Rescue Liner Delayed Sending Its Lifeboats

Quicker Action Would Have Saved Lives, Declare Four Ranking Officers of Ship

Captain of President Cleveland Charges His Officers Conspiring Against Him; Lifeboat Refused Aid

BY F. J. STARZEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—A rescue ship's four officers, who had sharply criticized their master for delay in sending lifeboats to the aid of the Morro Castle victims, were called tonight before a federal grand jury investigating the disaster.

They testified earlier, before a departmnt of commerce inquiry, that the Dollar liner, President Cleveland, might have saved additional lives if Captain Robert E. Carey had not waited 48 minutes after arriving on the scene before ordering out rescue boats.

"They tried to make a goat out of me," the master declared, "but their own testimony shows what they did."

Captain Carey, acknowledging the 48-minute delay, told the ship inquiry that two lifeboats were lowered as speedily as possible. The Cleveland did not pick up any survivors.

TRIED TO HOLD FACTS

U. S. Attorney Conboy tonight charged before Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe that "the Ward line and its attorneys have done all that they can to prevent the United States attorney and his aides from learning the facts."

The charge was made at a hearing by Judge Coxe on a cotion by Roscoe C. Hupper, attorney for the Ward line, to set aside or quash a subpoena served upon the line.

Judge Coxe reserved decision. The subpoena would require the production before the federal grand jury of all written or typewritten statements made to the firm of its officers or any other persons in connection with the disaster.

The President Cleveland's departure for San Francisco was delayed several hours to permit the captain and the officers to appear before the grand jury.

HAD NO RESPECT

The master's four main officers declared they no longer had "respect for" or "confidence in" their chief

FISHING TUG ARRIVES SAFE

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP).—Missing for 48 hours, the fishing tug Pearl arrived here early tonight after being grounded off Tamarac point on Manitoulin island.

The craft struck bottom Tuesday morning 200 yards off shore with a stiff wind blowing. The passengers including two women and eight children, spent more than 32 hours aboard the grounded craft as Captain Harvey Golden and his small crew manoeuvred in an effort to release the tug.

Food supplies were depleted yesterday and it was a hungry and relieved crowd that arrived at Little Current tonight.

SPEAKS TO WOMEN'S CLUB

NANAIMO, B.C., Sept. 13 (CP)—Dean Mary L. Bollert of the University of British Columbia spoke before the season's inaugural meeting of the Women's Canadian club here today.

The speaker gave a report of the recent women's Pan-Pacific conference.

He Scales 2 1-16 Pounds and Lives in an Incubator

CHICAGO, Sept 13 (CP).—A police escort cleared the way as Emaneul San Filipo, the world's tiniest traveller, went over to a Century of Progress exposition today.

Emanuel—just five weeks old and weighing only two pounds, one ounce—arrived by train from Atlantic City, N.J., where he had spent most of his life in incubators. At the fair he was placed in another incubator to bide his time until he is strong enough to come out and join his parents, who operate a farm near Hammonton, N.J.

TWO YEARS FROM RELIEF TO SUCCESS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13 (CP)—Two years ago F. Langner was one of Winnipeg's unemployed. Weary of fruitless job-seeking, he accepted city relief for himself and his family.

Today he is a successful Manitoba farmer at Rosser. C. E. Simonite of the back-to-the-land commission said Langner came into his office, placed a bundle of durum wheat on his desk and announced he had sold 1700 bushels of it at 98¾ cents a bushel. The premium was paid because of the wheat's quality.

He has more to sell and expects a gross revenue of $2500 this year.

Find Small Boat Half Submerged

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP)—Lost while under tow, a small fishing vessel was sighted half submerged from the Northwestern yesterday, four miles northeast of Ballinac, near Nanoose. The master of the steamer reported to the marine department here. The owner, W. Peyto, was notified through the offices of the provincial police.

Down-Trodden Slavs Near Revolt in Czechoslovakia

Czechs and Slovaks Remain Aloof From Each Other; Capital Has Many Names

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

BRATISLAVA, Sept. 13.—This is the capital of Slovakia. The city has not many inhabitants, but it is richly endowed with names. Even so it is beaten in this respect by Liege in Belgium where you can read on the railway station that the city is also called Luik, Luettich and Vuillemin. Bratislava has one name less than Liege. It makes up for the loss in other ways. Some call it Pressburg. That is a German word. Others call it Poszony, which is Hungarian. The many names have a confusing effect on the newcomer. He doesn't know at first of what city people are talking. It all comes down to this: If there had been one big union among the bricklayers at Babylon we'd probably have saved ourselves a lot of trouble. For one thing we would not need to go measuring cosmic rays in the stratosphere. In Babylon they had no intention of stopping half-way. They planned to go straight up to heaven. It is all the fault of organizational inefficiency and lack of union discipline among the bricklayers . . .

Besides German, Hungarian and Slovak, you hear a good deal of Yiddish spoken in Bratislava, as well as Romany, the gipsy language. But the upper crust speaks exclusively Czechish. It will cause no surprise, therefore, when I say that Bratislava has more adepts of Esperanto per capita than any other city its size in the world. Moscow, never slow at making propaganda, seems to have taken advantage of this predilection for the world-language. I counted five Esperanto bookshop on the main street in Bratislava, where the chief stock in trade displayed in the windows

Quintuplets Ill and in Weak Condition

Are Suffering From Intestinal Trouble; All Visitors Are Barred; Specialist Is Called

By A. E. FULFORD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

CALLANDER, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP).—Suffering from intestinal toxaemia, the Dionne quintuplets tonight were in a weakened condition that caused their physician deep concern.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe ordered extra nursing care, barred all visitors and probably will consult tomorrow with an internationally known child specialist, Dr. Alan Brown of Toronto.

The mild mannered country physician, who has amazed the medical profession by bringing the babies through 108 days of life, expressed the hope tonight that the danger was past. He added, however, that the children were still so small, any illness might prove fatal.

Yvonne, heaviest of the children borne to Mrs. Oliva Dionne May 28, became ill early Wednesday and the toxaemia condition spread to her four sisters within a few hours.

Dr. Dafoe made the first announcement of the illness today, on the eve of the opening tomorrow of the hospital especially built for them 100 yards down the road from the farm home where they were born.

DUE TO AILMENT

"For the past 36 hours the little ones have been suffering from a mild attack of intestinal toxaemia," he said. "This leads to loss of fluid in the body and the little bodies waste away if this conditions is not checked. The three ounce loss in Yvonne's weight yesterday was due to this ailment."

After visiting the children tonight he said Yvonne had come through the worst of her illness but Annette was "not so good." The three others, Cecile, Emilie and Marie do not seem to be as badly affected as their heavier sisters.

MOVE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Wet weather and the cramped condition of the children's nursery were factors that may have brought on the illness, the doctor said. He will move them to their new hospital as soon as possible. "Then, in new surroundings, many of our worries will disappear."

Illness of the children will not necessitate postponement of the ceremonies planned for tomorrow afternoon. Hon. David Croll, Ontario minister of welfare, will officially open the building and Bishop H.T.P. Ryan, of Pembroke, will bless it in a Roman Catholic ceremony.

POLAND TAKES BIT IN TEETH OVER MINORITY

Tells League Will Do What She Thinks Is Fit

TAKES DELEGATES BY SURPRISE

French and British Circles Very Displeased

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA, Sept. 13 (CP cable)—The league of nations has a new danger to occupy it, one which may prove exceedingly troublesome.

Before today's sitting of the assembly Joseph Beck, the Polish foreign minister who was the only speaker, without warning served an ultimatum on minority rights. He declared, in effect, that starting now Poland will not recognize international rules on the treatment of minorities in Poland; she will handle them as she thinks fit.

Delegates were caught entirely by suprise as Beck launched his declaration. There were no speakers in reply and the assembly sitting was postponed in considerable gloom while the delegates congregated and discussed what was to be done about it.

WHAT PROMPTED IT

Beck will be questioned when general debate is resumed. More than one delegation wants to know what prompted this step, and what Poland intends to do about her minorities. They were not slow to point out that Poland can't expect "to get away with" a declaration of complete disregard of league minority provisions. "When she acquired her territories," the Canadian Press was told by one authority, "Poland accepted certain obligations in regard to minorities. She cannot break a treaty by unilateral declaration. We want to know what she intends to do."

French and British circles in particular were displeased and their spokesman said the Polish announcement struck at the very basis of the Versailles treaty. Both Sir John Simon and Louis Barthou, heads of the British and French foreign offices, will speak from the league rostrum tomorrow, it was expected, and Baron Pompeo Aloisi of the Italian delegation may also intervene.

Society to Hear of Boys' Bravery

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP)—Vada Babcock, Malcolm McAulay and Gerard McAulay, whose bravery in bringing about the rescue of Daniel McKenzie from drowning in the Tsolum river, near Courtenay, recently drew marked praise, will be drawn to the attention of the officers of the Royal Humane society. After several attempts the youths rescued McKenzie, a 14-year-old boy, at grave risks to their own lives.

Show Window Jail for Hen Sparrow

A little hen sparrow was a prisoner for a time Thursday in the vacant premises formerly housing the Rex Bar, in the Reid block on Baker street, having obviously entered by the open transom. Observed in the empty show window, trying to bet out, it was reported by Mrs. G. Allen, of the Allen hotel, by telephone to Mrs. M. Scally, owner of the block. Mrs. Scally sent her nephew down to open up the premises and liberate the bird, but it had disappeared, presumably finding its way out by the transom.

DISTINGUISHED JURIST DIES

LONDON, Sept. 13 (CP-Havas)—Sir Ernest Wild, 64, one of England's most distinguished jurists, died here today. He was a member of the bar. For many years he presided at the Old Bailey, London's criminal court, giving sentence in numerous celebrated cases.

BYRD PREPARES FOR EXPLORATION

Extensive Preparations Made at Little America for Spring Work

LITTLE AMERICA, Antartica, Sept. 13 (CP-via MacKay radio)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd, maintaining daily radio communication with this settlement, has set into motion extensive preparations for the major scientific project of the exploration, scheduled for the spring.

Although a spring month in this latitude, September is bitterly cold in the Antarctica, and work up on mechanical units, aircraft and tractors, has to be done in lulls between great cold and blizzards.

Previous expositions have relied on animals for transportation and the cold of early spring has prohibited sustained efforts before October.

Progress is being made this year, however, in digging out the old Ford South Polar plane which was abandoned by the first exposition and the single-monoplane is to be dug out tomorrow and a test flight made soon after wards. The huge Condor byplane will be taken out of its winter hangar in about two weeks.

Charges Catholic Cure With Flirting

Woman Was Arrested After Making Accusation; Brings Action

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 (CP)— Because she was arrested after accusing a Roman Catholic cure of "flirting" with young girls in the congregation during morning mass, Miss Gertrude Symons today appeared in superior court before Chief Justice R. A. E. Greenshilds with a $10,000 damages action against Canon Adelard Harbour and the officers who arrested her.

Miss Symons alleged she complained to Canon Harbour, cure of St. James Basicilica here, as she charged, of the way he flirted with young girls during morning mass.

Two days later she was arrested by two city detectives. She alleged she was kept in the women's jail three weeks, suffering many indignities such as being forced to appear nude before a male guard for inspection.

Large Gathering Aim Young Men's Section

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13 (CP)—Separate meetings of secretaries of boards of trade and representatives of young men's sections today concluded the ninth annual convention of the Canadian chamber of commerce

Under the chairmanship of W. G G. Martin of Winnipeg, representatives of the young men's sections decided to press for a larger gathering next year at which formal organization of a Dominion-wide organization may be undertaken.

NO RELIEF FOR THE DEAD, SAYS THE ALDERMAN

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 (CP)—From the grave in which he had been docketed by a relief investigator, arose an unemployed citizen of Montreal today.

To Ald. Dan P. Gillmor, K.C., he complained that he could not get on the relief lists.

"Of course not," reported the councillor, "you're dead."

The relief seeker pinched himself and sneezed to prove he was no ghost.

No believer in the occult, Ald. Gillmor stuck by his guns, read an investigator's report and insisted his visitor was dead, and therefore, not in need of assistance. Legal "resurrection" is expected to follow shortly.

S. G. BLAYLOCK URGES AID FOR COAL WORKERS

Suggests Closing of Certain Mines to Aid Others

OPEN MINING AND METALLURGY MEET

R. W. Diamond Gives Technical Paper at Session

CALGARY, Sept. 13 (CP)—Drastic methods to assist coal mine operators of Canada, including the closing of some mines so the remainder could be worked on a proper basis, were recommended today by Dr. S. G. Blaylock, of Trail, B. C., president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, at the opening of the annual western meeting of the institute here.

The lot of coal mine operators had become "almost unbearable," Dr. Blaylock declared. Operating costs must be cheapened so the cost of coal to the railways would be lowered and the railways in turn would be enabled to cut the cost of hauling coal to further markets. Under present conditions, he declared, the general public had to pay higher prices for fuel than was justified.

STUDY CAREFULLY

In suggesting some mines should be closed, he said the problem should be studied carefully and great care taken to cause the least loss and inconvenience to the worker.

Delegates to the western meeting were welcomed by Hon. Hugh Allen, recently appointed minister of mines for Alberta, and Alderman R. H. Weir, representing the city of Calgary.

Mr. Allen, making his first public address since his appontment, assured the mning men the government was behind them in their efforts to develop the natural resources of Alberta.

During the session technical pabers were presented by George Cole, director of mines for Manitoba, Dr. A. E. Cameron of the University of Alberta, and R. W. Diamond of Trail, B. C.

Inquiries Made for B. C. Goods

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP)—Trade inquiries for B.C. products abroad, forwarded to the provincial information bureau this week, include offers respecting exports of salmon, canned fruits and vegetables, meats, foodstuffs, box shooks, oiled wrappers, wrapping paper, lumber and meat and bone and meal.

ACCEPT $1000 TO LAND SETTLEMENT PROPERTY

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP)—An offer of $1000 for 54 acres of land settlement board property near Salmon Arm was accepted by the province today from F. Boneham. The property was originally sold on agreement to another party in 1928, but the transfer was not completed. The new offer was the full amount of the government's appraisal of the land in question.

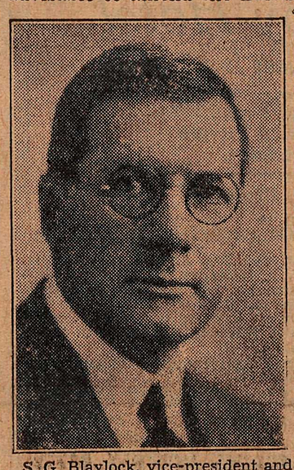
ASKS VIEWS ON B.N.A. ACT AND HOW SHOULD BE AMENDED— PREMIERS TO SET DATE MEET

Duplication of Taxation; Jurisdiction Over Social Problems, Coordination of Work Suggested for Talk

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (CP)—A letter prepared by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett before his departure for Geneva, has been dispatched to all provincial premiers asking for suggestions for a date at which they will meet with the Dominion government in Ottawa to discuss constitutional and other questions, as tentatively planned at he las Dominion-provincial conference, and outlining a proposed agenda.

The agenda suggested by the prime minister has refernce to steps which may be taken to avoid duplication of taxation, jurisdiction over social problems such as old age pensions, hours of work and wages, definition of provincial and federal jurisdiction over health, agriculture and other matters in which there is a duplication of effort, research work, statistics and the steps to be adopted if it deemed advisable to amend the British North America act.



S. G. Blaylock, vice-president and general manager of the Consolidated, who urged closing some of the coal mines in order to improve the industry.

The letter, dated August 31, to provincial premiers follows:

As I indicated at the meeting with the provincial premiers in July last, it is my purpose to call a conference of representatives of the governments of all the provinces to meet at Ottawa before the end of the year to discuss with the federal government the following questions and such other matters as may be placed upon the agenda after I have been advised of the views of the premiers of the several provinces.

1. What steps can be taken to reduce the evils of duplicate taxation and provide a more logical allocation of sources of revenue now available to Dominion provinces?

PREPARED TO SURRENDER?

2. Are the provinces prepared to surrender their executive jurisdiction over legislation dealing with such social problems as old age pensions, unemployment and social insurance, hours, and conditions for work, minimum wages, etc., to the Dominion parliament? If so, on what terms and conditions?

3. Is it desirable to endeavor more clearly to define the respective jurisdiction of the Dominion parliament and provincial legislatures with respect to health and agricultural and other matters in which there is a duplication of effort by federal and provincial authorities?

RESEARCH WORK

4. Consideration of the extent to which there may be more complete coordination of the effort of federal and provincial authorities with respect to research work.

5. Consideration of the extent to which there may be more complete coordination of the effort of federal and provincial authorities with respect to gathering and publication of statistical information and what steps, if any, should be taken to

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

EDMONTON, Sept. 13 (CP)—Ledgard, four, and Leo, 10 months, children of Albert Baumgart, were burned to death as fire swept the Baumgart home at 9 a.m. today. Bustav Luther, who lives in the Baumgart home, suffered a severely gashed hand as he broke a window preparatory to a daring dash into the blazing building in a futile effort to save the children.

Air Drills Hammer in the Clubine-Comstock

Throb of Compressor Opens New Chapter for Kootenay and Spokane Financed Gold Operation in Salmo Section

BIG ORE SHOOT OF UPPER LEVELS JUST PICKED UP 350 FEET DEEPER

Property Has Shipped 16th Car and Paid for Underground Structure; Work to Be Done on Three Levels; a Crew of 17

BY H. H. CURRIE

Turning a corner in its development history, by installing compressed air power and machine drills, the Clubine-Comstock mining operation, which has enlisted Kootenay and Spokane capital to extract yellow metal from its replacement ore, deposited in a fissure series in the Rossland volcanics, overlooks the Nelson-Nelway highway from a near eminence, a few miles this side of Salmo.

DEVELOPMENT PAYS WAY

Brought along slowly in its prospect years, and its development on five different levels all accomplished by hand work, the property has periodically shipped, till now it has forwarded its 16th car of ore to Trail smelter, and has paid the cost of its underground structure from development ore taken out, with something to spare toward other capital items.

