BCE Net Profit $15,583,941 In 8 Months

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia Electric Company made a net profit of $15,583,941 in its first eight months as a government agency.

Premier Bennett issued the company release—last report under the B.C. Electric label — Friday, as part of a provincial government midsummer financial review that included a stocktaking of other agencies.

Mr. Bennett reported the province's indirect debt — money that will liquidate itself — at $1,341,677,875. He says B.C. has no direct debt.

The government budget, independent of crown agencies, had a $10,481,954 surplus at March 31 with revenue of $340,226,341.

In its Power Development Act of Aug. 1, 1961, the provincial government took over B.C. Electric and in March this year wiped out the BCE name with amendments to the August act that merged BCE and the B.C. Power Commission into the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

STILL IN COURT

B.C. Power Corporation is still contesting the original takeover legislation in the courts and the assets of B.C. Electric are in the hands of a receiver.

Mr. Bennett, in whose name the final report was issued, reported BCE had gross revenues in the August-March period of $77,463,899. Expenses were $61,879,958.

Big government increases in revenue came from the sale of mineral rights, the five per cent sales tax, gas tax and liquor sales.

Mineral revenues were up $5,000,000 from 1961 to $20,736,878; gas and oil tax up $9,000,000 to $41,200,000: sales tax up $5,000,000 to $89,891,938; and liquor up $1,000,000 to $28,600,000.

The crown agencies were the big losers. The B.C. Electric takeover accounted for $604,936,832; toll authority $98,317,810; Pacific Great Eastern Railway $118,111,287; minicipal and school bonds $251,642,941 and the University Student Loan Fund $977,772.

Hog Cholera Battled In Ontario

OTTAWA (CP) — A squad of veterinarians turned detectives are fighting against time to stamp out a prairie-fire outbreak of hog cholera before it gets a firm foothold in central Canadian hog farms.

So far, more than 7000 hogs on 38 Ontario and Quebec farms have been herded into trenches, shot and buried in the campaign to stamp out the infection.

Hog cholera is highly contagious and swiftly fatal for swine. It doesn't affect humans, though health authorities are advising that pork be well cooked to help prevent spread of the disease.

The current outbreak has been traced to one farm in eastern Ontario's Glengarry County where officials say the farmer — a part-time chef in a restaurant — fed food scraps from the restaurant to his pigs.

In the scraps was some raw pork from the United States. And the United States — unlike Canada — tries to live with hog cholera on its farms rather than trying to stamp it out.

Peru Junta Seeks U.S. Recognition

LIMA (AP) — The chief of Peru's military junta appealed Friday for U. S. recognition of his regime.

In his first interview since the overthrow of president Manuel Prado on Wednesday, Gen. Ricardo Perez Godoy said, "I want no commitments from the U.S. —only consideration and to be recognized."

The 56-year-old Junta head spoke as the U. S. cut off its military assistance program in addition to a suspension of millions of dollars in economc aid.

"We are seeking to preserve democracy," Perez Godoy declared.

Earlier, the military cabinet met to plan a counter-offensive against growing attacks at home and abroad aginst the dictatorship.

Only Alternative, Herridge Asserts

SASKATOON (CP)—H. W. Herridge, CCF-NDP parliamentary leader in the last House of Commons, said Friday his party represents the only alternative to the political dictatorship of communism and the economic dictatorship of capitalism.

The New Democratic Party member for Kootenay West was speaking at the annual convention of the CCF Saskatchewan section of the NDP.

He said he considered himself as "caretaker until Tommy Arrives" rather than parliamentary leader.

This was a reference to NDP national leader T. C. Douglas, who was defeated in the June 18 federal election. Mr. Douglas is expected to run in a by-election in Burnaby-Coquitlam riding following the resignation of the elected NDP member, Erhart Regier. No date has been set for the byelection.

Red China, U.S. Ministers Meet

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

GENEVA (CP) — The foreign ministers of Communist China and the United States met briefly Friday night at a reception held by Canada a few hours after External Affairs Minister Green arrived from Ottawa to attend conferences on Laos and disarmament.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and China's Chen Yi mingled with others at the get-together which included representatives of all the countries in the 14-nation Laos conference and the 17-nation disarmament talks now in session here.

Laos takes over the spotlight from disarmament today as ministers deliver statements preparatory to signing a projected agreement Monday.

Informed sources said the agreement calls for withdrawal of all foreign military forces from Laos within 65 days.

The signers will be called upon to endorse an "agreement" and a "protocol"—the protocol spelling out in detail aspects of the agreement.

RULES OUT ALLIANCES

The agreement, which would be binding on the 13 countries excluding Laos—whose contending factions have agreed on a neutrality approach — rules out military alliances by any of the 13 with Laos and calls for the withdrawal of foreign troops and the closing of foreign military bases.

The protocol sets time limits on the withdrawal of foreign military personnel from Laos, stating that this includes advisers, experts, instructors and technicians.

Green described the Laotian agreement as being "very helpful in world affairs."

Canada Poland and India played a special role in the Laos settlement. They make up the International Control Commission set up to see that terms of the agreement are carried out.

Coyne to Appear At Commission

OTTAWA (CP) — James E. Coyne will appear before the Royal commission on banking and finance in the fall, it was learned Friday.

It will be his first public appearance since a year ago when he resigned as governor of the Bank of Canada after a running battle with the government, which tried unsuccessfully to have Parliament fire him.

Mr. Coyne, who has since moved to Toronto, will return to Ottawa at the commission's request to discuss central banking. Appearing about the same time will be Graham Towers of Toronto, the bank governor from 1935 to 1954.

Both will precede the present bank governor, Louis Rasminsky, before the commission. Dates have not yet been set.

MOVE ON DRUGS

BELFAST (AP) —The British Medical Association acted Friday to block the free flow of untried drugs in Britain—the kind that have maimed hundreds of newborn babies.

COUNCIL BACKS LLOYD

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The Kamloops Labor Council has supported Saskatchewan Premier Woodrow Lloyd's stand in his government's battle with doctors over the Medical Care Act. The council also endorsed Vancouver Labor Council's demand for new legislation to remove "the life and death" power held by B.C. doctors.

WOMAN GIVEN SIX MONTHS IN JAIL

CALGARY (CP) — A young woman from Williams Lake Friday was sentenced to six months in jail for her part in the violent robbery of an elderly man.

Court was told that Donna Vanes, 22, accompanied the elderly man to his hotel room and two men entered later. The elderly man was "roughed up" and his attackers left with $50 in cash and his watch.

Burt Lloyd, who admitted a lengthy police record, was sentenced to two years imprisonment on a charge of violent robbery in connection with the same incident and Edward Carl Quaranto pleaded not guilty to a similar charge and was remanded to July 27.

Stove Explodes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Claire Walker, about 36, staggered out of her apartment here Friday and shouted: "Get me an ambulance, The gas stove blew up." She suffered severe burns in the blast which knocked a wall three inches out of line.

UN Members Responsible For Congo Costs, Court Advises

Judges From Five Countries In World Court Vote 9-5

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The World Court advised the general assembly Friday that all United Nations members should help pay for the organization's costly peace-keeping operations in The Congo and the Middle East.

The decision at The Hague set the stage for a critical assembly debate on whether to uphold the court's opinion and revoke the voting power of any nation falling more than two years behind in its UN dues for those operations and the regular budget.

The vote on the advisory opinion was 9 to 5—with judges from the Soviet Union, Poland France, Argentina and Peru in opposition.

The Soviet Union has served notice in advance it will not heed the court's opinion. Supporting the decision were judges from Australia, Britain, Nationalist China, Greece, Italy, Japan, Panama, the United Arab Republic and the United States. Mexico's judge was absent.

The United States hailed the decision as one "of fundamental importance to international law and to the present and future capacity of the United Nations to maintain peace."

STRENGTHENS KENNEDY

It was regarded as certain to strengthen President Kennedy's hand in getting Congress to let him buy up to half of the $200,000,000 UN emergency bond issue. His administration has argued that a favorable court ruling would mean no similar bond issues would be needed in future years.

The UN is estimated to be about $170,000,000 in debt.

Un officials and diplomats generally predicted the assembly, to convene Sept. 18, would endorse the opinion. Some also predicted that the few countries now more than two years behind would pay up soon so that no member would lose its vote.

That would mean a small start toward pulling the United Nations out of the financial hole that resulted because 57 of its 104 members have never paid anything for The Congo operation, and 26 have never paid anything for the Middle East frontier work.

Only Bolivia, Guatemala, Paraguay and Yemen now are more than two full calendar years behind on all UN assessments—regular budget, Congo and Middle East—and therefore subject to loss of vote if the court's opinion gets assembly support. But they could bring themselves within the safety limit if they paid a total of about $37,000.

R. W. Haggen, Former MLA Dies at Grand Forks

GRAND FORKS (CP)—Funeral services will be held here for Rupert Williams Haggen, 74, for seven years a member of the legislature for this area and husband of the present member.

Mr. Haggen, who left politics in 1956 because of ill health, died Thursday.

He was elected CCF member for Grand Forks-Greenwood in 1949. When he retired his wife, Lois, ran in his place and has represented the riding since.

Born in New Zealand, he came to British Columbia in 1901. He became a land surveyor in 1911 and a civil and mining engineer in 1934. From 1911 until 1925 he worked in the Cariboo, then moved to Vancouver where he lived for 10 years.

In 1935 he moved to Rossland where he was in charge of mine development at Ymir and Rossland camps.

He first entered provincial politics when he contested the Cariboo seat for the CCF in 1933.

Mr. Haggen was past president of the B.C. Land Surveyors Association, a member of the Canadian Institute of Surveying, former councillor of the Dominion Land Surveyors and a member of the Association of Professional Engineers.

Besides Mrs. Haggen he is survived by three daughters, four grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Rosa Atkins, of Victoria.

"Clowns" Puzzle U Thant

HELSINKI (Reuters) — Hitting out at the situation in The Congo over Katanga Province, U Thant acting United Nations secretary-general, said Friday he doesn't know what he can do "with such a bunch of clowns."

"I have tried to get Katanga President, Moise Tshombe and the central government to negotiate but without any results," Thant told a press conference in this Finnish capital, adding his remark about not knowing what to do with the "bunch of clowns."

Thant spoke out before flying to Copenhagen, en route to New York, following a tour of European capitals.

Discussing the thus-far fruitless central government—Katanga negotiations to get Tshombe's breakaway province back under the Leopoldville regime's rule. Thant said: "Mr. Tshombe is a very unstable man, he is a very unpredictable man. The same can be said of his two colleagues, Mr. Godefroid Munongo, who pretends to be the interior minister of Katanga, and Mr. Evariste Kimba, who pretends to be the foreign minister."

Thant said he would convene the UN Security Council to ask for a new mandate on The Congo or at least a renewal of the old one. He stressed that the UN had not been authorized to launch military operations and would not do so.

Resume Relations

PARIS (Reuters) — France and Tunisia have decided to resume diplomatic relations, it was officially announced Friday.

Tunisia broke off diplomatic relatons with France a year ago during fighting between French and Tunisian forces over the Bizerte air and naval base on Tunisia's Mediterranean coast.

BBG Bark Turns to Bite

OTTAWA (CP) — After three years the Board of Broadcast Governors has suddenly gone beyond its policy of "warning and reprimand," announcing Friday it is taking four unnamed stations to court for alleged infractions in BBG regulations.

In another get - tough move, the regulatory agency also proposes to break up a dispute over TV football rights by requiring — not asking — every television station in the country to carry the Grey Cup broadcast from Toronto Dec. 1.

A bombshell statement by the governors also included these moves:

The BBG and the publicly - owned CBC are going to court for a judicial interpretation of the law on political broadcasting. the case stems from complaints that the CBC violated a BBG interpretation of the law two days before the June 1 federal general election.

The governors pledged only "continuing consideration" of what they called "problems" connected with TV licence applications by the CBC. This goes to the heart of a recently-reported break - down in relations between the two agencies. The CBC seeks another major study of the whole broadcasting system.

GRAIN QUOTAS MAY HAVE TO BE RESTORED

MINNIPEG (CP) — Western Canadian farmers who have been able to ship grain without the restrictions of delivery quotas since April 11 may find the quotas restored when the new crop year begins Aug. 1, a White Board spokesman says.

The official said in an interview Friday that if there is an average or above-average crop there will have to be delivery quotas at the beginning of the year.

However, unless Canada has three or four years of bumper crops, the official foresaw no return to the tight restrictions of previous years when some farmers could deliver only one or two bushels an acre until the crop year was far advanced.

Quota policy for the coming crop year has not been decided by the board, the marketing agency for wheat and coarse grains, but it is expected to be set before Aug. 1.

PRIMA DONNA SWATS CRITIC

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters)—Music critic William Lovelock was slapped in the face by opera star Ana-Raquel Satre Thursday night.

Lovelock, who had panned the Uruguayan singer for a tendency "to sing flat" in the opera La Traviata, was attending a performance of another opera.

He was invited in a note to meet Ana-Raquel in her private ante-room. "I wanted to fix him in private," the singer explained later.

She said she used some words she has learned in English — "they are vulgar words" — and "then I took my glove and hit him hard on each side of his face."

Lovelock said: "I was astounded. It was the first time I have had my face slapped by an opera star, or heard such language.

"I did not know what to say. I just left and returned to the others as gracefully as I could under the circumstances."

NEW BOND ISSUE

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett said Friday the government will make a new issue of Pacific Great Eastern Railway parity bonds in August.

It will replace an existing bond issue of $35,60,000 which matures Sept. 15.

