CARPENTERS began returning to their jobs yesterday following settlement of the eight-week strike across British Columbia. Here two men set up a power saw at the site of the new supermarket to be built on Vernon Street in Nelson. The strike ended when contractors announced Friday they had decided to accept recommendations of Industrial Inquiry Commissioner W. E. Philpott.

1600 PGE Workers Idled By 400 Striking Non-Ops

Widespread Effect Seen If Strike Allowed To Go On

VANCOUVER (CP) — A strike by 400 non-operating railway employees has put 1,600 others out of work and the figure could mount along the Pacific Great Eastern Railway line to northern British Columbia.

A PGE spokesman said Monday the strike that began Sunday midnight could affect pulp mills, sawmills and hunting lodge operators along the line if the work stoppage is prolonged.

There are many industries geared to PGE operations and "these people will lose a lot of money as a result of it (the strike)."

The spokesman said no meetings were held Monday between the railway and the federation of PGE employees, representing the strikers.

None were immediately planned.

The strike has halted rail movement between the PGE's North Vancouver terminus and its railheads at Fort St. John and Dawson Creek.

SECOND IN TWO YEARS

It is the second strike against the company, a provincial Crown corporation headed by Premier Bennett as president, in less than two years.

The employees want a 50-cent - an - hour across - the-board pay increase as recommended in a conciliation report by Magistrate Les Bewley.

The report was rejected by the company, which offered 50 cents an hour to tradesmen and 40 cents to apprentices in a two-year contract.

"The feeling of the (federation) committee is that they have to have this the 50 cents," said employees' spokesman, David Chapman.

He said the committee has no new proposals to make, and he saw little hope of further meetings this week.

In Victoria, Premier Bennett declined comment Monday.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said he was "ready, able and willing" to offer any assistance which might be sought by the parties involved.

U.K. Drafting Test Ban Treaty

LONDON (AP) — Britain is reported to be leading a discreet new attempt for a U.S. Soviet compromise on a treaty banning all nuclear weapon tests.

Official sources said Monday night Prime Minister Wilson's government is awaiting the outcome of hush-hush talks in Moscow between top British and Soviet scientists.

The two teams—led by Sir Solly Zuckerman for Britain and Mikhail Millionshchikov for Russia—are investigating new methods of detecting underground nuclear tests. These techniques involve the use of highly complicated seismological instruments, electronically-operated sometimes thousands of miles away from the blast site.

Underground shots were the only ones not outlawed under the American - Russian - British partial test - ban treaty signed in 1963 in Moscow. East and West could not agree on a policing or checking system to stop cheating on underground tests.

The Americans have claimed that nuclear explosions give out the same seismic signals as earth tremors or quakes and that several onsite inspections are essential each year to check suspicious events.

The Russians have insisted modern gadgets are so far advanced as to make such spot checks needless. They have contended the Americans really want to use international inspections for spying.

Car Plant Strike Test Of Gov't

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—A strike crippled a big British car plant Monday night in the first major Leftist challenge to Prime Minister Wilson's plans for an industrial shakeup.

The strike itself affects only 650 men employed by car delivery firms. But officials of the giant British Motor Corp. warned that unless quickly settled it could bring thousands of layoffs at the corporation's main assembly lines and subsidiary firms.

The strikers—backed by Union Chief Frank Cousins, until recently a member of Wilson's cabinet—are protesting dismissal notices issued to 333 men following a decline in car sales. They demand the men be put on half time until sales pick up, drawing full pay one week and unemployment pay the next.

This work-sharing is in conflict with government policy, which by selective taxation and credit control is aimed at forcing men out of consumer and service industry into production for heavy exports.

IWA To Seek More Safety Measures

VANCOUVER (CP) — With wages and employment conditions set for the next two years in a new forest industry contract, the International Woodworkers of America Monday took steps to obtain greater safety on the job.

At the opening session of its annual convention, the union set up machinery for increased local participation in safety conferences by allowing each local to send an officer to the conferences.

Conferences now are attended by elected officers of the regional safety council.

The convention passed a resolution calling on all locals to try to bring public pressure to bear on employers where major industrial accidents are caused by "the employers' negligence."

Miracle Baby Gaining Weight

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A baby weighing little more than a pound is being called a "miracle baby" at Brackenridge Hospital.

Janice Rose Teague was born Aug. 30, three months premature, weighing one pound 5½ ounces. her weight dropped once to one pound one ounce. Now it is one pound 2½ ounces.

Although she is still on the critical list, doctors say the baby, "having lived this long, has a reasonably good chance of growing up."

"It's unbelievable," hospital administrator Ben Tobias said Sunday night. "There have been few problems. She has had some oxygen, but not very much, and has tolerated her feedings very well. . . . It's the smallest baby born here since records have been maintained."

Doctors have told the family it will be at least three months before the baby can leave the hospital.

Typhoon-Torn Japan Faces Another Typhoon Threat

TOKYO (AP) — Japan faces the threat of Typhoon June this week as the mopping up continues after two weekend typhoons, one of which killed at least 211 persons.

If June maintains its present northward course and speed, it will strike Japan Thursday. It is packing 134 mile - an - hour winds near its centre.

The toll during the weekend by Typhoon Ida, the worst storm to hit Japan in seven years, rose to at least 211 dead. Damage to Shizuoka prefecture, the hardest-hit area, was estimated at $30,000,000.

Police said the number of missing dwindled to 103 from a previous 123. The injured numbered nearly 1,000.

Tugboats failed to free three stranded foreign cargo liners which were blown ashore by Typhoon Ida Sunday, while Typhoon Helen, less severe, was pounding other areas of the island country.

The ships are the 10,146-ton Ever Sureness of Formosa, stranded off Kawasaki City in Tokyo Bay; the Liberia -registered 24,829-ton Golar Jeanne-Maria off Shimizu, 90 miles west of Tokyo, and the 3,635-ton Thai freighter Sri Thep off Okitsu near Shimizu.

CREWS UNHARMED

No crew casualites were reported by the Maritime Safety Agency.

The agency said 19 Japanese ships, totalling 83,083 tons, were sunk, capsized or grounded by Ida, killing two Japanese seamen and leaving 14 others missing.

Ida smashed into the Mount Fuji Tokyo area in the predawn hours Sunday. Helen struck southwestern Japan Saturday.

Ida, worst typhoon to hit Japan since 5,041 died in a storm that hit near Nagoya Sept. 26, 1959, carried gusts clocked atop Mount Fuji at 202 miles an hour, the most violent winds ever recorded.

The two weekend typhoons crippled transportation, did heavy damage to crops, ruined hundreds of homes, knocked out electric power in many areas.

BREAST CANCER DETECTABLE BY X-RAY

TORONTO (CP)—Breast cancer can be detected even before there are any normal signs or symptoms of the disease, a United States doctor said Monday.

Dr. Robert L. Egan of Atlanta, Ga., said mammography x-ray of the breast can discover the cancer before any lump is detectable to the woman herself or to an examining physician.

The associate professor of radiology at Emory University was presenting a paper to the annual scientific and business meeting of the Ontario chapter of the College of General Practice of Canada.

Dr. Egan said mammography uses low energy radiation to detect abnormalities.

It is painless and can be done at any large hospital with modern equipment.

African Countries Want Solution Now

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—African countries are expected to form a united front to push for Commonwealth parliamentary conference action on Rhodesia.

A. E. Kaombwe, a Tanzanian delegate, says six African delegations will meet before the formal start of the conference Wednesday to discuss what the association can do about toppling the government of Ian Smith.

Personally, Mr. Kaombwe said in an interview Monday, he wants majority rule in Rhodesia—not 10 years hence but now. The Negroes in Rhodesia form the majority of the population, about 4,000,000 to 200,000 whites.

Despite economic sanctions against it, the Smith regime, which unilaterally declared its independence last year, has remained firmly in power.

The militant African attitude here threatens to produce a repeat performance of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference earlier this month in London. African demands for stern measures against Rhodesia dominated that affair.

Hull Byelection May Be Delayed

OTTAWA (CP)—So many Liberals are eyeing the Commons vacancy in nearby Hull that an expected byelection likely will be put off until 1967 at least, party sources say.

Prime Minister Pearson is under pressure not to call a by-election this fall. Liberals fear a scramble for the nomination that would splinter ranks and hurt chances of holding the seat, which has voted solidly Liberal since 1921.

At least five prominent Liberals are considering the nomination. They include Pierre Caron, 30, whose father, Alexis, died Aug. 31 after representing Hull in Parliament for 13 years.

NEWCASTLE, England (Reuters) — England's two-month foot-and-mouth disease emergency, during which almost 45,000 farm animals were slaughtered, was ended officially Monday.

190,000 Buy Waterfowl Licences

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales of the new $2 federal licence for waterfowl hunters have passed 190,000 and acceptance of the idea has been encouraging in every region, Dr. David Munro, chief of the Canadian Wildlife Service, said Monday.

The licence, being sold by post offices for attachment to the regular provincial hunting permit, is chiefly designed to provide statistics on waterfowl hunting in Canada. .

Dr. Munro said there is no breakdown available on licence sales by provinces. Information on incoming permit stubs was being fed into a data-processing machine that would produce complete statistics in about a month.

However, he said a "good proportion" of the returns are coming from Quebec where the provincial government has refused to co-operate with the program.

Hunting of ducks and geese has not yet started in two major regions — southern Ontario and the lower mainland of British Columbia. Sales were expected to soar when those areas report. The Maritime provinces are also still to come.

U.S. Planes Make 127 Bombing Raids

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force planes tore up 500 feet of track and knocked out 10 anti-aircraft guns on a rail line from Hanoi to China while other planes blasted boats, barges and missile sites in the north, the U.S. command reported Monday. One U.S. plane was downed.

The air attacks took the spotlight from dwindling ground action in the south after a weekend of sharp fighting near the demilitarized zone and in the Mekong Delta.

Delayed reports of a marine clash with North Vietnamese forces south of the zone told of the accidental loss of a U.S. rescue helicopter that flew into a marine artillery shell as it swooped down to pick up wounded Sunday night. Its four crew members and a medical corps member were killed.

The U..S. command said U.S. airmen carried out 127 bombing raids on the north Sunday.

One of the main targets was the railway that runs northeast from Hanoi and links with a line that goes to Nanning in China. U.S. briefing officers said the 10 anti-aircraft guns guarding the line were silenced in a five-mile stretch between 50 and 55 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Man Walks Day After Leg Amputated

TORONTO (CP) — The first operation of its kind in Canada, in which a man walked the day after a leg amputation, has been performed at a Toronto hospital.

The operation team, doctors D. M. Godfrey and Thomas Barrington, Sunday described the amputation on Hugh McCahon of Toronto as entirely successful.

Mr. McCahon, a construction worker, was operated on Aug. 17 and is walking today when normally he would just be getting out of bed on crutches.

The operation, called as "instant prosthesis", involved a metal fitting built into a plaster cast about the leg. The day following the operation, Mr. McCahon stood and walked. Twenty - two days later the stitches were removed.

Congo Votes To Close Embassies

KINSHASA, The Congo (Reuters)—The Congolese Parliament approved Monday a motion calling on the government to break off diplomatic relations with Portugal and close all foreign consulates in the republic.

The motion said the proposed measures are necessary in view of the "assistance afforded by some foreign countries to the enemies of the regime headed by Gen. Mobutu."

Two days ago, demonstrators sacked the Portuguese embassy here after the government charged that mercenaries in the pay of former Congolese premier Moise Tshombe are stationed in the neighboring Portuguese territory of Angola.

Malaysia Urges UN Seek Peace Meet On Viet Nam

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Malaysia's deputy prime minister, Tun Abdul Razak, appealed to UN members Monday to help bring about an Asian peace conference on Viet Nam.

His appeal to the General Assembly reinforced a similar call made last Wednesday by President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines.

But the Soviet bloc continued to insist on United States withdrawal from Viet Nam as the only path to peace in that country.

Foreign Minister Vaclav David of Czechoslovakia said "it is necessary to reject with indignation" the latest U.S. proposals on Viet Nam, put before the General Assembly Thursday by U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg.

Meanwhile, diplomatic soundings continued outside the assembly hall, with Canada's external affairs minister, Paul Martin, playing a busy part.

Martin, who returned to UN headquarters from Ottawa Monday for two days of private consultations, met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Goldberg, and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

He also will see, among others, India's Foreign Minister Swaran Singh and Polish Minister Adam Rapacki before returning to Ottawa today.

Asked what he and Gromyko had discussed, Martin said: "Viet Nam, just Viet Nam. Nobody wants to talk about anything but Viet Nam."

A Canadian source said that Martin, "while moving heaven and earth to get something started" on Viet Nam, also had hoped to make progress on resolving a UN dispute about the authorization and financing of peacekeeping forces.

For some time Canada has been trying to work out a fresh approach to the Viet Nam problem with India and Poland, its partners on the International Control Commission, charged with the duty of observing and reporting truce violations in Viet Nam.

East Germany Remodelling Wall

BERLIN (AP) — East German soldiers began building new border barriers Monday opposite a United States Army's infantry-tank training area.

A West Berlin police officer said that during the morning perhaps as many as 500 East Germans appeared along the border near the training area.

By afternoon, however, their numbers decreased sharply but bulldozers, trucks and other earth - moving equipment still were on the scene.

The East Germans are constructing what they call their "modern border" around West Berlin, replacing barbed - wire fences with wire-mesh fences and the old wall dividing the city centre with a new, slick prefabricated model.

In outlying areas such as near the U.S. army training area, they also are digging a moat-like ditch—or sunken wall—that on the side facing West Berlin is nine feet deep and lined with concrete.

