Ayub Elected Pakistan President

Nelson's first New Year's baby is just too contented to smile for the cameraman as he snuggles close to his mother, Mrs. Walter Koftinoff, of 519A Hall Street. The young gentleman weighed in at a hefty eight pounds, 12½ ounces, and arrived at 1:01 p.m., Saturday.

Girl Shortened 7 Inches

OSWESTRY, England (Aeuters) — British bone surgeons Saturday performed the final operation in a series designed to whittle down a six foot-seven inch teenager to slightly over six feet.

A spokesman for the Oswestry Orthopaedic Hospital in western Shropshire county said everything had gone according to plan and that 19-year-old Ann Rowston was sleeping comfortably.

"However, it will be two or three days before we know whether the operation has been 100 per cent successful."

The latest surgery removed four inches from the thigh bone of the girl's left leg. Previous operations cut two inches from the shin bones of both legs and four inches from the right thigh bone.

The auburn-haired girl, who had been nicknamed "lanky" by schoolmates and suffered acute embarrassment from her abnormal height, hopes to be able to attend dances and take part in other normal activities if the unusual operations prove successful.

Doctors decided her trouble was an overactive gland which caused her to continue growth. By the time this was discovered Ann had reached six feet 7½ inches in height.

Malaysia Braced for Indonesian Attack

KUALA LUMPUR Reuters — Malaysia has taken steps to meet possible increased aggression from Indonesia following Indonesia's announced decision to withdraw from the United Nations, Defence Minister Tun Abdul Razak said Sunday.

Razak, also Malaysia's deputy prime minister, told reporters Malaysia is ready to meet new armed attacks in any part of the country.

In Singapore, meanwhile, it was reported that an advance contingent of 1,000 troops from Britain — about 50 men of the 2nd Parachute Battalion — was expected to arrive late Monday.

An official spokesman described the move as precautionary.

SCOTS GUARDS COMING

About 350 members of the 1st Battalion of the Scots Guards left Singapore by ship Saturday for Malaysian Borneo to reinforce British and Malaysian units.

Four minesweepers and two "Seaward defence boats" — a type of patrol boat — will be taken out of reserve at Britain's Singapore naval base to strengthen sea patrols around Malaya and Singapore. Crews for the ships will be flown from Britain.

A British spokesman revealed Saturday night that Britain's most modern aircraft carrier, the 50,000-ton Eagle, expected in Malaysian waters this week, would be delayed a few days.

NEWSMAN DIES

TORONTO (CP) — Laurie M. McKechnie, executive assistant to the editor-in-chief of The Telegram died in hospital Saturday. He was 58.

He had served the newspaper for a total of 35 years. Previously he had worked on the old Toronto Globe.

During the Second World War he joined the public relations office of the Royal Canadian Air Force and became its director in 1944.

Patrol Ships Alerted At Singapore

SINGAPORE Reuters — Patrolling British, Australian and Malaysian naval ships were put on the alert Sunday night after reports that unidentified small vessels had been sighted heading towards Singapore, informed sources here said.

Earlier Sunday in Kuala Lumpur, the Malaysian capital, Defence Minister Tun Abdul Razak said Malaysia had taken steps to meet possible increased aggression from Indonesia following Indonesia's decision to withdraw from the United Nations.

No Hope for Relations With U.S.. While U.S. Arms Being Sent to India

By DANIEL COGGIN

RAWALPINDI (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan held out little hope Sunday for improvement in U.S.-Pakistani relations as long as the United States supplies arms to Pakistan's arch-enemy, India.

He also said China will not attack India.

But Ayub denied rumors that Pakistan, once a close U.S. ally but now drawing closer to China, might pull out of two U.S.-supported military alliances, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) and the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO).

The Pakistani strongman discussed his country's deteriorating relations with the U.S. in an interview the day after winning a five-year term in Pakistan's first presidential election.

The bitter campaign for leadership of this country, a strategic buffer between Communist China and the Middle East, was marked by the most pointed anti-Americanism ever expressed in Pakistan.

Ayub and Miss Fatima Jinnah, the 71-year-old woman he defeated by 49,402 votes to 28,225 in almost complete returns from electoral colltge balloting, made plain their view that to be labeled a friend of the U.S. spells political death in Pakistan.

Ayub said:

"U.S. policy in this part of the world has changed in a fashion that has imperilled our security.

"I know the United States has its commitments and I don't blame the Americans in a sense for their global attitude, but arming India does not make sense to me and I feel very strongly about that.

"China is not going to attack India. India will use these American weapons against smaller nations and continue trying to intimidate us as she has for the last 17 years. India is not going to act in a fashion that would further U.S. policy."

The U.S., pursuing its long-elusive goal of India and Pakistan joined in common defence against Chinese Communism, rushed arms aid to Idia after the start of the 1962 India-China border war.

Total U.S. economic and military aid to the two impoverished Southeast Asian giants has reached about $6,000,000,000 to India and almost $5,000,000,000 to Pakstan. They have rectived more American foreign aid since 1951 than any other country.

But while arming India may discourage Chinese thrusts, it has not influenced India and Pakistan to work together nor secured them for the Western camp.

India, under Prime Minister Bahadur Shastri, appears as non-aligned as ever and gets as much military aid as possible from the Soviet Union.

Pakistan has taken a more neutral tack in world affairs, but snuggled up to China with border and air agreements and aid and trade deals.

knglblore$foreign

India and Pakistan are quarrelling as bitterly as ever since they were partitioned out of British India in 1947. The major irritant in their relations remains Kashmir, the divided Himalayan state.

LOW-COST ROCKET DESIGNED

LONDON (AP) — British designers were reported Sunday to have perfected a low-cost miniature rocket capable of looking into scientific secrets at the adge of space from 84 miles above the earth's surface.

Scientists described it as a major breakthrough in technology costs. Each rocket cost only about £800 ($2,400).

Father of the "shoe-string" rocket is Sir Harrie Massey, who is in charge of Britain's space program. Its designer is Toby Fisher, chief technician of Bristol Aerojets Limited..

The rocket is nine feet long and has a diameter of 7½ inches. It will be propelled by solid fuel and will reach 3,500 miles an hour before the rocket motor burns out and the casing containing scientific instruments coasts to its ultimate 84 miles altitude.

An important role is forecast for the rocket in research into weather forecasting in space and the effects of cosmic rays.

Fourth Dies After Crash

EDMONTON (CP) — A New Year's Day collision five miles east of Edmonton on Highwav 16 has claimed the life of a fourth person.

Mrs. Florence Eichlet of Edmonton died Sunday in hospital. Her husband, Herbert, 33, died in the crash. Also killed were Thomas Daneluk, 67, of Edmonton and his son, Andrew, 37, of Ulm, Germany. Mrs. Eichlet was the daughter of the elder Daneluk.

Hospital officials said the Eichlet's year-old daughter Kimberly was in "slightly improved condition." However her condition still remained critical.

The accident ended a sad holiday for the Daneluk family. Andrew had arrived from Germany to attend the funeral of his mother Dec. 31.

RCMP said the second car was driven by Albert Hoffman, 23, of Spruce Grove, Alta. Hoffman and two passengers were treated in hospital for minor injuries.

Buddhist Monks Renew Campaign

SAIGON (AP) — Buddhist monks reopened their campaign against the South Vietnamese government of Premier Tran Van Huong Sunday with a meeting of 2000 followers in a Buddhist camp here, setting the stage for a demonstration today.

In Hue, an anti-government student group announced it is organizing a country-wide two-day general strike aimed at halting even military activity. The student leadership did not say when the strike would begin.

The Buddhists' meeting in Saigon was the first since military leaders purged the civilian high National Council Dec. 20 and arrested some politicians.

At the end of the meeting, the Buddhists called on their followers to demonstrate today at the Saigon waterfront, near the home of Lt.-Gen. Nugyen Khanh leader of the military coalition that carried out the purge.

The demonstration is to protest the trial for today of 20 students arrested last month on charges of instigating rioting.

Thich Chanh Lec, a Buddhist leader, said larger demonstrations would be staged if the government did not release the students.

Five Missing Found Safe; Drifting Snow Traps Cars

Snow Slide Cuts Trans-Canada Highway, CNR Through Canyon

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five persons missing since New Year's Eve on a snowbound Vancouver Island logging road were found alive and well despite exposure to some of the worst weather British Columbia has ever had.

Three of the five walked into a camp Saturday night 40 miles West of Campbell River from a 65-mile-long road that was plugged with 10-foot-high drifts of snow in places.

The other two, an elderly couple, were rescued Sunday by an RCAF helicopter.

Their rescue came as another wave of snow and cold spread across the province, leaving only the extreme southern tip of Vancouver Island out of its reach.

Saturday, two men also missing since New Year's Eve were plucked from a snowswept island in Douglas Channel, 350 miles northwest of here in the Kitimat area along the northern coast.

Albert Walker and Benny Stewart said they shot seagulls for food after their 16-foot power boat developed steering trouble and was blown by high winds onto Costi Island.

Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Steve Koontz and their daughter waded through deep snow to a camp 40 miles west of Campbell River after leaving behind their car that had been trapped in snow and ice since Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hall, trapped in a second car on the same road, were picked up by the helicopter Sunday in good condition. They had carried in their car an ample supply of warm blankets and food.

A giant snowslide that crashed across the Trans-Canada Highway and the Canadian National Railways mainline through the Fraser canyon at Boston Bar was partially cleared by Sunday.

FLOOD AVERTED

A threatened flood from thawing of snow on Vancouver's North Shore communities was dispelled early Sunday by temperatures that dropped below freezing, making driving hazardous but holding back the runoff.

Army and civil defence facilities were still on standby, however, in case of an emergency. Some residents of the North Shore still were snowbound on Sunday in their homes on the sides of mountains.

The weather office said there was no immediate danger of a sudden thaw. A fresh supply of frigid Arctic air was plunging southward through the Interior Sunday and would cover almost the entire province by early Monday.

Predicted temperature lows ranged from 25 below in the Prince George region to zero in the Interior and 20 along the coast. Temperatures would not climb above freezing in most areas today.