Union Claims Workers Ignored

MONTREAL (CP — Conciliation hearings by Canada's 100,000 non-operating railway employees ended Friday with a union chief bluntly warning that the workers won't be pushed around.

Frank Hall, veteran chief negotiator for the non-ops, said this to the conciliation board after accusing the seven railways involved in the joint talks of callously ignoring their employees.

Summing up the union's arguments for a 22-cents-an-hour wage increase and a job security program, Mr. Hall said the railways had reached a low level of cynicism and intransigence during the heairngs.

The railways presented their final arguments Thursday, charging that the 15 CLC-affiliated unions that bargain for the non-ops had failed to build any case for an increase or any other benefit.

Alligator Roams Store

VANCOUVER (CP) — Albert the alligator went browsing around a downtown department store here Friday.

He started his excursion sometime before opening time at Eaton's and wasn't rounded up until shortly before noon when employees cornered him in a stock room.

Gordon Pennington, representative of the pet company which brought two-foot Albert to the store for a goldfish promotion stunt, said he'd never done such a thing before.

Albert probably pushed the lid off his tank during the night, said Pennington, who put the alligator back into his tank.

CCF Convention Reelects Lloyd

SASKATOON (CP) — The Saskatchewan CCF party convention Friday endorsed the CCF government's stand on medical care as intense behind-the-scene activity marked efforts to break the deadlock between the government and doctors over the government's compulsory medical care insurance plan.

The convention reelected Premier Woodrow Lloyd as political leader and then urged the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons to resume negotiatoins immediately with the government.

The convention also passed resolutions on the medical care situation for a formal reply from the government on proposals advanced Wednesday.

Both sides have indicated willingness to start talking. Health Minister W. G. Davies said in a television speech the government will "bend every effort" to reach agreement. Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, college president, said the talks "wouldn't be very long coming" if the government accepts proposals he outlined Wednesday.

The ruling college council and members of the cabinet held separate meetings but there was no announcement.

There were indications that Lord Taylor, a British doctor invited by the government to study the situation, was playing some role in the behind-the-scene activity. Lord Taylor helped set up Britain' snational health plan.

A well-qualified informant said Lord Taylor met separately with government officials Friday and the college council.

SASKATCHEWAN HELPER — One of the architects of Britain's National Health Service, Lord Taylor, serenely lights his pipe on arrival in Canada to advise the Saskatchewan government in the current doctors' strike over socialized medicine.

Shuttle Service Cuts Ferry Wait

Long delays experienced at Kootenay Bay and Balfour by the travelling public in recent weeks has been narrowed down since a 24-hour shuttle service was inaugurated, it was reported Friday.

Delays were said to have been equal on both sides of the lake Friday, mostly about an hour but somewhat longer during the early morning.

The Department of Highways has asked tourist bureaus in Cranbrook and Grand Forks to tell tourists of the improved ferry service on Kootenay Lake. Recently the bureaus have been warning tourists of the long wait at the ferry slips and advising them to go via the United States.

The Grand Forks tourist bureau has been registering 250 tourists a day in recent weeks. Since June 14, when the bureau opened more than 7000 tourists have registered, many of these taking the U. S. route east to prevent a delay at the ferry.

The bureau is now preparing for 425 trailers from the Wally Byam's trailer caravan expected early next week. The caravan will come to Nelson from Grand Forks.

C. W. Ramsden, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Southeastern B. C., said his organization's stand on warning tourists of the delays is to inform them where delays might occur, and let the tourist make up his own mind.

"We're losing many tourists by advising them to go by way of the United States," he said. "The Associated Chambers feel we must advise them of possible delays but advise them too, of the beautiful scenery in this area."

CELGAR SEEKS LAND LEASES

City's Capital Expenditure Shows Sharpest Climb in 1961

Education Tops Expenditures, Taking $254,100 of $1,370,262 Total Revenue

Capital expenditure out of general revenue showed the greatest increase in city spending in 1961, the first financial report of the enlarged city shows.

The printed book form 1961 financial report of the Corporation of the City of Nelson became available this week.

Nelson spent $229,026 or 16.71 per cent of its total revenue of $1,370,262 on capital expenditures as compared to $126,298 or 10.6 per cent in 1960.

Education continued to be the greatest expenditure, despite dropping in total and subsequently in percentage. In 1960 education cost the taxpayer $254,100 or 21.32 per cent, whereas in 1961 the taxpayer shelled out $233,247 or 17.02 per cent on this account.

All other divisions of expenditure showed smaller increases in total over 1960, except health, a drop of about $300 from 1960, general government administration, down about $3000 from 1960 and protection to persons and property, down about $1500 from 1960.

Profits on public utilities, as in past years, continue to ease the taxpayers' burden, contributing $344,279 or 25.13 per cent of the total revenue as compared to $281,867 or 23.65 per cent in 1960.

In 1961, general taxation accounted for $583,139 or 42.56 per cent of revenue as compared to $553,559 or 46.44 per cent in 1960.

SHOW GAINS

All other revenue producing departments showed small gains.

The electrical department, a consistent revenue producer, showed a slight drop in its number of subscribers and in its surplus during 1961—$321,884 as compared to $345,436 in 1960 but this was offset by the large increase in the waterworks department. In 1961, the waterworks system showed a surplus of $40,426 as compared to $18,037 a year earlier.

Major overhauling of Generator No. 4, ($26,764) accounted for a large share of the drop in power department surplus.

From all sources, total revenue for 1961 was $1,371,037 as compared to $1,249,866.

TRANSIT DEFICIT

The city transit system again showed an increase in its deficit. It plunged $21,358 into the red as compared to $12,402 in 1960.

Civic Centre commission revenue was down more than $20,000, as compared with 1960, to $58,184.76. The Recreation commission revenue was up in 1961, ($19,462) as compared to $16,426 in 1960.

Total revenue for the combined commissions was $78,147, compared to $101,622 in 1960. This includes contributions from city coffers of $40,725 in 1960 and $38,725 in 1961.

The new statistics for the enlarged city are as follows:

Population 9,848 -- 1,537 acres of land -- 255 acres of water.

Street mileage: Concrete 1.5 miles, bituminous 12.17 miles, gravel 26.04 miles compared to 16.6 miles in 1960, and cleared and graded 0.83 miles compared to 1.2 miles in 1960.

There are 3,460 owners-electors and 192 resident-electors, with 24 tenant electors in the enlarged city.

City Bond Issue Over-Subscribed

Over-subscription of the City of Nelson's $62,000 bond issue was greeted with jubilation, Friday.

P. E. Poulin, who was handling the issue, reported it had been over-subscribed by 5 p.m. Friday. Mr. Poulin pointed out that the issue was "competing on the market with big business in Canada" and said it was to the citizens' credit that they were willing to put their money to the city's use. He said it showed their faith in the city and its future.

"I think it is a wonderful thing—terrific!" exclaimed city clerk C. W. R. Harper. "It gives the city a tremendous boost with bond houses across Canada. City of Nelson bonds have always been well received, but the fact that our own people gave such fine support, enhances the city's position on Canadian markets," he said.

Acting mayor J. S. M. Harts said, "We are extremely satisfied with the overwhelming response the citizens of Nelson gave to the bond issue. This will strengthen the credit rating of the city of Nelson, especially with a view to the November issue pending boundary extension financing. It is a terrific feather in the cap of Nelson's credit rating," the acting mayor concluded.

City finance chairman, J. W. McClelland expressed "sincere appreciation that the bond issue went over so well and in so short a time." He said citizens are to be congratulated for their splendid response.

The bonds went on sale Wednesday, selling for $99.50 plus acrued interest per $100 bond, with interest of 5¾ per cent. Proceeds from the sale are to be used to purchase property for the new vocational school in Rosemont.

Park Combed for Missing Girl

By RON DARLING

KOKANEE GLACIER PROVINCIAL PARK—A frantic father searched for hours here Friday for his six-year-old daughter and halted briefly at supper hour, exhausted from tramping through dense underbrush and stricken with the knowledge he may never see his child again.

Six-year-old Deborah Lee Schneider was playing while her father packed up the portable tent-trailer in which the family had been sleeping while holidaying in the West Kootenay. It took less than five minutes to get the tent-trailer ready for the road so the family could continue their holiday.

The father turned to his family and said, "Alright, let's go."

But Deborah Lee was nowhere to be found.

This was at 10:30 a.m. After a distraught hour of searching Mr. Schneider, a garage operator in Manville, Alta., 100 miles northeast of Edmonton, called parks employees for aid.

RCMP CALLED

The RCMP were called into the search. In minutes, Const. George Hawkins and his tracking dog, Stoney, were at the scene but after following little Deborah's trail to Kokanee Creek and back to one of many car trails in the park, the trail was lost.

No other trace of the girl was found by dark last night but the search is to resume at 6:00 a.m. today.

Mr. and Mrs. Schneider, with Deborah Lee, Gerald 10, Grant 8 and Sandra, 20 months, arrived at the campgrounds Thursday night at 9 p.m.

Mr. Schneider said, "Deborah is not inclined to run off. The boys here, they're different."

The strange disappearance of little Deborah has left her parents in a state of dazed disbelief. Little Sandra is too young to realize what has happened and the shock does not appear to have yet hit Deborah's two brothers.

CONTINUES TODAY

Squads of RCMP personnel took part in the search Friday and will continue today. Scores of citizens responded after a call for aid was broadcast over CKLN.

When Deborah disappeared she was wearing a white T-shirt with red striped cuffs and waistband. She wore long print slacks.

There were reports of a young girl answering Deborah's description walking along the highway but a search of the ditch area revealed nothing and the tracking dog was unable to locate a trace.

TRANSIENT QUESTIONED

About the time she disappeared a transient was reported walking along the highway, a stone's throw from where the Schneider's had camped. Upon hearing this, Mr. Schneider in his car caught up to the man and checked him out. Later the RCMP questioned the man, who was dressed in ragged clothing and wore long hair, with a bushy beard. He was released after questioning.

The B.C. Forest Service responded to a call from the camping area, 13 miles north of Nelson, with detailed ground maps of the park area and four-wheel-drive vehicles.

Jim Grady, pilot for Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., flew over the park and creek area but found nothing.

After thoroughly searching the camping area, searchers believe the girl either fell into Kokanee Creek or was abducted.

Many searchers, up to their hips in the icy cold water of the creek, ripped apart log jams where the body might have caught had Deborah fallen into the fast-flowing waters.

It is expected that scuba divers will take part in the search today. The public has been asked to give any assistance possible today to find the little girl.

New Inspector Firearm Expert

A one-time winner of the Canadian Pistol Championship and a competitor for years in national and international competition shoots has been appointed inspector of the game department's 'B' Division here.

Joseph P. A. Gibault of Williams Lake was appointed, replacing C. E. Estlin who was named conservation officer.

Inspector Gibault was conservation officer at Williams Lake for nine years before being posted in Nelson.

He served with the B.C. Police from 1935 until 1950 and with the RCMP the following year. He operated a sporting goods store in Victoria and was later in charge of security police at Alcan prior to joining the game department in 1953.

Inspector Gibault's career has been marked with an abiding interest in firearms. He has been winner of the Canadian Pistol Championship and holds a master's rating in the firing of .22, .38 and .45 calibre firearms. He is graded "A" class in shotgun shooting and has competed for several years in national and international shoots.

A married man, his wife and 13-year-old son are now in Nelson with him. A 21-year-old son remained at Williams Lake.

Nelson Girl Wins Honors At Gonzaga

Former L. V. Rogers High School graduate, Mary Terrance Moran, received second academic honors on the Dean's List at Gonzaga University, Spokane.

A senior in arts and science, she received a grade point of 3.08 out of a possible 4.00. She is the daughter of Mrs. C. P. Moran, 201 Kerr Apartments.

Former Nelson Minister to Take Services

Former Nelson minister, Rev. T. L. Leadbeater, holidaying for the past few days on the North Shore, will be taking services at Church of the Redeemer Sunday in the absence of Canon W. J. Silverwood who is at the Coast. Canon G. W. Lang, who returned from Vancouver Friday evening after 10 days at the Coast, will be officiating at all the pro-cathedral services Sunday.

Two Companies Incorporated

Department of Lands, Forests and Water Resources has given notice that tract of land leased by Kinnaird Transfer, has been surveyed and that a plan can be seen at the office of the government agent at Nelson.

Ridgeway Dedication To Be Held Sunday

CRANBROOK — Joint military ceremony by American and Canadian Legions Sunday, a short distance above Lumberton in isolated Prucell foothills country will dedicate the 68-year-old grave of John W. Ridgeway, soldier in the Grand Army of the Republic in the American Civil War, 1861-66, before he came to this district to prospect.

The wood marker, preserved and maintained almost as a superstition by prospectors in that area ever since, says he died in a mine shaft cave-in there September 24, 1894. The original marker has been restored and will be preserved by the East Kootenay Historical Association whose past president, D. A. MacDonald, has fashioned an exact facsimile to be dedicated in the field trip by Cranbrook and Bonner's Ferry Legion posts.

Personal research by the Association on the history of John Ridgeway is the most successful primary research the organization has done. The Library of Congress in Washington civil war records provided photostats of his various records. His parents, Richard Ridgeway and Mary Grimes were married February 16, 1838 in Belmont County, Ohio. John Ridgeway was born in 1842.

He enlisted for three years September 13, 1861 at Flushing. He was wounded at the battle of Shiloh, April 7, 1862 and again at the battle of Chikamauga, Georgia, September 20, 1863. He mustered out as corporal September 30, 1864 at Washington.

