Chlorine-Laden Barge Sought; Hurricane Death Toll Climbs

Baton Rouge Edgy as Divers Search for Poison Gas Cargo

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ships, planes and divers searched the murky Mississippi River for a missing cargo of poisonous chlorine gas upriver at Baton Rouge, Monday, as the New Orleans coroner's office laid out cots in a makeshift morgue to handle a mounting hurricane death toll.

Officials urged Baton Rouge's 160,000 inhabitants to stay calm but the Louisiana State capital was tense as the hunt was pursued for the barge, one of many believed swamped by hurricane Betsy last Friday.

Dr. Nicholas Chetta, the coroner here, said bodies of hurricane victims from flooded downriver towns are being brought in by boat, truck and plane.

In the confusion that lingered behind the worst storm in the city's history, no one was sure how many persons were dead.

Dr. Chetta said: "We are expecting as many as 200 bodies to be brought in . . . in the current load." But even the coroner's office was caught in the confusion of trying to determine the number of actual dead.

The coroner said the estimate was relayed by a ham radio operator from sources in St. Bernard and Plaquemine Parish and preparations to handle the bodies was based on this report.

FLOODS OFFICE

But officials felt the police reports of bodies flooding the coroner's office—running as high as 400—may contain many duplications that have swelled the figures to an exaggerated level.

President Johnson, after checking with state officials Sunday, said the death toll would run into the hundreds.

The coroner's office officially has identified only 27 hurricane victims. The office has processed 78 bodies since Betsy struck last Friday, but many remain unidentified.

At Johnson's direction, the U.S. Navy dispatched the destroyer Hyman with submarine-spotting sonar gear to Baton Rouge to press the hunt for the missing barge. Two submarine hunter planes flew in from Norfolk, Va.

Nineteen navy and 13 army divers made repeated trips beneath the surface to look at objects located by sensitive detection gear.

Centre of the search was a section of the River near downtown Baton Rouge.

HALT TRAFFIC

The area was closed to river traffic and 100,000 gas masks were ebing stockpiled. The masks would be distributed if the half-inch-thick steel tanks containing the chlorine began to leak.

White House sources in Washington said the 600 tons of gas would be enough to kill 30,000 to 60,000 persons but the deadly gas posed a threat only if the barge's containers are pierced.

As flood waters gradually receded in greater New Orleans, the danger of disease mounted.

Health authorities hurriedly innoculated more than 400 policemen against tetanus and typhoid. Hundreds of volunteer workers were given shots as they helped handle the stream of refugees and bodies.

The health officials ordered public schools in the area closed indefinitely.

More Drug Suspect Arrests Expected

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP in Toronto and Montreal said Monday they expect to make more arrests in connection with a drug racket that already has netted at least 23 suspects in the two cities.

An RCMP spokesman here said the force has "warrants out for a number more."

"They're . . . difficult to locate," he said.

"Some are belived to be in the Toronto area; others may not be."

In Montreal, RCMP were looking for at least two more persons since five were arrested Saturday.

All suspects were arrested after RCMP in Montreal picked up and charged Joseph Rosario (Willie) Lamy, 44.

Mounties in Toronto simultaneously made eight arrests, charged another seven already in the Don Jail and Monday charged another man.

Lamy's arrest triggered the others.

"As soon as we had Lamy, we moved in on the others," said Superintendent J. R. Carriere, head of the RCMP C division in Quebec.

Boat Explodes, Two Injured

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A woman and her son were reported in good condition after an explosion rocked their motorboat in the harbor here Sunday.

Mrs. William Alexcee and her son Don of Port Simpson, 20 miles north of here, suffered undetermined injuries when the boat's motor backfired and ignited gas. Mrs. Simpson had been attempting to start the motor.

Mr. Alexcee, owner of the gillnetter Don A., was ashore at the time of the accident, RCMP said Monday.

No damage estimate was given.

Guild Sets Strike Deadline

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild Monday set a deadline of 8 a.m. Thursday for a strike against the New York Times if a new contract is not reached by then.

Thomas J. Murphy, the guild's executive vice-president, announced the strike deadline at a recess in negotiations with The Times at offices of the federal mediation and conciliation service .

Rusk Tells China Hands Off In India-Pakistan Battle

U.S. To Withhold Aid to Pakistan

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk advised China Monday to keep out of the India-Pakistan conflict and let the United Nations security council settle the undeclared war over Kashmir.

At the same time a state department spokesman strongly indicated the United States will hold up a new economic aid program of about $250,000,000 to Pakistan so long as the shooting continues.

Rusk, speaking to correspondents after a closed meeting with the senate foreign relations committee, expressed the view that China has been fishing in troubled waters in seeking to exploit the India-Pakistan fighting.

"Our own advice to Peking would be to stay out and let the Security Council settle it," he said.

Noting that the UN Security Council including the Soviet Union was unanimous in calling for a ceasefire, Rusk said he thinks the Soviet attitude has been helpful thus far.

The Soviet news agency Tass took a more critical tone towards the U.S., saying that further extension of the Kashmir war would benefit only the imperialists and would help the U.S. military to divert attention from Viet Nam.

SHRUGGED AT COMMENT

U.S. officials shrugged this off, noting that the Soviet Union has directed far stronger criticism at China by accusing Peking of seeking to foment the India-Pakistan war.

Rusk made clear to the senate committee that the U.S. would go to "extreme limits" in backing a peace-making effort by the UN Security Council, Chairman J. W. Fulbright, (Dem. Ark.) told reporters.

Fulbright said that he is personally of the belief that the U.S. should not intervene directly in the fighting. His statement hinted that some discussion of this kind had taken place with Rusk.

Rusk reaffirmed U.S. support for a plebiscite in Kashmir in which the people could express their free will on their future status.

India has refused to permit a plebiscite in the disputed state.

As for the fighting, U.S. authorities have noted that no deep penetrations have been made by the opposing forces in either country. The danger of communal rioting would be greatly increased by advances of either side, it was believed here.

The state department issued a statement denying a London Daily Telegraph report that the United States had informed India that a coup d'etat in Pakistan was imminent or that President Ayub Khan would soon be deposed.

Fulbright said Rusk had described the report, which indicated that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency might have been involved, as a "complete fabrication."

Will Fight 1000 Years To "Free" Kashmir

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) — Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto said Monday night Pakistan is prepared to fight for 1,000 years "to free' Kashmir.

He told correspondents the fighting with India would continue until Pakistan's three-point plan concerning the disputed state is accepted.

Pakistan's plans call for the complete withdrawal of both Indian and Pakistani troops from Kashmir and a plebiscite within three months to determine the area's future.

An Afro - Asian United Nations force would patrol Kashmir during the interim period.

"If India rejects the plan, the conflict will continue," Bhutto said.

"Our three-point plan is not negotiable," he said. "We know we are a small nation but if need be we will continue to fight to free Kashmir for 1,000 years."

He added: "Our position is that there must be a freely-conducted plebiscite within Kashmir to allow the inhabitants to choose whether the area shall be part of Pakistan or of India."

To a question on whether Pakistan is prepared to allow Kashmir to become independent, Bhutto said this is not a practical proposition.

Meanwhile, in New Delhi, India said Monday Pakistan's proposals for a settlement of the Kashmir dispute are a deliberate attempt to wreck United Nations Secretary - General U Thant's peace mission.

Pakistan's peace terms, announced last Sunday and repeated Monday, call for a complete withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani forces from Kashmir, the stationing of an Afro-Asian security force in the area and a plebiscite in three months.

Pakistanis Repel India Advances

RAWALPINDI (Reuters)—Indian troops backed by planes, tanks and artillery made several efforts Monday to advance on the hard-fought Sialkot battlefront but Pakistani forces beat them back, a Pakistani government communique claimed.

The communique said the Indians suffered heavy casualties in the sector which they invaded from beyond the Kashmir border last week.

The battle around the town of Sialkot — just south of the 1949 United Nations ceasefire line in the disputed border state of Kashmir — is regarded here as the biggest action of the war. But Pakistani authorities declined to give any fighting details beyond the communique.

Government Advised Keep Out of Mining

By TERRY ROBERTS

VICTORIA (CP) — Government intervention in mining would result in scarce risk development capital, the president of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. warned Monday.

W. S. Kirkpatrick of Montreal told the opening of the 22nd annual mines minister's conference here that "it is neither necessary nor desirable for governments to become involved in actual exploration or mining, or in their direct financial support."

"Once this sort of thing is begun, there is a tendency for subsequent governments to extend it, and become more deeply involved in all phases of the industry.

"Gradually, private enterprise . . . will withdraw in the face of equitable competition from non tax-paying bodies."

Mr. Kirkpatrick is the keynote speaker at the three-day conference, which has drawn mines ministers, their deputies and industrial representatives from every province.

He predicted mining will continue to expand in the years ahead if current favorable conditions continue.

Opening the conference, Mines Minister Donald Brothers of British Columbia, told the delegates mining is the number two industry in the province.

He said the outlook for B.C. in mining was bright.

"The estimated cost of bringing nine mines into production in the period 1965-69 will exceed $160,000,000," he said.

Former Harbor Chief Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alfred E. McMaster, 79, former Vancouver harbor chief, died Sunday following a three - month illness.

Mr. McMaster lived almost 50 years in B.C., after taking over as passenger and freight agent with Grand Trunk Pacific Railway at Prince Rupert in 1908. He was born in Perth, Ont.

He retired in 1955, after seven years as Vancouver harbor chief, a post he accepted after working with the Powell River Co. and with government agencies during and after the Second World War.

YOUNG HUNTER SHOT, KILLED

PENTICTON (CP) — A young man, shot in the back on a hunting trip, died in hospital here Monday.

Police described the death of the Penticton youth as accidental.

He and a young companion were hunting near Naramata, 12 miles north of here, when he was shot in the back.

IWA Head Urges Change From Hourly Wage Rates

VANCOUVER (CP) — Regional president Jack Moore Monday told the convention of the International Woodworkers of America (AFL - CIO - CLC) it should consider changing from hourly wages to weekly or monthly salaries.

He said the change would benefit union workers because hourly rates would not have to be drastically raised when working hours are reduced.

"Working hours will be reduced, as surely as night follows day," said Mr. Moore.

Mr. Moore also suggested an employee should be entitled to twice as much time off as any overtime he has to work, instead of being paid for it.

