1000 SIGN UP FOR SUMMER PROGRAMS

SWIMMING INCLUDED IN RECREATION PROGRAM
Linda Loewen and Karen Ramsden at Gyro Park.

Varied Activities Start At Four Points Monday

A record 1,000 registrations have already signed up for the Civic Carousel summer recreation program, which will be launched Monday at four points [illegible] the city.

Encompassing arts and crafts, drama, gymnastics, beginners' ballet, nature lore, swimming, tennis, baseball and golf instruction, the program has the highest registration this year in its history.

According to a [illegible] official, approximately [illegible] children signed up for the extensive summer schedule of organized fun in 1964. Increased interest in the program this year has been attributed to the centre's stepped-up stressing of parks and recreation programs for both adults and children, a recent survey of which has just been completed.

Split into various classes and time schedules, the 6 week program will be held at Hume, Junior High and Rosemont Schools, as well as the Uphill Playground.

Beginning at 9:00 a.m., to noon, a "tiny-tot" recreation program will be held for children aged five to seven at the Hume School playground. There will also be an evening period between 6:30 and 8:30. Activities will be supervised by three recreation leaders, who have just completed a five-day training course at Trail sponsored by the Trail Athletic Association. Leaders are, Miss Margaret Young, who will supervise the Hume School program, Adell Sjoberg, at Uphill Playground, and Lorraine Stallwood, who has been assigned to duties at both Junior High and Rosemont Schools.

For more cultural tastes and age groups, arts and crafts classes, under Marie Bradshaw, will be held at the Junior High School for ages eight to 10. Instruction in the thespian arts will be conducted by Betty Keller for ages eight to 13 at the same [illegible]. Hours will be from 1 [illegible] noon, and from [illegible] p.m. [illegible] classes from [illegible] to 8:30.

Miss Terry Fyfe will conduct a gym class at Hume School for ages eight to 10 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., while beginner's ballet and tennis will be taught by Anne Dahlquist for age groups from 11 to 13 from 10:30 a.m. to noon at the same locale.

Nature lore will be the concern of Hank Turik, civic centre director, while beginners ages eight to 14 will come under the expert eye of Eric [illegible] between the hours of 10 [illegible] and 12:30 p.m. The [illegible] art will also be elaborated to age groups 13 to 18 between the hours of 6:30 and [illegible] p.m., at Queen Eliza-

This Is It!! Tax Cuts Start

OTTAWA (CP) — Salary and wage-earners this weekend realize the first effects of Finance Minister Gordon's April 27 income tax cut.

Pay cheques from employers for any pay period ending July 1 or later were to have less deducted from them for federal income tax than the rates prevailing during the first half of the year.

Employees on weekly pay rates who receive their cheques at the monthly, such as federal civil servants, will notice the tax cut about July 15. Workers paid at the end of the month have to wait four weeks.

But the tax cut means an extra flow of about $5,000,000 a week into the public's spending [illegible] the equivalent of about $5,000,000 a week.

The tax cut amounted to 10 per cent of the "basic tax" before adding amounts collected by Ottawa for transfer to the provinces under tax-sharing arrangements.

SET AT $600

The maximum amount of tax reduction was set at $600 a year for each taxpayer. Because the new rate went into effect at mid-year, the maximum reduction for any taxpayer in 1965 is $300.

Finance minister Gordon estimated the tax would cost the treasury $170,000,000 in the current fiscal year ending March 31 or [illegible] full year in [illegible] given up. [illegible]

U.S. Planes Hit Dien Bien Phu

Airfield, Barracks Pounded in Raid

SAIGON (AP) — Thirty U.S. Airforce planes worked over military targets Friday at Dien Bien Phu, symbol of France's defeat in the Indochina war by Communist-led guerrillas who are idols of the Viet Cong.

Strikes at the airfield and barracks of Dien Bien Phu, a jungle stronghold 185 miles west-northwest of Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital, highlighted a day of action on both sides of the Vietnamese border.

Pilots said they destroyed six barracks buildings, razed 12 other buildings and cratered the runway of the airfield in two 30-minute attacks.

They reported no opposition, air or ground, in that rugged area near the Laotian frontier where the surrender of Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries' decimated garrison to besieging forces of Gen. Von Nguyen Giap May 7, 1954, tolled the knell of the French colonial empire.

Twenty U.S. Navy pilots hit the Nam Binh oil tank farm in a raid that sent up 12,000-foot smoke columns that should have been clearly visible in Hanoi, 40 miles to the northwest. This strike was five miles closer to North Viet Nam's capital than any previously announced.

KILLED 120

In Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said South Vietnamese troops killed 120 Viet Cong guerrillas and captured eight in three ground operations. Most of the casualties were reported inflicted in a fight in South Viet Nam's Thua Thien province, 400 miles north of Saigon.

Air strips at Cheo Reo and Soc Trang came under Communist mortar attacks before dawn. Briefing officers said three helicopters were damaged at Cheo Reo, 220 miles northeast of Saigon, and one helicopter crashed due to mechanical failure after it took off to evade the shelling at Soc Trang, 100 miles southeast of Saigon.

Hays' Breakfast Starts Stampede

CALGARY (CP)—An early-morning breakfast that packs some 2,500 guests onto Agriculture Minister Harry Hays' suburban farm, an international air show and a press club barbecure and dance this weekend will kick off the Calgary Stampede July 5-10.

The Stampede, Western Canada's biggest outdoor summer attraction, drew some 573,000 persons last year and officials hope the total will move closer to 600,000 this year as spectators take in the rodeo, midway and grandstand events.

Theme this year is "Salute to the cowboy."

First Fed.-Prov. Outside Ottawa

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett said Friday the first federal - provincial conference ever held outside Ottawa will be called here in 1966.

Prime Minister Pearson has agreed to the proposal, made several months ago by the premier.

Mr. Bennett called the conference the start of "a new drive I am making for Canadian unity."

The conference will coincide with the centennial of union of the crown colonies of Vancouver Island and the mainland.

First Details VC-10 Plane

LONDON (Reuters) — First details of a giant new Super VC-10 two-deck airliner, capable of carrying 265 passengers from London to New York, were announced here tonight by the British Aircraft Corporation.

The corporation said the airliner would be only 33 feet longer than the existing 180-seat version and would use the same engines, wings and tail structure.

Eighty per cent of its passengers would be carried on the top deck and the remainders below.

Cabinet Change Next Week

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday he hopes to announce cabinet changes next week.

He made it clear the changes will include appointment of a new justice minister to replace the resigned Guy Favreau.

Beyond that, it was not certain how far they might go.

Report No V.D. In Area Schools

The Selkirk Health Unit on Friday said that there are no cases of venereal disease in the schools of Nelson School District Seven. A report of 14 cases in the schools resulted from wording of the unit's annual report.

A spokeswoman for the Selkirk Health Units said Friday that the unit uses Nelson School District Seven boundaries to define its area, and the annual report had not clarified this point. She said there were 14 cases of V.D. in the area of the school district in 1964, but no cases in the schools.

The spokeswoman said, also that there had been a case of poisoning from pills, and one from weed killer, in the area in 1964, but no deaths had resulted.

Pope Paul May Visit United Nations in N.Y.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul, history's most-travelled Roman Catholic pontiff, has been invited to visit the United Nations. Vatican sources said Friday he well may go, probably next year.

The Vatican broke weeks of official silence on published speculation about such an unprecedented papal visit to the United States in a press office communique which said Pope Paul had expressed his appreciation to UN Secretary-General U Thant for the invitation.

The communique said it is premature to say when, or whether, the Pope might go to New York. But the fact that the announcement was made by the Vatican at all was taken as an indication that the Pope has the trip under serious consideration. General belief is that he has not definitely made up his mind, but is inclined to accept Thant's invitation.

Vatican sources commented that if he does not intend to go to New York, the Vatican press office probably would not have been authorized to make an announcement that might later cause disappointment.

There was no indication whether he would travel in the U.S. beyond the United Nations.

Msgr. Alberto Giovannetti, Vatican observer to the UN, said in New York Thursday it is hoped the pontiff would visit the UN during its coming [illegible] session. That session convenes Sept. 21, recesses for Christmas, and resumes next year.

TIDAL WAVE ALERT QUASHED

VICTORIA (CP) — Civil Defence said Friday night a tidal wave alert, issued along the British Columbia coast and U.S. coastal states, has been cancelled.

John Erb, provincial Civil Defence co-ordinator, said it had been ascertained that no tidal wave had been generated by a severe earthquake which struck in the Aleutian Islands, southwest of Alaska, Friday afternoon.

Cancellation of the alert came from Honolulu, Erb said.

France Eases Common Market Worries

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The gloom hanging over the Brussels headquarters of the European Common Market lifted slightly Friday as France agreed provisionally to a meeting of ministers of the six member countries July 26-27.

Reliable sources said Thursday that France would block further development of the Common Market by not sending ministers to meetings, following failure to agree on agriculture prices and tariffs. Important decisions affecting the market have to be unanimous.

French Ambassador Jean Marc Boegner said he has not received instructions to stay away from the council of ministers' meeting. Another meeting, of the council with Turkey, was also scheduled Friday, for July 28.

There was no assurance, however, that France would actually send a delegate or that if one was sent he would be empowered to consent to any important decisions.

NO POLICY DECISION

The threatened impasse in Common Market matters is the result of the failure to agree on an agriculture policy by June 30, when previous agreements expired.

France refused to agree to a proposal by the executive commission which would turn over the proceeds of agricultural and industrial tariffs to the Common Market's parliament, which would have to be given added powers to spend the money.

France would have been the major beneficiary of the agricultural tariffs, but was firmly opposed to any strengthening of the largely advisory six - country parliament.

French Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte said Thursday "everything is at a standstill" following the agriculture impasse.

France's five Common Market partners — West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — and executive head professor Walter Hallstein of West Germany have stated publicly that discussions should continue in an effort to solve the Common Market problems.

Hallstein said the commission would present new proposals after bilateral contacts with each of the member states.

West German spokesman Karl Guenther von Hase said in Bonn Friday that his government hopes France's attitude at the Common Market ministers' meeting would be calculated to avoid strife.

Visitors Receive Special Treatment

Out of town drivers who break traffic regulations in the City of Nelson are given special treatment by the City Police.

