China Detonates 2nd Nuclear Bomb

Answer to "Nuclear Blackmail" of U.S.

By The Canadian Press

China announced the successful explosion Friday of its second nuclear device, saying it had to develop nuclear weapons "for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

The official New China news agency reported the test took place "over" its remote western provinces.

The agency did not elaborate on the word "over," but nuclear physicists, including Dr. Ralph Lapp of the United States had speculated that the second device would be dropped from a plane.

The first Chinese test, Oct. 16 last, is believed to have been conducted from a tower.

The agency's statement said the explosion took place at 10 a.m. Peking time Friday and added:

"China is conducting necessary nuclear tests within defined limits and is developing the nuclear weapon for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States and for the purpose of abolishing all nuclear weapons."

It called the test "another important achievement scored by the Chinese people in strengthening their national defence and safeguarding the security of their motherland and world peace."

NO MORE DETAILS

China gave no details of the type or size of the device or exactly where it was exploded.

China is the fifth country to have produced a nuclear bomb of its own. The others are the U.S., Russia, Britain and France.

The U.S., Russia and Britain, bowing to world protests against polluting the atmosphere with dangerous radiation, have not carried out any explosions above ground since the end of 1962 and their subsequent signing of the Moscow partial nuclear test-ban treaty.

China's first nuclear explosion was at first dismissed by Western leaders, including U.S. President Johnson, as "an extremely crude" experiment.

But after closer study, officials in Washington admitted that it was more advanced than at first credited.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said indications were that the Chinese bomb was a fission device employing uranium 235, which indicated a high degree of technological knowledge.

AHEAD OF FRANCE

Manufacture of uranium 235 calls for a complex gaseous diffusion plant. The French officials have admitted that if the Chinese have one, it puts them ahead of France. The French are still relying on plutonium.

Western scientists have estimated the first Chinese explosion was roughly comparable to the Hiroshima bomb, which had an explosive force equalling 20,000 tons of TNT, but they said it appeared to be more advanced than the Hiroshima weapon.

The explosion of a second bomb so soon after the first indicates rapid progress, observers said, and could mean China is capable of becoming a full nuclear power much sooner than Western authorities had earlier estimated.

Within hours of Friday's announcement, the U.S. confirmed the blast—said it was a second Hiroshima-sized explosion, and promised to support atomic have-not countries against the "threat of nuclear blackmail."

BLAST IN SAME AREA

The U.S. state department said that the new blast came in the same area of Western China as the first, at Lop Nol, a lake in the Takla Makan desert of Sinkiang province.

China has been urged by most countries to accede to the partial nuclear test-ban treaty.

Peking, however, brands the pact "a big fraud against the people of the whole world which merely protects the monopoly of the nuclear powers."

Queen Dedicates Historic Acre to Kennedy Memory

By CAROL KENNEDY

RUNNYMEDE, England CP — Jacqueline Kennedy came close to tears Friday as she watched the Queen dedicate an acre of England's most historic land to the memory of her late husband President John F. Kennedy.

The Queen, inaugurating Britain's national memorial to the slain president, called Kennedy a "man who championed liberty in an age when its very foundation was threatened on a universal scale."

"With all our hearts my people shared his triumphs, grieved at his reverses and wept at his death."

It was fitting, the Queen said, that Kennedy should be remembered here, where the Magna Carta, charter of Western Democratic liberty, was signed 750 years ago almost to the month in a Thames-side meadow.

Several times during the moving eulogies to her husband Mrs. Kennedy pressed her lips firmly together as if keeping back tears. At one point she swallowed hard and gazed straight ahead as former prime minister Harold MacMillan spoke of Britain's shock and angry grief at Kennedy's death and his personal mourning for "a good friend, a wonderful friend."

The Queen dedicated a simple, rectangular memorial of Portland stone as a gift from the British people to the man many of them regarded as the embodiment, of "all the hopes and aspirations of this world that is struggling to emerge phoenix-like from the ashes of the old."

The inscription on the seven-ton stone, taken from the late president's inaugural address, reads:

"Let every nation know, whether it wishes us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe, in order to insure the survival and successes of liberty."

Casualties Heavy In Rice Paddies

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnamese forces Friday claimed two decisive victories with 215 Viet Cong Communists dead in heat-cracked rice paddies about 135 miles south of here.

But fighting north of here went against the South Vietnamese and U.S. troops.

Viet Cong guerrillas chased two U.S. marine patrols 11 miles outside the huge American air base at Da Nang, 375 miles northeast of Saigon after killing one marine and wounding three others.

Chinese - equipped guerrillas 80 miles southwest of Da Nang ambushed a South Vietnamese special forces patrol, killing five and wounding 27.

The two triumphs for government forces in battles that began Thursday involved troops of the crack 21st Division, helped by American helicopters and planes.

HIT WITH NAPALM

A U.S. officer on the battle scene said the entrenched guerrillas broke and ran when napalm fire-bombs hit them.

For the second day in a row Friday, there was no announcement here of any air raid on North Viet Nam. But Radio Hanoi and the New China news agency declared there were extensive attacks Thursday.

The Hanoi broadcast reported the raids were made on Con Co island and two central provinces, Ha Tinh and Nghe An. It said nothing about any plane losses, but the New China news agency reported in a Hanoi dispatch that one was shot down.

Ceasefire Efforts Said Collapsing

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The shaky ceasefire in this divided city was disintegrating Friday—and the rebels vowed never to negotiate with the Dominican junta. But they said they would talk peace "with the true creators of this junta, with the North Americans."

Meanwhile, the junta's armed forces' chief warned that the rebels would be bombed again "if the situation warrants it"—and two of his planes circled over the city.

Jottin Cury, rebel foreign minister, told The Associated Press his government would never negotiate with the five-man civil-military junta headed by Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras.

"My government is ready to negotiate with the true creators of this junta, with the North Americans," Cury said in an interview.

Both UN officials and the Organization of American States had been trying to get Imbert together with the rebel president Col. Francisco Caamano Deno—but these efforts appear to have collapsed.

COMPLETE VIOLATION

Cury said proposals for a coalition with the junta were "inconceivable, a complete violation of our constitutional position."

Both U.S. and rebel spokesmen pointed to the growing number of infractions of the ceasefire agreement.

U.S. military officials listed 35 alleged violations by the rebels Thursday and Thursday night including one incident in which the rebels fired two rounds from a mortar into U.S. lines.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations Security Council called Friday for a strict ceasefire in the Dominican Republic and gave urgent orders to Secretary-General U Thant to send a personal representative to that revolt-torn country.

The council acted unanimously at an urgent session convened after Thant received a message from Jottin Cury, "foreign minister" of the rebel regime.

Cury charged that the bombing of rebel positions in Santo Domingo Thursday by planes of the rival military-civilian junta were undertaken with consent of the U.S. forces "or on their orders." He charged the OAS was incapable of resolving the situation and appealed to Thant to intervene.

Still No Sign on Duncan Clearing, Says Perrault

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside is still silent on timber clearance behind the Duncan Dam, Ray Perrault, provincial liberal leader, told a gathering of followers here Friday.

Mr. Perrault was referring to a telephone conversation he had with the B.C. Hydro chairman from Trail Thursday afternoon. Relating the conversation the Liberal leader declared that Dr. Keenleyside said that he was not prepared to say anything at this time on the controversial clearing.

Purpose of the telephone call was to clarify the situation at Arrow Dam and clear up misapprehensions in Trail that total clearing would not take place as originally announced by B.C. Hydro on Feb. 2, 1965, he said.

Though he dreads another swamp blot on the province's topography, Mr. Perrault admitted, "I expect the area behind the Duncan Dam is not going to be cleared to the same extent as the area behind the Arrow Dam."

He promised that "we are going to do something in the Legislature to develop a case to do it properly."

He decried stumpage swamps created like one near Kitimat, which flanks highway 16. "It looks like the East side of the moon on a bad night," he said.

Calling Nelson "an ideal educational centre in Canada," Mr. Perrault attacked the provincial government on its lack of grants to Notre Dame University of Nelson, which will bestow an honorary degree upon Premier W. A. C. Bennett today.

Claiming the Liberals had led the fight for university recognition for Notre Dame, Mr. Perrault hoped today's graduation ceremony would alter the view of Social Credit.

"I hope the Premier, when he receives his honorary degree, will see first hand the value of such an institution and will alter his policies and make grants of some sort to the university," said Mr. Perrault.

He felt that with the affluent economy of B.C., now was the time to introduce comprehensive medical care coverage in the province. He felt the medical profession would not oppose such a scheme, if medical standards were preserved. There was also no need to duplicate the Saskatchewan plan in complete detail, he said, feeling British Columbians could evolve a native plan.

Mr. Perrault sounded a constant Liberal plank in the party's platform, revision of tax sharing between federal, provincial and municipal governments.

An effect of immediate revision would be to alleviate financial pressures on boom communities like those affected by Columbia River development.

He urged the government "to consider establishing a program to help the taxpayer to cope with the hundreds of new problems the construction phase will bring. There must be special municipal aid to help towns in this way."

Greater portion of his address was concerned with interpretative resume of the Liberals' role in the recent Legislature session.

More Vocational Schools Needed, Says CPR Chief

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—N. R. Crump, chairman and chief executive officer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says about 30 per cent of students attending universities "shouldn't be there."

They are being "forced through"—and wasting taxpayers' money—by parents concerned with the "prestige" factor.

He was speaking Friday to about 185 leaders of business from across Canada attending the ninth annual business conference at the University of Western Ontario.

What is needed are more vocational schools to produce skilled tradesmen, he said.

"Everybody isn't going to be generals. We need privates."