About 300 delegates are attending the convention. The IWA has 35,000 members in British Columbia.

Weldon Jubenville, president of the IWA's local in Duncan, told the convention new machines and technological advances give workers added responsibilities and should result in higher pay.

He said a vigorous fight will be necessary for increased wages and improved working conditions.

He said one tactic is to go to the polls and "elect people who will not allow anti-labor legislation to be written onto the statute books."

Mr. Moore said he fears many union members may be replaced by machines due to the onslaught of automation.

He said the increased productivity of workers has given employers more wealth than ever before.

The employerrs, he said, have hoarded the wealth and are investing it in new pulp and paper plants, and in many cases, in operations overseas.

KNOWLES SEES MINORITY GOV'T

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stanley Knowles, House leader for the New Democratic Party, predicts another minority government after the Nov. 8 general election.

He said in an interview Monday it would be the best thing that could happen, because minority governments faced with a powerful opposition get things done.

"If we get the kind of majority we had between 1958 and 1962 you can write off the next four years," said Mr. Knowles.

CPR Appeal Rejected

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Supreme Court on Monday denied an appeal by Canadian Pacific Railway against an $88,000 judgment against the company.

The railway was assessed the damages after an employee lost both legs in a fall from a box car eight years ago on B.C. Forest Products Company property in Hammond, B.C.

The CPR said in its appeal the forest company was at fault because of an overhang on a warehouse caused the workman to be brushed off.

The late Mr. Justice H. J. Sullivan said in his written judgment on the original case he found it impossible to imagine B.C. Forest Products would accept the spur lease track if it knew it would be deprived of protection.

Chief Justice Henry I. Bird, in a minority opinion, said he would have allowed the appeal.

Toronto's Unique City Hall Opened

By JOE DUPUIS

TORONTO (CP) — Governor-General Vanier opened Toronto's new city hall Monday while tiny flags shot from rocket guns fluttered over an estimated 15,000 persons assembled under grey, sombre skies.

Eulogies to the $31,000,000, two-tower building came during the opening ceremonies from speakers assembled on a makeshift platform. They included Prime Minister Pearson.

"This magnificent work has won world-wide acclaim, not only from the architectural and engineering communities, but from every person who appreciates the bold and imaginative" said Mr. Vanier. "It takes its place as one of the triumphs of the Canadian scene."

Nathan Phillips, mayor for eight years until his defeat in 1962, figured prominently in the platform ceremonies, as the man chiefly responsible for the project, first broached 10 years ago and completed amid bitter controversy.

Mayor Philip Givens presented him with a Gold Medal, the city's highest award of merit.

The 12-acre square on which the throng gathered is named after him.

OBSCURE CHAMBERS

Almost obscured by the flags, bunting, speaking platform rows of straight - back chairs and benches for the 2,500 invited guests was the three-storey, domed city council chamber building—looking like a flying saucer resting between the half-moon office towers on each side.

Mr. Pearson said the achievement of erecting the building was almost as exciting as the building itself. But he "shed a nostalgic tear" for the old, blackstone city hall, across the street from the new one.

New Gradings for Fruit, Vegetables Announced

OTTAWA (CP)—New federal regulations governing the marketing of fresh fruit and vegetables go into effect Sept. 15, the agriculture department announced on the weekend.

The regulations provide grade standards for 30 kinds of fruit and vegetables of commercial significance in Canada and set marking, packaging and inspection requirements for the produce in interprovincial, export and import trade.

Grades are being introduced for cauliflower, brussel sprouts, field and greenhouse cucumbers and greenhouse tomatoes. These, along with sweet corn, for which grading was optional previously, will be subject to grading, packing and marking requirements and to inspection and certification if they are exported out of Canada.

A number of changes have been made in grade standards.

For potatoes a new requirement for Canada No. 1 grade stipulates that, at time of packing, at least 65 per cent of the potatoes must be free of all defects which would not be removed by peeling.

Standards for apples have been tightened.

Under the new regulations fewer skin punctures will be tolerated in fruit contained in boxes, trays or cell-type packages, and the permissible amount of russeting has been reduced. In addition, Canada extra fancy and Canada fancy grades must be free of storage scald in the first two weeks after packaging.

There are a number of other changes.

TO DISCUSS DECREE

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The world's Roman Catholic bishops await Pope Paul's opening speech today to the fourth and final session of the Vatican ecumenical council before debating a controversial draft decree on religious liberty.

The Pope, who has so far refused to identify himself with either the progressive or conservative wings of the council assembly, has sounded a cautious note in recent months when speaking of new ideas in the church.

Caron Links Rivard With Drug Business

By JOHN LeBLANC

LAREDO, Tex. (CP) — Lucien Rivard and three other Canadians charged with conspiracy in a huge narcotics smuggling operation heard a self-styled fellow conspirator tell a jury Monday they were all in the narcotics "business" together.

The witness at the first day of their trial in this Texas-Mexico border city was Joseph Michel Caron, 36, a former Montreal waiter who was trapped by border guards here in 1963 with about $33,000,000 worth of heroin stuffed in the panels and seats of a car heading from Mexico City to Montreal.

CAUGHT WITH HEROIN

Caron was caught at this Mexican border point in 1963 with 76 pounds of heroin worth $33,000,000 or more on the illicit market—the incident that set off the whole train of events that led to Canada's Dorion inquiry and other repercussions.

Caron later talked freely to a grand jury, linking Rivard to the seizure, and received 10 years in penitentiary for smuggling.

Beauchemin also talked to the jury but was not charged and his whereabouts have not been disclosed.

Federal authorities here have not revealed their plans for Caron and Beauchemin in connection with the trial.

Rivard and his three fellow defendants — Joseph Raymond Jones, Julien Gagnon and Charles Mile Groleau — were brought into court Monday under extraordinary precautions.

GUARDS ARMED

At 7:40 a.m. a white sedan took Rivard the three blocks from Webb County jail to the federal court house and four armed U.S. marshalls — one carrying a shotgun — whisked him downstairs to the cell. The other three men made a similar trip in a regular patrol wagon.

Upstairs as the trial opened elevator service to the third floor where the courtroom is located was shut off and reporters and spectators had to produce identification to get past a barred gate at the head of the stairs.

U.S. border patrol officers with guns swinging from open holsters paced the corridors, and plain clothes marshals ringed the courtroom.

An all-male jury was selected after a long process of winnowing out disqualified persons and those wishing to be excused. Eight members of the jury were Spanish-Americans, as are the majority of the population of this town on the Rio Grande.

Three others were excused because they could not either speak or write English.

Judge Connally told the jury advanced indications were that the trial would last between 10 and 14 days.

He told the jury that during that period they would be segregated in a hotel across the street from the court house.

Rivard and two of the co-defendants came into court equipped with local lawyers but Jones, a 36-year-old former salesman, told the court through a local lawyer that he could not afford one. The court ordered he be provided with free legal service.

Jones and Gagnon, 35, are alleged to have been carriers of narcotics for Rivard. Groleau, a frail-looking, white-haired man in his 50s, is alleged to have passed on orders from Rivard.

BOUNDARY BEEF CLUB—YOUNG CATTLE BARONS

BOUNDARY BEEF CLUB PARADE OF CHAMPIONS

By MIKE BENNETT
Daily News Staff Writer

GRAND FORKS — Raising cattle, whether they are beef or dairy, is a big business and in the farm land of the rich Boundary country, the Boundary Beef Club is helping to keep it that way.

Formed 18 years ago by Fraser Carmichael, then district agriculturist, the club is based on the Canada-wide principles of 4-H and has attracted 40 members from 10-21.

Mr. Carmichael conceived the idea after finding a void in the life of rural youth.

In a city, youngsters can find much to occupy their time what with boy scouts, girl guides and YMCA and YWCA, but in area where ranching requires the around-the-clock work of every member of the family, things are a little different.

I talked to Neil Smith, a beef cattle rancher from nearby Rock Creek and a Boundary Beef Club leader for several years.

"The youngsters usually buy a steer calf from their parents and accept the responsibilities of raising it for a year.

"This entails feeding and grooming, in addition to accounting for the costs and progress of the calf."

The year-old calves, weighing up to 1,000 pounds, are then shown at the Grand Forks Fall Fair and later sold at the Provincial Winter Fair in Kamloops in early November.

"You might say the club is a study in the development of citizenship and a training ground to face the realities of life," Smith said.

"Rural youth has an advantage, in that before taking over his club project, he was brought up with a daily chore routine. It sets the stage for the responsibility of raising a steer calf."

The club has a hard time holding members until they are 21 — some move away to work or go to school, but one, 21-year-old Art Harfman of Bridesville, has proved to be a remarkable exception.

He owns one of the top registered Hereford steers in Western Canada and last year two of his steers set a new record in this country, bringing $5000.

This year his steers will travel to the Toronto Winter Fair where some of the top supermarket chains in the country will bid on the exhibition winner — a publicity scheme that could cost them up to $10,000.

"Once the steers are sold at Kamloops, the youngsters start all over again. Maybe, this time they'll invest their money in some breeding stock," Mr. Smith commented.

Most of the money earned through sales is saved towards an education and possibly an agricultural degree.

Average market weight is about 1000 pounds, although a bull occasionally weighs in at 6000 after 17 months of grain and hay feeding, and they are much better looked after than if they were part of a larger herd.

The 40 youngsters compete in five sections in the Boundary country, but at the Kamloops Winter Fair there will be more than 25 clubs and 300 boys and girls for the annual exhibition.

During the course of the stock exhibition, I couldn't help wondering if perhaps one of the pony-tailed girls or freckled-faced boys, proudly leading their steers into the corral, wasn't a future rancher in this grassland country.

With vast and rapid changes taking place in the world of agriculture today, the Boundary Beef Club is building a foundation for the cattle rancher of tomorrow.

PRIZE STEER CALF AT STOCK EXHIBITION

Rezoning of Old Brewery Area Pondered by Council

Town planner G. A. Butling will be queried by city council on the feasibility of re-zoning an area presently designated as residential to accommodate an application for industrial use.

The property in question is the old brewery site, located in the 500 block of Latimer Street and owned by D. C. Coen, who wants the zoning change to comply with the commercial application of a prospective tenant.

Brought to the floor Monday night by Mayor E. T. Bodard, the request drew comment from almost all council members before being finally resolved on a motion by Ald. Edith Van Maarion.

