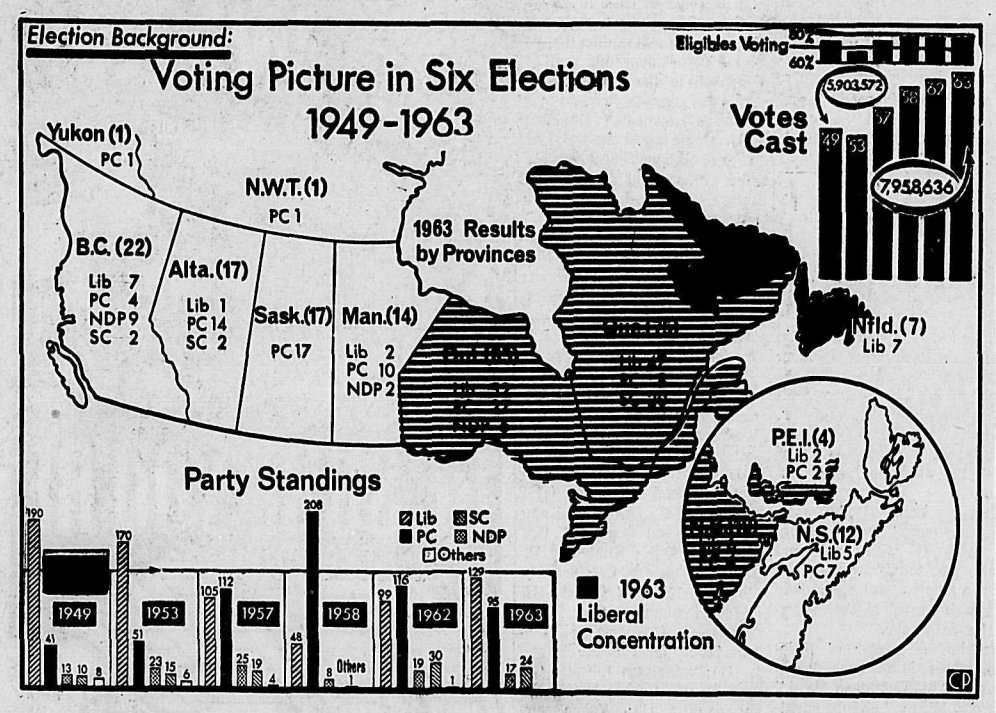
Vol. 64 — NELSON, B.C., CANADA—TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 2, 1965 — 10 Cents — No. 164



THE WAY CANADA VOTED—Three of the six federal elections since 1949 have resulted in minority governments. The first was in 1957 when the Progressive Conservatives ended 20 years of Liberal government. The following year the PCs swept into office with 208 seats, the greatest number ever, but the 1962 result again gave a minority PC government. The 1963 election returned a Liberal minority.

The 1963 results by provinces show Liberal power concentrated in the East, with the Progressive Conservatives winning most in the West. Nine of the 17 New Democratic Party seats (CCF prior to the 1962 election) came from British Columbia. Quebec produced 20 of the 24 Social Credit seats but by dissolution of Parliament in September, 13 Quebec Social Crediters had broken away to form Le Ralliement des Creditistes and two others had become PCs.

The percentage of eligibles voting has remained at 79 the last three elections although the number of votes cast has grown each election since 1953. (CP Newsmap).

PLENTY OF PROMISES IN EACH PARTY BAG

Party Leaders Winding It Up

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, seeking votes in Liberal territory, said Monday there is fear in Prime Minister Pearson's heart.

Mr. Diefenbaker said this became evident when Mr. Pearson said he wants a parliamentary majority. He said it was further revealed when Mr. Pearson said another minority government would inevtiably lead to another election.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke to 450 persons in a Brantford Hall. Sharing the platform with him were the Conservative candidates in Brantford riding and in neighboring Brand - Haldimand.

Both were held in the last Parliament by Liberals.

The crowd filled all available seats in the small hall and many stood along the walls and at the back. Mr. Diefenbaker is making his final swing through southwestern Ontario in the federal election campaign.

With his talk of another election, Mr. Diefenbaker said panic has struck the "heart and soul" and the prime minister has set out to scare the people of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker invited Liberals and New Democrats to vote for the Progressive Conservatives. He said if they stayed with their parties they had no chance of getting the $25-a-month increase in old age pensions promised by the Conservatives.

Coup Fails In Iraq

There was no confirmation of the report from the Iraqi Embassy here.

Canadian and British aircraft and a British survey ship searched off Northern Ireland for five Norwegian sailors lost overboard in mountainous seas.

The sailors were flung off the deck of the frigate Bergen by 60-mile-an-hour winds Monday morning as the ship was making for Londonderry with its sister ship Stavanger and the submarine Kinn.

In Belfast, the 34,000-ton liner Caronia was torn from her moorings and swept across the channel, where she damaged gangways and wharves.

In northern England, nine-inch cables mooring an oil rig snapped and the rig careened down the River Tees, tore down power cables and smashed into an oil tanker.

TOWERS COLLAPSE

Ten persons were injured in London when sheets of roofing iron were blown onto persons waiting for a bus.

Cross - channel ferries between France and England had to plow through high seas, but no cancellations were reported.

On the English southern coast, heavy seas broke over the Dover sea wall, delaying European railway expresses, and a fishing vessel with 15 men aboard was blown ashore, narrowly missing the pier at the seaside resort of Bournemouth.

Martial Law Declared in Central Java

SINGAPORE (AP) — President Sukarno of Indonesia has proclaimed martial law in central Java, Jakarta Radio said Monday.

The radio said Sukarno signed an order that in effect confirms an army directive of last week setting up a form of martial law in the area, where Communists are strong.

The broadcast said Sukarno asserted he was compelled to declare the area in a state of war because of the situation. He also proclaimed martial law in the greater Jakarta area, the radio added.

Jakarta Radio said Sukarno declared he had taken the action because of the "grave danger" arising from the pro-Communist coup attempt Oct. 1.

Klansman Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Ku Klux Klansmen — two of them described as demolition instructors for the white - supremacist Klan — were questioned Monday about charges of running a "disorderly house" in a klavern and being members of a secret group called Nacirema.

Nacirema, U.S. House of Representatives investigator Philip Manuel explained, is "American spelled backwards" and is made up principally of Klansmen and former Klansmen who want "more violent action."

Concerted Effort Advised In Selling Produce Abroad

ROSENEATH, Ont. (CP)—George Hees, Canada's former trade minister, said Monday night that the Eastern Canada farmer needs a concerted effort to sell farm produce abroad.

In a campaign speech for the Nov. 8 federal election, Mr. Hees outlined to the Ontario Farm Union his party's platform on agriculture.

"Everyone in Canada has been impressed by the result of our wheat sales abroad—sales which were begun when my party was in power," said Mr. Hees, Progressive Conservative candidate in Northumberland riding.

"The effect of these sales has been a very great stimulus to the entire Canadian economy . . . the western farmer is selling all he can grow. He is prosperous. He is helping to make Canada more prosperous.

"The same must and can be done for the eastern farmers. What the eastern farmer needs is a great agricultural trade crusade similar to the industrial trade crusade which I launched in 1960 when minister of trade and commerce . . .

"We can open up new markets for fruits and vegetables, dairy and poultry products, tobacco, beef and pork."

HOTELMEN SAY PROFITS NOT HIGH ENOUGH

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of the B.C. Hotels Association says profits are not keeping pace with increased labor costs in the hotel industry.

Stan Guile was replying to a statement by Attorney-General Bonner that hotels are making enough profit at present beer prices.

Mr. Bonner said last week a Liquor Control Board survey showed in recent years no hotel had been sold at a loss. He said he is opposed to any increase in the price of beer.

Mr. Guile said there would be something wrong with the economy of the province if hotels did not sell for more than was paid for them. The replacement costs of everything was higher today than in the past.

Only "Time Purchased"

Key Issues Stalling Rhodesia Solution

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson says the door to an acceptable Rhodesian solution is wide open but he and Rhodesia's Prime Minister Ian Smith still are split on a number of key issues. The lunacy of rebellion has been averted, he said, but the threat still is there.

Reporting Monday to a packed House of Commons where Opposition Conservative Leader Edward Heath wished him "every success," Wilson read a long, detailed account of his critical talks in Salisbury which led to joint agreement on a three-man royal commission to try to settle the question of Britain's granting independence to Rhodesia.

However, he said Smith still has not agreed on an acceptable method for safeguarding the constitutional rights of the 4,000,000 non-white majority in the Central African colony and there still is no agreement on how the non-whites are to be consulted "as a whole," to see whether they would agree to an amended constitution leading to independence.

Wilson's report in fact left so many questions unanswered that a Commonwealth official said later the Labor prime minister merely had "purchased time" in Salisbury and that there had been no real meeting of minds between Wilson and Smith.

Several African Commonwealth leaders have openly accused Wilson of conniving with Smieth to perpetuate minority white rule in Rhodesia but Wilson maintained he has not retreated from principles enunciated by the Commonwealth. He said he has not surrendered ritain's position of trust for all Rhodesian people.

WOULD NOT AREE

In his report to the Commons, Wilson said he would not agree to granting independence until he was assured that the principles leading towards majority rule would be imbedded in letter and spirit so that they could endure. The ultimate power over the future of Rhodesia still was in the hands of the British Parliament.

UN Advises Britain Use Force If Needed

UNITED NATIONS (CP) Spearheaded by African and Asian countries, the trusteeship committee of the UN General Assembly passed a draft resolution Monday night calling on Britain "to use military force" if necessary to prevent Rhodesia from seizing independence.

By a 79-to-8 vote, with 17 abstentions, the 117 - country committee approved the resolution after a three-day debate, despite Britain's view it is untimely and contains a number of sections Britain cannot accept.

Supporting Britain's stand, Canada told the committee it is unable to support the resolution because "it will not serve a constructive purpose."

Britain did not participate in the voting. Joining Canada in voting against the resolution were the Netherlands, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Belgium, Portugal and South Africa.

The resolution now goes before the General Assembly.

Retail Sales Up Seven Percent As Economy Continues Buoyant

OTTAWA (CP) — Continued buoyancy in the economy, at least in the near future, was indicated in reports Monday by the bureau of statistics.

They said:

—Retail sales, which were up 5.4 per cent in the first half of this year over last, climbed seven per cent above year-earlier figures in August.

—Credit outstanding in nine lines of consumer and commercial financing at the end of July amounted to $6,181,000,000, up 18 per cent from a year earlier.

These indicated the consumer —the most important factor in overall economic activity — is spending more and is willing to commit himself to pay sometime in the future for even heavier expenditures, mainly on durable goods.

Retail sales are generally regarded as a barometer of business activity in consumer goods running in step with the general level of the economy. Credit statistics indicate the mood of the consumer—his confidence in the future and willingness to take on additional spending commitments.

SALES INCREASE

Retail sales in August were estimated at $1,732,131,000 compared with $1,618,422,000 in August last year. This brought cumulative sales for this year to $13,708,955,000, compared with $12,922,058,000 in the first eight months of last year.

Sales in the first half of this year were up 5.4 per cent from first-half 1964 at $10,119,422,000. Then they jumped nine per cent higher in July and were seven per cent higher in August.

Features of August sales were increases of 18.2 per cent in motor vehicles, 16.7 per cent in lumber and building materials, and 13.6 per cent in jewelery — indicating consumer readiness to make major investments.

If consumers are fearful of the future they tend to cut back their spending on durable goods and keep money on hand for food and clothing essentials.

The July credit statistics also indicated buyer confidence. There were major increases in credit balances at the month-end for instalment credit, fully-secured chartered bank loans, and department store accounts.

The $6,181,000,000 in credit balances at the end of July represents only part of total credit outstanding. Statistics are gathered only every three months on oil company credit card balances outstanding and the full range of retail dealers' charge accounts. Amounts owing to credit unions and caisses populaires are reported only once a year.

BALLOT BOXES READY FOR ELECTION

Ballot boxes stand ready for November 8 vote at office of returning officer, R. B. Walkley. Some 64 votes were cast at advance polls Saturday and Monday, with 38 recorded on the former and 26 on the latter day. Boxes could not be sealed until after the advance polls, ballots of which will be counted in the afternoon of November 8 at the Nelson Chamber of Commerce building, 501 Front Street. Caught in the sea of voting receptacles in background is pretty Miss Luella Evdokimo.