Asked what he thought is a corporation's responsibility in retraining workers to meet technological change, he replied that the corporation's responsibility is allied with that of the educational department of government.

The human aspects of change, he said, involve making people aware of the need to change. Management shares this responsibility with organized labor.

Labor must ensure that no artificial barriers are imposed against adoption of the most efficient technology and the best in work practices.

Mr. Crump said that in his view automation imposes no problem for Canada or Canadian labor.

B.C. Mayors Leave Quebec On Happy Note

QUEBEC (CP- — "When we get home," said British Columbia's minister of municipal affairs, D. R.J . Campbell, "we will tell our people of the friendship we found during our stay in Quebec."

He was addressing a farewell banquet for 175 B.C. mayors and municipal officials who left Quebec City Friday for Montreal.

The mayors are returning a visit the Quebec Union of Municipalities paid to Victoria last year. Thursday they were entertained at the Chateau-Frontenac by Mayor Wilfrid Hamel of Quebec City, who promised his next trip will be to B.C.

Later the same night they ate a "souper Canadien," a traditional French-Canadian meal, at the Patro Roc-Amadour, a luxurious lowertown recreation centre run by St. Vincent de Paul priests.

Mayor Hamel called the second day of the visitors' stay "one of the happiest days of my life. We are all neighbors because we are all Canadians."

Mayor Hamel and Reeve Peter Jenewein of Maple Ridge, head of the B.C. Union of Municipalities delegation, exchanged gifts.The B.C. group gave Quebec a silver cup and received a plaque of the walled city's arms.

The visitors also had a miniature Haida-style totem pole for Pierre Laporte, Quebec's municipal affairs minister, and flowers jet-flown from their home province for wives of Quebec officials.

New RCAF History Authorized

OTTAWA (CP)—A new history of the Royal Canadian Air Force in the Second World War has been authorized by the defence department, it was announced Friday.

A three-volume history was produced during and immediately after the war.

The new work will be supervised by Col. Charles P. Stacey, 58, who has been granted leave as professor of history at the University of Toronto to assume the appointment of director of a single historical section for the Canadian armed forces.

He was head of the Canadian army historical section from 1945 to 1959 and wrote The Canadian Army, 1939-45, The Victory Campaign and many other books and articles.

Brandon House Ripped by Blast

BRANDON (CP) — An explosion shattered an 18-room dwelling here Friday, injuring a child and an elderly woman.

The wood and brick building was engulfed within minutes, and in half an hour the roof and walls had collapsed.

City Fire inspector Stan Pollack said it was a gas explosion. D. D. Fearns, manager of Plains Western Gas Co., which serviced the building, said it was not known what caused the line to explode.

The fire, fanned by a stiff wind and fought by the entire city force of 34 fireman, spread to two other houses and a lawn bowling clubhouse before being extinguished.

One of the injured, Mrs. Mary Ober, 73, was described by a hospital spokesman Friday night as in satisfactory condition following treatment for facial cuts received when the explosion ripped apart the front porch on which she was sitting.

One-year-old Kevin Bailey, who also was on the porch, was treated for facial cuts, but not detained in hospital.

Eaton Group May Build in Budapest

VIENNA (AP) — Cyrus S. Eaton, Jr., son of the Nova Scotia - born Cleveland industrialist, said Friday the "Eaton group" is discussing plans with the Hungarian government to build a $6,000,000 hotel in Budapest.

Reached by telephone from Vienna, Eaton said in Budapest the project "has not yet been formalized, but we hope to reach agreement in a month or so."

Eaton and his father leave for Moscow this weekend on the next leg of their tour of Eastern Europe, but plan to be back in Budapest in about a week to continue their talks with officials.

Canadian Teen-Agers Quit Smoking After Conference

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA CP — Nearly half of the teen-age smokers who attended this week's Canadian youth conference on smoking and health said Friday they plan to quit smoking or cut down.

As the three-day conference ended, at least two of the 15 smokers in the group of 74 had already stopped.

Gilles Dufour, 17, of Montreal said:

"I had reasons for quitting before I came but now I have more powerful reasons."

Another teen-ager, Yvan Miville-Deschenes of Quebec City said he was going to quit Friday night.

"Just three more cigarettes and then I'm through for good."

Four others said they definitely planned to smoke less and may quit.

Health department officials said the conference had been called to present an objective view of the facts about health hazards of smoking, not necessarily to convince the teenagers attending that they should quit.

SAYS MAGNIFICENT

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, who quit smoking two years ago, told the students at a luncheon that the conference had been a "magnificent experiment."

In final conference discussions, Harry Allen of Whitehorse, Y.T., suggested that provincial conferences should be held across the country for teen-agers on the health hazards of smoking.

The Weather

Kootenay: Sunny Saturday becoming cloudy in the afternoon. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Low and high at Cranbrook and Crescent Valley, 35 and 70.

Sunday outlook. Cloudy with a few sunny periods. Little change in temperature.

And in This Corner . . .

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Peter Moltendord pulled into a service station with a roar and asked the attendant to please check the oil.

A fairly common request except that Mr. Moltendord was driving a single-engined biplane.

Police said Mr. Moltendord's plane lost oil pressure over Nipigon, 65 miles northeast of here, so he set the craft down on the Trans-Canada Highway and taxied it to the service station for repairs.

Police blocked traffic for him to take off and complete his journey to the Lakehead.

Drop Assault Count Against Slocan Man

Magistrate William Evans dismissed an assault charge against John Konkin of Slocan Park in Provincial Court Friday, because of insufficient evidence.

There were no witnesses to the family quarrel between Konkin and William Chernoff, the magistrate was informed. The assault charge apparently grew out of an incident where it is alleged that Konkin grabbed the arm of Chernoff, ripping the sleeve of his garment.

Mike Chernenkoff of Crescent Valley entered a plea of not guilty to a speeding charge and his case was remanded until May 19 for decision.

R. F. Lewitt of Nakusp pleaded guilty to speeding near Beasley Bluffs and was fined $10.

William Sapriken of Glade entered a plea of not guilty to an impaired driving charge and the case was adjourned for hearing until May 19.

W. D. Long of Nelson entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of driving without due care and attention. The case was adjourned to May 17.

Robert D. Fitzgerald of Nelson pleaded guilty to not possessing a driver's license and was fined $10. J. R. Lally of Revelstoke pleaded guilty to the same charge and was assessed the same fine.

Speeding cost D. A. Grundy of North Shore $15 while failing to stop at the stop sign cost David Pearce of the North Shore a $10 fine.

In city court F. J. Troyan of R.R. 2 pleaded guilty to driving without due care and attention and was fined $25. The conviction arose out of an accident at the intersection of Vernon and Hendryx streets Thursday.

MUNICIPAL PROMOTIONS ANNOUNCED BY CITY

The appointment of F. M. Jenkins as administrative superintendent of the city garage and transit department was announced Friday by the City of Nelson.

Mr. Jenkins was formerly bookeeper-stockman for the city transit system.

The appointment was announced too of Hugo Gehrmann as maintenance superintendent. Mr. Gohrmann was formerly garage foreman.

OK $196,690 Bid For Arrow Road

Low bid of $196,690 has been submitted by Peter Kiewit Sons Co., of Canada for a contract to construct a mile-long logging road on the south bank of the Columbia River past the site of Arrow dam.

The logging road will be used by truck and trailer units to haul log bundles past the dam while it is under construction.

Log bundles, which are now towed to the mill by tugs, will be removed from the water upstream from the dam, hauled overland past the damsite and returned to the water below the dam.

When the dam is completed in 1969, the log bundles—destined for Celgar Ltd.'s pulp mill below the damsite — will pass through a concrete lock to be built near the centre of the dam.

Only other firm bidding on the logging road contract was McPhail Construction Co., Ltd., of Richmond with a tender price of $305,472.

The contract calls for construction of a turnaround area at each end of the logging road as well as ramps for log handling.

The logging road contract will be awarded after Hydro engineers have studied the bids. Construction is scheduled to start this month.

7th Street Paving Being Considered

Paving of the 600 block of Seventh Street may receive the approval of Nelson City Council. Acting at the request of a group of residents, city council Monday night asked its engineer and public works chairman for a report on the proposed paving at the next council meeting.

Council action came after a delegation from Seventh Street appeared, complaining of the dirt situation that exists in the area due to heavy truck traffic from the asphalt plant and gravel pit.

A spokesman for the group said that there are two main problems facing residents in the area, the dust problem from the truck traffic, and a water runoff problem.

The delegation presented a petition to council signed by 19 residents of the 600 block of Seventh Street complaining of the problems, and asking council action to remedy them.

The spokeswoman said there was heavy truck traffic on both directions of the street, and that in addition, Notre Dame University students added to the traffic hazard by parking their cars in the vicinity.

She noted that a water runoff problem has been created by the city's construction work in the area which raised land on one side of the street, causing water to run down and collect on other properties.

Ald. Hans Farenholtz said he has been aware of the problems existing on Seventh Street. "It is used heavily industrially," he said.

As an aid to the dust problem, Ald. F. A. Beresford suggested that the road could be oiled. "This is not satisfactory," said the spokeswoman, "as it is carried directly into the homes and creates an even greater cleaning problem than the dust."

Robson Man Dies at Trail

Many friends and relatives attended funeral services in Castlegar Doukhobor Community Hall for William Fredrick Plotnikoff of Robson, who died suddenly on Wednesday, May 12 in Trail-Tadanac Hospital.

He was born in Pass Creek in 1923 and receiving his schooling in Brilliant to where the family moved. Later he resided with his parents in Kinnaird.

In 1948, Mr. Plotnikoff married the former Mary Lazareff and made their home in Robson, where they have resided.

An ambitious carpenter, he was engaged in local construction, serving also as finnacial secretary for nine years for the the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Local 2300.