They are given a special ticket which says:

"Welcome to Nelson, Queen City of the Kootenays.

"Nelson City Police Department.

"You have violated a traffic bylaw, but, as our Guest, and through the courtesy of the City Council, you are exempt from this infraction.

"During the rest of your stay in our fair city, would you please endeavor to comply with our local traffic bylaws."

The ticket then outlines some of the local traffic bylaws and concludes with the following note:

"We trust that your visit has been pleasant and that you did partake of the scenic beauty of our lovely parks. We hope you enjoyed the swimming, the boating, the fishing, the golf, etc., and sincerely hope we may have the pleasure of seeing you in our city again."

Kaslo Man Dies Aged 80

Alexander Cameron of Mirror Lake, B.C., died in the Victorian Hospital, Kaslo, on Thursday at the age of 80.

Born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1884, he spent many years on the prairies before coming to B.C. in 1940. He had spent most of his time since that period in the Kaslo district, working as a logger in the Lardeau district. He retired several years ago.

He never married, and there are no known survivors.

Satisfying Performances By Trail Junior Horsemen

The Trail Junior Horsemen's Project came to a successful conclusion Sunday after months of careful preparation. Chairman Tom Fell expressed great satisfaction in the performances throughout the course and at Sunday's show.

The four months of evening lectures and afternoon demonstrations at the grounds have done much to improve the calibre of the youngsters' ability and the care of their mounts. Judge for the day was R. E. "Dick" Scott of Grand Forks who handled the classes efficiently and took time after each event to tell the juniors how they might improve another year.

The project marks were compiled out of a possible 700 points by totalling marks given for inspection of home stables, inspection and questioning at the show, sportsmanship and manners, trail ride competition, pleasure riders class and showmanship class.

Competitor having the highest score for the entire course won the major prize—the service of a registered quarter horse stallion Red King Leo Bar. This was donated by Mac and John McLeod of Fruitvale. Winners of the four divisions, 'A' Colts, boys up to 14 years; 'B' Hackamores, boys 14-17 years, Fillies, girls up to 14 years and 'D' Saddlebags, girls 14-17 years won trophies donated by George and Francis Bloor of Fruitvale. Ribbons to third place were presented in all classes, including gymkhana games held Sunday afternoon.

Champion of the course and winner of the Saddlebags division with a total of 644 points was Karen Williams, Warfield, riding Banou's Zraffa. Reserve champion and winner of the Hackamores division with 639 points was Bobby Richards, Fruitvale, riding Little Coquette. Winner of the Colts division with 598 points was Warren Selfrit, Casino, riding Shawnee and winner of the Fillies division with 632 points was Gwen Plested, Park Siding, riding Comanchie.

Blewett Woman Dies Aged 73

Mrs. Lucy Planiden, wife of Harry Planiden of Blewett died suddenly at her home Wednesday at the age of 73.

Born in Russia in 1892, she came to Saskatchewan with her parents about 1898. They later moved to Ootischenia where she married Mr. Planiden in 1911. They lived in Ootischenia for a time before moving to Kylemore, Saskatchewan. They farmed there for several years and returned to Brilliant. The couple also resided at Shoreacres for a time, and moved to Blewett in 1937 where she has resided since.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, Harry and Pete, both of Blewett, and Nick of Revelstoke, one daughter, Mrs. John (Helen) Mahonen of Emerald Mine, one sister, Mrs. Polly Poznikoff of Shoreacres, nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. One son, George, predeceased her in 1961.

Award Mica Dam Road Contract

B.C. Hydro has awarded Square M. Construction Ltd. and Coleman Collieries Ltd., of Edmonton, a $1,800,000 contract to build a bypass road around the site of Mica Dam and to reconstruct a section of the Big Bend Highway.

The bypass road on the east side of the Columbia River at Mica Damsite, 92 miles north of Revelstoke, will permit road traffic to loop past the dam during the construction phase.

It will join the Big Bend Highway on either side of the 640-foot-high dam and will be built about 600 feet above the present road.

The contract includes the reconstruction of the Big Bend Highway from Mica Village, six miles downstream from the damsite, to Boat Encampment about the same distance upstream from the dam at the apex of the Big Bend.

Work on the gravel highway will start immediately and is scheduled for completion in October next year.

The contract also includes construction of new bridges across Mica Creek and Potlatch Creek downstream from the damsite.

IWA Convention Here July 10

The sixth annual convention of Local 1-405, International Woodworkers of America, will be held here on Saturday, July 10, it was announced by IWA business agent Jack Munro Friday.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m., and the business sessions will start at 9:30 a.m.

More than 20 resolutions from various sub-locals of East and West Kootenays will be on the agenda. Ed Haw, regional counsel second vice-president, will be among the speakers of the day.

Mr. Munro said that more than 70 delegates are expected to attend.

FIGHT GRASS FIRES

GREENFIELD, Mass. (AP)—An estimated 500 firemen and volunteers battled a series of grass and brush fires along 50 miles of track Thursday in the wake of a diesel passenger train. Fire officials said the blazes may have been started by diesel exhaust or rail sparks from a Boston and Maine passenger train.

Seek Nomination Herridge Says

Kootenay West Federal NDP member H. W. "Bert" Herridge, MP, will again let his name stand for nomination at the New Democratic Party convention to be held this fall.

Mr. Herridge announced three months ago that he would not seek the nomination, and that he was going to retire.

"The wife and I had a talk," he said, as he announced his change of mind.

Male Quartet To Notre Dame

A world renown male quartet, featuring soloist Robert McFerrin, baritone, who is hailed by many critics as one of today's greatest American voices, will be featured at Notre Dame University July 16.

As part of the NDU Summer School of the Arts, the California Jubilee Singers, organized and trained by Mr. McFerrin, will appear at Maryhall. Several European impresarios requested the Negro singer to organize the impresarios group.

Mr. McFerrin appeared as soloist and a member of the group during the fall of 1964 while making a tour of the Scandinavian countries, Germany, France, Belgium, Italy and Greece.

Plassero Paris Bound For Stampede

INVERMERE — Plassero Paris will attend the Calgary Stampede parade on Monday with his pretty Lake Windermere mermaiden, Miss Doreen Weppler astride him.

Last year the pair won fourth place in their class at Calgary. Third place in the Kelowna Regatta, and this year took second prize at the Creston Blossom Festival. They will also go to Kelowna later this summer.

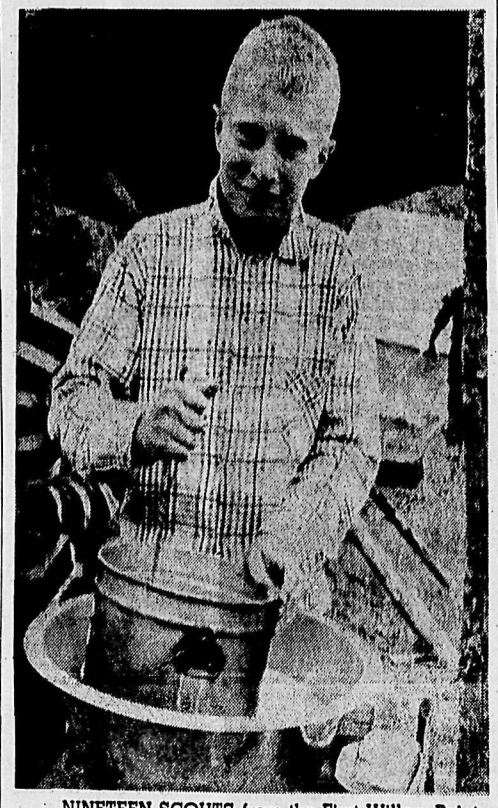
Voters Favor Water Supply

INVERMERE — Invermere ratepayers passed a water supply bylaw to bring domestic water from the Paddy Ryan-Goldie Creek to this village.

The vote was 166 in favor to 67 opposed, and was held Wednesday. An affirmative vote of 60 per cent was required. The favorable vote registered was 71 per cent.

A record number of voters, 244, turned out to the polls.

SCOUT'S SUMMER STARTS



NINETEEN SCOUTS from the First Willow Point Troop participated in their annual summer camp June 25 to July 1 at Johnson's Landing near Argenta.

Under the watchful eye of scoutmaster H. L. Learmonth, and assistants D. R. Fawcett and R. Tremblay, the boys took part in various outdoor activities, including a tour of Duncan Dam and hikes up Fry and Hammil Creeks.

Special guests during the outing were G. Fleming, district commissioner, and Paul Deakin, scoutmaster, during visitors' day, Sunday, June 27. Parents of scouts also visited the camp, with a special rhubarb pie treat prepared for the evening repast by Mrs. H. L. Learmonth.

No Change in Tourist Setup Of District Chambers

CRESTON — A Cranbrook recommendation that the Kootenay-Boundary Associated Chambers break its tourist committee into two sections comprising East and West Kootenay was vetoed at the quarterly meeting of the Association held here June 26.

Amid discussion which rang with the expressions, "hanging onto our shirttails," and "freeloaders," the motion to split the tourist committee area found disfavor with Trail representatives who pointed out that too few people in the tourist industry were active members in their chamber.

Although feeling that the Cranbrook proposal was "ideal," Creston felt that even less money would be collected if the job was handled by motel and service station personnel. It noted that the Creston Motel Association was disbanded and that lake resort owners were only light contributors.

The Cranbrook representative noted that its chamber was doing the work for tourist industry people who were getting the biggest part of the tourist dollar.

General observation was that only some $7000 was collected by all participating chambers last year out of a total of $15,000 government matching grant objective.

Harry Harrison, past president of the Nelson Chamber of Commerce, told the meeting that the problem was a matter of efficient, determined salesmanship and collection. He earlier had outlined the tourist dollar-split by the government as being: foodstuffs, 29 cents; transportation, 24 cents; accommodation, 20 cents; department and novelty stores, 17 cents; entertainment, six cents and miscellaneous, four cents. "Proper cataloguing of businesses and setting of respective quotas" was necessary, Mr. Harrison said. He chastised Rossland for not putting enough effort into raising funds.