Reds Back Sukarno Withdrawal From UN

JAKARTA Reuters — Indonesian Communists rallied Sunday behind President Sukarno's decision to withdraw from the United Nations although government officials refused to confirm withdrawal has actually taken place.

At UN in New York, it was reported Sunday Indonesia had postponed delivery of an official letter of resignation.

An Indonesian delegation spokesman said the withdrawal, the first by any member of the UN, has already become effective.

Ganis Harsono, Indonesian foreign ministry spokesman, said Indonesia's withdrawal from the UN is an accomplished fact if Malaysia now is a member of the UN Security Council.

Malaysia was appointed to serve on the council as of Jan. 1. Sukarno, has denounced the link-up of the former British colonies of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah to form the Malaysian federation, as a neo-colonialist plot to maintain British influence in Southeast Asia.

D. N. Aidit, chairman of the Indonesian Communist party, said Saturday night the Communists and working people of Indonesia endorse Sukarno's decision.

The Indonesian press reported the decision has the backing of various political parties and groups in Indonesia.

POLICE GUARD

DUBLIN AP — Extra police guarded Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, Sunday night when they arrived for a visit with friends.

The precautions were instituted after Irish republicans erected posters proclaiming that "British royal visitors are not welcome to Ireland while British royal forces occupy our six counties" Northern Ireland.

Russian Jets, Missiles Highlights of Castro Parade

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro has displayed Soviet "land-to-land missiles" and new reconnaissance jet planes, additions to the array of Soviet military hardware which has made his army the strongest in Latin America.

The slender, grey rockets, about 24 feet long, rolled through Havana's streets Saturday in the military parade marking the sixth anniversary of the Castro revolution. The jets screamed overhead.

In his annual speech, Castro said Cuba will keep its political independence, regradless of the price, even to the point aid from any country.

Castro's 2½-hour speech was devoted largely to economic matters, including the assurance that production will increase in the tightly-rationed country.

But he defended the attention to military power in the parade because "we are the only socialist country in this hemisphere and for that reason we need to be armed."

There was no word on whether the missiles were nuclear equipped.

MISSILE SIMILAR

One of the Soviet Union's known ground-to-ground missiles which can carry nuclear or high explosive warheads would be similar to the devices displayed here Saturday.

Military men in Washington showed no unusual concern about the Cuban weapons. Some sources pointed out the missiles appeared to be tactical, artillery type rockets with a range far short of that needed to fire at the U.S. mainland.

On Cuba's economic problems, Castro accused "imperialists" of speculating with sugar prices and said he had "misinformed the enemy" with respect to Cuba's sugar production in the face of price fluctuations.

"Opportunely we will announce our sugar production. I am sure we will give a tremendous slap in the mouth to our enemies."

Cuba's 1964 sugar cane harvest has been estimated as low as 3,500,000 tons, compared with a peak of 7,000,000 tons in some previous years.

2000 Stranded Overnight by Blizzard

YREKA, Calif. (AP) — The mountain community of Yreka said good-bye Sunday to 2,000 travellers stranded overnight by a blizzard that closed all highways leading out of town.

Private homes, 15 churches, one elementary school and civic club lodges were opened Saturday night to motorists trying to get back home after Christmas-New Year's holiday visits. Some were returning to Oregon, whose border is 20 miles north, after watching Michigan beat Oregon State 34-7 New Year's day in the Pasadena Rose Bowl football game.

Thirty south-bound buses with 1,100 passengers left Medford, Ore., Sunday 45 miles north of the California border after staying there overnight because of weather conditions around this area.

In Washington State, six small north-central towns were isolated for the second day by drifting snows. Many roads were closed.

U.S. Highway 2 was blocked in Washington for 100 miles.

Snows whipped by 60-to 70-mile-an-hour winds covered interstate Highway 5 north and south of Yreka, 2,500 feet high in the shadow of Mount Shasta. Cars trying to negotiate the road in the 27-degree temperature Saturday were blown about and turned back.

Cars and buses were allowed back on the highway shortly after 4 a.m. Sunday.

WARNS SKIERS

A 50-mile-an-hour snow blizzard closed Interstate 80 from the Nevada border to Colfax, Calif., 72 miles away. Weekend skiers were warned to get out of the Lake Tahoe area Sunday. The few who stayed faced the prospect of missing work Monday.

The small town of Willow Creek, in northwest California's flood-stricken area, was again without electric power Sunday after two days of being able to use its appliances and machinery. Electric power had been cut off to the town for nine straight days in the last part of December.

Repairmen crawled on snowshoes in the face of wind-blown snow over nearby mountains Sunday trying to find the power line breaks.

Northwest California was one of the five Western state areas devastated, starting Dec. 20, by floods which caused an estimated $1,000,000,000 property damage and cost more than 40 lives.

A few helicopter flights by military relief missions took off in the Yreka area where snow had cut off some communities from food and heating supplies.

But in the Eureka area, weather stopped relief flights by Canadian - built army Caribou twin-engine cargo planes. Helicopter flights took off only on medical emergency missions.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS

The Red Cross reported that 13,000 families in California and Oregon suffered property damage in the Christmas floods and most of them were temporarily homeless.

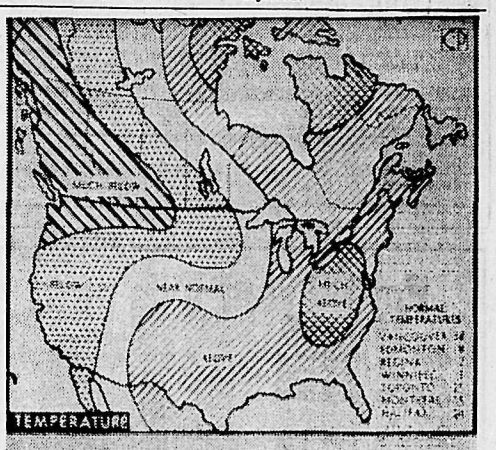
The report said that 7,158 homes were damaged in Oregon and 4,784 in California. At least 1,025 were destroyed in California and 578 in Oregon.

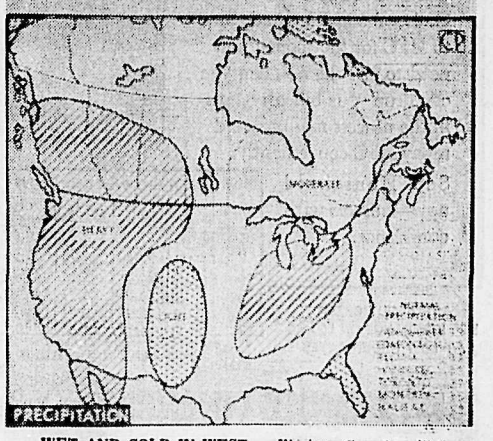
The recent bad weather hampered the search for two small planes each carrying two persons. One went down about 40 miles east of Fresno Dec. 19 and the other New Year's Eve in a mountain area near Los Angeles.

An avalanche killed a girl in the stormy Sierra Nevada Saturday.

Two weekend deaths were blamed on the weather in Washington State.

One man died of exposure when he lost his way in snow and another was killed by a mud slide that caved in his bedroom.





WET AND COLD IN WEST — Western Canada will have a poor start in the new year, with heavy precipitation and cold temperatures to the end of January, according to the 30-day outlook. Eastern Canada will have near or above normal temperatures with moderate precipitation.

Four Hurt in Collision

Highway Crews Battle To Keep Roads Open

Only one accident was reported in the Kootenays during the New Year holiday as up to 32 inches of snow blanketed Southern British Columbia making highway travel extremely treacherous.

Six persons were injured, four seriously, in a two-car head-on collision on the Stoddart Creek Hill on Highway No. 95 in Invermere shortly after noon Sunday.

Kathleen Wolfenden of Brisco, a passenger in the southbound vehicle suffered two broken legs and her mother, Mrs. Winston Wolfenden suffered concussions and a fractured nose. The driver, Donald James Wolfenden sustained shock and bruises. A third passenger, Winston Wolfenden suffered superficial injuries.

In the second vehicle, Mrs. James Scott of Golden, wife of the driver, James Anton Scott, sustained a broken leg and fractures to both arms. Schiraz Ali, of Trinidad, a friend of the Scott family was taken to hospital with severe facial injuries and concussion. A 10-month-old baby escaped injury as did the driver.

ICE BLAMED

Police blamed icy road conditions for the collision. The accident was compounded shortly after it happened when a car driven by Willy Vandenbilche of Invermere was unable to stop and crashed into the wreckage. There were no further injuries.

A rash of minor accidents were reported throughout the area, the largest number being in Trail where police investigated 13 accidents during the first two-and-a-half days of the New Year and another four on Dec. 31, 1964.

A check of Kootenay RCMP detachments revealed few drivers being charged with impaired driving during the New Year festivities, despite police roadblocks being set up.

One RCMP officer stated that his detachment checked a large number of cars on New Year's Eve and found hardly a trace of alcohol anywhere. The majority of those who were charged were caught after they slid into snowbanks and got stuck.

The heaviest snowfall was recorded on the Kootenay Skyway with 32 inches of fresh snow reported. Crews worked around the clock battling the snow, and, except for a few minor slides that blocked the road for short periods ... the highway was kept open and listed in fair winter condition.

Twenty-four inches of new snow fell on the Christina Lake - Kinnaird Highway as plows and sanding crews fought a losing battle for several hours.

Motorists returning to the Kootenays from the Coast reported driving conditions "very poor" and told of pushing up to eight inches of snow to get across the Cascades.

Despite the fact that B.C. Department of Highways set up roadblocks at Hope to check motorists for chains and snow tires before allowing them to cross the comparatively good Hope - Princeton Highway, no restrictions were enforced on highways in the Interior.

ONE OF THE WORST

One of the worst roads for home-bound travellers was the Anarchist Hill on the Osoyoos - Cascade Highway as the combination of fresh snow and freezing temperatures made travelling next to impossible.

Traffic was slowed to 20 m.p.h. in many places as blowing snow made visibility poor.

Good winter tires or chains are a necessity for travelling on any of the Kootenay highways and motorists are being urged to carry warm clothing, shovels and sand in case of emergency.