He is survived by his wife Mary and three children, Dianne, Nadine and Gerald, also by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Plotnikoff of Kinnaird, brother Fred of Kinnaird and three sisters, Mrs. May Hadiken, Mrs. Mabel McKimmie and Mrs. Margaret Stoochnoff.

Pallbearers were Tim G. Chutskoff, Fred N. Zibin, John J. Popoff, Mike P. Gorkoff, Walter P. Gorkoff and William M. Rozinkin.

Interment was in Brilliant Cemetery Friday.

Update, Circulate Consultant Study

The Cave - Oberlander report should be updated and circulated widely among citizens, city council was told Monday.

R. H. Procter, an original member of the Nelson Advisory Planning Commission, urged such a policy during the commission's audience with council over liaison and protocol between the two bodies.

"The Cave - Oberlander report is at least five years old and it is turning out to be amazingly accurate," said the commission member.

He felt that the plan has suffered because of inadequate public exposure. It should be updated and circulated widely among residents to acquaint them with the projects, problems and aims of the NAPC and the city.

BAN HARMFUL

Mr. Procter felt that the banning of the press from commission meetings in 1961 harmed the efforts of the body to familiarize the public with its functions. Last year the press was admitted to the commission's meetings.

Mr. Procter said it was first felt that the press should attend to enlighten the citizens on town planning, then it was banned and attendance and interest in the commission's meeting declined.

Ald. Edith Van Maarion, who pressed for banning the press in 1961, explained it was decided to do so for the purposes of clarification. Press reports were revealing the new developments and schemes of the commission before city council was aware of them, and it was producing confusion among the public as to the scheme's relation to the city fathers and effective action.

Seventy Members of Sect Have Applied for Paroles

Sons of Freedom members presently imprisoned at Agassiz will be barred from returning to the Kootenays when they become eligible for parole.

Some 70 members of the sect have applied for parole, B. K. Stevenson, regional representative for the National Parole Service told the regular meeting of Rotary Friday Mr. Stevenson touched on the contentious subject during an address relative to his work.

He added that the jailed Sons of Freedom members had been told they would be dealt with "individually" and not as a group, but that there would be certain areas in the province "out of bounds' 'to them.

WON'T COOPERATE

Since they were imprisoned three years ago, the speaker continued, they have "done nothing" to co-operate with penal programs, although they were now just beginning to conform to prison life. Mr. Stevenson added that much of the changed attitude was attributed to a recent book on the sect which had "shaken" their faith in many of their religious precepts. Applications for parole by the "Sons" would be reviewed with the cooperation of RCMP and the Attorney General, the speaker said.

Lauding the work of Rotary, Mr. Stevenson said there was a "great need in this field for fellowship of your kind," and that the field of crime and correction cost the tax-payer a great deal of money. An editorial on the subject once estimated Canada's stolen-goods loss at $23,000,000, $6,000,000 of which had been recovered, the report said.

UNSOLVED CRIMES

Turning to statistics again, the speaker told the gathering that in 1961 there were 355,000 offences committed, with only 60 per cent being solved. Crime was increasing at the rate of six per cent each year. Once imprisoned, Mr. Stevenson continued, cost of law-breakers to the tax-payer amounted to $2,500 per year for each felon.

One of the major problems, he added, was the lack of trained personnel, especially in the correction field where, at some points, there was no probation officer at all. "It's very difficult to learn how to lead a normal life in the community behind walls," the speaker stressed.

Composed of five members, the Regional Parole Board was formed in 1952, and one of its prime functions was to set policy for parole eligibility. Since its beginning, Mr. Stevenson told members, a total of 13,000 paroles had been granted and of these, 10.2 per cent had returned to a life of crime, one of the lowest averages on the North American Continent, he added.

2000 GRANTED

Out of 10,000 applications received by the board, only 2,000 are granted. One of the biggest causes of parole failure was alcoholism.

Another board function was the investigation of parole applications, which the regional office culled provincewise.

To try to deal with the complex problems of prisoner adjustment, a gradual release program had been initiated whereby the felon is released during the day to acquaint himself with the many changes in society that had taken place since his incarceration.

"Some prisoners are even afraid to go into a store," Mr. Stevenson added, and are extremely self-conscious. The program helps the prisoner identify with society again by allowing him to "fit in" with fellow employees—although the board does not encourage any preferential treatment for parolees.

200 PAROLES

Currently, the speaker said, there were 200 parolees in the province, who had to report to their local law enforcement agency once a month. The way is made easier by setting up liaison contacts such as reputable businessmen and the Salvation Army.

"It is essential that the general public understand the problems of crime and correction," Mr. Stevenson stressed. This need could be met by helping the parolee adjust to an unfamiliar society. "There is a challenge here for all of us," he added.

Asked by Rotarian Blake Allan whether certain former principles and policies of parole were still in force, the speaker said he was a little confused as to what policies the questioner referred to, but that under the new system, some 2,000 parole applications a year were now granted compared to 1,000 in former years. Asked whether parole eligibility was determined by the type of crime committed, Mr. Stevenson replied that parole was not granted in cases where a life sentence was a commutation from hanging.

A life sentence in Canada, the speaker concluded, did not mean "20 years" but was for life, but that such sentence was not all served in prison since a parole became part of the original sentence. Life sentences commuted from the death penalty could be reviewed for parole in 10 years, but that all other offences were eligible for parole after one-third of the sentence had been servd. Only from 40 to 50 per cent of prisoners applied for parole, the speaker added, which gave a law-breaker one chance in five of being paroled.

Chamber Says No Summer Recess

CASTLEGAR — Due to pressure being inflicted upon the Castlegar - Kinnaird area by construction of the High Arrow dam the Castlegar and District Chamber of Commerce will not recess for the summer.

In making the motion 'not to recess for July and August,' Fred Gibson told the chamber that . . . all down the line this chamber has fought construction of the dam, but now that it's happening we are trying to tell B.C. Hydro how to run things.

"I move we do not recess for the summer. We are too busy."

Little Damage To Canadian Banks

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the Royal Bank of Canada said Friday that, on the basis of information so far, only one of the bank's nine branches in the Dominican Republic has suffered damage so far in the rebellion in that country.

Information has been meagre but reports to the head office here indicate that one branch in Santo Domingo, the capital, was entered by parties and some damage was done to equipment, as typewriters and bookkeeping machines.

"The vault was not entered," said the spokesman, "and we are satisfied there was no looting in the true sense of the word."

A dispatch from Washington May 6, quoted U.S. government sources as saying that during the fighting, armed rebels sacked the Royal Bank of Canada.

A CHEQUE for $6361 from the Kootenay Valley Hospital Improvement District is the reason for the happy countenance of W. P. F. Green, right, hospital board of directors chairman, who accepted the money from C. H. Bland, Tuesday. Part of the amount $2331, represents grant-in-aid assistance to the hospital for maintenance of patient care equipment.

B.C. Hydro Lack of Action Deplored

Ambulance Service to Nelson Advocated by Castlegar Man

CASTLEGAR — A special ambulance service to Nelson to utilize the fourth floor of Kootenay Lake General Hospital and thereby relieve B.C. Hydro pressure on Castlegar District Hospital has been advocated here.

R. A. West suggested this as the Chamber of Commerce heard that Hydro red tape is fouling up this Columbia River community's functioning. Concern was expressed over the impact that Arrow dam construction will have on hospital service, schools, trailer courts, roads and town planning, and the lack of action on behalf of Hydro.

The fear of industrial accidents has prompted immediate action to alleviate pressure on the hospital. Mr. West said there is nothing Castlegar can do as far as hospital expansion is concerned. He said Hydro will either have to build its own hospital or provide ambulance service to Nelson where the fourth floor of KLGH is currently not being utilized.

Angus Haines, district hospital administrator, said the hospital is currently operating over and above its capacity now and that expansion is long time in the future.

F. C. Gorse, Castlegar commissioner, urged combined pressure to stir B.C. Hydro from its lethargy to get some assistance on hospitals, schools, roads, sewers, and other services.

POSITIVE ACTION NEGATED

Mr. Gorse said Hydro has town planners but, "the speed at which they work, we'll all catch a cold waiting." He said letter action is all the action the community is getting; positive action is being negated by letters through channels.

To effect consistent pressure, the Chamber agreed to forego its traditional summer recess. It was felt its presence should be felt throughout the coming months.

The chamber will continue to seek a meeting with D. L. Brothers, minister of mines and petroleum; Premier W. A. C. Bennett and W. K. Kiernan, minister of recreation and conservation, to discuss replacement of the Deer Park Road. B.C. Hydro has announced abandonment of the road.

Jim Macbeth of the roads and bridges committee reported that the committee is pushing the north-south road between Kinnaird and Salmo and the upgrading of the Trail-Castlegar.

It was decided to set aside the jeep trek on the Salmo-Kinnaird road which was to be co-ordinated with the official opening of the Kinnaird bridge this fall.

The Premier Speaks For Canada

In the confusion and argument over U.S. policies in Vietnam, the Dominican Republic and elsewhere, it has remained for Premier Bennett of British Columbia to speak clearly and distinctly for millions of Canadians whose voices have been drowned out by beatniks, peaceniks and those who are just plain dumb.

As he officiated at the beginning of construction of the new provincial archives building in Victoria, Mr. Bennett suddenly digressed to urge his audience to give aid and understanding to the United States.

"I'm sure every citizen of this province backs the United States 100 per cent, because they are bearing the cross of freedom for us", declared the premier with some emotion.

"We should, at this hour, lend support to them when they are carrying such a terrific burden, instead of joining those who think it is great sport to pluck at the feathers of the American eagle."