It was the feeling of Ald. H. Farenholtz that no zoning change be made until concrete assurance was received from the prospective tenant. As a residential application, the presence of "terrific" cellars made the cost of filling them in for residential use prohibitive, commented Mayor Bodard.

The situation, according to Ald. Farenholtz, "wasn't that bad."

DEMOLITION COST HIGH

Cost of tearing down the old brewery building, said Mr. Coen in his behalf, would involve an expenditure of $10,000. Once levelled, the property could be cut into possibly five building lots with an individual value of something like $1500. On the other hand, the machine-shop enterprise contemplated by his prospective tenant would employ five or six local men.

Mayor Bodard reminded Mr. Coen of the formalities involved in amending the zoning bylaw, which would have to be read by council three times, then put to the public for vote before final adoption by council.

Ald. Farenholtz reiterated his stand on a more firm assurance from the tenant before re-zoning proceedings were put into motion. Mayor Bodard replied that Mr. Coen already had a firm request from a tenant who could not be publicly identified at this time.

TEMPORARY USE

It was a question of making use of the present facilities, thought Ald. Kennedy Facchina, who added that the building's use would only be temporary (five years), and that such use would not extend beyond the physical boundaries of the building. The image of having a non-working brewery in the area was another question, said Mayor Bodard, who added that it had already been used as a warehouse and that it was just a matter of extending the structure's commercial use to include a machine shop.

There was no objection to its being used as such, said Ald. Farenholtz. Ald. M. B. Ryalls objected to the request on the grounds that "this is definitely not town planning," and that the property's use should not be the target for any builder who found it attractive.

He thought it advisable to solicit the opinion of the town planner, a suggestion adopted by Ald. Van Maarion, who agreed that the request did not conform with town planning.

A motion to prepare an amending bylaw relative to the request if the request for the zoning change was approved by the town planner, was also passed.

'Copter Damaged

A 'whirlybird' belonging to Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., lost lifting power on takeoff at the Kokanee Glacier Ski Club early Monday, and suffered damage to its rotor blade while attempting to re-land.

An official of the company said the rotor caught the edge of a new building being constructed at the site but that no injuries to the pilot or extensive damage to the helicopter were sustained.

The entrails of the calf were found on the Little Fish Creek Road, North and West of Rock Creek.

RCMP were unable to say who owned the calf and were still investigating.

They reported that a few grouse had been shot over the weekend but that few deer had been taken.

One of the vehicles allegedly pulled out to pass two or three other cars proceeding towards Nelson and was in head-on collision with a car coming from the opposite direction.

Drivers of the vehicles were John Popoff of Brilliant and Peter Perepolkin of Shoreacres. The name of the third person was not available.

RCMP are still investigating.

Municipalities Delegates Clear Up 29 Resolutions

GRAND FORKS (By Staff Reporter) — Delegates to the AKBM fall meeting in Grand Forks Saturday ran the discussion gamut from allowances to ambulances in their day-long deliberations of some 29 resolutions which will be among 79 to be presented to the UBCM at Victoria next month.

Chaired by resolutions committee member, Ald. Peter Podovinikoff of Grand Forks, some of the major discussion topics during the afternoon session included resolutions on school budgets, municipal loans, home owner grants and council terms of office.

Winning support of the resolutions committee, a resolution on school budgets asking amendment to the Public Schools Act, to provide a 15-day advance notice on government-aid grants to give municipalities enough arbitration time drew debate from Castlegar and Nelson delegates.

The untimeliness of government grants in relation to school budgets drew comment from Mayor E. T. Bodard, who complained that present budget deadlines came too soon to allow for arbitration contingencies sometimes inherent in teacher negotiations.

HANDICAPPED

Chairman Podovinikoff agreed that councils were "handicapped" by early budget dates.

School boards were publicly elected bodies, the same as councils, said a delegate from Castlegar, who added that it was "wrong in principle for councils to attempt to turn down a school budget." He suggested the only alternative was to bring in the municipal budget earlier and that "sometimes I think municipal officials don't realize the problems of the school board."

Another resolution which found "desirable" endorsation from the resolution committee concerned the Municipal Development Loans Act.

UBCM executive director T. R. B. Adams told the assemblage that the Loans Act was not put on the books to help municipalities across Canada, but to "help unemployment," as well as accelerate projects which might otherwise not be undertaken With advent of improvement in the unemployment picture, the government, he added, did not intend to extend the eligibility of the Act.

The AKBM resolution requests the federal government to continue the assistance given to municipalities under the Municipal Development and Loan Act, and that in order to do this further capital be alloted to this fund and the time for completion of projects be extended until at least April, 1968, preferably on a continuing basis.

Amendment to the present home-owner grant would provide for a minimum tax payable raise from one dollar to $50.

Opposition was voiced by Mayor Bodard ,who could not see the reason for it.

SEES MERIT

Disagreeing, UBCM director Adams felt the resolution had some merit. One of the main beneficial effects the home owner grant would have, he added, was to the "growing horde of voters with no financial responsibilities" in relation to school referendums. This element of "irresponsible" voters was going by the boards more and more the speaker said.

One of the few resolutions that met opposition from the resolutions committee concerned amending the Municipal Act to provide for a 3-year term of office for council members, with one third of councillors, aldermen and commissioners elected each year.

The department of municipal affairs had informed the UBCM it could not act because of a lack of unanimity among municipalities, said Mr. Adams, who added that there was still not enough unanimity and that the subject was something which should be decided "by ourselves."

A vote on the matter from delegates on the floor, called by meeting chairman C. M. Loeblich of Kinnaird, was deadlocked.

Food Business Climbing Fastest, Rotarians Told

The food business is the fastest growing business in North America, wholesale manager John Morey told the Rotary Club at its Friday meeting.

In the West Kootenay area of 70,000 people, the food business this year should be over $14,000,000 retail, he said.

Because the net profit in the retail food business is approximately one per cent the stores must work strictly on volume and must have a certain percentage of their sales in each department, he explained.

Mr. Morey predicted that by 1970 the supermarkets will be stocking 12,000 items. They presently stock 7000 to 8000 items.

He said the increase will be mostly in ready to serve and convenience foods.

Price is not the most important factor in attracting customers to a food store, Mr. Morey said.

Mr. Morey listed four things that researchers have found attract customers to a store.

The first was cleanliness. If the outside of the store is not clean the customers will not go inside, and if the inside is not clean they will not return.

The second factor was the courtesy of the store employees, especially those who work at the checkstands.

The boss at a supermarket is not the manager but the employee on the checkout, Mr. Morey stated. If that employee fails to smile at the customer he may change to another store and 11 per cent of a store's customers change to another store each year.

Each store also lost 10 per cent of its customers each year as they moved away from the area.

Because of this loss of 21 per cent of its customers, each store must always be trying to gain new customers.

The third factor that attracted customers to a food store was in having what the customer wants. Mr. Morey said that the store must have on its shelves what he called known value items.

The fourth important thing was that the meat and produce must be of high quality and the displays must be kept neat.

SUPPORT OF COMMUNITY VITAL TO CLUB

KASLO — The success the Kaslo Kinsmen Club enjoys is due to the support given it by the community, new president E. Johnston told members at the recent meeting.

When naming his committees, he requested that each committee head enact the purpose of his group "since the club and the community will benefit, whereas, to accept the position and do nothing will have the opposite effect."

A joint venture with the Royal Canadian Legion, Klondyke Day, was discussed, and plans were made to purchase playground equipment.

Kaslo Kinsmen are planning a better year than ever before.

NEED MORE STUDENTS

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario universities anticipating overcrowded conditions for this year's 55,000-member freshmen class have found instead there aren't enough Grade 13 graduates with the required 60 per cent average to fill all the vacancies, John McCarthy, deputy minister of the province's department of university affairs, said during the weekend that several universities found they had to accept applicants with less than 60 per cent to fill their quotas.

NAKUSP — The British Columbia Telephone Company will mark another milestone of communications progress September 19 when it converts Nakusp and Edgewood area subscribers in the Arrow Lakes region to automatic dial telephone service.

The cut-overs are the last automatic exchange conversions in West Kootenay and when completed only about 30 of the more than 22,000 subscribers in the district will be without dial service.

Don Champion, West Kootenay district manager, said at Nelson that the company hopes to have even these few isolated rural subscribers connected with automatic exchanges during the next year or so.

The conversions at Nakusp and Edgewood, to take place at the same time, will give dial phone service to about 700 subscribers served previously by rural toll lines and a magneto switchboard at Nakusp.

FARMERS JOIN SYSTEM

Also being added to the dial service are about 30 farmers in the Inonoaklin Valley, who previously were linked with a single-wire line and old telephones they had purchased and operated themselves.

Mr. Champion has invited area councillors and business leaders to a dinner in Nakusp September 18 to mark the conversion, which takes place shortly after midnight that Saturday night.

He said the company has invested more than $500,000 in facilities to extend automatic exchange dial service to the Nakusp and Edgewood areas.

A permanent building was erected at Nakusp, where a total of $414,000 was spent for the exchange building, its equipment and the cables and lines to connect subscribers.

At Edgewood, the cost was $108,000, including expenditures for a 200-line portable exchange assembled at the service centre in Burnaby and hauled to the site by truck.

The Edgewood exchange brings to 61 the number of portable units in use to provide dial service to smaller communities throughout the province. It has been located at what is to be the new site for the community when the present village is relocated to make way for flooding caused by the High Arrow Dam in the Columbia River power project.

THREE MONTHS' INSTALLATION

Installation crews from Trail and Nelson have been at work for about three months installing equipment, linking cables to the exchanges and putting new dial telephones into the homes and business premises of subscribers.

Maintenance staff stationed at Nakusp will service the new exchanges and telephones.

The new service will enable Nakusp subscribers to call any phone in the Nakusp exchange without toll charge and Edgewood subscribers to call any phone in the Edgewood exchange without toll charge. Many rural subscribers in the areas surrounding each community are included.

Toll calls from the area will be handled through the toll centre at Nelson, which is headquarters for B.C. Telephone in the West Kootenay district.

Congregation Honors Priest

KASLO — A farewell gathering was held in the form of a potluck supper at the Scout Hall in Kaslo when the congregation of St. Marks' Church honored Rev. F. I. Richards and Mrs. Richards on their departure from the parish.

They have left for Nakusp, and St. Marks' Church will be part of the Kokanee Parish from now on.