Gordon Sees Slump in '67

VANCOUVER (CP) — Walter Gordon, former Liberal finance minister, says there is a possibility of a downswing in the Canadian economy next year.

"For that reason," he told a news conference Monday, "I don't think we should be stampeded into restrictive measures to control inflation.

"In any event, I don't think there will be a long economic slump if there is one."

Damage Suit Against Union Postponed

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A damage suit against the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada (Ind.) was postponed indefinitely in court here Monday, a union official said.

Angus Mcphee, national vice-president of the union, said lawyers for Columbia Cellulose Ltd. had reserved a date for hearing of their action but that the date was set back.

The union is involved in a dispute with the company that has closed a pulp mill here for 18 days.

Meanwhile in Victoria, a Labor Relations Board spokesman said the company has applied for permission to prosecute employees of the mill but that a decision will not be made before Oct. 4.

Mr. Mcphee said two separate actions are involved. A damage suit against the union would not require LRB permission, but one against individual members would.

Astronaut Observes

Working in Space Presents Odd Problems

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. predicted Monday that man one day will work effectively in orbit despite problems which have curtailed his and other space walks.

"The problems will be solved, but it won't be easy," Gordon said as he and Charles (Pete) Conrad told a news conference about their three days in space aboard Gemini 11 earlier this month.

Gordon disclosed that he was tired even before he started his walk and reported "the biggest surprise of my life" when it took him 30 minutes to do a task which he had done in 30 seconds in simulated weightlessness on the ground.

"We'll be able to do repair and assembly work in space if we design the proper equipment," he predicted. "My experience told us a lot about working space."

The conference focused on Gordon's space walk, the only major trouble point in the mission, which raised the question whether man ever will be able to work effectively outside an orbiting vehicle.

Breathing and sweating heavily because of exhaustion, the navy lieutenant - commander scurried back to the safety of the Gemini 11 cabin after 44 minutes—far short of the intended 115 minutes outside.

Gordon said before the walk started he had difficulty attaching a sunshade visor to his space helmet because of his pressurized suit. He said Conrad had to help him.

"I was tired and had a pretty high heart rate before we opened the hatch," Gordon said.

"As soon as I opened the hatch, all the loose debris in the cabin went out and I started out with the debris. I said 'Hey, Pete, grab me, I'm leaving'."

"I grabbed his legs and held on to him," Conrad reported.

His first task after leaving the spacecraft was to straddle the nose of the Gemini, which was attached to the Agena, and secure one end of a 100-foot cord to the Gemini docking bar. The other end of the coiled line was fastened to the Agena.

"I sat astride the nose and was unable to stay there. . . ," Gordon said. "I kept riding up off. . . .

"All I had done in about 30 seconds (in simulations on earth) turned out to be a monumental task of about 30 minutes," Gordon said.

Better Future Offered With Adult Courses

Nelson's Winter Adult Education Program offers introductory passports to better futures in its vocational courses.

The four principal vocational subjects — a fraction of the 50 subjects that are being offered— are ambitious and shaped to the needs of the community's residents.

Drafting, typing and shorthand and maintenance, repair and complete overhaul of small gasoline engines, are all expected to attract plenty of adult students.

Most complete course is the 160-hour shorthand and typing program, which plans to turn beginners with average education into efficient typist-stenos and rejuvenate rusty stenos who have not pratcised their skill for years.

By mid-March, people who have taken the course, could be knocking on office doors asking for employment.

Typing I starts October 3 at 7:30 in Room 104 of L. V. Rogers Senior Secondary School. It runs Monday and Wednesday and on Tuesday and Thursday nights. Shorthand I will occupy the students' time. That starts October 4 in Room 105.

The typing and shorthand courses taken by Larry Edwards and Peter Klassen, carry on in January, and the total cost for the training is $40.

Because of the number of shift workers, the 20 session program will run Saturday mornings at 10 a.m.

It is especially suited to carpenters with little or no experience of drafting and will teach them to read blueprints and be able to work from them.

And to the man who wishes to start a career in drafting, the course is an ideal introduction.

The drafting course starts October 8 in Room 102 of L. V. Rogers School. It costs $15, and is taken by Chuck Beaulac.

Mechanics, or people just interested in the maintenance and running of small gasoline engines, will find a ten-session course at Trafalgar Junior Secondary School, a boon.

Starting October 5, at 7 p.m., it is taken by Bill Macdonald, owner and operator of a marine service at City Wharf.

All the courses are open to anyone . . . people who want to brush up the knowledge they already have, or complete and absolute beginners with no reason for taking the courses other than their own interests.

Two Tenders--Same Figure

They were seeing double at Nelson City Council meeting Monday night after city administrator Reeve Harper opened two tenders for the purchase of municipally-owned land in the 300 block of Chatham Street and found both tenders were identical.

Mr. Harper announced that two tenders had been received for the purchase of the city-owned land, and on opening them found they both contained offers of $1,300 cash.

The first tender opened was from G. F. Williamson of Nelson ,and the second was made by Mrs. J. J. Lowen of Nelson on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stockdreher of Chicago.

The tenders were referred to council's finance committee for a recommendation.

Litter Containers May Come With Assist From Kinsmen

The possibility of supplying litter receptacles in the downtown section in cooperation with the Kinsmen Club is being investigated by City Council.

City Administrator C. W. R. Harper and the director of works, S. C. de Grott were authorized to contact the Kinsmen to see if the club wishes to participate with the city on the cost of installing receptacles.

The action was approved after recommendations from the works, utilities and services committee, which also had advised J. W. Steed that his complaint on littered streets would be acted upon.

As a result of a letter to council from Notre Dame University, two street lights to be installed in the university area were approved. One is for the Tenth - Elwyn Streets intersection and the other between Elwyn Street and Kokanee Avenue.

The letter also brought council's attention to an eyesore near the university in the form of an uncompleted boulevard. Engineer S. C. de Groot estimated the cost of fill for the project at $275. Council approved completion of the landscaping.

Director of Works de Groot recommended that a wall fronting 1007 Gordon Road be undertaken at an estimated cost of $175. Council approved this.

The Federal Government is not prepared to give up its land near the Nelson Bridge.

A request that the land be turned over to the city was turned down in a letter from Lucien Lalonde, deputy minister of public works. He stated "this area has been used as a departmental stores yard, and it is our intention to continue to use it for that purpose."

The city suffered five hours and 30 minutes of power circuit interruptions, all planned, according to the electricity department monthly report filed with city council.

The report mentioned that nine new customers were gained this August, bringing the city total to 3,466. North Shore claims 1034 with 414 registered on the South Shore.

Teachers' Seminar To Be Conducted

Dr. John F. Ohliger, director of continuing education at Selkirk College, will be the leader of a short seminar tonight at L. V. Rogers Senior Secondary School.

Approximately 40 instructors, professional as well as lay teachers, who will direct adult education classes of the Nelson School District during the forthcoming Fall and Winter season, are expected to attend. This seminar will deal with techniques applicable to the teaching of adults.

City Amends New Animal Control Bylaw

The third reading of the proposed Nelson animal control bylaw was rescinded Monday night by city council to permit the inclusion of new amendments and was then re-read a third time with final passage scheduled for the next regular council meeting.

Two amendments to schedule A of the bylaw were approved, the first stating "Every application for the licence of a small dog shall be accompanied by a declaration of the owner of the dog certifying that it is under 18 inches in height."

The second amendment states that "Every person who makes a false declaration pursuant to section five hereof (the first amendment) is guilty of an offence against the bylaw."

The amendments and the third reading received the unanimous approval of city council.

Two Sidewalks May Be Paved

Sidewalks on Hendryx and Josephine streets may be scheduled for paving this year. City council Monday night asked for estimates of the costs by city engineer Simon De Groot at the next regular meeting.

Under consideration will be the sidewalk on the east side of Hendryx Street, between Baker and Vernon streets, and the walk in the 600 block of Josephine Street.

Ald. Fritz Farenholtz noted that council had been trying to get the paving done for the past three years without success. He suggested that the two projects should be considered in October when the 1966 budget is reviewed if funds are available.

Tadanac Wins Safety Plaque

Tadanac was one of three British Columbia municipalities to receive a safety plaque at the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

Tadanac won the district and township trophy and the UBCM award for its safety record.

The safety programs had meant savings "not only in dollars but in misery and human suffering," J. E. Eades, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, said in presenting the plaques.

City Studies Child Care Request For Six Lots

An application from the Nelson District Child Care Society to have the city donate six lots at the northeast corner of Creek and Delbruck streets for the construction of a receiving and observation home was referred to a special committee for investigation by city council Monday night.

The city-owned property had been viewed and studied by the property committee and executive of the Child Care Society, and had been found "imminently suitable" for the building.

The Society's vice-chairman, Jan Harts, told council that the Society has been established as a charitable insitution. "We felt that the city-owned property was the most desirable of all the properties that were considered," he added.

City planner G. A. Butling told council that the six lots had an assessed value of $1,560.

A report is expected at the next regular council meeting.

Council Authorizes Work on Airstrip

A report of the work required and the cost involved in bringing the municipal waterfront airstrip up to the minimum standards required by the Department of Transport was authorized by Nelson City Council on Monday night.

Council also extended an invitation to Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi to visit the city for discussion on items of interest.

Council authorized the airstrip study by city engineer Simon De Groot after a report from the DOT had been received noting that before approval of the airstrip would be forthcoming, hangars would have to be moved back from the runway which, in turn, would have to be reoriented anti-clockwise from three to four degrees. The runway width, now 75 feet, would have to be increased to 150 feet.

The DOT also noted that the city's water airport had been approved for another one-year period. Repairs to the docking facilities were recommended.

Bylaw Okays Plastic Pipe

A new building by-law passed in City Council last week, brings Nelson up to date with developments in the plumbing industry.

For the first time, constructors of single family dwellings will be allowed to use plastic piping for drain, waste and vent in homes.

The law will make bathroom planning easier and it revokes a 1932 law that allowed the use of cast iron or copper pipes only.

Now, ABS or PVC material pipes can be used.

Reports Heard As Scouts Group Committee Meets

The group committee to the 2nd Nelson Scouts and Cubs held its first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. D. Wright. The meeting was chaired by Les Laithwaite Sr.

The various committees gave their reports and Mothers' Auxiliary president, Mrs. G. R. Norris, accepted the thanks of the Scouts, on behalf of her group, for the assistance they had given the boys and leaders privileged to attend the B.C Yukon Jamboree at Penticton this summer.

In 1967 there will be a World Jamboree in Idaho, and four provincial Jamborees, one each in Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta.

The president asked the leaders to remind their boys that some coin-operated cleaning units used perchloroethylene as the cleaning agent and that this was highly toxic. To prevent accidents all sleeping bags should be thoroughly aired after being dry cleaned.

Rev. D. Cline of the St. Paul's-Trinity United Church and Ven. Archdeacon F. D. Wyatt of the Anglican diocese have been working closely together to relieve the overcrowding at St. Paul's-Trinity. As a beginning, the Thursday night "B" Cub Pack will hold its meetings at the Anglican Hall.

Registration night for all Cubs will be on October 6 and 7 at their regular meeting hall.

Free inspection of motor vehicles, a service provided by the mobile testing unit of the Motor Vehicle Branch, will be held in Nelson October 11 to 15.

Inspections will take place on a Fairview parking lot between 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. from October 11 to 14 and on October 15 will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Superintendent of Motor Vehicles, Ray Hadfield has promoted the mobile testing program to create an awareness by the public of the need to maintain vehicles in sound mechanical condition.

Prior to inspections in Nelson the mobile unit visits Kimberley, Cranbrook and Trail.

Segregation In Schools Out

Plans to segregate the boys from the girls in Nelson Central Elementary School, have been ditched.

An imbalance of sexes entering the school, caused the plan to be cancelled, Nelson School Board, were told last night.

The boys and the girls were to have been put into different classrooms, and each group taught separately.

At their last meeting, school board were told that girls learned faster than boys in the first grades, and the elementary courses were designed more for girls than boys.

Collision Sends Two to Hospital

KASLO — Two men were taken to Kaslo Hospital, following a two-car collision 25 miles north of here Saturday night. Both cars were total wrecks.

Perry Rimple and Jim Lawrence, both of Lardeau and in the same car, were taken to Kaslo hospital suffering cuts and bruises.

The driver of the other car, Richard Alexander, Lardeau, was the lone occupant of his car and was making a left hand turn off the highway when the accident happened.

NDU Philosophy Professor Worked For Religious Tolerance in Bolivia

A philosophy instructor who surmounted intolerance, ignorance and poor health in Bolivia, has been appointed to the department of philosophy at Notre Dame University of Nelson.

Waging a battle against disease, which almost took his life, and intolerance born out of ignorance, Rubin Bonney and his family took a leading part to provide an atmosphere of religious freedom in the South American country.

His fight began in 1954 when, after receviing the bachelor of divinity degree from McMaster University in Hamilton, Ont., Bonney, his wife and two small daughters took off for Costa Rica as workers of the Canadian Baptist Overseas Missions.

They spent a year in the Spanish country learning the native tongue in preparation for their duties in La Paz, the capital of Bolovia, located 12,500 feet above sea level.

And during the following nine years the Russian born missionary, whose father was a Baptist minister, directed the Southern Cross Radio, a station established by the Canadian Baptist Church and now operated jointly by the Baptist and Methodist Churches.

FOR MINORITY GROUPS

"The station was set up primarily to promote an attitude of tolerance toward minority groups and to provide an atmosphere of acceptance for the Christian message," Bonney, who originally studied engineering and received the bachelor of engineer degree from McGill University, said of his overseas appointment.

"The main idea behind the radio station was to give Bolivia cultural, educational and religious programming of the highest possible quality. We concentrated on health education, literacy work, news, music and sports, Bonney recalled.

