WILL FIRE ON MEXICAN PORTS UNLESS HUERTA SALUTES U.S. FLAG TO ATONE FOR INSULT

Pres'dent Wilson Says Time for Delay and Evasion Has Passed—May Seize Customs Houses at Tampico and Vera Cruz—Shut off Country from Commercial Intercourse with United States Proposed.

Washington, April 15. — General Huerta was given final warning by the United States government today that unless a salute was fired to the Stars and Stripes within a reasonable time atone "for repeated offences against the rights and dignity of the United States" serious consequences would result.

This warning was emphasized by action which placed the majority of the ships of the American navy under orders to proceed at once to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Mexico.

Huerta's Reply.

It was learned today that General Huerta, when apprised by Charge O'Shaughnessy of the proposed demonstration of the Atlantic fleet, argued that the episode growing out of the arrests of the American bluejackets at Tampico was a fit subject for arbitration at The Hague, and that he would appoint a commission to investigate the incident.

Temporarize no Longer.

President Wilson in an emphatic reply through Charge O'Shaughnessy is understood to have told General Huerta that the time for delay and evasion had passed and that the American government would temporarize no longer. Administration officials hold that insults to the flag and questions of national honor are not subjects for arbitration.

Thinks It a Bluff.

All information that reached Washington from Mexico City tended to show that General Huerta was unconvinced that the United States was in earnest and thought the Washington government was bluffing. Some anti-American demonstrations at Vera Cruz and other points were reported.

Developments of the day showed clearly that a determined policy had been adopted by the president which would be backed by congress and enforced by the army and navy.

Huerta Must Comply.

While expressing an earnest hope for peace, the president unequivocally told members of the senate and house committee that the offenses of the de facto government at Mexico City to the dignity of the United States, could no longer be tolerated and that unless Huerta complied with the American demands, the seizure of the customs house at Tampico and Vera Cruz and even the declaration of a Pacific blockade, hutting off commercial intercourse with the United States would be fully justified by precedents in international law.

It is estimated that no act, such as the landing of marines, or the shelling of any towns or the seizure of ports would be undertaken without authorization from congress after President Wilson had personally delivered a message on the subject. The practical unanimous approval which Republicans and Democrats gave the government's incidental steps made it apparent, however, that should Rear Admiral find it necessary to act vigorously in an emergency, congress would back up the American navy without orders.

Ready for War.

After orders had been issued for a demonstration on the Pacific coast of Mexico as well as on the Atlantic, General Huerta was advised that the most powerful fighting force the American government has ever assembled on sea, carrying thousands of marines and bluejackets, is headed for the seaport towns of southern Mexico ready to enforce to the extreme the American policy.

Upon General Huerta depends the next developments; he has practically a week to decide the question, for the warships will not reach Mexican waters for several days. In the meantime all foreign governments have been notified of its attitude on the Tampico incident and of the dispatch of the fleet to Mexican waters. This notification is in line with the previously announced policy of keeping foreign nations advised of all steps taken by the American government in Mexican affairs.

GEORGIAN BAY CANAL IS URGED

Delegation Urges Government to Undertake Huge Project.

Permanent Organization Formed to Promote Shorter Route to the Seaboard.

Ottawa, April 15.—The formation of a permanent organization whose purpose will be to promote the construction of the Georgian bay canal, and to furnish all necessary information for the recently appointed government commission on the project; and the presentation to the government of arguments in favor of the immediate start of construction of the great waterway were the net results accomplished by a delegation of one thousand which came to Ottawa today.

Representative Delegation.

Of these thousand, 700 were from Montreal alone and the voice of Canada's metropolis in favor of the early undertaking of the big project was loud in the representations made to the government in this repect. However, the delegation was by no means a sectional one, representing as it did boards of trade and other bodies from North Bay to Pembroke, Arnprior, Fort William, Port Arthur, Mattawa and Renfrew. Every town along the Ottawa river was represented and in addition resolutions were read from organizations in municipalities go far west as Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Conserving Trade.

The delegation arrived in the city at noon and held an organization meeting in the city hall before presenting their views to government in the commission's chambers. Reply was made by Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works, who, while he did not admit that the deepening of the Welland canal, was not a necessary undertaking, stated that the principle of conserving trade for Canadians involved in the construction of the Georgian bay canal was the view of the present government. He urged the delegation to present to the new Georgian bay canal commission the arguments so weightily urged on the cabinet.

Canal League.

The delegation came to Ottawa as members of the Federated Boards of Trade, but before meeting the government and while en route they organized themselves into the "Georgian Bay Canal league," a permanent organization of a national character.

At the city hall during the preliminary organization meeting the delegates were received by Controller Kent of Ottawa, and speeches were then made by Mayor Martin, Adelard Fortier, A. P. Frigon, R. White, of Pembroke, A. J. Ferguson, secretary the Federated Boards of Trade, and Controller Kent.

Commercial Feasibility.

Mr. Rogers stated that while many reports had been presented as to the engineering features of the canal there had been none as to its commercial feasibility and it was as to this that the recently appointed commission would now report. Its personnel was such as to command confidence and he hoped that the arguments presented by the delegation would be placed before them. The fact that the canal would mean a shorter route to the seaboard would be sufficient to command the government's attention alone. Then it would be an all-Canadian route which would give an opportunity to develop enough power to meet the cost of its construction. The note sounded by the delegation represented the views of the present government which believed in the policy of preserving Canadian trade for the Canadians.

MEMBER FOR NEW WESTMINSTER GIVES LIE TO MAYOR BAXTER

Col. J. D. Taylor Explains Unscrupulous Tactics Adopted by Vancouver Delegates Before Grain Commission—Will Be Asked to Retract Misleading Statements Made About the Fraser River.

A special meeting of the board of trade was held last night to receive reports of the Fraser river delegation to the grain commission at Winnipeg.

The speakers were Colonel J. D. Taylor, M. P., Mayor Gray, New Westminster; Mayor Mackenzie, Port Coquitlam; Reeve Marmont, Coquitlam; Reeve Sullivan, Surrey; James Mars, president of the board of trade, Port Coquitlam; F. J. MacKenzie, M. P. P., Delta; D. S. Curtis, A. E. White, W. L. Darling, Industrial commissioner; W. R. Gilley, L. B. Lusby and L. M. Richardson.

W. G. McQuarrie, president, occupied the chair.

The speakers denounced the unscrupulous tactis of Mayor Baxter of Vancouver in no uncertain terms and in a rousing speech Colonel Taylor nailed the lie unequivocally upon the mendacious intriguers whom he exposed to the contempt of all present with mordant sarcasm.

His prediction that the Fraser river would yet see the elevator on its banks was received with great satisfaction.

Colonel Taylor Speaks.

Colonel Taylor, who was received with applause, said that he was somewhat overwhelmed on arriving at Winnipeg to find a delegation of 20 representing every point on the Fraser river. Each one had presented a splendid case in his own way for the Fraser river. One he would mention, Captain Powell, the harbor engineer, who was singled out for attack by a delegate from Vancouver.

Valuable Facts.

Captain Powell closed the case for Westminster and made an address, he considered, unsurpassed by any delivered that day of convincing clearness and with a wealth of valuable facts.

When Captain Powell had said that there was no doubt at all of the possibility of making the Fraser river one of the finest streams in the world, but that it had been equally neglected by successive governments, this true statement had been distorted by Mayor Baxter into that Westminster herself was constrained to admit that the Fraser could never be made a navigable stream except by extraordinary efforts, inferring that unless we got the elevator the Fraser would not be made navigable.

Baxter's Ignorance.

"I say without fear of contradiction had it not been for Mayor Baxter and his immediate colleagues the elevator for the Pacific coast would at this time be, at least, half built," stated Colonel Taylor, "and the only reason the government did not keep its promise, made to me in parliament at the close of the session of 1913, is because of the extreme activities of Mayor Baxter and his immediate associates, activities which were prompted solely by his desire to serve the interests of the great grain trade to the west, of which he showed absolute ignorance and not the slightest indication that he was warranted to speak for them.

More Sordid Motive.

"I have in my mind a picture in which a much more sordid motive might with greater success be attributed to Mayor Baxter and his friends. The first time I saw Mayor Baxter in connection with the elevator problem was early in the spring of 1913 after the grain commission had been at New Westminster and Vancouver. I met Dr. McGill, chairman of the commission and its moving spirit. He took from his pocket a copy of the News-Advertiser and showed me a large advertisement and its feature was a statement made by Mayor Baxter to the effect that he had been informed by Chairman McGill that the government elevator was to be placed at Port Moody and all around this alluring inducement to the suckers who had contributed to the building up of Vancouver, an invitation to buy lots before it was everlastingly too late to get in on the ground floor. Dr. McGill thought it disgraceful his name should be used in that way. He said he never had said anything of the kind and that the suggestion to put the elevator at Port Moody was preposterous, not that Port Moody was preposterous because it was the statutory terminal of the C. P. R., the oldest terminal and the terminal of ocean navigation.

Panama Canal.

"Dr. McGill urged that we should have the elevator ready for the opening of the Panama canal and because of his representations to me I took the matter up with the government. As a result it was announced in the house of commons that the government intended to secure a site on the Pacific coast during 1913 and afterwards to proceed with the erection of the elevator.

Reversed Opinion.

"I was warned at the same time by the grain commissioners that it was essential to a choice of the site on the Fraser river that we must secure a proper guarantee of navigation and that we would be ready for the grain traffic whenever it came along. Everything went well until I learned that the grain commission had come to the conclusion that Port Moody was the place to put the elevator. I have no objection to Port Moody, but I was shocked at the speedy reversion of opinion of the commission and I asked Dr. McGill if he remembered stating Port Moody was preposterous. He replied, 'I did not know then what I know now about the Fraser.' I asked what it was. He said, 'I did not know that the river was ice bound a part of the year and therefore not a port all the year round. I did not know that the channel of the Fraser was a shifting one, that the bar moved from place to place and that a ship going in this week might not be able to go out next week, that the rate of insurance for the Fraser is much higher than the rate for Vancouver, then I came to the conclusion that as the Fraser river was not available if it is to be put on Burrard inlet, Port Moody must be the place.' I replied that no man with any respect for the truth would say what you say about the Fraser river and I asked for the names of his informants. He answered, 'Mr. Stevens, M.P., Mayor Baxter and Mr. Blair, secretary of the board of trade, Vancouver.'

"Where did they tell you all this," I asked. "Here in this very room at Fort William,' he replied.

Absolute Falsehoods.

"He was very indignant when I told him that there was not a word of truth in any of these statements, that he had been absolutely misled and lied to.

"I found Dr. McGill had reported this shocking condition of the Fraser river and that we could not get the elevator. I left them with the assurance that provided I could show that these statements were lies, we had very excellent prospects of getting the elevator. At this time Baxter, Stevens and Blair were all for Port Moody; there was no word about the government wharf at Vancouver, as the only possible place. Up to recently citizens of Vancouver did not know of the change and at a meeting of ward four ratepayers reference was made of the prospects of 200 ships a day passing up to Port Moody."