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — New Zealand will send a new surgical team to South Viet Nam under the Colombo plan to relieve the team at present working there. New Zealand has been providing medical and surgical help to the civilian population of South Viet Nam for three years. New Zealand also has sent 150 artillery men for the military operations.

New Reading Methods Topic Castlegar Toastmistresses

KINNAIRD —At the opening dinner meeting of the 1965-66 season, Vali Toastmistress Club adopted a new theme for the year: "Seed time and Harvest" with an explanation given of the potential involved in the process of improving and learning together.

Table topics presented by Mrs Sadie Hammond depicted some of this potential by following the growth pattern: learning from reading, making new contacts, what members expected to gain from Toastmistress participation, as well as their contemplated contributions towards the club's progress. Members discussed briefly the various books they had read during summer Contact has been made through correspondence with several other such Toastmistress clubs throughout the world. Individuals appraised the values to be derived from Toastmistress by application of time and effort.

PREPARE CHILD FOR SCHOOL

In the program presentation, Mrs. Ruth Lanzarotta spoke on the topic, "Preparing your child for school." She stressed that educational material and methods should be left with the teacher where it belonged.

The parents' responsibility evolved mainly in taking care of the child's health, teaching him the physical necessities and encouraging him to develop an attitude of co-operation and willingness to learn.

Miss Corrie Hogendoorn had attended classes at UBC this summer pertaining to new methods in teaching the child to read. An estimated 100 teachers from all parts of the province attended this week-long course, the principle function of which was to take the best parts of past systems and combine these for more effective methods in current teaching.

Although it was noted that many difficulties are encountered in any new system, from experiments it was discovered the child could develop a much larger and varied vocabulary and was able to associate comparative words. The standard speller text is a thing of the past, Mrs. Hogendoorn learned. Instead, the teacher shows the child how to spell the words he uses in his vocabulary.

The art of listening properly is being stressed, keeping in mind the many distractions that can occur and the fact that many listeners have preconceived ideas and cannot absorb new ideas too readily. Emphasis is to be placed on the use of high calibre poetry in reading and vocabulary exercises.

Miss Hogendoorn commented that many of the suggestions presented for the children's course would be of value if applied to adult learning. Such undertakings as telling stories and anecdotes, using the telephone, chairing a meeting and choral speaking will be part of the program. With the stress on vocabulary, diction, mannerism and proper choice of words, this improved learning method will show results throughout the child's ensuing school years, she pointed out.

In her general evaluation of the meeting, Mrs. Margaret Paolini mentioned that in prose many languages were used with great effect, but in the field of poetry, the English language is unexcelled. She felt it was an encouraging trend in education to have children indoctrinated from the start into the many benefits derived from poetry.

New officers for the coming year are, president, Mrs. Brita Haley; vice-president, Miss Corrie Hogendoorn; program coordinator, Mrs. Sadie Hammond; secretary, Mrs. Margaret Paolini; treasurer, Mrs. Vera Barisenkoff.

Miss Peggy Cook, president of Toastmistress Council No. 11, will be in Castlegar for the September workshop meeting and will be conducting the program.

Book Work Puts New Material On Library Shelves of Salmo

SALMO—After a month's closure for renovations and paint-up, the local library is ready for business again.

Several work parties were mending books and sorting and carding books donated to the library by three residents. Any duplicates on the shelves will be turned over to the newly formed Fruitvale library, said acting librarian Mrs. Likus.

Carrying on

The prime minister has announced that the Hon. George Pearkes will remain as the incumbent of B.C.'s Government House for a further period not specified but for a year at least.

General Pearkes has thus acceded to the request of Mr. Pearson which was foreshadowed during the prime minister's recent visit to Victoria. This must be viewed as a personal sacrifice on the part of the lieutenant-governor and Mrs. Pearkes who next month complete the normal term of five years in an office which has been adorned not only with honor but with indefatigable activity.

British Columbia has been fortunate in the calibre of many of its lieutenant-governors, and General Pearkes has brought his own particular patina to heighten the dignity and prestige of this position. His career in turn as a VC soldier, parliamentarian, cabinet minister and Queen's representative has reflected the devotion to duty and the service to his conutry of a fine and generous individual.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes has not spared himself in the long list of official obligations and social function and hospitality inseparable from his office, and has travelled far and wide throughout the province to lend his presence and bring his incumbency close to the people. And as a gracious chatelaine Mrs. Pearkes shares in the distinction with which her husband has carried out his responsibilities.

That they will remain at Government House for yet awhile is pleasant news indeed.—Vancouver Sun.

Whose Enemy Big Question

The U.S. Trading with the Enemy Act, that ubiquitous piece of American legislation which throws its tentacles across boundary lines, has come into the news again—this time in connection with the Soviet wheat order. Officers of Canadian subsidsidiaries of American milling companies have pointed out that they cannot touch any portion of the Soviet order destined for Cuba.

The much criticized Heeney-Merchant Report on Canadian - U.S. Relations had some interesting comments, worth recalling, on this type of U.S. legislation.

"It is important that each country should avoid efforts, or apparent efforts, to extend its domestic law into the country of the other. A case in point—the administration of foreign assets control under the United States Trading with the Enemy Act, as it relates to United States-owned branches and subsidiaries domiciled in Canada, occasionally comes into conflict with the laws, regulations and policies of the Canadian government. We strongly recommend that the two governments examine promptly the means, through issuance by the United States of a general licence or adoption of other appropriate measures, by which this irritant to our relationship may be removed, without encouraging the evasion of United States law by citizens of the United States."

There have been other occasions when actions, correct under Canadian law and in the national interest of this country, have been hamstrung by this legislation. It is from a Canadian point of view no small matter. The Report had one other paragraph pertinent to the debate, namely that each country should "respect scrupulously the other's exercise of its sovereign authority in legislation. "There are," it pointed out, "clearly identifiable areas where good fences contribute to good neighborly relations."

The Trading with the Enemy Act is a clear case of fence cutting.

Is This Right Prescription?

Starting this month doctors in British Columbia must write all prescriptions for patients on welfare assistance in generic terms. No more brand name orders will be accepted. The object is to cut down the province's heavy annual outlay on drugs for welfare cases. Any reduction will have the enthusiastic support of B.C. taxpayers, and the interest of health authorities across Canada who would like to cut their drug costs.

But will the B.C. move do what is intended — provide good care at lower cost? In Britain it was found that ordering by generic names alone eliminated some brand name drugs that were more effective. Quality problems turned up too — some of the "cheaper" drugs weren't up to standard. Now the doctors in Britain may prescribe brand name drugs approved by the government.

If such an escape hatch is not provided for in the regulations for welfare patients, the B.C. government would leave itself open to the criticism that it is providing second-class medical care for its indigent.

The drug industry spends huge sums to develop and improve its products. In putting a brand name on a drug, the manufacturer stakes the firm's reputation on its quality and effectiveness. The so-called equivalent sold more cheaply by generic name too often may not be as good a product.

Car's a Car

The latest fad reported from Long Island, not an area of the U.S., that is characterized by poverty, is painting sports cars with Scottish tartan designs and colors. The complex paint job costs up to $1000.

We'll be lucky in this area if the fad doesn't spread. The so-called "arcing stripes" painted on sports cars are bad enough and worse when the painters don't realize that each stripe and color has a special meaning. But tartan cars? Never.

What's needed, obviously, is a latter-day Burns who could crystallize in pungent phrases the despair of the ordinary motorist when he realizes that chrome and enamel aren't enough, and an extra $1000 will have to be raised to keep up with the Joneses. Even in utilitarian black or it-doesn't-show-the-dirt tan, a car's a car for a' that.

Windsor Star.

Safety First

Safety belts for dogs, now on the market in America, are being promoted "in a bid to save human lives."

Wouldn't a campaign for motorists to keep dogs out of their cars altogether be more effective to this worthy end?

Just a minute, though. No one's going to make any money out of that.—Punch.

Many Displays Aimed at Johnson

President Johnson is a firm believer in consensus government. And he's never been known for his fondness of critics. But in his public reaction to dissenters, the president is using a velvet glove. This story describes his approach.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A University of Kansas student, unhappy about President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam, slashed his wrist and smeared blood on a campus bulletin board.

The student, Charles Hook of Glen Head, N.Y., said this rather startling action last March was "purely spontaneous and an individual gesture." But less dramatic displays of displeasure with Johnson's decisions have become commonplace, though apparently reflecting only minority opinion.

This has been a year for teach-ins, sit-ins and hunger strikes, all reflecting various degrees of opposition to various presidential policies.

Johnson's public reaction generally has been restrained, but his sensitivity to almost any criticism is marked and, in private, often stormy.

Publicly, Johnson insists he welcomes Democratic debate and abhors blind conformity. On those occasions when he has uttered stronger statements, he usually has criticized the press which often brings him first news of dissent and, in his view, promotes conflict by publicizing his critics.

IMMUNITY GONE

A year ago, Johnson seemed to enjoy miraculous immunity to the barbs that all presidents encounter sooner than later. When harsh words were heard, they normally fell into the category of partisan campaign utterances or dealt with such side issues as the president's driving habits and dog-handling practices.

However, this year has seen the development of an oftennoisy undercurrent of minority criticism embracing such major issues as Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic—plus civil rights, American representation at the Churchill funeral, Johnson's shelving of Washington visits by the leaders of India and Pakistan, and his relations with the press.

With all this, though, the polls show Johnson's standing with American voters has remained exceptionally high on all significant questions, including Viet Nam.

Criticism began soon after Johnson was inaugurated as president in his own right. First he offended an important, if unmeasurable, portion of the American populace by sending Chief Justice Earl Warren—rather than Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey—to represent the United States at the London funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

U.S. UNNOTICED

During day - long television broadcasts of the Churchill rites, the attention of Americans was called repeatedly to the kings, queens and prime ministers representing many a less powerful nation. Seldom did they glimpse the Warren-led American delegation.

Johnson, recovering from a cold that had put him in hospital briefly, responded to the criticism with sarcasm, telling a press conference:

"I may have made a mistake by asking the chief justice to go and not asking the vice-president. I will bear in mind in connection with any future funerals your very strong feelings in this matter. . . ."

Privately, Johnson once suggested the whole tempest was inspired by a single reporter, who he thought, wanted a trip to London with Humphrey.

It cannot be said, however, that Johnson does not learn from experience. Within barely six months, Humphrey twice was sent to Europe on presidential missions.