"My wife, who also took the Spanish course, was in charge of classical music programs and she co-operated with the production of children's and women's programs."

But coping with the actual broadcasts was only a small problem compared with the biggest obstacle — the language barrier.

"Of the 3½ million inhabitants, three million spoke the Quechua and Aymara languages and most of the remainder spoke Spanish, German and English.

ASSISTED BY CBC

"The station was assisted in its cultural programs by the Overseas Services of the CBC and the BBC of Great Britain. We also broadcast material provided by the Dutch, French and German governments through their respective embassies.

Bonney said that in Bolivia, where there is no television, most people, regardless of their economic position, have access to a radio. Therefore broadcasting was the most effective way of getting ideas across to the people.

But after nine years of coping with lack of oxygen and hepatitis, Bonney and his family (there were now three girls) finally looked towards home.

"I didn't want to go into the parish ministry although I was trained for it," he reflected. I felt I had an obligation to go outside the church and therefore I went to Hartford Seminary Foundation, which is an interdenominational institution in Connecticut, to prepare for teaching philosophy and religion."

WORKING ON M.A.

However his desire to teach in Canada (where teaching posts in philosophy and religion are rare) led to a change in plans and a year in UBC's department of philosophy for which he is at present concluding his MA work.

Reflecting on his earlier life, Bonney told of how his German parents came to the Prairies in 1927 when he was two years old. And how his father's health failed and he turned from the ministry to farming during the depression.

At grade 10 he dropped out of school and in 1943 he joined the Canadian air force. Two years later he graduated as a flight engineer and after a brief stint with the RAF Transport Command he entered McGill University and completed his junior matriculation in 10 months.

"From there I went to Sir George Williams University in Montreal and then on to McGill University for my degree.

"It was during my engineering studies that I decided people were more interesting and much more important than machines, which pretty well sums up my life till now," he concluded.

UBC Grad Named to NDU

A 23-year-old graduate from University of B.C. has been appointed laboratory assistant in the Department of Biological Sciences at Notre Dame University of Nelson.

Ken Coldwell of Kimberley graduated from the Coast university with a B. Sc. (Zoology major). The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Coldwell of Kimberley, he was born in Vancouver. A graduate of Selkirk Senior Secondary School in Kimberley, Mr. Coldwell was an honors student at UBC during his third year.

While in Kimberley, Mr. Coldwell was on the executive of the Fish and Game Branch. An avid hunter, Mr. Coldwell plans to continue his studies for his Masters degree.

Offshore Rights, Truscott Cases Before Court

OTTAWA (CP)—Two ticklish questions from the federal cabinet will help keep the Supreme Court of Canada busy during its fall term opening Oct. 4.

Under cabinet orders, the nine-man court will look into the Steven Truscott case and also give its opinion on ownership of offshore mineral rights.

The Truscott case itself could take two weeks. The court is to hear 34 witnesses starting Oct. 5 as it seeks to determine whether there was a miscarriage of justice when Truscott, then 14, was convicted in 1959 of the sex slaying of 12-year-old Lynne Harper at Clinton, Ont.

OLD ACQUAINTANCES RENEWED AT UBCM MEETING

FLEDGLING COUNCILLOR joined the pros at the annual ball during the Union of British Columbia Municipalities conference at Penticton. Former Nelsonite Angus Davis is a charter member of the Fraser Lake, B.C. council that came into being Monday with the municipalities official incorporation. The son of Mr. Angus Davis of 807 Cottonwood St., Nelson, he was attending the UBCM meeting to gain experience for his new duties, and renewed acquaintances with members of the Nelson delegation. The group are, from the left, Nelson city administrator, Reeve Harper, Ald. Jack MacMillan, Mrs. Harper, Mrs. MacMillan, Mr. Davis, Ald. Kennedy Facchina and Ald. Don Porteous.

Talks Proposed in Castlegar Civic Dispute

CASTLEGAR — Both sides of the Castlegar municipal pay dispute have agreed to hold talks in a bid to end the week-long strike that has snarled civic facilities including garbage disposal.

Representatives of the strikers, members of local 343 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, and town officials will meet at a time still to be fixed under Dick Powell, local union chief at Celgar.

Meanwhile, town officials reporting for work Monday found someone had dumped a load of garbage on the lawns in front of the town office. They put it down as the act of a crank.

Concern over possible health hazards due to the strike were expressed this weekend by Medical Health Officer Dr. Nick Schmitt.

The strike, ending its first week, affects eight municipal workers in Castlegar.

The workers agreed to make a garbage collection from the local hospital — but nowhere else.

Pressing for pay parity with their opposite numbers at Tadanac, they struck when the Castlegar council offered a three-stage pay rise which would result in parity by spring of next year.

The strike began Tuesday morning and employees have been picketing the civic offices since.

At a special meeting of the council, Mayor Bob Maddocks appealed for householders to cooperate over the disposal of garbage and prevention of litter.

He said that people were responding well to the appeal.

But Dr. Schmitt said there were a number of indirect public health problems associated with unsatisfactory garbage disposal.

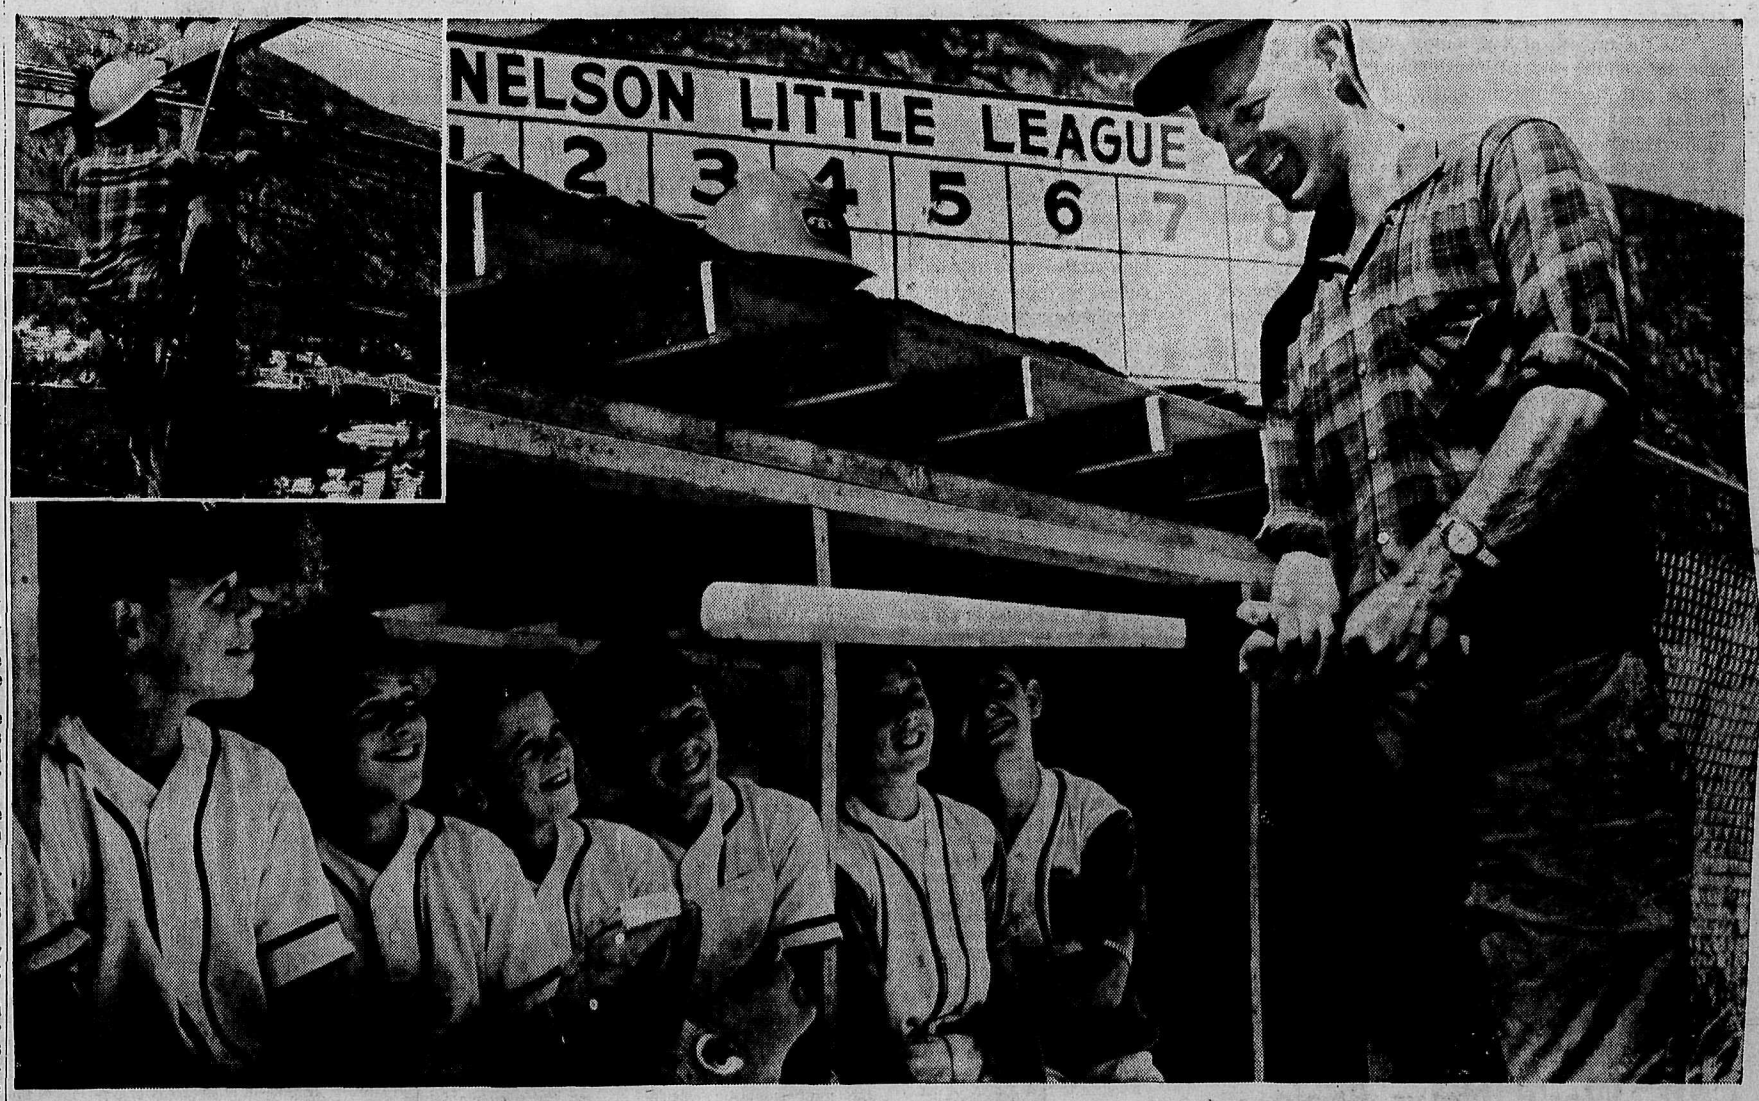
"They have excellent garbage and refuse disposal practices at Castlegar — it is regrettable that they have had to be disrupted," he said.

"The council's emergency measures are perhaps the only practical ones possible at present due to the location of the sanitary landfill in the centre of town," he added.

"However, there are many indirect public health problems associated with unsatisfactory garbage disposal. These include bad smells, fly and rodent problems, fire hazards and the problem of additional air pollution due to increased backyard burning."

Dr. Schmitt said he hoped the problem wouldn't be unnecessarily prolonged and that direct health hazards would not arise.

"I'm certain both parties involved in the controversy are fully aware of their responsibilities to the public," he said, adding that his staff would keep a close watch on the situation.



Senior Citizens Survey Suggested

CHRISTINA LAKE (Staff) — Christina Lake Senior Citizens Association, Branch No. 60, at its regular meeting at the Community Hall recently, decided the branch could not support a boarding or nursing home.

This means the fate of senior citizens will be thrown onto the shoulders of service clubs, various organiaztions, church groups, city councils and community groups, was their conclusion. A survey was suggested to find out how many are in need of this care.

A letter of interest was received from Glen Hamilton, president, School of Social Work, University of B.C. and secretary Wilfred Kelly, member of B.C. Interim Association on aging. Here is the gist of the letter:

A B.C. delegation of 30 attended a Toronto conference recently which resulted in a provincial council on aging being formed. This group is hoping to affiliate with B.C. Health and Welfare Council.

They further hope to encourage the formation of local councils and take an inventory of local resources and facilities for elderly people.

Mr. Kelly stated that these local branches might choose a representative from fraternal organizations, service clubs, ministerial associations, local Canadian Legion, old age pensioners and Senior Citizens groups.

The group feels the Boundary area is sadly lacking in housing for the needy aged.

Slides were shown by Mr. and Mrs. Axel Gronquist of their trip around B.C. Lunch was served by Mesdames Alice Berger, Annie Keffer, Josephine Tambellini and Kate Melrose.

Grand Forks . . . Forks Auxiliary Shop Success

GRAND FORKS (Staff) — Grand Forks Auxiliary to Boundary Hospital at its first meeting of the season gave a vote of thanks to those who aided the Thrift Shop project this summer.

To accommodate all the necessary articles it was suggested that a modified commodity cart along the same lines but larger than the one so popularly received during the summer be put into use.

Stock leathercraft kits for recuperating patients to purchase and assemble were suggested.

Two local business firms donated the money for a heart machine, leaving the group's funds free for the purchase of a flame-photometer. This device tests blood. Previously samples had to be sent to Trail for analysis. This machine will mean earlier treatment for patients.