When he appeared before Lt.-Col. James Baker, only permanent Cranbrook resident August 29, 1888 when Cranbrook was a single farm, he completed declaration applying for an American invalid pension. He is described then as 46 years old, five feet 7½ inches tall, with light brown hair and light blue eyes. Declaration says he remained in Ohio for one year, and since that time (1865) had resided in "Kootenay, British Columbia," occupation miner, formerly farmer, post office address Wild Horse Creek, county of Kootenay (sic), B.C. The declaration is signed by Col. Baker.

He must have drifted from the Wild Horse gold rush to the Moyie River drainage area, for he formed a mining company there. The minister of mines in 1894 records the accident.

The company was following up a promising 1893 showing in the creek in the summer of 1884 with excellent success. However timbering on a drift gave way then nine sets collapsed in succession burying a second miner. The latburying a second miner. The letter freed himself and organized a rescue party augmented by men sent from the mining recorder's office at Fort Steele 20 miles northeast. Shifts worked continuously eight days before finding his body.

The grave, now cleared and plainly marked, is believed near his cabin of which all trace has disappeared. Its location is accessible from the road which runs through Lumberton and across the millpond. The public is being invited to participate in the impressive joint Legion ceremonies, and the Historical Association is arranging marking of the route for those attending.

Final details of the time are now being established by the Legion branches and the Historical Association suggests those attending bring basket lunches.

Use Bellani Plate To Determine Moisture Balance . . .

Says Overhead Irrigation Best Type for Dwarf Tree Farm

The increasing popularity of dwarf trees and grapevines in Canadian orchards has turned growers' thoughts to discovering the best form of irrigation, says "Farm News," Canada Department of Agriculture publication.

An overhead system of irrigation is necessary for dwarf apple trees and grapevines, points out H. C. Korven of the CDA research station at Summerland, B.C., as the dense growth which develops prevents good distribution of water by sprinklers on or near the ground.

Mr. Korven has reported on tests of various types of equipment and is continuing experiments this season with longer hose and with tractor power for moving it.

"Having decided that an overhead system of irrigation is best, the question of what type of equipment to use arises.

The portable pipe system involves moving the pipe across the rows and can therefore be used only where the growth permits such movement, in young orchards for instance. In this system the sprinklers are mounted on high-risers or hydrants incorporated into the portable pipes and it is somewhat inconvenient to recouple the system after moving the pipes. It's slightly more costly but much more convenient to attach the sprinkler to a portable tripod and to hook into the portable pipe with a short length of hose.

The initial cost of the portable pipe system is about $120 an acre or $20 more than for an under-tree system with low-riser pipes. Average moving time for a complete cycle of 12 sets is 165 minutes — 30 minutes longer than fo ran under-tree system.

For mature orchards of dwarf trees and for vineyards, portable sprinkles and underground pipes running crosswise to the rows are satisfactory. The sprinklers, mounted on tripods, are connected to permanent hydrants in the pipe by 50-foot lengths of hose and can be moved from row to row.

Placing the pipelines 120 feet apart and the hydrants 40 feet apart gives three sprinkler settings from each hydrant — one at the hydrant and one 40 feet each side of it. Each sprinkler covers an area 40 by 40 feet on each move and 120 by 40 feet on the three sets.

The cost of this system is about $200 per acre, or $80 more than for the portable pipe system. The sprinklers can be moved as quickly as an under-tree system, if not quicker.

This season 110-foot lengths of hose permitting seven sprinkler settings will be tested, and towing of the portable pipe by tractor will be compared with moving it by hand.

WHEN TO IRRIGATE

Dr. J. C. Wilcox, a scientist at the Summerland Research Station, offers advice on determining when to irrigate orchards and how much water to apply.

Measuring evaporation of water from the soil is the best guide except in the case of soils with a high water table.

The Bellani plate has given good service in this capacity, says Dr. Wilcox, describing the operation:

1. Measure each day the amount of water evaporated from the Bellani plate. Using a simple graph adjusted for different soil types and crops, calculate in inches the water lost from the soil.

2. Starting with the first irrigation keep a moisture balance sheet. On the credit side enter the amount of water applied, plus rainfall. On the debit side enter each day the amount lost from the soil as determined by the Bellani plate.

3. Irrigate again when the credit and debit sides balance.

Repeat this procedure throughout the season.

In practice, says Dr. Wilcox, the procedure is somewhat more complicated than that described here. However, it has been found to work very well at Summerland and 17 commercial orchards in the Okanagan Valley are being irrigated by this method.

Contest Fan Wins Jackpot

KIMBERLEY — An inveterate contest fan, Mrs. U. E. Ronnquist, 355 Hannay Street, has hit the jackpot in a recent contest by winning an all-expense return trip for two to either Paris, London or Amsterdam by jet plane and $100 in cash.

Mrs. Ronnquist, who has won several small local quiz contests, won her big prize in the Carnation Holiday Quiz contest for May and June and will travel overseas on a jet DC8, KLM (Dutch Air Lines).

She has no immediate plans for using her award as her husband has been a patient in the local hospital for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnquist have been Kimberley residents for 19 years, he being a timberman in the Sullivan Mine. They have three sons, Derland, with the RCAF at Gimli, Manitoba; Mervyn (Moose), who is employed by the city's electrical departme and Dale, with the RCAF at Esquimalt.

COUNCIL TAKES STAND ON RAIL SERVICE ISSUE

KIMBERLEY — Kimberley city council will take no action on proposed withdrawal of rail passenger service for this area, announced recently by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

This stand was taken at the recent council meeting, which also received notification from the B.C. Safety Council that arrangements will be completed shortly by RCMP at Victoria for a 1961 fatality-free citation.

Approval was given to Cominco's plans to subdivide the area between First and Second Avenues, on McDougall Townsite.

A letter will be sent to the Attorney-General's department for appointment of a police magistrate.

One-Meter Plan Approved For Civic Centre

CRESTON — With a potential power bill saving of $835 per year if the Civic Centre and Curling Club jointly use one power meter, and a saving of $523 if the Civic Centre installs the meter by itself, the Civic Centre board Wednesday night authorized the one-meter plan, whether on not the Curling Club enters into any arrangement.

The Civic Centre received letters from James Byrne, M.P., and the Hon. W. D. Black relative to the national centennial grants by government.

The Civic Centre meets all the principles laid down for receiving such a grant, and further application by the Civic Centre board was authorized immediately, along with statistics and figures to secure the grant which is handled by the provincial government.

A letter from the Hon. W. D. Black relative to taxation revenues to be used to operate the Civic Centre was not too conclusive and the board authorized another letter be sent to Mr. Black outlining the plans, also asking him if the act, if passed by the electorate, was for one year or for a long term. The board also asked for an immediate meeting with the deputy minister.

Of interest to the board was the $2,000 in swimming receipts since the pool opened this year, which should establish a record revenue. There are 133 registered swimmers this year, and Mr. Lund paid credit to the fine assistants at the pool this year. Water samples sent to government laboratories have proved excellent.

Junior Forest Wardens at Summer Camp

KIMBERLEY — Thirty Junior Forest Wardens from Kimberley and Marysville are under canvas this week at Rock Lake, where they are following a program of scheduled courses that include forestry and conservation activities, map and compas work, tree identification, fire prevention, safety and first aid. There are also swimming, fishing and two hikes, one for junior members and one for seniors.

Merit badges are awarded to the boys for their year's work, also special camp prizes.

In charge of the camp is supervisor Sam Murray, assisted by Del Julie and Gordon Colledge. Dave Campbell of Vancouver is the Canadian Forestry representative, the sponsoring body for the Junior Forest Wardens.

Air Cadets Due Back From Camp

KIMBERLEY — Fourteen cadets of 226 Kimberley Squadron RCAC return this weekend from air cadet summer camp at RCAF station Vancouver.

A total of 550 cadets from Saskatchewan, Alberta and B.C. enjoyed a varied and busy program that included a conducted tour of the World's Fair at Seattle.

The Kimberley cadets are in charge of F/L A. Massie, CO, and F/L W. H. Scheer, adjutant. Cadets attending are F/S K. MacDonald, Cpl. T. Marusyk, Cpl. A. Kemp, Cpl. R. Wilson, Cpl. T. McMahon, Cpl. G. Williams, Cpl. F. Bailey and LACs D. Phair, R. Waldie, B. Lowes, F. Alleyn, P. Corrie, D. Roche and R. Robertson.

The boys travelled by chartered bus to Golden and then by train to Vancouver and back.

CUBS RETURN FROM CAMP FOR BUCCANEERS

RIONDEL — Five boys from Riondel were among those attending the first Cub camp of the 1962 season at Camp Tweedsmuir.

John Ramage, Jack McLeod, Bill Lawrence, Gary Bonnell and Randy Walsh returned home tired but happy. Badges earned by the boys weer Observer, Artist and Toymaker.

The theme of this year's camp was "pirates" by Sunday night all cabins were flying Jolly Roger and Captain Kidd fighting Blackbeard for points.

Guests at Wednesday's campfire were the residents of the Trail Senior Citizens villa. Friday was visitors day and many parents attended the sports in the afternoon; each ship represented a different country and the boys dressed in the national costume of the country which they represented.

Transportation to and from the camp for the Riondel boys was provided by Mrs. McLeod Bonnell and Lawrence.

HAPPY DAY NO 4

Today began beautifully but by the time the water sports began those black storm clouds moved in and released their deluge of water. Two races were run off and the paddle board race newly completed before the downpour.

It is on days like this that the lodge does its job. A cosy fire was started and the boys transferred activities to the lodge. Each cabin was given 20 minutes to work up a short skit. Then they presented it. Much fun and laughter was the result. The boys showed real talent and ingenuity in their efforts.

After the talent show a mock track meet was held. The 10-yard dash consisted of winding 10 yards of thread on a nail. The boys even vied to see what team could make the best paper hat. It was a well spent afternoon and contributed greatly to the strengthening of fellowship.

Campfire was held indoors and was a first rate event. The campfire singing was lusty and varied from spirituals to nonsense songs.

The scribe reports get better and better. Donald Ellison has a ready wit and keeps the campers in fits with his masterpieces. The enthusiasm of the young counsellors and leaders is flowing over onto the boys and spirits are high.

Tuesday, July 17—Happy Day No. 5—The weather seemed to be determined to drive us out of camp. But it had the spirit of compers to go against and that spirit is mighty.

In place of crafts, the boys gathered in the lodge where Dave Bennett gave a talk on water safety and demonstrated the two methods of artificial respiration. Dave is a Red Cross instructor on swimming and provided us with first-class instruction.

The campers practised the Holger-Neilson method on each other and Dave demonstrated the mouth to mouth on Doug Catley. Doug was heard to remark, "I think I'll let Dave breathe for me all the time."

Study groups are working on short dramatic skits to sum up their ideas gained on what it means to be a disciple. On Friday the boys will meet together and produce their skits.

Some fine plaster moulds, leather belts and driftwood articles are being produced. Boat racks and table at the barbecue are being completed.

The rain stopped just in time for the land sports. Frank Crockett and Doug Catley set up the games and everything went off smoothly. Many exciting activities were run and enthusiasm was high.

Cabin 2 proved their superiority by chalking up 27 points. Cabin 3 came second with 16 points. Cabin 4 came third. In the wood relay, a large pile of wood was transferred to the kitchen. The egg throwing contest proved very exciting and messy.

The results are as follows:

Wood Relay: First, Cabin 2, second, Cabin 3 and third Cabin 4.

Softball Throw: First, David McKenzie, Cabin 3, second, Ken Starchuck, Cabin 3, and third, Stuart Titsworth, Cabin 2.

Standing Broad Jump: First, Norman Caldicott, Cabin 2; second, Jerry Mak, Cabin 4, and third, Fred Irvine, Cabin 3.

Time Judging Contest: First, Stuart Titsworth, Cabin 2; second Bill Furey (2), and third, Neil Daly (4).

Wheelbarrow Race: First, Jerry Mah and John Wilson (4); second, Brian Jones and David Barrett (3); third, Bruce Leaman and Walter Turner (5).

Egg Throw Contest: First, Cabin 2; second, Cabin 3; third, Cabin 4.

Orange Scramble: First, Norman Caldicott (2); second, John Wilson (4); third, Brian Jones (2).

100 Yard Dash: First, John Wright (5); second, Norman Caldicott (2); third, Jerry McKinnon (4).

Obstacle Race: First, Bob Latta (3); Jerry Mah (4) ,second; and Stuart Titsworth (2), third.

Long Distance Race: First, Norman Caldicott (2); second, Walter Turner (5); third, Bob Latta (3).

Home Owner Grants Account For 28 P.C. Taxes Collected

FRUITVALE — At the Council meeting last night the finance committee reported that about 20 per cent of the current year's taxes had been collected and the same percentage of arrears of taxes had also come in since the beginning of the year; of the current year's taxes collected to date, about 28 per cent has been in the form of home owner grants.

Accounts totalling $7415.71 were approved for payment, including the July payment to school district No. 11, and the final payments to the contractors on the garage, parks and cemetery projects.

The works committee reported it had completed the oiling program for the year, with a small stretch of road to be oiled later after the completion of other repairs there. Another meeting has been held with the department of highways superintendent, A. E. Staite regarding several matters of mutual interest and these are to be further discussed.

Council authorized the Utility committee to order 700 feet of 8-foot sewer pipe for four small extensions to the main system; this includes sufficient pipe to lay a sewer main to the recreation grounds for the installation of the proper facilities there.

A complaint was brought to Council's attention in regard to the riding of bicycles on the side walks; since the traffic regulations bylaw sets out that this shall not be done, the RCMP will be requested to watch for offenders.