RESTRAINT KEY

Since then, restraint has been his watchword. He waited nearly six hours for example, to authorize the removal from the White House of 12 young people who staged a sit-in critical of his civil rights policies. More recently, two days elapsed before opponents of the war in Viet Nam were hauled away in paddy wagons after blocking White House entrances in a sit-down demonstration.

About two months ago, Johnson put his public reaction into words in a statement that referred indirectly to teach-ins and other displays of opposition to administration policy in Viet Nam:

"How rare is the land and extraordinary the people who freely lalow, and really encourage, as I have on many occasions, the citizens of our nation to discuss and to debate their nation's policies in time of danger. . . .

"We welcome and we ask for new ideas from serious and concerned men and women, from universities and journals and public platforms all across the land. We are constantly searching for views and proposals which might strengthen and unite and help our government."

Then he added a word about what has become his greatest concern about vocal dissidents:

"Let not one ever think for a moment that national debate means national division."

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 14, 1965 . . .

The Gregorian calendar was adopted in England 213 years ago today—in 1752—when the government decreed that the day following Sept. 2 should be Sept. 14. The revised calendar had been enforced in all Catholic countries 170 years before, by papal edict0 but the Protestant countries refused the reform on principle. Even when the English government decided to put its calendars in phase with astronomical time, mobs roamed the streets shouting, "Give us back our 11 days!"

1628 — Salem, Massachusetts' second settlement, was incorporated.

1917—Kornilov's march on Moscow was defeated.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—2nd Canadian Division moved from England to France; Russian forces threw an Austrian army back across the Strypa River, taking 13,000 prisoners.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the U.S. Congress approved the Selective Service Act; the Japanese admiralty apologized for the bombing of the Canadian liner Empress of Asia; Luftwaffe attacks on London and RAF attacks on invasion ports continued.

Election Issue

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — As Canada digs in for the Nov. 8 election campaign, its third in four years, there doesn't seem to be any North American issue in sight that could disturb the current calm of relations with the United States.

Nor can U.S. observers familiar with the Canadian political scene see American foreign policy elsewhere being an issue for either of the major parties in Canada—Liberal and Progressive Conservative.

Each has endorsed U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

But criticism of policy on Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic is expected from T. C. Douglas and his New Democrats.

SWITCH FROM 1963

This is something of a switch from 1963, when the debate about Canadian acceptance of nuclear arms filled the air.

Then, for example, the U.S. state department pitched in with a statement publicly differing from John Diefenbaker's views.

The Pentagon also became a participant through the release of edited U.S. Congressional testimony by Defence Secretary McNamara. Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, then still prime minister, used the testimony to argue that acceptance of nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles in Canada would make Canada a "burnt offering." Diefenbaker said McNamara's testimony showed that the Bomarcs were regarded as diversionary targets for any enemy missiles.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, accused of being soft on Americans, countered with a pledge to restore relations with the United States, which he said had gone to pot.

ECONOMIC FRONT QUIET

There seems today little of the 1963 concern about Canadian dependence on American investment capital, or the grip such capital has placed on the Canadian economy.

Today's events on the financial and economic front are pretty quiet. Each country has continued to enjoy an extended run of prosperity and there is more concern about inflation than recession.

CANADA'S HILLBILLIES

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP)—A tradition of living on relief has given rise to a breed of "all-Canadian hillbillies" in Ontario's tobacco country.

Some 2,000 persons in Norfolk County—one of the 10 poorest counties in the province—live in one- and two-room homes of rotting wood, tarpaper and tin, with debris-filled backyards and children in makeshift clothes playing amid the rubble.

Robert Perry, warden of Norfolk County and a member of its recently formed poverty committee, says: "It now has become tradition with many of these families to stay on relief. It started with the grandfather, was passed along to the father and now it is the son who intends to pass the habit along to his children."

Historically, Norfolk is a poor county. Between 30 and 40 per cent of its non-farm families earn less than $3,000 a year.

Yet Norfolk County is the largest contributor to an industry which nets the province close to $100,000,000 each year. Of the 4,513 tobacco farms in Ontario in 1964, 2,024 were in the county.

During the early years of the industry—the late 1920s, '30s and '40s—thousands of lean-tos, shanties and tents housed the seasonal workers. As automatic processes of the last two decades took over more of the harvesting operations, the Tobacco Road residents of Norfolk County began to disappear.

CONTENT TO STAY

Mr. Perry described those who have stayed on as "the all-Canadian hillbillies." And they show little intention of moving.

Most seem content with monthly welfare and family allowance cheques. Those who will talk freely to strangers give a variety of reasons why they can't work. Most common are weak hearts, back ailments and pregnancies.

But it is only the last that are usually in evidence.

Emily and Russell Gogo have had 14 children in 22 years of marriage. They moved from Brockville, Ont., to find work on the tobacco farms of Norfolk County 12 years ago.

The 10 eldest children are wards of the Children's Aid Society and Mrs. Gogo can't recall when they were taken away from her.

"It doesn't matter much," she said. "I've got my hands full with the four I've got here now. My husband and me, we ain't seen the three oldest for some spell. I guess they just don't want to come home no more."

"Home" for the Gogos is two rooms, a leaky roof, tarpaper-patched walls and peeling paint. It replaces a tin-walled shanty they lived in for the first 11 years in Norfolk County.

he Gogos and some of their neighbors who earn between $1,000 and $2,000 a year on the tobacco farms supplement their income by dealing in scrap, keeping a back-yard junk pile of wrecked motor vehicles and scrap metal.

BREAK LAW

Police and county officials say drink often is to blame for minor law-breaking. They cite cases of fathers spending welfare cheques on beer instead of the week's groceries or shoes for the children. When the county issued coupons for food exchange only, the men often made deals with area grocers to cash them for less than their value.

Most of the hillbillies live on what welfare allows them every week, which is $32 for the Taylor family. Lawrence Taylor and his wife have 18 children, which brings them in another $72 a month in family allowance cheques.

Asked if he ever thought of moving somewhere else—Hamilton, for instance—Taylor replied: "Yup, opportunity's real good in Hamilton — wouldn't mind living there.

"They pay $39 a week for relief. Not like this cheap county. How do they expect to raise kids decently around here for that money?"

But Lawrence, like many of the others, is not really thinking of leaving Norfolk County.

"This is my home, where I lived as a young man, where my children were born, where one of my children died right under that tree," he says.

"It's where my children's children shall live some day too, I hope."

Moscow Night Life

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP) — You won't find any leggy floor shows in Moscow but if your artistic taste leans to more traditional forms, you probably would find the night life here appealing.

Ballet, opera and concert set the tone. They give to artistic life a kind of highbrow flavor that Muscovites like to boast about and that most Westerners like to sample at least occasionally, if only for the snob appeal.

The excellence of the Bolshoi ballet is universally recognized. Its trademark is such thoroughly classical fare as Swan Lake, Romeo and Juliet, Giselle and The Sleeping Beauty.

An evening at the Bolshoi, a gracious and commodious old opera house, is an unforgettable experience.

In opera, a combination of foreign and Russian works is offered—all in Russian. The foreign operas are translated for presentation here.

Among the works in the repertoire of the Bolshoi opera company are Rigoletto, La Traviata, Aida and Carmen. Russian operas include two based on writings of Pushkin, The Queen of Spades and Eugene Onegin, both with music by Tchaikowsky.

HIGHLY RATED

A classic of the Russian opera is Prince Igor, with music by Borodin. The music is similar to that in the Broadway show Kismet.

Other operatic standbys are Boris Godunov by Mussorgsky and War nd Peace, based on Tolstoy's novel.

Western observers rate the Moscow opera as generally excellent.

The city also has two fine symphony orchestras, the Soviet State Orchestra and the Moscow Symphony. A recent guest conductor and performer with the Soviet State was Van Cliburn, the brilliant young American pianist who has earned an ardent following in Moscow.

Theatre fare offers a selection of classical, semi-classical and modern plays.

Popular among established stage works are Chekhov's perennial The Three Sisters and Ivanov. Bertold Brecht plays are faithfully kept alive, including such favorites as Thre Penny Opera and Mother Courage.

Shakespeare's Othello and Lermontov's 19th century Russian drama Masquerade also are staged regularly.

A number of modern Russian plays, second - rate artistically but interesting as an attempt to break away from moral and artistic restraints that have long hamstrung Soviet theatre, are presented.

In addition a growing number of Western productions are being adapted for Soviet theatre and drawing capacity audiences. Among recent examples are the musicals My Fair Lady and West Side Story.

Old standbys in the theatrical-concert realm are the Red Army Chorus and the Moiseev folk dancers. As is the case with the premier Bolshoi ballet company, however, they are frequently out of town or performing abroad.

In the summer, choral and orchestral concerts are presented in certain city parks.

The Westerner living here is often in a privileged position for getting tickets to popular artistic presentations.

The average Russian theatre-or music-lover has to queue up endlessly for tickets, which he may or may not get. On the other hand there is an allotment for foreigners, usually adequate to satisfy the demand. Application must be made ahead of time.

Performances start early, usually at 6:30 p.m. Ticket prices tend to be lower than those for comparable attractions in Canada.

There are two bars in Moscow catering only to persons with convertible currency — meaning, for practical purposes, foreigners. One is at the Metropole Hotel, the other at the National Hotel. Neither has anything resembling a floor show.

Foreigners looking for a leisurely beer often go to the American Club or the British Club, run primarily for embassy personnel of those two countries. Frequently, in both places, English-language movies are shown.

The British Club, affectionately called "The Pub," has been operating in makeshift quarters since last December when fire destroyed the regular home of the club on top of the British Embassy. It will move back again when repairs are completed.

BRITISH SELL ABROAD

In 1964 Britain exported $245 worth of goods per head of population, contrasted with the United States' $147.

Combines Career, Vocation Successfully

Sister Mary Ellen is a small, soft-spoken Roman Catholic nun, who, in her own way, is doing much to shape the characters and future of numerous young girls attending Notre Dame University.

Appointed by her Order, Sisters of Saint Ann, in 1964 as an instructor in the secretarial science department, Sister Mary Ellen said she is making "the young people cognizant of the fact there are ethical standards in the business world."

While bringing "Christ into the marketplace" she noted if she was just a teacher she would be unable to accomplish all she set out to do.

"I should be able to give a well-rounded approach to students, not only to their professional career but also to life."