Equipped now with camp accommodation for 20 men, with power drills, and with recently provided road access for motor transport, the betterments mainly provided from subscribed capital, the Clubine-Comstock is launching on an aggressive campaign of exploration on No. 5 level, oldest, but still promising, of its ore horizons, while continuing development on other levels. Its crew, recently 12, is 17 now that air drills are being used, and in a few days will be 19.

NOBLE FIVE IS ORE DRIFTING IN ATHABASCA

Changing Attack to Higher Level It Opens Shoot

SACKS ORE FOR EARLY SHIPMENT

Drifts From Crosscut Both Ways; Near the Contact

Suspending work in the Athabasca's new deep tunnel, known as No. 4, overlooking Nelson, for the time being, and substituting in its place active drifting on No. 2 level both ways from the 900-foot old crosscut, Noble Five Mines, Ltd., after a month's work on the higher horizon, is now sorting and sacking ore for a shipment to Trail smelter.

It is approximately a month since Paul Lincoln, president and managing director of Noble Five Mines, transferred the underground attack, cleaning out and retimbering the long crosscut which carries past the old shaft, and laying four-inch pipes to the face to carry compressed air for the machine drills.

GOOD GOLD VALUES

Drilling was started September 1, both ways, one drift being carried to the north, and the other to the south. The north drift has already gone 50 feet on ore 12 inches wide, running about three ounces in gold to the ton. In the south drift the ore, which runs about 2½ ounces, is averaging 18 inches in width, and for the past week stoping from this drift has been in progress.

The ore is being sorted to average about 3½ ounces, and shipping is expected after Sept. 20.

In the south drift the work is heading toward the contact of the granite formation with the Rossland volcanics, and will shortly cross it. This contact zone has so far produced the best ore from the Athabasca property, and higher stopes indicate that on No. 2 level the shoot should extend into this zone 250 feet.

At a later period, after the drifting on No. 2 gets in the vicinity of the recent deep work, it is proposed to resume the latter, and effect a connection.

THE ADS ARE Part of THE NEWS

here and there with Lilly Anne

Yellow, mellow, ripened days,
Sheltered in a golden coating;
O'er the dreamy, listless haze,
White and dainty cloudlets floating;
Winking at the blushing trees,
And the sombre, furrowed fallow.
Smiling at the airy ease
Of the southward-flying swallow.
Sweet and smiling are thy ways
Beauteous, golden Autumn days.

The nicest little trick adopted by the new Autumn frocks for bridge is in the buttons,—four neat, brilliant buttons centered with a heart, a diamond, a spade and a club. How tricky to finger one of these in a careless, off-hand manner, and so let your partner know what ace you hold in your hand.

The Fashion Show! How eagerly we await this 1934 style parade of the D. & C. ART SHOPPE on September 26th, when lovely ladies will model smart, sporty, togs for golf or badminton or street; dashing, sophisticated costumes for tea-time or bridge; gorgeous, glamorous, scintillating gowns for the cocktail hour or evening. A treat for all of us!

Colors are discreet,—heather, dark greens and browns, subtle combinations of dull tones mixed with grey. Variations are obtained by the use of plain sleeves with a vari-colored cardigan or by ladylike stripes.

Emphasis is laid on weave and texture rather than on folderols. Materials are zephyr yarn, camel's hair, cashmere and heather wools, and woven stripes, ribs, welts, waffles and waves add variety to tailor-mades as well as to hand-knit garments.

A long, lazy chair, a fascinating book or the latest paper, a fragrant cigarette or time-honored pipe, and the dog or cat dozing by the fire! What do you care if the nights grow colder and darker? The icy blasts of winter make home a grand place to be,—if it is comfortable. The cosy, intimate good times of fireside hours are yours when that little heater sends its glowing radiance to the farthest corners of the room, warming the cockles of your heart and the tips of your stretched-out toes. And when you think of a heater, think of THE WOOD, VALLANCE HARDWARE COMPANY who have coal heaters, wood heaters, coal-oil heaters, electric heaters and gas heaters in closed or fireplace style. With one of these installed, your friends will rally round like moths to a candle flame.

A great help to Brides, as well as to older people who are resuming their fall and winter cooking, is to be found in the PURITY COOK BOOK. Any grocer can procure it for you locally, at fifty cents. It covers everything from soup to nuts.

Br! You shudder at the thought of chilly sheets on frosty nights, and your cosy friend, the hot water bag, has died a death of summer heat. Drop in to FLEURY'S for one from their absolutely brand-new stock, before you have an awful pain some night and have to use the iron. A good hostess has one to match each bedroom.

Clothes for sports in Fall and Winter are agreeably simple. Gone are the fussy, puffy sleeves, the broad shoulders, the windblown doodads. The term for Autumn wear is "classic" but with a certain streamline touch of its own.

And so, until next week, Adieu.

The mast is 156 feet from deck to masthead, circular in form and made of high-tensile steel and elaborately stayed. They give a very impressive view of the mast, of the towering expanse of canvas, a l the beautiful hull of the challenger. Inset in the top left-hand corner are shown the hulls of the revolutionary Shamrock IV., built before the war and used in the 1920 races, the Shamrock V. of 1930, and the Endeavour—the three yachts compared and drawn to the same scale. Inset on the right is a diagram showing a curious jib which Endeavour has been using when sailing to windward—a headsail of new design which has aroused great interest and which appears to enable the vessel to point very high on the wind. The jib is a very large one, replacing the two smaller sails, jib and flying jib, of the orthodox rig, and its luff extends from top to bottom of the stay; but its peculiarity consists in the fact that to it are attached two longer than the short steep seas encountered off the British coasts.

sheets. The lower of these sheets leads down to about the normal position of the lead for a jib, but the upper one is attached two-thirds up the leech of the sail, and leads right aft to a cleat on the quarter. This sail and its sheeting have been submitted to exhaustive wind-tunnel tests, which have appeared to prove their efficacy. Endeavour is also remarkable for her long overhang at bow and stern. It is hoped that this design will give her a better chance when sailing in the ocean seas of America waters, which are

PENITENTIARY QUIET AGAIN

Discipline Enforced; Furniture Smashed Late Wednesday

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 13 (CP). — Disciplinary measures have been enforced in the federal penitentiary here and a "rebellion" of convicts who smashed cell furniture and fixtures in a demonstration Wednesday night has been quelled, Col. H. W. Cooper, warden, said today. His statement was the first official indication of the trouble to reach the outside.

About 120 convicts had gone on strike since the first of the month, refusing to work and demanding wages for their work and recognition of a convicts' standing committee. Their demands were refused and the strikers confined to cells.

Col. Cooper reported yesterday that "some of the striking prisoners are being permitted to return to work at their own request."

SMASHED IRON FURNITURE

The warden stated that late Wednesday the ringleaders who had been locked in their cells, smashed up the iron furniture and rattled the iron table legs up and down the bars, creating a terrible din. Several toilet fixtures in the cells were smashed beyond repair.

He said he believed that this demonstration was made in an effort to persuade the convicts to remain on strike.

New Westminster police have been informed that the inquest into the deaths of J. D. McDonald and Herbert Ross, killed Friday in the collapse of a scaffolding on which they were at work, must be postponed again.

$78,000 A YEAR

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (CP). — It would cost at least $78,000 a year to pay wages to convicts in Canadian penitentiaries, General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, said tonight, commenting on a prisoners' strike at New Westminster, B.C. The men have been on strike since the first of the month, demanding wages.

Keighley Loses

LONDON, Sept. 13 (CP)— Hull-Kingston defeated Keighley 22-5 this evening in a reply to the first-round match in the Rugby league Yorkshire cup.

Hull defeated the touring French thirteen by 24-20.

NEW SNOW IS SEEN, NELSON

Rainy Weather Is Big Contrast to Past Month's

After a prolonged drought and hot weather, Nelsonites are witnessing the weatherman in another mood.

A sharp dip in temperatures Wednesday after heavy showers, painted Kokanee peaks with fresh snow, and Thursday, following further cool damp conditions, mountain tops on almost all sides of the city were white for a time.

During the two days of damp weather .61 inch of rain has fallen here, .36 on Wednesday and .25 on Thursday.

Thursday temperatures took a further dip and the minimum, 42 degrees was four degrees down from the previous day. The maximum temperature was 58 degrees.

NEWARK BEARS TAKE FIRST ONE

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP). — Staging a comeback Newark Bears blanked Toronto Maple Leafs 6-0 in the third of the best four out of seven games in the International league playoffs. Leafs won the first two encounters at Newark.

Hurling air-tight ball, Johnny Larocca limited the Leafs to three hits, two of them scratchy. Sheriff Blake who took the mound for the locals was relieved in the eighth after giving up eight singles. The Bears notched three runs in the first two innings, added a single in the sixth and then came through with two more in the ninth.

The series will continue here tomorrow night under the flood lights.

SOURED ON THE WORLD?—THAT'S LIVER

Wake up your Liver Bile
—No Calomel necessary

Many people who feel sour, sluggish and generally wretched make the mistake of taking salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage which only move the bowels and ignore the liver.

What you need is to wake up your liver bile. Start your liver pouring the daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Get your stomach and intestines working as they should, once more.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon fix you up. Purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Quick. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists. 51

"You Shoot, I'll Do the Explaining", Is Cryptic Order to the Soldiers in Vienna

And Reporter, Luckily, Could Read German and Understood Street Sign That Said: "Zuruck, Sonst Wird Geschossen!"

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

VIENNA, Sept. 13.—Zuruck, sonst wird geschossen! Back, else you will be fired upon!

Suddenly I stood before this sign, which was fastened to a barbed-wire entanglement in the middle of a street. It was pure chance that I noticed the cryptic and deadly warning, which was no bigger than half a foot each way, and I had fully intended to walk on, following the sidewalk where there was an opening in the barbed wire. I looked around to see if I could discover why this particular street was barred. Not a soul stirred. Nothing but a monotonous row of self-same red-brick apartment houses. Should I chance it? I wondered. Maybe, I thought, the sign and the wire are but left-overs from the recent street-battles. But just then as I took one more step forward, trusting to chance, I caught sight of two steel-helmets in a deep doorway across the street. Two men were watching me as they lay in that porch, rifles ready-poised. It was only next day I learned of Prince "Rudie" Starhemberg's order to his green-gray Heimwehren boys: "You shoot, I'll do the explaining." But suppose I hadn't been able to read German? Or suppose it had been an hour later, and pitchdark?

"Why is that street barred?" I asked a schutzman (cop) a few blocks on my retreat.

"Who are you?" he asked. I told him.

"Foreigners shouldn't go snooping in these neighborhoods," he said caustically. "Stay on the main streets. No cafes here. No music here. No girls here."

"What's here that needs guards?" I asked.

"O, bad people live here!"

"Bandits?" "Worse than bandits. Socialists!"

"I thought it was the Nazis who killed Dollfuss!" I said innocently.

"Don't give me any of your lip," snapped the schutzman, "get back to the main-streets and stay there!"

WOMAN REFUSED BREAD

I walked back through that mournful quarter. At one corner there was a commotion in front of a grocery store. A woman was being led away by six policemen. She was weeping. "Let me go," she pleaded. "My children are home. They have nothing to eat. I only wanted a loaf of bread. Let me go. Are my children to starve?" The cops had no mercy.

"Did she steal?" I asked a bystander. "No," he said. "She tried to get the bread on credit."

"And for that?" . . . I began. I did not finish the sentence. "Freiheit Brot!" (Freedom, Bread) screamed the woman. "Freiheit!" the cry was immediately answered from the windows above and the from the bystanders. The policemen fumbled for their revolvers.

I went to Mannheim. I do not mean the great city on the Rhine in Germany. Vienna has a little Mannheim all of its own. It is a sort of mountain resort with ritzy restaurants and fashionable dance clubs. The air is cool up there and the place is out of bounds to the plebeian mob. I had been told that you could see all the Heimwehren chief's there of an evening with their ladies. It was a little after dusk when I rattled out that way in an old fiacre. The road was covered with limousines. I had to bribe a maitre d'hotel to let me sit in an unobtrusive corner.

SPLENDOR OF VIENNA

Soft-tempered lights. Dreamy music. Beautiful women. Gay laughter. Popping champagne bottles. Heels clicking in stiff salutes. Brilliant decorations. Georgeous uniforms. Marvellous gowns. Exotic perfumes. Obsequious footmen. Around each table a flock of dignified soft-footed waiters.

Archduke Wilhelm was to be there in the course of the evening. I was told. I saw Starhemberg come in. He had a frown on his face. Many rose to greet him. When he was seated a blonde woman lifted her glass and called out a toast. All present joined her. The prince drank champagne. But the frown did not leave his face. A bell-boy came in and handed him a note on a silver platter. Starhemberg threw the boy a few coins, read the message and left, stepping nervously. People got up to dance. A crooner sang in English: "Your Dog Loves My Dog!" The couples on the floor hummed the song. I tried to estimate the cost of some of the jewels I saw flashing by in the big room. Outside you could see the million lights of Vienna in the distance and a purple glow against the sky.

PLENTY OF MONEY NOW

"There must be plenty of wealth in this town yet!" I said to a newspaperman who used to work on the confiscated Arbeiter Zeitung, when I had returned to town and had found a seat in a crowded cafe on the Ringstrasse, Vienna's Broadway. "Plenty of money has come in of late," he said. "A few weeks ago even Starhemberg was broke."

"How do you know?" I asked. "Vienna is a small town," he said. "Everybody knows everybody's business."

"Well, you don't mean Italy is sending money in here? They haven't any money to spare in Rome," I objected. "Don't know where it comes from," he replied. "But there is plenty among the Heimwehren chiefs."

There was a sudden commotion in the cafe. Life is that way in Vienna. Fits and starts. Voices dropped, rose again, dropped to whispers. People were excitedly discussing something.

"What's up?" I asked, "another putsch?"

"Don't know," replied my companion, "I'll find out," and he left me.

"It's something about Russia!" he said when he came back, "but I can't find out what it is exactly. Let's go outside!" he suggested. We walked a few blocks, then turned into a narrow street and went into a dark taproom at the end of a labyrinthal maze of alleyways.

"Heard the news?" someone shouted to my companion as we entered.

"No, what is it?"

"The children are in Moscow!"

CHILDREN GET TO RUSSIA

This had to be explained to me. In February this year 178 schuzbundlers fought their way to the borders and escaped to Russia. Once established there, these men wanted their wives and children to join them. The Austrian government refused to let the relatives depart. Yet, in spite of drastic measures, the women and the children did manage to get across the border by an "underground" system as existed once in the United States in the days of slavery. Word had just come that they had reached their destination.

"And," came the further news, "Paula has escaped!" Paula Wallisch was meant, the wife of the leader of the schutzbund, who defended the apartment-house block Ottakring against Dollfuss' artillery. Her husband was hanged, she was imprisoned.

When we went back into the streets, excited groups of people were standing about everywhere. Masses of Heimwehren suddenly appeared. In one cafe. The police were making a raid. I watched the proceedings. Someone put out the electric lights and the crowd burst loose with the song: "Zusammen, zusammen, wir marschieren zusammen!" (Together, together, we're marching together.)

MORE ABOUT Slaves Revolt

was the literature of Marxism. There were other bookshops, of course, German, Hungarian, Czech, Yiddish and one even French. People appear to be heavy readers in Slovakia, which proves one thing n.l. that there is a deep disquietude about conditions. It is said that America began to read only in the third year of the depression.

PEOPLES REMAIN SEPARATE

The streets of Bratislava are narrow and dark. They make you think both of Wall St., where the skyscrapers shut out the sun, and of the front-line trenches, where stretcher-bearers had a deuce of a time getting around corners. A Slocak poet with whom I spent an evening and who initiated me into the mysteries of life in the double republic said that Bratislava was once the capital of a mighty empire. I have forgotten the name of that empire, but I do remember the sighs of an old Viennese general when he spoke of Bratislava. In the days of Francis Joseph, Viennese society used to go week-ending in the picturesque old inns here. Now there is a frontier to cross.

The various national clans in Bratislava do not mix a great deal, but they are not hostile to each other. Joined they are only in their hatred for the Czechs, who appear here in the role of overlords and bureaucrats, the successors of the old Austrian rulers. On the map and in newspaper dispatches the country is called Czecho-Slovakia, linked by a hyphen. Here on the spot you find that there are no such beings as Czecho-Slovaks, but that there are Czechs in Czechia and Slovaks in Slovakia, and that the hyphen which is called a "trait d'union" in French, a link of union, does not denote brotherly solidarity but is a detested symbol of national incompatibility—at least to the Slovakia.

PRESERVE ELOQUENT SILENCE

As in every other country there are liberals, conservatives, socialists, clericals, and men of the middle of the road in Slovakia. Doubtless they would quarrel among themselves were it not that they can always agree on the subject of the Czechs. The Slovaks are people of moods. They have the Slavic melancholia. But they are not as loquacious as the Russians. Every Russian wants to tell you his life-story and that of all his friends, neighbors and relatives. In the cafes of Bratislava there hangs a strange brooding silence, packed with explosive emotion. It will not always remain as peaceful in Slovakia as it is today. For that people read too much and for that the silence is too eloquent. When they are greatly stirred the Slovaks sing a song. It is a stirring, vibrating, passionate hymn. It is not the official national anthem. Official national anthem is a Czech concoction, which is played by the military bands on the birthday of the republic. The song I am speaking of is the hymn of the Detvani. The Detvani are the Slovaks who live in the Carpathian mountains. In the middle ages the Detvani were robbers. So, at least, the history books will inform you, the same as Manchurians are conveniently dubbed bandits in our days. The truth is that the Detvani preferred to live in the mountains rather than be the chattel-slaves of Teutonic barons and other overlords in castles. You and I would have been among the Detvani, I trust, had we lived in these parts in the middle ages.

"Your woods, your thick, cool forests on the mountains," begins the song of the Detvani. And it goes on: "There is a path to the mountains! My father was a good man, but I will be a bandit. I will be a bandit, because injustice is great. Power lies with the lords. But justice is in the hands of the bandits!"

JEWS LIVE IN GHETTO

When the Slovaks sing this song they forget that they are liberals or conservatives or socialists or clericals or men of the middle of the road. They all sing it, standing up. Fire comes into their eyes, a sob in their voices and their fists clench. The Czechs smile when they hear the song of the Detvani. They call it an interesting piece of folklore, a nice pleasant ditty. It is true the Czechs control the army, the police and the judiciary in Slovakia, and they also run the jails.