Sanding was abandoned on many roads as crews concentrated on plowing the highway clear of snow. An RCMP spokesman said that in many cases, sand was covered up within minutes after it had been dropped because of the heavy snowfall.

One motorist reported that on Saturday night, within 15 minutes after he had been passed by a snow plow on the Cascade Highway, tire tracks were completely covered by fresh snow.

More snow is predicted by the weatherman for today as a fresh supply of frigid arctic air is plunging southward through the southern interior.

Firemen Called Out Twice

The Nelson Fire Department answered two emergency calls over the weekend, both of a minor nature.

The first call came in shortly before 9:00 p.m. Friday when someone reported seeing smoke in the Royal Hotel. Investigation revealed no fire.

On Saturday evening firemen rushed to the 700 block Baker Street where the brake lining of a car had overheated and was smoking. Again no fire was found.

Hefty Boy Nelson's New Year's Baby

Nelson's first New Year's baby, an eight-pound, 12½ ounce boy, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Koftinoff, 519-A Hall Street, at 1:01 p.m., Saturday at Kootenay Lake General Hospital.

Thirty-seven hours and one minute after New Year's, Mr. Stork delivered his precious prize with the assistance of Dr. N. E. Morrison. The Koftinoffs have two other children, Tommy, three, and Janet, two.

"I never dreamed I'd be so lucky," said the proud mother, who added that the baby contest prizes "will sure come in handy." Out of town, Mr. Koftinoff was not available for comment.

Arriving at 7:56 p.m., Saturday, Nelson's second newest citizen was a girl weighing in at seven pounds, six ounces. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Elsener, 614 Carbonate Street. Attending physician was Dr. A. J. Beauchamp.

Another girl, tipping the scales at six pounds, seven and a half ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gus Adams, 317 Hall Mines Road. The city's third New Year's baby arrived at 12:55 a.m., Sunday. Attending physician was Dr. N. E. Morrison.

He was born in Pierce County, Nebraska on February 21, 1892 and moved around the United States until 1904 when he came to Nelson from Washington.

While in Nelson he worked as a freighter for several firms including Nelson Transfer, until 1933 when injuries forced him to retire.

He is survived by one son, Francis S. Kellogg; three daughters, Mrs. Florence Tippie of Nelson, Mrs. Hazel Daly of Ymir and Mrs. Stella Johnson of Nelson; nine grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Storage Barn Collapses In Rosemont

The weatherman's continued snow siege has produced yet another casualty with the report that the CKLN storage barn at the Rosemont transmitter site has collapsed due to the buildup of snow on the roof.

Used to house old transmitter equipment and other relative paraphernalia, the 60 by 30-foot building was about 10 years old and had an aluminum roof.

"The snow usually slides off" said A. R. Ramsden, CKLN manager, who used the barn in which to store his motor boat. Until the snow is cleared and the roof jacked up, which is scheduled to be done today, there is no estimate of damage. Mr. Ramsden says there is "six feet of snow piled against the barn," and that it took a tractor an hour to plow a trail to the collapsed building which apparently caved in some time Friday night.

Also sagging under the weight of layers of snow are some 40 feet of 'trough' which contains power, lighting and telephone cables.

Snow Halts Milk Deliveries

Milk deliveries in Nelson were temporarily curtailed due to the heavy snowfall, and dairies have been instructing their customers to procure their supplies from local grocery stores.

There is no official word yet as to when deliveries will commence.

"We're trying to do our best to keep pace with it," Mayor E. T. Bodard told the Nelson Daily News Sunday when asked about city snow removal progress.

He added that snow removal crews and equipment were "going day and night" in an effort to keep ahead of the continuous snowfall, and that plows were busy all day Saturday at the height of one of the heaviest storms. A total of 17½ inches of snow fell over the weekend, according to the official weather report.

"All we're waiting for is a three to four-day break in the weather," continued Mayor Bodard, who said that the public works department was "making every effort to keep the bus routes open" as well as other important city arteries.

Widening of main streets is being done as soon as crews and equipment are available, but only a lengthy respite from snowfall will give plows a chance to cope with the situation.

Snow removal crews were expected to continue street-widening operations Sunday night.

University Role In Interior Lecture Subject

"Higher education in the interior of British Columbia" is the topic chosen by Rev. Aquinas Thomas, SA, president of Notre Dame University of Nelson, for his lecture in the "Contemporary '65" series at the university.

He plans to discuss the role and necessity of a university in the interior of B.C., and the university's relationship within the field of higher education in the province's interior. He will also explore the relationship between NDU and the proposals which have been advanced for a regional college in the interior.

Holidays Over Today

With a sigh of resignation and indelible memories of Christmas, Nelson school children truged reluctantly back to the three R's today to begin a brand new year of scholastic endeavor.

Schools began their annual Christmas vacations December 22 amid a clamor of happy anticipation and unrestrained glee. For the younger, there were letters to Santa to finish, hills to slide and ski down, snowmen to make and ice to skate on. Mothers heaved a collective groan of anguish and fathers began planning busy evening schedules.

Today, with the house empty and still once again, Mom is able to settle down to enjoy her Christmas vacation.

Baby Loses Out On Prizes

A Grand Forks mother gave birth to B.C.'s first New Year's baby in Trail-Tadanac Hospital, but since the mother came from outside the Trail hospital district the baby will not qualify for a host of gifts from Trail merchants.

Mrs. George Lobay gave birth to a boy at 12:12 a.m. Friday and her son was the first baby born in the province.

Prizes from Trail merchants are limited to parents from the Trail hospital district so presentations will not be made until a district mother gives birth in the Trail-Tadanac Hospital.

NDU Recognition Missed in Review

The November section of the Nelson Daily News news review of 1964 in Saturday's paper, inadvertently omitted the announcement of provisional recognition of Notre Dame University as an accredited teacher-training institution.

The year's review had mentioned various phases of Notre Dame growth. The recommendation by the Academic Board of B.C. and the joint Board of Teachers Education suggesting the provincial government recognize the university's one - year professional course leading to an elementary B certificate provided NDU included certain stipulated courses in the program was accepted.

Ahearne Cup Play

Sweden Defeats Rockets 7-4 to Win Tournament

STOCKHOLM (CP-AP)—Sweden's national hockey champion, Brynaes, defeated Lacombe Rockets, the Central Alberta Hockey League side, 7-4 Sunday to win the 13th annual Ahearne Cup tournament here.

Brynaes and the Soviet Union each collected eight points, but Brynaes won with a better goal average, 35-18 to 18-14.

Lacombe, Djurgaarden and Leksand of Sweden placed third with four points each.

Brynaes carried the play through most of its game with Lacombe, leading 5-3 after two periods.

Lacombe goalie Russ Gillow, a 25-year-old garage partsman who moved to Edmonton Junior Oil Kings from Hespeler, Ont., turned in the best performance on the Canadian side.

Tony Kollman, 26, an intermediate with Hanna and Drumheller in Alberta on loan to Lacombe, and Al LaPlante, 26-year-old teacher at the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology in Edmonton who rejected a pro contract with Detroit Red Wings, were the outstanding Lacombe forwards.

TAKE LEAD

Brynaes took the lead after 11 minutes of the first period on a goal by Lars-Goeran Nilsson. Three minutes later, Remi Brisson, 32, a fireman who has played three years with Lacombe, scored the Rockets' first marker. Bill McCulley, 30-year-old former pro, put Lacombe ahead 2-1 a minute later. Lennart Johansson tied the score three minutes from the end of the period. Bob Solinger, 39, a former American Hockey League pro, missed a penalty shot.

Kjell Johansson put Brynaes ahead 3-2 early in the second. Ron Tookey, 30, a consistent CAHL all-star and award winner, knotted the score 3-3 at the eight-minute mark.

Brynaes made its fourth goal on a penalty shot by Lars Ake Sivertsson. When the Rockets had a man in the penalty box, Brynaes increased its lead to 5-3 on a goal by Lennart Johansson.

LaPlante started the final frame by narrowing the lead to 5-4, but goals by Kjell Larsson and Tord Lundstrom finished the Alberta team.

The Rockets were penalized four times, the Brynaes team none.

Canadians Down Czechs 4-2 For First Exhibition Win

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada defeated Czechoslovakia 4-2 Sunday before 7,000 fans for its first exhibition hockey victory in eight games against two of Europe's top clubs.

Last week Canada tied the Czechs 3-3 in an international tournament at Colorado Springs Colo. to halt a losing streak of six games, five to Russia's national team.

Canada beat the Czechs with hard skating, sharp passing and a solid defence, facets in their play which have improved immensely since they started the international matches with a 4-0 loss to Russia three weeks ago.

The Czechs, who beat Russia 5-3 in the Walter Brown Memorial Tournament at Colorado Springs, lacked the precision passing and quick reactions that carried Russia to its victories over Canada.

Grant Moore, a member of the 1964 Canadian junior champion Toronto Marlboros, Aggie Kukulowicz, Gary Begg and Ross Parke scored for Canada, which held period leads of 2-0 and 3-0.

DANGER PLAY

The Czechs, whose most dangerous play was the long pass designed to break a man into the clear, hit the post twice in the first period and were robbed on at least three occasions in the final period by goaltender Ken Broderick.

Broderick made 31 saves, 14 in the final 20 minutes. Vladimir Nadrchal and Vlade Dzurilla blocked 10 shots.

Moore opened scoring, slipping behind the Czech defence to take a perfect pass from Gary Dineen and coast in to beat Nadrchal with a flip shot high into the left corner.

CUTS MARGIN

Nedomansky reduced the margin to 3-1 early in the third period.

Later Parke picked up a pass from Reg Abbott and went in alone to beat Dzurilla and make the score 4-1.

The Czechs increased the tempo in the next few minutes in a bid to get back in the game and cut the deficit when Golonka slapped in a rebound at 12:26.

Canada used the bodycheck to good effect throughout the game. In one case, late in the first period, Czechoslovakia's Josef Granditner was knocked over the boards by Canada's Ross Parke.