Castlegar . . . "Herman" Has To Go

CASTLEGAR (Staff) — Herman, a gold-toothed cougar, and a Castlegar zoologist had to leave Alberta as the animal has no permit.

Allan Woodrow was ordered by Fish and Wildlife Branch of Department of Lands and Forests to return Herman to B.C. Mr. Woodrow, who owned a private zoo in Robson for 16 years, was in Lethbridge in connection with the establishment of a zoological garden there.

He was acting advisor there but is expected to take over the curatorship when he has found a new home for Herman.

The Lethbridge tourist and convention bureau is promoting a zoological garden and presently working to have a zoological society formed.

Lack of flags and flares for his truck netted a fine of $10 for Robert Train and John Butler was fined $10 for not havinga driver's licence. Lack of insurance cost him another $10. For speeding William Booth was fined $25 and Leonard Ingerbregson picked up a penalty of $20 for lack of insurance.

It's hard hat off, ball cap on when Lee Hyssop's work day ends

Lee Hyssop is a B.C. Telephone Company lineman. On the job, he builds telephone facilities. Off the job, he builds character in youngsters.

Take three kinds of gloves, two sets of spikes, a pair of blades, a broom and ice. Mix well with sturdy physical build, warm personality and desire to succeed.

There you have a recipe for a man—not just any man, but a man named Lee Hyssop.

It's a name with a familiar ring in Nelson and the Kootenay regions of British Columbia where many will recognize the significance of the ingredients because they know the man.

They know that as an employee of the B.C. Telephone Company he wears the climbing spikes and leather gloves of a telephone lineman, a man who builds telephone lines whether in 90-degree summer heat or in 16-below winter cold.

A Champion's Coach

They know that when he's through his workday chores in summer he puts on the spikes and glove of baseball to coach a championship Little League team, which includes one of his own four children.

They know, too, that in his off-work hours in winter he's frequently found wielding a broom at the curling club or wearing the gloves and blades of hockey as coach of a Pee Wee ice-hockey team, which also includes one of his two sons.

And, if they've followed the sports-page accounts of the senior Western International Hockey League for any length of time, they know that Lee Hyssop was league scoring champion twice during his ten years as a Nelson Maple Leaf centre.

Lee Hyssop has established himself as quite a man in the 36 years since he was born in Coalhurst, a tiny community just outside Lethbridge, Alberta. He became a hockey player while growing up in Kimberley and Nelson and as a youth played with the Lethbridge Native Son juniors. After two years with the amateur New York City Rovers, he returned to Nelson to play with the Maple Leafs.

That was in 1952. The same year, he joined the B.C. Telephone Company team as a member of the construction force. He became one of fewer than 5,300 employees with B.C. Telephone then.

The company was spending about $1 million a month throughout the province at that time to build new telephone facilities, and when Lee went to work to set poles and string telephone lines, his crew often included as many as ten men.

Today, the company is spending more than $1 million every week to construct new telephone communication facilities for British Columbians.

More Than 7,000 Employees

Lee Hyssop's work crew now numbers two —himself and a helper—who with the aid of costly machines and equipment are able to build more in less time than the larger crews of the past. Yet, the number of employees with B.C. Telephone today totals more than 7,000.

Not all of these telephone people can claim the athletic prowess of a Lee Hyssop. Nor do all of them hurry from work to the ball park or the hockey arena to guide youngsters in the skills of sport and sportsmanship as Lee Hyssop does.

Not all of them are linemen, for it takes thousands of people with dozens of different skills to operate and maintain the $450 million telephone communications network B.C. Telephone has built in this province.

But all of them are people; people with ambitions, desires, hopes and fears like anyone else; people active in their own ways in their own communities; and people not only working hard to enable B.C. Telephone to continue to provide more of the vital communications facilities which tie British Columbia together, but to do it better.

LINEMEN ARE BUILDERS

Lee Hyssop is one of eight linemen in the B.C. Telephone Company's Nelson construction force. His working territory is the West Kootenay district and his work day may find him helping to set poles by helicopter at Duncan Lake, stringing cable across the Columbia River at Castlegar, or scaling a 65-foot pole on a mountainside to maintain lines carrying not only telephone calls but radio and television programs.

More than 220 other B.C. Telephone Company linemen carry out similar tasks in other areas of the province, building and maintaining telephone facilities in cities like Prince George or Kamloops or Victoria, in villages like Atlin or Horsefly or Invermere, and throughout the rural areas.

They are telephone people helping to link telephone customers together in every part of the 96 per cent of British Columbia's 366,000-square-mile area which B.C. Telephone serves.

Get the Chiselers

Canadian charitable corporations are born, live and die in a jungle of conflicting laws. The laws are hopelessly out of date, wholly imprecise and totally confusing. That is the opinion of E. J. Mockler, assistant professor of law at the University of New Brunswick. His warning that such chaos will breed serious abuses should not go unheeded.

Ottawa is plainly not in a position to deal with the basic legal confusions over charitable corporations and foundations. The conflicts are usually between provincial laws.

For example, a charitable corporation may be formed under a provincial companies act. Has it therefore all the privileges of a corporation? When a charitable corporation is really a trust, as in various foundations, which laws are operative—those relating to trustees or those to corporations?

The two sets of laws impose quite different characteristics on the kinds of investments that can be made, on the activities of the managers, be they directors or trustees, and on the whole mixed-up situation of charities running business.

Mockler also points out that no uniform laws regulate the dissolution of charitable corporations, an area easily subject to abuse in most provinces. It is possible for people running a charitable foundation to have the charity's assets fall into the hands of waiting heirs.

Abuse of the charity laws throws a shadow on legitimate Canadian charities. They are in danger of being tainted from the dirty brush of a few.

Mockler called on the Canadian Bar Association's wills and trust section to define exactly what the various forms of charitable organizations should be able to do, and to formulate regulations. These could serve as the basis for uniform laws among all Canadian provinces.

The task is certainly worthwhile. It would complement and strengthen Ottawa's recent income tax law changes designed to bring charitable spending practices under closer supervision.—Financial Post.

Just Good Business

Nelson ratepayers on Thursday will be asked to approve a $160,000 money bylaw for the purchase of direly-needed works and firefighting equipment. For passage, the bylaw requires the approval of 60 per cent or more of the ratepayers.

Nelson City Council is showing a great deal of wisdom in proposing the purchase of this greatly needed equipment by means of a money bylaw.

Lack of good equipment is costing city taxpayers many thousands of dollars annually in both maintenance and repairs to obsolete, inefficient and dangerous equipment. Public works are curtailed to an enormous degree by the inefficiency of the present equipment, and fire protection is drastically hampered by the present inadequate . . . and unsafe . . . aerial ladder.

Purchase of the equipment through the means of a money bylaw on five year debentures will enable the city to immediately put the equipment into use, and the annual cost of the bylaw, about $38,000, will run considerably less than the cost of maintenance and repairs to the present equipment plus resulting in a more than 25 per cent increase in the work produced at no extra labor costs.

In addition, the new equipment will enable city work crews to speed up snow clearance and removal, of critical importance during the winter months.

More than a year of studies, both by the present council and last year's council, went into the decisions on what equipment should be purchased, and only machinery that was vitally needed was included.

Council spoke with one voice when the bylaw was approved. No opposition votes were cast.

There is absolutely no doubt that the equipment proposed is sorely needed. Many of the trucks and other equipment to be replaced are off the road a great percentage of the time for repairs.

By present day standards the old equipment is inefficient, and is not designed to produce the hourly work load of the proposed new machinery.

When in use this new equipment will result in more than 25 per cent more work being done per year without any added labor costs . . . and with far less repair and maintenance costs being involved.

In other words the $160,000 equipment replacement bylaw is just good business.

Nelson ratepayers should turn out in force on Thursday and throw their full support behind the purchase of this much needed equipment, and save themselves more than $7000 per year in the bargain.

How To Fix a Fender

Insurance companies regularly complain about the high cost of auto repairs, and justify premium rate increases on those grounds. But one insurer has decided to do something about it.

Travelers Insurance Co. is setting up a repair shop in Worcester, Mass. It will be designed as a showcase to demonstrate how an efficient body shop can be run. It will research new equipment, materials and techniques.

The aim is not competition with existing repair shops. On the contrary, the automotive repair industry will be advised of any improvements in repair methods developed at the shop.

Initiative like this is highly welcome. If this is a better and cheaper way to fix a fender, that's the way it should be fixed.

Why don't the Canadian insurance companies get together and invest in a similar shop. Less expensive repair methods that help reduce the insurers' payouts on claims will in turn help keep down the cost of insurance. This is the kind of bonus all auto insurance buyers would welcome.—Financial Post.

The Voice of French Canada

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal Le Devoir — For the great majority of Quebecers and French - Canadians, the constitutional fiction which makes the Queen the symbol of authority although she plays no political role does not present a serious inconvenience. The principle of the divisibility of the Crown makes the sovereign the queen of Canada, and as a result it cannot be said she is a foreign sovereign; but since she is at the same time—and principally — queen of England, the monarchical institution in Canada is a vestige of colonialism.

French-Canadians are more sensitive to this aspect of our monarchy than Canadians of British origin. . . . But it seems that in the English-speaking provinces, the young generation no longer feels for the monarchy the sentimental attachment of their elders.

In this context, what attitude should Quebec take on the subject of a visit by the Queen next year? It is rather normal that the queen of Canada come to the country for the centenary of Confederation and that she visit Expo, since 70 other heads of state are invited.

It can well be said that the trips and receptions are superfluous expenses, especially if one considers that the institution of the monarchy as it exists in Canada is an anachronism and useless. . . .

Just the same, unless our institutions are changed, the visit of the Queen next year is a reasonable thing. But on one condition, and this is that the governments abstain from using this visit for political ends.

In 1964, if the Queen had received a warm welcome at Quebec City, this could have been used as an argument to reject the legitimate demands of our province. Premier Daniel Johnson has wisely excluded any visit by the Queen to Quebec City next year. Let the reception of the sovereign at Expo be dignified and courteous, without excessive excitement, undue propaganda and political exploitation, and all will go well.

Quebec's Liberal students demand the abolition of the monarchy for next year. Without considering the reaction of the other provinces, the time is a little short. It would first be necessary to find the solution to the difficult problem of bringing our constitution to Canada. It would be a funny republic which still had to go to London for its constitutional amendments.

And to put an end to this slightly absurd practice, it is necessary first to revise the structures of our federalism and to provide for means of amendment, as well as a court or constitutional arbitrator acceptable to all parties.

For Canada, whether as a republic or a monarchy, will have to be a more supple and decentralized federation if Quebec is to stay in it.—Paul Sauriol. (Sept. 13)

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste—The scope of the victory of Mr. Smallwood, premier of Newfoundland since the entry of the former British colony into Confederation, exceeds the most optimistic calculations by observers. . . .

Smallwood is a gambler and a good one. And a gambler on whom fate bestows all her favors. It was from hardship and misery that he led Newfoundland into Confederation. But Smallwood already knew where he was going and this man, born to be a battler, had already decided to make Newfoundland his political fief. He created himself a political party, whose undisputed chief he remains. . . .

Is this Smallwood's last victory? All through the election campaign, he said he will not seek another mandate at the end of his new term of office. He will then be nearly 70. But does one ever know with this devil of a man? On the night of his victory in 1962, he expressed the hope of retiring in 1965 or 1966. He let this hope fall by the wayside. But as long as he clings to life and health, will he be able to leave politics where he has known nothing but success?

The hold Smallwood has on Newfoundlanders is explained by and dates from his province's entry into Confederation. To this poor province, to a population which was living in semi-misery, he brought social security, family allowances and old age pensions.

It was a sort of gold mine for all these good people. However, the memory of hard times is a keen one. Once again the Newfoundlanders have given Smallwood another vote of confidence.

Let us not be at all shocked. It is a way of behavior which is not unknown in the other provinces of Confederation—Hector Heroux (Sept. 10)

Montreal La Presse—A girl or boy who completes secondary school will be able to earn during a lifetime $178,000 more than the child who does not spend years studying, the U.S. labor department says. . . .

However, as Jean Marchand (federal immigration minister) said at the conference of education ministers, education "does not consist simply of showing people how to earn their living; education must do its utmost to develop the intellect in the first place."

Despite the care the minister took to establish a clear distinction between the worries of those responsible for movement of labor in Canada and the noble preoccupations of career educationists, his very presence at a meeting of educationists shows how much education and the economic future are intimately linked.

Among the numerous young members of the population, the school can do much to equip future labor to face the years to come. With a stock of knowledge becoming more important every day, longer schooling is indispensable. The jobs of the future will demand less and less physical effort and more and more learning.

Because it is in a position to follow the evolution of the world of machines and because it needs expert labor, industry has been one of the prime forces in drawing attention to the need to give youth intellectual equipment suited to the demands of the times.

Industry has also participated in training and retraining programs. Can its participation be measured in proportion to that furnished by American industry, which is known to spend more for education than all the public bodies? Signs which are only a little reassuring are seen: The gap between the level of education of labor in Canada and the United States will remain considerable for a long time and many businesses find themselves forced to import highly qualified labor from outside. . . .

Whatever the future brings, the effectiveness of the provincial councils of labor or other bodies which Quebec could institute is tied to the conviction that technical trades and technology are not contemptible. In this respect, the first change must take place in the way of thinking of the traditional elite. To a healthy mental disposition is tied a certain liberty to act which Quebec can and must keep. — Guy Cormier (Sept. 12)

Granby La Voix de l'Est—The Canadian economy is in the process of setting a number of records this year, but rising prices and costs are causing unrest, the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce says. This is to a certain extent the opinion being expressed by financiers, businessmen and the public in general.