The Jews of Bratislava live in the medieval ghetto, which is built up against the mountains. Beyond the ghetto lies the red light district district. Medieval town planners had a way of putting the outcasts together. You can see the same thing in Avignon in the south of France and in Rome on the Tiber. The ghetto consists of a rabbit-warren of alleys so narrow that you can touch both sides of the street at the same time when you stretch out your arms. The houses date from the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. The latest construction bears the inscription 1632. I would not be surprised if anyone told me that not a brush of paint has been applied to the houses of the ghetto in all these years. They look black, they smell of damp and rotting plaster and they swarm with rats, I noticed.

The gipsies live even higher than the Jews on the fringe of the city, but way up. The gipsies are the entertainers of Bratislava. They play music both at weddings and funerals. But the fee for playing at a funeral is a crown more than for a wedding.

On Friday nights, just a soon as the evening star appears, the Jewish quarter is illuminated with thousands of candles in welcome of the Sabbath. If you look up towards the ghetto after dark from the city, from downtown Bratislava, it is as if the lights of the ghetto-mountain mingle with the lamps in the mansions of the Lord.

BAN CRIME LITERATURE

CANBERRA, Australia (CP)— Almost immediate action is to be taken by the government to prevent the importation of sensational crime literature into Australia. The minister of customs has announced a proclamation will be issued before parliament rises to impose an import prohibition on all such matter.

LONDON, (CP)—Sir Philip Wilbraham Baker-Wilbraham, secretary of the church assembly since 1920, has been appointed official principal of the Arches Court of Canterbury, master of faculties and vicar-general of the province of Canterbury.

MISSIONARIES BEING SOUGHT

Eight Foreign Fields Need Some More Workers

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 13—Eight foreign mission fields of the United Church of Canada are appealing insistently for reinforcements, it was reported to the general council today by the board of foreign missions. The board's report explained that the strain of work was telling on many workers.

Although they had economized and reorganized the missionaries found the present staff insufficient. The staff consists of 324 workers in the fields, not including women's missionary society workers. This compared with a total of 407 missionaries in 1927.

In Trinidad the church has completed its third year under the new presbytery organization and, the report states, "the work has brought a harvest of spiritual quickening, and an increased enrolment in day schools and Sunday schools."

In Japan, I. Kagawa, who recently toured Canada, has greatly assisted the evangelistic campaign of the Tokyo tabernacle, while rural gospel schools are fostering a Christian community. The church in Central India has increased in liberality and is touching cast people.

Retreats and Bible schools have greatly strengthened the church in Honan province, North China. West China missionaries have opened Christian work in new towns and villages, and congregations have almost achieved their high objectives in new baptisms. The South China missionaries report gains in evangelizing the area of the 10th presbytery in the Kwangtung province. Korea and Africa have proved the fields of greatest in-gatherings.

Educational institutions on all the fields, including three universities, have reached new high standards of scholarship and religious life. The board reported many benefits from the work of hospitals, especially where well-trained national staffs have been built up.

Reorganization in the Canadian field of missionary education to make more effective the presentation of missionary materials to all ages of the United Church's constituency, was sponsored before the general council by a special commission. The report of this commission stated "the results obtained are not commensurate with the effort expended. Ministers and congregations fail to make full use of the material given them."

The suggested reorganization involved the direction of the work of missionary education by a committee was to be widely representative of cooperating groups, and should develop a unified program "touching all ages and groups."

TERM FOR MODERATOR IS QUESTION BEFORE UNITED CHURCH CONFERENCE

Four Proposals Submitted to Presbyteries for Vote

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP).—Whether the moderator of the general council of thte United Church of Canada shall be elected for eight years, resigning his pastorate and devoting his whole time to the work of the church as a whole, was one of the questions before the biennial general council today.

The task of examining the replies made by presbyteries of the church to a remit concerning the moderator's duties, confronted general council following the report of the voting. Four proposals had been submitted as a result of legislation adopted by the fifth general council in 1932. There were 115 presbyteries to hear from. A definite conclusion from their voting was regarded as difficult, so varied were their recommendations.

Four suggestions voted on by presbyteries were:

1. That at each geenral council two moderators should be elected, each to serve for one year.

2. That the term of the moderator should be extended to eight years. This would require him to give up his present work and to devote all his time to the church.

3. That the term be extended to four years, with the possibility of reelection for a second term of four years. This would also require full-time service.

4. That the term should be for two years, as at present, with the understanding that he might be re-elected for another term of two years.

Each presbytery was instructed to consider which, if any, of the alternative proposals it favored, and what other proposals it might offer.

Although 27 presbyteries made no report, and many preferred the present term of office, other presbyteries submitted a wide variety of views. The question has been under consideration since the general council of 1930.

Some answers indicated a preference for the type of duties acceptable in Scotland, some indicated a preference for a superintendency, and others sought various modifications. The Toronto Centre presbytery, supported by the Oxford presbytery, included the suggestion a moderator or moderators be nominated in advance by a committee, as is the practice in the British Methodist church and the Church of Scotland. This would replace the present system of spontaneous nomination at the general council.

Many presbyteries emphasized the desire expressed in the remit that pastors should be enabled to accept the office without handicapping their future ministry.

To collect, analyze and make recommendations upon the findings was expected to be a task of a sessional committee of the general council.

MUCH FOR SOLDIERS

MELBOURNE, Australia, (CP) — More than $1,000,000,000 has been expended on repatriation of Australian soldiers who served in the great war, the annual report of the Returned Soldier's league states. The commonwealth war service homes commission has erected 21,200 homes and purchased 19,925 others.

"This SCARE On Wilshire Boulevard Sold Me"

"At the corner where Berendo St. meets Wilshire, a heavy sedan swerved wide into the Boulevard—doing '50' at least! No use slamming on the brakes; the only chance . . . shoot out in front of him. A split hair couldn't have gone between his front wheel and my rear bumper. Lucky? Sure. A good motor? You bet. And I've got a hunch a less powerful gasoline would have lost me those vital few inches I needed."

(from an actual letter in Shell Oil Company files at Los Angeles)

How much of a difference is there between gasolines....?

YOU FIND OUT IN THE "CLOSE SHAVES" ON THE ROAD!

IT'S when something unexpected happens—and it's an ounce of extra power that gets you by. That's when you realize the importance of those little differences between gasolines!

Super-SHELL is refined to give you reserve power for these driving emergencies. Ten of the little wastes that ordinary gasolines can cause are positively reduced.

It is an inviolable rule at Shell refineries that Super-SHELL must do all jobs well. Must give you not just high anti-knock—and full mileage—but top speed—excellent startability—and great pick-up.

Super-SHELL is specially refined for balanced performance. It is made more concentrated by eliminating all waste parts—the gassy "tops" and sluggish "bottoms."

Every drop of Super-SHELL is the "heart-cut" of petroleum. That's why so many people say it is "the best gasoline you can buy." Try it in your own car today.

WOMEN'S GOLF TITLE START IS TOMORROW

Galaxy of Stars to Seek Canadian Supremacy

TEAM MATCH IS ON TOMORROW

Major Chase Starts on Monday; to End in Week

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP)—A galaxy of stars such as seldom before has set out in search of the crown, poised ready today for the opening round of the women's open golf championship of Canada. Preceded by a team match Saturday between the foremost Canadian players in the Dominion and Britain, the major title chase will be launched Monday with a qualifying round of 18 holes over the beautiful Toronto club layout.

Out of the large field of aspiring champions only 32 who turn in the best gross scores will have the honor of testing their fortunes in the gruelling title fight. Those failing to make the grade, however, carry on in other flights for the consolation and other prizes. Match play in the elimination process continues for the rest of the week, with the championship final Saturday, Sept. 22, over the 36-hole route.

Given an international flavor by the strong contingent of British aces, including Diana Fishwick, former bloder of the English title, Doris Chambers, Molly Gourlay and Wanda Morgan, the classic promises to produce one of the keenest struggles in its history. And the galleries who have been following the invaders on their tuning-up workouts believe there is a good chance of the Duchess of Connaught Gold cup taking a trip abroad.

But Canada's forces are ready to meet the challenge, led by the defending champion, Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, who also wears the Canadian Close crown as a further symbol of her prowess. Should she falter there are other stalwarts eager to succeed her on the throne. Among them are such outstanding stars as Mrs. W. D. Fraser of Ottawa, who, probably better known to the golfing fraternity as Miss Alexa Stirling, won the title back in 1920; Mrs. J. Dagonais, Montreal, province champion of Quebec; Miss Margery Kirkham, Montreal; Mrs. R. K. Bearsto, Winnipeg; Mrs. Vera Ford, Vancouver; Mrs. Roy H. Horne, Calgary; Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen and Mrs. W. E. Whittington, both of Toronto, all champions or former champions in their own right.

CLOSE AND INTER-PROVINCIAL

A large number of other sterling players already established in the country's golf firmament along with a coterie of rising stars, have been practising assiduously for the important event. All are primarily focusing their attention on the open crown, but if they fail yet another opportunity beckons, for the following week ushers in the second major event—the close championship. With the exception of the English players the same field will dip into their bag of tricks for the shots that spell success.

Coincident with the close championship which will be played over the Scarboro Golf and Country club, executives of the Canadian Ladies' Golf union will inaugurate an inter-provincial team match. A trophy has already been donated for this event by the Royal Canadian Golf association.

The competition which will be staged along the lines of the Willingdon Trophy match for men, henceforth will be an annual feature The provinces competing will be represented by a team of four players, and scores carded in the qualifying round proper of the close championship will also count in the interprovincial match, with the lowest aggregate gross determining the winner.

Both courses which will serve as the venue for the important fixtures are regarded as exacting tests Rolling, tree-flanked fairways, with treacherous rough to catch wayward drives and iron shots, and yawning traps judiciously scattered about the courses and protecting greens offer hazards that will take heavy toll of the unwary. And those players who are particularly proficient with the wood will greet the layouts with glee for the Scarboro links the stretches over a total of 6349 yards while Toronto goes it few yards better at 6441. Women's par for the latter is 77, compared with Scarboro's 73.

YOUNG ARMY JOINS WORK

United Church Draws Many Youthful Members

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP)—While rejoicing in the impressive totals of personnel and activities of the Sunday school and Young Peoples' work of the United Church of Canada, the board of Christian education pointed out to general council in session here there was a slower rate of increase in Sunday school membership. At the same time there was an encouraging total of 25,000 young people received into full communion with the church on profession of faith each year.

An enrolment of 583,000 pupils with a staff of 65,000 teachers and officers was announced for the Sunday schools. In addition there were 214,000 members in midweek organizations in religious education, "thus providing an additional program for the oncoming generation."

Three arts universities, eight theological centres, and 13 junior or secondary colleges make up the roll of educational institutions report, the enrolment in arts and theology seemed little affected by economic conditions, but certain secondary schools were experiencing difficulties through decreased enrolment.

A statement concerning the transfer of Regina College from the church's direction to the University of Saskatchewan expressed regret at the turn of events. The board, its report states, "is quite convinced that the secondary schools under church auspices occupy a unique place in, and are of the utmost value to education in this country."

For the current year an enrolment of 2242 in the arts college and 207 in the theological colleges was recorded. Candidates for the ministry numbered 244 in the arts course and 207 in theology, a total of 451 candidates. In secondary and junior schools the registration totalled 3894 persons.

The board stated the church is engaged in Christian education because, in response to suitable nurture and stimulus, human beings may attain abundant life, "and because God is Himself the Great Educator whose purpose for His children is being fulfilled through educational processes."

30-Year-Old Dream Comes True as Work Starts on Huge Dyke at Creston Valley

40-Ton "Glorified" Scrapers Move 10 Yards of Clay at a Trip as 14-Mile Wall Goes Up to Reclaim 8000 Acres

CRESTON, B.C., Sept. 13.—Reclamation of the overflow lands at Creston, has commenced. With huge tractors and dirt-moving machinery roaring a twenty-four-hour day defiance to hitherto uncontrolled waters of the Goat and Kootenay rivers, a start has been made on the building of the 14 miles of dyke that will, when completed, enclose 8000 acres of the most fertile land on the North American continent.

Thirty years ago, citizens of the Village of Creston watched the pioneer settlers hewing what are today splendid fruit ranches out of the solid forests. This land was costing up to $150 per acre for the clearing alone, and meant, in many cases, land that was costing $300 per acre to get ready for the plough. Right below the village lay thousands of acres of level grass land, fertile, ready for cultivation, and perfect for every agricultural purpose save one real difficulty. For six weeks in the middle of each growing season this land was covered with excess water, backed up from the Kootenay lake.

These citizens, quite a few of whom are still in business in Creston, dreamt dreams of controlling, by some means, that short period of overflow. Being practical men, they commenced action, formed a Board of Trade and started a 30-year bombardment of government officials, provincial, national and international. The citizens have persisted, against disappointment after disappointment, in a continuous effort to make the legislative side of "Reclamation" possible.

Meanwhile, science as applied to the perfecting of dirt-moving machinery, has been making tremendous strides. Less than six months ago the final obstacle to "Reclamation," from the point of view of the citizens, was removed by the approval of an agreement on the part of the Dominion Government. Less than one year ago, at the Coulee dam on the Columbia river in Washington State, a method of moving dirt was perfected which will make the reclamation of the Creston overflow lands not only feasible from an engineering point of view, but decidedly practical.

On August 28 of this year, the same Creston citizens, by reason of concessions granted by dominion and provincial governments, were able to sign a contract for the building of the Reclamation Dykes. This contract was made with Creston Dyking Company, Ltd.

In barely over two weeks' time, these men have assembled and put into operation sufficient machinery to complete the work before next high water and with a reasonable margin of safety. The combined weight of these machines is in excess of 100 tons, and the value in excess of $55,000.

The interesting part of the equipment consists of two Isaacson dirt movers, which are the latest thing in dirt-moving and dyke-building equipment. These machines can best be described as glorified scrapers, which are hauled by 75 horse power Allis-Chalmers track-type tractors, and operated and controlled by powerful hydraulic machinery. Glorification consists in the fact that these scrapers are mounted on six huge pneumatic tires and pick up and deliver 10 full yards of dirt at every trip to the dyke. The value of these machines for dyke-building purposes lies in the economy with which dirt can be moved and in the fact that the dirt is spread on the dyke to a thickness of about four inches at each operation and then packed by the full weight of the entire unit. When it is stated that the weight of each unit loaded is about forty tons, the value of this system of dyke-building becomes obvious.

The entire project will be in charge of Walter H. Heath, a dyking engineer with a life-time experience in dyking work on the Mississippi river and in the southern states of Texas and Louisiana. Mr. Heath knows his dykes, not only lives and thinks his work, but talks in terms of dirt-moving. It's new and mighty sweet-sounding language to the people of Creston. Such terms as "core-ditch," "drag-line," "cat-skinner," "borrow-pit," "bull-dozer," "blademan" are being heard on the streets everywhere. Mr. Heath's favorite expression is, "A Mississippi dyke—everything but the niggers and the mosquitoes."

The Creston dyke does not have to withstand moving water. It means a solid clay dyke, free from sand or gravel, free from tree roots or rubbish of every kind, free from grass and all vegetable matter. This solid mass of packed clay has a core extending below ground surface from four to eight feet, is up to sixty feet wide at the surface of the ground, 10 feet wide at the top, and six feet higher than the highest water that has occurred during the past thirty years.

Eight thousand acres of rich, humus overflow soil will be made available for cultivation by means of a dyke properly built for a century of permenance.

Air Drills in the Clubine-Comstock

The operation is by the Clubine-Comstock Gold Mines, Ltd., a British Columbia company that took over last fall from a Washington company of the same name, the property being bonded from L. R. Clubine. Mr. Clubine, who has put in 16 years with the property—and whose own hands have drilled the bulk of the holes in development to date—is president, and is in personal charge of the work. There are three Nelson directors, Vice-president R. E. Horton, Dr. L. E. Borden and Secretary-Treasurer C. F. Hunter. Joseph McCarthy of Spokane completes the board, which thus is essentially Kootenay in personnel. W. G. Norrie-Loewenthal is consulting engineer.

Looking up from the Nelson-Nelway highway where it crosses Boulder creek, just three miles before Salmo, the visitor sees the mine camp, to the eye all newly built, perched in a nearby niche of the mountain to the left of the Boulder creek draw, a newly constructed two miles of road leading up to it around the bole of the mountain.

EARLY ORE LEADS DOWN

The ore originally sought, by drifting from the surface outcrop, shows in the floor of the long tunnel—now named No. 5 because of the subsequent series driven above it. This drift, 410 feet long, all driven in pre-company days, coasted along the top of the ore for the best part of 200 feet, paring off in the process seven tons of pay rock, which was realized on at the smelter. A sample across six feet of this old exposure taken by B. T. O'Grady, government resident engineer, went 2.44 ounces in gold. The records show assays along 184 feet of the drift running from 1.18 to 8.77 ounces of gold per ton. Apparently this ore body goes down—its dimensions on this exposure certainly suggest some magnitude—and it will have to be tackled by a deeper drift at a future time.

This early ore, however, has not been the objective of the company work during the last two or three years, or of the present program, which have been and are concerned with ore first developed at higher horizons.

BIG OUTER SHOOT

Two other, and thus far more productive, ore bodies have been opened in the higher work—like the pre-company work, all drifts—and it is these that have yielded the ore that has enabled the development to pay its way. The vein that contains them apexes in ground 1000 feet up from the portal of No. 2 tunnel, which is the highest substantial work.

The outer of these upper ore bodies has been developed on No. 3 and No. 4 levels, and it is the objective of new work now being started in No. 5. It shows for the first 60 feet of No. 3 tunnel, which is 240 feet long, and seemingly it outcrops there. From this section 30 tons of ore, half from development and half from a small stope, was shipped, the first car returning 2.35 ounces of gold per ton, and the second, 1.57 ounces.

No. 4 level, which is 260 feet long, has this shoot for 200 feet, with an average width of 20 inches, and an average assay of .85 ounce gold. Five cars of ore shipped from this level, however, did much better than that, averaging 1.426 ounces, and samples from the bottom of the drift have gone as high as 13.9 ounces. The last 50 feet of No. 4 is beyond the shoot.

