel tank traps through the air and concrete blocks were moved into place as the East Germans worked non - stop through the night to reinforce openings in their wall, erected since the Communist border clampdown Aug. 13.

At Friedrichstrasse, opposite the U.S. sector, laborers were guarded by East German troops in full battle dress.

A dozen yards away stood American soldiers armed with two machine-guns and a bazooka.

A six-foot-high, 10-foot-thick concrete slab barrier across the East German Friedrichstrasse entry point left a gap about wide enough for a bus to drive through on one side of the road.

LEAVE SMALL GAP

At Sandkrug bridge in the British sector, a crossing point reserved for West Berliners, a concrete barrier left a gap large enough only for a car to pass.

The work, started Sunday, prompted U.S. commandant Maj.-Gen. Albert Watson to ask the Soviet commandant for assurances there would be no interference with Allied and civil intra-city traffic.

East German police told West Berlin police traffic would not be disrupted by the construction work.

The East German interior ministry announced the construction was a "normal" measure "necessary to guarantee security."

The announcement, carried by the East German news agency ADN, said the buildup was aimed at countering proposals by West Berlin's "last risk" politicians.

Report From Victoria

By HON. W. D. BLACK,
Provincial Secretary,
Minister of Municipal Affairs,
Minister of Social Welfare.

Radio and television are a large part of our present day living but, in the face of these two powerful mediums, it is interesting to find that the demand for books is constantly on the increase. No doubt, radio and television have their places in our daily lives but, in our quest for knowledge or quiet entertainment, there is no complete substitute for books. This is revealed by the annual reports of the Public Library Commission.

Under the "Public Libraries Act," the Provincial Government, through its Public Library Commission, has assisted and encouraged the distribution and the reading of books among the people of the province. Practically every part of the province enjoys some form of public library service — even the lighthouses, weather ships, remote radio and radar installations, logging and fishing camps.

The Public Library Commission reported that since 1920 the number of volumes in the tax supported public libraries in British Columbia has grown from 137,382 to well over a million. With such tangible evidence of progress, and with the continuing increase in the circulaton of books, the Commission is encouraged in its work of promoting the establishment and extension of public library facilties. The Commission has been diligent in setting up branch operations in the centres of growth and thus bridging the gap until support becomes strong enough to establish its own tax-supported services in the form of a municipal or regional library.

ACTIVE FORCES

The Public Library Associations are the initial form of organized public library service and are active forces in their communities. The popularity of the services rendered by these local Associations is reflected in the growth during the past 11 years. In 1949, there were 26 public library associations and by 1960 this figure had crept up to 43. These associations form the nucleus around which the larger organizations will eventually grow. This has materialized in a number of instances where vision and hard work have produced flourishing municipal public libraries.

In 1950, the appropriation for grants to libraries and library associations was $50,000. In 1960, this annual figure had grown to $220,000. The increased appropriations have not only expanded the over-all services but have allowed some of the larger libraries to introduce services and make purchases which have been desired for some time.

Diefenbaker Accuses Russ Throwing Aside Test Ban

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia has thrown aside three years of work on an international agreement on control measures to enforce a nuclear test ban, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said.

It was "one of the most retrograde steps in a long, long time," and left little room for optimism that East and West can ever arrive at any binding international agreement, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker received a copy of the Soviet Union's draft proposal personally from Ambassador Amasasp Aroutunian Sunday.

Russia proposed before the resumption of the Geneva nuclear test talks last week that each country individually declare its intention not to conduct further tests in the atmosphere, under ground or under the sea, and leave it to each country to use its scientific agencies to detect whether or not any other country broke the moratorium. There would be no international inspection.

Mr. Diefenbaker, opening a conference of 85 editors of foreign language periodicals in Canada, said the U.S.S.R. had negotiated for three years on means of international inspection and control and now has turned its back on the work already done.

He said Izvestia's publication of an interview with President Kennedy had been a hopeful sign in East-West relations, but the new Soviet stand on testing "is the very antithesis."

Nehru Appeals To Christian Leaders

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru appealed to Christian leaders from around the world today to approach international problems in a "friendly spirit rather than in the spirit of the cold war."

"If we seek peace, we must in some ways adopt the ways of peace," he told the general assembly of the World Council of Churches.

Representatives of churches from nearly every nation gave Nehru enthusiastic standing ovations in this Indian capital both before and after his address.

He urged the gathering of "the great leaders of religious thought" to face current international issues squarely and give mankind advice in solving them.

To evade them, he said, is no way to help in their resolution.

But he pleaded that the "manner of approach be friendly" in dealing with the dangerous and extraordinary problems now pervading the international scene.

AGGRAVATES PROBLEMS

"The cold war method only aggravates the problems. I cannot understand how anyone thinks they can achieve peace by methods which only make for more and more war psychosis."

Nehru said that in world affairs, whatever the specific merits of a case, there is no purpose to be gained in "being offensive to each other."

If critical issues are approached in a friendly and civilized manner, he said, they will "be easier of solution."

He added: "I do believe that what one gives to a situation one gets back from it. If one gives a friendly approach one gets a friendly return."

However, he added that in today's climate of the world "most advocates of realism are considered hopelessly unrealistic." He described a politician or government leader as the "man in the middle" and said they "have to fit in largely with mass opinion."

In democratic countries, he said, statesmen may see the right but they are bedeviled by the problem of expressing it candidly because they must represent popular views.

HUNTER WARMS UP

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Noel Martel, 42, of here, spent Sunday night getting warm at home after he was lost for a night in nearby Horseshoe Canyon on a hunting trip. He became lost Saturday afternoon. Temperatures during the night dropped to 20 below. Martel made contact with a rescue party Sunday.

DRIVER TRAPPED

PRINCETON (CP)—Bert Appleyard, 45 of Burnaby Sunday was taken to a ranch on the Hope-Princeton highway suffering from shock and frostbite following a traffic mishap. His auto spun out of control about 20 miles west of Princeton and came to rest in a snow-filled ditch. He was trapped inside the auto for five hours.

Many Absent From Mine, Mill Meeting

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Supporters of the executive of Local 598, international union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), were conspicuous by their absence Sunday night at a meeting of some 3,400 Mine-Mill members called by the union's national office.

A resolution passed at the meeting called for "full mobilization of all resources of the national union and the local union against the Steel (United Steelworkers of America) raiders."

A chorus of "ayes" greeted another motion calling for intervention against an application by the CLC-affiliated Steelworkers for certification as bargaining agent for the International Nickel Company's 15,000 Sudbury-area employees. No dissenters could be heard.