Gates are to be installed in the fence at the centennial park to keep dogs out during the summer playground program. The canines follow their young owners into the grounds, causing trouble for playground instructors. The park committee had first decided not to install gates but it now appears they have become necessary.

Council is busy lining up several projects that apply under winter works program and will make several tours of the village to determine where the benefits of the program can best be applied.

Experimenting at Erickson . . .

Seek Cherry Tree Strain Resistant to Virus Disease

Little cherry virus disease is the only factor which has restricted an increase in sweet cherry growing in the West Kootenay districts of British Columbia, J. E. Swales, district horticulturist, says.

Production has been maintained at approximately 25,000 crates in the Creston district. This production has been maintained only because of the new plantings which have been established each year. In the areas West of Creston, approximately 60,000 crates of cherries were shipped annually prior to the introduction of the disease into those areas. At present, due to the devastating effect of this disease, the industry in those areas has been practically eliminated.

Rejuvenation of this industry in the Kootenays is dependent on finding a commercially acceptable cherry that is resistant to little cherry disease.

Over 200 varieties and promising seedlings which have been collected from various parts of the world have been established in experimental plots at Erickson, B.C. They are being tested for their resistance to the disease.

A number of these varieties are promising, but none of them has demonstrated complete resistance. The search is continuing and additional varieties are being established in the test plots each year.

Anyone who has cherry trees which they feel have consistently produced high quality fruit each year and who would be willing to provide material for tests so that the merits of these trees can be evaluated more fully, is requested to contact Dr. J. M. Wilks at the Federal Department of Agriculture, or Mr. Swales at the provincial department of agriculture, Creston.

Several promising cherry varieties have already been obtained from grower orchards in the West Kootenay and are being tested in the expermental plots at Erickson.

Tourist Booth To Be Located At Creston

CRESTON — For benefit of tourists moving west, plans have been changed to have the tourist booth established in Creston instead of Yahk Junction as formerly expected.

This was decided at the executive meeting of the Trade Board on Tuesday evening.

The civic council, which donated $300 to the booth, will receive a check for $100, as only $200 will be needed. Money from the West Kootenay Associated Boards will also be returned.

The local tourist booth will try and advise incoming tourists of ferry service, delays and so forth, as well as advertise the area.

Oliver Salvador is in charge of planning.

HURRY-UP PROGRAM

Hon. W. D. Black will be asked to press for a "crash program" to have the Salmo-Creston cut-off completed in 1963. Citizens of the area are becoming discouraged over the slowness of the road construction and the ferry "bottleneck" is giving this area adverse publicity.

The Creston-Salmo trek, under the supervision of Theo Greyell, is scheduled for September 8 and 9.

The Trade Board, contrary to reports in another paper, will protest the CPR application to take passenger trains off the Kettle Valley run.

Develop Our Holiday Resources

Wherever there is a body of water which contains fish, men will beat a path to it. The terrain may be difficult but in some way or other a road will eventually be made to it. The road itself may be only a makeshift and little more than a trail but car drivers who are fishermen will drive their cars over it, often to the peril of their own lives.

Such a road is the one to Six-Mile Lakes. It began as a logging road which in the years has been allowed to fall into decay. To most people it would seem foolhardy to attempt to use such a road but within the past month one car driver lost his life when his car overturned and another driver was fortunate enough to walk off unhurt when his car went off the road.

To prevent more fatal accidents there are certain things which can be done. The easiest, most effective and the least attractive would be to abandon the road and destroy it so as to make it utterly impossible for use.

This would not be popular with the rod and gun enthusiasts who want all fishing waters to be easy of access. Here is a case where the Rod and Gun Club could demonstrate its usefulness. If at all possible it might well have, in co-operation with others, and the use of borrowed equipment, put the road into better shape.

Failing that it might petition the appropriate government department. Today, whether it is an old logging or mining road, it should come under the Department of Recreation since tourism and recreation are becoming our most important industry.

The more lakes we can open up, the more fishing we can provide and the more camping sites we can establish the more tourists will visit us. In one way or another the road to Six-Mile Lakes should be improved. How about the Rod and Gun Club, in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce, instituting a drive to have this done, the sooner the better, for our future tourist business lies in facilities that will make this a holiday area.

What Is Moral

Should political bribery and crookedness be punished?

For those Canadians who think so a county judge at Ottawa has an interesting and different view.

In case you overlooked the item in your daily newspaper (and you shouldn't miss it) we refer to it here because it formalizes an attitude which is apparently becoming widespread.

In brief, the news story was this:

Raymond Bruneau, former Liberal MP, was convicted of corruptly accepting a bribe while he was a member of the House of Commons and was given a two-year suspended sentence (i.e., judicial slap-on-the-wrist).

The judge rejected a Crown request for a jail sentence saying it would be a gratuitous insult to MPs and legislature members because it would indicate a need for a deterrent against political bribery.

The judget said the bribery was an example of the inadequacy of the $10,000 salary paid MPs.

Bruneau was found guilty of accepting $10,000 for the use of his influence while he was an MP in arranging government purchase of property at Hawkesbury for a post office site.

Was the judge, in this case, really implying that influence-peddling for personal profit is a customary, generally accepted and rampant part of the activities of Members of Parliament?

Since the ex-MP was bribed $10,000 to arrange the sale to the government, it is a fair assumption that the price the government paid for the land was inflated by at least that amount and presumably more.

In view of the judicial gospel announced in this case, are citizens to assume that all or most or many pieces of real estate and of other things sold to the government also undergo very sudden inflation in price prior to their purchase by government and much to the personal profit of some MP?

Perhaps the judge in this case is merely recognizing and giving voice to a now widely accepted principle of public morality.

Certainly all parts of our country have been splattered in recent months and years with incidents of political conduct shocking to most ordinary citizens.

But is conduct which would jail a private businessman to be accepted as the political norm?

If it is naive to expect honest dealings in our government affairs, then The Financial Post is and will continue to be naive.—Financial Post.

Poor Dog

Ann Miller is an actress of some status and is seeking a divorce. Her husband is a millionaire oil magnate, and of course she has big ideas of what her allowance should amount to, observes The St. Thomas Times-Journal. This is her idea of what she should get:

For new clothes, $2500 a month; $1000 a month for entertainment; $500 a month for travel; $500 a month for club memberships; $300 a month for food, and $50 for food for her dog.

She also seeks $1000 a month alimony.

The small allowance for the dog seems an injustice.—Windsor Star.

Battle of Chopsticks

A gourmet's argument between the Indian embassy in Peking and a Chinese hotel manager has enlivened the dispute between India and China which seemed to be settling into a routine exchange of notes about the Kashmir border.

It began when the manager of the Peking Hotel, Comrade Chi Pungsheng, refused to make the vast banquet hall available as in the past for India's National Day celebrations. He also doubled the price of the hors d'oeuvres supplied for embassy parties.

The Indian deputy foreign minister, Mrs. Lakshmi Menon, complained about this treatment in the Indian Parliament.

The official Peking People's Daily has now published Comrade Chi's rebuttal. He wrote:

"It is an absurd, undignified complaint, all over a paltry yuan-and-a-quarter (about 40 cents). We increased our charge per head for snacks in order to improve quality: Larger shrimps, hotter sweet-and-sour sauce, more pork in the meat balls."

At first sight, it would seem time to transfer Comrade Chi's spirit of good-will to the Indian border. Imagination soars at the prospect of the Chinese Red Army entertaining Indian troops on the barren heights of Aksai Chin to lavish helpings of sweet-and-sour spareribs.

There's a fly in the fried rice, however. We suspect Comrade Chi knew about it all along. The menu of orthodox Hindus is limited to vegetarian dishes.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

William Faulkner Not Too Proud of Own Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The obituaries for William Faulkner said little or nothing about his writing for films, a phase of his career of which he was not particularly proud.

Yet the Nobel Prize winner spent a lot of time in the Hollywood studios, largely because of director Howard Hawks. They worked well together, perhaps because both were free-wheeling mavericks with scant regard for the system.

Hawks reminisced in his Paramount office this week about his long association with Faulkner:

"We first got together in 1932 or 1933, when I read some of his work. I was much impressed and I showed his work to Ben Hecht and Charlie Macarthur. They and Alexander Woollcott and others around New York started talking about him, so I think I had a part in his discovery as a writer.

"I bought a book of his and asked him to come out to the coast to write it as a movie. He came into my office, very quiet, and I told him my name. 'Yes, I've read it on a cheque,' he replied.

"He didn't say anything, so I started talking. I must have talked for 40 minutes, outlining the way I saw the screen play. Still he didn't say anything and I finally asked him what he thought. He said it was okay, and he would be back in five days.

"By this time I was getting mad, and I said, 'Do you need five days to think about it?' He said, five days to write it. Then I felt better and asked if he wanted a drink before he went. He said yes, he'd like a drink."

Apparently one drink led to another—and another. The two became fast friends and, Hawks recalled:

"The next morning I woke up at my house and I saw him fish a cigar butt out of a glass of mint julep. He drained the glass and then he went to work."

STARRED JOAN CRAWFORD

Faulkner finished the script in five days. But then Joan Crawford became available and she was assigned to the film, even though there wasn't a woman's part in it.

Faulkner wrote in the Crawford part in a few days, and it was shot as Today We Live.

Faulkner's other credits with Hawks include Road to Glory (Fredric March, Warner Baxter) in 1936, two post-war Bogart-Bacall films, To Have and Have Not and The Big Sleep, and The Land of the Pharaohs in 1955.

"But he also did scenes for Air Force and other pictures of mine when I needed help," said the director. "Whenever he needed money—which was often in those days before paperback books—he'd call up and ask me. Then I'd find something for him to do."

"His work habits were good. He wrote fast and didn't drink while he worked. When the job was over, he'd say, 'Now can I get tight?' I'd say yes, and he would."

Prairie Crops in Great Need of Rain

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP) — Prairie crops have reached the critical growing period and need rain to carry them through to maturity and a late frost to give farmers time to reap the harvest.

Agricultural officials expect a Prairie harvest below the 10-year average, but sharply above the drought - riddled production levels of last year.

In Saskatchewan, the province which normally produces the bulk of Canada's wheat, crops have deteriorated "quite rapidly in parts of south central, south western, central and west central districts and immediate rains are needed to check the rapid decline," the provincial department of agriculture said.

The crop "is quite promising in the eastern half of the province and across the northern districts," the department added. But the heavy growth in these districts will "require further rains to maintain and properly advance the grains."

In northeastern and northern regions the crop is about two inches higher than a year ago, the department said. In southern and central districts the wheat crop is about 50 per cent headed.

Some Saskatoon-district farmers this week began to plow under stubble crops due to lack of moisture, but recent rains have brought new hope to farmers in western and southwestern Saskatchewan.

The Saskatchewan wheat pool says farmers may be better off this year than in 1961, if the present prospects hold. Saskatchewan might produce a better crop, but many areas have no moisture reserve and the "crops are entering a critical stage."

One of the bright spots has been the excellent growth of the pastures and the hay crops, Saskatchewan livestock spokesmen report.

Areas which are vital dust bowls in 1961 were in much better shape this year, they said. Estevan, hard hit by drought in 1961, so far this year has received 8.69 inches of rain, one inch above the normal.

The Saskatchewan Farmers' Union said the farmers' economic situation depends on the outcome of this year's crop. There is plenty of storage space and farmers should be able to sell their grain.

Cattle prices also look favorable and market prospects are good, the SFU said.

NEEDS MOISTURE

Q. H. Martinson of the Manitoba wheat pool said Manitoba's crop picture would be good "if we get moisture and the frost stays away."

With shallow rooting — due to limited subsurface moisture—more moisture is needed if the crop is to keep going, he said. "Crops are going back. The crop is past its peak, but it's not a fast decline."

The nine - week spread in planting made an early - frost a factor in the final harvest "This means there will be close to a nine - week spread in the harvest. If frost holds off until the third week in September we'll be all right."

The Manitoba agriculture department said crops are particularly good in southwestern Manitoba, one of the hardest hit areas of the 1961 drought. The crop is three to four weeks late in the Red River Valley, a week late in the western district and a little later to the east.

J. N. Galonsky, secretary-treasurer of the Manitoba Farmers' Union, said, "there are some areas with the best crop they've had, but there also are dry areas."

Frank Price of Stonewall, president of the Manitoba Chamber of Commerce, said, "the outlook is optimistic. The crop situation seems very good at the present time and business is on the upswing. The farmer has loosened up from the situation last year. Barring unforseen circumstances I think this is going to be a very good year agriculturally."

One of the bright spots was the Melita district of southwestern Manitoba. The department of agriculture said it was hit hard by drought last year, but holds promise of a particularly good crop this year.

The Alberta wheat pool said that despite recent deterioration of crops in drier areas of the province, the condition of Alberta's wheat crop is 30 per cent better than a year ago.

The wheat pool said some areas of east central Alberta, which needed rain desperately, received about six inches last weekend. While this was too late for early - seeded crops "it should help to improve later stands."

"In general, crop prospects over the western half of southern Alberta and throughout northern regions remain promising. In the north, warm weather is needed to bring crops to maturity . . . and additional rain to maintain the heavy growth."

DROUGHT HURTS WHEAT

The agriculture department said wheat suffered permament damage from drought in the Drumheller - Hanna - Vulcan districts of southeastern Alberta. North and northeast of Edmonton excessive moisture damaged some crops and killed others. Haying was reported under way in all regions, with below - average yields expected in the south and above-average production in the north.

G. N. Leenders of the Farmers' Union of Alberta said rains during the last two weeks came too late to save southern Alberta crops. In central Alberta crops ranged from fair to good and north and east of Edmonton, including the Peace River region, crops "are in very good shape."