JUST OPENED ON No. 5

Only small intervals separate the upper levels, but No. 5 tunnel, which enters the hill beyond the small creek that crosses the camp, is some 350 feet down from No. 4. Projection of the vein from the upper levels on to the lower ground gives a location approximately that of the vein developed on No. 5, but certain divergences of the latter from the character above have led to the diagnosis that there are in reality two veins at that level, almost parallel, and fairly closely associated.

Starting an exploratory crosscut near the present face of No. 5, Mr. Clubine has within the last few days, at a distance in of 40 feet, cut a vein or Shear-zone that is apparently that of the upper levels, finding on its foot-wall 20 inches of high grade ore. The crosscut is now nine feet into the shear-zone, with no indication yet of the hanging-wall.

Rake of the ore body as opened above would bring its downward continuation into the distance traversed by No. 5, and by drifting along the foot-wall just found—if the vein is that of the upper levels—Mr. Clubine figures on exposing the shoot, which from its dimensions and rake above ought to be very substantial on this level.

Having regard to the distance between No. 5 and No. 4 levels, the rake of ore, and other factors, Mr. Norrie-Loewenthal recently estimated possible ore between these levels at 15,000 tons—if actually found to extend down to No. 5—with a value up to perhaps .85 ounce of gold per ton.

If the ore body is found in fact to extend down to No. 5 in any substantial extent, there would be considerable justification right there, for a small treatment plant.

AN INNER SHOOT

Apart from this big shoot, the upper workings expose a shoot further in that also is a prime interest, though as yet only beginning to be defined. No. 2 tunnel, dictated by the surface contour, is considerably further along the vein than No. 3, and has a nice shoot from which 115 tons of ore, running 1.15 ounces in gold, has gone to the smelter. In this case a small stope was opened, and 44 tons of ore taken out, but except for this, all the No. 2 ore shipped has been from development.

Now No. 3 level, though 240 feet long, is not far enough along the vein yet to have this inner ore shoot, but No. 4 level, after a 50-foot barren interval, has just opened the downward continuation of this shoot, in its face. Its character and rake identify it.

It is therefore apparent that there is ore to be developed by extending the upper levels further.

All this is apart from what may be developed in the future by deep work below No. 5, both on the 184-foot shoot in the floor of the tunnel opened in the early days, and on the downward continuation of the upper ore bodies, if they do in fact go down, and apart from what may be found in raising into that 1000-foot apex above No. 2, whose outcrop shows fair values in gold.

TO WORK ON THREE LEVELS

The immediate development program calls for extending of both No. 5 and No. 4 drifts with machine drills, and investigating of the abutting vein on No. 5 by hand work, and extension of No. 2, which is still in ore, also by hand work.

Two compressor units have been acquired. One, consisting of a 348-cubic foot portable compressor, powered with an 80-h.p. oil engine, is installed, while the smaller unit, comprising a portable of 110 cubic foot capacity per minute, to be driven by a 35 h.p. gasoline engine, has not yet been set up. In anticipation of air power, No. 4 tunnel was some time ago piped for air, and No. 5 has now been similarly served. When the throb of air drills was first heard on the Clubine-Comstock two weeks ago, a new chapter in the property's development was opened.

MILL QUESTION

For some time to come the Clubine-Comstock will have to ship its development ore—it has two faces in ore now, apart from what may be turned up in the No. 5 exploration.

But eventually, if development blocks out a further substantial tonnage, to add to present stoping ground, a modest mill would seem to be the part of good mining practice. The Clubine-Comstock ore is stated to be much like that of the Reno, both the free milling gold, and the sulphides, and though the milling process has not yet been worked out, no difficulty is anticipated in arriving at a formula. A plant of perhaps 35 tons has been mentioned as a possibility. If a mill is found to be required, a suitable site is at hand, a mile or so down from the camp. In the ordinary course, even if the ore were proven, such a plant would hardly come earlier than 1935.

As the power line of the West Kootenay Power & Light company will pass within 4500 feet both of the mill site, and of the present workings, a large scale operation would probably utilize commercial power.

In its 1000-acre holdings as the Clubine-Comstock group, the company has eight other known veins, apart from the vein system that so far has had all the development.

HALL CREEK HOLDINGS

The company also has 100 acres on Hall creek, near Nelson, which shows a well-defined fissure vein, that will average a width of 20 inches of ore over a distance of 90 feet, assaying about .34 ounce gold. This showing was uncovered by a snowslide a couple of years ago, and has not yet had a shot put in it.

From all these facts, it is apparent that this largely Kootenay-financed gold operation has excellent chances of considerable expansion, both from the development now in hand, and from other showings as yet untouched.

350 Boxes of Silver Coins Await Shipment

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP).—Three hundred and fifty boxes of silver coins, with a total value of approximately $750,000, are here awaiting transhipment to New York. The coins, each valued at $1.00 Mex., were unloaded yesterday from the liner Empress of Canada on its arrival from the orient.

PLAN RENOVATION OF JEHOL PALACES

Japan to Expend $5,000,000 in Silver; Work to Take 11 Years

JEHOL CITY, Manchuria, Sept. 13 (CP).—The government of Manchukuo has appointed a famous Japanese curator, Dr. Chuta Ita, as chief of a board to formulate plans for the repair and renovation of the famous imperial palaces of Jehol City.

Tentative plans already formulated by Dr. Ita call for an expenditure of $5,000,000, in silver, and the work is expected to take 11 years. Not only does Dr. Ita propose to repair and renovate the temples of Jehol City, but he also plans to aid in the preservation of various historical places along the road from Mukden to the capital of Jehol province.

Jehol City, often called "the Fontainbleau of China," was the summer residence of the Chinese emperors of the Manchu dynasty but the various buildings, most of which were built by the famous emperor, Chien Lung, have been allowed to fall into disrepair since the fall of the Manchus in 1911.

Jorgenson and Nyman Fined for Driving to Common Danger

Carl Leonard Nyman and J. G. Jorgenson, who featured in a double auto accident at Balfour September 3, were fined $10 in provincial police court Thursday by Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel. They pleaded guilty.

On the night of the accident, Jorgenson, Rossland resident, missed the turn at Holt's store on the Balfour road and piled up in a nearby field. Nyman was following close on his tail-light and, not noticing that he had left the road, followed him into the field and cracked up. Both automobiles were badly damaged. Jorgenson had his hand badly cut and Curley Sassechelin, riding in Nyman's car, received cuts and bruises.

Both drivers lost their white licences and received blue ones in their stead.

E. KOOTENAY'S FIRST TENNIS TOURNEY A HIT

Two-Day Affair at Cranbrook Has Thrills

GREEN-YOLLAND MATCH HIGHLIGHT

Plan Next Year to Enter Winners Here

CRANBROOK, Sept. 13—The tennis tournament held on the Cranbrook courts two days to decide the East Kootenay championships proved interesting to a good crowd of spectators each day. The meeting was held in response to invitations sent by the Cranbrook club to clubs of East Kootenay including Kimberley, Fernie, Invermere and Yahk. Also Creston in West Kootenay, to form an association with annual tournament.

The entries were considered satisfactory for a beginning though a larger representation from outlying clubs had been hoped for.

First rounds and some of the second rounds were played off Saturday.

First rounds results were as follows:

Men's singles:

W. O. Green beat Dr. Geddes 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

H. Yoland, Kimberley, beat A. McM. Beale beat J. Proven 6-4, 6-1.

Phee 6-4, 6-2.

N. A. Wallinger beat W. Mansfield 7-5, 7-5.

Those who got byes in the first round were F. Brown, C. Anderson of Kimberley, M. Bell and P. Sills.

Ladies' singles:

Miss H. Wright beat Miss E. Green 6-3, 6-0.

Mrs. Fergie beat Miss E. Wilby 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Miss E. Shankland got a bye.

Men's doubles:

P. Sills and F. Brown beat J. Buckannan and J. Finland, Kimberley, 6-2, 6-2.

M. A. Beale and M. Beale beat A. McPhee and G. Barclay 10-8, 6-3.

R. Geddes and Dr. Fergie beat W. Green and C. Anderson 4-6, 6-2, *-0.

J. Proven and H. Yolland beat N. A. Wallinger and W. Mansfield 6-1, 6-1.

Ladies' doubles:

Mrs. Fergie and Miss H. Wright beat Miss W. Burdett and Miss M. Burdett, Kimberley, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss A. Woodland and Miss E. Wilby beat Miss E. Green and Miss G. Flett 6-0, 6-2.

Mixed doubles:

Miss A. Woodland and N. A. Beale lost to Dr. and Mrs. Fergie 6-3, 7-5.

Miss E. Green and W. Green beat Miss G. Flett and C. Anderson 6-2, 6-3.

Miss E. Wilby and P. Sills beat Miss M. Burdett and H. Yolland, Kimberley, 6-1, 6-0.

Those who got byes were Miss E. Shankland and R. Geddes, Miss B. Beale and J. Fingland, Miss H. Wright and J. Proven.

Semi-finals of the men's doubles:

P. Sills and F. Brown beat M. A. Beale and M. Beale 6-2, 6-2.

Dr. Fergie and R. Geddes beat J. Proven and H. Yolland 6-4, 6-2.

In the finals Dr. Fergie and R. Geddes emerged victorious, 6-4, 6-1.

Semifinals of ladies' singles:

Miss H. Wright beat Miss Shankland 6-4, 6-3.

Mrs. Fergie got a bye.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the finals between Mrs. Fergie and Miss Wright were postponed.

Semi-finals of men's singles:

P. Sills beat M. Beale 6-3, 6-1.

H. Yolland defaulted to F. Brown.

In the finals P. Sills beat F. Brown 6-3, 6-2.

In the final round of the ladies' doubles Mr. Fergie and Miss H. Wright beat Miss A. Woodland and Miss E. Wilby 8-6, 6-2.

In the semi-finals of the mixed doubles:

Dr. and Mrs. Fergie beat Miss Wright and J. Proven 6-4, 2-6, 6-0.

Miss Wilby and P. Sills beat Miss Shankland and R. Geddes 6-3, 6-4.

Miss E. Wilby and P. Sills beat Miss Shankland and R. Geddes 6-3, 6-4.

Miss E. Wilby and P. Sills were victorious, winning from Dr. and Mrs. Fergie 6-0, 8-6 in the finals.

Highlights of the matches from the spectators' point of view included the games between W. O. Green and H. Yoland of Kimberley in the men's singles. The match went to three sets and was keenly contested all the way, Green winning many points on bullet-like serves but losing to the accurate placing of his opponent.

The finals in the men's singles between Yolland and Sills, which was probably averted when Yolland defaulted to Brown in the semi-finals, had been anticipated by many as an exciting even exhibition of tennis, the players being pretty evenly equipped. Other matches greatly enjoyed were the evenly matches between W. O. Green and Dr. Geddes, which went to Green after three keenly contested sets, the even sets between N. A. Wallinger, W. Mansfield with a 7-5, 7-5 score favoring Mr. Wallinger who could qualify for a veterans match limited to the seventies, the men's doubles finals went to Sills and Brown lost to Drs. Fergie and Geddes and the mixed doubles finals when Sills and Miss Wilby took the match from Dr. and Mrs. Fergie in two sets. The closing game of the ladies' doubles was between two veteran Cranbrook teams, Mrs. Fergie and Miss Helen Wright slightly outplaying their opponents, Miss Woodland and Miss Wilby.

Prizes to the winners were presented at the close of the games. Mrs. Beale, wife of the president of the Cranbrook club doing the honors.

In a short address to the gathering Mr. Beale alluded to the forming of an association of the tennis clubs of Kootenay East and stated that it had been hoped that enough delegates would be present to hold an election of association officers during the tournament. Such a meeting would be held as soon as possible. He thanked those who had attended and hoped that players from more distant points would be present another year. It would be the plan of the organization to hold the East Kootenay tournament earlier another year in order that winners might attend the annual tournament of the West Kootenay association held at Nelson and Trail alternately. He closed by thanking members of the grounds committee and the house committee for their efforts in preparing the tournament and A. Raworth for its efficient handling.

KETTLE VALLEY HAS GOLF PLAY

GREENWOOD, Sept. 13—Kettle Valley Golf club and Beaverdell Golf club met in friendly competition. Twenty cars were present from Greenwood and Beaverdell. The course was in excellent condition, the tees had been reoiled, the greens were fast and the weather was perfect.

Tea was served in the golf house after the matches. Everybody thoroughly enjoyed the annual reunion of these two clubs. Draw for the cup handicap was held and the members will proceed to play off their games as listed on the bulletin board.

IT TAKES eight cylinders to give you eight-cylinder performance. If it's less than an eight in cylinders, it's less than an eight in speed, power, smoothness and motoring enjoyment. The Ford V-type eight-cylinder engine has certain definite engineering advantages that increase this margin of superiority.

The real quality of an automobile is invisible—it is hidden beneath the hood. But performance cannot be concealed—it is a definite, demonstrable fact.

The Ford V-8 tells its own story of performance in traffic, on hills—on every road. A half-hour behind the wheel will tell you more about its power, safety and comfort than can be put into any written words. It is not too much to say that you will find it the most satisfying car you have ever driven.

There is an additional feature of the Ford V-8 that is of importance to every motorist. And that is economy. Millions of miles of constant use have proved to hundreds of thousands of Ford V-8 owners that this is the most economical Ford car ever built. It wouldn't be a Ford if it weren't an economical car to own and drive.

CLIMB TO FAME IN HIGH JUMP CIRCLES RAPID ONE FOR HALEY

Trail Lad Jumped for Only Four Years; Second at London

TRAIL, B.C., Sept. 13.—The fact that Joe Haley, Trail athlete who came second in the high jump event at the Empire games in London recently, only took up the sport, seriously or otherwise, four years ago, proves that before that time there was an ability, lying dormant, with only something needed to bring it out. Possibly if Joe had started earlier he might have earned a trip to the Empire games at an earlier age, but nevertheless his progress has been rapid since he made his first attempt to fling himself over the cross bar in 1930.

At Butler park one day, a bunch of fellows who had done considerable jumping, and who were considered to be fairly good at it, were putting in a little practice. Joe, then 16 years of age, and a tall lanky fellow, somehow felt an urge to try his luck at jumping. After a few jumps, in turn with the other boys, Haley beat them all. Bunty Sommen, who still is an exponent of senior rugby and who was considered one of the best athletes at that time and a leading jumper, asked Joe to try out for a meet that was to be staged at Nelson, an indoor public school meet in the skating rink building. Joe won the high jump event by clearing 5 feet 4 inches. In the following spring of 1931 Joe won the event by jumping 5 feet 3 inches to beat Sandy Martin of Nelson.

MURAY TAKES HIM IN HAND

After this, George Murray, superintendent of the lead refinery of the C.M. & S. company saw Joe's possibilities and was responsible for him getting off on the right foot. He explained the fundamental theory of the "western roll" and that a jumper could reach a greater height by adopting this method. He took a number of pictures of Haley in different stages of his jumps and pointed out his faults to him from these. Joe also received a book on high jumping from Mr. Murray as did Mary Balfour, now Mrs. W. Forest.

The following year, 1931, Joe went to Vancouver and competed in the junior Olympics there, coming second to Colin Gamblin of that city. Gamblin crossed the bar at 5 feet 9 inches for first place, defeating Haley, who made 5 feet 8 inches to win second. Later the same year he entered the Caledonian sports high jump event in Trail and won this event at an increased height of 5 feet 9⅞ inches.

WINS AT COAST

Nineteen thirty-two proved to be an even more successful year for the natural jumper. Entering the British Columbia championships at Vancouver he cleared 6 feet 1 inch, defeating Kemptward of Matsui, a prominent exponent of this event. By winning in this meet Joe earned a trip to Hamilton, Ont., where he came second to Jack Portland, the athlete responsible for the new Canadian record which defeated Joe. Portland, incidentally, who hails from Collingwood, Ont., went into professional hockey in 1933, which deprived him of again entering amateur sports. The previous record was held by Munro, who was coach at London university in 1932. Munro jumped at Hamilton this year but was forced to drop out on account of an injured ankle.

In 1932 Haley missed a trip to the Olympics at Los Angeles by failing to make the qualifying height of 6 feet 2 inches by about one-quarter of an inch.

Returning to Trail from Hamilton that year, Joe, four weeks later won the junior Olympics high jump event in Vancouver with the comparatively low mark of 5 feet 10¾ inches.

Joe forgot about jumping for some time after that for he was interested to a greater extent in his studies at "Christ the King" seminary at Ladner, B.C., where he is studying to be a priest. But on Easter Monday of 1933 a pair of brand new jumping stands appeared at the seminary and of course Joe had to try them out. He found that he was jumping better than ever. Entering a Ladner track meet he cleared 6 feet 1 inch and at a later meet at the same place, he bettered that mark by half an inch.

WINS B. C. TRIALS

School closed on June 28 and Joe went to Vancouver to train for a week previous to the B. C. championships meet. He wrote to the Trail Amateur Athletic association stating that he planned on entering the meet under the orange and black colors of Trail and the local athletic body agreed to supoprt him. Joe flashed Trail's colors right out in front by winning the high jump event with a jump of 6 feet. Saturday, the following day the B. C. Amateur Athletic association decided to sent Joe to Hamilton with 10 other B. C. athletes. Agnew, Barrett, Lymon, Naylor, Dixon and Bob Waters (Vancouver police) of Vancouver; Joe Addison and Vic Poole of Kelowna. Trail organizations and citizens backed the Trail athlete and help make his trip possible.

The entire team was oustanding, Waters won the discuss throw and came third in the shot put. Poole was second in the 100 and 220 yard races. Dixon won the javelin throw and Addison was well up in the half mile and 440 yard events. Haley won the high jump.

Possibly one reason for these boys' success at Hamilton was that they trained twice a day at wayside station en route from Vancouver to that city and were coached at the various places by a crowd of wondering onlookers who knew little or nothing about them.

All arrived in Hamilton in the best of condition. They had one day to rest before the meet. After qualifying athletes were given free access to the city and received a splendid reception.