To our knowledge this is the first time a ranking Canadian public leader has advocated such unreserved support for the neighbor in whose shadow this country has sheltered for so many years.

It is an honorable and logical position and it is strange that it has stuck in the throats of so many who are supposed to speak for Canada.

Why does not Prime Minister Pearson ,or External Affairs Minister Martin defend the leader of the free world in terms that cut through the equivocal language of officialese?

If either seeks to preserve Canadian nationhood he will not leave it to the prime minister of British Columbia to enunciate national feelings in terms that rise above partisanship and fear of popular prejudice.

Church Smear Against Public Servants Unfair

It might truthfully be stated that 99.999 per cent of all clergymen are admirable, devoted, self-sacrificing servants of God, whose service to man can never be measured. Once in a rare while a weakling or a rogue slips by and becomes a clergyman until his inevitable discovery and expulsion. And since professionals are human and subject to human frailties, this is so among doctors, dentists, lawyers, teachers, newspapermen and others.

If it is folly to condemn an entire group for the sins of a few, what unctuous outpouring of holier-than-thouism explains, let alone justifies, one phase of a brief by the United Church of Canada to the Ontario Civil Rights Commission? It demands that all Ontario public servants, both elected and appointed, subscribe to a code of ethics. There are many so-called codes, dreamed up by trade associations to pressure their own minorities of rascals into toeing the line, and also, of course, to impress the general public. Most which we have read are guff. What assurance is there that a code broad enough to include everyone from township councillor to cabinet minister, from office boy to permanent head of a department, as well as the ex-civil servant (so he won't cash in on knowledge gained in the public service) would have any more effect? The church brief complains that "there have been too many examples of conflict of interest and discreditable conduct at all levels of government in Canada." Surely that is too broad and sweeping an indictment. There have been some instances, but they are so rare, so few, that newspapermen with their encyclopedic recollections of the news can probably recite the cases in a few moments. Down the years they get to know many politicians and many civil servants, in municipal, provincial and federal fields. Even news oldsters could probably tell off the rascals on one hand.

Welfare, Pension Cost Increasing Alarmingly

The upward trend in welfare cost is occasioning worry in the United States and cannot be overlooked in any dispassionate judgment of the Pearson government's programs to expand the welfare-state concept.

A national pension is law. A national medicare scheme is being wheeled toward the assembly line. A war on poverty is being blueprinted. Inevitably they must raise the question of whether we can afford all of them, or whether we can afford any more projects than those to which we are already committed.

The grassfire spread of welfare costs in the U.S. is illustrated in the social security (pension) tax. It now takes a maximum of $174 a year from the employee and an equal amount from his employer. This 1965 total of $348 will go to $487 next year and by degrees to $739 by 1987.

Part of the increase will result from the praiseworthy but expensive program originally intended by President Johnson to provide medical and hospital care for persons past 65, most of whom cannot afford their cost. As the bill moved through Congress it picked up various postscripts among them the social security increase and assorted new or enlarged welfare benefits. The bill has passed the House of Representatives and Senate concurrence is predicted. Generosity toward the taxpayer at his own expense is not confined to Washington, as Canada is about to learn. —Guelph Mercury.

'Ouch!'

Following Father's Footsteps

By LESLIE MILLIN

VICTORIA (CP)—Some men follow in their fathers' footsteps. The degree of success determines whether they will be known for their own achievements or simply as the son of a successful man.

In Greater Victoria, citizens have a problem in conversational usage: Is Austin Curtis Hugh's father or is Hugh Curtis Austin's son?

At 65, Austin Curtis is a Victoria alderman and something of an elder statesman, with 25 years of municipal service behind him.

At 32, Hugh Curtis is reeve of the neighboring municipality of Saanich—larger than Victoria in area and population, but not as rich.

Austin Curtis rose in municipal politics by a long road that is traditional in the Victoria area—work in service clubs, a seat on the school board, then school board chairman, then alderman.

Hugh ran for Saanich council at 29, led the polls, and repeated the trick when he came up for his second council term two years later.

Last fall, he ran for reeve in a byelection and thought he'd lost.

His opponent was ahead in the poll-by-poll preliminary returns chalked up on a board in the municipal hall. Most of the spectators went home.

Then a polling error was rectified and Hugh went ahead by a few votes. He held the lead through two recounts.

SET EXAMPLE

Hugh's success has been a source of pride to his father—"but he never influenced my decision to go into municipal work," says Hugh.

"He's not the kind of guy who brings his problems home, and we never talked about politics around the dinner table or anything like that.

"But he gave me an example of hard-working dedication to municipal affairs.

"Now, he says less, perhaps, on civic politics than if I weren't in it myself."

Austin Curtis retired last year as district manager for the Canadian National Railways and devotes even more of his time to municipal work.

Without referring specifically to his son, he says the basic requirements for a candidate are simple.

"Essentially, it is the interest and willingness. If they have these, the rest will come."

His home life, he says, is quiet, and his wife has long since learned to accept the absences of her family because of public life.

"There have been more meetings than she bargained for," says Austin, "but she's been very nice about it."

Hugh, a radio station executive, says there were times when he was younger that he wished his father had avoided municipal politics.

"Any youngster who goes through school with his father on the school board knows the situation is fraught with danger."

Now he has reached the point where "I used to be kidded about being Austin's son. Now he kids me about being Hugh's father."

But Hugh has a story that makes you wonder.

"A lady said to me not long ago. 'Isn't it wonderful, Mr. Curtis. You are in Saanich politics, and your older brother is in the city.'"

Assured Market for Canada

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TOKYO (CP) — Japan's expected economic growth during the next decade offers Canada a virtually assured market for increasing quantities of its raw materials.

A country with big plans but few natural resources, Japan will have to match imports of raw materials to its higher industrial output.

Last year it imported an estimated $350,000,000 worth of goods from Canada, more than 90 per cent of them raw materials and basic food-stuffs, making Japan Canada's third largest customer.

This could increase to more than $500,000,000 in a few years, if Japan's economy remains strong, trade officials say.

Japan's industrial production is expected to rise 60 per cent by 1968 and, Hisanaga Shimadzu, recently appointed ambassador to Canada, has said, "if Canada can retain her competitive position exports of raw materials should show proportionate or even higher increases."

Canada has been devoting increasing attention to the Japanese market lately, as shown by the large-scale participation in the Tokyo International Trade Fair in April and a steady stream of official and unofficial trade missions.

Despite these pushes, however, chances of increasing Canada's sales of manufactured goods to Japan are rated dim at best.

"We're not worried about selling Japan asbestos, wheat or copper—they need those materials and we know the market is there unless our prices get way out of line," says one provincial trade official.

"But we can't seem to make them realize that we're a highly industrialized country capable of selling them goods at competitive prices."

Last year Canada's exports of manufactured goods to Japan accounted for less than three per cent of total sales—although Canada's wholly - manufactured exports over all rose 34 per cent.

Japan in recent years has been liberalizing its import regulations, but the booming domestic market remains a tough one for Canadian manufacturers, says John Blackwood, commercial secretary of the Canadian embassy in Tokyo.

QUICK TO JUMP

About the only goods that stand any chance are those not made locally—and if a substantial market shapes up, there usually is a Japanese manufacturer ready to leap into production.

The sharp rise during the last decade in the Japanese living standards has created a demand for imported goods, but they usually are bought as much for snob appeal as for utilitarian purposes.

"The Japanese are the greatest brand-name buyers in the world," says one Canadian sales representative a bit ruefully. "So they buy American lighters or Swiss watches or German cameras just to show off, even though we might have as good or better products at competitive prices."

Aside from the old standbys—wheat, logs and lumber products and various minerals—there are, however, a few areas where Canada is expected to have an opening.

One of the more immediate prospects is potash from the fantastically rich resources now being developed on the Prairies.

MORE IS NEEDED

Last year Japan imported 1,000,000 tons of potash for its fertilizer industry, much of it from Russia and Europe. With Japan's growing mechanization and modernization of its agriculture, fertilizers will play a bigger role in its economy.

Another interesting possibility is in fuels, especially liquefied ones. Japan imports almost twice as much petroleum as it does any other product, mostly from the Middle East.

It has been in the forefront recently in developing super cargo carriers that could transport liquid natural gas, liquid methane gas and liquid propane gas. Some Canadian gas and oil companies are reported to be looking closely at this potential market.

Still another market could be for uranium for nuclear-powered generating stations. Japan now is experimenting with nuclear reactors for commercial use, but is split over the question of which is better—Canada's natural-fuel process or the enriched uranium pushed by the United States.

A government report is expected shortly that could clarify the situation.

Processed and even frozen food may also be a future market.

MORE WOMEN WORK

With the Japanese dream of achieving a North American style of living has come overwhelming acceptance of American menus. Also, more and more married women are expected to take jobs during the next few years in response to a growing labor shortage, so they won't have as much time in the kitchen to prepare meals.

The answer, especially with refrigeration now almost universal throughout Japan, could be TV dinners.

A serious problem, however, involving Japanese - Canadian trade is the heavy imbalance in Canada's favor.

Last year Japan's exports to Canada totalled an estimated $174,000,000, leaving a surplus in Canada's favor of $176,000,000.

A Japanese government official who briefed a Canadian reporter during a recent visit commented sardonically on what he called the "Voluntary quotes" Japan imposes on a number of goods it ships to Canada.

He even argued that Japan is the only major bulwark against communism in the Far East, and so as a matter of politics alone Canada should do all it can—that is, buy more Japanese goods—to ensure an economically strong and viable Japan.

Henry Mancini — Composer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Henry Mancini composes hit songs the way some people dash off a letter to mother.

The Oscar-winning composer took all of a half-hour to write Dear Heart, which Frank Sinatra calls one of the greatest of the new songs.