Question Reopened.

Colonel Taylor then detailed the steps he had taken to have the question reopened at Winnipeg, the reckless mis-statements made by the Vancouver board of trade emissaries as to their shipping ability to deal with 33,000,000 bushels of grain a year and concluded by recommending the board of trade to ask the board of trade at Vancouver to repudiate the statements of their representative in Winnipeg.

He said he had an absolute assurance from the government engineer that long before the erection of any elevator, by the natural work of the river and the King Edward alone they would have a depth in the channel of 36 feet at ordinary high water.

Must Retract Statements.

On the motion of D. S. Curtis it was unanimously resolved that the Fraser river delegation meet the Vancouver board of trade and ask them to retract the misleading statements made to the grain commission at Winnipeg.

A copy of a resolution to be drafted by a committee consisting of D. S. Curtis, A. E. White, W. L. Darling and Secretary Wade, was ordered to be sent to Right Hon. Mr. Borden, premier of Canada.

Votes of thanks to the delegates, to Colonel Taylor, M.P., and the subscribers who contributed to the funds sending the board of trade delegates were heartily accorded.

MEMORIAL TO MARK PEACE CENTENNIAL

Large Sums Appropriated for Statues in England, Canada and the United States.

New York, April 15.—Memorials marking the centennial of peace between this country and Great Britain in 1915 in an aggregate cost of a million dollars were tentatively approved today by a sub-committee of the American Centennary organization, meeting in this city. The organization's finance committee must yet ratify the appropriations and conditional contracts made.

Sums of from $35,000 to $75,000 each were set apart for statues of Lincoln in London, Francis Parkham, the historian in Ottawa and Queen Victoria in Washington. Free educational trips abroad for newspaper men of all countries are to be instituted with the proceeds of one of the funds available for the committee's use, it was announced. Ignorance of foreign countries causes writing which engenders friction, while foreign travel for newspaper men would promote peace, in the opinion of the committee. To writers of poems, hymns and essays extolling peace and the centennary celebration, $10,000 in prizes will be distributed. A gift of $10,000 was voted to the city of Ghent, Belgium, where the treaty of 1815 was signed.

The Washington homestead in England, Sulgrave Manor, will have its name changed to Washington Manor and an institute is to be established there to further peace, through lectures of representatives of foreign countries. At all capitals, beginning with Berlin, a monument typifying America's message of peace to the nations of the world will be erected, at a cost not yet specified. Money also will be distributed to churches, schools and synagogues taking part in the peace celebration.

Strikers Sent to Jail.

Portsmouth, O., April 15.—Flatly refusing to sign a blanket bond for their appearance before the grand jury to which they had been held on the charge of violating the mayor's proclamation against congregating in the shoe factory district, 35 men and women, striking shoe workers, were sent to jail today. A big crowd of sympathizers cheered the strikers as the cell doors closed behind them.

New Telephone Exchange.

Regina, April 15.—The contract for a new three story telephone building at Prince Albert was awarded today by the Saskatchewan department of telephones. The building will be of fireproof construction and the new plant will provide for about 3000 lines.

$1,500,000 for Roads.

Regina, April 15.—Plans for the expenditure of $1,500,000 on roads and bridges in Saskatchewan during the present season were considered at a meeting of the Saskatchewan highways commission in the legislative buildings today. By June 1 the commission expects to have in the neighborhood of 100 road gangs at work, a considerable increase as compared with last year.

MURDER MYSTERY.

No New Developments in Taylor Case —Nelson Fined $200.

No new developments were recorded in the Sapperton murder mystery yesterday although the police are actively engaged in running down all possible clues which are from time to time coming to light.

While Chief Bradshaw was uncommunicative yesterday as to any new turns in the case, the action of the coroner's jury in recommending that a rigid investigation be made with the inmates of the Kelly street gambling den, is thought to forecast a warm time for several local men who are known to have indulged in the poker game of Sunday last.

Yesterday morning Eloff Nelson paid the penalty of running the gaming house in the shape of a $200 fine tacked on by Magistrate Edmonds. Nelson was equal to the occasion, depositing the amount with Chief Bradshaw, at the same time remarking that the risk taken of catering to the poker enthuisasts of the district was not worth the returns and that he was through with the game.

No word has as yet been received from Taylor's relatives as to the disposal of the body, a wire being sent on Tuesday to Jeffersonville, Ind., where the deceased man's mother and sister are said to reside.

ADMINISTRATION HELD UP.

Will Recount All Votes Cast for Controllerships in Montreal.

Montreal, April 15.—A judicial recount of all the votes cast for controllerships will be made following a ruling handed down today, by Chief Justice Sir Charles Davidson. His lordship in taking this course, frankly averred that the proceeding would in his opinion, turn out to be a futile one so far as changing the result was concerned. But there was only one course open to the court and that was to grant the petition presented.

The recount will commence Friday morning. There are upwards of 75,000 ballots to be counted, with 943 ballot boxes to be opened and examined. During the time the recount is going on, the whole civic administration will be tied up to the great inconvenience of the city.

Can't Come West.

Winnipeg, April 15.—Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice of Canada, who was expected in Winnipeg to address an "All Western" Catholic banquet on April 16 and the Young Conservative club the following day, has wired from Ottawa that pressure of business makes it impossible for him to come west at the present time.

STRUCK BY STRAY BULLETS.

Sailors on German Steamer Injured by Shells from Tampico.

Tampa, Fla., April 15.—With two wounded sailors on board the German tank steamer Osage from Tampico, put in quarantine here today. Stray bullets fired in the fighting between the Mexican federals and rebels at Tampico struck the sailors who were on the ship. One of the sailors may die.

The Osage had a number of bullet holes in her superstructure. Captain de Reese reported the fighting had been heavy ten days ago in the oil district where his ship was docked. The British steamer Trinidadian, with several bullet marks on her hull also arrived today from Tampico.

SHELVE HOME RULE BILL UNTIL MAY

Budget and Welsh Disestablishment Bill Will Occupy Time of the British House.

London, April 15.—Despite rumors to the contrary, it is not expected the home rule bill will come up for further discussion until the end of the present month or the beginning of May. Next week, and the following week are already practically mortgaged for the Welsh disestablishment bill and the budget. In the meantime a long series of questions has been drafted, dealing more particularly with naval preparations by Hon. Winston Churchill for the "protection of stores and ammunition in Ulster."

Questions were put to the premier today, with a view to ascertaining who was expected to take the initiative in making "suggestions" with regard to Ulster. Premier Asquith assured the house that the government would announce the form which these should take "in due course." It is apparent that no conversations between the leaders are immediately possible if they take place at all. "Suggestions" continue to be framed by the Unionists.

ONTARIO PLANS TO EXTEND RAILWAY TO PORT NELSON

Ottawa, April 15.—The Ontario government is preparing to extend the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railway to Port Nelson. Notice has been given by Hon. Dr. Roche that he will move a bill providing for the transfer of "certain lands, easements and privileges within the province of Manitoba and belonging to his majesty in the right of Canada, required to make provision for the extension of the T. and N. O. railway to a point at Hudson bay at or near the mouth of the Nelson river."

It will be remembered that when the Manitoba boundaries were extended two years ago, a clause was inserted which provided for the transfer to the Ontario government of a right of way several miles wide and also of certain lands at the bay necessary for terminals.

Educating Farmers.

Regina, April 15.—To undertake a campaign of education in farming methods in Saskatchewan's agricultural areas, the five field representatives of the department of agriculture recently appointed are this week commencing a preliminary tour of the province. The new officials will confer with the agricultural secretaries, discussing plans for the eradication of weeds and for the popularization of scientific methods of farming. For the purpose of the campaign, the province has been divided into five districts and one field representative has been assigned for each district.

Teachers Organize.

Moose Jaw, April 15.—The Maritime Provinces Teachers' association of Saskatchewan was organized at the teachers' convention today. H. W. Hewitt, Saskatoon, was elected president. The publication of a newspaper, with the president as editor, is one of the association's objects.

ALASKAN DOG RACE.

John Johnson in the Lead With Scotty Allen Third.

Nome, Alaska, April 15.—All three contenders in the 412-mile All-Alaska sweepstake race for dog teams are now headed for Nome, having rounded the turn at Candle, 206 miles away today. John Johnson, who left Candle at 7:33 this morning, passed Gold Run, 182 miles from Noem at 10:35 a.m. Johnson's 12 Siberian wolves are running well, all being on their feet when he passed Gold Run. Fred Ayer left Candle at 8:30 this morning and is only a few miles behind Johnson. Ayer lost some time last night when one of his dogs broke loose and he had to stop to catch it. He was carrying one of his 14 dogs on his sledge when he left Candle. "Scotty" Allen driving the Allen-Darling team of 18 dogs, left Candle at 10:07. All his dogs were in harness and he intended to make a hard drive to overtake the leaders.

QUEBEC IS THEIR PORT.

Two New Allan Liners Will Not Go to Montreal.

Montreal, April 15.—It was definitely stated today by Andrew Allan, that owing to the shallow water between here and Quebec the two new Allan liners, Calgarian and Alsatian, would use Quebec as their terminal port, instead of Montreal, which is the home port of the Allan fleet. The first of the new liners to arrive up the river this season will be the Calgarian, which is due at Quebec on May 8, while the Alsatian will arrive May 22.

REPORT ON LABOR DISPUTE.

Majority and Minority Reports on G. T. P. Trouble.

Ottawa April 15.—Majority and minority reports on a labor dispute of long standing were received at the labor department today. They relate to the difficulty between the Grand Trunk Pacific and its shop employees.

Judge Haggart, chairman and T. A. Murray, representing the men, recommended that the G. T. P. pay the same scale as other western roads The company's representative, R. A. Cross, dissents from this finding.

This is the second conciliation board in the case. When an arbitration conference was held previously, the men claimed that the company undertook to abide by the finding but the G.T.P. denied any such undertaking.

Remove "Mother Jones."

Trinidad, Colo., April 15.—"Mother Jones" will be removed from the hospital ward of the Walsenburg jail probably within the next 24 hours and taken to Denver in response to the supreme court order in habaes corpus proceedings, according to the best information obtainable here early tonight. The aged leader, it is said, probably will be removed under military guard and produced in court in accordance with the order.

Senate Adjourns.

Ottawa, April 15.—The senate met for a few minutes today and then adjourned until Tuesday next. A third reading was given to the bill to prohibit the manufacture and importation of matches made with white phosphorus.

SIR WILLIAM WHYTE.

The death of Sir William Whyte, the man whose name is inseparably linked with Canadian Pacific Railway development in the west, will be felt, not only in the newer portion of Canada where his authority in his company's affairs almost was supreme, but will leave throughout the entire Dominion a gap in business and public life.