Council Launches Annual Safety Merit Award

To further its cause against industrial accidents and generally promote safety on the commercial front, the Nelson Safety Council will instigate a special safety merit award to be presented annually to worthy firms.

It was reported by Selkirk Health Unit that they would act as industrial safety inspectors for the city.

The decision was approved at the regular meeting of the council Monday afternoon. A motion in favor of safety stickers was filed for further study.

Another safety measure, the painting of diagonal lines across thoroughfares in front of Hume and Central Schools, did not meet the approval of the Department of Highways. It was the department's feeling that such road designations gave children a false sense of security.

Fire Chief Elwyn Owens reported that school safety programs had been "stepped up", and extra safety contests initiated. He also made the observation that the biggest traffic hazard were "elderly people", and warned motorists to be extra careful of strolling senior citizens.

Strachan Honored

Over 100 fellow workers and friends gathered at the Eagles Hall to enjoy a banquet and dance honoring James Strachan on his retirement from the service of the provincial government, department of highways, after 37 years.

Keith Langhorn, an employee of the department and member of the Nelson Pipe Band, piped him to the head table. Don Martin regional engineer, gave a resume of his service as bridge foreman, and letters and telegrams were read from H. T. Miard, deputy minister and former district and regional official, who had worked with him while in Nelson, wishing Mr. Strachan many years of health and happiness on his retirement.

Miss Brenda Martin, daughter of the regional engineer, presented Mrs. Strachan with a bouquet of carnations and Ray White, district engineer, presented Jim with gifts from the employees of the department. Brenda, accompanied by Keith Langhorn, entertained the gathering with a Scottish Sword Dance.

Scottish airs were also enjoyed and were followed by dancing.

Opera, La Boheme Coming to Nelson

The poignant story of the two lovers Mimi and Rodolfo is brought to life under the direction of Herbert von Karajan, conductor with Franco Zeffirelli as stage director and set designer. The singing cast includes Gianni Raimondi, Mirella Freni, Adriana Martino, Rolando Panerai, Gianni Maffeo, Ivo Vinco, Carlo Badioli and Franco Ricciardi.

The story is of the turbulent love of Mimi and Rodolfo and of the even more tempestuous love affair of Musetta and Marcello, all dwellers of the Latin Quarter in Paris a century ago. Mimi lives in a room in the top of a rooming house where Rodolfo, a poet, Marcello, a painter, Colline, a philosopher and Schaunard, a musician, all of whom the world has yet to discover.

They live in poverty, but when a small windfall comes to one, all celebrate with food and drink, for tomorrow they go back to empty stomachs in their cold drab rooms, as they struggle for arts sake.

Puccini, a master of melodies, gives Mimi such lovely arias as "Mi Chiamano Mimi," "Rofolfo M'Ama" and the haunting "Addio" and Rodolfo, "Che Gelida Manina" as well as the delightful love duets. Musetta's coquettish "Quando m'em Vo" is another aria dear to the hearts of opera-goers. It is an opera for the people easily followed after reading the libretto.

Approves Plan

Nelson school district superintendent Charles Cuthbert feels that the recent decision of the School Boad of Dirstrict No. 7 to approve recreation commission use of school facilities is a step in the right direction.

Mr. Cuthbert says he has always been a proponent of skills being taught in the schools with community sponsored recreation programs giving the outlet for practise of the skills and talents learned during school hours.

"Carried to the ultimate, this would perhaps almost eliminate high school teams, bands, and other organizations," he said Wednesday. "I feel that instrumental music should be taught in the schools with actual playing in some organization being done on a community basis."

He feels that this would provide children who had withdrawn from school an opportunity to mingle with their peers in activities relating to sport, music or other areas of recreation.

He feels that some talented citizens or teachers would take over leadership of the recreation groups which are active in school facilities, as community recreation leaders.

Donated to NDU

A microscope to be used by biology students has been donated to Notre Dame University's biology department by a Nelson physician.

Dr. N. E. Morrison donated the microscope. Professor T. S. Bakshi, head of the Department of Biological Sciences said, "the gift will greatly assist us in laboratory study."

Things Keep Cropping Up At Nelson City Council

Things keep cropping up at City council meetings that aren't listed in the regular agenda, and sometimes they become bigger issues than official discussion items.

"There are a dozen things coming up at every council meeting," Ald. M. B. Ryalls complained, adding one more unitemized piece of discussion himself. "We have an agenda," he continued, "we shouldn't consider anything else."

He found full support from Mayor E .T. Bodard, who agreed the extra verbal burden was "hard on aldermen," and that all business should be duly recorded on council agenda. He was not against "putting things in' 'as long as they were important and pertinent to agenda items.

Such extraneous business should be tabled for the next meeting, commented Ald. Edith Van Maarion, although she went along with the idea that only pieces of business of an "emergency" nature should be heard apart from regular agenda items. Ald. Kennedy Facchina made a motion that only those items considered important be discussed and the rest referred to the next meeting.

City administrator, C. W. R. Harper ,observed that everyone submitting business to council after the agenda deadline date of Friday noon considered it "important." Things were "getting slack" at each meeting, admonished Ald. Ryalls. It would have been a lot worse, interjected Mayor Bodard, if a special meeting had not been held previous to regular council to deal with added items. There was nothing to prevent members, he added, from "singling out" pieces of business pertinent to their causes for presentation at the regular meeting.

"We put ourselves in jeopardy," warned Mayor Bodard, by considering other matters from various city departments not on the agenda, and leaving outside business not so recorded for the next meeting.

The motion on the floor by Ald. Facchina, said Ald. D. F. Porteous, should only apply to future meetings, and suggested an amendment to the motion. There was such a motion already "on the books," reminded Ald. Ryalls. The only way to handle the current situation was by putting another motion on the books, counselled Mayor Bodard. He suggested the motion be changed to refer all council matters to himself for study and inclusion in the regular agenda should they be deemed important enough.

This was "asking for more work," cautioned Ald. Hans Farenholtz. On the contrary, Mayor Bodard replied ,the system would lessen the paperwork for the city administrator.

As per the amended motion, all future business which arrives too late for agenda inclusion, will be referred to the mayor for perusal.

CADY'S CAMPAIGN CORNER

A GOVERNMENT MEMBER IN KOOTENAY WEST

The results of the election on November 8th will not be known until after the ballots are counted. All indications are that the Liberal Party will form the next government. One thing is certain however, the N.D.P. will not be in power in Ottawa.

This brings me to a question asked by a good Kootenaian the other day. He asked "what benefits would come to our district through a government member "

I feel there is bound to be a more sympathetic ear in the Liberal Cabinet to requests I might make for our district. I'm not suggesting that only the government members are heard or produce for their ridings but when it comes to straight local requests as opposed to National needs, the government supporters are bound to have greater effect.

For example, I feel a thorough study of transportation to and from the West Kootenay should be undertaken. With the discontinuance of the rail passenger service, we are practically isolated in the winter months. I have already taken this up with the Minister of Transportation and I feel sure that as your member, I can succeed in having a study made to establish an all weather airport to serve this area.

This is just an example of what I am sure I can do for us in West Kootenay, if elected to parliament.

First Boys Arrive at Youth Centre Tonight

CHATTING AT OFFICIAL OPENING

NEW DENVER YOUTH CENTRE

PORTION OF CROWD AT OPENING

First contingent of boys who will take up residence at the former New Denver dormitory will arrive tonight, with eight boys expected to be accommodated in what is now known as the New Denver Youth Centre. The full complement in an estimated two years' time will be 36 boys. They will be housed in four cottages of nine boys each under the care of cottage parents. Presently, there are six child care staff members, and one teacher as well as the maintenance staff and the director, Jack Scott, and co-director Sam Parker.

The centre has its own classroom. The dormitory has been completely renovated, having been in disuse for seven years.

Mr. Scott, from Vancouver, is a social worker specializing in problems of teenage boys. Mr. Parker is from Nanaimo where he has had many years' experience with teenage boys also.

School teacher will be John Norris, a native of Silverton, and child care staff includes Mr. and Mrs. Terry Bailey of Fruitvale, Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland of Penticton and Mr. and Mrs. Hayden of Burnaby. Cook is Mrs. Chie Kamagaya and she will be assisted by Mrs. Randi Anderson as assistant cook. Maintenance is being carried out by Bill Mole, Bill Henderson, Al Roberts, Les Clarke and Bill Rowe.

Members of the communities of New Denver and Silverton were introduced to the staff and given an idea of the work to be undertaken at the centre when a social evening was held recently and a film shown.

This is a new venture in the field of rehabilitation for teenagers and is a new approach to an old problem. The staff is specially trained.

Approve Playground Equipment for Kaslo

KASLO — The Kinsmen Club of Kaslo submitted a proposal to council for the installation of some very fine playground equipment, which was heartily approved by the members.

The Kaslo Recreation Commission, no longer active, donated approximately $590 to the Kinsmen to assist in their efforts. The equipment will include swings, sandbox, teeter-totters and a climb-about. The best possible sites and required space were considered and plans are being laid for the strategic placing of said equipment. It was felt that this is a very worthy project which will be of great benefit.

Mr. R. Hewat, Chairman of the Kaslo Centennial Committee, reported that a public meeting had been held where organizations and residents had an opportunity to bring forth suggestions for projects. The various suggestions were then placed before Council for consideration. Further study is required before a project is tentatively approved by Council and further announcements will be made in regard to the 1967 Centennial Project as soon as possible. A grant of $200 was made to the Committee for immediate expenditures.

Building permits were issued to Mr. Higashi for the erection of a carport and to the Kaslo Credit Union for the renovation of a building, to be used as an office.

The Financial Statement for September, showing an expenditure of $7,450.17, was approved and current disbursements amounting to $3,212.03 were approved for payment.

The Kinsmen Club is actively engaged at the present time in planning a proper playground for the park. The chairman of the committee, investigating the possibilities of the playground, Mr. H. Welter, states that the Kaslo Recreation Association and the Kinettes have pledged their support and there is little doubt that the park will be a reality by next summer.

Six Kinsmen members and four Kinettes attended the Nakusp Zone Convetion this weekend, and were enthusiastic on their return with the results of the meetings held. The conventions are held to outline Kinsmen policy for the clubs in the area and as usual stressed "Service to the Community" as the prime purpose of Kinsmen and Kinettes.

Klondyke night appears to have been a success. The joint venture between Kaslo Legion and the Kinsmen Club in holding Klondyke night was very well supported by Kaslo residents. The figures have not all been tallied but there is little doubt that they will prove that the event is well worth repeating on an annual basis. The local residents dressed up and participated in the event and really enjoyed the "Spirit of '98."

Some of the Kinettes attended the Zone Convention over the weekend at Nakusp.

Club Working On Ski Hill

GRAND FORKS — The past two Sundays have seen members of The Phoenix Alpine Ski Club working busily to complete the parking lot and walls and ceiling of the lodge of the ski slope. The outside is to be completed this Sunday and the help of anyone interested would be appreciated. The work party is to begin at 2:00 o'clock.

Work is to be started soon on another hill, with plans to run it at right angles to the present one.

Forks Donations Disappointing

GRAND FORKS — Donations of candy and other treats by Grand Forks residents for the children's Hallowe'en party held Saturday evening in Donaldson's Park, were disappointing to the Kiwanis club.

In an effort to keep the children off the streets, the Kiwanis club had put a lot of work and expense into the party to make it as attractive as possible to the children and adults who accompanied them.

Householders were asked to contribute candy, nuts, or small cash donations for the purchase of items that were distributed to the children at the party.

Forks Teachers Talking Wages

GRAND FORKS—A new wage schedule is being negotiated by the Board of School Trustees and the teachers of School District No. 12.

The Board has countered the teachers demand for a 9 per cent increase over previous years with their offer of a 3 per cent increase. If negotiations fail to bring about a settlement as to the terms of the new agreement, the matter will probably go to arbitration.

Although the 9 per cent increase demand is fairly general in other areas, the requests are being met with firmer opposition from School Boards than in other years.

Many Area Doukhobors Attend Annual Service

BRILLIANT — Many Doukhobors from the Kootenay and Grand Forks areas assembled at the Verigin tomb for the annual commemoration services Friday for Peter Lordly Verigin, their former spriitual leader.

Thirty-seven years of Doukhobor history, from 1887 to 1924, were recalled by speakers that addressed a crowd of about 250.

Mr. Verigin was proclaimed spiritual leader of the Doukhobors following the death of Lukeria W. Kalmakova in December, 1886.