Backed by this philosophy and a devoted approach to her profession, Sister Mary Ellen has paved a clearer road for her secretarial students.

90% NON-CATHOLICS

"I never tire of teaching," she said, "and I also couldn't care less whether I teach Ctaholic students or girls with other religious beliefs. I'm accustomed to having 90 per cent non-Catholics in my classes."

At first, Sister Mary Ellen observed, students showed a bit of awe when confronted by a nun in their class, "but soon they became familiar with me and were very much at home."

Looking back to her high school days at St. Ann's Academy in Victoria, she reflected on how she always wanted to be a nun and a teacher, which she proceeded to do simultaneously.

Born in Antigonish, Nova Scotia, she moved at an early age with her family to British Columbia and after attending school in several B.C. centres, the family settled in the provincial capital.

She entered the Victoria order following high school graduation, and from there moved south to Seattle University to receive her degree of Bachelor of Commerce. She taught in St. Ann's academies in Kamloops, New Westminster and Nanaimo before receiving her NDU appointment.

Presently, Sister Mary Ellen is working towards her Master's degree with a Master of Business Administration program, which is geared to summer study at Notre Dame University in Notre Dame, Indiana.

Here at Nelson's NDU she is helping to develop good secretaries and bookkeepers to give employers the best potential employees.

"The product of my department is the resource of every business wherever they go," she said in summing up her courses, which speciallze in medical secretaryship.

Her two-year diploma course is available to any person qualified to enter university.

Despite her busy schedule, Sister Mary Ellen finds time to belong to the North-West unit of the Catholic Business Education Association, which holds biennial business institutes to update and professionalize the secretarial career. An institute was held at the University of Toronto during mid-August.

A smile lit her blue eyes when Sister Mary Ellen was asked about the friendly atmosphere in Nelson — "You can't create it, it's already there." She could be here one more year or ten, depending on the next appointment by her Order.

Canadians in Britain Hit by Headaches of Show Business

LONDON (CP) — Show-business headaches hit the Royal Winnipeg Ballet Monday almost as soon as the group arrived here for the Commonwealth arts festival. Its scenery and music went astray.

"It can't be gone far," said general manager Sergei Sawchyn. "It seems to have been delayed between the airport and the theatre."

But the result was that members of the English Chamber Orchestra—which is to accompany the Royal Winnipeg during its four-performance London appearance at the midtown Piccadilly Theatre—sat on their hands for three hours at full pay.

Conductor Carlos Rausch, Argentine-born musical director now in his first season with the Royal Winnipeg, will have to try to make up for the lost time in later rehearsals.

Sawchyn said in an interview the Royal Winnipeg has brought 25 dancers and 10 other personnel for its first invasion of Europe, and he thinks the visit could have important effects on the company's future.

"London has to be acknowledged as one of the leading dance cities in the world, along with New York and Moscow. . . . as goes our reception here, so goes our future in a sense."

If the Canadians can make an impression on the ballet-wise London audiences, their reputations will get a substantial boost.

SLOW IN SALES

With only three days left before the Royal Winnipeg opens, however, box office sales were not exactly booming.

A spokesman for the Piccadilly Theatre said the sales of seats running at about $1.25 and $1.50 were going very well, but demand for the costlier seats was slack.

"Mind you, if the reviews are good Thursday night, we could be sold out easily for the rest of the performances."

Sawchyn said the current visit is the start of a busy year of travelling for the Royal Winnipeg.

About three weeks after it returns from Britain, the company sets out on a 13,000-mile tour of the United States as the first Canadian troupe ever handled by impressario Sol Hurok. And early in the new year there will be a tour through the Caribbean.

"We have no way of knowing what the British audiences will think of us, but we feel they'll find us very typically Canadian. We're doing several works that have been arranged by our official choreographer, Brian Macdonald, a Canadian, and our work is usually regarded as being full of vitality."

The Royal Winnipeg will also appear in Glasgow, Cardiff and Liverpool before returning home.

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

PINK HAS become a year-round color, and no wonder! It is soft, feminine and flattering. Pink whipcord is used in this coat which Hardy Amies does with his superb British tailoring.

The Amies touch is seen in the curving cut from the front and shoulders around to the back, where it adds to the A-line in the skirt fullness. The collar is low-pointed and forms a notch with the shallow revers.

Nurse Decries Mediaeval Apprenticeship System

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Nurses-in-training should be regular students and not have to give their services at hospitals in return for room and board, says the first Canadian president of the International Council of Nurses.

Alice Girard, dean of nursing at the University of Montreal, talked about education of nurses after her return from the council's conference in Frankfurt, West Germany, where she was elected.

"Nursing is the only profession still using the medieval apprenticeship system," she said. "Nurses should be trained in independent schools — post-high school technical schools such as the Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto."

Several independent schools were emerging across the country but except for a smaller number who took degree courses at universities, nurses were usually trained at hospitals.

Nurses would, of course, continue to take part of their training at a hospital but they would not be required to give service there until they completed their nursing education. The result might be to shorten training periods.

QUEBEC CLOSE

"Quebec is getting nearer this system than any other province," Miss Girard said, explaining that the Parent report on Quebec education had recommended nursing education take place in institutes under the education department. Hospital schools are under the department of health.

The Hall report, the result of an inquiry into health services on a national scale, also recommended independent schools. Miss Girard, a member of the Hall royal commission, figures the impact of the two reports will hasten legislation in Quebec.

"It will cost more for a nurse to get her training this way but it is up to the government to provide bursaries and grants if the increased cost results in a shortage of nurses. Society must be provided with the kind of professional people it needs."

"Why does a nurse need all this education when she only has to do what the doctor tells her?" is the attitude of many people who do not realize that the nurse now performs many of the tasks that used to be reserved to doctors alone, Miss Girard said. "The nurse's work is changing and today's nurse must be better prepared."

If better preparation is too expensive, the government must subsidize nurses in the same way it now subsidizes other health personnel.

"We feel the nursing profession hasn't changed enough, but for the public it has changed too much. People would like to have the nurse just as she was 25 years ago but would they want their doctor to stay that way?"

Thirty per cent of Canadian nurses should have university degrees in the profession in order to keep the administrative posts filled, she said, adding that present figures fall far short of that.

Miss Girard, who was director of nursing and assistant administrator at St. Luke's Hospital here for seven years before becoming the first department head at the University of Montreal, is especially well equipped to discuss all phases of professional training.

In addition to taking a course in public health nursing at the University of Toronto, she earned a bachelor of science degree at Catholic University in Washington, a master's in nursing education at Columbia University in New York and studied hospital administration at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore. She got her RN originally at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital in Sherbrooke, Que.

Starting in September, the University of Montreal will offer a master's degree in nursing, Miss Girard said. "I don't know of another such course in French in the world."

During her four years as president of the ICN she will attend functions in many of the 63 member countries.

Purpose of the 800,000-member organization is to maintain high standards of nursing education, service and professional ethics. It is also concerned with the social and economic welfare of nurses.

Headquarters are soon to be moved from London to Geneva, Switzerland.

Hints From Heloise

HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

As a physician, may I suggest that patients who have to take a number of different pills each day, put the entire supply of their daily quota in one empty, capped bottle each morning? Then, if there is a pill left in the bottle at bed time, they will know they have missed counting somewhere . . .

With the fast life people live today, this counting of pills is most important to good health.

After all, what good is a doctor and his prescriptions, if medication is not taken? (Also, it is sometimes dangerous if a patient takes too many, which often happens when they forget.)

Thank you, sincerely, from all of us doctors.

W. Martin, M.D.

Dear Heloise:

I discovered a quick way to prepare navy beans when I want to bake them.

To eliminate soaking the beans overnight, I boil them in three times as much water as beans for two minutes. I remove them from the heat, and soak in the covered pan for at least one hour.

Now, they're ready for baking, using any recipe you choose.

Dear Heloise:

I just discovered a way to "un-rust" a sewing needle.

My darning needle was quite rusty so I pushed it through a dry, soap-filled, steel wool pad with a twirling motion.

It worked for me. Hope it does for someone else.

Dear Heloise:

The wooden heels of shoes often become scarred, and spoil an otherwise well-groomed look.

By wiping these places with a cloth saturated with scratch-removing furniture polish, I got a renewed look to the heels, making the whole shoe look good again.

Mays Collects 500th Homer

San Francisco Giants Stretch Lead to 2½

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Willie Mays hit the 500th homer of his career and Jaun Marichal won his 22nd game of the season and drove in two runs as the National League leading San Francisco Giants defeated Houston Astros 5 - 1 Monday night.

It was the 11th straight victory for the Giants and gave them a 2½-game lead over the idle Los Angeles Dodgers.

Marichal, who was booed by Houston fans, scattered eight hits, tying Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers as the pitcher with the most victories in the major leagues this season.

Mays triggered a four-run, fourth inning outburst, smashing a 3-1 pitch into the centre-field stands. It was his 47th homer of the season and put him in the 500-class with Babe Ruth, Jimmy Fox, Ted Williams and Mal Ott.

PIRATES DOWN REDS

In other National League action, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Cincinnati Reds 8-4, and Philadelphia Phillies edged Milwaukee Braves 4-3.

The only scheduled American League game between Cleveland Indians and Baltimore Orioles was rained out.

Vernon Law, backed by the hitting of Willie Stargell and Gene Alley, survived a four-run Cincinnati first inning for his ninth straight victory.

He allowed six hits in boosting his record to 17-9.

Clay Dalrymple hit a bases-empty homer in the seventh inning to give the Phillies their fifth straight win.

Milwaukee had grabbed the lead twice, in the first inning when Joe Torre drove in Rico Carty with a single, and in the fifth when successive doubles by Ed Matthews and Hank Aaron and Mack Jones' single scored two runs.

BASES WERE EMPTY

Mays' bases - empty homer came off Houston Astro pitcher Don Nottebart in the fourth inning.

Only Ruth with 714, Fox with 534, Williams with 521 and Ott with 511, hit more career homers than the 34-year-old Mays, now in his 14th major league season. Mays is the only active player among the five.

Among the top four only Ott was a full - time National Leaguer. Mays is almost certain to eclipse the former New York Giant right fielder's total early next year, if not before.

Mays appears certain of becoming the most prolific major league home run hitter among right-handed batters. Fox is the leader. Ruth, Williams and Ott batted from the left side.