A man of action with a record for doing things, Sir William Whyte never was spectacular in his accomplishments. Had he been more of a personal advertiser, along with his great abilities, he might have become head of the great C. P. R. system. But Sir William has left a record of work well done which, when all is said, indicates the true measure of a big man.

His assumption of control of the western portion of the C. P. R. system came at a time when this part of the Dominion was beginning to feel the beginnings of that development which has placed Canada first in the eyes of the investing world. That growth and progress, unparalleled in history, presented problems of transportation never known before, problems without any precedent and therefore with no past railway history to draw from for solutions. How well those questions were faced and solved C. P. R. directors and shareholders know and even the public, that public which believes it has a divine right to criticize anything and everything, recognized the ability of the hand and brain which were in a great measure responsible for good service in the face of strenuous conditions and that hand and brain belonged to Sir William Whyte.

Down around Tampico, Mexico, it seems to be a case of salute or shoot.

Venezuelan reports feature a revolution in the central provinces of that country. It this case of yet or again?

The suffragettes now are engaged in revising the Bible. They'll probably start with the announcement that Adam originally was a rib.

Some German towns now are dealing with grave cases of police graft. Looks as though some western hemisphere ideas had travelled backwards to the old world.

This is the weather man's haymaking time. He has full license during April to work his shower tap to the verge of paralysis.

The antics of Mayor Baxter, of Vancouver, before the grain commission at Winnipeg reminded observers of that historic monkey which climbed a pole.

Members of the British Women's Emigration association assure us that what we in the colonies need is more women from the old land. We do, but please don't make a mistake and ship us a bunch of the Pankhurst model.

The other day the temperature of a sick girl in Kiev, Russia, went up so high that it broke the thermometer. Wait till father gets the doctors' bill and there'll be another instrument ruined.

A mysterious disease has caused seventy thousand factory workers in St. Petersburg to quit their jobs. Perhaps this is Russia's first experience with the I. W. W. hookworm.

The principal data collected from the revolutionists in Mexico with regard to the Benton affair seems to be that it is certain that Benton was shot and that he is still dead.

ANNUAL VESTRY MEETING.

The Easter open vestry meeting of St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church was attended by a large number of the congregation. The rector, Rev. C. E. Wincott, presided and gave an interesting report of the parochial work. The following gave reports: Mrs. S. F. Mark, treasurer; Mrs. Lever, secretary of the ladies' aid; Miss Taylor, secretary of Sunday school; A. Robinson, secretary of St. Paul's guild, and H. G. Jobes, organist and choirmaster, on behalf of the choir. All reports were considered highly satisfactory and were passed unanimously, and the remarkable progress of each department was a source of appreciative comment. The rector reappointed S. F. Mark as rector's warden, and the congregation reelectld F. McIntosh as peoples' warden. The following were elected on the select vestry: Messrs. S. F. Mark, F. McIntosh, H. L. Thornber, E. Gilley, W. R. Gilley, A. Sheppard, J. Plastow, J. Coates, Burkitt, Thomas Furness. The trustees were elected as follows: Messrs. H. Burr, W. R. Gilley, S. F. Mark, F. McIntosh, L. Thornber and Thomas Furness.

A good financial year was reported leaving a balance in hand, and among other matters it was decided to raise the minister's stipend. The chairman referred to the loss the church and Sunday school was about to sustain through the removal of A. Smithman to Alberta and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Smithman, to which he feelingly responded. A standing vote of thanks was accorded to the rector and his wife for their successful and untiring labors. During the evening a pianoforte duet was rendered by Mrs. McPhadden and Miss Violet Wincott, and a solo by H. G. Jobes. The members of the guild served refreshments, and a very pleasant meeting was brought to a close by the benediction.

THUG SLUGS YOUNG MAN ESCORTING GIRL HOME

Minneapolis, April 15.—Struck down from behind as he was escorting a young woman to her home last night, B. D. Wilson, living at Williston Terrave, was hurled unconscious to the sidewalk on First avenue south, between Grant and Fourteenth streets, last night.

The girl's screams brought Patrolman Leary, who called the ambulance and Wilson was taken to the city hospital. He had a severe scalp wound, which looked as though it had been influcted with brass knuckles. He was able to go home after receiving medical treatment.

Wilson said he had no idea who assaulted him and the young woman declared herself equally i nthe dark.

Persons living in the neighborhood said the assailant had been hanging around for some time, as though lying in wait for Wilson.

STILL CREEK AND ROAD GANG PAY

Burnaby Council Adopts Engineer's Report on Bridge—Straight $3 Wage.

The Burnaby board of works had the state of the bridge across Still creek under consideration at its last meeting. In connection with this matter the engineer modified his original report somewhat and calculated it might be repaired at a cost of approximately $250 to stand for a couple of years.

Councillor Fau Vel condemned the attitude of the engineer. He had contradicted himself. In his first report he stated the bridge was unsafe and there was only one thing to do, erect a new bridge. Councillor Fau Vel emphasized that the bridge was unsafe and four times $250 would not make it safe. He urged the councillors to make themselves cognizant of the condition of the structure before adopting the engineer's report. Councillor Fau Vel's views did not find acceptance and the engineer's report was adopted.

Straight $3 Wage.

A discussion on the employment and wages of the road gangs brought up in a report by the engineer, elicited a difference of opinion on the expediency of differentiating in pay and classification. Councillor Fau Vel was strongly averse to some men in the same gang drawing $3 per day and others $2.80. He demurred also to relying too much on the discretion of foremen. Some of them were prone to engaging all their relatives, their sisters and cousins and aunts.

Councillor Fau Vel's amendment that all laborers employed by the municipality be paid uniformly $3 a day was carried by 4-2.

Paving Scheme Shelved.

A long discussion on the Barnet road paving proposal evoked by the engineer's report and estimates on it ended in its being received and filed, despite the valiant efforts of Councillor Fau Vel to get the council committed to dedicate a sum from the $500,000 bylaw, provided the bonds were sold. By the adoption of this plan they could go to the government for a grant, but otherwise they could not.

The councillors were adamant and there will be no money for Barnet road this year, the love of the members for the paving scheme being platonic.

A number of other matters were held over for consideration at a future date.

ANOTHER MOUTH FOR THE RIVER RHINE

Berlin, April 15.—It has always been a sore point amongst Germans that their own Father Rhine should make his entrance into the sea through Dutch territory instead of imperial. It has not merely been a matter of pride but one also of pocket, since a very great portion of the profits from German traffic into and out of the Rhine is snapped up by Holland which from a mercantile point of view, commands Europe's most famous northern river at the great port of Rotterdam.

A conference has been held at Munich at which the King of Bavaria was present to discuss the question of creating a "German mouth" to the Rhine. One of the speakers declared: "All German shipbuilding hitherto has been profiting the Dutch without costing them a penny. Germany must now construct an independent outlet to the world's markets." King Ludwig afterwards expressed himself as in favor of the scheme.

NAVAL CRUISERS TO CARRY PASSENGERS AND MAIL

Washington, April 15.—Feasibility of establishing a line of fast naval cruisers to carry passengers, mail and freight between the United States and South America was endorsed by Secretary of the Navy Daniels in a report to the senate on the resolution recently introduced by Senator Weeks. The committee on naval affairs at once introduced a bill to establish one or more navy mail lines to South American ports.

It is the plan to use, in time of peace such swift scout cruisers as are little used in fleet manoeuvres. The mail ships would be commanded by retired officers at the discretion of the navy department, which also fixes rates and fares.

In his letter to Chairman Tillman of the naval committee, Secretary Daniels said:

"It is practicable by the use of naval vessels to carry out the purposes indicated in the resolution and the following vessels will be available for the service: St. Louis, Charleston, Milwaukee, Columbia, Minneapolis, fast cruisers; Salem and Chester, fast scout cruisers; Buffalo and Rainbow, transports; Ancon, Cristobol and Hector, Panama steamers; Mars, Vulcan, Cyclops and Neptune, or two equally as good, and the Nanshan colliers."

MACLEOD CHINESE BOY USES KNIFE ON LAD

Macleod, April 15.—Tormented by a number of white scholars at the Macleod public school, Quong How, a 14 year old Chinese scholar, retaliated by stabbing one of the offenders with a knife, inflicting a wound half an inch deep. Arraigned on a charge of wounding the boy pleaded guilty and in his defence stated that on many previous occasions the white boys had licked him. His statement was corroborated by the chief of police, who stated that he himself had seen the Chinese boys pestered, but he wished the Chinese to clearly understand they could not use knives. In letting the accused out on suspended sentence the justices told the boy he must not use a knife and in future to complain to the police. They also stated that if any future cases of assaults on Chinese scholars came to their notice severe punishment would be dealt out.

Employing the Teller.

An old woman walked into a bank in Inverness, threw down her deposit book and said she wished to draw all her money. Having got it, she retired to the corner of the room and counted it. She then marched up to the teller and exclaimed: "Aye, that'll do, ma man; jist pit it back again. I only wanted to see if it was a' richt."

HUMOR OF COMPOSERS

ABBE LISZT'S DICTUM IS DISPROVEN OVER AND OVER.

Dr. Tudway, Rubenstein, Rossini, Offenbach and Dr. Arne Have All Delightful Bon Mots to Their Credit—Sometimes It Is a Harmless Witticism But Often the Jest Is a Bitter Reproof.

"I have known many composers in my time," the Abbe Liszt once wrote to a friends, "but I have not met one who has had any great sense of humor. I am pleased to learn that you have been more fortunate."

Certainly the famous Abbe was not fortunate in his own experiences; for that the great musician often has as keen a sense of humor as any man, the following stories should prove:

Even Douglas Jerrold himself need not have blushed to be credited with some of the bon mots of Dr. Tudway, an old-time professor of music at Cambridge and a composer of high repute in his day. Once when he was lying dangerous ill of a quinsy, his doctor, turning to Mrs. Tudway, said, "Courage, madam! your husband will get up Hay Hill before summer ends, now that he has been able to swallow some nourishment." "Don't mind him, my dear," Tudway retorted, with a feeble smile, "one swallow does not not make a summer."

On another occasion, when some friends were discussing the niggardly patronage of the Duke of Somerset, then chancellor of the university, the professor convulsed them by saying, "the chancellor rides us all without a bit in our mouths."

Better still was his retort when once he was asked to give his opinion of a certain organist's skill. "He is a clever man, isn't he?" remarked the organist's champion, "and also he is a good man, quite pure and simple." "Oh, as to his simplicity," chimed in the doctor, "that is beyond doubt, for his left hand knoweth not what his right hand doeth."

At one of his recitals at St. James' Hall, Rebenstein was accosted in the entrance hall by an old lady, who addressed him thus: "Oh, Mr. Rubenstein, I am so glad to see you! I have tried in vain to purchase a ticket. Have you a seat you could let me have?" "Madam!" answered the great pianist, "there is but one seat at my disposal, and that you are perfectly welcome to." "A thousand thanks!" the delighted old lady exclaimed. "Where is it?" "At the piano," smilingly answered Rubenstein.