It was in Russia in 1895, where through his persuasion and counselling that the Doukhobors burned all available arms to reaffirm their pacifism. For this act they suffered persecution and many were exiled to Siberia. With the help of Leo Tolstoy, Russian philosopher and author, and the Quakers, the sect found a haven in Canada in 1899. Mr. Verigin meanwhile, was in prison where he served 16 years, before he joined his people in 1902.

Settling in Saskatchewan, they broke the prairie wilderness and established a communal co-operative way of life. Starting in 1906 the government began a process of confiscation of their lands when they refused to swear the oath of allegiance. It was Peter Verigin's counselling to his people to abide by Christ's injunction not to swear oaths that brought the community's loss of land in that province.

Although he envisioned a model Christian community in 1896, it was not until 1908 that the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood started to develop into a flourishing and prospering community in British Columbia under the banner of "Toil and Peaceful Life."

In 1924, a CPR passenger coach was bombed near Farron, B.C., killing Lordly Verigin along with eight other passengers. He was 66 years old. The bombing attack was never solved.

He also left a personal contribution to the Doukhobor culture in the form of writings, songs and psalms that the people treasure.

Hospital Board Gets Rev. Holt

CRESTON — Rev. D. Holt has been named a member of the Creston Valley Hospital Board.

Mr. Holt fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Ruth Pawluk, who has moved from the district.

Hospital Board Revises Bylaws

CASTLEGAR — At the Castlegar and District Hospital Board meeting October 28, the main business of the evening was taken up with a revision of the bylaws based on the model published by the B.C. Health Insurance Society which should be completed by the hospital society election of March, 1966.

The meeting discussed the plans of the major extension for the Castlegar and District Hospital which will start in the middle of next year and also a smaller addition of ten beds which will be completed in about six months. Mr. McCutcheon, chairman of the board, said that there is an urgent need for a clerk of works to start immediately on these extensions.

More parking space is needed in the hospital grounds and a large concrete retaining wall will be built on Fifth Avenue.

The small number of society members has initiated a drive to encourage citizens to take a willing and genuine interest in this society. Application forms have been placed in four stores in Castlegar and Kinnaird and Mr. McCutcheon is to talk at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Nov. 10 on the need in the growing town for a keener interest in such organizations.

This Is Politics

At the height of the 1962 election campaign then Premier John Diefenbaker was hit by one of the most lethal political bludgeons of recent political history.

At that time there was an apparent trend away from the Conservative government that had shot into power with the greatest majority in Canadian political history.

The campaign had reached a critical stage, and it appeared that the election could go either way . . . with the right impetus, the Conservatives could have returned to office with a majority government.

An impetus appeared upon the political horizon, but not, however, to provide a lift for the Conservatives. For it was at this critical point that the Scourge of John Diefenbaker, the infamous Diefenbuck, swept the Canadian political horizon.

Canada's trade deficit with the United States had reached alarming proportions, and the Diefenbaker Government, in spite of the political implications involved at such a time . . . decided to forego politics and act to the best advantage of the Canadian people, and devalued the Canadian dollar, pegging it at 92.5 cents in U.S. funds.

Lester Pearson's Liberal Party was quick to utilize the political value of this dollar devaluation to the fullest.

The Canadian people were filled with stories of the inability of the Conservative Government to cope with complex government financing.

This Liberal hogwash was swallowed holus-bolus by the voting public, and when the election dust screen had cleared, Mr. Diefenbaker had been extremely lucky to retain the government even with a vastly reduced majority.

Immediately after the election, however, the fuss and furor raised by the Liberals over dollar devaluation became conspicuous by its absence. Criticism, and the Diefenbuck, both disappeared abruptly.

The election of the Liberal Government in 1963 did not see any change in the dollar devaluation policy.

Why this sudden change of heart by the Liberals . . . if there actually was any change?

By devaluing the Canadian dollar, Mr. Diefenbaker, in effect, gave the Americans a ten per cent discount on every item they purchased in Canada, and the Americans are no different than the average housewife.

U.S. dollars began to flow into Canadian coffers, and today there exists an extremely favorable trade balance between the U.S. and Canada. This can be attributed directly to the Diefenbaker dollar devaluation of 1962.

So successful was this move that neither Mr. Pearson nor his Liberal party, have dared to change this policy and up the Canadian dollar to parity with that of the United States.

Mr. Diefenbaker has had the last word, though. In Toronto last week, referring to the Diefenbuck, he quipped: "Those are worth $4 apiece now."

Mr. Pearson has made no comment.

Redundancy on Bay Street

The first reactions from Bay Street to the Kelly Commission's Windfall report were reported to be "quiet," "taking it in stride," "unsurprised." But there was a good deal of resentment at the idea (openly expressed by Attorney-General Wishart) that Judge Kelly had absolved the Ontario Securities Commission from all responsibility. The Toronto Stock Exchange felt that it had done its duty until the OSC intervened, and it backed up its contention in a detailed statement late Friday.

These feelings are understandable. But we are sorry to see the TSE back again on the old defensive line — claiming that it did its best — when the results were so shameful.

What Bay Street and all the other financial centres should be worrying about is how to achieve the drastic reforms demanded by the Kelly report. We very much doubt if they will "take in stride" his firm insistence that the functions of broker and dealer must be separated.

Aside from the expected identification of persons whom the judge believed to have committed criminal offences, the bitterest sting in the report is its attack on brokerage firms trading for themselves. Judge Kelly was shocked to find that 30 per cent of all the Windfall shares traded during the month of the bubble were on behalf of the brokerage community itself.

He explains clearly and cogently the conflict of interest which arises when a broker is handling commission orders for his clients at the same time as he is trading for himself or his firm. The only complete answer to the dilemma, he says, is to stop brokers from dealing in shares at all, and to forbid dealers to act as brokers. Presumably he has in mind the London system of dividing brokers and "jobbers."

Such a division of function would hit most of the member firms of Canadian exchanges very hard. Many of them say they cannot make enough on brokerage commissions alone to stay in business. Judge Kelly replies that their trading profits are, in essence, as much of a charge on the investing public as higher commissions would be — with the added crippling disadvantage of conflicts of interest.

He is prepared to give the exchanges a little time to find the best way of making the change. But he does not swerve from his conviction that it has to be made.

A Crisis of Gall

President Johnson's well-documented gall bladder operation has caused some correspondents to recall that it was a gall bladder operation that led to the ill health given as the reason for British Prime Minister Anthony Eden's resignation in January, 1957.

Eden's gall bladder was removed in April, 1953. Subsequent complications required that he have another operation, this time in Boston. Recurring attacks of fever and persistent jaundice led to a third operation, also in Boston, in 1957.

Mr. Eden thus had a respectable explanation for his decision that year to resign his seat in the House of Commons, the leadership of the Conservative Party and the prime ministership.

But possibly much more compelling was his political ill health at the time. It had just been shattered by the ignominious reversal of the Suez campaign. It can be said to have been brought on by the military gall of Britain and France.

Mr. Johnson's doctors foresee no medical complications. But no sensible man ever dares try to chart the possibility of political complications.—Oregonian.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nov. 2, 1965 . . .

The Balfour Declaration, on which the legal side of the modern Zionist movement was based, was made 48 years ago today—in 1917—in a letter from the British foreign secretary to Lord Rothschild. In 1922, the declaration was included in the preamble to the League of Nations mandate for Britain to rule Palestine. Not until 1942 did the Zionist movement demand a national state rather than "a national home" in Palestine, which demand the United Nations tried to meet five years later in its partition proposal. The issue was settled by force of arms after the British withdrawal.

1483—Richard III of England executed the Duke of Buckingham for rebellion.

1963—Ngo Dinh Diem and Ngo Dinh Nhu of South Viet Nam were murdered.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—Bulgarian forces occupied Izvor in Serbia; Russia cautioned Persia against joining the Central Powers; Sir Edward Carson criticized British policy in the Balkans.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—casualties in the Battle of Britain were announced as 2,433 German aircraft (an over - estimate by about 50 per cent) shot down for 891 RAF machines destroyed and 353 pilots killed; fierce air warfare continued over Greece, Malta, Egypt and Ethiopia.

Tired of Christmas

DUMAS, Tex. (AP) — This town has found that people can tire even of Christmas—the displays, that is.

That is why Dumas, 48 miles north of Amarillo, placed its city Yule decorations on the auction block.

Each Christmas season since 1959, Dumas Avenue has been renamed Storybook Lane and the city has placed 50 eight-foot-tall figures in an eight-block area.

The figures are made of plywood and painted. Such characters as Pinocchio and Rudolf the Red-Nosed Reindeer are included.

"Our people have grown accustomed to them," said Herbert Harter, chairman of the decorations committee in explaining why they have gone on sale.

A drive for different decorations has been started.

DRUG SPREAD AMONG YOUTH EPIDEMIC-LIKE

GENEVA (AP) — The "epidemic-like" spread of drug-taking among young people must be brought under drastic control, the World Health Organization said Monday.

A W.H.O. expert committee on dependence-producing drugs cited "the increasing frequency of abuse of sedatives or stimulants not classified internationally as narcotic drugs."

The committee recommended six control measures:

Availability of such drugs on medical prescription only; fullly accounting of all transactions from production to retail distribution; licensing of producers; limitation of trade to authorized persons; prohibition of non-authorized possession, and establishment of an import-export authorization system.

CIVIL DEFENCE

Seventeen of the 24 municipalities in the Nelson zone have now trained crews capable of operating the welfare emergency feeding truck. The remainder will probably have an opportunity to do so in 1966.

Lil' Peep Returns

EMMITSBURGH, Md. (AP)—The swallows, they say, come back to Capistrano, but Lil' Peep comes back to Emmitsburg. Lil' Peep is an English sparrow.

It all started when Mrs. John Davenport's 15-year-old daughter, Linda, found a baby sparrow in the barn. It had fallen from its nest and was too young to fly. The family took it into the house, fed it, and named it Lil' Peep.

Then, several weeks ago, much older and with a full set of feathers, Lil' Peep was released.

"We knew it was wild and needed freedom," said Mrs. Davenport.

Lil' Peep flew away—but not for long. That night, much to the delight of the Davenport children, Lil' Peep returned.

And the bird has been returning every night since.

Marriage of Clergy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Some voices are being raised in the Roman Catholic church questioning its long-time ban against marriage for its clergy.

Although Pope Paul has ruled out consideration of the matter at the second Vatican council, his action came in the midst of widening discussion of the subject in church circles.

Following his directive, a group of 81 Roman Catholic laymen, including psychiatrists, doctors, philosophers, sociologists and professors in 12 nations, urged a post-council study of the regulation. Their appeal was distributed to bishops in Rome.

Under the church's Canon 1072, priests are prohibited from marrying. The rule is not considered a dogma of faith, but a means of discipline and dedication.

Up to the Middle Ages, practice varied both in the Eastern and Western branches of Christendom, with some clergy married and others celibate. This also was the picture at the time of the apostles.

But the restriction was made mandatory throughout Roman Catholicism's Latin or Western rite at the first and second Lateran councils in the 12th century, with few exceptions allowed to it since.

SOME MARRY

Some of these have occurred in recent times, when married Protestant clergymen have entered the Roman Catholic church, and been admitted to the priesthood, as married men with families.

Similarly in the church's Eastern Rite, akin to Eastern Orthodoxy, there are numerous married priests,and more flexibility on the matter.

But in the Western half of Christendom, Rome for centuries has insisted on its clergy remaining celibate.

This was regarded virtually as "the 11th commandment," comments the Austrian Catholic monthly Wort Und Wahrheit, "an unalterable, unquestionable fact of church law," with open discussion of it impossible.

That reticence has changed. many priests defend it stoutly as most conducive to an effective ministry and total consecration to God's work among men.

Others maintain that priests should be free to marry or not marry.

A recent series of articles about it in the national Catholic Reporter, published in the United States, touched off a lively exchange in the letters columns. A Bloomfield Hills, Mich., priest, Rev. Leo J. Tres wrote:

"I should like to register myself as one priest who is not at all disgruntled or frustrated, yet is very much in favor of making celibacy a voluntary choice for candidates to the priesthood. . . . but I also am convinced that there are many priests who would be much happier and much more effective in their ministry if they were blessed with wives and, God willing, families of their own."

DEBATE ISSUE

In the original series of articles, a Midwestern U.S. priest writing under a pseudonym said:

"It is clear from the history of Christianity that Christ calls some priests to the celibate state. It is also clear that he calls some to the priesthood but not to celibacy. . . .