The motion authorized Thomas Taylor, former member of the local executive, to sign and file the intervention. Taylor was named to act as agent on behalf of Local 598 at certification proceedings before the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

Taylor was authorized to retain counsel and the national officers were asked to assist him in preparation and presentation of the case.

Kennedy To Seek Power to Work With Europe Market

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy will ask Congress for sufficient power to work towards partial free trade with Europe's Common Market, it was learned from authorities who have been working on the program since August.

The president's proposals, to be placed before Congress early next month, would empower him through broad reciprocal trade deals to reduce U.S. tariffs by an over-all 50 per cent over a period of two to three years.

Kennedy intends, however, to ask for sufficient flexibility to exercise the proposed power in such a way that it may result in cuts of less than 50 per cent on some categories of goods and complete elimination of tariffs on others.

The aim would be to "break open" the European Common Market for U.S. exports through a reciprocal trans-Atlantic lowering of tariff barriers. But benefits of any tariff reductions achieved through international negotiations would spill over, extending on a non-discriminatory basis to Canada and other countries trading in American and European markets.

The U.S. hope is that Canada also will adopt a more liberalized trade policy, supporting the U.S. position. But because the Canadian population is small and her domestic market limited, U.S. authorities said they realized that only the United States has sufficient market power to exercise these "economic leverage" to entice Europe into broad tariff cuts.

Kennedy's Autobahn Idea Like Big Stick — Izvestia

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia says President Kennedy's suggestion that the autobahn linking Berlin and West Germany be placed under international control smacks of a "big stick" policy.

It told him to forget the idea because it is "doomed to failure."

And the Kremlin organ chided the president for what it called a "cock and bull" charge that the Soviet Union is out to convert the world to communism.

Commenting on the interview Kennedy gave Izvestia editor Alexei Adzhubei, the paper said the president put forward "quite a few reasonable ideas" but these were not among them.

Izvestia upheld the "sacred right" of the East German Communist regime to regulate ground, river and air traffic within its territory. It declared:

"No state which prizes its sovereignty has ever allowed the establishment of international control over its roads."

The newspaper's 4,000 - word commentary Sunday charged Kennedy's plan was an attempt to help West German "revenge seekers" get control of East Germany's communications.

HAVE ONE ROUTE

The autobahn — a highway cutting across 110-miles of Communist territory — is the only road route the Western allies have to Berlin and they have insisted on their right of free movement over the highway. Soviet guards man the checkpoints on the road now under the four - power occupation agreement.

What riled Izvestia appeared to be Kennedy's charge that Soviet ambition to convert the world to communism was the basic cause for world tension.

The government newspaper countered this by charging Kennedy with showing "a desire to 'capitalize the world'."

"The Soviet Union and the Communist party of the Soviet Union have always been against the export of the revolution, but they are also against the export of the counter-revolution," the paper said.

Izvestia praised Kennedy's suggestion that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw treaty countries sign a non-aggression pact. And the government newspaper gave wholehearted approval to Kennedy's statement that the Soviet Union and the United States must live in peace with each other.

Women's Council Head Says: Drive Carefully, But Do Not Drive Yourself

OTTAWA — "If we took as much care of ourselves as we do of our automobiles, we'd probably live much longer," today declared Mrs. S. Hayes, president, National Council of Women of Canada, in a statement supporting Safe-Driving Week.

"As we get closer to Christmas we are inclined to force ourselves beyond our limits," she says.

Mrs. Hayes appeals to all women across the country to realize the dangers of fatigue, particularly while driving.

In order to combat fatigue produced by the gruelling task of pre-Christmas shopping; dangers of icy roads; stepped-up schedule of entertaining, also working outside the home in many cases, she urges women to take a few minutes off at intervals throughout the day to relax and sip a cup of hot beverage.

Mrs. Hayes offers a few pointers to help achieve alertness and effiency:

Whether driving a car or not, avoid overtiredness by taking regular coffee breaks.

Organize your day's activities ahead of time. Aim to do what you plan to do, and no more.

If you are driving home, particularly during rush hour, don't try to pick up a few seconds by beating a red light or passing on the right-hand side. The chances you take with your life and others' are not worth the few seconds gained.

When entertaining at home during the holiday season, be sure to serve coffee or tea before your guests leave.

Who is our 3 MILLIONTH customer?

A housewife in Hamilton . . . a youngster in Yarmouth . . . a farmer in Fruitvale?

Frankly, we'd just be guessing. This year our total customers soared above the three-million mark. But which new customer in our network of 875 branches was the one between 2,999,999 and 3,000,001, we have no way of knowing.

But we do know our 3-millionth customer will probably use the B of M in many ways . . . to save for the things he wants, to finance his automobile at low cost, to pay his household bills and to keep his valuables safe.

If he is a businessman, he might use Canada's first bank to finance his day-to-day operations, to pay his employees, to collect and remit money the world over . . . if he is a farmer, "MY BANK" might be called upon to finance new trucks, modern barns and labour-saving electrical equipment.

He's very important to us, that 3-millionth customer. Never before in our long history have we been privileged to serve so many. We number with a good deal of pride those three million expressions of trust from people who call the Bank of Montreal "MY BANK".

Moore Fight Cleroux For Money, Action

MONTREAL (CP)—When Archie Moore climbs into the ring with Bob Cleroux here tonight, he'll be doing so for the money and to keep busy.

But for Cleroux, 23-year-old Canadian heavyweight champion, the fight means more than the short end of the purse.

For Moore, at this stage of his boxing wars, a setback or a victory against a heavyweight has relatively little significance.

But for Cleroux, No. 7 among world heavies, a loss might topple him from the ratings. A win would undoubtedly enhance his stature internationally.

Why, then, did Moore accept the 10-round fight?

His manager-of-record, Jack (Doc) Kearns, who acts more like Moore's press agent than his manager, gave this straightforward answer:

MONEY MAIN REASON

"We took the match for two reasons. First there is money. The deal was just too good to turn down. A second consideration is that someone of Archie's age has to keep active."

Promoter Eddie Quinn has not disclosed the purse split, but reliable sources indicate Moore is guaranteed $50,000 and Cleroux $15,000.

Quinn also announced earlier that he will match the winner here next month with the winner of the Zora Foley - Henry Cooper bout in London, England, tonight.

Although recognized as world light heavyweight champ in New York, Massachusetts and Europe, he has been stripped of recognition by the National Boxing Association.

Moore turned pro in 1936—two years before Cleroux was born—and has had 214 fights. He won 183, a string that covers a record 131 knockouts. The tab also includes 25 losses and six draws.