Each team took two minor penalties.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Tuesday, January 5, 1965

MARCH 20 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—When someone makes a quick change or unexpected suggestion, be sure to maintain poise, and consider its merits before rejecting it. In this way you can avoid antagonism.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) An excellent period for study, broadening one's outlook, introducing new ideas and systems into your regular program. But do not switch position or tactics in a way that betokens instability.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) Another one of those days in which to employ your quick thinking — to prevent errors and to keep you from acting hastily or impulsively. Make the most of your talents in order to better earnings.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) Capitalize on present assets; convert to superior methods where feasible. But do not make drastic changes in projects now running smoothly.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) Map out a clearly defined program, devoid of time-wasters. Accommodate to necessary changes, but emphasize stick-to-itiveness.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Helpful influences, but you still will need to be alert, brightly eager and willing to try a new tack or make changes in plans you were "set on."

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra)—Especially sponsored under day's somewhat unusual but, on the whole, friendly aspects: secretarial and clerical work; mathematics, artistry, science generally.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Stretch a point where it will pay off later. A vote of confidence is often necessary to secure co-operation. You will be asked for a steady hand and a discerning eye now.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Meet competition, but do not let it incite you to useless argument or irritability — with little accomplished constructively. Advancement notable in economics, industry, sales, educational pursuits.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—Mixed planetary influences give you a total picture of alternating apathy, readiness, indecision, animation. — Firm up!

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—You may now experience a sense of frustration along with boredom and fretfulness. Your keen mind and innate good sense can, should, strongly counteract.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Some earnings and credits may be less than expected, but the general outlook is very good for benefits through sustained effort over a period of time; for reforms, expansion.

YOU BORN TODAY are strongly persevering; adapted to work with people — the willing, steady kind; are usually clever organizers, politicians; able to carry others' ideas through forcefully. You would be fine in a government post or as a companion; may like the stage or other entertaining, but would probably do best in the business end. Your concentrated effort puts you out front while others are still planning. You can combine business with pleasure advantageously; may deplete energies trying for too much. Anglo-French Plane Gets Nod From Britain

PARIS (Reuters) — The French newspaper France Soir says the $780,000,000 Anglo-French supersonic airliner Concord project has been given the go-ahead by the British government.

The Concord, whose first flight was scheduled for 1967, was being developed jointly by the British and French but the British government several months ago asked the French for a review of the project and there was speculation it would be scrapped.

The new British Labor government was reported ready to revise the plan because of the high cost involved.

The newspaper carried its story Saturday with this headline: The Concord Saved. The English Say Yes.

A report from the paper's London correspondent says the British government will send a note to Paris to this effect in the next few days.

The correspondent says Prime Minister Harold Wilson reached a decision to carry on with the Concord project while on holiday in the Scilly Isles during the Christmas vacation.

The airliner has a target date of 1971 to go into scheduled service.

Mr. Drysdale remained at Vernon only shortly before moving to Needles, B.C. and then to Creston, to make his permanent home. A former member of the Yorkton I.O.O.F. Lodge, Mr. Drysdale's main hobby was gardening and he specialized in the raising of vegetables.

Bell Telephone Records Biggest Revenue Year Yet

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bell Telephone System of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Saturday reported record 12-month earnings of $1,700,000,000 — the biggest yearly income ever reported by a utility or manufacturing concern.

It marked the sixth consecutive 12-month period that the world's biggest public utility enterprise had profits of more than $1,000,000,000.

Earnings of the telephone system for its fiscal year ending Nov. 30 totalled $1,700,967,000 or $3.24 a share. This compared with consolidated net income of $1,522,424,000 or $3.02 a share for the comparable period ending Nov. 30, 1963.

General Motors Corporation's earnings of $1,590,000,000 in 1963 marked the previous high in yearly profits. The No. 1 automaker has not yet reported its 1964 earnings.

EARNINGS UP

In the three months ended last Nov. 30 the utility reported record earnings of $444,490,000 or 78 cents a share in the September - November quarter of 1963.

Total operating revenues of the giant telephone system for the 12 months ended last Nov. 30 totalled $10,226,165,000 compared with $9,506,461,000 the previous comparable year.

Total revenues for the 1964 fourth quarter were $2,626,685,000 compared with $2,431,925,000.

The company said it had 522,080,000 shares outstanding in the September - November quarter, compared with 489,370,000 in the comparable 1963 period.

American Telephone has more stockholders than any other company.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Thomas J. Dodd (Dem. Conn.) said Friday he will seek stiff laws in the new Congress curbing what he calls the wide open mail-order sale of handguns to teen-agers, criminals, drunkards and drug addicts in the United States. A Dodd proposal calling for restrictions on mail order gun sales died last year in the Senate commerce committee.

Saved From Noose By Commons Rule

LONDON (AP)—A thug with two murders on his record at the age of 18 had his death sentence changed to life imprisonment Saturday in the first reprieve of its kind since the House of Commons voted against capital punishment.

The condemned man was Peter Dunsford. Jailed for killing a youth in a dance hall brawl in 1963, Dunsford subsequently murdered a fellow prisoner while serving his time in Wakefield jail.

For this second killing, Dunsford was sentenced to hang. But last month the House of Commons approved a preliminary stage in legislation on a bill to remove the death sentence from British law.

Though hanging is technically still in force, no one believed that a sentence would actually be carried out when Parliament had signified disapproval.

Another man still in the death cell is Ronald Cooper, a 25-year-old croupier convicted of shooting a company director.

Cooper's execution has been fixed for Jan. 5 and he has lodged a plea with the Court of Appeal.

The reprieve for Dunsford was issued by the home secretary's office. This step is not normally taken until all legal processes are exhausted.

Upsurge of Speculative Stock Buying May Mean More Stringent Market Control in 1965

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The surge in buying of speculative stocks that hit Canadian stock exchanges in 1964 may have set in motion events that could see tighter controls being prepared in 1965.

Sparked by a public outcry after the sudden rise and fall of a score of stocks, culminated by the collapse of shares of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd., in July, three official investigations were launched in Ontario.

Their reports are to be available for possible action during the new year. One is directed by the Ontario Securities Commission and another by the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The third, equipped with wide-ranging powers to look into how speculative issues can be promoted, who was involved in various dealings and to make recommendations aimed at preventing future occurrences, is an Ontario royal commission under Mr. Justice Arthur Kelly of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Although the Vancouver Stock Exchange saw flurries of speculative excitement, most of the action developed in the Toronto, Montreal and Canadian exchanges after Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. announced in April it had struck a massive copper, zinc and silver ore body near Timmins.

Value of the find has been put at $2,000,000,000.

SET TRADING RECORDS

On two days, April 17 and 20, the Toronto exchange handled more than 28,000,000 shares each session—far exceeding the previous North American record of 16,400,000 shares traded in New York during the 1929 crash.

Prices of shares of companies with property in the Timmins area—or of companies which said they were looking for properties there — doubled and tripled in hours as secretaries, housewives, clerks and office boys mobbed brokerage offices.

Most prices fell just as quickly, leaving speculators with losses ranging from hundreds to hundreds of thousands of dollars. PCE Explorations, Bunker Hill, Paramaque, Jelex, Glenn Uranium, Belleterre —those names were on everyone's lips during the peak of the excitement but were almost forgotten by the year's end.

Windfall rose to a high of $5.60 a share from about 60 cents on rumors it had made a major find near Timmins, remained highly priced for three weeks while rumors swirled and investors waited—then fell $3 in one day after company president George MacMillan said no significant strike had been made.

Despite the investigations, however, analysts agree the speculative market is still alive and another rush on a stock could occur any day, although repeated warnings about the possible dangers have come from some brokerage houses, the exchanges and government officials.

ISSUE WARNING

Elsewhere in the markets, analysts look for a continuation of the general strength shown in 1964—but several warn there could be a downturn during the last six months of the new year.

One suggests technical factors alone could be enough to slow the markets' advance after the summer.

"The market is not responding to the good news we have had lately, such as increased earnings, dividends and capital expenditures."

Another says, however, the schedule of increased capital spending planned for 1965 should be a bulwark for the economy.

"I'm looking for a better first half in 1965 and a lower second half, possibly a return to current levels or below."

Many analysts attributed the strong showing of major industrial issues during 1964 to the steady stream of cheerful corporate news and to the leadership given by the New York exchange.

They were surprised, however, by the strength industrials had during the height of the speculative fever. Usually the higher - priced shares suffer from neglect during a penny rush.

The market faltered briefly in November, apparently reacting to international finance fears raised by Britain's sterling crisis. After four weeks of lower prices, however, a recovery set in and analysts said the market had turned back from a possible serious drop.

Gold shares took off to rare heights as the year ended, spurred by a report of the U.S.-based National Planning Association—a private group of business and labor leaders—recommending an increase in the price of the yellow metal.

Canada's six exchanges traded a total of about 1,900,000,000 shares in 1964 with a total value of $4,180,000,000, Lt.-Gen. H. D. Graham, president of the Toronto exchange, estimated.

An Outsider's Viewpoint

Concern over what is to happen to scenic and recreation aspects of the giant Columbia River system during its development program has been expressed in circles outside the realm of the Kootenays.

Here is what the Times, newest Vancouver newspaper, has to say:

What is the government's policy concerning the logging-off of the shorelines of the reservoirs being created by the giant hydro projects now under way in B.C.?

Are these areas, which will become huge lakes in a matter of a few years, going to be fully cleared before the waters pour in? Or are the trees going to be left to drown and form a witches' den along the banks, ruining the lakes for forest industries and pleasure-seekers alike?

The reservoir was not cleared when the giant Kenny Dam was built for Kitimat's power development. As a result much of Tweedsmuir Park's great lakes system has been ruined for sportsmen. Prophecies that the winter ice would sheer the trees off have not been fulfilled.

What of the Peace and the Columiba? The people most immediately concerned with the latter have formed the Kootenay-Columbia Development Committee to fight, among other things, for clearing of the reservoirs before the water is backed up.

The committee's only information to date is that some clearing will be done — for about three and a half miles from the damsite. Other clearing will wait perhaps five years, perhaps longer.

The committee calls this impractical, and adds that it "will cause severe difficulties for forest industries depending on the reservoirs for water - borne materials, transport and source of water supply. In addition, incompleted clearing will create a hazard and an unnecessary inconvenience to all boats and airplanes using the lakes for this five-year period."