"Pardon me, sir," a shopkeeper once said to Rossini during a visit to his favorite provisian store, "may I beg a great favor of you, that you will give me your photograph with a few words under it." "With pleasure," was the composer's smiling answer as he took a portrait from his pocket, and wrote on it the words, "To my stomach's best friend."

When Offenbach was asked why he had dismissed a clever valet. "Well, you see," he answered, "he always used to beat my clothes outside the door—and I never could get him to do it in time."

Dr. Arne, a famous composer in his day, was once asked to decide on the relative merits of two singers of more conceit than skill. After hearing both, he turned to one of the rivals and said, "You, sir, are the worst singer I ever heard in my life." "Then," exclaimed the other triumphantly, "I win." "No," came the crushing answer. "As for you you can't sing at all."

Equally disconcerting was Handel's rebuff to Dr. Maurice Greene, a composer of very mediocre church music, who invited his opinion on a solo anthem. On the following morning the doctor called to learn the great musician's verdict, but to his disappointment Handel made no reference whatever to the anthem. At last Greene, his patience exhausted, said, "Well, sir, my anthem—what do you think of it?" "Oh! your anthem! ah! I did think it wanted air." "Air?" repeated the mystified caller. "Yes, sir," replied Handel; "and so I did hang it out of de vindow."

When Rousseau produced his "Devin du Village" the public hooted it off the stage, and, as if this treatment were not enough, the members of the band crowned the ignominy of the composer by hanging him in effigy at the door of the theatre. On hearing of this outrage Rousseau added oil to the already fierce fire by saying, "Well, I don't wonder that they should hang me, after having so long tortured me."

Of Cooke, a once famous composer, the following amusing story is told. On one occasion, when he was asked by a bumptious lawyer in court, "What is musical accent?" he answered, "My terms for teaching music are a guinea a lesson." "Never mind what your terms are," continued the counsel angrily, "I want you to explain to his lordship and the jury what is 'musical accent.'" "Very well," replied the composer, "musical accent is emphasis laid on a certain note, just as you would lay stress on any word when speaking, in order to make yourself better understood. Let me give you an illustration. If I were to say that you are a donkey, the accent would be on 'donkey,' but if, instead, I said, 'you are a donkey,' it rests on you, sir, and I have no doubt the gentlemen of the jury will corroborate me."

Equally ready-witted was one of Mozart's pupils, called Kelly, who, finding little gold in his music, took to the more profitable selling of wine, and boldly proclaimed himself, in tribute to his changed character "Michael Kelly, Composer of Wine and Importer of Music."

T. R. SHOOTS "WHATISIT" A MYSTERY TO SCIENCE

New York, April 15.—Cable dispatches from Brazil indicate that Colonel Roosevelt has shot something, but there is a wide divergence of opinion here today as to what is a curucui, or cururo or a spalacopus peoppigi—as the prize is variously designated.

Describing the rare speciment Colonel Roosevelt is bringing back to Manaos, the Sun declares he has shot a cururo, a "burrowing rodent which livee under ground" and explains that its scientific name is spalacopus peoppigi.

The Herald explained today that a curucí is a bird "short and stout with dentate bills and the first and second toes are reversed."

In color the Herald declares the bird is shimmering green or brown marked with pink or yellow. At the American museum of natural history nothing was known of the cururo or curucui. The naturalists there never heard of the animal or bird, the secretary said.

MELT HIS HEART THEN SHAKE FIST

Minister Tells of Peculiar Love of His Wife in Divorce Case.

Tacoma, April 15.—"She had the faculty of writing love letters that would melt a stone statue and then she would turn about and shake her fist at me and order me to go out and dig for a living," declared Rev. A. H. Barnhisel on cross-examination on the witness stand today in superior court when the divorce suit the former pastor of the First Presbyterian church is bringing against his wife was taken up again for trial.

"I don't think she ever lost her love for me, but her love was peculiar. Her view has been that her husband should care, cherish and adore her, besides providing the home daily sustenace and her extravagances and that her only duty was to sit idly by and be the idol of worship, to receive his love without showing any outward demonstration of giving any."

Several times Mrs. Barnhisel interrupted her husband to dispute some statement of his, declaring "it is not so," or "it is not true."

"I never had anything to do with the purchase of household stuff until the latter part of March, when she made a concession that I was to buy the household goods by my own judgment," he continued.

"Whenever I had attempted it before she declared she could not touch a thing I had bought. If I bought meat she would throw it out as unfit to eat, or if she placed it on the table would refuse to touch it as impossible."

Then Barnhisel again told of the tango lessons arranged by his wife and admitted that he had taken dancing lessons two years ago, but that they were not so financially embarrassed then.

OIL THAT POURED ON TROUBLED WATERS

His honor Judge Howay heard an appeal in the county court by the Vancouver harbor board against a decision of the police magistrate of Port Moody in the prosecution of the B. C. Oil Refinery company for polluting the waters within the jurisdiction of the harbor commission by permitting oil to flow into Burrard inlet from their factory.

The magistrate found the refinery company guilty of a technical violation of the law, but expressed the opinion that such a trivial offence was not contemplated by the framers of the violated ordinance. In the circumstances he suspended sentence.

A. R. Maitland, K.C., appeared for the appellants and J. Ellis for the B. C. Oil refinery. Mr. Maitland urged that the penalty of $50 fine should have been imposed and that it was not within the magistrate's discretion to suspend the sentence.

Mr. Ellis urged that the Vancouver harbor board had no power to enforce bylaws not yet published or approved by an order in council.

Mr. Maitland contended the commissioners were empowered to act under the Canada shipping act and orders in council enumerated in the abevance of their own bylaws.

His honor reserved judgment, saying it was a novel and important matter.

The evidence of Captain Reid, harbor master, Vancouver, Captain Fullerton, vice-chairman of the Vancouver harbor commission, and Samuel McLay, harbor commissioner, was heard for the appellants, and Mr. Coles, superintendent of the refinery, for the respondent company.

WOMAN CARRIED LAMB DRESSED AS BABY

Minneapolis, Minn., April 15.—Her failure to put the young one she carried to sleep made Mrs. John Kolowski, 125 Phalen Creek, St. Paul, an object of much interest to passengers on a South St. Paul car late yesterday.

Boarding the car at the stockyards, Mrs. Kolowski was seen to enter with a little burden in her arms dressed in a long white dress and a cap and muffler. As she took a seat she tucked the muffler snugly about the little one's head.

The car was progressing towards St. Paul when the air was broken by a plaintive "Ba-a-a." All heads were turned and the conductor began an investigation. Mrs. Kolowski seemed unconcerned. The source of the cry was not found.

At Phalen Creek a series of "Ba-a-s" broke on the passengers' ears. This place occupied by Mrs. Kolowski. The conductor turned the muffler and cap back. The baby clothing was seen to cover a small lamb.

When the discovery was made Mrs. Kolowski was at her corner and left the car with a smile.

USEFUL AND PRETTY.

Just What the Housewife Will Like.

CORK BAG OF BLUE LINEN.

Corks are one of the little things one can never find when there is use for them. This little cork bag is the clever idea of an ingenious housekeeper who believes in "a place for everything and everything in its place."

The bag is built of blue linen, with a band of cretonne as a decoration. To the end of the bag is attached a corkscrew.

Homemade Flowerpot.

Flowerpots of any size or design may be made of plaster of paris in the following way: First secure a mold of the desired size. It must be smooth upon the outside and the top a little larger than the bottom. Grease the mold and cover it with paper. Mix plaster of paris one part, water two and one-half parts, and into this solution dip inch wide strips of muslin.

Invert the mold and cover the bottom with a square of muslin that has been dipped in the plaster mixture.

Then, upon the same plan that a surgeon employs to adjust a plaster cast, begin to wind diagonally, around and around, working from bottom to top and then back again, smoothing out the creases and keeping the strips even. When the last layer is in place add a generous coating of the plaster, rubbing it level by the hand. Set in a strong current of air, and in a short time the mold can be removed.

The strips of muslin should be about ten inches long to manage easily, and the size of the pot will govern the number used, as a large one will require more in order to produce a heavier article.

The last coating can be stamped with any ornamental impression or beautifully marbled by dusting a little powdered lye upon it before finishing.

Have You a Sautoire?

They formerly were known as lorgnette ribbons, but now they are commonly called sautoires—the quarter inch wide bands in black grosgrain that comes in yard lengths and are joined under hook equipped slides matching other slides of slightly larger size. The smart sautoire is fitted with slides of bar, circle, diamond or crescent shape in solid silver or gold set with brilliants or pearls and is designed to match a tiny watch or a vanity pendant, if lorgnettes are not used.

For elderly women the smartest thing in sautoires is fitted with a slide in cut jet, some of them in butterfly shape, and to suspend from these are circles in jets concealing a base of silver containing a vanity mirror.

Even more novel is the silk cord of yard length and of a brilliant shade of green, blue or red, supposed by the initiated to match the wearer's hosiery. Perhaps it does, but in any event it gives a fetching dash of color to the costume, and it serves to exhibit one of the new pear shaped pendants which come in pearls, amber, jet or brilliants—whichever one can afford.

Value of Neatness in Business World.

The business girl who knows the value of little things in a presentable and attractive apeparance never appears at the office with shabby, unpolished boots or with carelessly manicured hands. The concentrated gaze of the man who is dictating is very likely to fix itself on his stenographer's hand, poised over her notebook, or his lowered, absorbed gaze to focus itself on her feet.

He may or may not notice that the hand is exquisitely white and dainty, and the little boot irreproachably neat with no button missing. But let the hand show rough and ragged nails, or the boot show shabby and buttonless features, in nine cases out of ten his gaze is arrested and a mental note against that employee is registered in his mind. Neatness should be the fetish of the girl worker, then economy, then wisdom in buying and finally all the attractiveness she can compass.

TWO WOMEN BITTEN BY SUPPOSED MAD DOG

Guelph, Ont., April 15.—A mad dog created considerable excitement in that part of the city known as Brooklyn today. It was a large collie dog, and had been acting strangely for several hours, but nobody had any idea it was mad until it attacked Miss Gaughan, on Bay street, as she was going up town. The beast bit her quite severely in the left forearms, and was only warded off the second time with difficulty. After leaving Bay street it attacked and bit Mrs. Reid and tore on up to the Ontario Agricultural college, where two students were also attacked. It was finally shot on Forbes avenue by Constable McElroy and the body taken to the police station, where the head was severed and shipped to the health department at Toronto for examination. Dr. H. O. Howitt, medical health officer, intends to take every possible precaution, and is insisting that the by-law regarding the tieing up of dogs be strictly enforced all over the city.

BROKE A YEAR AGO NOW WORTH $83,000

Portland, Ore., April 15.—Dead broke less than a year ago and now worth $83,000 is the experience of W. B. Connell, a Chisana miner.