"The church needs celibates, as past experience strongly indicates; but the church also needs married priests."

Meanwhile, in the Protestant camp, a Duke University theologian, Rev. Dr. James T. Cleland, has urged serious thinking about an unmarried Protestant clergy.

He said that for a married minister to do a "first-rate job" in his parish forces him to relegate his wife and family to a "second-rate place." An unmarried minister doesn't face such divided loyalties, he said, adding:

"I'm happily married, but my wife has had a rough time."

The Voice of French Canada

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French language press of Canada.

Quebec Le Soleil — Prime Minister Pearson has reiterated his intention of having the federal government give aid to higher education.

Mr. Pearson said he hoped a federal - provincial conference on this question would be held in 1966. Thus a program of aid to universities could come into effect at the start of the next scholastic year.

Faced with the financial needs of education, especially on the secondary and university levels, no one disagrees with the need for an important contribution from the governments aimed at allowing education to play the dynamic role expected from it in our society. . . .

For certain poor provinces such as the Maritimes, which have more trouble than others paying for their needs, federal aid is necessary to prevent national inequality which would in the long run be disastrous. One could say that federal grants aim only at aiding education and take nothing away from provincial rights over such education. But even if other provinces are satisfied by this argument, Quebec is of a different mind. . . .

On the one hand, Quebec has reservations, supported by the constitution, about federal intervention in a field that belongs exclusively to the provinces. On the other, there is the desire of the nglish provinces to obtain federal aid which would compensate for disparities in provincial revenues and thus maintain national standards of educational aid.

This problem, like several others, is linked to the large problem of sharing tax revenues. Is it possible to amend the constitution so that each government will receive revenue in accordance with its needs? Even if this were possible, it would be necessary for the central government and the provinces to consult regularly and co - ordinate their policies to prevent the country's break-up into two or more pieces. (Oct. 18).

Montreal La Presse — We should always have known it, but unhappily we tend to forget it: On this planet, water is the source of all life. It is necessary to visit certain foreign countries to find out that in this field Canada is one of the best-supplied and most privileged in the world. And what about Quebec, whose enormous territory bathes in almost 1,000,000 lakes?

For the first time in this (federal election) campaign—and perhaps for the first time in our political history—we are making an issue of possible talks with the United States about this precious natural resource which we have in such abundance. Our neighbors, who are starting to run short, are thinking about getting some from us. They would like it if some of our water resources were diverted into their area. Can this question be made the object of international agreements? In other countries and other continents less rich than our own, the problem has already been resolved in this way. But we also know that wars were caused or threatened—for example take Israel and the Arab nations—precisely because of a problem like this one.

Is it necessary to specify that the subject is extremely interesting to Montreal, as the water level of her port is largely determined by that of the Great Lakes, which are for the United States an enormous reservoir into which they are tempted to dip with cupped hands?

We believe the greatest care will have to be exercised when the time comes for talks with the United States on this subject. We must consider this resource in the same way as we consider our wheat, our forests, our gas and our mines in general. And especially, we must not repeat certain errors of the past which were really too costly.—Cyrille Felteau (Oct. 19)

Granby La Voix de l'Est—Although the public usually considers the Canadian National Railways as a state-run enterprise, that's not the opinion of its president, Mr. Donald Gordon. It is, he says, a commercial enterprise which is administered in the same way as all other commercial enterprises in North America. It has to solve the same problems and overcome the same difficulties as any other. One of the encouraging prospects for the future, Mr. Gordon says, is the prospect of less, rather than more government control and of greater freedom of competition within the field of transport.

The CNR's position has changed a great deal since Mr. Gordon took over his responsibility. It would have changed even more if needed reforms had not often been turned down. Its passenger service now is one of the best, as is its freight service which is its main source of revenue.

Certainly, as the CNR president says, we are often made to compare the Canadian National's deficits with the profits of the Canadian Pacific. This leads to unjust criticism. To understand the CNR's position well . . . one must turn to 1918, the year the enterprise was formed by the fusion of several companies, most of which were on the edge of bankruptcy. It was necessary to borrow and to pay interest on the loans, which, through the years, created a debt that the CNR has not been able to repay.

If its situation is analysed today, taking into account only its revenues and expenses, one comes to the conclusion that the CNR is not unprofitable. The CNR is really on the road to progress, thanks to energetic and efficient policy. (Oct. 19).

Ottawa Le Droit—Premier Robarts of Ontario agrees to duality within unity. He says he favors bilingualism and biculturalism. . . . He is of the opinion that French- and English - Canadians must be equal partners to make up a great nation. On the other hand, as a partisan of autonomy, he believes it is Ontario's business and not Quebec's to take care of the fate of Franco-Ontarians.

He is right all the way down the line . . . . But that is a legal opinion. The heart always has sentiments the mind does not understand. Sentimentally, the encroachment of one province on another simply for mutual aid is basically a natural reaction. Real Franco-Ontarians ask themselves what they would be without the aid of their Quebec compatriots, especially in the past and still today. Also, even with favored treatment, don't Anglo-Canadians in Quebec benefit, in one way or another, from support by the country's majority, and by that of the main province, Ontario?

Mr. Robarts' proud attitude does him honor. But, he is none the less caught in his own trap. If he wants to prove his logic and sincerity, he should from now on treat the two main ethnic groups in his province equally. Without doubt, he has given proof of goodwill. The new finance plan for separate schools at the primary levels is a great improvement. He did not object to certain bilingual signs. He allowed the teaching of certain subjects in French at the secondary school level, thus opening the door. In reality, in most cases this is nothing but "tolerance." There is a long way to go before bilingualism will be recognized, from educational and legal points of view as well as others. . . .—Gerard Bernier (Oct. 19)

Moncton L'Evangeline—The lobster-fishing season in eastern and southeastern New Brunswick points to the urgent need for a serious study of this industry and the measures needed to protect it. This season, fishermen say, was the worst in history. Catches along the eastern coasts of New Brunswick were one-third of those of previous years. . . .

This trend has been evident for several years. Officials of the fisheries department, the fishermen's association and the fishermen ask themselves about the cause of scarcity of lobster. All come to approximately the same conclusion: There are too many lobster pots, too many fishermen and too much illegal fishing. . . .

The result of a survey conducted during recent months in the three Maritime provinces shows more than 90 per cent favor limiting the number of lobster pots and consequently increasing the individual catch.

The other step would be to limit the number of fishing permits. Today anyone can get a fishing permit for a few dollars and compete with the full-time fishermen.

The federal fisheries department will undertake next year to survey the lobster-fishing potential in certain regions. It will thus be possible to put into effect certain methods of control and to study how fishermen can get a greater return for their efforts.

This comes none too soon as the industry in New Brunswick is in grave danger. Controlled lobster - fishing, surveyed by authorities, can be lucrative. The goodwill of all is needed for this. The fisherman alone cannot succeed; the fisheries department cannot succeed alone. There must be co-operation between the two. — Bernard Poirier (Oct. 15)

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan department of highways has spent $15,000 on a "profilometer" to measure the bumpiness of roads.

The many - wheeled machine records the smoothness of the paving and draws a profile picture of the top surface.

"With this information, engineers hope to determine what factors influence riding quality and provide paved surfaces which will remain smoother for longer periods of time," said Gordon Grant, minister of highways.

Shannons Note District Changes on 50th Anniversary

Willow Point Pioneers Watched Growth of North Shore Community

In 1889, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Shannon from Callander, Ontario, landed at Sproat's Landing (now Robson) and walked to Nelson, 28 miles.

Around 1911, Mr. and Mrs. H. Middleton arrived from Scotland to take up land at Willow Point.

On October 27, 1915, the Shannon son and Middleton daughter left Willow Point by launch with Nelson as their destination and there they were joined in holy matrimony at the Strathcona Hotel by Rev. R. VanMunster of the Presbyterian Church. Dave Heddle was best man and Mrs. John Learmonth the maid of honor. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. George Clerihew, Mrs. E. H. H. Applewhaite, Mrs. J. Gilroy, Miss Sadie McCallum and others.

Pioneers themselves, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shannon observed the 50-year duration of their marriage at a family dinner party October 27 and were honored by members of the Women's Institute and the community at a card party held in the church hall.

FAMILY ON HAND

Attending the family party, held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shannon, were the celebrants' granddaughter, Erla (Mrs. Stewart Pedersen) of Cranbrook, and her son, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Wade (Phyllis), also Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wade of Nelson. Their other daughter, Clarice (Mrs. R. Rudat) of Seaside, California, and her husband and son sent congratulations by telephone. They have six grandchildren and three great grandchildren also.

The card party sponsored by the Women's Institute, of which Mrs. Shannon is a charter member, was arranged by Mrs. N. Denny, assisted by Mrs. John Learmonth, Mrs. A. Jenkins, Mrs. Malcolm Brandon, Mrs. H. Gaskell, Mrs. J. Muir and Mrs. C. Haycroft.

Nine tables were in play.

Mr. and Mrs. Shannon were presented with a corsage and boutonniere respectively and a gift from the 51-year-old Institute.

Malcolm Brandon produced a pair of shackles and attached them to the anniversary celebrants, to the amusement of the guests.

At the time of arrival of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Shannon afoot, the land which was to be the Shannon holdings was an area starting 2½ miles from Nelson on the North Shore, stretching five miles along the West Arm and sloping back to high mountains with benches of fertile land, which was to be the site of productive fruit and cattle ranches.

Mr. Shannon pre-empted 240 acres held by the CPR. He built a floating log house, which was washed ashore by the big flood of 1894 which also took his garden away and, to Mrs. Shannon's disgust, her prize rhubarb. The only communication at that time was by rowboat and the steamer Nelson, which made the trip up the arm once a week.

Their son, Clarence, was the first child born at Willow Point.

Land was cleared by hand with the aid of oxen and horses. Settlers started to arrive around 1900. The Ontario Powder Company bought about 160 acres from Mr. Shannon and erected a powder manufacturing plant where the A. D. Emory summer residence now stands. W. G. Buggins arrived from Woodstock, Ontario, at Troupe's Landing across the lake and transported his belongings to Willow Point across the ice. Other neighbors who gradually moved in to take up land were the Heddle brothers, J. MacDonell, D. Doyle, E. Applewhaite, J. J. Campbell, H. Middleton (Mrs. Shannon's father), T. Airey, R. W. Dawson of Guelph and C. W. West of West's Transfer in Nelson, who established the store and post office and called it West's Point. Fruit ranching was the main occupation.

It was in this community that Clarence Shannon grew up. Miss Middleton had taken her teacher's training and practice teaching in Scotland and when she moved out to Canada and the west with her family, she took her B.C. exams at Kamloops, then was assigned a little one-room school at Shuswap. She had a small cabin to stay in with just room for a bed and a table and ate her meals with the family who owned the cabin. Living alone in the country was a frightening experience for a young girl just out from the Old Country, particularly during heavy storms.

When the community decided to hold a social in the school, the teacher was required to remain in the building until the last person had left, usually in the early hours of the morning.

AT WILLOW POINT SCHOOL

A year later, she was given the Willow Point school. This was built in 1902 by the settlers on land donated by Mr. West, on the present site. It was named Duhamel at first, then changed to Willow Point school later. There were 40 pupils in grades from one to eight (high school entrance), who came three to four miles walking or riding horses.

At first, it was difficult to find pupils as most of the settlers were bachelors.

The school assessment in those days was $250, a ton of coal and two cords of wood for the school stove cost $22.50; the janitor was paid $7.50 and teachers received from $55 to $60 per month.

Her parents lived just past where the V. C. Owen home is now situated.

After two years at the school, she and Clarence Shannon were married. They returned to live at the site where their present home now stands and she continued teaching for a year. Their son, Earl, was born and they decided to move to Trail, where they lived for a short time. Deciding that life on the ranch was healthier than in an atmosphere heavy with fumes from the smelter, they returned to Willow Point.

A community hall, "Crystal Hall," was built by men of the community on land donated by the late A. D. Emory and they joined with their neighbors at ten-cent socials, masquerades and concerts which were attended by everyone. A nursery was set up in one corner of the hall on these occasions and lamps lighted the building within and bugs (candles stuck in tins) lit the outside.

AIRY PAVILLION

An open air pavillion built by A. B. Shannon on his property fronting the water, now the site of a trailer court and summer homes, provided outdoor dancing and picnics in the summer. This was called Ferndale Park. Two tennis courts and regattas held every year were enjoyed by all the settlers and their families.