As a 20-year-old, Mays hit his first big league home run off Warren Spahn of the Boston Braves May 28, 1951. Spahn, 44, now is a teammate of Mays'.

The flashy outfielder spent part of the 1952 and all of 1953 seasons in military service. In 1954, he topped the National League in batting with .345, hit 41 homers and was named the league's most valuable player.

SET A RECORD

On April 30, 1961, Mays becomes only the ninth player in major league history to hit four home runs in one game. No one has done it since.

Meanwhile, it was announced Monday New York Mets will be revamped for 1966.

Former NHLer To Coach Marlboros

TORONTO (CP) — Gus Bodnar, former National Hockey League player, was named Monday to succeed Jim Gregory as coach of Toronto Hockey Association Junior A series.

The 40-year-old native of Fort William, Ont., saw service with Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins of the NHL between 1943 and 1955.

For the last two seasons Bodnar has been coaching a Junior C team at Lindsay, Ont., and previous to that coached St. Catharines of the OHA Junior A series and Brampton and Lakeshore in the Metro Junior B circuit.

While with Toronto he centred the "flying fort" line with Gaye Stewart and Bud Poile, all natives of the Lakehead city. The entire line moved to Chicago in 1947 in a five-for-two trade that brought Max Bentley to Toronto.

Gregory last week was named general manager of the Marlboro hockey organization, a Toronto farm team of the NHL Leafs.

QUEENS TAKE LEAD IN SOFTBALL FINAL TILT

Queens took a 2-1 lead in the best of five Play-for-Fun Softball League finals over the weekend as Don Ball struck out 14 to defeat the RCMP 6-2.

Losing pitcher Ed Malinowski was tagged for 12 hits, but managed 10 strikeouts in going the distance for the RCMP.

Wayne Farenholtz and Syl Benedetti paced the Queens' 12-hit attack with three apiece. Farenholtz also accounted for two of his club's six runs.

Tucker collected a pair of singles for RCMP.

Fourth game of the series is scheduled for Civic Centre grounds tonight.

Alberta's Golden Bears Trample Mustangs 20-3

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Alberta Golden Bears wound up a successful pre-season swing against Ontario football opposition here Monday night with a 20-3 victory over University of Western Ontario Mustangs before 1,500 fans.

The Bears opened their eastern jaunt with a 27-13 win over Royal Military College in Kingston last Saturday. RMC plays in the Ontario conference while the Mustangs are members of the senior intercollegiate conference.

Fumbles and penalties were costly to the Mustangs. They fumbled the ball five times—three times within their own four-yard line—losing them all. They also lost 130 yards through 11 penalties.

Fullback Jim Hale scored the first Alberta touchdown on a 19-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback Willie Algajer after a Western fumble had set the stage. The Mustangs' Dave Oswald dropped a punt on the four-yard line and Val Schneider recovered, but the Bears were assessed 15 yards on the play. On the first play from scrimmage, Algajer hit Hale for the touchdown.

BOBBLES BALL

Another fumble led to the second Alberta touchdown. Quarterback Rich Hawkins bobbled the ball on his three and Steve Egbert recovered for Alberta. Fullback Irwin Strifler barrelled over for the touchdown.

Halfback Larry Bradley took a five-yard pass from Tony Rankel for the third Alberta touchdown.

Hale kicked converts on two of the three Alberta touchdowns. Art Foese booted a 30-yard field goal to account for the Mustangs' points.

Algajer and Rankel shared the Alberta quarterbacking with Algajer completing five of five passes for 56 yards. Rankel hit on nine of 12 for 78 yards. Hawkins completed seven of 14 for the Mustangs for 142 yards but had two intercepted, both by Algajer who doubled at defensive half. Bob Israel quarterbacked most of the first half for Western, trying seven passes and completing four for 39 yards.

The Mustangs held the edge in first downs with 17. Alberta had 14. Western made 112 yards rushing and the Bears 91.

PLOEN OUT OF ACTION

WINNIPEG (CP) — Blue Bomber Coach Bud Grant said x-rays taken Monday of the injured throwing arm of quarterback Kenny Ploen revealed no fractures.

He said the wrist will be kept in a cast for an undetermined period of time.

Grant said Ploen will not play quarterback this Sunday when the Bombers play the Ottawa Roughriders, Eastern Conference leaders, in Winnipeg. He said Ploen would play defensive halfback, an alternative position for him, on Sunday.

Ploen suffered the wrist injury in Saturday night's Western Conference game at Edmonton as the Bombers lost 30-25 to the Eskimos.

Cassius Clay, Patterson Bout Nov. 22

NEW YORK (AP) — A title fight between heavyweight champion Cassius Clay and former champion Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas Nov. 22 probably will be announced here at a press conference Tuesday afternoon.

Harold Conrad, a press agent who has represented Inter-Continental Sports, Inc., said Monday he had called the press conference on behalf of the Louisville group that sponsors Clay.

Conrad said the opponent for Clay, the site and the date will be announced. The opponent, Patterson, and the site, Las Vegas, have been open secrets.

Conrad, apparently representing all the groups involved, said the various parties still held hopes of signing a backup fight between Ernie Terrell, the WBA champion from Chicago, and Canadian champion George Chuvalo of Toronto.

Westminster Salmonbellies Upset Green Gaels 9-6

OSHAWA (CP) — Paced by the stellar netminding of rookie Don Wallis and the scoring of Wayne Goss, New Westminster Salmonbellies came from behind Monday night to defeat Oshawa Green Gaels 9-6 in the opening game of the best-of-seven Canadian junior lacrosse final.

The second game of the Minto Cup series is set for Wednesday with the third and fourth Friday and Saturday.

Wallis, 18, who is a hockey netminder in the winter, turned aside 36 shots in the close-checking game.

Goss, who was injured late in the final period and had to be helped from the floor, scored three times and set up two other goals, including the winner.

Coach Keith Jackson of New Westminster said Goss was belted under the ribs and "I don't know how serious it is. He'll be checked by a doctor tormorrow. He played a fantastic game and I don't know what we'll do if we lose him."

ADD GOALS

Wayne Belwood and Ken Henry each added a pair of goals for the winners with Ranjit Dillon and Terry Boulton getting the others.

Gaylord Powless and Don Stinson each scored a pair of goals for the defending champion Green Gaels. Brian Thompson and John Davis scored the others.

The clubs battled to a 1-1 tie before 2,429 fans in the first period and the Salmonbellies jumped ahead 5-4 in the second and outscored Oshawa 4-2 in the third.

Oshawa took seven of 13 minor penalties and each team was caught once with too many men on the floor.

Wallis was particularly sharp in the first half of the game when the Green Gaels controlled play.

His biggest test came off the sticks of Powless and Davis, Oshawa's top scorers.

"One game doesn't indicate very much," Jackson said. "We were jittery in the first period but the kids came along. Don't forget they scored two goals while we were shorthanded. I'm more than satisfied with our game."

WONDERS AT VICTORY

Jim Bishop, coach and general manager of the Gaels, said: "After tonight's game you wonder how we beat them 4-1 in last year's final.

"The Canadian Lacrosse Association allowed them to strengthen by three players and what it means is that we are playing a British Columbia all-star team.

"This B.C. club will beat any club in Ontario by a lot, but if we can get running I think we can win the cup if we take the next game. Then it won't go more than six.

"We met a club tonight so superior to anything we met all year that it isn't funny."

Argonaut Fan Sits Flagpole

TORONTO (CP)—Some Toronto Argonauts fans may have been cheered Monday when they walked past the midtown intersection of Dupont and Davenport Streets.

The flagpole was vacant even though Argos still have a record of no victories and seven defeats in the Eastern Football Conference.

Last Thursday, Paul Bols, a 27-year-old chiropractic student, climbed to the top of the flagpole vowing he would remain there until Argos won a game.

Monday, he had disappeared.

Tony Mill, general manager of the restaurant which built the flagpole and shelter, said:

"Paul was missing when we opened up this morning."

Meanwhile, the Argos announced that quarterback Bill Van Burkleo has joined the club from the camp of Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League. Van Burkleo also plays flanker and defensive halfback.

EAGLE DAY LOST TO STAMPEDERS FOR 10 DAYS

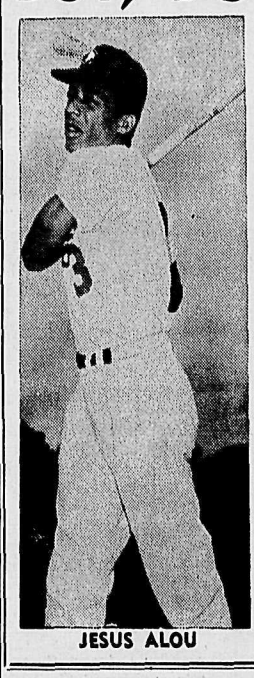
CALGARY (CP) — Eagle Day, first-string quarterback for Calgary Stampeders, will be lost to the Western Football Conference club "for 10 days or more" because of a knee injury, assistant coach Howard Keys said Monday night.

Day, tackled hard during Calgary's 24-10 loss to British Columbia Lions in a game in Vancouver Saturday night, will be replaced by backup quarterback Jerry Keeling for the Stampeders' game with Saskatchewan in Regina next Saturday, Keys said.

Keys said Day stretched a ligament and the quarterback's leg has been put in a cast. "The cast will help him to give the knee rest. He can still walk to keep up muscle tone."

Mays Wallops Homers — Marichal Pitches Well

BUT, DON'T FORGET JESUS ALOU



JESUS ALOU

NEW YORK (AP) — Let's give Jesus Alou some credit for helping put San Francisco Giants in an advantageous position in the National League baseball pennant race.

While Willie Mays has been walloping home runs and Juan Marichal pitching exceptional baseball, Alou has been hitting at a .393 pace during the Giants' current 10-game winning streak prior to Monday night's game.

Since San Francisco started its streak Sept. 4, Jesus has collected 11 hits in 28 times at bat. Meanwhile, Mays has hit at a .310 clip with 13 safeties in 42 tries. The Giants head the NL pack by two games.

Jesus Alou, a .274 batsman as a rookie last year, is in sixth place in the circuit's batting race with a .310 average. Mays is third at .317.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, the leader, slumped 10 points to .336 in last week's games. He collected only three hits in 23 times at bat. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee held second place with a .328 mark, a gain of two points. Aaron had seven hits in 18 tries in last week's action.