It took him a little longer—but not much—to compose the music for Moon River and Days of Wine and Roses.

"I don't think I've ever spent more than an hour on any one song," says Mancini, "but that doesn't count the thinking that goes on beforehand."

At the moment he is scoring The Great Race, a picture that runs about three hours. It takes him a whole week to write all the music for a movie that long.

That's why he is so much in demand to score movies — it costs a lot of money to hire musicians by the week.

Mancini has to write songs fast in order to work in all his other jobs.

In an era when big bands are scarce, Mancini plays dozens of college concerts each year. His record albums are big sellers, especially among the college crowd.

What does he think about Beatle music?

"To tell the truth, I never think much about it. I figure their market is a certain age group—mine another," says the tall young man from Aliquippa, Pa.

LOOKING AT LABOR

by ..... J. J. Munro

Buzz McDonald, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 999, informed the Labor Council the membership have accepted by secret ballot, conciliation officer Raguin's recommendations as a basis for renewal of the collective agreement.

Mr. McDonald has received notification from West Kootenay Power and Light Co. Ltd. that they have also accepted the recommendations as a basis of settlement.

Local 999 has members spread throughout the Nelson, Creston area including Kaslo and as far west as Keremeos, Penticton and Kelowna.

In part the terms of settlement provide for three four-per-cent increases, spread over the two-year agreement; four weeks holiday with pay after 20 years' service; also a committee to be set up, two members from the union and two members from the company to study and define job description.

The renewal date for the contract is November 1st, 1964, with increases retroactive to that date.

The union and company are now meeting to work out details of settlement and finalize the negotiations which have been going on for approximately 7 months.

Mr. McDonald also acted as Union spokesman for the negotiation committee consisting of 6 members.

"The reduction in personal income tax will, of course, be welcomed; but it should be remembered that as far as 1965 is concerned this will amount to only 5 per cent. We would certainly have preferred to see it graduated so that people in the lower income brackets received the greatest bnefit. As it now stands those in the higher brackets will benefit most."

Ireland Provides Decor Theme Holmes-Bell Rossland Wedding

ROSSLAND — The Emerald Isle was represented in the green, white and gold theme of a lovely wedding which took place at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Rossland, April 24, when Maureen Ann Bell became the bride of Mr. Donald James Holmes before Rt. Rev. A. K. McIntyre.

Colors of the Irish flag were featured in the decor at the church and reception when the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick C. Bell of Rossland exchanged vows with the son of Mrs. Belle Holmes of Nelson during a service which included the singing of the Easter Mass by the Sacred Heart Senior Choir.

The brother of the bride, Kevin Barry Bell, and Anthony Janni, next door neighbor, served as altar boys.

Easter lilies and carnations graced the church for the event, with guests ushered to pews marked with large green, white and gold satin ribbon markers, by Mr. Gerald Bell of Nelson brother of the bride.

Vocal soloist Mr. George Bouchier sang "O Perfect Love" and "A Prayer for a Perfect Life" during signing of the register, accompanied by organist Mr. Richard Bouchier.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was exquisitely gowned in Alencon lace over taffeta, the full skirt falling en train from a V at the back of the dropped waistline. The fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline and long sleeves.

Her pillbox headpiece of peau de soie held a bouffant veil of six-tiered silk illusion net. The chapeau featured a small flat bow and pearl cluster in the front.

She wore pearl earrings and necklace, gift of the bridegroom.

Her bouquet of calla lilies and salal leaves tied with wide white satin ribbon included shamrocks for the touch of Ireland.

Mrs. Fred Fedorak of Penticton as matron of honor and Mrs. Winston Baines of Rossland as bridesmatron were identically gowned in floor-length kelly green peau de soie sheaths with gently flairing hemline. They wore tiny green pillboxes and green satin shoes, with white elbow-length gloves.

Flower girls Susan Bell of Vancouver and Kathy Mills, of North Surrey, both nieces of the bride, and Miss Lor-Anne Dougan of Rossland were sweet in frocks of deep gold floor-length peau de soie in Bo Peep style, with tiny gold pillbox headpieces. Each carried a nosegay of green Fuji chrysanthemums tied with kelly green satin ribbon. They wore white shoes and gloves to complete their ensembles.

Mr. Monral Holmes of Victoria, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception was held in the Masonic Hall, which was decorated in green, white and gold streamers with white wedding bells.

Mr. Paddy Bell, brother of the bride, was master of ceremonies .He read telegrams from Birmingham, England, Calgary, North Vancouver and Victoria. Congratulations were received also from aunts of the bride in Belfast, Ireland.

Mr. Will Dorey proposed the bridal toast. Mr. John French, grandfather of the bride, entertained with an old Irish wedding song.

Mr. Joseph French, uncle of the bride, and Mr. Thomas Feeney led the guests singing 'Happy Birthday' to the groom.

The two also sang 'When Irish Eyes Are Smiling' as a tribute to the bride.

Mrs. Steve Bowen, bride's aunt, was in charge of the guest book.

Dancing was enjoyed after the reception.

The head table was covered with a white Irish linen cloth. Appointments included green, white and gold lighted tapers in triple gold candleholders. Gold and white 'mums and green leaves formed the floral centrepiece, while daffodils in green vases completed the floral decor.

The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, was decorated in gold, white and green, the bottom layer green, the middle white and top gold. It was set on gold tulle and was arranged on a small table covered with a shamrock-embroidered linen cloth. The cutting knife was tied with a large gold ribbon.

Mrs. Joseph French and Mrs. Nick Slowchuck, aunts of the newlyweds, assisted with cutting the cake, which the bride and groom passed to their guests.

The mother of the bride was smartly gowned in gold linen dress and duster coat, which was overlaid with white lace. Her corsage was of green fuji 'mums and her accessories were white. The mother of the groom was attractive in a peacock blue lace ensemble with muskrat cape. Her corsage was of cream fuji 'mums with blue tulle and ribbon, and white accessories.

For a wedding trip to the west coast for a week, the bride changed into a three-piece pink and beige wool suit with corsage of pink rosebuds and pink satin ribbon. Her accessories were black.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes are residing at 1968 Columbia Avenue in Rossland.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. G. Dunn and Shirley, Victoria; Mrs. Belle Homes, Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. M. Holmes Victoria; Mrs. N. Slowchuk, Saskatoon, Sask.; Mrs. N. Zenuk, Mr. and Mrs. John Holowachuk, Porcupine Plains, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. P. Bell and girls, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Mills and family, North Surrey; Mr. and Mrs. T. Jordan, Kimberley; Miss Christina Bell, Miss Kelly Brennan, Mr. Gerald Bell, Mr. Michael Bell, Mr. and Mrs. B. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. D. Grundy, all of Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. K. Sandner, Christina Lake; Mr. and Mrs. F. Fedorak, Penticton, plus many friends from Kinnaird, Trail and Rossland.

Crochet buttons accentuate the surface richness of the sweater, which comes in a variety of beautiful hues with color-mated flannel skirts.

Hints From Heloise

HELOISE CRUSE

Another cute trick is to use as many as you want, then twist the top of the plastic bag (getting all the air out) and put a rubber band around it. Keep them in your deep freezer! They last a year this way.

The best thing about keeping them in your freezer is that when you get ready to cut them, they don't stick to your scissors.

Try it!

Heloise.

Dear Heloise:

I have a very small bedroom with no light stands and no room for a chair next to my bed, so in order to keep small essentials such as handkerchief, nose inhaler, cough drops, etc., handy. I made a muslin sack about ten inches deep and seven inches wide and safety-pinned it to the under sheet next to my pillow.

This way I am able to reach what I need during the night and nothing is lost.

I made several of these little sacks so that when I change sheets, I change bags.

Jennie R.

Gals: This idea would also be wonderful for sick child's bed. The bag could be made larger to hold small toys, crayons, etc. And a surprise could be added occasionally to give that sick babe a little "lift."

Heloise.

Dear Heloise:

A useful hint for quick emergency repair of a torn hem is plain old cellophane tape.

Cellophane tape also takes out the guess work when hemming clothes (and some people dooo guess). Use small pieces of tape instead of pins, try on the garment, and when satisfied with the length, sew in the hem and remove the pieces of tape.

This eliminates getting stuck with pins, snagging the material, or leaving pin holes in it.

B. G.

P.S. This little idea works on a good number of materials, but not all.

Church Women Co-Sponsors of New Guide Group at Michel

NATAL — After an absence of a number of years, a Girl Guide Company has again been formed in the Michel - Natal - Sparwood district, as a follow-up to the successful formation of a Brownie Company last fall.

Since the organization of a Brownie group in this area has been so successful, it was decided to form a Girl Guide group, for those girls now too old for Brownies. A meeting was held recently in the Centennial Room of the Natal Curling Club, to register girls interested in becoming Girl Guides, with encouraging response from 40 girls.

The Guides meet every Friday night in the Michel Anglican Church Hall under the leadership of Mrs. Molly Latka as captain; Mrs. Sheila DeLuca as lieutenant, and Leaders Mrs. Evelyn Henriet, Mrs. Mary Putich, Mrs. Myrtle Cerny and Mrs. Olympia Berdusco. Cosponsorship of the newly formed Girl Guides is held jointly by the United Church women and the Anglican Church Women's Auxiliary, and a committee is made up of women from both churches, including Mrs. Paul Shubert, as chairman; Mrs. W. L. Revitt, as secretary-treasurer; Mrs. L. A. Edwards, Mrs. T. C. Melville, Mrs. Syd Little and Mrs. Walter Wettstein.

The Guides have already entertained their mothers and friends at a "Mother's Day" social at which they played bingo, followed by refreshments.