H. A. Davis, deputy city attorney a year ago, gave Connell some odd jobs cleaning the yard and basement in his home, for which he paid the man $2. After the work was completed, the stranger asked for $6 for railway fare to Seattle, from which place he intended to go to Alaska. Davis gave Connell $6.

"I have sold the three claims," writes Connell, "to a New York syndicate for $83,000, $12,000 cash and $40,000 in three months and the remainder in six months."

MILLION POUNDS OF FISH IN A SINGLE DAY

Seattle, April 15.—Almost 1,000,000 pounds of fresh fish from the Alaska banks brought to port in two days was the remarkable record set by Seattle's halibut fleet before nightfall last night. Six schooners and one steamboat arrived in port on Sunday and yesterday morning, and seven schooners and another steamboat made their way into port before evening.

The vessels arriving Sunday and yesterday morning brought and aggregate of 477,000 pounds of fish. The list consists of the steamboat San Juan with 220,000 pounds, and the followin gschooners: Athena, 80,000 pounds; Altan, 80,000; Olympic, 40,000; Malala, 25,000; Eagle, 20,000, and Alice B., 12,000.

The steamship Rush, with more than 200,000 pounds, and the schooners Crescent, Washington, Decorah, Tekla, Dora, Daisy and Pacific carrived before sundodwn.

THROUGH TRAINS ON CROW LINE NEXT YEAR

Grand Forks, April 15.—That coast to coast trains of the C. P. R. will be running through Grand Forks next year on the shortest Canadian transcontinental line becomes more assured as information is received from construction work along the route.

Only a few miles of steel are to be laid by the Kettle Valley railway to link up Grand Forks with Penticton and it is expected that the gap will be closed up in July. Construction is making good progress west from Penticton, which it is expected will be linked up with Spence's Bridge.

CHIEF OF INDIAN BUREAU ENDS LIFE WITH SHOT

Washington, April 15.—E. P. Holcombe, chief supervisor of the Indian bureau, shot and killed himself in a room of a downtown hotel today. Holcombe's associates believe he was led to take his life through despondency over his physical condition.

Officials of the interior department with whom Holcombe had been associated for twenty years, said the affairs of his office were in perfect shape.

Among the papers which littered the room was a letter requesting the authorities to inform his wife and children at Denver, Colo., of his act. The official was 50 years old.

ABUSED HIS FIRST WIFE, BUT NOT HIS SECOND

Liberty, Mo., April 15—Lafe Choate, the man who hitched his wife to a plow with two mules and plowed with her in the fields three years ago, has taken a second wife—and there's another story.

Choate got married again, Miss Bessie Evans, of Kansas City, being his bride. At the time Judge John Steep warned Miss Evans of Choate's character.

"Oh, I know all about him," she replied. "If there's any plowing to be done, he'll do it."

She has apparently made her threat good. Choate, the terrible, is waiting on his wife as a courtier waits on a queen, the neighbors say.

Perhaps the reason is that his bride weighs 200 pounds. Choate was nearly lynched by the farmers of Clay county three years ago and the fright also may have tamed his disposition. A divorce followed his prosecution and term of ten days in jail at that time.

Auction Seized Goods.

Some good bargains were picked up yesterday at the customs offices when Auctioneer Tom Trapp superintended an auction sale of articles confiscated or refused delivery at the offices of New Westminster, White Rock and Abbotsford. This sale is held from time to time according to the number of the accumulated articles. The feature article yesterday was a motorcycle which was seized from a Vancouver citizen by A. Fadden of the local staff, the cycle being brought over from the American side without payment of the 35 per cent. duty. It was knocked down at $230, the sale price in Canada being $380, while $280 is asked in the U. S. for the same article. A considerable amount of jewelry was sold, a great quantity of this having been seized at the White Rock and Abbotsford entry ports.

The Yeomen Tonight.

The Yeomen of the Guard has now reached the last stage of preparation since the dress rehearsal Tuesday evening, and the club, patrons and management alike, are confidently anticipating a great success tonight and Friday. The curtain will rise promptly at 8:30 on both nights, and the managers ask that patrons will be so kind as to occupy their seats a few minutes before that hour, so as to avoid any disturbance of the enjoyment of those already seated. The booking to date is remarkable, as there are but very few seats left for either performance. Interest of course is centered upon the local talent that has with much effort undertaken such a heavy opera.

At the Theatres

AT THE EDISON.

Patrons of the Edison theatre who have been following "The Adventures of Kathlyn" will be treated to another instalment of this series today when the fifth section entitled "Colonel in Chains" will be shown. The introduction to this part of the story follows:

With Kathlyn's revelation of herself as a slave, Prince Umballah, her purchaser, has her imprisoned in the dungeon of the royal palace. There she finds her father whom she was led to believe had been dead. That worthy gentleman, enraged, tries with his bare hands to end the life of the hateful Umballah, who intrudes upon their presence, but is dragged away by his retainers. This is brought about when Umballah informs Kathlyn that she is to be the favorite of his harem. This so infuriates Colonel Hare that he is about to strangle the dusky prince, when Kathlyn implores him not to stain his hands with blood. Umballah staggers to his feet, furious with rage, leaves the place vowing vengeance, promising to return with the executioner to publicly flog his prisoner. As he staggers up the steps in the corridor of the palace, he encounters Bruce, the American hunter, who has found his way into that labyrinth in search of Kathlyn. Umballah suspicions him, questions him and then orders him taken from the palace. In the throne room Umballah nfids his councillors, makes his complaint, and it is agreed that Colonel Hare must suffer for tampering with his sacred person.

SOCIAL CLUB REVIVED AT ENJOYABLE BALL

The old Burquitlam Country Social club has been revivd and a most successful costume ball on Monday evening marked its resuscitation. Rain, notwithstanding, there was a large turn out and the various characters represented were hit off faithfully and humorously with good taste. Perhaps the most admired types portrayed were Mr. Haliburton's itinerant organ grinder, his general get-up, including the monkey evoking great merriment, and the two "Scotch fisher lassies" charmingly represented by Misses Haliburton and Walker. Mrs. Haliburton, as a London Coster girl, was also greatly appreciated.

Other excellently got-up characters were: Mr. Robertson, Pierrot; C. Patchell, sailor; Miss Patchell, spring chicken; F. Wiltshire, grocery clerk; Miss Wiltshire and Mr. Wiltshire, bride and groom; Misses Hailey, Geisha and Mary Jane; Miss Bunting, Dutch girl; Mrs. Findlay, red, white and blue; W. Henderson, Scotch shepherd; Mrs. J. Henderson, gipsy; Miss Mackay, Dominion of Canada; Mrs. Haddon, sailor; Mrs. Gunn, Wales; Mrs. Haliburton, London Coster girl; Misses Haliburton and Walker, Scotch fisher lassies; A. Haliburton, organ grinder; Mrs. Fellowes, nurse; Mr. Hassell, golfer; Master and Miss Robertson, clan Donnachie tartan.

Other guests were Mr. and Miss Montgomery, Messrs, Stewart, Billy McVie, colony farm, Coquitlam; Councillor and Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. Hailey, Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie, Sapperton; W. A. Holme, Mr. Haddon, Miss Oliver, Miss Mumby, Mrs. Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann.

The grand march was led off by D. Montgomery and Mrs. W. Walker.

Convention Closes Today.

Moose Jaw, April 15.—The three days' convention of the Saskatchewan Educational association will close tomorrow and the teachers will return home tomorrow. There was considerably over 1000 teachers at the meetings today, the keenest interest being taken in the nine different addresses that were delivered, and a pleasant feature of the day's proceedings was the reading of messages from the Manitoba and Alberta Teachers' convention that are in the meantime sitting in Winnipeg and Lethbridge.

Return to Work.

Douglas, Ariz., April 15.—Three thousand copper mine employees who went on strike Monday night as a demonstration against the deportation of Tomas Martinez, one of their leaders, as a Huerta sympathizer, returned to work today, according to despatches from Naco Martinez was allowed to return to Cananea last night.

Miners in Mass Convention Decide to Withdraw from Union.

Pittsburg, April 15.—Denouncing their officials as "unscrupulous"; declaring the miners' organization was a dictatorship; and that the United Mine Workers of America, "like all other craft union had outlived its usefulness," the "insurgent" mass convention of miners in session at Monongahela, today voted to withdraw from District No. 15, U. M. W. of A. A committee was named to launch a new organization to be known as the Industrial Mine Workers' union.

In Monongahela it was claimed the resolution of withdrawal represents about 15,000 mine workers. The trouble grows out of the wage scale situation.

Carden Goes to Mexico.

New York, April 15.—Sir Lionel Carden arrived here today on the steamship Olympic. He declined to discuss the Mexican situation or to tell of his immediate plans. He is on his way to Mexico City and it is stated that he may travel overland to Galveston to be met by a British cruiser. Sir Lionel was until recently the British minister to Mexico. His present return to that country is only temporary before proceeding to Brazil.

EAST BURNABY

Lacrosse Club to Meet on Friday—Will Have Club in the City League.

East Burnaby will be back fighting for the championship of the City lacrosse league this summer according to plans being formulated in the suburban district. The annual meeting of the club will be held in the Edmonds Young Men's club rooms, Edmonds street on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, when officers will be elected for the season of 1914.

East Burnaby has yet to win the championship although it has displayed some splendid battles on Queen's park oval against the best.

The annual meeting of the league will probably be held next week when the schedule for the season will be drawn up.

BRAMPTON COMING

Will Play Exhibition Game Against Royal Amateurs in July—Meeting Last Night.

The enthusiasm that attends the work of the New Westminster senior amateur lacrosse was demonstrated at an executive meeting held in J. J. Johnston's office last night when every member of the board attended to discuss matters pertaining to the annual meeting of the Pacific coast league which will be held in Victoria on Saturday next.

The Royal delegates will be present at the capital with a complete plan of action in the way of securing special dates for home games and also some proposed alterations to the present constitution. New Westminster will probably open the season on May 25, Victoria day, at Victoria against Sam Lorimer's twelve.

With the visit of the Brampton team this summer in quest of the Mann cup now held by the V.A.C., it is altogether probable that the Ontario aggregation will be given an opportunity to stack up against the Royals on the Queen's Park oval. A communication was received from Brampton yesterday asking for dates following the final cup game against Vancouver on Dominion day.

HOCKEY SALARIES

Big Money Paid to Stars Before the Commission was formed—Lalonde Nigh Independent.

Some of the professional hockey stars who recently hung up their sticks and packed away their war togs until December have good-sized bank accounts to fall back upon and as the result of their success on the ice. Others have gone through their quick earned salaries in rapid fire order and will not be much better off when their hockey careers close than when they started.