WILSON IN PICTURE

It was at Hamilton that Alex Wilson, coach of Lyola College, Chicago, who came up to Canada to coach the representative team which was to enter the Empire games at London, England, came into the picture. Wilson, about 27 years of age and a noted athlete himself, coached Joe to clear 6 feet 4 inches after he had been in his charge for only three days. Wilson, who took a full course in coaching at Notre Dame university, came second in the 440 and half mile events at the last Olympics in Los Angeles, beating the world's record in the 440 for second place.

The voyage to London, England, was made on the Duchess of York and aboard ship the Canadian team trained religiously each day. The boys seemed to be too strong for the ship's gymnasium so after a few days "did their stuff" on the open decks. Only one night's rest was allowed after arriving in London and serious training commenced at Wesley Stadium, and White City.

The high jump event was staged on the second day of the meet and it is old news that Haley made second place with a height of 6 feet 3 inches.

Canada placed well at those Empire games coming second in track and field and first in the javelin and broad jump and second in the aggregate, England placing first.

ANOTHER TWO YEARS

Joe is to commence training again next year. Wilson has invited him to a training camp outside of Hamilton and he is hoping that he will be able to accept the invitation. Bob Robinson of Hamilton, manager of the Canadian team, asked Joe to stay with jumping for another two years which he states he will do if at all possible.

Haley, who weighs 179 pounds and stands 6 feet 1½ inches in his stocking feet at the age of 20 years, is the eldest of a family of three boys who don't have to look up at brother Joe, literally or in sports. Paul and Pat are the younger kin and each hold Kootenay boundary track meet records.

J. J. Haley, father of the boys is an old time resident of Trail and is reputed to have been some what of an athlete himself. In the early days he competed in the famous hose reel team races and similar athletic events of the times.

TORONTO—Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck said that the Ontario government would take steps to seize $30,000 won in a sweepstake yesterday by John Wisebord, Orangeville, Ont., business man.

OTTAWA—An unemployment insurance bill will be introduced in the house of commons next session, it was announced by Acting Prime Minister Sir George Perley.

REFEREE KNOCKS OUT FIGHTER BUT GIVES THE MATCH TO HIS OPPONENT

Fighter Misses With Two Swings and Dentist Referee Nails Him

GRAND FORKS, N.S., Sept. 13 (AP) —Johnny Knauf, one time welterweight fighter and now a Grand Forks dentist, had one good fight left in his system and he did what Ernie Hetherington of Winnipeg, Man., failed to do in the main bout of a boxing card here tonight.

Knauf knocked out Ace of Spades in the fifth round when the Omaha negro attacked him. Knauf was refereeing the bout and had constantly warned the Omaha boxer for stalling. Ace came off the ropes where he had been absorbing a beating and drove at Johnny. He missed his first two swings, but continued his attack. Knauf circled the negro fighter, drove him to the ropes, then dropped him with a two-fisted attack to the head.

After the referee had knocked out Ace, he raised Hetherington's hand, declaring him the winner. Meantime, Hetherington had scored some kind of a victory over young Jock Thompson, Minneapolis negro, who jumped into the ring during the melee. Hetherington floored him with a right to the jaw and Thompson scrambled out of the ring.

The referee also decided the semi-windup when he stopped a bout between Abe Ofer of Lisbon, N.D., and Thompson, calling it "no contest." Knauf stopped the bout in the sixth round as the boxers stalled and refused to break at his command.

Social Events of Trail City

TRAIL, B.C., Sept. 13.—Of much interest here was the wedding solemnized at All Souls Anglican church at Procter Saturday, when Audrey Innes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Baxendale of Tadanac, was united in marriage to Basil Graham Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hunt, of Vancouver, Rev. Clyde Harvey officiating. Miss Helen Mellor of Trail was bridesmaid and Lawrence Johansson of Trail best man. Victor Irwin, T. V. Lord and Clifford Carne were ushers.

Gladioli and zinnias from the summer home of S. G. Blaylock decorated the church, the ceremony being performed under an arch of coral gladioli. Coral was the predominating color in the decoration scheme.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march by Lohengrin, Mrs. Alex. Annandale of Trail presiding at the organ. The beautiful wedding gown was of white French embroidered organdy. Form fitting the waist-line, the dress flared toward the bottom of the skirt, which was of floor length. Short puff sleeves were enhanced by pleated epaulets. The veil, made by an aunt and a gift to the bride, was of hand-embroidered Brussels net and featured a long train. Draped to the head in coronet fashion, the veil had a chin strap and was trimmed at the back with a spray of orange blossoms. Long white lace mittens, white shoes and hosiery were worn. The bouquet was of Talisman roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Mellor's dress of floral point d'esprit over coral taffeta provided a charming and colorful contrast to the bridal attire. The dress, with flared skirt, was trimmed at the botto mand at neckline with frills of selfmaterial and a taffeta sash marked the waist-line. Shoes and mittens tinted to tone were worn and a bouquet of coral gladioli carried. A large coral hat was worn.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the grounds of the Baxendale summer home, Longholme. Mrs. Baxendale assisting in receiving, wore a black and white georgette dress, black hat and bouquet of pink carnations. The groom's mother selected bottle green lace for her dress, wearing with it beige accessories and bouquet of pink carnations.

The wedding cake, of three square tiers, was topped by a silver vase of blush roses with trailers of smilax.

Toast to the bride was proposed by R. L. McBride of Nelson, the groom responding. Rev. Mr. Harvey proposed the toast to the brides' maid, Mr. Johansson responding.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt left by car for coast cities, the bride wearing a woolen suit of brown and green tailored in Russian style and featuring high collar and cuffs of fur. Hat and accessories were brown.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will reside in the Columbia apartments.

Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hesketh, Flokestone, Eng.; Dr. and Mrs. Dalton, Cambridge, Eng.; Miss G. Brown, Southport, Eng.; Mr. and Mrs. Tiller, Blackpool, Eng.; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Baxendale, Buffalo, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Moore, St. Catherines, Ont.; Brig.-Gen. and Mrs. R. S. M. Scott, Sussex, Eng.; W. E. PRESBYTERIANS KEEP BIRTHDAY

Founding 70 years ago of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary society in Canada was appropriately commemorated by the Women's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church of Nelson Monday, in the church parlors, with an anniversary celebration that embraced addresses and religious exercises, and concluded with a pleasing birthday cake ceremonial. Mrs. A. R. Peters, the president, presided over the function, at which a large number were present.

Mrs. W. T. Choate gave a Scripture reading, and Mrs. M. Gibbs offered prayer, introductory to the regular business.

SPLENDID ADDRESSES

This was followed by a splendid address by Mrs. R. L. Oliver, on the history of the society in Canada, under the title, "Looking Backward."

The address of the afternoon was then given by the pastor, Rev. Wallace McClean, who took as his theme, "Looking Forward, with the Dreams of the Years; The World for Christ."

After the singing of several hymns, the pastor presented Mrs. Gibbs with a bouquet of roses and sweet peas, for Miss K. McNeill, who is a patient in the hospital. The singing of the Doxology, and pronouncing of the benediction by the pastor, concluded the formal program.

After this came the important matter of the large birthday cake that graced the center of the table, and bore seven candles, one for each decade of the organization's history. Mrs. Choate lighted the candles, Mrs. A. T. Park, cut the cake, and Mrs. James May poured tea. Mrs. H. H. Currie, Mrs. A. Landskail, Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Peters assisted with the tea arrangements.

FOUNDED IN 1864

It was in the 1864 in Montreal that the women's missionary organization of the Presbyterian church in Canada was born, in connection with the French mission work of the Church of Scotland in Canada, being known as the Ladies Auxiliary association. In April, 1882, a new constitution was adopted, and the organization became the Women's Missionary society.

The first society in British Columbia was formed at Chilliwack in 1887. Ultimately the Women's Missionary society became responsible for the first Presbyterian hospital in Canada, at Atlin. Probably one of the most fascinating activities with which the British Columbia society was associated was the James Robertson Memorial mission, as it was first called. Started with a mission rowboat, it developed until it was operated from a finely equipped motor-cruiser under the charge of Rev. George Pringle.

Wants Peace but Dislikes "Methods"

STUTTGART, Germany, Sept. 13 (CP-Havas)—"Germany wants to live in peace, but refuses to join in pacific methods conceived at present by certain foreign powers," declared Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, in a foreign policy address at the annual meeting of the German foreign institute here today.

TO START WORK TRAIL CHURCH

St. Andrew's to Have New Doors, Vestry Entrance

TRAIL, Sept. 13—Contract for restoration of the St. Andrew's Anglican church has been awarded to O. Quinstrom, Trail contractor, according to announcement made Thursday by wardens of the church. Work is to start immediately and will take three weeks to complete. Services will be carried on as usual during that time.

The church building exterior will be stuccoed and new concrete steps will be built at the main entrance. Doors of heavy oak construction will replace the present entrance portals. Considerable alterations will be made to the vestry a new entrance being made from Pine avenue to take the place of the present one at the rear of the building.

A concrete sidewalk will be laid from the church to the rectory and a new ramp to the east end of the church is to be built. It is also planned to install an iron railing at the edge of the sidewalk next to the church on Pine avenue.

REFUSE TROOPS TO QUELL RIOT

Communist Uprising, Not a Strike, Says Green

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Sept. 13 (AP). —Governor Theodore F. Green today sought intervention of federal troops to end strike terror in this state but the Democratic house caucus of the extraordinary session of the assembly which he had dramatically convoked, temporarily, at least, balked him.

While United States army troops were being hurriedly recalled to two army posts in Maine and Massachusetts for possible succor of this state's badly battered national guard, the governor in a message to the legislature pleaded for power to call in regular army forces to put down what he described as, not a textile strike, but a "Communist uprising."

Earlier in the day he had been told by President Roosevelt, in a long distance telephone call from Hyde Park that the army stood ready, if needed, to take a hand in the situation.

APPROVE OF BILLS

Despite the urgency of his plea, however, the Democratic caucus, which controls the lower house of the assembly, tabled his request for permission to call in the federal troops, but did approve of two bills —one to give him power to close the mills in time of emergency and another to appropriate $100,000 for an emergency increase in the state police forces.

A shouting, jeering mob of hoodlums had swept everything before it until the hard-presed national guardsmen and badly pummelled police, having exhausted their supply of tear gas, fired upon it, wounding seven youths, two of them fatally. Scores of others were roughly handled. Store windows were smashed, automobiles overturned and street lights extinguished.

The governor's message hit hard at Communistic agitators as he likened the bloody riots which for four days have swept Saylesville and Woonsocket to the longshoremen's strike in San Francisco.

COMMUNIST UPRISING

"We are face to face," the message said, "not with a textile strike, but with a Communist uprising."

The governor's announcement of his plan to seek federal intervention earlier in the day had brought from George H. Dern, secretary of war, the assurance that 2000 federal troops could be rushed into Rhode Island, if necessary. At Fort Devers, Mass., and Portland, Maine, regular troops were recalled from manoeuvres and held to await orders.

Mineral Industry on the Ascendent

CALGARY, Sept. 13 (CP)—In the heart of this agricultural area of the Dominion a federal official today cautioned that the mineral industry of Canada was gaining rapidly upon agriculture in export trade value to the country.

Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy minster of mines, addressing the western annual meeting of the Canadian institute of mining and metallurgy, declared agricultural exports increased in 1933-1934 by 13 per cent while in the same period exports of minerals and their products jumped by 60 per cent over previous year's statistics.

In 1933 the value of Canada's field crops amounted to $422,148,000 —and the mineral "crop" $220,501,000. The mining industry now ranked second only to agriculture among the primary-producing industries of the country.

"These figures," declared Dr. Camsell, "strikingly illuminate the mineral industry in the great and growing role it plays nowadays in Canada's foreign trade."

MacPherson Named on Good Roads Executive

MURRAY BAY, Que., Sept. 13 (CP) —Hon. G. Shelton Sharp, minister of highways for Prince Edward Island, was elected president of the Canadian Good Roads association, at the annual general meeting of the 21st annual convention here today.

Other officers are:

Honorary president, Hon. J. E. Perrault, K.C., minister of highways, Quebec.

First vice-president, Hon. A. S. MacMillan, minister of highways, Nova Scotia.

Second vice-president, Hon. Frank M. MacPherson, minister of public works, British Columbia.

Third vice-president, Hon. T. D. McQuesten, minister of highways, Ontario.

Secretary-treasurer, George A. McNamee, Montreal.

A resolution passed urged provincial and municipal authorities to construct sidewalks or footpaths along highways in congested areas. It was decided to memoralize the Dominion government to reestablish the fund for elimination of grade crossings.

Sister Alive? Brothers See Her in Picture

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13 (CP).—On the momentary flicker of a news reel film Anne Litvak's family pins its hopes of seeing her alive again.

Anne, 22, was on the Morro Castle when it burned. Her brothers, Harry and Jack, are sure they saw their sister, in a news reel, being carried from a rescue ship at Manasquan, N.J., she may be wandering somewhere alone, they think—dazed from her harrowing experience.

ST. HELENS TIES LACROSSE SERIES

VANCOUVER, Sept. 13 (CP) — Fighting to stay in the British Columbia box lacrosse playoffs, St. Helens of Vancouver tonight handed New Westminster Salmonbillies a 13-8 defeat and tied up the three-out-of-five game series at two games each.

The hotelmen took a 5-2 lead in the first quarter and ran it up to 9-4 at half time. They maintained their lead until the final whistle.

LINDBERGHS FORCED DOWN

WOODWARD, Okla., Sept. 13 (AP) —Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh made the best of a forced landing on a northwestern Oklahoma ranch today, enjoying a chicken dinner and arranging to stay at the ranch house until their plane can be repaired.

Motor trouble forced the flying couple down on the Homer Aitkens ranch, 17 miles northeast of here. Neither was hurt, but the plane was damaged slightly.

Miss Docksteader Takes Scholarship

TRAIL, Sept. 13—Sterling tribute to her accomplishments so far and an expression of the hope music lovers of this community have for her future were given in the attendance last night at Miss Cynthia Docksteader's piano recital at Knox church, the only public appearance of the young musician here before returning to Toronto to continue her musical training. The church was filled to the doors, with a number standing at the back and at almost every point except in the aisles, and over 50 were turned away at the door.

With Theodore Padberg, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Wright, assisting a musical program of rare charm, was presented. It combined the richness of the music of the masters and the vivacity of their compositions of lighter moods, and was therefore the more interesting to the large audience. Both Miss Docksteader and Mr. Padberg balanced their groups in this manner and the audience was quick to appreciate it and to show that appreciation.

Climaxing a splendid entertainment, announcement was made just before Miss Docksteader's final group that she had won a $200 scholarship at Alma college, St. Thomas, Ont., A. H. Wilson Busby announced the numbers.

Two beautiful bouquets, one of red roses and the other of carnations, were presented to Miss Docksteader.

The young pianist leaves today for the east to continue studies for what many believe will be a brilliant career. Already, though but 18, she has won the degrees of A.T.C.M. and L.A.B.

Following the recital Miss Docksteader was guest of honor at a reception at the home of Mrs. R. S. G. Anthony, who as president of the Trail Musical club, handed over to her a check for the entire proceeds. The Musical club sponsored her appearance.

30-HOUR WEEK NEW PROPOSAL

Labor Congress Is Preparing to Conclude

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP) — Canada's parliament of labor, the trades and labor congress, tonight stood on the eve of prorogation. It hoped to plough through the still formidable list of resolutions and wind up discussions late Friday. In the meantime, delegates relaxed tonight at a stag party in the labor temple after completing a day which saw two imoprtant changes in the policies of the congress.

The former demand for a 40-hour working week in the Dominion was supplanted by a new proposal urging a five-hour day and a six day week. For the first time in 13 years a change appeared in the constitution with the provision, adopted today, enabling federal unions to issue charters to industries wishing to form a single union rather than the craft type.

Continued efforts will be made to urge a system of contributory unemployment insurance in the Dominion, the congress decided. Another piece of business relative to industrial conditions was the acceptance of a report containing labor's stand on the minimum wage and industrial control.

The proposal to enlarge the scope of the federal unions came in a report of the committee on constitution and laws, submitted by Fred White, M.L.A., of Calgary. Carried by a large majority, the new plan will go into effect whenever the incoming executive council decides.

TOOK PILLS FOR 30 YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Mr. Forsythe Endorses ALL-BRAN for Constipation

If you suffer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this voluntary letter:

"After taking pills and tablets for about thirty years for constipation, I started to take your ALL-BRAN three times a day according to directions. Today I can eat cheese, and that is binding, and certainly feel fine."—Mr. Ed. Forsythe (address furnished upon request).

Science says ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using patent medicines — so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In serious cases use with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

BAN ON RANSOM PAYMENTS EFFECTIVE IN ENGLAND

Attorney-General Roebuck's proposal in Ontario to make illegal the payment of ransom by the families of kidnapped persons has received both criticism and commendation.

Against a law of this sort it has been said that it would be cruel and might be ineffecitve—cruel because denying to relatives the opportunity of securing the return of a loved one through means at their disposal and ineffective because ways would probably be found to pay over ransom despite the prohibition against such payment. It is also contended that an order on banks against paying out money to those concerned would not be a guarantee against ransom payments for the reason that persons of wealth can always borrow.

This latter objection has force and it is also no doubt true that to forbid the payment would in a sense work a hardship on those who would otherwise submit to the kidnappers' demands and in that way secure the relaese of the victim, says the Toronto Telegram. Against this, however, is the safety of the general public and the necessity of making kidnapping unprofitable and thereby stamping it out altogether. So long as ransom can be obtained the danger is an ever-present one.

The experience of the United States has been that punishment if caught has not been enough to deter kidnappers from plying their trade. The lure of big money is too great and the possibilities of evading the police too attractive. An active and efficient police force and courts which will deal sternly with the criminals can, of course, play an important role in stamping out the menace but the most effective restraint would seem to be impossibility of obtaining ransom. That, at least, has been the experience of Britain, where, since the law against ransom payments was enacted kidnapping has become almost unknown. The fact that the law has worked well there supports Mr. Roebuck in the course which he apparently proposes to follow in Ontario.

WHY POSE?

The British scientific weekly Nature refers disparagingly to photographs of the Monster of Loch Ness taken by observers of Sir Edward Mountain set to watch on the shores of the loch. One photograph shows the wash of an object, but "of the object itself nothing." A second shows a "very low dark hump"; even if this represents something, "the something is indeterminate." A third shows "something short and fairly massive, low in the water, succeeded by two or three less distinct humps." An earlier photograph, taken by Dr. R. K. Wilson, is criticized on the score that is is difficult for the observer to convince himself that an apparent head on an apparent neck are actually a head and a neck.