Forthcoming events include a bake sale to be held Friday, proceeds of which will help in the purchase of berets and ties for the girls.

The official enrolment of the Guides is looked forward to within the next few months.

Honor Mothers At Sorority Annual Tea

Table centres of bow-festooned twigs added to the spring-like mood of the annual Mothers' Day tea of the Nelson chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held at the Church of the Redeemer Hall.

Receiving the members and their mothers and guests were Mrs. T. Marshall and Mrs. E. Nuyens. Convener for this traditional event was Alpha Xi Chapter.

Each member and guest wore corsages made for them by the sorority members.

The tea table, centered by an arrangement of spring flowers, was presided over by Mrs. J. I. Laughton, president of Xi Theta Chapter; Miss Eileen Mackenzie, director of Alpha Xi, Mrs. R. Johnson, president of Xi Alpha Beta, and Mrs. Pat Renwick, past president of Iota Chapter.

Serviteurs were Miss Karla Spence, Miss Duane Bourgeois, Mrs. R. E. Wallace, Mrs. F. A. Whiteley, Mrs. Gordon Dolman, Mrs. M. G. Renwick and Mrs. W. Anderson.

CFD to Former Procter Girl in Armed Forces

PROCTER — Of interest to the residents of Procter and district is the presentation of the Canadian Forces Decoration to Sgt. J. A. Lorgere and Cpl. Mary E. Lorgere. Corporal Lorgere is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stevenson of Procter.

The Canadian Forces Decoration is awarded to personnel of the navy, army, and air force for efficiency, long service and good conduct.

Sgt. and Cpl. Lorgere are now stationed at Cold Lake, Alta., after serving in the Province of Quebec until late 1964.

Youth Form New Hi-C Group

PROCTER — The young people of the Procter United Church met recently with Rev. Evans of Kaslo to form a Hi-C group which will meet every Friday night.

Rev. Evans delegated each member to act as a committee and bring a new member with them next week. The majority of the members are planning to attend a Hi-C camp at Camp Koolaree May 21, 22, and 23.

Reception at Balfour Follows Nelson Baptism

BALFOUR — The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brady of Spokane, Roger Mories, was baptized at Trinity United Church in Nelson.

Rev. Peter W. Faris officiated.

Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown, with the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wellwood, entertaining at their Balfour home following the ceremony.

Balanced Maturity Guide Theme

TORONTO (CP) — Ways a girl guide can achieve a balanced maturity will be the theme of the annual meeting and conferences of the Girl Guides of Canada in Vancouver May 31 to June 4.

Guiding officials from every province will attend sessions at the University of British Columbia. Prof. Anthony Emery of the University of Victoria will be the keynote speaker May 31.

Mother, Daughter Banquet Planned

BALFOUR — Plans for a mother and daughter banquet May 21 at Balfour Hall were made when Mrs. O. Krane was hostess to the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brownies and Guides of the district.

District Commissioner Mrs. Haverstock of Crawford Bay explained the need for Ranger leaders, as Girl Guides at the age of 14 hope to go on to the Ranger group.

Formal Social Events Dot NDU Weekend

Three formal social events will be held today when Notre Dame University honors two provincial leaders, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Roman Catholic Archbishop Martin M. Johnson of Vancouver.

Political, religious and educational dignitaries will convene at the president's luncheon at 12:00 o'clock noon in the faculty dining room at Maryhall when the Premier will make his first official appearance to share honors with the eminent archbishop.

The Chancellor's reception, following the convocation ceremony, highlights the day's events. It will be held on the roof terrace of a downtown motor inn, where 45 invited guests will have an opportunity to meet Premier Bennett, who will receive an honorary doctor of political science degree, and Archbishop Johnson, an honorary doctor of laws degree.

In the receiving line will be Most Reverend W. E. Doyle, Bishop of Nelson and chancellor of the University; Premier Bennett; Archbishop Johnson and Rev. Aquinas Thomas, Notre Dame president.

Rev. J. W. Dulong, chairman of the ceremonial committee, will announce the guests.

The president's formal dinner follows the reception, back at Maryhall, to honor the recipients of the degrees.

Invited guests attending the three occasions will be: His Honor Judge Joseph B. Clearihue, chancellor of University of Victoria, and Mrs. Clearihue; Honorable Wesley D. Better Your Living in 1965

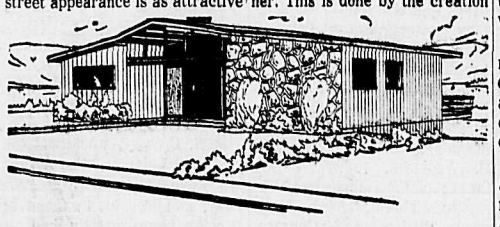
Modern Living In A Modern Age

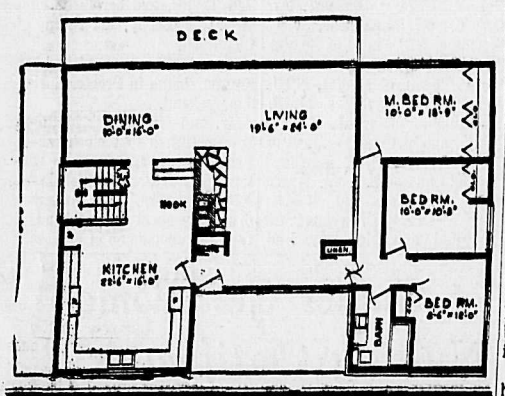
The Modern Home

Ownership of a building site where the view is to the rear sometimes poses a problem of creating a design where the street appearance is as attractive as the rest of the house.

Here is a design where this problem has been overcome in a distinctive and attractive manner. This is done by the creation of a U pattern, with deeply recessed front court, flanked on one side by use of vertical siding on the kitchen area, and a beautiful stone front on the other wing.



PLAN No. 1643 FLOOR AREA 1643 sq. ft.



The front door leads into a merely hinted-at hall area, created by the location of the coat and linen closets, but without detracting from the open area of the living room.

The kitchen is large and well appointed with a U shaped arrangement of kitchen cabinets and front located double stainless steel sinks, and a family sized breakfast nook. A "split entry" to the basement features a stub wall which can be dressed up with planters, etc.

Across the back of the house is a sundeck for outdoor living, accessible from the dining area through sliding doors, while the beautifully appointed living room is enhanced by an unusually attractive corner fireplace with slate hearth. Privacy for each of the rooms in the 3-bedroom sleeping wing is created by a small hall area, with stub wall, lending itself to the use of louvres, or fuji screens. The bathroom features a large vanity.

One of the best features of this house is the lack of cross-room traffic. Each room is accessible without having to traverse any other part of the house. Vertical siding, low pitched roof finished with shakes or shingles, and a really beautiful stone front complete the exterior. The house should be built on a lot that slopes to the rear so that the full depth of the house at the back makes it possible to have the recreation room open to a patio under the deck while the front is level with the street.

Designed to the standards of the National Building Code of Canada for NHA or conventional mortgage, blueprints may be obtained from the Building Centre (B.C.) Ltd., 96 Kingsway, Vancouver, B.C. Enclose 53c for our book of plans, Select Home Designs. Plan No. 1643.

Bold Lad Suffering From Anemia; Lucky Debonair Still 7-5 Choice

Odds Expected To Grow By Preakness Post Time

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bold Lad has a slight case of anemia which may have accounted for the disappointing Kentucky Derby performance of the top-rated colt of 1964, trainer Bill Winfrey said Friday.

Bold Lad finished next to last among 11 colts in the May 1 Derby, in which he went off the favorite.

Jockey Bill Hartack reported his colt did not warm up properly and Winfrey said he concluded he was unsound.

"But he cooled out perfectly and if he was sore it would have shown up. In retrospect, I would have to believe he was just not feeling well," Winfrey said.

The trainer said a blood test taken three days after the Derby "found he was a bit anemic." Another test Thursday showed no improvement.

"Whatever problems he has I believe are temporary," Winfrey said.

Winfrey will saddle another starter in today's Preakness, Dapper Dan, who finished second in the Derby.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lucky Debonair breezed a half-mile in 48 seconds shortly after dawn Friday, was given a clean bill of health by the doctor, and trainer Frank Catrone announced confidently that the Kentucky Derby winner will start in the 90th running of the Preakness Stakes today.

"The swelling has completely disappeared," said Catrone as he watched Ada L. Rice's fleet colt walk around the barn.

The rotund trainer, who rode in the 1929 Preakness, was relaxed for the first time since the swelling appeared in Lucky Debonair's right hind leg late Wednesday.

"He went real good over the track with the first three-eighths of a mile right around 35 seconds," said Catrone.

Lucky remains a 7-to-5 choice but it wouldn't be surprising if the odds lengthen when the expected crowd of 35,000 congregates at the old hilltop course.

Reports were equally encouraging from the barns of the eight other three-year-olds who will face the starter at 5:46 p.m. EDT today for the 1 3-16-mile race over Pimlico's sharply banked track.

SOME GOT WORKOUT

Most trainers were content to gallop their charges around the lightning-fast oval. But Gin Collins, trainer of Arkansas Derby winner Swift Ruler; Harold Young, who handles Selari, and John Jacobs, who trains the speed horse of the field, Flag Raiser, had their horses out for short workouts.

Flag Raiser, quoted at 5 to 1 by the track oddsmaker, couldn't do better than eighth in the Derby after setting the pace for one mile. But he has won four straight stakes in New York at distances up to 1⅛ mile.

Bill Winfrey, trainer of Dapper Dan, remained steadfast in his unconcern over the slow workout turned in by the Kentucky Derby runner-up in the middle of the week.