Fred Taylor is generally recognized as John D. of the hockey arena. Fred started his hockey campaign with nothing but a smile and a lot of speed. Now they say he owns real estate in Ottawa. Vancouver and Toronto and can write his check for $20,000 any old day. "Cyclone" received $7500 for two seasons' work as a member of the Renfrew team. He is said to be drawing $1800 for his services to the Vancouver team, while the Ottawas also handed him a big stipend when he was a member of the red, white and black squad. Taylor is said to have saved every penny of his hockey earnings and quite a lot of other coin besides. His investments are secure and he could retire at once and be absolutely independent of the game which made his the most talked-of player in Canada. His Renfrew salary broke all records.

Foxy Is "Newsy."

The real Russel Sage of the hockey business, however, is "Newsy" Lalonde. He is the prince of financiers. Lalonde began his athletic career when the Cornwall lacrosse club took him out of a printing shop in the Factory Town and placed him between the poles. He jumped to Regina, to Vancouver, to the Irish-Canadians, to Nationals, to Canadiens and others, and every time "Newsy" made a move it benefitted him. In 1912 he pulled down just $5000 from the Vancouver lacrosse club, then headed by Con Jones. He got $3000 from the Canadiens in 1913 and his salary this year is reported to have been around $2500. "Newsy" allows his admirers to do the spending, in which he is correct. In a few years they won't want to speak to me, perhaps" he recently observed. "Then my own money will come in handy."

Success Merited.

Lalonde must have about $25,000 salted away, as he has been in the limelight since 1908 and has got it both ways, from hockey and lacrosse. "Newsy" was accused of "throwing" a lacrosse game at Cornwall, but the charge was absolutely false. Lalonde is strictly on the "level," to revert to hockey parlance and any success he may have attained was well merited.

Oxford Relay Team Arrive in New York—Ready for Pensy Meet.

New York, April 15.— Arnold N. S. Jackson, England's great mile runner, and three other representatives of Oxford university, arrived here today on the Olympic to prepare for the international relay race which is to take place under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, a week from next Saturday.

Jackson said that they came over here to run, not to talk and when pressed for information as to the records of his team mates, he said they had done lots of things including getting seasick on the trip over.

Hamilton Again With St. Louis—Coaching at Third—Other Baseball News.

Kansas City, April 15.—Earl Hamilton, pitcher who jumped from the St. Louis Americans to the Kansas City Federals last Thursday, agreed today to join the St. Louis team. Hamilton reached his decision after an all day conference with President Hedges of the St. Louis club.

Fraser Mills vs. New Westminster is the card at Fraser Mills on Sunday afternoon. Billy Weingartner is reported to have signed on with the Circle F. for Sunday ball, being considerably peeved at the action of the umpire at Blaine last Sunday when he robbed the Royals of the game. Billy has been the star slugger for the Blaine nine for the past three seasons.

Arthur Devlin, who used to star around third base for the New York Giants and the Boston Braves and who is now directing the destinies of the Oakland Pacific Coast team, has established a new record in trying out a rookie. A youth named Dion was signed, tried and canned all in a half hour the other day. Devlin first signed him at the lowest bush figures, presented him with a suit, chased him out to the field, batted a couple of easy flies at him and then fired him.

Half page advertisements in the Buffalo papers are used to exploit the sale of $50,000 of 7 per cent preferred stock in $10 shares of the Federal baseball league club of Buffalo. A bonus of one-half the purchase amount in common stock is offered as an inducement to buy. The ads. read like the oil fields or the mining stock in their palmiest days. The only thing omitted is the caption "There's one born every minute."

Sammy Lichtenhein has lost 15 ball players to the Feds, which is an evidence of his popularity with the Montreal club.

Local option has been given a new curve in Nebraska through its application to baseball. The results of Tuesday's elections among the municipalities of that state contain some instructive figures.

The condition of the uplift in the state celebration for many things not the least of which is the residence of the American secretary of state, is disclosed by the tell-tale figures that Sunday baseball has prevailed, by a vote of three to one. Fifteen towns are for it and five against it. At the same time among 140 towns voting on the liquor traffic, there have been 17 changes from "wet" to "dry" and nine changes from "dry" to "wet." It is clear that in Nebraska there is no relation whatever between sentiment as to Sunday baseball and sentiment "wet" or "dry."

The prefect of police in France, M. Hennien, has put the ban on the idea to hold the woman's boxing championship of the world in the French metropolis.

Another Flight Arranged.

Paris, April 15—The National Aerial league is arranging in conjunction with the Russian Aero club a trans-Siberian flight from St. Petersburg to Pekin, a distance of 5600 miles, it was announced today. The flight is to take place in June.

Negro Eases McGraw's Feelings After Spilling Soup on Him.

John McGraw returned from his trip through foreign lands with this little story:

"While in Australia we took dinner one day at an hotel where they had negro waiters. The waiter who served our table seemed a bit new at the work—and also a bit flustered. I ordered thick vegetable soup. He came with it and was just on the point of lowering the tray on the table when his nerves overcame him. He tilted the plate and the soup landed on the shoulder of a nice new coat I was wearing.

"The darkey immediately began to mop up my soup-smeared shoulder with a napkin, and after he had removed a certain portion of the adhering vegetables, he stooped down and whispered to me:

"'Das, a'right, Mistah McGraw. Don't worry, sah. I'll bring you some mo' soup. We's got lots of it heah."

Sammy Lichtenhein Wants Big Sum for N. H. A. Franchise.

Montreal, April 15.—Sam Lichtenhein, president of the Wanderer hockey team, values the N.H.A. franchise at more than $30,000, despite the fact that the recently-closed hockey season set him back about $4000.

It leaked out today that a couple of well known local business men, along with one of the Wanderer players, had offered President Lichtenhein $30,000 for his Wanderer holdings. He turned the offer down and intimated that he would not accept twice the amount. The franchise is not for sale at any figure, the prospective purchasers were given to understand.

President Sam figures that he'll have a winner some day, if he ever lands a good net minder and then he'l recoup his losses. In the meantime he is willing to dig down.

Advance Style In Spring Millinery.

BLACK HEMP SMARTNESS.

There is every reason to believe that the small, close fitting hat has come to spend another season with us All the advance spring models exploit this chic headgear. And, as to the height, the new hats exceed in altitude anything seen in this direction this winter. That's "going some!"

The new shapes, many of them, have what are called "revers"—that is, turned up flaps over high standing brims. This is the latest idea of a famous Parisian milliner.

The dainty creation pictured is of black hemp with a crushed straw crown and an exaggerated flare. The only trimming is a little bow of taffeta and two or three peonies attached to the flared brim.

Reasonable Enough.

M. Corteline, the well-known French dramatist, took a corner seat in a train at the St. Lazare station in Paris one day and proceeded to make himself comfortable. A few minutes later another traveler entered the compartment.

"Pardon me," said the newcomer, "but I had taken that place."

"Indeed!" remarked Corteline without moving.

"Yes," the other persisted. "I had put a newspaper there."

Corteline fished out the newspaper from underneath him. "But this is yesterday's paper," he pointed out. "And you can't take a seat in the train the day after!"

The retort so floored the other man that he retired hastily to find another seat.

How to Keep Shoes Clean.

Twenty-five cents is the price of a little contrivance which any man would appreciate, and there is no reason why it should not find favor with busy women too. It is a shoe polisher which can be carried about in the pocket or handbag.

It is a little strip of lamb's wool a couple of inches wide and twice as long, backed with a piece of leather. When the polisher is not in use it is rolled up with the leather side out and clasped shut with a ball and socket clasp.

"Do you know the muffin man?
Do you know his name?
Do you know the muffin man
Who lives in Drury Lane?"

DO you remember chanting this doggerel when you were that high? How good those muffins tasted!

But now-a-days it is not necessary to have a speaking acquaintance with the Drury Lane celebrity to obtain good muffins. You can beat his wares hollow by making them with Royal STANDARD FLOUR. He, poor fellow, had to be content with any flour he could get. The recipe quoted is more popular than his.

If you are out of "flour" ask your grocer for a sack of ROYAL STANDARD—your "buy word" for the best.

"POOR BILLY, THAT'S HIM"

Wife "Identifies" Husband in Morgue Finds Him at Home

Chicago, April 15.—"Poor Billy,—that's him," moaned Mrs Wm. Karberg, and she fainted in an undertaker's morgue today, after identifying the body of a street car victim as that of her husband, a night watchman.

The undertaker drove Mrs. Karberg home. When she arrived she found "Poor Billy" smoking a pipe and reading a morning paper.

PRIME MINISTER HAS NO REAL RANK

Post of Head of British Government Not Officially Recognized—Other Cabinet Anomalies.

London, April 15.—Once more Mr. Asquith is a member of the house of commons, and in addition is first lord of the treasury, secretary of state for war and prime minister. He is by no means the first of British premiers to hold two offices in addition to the premiership. The younger Pitt was first lord of the treasury and chancellor of the exchequer, and the same offices were held by Addington, Spencer Perceval, Canning and Peel, and also by Gladstone for part of two administrations. Rosebery was first lord of the treasury and lord president of the council. It has been the almost invariable custom of British premiers to be the first lord of the treasury. In his second and third administrations, however, Lord Salisbury did not hold this portfolio. It might be remarked that while it is necessary for any member of parliament on taking an office of profit under the crown, such as a cabinet position, to resign his seat and seek re-election, no minister heretofore has thought it necessary to resign when merely adding another portfolio, or exchanging one for the othr. In this respect Mr. Asquith has set a precedent.

An Office Ignored.

One of the anomalies of the British constitution is that it does not recognize its most important officer, namely, the prime minister. He has no legal status, duties or powers with one exception. He receives no salary, and officially there appears to be a conspiracy to ignore him. Until nine years ago the office or title was never mentioned in any official document except on two occasions. One was in the Treaty of Berlin, in 1878, when Lord Beaconsfield had himself styled as "First Lord of Her Majesty's Treasury, Prime Minister of England," but he explained that he assumed the title as a concession to the ignorance of foreigners who would not have understood his real place in the British government otherwise. In 1900 through an error the court circular referred to Lord Salisbury as prime minister. It was not until 1905 that the office of prime minister was definitely mentioned in an official document and this was for the purpose of determining his status.

Balfour's Precedent.

As noted, the prime minister was almost invariably first lord of the treasury, and his title to precedence rested upon this office, and not upon the premiership. The first lord of the treasury, however, did not take precedence over all other members of the cabinet, and it was in order to remove this anomaly that Balfour when prime minister secured the issuance of a royal warrant giving the prime minister precedence over all others with the exception of the royal family, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, and the lord high chancellor. It ought to be understood that Balfour did not do this on his own account, since the warrant was issued only three days before Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman became prime minister.

First Prime Minister.