Mr. Leenders said he doubted whether southeastern Alberta crops will be much better than 1961, when drought plagued most of the province.

But farmers in the area held out renewed hope.

Dairy farmer Andy Anderson of Medicine Hat said: "It's my personal opinion that the drought has broken. Rains won't help some of our crops this year, but they will improve rangeland and provide some moisture for the next crop year."

Georges G. Ross Jr., a Manyberries district rancher and president of the Western Stock Growers Association, said the general rangeland picture is better than the last year.

EXPECT HIGHER YIELDS

Irrigated-land crops and all major vegetable crops in southern Alberta, particularly peas, were expected to produce higher yields this year.

Prairie farmers planted 26,313,000 acres to wheat last spring, seven per cent higher than in 1961. Included was a record 17,400,000 acres in Saskatchewan.

Another 8,599,000 acres was planted to barley, down 233,000; 594,000 to all rye, up 102,000; 404,500 to rapeseed, down 309,800; and 27,355,000 was left down from 1961.

Last year the Prairie wheat crop totalled 24,000,000 bushels, 49 per cent lower than the 1960 harvest of 489,600,000 and less than half the 1950-60 average of 497,000,000.

Other crops also were down, 1960 and the 10-year average in brackets: Oats 333,907,000 (165,100,000, 426,500,000); barley 123,167,000 (207,000,000, 238,800,000); all rye 6,229,000 (10,000,000, 14,000,000); flaxseed 15,322,000 (23,100,000, 17,900,000).

Interpreting The News

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's colony of Aden has remained remarkably secure amid the sandstorms of Middle East nationalism.

Now there are signs the fortress is weakening. Nationalist pressure for ultimate self-government is sure to be a topic at next week's Aden constitutional talks in London.

In the 19th century, Aden was a minor outpost along the lines of communication to India and the Far East. British Tommies serving garrison duty on its arid equatorial shores called it the hell-hole of the Empire.

But in the last few years the colony, and the barren Aden protectorate that is its hinterland, has been built up as a major military base safeguarding Britain's oil interests in the Persian Gulf.

At the same time Britain has been extending her influence and strengthening her political foothold by encouraging federation of the sultanate states in the protectorate. Since 1959 the federation has grown to 12 of the 18 states in the western Aden protectorate.

CLOSER LINKS URGED

The protectorate and the colony are administered by separate legislative bodies under the governor of Aden. During talks last year it was agreed the federation and the colony should seek closer political links, eventually forming a self-governing union.

It is possible an agreement to federate the colony and the protectorate immediately may be ratified during next week's talks at the colonial office.

Nationalist union leaders in Aden are planning a one-day strike Monday to protest against the London talks. They feel Arabs have not been fairly represented in the delegation and that the federation is only a device to bring Aden more firmly under British control.

Mild nationalists want a change of constitution enabling a democratically-elected government to negotiate union with the Arab princes now ruling the protectorate. This would lead to independence for the entire territory, probably within the Commonwealth.

WANT INDEPENDENCE

More violent Arab spokesmen want immediate independence outside the Commonwealth and union with the kingdom of the Yemen to the north. This would link it with Egyptian President Nasser's project for Arab unity.

Meanwhile milder Arabs recognize that without the British military forces the territory's economy would virtually collapse. Britain has also been plowing money and social improvements into the colony to raise the bleakly low standards of living.

Unless the constitutional talks are handled with care Aden might swirl into another Cyprus and Britain's last centre of strength in the Middle East would be obliterated by the shifting sand.

Hate Always Tragic Says Luther King

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Hate is always tragic," says Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. He contends the beauty of the non-violent movement against segregation in the United States is that it can be founded on love—not hate.

The Atlanta minister and civil rights leader expounded on non-violent civil disobedience Thursday to a hushed audience at the National Press Club. Afterward the newspaper men gave a standing ovation to the first American Negro to appear before the club.

Hate, said Mr. King, "is as injurious to the hater as to the hated. It distorts the personality and scars the soul. . .

"That is the beauty of non-violence. It says you can struggle without hating; you can fight war without violence."

He said non-violent resistance "has a way of disarming the opponent, it exposes his moral defences, it weakens his morale and at the same time it works on his conscience."

He conceded that he and his followers have broken laws in their fight against segregation in the south. But moral persons have a duty to violate unjust laws, and then pay the penalty, he said, adding "what was more in line with civil disobedience than the Boston tea party?"

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

For Sunday, July 22, 1962

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — If you have really worked on something, and your last try was the best, keep trying until you are satisfied you "have it." Mars favors activity, interests with a point.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — It would be helpful to consult with individuals who are highly placed, since they could pave the way for you. Approach them with tact, however.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) —A new goal in mind? Stop to ascertain first what really is required ,then note how and where to achieve it. Work with other good heads.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — A number of small matters well attended can add up to a winning day. Begin early to determine just where you wish to go, and why. Moon aspect favors social functions.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Note Cancer, your day similar. Give a bit more study to that last proposition that sounded feasible. Maybe you can shape up your thoughts next week.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) —No one can buy your mind, your soul — remember always that the battle "lost" is often the most potent winner in final analysis. The things you do today will bear heavily on your tomorrows.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Results cannot always be achieved as quickly as you wish. Try to operate with more serenity, less strain on the nervous system.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Do the things that make you feel life is worth living. In this way, you can relieve the tensions of the past, become more fit to handle a busy week ahead.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Benevolence, justice, friendliness, good judgement — these are numbered among your finest traits and all are encouraged by a fine Jupiter aspect. A top day!

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — A chance now to see things in quiet perspective. Stand back to look things over — but only the present; forget the past.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Why not step out more in more venturesome manner if you have the facts and your intuition tells you that now is the time? If not recklessness, you may walk right into a wonderful new thing, persons, place.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — A fine day for artistic, literary and social interests. In all things, capitalize on your finesse. Excellent Neptune aspect.

YOU BORN TODAY: Here is the turn of the Cusp of Cancer-Leo. Sun waning from one, ascending into the other. You have Cancer's best traits, Leo's finest, too. And a few faults. Develop your personality; it can make or break you; and rely upon your many fine assets, as charity, silence when it is most needed, fortituted to stand alone and be counted, and loyalty. You take leadership only to help and build a better place or project; you may often reject a high post offered, pereferring to remain with the group, helping them turn the wheels with greater strength. NOW: Don't let tenacity or YOUR way obliterate the view from the other person's window; avoid hurt feelings and supersensitivity. Birthdate of: A. Ashley Coope, Eng, statesman.

Bin

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — The important thing now will be your approach, both in minor and major issues. And look over obligations to note if you overlooked something yet uncompleted. Avoid stress and strain.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — When you do a kind deed quietly, you do yourself a favor as well as protect the other person's dignity. This is a forte with Taureans. You may have a chance to exercise this trait now.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — A few spots needing discretion and cooperation now. Hold on to your hat and humor; give where it will help, but not unwisely.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) —Let some of the old show through the new to lend grace, solidarity. Remember what you promised, keep what you can, pay due apology for what you must omit. And don't overcommit yourself next time.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — This would be a good day to discuss pending matters within the family circle or with business associates. You may be the recipient of some valuable ideas.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — You cannot get blood from a turnip nor can you elicit the results you desire from a project that just hasn't reached the productive state. So move to another chore, position, tact; a new viewpoint might help.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — An unshaken faith in your beliefs and constructive principles could be your strongest asset now. Writing, law, agriculture, education, home matters need care.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — You will have your problems if you let your mind wander, or thoughts deviate from duties, wasting precious moments that could be used to clear the way for big returns.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — There's a tendency toward compulsive and undisciplined action now. Take your day in hand promptly, lead with steady, firm reins. Liabilities need not out-balance profits, and all slipups can be rectified.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — With some discreet pushing from you, most things will turn out well. Look for new gains through a co-worker's willingness, your stand pkho tereatment of all matters.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Don't let anyone give you ideas which are prejudicial to your interests. Stick to well-tested procedures and maintain your principles.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Day's ordinary tasks should not be put aside for new things that have glitter but don't rate the front line. Anyone can be fooled who wears blinders and rose-colored glasses. Be alert.

YOU BORN TODAY have an abundance of good will, love and understanding ready for loved ones and all who enter your sphere. You can be hurt at things others do not suspect you notice. Control this: Your humor can counteract gloom when you let it, is a saving grace. Your temperament is notably suited to public activity. You are willing and hard workers but are not always ready to begin! Obviously, self-mastery is a must, and with it you can sail through any waters to any distant destinations. This Zodiacal area excels in writers (all kinds), social workers, religious, reform statesmen. Avoid worries and over - indulgences. Birthdate of: Coventry Patmore, English poet, essayist; Charlotte Cushman, American actress; Cardinal Gibbons.

Pinafore open Aug. 6 and Aug. 9, respectively, while Caesar and Cleopatra gets under way Aug. 4.

Festival officials, budgetting for an expenditure of about $458,000, said Friday that advance ticket sales have been satisfactory. They expect ticket sales and grants will make the budget balance.

Campbell Family Enjoys Reunion For Holidays

NEW DENVER — A family reunion of Mr. and Mrs. Les. R. Campbell and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Thring and three children at their homes with other members numbered 19 for the holidays.

One family motored from Barrie, Ontario, another arrived by plane and train from Sioux Lookout, Ontario. Colin, better known as John, and children joined the clan from Port Arthur.

"It is thrilling beyond words to be back home," family members said. "We agree unanimously that the Slocan Valley is the most scenic and pleasing place of many that we have come across."

Mr. Campbell and his three sons enjoyed participating in the midsummer bonspiel at Nelson together once again.

South Slocan

SOUTH SLOCAN — Mrs. J. Morris of Nelson visited Mrs. I. Dunsmore of South Slocan, also Mrs. B. Dunsmore and Mrs. M. Dunsmore.

Styles Show Esquire Look, Hems Dropping

LONDON (AP) — British fashion designers took their cue from the Continent in their autumn collections Thursday and lowered hemlines to "cover up the beatnik knee."

Angele de Langhe, only woman member of the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers, began the series of showing with the call:

"Let's be ladies at last."

Her hemline was slightly lower to hide those knees. She enhanced the feminine elegance of her creations with fur muffs, lace stockings, swishing scarves and other subtle feminine touches.

Lattli also covered the knees but gave his ladies the "esquire look."

This was a return to tailoring — still casual with set sleeves, collars and reveres. This, Lattli said, gave his ladies the "well-bred look."

Provincial officers and conveners present were: Secretary Mrs. J. Millar, Kamloops; Mrs. A. V. Lowdell, Mrs. Stephen Joyce and Mrs. A. A. Boucher, Vancouver; Mrs. J. A. McLellan, Victoria; Mrs. J. Arens, Whitehorse; Mrs. P. J. Carroll, Salmon Arm; Mrs. D. N. Palumbo, Prince George. Voting delegates were Diocesan Presidents, Mrs. W. Sudol, Kamloops; Mrs. A. Bettin, Nelson diocese; Mrs. J. Kilgour, Prince Rupert; Mrs. A. C. Niehaus, Victoria, Mrs. W. Paquet, Whitehorse.

Father Cullinane told the delegates "Pope John's encyclical 'Mother and Teacher' is a "challenge to the Catholic Women's League, a call to action for all the laity; to fall in love with this letter and translate it into action."

Mrs. Carbery, in her report on the Canadian conference on education, stated that it is the consensus of opinion that the teaching of a second language should begin in the early grades.

Thanking delegates for making the trip to Whitehorse, Bishop Coudert reminisced on a trip made 25 years ago when he covered 5000 miles of territory over a three-months' journey to visit Fort Nelson, 600 miles away.

Speaking on the provincial project for the coming year, "The Lay Apostolate", Bishop Harrington stressed the importance of having representation at the social life conference, scheduled for mid-September in Victoria.

Preceding opening of the convention sessions, delegates were taken on a trip aboard the "Schwatka" up the Yukon River, through the Miles Canyon Rapids, made famous in Gold Rush days, and were awarded the title "Cheechako First Class".

Many Outfits Convertible . . .

Anything Goes This Season Shows Reveal

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters) Fashion-conscious women today looked forward to dressing as they liked in Italy next winter and still being in step with style.

The resourceful flair of the Italians, demonstrated by the 27 high fashion designers who presented fall-winter collections in Rome and Florence from July 11 to 19, allows a wide selection of styles.

According to her taste or figure, a woman will be able to choose her clothes figure moulding or loose, with a knee-length or floor-length hemline, bosom-straight-hanging or flared.

For the budget-minded or working girl, several designers showed a range of well-cut "all-rounded" suits.

These appeared casual at a glance, but under their jackets they concealed dressy, low-cut blouses, fit for formal dining or dancing.

"Convertible" outfits, with pulled up to become cloaks or wraps, or gala evening dresses whose trains unfastened to serve as capes, and boleros to hide a strapless decollete, were another practical revolution.

FURS AVAILABLE

An abundance of precious furs, used for coats, suits and evening dresses, including chinchilla, sable, mink, zebra, tiger, leopard, broadtail and Persian lamb, were at the disposal of the extravagant and wealthy.

But any scrap of fur, even if just large enough to cover a button, could provide a highly-fashionable touch for less expensive tastes.

Although some designers showed preference for a particular color which predominated their collection, women have the whole spectrum to choose from.

Green, a favorite with most Italian designers for the past two seasons, was replaced by a new grey-tinted peacock blue.

Mother Too Exuberant In Gallery

LONDON (AP)—Cabinet member Michael Noble said Friday his 83-year-old mother is a great talker — even in the gallery of the House of Commons where talking is forbidden.