The Nelson ferry was built in 1913, and when her daughter became ill and was in the hospital at Nelson, Mrs. Shannon used to walk the distance into town at nights to visit her.

Mr. Shannon specialized in dairy produce and turnips at their farm. He became a director of the Kootenay Valley Milk Producers' Association.

Mrs. Shannon was a member when the Women's Institute was organized in 1914 and was a charter member also of the Woman's Auxiliary to St. Andrew's-by-the-Lake. She was a member of the Kootenay Lake General Hospital Women's Auxiliary also.

Now the sternwheelers which served the thriving community are all gone, except the Moyie, which is preserved at Kaslo as a museum and instead of socials and dances, Mr. and Mrs. Shannon relax in the evenings with their television set.

On the wall hangs a picture of A. B. Shannon with his snow-white beard, standing beside the original Shannon home.

Mrs. W. C. Motley, educational secretary, presented an IODE scholarship award of $136 to Mel Simpson, the 1964-65 season's class prize at the Kootenay School of Art. Mr. Simpson presented a painting by last year's IODE winner, Bob Kureluk of Edmonton, to the chapter.

Mrs. V. C. Owen, for immigration and citizenship, advised that a class of 16 was held Sept. 27.

National and provincial commitments to the value of several hundred dollars were met.

Mrs. W. W. Ferguson and Mrs. H. Lakes gave encouraging reports on the Thrift Shop, the chapter's fund-raising project.

Mrs. Mackenzie introduced as the new chapter standard bearer Mrs. Cornelis Van Pelt.

Assistant hostesses were Mrs. A. J. Hesse and Mrs. Ferguson.

Brilliant Colors Season's Mood

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—Paris this season gives top priority to brilliant colors in every phase of fashion from costly couture clothes to budget-priced ready-to-wear.

Color and composition, adapted in Yves St. Laurent's modern art mood, emerge as the most influential and far-reaching idea since Andre Courreges launched his space-age look.

St. Laurent proves that color and form are the real essence of fashion today. The force of his collection, which has influenced styles from Tokyo to Timbuktu, is essentially based on color rather than cut.

Winter is usually notable for sombre, dark-toned hues. A dark costume worn on a grey day has been standard fashion philosophy since the early 1920s.

The blacks, the browns and the basic greys appeared simultaneously with the first autumn rains. Beautiful clors gradually became symbolic of a luxury which few could afford. A woman who rode round in a chauffeur-driven car might wear a delicate colored coat. But if she took the subway, she donned a dreary-colored, austere outfit.

Now, with one deft stroke, French designers have changed the whole concept: The greyer the day, they say, the brighter the color.

Two years ago, Andre Courreges paved the way for today's color craze with two-toned silhouettes cut horizontally round the hips to waistline. It needed St. Laurent to add the final exclamation mark and make a monotone silhouette look practically old-fashioned today.

St. Laurent's Mondrian- and Poliakoff-inspired shifts, cleverly marked with blocks of color, have been more extensively copied than any other clothes shown in Paris this season.

Jacques Heim splashes color about as liberally as St. Laurent. Heim shows such odd combinations as a mustard-gold suit under a fuschia-colored knitted coat. His Jacquard prints were used for tunics and matching tights or long gaiter stockings, some in patterns ranging from fur prints to flower and snowflake designs, or bold, multi-colored geometric squares and stripes.

Heim even gives a color bath to real furs. He dyes modest rabbit and sumptuous mink alike in brilliant shades of pink, red, yellow or green.

Mrs. Bartlett Heads Guides At Grand Forks

GRAND FORKS — Mrs. R. Bartlett was named president when the Girl Guide Association met Monday at the home of Mrs F. Carmichael, with nine members attending.

Mrs. Bartlett chaired the meeting which resulted in all if last year's executive agreeing to hold their positions for another year.

Other officers are, treasurer, Mrs. G. Chanley; secretary, Mrs. W. McLaughlan; press, Mrs. K. Mayer and badge secretary, Mrs. F. Carmichael.

Tea was served by the hostess after plans were made for the December 11 bake sale.

Punishment Sermon Subject

"Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth" (Hebrews 12:6).

The Lesson-Sermon in Christian Science churches Sunday pointed out some of the ways this statement comes true in the lives of people today. The topic is "Everlasting Punishment."

One explanation of chastening was presented from the tenets of Christian Science, as stated in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We acknowledge God's forgiveness of sin in the destruction of sin and the spiritual understanding that casts out evil as unreal. But the belief in sin is punished so long as the belief lasts."

Throughout the Lesson-Sermon, this chastening was shown to be for man's ultimate benefit, as expressed in these lines from Matthew (25:34): "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Historic Pieces Pose Problem

GRAY CREEK — The question of disposal of historic articles at present kept in Crawford Bay was one of the main topics of discussion at the recent meeting of the Crawford Bay WI held at the home of Mrs. Hugh Griffiths.

The chair was taken by Mrs. Myrna Strom in the absence of both president and vice-president.

Members were gratified to see the white line down the centre of the road from Kootenay Bay to Creston, which will make it safe for children on bicycles.

Miss Lytle raised the question of the many valuable articles in Crawford Bay Hall, which have been given by early residents. There are guns used by the late E. T. D. Francis, a noted Bisley shot and ballistcs expert. These have historic interest. Members thought they should not be sent to the museum being formed at Fort Steele but should be kept in Crawford Bay Hall in a suitable case. The Institute would be willing to contribute to this but the matter is to be given further discussion at the next meeting which will take place at the hall.

Mrs. Strom showed articles of crewel needlework and Mrs. Griffith showed some of her tapestry work. The Christmas tags made and donated by Mrs. Avis Jacobson will be sorted and sold at the next meeting.

MENU Magic from the TEST KITCHEN

For the Main Course

If you haven't tried it yet, dairy sour cream gives cauliflower a nice lift. Break one large head into small flowerets and cook in boiling salted water as usual. Drain and stir in ½ pint dairy sour cream. Season with a teaspoon caraway seeds, salt and pepper. Keep warm over low heat until ready to serve.

Heavenly Ending

After your next big dinner, finish off with this refreshing, light dessert, Grapefruit Cream. Simply melt 25 large marshmallows in the top of a double boiler along with 1 cup of grapefruit juice. Let cool before folding in ¼ pint whipped cream. Pour into pretty sherbet dishes, sprinkle with coconut and chill. That's all there is to it.

Pumpkin-Scotch Parfaits

Here's another dessert quickie made from a package of butterscotch instant pudding mix. Combine ¾ cup canned pumpkin with 1¼ cups cold milk and add a dash of cinnamon and cloves. Sprinkle with the pudding mix and beat 1 minute with a rotary beater. Pour into parfait glasses and serve topped with whipped cream.

Coffee A-Go-Go . . .

combines instant coffee with hot milk . . . a teaspoon or two per cup. It's marvellous with something sweet like chocolate brownies and provides the young moderns with plenty of pep for the latest dance craze.

Butterscotch Apples

November is apple month, when warm desserts like this one go hand in hand with dairy foods. Cream together ½ cup soft butter and 1 cup brown sugar. Blend in ½ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and ¾ cup chopped nuts. Sprinkle over top 12 large apple halves in a shallow baking dish. Bake in a 375°F oven, about 30 minutes. Delicious with thick pouring cream, but better still with ice cream.

Budget Saver

When economy is important try this beef pie: lightly brown 1 pound of minced beef, then stir in an envelope dehydrated onion soup mix, ½ cup skim milk powder and 3 tablespoons flour. Add 2 cups water, and simmer until thickened. Spoon into an unbaked pastry shell, sprinkle with plenty of shredded processed cheese and bake, about 25 minutes in a 400°F oven.

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

I have solved the problem of paying my bills on time — especially those for which we receive no "payment due" notices such as car payments, insurance, real estate taxes, etc.

Using a red pencil, I circle the date when each bill will become due, write the amount due, and what it's for, in the blocks on my calendar . . . way ahead of time.

I check this off with a black pencil after the payment has been made.

My system not only insures prompt payment of all our bills, but allows me to plan ahead on our budget each month.

Most regular monthly payments can be marked months ahead of time through the whole calendar.

Sure saves lots of worry.

"Improving."

Dear Heloise:

When cooking noodles for a chicken or tuna casserole, I cook them in chicken broth — just enough so the broth is completely absorbed.

If you don't have homemade broth, canned chicken broth makes a good substitute, and the finished dish is more tasty than when noodles are cooked in plain water.

Beth Hansen.

And, did you know that just plain, ole buttered noodles are delicious when you add a couple of beef or chicken bouillon cubes to the water in which you cook them? But, be sure to cut down on the salt in the water!

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

The letter about making a tape recording of a child's tantrum sounds like a good idea.

I believe I will try it on my husband.

Reader.

Dear Heloise:

I always had the habit of taking clothes from the dryer and placing them in a bushel basket until I could talk myself into ironing them. By the time I would get around to it, they would be quite wrinkled.

If ironing is the trouble spot of your day, do this:

As soon as your dryer turns off, take each piece out immediately and hang it on a hanger. You will be surprised how smooth they will be, coming right out of the dryer, and even more wrinkles fall out as they hang.

Furthermore, you don't have to hunt through a basket of wrinkled clothes for a particular piece.

Then, when you have spare time, the ironing goes much faster since they are practically wrinkle-free by that time.

Mrs. Peter W. Helmer.

Dear Heloise:

After mixing dye in a measuring cup, I placed an old, but clean "footlet" on the top of the cup, and this was perfect for straining the dye into the water in the washer. The elastic hugged the cup.

There! I finally wrote Heloise.

Happy Housewife

And thanks oodles, you darlin'. For those who don't have footlets, they can use an old nylon stocking.

Procter Notes

PROCTER — Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stevenson of Procter have had as guest, Mrs. Stevenson's niece, Mrs. W. Gillespie of Vancouver. Mrs. Gillespie was called back soon than expected due to the illness of her mother and Stevenson's sister, Mrs. W. Carpenter, also of Vancouver.

H. H. Matthews has been visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews here, also his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stevenson, also of Procter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews who recently sold their home here to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson of Creston, have left to make their home in Kaslo.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Grant of Procter have had as recent guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ingham of Creston.

P. T. Carroll, a patient in the Shaughnessy Hospital in Vancouver, is still progressing favorably and is expected to return to his home here shortly.

Guides Mark Hallowe'en

SALMO — Witches, black cats, pumpkins and all manner of strange creatures roamed the Elementary School gym when two guide companies joined in the capers of a Hallow'en party.

The costume judging was no small matter for judges Mr. and Mrs. Pybus and Israel Prabhudas as the frankensteins, swashbucklers and Mexicans paraded by. After much ticking off and eliminating the best all-round prize went to Kathie Boisvert and Tanis Leadbeater as dimuative bride and groom. The most original was taken by Judy Uphill as half man and half woman, complete from head to toe, with moustache and pipe to beads and baubles on the feminine side.

Considered the most comical was Carol Anderson as the stretcher case, with ghastly mask and swathed in sheets, with limp feet dangling, the latter hung on broom sticks extended from the shoulders, the whole thing propelled by Carol likewise draped in sheets.

Following the judging bobbing for apples strung across the gym and singing concluded the program.

The Ladies Auxiliary served refreshments to the mothers and guests who came to participate in the ghostly party. Mrs. Z. Jabonski and Mrs. S. Anderson were in charge of this department.

Leaders, Mrs. Bibbon as witch, Mrs. F. Gibbon as slinking black cat and Mrs. G. Barne as mummy complete with casket controlled the throng of queer critters during the evening of communing with the spooks and spirits.

Gray Creek

GRAY CREEK—Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Lindsey enjoyed a good day's fishing. Their largest catch was a 10-pound Dolly Varden. The Lindseys were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Quilter, also from Bonner's Ferry.

Visitors to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Oliver were Mr. Oliver's mother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Loopal from Prince George. They were driven here from Castlegar by Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Jacobson. Mrs. Loopal was Lily Oliver, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Oliver. She came to Gray Creek at an early age and grew up on her parents' fruit ranch here, helping them cultivate and pick strawberries and then cherries. The old Oliver ranch is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hempstock and there is little fruit there now.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bainbridge brought their big trailer to Kootenay Lake from Golden. They have now moved to Boswell where Mr. Bainbridge's parents live.

Rev. Desmond Holt took his first service here for harvest festival. Mrs. Lawson Hepher was organist.