Cleroux has won 28 of his 31 fights, 23 by knockouts. He lost twice and drew once.

Patterson Has No Killer Instinct

TORONTO (CP) —Heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson, 26, smashed Tom McNeeley, Jr. to the canvas seven times in a title brawl that went four rounds Monday night, then declared:

"I do not have the killer instinct. I don't think I need it."

The New Yorker, relaxing in his stifling dressing room after a ridiculously easy victory, paid tribute to McNeeley as "a man with true courage."

"I have more respect for him now than when I went into the fight," Patterson said. "Each time I hit him, he kept getting up. He had plenty of tight, a lot of courage."

Although the champion was unstinting in his praise of the challenger from Arlington, Mass., he left no doubt that he knew he had his man in the first round.

"He needs experience. Naturally, I was confident before the fight, but I figured I could take him when I got moving in the first round."

WAS 'VICIOUS' ONCE

Patterson said the closest he ever got to getting the killer instinct was in his second battle against Sweden's Ingemar Johanson on June 20, 1960, when he regained his title on a fifth-round knockout.

"But it was different then. Ingemar had taken my title away. I wanted it back. I was vicious.

"But do you need the killer instinct in boxing. I have had 40 fights and won 38 of them without it. After all, this is a sport, not a business. You have to show some consideration to the other fighter.

It was an unusual display of brotherly love and Patterson made no excuses for it even though it was suggested he could get into trouble by leaving himself exposed to an apparently injured opponent.

"Why shouldn't I help him? He was hurt."

Bearcat Wright Seeks Bout With Patterson

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Floyd Patterson received an offer Monday to defend his world heavyweight title against Bearcat Wright, six-foot, seven-inch, 255-pound wrestler and a former undefeated boxer.

The offer came from Willie Gilzenberg, a boxing and wrestling promoter in New Jersey and Florida.

In a wire to Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, in Toronto, Gilzenberg said he would meet all requirements set by D'Amato if Wright could be the next challenger.

As a boxer, Wright fought 27 times. He won all his bouts, mostly by knockouts.

McNeeley Floored Seven Times

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

TORONTO (CP)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson floored Tom McNeeley of Boston seven times Monday night before putting the crude, but game Irishman down for keeps at 2:51 of the fourth round.

The 26-year-old champion, a prohibitive 10-to-1 favorite in Canada's first world heavy title bout, battered the 24-year-old crewcut Irishman in a somewhat wild, free-swinging fight before a crowd of about 8,000 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens.

He dropped McNeeley to the canvas four times in the third round and three times in the fourth, the final coming with a right hook to the head that sprawled the unranked McNeeley to the canvas as referee Jersey Joe Walcott tolled 10.

McNeeley, who predicted he would dethrone the champion in six rounds, tried to make a fight of it, but he was no match for the sharper-punching Patterson who dropped him for the mandatory eight count in the first round and put him on his pants again four times in the third and three in the fight-ending fourth.

Patterson, who has been decked to the canvas on numerous occasions since he first won the vacant title in 1956, almost went down in the third round Monday night when McNeeley, former tackle with Michigan State, was hurt and bleeding.

SLIPS TO HIS KNEES

McNeeley tore after the champ after being knocked down for the third time in the third round with lefts and rights and Patterson slipped to his knees. But Patterson recovered quickly, smashed the crew-cut battler with a left hook to the jaw that sent him sprawling for another eight count.

Another left sent the six-foot-two-inch McNeeley down and lefts and rights in the final seconds of the round sent the challenger sprawling again.

Blood was dripping from a cut around McNeeley's right eye as they came out for the fourth round, but he had the guts and drive to battle the champ punch for punch.

He staggered Patterson with a left to the jaw and the champ went down but was up quickly as referee Jersey Joe Walcott ruled that Patterson had slipped.

That was the beginning of the end for the man who had been undefeated in his 23-fight pro career.

BATTERED TO CANVAS

Patterson battered him to the canvas with lefts and rights and as McNeeley staggered around the ring, the champion banged him down with another left to the face. There was one dying gasp left as McNeeley connected with a right to the head, but it was all over within seconds when Patterson tapped him with a left-right for the 10 count.

That was the end of the mismatch that drew a crowd of 7,813 who paid $106,740 at prices of $50, $30, $20 and $10. And it probably marked the end of title aspirations of the man who hadn't beaten anybody of consequence in his brief 3½ - year career.

With proceeds from closed theatre television in Canada and the United States and movie rights, McNeeley will receive about $75,000, the biggest payday of his career, and the champion about $200,000.

Walcott said he thought too much was at stake to step in and save McNeeley from further punishment before the knockout.

"I thought of stopping it earlier but it looked like McNeeley had a chance to recover," Walcott said. "It was also a championship fight and as long as it looked like he had a chance to continue, it would have been an injustice to stop it until I was sure he couldn't go on further."

SAW TWO SLIPS

Asked why he didn't give McNeeley the mandatory eight-count on two occasions in the third round when McNeeley was on his knees, Walcott said: "When I didn't count I figured it was a slip."

Patterson, unmarked and amazingly fresh, was asked if he would give Sonny Liston a crack at the title. Patterson declined to answer, motioning to manager Cus D'Amato who said:

"Liston can have a fight next week if he wants it. He knows what he must do to get it. It's up to him." He declined to elaborate.

Liston knocked out West Germany's Albert Westphal in the opener of an international doubleheader sponsored by Championship Sports, Inc. Liston knocked out the German in the first round. Fans who attended each fight saw the other bout on screens at ringside.

Liston Knocks Out Westphal In Two Minutes of First Round

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sonny Liston, No. 1 challenger for the heavyweight title, knocked out Germany's Albert Westphal in 1:58 of the first round Monday night.

Liston weighed 212½ and Westphal checked in at 195.

An overwhelming favorite to dispose of Westphal, Liston didn't disappoint his followers in a small turnout at Convention Hall in the first half of a closed circuit television boxing doubleheader.

Floyd Patterson, the heavyweight champion, defended his title against challenger Tom McNeeley in the feature half of the twin-bill in Toronto.

The closed circuit cameras beamed both fights to the respective arenas and to many theatres throughout the U.S. and Canada.

GLOVES TOO SMALL

The scheduled 10-round fight, promoted by Championship Sports Incorporated, was late starting when the gloves provided for Liston were too small for the giant hands of the Philadelphia Negro. But once the mitts were laced on, Liston wasted little time.

Liston chased the German briefly and then smashed him senseless with a right cross to the jaw.