These criticisms do not do justice to the Monster. If he had wanted to be photographed he would have posed long before now. Shy, reticent, retiring beast, he has no dsire to show more than a fraction of a flipper to the devouring lenses of the world. He knows better than all the scientists of the world assembled that nine-tenths of his attractiveness lies in the mystery of his nature. Why should he shatter a legend just for the sake of one horrendous full-length camera study that would send all of Inverness stark mad?

Noise Causes Deafness and Injuries the Nervous System

BY JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

"There is no organ in which public and professional hygiene takes less interest than the organ of hearing and one would say that our engineers had pledged themselves to overwhelm the ears not of factory workers only but of all town dwellers, by the most harmful and injurious acoustic (hearing) stimulation."

For many years it has been known that subjecting the ear to continuous noises causes a breaking down of the hearing apparatus. Many experiments were first made on the effects of noise on various animals—rabbits and guinea pigs—and it was found that animals subjected to these noise experiments lost appetite and weight, but quickly recovered when the noises stopped.

What about human beings?

The organs of hearing were examined after death of a number of patients whose occupations—boiler-making, rivetters and others—had caused deafness. It was found that not only was the central organ of hearing damaged but also the nerve (auditory) which carried the noise or sound from the ear to the brain.

At first it is only the low notes and the high notes that cannot be heard by these individuals, but the longer they remain in these noisy occupations the more the deafness increases.

In "weavers" about 25 per cent were found to be deaf. No cases were found in subjects employed for less than 10 years, and the increase began after 20 years.

It has been shown that any obstruction in the nose or any sinus disease increases the liability to noise deafness; these cases can be helped by removing these conditions.

The most damaging street noises are those of high pitch such as some kinds of motor horns, clattering machinery, street drills — building or pavement—and backfiring cars.

Indoor workers have been helped by "soundproof" buildings and partitions but much remains to be done by our legislators to lessen the amount of noise on our streets.

Noise is more than a nuisance; it is definitely harmful not only to the hearing but to the entire nervous system.

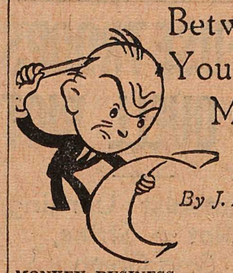
Between You and Me



By J. B. C.

MONKEY BUSINESS

I just finished editing a piece of copy about a woman down in Oregon who died after being stung on the forehead by a honey bee. This only bears out a pet theory of mine that bee stings are nothing to be trifled with. It recalls a visit I made to Whitecliffe or Horseshoe Bay or some summer resort out of Vancouver a few years ago. We were eating a wonderful picnic lunch in the shade of pretty trees and had as guests innumerable bees or wasps. They buzzed around the food and settled upon the sweetmeats. I had cautioned one and all to be careful of bee stings. I spoke of their fatal results. Especially did I emphasize the fact that a sting on the tongue is generally fatal.

A JUICY PEAR

Now among the eats provided for the day were some excellent juicy, ripe pears. These of coufse came along at the end of the meal. I noticed the wasps or bees go for them in great style. I again cautioned the younger folk not to eat any bees. It was but five minutes later that I was tripping to a bathing house, pear in hand. I had eaten a part of it and the juice was gumming up my fingers in great style. Naturally I was talking with some one and of a sudden I let out a yell. In biting at the pear I had bitten a wasp in two. The darned thing stung me on the tongue. I spit pear and wasp out and ran to my good wife prepared to die in her arms. Excitement grew. I hit for the hotel and obtained a packet of baking soda. My tongue began to swell all out of proportion. There were thoughts of being rushed to Vancouver to have a tube inserted to keep my throat open. I didn't want to die in Vancouver anyway. However, the baking soda did the trick. It stopped the swelling and a passing doctor and dentist pronounced me out of danger. I haven't eaten a member of the bee family since. I don't intend to again.

A CHARMED LIFE

So after being stung on the tongue by a bee, nearly dumped out of an airplane when it missed some telegraph wires, nearly killed in an auto wreck, rudely thrown from a horse, cautiously trailed by a chap with a gun, narrowly escaped numerous threatened beatings-up that would have came within an inch of taking my life, daringly relieved a fellow of five razors, almost drowning and then riding to Kaslo on a load of dynamite, I am beginning to think I lead a charmed life.

MR. BEATTY'S PAJAMAS

President E. W. Beatty of the C.P.R. has come and gone. I didn't interview him this trip. I like interviewing him for he knows newspaper men and he knows that publicity is good for the railway system he heads. But I believe I hold the distinction in the Kootenays of having interviewed the president of the great railroad some years ago while he was in his pajamas. Although aroused from his bed he was in good humor. But so would any of us were we president of the C.P.R.—maybe.

MECHANICAL LEG BETRAYS BAD HOSE

A "mechanical leg" which duplicates all the effects of walking has on a woman's stocking can now be used to tell beforehand just how good hosiery really is.

In reality it looks nothing like a leg. It resembles instead a glove stretcher, but is much larger and has more parts to fit all the conditions of walking. H. F. Schiefer and W. D. Appel of the U. S. National Bureau of Standards, who have devised this machine and made tests with it, find that the most important part of a stocking is the upper leg and knee. Here the expansion to which the threads must accommodate themselves is the greatest.

The stocking is slipped over jaws on the "leg" and an engine is switched on. The jaws open and close while weights tug the stocking in other directions to determine the stretch and elasticity of the material. When the first run appears the test is over and the number of "steps" the stocking has taken on this novel pedestrian are noted.

Street Lights Need Armor

Armor is now being manufactured for street lights to protect them against stone-throwing Romeos.

The situation from the romantic side is this: Modern swains are willing to take a motor car as a good substitute for the old-fashioned balcony. A highway is as good as a rose-decked garden. But a whole row of "moons" perched on top of electric light poles is too much.

The situation as American utilities companies have been finding it the morning after is this: rows of electric moons knocked out by the aim of the resourceful Romeos. The utility companies put the case up to the General Electric company, and engineering research has now evolved cast-aluminum guards like baseball catchers' masks for the moons on romantic highways.

Scientists Report Animals Need Zinc

Zinc is a necessary part of animal diet, Drs. Gabriel Bertrand and R. C. Bhattacherjee have reported to the Paris Academy of Sciences. Their conclusion is based on studies of mice. Baby mice as soon as they could be separated from their mothers were divided into two groups. To one group was given food entirely free from zinc, to the other the same food to which a minute quantity of zinc had been added, one part in fifty thousand.

The first group did not thrive from the start. They became thin, emaciated, lost their hair, and died from various ailments after an average life of 17 days. The second group survived for an average life of 64 days. Post-mortem examinations of this group showed that about a fifth of the zinc administered had been incorporated in the body tissues. All the mice had the proper amount of vitamins. But without zinc they quickly died.

Diabetes Hereditary Scientists Claim

Twins are helping to prove that ited.

This theory has been held by physicians since 1696. But it is the occurrence of the disease in over a score of twins and the painstaking scientific study of hundreds of diabetic families that is proving hereditary tendency of diabetes to be a fact rather than a theory, Science Service reports.

New evidence in support of this idea appears in two instances of diabetes occurring in identical twins, reported in the same week by physicians in Boston and Canada.

The cases reported from Canada occurred in twin brothers over fifty years of age. They are identical twins and resemble one another in appearance, interests, habits and behavior, according to the description given by Dr. E. M. Watson, of the University of Western Ontario, in his report to the Canadian Medical association Journal. When diabetes was discovered in the first twin, a test was made for the disease on his brother. This twin did not have any symptoms of the disease, and was apparently perfectly well, but the test showed that he was not utilizing carbohydrates properly and was excreting large amounts of sugar instead of burning it up in his body An antidiabetic diet was prescribed but he paid little attention to it and three years later he also developed the other symptoms of diabetes.

In Boston a five-year-old girl was brought into the New England Deaconess hospital in diabetic coma. Physicians in charge ventured a prediction that her identical twin sister, then apparently well, would develop the disease within a decade. Three years later she did.

SHIFTING THE LEAD

About half the time the opening lead, and what declarer does with it, determines whether or not declarer will go game. Even when senior has made his best opening lead, if he has to shift to another suit, about half the time there is a distinct choice between suits to which he may shift, as there was with the hand shown.

Bidding went: West, 1-heart; North 1-spade; East, 2-hearts; West 4-hearts, ending the auction.

The opening lead was the K of spades, followed by the Q. The J was dropped on the second lead by the declarer. As South had not echoed, it was evident that another lead of spades would enable one opponent to discard a loser while the other trumped. It was time to shift the lead, but which minor suit should North lead? A declarer never will lead a suit when one hand holds the Q and the other the J, with the A-K-10-9 missing. North played his declaring hands well, but he was obsessed with the notion of leading through dummy's strength. He saw but did not heed the fact that the A-10-9 of diamonds were in dummy, with the K and Q missing. If South held the K he would make it later on, but if he held the Q and declarer held the K it would hand West a trick he must lose if forced to lead diamonds himself. If a club lead killed anything in South's hand there were plenty of entries in dummy to enable the declarer to make that same killing.

North led the 8 of diamonds. The 9 went up in dummy. South played his Q. The declarer's K won. Back came the 7 through North's J, and West ended by winning 4 tricks in the suit. On the fourth diamond the declarer discarded a losing club, thus enabling him to win 4-odd, on cards entitled only to 3-odd, at the outside.

Had North led his 8 of clubs the story would have been different. The best that West can do is to win 3-odd, and that only by giving the defenders 2 club tricks, then forcing them to lead diamonds. If West wins the first club trick, then leads diamonds, he will lose a total of 2 heart tricks, 2 club tricks and a diamond trick, going down 2 tricks on his contract.

Players are in the habit of thinking of general rules and following them without sufficient thought. I believe that any careful player should decide the club lead safer than the diamond lead.

SOVIET ADROITLY WINS PLACE IN THE SUN

Gradually Broke Down Barriers Erected Against It by World, Says Chamberlin in His "Russia—Without Benefit of Censor"

By WILLIAM CHAMBERLAIN
From The Christian Science Monitor

The triumph of a revolution which vigorously proclaimed its militant international character in a country with the size and natural resources of the Soviet Union was bound to excite strong international repercussions.

What sort of relations would develop between the Soviet regime and the governments of "capitalist" states? What kind of commercial dealings would develop between a country where the state held in its hands industry and trade, finance and transport and from the very beginning monopolized foreign trade and lands where the competitive system still prevailed? How could adherence to the ideas of international revolution be reconciled with normal friendly relations with other countries?

With the aid of a diplomacy that has been, in the main skillful, adroit, unsentimental and realistic the Soviet Union has gradually conquered for itself the recognition accorded to a major power. This process was hastened by the bridging over during 1933 of the deep gulf which had hitherto separated the Soviet Union from France and France's east European allies, especially Poland and was crowned by the establishment of diplomatic relations with the United States.

The past year has witnessed a fundamental and sweeping reorientation of Soviet foreign policy, so far as Europe is concerned. The emergence of the National Socialist regime in Germany was the signal for the complete loosening of the political and economic ties which had formerly existed between the Soviet Union and Germany and for the beginning at least, of the forging of new bonds between the Soviet Union, on one hand, and France and Poland on the other.

Hitler's merciless campaign against German Communism was by no means the decisive factor in this change. Cold-bloodedness is quality on which Soviet diplomacy prides itself. The fact that a number of Turkish Communists were sewn up in sacks and thrown into the Black Sea has not prevented the Soviet Union from cultivating friendly relations with Mustapha Kemal's national friends of the Soviet Union, despite his summary measures of repression, directed against Italian Communists.

What created a sense of estrangement between the Soviet Union and Hitlerite Germany was the tendency of some National Socialist leaders, at least in the early days of their regime, to attribute to their movement international anti-Bolshevik significances.

This combined with the Hugenberg Memorandum at the World Economic conference which demanded for Germany opportunities for colonial expansion in eastern Europe, the alleged conversations of Mr. Alfred Rosenberg, prominent National Socialist theoretician, with Ukrainian separatists, and repressive measures against some Soviet citizens in Germany, created strained relations between the two countries and promoted the conviction in Soviet circles that, in the future, Germany in the west might be as threatening as Japan is in the east.

Still another factor in the Soviet change of international front was a shrewd appraisal of the reaction in France and in Poland to the rise of a militant German nationalism.

Neither of those countries could be indifferent to the political and strategic advantages of destroying the former close contact between Moscow and Berlin. So one of the paradoxical results of German Nationalism, a movement which lauched a crusade against Communism on an international scale, was that it indirectly promoted a rapprochement between the Soviet Union and the most powerful European military state.

INDICATIONS OF NEW TRED

Among the signs of the new trend of Soviet foreign policy one may list the signature of no-aggression pacts with France and with Poland; the acceptance of the Soviet formula defining aggression by Poland and by the Little Entente and Baltic States last summer; the friendly visits to Moscow in the autumn of M. Herriot, leader of the French Radical Socialist Party, and of M. Pierre Cot, French Minister of aviation.

One could not accurately say that Franco-Russian relations have regained the pre-war status of an out-and-out alliance.

But the tendency toward political and even potential military cooperation between the Soviet Union and France is making unmistakeable progress. France is actively sponsoring the admission of the Soviet Union to the League of Nations. There are exchanges of visits between French and Russian military experts. There are apparently well-authenticated rumors that the two countries are contemplating, in addition to the existing no-aggression and neutrality agreement, some kind of pact for mutual assistance, the spearhead of which, of course, would be aimed at Germany.

This new Soviet foreign policy is attributable not only to apprehension of future German ambitions, but also to the desire to secure the rear of the Soviet Union, in the west, through binding understandings with France and Poland, in the event that all the military resources of the country should be required in the far east.

NEW ATTITUDE ON LEAGUE

A secondary noteworthy feature of the new policy is the substitution of words of guarded friendship for the former conventional abuse of the League of Nations. Membership of the Soviet Union in the League, which would have seemed fantastically improbable two years or even a year ago, is now a serious political possibility, as a result of the new orientation of Soviet foreign policy on France and Poland.

In the economic field the Soviet Union has justified neither the fears of those observers who raised the slogan of "the Red trade menace" nor the hopes of those who saw in Russia a fertile field for foreign investment and development.

The idea that Russia was likely to represent a major competitive menace to other countries in the field of international trade was based on several misconceptions in regard to the results of the Five-Year-Plan and the character of Soviet economy. It was assumed that the big new plants under construction would soon create a surplus of goods which would then be dumped on world markets at ruinously low prices.

Some forcing of export there certainly has been. In order to obtain foreign currency for purchases of machinery and equipment the Soviet government has shipped abroad food products which were bady needed at home. But the fact that Soviet exports today are considerably less than half of Russia's pre-war exports, measured in gold rubles, disposes of the idea that the Soviet Union possess immense surplus stocks which it intends to force on the world at cutthroat prices.

DOMESTIC NEEDS STILL LAG

The new steel, copper, chemical and other plants are far behind the needs of the country's program of industrial development; and the date when the industrial needs of the country and the consumption needs of its inhabitants will be satiated certainly seems to lie in a far distant future.

At the same time the Soviet Union does not seem to offer a promising field for the investment of foreign capital. After the introduction of the New Economic Policy scores of concessions, mostly of small size, were granted to foreign firms for the operation of factories, mines, farms and timber lands.

Today, almost all these concessions have ceased to function; and some—notably the Lena Goldfields concession in Siberia—were terminated in a manner which left a good deal of ill-will and compensation claims. Without attempting to pass judgment on the merits of each case it may be said that two fundamental difficutlies have cropped up whenever a foreign entrepreneur endeavored to operate a concession in Russia.

First, the foreigner was obliged to deal with a monopolistic state organization which could cut off his transportation facilities, boycott his products, impose on him labor conditions prevailed in state enterprises. There was no impartial tribunal to which a foreign concessionaire could appeal.

DIFFICULT TO TAKE PROFIT

Second, the foreigner, as soon as he began to earn profits in Soviet paper rubles, found himself confronted with great difficulties in securing permission to exchange these rubles for foreign currency.

The rubles were, of course, quite valueless outside the Soviet frontiers; they could only be used for operating expenses within the country. So it would seem that, while there may be a moderate growth of Soviet trade, in the event of a world economic revival, Russia is not a promising country for the investment of foreign capital.

The Communist International is another means of contact, hostile contact, in this case, between the Soviet Union and the outside world. The collapse of the German Communist party, supposedly the strongest European branch of the International, without firing a shot, without carrying out a single successful protest strike afforded convincing evidence of the clay feet of an organization which Communists and extreme conservatives alike are apt to endow with exaggerated powers.

As a matter of fact, the Communists, both in Germany and in Italy, by splitting the united labor front and carrying on a vigorous offensive against the Social Democrats, opened the gates wide for the victorious onrush of Fascism, unconsciously and against their own desire, of course.

STRONG IN AUSTRIA

It is significant that in Austria, where the majority of the workers had remained united under Social Democratic leadership, and where the Communist party was very small, the resistance to the Fascist swing, while unsuccessful, was much stronger.

The Russian Orthodox church was unmistakably weakened by its close association with the Tsarist state. And the Communist International, far from benefiting, is rather injured by the fact that it is completely dominated from Moscow and is not infrequently utilized as a catspaw for Soviet foreign policy.

The strict subordination to Moscow the Russian stamp that is placed on all the propaganda of the International, the frequent elimination, on summary orders from Moscow, of popular leaders of the national Communist parties—all these things tend to alienate many of the more sincere and intelligent revolutionaries and to make out of the International, "the general staff of the world revolution," as it pompously calls itself, a lifeless bureaucratized institution, formidable only on paper.

Apart from China, where what passes for Communism seems to posses many traits of traditional peasant insurgence, with a coating of Moscow-trained leadership, international Communism seems likely to revive only in the event of one or both of two contingencies'

(1) A new world war, in which the defeated countries might turn to Communism, or to some other desperate remedy: (2) a war in which the Soviet Union itself was involved. In the latter case the Soviet government would, of course, employ Communist propaganda, as a military weapon against its enemy to the utmost of its ability.