"We've never been able to keep mother quiet," he explained.

Noble, the newly appointed secretary of state for Scotland, smiled when he recalled how his mother, Lady Noble, was escorted out of the gallery when she applauded her son's speech late Thursday.

Making his maiden speech as a minister, Noble joined a debate on unemployment in Scottish industry.

Suddenly from the galleries came a shout:

"Hurrah for Michael."

ALSO APPLAUDS

This was followed by applause from the same spot in the gallery.

A stern-faced attendant barked to Lady Noble:

"Here, you, come with me."

Blushing, Lady Noble meekly followed him from the gallery. She was then interviewed by a policeman.

To the constable, she said:

"I was so proud of my boy. You see it was his first speech, and a good one, too."

Warning Lady Noble not to publicly applaud in the galleries, he allowed her to return.

She limited her encouragement to a few "Hear, hears."

One of the first textured cashmeres in fabric history is shown here in a handsome coat designed for the autumn season. The material is woven in a waffle effect and is in a gray and saffron mixture. The topper's fashion notes include a matching fringed stole, patch pockets and a bone button closing.

"FREEDOM" TOPIC OF LESSON-SERMON

Freedom from enslavement of every kind is available through spiritual understanding of the mighty power of God. This was the encouraging theme of the lesson-sermon entitled "God" which was presented at Christian Science churches Sunday.

Bible readings included this verse (Revelation II); "We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned."

Modern Living In A Modern Age

Better Your Living in 1962

Kitchen's Importance Gives It Priority in Modernization

Many a family will give the kitchen top priority in its program of home modernization.

This reflects the fact that the kitchen has become an increasingly important room of the home in today's scheme of things. Not only must it be practical and efficient, but it must be cheerful and pleasant and coordinate with the home's decorating plan, sporting new colors and warmth to accent the richness of the companion rooms.

To accomplish the feeling of spaciousness, so desired by today's home - makers, kitchen planners are turning to breakfast bars, appliance islands, room dividers and see - through shelving, all of which contributes to the effect of a truly extended living area.

BETTER LIGHTING

Proper lighting can do much to make a kitchen eaesier and more relaxing to work in. Make sure that you have an adequate general illumination fixture at, or near, the centre of the room. Local lights should be placed over the sink, range and other work areas. Finally, if you have wall - type cabinets, illuminate the dark areas under them with special eye-saving, under-cabinet lights.

Today's kitchens (and modernized old ones) have a "built-in" look. When your appliances are built into your cabinets or "stacked" into your base cabinets or counter tops, you no longer have a roomful of separate appliances, but a unitized kitchen with everything where you want it.

Your oven can be up at eye level. Your refrigerator and freezer can be hung on the wall, or installed in cabinets at eye level or under the counter.

There are space-saving range-top units that swing up against the wall when not in use, others that slide out like drawers. Some imaginative homemakers install two ovens — side by side, or one on top of the other.

CONVENIENT CABINETS

Many old homes have enough cabinet space, but much of it is hard to get at without a ladder. The new kitchen cabinets are more compact and the contents are readily accessible.

For instance, you can get cabinets with Lazy Susan rotating shelves inside, special drawers to hold canned goods on their sides where you can see their labels, space-saving shallow drawers for linens, special flip - up shelves that hold your mixer and bowls, rollaway serving carts that tuck into the cabinet base, disappearing towel bars, concealed slots to hold trays, built-in planning desks.

Best of all you ne.d not do all of your kitchen modernization at one time. You can install a "starter" kitchen, and then add to it later as your needs dictate and your pocketbook permits.

Bones of a mammoth recently discovered in Wyoming indicate it was slain by spears and rocks probably 11,000 years ago.

Thieves Rob B.C. Gallery In Daylight

VICTORIA (CP) — In a daring daylight raid Thursday, thieves stole three paintings worth a total of $3,500 from Victoria's art gallery and made good their escape through a rear door.

The three small oil paintings were hung on hte gallery's main floor.

It is believed the thieves came in the front entrance shortly before noon, lifted the paintings down fro mtheir nails, then fled at about 12:20 p.m. as gallery workers took a lunch break.

Missing are Harbour at Fechamp by Eugene Baudin, Portrait of Julia by William Richmond and a landscape by Louis Cabie.

The theft is the first in the 10-year history o fthe Greater Victoria Art Gallery at its present location.

DISPOSABLE SPREADER

Here's how to provide yourself with a supply of cheap, disposable glue spreaders. Cut half-inch slices off a small wooden scrubbing brush using a power saw. Each slice will make an ideal glue spreader and will cost you only about two cents.

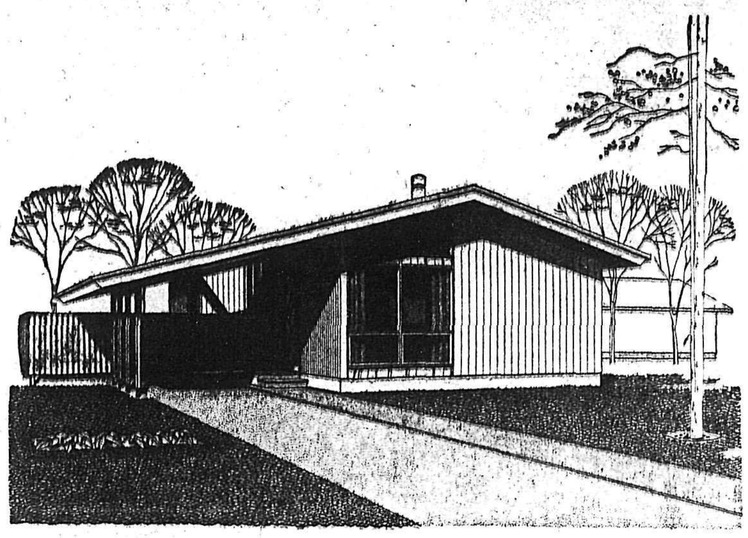
The Modern Home

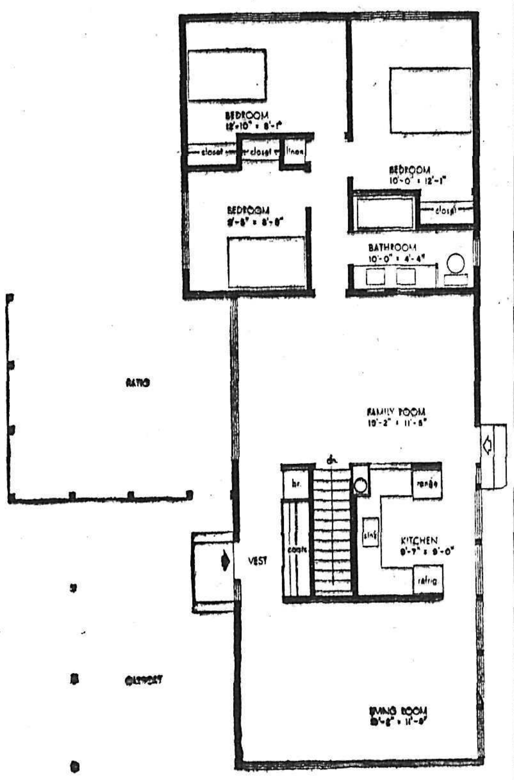


NEW HOUSE DESIGN — Architect J. L. Blatherwick, of Toronto, has employed discipline in design to achieve the beauty and simplicity of this three-bedroom bungalow.

Access to the house is well protected by the carport roof and a fenced-in patio affords privacy for outdoor living.

The interior of the house is planned for greater living efficiency. Large living and family rooms has window areas for natural light and are separated by a centrally - located kitchen and basement stairway. Bedrooms are grouped at the rear of the house and can be closed off from the living area.

The total floor area is 1,147 square feet with exterior dimensions of 24 feet by 53 feet, four inches. Working drawings for this house known as Design 2302, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.



Home Owners Now Enjoy Outdoor Living in Back Yard

Gone are the days when the homeowner spent hours beautifying and grooming his grounds, only to sit down and view his handiwork from the picture window or back stoop! "Back yards" are being put to work (sacrificing none of their beauty) to extend the living and playing space for the family.

With a little planning and small investment, your own back yard can become a pleasant convenient picnic and game area.

A patio of flagstone, concrete, tile or parquet wood can extend the graciousness and serviceability of your living room.

An adjoining barbecue or portable grill can produce many delicious outdoor meals and snacks. With the addition of screening, roofing and interesting new lighting, the patio provides even more living and playing opportunities.

COURT FOR GAMES

With border and corner plantings of evergreens and large shrubs to provide privacy, the main area of the yard can become a grassy court for many enjoyable games and sports . . . many using the same area.

For instance: croquet (which is making a real comeback), badminton (for those who like more strenuous play), quoits (an ancient and popular game), archery (perfect for all ages) and volley ball can all be enjoyed on the same play area with very little special preparation for each game.

An official shuffleboard court can easily be painted on a concrete or asphalt driveway, a basketball hoop can be attached to a garage wall at roof level, and that useless strip along the driveway could be the horseshoe court.

A few tomato cans sunken into a section of the lawn can provide golfers with a dandy practice putting green . . . or just one can serve as the target for "clock golf."

Another game that is gaining many followers is tether ball, which requires only an 18 foot square area, uses a minimum of equipment. It can be played by one, just for good exercise, or by two as a game of points.

GET IN THE SWIM

Gone, too, are the days when a swimming pool was just a pleasant "dream." In many parts of the country pools are included as standard equipment in the purchase price of medium-priced homes.

In the case of established homes, local banks will finance the construction of pools where building codes permit.

Where there are "handymen" in the family or among the neighbors, much of the actual work can be done without professional assistance.

Today's back yard can be a playground, a place to have fun. It is becoming kind of a last frontier in the maze of built-up living; and being a frontier, it presents a challenge to the imagination of the home-owner.

Freedom Highways Planned For Southern States

NEW YORK (AP)—Preparations are under way for a "freedom highways" drive in the southern states by the Congress of Racial Equality to end segregation at roadside restaurants.

Marvin Rich, the organization's community relations director, said a picked team of 30 participants is in training at Greensboro, N.C., for the six-state operation, to begin July 31.

It will last through August, the sponsors say.

"The effort will be to desegregate major chain restaurants in the south for Negroes who travel by car," Rich said.

Using a residual spray of roach and ant killer every month around cracks and crevices near doorsteps will discourage ant invasion.

TOKYO (AP) — Ninety-three persons were injured in two separate train and bus accidents in Japan today. Police said 40 persons were injured when two trains collided in Saga Prefecture on the southernmost island of yushu. An excursion bus plummeted off a highway in Sendai, northern Japan, injuring 53 passengers, including 30 primary school children.

Hockey Clinic Reaches Last Day of 2-Week Nelson Stay

The Western Canada International Hockey Clinic, which has made Nelson its home for the past two weeks, will come to an end today.

For two weeks 85 individuals, representing cities from Montreal to Vancouver and Anaheim, Calif., to Yellowknife, have lived and breathed hockey under the professional eyes of Andy Bathgate, Metro Prystai and Glenn Hall.

During the stay in Nelson the 85 have rectified errors, learned new techniques and been whipped into top physical condition.

Clinic pupils have been donning skates twice daily and sitting at theory lessons in the evening. The 85 have been divided into age and ability groups, with three formed groups having hourly sessions on the ice.

The clinic opened July 9 and for the first three days exercises were confined to skating, stops and starts. On July 12 pucks appeared on the ice, with instructors correcting shooting, passing and stickhandling errors.

At the start of the second week scrimmaging began with each pupil being placed in actual hockey situations. Today as the clinic came to an end each pupil was taken aside for a private conference. In this conference he received a grading report, showing his hockey aptitude and attitude.

During the clinic spirits were always high. No serious trouble resulted, with the occasional hijinks. The boys attending the clinic thought it was "tops" and plan to return next year if Nelson is chosen as the 1963 site.

Bathgate said he wuld like to see the clinic return to Nelson. Reasons for a third successive year here were. "Everything's under one roof," and "would attract more if remained in the same spot."

Ages of the hockey enthusiasts ranged from 14-17, with extremes at both ends.

The instructors agreed the 14 and 15 years age group contained many of the best players. Names ticked off as potential hockey stars were Jerry Pinder, Saskatoon; Ken Faranski, Prince George; Harold Mines and Frank Mapletoft, Lloydminster; Jim Currie, North Vancouver; Terry Luxtron, Edmonton; Fred Heslop, Trail; Graham Longmuir, Vancouver and Dalles Allenson, Beechey, Sask.

"The talent is good for the ages," commented Bathgate and Hall. "Better than last year," added Prystai.

Friday night the first of two nights of inter-squad games were played.

In the first game, featuring the young players, Bruins trounced Leafs 7-1, behind the three goal splurge of Spokane's Craig Condron and a pair of tallies by Pinder and Ken Fuller, Balgonie, Sask. Dave Cowes, Chilliwack, scored for Leafs.

Red Wings ,sparked by Darwyn Bird's hat trick, edged Canadiens 6-5. Dave Cowes tallied twice for Wings ,with Ron Collingwood adding the single. Jim Currie, Terry Luxtron and Jim Wallace, Seattle scored Canadien's goals.

In the final game of the evening Rangers came from behind to slip by Black Hawks 5-4.

B. Chatwell led Rangers with two goals, with Faranski, D. Whiteny, Seattle and Mapletoft adding singles.

Longmuir scored twice for Blackhawks. D. Allinson and G. Dixons scored once each.

Tonight three other inter-squad contests will be played.

PREDICTION COMES TRUE, CLAY KO'S LAVORANTE IN 5TH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Undefeated Cassius Clay of Louisville knocked out Alejandro Lavorante of Argentina in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round fight Friday night, fulfilling his prediction to the round.