A writer in the New York Tribune expresses the opinion that it was ignorance of the English language on the part of George I. that was responsible for the creation of our prime ministers. Before the time of George it had been the custom of the king, as it is still his right, to preside at all cabinet meetings. George, however, was a German and knew little English. It was felt that it would be both absurd and embarrassing for him to preside at these meetings when he could not understand what was being said, and so he refrained from attending. It was necessary, however, that there should be a chairman of some sort, and therefore one was chosen. Naturally he would be the most important member of the cabinet. Since that time the king has not attended the cabinet meetings. It is commonly said that Walpole was the first prime minister of England; but in 1741 Sandys, in the course of his attack upon Walpole, declared that "according to our constitution we can have no prime minister." Twenty years later George Grenville described the name of prime minister as "an odious title."

Cabinet Not Recognized.

The cabinet itself has no more legal status than its presiding officer. Theoretically it is one of the numerous committees of the privy council, but as such has no statutory authority. It has no appointed place of meeting, no secretary, nor a dollar to hire a messenger or buy postage stamps. No record is kept of its proceedings. Indeed, there is an unwritten law that a member of the cabinet may not take any notes of a meeting for the purpose of keeping clearly in mind what was decided upon. No. 10 Downing street, where the cabinet meets, is merely the official residence of the first lord of the treasury, and it is there that the cabinet gathers, because it is the custom for the prime minister to be first lord of the treasury. Most of the prime ministers have lived in this house, but some of them have not. Lord Salisbury held his cabinet meetings in the foreign office, because he was not first lord of the treasury, except in his first administration.

ARGENTINE CORN TO GO VIA MONTREAL PORT

New York, April 15.—The situation has developed in the corn market that may make it possible for operators in the west to turn importations of Argentine corn to their own advantage.

Several large speculators have been exceedingly bearish for some time and the recent advances made matters look rather dubious for them. These interests, led by Patten and Armour, are accredited with being heavily short.

Farmers are behind with their spring work, and there is a possibility of falling off in receipts which will bring about a rise in values.

Should market conditions develop in this manner much further, there is a possible coup in sight for these shorts. This is nothing more nor less than shipping cargoes of Argentine corn to Chicago.

Chicago needs no corn, but the effect on the market may be imagined. The ocean rate to Montreal is 1¼ cents higher than is it to New oYrk. From Montreal to Chicago there is no established rate on grain, but with grain boats plying between these two points, and most of them returning empty, favorable rates would be an easy matter to arrange. Furthermore, the shippers would be able to arrange favorable rates from Argentine to Montreal, as a steamer arriving at Montreal would have no difficulty in getting the cargo to the United Kingdom and return corgo thence to Argentine, thus making a triangular voyage.

MONEY MOVE PUZZLES NEW YORK BANKERS

New York, April 15.—The Wall Street Journal remarks: "New York continues to receive gold from Canada. This is rather a remarkable movement, and the persistency with which exchange at Montreal is maintained at a premium is puzzling a good many bankers.

"It has been said that New York bankers have been loaning rather heavily in Canada lately in order to obtain better rates for money prevailing across the border, but this is certainly not borne out by the position of exchange at Montreal, nor the current drift of gold in tihs direction.

"There have been some scattering Canadian municipal loans offered in this market of late, due to the fact that London has been rather surfeited with these issues. Heretofore such issues have not been well taken at New York, but recent loans like the city of Alberta offering, have been placed here on a more attractive basis, and were well subscribed. They may be followed by others.

"These issues, however, have been too small to be an influential factor. There is no getting away from the fact that Canadian exchange points to a general drift of money in this direction, the cause for which is doubtless the same as is bringing about an accumulation of deposits here from other interior points."

AIRGRETTES BARRED AFTER JAN. 1, 1915

Canadian Schedule Is So Worded That Importers Cannot Elude It.

The importation of "aigrettes, egret plumes, or so-called osprey plumes and the feathers, quills, heads, tails, skins or parts of skins of wild birds, either raw or manufactured," is absolutely prohibited on and from January 1 next, with the following exceptions:

Feathers or plumes of ostriches, plumage of the English pheasant and the Indian peacock, the plumage of wild bird ordinarily used for food, the plumage of birds imported for museums or educational purposes with the special permission of the customs authorities.

Aigrette importers, clever though they be, cannot possibly get around that schedule, for egrettes are not ostriches, nor pheasants nor peacocks, nor are they used for food, nor can they be imported alive, so that there is lively to be such a slaughtering of egret in the next six months for the Canadian demand as never was seen before.

Certain it is that very large stocks will be laid in by the jobbers and storekeepers, and there will probably be some interesting developments when the "aigrette trust" makes a corner and forces the society woman to buy the feathers one at a time and a thousand dollars a throw.

Aigrettes, as has been driven into the minds of newspaper readers for the last decade, are dragged from the living egret, or lesser white heron, at the time when the mother bird is caring for her newly hatched young. That is the time when she is in full plumage and the only time when she can be caught.

The operation, brutal in itself, is made more so by the roughness and haste with which the butchers work, and it is rarely that the victim lives through the ordeal. Naturally, with no one to care for them, the nestlings die of exposure and hunger, a long, miserable death, so that every tuft of aigrettes is responsible for the death of three and sometimes five birds, all except one of which die uselessly.

The importation of feathers into Canada amounts, at their retail value, to upwards of two million dollars, of which aigrettes account for a large proportion. At the wholesale valuation, and before paying duty, the importation of feathers into this country in 1913, under the following heads, was as follows:

Artificial feathers and flowers suitable for trimming hats, $785,296. Fancy feathers, dressed, $406,162; ostrich feathers, $71,620.

PERTH, ONT., OPPOSES PRISON FARM SCHEME

Stratford, Ont., April 15.—The Perth county council has held to its rule of "no action" and refuses to fall in line with the proposition to have a prison farm for this county and those around it. The matter was brought before the session by M. Martyn and W. Featherstone, who moved that a commissioner be appointed. The motion, however, did not go through. Mr. Squires, of Norfolk, in speaking to the council concerning the matter, urged that for the sake of economy as well as humanity the counties should have one prison farm. There are too many jails in his opinion, and they do more than most other things to increase the number of criminals. The estimated cost of such a farm would be $40,000, of which Perth's share would be $4,350 on a basis of population.

Boy Kills Sister.

Regina, April 14.—Mabel Ferris, a little girl, was accidentally shot and killed by her brother at North Regina this morning. The girl ran towards the boy who was holding the rifle and her head struck the barrel, with the result that the bullet entered her brain.

"GIN PILLS ARE WONDERS"

Says Prominent Winnipeg Newspaper Man. "Before I Used The Second Box, The Pain Had Left"

"Manitoba Free Press"
Winnipeg, Jan. 15th. 1913

"I think it only right that I should tell you about the benefits I received the last couple of weeks by using GIN PILLS. I was troubled for over three weeks with a pain in my back, and tried a number of remedies without any benefit. One of the reporters had also been troubled the same way and he said to me, "Why don't you use GIN PILLS? I used a box and a half and the pain left". He said "You take this other half of the box and get another box, and you will be all right". I am glad to inform you that before I used all of the second box, I felt myself all right again and the pain had left. I certainly think GIN PILLS are wonders".

'PLAY SQUARE' COURT HELPS THE BOYS

Chicago Tribunal Directs Efforts Toward Making Lads Into Useful Citizens.

Chicago, April 15.—Although only a few weeks old, the boys' court, the only tribunal of its kind in America, has been heartily endorsed by jurists, police officials and sociologists who have watched with keen interest.

Under the direction of Municipal Judge Thomas F. Scully, the boys' court has taken charge of all male offenders of either the state laws or city ordinances, between the ages of 17 and 21 years. The results thus far obtained, social workers believe, will lead other large cities to establish a boys' court, fashioned after the local bench.

Object to Save Boys.

The prime object of the new court is to save the first offender, whose age would bar him from a hearing in the juvenile court, and previously required his case to be heard either in the municipal or criminal courts. In the words of Judge Scully, the intention of the boys' court is to "save a boy from himself and from society for the benefit of both."

The offenders brought before Judge Scully are made to feel that the court stands ready to help them out of their difficulties if they will "play square." The court recognizes the "spirit of adventure" that pervades the nature of every healthy lad and does not seek to curb it, but rather to direct this potential force along the right lines, to win the youth's friendship and to make him know he is to be directed along the path of good citizenship.

Shown the Right Way.

The boy brought before the court is shown that there are many ways for the spirit of adventure to express itself that do not conflict with the law, but, even more, mean health and strength of body and mind, and increased efficiency and usefulness. When the first impulse of the spirit bring the boy into court, he is not sentenced as a malefactor, although he may be punished by confinement. His sentence does not carry him among hardened criminals, from whom he may absorb the real spirit toward law and order of animosity toward law and order, but gives him a chance to prove that he can be an upright, honorable citizen.

"If a boy is sent to jail," s aid Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, who was one of the agitators for the establishment of the boys' court, "there is every chance to believe he will emerge a hardened chriminal, his life warped and wrecked by evil associates and surroundings. It has been well said that the jails of this country are post-graduate schools of crime—attendance compulsory."

The advisability of maintaining a public defender of all boys brought into this court is being seriously considered. His work would be to find out all the extenuating circumstances and to act with the public prosecutor for the best interests of the defendant as well as society.

DISINHERITED WIFE FIGHTS FOR HER RIGHTS

Toronto, April 15.—Hearing of the action instituted by Mrs. Lottie Martin, widow of the late Franz J. Martin, tailor, of Boswell avenue, to have his will set aside and her rights as his widow established, was commenced in the special non-jury court at Osgoode hall before Chancellor Boyd. Mr. Martin died in October last at the age of 85, leaving an estate valued at $10,000. Under his will, dated January 29, 1913, he bequeathed the whole of his property to his three sons by a former marriage, and to certain charities, Mrs. Martin being ignored entirely.

In asking that the will be set aside she contends that it was made at a time when her husband was mentally incapable, and was the result of undue influence used by interested parties. Mrs. Martin was married in August, 1903, but had been housekeeper to Mr. Martin for some ten years previous, and assisted in his business. For some reason the deceased entertain delusions regarding his wife in his latter years, which caused unpleasantness between them. It was alleged that while in that frame of mind he made the will disinheriting her.

Mrs. Martin related the story of her married life, and told of the great attention she had given her husband and his affairs, intimating that at one period she had advanced money to him out of her savings to keep the business going.

Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnston gave evidence regarding the mental condition of the deceasde. The case was not concluded when the court adourned.

MURDER AT PENITENTIARY

One Prisoner Killed by Another With Iron Bucket.

Minneapolis, April 13.—Junior Danielson, 26, a convict at the Stillwater penitentiary, was murdered today by John Schultz, another convict.

The two men quarreled in the cell house and Schultz struck Danielson over the head with an iron bucket. Schultz, who is believed to be insane, was immediately placed in confinement.

Danielson was sent to the reformatory at Red Wing from Washington county and was transferred to the penitentiary May 10, 1911. Schultz was convicted of assault in Koochiching county.

Woman's World

Lady Decies Spends Holidays With Parents.

LADY DECIES AND HER ELDER DAUGHTER.