It goes further than that, of course. Pollution would be considerable. And the damage that would be done to one of the province's greatest beauty spots boggles the imagination.

A hint of the danger can be readily seen from the highway at Prudhomme Lake, a few miles east of Prince Rupert, where a pulp mill's dam was allowed to back up a reservoir without clearing. The dead trees that straggle out from the new shoreline into the lake are a sad commentary indeed on man's thoughlessness, on his needless destruction of beauty to save a few dollars.

This must not be permitted to happen to the exquisite Arrow Lakes or the magnificent country around them.

No saving of money could ever pay for the desecration.

Those who would preserve the beauties and amenities and usefulness of the reservoirs behind the Columbia and the Peace dams deserve the support of all British Columbains. We look to B.C. Hydro and the government for a firm statement of their intentions.

Letters To The Editor

Letters to the editor on any topic of genuine interest are welcome if they are brief, accurate and fair. They may be published over a nom de plume, but the name of the writer must be given to the Editor as evidence of good faith. Anonymous letters go into the wastepaper basket. Typewritten letters must be double-spaced.

Showing Colors

To the Editor:

Sir—Your editorial 16th inst. suggesting we rally around a "Maple Leaf rag" brought into being out of "hate, anarchy and distrust" is asking too much from any right thinking Canadian citizen. It is, and it always will be, the "Liberal party's disgrace."

Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia, it is reported, are considering the Red Ensign as their flag; should 6, 7, 8, or 9 provinces do likewise where would Pearson's "Liberal wiper" stand?

Vincit qui se vincit.

Carlton S. Hester,
Creston, B.C.

(Editor's note: The inference that the Nelson Daily News supported the move for our new Maple Leaf flag is erroneous. We disagree with the writer that any further issue should be made of the flag debate, which caused virtual stoppage of government business, and which might hinder the proper operation of government business. If the writer is suggesting that accepting the new flag is too much to ask of Canadians, perhaps he would like to offer some concrete suggestion as to what can be done about it rather than stirring up more hard feelings.)

New "Panama" Canal's Worth Doubtful

It will be at least four years before a decision can be reached on the site of the new sea-level canal, near the Panama Canal, proposed by United States President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Permission is now being sought from the governments of Colombia, Nicaragua and Costa Rica for American engineers to look for a new and suitable route across the Isthmus. As a result of their survey, a new site will be chosen.

The reason being given for this new canal is the fact that the present Ponama Canal is "old fashioned." This is difficult for one who has been through the canal to understand. Undoubtedly a sea - level canal would provide faster and cheaper passage for ships on the Caribbean-Pacific ocean transit but the Panama Canal as it exists at present, especially in the functioning of the locks, is a model of efficiency.

It could well be that President Johnson is aiming to build another canal across the isthmus as a gesture enabling him to bolster the economy of the country through which the route will pass.

As early as the sixteenth century the Spaniard, Gomera, suggested a canal should be cut through the Isthmus of Panama. The suggestion lay lost in history until the French engineering genius, Ferdinand de Lesseps (who built the Suez Canal) began work on it in 1881.

Corruption and lack of organization have been given as reasons for the French abandoning the scheme but the prime reason was fever, which killed the laborers in thousands.

It fell to the Americans to complete the canal.

With the signing of the Canal treaty, in 1903, the Americans started the digging in 1905. The fact that the project was ever completed was made possible by William C. Gorgas, an army surgeon, who removed the sources of malaria and yellow fever and made the Canal Zone as healthy as any area in the United States.

Opened in 1914 for commercial traffic, the Panama Canal has been a constant and important pawn in international relations. In fact, the Americans first appreciated the need for the canal when the USS "Oregon" was forced to sail around Cape Horn in order to play an effective part in the Spanish-American war.

Strangely enough, to sail from the Caribbean Sea to the Pacific Ocean the average course is westerly not easterly.

The total length of the present canal is about 45 miles and there are three sets of locks. The majority of the transit is made through a series of lakes and the famous man-made Gaillard Cut.

The width of the locks could be a consideration in President Johnson's statements that the canal is old fashioned. The most modern of large aircraft carriers, for example, cannot pass through them, but it would still seem to be more efficient and less expensive to rebuild the locks than to cut an entirely new sea-level canal.

Whether the proposed new canal from the Caribbean to the Pacific is sited alongside the present canal, through Colombia or on the Nicaragua-Costa Rica border does not really matter. What does matter is the fact that its construction will be a legitimate opportunity for the American government to pour billions of dollars into Central America. If it aids the unity of the Organization of American States, its worth notwithstanding, it will be a commendable project.

Income Tax Tips

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

WHO ARE DEPENDENTS?

You may claim as dependents those individuals you actually support and who come within the provisions of the Income Tax Act and its regulations. You may not claim as a dependent anyone whose income for the year was in excess of $950.

If you supported a dependent for part of the year but such dependent earned over $950 during the taxation year, there would be no allowable claim. This applies where a child started working after finishing school.

There is no claim for nieces and nephews, aunts or uncles, unless there are circumstances that takes them out of these categories, such as their being adopted children or foster parents. This will be covered in more detail in a future column.

If the child is over 21 a claim may still be made for $550 exemption providing it is in full time attendance at a school or university. The claim is also allowable if such child is mentally or physically infirm.

There is one new provision for dependent brothers or sisters attending university who are over 21 years of age. In prior years a taxpayer supporting a brother or sister over 21 had no claim at all. It was only the parent that could make a claim but the 1964 tax legislation allows a taxpayer to claim his brother or sister whom he is supporting and educating when they are over 21 years.

You may not claim as a dependent anyone whom you do not actually support, regardless of the fact they have not been claimed by anyone else. A working son or daughter will often try to claim younger brothers and sisters, in view of the fact the father does not need all of them to make him non-taxable.

For a personal reply, enclose a self - addressed, FIVE cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question to C. A. Miller, care of the Daily News.

Question 1. Can I claim my two younger brothers? My father does not need them to make him non-taxable?

Answer. NO. You must pay their entire keep to have a claim.

Question 2. Can I claim a cousin who now lives with me and has no income?

Answer. NO.

King Charles I of England and his supporters tried to seize five members of the House of Commons, 323 years ago—in 1642. The attempt was abortive and only helped lose support for the king. At the time, the embryonic Commons had censured the king for his avowed paternalistic style of governing and sought to appoint its own representatives in putting down a rebellion in Ireland. The king waited until the Commons had outvoted his proposals by only 11 votes and then attempted to enter Parliament.

University Publication Rattles Alberta Gov't

By JANE BECKER

EDMONTON (CP)—A small semi-annual magazine, aiming a blast at what its founders call Alberta's "anti - intellectualism," has rocketed into prominence after being publicly ridiculed by some cabinet ministers in the province's Social Credit government.

The pocket-sized publication, Edge, is published by a group of staff members at the University of Alberta. The first appeared a year ago. It contains experimental poetry, avante garde fiction, and articles sharply critical of the Social Credit government, in office more than 29 years.

The criticism has brought Edge booming sales. The 2,000 copies of the October issue sold quickly and editors say they are considering reprinting.

The editors, all recent arrivals in Alberta, say they started Edge because they thought it was time someone spoke out against what they call the province's "anti-intellectualism" and "primitivism in political thinking."

WON'T INTERVENE

The university, which draws major financial support from the provincial government, has stood firmly behind its employees' right to publish their views.

"Free expression is the heart and soul of our freedom," said Dr. Walter Johns, the university president, in response to a request for his comment.

On Dec. 11, a statement issued by 148 faculty members declared their belief in the right of individuals to write about, support and criticize the government and to question all views, whether they concern religion, politics, morality, the law or public expenditures.

Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke charged in the legislature that Edge was "polluting the minds of our youths." He called its editors "screwballs." Mr. Hooke is a former high school teacher.

CALLED 'TRASH'

At the convention of Alberta Municipal Districts and Counties in Calgary this fall, Mr. Hooke held up a copy of the magazine, calling it an example of the "trash" now invading the province's education. He read one poem that took note of Montreal poet - Irving Layton's preoccupation with sex in his writings.

"Mr. Hooke isn't really nearly as interested in the sex in Edge as he is in its criticism of Social Credit," says Edge assistant editor Robin Mathews, 33.

Ethel Wilson, minister without portfolio, in an interview called Edge "filth worse than any of the junk on the newstands."

In November the Strathcona County school board, near Edmonton, suspended Raymond Hertzog, 26, charging that, among other indiscretions, he gave a copy of Edge to a 17-year-old girl pupil.

Poisons in Homes Kill Person a Week

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — Household cleansers, pesticides, medicines, paints — any of these staple supplies is a potential killer. Useful and harmless when properly used, they are a source of tragedy if handled carelessly.

Canadian Pharmaceutical Association statistics show an average of one peron a week dies in Canada as a result of swallowing a poison at home. Most victims are children four and under, and the age of greatest danger is about two.

"Anything can be a poison if it is misused," says Harry C. Tait, inspector for the Ontario College of Pharmacy. "People should act on the principle that if it isn't a food it is poison."

Most poisonings happen in the bathroom and kitchen A report on abont 11,000 cases in Canada shows 55 per cent were caused by medications, 11 by household preparations, 11 by pesticides, by 10 cleansers, solvents and paints, two by cosmetics, and 11 by miscellaneous sources such as plants, gases and vapors.

Ordinary headache tablets were the cause of about half the total medication poisonings.

OUT OF REACH

There are basic preventive rules for medicines which apply to other potentially dangerous preparations as well.

Keep all drugs out of reach of children. Put a lock on the medicine cabinet, if necessary.

Destroy all old prescriptions.

Read all labels to be sure you are using a medicine correctly Observe caution rules.

Keep medications intended for internal use stored separate from external medications.

Keep medicine in its original package so it cannot be mistaken for something else. Never put anything potentially poisonous in a cup, pop bottle or any container that normally holds food. Anyone, adult or child, might assume it is edible.

Impress on children that they must not taste unknown liquids, pills, leaves, roots.