Westphal, twice heavyweight champion of Germany and now his country's fourth - ranked heavy, lay stretched out on the canvas for about three minutes before, handlers brought him around enough to leave the ring.

The right hand was the first solid punch the Philadelphia heavyweight threw. There was nothing deceptive about it. Liston didn't even set up the manoeuvre. Westphal dropped his guard for a moment and suddenly he fell as if hit with an axe.

The knockout punch travelled about six inches, ending what almost all pre - fight observers had labelled a mismatch from the day the fight was announced.

This was the 28 - year - old Liston's 33rd victory in 34 fights and his 23rd knockout. Beaten only once, by Martin Marshall of Detroit, Liston evened the score by twice defeating Marshall.

Liston earned $75,000 for his brief night's work, while Westphal collected $12,000, and $1,750 in expenses.

The German apparently didn't expect to produce any upset as he admitted in pre - fight talk he came for the money and with the idea he had everything to gain and nothing to lose if he struck a lucky blow.

"Patterson Can Hurt You With His Left Hand"

TORONTO (CP)—"That Patterson can really hurt you with his left hand," said challenger Tom McNeeley in his dressing room after he lost to the heavyweight champion on a fourth-round knockout in Monday night's title bout.

"Who ever tells you that Floyd Patterson can't hit, tell him to see me," McNeeley told a crowd of reporters and photographers who crowded around the dressing table on which he was sitting.

Patterson went down on one knee briefly in the final round and McNeeley disagreed with reporters who thought the champion had merely slipped.

"That was no slip," the 24-year - old outclassed slugger said. "I really hit him."

"I tried to finish it then but Patterson was too elusive."

McNeeley's manager, Peter Fuller, figured his boy had his only chance then but he had taken a pounding.

"Tom wasn't fresh enough to do the rest of the job," Fuller said.

The challenger added: "That was my chance but I couldn't capitalize on it."

TRIED LONG RANGE

McNeeley said he planned to box Patterson at fairly long range, watching for an opening. That didn't work as the champion danced away. "So I hoped to get inside on Patterson," McNeeley added, "and use my right hand on him but I really didn't have a chance. The guy was too fast."

"Do you plan to give up the ring now that you've had your shot at the title," Tom was asked.

"No," was his quick reply. "I'm a fighter and I'm going to keep on fighting."

Fuller said he had no regrets at matching McNeeley, who had only 23 previous pro bouts, with the champion.

Dressen May Sign as Tiger 'Troubleshooter'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Charlie Dressen may soon sign with Detroit Tigers as a "troubleshooter" — a term used by baseball people for a scout on a major league level.

The former major league manager, still hopeful of landing a coaching job with either New York Mets or San Francisco Giants, has promised to give Tiger manager Bob Scheffing an answer within a week.

Dressen, discharged as manager by Milwaukee Braves Sept. 2 has been unsuccessful in his efforts to get the job he is seeking.

"I've had offers from three clubs," Dressen said, "but I'm not certain that's what I want. I still feel I can be of more help to a club as a coach."

The Giants apparently thought so, too — for a while. They weighed the decision for some 24 hours, then manager Alvin Dark decided against it. There is still a chance that he might change his mind.

There was no hesitation on Casey Stengel's part. The old skipper of the Mets wanted to hire Dressen, who succeeded him as manager at Oakland back in 1949, but he could not get George Weiss, the head of the New York club, to go along with him. Casey hasn't given up, however.

The same thing happened at Los Angeles. Angels' manager Bill Rigney desired Chuck, recognized as one of the best third base coaches in the business, but general manager Fred Haney turned thumbs down. Haney preceded Dressen as Milwaukee manager.

Pressures of Pro Clubs Reverse Hockey Players Set of Values

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Father Dave Bauer says junior hockey players should be allowed to enjoy the game without the win-at-any-cost pressures and long, arduous schedules imposed by sponsoring professional clubs.

The 37-year-old priest who last year coached Toronto St. Michael's College Majors to the Memorial Cup said these pressures cause players to acquire a reverse set of values.

Referring particularly to the top junior leagues, he said the conditions rob many young men of the opportunity to get academic and vocational training, leaving many no alternative but to pursue a professional hockey career.

Father Bauer, now teaching at St. Mark's Roman Catholic College at the University of British Columbia, has severed his ties with hockey, at least for this year.

Asked by a reporter to state some of his thoughts on junior hockey, he said the game, if played according to the rules, is an artistic sport through which a youth, properly directed, can acquire tremendous self-discipline while still having a lot of fun.

DEMANDS OF PROS

But if this benefit was to be realized, excessive professionalism would have to be removed from Junior A hockey.

"Because hockey has such an impact on our youth in Canada, it would seem that those in charge would think long and hard about the manner in which it is conducted."

Under complete pro sponsorship, major junior teams were stocked with the best young players from across the country. Financially, it became essential to have long schedules and win-at-any-price attitudes.

The schedules were so time-consuming that players had to neglect academic education The emphasis on winning resulted in disproportionate concertration on physical strength and neglect of finer skills, development of which helped produce strength of character in the individual.

Father Bauer said he believes in paying more attention to the techniques of finesse and less to the board - thumping bodily contact.

"If the player perfects these techniques which are so productive of great team spirit, he has acquired a tremendous self-discipline within the framework of enjoyment in his endeavor."

MORE STUDY TIME

This kind of coaching didn't sap so much of the boy's physical energy and time that he had none left for study.

Father Bauer said he would like to see junior hockey played in small towns across the country, with schedules short enough to allow players time for education and with regulations to prevent stocking teams with players from across the land.

"You can produce good skills and great players without a lot of games. Howie Morenz, Doug Harvey, Ted Lindsay, Gord Howe, Syl Apps, Maurice Richard — they all offer proof of this. They were nurtured on very short schedules."

The junior player should be protected in some way from excessive professional interference until he had reached a stage where he could make a mature decision on his future.

"Allowed time to develop his education along with his game, the young player and his parents could then decide intelligently whether it was best for society, himself and the game for him to go on to university, follow some other vocation, or turn to professional hockey."

No Place Like Home Finds British Soccer Player

LONDON (CP)—When Jimmy Greaves left Milan not long ago Pagliacci was playing that city's opera house. The soccer player and Leoncavallo's pathetic clown have a lot in common.

Greaves in the last few months has clowned his way through a well - publicized soccer burlesque. His occasional outbursts from the confines of Milan Football Club might have been more like those of a temperamental prima donna than a talented soccer player.