Acting Chief of Police Pitchford was faced with a delicate situation yesterday when, in the interests of the city streets, he was forced to break up a shot putting contest at the corner of Josephine and Baker street, in which an eminent physician, an hotel owner, an insurance agent, a cab driver, a hardware merchant and some others were indulging. The city engineer, among the spectators, watched ruefully as the irregularly-shaped "shot" tore up the macadam pavement, until the assistant police chief, attracted by the crowd and expecting to find a real good fight or at the very least a fatal accident, turned up and suggested the partticipants find a vacant lot for their fun.

Ross Also Ready for Big Title Fight Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP).—Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin wound up hard training today for the first renewal of their welterweight championship feud at Madison Square Garden bowl Saturday night.

Pop Foster, the benign Irishman who pilots McLarnin, may send his protege to the gym tomorrow for a round or so of shadow boxing, but that will be all. Pop says the Vancouver belter is in such prime condition more work will do more harm than good.

Much the same program is planned for tomorrow by Art Winch and his colleagues who handle the champion. Ross may don his trunks for a round of shadow boxing and another of bag-punching, but no boxing.

In a mid-town gymnasium today the champion went through a snappy six-round drill. He boxed a round each with Al Cassimini and Jimmy Murphy, a pair of rugged lightweights and topped off his sparring with two speedy rounds against Phil Rafferty.

A mile downtown McLarnin went through his paces before a crowd that seemed equally enthusiastic. Following a brisk three-round drill with the reliable Calvin Reid, Philadelphia negro, the Canadian weighed exactly 146½ pounds, a half-pound under the welter limit.

He showed plenty of dash and fire and kept Reid in hot water all the time. Once Jimmy cut loose a left that knocked Reid six feet into the ropes.

Railbirds who have followed McLarnin's progress were unanimous that he is boxing better than he did before the fight was postponed several times last week.

LEADERS ALL SET TO WIN

Clyde, St. Johnstone, and Rangers Hope Stay 'Put'

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 13 (CP cable).—Clyde, sensations of the Scottish Football league this season and St. Johnstone, with whom they share leadership of the first division, look to have every chance of staying on top after Saturday's matches.

Each club has a record of five wins and two draws in as many starts, to hold a slim one-point advantage over the champion Rangers. Saturday Clyde entertains the Hibs while St. Johnstone are also at home to the little-feared Partick Thistle outfit.

Meantime Rangers take on Ayr United at Ibrox Park, and the champions should have no difficulty with the visitors.

Hamilton Academicals and Motherwell are sharing the third bracket a point back of Rangers. Hamilton will have a struggle with Celtic but the Fir Parkers are expected to cop the points at Aberdeen.

Two clubs demoted from the first division tangle up when Third Lanark travels to Cowdenbeath.

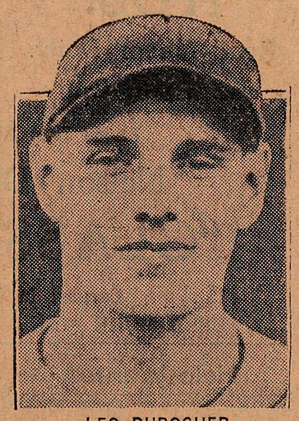
Dean Brothers Tip off the Tigers About Giant Hitters

"SCHOOLBOY" ROWE



LEO DUROCHER

TOMMY BRIDGES

Durocher Also Describes Faults of the Boys Who Threaten Detroit's Pennant Chances

By JAMES FRANCIS
(Central Press Canadian Sports Writer)

NEW YORK.—Hear ye, Schoolboy Rowe. Hearken carefully, you Detroit pitchers, Tom Bridges, Eldon Auker and "Firpo" Marberry.

You've probably been lying awake in the dead of night, trying to figure how to stop the Giant hitters in the now-pretty-well-established entente of New York versus Detroit in the world's series of 1934. How about getting the low down, the up-up and the left to right from a pair of pitchers who might be said to deal with the subject on some degree of authority, the Dean brothers, Dizzy and Paul (or Daffy), of St. Louis? If they don't know, nobody does. All they've done between them this year is win nine out of eleven from the Giants.

It was deep into August before the Giants were able to beat Paul (or Daffy) and then only because he blew up behind a lead in the ninth inning. They beat Dizzy (or Delirious) because, after he'd vouchshafed a shut-out against the Giants the day before, the Cardinal management brought him right back as a relief pitcher and it was just no go.

So, it may be assumed that these strange young men have a general grasp of the New York situation and here, according to Leo (Lippy) Durocher, the St. Louis shortstop, is a thumb-nail graph of the system:

you have. He's the one man on the Bill Terry—Give him everything club who must be stopped.

Joe Moore—Don't make them too bad or he'll walk. Don't make them too good or the ball will leave the park. You've got to play the corners with him on every pitch.

Lefty O'Doul—He's tough, but he can be stopped because he's willing to gamble on a long hit. He's always aiming for the stands.

Travis Jackson—If there's runners, give him the Sunday pitch on every ball. If the bases are empty, he's just another ball player.

Mell Ott—We pitch to him outside and try to hold him to singles.

Leo Durocher is called Lippy, one suspects, largely for the same reason that the elder Dean is called Dizzy, meaning that the one doesn't in circles, and the other does not talk that way. Lippy's strictly a gentleman who knows the time of day.

"The rest of the Giants don't matter a whole lot," Durocher says. "Of course, they can bust up a ball game on you, but that can be written off as an act of God. But you have got to stop, Terry, Ott, Moore and Jackson and, if he pinch hits, O'Doul.

"Lefty can be pitched to, because he's always drawing a bead on the right field bleachers. He'll concede you that first strike all the time, unless the bases are loaded and the Giants need a homer. But, either way, Lefty's no bargain to an opposing pitcher. Jackson is the same type. He'll go hitless all day and then, when the pinch is on, the pitcher will try to slip one by him and—blooey! We never give Jax a good ball in a pinch.

"Ott, Terry and Moore are a different matter. Unless the winning runs are on base, we're satisfied to work the outside corner with Ott and hold him down to one base. Moore, of course, is a problem to any team, there being only one rule to follow: Never give him a good ball any time. As for Terry, he's one of the great hitters of baseball. If I really knew any way to stop him, I wouldn't be a short-stop. I'd be a $20,000-a-year pitcher."

Before concluding his oration, Mr. Durocher had something searching to say about alleged bickering in St. Louis under the management of Frank Frisch.

"Frisch," he said, "is an outstanding manager. He's tough, but that's why we have a fighting club."

"Yeh, a fighting club," we said, brightly. "You have no harmony."

"Harmony!" (The man seemed pained by our ignorance.)

"Heck!" said he, "you can find that on a quartet. It doesn't matter much on a ball club, just so they play ball."

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. MORRISON

The question of how much handicap one player should give the other is always open to argument.

In the first place handicaps are supposed to be based on the player's average score. A player's real average is seldom determined. Hence there is considerable leeway here.

One player may seek a figure on the basis of not playing well while another may be inclined toward optimism and be overgenerous.

Too wide a difference exists when it's necessary to give the other fellow a stroke a hole. The slower player is bound to put the faster player off his game, if not actually holding up his play, surely by the way he swings at the ball.

Baseball's Big Six

(By the Associated Press)

Kiki Cuyler dropped out of the Big Six again yesterday, reducing it to normal size as he hit only once in five attempts and dropped a point behind John Moore of the Phillies, who was idle. Of the four surviving members who saw action, only Charley Gehringer did any serious hitting. He smacked three blows in four times at bat to raise his average three points and tie Heinie Manush for third place. Heinie lost a point with one hit in four times up. Bill Terry also got one hit and dropped one point while Lou Gehrig's mark went down two when he failed to connect in two official times up.

DETROIT, Sept. 13 (AP)—With "the girl from back home" looking on, Lynwood ("Schoolboy") Rowe set Washington Senators down for seven scattered hits, enabling Detroit Tigers to take the series opener 2-0.

The girl was Edna Mae Skinner, Rowe's fiancee from Eldorado, Ark., who came to Detroit today in hopes of seeing the schoolboy pitch in the world series.

GOMEZ WINS FOR YANKS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13 (AP)—Vernon Gomez carried New York Yankees through to another brilliant victory on his slender shoulders, allowing only three hits as New York defeated Cleveland Indians 3-1 today. It was Gomez's 25th victory of the season against four defeats and kept the Yanks 3½ games behind Detroit.

George Selkirk, young sensation from Huntsville, Ont., provided the deciding runs in Gomez's scrap with Oral Hildrebrand by belting a home run behind a pass to Lou Gehrig in the sixth.

Babe Ruth retired in the second inning when a long chase after Willie Kamm's double aggravated the "charley horse" which had kept him out of action for several days.

PAUL NUDGES OUT GIANTS

Cards Win 2-0 in 12 Innings to Cut N.Y. Lead

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP).—The desperate St. Louis Cardinals, battling to close the chasm that separates them from the world champion New York Giants, hurled Master Paul Dean into the breach today at the start of a four-game series and he shut out the National league leaders 2-0 in 12 brilliant innings to shave the distance to 4½ games.

The junior half of the Cards' particular pitching poison this season allowed the Giants only six hits over the marathon route, and fanned seven as he ran his string of victories to five for the season over the champions, equalling the mark of big brother Dizzy, who does all the talking for the family. Of the 11 games the Cards have won from Bill Terry's gang this season, the Deans' have pitched all but one. It was also Paul's 1½th for the year on all fronts.

Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons, the knuckle ball veteran, sailed along evenly with the lanky Card yearling until the bottom dropped out of the situation in the St. Louis half of the 12th when the Cards got to him for the necessary runs.

GOLDMAN AND LITTLE WIN

Armstrong Is Fourth Man in Golf Semis Today

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 13 (AP)—A five star thriller by a 22-year-old lad from the Lone Star State today stole the show in the United States amateur golf championship tourney.

Reynolds Smith, the Texas champion, achieved his fifth consecutive extra-hole victory, an all time tournament record, and swept into the semi-finals along with William Lawson Little, Jr., the strapping Californian with a consuming ambition to add the American crown to the British amateur title he already holds.

Smith furnished the real fireworks, however, after the burly Little, now the top heavy favorite, had abruptly halted the sensational rush of 19-year-old Willie Turnesa of New York, with a convincing 3 and 2 triumph in the quarter-finals.

The young Texan, on the brink of defeat at the hands of 21-year-old Ernest F. Pieper, Jr., of San Jose, Calif., took advantage of a "break" to square the match on the 18th green and then fought through five spectacular extra holes before downing the Californian, one up at the 23rd. In the morning he eliminated Winfield S. Day, Jr., of Chicago.

The outcome assured an all-Texas semi-final tomorrow in the upper half of the draw. Smith will meet his rival and roommate, 25-year-old Davis (Specs) Goldman, who came from behind to whip the veteran Eddie Driggs of New York, 2 and 1, after taking the measure of Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, the young sourthern titleholder, by the same margin in the fifth round.

Little's opponent in the semi-finals is Don Armstrong, a former Illinois State champion, signalized his most conspicuous performance in any national tournament by eliminating Earnest Combs of Long Beach, Calif., in the fifth round this morning, 4 and 3, and then overpowering his fellow townsman and the last of the ex-champions, Chick Evans, by the same score in the quarter finals.

"Big League" BASEBALL

BY AL DEMAREE

I am handing along an old trick of major league pitchers to young amateur twirlers which may come in mighty handy some day. Whenever you have a "three-and-two" count on the batter always "shake-off" the catcher's sign. The sign, whether it be a fast ball or curve ball still stays in force, but the batter does not know that and thinks it is being changed . Nine times out of ten the batter thinks the pitcher is shaking off a fast ball sign and looks for a curve ball. The average batter with "three-two" count on him is ready to swing at anything th looks good, and this "shaking off" just gives him something else to worry about.

Answer to yesterday's question: Pat Malone, Chicago Cub pitcher and umpire George Magerkurth, were professional boxers before entering baseball.

Today's question: Who composes the heaviest battery in the major leagues? Answer tomorrow.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet called "Baseball Signs" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

RUGBY TO GET AWAY SATURDAY

Senior Teams in East and West Open Sessions Early

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A scattering of senior teams, bent on reaching peak form early, open the Canadian football season on Saturday in the east and west. The rest of the gridiron powers are delaying the start a week.

Montreal's interprovincial union team opens the long campaign at home against Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario union in an exhibition game. Another Toronto team, St. Michael's college, also of the O.R.F.U., plays the big four Rough-Riders at Ottawa.

Rival coaches will be less interested in the scores than in getting a lone on the fresh material on hand. The Ottawa-St. Michael's college contest will be of particular interest because both squads will trot out several new United States bred players.

In the west, Minnesota all-stars are billed to play the champion Winnipegs and in Moose Jaw Maroons will entertain Regina Rough-riders.

Sarnia Imperial, O.R.F.U. titleholders, will split up the large squad and play a practice engagement for charity.

RUGGERS GET INTO ACTION

Rugby practices are in full swing at Nelson and while the attendance has not been as great as expected preparations are well under way for an early start.

This year the lake city will be without the services of several stars who have sought employment outside the city. Dave Proudfoot is in charge of the game here this season and with new players recruited from the very active Fairview club he hopes to be able to turn out some good material.

KING COBRA

By MARK CHANNING

Who has lived for twenty-one years in the country that he so graphically describes.

CHAPTER 30

"It is said that the Mir's men are not to be trusted. Myself, I take leave to doubt it, for I know their devotion to His Highness," said Mohammed Shah gravely.

"I entirely agree with you, Sirdar sahib!" replied Mercer musingly. "And the old Mir is rightly beloved of his people."

"May Allah send that Your Honor is right!" replied Mohammed Shah slowly. "But even though His Highness's men be loyal—to track The Cobra is going to be a very difficult task—even for those born in these hills! Let me go with Colonel Houghton Major Sahib! I have an interest of my own I wish to follow up."

"I have spoken!" said Mercer, his lean face tightening. "When I have heard what the Mir sahib has said to you, we will talk of your going with Colonel Houghton. You cannot easily be spared from Lebak. I would rather you stayed here."

Mohammed Shan rose, his face full of pained anxiety.

"The one man who could have guided the Colonel sahib's force has, it seems, proved a traitor," he said grimly. "When I find that accursed dwarf—as I most surely shall—I have a certain idea concerning what shall be done to him."

"A telegram from Simla, Major sahib!" said an orderly's voice from the doorway.

Eagerly Mercer tore it open.

It was from the Director-General of Intelligence and in code.

"Unable understand" (he deciphered) "messages received from Gray in his code stop A G directs you to hand over command to Captain Lascelles and come Simla immediately ends."

TERRIBLE ANGER

Not until that evening was Khoon the Mongol able to obtain an audience of The Cobra. He found The Cobra turbanless, seated on the edge of his great couch. It was not his master's habit to control his rages. But this time the orders of the Veiled Man demanded it; and, having read the slip containing them, he had torn it into pieces.

As usual, its contents had been brief.

"I have thy frog. I will throw him to the snake in an hour. Betray nothing."

It was not regret for the rough justice that was about to be meted out to Jaffir and Khoon that had lashed The Cobra to rage. It was an ungovernable fury born of the thought that he would not have the joy of torturing the traitors before they fell into the Veiled Man's clutches.

"What wilt thou, Mongol?" The Cobra asked, his voice harsh.

"I am not come to ask anything of thee, O Khan!" replied Khoon, forehitching his knife into a handier position.

"Thou choosest thy words badly, scurvy Mongol!" said The Cobra, glaring at him as if he would leap up and strangle him with his bare hands.

Khoon stiffened. "There are those who are about to free the two sahibs whom thou holdest as prisoners. . . But since thou hast no interest in the news I bring, I will take leave of thee!" And he made as if to go.

The Cobra sprang to his feet.

"Thou wilt take nothing!" he thundered, reaching for the naked scimitar lying by his side.

Khoon stepped back two paces, fingering the handle of his long knife.

"I seem not to be welcome, Khan sahib!" he said, trying hard to conceal his fear.

"Thou art as welcome as Satan! Thou shalt tell thy news to him—in Hell! I have a fancy to see thy head roll in this room. . . "

"Nay, Khan sahib!" protested the dwarf. "I came but to render a service one for which thou wilt surely thank me when thou hast heard it!"

"Go!" hissed The Cobra. "Or your dead body shall fall before me. I swear it by the Holy Koran!"

Something told Khoon not to move, or he would be lost.

"Thy prisoners are to escape at sundown!" he blurted.

"Why sayest thou so?" snarled The Cobra. "Answer!"

The dwarf's mind worked swiftly.

"Thy woman, Shireen, can answer many questions!" he retorted defiantly, lossening his knife in its sheath. He would die fighting.

"Thou slit-eyed liar!" roared The Cobra. "Were it not that there is One who has thee in mind for a reckoning which thou shall not escape, my beast should lick thy blood. . . "

Khoon had retreated to the door. His mind was made up. This insane tyrant was no longer to be endured. The Government of India would acknowledge his status as leader of the Mongols. It would make short shrift of The Cobra, once the Veiled Man had been handed over.

The handing-over he would now arrange.

"I go!" he snarled, his beady eyes glowing at The Cobra. "But the day is near at hand when thou wilt pray to Allah for another such chance as I came to offer thee—"

The Cobra's great hand tightened on the chain of the tigress. A last spark of reason had lit up a mind blinded by fury. If Shiv killed the Mongol, who could blame him? He bent down, his anger-shaken fingers fumbling with the catch on the tigresses collar. The heavy chain clinked to the floor, and he glanced up, sideways—expectantly. . .

But the dwarf had gone.

"Come!" he shouted to his bodyguard in the passage outside.

A tall, lean Afridi entered. The meaning of the word fear is unknown to the men of his race.

"Thine orders, Khan sahib?" he asked quietly, his rifle held negligently across his thighs.

"Bid Shireen Bibi come hither at once!"

The man saluted, and left to carry out the order. . .

"My lord sent for me?" asked Shireen sweetly as she entered a few minutes later.

The Cobra glared at her.

"Knowest thou aught of a plan to set free the two Inglis prisoners, Shireen Bibi?" he thundered. "The accursed Mongol says—"

"It is I who have to tell thee news of him!" Shireen countered exultantly. "He is a traitor! He and Jaffir the eunuch conspire to kill thee, beloved one!"