The Canadian Pharmaceutical Association publishes an antidote chart which is available through druggists. It will fit on the inside of a medicine cabinet door and has spaces for phone numbers on it. It lists counterdoses for 18 types of poisoning and overdose.

200 POISON CENTRES

You might also find out the number of the poison control centre nearest you. There are about 200 centres in Canada, staffed 24 hours a day. They are kept informed on potential poisons by the food and drug directorate of the department of national health and welfare

The centres are organized to give fast information on what a preparation contains and what the antidote for a poison is.

Speed is of the essence in poison cases. Mr. Tait says whatever is done in the first 15 minutes will probably determine the fate of the poison victim.

The first thing to do is call your doctor. You should try to tell him what you think the poisonous substance was, how much was swallowed, and how long ago. He will also want to know how old and how big a child victim is.

If the victim has swallowed lye, drain cleaner, kerosene or strong acid, do not make him vomit, get him to a hospital. In other cases do not spend more than five minutes trying to start vomiting. If you are not succeeding, get medical help. Get the victim to a hospital if your doctor is not available.

There are particular possible dangers which do not involve swallowing poison at all. Overexposure to carbon-tetrachloride fumes is harmful. Mixing some ammonia - based and chlorine - based cleansers can produce a dangerous gas

FIRST COMMANDMENT SERMON THEME

How the First Commandment gives purpose and direction to human endeavors was a central theme at all Christian Science churches Sunday.

The subject of the Bible lesson was "God," and the Golden Text was from Deuteronomy (6:4): "Hear O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord."

Correlative readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy included: "Having no other gods, turning to no other but the one perfect mind to guide him, man is likeness of God, pure and eternal, having that Mind which was also in Christ."

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

If you tire of the usual shower curtain and want a change . . . buy two and put them up on the rod, crisscross fashion.

Purchase two plastic flower runners (like sweet peas or morning-glories), bend them into a loop and hook the ends on brass hooks in the wall. Use the runners as tiebacks.

When taking a shower, unhook ONE end of the flower runner from the brass hooks. After your shower, rehook the flowers.

I purchased light blue shower curtains and used morning-glory runners of the same color. Beautiful . . .

Mrs. John Brannelly.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

We enjoy your column so much and your wonderful ideas for using nylon net.

If the price of meat gets much higher, we may have to use squares of your famous nylon net for sandwich filling, eh?

Mrs. C. R. Kelly.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

A reader recommended using the pockets of jeans for patches. I do the same thing, but with a shortcut.

I sew up the top of a back pocket (ever try to rip out those corners?) and cut out the material inside, behind the pocket!

Mom.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I discovered a novel and delicious way of serving raw carrots to my three youngsters!

After finishing the contents of a jar of sweet pickles, I thinly slice a few carrots into the juice and chill well. . . .

The children love these carrot coins with a sandwich.

Ruth Sara Goldman.

* * *

Dear Flora:

How right you are. I tried this on an old stain on a white linen napkin, and it took out every bit of the stain.

I dampened the napkin thoroughly, sprinkled the white cleanser on the stain, then scrubbed it up and down and sideways with a vegetable brush. I left the napkin in the sink for about two hours before I washed and rinsed it with HOT water.

Remember that this cleanser contains bleach and MIGHT DAMAGE colored fabrics.

Heloise.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

This is a very small hint but it may save some woman a finger.

Put your beaters into your mixer BEFORE you plug it in. This way you can't accidentally hit the switch while you are still trying to insert the blades.

Those mixers are powerful little dickens!

Beverly Scarlett.

* * *

Dear Beverly:

You may think your hint is a small one, but I think it is a tremendous one. And I hope women will take your advice.

Heloise.

Dresses Going All to Top; Skirts Near Non-Existence

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Mathematically speaking, the most popular formula for women's styles this spring is:

Subtract from already short hemlines, add more to dress tops, and divide skirts—short division equals culottes, long division, the pantaloon craze.

For dressy occasions, multiply gauzy yardage into huge cloudlike stoles, ballooning sleeves and burgeoning skirts. Add ruffles to anything, any place, for any event.

Just how this figures in terms of the feminine figure as well as the family budget will be taken into account beginning today by some 200 fashion reporters here for a nine-day preview of the most costly clothes in the U.S.

Trend - setting design houses are scheduled to show their spring collections either during the New York couture group's 22nd annual press week program, Jan. 3-8, or as a part of the American designer series, Jan. 8-12. The designer series has been conducted for the last three years by Eleanor Lambert, former press director of the couture group.

CLOTHES ARE COSTLY

It is estimated only about 2,000,000 American women are able to afford these clothes, seldom priced at less than $100 and often more than $1,000.

Nevertheless, the wearing apparel of 56,000,000 other women will shape up in line with the new style ideas. The most successful styles always are reproduced by the volume ready-to-wear manufacturers.

The new styles figure this way:

Knees should be round, rosy to give emphasis to the flare hems rising thigh - high, they will be getting plenty of public exposure. For evening wear a trim ankle is de rigueur for calf-length gowns called demi-longeur.

Waistlines should be nipped in off to do justice to set-in sleeves and flounce of wider skirts.

Shoulders, once fashionably slouched, now must be squared tleneck and scarf styles. But a fast replacing the raglan style.

LONG BODY LOOK

Stomach is in and chest is out to improve the so-called elongated body look in such costumes as long jacketed suits, tunic dresses and skinny coats with belts underslung at the hips.

Even designer Rudi Gernreigh, creator of toplessness, who still dips a neckline a little bit, also is wrapping women to their noses in exaggerated turtleneck and scarf styles. But a holdout is designer Jacques Tiffeau who still plunges a neckline farther than you can imagine without blushing beet red.

Overall, the 1965 feminine form must be trim, firm and without fault, for underpinnings prescribed for garments as diaphanous as smoke are mere second skins, meant to cover, not correct.

Except for an occasional burst of immodesty, the favored female fashion prototype next season will be a slightly curvier, very much ruffled, often languid, old-fashioned girl not unlike Eliza Doolittle—after improvements, of course. The movie of My Fair Lady inspired the trend.

Gem Theft Suspects Caught Burglarizing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Two men accused of stealing the priceless Star of India sapphire from a New York museum were arrested Friday night on charges of an attempted burglary from the home of a wealthy New York textile man, police said.

Two detectives said they saw Jack (Murphy the Surph) Murphy and Roger Clark across the lawn of Edward Jacobs' home. After a brief chase the two were brought to the police station and later booked on charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit grand larceny.

Police said jalousie doors at the rear of the Jacobs home were jimmied.

Murphy, Clark and another man Allan Kuhn, earlier were charged with stealing the sapphire and other gems from the Museum of Natural History in New York. The gems have not been discovered.

The Jacobs home was burglarized once before—Dec. 19 when $100,000 worth of gems were reported stolen.

This time, Jacobs said, only costume jewelry was missing. None was found in the two men's possession.

Detectives Don Fleming and Dick Procyk said they arrested Murphy and Clark after the pair attempted to outdistance them in an automobile which had been owned by Bonnie Sutera, Murphy's common-law wife who was found dead last month after taking an overdose of sleeping pills.

one man's death — but, another's life

Smokies Dump Spokane Jets 5-3; Move Into Tie With Idle Warriors

NORM LENARDON
. . . notches pair for Smokies

TRAIL (Special to the Daily News) — Trail Smoke Eaters got back on a winning track to move into a fourth place tie with the Rossland Warriors as they downed the Spokane Jets 5-3 here Saturday night.

Paced by the two goal performance of winger Norm Lenardon, the Silver City club came back from a 1-0 deficit at the end of the second period to outscore the Jets five to two in the final frame for the win.

Gerry Penner, Don White and Playing-Coach Cal Hockley added singles for the Smokies, while Charlie Goodwin, Joe Morneau and Gordie Nuyens countered for the Jets.

Trail netminder Bruno Forlin turned aside 23 shots in holding the Jets to three goals, in comparison to 28 handled by Dave Cox between the posts for Spokane.

The Jets tallied for the first marker of the game near the end of the opening frame as John MacDonald was serving a two minute minor for tripping.

Ron Bahr and Morneau started the play in their own zone as they neatly worked their way up the ice and through the Smokies defence.

Scooping the puck from behind the Trail net, Morneau sent the disc out in front to Goodwin who banged it home to cap the scoring in the period.

Neither team could crack its opponent's tight defence in the second period as both clubs forechecked so well that the majority of the action stayed near centre ice.

An error on the part of the timekeeper resulted in two three minute minors when Ray Hamilton and McDonald were put off for roughing at 7:55.

The clock registered 7:55, but the time keeper noted the penalties at 8:55, forcing the two rearguards to sit out the extra minute.

The Smokies came out strong for the final twenty minutes of play as they took control of the play and exploded for five goals.

Taking the opening face off, White moved the puck into Spokane territory and in and around the Jets cage.

Ragging the puck until Penner was in position, White sent a goal mouth pass to the sparkling winger and he made no mistake as he picked the right hand corner to beat Cox cleanly.

Lenardon notched his first of two markers at 3:15 when burly defenceman George Ferguson took a blazing slapshot from the point that Lenardon tipped into the open corner.

Using Penner as a decoy, White faked Cox to opposite side of the net and handily flipped the puck into the open corner to send the Smokies in front 3-1.

The Jets retaliated with two quick markers as defenceman Don McGowan set up Morneau and Nuyens.

Accepting a short pass from McGowan, at the red line, Morneau worked his to the Trail blueline to drill a blistering slapshot that Ferlin fanned on at 11:09.

Nuyens countered for the third Spokane goal one minute later when he manoeuvered his way in and around the Trail cage to fire a low shot to the left hand corner from a sharp angle.

The Smokies caught fire again near the thirteen minute mark as Lenardon chalked up his second marker of the evening.

Pinoke McIntyre sparked the play from his own zone as he fed Lenardon a rink-wide pass to send the flashy forward in homefree, to beat Cox with a hard shot that was partially stopped but dribbled between his pads.

Wit hless than two minutes left to play Spokane pulled its netminder in favor of the extra attacker in an attempt to gain the equalizer.