Now that he's back in England a general sign of relief has been heard all around British soccer where sympathy was fast turning into annoyance.

The curtain on this serio-comic drama rose last June when 21-year-old Greaves was transferred from Chelsea, the First Division club, to Milan. The wealthy Italians paid Chelsea a £100,00 transfer fee, and also handed Greaves a cheque for £5,000.

DIDN'T FIT

But it didn't take Greaves long to discover there is no place like home. The likeable young Londoner didn't fit into the racy, commercial life of top-flight Italian soccer.

He was upset by the strange food, could'n't grasp the language and above all found the discipline of coach Nereo Rocco too strict.

Even the high salary, a rent-free apartment and promises of future wealth couldn't appease the Cockney's desire to return home.

Finally, after incidents that occasioned some fines and discredit, the club put him up for sale with a price tag of £110,000.

Only two British clubs could afford such a fee—Chelsea, his former club, and Tottenham Hotspur. After three weeks of wrangling Chelsea dropped out of contention, and on Nov. 18 Greaves signed for Tottenham. Spurs' manager Bill Nicholson succeeded in reducing the fee to £95,000.

LEAGUE INQUIRY

But the final chapter is still to come. The English Football League won't register Greaves until it has held a full inquiry into the whole business.

How will Greaves come out of this investigation? Many blame the Italian agents for painting surrealist pictures of the wealth in their soccer. They see Graves as a youngster unaware of the pitfalls in a foreign country.

The other faction argues that nobody forced Greaves to leave Chelsea, and that he succumbed to the lure of the lire. They note that four other Britons playing in Italy are raising no fuss.

Safe Driving Week Off To Good Start

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A relatively quiet third day has kept the total number of traffic deaths so far in Canada's Safe Driving Week well below last year's toll for the first three days.

Three people were killed in traffic accidents across Canada on Sunday bringing the number dead since the week started on Friday to 21.

In 1960, 20 deaths made the week's third day—a Saturday—its worst and raised the total for the first three days to 35. For three years before that the three-day total was close to this year's—one less in 1959 and three less in 1957 and 1958.

The purpose of the week, sponsored by the Canaian Highway safety Conference, is to promote safety - consciousness among drivers during the year's most fatality-prone month. It has been held Dec. 1-7 since it was begun in 1950.

Although all provinces but Nova Scotia (one) and Ontario (two) were fatality-free on Sunday, only Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan have had no traffic deaths for the three days.

Grey Cup Did Not Stop Voters Voting

GLEN ORCHARD, Ont. (CP) Grey Cup day or not, summer residents drove north to the polling stations in sufficient numbers Saturday to win control of the Medora and Wood Township council.

Urged by a cottagers' association to protect the values of their high-priced holiday homes in this Muskoka district resort area, the summer residents elected three of their members to the five-man council.

J. E. Wright, president of the Medora and Wood Ratepayers Association which represents year-round residents, said Sunday night the association plans to challenge the election. He said an injunction may be sought from a county judge.

The cottagers outnumber permanent residents in the township. An estimated 500 travelled here Saturday and polling was heavy when voting started at 10 a.m. EST. It appeared many Toronto and Hamilton residents voted early, then returned to Toronto for the football game.

Their votes were enough to elect the three Toronto men running — executive R. C. Dobson, who headed the polls with 561 votes; W. J. Bushnell, a chartered accountant, third with 514; and J. G. Housser, an investment dealer who was fourth with 498.

Harold S. White, a wood contractor in the township, was the only year-round resident elected councillor. He placed second with 527 votes. Four others were defeated.

Behind the battle for control of council is the Medora and Wood Association's campaign to influence township development and protect the value of its members' properties.

The association has said it doesn't want industries, trailer camps, tent colonies or marinas set up among the expensive summer homes. The members say they aren't against the projects, so long as they go up in defined areas near township municipalities.

MIGHT BRIDGE

The Golden Gate suspension bridge with a span of 4,200 feet across San Francisco Bay was completed in 1937.

COLUMBUS LEADS PCSL

VANCOUVER (CP) — Columbus Sunday downed North Shore 4-2 before 2,000 fans in a Pacific Coast League Soccer Contest. The win gave Columbus 16 points with two games still to play in the league race. Victoria United is two points back with one game to play.

European Judo Team Beats Asia, Americas

PARIS (AP) — The European judo team defeated both Asia and the Americas Sunday in team competition at the international judo championships.

The Europeans took four matches to Asia's three, and five matches to two for the Americas.

In the Europe - Americas results, Wolfgang Ehler, West Germany, won by decision over Manfreid Matt, Vancouver.

Anton Geesick of Holland defeated Koji Sone of Japan in Saturday's competition to take individual honors. Sone, the former world champion, eliminated Matt in a fourth-round bout.

The second Canadian competitor, Hank Jensen of Toronto, was eliminated earlier.

FRESHWATER AREAS

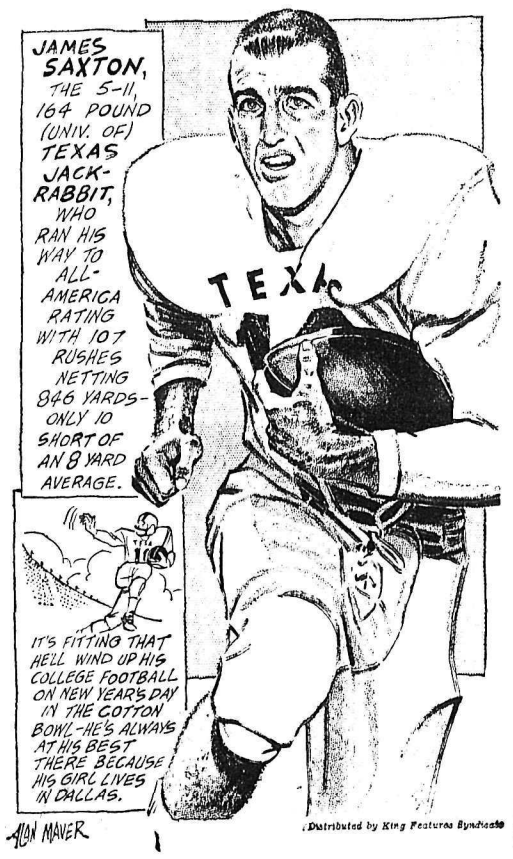
COTTON BOWL NEXT - - By Alan Maver



Maple Street needs another Volkswagen.

When you own a Volkswagen, you can expect company after a snow storm. Inquisitive company. They'll want to know why your car got through the drifts, and theirs didn't.