Since Anglican services were first held in Gray Creek when the hall was built in 1912, Gray Creek has belonged to Kokanee Parish. The vicar then travelled by boat or on foot. Kaslo was part of Kokanee but redistribution was made when Willow Point was added and Kaslo was attached to New Denver. Now Gray Creek must face south and become a part of Creston Parish with Riondel and Crawford Bay, the vicar now travelling by car.

My appeal is to the conscience of the nation . . . to all Canadians. Let us join together so that we may be worthy of this land and fulfill the dream of our founding fathers.
Rt. Hon. JOHN G. DIEFENBAKER

BUILD FOR THE FUTURE OF CANADA

Ours is a policy of incentive not restriction . . . of faith not fear

VOTE FOR RESPONSIBLE DECISIVE ACTION AT OTTAWA

1. CONFEDERATION CONFERENCE
Canada's unique union of provinces and cultures will be strengthened by an "open" Confederation Conference, to be called to draw up a blueprint of our national destiny. Closed conferences and secret deals have exaggerated differences and increased tensions. We will build Canada for the future.

2. NATIONAL PLAN FOR EDUCATION
Canada's first "National Plan for Education" means doubling of federal grants to universities and lower tuition fees. It will assist new building and provide more money for research in medicine, science and the humanities. It will step up the vocational school construction to give skills to young Canadians. It will provide agricultural school facilities.

3. 11% SALES TAX ON BUILDING MATERIALS, MACHINERY ELIMINATED
The sales tax on building materials and production machinery adds to the cost of homes and goods, raises prices in domestic and export markets, and jeopardizes important job-producing sectors of the economy. The elimination of this tax will be a first objective of a PC government.

4. HOMEOWNERS TAX DEDUCTION
As part of a national plan for education and to encourage home ownership, a Progressive Conservative government will immediately allow a deduction of municipal taxes up to $500 from taxable income for federal tax purposes. Rising school costs have put an unfair share of tax burden on the homeowners —almost to the breaking point.

5. URBAN POLICY
Progressive Conservative urban policy will bring stepped up urban renewal programs, a national-in-scope research program in municipal planning to help provinces and municipalities. It means recreational parks development around cities and towns. It means tax relief for the homeowner, NHA mortgages on older homes, and lower interest rates on instalment buying.

6. OLD AGE PENSIONS $100
Our senior citizens will not be left to suffer under the spiralling cost of living. The Canada Pension Plan forgets them. A Progressive Conservative government will provide $100 per month old age pension—WITHOUT A MEANS TEST. We owe this to those who have built our country.

7. NATIONAL PLAN FOR HEALTH
The Progressive Conservative party is committed to Medicare. It was a PC government that brought hospital insurance to Canadians. We will enlarge the same plan to cover all illnesses, including mental illness. It was a PC government that took the first steps to a nation-wide Medicare program in 1961 when it set up the Hall Commission to study health services. If you want a national health plan, including universal Medicare, vote Progressive Conservative on November 8.

8. NHA MORTGAGES FOR OLDER HOMES
NHA mortgages have been limited to new home construction. NHA mortgages on older homes will assist the mobility of people that is essential if wage-earners are to take full advantage of Canada's growth.

9. LOWER COST INSTALMENT BUYING
Present interest rates add 20% and more to the cost of necessary and basic consumer purchases bought on the instalment plan. We will provide urban dwellers with the same type of credit advantages now available to farmers. This will be done through a special Consumers Loans Act.

10. DEPARTMENT OF YOUTH AFFAIRS
A new federal department will be formed to coordinate the many federal activities in youth affairs.

11. FARM POLICY
The Progressive Conservative government was the first to open up wheat markets in Russia and China. A new PC government will begin an aggressive sales program for farm products, and give credit for export sales. A PC government will encourage a larger livestock population, with a new drive in the West for community pastures, forage banks, feed grain banks and water conservation programs and northern river diversion to provide water in the south. A PC government will establish an eastern feed grain agency, and a national dairy board with $4 per hundredweight for industrial milk, and extend crop insurance to cover livestock.

12. FOREIGN TRADE EXPANSION
The Progressive Conservative government opened new markets for Canadian goods throughout the world, creating the first commodity export trade surplus in years. Our new program will expand major port facilities in Canada, establish aggressive sales programs abroad, and welcome foreign investment in Canada without fear of discrimination by retroactive legislation.

13. NATIONAL POWER GRID
A Progressive Conservative government will establish a National Power Grid to carry electric power across Canada, east-to-west, north-to-south, making the best use of the supply available, and providing a national market for this energy.

14. WATER RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT
Water is one of Canada's priceless resources. A Progressive Conservative water resources policy will protect this supply for Canadians, develop an anti-pollution program, and build for future generations.

15. MAJOR PORT EXPANSION
Canada lost sales of 100 million bushels of grain in 1963-64 because of lack of port facilities. Our national grain handling facilities were built for an annual export of 300 million bushels. They should be large enough for 600 million bushels. Increased exports of pulp, paper, sulphur, coal, iron ore, copper, lumber and potash demand immediate expansion of Canada's port facilities.

A Progressive Conservative government will reintroduce the ship-building subsidy for steel ships built in Canadian shipyards. This subsidy was removed by the present government.

16. RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT
Active resource development is the lifeblood of the Canadian economy. The Progressive Conservatives have imaginative policies to build Canada. Every resource industry will be encouraged, including East coast saltfishing which will be assisted by catch insurance.

INTERNATIONAL FIELD RESTORED TO EIGHT

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The prospective field for the Washington, D.C., international race Nov. 11 was restored to eight Monday by addition of three entries from Venezuela, Argentina and France.

Race officials announced acceptance for Feusinha, 4-year-old filly from Venezuela; Carvin, 3-yearold French colt, and Berenjenal, a 5-year-old from Argentina.

They join Roman Brother and Hail to All, the United States entries; England's Super Sam, France's Diatome and Canada's George Royal as probable starters in the 1½-mile grass race.

George Royal, a five-year-old owned by Ernie Hammona and Bob Hall of Vancouver, won the Canadian championship stakes at Toronto Oct. 23—the first time a Canadian owned horse won the race since 1953 when Navy Page did so for Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor.

The win, worth $35,800, boosted George Royal's career earnings to $191.787.

The list had been trimmed by withdrawals of horses from England, France and Russia.

Argo Critics Puzzle Hayman

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Lew Hayman can't go anywhere, except to the men's room, without being heckled or commiserated with by a football fan.

People stop him on the street to give him advice about what to do with his lagging Toronto Argonaut club. Others write him letters, phone him at home and at his office and then even walk over to his table in restaurants.

It really doesn't bother him because he'll talk football to anyone, anytime. He's been in the business as coach, managing director, general manager, partner in teams since he came to Canada from Syracuse University in 1933 as a 23-year-old.

Of course, he has experienced "miserable years" since 1961 with Argos. They made it to the Eastern Conference playoffs in 1960 and since then, says Lew, "we've successively got worse."

He wags his head in wonderment when he considers that the club's season ticket subscribers have declined only 2,000 or so since those heady 1960 days to a low of about 16,000 this season. "And this, too, with the worst club imaginable on the field," Hayman said in an interview this week.

He has received about 30 letters this year, just half the number sent to him in 1964.

DEMAND DISMISSALS

Early this season, when Argos were going nowhere fast, some letters said that Hayman should be fired, coach Bob Shaw should be fired and that the club should get rid of certain players.

Later on, after eight straight losses, Argos finally won a game and the letters took another twist.

"Funny thing about it," says Lew, "at the start of the season some people wrote and phoned to say why don't I stick my nose into the coaching duties. Then, when we won a game or so and came close on a couple of others, I was told to keep my nose out of it."

But he's happy to get letters and phone calls. "You know, a lot of them blast me and the coach and some of the players and then come up with constructive criticism, saying why don't you do this or that.

"Every letter with a name and address on it gets a reply."

Argos have a won-lost record of 3-10 going into this Sunday's final game of the schedule at Hamilton. "If we put on any kind of a show against the Tiger-Cats, we might not lose very many subscribers next year.

"The team now is beginning to jell and I think we can be a contender next year if we can improve on some positions."

He declined to name the positions, saying "Let's leave this to the coach."

Total attendance at the seven home Argo games this season is down about 25,000 over 1964. "In dollars, we're down about $100,000, but I think we'll end up in the black after we get our cut of the Eastern Conference and Grey Cup playoffs."

Vegas Bout Formal Championship--WBA

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP-AP)—The World Boxing Association recognizes the Nov. 22 Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson fight as a championship bout only in territory which doesn't come under the jurisdiction of the WBA, association president James Dreskin said Monday.

At a WBA meeting in Houston, Tex., Oct. 16, the association's executive board resolved that, "to clear (the) muddled heavyweight championship situation . . . the Clay-Patterson version of the heavyweight championship be permitted to be held in WBA territory (Las Vegas)."

Thus, the fight will be recognized as a championship bout only in non-WBA states and some foreign countries.

George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champion, and Ernie Terrel met in Toronto Monday night for the WBA's version.

"It sounds stupid, but it is the only way we can solve things," said Dreskin. "We have to recognize it (the Clay-Patterson fight). There is no question we will have things cleared up by June 1."

Dreskin said there is a verbal agreement winners of the Toronto and Las Vegas fights will box for the WBA crown by June 1.

Rocky Takes Patterson

LONDON (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano picks Floyd Patterson to regain his world title by defeating champion Cassius Clay in Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22.

Marciano was here for an Anglo-American sporting club dinner Monday night honoring him for his contributions to boxing.

"Ninety per cent of the critics and former boxers reckon Clay will win," said Marciano. "I must be the only guy who thinks Patterson has a chance."

(In Toronto last week Marciano picked Canadian George Chuvalo to defeat Ernie Terrell of Chicago in their World Boxing Association heavyweight title fight Monday night at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.)

Referring to Sonny Liston, the former world champ twice defeated by Clay, Marciano said: "I would really have liked to have met him when he was younger. Our styles would have made the match a real battle. In fact, when I retired in 1956 I had only heard of Liston as a good amateur."

WBA Champ Stripped

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The World Boxing Association's flyweight champion, Salvatore Burruni of Italy, has been stripped of his title, WBA president James Deskin announced Monday.

The move resulted from Burruni's reluctance to defend his title, Deskin said.

"The world boxing council, the WBA, the WBA executive board, and I, personally, have notified Burruni he must defend. Neither Burruni nor his manager, Umberto Branchini have so much as answered us."

Deskin said Japan's Hiroyuki Elibhara is the logical successor.

However, Deskin added, the matter now is in the hands of the WBA's championship committee.

Branch Rickey Hospitalized

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Branch Rickey, 84, one of the historic figures in professional baseball, is undergoing a "complete physical checkup" in St. Luke's Hospital here.

Rickey, who was the player consultant for St. Louis Cardinals when they won the 1964 World Series, entered hospital last Thursday.

Mrs. Rickey said his doctor thought it "would be a good idea to check some things out and to take some tests. There is nothing seriously wrong."

RETAINS WBA TITLE

TERRELL GAINS 15 - ROUND DECISION

CHUVALO ERRATIC

TORONTO (CP) — Ernie Terrell retained his World Boxing Association heavyweight championship Monday night with a unanimous decision over George Chuvalo in their 15-round title bout.

Terrell, the 206-pound champion from Chicago, used a lightning left jab from long range to pile up points against Chuvalo, the 209-pound Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto.

Chuvalo, five inches shorter than the champion, was unable to get under Terrell's long range blows to score effectively. Terrell had a five - inch advantage in reach and height over the stocky Canadian and used it to perfection to pile up an early lead with his left jabs to the head.

Chuvalo tried repeatedly to get in close and score to the body, but Terrell danced around and even when the Canadian was able to get in close the champ tied him up effectively.

OPENED QUICKLY

Terrell opened quickly, flicking a succession of lefts into the face of Chuvalo and by the second round had the challenger's nose bleeding.

The left was Terrell's best weapon and he used it to keep the always stalking Chuvalo at bay and piled up points with it.

In the later rounds when both fighters began to tire, Terrell was able to back-pedal and retain his margin.

The champion raised a welt under Chuvalo's right eye in the seventh round and in the 14th opened a cut above the challenger's right eye.

None of this seemed to bother Chuvalo as he kept going in after Terrell.

Referee Sammy Luftspring of Toronto, the Canadian welterweight champion in the early 1930s, scored the bout 72-65 favor of the six-foot-six Terrell.