Cranbrook's proposal was to split East and West Kootenay sections into tourist associations committees, with power to deal directly with people associated with the tourist industry. A supporting brief stated that in Kamloops, Okanagan, Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island zones the collection of funds and the matching of grants from the government were handled by associations involving people directly concerned with the tourist industry with only chamber participation. It had been a struggle, the brief continued, for the associated chambers to make the matching grant program successful primarily because of the natural barrier between East and West.

While the Cranbrook motion itself was defeated, the recommendation of a vice-chairmanship for East and West tourist committee was approved.

No Election Say So-Creds

The Kootenay West Social Credit Association felt no concern about the possibility of an imminent federal election at their annual meeting in the Nelson Chamber of Commerce office Monday evening.

In view of this feeling the nomination of a candidate is to be held at a later date, but there are no definite plans.

The representatives at the meeting held no strong objections to the new federal electoral district boundaries, however, the executive was instructed to study the matter and to take action if necessary.

They did feel however that the new Okanagan-Kootenay riding was geographically large and would pose transportation problems to the MP.

Ted Brothers was elected president of the association.

He is to select his own secretary from the Trail district.

Representatives from Nelson, Trail, Castlegar, Nakusp and the West Arm attended the meeting.

Three Auto Crashes Over the Holiday

Nelson city police investigated three automobile accidents Wednesday and Thursday.

Two cars were involved in a collision on Government Road near the B.A. bulk plant when they pulled onto the highway.

Both drivers told police they waited for a number of cars to pass on the arterial highway and then proceeded to drive onto the highway.

Neither driver saw the other until they collided.

The cars were driven by Melville J. Gee and Robert Foxall both of Nelson.

A nine-years-old girl was taken to hospital with cuts on her head and $400 damage was sustained by two cars when they collided at the intersection of Vernon and Ward Streets, Wednesday shortly after six o'clock.

The cars were driven by Charles Thomas Conry of Trail and Mrs. Elvira Laurino of Nelson.

Nine-year-old Maria Laurino was taken to Kootenay Lake General Hospital by her mother.

An unidentified car proceeding at a high rate of speed and with lights on high beam forced a swerve, jump the curb, break through an iron railing and to fall onto its roof early Thursday morning.

Cherenko was driving south on High Street about 1:50 a.m. and ended upside down on Park Street.

Cherenko was not injured but damage to his car was estimated at $300.

Teen Theatre Needs Actors

Budding young male actors are urgently required by the Nelson Recreation Commission to take part in its Summer Teen Theatre program that will get underway on Monday.

Mrs. Betty Keller, in charge of the theatre program, said that plans are already under way for the production of "Harvey", at the end of July, and there is room for young male actors in the cast.

The Teen Theatre program will get underway Monday at the Trafalgar Junior Secondary School.

Special Mass Held For Dead Teacher

A special mass service for a Notre Dame University instructress, killed in a car accident, will be held on the campus for faculty members Friday morning.

President, Reverend Aquinas Thomas, S.A., will conduct the mass for Miss J. L. Chiechi, who will be buried at West Orange, New Jersey, at the same time.

She was killed in an Iowa car crash on the weekend while enroute to the University. Miss D M. Paramkas, instructor in the Department of Modern Languages at NDU for the past year, was injured in the crash.

The two women were travelling to Nelson to assume duties on the summer school teaching staff when the collision occurred. Miss Chiechi was joining the staff for the first time.

Anniversary Couple Honored in Nelson

MR. AND MRS. J. T. HARVIE

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harvie were honored on their 25th wedding anniversary when 40 friends dropped in on a surprise pot-luck supper last Sunday.

Planned as garden party, chilly weather called for indoor activities. The large dining table was quickly covered in white linen with a huge bouquet of pale blue delphinium flanked by white tapers in crystal holders and silver ribbon streamers.

The honorees were genuinely surprised, and were a few minutes recovering from the "shock" before they could join in on the buffet style banquet.

During the evening an old family friend, L. R. Burton, proposed a toast to the couple and presented the "bride" with a chain of 25 silver dollars taped to silver lace ribbon. The chain had to be drawn from a silver wishing well arranged by Mrs. R. Hawes, and was then draped about Mrs. Harvie'sshoulders.

Decorated in pale blue on white, a special wedding cake was cut and served to the guests by the "bride and groom."

A phone call from their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ring of Kamloops, and one from Mr. Harvie's sister, Mrs. A. B. Laithwaite of Vancouver, where highlights of the celebration.

Sea Called Sailor From Honeymoon, Celebrates 50th Anniversary Here

Two days with his bride were all that Thomas Dalrymple could spare following their wedding at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Waterloo, Liverpool, before he set out to sea again for six months with the merchant service.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple have spent 50 years of married life in England and Canada since that day. Leaving the sea, they came to Canada in 1925 and have made their home at Willow Point, where they farmed.

At the time of their marriage, First Officer Dalrymple was aboard a ship bearing horses and mules, remounts for the British Army, from Newport News, Virginia, to Alexandria.

Mr. Dalrymple voyaged in the last three-masted barque to New Zealand from London for Shaw, Saville, Albion and Company, dealing in wool and frozen meat. One of that company's sailing ships was first to bring frozen meat from New Zealand to the old country, he recalls.

Sailing on the first steam freighter, they were caught in bad seas in the Australian Bight. The ship loaded with lead concentrates from Port Pirie, Spence's Gulf, in South Australia, was headed for Antwerp, but they were forced to seek land when they lost their lifeboats in the high seas.

Travelling by sea from London to New Zealand in those days took 42 days by steam boat, compared to 105 days by barque, Mr. Dalrymple explains.

A sailor since 1905, when he went to sea at the age of 15 years, Mr. Dalrymple took up farming on arrival in Canada. He has also been a gardener at the Blaylock estate, where the flower beds and lawn are often remarked by travellers.

Mrs. Dalrymple is an artist and has a much admired collection of water colors. She is also an accomplished pianist.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple attend the Arts and Crafts meetings Friday afternoons and many of the members were present at a small reception held Friday afternoon by Mrs. Caroline M. Moen for the anniversary celebrants. Also attending were friends from Willow Point. Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple now make their home in Nelson.

Messages of congratulation were received from Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Provincial Secretary W. D. Black, Lt. Gov. George Pearkes and Mayor E. T. Bodard.

Salmo Party Line

SALMO — Some how, some way, we'v e got to put it over to the coast people that the Kootenays are beatuifully alive and craving more tourists.

Whilst on a recent trip to the Island, I chatted briefly with a young lady who was acting as a guide to B.C. tourists. I had noted there was a lack of interior brochures, but scads of Cariboo and Okanagan literature.

On query, the guide said she had a large folder in her bag "if anyone should ask about the Kootenays."

Big Deal !

Strangely enough, coast friends dropped in who had just returned from the Peace River project and commented on the fact that the Duncan and Arrow dams are not yet receiving much publicity at the coast but the Peace is on everyone's tongue.

I wonder how come. Guess we need more Kootenay ambassadors.

Our Minister of Highways is indeed beautifying the countryside with the seeding of flowers and grass by both plane and high pressure spraying by truck.

I've watched the latter, and later seen the results. Makes for handsome banks and byways. The greens of the grasses are pretty and restful, besides acting in a dual capacity of binding the dirt and so on together, thus discouraging small slides.

We growl and complain about the old boy, but he does have a few clever ideas.

* * *

The Dominion Day parade floats here included both the hilarious and beautiful ideas of uncounted people. The only flaw was the fact it was, without warning, brought down another street on which no one expected it, consequently more than half the spectators missed most of it.

It is hoped another year directional arrows or mobile speaker could be on hand to announce any changes or direct the unsuspecting public in the proper direction. Those who devoted their time and efforts to these really cleverly designed floats are to be commended for their ingenuity and sense of humor.

Bye now, hope to chat along the line next week.

Mediterranean Styling Popular

The romantic appeal of Mediterranean or Spanish styling elegance has found expression in furniture and furnishings for every room of the modern home. Intricate grille and lattice-work provide ideal charm for occasional tables in the living room of a tasteful home. The heavier silhouette and the imaginative crafting of geometric designs on rich cabinetry lends itself gracefully to Spanish influenced dining room suites.

One manufacturer has applied these artisan tastes to the modern home settings. Their designers comment that the natural mellow warmness of Spanish-Mediterranean style, plus an elegance that rivals French or Italian Provincial, is responsible for the tremendous popularity that products of this design enjoy.

Since the history of Mediterranean decor reflected strong contrasts in design treatment, modern interpretations of the styles trend find many products used as accent pieces. Since the design era or original Mediterranean styling touched Spanish, Italian and French influences, the ability to mix or match with modern decorator motifs is evident. Also the current popularity of Mediterranean design is not likely to wane, but live well into the future of 20th century furniture and furnishings.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Sunday, July 4, 1965

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—A less stimulating day than you may wish, but there's ample room for your talents to expand and enliven, which they should. Make some time for relaxation.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Your emotions could get out of hand. So could any number of things become bothersome, If you permit. Stress tolerance and understanding!

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) Summarize past gains and future potentialities, and it will help you take the right steps for advancement now. Don't strive for the unreasonable, however.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Avoid excess motion, useless wordage; be discriminating in all that you do and say. Make no drastic changes in things now running smoothly.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) Emphasize your innate integrity, reliability and resourcefulness. These can carry you far now, along with the Leoite's buoyant nature. Review past week; determine to weed out unessentials in the future.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Stress your inborn prudence and discernment now. Constructive interests favored. Avoid doubts and fears. You should have a bright and happy day.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Explore further means to solve problems that came up in the past, are still on the docket. Fulfill a cherished wish by going after it. Don't just daydream.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Stop to consider whatever is expected of you and how best to handle it. Tackle first things first and don't be side-tracked by non-essentials.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—Capitalize on your talents and handle your obligations in a productive way. This day has many advantages, benefits.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn) — Mixed influences. You may face some odd situations while travelling, or through communications. Obstacles, taken philosophically, could prove interesting as challenges.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—Tackle all situations without taking a dim view of problem areas. There are always solutions — many! The eager, watchful and hopeful eye sees them more quickly.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—If you let this day go by without accomplishing at least two good turns, you will not be happy about it. There is more opportunity to assist—and thereby gain — than you may realize. Ignore critics.