All the preakness entries are on the grounds except Tom Rolfe, the second choice at 3 to 1. He is quartered only an hour away at Laurel, Md. Trainer Frank Whitely doesn't plan to bring the son of Ribot to the battle scene until Saturday morning. Tom Rolfe, third-place finisher in the Derby, again will be ridden by jockey Ron Turcotte, the former lumberjack from Grand Falls, N.B.

Confidence flowed at the stalls of Native Charger and Hail to All.

LEAR CONFIDENT

Even trainer Les Lear was confident Needles Count, an extreme outsider, would get a piece of the purse. Lear went into horse racing after a professional football career as a player and coach with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference.

With nine starters, the race will be worth $180,600, with $128,100 going to the winner. $30,000 to second , $15,000 to third and $7,500 to fourth.

The weather promises to be fair and warm for the race, the middle event of the triple crown, which also includes the Derby and Belmont Stakes.

The race will be televised by CBS in the United States and by the CBC in Canada starting at 5:30 p.m. EDT.

Zillah Blunt Wins Ladies' Night Opener

Zillah Blunt captured the A class competition for low net Tuesday night at the first Ladies Night to be held this season at the Nelson Golf and Country Club.

Betty Gelinas and Jean Bedard won the B classification, while Mary Stewart took the C round.

The first Pinto Match will be held this Tuesday.

Today at 4:00 p.m. a Mixed Two-Ball competition gets under way with a dinner and dance to follow at the clubhouse.

The Ladies Club has joined the Canadian Ladies Golf Union this year which entitles it to participate in many tournaments being held in the province and across Canada.

Nicklaus Birdies Three Holes To Lead New Orleans Tourney

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Masters champion Jack Nicklaus birdied three of the last five holes Friday for a second round 69 and a 134 total which gave him a two-stroke lead at the halfway point of the $100,000 New Orleans Open golf tournament.

Frustrated by a string of 13 straight pars, Nicklaus weathered a flash shower and climaxed his effort with a phenomenal shot from the rough on the next-to-last hole.

Ten under par for 36 holes, Nicklaus overtook a quartet of new bloods on the professional tour—Ray Floyd, Sam Carmichael, Bill Martindale and Homero Blancas. They were tied for second at 136.

Another stroke back at 137 was a group which included Australian Bruce Devlin, George Knudson of Toronto, Bob McCallister, Jacky Cupit and Dick Lytle.

Arnold Palmer and Tony Lema had to rally to escape the cutoff which reduced the field to the low 70 shooters and ties for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Palmer had to get birdies on three of the last five holes for a 70 and 143. Lema managed a 69 despite some shaky putting for 144.

CUTOFF AT 144

The cutoff was 144, even par for the 7,020-yard, par 72 Lakewood course.

The early 136 scores were already on the board when Nicklaus teed off.

Playing the back nine first, he never got his sticks clicking and shot 13 straight pars—a slump for him — before finally getting on the beam.

At the 530-yard fifth, he hit a wedge to within eight feet of the cup and sank his first birdie. On the 390-yard dogleg sixth, he cut the corner with a towering shot over a clump of trees and half-wedged his approach to within 18 inches.

His crowning blow came on the 410-yard eighth.

He boomed his tee shot into the rough at the right of the fairway and was stymied by a tall tree. He hit a wedge shot high over the tree onto the green five feet from the cup, then sank it. He had to sink a five-footer for his par on the finishing hole.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Senators of baseball's American League announced Friday they have purchased pitcher Marshall Bridges from their Hawaii farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Bridges, acquired by the Senators from New York Yankees late in 1963, was on the Senators' 1964 roster until last Aug. 3, when he was assigned to Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. Transferred this year to Hawaii Islanders, he has a 2-0 record and a 0.00 earned run average.

FOWLER, Ind. (AP) — Val Mischel, Lexington, Ky., jockey who trained and rode the only white race horse in the United States, White Beauty, died Friday when his car smashed head-on into a truck near this town 70 miles south of Chicago.

Mischel was en route to Chicago to ride in races there.

Race officials said Mischel rode White Beauty in her maiden race at Keeneland in Lexington.

Maple Leafs Honored by Civic Officials

MEMBERS of the Maple Leaf hockey club who were honored at a reception Friday night put on their best smiles for the camera after a most successful season. Pictured from left to right, front row, are Doug Kilburn, Shorty Malacko, Bobby Kromm, Murray Owens, Brian Russill and Frank Carlson; middle row, trainer Wayne Farenholtz, Buck Crawford, Miles Desharnais, Jim Letcher, Dave Rusnell, Bill Steinke, Howie Hornby, Carl Chwachka, manager Gil Gilbert, Gus Adams, Dave Stewart, and stickboy Dave Allen; back row, Seth Martin, Shelley Atwell, Mike Laughton, Leroy Mowery, Kenny McTeer, Walt Peacosh and Bill Steenson were absent when the picture was taken.—Daily News photo.

Representatives from City Council, Chamber of Commerce and Maple Leaf Booster Club turned out Friday night to honor the Leafs for their fine showing in winning the western Canada senior amateur hockey championship and their participation in the Allan Cup finals.

The 1964-65 version of the "Green and White" became the first team ever to come out of the Queen City and gain a berth in the playoffs.

Master of ceremonies Glad Petersen, in introducing head table guests, lauded the work of president Jack James and playing-coach Bobby Kromm for their fine work in developing possibly the finest team from Nelson to represent the province.

Alderman Frank Beresford brought greetings from the City Council and Mayor Eugene Bodard and commended the team for its excellent showing both on and off the ice,

"We have experienced excellent hockey here this year; the best I've seen in my 27 years of watching the game," Beresford commented.

He lauded the Booster Club for the efforts it put forth in raising money for the team and hosting the visiting teams during the playoffs.

City of Nelson crests, a rare honor bestowed by Council, will be presented to the Leafs at a later date.

On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, Hans "Fritz" Farenholtz stressed that the team had done much to promote the City of Nelson and had "put Nelson on the map hockey-wise."

"All of you players have been ambassadors of goodwill for our city and for this the Chamber is indeed proud," he said.

He reiterated Alderman Beresford's statement that the success of the Leafs was a team effort.

"It was not without the work of such groups and individuals as the Jaycees, Civic Centre Commission, Booster Club, Notre Dame University and Fire Chief Owens that your hockey year has been such a success," he said.

"And let's not forget the provincial government financial aid to the team."

Individual supporters such as Belle Holmes, Frank Morrow, Frank Hufty and Peter Godfrey, who followed the Leafs in their rise and fall throughout thhe regular season, were also given a large share of credit.

Mrs. Corey Yonker was given a vote of thanks for her work in preparing welcome signs for the Leafs on their return home from the five road playoff series.

Jack James later quipped that the Leafs were grateful for the financial assistance of the provincial, but that they had not yet seen the last $1,000 cheque.

"Bob Weist, who did such a fine job in auditing the books and putting together the Leafs' program, and John Brkich for providing help when the team needed it are just two of the people who have really stood by us," he said.

He also mentioned his executive comprised of Don MacDonald, Gordon Malcolm, Ernie Gare, Frank and Les Hufty, and Art O'Bryan and the Booster Club reps for their unceasing work.

The Booster Club raised nearly $3,000 this season and has plans for bigger and better things next season.

Mr. James made special mention of the contribution of manager Gil Gilbert, trainer Wayne Farenholtz and O'Bryan, who bore the brunt of the players criticism when there was no one else to bring their complaints to.

Leo Atwell received a round of applause when Mr. James thanked him for his guidance during the regular season and his assistance during the playoffs.

couldn't have hoped for a finer president than Jack James."

Ernie Gare, who was instrumental in establishing the scholarship program, received the well-wishes of the Leaf executive when he returns to university in the fall to complete his degree.

The Booster Club made a special presentation to the players and executive in appreciation of their fine work in gaining the western title.

Mr. Farenholtz extended an invitation to the Leaf players to attend the Columbia Ceremonies banquet next Wednesday at which time a special presentation would be made.

"I can't emphasize enough the gratitude we on the executive feel for the way the team has performed and I wish every player presented tonight the best of luck in the future with the hope that many of you will return next season," he commented.

"The hockey wives are the ones who really deserve the credit for the long months of practices and playoffs and for putting up with the absence of their husbands during the finals."

The hall rang with applause when Kromm was introduced.

"I can't really express what I feel after the way the people of Nelson have treated me," he said, referring to Kromm Night staged earlier in the season.

"It's something that I'll remember for a long time to come."

High in his praise of the team, Kromm especially mentioned the team spirit and co-operation he received during the year.

"We started the season with the hope of icing a competitive team within the league and it's through the efforts of you, the players that we achieved what we did," the Leaf mentor said.

"It's been a wonderful year under a great executive and we

The Leafs annual general meeting is scheduled for Monday night at which time the election of officers for the coming season will take place.

For the Leafs, it will be a short summer after a tremendous season when training camp reopens in September for the start of another great hockey year in Nelson.

Savoys Meet Internationals In Rossland

Nelson Savoy Soccer Club travels to Rossland Sunday to play the Internationals, a newcomer in the Western International Soccer League that has already proved its ability.

The Internationals proved their worth when they defeated the second-place Trail Italicos 4-2.

Having played all teams in the circuit, the Rossland club has now gained invaluable experience, and should prove tough competition for the Savoys.

The Savoys dropped the Internationals in the two clubs' first encounter 6-1, but the Rossland club will hold a big edge in Sunday's game playing at home.

All the Savoys' skill will be needed to bring home a two-point victory.

The Savoys will leave by car at 11:45 from the Civic Centre and all players are requested to be on time.

Flyers Win Memorial

EDMONTON (CP) — Niagara Falls Flyers won the Canadian junior hockey championship Friday night, trouncing Edmonton Oil Kings 8-1 before 2,477 fans.