"I know it!" shouted The Cobra. "And the fatter of the two die within the hour!"

Shireen clapped narrow palms excitedly. The thought of a sweet and longed-for vengeance filled her savage young heart.

Seeing her delight The Cobra's mood changed.

"Thou and I, well-beloved flower, whom I enjoy to wear in my heart, will see him die together! Come!"

"How dies he?" queried Shireen, seating herself. She had remembered. Time was everything, now!

"Four bulls," said The Cobra decisively. . . "And now kiss me, Pearl of Beauty!"

"My lord will let me tell Gulbudun?" begged Shireen. "She, too, hates the eunuch."

"Let the child be! There is no time save for what I would tell thee. . . of my love. . ."

A half-hour later, while The Cobra and Shireen were watching the long preparations for the death of Jaffir, Khoon the Mongol was writing a letter:

In the name of God the Compassionate and the Merciful! To the Commander of the army of the Sirkar, Salutations and Peace!

He who brings this letter will guide you to where you shall find him of the Veil, whome ye have long sought for. Come quickly. In token of the truth of what is herein written, I offer myself as your hostage.— Khoon, Descendant of Ghengis Khan, Emperor.

Looking down at the still wet ink, the dwarf pondered. Who would carry this dangerous missive? To risk its going astray would be to bring death nearer to him than even it was at present, and that was near enough.

ALL STREET STILL FEEBLE

Trading Drags; Price Mixed; Small Turnover

By FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP). — The speculative pulse continued to beat feebly in the stock market today.

A rise in United States government bonds cheered the financial district but did not do much toward breaking the stalemate of the share list.

Price movements were mixed as trading dragged along. Steel common closed at 31½, off a point. Turnover was only 415,660 shares.

Possibility some corporations might fail to register their securities under the National Securities Exchange act contributed to the hesitant air of the stock market.

ALBERTA HELPS CHICAGO RALLY

Reports of Wintry Weather on the Prairies Saves Wheat Prices

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP)—Disturbed by textile strike developments, wheat prices showed weakness most of the time today, but rallied at the last.

Reports of wintry weather in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan, where but little wheat has been thrashed, ended to bring about late rallies.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ lower to ¼ higher, corn ½ to 1 cent down, oats ¼ to ½ down and provisions unchanged to 20 cents up.

MONTREAL DULL

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 (CP). — Stocks performed dully today on the Montreal stock exchange with gains and losses about even.

Montreal Power led the gainers, adding ⅞ to 32⅞. Nickel got up ⅛ at 23⅞. Dominion Coal pfd added 9½ to 89½.

C.P.R. was steady and Brazilian lost ⅜ at 10⅛. General Steel Wares was off ¼ to a new low of 3½. Building Products and Lake of the Woods yielded fractions. Hollinger sagged 5 cents.

Sales 6072 shares; bonds $10,050.

Nine New Companies in Province

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP).—Nine new B.C. companies were incorporated in British Columbia during the last week, including:

GAINS RULE IN DULL TRADING

Toronto Industrials Lag; Distillery Shares Are Higher

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP).—Industrials grubbed along on small business today on the Toronto stock exchange but showed a majority of gains at the close. Lacking news traders adopted a waiting attitude.

Distillery shares gained ⅛ to ¼. Brewing Corp. touched 8½ and finished ¼ up. International Pete sagged ½ and Supertest ordinary ¼.

Brazilian slipped ¼ and C.P.R. ⅛. Ford A and Nickel advanced ⅛.

CANADIAN DOLLAR IS HIGHER

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (CP)—On the foreign exchange markets today, the Canadian dollar extended its premium from 3-32 to 3 1-32 per cent. Sterling closed at $5.01, up ¼ cent. The French franc at 6.67¾ cents, was off .00⅛ of a cent.

U. S. SECURITIES RALLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP).—The bond market picture was somewhat brighter today as the recently weak U.S. government securities rallied and pressure was lifted from a number of other loans.

Among corporation gainers were some loans of Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Paramount, Shell and Union Oil and U.S. Rubber and Virginian Railway. Scattered declines of 1 to as much as 3 or more points were suffered by Southern Pacific, International Paper, Bethlehem Steel and Baltimore & Ohio.

SECONDARY GOLDS HAVE GOOD GAINS

Big Golds, Base Metals and Silvers Slack at Toronto

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP). — Languor held the big golds, base metals and silvers today on the mining section of the Toronto board but secondary golds had considerable gains.

Teck recovered a loss of 20 cents and finished unchanged at 5.45. Sylvanite, Pickle Crow, Read Auther, San Antonio, B.R.X., and Central Pacific added 7 to 15 cents. Little Long Lac got up 50 cents.

EASE TOURIST RESTRICTIONS

Number of Changes Made to Help Boost Tourist Traffic

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (CP).—To assist the building up of the tourist business in Canada, an easing up on the more severe restrictions on tourists' outfits and travellers' baggage for personal use was announced by the department of national revenue today.

Cigarettes which may be brought in duty free are increased from 100 to 200.

Cigars up to 50 may be imported duty-free by a tourist, replacing the former limit of 40.

Radios, typewriters, canoes, outboard motors, tents, camp equipment, phonographs, musical instruments and other articles such as baby carriages, lawn mowers and the like, for the use of the tourist only, may enter without payment of deposit.

Guns, rifles, fishing tackle, golf clubs, tennis rackets, previously used by a tourist and imported for his personal use, will continue to be allowed entry without deposit.

Superannuation Act Is Being Redrafted

Fairness to All Concerned Is Aim, States Hon. G. M. Weir

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP)—Hon. G. M. Weir, British Columbia provincial secretary, today issued the following statement:

"The present superannuation act is now being redrafted on a basis that will be as fair to all concerned as is possible to make such an act. The revised legislation will be introduced at the next session of the house. The interests of all parties concerned are being kept in mind.

"As previously stated the government has no intention of ignoring its legal or moral obligations in this matter. Under the circumstances employees would be well advised to wait the revised legislation without making matters unnecessarily difficult. There is no reason for panic. Any marked tendency in the interval toward accelerated requirement would defeat its own purpose."

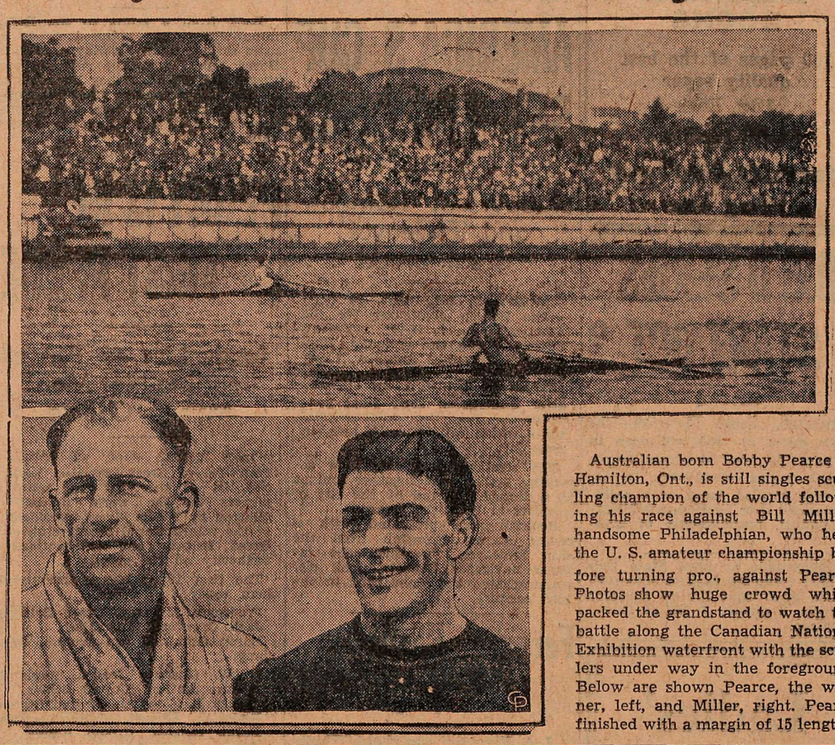
LONDON, (CP)—A vigorous attack on the fashion of shorts for women is launched by the Rev. W. E. Woodhams Denham, vicar of Chorley Wood (Herts),) in a letter to his parish. "Although there may not be anything actually immoral in such attire," he writes, "yet it is indecorous, unmannerly, ungraceful, unbecoming and brazen."

As Bobby Pearce Retained World's Sculling Crown



Australian born Bobby Pearce of Hamilton, Ont., is still singles sculling champion of the world following his race against Bill Miller, handsome Philadelphian, who held the U. S. amateur championship before turning pro., against Pearce. Photos show huge crowd which packed the grandstand to watch the battle along the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront with the scullers under way in the foreground. Below are shown Pearce, the winner, left, and Miller, right. Pearce finished with a margin of 15 lengths.

WINNIPEG PRICES HELPED BY SNOW

Wheat Futures Mount as Bad Weather Comes to the Prairies

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13 (CP)—Snowstorms accompanied by rain, cooler temperatures and in some places frost, helped wheat futures to mount ⅝ to ¼ cent on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

October wheat closed at 84¼, December at 84¾ to 84⅞ and May at 88¾ cents.

It was difficult to determine the source of much of the buying but offerings were well absorbed. Export business accounted for 250,000 bushels and commission houses and Chicago interests also purchased wheat.

CONSOLIDATION OF DEBTS URGED

McGeer Would Consolidate Municipal and Provincial Debts Under Commission

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP)—Consolidation of all municipal and provincial debts under a British Columbia debt commission was urged by G. G. McGeer, K.C., M.L.A., for Burrard, commenting here today on refunding proposals for North Vancouver and Burnaby.

The credit of the whole province would be placed behind the entire debt under such a scheme, he said and with the new security, the whole could be amortized and liquidated in from 30 to 50 years.

The basis of liquidation should be equitable at rates of from 1 to 2½ per cent.

"If this were done it would be possible to get rid of the whole debt, both municipal and provincial, at the end of the period," he said.

These combined gross debts are now more than $300,000,000, less sinking funds.

POUND TAKES TURN UPWARD

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 (CP). — The pound reversed its downward trend on Montreal currency exchanges today. Sterling was up ¼ cent to $4.86 9-32. The United States dollar was unchanged at 2 15-16 per cent discount and the franc was steady at 6.48 cents.

Urges Support for Hon. H. H. Stevens

Presbytery of New Westminster Sends Telegram to General Council

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP).—Support for Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, and the committee investigating mass buying, was urged upon the general council of the United Church of Canada today by the presbytery of New Westminster.

The following telegram signed by Rev. O. M. Sanford, convenor of the social service committee of the British Columbian presbytery, was read to the commissioners:

"Today Westminster presbytery unanimously passed a resolution memoralizing general council to call upon Premier Bennett, Hon. Mackenzie King and J. S. Woodsworth to rise above party or sectional considerations supporting Mr. Stevens and commission further investigating major industries and commercial enterprises providing measures safe-guard interests of all the people."

Kootenay Oil Leases Renewed

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP). — Leases under the Coal and Petroleum act on two properties in the Kootenay area which were assigned to the Canadian Kootenay Oil company have been renewed by the British Columbia government.

RIVALS FOR THE AMERICA'S CUP SET FOR RACE

Skippers of 'Rainbow' and 'Endeavor' Break Bread

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 13 (AP)—The British challenger for the America's cup, T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavor, and the defender, Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rainbow, today quit the marine railways at the Herreshoff shipyard in Bristol after undergoing their final conditioning for the international series which will open off here on Saturday.

The rival skippers and their associates broke bread together tonight at a dinner tendered by the city of Newport in Sopwith's honor.

Sopwith was presented with a carved stern decoration from the ship Endeavor, in which the famous navigator Captain Cook circumnavigated the globe back in the 18th century.

Ferguson Heads Trafalgar Club

J. A. Ferguson was chosen Thursday night to head the Trafalgar Badminton club for the coming season and with him will serve Mrs. George Simpson, vice-president; Dr. R. Maurer, secretary-treasurer; and W. W. Ferguson and J. Notman, committee members.

If hall arrangements can be made the club expects to start play October 1 and has limited its membership to 55. A well attended meeting of the club in the city hall Thursday night voted on more social meetings.

LONDON (CP)—The government's insurance statutory committee is considering extension of unemployment insurance to agricultural labor.

The vicar also demands an embargo on "public mannequin parades" by seaside holiday-makers.

Rolled Snowballs but Unable to Ski

Back from a jaunt to the Reno mine where they planned to do a little skiing, Danny McKay and Jack Boyce report that the snow is too sparse yet but that they have hopes of an early start. The two enthusiasts did, however, have the opportunity of rolling a few snowballs.

Frederick J. Perry, Great Britain.
Jack Crawford, Australia.
Baron Gottfried von Cramm, Germany.
H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England.
Wilmer Allison, United States.
Sidney B. Wood jr., United States.
Roderick Menzel, Czechoslovakia.
Frank Shields, United States.
Giorgio de Stefain, Italy.
Christian Boussus, France.

LACROSSE GAME ALMOST ASSURED

TRAIL, Sept. 13—Lacrosse game between a Nelson-Trail team and the winners of the Salmonbellies-St. Helens box lacrosse series in Vancouver "virtually assured," according to Gordon Redgrave. The coast team will stop over in Nelson on its way east for the Mann cup playdowns and will engage a combined team of lake city and Trail players in a game of the old-time field lacrosse within the next two weeks. The field game has been played here since facilities for the box-la game are lacking.

In order to choose Trail players for the "all-star" team, an effort is being made to round up a local team to tangle with Nelson at the lake city next Sunday.

Lacrosse players here having been working out at Butler park in preparation for the event.

Heavy-Going Cuts Entries in the Races

VICTORIA, Sept. 13 (CP)—The heavy going at the Willows during the past few days has resulted in fewer entries than usual and but two of today's seven races saw more than seven horses lined up before the barrier. In the fourth race Gertie C. took the lead but stumbled and threw Jockey Pendergrass. Ilson Whittier was the only mount paying double figrues, winning the opener nicely from Miss Goldstream and returning $10.70.

The Daily Double, Kate A. to Zelma Mac, paid $16.80 and the one-two bets in the fifth and seventh returned $27.90 and $40.95, respectively.

LEADERS IN TOUGH GAME

LONDON, Sept. 13 (CP Cable)—Lucky to escape injuries that have upset some of their opponents, Sunderland travel to Aston Villa Saturday for one of the most interesting tussles of the day's soccer card. Sunderland holds a slight advantage over the first division of the English league, having garnered four wins and a draw in as many starts.

Saturday the leaders will field the identical eleven they have used since the start of the season. The Villa has yet to select its line-up.

Preston North End, the second-placers, should have little trouble at Wolverhampton.

The Arsenal, league champions, are putting their very best line-up forth for th match at Highbury against West Bromwich, taking no chances. The Arsenal with two victories and two ties is three points back of Sunderland. James, Drake, Bowden and Beasley, who had a rest when the Arsenal played Glasgow Rangers to a tie Wednesday, will be back on duty.

FAIRVIEW AND CUBS TO MEET

With senior ball players disbanded for the season, the New Grand Cubs, with Steve Smith and Tommy O'Shea forming the battery, will take on the Fairview intermediates Sunday.

It is also hoped to line up a Sunday game with a Slocan valley ladies' softball team and the local rep team.

WINGS AGAIN BEAT ALBANY

Rochester Takes the Second Game of Play-Offs

ROCHESTER, N.Y. Sept. 13 (CP)—With husky Johnny Mize furnishing the final power for extra runs, after Estel Crabtree hit a home run in the first inning, Rochester trimmed Albany here today, 4-2. It marked the second straight victory of the Wings over the Senators in their first play-off series of the International league.

Mize connected for a double to left field off Bill Harris in the third with Benny Borgman and Crabtree on base and the hit scored both runners. In the eighth he doubled again, this time off Dick Barrett, to score George Toporcer with the final run of the combat.

Overnight Lineup for Lacrosse Game

Playoff at Vancouver Turns Into Miniature World Series

VANCOUVER, Sept. 13 (CP)—The British Columbia box lacrosse final has turned into a miniature world series, even to overnight line-ups by ticket seekers.

When the ticket office here opened this morning a two-block long queue of customers, many of whom had waited in line since last night was on hand for tickets to the fourth game of the series between New Westminster Salmonbellies and St. Helen's of Vancouver.

Headed by Clive Bussey and his brother Lloyd, the ticket seekers started the line-up last night, bringing automobile seat cushions, apple boxes and blankets.

"Oh, we're pretty tough, we slept all night," Clive Bussey reported when asked how they fared.

At New Westminster three youths started the line-up when they arrived at the ticket office yesterday afternoon.

This morning a lineup of 250 waited the opening of the office, with a number of cestomers sitting in cars, with proxies retaining their positions in the line-up.

and that they would quit their berths unless Carey were removed.

The Dollar line, operators of the vessel, announced that the charges against the master would be investigated by the home office at San Francisco and that the line would then "take whatever action is necessary after they have all the facts." Captain Carey's employers said he had spent 30 years in their service, 17 as a captain, and that he had an excellent record.

George I. Alagna, second wireless operator and center of a dispute as to the Morro Castle officers' actions during the fire, was releasted from custody. He had been held under $3000 bail as a material witnes before the grand jury. The American Radio Telegraphists association announced that it had engaged counsel for Alagna, declaring there has been an attempt to make the operator a "scapegoat" in the disaster.

The criticism of Captain Carey for alleged failure to maintain the inexorable traditions of the sea, created a sensation at the department of commerce inquiry.

"I no longer have any respect for the master," said Chief Officer James A. Henderson. "If he is not taken off that vessel, I'll ask to be relieved."

Third officer Harold Peterson, of San Mateo, Cal., Dwight Randall, first officer, and Jeremiah Smith, second officer, expressed the same opinions as their associate.

William Francis Price of Brooklyn, whose wife died in the disaster, painted a vivid picture of panic and disorder aboard the vessel after the fire was discovered.

He declared that a lifeboat refused to aid his wife after she had been lowered into the water.

Customs officials disclosed during the day that a suspicious fire had been discovered in the Grace liner Santa Barbara last Tuesday. Officials referred the matter to the department of justice for investigation.