YOU BORN TODAY are a sensitive, deep-feeling, deeply-rooted individual, with a wealth of talent and a gift for entertaining. Once you have learned how to regulate your life, take the bitter with the sweet philosophically, put fears and skepticism out of mind, and discipline yourself to realize the value in obstacles and opposition, you can go far. Easy success never taught anyone much, nor whetted an appetite for further achievement. Control emotions firmly, learn more facts about your occupation, be ready to make decisions and take action —with logic. Birthdate of: Nathaniel Hawthorne, writer; Calvin Coolidge, 30th U.S. president.

Hospital Auxiliary Has Supper Party

Fall projects took priority in discussion at the business meeting following the barbecue supper of the Junior Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary held at the lakeside home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McGregor at Bealby's Point.

Mrs. J. L. Smith, president, took the chair for the meeting, at which $200 was voted to the hospital for a set of bed rails and an air conditioner for the Central Sterlizing Room.

A coffee party for the hospital staff is planned for September 22. A beach party and potluck supper will be held August 2 for members and their families at the McGregor home.

All coupons were turned in for the Golden Book.

A letter was read from former member, Mrs. P. H. Dutton. Names of new members were submitted.

The next meeting will be held September 13.

Hints From Heloise

By Heloise Cruse

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

If the din during the "children's hour" (that time between school's dismissal and Dad's homecoming) is driving Mama over the brink, two little wads of cotton — one in each ear — takes the edge off the shrieks (be they shrieks of pleasure or simple indignation).

The clan still can get through to Mama, if she's needed, but lowering the volume during this time surely makes it easier for her to smile and be gracious during dinner.

Mother of Seven.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I save the cardboards that come in my husband's shirts when they are returned from the laundry.

When draining fried foods, I slip one of the cardboards under the paper towelling on which these foods will be placed to drain.

It prevents grease from seeping through onto the counter, and also saves extra towelling.

After use, just throw away.

Mrs. Harold Bozarth.

Dear Heloise:

Whenever I make a garment for a grandchild, I always make a matching garment for the child's doll or teddy bear.

The grandchildren just love them.

THE GIN THAT WON THE WEST

When Englishmen first came to their Western Canadian ranches their taste for LONDON DRY GIN came with them.

What more natural thing to do here — where fine grain and glacial water produce splendid spirits — than to import botanicals, such as juniper, coriander and other exotic flora, and begin distilling gin in the LONDON DRY tradition?

From this heritage comes RANCHMAN'S — the western gin with the English accent.

Next time, ask for RANCHMAN'S GIN . . . in any accent you like.

Dorion Report

Hon. Guy Favreau made the correct decision yesterday in resigning his portfolio as minister of justice in the Liberal cabinet.

He might have felt impelled not to resign on grounds that his integrity had not been under question in the Dorion inquiry. But his judgment was, and it was commented upon quite unfavorably in the inquiry report which was made public Tuesday.

Under the circumstances, Mr. Favreau could only have become a liability to the government if he stayed in his post. More importantly, the justice department might have suffered an impairment of public confidence and, certainly, it could have become the object of damaging opposition sniping.

The situation last summer and fall which developed as a result of attempts to bribe and pressure a Quebec lawyer into arranging bail for suspected narcotics conspirator demanded firm and immediate action on the part of justice department authorities as soon as it came to their attention. That the situation was misread and action was not taken, only opened the way to a series of events which culminated in an explosion that rocked Parliament.

Chief Justice Frederic Dorion who conducted an exhaustive inquiry into the scandal thus exposed, stated in his findings tabled in the Commons yesterday, that Mr. Favreau should have consulted his legal advisers instead of deciding on his own last September that action in the reported bribe case need not be taken. This appears to be the only conclusion which could be reached in light of the evidence produced during the lengthy inquiry.

It scarcely needs to be stated that the national department of justice needs to be headed by a firm, decisive minister. Not only in this case but on other occasions, Mr. Favreau, whose legal and other talents are recognizedly great, has seemed to lack that quality of toughness so needed in this demanding ministry. Fortunately, his abilities will not be lost to the cabinet, since another portfolio is to be offered to him.

Another important finding of the Dorion report concerned an offence against the Criminal Code said to have been committed by a person not identified, and evidence revealed at the inquiry, of conspiracy to obstruct the course of justice. The onus is now on justice authorities to institute legal action where necessary, as revealed during hearings into the Lucien Rivard attempted bribery affair. Prime Minister Pearson announced yesterday that steps already have been taken in this matter.

A third finding of major importance in the Dorion inquiry concerns the part played by RCMP officialdom in investigations carried out last fall into bribe allegations made by Quebec lawyer Pierre Lamontagne. Chief Justice Dorion was strongly critical of the RCMP investigation methods employed in the case. Evidence of delay and an astonishing lack of efficiency on the part of the RCMP was brought out during the hearings and it is not surprising that the report should contain words of censure.

As anticipated, the report also condemns the employment of English-speaking investigators to question French-speaking persons. Everyone must wonder along with Chief Justice Dorion why this sort of thing could have been countenanced by RCMP higher authority in a matter of such importance. Surely the RCMP employs officers fluent in the French language.

Canadians must feel a sense of sad, not to say shocking, disillusionment to see their great national police force exposed in such an embarrassing and revealing way. Obviously some prompt and bold corrective action is needed here as in any other quarter dealt with by the Dorion inquiry.

The whole Rivard affair is something Canadians would like to forget. From one point of view it has been a shameful and disgusting affair, although not without its farcical side in minor respects. There is another side to the picture, however. Action followed swiftly on the heels of public revelation. The government set up an absolutely impartial inquiry and made no attempts to influence it in any respect. Lessons in the growing importance of qualities of integrity in high places have been engraved on the political and public consciousness of this nation. The way to end corruption is to make plain that it does not pay. Perhaps an important step has been taken along the road to that goal in Canada.—Calgary Herald.

Cuba's Planners Lose Money

HAVANA— Though desperately short of cash, Cuba has for years been throwing away good money on her imports, a rare piece of governmental self-criticism shows.

It appears that the Cuban state planners bought machine tools and other vital equipment at prices that were more than 50 per cent higher than their world market value. Most of Cuba's recent purchases abroad were found to have cost between 10 and 15 per cent more than their current international prices.

The many departments and agencies of Cuba's Communist economy are firing broadsides of memos at one another to fix the blame, but rare is the transaction where any funds paid out can be recovered. Foreign trade is a state monopoly here. The affair of the excessive import prices implies that commerce with Cuba in defiance of United States displeasure can be very lucrative.

In the latest issue of Comercio exterior, the official quarterly of the foreign trade ministry, an article by editor Pedro Rios said that the ministry's price control has been unsatisfactory and that in various state enterprises work has remained "half-paralyzed" when searching questions as to how they were operating began to be asked.

The article reveals that a Soviet economic expert served in Havana from 1962 to 1964 to work out procedures for Cuba's foreign trade policy and to train a team of Cuban officials to apply them.

The Soviet system, the article says, aims at "preventing bad purchases" rather than promoting postmortems. However, after a promising start sluggish work bogged down the new foreign trade system, the magazine affirms.

It states that excessive prices were paid for raw materials and goods that had to be imported under emergency conditions "on orders from above"—obviously from Premier Fidel Castro—to stave off work stoppages and "serious internal repercussions."

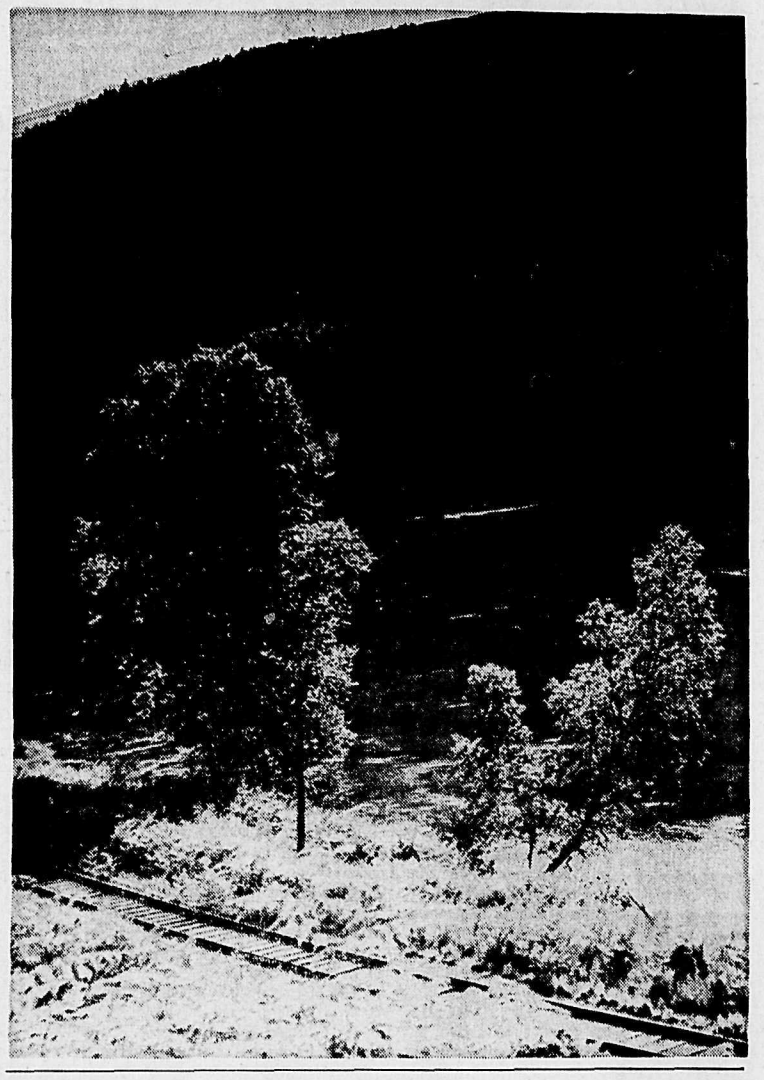
SLOCAN VALLEY SCENE



Russia's Valentina Oreicova

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—During the Second World War, when most women were selling victory bonds or knitting sweaters for boy friends or husbands overseas, diminutive Valentina Oreicova was ordering tough seamen around on a Russian merchant ship between Murmansk and Western ports.