Prices are increasing rapidly . . . and nothing indicates that this increase will slow down. On the contrary, it will accelerate unless a resolute effort is made to put an end to inflationary pressures. . . .

Mr. Sharp has said what will be done in this country. It is possible that Ottawa will also have recourse to a tax increase, but if it does not intervene in other areas of economic activity, this step will turn out to be insufficient. The consumer price index will continue to rise.

This year it has marked an increase of more than two per cent, and negotiations between management and unions have involved until now salary increases higher than last year. In short, union demands are becoming higher in proportion to the increase in prices.

We are in a vicious circle. According to union leaders, if business does not stop increasing prices, they will continue to demand more. It is surely not in this way that the country will succeed in stopping inflation. . . .

If Canadians do not show themselves more reasonable and if the state does not intervene with severe steps to master inflation, there will be bitter regret for not having had more foresight at the opportune time. It is time for the state, business and unions to present a common front against inflation. . . .—Roland Gagne (Sept. 10)

CIVIL DEFENCE

The written Municipal Disaster Plan as suggested by Civil Defence is not only invaluable in the event of emergency, but the compiling of it brings out pertinent facts that should be available even in normal times.

Probation Is Possible

Twelve years ago Britain, with a population almost three times that of Canada, had only 33,000 citizens in penal institutions. Canada had 120,000. At that time, Canada's penal system was described as one of the worst in the world and the chief cause was called its lamentable probation system.

Little has changed since that report in 1954. On a per capita basis, Canada sends two to three times as many people to prison as Britain or the United States. The unnecessary cost to the taxpayers is fantastic. The cost to human dignity is worse. Thousands of young Canadians go to jail as first offenders and come out months or years later as hardened criminals. No wonder so many repeaters are in our prisons today.

Probation is the answer. Yet Canada, and Ontario is as bad or worse as the other provinces, doesn't use the probation system nearly often enough. In 1954, for example, when a thorough study was made in this province, there were 38,000 people in our jails compared to the 33,000 in Britain. In addition, Ontario put about 3000 offenders on probation, while Britain put 40,000.

Those were the worst days, twelve years ago. More Canadians are now being put on probation, but not a quarter as many as should be. The causes for this neglect of a service that could save thousands of lives from degradation and further crime, and the taxpayers millions of dollars each year, are many.

As D. W. F. Coughlin, chief probation officer for Ontario, says his department could easily use twice the 200-odd probation officers now on staff. He said family court judges have told him "they could cut in half the number (about 1200) of juveniles committed to Ontario training schools each year if there were enough foster homes available so the youngsters could be put on probation."

Magistrates claim they would put far more juveniles and other offenders on probation if there were more probation officers available, although vicious young hoodlums will always deserve a taste of jail.

Even so, this nation's Victorian attitude toward punishment of crime (something Britain has rid itself of) is understandably the chief stumbling block. Many of those who claim that probation is the answer not only for many first offenders but for many older criminals and repeaters (jurists in Britain have come to the conclusion that probation is actually more effective for older men and repeaters than it is for first offenders) believe the public's attitude must change before probation becomes the rule rather than the exception.

We bite off our noses to spite our faces if we put people in prison who don't have to be in prison, or if we keep people behind bars longer than they have to be. We waste our own money by jailing people who could be rehabilitated if they were given a chance to mend their ways, under supervision, outside prison walls.

NATIONAL GATHERING PLACE — Tekakwitha Island, a 92-acre island in the St. Lawrence River near the Caughnawaga Indian Reserve, is being donated by the powerful Caughnawaga band as a national gathering place for Indians. French-Sjoberg Vows Exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. French

A quiet summer wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's-Trinity United Church. Rev. D. Cline officiated at the double ring ceremony when Adele Marie Sjoberg, daughter of Mrs. J. Sjoberg and the late John Sjoberg, and Edward Walter French, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. French, exchanged wedding vows. The bride, lovely in a gown of lace over peau de soie, entered the church on the arm of her brother, Daniel John Sjoberg. Attendants were Mrs. Louise Scheldrup, sister of the bride as matron of honor and best man was Mr. Jack French, brother of the groom. A small family reception was held later at the home of the bride's mother. The couple then left for a honeymoon trip to Lake Tahoe and Reno.

Altar Guild Enjoys Potluck

A potluck supper at the home of Mrs. Duncan Smith started the Altar Guild group of St. Saviour's Women into their Fall season. There were 15 members attending and a former member, Mrs. V. Fink, as guest.

Letters were read from Mrs. D. Turner of Trail and Mrs. R. W. S. Brown of Revelstoke, with good wishes for the group and a description of their new homes.

Arrangements were made for decorating the church for the Harvest Thanksgiving on Oct. 2, at which date Dean Brown hopes to be in attendance. Mrs. V. Blakeman is to provide grapes and Mrs. E. Bostock the loaf of bread for the altar.

Groups were assigned their weeks of work till November. There is to be no meeting in October.

Directress Miss E. Hamson said a few words of appreciation for the help of Mrs. F. Davis, the secretary, who is leaving Nelson to live in Vancouver, and presented her with a silver bracelet from the members along with a farewell card, signed by the group members. Mrs. Davis expressed her thanks and said she had enjoyed her friendship with the members and would miss them. Miss Hazel Rapley is to act as secretary until December.

Guides Plan For Centennial

The West Kootenay area Girl Guides are swinging into action with plans for a full year of special events to celebrate centennial in 1967.

Plans are now under way at Camp Rory and at Heritage Camp, the theme of all events planned is the history of our own locality, the West Kootenay, our peculiar music, dancing and handicrafts.

Eight girls will represent each company, ranging in age from 10 to 14 for Guides and 14 to 18 for Rangers. The Brownies, who are too young for overnight camping, are to take part in the centennial celebrations and "day rallies".

Gladioli in Autumn tints graced St. Saviour's Pro-Cathedral for a lovely afternoon wedding when Carole Anne Newby and Robert John William Treadaway exchanged nuptial vows before Archdeacon F. D. Wyatt.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Cecil R. Newby of Nelson and the late Mr. Newby, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Treadaway of North Surrey.

The charming brunette bride, clad in an empire gown of silk-faced peau d'ange with guipure lace trim, aproached the altar on the arm of her brother, Mr. Donald Newby of Lethbridge. The neckline of her sleeveless sheath was trimmed with lace and the coat was fashioned with a cathedral train falling from the neckline and lily point sleeves. Her headpiece, a semi-crown of peau d'ange covered with matching lace held her four-tiered shoulder-length veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was of white roses enhanced with satin ribbons and pearls and she wore a family heirloom pearl necklace.

Mrs. Beverley Morrison of Calgary, as matron of honor, chose a full-length gown of bronze satin, styled on empire lines. A semi-crown of matching satin held her wist of a veil and she carried a bouquet of bronze and orange baby mums, highlighted with bronze ribbon.

Miss Jennifer and Miss Maureen Treadaway, sisters of the groom, wore outfits identical to the matron of honor. Little Miss Lynne Ptacek as flower girl was a miniature of the senior attendants.

Mr. Clinton Edwardson of Squamish, attended the groom and Mr. John Labarge and Mr. Laurent Collins were ushers.

During the signing of the register Miss Kathleen Murison sang "The Lord's Prayer", accompanied at the organ by Mrs. W. A. Manson, who also played the wedding music.

Master of ceremonies at the reception was the groom's uncle, Mr. Robert Beech and telegrams were read from England, Montreal and Winnipeg. The reception hall was bright with 'mums and gladioli in fall shades of bronze and yellow and following the cutting of the cake the bridal couple passed it among their guests.

The bride's mother chose a dress of grey lace over pink silk, complemented by pink accessories and corsage of gardenia and pink roses. For her son's wedding Mrs. Treadaway donned a beige two-piece lace outfit with orange accessories and corsage similar to that of the bride's mother.

The bride presented her bouquet to her mother to place on her father's grave.

For their wedding trip to Banff, Calgary and Lake Louise the bride changed to a navy dress and suit coat with navy and rose accessories and corsage of roses.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. Treadaway, Mrs. L. Treadaway, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wicks and Colin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sturgess, Mr. and Mrs. R. An enjoyable cultural program, "Stage Make-Up", was skillfully demonstrated by Mrs. D. Pearce, who, through deft strokes of fingers and brush, transformed Mrs. D. Johnson, Mrs. B. Ferguson and Mrs. G. Bush into characters depicting a pussy-cat, an elderly woman and an Oriental woman.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess Mrs. B. Ferguson.

Harrop WI Plans Bazaar

hints from Heloise

Dear Folks:

I'd like to pass along some hints on sewing PLASTIC, which we just learned from a manufacturer.

Do not pin plastic as the material will get pin holes which cannot be removed. Mark it with chalk or crayon.

Use a FINE needle when sewing it.

Last, but far from least (and we've said it before), NEVER put plastic directly on wood. Eventually, it will ruin the finish of your furniture.

So be sure to remember these little tips when you're using those wonderful plastics.

DEAR HELOISE:

I also take a nap when I put my boys down for theirs.

I use a wide headband as a blindfold! Any dark color will do.

It makes it so nice and dark you will think it is night.

It's easy to get to sleep that way if you have trouble sleeping during the day.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have an urge to slipcover a chair with something IMPRACTICAL, go ahead and do it!

Just remember to place the chair where the family is unable to watch television whil sitting in it.

It will stay nice almost indefinitely!

DEAR HELOISE:

I am forever copying recipes, and I save time by numbering the ingredients.

When writing the directions, I simply refer to the ingredients by number instead of writing out all the words again.

DEAR HELOISE:

I use a spray bottle of water in the nursery to dampen a washcloth instead of running for a wet one at diaper changes.

I also save empty powder boxes for the nursery. I think it is much easier to puff powder on the baby instead of sprinkling it on.

The puff stops powder build-up in the creases of skin because you can apply it more evenly.

Naturally, I fill the box with baby powder.

DEAR HELOISE:

When painting, I use an old soup ladle to dip my paint out of the gallon can into the paint tray or smaller can.

No more paint around the edge or down the sides of the can, and the lid is easier to close.

The excess paint can be removed from the ladle with the brush you are using.

Also, I tape a brush to a yardstick to reach the edge around the ceiling.

DEAR HELOISE:

My dresser was always messy with powder and make-up until I put a guest towel in the top drawer.

The towel is spread over the dresser while I'm using powder and is easily folded and put back in the drawer.

Result—a clean dresser.

DEAR HELOISE:

Grandparents, save those little comments your sons and daughters make about their children when they write to you.

Make a scrapbook of them with the date of each comment.

With three small children I find myself reporting their progress in letters to my parents, but neglecting to put it all down in their baby books.

It won't be too long before I would dearly love a present like that.

Royals Enthusiasm High Play Host To Drumheller

Hockey enthusiasm in Cranbrook is high as the Cranbrook Royals enter their second season in the Western International Hockey League. By the middle of September, some 300 season tickets had been sold with little promotion, 100 more than last year. All but three of last year's squad hit the ice when training camp opened September 21.

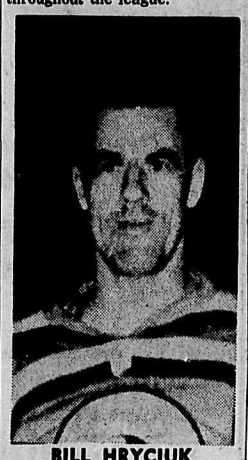
Captain George Gibson is working on one of the dam projects in the hinterlands and first-string forwards Ron 'Spike' Huston and Ed 'Sugar' Maher were invited to Seattle Totems pro training camp. At least five proven players have moved into the East Kootenay city during the summer and are trying out for spots on the club. The player committee has been active contracting and negotiating with players in Canada and the U.S.

The Royals were accepted into the WIHL in the summer of 1965, despite rumored opposition from the five member clubs in the league. Bill Hryciuk, who himself had been a star forward in the Okanagan in the 1950's took on the job as coach of the team.

The Royals lost their first game 8-0 to the Dynamiters in Kimberley, wearing borrowed pants. They soon got their own pants, but still continued to lose, but put up a battle in doing so.

During the 50-game schedule, the Royals won only seven games at the expense of Trail Smoke Eaters, Rossland Warriors and first-place Spokane Jets. The worst beating they took was a 16-1 drubbing at the hands of the Dynamiters before a packed-house in Cranbrook.

Despite the losses, the Royals gained the respect of their fans, opposing players and the admiration of hockey executives throughout the league.



BILL HRYCIUK

They won this respect wherever they played because they dug in with dogged determination and provided the one thing any spectator anywhere pays his admission to see — good entertainment.

This season the Royals have a new coach — 28-year-old Chuck Passmore who played the last three years with the Dynamiters. Chuck lives in Kimberley but works in Cranbrook and knows he has taken on a tough assignment with the Royals. The fans will be demanding a better won-lost record but will also want to see the same colorful and enthusiastic display on the ice as the fledgling Royals gave them last year.

Another man in the hot seat will be general-manager Ed Mountain who took over the trouble-riddled club near mid-season last year and straightened out many of its growing-pain problems. Club president Lloyd Hoole is banking largely on Eddy to help the club wipe out the $8,000 deficit the Royals incurred in their first year of operation.

The Royals executive was given a vote of confidence by the fans at the annual meeting this year — all directors who stood for re-election were voted back in. New faces in the administration this year include last year's Booster Club spark-plug Bob Hockley and new treasurer Keith Reeves.

The first hockey for Cranbrook fans will be provided Saturday, when the Allan Cup champion Drumheller Miners meet the Royals in an exhibition game. All indications point toward a sellout.