All the world and his wife remember the marriage three years ago of Miss Vivian Gould, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould, to Lord Decies of England.

The bride at the time was exceptionally young, rich and one of the cleverest amateur dancers in the country. Indeed, if necessary, milady could earn a handsome living by "tripping the light fantastic." Well, Lady Decies, with her husband, Lord Decies, and her older daughter, Eileen, are now in this country visiting Lady Decies' parents.

The Decies family came over from England for the Christmas holidays, and right royal wits the fun and frolic during their stay at Georgian Court, Mr. Gould's magnificent estate at Lakewood, N. J.

Lady Decies is a great social favorite in the smart London set and is one of the most successful hostesses among the young matrons.

Teacher Seeks Eugenic Mate.

Latest of the candidates to "offer herself upon the altar of matrimony for the betterment of the race" in a eugenics marriage is Miss Clara Macy, a school teacher of New City, Nev.

She has some ideas of her own regarding what a eugenics husband should be, however, which she thinks even the Medical Review of Reviews, which proposes to mate a perfect man and a perfect woman, might overlook. At least she has sent a list of qualifications upon which she will insist, as follows:

"He must not use liquor, opiates or tobacco in any form. He must be courteous and thoughtful to others. He must be a clean man in thought and in language and must be immaculate about his person.

"I don't care about his looks as long as he is clean about his person and is not deformed in any way.

"Do you think that I expect too much? I know myself and am confident that I am a fit mate for such a man."

In her letter Miss Macy says:

"I am twenty-nine years old and am five and a half feet tall. I weigh 175 pounds. I call my hair red because I don't want to be accused of bragging, but the rest of the folks assure me it is auburn.

"My eyes are hazel (green, you know, with some brown and gray). A young man who taught in our school some years ago was foolish enough to write some poetry about them.

"My health is excellent, and I feel sure that I would make a fit mate for some fine, red blooded man. In the interests of science and for the betterment of the race I am willing to unite and live in eugenic wedlock."

The Crinkle Crape Bride.

A girl who is courageously preparing to face comparative poverty with the "dearest fellow in the world" is making all of her lingerie in white cotton crinkle crape, because she knows that for several years at least she'll have to do her own washing. Please don't imagine that this bride's undergarments are anything like the atrocities marked "a bargain—59 cents each."

They are lovely, dainty white combinations—petticoats, nightdresses and negligees—handmade and cut from the latest French patterns. Some of the sets are finished about the neck, front and sleeves with white lingerie beading, through which narrow ribbons may be run; others are edged with hand embroidered scallops, and several are trimmed with narrow cluny, the one sort of imitation lace which washes well and doesn't look cheap on underwear.

This girl has made her boudoir set, so called—although the nearest she'll come to owning a boudoir for years to come will be a bedroom in a small flat—of white crinkle crape. It consists of a spread for the dressing table, a cover for the sewing machine, a square pillow for the lounge, a pair of sash curtains and a bedspread to match the lingerie outfit, and it will always look fresh because she can wash it with her own hands.

Velvet Versus Fur.

For many reasons stoles and neckpieces of velvet are preferable to those consisting entirely of peltry. The velvet clings more closely to the neck. It is more healthy to wear than fur because on the many mild days throughout our winters it can safely be replaced by silk or lace, whereas the extreme warmth of fur renders the wearer peculiarly susceptible to cold if replaced by any of these materials.

TALK EIGHT HOUR DAY FOR NURSES

Provincial Convention at Victoria Discusses Subject—Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Victoria, April 15.—Prevention of tuberculosis and a proposed eight hour day for nurses occupied the stage at the second day's session of the British Columbia Graduate Nurses' association, the first annual convention closing here last night.

Miss Wright, of New Westminster, was in the chair, first calling upon Dr. A. P. Proctor, of Vancouver, who delivered an excellent paper on the subject of "Public Health Work."

Good health, said Dr. Proctor, though the most valuable asset of an individual or nation was little appreciated by the average man or woman until a spectre of some dreaded disease cast its shadow across the scene. The maintenance of the health of the individual was the chief requirement in the healthy growth of the state. An enormous quantity of suffering and loss of life resulted from causes greatly preventable.

Preventive medicine had done much to eliminate such diseases as typhoid, diphtheria and tuberculosis, and had, moreover, opened up new countries for the wealth of the nation through victory over tropical diseases.

Heavy Death Rate.

The Panama canal was an instance of this fact. In certain quarters there was an attitude of contempt towards this phase of medicine, yet tuberculosis was responsible for one-seventh of the world's death rate. In the United States 155,000 people died annually through this scourge, and in Victoria itself out of a year's death rate of 569 for 1913, 63 deaths had been due to tuberculosis. Irving Fisher had estimated the value of a wage-earning life lost through this disease at $6000, yet tuberculosis was a preventible disease. A member of the legislature had asked last year on the steps of Tranquille sanitorium if it paid to cure these people. It not only paid to cure them, but it would pay infinitely more to prevent them. The broken hearts, and human suffering, and shadowed homes caused by this scourge testified eloquently enough as to this fact. It was indeed "the pestilence that walketh in darkness," and the housing problem was responsible for much of it.

In Vancouver, said the speaker, there were no adequate building by-laws. The plans for a house had to go first to a building inspector, who possessed structural knowledge only. It was only when the erection was finished that the health officer was consulted.

Expectoration in street cars and other public places was another active agent in spreading tuberculosis. In Calgary notices had been put up at all the street corners, and a $50 fine was provided for this offence. Inquiry made of the police showed that this bylaw was now being strictly enforced and the disgusting habit was fast disappearing.

Alcoholism was another great cause of national inefficiency. The liquor bill of Great Britain for 1913 had amounted to 750 million pounds, which was equal to four-fifths of the national revenue. One hesitated to speak of this subject in view of the injudicious utterances of many reformers, yet nothing else so destroyed and demoralized a man as strong drink. It was responsible for 10 per cent. of morality, 20 per cent. of disease, and from 75 to 90 per cent. of crime. It was in fact a narcotic drug, and its misuse was responsible for the ruining of manhood, the invalidism of womanhood, and the slaughter of the innocents, to a degree which only the medical and nursing profession could realize.

The remedies for so much that was preventible, said Dr. Proctor, lay in the direction of departments of health, with power and money to deal with the questions that arose, and with properly co-ordinated legislation. The new country was at present perpetuating the mistakes of the old country. At the time of the Boer war 60 per cent. of the British population had lacked the physique for military service. A parliamentary commission had been appointed, but little legislation had resulted. It was a matter of personal responsibility and public conscience that must be set in action.

The medical and nursing professions had a direct responsibility in these matters, said Dr. Proctor. They were specially informed and saw life at close quarters, and if they gave a strong lead in these matters of morality and hygiene the public conscience would awake and any necessary legislation would follow.

A standing vote of thanks was given to Dr. Proctor for his inspiring address, and the president expressed the opinion that all who heard him must feel the missionary spirit awake in them to spread these ideals through the land.

Eight Hour Day.

The next paper was on the subject of "An Eight Hour Day for Nurses," read by Miss McDonald, of the Victoria police force, who pointed out that it was impossible for nurses working strenuously for long hours in vitiating air and sometimes tragic surroundings to maintain their good spirits and efficiency.

A very animated discussion followed, in which many of the members took part. Miss Lumsden, of Victoria, opened the discussion, endorsing the speaker's remarks and saying that the training school of the future that exacted more than eight hours a day would find itself far behind the times.

Miss Wright then gave her personal experience of the practical working of the eight hour system. The longer day she thought resulted in less nerve-exhaustion, as the reduction of the staff for relaxation necessitated by the eight hour system meant that those who were working were kept at full pressure every minute of the time while on duty.

Miss Randall, of Vancouver, spoke of the working of the system in California, where an eight hour working day was enforced by law. This had been passed for the protection of shop girls who worked six days a week, but seven days were inevitable in the nurses' life, and through lack of supply in the nursing profession their work was made harder instead of easier by the restriction.

Mrs. H. C. Hannington, speaking of her experiences 21 years ago, said she had found too many wrecks were turned out under the twelve hour day system, and she had inaugurated the eight hour day with incalculable benefit to the nurses themselves and to the hospital. Three sets of nurses were necessary and the actual cost was greater, but it was good expenditure, as it resulted in better service and the patients made quicker recovery.

New Westminster View.

Miss Scott, from New Westminster, pointed out that patients disliked a change of nurses, and Miss Wright expressed the opinion that the cases where nerve-exhaustion was most likely to occur was in private nursing, where a nurse was left in charge of a patient for 24 hours at a stretch between the doctor's visits; yet these cases could not benefit by the eight hour day.

Miss Scott Speaks.

An excellent paper was read by Miss Scott, superintendent of the Royal Columbian hospital, New Westminster, dealing with the "Aims and Possibilities of a Provincial Association." Registration, she said, was a prime necessity, and must be supplemented by active co-operation and organization on the part of all nurses. Affiliation and post graduate classes, the standardization of training schools and provincial inspection were all points to be worked for and the advancement of the woman's movement was a very necessary step in the extension of the possibilities of nurses' work. Miss Scott also urged the establishment in this province of a nursing magazine which should forcefully and accurately present the views of the nursing profession in Western Canada.

After animated discussion, a resolution was proposed by Miss Morrison, and unanimously adopted, that Miss Wright, as delegate to the National association, should at its annual meeting bring up the matter of a magazine for Western Canadian nurses.

AND SOMEBODY ELSE WILL MARRY THE GIRL

Madrid, April 15.—An unusual duel has been fought at Malaga by two young men named Vereretto and Martorell, who were both in love with the same girl. They decided to solve the question of which should win her by a duel, the survivor taking the lady.

To avoid interference they locked themselves up in a room. There they opened fire on one another with their revolvers and, having emptied them, continued the battle with their knives.

Eventually when the neighbors were alarmed and broke in the door they found both combatants lying on the floor, and having the most terrible wounds. One was already dead and the other is not expected to live.

ADDRESS AND TABLEAUX WERE INTERESTING

Mrs. George Alderson, president of the Burquitlam Women's Institute, delivered on Tuesday evening a lecture in the Burquitlam hall, comprising the objects of the institute and illustrated by tableaux vivant. Some of the tableaux made specially attractive pictures. "Womanhood," represented by Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Worthington and Mrs. Fleming; "Motherhood," by Mrs. Dennett and daughter; "Canada," portrayed by the Misses Martin, Mackay, Hailey, Wiltshire, Stickney and Worthington, artistically draped with flags, took splendidly. Other tableaux were scenes depicting cooking, nursing, teaching and the reception of emigrants, Mrs. Alderson observing of the last that while the real estate men did the advertising it fell to the Women's institutes to do the welcoming. The last picture was "The Tongue and Pen of the Local Institute," in the persons of President Mrs. Alderson and the secretary, Mrs. Hadden.

There were about 30 ladies present. Committees were appointed subsequently to draw out the agenda for the year and attend to its execution.