Valentina, in her mid-50s and with traces of grey in her light brown hair, now is captain of the 3,300 - ton Russian water tanker Pirjatin, one of 12 water-carrying ships that service the huge Soviet fishing fleet on the Grand Banks.

Her crew calls her Mama and obey her simplest order without question or hesitation. Interviewed during one of her visits to this port while the ship was loading fresh water, she said her job is no more difficult for a woman than a man.

"My boys are good," she said. "They are all well-educated." Russian seamen, who visit this port almost daily from the more than 200 Russian ships carrying out fishing operations on the Grand Banks, are strikingly different from seamen of other nationalities. They are, almost without exception, well-dressed, quiet and courteous.

Born in a small Siberian seaport on the Barents Sea, Capt. Oreicova says she prepared for a life at sea, almost from early childhood. "When I was first high enough to see out of my window," she remembers, "I saw the beautiful picture of the clear blue sea and tiny ships sailing."

SERVED AS MATE

Her first real contact with the sea and ships was at the Leningrad Marine School where she enrolled after she graduated from the University of Leningrad. She spent six years at the school before being assigned as mate on a Russian merchant steamer that was to carry supplies to war-weary Russians on the treacherous Murmansk run.

After the war, she was appointed captain of a Russian merchant ship and served on several others before receiving her present appointment in 1960.

Although Valentina says she cannot understand why people think a woman commanding a ship is so outstanding, she admits that she is the only woman captain in the Soviet Union and that she has been awarded the Russian Gold Star for her achievement. She also admits that only about 2,000 persons have ever won the award for any reason.

Her gold star entitles her to be called a "Hero of the Trade of the U.S.S.R."

"I'm always ready for action, because this is my job," she said in her easily understandable but broken English. She said she—and most of her crew—study English. Valentina also can converse in French, Spanish and "some Chinese."

Burdled in a heavy coat with her bemedalled tunic peeking through, the five-foot, 100-pound woman captain doesn't seem to command much authority through her appearance. But the white beret denotes a Russian sea captain and she has never had an order refused or disobeyed.

STANDS UP FOR WOMEN

On the bridge, she does the work of a man. In the ship's tidy but small lounge snugged in the great bow of the ship, she appears in casual skirt and blouse and sips tea. She reads a lot and enjoys Jack London, Ernest Hemingway and Longfellow's poetry.

She relaxes by listening to recorded classical music and describes Van Cliburn, whom she saw in Moscow in 1961, as "a simple fellow, very nice."

Her eyes flash when she is asked for her views on a woman's place in the world. She says emphatically that women, in all countries, should take "an active role in every phase of life." She says they should "work at everything they can."

Questioned by women reporters during the interview, Valentina carefully described American women as "very charming and pleasant."

She consumes cup after cup of tea, prefers strong Russian cigarettes and doesn't like caviar. She thinks bikinis and other scant clothes are "fine — for young people."

Valentina is the pride of her 41-member crew. One of the crew members, asked whether Russian men felt superior to women, said Russian men believe all people, men and women, have the right and opportunity to become superior.

"All but Captain Oreicova," he said laughingly. "She was born superior."

CIVIL DEFENCE

In almost every emergency there are always many volunteers ready to assist. Civil Defence stresses that it is important to have leaders trained so that the maximum benefit can be derived from this volunteer aid.

JUST A LINE . . .

by Jean Baker

I like to have people phone, write or stop me on the street to chat about "Just a Line" yarns. They enrich the background of these small histories with their own experiences.

It is encouraging to have even "youngsters" mention that they, also, used to skirt Coal Oil Johnny's fearsome "glory hole" when they climbed Elephant Mountain, because I don't want to write only about what we older generation can remember.

Nelson residents who are themselves part of the living history of our city have been wonderful in contributing additions to stories published so far. Others who have not lived so many decades but who find interest in what I consider the worthwhile sidelines of our existence have profferred enough material for another week's column.

Mrs. Florence K. Boyd, 422 Silica Street, and her sister, Miss Winnie Kinahan, who have lived on that particular corner since 1896, can recall the days when they used to play in Ward Creek, which ran right down past their house. A bridge spanned the rather deep ravine over to the Anglican Church which is now stone but was a green frame building at that time (you can still see some of the green framework at the top of the little tower). Particularly clear in Mrs. Boyd's memory is one day when she was eight years old that she and four-year-old Winnie were playing at the water (having slid down the gravel bank), when Winnie fell in.

Florrie fished her out and took her soaking wet sister up the bank to the house. Having done her duty, she was the one who got a licking, nevertheless. "If I live to be a hundred, I'll never forget that," she told me laughingly. It was effective for a time in keeping the two little girls away from the water.

They used to float shingles in the creek, which is now unfortunately but practically confined to storm sewer mains. Little sails distinguished the wood boats which would, I suppose, bob along down Ward Street, across Baker and on under the Hume Hotel and across Vernon Street.

Florrie was given a hen which hatched some duck eggs in their yard, at that time surrounded by forest. Florrie took the ducklings down, with the hen, to Ward Creek, their first introduction to their natural habitat.

Mrs. Boyd also told me, substantiating what some other reader had remarked after the "Just a Line" about Ward Creek, that she can sometimes hear the underground stream.

May it keep rumbling!

* * *

Coal Oil Johnnie's venture into print brought refreshing response from several directions. E. C. Wragge, Nelson lawyer and resident of Nelson since the late 1890's, whom I regard as perhaps the most authentic source of Nelson history, chided me on my use of the term "glory hole." A real glory hole is the sort of gap left in the earth's surface following extensive gouging such as takes place in open pit mining. There is one such hole above Ymir, where one of the early day mines was worked in this fashion. I have always used the term loosely because it fitted the feeling of dread we had about Coal Oil Johnny's workings.

* * *

A friend of many, many years' residence in Nelson told me that her husband knew Johnny in the early days. She and her family lived at South Slocan and Taghum and she told me that she used to take the Marjorie into Nelson. This, if you will recall, was one of the early day buses called Patricia, Marjorie and Muriel, and driven by John Learmonth, Chet Clark and Herb Harrop.

Since the article on the buses appeared, Henry Stevenson has kindly brought some pictures of the early vehicles into the office — quaint, sturdy machines.

The Patricia, is pictured sitting in front of the early day Henry Stevenson blacksmithing shop and body works, built on trestles in the deep ravine next to a super market on Vernon Street. At that time, the old Lakeview Hotel sat on the corner where the store is now. Chet Clark is at the wheel of the Patricia and Henry, very much junior at that time, stands in his coveralls beside the bus.

One of his pictures of John Learmonth's Miss Balfour displays its charms with three doorways along the sides through which passengers stepped from the running board into the plush interior, and a back door also standing open. The straight up and down radiator grill and spoke wheels added vivily to the upright look of the 1920s.

Ah, progress!

Upsurge in Rapeseed Production

By KEN EMMOND

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rapeseed production is on an upsurge in Western Canada and agricultural experts here are wondering whether it will be possible to market the anticipated additional millions of bushels without serious price reductions.

Many buyers already consider rapeseed established as a major specialty crop and welcome it as an alternative to additional wheat acreage.

In a grain market report, one grain merchant said: "We like to think that this oilseed is in the same stage of development here that soybeans were in the U.S.A. about 30 years ago and hope that increased production will find an outlet in extra usage and wider acceptance."

Stewart Searle Jr., president of Searle Grain Co. Ltd., described rapeseed as "beyond the fly-by-night stage." He said there is an almost insatiable world demand for edible oils.

Dave Derkson, a special crops agronomist at the University of Manitoba, said the crop has tremendous potential and is the best alternative to wheat production for most of Western Canada.

Mr. Derkson stressed the need for "a big selling job" in rapeseed. "We have barely begun to market the crop."

This is the nub of the misgivings of Winnipeg grain merchants.

M. M. Nusgart, president of Northern Sales, said "what we require right now is a lot of publicity and salesmanship."

WAS ONCE TOXIC

While it has been established that rapeseed compares favorably with any vegetable oil, farmers are reluctant to feed it to livestock because of toxic qualities it has had.

Since 1959, researchers at the University of Manitoba have learned how to process the toxic ingredients out of the oil seed. They have also had success eliminating them through selective breeding.

Although prospects for liquidating all of 1964's record crop of rapesed are excellent, little has been done in establishing permanent new markets.

Purchases by Czechoslovakia, Poland and Pakistan—normally exporting countries — took up nearly 25 per cent of Canada's export sales but there is no assurance these countries will buy more next year.

Exports to Italy, a traditional rapeseed buyer, were higher than usual last year because of a poor olive oil crop in that country.

Japan is already a major rapeseed buyer and last year took more than 2,000,000 bushels.

If a surplus is to be averted, it appears that outlets for more rapeseed must be found in the United Kingdom, Western Europe and the domestic market.

Increased rapeseed demand happened to coincide with 1964's high production, resulting in broad price gains in rapeseed futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

But with 1965 acreage of 1,400,000 or more a possibility, prospects for a harvest of more than 20,000,000 bushels (nearly double last year's crop) are not inconceivable. Acreage last year was 700,000.

PRICES FALL

Rapeseed on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange has already dipped to seasonal lows in anticipation of a large harvest.

Researchers and grain merchants agree that there is a market for rapeseed both for human consumption and as a livestock protein. It yields nearly double the percentage of oil processed from soybeans.

One oil firm has used rapeseed oil as a lubricant and reports that its performance is equal to that of castor oil in grease, and that it can be used as a straight lubricating oil.

The company stopped using rapeseed about two years ago when price increases made it uncompetitive with castor oil.

Rapeseed was first grown commercially in Canada in 1943, stimulated by a wartime demand for it as a marine oil.

Demand tapered off after the end of the Second World War, and in 1952 only 18,000 acres were sown.

Gradually, its use as an edible oil grew, but production has been significant only since 1961.

The appearance of rapeseed on the futures market on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in 1963 and the inclusion of rapeseed in the Crow's Nest Pass freight rates agreement the same year established rapeseed as a major specialty crop.

Chronic Skid Row

VANCOUVER (CP)—Church, welfare and civil officials are closing ranks here to try to solve the city's chronic skid road problem.