ATLANTA (AP) — Catcher Joe Torre of Atlanta Braves will be sidelined probably for the remainder of the season, the Braves announced Monday night.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION PLANS 1966-'67 SEASON

The Kootenay Secondary Schools Athletic Association held its annual meeting last week with three members of the Nelson schools filling the executive posts. Jim Todd of L. V. Rogers was named president; Dick Bradshaw of Trafalgar Junior High was elected vice-president and Ruth O'Bryan of L. V. Rogers was voted secretary.

This year the league has formed a group of small schools — those which do not register grade 10's — for tournaments to alleviate the problem of extremely large junior tournaments.

The first tournaments of the season will be in grass hockey with the seniors playing at Castlegar, October 22. Schools with no grade 10 play in Fruitvale, October 22 and schools with grade 10 are at Salmo October 15.

Soccer tournaments are being played at Kinnaird and Castlegar October 15 for juniors and October 22 for seniors.

Both Nelson schools are scheduled to host one tournament. Trafalgar will be the site of the wrestling tournament on February 18 for the entire league. L. V. Rogers will stage the junior basketball tournament on March 4. Several tournament dates and sites have not yet been settled, including skiing and cross-country.

Notre Dame Upsets Savoys in City Play

Last Saturday the City Soccer League played its first two games, the Savoy Juniors playing Columbia College, and Notre Dame University meeting Savoy Seniors.

In the first game, a valiant young Columbia College squad put up a good fight in the first half against the Savoy Juniors. The Savoys scored two quick goals in the first few minutes of the game, but the Columbia College came back immediately with two of their own to tie the score. Both teams playing outstanding defensive soccer and held each other scoreless until the more experienced Savoys broke through and added two more markers to the half time tally.

In the second half, the stronger Savoy Juniors, conditioned by season long league competition, took advantage of the weakening college team and blasted home eight unanswered goals, making the final score 12-2.

The second game proved to be an upset, when a surprisingly strong Notre Dame squad managed to defeat the Savoy Seniors by the tune of 2-1 — a well deserved victory.

The Notre Dame club started fast and furious, pinning the Savoys down in their own territory. A penalty kick awarded to the Notre Dame team was converted expertly putting them ahead 1-0 and minutes later on a fine wing play they scored again.

Notre Dame's goalkeeper made the key-save of the afternoon in the second half when he stopped a booming shot from point blank range and made another spectacular save on a long wing shot. Despite desperate efforts, the Savoys could manage only one goal against the strong Notre Dame defence.

League standing:

	W	L	Pt	Go
Savoy Juniors	1	0	2	12-2
Notre Dame	1	0	2	2-1
Savoy Seniors	0	1	0	1-2

LA's Magic Number—4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles Dodgers opened their National League lead to 2½ games Monday night with a 6-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals while second-place Pittsburgh Pirates dropped a 5-4 decision to Philadelphia Phillies in 11 innings.

Claude Osteen won his 17th game and reliever Phil Regan saved his 17th as the Dodgers reduced their margin number for clinching the pennant to four. Any combination of Dodger tories or Pirates defeats, totalling four gives Los Angeles its second straight flag.

Ron Fairly whacked a two-run homer and Lou Johnson had a solo shot for the Dodgers, who defeated 20-game winner Bob Gibson.

John Briggs beat the Pirates for Philadelphia with a two-out single in the 11th after Billy O'Dell had yielded two-out walks to Bill White and Harvey Kuenn, loading the bases. Dick Groat, an ex-Pirate, started the winning rally with a one-out single.

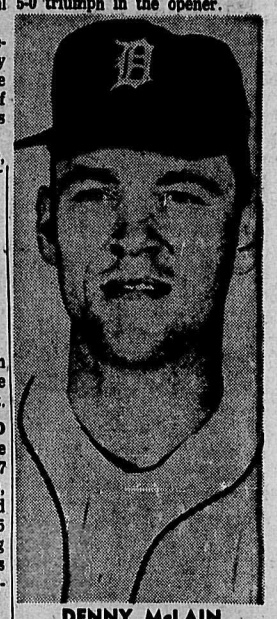
CLENDENON STRONG

Donn Clendenon, who smacked a two-run homer earlier in the game, tied it for the Pirates with a two-out double in the eighth. Slugging Pittsburgh outfielder Willie Stargell injured his right knee on a slide in the first inning and was forced to leave the game.

San Francisco Giants kept their slim pennant hopes alive with an 8-2 triumph over Atlanta Braves as Juan Marichal won his 24th.

Tom Haller cracked a three-run homer and Willie McCovey added a two-run shot as the Giants remained four games off the pace. San Francisco has five games left to play.

In the American League, Washington Senators and Boston Red Sox split a double-header before only 485 paying customers in the nation's capital. Don Lock hit a two-run homer that gave the Senators a 3-2 victory in the second game after Darrell Brandon's seven-hitter provided Boston with a 5-0 triumph in the opener.



DENNY McLAIN
. . . wins 20th

Denny McLain won his 20th game of the season as Detroit Tigers edged California Angels 2-1 at Anaheim, Calif. McLain joins five other major league pitchers with 20 victories. He now has a 20-13 record.

Saskatchewan Dumped Again As Ottawa Takes 18-8 Win

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders scored early and late to defeat Saskatchewan Roughriders 18-8 in a Canadian Football League interlocking game Monday night.

Ottawa struck for a first-quarter touchdown on a 41-yard off-tackle run by fullback Jim Dillard and finished with a three-yard touchdown run by halfback Bo Scott on the final play play of the game.

Tackle Moe Racine booted a 13-yard field goal and a single as well as two converts. Flanker Hugh Campbell scored an unconverted touchdown for Saskatchewan. The Western Conference club also had a safety.

Scott's touchdown trigged a mob scene on the field as hundreds of the 22,954 spectators poured from the stands. Both teams cleared their benches and headed for the dressing room, but referee Seymour Wilson managed to clear the field in about five minutes and the teams returned for the convert.

WESTERN CLUB WAS TIRED

Saskatchewan, showing the effects of its Saturday night 29-7 loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats, mounted only one sustained drive in the game, moving 75 yards in six plays and ending with a 21-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Ron Campbell.

Saskatchewan's second-quarter safety touch followed an Ottawa fumble, which Ottawa recovered behind the goal line.

The win extended Ottawa's first-place lead in the Eastern Conference to four points over second-place Hamilton.

Saskatchewan still leads the Western Conference by three points.

Ottawa's attack was hurt by spotty passing by quarterback Russ Jackson while Saskatchewan missed the power running of fullback George Reed, who suffered a bruised thigh Saturday night.

MADE BRIEF APPEARANCE

Reed appeared briefly in the last quarter, but carried the ball only twice for short yardage. His replacement, Henry Dorsch, did a good job filling in but without Reed's blocking Lancaster had to scramble on most occasions to get his passes away.

Lancaster managed to complete 11 of 21 passes for 156 yards but had three intercepted. Saskatchewan added 139 yards on the ground, led by Dorsch with 85 yards in 14 carries and halfback Paul Dudley with 56 on 10.

Jackson, who failed to complete a pass in six attempts in the first half, finished the game with seven completions on 19 attempts for 91 yards. Punter Bill Cline missed on a pass after he had to chase a bad third-down snap and halfback Ron Stewart completed his only pass—a 33-yard sideline toss to Jackson.

Dillard, with 114 yards in 14 carries, accounted for more than half of Ottawa's 202 yards in rushing.

Campbell was Lancaster's favorite target and grabbed five passes for 55 yards despite close covered by the Ottawa defenders. His touchdown pass was his 15th of the season, leaving him one shy of the CFL record held by Ernie Pitts of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

44 Qualify For Open While Top Pros Rest

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seattle amateur Mike Reasor and professional Dick Lytle of Chula Vista, Calif., blazed around the Point Grey golf course in six-under-par 66s Monday to lead 44 golfers qualifying for this week's $100,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

But all were not so fortunate.

Among those who flunked the 76 passing mark were Ontario amateur champion Doug Mossop of Toronto, and Vancouver pro Lyle Crawfrd. Twenty-five other hopefuls were also eliminated.

For the 100 top touring pros and amateurs exempted from the qualifying round, the day's menu consisted of practice, fishing and generally loafing around with more of the same laid on for today.

Lytle went out and back with identical 33s while Reasor took a 36 on the front nine but recovered with a fine 30 on the back nine.

The qualifying rounds were played at Point Grey all day Monday while the neighboring Shaughnessy Golf and Country Club, site of the Canadian Open, was turned over to practice rounds.

Professional Dale Douglass (CCT) of Denver was third among the qualifiers with a 67 while amateur Curt Siegel of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Hugh Royer of Columbus, Ohio, carved out identical 68s.

Doug Sanders, winner of this year's Hope Desert classic and the Jacksonville and Greensboro, Opens, practiced Sunday and Monday and pronounced the 6807-yard, 71-par Shaughnessy layout a "classic course."

The gently-rolling course lies alongside the Fraser River in the fashionable Marine Drive area of Vancouvr.

Many of the touring pros arrived Sunday and Monday fresh from the Seattle-Everett Open in Washington State.

Among them was rookie Homero Blancas, who won $6,000 and got his maiden victory in the event.

NICKLAUS WILL WAIT

Jack Nicklaus was among the pros who felt Wednesday's Pro-Am event would provide the only reconnaisance of the course needed.

Each professional will play with three amateurs, who paid $200 each for the game. Amateurs receive full handicap and the best ball score is expected to be about 14 under par.

Hollywood personalities including Bing Crosby, Rod Sterling, and Jim Backus will be among those competing in the Pro-Am.

Draw for both the Pro-Am and Open will be held tonight.

Billy Casper, a recent convert to the Mormon faith, preached Sunday at a local Mormon church and later turned down an invitation from photographers for picturing-taking on the course.

"Not on the sabbath," he said. "I play in competition on Sundays but that's my livelihood."

The Open will consist of 72 holes of medal play. If a tie develops it will be settled in an 18-hole playoff Monday.

The winner will collect $20,000, with $12,000 going to second place. The field will number 144 on the first two days, but will be pared to the low 70 and ties for the last two days.

Gene Littler of La Jolla, Calif., is defending champion.

Committee To Look Into Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—The North American Soccer League appointed a three-man committee Monday to look into a possible expansion or merger with the National Professional League.

Robert A. Hermann, president of the National League, last week dismissed as speculation talk of such a merger, but a North American Soccer League spokesman said his group had not been informed of such a statement.

James McGuire of New York, North American League president, appointed George C. Flehartly of San Francisco, Jack Kent Cooke of Los Angeles and Brig. E. C. Ekins of Vancouver, to the committee "to meet with the non-sanctioned league and other interested parties with a view toward expansion."

TO BEGIN IN SPRING

McGuire also announced the North American League now plans to begin operation next spring with a series of international matches. The National Professional League plans to begin operation about the same time.

The North American League is sanctioned by the group governing world soccer, the FIFA. The National League is not.

Retouching Necessary For Hockey

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The portrait of hockey will need retouching if the National Hockey League is to tap fields in the United States for its future player needs, says Tommy Williams, Boston Bruins' centre.

Williams, only U.S. - born player in the NHL, said in an interview Monday American parents see hockey players as "guys with no teeth and scars all over the face."

"It gripes me that parents think like that," Williams said. "If they could share some of my experiences in hockey and see really what the game is all about, they'd change their thinking."

What has hockey done for the blonde - haired Minnesota native?

"Hockey has fulfilled a long-standing ambition of mine to play in the National League," he said. "It's a tremendous game and I'm grateful of having the opportunity to play it.

CAHA Faces Strong Attack From Commissioner Boucher

REGINA (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has no right under Canadian law to barter the lives of young hockey players, says Frank Boucher, commissioner of the Canadian Major Junior Hockey League.

"Each boy is entitled to live his life and play hockey wherever he and his parents choose he should play," he said in a prepared statement Monday. "There is no law . . . which forces a boy to play under CAHA jurisdiction if he or his parents decide otherwise."

Boucher was commenting on a statement Friday by Fred Page, CAHA president, that he saw no alternative to the CAHA's suspending from play anywhere in Canada any player who joined a team in the newly-formed CMJHL.

Page, speaking at the annual meeting of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, said the CMJHL, made up of teams from Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Moose Jaw, Weyburn, Saskatoon and Estevan, is not recognized by the CAHA.

The CAHA executive will meet Oct. 8 in Toronto to discuss the league.

Boucher said the league has been approved by the Saskatchewan and Alberta branches of the CAHA under the CAHA's constitution.

Frank Germann of Wilcox, Sask., SAHA president, said Page's statement was "another case of someone saying something at the wrong time and place."

Robinson Well On Way To First Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — A .422 batting performance last week has virtually assured Frank Robinson of becoming the first major leaguer to win a triple crown in 10 years.

The Baltimore Orioles slugger had 10 hits in 22 times at bat while the Orioles were clinching the American League pennant. It lifted Robinson's batting average six points to .316.

Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins, defending titleholder who led by one point a week ago, slipped into the runner-up spot. His average fell four points to .307, the result of only four safeties in 21 tries.

Robinson holds a commanding lead in home runs and runs batted in.

He claimed four homers and drove in 13 runs last week, boosting his totals to 49 homers and 120 RBI.

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota is second in home runs with 36. Boog Powell, another Orioles' slugger, is No. 2 in RBI with 107.

The figures include Sunday's games.

Matty Alou of Pittsburgh continues to lead the National League in batting. He lost one point to .346 last week, collecting eight hits in 24 attempts. However, he leads brother Felipe Alou of Atlanta Braves by 15 points.

Hank Aaron of Atlanta remained the NL's home run and RBI leader. He had three homers and six runs batted in last week, giving him season totals of 42 home runs and 122 RBI.

Merger Bill Halfway

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to legalize the proposed merger of the National and American Football Leagues zipped across the congressional 50-yard line Monday with the speed of a swift halfback but faces a strong secondary before it crosses the goal line.