There's no trick to it. A Volkswagen has its engine in the rear where it does the most good. The extra weight over the drive wheels provides an amazing amount of traction, even on icy hills. When you want to stop safely, but in a hurry, the VW's traction keeps you out of trouble.

Another blessing in cold weather is the VW's air-cooled engine. There's no water, so there's no need for anti-freeze. You don't even need a garage. (If your Volkswagen won't start in sub-zero weather, check the gas gauge.)

Look underneath a conventional car and you'll find wires and rods and whatnot. In deep snow they can be a drag, and they can be damaged. The underside of a Volkswagen is completely covered with a smooth sheet of metal. There's nothing to hold you back but your own caution.

So, if clearing a snow-filled driveway is not for you, make friends with a Volkswagen owner. Or, better still, a Volkswagen dealer.

VOLKSWAGEN CANADA LTD.

If you want to trade in your shovel on a new Volkswagen, this is your nearest dealer. He operates one of 346 VW outlets across Canada.

PARKVIEW MOTORS LTD.

Trade between nations is a two-way street. West Germany is one of Canada's best customers. And every Volkswagen sold in this country helps Canada to sell Germany more Canadian goods.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Good news about steels and autos and bad news about heavy electrical equipment companies and savings and loans accompanied an irregularly rising stock market Monday. Trading was heavy.

Steels advanced in response to reports of mounting orders for steel. Ford advanced 1¾ to touch a high and other motors were mostly steady as auto assemblies for December were predicted to reach the highest December level since 1955.

The West Coast savings and loan stocks were battered by selling as news came that the U.S. government is allowing commercial banks to pay interest rates as high as four per cent on savings and time deposits effective Jan. 1, thus setting up tougher competition.

General Electric weakened in late trading and closed with a loss of 3¼ while other electrical equipments backed away moderately on balance. After the close came news that GE was one of the targets of damage suits by utility companies against 21 electrical equipment manufacturers because of price rigging.

LIST HIGHER

The list was higher on balance from the start and remained that way although prices were being clipped in heavy trading at the close. Turnover for the day was 4,560,000 shares compared with 4,420,000 on Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.42 to 731.22. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .30 to 266.60.

On the Canadian list, Hudson Bay Mining added ½ and Dome Mines ¼, McIntyre Porcupine was off ⅜ and Distillers Seagrams ⅛.

On the American Exchange, Preston was up ¼ while losses of minor fractions went to Shawinigan, Eureka, and Sapphire Petroleums.

TORONTO (CP) —Industrials spurted ahead to a record index high in a late-day burst during moderately heavy trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday.

The index, a 20-stock cross-section of market leaders, reached 613.52, ahead 1.52, its highest point since the initial compilation in 1934.

The upward swing came on the strength of widespread fractional gains among steels, refining oils and banks and financial institutions. A few issues, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Guaranty Trust and Dominion Bridge among them, gained $1 or more, but in the main, rises were small.

Bank of Nova Scotia and Dominion Bridge both reached new highs with hefty gains, but later declined.

DUFAULT DOWN

Speculatives were down on the whole. Lake Dufault spearheaded the slide with a 45-cent loss to $9.80 on volume of 54,975 shares.

On index, golds fell .53 to 91.73, base metals 1.67 to 213.20 and western oils .01 to 109.00. The final volume was 3,995,000 shares compared with 5,325,000 Friday.

The senior base metals list was generally down with Falconbridge off 1¼. Consolidated Mining and Smelting dropped ½.

Gold trade was light and sporadic.

Western oil trade was steady in the senior list with Great Plains, Home A and B and Hudson's Bay Oil all ahead as much as ¼. Among speculative oils, Sarcee Petroleum gained seven cents to $1.02 with volume of 31,500 shares.

MONTREAL (CP)—Dominion Bridge jumped 1½ to 241½ on a turnover of more than 18,000 shares to feature trading on the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges Monday.

Rumors that the company would merge with Algoma Steel pushed the price up. Last week the issue rose two points in heavy trading.

Prices were generally a shade higher, and the industrial and combined averages edged to new 1961 highs. The market was broad, with 309 issues traded.

Industrial trading was heavy, at 194,100 shares. Mining turnover was moderately heavy, at 840,000 shares.

Among the prominent gainers, Bathurst A advanced 1½ to 55, Moore Corporation increased a point to 54¾, Canadian Vickers gained 1⅜ to 22⅞ and Consolidated Paper rose ½ to 43½.

B.A. Oil rose ⅜ to 35⅝ in heavy trading and Algoma Steel recovered from an early loss of ¼ to add ½ to 48¾.

JAMAICA OFF TWO

Among the losers, Jamaica Public Service dropped two points to 48, Canada Iron at 22 and Royal Bank at 82½ each dipped one point, Canadian Oil fell 1⅛ to 34 and Southam lost a point to 32.

In mines, Lake Dufault fell 40 cents to $9.85.

In western oils, Dome Pete fell ¾ to 13¼, Home A at 12¼ and Home B at 12 each gained ¼ and Pacific Pete eased ⅛ to 12⅜.

On index, banks were off 0.05 at 72.35, utilities up 0.1 at 144.6, industrials up 0.1 at 337.1, combined up 0.1 to 273.0, papers unchanged at 501.3 and golds up 0.34 at 86.57.

MIGHT RETALIATE

LONDON (AP)—Sir Grantley Adams, premier of the West Indies Federation, warned Monday that Britons might be barred from some West Indian territories in retaliation against Britain's Immigration bill. The immigration bill, due for debate in Parliament this week, set up Britain's first restrictions on entry of Commonwealth citizens into the United Kingdom.

World Briefs

WOLFSBURG (Reuters)—The Volkswagen firm Monday made European automobile history when its 5,000,000th vehicle came off the production line here, the first time a European car firm has reached such a target.

BOYCOTT OPENING

ATHENS (Reuters) — King Paul Monday officially opened Greece's newly-elected Parliament as about a third of the 300 legislators boycotted the ceremony. The opposition Union of the Centre's 78 representatives and about 24 members of the pro-Communist Pan-Democratic Agrarian Front did not attend, protesting against the "election coup" in October Which, it claims, brought the National Radical Union to power through "violence and fraud."

TRAIN SLOWDOWN

LONDON (Reuters) — Thousands of workers travelling into London from the south were delayed Monday morning because of a slowdown by railroad workers wanting settlement of pay-and-hours demand. Delays snowballed until some trains were as much as 90 minutes late. More than 200 trains were affected.