Officials on all levels agree the problem must be attacked on two fronts—the physical improvement of living conditions and the rehabilitation of the residents themselves.

To this end, city council has named a committee made up of aldermen and church and welfare representatives to study skid road in general and alcoholics in particular.

It is the hard core of alcoholics which has long caused the biggest concern to welfare administrators. They have found alcoholics are unable to look after their own welfare money. In some 300 cases, the cheques are given to church or private agencies which look after the physical needs of the actual recipients.

However First United Church in the heart of the skid road area has withdrawn from this work because of the high cost of administration.

First United co-operated with the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches and the Salvation Army in presenting a brief on skid road conditions to city council.

HOSTEL PROPOSED

The brief called for establishment of a hostel where chronic alcoholics could be rehabilitated and said there should be a general study of the over - all problem.

Ald. Bob Williams, a town planner by profession, says the city has no idea how effective its slum clearance program has been. He says low-rental housing units are built in outlying areas—and a good many people are not using them, perhaps because they like to be downtown and near part - time employment.

At the same time, persons displaced by slum renewal projects are moving into equally rundown accommodation in nearby areas.

An example of the kind of urban renewal going on in Canada's third largest city is the latest plan to spend $8,000,000 to rehabilitate 330 acres in the city's east end and in two other districts. About half the estimated 3,000 persons to be displaced will be housed in earlier renewal projects. Half the cost will be paid by the federal government with the balance shared equally by the municipal and provincial governments.

21st Annual Edition

Mid-Summer Spiel Comes of Age

80 Rinks Entered For Competition

Twenty-one years of history is wrapped up in the 21st edition of Nelson's Mid-Summer Bonspiel, a competition that has grown into one of the finest events in the season-defying sports world.

The Midsummer Bonspiel has become an integral part of Nelson's tradition which attracts thousands of tourists for a week that the entire family can enjoy.

It was in the first full week in July, 1945, that 70 rinks from British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba and Wisconsin took to the sheets at the Civic Centre Arena for the premiere competition—destined to become an annual affair.

That was the year Bill Good brought the Mid-summer Bonspiel Canada-wide fame through his radio broadcasts and the Associated Newsreel cameras ground out miles of film—publicity that assured the success of the spiel for the following 20 years.

It was the dedication and perseverance of the late Roy Sharp, member of the Nelson Civic Centre Commission, that changed a dream into reality in 1945.

His efforts in publicizing the first event of its kind in Canada in the curling capitals of North America materialized when 254 curlers competed in the week-long event—a competition which ended with the familiar cry: "See you next year!"

REMEMBER WHEN

Jack Jenkins of Princeton skipped his rink to a 12-1 victory over Don MacDonald of Trail that year in the Civic Centre Open and Art Wallace of Nelson captured the Kootenay Challenge Trophy by defeating R. J. MacKinnon of Trail 8-5.

Two Alberta rinks of a total entry of 19 walked off with honors when D. H. Campbell of Morrin won the All-Comers competition and B. N. Robertson of Edmonton snared the Consolation round by upending Art Scheffer of Cranbrook 12-4.

L. F. (Link) Tyson piloted the granddaddy entry that year with an aggregate age of 260 years, or an average of 65.

W. H. Baldrey, F. Moyer and L. L. Boomer completed the foursome which finished the competition with a 5-2 record and recorded one win in each of four open events except the Kootenay Challenge.

Since that July in 1945, many curlers have displayed their draw and shot-making skills in mid-summer competition.

Lyle Dagg, 1964 Dominion curling and Scotch Cup champion, walked off with the honors in 1962.

GERVAIS' STEPPING STONE

The Mid-Summer Bonspiel proved to be the stepping stone needed for Edmonton's Hec Gervais to become one of the country's top-rated curlers.

Gervais won the Nelson title three years running — 1957, 1958 and 1959.

Briar winner Art Simpson walked off with the laurels in 1950.

In 1963, veteran Les Legg realized a two-year ambition when his rink, comprised of ex-schoolboy champion Tom Kroeger, Harry Antonioa nd Henry Kroeger, counted three in the last end of the final game to take the elusive Hudson's Bay Trophy.

In 1962, Legg skipped his own rink to run a close second to the little-known Vancouver entry, skipped by Lyle Dagg.

From the giant outdoor breakfast to the famous mid-summer hockey game, the 1965 version of Nelson's Mid-Summer Bonspiel promises to be one of the finest to be held in the Queen City of the Kootenays since its inception.

Remember When – 1957

CALGARY — Nelson's Mid-Summer Bonspiel cavalcade to Calgary to publicize the 1957 version of the world summer championships held up traffic and blasted automobile horns en route to City Hall.

Main contributor to the group's appearance in front of the City Hall — apart from the Calgary city officials themselves — was Jack Bailey.

Mr. Bailey strode into the middle of the street and halted traffic while the six-car caravan made a left-hand turn into a lane beside the city hall.

Explaining his action later, Mr. Bailey said: "Now I have all the qualifications of a traffic cop — flat feet and no ambition."

Bonspiel Week Means Fun for Whole Family

It all starts Sunday morning with the gigantic welcoming ceremonies by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce as visiting curlers are greeted from far and wide by that special brand of Nelson hospitality.

From the opening draws Monday morning following the outdoor breakfast right through the week until Saturday's mid-summer hockey game, Mid-Summer Bonspiel time is fun for the whole family.

Square dancing, teen dances, Can-Am Twilight League baseball or a day at Lakeside Park provide entertainment to suit all tastes.

The city and the people who make it are pledged to the goal of Bonspiel Week — hospitality, with a capital "H".

All recreational facilities are available for the asking — swimming, fishing, boating, golf, tennis — you name it and it's a sure bet that the citizens of Nelson will do their utmost to insure that it's done.

Les Isaman's Rink Wins Third Spiel

The 1964 world's summer curling championship is Stettler-bound.

Les Isaman's prairie foursome exploded for three points in a controversial eighth-end replay to down Ed Shamray of Oak River, Man., 7-3 and take his third Nelson Midsummer Bonspiel title in five years as the 20th annual bonspiel drew to a close.

Isaman, curling with a rink consisting of his sons Jack and Lorence, both of whom represented Alberta in the Dominion schoolboy championship competition and Irv Kelts, a cousin, employed his usual strategy of blanking an end rather than taking one point and giving up last rock.

He fell behind by counts of 1-0 and 2-1 before taking a lead with a two-ender in the seventh.

Shamray was only able to muster one in the ninth end, giving the title he had won previously in 1960 and 1961, to Isaman.

The original eighth-end saw Shamray trailing 4-2, but laying one in the house, when a dead-rock bounced off the boards and nudged the shot rock.

Officials could not agree as to where the interfered stone should be placed and ruled that the end must be replayed.

People, Planning Insure Mid-Summer 'Spiel Success

A project such as the Mid-Summer Bonspiel can only succeed in achieving its goal if the people of the city are behind it 100 per cent.

It's not only the work of the draw committee or the publicity committee that can guarantee its success — it's the general spirit of friendship and camaraderie that is generated by the people that gives it a personal touch.

Members of the Jaycees greet the visiting curlers upon arrival and lead them into the city in a giant caravan.

The visiting rinks are made to feel that, for a week at least, Nelson will be their home.

Warm handshakes and shouts of "Hi, neighbor" — symbols of mid-summer hospitality, are the keys to the bonspiel's continued success.

The bonspiel committee has worked long and hard to insure its success again this year and the public has added to their efforts to show the visitors just how much it values their choice of Nelson as their summer curling headquarters.

The celebrations will mark the 21st annual bonspiel and members of service clubs and civic organizations are prepared to act the host.

A round of festivities—beginning with the annual "mixer" Monday night and concluding with the mid-summer hockey game and dance Saturday — will serve to entertain the curlers and other visitors in the off-ice hours.

One thing is certain, there's plenty to do, so much so in fact that it may be difficult to find a chance to relax, even for a short while.

"Its Yours, No, Its Yours"

A skip was attempting to place a guard in front of the house, in an effort to safeguard his lone rock in the house.

With painstaking care, he set up his stance in the hack, rolled back and delivered.

The rock drifted down the sheet, seemingly without direction, and finally came to rest as just what he had intended — a guard.

Slowly getting to his feet, he asked his third how it was lying.

"You tell me," replied the third, "it's closer to you."

Western Canada Champion Leafs, Fran Huck Meet Cup Runners-up

The Trail - Rossland All-Stars meet the Western Canada Allan Cup champion Nelson Maple Leafs in a game that will feature some of the finest amateur hockey talent in Canada.

Fran Huck, possibly the greatest junior player Canada has ever produced, will don the green and white uniform of the Leafs to give curlers and visitors alike the opportunity of seeing the strongest team ever to come out of Nelson.

All the familiar names will be in the lineups for both teams — names that well may be known to the visitors since the Leafs' Western Allan Cup triumph over Drumheller Miners and Moose Jaw Pla-Mors.

Rated as one of the top amateur goaltenders in the world, Seth Martin, protector of the cage for the Trail Smoke Eaters in their successful bid for the world amateur hockey title, is worth the price of admission just to see him in action.

This year Nelson has a championship team in its own right for the mid-summer game.

The club you will see in action Saturday was never considered a playoff contender within the five-team Western International Hockey League and was expected to be eliminated in the semi-finals.

EXPERTS WRONG

That's where the experts were wrong.

The Leafs walked into the finals in three straight games and captured the league championship in the seventh and deciding game — beating the Kimberley Dynamiters 6-2.

In the ensuing three series, the Leafs captured the Western Allan Cup title and the coveted Patton Cup by defeating Drumheller Miners, Moose Jaw Pla-Mors and Warroad Lakers — winning the first two games in each series, losing the third and clinching the best-three-out-of-five series in the fourth game.

Despite the fact that the Leafs lost out in the Allan Cup final to Sherbrooke, Quebec, Beavers in four straight games, hockey in Nelson enjoyed an increase in interest that should foster future Allan Cup contenders.

This year's game will feature something new for both visitors and natives alike — the first opportunity of seeing prospective Leaf players in action prior to the opening of the fall training camp.

All these facts, coupled with the appearance of the Fabulous Fran Huck, could well make this edition of the mid-summer hockey game the most crowd-pleasing in its 21-year history.