The Senate passed without debate and sent to the House a bill to exempt from anti-trust laws steps taken to combine the two professional football leagues.

In the House, however, action is expected to be slow.

Rep. Emanuel Cellar, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said:

GORDIE HOWE

DETROIT (AP) — Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, who suffered a sprained left knee in a practice Sunday, will be sidelined for about a week and is expected to miss the team's first three exhibition games, the National Hockey League club announced Monday.

A Red Wings official said it had been thought Howe would be able to return to action in two to three days. A closer examination prompted doctors to advise Howe to stay off the leg for a longer period.

ED GIACOMIN

Netminder Ed Giacomin and defenceman Wayne Hillman have signed 1966-67 contracts with New York Rangers, the National Hockey League club announced Monday. Giacomin was obtained from Providence Reds prior to last season and was the Rangers number one goaltender until he faltered around mid-season. Cesaire Maniago finished the schedule as the top goalie for New York and is in the best position to retain the spot this season.

KELOWNA (CP)—Students at Winfield, 20 miles north of here, were let out of school again Monday to help in the harvest of apples in the face of a shortage of pickers. The 50 students were first called out last Thursday.

Blue Bombers Seek Revenge

WINNIPEG (CP) — An offence that wilted for three games before responding to a liberal injection of criticism, wants to prove tonight that Winnipeg Blue Bombers' 43-9 romp over Toronto Argonauts last week was no mirage.

And the Blue Bombers hope to use the crippled Calgary Stampeders to prove the point. The Stampeders, though wracked by injureis, held the Blue Bombers' ground attack to a minus 36 yards 10 days ago en route to an 11-8 upset victory over Winnipeg.

The loss to Calgary brought out the Bomber headhunters en masse and the victory over the Argos hasn't completely appeased them.

The victory over Toronto was good enough, however, to make coach Bud Grant stick with the combination for this important Western Football Conference contest.

He adds the Bombers weren't as good against Toronto as the scoreboard indicated.

"We weren't that good but there were some fine individual efforts."

COOPER NOW SHARP

One of those individuals was Billy Cooper, the boy wonder-turned-bench warmer who has come into his own again. Cooper pulled in seven passes against Calgary and took in five over double-teaming Toronto defenders.

Another Bomber likely to give Stampeders nightmares is Dave Raimey, who seems fit after a series of troublesome leg injuries.

That should be enough for any coach to worry about but Jerry Williams is bringing a whole contingent of walking wounded to bolster his depleted roster.

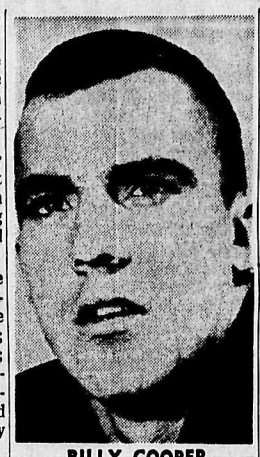
Held together with casts, tape and desire are: Frank Andruski, dislocated elbow; Dale Parsons, bruised shoulder; Howard Starks, bruised knee; Bob Lueck, dislocated shoulder; Willie Ross, severe charleyhorse; Frank Budd, pulled hamstring muscle; and Jerry Keeling, injured ankle.

Staying at home is Gerry Shaw, scheduled for an operation Wednesday to repair torn knee cartileges.

General manager Roger Lehew said 17 Canadians and all 14 imports are in line for the game, but wondered how long some of them could play.

Calgary, which wrew an 18-18 tie with Edmonton Eskimos Saturday, needs a win to keep its playoff hopes alive—the team is only three points in front of the cellar-dwelling B.C. Lions.

Bombers, too, are anxious for a victory after front-running Saskatchewan Roughriders dropped a 29-7 decision to Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday to keep them in range.



BILLY COOPER

Saskatchewan has played 10 games for 14 points, Edmonton is second with 11 points in 11 games and Winnipeg has 10 points in nine games.

The non-televised game starts at 8 p.m. CDT.

REGISTRATION UP

VANCOUVER (CP) — Registration at the University of B.C. increased by nearly 900 students more than last year, it was reported Monday. A total of 17,233 students registered.

Handicapper Charged For Fraud Try

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted a former newspaper racing handicapper Monday on charges of conspiring to defraud the United States by getting other persons to cash his winning pari-mutuel twin-double tickets at Yonkers Raceway.

One of the cashers of winning tickets also was indicted.

The defendants are Ernest Dahlman Jr., 23, of Commack, N.Y., part owner of six trotters and formerly a handicapper for the New York Post, and Herbert Gold, 51, of Brooklyn.

The newspaper said Dahlman had worked a special handicapper on twin doubles.

The indictment alleged the defendants had schemed to give false information that would conceal Dahlman's winnings, around $83,000 in 1964, from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau observed there have been about 35 arrests since last September in a 14-month investigation of activities at Yonkers Raceway.

Fun Over, Fight Starts For Spots On Canadiens

RALPH BACKSTROM YVON COURNOYER

MONTREAL (CP)—The easy atmosphere that permeated Montreal Canadiens training camp last Friday and Saturday evaporated Monday, as the 58 players began fighting for a spot on the big team.

Coach Toe Blake divided the players into four squads in twice-a-day practice games.

Saturday night the Canadiens take up where they left off last season, when they meet Detroit Red Wings in an exhibition game at the Forum.

After the first serious workouts several members of last year's Stanley Cup champions stood out.

Defencemen Terry Harper and Noel Price, forwards Jim Roberts Ralph Backstrom and Yvan Cournoyer, all appeared sharp. Lorne (Gump) Worsley and Charlie Hodge, last season's netminders, also were in good form.

In one intra-squad game, Price and Backstrom scored a pair of goals each, while Roberts and Cournoyer both skated miles and each scored once.

One newcomer seeking a berth is Pat Quinn, a giant defenceman obtained from the Wings in the summer draft.

Quinn, a former Edmonton junior star, started the day well as he bowled over several of last year's stars. He bumped winger Dick Duff with a combination check and football block that had the veteran muttering for minutes.

Mudra Plans No Changes For Clash With B.C. Lions

MONTREAL (CP) — Head coach Darrell Mudra of Montreal Alouettes watched his next opponents—B.C. Lions—on television Sunday and did some closer watching on film Monday, but so far he hasn't seen anything that will make him change his plans.

The Western Football Conference Lions dropped a close 29-27 decision to Toronto's Argonauts Sunday and meet the Als here tonight in a non-televised game.

"Our game plans are pretty well set," Mudra said. "I watched the game Monday and we've been looking at some film."

Mudra said the Als game preparation has been "good" for this one and he feels any last minute change will only upset the pattern he has established in the Montrealers 10-day layoff.

The Als are currently in third spot in the Eastern Conference, nursing a 3-5 record and six points, just a scant two more than the Argos. B.C., is resting in last place in the west with a 2-7 mark.

STILL NOT READY

Mudra said Donnie Davis will be moved outside even though fullback J. W. Lockett won't be back against the Lions. Lockett broke his arm in the season-opener against Ottawa Rough Riders and will remain on the injury reserve list for another 10 days.

"We'll use Davis primarily on the outside, which will make him more of a threat," Mudra said.

Davis' spot at slotback will be taken over by end Mike Gibbons, while Gerry Sternberg and Peter Kempf will share the flanker chores.

George Bork is likely to get the starting assignment at quarterback, with Bernie Faloney being pushed to the fore if the slender Bork fails to move the team.

"We'll dress both of them and we'll follow no set pattern in how we use them," Mudra said.

Soccer Riot Injures Dozens

BOGOTA (Reuters) — Dozens of persons were injured, including two with bullet wounds, when angry soccer fans clashed with police at Barranquilla about 500 miles north of this Colombian capital Sunday, reliable reports said here Monday.

The reports said there was a near-riot among the 17,000 fans after the referee disallowed a goal scored by the home side, Atletico Junior, in their match against Cucuta Deportivo.

Grenoble Appears Ready For 1968 Winter Games

By HARVEY HUDSON

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — After almost three years of planning, a few months of local political squabbles and a tremendous face-lifting effort, Grenoble now is certain that everything will be ready in time for the 1968 Winter Olympic Games.

Great open gashes at mountainside sports sites and roads where traffic is strangled during re-modelling operations testify to the progress that has been made and the distance still to go.

To get the feel of Olympic competition, three weeks of pre-Olympic activity have been scheduled during January and February. Speed skating, hockey, nordic skiing, alpine skiing, luge races and the world bobsled championships are scheduled.

The 1967 bobsled championships will provide an innovation that may be carried over to the Olympics—all the championship runs will be held at night to eliminate delay because of ice melting in the sun.

The bobsled training and championship races will be held Jan. 30-Feb. 12. Luge races will be held Jan. 30-Feb. 5 at Villard de Lane with part of the competition at night.

RACE AT NIGHT

If these preliminary tests are successful, all the luge and bobsled races during the Olympics may be scheduled for night.

The speed skating competition will be Jan. 20-22 in Grenoble on the new speed skating circuit, the first to be built in France.

The new ice palace that will be used for figure skating and hockey during the Olympics now is a great mass of scaffolding. This modernistic structure, which will seat 12,000, is scheduled for completion in June, 1967.

An alpine ski competition is scheduled Feb. 16-19 and the 70-metre ski jumping platform at Autrans will get a tryout in February. The 90-metre jump at Saint Hizier should be in shape by Feb. 8 when the jumping is scheduled.

The nordic skiing will be held Feb. 8-13 on the Vercors Plateau around Autrans.

Pirates' Pitchers Complaining

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two of Pittsburgh Pirate's top pitchers — Bob Veale and Vernon Law — are complaining about aches and pains as the Pirates drive down to the wire in the tight National Baseball League pennant race.

Veale, scheduled to go tonight against Philadelphia Phillies, said Monday his back has been bothering him for a week or more.

Veale, the ace of the Pirate staff with a 15-12 record, said he hurt the back while "running around one day and stepped into a hole."

Bristol Fourth Cincinnati Manager in Three Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Bristol, a man who doesn't believe in fooling around, was named Monday to be Cincinnati Reds' fourth manager in the last three seasons.

Bristol took over as interim manager July 13 when William O. DeWitt, president and general manager of the National League baseball team, fired Don Heffner.

DeWitt announced at a news conference that the 33-year-old Bristol would command the Reds next year.

The appointment leaves him the youngest manager in the major leagues.

When Bristol took over the Reds, they were in eighth place with a 37-46 record. The team had just snapped an 11-game losing streak and went on to win most of its games in July and August, but has been doing poorly in September. The Reds now are seventh with a 74-80 record.

Controversy Marks Diefenbaker Reign in 10 Years' Leadership

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Public controversy involving the Conservative national leader and the party's national president seems to be a common feature of John Diefenbaker's 10 years in the leadership.

There has been controversy between Mr. Diefenbaker and nearly all the men who held the national presidency in that period, and also with one who was president before the Diefenbaker years.

The latest controversy centres on the call of President Dalton Camp for the party to reappraise its leadership, either confirming or replacing Mr. Diefenbaker.

He plans to seek a second term of office as president on the platform of a need for a leadership convention, which can be called only at the behest of the PC Association's annual meeting. The meeting is scheduled for Nov. 13-16 here.

The list of Mr. Camp's predecessors is studded with names of men who ran afoul of the leader on one issue or another.

RAISED NUCLEAR ARMS

—Egan Chambers, former Montreal MP and president from January, 1963, until Mr. Camp's election in February, 1964, fell out with Mr. Diefenbaker over the issue of nuclear arms.

He had been parliamentary secretary to former defence minister Douglas Harkness and supported Mr. Harkness' stand for acceptance of nuclear arms by the then Diefenbaker government. Mr. Harkness resigned from the cabinet on the issue.

Mr. Chambers' candidacy for president in 1963 pitted him against Preston Gilbride, 51, a Toronto insurance executive generally regarded as Mr. Diefenbaker's preference.

Mr. Chambers' predecessor for two terms was Senator G. S. Thorvaldson, a Winnipeg corporation lawyer, who began his term as a Diefenbaker man. But in 1965, he was among those who favored the holding of a leadership convention and a change in leadership.

The issue was fought out at a national executive meeting behind closed doors. Senator Thorvaldson was out of the country by the time the meeting took place.

REJECTED PROPOSAL

The executive voted against proposing a leadership convention, reports said by a narrow margin, and rejected a proposal of the party's principal officers that members be asked whether they favored or opposed requesting Mr. Diefenbaker's resignation.

Leon Balcer was president from January, 1955, until November, 1959, and presided at the leadership convention which elected Mr. Diefenbaker leader.

After serving in Diefenbaker cabinets, he split with Mr. Diefenbaker in 1965, sponsoring the demand that the executive call a leadership convention. When his bid failed, he left the party to sit as an independent and did not seek re-election to the Commons in the 1965 general election.

He charged that Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership was isolating the party's Quebec membership and endangered the party's efforts to act as a national force.

QUIT CABINET

George Hees' two-year term as national president started in 1954, before Mr. Diefenbaker was elected leader. He eventually quit the Diefenbaker cabinet in 1963 partly over the nuclear issue and partly because, he said, Mr. Diefenbaker aimed at a campaign of anti-Americanism.

Another former president, J. M. Macdonnell who served for three terms from 1946 until 1950, spearheaded a campaign in 1964 for a secret ballot on the issue of confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker.

The move was defeated after Mr. Diefenbaker had said he wouldn't object to a secret vote but "I want to know where I stand; I want to know where you stand, too."

After a bitter debate on the secret issue, the annual meeting voted confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker by a wide margin.