Separatist Leader Resigns Defence Research Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Marcel Chaput, 43-year-old head of a Quebec separatist movement, resigned from the Defence Research Board Monday after being suspended for two weeks for disobeying board instructions.

Dr. Chaput, a biochemist with DRB, announced his resignation in a statement to the press when he arrived at this office. He then called on Dr. N. W. Morton, chief of personnel for DRB, and handed in his resignation.

In his statement, Dr. Chaput said that even if he still maintained the opinion that a federal government employee could support the idea of a separate state for Quebec "I must recognize that my public activities create an uneasiness in any environment."

"Moreover," he said, "as the next federal election is near, I want to avoid my personal case becoming the plaything of politics."

Dr. Chaput was suspended from DRB Nov. 20 for flouting a board order refusing him leave from his job to speak in Quebec City Nov. 17 on the aims of separatism.

At that time Dr. John Keyston, acting chairman of DRB, said Dr. Chaput was suspended for "wilful disobedience" of a board decision.

The outspoken advocate of a separate state for Quebec said in his statement that he resigned "firstly and before anything else to devote myself completely to the cause of independence for Quebec."

Dr. Chaput is president of Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale, one of the most active organizations supporting Quebec's secession from Confederation.

Dr. Chaput's statement said that during the last few months the organization he heads has expanded greatly. He said it must have a permanent structure, an essential condition for its success.

He said he will assume leadership of the organization on a fulltime basis.

His statement said that in resigning he does not yield to the pressures of DRB or the government. He was resigning "of my own accord, without rancour for my superiors."

In announcing Dr. Chaput's suspension two weeks ago, Dr. Keyston said that the Quebec separatist would not be fired for his defiance of the board's refusal to grant him leave.

Dr. Keyston said the two-week suspension was designed as a "total punishment." It was "straight disciplinary action."

Dr. Chaput's decision to resign brought to an end a running battle he has had with the board over the last six months.

Last June Dr. Keyston invited Dr. Chaput to resign after the biochemist told a Hull, Que. audience that if the movement he heads continues to expand at its present rate Quebec will secede from Confederation before Canada's 100th birthday in 1967. Dr. Chaput refused.

Dr. Keyston said that he "regarded it as morally and ethically inconsistent that anyone should publicly urge the disruption of the federal government while continuing to be employed by the government."

Dr. Chaput was also criticized by Dr. Keyston for describing Remembrance Day as "the gloomy celebration of British and Anglo-Canadian imperialism."

East Berliners Work on Anti-Tank Emplacements

HEIDELBERG (Reuters)—A U.S. Army battle group moved from its base in the Augsburg area of West Germany early Monday for Berlin where it will replace the group now reinforcing the garrison there, the army announced here.

Army headquarters said the battle group of the 19th Infantry numbered about 1,500 men, the strength of the first battle-group of the 18th Infantry it was relieving.

It was announced Friday that the battle group of the 18th Infantry, which went to Berlin a week after East German authorities sealed the East-West Berlin border in August, would return to its base in the Mannheim area of West Germany when it was relieved.

Both battle groups will move along the autobahn linking Berlin and Helmstedt, West Germany, through East German territory.

Soviet authorities were informed of the proposed movements along the autobahn.

Last Thursday the Soviet news agency Tass charged American troop movements along the road were "provocative."

RECORD SET

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jerry McGourlick of Vancouver set four records in the B.C. Open weightlifting championships at the weekend. With a total lift of 745 pounds in three middleweight sections, he also gained the tournament's best lifter award.

Traffic Deaths Lower In Weekend Count

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic deaths were comparatively low during the weekend as Canadiens across the country apparently styed home to watch the televised Grey Cup football game instead of taking advantage of good driving weather.

A Canadian Press survey of accidental deaths counted a total of 21 from 6 p.m. Friday to Sunday midnight. There were 15 traffic fatalities.

There were three drownings, all in Ontario, a death by fire and a hunting fatality in Prince Edward Island and British Columbia.

Individual provincial figures, with traffic deaths bracketed: Ontario 7 (4), Nova Scotia 3 (3), Quebec 3 (3), British Columbia 3 (2), Prince Edward Island 2 (0), Manitoba 2 (2), Alberta 1 (1), Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan 0.

The survey does not include natural deaths, slayings, known suicides or industrial accidents.

NOT HAPPIEST DAY OF HER LIFE

VANCOUVER (CP) — For 18 months Jean Pirinis, 28, worked as a kitchen maid and saved every dollar to bring her boy frined from Salonica, Greece.

On Saturday she and George Haropoulos, 31, were married.

During the reception the bride returned to her suite to change her clothes and found the house in flames.

The fire destroyed her clothes and the couple's wedding gifts. She was left with $80 and a rented wedding gown.

Her husband speaks no English and has no job.

"At last we got married," said Mrs. Haropoulos. "Then on the happiest day of my life I lost everything."

Booklet Tells School Needs

Taxpayers in Nelson School District No. 7 have received in the mail a booklet outlining the need of a yes vote on the $829,000 school referendum.

Taxpayers will vote on the referendum December 7.

One half of the sum will be paid by the provincial government while Nelson's share of the other half will be $191,291, or 46.15 per cent; the rural area, $213,218 or 51.44 per cent, and Salmo, $9,991 or 2.41 per cent.

The school board has reiterated that the referendum will mean an increase of less than one mill.

"In the past year of 1961 in the City of Nelson a reduction in the school tax levy of approximately 1 1/3 mills occurred. Any reduction in property taxes was a direct result of a lower school tax levy. This referendum will not increase taxes to the tax level prior to 1961," the booklet says.

Funds from the referendum will be utilized in renovating some present school while adding additions to others and creating entirely new elementary schools.

A majority of 60 per cent vote in favor is required to pass the referendum.

Odds... and Ends
... by M. D. B.

Love for old things and the will to preserve this area's early history have prompted a small group of public-minded citizens to forge ahead in establishing the Kootenay Museum. The society, pushed from pillar to post, has shown remarkable tenacity in the pursuit of its goal and is finally settled in a permanent home a little off the beaten track perhaps, but a permanent home, nonetheless.

* * *

The curious quirk of human nature is that people will go to another city and with brochures, maps and other paraphernalia, will seek out that city's point's of interest, but at home — that is a different matter. How often do you hear people in Victoria admit they've never been out to their famous gardens, seen their waxworks or visited their marine museum? And it is the same in Vancouver. I have even heard of Londoners who have never visited the Tower of London. Often people do not know of the fascinating points of their own town until they have encountered them while escorting visitors around. Well let us hope it will not be so with the museum, for it is certainly worth inspecting.