Clay, 20, weighing 199, ended the fiery match in 1:48 of the fifth, sending the towering Argentine to the mat twice, the last time for the full count, although referee Tommy Hart didn't actually bother to count the full 10. Lavorante weighed 208.

This was the 15th straight victory for Clay and his 12th knockout.

It was only the fourth defeat in 23 fights for Lavorante, but was the second time he has been knocked out. Archie Moore, a ringside spectator, stopped the Argentine in 10 rounds in this same arena last March.

Queens Trounce Riondel 7-2

Queens Hotel raised their softball exhibition winning count to three straight games Friday by trouncing Riondel 7-2.

Queens squeezed together two runs in the first, fourth and fifth innings and scored a solo run in the second frame to count the seven tallies. Riondel scored two in the seventh inning.

Don Ball tossed the first six frames for the winners, limiting Riondel to six hits. John Austin tossed the remaining two innings in reilef, pitching perfect ball. Combined, the duo fanned seven and gave up five free passes.

Bishop and Crutchley shared Riondel's hurling chores, allowing eight hits, including G. Towey's home run and R. Catton's double. They struck out one and walked six.

Crutchley clouted Riondel's lone extra base blow, a triple in the third inning.

DYNAMOS NEAR 1ST IN E. K. BALL LEAGUE

KIMBERLEY —Kimberley Dynamos moved within one point of first place Kimberley Hobos in the East Kootenay senior baseball league Friday night, edging Hobos 7-5.

Ike Bodin was the winning pitcher for Dynamos, scattering 11 hits. Elgin Smith and Mel Johnson combined for Hobos, allowing 12 hits.

Johnson relieved Smith in the fourth. Harvey Nash and Les Lilley clouted home runs for Dynamos, while Mel Johnson smashed a three-run homer for Hobos.

Angels Take Jr. Tourney Ball Opener

KIMBERLEY — Mel Dorey's home run over 350 foot left field barrier led Kimberley Angels to a 1-0 shutout over Marysville Trader Dick Steelman in the opening game of the Kimberley junior baseball tournament Friday night.

Bob Carter hurled Angels into a semi-finals berth limiting Marysville to four hits, while backed by perfect fielding. Wayne Iverson gave up 11 hits in the losing cause. His team mates committed four errors.

Today Pincher Creek and Kimberley Tempests meet at 11 a.m. with Cranbrook and Calgary Cardinals clashing at 2 p.m. and Nelson Texans and Calgary Pirates at 5:30 p.m.

Play-For-Fun Softball

Queens erupted for 10 runs in the seventh inning in a come-from-behind 12-4 victory over Savoy in an A division game Wednesday night.

Three hits, three walks and four errors led to the big inning. B. Mayer, G. Benwell and R. Catton doubled for the winners. Bill Taylor clouted a two-bagger for Savoys.

Doug Ford Forges Into Lead Of PGA Golf Championship

Opening Leaders Fall Back, Palmer in Familiar Spot

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP)—Doug Ford forged to the lead in the PGA golf championship with a one-under-par 69 for a halfway score of 138 Friday but Arnold Palmer clung to a position where he is feared most — five shots back at 143.

Palmer, the U.S. Masters and British open champion, salvaged what he called a "sloppy round" of 72 with a spectacular eagle three on the 541-yard 16th hole.

With his usual flair for the dramatic, the Latrobe, Pa., strong boy slammed a drive 300 yards down the fairway, sent a No. 3 wood shot to the green and rolled in a putt of 25 feet while a crowd of thousands roared.

Palmer's chief rival for world honors, Jack Nicklaus, playing in the same threesome, three-putted three greens for a 74 that gave him a 36-hole score of 145.

BUBBLE BURSTING?

The bubble may have burst also for the two oldsters who dominated the first round over the par 35-35—70 Aronimink Golf club's 7,045-yard course Thursday.

Fifty-year-old John Barnum added a 74 to his opening 66 for 140 and Chick Harbert, the 47-year-old ex - champion who had been in second place with 68, had a 76 for 144.

At 138, Ford had a one-stroke lead over a formidable trio consisting of South Africa's Gary Player, Dr. Cary Middlecoff and the slugging giant, George Bayer, all tied at 139.

Then came Barnum, from Belmont, Mich., tied with Bob McCallister, a 28-year-old unknown from Claremont, Calif., at 140.

Middlecoff, a two-time U.S. open champion who is struggling to break out of a slump, and McCallister each shot 66s, equalling the course record set by Barnum Thursday.

GOES ORIENTAL

Player, brandishing an old Japanese putter he bought a couple of years ago, sank birdie putts of 35 and 15 feet on the final two holes for a second-round 67. Bayer, hailed as the game's longest hitter, toured the arduous course with a 70.

Bob Goalby was next with 69-72—141, followed by a group bracketed at 142—Frank Stranahan, Bobby Nichols, Jack Burke Julius Boros and Marty Furgol.

Toronto's George Knudson, held his position at the top of the Canadian contingent. He had a 75 today, added to Thursday's 72, for a total of 147. Al Johnston of Montreal also shot a 75 today for a total of 151.

Bill Ezinicki, a former National Hockey League stalwart from Winnipeg who now plays out of North Reading, Mass., added a 74 to his first-round 77 for a 151.

An even 90 players with scores of 151 and better advanced to the third round. The chief casualty was Jerry Barber, who won this championship a year ago with a miraculous putting performance. This time Barber had 79-73—152. Another failure was 1957 winner, Lionel Hebert, with 77-75-152.

Electronic Ball "Worth Experiment"

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Minor league chief George M. Trautman Friday put his stamp of approval on radio communication between a baseball manager and his pitcher.

He termed as a "worthy experiment" the electronic communication between bench sitting manager Jack McKeon of the Vancouver Mounties and his moundsmen.

Using a transistor - type transmitter, McKeon has passed on pitching signals and other advice to his hurlers the last two nights — and the Mounties beat Tacoma 8-4 and 1-0. The pitcher picks up the signal on a small shirt-pocket set.

"Of course, if a manager is ejected from a game, a different problem arises. He would not be permittted to sit in the stands and pass on signals — for he must divorce himself completely from the contest."

Next step? Opposing batters probably will be fitted with shirt - pocket receivers tuned to the enemy manager's frequency to learn whether a fast ball, slider or curve is coming up next.

Gerace, Fyfe, Martel, Qualify In B.C. Track and Field Meet

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Jerome of North Vancouver romped to easy victories in his qualifying heats at the Western Canada track and field championships Friday night, matching his own Canadian record in the 100-yard dash but well off his best time in the 220.

One Canadian record was broken, that by Amber Sutherland, 16, of Vancouver, who won the women's 440-yard run in 59.1. The previous mark was 101.1.

Diane Gerace of Trail, B.C., 18-year-old who set a Canadian women's high jump record of five feet, four inches in May, showed her talents in two other events Friday night.

She paced the heat of the women's 80 - metre hurdles in 12.8 seconds in spite of a sore knee, then jumped 16 feet, 11¾ inches in the broad jump to lead qualifiers there.

Terry Fyfe of Nelson was second in the preliminaries of the broad jump with a leap of 16 feet 10½ inches.

Yvonne Breeden, 15, of Vancouver left the qualifier's in the women's 100 and 220, winning her heats easily in 11.1 seconds and 25.7 seconds respectipely. Heather Campbell of Vancouver won her heats in 11.3 and 25.6.

Robyma Martel, a 13-year-old from Rossland, surprised by finishing second to Miss Breeden and qualifying for today's final. Bill Nicholson of Seattle won the men's hammer throw with a pitch of 153 feet, five inches.

GIVE IT THE GEARS!

PROTECT THEM WITH ROYALITE

NEW TECHNICALLY ADVANCED (T.A.) GEAR OIL

NOW 50% LONGER LIFE

Royalite T.A. gives you 50% longer life in any gear case. From heavy-duty crawler tractor to small truck and farm tractor, Royalite T.A. protects, wears longer, stays cleaner. Here's why. Royalite T.A. reduces oxygen absorption thereby reducing or eliminating deposit formations in gear cases. T.A. stops or reduces corrosion above the splash-line inside gear cases. New T.A. is filterable. No filter system can remove T.A.'s additives; new T.A. works equally well in filter or non-filter systems.

GREATER FILM STRENGTH, MORE GEAR PROTECTION

Royalite new T.A. is absolutely guaranteed not to increase in viscosity to any appreciable degree. (Always follow manufacturer's drain interval specification.) In field service terms, Royalite T.A. additives when combined with the higher quality base lubricant, give T.A. a 30% tougher film strength. That means greater protection under heat and extreme pressure on gear faces, less wear, longer life from the gear oil and longer service from your equipment.

ROYALITE NEW T.A. (Technically Advanced) GEAR OIL is now available from Royalite Agents and Dealers throughout Western Canada. A few moments of your time will be well invested in learning how ROYALITE T.A. can help you. MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market chalked up its second straight daily rise Friday while trading faded to its lowest level in six weeks.

A surprising rally by steels and a sharp drop by stocks of the savings - and - loan holding companies were features.

The advance by steels was linked by brokers with growing opinion expressed in Wall Street that U.S. Steel and Bethlehem will declare their regular dividends on common stock when directors of both companies meet in the near future.

The slump by the savings-and-loans followed immediately upon published news that the Senate finance committee has approved a provision for increasing taxation on these institutions and on savings banks.

GM BOOSTS TONE

The list derived encouragement from news that General Motors had rulled up record sales and earnings for the first half.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.02 to 577.18.

Volume fell to 2,610,000 shares from 3,090,000 Thursday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 1.00 at 215.40.

International Business Machines rose 4½ to 372. American Telephone, up 1⅛, and Douglas Aircraft, up ⅝, continued to respond to the successful test of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile, in which both firms are involved.

Among Canadian stocks on the New York Exchange Walker Gooderham dropped ½ and Hudson Bay Mining ⅛. Aluminium Ltd., added ⅜ and Dome Mines ⅛.

American Exchange prices were irregularly higher. Canadian Marconi and Jupiter Corp. lost ¼; Brazilian Traction and Preston ⅛. Scurry Rainbow Oil added ¼ and Fargo Oil 1-16.

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market vainly attempted to move forward Friday but slipped for the sixth consecutive session during relatively moderate trading.

On the industrial board, prices presented a mixed pattern with losses slightly outnumbering gains. Biggest drop of the day was taken by General Motors, down 1½ to 52.

On the plus side, Ford of Canada was ahead one point, Canada Packers B ¾.

On the speculative market, Violamac gained nine cents to $1.93 a share on 281,897 shares. New Kelore gained ½ cents to 12 cents on 128,600 shares.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped .08 at 524.00 and base metals .04 at 183.63. Western oils advanced .43 to 94.55 and golds .05 to 103.50.

Base metals were also mixed with Falconbridge ahead ¾ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting down ½.

MONTREAL (CP) — Stocks were generally mixed on the changes Friday. Advances and declines were evenly mixed. Trading was moderate in industrials but light in mines.

In base metals Consolidated Mining and Smelting fell ½ to 19½ and International Nickel lost ¼ to 58¼ while Asbestos rose ⅜ to 30½ and Noranda ⅛ to 30.

Refining oils reflected the mixed trend with British American up ⅜ to 29⅛ and Interprovincial Pipe Line up ¼ to 70 while Canadian Oil fell ½ to 32¼ and Imperial Oil ⅜ to 39⅛.

Steel of Canada added ¼ to 15⅛. Hudson's Bay Company fell ⅝ to 28¾.

Papers were up 0.4 on index with Abitibi up ⅜ to 44⅞ and Consolidated Paper up ⅛ to 38⅝.

On index, banks were up 0.07 to 55.65, utilities up 0.3 to 130.0, industrials up 0.7 to 293.6, combined up 0.5 to 239.0, papers up 0.4 to 472.5 and golds were up 0.05 to 80.24.

Arab Airlines Plane Crashes, No Survivors

BANGKOK (AP)—A United Arab Airlines jet with 26 persons aboard crashed into a jungle-covered mountain in central Thailand Thursday night and an American military search party reported its first check today indicated there were no survivors.

Three of the 18 passengers aboard the British-built Comet IV were Americans—Mrs. Virginia Gilbertson of Bradford Woods, Pittsburgh, Pa., her daughter Christine and her son Eric.

The American family was en route to the United States from Tokyo, where Mrs. Gilbertson's husband, Dennis, represents the Blaw-Knox Steel Company of Pittsburgh. They had booked passage on the U.A.R. plane at the last minute when their flight with another airline was cancelled.

Gilbertson accompanied his family to Hong Kong and had planned to return to Tokyo today. Friends in Hong Kong said he would leave for Bangkok tonight.

Three Asian newspaper men were reported aboard the crashed Comet, on their way to Cairo as guests of the U.A.R. government. Several other Tokyo and Hong Kong newspaper men who were scheduled to make the trip to Cairo postponed their departure at the last minute.

FLIGHT LEAVES TOKYO

The eight crew members were U.A.R. nationals.

The jetliner flight originated in Tokyo with Cairo the final destination after stopovers in Hong Kong, Bangkok, Bombay and Kuwait.

The pilot of the jetliner radioed Bangkok's Don Muang Airport he was preparing to land when he was 20 minutes away. That was the last word from the plane. The weather was relatively clear at the time, with scattered clouds.

A U.S. Army helicopter sighted the wreckage on the side of a 4,590-foot peak in the Khao Yai range about 50 miles northeast of Bangkok and landed at the crash site.