CHARMING ESKIMO FABRIC DESIGNS shown by manager John Patton have impressed the world. The Eskimos, working through West Baffin Eskimo Co-operative (a non-profit organization) are designing fabrics which are silk-screened in Toronto and printed on fine quality fabrics. Three years of experimenting and preparing went into the designs before they were submitted for the Canadian Designer Competition where all won awards.

Be Masters of Own Destiny Students Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadians can regain control of their country and its resources from absentee owners only through generations now in university, Walter L. Gordon, former Liberal finance minister, told students at Simon Fraser University and the University of British Columbia Monday.

"If you are content—as far too many of my generation seem to be content—to see us go on as we are, you should be able to live out your lives in some comfort, some security and considerable boredom," he said.

"You should be able to find jobs working for the absentee owners of Canadian business. Naturally, it will be they who will take the responsibility for making the important decisions. And, naturally, it will be they who will take most of the profits. . . . But you should be safe —or as safe as the subjects of any satellite or colonial state can ever be."

This kind of life would be a negative kind of existence, but "this does not need to be the fate of you and the members of your generation," Mr. Gordon said.

MUST MAKE DECISIONS

" . . . the members of your generation and the generation just ahead of you should decide that we can develop Canada ourselves. We can manage and direct the new business enterprises, of the future. We can be the masters of our own destiny —not second-class citizens in our own country, or what should be our own country."

Seventy per cent of the oil and gas industry, 50 per cent of mining and smelting, and 50 per cent of all manufacturing operations in Canada is controlled abroad, he said.

"When a great many of the larger companies in Canada need professional advice, they seek it from the people their foreign parent corporations deal with."

All the engineering design work at the huge copper mine development of Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. at Timmins, Ont., is being done in the U.S., Mr. Gordon said; and most of the plant construction is being done by U.S. contractors.

"We should not complain if the owners of this property bring in their own experts from across the line. This is the kind of thing that is bound to happen when any country permits non-residents—or absentee owners if you like—to obtain too much control of its economy.

Mr. Gordon said the power and influence of foreign-directed trade unions in Canada should be reduced, as well as foreign control of industry and resources.

LOOKS AT UNIONS

"We need strong trade unions . . . in this country. But their policies should be directed and controlled by Canadians in Canada."

Mr. Gordon outlined five steps that should be taken "in order to safeguard our sovereignty and independence as a nation—both economically and politically":

1. A goal by the year 2000 that not more than one-third of principal industries be controlled by foreigners.

2. A continuing welcome to inflows of foreign capital, especially that invested in bonds and other fixed-term securities.

3. New machinery for channelling a greater proportion of Canadian savings into profitable equity investments or ownership.

4. Greater public disclosure of the operations of all large and medium-sized businesses in Canada.

5. Promotion of public policies including taxation, to achieve the basic objective by the year 2000.

"We can achieve the objective I have mentioned without any reduction in our living standards," he said. "In fact, barring some world catastrophe, it is inconceivable that the living standards of Canadians will not continue to rise rapidly in the years ahead."

U.S. Turns Other Cheek

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Soviet Union appears to be out to make this anti-American year in the General Assembly. The Soviet-bloc attack got under way the first week of the session that started Tuesday.

But the United States is turning the other cheek. It has not objected to assembly debate on five anti-U.S. items proposed by the Soviet bloc and three anti-U.S. resolutions proposed by the Soviet Union.

It has even offered to co-sponsor one of the resolutions—against "actions hampering the conclusion of an agreement on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons."

Such co-sponsorship tends to make the resolution seem not to be what it actually is—a slap at the arrangements the United States is promoting to share fire - control over its nuclear weapons with West Germany and others while retaining an ultimate veto.

STARTED BY CZECHS

Czechoslovakia foreshadowed the onslaught on the eve of the session. It asked that the assembly debate an item titled:

"Strict observance of the prohibition of the threat or use of force in international relations and of the right of peoples to self-determination."

Czechoslovakia did not name any names. But on opening day, the Communist countries unveiled their villain—the United States.

Ten of them asked that the assembly talk about getting U.S. troops out of South Korea.

The assembly's general debate began Thursday and on the second day Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko moved to turn it into a mass denunciation of U.S. military aid to South Viet Nam.

HIT THREE AREAS

Gromyko announced requests for debate on three new items the Communists can go on talk-with resolutions attached:

1. "Status of the implementation of the (assembly's 1965) declaration on the inadmissability of intervention in the domestic affairs of states.

2. "Renunciation by states of actions hampering the conclusion of an agreement on the nonproliferation of nuclear weapons.

3. "Elimination of foreign military bases in the countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America."

Gromyko also said the U.S., in Geneva negotiations on a treaty against the spread of nuclear weapons, was trying to leave loopholes that would allow access to nuclear weapons to non - nuclear countries in the Western alliance, "particularly West Germany."

The assembly Saturday put all five Communist items on its agenda, took the Czechoslovak no-use-of-force item to debate itself and sent the other four to the main political committee.

Too Much Left to Policy--Sharp

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp concedes that the federal government has "left too much to be done by monetary policy."

The warning of higher taxes in his anti-inflation speech Sept. 8 indicated monetary policy exercised by the Bank of Canada may be supplemented soon by fiscal policy exercised by the tax collector.

The bank has worked within broad practical limits in the last 1½ years in its attempts to influence the course of tightening credit conditions.

Its exercise of control over cash reserves of the chartered banks has served to increase the money supply substantially. But this has only tempered the climb in interest rates and the growing shortage of funds.

In his last annual report, published March 11, Governor Louis Rasminsky said:

"The bank has sought to follow a policy which took into account the possibility that the increase of total demand might outrun the growth in the effective capacity of the economy.

"Monetary policy will continue to have an important role to play in this connection but extreme reliance on it would not produce satisfactory results."

SITUATION NOT NORMAL

Mr. Sharp's speech Sept. 8 conded such over-reliance, resulting in "difficult and abnormal" conditions in the capital and money markets.

Chartered bank deposits plus currency outside banks—main components of the money supply—increased by slightly more than $1,000,000,000 in the first six months of 1965 and by about the same amount in the second half of the year. But it grew by only $300,000,000 in the first six months of this year, according to figures adjusted for seasonal variation.

Total chartered bank loans have been similarly affected. They grew by $840,000,000 in the first half of 1966, by $841,000,000 in the second half, but by only $197,000,000 in the first half of this year. Unsecured personal loans were actually lower in June than in January after adjustment for seasonal variation.

The Bank of Canada has been able to shelter Canadian money markets to an extent, notably restraining the short-term market this summer dcring extreme fluctuations by its U.S. counterpart.

Viet Nam Night Sees Dramatic Change in War

By HORS FAAS

SAIGON (AP) — Night falls on Viet Nam and the whole war changes.

The vast military machinery of the United States slips into a different gear.

Thousands of troops who moved aggressively through the jungles in daylight curl into defensive circles at dusk.

Swarms of helicopters that swirled over paddies and valleys sit idle on airstrips.

Night warriors go into action Special photo - reconnaisance planes scan jungles and trails. Small patrols listen for the Viet Cong. Ambush squads, faces blackened, poise in the darkness.

War changes for the Viet Cong, too. For them the night is an ally. Large areas of the countryside that in daytime come under government control are accessible by night to the guerrilla bands. Enemy battalions that break into small units to escape discovery in daylight can come together under the concealment of the night and strike in force.

Viet Cong guides, finding their way through the black jungle with little oil lamps made from old French perfume bottles, lead supply convoys along trails and streams denied to them in daylight.

SOUNDS OF WAR

The night paralyses civilian life. Everything that moves is suspect. All country roads are closed. Even in the big cities the bright lights die quickly. Curfew empties the streets before midnight. Residents of Saigon toss in their sleep as the sounds of war roar over the city. Night after night bombs and artillery shells crash onto suspected travel routes of the Viet Cong that lead to the very outskirts of the capital.

U.S. soldiers have come to hate the night but they know they must learn to fight in it. It's a tough job and many lessons must be learned.

Few American units go after the enemy at night. When they do their route has been carefully scouted and planned in the daytime.

Vietnamese army troops are even more reluctant to move at night. Senior American advisers in the Mekong delta, for example, say that despite all advice the three Vietnamese divisions there rarely go out in the dark. The advisers believe the flat and open terrain favors nighttime assaults by large forces.

The delta offers a classic illustration of the way in which war has often been waged in Viet Nam. Government troops mass and move into the field at dawn, search for the enemy, then return at dusk to outposts and camps. The reason given by Vietnamese officers is that the Viet Cong work just the opposite — they break into small units in the day, mass and attack at night. Therefore the government troops must be at their posts at night to protect them.

STRIKE WHEN MOVING

The Viet Cong, however, know this strategy and have devised tactics of their own to take advantage of it. They often strike a post at dusk or dawn, when the government soldiers are going out or coming back.

The dawn or dusk attack is a favorite of the Viet Cong elsewhere, too. Dusk gives them the whole night to escape. At dawn allied troops are just waking up, preparing to eat, packing up supplies and equipment and waiting to move out.

Experienced with this kind of guerrilla night fighting, Australian troops in Viet Nam have devised techniques to defeat it. When the Aussies are in the jungle they eat before sundown, then they move on until the last minutes of daylight.

While the majority of the unit quickly sets up a night camp, the others slip outside the camp perimeter to set up listening posts.

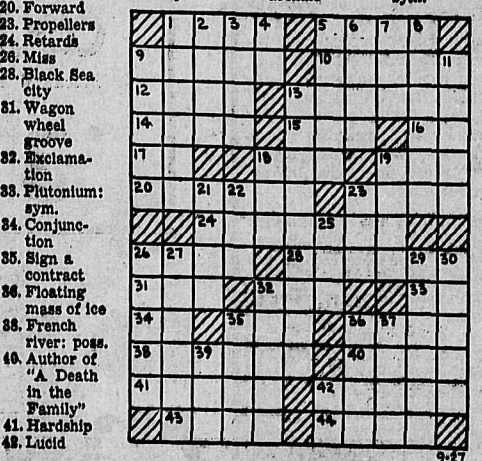
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

No Copper Price Change

NEW YORK (AP)—The dual U.S. producer copper price of 36 cents to 38 cents a pound is expected to prevail until the end of the year.

Copper Range Co. and Inspiration Copper Co. have raised the price to 38 cents. Other producers have held at 36 cents.

With supplies tight, demand continues strong at both price levels, says American Metal Market, daily newspaper of the metalworking industry.

Values on major hedge markets eased during the week, reflecting the end of strikes on the Zambian c opperbelt. However, the Arizona properties of Inspiration Consolidated, a 65,000-ton-a-year producer, were made idle when picket lines were established following a fatality at a mine.

The aluminum industry's shipment pace continued to quicken.

Nickel consumers breathed easier following the return to work by more than 18,000 employees of the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ontario operations at Sudbury and Port Colborne.

Major metals prices:

Lead—15 cents a pound, New York; 14.80 cents, St. Louis.

Zinc—14½ cents a pound, East St. Louis; 15 cents, New York.

Aluminum — 24½ cents a pound, unalloyed ingots, delivered.

Silver—$1.293 an ounce, New York; 112 pence, London.

Women Invest Wisely

MONTREAL (CP) — Most women who invest in the stock market are generally very knowledgeable about it, says Mrs. Emily McWhinney, the only woman stockbroker with Nesbitt, Thomson and Co. Ltd. here.

"Many women are already familiar with the market and others apply themselves quickly to the job of finding out about it," says Mrs. McWhinney, who says she finds women clients agreeable and perceptive.

The Australian-born woman says women are considerably calmer and more sophisticated about their investments than is commonly believed.

"Most of them are efficient in looking after household financial affairs, and more women —especially among newly-wed couples—are doing this."

Mrs. McWhinney received her economics degree in Australia, did postgraduate work at the London School of Economics and Yale University, and worked at selling securities in Toronto before moving to Montreal this summer.

Her husband is director of the Air and Space Law Institute at McGill University.

LEARN IN THE FAMILY

Mrs. McWhinney says many of today's married couples feel that a definite investment program is a worthwhile project. She says such a project should be geared to a 10 or 20 year period and set up as an eventual adjunct to a pension when retirement comes.

Career women should follow the same practice, as they generally enjoy a high standard of living.

"They should plan ahead financially for the future so that they will avoid the psychological blow that comes if retirement also involves a change in the way of life."

The stockbroker says women should be prepared to manage estates and to recognize good advice when it is given. In many cases, the business of personally settling financial affairs in an efficient manner is a mental lift when it is often most needed.

SEE MANY ANGLES

"Many things must be considered when giving advice on the suitability of investments," says Mrs. McWhinney.

These include details such as the age of the client, the income, the tax on that income and personal preferences.

"A stockbroker advises, but clients make decisions. It is their money which is involved and consequently their responsibility for it."

Mrs. McWhinney is in the retail sales department of the company and deals with individuals rather than corporations or institutions. She advises clients to build up portfolios based on planned investment programs.

She is not interested in giving "tips" and does not believe in any "rich overnight" theory.

"But there is always an element of speculation in any investment.

Once money is taken out of a bank, there is only one completely liquid and safe investment—Canada Savings Bonds."

SENTENCED FOR SPYING

ATHENS (Reuters) — A military court sentenced a Greek national Monday to life imprisonment on charges of spying for Romania. George Costouros, 45, an Athenian merchant, was accused of passing on information to a member of the Romanian trade delegation here.

NEED FUMES CONTROL

TORONTO (CP) — Canada soon will need laws to control fumes from car exhausts, says a U.S. air pollution expert. "Visible smoke pollution is greatly reduced since 1947," Charles Howison, chairman of the U.S. National Cleaner Air Week Committee, said Monday. "But the other forms of pollution — car exhaust and ragweed pollen—can still be serious health and pollution problems."