The win gave the Eastern champions the best-of-seven series for the Memorial Cup 4-1, sweet revenge for Edmonton's win over the Flyers in six games in the 1963 national final.

Captain Dave Woodley and Don Marcotte both tallied twice for Niagara Falls with Rosaire Paiement, Bud Debrody, Bill Goldsworthy and Gilles Marotte adding singles.

Defenceman Jim Cardiff scored the lone Edmonton goal.

Niagara Falls led 2-1 at the end of the first period and 5-1 at the end of the second. The Flyers added three unanswered goals in the final 20 minutes.

Braves Appear Ready, Eager To Start '65 Can-Am Season

Nelson Braves take to the field at 12:00 p.m. Sunday for their first practice session of the season under Coach John Brkich prior to their opener against the Trail Smoke Eaters May 26 in Trail.

Brkich seems confident that the club can sweep the division if only the club can get the necessary support from the bullpen.

Two pitchers who are bound to see a lot of action before the season is over are Miles Desharnais and Blair Olson.

An irratic performer at the start of last year's season, the Braves settled down to become one of the hottest clubs in the Can-Am Twilight League.

The Braves plan to combine solid hitting with a tight defence in order to gain league supremacy from the start.

At present, Trail, Rossland, Nelson and Cranbrook form four of the proposed six-team league.

The American representatives, two from Spokane and one from Bonner's Ferry will be decided at the executive meeting in the Idaho city this weekend.

The Braves will operate on a 24-game schedule and could see tournament action as early as July 1 in Trail.

Players from last year's club such as Al Roemer, Frank Hufty, Charlie Burdette, Wally Chernenko and Lenny Bousquet are expected to return as well as some new faces.

First base will probably be held down again this season by Mike Laughton, who also led the team in homers.

Opening home game for the Braves is May 30 against the Rossland Capilanos.

Brkich will be assisted this year by Les Hufty.

Mel Dorey of Salmo will add his big bat to the team again this year after ending last year with a creditable .286 average.

The Texans Junior team opens its season this weekend in Rossland and it is hoped by the Braves' executive that some support can be given to aid the club.

Several former players with the Leafs hockey team have also accepted an invitation to the Braves' first tryout.

Leroy Mowery, Jim Letcher and Brian Russill are expected to be on hand for Sunday's practice.

With the opening date fast approaching, the Braves will have to whip into shape in a hurry if they want to come out on top

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Market Agrees To Wheat Trade

BRUSSELS (AP)—The European Common Market agreed Friday on an offer to the rest of the world for an agreement on trade in grain.

The offer was worked out in two days of debate.

Details were not immediately disclosed. An authoritative source said the proposal will be in general terms, without naming specific prices.

Instead, the Common Market will suggest ways of working out in negotiation such matters as prices, the control of surpluses and cheap sales to undeveloped countries.

At the next Common Market council meeting June 14, the leaders will discuss detailed instructions to their negotiators on how to proceed beyond the offer.

TEL AVIV (AP)—David Ben-Gurion, who resigned as premier of Israel in June 1963, says he is willing to resume the premiership at the expense of his fellow Mapai Labor party member and the present premier, Levi Eshkol. Ben-Gurion said Thursday night he is willing to have his name at the head of the Mapai list in next november's national elections if so requested by the Mapai party.

BERLIN (AP)—A Ceylonese newspaper man, who had been officially invited to visit East Berlin, said Thursday he had been expelled by the East German regime after a three-day visit. Mahinda Ranaweera, 31, news editor of Independent Newspapers Limited, Colombo, said the East Germans told him he was expelled because he had given an anti-Communist television interview in West Berlin

Initial Stages of Stamp Collecting Are Simple

"WHAT TO COLLECT"
By R. T. FRASER

For the past four weeks I have written about Kootenay and Boundary cancellations and some of the almost forgotten early towns. I plan to continue to talk about such places and their history now and then in other articles but also want to talk about some other aspects of stamp collecting.

For many young collectors or beginners the initial stages of stamp collecting are quite simple and they embark upon the new hobby with energy and enthusiasm. Also fairly quickly they will discover problems for which they do not have an answer and unless someone with some experience is nearby to help they may soon lose interest and thereby miss an activity which could give them much pleasure in the years ahead.

A fairly common experience with the young collector is to receive a Christmas or birthday present of an album with printed pages and a packet of stamps. Or perhaps someone in the family remembered an old collection to help the beginner to make a start. He will happily identify the stamps and fill up the pages in his new album. This will satisfy the collector for a time until he sees an attractive advertisement in a paper or magazine. So off he sends the ten cents for "100 all different rare stamps" and thereby gets his name on a mailing list. This process may be repeated several times before he realizes what is happening. And his parents will wonder what is to become of all the flood of stamps and who will pay for them. Of course the stamps are beautiful and most colourful and represent many countries. And of course the young collector is delighted at first but when all his allowance is going for stamps they soon become a burden and he quickly loses interest.

The simplest solution to the whole thing is to refuse to accept everything until a decision is made about his collecting. The incoming flood of stamps should be returned to the sender so marked with "not wanted" or "refused" and unopened, and in a short time they will stop coming.

A short talk with an older and more experienced collector should soon sort out his ideas and he will learn that he simply cannot collect everything. He will find that there are so many stamp issuing countries, each issuing stamps each year so that no one collector could possibly hope to go after them all even in a fairly modest fashion. So he must decide what countries to collect and which to leave alone. Once that decision is made he can have a lot of fun concentrating on the stamps of one or more countries or even certain types of stamps of several countries. But limit his interests he certainly must or he could become hopelessly bogged down.

Most collectors decide fairly early in their activity to specialize in some one country. Usually because their own country's stamps are common and accessible to them they pick it as number one. And if letters come from relatives in one of the older lands another field of collecting is at once open to them. In this way they have a fairly good supply of stamps coming to them with little actual outlay of money.

I found this method very largely dictated my collecting. I collect the stamps of Canada because I am a Canadian, they are easy for me to find and I find them generally well designed and attractive stamps and not too many are issued each year. Also there is a tremendous field of varieties and types of collecting in Canada which I probably will enlarge on at a later date. My sister started me collecting the United Nations as whenever she visited New York along would come some UN stamps and I soon became interested and continued collecting them as a specialty. A stamp collecting correspondent in New Zealand started me on the beautiful stamps of that far away country; he sends me everything that New Zealand issues and I do the same for him in Canadian stamps. Two good Danish friends interested me in the lovely clean looking stamps of that country so it also became one of my specialties.

So the young collector, and the more experienced person also, should not try to be too widespread in his stamp activities. A hobby can become an expensive burden and one should always remember that it is a hobby, a relaxation, and not something which should take the place of school studies, work, or family interests.

In my next article I hope to be able to talk about the "tools of the trade," those indispensible items which every collector needs to help him with his hobby.

JUST A LINE . . .

by Jean Baker

A water-filled hole by the side of the trail leading to Pulpit Rock strikes dread into the heart of the timid explorer. When we were young, we passed this awesome-looking gap in the mountainside as though evil demons would reach out and drag us down to China.

Actually, there is nothing dreadful about this black shaft. It is Coal Oil Johnny's glory hole.

Years ago, I heard mentioned many times the little flicker of light in the middle of the mountainside across the West Arm from the city waterfront. There was no Johnson Road at that time, no bridge, not even a ferry.

Here, in splendid isolation, lived John Holland, prospector and coal oil peddler, who hoped for great things from his diggings.

His view of the city, as opposed to the city's view of him, was glorious. Illumination from homes benefitting from power generated at the Nelson Cottonwood plant, reflected in the waters of the Arm ,interspersed with dimmer flickers from homes which still used lamps. The sternwheelers sailed daily up to the wharf across from Johnny's lonely site and at night he could sit outside his cabin and enjoy the now-nostalgic scene of boats lit from bow to stern, people scurrying along the wharf, horse teams and trains waiting to take the loads of people, boxes and bales from the steamers.

Gouging wealth from Elephant Mountain wasn't his only vocation. A tall, happy-go-lucky fellow, Johnny Holland used to come over to the city by rowboat. Leaving his transportation at the waterfront, he would go to the Imperial Oil depot which was situated below the corner of Cottonwood and Maple Streets and buy a quantity of coal oil. Then he would trek from home to home where lamps where still in use and sell this by the quart or gallon, making a grubstake for his mining endeavors.

He was a pleasant fellow. As one oldtimer said to me, "he had to have the gift of gab in order to sell his merchandise.

"He spent all of his time on the mountain. He was a sober man and never spent his money on liquor that I know of."

Having sold his coal oil, the long-remembered prospector would visit the stores in Nelson, buying what he could to last as long as they would, load up his boat and hurry back to the solitude of his mountainside, where he had the world at his feet.

Johnny's beginnings are as obscure as his departure. Another oldtimer remembers that the elusive Johnny had a partner in California who helped to keep the workings going by sending money from time to time.

Many prospectors have been noteworthy during lifetimes, but few have left so lasting a memento of their passage as Johnny, whose water-filled shafts in an unproductive mountain testify to Coal Oil Johnny's will o' the wisp pursuits.

Nicholson Will Study Court Ruling on Treaty

OTTAWA (CP) — Citizenship Minister Nicholson told the Commons Friday he will meet with Justice Minister Favreau and Health Minister Judy LaMarsh to study the implications of a Saskatchewan court decision on Indian treaty rights.

Judge J. M. Policha ruled in Battleford, Sask., Thursday that all Indians in the province, whether on or off reserves, are entitled to free hospital and medical care services from the federal government under an 1876 Indian treaty.

Mr. Nicholson said an interdepartmental committee on Indian treaty rights has begun its inquiry and is working actively.