Hockley added another unassisted goal to his total as he grabbed the face off and neatly backhanded the puck the length of the rink and into the open net to round out the scoring in the game.

Although the Smokies moved into a tie for fourth spot in Western International Hockey League standings the idle Rossland Warriors will have a chance for sole possession of the slot when they meet the league-leading Maple Leafs in Nelson Tuesday night.

Dynamiters, Spokane Jets Hand Maple Leafs Two Humiliating Weekend Losses

Oakland Receives Game Misconduct in WIHL Battle

By MIKE BENNETT
Daily News Sports Writer

Kimberley Dynamiters and Spokane Jets handed the league-leading Nelson Maple Leafs two costly losses this weekend as "Kromm's Kids" went down to defeat 6-1 and 4-0 respectively.

The Dynamiters, led by the two-goal performance of hard-skating Kenny McTeer held the Leafs scoreless until the last five minutes of play in Saturday's game, as the "Green and White" just couldn't seem to do anything right.

Verne Wildeman, Wally Souter, Dick Vincent, and John Sinclair added singles for the East Kootenay club, while Carl Chwachka of the Leafs spoiled Dynamiter netminder Bill Sides bid for a shutout with the only Nelson counter.

In Spokane Sunday night, players from both clubs were standing in line to get into the penalty box as the Jets and the Leafs picked up a total of 96 minutes in the penalty box, including three 10-minute misconducts and one game misconduct.

In the Saturday contest, the Dynamiters dominated the play as they hit the Leafs for four unanswered goals in the first forty minutes of the game.

Vincent started the Kimberley club on its way when he accepted a rink-wide pass from defenceman Bill Gallamore near the Leafs blueline to cut across the goal mouth unmolested and slip the puck under Leafs' netminder Jim Letcher's pads.

A hapless Leaf defence accounted fo rnumerous Dynamiter rushes as Kromm's rearguards were caught napping time and again.

The Kimberley club made it 2-0 near the 12 minute mark in the second frame when Hugh Hooker stole the puck from Leaf defenceman Bill Steinke and backhanded a pass to McTeer going over the Nelson line.

Cruising into Leaf territory, McTeer split the defence to beat the Nelson netminder cleanly with a hard drive on the short side.

Souter sent the Dynamiters out in front 3-0 when he outguessed Leaf Playing-Coach Bobby Kromm on a home-free breakaway to drill a hard shot to the upper left hand corner.

"Nitro" McTeer picked up his second goal of the night when Les Lilley took the play into the Nelson corner and behind the net to slip a goal-mouth pass to the Dynamiter forward who was Johnny-on-the-spot as he fired a blazing shot to the lower left-hand corner to cap the scoring in the frame.

The Dynamiters continued their onslaught on the Leaf net in the third stanza as Sinclair, Lilley and Souter teamed up to hem the Leafs in their own end.

Flipping short passes back and forth, Lilley and Souter faked the Nelson defence to set up Sinclair on the point who sent a blistering screen shot that caught the left hand corner.

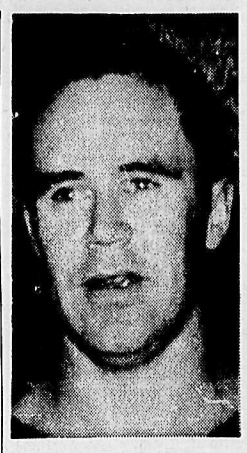
Wildeman rounded out the Kimberley scoring in the one-sided contest when Wayne King led a three-man Dynamiter rush through the lax Leaf defence.

Taking a pass from King at the Leaf blueline, Vincent labelled a hard drive to the upper corner; that Letcher stopped but failed to clear and Wildeman pounced on the loose rebound to give Kimberley its sixth marker.

Chwachka saved the Nelson club from suffering a shutout when he took a pass from Leroy Mowery to streak down the right wing boards and catch the top left hand corner with a lightning shot that caught Kimberley netminder Bill Sides unprepared.

The win for the Kimberley club moves it to within three points of the Leafs in Western International Hockey League standings as the season goes into its second half.

Sunday's game provided little to cheer about in the Leafs' camp as the Spokane Jets came up with one goal in the first period and three more in the third to hand the Leafs their second loss in as many days.



KEN McTEER

Referees Johnny Johanssen and Buzz Miller assessed a total of 96 minutes in penalties as the Jets - Leafs feud continued at fever pitch.

Joe Morneau, playing-coach Eddie Dorohoy, Vince Collins and Ron Bahr fired home singles for the Spokane club in the rough and tumble contest.

The first two periods of play featured relatively clean hockey as both teams checked well both offensively and defensively.

Morneau picked up the only marker in the first two-thirds of the game as Dorohoy and Tom Hodges kept the play in the Nelson zone.

Passing the puck back and forth, Dorohoy and Hodges drew the Leafs' defence to set up Morneau on the point to fire a blazing shot to the right hand corner past Nelson netminder Letcher.

Play in the second continued to be tight as the two clubs failed to penetrate its opponents' line.

The lid blew off the game in the third stanza as the two clubs picked up their battle in earnest.

Kromm, Dorohoy and Leaf rearguard Shelley Atwell each picked up 10 minute misconducts as the referees had a more difficult time in assessing penalties than they did in recording goals.

Dorohoy picked up an unassisted goal at the 52 second mark of the period when Leaf defenceman Bill Steinke put the puck on his stick and he went in to beat Letcher cleanly on a neat manoeuvre.

The Jets continued to dominate the play as well as the penalties as Collins, Dorohoy and Charlie Goodwin forced the Nelson club back to the boards.

Wit hthe Leafs failing to clear, Collins picked up the disc and rammed it home to send the Jets out in front 3-0.

The game was delayed for 10 minutes during the last few minutes of play, when Spokane goalie received a broken nose in a goal mouth scramble.

With every one but the two trainers having spent time in the penalty box, Nelson defenceman Dennis Oakland capped a bad night for the Leafs when he was given a game misconduct.

The penalty arose from a roughing incident with Collins near centre ice as Oakland threw his stick into the crowd.

Bahr came back to round out the Spokane total as the Jets capitalized on a neat three-way pass play from their own end.

The Leafs, smarting from two defeats last weekend will have a chance to redeem themselves Tuesday night when they host the Rossland Warriors in a game that is a "must" for both clubs.

The Warriors are presently deadlocked in fourth place with the Trail Smoke Eaters who also see action Tuesday against the battle-scarred Spokane Jets.

Canadiens Stretch Lead With Win Over Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens stretched their National Hockey League lead to three points Sunday night, edging second-place Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 in a tense battle. The teams were stalemated 0l0 at the end of the first and were deadlocked 1-1 at the end of the second.

Bruce MacGregor and Norm Ullman each scored twice in Detroit Red Wings runaway 8-1 slamming of hapless Boston Bruins. New York Rangers came from behind to tie Toronto Maple Leafs 3-3.

An unassisted goal by Claude Provost while his team was shorthanded at 11:35 of the third period gave Montreal Canadiens their victory.

Bobby Hull, the Hawks' golden jet, opened the scoring mid-way through the second period after the clubs had battled on even terms for the first 29 minutes.

The goal was the 32nd of the season for the 25-year-old left winger. Rookie Yvan Cournoyer tied it up at the 17:55 mark of the second period with his sixth goal of the season.

CLAUDE PROVOST
. . . scores unassisted tie-breaker

Against Detroit's biggest offensive display of the season, Bruin goalie Ed Johnson faced 36 shots and, despite the score, was outstanding for the crippled, last-place Bruins.

MacGregor sandwiched his two goals around Pit Martin's goal in the first as the Wings grabbed a 3-0 lead.

Tom Williams of the Briuns scored his fifth of the season from a sharp angle at 5:27 of the second period.

But the Wings took off again, this time with Ullman scoring his 17th and 18th to make it 5-1.

In the final period, Ted Lindsay snapped in Eddie Joyal's rebound, Alex Delvecchio blasted a high shot from the point and Ron Murphy finished the rout on a setup from Gordie Howe, who collected three assists.

The New York-Toronto tie extended winless streaks for each club at Madison Square Garden. The fifth-place Rangers have not won a home game since Nov. 25. Toronto has yet to win in the Garden this season.

Jean Ratelle tied the score at 7:52 of the final period, five minutes after junior-age rookie Brit Selby's first NHL goal had put the Leafs in front.

New York outshot the fourth-place Leafs 42-21, but Toronto capitalized on two tipped shots and a bizarre 90-foot drive by defenceman Tim Horton.

The Leafs trailed 2-1 in the final minute of the second session when Horton's shot from centre ice bounded past New York goalie Jacques Plante.

Lindsay Bucks NHL, Campbell

TORONTO (CP)—Left-winger Ted Lindsay threatened Saturday night to buck both the National Hockey League and its president about $75 worth of fines he received automatically late in the game as his Detroit Red Wings lost 3-1 to Toronto Maple Leafs here.

"I'm going to tell Sid (coach Sid Abel) not to pay the money," Lindsay said. "And I'm not going to sit for Campbell's (NHL president Clarence Campbell) kangaroo court either.

"If they want to make something of it, they can do it in a regular court and I'll have my own lawyer."

The veteran Lindsay drew a misconduct penalty, with an automatic $25 fine, with 90 seconds to go in the game and was then handed a game misconduct, worth $50, by referee Vern Buffey.

Lindsay accused Buffey of swearing at him.

"I suppose his report won't say anything about that, but our players can back me up. They heard him."

Neely's Double Signing Brings Threat of NFL Legal Skirmish

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League will not take any disciplinary action against Minnesota Vikings for signing three Oklahoma football players before the Gator Bowl game, The Associated Press learned Sunday.

However, the double signing of Oklahoma tackle Ralph Neely threatened to bring the National and American Leagues into court for the first legal skirmish over a college player since the AFL entered the bidding war in 1960.

Neely, who signed with AFL Houston Oilers before the Gator Bowl game and with the NFL Dallas Cowboys after he was dismissed from the team, became the centre of a swirling controversy last weekend that also involved fullback Jim Grisham, receiver Lance Rentzel and end Wes Skidgel.

Grisham, Rentzel and Skidgel all signed with the Vikings before the Gator Bowl clash against Florida State and were banned, along with Neely, from playing by coach Gomer Jones.