DeGirolamo Rink — 1964 Ladies' Champions.

One Year Ago Next Week

Nelson's DeGirolamo Rink Captured Schenley Trophy

Nelson's Mary DeGirolamo foursome became the second Queen City entry in three years to capture the ladies' 'A' event and the Schenley Trophy when she roared back from a 6-1 deficit to dump Betty Evans of Rossland 9-6.

Evans appeared destined to walk away with the contest, giving up one in the first end and dominating the succeeding four frames.

Then, as the Rossland rink began to weaken, DeGirolamo surged back with singles in the sixth, seventh and eighth.

Key misses by Rossland third Fanny Albo led to the rink's downfall.

Ruth Bicknell, throwing third rocks for the Nelson foursome, dislodged an Evans counter and stayed in the four-foot circle. Albo missed again and Bicknell knocked Evans' only rock out of the house and rolled to the button, leaving DeGirolamo counting four.

Evans threw wide on an attempted takeout, giving the Nelson skip an opportunity to plant a guard.

After DeGirolamo planted her guard, Evans was light on a desperation draw shot and the Nelson rink counted four.

The Nelson foursome came back with a two-ender in the tenth to put the win on ice.

DeGirolamo's rink was comprised of Inez Eckmier, Rose Kuntz and Mrs. Bicknell.

Hec Gervais, Les Isaman Tied in Wins

Hec Gervais and Les Isaman are deadlocked for individual Mid-Summer Bonspiel wins with three apiece.

Gervais held a monopoly on victories in the competition until last year when Isaman added the 1964 title to his previous 1960 and 1961 championships.

The big skip from Edmonton had gained the laurels three years running, 1957, 1958 and 1959.

Can-Am Twilight League Baseball Featured During Bonspiel Week

Nelson Braves Encounter Rossland Caps Tuesday

Mid-summer Bonspiel curlers and visitors will have a chance to see two of the Can-Am Twilight League teams in action Tuesday night at the Civic Centre Grounds when Nelson Braves and Rossland Capilanos tangle in regular season play.

The Braves, last season's toast of the international league, are presently engaged in an uphill fight from the League's number three spot, 2½ games out of first place.

The Capilanos, with a 3-6 won-lost record thus far, are three games back of the leader.

Curious parallels can be drawn between the two clubs.

Both clubs have six batters in the top 20, and a cellar-dwelling Capilano is leading the pack.

Second-baseman Billy Martin has climbed into top spot with a resounding .481 on 13 safeties in 27 trips with nine RBIs.

In league statistics released a week ago, Martin held down the number four position with .375.

Rossland's top six hitters have accounted for 35 runs, while Nelson's brought in 31.

The two clubs are evenly matched in all departments except extra-bases.

Martin trails Braves' first baseman Mike Laughton by one in the home-run department with three.

Laughton averaged one round-tripper per game in the last three outings with the Braves.

The hustling Cap second baseman trails teammate Ed Legare by two in the doubles department with four, and is tied with three Trail Smoke Eater players with two triples.

Rossland infield work has prevented several games from getting out of hand — the Caps have come up with five double plays, far ahead of any other team in the circuit.

But, it's been Rossland's failure to get potential runs across the plate that has proved to be its downfall.

The Caps average 9.45 players stranded per game and the Braves left 8.80.

With two such evenly matched teams, Bonspiel enthusiasts should be treated to good calibre baseball as part of Mid-Summer Bonspiel Week activities.

First Rock Is Thrown and Bonspiel Week Is Underway

BONSPIEL OPENING—Hon. W. D. Black, provincial secretary and MLA for Nelson-Creston, crouches in the hack and officially opens the Nelson Midsummer Bonspiel. Mayor E. T. Bodard stands ready to sweep the stone down the ice.—Daily News photo.

Now it begins.

The perfect draw weight and booming take-outs that evoke sighs and cheers from the many spectators viewing the proceedings.

Of the total entry of 80, few rinks will be winners of trophies but all will be rich in the knowledge that they have helped to make the 1965 version of the Mid-Summer Bonspiel a success.

It's something you can't put your finger on, yet it's there.

Some people call it the spirit of curling — the spirit that attracts thousands of devotees each year.

A more appropriate title would be the spirit of Bonspiel Week — an intangible that creates an aura of goodwill and friendship in the summer curling capital of the world.

Colavito Drives in Five Big Runs To Wallop Orioles 8-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rocky Colavito drove in five runs with his 19th homer, a double and single and Lee Stange pitched a four-hitter as the American League leading Cleveland Indians walloped Baltimore 8-0 Friday night.

The victory was the Indians' sixth in the last seven games and 18th in their last 21.

Colavito provided more than enough support for Stange, doubling home a run in the first inning, hitting a three-run homer in Cleveland's five-run third inning and singling in another run in the fourth.

Roberto Clemente collected three hits in a 13-hit Pittsburgh attack as the Pirates whipped Milwaukee 8-3 and ended a three-game losing streak.

Willie Stargell added two hits and drove in two runs while Donn Clendenon and Bill Virdon each rapped a pair of hits for the Pirates.

SCORED FIRST RUN

Singles by Virdon, Clemente and Clendenon scored the first run in the first inning while Clemente's double and a single by Stargell brought one across in the third.

A two-run homer in the eighth inning by Dick Stuart carried Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-3 victory over Cincinnati and extended their winning streak to six games.

With the Phillies trailing 3-2, Rich Allen opened the Phils' eighth with a single through the middle and Stuart slammed a 2-2 pitch from relief pitcher Gerry Arrigo into the upper left field stands for his 13th home run.

Frank Kreutzer pitched a three-hitter and slammed a two run homer, leading Washington to a 6-0 victory over Detroit.

Kreutzer gave up first-inning singles to Jerry Lumpe and Al Kaline, then held the Tigers hitless until Don Demeter singled with one out in the ninth. He ended the first-inning threat by striking out Willie Horton.

PITCHES FIVE-HITTER

Jim Grant pitched a five-hitter and Tony Oliva drove in two runs as Minnesota Twins defeated Kansas City Athletics, 3-1, and remained one game behind the American league leading Indians.

Oliva doubled Grant home in the seventh, breaking a 1-1 tie and then scored himself on a single by Harmon Killebrew. John O'Donoghue, who absorbed his 10th loss of the season, opened the inning by walking Grant.

In Boston Rookie Roger Repoz, starting only his second major league game, homered, singled and hit a sacrifice fly, driving in four New York runs as Yankees routed Boston 16-2 behind a 25-hit attack.

Bob Gibson scattered seven hits and struck out 13 leading St. Louis to a 6-3 triumph over New York Mets.

In Chicago, Juan Marichal joined Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax as the major leagues' only 13-game winners, hurling San Francisco Giants to a 4-0 victory over Chicago Cubs.

Marichal, who has six shutouts for the season and two in succession, scattered five hits and never allowed a runner to reach second base. Everybody in the Giant line-up except Marichal had at least one hit.

Willie Mays provided Marichal with all the support needed by driving in two runs. Tom Haller chipped in with his fourth homer of the season.

Pickering Hits Triple For 10-7 Win

Jim Pickering lashed a three-run triple in the bottom of the fifth inning to give Lions a 10-7 victory over Rotary in the Little League semi-finals Wednesday night.

Dave Smith went the distance for Lions to record the win, while Terry Severyn was charged with the loss.

Terry's brother Mark hit for the only extra-base hit for Rotary, a triple early in the game.

ACT-Rotary was rained out tonight.

Lions and Kinsmen meet at 1 p.m. and Rotary and ACT at 3 p.m. at Queen Elizabeth Park today.

Rather Shaggy Stone Story

A highly confident skip who marvelled about the game he played where his usually reliable lead missed his first two stones.

"This puts you into a bit of a jam, eh," remarked his listener.

"Yes, but I wasn't worried. My second never gets fazed, but then, do you know he missed both of his shots. I was naturally surprised, but my third can make every shot in the book; so I wasn't concerned.

"But I'll tell you, I began to worry when he missed his first rock. Then I was really upset when he blew his other shot, too.

"But that's when a skip has to come through, and I was confident that I was going to get out of the jam.

"Maybe I was too confident, maybe I was unsettled by their misses, but whatever the reason, I just barely missed my stone."

"You were really in the soup, eh?" sympathized his patient listener.

"What did you do with your last stone?"

"What else could I do," came the reply.

"I blanked the end."

Battle of Giants Foreseen

80 Entries Spell Success For 21st Mid-Summer Spiel

With its near-record entry of 80 rinks, the 21st edition of Nelson's Midsummer Bonspiel gives every indication of being another success.

Since its inception in 1945, the season-defying spiel has attracted top curlers from all parts of Canada and the United States, making it the home of summer curling.

It was the first of its kind in North America and the first in the world to be held on an annual basis.

This year's competition could shape up as a battle of giants—pitting three-time winners Hec Gervais and Les Isaman in the 21st annual to see which one will claim the record for the most victories.

Gervais captured the title three years running—1957, 1958 and 1959, while Isaman of Stettler, Alta., won the event in 1960, 1961 and is defending champion for this year's spiel.

Nelson's Mary DeGirolamo will have a chance to make it three wins for her rink.

The DeGirolamo rink's victories came in the space of nine years—first garnering the title in 1955 and returning again this year to defend her crown.

Irregardless of what happens during this year's week-long competition, short sleeve play on the cool ice surface should provide some of the finest curling action ever.

Following are the draws for the first two days of competition:

Slocan Park Narrows League Race By Edging Combines 5-3

Slocan Park — Slocan Park moved out of a three-way tie for top spot in the Slocan Valley Baseball League into a two-way tie with Winlaw by defeating New Denver-Silverton Combines 5-3.

M. Esowooloff limited the Combines to two hits — both to shortstop Jack Kelly and fanned 11 batters, holding the Combines scoreless for seven innings.

Nine walks in the final two innings coupled with a series of Slocan Park errors and stolen bases gave the Combines their three runs.

Slocan Park tagged losing pitcher G. Wilson for four hits—two singles to M. Halisoff and singles to W. Wishlow and M. Podd.

Wilso nstruck out six and walked four before Jack Nesbitt was called in in relief in the seventh.