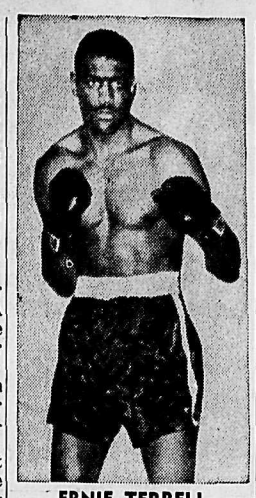
Judge Fred orbert of Toronto had it 73-65 in the champion's favor and judge Billy Burke, also Toronto, made it 69-64 for Terrell.

The fight was counted on the five-point must system in which the winner of each round was awarded five points and the loser four or less.

The defence was the first for Terrell since he won the WBA version of the heavyweight title March 5 with a decision over Eddie Machen.

The victory left him with a record of 38 wins and four losses. He has won 18 by knockout.

The loss was the 10th against 33 wins and two draws for the 28-year-old Chuvalo, who has never been knocked off his feet.



ERNIE TERRELL
. . . the victor

Terrell, the 26-year-old member from a family of 10 chil dren, will collect either a guaranteed $45,000 or 35 per cent of the live gate at Maple Leaf Gardens, scene of the fight. Chuvalo's cut is either $45,000 or 25 per cent of the live gate, whichever is greater.

In addition, the fighters will share in the proceeds from closed circuit and cable television. The closed circuit TV was shown in 25 centres in Canada and 14 in the United States, including pay TV in Hartford, Conn.

The fight also was shown on cable television in five western Canadian centres.

Terrell didn't let Chuvalo land a solid blow until late in the second round when the Canadian connected with a pair of sharp rights to the jaw. But neither did any serious damage.

Terrell scored with a solid right of his own straight into Chuvalo's face in the third round after setting him up with three rapid lefts to the face.

LANDED GOOD LEFTS

Chuvalo landed a couple of good lefts late in the fourth round, but they came too late to put Terrell in any trouble.

By the fifth round Chuvalo was throwing wild punches in an effort to knock the champion off guard, but to no avail. The challenger scored with two hard rights to the body and face, then landed a hard right to the jaw at the bell.

Terrell and Chuvalo mixed it up in the sixth as the fight showed signs of developing into a brawl, but Terrell moved back to long-range boxing in the seventh.

In the eighth, Luftspring stopped the bout and gave two warnings, one to each fighter. The first was to Terrell whose thumb, he said, "was doing a lot of damage."

Then, he said, Chuvalo retaliated by butting and drew a warning.

Chuvalo was disqualified here by Luftspring in March, 1961, for butting in a bout against Joe Erskine.

The crowd of 12,500, which paid $124,456.50, was left wondering what was going on in the eighth.

GATE WAS OFF

The gate was off the Canadian record of $148,500 in 1956 for an outdoor bout in Toronto between Archie Moore, light-heavyweight champion, against James M. Parker of Barrie, Ont. Moore won easily before a crowd of 19,832.

Chuvalo nailed Terrell with a hard overhand right early in the ninth but the champion danced away out of trouble quickly. The American eluded Chuvalo after that and continued to score well from a distance through the 10th.

Both fighters were visibly tired by the 11th, in which Chuvalo got in close frequently only to be tied by the clinging champion. Chuvalo again reverted to throwing wild roundhouse lefts, hoping to connect with the big one. But the champion backed out of range or ducked under the blows.

The fighters exchanged blows through the 12th and 13th, and in the 14th Chuvalo missed Terrell and glanced a blow off referee Luftspring's face—but it was a harmless blow.

Chuvalo, desperate by the 15th, belted Terrell with a hard, looping right to the jaw that had the Chicagoan in trouble briefly. But Terrell survived and was out of difficulty at the final bell.

Referee Clinic

The referee's clinic, originaly scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Civic Centre Arena, resumes tonight at 7:00 p.m.

Sessions are scheduled throughout the year to give students a chance to put into practice the rules learned during the classroom periods.

The first classroom session, held Saturday, dealt with correct interpretation of rules and was attended by 10 interested, including seven from Nelson and two teenagers.

BUNNY FIELD—BRITISH SKI TEAM

By MIKE BENNETT
Daily News Sports Editor

Felicity Margaret Field, complete with navy blue sweat suit and running shoes, paused long enough to catch her breath.

"It's "Bunny," you know," she said and settled back, awaiting my questions as I thoughtfully stirred my coffee.

The vibrant 19-year-old member of the British National Ski Team had just completed "running the circuit," part of a two - month, self - financed desire to train with the Canadian National Ski Team.

"Basically, the British and Canadian teams don't differ," she said.

"But it's the concentrated dry-land training that really amazes me."

Unlike the Notre Dame-based National Team, the British team doesn't rely on the competition-education aspect.

The British Team, which has represented the country for about 10 years, only felt the benefits of a federation in 1964.

British universities frown on skiers attending their institutions.

In addition to the difficulties with finances, there are only three commercial ski areas in the country — all in Scotland—which are suitable for training.

Consequently, the British Team has spent the past four years training in France at Val d'Isere.

There is no Men's 'A' team, or at least, there wasn't last year — six men, between the ages of 19 and 23 make up the 'B' team.

"There are some very good juniors coming up, but the actual team won't be picked until after training and time trials," Miss Field said.

"We start in St. Moritz for two weeks before returning to Val d'Isere."

FAMILIAR NAME

Val d'Isere is a familiar name in international skiing circles.

The Goitschel sisters, Marielle and Christine, and Jean-Claude Killy — three of the greatest skiers on the French team and for that fact in the world, put Val d'Isere on the map.

Killy, noted for slalom and giant slalom, claimed a gold medal in 1964 and Marielle took a victory at Squaw Valley.

Five girls started with the Britsh Team at the beginning of the racing season, but by the time April rolled around, Miss Field was the only 'A' team racer left.

Britons, like the Dutch, are known as lowlanders (live in countries that are devoid of mountains) and British skiers are usually regarded as slow-comers. Consequently, few British skiers reach their peak until they are in their early 20s, but remain in competition up until they are in their late 20s.

Tessa Dredge, 23, missed three years of competition and is a member of the 'A' team for the first time.

Since there is no program similar to that of the National Team, the male members of the squad usually join the service in order to get the practice time.

"Male members of the French National Team join the customs service," she said.

"That's how they can ski and still earn a living."

Last season, four Sundays in two months were set aside for tests of muscle strength and training. The rest of the time was spent in self-training.

Miss Field, who placed 14th at the U.S. Nationals in the downhill competition and 10th in slalom, believes that members of the British National Ski Team don't take the competition seriously enough.

"We take it more as a sport, while to the French, winning a gold medal means a car, a house and a ski shop," she said.

The best that the British National Team has done in international competition was 10th in downhill at Grindlewald, Switzerland and 14th at the 1964 Olympics.

Miss Field feels that with the federation, skiing and the British National Ski Team will become a source of national pride, but she was miffed by one thing.

It seems that the London Daily Mail, which gave the team the most coverage last year, has a bad habit of exaggerating.

"Is that all?" she asked. I nodded yes.

"You see I have to go and run the circuit again."

BOSTON BRUINS ISSUE CRY FOR NHL HELP

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League called up two goalies and veteran forward Forbes Kennedy from minor league clubs Monday.

Goalie Bernie Parent, 20, was summoned from Oklahoma City of the Central League and goalie Jack Norris from Los Angeles of the Western League. Kennedy was recalled from San Francisco of the Western League.

Parent, who helped Niagara Falls flyers to the Memorial Cup as an amateur last year, is expected to start against Chicago Wednesday night as the Bruins launch a three - game road trip after three straight losses at home. Norris, who played the last half of the 1964-65 season with Boston, will be held in reserve.

Rookie Bob Ring, 19, who took over for Johnston last Saturday in an 8-2 route by New York, will return to Niagara Falls.

Kennedy spent three seasons with the Bruins. He was used mainly as a penalty-killer until injured last year. He was recalled in hopes he will strengthen Boston's centre spot.

TIED FOR FIRST — WIN 6-4

MAPLE LEAFS COME ALIVE!

KIMBERLEY — Nelson Maple Leafs stepped out of humiliation and back into the good graces of the hometown fans Monday night as they defeated Kimberley 6-4 to climb back into a three-way tie for first place in the WIHL.

Revenge was sweet for the Leafs, who still harbored bitter memories of their worst loss in two seasons at the hands of the Dynamiters Saturday night.

Leroy Mowery, the playmaking centreman for Carl Chwachka and Leaf captain Mike Laughton, scored two goals, including the winner while singles were added by Skip Holmes, Danny Calles, Gail Holden and Stan Ruzicka.

Dick Vincent, Walt Peacosh, Wally Souter and Ken McTeer accounted for Kimberley's scoring, which was limited to the first and second periods.

Unlike Saturday's game, the entire club was doing more than skating.

Centre Howie Hornby and Carl Chwachka checked as if their jobs depended on it and looked as if they weren't going to slow down.

Coach Les Lilley, who moved from retirement into semi-retirement Saturday, dressed for Monday's game but was used sparingly. The lanky winger, who formed one third of the potent "Nitro-Line" last season, earlier had elected to handle the club from the bench.

Both benches emptied as the buzzer sounded ending the period when Chwachka and Bob Wardle started mixing it up in front of the Kimberley net.

The shoving matches that involved players on both sides, however, resulted in only minors to the two original combatants.

Wardle was the key to Kimberley's salvation. If it hadn't been for his bare-faced robbery in the second period when the Leafs shelled him from every angle, the score could easily have gone into double figures.

Lilley elected to dress newcomer Don Lauriente, a product of Michigan Tech, over Verne Wildeman and Harvey Nash.

RAGGED FIRST

The ragged first period was spotted with brief flashes of brilliance as the Leafs took a 2-1 lead which proved to be shortlived in the wide-open second.

The partisan crowd of some 800 fans were on their feet for most of 20 minutes as Kimberley pumped three goals past Barry Brown before Calles retaliated at 16:45.

Wardle held the Leafs scoreless for nearly two minutes as Kimberley played two men short.

Kimberley pulled Wardle in favor of the extra-attacker but the move back-fired as Ruzicka scored on an open net.

Leafs will have a chance to gain sole possession of first place and clear the confusion Wednesday night in Trail against the fourth-place Smoke Eaters.

Spokane Jets and Kimberley, the other teams involved in the three-way tie, clash Friday.

Summary:

First period—1. Nelson, Holmes (Borgeson, Holden) 8:24; 2. Kimberley, Vincent (McTeer, Peacosh) 10:11; 3. Nelson, Mowery (Chwachka, Laughton) 15:41.

Penalties—Arnett 4:52, Borgeson 9:20.

Second period—4. Kimberley Souter (Mongrain) 2:54; 5. Kimberley, McTeer (Vincent, Steenson) 10:06; 6. Kimberley, Peacosh 13:43; 7. Nelson, Calles (Chwachka, Steinke) 16:45.

Penalties—Laughton 8:04; Livingstone 10:33, Willey 10:58; Wardle 14:42; Arnett 17:43, Chwachka, Wardle 20:00.

Third period—8. Holden (Russill, Holmes) 10:01; 9. Nelson, Mowery (Laughton, Ruzicka) 17:05; 10. Nelson, Ruzicka 19:16.

Penalty: Arnett :19.

Your Individual Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, Nov. 3, 1965

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Consistency and moderation should be day's keywords. With them, and your many fine talents directed into worthwhile channels, you should make fine strides.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) Your planetary influences, not particularly generous now, warn that you keep on your toes so as not to fall witlessly into traps, make foolish blunders. Many responsibilities are yours now, so do the bang-up job you can!

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — You should have generally smooth going, but if you should run into obstacles, take them in stride. You can hurdle them — and wind up the day satisfactorily.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) A suggestion to which you have not given much previous thought could, quite unexpectedly, open the door to success. Give every proposal serious consideration.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) Not everyone will see things as you do, but be tolerant of divergent opinions — and listen to all! You could, quite conceivably, gain new insight into a hitherto insoluble problem.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Planetary influences favorable. Your perception and intuition should be keen now. Get into the spirit of things and do your utmost, which can be substantial. Good progress in the making.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra)—Inspiration may be lacking, but that should only spur your determination to further good and constructive efforts. Emphasize your innate orderliness and systematic way of doing things.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Wait for results without becoming anxious. Don't anticipate difficulty, and you will encounter less. Work conscientiously and your perseverance will be rewarded.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—Consider all new propositions and suggestions carefully before accepting. Some deceptive influences, now prevalent, could lead to unpleasant involvements unless you are alert.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — You may encounter some unexpected situations but, in general, prudence and steadiness will keep the boat from rocking. Your innate adaptability can be a big aid.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Advancement may be fractional, but this is normal occasionally. Just remain constant, steady at the wheel. Be sure your energies and talents are directed into constructive channels.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Your intuition, plus your practicality, can help you stay on top, evaluate—and solve — problems more easily. Business interests favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are, generally speaking, lively and enthusiastic, a giver, wishing to please and accomplish in first-rate fashion. Your mind seeks learning and you always investigate the extraordinary. Many scientists, architects, inventors and successful business and industrial leaders have been born under Scorpio. You are also creatively inclined, and have a great love of art and music. Birthdate of: William Cullen Bryant, poet, editor.