Neely and Grisham also have been dropped from the Hula Bowl roster. The Hula Bowl will be played next Friday in Honolulu.

It was learned that, because of sharp criticism from numerous college officials, the NFL will send representatives to the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting starting in Chicago next Sunday—presumably to try to reach a workable solution with the colleges.

Neither NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle nor AFL chief Jos Foss would comment Sunday on the premature signings.

Bud Adams, owner of the Oilers, indicated Saturday night he may take legal steps to prevent Neely from playing with Dallas.

The two leagues have avoided court contests since before the 1960 season when Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson of LSU and Charlie Flowers of Mississippi signed duplicate contracts. The AFL won all three cases.

The AFL came out of the weekend bowl games with a solid edge over the NFL in signings.

The biggest names were Alabama quarterback Joe Namath and Florida State all-American end Fred Biletnikoff.

Namath, top draft pick of the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals and AFL's New York Jets, signed a three-year Jets contract in the neighborhood of $400,000 — the highest price ever paid for a college athlete.

Biletnikoff signed with Oakland Raiders, who completed a haul of the first five on their draft list by getting their No. 2 pick. Biletnikoff was picked on the third round by the NFL's Detroit Lions.

Biletnikoff's teammate, quarterback Steve Tensi, also chose the AFL, signing with San Diego Chargers.

Other signings:

American League

Kansas City: Arkansas linebacker Ron Caveness and end Jerry Lamb.

Buffalo: LSU guard Remi Prudhomme.

Oakland: Nebraska halfback Kent McCloughan.

San Diego: Florida State end Don Floyd, centre Jack Edwards and kicker Les Murdock.

National League

Minnesota: Alabama tackle Frank McClendon, Texas end Walt Sands.

St. Louis: Alabama end Ray Ogden, Oklahoma guard Ed McQuarters.

Detroit: Florida State tackle Avery Summer.

Stuntman Dives From Plane Without Parachute

ARVIN, Calif. (AP) — Sky diver Rod Pack says he leaped from a plane at 14,600 feet Friday without a parachute.

He rode safely to earth, he says, on a parachute handed to him by a fellow sky diver who followed him out of the plane—and caught up with him 4,000 feet below.

Pack, 26-year-old movie stuntman, said it was a first in aerial dare-deviltry.

"They claimed it couldn't be done, but we proved differently."

The pilot of the chartered plane confirmed Pack's account. So did two sky-diving aerial photographers who said they followed Pack's descent and took movies and still pictures of the feat.

Pack, a blonde former carpenter who took up sky diving because "floating around in the air has a thrill of its own," told how he thought up the stunt more than a year ago:

"You always hear somebody joking about jumping out of a plane without a parachute. Then I heard somebody say it would be the greatest stunt ever pulled and got to thinking, 'Why couldn't it be done?'"

CHECK ROUTINE

He and his sky-diving buddy, carpenter Bob Allen, 25, made a few practise jumps, passing back and forth the lightweight reserve chute that saved Pack Friday.

They and the two photographers circled at 14,600 feet over a plowed field—a sky divers' drop zone—near this community 80 miles northwest of Hollywood.

Then, Pack said, he jumped out, wearing a parachute harness but no chute. It was his 534th jump as a sky diver.

"I flared out, lying on my stomach with my feet and arms out, grabbing as much air as possible to slow me down."

Allen followed him out of the plane immediately, wearing a regulation back chute and a reserve chest chute.

ADDS WEIGHT

Pack, who weighs 167 pounds, wore a skin-diver belt with 30 pounds of weights to approximate the weight of the parachute-laden Allen. Otherwise, he said, Allen might have passed him up in the air "and I'd have floated around up there like a feather."

Allen "doubled up tight" to cut air resistance and overtake Pack.

They manoeuvred their hands and arms until they were side by side, 4,000 feet below the plane. Allen handed Pack the reserve chute.

"He wouldn't let go of it until I gave him the nod," Pack said.

He got the parachute package under him, so that wind pressure pushed it up against his horizontal body, and fastened the chute's hooks to the two D rings at abdomen level on his harness. This manoeuvre ate up another 4,000 feet, he said.

CAMERAS ON HELMETS

Meanwhile, freelance photographers Doyle Fields, 30, and Bob Buquor, 29, falling free from the plane, were taking pictures with cameras strapped to their helmets.

Pack, white-clad against the blue sky, said he "looked around to see where everybody was."

"I smiled up at them—I could see a couple of feet but couldn't tell whose they were because the sun was in my eyes—and pulled the ripcord.

"The sensation is terrible, I tell you. With the parachute hooked to your stomach you come to a screeching halt from 125 miles an hour. Your feet go one way and your head another till they about hit each other. But it was a good feeling at the time."

SPAIN TO BUILD FIVE FRIGATES

MADRID (AP) — Spain will build five new missile-firing frigates based on the plans of the U.S.S. Charles F. Adams with technical assistance from the United States, the Roman Catholic newspaper Ya said today. They will be constructed in Spanish shipyards.

Selection of the U.S. model followed abandonment of negotiations with Britain for help in building Leander class frigates in Spain.

Spain called off its discussions with the Admiralty last year, blaming offensive remarks by Labor leader and now Prime Minister Harold Wilson. Subsequently, a mission was sent to Washington to negotiate with the U.S. Navy.

Private Plane Collision Kills Four Over Lake

FALSOM, Calif. (AP) — Two light private planes collided 3000 feet over Lake Folsom Friday. The four occupants of one aircraft died as it crashed into the lake and exploded.

The pilot of the other aircraft flew his damaged craft to Sacramento Municipal Airport 20 miles away and landed safely with two passengers aboard. All of the dead were California residents.

The pilot of the plane that escaped, Curtis Metcalf, 46, said he was flying over the lake in clear weather when he "felt a bump" and discovered the right elevator on the tail of his single-engined Bonanza had been sheered off. The plane went into a spin but Metcalf righted it

HOLIDAYS FROM HOME

Rejected B.C. Bank Is Not Dead Issue

VANCOUVER (CP) — An Alberta senator has promised a lively discussion over a Senate committee's rejection of the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

Donald Cameron said in a letter to Mayor William Rathie: "I can assure you there will be a lively discussion on the matter."

The letter was one of 12 letters and telegrams received from Senators in response to telegrams urging support of the bank from Mr. Rathie.

The senate's banking committee rejected the application for a charter for the B.C. bank—sponsored by the British Columbia Social Credit government—by a vote of 19-7. The decision must be reported to the senate for final consideration when it convenes March 2.

Mr. Cameron said the committee "should not have, so arbitarily, recommended against the establishment of the Bank of B.C."

It is reported that Mr. Rathie has received promises from other senators to support the bank when the matter comes up in the Senate.

Meanwhile, Mr. Rathie and a group of businessmen have received 24 letters from members of the House of Commons in reply to telegrams urging action on the Laurentide Bank of Canada.

The Senate committee has approved the bank's application for a charter but the bill incorporating the bank has bogged down in the Senate.

Prime Minister Pearson said "one of the splinter groups. . . has blocked its passage."

Opposition leader Diefenbaker said: "You may be assured that this question is receiving the close attention of our caucus committee."

Marcel Lambert, Conservative member of Parliament for Edmonton, said the bill has only been opposed by the Creditistes.

Mountain Climber Saved by Daring Rescue Attempt

JAFFREY, N.H. (AP)—Courageous volunteers lashed a critically injured mountain climber to a sled in darkness early Saturday and brought him down an icy, wind - whipped slope of Mount Monadnock.

Gary Sylvester, 22-year-old father of two, was taken to a Boston hospital. He suffered a brain injury Friday when he fell about 80 feet into a crevasse while climbing the 3,400-foot-high mountain with two companions.

The rescue party had only the light of flashlights for the gruelling, three-hour descent. One flashlight remained burning when they reached safety.

One rescuer described the mountain trails as "frozen waterfalls."

Dr. Grafton Burke, 46, of Dublin, N.H., went up the mountain to reach Sylvester in what Dr. Burke described as "brutal" conditions. Six men helped carry Sylvester down the slope.

The rescue party was led by Dr. Charles Groesbeck, Congregational Church minister in Dublin and an experienced climber.

One of Sylvester's friends, David Majercik, 25, of Petersham, Mass., made his way to the base of the mountain to seek help after Sylvester fell. The third man, Richard Lyon Jr., 36, of Hubbardston, Mass., stayed with Sylvester, from Watertown, Mass.

The rescue party inched its way up the slope, pulled Sylvester from his precarious spot and carried him to a heated cabin, where a call was sent out for Dr. Burke.

Violent Tremor Wrecks Part of Algerian Village

ALGIERS (Reuters) — A strong earth tremor destroyed part of the town of Msila in northeast Algeria during the night, killing at least four persons and injuring about 40 others, it was reported Saturday.

Officials said most of the town's population of 15,000 abandoned their homes. Rescue work was hampered by fierce rainstorms.

World Briefs

S. AFRICANS BARRED

MANILA (AP) — Citizens of South Africa have been barred from entering the Philippines for 15 days as tourists without visas. Immigration Commissioner Martiniano Vivo said South Africans were excluded as an expression of disapproval of South Africa's apartheid racial policy.

ROYAL BIRTH SOON

MADRID (AP) — Princess Sophie of Greece, wife of Prince Juan Carlos de Bourbon of Spain, is expecting their second child, sometime in the summer, sources close to their household here said Saturday. They have a year-old daughter.

"Hey! You sure found a lot of new space when you switched to natural gas heating..."

Is there an old "iron monster" in your basement, eating up space as well as fuel? Are you paying for room you need but can't use? Then investigate clean, compact natural gas heating.

No space-wasting storage problems; no messy deliveries of wood or coal; no waiting for the furnace oil in snowplough weather. Natural gas is piped direct to a compact, efficient furnace unit in your home – year-round.

And natural gas gives you new space throughout the house. Small heating registers don't cramp furniture arrangements like ring-around-the-room electric baseboard heating.

If there's "room for improvement" in your home, switch to the comfort, convenience and economy of natural gas heating.