* * *

I understand a few of the old lamp standards are to be installed around it to brighten the area and now that it has become entirely respectable there is no reason for delaying a visit. When I stopped by I was surprised at how far it had come from its tentative beginnings with as interesting exhibits as you would find in any of the larger museums all carefully marked with informative captions in large type.

* * *

In the various cases can be seen old mining equipment, a primitive assaying outfit, a map of the Dewdney Trail and a collection of Dewdney documents as well as the uniform worn by Edgar Dewdney, once Lieutenant-Governor of B.C. Hanging on the wall are his snowshoes, indicating the scope of the man who helped mold B.C. history.

* * *

A case of Haida Indian handcrafts — basket and beadwork — depicts the industry and artistry of the earlier residents of this land and an Indian man, his wife and baby all stand in their beautiful buckskin costumes. A display of arrowheads, loaned to the museum by Graham Avis, will prove interesting to many as well as the stone tools — sinkers, pemican pounder, hammers and scrapers.

* * *

One room is completely decked out in 19th century furnishings, with ladies dressed in olden styles bending over a beautifully turned and molded wooden cradle. An ancient organ believed to be close to 150 years old, heavily framed pictures, quaint old vases, lamp and clock and articles of brass and silver all add to the atmosphere of the "parlor" scene.

* * *

There is also a nature room with interesting, moth, butterfly and birds' eggs collections. These are only a few of the varied and interesting exhibits worth viewing by children and adults alike.

You are industrious, ambitious, a natural salesman, and when educated and developed are a brisk able manager, lawyer, doctor, actor. May be tendency to disregard diplomacy especial-when trying to finish something quickly. Even though you don't mean it, this has effect on fellowmen. You rarely miss your goal or objective because your intuitive actions plus coordination lead to proper execution of plans. Aim to keep improving self, and to take the world and its trials philosophically. Birthdate of: Warren Hastings, 1st Gov. "Ghost" Mum When Police Take Over MENA, Ark. (AP)—It's going to take more than ghosts to run farmer C. E. Shinn off the land he's occupied for 46 years.

Shinn, 72, his wife and their grandson moved out of their five - room house Saturday night for a rest after the antics of a mischievous "ghost" left them sleepless.

They moved back in Sunday and Shinn said he was going to stay.

"We just don't believe in ghosts," he said. "When something is done, humans have to do it."

For more than a year, something has been bothering the Shinns in their house. They say: The family Bible floats through the living room; furniture is suddenly overturned; chairs fly from the kitchen into the living room; two figurines were smashed against the back of Shinn's head.

TALKS TO GHOST

Charles Elbert Shaeffer, 15, the grandson who lives with the elderly couple, says the cover has been jerked off his bed in the middle of the night—when there apparently was no one else in the room.

And Shinn said his wife talk to the "ghost."

Awakened one night by howling and hissing sounds, Shinn said, Mrs. Shinn, 70, asked whatever it was to be quiet. It didn't. Then she asked it to go to sleep.

"I don't sleep," came the reply, Shinn said.

"Will you let me sleep?" Mrs. Shinn asked.

"You don't need to sleep either," was the answer.

The Shinns are not too frightened. They say the "ghost hasn't attempted to harm them.

Saturday night, the Shinns went to stay with relatives and sheriff Bruce Scoggins took three officers and four reporters to spend the night in the house. They neither saw nor heard anything out of the ordinary.

Katanga Gov't Threatens U.N. Planes

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) The Katanga province government has threatened to shoot down any United Nations planes flying over the secessionist province, George Ivan Smith, acting chief UN representative here said Monday.

Smith said this information was given to him Sunday night by Katanga Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba.

He added: "We regard this as very grave statement."

Smith also told reporters one Swedish UN driver was shot dead and a captain and sergeant badly wounded by Katanga police at an incident by a roadblock in Elisabethville Sunday night.

The wounded men were in a hospital.

Smith said Kimba claimed a concentration of UN planes had been built up in the central Congolese government capital of Leopoldville and the acting UN chief replied that this was probably part of normal troop movements.

He also delivered an "emphatic protest" about the holding of 15 UN personnel and Kimba retorted by inquiring about the fate of 20 Katanga policemen he claimed were missing after clash between UN and Katanga forces at the airport here Saturday night.

RESULTS IN UNREST

Kimba said the airport incident, which the UN claims started when a UN sentry went to the aid of a Negro woman being molested by a drunken Katanga policeman, resulted in current unrest here.

The acting UN chief said that he repeated to Kimba that no Katanga police were being held and none had been killed in the airport incident in which there was an exchange of shots.

He said that an Italian UN Red Cross ambulance driver who was captured by the Katangans Saturday night has been released and said there were other UN personnel being held at the headquarters of the Katanga police.

Smith said there now were 11 Swedes missing as well as two Norwegians; one Argentinian and Indian Maj. Arjeet Singh, who has been missing since last Tuesday.

Slippery Roads Boost Accidents

Slippery road conditions boosted traffic accidents in the Nelson city and district over the weekend.

Icy road conditions were fingered as the cause of two car accidents in the district Sunday.

A vehicle driven by Mrs. Evelyn H. Derraugh of Nelson left the road on Taghum Hill after hitting a slippery road while a vehicle driven by E. M. Stanko hit the ditch after striking an icy patch on Granite Road.

No one was seriously injured in either accident.

Sunday afternoon a vehicle going south on Stanley Street and driven by J. D. McConnachie of Nelson struck an icy patch when making a right turn on to Hall Mines Road. The vehicle collided with one driven by Olaf Bennett of the city. Minor damage resulted.

Friday night a car driven by J. K. De Kock of Nelson collided with one driven by Dean Martel of Nelson on Baker Street near the corner of Hall Street.

Friday evening a vehicle driven by Charlie Burdette, heading south on Stanley Street, collided with a vehicle driven by Donald H. Long of the city, who was heading west on Victoria Street.

I do not wish to enter into the present political contest with the intention of smearing any individual as Alderman Van Maarion and Alderman Harts chose to do last evening in their radio addresses to you. I have read and listened with interest to the irresponsible and misleading statements that have been published and recently broadcast. My reply to that criticism is:

The assaults that are made upon a leader in municipal government are as old as human nature. They arise in spiteful little voices out of fear and envy, ambition and selfishness. The only way to avoid them is to be obscure.

If elected, it is my hope to restore dignity and prestige to the Council Chambers. This, I feel, we can do this year if you, the voters, will choose to elect me, with three good aldermen who have the same objective.

Place your confidence in a man who has given you 4 years of progress.