Dispose Of Aluminum Stockpile

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson ordered a Washington conference Monday to explore the possibility of selling off 1,400,000 short tons of surplus stockpiled aluminum — a deal that could enrich the U.S. treasury by several hundred million dollars.

Although there was no official linking of one event with the other, the study came hard on the heels of a weekend announcement by some producers of aluminum that they plan to raise the basic prices of their products.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, general services administrator Lawson Knott and Buford Ellington, director of the office of emergency planning, were to attend the stockpiling conference.

The first company to announce a forthcoming price increase was Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. It said the prices of all primary and fabricated aluminum would go up by one-half cent a pound.

REVIEWS OTHER PRICES

Reynolds Metals Co. was raising the price of its primary aluminum ingots by one - half cent a pound and was reviewing prices on its fabricated products.

Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. also announced it was raising the price of primary aluminum products by one-half cent a pound.

Milton L. Herzog, Olin Mathieson vice-president, said that company raised its prices "because of the compelling necessity for improving the return on the heavy investment required of a company in the aluminum industry.

"Prices continue to be seriously depressed both in terms of return on investment and by comparison with previous price levels despite record high demands for aluminum products."

Child Not A Saint Say Catholic Heads

TRENTO, Italy (AP)—Roman Catholic authorities have forbidden religious devotion to a 20-months-old child—considered a saint in this area—whose death five centuries ago was blamed on several Jews.

Officials said there was no proof of the child's martyrdom or of the Jews' guilt.

Archbishop Alessandro Maria Gottardi of Trento, acting on Vatican instructions, has ordered the relics of Simon of Trent withdrawn from the local church of St. Peter and his cult, veneration and adoration ended.

Simon was the son of a gardener. The infant disappeared on Holy Thursday in 1475. On Easter Sunday his mutilated body was found in a ditch near a synagogue. Fifteen Jews were accused of ritual murder, tortured and executed.

Residents of this north Italian area, where the Council of Trent met between 1545 and 1563 to spark the Roman Catholic counter-reformation against protestantism, long considered Simon a martyr and a saint.

He became known as St. Simon of Trent, but the church never gave him the recognition.

Archbishop Gottardi said his order forbid Simon's cult "because the cause and grounds of Simon's death were never historically proved."

A spokesman for the archbishop said the banning of the cult had caused no reaction among Roman Catholics because Simon was not widely known in the present day.

EXPORT 44,000 CANADIAN CARS IN SEPTEMBER

OTTAWA (CP)—The bureau of statistics reported Monday 44,347 Canadian-made motor vehicles were shipped from Canadian plants in September, an 11.1 per cent decrease from the same month last year.

Canadian auto manufacturers delayed their annual production changeover to new models this year. August production, therefore, was unusually high at 22,766 vehicles compared with 8,383 and 4,627 in the two previous years.

Shipments in the first nine months of this year were 16.1 per cent higher at 598,876 units. Shipments of vehicles imported from the United States rose to 25,628 in the first nine months of this year compared with 9,049 last year.

Steel Demand Still Heavy, Will Continue

HAMILTON (CP) — The demand for most steel products still is heavy and the outlook for the remaining months of the year virtually assures a continuing high level of production and sales, V. W. Scully, president and chief executive, the Steel Company of Canada, Ltd., told shareholders in his quarterly report.

Sales and production increased in the third quarter and the first nine months of 1965 over the coresponding 1964 periods but profits were lower, he said.

Production climbed 9.3 per cent in the nine month period and sales 6.6 per cent but net profit was 7.7 per cent less than in the same 1964 period.

Mr. Scully said the decline in earnings was due principally to higher wages and other manufacturing costs, abnormal expenditures for relocating and rearranging existing plants to accommodate new facilities, cost of new production units, extra costs for steel purchases to help satisfy customers needs pending increased output from the Stelco's own plants, and financing the extensive program of expansion and development now in progress.

"The adjustment to selling prices, which became effective in the first half of the year, only partly offset the combined effect of these and other factors," Mr. Scully said.

New Fossil May Rewrite Fish History

CLEVELAND (AP)—The history of fish may have to be rewritten because of "new and undescribed" fossils found by the Natural Science Museum of Cleveland at a highway excavation site here.

The new history would be based on discovery of 25 formerly unknown specimens of fish.

The leader of the excavating team, William J. Hlavin, said finding the specimens means the history of the evolution of fish would have to be rewritten.

The prize discovery was made Friday, Hlavin said. It was a four-foot-long ganoid—the largest ever discovered. The ganoid is an early scale fish. Hlavin said this variety usually is three to five inches long.

Hlavin believes the excavation area was the site of two shallow seas long before the glacial period.

The fossils are embedded in a slate material known as Cleveland slate, which is about 90 feet deep. The team is digging some 10 to 12 feet below the normal surface.

London Bridge, the latest on the site (and built in 1831), is sinking one inch every eight years into the mud of the River Thames.

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

GIRL DISDAINS U.S. RESIDENCY

CAMARIOCA, Cuba (AP)—A 12-year-old girl begged Sunday not to be forced to go to the United States with her mother, who had come here from Miami, Fla., to take her away from their native Cuba.

"I ask Fidel (Castro) not to let them take me away from Cuba," she said firmly.

Cuban officials said the girl, Maida Fernandez, will undoubtedly be allowed to remain.

The girl's mother, a former Havana night-club and television entertainer, Miriam Balmori, left Cuba several years ago. She came back aboard a refugee craft to get her daughter, who had remained behind with an aunt.

Almost 3,000 persons have already left from here for the United States during the current exodus of refugees permitted by Castro's government.

Hallowe'en Vandals Busy Over Weekend

NEW YORK (AP) — There was the usual boisterous fun as Halloween was observed during the weekend, but the trick-or-treat season had some overtones of tragedy in the United States.

Near Washington Court House, Ohio, vandals burned down a 200-foot wooden covered bridge—one of the few such bridges left in the state.

At Pearsall, Tex., vandals set fires destroying a vacant house, a warehouse of baled hay, and show buildings belonging to the 4-H future Farmers of America Club.

At Acushnet, Mass., a 14-year-old boy lost one finger and suffered burns in the explosion of what was termed a "Halloween bomb."

Philadelphia police sent loudspeaker cars cruising through North Philadelphia warning residents of potentially dangerous medicinal capsules which were given trick or treating children. Authorities said they had recovered all but about 30 capsules. They said six capsules could kill a youngster. Source of the pills was traced to a retarded child who had mixed the medicine in with candies.

In Chicago, a 10-year-old girl was abducted by motorists who put her trick-or-treat bag over her head, took her to an apartment and raped her.

Also in Chicago, five teenagers wearing Halloween masks and face paints beat a young wife and took her wedding and engagement rings.

Two Chicago girls decided to stand on elevated railway tracks for "Halloween thrills." A speeding passenger train came along. One girl jumped to safety but Patricia Gillam, 15, was killed.

Earth's Dips and Bulges Pinpointed By Satellites

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Man-made satellites are revealing secrets about mother earth that most women prefer to keep confidential. But the trust is that our planet has more dips and bulges and a heftier waistline than a circus fat lady.

And the U.S. national aeronautics and space administration is about to launch the first of a new series of satellites which will tell even more about her not-too-curvaceous figure.

A geodetic explorer named Geos 1 is to be launched from Cape Kennedy Wednesday. It is equipped with flashing lights, laster beam reflectors and other equipment designed to give geodicists the best information yet on the shape of the earth and distances between far-apart places.

It is hoped Geos 1 and its successors will help pinpoint distances between ocean - separated cities to within 35 feet.

Presently, distances between cities on continuous well-mapped land masses such as New York City and Moscow are known only to within 500 to 1,000 feet. The exact location of some remote islands is off as much as 10 miles.

EARTH NOT ROUND

The value of satellites as map-makers was discovered in 1959 when the second U.S. satellite, the grapefruit-sized Vanguard 1, showed that the earth was not round but slightly pear shaped.

This was learned when tracking showed Vanguard 1 was circling the globe on a course that was not quite smooth.

Closer analysis showed the sea level at the North Pole was about 50 feet higher than was considered normal for a perfectly round earth. At the South Pole, the sea level was lower by about the same margin. Moreover, the bulge below the equator was about 50 feet greater than a bulge above it.

The defence department realized that targeting information for intercontinental range missiles might be hundreds of feet off and developed a series of satellites to help map the earth. They included the Anna and Secor geodetic satellites and the transit navigation satellites.

These payloads helped refine measurements and found that the earth has four corners and five troughs or depressions.

LOW POINTS FOUND

Each of the corners covers several thousand square miles, with a maximum distance of up to 450 feet between the high and low points. The high points are located near Okinawa, just west of Peru in the Pacific, east of Iceland in the North Atlantic and midway between Africa and Australia in the South Indian Ocean.

The lows, or depressions, are in the Antarctic, the Indian Ocean south of India, just off Charleston, S.C., midway between California and Hawaii and just south of the Aleutan chain in the North Pacific.

The satellite is studded with 322 prisms to reflect the beams of a laser, an electronic device that generates an extremely narrow shaft of light and retains its intensity over long distances. The time required for the light to shoot up to Geos 1 and return to earth will determine the satellite's position and thus aid in interpretation of geodetic information obtained from its lights and radio signals.

SEAMAN WASHED OVERBOARD IN IRELAND GALE

BELFAST (Reuters) — Five men were blown off the Norwegian Navy frigate Bergen Monday in a fierce gale off the northern tip of Ireland.

Canadian and British rescue planes and the Royal Navy survey ship Dalrymple hurried to the scene, in the east Atlantic 18 miles off Malin Head.

The seas were whipped to mountainous heights by 65-mile-an-hour winds lashing northern England.

The five Norwegians were washed overboard as the Bergen, her sister ship, the frigate Stavanger, and the Norwegian Navy's submarine Kinn were on their way to Londonderry Naval Base for anti-submarine exercises.

Former Prisoner Now President of Firm

BALTIMORE (AP) — Little more than a month ago, Jasper McGowan was number 5815 at the Maryland State Penitentiary, serving 15 years for the $19 holdup of a cleaning establishment.

Today, the 40-year-old singer is a free man and vice-president of Hope Enterprises Inc.

Betty Feodman, a realtor, was instrumental in getting his release. She also is president of Hope Enterprises, a small, independent record firm recently established.

McGowan's friendship with Mrs. Feldman began in 1962 when he sent her a hand-painted Christmas card after reading in a newspaper that she had been seriously injured in an automobile accident.

McGowan was freed Sept. 21 after his lawyer filed a habeas corpus proceeding citing a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision. Judge John E. Raine Jr. ordered a new trial, then released McGowan when the state decided to drop further prosecution.

A school dropout in the seventh grade, McGowan completed his high school education while in the penitentiary, became interested in woodworking and, at the time of his release, was foreman of the prison's woodworking shop.

He also was lead tenor of the Wayward Sons, a prison singing group.

Florida Coast Reels Under Worst Flooding

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Torrential rains which ended one of the wettest Octobers in Florida history have brought flooding along the state's lower east coast.

The Miami weather bureau reported up to 12 inches of water running through houses near Biscayne Bay Sunday.

Civil defence officials said 20 inches of rain fell in Boca Raton in 24 hours. Fort Lauderdale received nearly 13 inches, and at Coral Gables, three inches of rain fell in a single hour Sunday.

Pompano Beach reported nearly 10 inches of rain in a 24-hour period and Miami had 4.54 inches. West Palm Beach had 2.55 inches in six hours.

Towns from Boca Raton to Miami reported streets damaged by the heavy rains. Washouts were common.

The high school in Boca Raton was closed Monday as 18 inches of water swirled through ground-floor rooms.