U.S. embassy officials here said although the first reports indicated there were no survivors, the search was continuing.

American search planes and helicopters were sent out from the big Thai military centre at Korat, headquarters of the U.S. task force stationed in Thailand.

Sneering Gargoyle Represents Speaker

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — The stone carvings on Parliament Hill include a gargoyle depicting a hawk-nosed sneering man with one blind eye, holding a gavel.

One of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's most critical decisions is to decide on a man to nominate for the $23,000-a-year job the gargoyle represents — the speakership of the House of Commons.

The gargoyle's gavel symbolizes the Speaker's position as presiding officer of the elected House — although the Speaker doesn't use a gavel. The blind eye represents the speaker's power to refuse recognition to an MP who seeks the floor—a power exercised only rarely.

The Speaker is elected by the House of Commons, on nomination of the prime minister, usually seconded by the leader of the official opposition.

LAMBERT POSSIBILITY

Speculation currently centres on Marcel Lambert, 43, an Edmonton lawyer, Rhodes Scholar and veteran of four years overseas service in the Second World War who was taken prisoner at Dieppe.

Others mentioned include Paul Martineau, 41, former Crown counsel of Pontiac District in Quebec, who was deputy speaker at the end of the last Parliament, and Theogene Ricard, 53, deputy whip for the Conservatives and parliamentary secretary to Mr. Diefenbaker.

The job calls for a bilingual man, this time drawn from French - Canadian stock. Since 1900 MPs of French and English stock have alternated in the post. Speaker in the last Parliament was D. Roland Michener, defeated narrowly for re-election June 18 in St. Paul's constituency in Toronto.

Only six of the 29 deputy speakers since 1885, when that post was created, have succeeded to the speakership. Seventeen of the 24 speakers since Confederation have been lawyers. Two were journalists, one a doctor, one a dentist, one a lumberman, and one a reitred farmer.

The speakership calls for good humor and tact, a knowledge of the rules of Parliament and the philosophy behind them. It also calls for a man of administrative ability to administer the housekeeping of the Parliament Buildings and for a man of diplomatic skill and social graces to be the Commons' representative on state occasions.

It is the most honored post in the gift of Parliament, dating from 1258 in Britain when Peter de Montford presided over the Mad Parliament—so named because it dared to call King Henry III a liar and cheat.

The task of the Speaker in the coming session, expected to open Sept. 27, will be particularly difficult because of the uneasy balance of power between the government and opposition parties.

Veterans on Parliament Hill are expecting the new 25th Parliament to be not unlike the 20th, between 1945 and 1949, when the Liberals under the late Mackenzie King had a slim majority over the combined opposition. Due to absenteeism and possibility of a revolt among government supporters, every vote counted.

Dentist Gaspard Fauteux, later lieutenant-governor of Quebec, was Speaker. Arguments about the rules were long and tangled. The government of that day seemed—never saying so—to sidetrack any embarrassing opposition motion of substance into a procedural argument after which an adverse vote would not bring down the government.

Dr. Fauteux's successor, W. Ross Macdonald, now Liberal opposition leader in the Senate, presided over a House with a big Liberal majority. He displayed a quiet charm that averted acrimonious argument, and established some kind of record in having fewer of his rulings challenged than any of his predecessors in recent years.

Louis - Rene Beaudoin, who was Speaker Macdonald's understudy as deputy speaker, presided over the 22nd Parliament, and was credited generally with having a better knowledge of the rules and keener appreciation of the philosophy behind them than any of his predecessors. But in the protracted heat of the 1956 pipeline debate his rulings were called into question with such vigor that his previous record was dimmed.

Both Mr. Beaudoin and his successor, Mr. Michener — who presided over the Commons in both the one-session 1957 Parliament and in the 1958-62 Parliament—were widely regarded as good candidates for a permanent speakership if one were established.

Observers of the Canadian Parliament have long felt Canada should adopt the British practice of having a speaker who would permanently divorce himself from politics and make a career of his office.

Government leaders, however, have found this goal impossible to attain because of the precedent of alternative speakers between MPs of British and French stock.

Five British Doctors Give Reasons For Leaving Home

SASKATOON (CP) — Five newly arrived British doctors, recruited for temporary practice during Saskatchewan's medical care dispute, Thursday gave among their reasons for coming—money, a holiday and a chance to see Canada.

They were among 10 who arrived Wednesday at Regina and came here Thursday to register with the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons to practise in the province.

One said he plans to stay permanently. Another said he might.

Dr. Mike Smith, 27, of Birmingham, with two-and-one-half years general practice, said he is looking for a future as a doctor in the province.

"It's a wonderful opportunity."

"There are no opportunities for young doctors in England. Six hundred of us emigrate every year," he said.

The five, whose experience ranges from two to 23 years, were interviewed as they waited in a Saskatoon motel for processing at college headquarters here.

BACKS LOCAL DOCTORS

Dr. A. L. Rose, Newcastle-on-Tyne, said:

"I regard the Saskatchewan doctors as my professional brothers and I most certainly wouldn't have come if I thought I would be hurting their position.

"I would have taken the same position as the Saskatchewan doctors, had I been in practice here."

He gave as his main reason for coming, "I wanted a change . . . and would gladly have flown out here from money out of my own pocket anyway. But this chance arose and I took it."

He said it cost him $75 a week to pay a doctor in England to keep up his patients.

The doctors have signed contracts with the Medical Care Insurance Commission, which administers the province's prepaid, compulsory Medical Care Act, for one to three-month periods. Their salaries vary from $370 to $481 a week.

NOT AWARE OF ISSUES

The doctors said they were not aware of all the issues involved in the province's medical care dispute, which saw most of the province's practising doctors withdraw normal medical service July 1 when the government plan went into effect.

"We didn't know the battle carried such political overtones," said one.

"Politically, I couldn't care less what's at stake, but medically I'm something of an idealist," said Dr. Sidney Lazurus of London. "Regardless of the situation, I feel members of my profession should not take strike action."

A graduate of Sheffield University, Dr. Lazurus said he had felt no antagonism from Saskatchewan people although British news reports led him to expect some hard feelings.

In golders the doctors had were instructions for dealing with the press. They said they had not been forbidden to speak to reporters, but were being "protected from the press by a bodyguard from the Medical Care Insurance Commission."

WILL EARN $1,500

Dr. Perry Caplan, 28, of Southport, England, said he had signed a contract to work for a year in surgery in Blackpool, starting in September.

His contract here is for one month at $1,500. At home, he said he will make board and room and the equivalent of $3,300 a year.

"The wages here are fantastic," he said.

He said he thought national medicine "could not be stopped in North America. It will come eventually."

Dr. R. Whitfield of London, a general practitioner for 23 years, has signed a three-month contract. A single man, he said he might stay.

More People Today Buying Shares in Canadian Firms

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The increase in the numbers of people who own shares in companies is of keen interest, of course, to financial and investment men.

Probably it is of as much interest to public men running for office—if, as is generally believed, the person who owns something takes a different look at issues than the person who owns nothing.

Exchange, publication of the New York Stock Exchange, describes the increase as "one of the most dramatic and significant social - economic developments of our times," and adds:

"It means that this huge group should have, through their direct ownership, an increasing awareness of how our system of free enterprise really works and what it means to them personally."

The comment is made in connection with publication of the exchange's latest census of United States share owners.

INCREASES SIGNIFICANT

It shows that as of early 1962 a total of 17,010,000 men, women and children owned shares of American companies, an increase of 10,500,000 over the 6,500,000 reported in the exchange's first census in 1952. In the last three years the increase has averaged 1,500,000 annually.

No parallel figures are available for Canada. If the sometimes-used yardstick of 1-10th is used it might indicate 1,700,000 share owners in Canada, but investment circles consider this figure too high.

The New York analysis shows 6,300 publicly-held corporations with 14,400,000,000 outstandng shares with an estimated market value of $531,000,000,000. Individual owners held shares valued at $341,000,000,000, with the remaining $190,000,000,000, owned by institutions, corporations and brokerage firms.

Medium household income of shareowners was $8,600 compared with $7,000 in 1959—attributed to increase in average family income and a rise in ownership in higher - income brackets. Largest increases were recorded among household incomes of $10,000 to $15,000.

More than 80 per cent of adult share owners were high school graduates; more than half had some college training; and nearly one-third were college graduates.

Largest segment of the employed share-owning population was 3,000,000 clerical and sales people.

Largest of any group was 5,500,000 housewives (including non - employed adult women), who constituted 34 per cent of share owners. Share ownership by sex, however, was more evenly divided than in previous censuses. The division still favored women, 51 per cent to 49 per cent; compared with 52.5 and 47.5 in 1959. One out of six women share owners was a widow.

Lowest incidence of ownership—fewer than one out of 50—was among farmers and farm laborers.

U.K. Medical Association Bars Sask. Discussions

BELFAST (CP)—The British Medical Association on a technicality voted against a full-dress debate Thursday on the role of British doctors involved in the dispute of Saskatchewan physicians who are fighting compulsory, pre - paid medical insurance.

The annual congress of the United Kingdom's 67,000 doctors represented by 550 delegates, defeated a Scottish motion aimed at clearing the way for such a debate.

A group of Scottish delegates had sought the adoption of a motion "deploring the intervention" of British doctors in the dispute. The Scots also wanted the BMA to proclaim its official support for the Saskatchewan doctors who have curtailed their services in protest against the provincial government's compulsory medical care program.

But congress rules did not allow the Scottish motion because it came too late for proper debate, and the conference refused to change them.

British doctors have become involved in the dispute since more than 50 of them have accepted temporary posts in Saskatchewan.

TELLS 'SASK. STORY'

Shortly after the vote, Dr. Jack Anderson of Saskatoon, a past president of the Canadian Medical Association, addressed the congress and said he had come here "to tell the Saskatchewan story."

Dr. Anderson flew to this Northern Ireland capital Thursday morning.

In his speech, he said he had no doubt that political expediency had played a major part in the decision of the Saskatchewan government.

The delegates received him warmly and afterwards one delegate began collecting signatures for an expression of sympathy from the delegates to the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Anderson told reporters at a press conference later that he was not here as an official observer from the CMA, and said he had paid his own fare.

'NO LIVES LOST'

"So far no lives have been jeopardized through the strike with the type of emergency service we have organized," Dr. Anderson said.

He was closely questioned by reporters over the motives behind the boycott.

He was asked whether the struggle was worthwhile—even if it meant that not a life was lost through lack of medical care.

He replied "it would be worthwhile if we had freed the judgment of medical men so that they could act always in the best interests of the patient. . . ."

"It was this — rigid government control — that was one of the Canadian doctors' major complaints about the medical care plan.

"But we are not against the principle of a health service plan for Saskatchewan," Dr. Anderson added. "It is just the way it is done."

DEATH RATE LOWER

Asked about a child who died after being driven by his parents 75 miles to Yorkton to find a doctor, Dr. Anderson said he understood the child had died of meningitis and no blame could be attacked to the doctors or the government.

"So far we feel we are not jeopardizing people's lives. Deaths in the first two weeks of July were less than in the same period last year."

Speaking in London on behalf of a Saskatchewan doctors' delegation that has come to Britain to put forward its case, Dr. J. Noel Doig, a Saskatoon general practitioner, told a press conference that he and his colleagues are not "on strike."

"We have curtailed services from our surgeries and closed them and are not giving services from the hospitals.

"These services are in fact practically as comprehensive as those the patients were getting previously."

EXPLAINS DISPUTE

Dr. Doig explained the crux of the dispute was in the Saskatchewan health service act that made it impossible for a doctor to work outside the act in private practice.

Dr. Doig was one of the three men — two doctors and a lawyer—who took over a suite in the posh Grosvenor House as representatives of the Keep Our Doctors Committee of Saskatoon. The other members are Dr. Marc Baltzan of Saskatoon, a consultant, and Peter Mahon of Prince Albert, a lawyer.

"We are here to give information which we think has been lacking and we are here in an advisory capacity for anyone who wishes to see us," Dr. Doig said. "This particularly applies to doctors seeking to go to Saskatchewan."

The BMA here heard complaints Thursday that the family doctors who run Britain's state medical service aren't being paid enough, and in some cases earn little more than unskilled workers.

A spokesman for the GPs also said it also was unfair that there should be such a wide gulf between their pay and that of the specialists and consultants who have an easier life, get an average —3,900 a year, and live longer.

'Peg Dancer Appears In London

LONDON (CP) — Canadian dancer David Adams joined the cast of Harald Lander's Etudes Thursday night at the Royal Festival Hall, a ballet which had a charity preview Monday before Princess Margaret.

Most London reviews concentrade on the American Royes Fernandez, appearing for the first time with the festival ballet. But The Times and The Guardian also mention Winnipeg-born Adams, who made his debut with the London company last September.

The Times says in comparison with Fernandez, the other principals seemed "a little rough in finish." But the critic adds "Mr. David Adams shows an apt, if intermittent, buoyancy."

The Guardian comments that Etudes—a ballet that builds up from a series of classroom exercises to a bravua finish—is a piece in which "differences of basic training become conspicuous."

Discussing the mannerisms of an international cast, it mentions the "transatlantic, rather rough and ready technique and the unstrained, boyish affability of David Adams."

Sydney Sun Expects Few Emigrants

SUDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Sydney Sun says today fewer persons will emigrate to Australia because of unemployment here and rising employment in Europe.

Referring to the position as a rapidly developing crisis, the newspaper says The Netherlands has warned the Australian government that Dutch migration is expected to fall from an average of 8,000 to about 2,000 this year.

"Immigration authorities in Europe have warned Australia that the Dutch trend will be repeated by the Common Market countries."