Nesbitt succeeded in holding the Slocan Park club off the scoreboard and collected three strikeouts.

The battle for first place resumes July 11 when Winlaw visits Slocan Park.

Malinowski Blanks Kings

RCMP's Ed Malinowski allowed only one hit — a single to Kings' Peter Godfrey to blank the Play-For-Fun squad 3-0.

The RCMP squad picked up their three runs on two hits and one error.

Scully and Phillips were the RCMP batters to connect off loser Fred Jmaeff.

Don Ball limited the Eagles to six hits as Queens trounced the "Birds" 10-2, balsting out a 12-hit attack.

John Kooznetzoff took the loss, but accounted for one of the Eagles' extra-base hits — a double early in the game.

Don Segur homered and John Markin and George Zabawa each collected three-for-four at the plate for Queens.

Nelson's Joe Gibault Leads Full-Bore Rifle Championship

JOE GIBAULT
. . . 49 of possible 50

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Joe Gibault of Nelson led the field in the running aggregate total score at the midway point in the B.C. Fullbore Rifle championships here Thursday.

Shooting with the Vancouver Seaforths team, Gibault won the 200-yard Victoria match with 49 hits of a possible 50.

His running aggregate of 340 of a possible 355 puts him two points ahead of teammate Gunnar Westling.

Westling, recent winner of the Queen's Prize, took the 600-yard Beaton match, after racking up 49 points with only one miss. The Seaforths shooter and his son Ken won the father and son match with another near-perfect 49.

Harold Palmer of Enderby, a captain in the Rocky Mountain Rangers Reserves, held down third place going into the second half with an aggregate 335.

He has won the first and qualifying stages of the Lieutenant-governor's Match and was first in the Macdonald competition with 96 of a possible 100 hits.

Palmer also garnered top spot in the aggregate of the three city matches, the Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria titles. He shot 145 of 150.

Larry Salter of Victoria opened the sniping section of the championships Wednesday with a win in the Tyro match for newcomers and the junior slots. He shot a perfect 50 at 200 yards.

Can - Am Schedule

The following is the revised Can-Am Twilight League scheduler

July 4 — Trail at Nelson (doubleheader); Cranbrook at Rossland (doubleheader).

July 6—Rossland at Nelson.

July 11—Nelson at Cranbrook (doubleheader); Trail at Rossland.

July 13—Rossland at Nelson.

July 15—Trail at Rossland.

* July 17 — Cranbrook at Trail (doubleheader).

July 18 — Nelson at Rossland (doubleheader).

July 20—Rossland at Nelson.

July 24—Rossland at Trail.

* July 25 — Cranbrook at Nelson (doubleheader).

July 28—Nelson at Trail.

* August 1 — Cranbrook at Rossland (doubleheader).

* These series are considered home-and-home single games. Trail, Nelson and Rossland will split the gate with Cranbrook as one game will be considered Cranbrook's home game.

Cranbrook will have last bats in one of these games.

As agreed upon by all clubs, this is the only fair way to round out the schedule, as Cranbrook plays a mere six home games and should receive some compensation for their travelling.

With this system, Nelson, Trail and Rossland will play 11 home games while Cranbrook plays nine.

Will all club managers, please send the box scores within the required 72 hours. If this regulation is not followed, a $5.00 fine will be levied for each late arrival.

All correspondence should be addressed to: Jim Elsener, Can-Am League Statistician, 614 Carbonate St., Nelson, B.C.

Doubleheader Sunday

Braves Looking for Clean Sweep With Trail Smokies

Coach John Brkich's flame-thrower, Dave Benedict looks like the obvious starter in Sunday's opening game of a twin bill with Trail Smoke Eaters, currently leading the Can-Am Twilight League.

The Braves have four starters on the line for Sunday — Benedict, Lonnie Sherrick, Miles Desharnais and Les Hufty — and they're all rested up for the afternoon action.

Benedict, now one-and-one, got into trouble in the last encounter with the Smokies, taking the loss in a 14-9 decision.

The lanky righthander, who possesses a wicked fastball and a fair curve, shook off the kinks during practice sessions last week, and appears ready.

Sherrick, whose first appearance of the season with the Braves turned out to be on the losing side of the ledger, limited the Smokies to four hits last weekend as the Nelson club won the second game of the doubleheader 4-1.

The Braves have the potential to be the best club in the four-team circuit, but are just now starting to get on track

Imports such as Benedict, Sherrick and third baseman Bill Lnenicka have helped the club a lot in settling down.

Lnenicka especialy impresses fans with his quick glove and lightening relay to second or first.

He's a real sticker at the plate and has hammered out some good solid hits for the Braves.

The Smokies sport six players on the top 20 list, the same number as the Braves, but rely heavily on clutch batters such as Donny McLeod and Gary Morris.

McLeod colected four RBI's Thursday night against the Rossland Capilanos to bring his season total to 18.

Morris, hitting a respectable .326, tripled off the left field wall last weekend after McLeod had been intentionally walked.

The Smokies recently added another member to their growing pitching staff in Ron Toewes, a Winnipeg righthander who saw action last season in the Manitoba Senior Baseball League.

Towes limited the Caps to five hits and struck out 14 in his first showing of the year with the Trail club.

The 20-year-old fireballer took the Caps by surprise by stepping on the mound only a few hours after arriving in the Silver City.

With the number of home games left to play for the Braves rapidly decreasing, Coach John Brkich will have his boys fired for a clean sweep of Sunday's doubleheader in an effort to overtake Cranbrook Canucks, currently holding down the number two position.

NOT FOR HOME USE
VATICAN CITY (AP) — The use of old church furnishings and religious objects in the home is "practical atheism," says L'Osservatore della Domenica. The weekly paper said such objects often go from thieves or demolished chapels to second-hand markets and end up decorating private homes.

Hydro, Hospital Plans Expansion

CASTLEGAR — B.C. Hydro is looking into the possibility of establishing a Crash program for Castlegar and District Hospital.

Hospital administrator Angus Haines said this week that the hospital management and authority will look into emergency solution to overcrowding until the hospital's proposed expansion program is completed. Measures may include a temporary expansion wing and trailers.

Local No. 1 of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada have supported the hospital expansion program in a letter to Mines Minister Donald Brothers requesting the MLA to give his "utmost consideration in this regard."

The union pointed up the need for expansion due to the influx of workers and families associated with construction in the area and notes that "with any major industrial accident, the lives of our members would be placed in jeopardy."

CROWNED QUEEN of the Salmo Dominion Day celebratio nat Salmo was Danita Turner.

MINING MEN WIN RAFT RACE

Confusion Reigns As Crowds Mill For Knights of Pythias Event

SALMO — "Dirty Devil" won the raft race from Ymir bridge to Salmo bridge, ridden by Bud Thor and Tonee Eeglon of Salmo, H.B. Mine employees, in one hour, 51 minutes and 29 seconds. Winner of second prize was Ron Freed and David Sicotte of Wynndel, who are with a survey crew in this area. Third prize was copped by Paul Koochin and John Blondeau, Salmo.

Twenty-seven entries, 24 showed and 17 completed the exciting adventure. There were spills and thrills, bruises and aching muscles after the tumultuous ride down the river. Rafts turned over, no one arrived dry. But all declared it was worth the excitement even if they didn't win. Plans are already under way for next year's try.

Holder of lucky winning ticket for the raft race was Richard Hearne, whose guess was only six seconds short of the time.

The Chamber of Commerce spearheaded a tourist promotion deal. Contestants became C. of C. members when they purchased "share" and also helped pay tourist booth expenses. Contest winners were Les Graba, R. Phelps, W. Shelloff, Aubrey Burgess, all of Salmo, and G. Shalanas of Remac, with prizes of $100 each.

In the floats, Montrose came first; second prize went to the Ski Club, which entered a replica of the local clubhouse on a side-hill, complete with young skiers and trees. Consolation for effort went to the Salmo Guide Company. In decorated cars, comic, the local fire department won first and drew a great deal of applause for capers; the car "burned", water sprayed and other activities. The second prize was carried off by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Mine-Mill local, as hillbillies come to town.

Bikes, Gwen McDonald, first; Donald Apels, second; tricycles, Debbie Dimock, first; Joy Miller, second; fancy costumes, Dean McDonald, first, as a clown; most original, Robbie Campbell of Rossland, depicting a tiger in a tank; Verle Miller, second, as "graduate".

Douglas Named To Mines Managership

TRAIL — Formerly with the CM & S Company at Kimberley and Duncan Lake, and most recently project engineer of Cominco's Magmont lead mining interest in Missouri, R. P. Douglas has been appointed assistant manager of mines for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

Announcement of the appointment was made by J. H. Salter, vice-president of the western region. The appointment was effective Thursday.

Mr. Douglas has been in Missouri since last February, an assignment which followed his four-year post as property superintendent of the company's Wedge mine near Newcastle, New Brunswick.

Born at Macleod, Alta., Mr. Douglas joined Cominco in 1948 after graduating in mining engineering at the University of Alberta. Starting on the company's engineering staff at Kimberley, he subsequently served as mine superintendent at Tulsequah, B.C., and held other supervisory posts at Kimberley and Duncan Lake, B.C. In 1961 he was appointed to the Wedge mine.

Mr. Douglas is a member of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter McClure, Mrs. Lyle Sillers, Mrs. T. A. Lymbery, Mrs. McLardie and Mrs. A. W. Lymbery attended the confirmation service at St. Andrew's - by-the-Lake Church, where Helen and Melvin McClure were confirmed.

The steering's quicker, the ride's flatter, the seating's roomier, the style's racier— even the grass seems a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair (the deal's hotter too!)

You won't know which to like most—the sporty looks of the new Corvair, or the whale of a deal you'll get on it when you buy from your Chevrolet dealer right now. Because he's offering the sort of deal you dream about on the sort of car you dream about — and where else could you get a combination like that?

But the great deal isn't all. Something special happens when you drive a Corvair. You feel it in the steering — crisp and precise. In the flat, riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the comfort-cradling of Corvair's seats. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180-hp in the Corsa's Turbo-Charged version!) You see it in the styling with the international flair that comes with every Corvair. So see your Chevrolet dealer soon. Just about everybody else is!