Mays, who fell one point, is followed by Billy Williams, Chicago, .313 and Pete Rose, Cincinnati, .312.

Mays slugged three homers and lifted his leading total to 46. Deron Johnson, Cincinnati, boosted his pace-setting runs batted in total to 118.

Meanwhile, Carl Yastrzemski's American League batting lead has been cut in half. The Boston outfielder, who led by 10 points a week ago, now leads by only five. He fell four points to .323 with five hits in 21 attempts while Minnesota's Tony Oliva gained one point to .318 with a 9-for-27 showing.

Brooks Robinson of Baltimore remained in the No. 3 position despite a four point drop to .306.

Fred Whitfield of Cleveland is fourth at .299 followed by Jimmie Hall, Minnesota, .297. The figures include Sunday's games.

HENRY AARON

Nelson Savoys Blank Spokane Spokes 2-0

SPOKANE — Nelson Savoys, still in the throes of a player juggling problem, blanked the Western International Soccer League leaders, Spokane Spokes Sunday 2-0.

Joe Racz scored what proved to be the winning goal in the first half, when he trapped a pass from rookie Bob Jeffs and blazed a shot into the left hand corner past a startled Spokane netminder.

The game proved to be all Racz as he collected his second goal of the game on a pass from Murray Winlaw.

Sunday's win was a must for the Savoys who are currently battling it out with the Rossland Internationals for the fourth playoff spot.

Centred by Ray Jonkers, the Savoys, who dressed five juniors for the game proved more than a match for the experienced Spokes.

The alert forward line was complemented by a tight Savoy defence and the fine goaltending of Eric Tolles.

The Spokes rallied desperately in the dying minutes of the game, but their long shots were easily handled by Tolles.

Several spectators took time out after the game to commend the Savoys for their fine game.

Sunday the Savoys host the Kimberley Canadians, presently in third place, at the Civic Centre Grounds at 2:00 p.m.

AFL Okays Miami Bid

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—American Football League club owners gave formal approval Monday to a 1966 franchise for Miami, Fla.

The owners returned to executive session with further expansion in 1966 or 1967 believed to be a major item on their agenda.

The Miami franchise action amounted to formal ratification of a telephone vote taken in July.

Meeting with the club owners was Joe Robbie, a Minneapolis lawyer who, with comedian Danny Thomas, co - owns the Miami franchise.

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market ran its daily winning streak to eight straight in heavy trading Monday.

Volume rose to 7,040,000 shares from Friday's 6,650,000. It was the second 7,000,000-share day in three sessions, with 7,370,000 shares traded on Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.97 to 920.92, closing a bit below its best level of the day.

A firming in the British pound, accompanied by a tumble of gold prices on the London bullion exchange, accompanied sharp declines in gold mining issues.

Reports of hurricane damage hurt some of the leading rails.

Of 1,386 issues traded, 645 rose and 486 fell.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 0.7 to 339.0.

Thirteen of the 15 most active stocks advanced and two declined.

Fairchild Hiller was the most active stock, rising 1⅜ to 11⅞ on 232,200 shares.

Pan American Sulphur rose ¼ to 20⅞ as second most active issue. Rumors that one or more companies may be trying to acquire the firm were met with silence by the company.

Other heavily traded gainers included Pan American World Airways, up 1⅝, Magnavox, up 2½, Carter Wall, up 1⅛, Fairchild Camera, up 2¼, Anaconda, up 2⅜ and Eastern Airlines, up 2.

A rise in copper futures boosted the shares of producers.

Among Canadian issues traded, McIntyre Porcupine rose 1⅛, Hudson Bay Mining ½ and Aluminium Ltd. ⅜. Dome Mines dropped 1⅝, International Nickel ⅞ and Canadian Pacific ⅝.

MONTREAL (CP)—Most sections declined in active trading Monday on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

In senior oils BA and Imperial each dropped ¼ to 30 and 54 respectively. Texaco rose ¾ to 53¼.

Metals were mixed. In base issues, Falconbridge added 3½ points to 104½ and Hudson Bay Mining dropped ½ to 70½. In the primaries, Aluminium lost ⅝ to 29 and Steel of Canada ⅛ to 29¼.

Machinery issues were uneven. Massey-Ferguson added ¼ to 32 and CAE and Hawker Siddley each fell ⅛ to 12⅝ and 5⅜ respectively.

Food and beverages were lower with Distillers-Seagrams off ⅞ at 40 and Canadian Breweries ⅛ at 8½. Walker Gooderham rose ¼ to 37⅜.

In trade and finance issues, Steinbergs A dropped ½ to 46. IAC rose ¼ to 24 and Simpsons ¼ to 28½.

Among speculative mines, Jubilee Iron climbed 30 cents to $4.20 and Northern Explorations nine cents to $1.40. Mid-epsa dropped 10 cents to $3.60 and Equity Explorations four cents to 81 cents.

TORONTO (CP)—Some late support gave industrials a boost and the index scored its seventh advance in a row on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday.

Trading, however, was slow with a mere 2,461,000 shares changing hands.

Late buying pushed the industrial index ahead .31 to 168.55.

Falconbridge led the way ahead, gaining 3 to 104½. Canada Iron was up 1⅛ to 56 while Canadian Hydrocarbons advanced 1 to 29½ on news that the company had received approval to export liquified petroleum gas to British Columbia from Alberta.

Oshawa Wholesale A advanced ⅞ to 47⅞, following the announcement last week that the company had declared a bonus four cent dividend and proposed a 2-for-1 stock split.

Bank of Montreal and CPR dipped ½ each to 62 and 68¾ and Moore Corp. was off ¾ to 74¼ as key losers.

Speculative mining issues were mostly dull. The only bright spots were Conigo, which climbed 12 to 39 cents, and United Comstock, which advanced 6 to 35 cents in brisk dealings.

On index, golds were off 2.61 to 161.51 and base metals .70 to 80.84. Western oils climbed 1.00 to 99.28 and the TSE index .18 to 158.29.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

Wednesday, September 15, 1965

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Make the most of any good ideas you may have and, if need be, enlist the help of others in putting them across. Favorable planetary influences promise chances for advancement, unexpected benefits.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Even if hours are short and there is much to be accomplished, make time for efficient planning. A good day for revitalizing all interests.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Present trends suggest that you take a clearer look at your aims and methods of attaining them. Study new offerings, carefully. Be objective in judgments.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — A splendid day for making the most of your talents and your innate perceptiveness, but do not scatter energies. Keep your eyes on the main goal, and you can make important strides toward achieving them.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Clever management could be a prime factor in your success now. One victory can start a chain of them going. An excellent period for capitalizing on the Leoite's fine gift of salesmanship — of himself and his wares.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Don't reject suggestions without giving them thorough consideration. You may overlook an idea which could be developed profitably, even though it does not impress you at first.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — In whatever you do or say, emphasize your most charming manner, which can outwit opposition, help psevent friction. News of interest indicated.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — With steady nerves and calm thinking, you will automatically follow the sure path — if you have carefully outlined procedure. A stimulating period; many avenues of worth to follow.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — You have the inside track in a number of ways — if you will just recognize opportunities when available and handle them in your usual clever and judicious manner.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Don't worry about past setbacks. Think about new ways to get ahead — and there are many! Apathy will get you nowhere, but optimism will!

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — A good period for revitalizing all projects, for capitalizing on unusual ideas and re-vamping outdated methods. Many hidden benefits awaiting you.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Mixed influences. You may have to plan strategies well if you are to keep things on an even keel. But this you can do! Forward — with confidence!

YOU BORN TODAY are keen-minded, extremely able in emergencies; have strong will power and enormous reserve energy. You have a magnetic personality, great versatility and, perhaps, a fair for mechanics. You Virgo folks can be numbered among the world's best writers, scientists, politicians and diplomats. You are extremely trutworthy and can keep secrets better than those born under any other sign of the zodiac; could thus excel in any field involving work of a confidential nature.

'Nothing So Drear As Pub With No Beer'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pub crawlers throughout British Columbia are discovering with rue the truth of the old song's refrain:

"There's nothing so drear as a pub with no beer."

Beer drinkers, faced with a brewery workers' strike heading into its fourth week, and no end in sight, have been able to scrounge a little here and there.

But the beer parlors, with a handful of exceptions throughout the province, have closed their doors.

Beer lovers have found that their hunt for the foamy beverage is not without its hazards.

On Friday night, police at three border points seized "a large volume" of beer, backing their promise to crack down on beer smuggling from Washington state.

Other beer drinkers have greedily bought up the limited imported stacks. Many have found that brewing is a highly nationalistic art, and Belgian or Norwegian beer may not sit too comfortably in a stomach attuned to the Canadian product.

BUY IN B.C.

Even the beer brewed in Prince George—one of the last two B.C. cities with a functioning brewery—is not considered too palatable on the coast, although it sells briskly whenever a shipment reaches Vancouver.

Only one of Prince George's 11 beer parlors was expected to be operating this week, since most obtain their draught beer from the struck coast breweries.

The strike issue is fundamental: The brewery workers want more money than the companies are prepared to pay.

The basic rate is $2.50 an hour. The union wants a 10-percent increase, which it says will give it parity with eastern brewery workers.

The companies have said they aren't prepared to talk about the matter as it stands, because the union demand is out of the question.

The union is the International Union of United Brewery, Cereal, Flour, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CLC), which earlier this year demonstrated its strength in the crippling 72-day grain handlers strike.

DISLIKE TERMS

It stayed eyeball to eyeball with the grain companies through weeks of mounting pressure until the strike was settled on terms the companies obviously and loudly disliked.

The breweries—Lucky Lager, Molson's, Carling's, O'Keefe's and Pacific Brewers Warehousing Ltd.—say they do not plan to back down before their 530 striking employees.

Their chief spokesman, lawyer Paul Paine, and several top executives are out of town.

The union has said it will talk any time the companies want to start negotiations but it, too, has no plans to back down.

A meeting Friday night of beverage dispensers — 2000 of them are out of work because the beer parlors are shut—gave strength to the brewery workers' union's position, with a unanimous vote of support.

FOR LOSS INCREASES — Value of timber lost in forest fires during 1964 rose to $15,000,000 from $3,796,000 the previous year. Graph traces the yearly loss since 1953. The worst year ever was 1961 when $66,360,000 in timber went up in smoke. — (CP Newsmap)
